Legal Decisions

1. Any person who takes a paper regularly from the Post Office--whether directed to his name or another's or whether he is authorized or not--is responsible for the payment.

2. If a person orders his paper discontinued, he must pay up all arrears, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether the paper is taken from the office or not.

3. The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the Post Office, or removing and leaving them uncollected is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

PURIFY YOUR BLOOD with SKODA'S DISCOVERY.

Rev. H. MILLER.

Skoda Victorious!

Palpitation of the Heart, Kidney and Liver Trouble, Deathly Faintness and Loss of Appetite

CURED!!

THE FOLLOWING LETTER PROVES THE WONDERFUL MEDICINAL POWER OF THE GREAT GERMAN-AMERICAN REMEDY, THE NAME OF REV. H. MILLER, CURATOR WHOSE THERE IS NO BETTER KNOWN IN THOUSANDS OF HOUSEHOLDS IN THE FINE STATE.

REV. H. MILLER--I am now 67 years old, and for over 10 years I have been afflicted with weak kidneys so badly at times that I could not stand upright. I could get no position that would be comfortable my work was no more.

My liver also became affected, causing a constant headache, and my appetite was very poor, and I have a deathly faintness at all times.

For the last two years I have been greatly troubled with palpitation of the heart, and I have a deathly faintness at all times.

After using SKODA'S DISCOVERY I have been cured of all these troubles, and I feel as well as I ever did. I can now stand upright, and my appetite is good, and I have a deathly faintness at all times.

My liver also became affected, causing a constant headache, and my appetite was very poor, and I have a deathly faintness at all times.

For the last two years I have been greatly troubled with palpitation of the heart, and I have a deathly faintness at all times.

After using SKODA'S DISCOVERY I have been cured of all these troubles, and I feel as well as I ever did. I can now stand upright, and my appetite is good, and I have a deathly faintness at all times.

POETRY.

Only a Woman.

Only a woman, shivering and cold,
The prey of the winds and the prey of the cold
Checks that are shrunken,
Eyes that are sunken,
Lips that are never o'er bold,
Only a woman, forsaken and poor,
Asking for alms at the bronze church door.

Hark to the organ--roll upon roll
The waves of its music go over the soul,
Faster and faster,
The great bell ceases its toll,
Pain would she enter, but not for the poor,
Swinging wide open the bronze church door.

Only a woman, waiting alone,
Jelly cold on ice cold stone,
What do they care for her--
Oiving not bread but a stone!
Under rich trees their laughing hearts
Beat,
Mocking the woes of their kin in the street.

Only a woman! In the old days
Hope caroled to her happiest lays,
Somebody missed her,
Somebody crowned her with praise,
Somebody faced out the battle of life,
Strong for her sake who was mother and wife.

Somebody lies with a tree of her hair
Light on his heart where the death shadows drew,
Somebody waits for her,
Opening the gates for her,
Giving delight for despair,
Only a woman--never so more!
She is dead in snow at the bronze church door.

SELECT STORY.

The Shadow of Nobility.

CHAPTER IV.

A LADY had just descended from her carriage, and was passing up the broad stone steps of a handsome house in town. She had scarcely touched the arm of her footman, and vouchsafed no glance at the passerby. Drawn aside from the bottom of the steps, however, half-shrinking from, half-couraging to, a slight, unpretending figure of a woman.

It was that of a girl of about fifteen, standing perfectly still but with a powerful appeal in look and attitude. A wistful pleading is in the large dark almond-shaped eyes. Her complexion is sallow, but her features are regular. One brown hand holds out a bunch of marguerites.

Very fresh they are; as if a burning sun had never shone on them in London streets. A sudden remembrance seems to strike the lady, for she glances at them with a tender gleam in her blue eyes, as she passes.

A momentary recollection--a broad open field, a shady lane, a boy and girl who had wandered far from their country home; who had wandered farther since then. That is all.

The flower-girl is encouraged.

"Please buy my lady," she entreats; "supposing the usual addition--'Only one penny,' which she feels would be out of place here.

The voice is low but musical. The lady has ready sympathies; she draws a shilling from her purse and receives the proffered blossom.

"Change my lady," says the girl, diving her brown hand into the recesses of her pockets.

An imperious gesture waves aside the coin.

"Are you poor, child?"

"Very poor my lady."

"Well, bring me another bunch at this hour to-morrow, and you shall have another shilling."

She passes in without further notice through the open door. The child, for she was little more, gazed after in a rapture of admiration.

"She's a real angel!" she murmured. "Meanwhile the Countess of Nocturne seeks the rich recesses of her boudoir, feeling 'deplorably wretched.' Within an hour the girl was far away from that rich quarter, in a miserable locality, beside a frail and fading woman.

"Mother, I saw such a beautiful lady to-day. She was a real angel!" she began.

"Angels do not walk London streets, my dear," replied the faded woman with a sickly smile.

"O, mother, you never saw her, or you would not say that. And she gave me a whole shilling for a penny bunch!"

"My mistake? I hope you went after her?"

"No indeed; not by mistake. She gave it on purpose, and she lives in the grandest house, and she told me to bring her another to-morrow, and I may see her again."

The sentences tumbled out breathlessly, but the faded woman was not excited by the intelligence as her daughter thought she ought to have been. Mrs. Hallyard had learned to look upon such incidents with suspicion. She began to institute a few inquiries, and apparently, "I told her, bade the child to go up the fairest and freshest marguerites she could procure upon the morrow, and go straight with them, at the hour appointed, to the lady's house."

"Always be up to time, my little Faith!"

"Yes, mother."

"And always pray about everything."

"I do, mother, as you bade me. I said a little prayer for the beautiful lady; for, mother, in spite of her fine clothes, and the tall footman and handsome horse, I thought her eyes were sad. Perhaps the flowers reminded her of some one who died or went away. I said, 'God help her if she is in trouble! as I turned away.'"

"Do you always observe those you meet in the street as closely, Faith?"

"Yes, mother, and some look sorry and many weary, and many fussy and fretful. But few have the peace of my mother's face in our own poor room at home."

"I wish you had a better life, my child; O, I wish you had a better life!" moaned the poor woman. "It is so hard to see you go out into the pitiless streets. But you are too young to sit slumped here without air or sunshine; stitching from morning to night. Faith, never talk to the other girls you meet when you go out; never talk to them."

"I never do, mother."

"And pray each day that God will keep you from harm--Lead us not into temptation, you know. Your only safety is in the Great Shepherd's care, my lamb."

Thus this poor but pious mother endeavoured to keep her child--her only one--pure and good and true amid the many dangers by which she was surrounded. In their deep poverty and need, the girl had never been betrayed into absolute meanness and lying. She would have died rather than have acted a falsehood. Learning practically from its lack the value of money, she often longed for the comforts it could procure; but this was more on her mother's account than her own. Yet again and again she was taught that "treasures of wickedness profit nothing." "The blessing of the Lord, it maketh rich, and He addeth no sorrow with it."

Faith's father, a merchant seaman of Portuguese extraction, in the service of a famous importer, was drowned at sea. He had an honest name, which was the only heritage he could leave his child. When the girl was forced to pick up a living in the best way she could, her mother's strength having failed, she went out into the streets with the consciousness that no shadow of blame or shame attached to her father's memory, while her mother was a truly God-fearing woman. It was a pang in which she could scarcely go wrong, or be led aside from duty.

The lady's gift of a shilling, was like the frog. It had welled out into extraordinary dimensions. In exchange for that small coin Faith brought home a wonderful supply of provisions, with the assurance that to-morrow should be "as that day, and more abundant."

"They blessed God, ate and drank, and took courage."

At the same time the Countess of Nocturne was in her dressing room, making her dinner toilet. Beside her on the table was the bouquet of marguerites, and by a strange whim she had the maid place a few in her hair, and give her too or three for the bosom of her dress. Rarer and more fragrant flowers were grouped in delicate vases of Sevres china or Venetian glass, but they did not attract my lady's fancy. Her taste was perfect, her will supreme. There was no questioning either. The marguerites were the thing and no others.

With a slight of these common favourites of mother earth came a recollection of the girl who had sold them. How was it that she awakened an interest in the Countess's mind? She was pretty certainly; with a soft, delicate, positive prettiness, that was uncommon grandest house, and she told me to bring her another to-morrow, and I may see her again."

"Trevor, do you know a flower girl with dark eyes and a foreign look, who sometimes passes this way?" she asked listlessly.

"No, my lady," replied the maid. "I have never noticed her."

"I told her to bring me another bunch of marguerites to-morrow," the Countess continued, not heeding the maid's disclaimer. "Tell Ambrose to let me know when she calls, if I am at home."

"Yes, my lady."

My lady was certainly eccentric, but it is a privilege of the great to be so.

Lord Nocturne had a few guests, chiefly men. A niece of his, a young widow, with enough wit to be considered brilliant by her acquaintances, had arrived while the Countess was in the Park. Her presence was a general relief, and her lively sallies made the entertainment go well. My lady was always gracious to her lord's guests, and had sufficient regard to his wishes in everything to lead to her being considered a pattern wife. She was more generally looked upon however, as a woman with little mind and less heart than for her beauty might have remained in a corner all her days.

Lady Nocturne was at home next day when Faith Hallyard called. To the man's surprise, Ambrose was directed to show the girl into the morning room where the Countess was seated. He took care to get a vigilant eye upon the young "party" in her transit through the hall. The servants of the great man to be blind and deaf and dumb when occasion serves. He softly closed the door, shutting the strange visitor in with his mistress, with perfect imperturbability.

"So you have not forgotten, child?"

"If Faith had thought the lady beautiful on the previous day, she thought her still more so now, in a graceful attitude on a low fauteuil, in the most becoming of demotettes.

"No, lady," replied the girl; "you gave me a shilling."

A slight expression of contempt curled the lip of the questioner. Self-interest was the ruling motive of the world. But she only asked:

"Is a shilling so much to you?"

"A great deal, lady."

"Child, answer me truly. Are you very poor?"

The dark eyes of the flower-girl looked fully into the blue ones bent on her. Their expression was ingenious and candid.

"We are very poor," she said, aloud, "mother and I. I would not tell a lie, my lady, for the whole world, for my mother says it is a sin."

"Where is your father?"

"Dead, my lady."

"Was he a good man?"

"A very good man, lady. He has gone to heaven."

"Are you trying to be good too?"

"Yes, lady; but mother says I can't get to heaven that way."

"How then?"

"O, lady, you know; the good Lord loved us and died for us. He only is the Way."

The Countess of Nocturne knew this, at least had heard it; but the knowledge had so effect upon her life, she did not pursue the subject.

THE ACADIAN

WOLFVILLE, N. S., MAY 13, 1892.

The Basin Steamer.

The petition from the residents of Wolfville and other ports on the basin of Minas to the Local Government, asking for a subsidy to a steamer to ply between these ports, has been refused on the grounds: first, that there is at present no communication between these places; and second, that the state of the Province calls for retrenchment. In considering the first we might with equal propriety claim that the large expenditure of two years ago on the road leading from Greenwood to Port Williams was unnecessary, owing to the fact that there was already a highway between these places, via Kentville. For some fifty years past communication between the ports of Parrboro, Windsor and Horton was aided during the season of navigation by the government of the day, without interruption, until last season, when it was unexpectedly refused. This case is an illustration of all regular communication between Wolfville and other basin ports. The interruption of a long established means of communication has had the effect of very materially decreasing traffic between Wolfville and Parrboro, to the serious disadvantage of both places. In view of the large sum borrowed by the Local Government for the purpose of improving our highways, and expended from year to year to repair the ordinary wear thereof, it appears to us that it would be quite as profitable to expend a portion of it in subsidizing a steamer to accommodate the public and aid commerce as to expend it on unimportant roads, accommodating but few persons. The people of Wolfville will no doubt appreciate the Local Government's regard for their interest, as shown in this matter.

Our Schools.

A special meeting of the rate payers of the Wolfville School-section was held in the school-house on Monday evening, C. W. Roscoe, Esq., occupied the chair and Dr. Barnes was secretary. The object was to consider the advisability of procuring better school accommodation. Mr. E. W. Sawyer, on behalf of the trustees, explained the needs of the section and asked that a committee be appointed to confer with the board of trustees and devise a plan to be presented to the rate payers. On motion Prof. Tufts and Messrs C. R. Burgess and J. W. Caldwell were appointed. They are to report at an adjourned meeting on next Friday evening. We are glad to see a move made in this direction, and trust that the matter will receive the full consideration of our people. Let all who can possibly do so, attend the meeting and see that such action is taken as will be for the best interests of our public schools. The time has arrived when more school accommodation is necessary, and we earnestly should have a more imposing as well as a more commodious structure for the use of our schools.

When is the work of opening the new street from Chapel street to School street to be begun? The right of way has been given and granted and the Council has sanctioned the opening of the street, and we suppose it is in order that it should be opened now immediately. The ACADIAN has been advocating this movement for a number of years, and we believe when the street is opened and properly laid out it will be of great advantage to the town.

The Canadian Northwest.

There will be another cheap excursion from the Maritime Provinces to the North West by the O. P. R. about the middle of June when return tickets will be issued. Nearly 10,000 settlers have located in the Canadian North-West so far this year, and of these about 2,000 were from the United States.

Maine has sent a deputation of farmers to spy out the land in Manitoba and having reported favorably it is expected that a large number will emigrate thither shortly.

At the sale of C. P. R. lands at Edmonton recently $50,000 worth were sold, the price realized being between $5.00 and $5.00 per acre.

The estate of Geo. Merton, a Southern Manitoba farmer, who died recently, was sold at exactly eight times the sum he paid for it in 1887.

Letters from Mr. West, a leading agriculturist of Prince Edward Island, and Mr. H. W. Baker a prominent farmer from Athol, near Amherst, N. S., speak in the most glowing terms of the North West where they are now visiting.

The C. P. R. will extend its Glenboro branch 30 miles into the fertile valley this summer.

A broader acreage than ever will be sown in Manitoba this year, and if the harvest is as bounteous as usual there will be over thirty millions of bushels for export in 1892.

A number of representative farmers from the Maritime Provinces will visit the North-West and the Pacific Coast next month.

Minutes of Municipal Council.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

When the council reassembled in the afternoon a petition was read asking for the establishment of a new road leading from the old post road to the Dorey road; the committee on roads and bridges reporting favorably. Archibald Foster was appointed commissioner. A petition from S. P. Benjamin was also read, asking for a post road two rods wide from the foot of the hill near S. P. Benjamin's cook house, easterly across Report O'Leary's land to a piece of land belonging to S. P. Benjamin, he paying for all land damages. The committee on roads and bridges reported favorably and W. J. Cahoon was appointed commissioner. In reference to the widening of Ferry Lane, so-called, in Ward 8, it was resolved that the time for presenting the report be extended to the next January term, for the purpose of ascertaining the cost of a two rod road, G. W. Burden, Committee.

In connection with the division of the general funds for road and bridge service, it was resolved that the sum of $229.60 be proportioned among the bridges on the Cornwallis river from Port Williams to Berwick and that $50 be allotted to Kentville. A motion to appropriate $75 of this fund to the repair of bridges on the Annapolis river and its tributaries in Ward X was lost.

It was resolved that the road and bridge money granted by the legislature to the Municipality of Kings be expended by commissioners. The government appropriation to this service, for the current year, after deducting interest on loans amounted to $3,879.60.

Less amt allowed Kentville $ 50 Reserved for bridge on Cornwallis River 229.60 279.60 Bal. to be divided amongst wards of county $3600.00

The councillors for wards forming the district known as North Kings, apportioned the sum of $1800, appropriated to North Kings from the government grant for road and bridge service for Kings County, as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Ward, Amount. Ward I: $338, Ward II: 140, Ward III: 345, Ward IV: 261, Ward V: 150, Ward XII: 262, Ward XIV: 254.

A motion to distribute the money for North Kings in the same proportion as last year was lost and the basis of division suggested by councillors for North Kings was adopted.

A motion was then passed fixing the distribution for South Kings in the same proportion as last year, that is to say: Ward VI: $267, Ward VII: 318, Ward VIII: 181, Ward IX: 261, Ward X: 318, Ward XI: 229, Ward XIII: 225.

A resolution was passed placing the Magee Bridge, so-called, west of Stephen Taylor's, under the Bridge Act. The bridge near William Wilson's was also placed under the Bridge Act. W. W. Pines, of Waterville, was appointed collector in Ward XIII, vice John Caldwell, who declined to act.

The sum of $50 was received from E. M. Beckwith for the road leading to the Washbow landing, subject to right of way as specified in the minutes of council, January term, 1892. A motion was passed accepting the amount and directing that a deed be given as might be found legally practicable. A motion to grant ten dollars for the erection of a pound at Kellyville and appointing Henry Fuller commissioner to build the pound, was lost.

A motion was then passed appointing Henry Fuller, of Kellyville, pound keeper. The following amounts of bad rates for the year ending Dec. 31, 1891, were ordered to be struck off the books: -

Table with 4 columns: County, Rate, Tax, Total. Ward 1: $95.92, $33.69, $110.61, Ward 2: 11.03, 3.03, 14.06, Ward 3: 15.10, 2.92, 21.02, Ward 4: 4.00, Ward 5: 3.15, 1.77, 4.92, Ward 6: 5.95, 2.80, 8.75, Ward 7: 8.80, 4.89, 2.02, 15.71, Ward 8: 10.00, Ward 9: 12.69, 2.69, 15.38, Ward 10: 4.43, 1.81, 6.24, Ward 11: 14.

The report of the Trustees of School Lands in Horton was read showing receipts, $415.84; expenditures $53.47; balance, $405.37 to be divided among 25 sections, $16.21 1/4 for each. The report was received and adopted.

The clerk reported receiving $2.50 from H. E. Jefferson for use of the seal of the municipality.

The petition of Rupert Caldwell, claiming $50 damages for injuries received by his horse in breaking through a bridge near Martin Franey's, was read. The matter was referred to Councillors Gaul and Balcom to examine into and report upon at January meeting.

In the matter of the demand for damages by Howard Bronsach and Miss Sophia Bronsach, of Aylesford, on account of injuries received, the committee reported that they had visited the place of the accident and interviewed persons who were present at the time; in their opinion the county was not liable for damages notwithstanding the opinion they recommended that Councillors Roscoe, Morse and Cook be appointed a committee to procure evidence as to the accident for the purposes of the trial, and that they be empowered to make any settlement that may in their opinion be advantageous.

25 lbs Brown sugar for $1.00, F. J. Porter's.

Miss Herwood arrived in Wolfville on Wednesday evening. Her many friends here will be glad to welcome her back. The other members of the family will come shortly.

The pastors of the various churches have been requested by the ladies of the W. C. T. U. to present sermons on "Temperance" next Sunday, and we understand have agreed to do so.

What about Arbor Day? We have not yet heard anything concerning it. We hope an effort will be made to have the day duly celebrated by ornamenting our public grounds and streets with trees.

To Let.—House on Professor Street, E. A. Brown.

Rev. William Ross, of Prince William, N. B., a brother of Rev. R. D. Ross, arrived in Wolfville on Wednesday evening to visit his brother, and will preach in the Presbyterian church on Sunday afternoon next.

King Troop of Cavalry, with the 72nd, a 3rd Battalion, and the 78th Cavalry, Hants and Pictou Battalions of Highlanders, and 94th Argyle Highlanders from Cape Breton will go into camp at Aldershot this season.

Wanted at F. J. Porter's: Eggs, 12c; Butter, 20c; Fat, 50c.

The Annual Meeting of the Board of School Commissioners will be held in the Court House, Kentville, on Tuesday, 15th inst, at 10 A. M.

COLIN W. ROBERTS, Wolfville, May 9th, '92. Clerk.

The head is now progressing three nights and week, and is making good progress. They have the right kind of material and with practice will soon compare favorably with the best country bands in the Province. We are anxiously awaiting their first public appearance.

Full Patent Flour $5.25 cash, F. J. Porter's.

The Grand Division, Sons of Temperance, held their annual session last week at Middleton. The reports show that there are 252 active divisions in the Province with 14,088 members. The financial statement of the Grand Division are in good condition and $460 was voted to supplement the agency fund.

The Class for Confirmation will meet for the first time next Sunday afternoon, May 15th, in St. John's Church, Wolfville, immediately after the afternoon service. The Rector invites all persons at Wolfville and the neighborhood intending to offer themselves as candidates for the rite of Confirmation to come to the Class next Sunday afternoon.

Large Ripe Bananas, Sweet Jamaica Onions, Assorted Jams, Golden Pippin Apples, Fresh Beef. Try our Choice Ham and Bacon. PRAT & COLLINS.

Fairville—near St. John—was visited by a most disastrous fire on Sunday afternoon. Some 40 buildings were destroyed and about fifty families were rendered homeless. The loss is said to reach $75,000 or $100,000, with insurance to the amount of $100,000. The greater number of persons rendered homeless by the fire are the families of working men, some of whom owned the houses in which they lived. The suffering occasioned will probably be greater than might be supposed from the mere statement of the amount of loss in property.

Local and Provincial.

The man who is willing for the Saloon to stay, is in no hurry for the Devil to go.

Mr. Collins is getting the foundation ready for a residence on his property on Chapel street.

Service next Sunday, May 15th, in St. John's Church, Wolfville, at three P. M. The Rector will preach on the subject of "Temperance."

Walter Haldeman, of Bainbridge, Penn., who was here last autumn for his health, accompanied by a friend, Lewis T. Good, who died of blood poisoning at McLeod's hotel, died at Philadelphia on May 1st.—Star.

Hon. J. W. Longley is to lecture in Acadia Villa Hall, Horton Landing, on Tuesday evening, May 17th, on "Joe Howe." This lecture is highly spoken of and will no doubt, draw a large audience.

Buy "Eureka" Phosphate, Ground Bone and Potato Manure at F. J. PORTER'S.

The citizens of Annapolis intend celebrating Dominion Day, 1st July, in grand style. The proceeds of the day will be devoted to the fixing up of the old garison, and for defraying the expenses of lighting streets by electricity.

"Gold Leaf" and "Five Rose" Flour, at F. J. Porter's.

We understand that the members of "Evangelists" Division, Lower Horton, are about to purchase the hall in which they now hold their meetings from the company which now owns it. This speaks well for the enterprise of the society.

Best Corn Meal $3.00 cash, F. J. Porter's.

Quite a number of men start to work this morning on the W. U. telegraph west of Kentville. A new wire is to be strung from Cambridge to Annapolis. The whole line between Annapolis and Digby, now on the public highway, is to be transferred to the lines of the Western Counties railway.—Western Chronicle.

Canada Will Exhibit Well.

The prospects of a large and interesting exhibit from the English provinces in North America, are exceedingly good. The Hon. William Saunders, executive commissioner for Canada, arrived in Chicago yesterday morning. He has since been busy with the several department chiefs getting the space needed for Canadian exhibits.

He says the Canadians generally are taking great interest in the exposition, and from all parts of Canada applications for space are coming in. Among the prominent features will be the agricultural exhibit in which the provinces will participate, and it is expected to fully illustrate the claim of the soil of the different parts of the Dominion to their adaptability to the growth especially of the cereals that serve mainly for food for mankind. The mineral display is also expected to be very large; the development in this direction has been very rapid in the last three or four years, and the large collections being made in Ontario, British Columbia, Quebec, and Nova Scotia, will altogether be a magnificent collection. The dairy industry will also be represented, cheese and butter being shown from every province in the Dominion. Manufacturers are also asking for large quantities of space, especially agricultural implements makers, and similar applications are coming in connection with the space asked for in the other buildings.

The government is making liberal provisions to defray necessary expenses and most of the provinces are making special grants for this purpose. Special commissioners have been appointed for Ontario.—Chicago Times.

Take K. D. C., and, like others who have tried it, you will say: "It is the Greatest Dyspeptic Cure of the age, and worth its weight in Gold." Sold by G. H. Wallace.

DEAR EDITOR,—I send you some simple pebbles from a pebble bluff and beach on the Economy shore, which is made up of the hardest debris from veins in softer rock and strata of the oldest formations. The bed is clear of dirt and when it is used on roads it has proved to be the best road forming layer I have ever seen. Will the road commissioners please call and examine. E. N. PAYANT, Shubenacadie, May 6th, 1892.

Like a snowflake fallen from Heaven, To brighten the earth for an hour, And again to the skies is given By the sun and the southern shower,— So thou, sweet baby, didst come To our home with thy prattle and smile; But thy innocent lips grew dumb, And an hour has sped the while.

The prattle is silent, thy smile Is sold in thy clay cold room; And our dwelling is lonely the while, And our hearts are enshrouded in gloom.

Free Farms in the Canadian Northwest.

Manitoba. Alberta. Assiniboia. Saskatchewan.

The Government gives one quarter section (100 acres) free to every bonafide settler. A second quarter section can be pre-empted by deferred payments. The Canada Pacific Railway Company has a large quantity of the best farming lands for sale at $3.00 PER ACRE, with easy terms of payment. The Canada Northwest has the most productive soil in the world. Its wheat fetches the highest price; its live cattle are admitted to the English markets, while United States cattle are not. There is a market for the farmer at every station; and there are schools and churches wherever there are settlers. It is not subject to drought or floods, to grasshoppers, or to cyclones or tornadoes. Ask any Canadian Railway Agent for books and maps concerning it; ask for "Farming and ranching in Western Canada," or the "Free Farms" map, or "Actual Experience," and read the testimony of men who have gone there from Eastern Canada. Young women are in great demand; they find occupation as domestics directly they arrive, and readily get married to prosperous young farmers. Young men or young women can start life there almost without money. They make the money there; an independence is gained in a year or two by the thrifty.

The old settlers of Prince Edward Island should use their influence with the young men who intend emigrating to keep them within the Dominion, where they are offering better advantages than in the United States and do not lose their nationality. Loss no time in getting to the West and choose your location. First come, first served. Apply for particulars, price of tickets, &c., to your local ticket Agent or to
