

Proposal Was Personal, Says Sbarette; The Federal Govt. Knew Nothing of It; Warm Debate After Premier's Statement

Messrs. Hughes and Maclean Keprimanded by the Speaker for Unparliamentary Language.

Sir William Mulock Gives Important Evidence Re the Interview.

Ottawa, April 5.—The following statement from Mgr. Sbarette was handed out for publication at a late hour tonight:

"I think it my duty to declare that the press report of a conference with the Manitoba delegates is not altogether exact, and that it is given in such a way as to make a false impression on the minds of the people. These are the facts:

Taking occasion of the presence in Ottawa of the Hon. Mr. Campbell, the Attorney-General of Manitoba, whom I had met in a friendly way more than a year ago, I invited him to come to see me. I never met Hon. Mr. Rogers, nor did I have any communication with him. On the evening before his departure for the west, Feb. 23, Mr. Campbell came. I asked him if something could not be done to improve the conditions of the Catholics of his province with respect to education. I pointed out that in the cities of Winnipeg and Brandon, for instance, the Catholics were paying double taxes. I urged my request on the ground of fairness and justice, and, referring to his mission to Ottawa, I remarked that from the point of view of the Manitoba Government some action on these lines would be politically expedient, and tend to facilitate the accomplishment of his object, inasmuch as Catholics in any territory which might be annexed to Manitoba would naturally object to losing the right they had to separate schools, and to be subjected to the educational conditions which existed in Manitoba. Mr. Campbell then asked me what would be my desire in this respect. I then gave him the memorandum which has already appeared in the press.

"This is the sum and substance of my interview with Mr. Campbell. The Federal Government had absolutely no knowledge of it. It was a private conversation, and simply intended to express a suggestion and desire that the condition of the Catholics in the respect I have mentioned would be improved. Any other assumption or interpretation is altogether unfounded. I think my right of speaking to Mr. Campbell in a private way and on my own responsibility cannot be disputed."

Ottawa, April 5.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier rose to the expectations of his friends today, and promptly, emphatically and convincingly denied all responsibility for the interview and negotiations which were alleged to have taken place between Mgr. Sbarette and the representatives of Manitoba respecting the boundary dispute. The Premier's statement was made voluntarily at the opening of the House, and was received with the greatest satisfaction by his followers. He gave the inference that he inspired the interview or had any connection with or responsibility for it the most absolute and categorical denial. He then reviewed Mr. Rogers' statement, and to each paragraph which could reflect upon him gave contradiction in turn. He was able to throw new light on the meetings with the Manitoba ministers, and showed that their interviews with the Dominion Government on the boundary matter was sought by themselves. He also showed that Mr. Rogers knew the Government's view on the boundary question when the Northwest bills were introduced on Feb. 21, and circumstances showed that the Government's conclusion had been reached by their own will and determination. As to the actual matter of the alleged interview with Mgr. Sbarette, Sir Wilfrid had nothing to do with it, and, as Mr. Borden subsequently said, the paper delegate was not responsible to this House. Sir William Mulock added important testimony when he showed that he, as a minister from Ontario, had been the first to make objection to Manitoba's request for an eastern extension of the boundary, resulting in the application being hung up. The discussion was taken up by other members, mostly on the Opposition side, and continued during the rest of the afternoon.

Referring to the interview of Messrs. Campbell and Rogers with Mgr. Sbarette, Sir Wilfrid said: "There has been a rumor about the corridors of this House that this conference had been brought about by one of my colleagues. I have to say to the House, and I have the authority of my colleagues for this, that there never was any conference brought about by him between the delegates and Mgr. Sbarette, and I have to make the further statement that neither myself nor any of my colleagues were the intermediaries between Mgr. Sbarette and the delegates of Manitoba. If there has been such a conference, how it came about I cannot say. Perhaps Mgr. Sbarette may have had previous communications with these gentlemen. I do not know."

Dealing with Mr. Rogers' statement as to the mission of the delegates to Ottawa, Sir Wilfrid read the correspondence, which showed that the initiative came from the Dominion Government, but from the Government of Manitoba. Then, as to what took place at the interview, Sir Wilfrid said he differed from Mr. Rogers as to the latter's statement that the delegates were asked to remain three or four days longer in Ottawa to receive the Government's answer. Sir Wilfrid said that when it came to a discussion as to the extensions of Manitoba's boundaries towards Hudson Bay, Sir William Mulock strongly objected, stating that in his opinion it would not be fair to the Province of Ontario that that claim should be considered unless the Province of Ontario had an opportunity to be heard. Sir Wilfrid did not ask the delegates to remain a few days in Ottawa, his recollection being that he told them their representations would be brought to the attention of council, and that probably they would get an answer at an early date. He added that next day the bills were introduced, and Mr. Campbell was present on that occasion. They received their answer then. Since then a minute in council had been held, in which the Government of Manitoba declared its readiness to consider the proposition of extending Manitoba's boundaries to Hudson Bay at a conference in which the Provinces of Saskatchewan, Ontario and Manitoba would be represented.

Sir Wilfrid next referred to Mr. Rogers' letter of the 23rd February, to which Mr. Borden had called his attention. The Prime Minister read the letter as published in the newspapers. Sir Wilfrid declared that he had never received the letter, nor had his vote secretary, but in view of what Mr. Rogers had stated in his interview on the 20th February, he did not consider it was a matter of importance. In that interview Mr. Rogers stated he expected to learn the Government's decision upon Manitoba's claims when the autonomy bills were introduced. Proceeding to quote from Mr. Rogers' Winnipeg interview, Sir Wilfrid said that the Canadian Government had never brought down any correspondence with Cardinal Rampolla, as there was no correspondence to bring down. The truth was that in 1898 he (Sir Wilfrid) and several of his co-religionists, having some difficulties in their own church, appealed to the authorities of their church to settle them. This they did, and the authorities of the church, being men belonging to the Roman Catholic Church.

"We had trouble," said the Prime Minister, "over matters of ecclesiastical policy, and we appealed to the supreme arbiter in our church to determine these matters. There was nothing more or less than this." This concluded the Premier's statement, and at once precipitated a prolonged debate, that in the matter of warm, has not been equalled for some time. In fact several of the Opposition members, notably Messrs. Maclean and Hughes, forgot themselves, and were compelled to withdraw unpunished statements. Col. Hughes went so far at one stage that Speaker Sutherland found it necessary to warn him that he bordered on breaking the rules of the House he would be named.

SIR WILLIAM MULOCK
Withdrawn From Conference, Claiming Ontario Must Be Heard.

Sir William Mulock arose at this point and said at the request of Sir Wilfrid Laurier he had attended the meeting between members of the Government and the delegates of Manitoba on Feb. 17, so far as he recollected, the Minister of Justice was not present. When Mr. Rogers urged that the boundaries of Manitoba be extended to Hudson Bay, he (Sir William Mulock) opposed the proposition on the ground

The Saucy Kaiser.
Naples, April 6.—Several interesting anecdotes are already circulating here in connection with Emperor William's visit to Naples. The most characteristic is that regarding Captain Kaempff, of the German Legation, at present in command of the steamer Hamburg, on which the Emperor came to Naples. His majesty knew that Captain Kaempff had recently met President Roosevelt, and was in his cabin on the Deutschland the President's autograph photograph. When the Emperor left the Hamburg he gave Captain Kaempff as a parting gift his autograph photograph in a gold frame, saying: "When you receive your pretty American lady friends in the cabin of the Deutschland, I want to be there, too."

Gas Kills Four.
New York, April 6.—Four persons were killed by illuminating gas today in a tenement house on the upper side. They were Mary Rogers, 75 years old; Helen Clark, 12; Kate Clark, 10; and Elizabeth Clark, 7. Their bodies were found by the father of the three children, Samuel Clark, a truck driver, who with his wife and young son occupied a room adjoining. When Clark awoke he smelled gas and traced it to the next room, where he found his three children and the woman, a friend of the family, dead. The gas had escaped from a defective gas stove.

MR. BALFOUR'S MAN SWAMPED IN BRIGHTON BY-ELECTION

Recently Appointed Treasury
Lord Defeated—The Govt.
May Resign.

London, April 5.—A bye-election having now taken place on common interest, according to a well-known Conservative organ, "ended disastrously to the Conservatives." The defeat of Gerald W. Erskine Loder, the late member by E. Villiers, the Liberal candidate, at Brighton, by 817 votes. The election became necessary owing to the appointment of Mr. Loder as junior lord of the treasury, a salaried post, which required his re-election. At last election Loder's majority exceeded 3,000. Considerable difference of opinion exists as to what course Premier Balfour will pursue. The early resignation of the Government is predicted.

The House of Commons tonight was that Ontario had the right to be heard. Further, he told Mr. Rogers he thought it a waste of time to continue the discussion of the matter, he was firm in his claim that Ontario must be heard, and with that he withdrew from the conference. "So far as the paper delegate is concerned," said the Postmaster-General, "the statement made in the newspapers is the first intimation I have had that in any part in the readjustment in the boundaries of Manitoba."

Mr. Borden's Views.

The leader of the Opposition followed. Mr. Borden went in for sarcasm, and congratulated the Prime Minister upon the fact that, while he had ignored Mr. Sifton and Mr. Fielding in respect to the autonomy bills, the Postmaster-General had been so strenuous in his advocacy of the rights of Ontario. As to the letter of Feb. 23, all he knew was that he had just received a telegram from the Attorney-General of Manitoba, asking him to see that it was brought down, as it had been omitted from the documents produced in the House. That letter, he said, bore out very strongly the view that Mr. Rogers had expressed in his interview, namely, that Sir Wilfrid had asked them to remain two or three days in Ottawa to get the Government's answer. They departed, however, without receiving that answer, but they did receive an intimation from Mr. Sifton, that they were to be interviewed at an early date. As to the letter of Feb. 23, he said that he had seen it, and that it was a very strong statement. He said that he had seen it, and that it was a very strong statement. He said that he had seen it, and that it was a very strong statement.

As to that interview he would say nothing further at present, except that Sir Wilfrid might have been misled. He said that he had seen it, and that it was a very strong statement. He said that he had seen it, and that it was a very strong statement. He said that he had seen it, and that it was a very strong statement.

He said that he had seen it, and that it was a very strong statement. He said that he had seen it, and that it was a very strong statement. He said that he had seen it, and that it was a very strong statement. He said that he had seen it, and that it was a very strong statement. He said that he had seen it, and that it was a very strong statement.

Where Did the Letter Go?
Mr. Staples, of Macdonald, Manitoba, arose at this point and said he would bring testimony to show that the letter of Feb. 23 was sent to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. On the 23rd of February, Hon. Mr. Rogers, after writing this letter, asked me to see that it got over to the First Minister," said Mr. Staples. "I went down and rang the bell and there came a messenger named Julius Beaulieu. I delivered the letter to him and he said he would deliver it. Now there is no doubt but that he did deliver the letter. Surely we are living in a mysterious era, mysterious things are taking place every day, and this is one of them." Mr. Staples added that he looked up the letter and found it in the file of the House. "On the 23rd of February," he said, "the letter had gone from room No. 12 of the House to Sir Wilfrid's residence on that particular day."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that if the letter was sent to his house, it (Continued on page 2.)

ASSASSIN IDENTIFIED

Killer of Sergius Son of Warsaw
Police Inspector.

St. Petersburg, April 6.—The identity of the assassin of the "Grand Duke Sergius has just been established. His name is Kalaieff. He is the son of a Warsaw police inspector, and was once a student in the University of St. Petersburg. In 1899 he was expelled for participation in political troubles. His identity was established during official inquiries that were being made into the cases of twelve terrorists, arrested March 30 at St. Petersburg, one of whom, a man named Savinkoff, proved to have been a fellow-student of Kalaieff.

Hamilton, April 5.—Three persons lost their lives in a small fire in Dundas early this morning. The victims were Godfrey Walker and his two daughters, Annie, aged 21, and Maggie, 18 years. The fire broke out in the girl's bedroom when Timothy Sheehan, who discovered the fire, forced an entrance. They had been suffocated with smoke. The fire had not reached the bodies and they were quickly gotten out. The blaze was soon extinguished. Walker was 62 years of age and a widower. He lived with his two daughters. He has a son, Charles Walker, in Toronto.

of 20 Years.

London, April 6.—"Alice, Sit by the Fire," the latest play written by J. M. Barrie, was produced at the Duke of York's Theatre last night, and was received with unqualified enthusiasm. It is a clever and vastly amusing burlesque, satirizing the management of parents by twentieth century children. It is also a satire, on modern play-making. Ellen Terry appeared in the title role, which is peculiarly suited to her. She played with all the force and charm of 20 years ago. Irene Vanbrugh, as her daughter, was no less successful.

THE KING OFF FOR FRANCE; WILL AN ALLIANCE FOLLOW?

French Public Believe It Is Move to Checkmate Kaiser's Moroccan Interference.

HIS MAJESTY TO MEET PRESIDENT LOUBET AT CALAIS

London, April 6.—King Edward started this morning to join Queen Alexandra at Marseilles by way of Paris, where he will meet President Loubet. The Marquis of Salisbury, accompanied his majesty as minister in attendance. Not much attention is paid here to the suggestions from some quarters of the continent that the King's visit to France may be preliminary to an Anglo-French alliance. Although King Edward's trip to the Mediterranean was arranged some time ago, no steps were taken to secure a meeting with M. Loubet till after Emperor William's visit to Tangier. The meeting therefore is accepted here as in some measure intended to emphasize Anglo-French solidarity.

Paris, April 6.—The meeting between King Edward and President Loubet today aroused absorbing interest, owing to the extreme tension over Morocco. The King will arrive at Calais at 1:45 p.m. and take a special train for Paris, arriving here at 6:30 p.m. The two rulers will converse for two hours. Despite official reserve on the subject, the public and press had the meeting as having capital importance in connection with the German attitude towards Morocco, and it is popularly interpreted as France's reply to Germany's action.

The Berlin reports that Germany contemplates calling an international congress to consider the Morocco question, excites surprise and indignation in official circles. It is pointed out that the Madrid Congress of 1880 fully defined international relations towards Morocco, and therefore Germany's calling a new congress would be claimed, amount to further evidence of the unfriendliness of Germany's course. The authorities here take note of what they regard as an apparent effort on the part of Germany to secure co-operation of the United States in the Morocco question, but they feel satisfied that the United States will hold aloof from active participation in the controversy.

Dr. Lewis, Dufferin, Draws At Entlo to Race Track Gambling—Govt.
Is Attending To It.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Toronto, April 5.—The Toronto Junction poolroom was the only subject of note raised at today's session of the House. Dr. Lewis, of Dufferin, raised the subject, by inquiring if the Premier had any knowledge of its existence. Mr. Whitney replied that the place had been brought to his notice, and hinted that the matter was actively in hand, by saying that any further remarks would defeat the object of those who were trying to have the poolroom closed.

The new Government is showing no disposition to accelerate the business of the session, today's sitting lasting less than 15 minutes.

Dr. Lewis, of Dufferin, before the orders of the day were reached, said he wished to draw the attention of the Premier to the existence in Toronto Junction of an institution known as an athletic club, but really devoted to gambling, being maintained for the purpose of placing bets on horse races.

Over a private phone bet were taken every day. Dr. Lewis said he believed that it could not be kept up without betting at the tracks, but there was a great difference between betting at the tracks and at poolrooms. There were many young men in the Province, branded as criminals, whose downfall had been caused by the poolrooms. Nearly every state across the border had legislated against them. His purpose in bringing the matter before the House was to draw attention to the evil and to ask if something could not be done in the immediate future to remedy it.

Mr. Harcourt pointed out that the member for Dufferin was hardly in order in his method of bringing the matter before the House. He should first inquire of the Attorney-General as to the existence of the poolroom, and then lay the foundation for the motion in the regular way.

Mr. Whitney, in reply to Dr. Lewis, said that while the matter had not been brought up in accordance with the rules, it had been the custom to allow members considerable latitude in the way of going outside the rules when drawing attention to important matters. Mr. Whitney said the matter referred to by Dr. Lewis had been previously brought to his notice, but it was obvious that if he said more at present the object of those interested would be defeated.

Temiskaming Policy.

Dr. Smellie introduced a bill to regulate stationary engineers. Premier Whitney informed Mr. Macdonald (West Eglon) that no reply from the Dominion Government had been received by the present Government nor by the previous one so far as ascertained, to the memorial passed March 8, 1904, relating to a grant, by way of subsidy, towards the building and equipment of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway.

Hon. Dr. Reame, replying to Mr. Harcourt, said the Government was not yet in a position to announce its policy with regard to the operation or the leasing of the Temiskaming Railway.

Constantinople, April 6.—An imperial decree issued sanctions the conclusion of a loan in Germany to pay for war material. It is understood that immediate orders will be given to the Krupp Company for 62 batteries of field guns and three batteries of 15-centimetre howitzers, at an approximate cost of $7,500,000. An armistice of a French loan is expected to be issued immediately.

New York, April 6.—A St. Petersburg dispatch to the Times says: All St. Petersburg is talking about the arrest at Tientsin of a man, disguised as a colonel of Cossacks, who entered the palace on Monday, the day on which the Czar receives the officers on duty for the week. Discrepancies in the stranger's accoutrements aroused suspicion. He was arrested and two small bombs were found concealed upon him. The daughter of Gen. Dornhoff has been arrested at St. Petersburg. Her rooms were searched and two bombs were found under her bed.

Estates Seized.

St. Petersburg, April 6.—Official advice reports continued disorders in the Caucasus. Within the past week peasants have looted and burned public offices in the Gore district, sacked schools and private estates, cutting down trees and threatening to kill the police if they interfered, and forcing the officers to leave the district. Similar but less serious disorders are reported in the Tiflis district.

At Kishineff Wednesday night an unsuccessful attempt was made to assassinate Assistant Police Commissioner Kiriloff.

Burn and Plunder.

St. Petersburg, April 6, 12:45 p.m.—The reports of peasant uprisings in the Baltic provinces, especially in Lithuania and Courland, are becoming extremely disquieting. Although Cossack and infantry patrols are scattered through the country, the troops are unable to stop the plundering of estates by the larger peasant bands. At Verra, where a regiment of Cossacks moved on a mob which had complete possession of the town, the Cossacks were dispersed, but the latter broke up into smaller bands, which terrorized the neighborhood by burning and looting. Similar incidents have occurred at other places. The smaller bands drive off cattle, burn barns and fodder, and help themselves to grain and provisions. Dispatches from dozens of places tell of panic produced by the depredations of roving bands of peasants.

Martial Law for Warsaw.

Warsaw, Russian Poland, April 6.—All persons participating in disorders will hereafter be tried by martial law. The new regime commenced yesterday when two workmen were tried and condemned to death. One of them fired a revolver at a Russian soldier, another struck a policeman with an iron bar.

An extraordinary case of wholesale poisoning had occurred at cotton mill in Pabianice. Seventy girls in the coloring department were taken sick and ill and a number of them unconscious. Thirty of them were taken to a hospital in a dangerous condition. An investigation showed that the illness of the girls was due to arsenic having been sprinkled through the room by unknown miscreants.

MACLEAN WAXES WARM

Misstates Matters and Has To Be Called by the Speaker.

Mr. W. F. Maclean declared that whatever the Premier might say, he believed it true that little Manitoba was being punished for her school legislation, and that but for this she might have had the extension of her boundaries that she should. The Premier had not denied that this Archbishop of Ephesus, the papal delegate to Canada, had issued a command to the Manitoba Government that they should stultify themselves by restoring separate schools in that province. According to Hon. Mr. Rogers, "this invitation (from the papal delegate) was accepted, and his excellency presented the following memorandum, remarking that if we would place it on the statute book of our province, it would greatly facilitate an early settlement of our mission, the fixing of our boundaries which would extend to the shores of Hudson Bay. His excellency further stated that mere failure to act in the past had prejudiced our claims to extension westward."

"Now," asked the member for South York, "is that true or is it not?" The people of Canada want to know today if that statement was really made. There has been no denial of it here today. The Prime Minister says he cannot deny it, but the people of Canada want to know this before the autonomy bill passes this House. There has been no denial of it here today. The folly of risking a surgical operation, with its pain, expense and danger, is illustrated in the case of Mr. Lepine, who was cured of bleeding piles by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, after the surgeon's knife had failed. Mr. Arthur Lepine, school teacher, Granite Hill, Muskoka, Ont., writes: "I am taking the liberty of informing you that for two years I suffered from bleeding piles, and lost each day about half a cup of blood. Last summer I went to the Ottawa General Hospital to be operated on, and was under the influence of chloroform for one hour. For about two months I was better, but my old trouble returned, and again I lost much blood. One of my doctors told me I would have to undergo another operation, but I would not consent."

"My father, proprietor of the Richelieu Hotel, Ottawa, advised me to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and two boxes cured me. I did not lose any blood after beginning this treatment, and I have every reason to believe that the cure is a permanent one. I gratefully recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment as the best treatment in the world for bleeding piles."

Mr. Maclean—The Minister of Justice, as Mr. Charles Fitzpatrick and the Right Honorable Premier, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier, with 40 of their colleagues, made representations to the Holy See to send this delegate to Canada. The statement is not denied.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier—The honorable gentleman can read the petition itself. This petition of the Catholic members was read in this House.

Mr. Maclean—I know and it proves my statement.

Sir Wilfrid—No. The legal agent, moreover, of the Canadian Government in London, Mr. Charles Russell, was sent as a missionary to Rome, to have the papal delegate appointed. Confirmed. In a letter, which has already been given to the House on a former occasion, Mr. Russell said:

"I have just arrived at Rome once more at the urgent request of the Catholic members of the Government and of the Parliament of Canada, to renew to your eminence the desire which I had already the honor to express to you, that His Holiness would be pleased to nominate a permanent delegate to Canada, as representative of His Holiness, who would reside on the spot but would be outside all local interests. We do not solicit your Holiness to sanction as perfect the concessions obtained, but in his wisdom, he will be pleased to regard them as a beginning of justice."

"Now," said Mr. Maclean, that is a very important statement. The beginning of justice took place in 1896. The completion of justice is to take place in 1905. When the west is to be fettered in regard to her school freedom. Does not the Premier consider that he is responsible for the papal delegate's westward march?

"This query was greeted with laughter. Sir William Mulock—He is not here at the Government's request. Mr. Maclean answered that in Russia the Procurator-General of the Holy Synod occupied a prominent position in the national councils. It is as though the papal delegate occupied a similar position in Canada. Anyway, the statements had not been fit to deny. Mr. Rogers, and unless he did deny the report it would be taken as true. There is a political crisis in this country, and it was idle for the Government to attempt to ignore the fact.

"To bear in mind that there are two faiths in this country. There is the Roman Catholic faith and there is the Protestant faith, and faith ought to be kept between them. How did this autonomy legislation come before Parliament? The Premier, the Minister of Justice and the Secretary of State—three co-religionists, drew up the measure."

"A harsh declaration brought cries of 'Order' and 'Shame' from all sides of the chamber."

Mr. Maclean—Sir William Mulock and Hon. William Patterson, who were supposed to represent Ontario opinion, so far as I know, were not present. Messrs. Fielding and Sifton and other Protestants were not consulted. By a process of stealth it was got past them, and the fact remains that the legislation was actually introduced by three members of the Government, and I am saying nothing against their faith, and the fact remains that they did not consult with their colleagues before the autonomy bills were introduced."

Sir William Mulock—That is quite untrue. Hon. Mr. Fisher—Absolutely untrue. Mr. Maclean—Well, it has not been denied. Hon. Mr. Fisher—it is denied now."

Sir William Mulock—I have been denied over and over again by the Premier. Mr. Maclean—It has been admitted that the Minister of the Interior knew nothing about it, and the Finance Minister says he knew nothing about it. As far as we know the bill got to the House that practically the bill was introduced by stealth."

Sir William Mulock—They have not. Mr. Maclean—Another thing—by stealth it was taken past the members from the west; by stealth it was taken past the delegates of the Territorial Government; by stealth it was taken past the Liberal caucus, so that as far as we know the bill got to the House under the circumstances I have already mentioned. There is evidence that Sir William Mulock is paying his political debts at the expense of the civil and educational rights of the people of this country. This caused the Speaker to intervene. Mr. Maclean was warned that this was an imputation he had no right to make. Mr. Maclean, after some fencing, was compelled to withdraw the statement.

Col. Sam Hughes called out at this stage to his colleague not to "let him bluff you."

This brought the Speaker to his feet. Order, said Mr. Sutherland, "or I will be obliged to name you." Col. Hughes—I take the full responsibility in this House for what I have said. I say that the member for South York ought not to be bluffed by any authority in the House."

"Order," called the Speaker, once more, "or I will be obliged to name you."

This second warning caused the col. to subside rather promptly. Mr. Maclean went on to say that "the Government of this country today is due to a combination between a solid Quebec and a corrupt Ontario interest, which is centered at Ottawa. What happened there the other night in regard to the municipal rights of the city of Ottawa is one instance of it."

The member for South York got no farther before he was greeted with cries of "Oh!" and "Nonsense!" He went on to say that "the municipal rights of Ontario were in question the other night, and out of the vote of eighty against them, forty votes came from the Province of Quebec." This proposal for a corporation interest, which is centered at Ottawa, what happened there the other night in regard to the municipal rights of the city of Ottawa is one instance of it."

Mr. Maclean—Quebec is going out of its way to fetter and manacle the people of the west and deprive them of their constitutional rights. Manitoba has been denied an extension of her boundaries at the instigation of Quebec."

This last sally brought calls of "Prove it!" from the Liberal side. "I will prove it," answered Mr. Maclean. "In this way, that an amoral solid Quebec will vote for this iniquitous proposition regarding the autonomy of the Northwest."

Mr. Turfitt (Liberal, of East Assiniboia), interposed that it was the people of the west itself that objected to the extension of Manitoba farther westward—the people concerned. Mr. Maclean, in conclusion, told the House that the autonomy bill was a measure to be allowed to pass the committee stage so long as he, with some others, were the subject of a meeting would be held on the subject. One end of Canada to the other. He challenged Sir William Mulock to meet him on the stump in North York to discuss it before the electors of that constituency. If Mr. Campbell dare resign his seat in West York, he (Mr. Maclean) would oppose him in Center Toronto. As for the papal delegate, Mr. Sbaretti, he would remind that gentleman to explain to the House why he was in the country. Mr. Maclean declared, had official relation with His Holiness the Pope.

Mr. Bourassa went on to say that so far as Mr. Maclean's challenge went, it was well known that the issue he would raise on the platform was one that might have been raised in England 200 years ago, namely, "No papal rule and no French domination"—an issue that would not go in Canada today. But it was the kind of cry which the leader of the Opposition would be charged with encouraging.

I am charged with that perhaps by the honorable gentleman, but I absolutely deny that anything of the kind can be taken from any word I have spoken," replied Mr. Borden.

Accepts Maclean's Challenge.

Mr. Bourassa showed that the leader of the Opposition was in the position of not being capable of even standing up for or against anything that was going on in his own party, but he was charged with not having the courage and the manliness to stand up and denounce such an infamous policy. He would have Mr. Borden consult with Mr. Monk, Mr. Monk with Mr. Bergeron and with enlightened Protestants as to whether the Conservative party is following a wise course in allowing itself to be dragged down

Mr. Bourassa declared his willingness to accept Mr. Maclean's challenge and meet him upon any platform in Ontario. As for the presence of a representative of the Pope in Canada, he would remind Mr. Maclean and Col. Hughes came, did not raise any cry of dissent. Mr. Bourassa went on to say that as one of the Liberal members who had signed the request to the Pope to have a papal legate sent to Canada, he was not ashamed of having done so. De Villars' and let him slip off the next day—unless these men would come together I could not prevent from speaking in Ontario standing for my rights as a people, and saying that it is just as legitimate for the Catholics to have their spiritual authority as it is legitimate for the Government of any civilized country to have an ablegate to look after the interests of the people." Nervousness, fretfulness, restlessness, nervousness, irritability—all are the outward signs of inward nerve disturbance. The fault is not with the nerves which enable you to feel, to walk, to talk, to think, to see. But the INSIDE nerves, the automatic power nerves—these are the nerves that work wear out and worry breakers down. I have not room here to explain how these tender, tiny nerves control and operate the stomach, the heart, the kidneys, the liver, the bowels and struts and over-indulgence destroy their delicate fibers. How, through a bond of sympathy, weakness in one center is conveyed to each of the other centers. How this kind of sympathy produces the outward signs of nervousness which I should warn you of the trouble within. Rogers in a Bad Light.

Statements by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Sharnett have placed Hon. Robert Rogers of Manitoba clearly on the defensive. Sir Wilfrid, on the floor of the House of Commons yesterday, gave an unequivocal denial of the charge that communications had passed between Mr. Sharnett and himself on the boundary question, or that he had been intermediary between the papal delegate and the representatives of Manitoba. Sir Wilfrid also denied the allegation that he had asked Messrs. Rogers and Campbell to remain in Ottawa for a second conference. When the extension of Manitoba's boundary to the Hudson Bay was mentioned in the interview between Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Manitoba delegates, Sir Wilfrid Mulock entered the objection that it would be unfair to deal with the question until Ontario had been consulted. Messrs. Rogers and Campbell received their answer in the speech delivered by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in introducing the autonomy bill, and in which the Government declared its readiness to consider the Manitoba proposition, at a conference of representatives from the Provinces of Saskatchewan, Ontario and Manitoba. A letter which Mr. Rogers said he addressed to Sir Wilfrid Laurier on Feb. 23, two days after the introduction of the bill, asking for another interview, was never received by Sir Wilfrid. Sir William Mulock, in corroboration of the Premier's statement, said that he had opposed the proposition of the Manitoba delegates on the ground that Ontario had a right to be heard.

Mr. Sharnett puts the interview between himself and the Manitoba delegates in a different light from Mr. Rogers. He had no objection to suggesting that he could influence the authorities at Ottawa to the prejudice or advantage of Manitoba, and he acquiesces in the Federal Government of any knowledge of his interview. He invited Mr. Campbell to call on him in Ottawa, and this is his version of what occurred:

"On the evening before his departure for the west, Feb. 23, Mr. Campbell came. I asked him if something could not be done to improve the conditions of the Catholics of his province with respect to education. I pointed out that in the cities of Winnipeg and Brandon, for instance, the Catholics were paying double taxes. I urged my request on the ground of fairness and justice, and, referring to his mission to Ottawa, I remarked that from the point of view of the Manitoba Government some action on these lines would be politically expedient, and tend to facilitate the accomplishment of his object, inasmuch as Catholics in any territory which might be annexed to Manitoba would naturally object to losing the right they had to separate schools, and to be subjected to the educational conditions which existed in Manitoba. Mr. Campbell then asked me what would be my desire in this respect. I then gave him the memorandum, which has already appeared in the press."

It is hard to acquit Mr. Rogers of a contemptible conspiracy against the Federal Government. In the first place he gave out that Mr. Campbell and himself were summoned to Ottawa by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, whereas the correspondence read in the Commons yesterday shows that the initiative came from the Manitoba Government. In Mr. Rogers' account of the interview with Sir Wilfrid, he suppressed any reference to Sir William Mulock's objection, which broke off the negotiations. The Manitoba delegates received their answer in the speech of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the House of Commons, and in a formal communication to the Manitoba Government a little later on. Mr. Rogers had not a shred of evidence to support his accusation that the Federal Government was a pawn in the hands of Mr. Sharnett in his attempt to secure amendments to the school laws of Manitoba. This was the reckless invention of a politician who does not scruple to trade in religious prejudice and kindle the fires of sectarian strife, to serve the ends of partisanship.

Lord Milner's Farewell.

Lord Milner sailed from South Africa on Wednesday, and gave his critics a parting shot by reaffirming that his only reason for relinquishing his post was his failing strength. During his tenure of office he was continually under fire from the radicals in the Transvaal and in England, who imputed to him the methods and ideals of a dictator. In a speech at Pretoria on March 22, he deplored the local jealousies which had disturbed the new colonies, the job of the trouble being the idea that Johannesburg wanted "to boss the Transvaal, not to say the whole of South Africa." Against discouraging odds the Transvaal and the Orange River Colony were being steadily rehabilitated. Profound peace reigned throughout the country. The statute book was no longer an unintelligible jumble, but had been reduced to reasonable proportions and an orderly form. There was a steady and incorruptible administration of justice under the supreme court; the principal industry was returning to its old prosperity; new life had been infused into agriculture by the starting of experimental farms, the introduction of better stock, and the planting of forests; they had municipal institutions as liberal as any in the world, and free schools containing twice as many children as had been educated in the state schools at any previous period. They had completed 275 miles of new railways in the two colonies, 311 miles were in course of construction, and 487 miles were arranged for. In addition to this they had spent $2,500,000 on the existing railways, which had been left in a terrible condition after the war, but were now better than they ever were. In the Transvaal alone nearly $200,000 had been spent on the renewal and improvement of telegraphs and telephones. The services, under the Postmaster-General, this year showed a surplus. A sum of $420,000 had been spent on schools, orphanages, and teachers' quarters, including six large town schools, between 20 and 30 schools of average size, and 152 farm schools. A new lunatic asylum, several hospitals, and new prisons were being built. Immense sums had been spent on the improvement of the roads in the country districts and more than 1,300 miles of road had undergone a certain amount of repair. In all, during the three years there had been spent on these and other works $1,100,000 out of loan and $1,035,000 out of ordinary revenue.

In estimating Lord Milner's services and career, it must be remembered that he took up a task which would have appalled many public men. The legacy of Boer hatred fell upon him with full force. He was held jointly responsible with Mr. Chamberlain for the war by the Boers and Afrikaners, who have never become reconciled to him. This has been a great handicap in the work of reconstruction.

It is now possible to state that the reason Germany's initiative was kept secret was because the German Emperor's belief that the suggestion about Chinese neutrality would be the more certain of success emanating from Washington, particularly in view of Secretary Hay's previous activities in the same direction after the Boxer troubles of 1900.

To Make Pure

Biscuit, cake, rolls, muffins, dumplings, etc., a pure leavening agent is indispensable.

While the Royal Baking Powder is reported absolutely pure and healthful, the official reports show most other baking powders, as well as the cream of tartar of the market depended upon by many housekeepers for raising biscuit and cake, to contain either alum, ammonia or sulphuric acid.

The Government Analyst of Ontario says:

"As a result of my investigation, I find the Royal Baking Powder far superior to the others. It is pure, contains none but wholesome ingredients, and is of greatest strength."

God until our debts to man have been deducted.

The man who tries to hide his religion will soon have none that any one could find.

When a man knows that his religion is all moonshine the world is not likely to get much sunshine out of it.

The man who says he can drink or he can let it alone is so busy demonstrating the first proposition that he never gets around to the second.

The Puppet Czar.

[April McClure's.]

With a clatter of hoofs the party dashed down the way and into the great gates of the palace, but as they passed there was held in the town hall last night. It was unanimously decided to enter a team in the junior series, and at present prospects are bright for a fast junior team. The following officers were elected: Patrons, Messrs. Hugh Guthrie, M.P., Thomas Martin, M.P., J. P. Downey, M.P.P., J. Tucker, M.P.P., and J. F. Craig, M.P.P.; honorary president, Messrs. H. Clarke and Dr. Robertson; honorary vice-presidents, Messrs. Long, Mundell and George; president, Dr. Kerr; first vice-president, W. Murdoch; second vice-president, F. Barnes; third vice-president, T. Godfrey; secretary, Don McLeay, jun., treasurer, H. Harvey; manager, J. Mitchell.

Four seconds, and the cartage was passed; but I wondered then if perhaps some humble, czar-worshipping man might not have seen his emperor face to face for the first time in the grumpy ineffectual dot that flashed past between the horsemen.

The Delineator for May.

In the May Delineator some of the choicest of the season's dress productions are represented, and numerous articles, stories, poems, and pictures complete a magazine that is of much interest to women. Albert Bigelow Paine's serial story, "The Lucky Piece," grows upon the reader with the second installment, and promises most interesting developments. There are also short stories by Sewall Ford and Susan MacManus, the latter a story of Irish life in the author's inimitable vein. For collectors, N. Hudson Moore writes concerning old chairs. Dr. W. R. C. Latson contributes an interesting article on "Housework as Recreation," illustrating the invitation of Secretary Hay to the first time officially disclosed in the advance sheet of foreign relations made public at the state department today.

In the correspondence with Germany is included the paraphrase of a cablegram addressed by Secretary Hay to Mr. Toller, the United States ambassador at Berlin, on Feb. 15, after Germany's acceptance of the invitation of Secretary Hay had been received, directing the ambassador to convey to the Emperor the President's profound appreciation of German Emperor First to Move for Chinese Neutrality.

Washington, April 5.—That it was upon the suggestion of Emperor William that President Roosevelt last February undertook to arrange concerted action on the part of the neutral powers for the purpose of inducing the belligerents in the far eastern war to respect the neutrality of China, is for the first time officially disclosed in the advance sheet of foreign relations made public at the state department today.

REASON NO 37

WHY YOU SHOULD USE

Red Rose Tea

Because it is perfectly clean.

Wouldn't you like to know that the tea you drink has not been touched by human hand since it was plucked on the plantation?

This is what you get in Red Rose Tea. The old method of rolling and packing tea by hand has been entirely done away with on the tea estates where Red Rose Tea is produced. There, as well as in the blending and packing rooms, machinery—scrupulously clean machinery—is used exclusively.

Red Rose Tea is never touched by hand after being plucked.

This fact alone will help you enjoy drinking it. The Blue Label is recommended.

EXPRESSIVE NAME FOR INDIGESTION

W. T. Strong, Has Simple Remedy That Is Guaranteed to Cure the Trouble.

No one word better expresses the condition of the sufferer from weak stomach or indigestion than "miserable." The stomach is weak and cannot digest the food, so that there is no appetite, there are pains and griping in the stomach and bowels, and head and back ache, and the misery goes to every organ. Strengthen the stomach and the digestive system by the use of Mi-on-na. This is the only stomach remedy known that gives relief by strengthening the stomach and digestive organs. It is this principle that makes it a certain cure for indigestion. Other medicines may give temporary relief by helping digest the food, but they do not strengthen the stomach, and that organ gets weaker and weaker all the time. W. T. Strong, the reliable retail druggist, has so much confidence in this remarkable remedy that he will guarantee a cure, or the money will be refunded. Mi-on-na costs but 50 cents a box. Ask to see the strong guarantee given with every box. Mi-on-na is in tablet form and should be taken before each meal. Other remedies for stomach troubles and indigestion are taken after the meal, and decompose the good food you eat, but Mi-on-na, used before eating, strengthens the stomach, soothes and heals all irritation and inflammation, enriches the blood, and is pleasant to the taste, such a healthy condition that it will take care of the food itself and there will be no pain or suffering.

A silver tobacco pipe with a stem 10 inches long is used by the Empress of Japan. The bowl is small—in fact, only a quantity of tobacco sufficient to give the smoker two or three whiffs can be put into it. Then the ashes are knocked out, and the pipe is carefully cleaned through many times in the course of an afternoon.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over FIFTY YEARS by MILLIONS OF MOTHERS for their CHILDREN WHILE TEETHING, with PERFECT SUCCESS. DO NOT DELAY.—When, through debilitated digestive organs, poison finds its way into the blood, the prime consideration is to get the poison out as rapidly and as thoroughly as possible. Delay may mean disaster. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a most valuable and effective medicine to assail the intruder with. They never fail. They go at once to the seat of the trouble and work a permanent cure.

An ingenious new lamp is being shown in St. Louis, the merit claimed for which is that the danger of oil overflow in filling is averted. This is done by means of a piece of glass of prism shape inserted in the top of the reservoir, and with one neck extending down into the oil space. Thus it is possible to tell as soon as the oil reaches the lower part of the glass prism when the reservoir is full.

THE GREATER irritation in the throat the more distressing the cough becomes. Coughing is the effort of Nature to expel this irritating substance from the air passages. An effort is again being made to create an impression here that the United States has an understanding with Germany relative to Morocco but the authorities are satisfied that the report is misleading and false. Similar discredit is given to a Naples despatch, stating that King Victor Emmanuel will utilize Emperor William's presence at Naples today to efface the misunderstandings growing out of the Morocco incident. Despite all reports it is generally known that Italy is maintaining complete reserve relative to Morocco.

THE PUPPET CROWN.

BY HAROLD MACGRATH.

[Copyrighted by the Bowen-Merrill Company, Indianapolis.]

"It would not be difficult," he mused, commencing with the thought, which had come to him. "It would be something real, and not a chimera."

He turned over the horses to the groom, and went in search of Fitz. He would inform him of his discovery; but the Englishman was nowhere to be found. Neither was Madame. Being thirsty he proceeded to the dining hall. Fadtate, the maid, was laying the silver.

"Ah, the pantry maid," he thought. "Good day, Fadtate."

"Does Monsieur wish for something?"

"A glass of water, please!"

She retreated and kept her eyes lowered.

"Fadtate, you are charming. Has any one ever told you that?"

"O Monsieur!" blushing.

"Have they?" lessening the distance between them.

"Sometimes," faintly. She could not withstand his glance, so she retired a few more steps, only to find herself up with the wall.

With a laugh he sprang forward and caught her face between his hands and imprinted a kiss on her left cheek. Suddenly she wrenched herself loose, uttered a frightened cry and fled down the pantryway.

"What's the matter with the girl?" he muttered aloud. "I wanted to ask her some questions."

"Ask them of me, Monsieur," said a voice from the doorway.

Maurice wheeled. It was Madame, but her face expressed nothing. He saw that he had been caught. The humor of the situation got the better of him, and he laughed. Madame ignored this unseemly hilarity.

"Monsieur, is this the way you return my kindness?"

"Permit me to apologize. As to your kindness, I have just discovered that it is of a most dangerous quality."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean that I could not kiss Madame the countess with the same sense of security as I could the pantry maid," bowing.

Just now Madame's face expressed a good deal. "Of what are you talking?" advancing a step.

"I had in mind what our friend, Colonel Beauvais, remarked in his recent dispatch: I know no discrimination. The fact is, I do. I found the dispatch on the floor this morning. Allow me to return it to you. I have kept silence, Madame, because I did not know how to act."

"You have dared—" her lips pressed and her eyes flashed.

"To read it? Aye, I am a prisoner; it was in self-defense, Madame, you do me great honor. A countess! What consideration to the indifference! Au revoir, then, till luncheon," and he left the room, whistling—

Voici le sabre de mon père!

CHAPTER XI.

At no time during the afternoon did Maurice find the opportunity to speak privately to Fitzgerald. Madame hovered about, chatting, smiling and humming snatches of song. She seemed to have forgotten a sudden attachment for Maurice; that is to say, she could not bear to lose sight of him, not for the briefest moment.

He swallowed his chagrin, for he could not confess that it was sugar-coated. Madame had at last considered his case and had looked at him dangerous. Somehow a man always likes to be properly valued. It re-establishes his good opinion of himself.

Well, well; however affectionate Madame might be, she could scarcely carry it beyond the threshold of his chamber, and was determined to retire at an early hour. But he had many things to learn.

Fitzgerald abandoned to the countess, who had still much color to regain. From time to time the Englishman looked over his shoulder to see what was going on between Madame and his friend, and so missed half of what the countess said.

"Come," thought Maurice, "it is time I made a play."

The blackberries were ripe along the stone walls which surrounded the chateau. Maurice wandered here and there, plucking what fruit he could find. Now and then he would offer a branch to Madame. At length, as though by previous arrangement with Madame, the countess led Fitzgerald around to the other side of the chateau, so that Madame and Maurice were alone. Immediately the smile, which had rested on her lips, vanished. Her companion was gazing mountainward, cogitating. How fared those in Blenberg?

"What a beautiful world it is!" said a low, soft voice close to his ear.

Maurice resumed his berry picking. "What exquisite tints in the skies!" went on the voice; "what matchless color in the forests!"

Maurice plucked a berry, ate it, and snatched his lips. It was a good berry. "But what a terrible thing it would be if one should die suddenly, or be thrown into a windowless dungeon, shut out from all these splendid reaches!"

Maurice plucked another berry, but he did not eat it. Instinctively he turned and met a pair of eyes as hard and cold and gray as new steel.

"That," said he, "sounds like a threat."

"And if it were, Monsieur, and if it were?"

"If it were, I should say that you had discovered that I know too much. I suspected from the first; the picture merely confirmed my suspicions. I see now that it was thoughtless in me not to have told my friend; but it is not too late."

"And why, I ask, have I not suppressed you before this?"

"Till today, Madame, you had not given me your particular consideration."

Maurice was temporarily silenced by this retort; it upset her calculations. She scrutinized the clean, smooth face, and she saw lines which had hitherto escaped her notice. She was at last convinced that she had to contend with a man, a man who had dealt with both sword and scimitar. How deep was he? Could honors, such as she could give, and money plumb the depths?

He was an American. She smiled the smile of duplicity.

"Monsieur, attend to me; the berries can wait."

"Madame, the life of a good blackberry is short."

"And why, I ask, have I not suppressed you before this?"

"Madame, the life of a good blackberry is short."

"And why, I ask, have I not suppressed you before this?"

"Till today, Madame, you had not given me your particular consideration."

Maurice was temporarily silenced by this retort; it upset her calculations. She scrutinized the clean, smooth face, and she saw lines which had hitherto escaped her notice. She was at last convinced that she had to contend with a man, a man who had dealt with both sword and scimitar. How deep was he? Could honors, such as she could give, and money plumb the depths?

He was an American. She smiled the smile of duplicity.

"Monsieur, attend to me; the berries can wait."

Fit is not a Matter of Mere Inches.

Semi-ready tailoring has put the matter of fit on a scientific basis.

Height is our standard, and our physique types, based on the different heights, cover every variation of the human form—there are 105 of them.

Thus, there is a certain type for the man with sloping shoulders, high shoulders, stooping shoulders, the over-erect form, short stout, tall slender, etc.

By this Semi-ready system of physique types we can give perfection of fit to any one. Call in and let us show you what we can do for you.

THISTLES TO BOWL IN THE EVENINGS

Club Decides to Have Grounds Lighted by Electricity—Officers Chosen.

Last evening the annual meeting of the Thistle Bowling Club was held, and splendid reports were received. Everything brought up was carried through with enthusiasm. Good progress was made last year, the membership being almost doubled, and in all probability this year will even out last.

The matter of lighting the greens during the summer evenings was discussed.

Again Madame found her foil turned aside. She began to lose patience. Her best partied the soul. "Monsieur, since the countess is not high enough, since gold and honors have no charm, listen."

"I am listening, Madame."

"I permit you to witness the come opera, but I shall allow no prompting from outsiders."

"Madame, do you expect me to sit calmly by and see my friend made a fool?" He spoke warmly and his eyes remained steadfast.

"Madame, that is what you shall do," coldly.

"Madame, you are a beautiful woman; heaven has endowed you with something more than beauty. Is it possible that the gods forgot to mix conscience in the mold?"

"Conscience? Royalty knows none."

"Ah, Madame, wait till you are royal."

"Take care. You have not felt my anger."

"I would rather than your love."

She marveled at her patience.

RAID ON AMERICAN

LEAGUE WILL FAIL

New York, April 5.—The elaborate plans of Howard C. Griffith to raid the American League have been organized. Last night a meeting was held at Young's Diamond Hall, and four teams were represented. The league will be known as the Commercial League, and will comprise teams representing Seandrett Bros., Diamond Hall, the grocers and the druggists.

The representatives present were Messrs. Walton, Carter, Coles, Furness, Langford, Scott, Webb, Nash, Harley, Vincent and others.

The following officers were elected:

President—Mr. W. G. Young.

Vice-President—Mr. R. H. Harley.

Second Vice-President—Mr. J. W. Seandrett.

Treasurer—Mr. H. Webb.

Secretary—Mr. W. Coles.

Executive Messrs. Walton, Nash, Langford and Harley.

FOOTBALL.

AFTER THE WALKER CUP.

Chatham, Ont., April 5.—The Chatham football team, organized last night, and the team will begin training for the Walker cup series in the Windsor League. The following officers were elected: Honorary president, Robert Gray; honorary vice-president, John Piggett; honorary secretary, J. G. Kerr; honorary third vice-president, Geo. Massey; president, F. D. Laurie; first vice-president, F. E. Bisco; manager, Sam Courtney; assistant manager, Marsh Taylor; secretary, Percy G. Pigott; treasurer, Frank Mount; executive committee, Graham Smith, B. Alexander, Dan Macintosh, Jack Cummings, Harry Flowers, H. W. Anderson, Mort Sheldon; patrons, H. S. Clements, M. P. Archibald, M. P. P. James Jones, G. Shannon, Manson Campbell and Dr. Fleming.

WRESTLING.

ENGLISHMAN WON.

Rochford, Ill., April 5.—James Parr, the English heavyweight wrestler, defeated "Young" Hackenschmidt here last night, winning the first fall in 15 minutes and the second in 5 minutes and 30 seconds.

THE RING.

TWO "KIDS" FIGHT.

Baltimore, Md., April 5.—"Kid" Murphy of New York, last night won the 165 pound championship by knocking out "Kid" Ryan of Washington in the fourth round. It was a clean, hard fight while it lasted.

WATCH FOR NELSON AND WARD. Sarnia, Ont., April 5.—The Waverly Athletic Club, of Lansing, Mich., of which Andrew Ward, of this town, is manager, has offered Mike Ward, of Sarnia, and Battling Nelson, of Chicago, a purse of $500, with the privilege of 5 per cent of the gate receipts, to box before the club on June 15, weight to be 165 pounds. At present manager Ward is corresponding with Nelson, and thinks there will be no trouble in securing the latter's signature to a set of articles to meet the Canadian lightweight champion.

FOOTBALL.

BARRACKS WANT A GAME.

The football team of Wolseley Barracks is in positions of arranging a game with some outside team in this city on Good Friday. All communications should be addressed to Sergt. Cockburn, Wolseley Barracks.

TRY TO ESCAPE BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Look Well to Your Kidneys—Keep Them Healthy and Thus Avoid Incurable Diabetes and Bright's Disease.

If you would avoid Bright's disease take Dr. Hamilton's Pills at once—no delay about their action, which is swift and thorough. In every case complete cure attends their use.

Read the following symptoms—they tell if your kidneys are sick or well—whether or no you require a medicine such as Dr. Hamilton's Pills:

WATCH YOUR WATER.

Does it smell bad?

Is it red, bloody?

Painful and too frequent?

Does it drip?

Discolor the linen?

After standing 24 hours, if the urine is cloudy, highly colored, stringy, contains sediment like brickdust, then

YOUR KIDNEYS ARE DISEASED.

To protect your system against the further inroads of kidney complaint rely on Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They give instant relief to the backache, those dragging sensations, desire to urinate too often or too seldom. You'll feel invigorated and braced, your appetite will improve, sleep will be restful. No medicine on earth will do you more lasting good. Price 25 cents per box, or five bottles for $1, at all dealers, or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

return of Mr. Pat Mulhall as president; 19, Avey 14.

Alex. Wanless, secretary; Wm. Barkerville, treasurer; James Bell, E. Walsh, James Edwood and R. Errington, grounds committee. Mr. Mulhall desired to withdraw from the presidency, but the members insisted on his accepting the office. Robert Walsh retired from the secretaryship and his place will be filled by Alex. Wanless, one of the younger generation of quotters.

The meeting was certainly enthusiastic. Ever since now appears to be smooth sailing for the club.

SOVEREIGN BRAND

GOOD dressers will be interested in our spring showing of these superior suits. Our west window this week is filled with Sovereign Brand Suits. In the center of this window display we are showing a garment similar to the above cut, in an unfinished state, in order to show how our clothing is made; for no matter how good the outside of a suit is, if the "insides" are not good you know the inevitable result.

There's the soft canvas, the kind the very best tailors use, and this canvas is thoroughly shrunk in our own shrinking rooms before being used.

Then the haircloth—not an imitation—but the real thing, the product of the largest makers in England.

Then there's the padding, which together with the haircloth and canvas, is needle-molded into proper shape and placed in each garment by tailors who do absolutely nothing else but the hand work around the shoulders and collar.

The result is a beautifully concaved shoulder and unbreakable front that no tailor can improve on at any cost.

Sovereign Brand Suits, sizes 34 to 44, $12.00, $14.00, $16.00, $18.00, $20.00.

Peerless Suits, - $6.50 to $12.00.

Princely Suits, - $8.00 to $15.00.

Indorsement From the West

All residents of Toronto know well the high musical attainments and artistic tastes of Mrs. W. Stanford Evans, of Winnipeg (nee Miss Irene Gurney). Her opinion of the Gourlay piano, for six months' use, is given in an interesting letter, dated from the Winnipeg College of Music and addressed to Mr. Gourlay. The text follows:

"Please forgive my delay in writing to thank you for your promptness in sending the Gourlay Piano for my studio in the West. It is a fine instrument, and the transportation displacement of the pedal action clouded the tone, and I waited for your tuner to remedy it. Since then it is in perfect adjustment and the tone clear and ringing. I am delighted with the piano, and congratulate you on the quality of the fine singing quality, and the true octaves are pure and sweet—one of the tests as you know—while the middle and lower registers are equally true. In my piano work and find it very satisfactory as against the Grand in the same studio."

FUNERAL OF OTTO WONDERLY

The funeral of Jockey Otto Wonderly, who was thrown from a horse and fatally injured at the Memphis, Tenn., track on Saturday last, took place yesterday afternoon from the residence of J. A. Mackay, Woodstock, to the Presbyterian Cemetery. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Dr. Mackay, of Chalmers Church, in an impressive and sympathetic manner. The funeral was very largely attended by many friends from London, Buffalo, N. Y., and other places. Among the present were: James W. Wonderly, brother of the deceased; Mrs. Wonderly; Mrs. Murray; and Mrs. White, all of Buffalo, N. Y.; and Mr. Wonderly, of this city, and C. E. Osborne, Detroit, Mich.

The eulogy was read by Mr. Wonderly, who was held by all was shown by the many beautiful floral tokens of respect sent by friends far and near.

London Masons Do Honor To Grand Master Allen

Thousands of widows and orphans testify to the efficiency of their relief, while the cheerful homes and schools for the widow and orphan and the future on this continent is the result of the devotion of the grand master, who is in brief, the grand master, upon which nearly 50,000 of our fellow-beings in the Province of Ontario are dependent for their progress and prosperity, which have attended
