Coun. Morrison reported the following as members of Board of Health—E. Lee Street (chairman), Dr. Desmond, Dr. Nicholson and Dr. Wilson.

Coun. Betis asked why not appoint one from Newcastle and the rest from Treas, said he could.

Coun. Sullivan moved to rescind the resolution of January session, 1897, not to pay indeage or per diem to Councill as for attending July session.

Coun. Betts said there was nothing in the estimates for the payment of mileage or per diem at July session and the Secretary Treasurer had no money for such purposes.

by an intelligent parish, and why should he serve without pay? Coun. Kerr was surprised at Councillors Coun. Kerr was surprised at Councillors at Coun. Sullivan in particular. Chatham would have to pay one-third of the mileage. Let each parish pay its own representatives as much as they liked. He would vote for a motion to authorize Hardwicke to pay Coun. Sullivan. He protested against the proposal to make Chatham pay more mileage, as unfair.

Coun. Betts would not ask Derby to pay him for attending.

pay him for attending. Councillor Sullivan argued that Hard-wicke helped pay larger sums for which Coun. Anderson was tired of hearing about Chatham paying one-third of the taxes. Did she pay more in proportion to valuation than others? Cour, Morrison said when the question fabolishing July sessious arose Coun. Sulrivan was strongly opposed to it, and was willing to come for nothing rather would be willing to repeal the $3 day rule and go back to the old arrange Coun. Betts said it should not be for-and was partly in hi u of payment for at-tendance. This should be reduced now that members are paid $3 a day. Coun. Sullivan said many Councillors felt as he did about this pay question, but did not leel like breaking the fee. No man in his parish had ever asked him to vote for doing away with the July session. Coun. Betts said the cost of running per diem allowance, $450—nearly $1100; without payment for July session.

Coun. Sullivan didn,t give a rap for each an argument. It was injustice to cuch an argument. It was injustice to Councillors to ask them to serve without pay. Look at the payments to the Sher-iff and the Sec. Treasurer: Don't pile up the money collected for taxes, but pay it out, circulate it. Any man who did not take what the law allows him gets no thanks.

Coun. Betts said while most Councils Coun. Botts said waits most Councils were taking only $2 a day this one was taking the maximum allowed by law, $3, while jurors who were just as good men as Councillors, got only $1. Vital blundering apparently marks the management of the present war. It was Sec., Mr. T. A. Clark. madness to engage in war at all while in such an unprepared state, especially with the United States. The failure to properly guard the entrances to Manila Bay wa akin to national crime on the part of the Minister of War and his department. The ordering of Cervera to take his fleet out of Sanciago Bay, where its presence would have been of incalculable service in defending the city from its American invaders, only to meet certain destruction from the mighty American fleet which was just outside awaiting them, seems like foolishness, madness and without any reason. I had determined to watch the kraal and see if I could eath them. Indeed, it was from this habit of mine of watching at night that I first got my native name of Macfinizathn, which may be roughly translated as "he who sleeps with one eye open." So I took my rifle and rose to go. But he called me to him and kissed me on the forehead, saying, "Go bless you. Allan, I hope that you will think of your old father sometimes, and that you will lead a good and happy life."

CARDING.

Now. I am speaking of my early manhood.

It may be wondered that I did not run absolutely wild in such surroandings, but I was held back from this by my father's society. He was one of the gentlest and most refined men that I civer met; even the most savage Kaffir loved him, and his influence was a very good one for me. He used to call himself one of the world's failures. Would that there were more such failures, Every evening when his work was done he would take his prayer-book, and sitting on the little stoep of our station, would read the evening psalms to himself. Sometimes there was not light enough for this, but it made no difference, he knew them all by heart. When he had finished he would look out across the cultivated lands where the mission Kaffirs had their huts.

But I knew it was not these he saw, but rather the grey English church, and the graves ranged side by side before the yew near he wicket gate.

It was there on the stoep that he died. He had not been well, and one evening I was talking to him, and his mind went back to Oxfordshire and my mother. He spoke a good deal of her, saying that she had never been out of his mind for a single day during all these years, and that he rejoiced to think he was drawing near that land whither she had gone. Then he asked me if I remembered that night when Squire Carson came into the study at the vicarage, and told him that his wifebad run away, and that he was going to change his name and bury himself in some romote land.
