

hristian is my Name but Catholic my Surname.)-St. Pacian, 4th Centr " Christianus mihi nomen est Catholicus vero (

VOLUME XXX.

18.

1

It

-

e

D

d

CE on sal expenses h locality handling

$251 Write

DN

IES

ty made

Articles

M.

D

St. west

ASS PRO

c schoo fin 17th nd good $450 a ere, Kil-

1557-2.

FEMALE ary $400. 1. Apply to J. G. 1557-2.

HIGH

NORMAL

OUNTRY

arliament 1556-3

PRIEST age and

ondon

IED

m of

URES

ntities

15c

$1.00

eord

ts

lies

FOCK

ICES

St. O

sixteen the In-

D. Ont.

LONDON, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1908

Good-by.

(Baltimore Sun.) Oh, hitle green grasses and little green tree, We'll soon be bidding good-by unto thee ; The year's in the shadow, the sun's on the wane, And little cool messages come with the rain ; Hands full of peaches and checks full of gloom, Good-by to the beauty, good-by to the bloom. The second-brood nesls are a-swing in the bran. And home-again robin sings sweetheart's desire ; Apples are failing and berries are gone. And grave Lady Angust is said in the dawn, With mists all around her and dew on her head. And the brown in the grass where her weary thread! Good-by little beates: good-by little bid ; Good-by, little blossoms ; oh, sorrowful word-en the glow of her summer will startle us still When actume comes ou through the startle syster To tint the brown ghosts of the blossoms of May ! (Baltimore Sun.)

CARDINAL GIBBONS FORTY YEARS AGO.

STIRRING CHAPTER IN THE LIFE-HISTORY OF BELOVED PRINCE OF THE CHURCH.

In Putnam's Monthly and The Reader

In Putnam's Monthly and The Reader for August there is an article which will carry an appeal to the affec-tions of every one of the fifteen millions of Catholics of the United States. It is of Catholies of the Order States. It is entitled "Cardinal Gibbons Forty Years Ago," and is a sympathetic and graphic description of the conditions under which the venerable American Prince of the Church lived and labored on the of the Chifred Invest and Indoord of the anisotons of North Carolina. The author of the article, Day Allen Wiley, a well-known Baltimore journalist, has illustrated his text from photographs taken by himself, including one of the pictureesque briek Church of St. Thomas, at Wilmington, and the "ugly, dilapidated annex" which Bishop Gibbons called "home." The historic church is about to be abandoned, and the suggestion with which Mr. Wiley both opens and closes his article-that the Catholics of America unite to secure it and dedicate forever as a monument to Cardinal approval. The article is, in part, as follows : will meet with widespread

Standing on the shore of the Potomac is a stately mansion that half a century ago was preserved by the American people as a memorial to the one they call the Father of his Country. The Cape Fear River flows to the sea, through North Carolina, past another building that might also be preserved as a memor ial to a noted American, for it is indeed a reminder of the merits of a man who has been honored as the Cardinal Archishop of the United States. In the city of Wilmington—that quaint

" Salem of the South," peopled far be-fore Revolutionary times—were spent years that were destined to be momentyears that were destined to be moment-ous in the career of James Cardinal Gibbons. The period when he called it home formed a chapter in his life-history fraught with events which fall within the experience of few. Even a short time makes great changes in our country. He gave up his home in Wilcountry. He gave up his home in Wilmington not forty years ago, yet his words and deeds while Bishop of North Carolina are known to few outside of the little old city and those who lived in this part of the Section 2010 this part of the South during the stirring times immediately after the Civil Wa are mostly remembered by their head-stones. About these years of his life his lips have thus far been sealed. Why? Because the innate modesty of the man prevents him from telling a tale he might tell that would perhaps show the manliness, courage and patriotism of this prelate far more clearly than any acts of his public career.

We have to go back a little way to the days just after the war. Carolina had its share of the poverty and suffering. Throughout the State, which stretches from the Atlantic to the trait of his character. But more than priestly power was needed, and by the authority of the Pope, Father Gibbons became Bishop Gibbons. This was a part of his mis-sion to build up the Church not only in town, but in country; to make peace if possible between Catholic and Protestant; to restore to those of his belief their rights as citizens, of which they had been in part deprived. * * * had been in part deprived. * * * Such was the field to which the young priest was assigned after he had been vested with the episcopal robes. Those who gathered in old St. Thomas at the first service he conducted saw a youth with figure spare to frailness, but there was in his face the evidence of character and determination. He knew he was in charge of a people who for the time were outside of the town society as much as charge of a people who for the time were outside of the town society as much as if they were outcasts. Most of them were in poverty. Some had lost their all in the war. None could be called wealthy. To them the future was one of hopelessness, for such was the crisis in the affairs of the church that the question had arisen if it should not be disbanded and the cities of North Carolina left without a congregation of the Catholic faith. Then began the greatest struggle yet to be recorded in the life of James

Gibbons—a fight to save his church. First, he must have a priest to assist him and to serve the people when he was journeying over field and through valley to reach the few scattered folk in the country. Fortunate was it that a man after his own heart became associated with him-a man willing to make sacrifices and endure hardship and dis-comfort in his zeal for his life work. Mark Gross was also young in years when, with his friend and Bishop, he entered upon his duties in Carolina as rector of St. Thomas', to remain there until 1890, continuing the work laid out by his superior. Father Gross entered into his labors with such heartiness that he soon won the esteem of the people, patriot.

holding a place in their affection second only to that of the Bishop. The two lived together like brothers. Their nome is still standing-a little brick lean-to," scarce two stories high, built in part from their scanty income. They could not afford a better place. The money must go to the maintenance of money must go to the maintenance of the church, as the Bishop expressed it. And this hovel was erected behind the church itself. The rear wall of the church formed the back of the house, the building being lighted on only three sides. Here these men lived, year after year, Bishop and priest eating on a table of rough boards, and sometime preparing their own food if they had no funds to get assistance. They slept on cots that stood on floors bare of rug or core that stood on hoors bare of rig of carpet. The home of many a laborer in the town was much more pretentious and comfortable. But the shelter cost so little to build and maintain that its buildens could durate a part of their builders could devote a part of their allowance from the Church authorities to aiding the poorer members of their flock. How many families were thus relieved from time to time by their charity is known only to themselves. Of Father Gross the story is told that if he had more than one hat, or an extra pair of trousers, he was sure to give them to some needy parishioner. On one occasion he came into the store of a friend with a laced shoe on one foot and a buttoned gaiter on the other. Asked why they were not alike, he replied that he had intended to give a pair to a poor man, but had made a mistake and given one of each kind. * * *

given one of each kind, Within a year after the two men began their labors the clouds had broken. The broadmindedness, and especially the Americanism, of the from the Atlantic to the western moun tains, five hundred miles away, were only a million people-Methodists, Baptists, especially the Americanism, of the Bishop gradually changed the feeling towards him and his followers. From being distrusted at first, he became esteemed. Through his influence the Episcopalians, Presbyterians and mem-bers of sundry other Protestant denom-inations; but the Catholic Church was represented by a mere handful of human ity, so few that a Catholic was looked upon as a curiosity; more than this, as one uncanny, to be suspected, shunned. The rites of the Church were regarded spirit of the town towards the Catholics was transformed from hostility to goodwill. The example set by their head was emulated by his parishioners, until finally the gap between Catholic and were regarded as a sort of sorcery. In Wilmington, where the only church of this belief existed between Charleston and far-away Protestant was closed apparently for ever. Petersburg, in Virginia, the feeling to-wards those who worshipped in it was anything but kindly. Little girls whose parents attended it had their aprons Only a very few remain of the group of the faithful who, Sunday after Sun-day, knelt before the altar at St. Thomas' in the 60's. Clearly do they recall the life of the present Cardinal and the tales they tell depict not only orn off in the street and suffered othe abuses. Catholic children were forced to leave the one school in the place because the Protestant fathers and his work among them, but his journey ings here and there in Carolina, whe mothers threatened to close its doors if they were not excluded. Perhaps it for the time he laid aside his officia Perhaps it duties to assume the role of a Christian auties to assume the role of a Christian messenger to the country folk. As con-ditions at St. Thomas improved, he felt he could give more time to the greater field, and, leaving Father Gross in was well that old St. Thomas', where were intoned the Mass and Vespers, was built of brick, with stout plank doors otherwise it might not now be standing memorial of those one charge, he would be absent for a fort a silent charge, he would be absent for a fort-night or more at a time. Where pos-sible, he traveled by railway, but so many households of the Church were off the few miles of iron highway that much f bis immendiate an inexplicable mystery. His opinion with regard to Catholic newspapers is that all of them ought to be burned un-read. Most of us have seen this man gathered within it. athered within it. As the curtain of history is rolled back, the man whose tragic death in part led to the coming of Bishop Gibbons to Carolina should not be forgotten of his journeying was done on horse back, or muleback, or by wagon. "It was indeed a dilapidated affair, name of Father Murphy is neve mentioned here without remembrance of the dreaded plague which for months says Mrs. O'Connor, one of his early friends. "It was of the kind known as a held the town in its grasp. Among the democrat, and drawn by two horses The Bishop sometimes had a young priest with him, who drove, or a colored few who did not flee, but remained to the sick and to administer the last rites to the dving of all beliefs was man, who assisted. The space they did not occupy was filled with packages of clothing and such things as sugar and flour and medicines. Most of it was for the brave Irish priest, who at last was stricken down among the victims of yellow fever. With the death of Father Murphy the Catholics of Wilmington the poorer families with whom they might stop; but they also carried their were left without a counsellor to guide The Church was indeed demoral-and on Archbishop Spalding dethem. clerical robes for ceremonies, and food for themselves, for many a time did volved the task of restoring order out of chaos. The situation needed a man that old wagon stop in the forest where their noon meal. We merely of energy, but of executive they must eat often ask the Bishop to give up the old ability and tact. He must be versatile wagon and get another, for it finally be-came so rickety that I thought it to meet the emergencies. There were many willing priests, but the question was one of fitness. Finally the Archdangerous. To break down twenty bishop decided upon a young man who had been his secretary and his chancel-lor, one with whom he had been so closely associated that he knew every while longer. And when some of the habitation is no que and over expressed a belief in trial marriages. "I'd rather see her dead than church members offered to buy him an- find her holding awful views," her other, he answered. 'Friends, you can give me the money, if you will, for the church needs it, but not for any vehicle or my use.' for my use." Long ago, probably, the old "demo-crat" was turned into kindling wood or stored away to be forgotten; but it had rolled over thousands of miles of Caro-

to incur hardship and to risk danger as well. But the man who later wrote "The Ambassador of Christ" could well describe him, for in truth he himself was such, never hesitating to seek out the peopls of the Church, no matter what dangers and hardships might have to be overcome. *

Time spares nothing. For three-fourths of a century has St. Thomas' been the centre of the Roman Catholic worship in Wilmington, but its days are numbered. The present priest has sold the church, and a newer and larger one the church, and a flewer and larger one is to take its place on a site secured elsewhere. If it is not torn down, it will be converted into a factory or warehouse, and what should remain a chasiched historical structure will be cherished historical structure will be debased from a temple of religion into a nameless pile of brick and mortar. Here, indeed, is an opportunity for the Catholics of America to perpetuate the memory of their dead, by uniting to secure it and dedicate it forever as a monument to him. The day might well come when Protestant and Catholic alike would unite in paying homage here not only to a distinguished priest and prelate, but to a statesman and true

THREE STRIKING CASES.

CATHOLIC PUPILS OF SECULAR EDUCA-TIONAL INSTITUTIONS COME HOME MINUS THEIR FAITH. New World

Usually at this time of year the better class of our Catholic journals begin an earnest advocacy for the cause of Catholic education in effort to convince Catholic parents that it is their solem duty to send their children to schools of their faith. We believe likewise also, only we may believe a little more firmly than some who have never had el send to schools of any kind. who have never had children to seen much and heard more of the disastrous effect of sending to institutions where no faith was inculcated or bleak unfaith insidiously taught. Some years ago we knew a young man whose wealthy parents conceived it their duty to send him to one of the "great secular universities." A mere Catholic school would not do; he must be fitted school world hot do', he must be fitted for the high station he was born to oc-cupy. He went. He excelled in his studies. He graduated with honors. He came home. They thought he would still be a Catholic — that his faith would be unhurt by the school and the associates he found there. What was the case really? In a few brief weeks they were amazed to find him sneering at the simple faith they professed. Children might believe as they did, he could not-so he told them professed. Children might believe as they did, he could not—so he told them. Then they prayed and prayed, but the harm was done. A couple of years later he became a Unitarian. Several years afterward he dropped that. Now he is an out-and-out freethinker, his mind gradually tending toward the principles of anarchy. This is case number one. Case number two is more common. Frederick Augustus O'Mahoney also at-

mother said to us a few weeks ago: and there was a sob in her voice as she so declared. Too late! Long ago she made a mistake in sending her to that school. Now the ruinjis done, and the remainder of her life must be spent in regret and prayer. These are not imaginary cases. Withrolfed over thousands of miles of Caro-lina on its mission of mercy. It went into places where its owner risked life and health in succoring families ill of contagious diseases. It entered settlements where every stranger was looked upon as an enemy by the clan-nise mountaineers. It traveled in the "Feud Belt," where men with loaded the lives of their enemies. To venture into the rural districts of Carolina was to incur hardship and to risk danger as ing solid instruction and its influence makes for the highest morality and reverence. Young men who come out from its halls do not join the army of the weak and depraved. They are strong, capable, progressive — youths not ashamed of their race or faith. The heads of its young women graduates are not filled with infidel notions and moon-struck madness. The Catholic school is helpful and safe. Send your child to it. Do not run the risk of having to spend the rest of your life in regret, like those we have mentioned. The time to decide is now.

Catholic Record.

THE POPE AND FATHER DOYLE.

IN AUDIENCE HIS HOLINESS SPEAKS OF THE MISSIONS TO NON-CATHOLICS IN AMERICA.

The work of the missions for not Catholics as it centres about the Apos-tolic Mission House in Washington received a special blessing and commen-dation from the Holy Father when he recently accorded Father Doyle a pri vate audience.

"I impart my blessing to the Apos-tolic Mission House," said the Holy Father, "to all the missionaries who have gone out of it and to all who have co-operated by their generosity in the carrying on of the work of missions to non-Catholics. May God foster in a special way this apostolic ork, and so make it flourish that it will not be long before every diocese will have its band of missionaries and the great work of the conversion of America to the true faith become an accomplished fact."

The words that he spcke seemed to be uttered with a special unction, as though they came from the bottom of his heart. He expects great things from America in the next decade of years. From the watch tower of Israel he has often looked out over the earth and he has often seen in the lands across the sea in the Western world the greatest hope of the Church. It warms his heart to realize the strong faith and the great devotion of American Catholics, and it gives him unwonted pleasure to see what aggressive measures taken for the spread of the Church in the United States, anticipating the happy results of all this activity in the vears to come. These thoughts undoubtedly added earnestness to his words as he placed his hands on the head of Father Doyle, kneeling before him.

Father Doyle related to the Pope the story of the inception, progress and completion of the Mission House, and told of the work of training nearly one hundred priests who have followed the lectures during the past few years, as well as the wonderful work these missionaries are now doing in all parts of the United States. He spoke of his hopes, and of what may be done if the Catholics of the United States con tinue to support the work in the future as they have done in the past. As the Holy Father listened, his eyes glowed with enthusiasm, and his frequently uttered, "si, si, bene, bene," showing religious order was co-operating in it, and how Bishops, priests and laity, per-suaded of the great opportunity before the Church, were stirring to do the best to make the most of it, tears of gratitude to make the most of it, tears of grattude to God filled his eyes, and an exclama-tion of joy burst from his lips. He then, stretching forth both his hands, bade Father Doyle go on with the good work, and he invoked a special blessing on all the priests and laity who did what they could to foster and advance the movement that held forth such hope for the holy faith in merica.

It is undoubtedly among the great consolations of his pontificate that the Church shows such signs of progress in the United States. The dark clouds o oppression are over the Church in many other countries, but the cash America is screne and inviting.

ate the audience, Father Dove pre-sented him with one of the larger gold coins on which the legend "In God We Trust!" has been restored by act of Congress, with the co-operation of the President, and the story of the incident was related. He looked upon the re-storation as an act of faith in God by the American people. It was to him nost undoubted evidence that the religous sense was strong in America, and his comment was that he hoped that very soon that act of faith would become explicit in regard to all the doctrines of the Church; and as a token of this act of faith he would treasure the coin, and would see to it that some day, when these hopes were realized, the coin would be found in the Vatican collection. Half an hour with the Holy Father furnishes the most inspiring experience Selected for his high position by circumstances over which he had no control, and against which he naturally rebelled, he is all the more truly God's chosen means of speaking to men. There is more than human guidance in his counsels, and more than natural wisdom in his words. One comes from the Holy Father's presence with the deep convic-tion that he is in intimate touch with divine things. — Phil Standard and Times. - Philadelphia Catholic

VALUE OF MEMBERSHIP IN THE CATHOLIC CHURCH.

There is a great deal of misunderstanding anent the laws and discipline regarding marriage in the Catholic Church. It is not our intention to write several columns about the matter The more there is written, the less there is understood. Suffice it to say, hen, that marriage should take place before the parish priest and witnesses, or before another 1 two witnesses, or before another priest deputed by the parish priest. Other wise, marriage is not only illicit, but invalid. In other words the contract is not only unlawful, but not a real marriage at all. Dispensations may still be applied for and obtained. When granted by the proper authority, the dispensation will be valid, and also the marriage contracted under it. But since Easter of this year, it is im-possible for any of our Catholic people to be married outside the church, and to have their union honored by the name of marriage.-Intermountain Catholic.

FOR REUNION WITH ROME.

LORD HALIFAX FAVORED IT IN 1895 WORK GOING ON SINCE.

Milwaukee, Aug. 21.-That a genera movement has existed in the Episcopal Church for a reunion with the Church of Rome was shown to-day when Father Fairbanks of St. Patrick's Church, of the consultors of Archbishop Mes-smer, made public, with the consent of Lord Halifax, President of the English ion, a letter from Lord F favoring such a reunion. The letter was written in 1895, and the work for reunion has been going forward since then. The letter to Lord Fairfax fol-of the gross evils which come daily from this sad spectacle of a rent and divided Christendom. For reunion I have worked and hoped and prayed in all the twenty years of my ministry."-New York Times, Aug. 22.

1559.

CATHOLIC NOTES.

The daughter of M. Fallieres, the President of France, will be married on Monday in the Church of the Madeleine n Paris to her father's secretary. Another daughter is a nun.

The reception into the Church of nother Episcopalian minister is to be chronicled, in the recent conversion of Rev. P. W. Hemans, late curate in charge of St. Nicholas, Blackwell, Eng.

King Edward VII. has signified a willingness to receive the distinguished prelates attending the Eucharistic congress during their stay in London. and it is believed that the effect of the meeting will be far reaching toward the conversion of the land of the ancient Angles.

Archbishop Glennon, of St. Louis, addressing more than 400 of his priests at the close of their retreat at Kenrick Seminary, enjoined them not to permit in future the serving of wine or beer at church picnics, fairs or entertainments of any kind, or at the banquets of church societies.

English Catholics are interested in engagement of Mr. John Churchill, Mr. WinstonChurchill's brother, to a younger daughter of the Earl of Abingdon. This will bring the house of Churchill into close connection with the inner circle of the Catholic aristocracy, to which this branch of the Berties belong.

Eighty per cent of the men serving in the New York Fire Department are Catholics. Rev. Father Smith, the Catholic chaplain of the department, sits in the trial room when offending employes are brought up for discipline. The commissioner often turns a case over for decision by the chaplain.

The Pope who looked in excellent health at the dawn of the sixth year of is reign recieved an immense number of telegrams of congratulation from all parts of the world last Sunday, from heads of state, cardinals, and bishops. During the last week he again received in private audience Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop Farley.

The music of the bells will be heard no more in France. In Lyons the clergy in charge of eleven parishes have recently been fined five francs each for ringing the church bells, thereby dis-turbing the slumber of citizens. Under the new law against religion in that country it is forbidden to ring the bells before 6 o'clock in the morning or late at night.

Quite recently, while Cardinal Richelmy, Archbishop of Turin, was celebrat-ing Mass, an individual threw a box containing powder and cartridges into the midst of the congregation. A panic followed, but, happily, no one was wounded. The Cardinal, against whom this outrage was undoubtedly aimed, received a note of sympathy from the Holy Father.

Cardinal Gibbons had his farewell audience with the Pope last Saturday in the latter's private library. The Cardi-nal thanked the pontiff for having granted him all that he had asked for, both from the propaganda and the Vatican, and the Pope replied that where the interest of the Church in America was oncerned nothing ever would be denied. The Pope is stated to have announced hat he intends to raise the Archbishop of Westminster, Most Rev. Dr. Bourne to the Cardinalate, and the elevation is expected to take place at the September Consistory. Dr. Bourne is a young man for such an honor, being tended a great secular school and came out with degrees enough to balance his name through life. Now he is a prohow closely he followed the statements and what warm sympathy they elicited from his fatherly heart. There is one thing about Pius X. that essor in a State institution and a Catholic-in name. Unhappily his Catholic distinguishes him, and that is he is a ity is of the queer kind. He doesn't think any of the priests of to-day are doing their duty. He is sure the nuns doing their duty. He is stretche nuns are not. If the Bishops would only con-sult him he would save them numerous blunders. He is inclined to believe the with his hands resting comfortably on the table before him, and he takes in all that is said to him with remarkable attention. His face is not vivacious, nor French Government is right in driving out the priests and nuns, sundering the are his eyes brilliant, but there sense of repose and resignation about him. It is, Concordat and confiscating the churches Leo XIII., he asserts, was wrong in inated now and then with a placid smile condemning socialism, communism and His features are strong and forceful. As anarchy: Pius X. wrong in condemning one looks into them one sees where the masterly power comes from that can do the host of modern errors. Why the Holy Father does not create a dozen Cardinals for the United States puzzles the great things he has done in the last few years, particularly the latest of his him, and why his parish priest acts, the reorganization of the Roman ioesn' consult him before he preaches is to him ongregations.

was told what distinguished this non Catholic mission movement from read. Most of us have seen this man, and some of us have wondered if he is not harming the Church more than he i training the diocesan priests be missionaries, he said: "Q helping her. Case number three is a young woman f the nearby University. right, for the Holy Ghost has appointed -a graduate of the nearby University. Hoping to fit the young lady for a great the Bishops to rule the Church, and it is very proper that they should supervise the efforts for extending the career, her parents stinted themselves in order to have her crowned with gradborders of the Church. He approved uation. For years they had heard that most cordially the methods the school was a hotbed of unfaith, bu they risked it. When she emerged sh had more clothes than Kitty Casey and as much effrontery as a vaudeville ac-tress, in stars and spangles. She ought to have been a Catholic like her father mother and mother. What was she? In reality a Nothinarian of the first de gree. She held religion to be a super-stition, and was quite sure the Catholic Church was wrong in all its teachings. She didn't see why it teachings. She didn't see why it should oppose divorces; hinted that in opposing race suicide it meddled with a question outside its sphere, and over teaching. He expressed some wonderment, and his eyebrows were raised in astonishment that any other way should ever have been followed. It all seemed to him the most natural way in the world. It is just the way that a kindly old man like himself would gather crowds about him and persuade them of the truth of what he believes. When he was told of the results of the non-Catholic mission movement, how deavors and with his yeal I have the widespread it had become, how every deepest sympathy. There is no doubt

"Though the difficulties in the way good listener. There he sits on the edge of his chair, white from head to foot, of reunion are enormous, from a human point of view almost insurmountable what God wills must be possible, and in He calls us to work for it our duty is plain. If more approached the ques-tion in the spirit of your letter peace would be nearer than, unfortunately, it seems to be at present. Of cours there can be no real difficuly as to t withal, a kindly face, illum questions of discipline, the point is can such explanations be given on disputed matters of doctrine as may make reunion possible without either side being asked to assent to a contradiction of what had been authoritatively taught It seems to me that such explanation are possible, and that many of our dif As the conversation went on and he ferences are but really due to our mis lows :

understandings. "The authority by divine right of the Holy See, we ought, as it seems to me to acknowledge-indeed, I do not know other missionary movements, particu-larly its organization under the Bishops that the Anglican Communion has ever denied it. Its jurisdiction in the sense which is often attached to the word of "Quite course we do deny, but on the othe hand there is a sense in which I su it might be accepted, even by the e in which I suppos elastic of the Anglican clergy, and the question would be, Is there a point the work as they were explained to him, discoverable which would satisfy what especially that policy that forbids all the Roman Church claims as divine contentious controversy, and endeavors to attract the non-Catholics by a plain right, and by our Lord's commission for the Holy See, and yet not contravene principles common both to the East and England ? and attractive exposition of Catholic "I wish some informal conference could be got up between representa-tives of both sides."

Father Fairbanks then quotes from a letter of the late Bishop Nicholson of the Episcopal diocese of Milwaukee, who said, after reading the Halifax letter: "With his (Halifax's) devout endistribution of Communion, and the like. Revolting indecency was combined with shocking sacrilege.

only forty. seven years of age, and this mark of favor will give general satisfaction in circles even outside those purely Catho-

The St. Vincent de Paul Society of New York has inaugurated another praiseworthy work in the foundation of a club for Catholic boys. The organization having the work in charge will be known as the Ozanam Association, and will establish throughout the city a number of clubs, where the working boys of the neighborhood may assemble and where they will be entertained and intructed and saved from the evil influnces of the streets and the pool rooms.

Seldom since the days of the pseudo eformation has there been a larger or nore impressive pilgrimage to the shrine of St. Thomas a Becket at Canterbury han that of the Guild of Our Lady of Ransom, which took place two weeks go. Although during the past fifty years parties of Catholics from various ago. parts of England have visited the scene f the martyrdom of the saint, nothing like an organized pilgrimage was made until the early nineties, and it was in 1899 that the Guild revived the ancient custom, and for the first time for three and a half centuries publicly carried a banner of Our Lady through the streets of the ancient city.

A horrible story is told of the way a number of Jews descerated the desolate chapel of the Convent of the Sacred Heart in Paris. The affair was organ-ized by an individual said to be the secretary of the Russian embassy, and besides the two hundred wealthy Hebrews of both sexes, there were present some alleged Russian grand dukes. The dances and indecencies that took place simply cannot be described. The exhibition of the Goddess of Reason in the old French revolution was very mild when compared with the unnameable things that things that were said to have been enacted in the Parody of the Mass, the patient. "By all means keep the people out of her room," she said, "and don't let Father Salvini, should he return, in to see her. She asked me about him yesterday; they were old friends you know, and it did seem so good to be able to tell her that he was out of the city for a few weeks." was just then itying for Dorothy, Charles and herself and, in her mind, could not help picturing the happy meeting which Dorothy had arranged so cleverly. As for thelpast, she left those vast, dark, gloomy areas behind—never to set foot upon them again. She lived now in the living Present has thought upon please tell him her name that would settle the whole matter. I know you are quite anxious to surprise him also." living Present, her thoughts upon pleas-ant ways, redclent with rose-perfume, bright with sunshine and musical with The day Dorothy called for Mrs. Atherton she came for the express purpose of taking her down town for a walk. Now that the latter knew she was back in Billington again she felt quite keen to get a glimpse of the pleasant streets she once loved so dearly.

THE CATHOLIC RECORD

They walked on slowly ; there was so " And I, too, shall be happy to look they walked on slowly, there was so much for Mrs. Atherton to see. When they had walked several blocks Dorothy could not contain herself any longer. There was something she wanted to tell Mrs. Atherton, and the sooner the betupon my old friend again and press he "Here ! here !" exclaimed Dorothy,

At last she summoned up courage and relating somewhat nervously : " Mrs. "I am afraid you are forget uickly.

At last she summoned up courage and exclaimed, somewhat nervously: "Mrs. Atherton, I have a great surprise in store for you, and I simply cannot keep the secret any longer." "Surprise for me?" questioned the woman eagerly. "I hope it is good news." "Oh. yes, I'm to act the stranger-cold, cheerless, heartless-half-witted almost forgot.

" You must forget that you are Mrs. Atherton, that is all." Dr. Mathers arrived home the last day of July, much benefited by his trip. The first patient he visited was Mrs. Atherton. He was interested in he

The patient came to meet him as he entered the room. Mrs. Atherton-poor little woman-felt like rushing up to bedside many a day in the past-the man who performed the skillful operahim and putting her arms about his manly neck and crying out her heart for very joy. She looked him up and down for a few minutes. She could not help it. Presently she noticed in his face

" Charles Mathers," interrupted Mrs. Atherton, greatly agitated. She had almost expected it, but yet she hesitated. resemblance to the Charles she had known long ago. She felt like cry ng out to him : "Charles! Charles She could not believe it. It was all s very sudden. For a moment she grew dizzy and almost fell to the ground, but am Mrs. Atherton. Come to my arms! it was cruel of me to leave you, but I thought it all for the best." her companion held her in her arms. "Yes," answered Dorothy, " he is the

Instantly her thoughts stole to Doro-thy and she thought of her promise, and the words she would have spoken froze "I'm a-goin' to read the Declaration, the minister's got an awful cold an "I can hardly believe it, Dorothy,"

"I can hardly beneve it, seems so gasped the woman. "It all seems so strange, and yet it can easily be true. It is years and years since last I saw on her lips. "Not yet ! not yet !" she whispered to take his place." It is years and years since last I saw Charles, and it is only right to think "You ain't a goin' with them folks. You know I'm likely to have one of my to herself. The time is near at hand and then my heart will be satisfied." "I am glad to welcome you back, docthat time has so changed him that I could never have hoped to recognize him. And then, he would never know me in my white hair. I am a different looking woman now. But how did I happen to fall into his hands?"

spells after wearin' myself out doin' up your white linen suit an' cookin' all day to git ready." Mrs. Hill's obstinate chin and thin lips showed her determination. tor, after your trip," she exclaimed nerv-ously. "You look better since I saw ously. " you last."

"Is your mind clearing up faster

"Blame it all "? cried Lucius, des-perately—" you needn't overwork. I want you to keep a hired girl, an' I'm ready to put the washin' out an' I asked you to go to the general table an' not "In this way. I sang at a concer down in the slums. It was arranged by "Somewhat, thanks. But the last few years are a perfect blank to me. I don't know how I happened to reach Father Salvini. Charles accompanied me to the place. You know we're en-Billington and what occurred after I got here. They tell me I have been at St. bake nothin'." "Oh, yes, you're dreadful willin' to here. They tell me I have been at St. Mary's going on two years now. It all seems like a dream to me. You have been very good to me, doctor. How can You're engaged to marry Charles ? have me keep some wasteful hussy for you to court right under my nose, an' uttered Mrs. Atherton, in surprise. This was the second bit of news Dorothy had you know with my weak stumick I can't eat victuals that I ain't used to, you've got to be right with me so if I git took kept for her, and it was almost too muc ever repay you ?"

" By coming and making your home with me for the remainder of your days. That is all I ask of you. Have you any children? Is your husband living?" "No, I have not. My husband died " It all sounds like a fairy tale," sh udden you can take care of me. aid, "to think that I should come to Billington, and that the boy, dearest to my heart, should save my life, and I not be foolish. I'm a doctor and you'll be safe with me; courting is all right; Lucius ought to have a wife and three children by this time; all my children are married. I'd like to 'beau' you know him at all ! God's ways are wo and whim at all : God's ways are won-derful, Dorothy. Oh, I'm so glad you are his betrothed, my darling. I never could understand why you should have taken such an interest in me, but now I see it all." years ago," she answered, in trembling oice. I wonder what his next question will be !" she thought. Mrs. Atherton was playing her part well. So far she had not betrayed her secret. around again the way I did thirty years ago 'Independence Day.' I you remember, you were huffy at Ran-som and I was mad at Ziny because "Then you are free to accept my

Mrs. Atherton was greatly interested in the girl's story. "I met Charles after my return from Leipzig. It was love at first sight al-most. You know, Mrs. Atherton, the wedding-day is drawing very near." "Is it really ? Then I shall be in time for the wedding. It's glorious ! glorious ! After all God has been kind to me and everything will soon he mede wight is offer ?' they went home from singing school

"I am. You are very kind, and I shall think it over and let you know de-finitely in a few weeks. Will that do ?" together, so we rode in my buggy and we passed them on the road and Ziny made a face at you? We made up afterward and you and Ransom stood up with we'nhow we mere merid. In a few weeks ! Just about the time that Dorothy Fairfax was to become the with us, when we was married ; Ziny and have laughed over that day many a wife of Dr. Mathers. Mrs. Atherton kept her word, and, time." "We're goin' to eat by ourselves, I After all God has been kind to me and everything will soon be made right in His own good time." In this moment of joy Mrs. Atherton took Dorothy by the hand and shook it when at the wedding-breakfast she ap peared in person with no less a chaperon than Dorothy, the charming bride her-self and was introduced to the merry "We're goin' to eat by ourselves, I won't mix with a crowd," said the host-ess, ignoring her cousin's effort at cajolery. "Lucius, you've got |to mind me, or you know what'll happen," she began to tremble violently, a red spot burned on each check, she threw up her heads and assemble "igorously. "Charles is away now." Dorothy guests grouped around, as the long lost benefactress of Charles' early days, the gentle reader can best nicture the motion—the intense surprise—the feel-ings of supreme joy that shone through hands and screamed. "Catch her, Cousin Philander, she's You see, smiles and tears, in the eyes of those, staring for the moment through the off in one of them plaguey fits. Oh Lord ! what shall I do ?" said the frightme the first clue as to your identity. Step by step I followed it up until you told me you were Mrs. Atherton. Then smilax and the orange-blossoms

THE END.

prise-laden conversation had taken Mrs. Atherton's thoughts away from the many persons she passed on the street. She was just then living for Dorothy, Charles on here is a street that the young man. "What's the matter with you, Lucius? You are thin as a rail, and you must be over six feet tall kinds of weather." He turned to look at the young man. "What's the matter with you, Lucius? You are thin as a rail, and you must be over six feet tall Stand straight, my boy! you look as if you'd had a long sickness." His mother answered: "No, Cousin Philander, he ain't sick, only a little bil-ing a "Long sick being dock and

"You see, she loves me pretty near to death, an' wants to do everythin' for me, but she won't let me have no liberty. I've got a middlin' good voice an' I wanted to sing in the choir, but when I left her to go to practice she just went out of one fit into another. She don't want me to git married, an' she's pretty near got the hydrophoby about girls. ious. "I'm givin' him yellow dock and sassaparily for it, an' I guess he's worked too hard fixin' the picnic grounds for 'Independence Day;' you see, there's agoin' to be the biggest cel-ebration the township ever had." want he to git married, an she's pretty mear got the hydrophoby about girls. "When I come of age thirteen years ago, I had a notion of waitin' on Polly Clark, but when she found my wife would have to live with ma, she wouldn't hear to it. She married ten years ago an' she's a No. I housekeeper. Several times I've seen girls that I'd been glad to "Independence Day," repeated Dr. Case, "how natural that sounds here. Out in Illinois we only say 'Fourth of Iule'." have married, but ma always upset

July." "Well; whatever you call it, there's During everythin'. everythin'. "Do you remember father's step-brother Henry Meigs? He went to Ioway about the time you moved to Illinois—well his girl, Fidelia, got the goin' to be all kinds of doin's. During the war nobody took much heart in keepin' the day, but now peace has Center school, here, an' bein' a stranger she s'posed her Aunt Laurindy would be willin' to board her, so she come right come an' the slaves is all free, so the whole township has jined in an' lots of the old inhabitants is comin' back to help. I don't know when I've lotted on a celebration as I have on this one, an' to our house; she's real pretty an' the nicest kind, an' she wanted to me nicest kind, an' she wanted to help ma about the work, but she hadn't been here a week before ma thought we was courtin', an' she had the worst fits you're surprisin' us this way just puts on the cap sheaf. Now, Cousin Philan-der, set down, an' Lucius an' me'll have courtin', an' she had the worst fits you ever see ; I was up four nights with her a cup of tea with you," for the hostess had bustled from kitchen to pantry an' six or seven times she lost her breath so long we thought she was really gone. Cousin Fidelia had to go away; she's had bustled from kitchen to pantry while keeping up the conversation. "I don't see that you've lost any of your knack in cooking," said the visitor, "everything is as good as it was the last time I was here," "Well, Cousin Philander, there's a but in knowin' how oven if you hain't boardin' at the tavern now." The doctor stole in to look at the patient. "She's quiet," he announced.

Lucius, whom does the farm belong lot in knowin' how, even if you hain't got much streinth ; do have another of

to ?" "It's ma's while she lives; you see father thought she was so weakly she wasn't long for this world, so he wanted them tarts. I manage to keep Lucius fed an' clothed an' that's all I want. Oh her to git all the good out of his pro-perty she could. He set a sight of store by her and thought I'd git it as soon as son, you must get up early and wash off the rockaway an' brush off the cush-You won't need the rockaway," said

SEPTEMBER 5, 1908.

wouldn't

wa col wo

Co hic gaj wa rov

ret hou ing up far

evi chi off

in "T

an De

Da

ga; um the

ar mc Co ba pa

th

was able to hand e it." "You're thirty-four years old, Lucius, Lucius eagerly, "you an' Cousin Phil-ander can go in the new buggy, an' I'll ride in the big waggon with the folks What wages have you had since you were twenty-one ?" "I hain't had nothin' but my victuals

"What you want to poke yourself up there for," demanded his mother; you ain't on the program." "Yes, I be," said the son idefiantly. an' clothes an' a dollar or two of spendin' money once in a while. I did stan' out for an agreement to pay me somethin' reason-able, but she had a dozen spells inside of a week an' I quit askin' for it; she says I might have patience till she's in can't speak above a whisper, so I agreed her grave an' all she scraped up an' e

> 'll be mine. My lad, Grandma Boyd had this shy had, be lived to be ninety-eight -she'd be living now a hundred and fifteen years old, if she hadn't fallen fifteen years old, if she hadn't fallen down stairs one night and broken her neek. Your mother will outlast you if things keep on this way. Don't be frightened at her symptoms — she's coming to now; I hear her stir." Lucius stood in wonderment. "Do you know for certain that these fits won't kill her?"

"I'll stake my medical reputation on it, my lad; now here's a prescription I want filled for her; go to the drug store at the Center and take your time; I'll look after your mother."

"Good land," cried the son in wrath and chagrin, " has ma made a fool of me " Come, come, Cousin Laurinda, don't all these years ?"

"Not only you, but herself-hurry out before she finds you are going," and the doctor walked into the kitchen with glass of water and a spoon as calmly as if he did not hear her groaning and calling : "Lucius ! Lucius ! my feet's burnin' up; don't let a dyin' woman suffer so; oh ! oh ! oh ! "I've sent Lucius to get some medi-

"I don't b'lieve [I can swaller :'oh dear 'y you don't know how to wait on

dear ! you don't know how to wait on me: you hadn't criter sent that boy away. Oh, my feet, my feet !" "Down with that powder, Laurindathere, it's gone." " Take off them draughts, Philander. won't have my feet blistered, I'm going to that celebration.

' Your better, but you must keep the nustard on a while," said the good-humoredly. Blb B "I shan't, nuther," cried the patient.

rising hurriedly and jerking off the draughts, she shook out her clothes, and felt of her disordered hair. "What'd 7ou

THE YEARS BETWEEN. A Novel by William J. Fischer.

Author of "Songs by the Wayside," "Wind Other Stories," "The Toiler and Other Poems," Et CHAPTER XXIII.

2

TANGLED THREADS.

TANGLED THREADS. That same morning Dorothy took Mrs. Atherton out for a walk, but the former said nothing about the locket or her conversation with Sister Angela. She thought it best to wait awhile. Mrs. Atherton did much talking while they were out walking, but it cost her quite an effort to do so. Her memory seemed very bad; she could not sum-mon up the words as quickly as she would have liked. "You've been so good to me," she

"You've been so good to me," she said to Dorothy. "Pray tell me who said to Dorothy. "Pray tell me who you are?" Thereupon Dorothy related how she had come across her in the Refuge down in the slums, and of her removal to St. Mary's where a wonderful operation had been performed upon her. It all seemed like a dream to the poor woman. She was surprised, dazed and could not collect her thoughts. The past two years were enigmas she could not solve. She could not recall a thing that had happened. Her mind was a blank.

happened. Her mind was a blank. There was a missing link somewhere be-tween the Past and Present. Her ry could not supply it. Mary's Hospital ! St. Mary's

-," she turned the words over and over again in her mind and for some time tried to recall memories that knocked tried to recall memories that knocked at her heart's door. The sound of the word was familiar to her. She raised her eyes to the imposing edifice beyond the green stretch of lawn and exclaimed: "Then that's St. Mary's—let me see !" And she turned about and took in the surroundings. "I have it at last," she said. "Why, to be sure, I'm in Bill—in Bill—" She could not finish the word and Dorothy came to her rescue.

other than Mrs. Atherton. A new-born joy filled her womanly heart. For the first time in many months

Mrs. Atherton knew where she was But how she happened to reach Billing ton was a puzzle to her—a puzzle which even later she could not solve. Dorothy was satisfied with her pro press that afternoon. Before she left the hospital she looked up Sister Angela and told her about the new discoveries. "I am afraid, Sister, I shall have to resort to Sherlock Holmes's tactics to keep all this away from Charles' ears and avoa I want to survise him you and eyes. I want to surprise him yo know very soon." "Yes, Dorothy," interrupted Sister

Angela, "a bird whispered to me the other day that wedding bells were to ring some time in August for two people I know very well." "You little dear !" ejaculated Doro-

"You notice dear " ejacutated boro-thy. "Who ever told you that ?" "Ah, my girl, I know all about it. Your mother was here to see me the other day and told me." "I'm afraid I shall have to give mothed

a good scolding. But then she didn't know I wanted to surprise you. Yes Sister, Charles and I expect to be married the latter part of August, and I intend to keep this Mrs. Atherton surprise for him until then. What do you s. "It say ?" It will be glorious, Dorothy. Just think how Charles will feel, when the patient upon whom he performed such : wonderful operation turns out to be his

"But I am so afraid, Sister, the cat will out of the bag long before the ex-pected time and then all our plans will out of the bag long before the ex-pected time and then all our plans will come to naught. Whatever can we do to prevent Mrs. Atherton and Charles from meeting in the meantime ?" "I heard the doctor saying he wa began, somswhat excitedly, "is there a Dr. Charles Mathers still practicing in going to take a holiday soon—a couple of months I think he said. Couldn't you manage to get him off as quickly a possible ? With Mrs. Atherton be be tween ourselves we could manage nice ly, I think." That same evening Dr. Mathers dropped in to see Dorothy. They were seated in the drawing room and soon Mrs. Fairfax joined them. After some preliminary conversation Dr. Mathers said : "I think I shall take a holiday one of these days, perhaps in a month -the beginning of June. I am just man said. "It speaks volumes for you, Charles. The whole city has heard of

The doctor lowered his eyes. He was an humble man and did not like fine compliments. "The credit's not mine, Mr. Fairfax,' "The credit's not mine, Mr. Fairnay, he exclaimed. "It was the good nursing pulled her through. But she did re-markably well. Her eyesight and arm are better, and I really think in time her mind will clear up and then she will be able to tell us all about herself. At present we are perfectly at sea as to who she is and where she came from. I have not seen her for a long time, but Sister Angela gives me good reports." Dorothy felt elated that Charles was porochy feit elated that Charles was going on the early morning train. This prevented him from dropping in at St. Mary's before leaving. Now that Mrs. Atherton knew she was in Billington the only natural thing for her to do was to ask all manner of questions. Dorothy wanted to make sure that Dr. Charles would not be the person to answer some of them. She wanted him hundreds of of them. She wanted him h miles away for a little while.

miles away for a little while. The following day Dorothy [called again at St. Mary's. "Good-morning, Mrs. Atherton !" "Good morning, Miss Fair-, Miss Fair-fax !" answered the patient. She had remembered the name. "My memory is getting better you see. I re-membered your name."

"Don't call me Miss after this. Call me Dorothy, I like it better. I brought " The other day you remember asking me about Dr. Mathers?" " Yes, I do." "Well, you will be surprised no doubt to learn that the man who stood at your

lews.

gaged

or the poor woman.

Mrs. Atherton was greatly interested

Yes. I do.'

Very. You will be grateful I know.

tion that saved your life is no othe they lovely? They are beautiful, Dorothy, I cannot understand why you are so good to

"Because I have learned to love you," the girl answered. Dorothy could not help noticing how freely the woman talked. The night had indeed improved her mental condition.

indeed improved her mental condition. Now and then she would halt in the midst of a conversation, her eyes would wander, but it would only be for a second. Dorothy could not silence the woman's tongue. Now that Mrs. Ather-ton was returning to her right senses she had so much to say and so many ques-tions to each tions to ask. "Do you know," she continued, "ever since yesterday my mind seems to be clearing fast. Now that I know I am in clearing fast. Billington, I am not puzzled so much. But the last few years is all chaos and darkness to me. The last I remember 1 darkness to me. The last I remember I was in Beresvale," she continued. "It was a morning just like this, and I was sitting under the pine trees listening to the birds, but there the past ends. I don't know how I drifted to Billington and never shall.

"You said yesterday that Billington was your home," remarked Dorothy, as she looked at the gray-haired woman

she looked at the gray-naired woman before her. "> "Ab yes, child," she answered with a thrill of emotion. Just then a tear trickled down her check. "I lived here for many years. But then 'tis a long story. I shall tell it all to you some day. The incidents are coming back to me daily. Soon I shall have all the threads strung together again." Then her thoughts drifted to her attending surgeon. "My doctor has not been here to see as sick as you say I was, then he must have done wonders for me. How shall I ever repay him? Do you know I never asked him his name. He is a stranger to me, but then I have been away from Billington so long. I believe he never even asked me my name." "You were too sick to tell him. Be-have never were so here to be the tell him.

lieve me you were only able to tell us your name several days ago. And it is nearly a year and a half since the operation."

The woman looked strangely into the girl's eyes. She simply could not understand it at all. It seemed as if she had had a long sleep and was jus went on. "I sent him off on purpose. I did not want him to meet you lest he "By the way, Dorothy," Mrs. Atherton might learn who you were. You see, that locket you gave Sister Angela gave the city? I knew him very well once-but it is a long long story and-" "Oh, do tell me, Mrs. Atherton!" "Oh, do tell Dorothy pleaded.

I was positive that you were the woman whom Charles had been looking for all w of the whereon she had been building. It was Mrs. Atherton. She knew it. She felt it, and her heart beat violently. It was e years. Our wedding-day was dray ing near, and I thought of arranging surprise for Charles on this occasion. did not want the matter to leak out so l the most exciting moment she had ever contrived to get him away from Billingexperienced. on for a two months' holiday." Do tell me the story !" she cried "You sly fox !" exclaimed Mrs. Atherton with a smile as they walked as the room fairly swam before her eyes as the room fairly swam before her eyes. "Tell me the story ! I shall listen to every syllable. Dr. Mathers still re-sides in Billington. He is one of the greatest men in the city to-day." She did not like to say "surgeon." She was afraid the word might carry the wards the update to man who " Charles you know believes you dea Mrs. Atherton. Hardly a week passe but that I hear him mention your name He often speaks of his debt to you—th money that is still coming to you." "The dear boy !" the woman's thoughts to the man who had so often stood at her bedside. ' Now I want you to cover up you Now I want you to cover up your identity for another few weeks," Dorothy continued, earnestly. "Tell your name to no one. Pretend that you do not re-member it. If you meet any of your old 'Has he done well ?" sighed the poo

"Yeeks." "Yes," replied the nun, " if she should that would settle the

the song of birds. In passing Mrs. Atherton recognized

-the beginning of June. I about at the end of the tether." "Yes, I am afraid, Charles, you are forgetting the laws of the conservation forgetting the laws of the conservation of energy," said Mrs. Fairfax. "You must get away," interrupted Dorothy, "You are not well at all. Only to-day I heard at the hospital that you should lay off for a rest. But what is a month for you dear? You should have at least two, and, May being an especially delightful month full of that comfort and restfulness which you need comfort and restfulness which you need badly, why not go as soon as possible?" "That's good advice, Dorothy, I think it will be better to take a longer balder." it concern Dr. Mathers ?' holiday

Dorothy smiled. She felt sure nov that the Atherton mystery would re-main undiscovered as far as Charles was concerned.

"I am so situated now that I can easily go away. My patients are all off my hands so there is really nothing to keep me except you, my sweet." And he smiled good-naturedly. "I think I'll pack up and leave to-morrow for there is little knowing when something from her fiancee's lips.

will turn up to keep me at home." "I don't care how long you stay, Charles," Dorothy continued with a smile, "so long as you are back for the twenty-eighth of August. Remember 1 want you to dissect that wedding-cake It's in your line you know, dear." An the three laughed loudly. And

Just then Mr. Fairfax entered the "My ! that laughter was enough e the dead," he exclaimed as he

to wake the deal, greeted them. "Well, my girl, how is that stranger getting on up at St. Mary's ? Did you how to day ?"

room. " to wake

"Very well, father. We went for a "Very well, father. We went for a walk. She enjoyed it immensely. But of course, her mind is still clouded."

"That was a wonderful case," the old

Very well, indeed," was the answer " Thank God ! I'm glad to hear it

" But, pray, tell me the story ! Doe

"Yes, it concerns both of us," she added with a sigh.

added with a sigh. Then the tears came to her and, while they were falling fast, Mrs. Atherton told the story of her whole life, just as it has been related in these pages—her leaving Billington, and her going to Beresvale, and her bitter hours of struggle in that place. When she had finished, Dorothy was also in tears. She had listened a thon-And she laughed girlishly.

also in tears. She had listened a thousand times to a similar story that came "Oh, I'm so glad to be back in Billing-on, i m so grad to be back in Billing-ton again," sighed Mrs. Atherton. That afternoon Dorothy looked up Sister Angela before leaving the hos-pital. The news was too good to keep. "You have straightened out the tangled threads at last," the gentle nun said to her, as they walked together down the paved walk that led from old St. Mary's.

CHAPTER XXIV. IN GOD'S GOOD TIME.

It was not until some days had passed that Dorothy again called at St. Mary's and asked for Mrs. Atherton, having in the meantime instructed Sister Angela to keep good watch over the meating.

friends whom you recognize, pass then by as so many strangers. It will not be for long. We will be married on the by as so many strangers. It will not be for long. We will be married on the twenty-eight of August, and on that day at the wedding-breakfast I intend bring-ing an end to all this hiding aud mys-tery. Don't you think it will be a pleas-ant climax to all these restless years of waiting? Father Salvini will be there and when and others and others and and mother and father and other old friends of yours. Picture their surprise!"

"Then you have not even let yo mother and father into the secret." "I have told no one save Sist

Angela, and her lips are sealed. has a heart of gold.

has a heart of gold." " I promise you, Dorothy, I shall take all the precautions necessary to keep my affairs past and present to myself. But really, now that I know it all, I can hardly wait until the time arrives. Of course, I'm to have a seat of honor at the ceremony in Church-eh?" "Certainly, and at the wedding-breakfast as well. I am going to hide you in a room upstairs until the crises arrives and then I shall come for you and lead you into the room and introduce you as one newly risen from the dead. And best of all, you will have to come and remain with us for the remainder of your days. With you back, believe me, it will be heaven for Charles."

The two walked on slowly. The sur-

A DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

Mrs. Ransom Hill and her son sat on the "back stoop" in the heated dusk : they never used the front porch unless they had company. Both were silent after a long dispute. Suddenly the As she seemed unconscious, he followed Lucius, who was working with nervous haste.

gate opened and a man's active step was heard coming to the rear of the mother; she might die an' I couldn't forgive myself. I hadn't ought to have house ; evidently he was familiar with the habits of the family. "Anybody at home?" was the cheery hail of a deep bass voice, and Mrs. Hill replied in astonished welcome. "That you, Cousin Philander? Well, don't it beat all? I'm tickled to death: where's mer wife 2" vokin. " Put more mustard into that paste Lucius, I want it good and strong. Your mother isn't going to die. Fye seen hundreds of such attacks and never knew them to kill the patient, but they often shorten other people's lives." your wife " Oh, Ziny couldn't leave Lucy and Dr. Case was thinking of Ransom Hill. the new baby, but she made me come. I thought I couldn't leave my patients, who died at 30. "The best thing you can do when but my boy, Ransom, has been practices, ing a year and he offered to look after them. He's pretty smart, but the old doctor has plenty that like him best, Is that you, Lucius ? Cousin Laurinda The best thing you can do when she's taken this way is to put her flat on the floor if a bed or lounge isn't handy, to loosen her clothing and let her come to by herself. You stay here while I get a light, and let me see how you look, I've been gone twenty years." " La me ! Is it that long ? Come in the kitchen an' I'll set you a bite to eat. the kitchen an 1 li set you a bite to eat. Why didn't you write so we could meet you at the station ?" and the hostess lighted the kerosene lamp. " I didn't know in time. I got a letter asking me to be color-bearer for the Mexican war veterans in the parade to-morrow and I had to hurry like mad to morrow and I had to horry like had to get here. Now let me take a look at you. Well you've held your own won-derfully. I wouldn't take you to.be' up-ward of forty. I thought you would be worn to a shadow. I've always heard so much about your bad health."

doctor, he took an awful cold, had lung fever an 'only lasted a fortnight-for all I was so flittle, he made me promise to take care of ma an' I've kept my Mrs. Hill sighed. She was meekly conscious as she said : "Yes, Cousin Philander, I've been a terrible sufferer. word.

I can't never count on myself. I'll be as well as I be now an' then I'll be took with the awfullest spells like Grandma Boyd used to have, only if there's any odds mine is worse'n hers was. But my; Philander, you look dreadful rugged, every few days an' couldn't bear me out arms, quietly laid her on the floor and unfastened her belt and collar. "Don't pretty near skin and bone, an' my back's be scared, my boy, I know how to manage her : go into the pantry and fix some mustard draughts to put on her feet." s sore as a bile."

The doctor received the patient in his crossed her, though she's terrible

ome back to talk to you."

Returning, the doctor found the young man wiping tears from his face. "Now tell me, Lucius, what brings on

he run to the neighbors barefooted in the snow to get somebody to go for the

"They didn't come on very often

after that till I grew big enough to ask

to go round with the other boys an' to stay out till dark, but then she had 'em ened son.

Don't

pro

" I wanted to put a stop to your fit as "I wanted to put a stop to your fit as soon as I could, and dropped you in the handiest place; now I want to talk to you while we're by ourselves. What wages have you paid Lucius for the last thirt on ware of "Oh, Cousin Philander, don't leave thirteen years ?" "Wages to my own son! He's had reel good clothes an' the best of victuals an good clothes an' the best of victuals an' washin' an' I've give him spendin' money when he needed it. Oh, oh, I b'lieve I'm taking another spell !" " Don't you think of it; if you do I'll put a mustard plaster the whole length of your back. Now listen, that boy can sue you in court and get pay and inter-est too for the time since his majority." "An' this whole place an' the money in the bank comin' to him when I'm gone in the bank comin' to him when I'm gone an' my time ain't far off, my heart's about give out an' the way you're treat-in' me'll finish it !"

"See here, my good woman, your boy is a good deal nearer death than you are put the mustard on her feet, then I'll unless you treat him better: don't you see how narrow his chest is and h stoops and has that cough? He takes after Ransom Hill; you and I are Boyds and none of them die under ninety unless by accident. Let him have some pleas-ure and means if he metter to "

these paroxysms ?" "Is that the name of 'em ?" queried the son. "Well, most anythin' that "He can marry as soon as the breath's " Is that the name of 'em?" queried the son. "Well, most anythin' that goes agin' the grain; they begun to come on soon after I was born an' father was awful distressed about 'em; he died when I was eight years old. She had a spell that frightened him so that he mus to the neighbors hareford in out of my body an' not a minute before ; there ain't anybody here fit to keep house for him after the way I've raised him; there's been a lot of silly do - less girls a runnin' after him, but I've kep' him out of their traps." "How about Cousin Henry Meigs' daughter, Fidelia? I've heard that she's as smart as chain lightning." "She's too all-fired smart," answered "She's too all-fired smart," answered Mrs. Hill, forgetting propriety in her anger, "she's going to be the goddess of liberty to-morrow, settin' on the plat-form with a slew of men an' singin, 'The Star Spangled Banner;' there's more brass in her face 'n there is in my big preservin' kittle. I was a dumb fool to take her in the house — she's heen after Lucius full-tilt ever since " She's too all-fired smart," and you're as spy as a boy, an' you must be sixty-two. I'm just sixty. The doctor laughed. "That comes of riding over the Illinois prairies in all' die an' I'd turn around an' come back.

SEPTEMBER 5, 1908.

ar

nt i't ty

ly fe i't

go

et

p-to

ht

e's

he

ed.

ng

ed

as

us.

als

red

his

her

Do

nt

on I

I'll

ath

me

rpy

ith

nly

so ;

edi-

nly

eed,

oh

pok

der. ing

the

isin

the

and

I'm ck's

38

the

to

hat

last

reel

din'

1'11

gth

can

ney one

rt's

eat-

boy are

you

i he

kes yds

less

eas-

th's

re;

eep sed less

:ep'

igs' hat

red her s of lat-in,' re's

my mb ne's nce the

w;

The powder did its work effectively; she was sleeping audibly when Lucius returned, and the two men talked for returned, and the two men tarked for hours. Early as they arose in the morn-ing, they found the housewife already up. The strange quiet that falls on a family after a hysterical scene was in ce. Lucius and the visitor were vider cheerful and he surprised his mother by offering to make concessions. "We'll go offering to make concessions. "We'll go in the rockaway, ma," he remarked. "I'll look after you while Cousin Phil-ander's carryin' the flag in the parade, he'll set with you while I read the Declaration.

It was a glorious "Independence Day," the 300 wagons and carriages all gay with flags were preceded by the col-umn of soldiers from the recent battles, the sparse line of Mexican veterans led by Dr. Case, the bands of music, the en barouche with the chairman of the open barouche with the charman of the day and the orators, and the miniature Greek temple drawn by white horses wherein sat the goddess of liberty, in more expansive skirts and more fluff of mfles and lace than one would have desired for a classic divinity, but she was amazingly pretty and the Phyrgian cap became her well. There were marches and counter-marches, the bands nearly bust thele instruments burst their instruments in patriotic ardor. Lucius sat quietly beside his mother during the evolutions, while Cousin Philander bore aloft the faded banner he carried in the Mexican campaign.

At last," announced the chairman of "At last," announced the chairman of the day, "we are ready for the intellect-ual feast that will proceede our material banquet, and Rev. Mr. Palmer will give the invocation." Dr. Case took Lucius' seat and the young man walked to his place on the platform with his shoulders squared and his head erect. The prayer was dury inclusive of all mations propoles was duly inclusive of all nations, peoples, and colors, with the especial petitions for our own glorious country ; the minis ter was a stranger, but he evidently knew what was demanded of the occasion and gave no scant measure.

"Next," proclaimed the chairman, "we shall have 'The Star Spangled Banner.'

The goddess of liberty stood up in all her white draperies and her strong young soprano was audible to every listener; then the chorus of four voices was heard, that of Lucius perfectly dis-

"Just look at that bold trollop, a smilin' at my son. She ain't satisfied with the minister trailin' after her she's bound to have Lucius crazy about her, too," whispered Mrs. Hill.

"Tut, tut," said her cousin. "I used to know a girl that had five or six beaux at lonce before she married Ransom Hill."

Hill." " The Star Spangled Banner " ended, to the sound of delirious applause, and then Lucius rose to read the immortal Declaration, his mother thrilled with pride in spite of herself, as his clear tones rang out. She had never known he was capable of making a figure of mark in public. After him came the orator of the day, whose flamboyant speech set the audience wild, then " John Brown's Body" tuned the pulses to rhythmic delight before the refresh-ments were served.

Cousin Philander actually prevailed apon his hostess to add her luncheon to the general store and to sit between him and her son at the guests' table.

It was a wonderful reunion of the resi-dents of the township, and the pilgrims who had returned from the West. Dr. Case was greeted by hundreds of old friends and his cousin was elated at his popularity; the long day waned and the chairman urged the visitors to remain for the concluding exercises. "We are for the concluding exercises. "We are to have some very fine tableaux, followed

ite sects and schisms which are at present hidden within men's hearts not yet mature. No may the Lord come at by a brilliant display of fireworks." Hadn't you and I better go home, usin Laurinda ?" asked her guest. those spells. Fidelia gets along with her first rate.—Mary Tracy Mott, in short with the Day of Judgment, for 'I'm afraid you'll be worn out with all The Springfield Republican. No, I feel reel chirk," said the shed woman, "Ib'lieve that medicine STEADFAST FAITH AND CHANGEflushed woman. of your'n has just hit the spot 'n I want to stay 'till the last dog's hung,' as Gramma Boyd used to say. Look, there goes Fidelia, traipsin' around in that ABLE RELIGION. It has been our lot to witness one of hose spiritual phenomena that may be likened to eclipses of the sun. For a time the face of the great luminary that long white dress with the minister !" The tableaux began with a ragged lights men's souls is obscured to the colored man, his bundle on his back, pointing to a large gilt star on a dark blue background; the next presented a view of half the earth, to some hidden so completely as to seem blotted wholly out from the face of the heavens. There mild looking dog, supposedly a blood-hound, smelling the track of the fugitive. is no reason to doubt now; it is, alas ! too true that the birth of Modernism A piece of meat tied to a string was slowly drawn by an unseen hand to lure the dangerous beast toward his prev; brought blight to the spiritual life of some hitherto bright and exalted lives, INDULGENCES. as well as to lives of an inferior kind then a pretty mulatto girl stood on a block exposed for sale, the auctioneer roughly grasping her shoulder; "Uncle Tom" was displayed lying on the floor with arguest actualing him one of the whose faith was insecure by reason of a low quality of moral fibre and a lym-INTERESTING LECTURE DELIVERED BY BISHOP CONATY. phatic, emotional temperament. It is a weakness of human nature almost as old as human nature itself. The desire for "Indulgence" was the theme of an interesting lecture delivered recently by Bishop Conaty before the Bible study with angels attending him, one of the small seraph's wings was a little out of place, but the audience ignored slight novelty in the objects of man's worship class at the Women's Club house, Los Angeles. Bishop Conaty gave a history of indulgences and described their meaning in the Catholic Church. He said in part. goes back farther than the days of th discrepancies: the goddess of liberty then appeared with a shackled slave patriarchs-to the antediluvian epoch in fact, it would seem, from the fact of the Deluge having been sent to wipe out the foul idols of man's worship, whether then kneeling before her, her torch broke the irons and the bondman rose free. "This," said the chairman, "ladies said in part : they took the shape of his own passions or their ideal embodiment in shapes of "According to the definition of the "According to the definition of the catechism an indulgence is a remission of the temporal punishment due to sin after the sin and its eternal punishment have been remitted by the sacrament of and gentlemen, completes our program, but a little impromptu drama is about to be enacted; please remain quiet. The goddess preserved her pose as the cur-tain rose again and Lucius Hill, with his hands fatured before her under stone or metal set up as altars. " How oft shall he of changing gods and faith complain who trusts thee, fickle one !" the greatest of Roman poets makes a complaining lover lament, proving that penance. Indulgence has no effect until penance. Indugence has no enect until sin has been remitted. Consequently it requires that the person receiving its benefits be in the state of grace; that is, to possess the friendship of God either in innocence of life or by reason hands fettered, stood before her. "Godin pre-Christian days instability in form of belief and fantastic tastes in choice of dess of liberty," he said, in a clear, loud roice, "you have set the colored people free, now I want you to emancipate a white slave; I am thirty-four years old an I've never had one day of liberty, I deities disturbed the mind of soberer Paganism and made the authority of the of the pardon of God for the or by reason of the pardon of God for the sins which have been remitted. According to the teaching of the Catholic Church every wilful sin has in it two things resulting from man's offense against God. One is State tremble at times for its stability. didn't have any real childhood; since I was fifteen I've worked as hard as most any negro in the land. I hain't had as Modernism is a present-day manifes-tation of that fickleness and uncertainty which caused the Athenians to raise on which caused the Athentian to the Un-known God—a feeling of dissatisfaction regarding the deities they knew but did not trust, and an elusive hope that per-chance their desire for a knowledge of much pleasure as one of them that had a clever master; most of the men of my guilt and the other is punishment. If the sin be a grievous one, the guilt on age has got a home an' a wife an' chil-dren. I hain't nothin' to call my own. the soul is grievous and the punishment deserved by it is both eternal and tem-poral. If the sin be but, venial the I promised to take care of my mother an' I've give her about half of the seventy the true faith might one day bring them a deus ex machina, so to speak, to solve punishment due is but temporal. Eter-nal punishment is remitted with the pardon of the guilt of grievous sin, but there frequently remains an obligation years a man's supposed to have; you may think it shows a mean disposition of me to tell my family affairs out in public like this, but I'm gettin' desperate, god-womble-cropped. I don't think when I was so tickled to see you that you'd come to make trouble between a weekly woman an' her only child." "You - a weakly woman !-pshaw! Cousin Laurinda, you're tougher than a hickory swich; but you're tougher than a hickory swich; but you're beginning to gape, you'd better get into bed, if you want to keep Independence Day to-mor-row." The powder did its work effectively; for liberty an' happiness; set me free, goddess; set me free; make this my 'In-dependence Day.'" Fidelia stooped to undo fetters, then she pulled off her Phrygian cap and, taking hea lower's are at each as could turns are threatened with the danger of losing all faith in revelation and super-natural religion." This is a very seri-ous condition of things, most assuredly, as regards English Catholicism, but we would ache as most duel that the Catho taking her lover's arm, stood as calmly as if she had rehearsed the play a huntimes. The strange ministe dred stepped forward and began reading, "Dearly beloved, we are gathered toget-her in the sight of God and in the face of this company, to join together this man and this woman-"

A smothered ery escaped from Mrs. Hill's lips, but Dr. Case held his hand over her mouth and the ceremony proceeded, while he whispered. " Don't you dare to have hysterics here : behave yourself now, if you don't want Lucius and his wife to leave the country." "But what an awful thing he's done," wailed his mother, "to tell the whole township that I treated him so bad. I never meant to make him a slave."

"Well, you've kept his nose to the grindstone all his life and he didn't see grindstone all his life and he didn't any other chance for freedom. You You've only yourself to blame," said the doctor, with the candor of Job's comforters.

"I can't live without him : I've lotted on leavin' him well off an' if I kep' clost it was only for his good," sobbed Laurout of sight. inda.

"See here," said the physician, "if you wish to keep your son at home, go and congratulate him and Fidelia, tell them you'll build a house for them and you'll pay him the wages he's earned and lease the farm to him, and then you you'll must quit having those spells." "Oh dear, oh dear! I wish I'd died

"Oh dear, oh

and Scotchmen.

done much for the world :'

Pray God it.

a perceptible and

"Oh dear, oh dear! I wish I'd died last night an' then he'd felt sorry." "You couldn't die in one of your fits if you tried — come, Laurinda, if you'll put a good face on it, half the folks will think what Lucius said was something made up for the occasion ; you don't want to show that the coat fits you." Mrs. Hill washed her face and, escorted by the doctor, penetrated the throng that gathered in joyous excitement around the bridal pair.

"I wish you much joy, Fidelia, an' ou too, Lucius. I s'pose you'll want to to off on a little tower, but when you git back I want you both to come home. I'm goin' to build you a house an' your "Wages 'll be in the bank have said the mother amicably. "Hasn't she got spunk, Fidelia?" "d the groom. "I never looked whispered the groom. "I for her to take it so well."

"I'm going to be real good to her, Luc-ius, she does love you, and I'll stand most anything to pay for stealing you from her," returned the wife. The fireworks seemed a proper climax for so exciting a day, and Mrs. Hill staid till they died out in a blaze of glory, then she said to the young couple, "I do hate like fury to have you go to the tavern, children; come home an 'I'll be as clever as I know how. You'll want money for your trip, Lucius, an' you ean't git it till morning." "Let's go," said Fidelia, and the old rockaway carried the quartet back to the farm.

A year and a half later, Dr. Case re-ceived an exultant letter : Dear Cousin Philander :

You and Cousin Ziny must come here right off, we've got a pair of twins, the cutest little things that ever was, an' ma's tickled all to pieces over them. with and carry me hence. Let Him come, above all, with His Last Judgment, I will stretch out my neck, the thunder will burst forth, and I shall be at rest. The minister that married us is coming to christen them week after next, and we feel that we must have you here. They are boys and one is going to be named Philander Day and the other Bancer Independence Ransom Independence. Fidelia and ma send love and say they won't take no for an answer. Yours affectionate. LUCIUS HILL.

P. S .- Ma don't have any more

THE CATHOLIC RECORD

to satisfy by reparation for the fault committed and consequently temporal committed and consequently temporal punishments follow in the wake of sin and are satisfied for by the personal dispositions of the repentant sinner or by acts of penance to which are attached special blessings which stand in the way of satisfaction for the temporal punish ments. According to the teaching of the Catholic Church the scope of indulgences is entirely outside of sin and necessarily supposes the previous pardon year. He declares that "even with our own Catholic flock those who read and Bishop Conaty said that the authorthink are threatened with the danger of

ity in the matters of indulgence by the Church was found in the commission which Christ gave to the Apostles for the forgiveness of sins, and said that as there was in the Church the ministry would stake a good deal that the Catho-lics of Irish descent are not the class who give ground for alarm. It is mainly reconciliation invested by Christ with Christ's own power over sin, so that authority was over the punishment a question of religious environment, and the environment over there, judging from the Bishop's bird's eye view of it, due to sin as well as to sin itself. He cited the action of the Church toward the adulterous woman and that of St. is mainly agnostic. He says : And of the chief elements in modern

Paul towards the incestuous Corinthian religious confusion is the meaning which people attach to the word faith. There is, first, the strictly Protestant acceptand said that the Apostle was fulfilling the ministry of forgiveness by not only remitting his sin and then forcing him to acts of penance, but also by remitation, derived from Martin Luther, that faith is a mere trust in the Saviour, with a conviction that you are "saved." Such ting the part of the penance which had een imposed. The Bishop explained that an indulbeen im

"faith," apart from charity, obedience, contrition and amendment, is not faith in the New Testament sense, but rather gence was a share in the merits of Christ as also a share in the merits of the saints. It served as an encouragement impertinent and unreasonable presumpin both the second seco to acts of penance and deeds of good-ness by being in the nature of a reward for special acts of devotion, of mercy and of charity. "Indulgence stands as a form of help-

It is a weak and colorless persuasion that there is a God above and a world fulness to the individual who may be spiritually unable to rise to the heights of personal satisfaction due to the jus-tice of God and is a result of that doc-The ordinary and popular Protestantsm of to-day is as different as possible rom what it was even half a century trine of the Church known as the 'com ago. Sin, grace, redemption, the world to come, our Lord Jesus Christ and Almighty God's own nature have all, mion of saints,' in which the spirit of brotherhood enables the good to help one another and thus gives strength to the weak and bear one for the other the n spite of the letter of the Bible, in pite of the text of the formularies, indergone, in the minds of Englishmen burden which justice demands.

MEMORABLE WORDS.

ssential alteration. For this reason Dr. Hedley insists that Catholics must be prepared to show that their faith is not only an essential Not less needed by present-day polemics than by the ardent spirits to whom it was addressed, is the following advice portion of their being, but one that can and shall be defended as a thing of Frederic Ozanam. He was one of resting not on hearsay and tradition, but the ablest and most zealous controver on the evidence of revelation, miracles, the lives of the saints and the continsialists of his time ; but his piety made him compassionate toward his opponents. and his sense of justice caused him to be uous existence of the Church. Catholic faith is an unquestioning reliance on the word and works of God, and is generous. Golden words are these. "We must never begin by despairing of those who deny. It is not a question of mortifying but of convincing them. Refutation is humiliation enough for the greatest and most truly precious heritage that man possesses. Like the spirit of Caeser confronting

Brutus at Philippi, the ghost of Luther rises now and again in our day to warn them, when it is conclusive. Whatever b the disloyalty or the brutality of their attacks, let us show them the exthose who are falsely ambitious or vain enough to imagine themselves, like him-self, to be instruments in a great pur-pose. The great doctrine of "justifica-tion by faith alone" is blown to the winds. It is repudiated by such of his ample of a generous controversy. Let us beware of exasperating their pride by abuse, and let us not drive them to damn themselves rather than retract. The number of those who doubt is greatfollowers as still possess any faith, but the great majority of those who er still. There are noble minds wied astray by the vices of early led astray by the vices of early educa-tion or by the force of evil example. once called themselves Protestants re-Many of them feel bitterly the misery of their unbelief. We owe them a comject both the doctrine and the faith altogether. What were Luther's own passion which need not exclude esteem. It would be politic, even if it were not just, not to thrust them back into the reflections on the results of his work as he neared the end of his earthly course? We learn of some of them from Michelets Life, as translated by Mr. Hazlitt lessening crowd of impious unbelievers In one of his conversations he said, regretting that he has gained little for to distinguish their cause, and not confound strangers with enemies. himself by having left the cloister, while flattering himself that he had There are some who, after having waited a little while for these tardy ones, lose patience, and grow irritated with their I, in my turn, am hostile to the world; there is nothing in all life which gives slowness. Let us not lose patience. God is patient because He is eternal; so likewise are Christians." ne any pleasure ; I am utterly weary of - The Ave Marie. I pray the Lord will come forth

THE OLD ORIGINAL LIFEBOAT.

Father Bernard Vaughan, addressing a large public meeting recently at Leeds, England, on behalf of the funds of the National Lifeboat Institution, said he felt he had some right to speak for such an object because he himself One of the listeners observed that if the world subsisted for another fifty years a great many things not then for-seen would happen. Luther exclaimed may not exist so long for such an object because he himself belonged to the old original Lifeboat Matters would be even worse than they have been. There would rise up infinmanned by the brever who pulled in the boat called the Barque of Peter, and which had rescued countless souls along the coastline and on the open sea. No one could deny that his Life-boat Contration.

Contra .

Academy of the Sacred Heart LONDON, ONTARIO

The aim of the Religious of the Sacred Heart is to give to their pupils

The aim of the Religious of the Sacred Heart is to give to their pupils an education which will prepare them to fill worthily the place for which Divine Providence destines them. The training of character and cultivation of manners are therefore con-sidered matters of primary importance, and the health of the pupils is the object of constant solicitude. Active physical exercise is insisted upon.

THE COURSE OF STUDIES'

comprises, besides the thorough grounding in the ordinary branches of education, a complete course of Christian Doctrine, Elements of Christian Philosophy, Ancient and Modern History-special attention being given to Sacred and Church History, Literature, Ancient and Modern, given to Sacred and Church History, Literature, Ancient and Mouern, the English Language in all its branches, Latin, Mathematics, and the Natural Sciences. The study of French is obligatory for all the pupils, and special advantages are given for French conversation. Needlework and order receive particular attention. Address:

The Mother Superior, Sacred Heart Convent, P. O. Box 320, London, Canada.

ASSUMPTION COLLEGE SANDWICH. ONT.

(Opposite DETROIT, MICH.)

A Boarding and Day School for Young Men and Boys, conducted by the Basilian Fathers.

FOUR DEPARTMENTS

- I. Arts Course
- II. Academic Course
- III. Commercial Course
- IV. Freparatory School

The 39th year will begin September 7th, 1908.

For catalogue and particulars address THE TREASURER.

St. Michael's College Federated College of Toronto University.

Junior School prepares for Matriculation, etc. Senior School prepares students for B. A. Degree of Toronto University. This department stands on exactly the same footing as University College, Victoria University, and Trinity University, The whole course is given in the college.

For admission to Senior School Matriculation standing is required.

School re-opens September 3rd. Write for calendar.

3

-

had a fine record! there is no amendment to be expected. These direful prophecies and fore-bodings were such indications of the depth to which the apostate's conscience was stirred by the memories of his terrible sins. There is a terrible undertone of despair about them, too, which reminds one of the great Greek tragedies and the prevenient shadow of the Memory of the Nemesis which follows gigantic crime. Luther built wisely so far as he knew, but he built not for the earth-quake. He made the dam, but never dreamed of memory the director build clubbin providing the floodgates.-Philadelphia Catholic Standard and Times. -0.

The eloquent Jesuit also drew a moral from the ordinary lifeboat, of which he described the designing, the displace ment, the buoyaney, the stability, to gether with the variety of materials needed in the variety of materials needed in the right construction. So too, he continued, must every char-acter be built up. Then there was the launching, and the trial voyage and how about the chart pointing to shoals, quickessed attain pointing to shoals, quicksands, etc., in one instance, and the map of life, with its pitfalls and dangers, on the other. The compass, always pointing true, was like the voice of conscince, an exhortation and a warninga "do" or a "don't" " you must" or "you must not."

In Love and Unity.

I can assure you that the spirit of fraternity, of devotion, of love in the St. Jerome's College, BERLIN. CANADA

retur

filled

American hierarchy and the bond of union between that body, the elergy and the laity was never stronger than it is to-day. I hope that this will con-tinue,—From Cardinal Gibbons' speech at Catholic Club reception in New York.

The tree of knowledge always needs the sunshine of experience. Opportunity knocks at the door ; Importunity comes right in. = For the MOST and

BEST instruction in

Business

Business and Short-hand subjects attend

Systems

School

50-56 Spadina Ave.,

Toronto

The KENNEDY SCHOOL of Shorthand and Business The best preparation for commen 3 life. Booklets free. 9 Adelaide St. East, - Toronta PUSH YOURSELF UPWARD

SUMMER SCHOOL

June. July and August leads into our Fall Term without any break. Enter any time.

for it to-day. Central Business College, Toronto. The largest,

most reliable of its kind. W.

H. Shaw, Principal, Yonge &

rcial course-latest business college fe special attention. First-class board and tuition on §15000 per annum. Send for catalogue giving fu equipped expendish Literature

REV. A. L. ZINGER, C. R., President

Write

New catalogue free.

Gerrard Sts., Toronto.

College, Dept. O.

LIFT THE ME IN FROM IN A 11 11 111 - line this $1. THE NEW HOME OF The Canada Business College CHATHAM, ONT. Ganada's Greatest School of Business

ti 11 11

J. W. Westervelt, J. W. Westervelt, Jr. C.A. Principal. Vice-Principal.

Students in attendance during year. It stands in a class by itself.
 FALL TERN OPENS SEPTEMBER FIRST $100 Saved in board alone, by attending a Chaham, as compared with any of the larger clies, besides getting your training in Canada's Greatest Business School Raliways bring our long distance students

Railways bring our long distance students and take them home again for half rate, while we make a further allowance up to $8.00 on travelling

It pays to go to the best. 400 Students placed last year Our splendid catalogue C tells all about this great school, and its grand work at Chatham. If you cannot come to Chatham, we can teach

If you cannot come to Chatham, we can Shorthand, Bookkeeping and Penma at your home. Catalogue H tells about the Home Courses. Write for the one you want, addressing D. MCLACHLAN & CO., CHATHAM, ONT.

The Catholic Record

subscribers ask for their paper at the post would be well were they to tell the clerk in m their Сатноцьс RECORD. We have inder f carelesses in a few places on the part of clerks who will sometimes look for letters thing is necessary. Silent upon faith and ¹ ensy, Luke King, P. J. Neven, E. J. Broderick an instruction of transact all other business for the noise Record, Agent for Newfoundland, M es Power of St. John. Agent for district of Nig g Mrs. M. Reynolds, New Liskeard. public worship, because of its want of power, the Pan-Anglican body disappointed The Lamp in its service of thanksgiving at St. Paul's cathedral

4

Price of Subscription-$2.00 per annum.

THOS. COFFEY, L.L.D., Editor and Publisher,

wed and recommended by the Archbishops Kingston, Ottawa and St. Bonilace, t of London, Hamilton, Peterborough, an urg, N. Y., and the clergy throughout t

ters changing residence will please give of tuary and marriage notices cannot be inserted t in the usual condensed form. Each insertion dvertisement for teachers, situations was said a word-or hardly a word upon any of them. They would steal a march.

Their own divines were silent. These questions could not therefore cause division. Divorce was the only one

They could not well advocate it, yet

they all grieved that it was so troublesome, and they all exhorted the people not to ask for a bill of divorce. There was no "Thou shalt not put away thy wife." There could not be : there was no authority in the congress or outside.

With The Lamp we think that Martha is busy about many things when only one

According to The Lamp the members of the Congress approached "the throne of the Most High after the manner of Protestant Episcopalians rather than as inheritors of the ancient Catholic traditions of the Church of England." How can any one find the pearl in the house which threw it out? Unseemly and naked as is the worship of Protestantism,

it would have been ten thousand times worse to see Anglicanism attempt the sacred ritual of a priesthood it never possessed or offer a sacrifice which its sworn kingdom and the glory are elsewhere-

in Rome-where the sheep feed on the rich pastures of faith and unity and

A PLEA FOR LITERATURE.

"Literature," says Dr. Dawson, "is of necessity the most practical of all studies-practical because it deals with the varied experiences and capacities of the human soul. For that reason great statesmen have been trained in letters

rather than in science - in classics rather than in mathematics." There are other elevated thoughts in this carefully prepared address which we might profitably comment upon. Space forbids. Such treatment would take up the whole plea. Certainly Dr. Dawson by careful selections, has made the abiding Presence.

LETTERS OF RECOMMENDATION.

Apostolic Delegation. Ottawa, June 13th, 1905.

Ottawa, June 13th, 1995. Mr. Thomas Cofley: My Dear Sir.-Since coming to Canada I have been a reader of your paper. I have noted with satis-faction that it is directed with intelligence and ability, and, above all, that it is imbued with a strong Catholic spirit. It strenuously defends Catholic principles and rights, and stands firmly by the teach-ings and authority of the Church, at the same time promoting the best interests of the country. Follow-ing these limes it has done a great deal of good for the welfare of religion and country, and it will do more and more, as its wholesome influence reaches more Catholic homes. I therefore, earnestly recom-mend it to Catholic families. With my blessing on e Catholie homes. I therefore earnestly recom d it to Catholic families. With my blessing or work, and best wishes for its continued success Yours very sincerely in Christ, Dosarus, Archbishop of Ephesus, Apostolic Delegate UNIVERSITY OF OTTAWA.

articles regard as idolatrous. The Lamp should kindle its light afresh and renew Ottawa, Canada, Marto, June Mr. Thomas Coffey: Dear Sir: For some time past I have read your estimable paper, the CATHOLIC RECORD, and Congra-tulate you upon the manner in which it is published. Its manner and form are both good: and a truly Catholic spirit pervades the whole. Therefore, with pleasure, I can recommend it to the faithful. Bless-ing you and wishing you success, believe me to re-Ottawa, Canada, March 7th, 1900. its oil. It sees trees walking and shadows flitting. There is no power in the tribe it follows. The power and the

Yours faithfully in Jesus Christ. †D. FALCONIO, Arch. of Larissa, Apost. Deleg.

LONDON, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1908.

THE PAN-ANGLICAN CONGRESS.

WE WISH to thank Dr. Dawson for his Oninions as to the success of this able address to the Royal Society of Canada. Opportune in his choice of assembly of Anglicans may vary, though subject, the author is most able in his its importance impresses us all. One of the bishops never thought his Church treatment of it. Starting from the was so small. Comparing it even with double purpose for which the Royal the African Church in the time of St. Society was first established, the ad-Augustine, when 800 bishops met to convancement of both science and literature, Dr. Dawson admits that the second demn the Donatists, the Pan-Anglican Council of 200 odd seems insignificant. purpose is neglected because of the utilitarian demands of science. We Our contemporary, The Lamp, which is need hardly follow the argumentsdevoted to the corporate 'union of Catholicism and Anglicanism, sees in it not strong and admirably selected as they are. The address, however, is not to the only numerical strength, but the honor public, but to a society whose transof occupying "the third place in the actions have evidently tended in only catalogue of the religious bodies who one direction. What the Royal Society constitute in the aggregate what is commonly designated as Christendom." might do is to take steps to improve our Canadian literature and raise the taste Indeed The Lamp has not seen since St of general readers. More is to be Augustine of Canterbury's coming such a gathering, so full in numbers, so cecumfeared for literature from its own lax enical in character. Something must devotees and its free libraries than be wrong with The Lamp. The oil does from the attention of the few to science. not burn well-its light is not clear. The difficulty is that science itself has Weak in numbers the Anglican Condrifted from its moorings out into the gress has not a single feature of being dangerous shoals of doubt and material principles. It no longer includes the oecumenical. It lacked the primary condition, for it had no apostolical higher branches of knowledge; it is authorization for its summons. It limited to mechanism. Now whilst such inferior learning may greatly conlacked the second requirement for an oecumenical council - for its delibercern itself about our present comforts, ations were not presided over by Rome it cannot do much lasting injury to or its delegate. It lacks the third conthose monuments of thought which, as dition in that its decrees have no bind-Horace says, are more lasting than brass. Literature has the strongest claim upon ing force either upon its own members or upon its future converts. our study and attention, for its triumphs Like everything Anglican, from start to are the greatest glory of the human mind, and it deals with the highest finish, it is sadly weak. It needs what it can never have by itself-authority subjects upon which the intelligence Let the British flag float where it may of man has exercised its activity. -and the more widely it floats the bet-There is one good point which Dr. ter are we pleased-or let British in-Dawson makes concerning spelling. He uence spread where it will, nothing i ightly maintains that " gained so far as Anglicanism is consilent and superfluous letters are clues to the logic of its evolution. The procerned. Numbers do not make a Council. The Council of Jerusalem was a cess goes on unconsciously and cannot Council, yet not so large in numbers as be accelerated-even by a strenuous the Anglican Congress. It was St, President or a confident multi-million-Peter who formed the First Council of aire." No doubt, as this address imthe Church ; and it was St. Peter's sucplies, bad spelling is due to abandoncessors who have formed every Council ment of literature and the scientific since. There is no use in playing at principle which is now part of children's Church. The Pan-Anglican Congress education, viz., that bodies move along the lines of least resistance. Three was no doubt an important gathering -a most respectable meeting of most centuries ago the so-called reformer respectable men whose intentions were wanted no tradition or history or past also excellent. But as a Council it canin religion. To jump to the present. not claim honor, nor can it by its delithey want none in their language. berations command respect. Its dis-Their language, like their science, must cussions showed either its astuteness or be unencumbered and must be rendered its weakness. Not saying a word upon utilitarian. If orthography hinders a

those grave points of faith and practice which have divided the Anglican

Church into two camps, it limited itself to sociological questions. As The Lamp puts it, they were more

Christ to the regeneration of society

than they were to prostrate themselves

in adoration before His adorable Body naturally. Not one of the assembled dignitaries would throw such an apple of discord into their own midst. No more would they question the Athanasian creed or other points, as e.g. Mother

Mary's Immaculate Conception or Peter's

Primacy. This congress possessed, if not the simplicity of the dove, at least the wisdom of the serpent. It did not open any vexed questions. Prudently so for it could not decide any of them.

Matters lying upon a lower level, not directly connected with faith, were at hand-capital and labor, standard of wages-family life - divorces - these present upon the altar in the Eucharis-tic Sacrifice. Surely they were, and eager

to apply the teaching of

W

pursuing literature follows its ideals-

the higher civilization in this world, the higher life in the next. The failures, the sorrows, the joys, the triumphs of the holy spirit '-these are the subject matter of literature." We congratulate the President of the Royal Society upon are confident that if brought more with in the reach of our educationists it

ANSWER.

We have before us a letter in which our correspondent says he has been told that " in the earlier ages of the Catholic Church it was considered heresy for one to teach that the earth was round.

The friend who gave him this unusual his timely and polished address.

would be productive of great good.

America and Australia. Rev. Mathew questions were new. Rome had not address eloquently concludes, "but still doubts, opinions or creed any importance C. Gleeson, chaplain of the battleship whatever. From first to last, from start to finish, Mrs. Eddy has impressed us with Connecticut, responded. He said that the religious vagaries and the absurd Sydney's receptions surpassed any the gallantry of English speaking people. fleet had received even at home. The Had she been Mr. Eddy or Mr. Anymagnificent hospitality of the Austrabody else no attention would have been lians, he declared, would make an paid to her-for learning she has not, abiding impression in the hearts of and her system is most unsystematic eighty million of Americans who were truly kinsmen. One of the memento chiefly in its want of principle, Lest we wander too far afield let us return of the visit is a tame kangaroo which Our correspondent assures us that Mrs. Cardinal Moran presented to the flag-Eddy does not believe in agamogenesis ship Connecticut, as he said he wished We care not. She may believe in gamothe men of the splendid battleship to genesis or agamogenesis or gamo withhave something characteristic of the out genesis, or genesis without gamo, or country. This notable reception will be anything else she likes. We are proof special interest because the proceed foundly indifferent. We must not, howings gave evidence of that heartiness ever, be understood as willing to gloss which is so frequently absent from over the anti-Christian inuendo conmeetings of representatives of some tained in the scientific sesquipedalian European countries.

AT THE BANQUET following the dedica tion of the new Hall of Theology at St. Bernard's Theological Seminary,

Rochester, Rev. Walter A. McDonald

D. D., president of the Dunboyne Course in Maynooth College, Ireland, paid a generous tribute to American scholar-

term. If agamogenesis were impossibleinformation claimed that "more than to the human race-if it were not mereone were excommunicated from the ly relatively but essentially impossible, Church for teaching this and other then the Incarnation would receive its scientific truths which the Church todeath-blow. There is no use in hedging day accepts." This, of course, is taken doubt and unbelief behind high soundthe friend as an argument against ing language. Mrs. Eddy herself wrote the infallibility of the Church. We are -whether she believed it or not we do not certain to which of the earlier ages not know nor do we care—but she wrote or to what scientific theories our corresthat "Narcotics quiet mortal minds." pondent's controversy refers. Upon It may be. There are no narcotics more one point, however, we are certain that dangerous, more subtle and more misall the past scientific errors, enunciated leading than those prepared beneath and taught by whom they may have been, Greek labels. Science has convinced do not touch the infallibility of the itself of the truth of agamogenesis in Church. In order that any doctrine, species lower than man; but that in scientific or theological, may affect the man it is impossible. So far as the Church in the way of contradicting or course of nature is concerned let the assailing the infallibility, the doctrine question pass. We are not engaged in must be proclaimed to the whole Church a scientific discussion. Our contention by an Œcumenical Council or the Pope is that this novel Greek word is only speaking ex cathedra. The most hisanother indirect attack upon the Incartorical case is that of Galileo, who taught nation, and the Supernatural Concepthe heliocentric theory. For centuries tion and birth of our Blessed the geocentric theory had been held and Lord. Mrs. Eddy's belief is much taught by theologians and philosophers like her learning-indefinite, circumas the only theory warranted by Holy scribed and unauthorized. Another Scriptures and compatible with faith and point to which our correspondent calls sound doctrine. Now they hold the attention is the Immaculate Conception. contrary. If, as Brownson naturally says, He says : " While Christian Scientists they were right formerly, they are wrong believe in the immaculate (small letter) now ; and if right now, they were wrong onception (small letter) they do not before. We lay aside the answer that teach nor believe that this experience this difference concerns science and will be repeated. They believe exactly does not touch theology. In the case of what the Scriptures teach on this point Galileo, a pontifical congregation declarand no more." Here we are giving Mr. ed that the heliocentric theory was false Farlow a parlance at the door which his not only in science "but formally heregratuitous foresight does not deserve. tical," and further, that " the denial of the

We doubt very much if the gentleman geocentric theory was rash and subverunderstands what the Immaculate Consive of faith." We readily grant that ception means. What God may do or the Congregation was wrong in this not do hereafter, we do not pretend to condemnation, and that the two Popes discuss. It is not for us to limit His Paul V. and Urban VIII.) erred not only power or question His designs. Nor is as private persons but as heads of these the question one of nature. It is most ongregations, whose decrees were especially a supernatural matter. valueless without the approbation of the Mary's Immaculate Conception lies Pope. But no approved decision of these away above the plane whose low horizon or any other Congregations have the bounds the views of Christian Scienforce of infallibility unless other necestists. It is the wonderful privilege sary conditions are fulfilled. Proctor. sheltered in the rocks and heights of he astronomer, writes upon this the preventing merits of the Redeemer question: "The Catholic doctrine on to come. It is the glory of the chosen he subject (of Papal infallibility) is daughter enshrined in the choicest perfectly definite; and it is absolutely beauty and securest protection her certain that the decision in regard to Divine Son by His grace could afford Galileo's teaching, shown now to have her. Less defined by Holy Scripture een unsound, does not in the slightest than by alliving tradition, it is only degree affect the doctrine of infallibility within our own generation that this either of the Pope or of the Church. article of faith has received the imprim-The decision was neither ex-cathedra atur of the teaching Church and has nor addressed to the whole Church ; in shown the world that the power claimed not one single point does the case illusby the Church is still active. Our cortrate this doctrine of Papal infallibility respondent does not forget to assure us as defined by the Vatican Council." TOWARDS THE Catholic Church there of the Protestant character of the The other scientific points which the seems to be a remarkable movement on Christian Scientists who believe what letter clearly insinuates to have been the part of Anglican nuns. A few the Scriptures teach-no more-and who judgment.

SEPTEMBER 5, 1908.

WE PUBLISH in this issue a despatch from Dublin which will be pleasant reading for the Irish people in this country, representing as it does a most gratifying revival for the material prosperity of the people, and also showing a rapid advance in the cultivation of Irish literature. If the Sinn Fein party would confine their work along these lines its existence would prove a blessing to Ireland. Any attempt, however, on the part of the members to minimize the work of the Parliamentary party would be a cause of rejoicement in Dub lin Castle.

THE BLACK FAST.

Those who regard the present days of fasting as rigorous and hard, would do well to read up the austerities of the Church's earlier days, and particularly that form of them known as "the Black Fast." The Catholic Encyclopedia gives the following account of it :

THE BLACK FAST .- This form of fasting, the most rigorous in the history of Church legislation, was marked by austerity regarding the quantity and quality of food permitted on fasting days as well as the time wherein such food might be legitimately taken.

ship in his speech on "Ecclesiastical Education." This is Dr. McDonald's In the first place more than one meal was strictly prohibited. At this meal second visit to the United States and flesh meat, eggs, butter, cheese and milk he said he was sure to return to were interdicted (Gregory I, Decretals Ireland this time more impressed than IV. cap. vi ; Trullan Synod, Canon lvi.) on the occasion of his previous visit by Besides these restrictions abstinence from wine, especially during Lent was enjoined (Thomassim, Traite des jeunes de l'Eglise, IL vii). Furthermore, durhis view of Catholic educational institutions. "You are a most modest people," said Dr. McDonald. "You don't realing Holy Week the fare consisted of bread, salt, herbs, and water (Laymann ize how big you are. I marvel at the (Laymann, work done here along educational lines, Theologia, Moralis, Tr. VIII ; De observatione jejuniorum, i.) Finally, this meal was not allowed until sunset. St. hardships notwithstanding. To my mind the greatest evidence of your Meal was not allowed until sunset. St. Ambrose (De Elia et jejunio, sermo vili, in Psalm CXVIII), St. Chrysostom. (Homil, iv in Genesim), St. Basil (Oratio-i, De jejunio) furnish unequivocal testicapacity for [improvement is shown in the recent edition of the Catholic Encyclopedia. This couldn't have been done by any other people than those of mony concerning the three istics of the black fast. The character. The keynote of the United States. I believe that when their teaching is sounded by St. Bernard (Sermo. iii, No. 1, De Quadragesima) when he says "hitherto we have fasted time and leisure are given you will do even greater things. I consider it one only until noon " (3 p. m.) " whereas, now " (during Lent) " kings and princes of the greatest privileges of the seminaries of the United States that they how "(during Lent)" kings and princes clergy and laity, rich and poor will fast until evening." It is quite certain that the days of Lent (Muller, Theologia, Moralis, II, Lib. II, Tr. ii, 165, no. 11) were young and could be molded by those who had charge of education here. It is a grand idea Bishop McQuaid has as well as those preceding ordination were marked by the black fast. This of sending men abroad to the greatest universities, there to receive the seeds regime continued until the tenth cen-tury when the custom of taking the only that will eventually develop and promeal of the day at 3 o'clock troduced (Thomassin, loc. cit.) In the fourteenth century the hour of taking THE PUBLIC LEDGER, of Philadelphia, this meal was changed to noon-day (Muller, loc. cit.) Shortly afterwards Penn., is deservedly considered one of the foremost dailies of the United the practice of taking a collation in the evening began to gain ground (Thomas-sin, op. cit., II, xi). Finally, the custom States. It has a robust way of telling the truth, regardless of rank or circumof taking a crust of bread and a coffee in the morning was troduced in the early part of nineteenth century. During stance. In a recent number it referred to the criminal characteristics of some part of the nineteenth century. During the past fifty years, owing to ever changing of the Italian residents of the Republic. These people should, of course, be carecircumstances of time and place, Church has gradually relaxed place, the fully watched and promptly punished,

IRISH REVIVAL IN PLAYS AND BOOKS.

severity of penitential requirements, so that now little more than a vestige of former rigor obtains.

the

PLAYWRIGHTS, DRAMATIC SOCIETIES AND AUTHORS TEACHING THE PEOPLE OF ERIN.

exploits of Thaw, Hains and of the Dublin, Aug. 25 .- Mention has often Springfield mob rather dull the force of been made of the "revival of Ireland" in trade, finance, literature, language and the argument against the Italians. Americans have little to learn from Sicily, and when they begin to teach it national aspiration. There can be no doubt that such a revival is sweeping over Ireland, and few realize its far-reaching importance or its minute ramification into every phase of Irish life. For instance, within the last few years, no less than four dramatic societies have sprung up in In the last locates have sprung up in dramatic societies have sprung up in Ireland for the express purpose of teach-ing the Irish people, by means of the ing the Irish people, by means of their early national history, and trying to awaker in them a national spirit. The drama carried on in Ireland at present is most important. It is dividpresent is most important. It is divid-ed into two groups; the first group pro-ducing plays in Irish, and English; the second, in English only. Irish plays are being produced in all the large centres, such as Dublin, Londonderry, Belfast, Cork, and even in the small towns, like Bray, Dundalk, Trim, Kells and elsewhere.

THE CATHOLIC RECORD

er

ve

ts

118

ch

D.

or

ing ago

rocks upon which the Church has struck we know not. If our correspondent will have his friend specify them we shall be glad to review them as clearly as possible. It is always an honor to de fend one's mother. What a double honor to stand by the Church in the absurd and malicious charges brought against her.

MRS. EDDY'S BELIEF.

We have received a note from a gen tleman, Alfred Farlow, writing on behalf of what he is pleased to call the Christian Sisters removed from a public school Science Church. "Mrs. Eddy," he asattended by Catholics only in a strictly sures us, "has never advocated a belief Catholic community. This decision is in agamogenesis as possible to the worthy of thoughtful consideration by human species." This is the second time child from the more rapid means of that Mr. Farlow has written us upon this making money, then orthography must subject of Mrs. Eddy's belief. The first be purchased and modified to suit the time we took no notice of it, for we did age. Another point is worthy of obsernot see that it was any of our business vation-and we wish our educational what Mrs. Eddy believed or did not bedepartment would take a note of it.

lieve. Nor are we now writing because we have in the least changed our mind. We are still of the same opinion. This lady's creed is none of our affair. She has no mission in matters religious from gives an interesting account of the rethe only authority we respect, nor any to our simple people that her apologists should claim one line of space in a paper claiming to defend Catholics and to instruct its Catholic readers. We have never charged Mrs. Eddy with believing or disbelieving this Greek sesquipedalian theory-agamogenesis-so that we do the 24th a grand banquet was given by not enter upon the subject with any idea of excusing her or explaining ourselves.

strongest plea for literature. He has Perhaps we enter upon it so that we allowed literature to plead for itself, shall not be bothered with any more guests the eminent churchman de He has shown that it has more stability. protests on behalf of the Christian livered a long historical address more refining power and a more lasting Science Church or club. We have no showing that Catholics had adinfluence over the history of the race idea of exalting Mrs. Eddy or of humiland the lives of men. "Faint," the iating her, nor of attaching to her prosperity and religious liberty in with the children of men.

nain the judges of what is their meaneeks ago we published an account of a number of these ladies seeking entrance ing. Ever, everywhere the same. Belief therein with a view to becoming Sisters there is none. It is always private in Catholic convents. The New York Times of the 24th records still another accession to the ranks of those who have A DESPATCH from Lancaster, Penn., says left the Anglican sisterhood. A despatch to that paper from Philadelphia that the religious garb law of that State has been declared by Judge dated August 23rd, states that the Landis to be contrary to the bill of fourth nun of the Episcopal community rights, and therefore unconstitutional. of St. Mary, who recently arrived at St. He denounced the law as unreasonable Elizabeth's convent of the Blessed as well as vicious. The bill was passed Sacrament, Cornwallis, Penn., of which at the instigation of anti-Catholic secret Mother Katharine Drexel is superior societies, who wished to have Catholic should be by example.

duce mature fruits."

but those who desire to throw odium

upon the whole race, on account of the murderous instincts of a few, would do well to ponder before doing so. The old adage, that those who live in glass houses should not throw stones, is particularly applicable in this connection.

The Public Ledger truly says that the

is a Miss Pendleton, of Virginia, known in her former community as Sister Grace. She is from St. Gabriel's Convent, at Peekskill-on-the-Hudson. Miss Pendleton is now under preparatory instruction.

ONE OF THE MOST notable events in the history of the Church in England is the meeting of the Eucharistic Congress, which will take place on the 9th of Sept. Besides the Papal Legate, Cardinal Vannutelli, there will be present eight Cardinals and more than one undred Bishops; amongst the former will be included Cardinals Gibbons, of Baltimore; Logue, of Armagh; and Moran, of Sydney. Apart from the clergymen, it is expected that two hundred thousand Catholics will visit London for the occasion. The religious functions will be held in Westminster Cathedral, and Albert Hall, the largest auditorium in London, has been secured for the general meetings.

Almighty God it is Who grants to us the unearthly charm and beauty to be found in our churches through the Sacramental Presence therein of POTENT FACTOR IN REVIVAL.

These Irish plays are being well re-ceived throughout the country, and they are putting spirit into the people Everywhere there is an awakening of the old ideals, and even among the most stolid of the people interest is being aroused. While a number of these plays show the comic side of Irish life here runs, even through the comedies, an undercurrent of national aspiration. This dramatic movement in Ireland i without doubt one of the most potent factors in the Irish revival. Several of these Irish plays have even invaded England, and produced a very favorable Another wing of the great Irish re vival is the number of books on Irish subjects, written by Irish writers, and printed on Irish presses. This year has been especially productive of literary effort.

Several Irish publishing houses are making a specialty of cheap Irish liter-ature, and Isome firms are going in for artistic productions on hand-made Irish paper. Miss Yeats, at her Dun Emer press, prints hand-printed books dealing exclusively with Irish literature.

WOMEN HELPING MUCH.

Another phase of the revival is the work being done by women all over Ireland. Up to recently, Irish-women have been supposed to take very little interest in national affairs. With the exception of a few of the "intellectuals, no women interested themselves in politics or even in the homes of Ireland, except, of course, as a matter of indivi-dual concern. The women of Ireland are being appealed to not to purchase form to teach Catholic children in Catholic schools, working under the Public school law, in that city. INTERNATIONAL COURTESIES make pleasant reading. A despatch from Sydney, New South Wales, dated August 23rd, the bigots in Winnipeg who would not permit the Sisters in their modest uniception of the officers and sailors of the American battleships at that place. On that day 1200 sailors, including 134 officers, attended High Mass in the cathedral. The services were impressive and special music had been prepared in honor of the Americans. On the Catholics to the visitors. Cardinal Moran, Archbishop of Sydney, presided. In proposing the toasts of our vanced along the same line of material Jesus Christ, whose delight is to be dual

SEPTEMBER 5, 1908.

scotland, and this is consider Irish wholly due to the revival of Irish

CHURCH.

tain the san

giving

spateh leasant n this a most d proswing a of Irish party ; these a bles owever inimize party n Dub.

days of ould do of the cularly e Black ia gives of faststory of ty and fasting in such ie meal is meal nd milk ecretals IOn lvi.) tinence ent was s jeunes re, dur-sted of iymann. obserly, this et. St. mo viii, ysostom (Oratio al testiaracter. note of Bernard fasted

vhereas

princes vill fast

ain that

eologia

no. 11)

This

linatio

th cen-

he only

In the

taking

oon-day

erward

Chomas

a in the custom

d some

as in-of the

z the

langing

.ce, the

ed the

stige of.

S AND

IES AND

PLE OF

as often

land" in

age and

such a

nd. and

ortance

) every

e, with-

an four g up in of teach-

was in

How it makes your heart beat when you first see it (St. Peter's)! Ours did as we came in from Cvita Vecchia, and saw a great, ghastly, darkling dome ris-ing up into the gray night, and keeping us company ever so long as we drove as if it had been an orb fallen out of as if it had been an ore nut. As you neaven with its light put out. As you heaven with this light put off. As you look at it from the Pincio, and the sun sets behind it, surely that aspect of earth and sky is one of the grandest in the world. * * * There must be moments, in Romespecially, when every man of friendly heart, who writes himself, English and Protestant, must feel a pang at thinking that he and his countrymen are insul-ated from European Christendom. An cean separates us. From one shore to the other one can see the neighbor cliffs on clear days ; one must wish sometimes that there were no stormy gulf betwee us: and from Canterbury to Rome a pil us; and from Canterbury to Rome a pil-grim could pass and not drown beyond Dover. Of the beautiful parts of the great Mother Church, I believe among us many people have no idea; we think of lazy friars, of pining, cloistered virgins, of ignorant peasants, worshipping wood and stones, bought and sold indulgences, absolutions, and the like com-mon-places of Protestant satire. Lo ! yonder inscription, which blazes round the dome of the temple, so great and glorious it looks like heaven almost, and as if the words were written in stars : it proclaims to all the world that this is Peter, and on this rock the Church shall be built, against which hell shall not prevail. Under the bronze canopy his throne is lit with lights, that have been prevail. burning before it for ages. Round this stupendous chamber are ranged the grandees of his court. Faith seems to be realized in their marble figures. Some of them were alive but yesterday : others, to be as blessed as they, walk the world even now, doubtless; and the commissioners of heaven, here holding their courts a hundred years hence shall authoritatively announce their beatification. The signs of their power shall not be wanting. They heal the sick, open the eyes of the blind, cause the bar to make the blind. the lame to walk to-day. Are there not crowds ready to bear witness to their wonders? Is not there a tribunal appointed to try their claims; advocates to plead for and against : prelates and clergy and multitudes to back and beeve them? Thus you shall kiss the and of a priest to-day who has given his to a friar whose bones are already beginning to work miracles, who has been the disciple of another whom the church has just proclaimed a saint-hand in hand they hold by one another till the line is lost up in heaven.

Come, friend, let us acknowledge this and go and kiss the toe of St. Peter! — Thackeray.

ESSENTIAL IRRELIGION OF SOCIAL-ISM.

With the imprimatur of Archbishop Farley attached to it, there has just appeared a work by Father Ming, en-titled "The Religion of Mederation of the democratic spirit and the develop-ment of democratic spirit and the develop-ment of democratic principles the future should find us no less self-sacrificing on the poor and no less self-sacrificing on their behalf than others may be, and the titled "The Religion of Modern Socialism," published by Benziger Bros. The enquiry pursued by the learned Jesuit is outside the scope of economic socialism, and throughout the work he makes it his business to show that. danger lies in the fact that, like others according to the teachings of its high-priests and in accordance with the rootwe may 'pant with the money - making street,' that, like others, we may be deprinciples of social socialism, as apart termined to make the most of this world. "Again, it is not easy to listen with from industrial socialism, the movement equanimity to the charge levelled against us by Socialists that it has been left to them to combat militarism, and to s essentially atheistic. Hence the chapters that appeal most to us are those which deal with social-ism in regard to what it thinks of religadvocate, as one of the most important ion and the belief in a Supreme Being. In Chapter 4, Father Ming places on items of their programme, the abolition of war. Surely, there should be no need for us to be reminded by them that the message of Our Lord to the world was record the oracular statements of the great teachers of socialism in respect of this point. Dietzgen, in his principal one of peace and love ; while He insists most relentlessly on the forgiveness of our enemies. It may be necessary at work, declares that social democracy has no religion in the sense of belief in God. Bebel openly declared in the German present at least, that the country should Reichstag, in 1881, that "in politics we anything for the household from foreign merer," asserts that social Democracy, rkets, provided it is possible to ob-n the same things from nome. The Irish housewives throughout the as a philosophical system, can have no other relation to the Church than to reject its soporifies and to wage relentles The Irish housewives throughout the whole country are responding splendid-ly to this national appeal. Many of them are even depriving themselves of many comforts simply because they can-not obtain the articles they require from Irish sources.* This policy on the part of the women of Ireland is saving millions of pounds to the country and is using employment to thousands of war on by far the greater part of its doctrines. It necessarily follows, says Father Ming, that the triumph of socialism will mean the abolition of religion and if socialistic triumph came about, a victory for unbelief must result. Socialism denies the entire system of revealed dogmas; and the God of Chris-ing employment to thousands of rkers in various Irish industries. tianity is to the socialist no less absurd than the God of the primitive savage. To Lafargue, God is not better than the workers in various Irish industries. Already the effect of this policy is felt on the poorhouses, which are be-coming more empty every year from the fact that employment is being found for people who would otherwise have no alternative but to become paupers. It has also had a sensible effect on emigra-tion. This year there were less emiheathen gods. The cheap blasphemer, Blatford, of London, denies the morality of the teaching of Christ. Here is a type of this egregious penny-a-liner's argument : "Man never did and never could sin has also had a sensible enter of a sensible enter the sensible enter t

"Man never did and never could sin against God. For man is what God made him, could only act as God en-abled him or constructed (sic) him to act, and therefore was not responsible for his acts and could not sin against God. * * * If God is responsible for man's existence, God is responsible for man's existence, God is responsible for

THACKERAY ON THE GREAT MOTHER nan's act. Therefore

But why go on with such tiresome waddle? We are surprised that Father twaddle? Ming should condescend to quote as muc Ming should condescend to quote as much as he does of this illiterate person who besides trying to attract a little notice has fallen back on the methods of the London "penny blasphemers," and attacked religion, as a last pathetic re-sort to fill the larder and keep himself in shoe-leather. At least the atheistic engligities of Gormany and Italy here socialists of Germany and Italy have scholarship to support their socialistic fantasies.

Father Ming concludes: As a sult of all our discussions we arrive at this conclusion, to wit, that scientific socialism, after doing away with the worship of a personal deity, either leaves no room for any religion whatever, or advocates one that is more absurd, and far more pernicious than irreligion itself.—New York Freeman's Journal.

THE GOSPEL OF GETTING-ON HAS SUP PLANTED THE GOSPEL OF CHRIST.

"I question very much if a man of the Middle Ages, were he to return among us, would see signs of progress in any thing around," said the Rev. John Ash ton, S. J., in an address delivered at the jubilee of the Catholic Young Men's Society in England in the early part of this month. What would chiefly sur-prise him would be the innumerable contrivances designed to minister to our ease and comfort and to increase our pleasures and enjoyment of life, but Father Ashton doubts whether he would regard as an age of light one in which the Go pel of Getting-on had supplanted the Gospel of Christ. "Were he to go into our crowded cities and glance at the places of amuse-ment, the music halls, for instance, with the long queues of people waiting out-side for admittance, he would probably conclude that if the modern makes money, it is not for the purpose of hoard-ing it, for he is no miser, but that he Ing it, for he is no miser, but that he may get as much enjoyment out of life as possible, though it is evidently to the detriment of the supernatural principles of Christianity. Were he to notice the tall chimney - stacks and gaunt, ugly warehouses, he might be excused his doubt whether esthetics and knowledge of the canons of art had kept nace with of the canons of art had kept pace with purely scientific lore. Perhaps on the whole he might doubt the claims of the modern to point the finger of scorn at the people of the Middle Ages."

WHITHER ARE WE DRIFTING ? Father Ashton, in his very able and timely address, goes on to ask if Catho-lics are not themselves in danger of be-ing carried away by the tide of each data ing carried away by the tide of worldli-ness—if they are not in peril of drifting with the stream and leaving to strike against it those animated only by naturagainst it those animated only by natur-al motives and merely social zeal. "Our attitude, say, towards poverty is different from that of Socialists," he was only to bid him to put it up again, for 'all that take the sword shall perish by the sword.' It is, then, for us to see to it that this extinction of war is not brought about apart from the Church, not by preventing others, but by co-operation with those who labor for its con

THE CATHOLIC RECORD

"Our loftiest ideals are of a supernatural order, and we must neither forget them nor set them aside because of the materialism and the worldy spirit of the age in which we live. Hence the im-portance of availing ourselves of those supernatural means that have been placed in our hands in order to help us to attain these ideals. "A few words on two of those means. As you know, the Pope has recently been on any supernatural to the second seco been encouraging frequent, nay, even daily Communion. Supernatural strength is needed to strive after and attain supernatural ideals, and that strength is above all imparted in the Sacrament of the Holy Eucharist. Here, then, is one excellent means by which we may pre-vent ourselves from being dragged down to the level of the principles of the world, and be not only the best of citizens, but a 'gen sancta,' a holy receive heading the metal. people, holding the teaching of our Lord in all its purity and integrity, and handing it on to those who are to come after us.

SPIRITUALLY RUN DOWN.

" But there is another means that has ecently been put into our hands. It is that which goes by the name of a rereat. St. Ignatius wrote a little book called the 'Spiritual Exercises,' in which he sets down the thoughts which prought about a reformation in his life and eventually made a saint of him. To these thoughts priests and religious recur every year, for some days, gener-ally eight, in order to bring before themselves the lofty ideals of their to strive after their attainment. But it would be a mistake to suppose that these exercises were written for the sake of priests or religious. They were rather written for the sake of laymen. Moreover the moneyed and therefore the leisured classes have had it in their power for years past to make a retreat, but we have yet to learn that they are the only ones who need one or can benefit by it. Do we not all of us get run down spiritually as well as physically and therefore need a retreat even as we need a holiday? But these exercises of St. Ignatius can do more. If I may sum up the fruit which the saint intended to be derived from making a retreat, it is the acquisition of the apostolic spirit -a spirit which is required of all day, or than a spirit which is required of all of us at the present day, of the working man no less than of the foreign missionary. For where-ever there is a man who can be an influence for good, whether by word or example, among his fellow-men, who can stimulate them to a better life, who can instil[®] into them Christian principles, and who can command the respect, ad-miration and approval of others by the uprightness of his own life, there is a prightness of his own life, there is a an who can do the work of an apostle. "We must see to it that the flag of Christian and supernatural ideals is kept flying; and be not less, but more, eager than others for their realization t must never be said that we, the chil-Iren of light, are less wise in our generation than others, or justify the reproach that we know not of what spirit we are. Our high calling requires that we should be more strenuous to extend the King-dom of God than others who may do omething in that cause, but who have only the 'anima naturaliter Christiana' to guide them. Let us have but little sympathy with the plea that human nature is weak. It will be time enough o make such acknowledgment when we come to examine our consciences, and not while our hand finds it to do a great work in the cause of our Divine

The Christian Brothers.

Master.'

Mr. E. W. Thompson, special corres-pondent in Canada of the Boston Transcript, found quarters in Quebec, during the celebrations, with the Chris-tian Brothers. Apparently it was the first time he had made a close observa-

the last offices to the dead ? Surely, as the lyision of this rises in your mind, you see the presence and form A judge in the highest court of the United States says this. Yet France ruthlessly turned the Little Sisters of the Poor out of their homes in many cities. Still, for that matter a few years ago, there was a shameless secret organ-ization in this country who wished to do the same here. It is a queer world. Those who earnestly strive to do most good are made to suffer most. — New World.

ST. PETER'S AT ROME.

MARION CRAWFORD DESCRIBES THE WON-DERS OF THE FAMOUS CATHEDRAL. The Basilica of St. Peter's and the Vatican Palace together form by far the greatest continuous mass of buildings in the world.

The Colisseum is 295 yards long by 156 broad, including the thickness of the walls. St. Peter's Church alone the walls. St. Peter's Church as that the walls. St. Peter's Church alone is 205 yards long and 156 broad, so that the whole Colisseum would easily stand upon the ground plan of the church, while the Vatican Palace is more than half as long again. The central cathedral of Christendom is so far beyond any familiar pro-portion that at first sight all details are lost upon its broad front. The mind and judgement are dazed and staggered. The earth should not be able to bear such weight upon its crust without cracking and bending like an over-loaded table. On each side the colonnades run curving like giant arms, almost open to receive the nations that go up there to worship. The dome broods over all like a giant's head motionless in meditation. The vastness of the structure takes The vastness of the structure takes hold of a man as he issues from the street by which he came from St, Angelo. In the open space, in the square and in the ellipse between the colonnades, and on the steps two hun-dred thousand men could be drawn up in rank and file, horse and foot and gun Excepting it be on some special oc-casion, there are rarely more than two or three hundred persons in sight. The paved emptiness makes one draw a breath of suprise, and human eyes seem too small to take in all the flatness below, all the breadth before and all the height above. Taken together the picture is too big for convenient sight. The impression itself moves unwieldly in the cramped brain. A building almost five hundred feet high produces a monstrous effect upon the mind. Set down in words, a description of it conveys no clear conception ; seen for the first time, the impression produced by it cannot be put into language. It is something like a shock to the intellisometime rise a snock to the interin-gence, perhaps, and not altogether a pleasant one. Carried beyond the limits of a mere mistake, exaggeration becomes caricature. But when it is magnified beyond humanity's common measures, it may acquire an element approaching to terror. The awe-striking saints of mythology were but magni-fied men. The first sight of St. Peter's affects one as though in the everyday streets, walking among one's fellows, one should meet with a man forty feet high It is all very big. The longest ship that crosses the ocean could lie in the nave between the door and the apse, and her masts, from deck to truck, would scarcely top the canopy of the high altar, which looks so small under the super-possible vastness of the immense dome.

To feel one's smallness and realize it. one need only go and stand beside the holy marble cherubs that support the pillar. They look small, 'if not grace-ful ; but they are of heroic size, and the bowls are as big as baths. Everything in the place is vast; all the statues are colossal; all the pictures enormous; the smallest details of the ornamentation would dwarf any other building in the world, and anywhere else even the chapels would be churches. The eye strains at everything, and at first the mind is shocked out of its power of comparison.

most incomprehensible, most disturbing sight of all is to be seen from the upper gallery in the cupola looking down to the church below. Hanging in mid-air, with nothing under one's feet, air, with nothing under one's feet, one sees the church projected on perspective within a huge circle. It is as though one saw it upside down and inside out. Few men could bear stand there without that bit of iron railing between them and the hideous fall ;

pecting it was another of his flock who was not in condition to meet his pastor's eye, he asked : "Who's that in the cart?" "I don't know, sir," said parishioner number one. "You don't know ?" cried the priest in astonishment. "Don't tell me that, you rascal, who is if 2." "Now your astonishment." "Now, your reverence," said he with a propitiating grin, "how could] know who he is when the man himself don't know who he is?" If anybody should ask us, what kind of a believer o unbeliever the writer of the words above quoted may be, we should reply The man himself doesn't know wh is, nor what he means, how can we tell you? How does he know there was a man who spoke as man never spoke before ?" The Jews who are a highly intelligent people, would ridicule such interingent people, wonid ridicule such a statement. He has read it in the book of course ; but it may be "error of record," or a bit of "oriental imagery," or even "pure falsehood." Men read or even "pure falsehood." Men read the Sacred Scriptures nowadays as a child reads his book of stories. The story which pleases him, the child bestory which pleases him, the child be-lieves,—the story which is unpleasant, or unacceptable, he sets aside. Fur-ther, he goes on : "Love. must purify itself by action. 'If thou lovest me, feed my lambs.' There is no other evidence.' But those words "feed my lambs" are easily printed. The typesetter's case contains all the letters wherewith to produce them. Who said them ? And how does he know ?—Casket. know ?- Casket.

SHALL WE KNOW OUR OWN ?

"Will the persons who go to heaven know those there with whom they were associated upon this earth? S. S. When we are asked questions con-cerning the relations people will have with each other in the blessed life of heaven, we must confess that the sub-ject is as amusing as it is difficult, for no one is competent to say just how matters are or will be in that happy matters are or will be in It is amusing, for we have never lace. been there and for the reason that we are thought qualified to write a truthful account of what is in store for the saints of God. It is difficult, for an extern like ourselves cannot know the life of the blessed.

Contemplative men have mused upon heaven and heaven's mode of life. In the desire to picture the full happi-ness of its holy inhabitants, they have fancied all sorts of fascinating scenes. They tell us of beautiful gardens filled with flowers, of great celebrations upon the feast days of our holy Church, of nusical concerts, and of grand recepons given to new-come saints of dis tinguished merit. The offices of the Church even given us such glowing ideas, for in the ritual of the dead there is an invocation and an invitation ex-tended to the angels and saints to meet the soul departed. " May the angels lead thee into paradise; may the martyrs receive thee at thy coming : lead thee may the choirs of the angels take thee up and mayest thou have rest with Lazrus, once the poor man.'

It is of faith, however, that the angels and saints intercede for us. It is likely, then, that God will reward them with the sight of the soul in person for whom they have prayed.

Charity does not die, nor is it cast off in the passing from earth to bliss eter-nal. As the saints loved their own relations and friends upon earth, they would surely love them in heaven. But unless they saw them and recognized them how could they rejoice with them ? There is certainly joy in companionship of kindred spirits, and the joy of heaven, would be enhanced by the personal contact of those we loved when on earth. Of course, all such joy would be accidental and extrinsic, for the real and substantial happiness of heaven the seeing and possessing of God. Hence as we could not think of heaven being complete in happiness, if we were never to look upon the blessed blue over the chapels would be churches. The eye strains at every-thing, and at first the mind is shocked but of its power of comparison. But the strangest, most extravagant, nest incomparison be as the strangest of the strang

NATURE A VERY SKILFUL PHYSICIAN

5

Puts Up Her Medicines In Most Tempt. ing Form.

Have you ever tasted anything more delicious than the fresh, ripe, luscious fruits? These are Nature's medicines, A regular diet without fruit is posttively dangerous, for the system soon gets clogged with waste matter and the blood poisoned. Fruit Juices stir up Bowels, Kidneys and Skin, making them work vigorously to throw off the dead tissue and indigestible food which, if retained, soon poison the blood and cause Indigestion, Headaches, Rheumatism, Neuralgia and aches, Rheumatism, Neuralgia and a bost of other distressing troubles. But there is a quicker way to stim-ulate the organs to do their work properly. Take one or two "Fruit-a-tives" tablets every night, besides eat-ing some fresh fruit every day. "Fruit-a-tives" combine the medicinal prop-erties-many times intensified — of oranges, apples, prunes and figs, with the best tonics and internal disinfect-ants added. Their action on Bowels, Liver, Kid-ter's own, but guicker and more ef-fective. Sold by all dealers-25c. for trial box-50c. for regular size — 6 boxes for $2.50. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

CRIMELESS IRELAND.

A clever cartoon in a recent issue of the Dublin Freeman's Journal gives a graphic picture of conditions prevailing in Ireland, and of which every mem-ber of the race at home and abroad should feel proud. It shows a crimeshould leef proud. It shows a crime-less Ireland, regarding with mingled curiosity and disgust an army of officials of the criminal law with nothing to do but grow fat on the plundered tax payers and speculate over the fact that there is nothing doing. There is a suggestion of uneasiness in the attitude of the "peelers," jailers and warders over this condition of affairs, but for the present, at least it would seem that in the direction of reducing the taxes by cutting down the numbers of this horde of idle and use-less officials there is also on the part of the government a policy of "nothing doing.

The Irish criminal statistics for 1907 furnish in themselves an interesting commentary in this connection. They show an all round decrease in crime in a country where the percentage of crime of a serious nature (except offenses of the political or so-called agrarian class largely manufactured and always exaggerated) has ever been notably low when compared with other countries. In all classes of indictable offenses, there has been during the year 1907 a fall of 3.2 per cent. The non-indictable offenses were 28,529 under the average for the ten years from 1897 to 1906. In drunkenness there was a decrease amounting to 11,985, compared with the average for the same past decade. This is certainly something for the people of Ireland and of the Irish race everywhere to be proud of. But with this subject. Notwithstanding that Ireland is now practically crimeless, the expenses of the machinery of the criminal law are still maintained at the same old normal figure. There is no sign of the large army of police being reduced in numbers. This military force, for it is nothing else, still num-bers about 13,000 men, fully as large numerically now, with a population of not quite four and a half millions, as it was when Ireland's population was eight millions. Jails throughout the country are being closed up for want of occupancy, but the government payrolls show no reduction in the cost of jail officials. The judges, in their assize

s of the ir early awaken land at is divid-sup pro-sh; the h plays large onderry, e small n, Kells well rery, and

, people. ming of the most is being of the rish life omedies, piration eland is t potent veral of invaded

Irish reon Irish ers, and year has f sound ises are sh literg in for ide Irish in Emer dealing avorable

al is the all over h-women ry little vith the octuals," lves in Ireland, f indivi-Ireland urchase

go on arming itself to the teeth, that millions should be spent on armies and profess republicanism, in economics socialism, and in religion, atheism." Belfort Bax loudly asserted that so-clalists "despised the other world with others should adopt and strive after a Christian ideal while we listlessly look on, or perhaps set it aside. When the all its stage properties, that is, the pres-ent objects of religion." He adds that as the religion of slave industry was Paganquestion of compulsory arbitration is in the air, when universal peace congresses are held, and when there is a vista of ism, so the religion of serfage was Cath-olic Christianity or Sacerdotalism. The New York Volkszeitung, the prin-cipal representative of scientific social-ism in New York State, wrote in 1901 possibilities opening up before us, it be-hooves us to watch the changes that are afoot, and the opportunities that may be presented. CHRISTIAN PRINCIPLES IN PRACTICE.

that socialism and belief in God, as taught by Christianity and its adher-ents, are incompatible; that socialism has no meaning unless it is atheistic. "There will be no wars if only people will put into practice the teaching of the Sermon on the Mount. It may be That socialism is hostile to religion, That socialism is hostile to religion, is shown, suggests Father Ming, in the classic declaration that "religion is a private affair" (Erfurt Programme). The for a week on the principles of that consequence of this is to deprive the Church, in a socialist code, of its lawful right. Church, in a socialist code, of its lawful rights and property, and to banish it in-to privacy where it is unable to defend itself when attacked as a social body. It practically takes the education of youth wholly out of the religious transformation of the internet relation is the relation of the internet relation of the internet relation in the relation of the internet relation internet relation in the relation internet relati Atheism, meanwhile, is given every opportunity of progressing in public. A representative social-democratic trade-paper of Germany, namely, the "Zim-tion of a religious order, and he was struck with admiration of the system under which they work. He wonders whether a similar organization of Protestant teachers might not be possible. The practice of celibacy, he recognizes, makes the economic problem simpler. but he thinks that devotion to the work of teaching, without any mercenary motive, is the mainspring of such a community, and that this might be found even among married men. He does not feel sure, however, for he adds that the principle on which the Christian Brothers act, of "doing all for the glory of God" may be essential to the succe of the system.-Casket.

PROTESTANT PRAISES NUNS.

It provokes thought, occasionally, to look at conditions away from home and then look about and note what is taking place in one's neighborhood. Over in France they are preparing to expel more nuns from their convents. In this country distinguished Protestants are publicly commending the work of Cathoic sisterhoods.

The latest to do so is Judge David J Brewer, associate justice of the United results of the Higher Criticism.' States Supreme Court. In a lecture a few days ago delivered at Haverford College on "Our Duties as Citizens," he deliberately declared :

Whatsingle organization has done 'more for the an than 'the Catholic Church? What one, ugh hospital and asylum, more for the sick and cted? If you were to select a single face and has typical expression of the great thought of ity and kindness whose would you select other the face and form of a Sister of Charity?" As poet has said in a poem entitled 'The Little "America"

'Amid the city's dust and din Your patient feet have trod ; Wherever sorrow is or sin ' You do the work of God.

You seem in many a shadowed place A glory from above The peace of heaven is in your face, And in your heart is love.

Your brow's lined with other's cares, And aches for other's need;
You bless the dying with your prayers, The living with your deeds.
" In times when epidemics rage, when death seems to haunt every city home, who are the devoted ones to risk their lives in caring for the sick and paying day, when he met a parishioner coming with horse and cart from the market town. In the cart he caught sight of the outline of a man appar-ently lying on his back, but covered from view by some bags. Sus-

and the inevitable slight dizziness which the strongest head feels may make one doubt for a moment whether what is really the floor below may not in reality be a ceiling above, and whether one's sense of gravitation be not inverted in an extraordinary dream. At that distance human beings look no bigger than flies, and the canopy of the high altar might be an ordinary table.

A KINDLY EYE FOR HIGHER

CRITICISM.

miracle as may seem to him best.

affirmative is a proper answer to the parted from you, but with another splendor that will outshine the sun. Bear you then, with patience the separation that has given him not earthly, but heavenly royalty. Bear it in order that you may find it again among the blessed inhabitants of Paradise."—Rev. John Price.

May my soul come to see Thee, O Lord, in Thy Heavenly Sion !

affirmative is a proper answer to the question, "Shall we know our own in heaven ?" St. John Chrysostom consoled a deso-Therasius, "You will find your hus band again not only possessing the beauty of body which he had when he parted from you, but with another as heavily and with just as grinding force as ever upon peaceful and depopulated Ireland.

ere is nothing

doing

nd that t

IRISH PICTURE POST CARDS. - Miss Catharine McInerney, of 233 Catharine street, n., Hamilton, is prepared to fill orders for Irish picture postcards. We have seen some of the samples, and the work is really excellent. See advertisement.

FIVE-MINUTE SERMON. Thirteenth Sunday after Pentecost

HORROR OF MORTAL SIN. " As He 'entered into a certain town, there ime Him ten lepers, who stood afar off and lifted up their voice, saving, Jesus, Master, have mercy on us." (St Luke xvii. 19)

One of the comparisons we most fre quently meet in Holy Scripture is to call sin-mortal sin-the leprosy of the soul, because sin, in its effect on the soul, very much resembles the devasta-ting and blighting effects of leprosy on the body.

Leprosy in olden times, and to-day where it exists, is one of the most loath-some of all diseases. It is con-tracted by contact with persons infected by it, and once one is infected by it it gradually poisons the whole system. The various mem-bers of the body, as the touch of poison comes to them, slowly fester, rot, and then shrink away. There is no power in medicine to cure or even to alleviate this terrible disease. Once the disease attacks its victim he is beyond the skill of man. To prevent the infection spreading to healthful persons, the lepers were cast out from human so-eiety. They were relegated to a spot by themselves, and by law were not allowed to come near to any one. Leprosy in olden times, and to-day

So the lepers in the Gospel "stood afar off and cried out." They did not dare to come in contact with any one, and did others approach them un-awares they were obliged to cry out that they were unclean. So that they were exiled from society, home and all the joys of life to exist in a living death. What a horrible sight it must have been to be with our Lord and see these ten lepers—living sepulchres that they were—afar off raising their handless arms in attitude of supplication and crying out with tongues that were nearly devoured and lips that were pol-luted with the terrible disease, "Jesus, have mercy on us !'

What leprosy is to the body that sin is to the soul. Like the leprosy, sin is contracted by contact with sinners or by going into temptation. It is by touching the pitch the sinner becomes defiled. Once the poison of sin enters into the soul it steals away all its beauty and innocence.

The innocent soul in health is mistress of her own energies. She calms the risings of rebellious nature. She keeps in check the inclinations to evil. The tranquility and peace of conscience that one enjoys are but the vigor and strength that comes in the possession of long health. But the contamination of leprosy enters in, and she who was mistress of the fairest kingdom on earth become a slave to the passions, degraded, des-titute, and powerless in the midst of a thousand foes. She loses the peace that comes from union with God. She is de-prived of her relish for prayer. There is taken from the that the state of the state of the state to be the form the state of the sta is taken from her that sense of the awful judgments of God. This is but the beginning of the terrible have sin makes on the soul.

There are secondary stages in the dis ease, when the sinner becomes so pos essed with his defilements he no lor Ands pleasure among the innocent. He has made himself an outcast from God, he now shuns all that is good. The cor-ruption seizes on all his faculties and powers. His mind can think of naught but sin, his desires are for lower and still lower sensual gratifications, his imagination becomes filled with all foul-ness, and one by one the heaven-born gifts that were his in the health of innocence, fester and rot away, so that he takes on corruption and it enters like water into his flesh and oil into his

Externally he goes about his daily routine of duty, but his external show covers but a mass of rottenness. Oh, dear brethren ! has this awful leprosy been yours—have you gone into the dark and slippery path and thus contracted this terrible disease? If so there is for you only one remedy. No human power can stay the progress of He has the sorrows of hundreds brought the evil. It is the divine touch alone that ean heal you. It is the divine to the divine lips only that 'can say to you. "Be thou

Cranmer's substitute for it was prin-cipally an expurgated Litany, the psal-mody of David and the Te Deum. Never perhaps since the Reformation was these pump mean abampinglumest were these sung more charmingly and "tear compellingly " than at the open-ing and close of the Pan-Anglican congress, but a Miserere, however witch-ingly sung, or St. Ambrose's great hymn, or the grandest alleluia chorus ever or the grandest alleluia chorus ever composed, is but a mess of pottage when offered in exchange for our Catholic birthright, the Eucharistic Sacrifice. It was no dobut a majestic sight to see two hundred Anglican prelates, proceed-ed by mace bearers, bringing their gold like the Magi from afar and solemnly depositing it upon the high altar of St. Paul's until the accumulating flood swelled into a grand total of nearly $17,000,00 but the truth remains that one consecrated host uplifted in the one consecrated host uplifted in the hands of the poorest and humblest priest in the Catholic Church is in God's sight an infinitely more sublime spectacle "We feel constrained thus to put of

"We feel constrained thus to put on record our disappointment that as far as the members of the congress addressed themselves to the all important matter of Divine Worship they should have chosen to approach the throne of the Most High after the manner of Protest-ant Enizonalians rather than as inheriant Episcopalians rather than as inheri-tors of the ancient Catholic traditions of the Church of England.

"The Catholic remnant in the Angli-can Church for seventy-five years has battled hard for the restoration of the Mass to its rightful place in public wor-ship, and withal wonderful has been our ess, but can we reasonably entertain success, but can be reasonably entertain the hope that with one voice the Angli-can Episeopate will again proclaim the true doctrine of the Mass, or with unity of faith celebrate the Eucharistic mys-teries in a truly Catholic manner until we recover that union with Rome, the loss of which was the initial step to the throwing down of our altars and the casting as into a corner of the Sacrifice of the Mass?"

THE PRIEST.

He stands at the foot of the altar in his snowy vestments, his altar boys around him; he ascends the altar steps Without him there would be no Mass ns, no commu

Of all that great churchful of people at last Mass he is probably the only one asting. The rest had their fragrant coffee, their Sunday morning's breakfast hours ago. That is a long fast. Try it hours ago. That is a long fast. Try it some Sunday. It will give you a head-ache, make you feel half sick—but try it, anyway. He stands at the altar alone. Other men have come from home where wives and children await them he put that possibility away from him ears ago. Other men meet on the streets, stand nd chat, argue politics and so on by the

Other men go to theatres, clubs, musements; his calling shuts him off rom all that. Other men choose their place of resi nce, their associates ; he goes where he is sent.

How different from the rest of the orld he is in the confessional. When we are sick or worried or an oyed we speak sharply even to our dear nes and find ready excuse for ourselves for so doing. Suppose he allowed such things to make him short and irritable with us when we go to confession ?

We get out of patience, disgusted with people when they will not do as we think they should. What if he became disgusted with us when we go to him week after week, or month after month, with almost the same story of weakness when people will not do as we want hem to we leave them alone after a while to go their way. What would become of to him. Think you that his heart is no

THE CHURCH OF ROME THE CHURCH OF HISTORY. An English Protestant, Mr. Georg

L. C. Page & Company, had their offices opposite the South Station, they march-ed in a body across the street, the band ampson, recently reviewing Ranke's History of the Popes" in the London in the meanwhile playing the most horrible and heartrending dirges. The Daily Chronicle, wrote as follows on the Catholic Church in European history : "It is a simple fact that in the history demonstration was cut short by the tactful attitude of one of the company's editors, who conferred with the leader of Europe the Church of Rome is the Church of the centre, the other bodies of the Orangemen and explained that of the Orangemen and explained that, although the title might appear offensive, the heroine, "Anne" had hair of a distinct orange hue. On hearing this explanation, "Anne" was adopted as their mascot, and the party proceeded on their outing in high glee.—The Boston Republic. eing merely provincial institutions The church of history is not the Church of England, nor the Wesleyan Methodist Connexion, nor the Society of Friends, nor the Union of Ethical Societies. The church of history is the Church of Rome as Newman asserts in the passage where he sadly admits that the 'unbeliever Gibbon' is our only worthy ecclesias-tical historian. But I will go further, and say that the church of English his-tory is the Church of English history is the Church of Rome; for it gave us our cathedrals, set the form of our prayers, marked out our parishes, taught us our duty to the poor, nursed ou. laws and our learning, won us much of our iberty, and laid the foundation of ou last four centuries of progress. With-out knowing something of this great hurch, you can understand very little of English history, and to minimize the istoric importance of the Papacy because you happen to be a Protestant is as stupid as to minimize the historic mportance of The House of Austria because you happen to be an Englishman.

there was crying need. Mr. Burns' five daughters entered religion, and after his death, in 1871, his wife also went into a convent. His son William had already become a priest, and was exercising the ministry in Spanish Place London, the nearest church, as it hap-

Write for particulars to Head Office, London, Ont. zeal for its progress that after his con-version he refused to issue any but Catholic books, of which at that time JOHN MILNE, Managing Director A New Book by Father Lambert One Year's Growth Christian The strength of a bank is tested

THE CATHOLIC RECORD

that can need to you. only that can say to you. elean." Like the lepers in the Gospel, as you come into the presence of our Lord in the Church cry out to Him from afar "Jesus, Master, have mercy on us !" He will listen to your cry, and but his heart is human, after all, and gratitude and appreciation are, without the priest for what it is his duty to be so much of it in religion. The determination to throw off all authority in religion seems to grow with authority in religion. Creeds must have no authority, the consensus of opinion

THE MASS.

The Lamp, the organ of the High Church party in the Anglican church, commenting on the late Pan-Anglican congress, whilst commending the liberal-ity and widespread interest of the as-sembled dignitaries, complains of a noted want of devotion to divine warehin want of devotion to divine worship especially that of the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. Here is how the writer vividly draws the contrast : "The crowning feature of the service was the presentation on the high altar of the cathedral by two hundred and five Bishops present of the united offering of the Anglican faithful, which amounted to £335,000 sterling. But where was the devotion of this vast assemblage to the Real Presence of Jesus Christ, Body, the Real Presence of Jesus Christ, Body, Soul and Divinity, in the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass? Where did they give public expression to his desire before the eyes of the world in unmistakable fashion? There were indeed numerous celebrations of the Holy Eucharist in London churches during the session of the accuracy but with the accountion of the congress; but with the exception ertain high Masses in a few well known ritualistic churches on Sunday they ware confined to low celebrations and were attended to low celebrations and were attended by scant congregations. The reporter of the English Church Times attended the 8 o'clock Mass at Westminster Abbey on the morning when the congress opened and he found no more than a hundred persons pres-ent. ent.

THE RESULT OF THE BREACH WITH ROME.

The first notable act of her reformers after the Church of England ceased to b 2:a. Catholic was to dethrone the Mass from its position as the supreme Sacrifice of the Christian altar, the all-prevailing Act of Divine Worship ; and The first notable act of her reformers relation which exists between the priest and his people all are equally bound before God ; he " so to watch as to give an account of our souls ;" we to profit with the greatest care and faithfulness by what God sends to us through him. St. Francis de Sales says that we should regard our priests " with a revernce that does not diminish our aff and an affection that does not diminish ur reverence.'

A priest once promised a certain woman that a favor from God should be granted her. He promised it "in the name of God." It was granted. A dear Protestant relative to whom that woman told the circumstance said : "As God's minister and representative, he stands in the place of God to you. When he in the place of God to you. When he promises you a thing 'in the name of God' it has to come true." Wonderful answer from a Protestant ! Wonderful consola-tion to us, when " in the name of God " the prior transmission product the prior transmission." the priest pronounces the words of abso lution over us and bids us "go in peace." In his care and watchfulness over u we have a type of the loving care of the Father who gave him to us. In the sacrifices he makes for us there is a symbol of the infinite sacrifice of One who humble follower he is, and from Whom he receives whatever beauty of character he possesses, as the tiny pool reflects the glorious sun. In his wisdom and knowledge for us there are shown the workings of that spirit of truth and holin om the Father promised to send in His Son's name unto His Church.

Never in this world shall we realize what we owe to the priest. We are too no authority, the consensus of opinion formed after a conflict of ages must have no authority ; beliefs which made epoch in history and produced generations of heroic men and women must have no authority, the mighty men of the past who changed the face of the world must have no authority, the lawgivers of Israel must have no authority, Jesus Christ must have no authority, except such as belongs to other sages, and these have no authority, the Bible must have no authority, nothing must have author ity except the opinion of the man ex pressing it, and he must be at liberty o change the opinion before noon. Journal may be called to pass upon the ness of a candidate for ordination t must have no authority to conside he beliefs which he holds. * * * 1 this is not anarchy in religion, then there never has been anarchy nor ever will be or can be. And if anarchy is to be treated, this is the place to begi It is useless to denounce the anarchy the man who is haranguing on the stre corner while supporting a more funda mental and destructive form of it in the pulpit .- The Advance !Congrega ionalist.

A Convert's Opinion.

Here! is what Father Robert Hugh Benson,'a convert, and the son lof the late Dr. Benson, Protestant Archbishop of Canterbury, says about the Catholic Church: d'8318 The Church promises a great deal, ut my experience is that she gives ter what we owe to the priest. We are too full of our own wants and needs and we take our blessings too much for granted thick a great deal about it.

the per packet, or 8 packets for 500 will last a whole season.

Hill them all. No dead files tying about when used an directed

DEUCCISTS, OROCERS AND GENERAL STORES

PURE AND WHOLESOME.

ONE POUND CAN 250

E.W. GILLETT COMPANY

TORONTO.ONT.

The strength of a Life Company is tested by its ability to grow in

Last year the New Basiness of amounted to $7,081,402-a gain over 1906 of $1,577,855 bringing up the total insurance in force to $51,091,848-a gain over 1906 of $4,179,440, and yet the operating expenses were just about the

The Company also made substantial gains over 1906-In Assets, $1,271,255; in Reserves, $966,221; in Income $171, 147 and in surplus $300,341.

Agencies in all the principal towns and cities in Canada. Head Office - WATERLOO, ONT. London Mutual Fire INSURANCE CO. OF CANADA. ESTABLISHED 1859. 398,633 16 448,816 02 862,906 30 Surplus. Security for Policy holders ...

Incorporated and licensed by the Dominion Government. Operates from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Con-servative, reliable and progressive.

MENEELY & CO. WATERVLIET, The Old Reliable Meneety Foundry, Established Menety Life Vars Reo. (West Troy), N.Y CHIME, CHURCH, C HEAD OFFICE, 82 and 84 King Street, TORONTO HON. JOHN DRYDEN. D. WEISMILLER, Sec. & Manag.-Director.

SEPTEMBER 5, 1908.

ed

ns

ensur-

io your

ife

DNTO

at !

that an

is wasted

Jasement

y, by un-

he build.

on. The

KELSEY

es is ex-

in the

School

at

nd

=

THE CATHOLIC RECORD

theatres

a college graduate, you will be a poor song, with all the rest joining in the CHATS WITH YOUNG MEN. A Great Getting-On Asset.

President Eliot, of Harvard says, " ognized but one mental acquisition as essential part of the education of a an essential part of the cuccutoff of a lady or gentleman, namely, an accurate and refined use of the mother-tongue." Sir Walter Scott defined "a good con-versationalist" as "one who has ideas, who reads, thinks, listens, and who has berefore something to say." To be a good conversationalist, able interest people, to rivet their attention, to draw them to you naturally, by the very superiority of your conversa-tional ability, is to be the possessor of a very great accomplishment, one which is superior to all others. It helps you is superior to all others. It helps you to make a good impression upon stran-gers. It helps you to make and keep friends. It opens doors and softens hearts. It makes you interesting in all sorts of company. It helps you to get on in the world. It sends you clients, patients, customers. It helps you into the best society, even though you are

No matter how expert you may be in any other art or accomplishment, you not use your expertness always and everywhere as you can the power to converse well. If you are a musician, converse went. If you are a musician, no matter how talented you may be, or how many years you may have spent in perfecting yourself in your speciality, or how much it may have cost you, only comparatively few people can ever hear or appreciate your music.

You may be a fine singer, and yet travel around the world without having an opportunity of showing your accomplishment, or without anyone guessing your specialty. But wherever you go and in whatever society you are, no matter what your station in life may be, vou talk.

You may be a painter; you may have spent years with great masters, and yet. ss you have very marked ability so that your pictures are hung in the salons or in the great art galleries, com-paratively few people will ever see them. But if you are an artist in conversation, everyone who comes in con-tact with you will see your life-picture, which you have been painting ever since you began to talk. Everyone knows whether you are an artist or a bungler.

An Indicator of Culture.

book you have read, every person who has conversed with you has influenced the quality of your conversation. You need to tell me whether you are educated or ignorant, whether or not you have been to college, have educated yourself, or have practiced high thinking. I can tell that by the quality of your conversation. The richness or poverty of your language will betray what your associations have been. You travels, the quality of your observation the variety of your experience are all reflected in your speech, pictured in the words you use. Nothing else will indicate your fineness or coarseness of cul-ture, your breeding or lack of it, so quickly as your conversation. It will tell your whole life's story. What you say, and how you say it, will betray all your secrets, will give the world your true measure.

istory of true measure. Most of us are bunglers in our con e Co. versation, because we do not make an art of it : we do not take the trouble or pains to learn to talk well. We do not

Poor

rtment

agents

a, Ont.

Director

for not trying to improve by saying that "good talkers are born, not made." We might as well say good lawyers, good physicians, or good merchants are born, not made. None of them would ever get very far without hard work. This is the price of all achievement that is of value.

with elegance, ease and power.

Arts.

rowth

k is tested

advice.

Brainy Men Dumb While Shallow Talkers Entertain.

Talkers Entertain. We all sympathize with people especi-ally the timid and shy, who have that awful feeling of repression and stifling of thought, when they make an effort to say something and cannot. Timid young people often suffer keenly in this way in attempting to declaim at school or college. But many a great orator went through the same sort of experi-ence, when he first attempted to speak in public, and was often terribly humili-ated by his blunders and failures. There is no other way, however, to be-come an orator or a conversationalist come an orator or a conversationalist than by constantly trying to express oneself efficiently and elegantly. If you find that your ideas fly from you when you attempt to express them, that you stammer and founder about for works which you are not be the for words which you are unable to find, you may be sure that every honest effort

you make, even if you fail in your attempt, will make it all the easier for you to speak well the next time. It is remarkable, if one keeps on trying, how quickly he will conquer his awkward-ness and self-consciousness, and will gain ease of manner and facility of ex-

Everywhere we see people placed at : tremendous disadvantage because they have never learned the art of putting their ideas into interesting, telling have never learned the art of putting their ideas into interesting, telling language. We see brainy men at public gatherings, when momentous questions are being discussed, sit silent, unable to tell what they know, when they are infinitely better informed than those who are making a great deal of display of oratory or smooth talk. People with a lot of ability, who know a great deal, often appear like a set of dummies in company, while some super-ficial, shallow-brained person holds the attention of those present simply be-cause he can tell what he knows in an nteresting way. They are constantly humiliated and embarrassed when away rom those who happen to know their real worth, because they cannot carry on an intelligent conversation upon any topic.—O. S. M. in Success.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS.

A STORY OF SIX HOURS.

Every experience of your life, every Shipwrecked, eh? Well, no, I've never been shipwrecked yet ; but I was once a good deal nearer it than I ever want to be again : and if a man's hair can turn gray in a single night, as some folks say it can, that night's work ought to have turned mine as gray as a badger. It was my fourth voyage, and we were homeward bound, from Bombay to were homeward bound, from Bombay to Southampton, with a full number of passengers. I was only a youngster then, and, like all young hands, I'd a great longing for a taste of " the perils of the sea," and all that sort of thing. But when I did get a taste of them, as you'll see presently, I didn't like 'em quite as well as I expected. We were several days out from Bom-bay, and it might be about two hundred and fifty miles from the isle of Socotra, which lies in between Africa and Arabia which lies in between Africa and Arabia as I dare say you recollect. I was fourth officer that voyage, by the by. The weather had been splendid from the very first, and looked like staying so right through. All the people who had been sick were getting quite brisk read enough or think enough. Most of us express ourselves in sloppy, slip-shod English, because it is so much easier to again, and everybody was as jolly a do so than it is to think before we speak, could be.

make an effort to express ourselves About seven o'clock one fine evening ve were all on deck, watching the sunconversers excuse themselves set, and calculating how soon we should be in the Red Sea, when my attention was attracted by our third officer, Harry Lee, who was a special chum of mine. He was a slim young fellow, not much older than myself, but cool as a cucumber and brave as a lion. I was just going to have a word with him, when I saw him lift his head and begin snifting the air uneasily, like a startled You Can be a King in This Art of deer. Then he slipped down the ladde I know a business man who has cultileading from the hurricane deck into the waist, and went hither and thither I know a business man who has culti-vated the art of conversation to such an extent that it is a great treat to listen to him. His language flows with such liquid, limpid beauty, his words are chosen with such exquisite delicacy, taste and accuracy, there is such a re-finement in his diction that he charms everyone who hears him speak. All his

"My uncle went out to fish one day, When 'twas just getting dark. And something pulls so hard at his line That he thought he'd hooked a shark. Instead of a shark twas the hull of a ship That had sunk there a year before : But just as he'd got it the line broke short, And down went the ship once more."

It did send a shudder through us all I can tell you, to hear them so merry and singing so carelessly about ship going down, and all that, with death gaping for them all the while. But there was no time to think of it just then. Well, the captain called up our men and told them there was a fire in the fore hold and that the sooner they put it out the better. He said it so lightly and cheerily that you might have thought the whole business was a mere trifle, and that they had nothing to do but to go and quench the fire at once. And as he finished speaking I saw that he had bitten his lower lip until it bled To work we went, then, one and all We knew better than to take off the hatches and let in the air upon the flames, so we cut holes in the planking and trained the nozzle of the hose-piper planking and trained the nozzle of the hose-pipes through them. Then we began pump-ing away with all our might. But just as the work was in full swing, two of the passengers— young fellows just married, who were going home on leave—came on deck suddenly and saw at the first glance what was going on going on.

"Gentlemen," said the captain, going up to them, "we didn't expect you here just now; but since you are here, you must please stay and help us. We can't let you go back now."

One of them agreed at once ; but the other begged hard to be allowed to go and see his wife before he began. How-ever, the captain wouldn't hear of it, so at last he went and fell to work alongside of his comrade, and they both stuck to it like men right on to the end.

But, work as we might, the fire seem-ed to gain upon us, and between ten and eleven at night the hatches had to go. The moment they were off, up spouled a roaring jet of flame twelve feet and more about the deck, with such fury that I began to lose heart, for there seemed to be no chance of mastering that. But we weren't at the worst of it yet, for all at once I saw our chief officer turn as pale as death, and he gurgled out, as if the words choked him, "thegun-powder. go through those six hours a David Ker in Our Young People.

When I heard him say that, it turned me quite sick and faint, for I knew well enough what he meant. In that very fore-hold, and close to the place where the fire was at its worst, there were eight ammunition cases, containing eight ammunition cases, containing powder enough to blow the whole ship to bits. For a moment we all stood like so many statues; but just then we heard old Captain Weatherby's voice, clear and cool as ever. The content of the struck by the evidence of a desire on the part of many per-sons, Catholics included, to gain heaven at the least possible cost of personal effort. The Catholic of this type is anxions rather to know what things he is strictly obliged to perform or to and cool as ever. "I won't order any man on such a job tugged them out of their places one by one, while the men on deck kept pouring

HALF-HEARTED SERVICE.

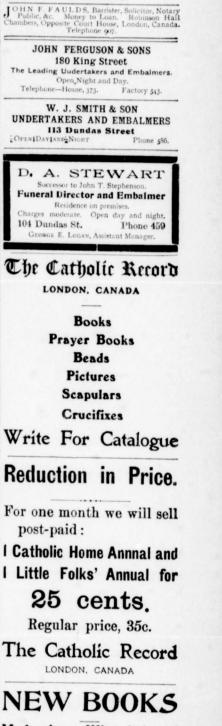

The Catholic knows better than this up on deck. We had hard work with the fourth and fifth, but we managed He is fully aware that there are obligathe is fully aware that there are obliga-tions laid upon him by his religion which he must comply with. These are a burden and an annoyance to him and them at last, and then the sixth and seventh. When it came to the last, I felt as if something must happen then ; the performance of his religious duties but up it went, and presently I found myself on deck again, hardly knowing how I got there, scorched and bruised brings him no pleasure. He would much rather that the duties were not to be how I got there, scorched and bruised and half choked, and black as a sweep performed. So he sets about getting rid of them as far as he can.

from head to foot. It was nine at night when we began The obligation of fasting, and perhaps, sometimes, of abstinence he reason does not bind one in his situation; so h to pump; it was three in the morning before the danger was fairly over. The gets rid of that. He finds it difficult t attend Mass on Sundays sometimes an passengers knew nothing of it until it was all done, and then we made as light of it as we could. But I can tell you he argues that the inconvenience he argues that the inconvenience is sufficient to excuse him altogether. Soon he neglects Mass without any scruple even when he could easily comply with his obligation. He has passed the line beyond which he had at that, although I am not more of a coward than other men, I don't think anything on earth could tempt me to again. first thought he could not go. The rest is easy. He becomes an indifferent Catholic, one who is such only in name It begins with little things. The wish to gain heaven as easily as possible One is often struck by the evidence the grudging service rendered to God -the cutting off of all that was not absolutely required. This is the story of thousands. It is this foolish idea that we can somehow squeeze into heaven by a narrow margin that is beginning that is for all the store of the st avoid than to make any sacrifice what-ever for God or his fellowman. He is selfish, loves his own ease and cares

> The excuse often made for crooked Catholic politicians, that "they are no worse than the other fellows," is the stupidest that could be offered. On the lips of the ignorant it does not seem so out of place; but when one hears it from men who ought to know better, i begets righteous indignation .- Sacred

7

Modernism-What it is and why it is condemned. By C. S. B. Price, 15 Cents Saint Patrick-A Monograph in paragraphs.

By HUBERT M. SKINNER, PH. D. Introduction by

REV. FRANCIS CASSILLY, S. J. Price, 25 Cents ·

Ancient Catholic Homes of Scotland.

By DOM. ODO. BLUNDELL, O. S. B. Introduction by

as that ; but we might get that powder up somehow. Who'll follow me?" Down he went and he was hardly down before there were six of us beside him. We flew at the powder chests and only to have a pleasant time without breaking the law of God too seriously. Cause For Indignation

my weath Company

o grow in of

Re

Assur G. IADA

gain over up the total 1,091,848-a and yet the t about the substantial $1,271,255; acome $171, ipal towns da.

.00, ONT.

Fire CANADA.

$847.449 88 398,633 16 448,816 02 862,906 30 tes Coneet, TORONTO

EISMILLER, ag.-Director.

taste and accuracy, there is such a re-finement in his diction that he charms vereyone who hears him speak. All his life he has been a reader of the finest prose and poetry, and has cultivated econversation as a fine art.

conversation as a fine art. You may think you are poor and have no chance in life. You may be situated so that others are dependent upon you, and you may not be able to go to school of college or to study music or art and so that I caught was or college, or to study music or art, as you long to; you may be tied down to an iron environment; you may be tor-tured with an unsatisfied, disappointed ambition; and yet you can become an interesting talluer become in order "Fire." To try a man's nerve in real earnest, I don't think there's anything in the world like a fire at sea. A fire on land is bad enough, where you have a chance interesting talker, because in every of running away from it; but at sea, where you're hemmed in between fire on one side and water on the other, its like sentence you utter you can practice the best form of expression. Every book you read, every person with whom you converse, who uses good English, can nothing I can think of except the feel-ing you sometimes have in a bad dream

A noted society leader, who has been successful in the launching of debutantes in society, always gives this advice to her proteges, "Talk, talk. It does not matter much what you say; but chatter away lightly and gayly. Nothing em-barrasses and bores the average man so much as a girl wno has to be enter-tained."

But it's one good of such a shock as that when the first stun is over it braces you up at once. We all felt that our only chance was to keep cool and to do our best, and we drew ourselves to-There is a helpful suggestion in this dvice. The way to learn to talk is to talk. The temptation for people who are unaccustomed to society, and who feel diffident, is to say nothing themgether to do it. "Mr. Lee," said the captain quite cooly, though his hard old mouth was set like a trap as he said it, " the pas-sengers must know nothing of this, whatever happens. Just go aft and get them down into the saloon for some music, and then, as soon as you can get gether to do it. Solves and listen to what others say. Good reading not only broadens the mind and gives new ideas, but it also Increases one's vocabulary, and that is a great aid to conversation. Many people have good thoughts and ideas, but they cannot express them because of the poverty of their vocabulary. They have not words enough to clothe their away without being noticed, come here and lend us a hand.

and lend us a hand. Away went Harry accordingly, and presently we heard his voice down on the after deck as brisk and cheery as if there was nothing the matter. Down takeas and make them attractive. They presently we heard his voice do talk around in a circle, repeat and re-peat, because, when they want a parti-there was nothing the matter. beat, because, when they want a parti-cular word to convey their exact mean-ing, they cannot find it. If you are ambitious to talk well, you must be as much as possible in the society of well-bred, cultivated people. If you seclude yourself, though you are

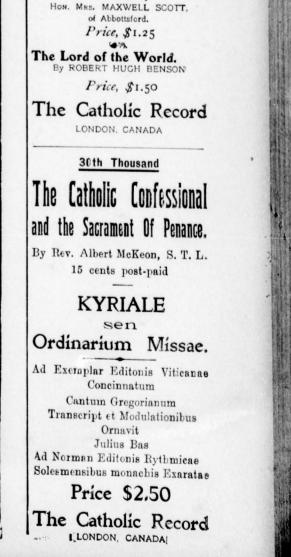

ATEST STYLES We are Tailoring Specialists, and, apart from the question of

conomising your tailoring bills by obtaining your clothing straight from the World's Capital and the Home Country, it will pay you to get in touch with us. If you set any value upon efficiency of workmanship and the quality of material used in your Tailoring needs, then you would be wise in dropping a postcard to our Agents for Canada, as addresses below. By return you will receive a unique and wide selection of cloths representing the choicest and latest confections of the English woollen markets. With these will be found up-to-date Fashion-plates showing the latest styles, both London and New York, so that you may dress either in English taste or wear right up-to-date New York styleswhichever you prefer. Our business is a colossal one and world-wide, for by our system of self-measurement we are able to fit a customer living in the remotest part of the earth. This undertaking to fit you from your own measurement is backed by our unreserved guarantee to refund money in full where Mail Orders are not executed to your thorough and absolute approval. We invite you to write for our Free Patterns, Measurement Chart and Tape, and Booklet describing in detail the character of our business. All orders are executed on the following understanding :-- satisfaction to be given or cash in full to be refunded. We can save you 50 cents in every dollar.

(Dept. 58 J), 60/62 CITY ROAD, FINSBURY. LONDON, ENGLAND.

ddress for Patterns— For Toronto and East Canada:-OURZON BROS., c/o Might Directories, Ltd. (Dept 58 J), 74/76 Church St., TORONTO, Ont. For Winniped & the West I-CURZON BROS., o/o Henderson Bros. (Dept. 58 J), 279 Garry St., WINNIPEG. Please Mention this Paper.

WHAT THE CATHEDRALS TAUGHT THE PEOPLE.

8

An article, "Sermons in Stone," in the London Spectator (Protestant), considers the Cathedral of Laon, France, which is said to be peculiarly "the eru-dite Cathedral." The reason for this is given by the Spectator as follows: "All round her walls are carved figures that taught the layman, high and figures that taught the layman, high and low, of the early Middle Ages, most of what he knew about things intellectual. There are the seven Liberal Arts, plain to see with their symbols pointing out the sanctity of gifts of the intellect; there is the Erythrean sibyl who fore-told Christ's coming, showing the holi-ness hidden in profane learning; there is Philosopy, blindfold, with her ladder, a figure most eloquent to an age in is Philosopy, blindfold, with her ladder, a figure most eloquent to an age in which Boethius was so popular among all classes. And besides her special mission of teaching how all wisdom is the handmaid of faith, Laon is rich in such sculptures as covered all these early monuments of popular education. Looking up and down at the beautiful traceries of walls and towers, you have hard work to count the images of the hard work to count the images of the people were untaught in Scripture truths by the Church. The Church of truths by the Church. The Church of the Middle Ages is apprehended as a monstrous organization holding in bond-age the minds and souls of the people. The Church is charged with keeping the Bible hid safely way out of reach of the people, and the old fable of Luther's finding the Bible is still believed-though happily not any tlonger among scholars. The writer of this unsigned article Spectator leads us to infer that he believes the poor of the Middle Ages were better taught in religion and were better taught in religion and morals than the poor of today. He says: "It was because they preached the Gospel to the poor that these eathe-drals so dominated secular life in the Middle Ages, and not alone the hungry and naked poor, but the poor in wis-dom and intellect. The Church remembered, as in every revival she rememb-ers, that her strongest call to the world is in the call of the fisherman; and she considered, too, that an enormous pro-portion of those she had to teach were poor in all sorts of ways, and had to re-ceive a message they could understand. The sculptures and paintings that are a dead letter to our generation were veri-table lesson-books then. The poor were politically of no account ; they were depontically of he account, they were de-spised, incredibly ignorant, and irra-tional; the 'stormy people, unsad and ever untrue, of Chaucer's day, the 'many-headed multitude' of Shakespeare's. But the same class is a class of electors and suffragists now, when Revolutions and suffragists now, when the outdoors and Reform Bills have marked such astonishing stages in the position of the masses, and still they require to have a Gospel preached to them that they can Gospel preached to them that they can enough the significance of the saints and symbols that preached to them from the walls and windows of Laon Cathe dral. And it was no remote and unreal idealism that was preached to the ignorant and the sinners by the gracious figure who looked down on them from every height of the church. Notre Dame de Laon was not only the embodiment of eharity and tenderness in a rude age, the beautiful symbol of grace stronger than law, the advocate of the desperate, whose mercy saved those whom the justice of God would condemn, but she was a practical person who tolerated no evasions within her own domain. There is an amusing story in the annals of Our Lady of Laon which tells how certain wool merchants, in danger of ship-wreck on their passage to England in pursuit of wealth vowed great gifts to their patroness if she would deliver them. Safe on shore, however, they evaded their promise, aed were speedily overtaken by swift and severe judgment, for on their way back with distended money-bags they were robbed of both water and of the Hory and (John iii, 5.) The use of the word water plainly indicates the means of the new birth, and in all the ages past has been universally understood of baptism. "We word "man" does not mean a male. women from the necessity of baptism "Man" is only found in English versions. and has the force of "any one" or "one." In the original language of St. John the indefinite pronoun "Tis" is used, which is employed to designate any one. The language of Our Lord includes every human creature without regard to sex or age. To exclude anyone is to take an unwarranted liberty with the text. Jesus

There is no instance of infant baptism as such to be found in the New Testa-ment. But there is well-founded presumption that infants were baptised. We read in the New Testament that whole households were baptised, as those of Lydia, Crispus the jailer, and Stephanas, and it is probable that at least in some of them there were chilleast in some of them there were chil-dren. It would be something unnatural if the father of a family should make a complete change in his religious life and his children be excluded from it. Besides, Jewish converts would naturally seek to have their children baptis ed, for in the old covenant children were circumcized or solemnly dedicated were circumcized of solemnly dedicated to the Lord; if not the exclusion of their little ones would have been clearly stated to them, which is not the case. And, at least, baptism of infants is no-where forbidden in the Scriptures.

The continuous practice of the Church from the days of the Apostles is the best evidence that infant baptism was administered from the beginning and at the same time is an uninterrupted commentary of our Lord's intention and the meaning of His words. It is likely that a practice reaching back to Christ is a mistake or an unwarranted innovation. When Christ gave com-mand to baptise all nations we can rest assured that the scope and application of His charge was fully understood by the Apostles.

The fact that there is no precise in-stance of the baptism of an infant to be found in the New Testament militates no more against its necessity than does the absence of a precise text commanding Sunday to be observed and the Sab-bath Day of the old law set aside as no longer of obligation warrant anyone to conclude that such a precept was never given by Christ or by His Apostles. In both cases, the practice of the Church

WHY MEN ATTEND HER SERVICES-THE MASS AND THE CROSS AS CENTRES OF ATTRACTION. From the Wilkes-Barre Record.

"Shall we go back to Christ? If not, to whom ?" was the topic of a sermon delivered at the Plymouth, Pa., Metho-dist Church recently by the pastor, Rev.

THE CATHOLIC RECORD

INFANT BAPTISM.INFANT BAPTISM.PRECEPT FOR SAME FOUND IN THE NEW TESTAMENT.In answer to a correspondent who inquires if there was a precept for, or example of, infant baptism in the New Testament, the Rev. John Price writes in the Pitsburg Observer:the case ? Do we not know of brilliant lawyers and judges and professors and point in the New pliment ? For every Protestant elergyman in Christendom knows that the
pliment ? For every Protestant elergy-
man in Christendom knows that the
salvation as expressed in the words of
salvation as expressed in the words of water and of the Holy Ghost, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God".divine, a glorious blessing. And so I claim for my Lord his rightful dominion over all tabe works of His hands. We will law ther shrine ? But if it were true that she only held ignorant people, would not the criticism is not true."Another man will tell you that the fold. How often have you heard that ?divine, a glorious blessing. And so I claim for my Lord his rightful dominion over all the works of His hands. We will law they held ignorant people, would not enter into the kingdom of God"."Another man will tell you that the fold. How often have you heard that ?divine, a glorious blessing. And so I claim
for my Lord his rightful dominion over all
the works of His hands. We will hard best in the works of and honor and glory." His is the sceptre, His is the right, His this universal world.—Cardinal Manning.St. JOSEPH'S JUNIOR NOVITIATE, TORONTO.

believe that twenty generations can be worked upon in the same way? The scareerow method is bound to play out with the growing years. No, such ex-planations as we usually hear explain nothing. Her secret lies deeper. "The reason the Catholic Church succeeds, in spite of our misgivings, is because she is true to the central fact of revelation. She makes the death of Jesus the centre of her devotion and hard work to count the images of the Madoma, high and low, in vault and holding up her Baby, and treading the dragon under her feet." Then the Spectator goes on to tell some plain truths about the Cathedrals of the Middle Ages and their effect upon the lives of the people among whom they place among Protestant controver-sialists that in the Middle Ages the people were untaught in Scripter and work to count the images of the Madoma, high and low, in vault and unwarranted liberty with the text. Jesus also said : "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for to come to Christ, if they were to be re-fused baptism? As children share in the ordinances of Christ that apply the efficacy of redemption to their souls. The doctrine of original sin holds that who are born of Adam are infected to some some of the mass? What is the celebration of the Mass? age. To exclude anyone is to take an unwarranted liberty with the text, lesus f because the centre of her devotion, and also said: "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of God." (Mark x, 14.) Would it not be forbidding them efficacy of redemption to their souls. The doctrine of original sin holds that all who are born of Adam are infected if is what we call the celebration of the Lord's Supper. That fact is the prominently before the mind all who are born of Adam are infected with its guilt, unless by special privilege as in the case of the Virgin Mary. All born in sin need regeneration, and as children are born in sin, children need regeneration, and, therefore, regeneration is accomplished according to the express words of Christ. There is no instance of infant baptism sign of the cross. What is the last thing held before the eyes of a dyingCathholic? A cross. He comes into the church in childhood imbued with the death of Jesus; he goes out of this world think-here is one thing at least from which we ought to draw a lesson. If that Church has succeeded by magnifying the cross, "If the dark negations of these three schools that I have set before you are failures, 'to whom shall we go' but Christ : "All that is noble and elevating in "All that is noble and elevating in our civilization is there because He is there. If this world is to be regene-rated, it will only come through His 'words of eternal life.' Shall we, then, re-bealth Christ a D tit the the go back to Christ? Better still never leave Him."

ARCHBISHOP RYAN ON ANGLICAN REUNION.

His Grace the Most Rev. Archbishop Ryan, of Philadephia, thinks there may be a corporate union of Anglicans and Episcopalians with the Catholic Church in the near future. Asked for his views on the Anglican-Roman union which some ministers and laymen of the Protestant Church crystallized at a meeting in New York, recently, the Arch-bishop said :

"It is a continuation of a movement that has been going on for some time in England, aiming at a reunion with Rome. The movement existed here before the adoption of the open pulpit canon, but the passage of the canon seems to have hastened it." He was asked if the Episcopal clergy

METHODIST'S TRIBUTE TO CATHOLIC CHURCH. He was asked if the Episcopal clergy He was asked if the Episcopal clergy could be received into the Catholic Church in a body. "They are not priests. They would have to be or-priests. They would have to be or-church are priests, and when a number of them came into the Catholic Church their orders were recognized as valid. They came on the ground that concessions would be made to them in certain matters which were not essentials, but the matters of discipline, such as receiving communion under the forms and the marrying of elergy before ordination. Then there are the Syrians and Ruthen-

THE

WESTERN FAIR, LONDON.

NOTICE.

The Western Fair of London, Ontario, is e n to A. M. Hu

ons 15 cents :

Natural Religion.

Up through the mystic depths of sunny air I cried to God—" O Father, art Thou there ?" Sudden the answer, like a flute, I heard : It was an angel, though it seemed a bitd, - Richaro Le GALIENNE.

ARCHDIOCESE OF OTTAWA.

LEMN SERVICE FOR DECEASED PASTORS .- RICHMON

REMEMBERS HER SHEPHERDS OF THE PAST

REMEMBERS HER SHEPTENES OF the PAST On Thursday, August 13th, there took place in tichmond, Ont, a celebration quite unique in these arts. It was a Solemn High Mass for the repose of he souls of the deceased pastors of that place. Then rere a number of the neighboring priests present and Large concourse of people from all the surrounding arishes. The solemn service was chanted by Rev lather Browning, the present pastor of Richmond fe was assisted by Rev. Fathers Cavanagh and Fa-ters and the late of the service of conference of the sole of the second second second second second fe was assisted by Rev. Fathers Cavanagh and Fa-Th

r the service in the church the clergy and r the service in the church the clergy and repaired to the cometery, where a beautiful nonument, erected over the grave of the late r O'Connell, was unveiled. The monument is ndid Celtic Cross of grey granite with elabor-arvings of the ancient Insh interlace work, suitable to the occasion, addresses were made letion. This will be glad news to all English scholars, nee the appearance of Father Denifle's great 1 German, have been wishing for an authori neilsh translation.

me over with the Highlanders who settly , He afterwards became first Bishop In the new village of Richmond a ru-ticture was built in 1822 and here Fath-iated at the services held from time was succeeded by Father Cullen in 18. Smith was the first to take up permane 1836. Father Smith was one of the mo-

Ottawa was formed. Father Smith went to Smith's ill's and remained under his own Bishop, the pre-ie in charge of Kingston diocese, Mgr. Phelan, till s death. Father O'Connell worked two years in achmond as curate with Father Smith, that is from 46 to 1848, and then took sole charge of this im-ense parish. In its primitive state Richmond par-hincluded most of the County of Carleton, extended to Lanark, and crossed the confines of Renfrew he present parishes of Almonte, Pakenham, Cork y, March and Fallowfield were then merely parts of extensive district.

OF CANADA TORONTO 8 King St. West F. E. KARN, Manager 394 Richmond St. Branches also at Melbourne Ilderton Thorndale NINETEEN BRANCHES IN ONTARIO Full Compound Interest Paid on Savings - Accounts of One Dollar or more -CURRENT ACCOUNTS SOLICITED Banking Principles MEN WANTED AT ONCE on sat ary and expense. One good man in each locality with rig or capable of handling horses to advertise and introduce our guaranteed stock and poultry specialties. No experience necessary: we lay out your work for you., isgs week and expenses. Position permanent, write , who died a year ago in Ottaw Junn in 1896, and he in turn w $25 # Write W. A. JENKINS Manufacturing Co., Lond DIED. -In Guelph, on the 13th of August, 190 Josephine O'Connor, of St. Joseph's cor on. May she rest in peace. of Mission Articles DOYLE.—In Toronto, on July 24th. 1998, at the re-lence of his son, Mr. J. J. Doyle, 504 Queen str West, Mr. John Doyle, aged ninety years. May ly benefitted by ing your Mission lies from me LEHANE—On August 5th. 1958, accidentally killed on Muskoka Wharf, Norah, daughter of D. H. Le-hane, 330 Weilington street West, Toronto. May her soul rest in peace. ANDY. An English Edition of Denifle's "Luther and Lutheranism." erend Lawrence F. Kearney, O. P the Provincial of the Dominican of the Provincial of the Dominican of the Provincial of the Dominican set. St. Joseph in the United States, has been for a singular the rights to an English edition of the umental Work of the Lamented Dominican set and historian, Rev. Henry Denifle, O, P, on " L and Lutheranism." The translation will be max Rev. Albert Reinhart, O, P., a priest of the Pro of St. Joseph. Father Reinhart has already b the work, which will be pushed steadily to its pletion.

TEACHERS WANTED.

WANTED LADY TEACHER WITH NORMAL professional certificate. Must know French and English. Salary $400. Duties to commence 1st Sept. Address Rev. E. Tourangeau, Steelton P. O. Ort

WANTED A TEACHER FOR S. S. NO. 6. Mon buties to commence at once. Reply stat and qualifications, to Edward L'Eveque, Maynooth, Ont, WANTED CATHOLIC TEACHER WITH second class certificate for school section No. 2, Gurd and Himsworth. Salary §350 per year, Address Casper Verslegers, Sec. Trout Creek, Ont. 1539.ft GOOD CATHOLIC TEACHER WANTED IN Separate school for the opening of the school Cone room school for the opening of the sc One room school. Salary $550. Musi red. Apply by wire to Rev. F. Costion, es. Ont.

APPLICATIONS FOR EITHER SENIOR OR

SITUATION WANTED ELDERLY WIDOW LADY SEEKS

A postion as companion, amanuensis or lady help. State duties and salary. Address Mrs. Clapp Post Office Sarnia, Ont.

NTELLIGENT MIDDLE AGED PERSON keeper for a priest. Reference furnished A. O., CATHOLIC RECORD office, London O 1559.1.

V

wain Last " up An th ter a La

se ab su th in gr

gr

al cr th vi di

SEPTEMBER 5, 1908.

Charter 1854

Offering every accomodation consistent with Sound

MISSION SUPPLIES A Specialty made

Send in for prices and samples. You will be

J. J. M.

