(BY SIR WALTER SCOTT, BART.)

CHAPTER XVI. (Continued.)
"Truly," said the knight, "Holy Clerk of Copmanhurst, men call me in these parts the Black Knight—many, sir, add to it the epithet of Sluggard, whereby I am no way ambitious to be distinguished."
The hermit could scarcely forbear from smiling at his guest's reply.

"I see," said he, "Sir Sluggish Knight, that thou art a man of prudence and of counsel; and moreover I see that my poor monastic fare likes thee not, accustomed perhaps, as thou hast been to the licence of courts, and camps, and the luxuries of cities; and now I bethink me, Sir Sluggard, that when the charitable keeper of this forest-walk left these dogs for my protection, and also those bundles of forage, he left me also some food, which, being unfit for my use, the very recollection of it had escaped me amid my more weighty meditations."
"I dare be sworn he did so," said the knight; "I was convinced that there was better food in the cell, Holy Clerk, since you first doffed your cowl. Your keeper is ever a jovial fellow; and none who beheld the grinders contending with these pease, and thy throat flooded with this ungenial element, could see thee doomed to such horse-provender and horse-beverage" (pointing to the provisions upon the table), and refrain from mending thy cheer. Let us see the keeper's bounty, therefore, without delay."

The hermit cast a wistful look upon the knight, in which there was a sort of comic expression of hesitation, as it uncertain how far he should act prudently in trusting his guest. There was, however, as much of bold frankness in the knight's countenance as was possible to be expressed by features. His smile, too, had something in it irresistibly comic, and gave an assurance of faith and loyalty with which his host could not refrain from sympathizing.

After exchanging a mute glance or two, the hermit went to the farther side of the hut, and opened a hutch, which was concealed with great care and some ingenuity. Out of the recesses of a dark closet into which this aperture gave admittance, he brought a large pasty, baked in a pewter platter of unusual dimensions. This mighty dish he placed before his guest, who, using his spoon to cut it open, lost no time in making himself acquainted with its contents.

"How long is it since the good keeper has been here?" said the knight to his host, after having swallowed several hasty morsels of this reinforcement to the hermit's good cheer.
"About two months," answered the father; "lastly."
"By the true Lord," answered the knight, "everything in your hermitage is miraculous, Holy Clerk! for I would have been sworn that the fat buck which furnished this venison had been running on foot within the week."

The hermit was somewhat discomfited by this observation; and, moreover, he made but a poor figure while gazing on the diminution of the pasty on which his guest was making desperate inroads; a warfare in which his previous profession of abstinence left him no pretext for joining.
"I have been in Palestine, Sir Clerk," said the knight, stopping short of a sudden, "and I bethink me it is a custom there that every host who entertains a guest shall assure him of the wholesomeness of his food by partaking of it along with him. Far be it from me to suspect so holy a man of aught inhospitable, nevertheless I will be highly bound to you should you comply with this Eastern custom."

"To ease your unnecessary scruples, Sir Knight, I will for once depart from my rule," replied the hermit. And, as there were no forks in those days, he clutched were instantly in the bowels of the pasty.
The ice of ceremony being once broken, it seemed a matter of rivalry between the guest and the entertainer which should display the best appetite; and although the former had probably fasted longest, yet the hermit fairly surpassed him.

FREDERICTON, FEBRUARY 5, 1880.

Suppose some of those people who have been reading the STAR for nearly two years without paying for it were to bring us a load of wood!

There is nothing so important in a public man, especially if he be the leader of a party, as backbone.

ST. JOHN TO BE THE CAPITAL OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

ABOUT a year from now St. John will be the capital, and Fredericton will be blotted out. It will be another Palmyra standing in all its native beauty and loveliness; but no Zenobia will grace its halls, or add a charm to its associations.

Forty years from now the Fredericton in which we live to-day will be a sad and lonely place indeed. It will be a grand old ruin. This true that nature will smile as kindly on it as in the days of yore; that no one can rob it of its green hills and clear blue skies. The St. John will roll on as majestically as ever before the doors, and St. John cannot coax it from between its smiling banks.

Forty years from now, this little city which to-day is full of life and activity will be silent as if it were of the dead. Our business men shall have gone away to other parts, to toil, and to wring from nature that living she owes them. The tourist will visit the city of a balmy summer's day, or when autumn decks out the forest in gold. He will wander through the streets then grass grown, and the echoing of his footsteps will be heard from one end of the ruined city to the other. Dwellings will have faded and fallen, the gardens will have run to weeds, the "old caken bucket" will hang over the well half choked and covered with usurping vines. A few tame pigeons will haunt the moss covered roofs, and rooks will inhabit the chimneys. The tourist will go back and he will tell of the picturesque old city. He will say, "It is the loveliest spot I have ever seen. I camped out in the street, and shot partridge "where once the garden smiled." Through the streets wild animals ran, and "O'er heaps of ruins stalked the stately hind."

Picknicking parties in summer months will visit the old city and camp out on the squares. If a shower come on they can go into the old City Hall, now half in ruins, and there the old ones can tell the young folk that here was once a place where repudiators assembled, but that the voices which tried to stir the people are still. There will be no McPherson to cry out repudiate, and no echo to answer yes. There will be no Gunter to pour forth his pointless invectives, and no rabble to cry, "good for Johnny Beadle." The wind will whistle through the time worn abutments in the hall, the bat will occupy the chair where His Worship sits. Wild birds will build their nests in the beautiful lawn where Dr. Rand had planted the thorn bush and the mountain ash, and the rat and the mouse shall hold forth in those places in the Normal School now occupied by Messrs Crockett and O'Lea. The sound of the church going bell will no longer roll along the river bosom and scare the echoes in the hills; the tongue of the Cathedral bell will grow rusty, like a woman, through lack of use. Yet when the wind blows hard through tower or belfry, the rickety bell may sound, but rust will have choked the sweetness of its notes. The Indians will then put on their war paint, and assert their pre-historic rights.

St. John we suppose, is about the biggest feeling city anywhere to the South of the 40th parallel. We know of no one yet that has ever been able thoroughly to estimate the extent of St. John. We suppose the safest way to come at its superficial contents would be to say that "it comprises a very large proportion of all the wealth, population, intelligence—and cheek to be found between the terrestrial poles. It has always been a matter of surprise to us that St. John was not selected instead of Ottawa as the seat of the Central Government—inasmuch as St. John is right in the centre of the Dominion. Never till now, at any rate, could we have believed, that such a city would be satisfied with being the seat of the Local Legislature. The endowment is not important enough at all for St. John.

But since it has made up its mind to be content with being the seat of the Provincial Government after this session, it might not be amiss for us to forecast what it will likely do. It will first and foremost, at the expense of the city, (for St. John is so generous that a Provincial Exhibition, or anything of that kind can be got up in an hour) two plots of ground, each costing about $25,000 will be purchased. Upon one of these plots they will likely erect the Government House, which will be a noble monument to the liberality and the enterprise of St. John, costing about $100,000. Upon the other plot they will erect the Supreme Court and Departmental offices, and the Government no doubt, edified by the generosity of the people will put up such a parliament building as will put to shame anything of the kind in any Province of the Dominion. It would not do, of course, to transfer the parliament buildings now inhabited by His Honor, Governor Wilnot, here in Fredericton, to St. John, because it might get damaged in the transit; besides the building, even though brought there without a stone being blistered, would not be in keeping with the magnificent scheme St. John has proposed. The Normal School is unfortunately another stumbling block, but then St. John could soon obviate that by putting up a larger and a more beautiful structure out near Reed's Castle somewhere. The City Council of St. John would pass a unanimous vote for this purpose. Why, look at how heartily they voted for the Exhibition!

Then we could turn the Government grounds and the Government House into a model farm, for a few years or so, till St. John would get taken with the notion that "it would not be a bad idea to have that model farm in St. John," when the whole thing, or the "hull thing" as a member of the Executive Government says, could be removed to St. John, and if that couldn't be done, why the City Council of that City would grant a quarter of a million or so towards establishing such a model farm there as would be a mirror of the enterprise of St. John.

Suppose St. John does not propose a very expensive parliament buildings, how would MacEvoy's do? They might patch up the Bell Tower so as to make it serve as winter quarters for the Governor. They could erect a country seat for him on the Kennebecasis in such a position that during the boat racing season, he could look out of his window and see how the rowdies murder each other.

We may say we are glad to learn that several towns and villages in the Province have kindly offered land free for the Parliament Buildings. St. Andrews offered "a most romantic spot, as a gift," and we have no reason to doubt but Pokiook would also come generously to the front.

A SERIOUS VIEW OF THE MATTER.

Since the St. John daily press has thrown open its columns to all the excitable people of Saint John, we shall endeavor to show how hollow is the argument and reasons advanced for changing the location of the governmental buildings.

It is claimed that St. John should be chosen, because her population is larger, her wealth greater, and her laws more numerous than those of Fredericton. These with all due respect, to the learned fraternity of Saint John, are no reasons at all, on the contrary, they form the very reason why Fredericton should be the Capital. We shall not argue at length that wherever the largest portion of a people is, and wherever the largest source of wealth is to be found, there is always reason to apprehend centralization. For this reason, time and again in the history of the Old as well as of the New World, seats of government have been removed to quiet localities where the Legislature is not subject to the importunities of the masses. We have good reason shown for this course in the number of delegations here from St. John every session: were the parliamentary buildings in St. John, unless members presented a very bold front, they would be entirely subject to the control of the lobbyists. Then again the change is made for sanitary reasons. The free air of small places is considered more inviting than the smoke and dust atmosphere of a large city. Saint John, in this respect, would be a lovely place, shut in almost from the winds of heaven by a canopy of fog which scarce condenses once a week to allow the sun to be seen through it.

If our readers have any doubts about what we say as to the great reason for establishing seats of government "far from the maddening crowds ignoble strife," we point them to the following facts:—

Augusta, the Capital of Maine has only 9,000 inhabitants; but Portland with its 28,000 never pretends, like St. John that for such reasons Augusta oughtn't to be the capital.

The Capital of New Hampshire is Concord. It has but 13,000 souls, while Manchester, another town in New Hampshire has over 20,000. Yet no one says Concord should not be the Capital.

Montpelier, the Capital of Vermont, has only 3,000 people; while Burlington in the same State has 15,000, and there never has been any talk of change.

Albany, the Capital of New York, has 62,000 inhabitants, but New York city, in the same State, has nearly a million. Yet the New York lawyers never say their city should be the capital. Brooklyn has 300,000 souls, and Buffalo has 81,000, and yet the lawyers of neither say their city should be the capital; while the same reasons for making it so could be given there with as much force as in St. John.

The capital of Pennsylvania is Harrisburg, with its 24,000; not the city of Philadelphia with 600,000 people; nor Pittsburg with its 50,000. How much ahead of the Philadelphia lawyers must not the St. John lawyers be!

Trenton with its 26,000 is the capital of New Jersey, not Newark with its 72,000. Where is St. John's argument? Delaware's Capital, Dover, is smaller than ours. It has only 4,000, while in the same State is Wilmington a city of 21,000 people. And yet the St. John lawyers will prate!

The capital of Maryland is Annapolis, with its 7,400 souls, not Baltimore with its 212,000. Dear sakes, how far ahead of these St. John lawyers!

Washington, the Union Capital, has only 61,000 inhabitants, but on the theory of the St. John lawyers, New York should be the Capital.

We shall look nearer home. Ottawa is the Capital of the Dominion, is 87 miles up the Ottawa, a river almost incomparably inferior to the St. John. It has a population of only 22,000. On the St. John theory, Montreal should be the Capital.

Quebec is the Capital of the Province of that name, and has a population of 60,000; but Montreal, a city of the same Province, with 170,000, does not pretend to say the seat of Government ought to be removed. St. John of course is ahead of all these places; and the St. John lawyers are wiser in their generation than the children of light.

Here our readers will see we have demolished the "utilitarian," or in other words, "the greatest good for the greatest number" argument.

There is yet one more delusion which the St. John lawyers put forward as an argument and it is, that St. John is the centre of a populous district: in other words that it is more central than Fredericton. Now the location of the interests of the Province ought surely to be better expressed by our legislative representation, than by the half-cracked arguments of the St. John press. Then let us dissect this point. The 46th parallel, we may say, intersects Fredericton. To the north of it we have Restigouche with 2 members, Madawaska and Victoria with 1 each, Gloucester with 2, Northumberland with 4, Kent with 2, Carleton with 2, half of York to which we assign 2, half of Sunbury 1, half of Queens 1, and the greater part of Westmorland to which we assign 3, giving a total of 22, and leaving to the south of this line but 20 members. We think it would be impossible to find a spot more central than Fredericton is. It is the hub of the Province. St. John must not forget that it is not all the Province, and though it kicks up such a hubbub, yet it is not the hub. If St. John, Portland, and its suburbs have nearly 50,000 people, the Province of New Brunswick contains nearly 800,000. The folks up here are white as well as the St. John people, and we thank the maker of the Province for establishing this beautiful little city of ours in the most romantic part of the country, and in the very centre of it. All the logic and mathematical skill of the St. John lawyers or the St. John Sun can't prove that the centre is located anywhere on the circumference, and we can assure the Sun, and the St. John lawyers that when they have parliament buildings in St. John, Sir Charles Tupper will have built a railway to the moon; and Proctor will have captured all the roaming stars and chained them as lights for the great cities of the world.

The Legislature of this province, not the St. John lawyers, will deal with and settle this question. Should it ever come up in the House we venture to predict three will be found to say "Fredericton," where one will be found to say "St. John." The members of this province carry cool heads, and they are not going to be moved by the childish excitement of a pack of briefless barristers and half crazy newspaper men. Fredericton is the capital of this province, and it will be the capital of it while ever there remains in the province a vestige of responsible government.

We may say the Executive as a body favors Fredericton, and the leader of the Government told a STAR reporter to-day that there was nothing more probable than the St. John scheme.

We must tear down the Government House, the Normal School, and the departmental buildings to give St. John a chance. Certainly we must!

A STRAW ON THE RAIL.

It is unfortunate that Mr. Crawford who favors the St. John scheme, happens to be a member of the Government just now. However, he may not be of much weight; at least he can't be a very great gun if the converse of the old saying be true: mens sana in corpore sano. With the exception of Mr. Crawford, we do not know of any other member of the Government who will support the mad scheme.

SIGNIFICANT.

We are not surprised to find that the great bulk of the lawyers who are clamorous for removing the Parliament Buildings to St. John on the ground that it costs so much to take their causes here, are briefless barristers—who have never had a case in Fredericton in their lives, and are never likely to.

A DIABOLICAL ACT BY OSTENSIBLE FRIENDS.

TREACHERY AND TREASON.

To the Editor of the STAR.

Mr. Editor.—Can you inform me if it is true that York County is indebted to Messrs. A. G. Blair and A. E. Killam for the present agitation in favor of a removal of the seat of Government to Saint John? That Mr. Blair first joined the movement only to embarrass the Executive, and that now he is appalled when he finds the spirit that he has raised "will not down at his bidding?" And is it not true that Mr. Blair's new "Board of Works"—A. E. K.—is really working for the seat of Government's removal to Moncton preparatory to a Maritime Union, and that A. G. B. didn't see it—and that this accounts for the telegram from the would be M. L. C. of Moncton to his protege, and for the announcement in the Club Rooms at Ottawa by that wonderful genius, Domville, Killam's partner in—well, in what? that the Oliver Jones-Killam-Willis party intend to make this a "test question," and that the old time advocate of Removal, Sir Albert, will back them up? Please answer.

QUEEN STREET.

[We regret to announce that the above painful intelligence had just reached our ear before the correspondence came to hand. Mr. Blair, we were told, had looked upon every side but looked in vain to find a vulnerable spot in the Government armor. He then conceived that it would be a grand device to spring the question of changing parliament buildings from here to St. John, upon the public, in hopes that the question would divide the Government supporters, and perhaps the Executive. But as our correspondent has well put it, he has raised a spirit that now will not lie away at his bidding. The spectre stalks over the province, and while we do not think it points much mischief to Fredericton, we cannot help believing that it points destruction to Mr. Blair. This much we say with the deepest regrets, because we had been disposed to give Mr. Blair the very fairest trial this winter; but if in his thirst for power, he has raised this feeling against the interests of the city whose bread he eats and whose roof covers him, he is unworthy the name of a man. We shall be pleased to learn, and happier still to announce, that we have been misinformed on this point.

But for Mr. Killam. He has left the Government ranks, so rumour says, and now is agitating Maritime Union in Ottawa and favoring Moncton as the seat of Government. We have private despatches in our possession from men who cannot be mistaken and who would not hazard a telegram on mere rumour, and we publish other despatches again which show the treachery of which Mr. Killam is capable for the sake of furthering his own ends. We fear that the addition of Mr. Killam to the Opposition will be a source of weakness instead of strength to that body, and that when the House comes thoroughly to understand what he has been doing, Ishmael like every finger will be pointed against him. He has been pointed first against the Opposition, secondly against the Government, and lastly against the whole Province. So far as Domville is concerned he will be ready on any occasion to take a hand in anything treasonable, from a Gunpowder Plot down. We are not surprised he is acting in concert with Mr. Killam.—Ed. STAR.]

Mount Etna.

The recent eruption of Mount Etna, the most violent that has taken place since 1832, has once more drawn attention to this mountain, which, notwithstanding its height, (10,874 ft.), and the matchless extent and beauty of the view from its summit, which embraces a circular prospect of 40,000 square miles, attracts but few visitors, even in these days of universal tours, while its colleague, Vesuvius, counts its tens of thousands of admirers every year.

Mount Etna is the largest of the three European volcanoes, and its ascent, which is made from Catania, affords many points of extreme interest. Thus three distinct zones are traversed before the summit is reached. First the cultivated region, next a stretch of luxuriant woods, and finally a dreary desert of snow, black lava, scorria, and ashes, whence springs the crater-bearing cone.

The base of the mountain is almost ninety miles in circumference, and is highly productive, yielding abundance of corn, olives, grapes, and aromatic herbs. The present eruption began on May 25, when loud bellows were heard by the residents on the northern slope, and a great cloud of smoke was observed issuing from the side of the mountain. This cloud increased, a rain of fine black ash came on, and fell for miles around, and during the night of the 27th, Mr. G. Farrar Rodwell tells us in an interesting article in Nature, high fires could be seen looming through the black clouds. Next day a great stream of lava was seen from Taormina descending the mountain toward Randazzo, while from the new craters "great balls of fire were thrown high in the air, and burst into showers of fire, accompanied by thundering explosions; these last facts being related by an American writing on May 29th. From that time until June 6th the eruption seems to have continued unabated, but the violence then began to diminish although the calming down of the eruption was followed by severe earthquakes, one of which a short time since destroyed five villages. Accounts differ as to the damage which has been done, as well as regards the distance to which the lava has extended, one account fixing the flow of the principal lava stream at from six to seven miles.

Some of the newspapers publish the following vignette: "Mr. M. McDade of the News, starts for Paris in May to look for a new and more interesting newspaper man conducted the courtship by means of photographs; and received about a hundred before he made up his mind."

We had a call yesterday morning from Mr. Fred B. Robideaux, editor of the Montreal Acaden. Mons. Robideaux is almost as boyish looking as the Editor of the STAR, and one can hardly believe, to look at him, that he combines so much of the salamander and the phoenix in his nature as he does. He has been burnt three times, and three successive times has Le Montreal risen from the ashes and ruins. This speaks volumes for his editor, when it will be remembered how hard it is for those who meet no casualties now-a-days to sustain a paper at all. We wish our energetic and intelligent young friend further success in his paper, and we feel assured that further success will be his.

The Carnival Last Night.

A Fine Display in Spite of the Rain.

The steady rain which began about 7.30 last evening was such as to cause a very limited attendance but as regards variety of costume, originality of design and general arrangements, the affair was all that could be expected.

There was no such confusion, by collision or otherwise, as was noticed on former occasions; the ice was in fair condition and Mr. Folsom's assortment of rich costumes very much enhanced the artistic effect of the occasion.

The limited time that was allowed for preparation, the inclemency of the weather, the universal doubt as to whether the unrelenting Mr. Folsom would condescend to grace the occasion with his presence and his costumes, taken into charitable consideration, the affair may be considered a success.

Theatrical attractions undoubtedly drew a good many away who would otherwise have attended, but these were chiefly of a low level of humanity who add nothing to the respectability of any performance, spiritual or otherwise.

The ladies did not turn out in such goodly number as was anticipated and the habitations of those who did grace the stately arena, with few exceptions, had little to recommend them.

"Hebe," "Snot" and the two "Flower Queens" possessed very tasty and becoming costumes. Miss M. Richards made a very demure and interesting "Buttercup," and the "Begger Woman," who had a very peculiar eye to business, was an original feature.

"Amid the more extensive array of boys, 'The Light-house,' by Mr. Norman Edmonds, 'The Country Boy,' by L. C. McNutt, 'Count de Ammitouan,' 'Tar Baby' and 'Sir Jos. Porter,' are especially deserving of mention for faithfulness to character assumed.

The "Skidmore Guards" had a number of admirers, and acted quite respectably. The following is a correct list of the masqueraders:

- GIRLS. Miss Taylor, Gipsy; Logan, Grandam; Matthews, Housemaid; Ross, Snowflake; Hanson, Flower Queen; Bier, Princess' Waiting Maid; Bier, Cinderella's Godmother; Hovey, Flower Queen; G. Richards, I. Sheela; Roach, Beggar Woman; Agnew, Hebe; Jones (Kingsclear), Josephine; Winslow, Snow; Kirkpatrick, Hebe; Woods, What is it? boys. W. A. Estabrooks, Brand; John F. Collins, Darkey Swell; F. W. Joseph, Fairy; George Fisher, Boxers; George Allen, Arthur Tapley, Tar Baby; George Giles, Polish Count; E. Lester, Captain; John Monstrum, Charles Welsh; Thomas Lipsett, Skidmore Guards; Frank Finnagan; Healy Sharp; Philip Schleyer; Tompkin Conroy; John Haines; Fred Rice (Woodstock), Count Gzouski; E. Weldon, Count de Ammitouan; Arthur Orr; Andrew Bichey, Sailors; H. G. Fenely, Page to Charles I.; Charles Thomas, Fancy Dress; F. E. Harty, College Student; C. Philp, Doggie; A. Edgcombe, Maltese Tom; J. M. Davidson, Captain Corcoran; F. Gibson, Sailor; J. Stockford, Domino; L. C. McNutt, Country Boy; W. James Murray, Pink Domino; H. Allen, Dick Deadeye; F. Morris, Tom Thumb; W. Robinson, Klu Klux; H. Robinson, Spatogranizer; S. Cummings, Fisherman; N. Edgcombe, Lighthouse; C. Byrne, George II.; Charles Johnson, Prince Rolf; Rod Wood, Page to Louis XIV.; F. LeB. Tweedle, Courier to Henry VIII.; Robert Howie, Jockey.

The Pages in some cases were far more gaily caparisoned than the Courtiers, and there seemed generally among the masqueraders very conflicting notions of royalty and its appurtenances. Brandy Bottle, Parcel Boy and Lighthouse became somewhat demoralized towards the close, and finally collapsed into inglorious dissolution.

Bryson's full Brass Band lent inspiration to the kaleidoscopic throng. Mr. H. O'Neill's rendering of the cornet polka "Sweetheart" being subject to flattering remark concerning that talented performer. The musical programme is as follows: Quickstep, "Onward to Victory;" March Polka, "Sweetheart;" Serio-Comic Jamboree, "Modern Times;" Waltz, "Fair Visions;" Galop, "Valentine;" March, "Remembrance of Camp;" Quadrille, "Songs of the Day;" Serenade, "Polka;" Golden Robin;" Galop, "Danube;" God Save the Queen."

To Correspondents. "Us" will appear in our next.

"P." GIBSON.—We cannot publish your items. They are too vulgarly written; and when you again attempt anything for a newspaper don't sprawl it all over a huge greasy sheet.

The Government last night decided to hold their session in the Normal School building.

The work of appraisement on the dilapidated to the Parliament Buildings and libraries is not entirely finished. Mr. M. W. Maher on the part of the Aetna and Queen Insurance Companies and Alex. Mitchell representing the Government place the amount on the building at $27,750, and the bookshelves at $300. No other matter was sustained by the Law Library.

The work of arranging the books of the Legislative Library has not yet been finished, and the number of volumes missing and damaged cannot yet be ascertained.

Personal. Alex. Gibson has returned from Ottawa.

Jeremiah E. Green, contractor on the Grand Southern, was in the city yesterday.

R. M. Taylor, G. W. C. T., arrived in town from St. John by yesterday's noon train. Mr. C. G. Ketchum, Esq., and wife left Fredericton yesterday morning for New York; they leave New York on Monday per steamer "Gallia", Canada Line, for England.

Girouard's Bill relating to marriage with a deceased wife's sister was read a second time. MISCELLANEOUS.

A story used to be told in early days in the Lowlands of Scotland in ridicule of the Highlanders. It was as follows: Some Highlanders were ignorant of the English language, and as they intended to proceed to the low country in hope of getting employment, they were primed with three English phrases, which it was hoped would help them on among the Saxons. The first phrase was "We are Highlanders." The second was a reply to anyone inquiring who they were. The next one was, "For the money and the penny siller." This was meant as an answer to the question why they had come. In case the questioners should not engage their services, there was a third phrase in reserve, "If you don't, another will." The Highlanders accordingly set out, and had scarcely crossed the Lowland border when they came upon the corpse of a man who had been slain. They stopped to look at it, and while they were engaged in doing so, the sea of lava in constant motion, and assuming the form of waves of a dark red color, but varying, as the light catches them, from grey to black. The noise of these waves as they dashed against the rocks, or rolled into some rocky cove, or formed into a whirl, or a foam, or a spray, or a shower of lava, and forms clouds of ever varying height, by the light of the lava, which they would play upon them. The ground for a long way round this volcano is treacherous in the extreme; a fresh eruption may take place at any moment, and the person who is to be extremely careful how they tread on the surface, as an incautious step would land them in a pool of fiery lava, from which they might have much difficulty in escaping.

Seas of Fire.

In the Island of Hawaii, in the Polynesian group, is to be seen one of the most remarkable sights in the world. These from steep cliffs the traveler looks down in constant motion, and assuming the form of waves of a dark red color, but varying, as the light catches them, from grey to black. The noise of these waves as they dashed against the rocks, or rolled into some rocky cove, or formed into a whirl, or a foam, or a spray, or a shower of lava, and forms clouds of ever varying height, by the light of the lava, which they would play upon them. The ground for a long way round this volcano is treacherous in the extreme; a fresh eruption may take place at any moment, and the person who is to be extremely careful how they tread on the surface, as an incautious step would land them in a pool of fiery lava, from which they might have much difficulty in escaping.

 CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of those two valuable specifics, in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unusual statement of being used with better results and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of Children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet is truly marvellous.

See What Physicians and the People Say About It.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-ninth Street, New York, September 8, 1876.
 GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficient. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen,—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively, Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach, which renders it a very valuable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases. I October 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SEXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen,—Within the last two months I have fairly tried Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly agreeable and elegant form.
 December 10th, 1879. Yours truly, J. SIMONAUD, M.D., New Orleans, La.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen,—In September, 1877, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble, which I got some relief from, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter I began to cough and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of. I have taken no other medicine night and morning cough, night sweats and short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of it, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your Emulsion and before it was all taken I was better. I afterwards bought a dozen bottles, with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength since commencing with your Emulsion and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, "What cured you?" and I answer, "Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, etc." I have a friend who has not spoken aloud for 15 months, and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen, and says he is fast and strong again. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
 January 10th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen,—I got a bottle of your Emulsion and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live longer than a few weeks at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the Emulsion in small doses; it was the first thing that weak and stay on my stomach. I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced improving, and now am able to take food, and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover.
 For sale by all Druggists @ $1.00 per bottle. I am gratefully yours,
