Union With Greece.

Cretan Christians Elect a Provisional Government.

And Decide to Annex the Island to Greece.

The Massacre of Whites in Matabeleland Continues—Home-Coming of the Czar and His Wife.

MORE MASSACRES.

London, July 6.—The massacre of white people in Matabeleland continues. Powerful chiefs are joining the insurgents. The supply of provisions at Buluwayo is short. Premier Sprigg predicts a rising of natives.

JACK THE RIPPER IN GERMANY.

Berlin, July 6.—A new kind of Jack the Ripper has made his appearance in Berlin. Seven young women were slashed across the back with a razor yesterday. The same man committed an assault on all the women.

ANNEXATION OF CRETE TO GREECE.

London, July 6.—As an outcome of an insurrection in Crete against Turkish rule the Christians of the island today elected a provisional government, and decided to proclaim the union of the island with Greece.

DUELING IN GERMANY.

The latest phase of the duel question is that the Emperor has ordered that any infringement of the imperial order of 1874, which binds officers to submit their quarrels to a court of honor before issuing challenges, shall be severely punished.

THE CHOLERA IN CAIRO.

London, July 6.—The official cholera returns at Cairo show that there were reported yesterday throughout Egypt 489 new cases of the disease and 333 deaths, including 27 new cases and 9 deaths among the Egyptian troops at Wady Halfa, on the border of the Soudan.

A WONDERFUL RIFLE.

Vienna, July 6.—Austria, notwithstanding that it is confronted by a big deficit, proposes to spend many millions for a new army rifle, called the Waffe, weighing little over six pounds, and with 26 magazines, containing 130 cartridges. Fifteen thousand rifles have been ordered outright.

FUTURE OF THE COLONIES.

London, July 6.—Speaking at a meeting in support of the unity of the English-speaking world, Sir Walter Besant, the well-known novelist, declared that he did not believe that Canada, Australia and the other great colonies would continue the fiction of dependence upon Great Britain for any great length of time. He said they would go their way with the best wish of Englishmen and become republics with the friendliest feelings toward England.

THE WOMEN WIN.

London, July 6.—The question of the admission of ladies to the terrace of the House of Commons has, as usual, where ladies are concerned, been decided in their favor, and they are free to meet their Parliamentary friends and take tea there whenever they please. A few disgruntled members, mostly gentlemen long past their prime, complained that the presence of ladies on the terrace was a nuisance, and that laughter and chatter interfered with the work of Commoners whose rooms overlook the terrace.

PRINCE LOUIS BANISHED.

Berlin, July 6.—Prince Louis of Bavaria, who raised a storm in Germany by his protests at Moscow against being classed as a follower of Prince Henry of Prussia, who represented Emperor William at the coronation, has had an interview with the Emperor at Kiel. It was brought about by the Prince Regent, Luitpold, and lasted 20 minutes. His Majesty was reserved and haughty, and expressed no direct criticism of Prince Louis' sensational Moscow speech. The prince, instead of remaining with his regiment at Augusburg, as had been intended, has been ordered by his father to proceed to his Hungarian estate, as a sort of mild banishment.

ENGLAND'S STRONG CASE.

London, July 6.—In expressing the hope for an early friendly solution of the Venezuelan dispute, Dr. Emil Reich, in the New Review, declares that the question offers no real ground for arbitration. The article is important, because Dr. Reich has been called upon by the Government for confidential reports on the records here, in Holland and at Caracas. He contends that both law and history prove to the hilt England's claim on the basis of effective occupation. Venezuela, he says, has no serious case, and England would never arbitrate but for intervention of the United States and the supreme English popular desire to remove all obstacles to Anglo-American friendship.

TO WELCOME THE MASSACHUSETTS MEN.

London, July 6.—The Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, the Duke of Connaught, Field Marshal Lord Wolseley, commander-in-chief of the British forces; Field Marshal Lord Roberts, commander of the forces in Ireland; Field Marshal Sir Donald Stewart, governor of the Royal Hospital at Chelsea; Prime Minister Salisbury, and all the members of his Cabinet; ex-Prime Minister Rosebery and most of the leading statesmen have accepted invitations to attend a banquet to be given by the Ancient and Honorable Artilery Company of Boston, which is now en route to this country on the steamer Servia. The banquet will be the biggest event of the visit of the company.

SNUBBED.

London, July 6.—Sir Hercules Robinson, the High Commissioner of South Africa, was in London for three weeks before being accorded an interview with Mr. Chamberlain. He has been snubbed, in short. The Colonial Secretary pins his faith on Sir Graham Bowen, whose daily cable dispatches support Mr. Chamberlain in urging the Cabinet to consent to a large increase in the British forces at Natal and Rhodesia. Sir Hercules Robinson, who has seen other Ministers, holds to the opinion that the troops now there, with the volunteers, will suffice to crush the native insurgents, and that the dispatch of reinforcements would only incense the Boers. Sir Hercules will return to Cape Town as soon as his health permits.

WILLIAM'S INCONSISTENCY.

Berlin, July 6.—At the launching of the German ironclad Frederich III., the Emperor, while inspecting the vessel, remarked: "I hope I may yet see a German navy worthy of the German army."

The radical newspapers contrast his Majesty's well-known desire for a big navy with the peaceful aspiration speech upon the same occasion. Generally, however, the press avoids the subject. The big navy agitation is not popular, and any attempt in that direction will cause severe conflicts in the Reichstag.

The Admiralty are preparing plans and estimates for the construction of six first-class ironclad battleships, and credits for the building of these vessels will be asked from the Reichstag.

AT HOME.

St. Petersburg, July 6.—The Emperor and Empress of Russia made their entry into St. Petersburg on Saturday. The buildings along the Newski Prospect were gaily decorated, but the crowds in the streets were not large, and there was very little suggestion of a holiday. Their Majesties were welcomed by the grand dukes, delegates from the zemstvos, the city corporation, the provincial nobility, etc., who presented them with bouquets and bread, the latter upon splendid silver salvers. The mayor also presented a resolution, passed by the corporation, founding a children's hospital, and remitting the arrears of 14,000 ratepayers, in commemoration of the coronation of the Emperor at Moscow. The report that the Czar is suffering from jaundice is untrue.

COLD COMFORT.

Berlin, July 6.—Li Hung Chang has been received with the greatest enthusiasm and hospitality in Germany, but he departed, leaving griefs and disillusions behind him. Great things were hoped from his visit, a German coaling station in China, big orders to German firms, etc.; but no such orders have been given, and nothing has been done. Secretary Detring, of the Chinese statesman's staff, returning thanks on behalf of Li Hung Chang, at a recent banquet, for the reception accorded the latter, said:

"The Viceroy hopes that no disappointment will result from his visit. The object of his journey was to promote a friendly understanding between China and Germany, and he profited by the occasion to inform himself more completely regarding the capabilities of German industry. When he returns to China he will report upon all he has seen."

This appears to be cold comfort for the German manufacturers.

CABLE NOTES.

A Salonica dispatch says all the Turkish reserves in that district have been called out.

A committee has been formed to celebrate the centenary of the birth of William I., together with the unveiling of a monument to the old Emperor of the Schlossfroheit. There will be historic processions, fetes, public feasts for the poor, etc., in all the German cities.

Herman Friedmann, director of the Rheinisch Westphalian Bank, of which Dr. Fritz Friedmann was chairman, was sentenced to six years' imprisonment and seven years' loss of civil rights, after having been convicted of forgery and embezzlement.

FIRE AT TORONTO.

The Exhibition Grounds Stables Damaged to the Extent of $3,000.

Toronto, Ont., July 6.—The loss on the stables at the exhibition grounds, burned this morning, is $3,000; covered by insurance.

WILL FACE THE MUSIC.

She Was Organist and He the Tenor—They Eloped.

St. Louis, Mo., July 6.—Miss Effie Culver, aged 15, the beautiful daughter of Dr. D. M. Culver, of Indianapolis, and Callin J. Campbell, aged 24, a married man, who eloped from that city twelve days ago, and have been living here since, were arrested last night. A report which had reached the St. Louis police to the effect that Campbell had embezzled funds from the Metropolitan Insurance Company, for which he was a special agent, was denied by him. He consented to return to Indianapolis and face the music without waiting for a requisition. Miss Culver will return also. The couple first met at the Sixth Christian Church of Indianapolis, of which Miss Culver was organist and Campbell tenor.

CHATHAM NEWS.

Interesting Case—An Old Woman Breaks Her Leg—The Tilbury Canal.

Chatham, Ont., July 5.—An interesting case is that of J. K. Morris against the town of Blenheim, in which the plaintiff sued for the return of the proportion of the taxes paid by him devoted to the building of water tanks in the town. Mr. Morris claims that water tanks are water works within the meaning of the statute, and that consequently his farm lands are exempted from assessment for building and maintaining the same. The judge reserved judgment.

L.O.L., No. 1,041, of this city, will go to Wallaceburg on the 12th, led by a band.

At Tilbury yesterday Mrs. Anthier, aged 70 years, fell and fractured her leg.

After several months of quietness Tilbury Canal matters are looking favorable again. Mr. Olney, who has been in New York for several weeks on business connected therewith, writes that his trip have been a most successful one, and we may expect shortly to hear something definite in regard to this most important project.

The Grand Lodge of the Canadian Order of Oddfellows will meet in this city next week. The sessions will continue from July 10. A large number of delegates from all parts of Canada are expected, and the members of the local lodge are making elaborate preparations for their reception and entertainment.

Will He Go?

It is Now Said Tupper Will Get Out Tomorrow.

The Defeated Leader Has a Long Conference with Lord Aberdeen.

A "Red Herring" Argument Thoroughly Exposed.

Progress of the Recounts in Various Constituencies.

THE MAIL'S RED HERRING.

Ottawa, July 6.—The Journal (Independent) has the following:

"The Toronto Mail and Empire keeps up its suggestions that Mr. Laurier's victory and the defeat of the Conservative Government is due to the race cry in Quebec.

"A simple enough condemnation of this baseless idea is the fact that the Conservatives lost just one seat less in Ontario, the Mail and Empire's own province, than they did in Quebec.

"At dissolution, the Conservatives had 29 seats in Quebec. Now they have 16, showing a net loss of 13 ridings in the general election.

"At dissolution, the Conservatives had 56 seats in Ontario. Now they have 44, showing a net loss of 12 ridings on June 23.

"The Conservative loss in the rest of Canada was greater than in either Quebec or Ontario. The party made a net loss of 5 seats in Nova Scotia, 5 in New Brunswick, 3 in the Northwest and 4 in British Columbia. And the party did not gain anywhere, except possibly one seat in Prince Edward Island, and that by an Independent Conservative candidate.

"The Journal rehearses these facts because the Conservative party ought to realize and must realize if it is to fight successfully now an uphill battle, that the causes of its recent defeat were not racial, were not sectional, were not accidental. The defeat was due first of all and above all to general public distrust of the party leaders, due to incompetence, extravagance and unscrupulousness. In the best interest of the Conservative party, as well as of that which is above all party and for which every good citizen should be ready to sacrifice party, namely the good of the country, the true moral of the Conservative defeat should not be disguised."

MAY RESIGN TOMORROW.

Ottawa, July 6.—Sir Charles Tupper went down to Rideau Hall on Saturday and held a two-hours' conference with his Excellency the Governor-General. It is said that Lord Aberdeen questions the constitutional right of the defeated Ministry to make some of the appointments to office presented to him for his sanction, and these differences of opinion led to the prolonged conference of Saturday. It is also understood that the Premier informed his Excellency that he intended to hand in his resignation as head of the Government on Tuesday at noon. The final council meeting will be held, therefore, tomorrow. There was a three-hours' session of the council on Saturday, from 3 o'clock to 6. Mr. Hugh John Macdonald left on the 6 o'clock train for Montreal, and intends leaving for Winnipeg on Monday evening. By that time the Tupper Ministry will have practically ceased to exist. It may be expected that Lord Aberdeen will send for Mr. Laurier on Tuesday and that the Liberal leader will on the same day undertake the task of forming a Ministry. His first duty, as his Excellency's adviser, a position he assumes the moment he is intrusted with the task, will probably be to secure a proclamation postponing the meeting of Parliament called for the 16th. A delay of two weeks would probably be necessary, or perhaps three. If Sir Charles Tupper had resigned a week earlier, as he announced his intention of doing, there would have been no difficulty in meeting Parliament on the 16th.

CARON ON TOP.

Sir A. P. Caron will be the Conservative leader from Quebec in the Commons. He has been assigned to a seat immediately on Sir Charles Tupper's right on the Opposition benches.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION.

Winnipeg, July 6.—It is reported here that negotiations are now in progress for the settlement of the Manitoba school question, without reference to the Dominion Parliament. It is stated that the Greenway Government has expressed its willingness to give the Manitoba Catholics the same privileges as are enjoyed by their co-religionists in Nova Scotia, separate schools being allowed in certain districts where the Catholics are in the majority. This is said to be satisfactory to the Catholics, who would also be appeased by a French Liberal being taken into the Manitoba Cabinet. These are street rumors today, and the papers make note of it. No official information can be obtained.

LAURIER'S SECOND SEAT.

Full returns from Saskatchewan elect Mr. Laurier by 43 majority. D'Alton McCarthy's correct majority in Brandon is 335. Full returns from Alberta elect Oliver (Liberal) by 784 majority, the vote standing: Oliver 3,647, Cochrane 2,863. Local Liberals say it is likely Mr. Laurier will sit for Saskatchewan, and it is said word has been received from him to that effect. In that case it is probable he would be returned by acclamation when offering for re-election, but Conservatives say they will oppose any local Liberal who might offer.

CUT HIS BEARD AT LAST.

Mr. D. F. McDonald, who has been a resident of Parry Sound for many years, and who s known by almost every citizen, walked through the main streets of that town the morning after the elections totally unrecognized. When the Mackenzie Government was put out of power in 1878 Mr. McDonald took a solemn vow never to shave his face until the Liberal party had control of the country again. He kept his resolve, and until the morning of the 24th of June last he wore a noble beard. On that morning, however, when he learned that the Liberals were victorious, he shaved off his beard, and it made such a change in his appearance that few knew him as the D. F. McDonald of old.

RECOUNTS, ETC.

Mr. Laurier arrived in Montreal from Arthabaskaville Saturday night, and will probably remain here until summoned to Ottawa.

Hon. Joseph Martin has left Winnipeg for Regina, where he is to watch the recount proceedings in West Assiniboi in behalf of Mr. McInnis, the Patron-Liberal candidate, who is confident of winning the seat from Mr. Davin (Conservative-. Mr. McInnis says he has at least 7 majority.

A recount of ballots for Marquette, ordered at the instance of Mr. Ashdown (Liberal), will be held at Rapid City today. In case of the recount being unfavorable, Mr. Ashdown will protest the election.

Recounts are in progress today for North Grey, North Bruce and South Waterloo.

A recount for East Lambton will take place on Wednesday next.

The recount in Hamilton was in progress today. Rev. Mr. Boville gained somewhat, but it is not believed that he can be counted in.

The recount for North Middlesex was adjourned on Saturday. If the ballots marked outside the disk are counted, Mr. Ratz (Liberal) will have over 60 majority.

The Shareholder and Insurance Gazette in an article on the political situation censures the Tupper Government for clinging to office after it has lost the confidence of the people.

Still Alive.

Rappings Heard from the Imprisoned Miners in Twin Shaft,

Though Buried a Whole Week—Rescuer Surprised.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 6.—Some of the entombed miners in the Twin shaft are evidently still alive, although a week has passed since the cave-in occurred.

The 11 o'clock shift this morning reported hearing rappings, and every man came up feeling absolutely convinced that some of the victims of the disaster are alive. They not only heard rappings, but answered them. Several of the men on the shift had managed to crawl over the debris about 110 feet from the face of the fall. Here they found an open space blocked by a mass of rock and coal over which it is impossible to force a way. While they were examining the fall they were startled by hearing five distinct tappings on the rail. Two with a little interval between them, and then three rapidly. Before they recovered from their astonishment the rappings had been repeated.

DESTROYING THE PEA CROP.

Ontario Government Experts Inquiring Into the Growth of a Fungus in Prince Edward County.

Picton, July 6.—Prof. Panton, of the Guelph Ontario Agricultural Collegt, and Prof. Craig, of Ottawa, were here on Saturday to investigate the cause that produces a fungus which is affecting the pea vines in this vicinity. It was first discovered in the township of Hillier, in this county, some four or five years ago, and each year since has increased in the area of the blight, and this year it has been so fatal that very many acres of peas have been plowed up. Unless something can be done to eradicate the fungus, or at least check its ravages, it will be a great loss to the farming community in this and adjoining counties. The two large seed houses here have put out seed enough this year to produce between 300,000 and 400,000 bushels of peas, which they contract to take at 90 cents to $2 50 per bushels. If this source of profitable farming is destroyed, it means a serious loss to the farming community.

Mrs. Burnett has concluded to dramatize her new story, "A Lady of Quality," and it will be produced on some English or American stage within a year or so.

ELECTION BETS.

A subscriber (Watford) asks the sporting editor, "Is is proper for a stakeholder to pay over the stakes on the decision of the returning officer when a recount is to take place later?"

The rule is, unless a stipulation is made to the contrary when the bet is made, to decide the bet by the declaration of the returning officer, and without waiting for a recount. Recent experiences show the wisdom of either not betting at all or of making an express stipulation in this regard.

BASEBALL.

TORONTO'S FAREWELL.

Toronto, Ont., July 6.—The Torontos arrived here today from Buffalo. They play Rochester today and tomorrow over the Don, and then say good-bye forever. On Wednesday their name will be Albany, and in the New York State capital they open the season on July 8 with Syracuse. Albany will play Sunday games.

ALERTS DEFEAT GALT.

As Plummer has been laid off for not attending to business, and Wood preferred not to pitch because of wet grounds, the Alerts fell back on Bert Sheere Saturday at Galt. Bert pitched a good game, and at critical times was effective. It was peculiar that Galt's heavy batters could do little with his delivery. The Alerts did not do any great execution with McGinnis' pitching, but won the game through superior fielding. The infield work was especially good. None of the Alerts' errors were costly, though some were inexcusable. The Alerts have won three out of the last four games, and are steadily crawling up. It now looks as if the real battle for the pennant will be between London and Guelph. Saturday's score was:

LEAFS VS. HAMS.

Guelph, July 4.—The champions defeated the Hams here today in a game that nearly resulted in a shut-out for the visitors The fielding of both teams was brilliant, the home nine playing without an error. The Hamiltons were handicapped by the absence of Morrison, the heavy-hitting first baseman. Barlow, of last year's team, covered center field, and Mallott took Morrison's position. Roberts carried off the honors for the Leafs, making three of the six hits, and succeeded in being struck by a pitched ball, as usual. McDermott was very wild, giving nine bases in all, and at inopportune moments. Bradford kept the hits well scattered. The score:

THE WESTERN LEAGUE.

Detroit retains second place, but the margin grows smaller. The "polis" towns are likely to crowd their eastern rival to the rear and fight it out among themselves unless Detroit braces up. The standing:

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE.

The Orioles dropped a game to New-York Saturday and stepped a pace to the rear. The see-saw is scarcely less aggravating, but Cincinnati is slowly climbing up, while the Beaneaters are also doing good work. The standing:

Toronto refuses to support a ball team that would be a credit to any city. It has been forging ahead, and is now within hailing distance of the pennant. The standing:

FLYS.

The Alerts expect to sign a new pitcher shortly.

Galt will lay off McGinnis and has signed Clark and Sturtevant, two pitchers.

Galt plays in London on Wednesday, and Guelph in Hamilton. London meets Guelph here on Saturday next.

The Arlingtons declined to play the Pastimes on Saturday at Springbank, claiming that the Pastimes always took a crowd of rooters with them to make it unpleasant for opponents. The Pastimes refused to play at Tecumseh Park, as the Arlingtons wished. The City League may be broken up in consequence.

CRICKET.

ASYLUM VS. R. R. C. I.

A game of cricket was played Friday on the Asylum grounds between the Asylum and No. 1 Company, R.R. C. I. clubs. Some very fine work was done by both teams. The Asylums defeated their opponents by a score of 228 to 122, due mainly to the fine team work of the former; they playing well together. No. 1 Company put up a strong game, and showed that they had the material in them of which good cricketers are made, their bowling especially showing qualities of no mean order. Walker and H. Bucke, for the Asylum, went first to bat, and made a stout stand, 36 runs being scored before the fall of the first wicket. Double figures were made for the Asylum by Walker, Dr. Hobbs, Reid, Burnand, Purton, Heighway, E. P. Bucke and Dunn; for No. 1 Company by James, Dunlevy and Mathews.

BUFFALO BEATEN.

Toronto, July 4.—Parkdale Cricket Club beat Buffalo at the exhibition grounds today in a one-inning match by a score of 86 to 60.

OXFORD BEATS CAMBRIDGE.

London, July 4.—The Oxford cricket team beat the Cambridge eleven today by 5 wickets.

HOBBS VS. CONSERVATIVE C. C.

An interesting game of cricket was played between the above clubs at the Conservative Cricket Club's grounds on Saturday afternoon, resulting in a victory for the Hobbs team, after an exciting contest. The home side batted first, and owing to the deadly bowling of Messrs. Dinnen, Smeaton and Tanner were dismissed for a total of 39. McLean scored 12 runs in good style, and Messrs. Ham and Garrett did the bulk of the balance of the scoring for the Conservatives. When the Hobbs team went to bat wickets fell very quickly, owing to Andras' effective delivery, but a timely stand by Dinnen and Platt changed the complexion of the game, and later the heavy hitting of Sippi and Smeaton made the victory of the visitors certain. Sippi (14), Dinnen (13), Platt (9), and Smeaton (7) were the principal contributors to the Hobbs total. One remarkable feature of the Hobbs inning was the fact that no less than four batsmen were run out, which speaks well for the fielding of the Conservative team. The score:

THE WHEEL.

STUCK TO HIS POSITION.

Upon the bench he sat and sat,
While others came and went,
His face, half hidden 'neath his hat,
Showed doubt and terror blent.
His sweetheart passed—he didn't rise—
She knew not what he meant;
She little guessed the dreadful ties
That held him while she went.
For, though with love his heart was filled,
He moved to no extent,
Because he sat where some one spilled
A tube of bike cement!

ANOTHER RECORD BROKEN.

New York, July 6.—Arthur E. Smith, the western cyclist who left Chicago last Sunday night for this city, in an endeavor to break the bicycle record of 142 hours and 15 minutes, between that city and this, arrived here at 3:21 o'clock Saturday afternoon, smashing the record by 4 hours and 54 minutes.

TREATMENT OF BRUISES.

The more common injuries of bicycle riders are simply contusions. A bruise or contusion consists of an injury to the tissues in which the small blood vessels have been broken, allowing the escape of blood into the flesh and under the skin. Can it be obtained, the very best treatment for a bruise is with water as hot as can be borne, and a little hotter than the patient usually thinks necessary. Curiously enough, when hot water is not obtainable, the next best treatment is cold water. The dispute between hot and cold water in the treatment of such injuries has arisen from a lack of knowledge of the fact that both are good, though doctors are strongly of the opinion that hot water is better than cold. If there is great pain, the clothing may be saturated with laudanum or with alcohol.

THE TURF.

BEL AIR POSTPONEMENT.

Montreal, July 4.—Today's races at the Bel Air track have been postponed on account of rain.

A SURPRISE FOR SHEEPSHEAD.

Sheepshead Bay Track, July 4.—About 12,000 people witnessed the races this afternoon. The big events were the great trial stakes, of the value of $20,000, for 2-year-olds, and the Sheepshead Bay handicap, of the value of $1,500, for 3-year-olds. As all the fields were quite large, the talent had a hard job to pick the winner, but those who did not back favorites were lucky, for in a large majority of the events an outsider finished in the lead. After Rotterdam, a 15 to 1 shot, had defeated Tragedian in the opening event, and Sue Kitty, of odds of 7 to 1, had finished before Sir Dixon, Jun., in the second, the bugle sounded for the big event of the day, the race for the great trial stakes. Octagon and Don De Oro were coupled in the betting at odds of 2 to 1, while the Friar was thought well of, and went to the post at 3 to 1 against him. The betting on others ranged from 7 to 1 to 60 to 1, and odds of 20 to 1 could easily be secured against Winged Foot, who was thought to be outclassed. Finally the flag dropped, and Winged Foot, the daughter of Buchanan and Longshore, rushed to the front, followed by Rhodesia, Bastion, The Friar and Ornament. They held this order for a quarter, when Octagon came around his field and joined the leaders. Bastion and Rhodesia soon showed the white feather, leaving Winged Foot in front at the bend. Winged Foot was never troubled after this, winning in hand by a length from Ornament, who was two lengths in front of The Friar, Panmure, George Kossler, Challenger, Don De Oro, Rhodesia, Bastion, Scottish Chieftain and Bannock, who finished in this order named. The next event on the card was the race for the Sheepshead Bay handicap. To a good start Gotham jumped away in the lead, followed by Hanwell, St. Maxim and Sir Walter. They ran in this order to the far turn, where St. Maxim drew away, winning very easily by a length and a half from Gotham, with Glenmoyne and Sir Walter following, necks apart. The other races were well contested. Summary:

First race, 5 furlongs—Rotterdam, 15 to 1, 1; Tragedian, 20 to 1, 2; Nina Louise, 5 to 1, 3. Time, 1:01 1-15.

Second race, 1 1-2 miles—Sue Kitty, 7 to 1, 1; Sir Dixon, Jun., 8 to 5, 2; Long Beach, 5 to 1, 3. Time, 2:37.

Third race, Futurity course—Winged Foot, 20 to 1, 1; Ornament, 7 to 1, 2; The Friar, 3 to 1, 3. Time, 1:10 1-5.

Fourth race, 1 mile—St. Maxim, 13 to 5, 1; Gotham, 20 to 1, 2; Hanwell, 10 to 1, 3. Time, 1:40 1-4.

Fifth race, 6 1-2 furlongs—Reel, 4 to 5, 1; Ed. Kearney, 10 to 1, 2; Amanda, 7 to 2, 3. Time, 1:19 4-5.

Sixth race, 7 furlongs—Harpsichord, 6 to 1, 1; Nick Johnson, 20 to 1, 2; Medica, 7 to 5, 3. Time, 1:30.

Seventh race, full steeplechase course—Red Pat, 6 to 1, 1; Lion Heart, 13 to 5, 2; Marcus, 13 to 5, 3. Time, 5:33.

ROBERT J. FAILED.

Peoria, Ill., July 4.—There was a big attendance at the last day's meeting of the Peoria Agricultural Trotting Society. The event of the day was the attempt of Robert J. to lower his record of 2:01 1-2, but the best he could do was 2:05 1-4. This was due in a great measure to having a poor pacemaker; the runner selected for this purpose could not keep up with the speedy Robert. The 2:10 trot was won by Kentucky Union in straight heats. Best time, 2:09 1-4.

The 2:20 pace was won by Pilot Medium, Jun. It took him six heats before he could land the money, he winning the second, third and sixth. Best time, 2:13 3-4. It took six heats to decide the 2:40 pace, Bright Light finally winning. There was a large field in this race, fourteen horses competing. The best time was 2:12 1-2. In the free-for-all trot, Fantasy won the first, third and fourth heats. Best time, 2:11 1-4. Robert J.'s time by quarters was :31:3-4, 1:04 1-2, 1:35 1-2, 2:05 1-4.

A BIG PRIZE.

Hamburg, July 5.—The trotting races for the grand prize of 100,000 marks took place today, and was won by Count Batthyany's Ganache; M. Lebaudy's Toreador was second and Capt. Blottnitz's Goldreger third.

The Deceitful Camera.

How Stout Women Acquire Curves and Thin Women Angles—By the Aid of Light You Can be Transformed Into a Thing of Beauty and a Joy Forever.

"We are sure of at least two sittings from every woman during her lifetime," said a well known photographer complacently. She is sure to be photographed in her wedding gown, and once, at least, as she has a mother, in short frocks.

"It is natural that most women should like to be photographed. You see the attention is all concentrated on them, and then they fancy they see themselves just as others see them. Fancy—yes, because the camera lies, and we assist it to lie. We have to," he added apologetically, "or people wouldn't like us so well."

He took down the picture of a well known singer. "Madam weighs about 180 pounds. She is very handsome, very attractive, and she sings like an angel; but the 180 pounds are there just the same. Now, it is a great satisfaction to madam to look at this picture and see her slim waist, her finely curved arms, her slender hips, her tapering wrists, her delicate throat. Examine the photograph closely. Where those deep shadows are, those black lines, yes; that was the outline of the arm, that the width of the hip, this the line of the waist, and there—well, yes, we must acknowledge there was a double chin.

"On the negative I carefully mark (it requires an artistic touch, because one must be sure not to destroy the individuality), a certain distance within or beyond, according to the subject, the original lines. A picture must be pretty. One does not want ugly pictures about, and then, too, we must make up to you for your loss of animation of color.

"Now, there is a point, a very difficult one. Nine women out of ten, I am sorry to say it, come in here with the rouge on the cheek, the paint on the lips, the powder on the nose.

"'Madam,' I say politely, 'remove it all, I beg of you; you do not need it and I cannot do you justice with it on.' However, she still clings to a little—a woman who paints has a positive horror of showing herself without it, even to a photographer. I then study her closely for a few moments, and then it is that with the subject herself I assist deception. A few dark lines about the eyes throw them out and make them larger, a penciled shadow under the chin does away with the appearance of too much flesh. Then add a certain pose of the head, a correct adjustment of the light, and you have made a properly proportioned woman.

"Pose is most important, as it is most characteristic. The fad of today is natural posing, an excellent fad and quite in accordance with the photographer's ideas if it be graceful, but to drop down into a chair with the arms in any position is not what we call posing."

Fractions.

Bright children in school are in great danger sometimes of passing over the border line of mathematics into the forbidden domain of common sense. A teacher once said to her class in mental arithmetic:

"Now, boys, I have a few questions in fraction to ask. Suppose I have a piece of beefsteak and cut it into two pieces. What would those pieces be called?"

"Halves!" shouted the class.

"Right. And if I cut each into two pieces?"

"Quarters!"

"That is correct. And if the quarters were each cut in half?"

"Eighths!"

"Yes." And if those were chopped in two?"

The answers had been growing fewer and fewer, but one boy meditated a moment and answered:

"Sixteenths!"

"Very good. And when the sixteenths were cut in half, what would they be?"

There was silence in the class, but presently a little boy at the foot put up his hand.

"Do you know, Johnny? Well, you may tell me."

"Hash!" answered Johnny, confidently—and truly.

We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is without doubt the best medicine ever introduced for dysentery, diarrhea, cholera, and all summer complaints, sea sickness, etc. It promptly gives relief, and never fails to effect a positive cure. Mothers should never be without a bottle when their children are teething.

In the Nineteenth Century Review Dr. Fenton says of the "scorcher" that his function in the cycling world is like that of the helot in Sparta, who was made drunk to show society what an objectionable thing the abuse of alcohol might be.

We are informed that on the occasion of the millennium celebration in Budapest, Hungary, his Majesty the Emperor of Austria and King of Hungary bestowed the Order of the Iron Crown on Mr. Andreas Saxlehner, whose aperient water is known all over the world under the name of "Hunyadi Janos." This is the highest distinction in Hungary that can be obtained, and in rare instances only, for commercial and industrial achievements, and the same may be looked upon as a testimonial confirming the high standing of the firm of Andreas Saxlehner in Hungary. b

The Canadian Indians.

It Is Said That Civilization Has Proved Too Much for Them.

What Benefits They Derive from It Are More Than Counterbalanced by Its Evil Effects Upon Them—Their Customs and Superstitions.

A JAUNT of six weeks in the wilds of Canada between Lake Nepigon and Hudson Bay has brought me to the conclusion that the benefits derived by the aborigines from contact with civilization are far more than counterbalanced by the evil effects thereof, says a writer in the New York Herald. Necessity has compelled the Indian to adopt in a measure the dress of the European, the gun and knife have taken the place of the bow and the tomahawk, a few have been converted to Christianity and a few more have been taught to disregard the religious belief of their ancestors, but the vast majority still adhere in all respects to the manners and customs created by natural disposition and the exigencies of life in the wilderness.

The Indians are still numerous, but that they are decreasing in number is the testimony of all. Those who remain prefer to have as little to do with the white man as possible. They acknowledge the superiority of the Caucasian. Their martial spirit has been broken and they lead an existence whose only aim seems to be provide food and clothing for the present. The number of half breeds compared with the pure Ojibways is insignificant, but even in these half breeds the spirit of the aborigines is predominant; they prefer to live the nomadic life of their dusky parent, and comparatively few of them have acquired a knowledge of the English language or in any way imitate the habits and customs of the whites. They have learned the use of twine in the construction of the gill net, but they prefer their own fishhooks made of bone and wood. Although factory made shoes have been introduced they prefer their own moccasons and snow-shoes. A gun is a necessity to them, but they have not advanced sufficiently to recognize the value of a breech loader; they still use the old smooth bore musket, which carries either shot or ball. They have no horses or cattle and, in fact, no domestic animal excepting the dog, the latter being used in their winter travels.

On the shores of Lake Nepigon, somewhat over a hundred miles north of Lake Superior, I found one small patch of potatoes, not sufficient to keep one family through the winter; the owner said that it was his second and last experiment in raising the tubers. The fact is that every Indian who came along helped himself, as had been his wont, to all he desired of the products of the fields and the woods, and the amateur farmer found little to reward him for his labor.

I was accompanied in my travels by two half breeds who spoke English, and by two Chippewa Indians, who understood nothing of what I said excepting the few words of Ojibway I had picked up. I spent nearly all my time in travelling, and consequently had an excellent opportunity of obtaining an insight into the mode of the life of the Indian of the present day.

They believe that Nannibijou created the heavens and the earth and all things in and upon them; that Nannibijou died and that the present ruler of the universe is Manitou. To the latter they offer their prayers, but hold the former in greater veneration. A projecting rock which by the ravages of time and the disintegration of adjoining formations has assumed a fantastic form is looked upon as an object placed there by Nannibijou for their veneration. In peculiar formations of rock they see counterfeit presentiments of the God of creation. The wa-wa-te, or northern light, is to them an evidence of his existence. On the shores of Lake Nepigon I saw a number of these formations made by the wind and the rain and the disintegration of the soil.

In one place a gigantic rock had crumbled, leaving only a columnar formation projecting from the water. The top of this column might by a slight stretch of the imagination be made to resemble the head of some grotesque being.

"Suppose I were to ascend that column and knock off the head, what would happen?" I inquired of one of the half breeds.

"The Indians would kill you," was the reply. Further inquiry elicited the fact that the Indians believed such a desecration would result in injury to all living in the neighborhood or passing that way. My halfbreeds were both professing Christians but their new faith had not eradicated their veneration for the God of the Indian.

The worship of a beneficent Creator ceases with veneration for Nannibijou and Manitou. The rest of the mythology of the Indian is one mass of demons, who exact tribute in prayer and observance of certain laws founded on superstition. Manitou is the source of all good, but this good cannot accrue to the Indian unless the devils are appeased. Manitou is willing to make the Indian happy, and all that is necessary for the attainment of that end is the propitiation of the enemies of both.

The Indians in the interior still adhere to the primitive mode of disposing of the remains of their dead, the corpse, attired in a new suit of clothes, being placed on a platform some ten or twelve feet high. Those living nearer to civilization have adopted burial, but even then the new suit of clothes is indispensible and the body is placed in an upright or a sitting position on some hillside facing a lake or river, that the eyes of the dead may see the canoes or chimans passing by. Their weapons are invariably interred with the bodies.

The Indian is very fond of dancing, and although some of them undertake the dances of modern civilization they all prefer the dance of their forefathers. This consists of merely jumping around in a circle, the centre of which is occupied by the musician. The latter beats a drum, generally made of an iron kettle with muslin or similar fabric stretched over the head and tightened by means of a paste of flour and water. He accompanies the beating with a chanting of war songs, passages of which excite enthusiasm.

Whiskey attains its object with greater facility in the internal economy of an Indian than it does in that of a white man. One drink is sufficient to set an Indian crazy, and the only object for which he seems to live when in that condition is to violate the laws. He is ready for any kind of deviltry. For the purpose of reducing the infractions of laws to as small a number as possible the statutes of Canada make it an offence punishable by a fine of $100 or imprisonment for ninety days for any person to give or sell any intoxicating liquor to an Indian. This law is, however, continually violated, and I saw several instances in which physical restraint was necessary to prevent bloodshed.

Social and commercial ostracism and general distrust are the punishment for crime. The government attempts to enforce the laws against crime, but the Indians object to this interference. Murder is left to be punished by vengeance of the aggrieved relatives; if there are none of these the chances are that the crime goes unpunished.

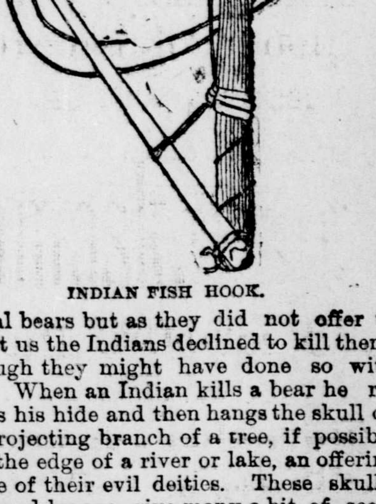

A curious incident, which is at present causing a great deal of talk among the Chippewas, was narrated to me by several or them, some of whom were witnesses of the occurrence. An Indian of strong build and apparently enjoying his usual health, announced that in ten days he would be dead. He was laughed at, but he persisted in his statement and made all preparations for death. He straightened out his accounts with the Hudson Bay Company, and finding that there was no balance in his favor on the books of the company, he asked whether the company would furnish him with a new suit of clothes to be buried in. This was promised apparently to his great relief.

The fatal day arrived and a number of Indians assembled at the wigwam. The Indian was apparently as healthy as ever and was reclining at ease on his blanket made of rabbit skins. As sunset approached he got up and walked out. He pointed to a distant mountain in the west and said:—"When the sun has passed beyond that mountain I shall be dead." A few minutes before that time arrived he returned to the wigwam and lay down. The sun set and those who went to rouse the Indian found him dead. There had been no death struggle, no pain or manifestation thereof, life had passed quietly away.

The Indians know that their race is dying out; they see it decreasing in numbers every year. They blame the white man for a large portion of their misfortunes, but what they say is uttered in sorrow, not in anger; they are resigned to their fate. They say that now the Indian is subject to colds and to consumption, and they claim that these are whitemen's diseases and the Indians of a few centuries ago knew them not. Consumption is certainly killing them off. I have seen them lying about my camp fire expectorating blood in considerable quantities, but this did not seem to disturb their serenity. They are very fond of visiting each other, and whenever I pitched my tent the dusky children of the forest gathered to exchange notes with the Indians in my employ. Just at present they are suffering from a severe visitation of the measles, and as they are utterly helpless the death rate is large.

Few of the game and fish laws passed by the various provinces of the Dominion affect the Indian, nearly every one of these laws contain a provision that it shall not apply to the aborigines. This is due to the fact that fish and game furnish food for the Indian. But the Indian has laws of his own on the subject, some of these laws being based on superstition, others on reason. Fourteen is the limit to the number of bears any one Indian may kill in a season; if he kills more than that number one of the numerous devils constituting his mythology will make trouble for him. Bears are hunted by means of steel traps and deadfalls, the latter being baited with fish. Should an Indian approach the number of fourteen he will set only enough traps to make his complement in full. If by any accident he should capture more than fourteen he will liberate all in excess of that number, if the bears in excess of fourteen have been killed in deadfalls he expects some grave misfortune and it takes a great many prayers to avert it.

If an Indian is stricken with illness or meets with a serious accident his fellows look at him askance and argue that he must have killed more than fourteen bears in the past season. During the summer months an Indian may kill a bear for food but he must be near starvation before he will do so. In my travels we encountered several bears but as they did not offer to molest us the Indians declined to kill them, although they might have done so with ease. When an Indian kills a bear he removes his hide and then hangs the skull on the projecting branch of a tree, if possible near the edge of a river or lake, an offering to one of their evil deities. These skulls, whitened by age, give many a bit of scenery a peculiar aspect.

If by reason of constant hunting or some other cause any species or animal decreases in number the Indian ceases his pursuit and a close season thus established by common consent is far better observed than close seasons made by Legislatures. Just at present there is a close season for rabbits and an Indian during the coming winter will not kill more rabbits than he needs for food. Few rabbit skin blankets will be made this year. These rabbit skin blankets are, by the way, a most necessary article for the Indian and a most convenient one for the wilderness for sport or other pleasure. It takes from a hundred to a hundred and fifty rabbits to make a blanket. The animals are captured in the winter months, when the fur is nearly all white. The fur is cut into strips of the width of about an inch; these are fastened together, and after they had lain a week or so the squaws weave them into a blanket large enough for an Indian to wrap himself up in. Blankets of this kind become gray with age and last eight or ten years. The constant coming out of the white hair is an objectionable feature to their use in civilization.

Missing Links.

If plenty of clover is given there will be much less necessity for supplying lime, as there is considerable lime in the composition of clover.

While less range is needed during the winter than in summer, at the same time it is usually best to give the fowls every opportunity to exercise.

By the patient archæological research carried on by one women it has been proved, for the gratification of all women, that the bifurcated nether garment supposed to be specially distinctive of the masculine toilet rightly belongs to the feminine dress. The women of Judah, it seems, were the first wearers of the garment in bifurcated form, and man, perceiving the convenience and comfort of this article of dress, evolved by the superior intelligence of women, appropriated it to his own use and doomed his womenkind to incumber their limbs with flowing robes, which render it impossible for them to cope with man in the useful avocations.

Two Box Cure

MILVERTON, 23TH JULY, 1895.

Gentlemen,—For the last ten years I had been troubled with kidney disease, being so bad at intervals that I could not lie in bed at night nor stoop to the ground.

I had tried all the remedies I could find without effect, but heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and procured a box.

I am most happy to say it for my own sake as well as for others that I am perfectly cured after using four boxes.

On "Humeeliahtion."

A K. H. B.'s Latest Reminiscences.

"Long ago, when Dr. Blair was minister of the High Kirk of Edinburgh, he had quite the most cultivated congregation in Scotland. It is the fashion now to run Blair down. But he had his day. And even Samuel Johnson, bitter against Presbytery, declared that Blair's sermon on 'Cornelius, a Devout Man,' was the best he ever read. Once an extremely homely old Highland minister came to Edinburgh, and Dr. Blair, somehow, had to ask him to preach. The congregation never forgot his sermon. Neither did Dr. Blair. There was a crowd of all the refinement of the Scottish metropolis, and there was the elegant Dr. Blair himself.

"The sermon was upon the duty of Humeeliahtion. 'And now, ma freens, in the Thairteenth place, I sall proceed to set before you a Thairteenth reason for Humeeliahtion. And it sall be a reason taken from the Sheeance of Anawtomy. We are informed, by them as is skeeled in the Sheeance o' Anawtomy, that we have got aw the Paddns of a Soo but een. Now, I ask you aw, if we have got aw the Paddns of a Soo but een, if that is no a Thairteenth reason for Humeeliahtion, and a reason taken from the Sheeance o' Anawtomy?'"

"Seeing Good" in Canada.

The success of Mr. Laurier has caused one wonderful thing, and a good thing, too. For the first time since what it called the "midsummer madness" of 1878, the "London Advertiser" is able to see something good in this country.—Hamilton Spectator.

We respectfully invite our contemporary to produce an iota of evidence in support of its statement. The "Advertiser" certainly thought that a mistake was made when a change of Government was decreed in 1878, followed as it was by years of misgovernment and injury to the country. But this journal holds that another change and improvement would have been effected years ago, but for the rascally gerrymander, and the infamous franchise act, by means of which the will of the people was for a time defeated.

The "Advertiser" has always regarded this country as a great, a good country, a land capable, under wise administration, of achieving a most enviable place among the nations of the world. This view may be regarded by some as optimistic, but we have held it with unwavering faith, and mean to hold it. The trouble with our Hamilton contemporary is that it has regarded the men who have mismanaged public affairs as "the country," and has met a well-founded indictment against them, with the outcry, "Don't run down the country." Now, the Tuppers, and the Carons, and the Montagues, and the McGreevys, and the Rykerts are not the country, and deserve no more consideration at the hands of an independent journalist than any other offenders against that which is just and in the public interest. The Spectator does not "run down" Hamilton if in the public interest it gives the police record of one of its citizens, and calls for his punishment when he does wrong.

Again we say, as we have repeatedly averred, Canada is all right. Properly ruled, it is an ideal place in which to live. We are hopeful that it will improve, and we desire that every section of the community—the high tax journals included—shall indulge in no misrepresentation or sinister appeal that may retard that improvement in conditions which has been long delayed, but which we trust is now at hand.

The Conservative wire-pullers of Wallaceburg held a caucus to decide by ballot who should be the customs officer there. This is an original but not always a satisfactory method. In an average assembly every man might vote for himself.

Not a Supporter.

Mr. McNeill, who has been elected by a small majority in North Bruce, has been slated as a Conservative member; but a Wiarton correspondent points out that this is a misrepresentation. For many months, Mr. McNeill has had nothing in common with Sir Charles Tupper, the dictator of the Conservative party. Mr. McNeill was deprived of the management of the Government patronage in the riding, and ignored when any appointments were made. In the House of Commons, Mr. McNeill denounced Sir Charles Tupper in the strongest possible terms, and told him that he was destroying the party. Sir Charles Tupper, in turn, read Mr. McNeill out of the ranks of his followers. And so a great gulf has been fixed between them. To rank Mr. McNeill as a straight supporter of the Tupper Opposition therefore seems out of the question.

When it comes to leaving office and salary, Sir Charles Tupper justly earns the title of "Old Tomorrow."

In the Century for July are to be noted a portrait of Hans Von Bulow, an article by Marion Crawford on St. Peter's, in Rome; other articles by Richard Malcolm Johnson, W. Nephew King, Mr. Howells and Mr. Aldrich; poems by L. Frank Tooker, Clarence Urmy, Edmund Gosse; continued stories by William M. Sloane and Mrs. Humphrey Ward; short stories by Chester Bailey Fernald and Frank Pope Humphrey, and many other contributions.

Cable Gossip.

British Conservatives Discontented Under Balfour's Leadership.

"Strong Policy" With Regard to Cretan Affairs Favored.

A Great Woman's Congress Held in Berlin—Cabinet Crisis in Germany—The Stars and Stripes in England.

London, July 5.—European politics are stagnant, the most significant incident being the passage of a civil code applicable to the whole of Germany after 1900. This is an important step, in the direction of the complete unification of the Fatherland. British politics are also hopelessly dull. The rating bill has been passed after a prolonged struggle and an all night session. The final vote showed how helpless is a great majority in conducting legislation when even a weak minority is in earnest and well led in obstruction tactics. As the Irish Land Bill is loaded down with amendments the prospect of passing it is seriously clouded. All other measures are dragging. Very little interest is taken in the debates in the House of Commons, which are simply wearisome.

TIRED OF BALFOUR.

Discontent in the Government ranks with Mr. Balfour's leadership has grown apace since the abandonment of the Education Bill. Mr. Balfour seems to be of the opinion that Mr. Chamberlain's leadership is impossible, or that it could only happen at the risk of breaking up the party. In seeking to replace him, three names are under consideration—Mr. Chamberlain, Mr. Goschen, and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach.

THE CRETAN QUESTION.

The debate on the Cretan situation in the House of Commons showed that the dominant sentiment among the "Unionists" and the unanimous feeling of the Liberals was in favor of a strong British policy, even should it go to the length of armed intervention. Mr. Curzon stated, however, that the Government would not imperil the peace of Europe by taking isolated action, and that it would go only as far as the other powers were willing to go. The Speaker voices the Liberal policy in an article urging the Government to use the fleet to prevent Turkish troops from landing in Crete, and to insist upon the neutralization of the island under European control.

IN A FIGHTING MOOD.

A warm struggle is expected in the House of Commons on Monday. Some suggest that the desire to hurry on the Parliament recess has more to do with Dervish shooting than with grouse shooting. The cool season will bring a determined attempt to reconquer the Soudan.

THE SULTAN DISCREDITED.

The Sultan has issued a new series of promises respecting Crete, including amnesty and reforms. After the recent experience in Armenia these must be regarded as a form of Oriental flat currency, which is practically irredeemable. The only reform measures which the Sultan seems capable of carrying out are burning villages and lopping off Christian ears. What Russia wishes the Sultan to do in Crete will be done. England seems to have lost all influence in Constantinople, and the Sultan has only one friend at Westminster, Mr. Ashmead Bartlett.

GOOD OUT OF EVIL.

The Daily News (Liberal), discussing the Venezuelan question, expresses the belief that the arrest of Mr. Harrison, crown surveyor of British Guiana, by Venezuelans, will assist to a settlement of the boundary dispute, since it will open the eyes "of our friends in the United States to the nature of the problem with which we have so long had to deal. It will be good for the Venezuelans," the paper continues, "to experience the irritation of the United States, and the latter, having taken a certain amount of responsibility for the Venezuelan Government, will begin to realize that there are reasons for Great Britain's apparent stubbornness. When Great Britain the pioneer in international arbitration, declines or limits it she is likely to be in the right, and it only requires time to prove this to the friends of the United States."

SUCCESS OF MUNICIPAL SOCIALISM.

The last balance sheet issued by the Glasgow corporation shows that the municipal management of street railways is not a burden on the taxpayers. At the outset the corporation, after taking entire charge of the tramway service, was compelled to purchase a new plant; but in spite of this great expense, it has succeeded in closing accounts with a balance of profit. The satisfactory result has been accomplished with the introduction of half-penny fares, and a great increase of transit facilities. As Glasgow leads the way in experiments in municipal socialism, it is probable that other towns will attempt to own and manage their street railways service. Two Yorkshire towns are already operating tramways as branches of the municipal service, and Manchester is moving in the same direction.

A COSTLY ARRANGEMENT.

The new contract for the carriage of the Canadian mails provides for a service of four 20-knot vessels. If Moville be retained as a port of call and arrangements are made for as quick transit of the mails to London, as from Queenstown to London, at least two days will be saved in delivering Canadian letters. Canadians in London believe that this fast service for mails and passengers will revolutionize the transatlantic trade and greatly damage New York, but this talk has been heard before. What is evident is that these 20-knot ships cannot be kept in service without a great mail subsidy paid by England.

THE STARS AND STRIPES IN LONDON.

Last week's events illustrate the forces making for amity. There was hardly a leading London street Saturday without the Stars and Stripes in honor of Independence Day. The New England pilgrims' meeting and Mr. Bayard's speech, have re-called the Anglo-American kinship in political and religious thought.

At the 4th of July banquet given by the American Society covers were laid for 220 guests. Among those present were the ambassadors and consuls of the various powers and many well-known Americans. Sir Richard Webster, the Attorney-General, proposed a toast to the President of the United States. In offering the toast he paid a high tribute to American institutions, which, he declared, were as near perfection as human wisdom and forethought could make them. This statement was greeted with cheers. Continuing, Sir Richard dwelt upon the honor and dignity with which Mr. Cleveland had filled the office of president. Ambassador Bayard, who presided, proposed "The day we celebrate." In speaking to his toast he said the experience of 120 years had shown that no Government was so strong and safe as that which was anchored in the affections of the people. The echo and impulse of the voluntary principle of the Government, under which the Americans lived, had been felt in Great Britain. Now, there were no other two countries in which the national heart formed so greatly the strength of the Governments. He rejoiced at the assembling of Americans in London. He felt completely at home, as much so as in the United States. Mr. Bayard alluded to the visit to England of the honorable Artillery Company, or Boston, as a gratifying sign of the times, and as likely to hush the spirit that would seek to create contention. Mr. Greer proposed "The community of the English-speaking peoples." Replying to this toast, James Bryce, M.P., advocated a tangible expression of existing community of feeling. He said he sometimes thought that the law of each nation might be so altered as to recognize the civic rights of the citizens of others. Americans ought not to be aliens in Great Britain and vice versa. Nevertheless, the best way to cement the ties between the two countries would be to establish a tribunal to settle international disputes.

GETTING A BRITISH BACKBONE.

The grant of $15,000,000 for the Uganda Railway, which the Commons approved last week, carries the British policy one step further towards the realization of Cecil Rhodes' dream of giving Africa a British backbone from north to south. The Radicals protested, but the Liberal leaders being hampered by the partial assent given by the last Liberal Government, remained silent. The Radicals are actively opposing the whole forward policy in Africa, which Mr. Rhodes' nominal displacement has not caused England to abandon. Sir Charles Dilke, in Cosmopolis, sternly denounces the British-Belgian policy in the Congo State, especially the hypocrisy of civilization towards the weaker races.

A DISCORDANT CABINET.

Rumors have been current throughout the week of another German Cabinet crisis, and in the Reichstag lobby the most extravagant reports were circulated. Inquiries made in a good quarter show that with the exception of the resignation of Baron von Berlepsch, the Minister of Commerce, already recorded, there will be no further changes until after the return of the Emperor. Before the Reichstag reassembles, however, there will be some other Ministerial changes. His Majesty is greatly annoyed at the signal Parliamentary failures which the Minister of War, Gen. Bronsart von Schellendorf, and Dr. Bosse, Minister of Public Instruction, have made during the session, and there is also a lack of harmony in the Cabinet. The Chancellor, Prince Hohenlohe, is too slow and conservative for the taste of some, while the jealousy existing between Mr. Miguel, the Prussian Minister of Finance, and Count Posadowsky, Secretary of the Imperial Treasury, in finances, and the enmity felt by others for Dr. von Boetticher, the Secretary of State for the Interior, prevents smoothness. Prince Hohenlohe's health is also bad, and it is known that before the Emperor's departure for Kiel the Chancellor requested to be relieved of his official burdens.

A great Women's Congress assembled in the Concert House in Berlin on Tuesday at which 1,500 persons, mostly women, were present. The Congress made protests against the provision of the Government's civil code bill, particularly affecting women. Resolutions were passed protesting against the continued deprivation of women of their economic independence; against the relations of married women to their husbands, as presented by the code; against the provision that the goods possessed by a woman shall become the property of the man she marries; against the provision that mothers are not allowed guardian rights over their children, and against the refusal of the Government to give illegitimate children full claims on their fathers. No such demonstration of women has ever been held in Germany, and the general opinion is that the importance and influence cannot be wholly ignored by the authorities.

Curtis Harrison, a Montana hunter, killed three bears in the Big Hole country there the other day. One of the animals was a black bear, one a grizzly and the third a silver tip bear. The hide of the grizzly was said to be as large as that of an ordinary cow, and the carcass weighed over 500 pounds.

Blind

Sometimes persons become blind from impure blood, which develops scrofulous ulcers on the eyeballs, iritis, granulated eyelids, etc. In such cases Hood's Sarsaparilla has been marvelously successful in restoring sight. It shows its powers as a blood purifier and radical cure for scrofula, by removing the cause, thus curing the eyes and restoring all the affected parts to healthy condition. Read this:

"As an act of justice and for the benefit of other mothers who may have afflicted children, I write this. About the first of February, 1882, my daughter Zola, then three years old, contracted sore eyes of the worst form and in a few weeks was entirely blind, being unable to tolerate light of any kind. She suffered and cried until I was almost heartbroken. The best eye specialist in the county treated her for months, but the

Eyes

became worse. Then I took her to a specialist in Indianapolis, who said he could do nothing. I came away with a heavy heart. I met my father's physician, Dr. Berryman, who examined Zola's eyes, and told me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I began to give it as directed and wash her eyes with warm water. Soon I began to notice improvement, and now, having given the child over 9 half dozen bottles, her eyes are greatly improved and she can see as well as any one. She is five years of age, and goes to school. When she began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, she had to eat her meals in a darkened room, but now she is able to sit at the table with the rest of the family." MRS. OLLIE BUSER, Colfax, Indiana.

DROWNED OFF A DREDGE

The Sixteen-Year-Old Wife of the Owner Meets a Sudden End.

Grosse Isle, Mich., July 6.—Mrs. Annie Finley, of Amherstburg, Ont., was drowned Saturday from her husband's dredge, which was at work two miles from Wyandotte. She was standing on the side of the dredge talking to Paul Shield, a young man in a boat, when she lost her balance and fell in. Shield jumped after her and caught her dress, but the suction of the dredge drew her out of his grasp. The body has not yet been recovered. Mrs. Finley lived in Amherstburg. She was only 16 years old. Just one year ago Saturday she was married.

TO ROB A BANK.

Bold Attempt to Get at the Bank of Commerce Vaults in Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Man., July 5.—The Winnipeg police have discovered and frustrated a bold attempt to rob the Bank of Commerce here. Working quite safe from observation in the cellar of an adjoining building, the burglars had removed the brickwork of the wall of the vault, and in another night's work would have been in the vault. The discovery of the plot leaking out prevented the capture of the burglars, of whom there is no clue.

LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson Cameron states: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than a half bottle cured me; I certainly believed it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

This Morning's Recount Favorable to Hyman.

The Judge Counts in Bill Peel's Ballots.

Which Were Objected to Because of the Signature.

Ballots Marked Outside of the Circle Not Counted.

An Adjournment Made After the Returns from Eight Subdivisions Had Been Counted.

The result of the recount in the London election case this morning was a total gain for Hyman of 54 votes.

Beattie lost 2 in No. 1 subdivision; 1 in No. 7, and 3 in No. 8, a total of 6 altogether.

Hyman lost 4 in No. 1 and 1 in No. 8, but gained 3 in No. 4 and 51 in No. 8.

The recount in the city of London election began before the junior judge, Edward Elliott, this morning. It was timed to begin at 11 o'clock, but as all the parties concerned were present at ten minutes to eleven, the proceedings began then.

Judge Elliott sat at the end of one of the long tables in the court room. Behind him stood Franklin Wright, the returning officer, while his clerk and a constable stood guard over the pile of ballot boxes. On the judge's right were Messrs. Hellmuth and Bayly, who appeared for Mr. Beattie. Mr. Beattie himself looked over Mr. Hellmuth's shoulder to see how the count was going. By and bye he had a conference with his friend, Mr. Chinnery Toothe, and then he went for a walk, returning in time to hear the decision in the case of No. 8.

Messrs. Macbeth and McKillop looked after Mr. Hyman's interests, and the general public looked over everybody else's shoulders. The public became so interested at times and pressed so closely that Mr. Wright could not move about freely, and the constable warned the crowd back more than once.

If a collection of the spoiled ballots could be put on exhibition, they would draw a large crowd and pay a good return on the investment. Among the many rejected because of queer marks, hedroglyphics, etc., not one was marked "Prohibition." At any time in the morning an onlooker could tell who a ballot in dispute was marked for by simply noting from which side of the table the arguments came.

Early in the proceedings Judge Elliott decided not to count the ballots marked outside the circle. Mr. Hellmuth argued that he should, and the judge in denying the request, said that he preferred to accept Judge Deacon's decision in the North Renfrew case rather than Judge McDougall's. He argued that when the Legislature directed that the ballot should be marked in the circle, that was the intention of the Legislature, and it should be carried out.

A moment or so later the judge came across one of the ballots rejected because of an impression of blue pencil appearing on the unmarked disk.

Mr. Hellmuth and Mr. Macbeth had a short argument as to whether the ballot was marked for both men, or was really an impression.

"So far as I am concerned," said the judge, "if there is going to be any dispute about ballots marked in that way, I will rule the whole of them out, for the simple reason, as I understand the decisions of the courts, I have no right to introduce even evidence by comparison. I am purely a Ministerial officer, and I have no judicial functions here."

The dispute ceased, and the ballot was counted. It was marked for Beattie, with the imprint on Hyman.

A somewhat similar difference arose over a ballot in No. 2 subdivision, which was also marked for Beattie, and there appeared to be a faint imprint opposite Mr. Hyman's name.

Mr. Hellmuth argued that the ballot had first been marked for Mr. Hyman, the cross then partially rubbed out, and the ballot marked for Beattie.

"It has been held perfectly good," said Mr. Hellmuth, "although you can see a faint imprint of a cross opposite Mr. Hyman's name."

"That is just the difficulty that arises in connection with all of those," said the judge. "There is a cross there that evidently was not made by the impression of the other. The pure and simple question is as to how it came there."

It was decided to examine the ballot under a magnifying glass, and one was sent for. Before it arrived the judge had finished the count of the box, and the ballot was allowed by consent.

In No. 3 subdivision a Beattie ballot was found without the initials of the D. R. O. Precedents were quoted by the lawyers for both sides to prove that it should and should not be counted. The judge finally counted it.

In the same subdivision two ballots were found pinned together. The top one was marked for Hyman, and the second had the D. R. O.'s initial on the back.

Mr. Macbeth explained that the D. R. O. had evidently given the voter two ballots. The voter marked the first, and before he discovered his error, the deputy initialed the back of the second one.

Mr. Hellmuth argued that it was a very questionable thing to count the ballot, but the judge finally did.

When the judge came to the final ballot in Mr. Hyman's pile, he found that the highly intelligent returning officer, or clerk, in No. 3 had marked the total number on the back of it.

"I think that ballot will have to be rejected," said the judge. "Of course, I have no doubt in the world, if it was proved by a judge in the scrutiny, that the number was put there by the returning officer, that the judge would allow it, but I do not think I can allow it."

The ballot was therefore declared spoiled.

In No. 4 subdivision a ballot which had been first marked for Beattie and then rubbed out, and remarked for Hyman was counted good. Another ballot with one stroke opposite Beattie's name and a cross opposit Hyman's was counted for the latter, while two ballots, marked by one stroke for both men were rejected.

In No. 7 a Beattie ballot was not only marked with a cross, but the voter crowded a "c" into the space, and also a "v" turned upside down. Mr. Hellmuth quoted a precedent to show that a ballot with almost similar hieroglyphics had been held good.

The judge said he could not understand a man making all those marks unless with the intention of spoiling it. He rejected the ballot.

Another Beattie ballot had a single pencil stroke on the back. Mr. Macbeth argued that it was intended for the figure 1, Mr. Hellmuth holding that there was nothing to show this. The latter also argued that the voter started to mark his ballot on the back, and then marked it in the proper place. The judge allowed the ballot to count.

Then came the notorious subdivision No. 8. The crowd moved in about the table, every ear and eye was strained to catch what was going on, and the lawyers who were smoking almost forgot their weeds and pipes. First, the judge counted Beattie's ballots. One, which was marked in a very peculiar manner, caused some argument. The cross was there all right, but the top of each stroke was adorned with a semi-circle, making two "p's" with the stems crossed. Then through the angle formed underneath the X a line was drawn, forming the letter "A" out of the lower half.

"I don't know what the marks mean," said the judge.

"It is the private sign of the P. P. A.s," said Mr. Macbeth.

"I can't take evidence on that point," said the judge, as he threw the ballot out as spoiled.

Mr. Beattie was found to have 140 ballots.

It was found that the statement made by the clerk to the returning officer was wrong. He gave the figures as 143 Beattie, and 70 Hyman. The right figures should have been Beattie 140, Hyman 73.

The rejected ballot envelope was opened when Mr. Hyman's ballots were counted. It was found that 12 Beattie and 10 Hyman ballots were marked outside the circle, and two were plainly marked for both men. These were all thrown out.

Two marked for Hyman, but also with a single stroke below the name were held good by the judge.

The pile which was rejected because Mr. Peel could not recognize his own signature was then taken up and counted. It was found to contain 46. No difference could be seen in the initials on these and the initials on any of the other ballots.

"What is your objection?" Mr. Hellmuth asked of Mr. Macbeth. "Have they to be counted?"

Mr. Macbeth—How can they be rejected?

The Judge—Well, do you either of you desire to say anything, or do you want me to rule upon the question?

Mr. Hellmuth—I think the deputy returning officer's duty was to reject them before they went into the ballot box.

The Judge—I certainly think so.

Mr. Macbeth—I think there would have been a big row if he had tried it.

In reply, the judge began figuring, and announced Mr. Hyman's total in the subdivision to be 121.

This finished the session, and an adjournment was made at 1:20 to 3:15 p.m.

Stole a Bicycle.

Valentine Yeo Confesses His Guilt and is Remanded.

A Fish Dealer's Trouble—An Assault Case.

Valentine Yeo is so young and looks so innocent that the average person would scarcely suspect him of being an expert bicycle thief. Early in June he stole a bicycle from Mr. Cecil E. A. Webbe, of the customs house. He re-enameled it and then sold it. He made his escape, and for a month or more he was not heard of. He was then heard of in Ingersoll, where he was arrested for stealing a bicycle from Mr. Minkler. He was arraigned there and committed for trial. He was brought here on Saturday by Chief Skirving, and this morning pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing Mr. Webbe's bicycle, and was remanded until Friday for sentence.

The wheel was recovered by Detective Nickle.

Fred Onn, the fish dealer, was charged with depositing rubbish in the shape of fish on the market. He did not deny that he put the fish there, and said he removed them after he had been requested to do so.

Chairman Heaman of No. 3 committee, stated that Onn had thrown the fish and scales out on the market, and he had ordered Market Clerk Wilson to see that the offense was not repeated, and if so to summon him.

Market Clerk Wilson told the police magistrate that he had picked up five or six perch after Onn had been warned. He said that Onn became indignant when accused of throwing fish out on the market. These fish had been seen in Onn's store.

Onn said he put the refuse outside and always removed it. His place was not large enough to keep it inside.

The P. M.—You have no right to put anything there. If your place is not large enough, you will have to get some place else.

Mr. Onn—Well, your Worship, I come here undefended, with the truth and the whole truth. I took the refuse away, which was only sand and a few fish scales, and buried them. I can prove that by the garden. I could not bring it here.

"I'll fine you $2," concluded the magistrate, "and if you do it again I'll make the punishment more severe."

George Soper's charge of assault against Andy Jeffery, the auctioneer, has hung fire for almost a month. Jeffery took the law into his own hands because he thought that young Soper had blackened his little boy's eye by kicking him in the face. Soper denied this. Jeffery was taken to task by the magistrate for not appearing when he was first summoned, but he explained that he understood young Soper had agreed to settle the case if he (Jeffery) paid the costs, which he did. He then went out of town, and after returning he was taken ill. He was warned against a recurrence of such an act, and bound over to keep the peace for one year in $100, his own recognizances.

James Kennedy was charged with a breach of the bylaw in allowing his horse to run at large. He could not appear, as he is suffering with a broken leg. He was represented by his son, whom the magistrate instructed to tell his father he was discharged, but not to do it again.

Thomas Carnegie pleaded ignorance of the law against playing ball on the street and was discharged, this being his first offense.

William Johnston, a colored man, was arrested on Saturday afternoon in a box car on the C. P. R., near Adelaide street. The patrol wagon was summoned to the place, and was followed by several curious bicyclists, who rode all the way up after it and then back. He is a hostler by occupation, and has made several trips across the big pond with fine horses. On his way to the station he was loud in his admiration of the patrol wagon team.

When he appeared this morning he told the police magistrate he came from Virginia, and had walked in from Woodstock. He said he only went into the car to get out of the rain, and that he was not doing anybody any harm, when they came in and took him to the police station. He is on his way to Michigan. Then the magistrate discharged the prisoner and ordered that he be sent on his way.

THE WORK OF TRAMPS

Mrs. Brody's House at Hyde Park Broken Into and Robbed.

Mrs. A. Brady, a widow residing about half a mile west of Hyde Park, reported to High Constable Schram this morning that her house had been entered on Saturday afternoon and several articles stolen. Mrs. Brady and family were in the city on that day, but one of her sons was around the house shortly before 5 o'clock. All was right then. About 6 o'clock he returned again to milk the cow and noticed the kitchen window and some of the doors open. He entered the house, to find that the catch on the window had been broken and the house in a great muddle. When Mrs. Brady returned she missed a black tweed coat, a silver watch, a pair of gold cuff buttons, a lunch basket, a shawl strap, and $2 60 in cash, which she had left in a cup on the bureau.

In most of the bedrooms the drawers of the bureaus had been taken out, dumped on the floor and left there. She says it is a wonder that a great many other valuable articles were not taken, for in the drawer with the silver watch was a gold watch and chain and a box of sterling silver knives. She suspects that tramps did the deed, and stated that about five weeks ago, while she was away, two tramps were seen loitering around the premises. High Constable Schram will try to recover the stolen property.

Summer Comes

With the flowers and sunshine. Birds pour out their melody and the chirp of the grasshopper will soon tempt the fisherman to stretch forth his hands and grasp the shadow of his flight. The playful mosquito will do her nicest to soothe weary pleasure seekers into the realms of slumber, and the stinging, aching, corns will remove every semblance of comfort make sad the songs of the birds, and evoke cloudiness in the soul, that even the brightest sunshine cannot dispel. Corns are thorns in the flesh, but Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor removes them in 24 hours. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor is the best.

No Ground for Alarm.

A Defeated Government Cannot Longer Hold Sway.

Their Outrageous Expedients Have Been Baffled at the Polls,

And a Liberal Administration Will Put in Force a Programme of Justice and Progress.

Toronto Globe.

There are ominous rumors afloat as to a plot at Ottawa to defeat the will of the people and to maintain Sir Charles Tupper in the seat of authority and in the possession of the government. There is grave uneasiness among Liberals; among the friends of constitutional government there is suspicion, distrust and anxiety. We doubt if there is serious ground for alarm. The people have declared against the Tupper Administration. And with the election machinery in hostile hands, with even the polling booths used to "fix" doubtful voters, with gerrymandered counties, and a partisan franchise law, with an enormous outside vote, a partisan civil service, an aggressive heirarchy, a league of electioneering manufacturers, and a debasement of the country's flag for party purposes, it was required to have at least 75 per cent of the unbought public sentiment of the country set in hostile purpose against the Government before it could be dislodged. It is true that even the bench is partisan, and that of late years judgeships have been made the price of docile party service. But there are still many just and inflexible judges. The judiciary is by no means tainted throughout. Public sentiment cannot be wholly strangled, the will of the people not wholly set at defiance.

Then we have a Governor-General, and that office still has some responsibilities, and still owes some obligations to the Canadian people. Lord Aberdeen must understand that today the Government of this country is in his hands. The life of the old Parliament has expired. The Government in office exists by no popular sanction. It has no power to do, to appoint, to dismiss, to direct. Today Lord Aberdeen has no official advisers. Two weeks ago he received his authoritative instructions from the Canadian people. He is their representative in trust until a new Government can be installed. Nor need he go to the Colonial Office for instructions. By representation of Sir Charles Tupper and his organs, fairly or otherwise, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain has been made to play the role of a partisan in Canada, and his advice at this time would not be received, and his interference would be resented.

We do not care very much whether Sir Charles Tupper resigns or meets Parliament, except that the public convenience would be served by his prompt resignation. It is just as well that he should fill the cup full. The managers of the Tory party have richly earned a day of wrath and judgment. It is perhaps as well that they should leave to their opponents no possible ground for gratitude or consideration. For nearly a score of years they have trampled Liberals under foot. They have cheated us at the ballot box, robbed us at the courts of revision, deformed and malformed the constituencies, stolen seats to which Liberals were fairly elected, strangled every petition for fair play, scoffed at every protest against injustice, made the Senate a refuge for decayed partisans, seized public money and applied it to the corruption of the sources of political authority, conspired with contractors and railway corporations, and swaggered up and down this country as though the citizen's ballot were their private property and the ends of the land their inalienable possession.

They barely gave the right of citizenship to a Liberal. They did not even throw a bone from the public table to any man who did not bow down to their presence. They forgot, they still forget, that, like Paul, we were born free, and that they could not always swagger in political ascendancy. Liberals, for nearly a score of years, fighting against tremendous odds, have taken beating after beating like men. They made no plea for mercy. They did no whining. They respected authority and loved and served their country well and wisely. But at last the morning has dawned. They have won an honest victory, and they will not be robbed of its fruits. A country where the people cannot rule is not worth preserving. Loyalty to Queen and country does not mean loyalty to political swindlers and buccaneers, and there is a point beyond which it would not be wise to try the public patience, or to set up the false authority of fraud and chicanery. Liberals do not threaten retaliation. They do not preach any gospel of revenge. But they do promise to redress grievances, to correct abuses, to moderate political arrogance and insolence, to take the gag out of the mouth of the workingman, who depends upon his tariff-fed master, and out of the mouth of the merchant and importer, who have been intimidated by the Customs Department, and to govern Canada for the Canadian people, and not for a faction of office-holders and a league of industrial autocrats. And in some measure at least Sir Charles Tupper can determine the spirit and temper in which the Liberal party shall approach their new tasks and responsibilities.

WILL GALT QUIT?

Toronto Mail: As the Torontos propose to abandon Toronto, and the Galt team to quit the Canadian League, it has been proposed that the Dukes take the Galts' place. The Dukes have signed the following players: McGarry, Sheppard, Chambers, Benson, Bates, Dugeer, Rodden, Synge, Maxwell, Blakey, Klick, and are desirous of arranging games with clubs outside the city.

FLYS.

Sunday baseball is flourishing in Hull, Quebec. An immense crowd gathered Sunday at the Little farm to witness the Eastern International League match between the St. Albans and Hull teams. They played fifteen innings, until darkness prevented further progress. The contest ended in a tie, 13 runs for each team. There was much excitement and betting on the result.

Wilis, of Syracuse, has not pitched in a losing game this season.

Manager "Jack" Chapman has severed his connection with the Wilkesbarre club. The club has been losing steadily of late, and the owners blamed Chapman for it, hence his resignation.

THE WHEEL.

RED BIRDS WELCOMED HOME.

Brantford, July 5.—Brantford well earned its name of Redbirdville on Saturday evening, when the whole city turned out en masse to welcome home the victorious champions at the Quebec bicycle meet, Harley Davidson, John F. Davidson, Angus McLeod, W. McIntosh, E. Cooper, R. Axton and F. Westbrook, with their trainers, arrived here on the 8:10 train, and were met at the station by a band and thousands of citizens, with banners, etc. A procession took place around town, and then from the balcony over the C. P. R. office speeches of welcome were made by Mayor Elliott, R. Henry, M. P., Hon. A. S. Hardy, Wm. Paterson, ex-M.P., and C. B. Heyd. They all highly complimented the riders on the magnificent wins they had made. Fireworks and music, together with overflowing enthusiasm, constituted a notable reception. Brantford is proud of its Red Bird team.

C. W. A. MEET NOTES.

The attendance on the first day was nearly 5,000, and on the second day scarcely 1,000.

Loughead was the favorite professional with the Quebec boys.

The cash prize riders won the following amounts: F. Loughead, $105; Harley Davidson, $75; W. McIntosh, $40; E. Cooper, $40; Cecil Elliott, $30; Fred Young, $25; John Willis, $20; Alf. Young, $10; R. E. McCall, $10. In championship races medals only were given.

The young man who paraded the streets with this placard hung from his neck, "I have lost my voice, but will not refuse a drink," caused great amusement.

Sorrow was expressed at the poor showing made by McLeod. He is one of the squarest riders on the track, and had many friends in the Toronto contingent.

Immediately after the conclusion of the dead heat championship race between McLeod and Loughead, an offer of $100 was made the riders to meet in a match race at Toronto Island on July 11. McLeod was willing, but Loughead hung off.

SPOKES.

Paris has eleven cycle papers, and it is stated that in Europe, England not considered, there are 93 journals specially devoted to the sport and trade of cycling.

Pittsburg has an ordinance which states that every person over 14 years old owning a bicycle must take out a license that costs 50 cents. Last year 4,285 licenses were taken out. The old licenses expired on July 1. It is thought that 10,000 new licenses will be taken out this year, and that the number of new wheels will be 3,000.

A DEADLY DUEL.

The Two Participants Found Dead—A Kentucky Tragedy.

Russelville, Ky., July 6.—A deadly duel took place near Adairville yesterday morning. Doc Younger went to town drunk, and as he rode out of town he fired his pistol. H. H. Harmon, the town marshal, jumped on a horse and started after Younger. An hour later both men were found dead about a mile from town. Both had been shot through the heart, and only one chamber in each revolver had been discharged. There were no witnesses. Wm. Younger, a brother of Doc, was killed in Adairville by Dates Patterson four years ago. The Youngers were relatives of the famous Younger outlaws. Harmon killed two men in Tennessee several years ago. He was the only man the town of Adairville had had for years who could keep order.

SHIFTED RESPONSIBILITIES.

Once more vacation pastimes live;
They come, those days that youth loves best.
When parents' tasks increase to give
The teachers a much-needed rest.

Mrs. Seleste Coon, Syracuse, N.Y., writes: "For years I could not eat many kinds of food without producing a burning, excruciating pain in my stomach. I took Parmlee's Pills according to directions under the head of "Dyspepsia or Indigestion." One box entirely cured me. I can now eat any thing I choose without distressing me in the least." These pills do not cause pain or griping, and should be used when a cathartic is required.

AND THE DOCTOR SAID:

"Take your prescriptions and family recipes to STRONG'S DRUG STORE, 184 Dundas street. Headquarters for Homeopathic Remedies."

North Middlesex Safe.

At Goderich, this afternoon, Judge Masson gave decision in the recount of ballots polled for the candidates in the North Middlesex Dominion election.

The chief question at issue was whether or not the ballots marked outside the disk in the new ballot should be counted. The deputy returning officers in North Middlesex did not count any ballots without the disk, and Mr. Hutchins, the Conservative member in the last Parliament, was declared re-elected by a majority of 8. When the recount was begun before the judge, the Conservative agents argued that the ballots marked outside the disk should not be counted, though the Conservative counsel in the East York case had argued for, and had obtained, a decision which counted in Mr. McLean, the high tax nominee, by the agency of ballots marked without the disk. Judge Masson very properly followed Judge Macdougall's decision, and counted all ballots marked within the space opposite the name. This decision gave the seat to Mr. Ratz by a majority of 63, and counts an additional majority of 2 on a division in the House.

This judgment awards the Liberals three out of the five constituencies in Middlesex, with a popular majority of 500 in the five. But for the gerrymander and kindred devices, which will not exist when the next campaign comes, the whole five would have been Liberal. It certainly is an anomaly that it should be possible to hold the North Middlesex recount in Goderich, the capital of Huron county, but this is one of the eccentricities peculiar to the gerrymander. To make one of the Hurons a Liberal "hive," and help to gain seats to which they were not entitled in both Huron and Middlesex, a Conservative township and a Conservative village were taken out of Huron and placed in North Middlesex, and as the recount was petitioned for by an elector of the Huron portion of the north riding, the recount was held at Goderich.

It is one of the evidences of the great reaction against high tax rule, that North Middlesex, gerrymandered to be a safe Conservative constituency, is now, after one of the most stoutly contested fights in the campaign, solidly in the Liberal column. We congratulate Mr. Ratz and his hosts of friends in both Middlesex and Huron on their phenomenal victory.

The City Recount.

As we go to press, the recount of ballots cast in the London Dominion election is in progress. Mr. Hyman made very large gains, almost one-half of the majority given Mr. Beattie by the deputy returning officers being wiped out by ballots awarded to Mr. Hyman by the decision of Judge Edward Elliott, who made the count. The 46 ballots for Mr. Hyman which Deputy Returning Officer William Peel refused to count, because he alleged he could not identify his initials, were counted without demur. The total gain for Mr. Hyman in 8 out of 26 sub-divisions was 54.

Ratz Elected.

The North Middlesex Liberal Candidate Confirmed in His Seat.

He Carried the Constituency by a Majority of 63.

(Special to the "Advertiser.")

Goderich, July 6.—Judge Masson gave his decision in the North Middlesex election recount this afternoon. His decision confirms Ratz (Liberal) in his seat by 63 majority.

THE SCOTTISH DEMONSTRATION.

At a meeting of the joint committees of the United Scottish Societies of London, held on Saturday night at the rooms of Treasurer J. W. Jones, of the St. Andrew's Society, the day of the gathering was finally fixed for Tuesday, July 21, and the place the Fraser Heights, Port Stanley. May Prove Serious.

Thomas Hogg, Aged 60 Years, Struck by Arthur Ray

In Consequence of a Dog Fight—Hogg's Condition Alarming.

A dog fight at the corner of Simcoe and Maitland streets on Saturday evening led to results which may be serious for Arthur Ray, a cigarmaker living at that corner. The fight took place about 5 o'clock, when W. Murphy's bulldog undertook to do up a terrier, owned by Mr. Morrow, a cripple, who is wheeled around in a chair. Several attempts were made to separate the dogs, but without success, until Thos. Hogg, of Bathurst street, interfered, saying it was a shame to see a big dog fighting a little one. This led to some words between the old man and Arthur Ray, whereupon Ray swung back and struck Hogg in the mouth with his clenched fist, knocking two teeth out. He fell to the ground senseless. Some say the old man was struck and kicked after he was knocked down, but Ray's friends deny this. Drs. Weekes and Macarthur were telephoned for, and had the man removed to his home.

Saturday night an attempt was made to settle the case. In the face of this Mr. Hogg's family resolved to stay proceedings, but as Mr. Hogg's condition was one which caused them considerable alarm last night, a warrant was taken out this morning for Ray's arrest. Mr. Hogg was delirious at times last night in consequence of the injuries received between the blow and the effects of the fall upon the hard road.

A Brother's Error.

"Why Prophet, I am glad to see you, as I am surprised at your coming," said Louis Kyle, advancing and taking the extended hand.

Daniel—or the Prophet, as we shall call him—always used the Biblical manner in speaking, and there was a dignity in his expression that precluded the thought of burlesque. Even when his statements were absurd, they carried force from the earnestness with which they were uttered.

"There is as yet no blood upon thy hand that the physical eye can see. Woe be to him that warreth on his brother!" said the prophet gloomily.

"Then woe will not come to me. But what if I should resist the brother who raises his hand against me?" asked Louis Kyle.,

"Resistance to wrong is right, not a sin. But when brothers war, heaven averts its face and heeds not the cause. A curse has fallen upon our mountains. The outlaw has made it his home, and the gold seeker stains the purity of our waters. Tarry not, Louis Kyle, but carry to thy father the story that will bring him grief. Go, and I will hold the path between thee and thy pursuers," said the Prophet, motioning back with his extended hand.

In childhood Louis Kyle had looked on this man with a dread that manhood did not entirely obliterate. Under any circumstances he would not have thought of invoking his aid. But now the necessities of his situation drove him to seize upon every means that held out the slightest prospect of help to his beleaguered friends. It flashed upon his mind that this man might be made available.

"Prophet," he said, "you have often told me your heart bled for the distressed, and that you loved these solitudes because they shut you out from the misery you could not allay."

"And I told thee the truth."

With earnest, clear cut, Saxon phrase Louis Kyle told his story, and then asked the Prophet if he would go to the mining camp to the south or to the forts to the east to get assistance.

"Soldiers are and ever have been the hired murderers of despots. I cannot go near them. Why invoke the aid of man when the hand of Jehovah rests on the mountains, where the weakest may seize it?"

"I have told my story," said the young man, biting his lips and turning to examine the bridle and saddle girth.

"And I have heard it. Go to thy father and leave me here to pray for light before this mountain altar fire."

The Prophet waved his hand, then dropped on his knees and lowered his head. Without a word Louis Kyle swung himself into the saddle, shook the bridle rein, and the rested horse wheeled and shot into the darkness.

The Prophet remained in his attitude of devotion until the clanging of flying hoofs had died out, and he might have retained this position longer had not his quick ear caught the sound of approaching footsteps. He sprang to his feet, grasping his rifle in the act, and within a few seconds was out of the glare of the fire and in the shadow of an overhanging rock.

"Who comes there?" he demanded in a voice determined and military.

"I, Black Eagle, the Shoshone," was the reply, and the next instant the young Indian was before the fire.

"Comest thou alone?"

"I do."

"Then go to the other side of the fire, for thy acts have brought a fire between thee and me."

The young Indian obeyed promptly, and the Prophet advanced to the fire.

"I am and want to continue your friend," said Black Eagle, with an expression of awe and wonder on his keen face.

"Can the man be my friend who associates with my foes? Talk not to me of friendship. You came here in pursuit of Louis Kyle," said the Prophet, dropping his usual form of the pronoun.

"The Prophet mistakes," replied Black Eagle. "We saw the fire from far down the valley. Never do I remember seeing one before in this place; so I came to see what it might mean."

"And now that thou hast learned?"

"Now I will return to the camp of the white men."

"Aye, return, and say to Bouton and his murderers that you found Daniel the Prophet kneeling beside his altar fire. And further say that he was praying that the Great Spirit might destroy the Ishmaelites, who thirst for the blood and the spoils of those journeying to the promised land."

"I shall go."

"Go, and come not again near me! Go, Black Eagle, to thy fellows! Once thou wert a child. I fed and clothed and taught thee. Now thou hast rejected my teachings and fled. So go, and come not near me again forever!"

The Indian lowered his head and withdrew, but he had not been gone many minutes when the Prophet followed on his trail with strides swift and silent.

Black Eagle returned to the outlaw camp and was telling, with awe written on his countenance, what he had seen, when a step was heard in the darkness, and before an exclamation of surprise could be uttered, the Prophet stood in their midst. His erect, gigantic form was particularly distinguished by contrast with a large number of men, and the light in his eyes looked as if caused by fires behind. The outlaws, from the leader down, had a dread of this man, who more than once had appeared among them to utter incomprehensible prophecies or to deter them from their contemplated deeds of death and plunder. The Prophet looked slowly about him, as if reading the thoughts in every face. The silence was becoming painful, when Bouton broke it by saying:

"We are glad to see the Prophet again."

"Glad!" repeated the Prophet.

"That is what I said."

"And you would have me believe the lie?"

"You are taking advantage of an old privilege now," said Bouton, a greener tinge coming to his face. "If you cannot be a gentleman, you must remain away."

"A gentleman!" exclaimed the Prophet, and he hastily brushed the red beard from his lips and showed his even, white teeth. "A gentleman that remained vountarily for an hour in such company would lose his character on earth and be damned through all the aeons of eternity."

"Then why do you come?"

"I come, as before, to warn you."

"We have not heeded your warnings, yet we survive and prosper."

"Aye, as the wolf prospers away from the hunter. But if the hunter pursue, the wolf cannot long escape. What harm have the peaceful people under Capt. Brandon done that ye, claiming to be men, should war on their women and children? Ye who have sisters and remember your mothers—be they living or sainted — depart hence at once, for if ye do not, ruin will come, as my soul liveth." The Prophet drew himself up, and as he looked about him his eyes fell on Henry Kyle, who had withdrawn to the edge of the crowd. Seeing him, the Prophet called out:

"And thou art here?"

"As you see, Prophet," replied Henry, laughing to hide the blush that crimsoned his cheek.

"Away, man, before it is too late. Away ere your hands are reddened by the blood of a brother or his hands be imbued in yours. Tarry not, for thy father's head is bowed, and grief and shame sit on thy mother's heart. The beautiful eyes of your sister are red with much weeping, and she clasps her white hands in sorrow and despair."

The Prophet pointed to the mountain, behind which lay Henry Kyle's home, and in this tragic attitude stood with his long arm extended for some time. Bouton saw that Henry Kyle was affected, and knowing his ardent, impulsive nature, he hastened to his side and whispered:

"I must get this man out of camp."

"Why not do it, then?"

"He will not leave while you are here. Step away before he opens again."

"And I am to begin my work at once?" asked Henry as he tightened his belt.

"At once, and the sooner the better," replied Bouton.

Henry Kyle, without another word, turned and disappeared in the dense undergrowth on one side of the camp.

"You have sent him off," said the Prophet when Bouton returned. "You have ordered him to murder. On your head be that blood which is about to be shed."

The Prophet shouldered his rifle and strode in the direction of Capt. Brandon's camp.

"Hold!" shouted Bouton. "Where are you going?"

"I am going to the aid of the oppressed," replied the Prophet, and as he spoke he wheeled and faced the gang with his eyes flaming and his rifle in the hollow of his left arm.

"You cannot go there."

"Who can prevent?"

"I."

"Prevent me, then. But let me say this: No man ever lived to fire at me a second time. Long before you came to these mountains I was here, and here I will be long after the wolves have eaten thy carcass and left thy white bones glistening on the mountain side."

No words can adequately convey the effect of this defiance. The man looked like an inspired lion, and the desperadoes drew back like jackals. The voice rang out like a huge blast, and the attitude was the very ideal of heroic contempt. The Prophet waited as though to see if a hand would be raised, and an expression of unutterable loathing swept over his face as he wheeled and resumed his onward march.

WHOLE FAMILY STARVED TO DEATH.

Quebec, July 6.—News has reached here from River Moisier, North Shore, to the effect that a whole family of Naskowahi Indians were starved to death some fifteen days ago. A party of hunters from Moisie found the remains of seven some 200 miles in the interior. These remains were those of the Cletieuau family, the father, mother and five children. The squaw had written a few notes in the Nakoulu tongue, which told of the terrible ordeal which the family had suffered since the fall of 1895. They started from Moisie with the largest fall of snow of the season, for the Hudson Bay hunting grounds. After having traveled about 200 miles provisions became short, disease broke out, and one by one the children died. The head of the family followed, the squaw being the last to die. When found the body of the squaw was still in a sitting posture, beside the remains of her husband.

Lee-Metford in Practice.

Critical Estimation of Its Worth by One Who Used It.

Its Superiority Over All Previous Rifles Demonstrated.

Pte. O'Connell's Good Showing—List of Marksman and First and Second Class Shots.

No. 1 Company, R. R. C. I., stationed at Wolseley Barracks, have just finished their annual target practice, and have made a practical illustration of the merits of the new rifle with which they were recently armed.

The superiority of this rifle over all their previous weapons has been demonstrated in a thorough manner. The largest scores were made at the annual target practice having been obtained during the last week.

Each man fired 70 rounds of ammunition individually, and the maximum number of points obtainable was 266, in the following ratio:

At 200 yards, 56 points.
At 300 yards, 56 points.
At 500 yards, 84 points.
At 600 yards, 56 points.

About 50 per cent of the shots were fired from the magazine at the rate of seven rounds to the minute, and the rest by the individual attack, which is practiced thus:

A section is formed up at 400 yards from the target, and each man is supplied with seven rounds of ammunition, and fires one round at every halt between the starting point and the 200-yard butt, seven halts in all The total number of points obtainable being fourteen, each hit counting two points. This exercise is the only one in which ricochets are counted as hits.

The rifle which the company used this year was the Lee-Metford, caliber .303 inches, and the ammunition used was white powder, or "cordite," which is far superior to the black powder, owing to the great velocity of the projectile, which is a small lead pellet, conical in form, and covered with a nickel coating; the windage allowed is very small. A slight cant of the rifle at long ranges is sufficient to counteract the effects of a stiff breeze. The foresight of the rifle is placed towards the left of the barrel, and thus throws the shot to right, which has to be taken into consideration when aiming.

Among the advantages of the Lee-Metford over the Martini-Metford is the shape of the "small," which is so formed as to allow of a firmer grip when at the "present," and the buttplate is curved to a greater extent, thus admitting of a firmer bite" on the shoulder.

In using the cordite ammunition, the elevation is obtained a great deal more easily than with black powder, as the latter has a tendency to allow the shot to drop, while the white powder carries the bullet exactly where the sights are aligned, without taking any precautions as to the drop, which is infinitesimal.

In addition the fouling from the cordite is hardly noticeable compared to the "stink pot" business,so familiar to users of the black powder. The "pull through" with which each rifle is accompanied is fitted with a small piece of steel wire gauze which fits exactly into the grooves of the barrel, and thus effectually removes any nickeling from the bullet. In rapid-firing the wooden handguard behind the back-sight is of inestimable value, as the barrel gets so very hot that it is almost impossible to touch it with naked hand. In fact, the "tout ensemble" of the rifle is all that could be desired, and the best shots in No. 1 Company all coincide with all that is claimed for it.

The targets used by the infantry in their musketry course are very different from the ones in the league matches. They consist of three rings only, bulls, centers, and outers counting four, three and two respectively. Thus it will be seen that it is a good deal harder to make a high score on the targets used for the musketry course than on a match target; and the fact that Pte. O'Connell scored 209 out of a possible 266 in his musketry course, and 98 out of 105 in the last league match shows the good qualities of the new rifle in the hands of an experienced shot.

The shooting was conducted under the superintendence of Capt. Hemming and Color-Sergt. Cooper, and the record attached testifies to the thorough and painstaking manner in which the men of No. 1 Company are grounded in the principles of that most important factor in modern warfare, to wit, musketry; and as the general officer remarked in a speech at a recent meeting of the D. R. A. musketry was this platform, and the officers of the various regiments could not do better than instil into the minds of their non-commissioned officers and men the vital importance and necessity of being able to hit the target at which they are aiming. As fin de siecle warfare will necessarily be conducted at long ranges, the uselessness of a poor shot will be painfully apparent.

Appended is the classified list of the marksmen, first and second-class shots:

Marksmen—Pte. O'Connell (best shot of the company), Corp. Beaumont, Col.-Sergt. Cooper, Sergt. Price, Corp. Evans, Pte. Clarkson, Pte. F. E. Davies, Pte. Defoe, Pte. Farnsworth.

FRASER VALLEY FLOODED.

Fatal Railway Wreck Caused by a Washout—Settlers Moving.

Vancouver, B. C., July 5.—High water in the Fraser River undermined the track between Agaziz and Hope Station, on the C. P. R., Friday night, and when the east-bound freight struck the spot, the train, consisting of eight cars, loaded with tea, and one with coal, was thrown into the river. Brakeman Deering was killed and Fireman Coughlin and Engineer Gray were injured. Reports from Fraser River points state that the river is steadily rising.

At Chilliwack considerable damage has been done to crops on low-lying lands, and the steamer Gladys has been busily engaged for the past few days in removing cattle and settlers' effects to high ground.

Nicomen Island is also suffering from high water, and all down the river, on both sides, wherever low levels are not fully protected by high dykes, much damage is being done.

Mission City town site will probably be under water in many parts if hot weather continues.

Word has just been received from New Westminster that the water, at high tide, was two feet eight inches below the mark reached during the floods of 1894. The steamer Gladys brings word that Sumas is flooded, and the water is up to the banks at Chilliwack. A large portion of Deweys is also under water. At Langeley the water is level with the landing, and at several other places it is over the wharves.

SERIOUS FIRES.

Big Blaze at Port Elgin—Narrow Escapes from Death at Montreal.

Port Elgin, July 6.—A fire started Saturday morning in Mr. Daniel Campbell's lumber piles, destroying 430,000 feet of valuable timber. Insured in Waterloo Mutual for $1,000 and in Wellington Mutual for $1,800.

Montreal, Que., July 6.—The dry-goods establishment of St. Louis & Moyer, on the corner of St. Lawrence and Dorchester streets, was the scene Saturday night of a disastrous fire. Shortly after eleven o'clock Mr. A. Friedman, while passing down St. Lawrence street, noticed flames issuing from the rear of the establishment. The top stories of the building are occupied by a number of Italian families, who, at the time, were all asleep, and in imminent danger of being suffocated to death. Mr. Friedman, after vain efforts to arouse the sleeping occupants, forced his way into the burning building and with great difficulty succeeded in arousing the inmates. He then managed to carry several children downstairs, out of danger. Returning, Mr. Friedman found a man, his wife, and several children in great danger. The man, in the excitement of the moment, jumped from the second story window to the street below. In the meantime the firemen had arrived and the ladders were quickly hoisted. By this time the smoke had become so dense as to cut off escape for Mr. Friedman and the other occupants, and they were brought down by the ladder. Loss, estimated at about $25,000.

A BOY'S TORPEDO TRICK.

Detroit, July 6.—Numerous accidents occurred here on the 4th of July, caused by the careless use of explosives. A small boy placed a big torpedo on the Woodward avenue track, between Milwaukee and Baltimore avenues, and the explosion when a car struck it caused a panic among the passengers, and one lady jumped off while the car was going at full speed, but was not injured. The explosion broke the circuit and caused the fuse to burn out, setting the forward end of the car on fire, but the flame was put out without doing much damage. A north side merchant, who is considerable of a sprinter, chased the boy eight blocks, but was unable to catch him.

IT TRAVELS FAST

Good News in London Travels Faster Than Bad.

Have you heard it,
Heard the good news?
Heard your neighbors talking about it?
It means a new back or an old one.
Not necessarily old in years.
But old in misery.
Bad backs are numerous.
Some lame, some weak, some aching.
All back troubles come from the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure them.
They reach the cause.
They cure urinary troubles.
Is the cure lasting?
Well, London people say it is.
That is pretty good proof.
Here is another case.

Mrs. A. W. King, 123 Horton street, London, says: "Yes, Doan's Kidney Pills have done me a wonderful lot of good. I have been troubled for the past five years with severe pains in the back and side, also severe pain in my head, accompanied by stomach troubles, with other symptoms of kidney complaint.

"Many remedies have I tried, but was constantly disappointed, and grew worse from month to month. I was completely exhausted. Had no appetite; what I ate caused me suffering. I could not sleep well, and awakened unrefreshed in the morning. Some of my friends, knowing the exhausted state I was in, advised me to go to Mr. Strong's drug store and get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. I did so, and can truly state that I commenced to improve at once.

"I have now taken three boxes. My back, head and side pains have vanished. I am no longer troubled with my stomach. My appetite is better very much, and my food does not disagree with me. I have restful sleep every night and am stronger in every way. I am glad to be able to say that from taking the pills I am better, far better, than I have been in the past five years. Doan's Kidney Pills are the only medicine that ever did me any practical good."

A SHOWY WEDDING.

Five Thousand Spectators Witness the Marriage of a Couple in a Store Window.

Laporte, Ind., July 6.—The culmination of a novel agreement was the marriage at Michigan City Saturday afternoon of Miss Catherine H. Peterson, a society girl of Dowagiac, Mich., to William Dwight Warner, a Michigan City manufacturer. The ceremony was solemnized in the show window of a leading business house in the presence of 5,000 people, Hon. G. S. Vandeusen, mayor of the city, officiating. The business houses of the city donated presents valued in the aggregate at $500, in addition to furnishing the bride's trousseau and the groom's conventional suit of black. A mighty chorus of congratulations greeted the announcement that the couple were man and wife. The unique proceeding attracted hundreds of Michigan visitors.

THE BANDANNA.

Gaily Colored Handkerchiefs and Underwear for Men—The New Shirt.

There was never a time when the bandanna was so popular as an article of dress, and, apart from its present vogue for women's wear, new uses for the material have been discovered. Men's underwear, to an extent never equaled before, has become plaid and gaily colored, and the last word in smart underclothing is the colored bandanna. Socks are made to match the underwear, and bandanna handkerchiefs for men's use are seen in all the shops that import what is newest in men's dress. These bandannas come from England, which started several years ago the fashion of gaily colored linen neckties, which has spread now from those who make it a point to take up such new things first to those who buy them after their popularity is established. Of course, bandanna pajamas have also arrived, and the oriental silks, which have been for a long time worn in scarfs are now sharing with the colored cotton goods the reputation of being what is best and newest in men's underwear. These are of dark red, blue and green, in small eastern patterns, and they are inexpensive enough to be likely for some time yet to retain their present exclusiveness. The well dressed man nowadays is likely to conceal under discreet and conventional outer garments the most brilliantly colored raiment that ever blushed unseen. Women have still the monopoly of bandanna for outside wear, and while it is common enough in shirt waists, it has yet to appear in the form of a man's shirt. An interesting development in this article of men's wear has already commenced, and as it makes for comfort and convenience the outcome will be watched with interest. The unstarched shirts of flannel and linen that have been worn now for a year have accustomed wearers to the relief that comes with the absence of a stiff shirt bosom, and it is not likely that this fashion, which has grown steadily in popularity, will disappear with the approach of winter. Some of the shirt makers have already begun to make a garment which aims to combine the comfort of an unstarched shirt with the appearance of a regular shirt bosom. In these shirts the bosom is only about six inches deep, or in any case extends no further down than the cut of the waistcoat renders necessary. With these a man can have all the comfort of an unstarched shirt and the dignity of a stiff bosom. Their growth in popularity within a short time shows that there is a demand for them, and in more ways than one the starched shirt bosom seems to be temporarily at least in considerable disfavor.—New York Sun.

This delayed a couple of cars. The vehicle was swerved round a little by a number of men, the axle cutting the asphalt pavement.

—The Weekly Times, of Cape Town, South Africa, date May 27, contains a lengthy report of the annual concert of the Cape Town Caledonian Society. It is pleasant to note that Mr. John Rattray, formerly of the "Advertiser," secured first prizes in the sword dance and Highland fling. Mr. Thomas Moffat, barrister, late of this city, is the secretary of the society.

—The death occurred in West Nissouri on Saturday, of Richard Mills, an old resident of the township, and widely known as an Orangeman. Deceased was over 73 years of age. He was master and founder of the Royal Black Knights Chapter, No. 158, and a member of Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 248. He was a member of the Church of England. A widow, two sons and two daughters survive. The funeral will take place to Mount Pleasant Cemetery here this afternoon.

GOING TO GODERICH.

A special meeting of Orangemen of London and Middlesex districts, was held on Saturday afternoon to reconsider a decision made two weeks ago to celebrate the Twelfth at Goderich. The meeting was held in consequence of the rate being placed at $1 45 by the Grand Trunk. The members from London wished the celebration to be held in Petrolea, in consequence, but the county members thought Goderich had more varied attractions for them, and, being in the majority, they reaffirmed their former decision.

CONFIRMATION AT ST. PETER'S.

A class of 115 girls, 100 boys and 6 adults was confirmed yesterday at St. Peter's Cathedral by Bishop O'Connor, assisted by Fathers Tiernan, Noonan, Tobin and McEwen. The members of the class made their first communion at the service at 8:30 o'clock. At 10:30 the confirmation was held, Mrs. Harper acting as sponsor for the girls and Mr. Handley, of South London, as sponsor for the boys. Bishop O'Connor delivered very earnest addresses to the candidates at both services, impressing upon them the necessity of obedience to their parents and also their duties along moral lines. The temperance pledge was taken by the boys, and at 3:30 all the children received their baptismal vows.

A STORY ABOUT THE G. T. R. DENIED.

A good deal of anxiety was caused to the employes of the Grand Trunk Railway by the publication in the Toronto World of the rumor that the manager had determined to get rid of a large number of Canadians, and fill their places with his friends from American roads. The story published was that the "American standard" for running trains was to be adopted, which would render it impossible for many of the men now in charge of the trains to remain in the employ of the company, because they are not familiar with the American system. The Toronto News wired Mr. Hays at New York, asking for a statement from him, to which he replied as follows:

"The statement to which you refer is, of course, too ridiculous to notice. If our expectations for better business this season are realized, we shall hope to employ a greater number of Canadians than ever before.

"(Signed) CHARLES M. HAYS."

This is accepted in Toronto as a denial of the World's rumored changes.

CONFIRMATION AT CHRIST CHURCH.

A confirmation service was held at Christ Church last evening by the Bishop of Huron. Over thirty candidates were confirmed. His lordship addressed them in most earnest language, pointing out to them the responsibilities they were assuming from their sponsors and to God. His lordship took the first lesson for the evening, as an illustration, liking Goliath, who defied the armies of the living God, to Satan, and showing that David, who trusted in the living God, gained the victory. At the end of the confirmation, his lordship again addressed them, impressing upon them their duties in the future, particularly as to prayer and regular attendance at the Lord's supper. His lordship's remarks were listened to with profound attention by a large congregation. The musical portion of the service was under the direction of Mr. J. T. Dalton, and was specially prepared. Miss Lucy Watson sustained the soprano solos in the anthem and the "Deus," with beautiful voice and expression, and at the offertory Mr. J. C. Lockhart sang the recitative and aria from the "Elijah," "If with All Your Hearts."

Attempted Highway Robbery.

A Young Man and Woman Assaulted in the North End.

A Plucky Fight—The Girl Offers to Help —Watch Recovered.

A bold attempt at highway robbery was made about ten o'clock Saturday night on Wellington street north, near Grosvenor. A young man who boards at Brown's boarding house, 424 Park avenue, was escorting a young lady home, and when he had reached the aforementioned neighborhood, he was seized from behind. Two hands were placed over his eyes, and his head was held securely. Before he could recover from his surprise he felt a hand stealing into his watch pocket. With a big effort he wrenched himself loose and started for his assailant. Finding that he was losing ground he picked up a stone, and, with the precision of a David, he hit the fleeing robber on the back of the head, causing him to fall unconscious. He then looked for the girl, and found her in the clutches of the mate to the young man he struck with a stone. Hurrying back, a tussle ensued, during which the would-be robber was thrown face downward and badly pummelled. The young lady gallantly offered to kick the struggling youth, but her escort told her to hurry away. When she was safely away, he started after her, and in a short time he returned with the girl's father, a lantern and a revolver.

The two young men had meantime made themselves scarce, and the young man found his watch in the sand.

The same night other boarders at Brown's were awakened by a great noise from the bed occupied by the young man. He was having a free-for-all fight with the pillow, and going over the adventures of the night in a very realistic manner.

"What's the matter, Will?" asked his room-mate in alarm.

"I will punch you head through the sand," answered Will, with a wild shake of the pillow. "I can lick a dozen like you, even if I am small."

SAD DEATH OF A CHILD.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Newell, Ontario street, will sympathize with them in the death, which occurred this morning, of their youngest child, Rachael, a bright 2-year-old baby girl. The fatal illness was brought about in a very peculiar manner. About a week ago the little girl, while playing about on the lawn, was bitten in the face by an insect of some kind. The bite produced a large swelling, and finally erysipelas set in. Despite the very best medical skill, the little one sank gradually, and passed away this morning. The funeral will be held on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

FORCE OF HABIT.

London People Have Become Used to the Great Specific Remedy.

London, July 6.—The dispatch from Detroit with reference to the cure from Bright's disease and blood poison of Mr. Langley, of this city, by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, has recalled the wonderful facts of the case to the citizens, among whom Mr. Langley is well known. It has reminded them that Mrs. Langley among others also made a wonderful recovery. The use of the pills, however, has become so universal here, and there has been so many instances in which they have been used with beneficial results, that a similar case would hardly excite as much interest now as it did then, when the medicine was less known.
