

MEMBERS OF SUPREME COURT DO NOT WANT MORE JUDGES

Correspondence Between Sir James Whitney and Judges Shows That the Bench Was Unanimously Opposed to the Appointment of Three Judges on the Ground That Work Was Decreasing.

Sir James Whitney may have been quite right when he appointed three additional judges to the supreme court of judicature last year, but it has developed that he did so against the wishes of the judges who were then and had been for years at Osgoode Hall.

Under the Judicature Act, which was passed by the legislature on March 22, last year, three judges for the high court bench—Mr. Justice Lennox, Mr. Justice Leitch and Mr. Justice Meredith—were appointed. When an amendment calling for the repeal of the act was introduced by Mr. Rowell, leader of the opposition, was voted down, Sir James Whitney said that "a unanimous request was made by the high court judges for an increase of their members." He said that nothing to the contrary had been received by the government since then or since Oct. 23, 1909.

Letters Brought Down. N. W. Rowell last year asked an order of the house for the return of all correspondence between Sir James Whitney and members of the bench of the supreme court of judicature touching upon the appointment of three more judges.

The return has just come down, and in it are a number of interesting letters which were exchanged between the premier and the judges, showing that Sir James did not coincide with the views of the members of the bench in regard to the matter.

On October 23, 1909, a letter was sent to Hon. J. J. Foy, attorney-general, by the late Sir Chas. Mackenzie, who was then president of the supreme court of judicature, transmitting the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

1. That it is the opinion of the judges that in the public interest and for the due and proper despatch of business, there is urgent need of an increase in the number of judges of the supreme court of judicature.
 2. That the judges recommend that provision be made for the appointment of three additional judges.
 3. That the president communicate these resolutions to the attorney-general of Ontario.
- The letter added that it had been apparent for some time that the work of the court could not efficiently, satisfactorily and speedily be disposed of without additional judges.
- Following out the request of the late Sir Charles Mackenzie a bill was drafted and submitted to Sir Allan Aylesworth with the request that the new judges, two or three in number, be looked after in the estimates of 1910. Sir Allan wrote to Mr. Foy, saying: "The fact that you have introduced legislation on the subject indicates, of course, that you concur in the views expressed by the chief justice, and in these circumstances it seems a bold thing for anyone to differ, yet I must admit that I hesitate, and cannot rid myself of the feeling that the present staff of superior court judges in the province ought to be equal to the amount of work there is at the present time." Sir Allan said that he had thought the recent increase in the jurisdiction of the county courts would have relieved the work of the high court judges. He promised the bill careful consideration, however. Nothing more was done until last year, when Sir James Whitney introduced his bill to the legislature, aiming at an increase of the judges.

Changed Opinions. Sir Charles Mackenzie wrote to Hon. J. J. Foy, in reply to a letter for information, stating that the judges had changed their former opinion, or in other words, they did not think the amount of work necessitated an increase of judges. "Great changes in conditions have occurred since the recommendation of Oct. 25," he said.

Not Needed. On March 23, the day after the legislature was passed, seven judges—Byrd, Maclean, Magee, Britton, Latchford, Sutherland and Kelly—sent a resolution to Sir James Whitney, stating that there was no need for additional judges. Two days later Sir Glenholme Falconbridge, Sir William Mulock, and Mr. Justice Teetzel and Mr. Justice Riddell, who had not attended the meeting of the other seven judges, sent their concurrence in the premier's letter to the attorney-general.

Why They Changed Minds. In a letter of March 27 Mr. Justice Middleton sent a letter to the premier explaining why the judges had changed their minds since October, 1909. He said that the decrease of work did not necessitate an increase in judges, or words to that effect. In 1909 a number of cases heard was 1142 and in 1911 the number was 686, showing that the then number of supreme court judges were being relieved of considerable work by the enlarged jurisdiction of the county court judges.

Sir Justice Britton, Mr. Justice Sutherland, Sir John Boyd and Mr. Justice Riddell all communicated with the premier and explained why they had changed their view on the subject. Sir James in replying to the receipt of the resolution said that he had received "without any covering letter a memorandum signed by yourselves." "Altho there was nothing of importance from whom it came, I think it is my duty to notify you as one of the signatories that I received it."

Mr. Justice Britton replied that he was not aware of how the memorandum was sent, but "I hasten to assure you that not the slightest discourtesy was intended, and to express my regret that the memorandum was sent without a covering letter."

Serious Results. Mr. Justice Sutherland said by letter to the premier that since his appointment the matter of appointing more judges had been the subject of considerable discussion among the judges, "and I have gradually formed the opinion that most of them have meantime changed their view about the matter, and were also apprehensive that if the second part of the Law Reform Act were proclaimed and put in force, it would lead to serious results prejudicial to the interests of the public and the administration of justice. I also understood in a general way that the views of the judges had been communicated to members of the government prior to the discussion in the house."

Sir John Boyd said: "I was not present at the meeting of the judges in October, 1909, who approved of an increase on the bench. I was not aware of what they had done till quite recently, when their opinions had been read in the papers that you were under the belief that their concurrence was still given to the action of your government. I thought it necessary to Sir Glenholme Falconbridge replied in terms, with respect to the statement of the premier that Sir Glenholme had remarked that additional judges were required:

"I am in receipt of your favor of 28th instant, on my return from Barrie assizes. I do not recall any statement of mine that I desired the appointment of the additional judges, and should be glad to be reminded that no additional judges were required."

A Little Reminder. Sir Glenholme followed up with another letter two days later, on March 30, to this effect: "As you have not found time to answer my letter of 28th instant, wherein I invited you to advise me, I stated that I desired the appointment of the additional judges. I now venture to recall to you the only recent occasion on which we ever exchanged a word on the subject. It was at a dinner at Government House on the 7th ult. I went over and sat down beside you for a few minutes. 'You said, 'Well, you're going to get my additional judges.' 'I said, 'That's all very well if it does not involve the proclamation of part 1 of the act.' 'My tone and manner in saying this clearly convey the impression that we were not giving me agreeable information. I may add that the attorney-general has for some weeks known by conversation with me what the general opinion is at Osgoode Hall on the subject.'"

Quite Correct. Sir James replied April 1: "I have received your letter of 30th March. You are quite correct in your assumption that I had not found time to answer your letter of the 28th ult. My recollection of what took place at Government House is not exactly the same as yours, but as far as I do not see that it makes much difference. I did not say to you, 'Well, you are going to get my additional judges,' but 'I said, 'What about your additional judges?' or 'Do you want your additional judges?' I am not certain of my exact phraseology, but I certainly did not tell you that you were going to get the additional judges. Your reply was something like this: 'The additional judges are all right or will be all right, but we do not want your act.'"

Your tone and manner, as far as my recollection serves me, was quite as pleasant and cheerful as it always is, as far as my knowledge goes."

Ominous Date. To the above Sir Glenholme replied very briefly: "I am obliged to your letter of the first instant (ominous date), and for the kindly spirit in which it is written."

Mr. Justice Riddell wrote a letter to Sir James, which said, in part: "It is no part of my duty to interfere, however indirectly, with any policy of the government, and I venture to hope that my communication in respect to direction or any want of the prime minister and as a man, I should like to add and friend, if I may."

Sir James replied that he appreciates to the full extent what Mr. Justice Riddell said, and that he certainly hoped "you will continue to add close of your letter."

Despite the fact, however, that the legislation were not desired—Sir James Whitney made the appointments.

FITTING CLIMAX TO GRAND MUSIC

"Last and best" was the verdict when the curtain fell at the close of the fourth act of "Trovatore," given by the Montreal Grand Opera Company at the Alexandra on Saturday night. Where almost all had come up to expectation, and many and much had far surpassed it, there is perhaps a certain rashness in placing the superlative upon any one night's performance, but there is no doubt that the enthusiasm of the audience while listening to the last of the series of operas presented, showed the fullest delight conceivable. Possibly the fact that impressions fade with time, may have had something to do with the judgment, or it might be that "Trovatore" was a real friend to many—older than several others in the three weeks' program—whatever the cause, the effect of the final interpretation of the great master of music, by the organization, which has certainly placed among the first musical aggregations on the continent, was such as to leave the audience with a great artistic enjoyment, and was a fitting climax to a grand festival provided by a band of conscientious and in every instance capable musicians. The plot of the opera may be said to have at least three leading characters, four including the count. It almost seems a pity that both opera and drama only allow, as a general thing, one "leading man" and one "leading lady." In "Trovatore" Azucena the gypsy, has a part as difficult and perhaps as important as the leading role. On Saturday night Mme. Ferrabini sang the part of Leonora with the highest appreciation of its requirements, and the precision in which she sings with and to her lover, was so realistic that the audience with time, may have to the highest pitch, ending at the close in a great burst of applause, the artist appearing together in response to the outburst of Mme. Ferrabini is an artist thru and thru. Deserving of the highest praise, too, was the role of Azucena, as sung by Mme. Claessens, who with infinite art threw all the passion of the injured gypsy into voice, countenance and bearing, making the difficult character admirably thorough. As troubadour and lover Sig. Zeni was admirable. His voice has a peculiarly youthful quality, making it reasonable and far reaching, and the tenderness of his "Madre a Dios" was soulful in the extreme. His sustaining powers, too, are exceptional, and the glorious solo note to the clash of sword falling in scabbard, gained him a magnificent outburst from his audience. Montella as the Count di Luna was all that one would wish, and Cervi, Strossio and Mme. Choseul were all just what their parts demanded. The soldiers' and avvil choruses were as usual popular and pleasing and in the prison scene especially the instruments did some striking and beautiful orchestration.

Gourlay Efficiency

Q The Gourlay Piano is 100% efficient. The Gourlay Piano yields 100% in tonal resonance.

Q Its action is the acme of responsiveness. It approaches the ideal in beauty—richness—and loveliness of tone.

Q The methods and materials of which the Gourlay is made—the skillful and painstaking methods of manufacture—create a sum total of efficiency that admits of no criticism.

Q When you decide to buy a piano—examine the Gourlay. You will find it has won its place among the world's greatest pianos by sheer virtue of principle, material and workmanship.

Q It has gained the support of recognized authorities on tonal characteristics, and has unqualifiedly substantiated our claims to excellence in its daily use in thousands of Canadian homes.

Q The purchase of a piano involves a comparatively large expenditure. Therefore its selection demands serious consideration. Any "inefficient" piano—no matter how cheap—is an ill-advised investment.

Q Give the selection of your piano great thought. Be sure the piano you purchase is worth the money you pay for it—musically and intrinsically. If you do this—your final choice will be a Gourlay.

BUSINESS

By SEYMOUR EATON

What Mr. Eaton says of this Book:

"A few years ago, when I was Director of the Department of Commerce of Drexel Institute, Philadelphia, I wrote several business text-books which met with immediate favor and sold into the hundreds of thousands. These books are somewhat out of date today. My publishers prevailed upon me to write an entirely new business book adapted to the young men and young women of today. This I have done, and to give the book immediate educational value among the people who actually need its help, one newspaper in each large city has been selected to make the distribution of the entire first edition. The book is not large. It is not intended that it should be. There are one hundred lessons and every lesson is short, and to the point. Not one waste word. Every lesson is self-instructive. The young man or the young woman who can read and write and do the simple rules of arithmetic, should be able to get the fullest possible benefit from these lessons. The course in double entry book-keeping is complete in twenty lessons, and I am free to say that I know of no text-book upon book-keeping, no matter what the cost, that gives the principles of double entry in a way so easily learned by the student working alone. I have tried to make a book for everybody, but more particularly for the young men and young women who are ambitious to improve their positions."

This new business hand-book is a complete

Where Lettuce, Radishes, Strawberries and Summer Vegetables Are Grown in Mid-Winter

Producing Vegetables Under Glass Has Made a Fortune for J. D. Nairn

Crops of Summer Garden Truck in Rotation Are Grown All Winter and Sold at High Prices—Land is Plowed as in Open—Automatic Heating and Watering Systems.

Unique in the history of market gardening in Canada is the plant which is operated by J. D. Nairn of Hamilton, by which he is able to supply the trade with the smaller vegetables all the year around.

The plant consists of one acre of ground, at Bartonville, covered with 26,000 feet of glass, built on the plan of a conservatory. The earth is not contained in boxes, as in the average hot-house, but lies in its natural state, and is plowed and cultivated in the same manner as an open field. From this ground Mr. Nairn takes three crops of lettuce, radishes, parsley and other small vegetables, and one crop of tomatoes every winter. In the coldest weather there is not the slightest possibility of the vegetables freezing, as the temperature of the indoor farm is kept at summer heat at all times. On a bright day, when the sun's rays are bright, the place is kept warm by natural heat radiated thru the glass canopy; but on days when the sun is hidden from view the heat is supplied by steam, which circulates thru several rows of pipes, running at regular intervals between the beds.

TWO TONS OF COAL A DAY.

To maintain a constant temperature of 80 degrees, it is necessary to burn one ton of coal every 12 hours in a large boiler furnace, which is situated just outside the house itself. The conservatory is equipped with an irrigation system, consisting of overhead lines of sieve-like pipes, extending the full length of the beds. The entire acre of ground can be watered in a very few minutes by simply turning on a tap in the boiler-room. The water, which is drawn from a stream about 100 yards away, is forced thru all the pipes at the same time, and in a few minutes the beds are as satisfactorily watered as they could be by the use of hose, which would take a great deal more time. The power necessary to draw the water from the ditch is supplied by an electric motor.

A NEW INVENTION.

Mr. Nairn has invented a very simple affair which lets him know when the boiler is in need of water. Just inside of the door of the greenhouse proper there is a well which is connected with the boiler. In this well there is a large float, to which is fastened a long iron rod. When the water falls the float falls with it, and vice versa. When the water in the boiler is low, that in the well is high, and by the time the water in the boiler has reached the danger point, that in the well is so high that the iron rod is touching an electric wire above, making a connection and ringing a large bell that can be heard at all parts of the farm.

As it is necessary for a man to look after the plant during the night, it is equipped with brilliant electric lights; the power for which is taken from the Cataract transformer, a short distance away.

ALL KINDS OF VEGETABLES.

For about eleven months of every year this plant is continually in working order, yielding crop after crop of vegetables. During the fall, winter and early spring, Mr. Nairn specializes in lettuce, radishes, parsley and the smaller vegetables. In the spring he transplants his tomatoes and cucumbers, which in their infancy are nursed in pots in a raised bed, and about May 24 he reaps his first crop of these vegetables. He is, therefore, able to compete successfully with the California dealers, whose products are shipped to this country while still green, to ripen in the cellars of the dealers here. The flavor of these vegetables is far inferior to that of those grown by Mr. Nairn, owing to the fact that his vegetables are ripe before they are picked, and enjoy the benefits of the sun's rays in the latter stages of their growth.

GIVES THE LAND A REST.

One might think that this constant strain upon the soil would gradually weaken it and lower its productive ability. This, however, is not the case, as one crop of tomatoes and cucumbers restores to the soil all of the vitality which it has lost in the production of the earlier vegetables. During the month of August the soil is thickly covered with manure, which also adds to its fertility. In early September the ground is plowed up and the first crop of the next season is planted.

A great deal of credit is due Mr. Nairn for taking the first step in this, a hitherto unexplored, field of market gardening in Canada. He had been in the business for a few years when he conceived the idea that such a plant as he is now operating would prove a success. Accordingly, in 1910, he consulted several Canadian and American capitalists, in an effort to obtain their co-operation in the execution of his scheme. He presented his proposition to many of them, but it was invariably

PLOWING UNDER GLASS

SARNIA, March 2.—(Special.)—Grand Trunk express No. 3, west-bound, crashed into the rear of a freight today at noon, a few miles east of here at Wanstead, and as a result much damage was done, but no loss of life resulted.

The freight, which was to take the siding, did not clear the line before the flyer arrived. The heavy mogul plowed thru the freight cars, while several passenger coaches left the rails and landed against a stock train on the next track. No one was injured, while the loss to rolling stock will amount to several thousands of dollars.

An auxiliary from here cleared up the track and brought the train to Sarnia.

turned down as impracticable. The average young man of 23 years would have been discouraged by this adverse criticism, but not so this young man. He firmly believed in the practicability of his scheme, and he scraped together enough money to put the thing thru. This was a big thing for one so young, and he knew that the outcome of his venture would either make or break him. But still he did not flinch; he went into the thing on his nerve, and he won. The success of the scheme has far exceeded his fondest hopes and expectations. Not only has he been able to meet the expense connected with the innovation in its early stages, but he has added all the modern conveniences for the production and marketing of his vegetables, among other things a fine delivery automobile.

PICKING RADISHES IN MARCH

For these vegetables Mr. Nairn receives high prices, because he produces them all winter under glass.

THE GERMANY OF TODAY

Comprehensive Lecture Delivered at Trinity College on Saturday Afternoon by Platon Reich, Ph.D., Was Considered the Best of the Series.

The fourth of the series of Lenten lectures was delivered at Trinity College on Saturday afternoon by Mr. Platon Reich, Ph.D. The speaker was introduced by Hon. Justice Hodgins, a graduate of the college. Some phases of modern Germany were treated during the comprehensive address on "The Germany of Today," which was one of the most comprehensive of the course. Education was treated under the headings, what it has done, is doing and will do for Germany. A second division told of the status of the church, and a third dealt with the commercial, industrial and armed forces of the empire. "Lord Haldane," said Mr. Reich, in his book, "Germany of the 19th Century," says: "It is want of knowledge of each other that makes the great nations suspicious." A number of amusing stories from a lately written book on travels in Germany were read to illustrate how little of what is written in books can be relied upon. One quotation was: "I have heard it said that bands were introduced into restaurants—in Germany—to drown the sounds of the Germans eating." Another selection by the same author was: "I cannot conceive a German being happy in heaven without some of the terrible tobacco and the beer which makes their waist like barrels."

Some Ignorance.
The lecturer thought these stories illustrate the ignorance of many people who go to a foreign country for a few days or weeks and then think they know it all. Love of truth consists in the endeavor to find out good every where and appreciate it.

In the educational system of Germany, quality has always been preferred to quantity, and in the matter of free education, the German Empire is in advance of other nations, for before 1718 it possessed free education for country and town. The system divides its schools into the elementary, secondary and universities. All teachers are civil servants and receive pensions. Elementary teachers take a six years' course, secondary teachers must have university training. All educational institutions are under control of the state. There are over 60,000 free elementary schools, with 10,000,000 pupils. Mechanical learning from books is largely discarded. Natural history is conducted in the open air. From six to fourteen is the primary school age; thirty-two hours a week are given to the school, four hours given to religious instruction. Separate classes for boys and girls receive instructions on the mysteries of life, the parents being also present. There are 160,000 teachers, only 29,000 being women. The salaries are from $200 to $350 a year. There are also middle, classical and semi-classical schools.

Long School Hours.
School hours have reach 11 hours a day. The system has advantages and disadvantages, one of the latter being that 75 per cent. are short-sighted, another the singular mania for suicide, accounted for in part by the premature precocity of the German youth.

In the 26 universities of the empire there is no fixed course of study, no compulsion to attend lectures, no control, everyone is absolutely his own master. The most prominent scientists in every branch are secured for the universities, and by the nature of things students are obliged to specialize. Professors are exchanged by the institutions, cramming is scarcely known. The one exception to liberty is in the matter of politics. Students are in a manner under guard-ship of state, and are considered too immature to be judges on this important matter. Hence the immaturity in politics of the German student. The universities have 66,000 students, including 5000 ladies. Theatres are one of the most potent influences in Germany. Shakespeare is seen on the boards more frequently than in England. Music is another great power, and there are 30,000 books published annually. Hence the people must read.

There are three state churches in Germany, the Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish. Two-thirds of the population are Protestant. Clergy men are appointed by the state, they being semi-officials. All are entitled to pensions. The Protestant church is losing ground today, said Mr. Reich. In three years 17,000 secessions were handed in, in Berlin alone. Reasons for this the lecturer thought were that the clergy were inclined to become too academic and lacking in sympathy. The clergy scarcely ever visit. Socialists charge them with being state officials first, teachers of Christianity after. Ever child when fourteen years of age is allowed by the state to choose his own religion.

Referring to the Roman Catholic Church the lecturer said you will be surprised at its power. The storm of 1873-1891 ended with Bismarck's defeat and the triumph of the church. The increase in forty years was from twelve to seventy-three millions. Religious feeling here is far from being on the wane. Reasons for this are that the Catholic church has unity,

THREE SECRETS OF ALL SUCCESS

Bishop Sweeny Says They Are Service, Love and Esteem.

PREACHED AT ST. LUKE'S

Rev. G. F. Doherty Will Assume Charge on Easter Sunday.

"Reciprocal and mutual interests, one with another, reciprocal and mutual prayer, one for the other, and reciprocal and mutual service by love and esteem, are the three secrets of parochial success," declared the Right Rev. James F. Sweeny, Bishop of Toronto, to the congregation of St. Luke's Church last night. His lordship preached the evening sermon, and at the conclusion made special reference to the appointment of the new rector, Rev. G. F. Doherty, who will assume charge of the parish on Easter Sunday.

"I predict that the more you know him the better you will love him," said his lordship, referring to Rev. Mr. Doherty's coming. "The more you know him the more you will respect him, and the more you will discover the sweetness of his disposition, the honesty of his purpose and the true nobility of his life. He comes not as a stranger. He has officiated as assistant curate in St. Mark's, Parkdale, before he went to London. From an exalted position in the cathedral, in the Diocese of Huron, he comes to assume the rectorship here. I can assure you that when he officiates at this altar and he goes out of this building into the homes of the parishioners of this parish you will find abundant proof that he will reciprocate by the interest he takes in you."

If He is Spared.
"If I am spared to be present at a service commemorating a decade of his service among you, and you have observed toward him the three secrets of parochial success I have laid down for you, then you will find that I am right in the secrets of parochial success."

His lordship preached from the text: "For that He in Himself hath suffered being tempted. He is able to succor them that are tempted." Hebrews, 2 ch. 18 ver. By His sacrifice Jesus had shown us how to use the Spirit, by means of which doubts, sophistry and falsehood are banished.

Plight of Humanity.
A view of this had been given by a Chinese to the Christians. He depicted humanity as a man fallen into a deep, miry hole and calling out for help and deliverance. Confucius approaches and sees humanity struggling. Confucius is sorry to see humanity in such a plight, and gives the spirit, by means of which doubts, sophistry and falsehood are banished. He offers to help if humanity will go on its third or one-half way down. That is Buddhism. By and by a stranger comes to the spot and looks down. He sees the plight of humanity, and, laying aside his royal garment, lowers himself, and with his own right arm grasps mankind, lifts him out and cleanses him. That is Christianity. "God will not suffer you temptation that you cannot resist," said his lordship. "We are all able to resist temptation. Temptation is not sin, but sliding away to temptation is sin."

The priest is the friend of the people, his training is even more severe than that of the Protestant clergy, and the state does not interfere with the discipline of the hierarchy. The Catholic clergy get only half of that received by those of the Protestant Church, but the bishops refused an increase from the state, saying it would lead to the loss of the simple life for the priests. The Jewish church has the same rights as others with regard to levying taxes.

Few nations have made such commercial progress as Germany, and the country has greatly benefited by protection. Mr. Reich also spoke of the army, all mentally, physically and morally fit, made to enter. The navy owes its rise to the present emperor, and it is to assist the commercial and economic forces that it exists.

In thanking the speaker Justice Hodgins said he thought an effort should be made to get the manuscript of the lecture and have at least part of it preserved in more permanent form.

MONDAY MORNING, MARCH 3, 1913

TAX REFORM AND THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

Mr. R. Home Smith has no bones about the tax reform question at the meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade at London. He flatly declared it to be a political issue.

Mr. Home Smith naturally opposes tax reform. The more vacant acres anyone has under his control the less favorably he is impressed with a proposal to make the land bear the burden of taxation.

Perhaps Mr. Home Smith will take note of Mr. Home Smith's two suggestions, along with the demand for reform made by the Associated Boards which Mr. Home Smith, on political grounds, opposed.

ENTRANCE OF RADIALS.

For some years the question of the right of the radial railway lines to use the city lines has been under discussion. The peculiarity of the situation lay in the fact that with virtual command of the city, the city company refused to allow its allied companies any running rights on terms that the city could agree to.

Corporation Counsel Geary, according to The News, has been giving a great deal of attention to this matter for some time past and proposes an amendment to the Railway Act, based on that brought forward by Mr. W. K. McNair, M.L.A., which provided that where two or more electric street railway systems, owned or operated by different corporations, be contiguous to one another, it shall be their duty to afford each other reasonable facilities for the interchange of traffic, the railway board to be the arbiter where there is disagreement.

The board may, on the application of one of the corporations owning or operating the street railway systems lying contiguous to one another, or on the application of any other corporation, order that each or either of the said street railway systems should be operated over the other street railway systems so lying contiguous thereto.

over the other street railway system," the octopus corporation might be able to do as it pleased about running its cars over city lines, if it found a chairman as complacent as Chairman Lettich was about double-tracking Yonge street.

There ought to be proper safeguards to preserve the city's rights, nor should it be lost sight of that the proper entrance for the radial lines is over a tube railway. We doubt very much whether running rights and transfer of traffic should be elaborated into the power to "operate" over the city lines. This might benefit the city, but we venture to think it would benefit the corporations tenfold.

GET AN EASTERN ENTRANCE

Mr. J. G. Kent has been re-elected president of the Canadian National Exhibition Association, and the success of last year's "Fair" entirely justifies the confidence carried in the compliment. If Mr. Kent can secure an eastern entrance to the Exhibition grounds this year, it will signalize his presidency as almost nothing else could. The record of attendance has reached its limit with the present means of transportation. People will not always undertake to face the discomfort and positive risks of the mighty struggle for cars, and until visitors can be assured of reasonable relief from the scorching at the cars, after the fireworks, the attendance is not likely largely to increase.

ANGLO-GERMAN INTERESTS.

Perusal of the official reports of the speeches made by Herr von Jagow in the reichstag, and by Admiral von Tirpitz in the budget committee, regarding the relations between the United Kingdom and the German Empire, adds to the satisfaction caused by the first published summaries. The former took the opportunity to identify himself with the declaration made by his predecessor to the effect that during the Balkan crisis these relations had been particularly confidential.

Admiral von Tirpitz in repudiating with some apparent warmth the reproach that his previous remarks showed aversion from England, said that he would be the first to greet an understanding with joy. He then expressed the opinion that Mr. Winston Churchill's proportion of 1.6 to 1 in battleships would be acceptable and that this showed no intention on the part of Germany to step into rivalry with England. Both speakers deprecated hasty action in the way of endeavoring to reach a distinct agreement on the subject of naval armaments, but the whole tendency of their observations was to bring into relief the gradual removal of the misunderstandings that have created so much distrust and suspicion in the two countries.

THE TWENTY-EIGHTH PRESIDENT.

Tomorrow Mr. Woodrow Wilson will be formally inaugurated and enter upon his term of office as twenty-eighth president of the United States. His cabinet will then be made public, and notwithstanding the various forecasts that have been made, its composition remains matter of conjecture only. That Mr. William J. Bryan will be found in the chair of secretary of state seems, however, to be generally anticipated and the prospect is not welcomed by the conservative section of the Democratic party, to whom the "peace one" remains anathema.

The new president, however, is nothing if not courageous, and unless all indications are believed he intends to be master of his presidential soul whoever may be of his advisers. But he needs an interpreter to the people, and in that capacity Mr. Bryan can be of infinite service. For he has the ear of the people of the United States, and they are today soundly progressive in temper.

The great voice of America does not come from the seats of learning. It comes in a murmur from the hills and woods and farms and factories and the mills, rolling and gaining volume until it comes to us from the homes of common men. Do these murmurs echo in the corridors of the universities? We have not heard them. The universities would make men forget their common origins, forget their universal sympathies and join a class—and no class can ever serve America. I have dedicated every power there is within me to bring

BRITAIN RENEWS ARBITRATION DEMAND

Continued From Page 1. contained in your despatch of the seventeenth ultimo to the United States charge d'affaires at London regarding the difference of opinion that has arisen between our two governments as to the interpretation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, but they desire me in the meantime to offer the following observations with regard to the argument that no case has yet arisen calling for any submission to arbitration of the points in difference between His Majesty's Government and the United States on the interpretation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, because no actual injury has as yet resulted to any British interest and all that has been done so far has been to pass an act of congress under which action held by His Majesty's government to be prejudicial to British interest might be taken.

From Knox's View. "From our point of view, the government feel bound to insist on their right to the canal, and that the doctrine that international law does not support a right of transit through a canal of a nation which holds the right, and which has not been injured by the act of another nation, is a doctrine which is not only in itself wrong, but which is also in itself inconsistent with the principle of international law. It is a principle which is not only in itself wrong, but which is also in itself inconsistent with the principle of international law. It is a principle which is not only in itself wrong, but which is also in itself inconsistent with the principle of international law.

"PANKHURST PATER."

The Orilla Packet asks who or where is Pankhurst Pater? The answer to that is the whole story of the suffrage movement. Pankhurst Pater died many and many a year ago, when Sylvia and her sister were little girls, and Pankhurst Mater had to go out and hustle for a living for them. She knows by experience the disabilities that attend and the difficulties that beset a widow with children, but with no vote to help remedy the laws that are made by prosperous people for the prosperous people of the male sex.

West Middlesex is the last district to apply for hydro-electric power. A convention held at Mount Brydges on Feb. 28 endorsed the hydro-radial railway proposals, and asked for 750 horse-power for distribution among the farmers of the district.

The Philosopher of Folly

By Sherwood Hart. MILITANTICS. From Britain's shores come shouts and roars from village, town and city; the men they've sent to parliament have our sincerest pity. All bent and gray they go their way and daily grow fiercer; they can't forget a suffragette may lurk around the corner. In frowns and thurs, with trembling knees, they hurry to their duty; they madly race to reach their place, pursued by youth and beauty. It seems to vex the gentler sex to see them run for shelter; it hurts them to see them slide for safety, neither skelter. It is, I ween, a curious scene which Mr. M.P. take part in—to see them rush thru crowd and crush, and then to see them dart in thru guarded doors amid the roars of militant laughter, while female cheers burst on their ears, and jar each ancient rafter. Oh, ne'er, I wot, could be forgot the views which meet our vision as members pass the gates of brass pursued by wild derision. Just see Lloyd George like lightning forge ahead and pass the portals, while his head comes chunks of lead and bricks, and jeers and choruses. See Churchill flog a ladder school intent to smash his topper upon the right in headlong flight, see Asquith come a cropper! As they debate affairs of state, the bravest port trembles when woman's cheers burst on his ears—he knows the foe assemblies! Oh, not for me to lose my life in frantic strife with some misguided spinster.

It Builds Up The System

It is not only disagreeable, but positively alarming to be getting thinner. It indicates that the digestive system is failing to supply the nourishment required to maintain health and strength. You must resort to other means of restoring strength, and in this connection there is nothing like Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to form new, rich blood, revitalize the wasted nerves and restore to the digestive system its natural functions. Mr. Fred Carstens, farmer, Laird, Sask., writes: "I was very thin and nervous, and as I was continually growing thinner I determined to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to give Dr. Chase's Nerve Food a trial. I would suffer from headaches and indigestion, and was easily worried and excited and felt generally run down. The benefit obtained from this food cure has been very marked, and I recommend it with the greatest confidence to persons who are thin, weak and nervous."

Motion by defendants to strike out certain paragraphs of statement of claim embarrassing to strike out paragraph one of particulars and for proper particulars to be delivered in respect of this, etc. Judgment: It seems almost self-evident that defendants have all they require to enable them to plead. Justice will be done by directing defendants to plead. Costs to be delivered in ten days from this date, the plaintiff to be confined to the particulars now delivered unless further or other particulars are delivered not less than three weeks before the date the defendants will be able to plead. Judgment: There will be an order similar to that made in Murray case, so far as applicable, on Feb. 27. Defendants to have ten days from delivery of particulars to plead. Costs of motion to defendants in case.

Union Bank v. Toronto Pressed Steel Co.—J. H. Spence for defendants. J. C. Cassels, K.C., for plaintiffs. Motion by defendants to set aside default judgment. Judgment: It is the usual practice under C. R. 312, taken in conjunction with C. R. 353, to allow a defendant liberty to have his action tried out when it can be done without injury to the plaintiff and in such cases will ensure to the plaintiff if successful the fruits of his judgment. I allow defendant company to plead in statement of defence forthwith, and require them to expedite trial in every way that practice will allow and the plaintiff desires. Amount of judgment to be paid into court if plaintiff wishes this to be done. Costs of motion and proceedings will be paid by plaintiff in any event. Re Grace Cameron—W. A. Henderson for father. H. S. White for aunt of infant. Motion by Charles Cameron, father, to return of infant corpus for an order for possession of infant daughter. Judgment: "I realize the extent of the father's right to the custody of his children and the responsibility of depriving him of the custody and privilege incident to this right, and I have also present to my mind the disadvantage of separating two children, yet the facts of the case which I refrain from setting forth at greater length convince me that the welfare of the little girl requires that she should be left in the custody of her aunt, who has stood in the place of her mother almost from the day of her birth, rather than in the custody of the father, who will have to be away from home during most of her waking hours, leaving his livelihood, so that he would have to depend on a hired housekeeper. The court must allow all reasonable access to the father, and must undertake to do nothing to prejudice the child against the father, who should have liberty to renew this matter if circumstances change. I do not think costs should be awarded.

Before Hodgins, J. Fairweather v. Canadian General Electric Co.—E. G. Porter, K.C., for plaintiff. G. H. Watson, K.C., and L. M. Hayes, K.C., for defendants.

Case for Arbitration. "His Majesty's government have not desired me to argue in this note that their interpretation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty is the correct view, but only that a case for the arbitration of that issue has already arisen and now exists. They conceive that the interests of both countries requires that issue to be settled promptly by the opening of the canal, and by means which will leave no ground for regret or complaint. They believe that the possibility of friction has been one of the main objects of those methods of arbitration of which the U. S. has been for some time a foremost and consistent advocate. His Majesty's government think it more in accordance with the general arbitration treaty that the settlement desired should precede, rather than follow, the doing of any acts, which could raise questions of actual damage to be dealt with by the arbitration tribunal, and better, also, that when vessels begin to pass thru the great waterway, in whose construction the world has been so interested, there should be left subsisting no cause of difference which could prevent any other nation from joining without reserve in the satisfaction of the people of the U. S. will feel at the completion of a work of such grandeur and utility."

ANOTHER OPINION

When we started this "sex" discussion I told you that opinions on the subject would be published, that you did not have to take my unsupported word for the absolute necessity of frankness between parent and child. Today is given the opinion of a man prominent in mission work:

I am frequently consulted by mothers in regard to family matters. Almost invariably the question is "What can I do to win the confidence of my daughter?" They say that when their daughters were little girls the intercourse was of the closest, but now that they are getting in their "teens" they shut their mothers out from their confidences. This fact is enough to send a mother asking for help, for surely, if there ever is a time when a girl needs the guiding hand of a true and faithful friend, it is when the frail bark of girlhood is being launched on tempestuous floods of awakened womanhood and self-consciousness, has turned the childish question away with an implied, if not spoken, refusal.

I have almost invariably found that the mother had first begun to build the wall of separation. In the innocence of her confidences, the child's daughter had asked some simple question pertaining to the mystery of life or some other worldly matter, and the mother, full of worldly wisdom and self-consciousness, had turned the childish question away with an implied, if not spoken, refusal.

When the girl has gained from another source the information which she desires—and which she is always sure to get sooner or later, for if she does not, she is fully lacking in the powers of deduction or perception—and finds that her misleading has been either untruthful or incomplete, she does not so much as much as to other people, and she therefore, she does not care to trust her mother with other secrets which are dear to her heart. And this she does, for which the mother laid the foundation, is built up into gigantic proportions of her imagination and impressionable child.

Fathers and mothers seem to forget this great, vital truth: that if they expect to keep pure, chaste, and obedient children they must deserve it; both by returning to the children the confidence which they, in turn, appreciate to them. When the child has proposed to them, she should be able to cope with the situation which is presented to her. When John Stuart Mill's wife was reconverted with for telling her little daughter something of the cause and history of unfortunate girls, she replied: "What other girls have I not had to know about? She might have added what doubtless she felt: 'and therefore be saved from a like fate.'"

I do not hesitate to say, in my experience in rescue work among unfortunate girls, extending now over a period of twenty-five years, and embracing a knowledge of the history of tens of thousands of them, that fully fifty per cent. of these girls took their first step in their sad career because of lack of knowledge. Upon no subject has ignorance levied so heavy a tax.

EFFICIENT HOUSEKEEPING

BY HENRIETTA D. GRAUEL
 DOMESTIC SCIENCE LECTURER

OUR NATIONAL BEVERAGES

"NOT one woman in five hundred knows how to make good tea or coffee." How familiar that sounds. But I think it is a mistake, as our tea and coffee is growing better, but in order to keep peace in the family, I will tell again the one and only way to make tea and some of the reasons that coffee is sometimes "good" and again "better" and seldom "best."

Soft water is better for tea and coffee making than hard; it brings out the flavor more fully.

First fill the kettle with fresh water and bring it quickly to the boiling point. Never make tea with water that has been boiled or simmering—the life and sparkle is lost from it.

Use an earthenware teapot. You ask why, but I cannot answer, yet every connoisseur knows that tea brewed in the earthen pot is better than when made in metal.

Warm the teapot and put in the tea in the proportion of one teaspoon of tea to every cup to be brewed. This is contrary to the old direction of a teaspoon of tea to a cup, but perhaps you've noticed that teapots have grown smaller in the last decade.

Pour on the boiling water, cover the teapot with a cosy or a napkin, including the spout. Some very dainty old teapots were made with little caps to fit over the spouts to keep in the heat and steam while the brew was drawing. It is a pity these caps are no longer made.

Let stand five minutes; drink at once. Tea made in this way will injure no one. It is only when tea has stood until the tannin is extracted that it is harmful.

It used to be that well-made coffee was seldom met with in hotels or eating houses, while today it is the exception to get poor coffee any place but in one's own home.

This is because coffee merchants have put forth every effort to educate the consumer to appreciate what is a worthy and superior beverage.

To be at its best coffee must be fresh made from good materials and the coffee-pot must be well cleaned after every meal.

If it is necessary to keep made coffee from one meal to another, pour it off the grounds into a jar with a lid.

If the truth was told, many women would have to plead guilty to warming over cold coffee. We will turn the page to save their feelings!

As we have said, the pot must be clean or the best coffee will turn into bad; boiling out the coffee-pot once a week with soda will insure it being sweet and clean.

The true proportions for making coffee are one part coffee to five parts water. It must boil five minutes to extract the strength, then draw it away from the fire to where it will keep hot, but not boil, and settle it with an egg shell finely crushed on with a tablespoon of cold water.

Serve at once. If coffee stands more than ten minutes after it is made the finest aroma will escape and a flat, stale, "queer" taste result.

Coffee made in a percolator is the finest of all; it should be pulverized for this mode and only a level tablespoonful of use to each cup. If you have not a percolator make little bags of coarse muslin and put the pulverized coffee in them. You will save on the amount of coffee used and have a "best" drink.

HITCHCOCK HERE IN FUNNY PLAY "Bird of Paradise" Comes to Alexandra For the Week. "BABY MINE" AT GRAND Gertrude Vanderbilt and Geo. Moore Head the Bill at Shea's.

The popular comedian, Raymond Hitchcock, who has been a prime favorite with theatregoers of this city, will appear at the Princess Theatre all this week in the sensational musical play, "The Red Widow," the book and lyrics by Channing Pollock and Renold Wolf, with music by Charles J. Cobert, and produced under the direction of Cohen & Harris. "The Red Widow" founded instant popularity when first presented in Boston, followed by an entire season's engagement at the Astor Theatre, New York. The story of the play is hung upon the following incident. Cicero Hannibal Butts (Raymond Hitchcock), a retired millionaire corset manufacturer of Yonkers, N.Y., with his wife, is making a tour of Europe. On the eve of his departure from London, he attends an opera performance at the Alcazar Theatre, and meets a beautiful young woman known as "The Red Widow." During the flirtation which ensues, the widow learns from the rich American that he is about to depart for Russia, and induces him to allow her to cross the frontier on his passport, which is made out for Mrs. Butts. Mrs. Butts having been converted to the cause of woman's suffrage, has decided to forego her trip to Russia and remain in London. The Russian frontier is crossed. The widow and Butts are next discovered in the leading hotel in St. Petersburg. The young woman informs Mr. Butts that her mission back to Russia was for the purpose of killing the czar. Her life to make his escape, but finds himself surrounded by the widow's band of nihilists. The secret police suspect him of plotting against the czar, and he is taken to prison where Mrs. Butts arrives and all ends happily. The Red Widow's plotting in the czar's palace is so sincere as any play that has been hatched, and Mr. Hitchcock will be assisted by Flora Zabelle (The Red Widow), Minerva Coverdale, Claire Grenville, George White, George E. Mack, Edward Metcalf, George Roman, Charles Prince, Stanley Fields and a large chorus of singers and dancers.

"The Bird of Paradise," which will be the offering at the Alexandra Theatre, beginning today, Richard Walton Tully is said to have written an uncommon play. In fact, it is said to be a positive novel, and therefore duly welcome to stage picture play-wrights are almost at their wits' end for new material. The author in this case has chosen an entirely new locale, Hawaii, and with native huts, seething volcanoes and above all, haunting melodies, has created an atmosphere that imparts sincerity to the stage pictures by the episodic construction. Briefly the story concerns Dr. Wilson, a young American who goes on his way to Molokai to discover and isolate the leprosy germ. En route he meets Luana, a fascinating Hawaiian girl, and succumbs to her charms. Diana Larned, also a member of the missionary party and an authoress, becomes interested in a derelict beachcomber who quotes the Rubaiyat. She regards him as worth cultivating. Wilson marries the native girl and the beachcomber takes his place. It is the fall of Luana, when the great things were expected and the rise of the one believed to be hopeless. The former beachcomber and Diana return to the former colony two years later crowned with success. They find Wilson has degenerated into a worthless being, but loved violently by his native wife. Shocked into sobriety by the sight of his friends, Wilson casts off his wife and the spell of the tropics and goes to Honolulu, where he tries to send him to America as a delegate. Luana tries to be "white" for his sake, but it is hopeless as she cannot remember things which are the chief cast by her husband, she returns to her tribe and its superstitions. Pale, the goddess of the volcano, is angry with Luana and her intentions and calls for a human sacrifice. Learning that the prayer of death has been invoked against her, Luana offers herself as the sacrifice and in the final scene of the play she plunges into the fiery crater of the volcano. It is said to be a strong and gripping story with a scenic investigation the like of which has never been seen in this city.

Bessie Harricall, the originator of the hit role of Luana, who has been during the entire engagement here. She is supported by a company of excellent players together with a band of Hawaiian singers, dancers and musicians. The play is in three acts and five scenes. "Baby Mine" is the attraction for the Grand this week. William A. Brady's laughing announced, "Baby Mine" is the attraction for the Grand this week. "Baby Mine" takes up the aspects of a screaming funny comedy that has no let-up in its laughing department. There is no fear of tender sentiments being offended, for it is an entirely wholesome comedy. When a Chicago physician makes the statement that there were thousands of babies who were fondling babies secured by wives at orphan asylums it gave Margaret Mayo the idea for "Baby Mine." The play carries a moral message, but it is not a moral lesson, but a comedy. "Baby Mine" comes here with the reputation of having played a year in New York, eight months in Chicago and nearly two years in London, which is but a brief record of the comedy's runs in the larger cities. Walter Jones, who created the role of "Jimmy" in the original production, is a featured member of the Metropolitan cast to be seen here. Gertrude Vanderbilt and George Moore at Shea's. Gertrude Vanderbilt and George Moore, late features of Raymond Hitchcock's "Red Widow" Company, head the bill at Shea's Theatre this week. Miss Vanderbilt is acknowledged to be one of the most original dancers in her profession, and George Moore is fully capable of sharing equal honors with his partner. The

Stock Markets Drift in Dulness—Bank Clearings and Trade

SPECULATION IS OF SMALL VOLUME

No Incentive For Trading Afforded in the Toronto Stock Market.

UNDERTONE IS FIRM

Dominion Canners Recovers Sharply—Brazilian Holds at Steady Values.

Speculation fell off to very small volume, even for a week-end half day, on Saturday in the Toronto Stock Exchange. There seemed to be no incentive for operating either by floor traders or outside followers, neither London nor Wall street supplying any inspiration. Consequently the list was left pretty well to drift, and price changes were few and far between.

Wall Street has adopted a stand-off attitude during the last few days, and pending the change in the administration which takes place tomorrow, no definite trend is likely to develop. Meanwhile our markets are awaiting the outcome of affairs across the border, for much will depend on how the New York security list acts from now on. Money is so tight here that an effectual curb is maintained on speculation, and, as long as this continues in effect, traders will be apprehensive lest a wave of liquidation overwhelms the exchange.

FINANCIAL CRISIS IN CONSTANTINOPLE

Merchants May Demand Moratorium—Numerous Insolvencies in Business Circles.

LONDON, March 1.—Constantinople despatches say that the merchants are discussing the advisability of demanding a moratorium owing to the numerous insolvencies which are taking place. Three important stoppages recently took place, and commercial interests have been seriously inconvenienced thereby.

Soon after the outbreak of the Balkan war, Constantinople merchants met and decided to meet payments as usual in order to keep up the reputation of Turkish commercial interests. This happened at the time when Serbia, Bulgaria and Greece had already introduced the plan of postponed payments.

C. P. R. LED ADVANCE IN LONDON MARKET

Trading Restricted at Week-End, But Firm Tone Prevailed—G. T. R. Higher.

LONDON, March 1.—Money was easier and discount rates were quiet today. Trading was restricted on the stock exchange, but a firm tone prevailed, despite the announcement of a small failure, Mexican Falls, Radford and Grand Trunk shares improved on fraction, but Home Rails were unsettled owing to the labor outlook.

BANK STATEMENT MADE POOR SHOWING

Ten-Million-Dollar Decrease in Excess Reserves of New York Banks.

NEW YORK, March 1.—The statement of the actual condition of clearing-house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they hold $2,690,250 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is a decrease of $10,483,400 from last week.

INITIAL DIVIDEND.

The first quarterly dividend of 1 3/4 per cent. being at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, has been declared by the Canada Interlake Line preferred stock, payable April 1 next, to shareholders of record on March 1.

BANK CLEARINGS SHOW SMALL GAINS

Record of Last Week Indicative of Lull in Trade Activity—Several Losses.

Canadian bank clearings last week showed a very scanty advance over the same week last year—the smallest advance, in fact, that has been indicated for several months. Saving a few cases of special local activity, such as Fort William, Regina and Hamilton, the figures were mainly identical with those for 1912, the several cities report substantial losses.

SIR GEORGE PAISH SEES BIG CHANGES

High Cost of Living Tumbling From Pedestal—Reduction in Credits Coming.

Sir George Paish, editor of The London Statist, whose views of financial affairs receive world-wide attention, believes that within the next two years there will be the beginning of a great reduction of credits throughout the world, coupled with a great increase in production. He points to the fact that the world has been building railroads in Argentina, Canada, Australia, etc., and that there will be a great outburst of agricultural production; also that the nations will engage in strenuous competition to dispose of their products.

HAVE YOU A MILLION OR SO READY TO HAND?

If So, George J. Gould Has a Big Block of Stock to Sell You.

NEW YORK, March 1.—George J. Gould's Manhattan Railway Co. stock may safely be said to be for sale, and in all probability could be purchased in the neighborhood of $175 a share. It is stated that the holdings of the Gould estate total about 50,000 shares. The total capitalization of the Manhattan Co. is $60,000,000.

MANY BARGAINS IN NEW YORK MARKET

Erickson Perkins & Co. (J. G. Beatty) wired: The stock market was professional, for the most part, with the effort of traders to make small turns. Selling and buying, which they turned around and rallied prices, they turned gamated, under 67, as it was early in the week, yielded 9 per cent. on the cost price. Many standard issues are also on attractive basis, and the reason for their "cheapness" is general. Union Pacific and Lehigh Valley, as 10 per cent. stocks, look curious at the present level.

STEEL EARNINGS SHOWING UP WELL

NEW YORK, March 1.—Net earnings of the United States Steel Corporation for the current month are estimated at nearly $12,000,000, which is regarded as a very satisfactory showing for a short month. In February, the highest net ever recorded for a similar month. Estimates as to earnings for the first quarter of this year continue to range around $28,000,000.

COTTON MARKETS.

The range of prices on the New York cotton market is reported by Neill, Beatty & Co., as follows:

WALL STREET HAS EYES ON CAPITOL

Course to Be Taken by New Administration Subject For Reflection.

MARKET IS WAITING

Recommendations of Pujo Committee Causing Anxiety.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Except for the strength of the copper group, in which gains ran to two points, the movement of stocks today was insignificant. There was some trading activity in the session by room traders, on account of the government's action against corn products, news of which reached the street some time in advance of the common press report, and the recommendation of the Pujo "money trust" committee. There was no pressure of long stock, however, the market overcame its tendency toward heaviness.

REGULAR DIVIDENDS PAID BY MCKINLEY

Company Has Paid Back Its Capital One and a Half Times.

The McKinley-Darragh-Savage Mines of Cobalt have declared the regular dividend of three per cent., and, in addition, have paid back to the shareholders one and a half times the amount of the regular dividend. This brings the total of the company's payments to 156 per cent. on the original capitalization. The record follows:

IT TAKES COURAGE TO BUY STOCKS NOW

"It takes courage to buy stocks now." This remark has been heard frequently of late in Wall street, and those who admit that the market is on a London Stock Exchange standard are cheap. There have been so many unfavorable factors, and large investors have shown their indifference to the course of prices that the rank and file of traders have been afraid to buy, and the only opportunity for the realization of profits was to be found in selling the market.

BIG LOSSES TAKEN BY BRITISH SPECULATOR

LONDON, March 1.—The monthly compilation of London Bankers' Magazine of the aggregate value of 387 securities dealt in on London Stock Exchange, shows decrease in February of £4,793,000, or 1.3 per cent., following increase of 0.3 per cent. in January.

UNCERTAINTY IS GREATEST DRAWBACK

NEW YORK, March 1.—One of the chief causes of hesitation in the stock market at the present time is the uncertainty as to the ultimate outcome of sale of the $125,000,000 Southern Pacific stock, now held in the Union Pacific treasury. That will test the market's absorptive capacity; but if the present reaction is the effect of the market stands the test, the effect on sentiment must be important. If Southern Pacific can hold up near its present price, who shows the extent of an investment demand above what people in general had suspected, and which will be more than two or three points under par, then the market probably be a severe break, and the general market would hardly be able to withstand the shock.

J. P. MORGAN AND CO. MUST BE OPTIMISTIC

Would J. P. Morgan & Co. arrange for the building of a great new bank house if the members of the firm expect a reaction in trade? Hardly. The house should know something about the outlook for the steel business and would probably wait for a reduction in prices, if there were a likelihood of such a development in the reasonably near future.

Jupiter and Dome Ex. on Up-Grade—Another Dip in Timiskaming.

The January statement of earnings of the Brazilian Traction Co., made public on Saturday, made a remarkable showing, the gross being the largest of any month since the company was formed, while the net was only the high water mark reported for December. Since the formation of Brazilian there have been five monthly statements handed out. The favorable position of that for January is evidenced in the following table:

Table with 3 columns: Month, Gross, Net. Rows for Jan, Feb, Mar, Apr, May, Jun, Jul, Aug, Sep, Oct, Nov, Dec.

HALF A BILLION IN NEW LOANS PENDING

LONDON, March 1.—In Paris letter to The Statist Sir George Paish says French bankers calculate about $500,000,000 new loans will have to be raised at conclusion of Balkan war, as $150,000,000 will require funds for railway extensions in addition to that amount.

Week's Cobalt Shipments

COBALT, March 2.—(Special.)—While only two mines shipped bullion last week the total amounted to $12,955, this compared with $12,955 in the Buffalo. There was a heavy shipment of one and concentrates with the exception of one car from La Rose and one from Nipissing. Beaver shipped two cars last week, the other not being completed in time for inclusion in the week's workings of Cobalt companies. Lake Mining Company have placed a field with the intention of developing back to them. Mr. Stanley Grubbs is making his headquarters at the Little Nipissing Mine, and will superintend operations.

The total sales and values of the stocks traded in on the Standard Stock Exchange during the week ended Feb. 28 are as follows:

HANDSOME GAINS IN BRAZILIAN EARNINGS

Brazilian earnings continue to show excellent gains over a month and two months ago. For the week ended Feb. 22 they totaled $432,486.07. This compares with $429,853.48 for the week Feb. 15, $422,114.42 for the week Feb. 8, $415,696.07 for the week Jan. 31, $412,910.00 for the week Jan. 24, $416,362.00 for the week Jan. 17, and $415,540.00 for the week Jan. 10.

Jupiter and Dome Ex. on Up-Grade—Another Dip in Timiskaming.

There was a good deal of irregularity in the mining exchanges at the week-end, a slightly reactionary tone in some of the recent favorites being offset by a buoyant trend to certain of the cheaper Porcupine issues. Trading was of fairly active proportions for a half holiday, but it was apparent that considerable of the dealings represented profit-taking sales.

Speculative interest was diverted from Hollinger and Crown Reserve to Jupiter and Dome Extension. The former sold up a full two points to a new high record since last April at 47. The mine was re-opened during the week and the buying was founded on anticipations of favorable developments. A small stamp mill is to go up at the mine, and the extension rose over a point to 13 1/4 on the curb. Just what is behind the movement in this stock is not quite clear, it is hinted that the negotiations for refinancing the company are nearing a conclusion, but no official information is forthcoming. Hollinger was back to $15.50, and Porcupine Gold to 27, under a profit-taking. Gold Reef sold at 4. Swastika had a relapse to 13 1/2.
