The latest estimate of the Fall wheat crop in Alberta is placed at 8,000,000. This is in spite of the ridiculously small estimate by the Northwest Government, which shows only ten thousand or so acres of wheat in the whole of Alberta.

The statement that the new station was to be started early in July and completed by the first of December seems to have been premature. There are rumours that the Company may propose some further alteration of plans.

We regret to see by the Daily papers that Clayton Wright, son of Mr. A. M. Wright, Jeweller, of this town, has had his jewellry stock at Fernie, completely destroyed by fire. Mr. Wright had only recently opened business at Fernie.

SUPREME COURT.

The Supreme Court was opened on Tuesday, before Judge Harvey, and was continued on Wednesday and Thursday, the dockett being an unusually long one. Tuesday was taken up with the criminal and smaller civil cases; the civil action of J. M. Paul against the Western Packing Company occupied all of Wednesday; and most of Thursday was taken up with case of Green vs. the School Board.

King vs. Russel E. Crowe. The accused was charged with attempting suicide and pleaded guilty. In view of the circumstances attending the case the Judge allowed the prisoner to go on suspended sentence on giving bonds to appear when called upon. C. R. Mitchell appeared for the Crown.

King vs. Henry Rabe. Accused was charged with the theft of fence posts valued at $25 from Henry Boschee, a farmer south of the Cypress Hills. The prisoner was found guilty and sentenced to one month in the guard room at Maple Creek. C. R. Mitchell for the Crown. D. G. White for defendant.

King vs. Joseph Ouilette. The accused pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing a fur coat and a skirt, the property of Mrs. Blacklaws, of Maple Creek, and was sentenced to one month in the guard room at Maple Creek. C. R. Mitchell appeared for the Crown.

King vs. Frederick Sinnott. Accused was charged with stealing two horses from a man named Gilchrist residing south of Maple Creek. The prisoner pleaded not guilty and was remanded to the Maple Creek sittings of the Court on August 8th.

The civil cases were as follows:

Hassard vs. Clayton. Claim for $345.30 for the agistment and care of cattle and for an account. Judgment was given for plaintiff for $125 and costs and for defendant as to the balance since the expiration of the agreement. D. G. White was for plaintiff and O. W. Kealy for defendant.

Day vs. Weiss. This was a claim for $125 for the value of a horse taken by the defendant to which the plaintiff claimed to be entitled. Action dismissed with costs. O. W. Kealy appeared for plaintiff and D. G. White defended.

Conant vs. McLean. Claim for $58 for work done. Settled out of court. D. G. White for plaintiff; C. R. Mitchell for defendant.

Watson vs. Cavan. The plaintiff did not appear and the action was dismissed. C. R. Mitchell for plaintiff.

Nieman vs. Nieman. Action for alimony on ground of defendant's cruelty to his wife. Judgment for plaintiff and permanent order for $25 dollars per month. D. G. White for plaintiff; O. W. Kealy for defendant.

R. A. GREEN VS. MEDICINE HAT SCHOOL BOARD.

This was an action in which plaintiff, a Builder and Contractor, sued the School Board for $749.06 balance of contract price of the Montreal Street School.

The Board filed a counter claim for $1400, for omission and deficencies in the work.

Mr. D. G. White appeared for plaintiff and Mr. O. W. Kealy for the Board.

The principal witness called was Mr. G. G. Kerr, who was the architect for the building.

In the course of a lengthy cross-examination, by Mr. Kealy, the witness said there were several extras and altrations. The Board knew of the extras. In settling up with Green there were several cases where one thing was off-set against another

He did not give Mr. Green authority in writing to make alterations except in a few cases. The instructions were mostly given verbally. He had had 23 years experience in Toronto and several years here. He know all about local stones, and the School Board were quite aware of the difficulty of getting local stone to answer the specification, but he did not say Mr. Green could not get stone 24 inches long. It would make a difference to the contractor, small stones would be cheaper to get. It would make a difference in other men's tenders to have to provide stones 24 inches long. He had no papers now. All had been handed over to Mr. Cross for the school Board. The specifications allowed excess and omission when authorised by him in writing. He had some little trouble with Green. He could not give particulars, but he made him pull down and re-build part of a wall and had a little trouble with him about the stone. He had discussed two or three matters with the Board. He saw the building that morning. He did not see the cesspits but could imagine their state from the alteration made in flushing arrangement. He had objected to this all the time. That would account for their falling in.

They were seven feet less in depth, according to his instructions. He had it in a gravel bed and that was the place for it. At Dr. Smith's they made the mistake of going too low. It was about 24 feet but went through the different beds and went too low. He wanted to get into the gravel in the case of the school. By not going quite so deep it made a difference to the contractor. It made a difference to the others who tendered.

Witness was examined at length as to the quality of the cement used. He would admit that you could not run a pen-knife through good cement work. He thought the beam filling was put in between rafters. He instructed Mr. Green to do so and expected it would be done. He authorised, verbally, the chimneys being shortened when the roof was shortened. If his memory served him right it was about 2 feet 8 inches less than shown in plans. When they got to a certain height he told them to "top it off." He gave no authority in writing.

That saved the contractor a good deal did it?

It saved the contractor just a course or so; not worth mentioning.

I don't know the height now. I don't know what it might have saved the contractor. I have no idea how much it might have cost the Board in paying for something that wasn't done. I don't think the contractor himself knew anything about it. I told the men when to stop. I saw the concrete floors in the basement. I don't think they are very good. I could not say if it was concrete. I instructed a man to look after the laying of the concrete and so far as I know the specifications were carried out. The man was paid by the School Board. I think it was laid right, but it could not be right. Dust was now rising through children running over it. I saw the floor this morning, and it is not a good floor. I did not know until I had left the town that it was like this.

The poor floor might be caused by poor cement. There is no way of testing cement here. We can only go by the brand. I think the Alpha brand was used.

Replying to the Judge witness said a good floor could be made there now by picking off the top and re-coating one inch thick with cement.

In reference to the timber used, he said only a small quantity of timber other than B. C. fir was put in. Mr. Green got short of joists and as there were no more to be got he allowed other timber to be used, about a dozen joists.

There might be a slight variation of sizes in a few cases. There might be 15 cases, but they were strong enough. The width of the building was about 60 feet. Referring to a plan produced he said there were no measurements on it.

When did you give permission for the roof to be lower than specified.

I gave permission to Mr. Green to lower the roof at the time when I discovered he had not sufficient material there for the work. I did not give him written authority. I did not tell the Board about it. I did not think it worth while telling them about it. They did not know until they measured. I don't remember if it was to be 2 feet 8 lower. I don't think it would make any difference in the cost. Green allowed nothing for it. The walls were not lower. It was the ridge board. It meant lengthening the rafters and it made a larger deck. I figured it out and put one thing against the other. He had material of a certain length and we altered the pitch a little to make the material come in. If I had kept the building open while he sent to the coast for more material the weather would have injured the walls I had the building closed in. The alteration did not make $5 difference to other men when they were tendering.

Mr. Kealy sought to show that the height of the chimneys had been lessened twice, but this witness denied.

Mr. Green was examined by Mr. White. He contended that he followed the architects instructions and at the completion of the work the architect gave certificate of completion and the Board took over the building. No complaint was received by him within the 30 days specified in the contract.

Witness was cross-examined at considerable length by Mr. Kealy, especially as to the quantity of cement used in the basement floor, which it was alleged had broken up in various spots.

W. T. Williams, architect, J. H. Trimble and Mathew Peard, builders were called on behalf of the Board. Mr. Williams said he had compared the work with the specifications and found there were many omissions and, alterations. The basement floor was bad and would cost a large amount to put right.

Mr. White then called Christopher Sneider, Hugh Mainland and Fred McWain who mixed and laid the concrete and the cement in the basement. They all swore they laid it in proper proportions as instructed by the architect and the architect's representative.

Mr. Kealy then addressed the Court and, in the course of his remarks, contended that the "variations" were neither "additions" nor "omissions" and therefore were matters to be settled as between (the Board) and the contractor. His contention was that the contract contained a clause (no. 9) empowering the architect to vary by way of "extra or omission from the drawings or specifications," and the same clause also provides that "such authorisation is to be sufficiently proved by any writing or drawing signed by the architect. The contractor shall make no variation without such authorisation."

He contended that Kerr had empowered Green to reduce the value of the building, but in no case was there authority to Green to make an "extra" or an omission from the building. The contractor had no proper authority within the meaning of his contract to vary from the specifications in the manner complained of, and any such variation was to all intents and purposes a breaking of the contract. He also contended that no contractor could hide any illegal acts behind the architect. The substitution of inferior material for that required by the specification would be a fraudulent act.

Mr. White addressed his Lordship and put in minutes of the Board showing the Architect gave his certificate and the Board by resolution, took over the building on the 20th of March and made no objection until the 28th April by which time the 30 days had expired. He cited cases to show that the Architect's certificate is final. After thirty days, he contended, defendants were barred from making any complaint and his client was entitled to a verdict. The contractor did not know until the 16th June that the Board had any complaint. He argued that it was quite within the scope of the architects powers to alter specifications and that he need not consult the Board in the matter. As to the finality of the Architect's certificate he cited Peters vs. Quebec Harbor Commissioners in which it was held that the certificate of the engineer was binding and could not be set aside. He cited two other cases. In Macleod vs. Wilson it was held that the remedy lay against the architect who certified as to the work. He submitted the remedy did not lie against Mr. Green in this case.

The Judge said said the case resolved itself into a question of law. The variations were made under the instructions of the architect, and that left only the question of the floor in the basement. There was some evidence that this was constructed under the direction of the architect or his assistant. If the Board's claim had been made within the month it would have made a difference. As that was not done the contractor was entitled to the amount named in the certificate. He gave judgement for plaintiff for $569.41.

Mr. White pointed out that the extras amounted to $611.00.

His Lordship said no evidence had been adduced to that effect.

Mr. White said it was shown in the claim.

The Judge—That might be, but no evidence has been offered on that and it is too late now.

Judgement was accordingly entered for $569.41.

We understand Mr. Green will appeal for the full amount.

J. M. Paul for Himself and Other Shareholders vs. Kobold, McLeod Milne and Crawford.

All the parties to the action are members of the Western Packing Company of Canada.

The plaintiffs sued for an injunction to restrain the defendants from cancelling their shares in the Company, and from making a final call on shares.

The case lasted the whole day and up to nearly midnight and was then adjourned to Calgary for argument.

QUEEN'S CHOICE

By CAMPBELL MACLEOD

Copyright, 1905, by D. C. MacLeod

The jester bowed low before the throne. The king extended a much bejeweled hand. The jester bent over it reverently and slyly bit it. The queen laughed behind her fan and beckoned the clown to her side. He sank on the steps at her feet.

"This is my throne for tonight," he announced, gayly jingling his bells. "I shall surrender it to no one. For one night I shall speak only the plain, unvarnished truth, your majesty."

"One who would speak the truth, Sir Cap and Bells," replied the queen sagely, "must needs have some previous experience."

"Ha, ha!" chuckled the king, beaming at the vision at his side. "Well said, my lady. Previous experience, Sir Fool!"

Age jangled in the voice of the king; youth bubbled in the laughter of the jester. The queen unconsciously leaned on the arm next to the clown and closed her eyes for a moment to rest them from the bewildering sight before her. To be queen of one of the most splendid Mardi Gras balls is something to turn a girl's heart. But this one, to judge by her weary eyes—in spite of the magnificence surrounding her and in face of the king's open devotion—was bored. And the evening was only beginning.

The jester at her feet played with his bells and hummed "If Ever I Cease to Love" in time with the musicians far overhead. As he sang he watched the face of the queen. Suddenly she turned to him.

"Sir Fool," she said gently, "that air goes not with that get-up. Save your voice for 'Tell Me, Pretty Maiden.'"

"Would she listen if I told her, think you?" he whispered eagerly. "There has never been but one pretty maiden for me, your majesty."

"A maid is but a maid," the queen returned slowly, "and a man but a man, and love is but"—

"Everything!" the jester interrupted seriously. "Love is all."

The king called the second time, then had to touch the arm of the queen before she heard him. Two strange princes stood waiting to be presented. Behind them came a train of Cupids, Lohengrins and monks, each bearing a tray of compliments. The queen's eyes were big and suddenly bright. The king sat with his fat hand on his heart and listened to her bandying repartee with each in turn. The jester's bells were silent. He was attentively studying the queen's pink nails on the hand resting on the vase of magnificent roses near the throne.

"You should have been a queen," the king announced ponderously as the last troubadour moved off.

"You were born a queen," the jester whispered eagerly.

"This splendor shall always be yours," the king continued in business tones. "Everything shall be yours that money can buy. But you were fitted for a real throne."

"'Kind hearts are more than coronets,'" the jester sang softly to the air of "Under the Bamboo Tree." "And the truest throne is a throbbing heart, lady." The queen frowned at him impatiently and turned to the king, who was presenting two foreign generals, ablaze with decorations. No, she was not dancing, she told them. The king couldn't dance, and it flattered him that she was so well content on the throne beside him. The incident was full of significance. He had wealth, social position, everything but her, and now it seemed that his patience was to be rewarded at last. What woman could hold out in such a fight? The queen sighed and brought him back to earth. He turned eagerly to her. She was looking far away. Her thoughts, even to a casual observer, were far removed from this crowded ballroom.

"You sighed, your majesty," he begged humbly. "You share my throne. Let me share your trouble, whatever it is."

The queen laughed merrily. The jester touched his bells.

"Margot!" he whispered eagerly. "Margot!"

The queen ignored the appeal. A merry crowd of troubadours were approaching, and she paid for their compliments with a fire of smiles and pretty speeches.

"If you would marry me," resumed the old king suddenly when the crowd departed with backward bows and obeisance and they were alone save for the jester, whom he did not see, "you shall be queen in a palace as beautiful as even you could desire."

"Margot!" entreated the jester. "Love is everything!" The queen frowned at him impatiently.

"Marry me," pleaded the old king hoarsely. "You are not one who can stand poverty. Your mansion shall be a palace; your jewels shall rival a queen's."

"Marry me," whispered the jester, catching hold of the hand behind the rose. "Today I bought a house, Margot. True, there are but four rooms in it, but no place could be half so dear. You could transform it into a home, Margot. I have no jewels but those of my love to give you, Margot, but you know that is true"—

"You shall cruise in a yacht on summer seas," continued the deaf old king, "and all Paris and London shall rave of your beauty and your splendor."

"We could slip off together to the park," whispered the jester, "to listen to the band on Sunday evenings. Don't you remember what you told me under those moss draped trees that night?" The queen toyed with her fan and sighed. "I love you! I love you! I love you!" chanted the jester passionately.

"As my wife," resumed the king, "you will always be the queen of scenes like this." The eyes of the queen swept the house before her—tier upon tier of beautiful women in gorgeous gowns and jewels, men whose admiration and preference counted for a great deal, and, above all else, the atmosphere of wealth and culture and beauty. Could she afford to reject it all?

"I am old," the king continued sadly. "All that is left in life for me is you. Surely for the few years remaining—could you not share them with me? Think"—gently—"what it would mean—to you—afterward. I ask no love"—

"I am young," the jester whispered eagerly. "I love you. Things are beginning to change for the better with me. Can you afford to sell yourself, Margot, for gold? What are the king's millions to my love, Margot?"

Into the eyes of the queen a great light suddenly leaped, but she sighed again when she looked at the king. One by one the maskers were straggling up to say good night. Far overhead the musicians were playing again "If Ever I Cease to Love," the carnival air. The king bent wearily toward her.

"Shall I come for my answer tomorrow?" he asked patiently. Then, with fresh ardor, "You will not walk the world's way weeping when the coachman bids you ride, your majesty?" he questioned pleadingly.

"My love"—the jester's lips touched her hand—"if you choose the palace, who will keep my home?" The queen suddenly caught the clown's fingers with a thrilling grasp. Quick as thought he slipped a ring on the third finger of her left hand.

The king and queen had risen to depart.

"I shall come for my answer at 4 tomorrow," he reminded.

"Why—why not take it tonight?" the queen asked shyly. "I can never marry you, your majesty, because I am to wed another."

"To wed another?" the king faltered pitifully. "To—wed—another?"

"This is he, your majesty," the queen replied, turning to the jester.

"Think," the king pleaded. "Think"—

"The queen has thought," the jester announced in manly tones. And he knelt and kissed the cold hand of the king.

A Cheerful View.

When Ozias Ransome of Potterville saw the bill rendered by the physician who had ministered to his ills for three days in New York he puckered his lips and gave a shrill whistle.

"My stars, Ozi, you aren't going to give that man any such sum of money as that, now, are you?" demanded his wife, with much spirit. "You know it's extortion—you know"— But, to her amazement, Mr. Ransome placed his hands in his pockets and tipped back the hotel chair in a position that indicated peace of mind.

"Now, see here, Eudory," he said tranquilly, "I didn't sense it at first, but when you consider that in Potterville I'd have had to be sick most six months to run up a bill o' that size we've got something to be thankful for that I was took with that spell here 'stead of at home."

Mrs. Ransome pressed her hand to her forehead.

"But supposing you had only been sick those three days at home, and"—she began with a bewildered air, finding small comfort in her husband's reasoning—"why, then"—

"We've no need to suppose," said Mr. Ransome, with cheerful firmness. "We've got to take the decrees of Providence jest as they come. You dwell on the thought of my being saved six months in bed right in the heat o' summer."

Much More Powerful.

Professor Smith was once lecturing on natural philosophy, and in the course of his experiments he introduced a most powerful magnet, with which he attracted a block of iron from a distance of two feet.

"Can any of you conceive a greater attractive power?" demanded the lecturer, with an air of triumph.

"I can," answered a voice from the audience.

"Not a natural terrestrial object."

"Yes, indeed."

The lecturer, somewhat puzzled, challenged the man who had spoken to name the article.

Then up rose old Johnny Sowerby.

Said he: "I will give you facts, professor, and you can judge for yourself. When I was a young man there was a little piece of natural magnet done up in a neat cotton dress as was called Betsy Maria. She could draw me fourteen miles on Sunday over plowed land no matter what wind or weather there was. There was no resistin' her. That magnet o' yourn is pretty good, but it won't draw so far as Betsy Maria!"

A Russian Custom.

"That man," said the photographer, "owes me $20 for a dozen cabinets. I wish I dared to treat him as he would be treated in Russia.

"In Russia if you don't pay your photographer's bill he hangs your picture in his window upside down. Every Russian photographer's window has five or six of these reversed pictures in it, and there is always a little crowd of people outside craning their necks and saying:

"'Oh, that is Vasili Popoffsky. Won't he be ashamed!' 'And look at Anna Olinsky. You'd think she'd be able to pay.' 'Is that Senia Gogol there? It certainly is. What a pity!'

"Russian photographers, thanks to this unique method of theirs, have few unpaid bills. If only their method was in use here!"—Chicago Chronicle.

Matting.

Everybody knows how the casters of the bedstead, dressing bureau and other pieces of heavy furniture indent and finally wear out the matting under them. A correspondent of the Country Gentleman recommends making pads of heavy leather covered with calico or cretonne to place under the castors and prevent this damage. In buying matting allow fully six inches to turn under on each breadth. The ends should be hemmed like a carpet; then they do not ravel out. It is a mistake to think matting needs no lining. It wears much longer and treads better if the floor is spread with newspapers and these overlaid with a good carpet lining.

Mixing Mustard.

Put the desired quantity into a cup or basin, add a pinch of salt, make a small well or hollow in the center and pour in very gently as much milk as you require. With a small spoon mix it as you would a batter pudding, round and round one way until all the dry mustard has been worked. In this way it will be free from lumps and may be put neatly into the mustard pot.—New York Journal.

AIDS STUDY OF LIFE.

Italian Scientist Invents an Instrument Used to Observe Minutest Insects —Smallest Cells Shown.

Many times more powerful than the most highly improved microscope to which modern science is indebted for numerous important discoveries is the "bioscope," recently invented by M. De Gosparis, an Italian scientist, of the University of Naples, Italy.

This wonderful apparatus is a "long focus" microscope, designed, as its name implies, for the study of the phenomena of animal life in all cases in which it is impossible for the observer to get close enough to the object that is being examined, without risk of misinterpreting what is seen.

The powerful microscope of today is capable of revealing the inmost structure of minute beings that escape the sight, and of counting the number of cells, of which they are composed, but it is almost impossible to oversee with it the phases of the normal life, of such organisms.

How can it be said that observation of the normal life of an organism can be made when, in order to examine it, the investigator is obliged to bring within a fraction of an inch of such an organism an apparatus that cannot fail to frighten it?

In order to observe the normal life of microscopic organisms, another instrument is therefore necessary, capable of being used in cases in which the ordinary instrument becomes inadequate. It is such an instrument that has recently been brought to the attention of the world of scientists by M. de Gosparis, the great value of which discovery he sets forth and describes in a most interesting manner.

The "bioscope" is extremely simple. It is provided with a camera lucida to permit of the drawing of the objects observed. It consists of a tube with a rack provided internally with a system of achromatic objectives perfectly free from spherical ebarration, and with a wide field eyepiece.

The instrument is also provided with a system of mensuration of various arrangements for supporting diaphragms. At a distance of 15.5 inches, the microscope has a magnifying power of more than twelve diameters, say of 144 times the surface.

In the field of the "bioscope" the astonished eye of the observer perceives a new world—a series of scientific purposes.

BATTLE BETWEEN TWO ANTS.

Hatred, anger, joy, and love are depicted in the acts of the infinitely small; we distinguish their weapons and their wounds and observe their palpitating viscera through their sides, and see their minute bodies, in the last convulsions of the agony of death, trembling with a final spasm.

Ants furnish a particularly interesting field for observation. We see, in illustration, an ant making its toilet at the entrance of a formicary covered externally with lichens and mosses, and a battle between two ants.

Spiders are no less curious objects for observation. We may see, especially by aid of the bioscope, the somnolent leaping spider, at the moment at which it is leaping from a fissure upon its prey, and remark its preparations previous to leaping.

The struggle for existence among these small organisms takes on a character of almost human unsociableness. The smallest animals present themselves in the light of genuine monsters. Their rapid motions, evoked by no external cause, reveal their muscular power. The environment in which they live appears through the apparatus like a landscape with strange and fantastic forms, made attractive by multicolored plants, of which the transparent structure carries our thoughts into other worlds or toward the remote epochs of the prehistoric ages of our planet.

The "bioscope" is no less valuable for scrutinizing the life of aquatic animals through the sides of an aquarium, or even in their natural element. It permits of studying bodies submitted to high temperatures, electric discharges, etc.

In the domain of medicine it renders possible the observation, under a strong magnification, of minute lighted cavities (the larynx, ears, etc.), and of formulating a diagnosis in many cases that have up to the present been doubtful.

The "bioscope," therefore, cannot fail to give the sciences of observation a new impulse. It has the advantage over the microscope of not necessitating a knowledge of a special technique, delicate and difficult to acquire. In this respect it puts scientific observation within reach of the amateur, who, as there are many examples to prove, is not to be despised.

Valuable Eggs.

A moa's egg has been found in a mining district in Central Otago, New Zealand. There was a fall of earth in a dredging claim and presently the huge egg was seen floating uninjured in the water. The discovery is the more interesting from the fact that it is the second perfect moa's egg that has ever been found. The only other perfect specimen was unearthed by a man while digging in the alluvial soil at the Kaikours Mountains in the early sixties. This egg, which was nine inches in length and seven inches in breadth, was taken to England and sold for $500. Some idea of the size of these eggs may be gleaned from the fact that a man's hat makes an excellent egg cup for them.

Sitting Hens.

Never shut a hen on the nest. Let her be the judge. She best knows when to leave the nest and when to return. The writer every season sets from fifty to a hundred hens in barrels, with runs in front, as aforesaid, and never dictates to old Biddy what she shall or shall not do. It is very seldom that a hen misuses this privilege for us.—Cor. Farm Journal.

TABLE APPOINTMENTS.

The Small Touches That Should Never Be Neglected.

No matter how little or how elaborately she entertains a woman with natural taste rejoices in supervising in person the arrangement of her dining table, whether she employs a caterer or a single kitchen maid. There are deft touches that only the hostess can give to make a perfect whole, and many opportunities for originality and harmony are taken advantage of by her clever brain and willing fingers.

At the most modest little dinner possible the table appointments, though plain, should be the very best of their kind—the napery should be beyond reproach both in cleanliness and quality and the silver and glass bright and tastefully arranged, the salt and pepper pots should be freshly filled, the silver utensils placed in correct order at each plate and a pleasant light directed upon the table. All these things, small though they may seem, should be looked into by the hostess unless she can place more faith in her servants than she has in herself.—Pittsburg Press.

A BRITISHER IN FRANCE.

Incidents in the Life of Old Sir Edward Blount.

Old Sir Edward Blount, who has just died in England at the age of 96, was for nearly 50 years the managing president and controller of the Great Western Railroad of France. The railroad connects Paris with all the great seaports and naval strongholds on the northwest and western coasts, and in view of the fact that the Great Western lines would have been precisely those of most vital importance to the French Government and to the French nation, in the event of war with England, it speaks volumes for the confidence of the entire French people in his lofty sense of honor that he should have been allowed, though an Englishman, to retain this office of president so long. He was in control of the lines under King Louis Philippe, the second Republic, throughout the 18 years of the second Empire, and under the third Republic until about 10 years ago, when the Dreyfus scandal so upset people in France, shook to such an extent their trust in the honor of their closest friends, their relatives and their neighbors, that old Sir Edward, then 85, but still hale and hearty, was quietly recommended to resign the chairmanship of that railroad, which he had helped to build.

As a boy of 10 he witnessed the triumphal return of the first Marquis of Anglesey to his country seat of Beaudesert after the battle of Waterloo. He was an assistant private secretary of the great statesman, Canning, was a clerk in the Foreign Office when the despatches announcing the naval battle of Navarino arrived there, and he was obliged to copy them out for the king. He went to Paris in 1831 as an attache of the British Embassy there, but abandoned diplomacy for banking, established an Anglo-French banking house in Paris, and succeeded so well that when the railroad fever struck France he was enabled to finance the construction of the West of France Railroad.

Blount knew Talleyrand, dined at Versailles with Bismarck in 1870, and volunteered to act as British Consul without pay during the siege of Paris by the Germans and during the subsequent Commune insurrection, saving the lives of at least 20 Englishmen and Americans who had been condemned to be shot by the insurgents.

It was during that time, too, that as British Consul it fell to his lot to perform the marriage ceremony uniting Sir Richard Wallace to his French wife. This was, as it ultimately turned out, unfortunate, since it served to draw attention, officially and otherwise, to the fact that they were not married up to that time, and that their grown-up son, a gallant officer of French cuirassiers, who distinguished himself in the famous cavalry charge at Sedan, was illegitimate and incapable, therefore, of succeeding to the hereditary honors subsequently conferred upon Sir Richard by Queen Victoria.

Lady Wallace, owing to this tardy marriage, was barred from court in England and ostracised by English society. But when he died Sir Richard left not merely the whole of his vast property, but likewise his priceless art collection, to her, so that she might present the collection as her gift to that English nation which virtually had closed its doors against her. The collection is now a state institution, housed at Hertford House in London, and celebrated throughout the world as one of the most unique of art museums.

Sir Edward Blount never become naturalized, though he made his home in France for three-score years, but remained an Englishman to the last, the French honoring him for his sturdy independence and national pride in declining to secure French citizenship. His children and grandchildren have, however, married into the old French aristocracy. England honored him by conferring upon him the Order of the Bath. King Edward, who was fond of him, offering him a baronetcy, which he declined, wishing that there should be no other baronetcy in his family than the one held by its chief, his cousin, which dates from the reign of King James I., though the Blount family figures on the famous roll of Battle Abbey, its founder having been with William the Conqueror at the battle of Hastings.

Grand Nephew of Sir Rowland Hill.

Sir Clement Hill, superintendent of the African Protectorates, says the London Star, who, is is announced, will leave the Foreign Office next month, went out to Zanzibar with the late Sir Bartle Frere's Mission in 1872. Shortly afterwards, when the Sultan of Zanzibar of that period visited England, Sir Clement was attached to his staff, and his latest official employment has been the bear-leading of the present Sultan during his recent visit to London. Sir Clement rose to the position of chief of the African Department of the Foreign Office ten years ago, and has been superintendent of the African Protectorates since 1900. He is a grandnephew of the redoubtable Gen. Sir Rowland Hill, who was raised to the peerage after the close of the Peninsular war as Lord Hill of Almarez and Hardwicke, and who on his resignation of the appointment of commander-in-chief in 1842 was created a viscount.

Tiger Story From India.

A man living near the Village of Lucknow is reported to have had an extraordinary adventure in the jungle the other day. He had gone in search of two buffaloes that had gone astray, when he was attacked by a tiger. He was unarmed, except for a heavy stick, with which he fought until overcome by loss of blood, when he sank unconscious. At this moment the two buffaloes appeared. One of them stood over the wounded man while the other snorted and tosed his head. The man recovered consciousness and staggered to his feet, when the tiger made another spring at him. The beast was, however, received on the horns of one of the buffaloes and was so badly wounded that it turned tail and slunk away.—London Express.

A Searcher for Knowledge.

The rector was working in his garden and had commenced operations with a hammer on the wall, when a tradesman's boy stopped to look on.

Rector (to boy)—Well, my lad, so you want to learn how to train a grapevine?

Boy—No, I don't; I want to know what a parson says when he smashes his thumb.

HUMOR

HER GREAT DECISION.

What Happened When Sallie Called on the Tailor Who Knew.

Two young women had been discussing the undoubted firmness of character possessed by the one named "Sallie." "Your nose and chin," declared Jeannette, "denote great decision and executive ability."

"Well," said Sallie, "I have been to your tailor, and I want to know what you sent me to him for."

"Why," said her friend, "I sent you to him because I like him. He knows so well what I want. He takes everything out of your hands."

"He simply does!" said Sallie. "I went in there today and told him I wanted to have a brown suit made up. 'You don't want brown, madam,' he said. I said I did. He contradicted me. 'You have too sallow a skin to wear brown, madam. Here is a cloth suitable for you,' and he showed me a hideous mixed thing in gray and black."

"Did you take it?" asked Jeannette.

"I did," replied Sallie. "But for a long time I was very firm about not wanting the goods. That was while we were talking about the way to make the coat. I mentioned an Eton. But he smiled at me in pity. 'Oh, no, madam,' he said sadly, 'you can't wear an Eton. It takes a very young lady to wear an Eton. What you want is a coat cut just four inches below the waist line.'

"Then he asked me to stand up, and I stood up, and he whipped out his tape measure and measured me while I was trying to tell him I didn't want anything to do with him. I talked the way you talk in a nightmare, you know, realizing perfectly well what you want to say and not being able to say it."

Sallie paused dejectedly. "What I want to know is," she continued, after a moment's silence, "how it happened. For I've got a Duke of Wellington nose and all the other features that go to make up a strong minded person, and you know very well that the nose of that tailor is a stub, and he hasn't any chin!"

"Well," said Jeannette with a little giggle, "you'll like your suit."

"Shall I?" said Sallie hopefully.

The Englishman Abroad.

An English tourist entered a restaurant and by a few scraps of French was able to order dinner. He wanted some mushrooms, very delicious and large. Not knowing the name, he demanded a sheet of paper and pencil and sketched one. The waiter understood him in a second, disappeared for ten minutes and returned with a handsome umbrella.

A Promising Four-year-old.

Baby Alice had been scolded for contradicting. Being but four years old her mother hardly expected that the lecture was fully understood or would be remembered. She was satisfied, however, at supper time when baby said, "Mamma, now don't contradict; please may I have some more pudding?"

Logical.

Lady—No, we don't need any new locks on our house. Ours are plenty good enough.

Insistent Vender—There, madam, is where you are mistaken. To be really up to date at this time of year you ought to put on spring locks.

Let Him Wait.

"No," said the optimist, "I never take my troubles to bed with me."

"It's all right to say that now," replied the pessimist, "but wait till you have a few ingrowing nails."

Not Entirely Indifferent.

Friend—You don't care how many people have to hang on to the straps.

Railroad Magnate—Oh, yes, we do. It makes considerable wear and tear on the straps.

As She Understood It.

"I could have married any girl I pleased in my younger days," said the old bachelor.

"It's really too bad," rejoined the pretty widow, "that you were unable to find one you could please."

To Their Credit.

Miss Oldblood—Are your family early settlers?

Mrs. Newblood—Yes, paw always pays every bill on the first of the month.

To Remove a Tight Ring.

If you happen to get a ring on your finger that fits so tight you cannot remove it a very easy way to get it off is as follows: Take a piece of cord or wrapping thread and push one end of it under the ring. Then, beginning just above the ring, wind the cord very tightly round and round the finger clear up to the tip of the finger. Now take hold of the end of the cord that was slipped under the ring and unwind the cord. As the string unwinds the ring will be carried along with it and removed without any difficulty.

Population of New York.

The population of the city of New York, according to the estimate of the Federation of Churches after a careful study of the situation, was about four millions last June, the increase since 1900 having been more than half a million, says The New York Sun. If that rate of increase continues during the rest of the present decade the population in 1910 will be about four millions and three-quarters.

That is, in 1910 the population of New York will be more than a million and a quarter greater than in 1900. Of this increase, probably more than one-third will be of Jews, which race already now makes up toward one-fifth of the inhabitants. In 1900 the population of foreign birth and parentage constituted about four-fifths of the whole, and its percentage is now increasing because of the unprecedentedly great immigration.

At present the aggregate of the distinctively Christian population of the town is only about two-fifths of the whole. This includes the whole of the Roman Catholic population and the total number of Protestant communicants. Besides these, the Federation estimates a total of about half a million Protestants who attend church more or less regularly and more than a million Protestants who are "churchless," or outside of any religious faith.

New York, therefore, cannot now be called a Christian city. The total of Protestant communicants and church attendants, as estimated by the Federation, is only about as great as that of the Jews alone, and by 1910 it is likely to be much less. By that time there will be more Jews here than natives of native parentage. The Jewish population has increased from only about 3 per cent. of the whole in 1880 to nearly 20 per cent. in 1905.

London's Underfed Children.

After an investigation of the question of the presence in elementary schools of large numbers of children who on account of being underfed are unable to derive proper benefits from the instructions, the Local Government Board has issued an order dealing therewith in the spirit of truly paternal Government.

The order instructs managers and teachers who find children coming to school inadequately fed immediately to notify the overseers of the poor, who will at once supply the requisite relief. This must never be in the form of money, but the actual food needed.

An interesting feature of the order is the fact that complete discretion is vested in the overseers as to whether the relief shall be given as a loan or as poor relief in the ordinary sense. In either case the father will be informed and will have an opportunity to make the necessary provision himself.

If he fails to do this, and in the opinion of the overseers it is a case of neglect, their relief will be regarded as a compulsory loan which they will be able to recover in a County Court. If, however, the parent is considered a bona-fide poor person unable to bear the expense, the burden will fall on the rates, the parent not being disfranchised as is ordinarily the case on receipt of parish relief.

The relief is not continued more than a month on a single application. The Local Government Board suggests that if a second application be made on account of the same child within six months the overseers shall consider whether it is their duty to proceed against the father under the Vagrancy Act or the Prevention of Cruelty to Children Act.

Relic of Charles I.

In an article in The Practitioner devoted to the subject of Royal relics special mention is made of certain bones from the neck of Charles I., at one time in the possession of Sir Henry Halford, physician to George III. and to three other Sovereigns.

The coffin of the beheaded King was discovered and identified in 1813, when it was found in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, alongside those of Henry VIII. and Jane Seymour. The skin of the face was dark and discolored; but the forehead and temples retained their shape, though the cartilage of the nose was gone. The pointed beard was perfectly preserved, as was also the general shape of the face. All present were struck with the resemblance to Vandyke's portraits. Nothing had been done to attach the severed head to the trunk, and it was taken out, Sir Henry Halford says, and held up to view.

When the process of resoldering the leaden coffin had been completed it was found that a portion of the vertebra had become separated from the neck and fallen outside the coffin unnoticed. This relic was presented by the Prince Regent to Sir Henry Halford, by whom a case of lignum vitae lined with gold was made for its reception, a suitable inscription being engraved on the lid.

Sir Henry St. John Halford opposed of the scandal created by his forebear in retaining the relic by making over the case with its contents to the Prince of Wales (now King Edward), by whose orders it was deposited on King Charles' coffin.

The Clever Parson Bird.

Among the feathered inhabitants of New Zealand there is a bird called the parson bird, or "tui." It is about the size and shape of a blackbird, but has a pair of delicate white tufts at its throat, and is a glossy dark green otherwise, which looks black in the sunlight. It can be taught to crow, to speak, to whistle tunes, and besides these tricks it has a repertoire which is not often equalled by any other feathered songster.

Stone Soles For Shoes.

An inventor has hit upon a method of putting what are practically stone soles on boots and shoes. He mixes a waterproof glue with a suitable quantity of clean quartz sand and spreads it over the leather sole used as foundation. These quartz soles are said to be very flexible and practically indestructible and to give the foot a firm hold even on the most slippery surface.

Dry In South Africa.

Owing to the continued dry seasons in South Africa, which have caused the destruction of large droves of cattle, a large demand for pumps and windmills has sprung up. The sinking of wells has become a pronounced necessity. Even the Government boring machines have been called into use to supply cattle with the necessary quantity of water to sustain life.

Generous.

"Is your husband a very generous man?"

"Indeed he is. You remember those nice cigars I gave him for a birthday present? Well, he only smoked one and gave the rest to his friends."

A Long One.

"Mamma, is this the ship we're going over in?"

"Yes, Willie."

"Huh! You said it was an ocean greyhound. This ain't a greyhound. It's a dachshund."

AN ORIGINAL FORCE.

Success Cannot Be Copied or Successfully Imitated.

No human being ever yet made a success trying to be somebody else even if that person was a success. Success cannot be copied, cannot be successfully imitated. It is an original force, a creative process. Every man will be a failure just in proportion as he gets away from himself and tries to be somebody else and to express somebody else instead of himself. Power comes from within or from nowhere. Be yourself. Listen to the voice within. There is room for improvement in every profession, in every trade and in every business. The world wants men who can do things in new and better ways. Don't think because your plan or idea has no precedent or because you are young and inexperienced that you will not get a hearing. The man who has anything new and valuable to give to the world will be listened to and will be followed. The man of strong individuality, who dares to think his own thought and originate his own method and who is not afraid to be himself, not a copy of some one else, quickly gets recognition. Nothing else will attract the attention of your employer or the rest of the world so quickly as originality and unique ways of doing things, especially if they are effective.—Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine.

HEART DISEASE.

Don't Let the Idea That You Have It Scare You Into Sickness.

Comparatively few people know that it is rare to find a perfect heartbeat. What is termed "palpitation" is an irregularity in the beat. It is most commonly caused by some disturbance of the digestion; by undue indulgence in tea, coffee, tobacco or alcohol; by worry or by excitement. Many persons, detecting such an irregularity, think they have some serious disease of the heart that may end their life at any moment. This is a very grave mistake in a double sense—first, as to the fact itself, and, second, as to the influence on the health of such a morbid idea.

Again, there is a notion that heart disease is a destructive process; that the flesh is affected in much the same manner as when the skin is ulcerated or the lungs are consumptive. That is very seldom true. The most serious disorders of the heart are quite different in their nature.

When a man or woman is under the impression that he or she has heart disease there is one obvious duty—to visit a reliable doctor, have the heart examined and either have one's fears set at rest or be given such advice as will serve to remedy the condition.—Home Notes.

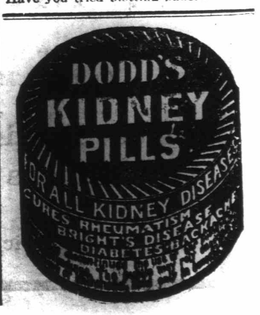
It can be taught to crow, to speak, to whistle tunes, and besides these tricks it has a repertory which is not often equaled by any other feathered songster. At vespers it has a note like the toll of a bell or the clear high note of an organ. It can mimic every bird in the bush to perfection; it will break off in the middle of an exquisite melody and indulge in a strange medley of sounds which are impossible to describe, but if you can imagine "the combination of a cough, a laugh, a sneeze, with the smashing of a pane of glass," it will be some approach to the idea.

The tui nests twice or thrice a year and has large families. Like the other birds of New Zealand, it seems to be unconscious of danger from man. It is a pity that the birds of this island are becoming so scarce, for they speak to us of a time when nature was harmless, when the snakes, tigers and falcons did not exist.

The Hen and Her Eggs.

The eggs of a scavenger hen are not fit to be eaten. My attention was called to this a number of years ago. A lady said she could not eat our eggs. She wanted sunflower eggs. I told her we had the best eggs in the country, but she said that an old German at home fed his chickens on sunflower seeds and that the eggs were remarkably sweet. Some of the eggs were sent for, and this was found to be true. Eggs certainly do partake of the nature of the food which has been eaten.—Feathered Life, London.

Wit to the Rescue.



William the Conqueror on landing in England is reported to have made a false step as his foot touched the sand and to have fallen on his face. A murmur arose, and voices cried, "Heaven preserve us, a bad sign!" but William, rising, said without confusion or hesitation: "What is the matter? What are you wondering at? I have seized this ground with my hands, and, by the blightness of God, so far as it extends it is mine, it is yours."

The Coffee Barometer.

"Ever notice what a fine barometer a cup of coffee makes?" a restaurant keeper asks in the Sun. We have. When it's weak and cold a storm is sure to follow.—Albany Journal.

Soft.

Among the feathered inhabitants of New Zealand there is a bird called the parson bird, or tui. It is about the size and shape of a blackbird, but has a pair of delicate white tufts at its throat and is a glossy dark green otherwise, which looks black in the sunlight. It can be taught to crow, to speak, to whistle tunes, and besides these tricks it has a repertory which is not often equaled by any other feathered songster. At vespers it has a note like the toll of a bell or the clear high note of an organ. It can mimic every bird in the bush to perfection; it will break off in the middle of an exquisite melody and indulge in a strange medley of sounds which are impossible to describe, but if you can imagine "the combination of a cough, a laugh, a sneeze, with the smashing of a pane of glass," it will be some approach to the idea.

The tui nests twice or thrice a year and has large families. Like the other birds of New Zealand, it seems to be unconscious of danger from man. It is a pity that the birds of this island are becoming so scarce, for they speak to us of a time when nature was harmless, when the snakes, tigers and falcons did not exist.

The Hen and Her Eggs.

The eggs of a scavenger hen are not fit to be eaten. My attention was called to this a number of years ago. A lady said she could not eat our eggs. She wanted sunflower eggs. I told her we had the best eggs in the country, but she said that an old German at home fed his chickens on sunflower seeds and that the eggs were remarkably sweet. Some of the eggs were sent for, and this was found to be true. Eggs certainly do partake of the nature of the food which has been eaten.—Feathered Life, London.

Wit to the Rescue.

William the Conqueror on landing in England is reported to have made a false step as his foot touched the sand and to have fallen on his face. A murmur arose, and voices cried, "Heaven preserve us, a bad sign!" but William, rising, said without confusion or hesitation: "What is the matter? What are you wondering at? I have seized this ground with my hands, and, by the blightness of God, so far as it extends it is mine, it is yours."

MEDICINE HAT, N. W. T.

JUST SEEMED TO SUIT HIS CASE.

WELLAND MERCHANT RESTORED TO HEALTH BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Doctors and Medicine Failed—Dodd's Kidney Pills Succeeded—Other cases They just seem to suit.

Welland, Ont., June 19.—(Special)—J. J. Yokom, a prominent merchant of this city, is telling his friends of his remarkable cure of a terrible Kidney Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr Yokom's statement is as follows:

"For more than a year I had been ailing with Kidney Trouble in all its worst symptoms. I had a distressed feeling in my head, little or no appetite, and a feeling of languor. I became greatly reduced in weight.

"Doctors and medicines failing to give me any benefit I became despondent, when by good luck I chanced to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, and from the first they seemed to suit my case. After taking five boxes the old trouble had gradually disappeared, and I was feeling better than I had in many years."

Dodd's Kidney Pills suit the case of every man, woman or child who has any form of Kdney Disease. They always cure and cure permanently.

TOURING IN RUSSIA.

The Difficulties of One Who Cannot Speak the Language.

Nijni Novgorod, where the great Russian fair is held, far on toward the frontier of Asia, I found the most difficult proposition in all Europe from the standpoint of the traveler seeking rest and refreshment. I knew only one word in Russian, "vodka," and one can pronounce that too often. Nobody seemed to speak anything but Russian. I could not get a cabman to take me to a hotel. One isvoschic after another would pick me up, seem to understand and then take me to a shop, a steamship pier, a private residence. I was reduced to the humiliating necessity of making pictures of hotels, beds and food of all sorts—and quite without avail. At last, bethinking myself that the trade of Russia was in German hands, I started out afoot in search of any mercantile looking person with close cropped blond beard and spectacles. Such a man I found, and he directed me in German to a traktir, where I had breakfast with the aid of more crude cartooning. "Coffee" is good Volapuk, and the waiter understood me at once, but I had to sketch a number of elliptical figures in my notebook and finally make a spirited drawing of the common or garden hen before he knew I wanted "eggs."

For dinner that night I went to a restaurant overhanging the Volga. It is one of my most baffling memories of travel that when in my thirst I made the sign of drinking and pointed to the river the waiter lowered a bucket out of the window into the stream and brought it to me filled with rich brown water.

THE MUD DAUBER WASP.

She Entombs Living Spiders as Food For Her Young.

When summer warmth has awakened the maternal instincts of the insect world the mud dauber wasp may be seen gathering mortar at the margin of stream, pool or puddle. Filling her mandibles, which serve as both spade and hod, she bears the load of mud to some rough surface, rock or wall or board or beam. She spreads and shapes her mortar until, after many visits to the mud bed, she has built a tubular cell about an inch long and three-eighths of an inch wide.

Then her huntress instinct awakens and her raids upon the spider realm begin, for within this cylinder the mother mason will put a single egg. In course of time this will hatch into a ravenous larva whose natural food is living spiders, and these the mother proceeds to capture and entomb within her mud daub nursery. On this errand she may be seen hawking over and near cobwebs of various sorts, venturing within the meshed and beaded snares that prove fatal to most incomers and sometimes even to herself. If the occupant, expectant of prey, sallies forth to seize the intruder, it finds itself a captive, not a captor. The wasp shakes the silken filament from wings and feet, turns upon the spider, seizes and stings it, bears it to her cell and thrusts it therein.—H. C. McCook in Harper's Magazine.

Old Man of the Mountain.

The title "Old Man of the Mountain" was first applied to Hassan Ben Sabbal, who founded a formidable dynasty in Syria A. D. 1090. He was the prince or chief of the sect of the Mohammedans. Having been banished from his country, he took up his abode in Mount Lebanon, gathered around him a band of followers, who soon became the terror alike of Christians, Jews and Turks. They paid the most implicit obedience to his commands and believed that if they sacrificed their lives for his sake they would be rewarded with the highest joys of paradise. For 260 years these "Assassins," as they called themselves, continued to be the terror of the country. Whenever their chief, the "Old Man of the Mountain," considered himself injured he dispatched some of his assassins secretly to murder the aggressor. This is the origin of our use of the word assassin for a secret murderer.

SILO INSIDE THE BARN.

Convenience of Feeding One of the Advantages of This Plan.

There are some advantages in having a silo inside the barn. It is convenient for feeding, protected from the frost and, if properly arranged, is more convenient to fill, says L. W. Lighty in National Stockman. Then the cost is considerably reduced, as the barn roof is also the silo roof and often a part of the barn frame will help to form the silo walls. In planning a new barn it is advisable to include the silo in the same structure and locate the silo doors as near the feeding alley as possible, as that will save considerable labor in feeding, and in these times labor on the farm means dollars.

The cheapest, best and most convenient barn is the round or circular barn, with the silo in the center. The silo extends from the ground up to the peak, thirty to forty or more feet high. Such a barn is compact, roomy, light in all the stalls, convenient to fill and also to "do the chores." After studying the merits of both circular and rectangular barns I am fully convinced that the circular form is preferable in every way, and personally I should build no other were I to build again.

If we wish to feed forty pounds of silage to each cow per day, and that is a fair ration, we may for practical work call that amount a cubic foot, averaging from top to bottom of silo, and thus to feed fifteen animals would require fifteen cubic feet per day and for eight months 3,600 cubic feet. But the silage will settle quite considerably after filling the silo, depending, of course, on how fast it is filled, how fine cut, etc., but we must make some allowance, usually one-fourth. Then it is well to have some silage left over for the August drought, so we might add 1,000 cubic feet to the above, making it 4,600 cubic feet capacity.

A round silo to contain this might be fifteen feet in diameter and thirty feet high, or, if we could go up higher, we might reduce the diameter accordingly, and that might be desirable, as we should remove from the surface for best results about 1½ inches daily. To do this where but fifteen head of cattle are fed the inside diameter of the silo should not be above 12½ feet. Then to contain 4,600 cubic feet that silo should be thirty-eight feet high.

Milk For Calf Feeding.

Stale, cold skim milk is a fruitful cause of scours in calves, and removal of the froth is a secondary consideration where such milk is used, says Hoard's Dairyman. Milk for calf feeding should be warm, fresh and clean, fed from clean pails. If dirty pails are used and cold, stale milk fed, scours almost invariably follow, and when the scours are not fatal a stunted calf is the usual result. It is also not an uncommon error to feed too much skim milk, trying to make up in quantity for the abstracted fat.

A LUCKY GIRL

SAVED FROM DEADLY DECLINE BY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

"When I think of my former condition of health," says Miss Winnifred Perry, of West River, Sheet Harbor, N.S., "I consider myself a lucky girl that I am well and strong today, and I owe my present good health entirely to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I suffered almost all that one can endure from weakness and nervousness. I was as pale as a sheet, and wasted away. The least noise would startle me, and I was troubled with fainting spells, when I would suddenly lose consciousness and drop to the floor. At other times my heart would palpitate violently and cause a smothering sensation. Night and day my nerves were in a terrible condition, and I seemed to be continually growing worse. No medicine that I took helped me in the least until I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after I had taken half a dozen boxes, I felt so much better that I stopped taking them and went on a visit to Boston. I had made a mistake, however, in stopping the pills too soon, and I began to go back to my former condition. I then called on a well known Boston doctor, and after explaining my case, told him how Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had helped me before. He told me to continue their use, saying I could take nothing better, and I got another supply and soon began to regain health. I took about eighteen boxes in all, and they fully and completely restored my health, and I have had no sickness since."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can do just as much for every weak, nervous, pale-faced young woman, who is slipping from anaemia into deadly decline. They make new, rich health-giving blood, and that is what every growing girl and woman must have to retain their health. It is because these pills actually make new blood that they strike at the root of all common ailments of life, such as headaches and sideaches and backaches, indigestion, palpitation of the heart, kidney troubles, sciatica, rheumatism, neuralgia, St. Vitus Dance and paralysis. But only the genuine pills can do this, and the sick one should see that the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" is printed on the wrapper around every box. Don't let anyone persuade you to take anything else. Sold by all dealers or sent by mail at 50c a box, or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

ECZEMA OR SALT RHEUM

The Most Torturing of Itching Skin Diseases —Positively Cured by

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

The skin becomes reddened and inflamed and pimples are formed that burst and discharge a watery, sticky fluid, which dries and becomes a sort of crust or scale.

In other cases there may be ulcers or sores. Suffering is always intense on account of the frightful stinging, burning and itching.

The surface of the body should be kept clean by frequent bathing with tepid water and castile soap, and Dr. Chase's Ointment applied night and morning.

The control which Dr. Chase's Ointment exerts over eczema and similar skin diseases is a wonder to all who have tested it. This most extraordinary healing power has made Dr. Chase's Ointment the standard Ointment the world over.

There is no guess work about Dr. Chase's Ointment. It is applied directly to the diseased part, and you can see exactly what it does.

By its cleansing, soothing, healing action it allays inflammation and irritation, heals the raw, sore flesh, and leaves the skin soft, smooth and natural.

Mr. Wm. Castle, Eagle Hill, Alta., writes:—"About Nov. 1, 1903, I broke out with small red blotches on my arms and they afterwards spread all over my body. It was so itchy that I could not sleep at nights for scratching. I suffered untold misery and was almost driven to desperation. I tried everything at hand and my friends recommended numerous remedies all to no avail.

"When I began the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment I had little hope of relief, but the result has been wonderful. From the first this preparation gave relief from the dreadful itching and it has now brought about a cure."

Wherever there is itching of the skin or a sore that will not heal Dr. Chase's Ointment can be used with positive assurance of relief and cure. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

On one of the old turnpikes yet remaining in the south a big touring car had twice rushed through the big touring gate without paying toll. The third time they made the attempt the negro toll-man shut his gate and brought them to a stand. With indignation the half-dozen occupants of the car declared they were entitled to ride free. "Look at your own board," said the spokesman. "It says: 'Every carriage, cart or waggon drawn by one beast, two cents; every additional beast, two cents. We're not drawn by any beast at all." "No; but here's where ye come in, sah," replied the darkey, pointing to another clause as follows: 'Every half-dozen hogs, four cents.' An' three times four is twelve," he added. The twelve cents was paid.

We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is without doubt the best medicine ever introduced for dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera and all summer complaints, sea sickness, ect. It promptly gives relief and never fails to effect a positive cure. Mothers should never be without a bottle when their children are teething.

Not long before his death the Hon. Thomas B. Reed visited some friends at their summer residence and missed the train, the last Boston bound train stopping at Westerly that night. As Mr. Reed had an imporant engagement in Boston early the next day he seemed worried until he learned that there was a Boston express which passed Westerly at 9 o'clock. Then he smiled. Going to the telegraph office he directed a telegram to the superintendent of the road in Boston, and sent the following message: "Will you stop the 9 o'clock express at Westerly tonight for a large party for Boston?" The answer came: "Yes. Will stop train." Mr. Reed read the message and smiled again. When the train pulled in Mr. Reed quietly started to board it, when the conductor said: "Where is that large party we were to stop for?" "I am the large party," repled Mr. Reed, and he boarded the train.

The Old National Road.

When the panic of 1837 swept over the country the national road was barely halfway through Illinois. No work was done on it after 1841. Two years before, however, a line of stages and post routes had been started from Cumberland, in Maryland, to Terre Haute, in Indiana, from which latter place there was a triweekly service for passengers and mail to Springfield, Ill. This marked the first overland travel from east to west. Passengers and mail bags were jolted along in cumbersome coaches, each with four strong horses. On account of the high rates travel was confined mainly to merchants and lawyers. The passenger, with an allowance of fifty pounds of baggage, paid at the rate of 10 cents a mile. It is noted that Clay and Lincoln were among the frequent passengers.

Evolution of the Canary.

The evolution of the canary of today from its ancestor—or should it be ancestors?—of some centuries ago is as wonderful as the bringing of our present queen of the garden from its humble progenitor, the wild rose of our hedgerows. There surely could hardly be a contrast more striking, says a writer in Cage Birds, than that 'twixt the modern crested canary, with its wonderful head feather, or the giant Lancashire and the greenish yellow little creatures who fluttered and sang in the orange groves of the sunny islands whence they take their name. The writer sees no reason why canaries may not become the size of the song thrush.

A Need in Some Quarters.

We should like to see a regulation that every schoolmaster before the age of thirty should for one full year at least be banished from the school world and from the academic life even if for that year he had to work as a navvy, a sailor or a commercial traveler. The man who, being educated, only knows what life is will never take too narrow a view of the school course.—London Post.

"Now, here," said Mr. Hine, in the course of his address, "here is an answer containing a good deal of unconscious truth—an answer that seems to me to hit the nail on the head. The question refers to a famous town. 'What,' it runs, 'is this town noted as?' "The answer is, 'It is noted as a watering place.' "'What is a watering place?' is the next question. "Answer, 'A place where people go to drink.'"

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound, or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A correspondent of the London Globe writes that in one of the largest towns in the Orange River Colony was painted on the window of a solicitor's office the following modest and graceful announcement: A professor of natural history, who was delivering a lecture to a class on the rhinoceros, noticed that the attention of the students was wandering. "Gentlemen," he said, sternly, "if you expect to realize the remarkably hideous nature of this beast you must keep your eyes fixed on me."

The young engineer had been sent to report on the feasibility of running a railroad through a hitherto unexplored country. He anticipated immense difficulties, but he was just out of college and ready for any of them.

But his disappointment was greater than his confidence had been. After weeks of hard toil he telegraphed to the company:

"Can't build railroad. Country perfectly flat and dry; no place for tunnels or bridges."

The following advertisement appeared recently in a London paper:—"A lady in delicate health wishes to meet with a useful companion. She must be domestic, musical, an early riser, amiable, of good appearance, and have some experience in nursing. A total abstainer preferred. Comfortable home. No salary." A few days afterwards the advertiser received by express a basket labelled: "This side up—with care—perishable." On opening it she found a tabby cat, with a letter tied to its tail. It ran as follows:—"Madam,—In response to your advertisement I am happy to furnish you with a very useful companion, which you will find exactly suited to your requirements. She is domestic, a good vocalist, an early riser, possesses an amiable disposition, and is considered handsome. She has had a great experience as a nurse, having brought up a large family. I need scarcely add that she is a total abstainer. As salary is no object to her she will serve you faithfully in return for a comfortable home."

A well known Episcopal Bishop of high church tendencies was giving a dinner to a number of his clergy not long ago. In arranging for it with his English butler he was surprised to have the man ask, "Is they 'igh church or low church, sir?" "Why, what possible difference does that make?" the Bishop inquired. "A great deal of difference, sir," the man replied. "The low church they eats the most, and the 'igh church they drinks the most, sir!"

Useful at All Times.—In winter or in summer Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will cope with and overcome any irregularities of the digestive organs which change of diet, change of residence, or variation of temperature may bring about. One of the infielders had made an error. The rosy-cheeked girl in the grandstand turned to the young man at her side. "George," she said. The following is told of Bishop Niles of New Hampshire while he was in Boston attending the Episcopal convention: The Bishop, who is a very tall, heavy man, was seated on one of the low settees in the public garden, and when he started to get up found that he had great difficulty in regaining his feet. In the midst of his struggles a wee tot of a little girl came along and offered her assistance. The Bishop ceased trying to rise, and, after surveying the little girl critically, replied that she was too small to help. The little girl persisted that she could help, but the Bishop was just as sure that she could not. "Well," said the little girl, finally, "I've helped grandpa lots of times when he was lots drunker than you are."

To Whom It May Concern.

AS I have heard from people that there was born to Julia Eiste, my former wife, at present somewhere in the United States, a child, which I do not acknowledge as mine.

Christain Eiste.

The above statement being true. For this woman betrayed her husband already twice before, and left him two years ago for Medicine Hat. In January, however she left us for unknown places. The children of Julia Eiste do not belong to Christian Eiste of Josephsburg. He wants to state they cannot be his heirs in no way. This do I testify as being absolute true.

SALARY GRAB AT OTTAWA.

A message from Ottawa dated July 26th says:

For weeks past some of the newest of the members of parliament, and some of the older ones, have been complaining to one another of the length of the session, of the money they were losing, by being here (as if they did not all turn every kind of tumble to get to Ottawa), and that the indemnity would have to be increased. Conservative and Liberal alike, were busy at their business. When the opposition to the automony bills looked threatening the government supporters were refreshed as to their staying power by promise of increased indemnity. A round robin was prepared, the more daring signed it with avidity, and gradually (it was concealed in a basement compartment under guard all the time) it was signed by a majority of the members. Both sides signed in an equal proportion.

Those who refused to sign were called cranks and everyone who had a conscientious scruple was jeered. The men signing it expressed willingness to vote for an increase in ministers' salaries at the same time. One province, through its members is said to have intimated that there could be no increase of indemnity. So, graudually the feeling was worked up to the proper pitch among members and ministers, and the round robin was presented, by whom is not yet made known.

CONCLAVE OF THE INTRIGUERS

Last week Sir Wilfred announced in a casual kind of way that business was pretty well forward for prorogation, save for a certain resolution on which he wished to confer with the leader of the opposition. Everyone knew what was meant. So a conference was held, among those takingtaking part being Sir Wilfred Laurier, Mr. Fielding, minister of finance, and Mr. Fitzpatrick, minister of justice; R. L. Borden, leader of the opposition; Mr. Barker, of Hamilton, the executor of Sir Charles Tupper's political will, the Hon. Geo E. Foster and the Hon. Mr. Haggart. They told a few what had been arrived at in the conference. Nevertheless, two Conservative papers, The Montreal Gazette and the Toronto Mail, were given the details of the agreement Sunday night, and they were published Monday morning. But the Liberal papers had nothing and the ordinary members seemed to know nothing. But the orders of the day, which were printed and put on the desks of the members at the 11 o'clock session of Monday, contained the resolutions for the increase to the judges and for the grab for members and ministers. Mr. Fitzpatrick motioned for Sam Barker to come to the table and aid in putting things through.

THE OUTCOME.

Mr. Barker responded with alacrity. Indeed, you would have thought the resolutions were his and that the Conservative party had charge of putting them through. Now look at the composition of the conference, and what comes of it:

Sir Wilfred Laurier's $1,000 increase of indemnity and $4000 increase in salary, $5000 in all, and a pension of $6000 a year for life on retirement. Pretty good for Sir Wilfred. Nobody denies his claim for crease in salary, and a modest pension.

R. L. Borden, leader of the opposition, $1000 increased indemnity, and $7000 additional as recognized leader of the opposition, $9,500 a year in all.

Messrs Fielding and Fitzpatrick, each a pension of $ 3,500 on retiring, and $2000 a year added to the judgship that Mr. Fitzgerald is said to be going. Sam Barker, as representing the Tupper family, secured $4,000 for the old gentleman and $3,500 a year for the young Sir Charles; $7,500 a year for the Tuppers.

Judged by his excellent health, the longevity of the grandfather, and the continued soundness of the baronet, young Charley will probably live to draw his $3,500 a year for forty years, or at least about $150,000 in all. So Mr. Barker did well for the Tuppers, and for Mr. Borden, who was the Tupper nominee for the succession after the defeat of Sir Charles.

Next come Mr. Foster and Mr. Haggart, with $3,500 a year pension and $2,500 indemnities; $6,000 a year each.

NO OTHER WORD GIVEN OUT.

So that the men who conferred did remarkably well for themselves, they also incidentally looked after the members, the judges and a few other ministers. Sifton costs $6,000 a year, and the same provision for Sir Richard Cartwright and the Hon R. W. Scott, who are to retire in a few weeks. Even Sir Mackenzie Bowell is to get $6,500 a year.

Outside of Sir Wilfred's increase of $4,000, every one of these votes is scandalous. No retiring allowance above $1500 or $2000 at most should be recognized in this country. Two thousand dollars would have kept the wolf from the door of any retired minister of the Crown. But giving men like Costigan Hahhart, $6000 or $6500 a year for life is scandalous. The sessional indemnity should have been deducted. It is scandalous to provide $4000 a year for Sir Charles Tupper, $3500 for Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, Sir Adolphe Caron, Sir Hector Langevin and Messrs Blair and Tarte. Two thousand a year while they draw no other government pay would have been handsome treatment.

MR. BORDEN APPROVES GRAB.

Mr. Borden will not be able to justify any such vote to himself, or one of $8,000 a year extra. The leader of the opposition should owe no favor to the Government of the day. But he jumped up and approved of the increase to Sir Wilfred, and Sir Wilfred and Mr. Fitzpatrick both returned the compliment when the opposition leaders $7,000 vote came up. Dr. Stockton, of St. John, a Conservative member, but a venerable old gentleman, could not let the chairman finnish reading the resolutionuntil he was up extolling this $7000 vote to the conservative leader, and quoting rather in a lame way from the province of Ontario and past legislation, that the leader of the opposition was a recognized part of the constitution. He was as solicitous as was Sam Barker in rushing this vote through.

CONSERVATIVES CONDEMN IT.

Conservatives all round condemn this vote, and the way the Conservativeshave been used as masks by the Liberals. As it is out of the increase voted to leaders and ex-ministers Conservatives get by far the biggest half of it. Mr. Borden and the Tuppers, $14,500 a year; Haggart, Foster, Bowell and Carling, $18,500; Caron Langevin, $7000; in all $40,000. The Liberals get of the increases: Laurier, $5000; Sifton and Costigan, $7000; Blair and Tarte, $7000; $19,000 in all, with Fielding, Fisher, Mulock, Borden and Paterson to follow.

The judges deserve the increase they are getting, that is the judges of the superior courts, but conditional with the increase it should have provided for a reduction of unecessary county judges in Ontario and the district judges in Quebec. But the scandel remains of a lot of judges who have little or nothing to do getting an increase in salaries.

THE MEANING OF IT.

The grab as thus exposed throws a lurid light on what is taking place in the parliament of Canada more and more, namely that of carrying on government by an understanding between leaders of parties, and by secret conference. Moreover the Liberals are hopelessly allied with corporations, and the corporations are taking the greatest of pains to see that if the Liberals must go out the Conservatives come in under a man that is friendly to them. Sir Wilfred Laurier is working to the same end. He would not like to see his reputation shattered by a successor who would wipe out his corporation abuses. And the whole scheme of the Liberals, the corporations and the conservatives, like Barker, is to pave the way for a safe succession afterLaurier. Barker, Taylor, the whip, and others have been busy for five years trying to create a divinity out of a leader whose merest entrance into a room is to be hailed with applause, clapping of hands, prostrations and school-boy demonstrations. The liberals, as a party, have joined on every occasion in this recognition of a halo on the head of the opposition leader, Sir Wilfred Laurier cannot appreciate too highly the parliamentary opposition that Sam Barker has arranged for the benefit of the Government.

If the Conservatives had given some attention to the principles, to the shameful raiding of public rights that has been perpetrated by Sir Wilfred and his party, some time to exposing the barefaced manipulation of the house, of committees, of members by corporations, and had refused to participate in money grabs that should have originated in the government ranks, they would have stood a better chance of coming some day into the control of the country.

Who would exchange the merry noise of children at play, with the childless home where the clock tick can be heard hour after hour in the dull silence? But there are a great many who would like to people the silent house with the children that fate has refused them. Fate is often in this case only another word for ignorance. Many a glad mother dates her happiness from the day she first began the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It often happens that with the cure of female weakness and the establishing of the delicate womanly organs in sound health, the way is opened for the joy of motherhood. "Favorite Prescription" is a specific for the chronic ailments peculiar to women. It cures them perfectly and permanently.

No other medicine can do for women so much as "Favorite Prescription." Do not therefore let any other medicine be palmed off on you as "just as good."

"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, opium, cocaine or other narcotic. It is strictly a temperance medicine.

"I can truly say your medicine is a friend of mine" writes Mrs. Arthur Bratt, of Amherstburg, Ontario, Canada. "I am mother of four children and suffered greatly at times of birth of first three. When three months along with the last one I began to think of trying some medicine to ease those terrible pains and asked our doctor whether there was anything he could give me to lessen labor pains. He said there was nothing that could help me. I then thought I would write to Dr. Pierce. He advised me to take his 'Favorite Prescription.' I started to take it at fourth month. I was very weak, had heart trouble and would faint away two or three times a day. Our doctor could not help me and life was a fear. I would often say, oh, if I could only die in one of these spells; but I took five bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and felt better every day. Got along well at the time of delivery. I had heard of painless childbirth, and I thought it must be a good medicine that would help those pains, but I know now for myself, and can not tell it plain enough. Your 'Favorite Prescription' is the best medicine as we mothers know. I advise my friends to try it. Baby is now four months old and is a strong healthy boy."

MASON & RISCH

THE PIANO WITH A SOUL

Mason & Risch Pianos are famous for that peculiar carrying power known as the singing tone. Not all tones classed as musical are music unalloyed. There are certain qualities of tone that are strangely diffusive They carry far and retain their singing character where other tones become indistinct for even lost. A sheet of gold leaf, thinner than the thinnest tissue, will completely block the powerful rays of the strongest searchlight, while the X-rays, merely glowing with a faint light, will penetrate an inch of solid steel. So it is with music: some tones are diffusive and carry, others become more or less absorbed in space. The tone that "carries" the singing tone, is due to perfection of finish and perfect vibratory equilibrium of all the tone producing parts of a piano. It is always a tone of the utmost sweetness and purity. The Mason & Risch Piano is full of "sing" being especially fine in its blendings of the human voice, which it rounds out and sustains in a happy union of melody and harmony. Our literature explains the many points of superiority of the Mason & Risch piano—the piano with a soul. Send for it to-day.

A party of ladies were travelling westward the other day and on arriving at Medicine Hat, got off the train, as so many do, for a twenty minute promenade of the platform. Seeing the weigh scales they forthwith crowded round it and had a great time weighing each other. One of the party, a lady of noble proportions, when told her weight, skipped round like a kitten, and clapping her hands, joyfully exclaiming, "Oh, I am 225 pounds now, and I was only 222 pounds when I left New York." The gentlemen had been over to inspect the meteorological station.

Local Town Councillors, when they get into the new Council Chamber, will have to follow the established custom of rising and addressing the chair when they wish to make any remarks. At present, so I'm told, they keep their seats while talking, so that whatever takes place can hardly be called a "discussion." It is bound to be of a "conversational" nature, and this must be hard on the reporters. No doubt the "press-gang" will welcome an improvement in this respect.

THE PSALM OF EGGS.

Tell me not in broken measures
Modern farming does not pay,
For a farm produces chickens,
And the hens do they not lay?

Eggs are high and going higher,
And the price soaring fast,
Every time we go to market
It is higher than the last.

Not a coop but it produces
Every day an egg or two,
So each farmer gains his millions,
Even though his hens are few.

Every egg is very precious,
And the hens are held in awe.
When a hen begins to cackle
Then the farmer goes "Haw, haw"

In the broad and busy farmyard
Struts a rooster now and then,
But the shrewd bewhiskered farmer
Only notices the hen.

Trust no rooster, however showy
Be the feathers in his tale,
Pay attention to the biddies
And your wealth will never fail.

Lives of farmers all remind us
We may roll in wealth some day,
If we hustle to the market
With the eggs our pullets lay.

In the unsettled portion of the British Northwest there is room for millions of people on land well suited to support human life in comfort and with food in abundance. To give an idea of the vast extent of vacant lands of this northwestern country it might be mentioned that the Mackenzie river is 2,500 miles long and is navigable from its mouth to the base of the rocky mountains. The Peace River is 1,500 miles in length and drains an immense grazing and grain growing country. Great Bear Lake contains an area of 14,000 square miles and possesses fine fisheries. The Saskatchewan is 1,500 miles in length. Great Slave Lake has a length of 300 miles with a breadth of 50 miles. Lake Athabasca is 230 miles long. The Churchill River is an immense stream here and there expanding into beautiful lakes. All these rivers and their thousands of tributaries are full of fish and in the proper season covered by game and drains countries rich in pasture lands where vegetables grow everywhere and grain ripens over an immense area.

What is particularly known by the name "the Canadian West" to-day comprises Manitoba and the three territories of Assiniboia, Alberta and Saskatchewan, soon to be divided into two new provinces. This block of land, lying wholly south of the 55th parallel, has an area of 228,000,000 acres, of which at least 50,000,000 acres are suitable for grain-growing. So far only 5,000,000 acres have put under cultivation, but at the present rate of settlement the entire 50,000,000 acres, capable of an annual yield of 750,000,000 bushels of grain, will be taken up in twelve years' time. Out of this Canada could supply Great Britain's demand of 200,000,000 bushels and still have a surplus for the rest of the world.

THE EVERLASTING EMBARGO.

(Farm and Ranch Review.)

Honorable members of the Dominion House of Commons have worked themselves into a fine frenzie recently over the embargo question. The following report by the Ottawa Parliamentary Committee on Agriculture and Colonization, submitted to the house for consideration, was the immediate cause of this outburst of righteous indignation on the part of our lawmakers:

"That in the opinion of this committee the embargo on Canadian cattle entering the United Kingdom is most unfair and unjust as it is a publication to the world at large that the Board of Agriculture considers it unsafe to permit Canadian cattle to come in contact with the herds in the United Kingdom, whereas it is a well known fact that in no other country other than Canada can herds be found so free from disease.

"That the scheduling of Canada by the Imperial Government is considered from a financial point of view, a serious loss to the Canadian cattle trade, the farmers and the stock raisers of the Dominion.

"That the action of the Imperial Government is not justified by the facts of the case, it having been clearly proved that the disease of pleuro-pneumonia has never existed in Canadian herds.

"That in view of such conditions the removal of Canada from the schedule would be but an act of justice and should be strenuously pressed.

"That as the Dominion is a stock raising country and capable of producing a large and constant supply of beef cattle it is considered important to the empire that no obstructions nor difficulties should be placed in the way of Canadian cattle breeders which tend to decrease the food supply within the Empire."

Needless to say the report was adopted holus bolus with the usual display of oratorical fireworks and patriotic protestations, and we may just remark that the average member who voted on the question probably knew no more about the merits of the case than the law allows.

The Ottawa despatch states that in adopting the report the House heard strong statements against the British action.

"Mr. Bickerdike, of Montreal, declared that there was no disease in Canadian cattle, and the British government knew it. In this matter Canada was being gold-bricked. They were playing the game with loaded dice and have been caught in the act. The real reason for the embargo was a desire to protect the British farmer. It was protection, and not pleuro-pneumonia that maintained the embargo. He had letters from the president of the British Board of Agriculture, in which that gentleman said he was satisfied that there was no cattle disease in Canada, but he could not very well remove the embargo against this country without also removing it against the United States. 'Just another of those little flirtations which the mother country has with Uncle Sam, for which Canada pays the piper, and the music comes high,' said Mr. Bickerdike. 'I know John Bull pretty well,' he added, 'I have done business with him for twenty years, and I tell you there isn't a particle of sentiment in him. He's business all the time. John Bull would as soon buy cattle from a Hottentot or Zulu, as from one of his own kin.'"

Burns, the immortal poet, somewhere talks about the advantage of seeing ourselves as others see us. The embargo discussion is not confined to Canada. British agricultural journals devote columns to it and farmers are much agitated over the subject. This is the only bit of protective legislation the British farmer enjoys and he likes it too well to give it up without astruggle. The following is an extract from a letter which appeared in the Scottish Farmer recently from a person in a sarcastic mood, who is opposed to admitting Canadian store cattle:

"..... Then we might get someone to tell us something of the diseases we might expect, (from Canada) and how to deal with them. There is, for instance the 'maladie du coit' amongst horses, Actinobacillosis and actinomycosis amongst cattle, which although probably of lesser importance than some other diseases, might be made the subjects of interesting letters, whilst cattle mange with all the precautions necessary to prevent its spreading, and the description of the dipping apparatus of various sorts, from the plunge to the swimming bath would afford subject matter for several weeks, and the whole series might finish up with a review of the infectious diseases existing amongst British Cattle, which the Canadians so sedulously guard against by imposing a quarantine of 90 days. This latter would be specially interesting to British farmers, as probably few of them are aware of the existence of these diseases or of these precautions. This would also afford opportunity for the display of not a little talent in educating the British Farmer in the ethics of the controversy, and in showing the sweet reasonableness of the Canadians in asking us to admit their cattle—amongst which so many infectious diseases prevail—free of any restrictions, and yet imposing a quarantine of nearly three months on our cattle, to say nothing of enforcing the tuberculin test as well. As former arguments have all tended to show the advantages of free importation to the British farmer, and to no one else, and I am sure their advocate will not object to do a little more in the same helpful way....."

The following editorial quotation from the Scottish Farmer should also be carefully read:

"..... All parties are agreed that an over-sea dead meat trade would remove all disturbing elements from the present intercourse between the mother country and her great colony. It is not well to be quarrelling with one's friends; but it calls for protest when your neighbour proposes to govern your house for you. Without reflecting on Canada in any way, we reserve the right to determine what may or may not be for the advantage of Great Britain as a stock raising country. No country has any right to challenge our position, and having taken our ground the abandonment of a position assumed will certainly not follow upon an external agitation. 'Drop it' is, in the circumstances, good sound advice, and a strenuous effort should be made to counteract the noisy tactics of those who find their colleagues mainly amongst politicians on both sides of the Atlantic eager to catch votes. Farmers as a body, are strongly opposed to any modification of the Act, 1896, and a definite fixed policy is easily the best for all the many-sided interests affected by the terms of the order."

It is not our purpose in this article to enter into any discussion as to whether the removal of the embargo would really benefit Canadian breeders to any considerable extent or not. We propose to deal strictly with the merits of our request. Let us then make it plain, that there is no special discrimination against Canada. The Act of 1896 covers all countries, including all British colonies. New Zealand is, therefore to-day exactly in the same position as Canada. Whatever may have been effected Canada, as the general law stands at present we have no grievance. The case therefore resolves itself into a business question and must be considered on a business basis. Canada might be an excellent customer for British purebred cattle but we maintain a ninety days quarantine against British cattle in addition to the tuberculin test restriction. Such being the case, on what groundshave we the right to demand that Great Britain should give our cattle preferential treatment? We feel constrained to point out, that by appealing only to the sentimental side of the matter, we cut a very sorry figure before the British public in this controversy. It would appear to us, that until Canada is prepared to submit some sort of a "give and take" proposal more in accordance with proverbial British fair play than the one now under consideration, we had better cease maligning the British authorities, which, by the way, is neither patriotic nor in good taste, and certainly not creditable to the premier colony of the empire upon which "the sun never sets."

Mr. Geo. Cochran, who has been having a swell time at Victoria, Seattle, Portland and other points on the coast returned yesterday.

The Yerex-Cuthbert excursion party of Chicago and Toronto, 250 strong, travelling in 12 special cars, called at Medicine Hat yesterday and were shown round by the Mayor and others. Among the party was Mrs. Perrin, mother of Mrs. F. G. Forster, who remains for a stay with her daughter, and Dr. Vernon, and old chum of A. J. Terrill.

One of the Chicago excursion party on Monday hunted up Mr. Walter Crosskill, the Government Weather Recorder.

"Look here," he said, "you are the man who makes the bad weather for us in Chicago.

"Oh, no, "said the weather man," we make a beautiful lot of weather. Then we select the brand that suits ourselves, and let the rest loose. If some of it stikes Chicago, we can't help it.

Mr. D. T. Flavin met a lot of old Cnicago friends among the visitors on Monday. D. T. took them round and told them something about our splendid climate and the resources of Medicine Hat, with which they were much impressed. Mr. Yerex will bring another party next month.

The Chicago visitors on Monday paid a visit to the pumping station. Mr. Eddy showed them the sights.

The election of officers for the year resulted as follows: Hon. Pres., Walter Scott, M. P.; President, Donald Guthrie White 1st. vice-president, Thomas McKay 2nd. vice-president, John Hawk; sec-treas., Walter Crosskill; executive committee, W. T. Finlay, M.L.A., T. Hutchinson, C. S. Pingle, Jas. Kane C. R. Mitchell, John Benson, Wm. Crawford, L. B. Cochran; delegates to provincial Liberal convention at Calgary on August 3rd, from the town, D. G. White, C. R. Mitchell, C. S. Pingle, John Benson, from the country, Henry Vockeroth, Irvine, James Robinson, Josephburg, and Albert Coupe, Irvine.

Resolutions of confidence in Sir Wilfred Laurier's Government, and Walter Scott, M. P., were passed.

TOWN COUNCIL MEETING.

A special meeting of the Council was held last night. Present—The Mayor Councillors Stewart, DesBrisay, Smyth and Sissons.

ACCOUNT.

An account for $85 was received from Charles Ingram for two weeks duties as night policeman. It was referred to Councillor Sissons chairman of the Police Committee.

THE NEW GAS WELL.

A letter was read from Mr. J. A. Grant stating the new gas well was down 400 feet and he applied for an advance of $800 on account. It was stated Mr. Grant was entitled to 75 per cent. of the value of the work done from time totime.

The letter was referred to the Gas and Finance Committees.

PROPOSED BUSINESS COLLEGE.

A letter was read from the Grand Trunk Business College, Winnipeg, stating they thought of opening a business college in the town this fall and asking for information etc. The letter was referred to the New Enterprises Committee.

AGRICULTURAL EDITORS COMING.

A letter was read from T. M Knappen, secretary of the Western Immigration Society thanking the town for the interest taken in the Washington Editors visit and stating that he was now arranging an excursion of Editors of Agricultural papers and hoped to arrange for them to stop off at Medicine Hat.

On motion of Councillors Stewart and DesBrisay it was ordered that the New Enterprises Committee endeavor to get the Agricultural Editors to include Medicine Hat in their itinerary.

THE NEW STATION.

A letter was read from R. B. Bennetts, western solicitor of the C. P. R., in reference to the site for new station, and the crossings and this was laid on the table to await the result of an interview between Mr. Bennetts and the town solicitor.

PLANS OF NEW BUILDING.

Mr. R. E. Walton attended the meeting and stated that he had plans for a new building but in the absence of Mr. Porter there was no one authorised to inspect and pass them. He wanted to begin work at once.

The Council appointed Mr. W. T. Williams and Mr. Adsit to act as Building Inspectors in the case.

THE UNION OF MUNICIPALITIES

The Mayor reported that Mr. Sissons and himself had attended the Municipal Union Meeting which were very interesting and profitable. There were great discussions and papers by high authorities were read and discussed. They got quite a number of pointers of interest to Medicine Hat, but they would report more in detail later on. One of the gentlemen, who read a paper was Mr. Claude, Municipal Commissioner, of Hamilton, Ontario, whose whole business is to secure new enterprises for Hamilton. He had been the means of bringing all those big industries into Hamilton which had made that city a great manufacturing centre. This gentleman had been specially invited to Calgary to give a talk on Municipal matters. He (the Mayor) was making an effort to get him to visit Medicine Hat onFriday to meet the Town Council and the Board of Trade Council and give them an address on the best way of helping to develop Medicine Hat. Mr. Sissons and himself had also visited Brandon waterworks and inspected the filtering apparatus. The filters were in duplicate and cost $10,000 for the two. The city were about to instal another pair. Brandon people were well satisfied with them. Mr. Porter would report more fully when he returned.

GRANOLITHIC SIDEWALKS. ENGINEER WANTED.

Coun. Sissons said that while away he visited Portage la Prairie and looked into the question of granolithic sidewalks. The cost there was 14½ cents per square foot. The town obtained cement far $2.80 per barrel but had not got the sand and Gravel which Medicine Hat had. In fact they had no gravel and used sand entirely which cost them 75 cents per yard. This town would have to pay more for cement, but had sand and gravel much cheaper. At Portage la Prairie the pavements were laid ten feet wide in the business portion and five feet wide in the residential streets. In the latter the whole cost was paid according to frontage by the residents, but in the business portion one-third was paid by the property owners and two thirds by the town. They were now putting in sewerage and water works and the contractor used a machine trench digger which cost $6000. It dug a trench eight feet deep and was worked by a traction engine. He did not think Medicine Hat could get on much longer without an engineer.

Dr. Smyth—That's right.

Councillors DesBrisay and Stewart agreed.

The Mayor said he was prepared to bring the matter forward next meeting.

It was understood the matter would be taken up next meeting.

ESTIMATES TAKEN IN COMMITTEE.

The Mayor said Mr. Blythe (who was present) and Mr. Adsit had gone into the estimates and he wanted the Council to consider them in committee of the whole.

This was adopted and the representatives of the press were informed that the result of the committees deliberations would be communicated to them after the meeting or next morning.

The Council decided to take up the question of Frontage Tax, Sewerage and Engineer Commissioner at next meeting.

The rate was fixed at 14 mills on the dollar, 4 mills less than last year.

EXAMINATION RESULTS.

The report of the examinations held last June at the various places through-out the Northwest where there are high schools, were given out at Midnight on Saturday.

The report on the papers of the public school leaving examinations are not yet ready, and it will take several days yet before they are completed. The number of candidates this year has been very large and the professional papers were rushed through before those of the public school leaving.

HAWTHORNE BLOCK.

ALLEGED ASSAULT AND ROBBERY.

On Monday morning before Justice Gilbert), Charles Ingram, Peter Robertson, and William Carter, were charged with assaulting and robbing Martin Esser of the sum of about $150 on the 29th July, at or near Medicine Hat.

Mr. C. R. Mitchell appeared for the prosecution and Mr. P. J. Nolan (instructed by Mr. D. G. White) defended.

All the witnesses were ordered out of court and the case of Ingram was first taken.

Martin Esser, who gave his evidence through an interpreter (C. Purmall— said—I reside at Medicine Hat and am a mason. I remember the night of the 28th July. I went home at first hour after midnight. Before that I had been at the station. Before I went home I went to the hotel to have a glass of beer. I had another glass of beer at the English Club. When I was going home a man met me by the skating rink about 1 o'clock and he asked me if I could show him the house of ill-fame. I said I don't know where it is. He offered me $1.50 if I would take him down. I took him to the first house. The man told me to go in and he would follow. I went in and he did not come in. I waited for him inside. I have not seen him since. I staid there about fifteen minutes. I had nothing to drink in the house. I staid in the front room downstairs. I was sober. I had about $150 on me. I had it in my pocket all the evening. I pulled the roll out of my pocket while in the Royal Hotel. I did not take it out in the house of ill-fame. I had the money in my trousers po ket, right side pocket, rolled up. I went upstairs and afterwards one of the girls let me out between 1 and 2 o'clock. I then went for home. I went about 20 steps when two men caught me. They said they were detectives. They took me by the arms and took me over towards the shed. One of them asked me for five dollars. I have not seen either of the men since. The defendant Ingram (pointing him out), was one of the men. He was not one of the two that brought me down. Those two who took me over to the shed left me and went back to the house. The man sitting at the table (Ingram) is the go to gaol and pay the cost. Then you don't pay me $5, you will have to go before the court and it will cost you $7. I said I am willing to go to gaol and pay the cost. Then twoheld me tightly by my arms. I know them. I saw them in court this morning but they are not here now. Then they fetched over another man just the same as they fetched me. The two threatened to take me to the police station. Ingram was standing in front of me. Then I called for help. One of those holding my arms grabbed me by my throat. It was the tallest one. I don't know what the other man or Ingram was doing then as I was nearly choked. After I got breath I felt in my pocket and found my money was gone. I had a watch on me. The smallest one that was holding me pulled my watch. I started to yell and said: You have had my money now you want my watch. I had missed my money then. He put my watch back in my pocket and some people came down from the house. The accused was taking some money from other people that had been brought over by the two men who brought me over. My money roll was not a very big roll. There were eight ten dollar bills, one twenty dollar bill and ten fives dollar bills. I had some loose money out of the bill I had changed. I had no money on me when the men finished with me. I have not had it since. I did not spend any money in the house. When people came from the house the men ran away. I told the people at the house I had been robbed of $150. Then I turned round and went outside and stood in the dark. I saw some men take a rig and drive off but I could not see accused, but I recognised another man. I went home.

Cross-ex'md. by Mr. Nolan witness said he did not work at all that day He staid at home all day. Had supper at the Chinaman's restaurant. He had nothing to drink. On question being pressed he said he had some, but could not remember how many. He could not remember if he was at the Royal Hotel before supper. Then he remembered one drink and a cigar. At first he said he was not at the American Hotel before supper but afterwards said he could not say. He could not say if he had anything at the Assiniboia. He had nothing to drink at home. Had nothing to drink with supper, and nothing after I before going home. Could not say if he had any when became back to town. Could not remember if he was in any hotel after 9 o'clock. Was all the evening on the platform, but could not remember how many times he went up town to get drinks. He remembered "two ti es". Mr. Nolan then closely questioned the witness as to his visit to the house of ill-fame, as to his condition and all the happenings while there.

In answer to further questions he said Mhizwesky took the accused to me last Monday in the street and I said I could not say that accused was the man. I said that because I was scared of him. I told the lie because I did not want to tell Miniszewsky on the street. When I went back to the house I said five men had robbed me. I did not say the women had robbed me.

After the adjournment Esser was again on the stand and severly cross examined as to the man he directed to the house but could remember nothing about him, what buttons he had on his coat, nor what language they talked. He was sure they walked. He could not say, if he saw the man in the house after he lost his money. Couldnot say if he had a conversation with him. He repeated his statement that he told Miniszewsky that Ingram was not the man, but he was scared.

John Reach was sworn and in the course of his evidence said: On the 28th July I was at what is known as the first house. I saw the accused there between 12 and 1 o'clock. I saw Mr. Esser there. He was outside. Mr. Ingram was also outside. I had been in the house 10 or 15 minutes when I was called outside by Carter. I saw Esser in the shed and the three prisoners were with him. Ingram told me I was fined $2 and I made a pretence of paying it. They took me round the shed, changed hats and I paid it again. (laughter). I went into the house then and we all left together. No one had hold of Esser while I was there. Esser was standing in the shed. I heard him say he would not pay $2. It was not 5. He said he would go to gaol. Ingram asked him for it I heard him squeal and say he had lost $200. He squealed and ran around.

Cross-ex'md: The paying was a joke between ourselves. I paid with cigarette and tobacco wrappers. (laughter). I saw Esser but he did not accuse the prisoners with taking it. Mr Esser was speaking in broken English and making a very good speil.

John Droudson was sworn and deposed—I remember being with Martin Esser on Friday evening. I was with him from 4 past 9 to about 12 o'clock. When he left me I should think he was sober. I saw him having three drinks.

Cross-ex'md: We were together but I would not swear he did not leave me at all. He might have been away half-an-hour. I don't know if he was out of my company for an hour. I couldn't say if he was or not. If any reputable citizen comes here and swears that Esser was drunk I could not say if it would be true or not Wetalked the latin language.

Mr. Nolan—Well that's a dead language so he must have been "dead drunk" then (roars of laughter).

Miss Nellie King, the owner of the house, and Miss Flora Branzo were examined, and Mr. Esser was recalled and this was all the evidence.

The accused reserved his defence and was remanded until tomorrow when the charge against the other two young men will be gone into.

The short cut to Satisfaction

The question of Cut Prices has lately become a menace to good business. The story is being told every day of certain lines being sold at a sacrifice —to what advantage is fast becoming known. The fact remains that these bargains are devoid of all satisfaction and quality.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 8, 1905.

Line Upon Line.

At thirty-eight a man has reached his climacteric. He has put away childish things, has learnt to measure himself with other men, and if he is ever to see life and his share of it in true perspective he begins to see it now. A nation at 38 years of age stand in much the same position, and this year's celebration of Canada's 38th birthday shows how earnest and well-balanced is the enthusiasm with which Canadians look forward to their future as a people. Daughter in her mother's house Canada is mistress in her own. The Times tells us how he noted Canada's increase in population 3,000,000 to over 6,000,000 since 1867, while her revenue has gone up from $13,000,000 to over $70,000,000. The progress of the next 38 years must, as we know, be far more rapid even than the progress since Confederation—it is a case of compound interest; and, as we contemplate the certain future, we are driven once again to ask, What are to be the relations in that future day betewen these younger nations in there full manhood and the Mother Country, to whom they look for inspiration? The old relations of dependence are inapplicable even to the conditions of to-day, and every year must make these relations more and more incongruous.

Canada will be partner or nothing, and every development of Canadian policy during the past few years goes to show that she, at any rate is alive to the responsibilities as well as the privileges of partnership. In her defence arrangements Canada is keeping pace with her national growth. A chain of 10 military depots, untimately to be increased to 15, will stretch from Atlantic and Pacific, and aid in maintaining the civil power. To prove her readiness to relieve to some extent the heavily-burdened taxpayers of the British Isles, the Dominion Government is assuming full responsibilies for the cost of maintaining Halifax and Esquimalt. Thus the vital principle is observed that the money taken from the pockets of the Canadian people by way of taxation shall be expended by the men whom they elect, and who are directly responsible for them. True British Imperialism is, that each particular Colony or nation within the Empire, "for we were a community of nations," shall see to it that the means of defence are perfect within her own borders, and that is an obvious and immediately practicable way of strengthening the Empire as a whole. What more remains to be done will come all in good time and as the natural outcome of Canadian and Imperial needs.—Canadian Gazette (London England).

The Embargo.

The Free Press published some statements by a Mr. Metcalfe, in which the latter took up the cry for the removal of the Embargo on Canadian cattle. Well, as we have said often before, the Embargo is not directed against Canada and no one argues that there is any particular disease (such as pleuro-pneumonia) among Canadian cattle, so that a good deal of the raving on the matter goes for nothing. Mr. Metcalfe said he saw calves sold for $5 in Manitoba which would fetch £5 ($25) in England. Unless things have changed wonderfully lately (which we doubt), we think Mr. Metcalfe's statement a good deal off the mark at both ends.

It is against Canada's interest to send her young stock out of the country. We want all we can raise, grow them into beef and send the carcases over in cold storage. That would mean more money for ranchers, farmers and feeders, big abattoirs, canning factories, tanneries, soapworks, and a hundred other small industries in various parts of the country giving employment for thousands of people, and consequently the circulation of piles of money. The cattle industry is a big thing for the West but it might be easily be doubled in this way and the land and the people enriched thereby.

Swimming Baths.

We have been asked by several people to suggest that, when the council proceed to lay out the park which they expect to purchase shortly, they will make provision for swimming baths. We are heartily in accord with the suggestion, and freely take it up. Everyone will acknowledge the need of being able to swim, but the opportunities for learning or practising the art are few here: in fact the conditions are unsafe. All our boys ought to learn to swim but the river is deep and unsafe except for those who have already learnect the way and know what they are about. Many a mother spends an anxious time when she knows her boys are near the river for boys—true British boys, such as we have here—are venturesome and it is easy for mistakes to be made. The Town should therefore, provide swimming baths and we hope the council will bear the suggestion in mind and act upon it when the time comes.

Writing recently about advertising, John Wanamaker, the millionaire merchant said: "I do the heaviest advertising in dull times. Then is when people look more keenly for bargains, anxious to know how much things cost and where they can save money. I advertise particular things, give prices, and take as much pains with my announcement as I do with my stock. I never permit my announcements to lag, and never miss an issue in my chosen publications. Advertising has made my store—it will make others grow to enormous proportions. My advice to merchants, no matter how small, is advertise and keep everlasting at it—success is sure."

What is the meaning of these continual paragraphs in the papers about Medicine Hat crops having been injured by frost? Any little frost, or a few hail sprinkled among rain in a thunder-shower, is seized upon by a certain writer and published, to the detriment of the district. Some time in June there was a touch of frost one night and (evidently by the same party), at once came the announcement, and the statement that "very little damage had been done." Last Saturday week the Free Press published under full headings that Medicine Hat crops had been injured by frost. The same announcement appeared on the Monday following, in identical terms. In fact the paragraph was repeated which made it look as if it were part of the town advertising. We would like to ask if such was the case. In any case we cannot too strongly condemn the work of this person who probably in his anxiety to "hold with the hare and run with the hound," blows hot and cold upon the splendid work our farmers are doing around Medicine Hat.

Any one having the good of this community at heart would remember that even Great Britain (the garden of the world), is subject to frost as late as the first week in June and we know of hailstorms there which have smashed acres of glass houses and demolished crops, but the statement may be made without hurting the country. It is, however, quite a different thing in a new country like this where people are so easily "scared off" from a particular district. This thing should be stopped and at once. Farmers we have enquired of say there has been no injury by frost.

It is now estimated that with the increase in the sessional indemnity a seat in the Senate, formerly appraised at $10,000, is worth to-day $25,000. What they are charging at Ottawa is not publicly known, but it is gratifying to have it announced that prices are going up.

Sheriff Brown, of Elgin, who has just been dismissed, was so partisan that he would not permit anybody who was not a Liberal to witness an execution. But, of course, he did not mind how many Tories might take the leading part in such ceremonies.

There is a growing enthusiasm in the North-West for Mr. Sifton's pension. The people there, who work for their living, are glad to find that our millionaires are not allowed to want.

The Worst of a Cold.

Is how suddenly it comes. No time to hurry to the drug store, croup develops, the lungs are affected with pneumonia or tuberculosis and it's to late. Keep Catarrhozone on hand it kills colds instantly. Something magical about the way it cures Catarrh and bronchitis. Catarrhozone is the best remedy because it cures in natures way; it heals soothes and restores permanently. Carry a Catarrhozone inhaler in your pocket, use it occasionally and you'll never catch cold—that's worth remembering.

Stevenson, Michigan.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY ON TRAINS.

Of all the achievements that have marked the advance of wireless telegraphy, the most noteworthy, possibly, is forecasted by the announcement of the Chicago and Alton railway that it will instal wireless apparatus on all its trains running between Chicago and St. Louis, and that eventually the scheme will be extended to the entire system.

The Thin Man's Danger.

He can't resist disease germs,—that's why he's such a mark for consumption. In this land of plenty thiness is wickedness, especially when it's so easily overcome with Ferrozone. This remarkable tissue builder makes you fat quickly; it does so by forming blood that's rich, nourishing and healthgiving. Ferrozone supplies the nutriment needed by wornout nerves, rapidly constructs muscle and fatty tissue. The form fills out, the cheeks redden, proving that weight is being added. To be well and stay well, use Ferrozone. Fifty chocolate coated tablets in a box for fifty cents or six for $2.50 at all dealers.

HOW TO DEVELOP THE TOWN.

INTERESTING ADDRESS BY MR. JOHN T. HALL, OF HAMILTON, ONT.

A joint meeting of Medicine Hat Board of Trade and Town Council was held in the commercial room of the Assiniboia Hotel on Saturday afternoon, to meet Mr. John T. Hall, assessment commissioner of the Hall, assessment commissioner of the city of Hamilton, who has done so much to develop that city by interesting manufacturing firms. It happened that Ex-Mayor Chand and Mr. Wardell, of St. Thomas, Ontario, were also in town the same day and they very kindly gave their experiences also.

There was a representative attendance and the Mayor briefly introduced

Mr. Hall, who prefaced his remarks by saying he did not know he had done anything remarkable until he was asked by the Municipal Union to read a paper at the Winnipeg meeting the other day. He then proceeded to detail the early experiences and disappointments of the city of Hamilton and said the great drawback at first was the want of railway facilities. After a long struggle they got American lines in in competition and then Canadian lines showed anxiety to come in. Now they had five lines in there and it was a large divisional point. Their first real start came from the development of electrical power from a point a few miles out of the city. About the same time he conceived the idea of making Hamilton a manufacturing centre, and after many efforts and long correspondence they got American manufacturers in—the Deering and the International Harvester Co. and others and as they all knew Hamilton was now a great manufacturing centre. After giving details of the various concerns of the city Mr. Hall went on to say that in endeavoring to develop a place you must BE PERSISTENT.

and keep it up. To advertise one year and drop it the next was no good. In his office he took all the trade journals and these were carefully gone through to find out what firms were looking for locations. Lists of these were made and they were all written to and invited to investigate. If they visited the town they were shown round and treated well so that they left with a good feeling for Hamilton. He found some difficulty, he said, in advising Medicine Hat what lines to adopt. If the population had been larger he would have been better able to advise. Their population of 3,500 was only equal to the number of employes in the two manufacturing firms he had mentioned. When booming the place it would be well to keep within the mark so that they could verify every statement made. He believed in endeavoring to develop along the lines of the

NATURAL ADVANTAGES

of a town and district. If it was a distributing point then go for that. If it possessed electrical power go for that. If it had natural gas try to develop along the lines in which the gas could be utilised. They would meet with disappointments but must not get discouraged. At Hamilton they thought they did well when they handed one in every hundred they took in hand. It was a work of time. It took him four years to get a start. They must gather in some office particulars on all sorts of subjects and be prepared to give full information to every inquiry. And it would surprise most of them as to the extent and breadth of the inquiries they would receive. At Hamilton they had gathered a tremendous amount of information as to every particular concerning the town, fire appliances, water services, cost of living, value of property, assessments, amount of land available, freight rates to Winnipeg, freight rates by rail and by boat, the mineral deposits in the district, the railway facilities, and a hundred other things in minutest detail and comparisons with the same things in other towns. The man who had charge of it should have all these things at hand and be prepared to correspond again and again with firms, and write good letters and follow each one up. It had to be taken up as a regular hard business proposition and worked out to obtain results. It was necessary to be prepared to answer any question that might be asked. At Hamilton they kept a list of about 300 American firms thinking of locating in Canada. At Hamilton they had about 1000 acres in the manufacturing district. It all belonged to private individuals. The city did not own any of it. At first that land was priced at about $500 an acre, but some of it had lately beensold for $1700 an acre. It was a large market garden district. So far as he could observe there was

NO BETTER FIELD IN CANADA

than right here in Medicine Hat, and he might say he was surprised at the rapid development of the west The people of the east did not realise it. Local equipment was more up-to-date in Medicine Hat than anything he had seen yet in the west. At Hamilton he had tried to get the Board of Trade to take this matter up, as he thought they were the proper body to do it, but as they did not he went into it himself. As hedid not know the local conditions at Medicine Hat he suggested that questions should be asked.

Mr. D. G. White asked if they gave bonuses at Hamilton.

Mr. Hall replied in the negative and said they had got beyond that stage at Hamilton. Their electric power and railway facilities and cheapliving were the reasons why firms established themselves there.

Mr. Wm. Cousins asked if Hamilton did any newspaper advertising.

Mr. Hall said they did not. They way he had outlined.

went after the individual firms in the

The Mayor asked what lines of industries in Mr. Hall's opinion would be suitable for Medicine Hat.

Mr. Hall—At first only those manufactures for which you have the raw material right here and for which you would have a market in the province.

The Mayor—Could we ask for the establishment of smelting works?

Mr. Hall—How far are you from the lakes?

The Mayor—About 800 or 900 miles.

Mr. Hall—You might get these in time. I would suggest to you to start on something smaller at first. If anyone thinks this a good place for smelting get right after them and camp right upon their trail.

In reply to Mr. Blythe, he said he considered Medicine Hat would be a good point for a carriage factory. They had the raw material and the market here. Nearly every carriage he had seen was of eastern manufacture.

Replying to another questioner he said he did not consider bonusing the first thing. He thought more of the natural conditions. Hamilton offered $200,000 to the C.P.R. at first to come in then and they would not come. Then the city got an American line. They bonused that line to the extent of $250,000 and that was the best money they ever spent.

Mr. Blythe—Then it resolves itself into a question of raw material with us here.

Mr. Hall—Yes and in natural gas you have the best substitute for electric power.

Asked about a biscuit factory he said he thought this would be a very suitable place as the raw material and the market were here. The fact of this being a "country of magnificent distances" worked against some places for manufacturing.

Mr. Hall, continuing, said every man should be loyal to his town. Everyone should be enthusiastic in advocating the towns claims and advantages.

Mr. Brotherton—Would it be profitable to employ a man for this who would do nothing else.

Mr. Hall said he hardly thought it would at present, but one of their officials could take it up and work it until the time came to employ the right man. But he must be well versed and and capable of imparting his enthusiasm to others. He explained the ways in which the man could do good work for the town.

Replying to a remark by Mr. C. S. Pingle

Mr. Hall said every citizen should be an agent for the town, and political matters should be dropped when it came to a question of advancing the interests of the town. All should work together as one man.

Mr. Blythe—Do you think Medicine Hat has a chance?

Mr. Hall—I think before many years several places along the C.P.R. Brandon, Medicine Hat and Calgary will be good cities and, as I tell my friends in the east they must make hay while the sun shines, as the centre of manufacturing will in time, like other things move westward. I like the Brandon site but Medicine Hat has a better location than Brandon. He had been driven into the country round Medicine Hat and was surprised to see such fine farms as they had which were the result of only two years work. (loud applause).

Mr. W. T. Finlay said he met a gentleman the other day who figured out that the natural gas at Medicine Hat for manufacturing purposes, was equal to coal at fifty cents a ton.

Asked as to whether this would be a good place for a glass factory

Mr. Hall said it would be no use starting a glass factory unless with a very strong corporation, or they would soon be swallowed up by the big syndicates which controlled the glass trade. A brick factory would be all right. He had samples of local clay which he would get analysed which he believed would make good vitrified brick.

Asked as to a Woollen factory he thought it should do well here.

Mr. Wardell was invited to speak and briefly addressed the meeting.

Ex-Mayor Chant was called upon and in the course of some remarks said that while he disagreed with bonusing on principle, still he was of the opinion that it had to be done at first. There were many good firms looking for bonuses and the town that gave the bonus got them. It was like a man in business offering goods at a certain price and got the custom. The other man might hold out for a time but at last had to meet the other man's prices to get business. Running a town was like running a business. He did not think small towns could get manufacturing without bonusing. They had found it so at St. Thomas.

On the motion of Mr. Cousins, seconded by Mr. Finlay, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speakers and Mr. Hall was in the middle of replying to it when the siren rang out an alarm of fire and the meeting hurriedly broke up.

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION.

A Convention of conservatives in the Medicine Hat district was held on Thursday for the purpose of electing delegates to the Convention to be held in Red Deer on the 16th instant.

A large number were uresent under the Presidency of Mr. Niblock.

On the election of delegates Messrs J. F. Day and A. Trent were elected as country delegates and Messrs T. Tweed, W. G. Niblock and W. Cousins as town delegates.

The following gentlemen were elected alternates:—

Messrs Hawthorne, Sissons, M. Peard, Drinnan, Johnston, Kealy and Spencer.

On motion of Messrs Kealy and H. Tweed it was resolved:—That the delegates be instructed to use their best endeavors to have the Convention at Red Deer pass a resolution that Conservative candidates be nominated to contest each constituency at the coming Provincial elections.

On motion of Messrs. Collier and Sissons the meeting unanimously adopted as the opinion of all true conservatives the four resolutions passed at the meeting of citizens of Medicine Hat held on the 3rd day of March last.

The meeting adjourned sine die.

LONGEST TELEPHONE LINE.

The longest distance over which speech is regularly transmitted is between Boston and Omaha, 1600 miles. A business house in the western city talks daily with its representatives in Boston. The human voice is transmitted between those distant points on a copper wire in less time than it would take to cross an ordinary room without electrical propulsion.

THE WORRIES OF THE RICH.

Mrs. Annie M. Weightman Walker, heiress of the Weightman fortune of about $50,000,000, is said to be living in fear of poison, and at her apartments in a New York hotel has surrounded herself with detectives to foil any efforts of her enemies to reach her. Mrs. Walker is, according to the stories that are being told, more unhappy than she ever was in her life over the efforts to break the will of her father, which made her so enormously wealthy. She is living in one of the most magnificient suites in the Hotel Renaissance. The entrance to her apartments is said to be constantly watched by detectives. lb

MEDICINE HAT CROPS.

CORN, WHEAT, OATS, BARLEY, RYE MILLET, FLAX.

BINDERS AT WORK.

Few people realise the extent and quality of the crops around Medicine Hat. Even the people living in town have no idea of the splendid sight they can have of ripe standing crops by taking the "horse-shoe" drive.

On Thursday last the Editor of this paper was taken over that splendid drive by Mr. L. B. Cochran, Dominion Land Agent and although we knew fairly well what to expect we were all the same surprised before the drive was ended.

Leaving town by way of Dunmore road we crossed the track by the Grist Mill and immediately beyond that we came upon a binder at work on Mr. Null's land. The crop was a little short in the straw and lighter than what we afterwards saw on the bench lands. Ascending the hill we had on our right Mr. Black's homestead, on which is a good crop of potatoes, and back of that lay Mr. Follis' farm. We continued on the Dunmore trail and turned in to

MR. ZAHNISER'S FARM.

A field of barley had been cut a week before and the stooks was evidence of a pretty good crop. Binders were at work on a big field of Red Fife wheat which was quite ready for harvest, and it was a pretty sight to see the yellow grain waving in the breeze and slowly but surely going down before the knives of the binders Mr. Zahniser's fields stretch away on three sides of his house and comprise several hundred acres of golden grain. Off to the south we could see a field of 100 acres of barley. (We were wrong in stating last week that this had been cut). This field will be ready for the binder in about another week, and it is Mr. Zahniser's intention to at once seed the land to

WINTER WHEAT.

Mr. Zahniser came over from the States less than three years ago. He has made a big mark on our prairie already.

Next Mr. Zahniser was a small field of wheat belonging to Mr. J. H. Trimble, which was sown on summer fallow. This shows a thick, heavy stand, and will likely yield 30 bushels to the acre if present promises are fulfilled.

Our horses' head was turned west and we were soon driving along the boundary fence of

MR. FOLLIS' FARM.

The owner of this extensive farm, like his neighbors, has only been here a short time but has a large acreage under crop and has a dairy in connection. This farm is therefore an example of mixed farming and Mr. Follis is making a great success of it. His grain field lay some distance from the trail, and could be seen like a "cloth of gold" amidst the green of the surrounding prairie. A little further on, on our left hand we drove past a section of land recently purchased by Mr. W. R. Babington for his brother, who is coming here next year. A little more than half of it had been turned over by the steam plow. The furrow was a mile in length. At the corner of this we turned west and drove for a mile between fields of wheat forming a part of which is a good deal the largest we have in this district and bids fair to becomethe largest in Canada. The land held by Mr. Babington and his brothers comprises about 5000 acres of which about 800 acres are in crop this year. This acreageincludes 500 acres of wheat, the remainder being made up of barley, oats, Millet and flax, all of which is yielding an abundant crop. Mr. Babington will probably thresh more than 7000 bushels of wheat alone. He modestly estimates it at less but we award him that. He deserves to get it. We turned south again and a drive of another mile between fields of waving grain brought us to the homestead where we found Mrs. Babington gathering a basket of eggs while the farmer himself was preparing for a drive to town. A field of rye was in stook and Binders were at work onthe wheat. W. R. Babington, like so many of his countrymen (cousins from over the border), goes in for farming on a big scale. His ploughing is done with a steam outfit turning 20 acres of sod a day and the extent of his operations may be judged when we say that the Babington holdings extend about 7½ miles along the side of the Crow's Nest railway. He has 400 acres ready for seeding to and he has faith that fall wheat is going to make this district famous as a farming country. The steam plow was at work near the railway and was plowing a

W. R. BABINGTON'S FARM.

FALL WHEAT.

FURROW TWO MILES LONG.

When you see a man start off to plow a furrow for two miles in a straight line without a turn you feel inclined to urge him to take a lunch basket with him.

The wheat heads seem to have filled out very well. Judging from some sample heads of wheat pulled from one of the fields the yield ought to be fully up to our estimate. One head contained six rows and yielded 80 grains of wheat. Four heads averaged 75 grains each. A good stand with heads like that would easily go 40 bushels to the acre or more. A drive of a couple of miles in a westerly direction brought us past Frank White's place and as we went we had a view of Mr. Thomas Littleford's ranch. Mr. Littleford goes largely into stock, mostly horses. A slight view was obtained of

MR. WM. HOUGHTON'S FARM.

Mr. Houghton has some very fine crops which promise to yield with the best in the district. We hope to have a nearer view on our next jaunt. We crossed the Seven Persons creek and the next point interest was a field of about 100 acres containing a mixed crop. This belonged to

FLEMING & CORBETT

of the Nova Scotia dairy, which has a good location on the creek. The field referred to contained

25 ACRES OF CORN.

We believe numerous readers will be considerably surprised to hear o: "Indian Corn" being cultivated here upon such a large scale. Fleming & Corbett are growing it for winter feed for their dairy cattle. The crop was in bloom and stood about four feet high and looked very flourishing Alongside this was a good breadth of swedes and mangolds, and these

JOSEPHSBURG DISTRICT.

We have from time to time made brief reference to the farmers of Josephsburg district but have had no time to make a personal inspection. We have it on good authority that the German farmers of that settlement have good crops this year, but the acreage on individual farms is not large. The aggregate, however, will run into a good figure.

WHAT THE FARMER IS DOING.

It is doubtful if we, as a town, realise what these enterprising farmers who are settling right around here are doing and what their work may mean to us. They are demonstrating beyond the shadow of a doubt that this prairie of ours for many miles around town, can be converted into a golden granary, and by doing that they are adding to the wealth of every property owner in the town. Crops of spring sown wheat, rivalling the crop of far-famed Manitoba, are being harvested by them to-day, and that alone will mean thousands of dollars to the town. They will experiment largely with winter wheat in the next season and they are sanguine of success. Their success in that will largely increase the value of every foot of property and enhance every business in town, and send the price of land up to a figure which will make the owner of athousandacres rich. Many people in town own farm lands in this vicinity. Our farmers will pour dollars into their pockets. This is what the farmers are doing, and it is something that townspeople should not forget.

W.C.T.U.

(Contributed by a member).

To love the lord with all our hearts and all our minds, with all our strength, and our neighbour as ourselves, is what our blessed Lord taught us as the one good plan of salvation. Who but an almighty God could see that man would try to add so many different plans for securing eternal life. One church has baptisms and good works; others again keep holy the Sabbath day; while yet others claim you may only receive God's free gift by fasting and self-denial. But Jesus said "I am the way, the truth and the light." No man cometh to the Father only through Jesus, not by good works. And then he said "He that cometh unto Me I will in no way cast out." A gentleman friend asked "What is the W.C.T.U. working for? Are they only working against strong liquor selling and drinking? We as white ribbon band wearers take for our guide God's word and in our efforts try to follow Christ's commands. No, it is not only the poor fellow who lets strong liquor destroy his body and life, but, as the good book says, being temperate in all things.

BAD STOMACH MAKES BAD BLOOD.

You can't make sweet butter in a foul churn. Every farmer's wife knows this. Your stomach churns and digests the food you eat, and if foul, torpid or out of order, your whole system suffers from blood poisoning. You will have foul breath, coated tongue, bad taste, poor appetite and a whole train of disagreeable symptoms. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which is not a beverage composed of whisky or alcohol, being entirely free from intoxicants, is a great regulator and invigorator of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

"About a year ago I was ill with blood poisoning," writes Miss Eveline Louis, of 89 Walter Street, Buffalo, N. Y. "I had what seemed to be a small cold sore on my lip. It became very angry in appearance and began to spread until it nearly covered my face. I was a frightful sight and could not go outside the house because of my appearance. I used a blood medicine which did not give me any relief. Then I began to take your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I was greatly benefited with the first bottle and after taking the second bottle was completely cured. The erysipelatous eruption disappeared and my blood was cleansed. My complexion is clear and fresh and I have felt better this year than I did for some time before. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is certainly a most remarkable medicine."

Don't accept a substitute for a medicine which performs such cures and which has a uniformly successful record of nearly forty years to its credit. It's an insult to your intelligence for a dealer to try by over-persuasion to palm off upon you in its stead some inferior article with no record to back it up. You know what you want; it is his business to meet that want.

$50,000 GIVEN AWAY, in copies of The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a book that sold to the extent of 500,000 copies a few years ago, at $1.50 per copy. Last year we gave away 50,000 worth of these invaluable books. This year we shall give away 50,000 worth of them. Will you share in this benefit? If so, send only 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only for book in stiff paper covers, or 50 stamps for cloth-bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Constipation although a little ill begets big ones if neglected. Dr. Pierce's Pellets cures constipation.

GERMANY'S IRON PRODUCTION.

The gross production of iron ore in the year 1904 in Germany and the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg amounted to 10,103,941 metric tons, against 10,085,634 metric tons in 1903. The yield of the ore-bearing regions varied considerably in the two years. In the kingdom of Saxony no iron ore whatever was mined in 1904. The slight gain in the gross output of the year was entirely made during the month of December 1904, and lifted the past year to first position as to productiveness.

GOVERNOR'S CREDIT WAS BAD.

Edward C. Stokes, Governor of New Jersey, recently invited a friend to dine at a Trenton restaurant and afterward discovered that he had lost his pocketbook. "I am the Governor of New Jersey and will settle this little matter when I come in again," explained Governor Stokes to the cashier. "I'm President Roosevelt and you'll settle now," said the cashier, who was new. Happily the Governor found somebody who would vouch for his honesty.

A PRINCE'S HOSPITALITY.

The late Adolph von Menzel owed one of the pleasantest surprises of his life to the German Emperor. On the occasion of the painter's 90th birthday Kaiser Wilhelm invited him to Sans-Souci. As he drove through the park there were a number of rococo statues and statuettes to remind him of the epoch he had particularly studied. At the castle he was met by an old grenadier attired in his buttons exactly as Menzel had painted his ancestors. The ballroom was filled with ladies and gentlemen in the dresses he had put on the canvas.

REV. S. EVERTON LEAVING.

The people of Medicine Hat, are one and all sorry to learn that the Rev. Samuel Everton will leave for Rochester, N.Y. next month. Mr Everton has been pastor of the first Baptist Church for about three years, and has filled the position most acceptably to his people. Under his pastorate the church has flourished and a fine new structure has replaced the old one which did duty in the previous years. Mr Everton has not accepted a call from any church, and is going primarily in order to take a post-graduate course, but he will accept preaching engagements. The Times joins the many friends of Mr and Mrs Everton in wishing them Godspeed.

THE FLYING CONE.

An Odd Chinese Toy and How to Make and Work It.

This interesting and in many respects remarkable toy had its origin in China, where the peddlers use it to announce their coming by the humming sound that it produces. Of course it was made of heavier material and of a larger size in its original farm, but when it was introduced into Europe it became so popular that men, women and children played with it and an eminent scientist, a professor in the University of Cambridge, spent much time in studying its movements and finally succeeded in explaining it mathematically.

To make the toy fit together two cones at their points. Then get two small, light sticks about two feet long each and fasten a string a yard long to an end of each.

The player holds the other ends of the sticks, one in each hand, allowing the string to rest on a table. He then places the double cone near the right hand stick at the middle joint, where the cones are joined. The illustration will show you how they are joined.

The cone having been placed near the stick on the right, the player lifts that stick steadily, and the cone begins to revolve and run down the string. Now toss the cone up a little way and bring the string back to its original position, and the cone will continue to revolve. Repeat this slight movement until the cone is revolving rapidly.

As you acquire skill with it you may toss the cone high into the air and catch it spinning on the taut string or you may make it run up the stick to your arm.

Don't be discouraged if you cannot do this at first. Keep at it, and it will give you more fun than spinning a top ever did when you become expert. Various other feats with it will suggest themselves when you have become sufficiently skillful.

Tuning Church Bells.

The bellmakers were finishing a huge bell for a magnificent church. Beside them stood a piano. One struck a note of music from the instrument; the other struck the bell a blow with a hammer.

"Cla-a-ng!" sounded the mellow metal, and the man beside the bell took up his tools and chipped a small piece from its edge.

"Still too high," he said. "Now, once more, George."

Again the piano was struck, and again the bell was struck.

"Still high," said the workman, and he carefully chipped off another piece of metal.

"Won't you ruin that bell, chipping it so?" a clergyman stopped to ask.

"Why, bless you, no sir," said the bellmaker. "You always have to chip a bell to bring it to the required tone. Every bell, after it's done, has to be tuned, and the only way to tune it is to chip it this way."

An Elephant and a Lion.

In the jungles of India there lived an elephant who showed a wonderful sagacity and mother love for its offspring. One day the baby elephant wandered away from its mother, who showed her uneasiness at its absence. Reaching the top of a hill, she saw her darling quietly browsing at the foot, while stealing along at no great distance was an enormous lion. The mother was at her wit's ends. She realized that the baby would not have a ghost of a chance against the hunger of the lion, who every moment was drawing nearer to its desired end. The lion halted a moment directly beneath the place where the helpless mother stood. More quickly than it can be told the elephant rolled herself into a huge ball and rolled down the hill. The lion never knew what struck him. His feelings were completely crushed, while the baby elephant was led home, where he no doubt got a severe scolding.

Hunting Blindfold.

This is a simple little game, but it makes lots of fun. One of the players is to be blindfolded, and the others stand about the room as they please. The blindfolded one then walks or gropes around until he touches a player, and the player touched must stand still and make a noise in imitation of some animal—say a cat, a dog, a cow, a pig or a horse.

If the blindfolded player chooses, he can have the sound made three times, and if he then guesses the name of the person the person takes his place. If he does not guess correctly he releases the player and tries again.

"Twould Hurt Dolly's Feelings.

I asked a happy little maid,
Proud owner of a doll and cat:
"Which do you love the better, dear,
Your doll or kitty? Tell me that."
The little maiden paused awhile,
Then whispered soft as evening breeze,
"I be've I 'ove my kitty best.
But don't tell dolly if 'ou p'ease!"

Uncomplimentary.

Wifkins—I believe that dog of mine knows as much as I do. Bifkins—Huh! I've seen smarter dogs than that.

Sitting Hens.

Never shut a hen on the nest. Let her be the judge. She best knows when to leave the nest and when to return. The writer every season sets from fifty to a hundred hens in barrels, with runs in front, as aforesaid, and never dictates to old Biddy what she shall or shall not do. It is very seldom that a hen misuses this privilege for us.—Cor. Farm Journal.

WROUGHT FOR CANADA.

Death of Mrs. Fletcher Recalls Historic Event—Only Public Deed of a Retiring Life.

The death recently of Mrs. Josephine Kennedy Fletcher, widow of the late John Fletcher, at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Wm. Goulding, on St. George street, Toronto, recalls a sometimes forgotten event in Canadian history.

People who in Queen's Park pause at the head of Grenville street, to observe the monument to the fallen heroes of the Northwest Rebellion may now remember that the hands of Mrs. Fletcher wrote that unobtrusive page in our national life.

Here and there may be found in the busy whirl of modern city life, with its shallow noises and artificial distinctions, a life which quietly persists in some good work against the most disheartening obstacles, shuns advertisement and wins where others of more obtrusive methods fail. Such an one was Mrs. Fletcher, essentially a domestic character, but having a strong vein of patriotism, none the less real because it was not on parade. The monument to her life—she could such a life need aught but the undying memory of her children and friends—is that monument to the heroes of the Northwest Rebellion in Queen's Park. But for Mrs. Fletcher there had been no monument there. But for her steady, unselfish persistence in a patriotic cause none would have known what obstacles opposed its building.

Patriotic and Personal.

Canada had not reached the stage of development when the national instinct does things of its own accord. There had been as yet no Paardeberg and Hart's River. But there had been Fish Creek, Cut-Knife and Batoche. More than twenty men fell in these engagements. It seemed to Mrs. Fletcher that distinction won so dearly on a field so remote, deserved a better monument than mere memory. Her interest in this was both patriotic and personal. Born in England, she had then been a resident of Canada for a generation. Three of her sons had served in the Queen's Own on different times. One was with his regiment in the Northwest Rebellion. He is now living in Kentucky. Another died since the rebellion, and was given a semi-military funeral by his comrades. So that Mrs. Fletcher's interest in building a monument was no mere sentiment seeking notoriety.

A Woman's Determination.

Others had tried the prospect and had failed. Mrs. Fletcher tried and succeeded. Raising money for monuments is no easy task. This, one of the earliest and most costly monuments in Queen's Park, had its own obstacles. The movement dragged on for eight years. Military men had all but given it up as hopeless. To erect a monument worthy of the cause meant by no means a small item of cost, not less than $6,000. Most of that amount was raised through a personal canvass and other unostentatious but effective means by Mrs. Fletcher.

She Wrought for Canada.

Undaunted by the apathy of men who should have been more interested in it than she, persevering in spite of hard work and the failures of others, she raised the money. An instance of her rare devotion to the cause may be noted in the fact that at her silver wedding, which took place during the campaign for the monument, Mrs. Fletcher requested her friends to bring not presents for herself and her husband, but gifts for the soldiers' monument.

Not Seeking Advertisement.

At the unveiling, which took place in July, 1896, the woman who had continuingly and unselfishly labored for her country's good, stood almost hidden behind the spectators, far back in the rear of the crowd. She had come, not to be seen, but to see with her own eyes the crowning of her long and patient work. But for Col. Denison, who noticed her back among the crowd she might have been permitted to go quietly home unobserved. Against her will she went to the front. There is no doubt that had she been allowed to rank as an ordinary spectator she would have gone home all the happier in the humble consciousness of having wrought in sincerity and truth, without reward, and without advertisement, for her country's good.

This was Mrs. Fletcher's only public act. She had done her work and retired from the public gaze; rarely spoke of it again. Her own personal preference would doubtless have been that the matter should not be publicly referred to now. But the memory of such an act is a good one to keep alive—for the country's weal. Mrs. Fletcher has two sons still living, both in the United States, and one daughter, Mrs. A. H. Garratt, the wife of Dr. Garratt, College street, Toronto.

The Day of the Canadian Coin.

"Every big crowd that comes to town brings a correspondingly large crop of Canadian coins," said a weary druggist. "For several weeks after a heavy rush of visitors we get dimes and quarters of the Dominion thrust at us in wholesale quantities. It is a mystery where they all come from. Not many of the strangers, apparently, are from across the border. On the contrary, most of them seem to come from districts where foreign money would not be likely to penetrate, yet somehow the visitors pick it up and pass it off on unsuspecting New Yorkers, who, in their turn, try to make clearing houses of the drug stores. There was a time when most druggists, recognizing the difficulty of passing Canadian money, were very accommodating about relieving the public of its undesirable coin, but the drain on our own resources finally became so heavy in the rush season that we had to reverse the rule, and nowadays it takes a very old or a very shrewd customer to work off a Canadian ten cent piece on this particular store.—New York Herald.

Map of Northern Canada.

A new map has been issued by the Department of the Interior, showing the most northerly districts possessed by Canada. The routes of the leading polar expeditions are marked, and the line delimiting Canadian territory, drawn as far north as the pole, then southwestward along the 141st meridian to the boundary between Alaska and Yukon Territory. The map was prepared by Mr. James White, geographer of the Interior Department.

Chugwater's Wife Was True to Her Promise

"JOSIAH," said Mrs. Chugwater, "what do you do at those lodge meetings you attend twice a month?"

"You don't expect me to tell you that, do you? Our proceedings are secret."

"A man oughtn't to have any secrets from his wife. What is the password?"

"I've taken a solemn obligation never to communicate that to any outsider."

"I'm not an outsider. A man and his wife are one. You have a right to communicate it to me."

Mr. Chugwater reflected.

"Well," he said, "if I repeat the password to you once, will you promise never to ask me to say it again?"

"Yes."

"And you will never tell anybody else?"

"Never."

Whereupon he rapidly uttered the following astonishing word:

"Magellfellinellikazenalottaruvistuallisabelliliwinkamanakallooleroo."

Mrs. Chugwater kept her promise. She never repeated that password to a living soul.—Chicago Tribune.

One of the Others.

While visiting my sister yesterday afternoon my little nephew returned home from school rather late, and his mother, wishing to ascertain the cause, said to him:

"Why are you so late, Harold? It is after 4 o'clock."

The boy, with doleful face, replied:

"Bob Hastin's and some other fellers were kept in."

His mother, with a perplexed look, said:

"Well, what did that have to do with you?"

"Oh, I was one of the other fellers."

No Misrepresentation.

"See here," exclaimed the irate purchaser to the typewriter agent, "didn't you tell me the machine you sold me was so strong you could drop it out of a window, go down and pick it up and go right to work on it?"

"I did."

"Well, it fell out of the window accidentally yesterday, and I had to send it to the repair shop."

"Well, you could have gone right to work on it yourself if you'd known how to set about fixing it, couldn't you?"—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Hint.

"No," she says firmly, looking down at her little boot.

Rising from his knees, the rejected lover heaves a sigh.

"Alas!" he says. "And you were my one perfect dream."

With a mute gesture of farewell he is about to leave, when she calls after him shyly.

"But—well—but, you know, dreams go by contraries."

He returns, taking the ring from his pocket as he comes.—Judge.

A Good Guess.

Miss Smart—What is the most curious thing in the world?

Mr. Wise—A woman who isn't curious.

Fun For the Little Angels.

My little cousin Herbert, who is four years old, was standing by the window watching it rain. Suddenly turning around, he asked, "Mamma, who makes it rain?"

"Why, God does," exclaimed his mother.

"Oh, what a lot of fun God must have turning on all those faucets!" cried the little fellow.

Nonsupporting.

Biffers—No, madam, I feel that I cannot support the present administration.

Mrs. Biffers—I'm not surprised at it, Mr. Biffers. I've lived with you now for seventeen years, and I've come to the conclusion that you can't support anything or anybody.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Useful Speeches.

"A man in public life should learn to say 'no.'"

"Yes," answered the magnate. "And when there is an investigation on he should learn to say 'I don't know.'"—Washington Star.

The Auto Car.

Mary had an auto car,
It went with gasoline,
And everywhere that Mary went
The auto car was seen.

She tried to go to town one day
While early morning glowed;
When nighttime came the auto car
Still stuck there in the road.

This made the farmers laugh and jest
To see the auto balk.
If Mary ever got to town
She doubtless had to walk.
—Chicago Chronicle.

A Story of Napoleon III.

Napoleon III., who had no fewer poor relatives to help on than any other sovereign, was trying one day to convince a cousin, whom he had already generously aided, that it was impossible for him to increase her allowance. The princess took the refusal angrily and as she was leaving said in a taunting manner:

"Decidedly you have nothing of the great emperor, our uncle."

"You mistake, my dear cousin," replied Napoleon, with a cheerful smile, "I have his family."

MOLIERE'S COURAGE.

Pathetic Story of the Dramatist's Last Stage Appearance.

There is a pathetic account of Moliere's last appearance which shows the supreme courage which sickness could not dissipate and which was a part of him till death. His health had long been failing and he had suffered for years with a distressing cough, which rapidly became worse. On the day of the third presentation of "La Malade Imaginaire," 1673, he was so ill that his wife and friends entreated him not to perform. But he was deaf to their appeals. "What can I do?" he said. "There are forty workmen who have only their daily pay to live upon, and they will lose that if I do not act. I should reproach myself if I neglected to give them their bread for a single day." Though more than usually indisposed, he went through his part with great difficulty. Once during the performance the company could not but see that he was convulsed, but he passed it off with a forced laugh. When it was over he left the stage, saying to his friends, "The cold is killing me." He was wrapped up warmly, and his chair man sent to convey him to his home. No sooner was he in bed than he was seized with a violent fit of coughing, which brought on a hemorrhage, and he died before his wife could reach his side. His last words were to assure his friends that the hemorrhage was not alarming in any way and urging them to take courage.

JAPANESE MIRRORS.

Some That Are Supposed to Possess a Magic Quality.

Some Japanese mirrors are supposed to possess a magic quality, which has rendered them objects of superstitious reverence for centuries, and, in fact, it has even puzzled modern science not a little. When a strong beam of light is so reflected from one of them as to be thrown upon a screen, there appears upon the screen an image in delicate tracery perfectly reproducing the pattern engraved in relief on the back of the mirror, which, of course, is altogether hidden from the light. Inasmuch as the face of the mirror presents a surface that is perfectly smooth, apparently the reason for this phenomenon is difficult to find. Its cause, however, is simple enough. The preliminary operation of polishing the face consists in scoring the cast disk with a sharp tool in every direction.

The thicker portions, where the ornamentation in relief is on the back, offer more resistance, and the result is a corresponding inequality of the polished surface. This inequality is not sufficiently marked to be visible to the naked eye, but it is enough to turn the rays of light, and thus the pattern of the engraving on the back is reproduced on the screen in the manner described. These so called magic mirrors are so highly valued that they sell from ten to twenty times the price paid for ordinary ones.

A Peculiarity of Ghosts.

Scientific personages as well as the rest of us have always been puzzled by the degeneration of the dead both in taste and in intellectual power. No matter how fastidious a man may have been during his lifetime, he is no sooner dead than he develops a marked partiality for back rooms up two flights of greasy, rickety stairs in disreputable tenements. His favorite environment is now dirt and squalor, and his favorite companions are the ignorant and the half witted. The nature of the next world, the aching secret which the human race through all ages has eaten its heart out to know, is ignored by these modern ghosts in favor of shoestrings which they happened to leave in the corner of an old desk and which they beseech us to go and find.

Announcing a Meal.

Among the curious byways of social history and household custom, says the London Globe, is that which is concerned with the mode of announcing that dinner or any other meal is or shortly will be ready. The dinner bell is, of course, the oldest of these modes. In mediaeval times the monastery or convent bell rang out on the quiet country air many times in the course of the day and night, and one of the many summonses was that which drew them to the refectory. And in later ages there are frequent allusions in literature which show that the bell method was still in constant favor notwithstanding the customary use of other modes of summons.

Spoiled His Trip.

A man in central Kansas, according to the Kansas City Journal, had trouble with his wife and more trouble with his mother-in-law. The wife died. On the day of the funeral the undertaker started to put the man in the same hack with his mother-in-law. The man balked.

"I won't ride with her," said he.

"But you must," replied the undertaker. "The other hacks are all full."

"Well, if I must I will," said the man, "but it will take away all the pleasure of the trip."

Descriptive.

Grandfather, doing some carpenter work and finding he needed some screws, sent little Mary to the hardware store to get some for him. When she got there she could not remember the word "screw." At last she said, "Grandpa wants some nails with ruffles on."

Wanted Retail Rates.

A North Carolina negro called at a preacher's residence one night and asked, "'Bout how much will you charge to marry me, suh?" "Well," said the preacher, "I usually get $5." "Lor', boss," exclaimed the negro, "I ain't gwine to marry but one woman!"

They Got the "Glassy Eye."

A certain confectioner in New York, who caters chiefly to the little folks of the neighborhood, lately arranged his shop window with great care in preparation for a local festivity. The crowning attraction of the whole was a large chocolate tiger with most realistic green eyes made of glass marbles which had cost the designer 25 cents apiece. In the tiger's mouth was a card bearing the inscription, "Nothing in this window over 5 cents a quarter pound."

WOMAN'S WORLD

MISS JANE ADDAMS.

Her Fame as a Social Reformer Extends Round the World.

Since the fame of Hull House, generally known as the most successful of all social settlements, has extended from Chicago throughout the civilized world, a great deal has been said and written about its founder and head, Miss Jane Addams.

Comparatively few, however, know that in Philadelphia Miss Addams found most of that practical teaching which has enabled her to do so great a work among Chicago's poor.

Miss Addams was twenty-eight years old when she came to Philadelphia and had already decided upon her life work.

After graduation from a western college—Miss Addams is a native of Illinois—she traveled in Europe with her warm friend and schoolmate, Miss Ellen Starr. They visited most of the cities of the continent, and in each they made a special study of the condition of districts stricken by poverty.

MISS JANE ADDAMS.

When they sailed for home they had made up their minds to introduce the social settlement idea in the west and devote their lives to the work. From this incentive Hull House came into being, founded by Miss Addams and Miss Starr.

Before entering upon the great work of her life, however, Miss Addams decided to make a sojourn to Philadelphia in order to study the conditions and charitable work which she should do in Chicago.

The next year, in 1889, the social settlement of Hull House was opened in the Nineteenth ward of Chicago, said to be the worst municipal district in the world.

In it are massed people of nearly every country on the globe, most of whom live in squalor and depravity. Fifty thousand men, women and children call the ward home.

In any event, the district was bad enough to suit Miss Addams and Miss Starr, and there they have been working ever since and with a success that is remarkable.

How far famed Hull House really is may be judged from a single incident. At the time of the Paris exposition Miss Addams was in France trying to obtain information as to the status of social settlements in Europe.

One day she was talking with a celebrated sociologist, but the word "settlement" seemed unknown to him. As clearly as she could she explained its spirits and aims, and then he understood.

"Oh, yes," he exclaimed, "certainly. Madam means a Hull House."—Philadelphia North American.

Helps For the Cook.

Many steps can be saved the cook, whether she happens to combine with that important office the duties of the family mother or whether she happens to be paid for her services, if only the kitchen be fitted up with conveniences of various kinds for her special use. These cost little to provide, and a handy man in the house may put them up himself.

Right over the range or just at one side of it may be placed a hanging cupboard that will save many unnecessary trips backward and forward from the shelves of the regular kitchen closet. This small cupboard may be of any size commensurate with the wall space, but should be divided into half by a shelf which is at least six inches deep. Now, the lower half can be divided again in half, leaving one tall compartment for vinegar and other bottles and a group of four square spaces to be used for smaller jars, bottles and such things. The upper half of the cupboard can be divided into as many or as few compartments as will suit individual convenience.

There is no door to this hanging cupboard. It must be left open so that everything upon its shelves is within easy and quick reach of the cook. Here she will have before her and ready for instant use vinegar, bicarbonate of soda, sugar, salt, nutmeg, spices, including black pepper and paprika, onion juice, garlic, cloves and all the small essentials to good flavoring which may be needed at short notice.

Instead of having to cross the floor to open a closet door and take down what she wants, then recrossing to the range, these things will be right at her hand.

A Book Rack.

No room looks quite comfortable without books. If a bookcase or shelf is not desirable at least have a book rack on the table to hold half a dozen volumes. One can be had easily. Three pieces of wood are needed. To make a good sized rack the longest may be two feet in length, six inches in width and an inch thick. The end pieces, which are to be nailed upright, are the same width and thickness and six inches long. They may be rounded or finished at the top in any way desired.

Tapestry, cretonne, chints, satin, damask or leather may be used to cover the wood, whichever will best match the furnishings of the room. A pretty rack is covered with scarlet chintz in Japanese pattern and has pasted on the outside of each end a Japanese figure in relief, such as one buys at oriental shops.

Covered with dainty chints and filled with books, such a rack will make a spare room take on a cheerful, homelike air.

Marinating Steak.

A correspondent asks for directions for marinating round steak to make it tender. Equal quantities of salad oil and vinegar, or, better still, lemon juice, makes a good marinade. Two tablespoonfuls each of the oil and the vinegar well mixed and seasoned is poured into a platter, and the steak is turned several times in the mixture. Leave it to soak for at least six hours. The French make a very elaborate marinade, which gives the meat a delicious flavor. Finely slice a white onion and place it in the dish with several slices of lemon, a bay leaf, a few whole peppers, two cloves, a bit of mace and a sprig of parsley pulled apart with the fingers. Add the oil and vinegar and stir well together.—New York Post.

Enlarged Pores.

For enlarged pores a hot face bath at night is first necessary, always followed by a cold plunge. A few drops of benzoin in the water will aid a cure, and should the face require cleansing during the day some astringent lotion should be used, such as the following: One-half pint of lilac flower water, four ounces of alcohol, two and a half ounces of glycerin, two ounces of sweet almonds (powdered) and one-quarter ounce salicylic acid. Add almonds to perfumed water and shake vigorously. Then add glycerin and the other ingredients and agitate thoroughly. Apply during the day and at night with a soft cloth.

Position In Bed.

Do you ache in the morning? If that is the case the chances are that it is due to a habit of lying in bed in a wrong position. The only position for resting is that which relieves the muscles and joints. This is the one called "extension." Very few persons realize that to rest thoroughly the muscles should be relaxed. Another mistake is to have the bed hard. If it causes aching be very sure that you need to have it softer. Do not make a martyr of yourself for the opinions set forth by some spectacled professor. He will not bear your aches and pains.

Candlesticks and Lamps.

Candlesticks and lamps made of glass after the old models are very welcome after the long period we had to endure the china and gilt banquet lamp with ballet girl skirt shade. When fitted with empire shades to match the color scheme of a room they look extremely well. The glass candlesticks are especially good for table decoration and when surmounted by a colored shade make a table very attractive.

Liquid Rouge.

A vegetable liquid rouge is made of one-half ounce of Brazil dust and six gills of water. Let the two boil for five minutes in an earthen vessel (not metal) and strain. When cold add three drams of isinglass, one-half ounce of powdered alum, one dram of cochineal and one and one-half drams of borax. Bring all the mixture to a boil again and let simmer gently for five minutes. Then strain through a very fine cloth.

Harmonious Coloring.

Harmonious coloring does not necessarily imply a room where everything matches. The monotonous rooms of twenty years ago are no longer considered good style. A room is far more satisfactory when it does not proclaim its color, when walls, rugs, furniture, pictures and small articles make a satisfactory whole and no one part is unduly prominent.

Tablecloths.

Linen tablecloths keep white much better if instead of being washed with the other clothes they are rubbed through, scalded and put into the sudsing water before other pieces. Linen irons more easily if well shaken free of wrinkles before being hung on the line.

The Finest Virtue.

The time to teach truthfulness is childhood. And the way to teach it is never, never, never to make your child for an instant afraid to tell the truth about anything whatever—anything he does, anything he thinks.—Saturday Evening Post.

Cucumber is one of nature's cosmetics. Try using a slice of cucumber instead of soap for washing your face. Don't throw away the rind. Boil it and use the water for washing your face.

Zealous young housekeepers sometimes make the mistake of cleaning pans with sand soap. Don't. It only scratches the paint. The other soap will do the work.

Clean out closets and bureaus with turpentine water and use generous proportions of the turpentine. It's a prevention against moths.

If you put matting down be sure the floors are thoroughly dry before it is laid.

Hatching Pekin Ducks.

Pekin duck eggs must be hatched out with chicken hens or incubators, as the Pekin duck is no good for hatching out eggs. Do not feed young ducks anything the first twenty-four hours. After that feed four or five times a day with cornmeal and shorts, mixed and scalded before feeding. When five or six weeks old, feed but three times a day, and let them run out on some grass after dew is off, and they will catch all the bugs and insects in sight. After they are ten weeks old they should be nearly as large as old ducks, if they received proper feed and are the real pure bred Pekins. Always give ducks plenty of water to drink.—Nebraska Farmer.

The Market Duck.

The duck seldom becomes broody.

Ducks love to stay out all night in their runs.

Ducks should never be shut up in a close building.

Pekins are good breeders even at four years of age.

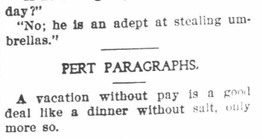
Cleanliness is an important factor in the duck house as in the henhouse.—M. K. Boyer in American Poultry Journal.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

THE PLACE FOR SPORT.

We sing the joy of living,
Of peace and war and sport,
Of taking and of giving
In city, mart and court,
The rapture of the poet
By sages grandly felt,
But only those can know it
In the cyclone belt.



We think we are enjoying
A swell and giddy time,
With words and sweethearts toying
In song and prose and rhyme,
With life a joyous hummer,
But all these feelings melt
When we have spent a summer
In the cyclone belt.

Some men, excitement yearning,
Go chasing after war
In hopes before returning
A bunch of runs to scare,
But disappointment hollow
Will certainly be felt
Unless a call they follow
To the cyclone belt.

Royalty Hunting.

Kings and potentates get a good deal of alleged sport out of hunting, but they can never quite experience the thrill of the small boy who is tracking rabbits through the snow with his first squirrel rifle.

To be sure, the king gets more game than the boy because a gang of lackeys are accommodating enough to drive the big game up to where he couldn't miss shooting it unless he were as accomplished a misser as the Russian naval gunners.

It may be more genuine sport than eating stewed prunes or fighting with burglars to shoot off a gun at a tame bear while a husky man stands behind to reload the gun, while another runs up with a club to dispatch the bear if the shot didn't do the work, but for the freeborn American citizen the operation is too much like playing golf to engender anything like genuine unalloyed joy.

THE PLACE FOR SPORT.

We sing the joy of living,
Of peace and war and sport,
Of taking and of giving
In city, mart and court,
The rapture of the poet
By sages grandly felt,
But only those can know it
In the cyclone belt.

We think we are enjoying
A swell and giddy time,
With words and sweethearts toying
In song and prose and rhyme,
With life a joyous hummer,
But all these feelings melt
When we have spent a summer
In the cyclone belt.

Some men, excitement yearning,
Go chasing after war
In hopes before returning
A bunch of runs to score,
But disappointment hollow
Will certainly be felt
Unless a call they follow
To the cyclone belt.

ALEX. DUNLOP

ALEX. DUNLOP
Editor of the Neepawa Press.

A courage that is aggressive, that counts neither the number of its foes nor that of its friends when any question of principle is involved, that fights the more fiercely and more persistently because of rebuff or temporary check—this is the outstanding characteristic of the editor of the Neepawa Press. He is, indeed, courage incarnated. Few more daring leaders of an intellectual forlorn hope could be imagined than he. He hews to the line, and lets the chips fall where they may. His policy on public questions is at all times tested by the touchstone of fundamental principles and, the test once made, there remains for Mr. Dunlop nothing to do but fight. Whatever the decision, the result is the same, for, like the proverbial Irishman, Mr. Dunlop is bound to get into the scrap, either on one side or the other. If the matter commends itself to his judgment, he straightway arrays himself on the side of its friends, and he fights for it. If the matter cannot stand the tests Mr. Dunlop applies to its consideration, he just as promptly betakes himself to the ranks of its opponents, and, fights against it. He is no lukewarm Laodicean. He much prefers an avowed enemy to a half-hearted friend. He has the courage of his own convictions, and has little use for any spineless wobbler, any Mr. Facing-both-ways. Such temporizing irresolutes he abhors

And, as might be inferred from these strong personal characteristics, Mr. Dunlop hates with a perfect hatred those qualities which are the antithesis to his own. At all times fighting fair himself, he detests all forms of petty meanness and deceit, and for the man who "sells out for personal gain, or who betrays a trust or a friendship, his denunciation is apt to be almost ferocious in its vigor.

Allied with this combative temperament is clear-sightedness, fairness and organizing and executive ability of no ordinary kind. With all his love for a fight, Mr. Dunlop is no fire eater. Though strong in his own convictions, and equally strong in their assertion, he differentiates between personal issues and those of principle. He believes heartily in the saying of Shakespeare, "Strive mightily, but eat and drink as friends." He can oppose a man with whom he differs with the utmost strength, and yet be in the most friendly personal relations with him.

As a writer on public questions, Mr. Dunlop has few superiors in Western Canada. His style is the reflection of his personality. After reading an editorial in the Neepawa Press none can doubt the opinions of its editor. His comments on public matters are always short—from a quarter to a third of a column is about the largest editorials he writes—but in pithiness, directness and strength, they are models of expression. He never wastes a word and is at no pains to round off a graceful sentence, but his outspoken utterances are more widely read and pondered over than the finished work of a much more polished writer. He talks as he talks—a plain man to plain men—and this is one of the secrets of the power of the Neepawa Press in the Northwestern part of Manitoba.

Mr. Dunlop has behind him years of experience in the printing and publishing business. He was fifteen years of age when he came to Manitoba in 1879, so that now he is approaching the half century mark. He is an Ontarioan by birth, having been born near the village of Spencerville, in the county of South Grenville, in 1856.

On his arrival in Manitoba he at once became an apprentice in the printing office of Coldwell & Cunningham, the pioneer publishers of the West—who at that time owned the Weekly Manitoban. He stayed three years with the firm, acquiring the groundwork of a thorough knowledge of the mechanical side of newspaper work. In 1875 he was selected as foreman of the Winnipeg Free Press job department, holding that position until 1882.

That year was the year of the "boom," when land values soared skywards and fortunes were made and lost in a day. Over all the face of western Canada paper railways were projected and imaginary townsites laid out and the lots sold. The only railway certain of construction was the Canadian Pacific, and according to the surveys it was to take a northerly route, through the Yellowhead Pass, the principal point in the foothill country being Edmonton, the future of which was bright with the hopes of becoming a second prairie metropolis.

To Edmonton, therefore, Mr. Dunlop turned his eyes when making his future plans. He formed a partnership with his brother-in-law, the Hon. Frank Oliver, now Minister of the Interior in the Dominion government, and in 1882 the two young newspaper pioneers set off with a few cases of type, packed on a cart, on the 800 mile journey overland from Winnipeg to Edmonton. And when they arrived at the proposed crossing of the Saskatchewan, where the territorial metropolis was to be, and which at that time was nothing but a Hudson Bay fort with a few shacks and tents, they could congratulate themselves from a newspaper standpoint that they were "on the ground floor." Thus was the Edmonton Bulletin, the oldest but one, of territorial newspapers, established.

The route of the Canadian Pacific railway was changed, and Calgary reaped the harvest that Edmonton had expected. When the C.P.R. selected the Kicking Horse instead of the Yellow Head as its trans-Rocky road, Edmonton was left two hundred miles from a railway. The prospects were not sufficiently alluring from a newspaper standpoint to warrant the continuance of the partnership of Oliver and Dunlop in the publicaton of the Bulletin. Mr. Oliver had other ambitions and stayed with the enterprise, while Mr. Dunlop, after a two years' engagement with the Manitoban and the Call, again returned to the Free Press, continuing with Western Canada's great daily for another period of seven years.

He then,—in 1896—went to Neepawa, and established the Press. It was a project requiring nerve and courage, for the population of Neepawa was then only 1,000, and the community was already served by the Register, which, under the editorship of Mr. Mathers, had secured a strong hold on the district, and was properly accounted one of the best country weeklies in the West. What accentuated Mr. Dunlop's difficulty was his stalwart Liberalism, for Neepawa was strongly Conservative in politics, and the Register reflected the prevailing local sentiment. But, with characteristic fearlessness, Mr. Dunlop tackled the proposition. He laid plans to at least divide the business with his competitor by aiming to produce a better paper.

Mr. Dunlop's ability to overcome and control unpropititious circumstances was never better proved than by the success attending his management with the Press. It is splendidly printed, and its makeup is equal to its press work. It gives all the news and Press subscribers know that when they have their paper there is little of consequence in the district of Beautiful Plains that is not there recorded. Its vigorous editorials are moulders of public opinion, and are widely read and copied into the city dailies.

Mr. Dunlop takes an acute interest in municipal as well as general politics. He sat three years in the council, and has twice been defeated for the mayoralty by small majorities. People say, however, that he is gaining in popular favor, and that he will yet get the prize to which he is considered fairly entitled by virtue of good service to the town both as a journalist and councillor.

A small boy from the north who was visiting a relative in one of the southern States where convict labor is employed in public improvements, became very interested in the men and their black and white striped clothes. John White Could get Nothing to Help His Rheumatism Till he tried the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Yellow Grass., Assa., N. W. T., June 26, (specal.)—No place on the prairies but can furnish some proof of the splendid work Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing in wiping out the kidney ailments of the west. It was near here that little Edith Harris was so wonderfully cured of dropsy by them, and now Mr. John White is giving an experience almost as remarkable.

"I think," Mr. White says, "I should let the public know of the benefit I got from Dodd's Kidney Pills. I had rheumatism for years and neither doctors nor medicines did me a bit of good till last spring I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. They did me a great deal of good. I feel like recommending Dodd's Kidney Pills even stronger than I talk."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure the Kidneys. Sound Kidneys strains all seeds of disease out of the blood. They tone up the body to its highest standard of health and energy.

All Used Up By Headaches

Could Not Eat or Work—Powders and Quick Cures of no Avail—Lasting Cure Obtained From

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

This case of Mr. Barber well illustrates the way in which Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures headaches.

He tried the so-called "quick-cures" first, but without obtaining benefit. It is a well known fact that such remedies when they do bring temporary relief do so with a tremendous waste of nerve force and consequent injury to the system.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures by enriching the blood, vitalizing the nerves and building up the system. Headache, as well as all other symptoms of an exhausted system, disappear before its influence. Its cures lasting because it removes the cause of the trouble.

Mrs. George Fuller, Lakeland, Man., writes:—"I am very glad to be able to state that I have received great benefit from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It has cured me of nervous headache from which I used to be a great sufferer and I am no longer troubled with the twitching of the nerves in the arms and legs that I used to have as soon as I went to bed. I am grateful for this cure and shall always recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to anyone suffering as I did."

Mrs. James Clancy, 714 Water street, Peterboro, Ont., states:—"I have used four boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and found them an excellent medicine. I was troubled more or less for nineteen years with severe headaches, which made me useless as far as accomplishing my work was concerned.

"The Nerve Food seemed to build me up generally, and so made a thorough cure of my old trouble. I I would not think of being without Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in the house, and would strongly recommend any one suffering as I did to give it a trial. It succeeded in my case after a great many remedies had failed."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

WORK-WORN MEN

CAN OBTAIN NEW HEALTH AND STRENGTH THROUGH DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

Mr. Edward Martel, 98 St. Peter street, Quebec, is one of the thousands of working men throughout Canada who cheerfully admit that they are kept in health and strength through the use of Dr. Williams Pink Pills. To a reporter who interviewed him, Mr. Martel said:—"The present condition of my health contrasts strikingly with what it was nine months ago. Then I felt that I was almost at death's door, while now I am strong and well. This happy change is entirely due to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I am a workingman, and it is no wonder that after years of diligent toil my system was gradually run down. My blood got as thin as water, and I grew so poorly that the least exertion would leave me weak and trembling. I consulted a doctor, who said that I was run down through hard work, but his medicine did not help me any. A few weeks later I was forced to quit work, and shortly after that had to remain in bed most of the time. One day a fellow workman called to see me, and induced me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before the second box was finished I had a better appetite and relished my meals, and with this came new strength. In a few weeks I was able to go out again, and in about six weeks from the time I began using the pills I was able to return to work, my health completely restored and my strength as vigorous as ever it had been. I attribute my complete recovery entirely to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I think every hard working man would be better for using a box of these pills occasionally.

Mr. Martel's advice should be taken by every workingman. The only way to have health and strength is to keep the blood rich and pure, and the only way to get rich, strength producing blood is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, because they actually make new blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make tired, worn out men and women vigorous and strong. Sold by all medicine dealers, or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"Gerald, what makes your eyes so red?" "Are they red, Millie? Then it must be because I didn't sleep well last night." "Are you troubled with insomnia? You ought to take something to cure it." At a political meeting held in Pennsylvania just before the election of the present governor the speaker and audience were very much disturbed by a man who constantly called for Mr. Henry. Whenever a new speaker came on this man bawled out:—"Mr. Henry! Henry! Henry! I call for Mr. Henry! Henry! Henry!" After several interruptions of this kind at each speech a young man ascended the platform and was soon airing his eloquence in magnificent style, and striking out powerfully in his gestures, when the old cry was heard for "Mr. Henry." Putting his hand to his mouth, like speaking trumpet,this man was bawling out at the top of his voice:—"Mr. Henry! Henry! Henry! I call for Mr. Henry to make a speech." The chairman of the meeting now arose, and remarked that it would oblige the audience if the gentleman would refrain from any further calling for Mr. Henry, as that gentleman was now speaking. "Is that Mr. Henry?" said the disturber of the meeting. "Thunder, that can't be Mr. Henry! Why, that's the little cuss that told me to holler!"

Among the visitors at an art exhibition were two old ladies from the country. They were examining with great interest a bas-relief of a young Greek shepherd, beneath which were inscribd th words, "Executed in terra cotta." "I wonder where Terra Cotta is," ventured the elder of the two, turning to her companion. "Well, now, I ought to know," hesitated the other, "but I can't seem to place it just now." "Ah, well," rejoined the first speaker, as they passed on, "it must be a dreadful place if they execute harmless young boys like that there."

"Charley Choofer just bought a new auto." "There goes another of my resolutions." "What do you mean?" "Why, I resolved that I wouldn't have anything more to do with him."

"Contentment," said Uncle Eben, "is better dan riches, but it's jes' as hard to git."

A Cure for Fever and Ague.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are compounded for use in any climate, and they will be found to preserve their powers in any latitude. In fever and ague they act upon the secretions and neutralize the poison which has found its way to the blood. They correct the impurities which find entrance into the system through drinking water or food and if used as a preventative fevers are avoided.

"It may be different in Russia," said District Attorney W. T. Jerome, "for it seems as though they were in for a real revolution over there without the third of what are called the three essentials, but usually your genuine revolter wants all three. In South America, for instance, he won't begin work without them." "The three essentials?" queried the Philadelphia lawyer; "and what are they?" "Money first; nothing goes in this world without that. Second, some arms and ammunition—that part of it is like a baby carriage in Brooklyn; it goes without saying. And the third is usually just as necessary as the other two—a way of escape."

"Well, what do you think about the yellow peril?" asked the preacher. "It is just terrible," replied Mrs. Wickleson. "I think I'll pack up and take the children away somewhere." "Oh, I don't believe it's as bad as that. We have no need to be frightened over here." "It's all right for you to talk that way, doctor. You have no little ones to be worried about. With us, you see, it's different. Of course, I know it isn't supposed to be very dangerous, but I'd rather not run any risk when it can be avoided. More than twenty of the children in little Edward's school have come down with it." "I was referring to the Asiatics." "Oh, I thought you meant the jaundice."

Time Has Tested it.—Time tests all Things, that which is worthy lives; that which is inimical to man's welfare perishes. Time has proved Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. From a few thousand bottles in the early days of its manufacture the demand has risen so that now the demand has risen so that now the production is running into the hundreds of thousands of bottles. What is so eagerly sought for must be good.

The detective in the automobile stopped at a little repair shop by the roadside. "Have you seen anything," he asked, "of a short, chunky fellow with a gray suit, in a light touring car, with no number on it?" "Yes, sir," said the man behind the leather apron. "He stopped here about two hours ago to get a bolt tightened up." Did he give you any idea of where he was going?" "No, sir; he didn't seem to know himself. He was kind o' tangled up about the roads, and wasn't certain which direction he wanted to take." "In a quandary, was he?" "Er—no; it didn't look like one. It was one of these dinky little runabouts."

Dangerous Diarrhoea

PREVALENT IN SUMMER MONTHS —WHAT A MOTHER SHOULD DO

Children are more likely to be attacted by diarrhoea during the summer months than at any other season. It is one of the most dangerous symptoms in a child of any age. But it should be remembered that diarrhoea is a symptom, not a disease. Never try to stop diarrhoea, because it is an effort of nature to cleanse the bowels and get rid of the decayed food-stuffs in them. Diarrhoea is bad—but things would be worse for the child if diarrhoea didn't come. While a mother should never try to stop diarrhoea, she should stop the cause. Diarrhoea is a symptom of indigestion having set up decay in the food that is in the bowels, and the way to cure it is to cleanse the little tender bowels with Baby's Own Tablets. It would seem strange to treat diarrhoea with a laxative, if we didn't remember the cause of it. Both diarrhoea and indigestion are the results of indigestion assuming different forms, and both are cured by Baby's Own Tablets. But the Tablets are more than a mere laxative. They are absolutely a specific for all the minor ills that come to infants and young children, whether a new-born babe or a boy or girl ten or twelve years. Here's a bit of proof. Mrs. Geo. McGregor, Hamilton, Ont., says:—"When my baby was teething he had diarrhoea, was very cross and did not sleep well. I gave him Baby's Own Tablets, and there was no more trouble. I now always give him the Tablets when he has any little ailment, and he is soon better." At this season no mother should be without Baby's Own Tablets in the house. You can get them from medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockvill Ont.

"Gee whiz!" said George for the twentieth time, "it makes me mad every time I think of the $10 I lost today. I actually feel as if I'd like to have somebody kick me." "By the way, George," said the dear girl, dreamily, "don't you think you'd better speak to father this evening?"

Just the Thing That's Wanted.—A Pill that acts upon the stomach and yet is so compounded that certain ingredients of it preserve their power to act upon the intestinal canals, so as to clear them of excreta the retention of which cannot but be hurtful, was long looked for by the medical profession. It was found in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which are the result of much expert study, and are scientifically prepared as a laxative and as an alterative in one.

Jim Bludso had announced that he would hold 'er nozzle agin the bank till the last galoot was ashore. "Why do you say 'nozzle,'" asked the stoker, making his way toward the gang plank, "when you mean 'bow'?" "Because," howled Bludso, as the flames roared above him, "it's got to be a word of two syllables, you blamed fool, to fit the rhythm of the line!" The rest is history.

On a recent visit to Alexandria, Va., the late General Fitzhugh Lee was approached by an old darkey who respectfully introduced himself as a Confederate veteran. To test the accuracy of the old fellow's statement, General Lee put to him several searching questions, all of which the negro answered promptly and truthfully. Then the general asked his new friend where he had seen his best time in the old days. "At Chickamauga, sah," glibly replied the darkey, cause I run jest as soon as de firin' begin." "But in such a hot battle as Chickamauga," asked the General, "how did you know which way to run?" "Oh, Gin'ral," answered the old man "dat's easy to tell. I runs to de safest place, o' co'se; de place where de gen'rals was."

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Pain About the Hips.

It is a common complaint with women. The right treatment is Nerviline, which penetrates to the seat of the pain immediately. Nerviline warms and soothes the affected parts draws out the irritation and pain allows the patient ease after one rubbing. No liniment so economical and safe. Nearly fifty years in use, and the demand immensely greater every day! Nerviline must be good.

THE LITTLE WEEKLY PAPER.

Folks may prize the city dailies with their editorial views,
With their boasted circulation and their telegraphic news,
With their parliamentary speeches and the same old party song,
And their so called party essays, which are always dry and long.

They may prize the great trade journals or the classic magazine,
With its illustrated stories and the science in between—
But the one I hail with gladness, which I long so for to come,
Is that little village weekly which they send me down from home.

'Tain't no twenty page edition, for it has but only four.
But they breathe the breath of comfort, and I always long for more:
'Taint what folks, would call artistic, for at times it's dim and blurred,
But it only serves to interest, and I make out every word.

It is mostly bright and cheery the at times my heart is bled,
As I read a black lined notice that some old time friend is dead;
But there is far more joy than sorrow in the messages so sweet
Of that little village weekly, that away back country sheet.—Ex.

MASON & RISCH

THE PIANO WITH A SOUL

Mason & Risch Pianos are famous for that peculiar carrying power known as the singing tone. Not all tones classed as musical are music unalloyed. There are certain qualities of tone that are strangely diffusive. They carry far and retain their singing character where other tones become indistinct or even lost. A sheet of gold leaf, thinner than the thinnest tissue, will completely block the powerful rays of the strongest searchlight, while the X-rays, merely glowing with a faint light, will penetrate an inch of solid steel. So it is with music: some tones are diffusive and carry, others become more or less absorbed in space. The tone that "carries" the singing tone, is due to perfection of finish and perfect vibratory equilibruim of all the tone producing parts of a piano. It is always a tone of the utmost sweetness and purity. The Mason & Risch Piano is full of "sing" being especially fine in its blendings of the human voice, which it rounds out and sustains in a happy union of melody and harmony. Our literature explains the many points of superiority of the Mason & Risch piano—the piano with a soul. Send for it to-day.

Note & Comment.

[By OBSERVER.]

Seven hundred Galloways in one herd made a big bunch of cattle. This was the number of the herd the riders of the Stair ranch brought to the north bank of the Saskatchewan river on Friday morning intending to swim them across at Police Point. The "black host" was brought to the river bank about 4 past 1 o'clock but the cowboys could not get them to tackle the water. About 100 horses were started off down the bank and entering the water made at once for the opposite bank. Some of the cattle followed a little way but the efforts of about fifteen riders failed to get them in. The horses were afterwards put in and swam back again.

The attempt was repeated on Saturday and a number of steers and dry stock taken across but the cows and calves had to be taken to the railway and shipped. Some of the cowboys had a great time. Horses and men took to the water like water dogs and there were "clothes to dry" when it was over.

Groups of people occupied various coigns of vantage on both sides of the river, but no one on foot ventured very near as the animals were all range cattle and said to be wild. A number of people in buggies drove round to the cut banks north of town and from that elevated position had a splendid view of the cattle and their movements.

I hope that by the time this appears in print the Council will have taken some decided step towards getting a Municipal Engineer to take charge of our public works. The town has invested more than $100,000 in permanent works—water and gas—and is on the verge of spending another $100,000. A big gang of men are working here and there by daywork and yet we areblundering along without a proper head. Councillors no doubt do their best, departmental foremen fill their parts to the best of their ability, but what private individual or firm would invest all this money and employ all these hands without a competent man at the head of it all? A good engineer would more than earn his salary in the increased work and better results he would obtain. Probably he would get the same amount of work with a less number of hands and there would be fewer mistakes.

A lady visitor to Medicine Hat on Friday was accompanied to the station in the evening by several friends when the following conversation was overheard:

Mr. S——: What do you think of the Hat Miss B——?

Miss B——: The Hat fits exactly.

Friends in chorus: Good, splendid.

Visitors to the depot about 10 o'clock on Friday morning claim to have seen Admiral and Mrs. Rojestvensky and suite among the passengers from the west. There was a tall gentleman, looking very ill, and having a great scar on his forehead, accompanied by a lady, a gentleman carrying a peculiar looking dog, said to be either a Pomerarian or a Japanese poodle, and two marines in Russian uniform. The tall gentleman bore a striking resemblance to the pictures of the Russian Admiral. To back up the supposition the colored porter said it was the Admiral and the Winnipeg papers received the same day had a list of passengers who arrived at Victoria on the Empress of Japan on Wednesday and in the list appeared the name of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rojestvensky. I saw the party too and if there had only been a few North sea fishing boats on the train as well it would have completedthe picture and confirmed the belief that here was the Admiral himself.

Unfortunately for the above supposition the following newspaper clipping gives as bad a knock on the the head as the valiant admiral got inthe fight.

ROJESTVENSKY IS PROGRESSING.

Tokio, July 31.—Admiral Rojestvensky's condition has made satisfactory progress since the operation was performed on his forehead. He was able to leave his bed and sit on a chair yesterday. Pains in one foot however, prevent his walking freely, but no cause for uneasiness exists. The Admiral has expressed his sincere satisfaction at the treatment accorded him.

From later information I find the party consisted of Minister Pokotilow, Secretary Rojestvensky and party, connected with the Russian Peace commission, en route from Vancouver to Chicago, thence to Portsmouth, N. H.

Edmonton will celebrate the inauguration of the New Province of Alberta in right royal fashion on tge first of September. A large number of tastily got up invitations are being sent out and the recipients will be the guests of the city from the timethey arrive.

An exchange tells of a man who died. The very first day in Heaven, as he wanted to go sight seeing, an angel guide was given him. Before long he noticed a number of persons each dragging a ball and chain. "How is this?" he asked. The angel smiled and replied: "Why these are not bad men, they came from Medicine Hat, and we have to chain them or they would try to go back," and somebody said "Huh!"

A young man may have many friends, but he will find none so steadfast, so capable of pushing him ahead, as a little leather covered book with the name of a bank on its cover.

"It'seasy to sit in the sunshine—
And talk to the man in the shade—
It is easy to float in a well trimmed boat—And point out the places to wade;—Itis easy to sit in your carriage—and counsel the man on foot.—But get down and walk and you'll change your talk,—As you feel the peg in your boot.—It is easy to tell the toiler—How best he can carry his pack—But no one can rate a burden's weight— Until it has been on his back.—The uncurled mouth of pleasure,—Can preach of sorrows worth,—But give it a slip, and a wryer lip—Was never made on earth."

A man walked into a city grocery store down east and announced to the clerk he was going to quit chewing tobacco. When asked the reason why he pulled out a plug of tobacco and raising a portion of the leaf displayed to the astonished gaze of the onlookers a well preserves specimen of a dead mouse. The entire animal was seen in the piece of tobacco and was a full sized mouse with feet hide, and head all pressed flat. The man said he only discovered the mouse in the plug of tobacco after he had bitten off the tail He bought a package of smoking tobacco, and said he was cured of the chewing habit.

A Danbury (Conn.) man has found an odd inscription on a tombstone in Stepney. The name of the woman whose virtues it celebrates is witheld The epitaph reads:—

Here lies my wife,
What better could she do
For her repose.
And mine too?

At the conclusion of the regular lessons at a certain Sunday School the superintendeot made a short address to the assembled classes. At the end of his remarks he said:—

"Now all you boys and girls who would like to go to heaven when you die hold up your hands."

Instantly every child had a hand in the air, except one little fellow sitting in the far corner who in answer to the superintendent's question, Don't you want to go to heaven?" replied: "No, sir-ee, not if that crowd's a-goin'."

That Chinese show on Friday night was great. The orchestra was especially sweet. A lot of people had the bad taste to walk out while the show was on.

Every man carrying an instrument of music, a music stand, or even part of a musical instrument was freely admitted to the Chinese show on Friday night and it is wonderful how our town band increased in numbers in the space of ten minutes. Four passed in for the kettle drum —one for the drum, and one each for the sticks while the belts were enough to admit the main operator.

REPEL ORIENTAL EMIGRANTS.

The question of the employment of Oriental laborers has lately taken a rather serious turn in British Columbia. A Vancouver despatch announces that a party of Japanese and Chinese laborers on their way to work in the lumber woods were driven back by a force of white men who object to the intrusion of the Asiatics. These is a heavy migration to the western Canadian provinces this spring from Oregon, Washington, Montana and Idaho; as well as from States east of the rocky mountains. The objection to yellow labor is likely to be intensified by the well-known antipathies of the Americans.

A Family Necessity.

It's remedy capable of affording immediate relief to the hundred and one ailments that constantly arise. It may be a cold, perhaps toothache neuralgia pain the back—use Polson's Nerviline. It is penetrating, pain subduing and powerful. Nerviline is at least five times stronger than ordinary remedies and its worth in any household can't be over-estimated. For man or beast Nerviline is a panacea for all pain and costs only 25 cents per bottle. Buy Nerviline today from your druggist.

STRUCK THE SULTAN'S FANCY.

The Sultan of Turkey recently granted an audience to Senator Bacon, of Georgia, and was so charmed with that genial American citizen that he incontinently conferred upon him the Grand Cordon of the Chelcat, and gave Mrs. Bacon a lot of porcelain manufactured in the Imperial potteries.

UNCLE SAM WILL BE THERE.

Tangier, Aug. 1.-The United States government has informed the foreign office that it will send a representative to the international conference on Moroccan reforms.

ALBERTA WHEAT FOR B. C. MILLS.

EXPECTED THAT CONSIDERABLE QUANTITY WILL BE SHIPPED WESTWARD.

Regarding a report circulated from Vancouver to the effect that a quantity of the winter wheat grown in southern Alberta, presumably about 1,000,000 bushels, was to be diverted westward via the coast on its way to market in pursuance of the policy of the C.P.R. to make Vancouver a great milling centre, giving them freight westward for their lumber cars and at the same time relieve congestion on the great lakes route. Mr. F. W. Peters, assistant freight traffic manager, when interviewed by the Free Press last week, expressed himself as of the opinion that the wheat would find its own natural market. However, he added that the wheat in question was of a different quality from that grown in Manitoba and Assiniboia and would find its sale in a different market. Considerable fall wheat had been grown in southern Alberta last season and some of this had been ground in flour mills located at Enderby, B. C., and shipped mostly to the Orient A much greater amount of this wheat would be harvested this year and signs pointed to the likilhood of a growing market for this product in the far east, which, he said, no doubt lead to the establishment of flour mills at other points in British Columbia. But wheat hitherto shipped east to European markets would not be carried westward in its course for the purpose of relieving congestion on the easterly route. Comparatively little, if any, of the wheat which had been grown in southern Alberta had been shipped to European markets. The C.P.R., said Mr. Peters, looked for and were expecting the growth of winter wheat to increase rapidly in extent in the next few years, but that wheat would have to depend upon the market from which the demand came as to its course of shipment.

GROS VENTRE NOTES.

WANDERING WILLIE ON HOMESTEADS FOR WOMEN.

Mr. Editor,

Your article in The Times of July 18th, on Homesteads for Women, is late—more's the pity. Perhaps there can be some thing done yet to atone for past neglect, as we have millions of acres for homesteading. In the meantime we will have our say and live in hope.

1st. We will take the case of a young woman who has come to an age when it has become necessary, or she wishes to make a living independent of the old home.

She prefers country life and has had a thorough training in farm work, such as dairying, poultry keeping, gardening etc., and she has not had an offer of marriage from a young man that would measure up to her ideal. So she decides to take a farm on her own account. She has been an affectionate daughter, a comfort to her father, a blessing to her mother and a guardian angel to her brothers.

When her country needed men to fight for the old flag she could not of course shoulder her rifle and take her place in the firing line. But she went as nurse and did her part quite as bravely and faithfully as her brothers....

Yet there is no homestead for her.

Then we take the case of a young man brought up in the same neighborhood. He has been the tormentor of school teachers, a robber of orchards, one whose principle accomplishments are swearing, drinking and playing the scamp generally. He is one that mothers warn their boys from associating with. When his country calls for men he may be among the first to volunteer, but his march to the front ends at the doctor's office. He has been sowing wild oats his nerves are shattered, not fit for service. He walks into the land office and secures papers for a quarter section as handy as you please.

Next we may take the case of one of those very desirable foreigners that are so much sought after. We pay silver tongued orators large salaries to go the slums of cities in southern Europe, and other places, to persuade them to come, promising him a free grant of 160 acres. His conduct has been such that his country is glad to get rid of him. He is not able to read or write in English orany other language; he has been brought up in the midst of vice and sedition.

When our country calls for men to fight her battles, where will we find our foreigner? Marching to the front? Not much! He is not built that way. But if there is a strike on or some local trouble on hand, you will find him on the side of those that are putting the country to expense.

Yet he is welcomed to our shores We rush to hand him his papers for a good farm. And this a country where we talk of British fair play and equal rights! The noble spinster is not considered worthy to be on an equal footing with the useless home production, or, still more useless foreigner. That there are thousands of good men on homesteads in Canada, I won't deny, but I am dealing with the peculiar conditions which refuses the worthy woman and lets in the worthless man. You speak of many of the spinsters hoplessly on the shelf. I suppose you mean that they have not had a proposal from one of the Lords of creation. But that is not the case. They prefer to run in single harness (although that is not their choice), to being hitched with a man that they are head and shoulders above in all that goes to make a good citizen.

Surely there is not a man in all our fair Dominion that would object to giving our loyal British women homesteads. If there is let us hear from him.

The fire brigade had a run at 6.25 on Saturday evening to a house on Second Avenue, occupied by Mr. Tomlinson and owned by Mr. Bridgeman. It appears some children playing with matches set fire to some paper and rubbish in the back kitchen and in a few moments there was a blaze which would soon have demolished the house. Mr. Beattie, who lives next door, heard the crackle of the fire, promptly turned a garden hose on it, while Mr. Lawrence started the fire system which is close by. Mr. Beattie had the fire out by the time fire brigade got there. The brigade was on the spot in three minutes after the alarm was sounded. One corner of the house was scorched but the damage was trifling.

Gibson Gardener, in the Detroit Times, writes about blizzards originating at Medicine Hat and offers as an explanation that it is due to the "warm chinook which heats the air until it rises, creating a vast vacuum into which the cold air of the rockies comes pouring in a torrent, whichmoves in a continuous whirlwind across the continent to the east and south". That may be, but the gentleman omitted one important fact which is that we never experience the blizzards here. We get the Chinook wind—Chicago gets the blizzard.

REGINA 5—MEDICINE HAT 1

On Sunday night the Regina Lacrosse team and supporters arrived in a special car to play the first of of a series of games, with the object of deciding the championship of the North West Territories. To-day they are playing Lethbridge and on Wednesday they take on Edmonton at Lethbridge, and then, we understand they will proceed to Cranbrook and Nelson. A fair crowd turned out to witness the game here yesterday and appeared well pleased with the exhibition. The Regina boys have been playing right along and were in fine shape while the Hat team were lamentably poor in this respect. The renowned Percy Quinn refereed the game which was very clean, good feeling prevailing throughout. Regina played a very wide game, long passing and throwing and did a tremendous amount of running and the Hat boys did not seem able to cover their checks close enough. Manager McIvor, of Regina, in conversation with C. E. Brougham, stated that in his opinion the Hat team were as good as Regina but Regina were in good shape and the Hat weren't. That's about the size of it.

The teams were :

Regina		Med. Hat.
Shanks	goal	J. Irving
Stevenson	point	J. Peard
Stewart	c. pt.	W. Peard
Peart	1st def.	J. Preston
A. Smith	2nd def.	S. Taylor
Hardy	3rd def.	W. Hawk
Steep	centre	E. Cody
Winkler	3rd home	H. Halworth
R. Smith	2nd home	C. Neff
Reid	1st home	A. Peard
Hayes	out. home	W. Finlay
Young	in. home	A. Kearns
McIvor	field capt.	A. P. Burns

Referee—Percy Quinn.

THE GAME.

At three o'clock Referee Quinn placed the ball between the sticks of Steep and Cody and the Hat secured Halworth passed to A. Peard but a Regina man got in the road and a wild shot on the Hat goal followed. Reginasecured again and scored in about two minutes. On the face off Alf. Peard secured and took it down but the Regina defence relieved and hostilities were transferred to the Hat end of the field.Taylor came out but lost it and Regina scored again, two in about five minutes. A. Peard missed a pass from Halworth and Hardy sent it down the field but J. Preston returned it. Neff passed to Kearns who lost it and Regina took it down the field. Halworth got it but his pass was wild. Winkler ran down but Preston stopped him. It taken to the Regina end but, their defence were equal to the occasion. Cody missed a pass from Taylor and Regina took it down. Hawk secured and it was passed down to Neff who shot but Stevenson returned it. W. Peard secured and passed to Halworth who sent it on to A. Peard and Alf sent it to Neff but a Regina man was in the road and the Hat were again on the defensive. J. Peard threw to Cody whose pass to Kearns was high and Regina had it again. Taylor relieved a rush and sent the ball to Cody and he passed it on to Neff but there was nothing doing. Preston intercepted a pass very neatly and the ball went to the Regina end via Halworth, Cody and Neff, but Stewart returned it. A wild pass by Winkler followed but a Regina man secured it and gave Irving something to stop. Time was called with the score 2—0 in Reginas favor.

The second quarter opened with a rush to the Regina end and the Hat nearly rushed the ball into the net, Stewart, however, relieved, but J. Peard sent it back again. Regina came down the field and Irving made two grand stops and then passed the ball out and it went from stick to stick and Neff rushing in took a pass from A. Peard right in front of goal andscored for the Hat. This was an especially nice piece of work. Regina then rushed matters but Preston did the needful and it was at the Regina end again but Peart relieved. J. Peard passed to Taylor who lost it and Regina scored the fourth goal. On the face off the Hat pressed but Regina defence sent it back. J. Peard passed it out but Regina got it and Winkler shot but Irving was in the road. W. Peard passed out to Cody, he sent it on and Neff and Kearns handled it but lost it. Halworth secured and lost it and Winkler ran down and shot and J. Peard in trying to stop it pulled it into hisown goal. Hard luck Jack. The Hat rushee the ball down but appeared weak round the goal and could not get it through. J. Peard passed out to Cody who lost it and A. Smith had it right in frontof the goal he shot but the ball hit the ground in front of the goal and bounced over. Winkler shot high and it was passed out to A. Peard who lost it and Reid tried a shot. W. Peardpassed out to Alf. but it went overhis head. It was sent back but Taylor secured and passed to Cody who lost it. Time.

R. Smith secured on the face off but J. Peard got it and passed to Hawk who sent it to Alf. Peard who tried a long shot but Shanks was there and returned it. Hawk secured but lost it and Regina came down Irving stopped a shot from Winkler and J. Peard sent it to Neff but Regina came down with it again and in turn lost it. Halworth and Hardy raced for it and Halworth proved the speedier of the two and passed to Cody from whom it travelled to Alf. Peard who threw wild to Kearns A nice bit of combination by the Hat resulted in Finlay shooting but Shanks got his body in the way. W. Peard stopped a rush by Regina but they came again and W. Peard and Taylor relieved. Winkler shot but Irvings pad was in the road. J. J. Peard came out of a scrimmage with it but Regina kept it round the Hat goal. Irving sent it out to Cody but Steep got it and lost to W. Peard who passed to Taylor he sent it to A. Peard and he to Cody who sent in a hot one that did not reach the nets. J. Peard, Preston, Neff and Kearns passed it out but Stevenson sent it back. Cody carried it a little way and then lost it. Preston spoiled a shot for Hayes but and W. Peard came out without with it.. Preston intercepted a pass and sent it to Cody who lost it and Winkler shot but J. Peard turned it off. There was no scoring in this quarter which was the hardest of the game.

Winkler opened the last quarter with a warm shot but Irving stopped it. A. Peard tried a shot but Stevenson caught it and sent it up. Regina scored the sixth and last. The Hat boys tried hard to score again but could not penetrate the Regina defence. Preston spoiled Winkler's shot, but the Regina boys sent in a couple more on Jack Irving before the Hat got away with it

Natural Gas and Electric Power.

A few weeks ago, we discussed the subject of country telephones and motor railways as a means of linking the surrounding country more closely to Medicine Hat, thereby concentrating country trade upon this town. If anything can be done along these lines it would be well for someone to take the matter up. Several prominent residents were much impressed with the idea, but someone is wanted who will go into the subject with a view to test its cost and practicability.

During the past week the suggestion was made that the town would have a much better chance of utilising the natural gas if we used it to generate electric power and offered to sell power to manufacturers. The suggestion was made by Mr. David Milne at a Board of Trade council meeting, which is reported in another column. There is much to be said in favor of this proposition. Although we have such an abundant supply of gas, the fact remains that certain gas fields in the United States became exhausted, and some manufacturers are known to be a little shy of using the gas direct. A failure of the gas would mean that they would have to instal new machinery, which would be a costly thing. From what we can gather there seems little doubt but that in the gas fields referred to above there was a great waste for a series of years. Here in this district the greatest care is exercised to conserve the gas, and with a present pressure of 500 pounds to the square inch, there is little fear of exhaustion for a very long time. The fact, however, of certain fields in the States having shown signs of exhaustion makes manufactures careful, and it might be well for this town to take a decided step ahead by the application of the gas to produce electric power. The town would then be in a position to sell power, which is much more satisfactory to the manufacturer. With plenty of native coal to back up the gas, there would be no fear of a failure to supply the power, and while the people would still continue to use the gas for heating and cooking purposes, electricity would be used for lighting and for power. In case of its becoming necessary to use coal instead of gas in the production of the electric power, it would be all the same to the manufacturer, as it would not make any difference in the machinery required. Electricity would be useful in other ways as well, and would pave the way for the installation of an electric railway under public ownership. The more the question is looked at the more, we feel sure, will be seen the desirability and the practicability of taking up this question of providing electric power. If any reader would like to discuss the subject further, we shall be glad to receive and publish correspondence upon the subject.

The New Japan.

It is stated on good authority that Japan's demands on Russia will be heavier than expected. Japan will demand territory on the mainland of Asia, to embrace Korea and Manchuria, and probably a part of Siberia. The Japan of the present is a mere island kingdom, but the Japan of the future is to rule the littoral of the north Asiatic continent, reaching far into the interior, comprising vast, fertile and populous provinces. The new Japan will be thrice as great in area and twice as great in population as the present Japan.

The Sea of Japan will be the heart of this new empire, and will become a Japanese lake. This is not unlike the Monroe doctrine which the United States applies to the Caribbean Sea, as Japan will view as an unfriendly act any effort of any European power to plant their systems in or near the shores of the Sea of Japan.

By this means Japan at one bound will spring from a scattered island kindom to empireship, covering islands and a huge strip of the mainland and the sea which lies between them. From rank as fourteenth or fifteenth place among the nations of the earth Japan will jump to fifth or sixth place, with still greater possibilities before her. Japan's arms have won victories unprecedented in the history of modern wars. Japanese statesmanship now seeks to fix for all time the fruits of those military triumphs. If the Russians do not now agree to this there will be no peace at present, but from Japan's achievements in the past there is little room to doubt she will get all she asks for.

Is there any just cause or impediment why the town should not erect some public drinking troughs in various parts of the town? Just think of the number of horses and dogs that must suffer for the want of a drink these hot days! To do any good this year, they should be installed at once, and we would like to see the Council take action at once in the matter.

The suggestion to install filters at the waterworks will receive the unanimous support of the town, we believe. Clean, pure water is necessary, not only for man and beast, but for every purpose for which it is used. As most people are aware, dirty water has many times been the cause of boiler explosions and consequent loss of life. From a sanitary, and every other point of view, the people are likely to approve of the filters.

The United States Treasurer has under consideration a very momentous question affecting traffic arrangements between Southern Alberta and Montana. United States railroads have turned their attention to the immense wheat-fields being opened up in Saskatchewan and Alberta, and have asked the Treasury to help them to get a part of the transportation business developing in this part of Canada. They have asked the treasury to establish not less than five or six sub-ports of entry on the Montana border. At present there is only one port of entry in Montana, and that is at Great Falls.

THE SALARY GRAB.

The granting of pensions to ex-ministers is utterly indefensible says the Guelph Herald. These men may have served their country well or ill, but while they were in office they received fair salaries. There have been statesmen who gave the best of their lives to their country's service and died poor. That was their crowning glory—the glory that shines from the tomb of Pitt, whose epitaph reads:

"Dispensing for over forty years the favors of the Crown he lived without ostentation and died poor."

The new regulations are evidently directed to make the pathway of the public man secure if not rosy. Five years in the Government place him for all time beyond want and fear of want. Incompetents will beat their way into the Cabinet, and once there will grapple the portfolio "to their souls with hooks of steel" until they reach the pension mark. Then they can sink with equanimity back into the position from which they should never have been lifted, and enjoy the pension of $3,500 por year granted by a generous, if not grateful people.

The "salary grab," as it has been termed, looks like a case of hands all round, and is not in some of its features, creditable to either party.

THE NEW STATION.

The contract for the new depot has been awarded by the C.P.R. to M'rs. McDiarmid, of Winnipeg. Mr. James McDiarmid arrived in town on Wednesday and met Supt. Jamieson, and Supt. Niblock and Engineers Brooks and Lethbridge with whom he had a long consultation. On Thursday morning the site of preparing the site was begun. The stable connected with Mr. J. A. Cameron's premises was removed to a new position. The station, which will be 104 feet by 32 feet and two stories in height, will be on the north side of the track and, starting at Montreal Street will extend in the direction of Ottawa St. The platform will run from a point east of Ottawa Street right up to Main Street and the Crow train will have its own track on the north side of the platform. Note & Comment.

[By OBSERVER.]

The heavy rain during the early hours of Thursday morning showed up several defects in the matter of levels in connection with the street grading. A pond of water opposite Mr. Turner's house on Main Street revealed the fact that the pitch was the wrong way or that the ditch at thatpoint had been made too low. It was intended that this water should run off down to the river by way of the ditch in the avenue.

These matters are not great matters, perhaps, but they show the need for a competent engineer to see that the right levels are taken. Every mistake of this kind means a certain amount of money lost, first in too much work being done and secondly in the work needed to correct the level.

The big herd of Galloway cattle from the Stair ranch spent Wednesday night in durance vile at the stockyards. The steers and dry cows were crossed, as mentioned last week by being made to swim the river. The cows and calves and the gentlemen of the herd were taken to Suffield where they were loaded on cars and rode in state to the stockyards here, where they were invited to step down into the corrals. The next day the whole lot were moved off towards Crane Lake, their future home.

The loading of these cattle at Suffield was a lively business. They were all very wild and the face of Stock Inspector Bray was a study as he recounted the hair-breadth escapes of himself and the riders who were engaged in the business. The cattle did not appreciate the invitation to take a train ride and the way they went for the "boys" now and then if all the details could be got, would fill a column. Then the unearthly row they made all night at the stockyards here was enough to wake the dead. But all who saw them say they are a magnificent bunch of cattle. I heard it said that there is a rancher down in the States who owns over 15,000 head of this same breed.

Russia is anxious for "peace with honor." Her peace envoys are talking as if they were the conquerors and to make peace was an act of grace on her part. In that Russia is mistaken.

As a summer resort New Orleans has its drawbacks.

It is generally known that Garibaldi left directions in his will for the cremation of his body, and that through the intermediary of the Italian Government his wishes were over ruled. Few, however, are probably aware of the minutae of detail into which Garibaldi entered upon the subject, or of the extent of self-consciousness which is evident at every line of the directions: "Facing the sea, you shall erect a pyre two meters high, built of acacia wood, myrtle and other aromatic trees and plants growing at Caprera. On this lay a sheet of iron on which shall be placed my body dressed in the red shirt. A handful of the ashes place near the coffins of my daughters, Rosa and Anita." The rest were to be blown away by the wind as seeds of liberty for other parts of the world.

The Czar says he wants "peace without shame." He should have ordered a carload of war without shame early in the entertainment.

Any fortune-teller properly approached, will warn M. Witte to beware of a little dark man who is looking for a wad.

"John D. Rockfeller is the greatest criminal of the age," declares Governor La Follette, of Wisconsin. It's too bad some politician hasn't got that honor, as they have been working hard for it.

If the American government could sell seats in the gallery of the Peace Commissioners' Conference, it is safe to say that they would be able to dispose of not a few at fair prices to local experts in the national game of "poker." For the game which these Commissioners will play will be certain to bear very many resemblances to that most diplomatic of mental sports. The necessity of concealing one's own hand—the advantage of an impassive face—the meeting of "bluff" with "bluff"—these are all common to the diplomat and the card table.

The Lethbridge News is responsible for the following:

Mr. C. B. Lockhart, formerly of Medicine Hat, but now of Los Angeles, California, is in town. He says California is one of the greatest places on earth for flowers but that you can't live on flowers unless you are a butterfly or a bumble bee. He is seriously thinking of returning to Canada to live.

"Let us suppose for a few moments," says the Alberta Star. 'Suppose' Woolf represents Cardston DeVeber, Lethbridge; McKenzie, McLeod; Harris, Pincher and Charlie Mitchell, Medicine Hat," and then Editor Elton goes on to suppose that the Portfolio of Public Works will be handed to one of them, and he thinks DeVeber won't have a chance, because he has declared for a non-party government.

Canada received 57,249 Britishers between December 31, 1904 and July 31, 1905, an increase of 10,000 over the number of British emigrants in the corresponding period last year. Good. Come boys, we have room for millions in the west and a hearty welcome for all.

A man named A. J. Barr was arrested here last week by Sergt. Quinn, of the R.N.W.M.P., who is wanted in Montana for issuing cheques which were dishonored on presentation at the Bank on which they were drawn. Sheriff Slater, of Lewiston, Montana, was wired to and he came over. The accused is fighting extradition and the Sheriff has returned for the necessary papers Mr. P. J. Nolan has been retained for the defence and the case will be heard before a Judge one day this week.

To Stop a Crying Baby.

Babies cry because they are sick. It may be a pain in the stomach, colic or cramps,—but in any case a few drops of Nerviline soothes away the distress and allows the baby to sleep peacefully. Where there are young children there should also be Nerviline. It cures all the minor ailments just as promptly as the doctor—and not so expensive. For nearly fifty years Polson's Nerviline has been the great Household remedy of Canada. Sold everywhere in large 25c. bottles.

A queer thing happened last week to the fellow that runs this paper. About all he can remember about it was a vision of a number of guests, a minister of the gospel, a ritual, a murmur, which sounded like "I will," "do you," "I do." Shortly after his vision was cleared by hearing those present say "congratulations Mrs. Caskey."—Heward Chronicle.

No Satisfaction in Eating.

Food does you no good. You can't digest—consequently you're afraid to eat; tongue is coated, mouth tastes bad; stomach is bloated. Pretty soon you'll be overcome by weakness and nervous prostration.

Best prescription for your condition is Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. For dyspepsia and indigestion it is doubtful if a better remedy will ever be devised. These pills bring new strength and vitality to the stomach and digestive organs; they build up the general health and instill such vim and resisting power into the system that sickness is impossible; try Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

A company has been organized in Winnipeg to establish a large meat canning factory on the plans of Armour's Chicago. The capital stock is half a million dollars. It is understood that people now engaged in the au battoir business are heavily interested. This is one of the most important enterprises that has yet been projected in western Canada.

BOOZE OR MEDICINE?

Which will you have? If a woman suffering from one of the delicate ailments peculiar to your sex it will be well for you to know that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the only remedy advertised for such maladies which is absolutely free from intoxicating liquors and all other harmful agents. The good you feel from its use is not the delusive exhilleration from a tippling beverage, from which the system reacts into a worse condition than before. It may be a little slower in manifesting its bracing and invigorating action, but its benefits are none the less positive and, best of all, they are lasting. It's an honest medicine—not a beverage.

"I have been taking your medicine for the last three weeks and can say I am gaining strength," writes Mrs. Jessie Imay, of 26 East Madison Street, Mount Pleasant, Iowa. "I have been having very poor health all winter. I doctored with our family doctor but was relieved only while taking the medicine. I took Dr. Pierce's medicine several years ago. I knew it was good for any one suffering with female trouble. Have taken only one bottle and am gaining strength very fast. I could not eat nor sleep when I began taking the 'Favorite Prescription.' It helped me and I had cold and numb spells till my heart would almost stop, beating. Have had one child since I took your medicine. If I continue with your treatment I am positive I will be cured."

Every suffering woman in this land should write to Dr. Pierce and learn how certainly he can help her to health and strength. It costs nothing to write and receive entirely free the advice of one of the most experienced physicians in this country. His great thousand-page book, the Common Sense Medical Adviser, in stiff paper covers, will be sent free for 21 one-cent stamps the bare cost of mailing; or, send 50 stamps for cloth bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. These ORIGINAL Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr. R. V. Pierce over 40 years ago, have been imitated but never equaled. They're made of purely vegetable, concentrated and refined medicinal principles, extracted from native American roots and plants. They speedily relieve and cure foul, torpid and deranged Stomach, Livers and Bowels and their attendant distressful ailments. One or two a laxative, three or four a cathartic.

Don't allow the dealer to insult your intelligence by offering his own remedy to you instead of this well-known preparation of Dr. Pierce.

WOMAN'S WORLD

MISS EDITH J. GRISWOLD.

A New York Woman Who Makes a Specialty of Patent Law.

Miss Edith J. Griswold of New York is one of the exceptional women. Miss Griswold was a member of the international jury of awards for the department of machinery at the Louisiana Purchase exposition, St. Louis, with distinguished credit to herself and her profession. Miss Griswold was the only woman member of this board of jurors, which included some world famous mechanical experts. She is a member of the bar, practices law, but makes a specialty of patent law; is a patent expert and is one of two women lawyers who make patents a specialty. She has a very marked mechanical bent and has given much time to the study of electricity, her patent work being especially along this line. Miss Griswold is a delightfully feminine woman, dainty, soft voiced and gentle, who has had the usual woman's battle with a not overstrong constitution, but has built up her health by persistent outdoor life. Because she is a woman she has had harder work in gaining her present high place on account of useless obstacles of prejudice overcome, obstacles which a man of equal ability would not even have had to consider, but she is now reaping the results of her hard work, and today Miss Griswold is recognized as a leader in her line of work. She is vice president of the Women Lawyers' club of New York.—American Queen.

MISS EDITH J. GRISWOLD.

Rules For the Maid.

The rule of "a place for everything and everything in its place" must be enforced. The maid must keep her kitchen cupboards in as good order as her china closets, and if she does in a little while she will become so familiar with the location of each utensil and each piece of china or glass that she could find it in the dark. There should be no liberty allowed of keeping a thing in one place at one time and in another some other time. This may seem a trifle, but all these trifles do their part in creating an orderly and systematic habit of mind. Do not permit the maid to leave the dishes standing around after they have been washed, but teach her that it is as essential to put these away as soon as they are clean as it is for her to wash her dish towels and hang them out to dry once a day.

Try to cultivate system in your maid in other ways. Impress it upon her that she must let you know as soon as the supply of any article is exhausted and not wait until there is need for it again before she discloses to you the fact that it is wanted. To help her in this hang in your kitchen a small pad of paper and a pencil and instruct her that as soon as she uses the last of any provision she is to write the name of this on the slip that it may serve as a memorandum when you go to market.

If your maid's memory is poor, encourage her to make notes of the items of the work she has to perform. In a way this may not develop her memory so well as charging her mind with the details, but there are many of us whose remembrances need a crutch now and then.—Harper's Bazar.

How to Shirr by Machine.

With shirring occupying so important a position as it does at present on dresses and blouses and clothes of every description, a way to do it by machine is worth knowing. Of course it will never take the place of hand work—nothing could. But at least it is a fairly good substitute for many things. Girdles (and so many of them require row after row of shirring) and even dress yokes and cuffs are especially good done on the machine.

It is all a trick of the tension. Loosen the lower tension, leaving the upper tight, and stitch your rows exactly as if you were doing plain stitching. When it is all stitched pull the loose threads underneath, drawing the material up until it is as full as you want it.

Then fasten both ends of your threads, and your shirring is done, only about ten minutes having been needed instead of an hour or two.

But don't try it on delicate stuffs—the stitching is sure to show.

A Mother's Obligations.

The mother can do much to influence the appearance and the mental and moral status of the unborn. This has been proved over and over again. The prospective mother should think beautiful thoughts, should surround herself with lovely pictures. Her heart should warm with gladness and joyful anticipations. To indulge in anger, grief, fear, anxiety, to treasure rebellious thoughts against existing conditions, is to rob the coming child of a proper birthright and is a form of selfishness whose record will be written upon a human being. Often the physique shows these prenatal impressions in plainness of feature, lack of vitality or, hidden deeper in the recesses of the brain, of contrary impulses and thoughts, which will develop with the growth of the child, to bring sorrow and reproach upon the parents later in life.—Delineator.

Cooking Utensils.

Housewives, take counsel from your English and French sisters! Do your cooking with earthenware mixers and in earthenware dishes and keep your staple cooking materials in earthenware jars. They can be kept spotlessly clean, and ingredients are much more palatably blended when cooked in their thick walls, the cooking process continuing after a dish is removed from the fire. Crockery, not being able to withstand the direct blaze, can never be of unlimited service in the kitchen, but it is decreed by foreign housewives who have used it for years to be by far the most satisfactory kind of utensil in every other way.—Washington Star.

A Nursery Portiere.

For a nursery portiere nothing is prettier than burlaps in one of the artistic tones of blue or brown or whatever color matches the room, with a border of English tapestry illustrating nursery rhymes. Strips of these tapestries fifty inches wide cost 90 cents. They are delightful in color and design, and the choice of subjects is ample. One may have a procession of goose girls driving their flocks through lovely meadows to an unseen brook, a windy garden with maids hanging out clothes and several others as dear to memory or as exciting to the imagination. The strips may be used for wall decorations also.

Raising a Girl the Wrong Way.

An Atchison girl of fifteen gets up in the morning, eats breakfast which her mother has prepared, goes upstairs and takes care of her room and then goes downtown, sometimes taking two hours, to buy a spool of thread. She eats dinner which her mother has prepared, wears clothes her mother has made, spends the afternoon reading story books or gadding with her friends, eats supper her mother has prepared and spends the evening with her girl friends. She has done nothing wicked all day, and her mother is satisfied that she is bringing her up right. But is she?—Atchison Globe.

Table Decorations.

High floral ornamentations on the dinner table are neither fashionable nor desirable. They obstruct the view and make conversation difficult. The choice of flowers for the centerpiece may be limited to the resources of the hostess. Flowers, foliage or berries that are in season are in good taste, care being taken in selecting flowers to have one prevailing color. Blossoms with a heavy fragrance should be avoided, as the perfume is oppressive. If flowers cannot be easily obtained a jar of growing ferns, not too tall, is very satisfactory.

Study Your Appearance.

The girl or woman who does not make some little study of her appearance or who neglects the little niceties of dress, even though she is no fashion devotee, is not doing her duty in that state of life to which it has pleased Providence to call her. Being busy is no excuse. The very bee loiters sometimes in the honey cup of some flower to greet his velvet suit and adjust the gauze of his wings.

Manicuring in Brief.

Soak the finger tips in hot water. Dry them and soak in almond oil. Push back the skin with the orange wood stick. Take an emery board and shape the nails the precise shape of the ends of the fingers; polish with a good brisk nail powder. This is briefly all, though there are many dainty touches to be added.

Old Velveteen.

Old pieces of velveteen should after they have served their original purpose be saved for polishing clothes. They will answer the purpose of wash leather for plate cleaning, etc., perfectly and save buying anything fresh. Wash the velveteen cloths as often as needed in soapy water and hang out to dry.

An Egregious Filling.

An ingenious filling in the most practical covering for the edges of floors where the door itself is too bad to be left exposed. If it is possible to stain the edges of the floor it is both more satisfactory and less expensive in the end.

Do not Cut the Eyelashes.

An eyelash is a pointed hair. When it has been cut it will never again become pointed. All lashes fall out after a time, and their places are taken by new ones.

Ironing Day

When space on the range top is valuable and it is also desirable to keep the top clear, chops or Hamburg steak can be baked in the oven.

Bread

Bread is not indispensable to make a stuffing. Potatoes, rice, fruits and chestnuts answer the purpose as well and sometimes even better.

Skim Milk

Skim milk is excellent for washing tiles. It gives them a far better appearance than does hot water.

A Luxury.

"But," objected the heiress, "I have been accustomed to every luxury."

"That's all the more reason why you should marry me," replied the impecunious suitor. "I'm a luxury myself."

Plain Clothes Men.

In a small South American state which had recently undergone a change of administration the new potentate summoned an artist and ordered new designs for all the official uniforms.

"I wish showy costumes very showy," he said, "for the people are impressed by them. I have here some sketches that I myself have made. Look them over and be guided by these ideas as far as possible."

The artist examined the sketches carefully.

"This," he said, turning the pages, "is evidently for the navy and this for the army, but, if you please, what is this—a long plume on a three cornered hat, yellow dress coat trimmed with purple, and"—

"That," replied the chief of state gravely, "is for the secret police."

INBREEDING TO FIX TYPE.

Practice Establishes Prepotency as Can No Other Plan.

Every little while one sees an article against the not very common custom of what is generally known as inbreeding stock and pointing out its injurious effects and the possibility of such breeding resulting in scrubs, degenerate and worthless animals, devoid of symmetry, health and with enfeebled vitality, writes John Gould in Hoard's Dairyman. I wonder if this is a position founded on facts or assertion and if inbreeding does result any more unprofitably than mixing and the crossing going on in live stock breeding generally. It holds to reason that mating worthless and unhealthy or even weak constitutioned animals tends to deteriorate stock, whether inbred or not, and here and there a case of deterioration or a monstrosity does not prove the general charge of deterioration of quality in inbreeding.

If one will look at the awards in the swine department at St. Louis he will quickly discover that N. W. Gentry, with his intensely inbred hogs, won twenty-three out of a possible twenty-eight first prizes, and other parties with Gentry stock won many more. Gentry says he sees no ill effects from this line breeding, and he has practiced it for years, and with other hogs bred the same way Gentry captured about all the prizes at the international in Chicago last fall. He remarked that it was in the mating; nicking strong, healthy, symmetrical stock, not pedigrees, and there were no retrograde effects. In other words, he had found that health, constitution and rugged symmetry could be bred with almost positive assurance even if the breeding pairs were closely related, and he had bred so for twenty years without the introduction of fresh outside blood.

The above is preliminary to a description of the practices of Frank Hart of northern Ohio with his famous herd of St. Lambert Jerseys, one of the most notable herds in the United States, if not the very best one. One never saw a more closely inbred herd, even to the extent of breeding a service bull to his own dam, with the result of as perfect and promising a bull calf as walks on the earth, and one has only to see Hart's King to say that he is as fine a bull as can be found. If any other sire can be found as closely inbred and with such a list of fine daughters and performers I would be glad to know where they can be found. I do not pose as an expert judge, but will say that to my mind I never saw so fine a Jersey bull as King of St. Lambert's King, or Hart's King, as he is called, and this bull was not only a product of a line of inbreeding, but is himself incestuously bred in addition to line breeding.

The young cows, heifers, bulls and young things on Hart's Cherry farm are a refutation of the assertion that inbreeding of a necessity destroys in any way the value of an animal for the dairy either in form, health or production, but does establish prepotency as no other plan can.

A Good Combination.

Alfalfa and ensilage combined furnish a feed that can almost invariably be depended upon, no matter what the season is, and when grain falls will keep stock in good condition and when grain is available will enable the feeder to put on gains rapidly with comparatively small allowance of grain.—Holstein-Friesian Register.

THE BUTTERMAKER.

The following rules are necessary for the manufacture of first class butter: First, cleanliness must be observed from the barn to the market; this is the foundation upon which all else rests. Second, the process of ripening cream for the churn must be understood; this step must be well learned, as a large amount of bad butter is due to oversour or bitter cream. Third, the thermometer must be frequently used and studied. Fourth, use only the best kind of dairy salt; the common grocery kind is unfit. Fifth, learn how to work the butter; get an experienced hand to teach you the way; don't work it too much, but preserve the grain; overworked greasy butter is an abomination. Sixth, put it in attractive packages, neatly made up and each wrapped in good parchment butter paper.—American Cultivator.

Mottled Butter.

Mottled butter is usually caused by uneven distribution of salt, says Hoard's Dairyman. It used to be the custom to work the butter twice, but most creameries now work the butter but once, although if the butter is found mottled and streaked after it has been worked once it is better to rework it until the mottles and streaks have disappeared.

Milk That Affects Butter.

Answering the query, "Will the milk of a cow that has been milking for sixteen months and is not in calf be liable to injure the quality of the butter?" Hoard's Dairyman says: A cow that has been milking for sixteen months is very likely to give milk that will affect the butter. Milk from cows well along in the period of lactation is apt to be bitter, stringy and strong. As a rule, a cow should not be milked much over ten months, although many cows will give good milk for a much longer period. A great deal depends upon the individual cow.

Overheating Milk.

Overheating the milk will give the butter an oily appearance, thereby injuring the body of the butter unless the cream is cooled down to 60 degrees F. and held there for four to five hours before churning. In the winter milk should be separated at a temperature of 85 degrees F.; in summer, 75 to 80 degrees F.—Hoard's Dairyman.

A Brazilian Household Pet.

Brazilians train a snake called the giboin as a rat catcher. It is fifteen feet long, is harmless to the human being, becomes quite a household pet, may lay in the daytime, but at night roams about the house in quest of its prey—rats. These animals it promptly kills by twisting their necks. When Brazilians have to pass from room to room in the dark they first put on their slippers. It would not be pleasant to plant one's bare feet on a cold slimy snake of that size.

MARCUS DALY'S PLUCK.

The Story of a Loan That Brought Success and Wealth.

When the outlook was the blackest and this indomitable captain of men, Marcus Daly, had exhausted his resources and his credit a fortunate accident placed in his hands a small but sufficient sum of money to transform inevitable defeat into certain victory. Lloyd Tevis, the California lawyer, and his mining partner, J. B. Haggin, who had been visiting their properties at Homestake, stopped at Butte on their way home to California to take a look at the new camp. Marcus Daly knew Messrs. Haggin and Tevis well, for he had worked for them in the old California days. He visited them at their hotel, not the gorgeous palace of granite, marble, precious onyx and mahogany which adorns Butte today, but a humbler wooden structure more in keeping with the squalid surroundings of the new camp. In Haggin's bedroom, the only place available for a private conversation, Daly made a clean breast of it to his friends and appealed to them for aid, explaining his theory fully and citing many additional facts which had developed during his mining operations in Anaconda that went to strengthen it.

It was thoroughly characteristic of the man that he did not attempt to haggle over the terms of the loan, but stated merely the facts and closed his negotiations with the words: "Now, gentlemen, that is a correct statement of the situation of my affairs and the condition of my mine. I must have $20,000, and I must have it at once to meet next Saturday's payroll and current bills and to provide for the expenses of operation for another six months or so. If I do not get it I am flat broke and will have to close up. I have told you what I have got and what I think and what I think I am going to get when that shaft is down another 100 feet or so. Make your own terms, but let me have the money."

They gave him the $20,000, and, of course, being astute business men, a contract was drawn up and signed then and there transferring to them the controlling interest in the property. But up to the date of his death Lloyd Tevis always declared that, though he believed thoroughly in Marcus Daly's integrity, both he and Mr. Haggin thought that he was chasing a chimera, that the theory upon the elaboration of which Marcus Daly had spent so many sleepless nights and all his substance was fallacious and that no gold-copper deposit would ever be discovered in the bowels of Butte mountain. In fine, Haggin and Tevis let Daly have $20,000 because they liked him. They certainly never dreamed that Anaconda would prove a more veritable bonanza than the Comstock lode. As for Daly, he had never doubted his ultimate success, and when three months after that meeting in the hotel bedroom the main shaft of Anaconda penetrated, as he had always believed it would, the richest and most extensive gold-copper deposit in the known world he conveyed the intelligence to his partners in California in this most matter of fact telegram: "We have reached it. Come out and look at it."—Public Opinion.

A BOY'S VACATION TIME.

Hail, that long awaited day
When, the schoolbooks laid away,
All the thoughts of merry youngsters turn from pages back to play!
Done with lesson and with rule,
Done with teacher and with school,
Stray the vagrant hearts of childhood to the tempting wood and pool!

Who will tell in rune and rhyme
Of the glory and the grime
In the dusty lanes and byways of a boy's vacation time?
Hark, the whistle and the cry
That is piping shrill and high
From the chorus of glad youngsters trooping riotously by!

Say, did sun e'er brightly shine
As when, with his rod and line,
Tramps the barefoot lad a-fishing, and the water clear and fine!
Sweet the murmur of the trees,
And what glory now he sees
In the chatter of the wild birds and the buzz of bumblebees!

Hear the green woods cry and call
Through the summer to the fall,
"We are waiting, waiting, waiting, with a welcome for you all!"
Hear the lads take up the cry,
With an echo shrill and high,
"We are coming, coming, coming, for vacation time is nigh!"

How the skies are blue and fair,
How the clover scents the air
With a witchery of fragrance that is delicate and rare!
How the blossoms bud and blow
And the great waves flood and flow
In the ocean of boy happiness, like billows, to and fro!

Ah, my heart goes back and sighs
When the piping calls and cries
From the hearts of merry youngsters like a song of triumph rise!
And I would that rune and rhyme
Might be splendid and sublime
In my heart to tell the story of a boy's vacation time!

—J. W. Foley.

London lays out for poor relief $22,000,000 a year, and 28 out of every 1,000 of the population receive relief as paupers. In one district, West Ham, 40,000 persons were recently reported as on the edge of starvation. There is not work enough, there for all the workers, but a large proportion of the destitute are incapable of performing labor. They are human wrecks and must be supported by charity or perish. Throughout England at large there is considerable poverty, but it is most pressing and visible in the capital, and students of social phenomena and symptoms say it is mainly due to drink.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

THE PLACE FOR SPORT.

We sing the joy of living,
Of peace and war and sport,
Of taking and of giving,
In city, mart and court,
The rapture of the poet
By sages grandly felt,
But only those can know it
In the cyclone belt.

We think we are enjoying
A swell and giddy time,
With words and sweethearts toying
In song and prose and rhyme,
With life a joyous hummer,
But all these feelings melt
When we have spent a summer
In the cyclone belt.

Some men, excitement yearning,
Go chasing after war
In hopes before returning
A bunch of runs to score,
But disappointment hollow
Will certainly be felt
Unless a call they follow
To the cyclone belt.

Royalty Hunting.

Kings and potentates get a good deal of alleged sport out of hunting, but they can never quite experience the thrill of the small boy who is tracking rabbits through the snow with his first squirrel rifle.

To be sure, the king gets more game than the boy because a gang of lackeys are accommodating enough to drive the big game up to where he couldn't miss shooting it unless he were as accomplished a misser as the Russian naval gunners.

It may be more genuine sport than eating stewed prunes or fighting with burglars to shoot off a gun at a tame bear while a husky man stands behind to reload the gun, while another runs up with a club to dispatch the bear if the shot didn't do the work, but for the freeborn American citizen the operation is too much like playing golf to engender anything like genuine unalloyed joy.

Its Vacation.

No more the bivalve soft we chew
In scollop or in festive stew;
The oyster bird has had his day—
There it no R's in May.

Felt She Had To.

"She is one of these old fashioned girls. She believes that the whale swallowed Jonah."

"Of course she does. She has designs on the new minister."

Fatal Defect.

"His new book is doomed to failure."

"Lacking in plot?"

"No, but the hero is not named Jack."

As Early as That.

When George Wash crossed the Delaware
And gave the British quite a scare,
According to the best advice,
He cut a good sized chunk of ice.

Sull a Bird.

"When he came to town he was feeling like a bird."

"Yes, and when they took all his money away he went home a blue jay."

Felt It Coming.

"Why does he predict a big corn crop with such assurance?"

"He has just bought a pair of shoes that are two sizes too small."

Provided For.

"Is he saving any money for a rainy day?"

"No; he is an adept at stealing umbrellas."

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

A vacation without pay is a good deal like a dinner without salt, only more so.

It is a mighty lucky dog that is born into the world with a pedigree.

A club woman's boy generally gets revenge on his mother by smoking cigarettes.

The man who can look pleasant while paying his wife's millinery bill certainly has a crown and a harp coming to him.

Some men find it hard to shave themselves because they never learned to swear in youth.

Some of the most beautiful theories in the world wouldn't recognize themselves after they had been put into practice.

DID YOU EVER WONDER—

Why a baby carriage isn't known as a cryecycle?

Why it is so much easier to be wrong than it is to be president?

Why some people manage to talk a great deal without saying anything?

Why so many of our coming men seem to be handicapped from the start?

Why the company that issues the map has the only curveless railroad thereon?

Why the average man invariably makes a fool of himself every time he tries to act up?

Why men are nearly always embarrassed when they propose—either financially or otherwise?

Why so many men who are anxious to work when sick are just as anxious to avoid it when well?

Why some men are not as black as they are painted and some are not as white as they are whitewashed?

INDESCRIBABLE PAINS STONE IN BLADDER

An Exceptionally Severe Case in Which a Helpless Sufferer was Restored by DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Gravel or stone in bladder is about the most painful ailment that ever afflicted mankind. It is the result of deranged kidneys, the uric acid forming in hard substances, which lodge in the kidneys and bladder. This horrible disease is prevented and cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. Daniel Brown, English River, Ont., writes:—"For three years I suffered from urinary troubles, particularly of the nature of stone in the bladder or gravel, and the pain which I endured can scarcely be described. I was unable to do any work, and frequently discharged blood. Though I spent hundreds of dollars in doctors' bills I received no relief, and at last decided that I would never be able to work again.

"While in this condition I was advised to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and though I had no faith in them or anything else I decided to give them a fair trial. After using one box I felt a decided change for the better, and after taking five boxes I felt like a new man. I am entirely out of pain, and have no more discharge of blood. I can honestly recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to any fellow sufferer, and will cheerfully verify this statement to anyone writing me."

Mr. W. Bowen, postmaster and station agent at English River, Ont., writes:—"I have interviewed Mr. Daniel Brown of this place in regard to his long illness and cure, and hereby certify that the testimonial as given by him is correct."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

This is What He Says

WHY HE PINS HIS FAITH TO DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Worn out With Chronic Kidney Disease—The Great Canadian Kidney Remedy Banished His Pains.

Acadia Siding, Kent Co., N. B., July 3.—(Special).—Calixte Richard, J. P., one of the most highly respected men in this part of the country, has joined the great army of those who pin their faith to Dodd's Kidney Pills. As usual Mr. Richard has good reasons for what he does and he states them as follows:

"I have been troubled with Kidney Disease for forty years and the result was I found myself a worn out man at seventy-two. But after using two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills I find all my pains are gone, and I can employ all my days with the best results. I cannot let the opportunity pass of letting the public know the great good Dodd's Kidney Pills have done me.

"Dodd's Kidney Pills cure all rheumatic pains by removing the cause—Uric acid in the blood. They put vigor and energy in place of the pain."

An Indian Legend.

There was once a man who lived in the forest far from the rest of his tribe. He lost his wife and was very lonely. After awhile he made a wooden doll about her size, dressed it in the clothes she used to wear and set it up in front of the fireplace. Then he felt better. So a year passed away. One night he came home, and there was his wife sitting in a chair in place of the doll. She spoke to him, saying, "The Great Spirit felt sorry for you, so he let me come back to see you, but you must never touch me, for if you do you will kill me." They lived thus together for a twelvemonth, but one night he attempted to clasp her in his arms. Behold, he was holding a wooden doll. She did not come to life again, and he was very unhappy ever after.

Welsh College Yells.

The Welsh is a language that looks peculiarly fit for college yells. The Welsh yells are fully up to the level of those of this country. The University of North Wales has a yell something like this: "Bravo, bravissimo, ray, ray, ra-o-rock! Ray-ray-ra-o-rock! Ray-ray-ray-o-rock!" Cardiff has a somewhat similar yell, while at Aberystwyth the cry is: "Hip-hip-hur-aber! Hip-hip-hur-aber! Hip-hip-hur-Aberystwyth! With a pip and a pang and a yip and a yan. Yak! Yak! Yak!"

Overcome.

Timson—I never fainted away but once, and that was just a few days ago. Simson—What was the cause? Timson—My wife told me that she had trained herself so she could walk through a store full of bargain counter sales with her purse full of money and never buy a thing.

Paradoxical.

Smith—You remember Muggins, who used to bore us with his long winded stories? Jones—Yes. What of him? Smith—He was arrested yesterday for being short in his accounts.

Work.

"Anyhow you can't deny that Hewligus is a self made man. He worked his way through college."

"He certainly did. He worked nearly every student in the institution."

His Floundering.

"Isn't Mr. Teejus a deep thinker?"

"He must be," answered Miss Cayenne. "I never heard him try to say anything without getting beyond his depth."

During his absence Mr. Ryrie visited Italy, Switzerland, Austria, Germany, Holland, France and England, and made selections in each country, thus gathering one of the choicest collections of precious stones, silverware and art goods that has ever entered Canada. These goods, it is expected, will arrive in time for the opening of the new premises now being prepared for the Ryrie Bros., Limited. This building, which is situated some three or four doors above their present premises, will be ready for occupation toward the end of July and when completed will be one of the largest and most palatial establishments on the continent, even rivalling anything that New York or Chicago has to show.

What Women Suffer.

AT ALL AGES THEY NEED RICH, PURE BLOOD TO SECURE HEALTH AND HAPPINESS.

A woman needs medicine more than a man. Her organism is more complex, her system more delicate. Her health is disturbed regularly in the course of nature. If anything happens to interfere with that natural course, she goes through unspeakable suffering. In fact the health of every function and the happiness of every moment of a woman's life depends upon the richness and the regularity of her blood supply. That is the simple scientific reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth more than their weight in gold to women of all ages from fifteen to fifty. These pills actually make the rich, red blood that brings health and happiness and freedom from pain to every woman. Mrs. Nell Ferguson, Ashfield, N. S., says: "In justice to you, and in the hope that what I say may benefit other suffering women, I take pleasure in stating that I have found wonderful benefit from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was so badly run down that I could scarcely go about; at times I suffered very much and felt that life was a burden. Thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I can now say I am enjoying better health than I ever expected to have again, and I can most heartily recommend these pills to other suffering women."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured Mrs. Ferguson because they filled her veins with the rich, pure blood so necessary to health and happiness of every human being. It is for this reason that these pills always cure such troubles as anaemia, neuralgia, heart trouble, indigestion, rheumatism, sciatica, St. Vitus dance, paralysis, kidney and liver troubles, and the special ailments of growing girls and women of middle age. You can get these pills from any dealer in medicine, but you should be careful to see that the full name, "Dr. Williams Pink Pills for Pale People," is on the wrapper around each box. If you wish you can get the pills by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

I was so badly run down that I could scarcely go about; at times I suffered very much and felt that life was a burden. Thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I can now say I am enjoying better health than I ever expected to have again, and I can most heartily recommend these pills to other suffering women."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured Mrs. Ferguson because they filled her veins with the rich, pure blood so necessary to health and happiness of every human being. It is for this reason that these pills always cure such troubles as anaemia, neuralgia, heart trouble, indigestion, rheumatism, sciatica, St. Vitus dance, paralysis, kidney and liver troubles, and the special ailments of growing girls and women of middle age. You can get these pills from any dealer in medicine, but you should be careful to see that the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," is on the wrapper around each box. If you wish you can get the pills by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

JAS. B. GRAHAM.

JAS. B. GRAHAM.

Editor and Proprietor of the Enterprise, Melita, Man.

The profession of journalism in the West includes among its most honored members some men of mature age, whose ripened experience has sobering and modifying effect on the sometimes too exuberant enthusiasm of their younger fellowworkmen. Now that "old man Laurie" of Battleford has crossed the bourne—he who with the courage of the pioneer loaded his Washington hand press on a Red River cart, and trekked hundreds of miles across the farflung fenceless prairie to the then Territorial capital, staying on with firm faith in his location after all others had quit, and dying at last with the sound of the long-looked-for locomotive almost in his ears, and his dreams of Battleford's future within measurable distance of realization at last. Now that the veteran editor of the Saskatchewan Herald is no more, Mr. Cannon, of the Minnedosa Tribune, is perhaps the Nestor of Western Canadian journalism, but Mr. Jas. B. Graham, of Melita, will in point of age, if not of Western experience, run him a close second.

Though Mr. Graham is in his sixty-fifth year, he would have to produce a certificate of the fact in order to be believed, for many men a score of years his junior look older. He is an ardent lover of the great out-of-doors, and to this fact, as well as to a temperate, industrious, cheerful life and a naturally good constitution, his finely preserved physique may be ascribed. In the winter the skating rink has no more enthusiastic devote than he, and in summer he travels for hours a day on his bicycle. He retains that youthful freshness of mind that is the surest antidote for old age. He lives in the present rather than in the past, enjoys the society of the young, and while Conservative in politics is progressive in disposition. Though his hair is white his step is springy, and many a young Canadian girl might envy Mr. Graham his complexion. He is one of those men that never grow really old, but when his eye is dim and his step feeble, will be fresh of heart and mind as men young enough to be his sons.

Mr. Graham is of Irish birth, a native of Ulster, having been born near Belfast in 1840. He was but seven years of age when he came with his parents to Ontario. At the age of seventeen he went into the printing business, with which he has been ever since identified. He was apprenticed to the office of the Streetville Review, then owned by Solomon Barnhart and edited by Rev. R. J. McGeorge. His first job, as he is fond of telling his friends when in reminiscent view, was to manipulate the roller at the Washington press in printing an edition of the poems and lyrics of the lesser Canadian poets, Alexander McLachlin, of Caledon. Mr. Graham remained with the Review until it ceased publication. His whole printing experience while connected with the paper was in newspaper and book-work, for in the 50's job work, as at present understood—the printing of office stationery, visiting cards, pamphlets and catalogues—was unknown outside the bigger cities.

After leaving Streetville Mr. Graham, in search of wider knowledge of the craft, went to Toronto, and called on William Lyon Mackenzie in search of a position on his paper. There being none, and disliking the hurly-burly of the city, he went to Milton, securing a position on the New Era of that town. Later he worked on papers at Fergus, Mount Forest, and Owen Sound. In 1870 Mr. Graham started the Uxbridge Journal, staying in Uxbridge some years, and finally selling out because of a severe attack of the Western farming fever, to which thousands of Ontarians succumbed in 1880.

Mr. Graham first took up a homestead near Rapid City, but the absence of educational facilities for his children caused him to move with his family to Qu'Appelle, where he had been offered a position as foreman of the Progress office. Here he remained for a time, when the offer of a similar position in Brandon determined him to move to the Wheat City, because of the better educational advantages there obtainable. For six or seven years Mr. Graham was a citizen of Brandon, leaving when he purchased the Enterprise at Melita, which under his management, was soon fitted out with an entire new dress, and the mechanical equipment of which was three years ago improved by the installation of a large Cottrell-Babcock press and a power plant.

Last January Mr. Graham purchased the Carnduff Gazette, for which he has just completed the erection of a new building, and for which he has installed new type and presses. The Enterprise is under the management of his eldest son, while Mr. Graham personally superintends the Gazette business.

Both papers are highly creditable specimens of Western country weeklies—newsy, intelligently written, well printed and with good advertising patronage. Their popularity among their constituents is shown by their circulation, and by the manner in which their columns are in demand by the business men of their towns.

Mr. Graham is a Mason of over thirty years standing. Music is one of his favorite pleasures, and in band organization he has taken lifelong interest.

Among his fellow newspaper men few men are more popular or respected than Mr. Graham, whose success in his profession is but the reward of his industry and his personal character. In many respects he is a typical Western editor. He knows the newspaper business thoroughly, from the washing of rollers and the writing of editorial and the rustling for subscriptions. Because of the range of his experience, and because of its length, he will remain, as long as he continues in the ranks of working newspaper men, one of the outstanding figures in the journalistic world of the West.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Dark Hair

There is a bookseller in Yorkshire who never tires of telling how once he "got even" with Alfred Austin, the post laureate. This vendore of literary wares is a tall thin man, with sharp features and a distinctly intellectual head, and Mr. Austin seems to have taken an interest in him from the first. Often and often he visited the shop never to buy, but always to ask innumerable questions. "How many books do you sell daily?" "Do they read me about here?" "What is the profit in bookselling?" These were samples of the poet's queries. Then came a day wenn he took up a copy of Omar Khayyam and asked, "Is this good?" "Don't know; never read it," replied the shopman. "What! You don't read the books you sell?" came the astonished question. "Certainly not," was the concluding phrase of the conversation. "If you were a druggist, would that lead you to eat any the more opium?"

They Cleanse the System Thoroughly.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills clear the stomach and bowels of bilious matter, cause the excretory vessels to throw off impurities from the blood into the bowels and expel the deleterious mass from the body. They do this without pain or inconvenience to the patient, who speedily realizes their good offices as soon as they begin to take effect. They have strong recommendations form all kinds of people.

One of John Sharp Williams' recent stories tells of an old darkey who applied to a former employer for a recommendation. The old colored man had been faithful and his record was clean, so the employer wrote him a recommendation lauding him to the skies. The old darkey read it twice, and then ran his fingers through his wool. "U-m-m," he muttered. "Boss, dat's a good rec'mendation. Don' yo' deckon yo' could gib me a job yo'self if I's good as all dis says?"

Caller—Is your mother in, Ethel? Ethel—No, ma'am, she's downtown. Caller—Shopping? Ethel—Oh, no; I don't think she had time for that. She just said she was going to get some things she needed.

Mr. Newlywed—By the way, dearest, did I ever tell you about that beautiful heiress who once wanted me for a husband? Mrs. Newlywed—No, dear; you have never told me a lie yet that I know of.

"Do you favor government ownership of railways?" "No," answers the man who travels. "Some of the porters are haughty enough now. I don't know what they would be if they were to loom up as government officials."

They Advertise Themselves.—Immediately they were offered to the public. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills became popular because of the good report they made for themselves. That reputation has grown and they now rank among the first medicines for use in attacks of dyspepsia and biliousness, complaints of the liver and kidneys, rheumatism, fever and ague, and the innumerable complications to which these ailments give rise.

"Dear Senator," wrote one of his youthful constituents, "please give me a simple rule for success in life." "My dear young friend," wrote the eminent statesman, "always put your best foot foremost." "Dear Senator," rejoined the youthful constituent, "either you don't know anything about grammar or you think I have more than two feet."

Minard's Liniment Cures Diphtheria.

Mary Ann—I've come to tell you, mum, that th' gasolene stove has gone out. Mistress—Well, light it again. "I can't. Sure, it went out through th' roof!"

Settlement Worker—What a well-behaved little boy he is! Burglar's Wife—And he comes by it natural, mum; his poor father never failed to have a sentence reduced owin' to good behaviour!

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is prepared from drugs known to the profession as thoroughly reliable for the cure of cholera, dysentery, diarrhoea, griping pains and summer complaints. It has been used successfully by medical practitioners for a number of years with gratifying results. If suffering from any summer complaint it is just the medicine that will cure you. Try a bottle. It sells for 25 cents.

Defined—Gladys—I call it an automobile engagement. Maude—What's an automobile engagement? Gladys—One that starts off all right, but nobody's quite dead sure that it will be able to keep on going.

Mrs. J—— was very nervous and a light sleeper. One night she thought she detected the odor of gas. For once in her life she acted bravely. She got up and went downstairs without awakening her husband. Finding the odor of gas stronger in the lower rooms she ran back to her bedroom. She shook her dozing spose two or three times very roughly, crying at the same time: "John! John! Get up! The gas is leaking and we will be smothered to death." Is it leaking very much?" sleepily asked John. "No; not so much." "Then put a bucket under it and come to bed."

BABY'S DANGER

A mother cannot watch her little ones too carefully during the hot weather. Dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera infantum, and disorders of the stomach are alarmingly frequent during the summer months, and unless the mother has at hand an efficient remedy to check and cure the trouble a little life may go almost before you realise the case is serious. At the first sign of any of these ailments the wise mother will give her little one Baby's Own Tablets, which promptly cure all hot weather ailments. Mrs. John Lancaster, North Portal, N. W. T., says: "My baby was attacked with diarrhoea and vomiting. I at once gave Baby's Own Tablets and the next day she was as well as ever. I am never without the Tablets in the house as I find they are the only medicine a little one needs." Other wise mothers will follow Mrs. Lancaster's example and keep the Tablets always at hand—their prompt use may save a little life. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 25 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BY ROYAL WARRANT MILLERS TO H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES

Is "Royal Household" Really the Best Flour?

Thousands of women who do their own baking know it is the best, by results—they don't care about the reasons—but those who have not tried it may want to know why it is the best.

Of course any maker of flour—with the same experience—the same facilities for selecting the best wheat—the same tremendous plant equipment for milling, and the same process for Electrical Purification of flour could make just as good flour as ROYAL HOUSEHOLD—if he had the genius for flour making.

But no other flour maker in Canada has all these requisites and facilities, therefore no flour equal to ROYAL HOUSEHOLD is made in this country.

In these talks we shall give you good reasons why ROYAL HOUSEHOLD is the best flour and why it is the cheapest flour for you to use.

The Optimist, organ of the "Nolens Volens" colony, prints a cut of the prison. In the dome of the main building is shown open windows in the highest portion. The accompanying comment narrates that many years ago a prisoner attempted his liberty by means of a rope down which he was sliding when the cord parted and he fell first to the roof of the central building, then, bounding from there, hit the top of the cell block, where he acquired sufficient elasticity to land him on the ground. These unexpected incidents confused him and he was captured. Singularly the misfortune of his failure was not unmitigated. He had been so afflicted with heart disease as to be unable to lie down for months. The fall knocked it completely out of him, and he was enabled thereafter to "sleep like a top." The Optimist cheerfully invites the palpitating public to come and try the remedy.

COMPLAINT AGAINST NIGHT CONSTABLE.

Mr Penhale—On Saturday the night policeman met me on South Railway street and said he would like to speak to me. "I understand," he said, "people say I took this German down to the softening plant. They say you said it." I said: "I did not. Somebody must have misinformed you." He said he was informed I said it. I said: "You go there too often. You will have to cut it out." He said: "If you say it again I will have you arrested." I don't think that is coming to me from a servant. He said he could take my job away from me if he liked. He is a dangerous policeman. He uses that gun too indiscrimately when he takes the notion. If I am to take this abuse from the police I want to know, and I want to know quick too. He is not a fit man for the position or anything of the kind, and should be dismissed.

The Mayor—Gentlemen, you have heard Coun. Penhale's complaint against Miniszwsky.

Coun. Stewart—I move the Police Committee investigate this with power to act.

Coun. Sissons—I second the motion. Carried.

The Mayor—That will be satisfactory to you will it Councillor Penhale?

Coun. Penhale—Quite satisfactory. There have been other complaints.

The Mayor—There were complaints made to me, and I spoke to him. It was said he was in the habit of going down there in the hours he should be night watching the town. I gave him to understand he was not to go down there. I recommended that he go in plain clothes if he went down there to serve summonses.

The subject then dropped.

INSURANCE.

The Finance Committee recommended that the Secretary-Treasurer be directed to apportion the insurance of new municipal buildings between local agents of insurance companies.

The report was adopted.

PUBLIC PARKS.

The Council went into committee of the whole, Councillor Stewart in the chair, to consider Bylaw No. 94, to raise by debenture $15,000 for purchase of lands for public parks and gardens, erection of necessary building, and to purchase land for public market, a bylaw to be submitted to the ratepayers on September 1st.

The bylaw being completed, the committee rose and reported, and the report was adopted.

Bylaw No. 97, re Local Improvements (sidewalks, etc.), was brought up.

Coun. Sissons moved, seconded by Coun. Stewart, for leave to introduce said bylaw, and this being carried the bylaw was read a first time.

On the motion of Coun. Sissons and Stewart the bylaw was taken as read a second time.

INCREASED POWERS.

The members had a short talk about obtaining increased powers in connection with granolithic sidewalks and sewerage and then adjourned until Friday night to further consider the matter.

An adjourned meeting of the Council was held on Friday evening. Present—Mayor Forster; Councillors Drinnan Stewart, Penhale, Sissons, Smyth; W. N. Adsit, Town Clerk; C. R. Mitchell, Town Solicitor.

The Council went into committee of the whole (Coun. Sissons in the chair) to consider a draft bylaw prepared by Mr Mitchell re permanent sidewalks.

The Committee discussed the position and the powers possessed by the Council and came to the conclusion that the best mode of procedure under the conditions would be to first adopt a basis upon which petitions could be presented to the Council.

The Committee rose and reported progress.

The council resumed.

Mr Mitchell at the request of the Council, drew up the following petition, which was moved by Coun. Sissons and seconded by Coun. Penhale:

That the Council of the town of Medicine Hat is prepared to receive petitions, from persons registered or assessed as owners of the lands fronting on the street or place whereon or wherein any local improvement is proposed to be made under the provisions of Part 6 of the Municipal Ordinance relating to Local Improvements and Assessment, for the construction of permanent sidewalks and that in the event of such petitions being favorably considered by the Council that ⅓ of the cost of such local improvements shall be done by the town at large and that the remaining ⅔ be provided by way of a special frontage tax assessment upon the land of the petitions spread over a period of years of the probable life of the work.

The motion was carried.

COUN. PENHALE'S COMPLAINT AGAINST NIGHT CONSTABLE.

Coun. Sissons—In regard to that question referred to the Licence and Police Committee, the Committee decided to come back to the Council. They have not formally investigated the matter and suggest that the whole thing be investigated by the Council in Committee of the whole.

Coun. Smyth—Has the Committee any evidence to submit?

Coun. Sissons said that Mr. Penhale and Constable Miniszewsky were there if the Council wished to hear them.

The Mayor—How long will it take? I have some other business to bring forward of more interest to the town.

Coun. Penhale—It will not take me long.

Coun. Stewart—I move that the Council go into Committee of the whole to inquire into the complaint of Mr. Penhale against Mr. Miniszewsky.

Coun. Smyth seconded and it was carried.

Coun. Penhale—The members of the press will retire.

The members of the press did not appreciate being turned out, but had no alternative, so left the council chamber.

An hour and half later one of them, who had remained in the vicinity of the hall, heard a motion to advertise for a new night policeman and a motion to adjourn.

W.C.T.U.

(Contributed by a member).

The regular monthly meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held in the Sunday School room of the Baptist Church, Monday afternoon Aug. 7th.

The meeting was opened by singing hymn, Saviour More Than Life To Me, reading scripture lesson psalm eighty followed by prayer by some of the members. The attendance was not large, owing to the extremely hot weather. It is earnestly hoped that many members will come out next month to re-elect officers. The flower and delicacy committee reported very good this month; it is with regret that we know of so much sickness and the members should not forget those that are sick. There was an advertisement from an entertainment Co. but it was put aside till next month There is a true story told of a girl, who was always saying she meant to go, being sent on an errand of great importance. It was to go and call her mother because her father was very ill. She meant to go but did not call her mother and when the mother did come home her husband was dead The shock to her nerves killed her, so the one who "meant to" was left to strangers, just because she neglected her duty.

So with us God's word to us, watch and pray lest ye enter into Temptation. So that when the master comes we may be ready, not with our lights gone out.

MASON & RISCH

THE PIANO WITH A SOUL

Mason & Risch Pianos are famous for that peculiar carrying power known as the singing tone. Not all tones classed as musical are music unalloyed. There are certain qualities of tone that are strangely diffusive They carry far and retain their singing character where other tones become indistinct or even lost. A sheet of gold leaf, thinner than the thinnest tissue, will completely block the powerful rays of the strongest searchlight, while the X-rays, merely glowing with a faint light, will penetrate an inch of solid steel. So it is with music: some tones are diffusive and carry, others become more or less absorbed in space. The tone that "carries" the singing tone, is due to perfection of finish and perfect vibratory equilibrium of all the tone producing parts of a piano. It is always a tone of the utmost sweetness and purity. The Mason & Risch Piano is full of "sing" being especially fine in its blendings of the human voice, which it rounds out and sustains in a happy union of melody and harmony. Our literature explains the many points of superiority of the Mason & Risch piano—the piano with a soul. Send for it to-day.

Premier Haultain Issues Statement

Regina, Aug. 7.—(To the Editor of The Times)—I have been asked from many parts of the country to make a statement on the present political position of the Territories. My first inclination was not to do so, but as so many newspapers, not altogther friendly, have been undertaking to define my position for me I have thought it might be more satisfactory to my friends and not uninteresting to the public to learn my opinion from myself. For these reasons I have prepared the following statement and for the second reason ask you for the privilege of your columns.

THE PARTY LINES QUESTION.

On the 22nd of April, 1903, I was asked in the Legislature to explain to the members how far my position and opinions were affected by the party lines resolution passed at the Moose Jaw convention on the 22nd March, just one month earlier. I replied in part as follows:

"From the earliest time in the history of this House there has been a practically unanimous opinion on the part of the country that this House in addressing itself to the business entrusted to it should not introduce questions, names and cries which had nothing whatever to do with the particular business in hand. That has been the policy of the House and government and the principle on which I have been elected from year to year and on which I have been so loyally, and practically unanimously supported, both in the House and Country. It is quite unnecessary for me to say that at the last election I went to the country on the same ground, and I can now merely say to the House and country that I propose to carry out the important duties which have been entrusted to me faithfully and resolutely, and fulfil the pledges I have made to my constituents, to my colleagues, to the Legislature and to the North West Territories.

HIS POLITICAL OPINIONS.

"In regard to the convention which the hon. gentlemen have mentioned, I am not going to stop short at that statement I have made. On the question of Dominion politics I take the ground that I in common with every member of this House, reserve the right to myself to have and to hold and profess my own political opinions in regard to national and other matters. I do not consider because of my position in this House that I am thereby disfranchised. I claim the right to exercise, and will exercise to the fullest extent, full liberty of speech and action and opinion with regard to federal matters, subject to the promise that I will not introduce them into local affairs.

"With regard to the organization which was created at Moose Jaw. I had the honor of being elected its honorary president. I do not propose to shield myself, as perhaps, I might, behind what is purely an honorary position. By accepting the honorary presidency of the association then formed I may be held to be in general accord with and adhere to the general principles of the party to which I have the honor to belong. I am not bound to approve of every detail of the policy of the party to which I belong. The party may in the opinion of some of its members be wrong in certain directions without forfeiting in any degree the loyalty of these members. Every party in Canada is quite broad enough and big enough to allow differences of opinion in its ranks. With regard to my position I am in thorough unison with it and all questions of principle. But the policy of that party and those principles have nothing whatever to do with my position in this House or with the business of this House. The country must be satisfied that I will faithfully and sincerely and impartially go my duty and fulfil my trust on the lines I have given time and time again to my constituents, my colleagues, to the House and to the people of the Territories generally."

STATEMENT WAS SATISFACTORY

"That that statement was satisfactory to the members of the Legislature is best proved by the fact that I received the unanimous support of the House during the session at which it was made and for the two following sessions in the Autumn of 1903 and 1904. To divide on Dominion party lines in the Local Legislature has always appeared to me to be undesirable, unintelligent and unnecessary. Party names and differences which may have some meaning at Ottawa when applied to the business to be done there have no meaning at Regina or Edmonton when applied to the business done by the Provincial Legislatures. The work of Parliament is quite different from the work of the Legislature. Parliament deals with national affairs, the Legislature with Provincial business. Men who disagree on Dominion questions may very well agree on Provincial questions and differences in the larger field should not prevent co-operation in the smaller. Diverse opinions on the tariff are not inconsistent with harmonious action with regard to roads and bridges, schools and the hundred and one practical subjects which fall within the jurisdiction of Provincial Legislatures. This is not a theory but an established fact proved by fourteen years trial of the non-party system. That the result of that system has been fairly satisfactory to the people of the Territories has been abundantly shown by the confidence which has been given to the Territorial government ever since its formation.

WHY THE CHANGE?

"Not one word has been said by my new found opponents against my administration of the local affairs of the Territories. Why then the necessity for a change? Why are men, whose administration of public affairs up to the 31st August is pronounced honest and efficient, until to continue the work on the 1st of September on the same lines? Is the movement in favor of party lines made in the interest of the people and the Province or for the benefit of politicians? Are the best men of the country to be separated into hostile groups under names and for reasons which have nothing to do with the business entrusted to them? Are the interests and business of these two new provinces to be imperilled and neglected in order to allow politicians to squabble and fight and thwart each other because they profess allegiance to Sir Wilfrid Laurier or Mr. Borden? The only answer that is made to the argument against party lines is that the Conservatives declared for party lines in March 1903. That is quite true, but what right had the Conservative convention of 1903 to anticipate the actions of two Conservative organizations in the new provinces in 1905? And if the Moose Jaw convention made a mistake and took a step which was not in the best interest of the Territories the true remedy is not to be found in drawing the lines on the other side.

OPPOSED TO THE CONVENTION.

"Personally I am free to criticise the Moose Jaw resolution, because I opposed by speech and vote and refused to be bound by it. It is a significant fact that I was supported in that position at the convention by Dr. Elliott and Messrs. Lake, Connell and Hawkes, four other Conservative members of the Legislature at that time. One month after the Convention I made the statement quoted above to the Legislature and I have ever since on every public and private occasion declared my firm adherence to the non-party principle. My position has been perfectly consistent and my attitude in local affairs is the same today as it has always been. Not one charge has been made or can be made against me for ever allowing partizan motives to influence me in the conduct of local affairs. The men who attack me as a partisan today forget that for years I was attacked by Conservative papers and organizations because I would not use the local machinery for party purposes. Liberals at Moosomin, Indian Head, Qu'Appelle, Regina, Moose Jaw and Calgary cannot have already forgot ten the elections of 1894, 1898 and the by-elections of 1901 and the attitude of my party friends toward me because of my support of Liberal colleagues. Against a consistent record of absolutely impartial action for nearly fourteen years is set up the complaint that I took a part in Dominion elections and discussed the Autonomy question last autumn. Have I not the right to hold and express my political opinions during a Dominion election? Every other member of the Legislature did—why should not I?

HAVE THINGS CHANGED?

"It was never considered a disqualification for local office for my Liberal colleagues in the government to be active workers during a Dominion election. The names Ross, Sifton and Bulyea do not suggest that. Yet they only did what they had a perfect right to do. Discussing autonomy at the last Dominion elections was not dragging federal politics into the local arena. It was rather discussing a question which up to that time had been a local question, but had been made a Dominion question by Sir Wilfrid Laurier's announcement that his government would ask Parliament to deal with it at its following session. What more appropriate time for the discussion of a question than at the election of the men who were to go to Ottawa to deal with it. I asked the Legislature to try to be unanimous in their demands and avoided everything that might prevent unanimity. But when the Government had agreed to our request to take up the question of Autonomy was I not free to express my opinions as to the sort of autonomy proposed to be given.

WHY A PARTISAN?

I have also been called a partisan because I stood consistently at Ottawa for what I was authorized by the people and Legislature to ask for Certain broad principles were embodied in the demands which I was commissioned to make and when I believed that some of those principles were not being regarded in the Autonomy Bills I protested as forcibly as I could. Some of my critics apparently think that I should have gratefully accepted whatever was offered no matter how far it departed from what I had for years been telling the people of the Territories they were entitled to. That is not my conception of my duty. I conceived that it was my duty to stand out for what I believed to be the rights of the West. Yet I am called a partisan because I was consistent and presistent in my demands. I cannot be accused of any new departure in thus standing out for the rights of the Territories, because in earlier days I was obliged to take the same position with Conservative governments, only at the time with applause and commendation of some of the men who call me a partisan today. To the people of the two provinces I would say what sort of a partisan do you want to conduct your affairs—the man who will fight for what you have delegated him to fight for, or the man who will accept a refusal with thanks for fear of embarassing some government at Ottawa?

What suggests the strongest argument against party lines in the Provinces? We want governments which are quite independent of Ottawa. We want men who when western interests are involved will work with a single eye to those interests without regard to party interest or convenience. And this will be necessary, no matter what party is in power, for political human nature is much the same on both sides.

APPEALS TO HIS RECORD.

I am charged with having within the past twelve months violated most of the principles I have laid down. Charges of that nature are not unusual in the experience of most public men. But I have a record to appeal to which sufficiently answers them. One other point upon which I have been attacked is that I have threatened to keep up a racial and religious agitation in the West. That is simply not true, I hold with many other men of both political parties that the new western provinces are entitled to equal rights with the other provinces in the Dominion. The people of the west are quite as fit to govern themselves as the people of any other part of the Dominion. In my opinion the new provinces have not been given the full rights of self-government which properly belong to them. With regard to the important matter of education, a purely local question, the right of the provinces to make their own policy has been restricted in several important particulars. The Federal Parliament has attempted to fix for all time to come not only important points in our educational policy, but also the principle upon which provincial money voted for education shall be expended, in doing this I believe that Parliament overstepped its power, and I am supported in this belief by eminent legal constitutional authority.

HAS PARLIAMENT THE RIGHT?

"This question does not concern the merits of our present school system or the relative merits of any class of schools. It has nothing to do with race or creed. It is the simple question: Has Parliament under the constitution the right to limit jurisdiction of the provinces with regard to education?

The question has been removed from Parliament by the passing of the Autonomy Bills and has now become a local question to be settled, not by political agitation, but by the regular constitutional method of appeal to the courts. It may be argued that as there may be at present no objection to the practical effect on the conditions imposed by Parliament there is no object to be gained by an appeal to the courts. But the principle of Provincial Rights is at stake and it is important enough in itself to demand vindication without regard to practical considerations. Supporters as well as opponents of the Autonomy Bills should alike be favorable to this mode of settlement. With so profound a difference of opinion existing on the question there will always be agitation until a final and binding decision is given.

ISSUE IS CLEAR.

"The question is shortly, what is the constitutions? And I am sure that when all rights are finally interpreted and declared by the Judical Committee of the Privy Council all parties will cheerfully and loyally abide by the result whatever it may be. There are other constitutional questions to be settled by the courts before the provinces will be in a position to know the exact limit of their powers and responsibilities. The questions of the right of the provinces to the control of the public domain and of the right of Parliament to control our powers of taxation by continuing the C.P.R. exemption must also be settled. An appeal to the courts involves no popular agitation or a stirring up of religous controversy. It can be made quietly and amicably by a test case to be submitted to the courts. No one can reasonably object to this appeal, because every one must be anxious that what is right should prevail and that is the only way in which what is right can be determined. Anyone who opposes this appeal and seeks to impose his own opinion on a much disputed point must be actuated by some other and less worthy motive.

My whole argument may be summed up when I say, apply the constitution and then let the only proper tribunal, the Judical Committee, interpret it, and whatever the interpretation may be we will and must accept it. But I very much mistake western sentiment if the people of the Territories are willing that these twin young giant provinces should be bound up in a constitutional straight-jacket unless a competent tribunal decides that that is the only political costume they are entitled to wear under the constitution.

SOME HUGE PROBLEMS.

There are many important questions for the new provinces to consider which I trust will not be obscured by the introduction of Dominion party lines and the political agitation and discussion which must follow. Departments will have to be reorganized and new departments will have to be formed. The questions of public institutions, higher education, a more comprehensive system of roads and bridges and other local improvements transportation, both ordinary and by railways including that overshadowing question of a Hudson Bay railway the development and encouragement of our agricultural and other interest the administration of the Criminal law and the numerous other questions which under the Provincial constitution are relegated to the Legislature, all these must be taken up and dealt with. Surely all these matters and their consideration will place a sufficient tax on the time, the energy the devotion and patriotism of all the best men in the country.

As for myself I stand for non-party government regardless of what any political party or both political parties may decide. To me the welfare and interest of this great western country are and always have been more important than the success or convenience of any political party and if that statement should be questioned I will refer to a public career of nearly eighteen years in these Territories, during which I have guarded their interests, done their work and fought for the rights as honorably, capably and courageously as I knew how.

DOMINION EXHIBITION.

New Westminster, B.C., Aug. 1.—With the Dominion Exhibition just six weeks away the various committee that have to do with the elaborate arrangements are working overtime in order to have their work all completed so that it will require only the pressing of a button to put everything in full swing on the morning of Sept. 27.

Scores of artisans and laborers are busy on the site of the 1905 National Fair and nearly all work hasdevelopedinto the stage where finishing touches are the only worries. The old provincial exhibition grounds on which so many successful fairs have been held under the auspices of the Royal Agricultural & Industrial Society have been greatly enlarged and with the many alterations and improvements will, for beauty, surpass anything of the kind in Canada.

The new buildings, which represent the latest ideas and best skill in architecture, together with the expenditure of $35,000, are now in the hands of the painters and decorators whose schemes promise most attractive results.

The space in the buildings is ample to accommodate a stupendous array of exhibits representing all that is of interest in the products and manufactures of Canada and the extreme limit of this space will be occupied.

The British Columbia exhibits of horticulture, floriculture, agriculture, live stock, fish, game, timber, minerals etc., will be an eye-opener to all who are not in constant touch with every centre and corner of the province, and it will be a revelation to visitors from other parts of the Dominion and the world. Nearly every fruit growing district in the province —and there are about thirty of them —will make its best showing, which means an amazing display of what is destined to be one of British Columbia's most important resources.

The sports and spectacular and musical events will be in keeping with the general nature of the great exhibition.

MINISZEWSKY REFUSES TO RESIGN.

We have been handed the following letter for publication.

Medicine Hat, August 14th, 1905.

The Secretary-Treasurer,
Town of Medicine Hat,

Sir,

I am in receipt of your letter of the 12th inst., in which you state "at a meeting of the Town Council last evening pursuant to recomend of the Committee of the whole, a resolution was passed to the effect that you be asked to immediately tender your resignation as a town policeman. I would ask you therefore to comply with the wishes of the Council and hand in your resignation without delay."

I beg most respectfully to decline your invitation However deficient I may be in the opinion of some of the Councillors in the proper performance of my duties, I assert that I have done my best, and for a period of fourteen months have apparently satisfied the Town Council.

If I have done wrong I am quite willing to take advantage of an offer to lodge my resignation with you, on the other hand the method of enquiry into allegations made by Councillor Penhale is I think anything but fair. I venture most respectfully to record my recollections of the proceeding: On the 5th August last I had occasion to threaten Councillor Penhale with arrest for using insulting and profane language on the street. The Councillor then left with the alleged purpose of seing the Mayor and having me dismissed.

I saw Councillor Penhale once again that evening when he told me that if I would apologise he would say nothing more about it otherwise my days were ended. On the Wednesday following Councillor Sissons asked me to make a statement as to what had happened between Councillor Penhale and myself and also as to allegations of my frequenting houses of ill-fame. I made a verbal statement to Councillor Sissons.

I heard nothing more of the matter until Friday evening between half past seven and eight o'clock, when I was instructed by Councillor Sissons to go to the Council Chamber. I went to the Council Chamber where I met Messrs. Harris and Terrill, who informed me nobody was allowed in. I waited outside for over an hour when Mr. Drinnan called me in, On going in I found that there were present the Mayor, Councillors Drinnan, Stewart, Sissons, Smyth, and Penhale also the Town Solicitor and yourself.

Councillor Drinnan was in the chair and he asked Councillor Penhale to make the charges against me. That gentleman made the charges in so far as they related to the question between our two selves. I was not allowed to question Councillor Penhale but only allowed to make my statement, but I do not think that it was taken down in writing. Having made this statement I was ordered out of the room by Councillor Drinnan, Councillor Penhale remaining with those present.

I heard nothing for an hour, when Councillor Penhale meeting me said that I would have to resign, but if I apologised he would have me reinstated.

From the conversation I then had with Councillor Penhale I understan that the matter of my being asked to resign was voted on by the Councillors then present, and amongst those who voted in favor of such a motion were the Mayor and Councillor Penhale himself.

Under these circumstances, although I am only a labouring man and your body are Councillors, I must refuse to resign and I do not think that one of your honourable body would take any other course were they in my position.

Respectfully yours,
VINCENT MINISZEWSKY

[The report of the Council meeting will be found on page 6 of this issue Editor.]

EXTRAORDINARY CONDUCT OF AN ENGINE. RUNS ITSELF INTO PIT AT TURN-TABLE.

This morning about 5.30, engine No. 1144 was standing near the turntable at the yards. The steam had been shut right off, but the engine presently moved of its own accord, for there was no one in it, and and slowly plunged into the pitof the turntable and imbedded her front part some feet into the ground. A gang of men are at work cutting out the side of the pit with a view to laying rails on an incline so that the monster may be hauled out backwards. This very extraordinary conduct of 1144 caused much inconvenience as the turn-table was jammed in one position and 14 engines were tied up in the engine house. By quickly a line of rails to suit the position of the table two were got out but the heavy passenger engines could not be extracted and the morning trains had to be held here a long time until the engines that brought them in could be put in shape to make another run. These big engines are sometimes called "hogs" and the way in which 1144 buried her nose in the pit justifies the name.

During the evening Mr. Strathy was presented with a suit case, travelling bag and shaving set, and a very convivial evening was brought to a close by singing Auld Lang Syne.

AN OLD TIMER HONORED BY THE CITIZENS.

Last night a large number of leading citizens assembled in the Opera House and presented Mr. M. Leonard address as a token of appreciation. Mr. Leonard has been a resident of Medicine Hat since the inception of the town and the citizens hold him and his good wife in the highest esteem. Mr. Leonard was for many years master of the Town Band and he has only recently resigned the position he held so long, and as our readers are aware, an able successor has been found in the person of his son, Mr. Jos. Leonard. As a prelude to the proceedings the band played a selection outside the Opera House, and afterwards inside the hall.

Mr. [illegible] Tweed, Es. M.L.A., presided over the gathering and in his opening remarks paid a high tribute to his old friend and townsman. Mr. Leonard had resided in the town since 1883 and had always been an excellent citizen, had never shut up his purse against any poor man, had always been a most liberal supporter of all local charities, and had alwaysbeen ready to join in any movement for the advancement of Medicine Hat. His work for the Town Band everybody knew and he was sure all would join him in the hope that Mr. Leonard would be spared for many years to live amongst them. His successor as leader of the band was his worthy son and he hoped to see Mr. Joseph Leonard hold the position for many years to come. (loud applause).

Mayor Forster then read the following address:

Medicine Hat August 1st, 1905.

Dear Mr. Leonard,

The many friends you see gathered about you to-night are brought together for the pleasing and joyful purpose of uniting with the Citizens Band in tendering to you—a sterling and valued old friend—a testimonial befitting your years of association with an institution which has become one of the active limbs of Medicine Hat, and which has since innumerable given the town's citizens pleasure and enjoyment the old established Citizens' Band.

Associated, as you will see from the list attached, with the members of the Citizens Band, are the names of several Old Timers, the friends of many years, who esteem it a privilege to be given the opportunity of participating in a testimonial to yourself. Many of the Old Timers recall the early history of the band—the struggles, financial and otherwise, for existence; the set backs through changes in personnel and in the inability to secure players who are resident in the town; the constant up-hill work of holding the aggregation together and maintaining that interest in the work which has been to many players practically the only renumeration forthcoming; and to you, personally, we believe is almost wholly due the credit of keeping the band up to its high standard and making for it that most creditable record which it has enjoyed for years and will continue to enjoy, we hope, in the future.

We can say to you without fear of contradiction, that to your personal influence, good nature, and good example, can be attributed the service of many of the present and old bandsmen.

The record of the band is such that it cannot be approached by any other musical organization in Western Canada. The band is old in years and rich in achievement and memories.

As leader of the Citizens' Band for many years your enthusiasm and earnestness for its welfare and success has never dimmed or wavered, and it is a matter of deep regret with our citizens that you feel it incumbent upon you, after so many years of service, to surrender the baton to a younger man.

We desire also to tender to you our appreciation of your faithful citizenship in Medicine Hat. Nothing but optimism of the brightest kind, and great faith in the towns future, has ever characterized your actions. We do not think that a pessimistic word regarding your home town has ever fallen from your lips.

We join the other citizens of the town in wishing for you and Mrs. Leonard and your family the blessings of good health and the enjoyment of the things of this life, with bright crowns and happy rewards in the Life of the Future.

The little token of esteem which accompanies this testimonial, we ask that you will accept in the spirit in which it is tendered-worthy appreciation and open-hearted good fellowship of citizens and bandsmen and wear it ever in the knowledge that nothing but the best wishes of Medicine Hat's people go with it.

Signed:—Thomas Tweed, W. T. Finlay, F. G. Forster, W. B. Marshall, F. F. Fatt, W. Cousins, A. C. Hawthorne, A. E. Whiffen, Thos. Hutchinson, Robt. Collier, Percy G. D'Altroy, Leonard Black, J. Leonard, Ed. Robinson, A. Teil, W. J. Dodman, J. W. Brotherton, C. E. Smyth, Geo. Ward, C. S. Pingle, F. O. Sissons, B. Watkins, R. Shaw, J. K. Drinnan, C. R. Mitchell, T. J. Fleager, S. G. Taylor, S. Favreau, H. W. Ireland, W. N. Adsit, C. Lamb, C. F. Smith, W. J. McLean, H. Stewart, M. Cantlin, M. Sullivan, J. Harman.

Mr. W. T. Finlay, M. L. A., then presented Mr. Leonard with a valuable and handsome diamond ring on behalf of the subscribers and in doing so paid a high tribute to Mr. Leonard'sworth as a citizen and the excellent work he had done in carrying on the band, often under great difficulties, for so many years. He always regarded Mr. Leonard as one of the very best citizens of the town (loud appause).

Mr. Leonard who was much moved by the unmistakable signs of goo will for him, thanked his fellow citizens from the bottom of his heart for their handsome present and kind expressions and said it was the proudest day of his life. He would always treasure the gift and remember the givers as long as he lived. He never expected anything like this He wished all good health and great prospesity for Medicine Hat. (loud applause).

Mr. William Cousins spoke highly of Mr. Leonard, whom he had known since the early days. Away back in 1883 they had a celebration in the town and Mr. Leonard was in it. Since that time he had been in everything and on every subscription list. In the early days some of them thought they had better get to some other point, but Mr. Leonard in his cheerful Irish way said: It's no use your going out of here. If you do you won't get my bread for I stay here (laughter and loud applause). In that way Mr. Leonard had often been an inspiration to him, and they were all well pleased that they had staid in Medicine Hat (loud applause). Mr. Leonard had always been optimistic about the town, and what he said in the early days came true. The town was "doing itself proud" in doing honor to Mr. Leonard (loud applause).

Dr. Smyth, A. C. Hawthorne, Councillors T. Penhale, H. Stewart, C. E. Smyth, A. DesBrisay and F. O. Sissons, followed with pithy addresses all in the same strain that they were glad to help in doing honor to such a good citizen as Mr. Leonard.

Mr. C. R. Mitchell said he had known Mr. Leonard for seven years and endorsed all that had been said about him but he wished to add a word about Mrs. Leonard (hr. hr.). She possessed the very same qualities as her husband and he thought they were the happiest couple in town (applause).

A Voice—That's right (applause).

At this point Mr. Leonard's health was drunk and three hearty cheers given for him.

Mayor Forster, Mr. J. H. Collier and Mr. W. B. Marshall made short speeches and they were followed by four members of the band, namely Messrs Archie Fabreau, Robt. Shaw, Robt. Collier and Jos. Leonard all of whom bore testimony to Mr. Leonard's services to the band.

Messrs H. L. Tweed, H. Ireland and F. Alexander were called on for speeches as representative of the young men of the town, and made an able response.

Messrs Tyrell and Harris on behalf of the Press added a few remarks in accord with the spirit of the meeting

The speeches were interspersed with some excellent songs by Messrs C. Stutfield, F. Gilroy, T. Tweed, W. T. Finlay, Sullivan and W. J. Brotherton, and an excellent recitation by Chief Markwick, some brilliant piano selections by Mr. Joe Leonard, and several pieces by the Band.

Liquid refreshments and cigars were handed round as usual on such occasions.

The singing of Auld Lang Syne concluded the interesting proceedings

TUESDAY, AUGUST 22 1905.

As a French Catholic Sees It.

Those who have so far failed to see the hand of the hierarchy in the autonomy bills as passed by the Dominion House of Commons will perhaps have their eyes opened a little by the letter of Jean Le Brun, of Montreal, which appeared in a recent issue of the Winnipeg Telegram. The letter appears to be the candid statement of a man who believes what he writes, and, to use a very common expression the writer would appear to have "let the cat out of the bag." The letter should show the people of the West what are the aims of the Quebec French people. It proves that the charge that the Government sold the West was not without foundation, and it shows the conclusions the Quebec people had formed. The rank and file in the Liberal party in the West cannot longer decline to see the inner working of the hierarchy and its influence with Sir Wilfred Laurier. The letter says in part:

"We feel that we are safer in the hands of a power which we are certain we control, and which control will enable us in future to make the two new sister provinces practically French Canadian, and of course, Catholic.

"As every school boy knows, the province of Quebec can never have more than sixty-five representatives in the federal parliament. It has become necessary for us to adopt the plan formulated and perfected by Mgr. Sbarretti, and in the course of say 25 years, we may expect to obtain a strong footing in the new provinces, and we may even hope to have got control of the leading collegiate institutions, and the fact that the provisions of the autonomy bill absolutely prevents the establishment of provincial universities will materially aid us in our designs. It is time that other nationalities have rights as well as we, but in all but religious matters they have the same opportunity of exercising them. It is, however, the duty of every Catholic, English or French speaking, to keep in mind the fact that there is in this country only one church, and that the interests of that church are above all things our first care."

The people of the West should stand shoulder to shoulder for freedom in all matters of education, and fight for a free and national system of education of their children.

British Supremacy.

Britain has enjoyed a world supremacy for three hundred years and can maintain that supremacy in these days of growing empires if British people the world over will maintain a permanent unity. England alone, or Canada, Australia, or South Africa alone could never hope to retain unassailable the supremacy which the United Kingdom won in the days when empires, as they now exist were unknown; and for that reason the closer binding of the British people is a condition which must be fostered. When Great Britain and her colonies are bound so closely together that the nations of the world cannot help but see that they form one solid empire then our dealings with foreign powers will be much simplified. The present relations between Great Britian and foreign powers has been described as one of "complicated cordiality." We are negotiating another treaty with Japan and we are on most excellent terms of friendship with France who is a friend of Japan's enemy. France and Germany are likely to remain enemies, and there is some talk of an alliance between Germany and Russia and even between Russia and Japan. These alliances are becoming fashionable among the nations of the world, but the alliance which Great Britain most needs is a perfect alliance with the Greater Britains beyond the seas. British blood marks Britain's allies, and infinitely the best policy for the Empire is one that will strengthen and cement the "bonds that bind in one firm, immutable whole Britain in the sea with the Britains beyond."

Town Engineer to be Employed.

Having urged in season and out of season for more than a year, that the Council should engage the services of a competent engineer and the Town Council having at last taken the step and decided to engage such a man at once, nothing remains at present, but to say that we hope the Council will see to it that they get a competent, reliable man.

Britain's Example.

"What size of navy shall we need" asks Harpers Weekly of New York. "This would be a hard question to answer, if it were not the example of the only other nation in the world as great, and as rich, and as isolated in her grandeur as we ourselves. That nation is Great Britain. Her wise policy decides on a navy of a certain size This is our only guide. We shall be safe if we have a navy as great as hers."

Britain's Pre-Eminence.

England is now the greatest naval power in the world, and probably will remain so for many years to come. Her people are so accustomed to regard naval expenditure as a necessity that no complaint is made of taxation for the purpose of maintaining a supreme position. The United States is the only country which has or can secure the money in the immediate future required to build up a naval power approximating that of England.—Paul Morton (Secretary of the U. S. Navy), in "Independance." New York.

Old England's Achievements.

We have been preached at since we were little on the subject of the marvelous pluck and enterprise of the American manufacturer, and how he was downing the effete Britisher every time. After going through some of the leading mills and factories in the Midlands and Yorkshire, we are quite prepared to put a heavy discount on this Yankee tall talk, said a Canadian Manufacturer in "Canadian Gazette." I never such such well-equipped mills as most of these we went through. . . . Old England has a tremendous career in front of her as a manufacturing country.

The Medicine Hat News fired a pop-gun at us last week, but it was only loaded with "ginger."

The News had better not try anything stronger or the recoil might hurt.

Motto for the News—How good we are are when there's anybody looking.

The suspicion does not appear to be well founded that the additions to the indemnity allowances of Parliamentary representatives would be followed by Liberal donations to the charitable and philanthropic institutions of the country.—Ottawa Free Press.

Councillor Penha's showed us drawings of the Brandon filters which appear in every way to be satisfactory. Go on Councillor Penhale and get us the filters. We knew Brandon water both before and after the fiters were put in. From being as thick as peasoup it became clear as crystal.

A women 8 feet 4 inches in height is an unusual sight on the streets, but that was said to be the height of the lady who formed one of a show company that stopped off here on Saturday. The whole party left for Lethbridge on Saturday evening. They had been performing at Winnipeg and Brandon. A big crowd collected near the depot here to see this giantess walk from the Assiniboia Hotel to the train.

The Crow's Nest Pass line is being greatly improved this year, says the Macleod Gazette, and it is said the Company will make this road a through line and that early next spring a through St. Paul express service will be inaugurated.

W. H. R. Gardner, of Macleod, and Miss Clara Adcock, of this city were married here in the Pro-Cathedral of the Redeemer by Dean Paget. The groom was supported by Mr. Grady of Macleod, and Miss J. Blythe, of Medicine Hat, waited on the bride. The groom is a well known rancher of the south country, while his bride is a sister of Mrs. E. L. Richardson.—Calgary Herald.

BOARD OF TRADE.

A meeting of the Council of the Board of Trade was held in Mr. Cousins' office on Thursday, Aug. 10. There were present: W. Cousins, (president); F. L. Crawford; D. Milne C. S. Pingle, O. W. Kealy and the secretary.

The minutes of Council meeting of June 9th were read and confirmed.

A letter from J. George, of Hope, B.C., asking for various information re resources of district having been read, it was moved and seconded that the Secretary get necessary information and supply same to Mr. George. Carried.

It was moved by Mr. Crawford and seconded by Mr. Kealy, that a letter be written to the Town Council asking whether they would be willing to appoint two of their body to confer and act with a similar number of members of the Board of Trade, in accordance with the suggestions made by Mr. Jno. T. Hall, of Hamilton, in regard to advancing the interests of the town. Carried.

A letter was then read from Lutes & Lutes, an American firm of factory brokers, asking what inducements the town offers to manufacturers.

Mr. Milne moved and Mr. Pingle seconded that the secretary reply and state that the inducement the town offers is cheap natural gas, and quote prices.

Mr. Milne expressed the opinion that the town should take up the question of using the natural gas to provide electric power and offer the powr to manufacturers.

The other members present concurred that something should be done along these lines.

It was moved by Mr. Crawford and sedonded by Mr. Milne that Secretary write E. J. Hutchings, of Calgary, and say that this Council is pleased to note the fact that a committee had been appointed at the Board of Trade Convention re small debt collections and exemptions and say that this Board would be pleased to receive a draft of their report and to consider it with a view to supporting the same. Carried.

Notice of the Railway Commission visit to the west was read and ordered to be filed.

Moved by Mr. Pingle and seconded by Mr. Kealy that Mr. Cousins and Mr. Milne be a committee to prepare reasons why an experimental farm should be established at Medicine Hat. Carried.

The meeting then adjourned.

A Million Dollars Squandered.

It is estimated this sum was wasted last year by people trying to find a cure for Catarrh. Foolish for sufferers to experiment when it's so well known that "Catarrhozone" is the only remedy that cures permanently. Other treatments only relieve, but Catarrhozone cures and prevents the disease from ever returning. I had Catarrh in its worst form, writes G. F. Fadden, of Royan Que. "I was so bad that ordinary medicine didn't even relieve; but Catarrhozone cured perfectly." No chance of disappointment with Catarrhozone—it's certain as death to cure your Catarrh—just try it.

It is not surprising that China wants indemnity for the use of her territory as a battle ground, but it would be astonishing if she should get it.—Kansas City Journal.

Note & Comment.

[By OBSERVER.]

I hope that the notes written in this column and by wandering Willie in reference to the Public Cemetery will bear fruit next spring. The public cemetery should, in a sense, be one of the show places in the district—it is so in older communities—but I fancy if I were showing a visitor around I would drive him anywhere rather than take him where he could get a glimpse of Medicine Hat cemetery.

I believe I shocked some people of tender susceptibilities by writing plainly of the disgraceful state of the cemetery but I am not at all concerned about that. I intend to write quite plainly upon all such matters. I shall call "a spade a spade," and leave the more euphonious appellation "agricultural implument," to those who havn't the courage of their convictions.

The cemetery requires an active Board of Management who would put up a small house for a caretaker fence more land and allow the caretaker the use of it and some other remuneration to live on the place and keep the fences and graves in order. Until that is done the cemetery will continue to be a disgrace.

The appointment of an assistant Veterinary Inspector for this district was strongly urged in the columns of The Times more than a year ago and not without effect for the matter was warmly taken up by the Stock Association and assistance has been promised by the Vets of the Mounted Police. Dr. Hargrave's business, as pointed out in The Times at the time, calls him into the country for days together and this has inflicted a hardship upon shippers of cattle. The assistance promised by the R. N.W.M.P., will doubtless solve the problem. An intimation to this effect, I understand was conveyed to the Stock Association by the commanding officer who put one sentence in the letter which shippers ought to know. He said, in effect, that he drew the line at Sunday shipping, unless it was absolutely unavoidable. A Police Veterinary Surgeon, he said, was entitled to his Sunday as a day of rest and would expect to get it. Ranchers govern yourselves accordingly.

No one can reasonably find fault with Captain Deane's decision, but in the handling of large bunches of cattle and taking them long distances for shipping, it is not always possible to avoid arriving at stockyards on Saturday night. Everybody knows that beef cattle will quickly deteriorate unless they are got out quickly, so that Sunday shipping has had to be done, but Capt. Deane rightly looks upon Sunday shipping with disfavor, and evidently he expects that it will be avoided on every possible occasion.

A Medicine Hat lad of an inquiring mind asked his papa what was the G. T. R. "My son", replied the parent, "it's a long line of politics extending across the Dominion of Canada".

Like the rest of us the Doukhobors felt the heat. On Friday week a large party of them put their raiment aside and paraded "in the altogither" near the town of Yorkton. The simplicity of this pastoral people often dumfounds the guardians of law and order.

The practice of settling people in colonies has been condemned over and over by government officials and others, but it is just as well that our friends the Doukhobors are colonised away up north, all to themselves.

"Have you seen the apple tree in the C.P.R. gardens", asked a resident. The visitor, who was no less a personage than P. J. N., from a city up west. "I have sir, but don't mention apple trees to me. I once wrote half a column on an apple tree and it turned out to be a cherry tree. My recollections of the circumstances are sad".

Don't call the apple tree in the C.P.R. gardens a "crab". It is a standard apple of some kind or other. What particular variety it is is hard to say yet, but if the fruit remain on the tree long enough to ripen theyshould be sent to the experimental farm at Ottawa (where the tree came from it is said), and the name will probably be supplied by the experts there.

"Medicine Hat gardens are the prettiest in the west," said Mr. Panton, of the New York Life Insurance Company. And so say all of us.

A story went the rounds the other day that after some revival meetings in a western town several people found they had lost their bibles and umbrellas. The bibles were duly found on the seats were they were left, but not the umbrellas.

A couple of men in Medicine Hat are disputing and making bets as to where the "Straits Settlements" are There's some money floating around with that brand on, hence the dispute. One pins his faith to the statement that it is in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The other says it is in the Pacific Ocean. Look for it in Latitude 5.0 n. Longitude 100.0 e.

Canada's prosperity is only in its infancy. The west country to-day stands on the threshold of opportunity. Whittier's words seem to have been spoken with prophetic vision:—

"I hear the tread of pioneers,
Of nations yet to be;
The first low wash of waves where soon
Shall roll a human sea.

"The rudiments of empire here
Are plastic yet and warm;
The Chaos of a mighty world
Is rounding into form.

"Each rude and jostling fragment soon
It's fitting place shall find—
The raw material of State,
It's muscle and its mind."

—The Globe.

FREIGHT SHED FOR MOOSEJAW.

Moosejaw, Aug. 9th.—Contractor J. McDermaid & Co., of Winnipeg, began this morning to erect a $12,000 freight shed for the C.P.R. at this place. The building will be 240 feet long by 40 feet wide, and will be located on Manitoba Street west near the old shed.

THE REASON WHY.

The following lines by Mr. Jos. Waterhouse, Chatham's poetic baker will be read with interest :

"You Hop Kee, amd I, Sam Lee,
Let us discuss the war.
I, Sam Lee, for Japanee,
And you, Hop Lee, for Czar.

Now, Hop Kee, can you tell me
What all this strife's about,
When the Czar began the war,
He had some cause no doubt.

He's made a stand on sea and land
And lost it's plainly seen;
Nearly every boat that was afloat
Is now a submarine.

The best to do will be to sue
For peace from clever foe,
And fold his flag, no more to brag,
Or eat other nations crow.

Me, Hop Kee, would say to thee,
It is a case heads all swellee ;
The reason the Czar keeps on the war,
Heds full of little hellee.

BAD! BAD!! BAD!!!

Bad blood comes from bad digestion—bad stomach, bad liver, bad kidneys—attended with bad, foul breath, coated tongue, bad taste, bad headaches, bad appetite and kindred symptoms. Bad as these all are, and serious as are the diseases to which they lead, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery comes to the relief and cure of all these by regulating and invigorating STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS and KIDNEYS, and putting all these organs in good order.

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, opium or other harmful drugs; neither does it contain sugar or syrup, which are injurious to some stomachs. Without any of these it retains its pleasant taste and marvelous healing qualities in the most trying climate. Don't let a selfish medicine seller cheat you out of your health by giving you a substitute. He's only looking out for a larger profit, not for your good. Shun him. Honest, unselfish dealers recommend the "Golden Medical Discovery."

"That your remedies are not for the few, but for the many is evident, for I personally know of many scores of persons in this city who have been restored to health and strength by your medicines," thus writes Henry Landsdell, Esq., Alderman in 11th Ward, Buffalo, N.Y., of 264 Jefferson Street. "I know that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is most valuable in cases of derangements of the liver, having taken the medicine some two years ago when I had a bad attack of liver trouble, and I never used a medicine before that did me so much good. I have known Dr. Pierce for twenty-six years, and do not wonder at his success, for he is a physician and man of remarkable abilities, is possessed of extraordinary skill, and he has in his Sanitarium a corps of specialists, all of whom because of their unusual knowledge and professional skill."

If suffering from any obstinate, lingering ailment, write to Dr. Pierce and get, free of charge, sound medical advice. He has the counsel and assistance of a large staff of expert specialists.

35 CENTS TO THE END OF THE YEAR.

ORDER AT ONCE.

The Free Press, Winnipeg, has secured for Western Canada the exclusive right to reproduce a new series of thirteen Sherlock Holmes stories by Sir Conan Doyle. For these storiesit is understood the author received the highest price ever paid for such literature.

When Sir Conan Doyle created the character of Sherlock Holmes he founded an absolutely unique type and reconstructed the entire theory and nature of detective stories. Doyle made his detective a deductive genius and the style and nature of his adventures set the world a-talking. Thousands of people have grown to regard Holmes as a personal friend, and they would not willingly miss a single one of his adventures.

Each story is complete in itself, the first one appearing in the weekly Free Press of August 16, entitled "The Adventure of the Blue Carbuncle," and one each week thereafter.

You ought to take the Weekly Free Press, but you cannot afford to do without your own local paper, therefore instead of sending direct to the Free Press better send us 35 cents and we will send you The Times to the end of the year as well as the Free Press you, therefore, secure both papers to the first of January 1906, for the low sum of 35 cents.

A number of our readers have friends in Eastern Canada, the United States and even in the "old land" who are hungry for news concerning Western Canada. If you are too busy to write these friends letters what more acceptable gift could you send them than a copy of a leading Metropolitan Western Weekly such as the Winnipeg Free Press and a first-class local weekly paper such as The Times. The offer above just fills the bill and our readers are reminded that the 35 cents includes postage prepaid to any part of Canada, the United States or Great Britain.

The Keeper's Daughter

By FRANK H. SWEET

Copyright, 1905, by Frank H. Sweet

For six days the thermometer had been soaring at almost midsummer heat, softening the ice of the Great South bay until nearly all its cohesive power was gone. Now the ice was a thick, spongy mass, so rotten that even the foot of a life saver pressing upon it firmly would break through at many places. It was impossible either for foot passage or for a boat to be forced through. And to increase the seriousness of the case the last two days had brought a fog so gray and dense as to shut Fire island from every object a dozen yards away.

Out in midchannel toward the Long Island shore and on the ocean side currents had kept the ice from freezing thickly and had hastened the decomposition. Already the delayed shipping was seeking passage toward New York or the open sea and in the fog and the narrow channels that were free from ice was meeting with disaster. From time to time signals of distress came from one direction or another, and so far as they were able the life saving stations of Fire island responded.

Perhaps at no other place in the world could assistance have been rendered across that barrier of slush ice, in which spaces of open water were beginning to appear; but, then, at no other place in the world perhaps were there amphibious scooters.

Several of these unique distinctions of Fire island were lying on the edge of the ice, with pike and scootering iron and oars across the thwarts ready for instant use, while their owners leaned forward, listening, peering and for the most part shaking their heads. The wind was rising, blowing straight from the sea. In another hour it was likely to freshen into a gale. Before it the gray fog was being swirled and tossed and eddied, but still encompassing and dense, a huge wet blanket that seemed writhing in the agonies of pain.

"I SHALL BE WAITING, TOO, JACK," SHE SAID.

On all sides were the sounds of fog and danger bell buoys, beat whistles, occasional fog horns, the pounding and crushing of ice where some vessel was forcing its way through and now and then the ominous signal of distress and call for help. Among these came a sudden dull booming toward the sea and apparently at a considerable distance. The men who were in looked at each other, their faces paling.

"A big ship," one of them said, "and on the bar. Lord help 'em!"

"Yes," assented the man nearest him, "nothing can get to 'em that far out, not even scooters."

There was a peculiar grinding sound near them. A scooter slid up the beach and a man sprang out.

"The other fellows in yet?" he asked.

"Only Carey. He brought a man ashore and sent him up to the station and then hurried back. He said it was a coal barge, with two men and a boy and a dog, and the other scooters will bring them in. The keeper ordered us to watch here for other work. What was yours?"

"Just a sailboat with two young men. They called for help because they didn't know their surroundings. When I explained they decided to remain on board until the ice let them out. They have plenty of provisions and a snug little cabin. I heard the ship's call from outside and hurried back. I couldn't quite make out the location in the fog. Anybody gone?"

"Gone?" derisively. "Why, man alive, that's on the bar three miles away. No scooter could ever get there across the open channel. Besides, the ice has been piled up by the waves. She'll have to wait until the sea opens so we can use a lifeboat or the fog lifts so we can scooter out. No one—Where are you going?"

For the man had swung the bow of his craft back into the fog and was again hoisting the sails.

"Out to the vessel, of course!" quietly.

"But it's sure death, Jack," remonstrated the life saver sharply. "Don't be a fool. You couldn't pick your way through the fog with that scooter and get back alive."

"Maybe not, but that signal sounds like a big boat, and if so there are a good many folks out there waiting for help. I'm only one."

"Oh, Mr. Bowman!" The call was clear and peremptory. Jack Bowman paused, with one foot in the scooter, his face growing set. The owner of the voice was the keeper's daughter, and only the day before she had closed the door into a future which he had begun to believe would be his. The sentence, "I shall never marry a man whose future is bounded by his clam hoe and fish trawl; the world has use for brave deeds," still rang in his ears.

"What is it, Miss Blanche?" he asked, trying to keep his voice calm. "I am in a hurry."

"Father says for no one to answer that call just yet. He thinks this wind will soon break up the ice so the lifeboat can go out. He says it will be suicide to attempt scooting through this fog. Mr. Bowman!" her voice rising in sudden displeasure, for the scooterist had stepped into his craft and thrown out his pike to shove her into the wind.

"I'm sorry, Miss Blanche," over his shoulder, "but the keeper's orders are for his own men and not for a poor outside fisherman like me. Besides, the boat may be in sore need, and, though a little scooter cannot do much, it may at least carry intelligence and perhaps save one or two—provided I can reach them."

The girl's face underwent a sudden change, and she took an impetuous step forward, but already the scooter had slipped away into the fog.

As they waited there, listening, peering, while the hours dragged by, the faces of the men showed something of what they knew to be taking place within the fearsome shifting pall of mist. The scooter was rushing on, dropping into open spaces of water, slipping up again upon patches of rotten ice, swiftly, with scarcely any checking of speed, its owner knowing time was of more importance than caution. Any moment its nose was liable to strike some obstruction and throw out its occupant, the wind at that speed might overturn the scooter or a sudden jibing wreck it without an instant's warning, either of which on the waste of rotten ice held but one possible fate for the owner.

Two hours and there came another signal of distress close inshore. The waiting life savers dropped into their scooters and slid out into the fog. The girl was still there, watching, her face white. Ten minutes more and a scooter's nose suddenly slipped from the darkness almost at her feet, and Jack Bowman sprang out. Bending over, he lifted a recumbent figure from the scooter to the sand.

"Will you call some one from the station to carry this man up, Miss Blanche?" he said hurriedly as he swung his craft back into the wind. "I haven't time. There are others waiting for me."

The girl moved forward swiftly, placing a hand upon his shoulder.

"I shall be waiting, too, Jack," she said in a low voice. "You must come back to me."

A tremor went through the man's frame, but he did not pause an instant in his work. As the craft disappeared in the fog his voice rose strong and resolute above the wind:

"Yes, Blanche, I will come back to you."

And he did.

Missions Worth While.

How to live comfortably with one's neighbor—that is the problem; to avoid the knocks and frictions which draw lines in men's faces and too often contract their souls. It is paradoxical, but true, that the larger the soul becomes the more room it creates for itself, a margin of quietness in which it remains untouched by petty jealousies and hurts. By the practice of charity and unselfishness a life builds for itself "more stately mansions" wherein it may dwell in peace. A song in one's heart, a smile upon one's lips, a cheery, wholesome message of good will on one's tongue, are wonderful helps to all kinds of people. There are so many burdens of sorrow and care and poverty and sin, so many doubting, discouraged, tempted hearts. To comfort and to make strong, to lift up and to bless—are these not missions worth while? Try it, friend, and prove how truly your own heart and mind are cheered and made brave by your very endeavor to carry sunshine into dark places.

Would Follow Her Example.

"Mary," remarked Mr. Perkins to the lady who, by the way, was the second one who had shared his joys and sorrows, mostly the latter, as he came downstairs attired for church, "I notice you did not lay out my Sunday clothes in readiness!"

"Too busy getting breakfast to think about you or your clothes either!" replied Mrs. Perkins promptly.

"And my shirt," went on Perkins; "my first wife, poor thing, used to always make my white shirt nice and warm for me to put on!"

"Did she, though?" retorted the dame. "Well, I have heard the neighbors say she used to make things warm for you, and I give you my word, Mr. Perkins, I'll do my best to follow her example."—London Tit-Bits.

Only Girl Babies Grew In Carson City

Of fifty-five births recorded during last year in Carson City, Nev., only one was a male, writes Barrington King of Albany to the London Lancet. The causes underlying the differences in sex (if, in fact, there are any causes other than chance) are not only matters of great interest, but of importance as well. Carson City, where this extraordinary proportion of female births occurred, has in its population a much greater proportion of males than almost any other city in the state, it being a western mining town. Can it be that this is an effort of nature to correct the ratio? If so, has this circumstance been observed elsewhere?

THE STARTING POINT.

If you want to be happy,
Begin where you are;
Don't wait for some rapture
That's future and far.
Begin to be joyous,
Begin to be glad,
And soon you'll forget
That you ever were sad.

If you want to be happy,
Begin where you are.
Your windows to sunlight
And sweetness unbar.
If dark seems the day,
Light a candle of cheer
Till its steady flame brightens
Each heart that comes near.

If you want to be happy,
Begin where you are.
God sets in each sky
Heaven's joy bringing star.
Live gravely beneath it,
Through cloud and toward light,
And under its radiance
Your paths shall be bright.

ONTARIO VITAL STATISTICS.

Latest Record of Births, Marriages and Deaths.

The thirty-fourth annual report of the Registrar-General of the Province of Ontario gives many interesting details regarding births, marriages and deaths for the year ending December 31, 1903.

The estimated population was 2,198,692, and the number of births, including still-births, 48,742. Of this 25,071 were male and 23,671 female, a rate of 22.1 per thousand of the population, which was less than the rate of all European countries, according to the returns of 1900, the latest available, with the exception of France, in which country it was 21.9. This rate, the report says, is unsatisfactory, and indicates that natural conditions are being interfered with. Nipissing County has the highest birth rate per 1,000, viz., 49.3, and Prince Edward the lowest, 14.8. There was a marked falling off in York County, where the increase was 595 in 1902 and 61 in 1903. The number of twin births was 492, or 31 less than in 1902, while 4 triplets were registered, the same as in 1902. The number of infants born out of wedlock was 732, or 16 per 1,000 births, compared to 89 in England and Wales in 1902, and 62.8 out of each 1,000 births in Scotland in that year.

The marriages registered numbered 19,830, or 9.0 per 1,000 of the population, an increase of 1,542 over the preceding year. The lowest marriage rate was in Rainy River District, 5.5, and the highest in Essex County, 23.2. The latter figure is an abnormal one. Ontario's marriage rate is considered satisfactory. June was the most popular month for marriages. By denominations the Methodist Church still leads in the number of marriages, 32.14 per cent. of the whole going to that church; the Presbyterian Church had 20.63 per cent., the Church of England 17.20 and the Roman Catholic Church 15.95.

The deaths, including still-births, numbered 29,664, a proportion of 13.4 per 1,000 of the reporting population, slightly in excess of 1902, but lower by 0.3 per cent. than in 1901. The rate for 1903 was, however, the highest recorded with the exception of 1900, when it was 14.0 per cent. Of the total deaths, 8,634, or 29.1 per cent., happened before the fifth year of life, and 6,700, or 22.5 per cent. of the total, occurred in the first year of life. Ontario's infant mortality was thus 111 per 1,000 births; that of England and Wales, for 1902 was 133. The months of June and September were the healthiest of the year. While the deaths from enteric fever showed but little change over those of the preceding year, the infection was general, not a city having been free from its baneful influence. The mortality from this disease was greater in rural districts than elsewhere. The deaths from tuberculosis in 1903 were 2,723, and in 1902 2,691. Since 1870 returns and estimates show this disease responsible for about 90,000 deaths. The maximum of deaths was 3,484 in 1900. There were 125 suicides reported, deaths from accidents 1,241.

Capt. VanKoughnet Died.

A Reuter telegram from Gibraltar states that the steamer Mongolia, which arrived there on Tuesday, March 28th, from Australia, reported that early the previous evening Capt. Edmund Barker Van Koughnet, C. M. G., R. N., (retired), died suddenly of apoplexy. The body was landed at Gibraltar and buried there, Rear-Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg attending the funeral.

Capt. Van Koughnet was the younger son of the late Hon. Philip Matthew S. Van Koughnet, Q. C., Chancellor of Upper Canada, by his wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Col. Turner, R. H. He was born in Toronto in July, 1849, and entered the navy as a cadet at the age of 14, became a sub-lieutenant in 1869, lieutenant in 1873, and commander in 1885, and retired with the rank of captain in 1894. As a midshipman he served on the Canadian lakes during the Fenian troubles in 1867-68, and later was flag-lieutenant to Lord Clanwilliam on the North America and West Indies station. In 1884 he was flag-lieutenant to Lord Alcester on board the Alexandra, and served with the naval brigade landed for service in the Soudan with the Nile expedition (Camel Corps) for the relief of Khartum. He was with Lord Charles Beresford in the Sofia at the relief of Sir Charles Wilson, and was then severely wounded. For his services in these operations, which were mentioned in despatches, he received special promotion to the rank of commander.

During the late South African war Capt. Van Koughnet, who was then on the retired list, was transport officer at Durban, where his work, in which he displayed tact and ability, was warmly commended by Sir Redvers Buller in his despatch of November 9th, 1900. For his service at Durban he received the C. M. G. in April, 1901. Among the other decorations worn by Capt. Van Koughnet was the bronze medal of the Royal Humane Society, awarded to him when a midshipman for having jumped into the water at Brockville, Ont., and saved the lives of two boys. Capt. Van Koughnet married, in 1877, Lady Jane Alexander, only daughter of the third Earl of Caledon.

OF CHILD IMMIGRANTS

SCHEME TO BRING ORPHAN CHILDREN TO CANADA.

Work Already Done As a Charity By Dr. Barnardo—C. Kinloch Cooke Believes He Would Welcome Government Enterprise in This Matter—Question of Training the Children For the Life Under New Conditions.

In the curretn number of the Empire Review Mr. C. Kinloch Cooke propounds a scheme for the emigration of orphan and abandoned children to Canada. Mr. Cooke's proposal is that the aim of the Canadian Government should be to especially encourage emigration from the British Isles, and give always a preference to the English-speaking settler who is a British subject before he lands in Canada, one who is, in fact, a ready-made citizen and assimilated at once into the native population. Were this system of a human preference adopted he says we should be spared the dangers which attend the inroad of some of the worst elements of European city populations.

Dr. Barnardo's Work.

Mr. Cooke's scheme deals only with one phase of this question. It may therefore be outlined. At the outset it must not be supposed that the author claims originality for his plans. All are aware that Dr. Barnardo has been carrying out a system of child emigration for many years. Indeed yesterday's paper announced that from the Barnardo home would come more children this year than ever before. But Dr. Barnardo's mission has been carried on as a charity, not as a Government enterprise. He will be one of the first, Mr. Cooke thinks, "to welcome a scheme which will relieve him and all private institutions of the burden now thrust upon them by the State."

Orphan and Deserted Children.

The scheme concerns itself solely with children who for one reason or another become a charge on the State, but does not include inmates of reformatories or penal institutions. These children consist of many thousands who are committed by magistrates to industrial schools to save them from injurious surroundings, and orphans and children relieved without their parents. "I feel sure," says the writer, "that, properly trained and given new surroundings, these children, if carefully selected, would make useful colonists. The work, however, would have to be undertaken by a department of State in this country, acting with similar departments in the Colonies, each bearing a share of the cost in accordance with a plan drawn up by an Imperial council specially convened for the purpose, and submitted to the different Legislatures for ratification." He believes, however, that such a scheme is too vast to be got under way in any reasonable time, and so desires to have, say, 2,000 children of "the orphan and deserted class" emigrated as an experiment. If this proved successful, then the major idea of exporting tens of thousands of children a year might be put into operation.

What Canada Should Do.

Under this arrangement each Colonial Government would provide one or more agricultural homes or farms where the children would be educated, brought up and trained under direct Government supervision for work in the Colony. It would also undertake to place the children in suitable situations. An adequate system of inspection of the children until each reached the age of eighteen is another charge the Colonial Government would be expected to assume. Each local Board of Guardians desiring to establish a child in a Colonial home would be obliged to hand over the child at the age of ten, if possible, and also to allow each Colonial Government to select the children and to pay for their maintenance as follows:—A sum of money annually or otherwise equal to the sum paid for bringing up the children in England, the amount not to exceed in any case the expenditure for four years; also an agreed sum to cover the cost of inspecting the child until it reached the age of eighteen.

"One of the chief drawbacks to the present system of emigrating Poor Law children to Canada," says Mr. Cooke, "is that they get no special training for the work they will be called on to do almost on their arrival in the Colony. So far child emigration has only been carried on with Canada, and all that the Dominion Government insists upon is that prior to emigration to Canada the Poor Law child shall have received instruction for at least six months under the Board of Guardians, or in a Public elementary school; and all that Dr. Barnardo insists upon is that Poor Law children passing through his agency shall reside for a period varying from three to six months in one of his English home prior to emigration. He gives three reason for this detention—for which, of course, he receives the usual payment from the guardians—but no one of them has any reference to the question of training. Again, as nearly all the orphan and deserted children are boarded out by the Government, it is clear that no attempt on their part is made to specially train the children for life in Canada."

A Subject For the Government.

It is not necessary to prove that a child trained to live under conditions which exist in Canada will have a far better chance of success in life and be of much more value to this country than the child who has been untrained. Mr. Cooke notes this, and also seems to guarantee success for his scheme by stating that from Canada last year there were no fewer than 16,573 applications for children of this sort. Moreover, Sir Wilfrid Laurier has said that the Dominion Government would not object to the establishment of training farms in Canada, and this has encouraged Mr. Cooke. He has also interviewed several representative guardians, and has not met with any serious discouragements, although, at the outset, some guardians protested against their best boys being drafted out of the country. It might be well for some member of Parliament to draw the attention of the Government to Mr. Cooke's scheme, and have it discussed in the House.

POPE PIUS X.

His Policy Has Already Wrought Extraordinary Changes in the Vatican's Foreign Relations.

Pius X. has brought about such extraordinary and radical changes in the domestic and foreign policy of the Vatican since his accession to the papal throne that there is plenty of good ground for attaching importance to the report now current, both at Rome and at Vienna, to the effect that the Pontiff has intimated to Emperor Francis Joseph and to other Catholic sovereigns that they may come to Rome and visit the quirinal without any danger of finding the gates of the Vatican closed in their faces, writes Marquise de Fontenoy. Pius IX., after the loss of his temporal power, and Leo XIII. throughout his entire reign declared that while they were quite ready to receive the visits of any non-Catholic sovereigns or royal personages they would not countenance any Catholic monarchs or princes or princesses of the blood holding communication with the royal family of Italy at Rome, that these illustrious personages must choose between the head of the church and the King of Italy, and that if they crossed the threshold of the quirinal during their stay in the Eternal city not only would the doors of the Vatican be closed in their faces but papal nuncios would be withdrawn from their courts.

It is for this reason that Emperor Francis Joseph has until now been prevented from returning at Rome to the King and Queen of Italy the visit paid to the court of Vienna in 1873 by the late Victor Emmanuel I., and nine years later by King Humbert and Queen Margherita, a delay which has profoundly affronted the Italian people and the Italian Government. It was for this reason, too, that the King of Portugal, devoted as he was to his uncle, King Humbert, was debarred from attending either his silver wedding or his funeral, and why the Italian court, in one word, has been boycotted by all foreign reigning houses professing the Catholic faith.

Pius X. has been sagacious enough to realize that this policy was not only useless but also that it served to irritate foreign courts and the Italian people against the church, and there is no doubt that the papacy will derive increased prestige, influence, and popularity by throwing open the doors of the Vatican to foreign Catholic rulers, and by encouraging them to visit Rome irrespective of their relations with the quirinal.

Only a few years before the death of Leo XIII. the papacy demanded of Austria the recall of its ambassador to the Vatican for no other offense than that he had invited to either a dinner or to a reception at his palace a number of the diplomats accredited to the quirinal, and a noble guard who had been indiscreet enough to allow some of his relatives belonging to the court of the quirinal to call upon him at the Vatican and subjected to all sorts of disciplinary measures.

Now, however, the most friendly relations are tolerated between the members of the two courts, and at a charitable amateur entertainment the other day at the Argentina theatre, at which Queen Helena was present, the adjoining boxes being occupied by great dignitaries of the Vatican, one of the chamberlains of the King came before the footlights, with one of the noble guards of the Pope, to sing a duo, which was one of the features of the evening. There are few of the gentlemen and ladies in waiting of the King and of the two Queens who have not been within the last few months to the Vatican to pay their respects to the Pope and to receive his blessing, and the utmost cordiality prevails between the dignitaries of the two courts, the Government and its officials lavishing demonstrations of respect and regard upon the princes of the church.

Moreover, Pius X. is acquiring a popularity among the people at Rome which Leo XIII. certainly never enjoyed. The late Pope touched no responsive chord of sympathy in the heart of the Roman and Italian masses. Most of them lived and died without setting eyes upon him, while all that others ever saw of him was when he was borne past them, shoulder high, on the portable throne through avenues of guards in St. Peter's. Pius X., however, preaches to thousands of them in the open air in one of the huge courtyards of the Vatican every Sunday. He receives not only the great but also the humble people. His doors may be said to be open to every one. Sometimes huge cohorts of people are permitted to wander through the gardens, where the Pope will happen among them, talking to them kindly, and he has managed to get into such close touch with the masses that were he to make his appearance in the streets of Rome he would be hailed by the public with the most enthusiastic tokens of affection and devotion, whereas there was always an apprehension during the reign of Leo XIII. that if he had ventured forth out of the Vatican he might have been subjected to the outrageous indignities that were offered by the populace to the remains of good old Pius IX. when borne to his last resting place. Indeed, they narrowly escaped being hurled into the Tiber.

Deceased Wife's Sister Muddles.

Our refusal to recognize marriage with a deceased wife's sister—which is legal in the Australian commonwealth—has led to many complications in the inheritance of property, and very embarrassing social incidents have happened. One of the most unpleasant occurred during the reign of the late Queen. Arrangements had been made by the Colonial Office for the presentation of an Australian cabinet minister and his wife at court, but when it was found that the lady was a deceased wife's sister the proposed presentation was promptly overruled. Such an episode is not likely to be repeated, for King Edward when Prince of Wales voted in the House of Lords for the legalization of marriage with a deceased wife's sister.—London Chronicle.

A TRULY REMARKABLE RECORD MADE BY

There is no disputing the fact that Dr. Chase's Ointment is the only actual and positive cure for piles that has ever been offered for public sales. Day after day there appear statements in the newspapers from persons who have been cured. Ask your neighbors about this great ointment.

Mr. Joe Benson, Deerwood, Man., writes: 'I may say that for three years I suffered almost all the time with blind itching piles. Sometimes they were so bad that I could not work nor even sit down on a chair. I tried several remedies but got no relief. A friend of mine told me that he had been cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment, so I got a box for 60 cents, but it was well worth ten dollars for it completely cured me. I cannot say anything too good about this preparation."

"It gives me very great pleasure to recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment. I was troubled with itching piles for twenty years, and tried very many medicines, all to no avail, until I used Dr. Chase's Ointment. After the fourth application the itching and lumps disappeared as if by magic, and I can say to anyone similarly afflicted that if they will try Dr. Chase's Ointment they will be cured. There is no more certain cure and none so easily applied."—Mr. F. B. Langan, Oliver, Colchester Co., N. S.

COOK WHILE YOU SLEEP.

Fireless Stoves the Latest Wrinkle In German Households At No Great Expense or Labor.

Fireless cookstoves are the latest wrinkles in German households. They save worry, work and fuel, and will never scorch the food. They never blacken the pots, do away with all objectionable odors, are the ideal adjuncts to the picnic or excursion cuisine and for the nursery are declared by experts to be indispensable. These are only a few of the advantages claimed for the fireless stoves, or "hay boxes," as they are called in Germany.

There is no great expense or labor involved in making the "hay boxes," for they are merely air tight chests lined with felt or paper and packed with hay or straw. The close fitting lid is covered with a pillow or cushion of some sort, to exclude the air. An old trunk, or even a large valise, may be pressed into service for a "hay box." The process of using is even simpler than that of construction. Start your vegetables or meats to cooking in the ordinary way over a fire and then transfer the pot containing the food to the box, being careful that the lid of the cooking utensil is not removed while the change is being made.

"In general," says Mr. Murphy, "it will be found that two or three minutes of actual boiling on the fire is amply sufficient for vegetables, while roasted meats require twenty to thirty minutes. Most articles should remain tightly closed in the box for two or three hours, though they can be left there to keep hot for ten or twelve hours if necessary. Rice, dried beans, lentils, dried fruit, etc., should first be well soaked in cold water. After being allowed to boil for from two to five minutes, one or two hours in the box will prepare them thoroughly for the table.

"Cauliflower and other soft vegetables should merely be brought to a boil and then placed for an hour or two in the box. By the old method of cooking it is necessary to boil dried beans two and one-half to three hours. When the 'hay box' is used, boiling for five minutes will be found sufficient. This will give a clear idea of the amount of fuel saved."

The "hay box" is a great boon to working men and women who cannot spare much time at their homes to prepare their meals. They can set their food to cooking in the fireless stoves, go about their avocations and return whenever they please to find an appetizing meal awaiting them.

A Prehistoric Cave Dwelling.

A prehistoric cave dwelling has recently been discovered near Winznau, on Lake Lucerne, in Switzerland. The entrance to this cavern has been blocked for ages by the accumulation of falling rocks and earth. Its existence being known, a party of antiquarians had the entrance passage into the cavern cleared of obstructions, and a grotto or series of caves, dating to the Stone period, was laid bare. A fine collection of stone implements, including knives, axe-heads and spears, gigantic shells rudely ornamented, evidently drinking vessels, and dishes was discovered. In one chamber of the cavern the explorers found the remains of the bones of many extinct animals; while one section of the cave, which is believed to have been the dwelling of an important family in the Stone age, had evidently served as a workshop for the stonecutters, for here were found many stones in the process of being shaped into implements.

Discouraged.

"Mamma," remarked Dottie, "if I get married when I grow up will I have a husband like papa?"

"I suppose so, dear," said mamma.

"An' if I don't get married I'll be a old maid, like Cousin Charlotte, won't I?"

"I guess you will, pet. Why?"

"Oh, nothin'—only I wish I was a boy!"

Bald Heads Escape.

There are advantages accruing even from bald heads. It is pointed out by a writer in a medical journal that bald headed men never suffer from consumption, and that a tendency to baldness is an assurance that the dreaded scourge will pass over him whose thatch grows thin.

At first glance it would seem absurd to argue that a man's hair is indicative of his immunity from disease, but the writer who advances this novel theory declares that in the five years during which he seriously added a record of his patients' hair or lack of it his case cards have failed to show a single instance of "bald" being entered upon the card of a consumptive.

He had under treatment more than seven hundred cases, and he makes the further statement that in a census of more than five thousand tuberculous cases he failed to discover a single sufferer who was bald.

He makes no effort to explain his theory upon medical grounds, but simply offers the results of his observation for the benefit of the profession, and has invited his brother physicians to write him of any cases of bald headed consumptive coming under their observation.

What Crowns Are Worth.

The lightest of European crowns is the state crown of Great Britain, which was made for Queen Victoria sixty-six years ago. Although it weighs only two pounds and seven ounces, its value is $1,500,000. One enormous sapphire came from the signet of Edward the Confessor. One of the rubies has a sadly tragic history. It was at one time in the possession of one of the great Kings of Granada, whom Pedro the Cruel invited to his palace and basely murdered through greed for this gem. In the Pope's treasure house are two crowns which are valued at $2,500,000. One of them was the gift of Napoleon to Pius VII. and contains the largest emerald in the world. The other, the gift of Queen Isabella of Spain to Pius IX., weighs three pounds and is worth $1,000,000.

XABLE RECORD MADE BY
'S OINTMENT.

"It gives me very great pleasure to recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment. I was troubled with itching piles for twenty years, and tried very many medicines, all to no avail, until I used Dr. Chase's Ointment. After the fourth application the itching and lumps disappeared as if by magic, and I can say to anyone similarly afflicted that if they will try Dr. Chase's Ointment they will be cured. There is no more certain cure and none so easily applied."—Mr. F. B. Langan, Oliver, Colchester Co., N. S. minutes, one or two hours in the box will prepare them thoroughly for the table.

"Cauliflower and other soft vegetables should merely be brought to a boil and then placed for an hour or two in the box. By the old method of cooking it is necessary to boil dried beans two and one-half to three hours. When the 'hay box' is used, boiling for five minutes will be found sufficient. This will give a clear idea of the amount of fuel saved."

The "hay box" is a great boon to working men and women who cannot spare much time at their homes to prepare their meals. They can set their food to cooking in the fireless stoves, go about their avocations and return whenever they please to find an appetizing meal awaiting them.

A Prehistoric Cave Dwelling.

A prehistoric cave dwelling has recently been discovered near Winznau, on Lake Lucerne, in Switzerland. The entrance to this cavern has been blocked for ages by the accumulation of falling rocks and earth. Its existence being known, a party of antiquarians had the entrance passage into the cavern cleared of obstructions, and a grotto or series of caves, dating to the Stone period, was laid bare. A fine collection of stone implements, including knives, axe-heads and spears, gigantic shells rudely ornamented, evidently drinking vessels, and dishes was discovered. In one chamber of the cavern the explorers found the remains of the bones of many extinct animals; while one section of the cave, which is believed to have been the dwelling of an important family in the Stone age, had evidently served as a workshop for the stonecutters, for here were found many stones in the process of being shaped into implements.

W. M. DAVIDSON,

W. M. DAVIDSON,

Editor and Manager of the Albertan, Calgary.

The newspaper man working on a daily is at all times up against the time limit. His are daily anxious hours, and a steady strenuosity. In a weekly office, there is hustle on press day, but in a daily the motto is "hustle" every minute of every day. The leisurely progress towards the weekly climax is in striking contrast with the orderly confusion at all times reigning in a daily office, and men who are getting out fifty-two issues a year, and doing their work well, would be utterly lost if they had put out three hundred. The latter demands a thorough knowledge of all departments of a newspaper production, talents of quick organization, and a wide knowledge of men and things, as well as a mechanical equipment much superior. Many a man who has made a successful editor of a country weekly has failed lamentably when the conditions of growth warranted the change to a daily.

Speaking in the large, the editors of daily papers in Western Canada have peculiar qualifications for their work. The high telegraph tolls and the sparse population combine to make news expensive and the circulations small, but, when these conditions are considered, and the consequent small revenue at the disposal of the newspapers taken into account, the quality of the Western Canadian daily press is a never ceasing marvel to those who know it. In the ranks of the men producing it are included some of the brightest journalists in the Dominion, men qualified by training and ability to hold any position on any metropolitan paper.

Among this class Mr. William McCartney Davidson, the editor and manager of the Calgary Albertan, undoubtedly finds a place. He is a trained newspaper man in every sense of the word. There is no department of journalism through which he has not graduated, and "made good." He has been police court reporter, street reporter, interviewer, sporting editor, dramatic and art critic, commercial editor, political correspondent, editorial writer and editor-in-chief, and has even gone to the limit of short story writer and poet.

Mr. Davidson's professional equipment was built upon the solid foundation of a good university training. He graduated from Toronto University in 1893 after a very commendable course, taking high honors in political science and history, the two subjects having most intimate connection with his chosen career.

The editor of the Albertan is an Ontario boy, having been born in Prince Edward County in 1872. He is of the U. E. Loyalist descent, his four grandparents all having been born in Canada. He was educated in the public schools at Prince Edward County, at Picton High School and St. Catherines Collegiate Institute before going to college.

After graduating, Mr. Davidson at once got into newspaper work. He began his journalistic career on the Toronto World—September, 1893. In the following year he joined the Star staff, and for some years he was leading political reporter on that paper, being later made assistant city editor. In 1900 he left the Star, going to the Toronto News, in which he was for a few months city editor. In 1901 he left the News, to become editor of the London News. In the following year he bought the Albertan and came west.

At that time the Albertan was a semi-weekly publication, with a "patent inside." Today it is a morning daily of eight pages, with a daily growing circulation. It has a battery of three machines to set its news matter, and its mechanical equipment has periodically to be enlarged to cope with its increasing popularity.

Mr. Davidson was married in 1899 to a daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Robertson, superintendent of missions in the Presbyterian church. Mrs. Davidson was a writer of rare ability, and would have made a mark in Canadian literature but for her untimely death in 1904. She left on record some very clever short stories and charming poetry.

In addition to his onerous editorial work, Mr. Davidson has many other activities. He is a member of the board of management of Western Canada College, secretary of the board of managers of Knox Presbyterian church, director of the Inter-Western Exhibition Company, member of the council of the Calgary board of trade, member of the executive committee of the Calgary Liberal Association, and vice-president of the Calgary baseball league.

In his newspaper work, Mr. Davidson's personal inclination is toward the editorial end. In this department he is at his best, excelling in the semi-humorous, sarcastic or ironical. In descriptive and impressionist writing he is perhaps without a rival in the West, and his half column sketching characterizations of men and things are read and looked for by other newspapermen whenever they—as they too seldom do—appear. In politics, as may be judged from the editorials of the Albertan, he is a Liberal of the more advanced kind, belonging to what is becoming known as the Canadian radical school.

SICKLY CHILDREN

More children die during the hot weather months than at any other season of the year. Their vitality is then at its lowest ebb, and an attack of diarrhoea, cholera infantum or stomach trouble may prove fatal in a few hours. For this reason no home in which there are young children should be without a box of Baby's Own Tablets, which promptly cure all stomach and bowel troubles. If the Tablets are given to a well child they will prevent these ailments and keep the little one well and strong. Mrs. Joseph T. Pigeon, Bryson, Que., says: "My little one was attacked with colic and diarrhoea, and I found Baby's Own Tablets so satisfactory that I would not now be without them in the house." These Tablets not only cure summer troubles, but all the minor ailments that afflict infants and young children. They contain no opiate or harmful drug, and may be given with equal safety to the new born baby or well grown child. There are imitations of this medicine and mothers should see that the words "Baby's Own Tablets" and the four-leaf clover with child's head on each leaf is found on the wrapper around each box. As you value your child's life do not be persuaded to take a substitute for Baby's Own Tablets—the one medicine that makes children well and keeps them well. Sold by all druggists, or you can get them by mail at 25 cents a box by writing the Dr. William's Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Fading Hair

Every man thinks his own is the really hardest job. The really hardest job, however, is that of a hero in a modern novel. These are the performances of one hero in a chapter of a recent novel: His countenance fell. His voice broke. His heart sank. His hair rose. His eyes blazed. His words burned. His blood froze. Now how would you like to be that hero?

In Fields Far Off.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is known in Australia, South and Central America as well as in Canada and the United States, and its consumption increases each year. It has made its own way, and all that needs to be done is to keep its name before the public. Everyone knows that it is to be had at any store for all merchants keep it.

Lyle—Did you ever come across a more conceited fellow than Bulger? They say he is an atheist, and I believe he is. Bonter—I wouldn't like to go so far as that, but I know he doesn't recognize the existence of a superior being.

CURED

IT MUST BE WELL FOUNDED

STEADY GROWTH IN POPULARITY OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Made by Cures Like That of Simon V. Landry—He Tells About it Himself.

River Bourgois, Richmond Co., C. B., July 10.—(Special).—Among the many men in this part of Canada whom Dodd's Kidney Pills have relieved of aches and pains and weakness and made strong and able to do a good day's work is Mr. Simon V. Landry. Mr. Landry has numerous friends here who can vouch for the story he tells of his cure.

"I was bothered for over a year," he says, "with lame back, weak legs, palpitation of the heart, general weakness and shortness of breath; in fact I could not work and was a total wreck.

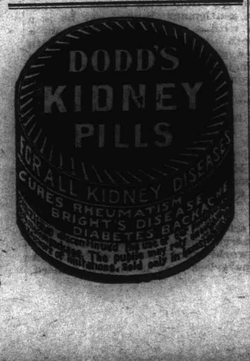
"I could not get anything to help me till I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. But they did me good and no mistake. I used three boxes and I'm back at work again."

It is the cures they make that make Dodd's Kidney Pills so popular. Their popularity has grown steadily for thirteen years. It must be well founded.

Jack—What do you think of a man after forty, Jill—I'd rather have him after one, and that myself."

Byronita—You are right. If the editor objects to your poem because it was tied with blue ribbon, try pink next time. Many men are very sensitive to color, and it might have reminded him of some his wife gave him to match that morning.

If attacked with cholera or summer complaint of any kind send at once for a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial and use it according to directions. It acts with wonderful rapidity in subduing that dreadful disease that weakens the strongest man and destroys the young and delicate. Those who have used this cholera medicine say it acts promptly, and never fails to effect a thorough cure.



One of Ambassador Choate's legal stories told at a gathering of lawyers on his last visit to this country related to a Texas Judge before whom a prisoner was brought charged with horse-stealing. The judge promptly sentenced the prisoner to be hanged, but his lawyer interrupted. "You can't hang this prisoner according to law, your Honor," he said. "Guess you're right," said the Judge. "Well, I'll discharge him, and I guess its up to the boys to hang him according to the regular custom."

Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper.

Miss Backwoods—Did you tie that necktie yourself? City Visitor—Yes; why? Miss Backwoods—Gracious, your town is slow. If you lived up here you could buy them already tied.

He—You say women ought to have the suffrage; but I doubt if you would know how to vote if you had the chance. She—I would, too. I'd know which man to vote for by the looks of him. He—But you probably wouldn't see any of the candidates. She—Men who are ashamed to show themselves are not worth voting for, so I shouldn't vote for anybody. He—That's what I thought likely. However, I don't know, after all, that that wouldn't be the wisest course.

"There's always somebody bobbing up with a scheme to extract gold from sea water." "Their real scheme is not to extract from sea water." "What, then?" "To extract gold from lobsters."

An instance of the application of a precocious knowledge of the law by a child occurred in a Parisian school. In France education is obligatory, but the law cannot compel children to remain at school after the age of thirteen. This law, needless to remark, is usually a dead letter, but on the occasion in question a pupil suddenly got up in the middle of a lesson, gathered up his books, placed them neatly in his desk, took up his hat and moved toward the door. "Where are you going?" asked the teacher with a certain amount of acerbity. "Sir," replied the boy, with irritating nonchalance, "I was thirteen years of age four minutes ago, and you have no longer any right to keep me at school."

A Sound Stomach Means a Clear Head.—The high pressure of a nervous life which business men of the present day are constrained to live make draughts upon their vitality highly detrimental to their health. It is only by the most careful treatment that they are able to keep themselves alert and active in their various callings, many of them know the value of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills in regulating the stomach and consequently keeping the head clear.

Tommy—Say, ma, what's a "counter irritant?" Ma (just returned from shopping)—Most any saleswoman nowadays is a counter irritant.

"I'm in a great hurry to get to New York," said the man with the valise. "How soon can you land me there?" "A train will start in a few minutes," said the agent, "that will get you there in twenty hours. Tomorrow evening, though, we shall put on a train that that will make the distance in sixteen hours." "All right," rejoined he man. "I'll wait till tomorrow evening."

Gents,—I cured a valuable hunting dog of mange with MINARD'S LINIMENT after several veterinaries had treated him without doing him any permanent good.

Howell—That's one of those thought transfer fellows, Powell—Is that so? Howell—Yes; he is a letter-carrier.

First Village Dame—Did I bring you back that basket you lent me last week? Second Dame (emphatically)—No, indeed; you did not. First Dame—That's a pity, for I just came round to borrow it again.

Congressman Livingstone of Georgia tells this story of his boy, George: One day I said to him, "Mamma says you've been very naughty today, sir; what's the matter?" "Pop," he replied, seriously, "I think ma's prejudiced against me. Yesterday she told Aunt Sarah I was just the image of you!"

Known to Thousands.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills regulate the action of the secretions, purify the blood and keep the stomach and bowels free from deleterious matter. Taken according to direction they will overcome dyspepsia, eradicate billiousness, and leave the digestive organs healthy and strong to perform their functions. Their merits are well known to thousands who know by experience how beneficial they are in giving tone to the system.

She—They say there is only one person in fifteen who has perfect eyes. He (with uncommon fervor)—In fifteen? There's only one in a million! She—There you go again, Mr. Spoonamore! Always flattering somebody!

"That's an auction piano your daughter's got, isn't it?" asked the sarcastic woman next door. "No, indeed!" replied the proud mother indignantly. "What made you think that?" "O, probably because it's going, going, going' all the time."

"Yes, I called on the daughter of the great collar manufacturer last evening. The old gentleman must have been thinking about his business, for he gave me a turndown." "You are lucky. When I called he took me to the front door and gave me a turnover."

WASTING ANAEMIA

A Trouble That Afflicts Thousands of Young Girls—Cured by Dr. William's Pink Pills.

Dr. William's Pink Pills do only one thing, but they do it well. They fill the veins with new, rich blood, which drives away all traces of anaemia, headache, backache, palpitation, nervousness, dizziness and despondency. The new blood they make brightens dull, lustreless eyes, and brings the rosy glow of health to pale cheeks. In curing Anaemia Dr. Williams Pink Pills cure the foundation of consumption as well. The new blood they actually make gives new strength and vigor to every organ of the body, and enables it to fight whatever disease attacks it. That is why they are the best medicine in the world for girls in their teens—or women in middle life—and to all those whose blood is weak, watery or impure.

Miss Mary B. Pratt, Blyth, Ont., gives strong testimony to the value of these pills. She says: "I was a sufferer for over a year with anaemia. I was completely run down, had frequent headaches, spells of dizziness and palpitation of the heart. I doctored all summer and was no better than when I began. I had practically given up all hope of finding a cure when my brother advised me to try Dr. William's Pink Pills. I got four boxes and when I had taken them I felt so much better that when I had taken them I got six boxes more, and before I had taken all these I was completely cured. I am more thankful than what I can say for what the pills have done for me, as but for them I would not be enjoying good health today. I strongly urge all weak girls to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial."

Miss Pratt's experience proves the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to every weak and ailing person. These pills can be had from any medicine dealer or by mail from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50.

HARD ON THE CAT.

Have you ever seen a cat get mixed up with a sheet of sticky fly paper? If not you have missed one of the real sights of this life. The terrified, jumping, spitting, mewing creature presents a most ludicrous spectacle to all onlookers and causes an immense amount of laughter and fun, but when the frantic and maddened pet becomes almost smothered by the sticky stuff and the damage to carpets, curtains, etc., begins to be realized, the housewife fails to appreciate the funny side of the episode, and then and there decides that in future she will use only Wilson's Fly Pads, which are three hundred times more effectual and cannot damage carpets or furniture. All druggists and storekeepers sell Wilson's Fly Pads. Avoid worthless imitations.

"We tried a new experiment in our town," said the man with the silver-rimmed spectacles. "We thought that the tendency to vanity was so great that there ought to be some reward for people who were capable of standing aside and rejoicing in the success of others. So we organized a society and arranged for the presentation of modesty medals." "How did it work?" "Badly. As soon as a man won one of the medals he would swell up and get so proud that we'd have to take it away from him."

A vegetarian had an amusing experience the other morning while at breakfast. His family was out of town, and he went to a restaurant and took a seat next to a stranger. The vegetarian took occasion to advertise his creed by telling the stranger that all meat was injurious, and that the human diet should be strictly vegetarianian. "But," replied the stranger, "I seldom eat meat." "You just ordered eggs", said the vegetarian. "An egg is practically meat, because it eventually becomes a bird." "The kind of eggs that I eat never become birds," answered the stranger, quietly. "Good heavens!" cried the vegetarian, "what kind of eggs do you eat?" "Principally boiled eggs," said the stranger.

There are two sides to every story, was the verdict of a police magistrate at the recent trial of a man in court for abusing his family. The man's story was that he could not get work, although a first-class mechanic, but the truth was that he had spoilt his work by not being in a fit condition to perform his task properly. He complained to the Magistrate that they all were down on him anyway. But from using one glass in the morning, he wanted three, or even more, and the many glasses instead of helping him for work had the opposite effect making him a spoilt worker.

Then the other side was told. The employer said he was one of their best workman until he took to drinking whiskey. His wife also testified that her husband was a faithful provider, kind and helpful, longing only for their good, but since he had fallen a victim to liquor drinking, he seemed only to want to spoil and distress their home. The verdict of the Magistrate was that he had only been down on himself and in giving him imprisonment hoped he would get a chance to overcome the evil of intemperance. We are told that God is not willing that any should perish, but by overcoming through faith in Jesus, all may be saved to everlasting life and joy.

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION AT RED DEER.

There was a memorable gathering at Red Deer last week when Conservative delegates assembled from every riding in Alberta to decide upon the course to be taken in the forthcoming Provincial elections.

Mr. Thomas Tweed, of Medicine Hat, the President, called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening. The chief business transacted that evening was appointing of Committees on organization and resolutions, and appointing a leader.

The report of the organization committee that an "Alberta Conservative Association" be formed was adopted unanimously.

The rest of the time of the session which lasted until near midnight, was taken up by speeches by prominent men of the party, including Thomas Tweed, Senator Lougheed, R. B. Bennett, Mr. Moran and others

Mr. Walsh of Calgary, was elected President and Mr. O. W. Kealy, of Medicine Hat was chosen as secretary.

The question of selecting a leader of the party was left over until Thursday. Mr. Tweed would doubtless have been selected but he is going on an extended European tour and therefore cannot accept it.

The Convention resumed at nine o'clock on Thursday morning.

The convention declared strongly for national schools. R. B. Bennett was elected temporary leader, a regular leader to be named by members elected to the legislature. The convention voted down the motion to elect at once a permanent leader. A resolution of regret was adopted over the decision of Mr. Haultain to stay in Saskatchewan, and a resolution of thanks to Mr. Borden for what he has done for the people of the west. On organization the committee adopted this rule:

The committee requests that all districts, where district association now exist, call conventions for the nomination of candidates within the next twenty days.

PRELUDE TO PLATFORM.

Whereas the Liberals of Alberta in convention assembled at Calgary on the 3rd day of August, 1905, resolved that Liberal candidates should be placed in nomination in every constituency at the approaching election for the new provincial legislature, and kept in the field until the close of the polls;

And, whereas at the said convention a platform was adopted upon which such candidates are to present themselves for election in the different constituencies, and which platform expresses no protest against the injustice done the province by the Dominion Parliament in usurping and depriving it of one of its most valuable rights, and contains no promise of any effort to secure the same to the province, from which facts the design of the Provincial Liberals to aid the federal authorities in the perpetuation of these wrongs is apparent;

Be it resolved, therefore, by the Conservatives of Alberta in convention assembled that every candidate placed in nomination by the Liberals for the approaching elections for the provincial legislature be opposed by a candidate seeking election upon the following platform:

THE PLATFORM.

1. Aid to Agriculture and ranching.

2. Establishment of Agricultural college, good roads, bridges and transportation facilities.

3. This convention protests against those provisions of the act creating the province of Alberta which seek to limit the control of the Province over the subject of education, thereby forever precluding the right to establish a national system of common schools and characterizes the same as flagrant and unwarranted interference with and usurpation of the rights of the province under the constitution. This convention declares for such action as will result in the soonest possible reference to the judicial committee of the Imperial privy council of such provisions with a view to procuring from the court of last resort in the British Empire a decision as to whether they are or are not constitutional and within the power of the Dominion Parliament to enact.

4. Requiring the government to adopt a plan by which the C.P.R. exemption of taxation may be commuted and the exemption cancelled.

5. Public ownership of public utilities.

6. Recognition by land grant or otherwise of the service of those who fought for the empire, including the police.

7. Establishment of a provincial university.

8. Disapproval of government officials taking part in politics.

9. Leaving the members free to vote on the question of the location of the capital as they see fit.

10. Construction of a railway to Hudson's Bay.

CLOSE OF THE CONVENTION.

The close of the conservative convention was marked by extraordinary enthusiasm, says the Calgary Herald. Leading representatives of the party from the extreme north and those from the far south expressed their entire satisfaction with the manner in which the delegates had grasped the situation.

One noticeable feature of the conversation among the delegates was that relating to the feelings of the Edmonton district against the machine dictation. Several delegates asserted that the provincial rights sentiment was much stronger there than the public generally understood and they expected some surprises for the coercion clique in several constituencies supposedly in the hands of the Ottawa gang.

It is the general feeling among the delegates that the elections will come off very early in October. There were statements to the effect that the writs were being figured on for the first week in September. The activity of the coercionists in all constituencies was alluded to as evidence that they were preparing for an early election. Therefore the determination was expressed to name candidates in all ridings within twenty days. This disposition to begin the fight early and keep it up vigorously was pleasing to all the members.

Evidently there is to be no hesitancy in grappling with the machine in every part of Alberta.

When the last hypocrite dies His Satanic Majesty will not have a faithful servant on earth.

FINAL WARNING TO SCHOOL OFFICIALS.

On August 31st the Government of the North-West Territories ceases to exist. Up to that date the school grants earned during the term ended June 30th, 1905, may be paid; but it is very improbable that any payments will be made in case school officials fail to forward complete returns before that date.

Delinquent school boards have been warned repeatedly; but yet a surprisingly large number of schools will probably forfeit the government grant through the negligence of school officials.

The following returns must be on file in the Department before grants can be calculated: Term Return; Extract of Assessment; Teacher's Agreement; Treasurer's Bond.

THE NEW CABINETS.

Everything is being arranged by the Liberal party for an "early start" in the matter of Provincial Government in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

All the stationery required for "opening business" at Edmonton has been sent up from Regina, offices have been secured and members of the Cabinet have been selected. We have been supplied with the following list which we expect will prove pretty correct.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION IN ALBERTA SCHOOL.

The Anglican Synod at Calgary last week passed resolutions with a view to unite Protestant bodies on the subject, and on the motion of the Rev. W. Nicolls, Medicine Hat, the following motion was carried:

"That a joint committee of both houses be appointed by the prolocutor and president of the upper house to approach the representatives of the various religious bodies of the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta, to consult upon the possibility of introducing a syllabus of religious instruction, or a course of Christain ethics into the public school systems of the aforesaid provinces."

LITTLE CHANCE OF PEACE.

BELIEVED THE CONFERENCE WILL BE A FAILURE.

Portsmouth, N.H., Aug 19.—Black pessimism reigns here. The prevailing view is that the fate of the peace conferenceis already sealed, andthat it has ended in failure and all that now remains is for the ministers to meet on Tuesday, to which day they adjourned upon completing the consideration of the Japanese terms, sign the final procotol, go through the conventions and bid each other farewell. In other words, that the meeting Tuesday will be what diplomacy calls the "seance d'adieu."

Neither President Roosevelt nor the powers will see the chance of peace shipwrecked without a final effort and that pressure is being exerted, especially at Tokio, to induce Japan to moderate her terms is beyond question. Just what is being done or is to be done has not transpired, but in these days with modern means of communication much can be accomplished.

King Edward is understood to be now lending a helping hand and the financiers of the world are known to be exerting their influence. At Tokio and St. Petersburg the final issue will be decided. The Japanese have been implacable throughout the conference. They have listened and explained, but have yet not yielded an iota of the substance of their original demands.

At midnight assistant secretary of state Pierce was hurriedly called to the hotel Wentworth, where a message was awaiting him from the President. He immediately wrote a lengthy reply. Later he was called to the telegraph instrument and for half an hour carried on a conversation by telegraph with the president who was at the other end of the wire at Oyster Bay.

The Associated Press has reason to believe that the purpose of the president's conversation with Mr. Pierce was to arrange for one of the Russians to go to Oyster Bay. The president is understood to be already in communication with Japan through Kane. Mr. Roosevelt is undoubtedly prepared to make a last effort to induce the warring countries to compromise.

It is rumoured that the C.P.R. intendto lay down a passing siding between Maple Creek and Kincorth, also between Maple Creek and Colley, owing to the increased traffic between Moosejaw and Medicine Hat,

MR. HAROLD NELSON'S PLANS.

Rehearsals were started in Toronto August 7th by Mr. Harold Nelson and his company in preparation for the coming season. Manager Walker has furnished the popular Canadian actor with four new plays, all late metropolitan successes and heavy royalty pieces and which are said to be well suited to Mr. Nelson. Each play will be mounted and costumed on a grandeur scale than ever, a prominent New York firm having just completed the elaborate scenery. A larger and more capable company will be required by the greater productions and this has been secured with that popular young actor, Mr. Clifford Lane Bruce again engaged as leading member of the support. The company will open their regular season at the Winnipeg theatre on September 4th, after which they will travel west to the Pacific coast.

MASON & RISCH

THE PIANO WITH A SOUL

Mason & Risch Pianos are famous for that peculiar carrying power known as the singing tone. Not all tones classed as musical are music unalloyed. There are certain qualities of tone that are strangely diffusive They carry far and retain their singing character where other tones become indistinct or even lost. A sheet of gold leaf, thinner than the thinnest tissue, will completely block the powerful rays of the strongest searchlight, while the X-rays, merely glowing with a faint light, will penetrate an inch of solid steel. So it is with music: some tones are diffusive and carry, others become more or less absorbed in space. The tone that "carries" the singing tone, is due to perfection of finish and perfect vibratory equilibruim of all the tone producing parts of a piano. It is always a tone of the utmost sweetness and purity. The Mason & Risch Piano is full of "sing" being especially fine in its blendings of the human voice, which it rounds out and sustains in a happy union of melody and harmony. Our literature explains the many points of superiority of the Mason & Risch piano—the piano with a soul. Send for it to-day.

Town Council Meeting.

An adjourned meeting of the Council was held on Tuesday evening. Present—Mayor Forster, Councillors DesBrisay, Penhale, Smyth, Stewart, Sissons and Drinnan. W. N. Adsit, Town Clerk; W. E. Porter, Supt. of Works.

PURCHASE OF SUPPLIES.

The Special Committee appointed some time ago to inquire into purchase of supplies and the manner of doing work, reported that they had been unable to find that there had been any unfairness in the purchases made, and recommended that quarterly or half yearly estimates be prepared and tenders obtained. The report was signed by Councillors Smyth and Stewart.

ENGINEER TO BE EMPLOYED.

The same committee also reported that they were of the opinion that a resident engineer should be employed and they recommended that one should be engaged.

Coun. Sissons—I propose that the report be received and the recommendations adopted, and that the Clerk advertise for a resident engineer.

Coun. Smyth seconded and the motion was carried.

Coun. Stewart thought an engineer of experience would cost the town $2500 a year, but they could get a graduate for much less. A good graduate would be quite competent.

Coun. Smyth considered a late graduate would fill the bill.

Coun. Penhale was quite in favor of a resident engineer if they had work for him.

Coun. Smyth—We ought to get a first class man for $2000.

The Mayor—You can get a first class man for $1800. Mr. Hall, of Hamilton, told me the assistant there would likely be an applicant for the post here and he is a good man. He gets $1800 there. The City engineer is an old man and the assistant really does the work of the City of Hamilton. One at Ottawa getting $1200 went to Toronto for $1500.

Coun. DesBrisay we want an engineer who has had experience in Municipal work.

The subject then dropped.

THE SEWERAGE BY-LAW.

The Council then went into Committee of the whole, with Dr. Smyth in the chair to consider bylaw No. 93.

The chairman: This is a bylaw to create a debt of $60,000 for sewerage purposes. The public meeting held some time ago decided that the work be done on the system of a frontage tax.

The Mayor—As the Council stands at present it is impossible to do it under the frontage tax system. Proceeding he said they should do the whole thing. They could not do one street and leave a street out and go on to the next.

The chairman observed that from a public health point of view the sewerage was most necessary in order to prevent the spread of disease, and he was in favor of a comprehensive system.

Coun. Sissons said his idea would be to go on with a sewerage scheme on a general tax doing a small portion, that is a comparatively small portion, immediately, enough to drain the business part of the town and most thickly settled blocks.

The Chairman—Shall we not raise the money by debenture?

Coun. Sissons—Oh, yes, we will raise the money by debenture but not to go into the whole thing at once.

The Mayor—If you approach it in that way the people will not vote the money at all. We have taken new districts into the town and they will vote against a general tax for sewerage for this part of the town.

Coun. Sissons—My proposition would be to put it in the business portion, Main and Toronto streets. That would be a general benefit to the whole town.

Coun. DesBrisay—I think it is necessary to have it in private residences.

The Mayor—If you borrow the money on a general tax and only do a small portion the bylaw will not carry.

Coun. Stewart—Mr. Sissons means to gradually extend the system until it is complete. I think it would be unwise to attempt it all in one year.

Coun. Penhale—Do you think it could not be done?

Coun. Stewart—It would be too much money.

The Clairman—It is a little late to do it now, but if we got everything ready we could begin early next year I think there is no object in putting it in piecemeal. We have plenty of credit and why not do it.

Coun. Sissons—speaking personally I would like to have it for the whole town right away, and in my house, but I think the whole thing will cost the town too much money.

Coun. Drinnan—The $60,000 only provides for a small portion of the town.

The Mayor—It provides for the whole town.

Coun. Drinnan—Well, there's the Johnston estate and New Edinburgh Neither included.

The Mayor—Yes, two blocks of New Edinburgh.

The Clerk—It is not in the plans.

Coun. Drinnan—Two streets well built up now were cut out and there is very little included beyond the hospital. We have to consider more than $60,000 as an expenditure if we go in for doing the whole town.

The Chairman—The scheme provided for giving sewerage to most streets that had a reasonable number of houses.

The Mayor—Coun. Drinnan is mistaken on one point. The scheme went beyond the hospital and it was intended to take in Braemer Street. The only houses not provided for would be the houses that Sackrider has built.

Coun. Drinnan—Is $60,000 going to cover all that?

The Mayor—A good deal is still blank on the hill in Toronto and Montreal streets.

Coun. Penhale—What will service connections cost.

Coun. Sissons—What was that telegram you got from Galt?

The Mayor—A question was raised whether the estimate included excavating, back filling etc. He wired that it included all. If we get a good engineer here he will put it in cheaper than the Galt estimate.

The Mayor explained the method adopted in Edmonton. They obtained necessary legislation to enable them to decide upon certain streets without waiting for a petition. Then they published notice that in the absence of certain opposition they would proceed with the work.

The chairman—In Lethbridge they have power to compel people to put in sewerage connections in the interests of public health.

Coun. Sissons—I don't know how you can compel a man to put in sewerage if he keeps his outhouses clean.

The Chairman—There is as much or more harm in stirring up cesspools as in leaving them alone.

The Mayor—What do you think of this bylaw Coun. Drinnan?

Coun. Drinnan—If we are not going to do anything this year it will be advisable to get special legislation and take the work up in sections. Let us get the legislation and deal with the bylaw afterwards.

The Chairman—Do you think it will be well to put this before the people and then get special legislation.

Coun. Drinnan—You will have to put it before the people in the way we propose to do the work, whether by general rate or frontage tax, so we must decide that before submitting it.

The Mayor—We have to get special legislation in the same way in regard to the Woollen Mill and the sidewalks and it can be done together

Coun. Sissons—I don't think it would be legal if we submit it before getting special legislation.

Coun. Drinnan—Let us get the special legislation and then go ahead with it. What steps have we to take

The Mayor—The solicitor will prepare the matter and endeavor to get legislation passed. I suggest also that we get legislation to compel people who drill gas wells to cap them to preserve the gas, not only in Medicine Hat but everywhere in the Territories.

Coun. Drinnan—I think we should be wise to take steps to get a and include all these things.

Coun. Smyth—Well, it seems to be the opinion to defer submitting this bylaw until the Woollen Mill bylaw is submitted.

Coun. Drinnan—I move that it is the opinion of this Committee of the whole that special legislation along the lines obtained by Edmanton and Lethbridge should be obtained for Medicine Hat before the bylaw is put to the people.

Coun. Stewart seconded and the motion was carried.

The Committee then rose and formally reported, the Mayor resumed the chair, and Coun. Drinnan moved that the report of the Committee of the whole be adopted.

Coun. Sissons seconded and it was agreed to.

Coun. Drinnan again observed that he considered the town should go in for a city charter, as it might simplify the whole thing. Under a city charter they could do much more than they could under a town charter.

NO CHANGE OF NAME.

The Clerk—And change the name?

Coun. Smyth— I hardly think so. Medicine Hat has been largely advertised.

Coun. Sissons—We would have to do it all over again.

THE CASE of MR. MINISZEWSKY

The Mayor read the letter from Mr. Miniszewsky which was published in the last issue of The Times.

Coun. Pephale—I would like to say that he mentions that I said if he would apologise there would be nothing more about it. That's wrong.

The Mayor—I consider that the matter is out of our hands and his too. An apology to you would not cut any figure.

Coun. Penhale—As to the truthfulness —

The Mayor—Is this statement here the truth?

Coun. Penhale—He says I mentioned if he would apologise to me I would get him re-instated. That's a deliberate falsehood on the face of it

The Mayor—You have asked him to send in his resignation and he refuses to do it, and there's only one other thing to it.

Coun. Drinnan—We should have done it the other night instead of calling for his resignation. In my opinion he has been a very unsatisfactory policeman all the time. Along some lines he has done very good work but his usefulness is hurt in various ways. He means well enough but its a question of ability.

The Mayor—When he was here did not Councillor Drinnan, as chairman give him an opportunity to ask questions?

Coun. Smyth—I think so.

The Mayor—He says here he was not given an opportunity.

Coun. Drinnan—I simply stopped him from abusing Mr. Penhale.

Coun. Penhale—He commenced taking a long oath about his mother.

The Mayor—Coun. Drinan told him it was not necessary to make such an oath.

Coun. Drinnan—I only asked him to retire. I didnot order him out.

The Mayor—I do not think we should waste more time over it. Will someone make a motion.

Coun. Penhale—The proper course now is to recall it and dismiss him.

Coun. Sissons—There's only one thing to do gentlemen. If an employee is asked to do a certain thing and refuses to do it we should get rid of him the quickest way. It is a matter of principle on the part of the Council. He is a servant of the people and the Council and I maintain that any servant of the Council if he doesn't do as he is asked to do, should be sent about his business.

Coun. Penhale—You are quite right there. Has the Chief done anything to get a temporary man.

Coun. Sissons—I instructed the Chief to get a man. I don't know if he has secured one or not. As yet the night policeman is on duty. He was asked to resign but he still holds his position until you dismiss him.

Coun. Drinnan—Shall we have to pay him salary from the 1st of next month.

Coun. Penhale—I don't think so. He is appointed like every other employe at the will of the Council.

The Town Clerk—You will have to pay him. We had to pay Clark.

Coun. Penhale—Not if you can show that he has neglected his duty.

The Clerk—Well, that's a matter for the solicitor.

Coun. Penhale—I don't see that we have to pay him anything as he has refused when we asked him to resign

The Clerk—You have to pay hired girls when you let them go.

Coun. Penhale—Well, that's different (laughter).

The Mayor—Well, gentlemen, you want a motion yet.

After a little further conversation.

Coun. Penhale—I will guarantee he has been found asleep a score of times. There was a regular place in the town where he used to sleep. I am not guessing at it.

Coun. Drinnan—An objectionable practice in a night policeman.

Coun. DesBrisay—Many a good man goes to sleep on duty. I did once on duty.

Coun. Penhale—Make a practice of it?

Coun. DesBrisay—No I didn't make a practice of it.

Coun. Smyth—That does not quite prove that a good man goes to sleep on duty. I do not see the point. (laughter.) I always thought you a good man (laugnter). But why should the policeman go to sleep on duty.

Coun. Drinnan—That was because he was attending to his own business during the day.

The Mayor—I see him on the streets day after day. When he sleeps I don't know.

Coun. Drinnan—I cannot understand how a man can be on the streets all the forenoon and then go on night duty again at 8 o'clock at night.

The Mayor—I don't think we need spend any more time on this, if some one will make amotion.

Coun. Drinnanmoved that Policeman Miniszwsky be dismissed at once.

Coun. Penhale—Second the motion.

The Mayor put it to the vote and declared it carried.

A motion to adjourn concluded the proceedings.

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION.

F. O. SISSONS SELECTED AS CANDIDATE.

A Conservative Convention was held in Medicine Hat on Friday night to select a candidate to contest this riding in the coming Provincial elections.

Mr. W. G. Niblock called the meeting to order and delivered a short but pithy address in which he said the present was the most important time in the history of the west. The people of the west would shortly have the opportunity of saying if they were willing to be bound in shackles or would declare themselves free men and demand fair treatment The Conservative party had adopted a strong platform and it was the duty of every conservative to support it.

Mr. Tweed made an able address and reviewed the situation. Speaking on the question of a party or non-party fight he said he was pleased they were going to have a party fight. Hewas not in sympathy with those who would say new settlers would be caught by a non-party cry. Their best new settlers came from the United States, and these men were accustomed to party fights and would look for distinct party platforms in the country of their adoption. They were used to liberty of thought and action and could be trusted to vote with the party which stood for liberty. That party was the Conservative party and he read the platform which had been adopted at Red Deer. He believed in a straight party fight as it was the straight honest way of going about it. Referring to the division of Alberta into electoral districts he said he felt very strongly on the point. A great injustice had been done to Southern Alberta where the most intelligent reading electors dwelt. He strongly condemned the action of government officials in becoming mere party organisers and canvassers. He hoped for a clean fight, and he was confident that the power of the great conservative party would prevail at the polls. Not even government officials or money bags could stop them. With a united conservative party they could win. Critising Dominion Government legislation for the west he said no man could get on a platform and conscientiously defend the autonomy bill of Sir Wilfred Laurier. Conservatives had nothing to fear on the platform. They had nothing to be ashamed of in the traditions of the party, on the other hand they had everything to be proud of, for the Conservative party had built up Canada. (Loud applause).

The Convention then proceeded to the business of selecting a candidate and the choice fell upon Major F. O. Sissons.

Addresses were delivered by Messrs F. O. Sissons, W. Cousins, F. S. Pingle, C. H. Evans, Geo. Borradaile, J. H. Collier and O. W. Kealy

Mr. Kealy drew attention to the fact that while all other constituencies in Alberta had been reduced in size in order to carve 25 districts out of the province, that of Medicine Hat had been increased by 40 townships and now reached to within 50 miles of Battleford. Moosejaw he might also mention, had been given a city representative. He moved a resolution protesting against Medicine Hat district having been increased in area and this was carried.

Cheers for the King and for Major Sissons concluded the meeting.

Lord Beresford, after spending a few days in town went west to Brooks on Sunday evening.

BIRTHS.

McDIRMID—At Medicine Hat, on August 19th, to Mr. and Mrs. Donald McDirmid—a son.

DEATH.

GILLIS—At Medicine Hat on Saturday August 19th, Mrs. Lydia Gillis at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. W. McF. Evans, aged 73 years.

FIRES.

A fire occurred on the premises of Mr. W. T. Williams, architect, about seven o'clock on Sunday evening. It is supposed to have been started by some children in a quantity of hay near the stable. In a few moments there was a big blaze, the stable and hen house and the derrick over the town gas well being quickly caught. Mr. Williams ran off and started the fire siren while Mrs. Williams pluckily entered the stable and got the horse out. A "bucket brigade" kept the fire down until the fire brigade arrived and put out the last vestage of the flames.

Shortly after four o'clock yesterday afternoon a fire occurred at the power house. It appears to have been caused by the smoke stack becoming overheated. Mr. Eddy could not get the telephone to act and the siren was not sounded, so a messengerhad to run to the fire hall to ring an alarm on the bell. In the meantime the fire got a good hold of the roof. Mr. John Kennedy and others got a hose playing on it and held it in check until the brigade arrived whenthe boys soon had it out. The roof was burnt through near the smoke stack and the brigade had to rip off all the metal shingles to get at the fire, as it had run along between the wood and metal sheathing.

The fire caused a good deal of consternation as it would be serious to have the pumps put out of business.

The event shows that the power house will have to be made fire proof. There should be a steel roof and brick smoke stack. This fire also demonstrates the need for a stand pipe on the hill.

The Council would also do well to consider whether the power house should not be moved to a point further up the river.

DEATH OF MRS. GILLIS.

We regret to announce the death of Mrs. Lydia Gillis, which occurred on Saturday last at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. W. McF. Evans. The late Mrs. Gillis had lived here with the above since 1893, and was a great sufferer for more than three and a half years, and had been confined to her bed all that time. A noticeable feature of her long illness was the uniform cheerfulness of her disposition and the patience with which she bore her long affliction. The children who survive her are: Melvin, living at Aylmer West, Ont. and Geo. Gillis and Mrs. McF. Evans of Medicine Hat. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon and was very largely attended. A service was held in the Methodist Church and the interment was at the Public Cemetery.

GREAT FLOTO SHOWS.

Will Soon Arrive—How Show People Live—Something of the Manner of Providing for Circus Employes.

A reporter was shown how show people live. That they live far better than the average every day worker or goes without saying.

In fact, the management consisting of about seventy people, have a fare that is not excelled by the most pretentious hotel in the country.

The dining tent is large enough to accommodate nearly 400 people. There are twenty-eight tables, each with a seating capacity of fourteen. Each table has an individual waiter and he is held strictly responsible for everything belonging to his table.

The performers have a seperate section and the laborers take their meals in a different portion of the dining tent.

The Floto shows feed nearly 500 people three times per day. Meal tickets are issued by the head of each department to the various people employed. The tickets state in what capacity the men are employed and by this plan it is easy to determineat what table they shall sit.

The tickets are designated as property men, canvass men, razor backs, side show, grooms, animal men, porters, pony boys, drivers, train men, performers and managers. The dining tent is in charge of two superindents and they employ fifty men in the cook house. Two men are employed to cut fresh meat alone. The show has a refrigerator car which always has from $2,000 to $3,000 worth of fresh meat and groceries all bought each day in every town.

A large refrigertor stock wagon, containing two to three beeves, and other perishable fresh meats is kept with the show.

The show people consume five hundred pounds of bread daily and it requires 1000 ears of green corn for a single meal. Local merchants are contracted with weeks in advance.

The bill of fare for the noonday lunch consists of corn on cob, roast beef, cabbage and boiled ham, hash, brown potatoes, green peas, coffee and tea, with watermelon and stewed prunes for desert.

At breakfast two kinds of meats are served, usually steak and fried ham.

The show carries its own electric lighting plant, and also has a physician, who looks after the health of the employes. Dr. C. M. Butler has been with the show for two seasons.

Don't forget the date, Thursday Sept. 7th.

QUESTION OF PEACE HANGS BY SLENDER THREAD.

The situation is acute and apparently there is little hope of peace. If today Japan has nothing at all to offer, all is over. M. Witte, even if he would, is powerless to make a new step. His hands are tied. He now occupies a role of an imperial messenger who transmits his masters orders to Baron Komura, and Baron Komura turns them to conference for the response.

BULLETIN:—Portsmouth, Aug. 28—(1.10 a.m.)—There is a persistent rumor that President Roosevelt has made a new appeal to the emperor of Japan.

The force of public opinion of the great neutral world may induce Japan and Russia not to dare to refuse to accept in principle at least the suggestions offered by the President.

R.N.W.M.P.

A special troop train arrived at Medicine Hat on Saturday at noon containing about 150 officers and men of the R.N.W.M.P., who were on their way to Edmonton to attend the inauguration ceremony in connection with the birth of the new Province of Alberta on the 1st September. The party was under command of Commissioner Perry and Inspector Wilson. Mr. W. Proby an and old schoolfellow of Mr. H. K. Oakes were among the number. About 400 of the mounted police will assemble at Edmonton and will afterwards go down to Regina for the ceremony there on the 4th September.

FOR PARK AND MARKET.

For some past the town has been calling for a picnic park which would contain a race track and for ground for a market. Every step has been taken so far as the Town Council are concerned and next Friday the people will have the opportunity of pronouncing upon the matter. Both the park grounds and market are required to bring the town up-to-date and we hope to see the bylaw carried. Let every toxpayer go to the poll and vote for the bylaw.

W.C.T.U.

Say Norman will you go to a picnic? One young man asked another. He answered, "Who is having the picnic and where are you going?" Oh, the Baptist Sunday School and we are only going to the grove and creek. Oh, laughingly answered Norman, "a Sunday school picnic, where they all sing hymns and wear long faces and only whisper under their handkerchiefs. Do we all have to be baptized before being allowed to sing?" George said "Norman come and try just once, then if they only sing hymns and baptize you why if you do not approve there is no need to go again." When they went to the picnic of course Normon left his tobacco in his pocket and when in the company of pure young girls left out his slang talk. And strange to say he thoroughly enjoyed the pleasant outing and made a resolve that God helping him he would try and keep the friends he met at the picnic. For he found what the bible tells us is true.

Wherefore if thy hand or thy foot offend thee cut them off and if thy eye offend thee pluck it out and cast it from thee for it is better to enter into life with one eye than having two eyes to be cast into hell.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT.

A shocking accident occurred on Monday the 21st, to a man named John O'Brien by which he lost his life as briefly announced in our last issue. O'Brien, who has been working in Calgary for the last two or three years as a horse-trainer was a week or two ago despatched to Winnipeg in charge of some horses. There he seems to have become broke, and it was whilst "beating" his way back to Calgary the accident occurred. The freight on which O'Brien was riding reached Maple Creek about four o'clock on Monday afternoon, stopping for water, when he took advantage and stepped off for a few minuets. Deceased seem to have been waiting between the water tank and the "Wye," and as the freight came speeding towards him at the rate of 15 miles an hour he made a clutch at one of the cars, missing his hold and falling headlong beneath the wheels, where he was caught and whirled over and over, cutting him completely to pieces. J. Gilchrist who observed the accident at once signalled the freight to stop, the emergency brake was applied, but it was then too late. Deceased must have been killed instantaneously.

O'Brien is believed to belong to Boston, Mass. He was apparently a man between 30 and 40 years of age. The burial took place on Tuesday.

Brantford is getting a natural gas supply from an adjoining village. The cost will be about 35 cents per 1000 feet.

Investigating Cattle Values.

It is stated on good authority that two representatives of the United States department of agriculture at Washington have been busily at work for the past two weeks investigating Texas cattle conditions. From the character of the work done by these gentlemen it is clear that they are gathering data with regard to the working of the beef trust, and are trying to figure out why it is that beef on the hoof is so low and yet the price is so high as soon as the animal reaches the block.

As Texas is the largest producer of range beef cattle of any state in the union, the claim has been made and persisted in that this state has suffered from the manipulations of the beef trust to a greater extent than any other state. It is a well known fact that during the last three years cattle values in this state have depreciated to the extent of millions of dollars, and while there has been improvement in the situation since the beginning of the year, the normal has not been restored by any means. Cattle which have been rushed to market during the greater part of the present year have not brought prices that were satisfactory to the producers, and as the market values has been so low, the values prevailing on the range have been correspondingly reduced.

A Much Needed Reform.

The crying need of reform in the existing postal regulations between Canada and the Old Country, has been ably taken up in a recent issue of the Daily Mail Overseas Edition. As matters stand at present, and until a reduction of the postage of newspapers and printed matter generally is effected, the Dominion of Canada is almost entirely dependent for its magazine reading upon the United States of America. This is not as it should be but when the subject was brought up in the House of Commons early this year, the Postmaster-General expressed his regret that he was unable to carry out the proposed reform, as it would entail considerable loss to the British postal service. But although a system that differentiates between various quarters of the Empire is to be deplored, special circumstances make special cases, and in view of this real danger in Canada, it should be possible to make some arrangement by which the Dominion should in the future be able to draw its supply of reading matter from the Mother-country.

Dancing Reform.

The Imperial Society of dance teachers are making a strenuous and earnest attempt to elevate dancing to the proud position it occupied when it stood side by side with music. The society will endeavor to prohibit romping and ungraceful antics in the ballroom. The graceful minuet is to have restored to it its ancient honours, and cake-walks and barn dances, and kitchen lancers—to see which would make our grandparents weep—are to be swept away for ever. It is even hoped that in time a State academy of dancing will be brought into existence and that dancing will be a subject on every school syllabus sanctioned by the English Board of Education. That the dance teachers take themselves and their art very seriously is beyond all doubt. After dancing till midnight, the congress met at the Hotel Cecil at 9 a.m., next morning, and despite the hot weather they danced square dances till well into the afternoon. By the end of the day the square dances had been reviewed and detailed and definite rules for future observance had been agreed upon. Here are the alterations made in all square dances in broad outline:

(1) Setting to partners to be carried out in the original manner.

(2) Waltzing in sets to be entirely eliminated.

Clean Government for the West.

Let us not in this new Western country follow the ways and methods of the East. but let us set an example of clean honest government of the people.

The salary grab by the members of the Dominion Government is the worst piece of gerry-mandering ever consummated by representatives of the people. Every man who took part in it or profitted by it should stand discredited before the people.

Bylaw 94.

The citizens are called upon to vote on bylaw No. 94 on Friday next. The bylaw is to authorise the Town Council to raise $15,000 by debenture to purchase land for a public park and for a public market. The council entered upon this matter only after due and careful deliberation and the object is one for which many have argued time and again. We therefore say to everyone concerned

VOTE FOR THE BYLAW.

It is reported that the Dominion Government has under advisement the question of disallowing Quebec's tax on commercial travelers. If it does suppress the Quebec impost it ought also to put an end to that levied by British Columbia. The latter is a grievance to wholesale merchants and manufacturers in all provinces of Canada, whereas the Quebec tax affects only those in other countries.

M. de Witte's position is not an enviable one. If he concludes a peace, even on the most favorable terms that can be obtained from Japan, he will almost certainly fall under the displeasure of his Imperial Majesty the Czar. If he fails to stop the war sympathizers will meet him with bombshells.

The Grand Trunk Pacific will not go to Saskatoon, but will allow the town to remain on the map if Saskatoon will come to the Grand Trunk Pacific. Any town that desires to be a port or call on thie low-grade route of high grade carriers will have to pay the price. But perhaps a mortage big enough to sink Saskatoon would not raise the tribute required.

There is no rust on the North-West's wheat crop, and there will be no rust on the self-binders if they are to be equal to the task of cutting the great harvest.

Reports have come in that the Stony Indians from Lac Ste Anne and White Whale lake are destroying a great many moose, sheep and goats in the foothills. One Indian is said to have killed fifty-four moose last winter. The animals are killed principally for their hides. It is said they are also killing a great many moose calves and cows, also the young of the sheep and goats. This wanton destruction of these animals will soon deplete the supply.

Members of the new Russian Parliament that his Imperial Majesty Nicholas II. has been pleased to constitute will have no great overplus of sessional indemnity to bestow on charities. They are to receive the equivalent of $5 a day, except when they are absent, when the stipend falls away to zero.

President Roosevelt is not managing the indemnity question at Portsmouth, N.H., as well as Sir Wilfred Laurier did at Ottawa, Ont. There was not a hitch at the latter peace centre, Mr. Maclean even being a non-protester until he received the money.

An exchange tells of an editor in South Dakota who started about fifteen years ago with fifteen cents and who is now worth $100,000. His accumulation of wealth is owing to his frugality, strict attention to business and to the fact that an uncle died and left him $99,990,85.

A BIG HIT.

The company presenting Lord Lytton's greatest dramatic work, "The Lady of Lyons" which comes to the Opera House, Medicine Hat, Thursday, Sept. 7th, has according to the reviews seen of the production, scored the most emphatic kind of a hit. It is serving as a vehicle to display the talent and ability of one of England's daintiest and most fetching actresses, Margaret Neville, for five seasons a valued member of Henry Irving's superb company, and she is credited with having scored very strongly in the production.

Sell Your Cold For $1?

You surely won't stop at a dollar bill to cure that horrid sniffeling cold Go to any druggist and get "Catarrhozone" and your cold will be a thing of the past. There is almost witchery in the swift way Catarrhozone kills colds. But when you consider the penetrating, healing and antiseptic qualities of Catarrhozone perhaps its not so wonderful. Certainly there is no remedy half so prompt for colds and Catarrh as Catarrhozone. Refuse a substitute and insist on having only Catarrhozone.

SIR WILLIAM IS FIRST.

The Veteran Stock Breeder Enters Thoroughbreds for Dominion Exhibition.

New Westminster, Aug.—28.—"Sir" William Ladner, the veteran breeder of thoroughbred cattle in the Delta, and a well known old-timer of British Columbia, has the honor of being the first exhibitor to make entry in the live stock show of the 1905 Dominion Fair.

Since the announcement that the great national exhibition would be held in New Westminster this fall Sir William has been very active in stirring up interest in the exhibits and now he has set the pace for stock breeders by entering forty-one head of Short-horns.

Sir William, who is vice-president of the Royal Agricultural and Industrial Society, under whose auspices the big exhibition is being held, will ride one of his finest looking horses on the grounds, and will be a picturesque figure among the notables who will be seen in New Westminster during the fair.

Note & Comment.

[By OBSERVER.]

The Agricultural Editors are expected to spend the day here on Monday, Sept. 4th and it would be a good plan to make a show. The stores will be closed as it will be a holiday, but I suggest that everybody try and put out some bunting to give the town a gala appearance. These men will of course be most interested in the natural gas and the crops and it will be the business od the Council and Board of Trade to show them round, but a few flags from poles and windows will help to give them a good impression.

They will be too late to see standing crops because our harvest is so early here that the binders have completed their work, and they may think our threshing outfits not quite up to those of the Western States, but in two years more I expect to see work for the guge steam outfits all through Southern Alberta.

The question of obtaining a city charter is rapidly coming to the front and every step forward which the town takes shows the need for the charter. One of the latest suggestions made has been in favor of a member of Parliament for the town, and it has been pointed out that other leading western towns, very little if any larger than Medicine Hat, have been granted a member. In all these cases, however, these places had previously obtained city charters. This fact should give a hint to Medicine Hat as to what their first step should be. It is evident to the minds of most people that until we obtain a city charter we are not on the same footing or in the same class as Moosejaw, Regina and Prince Albert.

If we can induce the government to give the City of Medicine Hat a member, it will be an offset to our having been a little unfairly treated in having our constituency enlarged by forty townships. Compared with several other electoral districts ours is large and unwieldy. A new member for the city of Medicine Hat would even matters up.

The average love affair has all the elements of a screamingly funny farce especially when it gets into court and has the dignity of the law backing it. Recently Edith Gibney of St. Louis, who is suing Klaus Steiner, of Pitts burg, Pa., for breach of promise, wept on the stand and testified that after she had consented to become engaged to him he wrote her that he had stopped smoking so as to purify himself to kiss her. Everyone in the court room roared except poor Klaus Steiner, who almost burned up blushing.

The St. Thomas Times gave our town a little ad. the other. It said:

The Times has received a copy of the Medicine Hat Times from W. H. Smythe, of the Merchants Bank there, lately of St. Thomas, in which the statement is made that the municipal millenium is about to dawn in Medicine Hat. The town possess nearly all the conveniences of a modern city—waterworks, cheap gas for cooking, lighting and heating etc., and the tax is only 14 mills on the dollar. This tax is four mills less than last year. Medicine Hat is known as the gas town of Western Canada.

It is said that the new Russain General is going to make a name for himself, but even if he does nobody will be able to pronounce it.

Smokingcigarettes is good for mosquitos, but it's doubtful if you can induce mosquitoes to smoke them.

If Russia had whipped Japan as thoroughly as Japan has whipped Russia would the Czar and his advisers have abstained from exacting an indemnity because such a proceeding would be humiliating to the Mikado's government? No answer to this question is necessary. Russia if forced to give up territory and pay damages, will simply be taking a dose of her own medicine.

Frank E. Wallis, secretary of the Agricultural League of New York said: "There is a belief that architect's are useless that a builder is enough of an architect for all practical purposes. I attended a session of court not long ago when an architectural case was being heard. A young architect was put on the stand and, after he had given his timony, the lawyer for the opposition began to cross-examine him. The questions ran like this:

"'You are a builder, I believe?'

"'No, an architect.'

"'Builder or architect, architect or builder, it's much the same thing, isn't it?'

"'No, not all.'

"'What is the difference?'

"The young man explained what the difference was, and the lawyer, with a sneer, said:

"'Oh, very well. That will do. And now, after your very ingenious distinction, perhaps you can inform the court who was the architect of the tower of Babel?'

"'There was none,' he answered, 'and hence the confusion.'"

According to the following story one famous cricketer is equal to two Bishops.

To W. G. Grace, the most famous cricketerin England, probably has given his autograph as often as any other celebrity. At a match not long ago he wrote his name in the note book of a little girl. A couple of weeks later much to his surprise the same little lady shyly sidled up to him with the necessary documents and the request for his autograph.

"But I gave it to you only a few days ago," laughingly said the veteran.

"Oh," came the answer, "I changed that for two bishops."

Dr. Grace elaborated another one without delay.

The vote of the people of Norway shows them to be nearly unanimous in favor of dissolution of the union with Sweden. Incomplete returns indicate that only about one in 3000 favored the union.

DON'T BE HYPNOTISED.

Hoodwinked, hoodooed, or over-persuaded into accepting a substitute for Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription with its record of nearly 40 years, embracing hundreds of thousands of cures of woman's peculiar ailments. It's the only remedy for woman's ills sold by druggists, that is not full of "booze"—poor whisky, or bad alcohol.

A guarantee of $500 is offered that "Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, opium or other harmful drug. Keeps in any climate.

"Favorite Prescription" is a powerful invigorating tonic, and imparts strength to the whole system and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

It's an insult to your intelligence for a dealer to attempt to palm off upon you an alcoholic substitute for this world-famed medicine. You know what you want. It's his business to meet that want. When he urges some substitute he's thinking of the larger profit he'll make—not of your welfare.

Mr. Bowser Vs. Poetry

He Is Admitted to the Burns Club and Attempts to Write Some Verses.

HIS MUSE THROWS HIM

Takes a Cropper When Mrs. B. Criticises What He Is Pleased to Call "Poetic License."

[Copyright, 1905, by R. B. McClure.]

WHEN the Bowsers had finished dinner the other evening Mr. Bowser lighted his cigar, smiled amiably on the cat, swelled out his chest and remarked to Mrs. Bowser:

"I had forgotten to say that I have been elected a member of the Burns club."

"Is that the club that makes the Jonathan Burns cigarettes?" innocently queried Mrs. Bowser in reply.

He looked at her in indignation for a minute and then said:

"I suppose you can't help it, and therefore I can't hold it up against you. If you knew half as much about poetry as you do about bargain sales

"SAY, JONES, DID YOU EVER WRITE ANY ? ? ? POETRY?"

in toilet soap you would know that I meant the club of poets. It is said to be one of the most exclusive clubs in America, and there are plenty of millionaires who'd give their old boots to become members."

"And why can't they?"

"Why? Simply because they can't write poetry."

"And you have been elected because you can?"

"When I sent in my application two months ago it was accompanied by a verse of poetry that the committee was pleased to call a little gem of its kind. I shall devote the evening to composing something in the nature of a poem."

Mr. Bowser walked up and down with his cigar in the corner of his mouth and a chesty look below his chin, and Mrs. Bowser and the cat watched him and realized that they were in for another family row.

"You didn't say anything to me about writing the poetry," she finally observed.

"No? Well, it was such a trifle that I supposed it skipped my mind."

"But don't you want my help on what you write tonight?"

"Not hardly, Mrs. Bowser; not hardly," he answered in lofty disdain.

She turned to a magazine without further remark, and he got a paper pad and pencil and sat down and rolled his eyes heavenward and made ready to start in. The cat had an appointment in the back yard to meet and knock out an old tom who had been cuffing all comers about, but as he left the room he gave a look backward at Mr. Bowser and said to himself:

"Old man, things seem to be coming your way just this minute, but the evening isn't over yet."

Mr. Bowser had figured on dashing off three or four verses within ten minutes, but when a quarter of an hour had elapsed he had not yet finished the first. He was scratching his head and nibbling at his pencil when Mrs. Bowser queried:

"Well, how do you get along with your poetry?"

"Beautifully. I am only hesitating over the choice of terms. You can't help me any, of course, but I will read you what I have written:

"The sylvan sun is going down,
The brooklet onward flows;
The turgid mountain rears its head—

"And that is what I was hesitating about—the fourth line."

"Mr. Bowser, may I make a remark?"

"Certainly. It can't be anything in the nature of a hint to me, but you can make it."

"The dictionary defines the word 'sylvan' as forestlike—rural—rustic. How can you apply it to the sun?"

"I am writing of the country."

"But the same sun is to be found in the city. You can't call the sun rustic, can you?"

"That is simply poetic license, and you know nothing about it."

"But you speak of a turgid mountain. The dictionary defines 'turgid' as swelled—bloated. You don't intend to refer to a bloated mountain, do you?"

"I intend to refer to anything I please, Mrs. Bowser, and I want no criticism from you. When did you ever write a single verse of poetry to give you the right to criticise me?"

Mrs. Bowser was duly crushed and turned to her book. Mr. Bowser reluctantly acknowledged to himself that he might have got things a trifle mixed, and he scratched out the incompleted verse and tried again. He did not intend to give her another chance, but at the end of the third line again he found himself stuck. It wouldn't do to admit it, and so he said:

"So many beautiful thoughts come rushing in on me that I hardly know which to use. Just for the fun of the thing let me ask how you would end this verse:

"I wander alone, with my soul at peace;
I muse in the truculent dell;
My lubricant soul, like a golden bowl"—

"I should end it," replied Mrs. Bowser, "with making 'dell' rhyme with the bad place."

"By thunder, woman, but do you mean to insult me to my face?"

"Of course not. You asked me how I would end it, and I told you. There are one or two other things I want to speak of. You refer to a 'truculent dell.' Do you mean a peaceful one?"

"Any idiot could tell that I do."

"Well, if you will turn to the dictionary, you will find that 'truculent' means wild—fierce—savage."

"What in the name of seven bobtailed cats do I care for what the dictionary says? Was old Webster a poet? Did he know poetry from pumpkins?"

"Perhaps not, but he tells us how to pronounce words and gives us the meaning of them. What do you mean when you speak of your 'lubricant soul?'"

"None of your business."

"A lubricant is an oil, you know. You lubricate the machinery of a sawmill. When you grease a bucksaw with a pork rind you lubricate it. That verse would read beautifully as:

"I wander alone, with my soul at peace;
I muse in the truculent dell;
My lubricant soul, like a golden bowl,
It slips on its way with a yell."

"By John!" gasped Mr. Bowser as he sat and stared at her while the red flushed his face.

"If I am disturbing you I beg pardon," she answered.

"By John, by John, but the idea of your talking to me like that! Am I awake or dreaming? Woman"—

"I don't see anything to get excited about," she interrupted. "I simply referred you to the dictionary to show you that you had misused a word or two. If your 'lubricant soul' had gone into the Burns club it might have affected your standing there. I should change it to 'innocent soul,' for you have an innocent soul, Mr. Bowser."

Mr. Bowser got up and choked and gasped and coughed, but the words he was fishing for would not come. The cat had returned after his victorious scrap; but, though he offered a fair mark, he was not kicked at. There was a long minute of direst suspense, and then Mr. Bowser flung himself down the hall and out of doors, taking his two incompleted verses with him. He didn't know who to go to, but he was determined to find out about that "lubricant soul." Fortune favored him. He met his coal man almost at the gate, and, after salutations had passed, he asked:

"Say, Jones, did you ever write any poetry?"

"Tons and tons of it, but I never gave more than 1,800 pounds for a ton."

"And you are up on words?"

"Clear to the top."

"Well, what is the meaning of a lubricant soul?"

"A lubricant soul? That's dead easy. It means a soul that has just been greased up with lard?"

"You are an infernal old liar!" shouted Mr. Bowser.

"And you are a jackass! Good night!"

Half an hour later Mrs. Bowser went to the front window and saw Mr. Bowser huddled up on the steps. Two old tramps stood at the gate looking at him and wondering whether he was drunk or asleep, but his lubricant soul heeded them not—heeded not the March winds, the cold stone steps, the truculent people who hurried on their turgid way. He had come down with a thud.

Billville Celebrities.

A Common Experience.

"Sometimes," said the literary man with spectacular tendencies, "one comes to a point where it is a terrible strain to write any more."

"Yes," answered Mr. Dustin Star; "I often experience that sensation in working on a checkbook."—Washington Star.

Curran's Retort.

Curran's friend was tickled by the orator's retort apropos of the jury system. The friend was bragging of his attachment to it and said, "With trial by jury I have lived and, by the blessing of God, with trial by jury I will die!"

"Oh," said Curran in amazement, "then you've made up your mind to be hanged, Dick!"

Coziest City In the World.

There is nothing cozy about New York. It is not a city where a stranger can readily make a nest and feel at home. It does not welcome the foreigner with a smile and a polite "Now make yourself happy and comfortable." It says tacitly, "Well, now that you're here I suppose you'll have to stay, but don't get in the way and bother people." Paris, on the other hand, is the coziest city in the world. It welcomes the newcomer in a thousand ways. It offers him the finest education in the world for nothing. Before him for miles lie the charm and wonder and mystery of those fascinating streets, each with its own character, some as full of history as an egg is of meat.

IN THE DAIRY

In a bulletin recently issued by the Nebraska experiment station Professor T. L. Haecker, the dairy expert, deals with a test to determine the amount of contamination of milk that takes place during milking and its control. The four methods tested were as follows: (1) Sponging the cow's udder with water before milking; (2) using a 5 per cent solution of carbolic acid; (3) rubbing with vaseline, and (4) simply brushing with the hand.

A bacterial test was made of the above methods, and the results obtained brought forth the following conclusions:

Some means of preventing milk contamination during milking should be employed.

The work required to sponge an animal's flank and udder is but a trifle, and great improvement can be made on the milk and its products.

The acid solution costs 2 cents per gallon, which is enough to treat ten cows. The only objections to this method are the disagreeable odor and the bother of mixing.

The vaseline costs about the same as the carbolic acid and serves as a good preventive for chapped or sore teats. It is also to be recommended for cows with short teats which have to be milked by the stripping method. This treatment will not answer when the cows have dirty udders.

The water treatment is to be recommended for general use above the other three, as it is cheaper and does the work practically as well. This method can be used on any farm with little or no inconvenience, and the results obtained would more than compensate for the extra time required.

In the comparison of cement and board floors, cement showed less than half the contamination of board floors, and they are also much easier to keep clean.

Milking out of doors in clean yards or pasture gives better results than in clean barns even under the best of conditions.

The records obtained in this experiment, while giving the desired comparisons, show conditions very much above the average, for in all cases the cows would be considered clean and the stable well kept.

Successful Texas Dairyman.

What can be done in dairying as compared to other methods of farming or stock raising has been thoroughly demonstrated by B. F. Frasher of Cleburne, Tex., says Farm and Ranch. It has been only four years since Mr. Frasher embarked in the dairy business, starting with only two grade cows, but he has applied himself intelligently, and today he has in his dairy forty-five head of thoroughbred Jerseys and last year earned $1,000 from the increase in his herd. As the male is always considered the head of a herd, a great deal always depends upon what kind of an individual the male is. In this respect Leo Reed, No. 61200, who heads Mr. Frasher's herd, is one of the finest specimens of a Jersey bull one is likely to meet with. In Leo Reed one sees a trim and well built animal, an eye bright and intelligent, with shoulders and neck well developed and with the ability to impart his good traits to his offspring.

JERSEY BULL LEO REED.

Preventing Milk Fever.

Every cow coming in with her third calf or over shall be liberally fed on usual keep, according to time of year. In winter she shall be kept in a box, loose, when expected to calve. She shall have one or two pints of best linseed oil a day or so before calving and again twelve hours after calving, bran mash an hour or so after calving, with chaff and hay for two days. The cow and calf shall lie loose, but the cow shall not be milked for at least forty-eight hours after calving. In the case of a dead or weakly calf about a quart may be milked four times in twenty-four hours.

And, this is the whole secret. To many it may seem unnatural, but a heavy milking cow is an unnatural animal. And is it natural to take from a cow just calved what the calf would not take until a month old? The strain on the system in replenishing the milk supply is, I think, the sole cause of milk fever, together with the neglected state of the bowels.—John Gilbert in Maine Farmer.

Using the Milk Test.

The Babcock test should be used on every farm where cows are kept. The milk of each cow should be weighed and recorded morning and night.

At least one composite sample of milk should be taken and tested every month the cow is in milk. Skim milk and buttermilk should be tested frequently.

The Babcock test and scales for weighing milk enable a farmer to place the management of his herd on a business basis. It reduces the business to a system. Lack of system drives the boys from the farm.—I. C. Weld, New Hampshire Experiment Station.

A Carriage In an "Easter Egg."

The Easter week is the chief occasion for Russian family and friendly reunion and rejoicing. What Christmas boxes are to us or les strennes to the French on New Year's day, Easter gifts are to the Russians. Egg shaped presents of every imaginable size and value are the order of the day. Sometimes these Easter gifts assume very substantial proportions. We once saw at St. Petersburg an Easter egg of gigantic dimensions, containing nothing smaller than a brougham destined for a charming and no doubt delighted recipient.—London Saturday Review.

THE PATRIOT.

His eyes ashine with ancient memories,
His blood aglow with subtle racial fire,
For him are quenched the stirrings of desire,
The pageant of the world has ceased to please;
Hushed are the evening songs, the lutes of ease;
In the war flame, that old ancestral pyre,
He casts his hopes of home, wife, child or sire;
Instinct of race, a passion more than these.
The spirit of his country, holds him thrall;
In him forgotten heroes, forbears, rise,
Strengthening his heart to common sacrifice;
Out of the darkness generations call.
And martyr hosts that unrecorded fall
Salute him from the void with joyful cries.

FENCE AT STONEHENGE.

Attorney-General Takes Up People's Fight Against Owners.

The right of the owner of Stonehenge, the best preserved Druidical ruin in England, to keep a barbed wire fence around the ancient stones is being contested in court through a suit brought by the Attorney-General.

Sir Edmund Antrobus made himself unpopular in Amesbury, near which the ruins lie, when he erected the fence several years ago, thereby preventing the use of the paths across the common by the villagers. The fence has been destroyed several times. Now the Attorney-General asks an injunction compelling Sir Edmund to remove the fence.

The Druidical remains were undoubtedly erected many centuries before the Christian era, and, indeed, some antiquaries say they dated about 1,600 years before Christ.

They were visited from the earliest times for the purpose of public worship, and the holding of meetings, and it was said that probably they marked the burial places of kings and great warriors.

It is contended that the roads leading to the Druidical temple are highways, and the public, therefore, had the right to use them, as they had used them without interruption until 1901.

Sir Edmund Antrobus' defence is that the approach roads were simply private ways, and were the property of the lord of the manor. They could not be described as highways, because they only led to the ancient temple, and nowhere else.

Tibet and Queen Victoria.

Quaint information concerning Tibet was plentiful in the lecture by Perceval Landon at the British Academy recently. Perhaps the most extraordinary notion existing in Tibet is that a Tibetan goddess had come to life again in Queen Victoria.

Mr. Landon showed a picture of this goddess, and stated that a Tibetan had pointed out to him that the country was not invaded during the late Queen's reign. Within two years of her death, however, the expedition took place.

Colonel Younghusband had an interview with one of the Tibetan abbes which illustrates the complete self-satisfaction of the people. The abbe was shown a gramophone and other examples of the most recent efforts of European and American science, but he evinced no surprise.

The abbe declared that the earth was shaped like a leg of mutton and that Tibet occupied more than half its entire area.

New Earl of Morley.

The new Earl of Morley, who has just been raised to the House of Lords through the death of his father, spent some time in America as Lord Boringdon, and narrowly escaped being blown up while traveling on the Pacific. While returning from Norfolk Island to Sydney, in Australia, the ship, the Avalon, caught fire, and the captain decided to run for Lord Howe Island, which was about a hundred miles off. When within a couple of miles of the shore all on board were compelled to take to the boats, and before they had got more than 500 yards away there was a terrific explosion, the ship immediately disappearing beneath the waves in a column of flame and smoke. Lord Morley, who thus miraculously escaped death, is unmarried, and the heir to his earldom and to his estates in Derbyshire is his second brother, the Hon. Montagu Parker of the Grenadier Guards, who was badly wounded in the South African war.

Two Born Financiers.

Two budding financiers have been unearthed by the police These worthies, aged twelve and fourteen, have in a single day made 9,000 per cent. on the capital of a penny. Obtaining entrance with this sum to a lavatory, No. 1 removed his nether garments. These were pawned by No. 2 for 60 cents. With the capital thus brought into the business he bought a watch on the installment system. A loan of $2.50 was now floated with the aid of the watch at a second pawnbroker's. He returned to pawnbroker A and took "out" the trousers, which were then resumed by No. 1, and the two divided between them the $2 minus working expenses, friction on boot leather, etc. Allowing for Sundays and short holidays for the directors on the Riviera, the company's annual profits at this rate would be nearly 2,000,000 per cent.—London Globe.

A Tough Mule.

A correspondent who was with Col. Younghusband's mission to Tibet tells a mule story: "Mules apparently do not die from any cause. When the mission first crossed the Jelapla a mule slipped in the dusk and fell into the lake at the bottom of the pass. It was thought to be drowned. Next morning a convoy found it with its nose just above the ice, the rest of the body literally frozen in. Pickaxes were brought and the animal was dug out. It is now working as usual."

Old Felt Hats.

In the course of a case at Lambett County court, London, it was in evidence that old hard felt hats, which were valueless up to a few months ago, could now be sold for $35 a ton, and the market was rising. The hats are burned to get the shellac, which is worth 50 cents a pound.

A Chicken That "Played Possum."

Here is a chicken that "played possum." A correspondent writes: "The cat of our household entered my room the other day, dragging a nearly full grown chicken in its mouth. The chicken made no resistance and was quite motionless, and when I made the cat drop it the chicken lay apparently dead. I chased the cat from the room, and on my return to the chicken I was surprised to see it slowly open its eyes, raise its head and look cautiously round. As soon as it felt sure of the disappearance of its enemy it got up and ran off as fast as it could."

CURIOUS SCRAPS.

The Genesis of "Pussy"—Brought to Book—Etymology of "Miniature"—A Barb For a Barber.

Pussy's pet designation descends to her from the ancient Egyptians, with whom she was an object of reverence; they compared her with the moon, and to embody their quaint idea of the resemblance, they made a grotesque human figure with a cat's head, which they worshipped under the name of "Pasht" (their term for Luna). From that, through the stages of "Pas" and "Pos," has developed the common catcall of "Puss" and "Pussy."

Brought to Book.

A common way to express disfavor of a person is to say of him that he is in one's "black books." This phrase originated in the time of the butcher-king, Henry VIII., when the "scandalous proceedings in the English monasteries" were collected and compiled in books with black bindings, which hence were called "Black books," as other State books are called "Blue books," "White books," and so on, according to their color outside.

Etymology of "Miniature."

He who talked of life-sized miniatures would probably be thought a humorist. And yet, strictly speaking, a large picture would be more correctly described as a "miniature" than a small one, provided the former were executed in red lead, and the later in the ordinary way with various pigments; for we get the word, not from minimus (very small), but from minium (red oxide of lead). And this is how it originated: In the early centuries of the Christian era, before engraving and printing were thought of, an order of Franciscan Friars drew the initial letters of their handwritten rubrico with minium, and consequently called them miniatori. But as they generally introduced the (necessarily minute) heads of saints into the drawings, the word gradually came to signify small portraits, irrespective of the material employed in their production, and from that beginning the meaning of the term—Anglicised to miniatures—has extended to the inclusion of anything on a very reduced scale.

A Barb For a Barber.

Here is a 17th century epigram on a boastful young shaver:—

He lives by shaving, and by cutting hairs,
And yet he brags that to him kings sit bare;
But surely he forgets—this worthy cit—
That he must stand to beggars, while they sit.

London, 1663.

Almost Incredible.

From The Irish Times, of Saturday, May 18, 1861:—"Case of Hydrophobia —Melancholy Occurrence.—A fatal case of hydrophobia is reported from the neighborhood of Newport, County Tipperary, the victim being a fine young woman, the daughter of a farmer of that locality. It appears that while engaged in some outdoor employment, a neighbor's dog attacked her and bit her in the hand, and she soon evinced symptoms of the consequence. Hydrophobia in its most fearful aspect set in, and she became hopelessly mad that it was found necessary to terminate her sufferings by smothering her between two beds. The dog was subsequently shot." It seems hardly possible that such an event should have happened—apparently as a matter of course—in the British Isles less than half a century ago.

A Suffolk Asseveration.

In Suffolk a person repudiating an allegation of having done an act of which he (or she) would be ashamed emphasizes the denial with "I'd as soon think of wearing a leather apron as do such a thing!" The explanation of the phrase lies in the popular legend that the Saviour's Cross was carried by a farrier, who had the nails of the crucifixion stuck in the leather apron he was wearing.

One Foot in the Grave.

When the Marquis of Anglesey's leg, which was shot off in the battle of Waterloo, was buried, some irreverent creature set up over the grave, by way of epitaph, the quatrain:—

Here rests—and let no saucy knave
Presume to sneer or laugh
To learn that mouldering in the grave
Is laid—a British calf.

Saluting a Cat.

Years ago a high-placed British official having died in Government House, Papoorie, near Poona, the news was being communicated to the Sepoy on sentry duty at the main entrance when, just at the instant, a black cat bolted out through the gateway. The sentry promptly presented arms to the animal, in the belief that it was the released spirit of the great English sahib, and for long afterwards no orders to the contrary could prevent the native soldiers on duty at that house presenting arms to every black cat that approached them.

A Queer Old Advertisement.

From The London Daily Advertiser, February 11, 1762:—"To be disposed of, a Negro Boy of 12 years old, extremely well made, good natured, sensible, and handy. He speaks English well, and has had the Small Pox. Enquire at Mr. Taylor's, a Barber's shop, in Hart street, Covent-garden."

Extraordinary Royal Mortuary Proceedings.

When Louis IX. died at Carthage, in 1270, his body was first boiled in wine and water, and then shipped to Sicily, where the flesh and viscera were removed, and deposited in the Benedictine Abbey of Monreale, near Palermo. The heart and bones were then taken to Paris, and there, on March 20th, 1271, the bones were cremated, and the ashes temporarily deposited in the Cathedral of Notre Dame, whence they were afterwards transferred to the Benedictine Abbey of St. Denis. What ultimately became of the heart is not known.

Dorsetshire Moonshine.

An old Dorsetshire superstition has it that—

If a Saturday's moon
Comes once in seven years,
It comes once too soon.

In the Good Old Times.

From The London Daily Post, August 2nd, 1718:—"Mrs. Mary Hicks and her daughter Elizabeth, but nine years of age, who were condemned at the last assizes held at Huntingdon, for witchcraft, were there executed last Saturday, July 28th."

No Genius Wanted.

"Really, I think your son is a genius."

"Oh, don't say that! We have been hoping all along that he may grow up to be a good, sensible man and finally succeed his father in business."

Not the Only One.

Tomkins—I don't object so much to Fanny kissing her dog, but I prefer her to kiss me before and not after.

Wilkins—I know, but don't you suppose the dog has his preference too?

"ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" FLOUR

Gives Stomach Less Work and Body More Strength.

No flour in the world is so nourishing, so vitalizing, so rich in all the elements of body, bone and brain building as pure, well balanced, white flour.

Bran in bread is just so much wood fibre—so much extra wor for the stomach—ther is no nourishment in it for man. Cattle digest it and get nourishment from it because nature has given them a fermenting plant and double chewing facilities.

But man masticates once and digests once. For that reason he gets nothing whatever out of anything but the gluten portion of wheat—the inside of the grain—the part which yields "protein." And he gets more out of Royal Household Flour because more of the branny and waste portions are removed in making it than from any other flour.

The Royal Household Mills eliminate more bran and shorts than any other mill—therefore Royal Household Flour is the most nourishing flour in the world.

A WEDDING ROMANCE.

Soldiers Stood Guard Till Canadian Girl Was Wedded.

'Tis an old adage that the course of true love never did run smooth, and further proof of the truth of the proverb is now brought to light by the story of the rather romantic circumstances attending the marriage of Bolivia's only English-speaking merchant and a Canadian girl, graduate of McMaster University in 1900, and a former Baptist missionary to the South American republic.

The couple are Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Thompson of La Paz, Bolivia, and today they are at the King Edward Hotel, says the Toronto Star of the 9th June. Mrs. Thompson is a native of Harlem, a little place near the Rideau Lakes, and, after graduating from the Baptist College here, she went as a missionary to Bolivia, some few years ago. Then she was Miss Gile. There she met Mr. Thompson, and—as he rather humorously puts it—he married her because it was a case of Hobson's choice. She was the only English-speaking unmarried woman in the country. But Mr. Thompson hastened to add that he was not at all sorry that the range of his choice was limited.

A civil marriage is against the law of Bolivia, and, as the couple did not wish to be married according to the rites of the Roman Catholic Church, the possibility of their being united in Bolivia was out of the question. But faint heart never won fair lady, and Mr. Thompson and his intended bride took a two days' journey by coach to the border line of Peru. They crossed the line and entered a little Indian village. Peru had recently passed a law allowing civil marriages, but the Mayor, or alcalde, was evidently unaware of the fact, for when Mr. Thompson went to him and made his request, the head of the village had doubts and fears. The news got out, and great excitement was caused among the priests and the populace.

Then the would-be groom played a strong card. He produced a letter that he had previously procured from the President of Peru, giving the eminent gentleman's approval of the wedding. This had considerable influence with the Mayor, and he began to look up the statute books. He wanted to be sure of his ground, and therefore he consulted with the two judges of the town. The conclusion of their weighty deliberations was that the Mayor consented to perform the ceremony, even at the risk of offending the priests.

In the evening the preparations were duly made for the wedding. The people were wildly excited, and filled the streets about the Mayor's house, shouting and clamoring. A guard of soldiers was drawn up in close formation about the residence to prevent any violence, the house was barricaded, and the marriage ceremony, short and simple, but effective, was performed by the Mayor according to the law of Peru. It seemed more like a romantic affair of the days of old rather than a twentieth century ceremony.

There was no riot in the streets, although the excitement was at high-water mark for some time, and the newly-married couple left the next morning on their return journey.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson have been visiting for the past month at her old home at the Rideau Lakes, and just now she is renewing old college acquaintances in Toronto. They will return to Bolivia shortly.

Mr. Thompson states that there are seven McMaster graduates now doing missionary work in Bolivia, but the law there prevents them from having a Protestant church on a public street. They have to invite people to their homes and hold their services there. The missionaries are allowed to teach no religion in their schools. Thought is widening, however, even in Bolivia, says Mr. Thompson, and they expect that at the next session of Congress a law will be passed giving freedom of worship to the Protestants.

Millions For Automobiles.

The proportions reached by the automobile industry in France, its first and still its special home, are shown by the manufacture of 22,000 (estimated) machines in that country during 1904, at a total value of $34,000,000 in 1898 the number manufactured in France was only 1,850, and their value $1,602,000.

Gladstone and Disraeli.

An odd scene in the house of commons between Disraeli and his great opponent, Gladstone, is recorded in the diary of Sir M. E. Grant Duff, who relates the story as he heard it:

Gladstone was orationing away as to Disraeli's proceedings and said, "This, sir—this has been the course of the right honorable gentleman and his satellites." He appeared then quite to lose the thread of what he had been saying. He looked at some papers and then seemed to appeal to Goschen, but for a time he was quite lost.

Disraeli looked over a great paper he had in his hand and said very quietly, "You got to satellites," as if he were speaking to a child who was saying his lesson.

At last Gladstone appeared to recover himself and said:

"Oh! I am very much obliged to the right honorable gentleman. We will leave the satellites and go on to something else."

A Coming Revolt.

Some day there is going to be a terrible revolt in this country against the boiled shirt. We are not going to wear boards on our bosoms surmounted by picket fences when the laundryman feels cross and cuts a saw edge on our collars. American manhood is going to rise in its might some day and carefully drop the starch shirt over into the next lot where the tin cans are. Today we haven't the nerve to do it. We are under the domination of social and commercial propriety to such an extent that we do not dare to arise and proclaim our freedom in the name of liberty of person and freedom of conscience. Some day we will wear soft shirts and flowing collars, and the man who wears a starched board on his bosom and a sheet iron ring around his neck will be known for the conceited and artificial ass that he really is.

Regularity of Habits.

Very few persons understand the value of regularity of habits. Meals and sleeping hours should be fixed ones, for only harm can result from retiring one night at 10 and another at 12 o'clock unless the rising hour varies too. Eight hours of sleep one night and six the next is not the way in which to woo and keep health and if a similar habit of taking nourishment is encouraged there is little hope of reaching old age in a creditable condition. If ever you are tempted to prove or disprove these statements, try going to bed at 9 o'clock every night for three months, rising at 5 and eating at 6, 12 and at 6 again, with never a break in the routine. The result will surprise you.

MEDICINE HAT, N. W. T.

THIS MUSICIAN IS DELIGHTED

HIS KIDNEY DISEASE AND GRAVEL CURED BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Tried Many Medicines but Got No Relief Till He Used the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Rosedene, Ont., July 17.—(Special).—Mr. Samuel J. Crow, the well-known musician of this place, relates an experience that adds to the already great popularity of Dodd's Kidney Pills in this locality.

"I suffered for years with Kidney Trouble," says Mr. Crow, "which became aggravated with every attack of cold and caused me much agony. The disease developed into Gravel, when I was totally unfit for anything.

"I tried different remedies without the desired result and was in much misery when I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, when to my astonishment and delight I immediately began to recover.

"After using five boxes the ailment had entirely ceased and I was again enjoying perfect vigor, all of which I owe to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

The fact that Gravel yields so readily to Dodd's Kidney Pills is good news indeed, as it does away with those terrible operations that were supposed to be the only relief from this trouble.

"During one of my trips through Europe," says Charles Hawtrey, "I found myself in a small village with no razors. They had been packed in my handbag, which I had left at the hotel the day before. There was no barber shop in the place, and I was in a quandary as to how I might get shaved. The innkeeper told me there was a man in the village who occasionally shaved people, and I determined to risk a cut or two and send for him. The amateur barber arrived, and after a little hesitation he said to me: "Will you please, sir, lie down flat on your back while I shave you, sir?" "Thinking that it was probably the custom of the country, I stretched out comfortably on my back and nearly went to sleep while the fellow shaved me, so light was his touch. When he had finished I said: —"I am curious to know why you asked me to lie down to be shaved?" "Because, sir,' was his ingenuous reply, 'I never before shave a live man.'"

Mild in Their Action.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are very mild in their action. They do not cause griping in the stomach or cause disturbances there as so many pills do. Therefore, the most delicate can take them without fear of unpleasant resuls. They can, too, be administered to children without imposing the penalties which follow the use of pills not so carefully prepared.

A conductor on one of the Kansas City cars received a surprise recently, according to The Times of that city. He helped a woman on at a downtown corner, and was about to signal to go ahead, when she called: "Wait a minute, please conductor!" The man in the uniform hesitated. The woman was in front of one of the mirrors in the sides of the car "fixing" her hair. Just as he was about to reach for the bell cord again, she came toward the back platform. "Let me off, please," she said. "I just wanted to put my hair up a little better." Then she stepped from the car smiling sweetly.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. HOW THE KING READS PAPERS.

Has Resort to Press Cutting Agencies For Assistance.

King Edward always tries to make certain of never missing seeing anything in the papers which he thinks he ought to see, either about himself or about any of the numerous objects and movements in which he is interested, such as different charities, the visits to him of his foreign friends and so forth.

Since it would be difficult for either him or his secretaries to make a sufficiently close examination of the whole of all the papers every day to insure this being done with any degree of thoroughness, His Majesty many years ago resorted to press cutting agencies for assistance. He subscribes to two of them, and they send him in the usual way each day every line of printed matter that has appeared in any paper concerning him, each paragraph or article being pasted upon a separate sheet of paper, with the name of the journal from which it was taken and the date of publication.

All these cuttings are glanced through by his secretaries, the less important weeded out, and those which it is considered His Majesty ought to see are duly shown to him. The King keeps many large cutting albums and whenever he desires to preserve any of these extracts orders are given for them to be pasted up in one of them.

In this way it is practically certain that everything that is written and printed about the King duly finds its way to one of the Royal palaces, and there has been on at least one occasion an instance of the King very effectively expressing his opinion concerning one item. His Majesty does not in the least mind the personal paragraphs that are printed about his doings, habits and so forth, realizing that the public curiosity in regard to these matters is great and that it has some claim to be satisfied; but it is an instance of his keen scrutiny of the papers that on one occasion two or three years ago, when a paragraph was going the round of the daily papers which he did not consider likely to be in the best of taste, he forthwith caused a request to sent round to the offices that in future they would refrain from the publication of such matters.

Down In a Diving Bell.

The writer of a most interesting article on the building of Dover Harbor, in the Pall Mall Magazine, describes his experiences in a diving bell.

"Putting on a pair of stockings, leggings, and heavy boots," he says, "I jumped on to the seat when the huge bell—it weighed 40 tons and was as large as a good-sized room—was swung up by the powerful crane over the staging, and gradually we were lowered into the sea. The sensation at first was very strange. As we entered the water, which was driven out of the bell by compressed air, there was a distinct buzzing sound in the ears and head. I was told to hold my nose and blow through it, and, needless to say, I did so. Slowly we descended, and at last reached the bottom, some 50 feet below the surface.

"The bell in question was seventeen feet long and ten feet wide. There were six of us in it. It was lighted by electricity, and was almost as bright as day. We first landed on a bed which the divers had previously levelled. The moment the bell touched the ground there was, perhaps, about two feet of water in it. This was quickly driven out by the compressed air, when we walked on comparatively dry ground with the sea all around us. The man in charge is able to move the bell when he desires by sending signals up to the man in charge of the great crane to which the bell is attached.

"After inspecting the smooth bed on which the bottom blocks are laid, we went out to sea, and, landing on the bottom again, obtained some idea of the difficulties of digging a foundation on the floor of the ocean, which was hard and rocky. Four men work in a bell under a pressure of twenty-seven pounds to the square inch for three hours at a time, digging up the ground until it is perfectly smooth and level. The material is thrown into a large wooden box, swung in the centre of the bell.

"Taking our seats, we started for the surface. I could not help thinking how much we owed to the man sitting next to me. The engineer above promptly and faithfully responded to all his signals, whether for air or for direction as to traveling. While under water one has a feeling of utter isolation, besides a buzzing sensation in the head. Speaking, too, is somewhat difficult."

Intermarriages Out of Date.

Signs of the times should be observed, and the democratic trend of twentieth century life is plainly proved by the marriages of the English aristocracy. A witty woman was heard to say: "They still marry, but they no longer make alliances." This means that they do not only choose their wives from an exclusive circle of cousins and family connections—in a word, intermarriages are out of date. The Duchesses of Beaufort, Portland, and Hamilton, belong to county families; the Duchess of Somerset is a Scotchwoman; the Duchess of Bedford was Miss Tribe, the daughter of a clergyman; the Duchess of Newcastle was Miss Candy; the Duchess of Westminster was Miss Cornwallis West; and the Duchess of Roxburghe, the Duchess of Marlborough and the two Duchesses of Manchester are Americans. There are, of course, exceptions to this democratic rule, even among the younger wearers of strawberry leaves. For example, the Duchess of Leeds, the Duchess of Sutherland, and the Duchess of Norfolk.

Gold Railroad Passes.

It is nice to have a gold pass attached to your watch chain which frunks you first class over the railways of a continent and sends every ticket collector's hand to his cap. Such is the happy lot of Australian ministers and ex-ministers, but the "deadheads" are now so many that the question of restricting the issue of passes has been engaging the Premiers' conference at Hobart. The loss of railway revenue runs into many thousands of pounds. In Victoria alone there are eighty ex-ministers with free passes. One has had his pass since 1857. He must be the record "deadhead" of the world.—London Chronicle.

Plants As Supply Stores.

There are few plants that have not been utilized one way or another by mankind for food, paper, drugs or other purpose. Amongst many not so well known may be mentioned the Japanese wax tree, bearing bunches of fruit growing like grapes, which contain a species of wax used in making candles.

Another tree, found in the Pacific Islands, and known as the candle-nut yields a large quantity of oil, while the kernels are strung together on a stick and lighted as a candle. The fruit of the candle tree is between three and four feet in length, about an inch in diameter, and of a yellowish color. As

REQUIRED HELP TO MOVE IN BED

Was a Great Sufferer and Almost in Despair—New Hope and Strength Came With the Use of

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

This great food cure is doing wonders for weak, worn-out and discouraged women.

Many medicines which are prescribed in such cases are merely stimulants which give temporary relief and arouse false hope.

Because Dr. Chase's Nerve Food actually forms new, rich blood and increases the vitality of the body, its benefits are thorough and lasting and its cures permanent.

Mrs. M. A. Clock, Meaford, Ont., writes:—"Three years ago I became very much run down in health and suffered from weak, tired feelings, indigestion and rheumatism. At times I was so badly used up that I required help to move in bed. While sick and downhearted I received Dr. Chase's Almanac, and sent for some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

"Under this treatment I soon began to improve, and by the time I had used eleven boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was happy to find myself strong and well again. I often think of what a lot of money I spent for medicines which did me no good, and believe I owe my life to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I hope women who suffer as I did will benefit by my experience and use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

ST. KILDA ISLAND.

The Natives Have Colds Only When Visited by Foreigners.

There are many places where it is impossible to catch cold because there is no cold to catch. There is St. Kilda, that lonely rocky island which was visited by Dr. Johnson when he and Boswell were making their famous tour of the Hebrides. There are about a hundred inhabitants on the island. The coasts are so precipitous that for eight months in the year it is practically inaccessible. Several vessels from the mainland call there during the summer. And, strange to say, whenever a ship reaches the island from the mainland every inhabitant, even to the infants, is seized with a cold. This fact has been known for more than 200 years and was of great interest to Dr. Johnson, who was skeptical concerning it.

The question of this St. Kilda cold long puzzled men, who never dreamed that it was an infectious disease and that without the possibility of infection it is impossible to catch it, no matter what the exposure may be. That is to say, it is due to a micro organism, and without the presence of this micro organism the disease cannot be contracted.

RED AND GRAY SQUIRRELS.

The Males of Both Species Are Incorrigible Fighters.

A very quarrelsome disposition has the chickaree, or American red squirrel, and there are continual fights between it and its cousin the gray squirrel. These fights seldom end in a decided victory for either side. The males of both species are incorrigible fighters. It is no unusual sight to see a couple of red or gray squirrels come tumbling from some lofty limb so locked in each other's embrace as to appear almost like one animal.

Though the shock of striking the ground separates them, it is for a moment only. They immediately clinch again and continue to roll over and over, fighting fiercely until one breaks away, only to be followed by the other, who keeps up a running fight for some distance until he feels certain that he has so punished the conquered one that he will not dare return.

Red squirrels by their greater agility and quickness can worst a gray squirrel every time in a running fight, but let them once come to a clinch and the superior size and weight of the gray squirrel are bound to tell.

Before tea became cheap enough to be considered a drink it was largely used as a medicine. Speaking of the tribulations of the cross-examiner, Henry Wollman cites this experience: "In the progress of a murder trial near Kansas City he was wished to learn from a witness just where the bullet struck the victim. "Where was this man shot?" was asked. "Right here in this town," replied the witness. "Yes, I know, but where did the bullet hit him?" "Near Sixth and Wyoming streets." "You don't understand me. Where did the bullet enter?" "It came in at the window." "But in what part of the body did it lodge?" "It never hit his body." "Well, it certainly hit him somewhere—he is dead." come back from his funeral. It was a very sad affair." Mr, La Shelle expressed his sincerest sympathy. The actor's grief was obviously very real and very great. "A thing like this a man doesn't get over soon," he went on. "I attended to all the funeral arrangements. I did the best I could. We had everything just as father would have liked it." "Many there!" cried the actor, changing from grief to animation. "Why my boy, we turned 'em away."

"Oh!" cried Mrs. Nagget during their quarrel, "you may sneer at us women and call us hypocrites, but we never use religion as a cloak, so there!" "Certainly not," replied Mr. Nagget, "religion isn't fashionable enough."

WILL HAULTAIN BE CALLED?

The announcement of the appointing of His Honor Lieut.-Governor Forget to the chair in the new province of Saskatchewan creates a most peculiar state of affairs.

It has all along been generally admitted that F. W. G. Haultain would not be called in either of the provinces, and in fact the Northwest premier has practically stated that he does not expect a call.

Therefore on September first the situation will be this: Up to midnight on August 31, Mr. Haultain is the trusted adviser of Lieut.-Governor Forget and that gentleman has apparently no cause for turning him down or losing confidence.

As soon as the day's work is commenced on September first a call must be issued for someone to form a new government for the province.

If Mr. Haultain is called it will show that the governor still has faith in his advice, and is willing to accept it until the people decide at the polls who shall be premier.

If Mr. Scott is called it will show that between midnight on August 31 and the time of calling the minister His Honor will have had a sudden change of mind.

If this sudden change of mind should be a reality and Mr. Scott be called, the faith of the people of the west in that good old British principal, of the King or his representative having no interest in politics will be shattered to the winds.

Will His Honor dare to create such a situation? No matter which of the two men is called the other may be returned at the polls, but it would certainly be contrary to all usage known to parliaments within the British Empire to call anyone other than Mr. Haultain, unless His Honor is willing to take upon himself the responsibility for a quick change of mind.

To a new Lieutenant Governor the situation would be less difficult, Mr Haultain is Lieutenant Governor Forget's chief adviser. So far as His Honor can possibly judge, Mr. Haultain retains the confidence of the people, and according to all precedent, he is entitled to be called. Nevertheless His Honor's dilemma is that if he retain his present Premier his own usefulness to a political party may be gone. Verily the crown is liable to be dragged in the mire of party madness.—Regina Standard.

TRIP THROUGH THE WEST

After the Northern League season is over the Maroons will take an extended trip through the Northwest, playing at all the principal points between here and Calgary. It was the Club of the latter town that first broached the project, and as various clubs communicated with have gladly agreed to put up a substantial guarantee, it is likely the boys will make the trip. Edmonton will also likely be visited, as well as Portage, Carberry, Brandon, Virden, Moosomin, Regina, Moose Jaw, and other intermediate points.—Free Press.

RIFLE ASSOCIATION.

Minutes of a special meeting of the Medicine Hat Rifle Association, held in Mr. Fleager's house, on the 22nd August at 8.30 p.m. Present: Capt Fleager, in the chair, Messrs D. T. Flavin, R. E. Walton, H. K. Oakes, J. D. Everard, D. G. Proby, J. Plumley and G. B. Borradaile, who acted as secretary. Major Sissons, Sergt. Pingle and Sergt. Krauss of the Canadian Mounted Rifles were also present by invitation.

Capt. Fleager explained that having been asked by Major Sissons whether the M. H. Rifle Association would not be willing to hold their next annual Rifle Meeting jointly with the C. M. R., he had called this meeting to ascertain whether this suggestion could not be accomplished After a thorough discussion it was moved by R. E. Walton and seconded by D. T. Flavin, that in as much that Major Sissons had undertaken to see that C.M.R. would defray half the expenses incurred in holding such a shoot, it be resolved that under these conditions the next annual prize shoot (1905) of the Medicine Hat Rifle Association be held jointly with the C.M.R. Further it be understood that all members of the C. M.R. are to be eligible to compete for any trophies at present held by the Medicine Hat Rifle Association. Carried.

Moved by D. T. Flavin seconded by H. K. Oakes, that Sergt. F. Pingle, (C.M.R.), be appointed assistant secretary to Mr. R. D. Legh, sec'y M. H. Rifle Association, and that both secretaries be allowed to shoot in all open events, other than team and extra matches free of entry fees. Carried.

Moved by R. E. Walton seconded by D. T. Flavin that the fifth annual matches of the M. H. Rifle Association and C.M.R. be held on the R. N.W.M.P. Rifle Range on the 14, 15, and 16th days of September next, and that the Secretary of the M. H. Rifle Association immediately apply to Commissioner A. B. Perry, requesting permission to be allowed to use Rifle Range for that purpose. Carried.

Moved by J. D. Everard seconded by Sergt. Pingle, that a prize committee consisting of Major Sissons, Capt. Reid, G. B. Borradaile, and D. T. Flavin be appointed to solicit subscriptions, prizes etc., and further that the above named gentlemen, with Messrs Fleager, Plumley and secretaries Legh and Pingle be a committee to draw up prize list and have same printed etc. Further that Mr. Plumley and Capt. Reid be authorized to arrange for the necessary markers and to see that all targets, discs etc., are in good working order. Further, that Mr. Proby be range officer, and that all ammunition be included in the entry fees to each event. Carried.

It was unanimously decided that the Association donate a good prize for the ladies march and that the lady friends of the Medicine Hat Rifle Association and Canadian Mounted Rifles be thanked for the very generous assistance already rendered and further that they be asked to assist in making the coming prize shoot a success.

Broken Sleep.-Tired Next Morning.

Sleep not only rests but builds up the body. Cut down the hours of sleep, and you cut down health in the same proportion. Rebuilding then comes, nerves go to smash, you grow tired, weak and wretched.

To restore sleep you must get more bodily strength, more nutritious blood to the nerves. Ferrozone solves the whole problem, makes you sleep soundly, gives endurance, vim, ambition. No more morning weakness—instead the fire of youth will run in your veins, supplying abundance of energy and vigor. Witchery expresses the instant effect of Ferrozone. Try it.

WATCH THE HEAVENS.

To those who appreciate the great phenomena of nature, August 30th will be an eventful day. It is then that for a few minutes the moon will obscure the light of the sun, and there will occur a total eclipse, when darkness will cover the earth. Only the early risers will witness this spectacle for it is just as the sun rises above the horizon that it will appear, a great black ball fringed with the light of the sun's corona. The sun on that morning will rise at 5.40, while the attendant luminary orb will appear at 5.38 at the same place on the eastern horizon.

Why Do Women Suffer.

Such pain and endure the torture of nervous headache when 25c. buys a sure cure like Nerviline. A few drops in sweetened water brings instant relief. You feel better at once, you're braced up, invigorated headache goes away after one dose. The occasional use of Nerviline prevents indigestion and stomach disorders—keeps up health and strength Every woman needs Nerviline and should use it too. In 25c. bottles everywhere.

Mr. Porter L. Evans representing the Chicago Inter Ocean, Minneapolis Journal, Indianapolis News and the Des Moines capital was in town last week and interviewed the Board of Trade and members of the Town Council with regard to the advertising of Medicine Hat in American Newspapers. The idea is to advertise in papers aggregating a circulation of 350 thousand.

PLATFORM OF THE ALBERTA CONSERVATIVE ASSOCIATION.

THIS IS THE FULL PLATFORM ADOPTED BY THE RED DEER CONVENTION.

1. AGRICULTURE. Inasmuch as agriculture is the principal basis of wealth, the Conservative Party of Alberta will assist in every way the development of farming and ranching by the improvement of methods the dissemination of information, the establishment of agricultural colleges experimental farms, farmers institutes and otherwise, and will give careful attention to dairying and the improvement of live stock.

2. INTERNAL IMPROVEMENTS. Good roads and bridges are essential to the development of this country, and to the success of the settlers, and it will be the duty of the government to make generous expenditure in this direction in co-operation with the local improvement districts.

3. EDUCATION. This convention protests against those provisions of the Act creating the province of Alberta, which seek to limit the control of the province over the subject of education and thereby forever preclude the possibility of establishing a national common school system, and characterizes the same as a flagrant and unwarranted interference with and usurpation of the rights of the province under the constitution. This convention declares for such action as will result in the earliest possible reference of those provisions to the Judicial committee of the Imperial Privy Council with a view to procuring from the court of last resort in the British empire a decision as to whether they are or are not constitutional and within the power of the Dominion Parliament to enact.

4. SQUARE DEAL IN LANDS. This convention declares that the people of Alberta, to the same extent and in the same manner as the people of the other provinces are entitled to the lands, mines, minerals, forests and other natural resources within its area, and to enjoy the full benefits thereof as well as to administer the same for the advantage of its people; and emphatically protests against our natural resources being unjustly withheld to be exploited by any political party at Ottawa. This convention urges that constant and continued application to and negotiation with the Dominion Government be made for the surrender to the province of the public domain within its boundaries, of which it is now so unfairly and unjustly deprived. This convention further declares that the province is entitled to compensation for lands within its area heretofore alienated for purely federal purposes.

5. TO REMOVE C.P.R. EXEMPTION. This convention declares that the right which the C. P. Railway company enjoys to hold its lands exempt from taxation was a consideration given by the Dominion of Canada in its contract with the company and is an obligation of the whole of Canada which should not be saddled alone on the western provinces, and it is the duty of the Dominion Government to so adjust this right with the company that such exemption may be removed and said lands become liable to taxation and that this view should be constantly pressed upon the Dominion Government by the provincial authorities until this end is accomplished.

6. PUBLIC UTILITIES. This convention declares for the public owner ship of public utilities.

7. DEFENDERS OF THE EMPIRE. This convention believes that those citizens of Alberta, including the members of the Royal North West Mounted Police who have fought in defense of the empire, either at home or abroad, should receive recognition of their valor and patriotism by land grant, scrip or other substantial reward.

8. HUDSON'S BAY RAILWAY. This convention is of the opinion that the province of Alberta, in co-operation with the provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, should construct without delay a railway to Hudson's Bay.

9. HIGHER EDUCATION. This convention pledges itself to the establishment of a provincial university with practical departents designed for the benefit of the masses.

10. AGAINST MACHINE RULE. This convention expresses its disapproval of Dominion or Provincial officials taking any part in politics whatever, beyond recording their votes.

11. CAPITAL LOCATION. Whereas the question of the location of the capital is one entirely outside the realm of party politics, and is one exclusively for the legislative assembly hereafter constituted, resolved that full liberty be accorded to every member thereof to vote on this question in the best interests of his constituency.

GROS VENTRE NOTES.

Mr. T. Lait's residence was the scene of a social gathering a short time ago, when Mr. and Mrs. Lait treated a few of their neighbors and friends to a pleasant evening. Messrs Markel and Shortk furnished music of a high order. The rooms were decorated in a most tasteful manner with flowers and shrubs. The evening was spent in games and dancing. About 12 o'clock a dainty lunch was served after which the sport was again entered into with renewed vigor. The entertainment was brought to a close at a seasonable hour by all joining heartily in singing God Save The King, after which the guests wended their way home voting Tom and his good lady royal entertainers.

Our farmers are busy harvesting and threshing the best crop they have had for years. Some have up-to-date methods, but a great many of them are doing it in an inexpensive and primitive way. They cut the grain with a mower, coil it up for a few days, then draw it to a place where the ground has been prepared for a threshing floor, old style.

The grain is placed in a circle and all the available horses started tramping around on it. A stranger driving through this part on a fine day would be apt to imagine that the farmers were all in the merry-go-round business. After the threshing is done the grain is cleaned by throwing it up in the wind. The whole family turn out and as there is no shirking allowed it makes quite a busy scene.

J. R. Clarke Reported Injured In Vancouver.

The many friends of Mr. J. R. Clarke, who with his family moved to Vancouver last spring, were sorry to hear a rumour last week, that Mr. Clarke, had met with a very serious accident. The report stated that he had been crushed between two electric cars and very badly injured. Up to the time of going to press the report has not been confirmed. There is good reason to think that it is a case of mistaken identity, and that it is some other man of the same name.

MASON & RSCH

THE PIANO WITH A SOUL

Mason & Risch Pianos are famous for that peculiar carrying power known as the singing tone. Not all tones classed as musical are music unalloyed. There are certain qualities of tone that are strangely diffusive They carry far and retain their singing character where other tones become indistinct or even lost. A sheet of gold leaf, thinner than the thinne-t tissue, will completely block the powerful rays of the strongest searchlight, while the X-rays, merely glowing with a faint light, will penetrate an inch of solid steel. So it is with music: some tones are diffusive and carry, others become more or less absorbed in space. The tone that "carries" the singing tone, is due to perfection of finish and perfect vibratory equilibruim of all the tone producing parts of a piano. It is always a tone of the utmost sweetness and purity. The Mason & Risch Piano is full of "sing" being especially fine in its blendings of the human voice, which it rounds out and sustains in a happy union of melody and harmony. Our literature explains the many points of superiority of the Mason & Risch piano—the piano with a soul. Send for it to-day.

Referred to New Enterprises Committee with power to act.

A letter was read from Mr. John T. Hall stating he was looking out for a first class man to act as engineer for Medicine Hat as requested by the Mayor. Filed.

An inquiry was received from the Commission of Labor at Ottawa re early closing and asking if any arrangements of the kind had been made in Medicine Hat.

Resolved information be forwarded

A letter was read from Secretary Board of Trade asking Council if they would appoint a committee to confer and act with a committee from the Board of Trade with a view to advance the interests of the town as suggested by Mr. J. T. Hall, of Hamilton, Ont.

Coun. Stewart moved and Coun. Sissons seconded that the matter be referred to the Committee on New Enterprises with authority to act as such committee.

Several other letters of little public interest were read.

A letter from Jarvis & Co. re debentures was read. And the Mayor asked what would be the disposition of the amount above par, which the debentures had fetched.

The Clerk said it would be carried to the capital account.

Coun. DesBrisay—You won't get that for the New Enterprises Committee Mr. Mayor (laughter).

A letter from Jas. T. Hall re cement walks was referred to Public Works Committee.

The Auditors (Messrs G. P. Blythe and W. R. Gilbert) reported having audited accounts for past year and certified same as correct. Balance sheets accompanied the report.

Coun. Smyth observed that copies of the balance sheet should be supplied to Councillors.

The Finance Committee recommended the payment of the accounts presented at the last meeting.

On motion of Messrs Sissons and Penhale it was ordered that the bills be paid.

THE FIRE AT THE POWER HOUSE.

Reports were read from Mr. Porter Supt. of Works and Engineer Eddy re the fire at the power house last week. Theygave an account of how it occurred which was as stated in The Times last week, the cause being a heated flue. Mr. Porter recommended that the fire whistle be put on the high pressure main at the entrance, and that both syrens be blown every practice night to show they were in order.

Coun. Smyth thought the suggestion a good one and said the fire demonstrated the need for a standpipe.

Proposed by Coun. Smyth seconded by Coun. DesBrisay that the reports and the recommendation re fire syren be adopted.

Coun. Smyth asked if there was any insurance on the pumping station and

The Mayor replied in the negative and added that the question was discussed four or five years ago when it was found rates on the building would be very high and they would not be able to insure the machinery.

Coun. Penhale said the Council were "away ahead" through having paid no insurance.

The Mayor suggested that they install a 2½ inch hose with nozzle for use in the building.

Coun. Penhale observed that there should be no ceiling in the power house. If it had not been for the ceiling Engineer Eddy would have put the fire out with his inch hose the other day, but he could not reach the roof from inside because of the ceiling.

Coun. Smyth moved that the 2½ inch hose and nozzle be installed as suggested.

Coun. Penhale seconded and the motion was agreed to nem con.

BETTER BE SURE THAN SORRY.

Coun. Penhale explained that he had intimated to the men who were staying by the place after the fire was put out that their presence was not required, as the fire was out. It was going to cost $12 and was a nice easy job.

Coun. Stewart thought they had "better be sure than sorry."

Coun. Penhale replied that there was nothing to be sorry about.

Coun. Stewart—Many a fire breaks out afresh when people think it is out.

Coun. Penhale thought it was shortsighted on somebody's part to leave the hose up there. Suppose a fire broke out in another part of the town, the men would have had to go up there to get the hose..

Coun. Sissons said it was the old hose reel they left up there.

Coun. Penhale—That might have been required too. It is all very well to be on the safe side but it didn't look like worth $12 to me.

Coun. Sissons said he was responsible for it. He thought the fire might break out again and told one man to stay there, but as it took two men to handle the hose he, to make sure suggested that two firemen should stay there until all danger was quite over.

Supt. Porter—The firemen did not care to leave a stranger with the hose.

Coun. Penhale—Well, it's all right to do that around town, but I thought it unecessary up there and that is why I acted as I did.

TheMayor—Well, they did not stay there.

Coun. Stewart—You often see a fire break out after everybody thinks it is out. I think it was a very wise precaution to take.

Coun. Penhale—I thought it unnecessary.

Coun. Stewart—Well I don't.

Coun. Penhale—I did not see why we should spend $12 for it.

The Mayor thought the boys acted verypromptly. If they hadn't the result would have been more serious.

On motion of Coun. Sissons second ed by Coun. DesBrisay, a vote of thanks was passed to the brigade for their prompt and effective action in the matter.

EXTENDING THE BOUNDARIES.

The Mayor said the petition presented at the last meeting to annex certain properties to the town had been referred to the solicitor, but been referred back again to the Council as there were not quite enough names on the petition to enable the Clerk to make an affidavit that they were a majority of the parties affected, as severa: people had bought recently since the assessment had been made.

Coun. Smyth moved that the petition be referred to the petitioners with a request that they would get the additional names and that the necessary affidavits be then at once made and the petition acted upon by the Council.

Coun. Penhale seconded and it was agreed to.

PERMANENT SIDEWALKS.

Councillors then took charge of the several petitions in favor of permanent sidewalks with a view to get signatures so as to enable the council to make a start in the matter.

SABBATH LAWS.

Now and again questions arise in regard to the laws governing the observance of the Sabbath Day. The laws we have at present are certainly rather obsolete. They are, in the opinion of many people too antiquated for the present day, but although they are not perhaps quite adapted for twentieth century requirements they serve to prevent any very flagrent desecration of the Sabbath. The Ottawa authorities say they mean to take the matter in hand at the earliest possible date.

The following is a brief summary of the contents of these laws:

27 Henry VI., c. 5, forbids the holding of "fairs" on Sunday.

1 Charles I., c. 1, forbids the holding on viewing of "common plays, interludes and other unlawful pastimes"—penalty 3 shillings and 4 pence.

3 Charles I., c. 2, makes it unlawful for "carriers, etc., to travel, and for butchers to kill or sell"—penalty 6 shillings and 8 pence.

29 Charles II., c. 7, forbids.

(1) "Any tradesman, artificer, workman, laborer or other persons whatsoever to do or exercise any worldly labor business or work of their ordinary calling"—penalty 5 shillings.

(2) "Any person whatsoever to publicly cry, show forth or expose for sale, any wares, merchandises, fruit, herbs, goods or chattels, etc." on pain of the forfeiture of the goods so offered for sale.

(3) "Travelling by drovers, horse coursers, waggoners, butchers, higglers, or any of their servants"—penalty 20 shillings.

(4) "Any person or persons using emplying or travelling on the Lord's Day, by any boat, wherry, lighter or barge, except upon extraordinary occasions to be allowed by some Justice of the Peace"—penalty 5 shillings.

Prosecution for offences under this law must be begun within ten days of date of committal of offence.

1 and 2, William IV. enacts that "if any person whatsoever shall kill or take any game or use any dog, gun, net or other engine or instrument for the purpose of killing or taking any game on Sunday shall on conviction beforetwo Justices of the Peace forfeit and pay for each offence not exceeding £5, with costs."

21 George III., c. 49, prohibits:

(1) The opening or using of any house for public entertainment or amusement where an admission fee is charged," the penalty for each offence to the owner or manager being £200.

(2) The advertising of such entertainments or amusements." the penalty being £50.

For the information of those who may not know we append the following declaration, of the Lord's Day Alliance in Canada:

The Lord's Day Alliance of Canada is a "federation of all Provincial and Territorial Alliances in Canada having for their object the preservation of the Lord's Day.

The Constitution states their object to be "to preserve the Lord's Day in its integrity and to secure to the whole community the right to its full enjoyment."

In the returns of immigration the following statement appears which disposes at once of any idea of the ultimate Americanization of the Dominion by reason of the influx from the south. United States 45,238. From Great Britain and Ireland 50,375. These figures are for the year 1905. It will be seen therefore that Great Britain and Ireland send more by over 11 per cent. than the United States.

The open season for partridge, grouse, ruffled grouse, pheasants, prairie fowl and quail is from Sept. 15 to Dec. 14. For woodcock, snipe plover, curlew, sandpiper, tatler, upland plover, duck of all kinds swans and geese from August 23rd to May 4th. The number of birds which may be killed or taken by one person in any one day must not exceed 20 of grouse, partridge or prairie fowl. Sunday shooting is prohibited Licenses for non residents,—General $25; bird $15; guests (5 days) $1.

INTERESTING.

An event of exceptional Interest is the future engagement at the Opera House, Medicine Hat, Thursday Sept 7th, of Lord Lytton's brilliant play "The Lady of Lyons". It is said that the instantaneous hit that Miss Neville and the supporting company has made has led to the cancellation of many of the smaller cities in which it was booked so as to enable the manager to accept contracts offered in larger cities.

TO MAKE A CITY BEAUTIFUL.

The mayor of Denver aspires to a more beautiful Denver, and he is doing what he can along pratical lines looking to that happy consummation. Heis urging the people to co-operate with the municipal authorities in cleaning up the city.

Believing in the value of suggestions and direct appeal, he addressed a proclamation to the citizens, in which he said:

If your store front, residence or fence is dull or stingy order it painted.

If your awning is old, torn or faded, get a new one.

If your side walk, fence or gate needs repairing, fix it.

Destroy the young weeds that are starting on your property, and on your neighbours property.

If your advertising sign is old or faded, take it down and paint it.

Resolve never to throw paper in the streets.

Take all dandelions out of your lawn; they spoil its beauty.

Burn all the rubbish possible; allow no one to throw it on the street alleys,or vacant lots.

Promise not to spit on the sidewalks.

Organize a block improvement society, and allow no weeds to grow on sidewalk area or vacant property in your block.

Ask your grocery men milkmen and expressmen to have their wagons painted.

Irrespective of the size of your house make your lawn the finest.

Illuminate the front of your store in the business section.

Every effort put forth, or a dollar spentto improve our city's appearance, will be returned twofold.

It is claimed that these suggestions have been cordially carried out by the people, and that they are perfectly delighted with the results.

PRODUCING EXPORT WHEAT.

OPINION OF AN EXPERT ON THIS INTERESTING QUESTION.

The Mail and Empire says: A report on the Canadian Northwest having special reference to the proportion there of wheat for export has been published by the British Board of Trade, it was prepared by Professor Mayor, professor of political economy in the university of Toronto. We have not seen the document, but, judging from its general conclusions, as given in the London Times of recent date, we think it improbable that it will be of any advantage eitherto the British Public or to the Canadian North West. Fortunately it is not served up in the style of the current literature that is most eagerly devoured. If the same matter in popular form were circulated in the United Kingdom it would undoubtedly be more of a hindrance than a help to the Canadian Immigration service there.

It would almost seem that these conclusions were drawn up to disabuse the British mind of any favorable opinions of the Canadian west. Englishmen, Irishmen and Scotchmen who take the conclusions seriously will be led by them to doubt that there is any matter concerning our west of which there is positive knowledge. Every condition—arable area, fertility, climate, market, population etc.—is treated as if there were little distinct information about it. A political economist could not have been more uncertain on the same subject twenty years ago than Professor Mayor appears to be today. He seems to forget that many questions on which he finds it necessary to suspend judgment have long been decided in the country's favor by actual results, realized over and over again. The Canadian wheat is producing wheat for export, and its surplus for sale abroad has been growing annually almost without without interruption, by leaps and bounds. Out of last year's sixty million bushel crop the country had from 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 bushels to export. This year's crop, which will be not less than 80,000,000 bushels, and may be 100,000,000 bushels should show a surplus of from fifty million to seventy million bushels for export, after provision is made for the country's own bread and seed. It surely is a settled matter that the Canadian west is one of the world's greatest wheat producing tracts. It needs no political economist to decide whether land that has for years been producing wheat at rates varying from 16 to 45 bushels to the acre is able to produce an excess over thefood requirements of an agricultural population whose smallest farms are 160 acres in extent. The tract of equally good land yet to be occupied is immense. All that is needed to expand the area under wheat from its present 4,000,000 acres to 10,000,000 acres or to 20,000,000 acres is enough farmers.

EARLIER THANKSGIVING.

An agitation has been started in the east to have Thanksgiving Day fixed for the last Monday in October It is claimed that this would allow persons to have three days with their families who would be unable to get home for Thanksgiving Day if it were held on Thursday as has been customary. Representations have been made to the Government on the subject and they will receive due consideration.

We are pleased to hear that Mr. Fleming, of the Merchants Banff staff, has so far recovered from the results of his accident as to be able to leave the hospital last Friday, and has resumed his duties at the bank.

Mr. Percy Moth, who has been in the employ of the C. P. R. at this point for the past three years, has been promoted to station agent at Bankhead. His place at the depot is taken by Mr. Harry Woodhouse.

If the Calgary lacrosse club can make the necessary arrangements the Hat team will go to that place for a game on Sept. 4th. Nothing definite has as yet been decided, however.

Regina Conservative Convention.

THE CONSERVATIVES DECIDE TO FIGHT FOR PROVINCIAL RIGHTS.

The Conservatives of Saskatchewan in Convention have decided to go into the pending campaign on non-party lines and give their support to any candidate, regardless of former party affiliations, who will support Premier Haultain and his policy of Provincial Rights. Considerable objection was taken to his attitude by several delegates and Senator Perley spoke strongly against abandonment of party lines. However, the meeting cheered vociferously when Haultain rose to speak and called on the convention to put aside party affiliations for the time and fight for provincial rights. The resolution to support any candidate regardless of former party affiliations who will support premier Haultain's policy of provincial rights was subsequently carried by a large majority.

ST. BARNABAS CHURCH CONCERT.

A promenade concert given under the auspices of the Women's Auxilliary of St. Barnabas' Church, took place in the Parish Hall, on Thursday evening and proved a great success. An improvised platform was erected by Mr. Bates, and was nicely decorated for the occasion by Mrs. W. Nicoll, Mrs. W. R. Gilbert, Mrs. J. C. Richards, and Mr. Beeton while other willing workers were Messrs. J. D. Everard, H. K. Oakes, W. G. Mansel, D. G. Proby.

The following ladies acted as a reception committee; Mrs. Nicolls, Mrs. L. B. Cochran, Mrs. Forster and Mrs. Carbery.

The programme was made up by amateur performers and afforded abundant proof that Medicine Hat has an array of local talent both vocal and instrumental of which any town might be proud. That their efforts were appreciated the hearty applause and frequent encores were sufficient testimony.

An artistically decorated refreshment stall was erected outside the parish room and this was ably presided over by Mrs J. D. Everard assisted by Mrs. Glen Turnbull and the Misses Harris and Parker, and quite a bevy of flower girls, namely Phyllis Gilbert, Lily Taylor, Mildred Hayward, Annie Mitchell, Ethel Terry and Maggie Conroy. These were all kept busy attending to the wants of the visitors, and during the early part of the evening the town band under the leadership of Mr. Leonard played several pieces.

Mr. T. H. Rhodes acted as master of ceremonies and the programme was opened by the Pleyell Sextette, conducted Dr. Smith. Songs were given by Mrs. Burton, Miss Harrison, Miss Betty Blythe, Miss Leona Millar, Mr. C. Stutfield, Mr. C. McNeely. A beautifully rendered violin solo was contributed by Miss Allingham and Mr. Rhodes gave two recitations. The accompaniments were played by Miss Nesbitt, Miss White, Miss Blythe, Miss Parker and Mr. J. Leonard.

Mrs. L. B. Cochran, President, and the members of the Auxilliary wish through the Times to thank all who so kindly assisted in the programme, and in the arrangements, and also those who contributed flowers, cakes, etc., for refreshment stall.

THE HUDSON BAY RAILWAY.

For many years the question of building a railway to Hudsons Bay has been, more or less before the public. The people of Manitoba have been agitating for such a railway for years, and the people of the Territories, while waiting the time when the railway can be pushed forward, have not been behind their fellow farmers in their desire for its consummation.

Action has been taken at various times to bring the question to the front in the House of Commons at Ottawa, but invariably with the same result, viz., opposition on the part of eastern members. The reason for this opposition is easily understood. A railway to the Hudsons Bay will connect the great North-west with the British markets without any part of the transportation passing through the eastern provinces and it is believed there will be a corresponding loss of trade which will go via Hudsons Bay.

It is therefore certain that the Eastern people will oppose the Hudsons Bay railway as far as lies in their power and the greater the trade of the North-west the less likely will the east be willing to lose it by building the Hudsons Bay railway.

If the West is to utilize the shortest and the cheapest means of transportation to the British markets, they must build the railway themselves, for even if by pressure from western members the Dominion government take the matter in hand we cannot expect the railway will be built except under conditions of operation which may be so onerous to the West as to be a matter of choice without advantage whether shipments shall be made via Hudsons Bay or the St. Lawrence.

We want the Hudson Bay railway We want it unfettered by conditions which will make its construction of little avail to the farmers. We want the competition it will bring and the consequent lowering of rates on the old line of transportation. In the hands of the provinces the building of the rail way will force a reduction of rates via the St. Lawrence and the difference which now goes into the dividends of the C.P.R, the shippers and eastern people will stay right in the pockets of those who raise the produce of the earth and who are most entitled to it.

Cook's ice cream is the best in town.

Mr. C. Stutfield leaves this evening for Calgary, after a three years residence in Medicine Hat. His many friends here presented him with a purse and the following address.

Dear Stut,

We, your friends, having heard with regret of your intended departure from amongst us, have met together this evening for the purpose of, bidding you farewell and good luck in your departure. During your stay of two years or more in Medicine Hat, you have made very many friends, and have also distinguished yourself as a vocalist of no mean talent. There have been very many calls upon your good nature and you have responded to all in a most generous manner. The pleasure you have afforded to your many hearers at the various musical entertainments in which you have taken part will long be remembered and your pleasant smile will be very much missed by both sexes at the numerous social functions at Medicine Hat. We feel that we cannot allow you to depart from us, without some momento of your stay here, and we ask you to accept this small token of our appreciation. May you have good luck and success in your new undertaking whatever it may be, and don't forget "That it's Always Fair Weather When Good Fellows Meet Together."

Sincerely Yours,

TOWN COUNCIL MEETING.

The regular meeting of the Town Council was held last night. Present Mayor Forster (in the chair), Councillors J. K. Drinnan, A. DesBrisay, and C. E. Smyth.

It was stated that Councillors Sissons and Penhale were out of town and Coun. Stewart was sick. It was 20 minutes after the appointed time before a quorum assembled. At 8.30 the Town Clerk proceeded to read the minutes which were duly confirmed.

SIR FREDERICK BORDEN COMING.

A letter was read announcing that Sir Frederick Borden, when in the west next week, would stop off at Medicine Hat.

The Mayor said Sir Frederick was coming in connection with the Strathcona Horse.

The letter was referred to the New Enterprises Committee.

A letter was read from the Fire Underwriters Association re natural gas and was ordered to be filed.

A letter was read from Harlow, Blythe & Co., asking for a share of the Insurance on Municipal Building was placed in the same class as previous applications.

THE NINE HOUR DAY.

A letter was read from the secretary of the Carpenters and Joiners Union with respect to carpenters employed on municipal work working ten hours per day. The union had decided that on and after the first of April last the working day for carpenters should be 9 hours. All contractors observed this and the union would deem it a favor if the Council would do the same.

Supt. Porter said they only had one man that it applied to that was Mr. Craft. He was employed by the hour and usually worked ten hours a day.

Dr. Smyth proposed and Coun. Drinnan seconded that carpenters employed in municipal work be not required to work ten hours per day. Carried.

A letter was read from Mr. W. T. Williams, architect, asking for an advance of three-fifths (about $1000) of his commission for drawing plans etc. for the new municipal building. He explained that such an advance was usual as soon as a contract was let.

The matter was referred to the Finance Committee with power to deal.

After this point Dr. Smyth was called out on a case, and this reduced the number to less than a quorum. The doctor promised to be back in 15 minutes and the meeting patiently waited. He was back in twenty minutes and the business was resumed.

NEW GAS WELL.

A. Grant wrote asking for an advance of $1000 on account of new gas well.

Mr. Porter reported that the well was now down to a depth of 926 feet.

It was agreed to make the advance.

The Poundkeeper reported having during August, impounded 10 horses 10 cows, 20 head of cattle. Ordered that the report be received and filed.

THE WOOLLEN MILL.

Permission was granted the Medicine Hat Woollen Mills Company to lay a waste water pipe across Hiver street to the river.

The company asked to have the mill connected with the water system as water would be required now that they were laying the foundation for boilers etc. They would not require it for anything else for some time yet.

On motion of Coun. Smyth seconded by Coun. DesBrisay it was agreed to supply the water at the usual rate.

WATER EXTENSIONS TO NEW EDINBURGH.

The Council had before them the question of extending the water mains to supply five services at the extreme end of New Edinburgh. It appears the present service pipe is a small (2 inch) pipe extending about 500 feet from Mr. Sissons corner and the proposed extension would require 650 feet more piping, and there is only 300 feet in stock.

After considering the matter for sometime Coun. DesBrisay moved that the matter be referred to the water committee to inquire into and also to get freight rate for additional pipe.

Coun. Smyth seconded. Carried.

They were referred to the Finance Committee.

The Finance Committee recommended the payment of the bills presented at the last meeting and they were ordered to be paid.

GAS METERS AND REGULATORS

Coun. Drinnan moved that the Gas Committee be empowered to purchase 25 new gas meters, one high pressure reducer and regulator and one low pressure reducer and regulator, some piping and other things which will be required in connection with taking the Johnston estate into the system and to complete the services on the north side of the town, and to connect the woollen mill.

Coun. DesBrisay seconded, Carried.

DEBENTURES.

Mr. Blythe, of Harlow Blythe & Co., said he was empowered to offer $15,105 for the Parks debentures. This he said, was a little better than the price accepted for the debentures lastissued. It was $10.20 better.

Coun. Smyth moved it be referred to the Finance Committee for consideration.

Coun. Drinnan seconded. Carried.

NIGHT POLICEMAN.

Coun. DesBrisay asked if the Council intended to take up the 45 applications that were in for the post of night policeman.

The Mayor thought next meeting would do.

Coun. DesBrisay said the matter should be disposed of, so as not to keep all those applicants waiting so long.

CITY ENGINEER.

The Mayor said something about the proposed appointment of a town engineer.

Coun. Smyth thought they had better take the matter up, and asked how many applications had been received.

The Mayor said applications were still coming in.

Coun. Drinnan did not favor an immediate appointment as they would have nothing for an engineer to do during the fall and winter. If they had appointed him last spring they could have employed him to advantage. In fact it would have paid to have had him during the past two years.

Coun. DesBrisay said The Times urged them to appoint such a man last spring, but the Council did not do it. Could they take up the sidewalk if we get him now?

Coun. Drinnan thought it would be too late by the time arrangments could be made.

The Mayor said he had been asked by some of those who presented the petition for a permanent sidewalk on Toronto Street, that the matter be taken in hand. He suggested a meeting next week to take it up and also the appointments of engineer and nightpoliceman.

The Council then adjourned until Monday night.

PEACE AT LAST!

Japs Give Way on All Points.—No Indemnity, No Ships and Only Half of Sakhalin.

Despatches from Portsmouth, N.H., announce that peace was practically concluded between Russia and Japan at Wednesday morning's session of the peace conference. The Japanese, according to the Portsmouth telegram, [illegible] for surrendering all claim to the war indemnity and agreeing to a division of the Island of Sakhalin. The Japanese also withdrew articles 10 and 11 of the peace conditions originally proposed (demand for the surrender of the interned warships and limitation of the Russian naval power in the far east.) The plenipotentiaries are now elaborating a formal treaty of peace.

The news has caused considerable surprise throughout the world and the decision arrived at has been received in Japan by an almost unanimous chorus of disapointment.

TO THE VOTERS

Medicine Hat Constituency.

As the nominee of the Conservatives to contest the forthcoming Provincial elections in the Medicine Hat constituency, I consider it my duty to state what measures I intend to support if elected to the Legislature:

1. The taking of all proper and lawful steps to ascertain in what respects, if any, the Dominion Parliament can restrict the Province of Alberta in its dealing with the Education question, in addition to any restrictions there may be contained in the British North America Act.

2. Regarding the lands I will advocate the continual application to and negotiation with the Dominion Parliament for the surrender of the public domain (within the boundaries of the Province) to the Province and for the withdrawal of the Canadian Pacific Railway tax exemptions.

3. I am in favor of the public ownership of public utilities.

4. I am in favor of the giving of land grants to all defenders of the empire (including members of the R. N. W. M. P.) who are residents in the Province.

5. Iam of opinion that each Local Improvement District should have improvements (in the way of roads and bridges) made therein equal in value to the total amount of taxes collected therefrom and where, by reason of sparcity of population, such taxes are not sufficient to make necessary improvements, I shall urge the government to make up the amount required from the Public funds.

6. I will urge generous but careful expenditure of the public monies towards the legitmate assistance of agriculture and ranching.

7. There is no more important point than Medicine Hat where a traffic bridge should be built. It will be my duty to urge the appropriation of sufficient monies to build such a bridge.

8. I deem it my duty to give my hearty support to all legitimate measures furthering the Labor interests.

9. I am in favor of a fair re-adjustment of the Income Tax.

10. I am in favor of some adjustment of the Mechanic's Lien on buildings.

F. O. SISSONS.

BIRTH OF NEW PROVINCES SEPT. 1st

INAUGURAL CEREMONIES AT EDMONTON AND REGINA.

EDMONTON.

On Friday Sept. 1st, the Province of Alberta became a fact amid rejoicing at Edmonton, the provisional capital. Earl Grey, Sir Gilbert Parker, Sir Wilfred Laurier, Lady Laurier, J. J. McGee, clerk of the privy council and Hon. Mr. Patterson were among those present.

INAUGURAL PROCESSION.

The first item on the programme was the inaugural procession for which elaborate preparations had been made. This was headed by an escort of Mounted Police, at whose head was borne the Union Jack. The men who followed were old-timers on foot and in carriages, and the mayor and council in shiny plug hats.

THE HAPPIEST FEATURE.

Perhaps the happiest feature of this parade was the presence of the school children, who turned out 1,800 strong, borne in gaily decorated conveyances, with such mottoes as:

"We'll Grow."

"Prairie Flowers."

"Men of Canada." &c.

This struck Earl Grey, who, with his party viewed the procession from the balcony of the Edmonton club, as being particularly bright and appropriate.

This concluded, his excellency and the parliamentary party proceeded to the pavilion which had been erected and the more serious part of the business was entered upon. Mayor MacKenzie, of Edmonton, presented an address of welcome to the governor-general, to which Earl Grey made a felicitous reply creating a most favorable impression. Mr. McGee, clerk of the privy council, then read his majesty's warrant erecting the new Province of Alberta, and Captain Knight read the commission creating the position of Lieutenant-Governor of the new Province and translating Hon. Mr. Bulyea thereto, and then Mr. McGee administered the oath of office, to which the Lieutenant-Governor solemnly subscribed.

Mayor MacKenzie then presented Hon. Lieutenant-Governor Bulyea with an address, to which he made a brief reply.

Sir Wilfred Laurier in response to the request from the mayor, then addressed the audience, but it was rather a surprise to many of hisauditors tohear him also resort to French in addressing the people. The proceedings closed with three cheers for the king, and the vice-regal and premiers party returned to their train.

During the afternoon there was a musical parade by the Mounted Police which his excellency witnessed, after which he was driven through the city by the mayor.

Medicine Hat was represented by W. T. Finlay, L. B. Cochran and C. R. Mitchell.

A similar ceremony took place at Regina when the Province of Saskatchewan was inaugurated.

Any irregularity in the delivery of the Times should be at once reported to the office.

Peace.

The war between Russia and Japan contained many surprises but probably the greatest was afforded by the result of the Peace Conference. That Japan should at the last moment have given away on the indemnity and other questions and let her enemy down gentlly and tenderly as she has done, has been a surprise to the rest of the world. Japan will certainly be accused of weakness and it will be said her resources must be exhausted or she would not act in a way to make the world believe her beaten enemy is the final victor.

Yet it may be sheer magnanimity which has induced Japan to soften her terms. Japan after all has gained more than she went to war for. Her pre-bellum demands were that Russia should fulfil her treaty obligations to China, principal among which was the evacuation of Manchuria; that Russia should acknowledge the predominance of Japanese interest in Korea, and finally that Russia should formally acknowledge Chinese sovereignty.

At the peace conference she gained all of these and Russia surrenders her interest in at least the greater portion of the Manchurian railway; surrenders the lease covering the Liao Tung peninsula to Japan; and concedes the "open door" principle in China.

After the great things Japan has done during this war on land and sea, and the splendid attitude of her people, it is only fair to assume that what she has now done is an act of magnanimity which affords an object lesson for the whole world. The only parallel that can be found for it must be looked for in the way in which Great Britain has always treated a vanquished foe.

The Dipping Orders.

The cattle dipping orders will be loyally carried out, we believe, on this side of the international boundary, but there is considerable dissatisfaction on the other side of the line.

It is the opinion of experienced cattle men that the dipping order to which they have submitted caused them trouble and expense that was not justified by existing conditions, but they concluded to respect the opinion of so-called experts rather than expose themselves to annoyance and loss by being held up by the federal inspectors during the shipping season, says the River Press.

The views of the practical stockmen regarding the matter were expressed in a recent interview by M. E. Milner, the Valley county member of the state board of stock commissioners, who is credited with these remarks:

"Scabies, as is well known, is not a disease that affects the food value of the bovine animals, but is a purely external affection of the skin that is comparable to the itch in the human race, and the fuss made over it is out of all proportion to its danger. It has become the especial bugaboo of the bureau of animal industry, because it offers a fine field for the expansion of that paternal department, which evinces a disposition to regulate all the affairs of the stockmen and farmers.

"This bovine itch is not natural to Montana, but seems to have been brought into some part of the state by the importation of superior breeding cattle. It has never obtained any real foothold upon the ranges, because the conditions there are not favorable to its spread. According to recent investigations made by our eminent chief veterinarian, such scab as may have existed upon the range has practically died out."

"Many foolish orders regulating the business of the stockmen emanate from the department of agriculture, which, in its pernicious activity, would browbeat and oppress the farming class quite according to Russian methods. As it has been clothed by congress with an amount of authority that is repugnant to American ideas, it would now be appropriate to legislate the agricultural class into a state of serfdom to it, and then raise its standard by installing young Jimmie Hyde as its official head."

Let Us Consider.

While we claim to be progressive and have consistently urged progress in the affairs of Medicine Hat we have no desire to ignore the opinion of those who think the town is going too fast at the present time. That there are some of that opinion we know, but just what porportion of the town they represent we are unable to say. We believe they are a minority so far as numbers go but, on the other hand, they include in their ranks men of sound judgement and therefore their opinions are entitled to be heard and considered. One of these stated to the Times last week that he believed if we spend as much money in public improvements next year, as we are spending and propose to spend this year, our rate of taxation will not continue to decline but will, on the other hand, take a jump upwards again, even allowing an income of $25,000 a year from the sale of natural gas. This same gentleman, who has occupied a leading position in the town's affairs handed the Times some figures which are worthy of consideration. He points out that the bylaws passed a short time ago pledged to town to an expenditure of $56,000, and the school debenturet amount to $25,000. The proposals now on hand involve the following:—

For parks and markets.....	$15,000 00
Proposed loan to the Woollen Mill Co.....	15,000 00
Filters.....	10,000 00
Standpipe.....	15,000 00
Pumps and building.....	5,000 00
	$60,000 00

The principal and interest on the above he calculates at about $11,000 per annum. Fire horses and caretaker will cost about $2,500 a year, and the City Engineer's salary will probably run to about $2,000 a year.

Then, he says suppose the gas plays out.

We give the above with the single view of placing every phase of the question before the public. We will say we honestly think the above expenditures are in every way desirable and that most of them are necessary, but we have no desire to thrust our opinions forward without giving every section of the taxpayers a fair show to express their views.

If we had the time we would be glad to go into the whole question of the town's finances but just at the present moment we cannot take the matter up. We think, however, that the Finance Committee with the Town Clerk and auditors should at once submit an estimate of what additions these proposed expenditures will make to the taxes. We believe that the people desire these improvements and if they see that the town can stand them they will vote every one. But there should be no lack of reliable information.

SEPTIC TANK SYSTEM.

The following letter has been written to J. K. Hunter, of Regina, and will be interesting in Medicine Hat now that we are discussing sewerage problems:

Stratford, Ont., Aug. 21.
J. Kelso Hunter Esq.,
City Clerk,
Regina, Sask.:

Dear Sir,—Re septic tanks, would say that the city of Stratford is in the experimental stage as yet; but the city has had some good results from the tanks as well as the bacteria beds. I will try to give you as much information as possible.

We started our sewer disposal plant in 1899, with a small septic tank with a capacity of 16,600 gallons and a coke bacteria bed. As far as they were able to these didexcellent service, and as it was felt that no better system could be obtained at equal or even greater cost, the Council was encouraged to make further enlargements. In 1901 a second tank of the same capacity was added with two more coke bacteria beds. So the work remained, except for the increase in the number of bacteria beds. In 1903 a greater septic tank accommodation was considered necessary, and one holding 192,400 gallons was built, bringing the total capacity from 33,200 up to 225,400 gallons. This was a very substantial extension, and good results accrued, but not to the degree desirable. In 1904 the council determined that the plant should be brought as near perfection as possible. The result was that a new tank with a capacity of 764,000 gallons was built, raising the total tankage to 989,400 gallons.

The sewerage upon being conveyed to the works is distributed to the tanks. It enters first the settling basins (or grit chambers), where all solids are deposited, and then proceeds to the septic tanks proper. Through effective arrangments a great deal of sediment is collected. From here it is distributed to the bacterjabeds, and then let off into the river.

The plant has cost all told (10 coke bacteria beds) $24,000. About 600,000 gallons of sewerage are treated daily. Now you will ask what kind of sewerage we have to contend with. Well, one woollen factory, G. T. Railway shops, gas works, and the White Packing Co., that is hog killing and curing works We consider the gas works and packing Company the worst to treat. Of course we have quite a flow of domestic or house sewerage, and a large quantity of storm water finds its way into the sewers as we have no storm sewers as yet.

I think I have given you an idea of how our tanks are doing, and that the ratepayers think they have got as good a system as can be got for the treatment of sewerage. Our plantwas copied from Sutton, England. Of course I could not advise what would suit or do for you; you may have a very light sewerage to treat. If so you could arrange accordingly for its treatment. Wishing you all success in your undertaking, I am

Yours truly
THOS. SAVAGE

It provides that where an application is made for the cancellation of a homestead claim, and the application is successful and the cancellation made, the homesteader upon whose farm the cancellation order takes effect will still have the first claim upon the homestead. This is as it should be.

AGRICULTURAL EDITORS IN MEDICINE HAT.

The members of the Agricultural Editors excursion arrived in town from the west on Monday morning. The party consisted of about 25 editors of American farm papers and their itinerary through Canada is justly considered to be fraught with great interest and importance as these men speak every week through their papers to the great army of American Farmers from which Canada now draws fully half of her best settlers. The opinions they form of the country will be read by many thousands who are turning to Canadaas the "last" and the "best west". Needless to say Medicine Hat felt honored at having the opportunity of showing them the resources of this district. At 9.30 the visitors were met by the Mayor (F. G. Forster) W. Cousins (President of the Board of Trade), and by leading members of the Town Council and the Board of Trade. The party were

DRIVEN ROUND TOWN

and shown over the pumping station and other places of interest and were told of our great natural gas system They were then taken south as far as Wm. Culley's ranch and Corbett & Fleming's. At Culley's they saw a splendid sample of Red Fife wheat just threshed and at Corbett & Fleming's they were much interested in a 25 acre patch of corn which has been referred to in this paper in a previous issue. On returning to town they were entertained to a

LUNCHEON,

at the Assiniboia Hotel, and we may here compliment mine host Laird upon the excellent bill of fare provided. When full justice had been done to the good things provided

The Mayor proposed the toast of "The King" and followed it with that of "President Roosevelt," both of which were loyally responded to with the singing of "God Save the King," and "My Country 'tis of thee."

The Mayor assured the visitors they had the "freedom of Medicine Hat" and asked them to carry away one thought and that was "natural gas," and having enlarged upon this he gave the toast of "The Western Canada Immigration Association" coupled with the name of Mr. Theodore Knappen, the secretary, who organised and is in charge of the itinerary. The toast was drunk with musical honors and

Mr. Knappen made a suitable response.

Mr. Wm. Cousins as toast-master, called upon

Mr. H. A. Heath, of the Kansas Farmer, who, in the course of his remarks, said that what he had seen here was a great surprise to him. The trip had been the greatest treat of his life. Western Canada presented to his mind the very greatest possibilities. In the state of Kansas they produced 90 million bushels of wheat but it was not to be compared with Western Canada (hear hear). All the land there was owned and occupied and high priced and people were looking for other places. Agricultural Editors as a class had to be very conservative in what they said, but Western Canada had astonished him and he would tell his people so. (loud applause.)

The toast-master next called upon Mr. J. L. Kingsbury, of the Indiana Farmer, who after some preliminary remarks, said he came from a natural gas state and he had no hesitation in saying that in the natural gasMedicine Hat had the finest prospect in Canada. (Loud applause) It was bound to attract manufacturers and as they had coal to back it up case it should fail the manufacturers would not fear to come in. Down in Indiana they had wasted their gas. They had sold it at so much per grate and people would let it burn all night to save the cost of a match to light it with in the morning. He was glad to see they were taking care of it here and selling it by meter (applause).

Professor McKay, Editor of Successful Farming, being called upon said he had travelled in various countries and would say without hesitation that this northwest country was the grandest country in the world (loud applause). He would urge upon the men of Medicine Hat to strive hard to get a trial station. In Iowa they had many trial stations and 25000 farmers received their bulletins. They needed trial stations to carry on work which farmers could not carry on. Before the experimental farm was established at Indian Head the district was almost abandoned as a useless country now it was the garden of the world as a graingrowing centre (hear hear). Trial stations would demonstrate what could be done in Alberta, and he would ask them to remember that to keep a farm in condition they must keep more cattle on it. They could not go on extracting from the soil without returning the right substance to it and it was only by keeping cattle on the land that that could be done. Farms must necessarily support more cattle so as to return something to the soil (loud applause). The possibilities of this country were greater than those of any country he knew of at the present time, and he was thinking of buying land and putting one of his sons to live here (loud applause). He mentioned the case of two brothers in the Medicine Hat district who came here five years ago with very little and were now worth $40,000 in land, cattle and horses (loud applause). He was thoroughly pleased with the fertility of the land round Medicine Hat and the beauty of the city (loud applause).

This concluded the luncheon proceedings and the party proceeded across the C. P. R. bridge to the north side of the river where the carriages were in waiting and all drove to the Stair ranch where they were shown a nice bunch of Galloway cattle, mostly imported pedigree stock, and a very fine lot of Clydesdale mares and colts. The party got back to town shortly after six o'clock and went at once to the two private pullman cars where the townspeople took hearty leave of the visitors. At 7.20 the Imperial Limited came along and the pullmans were attached and the visitors left for Moosejaw after expressing appreciation of the way in which they had been treated in Medicine Hat.

Editor of The Times.

Dear Sir,

Now. Liberals and Conservatives have chosen their generals and are marshalling their armies, we can expect to witness some scientific hatchet soon. I noticed while walking around town on Saturday last something serious was near at hand, men were together in groups, looking serious and wise, discussing the merits and demerits of the opposing armies, with noses touching each others whiskers. Secrecy is good in such cases, but very disagreeable to me. If I take whiskey I want it neat, under no conditions will my stomach stand whiskey and tobacco smoke filtered through whiskers. This apology to my friends for being absent from the liberal meeting.

There are many disatisfied in the Liberal and Conservative parties. No hide bound politics should be brought in these new provinces every voter should know enough to think for himself, and remain a voter when he becomes a politician, he may not be lookin with a single eye. Never forget the point its independent voters that change governments when they get too crooked. Certain parties in this new province seem as eager to grasp power, as a baby to grasp the promised rattle. I have hated the gang since the Board of Trade Convention held in Regina in July last, they were a mixture of both political parties. They were holding out baits of bribery, by fixing or proposing fat salaries for the Ministers of the new Provinces, proposing amendments to the present North West Exemption Act, to destroy its usefulness. Every voter that doesn't understand the North-West exemption Act, should at once learn it, and understand its value to him. 20,000,000 bushels of wheat would not have been grown west of Port Arthur, in any one year, up to this date, had it not been for the exemption law. The garnishee should be wiped out entirely; it has driven hundreds of men from this country across to Uncle Sam's domain. Men unfortunately get into debt through sickness or otherwise and won't work again under the existing conditions. The debts are not the fault of the debtor. Remember this country is uncertain of crops, no manufacturers or consuming population. Your only means of paying debts lies in the export market and that may be glutted and your stuff not wanted. Therefore your exemptions must not be impaired, but on the other hand strengthened, now vote for no man that won't pledge himself to allow no tinkering with the present North West exemptions.

I have no axe to grind but would like these two political parties to learn if the voters of these two new provinces are not yet quite able to do their own thinking. It an independent candidate will come out in every district of these two new provinces, it will be the greatest surprise these people of sure things have run up against for some time. Independents have not been fortunate but now is the time to show these big parties, that for the future a large portion are quite able to do their own thinking.

I have voted Liberal and perhaps shall again in Dominion Elections, but am no hide bound voter, no respect belongs to a server or scrawler, and no one wants such a person near them in their own heart. Every man that is born should feel himself a King in spirit and dignity in every position of life, and will before any kind of perfection stage is reached.

I remain your humble and obedient servant

W. D. CAVAN.

A NIGHTMARE

Gives point to the fact that excessive or irregular eating disturbs the digestion. Nightmare or night hag has its day time correspondence in the undue fullness after eating, with the belchings and sour or bitter rising so often experienced after too hasty or too hearty eating.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia or bad stomach. When the weak stomach is strengthened and invigorated the whole body shares in the increased strength derived from food properly digested and perfectly assimilated.

"I was a victim of sleeplessness and extreme nervousness induced by chronic indigestion and I felt heavy, tired and worn out continually," writes Miss Mary Smith, of 1818 No. Wabasch Street, Colorado Springs, Colo. "Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was the only medicine which relieved me. Within a week after I began using it that heavy oppressed feeling after meals left me, and I found that I was able to sleep better than for months previously. My appetite was gradually restored, general system was toned up, nervousness became a thing of the past and I have now been in splendid health for over nine months."

Sometimes a selfish dealer tempted by the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines will offer the customer a substitute as being "just as good" as the "Discovery." It may be better for him because it pays better, but it is not as good for you, if you want the medicine that has cured others, and which you believe will cure you.

1008-page Doctor Book sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover postage only. 21 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Formerly sold for $1.50 to extent of over 500,000 copies. Every family should possess a copy for ready reference in case of sudden illness or accident. It is illustrated with hundreds of wood-cuts and several colored plates. Address Dr. R. V. "Throw up your hands, quick!"

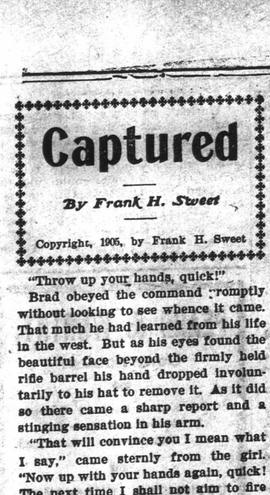
Brad obeyed the command promptly without looking to see whence it came. That much he had learned from his life in the west. But as his eyes found the beautiful face beyond the firmly held rifle barrel his hand dropped involuntarily to his hat to remove it. As it did so there came a sharp report and a stinging sensation in his arm.

"That will convince you I mean what I say," came sternly from the girl. "Now up with your hands again, quick! The next time I shall not aim to fire between your arm and head, but to hit."



Brad smiled grimly. Evidently the sudden motion of his arm had caught the bullet which was merely intended to graze it, and from the excruciating pain and his inability to raise the arm from its limp position at his side he realized that the bone was shattered.

"Throw them up," repeated the girl impatiently, "or I shall shoot."

"No need for that," drawled Brad, "for I could have drawn and used my revolver before this. Just you tell me what to do, and I'll do it. No use monkeying with the 'hands up' business any more."

He waited stolidly, half expecting another shot, but it did not come. The girl was looking at him undecidedly.

"Well," she concluded at length, "I don't know as it is really necessary for your hands to remain up. I am not afraid. In spite of what you say I could kill you half a dozen times before you could draw and level a weapon. In all fairness I advise you not to make the attempt. Now remove your revolvers carefully, with the muzzles toward the ground, and drop them beside your rifle. There, that is right," as the weapons were slipped from the belt and dropped to the ground. "Now walk twenty paces down the valley and remain standing with your back toward me. I will pick up your weapons and restore them in due time."

"NOW WALK STRAIGHT TOWARD THAT HOUSE."

"Too much for you to carry, all of them," remonstrated Brad. "My rifle is mighty heavy. Better fire it off and hand it over to me."

"I will attend to them," sharply. "You are talking too much. Walk forward now twenty paces."

As he started to obey there came a savage growl, and he half turned. Instantly the rifle muzzle was looking him in the eyes. "None of that," the girl admonished, "and let me add that I shall not give you much more advice."

"But the bear"—

"The bear is in a trap and perfectly safe," curtly. "And"—

"Then let me kill him for you and take off the pelt," urged Brad eagerly, and he turned half around.

The girl's eyes were as steely as the barrel of her rifle. "I shall not parley with you any more," she said. "If you do not turn instantly and obey my orders I shall fire. I understand your wish to take off the skin. You had already planned that, but did not expect to find me here to mar previous successes. Now turn."

Brad did so promptly.

A moment later he heard her gathering up the weapons. Then, "Now walk straight toward that house you can see among the trees."

Halfway to the house Brad called over his shoulder:

"Would you mind explaining that remark about previous successes?"

The girl was silent.

"Struck me as sort of mysterious," Brad went on reflectively, "seeing we're strangers and I've never been in the country before. Though, of course"—after waiting a few moments—"you are not believing much I say just now. But there's another thing I'd like to ask"—after a longer pause—"did you ever hear of a man shooting through his pocket?"

Receiving no answer to this, he continued coolly: "You see, folks out this way have to get into habits like that. Why, I know persons who could pick a man's buttons off just as easy through this pocket as they could by drawing and taking aim. And that reminds me, did you notice after I dropped my hands that the right one has been in its pocket most of the time?"

"What do you mean?" sharply. "That you have a revolver there?"

"Sometimes I meet up with cases like this when I do not have time to draw in the regular way," said Brad reflectively. "Then it is convenient to have a weapon lying loose in the pocket. I have ruined a lot of clothes practicing that way."

"Have you a revolver lying there now?"

"Yes, and had you been a desperado I might have used it. Here it is." And he half turned, tossing the revolver at her feet. Involuntarily the muzzle of her rifle lowered.

"Why did you not shoot me if you could?" she demanded.

"Shoot a girl like you? Oh, Lord!"

They walked on for several rods, then he called again over his shoulder, "Would you mind repeating that remark about previous successes?"

"Why, you have been coming to the mouth of the valley and removing skins from the bears we caught in our traps. This would have made six, only as soon as I found the grizzly was caught I went up there to watch." The girl tried to speak sternly, but Brad fancied he could detect doubt in her voice.

"The grizzlies caught our cattle," the girl added after a few moments, "and they all seemed to enter the valley through the gully. That's why we set traps there."

"And are there no men here for such work?"

She hesitated, but only for a moment. Apparently the voluntary surrender of the third revolver had disturbed her self confidence.

"My father was thrown from his horse last week and had his leg broken," she answered, "and the only man besides him is a half breed we hire. He is busy elsewhere today."

"You are taking me to your father?"

"Yes, that was my intention, but I don't feel quite as sure now. If you will tell me you had nothing whatever to do with the bears I—I suppose you could go back. I would not like to make a mistake."

"It is impossible for me to go back now," said Brad decidedly. "You see, I am under suspicion and could not think of going until thoroughly cleared. It would leave a taint upon my character. I"— But she had been watching him for some minutes intently, an odd look of consternation coming to her face. That arm, with its hand resting loosely in the pocket, hung strangely limp and lifeless. Suddenly she whirled to him.

"Did I—did I"— she began. Then: "Yes, I know I did. You need not say. You would turn it off with some foolishness. That arm is shattered. I know it from the way it looks. We must hurry to the house now so I can attend to it."

Two weeks later he was lounging in an easy chair on the piazza of a house half hidden among the trees, his arm in a sling. The girl was standing near him. Evidently the two had been talking.

"It is fortunate for us that you came," the girl observed. "We never once thought of the half breed being the thief. He might have carried off all our cattle if you had not come and discovered him."

"It is a thousand times more fortunate for me, Leslie, that I came and—and shall never have to go away again," Brad returned gravely. "You can hardly realize what a home will mean to me." He turned his face away, conscious that a soft flush was coming to her. But she did not appear angry. Presently he felt her hand slipping into his.

A Charm That Failed.

Major P. H. G. Powell-Cotton had some unique experiences during his twenty months of travel in little known districts in Africa. In telling of the superstition of the natives he says: "Among the week's washing I had given my boy a vest, which when the other things came back was missing. He made some excuse about mending it, and I thought no more of the matter till in the early morning I happened to catch sight of two of my men bringing it back from the direction of a Swahili trader's camp. Some time afterward I learned that the trader was regarded as a great worker of charms. The vest had been taken to him, and he had been asked to cast such a spell over it that when it next touched my skin any desire I might harbor of going far afield would melt away. When the charm was of no effect the explanation given by my men was that before leaving England I had acquired witchcraft potent enough to render their magic powerless."

Took It For Granted.

When Lady Dawy was advanced in years there came to Rome a very foolish Russian on whose credulity his friends used to practice. Among other things they informed him that there had till shortly before been in the city an English lady at whose house her friends used to assemble. After her death they found it so inconvenient to lose their point of meeting that they had her embalmed and placed every evening on her accustomed ottoman. As he became very anxious to assist at one of these strange reunions, some one agreed to take him there. When he arrived, there, sure enough, sat the shriveled old lady. He circumnavigated the ottoman several times, finding all that he had been told was too true, then threw up his arms and with the cry, "It is too horrible!" rushed from the room.—Sir Grant Duff's "Notes From a Diary."

Danger in Meat Scraps.

When buying scraps from the butcher there is apt to be a good many pieces of string among them, also skewers, hooks, tacks and other things injurious to fowls, says J. M. Adamson in the Housekeeper. One day I noticed a young hen trying to pick up a kernel of corn, and, observing that she did not succeed, I glanced at her again, and again she tried and failed and yet again, after which I caught her, knowing there must be something wrong. Upon opening the bill I saw she had no tongue, so I killed her and upon investigation found she had literally swallowed her tongue. She had in some unknown manner looped a piece of cord about twelve inches long around her tongue and swallowed both ends. As whatever a chicken swallows must "move on," the ends went first and had dragged the double tongue and all, down her throat.

1,000 Monastic Houses.

Some remarkable facts and figures concerning the increase of monastic institutions in Great Britain are given in the current issue of The English Churchman.

The following table shows the progress of monastic institutions for more than a century:

	Monasteries.	Convents.	Total.
1780	...	1	1
1850	11	50	61
1880	140	306	446
1905	290	711	1,001

Of the 1,001 institutions in England and Wales, 177—forty-eight for men and 129 for women—are in London. The majority—132—are on the north side of the River Thames. Lancashire, with 137 houses, heads the Provinces. Scotland, which only had one convent in 1850, has now a total of 65.

Edward the Shrewd.

Commenting on the fact that King Edward's father used to be referred to as "Albert the Good," a French writer says that the present Sovereign of Great Britain should be called "Edward the Shrewd." The writer adds: "Since his accession to the throne King Edward has not made in international affairs a single mistake, which is more than can be said for his nephew and nephew-in-law of Germany and Russia."

Chicken Notes.

Do not buy poor stock because it is cheap.

Don't feed cheap food or give cheap remedies.

Shelled corn is good food to make hens lay in cold weather.

Hay in the nest boxes is more inviting to the hens than sand.

Do not change the egg boxes or laying places from one place to another, as it retards the laying.

Cut fresh bone is one of the best animal foods, both to induce egg production and promote growth.—Feather.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Many a man wouldn't mind earning his living if it weren't such hard work.

Frogs should lead a delightful life. With them it is spring all the year round.

If it sometimes rained dollars people would go out with their umbrellas, but they would have them turned the wrong side up.

A hen is no cannibal even when she eats her own head off.

It may be something of a trick to ride a bucking broncho, but the real test comes when a man tries to ride a hobby.

Ever notice how much easier it is to break away from good habits than from bad ones?

The really strongminded woman is the one who never lets her husband suspect it of her.

When eggs are 50 cents a dozen the prudent man will content himself with reading the "Lay of the Last Minstrel."

It takes a strongminded man to be good when he isn't being watched.

It is not always possible to get a reliable line on a woman's temper by watching her when she is talking to the minister.

Used to Be.

The good old days of used to be
Are praised in song and story;
No more their rosy light we see—
Gone is their golden glory.
The sodden leaves of vanished years
About their hid graves tumble;
From them no ray of light appears
To guide our feet that stumble.

At least such cry has rung for long
From our discouraged brothers;
We gather from their sorrow song
The present harshly smothers
All aspirations pure and high,
The olden notions chiding,
And so they only sit and sigh,
The present day deriding.

The good old days of used to be
Were treasure gardens truly;
Its troubles when no more we see
The past we praise unduly.
We care not for these bygone ills;
'Tis good alone we cherish;
So memory's golden goblet fills
With joys that will not perish.

But used to be and present time
Are quite alike, my brother.
If one is worthy song and rhyme,
Then truly is the other.
The only difference is that we
Are held so close to Sorrow,
His brother, Joy, we cannot see
Until tomorrow's morrow.

So Humane!

"He thinks some of having his clock arrested for cruelty."

"What has it done? Fallen on something?"

"No; it is always striking the hour."

Just His Kind.

"He is very anxious to find out about his family tree."

"Well, judging from its fruit, it must have been a slippery elm."

Jolly Him.

Do a good deed,
Make the old father glad;
Tell him the baby
Looks just like its dad.
If you are broke
Or your pocket is slim,
Then you can borrow
Good money from him.

Poor Opinion of Herself.

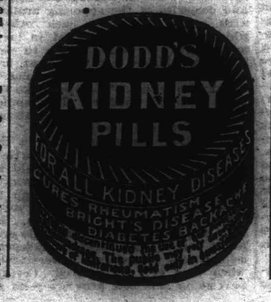
"She is afraid some man will marry her for her money."

"She must think that is her greatest charm."

Her Strong Point.

"Who won out in the birds' beauty show?"

"The swan, of course. She won by a neck."



Costs Money.

Free shows are good as such things go,
But when you're out on pleasure bent
And want to view the three ring show
It costs to see the elephant.

Not Expensive Enough to Be Ugly.

"Her hat does not become her at all."

"That is strange. She bought it at a reasonable price too."

VULTURES OF MEXICO

HOW THESE BIRDS HAUNT THE ARID ALKALI PLAINS.

The Whirring Black Cone of Eager Desert Scavengers and the Way In Which the Circling Mass Descends Upon Its Carrion Prey.

At night the moon looks down upon a desolate, arid plain, stretching away to the great Sierra Madre mountain chain, deep, shadowy blue, against the western sky. The air is chill, and a bleak wind searches out every fold in our blankets—we might almost be spending a night on the tundras.

With scarce a moment of dawn the sun floods everything, a most welcome warmth for awhile, soon to make one gasp in its breathless heat. Long before the rainy season actually begins vegetation seems to feel a quickening in the air; the plants scent the coming moisture weeks beforehand; the rushing streams, swollen with the melting snows from the lower mountain tops, bring life to the lands through which they flow; spring is awakening everywhere—except on the alkali plain.

Where a thin rind of red brown grass roots partly covers the white dust, parched mesquite bushes find root, and strange, uncouth organ cacti rear their columns, like mammoth candelabra. Here wild eyed cattle roam uneasily, nibbling occasionally at the bitter grass stems.

Farther out in the desert, where even the mesquite and cacti fail, we ride slowly across the parched surface, wondering if a single living thing can endure the bitterness of the earth. In the distance move the whirlwinds of dust, tall, thin columns with perfectly distinct outlines, undulating slowly here and there, both life and death in their silent movement.

Most remarkable it seems to us when a stray great blue heron now and then flies silently up from the desert (what can possibly attract these birds to such a place of death as this, distant even from the bitter pools?) and flaps slowly out of sight. Twice a great ebony raven sails through the dusty air over our heads—the same bird repassing. No other life is visible save the balanced black specks high against the blue, as invariably a part of a Mexican day as are stars of the night. Herons, vultures, raven—all move slowly, seeming less alive than the distant dust columns.

But we feel the real spirit of the eternal desert when, as we turn to retrace our steps, we spy a something white, different from the surrounding earth, and the spell of past ages falls upon us. The bitter water is ever drying up, the whirlwinds carry the dust from place to place, the birds come and go as they please, but this relic of an elephant of the olden time brings past and present into close touch. What scenes has the desert looked upon since this mammoth staggered dying into the quagmire which proved its tomb? Our eyes smart from the dust as we reluctantly turn our horses' heads on the back trail, for we should like to stay and search out these fossils—more fascinating in a way than the living beasts and birds which people the tropics beyond.

One of the most wonderful of the exhibitions of bird life vouchsafed to us in Mexico comes as we leave the alkali plain and ride away among the mesquite scrub. A confused mass of black appears in the air, which soon resolves itself into hundreds of individual specks. The atmosphere is so deceiving that what at first seems to be a vast cloud of gnats close at hand is soon seen to be a multitude of birds—blackbirds, perhaps, until we approach and think them ravens and, finally, when a quarter of a mile away, we know that they are vultures. Three burros lie dead upon the plain. This we knew yesterday, and here are the scavengers. Never have we seen vultures so numerous or in such order.

A careful scrutiny through the glasses shows many score of black and turkey buzzards walking about and feeding upon the carcases of the animals. From this point there extends upward into the air a vast inverted cone of birds, all circling in the same direction. From where we sit upon our horses there seems not a single one out of place, the outline of the cone being as smooth and distinct as though the birds were limited in their flight to this particular area. It is a rare sight, the sun lighting up every bird on the farther side and shadowing black as night those nearest us.

Through one's partly closed eyes the whole mass appears as a myriad of slowly revolving wheels, intersecting and crosing each other's orbits, but never breaking their circular outline. The thousands of soaring forms hold us spellbound for minutes before we rode closer. Now a change takes place, as gradual but as sure as the shifting clouds of a sunset. Until this moment there had been a tendency to concentrate at the base of the cone, that portion becoming blacker and blacker, until it seemed a solid mass of rapidly revolving forms. But at our near approach, this concentration ceases and there is perfect equilibrium for a time. Then, as we ride up a gentle slope into clearer view, a wonderful ascent begins. Slowly the creeping spiral wings upward; the gigantic inverted cone, still perfect in shape, lifts clear of the ground and drifts away; the summit rises in a curve, which, little by little, frays out into ragged lines, all drifting in the same direction, and before our very eyes the thousands of birds merge into a shapeless, undulating cloud, which rises and rises, spreading out more and more until the eye can no longer distinguish the birds, which from vultures dwindle to mere motes floating and lost among the clouds.—C. William Beebe in New York Post.

An Appreciative Welshman.

The following tasty inscription is from a family mausoleum erected by a Welsh landowner and magistrate in Merionethshire. To expend turf winnings on erecting a tomb looks at first sight eccentric, but possibly the builder was moved by the reflection that betting has brought many to their graves:

As to my latter end I go
To seek my jubilee
I bless the good horse Bendigo,
That built this tomb for me.

HIS GRAVEL WAS SURELY CURED

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS REMOVED THE STONES.

And now Reuben Draper is well and Strong After his long Suffering.

Bristol, Que., July 24.—(Special)—Reuben Draper, a well-known resident here, keeps the proof right with him that Dodd's Kidney Pills will surely cure the much dreaded Gravel. The proof consists of two stones, one the size of a small bean and the other the size of a grain of barley. He passed three stones and was relieved of all the terrible pains they caused after using Dodd's Kidney Pills for a short time.

Mr. Draper is confident that Dodd's Kidney Pills and nothing else caused his cure, as he tried two doctors without getting help, and was fast getting weak and despondent when he stopped all other treatment and started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. In a week he passed the large stone and four days later the smaller one.

This cure causes a feeling of relief over people in these parts as it shows those terrible operations, long thought to be unavoidable in case of Gravel, are no longer necessary.

Hushed are the evening songs, the lutes of ease;
In the war flame, that old ancestral pyre,
He casts his hopes of home, wife, child or sire;
Instinct of race, a passion more than these,
The spirit of his country, holds him thrall;
In him forgotten heroes, forbears, rise,
Strengthening his heart to common sacrifice;
Out of the darkness generations call,
And martyr hosts that unrecorded fall
Salute him from the void with joyful cries.

FENCE AT STONEHENGE.

Attorney-General Takes Up People's Fight Against Owners.

The right of the owner of Stonehenge, the best preserved Druidical ruin in England, to keep a barbed wire fence around the ancient stones is being contested in court through a suit brought by the Attorney-General.

Sir Edmund Antrobus made himself unpopular in Amesbury, near which the ruins lie, when he erected the fence several years ago, thereby preventing the use of the paths across the common by the villagers. The fence has been destroyed several times. Now the Attorney-General asks an injunction compelling Sir Edmund to remove the fence.

The Druidical remains were undoubtedly erected many centuries before the Christian era, and, indeed, some antiquaries say they dated about 1,680 years before Christ.

They were visited from the earliest times for the purpose of public worship, and the holding of meetings, and it was said that probably they marked the burial places of kings and great warriors.

It is contended that the roads leading to the Druidical temple are highways, and the public, therefore, had the right to use them, as they had used them without interruption until 1901.

Sir Edmund Antrobus' defence is that the approach roads were simply private ways, and were the property of the lord of the manor. They could not be described as highways, because they only led to the ancient temple, and nowhere else.

Tibet and Queen Victoria.

Quaint information concerning Tibet was plentiful in the lecture by Perceval Landon at the British Academy recently. Perhaps the most extraordinary notion existing in Tibet is that a Tibetan goddess had come to life again in Queen Victoria.

Mr. Landon showed a picture of this goddess, and stated that a Tibetan had pointed out to him that the country was not invaded during the late Queen's reign. Within two years of her death, however, the expedition took place.

Colonel Younghusband had an interview with one of the Tibetan abbes which illustrates the complete self-satisfaction of the people. The abbe was shown a gramophone and other examples of the most recent efforts of European and American science, but he evinced no surprise.

The abbe declared that the earth was shaped like a leg of mutton and that Tibet occupied more than half its entire area.

New Earl of Morley.

The new Earl of Morley, who has just been raised to the House of Lords through the death of his father, spent some time in America as Lord Boringdon, and narrowly escaped being blown up while traveling on the Pacific. While returning from Norfolk Island to Sydney, in Australia, the ship, the Avalon, caught fire, and the captain decided to run for Lord Howe Island, which was about a hundred miles off. When within a couple of miles of the shore all on board were compelled to take to the boats, and before they had got more than 500 yards away there was a terrific explosion, the ship immediately disappearing beneath the waves in a column of flame and smoke. Lord Morley, who thus miraculously escaped death, is unmarried, and the heir to his earldom and to his estates in Derbyshire is his second brother, the Hon. Montagu Parker of the Grenadier Guards, who was badly wounded in the South African war.

Obtaining entrance with this sum to a lavatory, No. 1 removed his nether garments. These were pawned by No. 2 for 50 cents. With the capital thus brought into the business he bought a watch on the instalment system. A loan of $2.50 was now floated with the aid of the watch at a second pawnbroker's. He returned to pawnbroker A and took "out" the trousers, which were then resumed by No. 1, and the two divided between them the $2 minus working expenses, friction on boot leather, etc. Allowing for Sundays and short holidays for the directors on the Riviera, the company's annual profits at this rate would be nearly 3,000,000 per cent.—London Globe.

MEDICINE HAT, N. W. T.

New Home of Winnipeg Free Press.

SOMETHING ABOUT THE PALATIAL QUARTERS OF THE MANITOBA FREE PRESS, WINNIPEG.

Western Canada's great daily newspaper, the Manitoba Free Press, is just settling down after having moved into its palatial new home on the corner of Portage avenue and Garry street, Winnipeg.

The building is the largest in the Dominion of Canada devoted to newspaper publication. Security, convenience and beauty are the three considerations paramount in its construction. As to security, the new Free Press building is as nearly fire-proof as it is possible to make it. The massive pressed brick and stone exterior, strong as it appears, is but an outer shell, the building being structurally a steel cage, with every one of its enormously strong columns and girders completely enclosed in brick, terra cotta or other fire resisting material. The floors throughout are of concrete, strengthened and braced by heavy steel netting buried in the material. On this concrete floor the outer wooden skin is laid. So non-combustible is the Free Press building that a fire could be started in any part of the premises, and the staff could stand around and watch it, secure in the knowledge that though the wooden floor, the doors, partitions and window frames might be consumed, absolutely no damage could be done to the structural framework of the edifice. The heavy losses which ordinarily result from floors collapsing during the progress of a fire, thus allowing heavy and expensive machinery to descend upon the top of other expensive plant in the lower stories, are altogether obviated by the concrete form of construction of the floors in the Free Press building. But to make assurance of protection doubly sure, a complete fire extinguishing plant has been installed, water being stored in an immense tank in the roof, supplied by powerful pumps from the artesian well, over 200 feet deep, in the basement.

The pump, feeding the reservoir, is in constant operation, save when the tank is full, when an automatic device shuts it off. As the water lowers the same device automatically starts the pump working again. The well, which ranks next to the city wells in point of size, affords an abundant supply of water for the engines, the hydraulic newspaper and mailing elevators, the ordinary domestic wants, two drinking fountains, and the hose for sidewalk and street sprinkling. In addition to the capacious artesian well the Free Press possesses a fire stand pipe running from basement to attic. A second powerful duplex double action pump, attached to the steam plant and connected with the city mains, pumps water directly into the standpipe at a pressure sufficent to throw a stream of water through a three-quarter inch nozzle one hundred feet high.

In beauty of external design and of interior finish, the Free Press will bear comparison with any other newspaper office in or out of Canada. From the massive cut stone lower floors to its handsome cornice — which is moulded of copper—no detail that would add to its appearance has been omitted because of its cost. The rooms are lofty and spacious. The main office, in which the public transacts its business with the paper, is perhaps the most nobly proportioned and handsomely finished of any newspaper office outside of New York. The staircases are constructed of marble and steel, the woodwork is of solid oak in antique finish. The furniture was expressly designed, and is in complete harmony with the rest of the building.

In the big pressroom in the basement which is overlooked from the street on two sides, and on the third by a gallery specially built for the accommodation of visitors, so that the whole work of printing and mailing can be seen, are the two huge Hoe perfecting presses, one of which can turn out twentyfour thousand perfectly folded and printed 16-page papers in an hour, the smallest sized paper the Free Press ever presents to its readers. Working in conjunction the two presses have a capacity of 34,000 16-page newspapers per hour. These monsters eat up five tons or ten thousand pounds of white paper every working day. In the matter of newspaper color printing, the Free Press plant ranks first in the Dominion, the big Hoe press being equipped with a specially constructed color deck, capable of printing the paper at one operation in from one to four colors.

Adjoining this room is the mailing department, with its distributing and delivery rooms where the brigade of 130 delivery boys and an army of newsboys receive their supply of papers. To the rear is the power plant, the boiler room, with three boilers, each of 100 h. p. and the power room, where three almost silent engines transform steam into electrical energy. Everything in the Free Press building is done by electricity, save keeping the accounts, writing the news, and operating the hydraulic mailing and newspaper lifts; water from the artesian wells supplying the motor power for these machines. In the engine room are located power lathes and a complete repair shop, enabling the Free Press to repair quickly, and at any time, breakages in its machinery. So complete is this plant that even a forge and anvil, together with a complete blacksmith's outfit has been installed. Situated 1,500 miles from the point, at which, in the case of a break to its big presses, the parts could be obtained, the Free Press relies upon its skilled employees and its own repair plant to make and replace broken parts.

The same careful provision is made to guard against a breakdown in its power and lighting plant. One huge boiler is always in reserve. A duplicate power and lighting plant is capable to start up at a moment's notice and even in the event—a remote one—of the duplicate plant breaking down, a third is available in an instant through a conduit connection with the power and lighting plant of the Winnipeg Electric Street Railway company. Indeed every possible precaution appears to have been taken to prevent that greatest of disasters—a failure to get out the paper on time. The motors are so attached to the big newspaper presses that they can be disconnected inside of three minutes, and by an elaborate system of eye-bolts and over-head trolleys affixed to the steel ceiling girders, should an accident occur to one of the propelling machines which weighs over a ton, from fifteen to eighteen minutes suffice to change one motor for another.

The chances of an accident to its big newspaper press are rendered still more remote by the employment of an interesting piece of machinery attached to the press known as an electrical speed controller. There are many types of controller on the market, but the one adopted by the Free Press, the Kohler system, is conceded to be far the most up-to-date, having many features not possessed by any other make. Owing to the heavy cost of installation only the largest newspapers in the United States have been able to adopt the Kohler system of speed control as applied to newspaper presses. When the Free Press introduced the first and only Kohler controller into Canada the makers remarked that western Canadians must be a progressive people as Winnipeg had the distinction of being the smallest city on the American continent which owned one of their machines. Equipped with the Kohler system the huge press with its 32,000 working parts, is under perfect control. Electrical starting and stopping stations, with wires running from a switchboard, are located at convenient parts of the press and by pressing buttons at any one of these the press can be started, speeded up, slowed down, and in case of accident, stopped instantly.

Conduits are constructed all through the building, and take the wires where ever power is required. In all the premises there is not a single power shaft, nor an overhead hanger dripping oil, nor a complication of belting. Every press, paper cutter, linotype, stereotype or other machine is driven by its own independent motor.

Over the press and power rooms, located in the basement, is the business office, already described, with the cylinder press room to the rear. A spacious hall glittering with plate glass leads to the speedy passenger elevator which gives access to the floors above.

That immediately above the business office is given over to the news writing department. Here are located the offices of the editor-in-chief, the editorial writers and sub-editors, each of whom has finely appointed quarters. The next floor is devoted to news setting. Here is the battery of eleven Mergenthaler Linotypes, on which is set the body of the news appearing twice daily in the Free Press. The "ad alley" in which the advertisements are set, is the most completely equipped in Canada, as is necessary when it is considered that the Free Press carries more advertising than any other paper in the Dominion. On this floor too, is the stereotyping department, in which the pages of type—technically known as "forms"—are cast by rapid and ingenious machinery into semi-cylindrical plates, of exactly the same curvature as the cylinders of the big Hoe presses in the basement, to which these are sent by a special elevator.

On the fourth floor is the job printing department, composing room and book bindery, where printing of all kinds, from a dodger to a magazine, is produced. This floor is a spacious, well lighted, airy, free from dust and affords healthful surroundings for the employees. No finer composing room exists anywhere. Above this is the attic storey, used for storage, be raised three or four storeys without any disturbance of work in the lower portion of building. From the roof, the outlook from which has already made it popular with visitors, a fine view of the city is obtainable.

A modern newspaper is one of the most wonderful products of complex organization. It is the combined result of many of the most remarkable and epoch marking inventions. The steam engine, the dynamoe, the electric telegraph, which annihilates distance, the telephone, which carries the sound of human speech hundreds of miles, the Mergenthaler, which sets up lines of type as quickly as the operator can touch the keys, and the perfecting press, which devours huge rolls of white paper that but a short time before were part of a spruce forest—all these were necessary before the public could see at a glance what "moving accidents by flood and field" were happening at home and abroad; what statesmen and politicians were doing at Ottawa, at London, at Washington; the triumph of Togo, and the struggle between Oyama and Linevitch; the arrival of vessels bearing friends; the prospects of harvest and the prices of grain;—these, with local happenings of a less momentous but almost as interesting a character, and to some at least of the newspaper readers, the just as important announcements of the merchants and business men, are all looked forward to twice a day, and make their appearance regularly, sometimes in spite of stupendous difficulties. Before this and other news can be read in the paper carelessly thrown by the delivery boy at a subscriber's door, hundreds of skilled and highly trained men must each contribute their quota to the net result, and all must work at the highest speed and effectiveness. It is the knowledge of these things that makes a newspaper office, which is the centre and gathering point of all these complex organizations, such a perennial centre of public attraction. When all the resources for securing and publishing the news are as complete as in the new home of the Free Press, it is no wonder that it is already one of the show places of Western Canada's biggest city, and that no visitor to Winnipeg will hence forth be considered to have seen all that should be seen until he has inspected the home of Western Canada's greatest daily newspaper.

Dreaded Results of Kidney Disease

Ailments of the Most Painful and Fatal Nature Prevented and Cured by

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

When you think of the pain and suffering which accompany backache, rheumatism, lumbago, stone in the kidneys and bladder; when you think of the dreadful fatality of Bright's disease, dropsy, diabetes and apoplexy, you may well wonder why people neglect to keep the kidneys in perfect order, for all these ailments are the direct result of deranged kidneys.

Once the kidneys fail to filter from the blood the impure and poisonous waste matter there is trouble of a painful and dangerous nature. Among the first symptoms are backache, weak, lame back, pains in the legs and sides, deposits in the urine, impaired digestion, loss of flesh, energy and ambition, stiffness and soreness in the joints and feelings of weariness and lassitude.

Prevention is always better than cure, and hence the advisability of using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills on the very first indication of such derangement. Whether to prevent or cure, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the most effective treatment you can obtain, for besides their direct and specific action on the kidneys, they keep the bowels regular and the liver active, and hence purify the system and remove the cause of disease.

This medicine has long since proven its right to first place as a cure for the complicated and serious derangements of the filtering and excretory organs. It has the largest sale and is endorsed by more people than any similar treatment. You can depend on it absolutely to bring prompt relief and lasting cure. In view of these facts it is a waste of time and money and a risk to life itself to rifle with new and untried remedies when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are at hand. One pill a dose, 25c. a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. A minister often has a hard time convincing a young man whom he has just married that there is no regular price for the ceremony and yet leaving such an impression that he will be sure to get a liberal donation," said the Rev. C. P. Smith, pastor of the North Side Christian Church in Kansas City, Kan., "and we often have some amusing experiences in connection with the matter. I remember one instance about ten years ago when I was preaching at Walla Walla, Wash. There was no negro preacher in town and I was often called upon to perform a ceremony between negroes. One afternoon after I had married a young negro couple, the groom asked me what was the price for the service. "'Oh, well,' said I, 'you can pay me whatever you think it is worth to you.' "The negro turned and silently looked his bride over from head to foot, then slowly rolling up the whites of his eyes to me, said: "'Lawd, sah, you has done ruined me for life.'"

A POINTER ON PERSONAL BEAUTY.

From "Success Magazine.")

There is a saying that every time a sheep bleats, it loses a mouthful of hay." Every time a woman worries she loses a little of her attractiveness and takes on marks of age.

If your servant scorches the soup or overcooks the meat, never mind. You cannot afford to worry about it, and if you scold her, you may make up your mind to lose some of your beauty, to let go some of your magnetism.

If the members of the family are habitually late, try to remedy it, but don't worry about it. If you do, you will grow older in the process.

If your husband or children do things that do not please you, do not nag at them. This will only aggravate the evil you complain of, and it will cost you some of their love and respect. Every time you nag you lose a little of your power to charm and attract them to you.

If the cleaners spoil your favorite dress, don't get angry about it. An outbreak of hot temper will take away much more of your attractiveness than your dress could supply.

If you lose your pocketbook, don't worry about it. Worrying will not bring it back, but it will take out of your face and disposition that which money can never replace.

If you meet with bitter disappointment, don't fret, don't cry over it. If you do, you pay a penalty which you can ill afford. No woman can fret and nag and worry and keep away the marks of age—or retain her beauty and power to please.

WIRE WOUNDS.

My mare, a very valuable one, was badly bruised and cut by being caught in a wire fence. Some of the wounds would not heal, although I tried many different medicines. Dr. Bell advised me to use MINARD'S LINIMENT, diluted at first, then stronger as the sores began to look better, until after three weeks, the sores have healed and best of all the hair is growing well, and is not white as is most always the case in horse wounds.

To which Jones hesitatingly replied: "Please, sir, it was the elephant's baby."

Impurities in the Blood.—When the action of the Kidneys becomes impaired, impurities in the blood are almost sure to follow, and general derangement of the system ensues. Parmelee's Vegetabl Pills will regulate the kidneys, so that they will maintain healthy action and prevent the complications which will certainly come when there is derangement of these delicate organs. As a restorative these pills are in the first rank.

A Private letter recently received in New York from a Russian woman, according to the Tribune, quotes the following little story as an illustration of the present situation and the popular attitude in Russia:—"Japan would have consented to peace with been able to send the Mikado the following persons: Two functionaries not drink; one muojik who has never drink; one muojik who has never been whipped; one workman who has always had enough to eat. But the Czar was unable to find such persons in his whole country, and offered instead: Admiral Alexieff, Grand Duke Sergius, General Orloff, Admiral Ouchtomsky; and the priest, Jean de Cronstadt. But the Mikado would not accept these substitutes, and that is why the war still goes on."

A Cure for Rheumatism.—The intrusion of uric acid into the blood vessels is a fruitful cause of rheumatic pains. This irregularity is owing to a deranged and unhealthy condition of the liver. Anyone subject to this painful affection will find a remedy in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Their action on the kidneys is pronounced and most beneficial, and by restoring healthy action they correct impurities in the blood.

What is the Meaning of "Well Balanced" Flour.

A perfectly "balanced" flour is one which contains the greatest amount of nutriment in its most easily digestable form. No single variety of wheat will produce "well balanced" flour. It requires the careful selection of different kinds.

The makers of ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR have more than a hundred elevators, scattered throughout the greatest wheat growing country in the world, which enables them to secure the very pick of the wheat that will yield perfectly balanced flour—

—The kind of flour that produces the best, the largest and the strongest loaf—

—The loaf which contains the greatest amount of bone, muscle and brain-making protein and the lowest percentage of waste.

ROYAL HOUSEHOLD makes bread which reduces the labor of digestion—and gives greatest nutrition for least stomach effort.

It's the "balance" in flour that makes bread easier to digest and gives it many other qualities which are usually attributed to other causes.

"LOOK PLEASANT."

(O. S. Marden in "Success Magazine")

What would be the effect upon civilization if everybody would keep constantly in mind that suggestion of the photographer, "Look Pleasant?" The most difficult part of the photographer's work is the effort to get the subject before the camera to rid himself of the cold, stiff, set expression of his face and to replace it by a genial, kindly look or a smile. He is not willing to reproduce the sitter until he succeeds, because he knows that the change of expression will transform the protograph.

How the habit of looking pleasant would revolutionize our natures, and civilization itself! If we could only get rid of the hard, eager, worried look habitual to many of us, not for the few seconds we stand before the camera, but for all our lives, how bright the world would grow!

Nearly all infants are more or less subject to diarrhoea and such complaints while teething and as this period of their lives is the most critical, mothers should not be without a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. This medicine is a specific for such complaints and is highly spoken of by those who have used it. The proprietors claim it will cure any case of cholera or summer complaint.

A young Virginia woman who recently moved to New York with her husband brought with her a typical colored servant. The lady was quite ill, and one morning after the physician had left the servant appeared, much concerned for the welfare of her mistress. Approaching the bedside she said: "Miss May, mah mothah dun had a cousin what had de same ailments what you dun got." "Is that so, Cora?", replied the lady. "Yessum," responded Cora, encouraged, "but mah mothah's cousin she died, 'deed she did." "Well, Cora," said her mistress, angry that she should tell her such a tale at such an inopportune time, "if that's all you have to say to me you can leave the room and don't come in again. I don't want to hear such stories. You haven't the sense you were born with, and that was mighty little." Cora was thoroughly frightened at what she had done and wished to ameliorate her ill-chosen story, so she thought for a moment, and, turning to go, said: "Well, Miss May, mah mothah told me she died mighty easy."

"Man is Filled With Misery."—This is not true of all men. The well, sound of lung, clear of eye, alert and buoyant with health, are not miserable, whatever may be their social condition. To be well is to be happy, and we can all be well by getting and keeping our bodies in a healthful state. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will help all to do this.

SECOND ASCENT OF CROW'S NEST.

First Amateurs to Reach the Top Return without Accident.

Frank, Alta., Aug. 26.—Crow's Nest mountain, the famous peak of this southern country, was successfully scaled on Sunday last by four daring young men, they having the honor of being the first party of amatuers to have ever accomplished the dangerous feat. Only once before has the ascent been made, and then by two professionals Swiss guides, who reached the summit two years ago. They were employed by the noted W. Whymper and forstalled their employer in ascending the far famed mountain. Other mountains may be higher, but few there are that have so much dangerous surroundings, and hitherto all attempts to scale the hill by amatuers have been unsuccessful.

The party making the ascent last Sunday was comprised of K. Whimster, Frank; P. D. McTavish, Calgary; D. G. Harrower, Lethbridge and D. L. Staniger, Coleman. They have been preparing for the trip for some time, and went fully equipped, having axes, ropes, provisions, water bottles, camera, etc., with them.

A start was made from Coleman at 3 a.m. Sunday, the men taking horses from there to an old logging camp of the McLaren Co., about five miles north of Parris ranch, close up the foot of the mountain. This was the route travelled by the Whymper party two years ago. There the horses were left and the men followed the Wymphar blaze through the bush till it was lost, when they struck out for themselves, travelling four or five miles before the edge of the timber line was reached. This was accomplished and the base of the main hill reached at its southwest corner at 8.30 o'clock.

The real climbing then commenced, the party gradually working around on the shale slides to the northwest corner of the hill. There they struck a narrow ravine or crevice running up the mountain for some distance and in it was a glacier. An attempt was made to ascend the precipitous wall, but after going up 200 feet the men found their progress blocked, and they were forced to descend. Going about half way up the crevice they again attempted the precipice on the north side and after a hard struggle succeeded. For 500 feet it was almost straight up, footholds being had on narrow ledges and knobs of rocks. Mr. Whimster was in the lead and the others followed as closely as possible, ropes being used several times. Once or twice members of the party became faint and had to be held up by ropes, for a slip would have meant a horrible death.

After scaling the precipice, where was the most perilous part of the whole climb, a serious of shale slides and short cliffs were met with for several hundred feet. Thence the men worked northward along the incline, finally hitting the base of the cone on the north slope. Then for half a mile it was a stiff and dangerous climb until the summit was reached at 12.15 o'clock. There the party found a stone cairn built by the Swiss guides two years ago, an empty Dewar whiskey bottle, and a red flag. The climbers erected another cairn close by and carved their names on top. They also wrote their names on a paper and left the slip in the bottle. Besides this they stretched a cord between the two cairns and tied to it a white handkerchief, which may still be seen floating on the summit. As a memento of their trip the men brought down the Swiss flag, and a number of photos they had taken of the marvelous views to be had up there. They state the panorama from the top of the Crow's one of surpassing beauty, everything being discernible for miles in all directions.

The descent commenced at 12.15 p.m. and was negotiated in safety, McLaren's camp being reached at 6.30 and Coleman at 8.30. The Crow's Nest is 9,800 feet high, and the sides are a succession of steep precipices, and shale slides, constituting a dangerous and difficult piece of work to scale. The weather for a trip was perfect, and the atmosphere clear, with a good breeze on the summit. The ascent and descent were made without accident of any kind, the men being careful to blaze their route wherever possible. They feel highly elevated at their success, and state their reward has been ample. The honor of being the first amateurs to make the ascent was great, while the views obtained are interesting and valuable.

Other parties have been stirred up since to make the ascent and it quite probable the attempt will be made while the weather is good.

ALBERTA SHEEP BREEDERS.

Desire Change in Wool Tariff and Will Wait on Commission.

The sheep breeders of Alberta will wait on the tariff commission on their way West, respecting the present tariff on raw wool. The tariff admits to Canada free of duty certain wools, which at the time of the act were not produced in Canada. For instance, merino wool is not dutiable, though at the present time much merino wool is being produced. On the contrary, the duty that is placed on wool now is against certain classes of wool not generally produced in Canada.

The sheep breeders point to the fact that the price of wool in Canada or in Western Canada is very low compared with the price of wool in New Zealand and in Montana, although the wool is of a very similar quality and quite as good as the foreign product, the latter is the kind used in Canada. The tariff is not entirely responsible for all this, but the sheep breeders will probably bring up the whole question.

Note & Comment.

[By OBSERVER.]

Wanton waste. Village notion. Such were the remarks made at the railway station on Wednesday evening.

I had begun to hope that those in authority in this town were beginning to rise above the village notions which for some years have characterised their almost every public act, but the fond hope which I had hugged so persistently to my tender breast was rudely plucked away and dashed to the ground on Wednesday night.

What was it you ask? Well, it was just this. Some great mind conceived the idea of making some sort of a show at the station so that the great people on their way to Edmonton might know when they arrived at this point that this was Medicine Hat, the "Gas town of western Canada," and which way do you think they did it? They erected four little pipes attached to the gas main along the open space south of the station and put perforated caps on them; then they let on the gas and applied a match! The result was four flares or torches, giving a sickly, smoky light, a mere caricature of the beautiful white light our natural gas gives when burned properly.

The people who conceived this brilliant idea might be expected to bring out a horse they might have for sale and show him to aprospective purchaser, dirty and with the muck and straws of a dirty stable hanging an to his ribs and haunches.

The four flares looked just like the naptha oil lamps to be seen round shows at country fairs. If Earl Grey had happened to look out he would have thought he was viewing some rustic preparation of his boy hood days.

But doesn't this sort of thing give one the "tired feeling?" Considering our lofty aspirations as a town, it gave us a bad flop.

As I am quite in the dark as to whose idea it was no one need accuse me of being personal.

Earl Grey and his suite, Sir Wilfred Laurier and the new Lieut. Governor of the Province were invisible. They were said to be sleeping the sleep of the —weary. They didn't show up to the crowd and the crowd growled its disappointment.

One thing struck everybody very forcibly namely that Canada's Premier and the Lieut.-Governor of the Province were travelling in a much smarter car than were the direct representatives of the King. It reminded me of the story of Lord Somebody buying tickets at a railway station in a country where the Upper Ten buy first class for themselves and second class for their body servants. This particular Lord bought two firsts and two thirds and when the valet asked in some dismay why the third class tickets were for, My Lord answered: "Oh, they are for the Countess and myself, the first class tickets are for you and the lady's-maid.

The new City Hall will scarcely be complete without a good big clock which, if properly looked after will give the town one standard time to be used by everybody. Apart from the ornamental part it will play it will be a distinct advantage to the town and make the Hall complete. Then it should have illuminated faces and here our natural gas ought to come in all right but, for goodness sake, don't let anybody propose those ghastly flares we saw at the station the other night.

Some improvement will have to be effected in the manner of giving fire alarms. When the fire occurred at the new gas well on Wednesday morning the bell was rung at the fire hall butowing to the heavy wind blowing it could not be heard upon Toronto street. The result was some members of the fire brigade working in stores up that part of the town didnot hear the alarm and arrived a little late on the scene. An arrangement should be made to 'phone at once to the power house and to some responsible person close to the north side syren so that one if not both syrens could be set going and the alarm thoroughly given so as to be heard all over town.

There were enough members of the brigade at the firehall in time to get the appliances out in the usual time butour boys have made a reputation for smartness and not one wants to be late at a fire. Hence the above suggestion.

OVER THE 'PHONE.

Geraldine—Yes.
Gerald—May I come just as I am?
Geraldine—Well, how are you?—Judge.

INAUGURAL PARTY EN ROUTE WEST.

THE VICE-REGAL AND PREMIER'S PARTIES WENT THROUGH ON WEDNESDAY EVENING.

Attached to the Imperial limited which arrived here about 11 o'clock on Wednesday night, were private cars containing the notabilities who figured in the inauguration ceremonies at Edmonton. The vice-regal party consists of the Governor-General and Lady Grey, Lady Evelyn Grey, Colonel Hanbury Williams, Major Park and Captain Newton, A. D. C. In the Prime Ministers' car were Sir Wilfred Laurier, Hon. William Patterson, Sir Gilbert Parker and Mr. Rodolphe Boudreau, private secretary to Sir Wilfred. The Hon. Mr. Bulyea was also aboard.

The train was more than an hour late. The town band was in attendance and there was a good sized crowd at the station, full of curiosity and local members of the liberal party fully believed Sir Wilfred would appear and give them a spiel. They were, however, doomed to disappointment. The cars were draped in darkness, silence and gloom and the gloom was soon reflected on the previously joyous and expectant faces of Sir Wilfred Laurier's supporters. Lady Laurier appeared on the platform of the car and announced that her husband was tired and had gone to bed. She was very sorry.

The train rested the usual twenty-five minutes and a little over and one by one the friends of the premier vanished until only a group of conservatives were left and they raised cheers for "Borden."

D. G. White, the president of the Medicine Hat Liberal Association boarded the car and so far as we can learn was the only one admitted into the "holy of holies," but D. G. is mum as to whether he met the Premier face to face.

Shortly before the train left Mr. White was seen to call the Mayor andintroduce him to one of the junior members of the party.

MASON & RISCH

THE PIANO WITH A SOUL

Mason & Risch Pianos are famous for that peculiar carrying power known as the singing tone. Not all tones classed as musical are music unalloyed. There are certain qualities of tone that are strangely diffusive They carry far and retain their singing character where other tones become indistinct or even lost. A sheet of gold leaf, thinner than the thinnest tissue, will completely block the powerful rays of the strongest searchlight, while the X-rays, merely glowing with a faint light, will penetrate an inch of solid steel. So it is with music: some tones are diffusive and carry, others become more or less absorbed in space. The tone that "carries" the singing tone, is due to perfection of finish and perfect vibratory equilibrium of all the tone producing parts of a piano. It is always a tone of the utmost sweetness and purity. The Mason & Risch Piano is full of "sing" being especially fine in its blendings of the human voice, which it rounds out and sustains in a happy union of melody and harmony. Our literature explains the many points of superiority of the Mason & Risch piano—the piano with a soul. Send for it to-day.

College sports are said to be good and are highly recommended by the faculty. But half the outlay of money and at a great saving of time, a wood chopping could be arranged which would furnish muscle development. As for the girls, the Alpha Betas and Dammer Pelters could cook up a good big dinner, have a larruping fine time, and incidentally learn to cook. College sports could be improved on without any risk in broken necks and pneumonia.

An Indiana doctor has discovered the latest serum for winding up the human clock and causing it to click as in the days of youth. He calls his discovery "Asnagoatine," as it is made from the blood of the jackass and the Billie goat combined. One puts life and metal in the heels and the other adds to the strengthening power of the mind. Sixty drops is a dose, and when once surcharged with a supply the patient becomes a different being. He can kick at anything that comes along and butt in on the slightest provocation, no matter how low the ebb of life had been running prior to his being inoculated. The only danger is from overdose, as a man is liable to eat up the family clothes line or kick the hired man off the place when he is under high pressure.

I have great faith in the world growing better, as a whole, during the ages to come, but I can't see how we are to set up a Millennium after the orthodox plan, without changing nature. We are told that in the days of the Millennium the lamb and the lion shall lie down together, and that a little child shall lead them. This would seem to be a wonderful condition of things, when this universal peace shall have been established, but I should not want to trust either Mary or her lamb around with the lions at supper time What will the lions live on during this period of good behaviour.

Did you ever read that old gag in McGuffey's speller about a farmer whose cow got hooked by a magistrate's bull? The farmer went to the magistrate and told him he was sorry that his bull had hooked his cow and the dispenser, misunderstanding him, thought that it was his own cow that got hooked. But when the farmer corrected him, he wasn't half as ready to square it up. It is just so with human nature everywhere; we fly into court today and demand justice of our neighbor, and tomorrow we are ready to fly the other way to prevent justice.

A man who adopts an orphan boy, promises to treat him as one of the family, and then keeps him at work likea beast of burden and requires him to wear his own cast off clothing, is one who helps to lowerthe record for meaness, has a frost-bitten soul, and when he comes to the final reckoning, will find himself landed high and dry among the billie goats instead of being taught how to use a harp. But what's the use of arguing the case; any man as mean as that wouldn't appreciate music, anyhow. What he needs is a horse

It pays to advertise your business whatever it may be, big or little. Even the scripture discourages the putting of your light under a bushel. The trouble with the business world is that one-half of it is afraid to advertise it thinks it is throwing money away, while another good-sized slice throws its money away because it doesn't know how to use it to advantage. The business man who can keep his hand on the public pulse, and keep in touch with his customers and show them that he is on earth, will have no trouble in getting the returnson his advertising.

The men who are always after the Presidency of this, that and the other little thing will bear watching. Many times they have a little graft to work. Eternal vigilance is the price of a fair distribution of this world's patronage and only timely exposure of graft will keep down the inordinate appetite which some men display.

THE LADY OF LYONS.

Miss Margaret Neville the celebrated English actress who is the Parisian in the production of the "Lady of Lyons" that will be produced at the Opera House, Medicine Hat, on Wednesday, Sept 6th, is everything that can be desired to realize the brilliant author's [Lord Lytton] picture of Pauline. Young, beautiful and accomplished she has had a brilliant career. It may be safely said without hesitation that this production of this renowned drama is worth a evening of anyone's time; Moreover it affords an opportunity to inspect some of the GREAT CLOWNS WITH FLOTO.

The Best on Earth.

Clowning is a fine art. The best clowns are born not made. Of the world's four best clowns, three of them are with the Floto show. They are Frank Milton, George LeMar and Joe Smith, and these are ably assisted by a score of clever fooliers.

When intermingling with citizens on the streets Milton, Le Mar and Smith would not be suspected of being wearers of the loose robe of a fool, but when they appear in the circus rings with their makeups as they laugh and the crowd laughs with them. A jolly trio, this. They have certainly helped to unload temporarily at least the cares from the minds of thousands of people. These men who appear so dignified and quiet upon the streets and out of the circus ring would never be picked out as being the best clowns on the road, but they are.

There is with the Floto Show this season a lady clown. She does not appear dressed as a clown, but when she walks down the hippodrome manner, apparently looking for a track in a very stiff and dignified seat, and accidentally runs into a bunch of clowns, and the way she goes after the foolish fellow and shakes the life almost out of an unfortunate clown, creates laughter that is not subdued for several minutes. The work of Miss La Rose in the instance referred to requires real acting and she does her work well.

The work of the clowns with the Floto show is not the same day after day, as they take delight in springing new tricks and new jokes upon their co-workers, which entertain the members of the troupe as well as the audience. Frank Milton and George La Mar are disposed to be the leaders in this mischief-making and to such an extreme have they carried it that their fellow performers are often afraid of getting within twenty feet of them during the show not knowing what these two sedate jesters are liable to do unexpectedly.

The clowning part of a circus program is not understood by the outsider. There are times during the show when there's not a clown in sight, and then in the next instant thehippodrome track will almost swarm with them. They seem to spring from the ground, and they will disappear as quickly. The presence of the clown is appropriate and is desired with most circus acts, and again there are some features which would be ruined if they were allowed to be clowned. There are a number of such acts with the Floto show this year. The merit and remarkable character of certain acts would be destroyed by anything in the comic line.

When the Floto circus exhibits here its well known coterie of funny fellows, as well as the large number of features which are not allowed to be clowned, will attract large crowds to the tents of this popular show. The big show comes on Sept. 7th.

INDIANS PREPARE.

Prizes for Sports and Exhibits Attract Them to Dominion Fair.

New Westminster, Sept.—4.Address from various missions and agencies throughout British Columbia which are continually reaching the office of Manager Keary promise that the gathering of Indians in New Westminster during the 1905 Dominion Fair, which opens on Sept. 27 will be fully as large as was at firstanticipated, if not larger.

The Indians have been informed of the prizes that are offered for their sports and exhibits and keen rivalry has developed among the different tribes. The national feeling has also been aroused by the announcement that a big purse is offered for an international Indian war canoe race and that a number of the strongest and fastest red men of the state of Washington will journey to the Fraser river with a determination to demonstrate their physical superiority over the British Columbia braves. New war canoes are being built by the tribes who have fast crews and every man who is to handle a paddle is now in active training forthe greatest contest the Indians of far western Canada have ever been privileged to enter.

How to Get Consumption.

Ninety per cent. of the "lungers" contract consumption by allowing power of resistance to fall so low that a favorable condition for the development of the baccilli is provided. In a healthy system consumption can't take root. But where there is weakness and debility, there you find tuberculosis. For developing strength and building up the weak, nothing equals Ferrozone. It makes the blood nutritious and the nerves enduring. The way it converts food nutriment, the appetite it gives is surprising. Just what the man verging on consumption needs, —that's Ferrozone. It tired and Reak don't put off. Fifty cents buys a box of fifty tablets—at all dealers.

SHE WAS GAGGED

TRAIN ROBBERY.

SERGT. QUINN, STRUCK DOWN BY THE THIEF.

On Wednesday evening a pair of thieves stole a couple of grips from a sleeper on No. 2 train fromthe west which arrived here nearly three hours late. Soon after the train pulled up, the porter missed the grips and at once gave information to Sergt. Quinn, of the R.N.W.M. Police, who was on the station platform at the time. Mr. George Borradaile saw the two thieves leave the car, on the north side, and enter the C. P. R. gardens and with Sergt Quinn and George Colter started in pursuit. The thieves had evidently stopped under the trees on the side of the gardens next North Railway street, and there proceeded to rifle the grips. This the Sergeant of course did not know and commenced groping through the trees. It was pitch dark where the thieves were, and they evidently saw Quinn approaching for he never heard a sound until all at once he got a heavy blow across the upper part of his face under the left eye which cut the flesh to the bone and laid him out. The blow was given with an iron switch brace, a piece of iron about a foot long. The thieves, having laid the sergeant out ran off leaving the grips and the iron switch bracebehind them. They were pursued by Mr. Borradaile and George Colter, but got away and have not been discovered. The Sergeant came round in a few minutes and went to the hospital where the ugly wound he had sustained was attended to and he was able to be around again nextmorning.

Sir James Watson's Opinion.

He says that the commonest of all disorders, and one from which few escape, is catarrh. Sir James firmly believes in local treatment, which is best supplied by Catarrhozone. No case of Catarrh can exist were Catarrhozone is used; it is a miracle worker, relieves almost instantly and cures after other remedies fail. Other treatments can't reach the deceased parts like Catarrhozone because it goes to the source of the trouble, along with the air you breathe. Catarrhozone is free from cocaine, it leaves no bad after effects, it is simply nature's own cure Accept no substitute for Catarrhozone which alone can cure Catarrh.

GOD BLESS OUR NEW PROVINCES

"God Bless our New Provinces" has been decided upon as one of the chief mottoes to be used at the celebration of the introduction of one-legged autonomy to Alberta and Saskatchewan.

What could be more appropriate?

It sounds like the mott oabove the door of the orphan's home.

Alberta and Saskatchewan, robbed of their birthright, brought into the world of this great confederation, crippled, shackled, stamped with inferiority and doomed to eternal discord and strife, adopt the motto dearly too frequently associated with domestic infelicity, and hang on their cities walls: "God Bless our New Provinces!"

The new Provinces can be blessed only by their citizens regaining the liberty of men, of which they have been deprived, not by Providence, but by faithless politicians.

Mottoes and ikons will not restore those rights of manhood, but a man's earnest fight for a man's sacred liberty can—and, if prosecuted, will.

KITCHENER'S TRIUMPH.

Viceroy Curzon's resignation, is really Gen. Lord Kitchener's triumph for it is between these two strong men that the quarrel has really been. When the friction started the home Government, recognising that there were rights on both sides, arranged a scheme for dealing with the Indian army, which was a compromise, but neither Kitchener nor Curzon is a man to be satisfied with a compromise. One or the other had to win outright, and Kitchener has proved to be the victor.

The battle thus terminating has raged around the administrative relationship of the Viceroy and the Commander-in-chief, and the military member of the Viceroy's Advisory Council, which in the Indian Government corresponds, roughly to the British Cabinet or Ministry. When Lord Kitchener had taken over the office of Commander-in-Chief of the Indian Army, one of the first things he ran foul of was the military member of the Council, not as an individual,but as an institution. The Commander-in-Chief, of course, is subordinate to the Viceroy, and must get his consent in various matters, especially all matters concerned with the expenditure of money.

Lord Kitchener's first work on reaching India was a thorough reorganization, in accordance with his own ideas, of the Indian Army. He soon chafed under the control of the Council. As an example the following instance will suffice:—

On Feb. 2, 1904, he asked for a reserve of 1,000 rounds of ammunition perarm of small arms, and it was not until Dec. 22 that his demand was settled, and it was then cut down to 750 rounds.

It resolved itself into a fight between two strong men and the empire is satisfied to have Kitchener triumph.

AN ELABORATE PRODUCTION.

Will Be Seen Here When Mr. Harold Nelson Presents "Prince Otto."

Mr. Harold Nelson, who inaugurated his third consecutive season under the management of Mr. C. P. Walker at the Winnipeg Theatre on Labor Day, will soon be seen at the opera house next Tuesday, September 12th, in his latest success, Prince Otto This is another of those romantic plays so pleasing to the public when properly acted and produced. It is a dramatization of Stevenson's novel of the same name, and was played in New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, St. Louis, and all the other big cities of the United States a season or so ago by its gifted actor author, Otis Skinner. Therefore it is not untried material. Its dramatic qualities have been fully tested and not found wanting.

In presenting this charming drama Mr. Walker believes he is affording Mr. Nelson adequate opportunity to sustain his splendid reputation as an actor. The character of the Prince is admirably suited to his abilities in its dash, subtlety, power and romantic style.

Mr. Clifford Lane Bruce, so long associated with Mr. Nelson, will be seen as the Prime Minister.

Miss Helena Scott should be charming and effective as the Princess.

William Blake, another of last season's favorites, will have a delightful comedy role.

The other members of the company are well suited to the parts assigned them, and an exceptionally well-balanced performance is assured.

FIRE AT THE NEW GAS WELL.

The brigade had it out in about 90 seconds after they turned the hose on. Two of the hands employed on the drill—Messrs McLeay and Smith—were slightly scorched.

"The Sign of the Slate"

FOLKS believed in signs in Dickens' day. "The Marquis of Granby"—"The Magpie and Stump"—"Blue Boar"—Great White Horse"—meant foaming ale, the best of wines, a jolly good meal, and a "bed that was a bed," In fact, the sign in front of an inn, was its most valuable asset.

What the old inn signs meant to travelers years ago, "The Sign of the Slate" means to shoe-buyers of to-day. It swings in front of every "Slater" Shoe Store or Agency, and is a landmark as well as a trademark.

Lots of people—who are not a bit superstitious—believe in "The Sign of the Slate."

TOWN COUNCIL MEETING.

An adjourned meeting of the Council was held last night. Present: Mayor Forster (presiding), Councillors H. Stewart, A. DesBrisay, F. O. Sissons, C. E. Smyth; W. N. Adsit, Town Clerk; Chief Markwick; Supt. Porter.

Mr. J. A. Grant and Mr. R. J. Harlow also attended.

PETITION TO DEEPEN NEW GAS WELL.

A petition was presented by Mr. Harlow, bearing about eighty signatures of business men and others asking the Council to continue the drilling of the new gas well to a depth of about 1100 or 1200 feet with a view to get a larger pressure of gas and suggesting that perhaps oil might be struck at that depth.

Mr. Harlow addressed the meeting in support of the petition, and said a great many people were of the opinion that the town should try and find out what was down below, either by deepening that well or one of the older ones.

The Mayor said the Council would take the matter up later in the evening and let Mr. Harlow know the result.

Later in the evening the petition was taken up.

The Council were unanimously against doing anything further with the new well but were nearly all favorable to experiments to adeep level using one of the old wells.

The Mayor said the ordinance did not authorise the Council to bore for oil. They could bore for gas or water.

Coun. DesBrisay suggested a private company could undertake it.

The Mayor said a well would be sunk for oil without the ratepayers being called upon. The new Enterprises Committee had been considering the matter for some time and things were pointing that way.

In reply to a question by Coun. Sissons

The total cost of the new gas well was stated to be $4,709.

It was decided that the petitioners be informed the Council do not deem it wise to tamper with the present well and the Ordinance does not allow the Council to bore for oil.

THE NEW GUSHER.

A letter was read from Mr. Grant informing the Council that the well was down 963 feet and there was a very large flow of gas. As he was undercontract to drill at Maple Creek he would like the Council to accept the well. He included his account at $3.25 per foot $3129.75.

The Mayor said Mr. Porter had tested the well and found there was a pressure of 595 pounds even though it was then leaking. The details were as follows:

The well reached a pressure of 100 pounds in	18 seconds

150 "	40	"
200 "	52	"
250 "	1.12	"
312 "	1.36	"
400 "	2.37	"
450 "	3.31	"
500 "	5.11	"
550 "	12.00	"

595 pounds was reached.

Mr. Porter added that finally 600 pounds was reached.

Mr. Grant said that this well gathers quicker than any other well in America.

In reply to the Mayor and others Mr. Grant said he thought it would be dangerous to drill this well any further. If they should happen to strike water there would be a good chance of the well being spoiled as they would have a wet hole difficult to deal with. In his opinion there was a likelihood of there being a big oil field here.

The Council agreed to accept the well.

REPORTS.

The report of the Chief of Police was read and adopted.

The report of the Finance Committee re the architect's account recommended payment of $500 on account, which with $300 already advanced would make half the commission.

The report was adopted.

NIGHT POLICEMAN APPOINTED.

There were 43 applications for the post of night policeman.

After some discussion as to the merits of the candidates a resolution was passed appointing John McCorkendale, the present temporary holder of the position, at the same salary as his predecessor, viz: $65 per month and a uniform.

While discussing the candidates the name of Duncan McDonald was put forward and he was highly spoken of by Coun. Sissons, but as McCorkendale had given satisfaction the Council thought it would not be fair to put him out of the office, so he got the appointment.

PARK AND MARKET.

The formal report of Mr. Blatchford on recent voting on by-law No. 94, declaring the same to have been carried, was read.

By-law No. 94 was then read a third time and passed.

Moved by Coun. Smyth seconded by Coun. Sissons that the debentures be advertised for sale in the usual way.

CITY ENGINEER.

Applications for the position of City Engineer were received from the following:

A. Burness Greig, A.M.I.C.E., Winnipeg, Man.
J. N. Goodall, Bellwood, Ont.
D. S. McIlroy, Winnipeg, Man.
T. E. S. Davis, C.E., Hull Quebec
R. T. Nixon, Winnipeg.
T. P. Morrow, Winnipeg, Man.
Gilbert Burdock, St. Johns, New Brunswick.
Banks Rushford, C. E., Toronto.
T. Price Thomas, Winnipeg.
Hugh McDonald, Toronto.
Edwin Pover, Brandon.

Coun. Smyth moved that the applications be referred to the Finance Committee for consideration and report.

EXTENDING THE BOUNDARIES.

The petition from the Johnston estate to come into the town was presented with several additional names. This was stated to be a majority of owners. It was decided that petition be received and necessary steps taken.

The question of water and gas extensions to New Edinburgh was deferred to the next meeting.

Dr. Smyth said Mrs. Dunham was anxious to have the water laid to her house and was willing to bear the expense herself.

The Council gave permission.

This was all the business.

To the Editor of The Times,

Sir,

Re Sunday nights fire in the stable adjoining the Assiniboia Hotel property. Shortly before the fire broke out, two men were seen making considerable noise and lighting matches at or near those stables they appeared to be intoxicated either by liquor or opium, appearances at a distance pointed to the latter. The neighborhood of the stables has for some time past been a favorite resort and dumping ground for drunkards. I know the police cannot always be there, but I would draw their attention to the fact. It is not pleasant to live in that neighborhood, and have one's children educated by object lessons in that particular vice, to the extent that they are afraid to go down the lane owing to what they have seen there.

Further I imagine it is undesirable for girls of tender years to frequent Chinese restaurants, in passing an institution of that nature last week I observed this to be the case.

Yours truly,
Citizen.

Editor of The Times.

Dear Sir,

In reading your report of the last Council meeting I noticed an item of expense amounting to $150.00 for moving a boiler. I follow Council news very closely but this is the first mention I have seen of it. I failed to find it in the list published by the "News". I am not complaining of the cost, but what boiler does it refer to and where is the boiler?

Will you kindly explain the meaning of it, and oblige.

ALARMING FIRE.

About 21.50 on Sunday the fire bell fire syrens rang out an alarm of fire which brought hundreds of people to the vicinify of the Assiniboin Hotel, being attracted to the spot by a great glare showing there was a fire of some size in progress. The burning building proved to be the large one storey log house, at the rear of the Hotel, which is used by Marshall & Co. and others as store. It was filled with an assortment of articles from loose hay to a buggy and some furniture belonging to Mrs. Wellband. How the fire originated is a mystery. The brigade was soon on the ground by which time the building was well ablaze from one end to the other and the flames were leaping through the shingled roof, but our fire boys soon had the fire under control and in a few minutes two streams of water had put every vistage of fire out. Luckily the wind was blowing from the north; if it had been from almost any other point the back roofs of the hotel would have been caught: as it was the shingles got hot but the application of a garden hose kept them from bursting into flame until the brigade arrived, when all danger was soon over. We understand Mrs. Wellband's furniture was quite spoiled.

Fine red crabs, now is the time to order at Cooks.

Waldock of the Canadian Rubber Co., of Montreal, addressed the Council setting forth the superior merits of the hose made by his company. After considerable discussion Councillors Clarkand Baker put through a motion to purchase forthwith 500 feet of "Keystone" brand of fire hose from the Canadian Rubber Company, at a cost of 85c. per foot, f.o.b., Saskatoon.

About 21.50 on Sunday the fire bell fire syrens rang out an alarm of fire which brought hundreds of people to the vicinity of the Assiniboin Hotel, being attracted to the spot by a great glare showing there was a fire of some size in progress. The burning building proved to be the large one storey log house, at the rear of the Hotel, which is used by Marshall & Co. and others as store. It was filled with an assortment of articles from loose hay to a buggy and some furniture belonging to Mrs. Wellband. How the fire originated is a mystery. The brigade was soon on the ground by which time the building was well ablaze from one end to the other and the flames were leaping through the shingled roof, but our fire boys soon had the fire under control and in a few minutes two streams of water had put every vistage of fire out. Luckily the wind was blowing from the north; if it had been from almost any other point the back roofs of the hotel would have been caught: as it was the shingles got hot but the application of a garden hose kept them from bursting into flame until the brigade arrived, when all danger was soon over. We understand Mrs. Wellband's furniture was quite spoiled.

Argentine Leads in Cold Storage.

A recent bulletin of the Trade and Commerce Department contained a report from the Canadian Commercial agent at Leeds Eng., which notes the vast strides made in perfecting cold storage on steamship lines carrying ments from the South American Republic of Argentine to British ports. By comparison, the description is strongly adverse commentary upon the backwardness of the cold storage system of Canada, about which the touts of the Minister of Agriculture are so fond of boasting. The report says:

"The immense increase in the importation of chilled beef and mutton from Argentine this year is one of the surprises in the meat trade These goods arrive in first class condition, and not only are the carcases shipped, but also the by-products, such as Kidneys, livers, hearts, etc., which on account of the excellent cold storage provided on the steamers, arrive in the best of condition.

"The cause of the large increase and development in this trade has been the result of English capitalist taking the matter up and building large abattoir and cold storage plants, both in Argentine and Great Britain. I am told that by reason of the lower freights for with shipping the animals alive this class of product, as compared and having them slaughtered here at the ports, the companies interested are able to cut the prices of fresh meats etc. almost in two.

"I referred to this matter in a former report some months ago. Since that time I have looked into the matter carefully, and find that English capitalists would be quite willing to join with the Canadians inaugurating similar plants and service from Canada. The sea voyage from Canada being so much shorter, the prospects for an Anglo-Canadian company, along similar lines to the British companies doing business in the Argentine, are exceedingly bright."

India's New Viceroy.

Two men who are a more absolute antithesis to one another could hardly be imagined than Lord Curzon and the man who has been chosen to succeed him—Gilbert John Elliot, Earl of Minto, says the Daily Mail.

If one were asked suddenly to say what was Lord Minto's distinguishing characteristic, one would describe him as a sportsman; perhaps the last word in the English language which would be applied to Lord Curzon. All the early years of Lord Minto's life were associated with sport. His earliest adventure was at the the taking of his degree at Cambridge, a feat which he performed hastily with a B. A. gown over a riding dress, and at the end of the ceremouy he just had time to ride over the racecourse, ten miles distant, and win the University Steeplechase. After this (as Lord Melgund) he rode in the Grand National five times, though he never succeeded in getting nearer than fourth. However, he won the Grand Steeplechase at Autenil on Miss Hungerford, and won five successive races at the Lincoln Spring Meeting of 1875, winding up his sporting career by the highly sporting surgical feat of breaking his neck and recovering from it.

Fighting naturally followed racing. Young Lord Melgund was heard of with the Carlists on the Spanish frontier, with the Turkish troops on the Danube in 1877, with Lord Roberts in Afghanistan in 1878, and in South Africa afterwards, where he arrived just after Majuba, and departed the next day in an extremely vexed frame of mind. His last appearance in the panoply of war was as chief of staff to General Middleton against Riel in the Canadian Rebellion of 1885.

Lord Minto, who is sixty years of age, "fancies himself" rather as a landscape, gardener and fisherman, and when asked to give a general account of his own tastes, says modestly and vaguely that he likes an outdoor life—a statement which none of his acquaintances would dare to dispute.

When You Sleep Soundest.

The hour from 4 a.m. has something mysterious about it. Cocks crow, people on the brink of death give up the ghost, everyone who is asleep sleeps sounder, and even the watchful sentry can't always keep his eyes open. At this hour people are in their weakest state, and, if life is just on the flicker, it is not surprising that it goes out. Many a man's life has been saved by a spoonful of brandy or ammonia administered just when the clock strikes four. The period of deepest sleep varies from 3 to 5 o'clock. An hour or two after going to bed you sleep soundly, then your slumber grows gradually lighter, and it is easy enough to waken you at 2 o'clock, but when it comes to 4 o'clock you are in such a state of somnolence that you would take no notice of the end of the world. Military men are well aware of this curious fact, and they often make sudden assaults on camps or cities between 3 and 5, because they know that at the time the most wide awake sentry is liable to dose. Strangely, at the corresponding time in the afternoon most people feel a bit done up.

BACK FROM THE NORTH.

SAW NO MAN FOR THREE MONTHS.

Mr. Wm. Scott, of Eagle Butte, and Mr. Webber, of Montana, returned on Friday from a trip into the great country lying north of Medicine Hat. They went out past Fergus Kennedy's ranch and headed for Sounding Lake where Wilkinson & McCords ranch is, passing through the country where the Collins ranch is situated. Turning north west they struck Ripstone creek and then Battle river. At one point they saw a hay marsh which they judged to be at least 5000 acres in extent, and they came across a rancher named Dean, formerly of Brandon, Man. Mr. Dean was glad to hear some news as he said he had not seen a man since last June. The line of the Grand Trunk railway is expected to cross Battle River. Mr. Scott says there is some good country in there.

MR. FINLAY'S APPOINTMENT.

MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE AND PROVINCIAL SECRETARY

As foreshadowed in the Times of August 22nd. Mr. W. T. Finlay has been offered and accepted the portfolio of Minister of Agriculture for the province of Alberta. Mr. Finlay went to Edmonton, the provisional capital on Thursday night and took the oath of office on Friday. He is also Provincial secretary.

Hon. William Thomas Finlay, son of John and Christian Finlay, of Irish birth, was born July 12, 1855, at Lisburn, Ireland and educated at Royal Academical Institution, Belfast, Ireland. He was married in 1882 to Catharine A. Allot. He engaged in business as a lumber merchant and was also interested in ranching in Medicine Hat. He occupied the position of Mayor of Medicine Hat in 1900-1902 and was also president of the Medicine Hat hospital for the past number of years. He was elected to the assembly in 1902 asa liberal.

A BOTTOMLESS PIT.

A bottomless pit has been found in the mountains of Hualalai, back of Kailua, in the Hawaiian Island. It is about four feet in diameter. The pit is peculiar from the fact that it sucks in the air withremarkableforce. Pieces of paper placed over the top do not float gently down, but are suddenly drawn in and disappear with startling rapidity. The air rushing into the pit can be distinctly felt by people standing on the edge. Strange sounds are heard also. Every night the inhabitants of the locality distinctly hear anoise similar to the blowing of a deep steamship whistle. The noise is heard for about five seconds and then subsides for a space of about 10 minutes, and then resumes for another five seconds.

DOMINION FAIR NOTES.

All machinery on exhibition at the Dominion Fair will be in motion, electricity and steam both being supplied by the management.

The lighting scheme for Queen's park during the eleven nights of the Dominion Fair will show the outlines of althe big buildings and will illuminate the forest at the rear of the grounds.

From the time of the opening in the morning till two o'clock in the afternoon of each day at the 1905 Dominion Fair, Sept. 27 to Oct. 7, in New Westminister will be given up to viewing the exhibits, and the Royal Irish Guards band will discourse music all the while.

Horse racing with klootchmen as riders will be one of the daily attractions in front of the grand stand during the 1905 Dominion Fair.

The Sockeye Run, which will be the same sort of thing at the 1905 Dominion Fair as the Trial is at the Lewis & Clark fair in Portland, will have every line of attraction known to the show man. There will be more of these entertainments on the ground than has ever been seen outside of a world's fair.

The Dominion Fair open at one o'clock a.m. Wednesday Sept. 27, and closes on Oct. 7.

C.P.R. TO HAVE HEARING.

The Canadian Pacific Railway, through Mr. Drinkwater, asked for an opportunity at an early date to state the reasons why the board should not approve the locations and plans of the Grand Trunk Pacific for its proposed line west of Portage La Prairie. The C.P.R. contention is that the new line as planned will parallel its line for 250 miles, which they say is a direct violation of the act of parliament. A date will be fixed between counsel for the respective companies for an early hearing. The C.P.R. claims that the G.T.P. has as yet no approval of their location plans, that what the government passed upon was only a route map, and that the G.T.P. have no authority to use this route until the railway commission has passed upon what are known as the location plans, that is, the final and detailed outline of the sketch in question. It is stated that the G.T.P. for a long way west from Portage La Prairie, will run within three quaters of a mile of the C.P.R.

Th's Medicine Is Breathed.

That is why it is sure to cure Catarrh. You see it goes directto the source of the disease,—its healing vapor repairs the damage caused by catarrhal inflammation. "Catarrhozone" alwas cures because it goes into those tiny cells and passages that ordinary remedies can't reach goes where the disease actually is. Impossible for Catarrhozone to fail as any doctor will tell you. Don't be misled into thinking there is anything so good as Catarrhozone,—use it and you'll soon say good bye to Catarrh.

THE TIMES

MEDICINE HAT, CANADA.

W. C HARRIS PROPRIETOR

Published every Tuesday at the Office Fourth Ave. Medicine Hat.

TUESDAY SEPT. 12th. 1905.

The Fress Press in a long leader argues that Mr. Haultain wants to test the constitution. It is not so. Mr. Haultain declares he wishes to test what the Ottawa Government say is the constitution, a different matter altogether.

Cattle Markets Higher.

Montreal, Sept. 11.—Cables from the other side show little change compared with a week ago. The market is firmer, half a cent higher. London 11 and 11¼; ranchers' 9¼ to 10. Local export market shows very little change during past week. Owing to a general firm tone the market for ocean freight space is hopeful. Some are looking for slightly easier market on the other side presently, as shipments from this side and other sources have been heavy during the past few weeks.

For the last week in August, 5,130 cattle were shipped; August 20,000.

Secret Treaty.

It is reported in London, England, that a secret treaty between Russia and Japan has been signed under which the Czar of Russia (the Czar not the Empire) will pay $500,000,000 indemnity to Japan in five years, less the amount Russia pays for maintenance of prisoners ($100,000,000).

FORGET CALLS SCOTT, HE IGNORES HAULTAIN

Walter Scott has been called upon by Lieutenant-Governor Forget to form the first administration for the Province of Saskatchewan.

CABINET SLATE.

Walter Scott, premier and minister of public works.

J. A. Calder, minister of education

G. C. MacCraney, Rosthern, Attorney-general.

W. R. Motherwell, Abernethy, minister of agriculture.

None of these gentlemen have served previously in the Territorial assembly.

Assuming this slate to be correct not one member of the government will be a man of ripe experience in the internal economy of Northwest administration, unless Scott's journalistic practice may be accepted as a substitute. Motherwell ran twice for North Qu'Appelle, but in neither instance succeeded in saving his deposit. Although he has come to the front lately as president of the Territorial grain association, it is altogether doubtful whether he could get elected in any Saskatchewan constituency.

MCCRANEY A TENDERFOOT.

First reports had it that Scott had driven up to Government House with J. H. Lamont, M.P. for Saskatchewan, and the subsequent delay in making the announcement as to the composition of the cabinet is possibly ground for the story that Lamont refused to accept office under Scott, and that McCraney was pitched upon in despair as presenting the two essential qualications of being a lawyer, and coming from the north of the province. Other qualifications appear conspicuous by their absence. Coming from Milton, Ont., he has been only two years in the northwest, and has certainly not won any position of prominence at the Territorial bar.

OPINION ALL FOR HAULTAIN.

Any government in which Haultain is not premier will stand a poor chance at the elections, which may be expected about the middle of November. The pageant, from which the principal performer, in the person of the late Territorial premier, was practically eliminated, has thoroughly awakened popular opinion on the subject, and even in such a grit stronghold as Regina, general comment is that Haultain is being shamefully treated. There is not the slightest doubt that the opening of the coming campaign will see an astonishing rally of popular enthusiasm in the province for the champion of provincial rights.

Distinguished Visitors.

Medicine Hat Entertains Minister of Militia and Chief of General Staff.

On Saturday Medicine Hat was visited by Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, and General Lake, chief of the general staff. These gentlemen are making a tour of the west in connection with the selection of a location for the headquarters of the Strathcona Horse, and as Medicine Hat has entered a strong application to be the favored site, the Minister and General Lake visited the town and looked into its claims. The visitors arrived in a private car on Saturday morning, and were accompanied by Mrs Lake, the Misses Borden (2), Chief Justice Weatherby of Nova Scotia, and Mr Parnett, Sir Frederick's private secretary.

At 10 o'clock, the visitors were met by the Mayor and a number of leading townspeople at the Assiniboia Hotel, and the whole party drove to the top of the "cut banks" north of the town, from whence a fine view was obtained of Police point, where the government military reserve is situated, and of the town. On returning, the visitors were taken to see the new gas well and the pumping station, and then were entertained at the Cypress Club, and subsequently at a recherche luncheon at the Assiniboia Hotel. The company consisted of Sir Frederick Borden, Mayor Forster, H. B. Bennetts, C. R. Mitchell, O. W. Smith, Mrs. Panett, Geo. Borradaile, F. O. Sissons, Col. Turnbull, Dr. Smyth, Wm. Cousins, General Lake, F. L. Crawford, Inspector Parker, John Galt, Thos. Hutchinson, L. W. McBean, W. C. Harris, W. Huckvale, E. Pearson, and L. B. Cochran.

Mr. Leonard's Orchestra discoursed some excellent music during the luncheon. The usual Royal Toasts having been honored.

Sir Frederick Borden made a very happy speech. He said he had been shown one of the wonders, the natural gas. Everything depended upon the natural gas, even the waterworks, and he believed there were few places so highly favored as Medicine Hat (Hear, hear). There was only one other city he knew where there was so much natural gas and that was Ottawa when Parliament was in session (laughter and applause). The future of Western Canada, he said, was assured. There were people in the East still, who could not bring themselves to believe the great things being done in the West and he would admit that he had not until now realised the greatness of the West. This was his first visit to the West and he now could believe it was the greatest country on earth (applause). That was a title which their very good cousins on the other side of the line applied to their country, the United States, but Western Canada could fairly dispute the matter with them and claim the title. (Loud applause.) It was a great wheat country and a great grazing country. They had wheat, beef and horses and with these they could get everything else in the world that they wanted. (Loud applause). He was not simply surprised at what he had already seen in the West. A visit to the West was not simply a surprise, but a revelation. (Applause). It was absolutely necessary to visit the country to realise it, (Applause). Some curiosity was doubtless felt as to why he and General Lake had come to the West at the present time. He was afraid he could not satisfy them fully, but he would say a depot of the permanent mounted force is to be established somewhere in this region and Calgary was one of the places which had been mentioned as a suitable place at which such a depot might be established. He had already said that the military members of the Militia Council have reported Calgary and Medicine Hat have equal advantages at least, therefore the choice seems to be restricted to those two points. It was their business to examine for themselves and General Lake was here for that purpose. Both General Lake and himself had seen a splendid view of Police Point that morning. That looked as if it might be entirely satisfactory and certainly his own view was very favorable. (Applause.) An old Latin warrior, Caeser he thought, once exclaimed: I came, I saw, I conquered. He (the speaker), would say: I came, I have seen, I am conquered. (Loud applause.)

Responding to the toast of "The Army and Navy."

General Lake said the Army and Navy were the embodiment of the nation's spirit. (Applause.) The British had been called a nation of shop keepers, but had proved again and again that they understood other business as well. (Loud applause). After paying a high tribute to the grandeur of the British Navy the General referred in eulogistic terms to the army, and said he looked upon the Canadian Militia as the people in arms. Their Motto was: Defence not Defiance, the old motto of the British Empire, and here in Medicine Hat he hoped to see one of the most striking cases of the spirit of the people showing itself in its military aspect. (Loud applause).

A move was then made to the carriages which were in waiting on the north side of the river and the party drove to Police Point, where the Minister and the General examined the old police buildings, the new rifle range, (where members of the Medicine Hat Rifle Association were holding their weekly shoot), and they afterwards drove over the Government reserve consisting of some 480 acres of land admirably situated for a military camp.

On returning to town the visitors went to their private car and at 21.25 the car was attached to the Pacific express and taken on to Calgary.

Mrs. Lake, the Misses Bordin, Mrs. McBean, Mrs. Walter Huckvale, Mrs. Forster and Mrs. Borradaile accompanied the party on the afternoon drive.

COLLIDES WITH A C. P. R. SILK TRAIN.

The following is the official report of an accident to the transcontinental express of the C. P. R. east of Regina last Wednesday evening:

At 7.45 C. P. R. express No. 1, in charge of Conductor Hart, of Brandon, and Engineer R. Emerson, of Moosejaw, struck a silk train three-quarters of a mile west of Dingley, a siding 47 miles east of Regina.

Engineer Emerson was killed instantly; Express Messenger J. A. Telford, 135 Hargrave Street, Winnipeg, and mail clerk W. H. McKinnon, of 472 Logan avenue, Winnipeg, sustained some cuts and bruises, but were able to remain on duty. None of the passengers sustained injury.

The mail and express car and one of the engines were seriously damaged. The line was cleared at 4 o'clock next morning. The accident appears to have been caused by the engineer and conductor of the express running by Dingley Siding near Indian Head, where they held orders to meet the silk train. Engineer Emerson had been in the service 23 years, and the conductor is also an old employee with a good record.

THE ENGINEER'S ERROR.

The orders given to Emerson were to pass a freight train of silk at Dingley. Another freight train, however, was on the siding and the freight which Emerson had orders to pass was on the main track a quarter of a mile west. The track curves just east of Dingley and the silk train was not seen by Emerson who apparently taking it for granted that the freight on the siding was the one he had orders to pass, innocently swept his train to destruction. Just as he came round the curve he noticed the freight train standing on the main line and reversed his engine but was caught between the engines before he could save himself. The mail and express coaches were badly telescoped and smashed. Mail Clerk McKinnon and Express Clerk Telford were both injured and are at the hospital at Indian Head. Two passengers were also slightly injured. Two doctors were aboard the express and their services together with those of Doctors Kemp, Connell and Hart, of Indian Head and McDonald of Sintaluta were soon available. Large crowds from both Indian Head and Sintaluta and the surrounding country were soon on hand. A wreck train came in from Moosomin shortly after and the work of clearing the track began. "Bob" Emerson, the dead engineer, had been in the service of the C.P.R. for over thirty years and had come west in 1882 working with the construction gang in that year. He leaves a wife and seven children at his home in Moosomin.

No blame attaches to any of the employees at either Indian Head or Sintaluta, as they obeyed orders to the letter.

MEDICINE HAT'S RAPID PROGRESS.

WESTERNERS WHO ARE ENTHUSIASTIC OVER PROSPECTS OF THE RAILROAD TOWN

(Free Press.)

D. Milne, manager of the Medicine Hat Trading Co., and William Crawford, C.P.R. conductor, of the same town, are in the city. Mr. Milne when seen at the Empire was enthusiastic over the prospects of his home town. He said that the wheat crop in that district was a success this year. The threshing was about completed and the average yield would be about 18 bushels per acre. Until very recently Medicine Hat district had been supposed to be unfit for wheat growing and Mr. Milne thought this year's crop had exploded that idea. A great deal of land was now being prepared for winter wheat. The increase in acreage next year would be fully 500 per cent. The big area of unsettled land around the town was becoming of interest to home seekers and an influx of settlers was looked for.

As to the gas supply of Medicine Hat, Mr. Milne said that it was enormous. Manufacturers were already being attracted. A large eastern stove foundry was considering the advisability of establishing a western foundry at the Hat. In fact, it was reasonably certain that the enterprise would go on.

A Winnipeg firm was also seriously thinking of starting manufacturing in the gas town, according to Mr. Milne, but he did not care to divulge ote names of the parties or of the line of goods to be manufactured.

Mr H. E. Holloway left on Sunday for England.

Mr. E. L. Corbett paid a visit to Calgary last week.

Rev. Thos. Powell, of Maple Creek will occupy the pulpit in Century Methodist Church, on Sabbath Sept. 17th.

Mr. Thompson and his daughter Mina left on Tuesday night for Medicine Hat where his daughter will attend school—Maple Creek Signal.

Miss Ethel Campbell, of Melfort, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Campbell, formerly of Prince Albert, passed through the city on Tuesday, on her way to Medicine Hat, where she will take up her course for professional nurse.—Saskatchewan Times.

An Odd Habit.

The poet Mathurin always stuck a wafer on his forehead just between his eyebrows before taking up his pen.

Water Drinking.

The average daily consumption of water per head of population in American cities is about 80 gallons. In Europe it varies from 3 in Brest and 11 in Venice to 202 in Marseilles and 264 in Rome.

Coal Dust.

Coal dust, which is generally to be found at the bottom of coal cellars when the chunks are getting low, may be utilized by being mixed with salt and water and then made into fair sized lumps, which will prove to be the best possible backing for keeping a good fire in.

Beaten Gold.

A single grain of gold, after having been converted into gold leaf, will cover forty-six square inches.

Fish as Loadstones.

The Indians say the catfish are good pathfinders in winter, for, if you catch ten of them through the ice and let them flop about as they like, when dead eight or nine will have their heads to the north.

Scent Secrets.

The monks of Santa Maria Novella, at Florence, have been famous for more than four centuries for the precious secret recipes of perfumes and healing balms handed down to them, which they prepare entirely from herbs and flowers grown in the convent garden.

Lawsuits in Siam.

They have sometimes a curious way of deciding lawsuits in north Siam. Both parties are put under cold water, and the one staying under the longer wins the suit.

Fatherly Criticism.

Rhoda Broughton's first work, published before she was thirty, created a great sensation on account of its vigorous unconventionality. She asked her father his opinion of the work, and he, ignorant of his daughter's authorship, replied that it was an unfit book for her to read.

Alien Landlords.

Rent from American property owned by foreigners or Americans living abroad is believed to amount annually to not less than $25,000,000.

Coffee Drunkards.

There are coffee inebriates in Paris. Usually they are laundresses, a class of women who are specially devoted to the fragrant beverage. The coffee inebriate comes at last to such a state that he or she lives almost exclusively on an effusion of the beloved berry, with the addition of a little bread soaked in it.

Chemical Union.

Chemical union is the result of the attraction of unsatisfied electric charges on different atoms for one another.

When Plows Were Invented.

During the reign in China of King Shen Nung She (2737 to 2696 B. C.) he not only discovered the curative virtues of plants, but also first fashioned timber into plows and taught the people the art of husbandry and instituted the practice of holding markets for exchange of commodities.

HIS HUNTING TRIP

By TROY ALLISON

Copyright, 1905, by Troy Allison

The eligible bachelor braced himself against the shock and stood it like a man.

He had been wandering along the country road for half an hour looking for a field that might prove the hiding place of many rabbits when the thing occurred.

From behind a dilapidated old stone fence that separated the field from the adjoining wood a girl came running pellmell directly into the eligible bachelor's arms.

He got one glimpse of a frightened face before she buried it in the roughness of his hunting coat and clung to him frantically.

"He's after me!" she gasped.

The man's face grew stern, he brought his gun into a more available position and fixed his eyes on the corner of the fence where the girl had first appeared. There was a rattling of dead leaves—more noise, he thought, than one man's feet could possibly produce. The eligible bachelor had never before had an opportunity to play knight errant, but he suddenly felt himself longing to kill the scoundrel who had frightened this girl.

There was another scurry of leaves, and then—a playful yearling calf stood before him, prancing in the awkward way peculiar to sporting calves, with an expression in its eyes that seemed to wink at the man and ask if he didn't see the point of the joke.

The eligible bachelor stared, then let his gun fall to the ground.

"Good Lord!" he howled. "Was that what frightened you?"

The girl had wriggled out of his arms and stood behind him, peering around him for a safe glimpse of the enemy.

"If he had already knocked you down once and was trying to do it again I don't suppose it would be so funny to you," she said resentfully, evidently not appreciating his ecstasy of mirth.

He sent the calf down the road with a few warlike gestures and turned to look at her, amusement still lurking in his eyes.

She had seated herself on a stone and was pinning up a torn place in her skirt.

"Some people can laugh at nothing," she said icily, fitting the edges of the torn place together.

The man looked at the small face, rosy from the frosty morning air, and noticed the short brown hair that made little curls around her forehead.

"I'm a brute to laugh," he said penitently, "but it was so—er—sudden." He was in danger of offending again.

He took his handkerchief to brush the mud from her dress.

"You are evidently not accustomed to them?" he queried, smiling.

"I have never had such close acquaintance with one before," she said. "I live in the city and am down here to get strong. I am boarding at the farmhouse just above here."

"I'm down here on a little hunting trip," he said, not adding that he was also taking a rest from being hunted during the season by maneuvering mammas. "I wonder if they would give me dinner at your farmhouse?"

"I'm sure they would." She extended the hospitality of a hospitable country. "It's the first house you come to, and they are named Jones—you can't forget it if your memory is any good at all. I'll tell them you are coming to the 1 o'clock dinner." She had repaired the damage to her skirt as best she could and stood up to go.

"I will bring some rabbits if I can—they are good for invalids," letting his eye rest again on the little, short, boyish curls that made him wonder if she were sixteen or twenty. "Maybe you will accept them as a peace offering and forgive me for laughing."

A hint of shyness in her eyes made him understand that her resentment was really a reaction from the embarrassment of having rushed into his arms, now that her fright was over and the cause at a distance seemed so trivial.

She gave a regretful look at the torn place in her skirt. "I never shall be able to mend it so it won't show," she said as she left him.

The eligible bachelor was meditative as he climbed the stone wall to wage war on the rabbits.

"Now, I wonder," he mused, "if that little girl is so poor that a torn place in a blue serge skirt can worry her? It's a shame!" He strode through the tangle of briers and dead weeds thoughtfully.

* * * * * * *

Next day the eligible bachelor's valet went back to town, and his master established himself as a boarder at the Jones farm, with only gun and suit case for baggage.

The gun was in small demand. There seemed much more pleasure in tossing along country roads mounted on clumsy farm horses and helping a girl regain her strength. She looked so tiny and dainty perched upon the big horse that the eligible bachelor vowed to himself that he had never seen an equestrienne in Central park that compared with her.

"Wouldn't it be just lovely," she began one day when they had stopped to regain their breath after a bouncing race on their large limbed steeds, "if one didn't have to work for a living?"

His mind flew to his bank account, enough to last several generations if a man could only get his threescore and ten extended that long.

"Do you find teaching so terrible?"

"It's not the work." She grew confidential. "It's that I want so many things—pretty things like some women have."

"Might a mere man ask what these things may be—as applied to your own desires?"

"Oh, a sable neck piece and a muff, a lovely brass bedstead to sleep on, some long, wrinkly gloves and some soft, traily dresses; lots of violet water, manicured nails, a French maid"—

"Hadn't you better wait till I call a stenographer?" he interrupted.

"But wouldn't it be blissful to have them?" she sighed. "I would give my torn walking skirt to the deserving poor and not bother about it any more," she wound up ruefully.

He let his face assume its most doleful aspect.

"I wish I had all these things to offer you." He broke a twig from the hedge with a vigorous cut from his riding whip.

She sat suddenly erect on her horse, and he watched her from the corner of his averted eye.

"A poor dog of a man feels that he has nothing to offer a girl," he continued morosely.

She looked at him hesitatingly. "I don't want all those things so dreadfully much," she said shyly.

Careless About Money.

An eccentric character of pioneer days in California was a lawyer named Lawrence, an attorney for the firm of Palmer, Cooke & Co. "After a night of drinking and gambling Lawrence one afternoon called upon Palmer at the bank," says Thomas E. Farish's "Gold Hunters of California." "He was dressed in a gray flannel shirt and overalls, a broad brimmed hat, with a belt containing two six-shooters and a bowie knife around his waist. He informed Palmer that he intended to leave on the afternoon boat for Sacramento and the mines. 'Why do you do that?' inquired Palmer. 'Because I have spent all my money and must earn more,' said Lawrence, who never kept any account of how he stood at the bank. 'Why,' said Palmer, 'you have not spent all of your money, surely. Let me see.' And, turning to the book of daily accounts, he continued, 'You have a credit here of $5,000.' 'Have I?' asked Lawrence incredulously. 'Yes, so the books show.' 'Well, then, I will not go,' decided Lawrence, who returned to his office and his practice of law."

One View of Joe Jefferson.

Of one phase of Joe Jefferson's character a writer in the Outlook says:

He was interested in the lighter philosophies. The work of Prentice Mulford greatly attracted him at one time. He had had remarkable communications, as he believed, from the other world—enough, at any rate, to convince him that there was another world and to make him confident that he should see again those he loved. He was a wonderful optimist, always cheerful, always looking for the brightness of life. He once told the Spectator that in all his thousands of miles of travel he had never been in a railway or steamship accident or seen one. The last letter which the Spectator received from Mr. Jefferson was reminiscent of their earlier friendship and closed with these words:

How time goes on, so heedless of us all! What a short lived creature is man (myself excepted—by the bye, seventy-five next birthday)! In a few years we shall be sweet little angels, wings and all, and, as the old gambler said on his deathbed, "If we meet, I'll fly you for $5." Till then, sincerely yours, J. JEFFERSON.

Some Crowns.

When Emperor Napoleon I. was crowned king of Italy at Milan, May 23, 1805, he placed the iron crown of Lombardy upon his head with his own hands, exclaiming, "Dieu me l'a donne; gare a qui la touche" (God has given it to me; beware who touches it), which was the haughty motto attached to it by its ancient owners.

The Hungarian crown, worn at their accession by the emperors of Austria as kings of Hungary, is the identical one worn by Stephen 800 years ago. It is of pure gold and weighs nine marks six ounces (fourteen pounds) and is adorned with 53 sapphires, 50 rubies, 1 emerald and 338 pearls.

The crown of the king of France is a circle enameled, adorned with precious stones and heightened up with eight arched diadems, rising from as many fleurs-de-lis, that conjoin at the top under a double fleur-de-lis, all of gold.—Chambers' Journal.

Wouldn't Work Both Ways.

"I suppose some days you have more money than others."

"No, I do not remember that I ever had a day of that sort, but some days I have less money than others."

The Peace King.

Proposing the toast of "The King" at a dinner of the German Benevolent Society of London, Count Bernstorff, first secretary to the German embassy in London, made graceful and fitting references to His Majesty's qualities as a statesman.

"The wise ruler of this powerful Empire," said the count, "has won with his own people, as with all the nations of the world, the name of a prince of peace. King Edward is incessently endeavoring to bring nations more closely together and to clear away misunderstandings between them.

"None are better able to appreciate this conciliatory activity on the part of His Majesty than the Germans who make their residence in this country, and who live here a happy and contented life."

In submitting the toast of "The Queen and the Members of the Royal Family," Count Bernstorff said: "We think of Her Majesty to-night as the august helper of the poor, the sick and the suffering."

Humor and Philosophy

RAISING BABY BY RULE.

Oh, hush-a-by, baby,
You mustn't be rocked;
Your tiny gray matter
Would surely be shocked.

I tiptoe about you
And peek at your nose;
I dare not uncover
Your wriggly toes.

Oh, hush-a-by, baby,
Your liver is big;
You mustn't be dandled
A jiggety jig.

'Twould stop your digestion,
Your stomach upset
And make you have colic,
My dear little pet.

Oh, hush-a-by, baby,
There prone on your bed;
You mustn't be talked to—
It's bad for your head.

So, holding my breath and
Not daring to sigh,
Afar I gaze at you
And think "Hush-a-by."

For the Cultivation of Feminine Beauty.

Sleep at least two hours every afternoon. In order to do this it may be necessary to slug the other members of your household to insure quiet while you are getting your little wink of sleep. The slugging will serve as exercise to increase your circulation and will also give you a beautiful, rounded arm. When others see your muscular development they will be careful about irritating you when you are hot on the trail of beauty.

After you have had your beauty sleep, rest. Don't think while you are resting; this will not be hard to do.

In order to make your eyes bright keep them fixed upon a bachelor millionaire about two hours out of every twenty-four. If you find it hard to do this use any authorized brand of silver polish. Apply with faith and assiduity and finish with a powder rag.

This treatment if carefully followed will produce astonishing results.

The Mystery.

Around her head a dust rag bound
And in her hand a duster,
And with the brush she goes around
With vigor, noise and bluster.

And humble man with bated breath
In terror views the dancer
And thinks once he was scared to death
Lest "No" should be her answer.

He Was Right.

"There is a beautiful woman, but what is she good for?" sneered the cynic.

"Well," replied his companion, "I would be willing to bet that she could make a hundred dollar salary look like 80 cents."

Reason Enough For Her.

"So the Boston girl turned him down."

"Yes; she said he didn't know beans."

Tragedy.

An actor found a quiet stream,
For on the fish he had designs,
But he could only sit and dream,
For he'd forgotten all his lines.

He Had Reason.

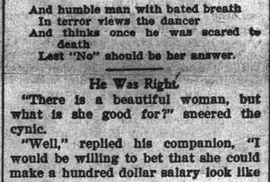
"But what makes him look so sad?"

"He is writing the funny column for a daily paper."

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

A thing that costs you nothing usually is worth about what it cost.

It takes an unmarried woman to tell you how a husband should be disciplined.



Some people tell lies to help themselves, and others tell them because they can't help themselves.

It isn't always safe to tell the truth to your wife, but it is safer than not to tell.

Love letters are most apt to be interesting when they are published in book form.

Silence is a good poultice to apply to angry ears.

Did you ever notice that tan shoes are invariably the mark of a vain man?

The trouble with so many strawberry shortcakes is that they are so apt to be short in quantity instead of in quality.

The girl who can flirt and won't isn't.

It costs a lot of money to be friends with some people.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

If you want to make a lifelong friend of a man, adopt his cure for a cold and tell your neighbors about it.

A man does not argue with you to convince you, but merely for the pleasure of setting forth and embellishing his own ideas.

It takes a smart man to decide whether a woman has a sense of humor when she laughs so heartily at his stories or merely possesses great skill as a flatterer.

ONE OF THE FATHERS.

Death of Hon. Wm. Macdougall Leaves Only Two of Them Behind—His Political Career.

The ranks of the Fathers of Confederation are thinning out. Only the other day there were three of them left—Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Hector Langevin, and Hon. William Macdougall. Now it has been announced that Mr. Macdougall has passed away at his Ottawa home, in the eighty-third year of his age, and as a consequence there are but two of the Fathers remaining. Very sad have been the later years of Mr. Macdougall. His mind gave way some time ago, and, while he has lived, he has been practically out of the world. No one can view his case without feeling that for men who have given their lives to the people there ought to be some consideration in old age by the State.

Native of Little York.

Born in Little York in 1822, he fought his way to the front and became a power in the land. His first venture was the publication, in 1850, of a newspaper called the North American. Here he proposed a great variety of reforms, nearly all of which have since been carried into effect. He was one of the first to call for the ballot, to insist upon the abolition of the property qualification for Parliament, to suggest the decimal currency, and to urge the secularization of the clergy reserves. His progressive ideas carried him into Parliament as one of the Liberal leaders. It was in 1858 that Oxford elected him to the House, and in four years he was in the Liberal Government of which John Sandfield Macdonald was the leader. As a Liberal Mr. Macdougall was in harmony with Hon. George Brown. When, therefore, Mr. Brown joined with Sir John Macdonald for the purpose of carrying Confederation Mr. Macdougall went into the coalition Government with him.

A Friend of Union.

All through the Confederation fight Mr. Macdougall was the Provincial Secretary. He went to all the conferences, and was a strong advocate of the unification of Canada. When Confederation had been decided upon, Mr. Macdougall came into antagonism with the Liberal party, owing to the fact that he refused to resign from the Cabinet, as did also Mr. (now Sir) W. P. Howland, in company with George Brown, who went out to reconstruct the Liberal party. The circumstances are such as to render it difficult to judge who was in the right in this matter. The coalition had been entered into to carry Confederation, and it was held by Mr. Brown's friends that the Liberal who joined to put the proposition through ought to leave when the work was done. But Mr. Macdougall maintained that the union of the Provinces was but the beginning of the work, and that duty required all hands to help in the performance of the remaining tasks. Although there was a difference of opinion touching the merits of this controversy, the mass of people favored Mr. Macdougall's course. At all events, it was a fact that the work had but commenced.

Work in the Northwest.

One of the many things yet to be done was the addition of the Northwest to Canada. Mr. Macdougall had always favored this proposition, and as he pressed it forward Sir John Macdonald sent him, in company with Sir George E. Cartier, to England to negotiate the terms. In this operation difficulty was experienced. The Hudson's Bay Co. had to be bought out, and it was not willing to sell. The Imperial Government, for its part, was not at all interested in the affair. It was ready to hear both sides, but not to force action. The company held back so long that Mr. Macdougall decided to return to Canada. A great social gathering was, however, held at Mr. Gladstone's house and Mr. Macdougall was there, Mrs. Gladstone, in conversation with the Canadian guest, discussed his mission, and learned of his disappointment. She insisted that he should see Mr. Gladstone at once, and tell him the facts, although the subject was in another department of State. Mr. Gladstone was so impressed by Mr. Macdougall's story that he requested him to remain in London for a few days. He then took the matter up, and forced the company to capitulate.

A Fatal Victory.

But the victory was the beginning of evil days for Mr. Macdougall. The circumstance that he had done so much towards acquiring the West led to his appointment to the Governorship of Manitoba as a species of recognition of his services. It was an unhappy recognition. The rebellion broke out. The approach of Mr. Macdougall was resisted. Mr. Macdougall had to return to Old Canada with his prestige impaired, and with both sides blaming him for this or that act as Governor. The situation isolated Mr. Macdougall so far as politics were concerned.

In Parliament he was a magnificent speaker, closely resembling one of the great English political orators, while on the public platform he was unequaled.

Illness cut short his political career, and now death has claimed him. Although he passed away while another generation of public men is discussing and conducting affairs, it must not be forgotten that he contributed in an important degree to the Canada that we have, and that he was one of the Fathers.

Marconi, "Wireless Wizard," Confident.

The new Marconi station at Glace Bay is almost completed. About twenty miles of underground wires have been laid. The aerial wiring is finished, the towers rebuilt and most of the machinery has been set up. It is expected that by the first of the week messages will be received from the Poldhu (Cornwall), station, which has been much improved. The old station was successful for sending messages, but not for receiving from great distances. This was attributed to the town electric light station, which were very near to the old towers. This difficulty is entirely obviated at the new towers, where numerous changes have been made and a much greater amount of wiring has been done. Mr. Marconi is still at Glace Bay, and has bent all his energy to improving the receiving apparatus. He asserts that there will be little or no difficulty in communicating with Poldhu.

St. Petersburg occupies six large and many small islands at the mouth of the Neva.

Repairing Lord Mayor's Coach.

The corporation of London has just appropriated £1,425 for repairs to the Lord Mayor's state coach, says The London Globe. This coach involves an annual outlay of from £400 to £1,500 for repairs. Last year the city spent £500 upon it, and when it was returned the coachbuilders sent this note with it: "We dare not guarantee this coach on the journey from Mansion House to the law courts. At any moment the fore part may part from the hind part." The coach has been in use since 1751, and therefore, from an English point of view, is not at all old. But the aldermen are beginning to talk about having a new one built.

She gives annually two prizes for essays on American history.

During the Spanish war she was active in Red Cross relief work.—New York Tribune.

Household Limitations.

Among the problems which the "new woman" must face in her home is that of household hygiene. The domestic science departments in the colleges are giving liberal doses of knowledge along this very practical line, and the women who in age are beyond such courses and yet are trying to keep up with the demands of the times are perfecting their knowledge by reading and careful study.

This is by right called the sanitary age. Two generations ago neither the fathers nor mothers on the farm seemed to care a whit if the drainage sloped into the well. They were untroubled by bacteria, and if the children died of diphtheria or typhoid such a thing as germs from the well or the damp cellar as the cause never disturbed their implicit faith in "God's will."

Today tenement life, city homes and the spread of knowledge of the danger of insanitary conditions has brought the woman as well as the man face to face with these serious problems. Experience is fast proving to women that there is as little safety in sitting idly back and leaving these matters to the landlord's or to man's will as to God's. They are learning that vigilance is the surest road to health, that for their own personal knowledge of what is right plumbing, a proper home location and good drainage there is no valid substitute and that the landlord's or even the plumber's word is the last to be taken with an investigation of actual facts.—Brockton Times.

Secrets of the Eyebrow.

The eyebrows are very significant of character and emotion. Their beauty consists in having them moderately thick, especially near the inner third and tapering to a point—soft, silky, regular hairs, a shade darker than the hair of the head, slightly curved, separated on the bridge of the nose and clearly defined against the skin.

When the eyebrows are irregular and bristly the offending hairs may be maintained in their proper place by adhesive pomade or removed entirely if they are superfluous. It is not well to trim the eyebrow generally, as it makes it coarse, and in using tweezers great care must be taken not to pull out hairs which ought to remain.

When it is desired to thicken or strengthen the brows two drops of cajuput may be gently rubbed into the skin every other night, but the rubbing should always be in the direction of the hair from the nose outward. If it is desired to deepen their hue it should not be done by a dye, but with a pencil of dark pomatum, which allows accuracy of application and does not affect the skin or eyes, or with a coarse needle smoked over the flame of a candle, which is equally harmless but less permanent.—Designer.

Solitary Confinement For Food.

You wonder sometimes if every kind of food does not absorb odors. Yet nine women out of ten go on piling things together until the flavor of each is lost and a sort of composite flavor takes its place. Butter—lard, too—for instance, will absorb odor on the slightest pretext. Fish will not only absorb it, but will give out a very perceptible odor to everything that is near it. Tomatoes apparently do not absorb, but they do give out an odor rather spicy and appetizing in itself, but most unpleasant when absorbed by meat. It is not only uncooked things that absorb odor, either, for crackers are famous on the subject. They should be kept in tins, air tight, or they will soon get soft and tasteless or soft and full of a dozen different tastes. Cake, too, will absorb odor and give it out again as taste. Whenever you can, keep things shut up by themselves, and you'll find your trouble well repaid.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Using Leftovers.

The talent of using what you have on hand and what will not keep longer should be cultivated in all branches of cookery, and soup making is a fertile field, says a household authority. For instance, if you have a pint of cooked beans, by running them through a strainer and adding a pint of milk and a tablespoonful of butter—or a pint of stock without the butter—with seasoning to taste (onion is very good), one may have a delicious soup at very short notice. The same may be said of peas or corn. If stock is used with either of these last named vegetables it should be veal or chicken stock, for beef has too decided a flavor of its own. A few thin slices of lemon add greatly to puree of corn.

The "Butler's Assistant."

The "butler's assistant" has reached this side of the water. In England it has old renown as a breakfast and luncheon table convenience. The butler's assistant is a revolving tray of polished wood, on which is placed sugar bowl, cream pitcher, butter, bread, olives—almost everything, in fact, which has commonly to be passed. The tray occupies the center of the table and is easily reached from all sides. Being a revolving tray, any dish on it is available to all at the table. A craftsman makes the tray in old mahogany for $15.—New York Post.

Sheet Wisdom.

Most housewives imagine that linen is the ideal material for sheets, but several household authorities consider it inferior to a good quality of cotton for this purpose. Linen is cold and "slippery." It is no more appropriate for sheets than it is for body wear owing to its nonabsorbent quality. The wrinkles in linen sheets are harder to smooth out than those in cotton and, in addition, keep a bed from looking fresh. Linen, however, is at its best when used for tablecloths and napery. For all such purposes it is the ideal material.

The Door and the Wall.

The walls of a room near the door are often greatly damaged by the door handles knocking against them when the door is flung wide open. To prevent this take a fairly large spool, cover it first with cotton, wool or wadding and then with velvet or cloth, so as to make it look neat. Put a long brass headed nail through it and fasten it to the floor about four inches from the wall behind the door. Then the handle cannot damage the wall.

Exercise and Health.

The only thing that will make your blood circulate actively is exercise, and you can take this even if you are working all day. Swing Indian clubs five minutes when you get up, standing before an open window. Take five minutes of your lunch hour in a dressing room and go through any simple calesthenics. Do the same at night. This may seem a bother, but you cannot have circulation without promoting it.

The Looking Glass.

When looking glasses have to be cleaned first wash the glass all over with lukewarm soapsuds and a sponge and when dry rub it bright with chamois leather and a little prepared chalk which has been finely powdered. A splendid gloss will be given to glasses by rubbing them quickly with newspapers.

Afternoon Teacloths.

Apropos of afternoon teacloths, the pretty fashion of running in tolerably wide satin ribbon into insertion and finishing it off in bows at each corner closely to match has extended to boudoir cushions. The ribbons may be of different colors or corresponding with the general tone of the room.

Furniture Polish.

When furniture becomes scratched, as it often does, it is a good plan to rub it with a woolen cloth which has been dipped in kerosene oil. Should the furniture not polish well, try rubbing it first with a little kerosene, then apply the furniture cream and polish in the usual way.

To clean paint, use warm water and ammonia, with a little soap. If you use a strong preparation on paint you will ruin the finish, and hard rubbing and hot water both have the same effect.

Don't go into a sickroom when heated and don't sit between the patient and the fire, if there be one in the room, as the heat attracts any infectious vapor.

Butter will remove almost any kind of stain except ink. Rub it into the stain, then wash quickly in hot water with a fine soap.

Glass or china decorated in gold should never be washed in scalding water nor with strong soap.

Opposites.

If marriages are made in heaven,
Then surely it is so
That all divorces are ground out
In regions down below.

The Only Way.

"She seems to be making quite a hit with him."

"Yes; she has been complimenting him on the beautiful way that he does everything that he can't do."

One Reason.

"Why does time seem to pass so much quicker after we are grown up than in youth?"

"Well, in childhood we never have a note coming due at the bank."

Selecting His Victims.

"Everything he touches turns to gold."

"Yes, but he only touches millionaires."

Our spirits shaken
With sorrow sore,

Our hearts yet revel amid the pleasures
And cherished treasures

The young bull moose in the park at Victoria, B. C., was captured in the north of British Columbia when quite young, while swimming a river in company with its mother, and was halter-broken and brought down to Victoria. It is now just about a year old, and its horns are just appearing.

At first this moose used to browse on different young trees, such as the willow and alder, but at present this diet is rather limited, it having killed off most of the trees in its enclosure, so that it usually fills up on grass. The grass clippings from the lawns are placed in the moose's enclosure, and when it wishes to eat any grass it kneels down on its foreleg and feeds in this position. I do not think the length of the animal's neck would permit it feeding on the ground unless kneeling. This moose, however, does not seem to flourish on this diet, as it is getting rather thin.

SHOWING THE GOOD WORK DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS ARE DOING.

Mrs. Thomas Rumley one of the many who Found Health in the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Silver Water, Manitoulin Island, July 31.—(Special).—Every part of Canada seems to be testifying to the good work Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing and there is no reason why Manitoulin Island should not do her part. Many a man and woman here blesses them for aches relieved and health restored. Take for instance the case of Mrs. Thomas Rumley. She says:—

"I doctored for years and did not seem to get any better. It seemed to be my kidneys that was the trouble so I thought I would try Dodd's Kidney Pills and they helped me very much.

"I cannot say how many I have taken for my house is never without them and whenever I don't feel right I take a few. My husband also takes them once in a while. I find them a splendid medicine to have handy."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the greatest family medicine of the age. They can be taken by young or old with perfect safety. They cure all kidney ailments, and nine-tenths of the sickness of the present day springs from bad kidneys.

A ROMANTIC CHAPTER

HUDSON BAY $50 SHARES RISE $100 IN A SINGLE MONTH.

Wonderful Story of the Development of the Dominion of Canada — Causes Which Have Contributed to This Profit of Over £2,000,000—American Speculators in Canada's Lands and the Part They Are Playing.

A correspondent writing from London, Eng., on March 21, says: "The £10 shares in the Hudson Bay Co. have risen nearly £20 in less than a month, and now stand at over £70."

To the financier the above statement means a stock exchange "boom" to which a profit of over £2,000,000 is attached. But to the student of colonial history it means much more. For him it contains one of the most romantic chapters in the story of the development of our richest colony—the Dominion of Canada.

Within the next month work will begin in earnest on the new railway which is to join the Atlantic and Pacific shores of the Dominion. Half of this railway—from Moncton, a New Brunswick port, to Winnipeg—is to be built by the Government; the other half—from Winnipeg to Port Simpson, on the Pacific—by the Grand Trunk Railway. The second half of this gigantic engineering enterprise will pass through vast tracts of almost unexplored virgin country.

Some 2,000 miles of prairie land, interspersed with lakes and ponds, and heavily timbered in places with spruce and pine, will be made accessible to settlers. The few settlers who have already penetrated into the mighty solitudes of Assiniboia, Saskatchewan and Alberta, describe the region as abounding in mineral and agricultural wealth. The story of Manitoba, with its mammoth wheat fields, its thousands of prosperous farmers, its hundreds of towns and villages, which now cover what was once wild forest and prairie land, the home of the buffalo and the Indian, is likely to be repeated.

American Speculators.

The vast possibilities which the railway thus opens up have already been recognised. American land speculators are securing large blocks of land as fast as the Government surveys, made in preparation for settlers, are completed. The railway will not be finished for five or six years, but it will bring with it thousands of settlers, and land "booms" like those which marked the progress of the railway system of the United States are sure to follow. Then will the speculators who are now sowing their seed reap their harvest.

The Hudson Bay Co. has an extensive interest in all this, for, owing to a bargain it made with the Canadian Government thirty-five years ago, its proprietary rights in the region now being brought into touch with civilization are second only to those of the Government itself.

The company was founded in 1670, a charter being granted to Prince Rupert and seventeen noblemen and gentlemen for importing into Great Britain furs and skins obtained by barter from the Indians of North America. The corporation was invested with the absolute proprietorship of all land discovered or to be discovered within the entrance of the Hudson Strait.

For more than a century the holders of the charter confined themselves to the coast traffic. Their troubles were many, the chief being an almost continual warfare with the French, who destroyed their forts, ruined their [illegible] and captured their ships.

With the wresting of Canada by the British from the French, the exploring spirit broke out among the Hudson Bay pioneers. Parties penetrated far up the Saskatchewan River, towards the Rocky Mountains. In 1783 the Northwest Fur Co. of Montreal was formed, and, after nearly forty years' competition in inland trading with the Hudson Bay Co., was merged into the latter in 1821.

Result of a Bargain.

The Hudson Bay Co. now ruled practically the whole of North America. In 1870, however, it made a bargain with the Canadian Government, and to this bargain is due the fact that its shares to-day stand at 700 per cent. premium.

The company's territorial rights were sold to the Government for £300,000 in cash, the right to select a block of land adjoining each of its stations, and the right for fifty years from 1870 to "claim in any township or district within the fertile belt in which land is set out for settlement grants of land not exceeding one-twentieth part of the land so set out."

The "fertile belt" is the stretch of country through the northern portion of which, stretching from Winnipeg to the Rocky Mountains, is bounded on the south by the United States boundary. Up to March 1904, about 3,997,000 acres, or one-twentieth of the total land laid out for settlement, which reaches from Winnipeg to Edmonton, a town in Alberta, had been allotted to the company.

With the passing of the railway scheme the laying out of the land is proceeding apace, and well before the fifty years have expired the entire district will be mapped out into settlements, and the company will have received over 7,000,000 acres of land.

Up to March last year the company had sold 1,234,000 acres of its land. Some idea of the price it received may be gained from the fact that in the year 1903-4 the company sold 180,414 acres for nearly a quarter of a million pounds.

Values Steadily Rising.

Within the last year the company has adopted the policy of reducing the number of its land sales, and its present position is that it has over two and a half million acres in hand, with the certainty of a further allotment of over three million acres in the next few years. Already values are steadily rising throughout the "fertile belt," and the possibilities of further appreciation as the northern portion becomes colonised are boundless.

Since its bargain with the Government in 1870 the company has prospered exceedingly. It has returned £1,000,000 to its shareholders of their capital, which is now divided into 100,000 shares of £10 each. During the last ten years alone it has paid £955,000 in dividends, or nearly an average of 10 per cent. Last year its dividend rose to £17 10s per cent.

The present "boom" in its shares is largely owing to American purchases. Possibly the same speculators, who, for months past, have been purchasing land in Northwest Canada, are seeking to secure control of the company which possesses so large an interest in the sphere of their operations. Optimists say that, although there may be small setbacks, due to profit-taking, the company's shares are bound to reach £100 in value before the boom ends.

MAKING GOOD INDIANS.

Conditions, Customs and Treatment of Dominion's Red Men.

Speaking at the Toronto Canadian Club luncheon recently on "The Indians in Canada," Mr. Frank Pedley, of the Department of Indian Affairs, Ottawa, said that at the rounding out of Confederation there was an Indian population of 80,000 distributed from the Atlantic to the Pacific, comprising over thirty different tribes. There was a general impression that the Indians were a dying race, but the records of the Department did not bear out that view, as the present population was about 108,000, there being 25,000 in British Columbia, 21,000 in Ontario, 17,000 in the Northwest Territories, 11,000 in Quebec. The rights of the Indian to his land were absolutely safeguarded by the Indian Act, and not a foot could be sold without permission of the Department. He spoke of the Indian title to the land, which was recognized by the French and English. By treaties, by annuities and by instituting reserves the title has been extinguished over most of Canada. Ungava Mackenzie, Keewatin and the Yukon are exceptions. Prior to confederation the Provinces or the Imperial Government dealt with the Indians. Now their welfare rests entirely with the Dominion Government. The impression also existed that the Indians were mostly given to hunting and fishing, but as a fact their occupations were very much varied, and were determined largely by local conditions. In Eastern Canada they were manufacturers of snowshoes, moccasins, baskets, etc., whilst in the settled portions of Ontario they were devoting themselves to pursuits somewhat similar to the white men. In British Columbia they work in the orchard, in canneries, as well as manufacture certain articles.

Education Policy.

In addition to the industrial pursuits, said Mr. Pedley, a policy leading to the education of the Indians had been pursued, and there were to-day 228 day schools distributed over the Dominion, 71 of which were in Ontario, 48 in Manitoba, and 33 in the Northwest Territories. The schools were modelled on a system adopted by the Provincial Department of Education for rural schools. In addition to the day schools, the Department had subsidized 46 boarding schools carried on under the auspices of different religious denominations, where in addition to the secular side, religious instruction was given, housekeeping for girls and the rudiments of agriculture for boys. There were also 24 industrial schools established for the purpose of affording a more thorough system of manual training.

Medical Attendance.

There were further in the employ of the Indian Department 178 doctors, whose duties were to give all reasonable attendance, whilst the physical condition in general were also looked after. Another feature of the work to which constant attention was being given was the stamping out of the liquor trade amongst the Indians. It was not for him (Mr. Pedley) to prophesy, or to state with any degree of definiteness as to the future of the Indian, but at any rate there were many inherent qualities making for his betterment, and it was the duty of the Department to see that the process of development was not hindered, but encouraged in the most emphatic manner.

PASSED CENTURY MARK.

Unique Figure in the History of the Town of Richmond Hill.

Over the century mark and for more than fifty years a resident of Richmond Hill, Mrs. Susannah Maxwell is a unique figure in the history of the town. On Friday, March 10, Mrs. Maxwell passed the 100th milestone in life's pilgrimage and the occasion was marked by a large gathering of citizens. Mrs. Maxwell, whose maiden name was Stokes, was born in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

Though colored Mrs. Maxwell was free-born, the State of Pennsylvania never having trafficked in slavery. Her parents dying when she was very young, Susannah was adopted by a wealthy landowner named Holmes, who treated her kindly.

She received a fair education and at the age of 18 was given her independence. Although free-born and among a race of people sternly opposed to slavery, Mrs. Maxwell states that there was at all times among the colored people a dread of the marauding bands who infested the border towns, kidnapping colored people and selling them into slavery in the south. On one occasion they were only repulsed with loss of life on both sides.

Mrs. Maxewell and her husband in coming to Canada settled in Richmond Hill, where she has since resided. During this long time she has lost her husband, and five children, one daughter, Tillie, alone remaining to give comfort in her declining years.

Among those who sent regrets and substantial reminders of the auspicious celebration of her centenary were Judge Falconbridge and Deputy Postmaster Coulter. Some $75 was presented to the guest of the evening. A member of the Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Maxwell, and her daughter are among the most respected residents of the town. With all her faculties uninjured and alert in body, Mrs. Maxwell bids fair yet to live for many years.

To Discourage Bachelordom.

Instead of threatening laggard bachelors with laws and attempting to coerce them with matrimony, perhaps it would be well to try ridicule or pity. The man who can be made to imagine that no woman will have him will be disposed to try his cause. Then something may happen.

Equine Sagacity.

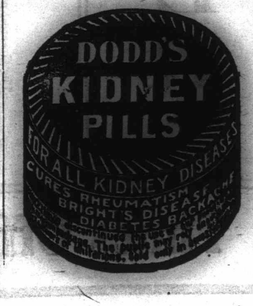
First Lieutenant—How do you like the horse you bought from me last week? Second Lieutenant—Very much. He might hold his head a little higher, though. First Lieutenant—Oh, that will come all right when he is paid for. —Stuiversblad.

The Cloven Part.

"So your engagement with Jack is broken off?"

"Yes."

"Did he exhibit the cloven hoof?"



"No, the cloven breath."

Summer Complaints

The very best medicine in the world for summer complaints, such as cholera infantum, diarrhoea and dysentry is Baby's Own Tablets. During the hot weather months no wise mother should be without a box of Tablets in the house. These troubles come suddenly and unless promptly checked too often prove fatal. Baby's Own Tablets act almost like magic in these cases, and speedily remove all cause of danger. Mrs. Alex. Poulin, Caraquet, N. B., says: "I think Baby's Own Tablets the best medicine in the world for children. I have used them for cholera infantum, teething and other troubles, and it is astonishing how quickly they relieve and cure these ailments." An occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets will keep the stomach and bowels right and prevent summer complaints. No mother need be afraid of this medicine—it is guaranteed to contain no opiate or harmful drug. It always does good—it cannot possibly do harm. Be sure that every box bears the full name Baby's Own Tablets and picture of four-leaf clover on the wrapper around the box. Anything else is a dangerous substitute. Sold by all druggists or sent by mail at 25 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

It might be supposed that English speaking people would not venture to travel in a foreign country without some knowledge of its language; but our countrymen do so every year. A lady relates she was one of a party of English tourists that visited Madrid. She was the only one of the number who knew any Spanish, and her stock was confined to "yes" and "no" an "milk." By means of gestures they managed to get along the first afternoon and night. The next morning at breakfast there was coffee but no milk, and the party appealed to the lady to get some. To her dismay she forgot the word for milk, and after striving in vain to recall it she seized a piece of paper and pencil and drew the picture of a cow. The waiter examined the drawing critically, went out of the room and returned promptly with a bundle of tickets for that day's bull fight.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Death Comes to All.—But it need not come prematurely if proper precautions are taken. James Dalrymple of Glasgow, the expert on municipal street car ownership, was comparing in Cleveland the public with the private operation of water supplies, gas works and kindred utilities. "When private hands take hold of these things," said Mr. Dalrymple, "they run them beautifully at first. The people at first are highly pleased. But with time's passage the popular pleasure wanes; it changes to vexation and to bitterness; and that," said Mr. Dalrymple, "reminds me of a recent happening in Glasgow. "There was a Glasgow man to whom his wife said: "'Donald, next Thursday is Helen's birthday. She will be eleven years old. Give me a little money, please, to get a birthday present for her.' "The man, as he took out his purse, said querulously: "'How the dence are you able to remember so exactly the dates of all our children's births.' "'Easily enough,' the woman answered. "Our first child was born on January 17, and on that day you gave me a necklace of diamond and rubies. Our second was born on June 2, and on that day you gave me a needle case worth sixpence. Our third child was born on October 27, and that date is firmly fixed in my mind through a terrific rumpus that you made about a milliner's bill.

Sure Regulators.—Mandrake and Dandelion are known to exert a powerfluence on the liver and kidneys, restoring them to healthful action, inducing a regular flow of the secretions and imparting to the organs complete power to perform their functions. These valuable ingredients enter into the composition of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, and serve to render them the agreeable and salutary medicine they are. There are few pills so effective as they in their action.

Thomas W. Lawson was once visited in his Boston office by a young woman who came laden with all sorts of college dipomas and gilt edge references. It so happened that Mr. Lawson needed a temporary secretary, and engaged her on the spot. When, later in the day, the young woman handed Mr. Lawson a number of letters that he had dictated, that were chiefly remarkable for their hideous orthography. He called the girl's attention to her blunders, whereupon she replied with a giggle: "Really, now, I think I must have been bewitched." "Quite so," said Mr. Lawson; "some fairy has evidently cast a bad spell over you."

Very much excited and out of breath, a young man who could not have been married very long rushed up to an attendant at one of the city hospitals and inquired after Mrs. Brown, explaining between breaths that it was his wife whom he felt anxious about. The attendant looked at the register and replied that there was no Mrs. Brown in the hospital. "Don't keep me waiting in this manner," said the excited young man. "I must know how she is." "Well, she isn't here," again said the attendant. "She must be," broke in the visitor, "for here is a noe found on the kitchen table when I came home from work." The note read: "Dear Jack: Have gone to have my kimono cut out. Annie."

A Case of Eczema
No Pen Describes.
After Three Years of Terrible Suffering Little Mary Millar Was Permanently Cured by
DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Many of the cures brought about by Dr. Chase's Ointment are so much like miracles that people can scarcely believe them. When Baby Millar became a victim of eczema her parents did everything that could be done to get her cured. Three doctors tried all the means in their power, but without success, and then all sorts of remedies were used, with the vain hope that something would bring relief from the disease that seemed to be burning up the living flesh.

It was not until Dr. Chase's Ointment was used that relief and cure came. This case is certified by a prominent Sunday school superintendent of St. Catherines.

Mrs. Wm. Millar, St. Catherines, Ont., writes:—"My daughter, Mary, when six months old contracted eczema and for three years this disease baffled all treatment. Her case was one of the worst that ever came to my notice, and she suffered what no pen can ever describe. I had her treated by three different doctors, but all to no purpose whatever, and all sorts of balms, soaps and lotions were tried with no beneficial results.

"Finally I decided to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and to my surprise she began to improve immediately, and after regular treatment for a time the disease of so long standing completely disappeared. As that was four years ago, and not a symptom of this distressing ailment has ever shown itself since, the cure must certainly be a permanent one. At the time of this cure we were living in Cornwall, Ont., and the doctors there feared if she was not cured of Eczema she would go into a decline."

Mr. S. Richardson, jun., Superintendent Christ's Church Sunday schol, St. Catherines, Ont., writes: "I am acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. William Millar and believe they would not make any statement knowing it to be in any way misleading or untrue."

"That speech," said Bird S. Coler, anent a political address, "was ungracious." It reminds me of Scot's speech to his wife. "The Scot had married for the second time. His new mate was sentimental and a little morbid. She could not resist asking her husband now and then if he loved her better than he had loved her precedecessor. "She would say: "'Do I more than fill Jean's place in your heart, Jock?' "'Are ye sure ye're no' regrettin' Jean, laddie?' "'Jock, do ye lo'e me better nor her?' "The man bore several of these examinations patiently. Then he ended them once for all with a gruff: "'Tak' ma word for it, Betty, if Jean was livin' ye wadna be here.'"

They Wake the Torpid Energies.—Machinery not properly supervised and left to run itself, very soon shows fault in its working. It is the same with he digestive organs. Unregulated from time to time they are likely to become torpid and throw the whole system out of gear. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills were made to meet such cases. They restore to the full the flagging faculties, and bring into order all parts of the mechanism.

Sir Henry Irving tells that at one time visiting Shakespeare's birthplace he had a slight experience with a rustic of the vicinity. Being in a quisical frame of mind, Sir Henry addressed a few questions to the fellow, and, in reply, obtained some illuminating information, according to the Buffalo Commercial. "That's Shakespeare's house over there, I believe," Sir Henry innocently remarked. "Es." "Hav you ever been there?" "Noa." "I believe Mr. Shakespeare is dead now. Can you tell me how long?" "Dunno." "Let's see, he wrote, did he not?" "Oh, yes, he did summat." "What was it he wrote?" "Well, I think it was the Bolble."

"Why don't you go to work?" said a charitable woman to a tramp, before whom she had placed a nicely cooked meal. "I would," replied the vagrant, "if I had the tools." What sort of tools do you want?" asked the hostess. "A knife and fork," said the tramp.

A Harvard professor, dining at the Parker House, ordered a bottle of hock, saying, "Here, waiter, bring me a bottle of hock—hic, haec, hoc." "Yes, sir," replied the waiter; "you ordered it, but afterward declined it."

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. Mark Twain, in his lecturing days, reached a small eastern town one afternoon, and went before dinner to a barber's to be shaved. "You are a stranger in this town, sir?" the barber asked. "Yes. I'm a stranger here," was the reply. "We are having a good lecture here, tonight, sir," said the barber. "A Mark Twain lecture. Are you going to it?" "Yes, I think I will," said Mr. Clemens. "Have you got your ticket yet?" the barber asked. "No, not yet," said the other. "Then, sir, you'll have to stand." "Dear me!" Mr. Clemens exclaimed. "It seems as if I always do have to stand when I hear that man Twain lecture."

CLIMATIC CONDITIONS.

The Climatic conditions are different from those of any other district in Canada, extremes of heat and cold being rare.

Meteorological observations sustain the claim that this district has the mildest winter in the west, and that spring sets in fully three weeks earlier than at any other point in the Western Provinces.

Fruit growing has passed the experimental stage. Standard apples, crab apples, plums, cherries, strawberries, Tomatoes and all kinds of bush fruit have been grown to perfection.

Medicine Hat is very healthily and prettily situated on the banks of the South Saskatchewan River. It is on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is a divisional point of that system and is the terminus of the Crow's Nest Pass Railway.

The town possesses most of the conveniences found in modern cities. the streets are lighted by Natural Gas, which is quite equal to electric light as a luminant. These lamps are 750 candle power and they are distributed over the whole town.

There is an abundant water supply by direct pressure to all parts of the town. The waterworks system, like the natural gas system, is the property of the town.

From its healthy situation and other advantages it is most desirable as a residential town, and it is worthy of note that the residences are among the prettiest and most substantial in the west.

The town is situated at an altitude of 2171 feet above sea level and its atmosphere is pure and invigorating. There are no chilly winds and no fogs.

The rainfall for eight years shows an average of 15.47 inches per year.

The mean temperature is the most equable in Canada east of the Rocky Mountains.

The winters are short—generally less than three months— and are broken by "chinook spells," and the snowfall is light. The coldest spell lasts but a few days. Warm "chinook" breezes from the Japan current cross the mountains through the passes, lifts the snow, and leaves a nice balmy atmosphere which continues for several days together, rendering it possible to play baseball in December and January. It might be expected that intense humidity would characterise the atmosphere under such circumstances but such is not the case. The snow simply evaporates leaving the ground dry and firm.

NATURAL RESOURCES.

Natural Gas—As stated above the natural gas is owned and operated by the town. Specially cheap rates —5 cents per 1000 feet— are offered to manufacturers.

Coal—Within three miles of town are several coal mines, and the coal is laid down at from $3.00 to $3.50 per ton.

Clay and Cement deposits—There are several large deposits of clay suitable for the manufacture of brick pressed brick, cement and terra-cotta, which up to the present have not been exploited.

ALBERTA GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS NAMED.

CABINET MEMBERS SELECTED AND SWORN IN AT EDMONTON ON THURSDAY.

A message from Edmonton on Friday says:—

Premier Rutherford presented the names of his cabinet ministers to the lieutenant-governor yesterday and received the approval of his honor the lieutenant-governor.

The cabinet is as follows:

A. C. Rutherford, premier, minister of education and provincial treasurer.

C. W. Cross, attorney-general.

W. H. Cushing, minister of public works.

W. T. Finlay, minister of agriculture and provincial secretary.

Dr. DeVeber, minister without portfolio.

Mr. Cross was sworn in as member of the executive council on Thursday at 11.30 a.m. Mr. Cushing was sworn in on Thursday night on the arrival of the late train from Calgary.

Other members have been summoned by wire and will be sworn in as soon as they reach the city.

They will all be assigned their portfolios and the machinery of government set in motion immediately.

Edmonton young liberals banqueted Mr. Cross on Friday night at the Alberta hotel. Messrs Rutherford, Cushing and Talbot attended.

TO THE VOTERS

Medicine Hat Constituency.

As the nominee of the Conservatives to contest the forthcoming Provincial elections in the Medicine Hat constituency, I consider it my duty to state what measures I intend to support if elected to the Legislature:

1. The taking of all proper and lawful steps to ascertain in what respects, if any, the Dominion Parliament can restrict the Province of Alberta in its dealing with the Edution question, in addition to any restrictions there may be contained in the British North America Act.

2. Regarding the lands I will advocate the continual application to and negotiation with the Dominion Parliament for the surrender of the public domain (within the boundaries of the Province) to the Province and for the withdrawal of the Canadian Pacific Railway tax exemptions.

3. I am in favor of the public ownership of public utilities.

4. I am in favor of the giving of land grants to all defenders of the empire (including members of the R. N. W. M. P.) who are residents in the Province.

5. Iam of opinion that each Local Improvement District should have improvements (in the way of roads and bridges) made therein equal in value to the total amount of taxes collected therefrom and where, by reason of sparcity of population, such taxes are not sufficient to make necessary improvements, I shall urge the government to make up the amount required from the Public funds.

6. I will urge generous but careful expenditure of the public monies towards the legitimate assistance of agriculture and ranching.

7. There is no more important point than Medicine Hat where a traffic bridge should be built. It will be my duty to urge the appropriation of sufficient monies to build such a bridge.

8. I deem it my duty to give my hearty support to all legitimate measures furthering the Labor interests.

9. I am in favor of a fair re-adjustment of the Income Tax.

10. I am in favor of some adjustment of the Mechanic's Lien on buildings.

WIPING OUT THE R. N. W. M. P.

TO BE REDUCED TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT. PER ANNUM.

A message from Ottawa dated the 7th of Sept. says:—As soon as order has been evolved out of the somewhat chaotic condition of affairs in the Northwest Territories, resulting from the creation of the two new provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, the government will decide as to what reductions it will make in the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. It is certain that reductions will be made. The force in the Territories and the Yukon numbers about 800 men and costs about $1,000,000 per annum to maintain. The strength of the force in the Territories is about 600 men. The Government thinks this number will not be needed now that the new Provinces assume the administration of criminal matters. For some time past recruiting has practically been suspended. The reduction of strength will probably take place at the rate of from 25 to 30 per cent. each year.

BIG REDUCTION.

Nothing will be done for the present, in order that the machinery of the two provinces, now in the transition stage, may be established as smoothly and as easily as possible, but next year will witness a big reduction in the estimates for the mounted police. Some of the force who are mustered out will be re-enlisted into the permanent cavalry force of the Dominion. This idea is believed to be in contemplation by the authorities. It is known that the militia department has first call for sites for new barracks on the land in possession of the mounted police. Buildings not required by the police hereafter will probably be taken over by the new provinces on payment of a reasonable amount.

A Successful Horseman.

Never allows his horse to suffer pain. He always uses Nerviline which is noted for curing stiffness, rheumatism, swellings and strains. Nerviline is just as good inside as outside. For cramps, colic, and internal pain it's a perfect marvel. In good racing stables Nerviline is always used,—because it makes better horses and smaller veterinary bills. Twenty-five cents buys a large bottle of Nerviline; try it.

Note & Comment.

[By OBSERVER.]

With familiarity, but without disrespect, people in the Old Country often refer to the man-o'-war's-man as Jack, not infrequently as Jack Tar, as by another popular convention they agree to call the man in the ranks Tommy Atkins. But Jack is not "Jackie," and when some of Prince Louis' men heard themselves named "Jackies" at Toronto they noted the remark not merely as a solecism, but a personal offense, for among shipmates "jackie" means monkey. The men of the United States warships do submit to have their common name "bluejackets" contracted to "jackies" but as applied to himself the British seaman objects to this last change being rung on the word.

Hello Montreal.

The Montreal Star last week got off another little weather joke at the expense of Medicine Hat, by remarking that this summer had been the hottest on record in Medicine Hat and that the weather man was evidently trying to even things up. Well, now I remember distinctly that some time last March when we were planting our gardens and the lawns were getting green, the Montreal Council was busy voting an additional $5,000 to the public works committee to clear the snow and ice fromthe streets.

Hello, Montreal, just make a note of the above on the tablet of your brain and when next you talk of the weather remember the contrast last March.

When our own papers throw us down so hard it is not very difficult to understand why people should be found in the States ever ready and willing to brand this district as the "birthplace of blizzards." They do it "every time" but there never was a statement so far removed from truth. Half that is said is no doubt mere "cussedness" and not seriously, meant, and as such it is best to treat the whole matter. Still, there is an old saying that if a mud-slinger keeps on throwing long enough some of the mud will stick. For that reason it may be well to open out a little occasionally and expose

THE PIANO WITH A SOUL

Mason & Risch Pianos are famous for that peculiar carrying power known as the singing tone. Not all tones classed as musical are music unalloyed. There are certain qualities of tone that are strangely diffusive They carry far and retain their singing character where other tones become indistinct or even lost. A sheet of gold leaf, thinner than the thinnest tissue, will completely block the powerful rays of the strongest searchlight, while the X-rays, merely glowing with a faint light, will penetrate an inch of solid steel. So it is with music: some tones are diffusive and carry, others become more or less absorbed in space. The tone that "carries" the singing tone, is due to perfection of finish and perfect vibratory equilibruim of all the tone producing parts of a piano. It is always a tone of the utmost sweetness and purity. The Mason & Risch Piano is full of "sing" being especially fine in its blendings of the human voice, which it rounds out and sustains in a happy union of melody and harmony. Our literature explains the many points of superiority of the Mason & Risch piano—the piano with a soul. Send for it to-day.

BEST CROPS FOR MEDICINE HAT.

INTERVIEW WITH PROFESSOR SHAW.

During the Agricultural Editors' visit we had a very interesting interview with Professor Shaw who was perhaps the most interesting personage in the editorial party, and we obtained from the professor expressions of opinion which will prove of value to many who may be debating the question of what crops to grow. After having travelled over Alberta on two or three occasions during the last eight years he has come to the following conclusions as to the BEST CROPS TO GROW.

1. That Alfalfa can be successfully grown over at least two-thirds of Alberta.

2. That the crops which may be expected to do best in the Medicine Hat district are, in order of importance:—

(a) Winter wheat and alfalfa.
(b) Sorghum.
(c) Corn.

In bracketing winter wheat and alfalfa we have done so because Professor Shaw said that in districts where Alfalfa will grow well he would put that before winter wheat, so it is evident it is of equal importance. The Professor said that where any farmer here has a clay as the subsoil of his farm he can go withevery confidence into Alfalfa growing, but where the sub-soil is a "hard-pan" the alfalfa will not do well.

The Professor laid down the following rules for the preparation of the land for winter wheat and these he considers essential to success:

1. Break the land in spring.
2. Roll the land the same day it is plowed.
3. Harrow the same day or very soon after.
4. Harrow during the summer as required to keep down weeds and keep surface loose.

He attaches the very highest importance to the rolling and harrowing which should be done immediately to conserve the moisture, unless the weather should be damp at the time of plowing.

One af the remarks made by the Professor in this connection was this

You have a fertile soil, you have an excellent climate and you have a rainfall which is sufficient provided proper means are taken to conserve it. The conservation of the moisture is the great point for your farmers. You want to urge the Government to give you an and your people cannot work too hard for this. As to the amount of land required I would say about 160 acres and it might not be necessary to cultivate all of that in orderto demonstrate the various points. One thing you must try to do and that is to get the right man to run it. Ask Mr. McKay at Indian Head to find you the right man and he will do it. Itwill be very important to get the right man for the work.

Infurther conversation the Professor said there were many farming problems of the most interesting nature to work out in Alberta.

Beforeleaving the Professor asked for the return of the rainfall by months, and this was supplied him by the courtesy of Mr. Walter Crosskill, the Government Recorder here, and in looking it over the Professor considered it confirmed his opinions.

He pointed out to us that the crop of corn (25 acres), on Fleming & Corbett's farm had been grown with just seven inches of rain. This crop we may add, he considered to be very satisfactory and he made the same remark with regard to the marigel crop, but he is particularly struck with the fact that this has been accomplished on a rainfall of seven inches. He said it proved up to the hilt that soil and rainfall are all right and all that isrequired isthe proper handling of the soil to produce good crops.

"If some one comes in and makes a failure of it." he added, "don't be discouraged. It can be done here."

M.P.P. OR M.L.A.

(Toronto News.)

The creation of the new provinces revives the old question whether the members of the legislature shall be called M. P. P. or M. L. A. The advocates of the former title score a point by showing that the membership is not in a legislative chamber, but in a parliament or legislature. Thus we call our representatives at Ottawa members of parliament, not members of the house of commons. The choice is, therefore between M.P. P. and M.L.A.

The Gatherer.

I never had much of a hankering for doing things out of season just because other folks did. When I was a boy, I was about as proud as the next one. I used to step quite spry when a boy, even if I had to grease my boots to make them look black, and wear a paper collar because I couldn't wear a linen one.

I used to have a fairly good mane too, but I never parted it in the middle and combed it down as flat as a pancake and so slick that a fly wouldn't dare walk round my head. Idon't want the boys to think that I dislike to see them dress up and look as slick as a peeled onion, for I do, but among the other thingsI want to see them do, is to part their hair in the side where it should be parted, and never sign their name with a coupling pin in the middle.

No man can afford to become a professional horse trader who cares much for his word. There are too many balky, ring boned, spavined liars who deal in them for a man to enter the profession if he wants his word to go as far as his bond. The human nature that may lie dormant in other ways asserts itself in a horse trade, and when he gets an opportunity he soaks the other fellow and soaks him first. According to David Harum, "There are several holes in a ten-foot ladder," and the professional horse trader knows just how to crawl through all of them.

The way to stop boys from becoming bandits and robbers is by having more reading rooms and fewer gree shops where vice is studied and where villany is the watchword. What a great many big cities want is more Dwight L. Moodys and fewer trouble shooters; more Sunday schools and fewer questionable dance halls. The children are all right if their parents take them in time and teach them the road to honor. It the parents fail then the home missionaries should be employed and the gospel fed to them instead of yellow journalism and cigarettes.

Don't get the idea that a thing worth having doesn't cost money or energy. The preacher tells us that salvation is free, but whoever helps to keep the coal bin in the Church full knows that in these strenuous days so many hundred pounds of coal make a ton, and $3.00 is the regulation price thereof. Sample bottles of swamp root are advertised free, but the generosity of the manufacturer is all accounted for in the regular sized bottles. There is same difference between swamp root and religion, but the business end of both requires the circulating medium to accelerate equize motion.

I can't begin to keep up with the new curves that are continually being introduced into the human fanily It was not many years ago that a man never asked any questions about microbes in the water. When he was plowing and wanted a drink, he went down to the creek, down on all fours andfilled his tank, without considering the microbes but now you read everywhere in the papers "Boil the Water." Along with everything else comes internal trouble and the way to save your vermiform appendix is by putting it in your wife's name like most of the Indiana real estate.

Neber judge a woman's thoughts by what she says.

MEDICINE HAT RAILWAY STATION DESCRIBED.

Believing our readers will doubtless be glad to have some description of the new C.P.R. station now in course of erection at Medicine Hat we have collected a few particulars which we think will prove interesting. It is hardly necessary to state, except for the information of readers at a distance, that the building will stand at the east end of Mr. J. A. Cameron's house, between that building and the ice and store houses. These latter will, however, be removed in the near future to a position further east but in the meantime the work of constructing the new station is proceeding apace.

Provision is made for a platform about 1200 feet long, extending from Braemer to Main Street. At the east end track accommodation is provided for the Crow train on the north side between Braemar Street and the east end of the station building.

The platform runs round the station and is 16 feet wide in front next the main track and at the east east end the remainder (north side and west end) being eight feet wide. The Crow train will therefore run up to the platform at the east end of the building.

The station will front to the south The plan calls for a two-storey building. The footings are of concrete and the foundation walls are carried up to the platform level in concrete two feet thick. From the platform to the sills on ground floor Calgary stone is used and the lintels sills etc. are of the same material. From the sills to the eaves Medicine Hat red brick, from the Purmal brickyard, is specified.

The building is covered by a shingle roof. An overhang roof projects all round the building for a distance of eight feet beyond the walls, and this is supported on ornamental wooden brackets resting on stone corbels. The bay window on the south side is carried to the whole height of the building and is crowned by hexagonal roof the appex of which is eight feet above the main ridge. The roof on this side is also broken up by two gables, one on each side of the hexagonal roof. The whole giving a picturesque appearance, while the roof on the north side shows three gables, each containing two windows. The window sashes are artistically broken up into small panes, in which clear glass is used.

The new building will therefore occupy a position across Montreal street. It will be 104.6 feet in length by 32 feet wide. On the ground floor therewill be a general waiting room 24 x 29 feet, with a lavatory. Adjoining the general waiting room there will be a ladies waiting room 18 x 16 feet with modern lavatory accommodation.

Next to the general waiting room on the east side is the ticket office, with large bay window facing south; immediately behind this is the agents office, also with bay window to the north.

Adjoining these is the operator's office, the whole width of the building. Next come the baggage and express rooms, the former 12 feet 6in. x 28 feet, and the latter 13 feet 6in. x 28 feet. These have doors on both sides so that baggage and express may be conveniently passed through from the cars to the drays.

Below the operators office and the express is cellerage accommodation, half of which will be used as a battery room.

Therooms on the ground floor are 14 feet high.

The first floor contains, at the east end of the building, living rooms for the agent comprising dining room, parlor, hall, three bedrooms bathroom and kitchen, with the usual accessories. At the west end are commodious offices for the use of officials. These are approached by an independent stairway leading up from the platform.

The whole building is warmed by radiators and piped for gas, which will give our natural product a chance of exhibiting itself nightly to the travelling public.

Messrs James McDiarmid & Company, of Winnipeg, are the contractors and this is only one of many contracts they are at present executing for the C. P. R. The work is overlooked on behalf of the Railway Company by Mr. R. M. Lethbridge, of the resident Engineer's office, Calgary.

The statement in The Times that Mrs. Huggins had taken the Boarding house lately run by Mrs. Lucas was not correct. Mrs. Huggins has opened the large square house facing the lacrosse grounds.

Dr. Harrison, Of Toronto, spent a day in town last week. The doctor occupies a high position in the order of the Woodmen of the World and while here had a busy time completing the organisation of the local lodge.

Messrs W. T. Finlay, C. R. Mitchell, J. McClellan, C. S. Pingle, H. Green and Dr. Smith have returned from Regina, where they attended the Inaugural Celebration. Mr. Pingle acted as referee in the lacrosse match between Brandon and Regina.

A first class boarding and rooming house has been opened by Mrs. W. Huggins on Balmoral street facing the lacrosse grounds. Room for 12 to 15 roomers and any number of boarders. Comfortable house bath-room etc. Table the best.

Miss May Naisbitt, of Woodstock, Ont., is visiting Mrs. J. G. Weldock.

Miss McNeil was the hostess at a very enjoyable whist party on Friday evening given in honor of Miss Richards of London, Ont. The prizes were won by Miss Dickerson and Mr. Geo. Cochran; Miss McDermott and Mr. Colson.

A line crept into our local columns last week which gave an impression that we had "gone back" on the position we have held in regard to a town engineer. The omission of a couple of words altered the sense of the par. We still hold to the opinion we have previously expressed on the matter.

During the afternoon the range was visited by Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia and Major General Lake, who were on a tour of inspection re location of the Strathcona Horse. Both gentlemen joined in the shooting at the 600 yard range and made good scores. The Minister used D. T. Flayin's rifle and the spectators witnessed the somewhat unusual sight of the Canadian Minister of Militia being coached by an American citizen. Sir Frederick enjoyed the situation and evidently thought the "Yankee coach was all right." D. T. says Sir Frederick was an excellent pupil and followed his instructions to the letter.

Another Gas Gusher For Medicine Hat.

A heavy flow of natural gas has been struck in the new deep level wellwhich Mr. J. A. Grant has drilled under his contract with the Town Council. The big flow was struck at a depth slightly less than the thousand feet level and this well promises togive a larger yield than either of the other deep wells. This will now give the town a big reserve of gas.

This new well is 965 feet deep, not so deep as the other one by about 40 feet.

Supt. Porter has capped the well so the gas is now under control. It is satisfactory to know that there is no waste.

Mr. Porter tested the pressure and found it showed 560 pounds. The 450 pound mark was reached in 8 minutes. This is higher than the present well.

Fatal Accident at Brooks.

JOHN WARE KILLED.

(Brooks Station, Sept. 11th)

W. A. Larson, one of the deputy Mange Inspectors for the Red Deer, brought in news tonight of the sudden and tragic ending of John Ware the well known colored rancher on the Red Deer. It appears that while riding at a fast pace in order to turn a bunch of cattle he was trailing, his horse stepped into a badger hole and stumbling, threw its rider and then rolled over on top of him killing him instantly. His son Robert was the only eye witness to the event, Sergt. Olsen, R.N.W.M.P. is bringing the body in tonight, which will be taken to Calgary for burial. Deceased was over 60 years of age and an ex-slave, without any education whatever. Coming west, from Texas, twenty five years ago as a cow hand, he had by hard work and good management built up a bunch of about eight hundred head of the finest range cattle in western Canada. Deceased leaves a family of five children. His wife having pre-deceased him last spring.

"The Sign of the Slate"

FOLKS believed in signs in Dickens' day. "The Marquis of Granby"—"The Magpie and Stump"—"Blue Boar"—Great White Horse"—meant foaming ale, the best of wines, a jolly good meal, and a "bed that was a bed." In fact, the sign in front of an inn, was its most valuable asset.

What the old inn signs meant to travelers years ago, "The Sign of the Slate" means to shoe-buyers of to-day. It swings in front of every "Slater" Shoe Store or Agency, and is a landmark as well as a trademark.

Lots of people—who are not a bit superstitious—believe in "The Sign of the Slate."

TOWN COUNCIL MEETING.

A regular meeting of the Council was held last night. Present—Mayor Forster, Councillors J. K. Drinnan, T. Penhale, A. DesBrisay, F. O. Sissons, C. E. Smyth, and H. Stewart; W. N. Adsit, Town Clerk; Chief Markwick and Supt. Porter.

The minutes of the last regular meeting and a special meeting were read and confirmed.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Letters were read and dealt with as follows:

From Canadian Meter Co., Hamilton, announcing they had opened a new factory at Hamilton. Filed.

From Equitable Meter Co., Pittsburg re meters. Filed.

W. T. Curry asking to be put on voters list as he had purchased lots 23 and 24 in block 25, and had paid taxes on same. The Clerk said the property had been assessed Mr. Mayberry but it was a mistake.

On motion of Coun. Sissons second ed by Coun. DesBrisay the request was granted.

From John McCorkindale Medicine Hat, thanking the Council for his appointment as night policeman. Filed.

From S. R. Lucas, Winnipeg, stating he had paid his water rate in advance and they used one quarter of it and asking for a rebate, the same if allowed to set against his taxes.

On motion of Coun. Penhale the Council decided they could not accede to the request.

From E. Gallup, Medicine Hat, stating that he understood the Council required an engineer at pumping station and offering his services. Filed.

From G. A. Cochran, Medicine Hat on behalf of the Fire Brigade protesting against the action of Councillor Penhale in countermanding an order of the Chief of the Brigade on the occasion of the fire at the power house.

Coun. Penhale re-iterated what he said at the last meeting and contended that he was justified in what he did.

Councillors Sissons, Drinnan and DesBrisay thought the Chief of the Brigade should be allowed discretion in such a matter and a desultry discussion ensued.

Eventually a motion that the letter be filed was carried.

The Council took up the question of water and gas extension to New Edinburgh. The Council concluded that they could not do anything in the matter of water extensions there at present, but it was stated the people were more anxious for good supply of gas than water this winter.

After some conversation Coun. Penhale moved that the Gas Commissioners be empowered to purchase pipe and extend the gas system in New Edinburgh.

Coun. Drinnan seconded and it was agreed to.

A letter was read from Mrs. Dunham asking for Water extension to her new house on the hill and it was movedby Coun. Penhale that Mrs. Dunham be informed that if she will pay for the excavation the town will supply the pipe necessary and that the laying be done under the supervision of Supt. Porter. The motion was carried.

The Mayor said he had received a verbal invitation from the Rifle Association for the Council to attend the presentation of prizes at the Opera House on Friday evening.

On motion of Coun. Drinnan the invitation was accepted.

The accounts presented at the last meeting and referred to the Finance Committee were ordered to be paid.

A conversation took place as to the derricks over the wells, and the proposed purchase of the derrick over the new well.

Proposed by Coun. Penhale seconded by Coun. Sissons that the matter of moving the derricks be left to the gas commissioners to deal with. Carried.

Moved by Dr. Smyth, seconded by Coun. Penhale that Mr. Grant's offer of the derrick over new gas well be notaccepted.

Coun. Penhale moved that the Clerk bill Mr. Yuill for $40 for his share of bringing in the boiler. They were to use the boiler gratuitously. Carried.

RE CITY ENGINEER.

Coun. Stewart said the Finance Committee met on Friday and considered the applications for the post of City Engineer and were unanimously of opinion that the application of Mr. Heddle, the assistant engineer at Hamilton, should be considered.

The Mayor explained that the application came in after the last Council meeting and Mr. Heddle was very highly recommended by Mr. John T. Hall, Engineer at Hamilton He asked a salary of $1800 a year. Edmonton paid $1800 a year to their engineer.

The Council then talked over the question of how soon the engineer should be on the ground.

Coun. Drinnan thought if he could come here at once and see to the facing of the newly graded streets it might be well to get him right away, but if he could not come at once there would be no object in getting him until the beginning of the year.

It was decided to wire Mr. Heddle to find out how soon he could come if appointed and a special meeting will be held on receipt of his reply.

TheCouncil then discussed the question of permanent sidewalks and whether it was too late to begin the work this season, and the question was referred to the Public Works Committee to report to the special meeting.

It was agreed to give the gas and lay it in to Mrs. Chapman's house but the landlord (Mr. Cove) will have to put in the water.

TheCouncil adjourned at 11 o'clock

Baptists Meet In Ponoko.

VIGOROUS CONDEMNATION OF THE SCHOOL CLAUSES OF THE AUTONOMY BILL.

The seventh annual meeting of the Alberta Baptist Association was held in Ponoka on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of last week. Mrs. J. G. Waldock was appointed delegate from Medicine Hat, but, being unable to go the Church here was represented by the Rev. A. T. Robinson, M.A. state commissioner of the I.G.G.C., who is supplying the pulpit until the arrival of Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor elect.

The Association was well attended by representatives from all parts of Alberta and the bill of fare is said to have been "the best ever." An address by Rev. C. W. Corey, of Strathcona, on Education, in which he advocated the establishment of a Baptist College in Alberta, and another on "Our foreign work at home" by Supt. Harkness, were messages full of power. Reports from the field showed gratifying increase during the year and a prospect of still greater things to come. The numerical increase was found greatest among the German missions.

The Committee on resolutions made a lengthy report in the course of which it dealt with the school clauses of the Autonomy Bill in a way that meant deep-seated opposition to any interference of our rights as a province. When the vote was called but one hand was raised in opposition to the resolution which read as follows:

"That this association re-affirm the position taken by the Executive Board and the Baptist Convention of Manitoba and the North West Territories in opposition to the school clauses of the Autonomy Bill (1) Because they are an infringement on provincial rights.

(1) Because they do not leave the Province free to decide its own course of action, which is an interference with political liberty.

(3) Because they unwisely emphasize religious distinctions, a thing which is contrary to the spirit of our national life and provocative of discord.

(4) Because they perpetuate the denationalizing system of minority schools, without guaranteeing a perpetuation of such beneficient regulations of the Department of Education as the Territories now enjoy.

(5) Because on this account they render possible in the new provinces a system of separate schools in its most objectionable form.

That because of the injustice and the doubtful constitutionality of the Bill this association declare its intention of opposing its provisions until such time as provincial liberty is assured and equal rights accorded to all citizens of the Dominion.

The significant thing about the Alberta Baptist Association resolution given above is that about nine tenths of those who voted for it and of the body they represent are dyed in the wool reformers. They have their limits it seems.

Note & Comment.

[By OBSERVER.]

The very hazy, labored collaboration in last week's News especially the part relative to my remarks about the Governor-Generals car and Sir Wilfred Laurier's car are really too funny. In sepulchral tones the News says: Although the hour was near midnight and the blinds were closely drawn, and occupants in bed, the observant "Observer" in The Times was able to see etc. Why of course! Hadn't I Councillor Penhales brilliant "flashlights" at my back, casting their radiance on those self-same cars? Blind indeed would be any Observer who could not see them with those bright jewels to light kp the landscape and reveal the cars, blinds and all!

Yea, 'twas the witching hour, when churchyards yawn," and imitation gas lights shed their sickly shades around us. I congratulate Councillor Penhale upon the splendid scheme he has hit upon for wasting our gas.

It was a scurvy trick of the News though to "give the show away" like that. Not one person in a hundred knew whose great(?) idea it was, but the News, fearful that the credit(?) might be applied elsewhere at once turns round and throws poor Penhale down. "'Twas Penhale did it," they say, "don't blame us", for that's the only interpretation thereof.

"Comparisons uncalled for and uncomplimentary", forsooth! No, I don't believe those royal representatives would worry about what I said but they would have had the laugh oftheir life if they had seen all that the "flashlights" revealed.

Never mind, peanuts are cheap anyway.

"Oh, these 'granulated' pavements" exclaimed a visitor the other day. "It makes my corns ache to feel the little pebbles rolling under my feet." Be patient madam, by the time you come again the ordinance will have another brand new piece on the old garment and then, oh then, for granolithics and manyotherithics.

People living near the Montreal St. school are asking when the School Board intend to fence the playground Boys will be boys and their play is sometimes carried across the road and into the gardens to the annoyance of those who take pride in the lawns and trees. No one wants to curtail the boys fun, but a fence round the playground would help keep them within proper bounds.

He was fond of his little dog and used to permit the little fellow to sleep on his bed, but getting tired of this made up his mind to put a stop to it. But presently there was a most unearthly howling on the veranda. Paterfamilias darted out and there was his pet dog with the tears streaming down his face howling most dismally in his lonliness. The sight so touched the heart of his master that the order of excommunication was withdrawn and doggie once more nestled down in his old Spot.

What a great contrast there is between power and weakness. For instance, one sees a great nation so weak in cowardly selfishness that a much smaller nation can overcome it, because the latter delight to have God serve as ruler and master who loves them. So it is with individual people, the majority just follow the crowd.

But take the one whose object is not self, but to serve Jesus. One man is just as weak and selfish as another, but Jesus is his motive and object, and that should be our aim in life. For we are true born again Christians, and we are not our own, for a price has been paid, fully paid, thus our time and lives should be to serve our master, even Christ.

The Master is come and calleth for thee,
Had I heard arightwho the call was for?
Was it I who was wanted? I listened again,
And my heart incredulous filled with pain.
That was keen and bitter and hard to bear,
No doubt their were others waiting there.
To answer the summons the good, the strong.
And those who serred the master long.
Yet it seemed that to me the message came,
For coupled with it I heard my mane.
The master is come and calleth for thee,
I felt at last the call was for me,
And timidly answered the darkness through,
Lord what wilt Thou that I should do?

TUESDAY, SEPT. 19 1905.

Gros Ventre School.

Out on the Gros Ventre, not so many miles from Medicine Hat, stands a school building which is a reproach to the community in which it is placed. The building is well built and furnished, the grounds are fenced, there is a good stable, but—it is vacant. There are no scholars and of course no teacher. There are children in the vicinity who ought to be attending school and, of course, there is a teacher somewhere who ought to be teaching those children. but no effort is made to bring teacher and children together. We feel inclined to ask how it is possible for such a state of things to continue?

The school stands midway between settlements inhabited by English on the one side and Germans on the other There is no bad feeling, so far as we can find out, between the two parties, but they do not avail themselves of the school! It would be an excellent thing for the two parties to come together. It would do the English no harm to pick up a little German and it would do the Germen children a great amount of good to learn English. The boy or girl who knows two languages is better equipped for the battle of life than those who know only one. More than that the German child who does not learn to read and write English will be heavily handicapped all his life. German fathers and mothers do your duty by your children. Get together, have the school opened and encourage your children to learn, among other things, how to read and write and speak English. The day will come when they will thank you for it. If you do not do this, your duty, the day will come when they will do something other than bless your memory.

A Cosmopolitan Age.

We live in a cosmopolitan age when to be a Frenchman is to be clasped to the heart of an Englishman, and when even Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries make friendly exchanges across the luncheon table. Mr. Henniker Heaton is, therefore, quite in the movement when he advocates an all-world penny postage. But. all the same, we cannot enthuse over it. Mr. Henniker Heaton thinks it a great deal that "when one soul has something to say to another, neither colour nor religion, nor greedy diplomacy, nor national antipathy, nor latitude nor longitude, nor poverty, nor any other barrier shall stand between them": but for our part, we want first of all to remove the barriers between members of our own race and subjects of our King. If Mr. Henniker Heaton will worry Postmasters-General into a more progressive and sympathetic attitude towards cheaper newspaper postage within the Empire, we shall be all the better able to discuss the new reform. Cheap postage, like charity, should begin at home.—Canadian Gazette.

Tinkering Again.

The News last week suggests that the "Ordinance will be amended to conform to our up-to-date requirements." This is tantamount to a proposal to do some more tinkering, and it is a fair proof of the villagy notions prevalent among some of the "powers that be" in this town. There has been enough tinkering with our municipal powers. Let us have a city charter and have done with villagy patching and mending.

Frenzied Finance.

Three columns! Whew!! "The writer" was "intoxicated with the exuberance of his own verbosity."

It took the News the best part of two weeks to produce their wonderful outburst. Storms genally start more suddenly than that in the West, but as it was a storm in a teacup, we suppose the cup had to be twirled around a good deal before the contents were fit to be presented to the eyes of the Seer—the general public.

If the News had a real desire to enlighten the people they would have published the figures without a batch of verbiage having little sense or meaning.

With reference to the figures given by the News they are not entitled to more consideration than those of our correspondent. What we asked for was a statement from the finance committee and the auditors. The jumbled away in which the writer presented the figures shows he has a poor comprehension in such matters.

Their reference to our position on the engineer question we need not refer to more than to say that the quotations show our consistency in the matter.

Whether we are to take it that the News took our hint and employed one of the auditors to prepare their laboured article we do not know, but if so it is a pity they did not say so in order that the figures in the article might carry proper weight.

Then the green-eyed monster reared its ugly head. "Such matters were discussed in the council before the Times was in existence!" There now, that ought to settle the Times.

The fact is the News is mad because public opinion has at last forced them to "join the procession."

So that is what the News, in their wisdom call "knocking." We would like to ask the News what term should be applied to their recent articles anent the C.P.R. and the natural gas. A lot of good it will do this town to be harping about what the C.P.R. officials should or should not do with the natural gas at their disposal. "Uncalled for and uncomplimentary" observations about C.P.R. had better be left unsaid unless "the writer" wishes to knock. Will it be any inducement to manufacturers to come in to be told that the C.P.R. are not fully utilising their gas?

The pent up feeling engendered by weeks of silent agony burst forth in disorder There is an old saying that if you have no argument, abuse the other side. The News had to manufacture a reason for its sudden outburst, and nearly burst in the effort.

And what was it all about? It was all because The Times published last week the opinions of one of Medicine Hat's soundest men upon the present municipal affairs. We wrote what we can claim to be a dispassionate article upon the affairs of the town, quoting the opinions of the gentleman referred to. We explained the opinions were not ours and even went so far as to intimate that we did not altogether agree with them, and stated that we gave them publicity with the one object of permitting a strong section of the people to express their views. We did not even father them and made this plain to any but the most obtuse mind. Probably our "informant," as the News ungraciously calls him, would have been quite ready to put his signature to the ideas presented. We do not think he lacks moral courage, but we simply presented them for him, and suggested that as this feeling was abroad reliable information was needed to enable the people to judge who is right, and we suggested that the finance committee and the auditors should supply it.

For this the News poured out the bottled up vials of its wrath, and let loose the torrents of its abuse upon us. For this the News shrieked "it should never be said." For this our autocractic Mayor-editor's paper shouted for the gag to be put on all who would dare to question the working of his august master mind. For this the News devoted three columns of claptrap in trying to prove The Times had come down from an "exalted position."

The Times occupies an unassailable position upon public affairs and took that position many months ago while the News and its Mayor-Editor were hanging back to see "which way the cat would jump." When they saw there was a progressive spirit abroad in the town, that, in fact, the Times had put the people "in an inceptive" frame of mind, and that "progress" was a popular cry, they joined the procession which they saw headed by The Times, marching on to victory. And having joined it their antics led some level heads to believe they were in danger of running away.

We ought to feel flattered at the amount of attention the News pay to our articles and comments on the towns affair, and of course we do. The News after lying quiet for many a week has suddenly treated their readers to a tirade of the "Eat-an-Swill Gazette" style immortalized by the talented Charles Dickens. They raved and tore their hair, they shrieked aloud in their abandon and it is easy to read the cuss words between the lines.

We prescribed ginger—they took buncum. Behold the mountain was in labor and brought fourth a mouse.

The News arcticle was blatant. bombastic bathos—balderdash of the boomerang order.

Oh, the sadness of his sadness when he's sad;
Oh, the gladness of his gladness when he's glad;
But the sadness of his sadness,
And the gladness of his gladness
Are nothing to his madness when he's mad.

A Word as to the Figures.

Since we wrote the above Ex-Mayor Hutchinson (who we are at liberty to say is the gentleman referred to as having supplied the first statement), has handed us the following:—

The News argues on the assumption that there was an overdraft of $9,206.98 on the 1st January 1905. That is correct, but they fail to give what there was to offset that.

There were accounts receivable as follows:—

Gas and Water Revenue	$3,661 46
Arrears of Taxes	830 07
Gas Permanent, amount due	418 27
Water Permanent, amount due	1,842 00
Cash on hand	157 68
Total	$6,909 48

Actual amount of overdraft $2,297.50.

A Mare's Nest.

The News thought they had us over those two paragraphs. Oh

TUESDAY SEPT. 19th. 1905.

News, News, when will you learn to leave edged tools alone. By a slip in proof-reading we published a par. as follows :—

What is the hurry for a City Engineer now?

The par. should have read, what is THE MEANING OF the hurry for a City Engineer now?

The News, hoary with experience, should have known better than to try and make a little cheap notoriety over it.

Our aged contemporary in their last issue, gave utterance to the following fine sentiments in connection with Sir Frederick Borden's visit :

As the gas well was flowing wide open, and roaring as it threw out its riches, the visitors had a good opportunity of observing one of the gifts of nature, which can be turned to advantage in the way of CHEAP MAINTENANCE FOR THE TROOP OF PERMANENT MILITARY MEN.

We have heard that once upon a time "men did eat angels food," but this is the first time we have heard of human nature being maintained on gas. The horses, we suppose, would be expected to be frisky on the same substantial fare. It is up to the News to explain if they happened to omit any words which might give the sentence a different meaning. People in glass houses should not throw stones.

HOSPITAL BOARD.

The regular monthly meeting of the Hospital Board took place yesterday afternoon. Present—Messrs G. W. Kealy (presiding) W. N. Adsit, J. H. Cunliffe, W. C. Harris, F. L. Crawford and Dr. Smyth.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Several accounts were read and passed for payment.

The Lady Superintendent's report stated that there were 37 patients in the hospital on first of the month 39 were admitted, 53 were discharged, 1 died and 42 remained at end of month. Number of Hospital days 1346.

Dr. Smyth reported cost of maintenance amounted too 63 cents per head per day for the month.

The Medicine Hat Milling Co. wrote reducing price of flour to Hospital by 20c. per 100 lbs., from their contract price, which was received with thanks.

Messrs Crawford, Kealy, Adsit, Harris and Cunliffe were appointed a committee to consider a revision of the hospital fees.

The Board decided that hereafter no entertainments shall be given under the Hospital's name without the Board's express permission.

A proposition from the B.L.F. for the use of a semi private ward for their members was received and referred to a committee for report at next meeting.

CANADIAN ROUTE TO YUKON.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM MEMBER OF PARTY ROAD-MAKING IN FAR NORTH.

A letter of considerable interest, from the far north, received by Tom Marks the comedian, from his friend Sergt. Spalding, of the northwest mounted police, was published recently in the Perth Courier, Spalding and Marks both being old boys of Perth. The sergeant is one of a party sent out to open up a trail from Fort St. John's to Teslaine lake, practically an all-Canadian route to the Yukon. Inspector J. C. Richards is with the party.

"We left Fort Saskatchewan," he writes, "on March 17, thirty-two men all told, and sixty head of horses, consisting of ten four-in-hand teams, eleven saddle horses, balance being led. We made splendid time to Athabasca Landing, were we changed wagons for sleighs and went up Athabasca river, hoping to be able to get up Little Slave river into the lake, but were disappointed. In fact making seventy miles up Athabasca was touch and go, as in some places the icewas very rotten and would bend under weight of teams and sleighs. Therefore we had to make a portage of fifty-two miles across to Lesser Slave lake, the river being open in many places. This fifty-two miles of portage meant hauling our sleighs over the bare ground, up hill and down buch all the way. We had to do considerable cutting as there was only a poor trail cut out the spring before by a surveyor who got caught in a similar way by the ice in Little Slave river being gone. However we made the lake all right, and then two days travel up it (eighty-five miles) brought us to the police post and fur traders' stores at its head.

REST AFTER A PORTAGE.

Here we rested a few days and again hit out with wagons, seven in number, for Peace River crossing getting there April 9th, where we had to wait till the grass was good enough to carry us through to St. John's. We had good luck with our horses and only lost one and that was in Peace River. The day we arrived there we attempted a crossing on the ice as we had to cross the river to get the trail to St. John's on the north side. Taking the leaders of our four-in-hand we started to cross when the first team and wagon went through the ice, and although we got them out one died.

We then camped on the south side near where the Hudson's Bay Co., and Bredin, Cornwall and Roberts stores are, and the police detachment. There has been a sergeant of our force stationed there for the last seven years and he now talks Cree like a native.

The point where you strike Peace River crossing is very pretty. As you come in sight of the river you are on the high hills which line both its banks, some 700 or 800 feet high. This means a trail of about a mile and a half long to get down to flats where the stores and police detachment are, but we had no trouble in getting down as there is a good waggon road from Lesser Slave lake to the crossing, over which all the freight for this northern part is brought and distributed from crossing up and down the Peace by steam

Then I C Mission have for the past three years had a boat on the river for this purpose. This season, however, the Hudson's Bay Co. have put on a new steamer for their own use.

About May 10th things began to look very much like spring. The ice in the river broke up on April 19th, and by May 20th we had all our outfit across the river and the day following started for St. John's with four four-in-hand teams and 12 pack ponies.

A GOOD COUNTRY.

We scarcely knew what was ahead of us as the information we got from Indians and half breeds conflicted somewhat, but, however, the trail as far as Dunvegan was splendid, although for the greater part of the way waggons had not travelled it very much. Still the country was open and about as fine a stretch as I've seen anywhere in the Territories, although there might be too much scrub to suit some. At least it could not be surpassed for ranching. The vegetation is something wonderful. The grass and trees of all kinds seem to burst themselves. From Dunvegan on to St. John's our trail was through scrub and sometimes heavy bush, mostly poplar, Spruce and Jack Pine, none of which would be of much commercial value as lumber. It would be very useful to an active settler though for building purposes.

FIRST WITH WAGONS.

On May 30 we arrived Pine Creek which at this point we crossed, it is eight miles from St. John's. Here we spent a day and a half getting down one bank and up the opposite side; and are the first party to take wagons across it and into St. John's although some of the Klondikers who came up this way brought Red River carts over. But they also left quite a few along the trail as we passed several. At the bottom of the hill along Pine River were strewn the remains of five or six of these carts which had been let go down the hill by the Indians. It seems that some of the Klondikers had stolen some of the Indians ponies. To get even the red men came along in the night and ran their carts over the top of the hill, letting them go as they pleased to the bottom, with the result that nearly all of them were smashed to pieces, as the hill is about 600 feet high and very steep.

I might add that eighteen of our party have gone ahead from here on the work of cutting out and making a pack trail to Fort Graham, en route to Teslain lake. I am of the opinion that there will be very little difficulty met with by the party, as already there is an Indian pack trail from here to that place. Only we in cutting out the trail have to choose a route that would be suitable for a waggon trail if necessary to make it later on. When Graham is reached the party are to return herefor the winter, where at present I am getting buildings put up for their use. Supt. Constantine is here in command and Inspector Richards is in charge of the trail gang.

WILL REMAIN A COUPLE OF YEARS.

It is hoped if all goes well to reach Teslain lake next fall, but as for further arrangements I cannot say. However I expect to be up here for a couple of years anyway. I am not sorry I came although it is going to be lonely up here during the winter months. Reading matter is at a premium and the latest news is quite old by the time it reaches us. There is a monthly mail to Peace River crossing due there about the 29th of each month, and of course as long as the steamers are running we will get it very shortly after. It takes the boat about five days to make the trip up. In winter time we may not be so lucky, but I think some arrangements will be made. * * * *

Sincerely yours

J. W. SPALDING.

JAPAN WANTS CANADIAN CATTLE.

IMPROVING THE NATIVE STOCK —BUYER NOW IN CITY—

J. Nishimura, of the firm of Nosawa & Co., of Tokio, Yokohama, Kobe and London, arrived in the city last night. He registered at the Clarendon where he was seen by a Free Press reporter.

The firm of Nosawa & Co. do a large commission business, and Mr. Nishimura said that his mission in Canada was the purchasing of thoroughbred cattle for the Japanese government. There is a big shortage of oxen in Japan at present.

The native cattle are small and the government seeks to improve the type by crossing with thoroughbred western cattle. Previously the cattle were imported from England but the trading regulations during the war, it was necessary to procure them elsewhere. Canada was chosen and the cattle were purchased chiefly in Quebec. Mr. Nishimura purchased 19 Ayrshires, 2 shorthorns, 2 Devons and 2 Holsteins. They were shipped from Howick, Quebec, on Sept. 4th, and will arive in Vancouver in a few days. They will cross the Pacific in the steamer Athenian, which sails on Sept. 18th. Mr. Nishimura is well satisfied with the cattle purchased.

Oxen are used in Japan to a very large extent, and the demands of the warceased the slaughtering of a great many to supply the army with meat. Japan has for the most part supplied herself with beef and the Japanese are loath to eat imported cattle. Their own cattle, though small, afford excellent meat. The price of beef during the war ranged from 25 cents to 45 cents per pound, according to the cut. Before the war relative prices were about half. Farming in Japan is on a small scale as is also stock-breeding. The government is trying to develop both.—Winnipeg Free Press.

MR. ROWE CALLED.

(Lethbridge News.)

The death occurred last night at the Galt hospital of Mr. George William Rowe. Mr. Rowe who was in the 46th year of his age, was born in Staunton Co., Ohio, and later removed to Missouri and in 1881 took up his residence in Macleod with a survey party where he resided until the fall of 1885, when he moved to Lethbridge and engaged in the Livery business with W. D. Whitney. Shortly afterwards he went into ranching, establishing ranches on the St. Mary's, the Belly and Little Bow Rivers. Two years ago he disposed of his stock to Messrs Urch and Patterson and last year built the Dallas Hotel here. During the last year he has been living on a farm about three miles north of town, from which place he was brought to the Galt Hospital a short time ago. In 1890 he was married to Miss Francis Ann Morrey, second daughter of Thomas Morrey, of Medicine Hat, who with two boys the oldest fourteen years old, survives him. The funeral takes place tomorrow at 2 p. m. from Moore's undertaking parlors to St. Augustin's Church. The services will be conducted by Rev. Chivers and the funeral will be under the direction of the Old Timers

The deceased, who died on Sept. 12th, was well known by the old timers of Medicine Hat.

The Root of Neuralgia Headache.

Is an irritable condition of the nerves caused by cold. Relief comes quickly from Nerviline, the great pain reliever of today. "I consider Nerviline a magical remedy for neuralgia," writes Mrs. E. G. Harris, of Baltimore. I never worry if Nerviline is in the house. A few applications never yet failed to kill the pain I can also recommend Nerviline for stiffness, rheumatism and muscular pains.' In use nearly fifty years; try Nerviline yourself.

Communications.

The Editor is not responsible for the opinions of his correspondents nor does he always agree with them.

W. D. Cavan.—Your letter reached us too late for insertion this week.

To the Editor.

I read in last week's News a few remarks in regard to Observer's Observation on the arrival of Sir Wilfred's special train. Of course the News would object to any remarks made about Sir Wilfred as they are both tarred with the same brush. The hour was not so late that had he wished to show himself he could have done so, but as there is no election on, which interests him, his followers are out of sight, out of mind. Or perhaps if his Liberal friends had sent him a map of the North West and put a big X in red ink against Medicine Hat he might have known where it was. Also guaranteed him police protection. As he might have thought after the part he took in the Autonomy Bill and Salary Grab, that if he showed himself that his life would be in danger in this wild and wooly west.

ONE WHO WAS THERE

Proved in Mount Forest.

Every doctor in this town tried his best to relieve Mrs. J. Withom of asthma; none succeeded. "For years she states, "I was a dreadful sufferer; nothing gave relief. At times I found it necessary to have all the doors and windows open to get my breath. When in despair I heard of "Catarrhozone." I used it and now am perfectly cured." This proves beyond doubt that any case of Asthma is curable with Catarrhozone. No remedy so pleasant, none so absolutely certain to thoroughly cure; try "Catarrhozone" yourself; it's guaranteed.

Mr. and Mrs. Smedden, of Lanark, Ont., were visiting Mrs. James Rae last week.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—The live stock market is more active and cattle show a firmer tone. Export cattle, poor, $4.10 to $4.40 ruling price; butchers' picked, $4.10 to $4.50, medium, $3.50 to $4. The demand for stockers and feeders is active at $2.50 to $4.25.

Spencer Bros., Milk River ranchers, sold 40 head out of a shipment of 500 for the old country in this city at $2.25. This shows a vast difference between it and what the city people pay for meat.

FROST IN MANITOBA.

Winnipeg, Sept. 14.—The first heavy frost was recorded last night The grain is all cut in Manitoba, and the Portage Plains farmers report a grain blockade.

"Where did you come from, baby dear?
Out of the everywhere into the here.

Where did you get your eyes so blue?
Out of the sky as I came through.

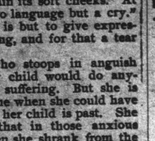
What makes the light in them sparkle and spin?
Some of the starry spikes let in.

Where did you get that little tear?
I found it waiting when I got here."

The fact is as sad as it is true that the baby finds the tear waiting to dull its blue eyes, and stain its soft cheeks. At the first it "has no language but a cry." Its one necessity is but to give expression to its suffering, and for that a tear suffices.

The mother who stoops in anguish over the wailing child would do anything to ease its suffering. But she is helpless. The time when she could have done so much for her child is past. She did not realize that in those anxious nervous days when she shrank from the ordeal of motherhood she was preparing suffering for the baby.

The path of motherhood is soothed and made easy for those who use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives physical buoyancy and mental brightness. It tranquilizes the nerves, encourages a healthy appetite and induces refreshing sleep. It gives the mother strength for her hour of trial, and the confidence and content which come from strength. It makes the birth hour practically painless, and by increasing the natural, food secretions, it enables the healthy mother to enjoy the happiness of nursing her child.



"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, or any other narcotic.

A Mother's Gratitude.

"I would like to express my gratitude to you for the benefit I have received from your wonderful medicine, 'Favorite Prescription,'" writes Mrs. H. C. Anderson, of South Britain, New Haven Co., Conn., (Box 33). "During the first month of expectancy I could not keep anything on my stomach. Was so sick that I had to go to bed and stay for weeks. I tried different doctors, but with little benefit. I read about many being helped by using your medicine, so I thought I would give it a trial. I began to take your 'Favorite Prescription' in November and I had a nice little girl baby in February following. My baby weighed over eight pounds. I was only sick about one hour, and got along nicely afterward; was up and dressed on the eighth day. I never had the doctor with me at all; just the nurse and one or two friends. My friends thought that I was sick a very short time. I think Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is indeed a true 'mother's friend,' for it helped me wonderfully. This makes my second child; with the first one I did not take 'Favorite Prescription.' The little one lived just about two months and she was sick all the time. This last baby is as plump and healthy as any mother could wish."

Much Better Health.

Mrs. Annie Blacker, 609 Catherine Street, Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "Your medicines have done wonders for me. For years my health was very poor; I had four miskaps, but since taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription' I have much better health, and now I have a fine healthy baby. I have recommended your medicines to several of my friends and they have been benefited by them."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser in paper covers is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Witch of Cragenstone

By ANITA CLAY MUNOZ,

Author of "In Love and Truth"

Copyright, 1903, by Anita Clay Munoz

CHAPTER I.

ALL the long Sabbath day a mist hung over the mountain so heavy and gray that twilight came on almost unperceived. In the quaint old English village of Cragenstone, situated near the topmost peak of this particular mountain, the early evening services were just being completed in the meeting house, a wooden structure that stood prominently on an elevation of rocks and sand in the center of the village, with its sharp steeple rising dark and stern above the shadows of the gathering gloom. Droning voices chanting an anthem were heard. Then the door was opened and the congregation filed out in reverent silence down the rocky pathways leading to their several homes, nodding seriously to each other when the time of parting came.

The solemn stillness of a Puritan Sabbath day pervaded the atmosphere, and all felt its influence, from old Father Farrish, with homespun suit and gray wool stockings, leaning heavily on his staff, to pretty Hetty Taunston, who walked slowly at her mother's side, forcing a look of seriousness on her dimpled face and dropping her eyelids demurely to cover the brightness of her sparkling eyes as she passed young Simon Kempster, who stood waiting at the door, his gaze intent upon her. Mistress Taunston, her best gray bonnet projecting well over her austere countenance and tied securely under her chin, rested her hand proudly on the arm of her son Josiah, who, tall, spare and grim visaged, strode on in silence, the grave solemnity of his manner giving evidence of his firm belief in the strict and narrow teachings of the Puritan sect to which he belonged.

The mist of the day had lifted, and through the breaking clouds overhead an early evening star was bravely endeavoring to send down a gleam to lighten the path of the wayfarer when mother and son entered the gateway before their home, a low, rambling farmhouse built securely of logs and cement. Pausing at the door, Mistress Taunston, with her hand on the latch, bent forward and looked down the dark roadway with a searching glance.

"Hetty! That trifling maid!" she exclaimed in a tone of vexation. "I should not ha' granted her request to walk with Cynthia Camett, for I might he' known the twain would loiter on the way, indulging in idle chatter and forgetting the holy day."

"Fret not, mother," Taunston said in a repellant voice, harsh and discordant, "and enter, for I am chilled with the dampness of the night. No harm can befall the girl, who doth but desire to exchange greetings quietly with her friends."

Accustomed to do her son's bidding at the slightest word, his mother lifted the latch, and soon the flickering light of several candles disclosed the living room of the farmhouse—the large kitchen.

Throwing his hat and cloak on a bench near at hand, Taunston sank into a seat on the high backed settle in the chimney place, stretching out his legs shiveringly to receive the heat from the burning logs, observing his mother's movements in silence as she removed her bonnet and cap, then drew forward a small pine table, scrubbed to shining whiteness, and laid a Bible upon it. Seeing that she was about to become absorbed in reading the customary evening chapter, he observed suddenly, with an ill concealed attempt at carelessness, "Our cousin Margaret must be on her way by now, mother."

"Her missive sent to us by special messenger doth state that she arrived safely in London," his mother replied, lifting her glance from the page, "and that she would proceed on her way speedily. The frost coming out of the roads and recent heavy rains combine to make traveling tedious, as thou dost know, Josiah. But I expect within the week to welcome thy cousin back to the village of her birth."

She shook her head, sighing dolefully, "I wot 'twill be but a sad homecoming for the maid, with no father here to greet her."

"Her house and lands are in readiness for her to take possession," Josiah interposed gravely.

"Aye, thou hast been a good steward, my son," she replied, "since thine uncle, showing rare wisdom in his dying hour, chose thee to manage his daughter's estate."

She sat erect in her chair, speaking earnestly.

"For who in this rocky country hath broader pasture lands, better sheep and cattle, finer horseflesh, an' whose hirelings are trained to labor with more economy and speed? In the two years thou hast been in charge of her estate, Josiah, thou hast proved thyself untiring in thy zeal and worthy."

"I had my yearly stipend that was not ungenerous, mother."

"Thou hast been faithful and zealous for thy cousin's interests," his mother asserted, with stern emphasis, disregarding his observation entirely, "an' thou should have a reward, my son. Forsooth, thou art entitled to a rich reward," she repeated.

The ungainly fellow moved uneasily on the settle, a dull red glow of color mounting to his forehead.

"Lately I ha' thought," he said, with slight hesitation, "that mayhap our cousin Margaret would be much changed after her long sojourn in France. Belike she may return to find us dull and our ways too quiet for her taste. Have such thoughts e'er come to thy mind, mother?"

"Nay, not to speak on," she replied, "for I know that thy cousin will realize her obligations to thee and unless her early teachings are entirely swept away will heed the advice of her aunt and listen to her counsels with respect."

She raised her hand and shook her finger steraly.

"But think not it was with my consent that Andrew Mayland sent Margaret away to his sister in Paris," she said, "there to remain until she was twenty-one. I tell thee, Josiah, that Andrew wronged his only child, who should have been raised there in yonder gray stone house, built by her grandfather, and allowed to grow to womanhood among her own kind and in the God fearing ways of her kinsfolk. Education, forsooth! Can Hetty not read and write and do her numbering skillfully? Prithee, 'tis enough knowledge for a maid! As my good father, now dead, hath often said, 'Fill thy daughter's heart with a dread of sin, raise her in fear of the wrath of the Lord, an' thou hath done thy duty.'"

Josiah acquiesced by an emphatic movement of his head. "Mother," he said, recurring again to the subject of his cousin Margaret, "I ha' been thinking much on the coming home of our kinswoman. Often my mind hath dwelt upon her youth and inexperience. What knoweth she of the care of a household and the management of so many acres as are hers entirely now. I—thou"—he hesitated—"we must keep close to her, direct her endeavors, and from the first"—he raised his voice, speaking with harsh emphasis—"allow no other influence to crowd in to push ours out. On our counsel she must be taught to rely, and she must ever find us to be towers of strength upon which she may lean with confidence."

"Thou hast spoken wisely, Josiah," the dame replied. "If my memory doth serve me well, Margaret was ever an obedient child to her father, so wilt come naturally, methinks, to place reliance on her kinsfolk. Hast thought, Josiah," she continued, lowering her voice almost to a whisper and looking toward the door, "that thy cousin's lands adjoin thine and what great benefit could be derived from being master of it all?"

Taunston rose and paced rapidly up and down the dimly lighted kitchen.

"Thought! Of course I ha' thought!" he exclaimed. "For two years I have watched over everything on the Mayland farm lands, from the littlest newborn lamb to the fleetest horse, and given orders as if I were the owner there."

He drew a sharp breath.

"And now—God's pity—I must give place to a chit of a girl, who happen will bring disorder where I ha' had order and put wasteful French notions above good Puritan thrift and care."

As if the thought were intolerable to him, he gave his shoulders a despairing shrug, strode to the window and looked out long and silently over the blackened landscape in the direction of the Mayland estate. His mother sat for a time looking with sympathetic anxiety at the tall, disconsolate figure of her son. At last she observed quietly: "In doing thy duty so well thou hast grown to love those lands above all reasoning, Josiah. Methinks by every right thou shouldst be master there."

"Mother," he came and stood before her, with his hand upraised, in a state of unusual excitement, "I dreamt last night that the vessel on which Margaret Mayland sailed from Paris was lost with all on board, and my cousin, she who stands between me and the estate, for I am the next heir, as thou doth know, was gone forever. It was a dream, but for a night all was mine. I was in truth master there, and I lived. I was rich in this world's goods, busy, important, prosperous."

His pale blue eyes glittered covetously with the feeling that possessed him as he brushed his hand over his hair.

"Ha, an' were it so 'twould be well!" Mistress Taunston cried sharply, "provided, of course, it were the good Lord's will," she added piously. "But there are other ways, my son. Hast thou given consideration to the fact that Margaret will need a husband now? An' who more suitable than thou, Josiah?"

He shuffled nervously on his feet, unable to meet her glance.

"Dost think she would regard my suit with favor?" he asked. "Although an upright an' honorable man, I ha' never thought I had much attractiveness for a woman."

His mother threw up her head with a quick motion, her glance containing both pride and confidence.

"Aye, that she will, Josiah," she announced emphatically. "Of a truth, thou'rt not oversoft with woman, but thou art so tall and doth walk about with such an air an' stride that, I ween, scarce a maid thou did set thy heart on could resist thee."

"If it be that my cousin hath an eye to her purse strings," he observed thoughtfully, "my frugal and thrifty management of her farm lands may appeal to her."

"Those facts and others to thine advantage will be placed before our kinswoman with proper judgment and skill upon her arrival," his mother announced, "My son, thou dost know that 'tis thine own lookout to win thy Cousin Margaret, for 'tis ever a man's place to do the courting, but that I will keep a close shadow and watch well for thee and thine interests thou cannot doubt. Ah, welladay," she drew a deep breath, "'twill be a happy time for thy mother, Josiah, when she can sit before yon doorway at her spinning and, ever and anon raising her eyes to look at the wide acres of green pasture surmounted by the gray house on the hill, know that thou art master there."

Taunston, looking intently into space with covetous eyes, made no reply.

Soon the candles having burned almost to their sockets and the bright flare of the logs given place to dull blackness, emitting a few dying sparks, Mistress Taunston bethought herself of the lateness of the hour.

"Hetty not come in!" she exclaimed, walking to the window and looking out with impatient anxiety. "Ah, I hear her voice!"

Then throwing open the door she cried sharply: "Hetty, come in! 'Tis unseemly for a maid to be dawdling out of doors on a Sabbath evening. Thou shouldst be at thy prayers! Who is it thou hast with thee?"

"Only Simon, mother."

The merry faced little creature in her severe gray bonnet and plain dress of homespun came forward hurriedly.

"As I was returning from leaving Cynthia Camett at the gate I met Simon near the turnstile, and he ventured to walk with me. Be not angry, mother," as the woman, towering above her, frowned wrathfully, "Prithee, a little gossip with good Simon would not hurt a maid!"

"Gossip on the Lord's day! Light and trifling talk on a Sabbath night!" her mother cried in stern rebuke. "And think not that sounds of thy wicked laughter did not reach mine ears! To thy room, hussy! Nay, let the candle remain," as Hetty lifted one from the table. "In darkness canst thou better put thy mind on thy prayers and ask the Lord's forgiveness for thy sins!"

Then shutting the door with intentional violence upon the retreating form of the young farmer she fastened the wooden bolts securely for the night.

CHAPTER II.

JOSIAH TAUNSTON spent the next day at the market place and having made good bargains and fair exchanges rode up to his door rapidly, with an expression on his countenance more complacent and less severe than usual.

"Ho, there!" he called.

To his surprise the door remained unopened, and, listening, he heard no sounds of life within.

"Mother, open, an' thou art there," he cried, "for I would have a word wi' Simon Kempster on the price o' wool."

At this juncture a man, one of the farm laborers, came rushing from the back of the house.

"The good dame an' thy sister ha' taken their departure long since," he announced, evidently pleased to be the bearer of important tidings. "They did go to the Mayland farm, master, to meet thy cousin, who hath arrived."

With an exclamation of surprise Josiah sprang from his horse, threw the reins to the man and, turning suddenly to hide the dark flush that spread over his face at the first shock of the news, lifted the latch and, entering the house, proceeded at once to his chamber, from whence he emerged an hour later much changed in appearance. The stains and dust of travel had been carefully removed from his person, a fresh linen ruff of dazzling whiteness was about his neck, and in place of his common riding clothes he wore his church going suit of black cloth finely woven and but lately made by the village tailor.

Taking the footpath that led through the meadows, he walked with long strides in the direction of the road that wound its way from the village past the Mayland farmhouse. A slight fear lest his absence from home at the time of his cousin's arrival would be held against him as seeming neglect caused him some anxiety, and he was framing suitable words of excuse and explanation as he walked along when his meditation was interrupted by the sudden appearance of a young woman at the corner of the roadway. She had evidently been running, for over her flushed face and tumbling yellow hair a broad hat of black velvet, with a sweeping white feather, hung off at the back in reckless abandon, and she held the long skirts of her scarlet riding habit, richly trimmed with silver braiding, high above her quilted petticoat. So excited was she and intent upon her chase that she was quite regardless of appearance or of the fact that the small ankles, neatly covered with red silk hose, were exposed above her low shoes to the cold and disapproving gaze of the man approaching. Just then a small dog scuttled past Josiah breathless and panting from a long run.

"Oh, catch her, good sir—catch Biddy!" the girl cried shrilly. "The poor dog will take a fit from fright! That stupid Giles, to let her out in this strange place when I was not about! Move, man! An' thou canst put thy hand on her!"

Thus sharply commanded, Josiah came to his senses and, making a sudden and effective dive, caught the exhausted animal and, carrying it to the young woman, put it into her arms, saying with his customary seriousness, "Margaret Mayland, for as such I recognize thee, I give thee greeting and do declare that thou art welcome to thy home."

At once she extended her hand cordially, and her lips parted in a smile of pleasure.

"An' is it really Josiah?" she asked brightly. "At first glance, with thy sober face and black suit, good cousin, methought thou wert the preacher."

"And thou wouldst have called to the preacher, a man of God, to catch thy dog, Margaret?" regarding her with a look of quiet reproof.

"Aye, that would I," she answered carelessly. "If faith, in my opinion the better the man the better the deed. But to continue the subject, Josiah, at the second glance I remembered thee at once."

She stepped back a pace or two and, shading her eyes from the slanting rays of the setting sun by tilting her hat well down over her face, regarded him with a most air of critical interest.

"After all, thou'rt not much changed except that thou doth look more careworn, and 'tis apparent that thou hast grown older," she said. Then, seeing that the expression in his eyes did not soften, added, "But happen, cousin, thou wouldst be better pleased, as is the fashion of all the men, an' I were to tell thee thou wert grown good looking."

She laughed a low, rippling laugh of amusement.

Josiah, finding her levity not to his liking and having a lurking suspicion that she was amusing herself at his expense, answered resentfully and with an air of offended dignity.

"That thou wouldst so misjudge me as to presume that I would desire praise for my personal appearance I can understand, for after thy years of living in that wicked city of Paris, where all the men are fops or coxcombs, with no thought above decking their bodies with tawdry raiment, willing and eager to bend their backs and mouth and grin in pleased acknowledgment of a woman's compliment, thou has thought that all men were made in the same fashion."

The young mistress of the Mayland farm, who had listened to her cousin's words with an air of bewildered surprise, now cried airily: "Oh, fie on thee, Josiah, for a long face! To talk so of my bonny Paris! Forsooth, an thou wert to go there for a spell thou wouldst lose the somber look thou hast caught from all the people hereabout and gain much for thine appearance, I do assure thee."

Although this was said with a smiling coquetry that took the sting out of the words, a red flush mounted to Josiah's forehead.

"Peace, Margaret," he said, "and take not upon thyself—but at best a sinful mortal—to criticise the work of God. That I am made in my Master's image doth suffice for me, and the care—from what I judge at sight of thee—that thou dost give to thy body I prefer to give to the salvation of my soul."

He paused for a reply; but, none coming, he continued: "Ere I met thee I was on my way to thy house. Shall we walk there together?"

Margaret Mayland, looking at the cold, dispassionate face of the man confronting her, with its sharp features and deep set eyes, felt a slight sinking at her heart, and the smile on her bright face faded, her manners becoming at once less friendly and more distant. Turning to go, she said: "Aye, come with me, Josiah, and welcome. Thy good mother and Hetty have but just left after spending a pleasant hour with me, and already sweet Hetty hath found a place in my heart."

Josiah regarded her soberly, letting his glance rest on her brilliant hued riding dress significantly.

"That my sister hath some trifling faults I do admit," he said. "But she is ever an obedient maid, God fearing, pure minded and modest, setting an example of propriety that would, I wot, be of benefit to many older and more experienced in the world than she."

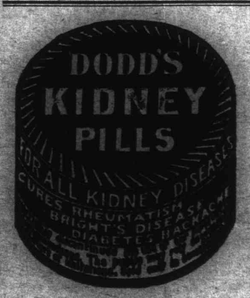
They had reached the entrance of the driveway that led to the Mayland house. Margaret, stepping inside, hastily drew the gates together after her and, leaning over the railing, said, with an attempt at a smile: "Of a sudden a great weariness hath fallen upon me. Wouldst think me rude and without good manners, cousin, if I were to ask thee to excuse me from further converse today? I find that my strength is greatly spent by the long ride up the mountain, and I would rest awhile. I' truth I am overdone," she concluded.

Taunston, concealing his disappointment, said, with a forced air of pleasantry that sat ill upon him: "He who cometh late must take, perforce, what is left, Margaret, and I regret, as one having taken thy place on thy farm for so many months, representing thee in all business matters, that I was not here upon thine arrival to give thee a proper welcoming. But as thou'rt aweary and rest is what thou doth need I will go on my way to leave thee undisturbed. God be with thee, Margaret."

He proceeded a few steps, then paused, addressing her seriously:

"Cousin, at prayer time tonight I shall offer thanks to God for thy safe conduct through a perilous journey."

"Thank thee, and farewell, Josiah." Turning hastily, Margaret Mayland went with swift steps toward the house.



Out on the road Taunston continued on his way with slow strides, his head bent over his breast in thoughtful meditation.

"Worse, far worse, than I expected," he muttered. "Much devil's work to be undone! Our cousin hath a comely face enough, and methought after my first words of admonition she appeared more gentle and less boldenish in her manner, and so silent was she toward the last I doubt not that my speech impressed her. A good example, constant correction and much sound advice is what a woman so young and worldly minded doth require."

Reaching a rising eminence, he paused at the top and looked back at the Mayland estate, with its broad acres stretching far before him in all the glory of their spring beauty, illuminated by the rays of the setting sun. "Ah!" He drew a sharp breath unconsciously of admiration and longing.

"Never before hath my duty to the Lord been placed so fully before me as in this my self imposed task of leading mine erring young cousin into the paths of wisdom and righteousness," he said after a few moments' thought, slowly and with solemn emphasis.

It is really the errors of a man that make him lovable.—Goethe.

Rise and Fall of William.

Knew a fellow, name was Bill,
Raised down yonder by the mill,
Got in devilment and cleared,
And the first thing that we heared
Was that Bill had gone to town,
Sobered up and settled down,
Quit his meanness and his tricks
And had gone in politics.

Heared that he had got to be
Alderman and drew a fee
That was big enough to pay
For a shoe shine every day;
We was proud, since things was thus,
That he had been one of us;
That with us he used to mix,
Now he was in politics.

Didn't call him Bill no more;
Called him Mr. William Orr;
All the meanness that he done
We was certain was in fun;
Though his good traits had been slim,
We thought up a few for him—
He was one of our own chicks
Since he'd rix in politics.

Well, sir, word came down by mail
That they had him locked in jail
'Cause he'd stole the city blind.
After that you couldn't find
Not a friend of Bill in town.
Every fellow threw him down;
Every one declared that they
Had been sure he'd end that way.

The Singing School.

While there may be parts of the country in which the singing school still flourishes, yet as a national institution it has gone the way of roller skates and blue glass.

The singing school had its inning when rural communities formed an important part of the nation—in the days before the farmer's boy started for town as soon as he learned to walk to look for a job in a bank.

In those days the young people of the neighborhood got together in the schoolhouse and made melody or something that passed as a substitute for it and then afterward made love as they jogged home in the big farm wagon.

The singing school was a great institution in its day, but modern inventions have made it a back number. Any man with a few dollars and a little credit can buy a phonograph and be his own singing school.

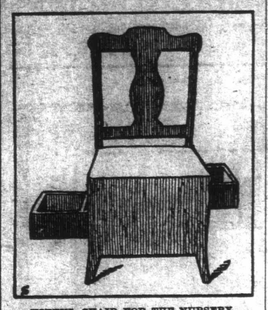
AFTERNOON CALLS

A Few Don'ts That It Would Be Well to Bear In Mind.

An afternoon call must be a short and yet not a hurried one. Don't enter the house saying that you have not a minute and don't leave it declaring that you must hurry on to another friend or you give an idea that your visit has been paid grudgingly.

Don't monopolize the conversation. Your hostess likes to retell her own news, to air her own grievances, to discuss mutual friends, from her own point of view. You may be the most amusing person present, but your very brilliancy gives others the desire to shine also, and courtesy demands that you should give them their opportunity, says an exchange.

Above all, don't talk of yourself. "I" is a letter of the alphabet to be omitted as much as possible. Who does not know the bore who tells you of his health, his family, his plans, till you sigh of unutterable relief when he at length takes his departure?



There is a military offense called "forcing the sentry." Don't "force" your friend's butler or maid when you are told, "Not at home." Don't say, "Oh, I am sure she is at home to me!" The unfortunate hostess may be indisposed, busy, worried or have important letters to write; so respect her orders to her sentry and content yourself with leaving your card.

Don't utter in an audible aside to your companion, "Thank heaven, they are out!" A whisper is fraught with danger and may possibly be retailed from one person to another until it reaches the mistress of the house.

The drawers are divided into compartments to hold safety pins, powder puff, handkerchief, brush and comb, feeding utensils and other odds and ends which every mother likes to have handy for baby's toilet.

There is no doubt that this device would greatly simplify the trying operation of dressing a fractious infant and save nurse and mother much unnecessary trouble.—Philadelphia Press.

Tender Feet.

Girls who serve in shops and others whose occupation keeps them on their feet a great deal often are troubled with chafed, sore and blistered feet, no matter how comfortably their shoes may fit. A powder used in the German army for sifting into the shoes and stockings of foot soldiers is called "fusstreupulver" and consists of three parts of salicylic acid, ten parts of starch and eighty-seven parts of pulverised soapstone. Any chemist will make it up for a small sum. It keeps the feet dry, prevents chafing and rapidly heals sore spots. Finely pulverized soapstone only is very good. When the feet merely ache a very useful remedy may be found in the following: Take a teaspoonful of ordinary washing soda, dissolve it in half a gallon of warm water and bathe the feet in it for about half an hour. Repeat this from time to time. A hot water bath is also highly excellent for tired feet.—American Queen.

Take a Rest at Noon.

Get into the practice of taking a rest at noon. Lie down if only for ten minutes, or five minutes. If you cannot lie down lean back in a chair and close your eyes. Just forget everything. Rest; relax. Even if you do not sleep, rest. This practice will make you live longer. It will make you healthier while you do live. It will probably make people want you to live longer. It will take the tangle out of your nerves, the irritability out of your temper, the wrinkles out of your face. It will make your eyes brighter, your face fuller. Try it.—Medical Talk.

Kitchen Convenience.

Little glass medicine cups, with teaspoonful, tablespoonful and wineglassful indicated in raised letters, are valuable to have in the kitchen, says the Brooklyn Times. The usual method of guessing at the right quantity of salt, flavoring extract or other cooking material is not to be recommended. Teaspoons are not made in any uniform size. Medicine glasses are.

The Only One of Its Kind.

On an evening somewhere about the end of the sixteenth century a traveler from Sweden might have been observed at the door of the Rose theater in London. He was going to see a new piece called "Titus Andronicus," and in order to follow it in the native language he bought a copy of the play, price sixpence, at the theater door. When he went home to Sweden he took the book with him to show his wife and friends what strange stuff the foreigner ranted. For 300 years it was preserved and in 1904, being discovered in the home of a countrywoman, was transferred for safety to the Lund university. The book is the only one of its kind known to exist.

Important Historic Event—Neglect of a True Friend of Britain in the Hour of Peril.

The following lines clipped from a late newspaper form a reminder of an important historic event and of the neglect of a true friend of Britain in the hour of peril and failure to recognize the services of a brave Indian alley:

Tecumseh.
1813-1905.

Full ninety years have sped since that dark hour
When, 'mid war's fierce flame and wild alarms,
Foremost among the nation's sons in arms,
Tecumseh died. Since then in golden dower
Blessings have crowned us. Now a bright array
Of wealth, in men and cities, fields and gold,
Is ours. Yet from the stormy days of old
There lingers still one mighty debt to pay.
Eternal granite tow'ring to the skies
Should fitly witness his eternal fame,
Who with his country nobly strives and dies.
Instead—well may we blush with honest shame!—
Tecumseh died the nation's life to save,
This is his monument—an unmarked grave!

Battle of the Thames.

The battle of the Thames was fought in October, 1813. Fifty-nine years ago there stood on the roadside on the Longswoods road a little log schoolhouse; a few rods away stood a wayside tavern called the Tecumseh house, marked by a swinging sign with the rude painting of an Indian on it. The spot is situated about two miles as the crow flies from Thamesville, that is, the Thamesvillel of that day, which was a hamlet on the Longswoods road, the traveled route at that time from the west to London, Hamilton, and other places east. The Thamesville of to-day is on the Great Western Railway, now the Grand Trunk which had not at that time been built or apparently been thought of. The little schoolhouse stood within a few feet of where Tecumseh was killed. The writer in 1846 taught Young Canada in that little schoolhouse. Right there was the Battle of the Thames fought. Gen. Proctor, with a few regulars and a body of Indians under Tecumseh had been retreating before the large forces of Americans under Gen. Harrison, until this spot was reached, when Tecumseh, it is said, positively refused to retreat further, but resolved to make a stand in defence of the Indian settlement of Moraviantown, about a mile further up the river.

Death of Tecumseh.

The spot was well chosen for defence. The surrounding country was covered with primevial forest trees, the only approach to it being the road. There was a sandy ridge running westward and on the side next the road a black ash swale. Behind this ridge Tecumseh and his men had erected a rude breast works of logs. Proctor had one field piece pointing down the road; but the story goes in the locality that he had retreated before the Americans had arrived, and not a shot was fired. As the Kentuckians advanced along the road thinking the Indians were farther east and that they would outflank them, rushed through the swale, but instead came directly on Tecumseh's position and there the Indians fought and many of them were killed, among them their great chief, whose body is said to have been mutilated by those Kentucky riflemen. After Tecumseh's death and the scattering of his men in the woods, Gen. Harrison made no serious attempt to penetrate much farther into the country, but soon retired again to Detroit.

Saw the Great Chief.

The late Mr. Cornwall who had a small saw and grist mill at Thamesville when the writer was teaching in the neighborhood said he was a small boy at the time of the battle, and the evening before the battle, as he was in the woods looking after the cows, he came right on Tecumseh's camp. The Indians had killed a cow and were cooking steaks for supper. He said Tecumseh was a fine tall man, wearing an officer's sash, and had around his neck a ribbon on which was suspended a large silver medal. Mr. Cornwall said Tecumseh could speak English and spoke kindly to him, patting him on the head. Many have wondered that while monuments have been erected to the memory of others, perhaps less deserving, this great Indian chief has been treated with neglect. It is doubtful if any one knows the location of his grave. The story there at the time is that his braves carried the body away into the woods leaving no mark where they left it. The stage always made a stop at the Tecumseh house, on the battle ground and the Americans who were passing through the country, cut down saplings and made canes out of them, as souvenirs of their visit to the place of an American victory over a few Indians.

Sir William Van Horne.

William C. Van Horne, one of the world's great railroad men, began his career as a telegraph operator in Chicago, says Success. He rapidly rose to high places in railroading, and in the early 80's he had attained such a reputation in the business that Lord Strathcona, the financier of the project to construct the Canadian Pacific Railway, selected the young American as general manager and chief of the building operations. He was so successful in this work and rendered such important service to the Dominion of Canada in pushing the railroad across her vast expanse to the Pacific Ocean that in 1896 Queen Victoria knighted him. Pre-eminently endowed with common sense and humor, he is not the man to take his knightly honors too seriously. Shortly after receiving his title he exclaimed to a group of friends:

"This 'Sir William' business is very fine, but I'd like to hear what the boys down in Chicago will have to say about it. They used to call me just plain Bill."

Sheridan's Trap.

Any interruption while he was making a speech always caused Richard Brinsley Sheridan considerable annoyance. On one occasion the dramatist showed his displeasure of a fellow member of the house of commons who kept crying out "Hear, hear" every few minutes. During a certain debate Sheridan took occasion to describe a political contemporary who wished to play rogue, but had only sense enough to act fool. "Where," exclaimed he, with great emphasis—"where shall we find a more foolish knave or a more knavish fool than he?"

"Hear, hear," was shouted by the troublesome member.

Sheridan turned and, thanking the honorable member for the prompt information, sat down amid a general roar of laughter.

Many have wondered that while monuments have been erected to the memory of others, perhaps less deserving, this great Indian chief has been treated with neglect. It is doubtful if any one knows the location of his grave. The story there at the time is that his braves carried the body away into the woods leaving no mark where they left it. The stage always made a stop at the Tecumseh house, on the battle ground and the Americans who were passing through the country, cut down saplings and made canes out of them, as souvenirs of their visit to the place of an American victory over a few Indians.

Sir William Van Horne.

William C. Van Horne, one of the world's great railroad men, began his career as a telegraph operator in Chicago, says Success. He rapidly rose to high places in railroading, and in the early 80's he had attained such a reputation in the business that Lord Strathcona, the financier of the project to construct the Canadian Pacific Railway, selected the young American as general manager and chief of the building operations. He was so successful in this work and rendered such important service to the Dominion of Canada in pushing the railroad across her vast expanse to the Pacific Ocean that in 1896 Queen Victoria knighted him. Pre-eminently endowed with common sense and humor, he is not the man to take his knightly honors too seriously. Shortly after receiving his title he exclaimed to a group of friends:

"This 'Sir William' business is very fine, but I'd like to hear what the boys down in Chicago will have to say about it. They used to call me just plain Bill."

Sheridan's Trap.

Any interruption while he was making a speech always caused Richard Brinsley Sheridan considerable annoyance. On one occasion the dramatist showed his displeasure of a fellow member of the house of commons who kept crying out "Hear, hear" every few minutes. During a certain debate Sheridan took occasion to describe a political contemporary who wished to play rogue, but had only sense enough to act fool. "Where," exclaimed he, with great emphasis—"where shall we find a more foolish knave or a more knavish fool than he?"

"Hear, hear," was shouted by the troublesome member.

Sheridan turned and, thanking the honorable member for the prompt information, sat down amid a general roar of laughter.

ANOTHER VOICE ON THE PRAIRIES

TELLS OF DIABETES CURED BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

W. G. Bartleman Could get no Relief till he tried the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Wapella, Assa., N. W. T., Aug. 7.—(Special):—This thriving town furnishes one of the most remarkable cures of Kidney Disease that has ever been reported on the prairies. Mr. Wm. G. Bartleman, a well-known farmer, is the man cured and he makes the following statement:—

"I had Kidney Trouble and it developed into Diabetes. I went to the doctor but his treatment was of no use whatever to me. I began to take Dodd's Kidney Pills in December, 1902. I took them all winter and summer while I was unable to work my farm. I took twelve boxes in all and in August I was able to work.

"Now I am quite strong. I worked all winter without pains in my back or any part of my body. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me."

If the Kidney Disease is of long standing it may take time to cure it. But Dodd's Kidney Pills will do it.

THE WAY TO DO THINGS.

If there is that in your nature which demands the best and will take nothing less, and you do not demoralize this standard by the habit of deteoriation in everything you do, you will achieve distinction in some line if you have the persistence and determination to follow your ideal.

But if you are satisfied with the cheap and shoddy, the botched and slovenly, if you are not particular about the quality in your work, or in your environment, or in your personal habits, then you must expect to take second place, to fall back into the rear of the procession.

People who have accomplished work worth while have had a very high sense of the way to do things. They have not been content with mediocrity. They have not confined themselves to the beaten tracks; they have never been satisfied to do things just as others do them, but always a little better. They always pushed things that came to their hands a little higher up, a little farther on. It is this little higher up, little farther on, that counts in the quality of life's work. It is the constant effor to be first class in everything one attempts that conquers the heights of excellence.

A Recognized Regulator.—To bring the digestive organs into symmetrical working is the aim of physicians when they find a patient suffering from stomachic irregularities, and for this purpose they can prescribe nothing better than Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which will be found a pleasant medicine of surprising virtue in bringing the refractory organs into subjection and restoring them to normal action, in which condition only can they perform their duties properly.

The man on the car looked around at his new acquaintance. "I've just been reading," he said, "that yawning is good for the health. Some German doctor says so. He claims that a generous sized yawn fills the lungs and expands the chest and is an all round good exercise." "I'm glad to hear this," said the new acquaintance. "It's quite a relief to me. The fact is, I've been a good deal prejudiced against the habit." "May I ask your business?" the other man inquired. "I'm a preacher," replied the new acquaintance.

The charge was one of keeping a dog without a license, and the defendant evinced a tendency to interrupt the evidence. He was sternly hushed but eventually his turn came. The clerk of the court turned to him: "Do you wish the court to understand you refuse to renew your dog license?" "Yes, but"—— "We want no buts. You must renew the license or you will be fined. You know it expired on January 1. "Yes, but so did the dog. Do I have to renew him, too?"

A Merry Heart Goes All The Day.—But one cannot have a merry heart if he has a pain in the back or a cold with a racking cough. To be merry one must be well and free from aches and pains. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric oil will relieve all pains, muscular or otherwise, and for the speedy treatment of colds and coughs it is a splendid medicine.

Mr. Slopoak—There are 800 ways in the English language to express being in love. Miss Ada—And you've forgotten everyone of them, haven't you?

„Pa, what does it mean when you say that one man completely overshadows another?" "Why—it means that he outshines him." "Oh!"

THE OLD MILL.

Here from the brow of the hill I look,
Through a lattice of boughs and leaves,
On the old gray mill with its gambrel roof,
And the moss on its rotting eaves.
I hear the clatter that jars its walls,
And the rushing water's sound,
And I see the black floats rise and fall
As the wheel goes slowly round.

I rode there often when I was young,
With my grist on the horse before,
And talked with Nelly, the miller's girl,
As I waited my turn at the door;
And while she tossed her ringlets brown,
And flirted and chatted so free,
The wheel might stop or the wheel might go,
It was all the same to me.

'Tis twenty years since last I stood
On the spot where I stand to-day,
And Nelly is wed, and the miller is dead,
And the mill and I are gray.
But both, till we fall into ruin and wreck,
To our fortune of toil are bound;
And the man goes, and the stream flows,
And the wheel moves slowly round.

—Thomas Dunn English.

For many years Dr. Thomas Dunn English was in the public eye as physician, poet, dramatist, novelist, lawyer and politician, but his celebrity while in the flesh rested and his posthumous fame rests almost solely on his song "Ben Bolt." For a long time the song dropped out of memory, but interest in it was revived by its use in Du Maurier's novel, "Trilby." In later years the mention of "Ben Bolt" to its author irritated him almost beyond endurance, since during the closing years of his long life he was continually referred to as the writer of "Ben Bolt," to the exclusion of his other work.

A MAN AMONG MEN.

Lord Rosebery's Splendid Tribute to the Late Head Master of Eton.

One of the notable events in English educational life of late has been the retirement of Dr. Warre from the headmastership of Eton, which he held for twenty-one years. Old Etonians who the world over have embraced the opportunity of contributing to a testimonial in his honor, which was inaugurated a little while ago under the presidency of the Earl of Rossbery. On that occasion, Lord Rosebery said: "His (Dr. Warre's) services to Eton and his connection with Eton have ranged over a great space of time. It is fifty-one years, I think, since he gained the Newcastle, which ought to be, though I am afraid it is not, the blue ribbon of an Eton career, and it is forty-five years since he joined the educational staff of Eton as an assistant master. It is rather painful to me, personally, to remember that he was an assistant master when I went to Eton, but as far as I can see, he looks as young and as vigorous now as he did then. It is but 21 years ago that he was raised to one of the supreme positions in Great Britain, the headmastership of Eton. I say one of the supreme positions because it is, I know, considered that a Secretaryship of State is a very grave position in this country. But I doubt that any thoughtful persons will put the importance of a Secretary of State, possibly unworthy and probably transitory, in comparison with that of a person who has the training of most of the future Secretaries of State.

"The position of headmaster of Eton is unique in this country. It is unique in its power, and has been unique in its results. And I am sure, in passing, I may express the hope of all here that he who is putting on his armor to assume the great position may be as successful as he who is about to lay it down. This is not the moment or the place to canvass Dr. Warre's services to Eton. He has identified himself in the fullest manner, both with the intellectual and with the athletic side of Eton. Under him Eton has preserved its proud prerogative of turning out gentlemen, and successful gentlemen, and when the proud record of the college comes to be written, it will be felt that there are few names more to be honored on its records, on its roll of achievement, than that of Dr. Warre. What is the secret of his success? So far as I can trace it, it is due to his intense manliness. He is a man among men; he is fitted, not merely to be the guide, but the example, of all Etonians."

Salvation Army Chickens.

Not only the largest but the most profitable poultry yard in England is that conducted by the Salvation Army, which is the pride of General Booth, the founder of the army.

It houses more than two thousand chickens, and last year 18,240 eggs were produced for use in the Salvation Army enterprises and for general sale. In addition 1,185 birds were sold and 2,288 chicks were reared.

One would scarcely imagine the Salvation Army as chicken fanciers, yet out of a total of 104 birds exhibited at shows ninety-three won prizes, a record of which any one might be proud.

Although the poultry farm is intended principally as a means of giving employment to those presenting themselves at the rescue missions, it has proven a decidedly self-supporting scheme, the sales for last year amounting to a little more than four thousand dollars.

The farm exceeds in size any other in England devoted to poultry raising and has been shown to be such a success that it will soon be still further enlarged.

Foreign Memorial to Victoria.

It is proposed to erect a Queen Victorial memorial hospital somewhere on the Riviera, and in the present state of relations between the two countries it is probable that the proposal would be favorably received in France. Statues to at least two distinguished British subjects have already been erected in France. One is to Jenner, which stands in front of the fish market at Boulogne, and the other is to Lord Brougham at Cannes, of which he may be said to have been the creator.

Case of Nervous Prostration

For Months Mrs. Myles Lay a Helpless Sufferer—Attributes Restoration to

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

Mrs. John Myles, senior, of South Woodslee, Essex County, Ont., is well known throughout the surrounding country because of her work among the sick and suffering, and it was on account of over-exertion in this regard that her health broke down, and she lay weak and helpless, a victim of nervous prostration. Doctors could not help her, and she resolved to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. As a result she has been thoroughly restored, and by recommending this treatment to others has been the means of bringing back health and happiness to many a weakened and discouraged sufferer from diseases of the nerves.

Mrs. Myles writes:—"When I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was confined to my bed with what the doctors said was nervous prostration. My stomach was very weak, and I could not sleep at all for any length of time. Nervous chills and trembling would come over me at times and I seemed to be getting weaker and weaker all the time. There were also pains on top of the head which caused me much suffering and anxiety.

"After using half a dozen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I began to gain in weight and feel stronger. Since then I have been gradually restored to health, and in looking back can say that the improvement has been something wonderful. I used in all forty boxes of this preparation, and feel it a duty, as well as a privilege, to recommend it to all who are suffering from nervous disorders. Several persons to whom I have described my case have used it and been cured, and I am sure that I owe my present good health, if not life itself, to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

A DESIRE TO ACCOMMODATE

There is nothing people appreciate more than being served by those who really enjoy accommodating them. What a comfort, at a strange hotel especially, to be served by those who seem anxious to please us, who seem to take real pleasure in making us feel at home and comfortable! There is no one quality which will help youth along more rapidly than the cultivation of this desire to please, to accommodate. It appeals to every body; it creates a good impression.

What a pleasure and a comfort, when traveling, to be served by pleasant, good natured people who will try to please us! A surly, impudent Pullman porter often destroys the pleasure of a whole journey on a train. An impudent clerk in a hotel office can make everybody in the house uncomfortable, and such service is dear, even though it could be had for nothing.

It is noticeable that a boy who always tries to help wherever he can, and to make everybody comfortable, who is accommodating in everything, is very popular, and other things being equal, most likely to be promoted.

Hot Weather Ailments

The best medicine in the world to ward off summer complaints is Baby's Own Tablets, and it is the best medicine to cure them if they attack little ones unexpectedly. At the first sign of illness during the hot weather give the child Baby's Own Tablets, or in a few hours the trouble may be beyond cure. These Tablets cure all stomach troubles, diarrhoea and cholera infantum, and if occasionally given to the well child will prevent them. Mrs. Edward Clark, McGregor, Ont., says: "I used Baby's Own Tablets for my little girl who suffered from colic and bowel troubles and I found them the most satisfactory medicine I ever tried." This is the experience of all mothers who have used this medicine. Keep the Tablets in the home during the hot weather months and you can feel that your children are safe. Sold by all druggists or sent by mail at 25 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Cincinnati man was describing dinner in London that admitted Joseph H. Choate to the Society of the oldhdoo k:icmfwyp vbgkgi cmff the Old Benchers of the Inner Temple Mr. Choate was in his best mood and kept the table in a continuous roar. Perhaps he made his most telling impression with a story about an impoverished young Irish gentleman, the Hon. Denis Bellew, driven forth by poverty from his father's estate, went to London to seek his fortune. He had been a gay convivial blade, and in he little home village he was missed. There was not a poacher nor a rooster within ten miles that hadn't a soft spot for Denis in his heart. Word one day passed about that up at the castle news had been received of Denis. The village at once became excited, and a deputation of half a dozen or so was soon on its way to see the old lord. "My lord," said the spokesman, "is it true ye've gotten news o' yer son Denis?" "Aye, true enough. News at last, boys," said his lordship. "Faith, then, an' phwat might the bhoy be doin' up in London?" was the next question. "He has been called to the Bar," the Lord answered proudly. The deputation looked at one another, for the phrase was new to them. Finally, in a loud whisper, one said: "Oi don't know what thot manes; but from what Oi remember of the bhoy, he didn't want no callin."

Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper.

Bishop Henry C. Potter of New York recently told the following story illustrating how the barbaric instincts persevere in holding their place in the human heart, even though encouraged. "A professor in an eminent American university thought it wise to bring up his children without giving them any religious instruction and acquaintance with the Bible until they should reach the age of understanding. One of these children, a boy, of course, went up to the family garret to amuse himself one rainy day. Out of the rookery there he dug up an extremely dusty and delapidated volume and devoured a portion of its contents with the greatest possible interest and relish. "After a time he came running to his mother bubbling over with delight and exclaimed: 'Oh mummy, I found a great book up in the attic. It's chock full of fighting. I read all about a fellow called Moses that punched the heads of the Malakites, and there's lots more scrapping in it.' "What's the name of the book, Bobby?' his mother inquired. "'I think it's called the Holly Bibbel,' answered Bobby."

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. J. Noble Hayes of the Laws Delays Commission, at a recent meeting on this subject told the following story as illustrative of the condition existing in some of the courts today: "Charles James Fox, the famous English advocate of a century ago, and secretary, Mr. Hare, who lived with him, were both noted for their impeculiosity, and their creditors spent much time in dunning them. One morning before daylight there was a violent ringing at the door, and Mr. Fox, going to the window, found a group of creditors below. "Are you fox hunting or hare hunting this morning, gentlemen?" he asked. "Come now, Mr. Fox," one of them called up, "tell us when you are going to pay that bill. Just set a date and we will leave you in peace." "All right," was the reply, "how will the day of judgment suit you?" "Not at all," said the creditor; we'll all be too busy on that day." "Well," said Mr. Fox, "rather than put you to any inconvenience, we'll make it the day after."

WORK.

(Warwick James Price in "Success Magazine.") ....

The work which presents no difficulties to be overcome soon grows uninteresting.

There are some workers so anxious to catch time by the forelock they almost tear the forelock off.

If it is true that good work implies that the workman knows himself, it is equally true that the best work shows that he has forgotten himself.

There is only one right way to work—and it is neither in doing things before they are started, nor in doing them all over again after they are finished.

Go to some successful workman and ask him which of his days were happiest, and it's long odds that he'll say to you, "Those in which I began my career."

It is only when at work that man fulfils his proper place in God's creature scheme. They are indeed rare exceptions who "also serve, who only stand and wait."

The world is altogether too restricted in its use of the word "art." Work of any kind, done superlatively well, is art—dusting pictures as well as painting them.

A good worker is pretty much like a horse, after all. When it's up-hill going, don't worry him; when it's down-hill going, don't hurry him; and be sure and take good care of him once he's in the barn.

Suffer No More.—There are thousands who live miserable lives because dyspepsia dulls the faculties and shadows existence with the cloud of depression. One way to dispel the vapors that beset the victims of this disorder is to order them a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which are among the best vegetable pills known, being easy to take and are most efficacious in their action. A trial of them will prove this.

Miss Carey Thomas, the President of Bryn Mawr College, talked at luncheon about the ingeniousness of children. "A friend of mine," she said, "once showed me a letter that her little son had written her from Andover. The letter ran like this: "'Dear mother: I am well and I hope you are well. Will you please send me $2? I know the last did not last long, but it is all spent now, and I need $2 badly. I hope you are well. Please do not forget $2.' Then there was this postscript. "'I was ashamed to ask for money so soon after the last you sent me that I sent after the postman to get this letter back, but it was too late, he had gone.'"

I suffered greatly for several days and the tooth cuts refused to heal until your agent gave me a bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT which I began using. Mark Twain says that in his earlier days he did not enjoy the exceptional prosperity which came later in his career. It is commonly the lot of genius to suffer neglect at first, but the experience did not affect his abiding good nature. In a conversation with William Dean Howells on one occasion the subject of literary vicissitudes was broached by the humorist. "My difficulties taught me some thrift," he observed. "But I never knew whether it was wiser to spend my last nickel for a cigar to smoke or for an appte to devour." "I am astounded," observed Mr. Howells, "that a person of so little decision should meet with such worldly success." Mark Twain nodded very gravely. "Indecision about spending money," he said, "is worthy of cultivation. When I couldn't decide what to do with my last nickel, I kept it, and so became rich."

Cholera morbus, cramps and kindred ailments annually make their appearance, green fruit, cucumbers, melons, etc., and many persons are debarred from eating these tempting things, but they need not abstain if they have Dr. J. "Driver," said an English tourist who was being driven on a jaunting car through the Donegal Highlands, "I notice that when you speak to your friends whom you meet on the road you invariably do so in Irish, but when you address your horse you do so in English. How is this?" To which came the retort: "Musha, now thin, isn't English good enough for him?"

Minard's Liniment Cures Garget in Cows.

It is known that a jury theoretically is composed of a set of unprejudiced men with open minds, still there might be occasions when a slight personal feeling invades their ranks. Such was evidently the thought borne in upon the tailor who, rising to state his case, and having declined the services of a lawyer for reasons best unknown to himself, looked over the jurymen and then turned to the judge. "It's no use for me to tell you about this case, your Honor," he said, dejectedly, "not unless you dismiss that jury and get in a new lot. There isn't a man among 'em but owes me something for clothes."

CLIMATIC CONDITIONS.

The Climatic conditions are different from those of any other district in Canada, extremes of heat and cold being rare.

Meteorological observations sustain the claim that this district has the mildest winter in the west, and that spring sets in fully three weeks earlier than at any other point in the Western Provinces.

Fruit growing has passed the experimental stage. Standard apples, crab apples, plums, cherries, strawberries, Tomatoes and all kinds of bush fruit have been grown to perfection.

Medicine Hat is very healthily and prettily situated on the banks of the South Saskatchewan River. It is on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is a divisional point of that system and is the terminus of the Crow's Nest Pass Railway.

The town possesses most of the conveniences found in modern cities, the streets are lighted by Natural Gas, which is quite equal to electric light as a luminant. These lamps are 750 candle power and they are distributed over the whole town.

There is an abundant water supply by direct pressure to all parts of the town. The waterworks system, like the natural gas system, is the property of the town.

From its healthy situation and other advantages it is most desirable as a residential town, and it is worthy of note that the residences are among the prettiest and most substantial in the west.

The town is situated at an altitude of 2171 feet above sea level and its atmosphere is pure and invigorating. There are no chilly winds and no fogs.

The rainfall for eight years show an average of 15.47 inches per year.

The mean temperature is the most equable in Canada east of the Rocky Mountains.

The winters are short—generally less than three months— and are broken by "chinook spells," and the snowfall is light. The coldest spell lasts but a few days. Warm "chinook" breezes from the Japan current cross the mountains through the passes, lifts the snow, and leaves a nice balmy atmosphere which continues for several days together, rendering it possible to play baseball in December and January. It might be expected that intense humidity would characterise the atmosphere under such circumstances but such is not the case. The snow simply evaporates leaving the ground dry and firm.

NATURAL RESOURCES.

Natural Gas—As stated above the natural gas is owned and operated by the town. Specially cheap rates —5 cents per 1000 feet— are offered to manufacturers.

Coal—Within three miles of town are several coal mines, and the coal is laid down at from $3.00 to $3.50 per ton.

Clay and Cement deposits—There are several large deposits of clay suitable for the manufacture of brick pressed brick, cement and terra-cotta, which up to the present have not been exploited.

PEOPLE OF TOKIO PROTEST AGAINST PEACE TERMS.

Yokohama, Sept. 18.—The meeting held at a theatre yesterday to protest against the terms of the peace treaty, was followed by an anti-police demonstration. Fourteen police boxes were burned, 37 policemen injured and two civilians severely injured. Many arrests were made. At five o'clock this morning two companies of troops from Tokio arrived. They have been posted as guards at all the consulates and other points and quiet has been restored.

DEPRESSED BUT NOT AT WAR.

Christiana, Sept. 18.—A semi-official denial is given tonight to the statement printed in the Dagblat of Stockholm today that the second to sixth year classes of conscription have been mobilized. It is stated that only a few of the guards of the Norwegian army near the frontier have been called to arms.

A despatch from Karlstad to the Aften Posten says that a feeling of depression prevails in the result of the outcome of negotiations and that the attitude of the Swedish ministers regarding force has grown strong. The despatch says it is hoped, however, that a modus vivendi will be reached after the signing of a treaty of arbitration.

M. H. RIFLE ASSOCIATION ANNUAL PRIZE SHOOT.

The annual prize shooting of the C. M. R. and M. H. Rifle Association came on on the Government range at Police Point on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week. The weather was fine but occasional tricky winds blew across the range which resulted in making the scoring very irregular and no very high scores were made. The arrangements for marking were satisfactory in charge of Mr. G. W. Mansel who had for assistants Messrs Collier, Moore, (2), Tyler and Ferdie Legh.

Mr. D. Granville Proby made a splendid range officer and conducted everything in good style at the firing point and considerable credit is due to the Secretary (Mr. R. Legh), and the various committees for the excellence of the general arrangements.

LADIES MATCH.

Fifty seven ladies of the town entered in the ladies' match and this was as usual the closing competition of the meeting and all joined to form a pleasant picnic. Miss Walton was at the head of the arrangements for this event and about 12 o'clock on Saturday the ladies began to arrive on the ground in carriages provided by the Association. They did not come empty-handed, but had with them the materials for a delightful luncheon which was spread under the shade of the big cottonwoods just east of the butts. Here the whole party assembled about 1 o'clock and did full justice to the good things provided. At the close Range Officer Proby in a few well chosen words thanked the ladies in the name of the Association for gracing the meeting with their presence and for providing such an enjoyable luncheon, and called for three cheers for the ladies which were heartily given followed by a "tiger" and "one for the range officer."

The men then moved back to the 500 yards range and the ladies competitionwas at once commenced. The names had been previously drawn by lot, and seven shots and a sighter were allowed each competitor. There were 26 prizes and the following list shows the result, the first name being that of the prize winner in order of merit and the second that of the rifleman who shot for her. As there were more ladies than gentlemen all the latter had to fire three timeseach, for a different entry each time.

During the afternoon the range was visited by quite a crowd of townspeople who took the keenest interest in the shooting and the box of cigars contributed by Mr. J. K. Drinnan was much appreciated.

RESULTS.

HAROLD NELSON CO.

The Harold Nelson Company appeared at the Opera House on Tuesday evening and scored a great success in that fine piece "Prince Otto."

Mr. Nelson, of course, filled the role of Prince Otto and acted the part in a manner which left nothing to be desired. Miss Helen Scott sustained the part of the Princess to perfection. Mr. Clifford Lane Bruce, as the villian of the plot was a great success and several susceptible young ladies in the audience lamented the fact that he was not the hero of the piece.

Miss Patterson as the Countess Von Rosen was simply charming. Her acting was so piquant and natural that she won the hearts of the audience. Farmer Leopold found a capital exponent in Mr. Robson N. Black, while the farmer's daughter represented by Miss Pearl Reesor was an exceedingly good character. The other actors were all good and we can say nothing that the Harold Nelson Company has ever produced here has made a greater hit.

On the return trip the Company will present the great tragedy "Francesca de Rimini". We await the production with much pleasure and interest.

Medicine Hat Constituency.

As the nominee of the Conservatives to contest the forthcoming Provincial elections in the Medicine Hat constituency, I consider it my duty to state what measures I intend to support if elected to the Legislature:

1. The taking of all proper and lawful steps to ascertain in what respects, if any, the Dominion Parliament can restrict the Province of Alberta in its dealing with the Education question, in addition to any restrictions there may be contained in the British North America Act.

2. Regarding the lands I will advocate the continual application to and negotiation with the Dominion Parliament for the surrender of the public domain (within the boundaries of the Province) to the Province and for the withdrawal of the Canadian Pacific Railway tax exemptions.

3. I am in favor of the public ownership of public utilities.

4. I am in favor of the giving of land grants to all defenders of the empire (including members of the R. N. W. M. P.) who are residents in the Province.

5. Iam of opinion that each Local Improvement District should have improvements (in the way of roads and bridges) made therein equal in value to the total amount of taxes collected therefrom and where, by reason of sparcity of population, such taxes are not sufficient to make necessary improvements, I shall urge the government to make up the amount required from the Public funds.

6. I will urge generous but careful expenditure of the public monies towards the legitimate assistance of agriculture and ranching.

7. There is no more important point than Medicine Hat where a traffic bridge should be built. It will be my duty to urge the appropriation of sufficient monies to build such a bridge.

8. I deem it my duty to give my hearty support to all legitimate measures furthering the Labor interests.

9. I am in favor of a fair re-adjustment of the Income Tax.

10. I am in favor of some adjustment of the Mechanic's Lien on buildings.

MASON & RISCH

THE PIANO WITH A SOUL

Mason & Risch Pianos are famous for that peculiar carrying power known as the singing tone. Not all tones classed as musical are music unalloyed. There are certain qualities of tone that are strangely diffusive They carry far and retain their singing character where other tones become indistinct or even lost. A sheet of gold leaf, thinner than the thinnest tissue, will completely block the powerful rays of the strongest searchlight, while the X Rays, merely glowing with a faint light, will penetrate an inch of solid steel. So it is with music: some tones are diffusive and carry, others become more or less absorbed in space. The tone that "carries" the singing tone, is due to perfection of finish and perfect vibratory equilibruim of all the tone producing parts of a piano. It is always a tone of the utmost sweetness and purity. The Mason & Risch Piano is full of "sing" being especially fine in its blendings of the human voice, which it rounds out and sustains in a happy union of melody and harmony. Our literature explains the many points of superiority of the Mason & Risch piano—the piano with a soul. Send for it to-day.

The Gatherer.

Hundreds of years of test cases have not yet elucidated all the possible points of difficulty in the English law says Tit-Bits.

Here is a remarkable problem with which the Blackburn lawyers have just been confromted. An English gentleman had twin sons who were born within a few minutes of each other. He made a will that his property in Australia should go to whichever of the two sons arrived at the age of twenty-one first.

The younger of the two emigrated to Australia whilst the other remained in England, and the former was still at the Antipodes at the time of his coming-of-age. Now, Australian time is some hours in advance of Greenwich, and, therefore, the young man out there was twenty one before his elder brother at home. Which of these two brothers is legally entitled to the property? The question has not yet been decided, and in the meantime readers may exercise their own acumen upon it.

Are eggs eggs, or are only hens hens' eggs eggs? This may seem a ridiculous question, but nice shades of meaning are involved, and a case which turned upon it went through two or three courts of law. A lady sent an order for a dozen eggs to a dairyman and he sent her ducks eggs She sent them back as not being what she ordered, but he refused to take them. She in turn declined to keep them, and, some time elapsing between their journeys from the house to the shop, the eggs went bad and eventually the shopkeeper sued the lady for 1s. 6d.., their value.

The county court judge ordered her to pay, declaring that ducks' eggs were as much eggs as any others; but the lady appealed, and King's Bench reversed the decision on the ground that when a party ordered eggs, hens' eggs were meant, and that if any other contention were admitted any kind of eggs might be sent, such as pigeons', canaries' or even rattlesnakes'. Ducks' eggs it was decided, were not eggs in the ordinary meaning of the term.

Arethe grandchildren of a man also his children? In the legal sense this question is not so absurd as it looks and some time it was most seriouslyand laboriously contended in the courts that according to act of parliament they were.

The particular act in question passed in the reign of the late Queen Victoria, laid it down that "the father and the grandfather, the mother and the grandmother, and the children of any poor person, being of sufficient ability, shall relieve and maintain any such poor person."

The argument was that, according to the context, grandchildren were to be reckoned as children for this purpose, just as grandparents were reckoned as parents. On the other side it was argued that if grandchildren were children then great grand-children were children also, and that a man might in this way be called upon to support his father and mother, his four grand-parents, his eight great- grandparents and as many grandchildren and great-grandchildren as he might be lucky or unlucky enough to possess.

Is skimmed milk milk? A man asked for a glass of milk to drink and was given skimmed milk, and the purveyor was fined for it; but in a higher court the decision was reversed, it being contended at the time that skimmed milk was really much more milk that milk that was not skimmed, since the latter contained something that was not milk at all —that is, cream.

A Canadian farmer, noted for his absent-mindedness, went to town one day and transacted his business with the utmost precision. He started back on his way home, however, with the firm conviction that he had forgotten something—what it was he could not recall, try how he would. As he neared home the conviction increased, and three times he stopped his horse and went carefully through his pocket book in a vain endeavor to discover what he had forgotten. In due course he reached home, and was met by his daughter, who looked at him in surprise and exclaimed, "Why, father, where have you left mother?"—Pall Mall Gazette.

In most every home you will see over the door the legend worked in letters of red: "What is home without a Mother?" God Bless Our Home." Now, what's the matter with "God Bless Our Dad?"

He gets up early, lights the fire, boils an egg, grabs a dinner pail and wipes off the dew of the dawn with his boots while many a mother is sleeping! He makes the weekly handout for the benefit of the grocer, milkman, butcher and baker, and his little pile is badly worn before he has been home an hour. He stands off the bailiff and keeps the rent paid up. If Johnnie needs a new pair of boots "cause he's just walking on the ground," dad goes down in his hip pocket and comes up with the price of a hard day's sweat. If Mary needs a new ribbon for her back hair mother yearns for a new wrapper, and the baby howls for a rattle, down goes dad again and comes up with the coin. But if he buys a new pipe for a quarter because the old one is getting "kinda" strong he is warned that smoking is an expensive habit and men have smoked up blocks and farms and happy homes. When show times arrive dad comes up with the price and ma goes out withthe neighbors and Flora sparks her beau in the parlor. Dad's clothes are none too good so he sits in the kitchen with the kids. If there is a noise during the night he is kicked in the back and madeto go down stairs and find the burglar and kill him.

Mother darns the socks, yes she does, but Dad bought the socks in the first place and the needles and yarn afterwards. Mother does up the fruit. Well, dad bought it all, and jars cost like the mischief. Dad buys chicken for the Sunday dinner, carves it himself and draws the neck from the ruins after everyone else is served.

"What is Home Without aMother?" Yes that is all right. But what is home without a father? Ten to one its a boarding house, father is under a slab, and the landlady is the widow.

Dad, here's to you! You've got your good p oints and they'll miss you when you're gone.

Water In Your Blood.

Lots of people have thin watery blood—they eat plenty but don't digest. When digestion is poor food isn't converted into nourishment—in consequence the body rapidly loses strength. To positively renew health nothing equals Ferrozone. It excites sharp appetite,— makes the stomach digest, forms life sustaining blood. Abundant strength is sure to follow. If you need more vitality, extra energy, better nerves, then use Ferrozone the medical triumph of the age. Fifty cents buys a box of fifty chocolate coated Ferrozone tablets.

LOOKING OVER THE WEST.

A special train arrived at Medicine Hat on Thursday night having on board Sir Thomas Shaughnessy and a party of C. P. R. officials including Mr. Wm. Whyte, Mr. Busteed, Mr. Mathews, of Toronto, a grain broker, and Directors Osler and Angus. Mr. R. B. Jamieson and Mr. J. N. Niblock, western officials, met the party here and accompanied them on an inspection of the new works in progress at the depot and yards. Mayor Forster and Messrs W. Cousins, F. L. Crawford and C. R. Mitchell had a short interview with the party relative to developments at this point.

SHEEP AND WOOL GOSSIP.

WETHERS AND LAMBS REACH THE HIGHEST PRICE OF THE SEASON.

An effort is being made to contract the Montana wool clip of 1906 A resident of Malta informs the River Press that a well known Boston buyer who made several early contracts the past season, is now at Malta and is making offers of 22 cents to some of the local sheepmen.

Sheep buyers appear to be more numerous than sellers, a condition which has resulted in the highest prices of the season. The best sale of the week is reported to the River Press by Jurgen Kuhr, of Chinook, who sold to F. P. Fitzgerald, of Ohio at $2.60 per cwt., mixed wethers at $4.20. Mr. Kuhr also sold to W. E. Gosch, an eastern buyer, about 700 dry ewes at$3.00, with a cut of twenty head at $2.00.

The top lamb price of the week is $2.30 per head, by Wm. Shaw, of Michigan for an ex eptionally good outfit.

J. P. Williams of this city, has bought from Sutherland & Donald, of Culbertson, an outfit of ewes at $2.60 per cwt., mixea wethers at $2.90 per head, and lambs at $2.00.

J. S. Day, of Culbertson, sold to Mr. Bingham, of Michigan, 2,000 lambs at $2.10 with 5 per cent. cut; 1600 wethers at $3.40 per cwt., and 600 dry ewes at $2.15.

Cowell & Beckstead, of Havre, have sold to Weidler & Parham 1500 lambs at $2.20; and to E. Brown, of Ohio, an outfit of yearling wethers at $3.60 per cwt.

Cowan Bros., of Harlem, are reported to have sold 3,500 ewes at $2.90.

A. E. McLeish has purchased about 1,000 wether lambs from Thos. Kinread, of Beatrice, at $2.00 with 5 per cent. cut.

E. P. Cowell, of Chinook, to J. B. Long, 4,500 ewes at $3.00 and 2,700 lambs at $2.00.

H. Osterman, of Big Sandy, to C. Evers, 1,000 wether lambs at $2.00 with 2½ per cent cut.

Jos. Rehal, of Chester, to an Iowa buyer, 1,300 lambs at $2.00.

Weidler & Parham, of Chinook, have purchased from V. Pauly, 2200 stock sheep at $2.65, and have sold about 1,500 ewes, twos and threes, to Henry Jess at $3.25. Weidler & Parham have purchased about 67,000 head of sheep this season, about one-half of which they have sold to other parties, but will winter about 22,000 lambs at Billings.—River Press, Fort Benton, Mon.

Her Skin Was Yellow.

"I had only to try Dr. Hamilton's Pills to appreciate their merit" writes Miss Annie S. Bryce, of Woodstock. My system was out of order. My blood was weak and thin. I had a nasty, murky complexion. My skin was hard and dry. The first box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills made a complete change. I felt better at once. Healthy color came into my face. In about three weeks I was cured." Dr. Hamilton's Pills effect an easy cure. Try these good pills, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00 at all dealers.

CAUGHT THE POACHER.

The Canadian cruiser Vigilant captured the American fishing tug Bertha Cockill, Ecie, Pa., poaching in Canadian waters. The tug attempted to escape but shots across her bow brought her to time.

A STRING OF BEADS FOR AN ESTATE.

In the earlier history of this continent we read of large areas obtained from the Indians in return for a few dollars' worth of colored beads, calico, sugar and some old guns. Much more recently traders have obtained valuable furs in exchange for a little tea and ammunition or a striped blanket.

Some apologists for the Alberta Act seem to think that business can be done with the people of this province on similar terms.

They tell us that the with-holding of the public domain from us is a mere "matte rof business" and that Ottawa is paying us well for the natural resources it seeks to keep in its own possession.

What an idea of "business" have these apologists! And what a wretched estimate of the value of the natural resources of this great province!

Consider the value of the agricultural land alone. According to the government estimate there are in Alberta 162,568,000 acres. In order to make every possible allowance, let us assume that after deducting homestead land, and all areas which for any reason are not available, there were only 20,000,000 acres left. At the low estimate of $8 per acre this would be worth $60,000,000.

Consider also the values of the immense coal areas, and all other minesand minerals, the petroleum, natural-gas, timber and water power throughout an area of 250,000 square miles, rich in such resources and practically untouched. Place the low estimate of $60,000,000 on all this.

We have thus, on an absurdly low estimate, a total of 120,000,000 as the value of the natural resources available for revenue purposes. What do we get in return?

The "compensating" allowance is:

(1) $875,000 per annum until we reach a population of 400,000.

(2) $562,500 per annum until we reach a population of 800,000.

(3) $750,000 per annum until we reach a population of 1,000,000.

(4) Thereafter $1,125,000 per annum.

It will be some years before we reach a population of 1,000,000, or five times what it is now. But even taking the maximum allowance we are then to be given, this is only the interest at 5 per cent. on $22,500,000.

Ottawa takes from us property worth at least $120,000,000. In "compensation'l we are given the interest on $22,500,000 at 5 per cent. —the same rate as in the case of the debtallowance. And we are told that this is a "business proposition."

It is a curious kind of a "business" deal where one party draws up such terms, attempts to impose them on the other without his consent, and then asks to be thanked for his "generosity."

And what compensation is given us for the loss of prosperity and development consequent upon the inevitable incompetence and mismanagement of men two thousand miles away, most of whom have never even seen this province?

Or what compensation do we get for the loss of local liberty and self government in so important a matter, and one which comes home so closely to every man who makes his living here?—Calgary Herald.

FOR HAULTAIN AND HONEST GOVERNMENT.

Winnipeg, Sept. 16.—Hon. Joseph Martin announces that he will give his support to Haultain in the Saskatchewan campaign, and will speak in his interest if asked, because he regards provincial rights, for which Haultain is fighting, as the most vital principal in public life. In Mr. Haultain's long career there is no suggestion of a charge of incompetency, and he has always stood out in the Dominion as an example of the administration of purity. It is now found that agovernor, under instructions from Ottawa is putting him out. This, he thinks, is only another attack upon provincial rights. He would be glad to see the federal government rebuked, and hoped Haultain would be triumphantly returned.

HAS NO FAITH IN EITHER OF THE OLD PARTIES.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 14.—Hon. Joseph Martin, of Vancouver, former M. P. for Winnipeg, addressed a crowded house this evening. He said in all his life he never cast a vote other than a liberal vote, but that he could not follow Sir Wilfred Laurier. Turning to the conservatives he found them no better. Martin then strongly advocated the formation of a third party as the only solution to the problem of Canadian politics.

Peculiar Gun Accident.

As announced in our last issue Messrs. A. J. N. Terrill, H. W. Ireland, and Bud White shipped their canoe to Calgary and travelled themselves by train to that city intending to float down the Saskatchewan river from Calgary to Medicine Hat. They came without mishaps as far as Gliechen where Mr. Ireland left the others and returned to town by train. The other two continued their river trip, but soon an accident of a most peculiar nature happened. The guns and the rifle were under a tarpaulin and suddenly one of the guns was discharged. Most of the charge of the shot was stopped by the thwart, but several pellets entered Bud White's leg. It is conjectured that the rifle fell on the gun which was at half-cock and broke the hammer, setting the gun off. The wound was bound up, the boat headed to shore, where it was secured and the voyagers made for the railway and returned by train to the Hat, reaching here on Friday evening. Mr. White's injured leg was medically attended and three pellets being taken out. We are pleased to state he is doing well and will be able to be out in a few days.

Mr. H. P. Bennetts, manager of the Merchants Bank, paid a visit to Maple Creek on Saturday.

LACROSSE.

The Albertan says in part of the lacrosse match between Medicine Hat and Calgary on Saturday:

The Medicine Hat lacrosse team defeated Calgary twelve in the game at Victoria Park Saturday afternoon by a score of five to four, but the victory was not cinched until the referee's whistle was blown at the close of the last period.

The game was a fairly clean one so far as rough play was concerned, and was fast from the start, and ended in a whirlwind. Bick, who played inside home for Calgary, strained his instep during the first period, and was obliged to retire, Finlay, of Medicine Hat, going to side lines to even matters up.

The scoring commenced seven minutes after play commenced, when Kerns put the rubber through for Medicine Hat. Two minutes later Anderson scored for Calgary, and honors were even for the only time during the game. Kerns again found an opening two minutes later from a close shot on goal, and the first period ended two to one in favor of Medicine Hat. Finally Medicine Hat won by 5 to 4.

The Medicine Hat team were billed as the champions of Alberta. If such is the case, good hard, consistent practice, can bring the championship to Calgary, because there should be no doubt about the result of a second game between the two teams, if the local players had more practice together.

A. P. McQueen was referee, and made an excellent official. There was very little attempt at rough work, and he found it necessary to penalize three men, giving Graham, McDonald and Preston short rests on the side lines.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 26 1905.

Frenzied Finance.

The space on our Editoral page, is too limited and too valuable to be filled with the subject now under discussion between ourselves and the News, when carried on from week to week and we have removed the matter to our sixth page. Those interested will find on that page observations we have in reply to the last outburst by our contemporary.

The Flambeau.

Said a gentleman from Indiana to the Editor of the Times on the station platform on Friday morning.

"We wasted our gas and it played out. We allowed people to burn flambeaux here and there and it soon let our gas out."

If that was the experience of Indiana shall we allow it to be repeated here?

Disciplining Youthful Offenders.

We think our two local Justices adopted a wise course when they decided to inflict corporal punishment upon the three halfbreed boys who broke into the slaughter houses, destroyed a carcase of a sheep and carried away a rifle and some knives. The boys ranged from 8 to 15 years and imprisonment should, in our opinion be the last resort for children of such tender years. The Justices dealt with them under the youthful offenders act and instead of being sent to prison the boys were birched. It is true the Justices inflicted a fine and a very heavy one—the full penalty of $20 for each offence, in fact—but that was done to bring the parent to reason, as according to Canadian law the boys could not be birched without the parent's consent. This was reluctantly given, but it was only the amount of the fine which at last drew the fathers consent as he could not pay and had no alternative out to agree. Justice Benson informs us that the bench gave the father the option of paying the fine, and punishing the boys himself, or permitting the police to do the birching After a while he consented and in the presence of the Justices, Inspector Parker, the Chief of Police and a representative of the father, the birching was administered by Sergt. Quinn. The small boy received six lashes, the 10 year old recieved 10 lashes and the 15 year old lad was given a few more than ten. This should prove a warning to all boys to behave themselves at all times and not to destroy or purloin other people's property.

Conserve the Gas.

We have on several occasions pointed out the importance to the town of conserving our natural gas and we therefore point out that the flambeau which is burned every night near the station is a very wasteful method of advertising. It has been stated that this flambeau has been put up without the knowledge or consent of the gas commissioners and if so it is a wrong proceeding. We doubt if the commissioners would have consented to it. That, however, is a matter for the council. At any rate it should be stopped and some better method adopted. For instance a model engine might be got and fixed up in a case and run by natural gas, so as to show the gas in use. It is the use not the abuse of the gas that the town should advertise on all hands. To continue to burn the flambeau is much worse than if we cut a hole in our water pipe and let the water down to the river again to show what a splendid water supply we have. We suggest to the council, in all seriousness, that this flambeau business should be stopped.

The City Engineer.

As certain people have laboriously circulated and fostered a rumour that The Times has "gone back" on the position it took a good many months ago on the city engineer question, a word or two may not be out of place at the present juncture. We wish to state most emphatically that we stand by every word we have said upon the subject. Furthermore we repeat that for a town to carry on extensive public works involving an expenditure of a quarter million dollars without having at the head a thoroughly qualified man is simply municipal madness of the worst kind. What company of private individuals, let us ask again, would seek to carry on a big concern capitalised at such an amount, without placing at its head a man versed in each department of its business? What body of shareholders would for a moment expect their directors gratuitously to attend to every detail of a work they were not fitted for and for which they have not the time? What body of shareholders would permit it? Where would you find level-headed directors who would accept it for any length of time? We answer without fear of contradiction that the thing would be impossible, or if attempted, would end in shipwreck. We then as a town, as shareholders in our great municipal corporation, should not expect or attempt it It is the duty of the town to insist upon such an appointment being made, so that the conncil may know were they stand. An engineer is wanted to take hold of the town's municipal works, to take his place in fact on the bridge of our ship, to navigate her, manage her crew and take care of her cargo. We have been and are in favor of a thoroughly competent engineer for Medicine Hat.

New York Fairy Tales.

Now that Canadian manufacturers have seen some of the best English factories, they are wondering how they came to believe the New York tales so often told in the Canadian press of the decadence of industrial England, says the Canadian Gazette. The opinion of Mr. C. C. Ballantyne, Vice-Chairman of the Montreal branch of the Canadian manufacturer's Association, is worth nothing. He says:—"The most interesting things to us perhaps were the different manufacturing industries, which in Great Britain have attained a degree of perfection. We had every facility placed at our disposal for visiting and studying the various industries, and I want to say that anyone who says Great Britain is at all behind the times, so far as manufacturing is concerned, speaks from lack of knowledge, and because he is not conversant with the facts. Nowhere was there the least visible sign of decadence. The excursion will serve to make Canada and her products better known in the Old Country, and it will bind the Mother Country and Canada more closely together than ever. When we left here we accounted ourselves good subjects of the Empire, but we returned much more loyal than when we started.

Peculiar State of Affairs.

Lloydminster is divided into two factions since the Territorial act creating the new provinces was passed. The boundary and meridian line passes through the town by the main street, one side of which is in Alberta and the other in the new province of Saskatchewan.

The other night the Albertans made a midnight sortie, and removed the post office building intact over to their side of the line, thinking it safe to do so if they wanted their part called Lloydminster. One side or the other will have to change their name.

It is also stated that the C.N.R. runs through the town on this line, cutting through the centre of the main street. As the railway owns every other lot on the street, the merchants and builders say they cannot build a decent block because of the fact that they are "held up," the railway apparently not wishing to dispose of their lots.

We see a hot time ahead for Lloydminster.

GROS VENTRE NOTES

On Sept. 11th, our district sustained a great loss in the death of Mrs. Alexander. She had resided amongst us for several years, and was widely known and highly respected. Her eldest daughter, a trained nurse attended her in her last illness. The remains were interred in St. Alban's cemetery. Rev. J. W. Morrow, of the Presbyterian Church, conducted the services at her late residence and the Rev. H. V. Lewis-Hooper, English Church, at the grave. She leaves a husband, four daughters and five sons to mourn her loss.

This is the first interment at St. Alban's Churchyard.

The hum of the threshing machine is heard in our midst and the way men are rushing up granaries and teaming grain to town makes one think the mill at Medicine Hat is all right. Then there are droves of fat cattle and bands of sleek horses on every ranch. Surely this is a prosperous district.

Mr. Earl and son are doing the threshing on the creek. So far, they have only been using horse power but the grain is so much heavier than they expected, that they are under the necessity of purchasing a traction engine. Yet some would say that this locality is not suitable for farming

Messrs Lindsay, Putnam, McFadden Grayson and others are clubbing together and shipping a train load of export cattle.

WANDERING WILLIE.

What Causes Snoring.

When asleep people that snore breathe through the mouth instead of the nostrils which are choked with catarrh. Just use Catarrhozone before retiring and you will quickly cure the snoring habit. By destroying the cause of Catarrh and healing the membranes, Catarrhozone makes a complete cure in every case; it cleans the nostrils, stops the discharge and prevents dropping in the throat in a few minutes. Nothing so pleasant or certain to cure snoring, catarrh or colds as Catahhozone—that's worth remembering.

SCHOOL BOARD.

A meeting of the School Board was held on Monday, 18th inst. Present: Messrs W. J. Brotherton, (chairman), D. Milne, and Rev. W. Nicolls.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and confirmed.

A letter was read from Miss T. Davidson asking to be relieved from her engagement.

It was moved by Mr. Milne that the Board were not in a position to relieve her before they secure theservices of a permanent teacher. Carried.

It was moved by Mr. Nicolls that Miss Itae be engaged as probationary teacher on the staff from Oct. 1st for a period of three months.

DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES.

A new departure was made this year in the matter of distributing the prizes won at the annual meeting of the Medicine Hat Rifle Association, the prizes being publicly presented in the Opera House. The event was also made the occasion of a capital musical programme being presented. The new departure has much to commend it and will probably result in helping to make the Association still more popular in the district.

It should be mentioned that this year the Rifle meeting came off under the combined auspices of the Canadian Mounted Rifles and the Rifle Association which thus gave it greater scope and deepened interest in the occasion.

The distribution took place on Friday evening and the large Opera House was well filled the fair sex predominating, an evidence that they are much interested.

Mr. Jas. E. Loucks conducted the proceedings most ably, everything passed off exceedingly well the audience being kept interested for fully two hours.

In opening theproceedings Mr. Loucks said that they would all regret to hear that Miss Walton who had worked so hard to make the ladies day a success and who had been asked to distribute the prizes, was ill and unable to attend. The Committee had, therefore, been compelled to endeavor to induce some other lady to take her place and of course the situation, as all would readily understand, was a somewhat difficult one. They had, however, succeeded in finding a lady who had kindly consented to help them over the difficulty. Mrs. J. C. Richards had very kindly consented to d stribute the prizes and he would ask her to come to thep latform.

Mrs. Richards was then escorted to the platform by Capt. Parker, of the R.N.W.M. Police and gracefully handed out the various prizes in the ladies match as the names of the winners were called out by Mr. Loucks. This over Mr. Loucks gave way to

Mr. R. D. Legh, the secretary of the Association who read the list of prizes and the names of the winners and then went on to say that he was well pleased to see such a large gathering and especially such a large number of ladies present. When the Minister of Militia was here the other day the Association asked for more rifles, but they were informed that they could not be allowed more rifles until they had more members. He (speaker would like to appeal to the young men of Medicine Hat to come forward and join the Rifle Association. Rifles were supplied free by the government and ammunition was sold at a very cheap rate. All who joined had to sign for three years under the Militia Reserve Act They could not be sent away but were liable to be called upon to defend the country and he believed if they were called upon the Medicine Hat Rifle Association would give a good account of themselves. (Applause). He regretted they hadn't more young men among them. In th? Territorial Rifle Association meeting there were not six men under 25 years of age, and several were over 50. He would be pleased to take the names of any young men wishing to join. He stated that he had that morning received a letter (which he read) from Mrs. Kisch, mother of their late comrade, R. D. Kisch, from Durban, South Africa, in acknowledgement of a letter of a letter of condolence sent her by the Association upon her son's death. Mr. Legh spoke highly of his late friend, saying Kisch was ever ready to tell a man on the range anything about w,ndage or elevation, and hav: ing done that he could turn round and beat them all. Hear hear.)

Mr. Loucks then took charge of the meeting and the following musical programme was rendered.

Song	Mr. G. Sullivan
Pianoforte Solo	Miss White
Song	Mr. W. J. Brotherton
Selection	Pleyel Sextette
Piano duett...	Misses White & Mullins
Song	Mrs. McCarter
Pianoforte Solo	Miss Nesbitt
Solo	Mr. Crompton

Nearly every number was encored.

Major F. O. Sissons made a short speech in which he said he would like to see some more young men come forward to join the Rifle Association It was an institution the country might well be proud of. He thought the policy of the government in organising these associations throughout the country was one of the best policies they could be guided by. (Applause.) He wished to make a strong appeal to young men to come out and join the Rifle Association. (Anplause.)

Mayor Forster was called to the platform and made a few appropriate remarks. It was understood he appealed to the young men to come forward to join the Association.

Hon. W. T. Finlay expressed the pleasure he felt at being present and was glad to be a patron of the club. He quite approved of the method adopted this year in the distribution of prizes and it would do good he felt sure. Now they had two Provinces in the West which he hoped would result in further encouraging Rifle Associations. They had as good shots in the west as anywhere and while he congratulated the prize winners he would say to those who had not won—Faint heart never won fair lady. Try again. (Applause).

A selection by the Pleyel Sextette and a fine old Southern song by Mrs. D. T. Flavin concluded the proceedings which were most successful.

The accompaniments were played by Mrs. C. F. Smith, Miss Nesbitt, Miss White, Miss Mullins and Miss Parker.

GOOD CLOTHES TALK

There are no exaggerated changes in styles for the current season. Perhaps when it is noted in a general way that the collars and lapels of coats are made a little wider and less peaked than formerly, and that sacks are a little longer than last season, there is not much else to be said in the way of description regarding coats over and above what will appear from a study of the plates shown by the 20th CENTURY TAILORED CLOTHING. It will be observed that sacks are still made medium fitting, following the form of the wearer in slight degree only. The prevailing style will show a vent of fairly good length either in centre or side seams of sacks. Trousers are cut with a slight spring over the instep. Vests continue to show a long drooping point from lower button. One great thing that 20th CENTURY BRAND TAILORED CLOTHING teaches the public is to pay less and dress better.

The fact there are about 12 to 15 typhoid cases in town is somewhat disquieting, but very few of them originated here, most of the patients being railway men who go and down the line and probably picked up the infection at outside points. At the same time it will be well for all to take precautions. Dr. Smith, the health officer, recommends that residents who have no filters should boil water intended for drinking purposes and he also advises that those who have filters should boil them about twice a week. The number of cases has been a little exaggerated, but an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, hence the above suggestions.

On Monday next Rev. Mr. Stillwell, Miss Stillwell, and Miss McLeod, three veteran Baptist missioners to India will be present at a missionary meeting in the Baptist Church. GUN ACCIDENT.

A section man named Buckly met with an accident an Sunday afternoon in which he had a very lucky escape. A companion was handling a 22 rifle, which was loaded, and somehow it went off and the bullet struck Buckly in the left side. The gun was only about four feet from him when it went off. He came in at once to the hospital where Dr. Smith took him in hand. The doctor found that the bullet struck a rib and, instead of entering the man's body, glanced round and lodged under the skin in his back. It was extracted and the man is doing all right.

WM. YULE'S COMPANY.

This popular company is billed for the Opera House, for two nights, Sept. 28th and 29th. They have a splendid repertoire of one act plays and have the knack of keeping things going.

To say that the audience who listened to Dr. P. D. John's lecture on "The Worth of Man," last night, were pleased would be putting it mildly. The lecture exceeded all that had been expected of him. His eloquence and the clearness of his irresistible logic held the attention of his hearers from first to last. Dr. John seemed to sway his hearers at will. There was many a laugh and many a serious thought. His subject for to-night is "Did Man make God or God make Man."

Rev. T. C. Buchanan, Supt. of Missions for Alberta Conference will preach in the Century Methodist Church on Oct. 1st.

BASEBALL MATCH.

The much talked of baseball match between the Maroons, Winnipeg's representatives in the Northern league, and the local team took place yesterday. That the Maroons would win was, of course, a foregone conclusion, but not many people anticipated such an easy time, for they won practically as they pleased by 16 runs to 8. The management of the locals reported having secured some fast outsiders to strengthen the team viz. Messrs Regan, Curry and Irwin of Maple Creek. Regan did good work around first base and contributed a home run to the score. Curry also did good work at the bat. Dalquist started in to pitch for the Maroons but the locals took to him like a duck to water and after he had passed four men hit one and allowed three hits, one for four sacks, Manager Gatewood substituted Harris. Barker and Sullivan did the pitching for the home team and Sullivan and Regan the receiving. Five home runs were made during the game, Piper getting two, Leighty one, O'Hara one, and Regan one. The Maroons worked a nice double in the third. O'Hara hit two long fouls and then waited for four wild ones, he purloined second. Curry, who was next to bat hit to Leighty who gathered it in and threw to first and Green returned it in time to catch O'Hara going to third. In the eighth with the bases full and two men out, Gatewood sent a nasty one to O'Hara who picked it up and whipped it to first cutting the runner off by a foot. Lack of space prevents a more detailed report of the game. Mr. D. T. Flavin held the indicator and the batting order of the teams was as follows:

Maroons—Piper centre; Gatewood 2nd base; Leighty s.s; Harris 3rd base; Tucker l. field; Green 1st. base; Sporor r. field; Dalquist p; Harkness c.

Medicine Hat—Regan 1st base; Irwin 3rd base; Tweed 2nd base; O'Hara s. s; Curry lt. field; Binnings centre; Quinlan rt. field; Barker p; Sullivan c.

The Ladies' of St. Barnabas' Church will hold their next sewing meeting on Thursday October the 12th at Mrs. Kealy's.

OBITUARY.

Two deaths occurred last week the news of which came with painful suddenness.

One was the death of Mr Geo. McMillan, of Calgary, brother of Messrs. Sam and McMillan of this town, who had been ill but a short time with typhoid fever.

The other was the case of a young man named John Carter, who had been a resident here for a couple of years or so, and had been employed on Mr. J. A. Grant's well drilling outfit. A sad circumstance in connection with the latter is that he had been married only about two months. He was taken ill about a month after his marriage, and died at the hospital last week. His brother came up from Sidney, Man., and attended to the funeral arrangements.

GEORGIA MINSTRELS.

Richards and Pringle's famous Georgia Minstrels will appear in the Opera House on Thursday, October 5th when the Medicine Hat folks may look for a thorough evening's enjoyment.

Peaches and pears for preserving are about over. Order at once at Cooks.

MASON & RISCH

THE PIANO WITH A SOUL

Mason & Risch Pianos are famous for that peculiar carrying power known as the singing tone. Not all tones classed as musical are musically employed. There are certain qualities of tone that are strangely diffusive unalloyed. They carry far and retain their singing character where other tones become indistinct or even lost. A sheet of gold leaf, thinner than the thinnest tissue, will completely block the powerful rays of the strongest searchlight, while the X-rays, merely glowing with a faint light, will penetrate an inch of solid steel. So it is with music: some tones are diffusive and carry, others become more or less absorbed in space. The tone that "carries" the singing tone, is due to perfection of finish and perfect vibratory equilibrium of all the tone producing parts of a piano. It is always a tone of the utmost sweetness and purity. The Mason & Risch Piano is full of "sing" being especially fine in its blendings of the human voice, which it rounds out and sustains in a happy union of melody and harmony. Our literature explains the many points of superiority of the Mason & Risch piano—the piano with a soul. Send for it to-day.

The Satherer.

Josh Billings once said: "Success in life is apt to make us forget the time when we wussn't much. It's jist so with the frog on the jump. He kant remember when he was a tadpole but other folks can."

Our proneness to rise in the world without having to furnish the baking powder is but a trait of human character that stands out on some men like the horn of the rhinoceros. They either depend upon political pulls or the death of rich relations to boost them into prominence.

None of us like to admit making mistakes, but we are all guilty nevertheless. The man who don't know enough to realize when he is wrong will never succeed in the world. Experience is the only school and no man can be blamed for making a mistake once in a while, but to make the same mistake the second time shows poor judgement.

One of the striking things about some men is their self-importance. Once in a while you will find a fellow whose early education has been neglested, and who had often roasted in a hay pile at home, putting on free niggar airs when riding in a Pullman. Set it down for a fact that the fellow who wants the porter to pay more attention to brushinghim down than he does to the rest of the car, at home is gladtoget beansoup without the explosives.

The young ladies who have been going bareheaded this season will learn with dismay that the practice introduced into the American cities and in general vogue there some three years ago, is being abandoned, as those practising it have found that the hair dries out, becomes brittle and falls out or turns greyprematurely. The fashion is now tending not only to the resumption of headgear, but to the rather heavy veiling of some years ago.

TIRED TIM.

WHAT ALBERTA FOUR WILL DO.

"Yes, I think that in time Vancouver should be the port of exportfor a large amount of flour manufactured from the fall wheat of Alberta. That district is now doing very well in the production of grain—something like two millionbushels this year, I think, and as time goes on the amount will increase. While doubtless the irrigation now being made possible by the C. P. R. in Southern Alberta will lead to a large increase in the acreage under fall wheat, a large variety of other possible agricultural products will also be produced in the irrigation belt. The wheat grown this year has been cultivated on land not irrigated.

"The natural market for this fall wheat, a soft variety, is in the Orient and the natural outlet to that market is through Vancouver. I have no doubt that Vancouver will come into prominence as a flour shipping port. Its flour shipments now are very important, but the trouble is that the flour comes from the Americanside of the line.

"Vancouver would have been a great flour shipper ten years ago and the province of British Columbia a heavy producer of wheat had it not been for the outrageous labor legislation of this province, which has prevented the introduction of labor here and so made it impossible to clear the land for agricultural purposes."—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy.

NEW HOSE WAGON.

The new hose wagon ordered last summer through Mr. Avery has arrived from Guelph and was unloaded last Tuesday. It was built by Reid & Ross, carriage builders, Guelph, Ontario, and is a wagon of which any town might be proud. The building of this wagon has helped to advertise Medicine Hat as the Guelph papers published long discriptions of it and the manner of its shipment. Mr. Ross, one of the builders, writing to Mr. Ira Doane, thus describs the "send off":

"The firemen here were all down and inspected it before it left and the Chief asked when we would ship it. we told him, and he said: 'Well now if you will let me, I'd like to take our fire team and draw it to the station for you. We took his offer, and he and the driver came down with the horses, and Bob and Jack and I got on with them. When we got to the fire hall we were inspected by the crowd again and then the Chief said: "Now let her go," and the driver struck the gong with his foot and by the stars if we did not go up town flying. I'd guarantee no rig ever built got such an advertising as the "Medicine Hat Fire Department" wagon got here. The Chief was more than proud of the honor of having the first run on a wagon going to the glorious west".

The wagon is thoroughly modern and isfitted up with all the usual appliances. It is light and easy running and our fire boys are proud of it as well they might be for it is without doubt quite up to the kind in use in eastern towns and is probably the very best in thewest today. Councillor DesBrisay, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee has evidently made a good selection.

How to Cure Toothache.

Any aching tooth can be releived instantly with Nerviline. Fill the cavaity with batting dipped in Nerviline and rub the gums with Nerviline also. If the face is swollen and sore bathe the painful parts with Nerviline and cover with a flannel. This can't fail because Nerviline kills the pain outright and prevents it from returning. THE WITCH OF CRAGENSTONE.

BY ANITA CLAY MUNOZ.

Synopsis of Chapters I and II.

For the benefit of subscribers who did not read the opening chapters of our new serial story we append the following synopsis.

Josiah Taunston lived with his mother, Mistress Taunston and his sister Hetty, in a low rambling farm house built of logs and cement near the English villiage of Cragenstone. They were living in Puritan times and Josiah and his mother were strict and severe Puritans. Hetty was not quite so Puritanical in her ways and speech and was often sharpley reprimanded for her high spirits. She has a sweetheart named Simon Kempster.

Adjoining the Taunston homestead are the stone house and valuable lands of Margaret Mayland, Josiah's cousin. Margaret whose father is dead, has spent some years living with an aunt in "gay Paris," and Mistress Taunston and Josiah have many misgivings as to the effect of the "wicked city" upon her. They decide that when she comes home it will be their duty to "direct her endeavors". Josiah has been a faithful steward during Marharet's absence, but he yearns to own the property and has an idea that he will marry Margaret.

At the time the story opens Margaret is expected home. She arrives unexpectedly, smartly dressed, and at the first meeting Josiah rebukes her for levity and fine clothes. Pleading fatigue Margaret sends Josiah away. Josiah goes slowly home muttering: Worse, far worse, than I expected. Much devil's work to be undone. Our cousin has a comely face enough, and methought after my first words of admonition she appeared more gentle and less boldenish in her manner, and so silent was she toward the last I doubt not that my speech impressed her. A good example, constant and much sound advice is what a woman so young and worldly minded doth require."

Josiah solemnly walked home.

For continuation of this deeply interesting story see page four of this issue.

STEWART, CLARK & CO. DISSOLVE

NEW FIRM FORMED.

Stewart, Clark & Co., one of the best known business houses in the West, dissolved last week by mutual consent. Mr. James Clarke retiring. The business will be continued by Mr. Henry Stewart and Mr. Harry L. Tweed under the business title of Stewart & Tweed. It is hardly necessary to say that the future transactions of the firm will, as in the past, be characterised by strict integrity and by that business enterprise which has placed them in the first rank of western retail houses.

MILK FEVER AND ITS TREATMENT.

Milk fever is often times a source of serious loss to farmers and especially to those who have milch cows that are great milk producers. A bulletin has recently been issued on this subject from the pen of Dr. A. S. Alexander, the veterinarian of the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment station. It gives the following bearing on the cause of milk fever: "The exact cause of milk fever has not been determined but Dr. J. points out that the disease may be due to poisonous products derived from tissue changes taking place in the udder. While experience teaches that certain conditions apparently render a cow of the proper age particularly susceptible, a few of these aggravating causes are hot, badly ventilated, filthy stables, heavy feeding upon grain foods right up to the time of calving; lack of exercise;excessive use of succulent foods; sudden plethora induced by new grass in spring; heredity; immediate and complete removal of the first milk produced after calving or immediate removal of the new born calf."

The following is recommended as suitable treatment for cows attacked with milk fever: "Give no drenches or medicines by the mouth. Strip away the milk, wash the udder clean with warm water and soap, adding Zenoleum to make a two per cent. solution This done, place the udder upon a clean rubber sheet to prevent soiling. By means of a 5-foot length of quarter-in rubber hose, in one end of which has been inserted a large milking tube, and in the other a glass funnel, infuse very slowly into each teat in turn half a pint of a milk warm solution of 2 drachms of iodide of potash in one quart of fresh boiled water; then rub the udder once an hour until the liquid has been absorbed."

Thousands Die of Constipation.

No condition causes so many incurable diseases as constipation. It not only ptevents the kidneys from eliminating the poisonous wastes, but causes anaemia, stomach trouble and indigestion. Why won't you use Dr. Hamilton's Pills and get cured? This excellent medicine restores normal bowel action in one night. Thousands say so. Your system will be pure and clean, you'll be free from headaches, no more sour stomach—in short you'll have jovial spirits and perfect good health. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are sold everywere, 25c. a box. Get the genuine.

Everybody Reads The Times

EARL SEES THE REAL THING.

The Governor-General of Canada, Lady Grey and suite, now touring the west, saw some real western "Broncho Busting" during their visit to Cardston last week. The Free Press correspondent thus describes the event:

Our illustrious visitors after the reception drove a short distance to the baseball ground, and taking seats in the grand stand had a good view of a wild western practice nowsoon to pass away, a bucking contest among some of our best riders. The first that was turned loose, an iron grey, took a straight shoot across the grounds, pitching as he went, but not very severly. The next was a bay, who took some time to saddle beinginclined to kick from behind or box with his forefeet. After a little manoeuvring the saddle was adjusted, his rider climbed aboard and there was something doing, for this horse pitched high and was hard to steer. He very nearly upset the orderly ranks of the police escort, then ran into a buggy and pair, dashed about the grounds, but the board fence was too much for him on the east side, so he turned across the ground again, leaping skyward many feet in the air, humped up well and all four feet striking the ground hard atthe same time, with his nose down between his toes. He next ran into a patch of timber before his rider could turn him, but was later brought back to the grand stand, where the rider dismounted and was loudly applauded. The next, a sorrel had his forelegs tied together and held with a lariat till his rider got aboard, when he proved to be what the cowpuncher calls one of the "winding and weaving sort," not jumping so high, but twisting and going sideways, jumping round in the air, and landing with his head where his tail had come from; trying to jerk his rider loose, a very difficult horse to sit if not quite so sensational. None of the boys were thrown and they provided quite an interesting exhibit. His excellency, thinking he had given the boys work enough, rose and took his leave, shaking hands with each of the riders in turn and complimenting them upon their prowess. The riders were three brothers, Dave Austin, Jim Austin and Lee Austin. Earl Grey and Lady Grey then went to their carriage, and again escorted by the Mounted Police, they drove rapidly to the station and left at 3.15 for Raymond

WILL IT CURE ME?

That's the personal question a woman asks herself when she reads of the cures of womanly diseases by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Why shouldn't it cure her?

Is it a complicated case? Thousands of such cases have been cured by "Favorite Prescription." Is it a condition which best doctors have declared incurable? Among the hundreds of thousands of sick women cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription there are a great many who were pronounced incurable by local doctors. Wonders have been worked by "Favorite Prescription" in the cure of irregularity, weakening drains, inflammation, ulceration and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures.

"I commenced taking your medicine, 'Favorite Prescription,' nearly a year ago for chronic inflammation of womb, and can truly say it is the only thing that ever did me any good," writes Mrs. L. C. Wagner, of 125 Edwin Street, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. "I could not walk any distance before using it. After taking six bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' I find I can walk without difficulty and am greatly benefited in general health. I would advise all suffering women to use Dr. Pierce's medicine."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the Original Little Liver Pills, first put up over forty years ago by old Dr. R. V. Pierce. They've been much imitated but never equaled. Smallest, easiest to take and best. They're tiny, sugar-coated, anti-bilious granules, a compound of refined and concentrated vegetable extracts. Without disturbance or trouble, constipation, indigestion, biliousness, attacks, sick and bilious headaches, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels are prevented, relieved and cured. Permanently cured, too. By their mild and natural action, these little pellets gently rear the system into natural ways again. Their influence lasts.

The Officers and soldiers of the local corps of the Salvation Army are busy collecting for their annual Harvest Festival, which takes place from Sept. 23rd to 26th. The amount to be raised is $110.00. We wish them every success.

What a pleasure a looking glass is and to what a large number of uses a mirror may be put. There is a story told of a man, who was sick, sending for his doctor. When the doctor came he ordered the sick man some whisky. "Oh," he answered, "I never use whisky at all." "But," said the doctor, "when you are going to shave just take a little to steady your nerves." The man said "Well, I will try that." When he shaved without liquor once a week was all he cared to shave, but when using the whisky drink, it commenced with every other day, but soon grew to be every day, and sometimes to be even twice a day, so that his son went to the doctor and complained that his father must be crazy he was shaving so often.

But in the Bible there is a part which says "A man beholding his natural face in a mirror. But whoso looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein he being not a forgetful hearer but a doer of the work, this man shall be blessed in his deed."

FRENZIED FINANCE.

Having as the lawyers say removed the venue from our Editorial to our news columns we feel we have a little more elbow room and more freedom of expression. We are pleased indeed to find the News has given us an opportunity od continuing the discussion because it would have been a pity to have dropped the mattee justwhen it was getting interesting. We wish it to be understood however that this is just as much editorial as if it appeared on the usual page. We have simply removed the venue of the case to more commodious premises, where we shall at least have room to shake off the abusive terms which the News were good enough to heap upon our back last week and the week before.

o

The public have no doubt not failed to notice that the News ignores Ex-Mayor Hutchinson in the matter This by way of a preliminary remark

o

We have no doubt the general public noticed that the News acknowledged a portion of the figures given by Mr. Hutchinson as correct. They admitted that $418.27 (gas) and $1842.00 (water) should be offset against the overdraft of $9206.98 and they endeavored to make a point by stating that the sums are authorised by the report of the auditors. The public no doubt also noticed the News made no reference to the other three items,

We do not intend they should be dropped. Mr. Hutchinson raised the figures and we would point out to the News that all the items given by Mr. Hutchinson in our last issue were also copied from the auditors report. The News, however, shirked the point and we will draw their attention to the fact that the total offset to the overdraft is $7343.01 as we will presently show, not simply $2260.27 as they have it. We contend with Ex-Mayor Hutchinson that the following items must also be taken into account:

Gas and Water revenue ...	$366.46
Arrears of taxes	830.07
Cash on hand	157.68

The above leaves an overdraft of only $2,297.50 and if the News desires to give Mr. Hutchinson's Council fair play they will acknowledge that their figuring was wrong.

Then there was an item of $453.53 due from and afterwards paid in by theclerk to cover an error. That too if we understand the matter, should be set off against the overdraft and this would bring it down still further viz to $1868.97.

o

The alleged overdraft of $9206.98 has been quoted two or three times previously by the present Mayor notably when the estimates for this year were before the Council and in common fairness to his predecessor we consider he should withdraw and correct his figures, make the point goodor make an unequivocal withdrawal.

o

"Nothing but the figures will have a satisfying effect upon the ratepayers" said the News. Just so, and we invite the News to give the figures,the whole figures and nothing but the figures.

o

But isn't it great fun to see how the News wriggles round and round to avoid coming into direct contact with Ex-Mayor Hutchinson. We have already explained twice to the News that the figures were not ours that they were Mr. Hutchinson's, but still the self-inflicted scales are thick upon their editorial eyes.

o

"Let the author of Times 'Frenzied Finance' put the figures on local finance before the ratepayers and see wherein they will differ from the figures in the News last week." So said the News. Well, just to show that we are willing to oblige here they are.

Overdraft $9206 against which the following amounts due should be offset.

Gas and water revenue...	$3661.46
Arrears of taxes	830.07
Gas permanent, and due..	418.27
Water permanent and due	1842.00
Cash on hand	157.68
Paid in by Clerk	433.53
Total	7343.01

And let us add in the words of the News: "This is the showing of auditors Blytho and Gilbert."

o

Now we think the ratepayers will "see wherin they will differ." Just a little matter of five thousand and sixty three dollars.

Note & Comment.

[By OBSERVER.]

People all over the town are hoping to see the Council go on with granolithic sidewalks, but it is questionable if it would be at all wise to do anything this fall. Permanent sidewalks are something that should be well done, so that they may last the best part of a generation, so it won't do to take any chances. but every preparation could be made to begin early next spring. Hot weather seems to be necessary to secure the best results, and that is what we want.

♣ ♣ ♣

Were you over the victim of an ennui so terrible that you wondered whyyou went on living? Of course you were:—

Nothing to do but work;
Nothing to eat but food,
Nothing to wear but clothes,
To keep one from going nude.
Nothing to breathe but air:
Quick as a flash it's gone;
Nowhere to fall but off,
Nowhere to stand but on.
Nothing to comb but hair;
Nowhere to sleep but in bed;
Nothing to weep but tears;
Nothing to bury but dead.
Nothing to sing but songs
Ah, well; alas! alack!
Nowhere to go but out;
Nowhere to come but back.
Nothing to quench but thirst;
Nothing to have but what we've got.
Thus through life we're accursed.
Nothing to strike but a gait;
Everything moves that goes;
Nothing at all but common sense
Can ever withstand these woes.

"Alexandra" is the name given to the new private car for the Governor-General, which has just been completed at Amherst, Nova Scotia. Its appointments are most sumptuous, and it is claimed that it rivals any car hitherto put into service on the American Continent. It is finished inside and outside in mahogany, with walls and ceilings of inlaid panels, and contains a drawing-room and observation room at one end, a dining-room, kitchen and three sleeping compartments, together with a bath room at the other end. The measurements of the car are as follows: Total length, 79 feet; width, 9 feet 10 inches.

During the past few weeks two young girl travellers have reached Canada safely from England. The elder of the two, aged nine, travelled all the way from Liverpool to British Columbia by herself, and, to prevent her going astray a red ribbon with a little gold padlock and tag bearing her name and destination had been fastened round her neck. The other traveller, who came from York, was still younger, being only five; but she had not quite so far to go, as her destination was St. Thomas, Ontario. In each case the Canadian railway officials did all that was possible to ensure the safety of their youthful charges.

The following pleasing incident is being told in Montreal relative to the visit of Rear-Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg to that city:—A little woman stepped up to the prince with the few ladies who paid their personal respects, and his Serene Highness took her outstretched hand. Then she coyly laid her hand upon the cuff of his coat, and looking up, said: "Prince, I came hundreds of miles to see you!" "That was very good of you," quickly came the polite reply, and the Prince added: "And I came thousands of miles to see you."

Well now for people who are "not bothering about it very much" (not very much) the News came out pretty good last week. As they are not "bothering very much", (not very much), they only devoted a column and a half to the Times. It makes one wonder how much they would write if they "bothered very much".

Valeat quantum valere potest.

And they really despise the Dictionary. Well, well. Just fancy. The experience of most people, and educated people too, is that they find a dictionary a very useful sort of a book, but as the News people are not "bothering very much" about the meaning of words why it would be just so much more bother to bother about it, especially if they "bothered very much" about the bothering thing.

Carried. Nemine contradicente.

"Use like familiarity breeds contempt" in the mind of the News man At least so he says. But what a very very funny way he has of showing it? It took a column and a half to tell us that he feels a deeply rooted, firmly seated, heavily anchored, armour plated contempt bred of familiarity. But 'twa not of the silent kind.

In loose familiar strains,
Be thou familiar but by no means vulgar.

Then he says: "We don't give a continental". Well, man alive, give something better then, and don't make such a fuss about it. Small contributions are thankfully received and larger ones not refused—at either of the Churches, or the Hospital. By all manner of means give as much as you like. If that won't suit give it to the Salvation Army who always welcome the erring ones. Try again.

Nil desperandum.

The brilliant, high toned reference to "hollering" and such things is very entertaining, and his Demosthenic declamatory peroration to the anonymous writer finds expression in the classic phrase "Sneak out into the light!"

O tempora! O Mores!! O dam!!!

Communications.

The Editor is not responsible for the opinions of his correspondents nor does he always agree with them.

To the Editor of The Times

Sir,

As a regular reader of both your paper and the "News" might I express the wish of myself and many others that you cease the contest of wits, in so far as personalities between the two of you are concerned? I can assure you that for ordinary abuse, and the use of the worst slang you can readily give the palm to your rival without in the least hurting your own circulation. The question of whether you have altered your opinion regarding the immediate engagement of an engineer is important in so far as whether your readers believe your explanation or not, but the abuse of the "News" in this respect would not make us disbelieve you; on the contrary it makes your readers think that what you say is true, consequently it is scarcely worth while to pay any attention to your rivals remarks when you have once explained an error. Again Mayor Forster's opinion as to whether or not your remarks relative to the "visit" of the powers that be tend to "knock" (if I may use his grammatical expression), the Town is a mattero f no moment, but when it comes to a question of baby lightit seems to me you should attack such a perfectly absurd waste of gas. If in the opinion of the Council (not Mayor Forster), the gas should be advertised, then it should be done in such a manner as will be a credit to the town. For instance it would be feasible to have a sign made which could be illuminated with the gas. At present the flare we now see could be obtained equally as well by burning gasoline. Again your readers would like to see the question, raised by a correspondent of yours, regarding finances properly threshed out, but we would ask you to pay no attention to the childishness of the "News", as shown by its abuse. By replying to the latter you really lower yourself to their level. It is a matter of no consequence to the ratepayers whether or no the "News" eulogises our Mayor or any particular Councillor, as a preparation for the coming elections, because the ratepayers will make up their minds irrespective of what the "News" may think of its own editor, or pet member of the Council. I am sure you are just itching to retort on the "News" with an explanation that your paper has always recognised the voluntary giving up of time by our Councillors and has constantly insisted that the ratepayers should not look for this but, on the contrary, should be willing to pay men to take charge of our works. Do not do it, however, because you will be the recipient of abuse from your rival, and will further irritate your readers.

Your well wisher,
Pro bono publico

P.S. Please apologise to the News for this nom de plume but, between ourselves, I am not as anxious for advertisement as the personage is who signs his name to the Town's advertisement in "Resources".

GROS VENTRE NOTES.

Mr Editor,—Your editorial of 19th September, on Gros Ventre School, was a surprise to many, and it started people talking.

We find that the trustees and secretary-treasurer are all Germans. There is only one English scholar in the district, and he is attending school in Medicine Hat.

The question is asked—Does the Education department not insist on schools being kept open where there is a large number of scholars?

Or is the superintendent not supposed to look after trustees of this type? Can it be possible that the pastors of these people advise them against education and learning English?

As we sow so shall we reap, and with this kind of sowing what will the harvest be?

A SERIOUS STATE OF AFFAIRS.

The Yorkton Enterprise, of a recent date, referring to the recent pilgrimage of a few fanatics says: "No effort has been made to secure the compulsory education of the children of these and other settlers who do not appreciate the need for education. Hitherto there has been the excuse of lack of money. Schools voluntarily established were quite numerous enough to absorb all the money available. With the organization of the new provinces ends the period of utter financial dependence on the Dominion Government, and the new provincial governments and legislatures must face this education question and deal with it. Thousands of children in these new provinces, living in districts where schools can be established, have been allowed to grow up until past school age without the chance to learn to read or write. A general school tax levied on every assessable acre in the Province, whether within a school district or not, and divided among existing school districts, would settle the question as far as those are concerned who do not want schools because they do not want to pay taxes; and would put a premium on the establishment of districts wherever the necessary population exists."—Farmers Advocate.

WANDERING WILLIE.

RICHARDS AND PRINGLE'S MINSTRELS COMING.

The change of taste in theatrical amusement and the opportunity for wide awake and up-to-date managers to forge refined minstrelsy to the front inspired Richards & Pringle's firm of managers to organize the biggest minstrels combination in America, and embody in it the best forms of vaudeville and fragmentary acts that would find ready favor with all classes of theatre-goers; that they have succeeded in doing this evidenced by the success of their big minstrels enterprise, which is booked at the Opera House, Thursday October 5th.

The venture has met with phenomenal success, and from a modest beginning, some few years ago, the company now ranks foremost and is the largest and best minstrel organization in America. Fifty performers furnish the evening's entertainment in which fun is plenty and of the good, wholesome kind that wins public favor.

Continuous vaudeville seems to be the real thing in the cities "Continuous fun" is the motto of Richards & Pringle's Famous Georgia Minstrels, who bring an entire new company of fun makers. There is no fall of the curtain from the commencement of the jollification until the finish; the program is too long to permit of any waits or long-drawn-out overtures. It is one continuous round of pleasure and surprising novelties.

THE RACES.

The annual race meeting is fixed for next Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 10 and 11th, and there is every prospect of a good day's sport. Purses aggregating $1700 will be offered, and this is expected to attract the best horses in the west.

A 100 yards footrace will be run between Halworth, of Medicine Hat, and Fred Grant, of McLeod, for a purse of money and the championship of the territories. These men are very evenly matched, and the race will be keenly contested, as each man puts up a side purse of $100.

100 YARDS FOOT RACE.

A close and interesting foot race took place at the lacrosse ground on Friday last. The contestants were A. Halworth, of this town, and Leslie Grant, a sprinter and wrestler of some repute, who is travelling round the west. The race was very close, Halworth led most of the way but Grant overhauled him in the last 25 yards and won by 6 inches. There were no stop watches on the ground but we understand the time was put at 11 seconds. Another race has been arranged and will take place at 10th and 11th inst. A purse of $50 the Turf Association meeting, on the has been put up and Halworth's supporters expect him to reverse the decision. We understand a wrestling match has been arranged between him and C. Ingram a local boxer and wrestler. The match will take place either in the skating rink or Opera House should prove very interesting as both men have a good reputation and are evenly matched as regards weight, Grant tipping the beam at 145 lbs. and Ingram at 150. The match will be catch as catch can, best two falls out of three, and will be held on one of the race days.

Dr. and Mrs. McLean arrived at Medicine Hat on Saturday morning on their return trip from the coast, and are the guests of Mr and Mrs L. B. Cochran for a few days before continuing their homeward journey to Nova Scotia.

The Anniversary services of the Century Methodist Church will be held, Sunday and Monday, Oct. 15th and 16th. An especially good programme of music has been prepared by the choir and excellent recitations and readings will be given.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER, 3 1905.

5,857,645 Bibles in a Year.

The hundred and first report of the British and Foreign Bible Society is a fascinating story of a British organisation spreading Bibles by the million all over the world.

During the past year the society has issued a total of 5,857,645 Bibles, New Testaments, and portions of Scripture. In the course of its existence it has sent out 192,537,746 copies of the Holy Scriptures complete or in parts.

To carry the Scriptures from door to door the society employed 950 colporteurs at a cost of £45,000. "If your eyes could trace these humble Bible sellers up and down the world," says the report, "we should see them busy among Indian rice-fields and along Chinese waterways across the Canadian priarie and through the Australian bush and beside the great African lakes; we should watch them sheltering in native huts in the snowy defiles of the Andes and threading their path under trials of purple orchids through the forests of Brazil."

Last year the colporteurs sold over 2,250,000 copies of the Scriptures.

Territorial Area of the Nations.

The British Empire, which comprises the most habitable, desirable, and naturally wealthy portions of the globe, exceeds in area that of the next greatest, the Russian, by one-third. The United States is less than one-third as large, the whole German Empire could be accommodated very comfortably nine times within our borders, and either France and its dependencies, or China, twice. Japan, with her protectorate of Korea, is less than one-fortieth of our area!

Some figures will show the exact proportions:

	Mother Country. (Sq. miles.)	Oversea & Colonial. (Sq. miles.)
Britian	121,390	11,269,646
Russia	2,095,616	6,584,772
United States	3,563,114	127,808
Germany	208,830	1,027,820
France	207,054	4,000,000
Japan	147,655	113,300

The British people control 21 per cent of the total land area of the world—and the whole water area—while the Anglo-Saxon race dominates more than 29 per cent. —nearly one-third.

British Supremacy.

A very striking proof of Britain's supremacy upon the seas is to be found in a comparison of the ownership of the world's mercantile shipping, as given in a recent number of the Daily Mail (overseas edition). The command of sea has been ours for three hundred years and Great Britain also holds the premier place among the mercantile shipping nations of the world, the United States being a very poor second, Norway third and Germany fourth, as the following figures will show:—

	No. of vessels.	Tonnage.
British Empire	11,250	16,580,845
United States	3,411	3,849,400
Norway	2,216	1,717,554
Germany	1,935	3,369,807

The British Isles imported during the last commercial year, $2,715,000,000 worth of goods from all countries under the sun, and British ships had to carry more than half these goods across the seas.

"Truly, he who commands the sea commands the wealth of the sea."

Drinking the King's Health.

There is an unwritten law in England and closely observed at all public dinners and banquets that no man may start the use of tobacco until after the King's health has been drunk. The rule is jealously guarded and it is not an uncommon thing to hear a chairman announcing after submitting the Royal toasts (that of the King being usually followed by the toast of the "Rest of the Royal family"), that the "duty is now off the tobacco," which means all are at liberty to smoke. In Canada this rule is not so closely observed, not because we are less loyal, but probably because things are more free and easy here. It is a pretty costom, though, and one which might be well adopted just as in the Old Land, for life is made up of little things and this is just one of those little things which help the "Empire" sentiment, by reminding us that we are all Britishers owing allegiance to the best sovereign in the world today. The late Mr. Gladstone once said: The Sovereign is the symbol of the nations unity, and the apex of the social structure; the maker (with advice) of the laws; the supreme governor * * * * the sole source of honor; the person to whom all military, all naval, all civil service is rendered. We "Britons beyond the seas," may act upon all this without feeling it at all derogatory to our independence as free citizens of the Empire. The King is the symbol of our unity.

The News Defaults.

The News completely failed to refute our statements of last week re the overdraft of $9,206, in fact they completely shirked the point. They, therefore, defaulted and stand before the public convicted of having made statements they cannot substantiate. They endeavor to turn it off upon us by saying we did not take up the question of what next year's rate is to be. Well, one thing at a time and that done well, is a very good motto as many can tell. When the News consent to prove their case or submit proofs that Ex-Mayor Hutchinson and the Times are wrong, we will take up the other matter with them. We drew no "red herring" across the trail, but the News appear to be doing so by baulking at the real point under discussion and endeavoring to raise another before the first part of the question has been settled. We repeat that the News has defaulted and if they cannot do better with the other part of the question we have no doubt the public will agree with us that they have failed to grasp the most elementary phase of Town finances.

WHAT THE MAROONS THINK OF MEDICINE HAT.

The Maroon barnstormers returned to the city yesterday after their trip through as far west as Calgary. All the players returned excepting Olson and Harris the Crookston recruits. Olson left the team at Calgary, going to the coast, while Harris remained over in Medicine Hat.

The final game of the trip was played in Medicine Hat on Monday the Maroons winning handily by 16 runs to 8. In all, since the Northern league season closed, the Maroons played sixteen games, winning all but one, the only loss being at Calgary in the final game of the series there. Financially and otherwise the boys report having had a highly successful trip. They made friends all along the line and will always look back on their jaunt through the great Northwest with much pleasure. Many warm friends were made, and those to whom they have particular reference are Mr. Fleming, proprietor of the American Hotel and chief sport promoter at Medicine Hat, the genial Chief of Police at the latter town, who was particularly chummy with Larry Piper. "Snapper" Garrison, who is now in the hotel business at Wetaskiwin; Dr. Stocey, of Regina; Dan Flavin, an old Chicago league umpire, now located at Medicine Hat, and Sam Graham, the well-known traveller, whom they met at Regina.

The boys say they met surprisingly good teams out in the west. Their visit evidently helped the game along and next year will see a strong league, composed of Edmonton, Red Deer, Wetaskiwin, Medicine Hat, and two teams in Calgary. They say Medicine Hat was about the best ball town they struck.

The team will disband today. Speer, Dalquist and Tucker all go to St. Paul. Mr. and Mrs. Leight also go south, while Piper and Green go east, and Gatewood stays in Winnipeg.—Free Press.

Coughers, Hawkers, Spitters!

Public expectoration is against the common law, against the law of health also. When the throat tickles that's the time you need "Catarrhozone"; it soothes away the irritation cuts out the phlegm and loosens the tight feeling. You'll quickly cure that catarrh and throat trouble with Catarrhozone. It positively prevents new attacks and cures catarrh forever and for all time to come. Don't take our word for it, try Catarrhozone for yourself. Once used you'll be delighted with its pleasant and helpful influence.

TO THE VOTERS

Medicine Hat Constituency.

As the nominee of the Conservatives to contest the forthcoming Provincial elections in the Medicine Hat constituency, I consider it my duty to state what measures I intend to support if elected to the Legislature:

1. The taking of all proper and lawful steps to ascertain in what respects, if any, the Dominion Parliament can restrict the Province of Alberta in its dealing with the Education question, in addition to any restrictions there may be contained in the British North America Act.

2. Regarding the lands I will advocate the continual application to and negotiation with the Dominion Parliament for the surrender of the public domain (within the boundaries of the Province) to the Province and for the withdrawal of the Canadian Pacific Railway tax exemptions.

3. I am in favor of the public ownership of public utilities.

4. I am in favor of the giving of land grants to all defenders of the empire (including members of the R. N. W. M. P.) who are residents in the Province.

5. I am of opinion that each Local Improvement District should have improvements (in the way of roads and bridges) made therein equal in value to the total amount of taxes collected therefrom and where, by reason of sparcity of population, such taxes are not sufficient to make necessary improvements, I shall urge the government to make up the amount required from the Public funds.

6. I will urge generous but careful expenditure of the public monies towards the legitimate assistance of agriculture and ranching.

7. There is no more important point than Medicine Hat where a traffic bridge should be built. It will be my duty to urge the appropriation of sufficient monies to build such a bridge.

8. I deem it my duty to give my hearty support to all legitimate measures furthering the Labor interests.

9. I am in favor of a fair re-adjustment of the Income Tax.

10. I am in favor of some adjustment of the Mechanic's Lien on buildings.

TOWN COUNCIL MEETING.

A regular meeting of the Council was held last evening. Present—Mayor Forster, Councillors J. K. Drinnan, A. DesBrisay, H. Stewart, F. O. Sissons, C. E. Smyth, W. N. Adsit, Town Clerk; G. H. Markwick, Chief of Police; W. E. Porter, Supt. of Works.

MINUTES.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Several letters of no public interest were read, including one from Graham P. Moore, offering his services as assistant engineer if one should be wanted. All were filed.

Mr. C. P. Rhone wrote resigning his position as auditor as he is having the town. The resignation was accepted.

There were two letters from different firms asking particulars re debentures. All had been replied to.

A letter was read from Mr. A. P. Burns stating if he can make an arrangement for gas he would establish permanent lime kilns. It was referred to the gas commissioners for report to next meeting.

The secretary of the fire brigade wrote suggesting four more hydrants be put up in town, and asking that 1000 feet of cotton hose be purchased.

A letter was read from Mr. J. R. Heddle, assistant engineer at Hamilton, saying in reply to inquiries by this Council that he would have to give 4 months notice to the City of Hamilton and as his relations with the city had been very harmonious he would like to give them as much notice as possible. He supposed there would not be much work to do until the first of the year and he would be glad to arrange to come about that time.

A letter was read from the Trade Gazette stating they contemplated publishing a write up of Medicine Hat and asking the Council's co-operation, and also a letter from the Canadian Woodman asking for photos of Medicine Hat for publication. There would be no charge to the town. Referred to the New Enterprises Committee.

A letter was read from the Trades and Labor Council stating they considered the Town Council had been spending the ratepayers money in a hap-hazard way in public works, but they considered it would not be a wise proceeding to appoint a town engineer at the present time as there would be nothing for him to do during the winter.

ENGINEER APPOINTED.

Coun. Smyth moved that Mr. Heddle be appointed town engineer his duties to commence on the first January.

Mr. Stewart seconded.

After a conversation as to whether this Council could appoint for three years, Mr. Heddle having asked for this.

Coun. Smyth suggested the solicitor be consulted on the point and said he would add to his motion the words: "subject to its being found that the Council has the power to appoint for three years."

The motion was put and carried.

The letter from the Trades and Labor Council was then considered.

Coun. Smyth thought the statements in the letter were rather sweeping.

Coun. Sissons moved that the Trades and Labor Council be asked to send a delegation to the Council to explain their position in regard to the matter.

The motion was agreed to.

A letter was read from the Turf Association asking the Council to make a grant towards the races to be held on the 10th and 11th.

It was resolved to reply that the Council, owing to there being no money appropriated for the purpose, could not grant the request.

Ed. Roberts and Jos. Bremnell wrote asking to be placed on the voters list. Request was granted.

A report received from Dr. Smith, Medical Officer of Health, making certain recommendations.

The report was referred to the Health Committee with power to carry them out.

The Poundkeeper and Chief of Police reported as usual.

TENDERS.

The report of the Gas Committee stated tenders had been received as follows:—

James Rae	$1609.50
Marshall & Co.	1690.00
W. M. Williamson	1750.00
D. T. Flavin	1932.00

The Committee recommended that Mr. Rae's tender be accepted and this was adopted by the Council.

Coun. Drinnan reported re erection of gas lamps at New Edinburgh and on the Johnston estate.

The report of the Finance Committee was read and adopted.

At the suggestion of Coun. Sissons a committee was authorised to plan out the ground purchased for a market square and have the scales placed there as soon as possible.

On motion of Coun. Stewart it was resolved to advertise for an auditor.

On motion of Coun. Smyth the Town Solicitor will be asked to obtain transfer of the gas well lot at New Edinburgh.

On motion of Coun. Stewart it was ordered that the potatoes growing on the Park grounds be advertised for sale.

Coun. Stewart drew attention to certain street fakirs doing business in town during fair time and gave notice of a motion to amend the peddlers bylaw. The idea, we believe is to fix up a license fee which will stop street fakirs whose methods are of the gambling order.

List of accounts presented will be published next week.

This was all the business.

Rev. H. E. Stillwell lectured in the Baptist Church last night on mission work in India. Mr and Mrs Stillwell and Miss McLeod were the guests of Mr and Mrs Waldock while here.

The anniversary services of the Century Methodist Church will be held on October 15th and 16th. Rev. J. E. Hughon B A., of Lethbridge, will take the services for Sabbath 15th and the tea on Monday night,

A ditch in connection with the gas pipes, was dug across the side walk near Mr John Hawke's house, and has been open since Friday, but no lamp has been placed there, and it is dangerous to people who have to pass that way. The wood sidewalk near Kerr's livery stable is giving some narrow escapes to foot passengers, owing to several planks being missing. Both these matters should receive immediate attention.

Wanted in Medicine Hat.—Assistant City Engineer Heddle, who has been offered $1,800 a year by the town of Medicine Hat to go there as engineer, is now receiving $1,200. His salary was advanced from $1,000 to this figure, early this year, and he intimates if another increase of $200 is given by the city he will remain here. He will be satisfied to accept the second increase at the end of the year.—Toronto Globe.

A CHANGE OF FRONT.

To the Editor of the Times

Sir,—The Hanley Herald of September 22 has the following local in its issue of that date:

"L. G. Calder, of Saskatoon, who is the Liberal organizer for the south portion of the Saskatoon constituency, was in Hanley on Monday, going up to Dundurn in the afternoon."

In the Saskatoon Phenix of March 24, under the heading: Saskatoon Endorses Honorable Clifford Sifton—Mayor Isbester in the Chair" we read the following:

"L. G. Calder addressed the meeting from the young men's standpoint. He said the measure had been freely discussed in the Young Men's club, and he knew the feeling in the matter. "I see it," said he, "as the masses of the young men in the West. They compose nine-tenths of the population and their influence is as ten-ninths. We can and have accumulated certain ideas, and following them we will do what we think right. At the last election we got what we wanted in returning Sir Wilfred Laurier. But Laurier is just the man in this matter. While he has erred, we, as Girts and Tories, know what we want as rights in this constitutional phase of the question. Young men in the west are too enlightened to stand too close to party Two-thirds of the Catholics in the west favor public schools, and they are enlightened. I do not understand why Laurier should insert this educational clause in violation of the constitution. He has not realized the tendencies in the west as has Mr. Sifton. Mr. Laurier seems to reflect the sentiment of the people near him, "the people of Quebec." He does not realize the seriousness of the points at issue from the standpoint of the west." (Mr. Calder was warmly applaud d).

Needless to say, the above speech was delivered before the Hon. Clifford Sifton took a back seat, but all the same, those who heard Mr. Calder at the time cannot understand his peace-at-any price programme now, though he does not fight shy of using threats as to what will happen if we do not accept him and his friends. He tells the farmer and his fellow workers on the C. P. R. if the provincial rights party are returned it means a stoppage of the G.T.P., and this after giving them credit in March last for having brains, should show the necessity of the electors who would be free men, the need there is to use those brains that God has given them, and not allow themselves to be led away by promises, like those made at the general election, not one of which has ever been kept.

The Free Press in its issue of September 21, is quelt certain that there is not the slightest use in opposing the Liberal candidate in Batoche. Perhaps they are in the know as to who the government agent was who, accompanied by a Royal Northwest Mounted policeman, was so anxious to reach Batoche on Sunday, September 10, that he offered any money for a rig in Dundurn, and stated that Laurier would pay for all. Is it possible that so early in the fight, it is necessary to buy the Votes? They will certainly be a high figures by November.

LUMBER GOES UP.

A message to the Calgary Herald from Relvelstoke B. C., September 30th says: An important meeting of the Mountain Lumber Manufacturers' association was held here today. There was considerable discussions, which have been unsatisfactory for some time, on account of the high prices of supplies and wages short supply of labor and the low price of lumber. It was decided to appoint a secretary of the association. It is expected that prices will materially advance within the next 60 days.

FAIR NOTES.

Mr. I. Bullivant showed two pairs of home-made riding boots which attracted a good deal of attention. The workmanship was A. 1.

"You need a seperator" cried the wizard from the south. The "Uneeda" is very strong yet it is simple in construction and a child can run it. The two-piece bowl is easy to clean and the machine is very silent running.

All of Mr. James Cook's bread and pastry samples were made from flour manufactured at the Medicine Hat Mill.

Mrs. James Cook entertained the citizens' band to a nice luncheon on the fair grounds.

Corbett & Pettapiece livery horses were much in evidence when the driving classes were called out, and the prize lists shows they came out on top.

KING EXECUTED.

Charles King was hanged on Saturday morning for the murder of his friend Charles Hayward. Radcliffe was the hangman. King protested his innocence to the last. He had two trials, the evidence was purely circumstantial, and each time the jury returned a verdict of "guilty", after being out but a few minutes. King slept well on Friday night and on Saturday morning had a breakfast of poached eggs, salom cutlet, cheese, toast, coffee and ale, and ate heartily.

The crime for which King suffered the capital penalty was committed last year in the wilds of the Peace River country. Through the curiosity of the Indians of that section the suspicion that a man had been killed was aroused and later confirmed by the vigorous efforts of the Mounted Police.

King was an American and his victim an Englishman. They left British Columbia for a hunt in the far north. Hayward had the money and the property of the outfit, and this is supposed to have been the incentive for the murder.

The man was shot and his body burned in the camp fire. Bits of bones and human flesh were found in the fire, and part of Hayward's personal belongings found in Kings possession. King declared he and Hayward parted, and his companion had gone alone through the Peace River. A singular feature of the extraordinary drama was a vision received by a sister of the murdered man in England. Some time, figured out as being nearly the date of the murder, the sister in England dreamed she saw her brother shot to death in the far off north country. She wrote a letter stating the facts at the time, and it crossed a similar letter of inquiry from the North West Mounted Police, telling the family of young Hayward's death and seeking information which might convict his murderer.

MASON & RISCH

THE PIANO WITH A SOUL

Mason & Risch Pianos are famous for that peculiar carrying power known as the singing tone. Not all tones classed as musical are music unalloyed. There are certain qualities of tone that are strangely diffusive They carry far and retain their singing character where other tones become indistinct or even lost. A sheet of gold leaf, thinner than the thinnest tissue, will completely block the powerful rays of the strongest searchlight, while the X-rays, merely glowing with a faint light, will penetrate an inch of solid steel. So it is with music: some tones are diffusive and carry; others become more or less absorbed in space. The tone that "carries" the singing tone, is due to perfection of finish and perfect vibratory equilibrium of all the tone producing parts of a piano. It is always a tone of the utmost sweetness and purity. The Mason & Risch Piano is full of "sing" being especially fine in its blendings of the human voice, which it rounds out and sustains in a happy union of melody and harmony. Our literature explains the many points of superiority of the Mason & Risch piano—the piano with a soul. Send for it to-day.

Note & Comment.

[By OBSERVER.]

One of the most remarkable men of the day is the veteran General of the Salvation Army. Although he is now an old man he has recently travelled 34,400 miles in different parts of the world and got back to England as fresh as ever. When he arrived there he took no rest and in five weeks and four days he accomplished a tremendous amount of work Here is a copy of the programme:

Period of travel, 5 weeks 4 days.
Mileage, 2250.
Towns visited, 121.
Addresses averaging 1 hour and 20 minutes, 95.
Shorter addresses, 26.
Sinners at penitent form, 800.
People addressed, 250,000.
Municipal receptions, 73.
Mayors as chairmen, 60.
Workhouses visited, 12.

A French paper has been inquiring into the reason why men wear moustaches and they received very variet replies. Of one hundred men questioned:

6 said it was too much trouble to shave.
1declared it was to hide his teeth.
1 said that his long nose without it gave him a bad appearance.
3said that it avoided colds.
3 said it improved the air they breathed.
7 said a moustache was necessary to health.
17 said they wore it to please themselves.
2 only said it was to please their wives.
60 gave the reason that women didn't like clean shaven men.

Harpers Weekly of New York, pays a high tribute to English truthfulness in business. The journal said thus:

Brag is gradually ceasing to be regarded as a good dog in America. In the business world the hollowness of boasting has found general recognition. And therein, at any rate, the Englishman really is a model. He neither overstates nor understates whatever he says respecting business is the exact truth. No particular credit attaches to the performance; it never occurs to him to speak unprecisely. The habit is a goodone, and worthy of encouragement even among our otherwise superior selves.

There is nothing new under the sun not even looping the loop, says a well known English paper. A little carriage which performed this feat was designed no less than seventy years ago by Richard Roberts, the famous Welsh inventor, and the vehicle was actually exhibited in London and Liverpool in the early forties.

The late Major J. M. Walsh, first governor of the Yukon, was celebrated for his utter fearlessness. This he displayed in his meeting with "Sitting Bull," the Sioux chief, who fled into British Territory after the Custer massacre in the United States. The Sioux chief sought refuge in the Cypress Hills, and terrorised other tribes by a series of depredations, including horse-stealing. Major Walsh, accompanied by only two policemen, rode into the Sioux camp one morning and demanded the surrender of the thieves and the stolen horses. Sitting Bull and his braves, in full war-paint, defied him at first, and commenced firing their rifles, the shots passing in dangerous proximity to the Canadians. "I am going to take those men and horses, or die in the attempt," declared Major Walsh, through an interpreter, as he headed for the corral, followed by the shouting Indians. "You may kill us," he continued, "but when the Great White Mother receives word there will be a terrible reckoning." Something in the major's demeanor impressed Sitting Bull, who ordered the Sioux culprits and stolen ponies to be surrendered There are many old timers around here who served with Major Walsh in those early pioneer days and remember the gallant officer very well.

DANGER SIGNALS.

No engineer would be mad enough to run by the flag which signaled danger. It is different with the average man or woman. They attempt constantly to run by the danger signals of Nature and these attempts costs thousands of lives every year. When the appetite becomes irregular or entirely gives out, when sleep is troubled and broken, when there is a constant feeling of dullness and languor, Nature is hoisting the danger signal. The stomach and its allied organs are failing in their work and the body is losing the nutrition on which its strength depends.

Such a condition calls for a prompt use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, purifies and enriches the blood and builds up the body with sound, solid flesh.

"I have had so much benefit from your medicines am glad to say a few words that you may use for publication," writes Mrs. J. R. Downes, Crystal Lake, Conn. "Had been troubled with a complication of diseases for over two years, but kidneys and liver bothered me most. Some of my worst attacks were a constant pressure pains around heart and under right shoulder-blade. My hands and feet were cold nearly all the time, and had much dizziness be-sweet shoulders. Some days cared but little for food; I lost flesh; felt so tired and miserable it seemed I couldn't do any housework. Took medicine from my physician, but received no benefit. Bought a bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and after taking half of it found so much better we determined to give it a fair trial. Appetite soon improved and all unpleasant disorders disappeared me-fit now a-the well."

A Great Doctor Book Free.—Send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., to cover cost of mailing only and he will send you a free copy of his 1008-page Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper-covered. Cloth-covered 50 stamps.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets Cure Constipation.

The Source of Neuralgia.

It runs hand in hand with poor blood and weak nerves. Health runs down nerves get irritable, neuralgic torture follows. For the moment applications may relieve—but to thoroughly cure, the system must be strengthened with nutritious blood.

What can equal Ferrozone? It increases the appetite, forms abundance of rich, life-giving blood, supplies nutriment and building material for wornout nerves. Ferrozone completely cures neuralgia. Every root and branch of the disease is killed. Absolute success in every case. Stop suffering—fifty cents buys Ferrozone. Fifty chocolate coated tablets in a box at any drug store.

MEDICINE HAT FAIR.

The 19th annual exhibition of the Medicine Hat Agricultural Society was held on Thursday and Friday last and proved a very successful affair. The weather was all that could be desired and the arrangements were excellent. The show was held as usual in the large skating rink and yard and in the curling rink, the horses and cattle being accommodated in the former and the flowers, vegetables, fruit, ladies' work, etc., being in the latter. The first day was devoted to the Ladies work etc. and evoked the greates interest.

The curling rink had been well fitted up for the occasion and Supt. Porter, of the Public Works Department, had laid gas pipes along the roof from which he had suspended two of the large 750 candle power arc lights, the same as are in use for street lighting, and several very ornamental chandeliers. These lighted the building thoroughly and were a pleasing and useful addition to the decorations.

There was a large display of ladies fancy work, paintings and Indian work, while the show of vegetables was simply splendid. There were several dishes of which greatly astonished those who cling to the old belief that fruit cannot be raised here. Mr. Thomas McKay staged a dish of Duchess of Oldenburg apples most of which were in the pink of condition being large and beautifully colored. His crab apples (Russian and Transparent) made a tempting show and it may be remarked that he has one young treebearing 200 apples. Mr. W. E. Porter exhibited a dish of very nice Russian Crabs, ripe and beautifully colored and Mr. W. G. Niblock exhibited two dishes of ripe plums thereby showing what can be done in that department of the fruit industry.

A dish of great big finely colored B. C. apples labelled "grown in J. R. Clarke's orchard" were much admired.

Most of the classes were well filled and the competition in many was verykeen, notably in the classes for homemade bread, preserves, etc.

CATTLE AND HORSES.

Several things combined to limit the show of cattle and horses, but very keen interest was shown in all those classes. In cattle the Herefords exhibited by Mr. John Ross where worthy of all praise, while in horses the heavy draughts were shown in a very fit condition and gave the judges some trouble. The competition was pretty keen in the aged stallion class, and the judge was some time coming to a decision. The driving and saddle classes were also very interesting.

MR. JAMES COOK

showed considerable enterprise by opening a stall at one end of the building in which was displayed samples of bread and confectionery made in his bakery. Mrs. Cook presided over the stall and in addition toheing one of the attractions of the fair it was a perfect haven of rest to tired sightseers. The stall was carpetted, and artistically decorated with palms and flowers, small tables and seats were provided and on the counter and shelves were displayed a splendid lot of samples of the staple articles turned out by Mr. Cook's bakery. A gas stove was provided on which water was boiled, and Mrs. Cook dispensed the "cup that cheers" with a lavish hand, free to all, together with dainty samples of cream puffs and other light and tasty refreshments. The beautiful samples made a tempting display; in breads there were loaves of household and cream bread, all tin loaves, while the French and German, baked on the bottom of the oven, were beautifully light and perfectly baked. There were samples of Graham, a brown bread, fancy bread in all kinds of shapes, and loaves of rye bread. These were all, except the rye the product of home made flour. In rolls there were Parkerhouse and French all thin in the crust, light and of beautiful color, true Winnipeg style. Breadsticks and buns were also on view, but the crowning exhibit was a huge wedding cake, splendid enough to make old parties want to be married over again for the fun of buying one. This was shown in a glass case and was made and dressed in Mr. Cook's establishment. There were Christmas cakes, light and dark fruit cakes, sponge cakes, chocolate and cocoea layer cakes, jelly rolls and patty cakes galore Then there were scones, doughnuts, cookies and a variety of pastries, pies and turn-overs, the whole affording the highest evidence of the skill and enterprise of the obliging proprietor and the quality of the goods he vends at his store on South Railway street.

THE MILLING COMPANY.

had a fine display of the products of their Mill, in charge of Mr. W. McNeely, which will doubtless help to make Prairie Pride Patent flour and the other products of the mill still more popular throughout the district. It may be here mentioned that bread made from Prairie patent won second prize in the special offered by the mill and another loaf of the same baking won first in the general prize; thus Prairie Pride Patent beat all other flours. The Milling Company this year expect to buy 50,000 bushels of wheat from the Medicine Hatdistrict alone; This together with their purchases of barley and oats will mean something like $50,000 to $60,000 for our near-by farmers.

MR. W. J. BROTHERTON.

made a display of gramophones and in turn these fine instruments gave out delightful strains of music which kept the place lively until the arrival of the town band inthe evening.

MR. HUGH HASSARD had a cream separator in operation which attracted a good deal of attention. The Woman's Auxiliary of

ST. BARNABAS CHURCH, had a stall near the entrance of the building where they dispensed refreshments and candies, realizing a goodly sum for the Church funds.

The spacious building was crowded in the evening and the scene was a gay one. The crowd of people, the brilliant lights, the flowers, fruits and other exhibits and the music of the band made up a tout ensemble of the most inspiriting kind.

The directors deserve praise for their good handling of the show.

The judges were as fallows:—

HORSES—Mr. Bryce Wright, De Winton;
CATTLE—Mr. M. Geddes, Calgary.
POULTRY—Mr. Lyons, Irvine.
GRAIN—J. B. McIntyre and J. McNeely.

Chills Prove Fatal.

If warmth and circulation are not promptly restored, chills result in fatal pneumonia. This necessitates keeping Nerviline on hand. Taken in hot water it breaks up a chill in two minutes. By rubbing freely over throat and chest it prevents colds. No liniment so strong so penetrating so swift to kill pain and inflammation. Nearly fifty years record has proved the value of Polson's Nerviline. You should get a bottle to-day

"It's a bad time to swap horses when you are crossing a stream."

That was Lincoln's famous reply to those who urged him to make a change in generals at a critical period of the Civil war.

Lincoln's saying is worth remembering, especially when you are asked to "swap" Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for a bootless bargain, described as "just as good," at the critical time when health is at stake.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a medicine which has a record of ninety-eight per cent. of cures. It is an absolutely reliable family medicine, non-alcoholic and non-narcotic. It always helps; it almost always cures. Why should any one who is seeking a cure for sickness, and is persuaded that the "Discovery" will cure him, "swap" the substance for the shadow at the risk of health?

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. What is popularly termed "weak" stomach is the common cause of various forms of physical weakness,—such as "weak" heart, "weak" lungs, "weak" or sluggish liver, "weak" nerves, etc. The entire body and its several organs are dependent for strength upon the food prepared in the stomach. The "weak" stomach cannot provide the food-strength for the various organs, which in their turn become "weak" and unable to accomplish the work for which they were designed. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures through the stomach diseases which have their cause in a diseased condition of the stomach and the allied organs of digestion and nutrition.

It enables the perfect digestion and assimulation of food by which the body is built up into a condition of sound health. It purifies the blood, driving out the poisons which breed and feed disease.

Preferred to Die.

"Have taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it did me more good than anything I could get," writes Mrs. Julia A. Wilcox, of Cygnet, Wood Co., Ohio, Box 25. "I doctored with three different doctors for weak heart, but they did me no good. I was so tired and discouraged if I had had my choice to live or die I would have prefered to die. My husband heard of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and he bought me a bottle. I took that and the first half seemed to help me. I took six bottles before I stopped. I am perfectly well and am cooking for boarders (I have six), and am taking in washing besides. I will truly say I think your medicine will do all it is recommended to do, and more. It has been a God-send to me. I will be willing to answer any letters of inquiry that any one wishes me to. If you think this will be the means of helping any poor suffering woman to obtain relief you may print it and make any honest use of it you wish to."

Was Bedfast.

"I had been sick for more than a year with kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Lucy Hayter, of Jacksboro, Jack Co., Texas. "Several different doctors treated me, but none did me any good. One doctor said I never could be cured, that I had Bright's Disease. I suffered nearly death at times; had spells the doctor called spasms. Was bedfast most of the time for six months. My mother begged me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. With but little hope I wrote to Dr. Pierce and he said he could cure me. I began to take his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and although I had given up to die, I began to improve from the start, and by the time I had taken twenty-two bottles I was entirely cured. I thank God for the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I weigh more than ever before in my life, and believe I am entirely well."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing 1008 pages, and over 700 illustrations, is sent free on receipt of stamps to defray expense of customs and mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper cover, or 50 cents for the book in cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

SUCCESSFUL DRY LAND FARMING.

A striking illustration of development of the arid lands of the west is furnished by J. L. Donahue, a well known Denver man, who this week returned from a trip through western Kansas and eastern Colorado, made in the interests of the Colorado State Commercial association.

"I visited 23 farms," said Mr. Donahue, "and found on each of them great crops of wheat, oats, barley and various fruits. On no farm will the wheat this year run below 20 bushels to the acre and on many it will average above forty. Oats will run from 70 to 80 bushels to the acre and fruits of all sorts are being raised in profusion.

"On none of these farms was a drop of water applied, aside from the usual rainfall, which averages from 12 to 15 inches. These crops are being raised by the Campbell system of agriculture, which is nothing less than scientific soil culture by frequent plowing. In my opinion thos system is destined to be the salvation of the arid west. Tens of thousands of acres of dry land in Colorado are to-day being cultivated under its method, and larger crops are in many instances raised than can be grown on the irrigated lands adjoining.—River Press.

TORONTO NEWS DISCUSSES SITUATION IN ALBERTA.

A special Commissioner of the Toronto News, now in Edmonton, discusses the political situation in Alberta at some length. PROGRESS OF NEW MUNICIPAL BUILDING.

Messrs Oakes & Everard are making good progress with the erection of our new $40,000 City Hall. So far nearly all the work has been below the ground level so there was little to be seen by the casual observer, an enormous amount of concrete work having put into the foundations and basement divisional walls. All this work was, as we may say, out sight, but now that these have all been finished off to ground level and the laying of the cement blocks of the walls have been commenced the work is beginning to show. The huge bases for the pilasters at the entrance where cast solid where they stand and they probably weigh three tons each. The rock face blocks are all in and the water table laid. The hands are now laying joists and in a few days the walls will be above the hoarding surrounding the site and the beauty and solidity of this part of the work will be revealed.

HORSE STEALER CONVICTED.

At the regular sitting of the supreme court at Edmonton, Judge Scott presiding, C. W. R. Borchart, who was arrested at High River some six weeks ago, was convicted of stealing horses horses from La Rose and Bell two Red Deer ranchers.

WHEAT GROWING IN CYPRESS HILLS.

The best wheat we have seen this year was brought into The Times office on Saturday by Mr. Jno. E. E. Douglas. He brought a whole sheaf of wheat grown on his ranch in the Cypress hills. The straw was of a good length and color and the grain was plump, hard and of good color. Mr. McNeely, of the Milling Company, said it would grade No 1 hard. This wheat was grown on a piece of land broken and backset last year, and many who saw it growing judged it would yield 40 bushels to the acre. There seems to be no doubt that with good cultivation excellent wheat can be grown in this district but the weight of the crop depends very largely upon the manner in which the land is prepared Good crops have been grown this year on scores of farms lying 10 to 25 miles from town.

Pay Up.

"We have a word of advice to give. It does not cost very much, but if accepted in the spirit given it will mean a happy town and district this winter. It is nothing more or less than two words, "Pay up." This is a good year, by that is meant that the crops are the best, possibly, we have ever had and prices will probably be good. What is to hinder at least seventy-five per cent, of the indebtedness of the community from being paid off this fall? Nothing.

"You owe something so do we. Every dollar you owe us we owe to somebody else; if we can get this from you, the fellow that is looking us up for payment can get his money. That is only a yarn perhaps, that is told of a company at supper when Jones said to Brown who sat next to him. "Say Brown, here's that five dollars I owe you." Brown who owed an equal sum to Smith who sat on the other side said: "By the by Smith, now that I have the money I can pay you that V I borrowed from you a while ago." He hands it over to Smith who owes his neighbor an equal amount and so the bill goes on round the table till it gets back into Jones pocket again.

We make this appeal on behalf of the peace, comfort, good name and good will of the district. If speculation goes on as it has been going in the past two or three years, then what is called the banner year will only be a curse instead of a blessing.

"Let us then in the right way make the most of this year. Beat back the demon of greed and speculation which tempts us to leave our obligations unmet and stand forth free men. If we work in unison we can do it, and since we can, duty bids us crucify this abominable credit system with all the lusts thereof. There's a lot of wrinkles, grey hair, and heart burnings, that will come soon enough without our hurrying them to the front with a system that should by this time by nitro-glycerined. Let us wake up."

This excellently sensible article in the Indian Head Witness says the Free Press deserves "the attention of the whole West in this record-making year. The finest crop of a decade has been saved uninjured, and it will bring an amount of money in the West. If that money is used for the liquidation of existing obligations, the West will be put in a position of great financial strength, and prosperity will abound throughout the land."

Uncle Sam Climbs Down.

News comes from Washington that the United States government are about to drop the law of exclusion of Chinese. This has been brought about by the boycott of American goods in China. The Chinaman may be a slow individual as a rule when confronted with the methods of the white man, but in this instance the Chinese government proved themselves quiet up-to-date by adopting "business methods" very popular in the United States. When they found that Chinamen were practicaliy excluded from landing in the States they at once boycotted American goods in China and so attacked Uncle Sam in his tenderest spot, and he will undoubtedly climb down.

Shall we Exclude Japanese.

The new alliance formed between Great Britain and Japan is of a more far-reaching nature than the one which is about to expire, Under the present agreement one of the parties went to the assistance of the other only upon that other being attacked by a second power. That has now been changed and if war is declared against either one the other immediately gives to the assistance of its ally. This is something very real and the wording of the agreement appears to leave no doubt in the matter. The British Empire and Japanese are therefore very close allies and it is for Canada, as a part of the Empire, to seriously consider whether she ought to countenance any law directed against the Japanese British Columbia has a law of that character upon the statute books and the Government of that province should stop and consider if they will be doing well to put it in effect.

Anlo-Saxondom with Japan.

Answering the question, "How can the alliance be converted into a guarantee of peace?" a prominent Tokio journal said:

"Extend the scope of the alliance, make it an agreement binding absolutely each of the contracting parties to come to the assistance of the other in the event of war. Then, with great Britain's navy holding the command of the far eastern seas and with a Japanese army ready to land at any point on the Asiatic continent, a combination would exsit such as no nation or clique of nations might venture to defy. From that time there would cease to be danger of wholesale aggression at the expense of China, or of menace against India, or of closing the commercial door in the far east. The situation would be controlled by Anglo-Saxondom with Japan."

The Empire's Problem.

The Winnipeg commercial reproduces an extract from The London Times which has published several articles on the subject "Through the Canadian North-West," dealing with our vast resources. Commenting editorially The Times says: "The development of this vast and opulent region is in its infancy, but it is being pursued with all the energy, intelligence and boundless self-confidence of our Canadian fellow-citizen's. In all probability the region between Winnipeg and the Rocky Mountains will be inhabited by many millions of prosperous and energetic men and women, mainly of Anglo-Saxon blood. With a generation what is the part they will play in the history of our Empire and of the world? That is the problem which they and we have to solve together. It is a problem which both of us may approach full of hope ever tempered by awe at the immensity of the issues for good and evil which hang on its solution."

For a New Party.

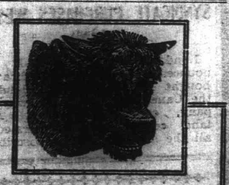
Col. Wyndham, of Gladys, while in Calgary last week announced his intention of forming a new party in Alberta to be called the "Knights of Alberta." olo el Wyndham says. "Our policy is the rights of Alberta. I have made up my mind to fight for honest government."

Mr. Haultain.

No statesman in Canada has, during an equal number of years, been accorded by the public such complete confidence. Were we to be asked suddenly what the antithesis of a political grafter was, we should unhesitatingly cite Haultain as an illustration. He emerges from his brilliantly successful management of Territorial affairs a comparatively poor man, but full of life, vigor and readiness to exercise his incomparable abilities for the advancement of one or the other of the new Provinces.—Eye Opener. And this is the man whose political life certain politicians would fain snuff out!

Where Is Mr. Young.

A very large number of people in Alberta are wondering where J. J. Young is and what he means to do during the coming elections. He is a man Alberta should not lose from the public service unless at his own request and we confess we cannot understand why the people should pass him by when candidates are being sought for the new Provincial House.



The people of the West will be glad to hear that the C.P.R., will maintain the present railway service until after Christmas at least. We believe the increase in the traffic will keep up and that the company will find it necessary to carry it through the winter with a possible increase next summer.

For ten years to come Britain and Japan will be as one in the far east. This is the gist of the Anglo-Japanese treaty.

The new treaty between Britain and Japan will do much to put an end to that bugaboo of every Englishman—the invasion of India by Russia. The responsibility of taking reasonable precautions will remain, but it will not be so necessary to direct the whole military strength of the Empire toward one end—the integrity of Afghanistan.

This year the Cardstone, Alta. district will produce 700 or 800 tons of beets for the sugar factory against 500 last year. The total brought in last year was 12,000 tons; this year the gross tonnage is estimated at 24,000. The output of sugar last year was 3,160,000; this year it will be doubled. The factory will be running three months of the year employing 150 hands. Beet digging started this week.

It is expected that the Provincial elections will take place about the 15th November.

The Hottest Coon in Dixie.

Probably no attraction ever visited this country that is so universally praised and endorsed by both the press and theatre goers as Mr. Ernest Willis's big spectacular production of the greatest of all negro absurdities, the "Hottest Coon in Dixie's Trip to Honoululu," a travesty arranged with the sole purpose of displaying the talents of the most accomplished troupe of colored comedians and the most finished and artistic chorus ever presented. There are introduced forty odd musical numbers. Five big vaudeville novelties direct from the eastern vaudeville theatres, and a score of star comedians and the whole embellished by the accompaniement of Prof G. B. Rhones' Imperial Orchestra makes the "Hottest Coon in Dixie," a sing show long to be remembered.

The engagement in Medicine Hat is announced for Friday, October 20th. A street parade and band concert will herald their arrival in town.

"I'm out o' breath, but back again! I'll wager I'll get there before thee, slow Hetty."

She paused a moment, looking toward the house.

"What man is that demanding admittance?" she asked. "Methinks he looks on us with disapproval."

"Thou knowest well 'tis Josiah," faltered Hetty. "Dost think he saw us running, cousin?"

"Aye, even so an he did. What careth thou or I?" Margaret replied indifferently as she proceeded calmly toward the house along the top of the wall, followed by Hetty, now white faced and greatly abashed.

"We will go to meet him, Hetty, and give him greeting."

Josiah Taunston busied himself with tying his horse to a tree until his cousin and sister approached, then, standing erect, regarded them coldly, with an unsmiling expression in his small gray eyes.

"I give thee good day, Cousin Josiah," Margaret said quietly, "How can I serve thee? Wilt enter?"

She threw open the door.

"Thank thee, Cousin Margaret," he replied in a hard, rasping voice. "I but rode up with a message for my sister."

Until then he had ignored Hetty, but now turned upon her suddenly with great sternness in his manner.

"But before I deliver it, Hetty, I would like to ask thee if in thy recent conduct on yonder wall thou bethought thee that the servants were taking notice, also neighbors who might be passing by?"

Margaret, tossing her hair back with her hand, disdained to answer, and Hetty, much crestfallen, replied hastily: "'Twas but the pleasure of an idle moment, Josiah. What message sent my mother?"

"She thinks, as I do, that thou hast been here long enough," he said significantly. "Thy mother hath need of thee."

"I'll go at once, brother," she answered in nervous haste.

"It is well, Margaret," turning again to her. "I would have converse with thee an thou hast this hour idle."

His cousin's face fell slightly, but she said pleasantly: "Thou'rt ever welcome, Josiah, Step into the withdrawing room, and when I have bound my hair I will come to thee. Sweet Hetty," turning to her cousin and embracing her tenderly, "goodby, or better, as we say in France, 'au revoir.' Tell mine aunt that thou hast been a sunbeam in my house to lighten the gloom of the long storm and that I part with thee most unwillingly."

"God be with thee, Margaret," Hetty answered soberly, turning toward home with evident reluctance.

CHAPTER VI.

INHERITING from his mother a hard, unyielding nature, young Taunston, in his life of struggle and trial to keep his farm intact, had obtained what success was his through firm resolve, grim determination and desperate endeavor. Where he could not bend he had broken, and now to gain his ends he knew no other method. So, instead of disguising his disapproval of his cousin's light conduct, he chose rather to place on his pale, gaunt features an expression of hardness and disapproval as he rose stiffly at the sound of the soft rustling of skirts approaching to receive her.

With her hair brushed smoothly back and a prim kerchief crossed over her shoulders, hiding the fair round neck that the dainty cotton frock she wore disclosed, her face calm and serene, but withal a very different creature from the merry young woman who but a moment since had been running on the old wall, Margaret entered quietly and bade her kinsman be seated. He did this awkwardly, appearing ill at ease. Margaret's heart felt chilled. It was all so gloomy here, so cold and solemn. For the moment her thoughts turned toward Paris with bitter longing.

Josiah shifted on his chair and worked his pale lips as though he were at a loss for words and was angered at the fact.

At last Margaret broke the silence. "'Twas a most frightful storm, good cousin. Were thy lands much damaged?"

"Nay," he replied. "Being in the valley, we are protected some. But thou, Margaret, thy lands stretch broadly in the open. Hast thou suffered losses?"

Margaret laughed lightly.

"I' truth, Josiah, I have not given the matter a thought. Farming, I wot, is not a woman's work or else the Lord had given her a better liking for it."

Josiah's small eyes glittered.

"Thou hast spoken the truth!" he cried, the words fairly bursting from his mouth in his eagerness to speak them. "To manage an estate, i' faith, is not a woman's work. Why, cousin, I warrant that these lands under thy management alone in two years would detract in value to one-half. Thy father, Margaret, ever with an eye to thy best interests, gave me the stewardship of thine estate. Didst never occur to thee what his object was in this?"

"He knew, Josiah, that thou wouldst perform thy duties punctually," she replied pleasantly, suppressing a yawn behind her hand, "for thou art known to be a zealous man and one of integrity. I ever feel that I cannot thank thee enough for thy watchful care of mine estate, good cousin."

"Margaret," Josiah said, a dark flush spreading over his countenance, "my mother—In fact, several of thy neighbors have remarked that it is not meet for so young and fair a maid to live alone."

Margaret threw up her head rather defiantly.

"I have good Elsbeth and old Giles," she replied, "an' two better watchdogs ne'er had a maid to guard her. What wouldst thou better, cousin?"

The buckle of her shoe coming loose, she leaned over to fasten it when the cross that she wore on the fine gold chain about her neck fell to the floor.

"My chain hath broken," she cried, "an' I promised dear Hulda that I would wear her gift until I died! Is there a goldsmith hereabout, Josiah?"

"Yes; old Adam Browdie, next the Sign of the Red Heart in the village," he answered. "But, cousin, it were ill for thee to ornament thyself with that unholy papist cross. 'Tis our belief that such forms are for the use of idol worshipers and are instruments of the devil. Already the village folk talk of the cross of gold thou doth wear so publicly with disfavor."

With a sudden movement he rose and came to her side, standing over her sternly.

"Burn it, Margaret! Burn the emblem that doth menace the salvation of thy soul! Burn the wicked trophy!" he commanded.

Margaret slipped the chain and cross into the bosom of her dress. "Be seated, Josiah," she said coldly, "unless thy visit is done and thou wouldst go on thy way."

"Just a moment longer." He walked across the room and resumed his seat. Beads of perspiration stood out on his forehead, and he spoke with an effort.

"I would further remonstrate with thee. Last night, Margaret, my mother, who doth love thee with a mother's love, ever holding thy best interests close to her heart, and I sat talking of thee until late into the night. We spoke kindly of thy beauty of face and form, but agreed that we liked not thy gay and frivolous taste in dressing. Then my mother, loving thee so truly, made excuses for thee, saying that thy father wronged thee when he sent thee to thine aunt in Paris to grow up in the worldly ways of that wicked city, where all the women are vain and frivolous and all the men poltroons, blackguards"—

"I deny that all the men are poltroons and blackguards!" Margaret cried, her face flushing with anger. "Heed thy words, Josiah!"

He went on in his cold, immovable way, as if she had not spoken:

"An', though we fully realize his mistake in that particular, we rejoice in thy father's wisdom that ordered thy return to thy native land when thou had reached thy majority, here to spend the remainder of thy days."

Margaret made no response, but sat before him quietly, indifferent to his words, finding him even more tiresome than usual and inwardly wondering when he would consider it expedient to take his departure, and Josiah, mistaking her silence for acquiescence and approval of his remarks, took courage to advance a step farther in his deep rooted scheme to win the young mistress of the Mayland farm.

"Hast ever thought, Margaret, what idea thy father had in his mind when he did select me for the manager of thine estate?"

"Thou didst ask me that before, and i' truth, good cousin, I am fain to confess that I ne'er gave much thought on the subject," Margaret replied indifferently. "Perchance he knew of thy good business ability and that thou wouldst order all things well for his daughter's benefit."

Josiah, leaning forward, spoke impressively.

"His idea was that I should learn the land, so that one day I would be master here. Knowest thou that he named me for thy husband, cousin?"

"Nay, 'tis not so," Margaret cried excitedly, rising and confronting him, "or else it would be so stated in his documents. In them it is most clearly writ that only at my death, should I die without issue, art thou successor here!"

"Calm thyself, good cousin. The thought is new to thee, and therefore thou'rt disturbed. To me," he added in a low voice, "this thought hath been food and drink since thy father—I mean," hastily correcting himself—"since first I saw thee."

He rose and came to her.

"Take time to think on the words I ha' just spoken. Pray for guidance to see the wisdom of accepting the love and protection of a true hearted, righteous and God fearing man, Margaret, an' thrust not aside carelessly the offer of marriage he now makes to thee."

She lifted her head hastily as if to speak, but Josiah stopped her with a stern, peremptory motion of his hand.

"Nay, cousin, answer not now. Such grave consideration as is now before thee takes time to think on. I'll speak with thee on the subject again when thou hath let the thought of me in the position of thy husband dwell longer in thy heart. God guide thee to a right decision. Fare thee well, Margaret Mayland."

She courtesied stiffly, and he, after inclining his head, strode through the open doorway and, mounting his horse, rode toward the village.

At the sound of the closing of the door Margaret ran to the window and threw open the lattice, exclaiming with a shiver: "'Tis damp and musty in this room, or else 'tis my cousin's proposition that hath chilled me. I'll let the sunshine in, and Giles can put some logs to burn in the chimney place. Prithee, the room must be warm and cheerful for Godfrey, who," she whispered happily, "now that the storm is broken, will come ere nightfall."

For a time she looked out of doors humming a gay tune lightly, then, leaving the room, ran up the stairs and, bursting into the chamber where Elsbeth was sitting mending linen, stood before her with flushed face and sparkling eyes.

"What frock shall I wear for Godfrey, Elsbeth?"

"Sir Godfrey hath come?" The woman laid down her work and looked at Margaret in surprise, who answered petulantly: "Nay, dullard. Ed w could he travel in such awful storms o'er mountain roads he knows not?"

She drew a piece of paper from her bosom, reading slowly, "'Tuesday I shall reach the inn at Hackvon, lay there one night and wilt be with thee on the morrow, Wednesday.'"

She raised the paper to her lips.

"Thus reads his missive, Elsbeth. Thou'lt remember that the storm rose wild Wednesday, now six days gone by. An' so, ah, me," she sighed dismally, "poor Godfrey hath been imprisoned all these dreary hours in that foul tavern, the Puritan, where we were forced to rest when we journeyed hither." For a moment she was silent. "But the storm hath broken and set him free!" she cried triumphantly, lifting her radiant face to the sunlight. "And now, I promise thee, he rideth fast to Cragenstone!"

Suddenly she grew more serious and, seating herself on a little stool at Elsbeth's feet, rested her elbows on the woman's lap above the mending, covered her face with her hands and appeared to be in deep thought.

"What thinkest thou, Elsbeth, of my cousin Josiah?" she asked after a time.

"He hath the appearance of an upright man and godly," the other replied

"Take time to think on the words I ha' just spoken."

thoughtfully, "but, I ween, hard and stern, even above his kind, who, with their long, sad faces, do dwell upon this mountain."

"He asked this morning to wed with me," Margaret observed quietly.

"What saidst thou?" Elsbeth exclaimed, indignation in her tone and glance. "The sour visaged churl, to want my bonny Margaret! Didst tell him of Sir Godfrey?"

"Nay," blushing softly. "There are few to whom I care to say that name. I would have told Josiah, 'Nay, nay, nay!' and thrice more nay and sent him roundly to the right about on the instant for his presumption, but he would not take mine answer, and, forsooth, commanding me harshly to let thoughts of him dwell in my heart until his haughty lordship would speak with me on the subject again, he took his departure. It was this manner. Look, Elsbeth."

Rising to her feet, Margaret strode with stiff awkwardness toward the door.

"Ugh!" with a shudder. "I was forced to open the lattice to let the sunlight in after he left, the room had grown so damp and cold from his chilling presence! So thou'lt not give thy consent for thy Margaret's marriage with him, Elsbeth?" teasingly.

Elsbeth shook her head in a knowing manner.

"Forsooth, pretty, I trow thou'lt wed thy lover that rideth here anon, that thy young heart is set on, with my consent or without it, but," she continued thoughtfully, "ever will it seem strange to me that such a hard man as thy cousin Josiah doth appear to be should have a desire for anything so soft as the love of a woman."

"Prithee, forget his gloomy face," Margaret interrupted crossly; then, coming and sitting at Elsbeth's knee again, said coaxingly: "Let's talk of—Godfrey! Oh, Elsbeth, such bonny times, such happy hours as we will have together!" she exclaimed, with clasped hands and quick drawn breath. "Sweet Godfrey, to come so soon! He told me on the eve before I left—when we were both so sad; hath forgotten, stupid Elsbeth?—that he had business in London which would shortly bring him across the channel and that he would in probability visit me ere I were well settled on mine estate. Oh, Elsbeth, I could wring my hands with sorrow that the cruel storm rose and kept him from me six long days, and then again I could sing until I burst my heart for very joy that I shall see him today ere nightfall."

Rising suddenly, she went to the open window and, throwing out her arms, cried earnestly: "Oh, warm winds, whispering winds, bring me word that Godfrey now rideth safely up the mountain road—my Godfrey, whom I love!"

For answer the rough breeze tossed her hair about and blew the white points of her kerchief over her face.

"Ah," she murmured softly, "I need not thy fickle confirmation, shifting winds! My heart, that is ever my best guidance, doth give me assurance that he'll come tonight! What frock shall I wear, dull Elsbeth, with no thought above thy mending? Shall I do him honor and receive him as a stately Parisian lady in my silken gown of peachblow hue with feathers waving high above my head, or shall I let him take me to his heart as a simple mountain maiden with smooth hair, gray homespun frock and sober countenance? Whichever way, good Elsbeth, will Godfrey like me best?"

Elsbeth, enjoying the girl's happy mood, smiled indulgently.

"An my opinion were worth the giving in such a case," she replied, "methinks Sir Godfrey will see only the happy light in thy blue eyes and thy red lips when first he cometh."

"Elsbeth!" Margaret shook her finger at her companion, laughing lightly "Thou hath surely had a lover, although thou hast ever denied it, or else how knowest thou so well their ways Come, I'll wear my peachblow silk, be deck myself in the grandest fashion and receive my Godfrey in the with trawing room with all the honors would bestow upon the king were he to visit me. The king!" she exclaimed with a disdainful toss of her head "Forsooth, what is a king compared to Godfrey?"

The sight of the complete adoration of her charge for this man caused a feeling of pain to strike the elder woman's heart, and as she unfastened the lacing of Margaret's bodice she felt compelled to say:

"Methinks 'twere not well, sweet, to fasten thy heart so entirely on a man not yet thy husband. An old woman with much experience of the world doth know that many men, especially worldly men of fashion as Sir Godfrey La Fabienne, woo a maid with mad hot love, then ride away, leaving her to cure a broken heart."

"Elsbeth!" exclaimed Margaret sharply. "Cease thine idle chatter and dar not cast thy vile insinuations against Sir Godfrey in my presence."

Her face flushed, tears filled her eyes, and she took the lacings out of Elsbeth's hands as though she no longer wished her aid, walking from her.

"Forgive me, sweet Margaret." Elsbeth followed her anxiously, regret at her words showing in her countenance. "'Tis but my love for thee that gives me false anxiety, bonny, for thy happiness is my happiness, an' thy sorrow more than my sorrow."

For a time Margaret was silent; then she said with great seriousness: "Elsbeth, never again express doubt of Sir Godfrey. Doubt that the sun riseth to light the earth; doubt that night falls upon the day; doubt thy love for me, but never cherish such thoughts as thou didst give voice to a moment since against Sir Godfrey La Fabienne—a man," she continued in a low, passionate voice, "so much to me, so deeply rooted in my affections, that I could die for very joy of loving him. Were the earth to divide us, Elsbeth, we are one—one heart and one soul forever!"

Then, after a deep felt silence, she added in brighter tones, "But, prithee, come, the peachblow gown an' happy faces, for this is a joyful day, good Elsbeth!"

CHAPTER VII.

AT the open door of the kitchen Mistress Taunston sat before her spinning wheel, busy with distaff and spindle, and at intervals as she paused in her work looked longingly toward the fertile lands of the Mayland farm. But her thoughts, never far from her son Josiah, soon strayed back to him.

"E'en now he is at his wooing," she said to herself with stern exultation, "an' I pray the good Lord who is ever watchful of the faithful to put persuasive and convincing words on my lad's lips and guide him to the most proper conduct."

For a time she seemed lost in thought until her distaff, falling from under her arm, came to the floor with a rattling noise that roused her. Then the remembrance of Hetty, who upon her arrival from her cousin's had been sent to the brook to fill the ewers, coming to her mind, she rose suddenly to look at the sun. Finding the hour to be later than she had at first supposed, her irritation and anger caused by her daughter's delay at the brook knew no bounds. She called the girl's name shrilly once, twice, muttering angrily as she got no response.

Just then Josiah rode in from his visit to the Mayland farm.

"Cease thy shrewish screaming, mother," he commanded roughly. "Dost wish to rouse the village? Thy voice can be heard half a mile below."

The dame, angered at his rebuke, resumed her seat in sullen silence, and Josiah took his horse to the barn. In a short time he returned and, entering the kitchen, threw himself down heavily on a chair near his mother, who continued to spin busily without apparently heeding his presence.

At last he broke the silence by saying with affected carelessness: "Thou didst not tell me—if my memory serves me well on so slight a matter—of what appearance the cavalier was that rode by Hagrott's and mistook the Sterndorf road. Was he an unbearded gallant, fickle and changeable as the wind, one day mad in love with a pretty face and forgetting it the next, or was he old and gray haired, with an eye to finishing his days in comfort on the estate of his bride?"

His mother looked out through the doorway, reflectively maintaining for a moment or two a provoking silence. After what seemed to the impatient Josiah an interminable length of time she remarked with ill concealed eagerness, "Thou wert successful in thy wooing, Josiah, and ask now of thine enemy's appearance in order that thou mayst know the extent of thy triumph?"

"As to that matter, nothing is definitely settled," he replied impatiently. "I will explain our understanding later, mother, when the noon hour is not at hand and the animals to be fed. Canst not find words to answer my question?" he cried out in harsh tones. "Didst thou see this Frenchman plainly? Of what appearance was he?"

With quiet deliberation, which was in direct contrast to her son's excited manner, she commenced her narrative.

"Josiah, I ha' told thee of the gallant's sudden appearance at good Brother Haggott's door, of his loud knocking and of how from my place behind the lattice I observed him carefully."

"Aye, thou hast, but naught else," Josiah interposed with eagerness.

"His age, mother? Of what age looked he?"

An Irish Compliment.

The Irish, with that happy instinct of theirs for the paradoxical, have left on the right method for paying homage to the memory of Moore. They propose to remove from College street, Dublin, an abominable effigy of his which has long filled his admirers with horor.—London Chronicle.

Making Wives Happy.

"It seems to me that the way to make a woman happy is to give her all your sympathy and affection," says Dr. Edward Brooks in Rochester Herald. "As for overlooking any faults, a man ought not to see any faults in his wife. If it does happen that there are a few very patent ones—and I suppose there are some women who are not exactly angels—a man ought not to see them any more than he sees the spots on the sun when it is shining brilliantly in the heavens, and he ought to remember that no matter what disillusions he may experience after marriage it was he himself who undertook the responsibility of taking to himself a young woman that he promised to love and honor."

A Job In the Senate Chamber

By Frank H. Sweet

She went up the middle steps and turned around the corner to the right. A long line was extending back from the door, expectant, impatient, though the visitors' gallery would not be open to the public until 12. She drew from her belt the one remaining link of former opulence. It still lacked ten minutes, and she slipped the watch back with a scarcely breathed sigh. Why had she come here at all, she thought accusingly? She would be better visiting the stores in search of a position as clerk; there were surely some business houses she had not yet been in. And—and besides—

Her eyes were brighter, and a flush came and descended to her lips in a soft, evanescent smile that was more like the smile of the old days before the wistfulness came.

She had been standing at the post-office door, and he had looked precisely as he had that day when he parted from them in the Arizona canyon, he a penniless prospector and her father an extensive mine owner. And he had not forgotten. Even before she saw him he had sprung from a carriage, without regard to his horses, and was coming up the postoffice steps with outstretched hands.

"Good heavens! You here, Muriel—Miss Ashburton," he had cried, with a gladness in his voice which he did not attempt to conceal and which brought an answering color to her face and light to her eyes. There had been nothing between them except a look and hand pressure, but she had often thought of him in these later dreary years and was glad to know he had remembered her. "I looked for you everywhere—everywhere," he had continued, "but without a clew. I was afraid you had gone from my life. But pardon me; we cannot talk here, and I have a great deal to say. May I call on you at once—this evening? Is your father here?"

"My father is dead," she had managed to say. Her brain had been in a whirl, her heart in a tumult. What did it all mean? What was this impetuous madman saying, implying? By a strong effort she had controlled herself.

"Yes, you may call," she had answered in a low voice. "I—I will be glad to see you." And she had given him the number of the house in which she rented one small room.

"Thank you. I will be there early. I would ask to go back with you now, but I have an appointment which is already overdue. Isn't it providential, though, this meeting? I have been in Washington only three days, and to turn up against you like this!"

"Have you employment here?" she had asked for want of something better to say.

"Yes, temporarily; a job in the senate chamber. You remember I was a jack of all trades, from a farm boy to an impecunious prospector, with occasional dabs at fresco painting and journalism to help me through college. But I will not detain you here in the wind any longer."

She had watched him spring into the carriage and drive away, an odd light in her eyes and a warm color in her cheeks. As she went down the sidewalk she laughed softly. Eight years before she would not have been like this. Evidently he was without any regular employment, just doing some temporary work in the senate chamber—fresco painting probably, for he had spoken of being familiar with that. At first, from his being in the carriage holding the horses, she had thought he might be a coachman, waiting for his employer's return. But, after all, what did it matter? Coachman or painter or impecunious prospector, he was warm hearted and honest and ambitious. She could read that in his eyes and in the strong, full grasp of his hands. And he had remembered her and—and cared for her. It was beautiful to know that in the hurrying, indifferent world there was one who still thought of her and cared for her a little. The manner or lack of employment was such a small matter compared with that. Knowledge of life soon leveled such petty distinctions.

Almost unconsciously her steps had turned toward the capitol. The only alternative seemed a continuation of her search for employment, and, somehow, she shrank from that just now, even though she had been restricting herself to a single meal a day for a week. She would celebrate the finding of a friend. It was opening day at the senate chamber and would be unusually interesting, and perhaps she might see this friend himself or some of the work he had been doing.

There was a sudden stir in the line ahead of her, and she felt herself being pushed forward. The door was open at last, and foot by foot, yard by yard, she was being impelled toward it. But when she entered every seat was taken, and she could only crowd herself into the narrow space behind the last row. She could see the chaplain and a few of the senators on the far side of the chamber and upon the few desks in sight a gorgeous display of flowers.

Presently she heard the opening prayer and bowed her head. Then there was a confusion of voices, with quick, crisp sentences from one desk and another, followed by a short recess in which there was a great shaking of hands and introductions among the senators. At the end of fifteen or twenty minutes some of those in the visitors' gallery began to rise and leave. They had witnessed the opening and were now going home to lunch. Soon she was able to step down to a vacant seat in one of the front rows.

She had now a good view of the chamber, and her gaze swept curiously from desk to desk. Many of the senators she recognized from pictures she had seen in current periodicals. Suddenly she started and half arose. She had not thought to see him down there; if she met him at all it would be in one of the corridors, and probably at work. But there he was, at one of the desks, examining some papers. What did it mean? He had no right to be in there now, while the senate was in session.

An hour later she descended to the next floor, still dazed and wondering. As she left the elevator she met him face to face.

"What! you here, Muriel—Miss Ashburton?" he cried. "This is splendid! Now we can have that talk without waiting until evening. I know a cozy little table down in a corner of the cafe where we can be all by ourselves. We will talk while we eat our lunch. Come."

She was looking at him with wide eyes.

"Why were you in there, at a desk?" she demanded.

"In the senate chamber? Oh, that's my job. You see, when I left you that day I went straight to one of the new towns and opened a law office. My father was a lawyer, and I had studied with him. Somehow the people seemed to like my ways, and last year they hatched up a plot to send me here. But come, we can talk better at the table. I have a proposition for your consideration, and," his voice suddenly becoming grave, "I hope you will be able to see your way to accede to it. Come."

And she, after a moment's bewildered, ecstatic hesitation, went.

An Animal Cemetery.

In spite of much agitation upon the subject at various times, lovers of animals have never succeeded in establishing in this country a cemetery as elaborate as those in several European capitals.

The largest and most beautiful animal cemetery is La Necropole Zoologique, in Paris, or, rather, in the suburb of Asnieres. Here a large plot of ground is laid out for the interment of dogs and other animals, and here are erected monuments in every way as handsome as those over the graves of human beings in other cities of the dead.

Some famous dogs have sculptures to mark their memories, and dog kennels in marble are favorite vaults. For $2.50 a grave is leased for three years, and this fee includes the services of a dog undertaker, uniformed and mounted on a tricycle. For $100 a grave may be leased in perpetuity, and between these extremes may be found prices to suit all purposes. The cemetery occupies an entire island in the Seine, and, apart from the rental of graves, the company owning the property makes a handsome profit out of the sale of admission tickets to visitors.

The Race He Won.

In the old whaling days a New Bedford captain fell in with a lot of his "townies" in the Pacific, says the Chicago Record-Herald, and after a landing for water on the coast of South America, began a boat race off shore toward the ships. The old skipper kept muttering to his crew to take it easy. The others jeered him as he fell behind, but he took it cheerfully.

"The race I'm after is the race home," he said. He pointed to a little bight in the rocks into which the crew could just see.

"Ever see that rock in there before?" he asked. "No, I guess not. That's a cow whale and her calf up there on the shore. It's her nursery."

When the others were far enough away to give him a clear field he made for the shore. He got the cow and the calf. The others said very little about the race he did not win, for he was the first man back to New Bedford.

Ups and Downs of Santa Cruz.

Probably no other of the West Indian islands has had such a checkered career as Santa Cruz. In turn it has belonged to Spain, which abandoned it; to England and Holland jointly; to England alone; to Spain again, which fell upon the colonists and destroyed or deported them all; to France, which took it from Spain; to the Knights of Malta, who received it as a gift from France; to a private company of adventurers. Then it was resumed possession of by France, but abandoned, so that in 1720 it was uninhabited. Then it became a no man's land until 1727, when France took it again, and presently sold it to a Danish company, which sold it in turn to the king of Denmark. In 1801 England took it once more, gave it back to Denmark, repented and took it away again in a few months, held it for eight years, and then returned it to Denmark, which holds it still.

Plucky Oglethorpe.

Of General Oglethorpe, the founder of the state of Georgia, Boswell, Dr. Johnson's biographer, relates this story: "When a very young man, only fifteen, serving under Prince Eugene of Savoy, he was sitting at table in company with a prince of the house of Wurttemberg, who took up a glass of wine and by a flilip made some of it fly into Oglethorpe's face. The young soldier was in a dilemma. He durst not challenge so distinguished a personage, yet he must notice the affront. Therefore, keeping his eye fixed on his highness and smiling at the time, as if he took what had been done in jest, Oglethorpe exclaimed, 'That's a good joke, but we do it much better in England.' Whereupon he flung a whole glassful of wine in the prince's face. The affair ended in good humor."

They Commenced.

An Irishman on being made foreman of a gang of laborers wished to show his authority to those under him on the first morning of his promotion.

"Now, look here, boys," said he, "when I say 'Commince' you have all to commince, and them that don't commince when I say commince won't commince. So commince."—London Standard.

Chenonceaux Built at the Bidding of Diana of Poitiers.

Chenonceaux was one of the earliest chateaux that represented the new spirit. It was built on the site of the old feudal fortress in a sort of freak of the sense of opportunity. It was meant to give room and verge enough to a generation bent on having a good time in hall and bower. It was still a fortress of a kind, but this only as an afterthought. In the main it was a palace for sport and festival. It might have stood on dry land; it preferred to bridge a river. There was no want of space in other directions, but this seemed best as a stroke of constructive impudence. The architect at the bidding of Diana of Poitiers jumped the Cher as a schoolboy would have jumped a brook. The huge arches never carried anything of use to mankind at large, not even a right of way.

At first most of them had no superstructure, and the bridge might have been called "Diana's folly." But she knew what she was about. She was a mighty man subduer, with a heart as cold as the stone of her new dwelling and a face and form kept beautiful forever by the studious avoidance of every pang—a wonderful creature withal, for she contrived to die in her bed, though she crossed the path of Catherine de' Medici. She ruled a king by the usual methods and by studious deference to him kept him her obedient, humble servant to the day of his death. She inspired one of the greatest sculptors of her time in his creation of a Venus that rivaled the antique.

She was one of the mightiest land grabbers of history, adding chateau to chateau with a purpose that never faltered and by methods of smooth, unemotional persistence that never failed. She started with everything against her in that epoch of the worship of youth when she began her siege of the heart of the dauphin of France. She was a widow, and a widow with a family, yet she knew no pause in her triumphant career till she had married and dowered them all and provided herself with a choice of palaces for her old age. She never made an enemy or—which was quite as much to the purpose—a friend who was not likely to be of use. She died in the sanctity of faultless manners and an unruffled brow. Her heart of ice kept her a Venus to the last. Had her prototype been anything but a goddess Diana might have given her points in the wise avoidance of the ravages of temperament.—Century.

Not much more enviable than the lot of the unfortunate man who is reported to have grown shorter is that of racing ponies in India, Egypt and elsewhere, which are made to measure from three-quarters of an inch to a full inch lower than their natural measurements. Paring the hoof can only be done to a certain extent. But ponies can be educated to stand with their heels apart, and if the head is tied up for some time before they are put under the standard they will stand to their best advantage. THE TIMES
MEDICINE HAT, N. W. T.

A MODERN MEDICINE

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS CURE DISEASE THROUGH THE BLOOD.

Medicines of the old fashioned kind will sometimes relieve the symptoms of disease, though they can never touch the disease itself—they never cure. Ordinary medicines leave behind them indigestion, constipation, biliousness and headache; purgatives leave the patients feverish and weakened. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, on the other hand, do direct good to the body, blood and nerves. They fill the veins with new, rich, red blood; they brace the nerves; they drive out disease by going right to the root of the trouble in the blood. They always do good—they cannot possibly do harm. Mrs. Geo. Henley, Boxgrove, Ont., says:—"It is with thanks that I tell you that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured me after my doctor had said I could not be cured. I suffered from an almost constant fluttering of the heart, and sometimes severe pains. The least exertion would leave me breathless and tired out. My appetite was poor and my head ached nearly all the time. I had lost all ambition to do any work, and felt very hopeless. I had taken a great deal of medicine without any benefit, until I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These have made a remarkable change in my condition, and I am feeling better than I have done for years. I gladly give my experience in the hope that it will benefit others."

Now Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up strength as they did in Mrs. Henley's case in just one way—they actually make new blood. That is all they do, but they do it well. They don't act on the bowels, they don't bother with mere symptoms. They go right to the root of the trouble in the blood. That is why these pills cure anaemia, headache, heart palpitation, indigestion, kidney trouble, rheumatism, lumbago, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, paralysis, general weakness and the special ailments of growing girls and women. But you must have the genuine with the full name Dr. Williams Pink Pills for Pale People, on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Not very many years ago, in a country church in the west of England, the clergyman, preaching with great earnestness for home missions, came down from the pulpit, well content with the effect his eloquence had produced on the congregation. Suddenly the disturbing thought struck him that he had made no arrangements for the collection, which was sure to be a liberal one on this occasion. As he passed through the chancel he whispered hurriedly to a choir boy: "Go into the vestry, take the plate you will find on the table, hand it round to the congregation, and then bring it back to me." The boy departed on his errand, and the minister took his place within the communion rails and gave out the offertory hymn. The last words of this had scarcely died away when the boy stood before him, a plate of biscuits in his hand and an apologetic expression on his chubby face. "Please, sir," he explained in an audible voice, "I've handed them all to everybody, and nobody will have any."

To Those of Sedentary Occupation.—Men who follow sedentary occupations, which deprive them of fresh air and exercise, are more prone to disorders of the liver and kidneys than those who lead active, outdoor lives. The former will find in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills a restorative without question the most efficacious on the market. They are easily procurable, easily taken, act expeditiously, and they are surprisingly cheap considering their excellence.

A Chinese, carrying a ladder, walked into one of the police courts in Singapore the other day. Removing his hat, he bowed with grace to the Judge on the Bench. Over the latter's seat was a valuable clock. This the Chinese quietly removed, tucked it under one arm and the ladder under the other, bowed again to the Magistrate, and withdrew. Some days elapsed, and the clock was not returned. It had been stolen while the court was in sitting.

CURIOUS SCRAPS.

An Ancient Recipe for Marriage Divination—Pin Lore—Easter Customs—The Origin of "Dunning."

The expression owes its birth to the business energy of one Joseph Dun, a bailiff, of Lincoln, in the reign of Henry VII. He was reputed to be so expert and successful in the difficult art of bad debt collecting that when a creditor had a troublesome debtor to deal with it became customary for sympathizing friends to say, "Why don't you 'Dun' him?" And so the noun became a verb, and a verb it has remained ever since.

Marriage Divination.

"Make a plain cake, and mix therein a wedding ring and a small silver coin—as a sixpence. When the company are about to retire in the evening after a wedding, break the cake into as many portions as there are unmarried women present, and give a piece of it to each of them. She who gets the ring will be married very soon afterwards; but she who gets the sixpence will die an old maid." (What is to be the fate of those who get neither wedding ring nor sixpence we are not told.)

Pin Lore.

An old folk rhyme runs:—
See a pin and pick it up,
All the day you'll have good luck;
See a pin and let it lie,
All the day you'll need to cry.
or, as the Devonshire version has it:—
To see a pin and let it lie,
You'll want a pin before you die.

But pins have become cheaper since these words were first written, and so they are seldom, if ever, repeated nowadays.

Easter Customs.

A peculiar Easter custom is observed at Halston, in Leicestershire. On Easter Monday morning the villagers gather at the rectory, and thence walk in procession to Hare-pie Bank, a piece of land which many years ago was bequeathed for the use of the rector. Arrived there, they set to work on two hare pies, twenty-four loaves (which are scrambled for), and a sufficiency of ale, all of which the rector provides, in fulfilment of the condition by which he holds the ground.

The vicar of Coleshill, in Warwickshire, holds his glebe land on condition that if any of the villagers can catch and present him with a hare before ten o'clock on Easter-day morning he shall provide them with a calf's head and one hundred eggs for their breakfast and a groat in cash.

A Norfolk custom is to eat baked custard at Easter tide, probably because eggs are the principal ingredient of the dish.

An old Easter weather rhyme, popular in agricultural districts, runs:—
If it rains on Good Friday and Easter day
There'll be plenty of grass and some very good hay.

Dear Men and Departed Spirits.

"What," asks a correspondent, "is the meaning of the words in the song 'Down among the dead men let him lie'?" The song is a relic of the old drinking days, and the words mean simply: Let him drink to such excess that he will slip off his seat and lie helpless among the empty bottles under the table. Empty wine and spirit bottles are called "dead men" because the alcohol, or spirit, is no longer in them. When a man's spirit leaves his body, he is a dead man, and so, when the spirit is out of the bottle, the bottle is (humorously) called "a dead man."

A Good Turn.

Now that the old treadmill is a thing of the past, it is interesting to learn that it was once vaunted by the "authorities" as a cure for—rheumatism! In 1823, Mr. Home Secretary Peel, having officially asked the visiting justices what effect the then recently introduced "wheel" had upon the prisoners' health, they assured him that it was in every way beneficial, and cited, as proof of its sanitary virtues, the case of a rheumatic woman, who as she was leaving Brixton prison after a month on the treadmill, being asked how she felt, replied that her rheumatism was entirely cured.

A Maligned Ecclesiastic.

The Scottish Archbishop (and church historian), Spotiswood, who in 1633 was put to rest in Westminster Abbey after 74 years of strenuous life, bore the sinister reputation of having, in his early clerical stage, committed the —to Scottish Church folk—shockingly heinous sin of playing football on the Sabbath day, and this is how he acquired it: Returning from church one Sunday, he came upon a disorderly rabble who were playing football, and the leather making in his direction to prevent it striking his shins he stopped it with his foot, and through that natural defensive action he gained the stigma which attached to him during the remainder of his career.

The Ill and the Well.

To St. Oswald's Well, in Benton, Northumberland, is attributed the virtue—providing certain simple formalities be observed—of predicting the recovery or otherwise of a sick person from his malady. The local tradition is that if an undergarment, taken off the patient and thrown into the well, floats on the water the patient will recover, but if it sinks his condition is hopeless. The well, as its name indicates, is under the patronage of St. Oswald, and in Popish times it was customary for those who used the test to tear off a piece of the test garment and hang it upon an adjacent bush, by way of acknowledging the saint's services in the matter. The effect of this in the period of its vogue is described in an old manuscript preserved in the Cottonian library: "Of these rags," says the writer, "I have seen such numbers as might have made a fayre rheme in a paper myll."

The Blind Man's Story.

There is a pitiful story told in the Bookman of Philip Bourge Marston, the blind English writer. One day a particularly good idea came to him, and he sat down to his typewriter with enthusiasm. He wrote rapidly for hours, and had nearly finished the story when a friend came in. "Read that," said Marston, proudly, "and tell me what you think of it." The friend stared at the happy author and then at the blank sheets of paper in his hand before he was able to understand the little tragedy. The ribbon had been taken from the typewriter, and Marston's toil was for nothing. He never had the heart to write that story again.

Which is the more reprehensible of the two expressions, "Oh, dear me," or "Not worth a tinker's dam"? Some good folk will be surprised to learn that the former words, for all their apparent innocence, comprise downright hard swearing, being simply an Anglicised form of the Italian "O Dio Mol!"—literally, "Oh, my God!" On the other hand, the latter fierce, round-oath-like expression is merely a harmless industrial simile. The tinker's "dam" was an embankment of clay or putty, "by which fused solder was confined to a desired point, and afterwards, when the metal had cooled, the "dam" was broken away and thrown aside as worthless—hence "not worth a tinker's dam."

I AM STRONG NOW AND DO MY OWN WORK

Nervous System Was Exhausted and Pains Were Almost Unbearable—Health Restored by

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

As a convalescent food there is nothing to be compared to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Gradually and certainly this treatment enriches the weak, watery blood, restores vitality to the wasted nervous system and builds up the body generally.

If you are pale, weak, nervous, irritable and unable to sleep or rest there is health and strength awaiting you in the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. J. Hatcher, 224 Sherbrooke street, Peterboro, Ont., and whose husband is a moulder at the Hamilton Foundry, states: "I had an attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which left me in a very run-down state of health, and in fact my whole nervous system seemed exhausted and worn out. I could not sleep, and at times the pains in my head were almost unbearable. As a result of these symptoms I was unable to attend to my housework, and felt miserable most of the time.

On the advice of a friend, I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and can say that it has proved of very great benefit to me. I am able to do my own work now, and feel stronger and healthier than I have for years. I can truthfully state that this is due to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which I consider a great health builder."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

This story is told, according to the Boston Herald, at the expense of the late General Wilmon W. Blackmar: General Blackmar was attending a camp, when he was approached by a seedy-looking man, who greeted him profusely. The general shrugged his shoulders and turned away, with the remark that they were not acquainted. "But, General," said the stranger, "don't you remember how you saved my life at the battle of the Wilderness?" General Blackmar at once became interested, and he called a group of comrades over to listen, saying: "I saved this man's life once. How was it done, old comrade?" "It was this way," was the response. "We were on a hill, and the enemy advanced steadily toward our entrenchments. A veritable hail of fire swept our position. Suddenly you turned"—here the auditors were absorbed and excited—"and ran, and I ran after you. I think that if you hadn't shown the example I would have been killed that day."

"Yes, sir," says the man with the determined air, "I heard my boy using slang, and I soon put a stop to it." "Children are apt to pick up slang expressions very readily," soothingly says the man with the benignant look. "Well, I didn' bother about investigating as to where he got on to such a line of talk. I just trotted the youngster into the bedroom, took up my slipper, and told him this slangy way of handing out conversation we didn't go in any seek of the woods, and he had to cut it out forthwith or else he would get what was coming to him. And you can bet your life he laid down his hand right away."

SUFFERED TORTURE FOR FOUR YEARS

THEN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED WM. DOEG'S RHEUMATISM.

He was so Bad That he Could not Lie Down, but had to sit Night and Day in a Chair.

Sundridge, Ont., Aug. 23.—(Special)—Mr. William Doeg, of this place, now a hale, hearty man, tells of his almost miraculous cure of Rheumatism by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"For four years I suffered excruciating torture," says Mr. Doeg. "I was scarcely an hour free from pain. I could not lie down to take rest, but had to sit night and day in a chair."

"I was treated for rheumatism by several doctors, and also tried several medicines without receiving any benefit. Almost in despair I feared I never again would be free from pain. Then I read of some remarkable cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills. I procured a box and soon found they were doing me good and before I had finished the second box I was entirely free from pain and a new man."

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure Rheumatism by putting the Kidneys in shape to take the cause—Uric Acid—out of the blood.

MESSRS. C. C. RICHARDS & CO.,

Gentlemen,—I have frequently used MINARD'S LINIMENT and also prescribed it for my patients always with the most gratifying results, and I consider it the best all-round Liniment extant.

Yours truly,

A member of the American Geographical Society, in speaking of Robert E. Peary's trip to the north, said:—"My son the other day sat and pored over a map of Greenland and the lands and waters adjacent to Greenland. His mother entered the room and looked over his shoulder. "'Why,' she said, 'when I was a girl and studied that map everything was white on it—we had practically nothing to learn. But now look at it—Melville Land, Hellprin Land, Cape Jessup—why, it's quite a hard map, now, isn't it?' "'Yes,' grumbled the boy, 'it is. And it's all the fault of that good-for-nothing Peary, too.'"

A Sure Cure For Headache.—Bilious headache, to which women are more subject than men, become so acute in some subjects that they are utterly prostrated. The stomach refuses food, and there is a constant and distressing effort to free the stomach from bile which has become unduly secreted there. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are a speedy alterative, and in neutralizing the effects of the intruding bile relieves the pressure on the nerves which cause the headache. Try them.

A passenger train in England was stopped the other day by the operation of the emergency brake, the communication cord having been pulled. A guard went through the train and in one compartment a distracted woman passenger was looking out of the window. She had lost her set of false teeth and wanted to go back and find them.

No one need fear cholera if they have a bottle of this medicine convenient.

IMMORTALITY.

Two caterpillars crawling on a leaf,
By some strange accident in contact came;
Their conversation, passing all belief,
Was that same argument, the very same.
That has been "proed and conned" from man to man,
Yea, ever since this wondrous world began.
The ugly creatures,
Deaf, dumb and blind,
Devoid of features,
That adorn mankind,
Were vain enough, in dull and wordy strife,
To speculate upon a future life,
The first was optimistic, full of hope;
The second, quite dyspeptic, seemed to mope.
Said number one, "I'm sure of our salvation."
Said number two, "I'm sure of our damnation;
Our ugly forms alone would seal our fates
And bar our entrance through the golden gates.
Suppose that death should take us unawares,
How could we climb the golden stairs?
If maidens shun us as they pass us by,
Would angels bid us welcome in the sky?
I wonder what great crimes we have committed,
That leave us so forlorn and so unpitied?
Perhaps we've been ungrateful, unforgiving;
'Tis plain to me that life's not worth the living."
"Come, come, cheer up," the jovial worm replied,
"Let's take a look upon the other side;
Suppose we cannot fly like moths or millers,
Are we to blame for being caterpillars?
Will that same God that doomed us to crawl the earth,
A prey to every bird that's given birth,
Forgive our captor as he eats and sings,
And damn poor us because we have not wings?
If we can't skim the air like owl or bat,
A worm will turn 'for a' that,'"
They argued through the summer; autumn nigh,
The ugly things composed themselves to die;
And so to make their funeral quite complete,
Each wrapped him in his little winding-sheet.
The tangled web encompassed them full soon,
Each for his coffin made him a cocoon.
All through the winter's chilling blast they lay
Dead to the world, aye, dead as human clay.
Lo, spring comes forth with all her warmth and love;
She brings sweet justice from the realms above;
She breaks the chrysalis, she resurrects the dead;
Two butterflies ascend, encircling her head.
And so this emblem shall forever be
A sign of immortality.
—Joseph Jefferson.

THE BUREAU OF LABOR.

Interesting Details in the Fifth Annual Report of the Department.

The fifth annual report of the Labor Bureau shows that during 1904 there were 54 trade disputes resulting in strikes in Ontario, involving 171 establishments and 8,945 persons. An aggregate of 873 days was covered by the strikes, the average duration of each dispute being 14.41 days, or 10.12 days per person, compared with 81 disputes involving 439 establishments, 10,564 persons, aggregating 994 days, an average of 12.15 days to each dispute, and 10.63 days per person in 1902.

The establishments reporting to the bureau were 174, employing 11,503 persons. The gross value of their aggregate product was $25,714,296; the amount paid in wages $4,400,636, an annual average earning of $382.56 per person. The percentage labor cost of production was 17.15, as against 21.69 in 1901, and 25 in 1902.

The report includes the replies of clerks of cities, towns and villages to a circular inquiry as to the opportunity existing in their municipalities. These replies are very valuable, and one cannot help being struck by the variety of business opportunities throughout the Province. The plan of gathering such information has been warmly commended by the editor of Commercial Intelligence, London, in a letter written to the bureau. A number of statistics of interest to all workers and employes, legal decisions affecting the relations between employer and employes, a synopsis of the labor laws of Ontario, etc., are also contained in the report.

He Tried to Follow Directions.

Dr. William Osler, formerly of Johns Hopkins, now regius professor of medicine at Oxford, was talking, during his recent Canadian tour, about the importance of precision in the writing of prescriptions.

"Wherever a sentence may have two meanings," said Dr. Osler, "rest assured that the wrong meaning will be taken. Hence," it is important in prescription writing and in directions to patients that the greatest clarity and precision be obtained.

"A young foreigner one day visited a physician and described a common malady that had befallen him.

"'The thing for you to do,' the physician said, 'is to drink hot water an hour before breakfast every morning.'

"'Write it down, doctor, as I won't forget it,' said the patient.

"Accordingly the physician wrote the directions down — namely, that the young man was to drink hot water an hour before breakfast every morning.

"The patient took his leave, and in a week he returned.

"'Well, how are you feeling?' the physician asked.

"'Worse, doctor, worse, if anything,' was the reply.

"'Ahem. Did you follow my advice and drink hot water an hour before breakfast?'

"'I did my best, sir,' said the young man, 'but I couldn't keep it up more than ten minutes at a stretch.'"

Justice in Borneo is administered in a most primitive manner. One way of deciding between two disputants is to give each a large lump of salt. These lumps are dropped in water, and he whose lump is first dissolved is decided to be in the wrong. Or two live shellfish are placed on a plate and lime juice squeezed over them. The verdict is given according to which man's fish moves first.

What Flour Granulation Means in Bread-Making

Flour is composed of myriads of tiny granules.

To make good bread these granules must be uniform in size.

In poorly milled flour some granules are large, some small.

The small ones absorb yeast, "rise" and "ripen" before the large ones—the result is bread of coarse, poor texture.

The large granules are not developed into "sponge," they bake into heavy hard particles, spoil the texture of the bread and make it harder to digest.

ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR is perfectly milled—all the flour granules are uniform in size—the sponge rises uniformly—the bread is even in texture—perfect in flavor—good-looking, appetising bread—easily digested.

A Time for Everything.—The time for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is when croupy symptoms appear in the children; when rheumatic pains beset the old; when lumbago, asthma, coughs, colds, catarrh or earache attack either young or old; when burns, scalds, abrasions, contusions or sprains come to any member of the family. In any of these ailments it will give relief and work a cure.

Abe Hummel, the New York lawyer, who is known as a master of repartee, is to be credited with a new, pithy and very much to the point retort. The other morning, accompanying a client to court, the case at issue being a breach of promise suit for damages based on letters written by the defendant, the counsellor had given a lesson on morals to his client, when the latter dejectedly remarked:—"Oh, I know all about it, Abe; the same old song, 'Do right and fear nothing.'"

It was in the country, and she was young and sweet and poetic, and he was young and mischievous. They were sitting on the verandah in the moonlight, and she grew ethereal. "Oh, how I love to sit out here in the moonlight," she cooed; "to be fanned by the languorous perfumes of the roses, and to be kissed by the soft airs from the south!" Then he kissed her and she grew indignant. "How dare you?" she almost sobbed. "Why, I'm a soft heir from the south," he replied, contritely. She didn't say anything when he kissed her again.

Baptist Church Welcome New Pastor.

There was a representative gathering at the Baptist Church last night to welcome the new pastor, Rev. H. Bryant, and his bride. A reception was held in the beautiful new church which was well filled those present representing every denomination in town. Mr. E. Ellers made a capital chairman and the proceedings were very hearty throughout.

After a few introductory remarks the chairman called upon Deacon Waldock to address the meeting.

Deacon Waldock said he had been asked by the reception committee to say a few words of welcome to their new pastor, Mr. Bryant, and he had much pleasure in doing so. He thought the church had been very fortunate in obtaining a pastor so soon after losing Mr. Everton, and when they considered the newness of this great western country they had, as a church, great cause for thankfulness for what they had been able to do! (Hear hear.) Mr. Bryant had been wise enough to bring a partner with him. (Applause.) A wife was a great comfort and help to a man, and in welcoming Mr. Bryant he, in the name of the Church, extended a very cordial welcome to Mrs. Bryant also. As he had said Mr. Bryant had acted wisely and he came from the east. Wise men came from the east a long time ago and they had been coming ever since. (Applause.) There was a great work here for Mr. Bryant in carrying on the battle for their great leader, their heavenly father, a leader who never lost a battle and never lost a man. (Loud applause)

Mayor Forster extended a welcome to the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Bryant and hoped his work here would be a great success. (Applause.)

The Rev. Mr. Bryant, on being called upon to respond, thanked the Church in the name of his wife and himself for the very hearty reception accorded them. When he left the east he had been told that he, like his brothers, would stay in the west but he had declared very emphatically that he would not do so, that he would return to the east,but at Winnipeg, Medicine Hat, Calgary and Edmonton the fascination of the west had laid hold of him and the prediction of his eastern friends had been fulfilled. He was going to remain in the west. (Applause.) He might say that Medicine Hat was one of the towns which had attracted him when on his tour with the McMaster Band and although urged to go to Carman he selected Medicine Hat. (Applause). He felt the responsibility of his position and prayed that he might be able to help on the great work of extending the gospel in the town. He hoped that as a church they would stand together and that they would always be in sympathy with and work with the other Churches in the great work in which they were engaged. They were all serving the same Master, fighting the same enemy in the name of Christ. They were brothers and sisters in Christ, and he hoped the true spirit of Christianity would be found among all Christians in this community. (Applause.)

MASON & RISCH

THE PIANO WITH A SOUL

Mason & Risch Pianos are famous for that peculiar carrying power known as the singing tone. Not all tones classed as musical are music unalloyed. There are certain qualities of tone that are strangely diffusive They carry far and retain their singing character where other tones become indistinct or even lost. A sheet of gold leaf, thinner than the thinnest tissue, will completely block the powerful rays of the strongest searchlight, while the X-rays, merely glowing with a faint light, will penetrate an inch of solid steel. So it is with music: some tones are diffusive and carry, others become more or less absorbed in space. The tone that "carries" the singing tone, is due to perfection of finish and perfect vibratory equilibruim of all the tone producing parts of a piano. It is always a tone of the utmost sweetness and purity. The Mason & Risch Piano is full of "sing" being especially fine in its blendings of the human voice, which it rounds out and sustains in a happy union of melody and harmony. Our literature explains the many points of superiority of the Mason & Risch piano—the piano with a soul. Send for it to-day.

Note & Comment.

[By OBSERVER.]

The "make up" man gave me more than I expected last week. The lines "Nothing to do but work" etc., were not written by me but by a much abler man.

According to the new militia order just received the Mounted Rifles, a new corps being formed in Western Canada, will take the place of the Mounted Police. The change will be made gradually during the next four years. There will be six squadrons in the Canadian West, Colonel Evans being the head. Many promotions await the Mounted Police when the Mounted Rifles get under way, which will be as soon as the governor general departs for the east.

♣ ♣ ♣

The announcement that members of the present Mounted Police will find good positions in the new force will be approved by the people, and should be an incentive to the men themselves to continue their good work right up to the last moment of the existence of the force.

The latest joke on the north country is now being given out and is going the rounds of the press. This story comes from the Lesser Slave Lake country and runs as follows:—In a remote section all the people have moved out of a school district excepting one family. The father and two sons have elected themselves as directors and employed the mother, who holds a certificate, to teach. The only pupil is a little girl in the family. The directors have voted to hold school in the family house and to give the teacher $40 a month wages. The property of the district is taxed to pay the cost.

The journey of four Indian Chiefs from the Blood Indian Reserve to Eastern Canada is being watched with much interest. The Indians are going east as the guests of the McEwan Ranch Company, who have a part of the Blood reserve near Macleod under lease for ranching purposes. Mr. N. N. Wilson, government agent on the reserve, Mrs. Wilson and Mr. J. Healy (interpreter), are with the party and will accompany them on their tour through the east. They will go first to Toronto and thence to other points of interest. The chiefs were shown some of the big buildings in Winnipeg during their short stay there, and naturally were greatly interested in all that they saw, but, of course, hid their impressions beneath the stoicism and dignity characteristic of the red men. These chiefs have never before been away from their native plains and mountains, but are most intelligent men.

The Chief's names are rather picturesque. They are "Crop-ear Wolf", "Thunder Cloud," "White Horses," and "Running Crane." They are fine looking chiefs and come fully up to the descriptions of "noble savage" with which the tales of the west made us all familiar in our boy hood days. Needless to say they are all clad in their best bea I worked coats and leggins with long hair (all their own), most beautifully arranged, and they wear on their breasts huge King George medals, which were given to the tribe by that Monarch over a century ago. These chiefs do not belong exactly to local "society," nor are they of the usual order of delegates, but doubtless we shall all watch their progress with considerable interest.

At a recent concert in Winnipeg a new production made a great hit. It is patriotic and was arranged by P. B. C. Turner, leader of the Grace Church choir. The second verse is as follows:—

"Twine ye the Shamrock and the Thistle
Twine ye the lily and the Rose;
Twine with the Maple Leaf a chaplet
Crown of our 'Lady of the Snows.'
Here let us dwell as loyal Britons—
Canada's love in England's pride;
Honor the Maple Leaf for ever,
Long may her influence abide."

There has been no mention lately of the proposed traffic bridge over the Saskatchewan river at this point and perhaps it will be left in the shade until after the elections, but the need for it is greater than ever. The ferry is too antiquated for present day requirements and more than that it has its dangers which are too real to be overlooked.

I have already drawn attention in this column to the fact that in a year or so the C. P. R. irrigation ditch will in all likelihood be cut to within a few miles of this town and if we want to make sure of attracting the trade of farmers who will settle along the east end of the canal we should lose no time in getting a bridge. This is, I think, a very strong argument in favor of the town doing everything possible to get the Alberta government to build a bridge.

The Montreal Star caustically commented thus: "Yet no one can blame the Mintos for getting furs when in Canada, nor for getting photographed in them when they got home. It is merely one of those accidents of Canadian life which is sure to be misunderstood in the mild but chilly climate of the British Isles. A Canadian Lady who went to live in England, wrote home during her first spring that she was so glad to see the sun again, as she had never been warm once since she reached that country. The fact that Canadians are too cold in England during the winter, and that Englishmen are always complaining about the house-heat here during the same season, ought to do something to offset that fur picture."

LIVE CHEAPLY IN THE NORTH.

MEDICINE HAT PEOPLE APPEAR TO HAVE SOLVED DIET CULT: PROPOSITION.

Walter Matheson, of the real estate firm of Matheson & Brackett, who recently made a trip to the North West Territory, learned some interesting things about how they do things up there.

"Medicine Hat struck me," said Mr. Matheson, "as one of the real up-to-date towns of the world. It is a ranchman's town; has a population of about 3,500, and there are many Americans there. There are natural gas wells in the country and the gas is used for heating, lighting and cooking. If they could find any other use for it they would utilize it because it only costs 17 cents a thousand.

"They have the municipal ownership idea down fine up there. The water and lighting systems are owned by the municipality, and the revenues from them pay for the support of the schools.

"Tomake the life of the resident even more happy, they have adopted the Henry George system of taxation, leving taxes only on the land. That is a new country, and they can make the experiment without disturbing any old prejudices. So far they told me the system works all right.

SOME BIG RANCHES.

"There are some tremendous ranches up in that country. When I was there I learned of the sale of the Senator Cochrane ranch, comprising 66,000 acres, the price paid being $6 an acre. I inquired who Senator Cochrane was and they told me every Montana cattleman knows him so for fear I would show any further ignorance. I did not push my inquiries any further.

A sight that impressed Mr. Matheson was the great wheat fields. "I rode for hours and saw nothing but great fields of wheat," he said. "Last year the wheat crop of Alberta, Manitoba and Northwest Territory aggegated 100,000,000 bushels and a large part of the crop was hard wheat.

Mr. Matheson knew many citizens had gone across the line, but he was surprised at the aggregate. "Wherever I stopped," he said, "I met men from this country, and many of them are former residents of this state. They have crossed the line because of the better grazing opportunities, and the fact that they hold their ranges better. Over there the sheep ranges are separate from those for cattle, so there are no clashes between the two interests. Some Montana men have exceedingly large holdings of live stock in Northwest Territory.—Helena (Mon.) Daily Independent.

RONDEAU TO EXCITED POLITICIAN.

When all is said that you reiterate
About the future of our hapless State—
Hapless that is, unless we put to rout
Those rivals who, you tell us, are about
To wreck the nation at an early date
Why then I feel convinced and I await Deeds with your eloquence commensurate—
Action will come in course of time no doubt
When all is said.

Meantime, however, by ironic fate
I hear the other side;—why, they relate
Just the same tale of you—your views they flout! . . .
. . . . . .
When they are in, my friend, and you are out
Will the whole difference be so very great,
When all is said.

OUR HOPES REALIZED.

During the ripening of the wheat and even while harvesting was in progress, on account of promises being frequently disappointing in the fulfilment, there was a certain amount of doubt as to the final result of the crops. Every week, and in fact every day, however, has added an assurance, and the latest reports are even more favorable than the earlier ones. There is now a certainty of the largest wheat crop ever raised in this country, and the yield is generally placed at between 90,000,000 and 95,000,000 bushels.

Another bumper crop is oats, reliable authorities estimating the yield of that grain at about 85,000,000 bushels. Barley also yields excellently, the production being put down at 18,000,000 bushels.

In money values conservative estimates give the amount to be put in circulation by the grain and other products this year as in the vicinity of $85,000,000. It is no wonder with such a basis that all branches of industry should feel the stimulus. The railroads feel the increased demand for transportation, and are spending millions for new equipment in locomotives, cars etc. There is, too, the evidence of the Bank clearings, which are an exact measure of the leading industries of the Dominion are showing an increased activity as the demand keeps growing, and extra efforts are necessary to provide the supply.—Commercial.

TO THE VOTERS

Medicine Hat Constituency.

As the nominee of the Conservatives to contest the forthcoming Provincial elections in the Medicine Hat constituency, I consider it my duty to state what measures I intend to support if elected to the Legislature:

1. The taking of all proper and lawful steps to ascertain in what respects, if any, the Dominion Parliament can restrict the Province of Alberta in its dealing with the Education question, in addition to any restrictions there may be contained in the British North America Act.

2. Regarding the lands I will advocate the continual application to and negotiation with the Dominion Parliament for the surrender of the public domain (within the boundaries of the Province) to the Province and for the withdrawal of the Canadian Pacific Railway tax exemptions.

3. I am in favor of the public ownership of public utilities.

4. I am in favor of the giving of land grants to all defenders of the empire (including members of the R. N. W. M. P.) who are residents in the Province.

5. Iam of opinion that each Local Improvement District should have improvements (in the way of roads and bridges) made therein equal in value to the total amount of taxes collected therefrom and where, by reason of sparcity of population, such taxes are not sufficient to make necessary improvements, I shall urge the government to make up the amount required from the Public funds.

6. I will urge generous but careful expenditure of the public monies towards the legitmate assistance of agriculture and ranching.

7. There is no more important point than Medicine Hat where a traffic bridge should be built. It will be my duty to urge the appropriation of sufficient monies to build such a bridge.

8. I deem it my duty to give my hearty support to all legitimate measures furthering the Labor interests.

9. I am in favor of a fair re-adjustment of the Income Tax.

10. I am in favor of some adjustment of the Mechanic's Lien on buildings.

Communications.

The Editor is not responsible for the opinions of his correspondents nor does he always agree with them.

Mr. Dan Cavan, of Dunmore, has lately written us several letters regarding matters of interest to this district. In one Mr. Cavan makes a strong appeal for independent Candidates in Alberta and calls for 500 voters in this constituency. He has some rather scathing remarks about "politicians." In regard to railway matters he says: With the big irrigation canal, Medicine Hat's policy is with the C.P.R., not the Grand Trunk. The following are two of the letters referred to:

TO RANCHERS AND FARMERS OF ALBERTA.

To the Editor of The Times

Sir,

I would rather address a meeting of 5000 ranchers and farmers at the present time than receive a gift of five thousand dollars. My experience is twenty four years on the bald prairie of the West, two years horse trading in Australia, and twelve years farming in England. The farmers and ranchers are as a flock of sheep without a shepherd, no organisation or thinking ready like the lamb to fall into the trap of all prowling wolves. Remember there is no man too big to fall. The parties now in power with good fat salaries that they fixed for themselves, know little and care less, about you, they are from top to bottom unpractical consequently of little use to you. No matter how good their intentions are. Do you want your steers to remain here and die of old age, while politicians talk local politics instead of cold storage, the only possible way in the future of getting rid of your beef? Nothing again can cross the Atlantic on hoof to benefit the rancher or exporter; there is the wall that you are up against; don't for a moment think it imaginary, it is the real Gibraltar impregnable rock. A spade is a spade and call it what you like it is still a spade. The Argentine alone can send 3,000,000 head of cold storage stuff this year to our only export consuming market andstill increase it year by year, then follows America, other republics of South America, preparing, Australia and New Zealand already fully equipped in the business, and Russia getting ready, while Canada stands idly by doing nothing but talking comparison. Canada versus United States, which must be the leading power of the earth? The whole of the Dominion and Provincial parliaments are made up of Medicine, Ink and Paper, i. e. Lawyers, Doctors and Newspapermen, instead of practical men in every department of the executive. Your beef is now on your hands and not wanted, your harvest is beef, you have your bills to meet, you are unable to meet them if your produce cannot be sold. Yet the Government has pressure upon them to destroy or impair the usefulness of the present exemption law. The farmers exemptions as they now stand are fairly good, but should be enlarged; but it is of no use to the ranchers. Exemptions for Alberta should not be less than 50 head of she stock, as I have said no one is too high to fall; providing he does not cultivate more than 50 acres of land, if he did he would then come under the farmers exemptions. No mortgaged cattle or land should be allowed to be sold at a sacrifice, the settler must be protected so that he can continue on in his occupation, the creditors and bankers will then be more careful, and Alberta will then flourish as the rose in June.

DAN CAVAN.

To the Editor of The Times,

Dear Sir,

We remember some years ago how liberals spoke against imperial honor, and since coming into power they have changed their minds. A true liberal of the Gladstone type wants, sir, to lead his name to glory we poor frail creatures have yet to learn all paths of glory lead but to the grave. Every pledge has been violated, voters now must change just as quick as a politician can. Last year before Dominion elections an engineer came to Medicine Hat re public bridge, he looked wise and returned to Ottawa. Now the question is, we have an executive minister in the working of the Cabinet, we can be pretty sure now the bridge will be a sure thing, and so the things, all is fizzled out into hot air and no bridge, a crafty scheme foisted on vanity. Medicine Hat is entitled to the capital and cards could have been played to win it, but what is the use of good tools in unpractical hands. The C.P.R. are spending $10,000,000 in the vicinity of Medicine Hat and Calgary on irrigation, Mr. Hays, said little dividends do railroads get, but said nothing of the rake off in watered stock and glamouring prospectus, and then unloading. Oh how easily is the public gulled. Is there any voter in Medicine Hat who desires to buy shares in the Grand Trunk Pacific? No, as scarce as hens' teeth.

DAN CAVAN.

PRESERVING THE SERVICE.

The C. P. R. Management have decided to continue the double trans continental passenger service of the summer time table until Christmas at least, to accommodate the unusually heavy traffic. The present schedule will be practically maintained.

MR. JOHN E. HOWSON MARRIED.

A copy of the Clinton New Era, dated September 20th, which reached the times office yesterday, contained the following pargraph, which will be read with interest by Medicine Hat people.

Mr. John E. Howson, who has been visiting his relatives here, leaves for Toronto this week, where a most important event takes place before his return to the west. On Monday he will be married at Toronto to Miss Louise Hartley, a charming young lady of Kincardine, and they will at once start for their future home at Medicine Hat. "Jack" is one of the Clinton boys who has prospered with the great development of the west, and it is not necessary for him to lie awake wondering where his breakfast will come from. His many friends in Clinton join with us in wishing himself and wife long life and happiness.

PERSONAL PARS.

Miss Ettie Porter came in from the ranch last week.

Mr. McArthur has recently taken a trip to the Pacific coast.

H. J. Harlow made a business trip to Regina end of last week.

Hon. W. T. Finlay, Minister of Agriculture, is at the provisional capital.

Mr. Chas. Parks was in from his ranch on the Bow River on Wednesday.

Mrs. R. C. Margesson was in from the ranch last week spending a few days the guest of Mrs. W. T. Finlay.

Articles from the pen of Mr. W. B. Gilbert appeared in 18 different farm papers during the month of September.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Grant accompanied by Mrs. Grant's sister, Miss Stephens, have returned from St. Paul, Minn.

Mr. Magnuson, of Brougham's barber shop has gone out to the Cypress Hills to visit friends and incedently do some shooting.

Henry Barker, formerly a C.P.R. conductor out of Medicine Hat and Calgary, is in a very critical condition with typhoid fever in the hospital at Brantford.—Calgary Herald.

Mr. Fred S. Pingle has been appointed secretary of the Cypress Club in place of Mr. G. P. Blythe who has resigned owing tohis appointment at Edmonton.

The Anniversary services of the Century Methodist Church will be held, Sunday and Monday, Oct. 15th and 16th. An especially good programme of music has been prepared by the choir and excellent recitations and readings will be given.

Mr. Alf. Mitchell, of "The Fair," was driving out of the yard one day last week when through the rig giving a sudden lurch, he was thrown from his seat and, falling in front of the wheel has his leg hurt by one wheel passing over it. The accident laid him up for several days.

Professor Buell, the veteran photographer and lecturer of the C.P.R., gave a lecture illustrated by stereoptican views in the Opera House, last Tuesday evening. The lecture was given under the auspices of St. Patrick's Church and there was an excellent attendance.

Mr. C. F. Grant, who with Mrs. Grant and Miss Stephens returned from a visit to Minnesita last week, informs us that there was so much talk of Canada down in that state that it would almost lead a man to suppose that everybody were on the move to this country. He says it is certain that there will be a great movement of Minnesota and Wisconsin farmers to Canada next spring.

The Times has received from the government printing bureau, Ottawa, a map showing the three provinces of Maritoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta. It also shows the homesteads patented homesteads unpatented and entered prior to 1904; homesteads entered between January 1st, 1904, and May 1st, 1905; even numbered sections patented or finally disposed of otherwise than as homesteads; Indian reserves surrendered and sold. The map is corrected up to May 1st, 1905, and shows a scale of 12 miles 1 inch. It is quite an elaborate production, being about 7 ft. by 3 ft. 6 inches.

Mrs. Walker and family returned last week from spending several weeks at the ranch.

Inspector McIlrea, of the R.N.W.M. Police was in town on Tuesday, having driven in from Medicine Lodge Police station. The inspector was on his annual inspection tour. Inspector Parker met him at Maple Creek and accompanied him over this district the party arriving here as stated in a four-in-hand on Tuesday night. The inspecting officer found everything in good order at the stations in this division.

Mr. J. H. Mair, of London, Ont., spent three or four days here with his nephew, W. M. Cassidy. He was very much impressed with what he saw here and was surprised that more manufacturing concerns have not taken advantage of the cheap fuel and water that Medicine Hat can supply. He did not expect, he says, to see nearly as large a town from what he heard of it in the east. He was also surprised to see so many magnificient residences.

IMMIGRATION RETURNS.

In the returns of immigration the following statement appears which disposes at once of any idea of the ultimate Americanization of the Dominion by reason of the influx from the south. United States 45,228. From Great Britain and Ireland 50,-375. These figures are for the year 1905. It will be seen therefore that Great Britain and Ireland send more by over 11 per cent. than the United States.

In the death of Dr. Barnardo the world loses a hero and a philanthropist, whose memory ought not to be forgotten. He saved from the slums thousands of children who have since become first class citizens of the land of their adoption, many of whom may be found in Western Canada.

RENEGADE CREES RETURN TO CANADA.

After twenty years of defiance of the Canadian Government, Chief Little Bear and his band of 300 renegade Crees, appalled at the number of deaths among their children and horses and inability to secure food as the result of the droughts prevailing in northern Montana, have surrendered.

Chief Little Bear and his band fled to Montana at the close of the Reil rebellion. Neither arms nor diplomacy could conquer them, but they succumbed to drought, and before the end of this month practically all of the tribe in Montana will be on the way to Onion Lake, Can., their native land, there to remain under orders of the commissioner of Indian affairs at Ottawa.

Many of the tribe are now in Great Falls on the way to Havre, where the tribe will assemble prior to beginning the march to Canada.

The Crees were deported to Canada several years ago by United States troops but Canada could not hold them and in a few weeks they returned to Montana and have since been homeless wanderers.

A Bad Bruise.

Often causes a good deal of trouble The best cure is a promptapplication of Nerviline which instantly stops the pain, prevents swelling, removes all blackness and discoloration. Nerviline is antiseptic — prevents blood potsoning. No liniment so strong, so penetrating, so swift to destroy pain. You miss a lot of comfort by not using Polson's Nerviline. For nearly fifty years it has been the standard family liniment of Canada.

It is a long lane that has no turning. But when one is with good company, has good health, and the weather is warm and pleasant we do not even wish for a turning point.

So it is with the path of truth, we do not even wish to turn, but rather go onward. But it is with sorrow we think that many are walking a downward road, and with pleasure tell them there is a turning point. For there is a call, "Whosoever will may come and drink of the water of life freely."

Belshazzar was a great king—his greatness even reaches down to our time—but he spoiled his life by indulgence of wrong doing and drinking. Neither his riches, strength, nor wealth could buy wisdom, for a poor slave was wiser, history tells us, than the king. Money nor power cannot save when you are caught in wrong doing as was this king weighed in the balance and found wanting. But look at the slave Daniel who obeyed the Truth. Does he not prove that we reap what we sow, for he found favor, power, and pleasure in temperance.

For time, knowledge, and experience proves what a pleasure it is to look back on good work done. For all comes to an end. Then let us try for the end that looks for better—not for the weighing that says: weighed in the balance and found wanting.

BASEBALL GAME.

MAPLE CREEK vs. MEDICINE HAT.

(Maple Creek Signal.)

What proved to be the best and closest game that Medicine Hat and our local nine ever had was played on Tuesday, the first day of the fair the score being 13 to 12 in favor of Medicine Hat.

At the start Maple Creek assumed the league and had practically won the game. Dan Barker started the dispensing for Medicine Hat but our heavy hitting batters found him no puzzle and when six men had crossed the plate for two out, they pulled Barker out of the box. He was replaced by D. Harris, late pitcher of the Winnipeg professional team, and he pitched swell for the rest of the game. He fielded well and assisted in two double plays which practically won the game for Medicine Hat The second double play retiring the side with the bases filled in the ninth. He also showed up well at the bat, being the only man to make a three bagger during the game. The local boys played well. Aitkins on second did not play his usual good game, he being responsible for three errors which meant four runs. Captain Burnett did not play like his usual good form. He is generally sure at the bat, but was fanned twice. The game was not won until "Ole Olson" fanned out in the ninth with all bases full. A little hit was all that was needed to make the score 13 all.

For the winners, Sullivan, Barker, Harris and "Mike" were conspicuous while for the losers, Mennie, Currie and Irwin played well. Burnett, Irwin and Regan were the battery for the local team while Sullivan, Barker and Harris formed the Medicine Hat battery. Regan pulled down several high fouls for which he had to run through the crowd to get and played a hard steady game.

The teams were as follows:

Medicine Hat.		Maple Creek.
Sullivan	catcher	Regan
Harris	pitcher	Burnett
Barker		Irwin
Fourberts	1st base	Mennie
Rustie	2nd. base	Aitkins
Barker	3rd base	King
Grant	left field	Stewart
Armstrong	right field	Currie
Jakie Sterns	centre field	Fleming
O'Hara	short stop	Burnett

W. J. Harmer umpired the game and as usual, everybody was satisfied with his decisions.

The horse races at Medicine Hat next week will attract a few from here. John Bollock expects to go up with his horses as well as some others.—Maple Creek Signal

"Shut your eyes, open your mouth and see what luck will bring you."

Many a woman is weak and sick, nervous and discouraged. She suffers from headache, backache and other ills. She wants to be well, but all she does is to shut her eyes and open her mouth for medicine and trust to luck for results. She "doctors" month after month, often year after year, in this same blind, hap-hazard fashion, and receives no permanent benefit.

Women take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription with their eyes open to the fact that it cures womanly ills. It cures irregularity. It dries debilitating drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. There is no trusting to luck by those who use "Favorite Prescription."

"In the year 1903 my health was poor," writes Mrs. J. Hack, of 242 Broadway, Buffalo, N.Y. "I suffered from failing of womb, a disagreeable discharge, painful monthly periods, headache, backache and pains in the limbs. Every month was confined to bed for two or three days. Was weak, nervous and hysterical; life was a burden to myself and I made every one in the family unhappy because I was so irritable. My husband got me four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and before I had taken the first bottle I was feeling some relief. The medicine made me well and strong, free from nervousness, aches and pain, and I felt like a new woman. Before I used the 'Favorite Prescription' I had been taking another physician's medicine for nearly three months, but had received no benefit. Your medicine is certainly the best in the world."

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Don't let a selfish seller over-persuade you to accept a substitute for these Original Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr. R. V. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated but never equaled.

TOWN COUNCIL.

A regular meeting of the Council was held last night. Present, Mayor Forster, Councillors H. Stewart, A. DesBrisay, T. Penhale, C. E. Smyth F. O. Sissons, W. N. Adsit, Town Clerk; G. H. Markwick, Chief of Police; W. E. Porter, Supt. of Works

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Mr. Frank Carey wrote offering to paint portraits of the Mayor and Council for hanging in the new Municipal building for the small sum of $25 each. Filed.

C. E. Smyth re special gas rate for Hospital. Filed.

J. Wellband wrote giving permission for scales to be erected on new market ground (which has not been transferred).

THE MUNICIPAL ENGINEER.

A letter was read from Mr, J. R. Heddle, who has been appointed City Engineer stating he would on the 24th inst., hand in his resignation at Hamilton and would take up his duties here on the 1st Jan'y. He asked if he would be required to find his own instruments and pay for rodmen and chainmen.

On the motion of Coun. Smyth the Council will reply that they expect him to pay for his own instruments, but not rodmen and chainmen.

With reference to the three years engagement the Solicitor (Mr. Mitchell) wrote as follows:

I am of the opinion that the Council has the power to pass a bylaw appointing a Municipal Engineer and define his duties and provide for his remuneration. There is no objection to the making of the appointment this year to take effect at the beginning of next year. There should be in the bylaw making the appointment a provision that the office is to be held at the will of the Council or that the employment can be terminated by the giving of a certain number of months notice by either party The contract can be made now to take effect at the commencement of the year.

On the motion of Councillor Smyth seconded by Coun. Stewart the solicitor will be directed to prepare a contract with Mr. Heddle.

REPORTS ETC.

An application from John Stewart for gas connections was referred to the gas commissioners for report.

Coun. Smyth brought up the report of the committee re Mr. Burn's application for a flat rate on gas for lime burning and after some discussion as to details

Coun. Sissons moved that Mr. Burns be given a flat rate of 10 cents per thousand feet for burning lime, the gas commissioners to arrange the manner of the supply.

Coun. DesBrisay seconded and the motion was carried.

Coun. Smyth moved that the same arrangement be applied to Mr. W. M. Cross's application which was teconded by Joun. Penhale and seconded by Coun. Penhale and

A petition was received from residents on the 2nd Yuill survey asking to be accepted into the town and be given privileges of gas, water and fire protection. It was referred to the solicitor for report.

Applications from Messrs F. R. Law and Walter Crosskill for the post of auditor were referred to the Finance Committee for report.

The Town Clerk was granted two weeks leave of absence.

Reports from the license and police committee, public works Committee and from Mr. Porter to the committees, came up for consideration, but dealt mostly with small matters of detail of no particular public interest.

Mrs. Dunham's application for water connection again came up and was referred to the water and light committee with power to act.

The petition from the Yuill estate was reported upon by the solicitor, who said there was an unsufficient number of names, and it was decided to inform the petitioners as to this.

DEPUTATION FROM THE HOSPITAL.

A deputation consisting of Messrs W. C. Harris, F. L. Crawford and O. W. Kealy attended on behalf of the Board of Directors of the Medicine Hat hospital to ask the Council to grant that institution a special rate for gas.

Mr. Harris addressed the Council and stated the object of the deputation. He took occasion to thank the Council for the very generous way in which they had always met the appeals from the hospital and said the directors were deeply sensible of the Council's liberality in all their dealings with the institution. A strong appeal could be made to the Council to grant the request upon purely philanthropic grounds, for the hospital was a charitable institution doing a magnificient work. The deputation felt, however, that no one knew better than the members of the Council the great work the hospital was doing, they were all intimately acquainted with that phase of the question, and, while the members of the deputation did not wish the point to be lost sight of, yet they believed the question could be fairly put as a business proposition. It could be shown that the hospital was a very large consumer of gas, and being so the directors appealed to the Council for a special rate. The hospital he said represented an investment of about $35,000, it meant an annual expenditure of about $10,000 to $12,000 per annum and there were 19 persons on the working staff. This sum of $10,000 to $12,000 was spent almost entirely in Medicine Hat. As to the amount of gas consumed he would like to submit figures on that point. The monthly gas bill of the hospital ran from $50 per month in summer to $225 per month in winter Now that meant a consumption of from 170,000 feet per month in summer to 714,000 feet per month in wintor. Being such large consumers the Directors asked the Council to grant them a flat rate equal to the best terms they offered manufacturers.

Mr. Crawford said the hospital was an excellent institution and a great deal of work was done there without remuneration. He hoped the Council would be able to amend their bylaw, if that should be necessary, so that they could grant this request from the Directors. Any consideration they felt disposed to make would be very gratefully received. As had been put before them the business side of the case showed the hospital to be a very large consumer and he hoped it would weigh with the Council.

Mr. Kealy, in reply to the Mayor, said there was nothing to add to what had been said. He endorsed the statements made.

The Mayor informed the deputation that the matter would receive the careful attention of the Council and he assured them that the Council were prepared to make every possible concession to the Hospital. They would consider it later.

At a later stage of the proceedings the matter was taken up and the Council showed a very cordial disposition to grant the request.

After a short discussion

Coun. Stewart moved that in view of the hospital employing 19 individuals, and having an investment of $35,000 in the town and being such large consumers of gas that they be granted a flat rate of five cents per thousand feet.

Coun. Penhale seconded and it was carried nem con.

THOSE POTATOES.

The only tender for the potatoes was from The W. B. Marshall Co., who offered 15 cents per bus. for all saleable potatoes and do the digging and draying.

It was stated that the tender was not received in time, according to the advertisement.

The Council considered the price very low.

Coun. Stewart moved that the Supt. of Public Works be instructed to have the potatoes dug and sacked and sold by auction.

Coun. Penhale seconded and it was agreed to.

Value of Municipal Beauty.

It is always the well-kept, up-to-date prosperous-looking cities that are progressive. There is no municipal expenditure from which there is a better return than from that which is made for public improvement.

It is the general rule among American cities that rapid growth and permanent prosperity come only after the city has been beautified and made attractive by public improvements. Chicago only began to grow at the real Chicago rate when its streets were lifted up out of the mud of the lake shore, while the great fire that destroyed a city of hovels and made room for a city of palaces was a blessing of gigantic proportions in disguise. Kansas City and Omaha, and other mid-west cities date their real prosperity from the time they began to pave their streets and to make their physical appearance correspond to their commercial pretensions. Denver's title of "queen city of the plains" was a burlesque until Denver banished the dust and mud from her streets and erected hotels and other buildings that matched the city's claims.

And at the present time towns everywhere are being made more and more attractive, as a means towards making them more successful in a business way. With the rapid growth of national wealth, and with the improved methods of transportation and communication, it has come to be recognised as an established fact that people will not live in a town that is not attractive. The town, therefore, that desires to grow must provide the necessities of modern municipal life. No landlord expects to get desirable tenants for undesirable houses, and town building is only housebuilding on a larger scale.

Thanksgiving Day.

Thanksgiving Day has been fixed this year for Thursday, October 26. This is a sensible time, and taking everything into consideration is probably a date that will suit the whole Dominion better than any other that could be selected.

Thanksgiving Day has always been a movable feast date in Canada. The Americans' Thanksgiving Day, the last Thursday in November, has been tried, but it is too late in the season for the Dominion Then we have had experiments with the first and second weeks in October, but those dates, on the other hand, have proved too early. The last Thursday in October appears to be the happy medium, and if it proves successful, the date should be made permanently Thanksgiving Day. The present haphazard method by which, for no apparent reason, the holiday is shifted from one day to another, is very unsatisfactory and unsettleing. It would be far better for commercial as well as other interests, to know upon what week day to depend for the holiday.

Thanksgiving Day should this year be more than a fine hunting day. It should be a day of great thankfulness throughout Canada, for, with big crops and good prices it has been one of the most prosperous years—if not the most prosperous—in the history of the Dominion.

With The Hired Man.

A case lately brought before the Neepawa police magistrate was of more than ordinary interest to the public. A farmer's hired man who was engaged for six months at $25 per month was offered higher pay when the threshing season began, and after giving two week's notice he quit. The farmer refused to pay what was demanded, and the deserting employee sued for wages claimed to be due. Judgment was given in favor of the farmer to the extent that he was held to be entitled to a month's notice, the hired man getting pay for only the number of complete months he had worked.

The Cattle Embargo.

The old subject of the cattle embargo is once more agitating the press. We have no right to complain, says the Ottawa Free Press. We grant few favors to English manufacturers, and the members of the Manufacturer's Association who visited Great Britain lately, are desirous that we should grant fewer.

The present legislation against Canadian cattle, in common with cattle of other countries, is due to sins of the past. Diseased cattle from this country did seriously affect British herds, and it is little wonder that the government is slow to remove restrictions, even though assured there is no disease among our cattle.

The main opposition comes from Ireland and the South of England; the graziers fear that their business would be ruined if Canadian cattle were freely admitted to Great Britain; on the other hand the meat traders and the cheap food advocates favor the relaxation of the present restrictions.

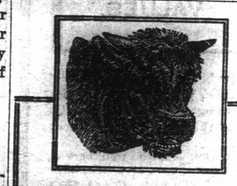
The matter has got into the region of practical politics, and many prominent politicians have pledged themselves to support the removal of the embargo. In the meantime our cattle trade with Great Britain is steadily growing. According to the Statistical Year Book, it was $2,720,955 greater for the past two years than for any other two years in the history of export trade.

THE GLOBE'S ANALYSIS.

@On the 15th Februrary last the Toronto Globe, the great Liberal organ of Canada, published an article which cannot well be retracted or distorted, and in the course of that article threw considerable light upon the school question in the west. The article does much to enable the reader to separate the wheat from the chaff of the debate now in progress and sheds a lurid light upon the points to be decided by the votes of the people in the Alberta election. Good old time liberals are recommended to read it.

Here are the exact words of the Globe:

The merits of Separate Schools is not the supreme and essential question at issue in the measure now before Parliament. Neither is the question one of the value of the religious element in education Neither is it a question of the claims of minorities, whether Protestant or Roman Catholic, to consideration in matters of education. All such questions might be settled without dispute. The utility of Separate schools may be granted. That a system of education divorced from morality is education with its head cut off is a proposition that need not be controverted. The claims of minorities may all be conceded. And yet the central question at issue remains. That question is not one of educational policy, but of constitutional rights. Which body has the right to determine and direct the educational policy of the new Western Provinces, the Dominion Parliament or the Provincial Legislatures?



The Globe's answer to the central question is the answer of the Confederation act: "In and for each Province the Legislature may exclusively make laws in relation to education." That answer cannot be harmonized with the measure now before Parliament. That measure proposes to "make laws" for these two new provinces in relation to the character of their schools—that there shall be both Public schools and Separate schools—and also in relation to the financial administration of such schools—how public moneys shall be raised, apportioned and applied. Such regulations touching education are, in our judgment, as really within the constitutional rights of the Provinces as are the regulations pertaining to school hours, teachers' qualifications and text books. It is essentially a question of Provincial rights.

In coming to this judgment we have steadily in view the legislation of the Dominion Parliament in 1875 under which Separate schools were first established in the North West Territories. We have given due weight to the arguments from expediency—they were not arguments from constitutional rights or principles—presented by Mr. Edward Blake and others in support of that legislation. But we have also noted carefully Mr. George Brown's opposition and his warning to Parliament against the danger which now presents itself when those Territories are about to become Provinces, and to come under the provisions of the Confederation Act, which gives them rights "exclusively to make laws in relation to education." And we have marked the significance of Hon Senator Campbell's reply, "We are not legislating for any particular Province, but merely for a Territory which is under our supervision," and for which "somebody must legislate" That legislatio was not asked for by the Territory, it was not contemplated by the Prime Minister, it was introduced as an amendment in committee. Whether wise or unwise, it was at that time deemed expedient, and it was at most only interim legislation intended for a Territory under Dominion Supervision. Neither the terms of that enactment nor the circumstances under which it was passed, do it seems to us, make it necessary for Parliament, thirty years afterwards, to usurp the functions of the Provincial Legislature and to bind upon these Provinces for all time, as a charge undertheir constitution, a system of education which may prove unsuited to their needs.

But we are asked, have not the people who now enjoy Separate school peivileges under the Territorial Government, rights and claims which should be recognized? They have. The people of the nine Roman Catholic schools and of the two Protestant schools, which are all the Separate schools at this moment in operation throughout the entire region to be comprised within the two new Provinces, have just claims. But those claims should be considered by the Provincial Legislatures in framing their Provincial education policies not by the Dominion Parliament in framing their Provincial constitutions. And we are further asked, is it not probable that the new legislatures would enact the present Separate school regulations? It is entirely probable, indeed, almost absolutely certain. Still, it is objected, is there not ground for the fear that in the future these separate school privileges might be withdrawn? Such privileges, once granted, could not be withdrawn without creating a grievance for which under the Confederation Act, the Dominion Parliament may pass remedial legislation.

So it is that on all these grounds theoretical and practical, constitutional and historical, The Globe feels itself constrained to withhold support from the autonomy measures now before Parliament in so far as they interfere with the rights of the Provinces in matters of education. The highest interests of all parties for the present, and for the future, will be best served by Parliament dealing only with Federal matters, and leaving to the legislatures of the Provinces all the duties and responsibilities which the Confederation Act intended to be Provincial. And that is the central question at issue.

Few people realize what it means to organize and equip a company like Mr. Ernest Willis's "Hottest Coon in Dixie" company that (omes to Medicine Hat next Friday, Oct. 20th. There are forty people selected for their individual talents, each to fill a particular place in theproduction, to say nothing of the carload of costumes designed and made for the forty people, and the endless amount of scenery, properties and electrical effects necessary for a complete presentation.

THE MAN WHO COUNTS.

The man who always votes with his party on one side just balances the man who always votes with his party on the other side, but the man who sometimes votes one way and sometimes the other is the controlling and determining factor. The man who can be influenced by reason or actuated by principle is the man who really counts.—The Pioneer.

Dan Patch, 1.55¼. This is the news that was flashed from the Lexington track all over the country at an early hour Saturday night.

Again has M. W. Savage's peerless Minneapolis pacer astonished the harness world and lowered his mark full three-quarters of a second, negotiating the first quarter in 29½, the half in :57¼, the three-quarters in 1.45¼ and the mile in 1.55¼.

M. W. Savage has confirmed the report that a New York Syndicate had offered him $180,000 for Dan Patch.

THE WITCH OF CRAGENSTONE.

BY ANITA CLAY MUNOZ.

Synopsis of Chapters I and II.

For the benefit of subscribers who did not read the opening chapters of our new serial story we append the following synopsis.

Josiah Taunston lived with his mother, Mistress Taunston and his sister Hetty, in a low rambling farm house built of logs and cement near the English villiage of Cragenstone. They were living in Puritan times and Josiah and his mother were strict and severe Puritans. Hetty was not quite so Puritanical in her ways and speech and was often sharpley reprimanded for her high spirits. She has a sweetheart named Simon Kempster.

Adjoining the Taunston homestead are the stone house and valuable lands of Margaret Mayland, Josiah's cousin. Margaret whose father is dead, has spent some years living with an aunt in "gay Paris," and Mistress Taunston and Josiah have many misgivings as to the effect of the "wicked city" upon her. They decide that when she comes home it will be their duty to "direct her endeavors". Josiah has been a faithful steward during Marharet's absence but he yearns to own the property and has an idea that he will marry Margaret.

At the time the story opens Margaret is expected home. She arrives unexpectedly, smartly dressed, and at the first meeting Josiah rebukes her for levity and fine clothes. Pleading fatigue Margaret sends Josiah away. Josiah goes slowly home muttering: Worse, far worse, than I expected. Much devil's work to be undone. Our cousin has a comely face enough, and methought after my first words of admonition she appeared more gentle and less hoidenish in her manner, and so silent was she toward the last I doubt not that my speech impressed her. A good example, constant and much sound advice is what a woman so young and worldly minded doth require."

Josiah solemnly walked home.

A new character now appears on the scene in the person of a very gay cavalier named Sir Godfrey La Fabienne, who is accompanied by his man Gascon. These two come riding up, evidently bound for the fair Margaret's abode. Sir Godfrey comes in the guise of a lover. Margaret meanwhile has received a call from her cousin Josiah who has gone to her house to give an account of his stewardship. The instalment Taunston and Simon Kempster.

Next day Hetty goes over to Margaret's house and the cousins have a delightful time the seriousness of the Puritan maiden disappearing altogether in her cousin's company. They romp along the top of a wall and are surprised by a visit from Josiah who shows his disapproval by ordering Hetty home. Then he told Margaret of his fine care of her property and declared her father intended they should marry. This Margaret hotly denied but Josiah told her to think over his proposal and left her. Arriving home he inquired of his mother closely as to the appearance of Sir Godfrey Ls Fabienne.

Indian Race, ½ Mile Dash.

Red Jacket.....1
Red Feather.....2

There were eight runners and as usual, the braves, in full war paint and feathers, made a fine race of it.

WEDNESDAY.

The racing on Wednesday was an improvement upon that of Tuesday, but there was a strong warm wind blowing which lifted the dust in clouds, and made the course anything but a pleasant place. A large crowd gathered, however, the track being lined with buggies full of people, and some scores of riders of both sexes. The various events were very interesting, and went off very well.

Running Half Mile Open, best 2 in 3 heats. 1st, $75; 2nd, $50.

J. F. Fisher's Whistling Rufus.....1
J. McMillan's Easter Card.....2
M. McClean's Ellis Glen.....3

In the first heat Ellis Glen went away with a good start Whistling Rufus lying second and Easter Card last. At half distance Whistling Rufus challenged the leader and drew away with a good lead and was not overtaken. Easter Card in the last hundred yards overhauled Ellis Glen and finished a good second.

In the second heat Whistling Rufus showed the way for the whole distance, the order at the finish being the same as in the first heat. Time, 32½ seconds.

2½ minute Trot or Pace, best 3 in 5, 1st, $150; 2nd, $75; 3rd, $50.

J. F. Fisher's Billy R, 1,1,1.....1
Dr Holt's Happy Jim, 2,2,3.....2
Jas. Mitchell's Lottie H, 3,3,2.....3

Albert Dillard also ran.

In the first heat Billy R lost ground at the start and Happy Jim led off. At half distance he was overhauled by Billy R, who won in 2.35. In the second heat Billy R got first place at the start, and although closely pressed by Happy Jim, never lost his lead. In the third heat Billy R repeated the performance, and although Lottie H pluckily challenged, Billy won a fine rance without once having broken his pace. Time, 2.35, 2.36, and 2.33.

Pony Race, 14.2 or under. 1st, $10; 2nd, $5. Quarter mile.

J. Quesnelle's Weary Willie.....1
Tommy H.....2
Maud.....3

Dinah, Walleye, Morgan, Dell, Diamond and Lottie also ran. The field was, therefore, a large one, and the boys went for the money from the word "go." The ponies got away in a bunch, but tailed off at half distance, and Weary Willie coming away won by half a length from Tommy H, Maud being a good third. Time, 26 secs.

Hurdle Race, 1 mile. 1st, $100; 2nd, $75; 3rd, $25.

J. F. Fisher's Whistling Rufus.....1
Cocksedge's Cock Robin.....2
J. Johnson's Top Sawyer.....0

Top Sawyer lead at a rattling pace for half a mile, closely followed by Cock Robin. Whistling Rufus then began to draw on the leaders, and passing both assumed a strong lead. He was not overhauled, and won by a distance. At the third hurdle Top Sawyer fell, and his rider, Wallace McColl, was pitched a considerable distance. He, however, rose unhurt, and rode in all right.

Cowboy race. 1st, saddle; 2nd, schappa; 3rd, spurs. There were seven entries for this event, and they made an exciting race. Starting in front of the grand stand they galloped 100 yards up the track, wheeled round a barrel, ran back past the stand, doubled round another barrel and raced home. J. Quesnelle got away first, and was first round the first point and past the stand, closely followed by Penland and Mitchell. The latter was quickest round the second point, and in the race home the order was

Penland.....1
J. Mitchell.....2
J. Quesnelle.....3

Running Race. One Mile Dash. 1st, $100; 2nd, $75.

A. F. Field's Gwaine.....1
Jos. Johnson's Coon.....2
M. McLean's Ellis Glen.....3

Ellis Glen cut out the pace with Coon second and Gwaine close up. At the half mile Gwaine and Ellis Glen closed on the leader, and the horses ran neck and neck, but Gwaine forged out with a good lead. At three quarters Ellis Glen was beaten. The Coon made a gallant spurt in the straight, but failed to overtake the leader. Time, 1 min. 53 secs.

ROPING CONTEST.

Considerable interest centered, as usual, round the steer roping contest. The steers, good heavy beasts, were in a corral on the ground, and five riders entered for the contests, which were got off two at a time between the racing events. For the benefit of those readers who have never seen such a truly western exhibition, we will briefly describe it. The time-keeper stands in the judge's box holding a stop watch, time being the essence of the competition. A man on horseback near the cattle corral holds a flag, and the rider who had been drawn first, mounted on a well-trained western horse, and with a long rope with lasso end coiled on his saddle is close by. At a given signal a steer is let out, and allowed to run clear when the flagman drops his flag, the timekeeper starts his watch, and the contestant rides after the steer. As he gains on the beast, the rider swings his rope round and round until he thinks his distance and pitch, when he cleverly throws the noose over the steers horns. In calm weather these cowboys rarely miss a throw, but on Wednesday, in consequence of the heavy wind there were a few misses, but in that case, the rider gathers up his rope while going at full gallop, and in a few seconds is ready to throw again. Having thrown the looped end over the steer's horns, the the rope is allowed to hang on one side of the galloping steer, while the horse rapidly swerves behind the animal and goes off in a diagonal line, thus drawing the rope up around the steer's hind legs. By a quick movement of the rope the steer is drawn around, and his legs whipped from under him and he is thrown to the ground. The rider with a shorter rope in his hand, leaps from the saddle as the well-trained horse throws his weight on the rope to keep it taut, thus preventing the steer from rising. The rider runs to the fallen steer, leaving the sagacious horse to hold him, whips the short rope round the steer's feet, and draws them together, and quickly tying a knot on the rope, throws up both hands to show the steer is trussed up, the timekeeper snaps the watch and takes the time, while the judges gallop up to see that the steer is securely tied. It is a great and a very novel and exciting performance to rope and throw a rasge steer on the open prairie, and invariably attracts a big crowd, but although steer throwing is necessary in the everyday life of the cowboy, there is a certain amount of cruelty in it when done for mere sport, and we expect that as an exhibition it will soon be a thing of the past. The dash and daring of the horseman and the cleverness and sagacity of the horse he rides are points which make the exhibition one of the most exciting and fascinating to be seen anywhere.

The following table gives the time, etc., in Wednesday's contest:—

A. P. Day had his first steer thrown and tied in 1 minute 29 seconds, and his second in 1 minute 58 seconds.

W. R. Penland, first steer 2.06, and the second, 1.21½.

Carrol, first steer 1.20, and the second, 3.03.

F. Day, first steer 4.50, and the second got away from him.

R. Bray, first steer 2.10, and the second 3.10.

TOTALS.

Day	3.27
Penland	3.27½
Carrol	4.23
R. Bray	5.20
F. Day	4.50

The high wind accounts for the slow time made, it being very difficult to throw with accuracy.

Purgatives Are Dangerous.

They gripe, cause burning pains and make the constipated condition even worse. Physicians say the ideal laxative is Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut; they are exceedingly mild, composed only of health-giving vegetable extracts. Dr Hamilton's Pills restore regular movement of the bowels, strengthen the stomach and purify the blood. For constipation, sick headache, biliousness and disordered digestion no medicine on earth makes such remarkable cures as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Try a 25c. box yourself.

Coats-of-Arms of the New Provinces.

The new province of Saskatchewan will soon have its armorial bearings. The design consists of a lion surmounted with three golden blades, signifying the granary of the empire. The Heralds college of London, is considering a symbol for Alberta. The royal decree affirming the coats-of-arms for Manitoba and Prince Edward Island have just been issued, and correspondence is going on regarding the armorial bearings of British Columbia. The design of the Manitoba arms is different from that hitherto used. The buffalo is represented as standing on a rock. At the top of the shield is the St. George's cross on an argent field. The Prince Edward Island coat of arms is also changed, the oak and three oak saplings being surmounted by a lion guardant.

Fred McLean brought in a bunch of horses from the Hamilton ranch and Mr. D. Hamilton shipped them to Manitoba last week.

One of the pleasing features with Ernest Willis's "Hottest Coon in Dixie" company that comes to Medicine Hat on Friday October 20th, is the daily street parade and band concert by Prof. G. B. Rhones' Imperial Band, one of the finest colored musical organizations on tour. Their programme will consist of the last instrumental hits and is well worth coming out to hear.

The Hospital.

A regular meeting of the Directors was held Monday week. Present: O. W. Kealy (in the chair). Dr. Smyth (medical superintendent), W. N. Adsit, J. H. Cunliffe, W. C. Harris, J. K. Drinnan and F. L. Crawford.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

A number of bills were received and ordered to be paid. Mr. Drinnan being appointed to sign cheques in the absence of Hon W. T. Finlay, President, who is out of town.

Satisfactory reports were received from the Lady Supt. (Miss McKinley), and the Medical Supt.

A letter was read from Mr. J. C. Honeyman stating that the Province of Saskatchewan would continue the present arrangement for the treatment of incurables and it was resolved to signify the Board's agreement therewith.

A supplementary report from the Lady Superintendent stated that Miss Belle Collier had been accepted as a pupil nurse, Miss Campbell as a probationer, and Miss Sims had been appointed assistant. Lady Superintendent in place of Miss Casey who has resigned.

The visiting committee made lengthy report containing several important recommendations for various and much necessary internal improvements, calculated to improve the safety and comfort of the patients. As an outcome of the report a gas lamp will be erected over the entrance steps and the steps and approach will be much improved.

Messrs Kealy, Harris and Crawford were appointed to interview the town Council to see if an arrangement can be come to for giving the hospital a special rate on gas.

Prairie Pride Patent flour is taking top place in this district, as it ought.

The company recently let a contract for the erection of a 30,000 bushel elevator.

The Witch of Cragenstone

By ANITA CLAY MUNOZ,

Author of "In Love and Truth"

Copyright, 1905, by Anita Clay Munoz.

"Methought as I saw him that the knight was getting on to thirty summers, mayhap one or two more," she said. "He was large of stature and finely built, with gray eyes and brown pointed beard worn i' the French fashion. A round hat with sweeping feather covered his hair, long leathern riding boots reached to his hips, and his doublet was of ruby velvet, with black satin slashings. Good son Josiah"—she laid her hand on his arm with an expression of feeling unusual with her—"he presented such a dazzling picture to mine eyes that for the nonce—knowing that oft to silly women the sight of rich and tawdry dress doth weigh heavily against piety, honesty and worth of character—a feeling of insecurity, apprehension and alarm for thy prospects so filled my mind that I saw the man who would supplant thee ride bravely away in the wrong direction with exultation and a feeling of gratitude to God for his gracious protection of us, ever his righteous and faithful servants," she concluded in her most devout manner.

Springing to his feet, Taunston paced the room with nervous strides, occasionally pausing to look out of the window or to stand stern and gloomy before the chimney fire. Suddenly, as if unable to contain himself longer, he made a sharp exclamation and, going to his mother, who had resumed her spinning, cried desperately: "Mother, I ha' sworn that those lands shall be mine! An' the knowledge that there is an enemy approaching with intent to baffle my desire doth set me on the verge of frenzy!"

"Calmness," she replied in a voice of warning. "Cold calculation and a trust in God were ever better, my son, than hot words and hasty action. Already Abigail's misdirection hath sped thee six days on thy wooing and six days more before the Skollvent stream will be passable, not taking into consideration the knowledge of the pest of measles that spreads so thickly about the town of Sterndorf, where our travelers are resting safely there by now."

She laughed in grim enjoyment. "Happen, lad, we may ne'er hear o' them again."

Josiah paused in his restless walking and leaned against the casing of the door, with a gleam of hope in his eyes.

"Ha, ha," his laughter rang out harsh and mirthless. "An our gallant courtier doth fall a victim to the pest 'twill be a long number o' days before he can recover strength to ride down yon rocky mountain road. In that time, with perseverance and determination, much headway can be made!"

He opened his lips to continue, hesitated, then said: "Thou saidst I think that yon cavalier's face was not one of much attractiveness, good mother? Not one a woman would remember long?"

Still treasuring in her heart against him the harsh words he had spoken as he rode up to the door, his mother made reply:

"'Twere a sin to speak words without truth, Josiah," she said piously, "so I fain must say that to the worldly minded the gallant's face was one of much manly beauty."

Her son did not reply, but strode hastily out of the doorway, and as he walked bitter hatred filled his heart and blinded his eyes so that for once he did not see the green lands of Margaret Mayland's estate spreading out in all their spring beauty before him. His sister Hetty, dawdling at the brook in the sunshine, filling the ewers, spoke to him as he passed, but he did not hear her or appear to know that she was there.

Not so with round faced Simon Kempster, who came after him whistling merrily, a bunch of fagots on his shoulders and a happy light in his eyes as their gaze fell on Hetty, who, having filled the ewers, was now raising one to her shoulder preparatory to carrying it to the house.

Simon threw down his fagots.

"A good morrow, Hetty. Shall help thee with thy water carrying?"

"Nay, not so, good Simon, for mother, ever watchful from the doorway, would say that we did gossip in working hours," she replied soberly. "Once ere now this morning I ha' felt the severity o' her displeasure."

"Then, by my faith, thy sweet face showeth no sign that thou didst take her rebuke to heart sorely, for thy countenance is as bright—as bright"—

Hetty raised her eyes in pleased anticipation.

"As bright as a new brass kettle!" he cried, delighted in that he had found so apt a comparison.

The smile on his companion's face grew quickly into a frown as she turned stiffly to walk away.

"So I resemble a brass kettle this morning!" she said sarcastically. "Next time thou growest sentimental thou wilt probably compare my graces to a hogshead, or mayhap," growing angrier every minute, "I may remind thee of thy new pigs' trough!"

"A good morrow, Hetty."

She walked away swiftly.

"Nay, be not vexed with me, sweet Hetty," Simon exclaimed, running after her in clumsy haste. "Wait, wait. I have bethought me of a most beauteous verse about thee."

Hetty halted, indecision in her manner, her nose held high in the air and a look of piqued vanity ornamenting her features.

"Thou wert ever slow, Simon. I would be away to assist my mother."

Simon, flushed and breathless, was evidently laboring under great mental excitement. "Prithee, do not speak, Hetty, or I'll lose it!" he cried, with great eagerness.

"I—I went to the brook,
An' when I did look
I saw a maid,
And—and she no longer stayed.

"There, there! That's sentiment for thee, Hetty."

Her face softened a little, and she approached a step nearer, asking doubtfully, "Dost think so, Simon?"

"Aye, marry, 'tis a fine verse and of wondrous sentiment!" he cried convincingly. "I warrant that Will Shakespeare, with all the talk about him, could ne'er ha' done better. Didst ever hear of such perfection in rhyming, Hetty?"

"Perchance, 'tis well for a verse thought on the minute," she replied, with an indifferent toss of her head. "Ah, welladay, 'tis ill dawdling at the brook i' the morning, with a day's work ahead of one, a-listening to foolish rhymesters."

Simon watched her wistfully as she walked away from him, with the ewer of water gracefully poised on her shoulder. Nor did he take his glance from her until she had entered a woody stretch of country that lay between the brook and the Taunston farmhouse. Then, throwing fear of her displeasure to the winds, he ran hastily and overtook her at the dell.

"Hetty," he whispered, panting slightly, "the sentiment in my verse did please thee, I trow, by the look of approval in thine eyes. Wilt kiss me, Hetty?"

"Nay, silly stupid!" She tossed her head indignantly. "Wast ever such effrontery heard on!"

Then, seeing him abashed and his bright face cloud with regret at his temerity, her eyes twinkled and she laughed a low, sweet, rippling laugh.

"There, there, good Simon, pout not so dolefully," she exclaimed. "Prithee, since thou hath grown clever and can make verses so aptly perchance thou shouldst have a reward. Thou"—a warm flush suffusing her countenance—"thou canst kiss the back of my hand if thou like," throwing it toward him indifferently. "There, lawk-a-mercy, man, do ha' done! I did not say my wrist an' arm, that I remember! Aye, mother," she cried hastily in answer to a shrill call from her mother in the doorway. "I'm on my way!"

CHAPTER VIII.

WITH the slanting rays of the afternoon sun falling full upon her, Margaret Mayland rode up the mountain path that led to the Mayland farm, making with her crimson riding habit and yellow hair a brilliant speck of color against the dark background of the green trees and foliage. Her horse stepped slowly, the rein falling loose on its neck, and Margaret, pale faced and dejected, rode along listlessly. A lark calling his mate sent strong, sweet notes across the forest; a busy squirrel, disturbed by the advent of horse and rider, ran chattering up the trunk of a tree, and the little spring brook bubbled across the mountain road and splashed and sparkled in the sunlight, but Margaret, lost in her sad reverie, rode on unheeding with bowed figure and drooping head.

Elsbeth, who for an hour past had been peering anxiously out of a window that overlooked the roadway, spying her young charge at the gates, threw open the door at her approach with a great show of cheerful activity.

"Enter, pretty, an' rest thyself," she cried as Margaret alighted from the horse and threw the reins to old Giles.

Then, lifting her eyes in mute despair to Elsbeth's face, Margaret came toward the house.

"Thy tea is brewed, and the hot cakes that thou likest are covered, keeping warm for thee on the hearthstone," Elsbeth announced.

Margaret entered languidly, carrying her jeweled riding whip, her heavy skirts trailing after her as she came.

"I care not to eat," she said sadly.

Then, as if unable to conceal her disappointment or to contain her suffering, she cried out brokenly: "Elsbeth, another day most gone and Godfrey hath not come. An' wander where I will I can get no word of him. Mine eyes are strained with looking down the road that leads from London, and my heart aches near to bursting with loneliness and apprehension. Three weeks last Sunday since I received his missive."

Her riding whip fell to the floor with a thud as she sank into a chair, covering up her white face with her hands.

"Elsbeth," she said at last to the woman who stood before her in dumb sympathy, "hast ever thought that Godfrey, reckless in his haste to see me, did attempt to ride up the mountain in that fearful storm and—God's pity on me!—was lost?"

"Tut, tut, sweetheart!" Elsbeth's voice was gay and full of courage to reassure her. "Sir Godfrey's but detained in Lunnon. Thou must keep in mind what a great lord he is and that mayhap his business there is of vast importance. 'Tis often, I warrant thee, that a man's heart is in one place and perforce his body in another. Ha' done grieving, Margaret, and eat a little sup to strengthen thee. He'll come anon."

Her young mistress did not move or raise her head.

"Every night since the storm broke," she lamented, "I have worn my finest gowns to welcome Godfrey—at first with happy heart full of bright hope, then, after succeeding days of bitter disappointment, with less hope and some misgiving. But tonight"—she drew a sharp breath and put her hand over her heart—"I go to dress sick with terror and broken hearted with despair. Elsbeth," she cried, throwing up her head with a little tragic gesture, "I tell thee Godfrey is ill or dead, for so perfect is my knowledge of his unselfish love for me that I know, unless fever did render him delirious or death had stilled his tongue, he would not leave me pining here alone, suffering this frightful apprehension!"

Weeping silently, she prepared to go up the stairs.

Elsbeth was at her side in a moment. "Tut, tut, my bonny maid! Let not such fearsome thought beset thee," she urged earnestly. "Take heart, Margaret. I promise thee—thine old Elsbeth who loves thee doth promise thee—that ere the sun goeth down on another day thy lover 'll hold thee in his arms."

Margaret smiled sadly. "An I could believe thine oft repeated promises, good Elsbeth, my heart would not now have lost its lightness."

At the top of the staircase she paused.

"Oh, Elsbeth, 'tis easy for thee to be brave when 'tis not thy Godfrey who doth not come!" she said. "But could thou really know what 'tis to wait wearily night after night for the man who hast thine whole heart thou would pity me."

"I ha' ever advised thee, Margaret," the elder woman said, putting her arm about the girl comfortingly, "not to fasten too much affection on any man, else he prove not worthy of it and thy joy be turned to sorrow."

Margaret raised her eyes, filled with deep reproach, to Elsbeth's face.

"Such true love as doth exist between Godfrey and me," she said soberly; "such faith, such trust, thou with thine evil suspicions and grim forebodings could have no thought on. What knoweth thou of men and lovers, Elsbeth, that thou art always prating of their imperfections? 'Twere not kind of thee to tease me with thy maudlin talk when"—the tears in her eyes overflowed on her cheeks—"I am so beset on every side."

"Beset! Margaret, tell me. Who troubles thee?"

"I have told thee of my cousin Josiah's importunities, Elsbeth," she answered. "Thou knowest that his cold, persistent wooing doth fret me, and lately his advances have been so open and determined that, i' truth, I have fear of him."

She drew a sharp, shuddering breath. "Elsbeth, the sight of my cousin strikes a chill to my heart. I know that he is an upright man and godly, but he tells me so plainly of his firm determination to win me at all hazards; there is something so cruel in his eyes and so relentless in his bearing, that he sets me all a-tremble. At night I have evil dreams of him, and my waking hours are filled with bad presentiments. Oh, Elsbeth"—she burst out crying bitterly—"pray God to send me Godfrey!"

"There, there! Take off this riding dress that hangs so heavily about thee"—Elsbeth stroked the bowed head gently—"and don thine azure muslin that Sir Godfrey loved to see thee wear. Dost remember, sweet, one night in Paris when I was brushing thy hair that thou told me that thy lover said thou wert like a dainty flower in that frock—a blue forgetmenot? And the next day he sent thee a bunch of the sweet flowers?"

"Ah, remind me not of those happy days!" she replied tearfully. "Ah, lackaday, that I ever left mine aunt in Paris!"

Elsbeth, assisting her to remove her habit, said, with gentle sympathy, "'Tis no wonder thou art nerveless and pining, bonny, in this raw mountain climate that, I trow, doth not agree with thee, an' the sober ways of thy neighbors do pall upon thee."

"Although it doth appear to thee, Elsbeth, that I have lost my bravery and strength, I have still courage to bear the heaviest ills of life, such as separation, poor health, grim poverty, i' truth, starvation; but I admit that such agony as the knowledge of harm to Godfrey would be a grief such as would kill me."

"Fie, fie on such grim thoughts! Cheer thee, Margaret," urged her companion.

For a moment the girl struggled with herself, then forcing a smile through the tears said more cheerfully, "The blue frock, Elsbeth, and my lace bertha. Who doth dare say that thou and I have lost hope of brave Godfrey?"

An hour later, just as the waning sunlight was hovering over the pine covered peaks of Cragenstone now distinctly defined against the rose tinted horizon, the young mistress of the Mayland farm, wearing a blue evening gown made in the French fashion, with the bodice cut low, surmounted by a lace bertha, her fair neck and arms bare and ruffled skirts made full and sweeping, walked out of the house and standing before the door looked down the roadway pensively with an air of indecision.

The soft breeze stirred the leaves of the foliage and the monotonous call of the whippoorwill could be heard over the trees of the forest, but no other sounds, such as the galloping of horses' feet, fell on the ears of the waiting, lonely woman.

"Mayhap, an thou'lt walk a little down the road behind the hill, thou'lt meet Sir Godfrey," Elsbeth called from the window.

Margaret turned to her sadly.

"Elsbeth, an Godfrey comes not tonight I shall know that he is lying helpless, ill; hath met foul play—or—or is dead. Tomorrow an he is not here I'll rouse the village, send messengers scurrying in all directions, for, prithee," with a little sob, "if the truth is what I suspect, I had better die of that at once than linger with this suffering, this slow suspense that is killing me."

"What foolish megrims! Nay, cheer thee, Margaret." Elsbeth cried in protest at the dark views of her mistress. "I do protest Sir Godfrey's not the man to be outdone by any villainy. And who hereabout would be his enemy? He'll come anon."

"So thou hast said before," Margaret replied, turning away listlessly, "an' meanest well, for thou dost love me. While yet it is day I'll stroll through the woody forest path to the village. Some new arrival at the inn beguiles

Where Le Page Lacked Nerve

By FRANK H. SWEET

"But, factor, it seems to me like putting our hands into another's cache," remonstrated Le Page bluntly.

"It's putting our hands upon shoulders that are bending over our own cache," retorted the factor angrily. "Our company came into this country first and ranged it from the divide to the snow line unmolested, and now these interlopers sneak in and appropriate the best trapping valley in the whole section. They must be driven out, Le Page, and you must do it."

"Well," thoughtfully, "I suppose I could do it. But from the divide to the snow line is a big territory for one company to claim, factor, and I don't think any of our men have been into that particular valley for more than two years. It is fifty miles away and off our regular line of work. I generally scatter my men along the river country on account of the animals coming to drink and the easier transportation. That family could remain in the valley a lifetime and not really hurt us. You know that, factor. Besides, they have just as much right here as we have. And there is another thing," coolly, and ignoring the wrath that was flaming to the factor's face, "ever since I heard how they went to the valley last winter, just a young man and his wife, across 300 miles of as bleak country as even a trapper ever turned his back to, I have wished that I could meet them and shake hands."

"You seem to know all about them," sneered the factor.

"Not a word more than you. Antoine was up that way trapping and told you what he told the rest of us. He met the man himself and heard him say that he had not been married long and that the two had reached the valley in good condition. That is all, only you and I look at things differently."

"OH, MESSIEURS, MESSIEURS, DO NOT LET HIM DIE."

The factor's wrath could not contain itself longer.

"Perhaps so," he stormed, "but you'll do this just as I look at it. You're under contract to the company."

"For five years," calmly, "to hunt, trap and do the work according to my ability. I am satisfied."

"Well," menacingly, "you will take four men and go to this valley and clear it of its vermin."

"How?"

"Any way you like, so long as it's done thoroughly," snapped the factor. "You never asked a question like that before. You must be losing nerve. Shoot them, burn them, drown them; there are ways enough. Or no"—controlling himself with an effort—"perhaps you'd better not do that. Stories get out and prejudice the country against us. Frighten them off. A good way is to destroy their camp and provisions and take away all their weapons, then give them so many hours to leave the country. They'll go all right. I followed that method until I was given charge of a post. And, Le Page!"

"Yes, factor."

"You will discontinue having your way of looking at things. You belong to the company, and I voice the company's orders. Understand? Any failure on your part, or leaving the service, means losing everything coming to you. That's the contract."

"I have read it," smilingly, "and my way of looking at things has never interfered with my work so far. You know that."

Yes, the factor knew it. But still his eyes followed the strong figure as it strode away with anything but friendly looks. There was bad blood between the two, and but for the fact that Le Page was worth any three men at the post and could control the others as no one else had ever done, and seemed to have an instinctive knowledge of where to obtain the best and most pelts, he would long ago have found means of getting rid of him. Moreover, he had an uneasy feeling that the company valued Le Page's services almost as much as it did his own.

Inside of half an hour Le Page had selected ammunition and provisions and picked out the four men who were to accompany him—the best at the trading post, he believed, and men after his own heart; strong, wiry, indefatigable, who would fight or work so long as strength lasted and on whom he could depend. The work was not such as he would like, but that did not matter; it was the company's and he was in the company's service.

The second day they reached the head of the valley, entering it by way of a ravine through which plunged an icy stream. This they waded. Beyond, the ground sloped rapidly and was thickly wooded. They could overlook most of the valley.

"Now, men," said Le Page, "suppose we scatter and work gradually down the valley, examining the woods thoroughly. They have likely built a cabin somewhere, and if they see us first and suspect our errand they may try to keep out of sight."

"Wait a moment," exclaimed one of the men. "Isn't that smoke half a mile or so down yonder, over those pine tops?" And he pointed with his finger.

Le Page shaded his eyes.

"Yes, that's smoke," he said after a sharp scrutiny, "and it seems near the stream. They've built there on account of the water. Well, we'll follow right down the bank and settle things at once. But mind, men, no fighting unless there's need. We'll try to persuade them to leave peaceably. If they refuse to go, we'll use force. I think we can get back to the post by tomorrow night."

There was little need of caution, for the ground along the bank was covered with pine needles and gave no sound of their footsteps, and the trees were so thick as to conceal everything a few rods away. It was only when they had approached to within thirty yards that they saw the cabin.

But before they reached it a woman came hurrying out, wringing her hands.

"Oh, mon Dieu, mon Dieu!" she cried wildly. "My husband has been hurt by a falling tree and must have a doctor. It is sixty miles, and I have a little baby and cannot leave it and my husband. Oh, messieurs, messieurs, do not let him die!"

Le Page was a man of quick thought and prompt action and of sympathetic heart. Whirling to his men, he said bluntly:

"You will return at once to the factor. Tell him the expedition is a failure. Wait, I will send him a note."

He scribbled a few lines on the back of an envelope and gave it to one of the men. "Now go!" he ordered. The note read:

Factor—I did not have the nerve after all. I am going to the River des Quince post after a doctor for the man, who is hurt. I can go quicker than any one else. Of course I shall lose the £200 due me, since I leave the company's service.

LE PAGE.

But he did not lose the money. Three months afterward a letter reached him through an Indian runner. It was from the company's office in London and ran:

By advice of our correspondent at Quebec we have decided to appoint you to the factorship of the trading post which controls your section. Your predecessor we have transferred to another post. Yours respectfully, T. PAYNE, Secretary.

P. S.—Any arrears of salary due you will be sent from the Quebec office.

Still Unruffled.

Uncle Rufus was one of the calmest and most equable of mortals. Nobody had ever seen him excited or impatient. But there came a time that tried him. The furnace in the basement of his house was working badly. He had been experimenting with a new variety of coal, in which there was a considerable proportion of "slack," and it did not seem to be burning. He threw open the door of the furnace, thrust the end of a long poker deep into the smoldering mass and stirred it up vigorously.

The result was startling. A fierce burst of flame and smoke came forth, not only enveloping Uncle Rufus, but blowing out the flue caps in the rooms above and filling the house with soot and ashes.

In the midst of the excitement Uncle Rufus came up from the basement with his usual slow and regular step. His face was black with grime, his eyebrows and eyelashes were singed to a crisp, and what was left of his hair and beard was a sight to behold.

He went to a mirror and took a good look at himself.

"Waal," he said slowly and deliberately, "I was needing a shave an' a hair cut anyway."

Stone Forests.

Stone forests are found in various parts of the world. In many cases they are hardened by some peculiarity of the atmosphere and are found standing just as they were when clothed with green foliage thousands of years ago. The Little Colorado river, in Arizona, has long been famous as a locality for such finds. At one place more than 1,500 cords of solid stone tree trunks, sections, limbs and logs were found by the government surveyors. Most of them were silicified, many seven to ten feet in diameter and from twenty to eighty feet in height. Geologists say that the petrified trees of the Little Colorado were once covered with marl over 1,000 feet in depth. Some of the trees have been changed to jasper and have assumed various hues; others resemble opal, and when broken open the core is often found lined with crystals of the most beautiful tints.

Not a Messenger Boy.

A beggar accosted a man on the street the other day and poured out a tale of woe, to which the gentleman patiently listened. Then he took out a card bearing his name, which was that of a well known philanthropist who contributes largely to an organization working for the relief of the poor. This he handed to the man after writing an introductory note thereon. The beggar turned away with disgust written on his face and the parting remark:

"Say, d'ye t'ink I got time to beat it up to dat joint? I'm too busy workin' dis pike to waste me time dat way. Wot d'ye t'ink I am—a messenger boy?"

The Difficult Persian Tongue.

Of the difficulties in the language of Persia a traveler writes: "The words one uses in a letter are almost entirely different from those used conversationally, and those in an ordinary prose history are again different. Then it is almost impossible to distinguish the tenses, and, lastly, the adjective is generally indistinguishable from the substantive, and the link between an adjective and the term which it qualifies is the same as the sign of the possessive. For instance, the text, 'This is my beloved son,' may be read in the Persian Bible 'This is the son of my beloved,' without the slightest violence to the grammar."

Origin of One Graveyard.

The family of a member of parliament from Yorkshire has a private graveyard and has had it for several generations. The founder of it was a Quaker, and the rector of the parish in which he lived said to him after a dispute on religious matters: "Well, if you don't come to church when you are alive, you will when you are dead." But the Quaker thought otherwise and founded the burial place, which is used to this day.
