Hemming, The Adventurer

BY THEODORE ROBERTS

Hemming was about to reply when an overgrown young man, a bookkeeper who had been listening nudged his elbow restlessly.

"Here's your mail," he said.

Hemming placed the half-dozen letters in his pocket. His face was quite pale, considering the length of time he had been in the tropics. He took the overgrown youth by the front of his jacket and shook him. Then he twisted him deftly and pushed him sprawling against his enraged employer. Both went down, sprawling viciously. The other inmates of the great room stared and waited. Most of them looked pleased. An office boy, who had received notice to leave that morning, sprang upon a table.

"Soak it to 'em, Dook. Soak it to 'em, you louse-up Charley. You can't stand dat sort o' health food."

Wells got to his feet. The bookkeeper scrambled up and nudged at Hemming. He was received in a grip that made him repeat his action.

"Mr. Wells," said Hemming, "I shall hold on to this gentleman, who does not seem to know how to treat his superiors, until he gets out, and in the meantime will I wish you for what money is due me, up to date. Please accept my resignation at the same time."

"I'll call a copper," sputtered Wells, who opened at the door of the publishing house of S—'s Sons entered.

"Good Lord, what is the trouble?" he cried.

"I am trying to draw my pay," exclaimed Hemming.

The new arrival looked at the ruffled, confused Wells with eyes of contempt and suspicion.

"I'll wait for you, Mr. Hemming, on condition that you will lunch with me," he cried.

A few minutes later they left the building, and in his pocket Hemming carried a check for the sum of his back pay.

"A month from now," said his companion, "that check will be worth as much as your check is worth now. Even poor old Dooker had had all he could do to hold it together. He had the trains and down city, and that fellow had the money."

By the time lunch was over, Hemming found himself once more in harness, but harness of so many a kind that not a buckle galloped. The bill was a roving commission from S—'s Sons to do articles of unusual people and unusual places for their illustrated weekly magazine. He spent the afternoon in reading and writing letters. He advised every one with whom he had dealings of his new headquarters. He had a good collection of maps and sat up until three in the morning pondering over them. Next day he bought himself a camera, and overhauled his outfit. By the dawn of the third day after his separation from the apartment, he had decided to start northward, despite the season.

The climate of Perambuco was no longer his guide. Now the Quest of the little-known was his. It brought him close to many hearts, and taught him the secrets of all sorts and conditions of men in the space of a few years. It made him familiar with a hundred villages between Main in the North and Rio de Janeiro in the South. He found comfort under the white lights of strange cities, and sought peace in various wildernesses. Under the canopy roof, and the bark as under the face-shedding shelters of the town, came over the dream of his old life for beddellow.

End of Part I.

CHAPTER II.

The Unsuspected City.

Hemming happened upon the city of Perambuco on the evening of a sunny day in April. He manifested no surprise beyond straightening his monocle in his eye.

"Hope they have some English soap-water down there," he said in the heavy foliage about him, "but I suppose it would be hardly fair to expect an ice factory so far from the coast." For a second a vision of tall glasses and ice that clinked came to his mind's eye. He remembered the cool dining-rooms of his friends in Perambuco. He spurred his native-bred steed to a hesitating trot along the narrow, loop-worn path that led down to the valley. At a mud and timber hut set beneath bare mangroves, and headed by a tiny field, he drew rein. A woman sat before the door, looking cool and at her ease in heavy cotton dress. A naked child chased a pig among the bananas. Hemming greeted the woman in Portuguese. She eyed him humbly greeting in return. The pig and the baby came near to listen. Hemming, greening his feet free from the stirrups, to straighten the kink out of his knees. He pushed back his hat, and lit a cigarette. "What is the name of the town?" he asked, smiling reassurance.

The woman told him, standing respectfully on the earthen threshold. Such square shoulders and clear eyes as this Englishman's were not every day sights in Perambuco.

"May a stranger find entertainment mounted infantry. Welcomed to our skirts of city by kind peasant woman, evening of April 6, 19—." Same climate and crops as Brazil. Eleven pounds in his pockets in Brazilian notes and small coin. "What does Perambuco look like, M. I. wonder?" A dinner on a table, and a couple of chapters for my book."

Perambuco, the royal palms, God-sized villas, their walls all blue and white with black tiles, their roofs shaggy with white stones, each in its separate garden. The gardens were enclosed by high walls of brick, such as he has seen many times in the region.

"The old Dutch influence," he said, tossing his cigarette over the nearest wall. A bullock-cart came creaking up the road, the patient, cattle with heads, had low and a straight yoke across their wrinkled necks, the driver walking at their heels, sombre with dignified air, daintily puffing a cigarette. The cart, loaded with sacks of sugar, which sent up a heavy sickly smell. Hemming hailed the driver.

"Where does the governor live, my friend?"

"The President," he said, "there he had the white pants." With the stock of his rawhide whip, the fellow pointed to an acorn gate, set between posts of red brick, topped with marble panthers. Each panther held a shield bearing its front paws. Hemming threw the bullock-driver a coin and rode on the pavement, the better to examine the armorial design on the shields. He laughed sardonically.

"Familiar," he said, "ah, yes, a good enough old Devonshire shield. I have admired it in the dining room of the Governor of Newfoundland. Now I get my bag to it at the entrance of a president's residence. Dash it all, I have outgrown dismay."

"I've got my bag to it at the entrance of a president's residence. Dash it all, I have outgrown dismay."

"I've got my bag to it at the entrance of a president's residence. Dash it all, I have outgrown dismay."

"I've got my bag to it at the entrance of a president's residence. Dash it all, I have outgrown dismay."

heavily built man, dressed in a black frock coat and white trousers, came down to meet him. A man in livery took his horse.

"Mr. Hemming," said the large man, "I am the President." He popped a fat, yellow cigar into his mouth, and shook hands. "Come in," he said. "He had the way into a large tiled room, containing a billiard-table of the American kind, a full-top desk, and an office chair. The windows of the room opened on one side, and opened on a corner of the garden in which a fountain tossed merrily. The President sank into a chair in the easiest manner, and threw one leg over the arm of it. Then he noticed, with a quick twinkle in his blue eyes, Hemming in the middle of the floor, erect and unsmiling.

"Mr. Hemming," he said, "I want your respect, but none of that stiff-backed ceremony between gentlemen. I am neither Roosevelt nor Albert Edward. You Morgan is a bigger man than I am, though I still hope you have been in the English army, and you like to have things starched, well, so do I sometimes. Please fall into that chair."

Hemming blushed and sat down. The man was evidently crazy. "My name is Teton," said the President. He rang the bell and a native servant entered.

"Thank you, a Scotch and soda," said Hemming.

"Ah, I know it," laughed the other, "though I always take rye myself."

The servant bowed and retired.

"I'll see the illustrated weeklies of both New York and London," continued Teton, "and I always look for your articles. I like them. I know something about your family, also. Hemming, I have 'Burke's Landed Gentry' and 'Who's who' on my desk. You are a grandson of Sir Bertram Hemming of Barraker."

"Yes," replied Hemming, both surprised and embarrassed.

"Well," said the President, "I have some blood in me too. My mother's grandmother was a Gaskwyke. Did you notice the three stars and six thistles?"

"I know the head of your house at home, Colonel Bruce-Gostwycke, and another distinguished member of it in the colonies, Sir Henry Teton," replied Hemming. "But," he continued, "I never heard of your mother's grandmother being a Gaskwyke. Did you notice the three stars and six thistles?"

"You are something bigger than that here. Why do you hold this little half dead county family so tight?"

"Then I heard of the wonderful Ferrozone. I bought a box and an appetite. I gained strength and became cheerful. Under Ferrozone I improved steadily. I am well today. I weigh fifteen pounds heavier than ever before, and feel like a new man."

CLAIM IT WOULD RELIEVE OVER CROWDED SCHOOLS.

Individual Instruction System Said to Possess Many Advantages--Class Promoted as a Unit--Is Successful in New York.

Discussion of the means of relieving congestion in the local schools has drawn attention to the "Batavia system" of individual instruction, and in the current number of "The Metropolitan Teacher" arguments in favor of the system by Superintendent Kennedy of Batavia, N. Y., and the opinions of some of the educators who have investigated it, are presented together with favorable editorial comment. The system is based on the principle that each class should be so instructed that each pupil there will be prepared to advance to the next higher grade, without remaining in any one class longer than one term. It takes its name from Batavia, N. Y., where it was first tried and has since been carried on successfully.

It assumes that the graded school has come to stay, and that in order to prevent clogging of the system it is necessary to keep all the pupils moving through the school. It renders possible the organization of large classes, with a teacher, one to conduct recitations and the other to look after the individual pupils and to make the grades. In the class system without disturbing the regular work, where the classes are small, individual instruction is made possible with the single teacher by stepping half of the recitations and devoting the time saved to individual instruction.

The partial trial of the system has been undertaken at the local schools by requiring one part-time teacher to assist the other by directing the backward children, but the plan has unfortunately been presented as an attempt to compel teachers to do a full day's work, rather than as a pedagogical experiment, and as a result, has not tended to secure enthusiastic effort on the part of the average teacher.

According to Superintendent Kennedy, the Batavia system has benefited pupils, teachers and parents, has tended to maintain heavy attendance while the high school has been crowded to overflowing. The article is an enthusiastic appeal for the trial of the plan because of its success at Batavia.

Under the present methods the teacher forces through as many of her classes as possible, and exerts a pressure upon the children which overtaxes them, and soon breaks her down, leaving her a nervous "schoolmarm," and destroying the conditions of repose and equanimity so essential to good teaching. It is wasteful of time, destructive of interests, and promotive of discontentment, and, in the case of failure, indicated by the great multitude who drop out, and by the inefficient scholarship of the few who persevere.

Statistics show that the dropping out in the rural schools is the greatest, and that a low grade of work and scholarship in the rural schools is the result. The plan is especially in an effort to keep up with the bright pupils, who have accomplished their work, are idling or planning mischief. While this may be an extreme case, others in Batavia plan these evils have been largely overcome. The teacher is saved from that nervous worry which is closely allied with the present system, the child is saved from the nervous and scolding of the tired and irritated teacher, and the worries of home study and efforts to "keep time" with the more able pupils, and the bright pupils are able to aid the child when distressed with its home work.

Morning News in Brief.

T. W. Douglas, representing the western miner's federation, is in the city, awaiting aid from the local union for the 8,000 federation members who are on strike in Colorado. Mr. Douglas says that good contributions have been received here.

The voters' list was closed at the sheriff's office yesterday, and the names will be submitted to his office which will be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The new names number about 200, a fact which points to the activity of both political parties.

George Whyte of London, England, is at the Royal. Mr. Whyte was asked as to Mr. Chamberlain's agitation for fiscal reform in England, and said that it was rapidly gaining ground and that the conservative party would probably be returned to power November 3rd.

J. G. Caswell, of Gloucester, England, who is at the Victoria, was invited by his brother, Major Albert Caswell of Belleville, Ont., to make him a visit. Just before he sailed, however, he received a message stating that his brother had died very suddenly. Mr. Caswell decided to make the trip and visit his brother's widow and his son, Dr. Caswell of Gagetown, after which he will proceed to Vancouver and the United States.

The first of the new students of the University of New Brunswick which was made by Miss Brylson-Jack was designed by Allen H. Crookshank of Bothwell, who is a senior student. It is a decorative upper half black and lower half red, in the center is the college crest in green and white, and colors of the engineering society and around this in white letters "U. N. B. Engineers."

BISHOP FOR CUBA. Boston, Oct. 11.—The House of Bishops voted in favor of consecrating a Bishop for Cuba. The Cuban field is now under the supervision of Rev. James H. Vanturn, Bishop of Porto Rico. It is understood that if the House of Bishops approves the action of the Bishops, a Diocesan for Cuba will be chosen at the present convention.

ST. DAVID'S CHURCH REPAIRS. The repairs to St. David's Presbyterian church, are progressing very favorably. The Sabbath school rooms, will be ready for occupation in about two weeks. The Committee has been enlarged, and a new organ will be installed in the church. The new view of the church, according to the plan, will be put in at the rear. The galleries which formerly extended from the chancel, have been rounded off sufficiently, to allow of two windows on each side of the church, to be installed. The chancel, will be changed, and a number of new added. Seats, heating, and other improvements, are being made. Mr. Myles has charge of carpenter work, and Mr. Butler is doing mason work. The repairs will be completed when the repairs will be completed.

CHAUDIERE CLUB. Ottawa, Oct. 11.—In the case of Keller and Hamilton, charged with keeping a common gaming house called the Chaudiere Club, argument was today concluded and judgment reserved.

W. S. FISHER, ESQ. of the well known firm of Emerson & Fisher, St. John, N. B., says: "I have much pleasure in stating that I have used Hawker's Tolu and Wild Cherry Balsam for the last eight years and consider it the best cough cure I ever used. I find Hawker's Liver Pills an excellent liver regulator."

MADE RICH GIFT TO SOUTH AFRICA.

Alfred Bell, Diamond King and Multi-Millionaire Gives Government $400,000 Farm.

Johannesburg, Oct. 11.—Alfred Bell has presented to the Government for educational purposes the Frankenburg farm, twelve miles from here, which is valued at $400,000. The farm possesses the features of advanced agricultural science. A reservoir has been built on the farm, which is a really magnificent work of art and a plant for the treatment of timber, producing poles, for which there is a great demand from the mines. Eight hundred acres are under plantations, and two hundred are laid out in vineyards, orchards and nurseries. Mr. Bell's original offer was conditional on the government acquiring an adjoining estate costing $100,000, after which he undertook to spend $50,000 in increasing the area of the farm, bringing the total up to 2,000 acres and enabling farming to be carried on in all its branches, including a dairy farm and a veterinary school. The government accepted the proposal with gratitude.

This handsome estate is Mr. Bell's personal and private gift, and must not be confused with the park presented to Johannesburg some time ago by Messrs. Wertheim, Bell & Co. Mr. Bell has for some time been in consultation with the South African government, and the assistance of Lord Milner, it is believed, has been given toward the formation of a scheme of higher education. It was Messrs. Wertheim, Bell & Co. who promised the splendid sum of $1,000,000 towards Lord Rosebery's proposed Technological Institute in London, on the Charlottetown system. Like Mr. Julius Wertheim and other members of the firm, Mr. Alfred Bell is earnestly devoted to the cause of education in the empire. Though the richest self-made man in the world, Mr. Bell has very simple tastes, and his only luxury is that of his mother's house in Park Lane, in almost his only luxury. (You can't offer the doctor anything, said Mr. Cecil Rhodes, once, of Dr. Jameson, and all Bell wants in the world is $2000 a year for his mother.) He is, however, a millionaire several times over.

THE ENGLISH WORKINGMAN.
Montreal, Oct. 11.—A special London cable says:—Interviewed on the subject of Rev. Mr. Campbell's criticism of the workmen, Mr. Mark Clay Pearce said that the workmen of England could hold their own in all respects with the workmen of other European nations, but in Canada and America there are no such drunkenness and complacency. The prospects of the workingman there bet a self respect which our less happy conditions do not encourage.

RUSSIAN REPORTS ARE AS ROSY AS AT THE FIRST.

They Expect Kuropatkin to Do Great Work--Letter From Empress--The Composition of the Baltic Fleet Which is to Sail for the Far East.

Tokio, Oct. 11--7 p.m.--Tokio tonight is eagerly awaiting the tidings of the persistently rumored engagement south of Mukden. It is reported that the Russians, assuming the offensive, crossed the Hun river and attacked General Kurat's forces, capturing a position which the Japanese, strongly reinforced, recaptured and reoccupied. The Japanese, it is reported, have checked the Russian advance. It is said that the losses on both sides were heavy. No official confirmation of these reports can be obtained.

RUSSIAN ADVANCE. Mukden, Oct. 11--A Russian correspondent of the Associated Press describing incidents of a frightful dust storm, the worst of the season in Manchuria, which raged on Sunday. It was at its height, while a battalion of the Pekoff regiment with guns attacked a Japanese force posted in a village east of the railroad and south of the Shakibi river, and drove the Japanese after a stubborn resistance. Clouds of dust blinded the combatants, and it was impossible to aim. The Japanese soldiers were numb with cold and a strong wind blew the shells beyond the mark. The Japanese troops, in good order, carrying of the killed and wounded. The railroad is clear and the train service is normal.

RUSSIAN FLEET. Paris, Oct. 12--The Echo De Paris St. Petersburg correspondent, learns from what he believes to be a reliable source, the final composition of the Baltic for the East and eastward as follows: The battleships Ostroff, Sissoi, Veliky, Navarin, Orel, Alexander III, Orel and Borodino. The cruisers Almaz, Zentach, Eduard, Admiral Nikhinzoff, Dmitri Donoski, Oleg, Aurora and Svetlana, nine destroyers and ten big submarines.

INDIANS MAKING GOOD PROGRESS. Government Reports Contradict the Idea That Education is Soon Forgotten. Washington, Oct. 11--The idea that the educated Indian usually takes a relapse to savagery after leaving the influence of the government, is not as generally borne out by the recent annual report of the superintendent of the Carlisle Indian school, in Pennsylvania. Miss Estelle Reed, at most of the large schools the condition of the returning students is closely watched and reports are received from the parents. These reports show, according to Miss Reed, that the students who have been in the school are endeavoring to make worthy use of the education they have received.

MURDERS IN MACEDONIA. Bulgarians Resort to the Assassination of Greek Priests and Notables.

Athens, Oct. 11--The following semi-official statement has been issued: "Hardly a day passes without assassinations of Greeks by Bulgarians being reported from Macedonia. This Sunday in the village of Prot, near Monastir, an Orthodox priest was murdered while he was celebrating mass and his wife was burned alive in her house. A Greek notable was assassinated in the church. The object of these crimes is to terrorize Greeks into declaring themselves to be members of the Bulgarian committee, thereby seeking to make the Bulgarian element a preponderant."

THE KAISER'S AMBITION.

London, Oct. 12--The Times' Rome correspondent, upon what he is inclined to regard as accurate information, says: "It appears that Emperor William has conceived and is attempting to execute a master stroke of policy by bringing into the orbit of the German empire the Balkan peninsula. His most persistent foe, thus bringing within measurable distance the realization of the Emperor's lifelong dream of a revival of the Holy Roman Empire, in fact, if not in name, under Hohenzollern leadership."

THOUSANDS ACQUIRING THE DOPE HABIT.

The dope habit is being acquired by thousands of Canadians through using so-called cures for Catarrh containing an excessive amount of alcohol and other dangerous drugs. Doctors claim there is only one safe and certain cure for Catarrh--fractured healing. Catarrh is cured by medicated vapor that is breathed direct to the seat of the disease. This balsamic vapor of Catarrh kills the germs, heals sores, stops drops in the throat, keeps the nose clear and permanently eradicates every trace of catarrh from the system. Catarrh can't fail. It's guaranteed. Three months treatment $1.00; trial size 25c.

ON THE SAFETY OF OVER-EATING.

The Rule of Choosing the Lesser of Two Evils Applies to the Way You Eat.

I want to know how a man is to know when he has had enough? The Pilgrim Fathers, I believe, had a quaint saying to the effect that you should arise from the table feeling as if you could eat some more. But the question is, how much more? Just when to stop? That's the point. The rule is wrong, because it's no rule at all. It is inexact and unscientific. It is likely to lead to the dangerous habit of eating too little. And eating too little--or digesting too little, which amounts to the same thing--is the cause of nine-tenths of the diseases from which humanity suffers today.

It is simply uneven balance between waste and repair. Some organs lack strength to carry on the special work for which it was created. Where shall it find the strength it lacks? In drugs? Ten thousand times, NO! Better die than become a hopeless drug fiend. "But," you say, "I eat a plenty of good food every day." True, dear friend; but you don't digest it. And food, undigested, is mere poison. So, to make food do you good you must take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. The great thing about Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, is that their action does not depend upon stimulative drugging. They cannot create a habit. They do not expose the system to "pick-up" or "tone up" your nervous system" or turnish whip energy, when you are out of your vital reserve.

FAVORS CHANGE IN NAME OF CHURCH

Bishop Grafton Would Drop the Word Protestant from Title of Episcopal Church

Bishop Grafton of Fond-du-Lac, Wis., presided at St. John's Rectory Sunday morning, dismissed the unexcused question of changing the title of the Protestant Episcopal church. He is the recognized leader of the movement to alter the title of the church by dropping the word "Protestant." Bishop Grafton said that there is nothing proposed that is in any way revolutionary, it is not a question that relates to the government or polity or doctrine or discipline or worship of the Church.

He is not seeking to change the name of our Church so much as the title. The name of our Church, which we have inherited and in which we hope to live and die is "The Catholic Church." All that we ask is to make the title on the front door of our church book better correspond with the name of the Church, the Body of Christ, who dwells within.

When it is understood that neither doctrine nor discipline nor worship is changed by the proposal, that the name of the Church is unalterable, that the prayer-book is not to be changed, that the right to use the old title will remain to those who choose to use it, our title will commonly be accepted.

Words in a living language often change their meaning. Protestantism, as a name, does not mean the Christian liberty and freedom, asserted against Roman tyranny and error, but rebellion against all authority and the social tyranny of all churches and creeds.

Protestantism now covers all those forms of error that are wrecking Christianity by new revelations, the "Protestantism" which, applied to a Christian body, does identify it in the popular estimation with all those methods from which, by God's providence, we are free.

The boasted progress of Protestantism is not that the Church, "This is the kind of progress now covered by the word Protestantism, and do so wish my hunger, by retaining a title which has lost its old meaning, to give contentment to it. Another reason in favor of dropping the present title is that dropping the present title is no longer necessary. Our Protestant position in a secure and recognized position in church government; in our role of faith in matters of doctrine, in our discipline and worship, in the moral infidelity, the primacy, the papal infallibility, the doctrine of indulgences, the enforced confession, the withholding of the eucharist, it is no more necessary for us to display our antagonism to Rome, as our title now does for the Congregational, Presbyterian, Baptist or Methodist bodies.

HOCKEY PROSPECTS

Already the sports have begun to talk hockey. Several teams will play the puck this coming winter. The prospects are determined to put a strong team on the ice and the M. C. A. team will also have a good team. The Mohawks war hoops will be heard and the scalps of the other teams will be in danger.

Change in Hockey Rules. A Winnipeg despatch says that the new Western hockey league will make some changes in the rules this season. A number of changes are suggested. One is the double referee system to be used in all games. Mr. Manning thinks that both these officials should be on skates, so as to follow the play through closely, and so as not to delay the game when it is necessary to rule off a player for roughness. The referee delegated to this latter feature would simply have to look on the bench and inform the referee of the play.

Football. There will probably be two games next Saturday, one at the Shamrock grounds, between the Magrath and Seniors. It is the intention to have outside teams visit here during the football season.

Too Much College Football. There is reason in all things, and it is a question if these hairbreadth escapes in examinations, made by many of the star football players who are loaded down with conditions and are permitted to play, if at all, only by the skin of their teeth, do not denote an unsoundness and an abuse. Many of the college players are learning to know or to suspect that many young men who ought not to be permitted to remain in college at all, if scholarship were the test, manage to "skin through" while the whole college world awaits the issue breathless. Then the footballists become the indubitable, the only heroes of the college fraternity by the way.

WILL GO TO SYDNEY, C. B.

Rev. Charles D. Schofield of Hampton Has Accepted the Rectorship of Christ Church.

Sydney, Oct. 12.—(Special.)—Rev. Chas. D. Schofield, rector of Hampton, N. B., has accepted the rectorship of Christ Church of this city, succeeding Rev. W. J. Woodruff, who goes to St. Paul's church, Charlotte-ham. Rev. Mr. Schofield will probably preach his opening sermon on the first Sunday in Advent.

Rev. Chas. D. Schofield, is a son of No. A. Schofield, the late manager of the Bank of New Brunswick. He is a graduate of Kings College, N. J., and took a post graduate course at Leeds University, Leeds, England. After his ordination at Leeds, he was located for time at Portsea, England, where he was connected with one of the leading churches. Returning to Canada five years ago the first charge he assumed was the parish of Hampton, and in doing so, he has consolidated what has always been a scattered parish. During his residence at Hampton he has accomplished great work. Although only a young man, being but 31 years old, he has shown marked ability. He has been heard in Trinity church, in this city, on different occasions, and always drew large congregations and created the most favorable impressions, by his force fluency and eloquence. Rev. Mr. Schofield has also taken an active part in the work of the synod, and will be very much missed, not only in Hampton, but throughout the province generally. Rev. Mr. Schofield is a brother of Messrs. Schofield of Schofield Bros.

MEETING IN WOODSTOCK.

Provincial Convention of the N. B. S. S. Association.

THE ADDRESSES.

President McLean tells of Forward Work—New Field Secretary Speaks—The Committees Named—Visiting Workers Speak.

Woodstock, N. B., Oct. 12.—(Special.)—The twentieth annual provincial convention of the N. B. S. S. Association met in the Reformed Baptist Church, last evening. The music was under the direction of E. O. Excell of Chicago. The Devotional service was led by Rev. J. H. A. Anderson. The chair was taken by the president, Rev. J. M. McLean. After reading the rules of order, the president, gave his report on the work of the year. He welcomed the international workers to the convention and province, and also greeted the delegates present. He said the work of the year has been of steady progress in all departments. He had visited a number of conventions on the north shore and they had been very helpful. The executive committee has done admirable work. The Sunday School tour of May has been of great profit to the province. Reference was made to the work of the retiring secretary, Rev. A. Lucas his untiring energy, his consecration and zeal in the work, also to the new field secretary, Rev. J. B. Gearing. Continuing he said: "We have much to cheer us on in the work, all over the field is being recognized the absolute necessity of S. S. work. Teacher training classes are being organized, the work is steady and healthy, home department is being more and more recognized, and is steadily growing. The workers are giving generously of their time and energy to the work. Sustained effort and willingness on the part of all officers and workers are needed to bring work to its highest efficiency. In the Sunday school, he thought it well that teachers would seek to influence the minds of young men so that their thoughts might be turned towards the ministry, and in this way supply a great need."

The president introduced the new field secretary, Rev. J. B. Gearing, to the city, and the convention briefly saying that the work was not sought by him but seemed to be placed upon him, he believed, of God. Carleton county was the cradle of Sunday school work in the province, and there was present tonight the man who was mainly instrumental in its organization, J. P. Parsons, J. W. Spurgeon, Robt. Reid. Question committee—C. Pearce, Rev. B. M. Young, Rev. G. A. Ross. Mr. Pearce, of Chicago, gave an address on the subject "Christ Illustrating the Truth." If you want to reveal truth through illustration, you must see something that is familiar to the one taught. 2nd, you want that truth impressed so that it will stick, by use of concrete illustration. The sources of this illustration were, 1—Familiar life; 2—Home life; 3—Nature; 4—Commercial life; 5—Old Testament Scriptures. The principles that these things touched were 1—Christ always took things that were true; 2—If he did not take things that actually happened they were things that there would be no inconsistency in, or else there would be no improbability in them; 3—They were all clear; 4—He chose things that were common.

The convention is in session this morning and receiving reports of committees.

JUMPS THE RATES.

The C. P. R. has decided to cancel the contracts for freight under which freight merchants have been working for some years. Under this decision the contracts will terminate on the last day of this month. The contract is for freight from St. John. The rate was fifteen cents a hundred with a minimum of ten cents. Under the new arrangement the rate will be twenty-five cents a hundred, with twenty-five cents as a minimum. Merchants are naturally disappointed with the action of the C. P. R., and say that their only remedy or redress now lies in a union of the business men to import from Montreal the goods which they have been buying in St. John, and which goods would come in over the Intercolonial—Fredericton Gleaser.

Soft coal landing cars, Acadia Pictou lump, Springhill round, Broad Cove and Fort Hood, Acadia Nut $3.25 per load delivered. Ex. yard Scotch Anthracite coal, Dry Rock Maple and Kindling wood. All at lowest cash prices. Tel. 116, George Dick, foot of Garman street.

THE PULP MILL.

A Toronto Man Told the Mayor a Syndicate Might Purchase it.

A report is current to the effect that the city had received an offer for the Mispic pulp mills but as far as can be learned it is thus far without foundation. A Times reporter interviewed Mayor White this morning in reference to the matter. He stated that yesterday Frank Denton, of Toronto, representing an upper Canadian pulp syndicate waited on him. Mr. Denton informed his worship that the syndicate which he represented wanted to purchase the property. Denton was given all the particulars in connection with the property and left today for his home in Toronto. Mayor White expects to hear from him in a few days.

A SARDINE WAR.

The Fishermen Strike For Higher Prices and Buyers Refuse.

There is trouble among the sardine fishermen this morning. The price was jumped from $2 to $5, per bushel. As a consequence the five American schooners that are now in port buying the sardine herrings have refused to buy the fish at that price, and have cleared their vessels for home. Unless the price is fixed before six o'clock at the rate they will sail for their home ports.

WILL REPAIR HERE.

The Schooner Lavonia Arrives in Damaged Condition.

The schooner Lavonia, Captain Tower, which was in collision with the schooner Omega of Petite Passade last night, arrived in port this morning, badly damaged during the collision. She lost her anchors and foremast; her hull is broken in and chaffed, and her rigging is set away in places. The schooner was on her way to New York from Port Greville, N. S., loaded with plating, and she will make repairs at this port.

At the close of the ceremony luncheon will be served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Purdy will leave for a trip to Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Washington. WAS NOT LOST.

The Report About Loss of Steamer Call Was a Fake.

The morning papers had a despatch from Chatham to the following effect:—"The Chatham steamer, Call, newly built was lost off New London (P. E. I.), with a crew of nineteen men. Mr. Fagar, one of the owners, who had every cent he owned to the word of the disaster this morning. He had not a dollar of insurance. The steamer sank Saturday night." The story is not true. A despatch from Charlottetown to the Times says:—"Believe report a fake. Nothing known here. Message from Rusticoville, New London, last night said S. S. Call all right."

A Chatham despatch adds:—"No truth in report. A telegram has been received from captain of steamer since report was started."

POLICE COURT.

Although there were but four prisoners, on a bench, at the police court this morning, the magistrate was kept busy.

Two simple drinks were disposed of in the customary manner.

John Lefane, who was given in charge by James W. Smith, for assaulting and beating him, in his barn, on Sydney street, was fined $30, or thirty days jail.

George Ryan, arrested on Carleton street last night, on a charge of obstructing the sidewalk by standing in the middle of the walk and refusing to move when instructed by the police; also for assaulting Officer Fagar, deposited his bonds and the case will be resumed on Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

William Sullivan, who was reported for smoking in No. 4 warehouse, on Oct. 7, was fined $10 or ten days hard labor.

Charles Pidgeon, the well known Custom House officer at the C. P. R. warehouse, west end, has returned from his vacation much improved in health. He has been visiting Ontario. He says the outlook for winter port business looks bright, and that it is evident that the C. P. R. people think so, because they have enlarged his office by about 15 feet. It is probable that the extra men employed last winter as tidewaters will be employed this winter again by the dominion government.

POLICE REPORTS.

The door of Vroom and Arnold's office, was found open, last night, by the police, who secured it with rings and lock.

20th Century Brand

Fine Tailored Overcoats.

We want you to be fully persuaded of the supremacy of Twentieth Century Brand Fine Tailored Garments. In perfection of fit and finish; the selection of the most fashionable materials; quick response to each season's changes of fashion; correct cut of collar, lapels, length of coat—this season's being longer and very little cut away. Its superior shape-retaining qualities, too, the best of canvas and haircloth being used in addition to high grade tailor-work.

Should we have changed from such a good make as Campbell's, did we not consider we could offer you the best there was in point of style and fit? The ample increase in our business this year has more than justified the change. Men who have been wearing good custom made clothing can wear 20th Century garments and feel right in them, because they are made of fashionable cloths and the cut, finish and style are so excellent.

The progressive concern that manufactures 20th Century Brand Garments in January last entered a new six story factory, 250 feet deep. The increased demand for the goods compelled them to add two additional stories in July.

We invite you to inspect our Overcoat stock; assure you of perfect fitting, stylish well tailored coats, and guarantee every one of them.
