280404040404040404040 PROFURABLE HOG TUDEDING

It is important, says Prof. Grisdale, to feed little pigs so they will keep on growing while with their mother To this end the mother should always have rather laxative food, which is rich in protein, but not in too large quantities.

The period from two and one-half months of age until four or five months is the time when young pigs cost most, but they must be kept fed well then if profitable gains are to be made in the long run. After the hogs have reached four and a half months they should be fed heavily for a month and a half, the feed consisting of skim milk, finely ground outs or shorts and if it is summer, pasture; in winter feed roots in lieu of pasture. "Towards the end of the feeding period feed them," says Prof. Grisdale, "for all you are worth."

Where one has some barley it will pay him, when he is finishing his hogs, to sell off a few bushels of this and buy other grains to mix with it for hog feed. Hogs always d better on a mixture of grain TREASURES INHERITED BY than on any one grain, and a mixture of three or four will give better results than one or two. Oats, peas and barley fed in about equal proportions will give good results, and a little oil cake meal or roots as an addition to this will be found

Canadian Appreciation

Langham Hotel, London.

Gentlemen,-I wish to express my appreciation of the 38 h.p. Daimler which you have delivered to me. Before shipping the car to Canada I made a three weeks' trial of it, covering some 1,200 miles. The car ran perfectly, and I never had the slightest trouble of any kind, and I think it quite lives up to the many claims you make for it. The silence, smoothness of running, and power of acceleration on hills is really

My petrol consumption was 16 miles to the gallon, including a great deal of driving in traffic. The tyres show no appreciable signs of wear, and I think it will prove light on tyres. I am really delighted with the car.-Yours sincerely, (Signed) C. A. BOONE, of Toronto, Canada.

Ex-Commissioner Defended.

MR. EDITOR:-I saw a short paragraph in the Osserves about an excommissioner and a commissioner having some hot words.

Now that part of it was true, but the commissioner gave a lie first, and at the time the excommissoner was sitting in a position such that no man could help him-self, and only a coward would do as the commissioner did. But after the ex-commissioner come to his feet, he called the commissione a liar twice to his face.

Why did the commissioner swallow the lie twice? Because the ex-com missioner was in a position to defend himself, and in a good place to decide

HUNTING RARE ORCHIDS

T HAS LURED INNUMERABLE COLLECTORS TO DEATH.

Serrible Dangers Constantly Menace the Man Who Seeks the Beautiful Tropical Plants-It is a Task For the Dauntless and Only a Small Percentage of the Men-Survive-Cruel Disappointments.

Orchid hunters continually face hardships and terrible dangers and many a collector has paid for his daris with his life. The rarer specimens these plants are generally found in the wildest depths of tropic forests. They abound in the greatest profusion. in the hot, damp parts of the West and East Indies, in Madagascar and other islands in the same region, in the moist forests of Brazil, the warm parts of Central America and western Mexico. Not dependent on the sell for their autriment, they are mostly only aligning the trunks and found elinging to the trunks and branches of trees and to stones and grags where they vojetate among ferms and other shade-leving plants. Warmth and moisture are essential

The most parible of all is the tossa ta carniverous heast related to the cat tribe), against which we had constantly to be an guard. One of these animals caused the death of the brother-in-law of the king, a fine, handsome, well-built man. It pounced upon his shoulder, rending the flesh from his back, and mangling him in a frightful manner. Being brother-in-blood to the king, and thus a relative of the deceased man, I had to take part in the tuneral cerehad to take part in the funeral cerenony and werse than that I had to ey their laws, which command that any one has the moral responsi ty of an accident, and death is the esult of it—especially of a relative—ne has the choice of being greased and burned alive or of taking the tole family of the deceased and of

in addition to the dangers and dim-inding of the orchid, there are in-numerable troubles ahead of the in-lefatigable collector before his work a done. The difficulties of getting it but of the country and safely on a come-going boat are almost insuperable and nothing but the most in-domitable parseverance could over-come it. Occasionally an unforeseen circumstance robs a collector of the poils for which he has so strenuously triven. The emel luck of one unformate hunter would be hard to beat. After months of ceaseless toil, expos-ed to the usual risks and hardships of his profession—occasionally wading up to his waist in mud and at other mes venturing into almost inaccessi-is places—he at last succeeded in ble places he at last succeeded in sollecting between 3,000, and 4,000 orchids of an exquisitely beautiful and rare species. His delight knew to bounds, and with all possible haste he commenced his tortuous journey back to the seaboard, where his precious and dearly-won floral treasures would be shipped to England.

His plants safely on board, that wery night a fire broke out in the hold of the vessel and not a single plant was saved. The collector was nearly distracted when he realized what had himseld. With a heavy heart he

How Do You Take Your Defeat. The way a man takes his defeat is a pretty good test of his caliber. The strong man uses his failures for stepping stones instead of stumbling locks. I know a very successful oung man who has made it a rule of his life to use every misiortune that comes to him as a point of departure for something better. He has had losses and misfortunes which would have crushed most men, but they only stiffen his resolution, nerve him up for a new start. They only make him more determined to conquer the next time.-Success.

Great Feats of Strong Men Seen From the Inside.

"The most showy feats in a strength display on the stage are wis ually the simplest," says a veteran showman. "In the majority of instances they are pure takes. Real feats of strength are seldom picturesque enough to be relished by audiences. The touch of sensationalism is needed, and the presence of danger must be scented.

Where Pa Came In. The young couple were out with the new baby when they met the man who had formerly been the husband's

"So this is the new baby," said the former rival enthusiastically. "What a beautiful child he is! He looks just like his mother. He has eyes of blue just like hers, and his nose is just the same. He has her chin and mouth, and did you ever see such a resemblance in their ears? What a beautiful child!"

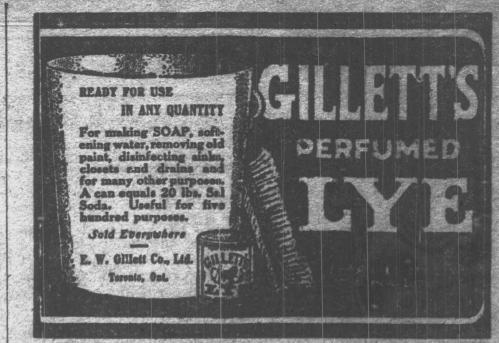

The wife beamed, while the husband stood by glumly.
"Hey!" he blurted out. "The kid hesn't grown his teeth yet. Do you think I've got a chance there?"

The Daring Idea That Was Carried Out

by Johann Comenius Some 300 years ago a German savant of teacher and of child. It seems curious that the first real step toward agatering the labor of children as they climb the ladder of learning was that children could be taught by the aid of the memory and the imagination working together, "by means," as he quaintly expressed it, "of sensuous impressions conveyed to the eye, so that visual objects may be made the the bright idea that picture books could be useful to children. Comenius made his first picture book and called It the "Orbis Pictus." It contains rude woodcuts representing objects in the natural world, as trees and animals, would cause the average modern child net a little astonishment were it placed the drinker. The users of the old reliable Chinese tea known as Oolong are generally of steady, even-minded ways, that know what is what and are satisfied with the substantial things of life and not much given to idle frivolities; people who can be depended on to do about what is right, to say what they mean and mean what they say. Those who use the Oolong with a little green mixed in it to tone it up can almost be put in the same class.

Those using the green teas known as Japanese or Gunpowder are not to be taken seriously; apt to be untruthful and hot-headed; people to be cautious of in all dealing.

A Plous Wish.

Many queer customs and usages are prevalent among the Cossacks of the Don. No man changes his clothing on a Monday. If he did it is believed that he would suffer from a severe skin disease. On Thursday no fat or flesh must be pickled or corned. If any one neglected this the meat would be full of worms in a fortaight. Wool is not spun on a holiday, else the cattle will sicken and die. A hen is always given an uneven number of always given an uneven number of eggs to hatch, never an even number. Bones left from a dinner at a funeral are thrown into the river, else the dead will appear to the living in fear-ful shape. And at the same meal no one dars cut bread. It must always be broken.

ANAEMIA'S VIGTIMS

Can Find New Health in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Anaemia is simply a lack of blood. It therefore follows that the correct treatment for anaemia is one that increases the blood supply. That is really the only treatment that can possibly be successful. The symptoms of anaemia are easily recognized. Paleness, listlessness, the failure of food to nourish, headaches and often in women and girls backaches, faintness and palpitation of the heart. To restore the blood supply to its norroll quantity and quality Dr. Will the Pink Pills can be recommended with confidence. First because they are known to have cured thousands of anaemic people—the highest possible recommendation, seed dly they actually contain the ingredients that combine with the local planted in the province of Ontario. Now the white pine is indigenous to America, and was transplanted to Europe many years ago, to reinforce the forests there. It has flourished so well in the Old World that it now appears that the German nurserymen are able to deliver white pine seedlings on this side of the ocean more cheaply than American nurserymen will furnish them. The interchange of trees among the various continents is a most interesting development of modern civilization. Besides the white pine, Europe has taken from us the Douglas fir and the black walnut, and the black walnut. the correct treatment for anaemia ingredients that combine with the Douglas fir and the black walnut, food and oxygen to make rich, red and we have taken the eucalyptus blood, without which no man, wo-man or growing boy or girl can be spruce and Scotch and Austrian

To the Editor of the Telegraph: Sir,-The writer of this letter has lived in Hartland for the last twenty at Esdraelon, and will run the grist years and has traveled over this mill. country several times, and I can truthfully say that the roads never were in such a condition as they are to-day. Take the village of Hartland, for example, and see in what condition they left the street from Carr's corner running north in front of the Exchange hotel and L. E. Mc-Farland, Liberal: They tore away Mr. McFarland's approach, or plat-form, and made a deep ditch in front of his place and the Exchange hotel, and now, after a shower, this ditch-lies full of water, and Thornton, owner of the Exchange, has to haul gravel and pay for it out of his own pocket, just because he did not vote for J. K. Flemming and the Hazen government. Contrast the difference in the cases of others who are supporters of the famous J. K. Flemming. One man had hauled at least 200 loads of gravel. The road from Hartland to Cloverdale and up to Knowlesville are a disgrace. I traveled over them last Friday. Now you can make what use of this that you like; mention it in your paper, or put it in the waste basket; it is the truth, and I think it a pity to let them pass without letting the public know what a complete failure the present local government is. And I can assure you that Carleton county will not send J. K. Flemming and Donald Munro to Fredericton to reesent them at the next election. they are tired of Tories. Yours respectfully,
