Lord Cecil's Dilemma

The Picnic

Woodall Forest

CHAPTER XXXIX.

In an instant Ada had seized the broken limb of a tree that lay a few yards away, and prepared to beat the madman back.

Her breath came short and quick, her bosom heaved, but she never faltered, and as the wretch sprang at her, his horny fingers trembling to encircle her throat, she whirled the heavy branch full at his face.

Again she repeated the blow, and he crawled away, dazed and bleeding, while the courageous and determined girl dropped her weapon and stood on, on she went, never pausing until the glittering fields lay shining before her, and the gloomy forest was left behind.

Then she stopped to rest a while, not because she was conscious of being weary—exhausted nature would not brook denial. She passed through the village, her hair flying behind her, her skirts torn and disordered; but she knew nothing of this—she did not notice the people who looked after her in wonderment.

Her footsteps were directed to the Hall by way of the narrow lane wherein she had first encountered the man who was now mad in the woods, through a portion of the gardens, and thence to Lady Hastings' boudoir, where she fell in a dead swoon at my lady's feet. She only rallied to swoon again, and by nightfall she was in a raging fever.

From her disjointed sentences something of the truth was gathered, and the madman Spiers was captured the next day by the police, and placed in an asylum for the insane.

CHAPTER XI.

When Herbert Gardner reached his chambers in Chifford Inn, London, he found a lengthy communication awaiting him in connection with the business he had mentioned to Lady Hastings. But he was disappointed, and frowned a little over the contents.

"I wish I had not consented to touch this matter at all!" he muttered. "And it is like his lordship's impudence to imagine that I am at his beck and call, to the exclusion of all other clients."

He stopped, and his frown changed to a smile, for he remembered that he had not another item of business in hand.

"Why will the fellow be so vague?" he continued, musingly. "I hope that he does not think of approaching me with anything that will not bear the light of day. His character is none of the best, but the liberal payment decides me, and I suppose I must go."

He took up the letter that lay before him, and read:

MY DEAR GARDNER—After making half a dozen attempts, I find it quite impossible to adequately explain in writing my position and the complications surrounding it, therefore, an interview is indispensable. If you can run down here for a few days, I shall forever be your debtor, and will pay you liberally for services which I shall be unable to value too highly. I appeal to you because a number of names well known to you are involved in a whirlpool; and Hastings, your favorite chum at college, is one of them. It would be sheer waste of time for me to come to London, and I really dare not leave the Towers at this critical time. It may be that the publicity which is sure to follow will give your name a high place in the legal world, and you may be one day thankful for the selfish motives which originally prompted me to lay my troubles and the troubles of my friends before you. I inclose a time-table, so that you may choose a train to suit your own convenience, and shall look forward anxiously to a letter saying what time I may expect you.

Very faithfully yours,

STANHOPE.

The barrister was a little puzzled over the reference to Hastings, but supposed it was in connection with Lady Gladys Howard.

An hour later he sent a telegram worded thus:

Meet me at Swinford Railway Station, at noon, Thursday next.

He straightway commenced to make preparations for his journey and an absence of perhaps a week, and early on Thursday morning was speeding back to the Midlands over a portion of the rails by which he had returned to the city a few days before.

He was met at the station by Lord Cecil himself, and was rather shocked to find the young peer looking miserably depressed and haggard. True, he had not seen him for years, but the Lord Cecil he knew in the old days was a boisterous, boyish fellow, who looked years younger than his real age. The man who now stood before him he would hardly have recognized.

"I am glad to see you, Gardner. It is really good of you to come," said Lord Cecil, heartily shaking the barrister by the hand. "I don't know what I should have thought of you, though, had not Hastings talked about you so much when he was at my place a few months ago. He declared that you were the coming man, and would yet have a seat on the woodcock."

"There was his well-remembered faintness of speech, but Gardner felt that there was something horribly artificial about it.

"I am sorry that you are in trouble, Stanhope," he replied, "and will do my best to get you out of it."

"There is no getting out of it for me," grumbled Lord Cecil. "I shall soon be a back number, but I have got enough to do my duty. Well, come along. I've brought the dogcart myself, as I've lately taken a dislike to servants; they are always prying about. Pull up the collar of your ulster and tuck the rug about your knees. It's a jolly day for a spin."

Instructions before I came away." Stanhope climbed into the high "But my luggage?"

"The cart will call for that; I left part, and Gardner was soon beside him. He tossed a shilling to the man at the head of the spirited horse, and they were soon bowling along at a speed of sixteen miles an hour.

"You have still your love for fast horses," laughed the barrister, who thoroughly enjoyed the drive. "This is a beautiful creature."

"Yes, I hate to crawl, but suppose I shall have to walk soon!"

He gave the animal a cut with the whip, and it plunged forward with renewed fury, while Lord Cecil sang, recklessly:

"On—on, brave boy,
We'll never crawl or creep;
And if we get a spill—well,
Wooden legs are cheap!"

"But not very becoming to one's dignity," supplemented the barrister, laughing.

He could see that Stanhope was laboring under some strong mental excitement, and could not resist giving vent to it in some way.

"Is that your place?" Gardner presently asked, as a bend in the road revealed a grand old pile lying back among thousands of naked trees.

"No," was the short reply, "that is Swinford Abbey. Stanhope Towers is four miles further on."

For a few minutes there was silence, until they passed a tall man who was standing on the wayside.

"How that fellow stares!" observed Gardner. "Who is he?"

"The Earl of Swinford's steward," laughed Lord Cecil, bitterly. "The man I have cause to hate more than any other on earth!"

The barrister was more mystified than ever by his companion's strange words and stranger behavior, and neither again spoke until Stanhope Towers loomed before them through the haze of the wintry day.

Herbert Gardner could not refrain from expressing his admiration of the grand old mansion. It was not so imposing as Swinford Abbey, but far more picturesque, and looked strangely beautiful under the glittering, icy vesture that covered the roof and flashed with many-changing lights on the dome and minarets.

"A castle of which a king might be proud," said Gardner. "You must be fond of your home, Stanhope."

"I don't know that I ever looked at it in that light," Lord Cecil replied. "I never valued it until now. Don't talk about it, please."

Our Dumb Animals.

GREYFRIAR'S BOBBY.

Probably all our readers know more or less of the story of this wonderful little dog. For long years he stayed about the grave of his dead master in the famous Edinburgh cemetery. Few of us, however, have seen anyone who knew him personally. We have before us a letter from a lady in Philadelphia, who writes:

"When quite a child, in 1868, I was taken abroad by my parents, and we spent several weeks in Edinburgh, when I became well acquainted with Greyfriar's Bobby. The story of his devotion is common knowledge in the city where his monument stands. The ordinary pictures of him are not wholly true to life, however, as he was really quite a little fellow, smaller than generally represented."

CANINE THEOLOGY.

That a dog is a most religious animal in his special position, no man can doubt. Religion means the exhibition of loyal reverence and love on the part of the inferior dependent creature toward the superior being on whom he depends; and nowhere amongst human beings, in all the churches, or in all the lives of the saint, can we find a more perfect love to the Supreme Father in Heaven than a dog shows to a kind master or mistress. And observe here, particularly, two immense advantages on the side of the pious dog. In the first place, he sees his God bodily before him, as distinctly as the hare which he hunts. He is not troubled with any misty or vague dreams, or vexed with any perplexing problems of Calvinistic or any other theology; he is perfectly happy in his worship, as pleased with his God as with his dinner; and this is more than can be said of many good worshippers in the human shape. Again, he not only worships untroubled by atheistical doubts, but his devotional practice is as significantly simple as his perceptions are true. In the religious world of unreasonable beings, nothing is more common than nonsense; contradictions of all kinds pass unquestioned by a blind faith, and the most plain sense is translated into absurdity by the magic touch of the bewitching word of an insolent dreamer, with a mitre or a tiara on his head." From the Day-Book of John Stuart Blackie.)

John Stuart Blackie was professor of Greek in the University of Edinburgh. He was a rare soul, a scholar, a thinker, and, as Carlyle said, "a man without guile."

Why Does A Cup of Tea In the Woods Taste Better?

Some of the "kill joys" will tell you it is imagination. But you mustn't mind them for that is what they lack.

The joys of trout are not for them. The music of the salmon reel they will never know. The beauty of the berry patch, the red of the partridge berry, the blue of the whort berry and the satisfaction of the well filled basket are not for them.

Even the beauty of our Newfoundland scenery, the glory of the topsail sunset will leave them cold. But let us forget them and let us make for the old Southside Hill, now carpeted with the green and red of the partridge berry, or out to Topsail, or up to Manuels River, or let us make for the old "Cow Path" leading to beautiful Holyrood (and along the said "Cow Path" the whorts never grew thicker than they do this year) and let us "boil the kettle", and I bet you it will be a good "cup of tea", unless your grocer has done you dirty altogether. For the secret of it is, you steep the tea as soon as the kettle boils, and any old tea will taste pretty good, I'll bet you.

But it is just as well to take the best tea with you, it doesn't cost much more. The last time we were out we had a splendid tea and it only cost us 65c. lb. It had a sort of artistic name—"Mount View". We bought it at Henry Blair's. They had another good tea there at 50c. per pound, but the clerk said "the best is the best", and we believe him.

Freshly boiled water is the secret of the cup of tea you drink out camping, fishing, berry picking or picnicking, but it is just as well to have the best tea. You can get it for 65c. per lb. at Blair's "Mount View", that is the slogan.

HEROIC LIFEBOATMEN SAVE CREW OF "RALEIGH."

Germany Must Pay for Devastating France—
Legal Lights to Shine Next Winter—
Wage Negotiations Will Open at Sydney
To-day.

HEROIC RESCUE OF RALEIGH'S CREW.

LONDON, Aug. 21. Thrilling tales are told by survivors of H.M.S. Raleigh, who arrived at Liverpool on Saturday. The light cruiser went ashore at Heath Point, in the Straits of Belle Isle, in thick fog, and the crew were only saved by the heroism of a boat crew commanded by Lieut. Hopper. The weather was so thick that it was impossible to see across the deck, and the Raleigh was slowed down to eight knots to avoid icebergs. She veered to the starboard and struck the rocks immediately. Discipline was well maintained and the crew mustered to their boats, but it seemed to be useless to lower them in the swirling water alongside. The ship was fast settling and canvas rafts were launched. It was absolutely necessary to establish connection with the shore and volunteers were called for. Lieut. Hopper and a number of blue jackets responded and managed to get in a lifeboat. They pulled to the rocks and just as Hopper leaped ashore with a life line the boat capsized and every one of the gallant crew was swept away. Hopper kept hold of the line and succeeded in scrambling to safety. He secured the line to a rock and enabled the seven hundred of the crew left on the Raleigh to reach the shore. They got into canvas rafts and thru the maelstrom of broken water by pulling hand over hand along the line to the shore. The bodies of only three of the lifeboat's crew were recovered.

her Allies, he said, but would take independent action rather than be deprived of her compensation. The Premier advocated an Allied Conference for the settlement of war debts which should be attended by all the nations interested without exception. The latter phrase was taken to mean he referred to the United States.

NEXT WINTER!

OTTAWA, Aug. 21. Whether the boundary between Canada and Newfoundland is within a mile or two of the coast line of Labrador is the question which will be argued next winter before the Privy Council. The Justice Department is finishing up the case and Newfoundland is pressing for an early hearing. The claim of Newfoundland is that they own Labrador into the interior. The Dominion claims the territory is part of Quebec, save for a fringe of land along the shore sufficient for fishing settlements.

ANTI-BRITISH MANCHURIANS.

PEKING, Aug. 21. Alarm is felt by British subjects, throughout Manchuria over the threat of Chang Tso Lin, Governor of the Province, to withhold his protection of British lives and property in reprisal for what he calls British contempt for his authority. Chang declares the Manchurians are contemplating a boycott of British business and says he will not be responsible for the action taken by the people if the "present methods" of British subjects in Manchuria continue.

THE FRENCH POSITION.

BAR LE DUC, France, Aug. 21. France will not consent to a moratorium of any character to Germany unless the German state mines of Ruhr and the national forests are placed in the hands of the Allies as guarantee and no matter what happens France will not depart from this policy. Such was the position of the French government with regard to the reparations questions as outlined this afternoon by Premier Poincare, at the opening session of the General Council of the Department of Meuse. The Premier's speech had been awaited with great eagerness in Allied circles, since it has been generally accepted that the definite and final position in France would be outlined in this address.

FRANCE'S FIXED INTENTION.

BAR LE LUC, France, Aug. 21. France is firmly determined to make Germany pay for the devastation she caused in the war. Rather than depart from this fixed intention she will act alone, Premier Poincare declared at the opening meeting of the General Council of the Department of Meuse to-day in a speech generally regarded as a complete official declaration of the French Reparations policy. M. Poincare produced figures in an effort to prove that Germany was responsible for her own collapse. Premier Poincare held out the hope of German and French co-operation with both nations working together. Some day, he said, Germany would change her tactics and do her best to repair in peace what she had caused in war. France was eager to co-operate with

A QUIET DAY IN STRIKE AREA.

SYDNEY, Aug. 21. With pumps and protection men in the Cape Breton coal mines working tonight and the peril of the inflowing water removed, the final day of the Nova Scotia coal strike passed listlessly with attention focussed on the scheduled opening tomorrow of wage negotiations between the United mine workers and the British Empire Steel Corporation. The situation remained quiet with the pumps manned by miners or company officials. No disturbances were reported anywhere. General Thacker, the officer commanded military district six, arrived here to-day from Halifax, and also about seven hundred troops as reinforcements for those already at Glace Bay. Provincial Police Commissioner, Lieut-Col. Eric MacDonald, D.S.O., will arrive in Sydney tomorrow from Halifax to make arrangements with the local authorities for completing the special force of one thousand men now being recruited for police service in the strike zone.

IRISH REPUBLICAN MONEYS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. A temporary injunction, restraining the local banks in which are deposited moneys collected for the Irish Republican cause from releasing them to Eamonn De Valera or any of his agents, was signed to-day by Supreme Court Justice Burr on application of attorneys representing Michael Collins and other officers of the Irish Free State forces. It is announced that approximately $2,300,000 is tied up by the order.

The Convention Of the Red Cross.

No modern document has, perhaps, done so much to diminish human suffering as the Red Cross Convention, signed at Geneva on August 22, 1864. Incredible as it may seem nowadays, sixty years ago no rule or agreement existed to prevent army hospitals and ambulances being bombarded by the enemy, and the sick and wounded were treated as prisoners of war, having no more rights than their valiant comrades. Worse still, army surgeons who were captured, were also kept in strict captivity, and the wounded of their own army thus deprived of their services at the time of most urgent need. When Napoleon III invaded Lombardy in 1859 to free the Italian provinces, he announced his intention of waging war "with humanity and civilization" and, what-matter his faults, the Emperor was never held to be a brutal or hard-hearted man. Yet it was the sight of the awful misery of the wounded after his last great victory (Solferino) that induced a Swiss tourist who was visiting Italy and found himself near the battlefield, to write a little book which aroused the conscience of Europe. Printed for private circulation, the "Souvenir of Solferino" led to the protection of the wounded and the sanitary staff on every civilized field of battle. Kings and princes received the simple Swiss tourist, heard his confirmation of his tale and promised support. Fourteen European States sent delegates to Geneva. The ten Articles of the Convention provided that non-combatants should be neutralized, and all helpless wounded lying on the enemy's ground should be sent back to the outposts. Briefly, every man placed hors de combat, and every one whose mission was to tend him, were "covered" by the Red Cross alike from attack or captivity. More than this, immense organizations were formed in every European country in time of peace for the help of the wounded in war. Thus, when war broke out the army of mercy was "mobilized" at the same time as the troops. Seven years later, when Napoleon III's troops were crushed by the Germans, the work which the Emperor had done so much to advocate and forward proved of the most signal service to stricken France. Its fame is now world-wide.

WHAT THE TOURIST WANTS.

Notwithstanding all the natural attractions a country might possess, none of them are worth anything to the prospective or actual tourist if there is not a sufficiency of hotel accommodation at the various places to which visits are contemplated. The paucity of hotels in Newfoundland shows that we are not keeping abreast of the demand. We endeavour to induce foreign summer visitors to come and spend their holidays amidst the beauties of our scenery, yet when they get here the very first thing they discover is, that there are no hotels. The result is that they do not come again. Neither do their friends. Nothing so displeases a tourist or transient visitor more than to be obliged to rough it day and night. Campers of course do not mind as they bring their own shelters, but the average person who comes to spend a week or so, wants up-to-date catering and lodging. Failing this he leaves our shores never to return, and tells his friends not to come to Newfoundland, because of the difficulties of getting put up. Ever since the cross country railway was opened and a steamship service across Cabot Strait from Port aux Basques to North Sydney, in connection therewith, the cry has been for hotels, yet apart from the erection of a number on the West Coast, between Afton and Curling, no other attempts were made to cater to and encourage tourist traffic. Even Nova Scotia to-day with so many hotels at its sea and inland resorts has not enough of them and wants more, and what applies to our neighbor in the large surely must bear a similar application to this colony in its lack of accommodation for tourists. The Maritime Merchant discussing this matter editorially, uses arguments from which lessons might be taken with profit to those who have the enterprise to develop hotel erection in Newfoundland. The article follows:

"One of our leading business men who recently paid a visit to the western end of this province was very much impressed with what he saw there of the tourist traffic, and he told the Merchant that his observation was that wherever the tourist was getting a good service—that is to say wherever he was getting value for his money—the places were quite well patronized and the men who were engaged in catering to the tourist trade were doing very well. One man he particularly mentioned had for several years been putting away two or three thousand dollars net profit a year from his hotel. This may not seem a very large amount to some readers, but it must be remembered, the amount of capital invested is not very large. The point of the story is that there is a chance for development of this industry in a great many small places that have natural advantages for it. There are possible places where outdoor sports are possible, such as fishing, boating, canoeing, tennis, golfing, and so on, but these in themselves are not enough to command the trade if they are not accompanied by a hotel service that is satisfactory and not too expensive for the bulk of people who are able to travel. It is a mistaken idea to suppose that a summer tourist hotel needs to be a palace; the main thing the visitor wants is to be comfortable and to be served with good food. The Maritime Provinces with their wonderful natural attractions, both scenic and climatic, can be made the summer hunting ground for a very large army of people from the hotter places, but anyone who attempts to realize this to the extent that one individual can, must select his place carefully and after that must undertake to give the visitors the things they want. It is not impossible that we might have hundreds of such places all doing well in the Maritime Provinces if we only had the people with the enterprise to develop their communities along this line."

"Over the Hill."

MAJESTIC'S BIG PRODUCTION.

After having been closed for several weeks, the Majestic Theatre reopened last night with a big feature to a packed house. The attractions were the exhibitions of local sports Mount Cashel Garden Party, and that piece de resistance of the screen, "Over the Hill," a photoplay adapted from the two poems of Will Carleton, "Over the Hill to the Poorhouse," and "Over the Hill from the Poorhouse." There were also pictures of the funerals of the late C. R. Duder and Chesley Crocker. The exhibition of "Over the Hill" was one of the best ever thrown on the screen in St. John's. In its various scenes there is a wealth of pathos, of humor, of tragedy, hitherto unsurpassed. The main theme of the story is self-sacrifice, mother love, patience, and forgiveness. Notwithstanding the ingratitude of her children, Mrs. Benton, who in the course of a very long life experiences many vicissitudes, being obliged to take temporary shelter in the poorhouse until taken away by Johnny the "wild Indian" of the family, but the hero of the play, yet when fortune smiles once more, and she is brought by the youngest son to the old home, she gathers all the ingrates around her and gives them a motherly benediction. The love story of Johnny and Isabelle is one of faith and constancy and the finale is reached when Mother Benton welcomes her newest daughter. "Over the Hill" is a great picture, appealing both to the emotional and spiritual side of humanity, it is being reproduced again this evening, when Miss Hilda Krentzlin will repeat her song of last night, which was highly appreciated and applauded by the audience. As an additional attraction, Miss Krentzlin's rendering of "Over the Hill to the Poorhouse," is most appropriate.

Wedding Bells.

KENDALL-MUNN.
The wedding of Miss Rachel Kendall, daughter of the late Rev. W. Kendall, and Mr. Robert Dugald Munn, son of Mr. Dugald Munn, took place at 11 a.m. to-day at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George Peters, 70 LeMarchant Road. Rev. Dr. Fenwick, assisted by Rev. Hammond Johnson, officiated at the ceremony. The bride was beautifully robed in white satin and wore a veil trimmed with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid was Miss Molly Dingle, and Mr. Stanley K. Lumsden was best man. After the wedding a reception was held and the health of the bride was proposed by Rev. Dr. Fenwick and responded to by the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Munn left to-day's express on a honeymoon trip to Canada and the United States. The bride was the recipient of numerous handsome presents, among which were many cheques. The Telegram extends its congratulations to the happy pair.

Menace to Our Forests.

AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT WILL INVESTIGATE.

Following a suggestion contained in the Editorial of Friday evening's Telegram the Department of Agriculture is investigating the destructive work of the Spruce Bud Worm in the grove of balsam trees on the North side of Long Pond. During the past week, Secretary A. G. Bayly has paid a visit to this place and another visit will be made this afternoon, when it is hoped to add to the data already secured. The destruction already noted extends over three or four acres of wood, and the pest is apparently working eastward as a wood lot about a half mile distant is showing signs of its ravages in Canada, the forests will be attacked by this Spruce Bud Worm and enormous damage done. So far as can be learned effective remedies have not yet been found, although a large reward has been offered. Mr. J. M. Swaine of the Division of Forest Insects, Canada, describing this pest in a bulletin issued in 1920 says, "The budworm attacks felled spruce, balsam (fir) and hemlock. The caterpillars feed chiefly upon the buds and outer foliage of the spruce, particularly upon the upper part of the crown, and the outer foliage is reddened and the trees appear as though scorched. The caterpillars prefer the balsam foliage. The bud worm is described as a small brownish caterpillar, the adult stage of which is a small yellowish brown moth. The moths fly readily and thus can distribute the injury rapidly."

It's no joke, it's a REAL Garden Party on Wednesday, Aug. 23rd at Galton Grove, Portugal Cove Road.—aug21.21

Parade Ground Road.

The road across the Parade Ground, which is being built by contractors Kavanagh and Colford, will probably be finished by the end of the week. Two-thirds of the grading has been completed and the road metal which the Government is supplying for the top surface is being laid to-day. Twenty four men were employed at the work, but since Friday sixteen were paid off. The work already completed is very creditable to the contractors.

Shares Going Well.
The shares in Newfoundland Films Ltd., are selling rapidly, according to Mr. C. A. C. Bruce who is marketing them. Several requests for shares have come in from the outports. Mr. Bruce told the Telegram to-day that Mr. Shipman will not touch the $35,000 he has invested until the returns from the film which will be made are sufficient to reimburse local investors. The film should be ready for producing in October.

Rotary Luncheon.

NEWFOUNDLAND IN WAR.

A very interesting address on "Newfoundland in War" was delivered by Mr. H. W. LeMessurier at the Rotary Club luncheon to-day, which was held in the West End Restaurant. Mr. LeMessurier is well versed in the historical love of Newfoundland and his graphically told story of the part taken by Newfoundlanders in war during the past few centuries, was well received by his audience. A brief interval during the meeting was taken up in showing the moving pictures of the Rotarian outing for children, which had been taken by Messrs. O'Neill and Coody. There was a two minute address on certain aspects of Rotary work by Rotarian H. E. Chown.

The Revolt.

From a settlement to a strike in the short space of twenty-four hours is a far and swift story. At midnight Sunday the official representatives of the miners and operators reached a wage agreement, which was to be submitted to the men for their decision in a referendum vote. On Monday afternoon a largely attended meeting of miners, held at Glace Bay, repudiated the action and recommendations of their official representatives, and announced a walkout to go into effect at midnight. Miners of the Stellarton, Springhill and Joggins districts followed suit, and the result is that coal mining has for the time being ceased in Nova Scotia. These developments cannot but be regarded as serious in their reflex on Nova Scotia industry, and as startling in the revelation they present of the fame of mind animating a majority of the miners of this province.
It is this strike, initiated without sanction of either the District or International Executive, be persisted in, the immediate result will be the closing down of the Sydney steel plant and the curtailment of industrial operations in all parts of the Maritime Provinces. That aspect of the case is serious enough in itself, but grave as it is, it is no more alarming than a condition, which always reveals 12,000 Nova Scotia miners, ostensibly organized in a great International Union for collective bargaining on matters of mutual concern with their employers, nevertheless repudiating the action of their accredited Union officers; refusing to respect or recognize the negotiations or pledges of these officers; and setting at defiance the very principles on which their whole organization rests.
Such a condition discloses nothing short of a revolt of the miners against their own organization, and unless speedily remedied, presages chaos, renders collective bargaining impossible, and places it beyond their power to act unitedly or intelligently on any issue vitally affecting their interests as an industrial body.
This amazing insurrection on the part of the miners against the union authority they themselves had established, is the product of several forces, chief among which must be placed the radical propaganda of some of the local leaders, whose socialistic teachings, One Big Unionism, and other destructive theories, have been undermining the props of genuine trades unionism from within. Another factor in the revolt is the presence in the mine-workers' ranks of a large percentage of men without domestic responsibilities, or dependent whose support depends on industrial stability. A considerable number of these unattached wage-earners are of the adventurous sort, eager for excitement of any kind, more than ready to exchange the drab routine of their daily work for the sensational experiences of a big strike.
It is, however, too soon to pass definite judgement on the significance of Monday's happenings or to forecast their final outcome. For the sake of the large population depending directly, and the larger population depending indirectly, on the returns from the miners' work, it is to be hoped that sober sense will yet prevail with the great body of the mine-workers of this province, and that production will be resumed at the collieries without any considerable loss of time.—Sydney Post, Aug. 16.

Silver Cliff Mine.

OPERATIONS NOW UNDERWAY.

Mr. W. A. McKay arrived in the city yesterday from Argentina on a short visit in connection with Silver Cliff Mine. Since his last visit Mr. McKay has made great progress with his venture, the success of which is now beyond doubt. The mining plant complete was started on last Thursday, and the compressors and drills worked perfectly. A new adit has been started east of Foran's Cut, and heading West on the vein. On Saturday 35 feet of ground was drilled in 75 minutes, the result of the operations being several tons of splendid ore. All the construction work at the mine has been completed, except the ore chute from the new adit to the ore floor in the valley. A concentrator capable of treating 30 tons of ore in 24 hours will be installed shortly and worked to its full capacity. Mr. McKay expects to have a five hundred ton cargo ready for shipment early this fall. During the winter months the export of the ore will be continued by regular shipments, via St. John's to New York, where a market for the output has been found. The people of Argentina are greatly interested in the new boom in the locality and visitors to the mines are many. Amongst the latter was Mr. R. H. Ferguson, a mining engineer of London, who made a special trip from the city to view the property and arrange for the purchase of its output.

Shipping Notes.

S.S. Rosalind leaves Halifax to-day for New York.
S.S. Silvia left Halifax at 1 p.m. to-day and is due here early Thursday morning. The ship has a large number of round trippers.
S.S. Manoa from Charlottetown and Montreal is due here on Thursday.
Schooner Isabel Moore, 25 days from Barbados, with a cargo molasses, arrived in port to-day.
Schooner George A. Wood, has sailed from Burin with 4,546 qts. codfish, shipped by W. and T. Hollett for Operto.

The Hawke Bay Enterprise.

Relieving Unemployment in Newfoundland. --- Summer Logging Operations Conducted on West Coast for the First Time.

(By Our Own Correspondent.)

Formerly an almost uninhabited wilderness on the North West coast of the Island, Hawke Bay is to-day a centre of a thriving pit prop industry which in the course of time, has become the biggest in Newfoundland. That this is so is due to the discovery of the Aerial Survey Company, who recently took over a large tract of timber land at Hawke Bay, and now have nearly 400 men employed with the possibility of having as many as 800 on the pay roll during the summer.

IDEAL LOCATION.
A few miles from the Straits of Belle Isle, the wild and rugged beauty of Hawke Bay, when seen for the first time, presents a striking spectacle which leaves a lasting impression on the mind of the observer. Its banks are densely covered with spruce and fir, which, if cut indiscriminately, will require many years to diminish. Hawke Bay is, in short, an ideal spot for the pit prop industry, which is being developed along its shores. All day long, throughout the summer, the woods have resounded with the clashing of axes and the humming of the saws, as they cut into the timber, destined to be exported to the coal mines of England.

SUMMER LOGGING.

That logging operations should be conducted in the summer may seem unusual. It did to me, but I soon discovered that so desirous are the Aerial Survey Company to develop their new industry with all speed, so anxious are they to make a good impression with their products on the markets to which they will be exported, that they were determined to send at least 2 carloads of pit props away this year. That is the chief reason for the lack of destitution on the West Coast to-day, for the Hawke Bay industry has completely solved the unemployment difficulty and is giving work to all who apply for it; providing that they really want labor. The difficulties which faced the Company in organizing this new industry were by no means trivial, but what was lacking in experience was made up for in enthusiasm and energy, and the experience was very soon acquired.

ORGANIZING THE INDUSTRY.
The organizers of the industry were fortunate in obtaining experts to superintend the various departments into which an industry of this nature must be divided. Several experienced woodsmen were engaged to organize the cutting, and see that it was not done indiscriminately, and that full freedom was provided for reforestation. Rough roads were made from the woods to the banks of the bay to enable the cut timber to be transported to the loading places with a minimum expenditure of time and labor. A store was opened in an old building, at one time the property of the whaling company which conducted its operations from Hawke Bay, and this was fully stocked with all the requirements of the woodsmen, and this, so quickly, that supplies were issued to the first men who arrived in time to enable them to set to work without delay. Only such buildings as was urgently needed has been done up to the present, but the company proposes, in the near future, to erect more suitable quarters, as land areas are augmented, so that within a few years, a prosperous township will have sprung up on the banks of Hawke Bay.

CARE OF MEN.

Every care is taken for the welfare of the men, who are all made as comfortable as possible, and given such supplies as they need to enable them to live well. There is a first aid tent, fully equipped, and supervised by experienced and qualified men, and such slight accidents as are inevitably occur in all logging camps are attended to so efficiently that those who require treatment are well enough to return to work in a short time. Any complaints that the men very rarely, are fully inquired into and remedied, if necessary. The rate of pay is such that all men, whether on wages or piece work, if they work even moderately, are able to live quite well, and have sufficient left to send home towards the upkeep of their families.

SOLVING UNEMPLOYMENT.

The opening of the Hawke Bay industry comes at a time when it is urgently needed. The West Coast fishery has, this year, been a complete failure, and were it not for the fact that nearly every man capable of working, has found employment at Hawke Bay, such destitution as had never before been known in any section of the country, would have prevailed, and the government would have been compelled to either find some unnecessary relief work, which would produce no returns, and would tend to demoralize the people, or have no other alternative but to let them starve. Every effort has been made by the company to secure workmen, and for the first three months, until it was found that some men were taking advantage of it, passage money to Hawke Bay was advanced. Although still in its infancy, the pit prop industry at Hawke Bay is now the largest in the country from the point of view of the number of men employed, and it only requires further grants of land to cause it to develop to a much larger extent.

FIRST CARGO SHIPPED.

It is now a great boom to the country and the West Coast in particular, as has already been pointed out, but it will be some years before the enormous benefits it has and will confer on the people of Newfoundland, are properly appreciated. The first cargo of pit props, amounting to over 2,000 cords, has been shipped to Cardiff, and every log was carefully inspected to see that it came up to the contract, for it is the first aim of the company that all their products should be in accordance with the demands of all those who buy from them. Within a few weeks, a second and final load for the year, will be ready for shipment. There could be no greater proof of the sincerity of the promoters of the industry than this, and it points to the fact that future development on a much larger scale is only a matter of time. The pit prop industry in Newfoundland is a legacy from the war, and the inability of British mine owners to obtain them from Scandinavian countries led to its establishment here. Apparently, the industry has come to stay, perhaps, to become one

Added Charms
Whiter, More Sanitary Teeth
Millions now enjoy them

If all knew what millions know, all would brush teeth in this new way. Everybody wants whiter, cleaner, safer teeth. Those who lack them envy those who have them. The way is easy and delightful. It means just combating film. And this ten-day test will show you how to do that.

That dingy film
Teeth are coated with a film--that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Stains cause it to discolor. Then it often forms dingy coats, including tartar.

Old ways of brushing do not effectively combat film. So much remains to night and day threaten serious damage. Film clouds the teeth's luster.

It often becomes badly stained. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. So most things that wreck teeth and make them unsightly are now traced to that film.

A way to combat it
Dental science, after long research, has found two film combatants. Able authorities have proved their efficiency. Now, leading dentists the world over urge their daily use.

A new-type tooth paste has been created, based on modern requirements. The name is Pepsodent. These two film combatants are embodied in it. Now

No Cost
This test is Free
Don't you owe it to yourself? It will bring to your home a new conception of what cleaner teeth means. Watch for ten days the delightful effects, then decide for yourself.

Careful people of some forty races apply it every day. And the glistening teeth you see everywhere show one of its results.

Other benefits
This new-day tooth paste brings two other much-desired results. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth. If left to ferment they form acids. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize the acids which cause decay.

These are Nature's tooth-protecting agents. Every use of Pepsodent multiplies their powers.

Watch it act
Learn what it means to you and yours. Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using, how refreshing the mouth tastes. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

CROWDED HOUSES WITNESS PICTURE AT NICKEL.

A genuine American photoplay at last--"The Old Nest," a story of mother love and self-sacrifice common to every family the world over, which was shown at the Nickel Theatre last night, is the work of Rupert Hughes, the eminent American novelist. It was produced by Goldwyn and directed by Reginald Barker. There is humor and there are tears in this plain story of daily life as we all know it. Not a person in the audience was free from the grip of its appeal.

If you like to laugh, if you enjoy a gentle weeping spell, if you want to see yourself, your brothers and sisters, your father and your mother on the screen, go and see "The Old Nest."

While the story is gripping, it has a different hold on the emotions than the usual thriller. There is not one melodramatic scene. Yet this picture held the audience at the Nickel Theatre more strongly than any melodrama ever filmed. And the reason is that "The Old Nest" is a genuine story, beautifully acted and excellently produced. We have never seen one woman portray the gradually ageing mother so gettily as Mary Alden acted this role. Her black hair became iron grey, then silvery. And with the passing of the years, the physical appearance and activity of the mother kept pace with time. "The Old Nest" is a picture that Newfoundland has been waiting for.

Ceremony at Presentation Convent.

PROFESSION AND RECEPTION.
Sunday last the Feast of St. Bernard will be long and sweetly remembered by all those who were present at the religious ceremony of profession and reception at the Oratory of the Immaculate Conception, Presentation Convent, Cathedral Square.

At 8.30 a.m. His Grace, Archbishop Roche entered the Sanctuary, accompanied by Rt. Rev. Monsignor MacDermott, V.G., and Rev. P. J. Kennedy (Master of Ceremonies) and having blessed the various articles of the religious dress destined for the novices and aspirants asked the questions and received the answers prescribed in the ceremonial for such an occasion. Then having exchanged the cope for the chasuble he commenced the Holy Sacrifice. The "Gloria in Excelsis," "Ave Maria" and "Sanctus" were sweetly rendered by the Convent Choir. At the Communion ten young sisters kneeling at the Altar Hall made a generous, a complete oblation of themselves and all that was theirs to God and vowed to Him poverty, chastity, obedience, seven taking on them obligations which will bind them as long as life shall last. Six years ago this same happy group came in all the love and fervour of their young hearts to pay their first religious vows to the Lord and assume the responsibilities of holy profession for one year only according to the wish of Holy Mother Church. And each year since then, when the day of renewal came round and they lovingly repeated their promise for one year they longed for the day when they would be permitted to consecrate themselves irrevocably to the love and service of God alone. Now their wish has been granted them, their promise made until the end of life, they are "brides of Christ until death—Nay for the ages of eternity, Virgins who will in the Heavenly courts follow the Lamb wheresoever He goeth.

Three young novices were then admitted to the first profession, the white veil was exchanged for the black one and the ring the symbol of consecration was given to them.

The Holy Sacrifice being concluded, five young ladies who had heard the sweet pleading invitation "Come follow Me" came in their shimmering robes to receive from the hands of His Grace the Holy Habit of the Presentation Nun. They had found the pleasures of the world hollow, its joys false, its attractions broken toys and now their lot is cast in with those who are dead to the world and all the world holds dear and their lives henceforth will be lived for God alone. Having laid aside forever their worldly apparel they now are clothed in the humble garb of the Daughters of Nano Nagle. At the conclusion of the ceremony His Grace in choice words addressed the newly-professed and newly-received Sisters, explained to them clearly and succinctly the duties and obligations of their high calling exhorted them to be ever faithful to their vocation, to strive daily for personal holiness which is the primary end and aim of every religious order and to persevere to death in their holy calling and so they shall be worthy to receive the reward promised to those who instruct many unto justice—"They shall shine as stars for all eternity." The Sisters who made their final profession on Sunday are:

Sisters Mary Teresa Tobin, Teresa Power, Margaret Keane, Philomena Leamy, Columbia Peddie, Madeline Malone, Rose Northcott.

The Sisters received to the first holy profession are Sister Mary Ursula Croke, and Baptista O'Keefe both of St. John's and Sister Mary Bernadine Maher, of Flatrock. The young ladies who received the religious habit are Miss Margaret Roche, Coal Strike Notes.

"LET THE MINES FLOOD," SAID U. M.W. OFFICER.

When the employees of Farquhar & Co., North Sydney, attempted on Friday evening last, to load a car of slack coal aboard the steamer Sable I., they were prevented from doing so by the presence on the wharf of several hundred strikers whose attitude showed that they were not going to allow any such thing as coal to be put aboard. In order to avoid trouble, the coal was not put aboard and the steamer having sufficient bunker without the extra coal, sailed.

Owing to the scarcity of coal the ferry service between the Sydneys has been curtailed. The Peerless has been taken off the schedule, and will run only at night, making her regular trips then, leaving North Sydney at 7, 9 and 10.45 o'clock. The afternoon trips will only be those made by the Electronic, leaving North Sydney at 1 and 3.30 o'clock. It is possible that next week the service may be further curtailed by taking off the night boat and making fewer trips in the day. The company has only a small supply of coal, and as much of this as possible will be conserved for the light and power plant.

"A lot of bunk this rumination the officials are talking about in their efforts to get the sympathy of the public with them," Mr. McLachlan, Secretary of the U.M.W., told a Sydney Post reporter. The mines may be flooded and we are going to let them flood for any help we will give, but don't believe what the officials are telling you about a little water and a little gas putting the pits out of working order forever. Let the mines fill up with water and fill up with gas. Then hand the worst one of them over to the U.M.W. and in two weeks time we will put it back into better working shape than the Dominion Coal Company ever had it."

Mr. McLachlan emphasized the point that although the mines were being flooded they were not being destroyed. He said that a little water would not hurt them and the company knew it as well as the men.

An official of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company has expressed the belief that Sydney will not be long without a supply of fuel. When sufficient troops arrive at Glace Bay to ensure protection, men will at once be engaged to load coal for Sydney, he forecasted.

according to H. J. McCann, who says that the troop train was taken to No. 2 by the C. & L. trainmen.

The immediate outlook in Cape Breton is not re-assuring, says the Sydney Post in a recent article on the strike. Organized labor is proved up to the time of writing incapable of controlling so large a body of its followers that the great industries of this community have been brought to a standstill. Notwithstanding this revolt, so serious in its immediate consequences, this condition is a temporary one, and it is not to be believed that a community such as this can be permanently disabled by such a movement which, for the time being, has dislocated the normal movements of industry, which by its untoward but not unexpected appearance, has spoiled what would have been increasingly prosperous times, bringing benefit not only to the immediate workers, but to the whole community.

U. M. W. SECRETARY INTERVIEWED.

Interviewed in his office by the Sydney Post, J. B. McLachlan, re-elected Secretary of district 26, gave a short concise statement of the stand he has taken with his men. "When our people starved last winter nobody took any interest in us," he said, "and now when they hear of an old piece of iron rusting in a flooded mine they are alarmed. If they saw a starving miner's child alongside a rusting pump, they would exclaim at the loss of the pump and not notice the child. That's why we are striking—we want a living wage, nothing more. We will stick to our decision now even if it means starvation. We won't starve. There are tons of fish off shore and we have the boats and the best fishermen in Nova Scotia to catch them for us. And the farmers will supply us with vegetables."

NO MONEY FOR STRIKE PAY.

"We haven't got a cent in the U.M.W. treasury," Mr. McLachlan continued, "and the men are striking without strike pay or hopes of any. But many of them are eating chicken and fruit salads."

What the miners want is $3.30 per day minimum and $4.50 per day maximum—eighty-three cents a ton for undercutting the coal and placing it in the cars in the pits. They are getting fifty-nine cents, Mr. McLachlan said, and he showed how in his opinion he had conclusive proof the company was in a good position to pay the 1921 rate. Mr. McLachlan said there was forty thousand cubic feet of explosive gas in No. 2 colliery, and it was certain death for untrained men to attempt to enter the pits. It took only forty cubic feet to cause the New Waterford tragedy some years ago, he said, and there is enough there now to blow Glace Bay off the map. "Any scab that enters that mine is going to sure death," he said.

Personal.
Mr. E. A. Payn, Secretary of the Board of Trade, who was spending a two weeks' vacation with friends in Carboner, has returned to the city.
Mr. Charles M. C. White, of New York, who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Phillip D. White, 48 LeMarchant Road, returns to the States next Saturday on the S.S. Silvia.
Mrs. L. Cheeseman of Port aux Bras, who has been ill here for some time past, is being taken home by the revenue cruiser Daisy, Miss Alice, and Mr. Era V. Cheeseman who will enter business with his father and brother, will accompany their mother.
Dr. W. E. Jones, M.H.A., for Harbor Main District, is making a trip to England to visit Mrs. Jones who some time ago preceded him and who has been ill since arriving on the other side. Dr. Jones expects to return in about six or eight weeks.
Mr. J. F. Lacey, travelling auditor of the Reid Nhd. Company, Ltd, left by yesterday's train for Argentina, to pay off the crew of the coal ship "Tuna."
Mrs. Capt. Wiltshire, who has been spending a vacation at Bonavista, has returned to St. John's.

Don't Delay Another Day!

The time to fix your roof is now—while the weather is warm.

If you put felt or rubber roofing on your roof in warm weather it will fit snugly to your roof, won't crack, won't bag and will give you greater satisfaction. DO IT NOW.

If your roof is in fair condition, just small cracks here and there, fix these cracks with LASTY-GUM—it stops leaks. Lasty Gum is sold in 5-pound pails, at $1.50 each.

If your roof is in good condition, give it a coat of Special Roof Coating, which will keep it good for another two or three years. Remember, Prevention is better than Cure.

Don't wait for your roof to leak; prevent it from leaking by coating it now. A 5-gallon can of Special Roof Coating will cost you only $3.50.

If your roof needs a new covering we recommend VULCANITE ROOFING, which we sell in full 36 inch size rolls to cover 100 square feet at $5.00 per roll complete with nails and cement. Vulcanite is made and guaranteed by the Beaver Board Company.

We can also supply VULCANITE ROOFING in 18 inch widths, containing a double supply of nails and cement at $5.40 per roll, to cover 100 square feet.

Congo Rubberized Roofing full size rolls to cover 100 square feet, $3.75 per roll, complete with enough nails and cement to put on your roof immediately.

We can also supply you with Red or Green Sanded Roofing, but we do not recommend it. Vulcanite either 36 inch or better still 18 inch is more durable.

Hexagon Rubberized Shingles are better than wood shingles; they require no painting, won't turn up with the wind and are absolutely fire-proof; $13.00 per square of 100 square feet. You can see them on dwelling house No. 86 Duckworth Street; they're worth looking at.

We also have in stock Builders' Roofing Pitch in small barrels; Paving Pitch, Coal Tar in tierces and barrels; Pine Tar, Leptyne, a turpentine substitute, in 5-gallon cans for painters' use, at $5.00 per can.

We have just received one thousand rolls of Barrett's Red Seal Board Roofing Felt.

MOSHIER-JAYNES.
Wedding Took Place In Mt. Bellingham Church.

The Mt. Bellingham Methodist Church was the scene of a delightful wedding on the evening of August 18th, when Florence Bertha Jaynes of 143 Bellingham St., became the bride of Paul B. Moshier of Ashley, Ohio. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Arthur D. Stroud, pastor of the church. The decorations of peach blossoms, white asters and palms, gracefully hung along the sides of the aisles all about, were very attractive. Miss Edith M. Jaynes was bridesmaid and George W. Brewer, best man, while acting as ushers were: John Guy, A. W. Parsons, A. E. Keyzer and John C. Taylor. The bride was gowned in white tulle with a wreath of orange blossoms and was caught in place with sprays of the same flower. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid was attired in blue organdie and she wore a picture hat with plumes and tiny roses. A reception from 8.30 to 9.30 in the church parlor followed the ceremony. The bride's parents, assisted by the bridesmaids, presented her attendant with a wrist watch, also. The best man received a gold knife and the ushers, gold pieces. The gifts to the couple were many and beautiful. Mr. and Mrs. Moshier have gone to the groom's home in Ohio for their wedding trip—Chelsea Record.

The parents of the bride are natives of Carleton Place and among those who attended the function were the following from Newfoundland:—Mr. and Mrs. A. Sheppard, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Parsons and family (cousins of the bride), Mr. and Mrs. John C. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Webber, all of Hr. Grace, and also a number of friends who formerly lived in Carleton Place.

Cadets Win Wabana Championship.

FINAL GAME GIVES BELL ISLAND CUP TO C.C.C.

After a series of games, in which real surprises were the outstanding feature, the Kent-Shea-Lymer Cup has once more gone to the Cadet Football Club. Seldom has there been a season in which the final outcome was more doubtful, and the fact that the Fire Brigade had won the Trophy last year and were equally determined to retain it, while the Orange Young Britons had fully organized, and were in excellent training, made it all the more difficult to surmise the victors. The several draws at the commencement of the season, and the uncertainty of the postponed games made the interest all the more intense, and when the Orange Young Britons faced the Fire Brigade on Friday evening, it was felt in many sections that victory would go to the former—as they were in excellent training and condition—and that the final tussle for the Championship would be between the Cadets and Britons. Fortune, however favoured the C.C.C. after a long period of bad luck, for the Fire Brigade scored in the first half, and although the Britons secured the equalizer, and struggled desperately for another, they could not beat the Fire-Fighters goalkeeper, and the final whistle found the game a draw—one goal being scored on each side—thus leaving the Championship trophy in the hands of the Cadets. For the Britons, Spencer, Stewart and the Mews boys undoubtedly played splendidly, while Lee Kennedy, R. L. Stevenson, "Rocky" Whelan and J. Ryan were the strength of the Fire Brigade team. Mr. N. J. Vinicombe, M.H.A., was referee.

The Cadet Championship team are as follows:—Goal, M. Farrel; backs, Gus Connors, (Captain) J. F. McEvoy; halves, J. Murphy, J. Lela-hunt, J. L. Connors; forwards, M. Dohbin, (Sub-captain), J. Dwyer, F. T. Murphy, W. Connors and R. Dwyer. J. Penny also played during the season.

Following is the complete table of points.

Goals	Points
Cadets	11 6 2 1 3 14 4 7
Britons	1 6 1 1 4 4 9 6
F. Brigade	6 1 2 3 8 10 5

The Bell Island Football League has challenged for the Inter-town Trophy, and the challenge has been accepted. A picked Island team will therefore be seen at St. George's Field early in September.

ABOUT GIFT SHOPS

Who says the world isn't getting better? I have just revisited one of the Summer resorts of my childhood and in the spot where there once stood a souvenir store is a little shop labelled "Gift Shop."

is a little shop labelled "Gift Shop."

Don't you call that a step forward? You ask me why I go into your attic if you have one and unearth some of the things that you brought home from or the Federal Building or the Grand Central Railway Station painted on them?

Do you remember the miniature bean pots and Plymouth Rocks and models of the White House?

Do you remember how these things stood around on mantels and wall brackets and parlor tables and were dusted a few thousand times and finally carried off into the attic by a new generation?

And then go into the next gift shop and see what you see there.

Things to Use!

Some Souvenirs, yes, some of the eternal bric-a-brac, yes, but a great deal more of the immediately useful. The last gift shop I visited had handkerchiefs, silk stockings, dresses, sweaters, blouses, some really practical leather goods, and Summer furs obtained from a local man. It also had some junk to be sure, including a few articles with the name of the place duly painted on them. But the majority of the stuff was something that would be used instead of stood on the mantel to be dusted until another generation swept it into the attic—or, since attics will presumably be almost as scarce as hen's teeth by that time, into the ash can.

One Expects the Tax.

True, the gift shop tax was placed on those articles, but when one buys at a shop that has a short season one reckons on that.

And it is also true that some gift shops perpetrate some extraordinary junk in the name of fancy work. A neighbor told me of a shop where they are selling fly killers embroidered in colored worsteds! Incidentally she commended the idea!

But on the whole, I think that this gift shop granddaughter of the souvenir store is more sensible more sane and more beautiful than its ancestor.

Who says the world isn't growing better?

INSOMNIA.

I called on old Doc Grant to-day and said, "I'm doomed, I think; I spend the 10 or 12 nights in the hay, and cannot sleep a wink. I've tried the many ancient schemes for bringing slumber near, but from the mystic land of dreams I'm barred for good. I fear. I counted forty million sheep last night, but all in vain; I must get next to gentle sleep or I shall go insane. Obeying one cheap doc's baranques, which failed to close my eyes. And so at last I come to you, your help I now implore; they say you've methods strange and new, no docs e'er used before." "I knew you'd come," the Old Doc cried, when weakness made me pause; "I saw you sick, and so I fled, with zeal, to learn the cause. I find your stand off is no good in any part of town; you owe for hay and coal and wood, and for your wife's best gown. In debts you've always been immersed since you were in your teens; you owe the butcher for his worst, the grocer for his beans. It would be vain to feed you pills, they would not set you right; go like a man and pay your bills, and you will sleep at night." This was the riddle of Old Doc Grant, too good a riddle to waste; and down the elevator shaft he dropped me, in his hate.

PUBLIC NOTICE. GENERAL HOSPITAL.

The Board of Governors of the St. John's General Hospital beg to draw the attention of the General Public to the following regulations respecting the admission of patients who desire to enter the Institution for treatment.

Under the General Hospital Act (8 George V., Chap. XIX.) and with the approval of the Governor in Council, the Board of Governors have fixed and prescribed the following scale of fees to be levied from and paid by all persons who occupy beds or undergo treatment at the Hospital.

SCALE OF FEES. EVERY PERSON receiving treatment in the General Hospital shall pay fees according to the following scale:—

Persons admitted to the public wards, $1.00 per day. Persons occupying private rooms, $10.00 per week, in addition to the daily fee of $1.00.

Every applicant for admission to the Hospital must bring with him or her, or forward to the Superintendent of the Hospital, certificate signed by a duly registered physician that such patient is a proper subject for Hospital treatment.

Under the provisions of the General Hospital Act ALL PATIENTS WHO ARE UNABLE TO PAY FEES shall bring with them a certificate of their inability to pay, which shall be signed by the resident Relieving Officer, or where there is no such officer, by a Justice of the Peace, a Clergyman, or other responsible persons.

Physicians are respectfully requested to advise patients certified by them for admission to the Hospital of their obligations to the Institution with regard to the provision of the necessary funds, or certificate as to inability to pay fees.

By order of the Board of Governors. GEORGE SHEA, Chairman. W. H. RENNIE, Secretary.

THE HECLA PIPELESS FURNACE.

Thousands of these heating systems have been installed, are giving every satisfaction, and you are safe in buying a Pipeless Furnace—absolutely safe—if it is a "Hecla." For those who live in districts where wood is still the fuel ordinarily used we recommend the "Hilborn" Pipeless Furnace. It has a regular wood fire box, takes sticks from 2 to 4 1/2 feet long and there is no trouble in keeping a fire all night in the "Hilborn."

The same guarantee that applies to our other Furnaces applies to this. It must do the work we say it will, or we will take it out and refund your money. Write for particulars.

(Contributed.) OLD SCOTCH DIVINES.

Rev. Mr. Shirra, of Kirkcaldy, distinguished for his homely and remarkable sayings, both in the pulpit and abroad, was greatly given to personal reproach in the course of divine service, and had a happy knack of sometimes killing two birds with one stone. One day, observing a young girl with a large and rather gaudy new hat, with which she herself seemed immoderately pleased and also noticing or suspecting that his wife was indulging in a quiet nap, he paused in the middle of his sermon and said: "Look on y' ye there if my wife be asleep, for I canna see her for that fine fairicals on Jenny Bain's new hat."

One day a weaver entered Shirra's Kirk dressed in the new uniform then procured for the Volunteers, just raised. He kept walking about for a time as if looking for a seat, but really to show off his finery, when he perceived he was attracting the attention of some of the less gregarious members of the congregation. He came to his place, however, rather quickly on Shirra quietly remarking: "Just sit down there, my man, and we'll a see your new breeks when the Kirk skaids."

This same Rev. Mr. Shirra was addicted to parenthetical remarks when reading the scriptures, and one day, when reading from the 116th Psalm, "I said in my haste, all men are liars," he quietly remarked, "Indeed, David, gin ye had lived in this parish ye might hae said it at your leisure."

The Rev. Mr. Scott, of the Cowgate Edinburgh, was a man of some popularity, but was seldom on good terms with his congregation. One day, as he was preaching on Job, he said: "My brethren, Job, in the first place was a sairly tried man. Job in the second place was an uncommonly patient man. Job in the third place never preached in the Cowgate. Fourthly, and lastly, if Job had preached here, gude help his patience."

The Rev. James Oliphant, of Dumbarton, was especially quaint in the pulpit. In reading the scriptures, his habit was to make parenthetical comments in undertones. On this account the seats in nearest proximity to the pulpit were always best filled. Reading, one day, the passage which describes the possessed swine running into the deep and being there choked, he was heard to mutter, "yon, that the devil had been chookit' too." Again, in the passage as to Peter exclaiming, "We have built our house upon a rock," he said: "We have built our house upon a rock, and maybe two or three rotten nets."

There was considerable incoherence in the mode by which Mr. Oliphant sought to establish the absolute wickedness of the devil. "From the word devil," said Mr. Oliphant, "which means an enemy, take away the D and you have evil, remove the E and you have vil (vile), take away the V, and it is ill, and so you see, my brethren, he's just an ill, vile, evil devil." They were hard nuts to crack, many of these old preachers.

Speaking of the old-fashioned "rousing sermons" with which some ministers used to delight and terrify their hearers, Mr. Inglis, in his recent work "Our Ain Folk," relates a conversation that took place between two severe old' corenmenters after hearing a sermon of this type. "What do you think o' that sermon, Jamie?" said Willie, as they wended their way down the street. "Think o' it," said Jamie, "man it was jist a gran sermon. I havena heard ane I likit better for many a day. What do you think o' yourself?" "Ae, man," said Willie, "it was an awfu' sermon, a fearfu' sermon. It fair gar'd my flesh a' grune. I'm shiverin' yet, an' I'm sure I canna take my demer."

"What," said Jamie, "a snort o' indignation. What do you want? What wad ye ha'e man? Do you want the man to slide ye down to hell on a buttered plate?"

REMEMBER THE SABBATH DAY TO KEEP IT HOLY.

"Wherefore did you go and shoot the hare on the Sabbath day, John?" asked the reverend gentleman once of a parishioner who was before the session for the misdeed in question. "Weel, ye see," replied John, not unphilosophically, "I had a strong dread that the beastie mightna sit still Monday, sae I jist dressed his droodrum when I had the chance."

Dealing with Sunday recreation, let us be generous and fair, whether we spend it with Billy Sunday or the pleasures of a Sunny Sunday. We must keep up the church.

In Memoriam.

MR. JOSEPH BUTLER OF GRAND FALLS.

The people of Topsail have learned with much regret of the passing at Grand Falls, on Aug. 8, of an old friend in the person of Mr. Joseph Butler, aged 76 years. Deceased was born at Cupids, in 1846, and was a son of the late Jonathan Butler of that place.

For some years he resided at Port de Grave, but all the later years of his life were closely connected with Topsail and Manville, where he made his home, while working with the D.I. & S. Co., of Bell Island. During the 20 years of his employment there, he was a good friend to many a man crossing the perilous waters that stretched between their work and their loved ones, all of whom feel a real sorrow at his passing.

"To rest! To rest!" "I hear a clear voice calling, calling clear: "To rest! To rest!" And I am glad to go. For the sweet oil is low, And rest is best!" —COM.

The Company's Share of It.

"I've heard it said," remarked the rural traveller to the conductor of the suburban train, "that in spite of what folks say about big combinations and syndicates grindin' down the laborin' man an' swindlin' the poor, the company doesn't always get the best of it."

"No, not always," said the conductor. "But how kin a conductor—well now, not bein' personal, but you, for instance—how could you get the best of the company just takin' up tickets of which the company knows how many is issued?"

"You can't get the best of it on tickets," replied the conductor, "but sometimes a passenger boards a train in such a hurry that he hasn't time to purchase a ticket, and we collect his fare in cash. I knew a conductor once, Bill Scruggins was his name, who made considerable out of cash fares, and yet, Bill claimed that he always gave the company his proper proportion."

"How's that?" asked the rural traveller. "Well, Bill had a good route for cash fares—he used to run an accommodation—and when he came near his last station he'd take all the money he had collected and throw it up in the air. Whatever part of it stuck to the bell rope, he gave to the company, the rest was his."

"I expect the wear and tear on that there bell rope didn't amount to a great deal."

"I expect you're right about that; and yet they do say that a ten-dollar note got caught on it one day."

"Then I suppose he turned that into the company?" "Well, I believe Bill did intend turning in that note, but when he took it down he found it was folded so derved peculiar that it just had to stick to that bell rope if it came anywhere near it, and so he didn't think he'd had a square deal."

"What did he do about it?" "Had a passenger change the note into silver and threw it up again." —New York Sun.

A NEW AND PLEASING STYLE FOR SLENDER FIGURES.

Pattern 3530 was used for this design. It is cut in 3 Sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. An 18 year size will require 5 1/2 yards of 40 inch material.

A "TRIM" AND SIMPLE HOUSE OR WORK DRESS.

Pattern 3617 is here attractively illustrated. It is cut in 7 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size will require 6 1/2 yards of 37 inch material.

Figured percale with banding, pling or folds of a plain contrasting color would be pleasing for this. Gingham, chambray, lawn, saten, mohair, repp and poplin are serviceable and appropriate. The width of the skirt at the foot is about 2 yards. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. in silver or stamps.

Marcus Garvey Reviews African Nobility.

ALL PRESIDENT AND STAFF WATCH PARADE.

New York—Marcus Garvey, president of the United Negro College and "Prophet of the Republic," wearing a chapeau from the military cloak of blue on his head, and a high-crowned hat with gold lace aplenty, and followed by "High Potentates," "Representatives of the American people at the 'Black Cross' in Washington," Black Cross members of the uniformed and a host of followers, riding automobiles, paraded the streets of Harlem while thousands of Negroes who do not agree with Garvey's "Resurrect Africa" movement parade in gala attire, Lenox and Seventh avenues were especially crowded. Flags and bunting were everywhere, the colors of the association, black, green and red, predominating. Police led the parade in a large detail was stationed along the line of march. This arrangement is said to have been made with the Garvey people in mind. There was little cheering as Garvey passed in his high-powered car, but those who witnessed the parade appeared to be looking out of the crowd with great enthusiasm as they were captivated by the marchers themselves.

During the procession there were several animated discussions between members and non-members. At Lenox street a "Garveyite" took exception to a remark of an onlooker regarding Garvey with being a black member of the Ku Klux Klan. This is a popular subject in Harlem and the crowd was with the anti-Garveyites. Prompt interference by the police quelled the argument.

At Seventh avenue, near 133rd street, two Negroes of opposite views had an issue over Garvey's unfortunate association with the Black Star Line, which thousands of dollars were lost. Garvey's champion contended that the money lost to members of the United Negro Improvement Association was due to bad advice and unfair business methods adopted by those who trusted. He asserted the president of the association could get thousands of dollars more if he desired.

The Garvey and other dignitaries lined from reviewing stand in front of No. 2205 Seventh avenue, a score of uniformed men of the association surrounded their chief, relieving the cordon of police. When a representative of the crowd who walked toward the stand, Garvey in the carriage returned to the Seventh avenue for he was stopped by several Negroes who said they had been misled by Garvey as private detectives told them that no disturbance was caused on his arrival.

In order to show white people that the Negro Improvement Association was on the map, the parade, after leaving Liberty Hall, No. 120, West 128th street, marched down Seventh avenue as far as 110th street. There then banners reading "White men rule America, black men rule Africa." "We want a black nation," and "God and the Negro will triumph" were used.

If any of the leading negroes of New York accepted invitations extended to take part in the parade, the majority respectfully declined. "Was the parade as large as on the preceding years?" was the question that the divided Harlem into rival camps. Those opposed to the Garvey movement declare there were fewer marchers in the march, while "Garveyites" assert there were more.

The true significance of the question is obvious. If the parade was as large as the question of the hour, it would prove that Marcus Garvey's popularity is on the wane. There were as large or larger the division would be that the "Provisional President of Africa" and president of the Universal Negro Improvement Association continues to exert a potent influence. An impartial observer the parade did not suffer by comparisons with that of 1921. There were about 100 persons in line.

What is a Living Wage?

Aside from the fundamental impossibility of arriving at what a living wage is, there has arisen in this connection a disposition on the part of the spokesmen of labor entirely to ignore the question as to how much an industry can pay. A number of these spokesmen have in fact stated quite emphatically that they have no interest in that phase of the matter. It is, nevertheless, a very practical consideration for those who must find the money to pay the wages for the public, out of whose pockets the costs of all industry eventually come.

In the recent cases before the Labor Board the contention was made

"I kept getting warmer and warmer until finally I said:— 'When you get quite through manuring yourself, Duchess, I would crave a minute of your time.' " "That was so freezing, that it almost cooled me off. It didn't phase her, she finished her nails and then said, patronizingly:— 'I told her impolitely what I wished, and she got it. Then it went away to the 'steenth story to be wrapped, and the dollar bill I gave her went to New York to be changed. After waiting some hours, I got what was coming to me and paddled out as mad as I ever was in my life.' "

BRINGS HAPPY EASE.

Negro Chief

MAKES DUKES AND KNIGHTS OF HIS SUPPORTERS.

New York, Aug. 11.—Marcus Garvey, resplendent negro chief of the "back to Africa" movement, which is being considered here in a convention of negroes from all parts of the world, held court last night. It was a gorgeous affair. Extremely formal invitations to the function were issued, or rather the participants were not "invited"—they were "summoned" to attend. Persons not in gaudy uniform or in strict evening dress were literally thrown out of Liberty Hall in the heart of the Harlem negro colony, where Garvey permitted his "subjects" to be presented to him.

A puzzling feature of the court reception was this: Garvey professes to be desirous of setting up a republic in Africa, and yet he spent the evening in conferring "knighthoods" and "dukedoms" upon members of the Universal Negro Improvement Association for "faithful and distinguished services." It is known how he reconciles the idea of a republic with monarchistic titles.

"His Supreme Highness," Gabe Johnson, conducted the ceremonies under the direction of Garvey. Here are some samples of the titles conferred and the names of those honored: His grace the duke of Uganda, Sir John E. Bruce, New York, knight commander of the order of the Nile; his grace the duke of the Niger, the right reverend William H. Heard, Philadelphia; Sir Leroy N. Bundy, Cleveland, knight commander distinguished service order of Ethiopia.

OLD FASHIONED REMEDIES. Taking medicine to-day isn't what it used to be. Castor oil is castor oil, but they've banished senna tea. And they've sugar coated now all the bitter things we've took. Mother used a brew for us from the family doctor book. Now I tell that boy of mine, when he starts to make a fuss, He is lucky not to be taking what they gave to us.

Seems the kitchen stove back then always had a back or two. Brewing up a remedy for the ailments which we knew. Something mother said we'd need surely in a little while, Senna tea for stomach ills and its brother, camomile; But I vow the worst of all remedies they gave to me Was that gummy, sticky stuff known and served as flaxseed tea.

Boy, put down that little pill, take your powders and be glad You're not getting what they gave when your father was a lad. Mother's hand was gentle, but rough and hard it seemed to be When she sat beside my bed rubbing goose-grease into me. Getting well is easy now, take your medicine and smile. You are lucky that it's not senna tea or camomile.

Troop Train Crushes Into Motor.

TWO KILLED, ONE SERIOUSLY INJURED—TRAGEDY AT LEITCHES CREEK.

(North Sydney Herald, Aug. 19th.) Jacob Anthony, of Sydney Mines and John Andrea, of North Sydney were instantly killed and Harold McSween was, it is believed, fatally hurt at Leitches Creek about 8 o'clock to-day by a troop train, which hit the motor truck on which they were riding. Harold McSween was brought to Hamilton Hospital and is believed to be in so critical a condition that he may die.

The two men who were killed were cut almost beyond recognition and their bodies are in a terrible state. The train bearing the troops was running at a fast rate and struck the truck fair on. One man's face is torn and the head of the other smashed open. The truck is a complete wreck. The body and the contents were smashed, to splinters and the undergear broken in thousands of pieces. The force of the blow was so great as to crack the heavy engine in several places.

The accident took place at the level crossing at Leitches Creek near and in sight of Dunlop's store, from which medical assistance was telephoned for, a few minutes after the accident occurred and before the bodies of the dead and injured men could be picked up. The train was brought to a standstill as soon as possible and the train crew and some of the officers and men of the military force gave what assistance they could.

The men had stopped at Dunlop's store and had just started the truck when the train came and it is thought that the noise of the engine in low gear and the pop bottles rattling prevented their hearing the approaching express. The men were thrown out about a hundred feet. The truck was driven against the concrete of the culvert and a large piece was broken off and thrown down on the track.

When Dr. Dan MacDonald arrived on the scene he expressed the opinion that Anthony and Andrea were instantly killed. He dressed the wounds received by McSween and dispatched him to Sydney in the ambulance which had been summoned. The motor truck belonged to the Atlantic bottling works at Sydney Mines, which had only been in operation for a few weeks. The damage to it was so complete that even the number plates could not be found and the men were not identified until after the arrival of persons summoned from North Sydney.

Mrs. Anthony was in North Sydney at the time of the accident and gained her knowledge of the accident by overhearing a remark passed on the street.

"PUTTING 'ER UP" ON THE "PROSPERO."

Round-Trippers Have a Whale of a Time.

The s.s. Prospero, Capt. Field (may the shadow of his big kindly frame never grow less) returned to port on Saturday morning at 7 o'clock, after a splendid trip of nine days, which included a deviation from the regular route to land a party of men at Bay Roberts. The following round-trippers came by her: G. P. James, A. N. Penman, H. Cranford, Rev. Bro. O'Regan, J. Dunn, T. Dohoney, W. J. Darcy, Miss Dwyer, Miss Martin, Miss King, F. Martin, Miss M. Moakier, Master Moakier, Miss O'Reilly, Mrs. Curtis, W. J. Martin, M. G. Martin, W. J. Carew, P. H. Jardine, J. F. Walsh, J. Godden, M. Hackett, E. Diamond, C. Dawa. All report having had the time of their lives. This is not alone the verdict of the passengers, but of the officers and crew as well. The trip started very auspiciously on August 10th. A big crowd was present at the wharf and as the steamer moved from the pier, balloons of various colors were released, streamers of confetti thrown amongst the spectators, and the Jazz Band, consisting of Messrs. F. Jardine, J. Walsh, M. Hackett, T. Dohoney, F. Martin, W. Darcy and W. Carew "dug right in" to some of the latest rag-times. Farewell bugle calls were sounded and the voyage had commenced. Good weather prevailed right throughout the trip, resulting in the record run referred to previously. On arrival at each port during the day-time the Band serenaded the crowds gathered at the wharves and made things lively until the departing whistle sounded. Rev. Fr. Nolan, who was returning to his home at Fortune Harbor, took an active personal interest in the musical programme and was given a great send-off on arrival at his destination. Miss Sylvia Moore, who assisted with the triangle, was also the recipient of a general demonstration when she disembarked at St. Anthony. The Band and most of the round-trippers were entertained there by her brother, Mr. Don Moore and his charming wife, and long after the steamer had departed the strains of "The Star of the West" still lingered round the wooded slopes of the Grenfell Station. Miss Carroll, graduate Nurse of New York, who had joined the steamer at Fortune Harbor and proved to be a thorough sport, was given a similar display when she was getting off at King's Cove. The enthusiasm of the passengers roused the hearts of the inhabitants of that thriving town, and they cheered lustily as the Prospero steamed slowly away. On the ship itself something was happening all the time and a general feeling of "pep" was about. Capt. Field took a great interest in the open-air concerts, and still chuckles at some of Tommy Dohoney's sallies. Tommy was the life of the ship and was in frequent demand for "Obadiah, Hezekiah, Abraham Lincoln Jones" "The Scramble for the Teapots at the Fire" and other classics. With such an aggregation of talent on board, a big concert was inevitable, and on August 15th, under the Chairmanship of R. T. McGrath, Inspector of Customs, the following programme was gone through:—

THE SONG OF THE "PROSPERO,"
(Air "The Star of Loyal Bay")
The Skipper of the "Prospero" is genial Captain Field.
He keeps the steamer off the rocks or else our doom were sealed.
He spins in all the fun on board, but yet it can be seen.
Although his name is Captain Field, he is by no means "green."

CHORUS
They say Captain Field that he ain't got no style,
He's style all the while,
They say Captain Field that he ain't got no style,
He's style all the while, all the while.

The man who drives the engines and keeps her on the go
Is cheerful Chief McKinley. His hair is white as snow;
But he's the youngest man on board,
And when the ship gets in a port he always has a swim.

They say Chief McKinley he ain't got no style,
He's style all the while,
They say Chief McKinley he ain't got no style, etc.

Upon the ship there is also a most important man,
He's dapper as a sandy, and always spick and span;
He serves the meals in splendid style and dikes liver pills,
May your cheerful smile never grow less, Chief Steward Billy Grilla.

They say Billy Grilla that he ain't got no style, etc.

The freight that's carried in the hold and sometimes on the deck
Must be looked after right and day, and kept in proper check.
Frank Miller's always on the job, and can be always found.
They say his name is Miller 'cause he's always flying round.

They say that Frank Miller he ain't got no style, etc.

Mate Saunders is a busy man by night as well as day,
He's always in good humour, but once got mad they say,
When busy weighing anchor a lady asked him "Pray
Would you kindly tell me officer what does the anchor weigh?"

They say that Mate Saunders he ain't got no style, etc.

When the sky looks black and day shuts down, and icebergs are about
You can bet your life the Second Mate will keep her straightened out.
For Saunders is a steady chap and there won't be a wreck.
When he is peeing up and down upon the Upper Deck.

They say that the Second he ain't got no style, etc.

The ladies love their coffee hot down in the engine mess,
And Coffey loves the ladies we can not but confess.
When he gets on his uniform and looks a kind of gruff,
Beware ye swains and lovers, for Jimmie is hot stuff.

GOD SAVE THE KING.
Percie Jardine was Conductor, and the request to the audience was "If you want to put us out, exercise discretion and use no hooks." A collection taken up for the Marine Disasters Fund realized $22, in spite of the fact that the audience was a small one at that particular time, many of the passengers having arrived at their homes. Dances were held on deck and the excellent weather conditions contributed to make these undertakings successful. "Putting 'er up" was an occasional diversion. The Orchestra was never allowed

"They say that Jim Coffey he ain't got no style, etc."

When our famous Band is about to play, and all are in a trance
To find a couple to fill a square and have a little dance
The Third Engineer steps up and bows. He loves to have a lark.
He gets a partner and fills the square. Three cheers for Jimmie Clarke.

"They say that Jim Clarke he ain't got no style, etc."

When wild winds blow and stormy waves dash high upon the deck,
When hope is gone and death is near
The Wireless Man stands by his post, for duty, not for self.
There's just one thing we'd like to know—where does he keep himself?

"They say that 'Sparks' Newhook he ain't got no style, etc."

Steve Peckford is the Boatwain brave, a jovial man is he.
He toils and works like twenty Turks whenever he's at sea.
You'll know him by his manly form—he never wears a coat;
And if you treat him decently, he'll take you in the boat.

"They say that Steve Peckford he ain't got no style, etc."

It isn't often you must admit a Bishop goes to sea,
Unless he's on a duty call and goes to see his sheep.
But Walter Bishop our mailman stout is trusty tried and true.
He keeps his eye on the mails, my boy, and on the females too.

"They say that Walter Bishop he ain't got no style."

The Assistant Stewards are Princes all. Their work is never done.
They're busy from night till morning, from rise till set of sun.
Obliging, gentle, courteous, they have our highest praise.
We hope it won't be very long before they get a raise.

"They say that the Stewards they ain't got no style."

The Stewardess, Mrs. Kennedy, must keep the girls in check;
When twilight falls each girly stails when ordered from the deck.
The boys kick too, and look quite blue. But the Stewardess is a sport she'll grant us an "Open Night" before we reach the port.

"They say Mrs. Kennedy she ain't got no style, etc."

We've travelled far on many ships, big liner and small tub,
And the complaint we've had to make is the way they cook the grub.
At last we've found the kind of cooks that we have always sought;
'Tis safe to say too many like these would never spoil the broth.

"They say that the Cooks that they ain't got no style, etc."

The men who feed the furnaces and keep them trim and prime
By no means have a cinch although they do have a hot time.
They shovel coal from out the hold and drive the ship ahead.
They're so used to fire that we wonder where they'll go when they are dead.

"They say that the Firemen they ain't got no style, etc."

Now last and not by any means least we have the Sailor men
They pull well with the officers; each does the work of ten;
Long life and health is our hearty wish—may they long keep on the go
The good old Coastal Steamer the S. S. Prospero.

"They say that the Sailors they ain't got no style, etc."

Be sure you attend the Dance in the Star of Sea Hall to-night. Here the latest music, by the Star Jazz Band. Admission 50 cents.—aug22.11

Dried Fish.
"To dry," not "to sell," is still the burning question. The situation in this connection we are told is even worse than it was a fortnight ago. A few hours of sunshine now and then have succeeded in producing sufficient stock to make up a cargo or two, but nothing like enough to meet the needs of the trade. And the most ever-present thing is that the shortage of supply synchronizes with an increased demand from Cuba. Orders from eastern Cuba were larger last week than for some time past, and very largely they could not be filled. The situation is nothing to laugh at, for the truth is that with a commodity like fish a sale once lost is never regained; the fish that are not eaten today will not be eaten to-morrow, or at least it amounts to that. The weather man has cost the people of Lunenburg a lot of business during the last four weeks and unless he changes his ways very quickly he seems likely to cost them some more. What a happy day it will be for the fish drier when, if the weather is bad about his own diggings he can "wireless" for one of those new monster aeroplanes to come along with a lifting crane, pick up a fishing vessel at her moorings and transport her to Grand Lake or some other inland water where fog is unknown and where other facilities for fish-drying are found in abundance. One may smile at such a preposterous suggestion, but stranger things have happened. Remember Dr. Bell and the telephone.

The news from Porto Rico has improved very much during the past fortnight and it is now felt that any shipments made to that market in the near future will bring higher prices. Cuba as we have said wants fish and so do the other West India Islands, but for a time at least they will have to put up with short rations. Southern Brazil reports an oversupply of Norwegian fish and consequently is not disposed to take as much as usual from us. How long this condition will continue it is hard at the moment to say. The European markets show little if any change during the past fortnight, except that Italy because of the exchange situation is still further depressed. So far as we can learn $7.75 ex vessel, Lunenburg, is about the basis of what little trading has been done by Lunenburg holders of late. The market of course is solely influenced by weather conditions. Any large quantity of fish coming forward would very quickly depress the prices ruling today.—Maritime Merchant.

Testimonial from Bell Island!

J. A. Basha, 305 Water Street, St. John's, N. F.
Dear Sir,—
It is my duty to ask you please to publish the following testimonial re Dr. F. G. Kinsman's Heart Tablets in the local newspapers so others can read it for themselves, and oblige
Yours truly I am
(Signed) F. J. ROBERTS.

Dr. F. G. Kinsman's Heart Tablets are a wonderful medicine, and I wish all to know what they have done for me. Before I commenced taking them I could not lie on my left side at night; I had such a choking sensation in my throat that I could hardly breathe. I would have to sit up in bed at night and my heart would beat so much and so hard that I would think that my end had come. My left arm and side pained me. When I would walk any distance my heart would flutter terribly and I would have smothering spells. I have felt none of these symptoms since using Dr. Kinsman's Heart Tablets. Now I can lie on my left side with ease and can enjoy a good night's rest. I can walk for a long distance without being tired or exhausted.
