The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

Here's an easy way to save 50c and get the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep home without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the bottle. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you 16 ounces of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for $2.50.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

In an hour they were at Mr. Barderau's house, and that gentleman promptly responded to Noel's wishes. Though indignant at the proceedings, he was highly delighted to help the brilliant young advocate.

"Now, officer," Noel said, "you have been very kind, and I wish to call at my chambers in the Temple before going to the Mansion House."

"Very well, sir," was the reply, "but we must be sharp, as I shall have to account for the time if Lawyer Grant likes to be nasty."

"It won't take five minutes," Mr. Barderau said. "And you shall not be forgotten, officer."

It was nearly half-past twelve when they reached the Temple, and Larkins was considerably astonished to see his employer in the hands of the criminal law.

Noel turned his private papers in to the temporary keeping of Mr. Barderau, in his perturbation quite forgetting that among them was Mr. Grant's writ. This did not escape Mr. Barderau's keen eyes, and he whisked it away.

"I am ready now," Noel said, but at this moment Larkins whispered in his ear:

"Webster has come, str—the returned convict, you know. He says that he can make Grant withdraw the charge, whatever it is. Do try what he can do, str, because the moment you get to the Mansion House the newspaper men will have the affair. And," he added, "remember your promise to protect me."

Like a flash Noel reviewed his position. Bankruptcy, breach of promise action, and the inevitable scandal concerning his beloved Elsie! If he could obtain the whiphand over Grant!

"Bring the ticket-of-leave man in," he said.

CHAPTER XL.

The ticket-of-leave man started at sight of the officer in uniform. To a convict on parole a policeman is a perpetual menace.

The man was much improved in appearance, being attired in a suit of new clothes, if ill fitting, at least imparted to him an air of respectability.

He plunged into business at once by saying to Campbell:

"Mr. Larkins has told me sufficient, str, about you, Sir John Sterne and Grant, to fire me with the desire to face the lawyer at once. I was done a good turn yesterday by Miss Sterne and it is a delight to me to be able to go soon return it by helping you, who represent her interests, and defeating one of her enemies. I will make him withdraw the charge he has made against you, and crawl like the serpent that he is! Take me before him. I am ready."

CHAPTER XL.

Webster's face was pale, but there was a resolute look in his eyes.

The policeman grumbled a little at the delay, but Mr. Barderau's promise of a substantial reward and protection from any complaint of negligence, satisfied him to let things take their course.

Accompanied by the officer, Mr. Barderau and the ticket-of-leave man, Noel Campbell went to Mr. Grant's office, his mind in a whirl of excitement.

The clerk who had delivered him into the hands of the policeman regarded the party in astonishment. As the managing clerk was out, he assumed an impudent demeanor.

"Hullo, officer," he said. "Not got your prisoner to court yet? Why, I left you with him in charge between two and three hours since, and our counsel's waiting with his witnesses. You'll find yourself in trouble for this."

"Is Mr. Grant in?" demanded Noel, haughtily.

"Come! I like that! After you've half killed him, too! No he ain't in, but in bed at home, and his medical man's at the court with his evidence."

"He never intended you to be allowed your freedom on bail," whispered Mr. Barderau, grimly. "What is to be done now?"

"Send for Mr. Grant at once," the convict interposed.

The clerk smiled contemptuously.

"If your business is so very pressing," he said, loftily, "a private view runs to his house from here, but I dare not let you into his office without authority."

"The authority is this," the ticket-of-leave man said, rapidly. "Absolute ruin stares him in the face. Speak to your master through the telephone and tell him that Mr. Webster, from Portland, is waiting to see him."

The young clerk hesitated no longer. He began to be a little bit afraid that he had already overstepped the bounds of discretion.

He retired into Mr. Grant's private office, but reappeared within a few minutes with the permission for Mr. Webster, from Portland, to speak to his master through the telephone.

Webster flushed with exultation, saying:

"Thank you. He dare not deny me anything. Gentlemen, I think that we may await Mr. Grant's appearance in his own office. The clerk will no longer object, I am sure."

The clerk was too bewildered to say anything more than that he "supposed it was all right," and Webster strode into the lawyer's sacred sanctum, followed by Noel, Mr. Barderau and the policeman.

The ticket-of-leave man promptly rang up Mr. Grant, and insisted that he come to the office forthwith.

"I do not believe in your illness. I am here to make terms with you, or to ruin you. You have had your innings. Now it is my turn."

He listened for several minutes, then turned around with a smile on his face, and said:

"Gentlemen, Mr. Grant will be here in half-an-hour, but I have that to say to him that must only be heard by Mr. Noel Campbell, so I do not think that the officer and Mr. Campbell's friend will object to withdrawing to the outer office."

"Certainly not," Mr. Barderau replied. "The moment the lawyer arrives we will leave. I only hope that Mr. James Grant will have a good setback."

Bishop Manning in "Evil Play" Drive

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Bishop William T. Manning, of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York, yesterday took a hand in the drive against so-called evil plays by directing the Social Service Commission of the diocese to investigate at once certain plays being presented in this city. The name of the plays were not disclosed.

Bishop Manning said he acted on "certain statements made to me alleging the terrible character of certain plays from the moral point of view. He directed that no immediate report be made to him.

THE MERITED REBUKE.

VALENTINE

I said to Theophilus Slaughter, "You certainly give me a pain; you ask for the hand of my daughter, Jimma Jerusalem Jane. And yet, if reports can be trusted, you haven't the price of a hat; men say that you always are busted, and bankrupt and stony and flat. My daughter is used to the splendors that only the opulent share, and you couldn't buy her suspenders, or combs for her evergreen hair. Men say that your credit is sickly, and when you buy goods in the store, you dig up the kopecks or quickly the clerks head you off at the door. And how could my daughter endure it? Her credit's as good as a queen's; the coins of her father assure it, and she's never asked for the beans. My daughter with horror would shiver, if faced by a plebeian stew; and she would be lucky if liver and onions were furnished by you. This tush about love in a cottage will do in a Jean Libbey tale, but soon it will seem Tommyrotage, if hubby can't bring home the ka. It's useless, Theophilus Slaughter, the hopes of the busted are vain; you cannot walk off with my daughter, Jimma Jerusalem Jane."

One of the most noted, successful and richest men of this country is a recent article said, "Whatever I am and whatever success I have obtained in this world I owe it all to my wife. From the day I first knew her she has been an inspiration and the greatest helpmate of my life." Health is the first essential of every woman who wants to be a successful wife and to hold the love and admiration of her husband. If a woman finds her energies flagging and dark circles appearing under the eyes, she has headache, headaches, nervousness and "the blues," she should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the medicine which holds the record of helping 85 out of every 100 women who try it. There is nothing better.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

"Good morning, mother," he said, pressing a kiss on her forehead. "I will try to avert absolute ruin, but things look very black at present."

She did not reply, and after a minute's hesitation he left the house.

He had hardly proceeded a hundred yards when one of Mr. Grant's clerks popped out of a doorway, and spoke to him.

"Good-morning, str," he said.

"Good-morning," responded Campbell; then he smiled.

"Ha! I think I see the trick. You have an officer within call?"

At the same moment a policeman in uniform appeared, and, approaching the young man, said:

"Mr. Noel Campbell? Yes, str, I know you very well by sight. Sorry, str, but I've got a warrant for your arrest, on a charge of attempted murder. Shall I read it to you?"

"No, it does not matter. I am ready to go with you. Stay, I may as well take my hat with me, though it is quite possible that Grant will put it in such a light that hat will not be accepted. You do not object, do you, officer?"

"No, str, certainly not. Let's have a cab. People are beginning to stare."

"A good idea, and we will drive direct to a friend of mine—Mr. Barderau of Hammersmith."

Mr. Grant's clerk had disappeared by this time, satisfied that he had done his duty, and Noel hailed a four-wheeled cab.

Newfoundland Paper Mills

Work of construction on the huge mill of the Newfoundland Power and Paper Company (in which British capital is interested) is progressing so rapidly that it is believed the plant will come into operation some time during 1925. The work is of unusual magnitude, embracing the construction simultaneously of a dam, a powerhouse, a canal some four miles long, and pulp and paper mills.

The mills are located on a deep water arm of the sea on the west coast of Newfoundland. Here the company for the transportation of the paper to England and the United States and other markets. The idea is to secure a complete transportation system in order that regularity of delivery may be guaranteed.

The paper mills will be equipped with four Walmley machines, which trim 221 lbs and are able to run 1,000 ft. per minute. The pulp mill, which is being erected beside the paper mill, will have 18 magazine grinders and will supply the entire pulp requirements of the company.

The power required by the Newfoundland Company will run up to 100,000 h.p., and will be generated at a power station located at the head of Deer Lake, some 30 miles from the mills. To obtain this huge amount of power the outlet between Grand Lake and Deer Lake, which is formed by Junction Brook, is being dammed. The dam will be over 80 ft. high and of the hollow concrete type. This dam will raise the level of Grand Lake, which is 61 miles long by 7 miles wide, some 25 ft. and flood the surrounding country to a considerable depth. Indeed, the flooding will cover the mine line, railroad as it exists at the present time. Some ten miles of this track will be diverted, however, and a new portion of the railroad carried over the dam on a steel bridge.

Rotary Club

DISCUSSES IMPORTANT PROBLEM
The weekly meeting of the Rotary Club, held yesterday at the West End Restaurant, was in the nature of a business meeting, and at the suggestion of President "Tim" Mitchell, members were invited to give their opinion on the desirability or otherwise of a reformatory for juvenile offenders.

The discussion was opened by Rotarian Angus Reid who was of the opinion that the Rotary Club should assist and lend their co-operation to the proper authorities in work of this nature, and he recommended that the Board of Directors appoint a committee to examine into the details of the question, reporting back to the Club at a subsequent meeting.

Dr. V. P. Burke was the next speaker, and he took exception to the word "Reformatory." He suggested that "Industrial School" would sound a great deal better, and dwell at some length on the environments of the boys and girls of the city, and in endorsing Rotarian Reid's suggestion as the appointment of a committee, recommended that information be secured from Industrial Schools in Canada and the United States.

Rotarian Reuben Horwood was not at all sure that a reformatory was necessary, and was of the opinion that much could be done by the Rotarians themselves, in the matter of correcting the influences responsible for delinquency. He referred to the Delinquent Children's Act, which was passed at the last session of the Legislature, and suggested that the Rotarians take a study of the aim and scope of this Act, as it seemed to him that in the passing of this Act, the Legislature had made a step in the right direction, and that it was necessary to move cautiously in the matter.

Rotarian Chas. Hunt, spoke along similar lines--contending that "prevention is better than cure." He did not feel that a reformatory would accomplish all that its proposers had suggested, and he was of opinion that there was greater need of improved living conditions for the poor, the children of whom are terribly handicapped and have no means of improving their condition in life unless some sympathetic interest is taken in them.

Rev. Geo. Bond and Mr. H. J. Crowe, who were present at the meeting, also spoke briefly, and congratulated the Club on taking an active interest in such an important problem. Before the meeting adjourned, President Mitchell appointed a committee, headed by Rotarian "Jim" Ayre to take charge of the Christmas Dinner for the poor boys. The dinner will be given at the Grenfell Hall on Thursday, Dec. 27th.

Proceedings closed with the singing of the National Anthem.
"The Christian's" Last Appearance To-Night
THE NICKEL SHOWS SCREEN'S GREATEST MASTERPIECE.
"The Christian," Hall Gaiques' great masterpiece of literary art, which has attracted large audiences to the Nickel Theatre the past two days will make its final appearance at this theatre to-night when any who may have unfortunately missed it will have just one more opportunity. One of the leading parts is enacted by Phyllis Haver, a recruit from the famous Mack Sennett Beauties.

Phyllis Haver.
To miss this stupendous attraction is to miss the truly great screen offering of the year. It's a gorgeous dramatization of the eternal conflict between love and duty--a love story that has been translated into every living tongue.

Obituary.

WILLIAM J. LAURIE.
Although not unexpected for some time past, the dark shadow of sorrow descended upon the family, friends and acquaintances, this morning, when it was announced that William J. Laurie was dead. To not a few was it the first experience of the fierce struggle, which the heart undergoes, when one so dear to his family and friends is called away. The sad parting from a loving husband and a kind father filled the cup of sorrow of an affectionate family, and wounded the hearts of dear ones that only time can relieve the pain. The patience and fortitude in which he bore his long illness were a fitting tribute to those who ministered to his dying hour. W. J. Laurie was a man of considerable versatility and activity of mind. The fading moments of his illness were brightened by the presence at his bedside of his wife and children. Conscientious right up to the last he gave a continuous example of heroic patience and calm resignation. His gentle character, unflinching kindness and ready sympathy, won the affection and confidence of all who knew him. He filled various important positions, everywhere winning the sincerest regard of all who came in contact with him by his ability and integrity. For many years he was a competent official in the office of the Government Engineer, Mr. Burchell, and later held a responsible position in the Paymaster's Department of the Reid Newfoundland Company. Up to six months ago he was employed on the Census Returns, and was also Deputy Returning Officer during the elections. It was during the performance of his duties in the latter capacity that he contracted a severe cold, which, despite all the medical skill of his physician, and the care and attention of his wife and family, gained headway, and resulted in his passing from amongst us. The deceased was the son of the late Mr. Robert Laurie, for many years in the employ of Walter Grieve & Co., and Thomas & Tiesler, and as nephew of Capt. Laurie, for many years Master of the topsail schooner Margaret and barque Caspasia out of Grieve's firm. The deceased leaves a wife and four children, mother, two sisters (Mrs. A. E. Hickman and Miss Isabel, and two brothers in the United States, to mourn their loss, and to whom the Telegram extends sympathy in their bereavement.

Newfoundland's Markets

A rather mournful attitude has been taken towards the Imperial Conference by The Evening Advocate, of St. John's, Newfoundland, The Colony. It says, in bound by "no tie of trade and commerce to Great Britain. We must find markets for our staple product outside the Empire, and we must find them by our own unstinted efforts. Unfortunately, too, we have to seek them where financial chaos reigns supreme, and it is a moot question whether or not we have received all the assistance in the past that our allegiance to the Mother Country should have entitled us to." It is hoped that when the results of the Imperial Conference take definite shape, The Evening Advocate will see cause for adopting a more hopeful tone.

Humber Valley Project.
I have received from Sir Richard Squires a lengthy verbatim report of his speech made during his Premiership to the Newfoundland House of Assembly, explaining fully the nature of the Humber Valley industrial project, which is being financed by British capital, and the agreements entered into in connection therewith. Sir Richard is out of office, but his address, thus published in pamphlet form, remains of value as a clear exposition of the nature of a project which will mean much in the economic development of the ancient Dominion. --Financier, Nov. 12.

AID FROM ST. LEONARDS.
A concert held at St. Leonards Palace Pier Pavilion on Saturday in aid of the British Home for Incurables, Streatham, was well attended, and a substantial sum will be added to the total for the festival dinner on the 27th inst., when the Prince of Wales will preside.
At a luncheon given by J. H. Gardner, managing director of the Pier, Lord Morris said it was hoped to raise £100 for the Prince of Wales' Hut, and £25 had already been promised. The patients at the home were practically under sentence of death, and had no hope of recovery.
At the concert Julian H. Clifford conducted the Pier Orchestra, Miss Ethel Fenton was the vocalist, and Norman Atwell gave some variations. --Morning Post, Nov. 11.

As They Do It in Canada

THE PULPWOOD COMMISSION A FARCE.

As an example of political futility and as a waste of public funds few things could surpass the Royal Commission on Pulpwood which has just concluded a week's sittings in Toronto. The Commission owes its existence entirely to political expediency and not to any public service it can render to the country. Ever since it has been in office the Government at Ottawa has been pressed to do something for the conservation and protection of Canada's fast-diminishing pulpwood resources. The first and most practical method proposed was that of prohibiting the exportation of pulpwood in raw state. This policy is already applied by the Provinces to pulpwood cut from Crown lands and has been found to be of immeasurable advantage. However, in spite of the provincial regulations, practically one-third of all the pulpwood in the country has been allowed to be exported and there is reason to believe that much of it has, but substitutes, been derived from the provincial Crown lands despite the regulation referred to. Public pressure became so strong that the Ottawa Government introduced a bill in Parliament empowering the Government by order-in-council to deal with pulpwood exports in its discretion, although there is no evidence that the government sincerely intended to act upon the authority accorded it. The next move came from the American interests dependent upon keeping active the flow of pulpwood from this country to the United States. These interests organized to combat the Canadian proposal and raised a very large sum of money to carry out their designs. They swooped down on Ottawa and the result was the passing of an order-in-council, to which no publicity was given in this country, which undertakes to exempt for a term of ten years pulpwood under contract for the operation of any embargo that may ultimately be applied to pulpwood exports generally. Since there is little or no pulpwood to which such an exemption would not apply the government virtually tied its own hands in the matter and placed Canadian pulpwood forests beyond the realm of legislative protection.

In order to allay public opinion in Canada, however, the Government appointed a "Royal Commission," consisting of five citizens of little or no understanding of the situation, to travel over the country and gather such information as is available with a view to advising the government as to a permanent forest policy. The chairman of the Commission receives $35 a day for his services and the other commissioners $25 each is entitled to draw $15 a day additional for expenses. The total cost to the country will run into a tidy sum of money.

HOW THE COMMISSION PLAYS THE GAME.

This is the Commission which is now harcourting the country and playing weekly engagements in all the provincial cities, from Halifax to Vancouver. Experts in the pulpwood industry who have come in contact with the commissioners assert that they are wholly incompetent to deal with the subject. The chairman, a tobacco manufacturer and a most estimable gentleman in every way, is apparently without experience in legislative or judicial procedure and has practically turned over the conduct of the Commission to the eminent and highly paid lawyers who accompany the entourage as representatives of the American interests already referred to. Most of the "evidence" put before the Commission has been marshaled and organized by the same interests. Any witness who appears on behalf of the Canadian side of the issue is subjected to a severe cross-examination. There is nobody either competent or desirous of cross-examining the American interest witnesses. The most ridiculous statements in regard to Canada's timberlands are allowed to go unchallenged and are swallowed holus bolus by the commissioners. The consequence is that the American interests dominate the proceedings and this has already led to public protest on the part of several witnesses and to newspaper criticism of the Commission. One member of the Commission is said to have been associated in the past with interests which are very much concerned in keeping up the exportation of pulpwood and openly displays a bias which lends color to the assertion. Another commissioner is known to be associated in business with the president of a pulpwood exporting concern.

STEERING THINGS FOR THE YANKEES.

But if the Commission were ever so competent and wholly sincere in their efforts to get to the bottom of what is a very serious national problem, their existence under the circumstances, would still constitute an affront to the intelligence of Canadian citizens and an unwarranted drain upon public money. All of the information which the Commission might, if it were properly constituted and seriously intended, be able to secure is already available to the government through its own departments in Ottawa. On the question of a pulpwood embargo, no action which it may recommend can possibly become effective owing to the fact, already stated, that the government has tied its hands in the matter. As it is carrying on it presents the undignified and ludicrous situation of a Canadian Government Commission dominated by American interests and operating solely to establish their contentions as to how Canada's pulpwood resources shall be exploited. It is not at all surprising to find that Canadians who know the circumstances refuse to take the Commission and its work seriously and decline to appear before it and give evidence. The best thing the Government could do in the interests of all concerned would be to withdraw the Commission and proceed to deal with the questions involved as they should be dealt with—from a national and a Canadian standpoint and not from that of a foreign country. Even as a bit of political camouflage the government stands to achieve no credit from the Commission—Saturday Night.

Schooner to Take Long Land Voyage

OVERLAND TRIP OF 700 MILES TO BE MADE BY NEWLY-BUILT CRAFT.

EDMONTON, Alta., Nov. 29—Standing in the yards of the Alberta Motor Boat Company here, is a tall ship that is to make a long and adventurous journey before it is launched on its first voyage.

The "Lac Du Brochet" is a 40 foot auxiliary schooner, with a 10 foot beam, drawing three feet six inches of water and of a carrying capacity of ten tons, that has been built for the Hudson Bay Company. It is especially designed for deep waters, and furthermore, is unusually strengthened both for seaworthiness and its long land journey to its destination.

Through a northern winter this vessel has to travel more than 700 miles after leaving the railroad in Northern Saskatchewan. It will have to go through The Pas, and be hauled long distances over the ice on lakes and small rivers until Fort Churchill is reached. This waterway it will follow to Reindeer Landing and it is on this 200 mile stretch of water that the "Lac Du Brochet" is to carry supplies and trade in furs.

The trip from Edmonton starting over the Canadian Northern Railway will take until spring and many difficulties will crop up before the journey ends. Chief of the dangers will be when the vessel turns over, for on the rough, wintry tracks and trails and the broken ice this is bound to happen. A specially constructed wooden cradle of enormous strength has been built around the hull and the shell of the vessel itself has been given more strength than would be ordinarily expected.

Along the route over which the vessel is to be hauled, teams have already made hay and feed camps at various intervals, so that the forage difficulty of a long journey with horses in mid-winter will be overcome. The feed for drivers and the gang will be carried inside the vessel, which is provided with a large hold.

THE EASY MARK REBELS.

Margaret is a mild and amiable soul. It hurts her to give pain to anyone even in the form of a well deserved rebuke. She is given to "making allowance" when other people fail to do the right thing by her. In short she is one of the most tolerant and charitable and popular friends of my acquaintance.

But one day last spring, Margaret came to me with unwonted fire in her eye and heat in her voice.

"I'm all through being pleasant and agreeable and easy," she declared. "People just walk over me, instead of being grateful. Hereafter I'm going to rant and rave when things don't go right and then I'll get action besides commanding respect and attention."

The reason for this outburst was presently forthcoming.

"They run that way sometimes," Margaret's vegetable peddler has brought his produce to her door for several years and she always gives him a good order and pays him on the spot. But this day she had occasion to complain. "Those berries you sold me yesterday were very poor, Mr. B. I had to throw away over half of them." Mr. B. shrugged his shoulders. "They run that way sometimes," was his comment. "Why don't you try a pineapple to-day? I've got some nice ones for 40 cents." And that was all.

But a little later in the morning Margaret overheard this dialogue between Mr. B. and the new tenant across the street.

New Tenant: "I want you to look at these berries! This is what I had to discard out of that quart you sold me yesterday. Do you call it honest to take money for such rotten fruit as that?"

She Gets A Free Box.

Mr. B.: "I'm sorry, lady. I've got some fine ones to-day and I'll give you a box free to make up for these. Would you like anything else?"

New Tenant, coldly: "No, I wouldn't. You may give me the berries and that's all."

Mr. B. pleasantly: "All right, I'll stop around to-morrow."

"You see!" Margaret fumed. "I'm a 'gentle lady' and I'm out 40 cents. She's a crab and she's in a box of berries."

I laughed at Margaret's indignation but I did sympathize with her. And I'll wager there's not one among my readers who hasn't played the crab.

At the store: "You say both these orders are marked 'rush'?" Deliver Mrs. M.'s first. She'll raise the roof if you don't."

At the hairdresser's: "I'll have to cut someone's appointment this afternoon. Let's see. Call up Mrs. A. She's good natured and won't fuss as much as some of the others."

Does It Pay To Raise The Roof?

And so it goes. The woman who "raises the roof" gets prompt and efficient service, and the easy-going amiable soul gets thrust aside.

But—would you rather have the reputation for churlishness and the antipathy the world feels for such natures, or would you rather endeavor yourself to those with whom you come in contact?

I think the happy mean lies in the old Latin proverb: "Saviter in modo, fortiter in re." Gentle in the manner, but firm in the object.

There is no need of being shrewish about things, but stand up for your rights. Insist on true value whether it is merchandise or service that you are buying. Ask if you are gentle but firm in your insistence, you will command the respect and still retain the liking of those with whom you deal.

Hudson Bay Route Opening Urged

COMPLETION OF NEW OUTLET TO EUROPE ADVOCATED BY WESTERNERS.

DAUPHIN, Man., Nov. 29.—The Royal Grain Commission spent this afternoon listening to speakers who presented what they believed were the advantages of the Hudson Bay route for shipping grain from the Prairie Provinces to the United Kingdom. The chief speakers were J. A. Campbell, commissioner for Northern Manitoba; W. G. White, president of the Dauphin Board of Trade, and John Crawford, Neepawa, who had been interested in the subject since 1886.

Chairman W. F. A. Turgeon, at the outset, declared that the Commission was not anxious to exceed its jurisdiction. It could inquire only into conditions touching grain and all angles of the marketing process. The evidence concerning the Bay route seemed to have narrowed down to the navigability of the straits. So it was restricted to evidence on this score.

Mr. Campbell urged the completion of the railway and the expansion of the route with grain boats to the United Kingdom. Twenty-one million dollars had already been spent on the line and terminals. The grain rate to Nelson, 760 miles from Saskatoon, he figured would be 12 cents, and from Nelson to Liverpool he thought the rates would be based on the prevailing rate of 15 cents a total of 25 cents. The rate from Saskatoon to Ft. William, 800 miles, was 12 cents, and via the Gr. Lakes to Montreal, 1,216 miles, 11 cents. There was one extra handling on the St. Lawrence that cost 1 1/2 cents. From Montreal to Liverpool, 2,700 miles, the rate was 10 cents, making a total of 34 1/2 cents over the eastern route. The rate from Saskatoon, the centre of production on the prairies, via New York, would be 34 1/2 cents to Vancouver, 1,000 miles from Saskatoon; the rate was 15 1/2 cents, and from Vancouver to Liverpool, 8,600 miles, 21 1/2 cents, making a total of 37 cents.

Unofficial tariffs other than Canadian were submitted by Mr. Campbell purporting to show that the rate from the productive centres of other countries to Liverpool averaged 25 cents.

Mr. Campbell said the returning trains and ships would have cargoes since the whole west was interested in this phase of the inland seas development.

The speaker maintained that ultimately the Bay route would be necessary anyway to relieve the pressure on the Pacific and the eastern highways, and they believed the country's development and the local traffic would warrant immediate attention to the enterprise.

Mr. Campbell's figures showed that it is merchandise of less than five millions on the railway the line could be put in condition for business, and he referred to the eighteen million dollar fund that accumulated from sales of lands set aside and earmarked by the Dominion Government for the purpose of the bay line's completion.

Hint of Wage Cut at Sydney Mines

DECREASED PRODUCTION COSTS ESSENTIAL TO GET MARKET FOR OUTPUT.

SYDNEY, N.S., Nov. 29.—When asked with reference to new agreement with the United Mine Workers and the prospects for increased wages in the coal mines, Mr. Warren, president of British Empire Steel Corporation said to-day:

"Our officials and officials of the United Mine Workers will soon meet to negotiate conditions of contract and wage scale, but I very much regret that the present competitive market prices of coal and steel will not permit any serious consideration of an increased wage scale."

He preferred not to discuss the matter of wage scale or new contract, but commented that based on existing costs of coal production, it would be impossible next year to find a market for sixty per cent. as much coal as produced this year. He said, however, that if it were possible to obtain reduced mining costs of coal, either through a reduction of wages or a reduction in the number of non-producing mine workers or both, it would make it possible to obtain more orders for coal and correspondingly increase the amount of unemployment.

AMERICAN FLUWEIGHT CHAMPION GIVEN DECISION OVER TREMAINE.
New Yorker Received Award After Twelve Rounds of Mild Fighting.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Frankie Genaro, American flyweight champion, was given the judges' decision over Carl Tremaine of Cleveland, a leading bantamweight, after twelve rounds of mild boxing at Madison Square Garden to-night.

Tremaine weighed 113 3/4 pounds, Genaro weighing his opponent four pounds.

They felt each other out in the first three rounds, each coming out gradually with a lightning thrust that brought out an equally quick defense. In the third round they were more aggressive, but hardly less cautious, attacking simultaneously only once, and then rushed into each other's arms, and tumbled over and rolled on the floor. Nevertheless both fighters put over some heavy blows.

Tremaine won the fourth round with four left smashes to the head, but did not pursue his ascendancy in the next. The fifth was only mildly active and about even, and although the spectators clamored for action, the sixth round was just a bit better than the others, both occasionally landing a stiff jolt.

The Clevelander got in a few damaging blows in the slow seventh and the eighth produced the first real action with a right to the jaw that sent Genaro to a corner, where Tremaine pummeled him considerably. The faster pace was made in the ninth, both men taking the aggressive line, and chasing each other up to the ropes.

gressiveness in several short exchanges. Tremaine began aggressively in the eleventh, but was out-fought, Genaro rocking him once with a hard right to the jaw. Although dancing around quite a bit, they were cautious in the twelfth, landing a few blows, but clinching most of the time.

The fighting was so lame that the crowd, observing that its clamor produced no genuine scrapping, remained uninterested in the latter part of the bout, and the decision was received with just a few boos and hardly any cheering. Because of his great advantages in height, weight and reach, Tremaine should have been an easy winner and experts at the ringside were of the opinion that the judges considered Genaro's handicap in his favor in totalling up the points. Neither was very aggressive; virtually all of the mixing was sporadic and little of it was sustained by either man. It appeared that Tremaine landed the greatest number of damaging blows, but not once did he follow up his advantage.

Most of the time was spent in clinching, with each man rushing to do his share of it.

Professor Suggests Applied Psychology

TO REDUCE ACCIDENTS.

Lawrence, Kans., Nov. 30 (A. P.)—Reducing automobile accidents by means of applied psychology is the plan of Dr. Williams A. McKeever, editor of numerous juvenile and psychology publications and former University of Kansas professor in charge of child welfare and "better city" projects.

Dr. McKeever has prepared what he calls "A Universal Auto Creed," consisting of a pledge for the driver, the pedestrian and the motor guest, which he is to offer to automobile associations, schools, safety leagues and all others concerned in the problem of safe motor car driving.

"There are not more than ten critical points for the driver, for the pedestrian and for the passenger," said Dr. McKeever. "Cover these danger spots with an advance vision in the mind of the individual, showing him specifically how to act or what to do, and the safety will take care of itself."

A Veteran

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(Canadian Press)—One of the police-officers on duty in Trafalgar Square during the recent Armistice Day ceremonies was mounted on a horse that had been on active service throughout the Great War and was as war-scarred as any ex-service man in the crowd. The horse, the inspector said, had come over from India at the beginning of the war and finished up in Cologne. He was wounded twice and was the first horse over the Humberburg Line. The young officer who rode him was killed just after his horse was wounded and his parents regularly visit the horse's stable with presents of apples and sweets. On the horse's bridle on Armistice Day were the ribbons of the 1914 Star and the Victory Medal.

The pledges for the driver are: I will think ahead; I will drive carefully; I will avoid speeding; I will observe signals; I will manage my auto; I will slacken speed; I will respect pedestrians; I will assist at accidents; I will encourage others; I will assume responsibility.

The pledges for the pedestrian follow of these: I will be thoughtful; I will follow traffic; I will walk 'street cars'; I will walk deliberately; I will cooperate with drivers; I will stand in safety zone; I will wait for car to stop; I will keep to the right; I will be responsible; I will avoid jay walking.

Mysterious Disturbance in English Channel

London, Nov. 30. (Canadian Press)—While trawling about 30 miles off Berry Head recently the Brixham fishing smack Floweret was struck by some mysterious atmospheric phenomenon, says the correspondent of the Daily News. The bows of the smack were damaged, the upper planks being torn from their fastenings and the bow decks were sprung. The smack appeared to be lifted bodily out of the water through the shock. Skipper Crees stated that the crew felt what was like a severe electric shock, the air had a sulphurous smell and the cabin appeared for the moment to be ablaze with blue fire, which was extremely vivid.

Plum pudding is delicious flavored with chocolates and served with sweetened whipped cream.

Household Notes.

Many people with whom sugar does not agree, and they can digest honey quite easily. In many recipes some slight change should be made to suit the taste of your family. Use a different embroidery stitch to mark the handkerchiefs of each member of the family. For keeping goods hot on an invalid's tray an old-fashioned covered butter dish is excellent.

Economic Conditions Impress War Defeat

UPON GERMAN PEOPLE.

BERLIN—Even the bitterest enemies of Germany, the enemies who have been most insistent in their declarations that Germany does not realize that she has lost the war, would probably feel that Germans very generally realize their defeat if they could see the average German family struggling for sufficient food in the midst of unemployment, currency collapse and indisposition of producers to exchange products of the land for paper marks which may be obtained by the billion in exchange for a single dollar.

When former Chancellor Cuno told American newspapers that Germans realize that they lost the war, he voiced no untruth. There may have been millions of Germans who had not come to that realization before the mark declined to a point where a dollar bought one million marks but when the mark fell below the value of the Russian paper rouble, German pride had such a fall that even the most recalcitrant followers of the ex-Kaiser were humbled.

Industrialists may have profited by the drop in the mark, as is generally charged abroad; bankers may have reaped a big harvest (they have made extensive improvements in their buildings and expended fabulous sums in paper marks for betterments), but the distress of the average middle-class family cannot be questioned by a foreign observer who makes a study of the conditions in Germany, especially in the cities.

The middle class has been reduced to penury. With the unemployment following the closing down of so many factories because of the lack of fuel and raw materials and the upset condition of transportation, the laborers and their families are rapidly getting into the same distress that has hitherto been confined largely to white-collar folks.

Most of the factories which have not closed are working only part time, and the wages have not kept pace with the decline in the mark and the increase in the price of fuel and food-stuffs. The unemployment doles are insufficient to supply even bread to the average family. Food riots are an everyday occurrence in most popular centres.

The average German mother realizes as she never realized before that Germany lost the war. The despair written on the faces of women in the markets when they inquire the prices of meat and potatoes and find their billions of marks will not buy a single meal for their children is a tragic demonstration of that realization.

Rural Germany fares better than the cities and larger towns. The peasants have good crops, and they have little sympathy with the food-rioting in the cities. That spells Bolshevism to them. If they go to the cities with their products they fear they will be attacked by the food rioters and robbed of their produce.

Milk and butter and meat are still obtainable in the smaller towns and country, and the gentry is relatively not badly situated for the moment. But their time is coming when gold taxes must be levied and collected, as they must be to meet Germany's obligations. When all really begins to go of shrunken incomes and fantastic litigation rents must be advanced to a point which will drive home the sting of defeat.

Foreigners who come into Germany with the impression that Germans are having a comparatively easy time and are escaping the consequences of the war soon realize that the average man's lot in Germany is pretty hard. And the average woman's lot is harder. Keeping a family fed and clothed is a maddening problem in these days of shrunken incomes and fantastic prices.

Shabbiness and want are in such general evidence that the few tourists who invade Germany do not stay long. It is a poor place for a pleasure seeker.

There can be little doubt that the great majority of Germans of all classes now realize they lost the war. They realize it with great bitterness, for the most part, perhaps. This bitterness directs itself chiefly against the French. The United States and Italy is seldom mentioned. England is excused in a measure. British criticism of the French occupation of the Ruhr has softened the attitude toward England.

Operations at Orange Bay

W. J. Mooney, who arrived from Orange Bay, by the Prospero, Monday morning, speaking to a reporter of the Telegram, stated that work on the developments is being carried on successfully. Orange Bay has a population of more than 500, including the workmen's families. Thirty dwelling houses have been erected and all the people are comfortably settled for the winter. During the past few months the work has been occupied in building a large office, warehouses and other buildings, all of which have been completed. Dr. Mooney, who is a great believer in education is making arrangements for the building of a school house, and he hopes that the Government will arrange to have one here. Teachers proceed there soon. The workmen with their families and families meant urgent supplies and comfortable quarters. Two schooners were chartered for the purpose, and there is sufficient stock on hand to last the inhabitants all winter. Several other cargoes are there or are on the way. Barrels of flour was one of the cargoes recently delivered. Two constructed stores have been built and are stocked with everything necessary. Dr. Mooney has given the workmen and their families every help and is satisfied that they are all happy and contented in their new homes. Upwards of 200 men are engaged logging in the woods. Eight large camps have been built, and are commodious and fitted up in every detail. The balance of the men are busy employed on construction work. Nine miles of a road have been completed from the Shore to Soufette, the scene of operations. A pier has been built at the water's edge, which is 198 feet in length, where ships of a very large size can berth to discharge or load their cargoes without any trouble. It is the Company's intention to extend the pier 1,000 feet along the waterfront, but the work will not be started before next spring. One of the big undertakings at present is the installation of the water works. A sufficient supply of water is easily available, and when completed, the tests give promise of registering pressure of 80 pounds to the square inch. The Western, on her last trip from Quebec, brought down a full load of machinery which is now being fitted up and placed in position. Two expert American engineers recently made a full survey of the various rivers. They are at present preparing estimates and making preliminary plans for the manufacturing plant. Sufficient machinery is on hand, the installation of which will be carried out under the supervision of Dr. Mooney. The Rossing Plant will be capable of turning out an average of 500 tons cords daily. He intends to carry out the logging operations on a most extensive scale during the winter months, and for that work an additional 400 men will be required. A wage from $40 to $45 per month is being offered, which is the highest figure ever paid here for such employment. Dr. Mooney has a radio set installed at Orange Bay, which has been giving very satisfactory results. Dr. Mooney is visiting the city for the purpose of chartering another vessel to take down a load of supplies, and expects to finalize all business matters by Thursday when he leaves by rail for the North by way of Lewisporte. As to how soon operations will be in full swing, he is unable to state. There is sufficient timber in the interior to carry on the project for many years to come, and will be a great boom, particularly to the people of the North.

Majestic Artists Please Majestic Patrons

Despite the inclemency of the weather, a large audience greeted Pauline Thurston and Fritz Bruch at the Majestic Theatre last night. The dancer was all at home in her Spanish dances whilst Fritz Bruch charmed his hearers with the Celso renditions particularly that of "Drink to me only with Thine Eyes." Genuine humor, realistic delineation of human nature and a pretty love story are revealed in "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," a Cosmopolitan production for Paramount. The picture is an adaptation of the stage success by George M. Cohan, and is in every way a screen comedy of unusual quality. In "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" Frank Boyzette, the director, makes secure his position as a master of characterization. The picture tells the story of the attempt of Wallingford and his partner, Daw, to defraud Battlesburg citizens by means of fake stock transactions. Two girls win their hearts and their schemes prove to their surprise to be extremely profitable for all concerned. They become honest men, win fine wives and sleepy Battlesburg is transformed into a hustling, up-to-date community.

Sam Hardy plays with skill the part of Wallingford and Norman Kerry is his partner. "Blackie" Daw, Doris Kenyon, Billie Dove and Diana Allen have important roles. The same bill will be repeated this afternoon and night. For Thursday, Friday and Saturday the Majestic management has another equally strong programme to please their patrons.

"THE CHRISTIAN"

Adapted from the famous Novel and Play by Sir Hall Caine. Directed by Maurice Tourneur. With Richard Dix, Mae Busch, Gareth Hughes, Phyllis Haver, Mahlon Hamilton. Critics say of "THE CHRISTIAN" that it is "the greatest story ever told in motion pictures." The story of a man who had to choose between his devotion to religion and an overpowering passion for London's famous stage beauty, is the most thrilling and dramatic love drama the world has ever known. It has been made into the biggest picture of the year.

At the Casino

"FOLLIES OF THE ORIENT"

The second performance of "Follies of the Orient," or "Scrambled Husbands" presented last night at the Casino by the Broadway Scandals, drew a fair audience, despite the very inclement weather. The show as a whole was the best yet produced; there was a remarkable improvement in the choruses of the ensemble, as well as that of the Octette. The specialties were well received and many encores were demanded. The oriental dance of the follies by Miss Harriet Bindle was spectacular. This young lady shows exceptional talent in the terpsichorean art and the round of applause which greeted her performance was well merited. The comedians: Sam Goldmas and Cal West, on every appearance, brought down the house. Their parts in the comedy as Zazy Cohen a trifter, and Hicks Hickey, true to his wife, created no end of fun. These comedians with Lou Bernis and Jack LeRoy, featured in telling tale stories. When they appeared with the chorus "Pol De Roi Dol," the audience asked for "more, more," and they had to give a dozen, or more, rhymes before quitting. The songs by Miss Richard Mack with the male impersonations by Miss Travis, were features which were very much enjoyed. The whole cast, in fact, acquitted themselves well and it would be well for any who have not seen this show to avail of the opportunity to

Sale of Work

T. A. LADIES' AUXILIARY.

The annual sale of work under the auspices of the T. A. Ladies' Auxiliary, was opened yesterday afternoon at four o'clock by Rev. Fr. Pippy, Spiritual Director. Despite the inclement weather of yesterday there was a large attendance and a brisk sale was carried on. The stalls, overlaid with the many good things contained therein, found ready patrons, and a goodly sum was realized. It was decided to continue the sale to-day and close to-morrow night with a dance.

"Hungry Hearts" tells the story of a Russian family which emigrated to America in search of opportunity, the justice and the hospitality which they believed it held out to the oppressed of other nations. Many of their illusions were shattered almost at once but before the dramatic story unfolded, has reached its conclusion the family has found that justice which had failed it in its native land.

In addition to this great screen story there is an attractive vocal programme by our popular vocalist, Dan Delmar who always pleases his hearers. Again we wish to call attention to the fact that another big Amateur Contest is in preparation for Friday night when all are assured of an enjoyable evening.

C. L. B. Cadets

Out of the darkness, rain and mist from the north, south, east and west, just like veterans, came all ranks of the 1st Nfld. Regiment C.L.B. Cadets last night to report for duty and to carry on the Brigade motto, "Fight the Good Fight." Last week no parades were held as the Armory was being hired to the Poultry Show officials and now the battle of the poultry yards is over and the C.L.B. resumes the even tenor of their way.

Lt.-Col. Walter F. Rendell, C.B.E., and Captain Stick, Adjutant, were extra busy studying their tactics for the future.

Portugal Cove, under Rev. Andrew Turk, B.A., as Chaplain, is organizing a detachment of the C.L.B. Lieut. Sheppard will be in charge of the Company's drill. He is a C.L.B. veteran and has years of experience in Field College and Wabana Companies. We wish them a full measure of success. Portugal Cove has always been noted for its loyalty to the Church and the King and with this spirit Portugal Cove Company will do itself credit.

Trinity East and Fort Rexton Company are enquiring for officers who may have used kit to spare. Should any officer have kit not in use will be pleased confer with Lieut. Mott, Quartermaster, for despatch of it to this Company.

Lamaline is progressing under Rev. H. Kirby, Second Lieut. Strickland has been appointed "War Correspondent" and will report monthly to Headquarters. Officers of this Company were recruiting at Point aux Gauls and had a big meeting. A Royal Reservist, one of the Empire's handy men has taken command of the recruits. Point aux Gauls detachment will be under the command of Lamaline Company. They have the offer of a splendid hall for drill and will also parade monthly at Lamaline Headquarters.

Major R. H. Tait, M.C., writes cheerfully from Boston. Regt. Serjt. Major Harold Rendell accidentally met Captain Joe Snow on Washington Street, Boston, so they both made a call on Major Tait to talk over Newfoundland news. Captain Snow is now left Boston and has accepted a position in Baltimore. Harold is still working with the Boston and Maine Railway. Major Tait's of-ice is at Room 56, No. 120 Milk St., Boston, where all Newfoundlanders visiting Boston are welcome. Kind regards to all the C.L.B.ites at home, who wish them every good luck.

Colonel Franklin, D.S.O., is now Imperial Trade Commissioner at Nairobi, Kenya Colony, British East Africa, and writes a cheery letter dated October 15th. The Colonel retains his old time energy although handicapped by war wounds. His special message to his old Newfoundland Regiment is "Tell the boys to stick fast to truth and straightness always." All ranks are glad to hear from one who in the Brigade's early days kept it from going down and out.

when disaster seemed inevitable. All ranks send him greetings for continued health and prosperity.

Lieut. Strickland of Lamaline reports that his Company attended Holy Communion on the 4th at 8 a.m. At 11 a.m. under Lieut. H. King the Company paraded to Church when the O. C. and Chaplain, Rev. H. Kirby preached a very instructive sermon. During the singing of the Brigade hymn the lads received their membership cards from the hands of the Chaplain—all determined to maintain the Brigade's motto "Fight the Good Fight." The Company has also the regulation C.L.B. Bible Class organized for lads over 16 years. Lamaline officers Rev. H. Kirby, Lieut. H. King and A. Strickland are grateful to all Church folk for many acts of courtesy and help to introduce the C.L.B. in their parish.

Our old friend Will Lewis is now Chief Clerk in the Engineering Department at Wembley Park—British Empire Exhibition grounds—and has charge of India, Burma, Palestine, Cyprus and Malta buildings.

Lieut. R. G. Ash reports on behalf of the At Home committee that he hopes to finalize his account in a few days. A total net profit of nearly eighty dollars is being handed over to Paymaster Lewis as the result. We congratulate Lieut. Ash on the financial results of the "At Home" held recently at the Grenfell Institute.

The annual anniversary tea for the lads will be given them on to-morrow, Thursday evening in the Synod Hall at 7.30 p.m. The Battalion parades at 7 p.m. and will march to the Synod Hall. Some 300 lads will have tea. A splendid concert programme has been prepared. Captain George House is Chairman of the Committee and has charge of the arrangements. About thirty ladies will provide tables. The menu will be standardized sandwiches, buns and cake. The ladies will provide table cloths, cake plates, tea pots. The committee provides cups and saucers, tea, sugar, milk and will call for the ladies' baskets between three and five p.m. Thursday. Tea starts at 7.30 sharp. All ranks will take notice and govern themselves accordingly.

The following lads have been granted five years long service medals for good conduct. Sergeants

Keats, Barrett, Lance Corporal Thomas, Ptes. Keats, R. Morgan, and P. Barrett. Congratulations.

Headquarters orders post also thirteen recruits to Bay Roberts Company, numbers 7416 to 7423. Captain Hayward is Orderly Officer and Lieut. R. G. Ash will take this duty next week. Rev. G. O. Lightbourn is duty Chaplain for week ending December 11th. Acting Sergt. H. Adams has been promoted Sergeant with effect from July 1st. Private G. Bright has also been mentioned in orders as having been granted his five year's service medal for good conduct. Congratulations.

The Battalion was dismissed last night at 9.40 o'clock so every lad should have been home by ten o'clock. After parade the Officer Commanding had an Officers' Council to discuss the issue of medals and which will mean great improvement and progress.

The buyers admit that they pay the extra price for Newfoundland cod oil, recognizing it is worth a little more for the inferior mixture of oil from the livers of haddock, and pollock that make up the available on the Nova Scotian and England coasts. There is a sign of let up in the large demand from European countries for this goods, and necessarily while this continues, cheaper pork will be an impossibility. Like boneless beef, fat back pork is now almost impossible to purchase, and the offering continues to be very limited and the market remains very firm at present. The figures quoted here this week were: fat back, $31.50; S. C. Clear and Family Back, the same; Bacon Pork, $28.00; Ham Butt, $29.50; Spare Ribs $22.50. Shipments received for this week amounted to 650 barrels by the Rosalind from New York.

They have been sold so long with Norwegian Oil and their competitors in the trade are still using it so that it is difficult to get any advance in price, although the recognition of the extra good quality of the Newfoundland Oil. The very fact of the New England tanners paying an extra price for common oil manufactured in Newfoundland should be positive proof that they recognize its excellent quality, and we predict that it won't be long before the American manufacturing chemists will be ready to pay a higher price for our finest cod liver oil than they do for so-called Pure Oil.

is especially so with boneless, which dealers now fear they will be unable to stock at all after another few weeks. Not very much can even now be secured for the local market, except to fill contracts. It is hoped to obtain, during mid-winter, enough to meet market demands. American shippers are still sending large consignments of cattle to Europe, the local market is increasing in demand, and it is within range of possibilities that a famine in pickled meats will ensue later. The quotations, wholesale in the local market are: Hotel, $27.50; Bos Flank, $26.50; and Family Special, $22.50. S. S. In the meantime considerable shipments are being received from other parts of the Dominion and the demand for this is steady. Local hay in goodly quantities has been sold during the week at $35. Canadian hay is quoted here at $35.50. The imports for the week included 160 sacks by the Sachem, 10,020 by the Fletown, and 3,003 bales of hay by the same ship.

News- paper Competition One Hundred Years Ago
(By Mail to Canadian Press.)
LONDON.—In its columns, "A Hundred Years Ago," the Observer reprints from its files the following account of an episode in the war that began between the well-established Times and the upstart Morning Chronicle:—
During the whole of last week the attention of the public has been occupied by a proceeding in which the proprietors of the Morning Chronicle and the Times and Mr. Dowling, a gentleman connected with the literary establishment of the former, are concerned. To render the whole position in which the respective parties stand, "The Times" newspaper, it may be recollected, has been distinguished for many years for its exertions to obtain early intelligence, and having no competitor in the field, disposed to contest its claim to superiority in that respect, it has assumed to itself the title of "the Leading Journal." It seemed, in faith, to have adopted a notion that no other paper had a right to make similar exertions. A powerful rival at length arose to check its arrogance; the "Morning Chronicle" changed proprietors, and the gentlemen in whose hands it now is soon showed to its readers not only that he was able to equal the noted proprietors of "the Times" in their efforts but far to outstrip them in every department of the management. Day after day the columns of the Morning Chronicle teemed with exclusive intelligence from all parts of the world, which "The Times" had the mortification of being obliged to adopt in their following publications. This excited in the minds of the proprietors of the latter journal a feeling of rancour, which they could scarcely suppress, and which in the end led to the extraordinary step which we are about to describe.
Among other efforts made by the "Morning Chronicle" in the attainment of exclusive domestic intelligence was that of sending a part of its establishment, including Mr. Dowling, to report the proceedings at the dinner given by the citizens of Glasgow to Henry Brougham, Esq. By extraordinary and unprecedented exertions the results of these labors appeared in the "Morning Chronicle" to the extent of nine columns on the Monday succeeding the Thursday on which the dinner took place.
The dinner to Mr. Brougham took place on Thursday, September 11; the "Glasgow Chronicle" was published on the 13th at two o'clock in the day. Mr. Dowling and his companions were desirous of proceeding direct to London by the Glasgow mail on the Friday evening, which would have enabled him to arrive on the Sunday night in time for the Monday's publication, but they were informed at the Mail office that their places could only be secured to Carlisle, at which place other persons might be booked for the remainder of the journey. In this state of things it was determined to start on the Friday morning for Carlisle, which they would reach the same night, and at once secure the places in the mail from thence to London for the next morning. Previous to their quitting Glasgow, however, Mr. Dowling ordered and paid for two of the "Glasgow Chronicles" containing an account of the dinner, to be sent to him in a parcel by the mail to Carlisle.
Mr. Dowling and his companions arrived at Carlisle at eleven o'clock that night, and knocking up the bookkeeper, secured the places they wanted. They sat up the remainder of the night transcribing their report, and in the morning, hearing that the Glasgow mail had arrived, Mr. Dowling, folding up his transcript in a

Many Women Make This Mistake—

IN THE EVENING, after the dishes are washed, many women look at their hands and wonder why they are so red. They do not realize that they are making a serious mistake every day.

They are using the wrong kind of household soap—a soap which irritates and roughens the delicate skin.

Because you, too, are interested in keeping your hands soft and smooth, these facts will interest you:

To make the purest soap, a manufacturer must use the best materials; he must have experience in soap-making, and he must have a reputation for making honest soap.

These three elements: Highest quality in materials, almost a century of experience, and an unexcelled reputation for integrity are back of every bar of Kirkman's Soap.

REMEMBER that Kirkman's Soap is absolutely free from all adulteration. There is no lye in it to irritate your hands. It contains not one particle of starch, talcum powder or water glass—which have no cleansing value. It is the "honest" soap.

Important
For the sake of your delicate hands, remember these facts in this advertisement: When you say "Kirkman's" to your grocer, you are absolutely certain of getting the best household and laundry soap possible at any price.

Without Question or Argument
Kirkman's Soap is sold to you with the distinct understanding that it satisfies YOU in every way. Your grocer will return your money without question or argument, if you are not pleased with results. You alone are the judge.
