Beaverbrook And Lloyd George Differ

London, Nov. 19.—That Lord Beaverbrook has come to a parting of the ways with Premier Lloyd George and that the split has become so bitter that he is engineering a campaign to smash the coalition government, is the substance of a well informed report which has caused a sensation in the British political world. So persistent did the rumors become that I discussed them in an interview with Lord Beaverbrook. Although denying the reports of a personal quarrel, Beaverbrook admitted he is opposing most vigorously the Premier's repeat policies.

Unionists Must Dominate

Beaverbrook admitted the authorship of recent articles in his Daily Express, written under the nom de plume of "Healset." In these he freely spoke of the Tories in the coalition government as "swallowing not only a big white rabbit in Lloyd George, but also other big white rabbits in the coalition Liberals." He intimated his belief that the Unionist element in the coalition must dominate. Referring to the Beaverbrook said: "My interpretation of this is

McKINLEYVILLE MAN BURNED TO DEATH

Daniel McKinley, of McKinleyville, was burned to death Friday night. He was about 74 years of age and lived alone in a small house.

He had long been very well for a few days and was accustomed to keep a fire all night. At an early hour Saturday morning the residents of McKinleyville were shocked to find the house a heap of smoking ruins, from which the remains were recovered. The coroner decided an inquest was unnecessary.

"Wallace Reid" At Happy Hour Thur.

WALLACE REID in a new screen comedy, "The Dancin' Fool," will be the attraction at the Happy Hour Theatre for Thursday. The photoplay is said to present the star in a role that is unusual and that ideally suits Mr. Reid's buoyant personality.

Wallis is Sylvester Tibble, lately arrived in New York from a country town to work for his Uncle Enoch in the jug business. The latter is a hide bound conservative with the result that his profits have pretty well dwindled off into space. Sylvester, known as "Ves", shocks his uncle with the modern innovations he introduces and is in a continual row with him. In the meantime, "Ves" meets Junie Budd, dancer in a cabaret in which he happens to drift. The discovery that "Ves" is a crack-jack dancer results in his becoming her partner at "The Garden of Roses," a high-class cabaret. Thus he works by day at six dollars a week and by night for two hundred.

But gradually "Ves" focuses his attention on business, to the dismay of Junie, and goes on the road for his uncle with a big advertising scheme that is marvelously successful. He returns in time to re-claim the jug business and to claim Junie for his own. Bebe Daniels plays the role of Junie, and Raymond Hatton, Tully Marshall, and Lillian Leighton are also in the cast. The picture was adapted from a popular magazine story by Henry Payson Dowst. Sam Wood directed, and it is a Paramount Artcraft picture.

accurate, as has been plainly proven." Later articles condemned Lloyd George's Irish revival policy and urged that a protest be made against their being carried out.

These articles have proved to be not merely blank cartridges, as is shown by developments. Recently the two coalition groups met. The coalition liberals affirmed their anti-dumping policy in somewhat of a free trade sense.

An Interesting Situation

The coalition Unionists affirmed the policy in a protective sense. This, Beaverbrook intimated, disclosed the unrest that prevails, and commented that the coalition Liberals hitherto

LORD BEAVERBROOK DONATES PIANO

Mr. E. A. McCurdy has received a letter from Lord Beaverbrook in which he states that he will donate a piano to Harkn's Academy for use in the New Assembly Room. The instrument will be similar to the one given by him to the Grammar School in Chatham. Mr. McCurdy has been instructed by Lord Beaverbrook to order the piano at once. Lord Beaverbrook has on many other occasions remembered his home town by many acts of kindness and this gift will be very much appreciated by the teaching staff and pupils of Harkn's Academy, as well as by the public at large.

Federal Election Not Expected in Near Future

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—While there is little disposition in political circles at the capital to think that a Dominion election is likely to be held in the near future it is authoritatively stated that there are no reasons why the necessary preparation for the taking of a vote could not be made within a comparatively short time. While things are not now in a state of preparedness, it is explained that the printing of the necessary lists and other necessary work could be rushed.

In this connection it is also explained that the holding of a general election would not necessarily involve a further postponement of the taking of the bone-dry vote in Ontario, which has been fixed for April 18, 1921. The effect of the enabling legislation to be passed by parliament is to reduce the cost of the vote by half a million dollars by using the new Ontario lists. The referendum could be held under existing legislation but the cost would be greater.

P. E. I. FISHERMEN CATCHING SMELTS

Charlottetown, P. E. I. Nov. 17.—For the past week smelt fishing has been prosecuted very successfully on the North side of the Island. Good catches have been landed all along the North shore. The reports from the oyster fisheries have been very encouraging. Some exceedingly good ones are being landed at East River. Proceedings are being taken at a party at East River for having undervalued oyster shells on his premises. A party is being prosecuted also for fishing salmon at Winter River out of season, and proceedings are being taken against another at Bonshaw for allowing sawdust to go into stream.

Work Newspapers Do Gratis

If Newcastle, Chatham, Moncton town or city or any other city paid its newspapers at regular card rates, all the free advertising which the newspapers do gratis, the annual municipal outlay of each town would be increased by millions of dollars.

The people of a city or town never expect a shipyard to do anything but build ships. A locomotive plant has done its duty when it constructs railway engines. A hat factory, flour mill, clothing factory, bank, store, trolley road or telephone is not reckoned upon to give its time, service or capital for boosting any enterprise except its own.

But a newspaper has dozens of requests every day to print or to urge, to commend or damn, to beg or promote, something out of which the owner of the paper can derive no financial benefit.

He is expected to employ his capital in that way for the common welfare.

A newspaper has but two possible sources of income. One is from the sale of the paper and the other from the sale of advertising space.

Whatever in a paper does not attract readers to buy is not a profitable thing for the owner financially.

Whatever in a paper takes up space where an advertisement might be printed is a direct and immediate loss. Very little of what is called "civic boosting" ever brings to a newspaper a single reader. Certainly no begging proposition does.

Armenians or other oppressed peoples in the East seem to always require "relief," and the papers are expected to print columns of appeals.

But no person would ever think of buying a newspaper just to read an article asking him to contribute money to some one 6,000 miles away.

On account of a prize fight, baseball game, murder, election, elopement, a battle or a hot debate in congress, would sell papers. Readers would buy to see that sort of thing.

It may be contended that it is a newspaper's legitimate business to beg and boost. But it is no more the function of a newspaper than of a magazine, and magazines thrive by publishing only such articles as their editors believe the public wishes to read.

The magazine tries and does so circulation by interesting its readers and so gets advertisements

It publishes no Polish, nor Armenian appeals, never urges better street paving and cleaning; does not coax people to contribute for the support of hospitals and colleges; makes no demonstration for saving babies, swatting the fly or any other kind of thing which newspapers are constantly asked to help.

Every newspaper publisher knows that there is neither circulation nor financial gain in such a policy, yet they all do it.

There is another feature of metropolitan journalism which is rarely thought of by those not in the business of printing papers.

Every paper refuses to accept certain classes of advertisements which, if printed, would yield tens of thousands of dollars in revenue.

The public says, perhaps, a paper has no right to publish questionable ads. But do other businesses scrutinize as closely?

Does any job printer refuse to print nice stationery for so-called brokers who are trying to gull the public by sending them lying letters? Does any job printer refuse to print accept the perfectly good money on such a fake concern although the car is to be used in furthering the crook's trade?

Even the United States Government sells postage stamps to carry millions of swindling letters to the victims of fraudulent games.

So the newspaper gives more of its services free than almost any other institution that is not an endowed charity, while at the same time it voluntarily, for what it deems to be the public good, refuses to accept profitable advertising.

Who can estimate, therefore, the sum total of such a policy, day in and day out, adhered to by American or Canadian newspapers?

Blankets And Blanketing

In summer and while at work horses do not require blanketing because they are usually warm enough. However, we are now approaching the time of the year when blanketing will, under certain conditions, become necessary. Young or idle horses that are gradually accustomed to the change from field to stable conditions do not require any blanketing, as their coats become heavier as the temperature goes lower. It is the horse that is at work in all kinds of weather, in one day and out the next, that requires close attention. When a horse comes in wet from perspiration or rain he should be dried off as much and as quickly as possible. If soaking wet a scraper may be used, this to be followed by a brisk rub with a wisp of hay. The horse should then be blanketed until such time as his coat becomes dry again.

The advisability of blanketing the working horse continually throughout the winter, when not out at work, depends on conditions in the stable. Generally speaking, it is healthier to keep the stable cool enough to make a blanket necessary at the time, hot stables being very unhealthy. If the stable is warm at all times it will only be necessary to blanket the horse when it comes in warm. In the former case, too heavy blankets should not be used for the horse will then feel the cold much worse and will require extra heavy blanketing if obliged to stand for any long time outside.

When the horse is obliged to stand idle outdoors in cold weather for any length of time, it should be well blanketed. This is particularly true of clipped horses. Some horses are blanketed continually to keep them clean and to make their coats glossy. This is wrong practice for, in the first place, the dirt in a horse's coat originates for the most part in his skin hence the blanket cannot keep it out; in the second place the blanket does not make a true gloss on the coat but only a temporary one which is soon lost when the horse goes out in the cold.

Liberal use of the curry comb and brush are the best means of obtaining a clean and glossy coat. In the case of cattle, blanketing is not of so much importance as the animals are not subject to so many changes. If, however, any animals, and particularly milk cows, are being transported from one place to another in cold weather they should be properly blanketed. If being moved on foot and they have become heated up they should be blanketed until they become cooled off again. Once established in a stable it is rarely so cold that a blanket is necessary at all times. In this case of little washing and then blanketing heavily for a short time is often practiced to obtain a soft glossy coat for exhibition purposes.

In practically all cases of sickness in the above classes of animals blanketing is to be recommended, the idea being not to keep the animals unduly warm but to keep them warm and at the same time be able to provide plenty of pure fresh air. This is particularly true in cases of pneumonia or other lung trouble. When an animal is seen standing trembling and with its back up it is safe to throw a blanket or two over it as the first remedial measure. Often a good warming up at this stage will check worse sickness.

The best blankets are made of cotton or canvas with wool or flannel linings. The wool and flannel serve to absorb the moisture and thus help to dry out the animal's coat besides being warmer in winter than the all cotton blanket. A light waterproof canvas blanket with flannel or no lining is serviceable for outdoor use in wet weather. All blankets should have good strong fasteners for very often an otherwise good blanket is ruined through becoming unfastened, trampled upon and torn. A good strap and buckle at the breast is a necessity the same being fastened to the blanket in such a way that the strain is exerted on a considerable portion of the blanket and not just in one small spot, for in the latter case the fastener will soon pull off. With the blanket a surcingle is generally used. This should be fairly wide and padded on either side of the girth to relieve the pressure on the latter. In some cases also it will be found necessary to use thigh straps, these being fastened to the rear of the blanket about the height of the breeching and passed around the inside of the thigh and fastened to the blanket again at the flank. It is advisable to have these straps fairly loose to allow a little play or they will be easily broken.

As most blankets are rather expensive they should be given a little care. After using on a sweating horse or when damp from other causes see that they are aired and dried at the first opportunity. At the end of the season they should be soaked and then washed, thoroughly dried, and packed away in a box with cedar or moth balls.

Growing Old Together

THIS aged couple, mellowed by time and the experiences of life, are happily growing old together.

They are happy because they are healthy. Life is still full of interest to them, and they are wide awake to new ideas.

These are the kind of old people that everybody likes. For, in spite of the years, they are cheerful and optimistic.

It is only natural that the blood should get thin and vitality wane as age advances, but there are ways of keeping up the quality of the blood and maintaining health and vigor.

Very many men and women have found in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food exactly what they need to restore energy and strength and keep them healthy and happy.

As an example Mr. Stephen J. Leard, North Tryon, F.E.L., writes: "At seventy-five years of age my heart gave out and became very irregular and weak in action and would palpitate. My nerves also became weak, and I could do nothing but lie in bed in a languishing condition, losing strength and weight. In that condition I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and am cured. Had I not obtained this treatment I would now be in the box with the roof over my nose. At eighty-one I have an energy which means go, and I am writing this letter so that old people like myself may prolong their health and strength by using this great medicine."

There can be no doubt that this treatment contained exactly what was required to build up Mr. Leard's system.

We are constantly receiving so many letters of this kind that we can, with the greatest confidence, recommend people of advanced years to put Dr. Chase's Nerve Food on trial, as a means of restoring and maintaining health and vigor.

Here is another interesting letter. This time from a lady:

Mrs. Joseph Lalonde, Hydro Glen, Ont., writes: "I have to thank you very much for what your medicines have done for me, especially the Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills. I was so run down and nervous last summer that I was in bed most of the time, unable to do any work. I have also been troubled with my kidneys for over twenty years, and tried every doctor I knew of without any permanent results, but I can say that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills have made me feel quite different. Since taking this combined treatment I have been able to do my housework, and although I am now 76 years old, I feel better than I have for years."

("I know Mrs. Joseph Lalonde, and believe her statement regarding Dr. Chase's medicines to be true."—W. F. Flannery, Postmaster.)

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. Only the genuine bears the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author, on every box.

TAKING OUR OWN ADVICE

From the Woodstock Sentinel-Review:—They are telling a story of a Toronto judge who seldom missed an opportunity while on the bench of advising people to make their will so as to save annoyance and expense in the distribution of their property after death. In the course of time the judge himself died, and then it was discovered that he himself had made no will. He had been so busy giving good advice to others that he had neglected taking it himself. His neglect was very human. So many people exhibit such zeal for regulating the conduct of others that their own needs are overlooked. Nevertheless, the fact that a man fails to take his own advice is not necessarily an evidence that it is not good advice.

SUFFERING OF YOUNG WOMEN

This Letter Tells How It May Be Overcome—All Mothers Interested.

Toronto, Ont.—"I have suffered since I was a school girl with pain in my left side and with cramps, growing worse each year until I was all run down. I am a children's nurse, and I was so bad at times that I was unfit for work. I tried several doctors and patent medicines, but was only relieved for a short time. Some of the doctors wanted to perform an operation, but my father objected. Finally I learned through my mother of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and low thankful I am that I tried it. I am relieved from pain and cramps, and feel as if it has saved my life. You may use my letter to help other women, as I am only too glad to recommend the medicine."—JEAN KENT, 42 Blamford Ave., Toronto, Ont.

May Prove A Boom To Racing In the Provinces

Fredericton, N.S.—The sale of Bill Sharon, a 2:11 1/4, the Fredericton bred trotter, to Thomas W. Murphy, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., the Grand Circuit driver, for $25,000 in Canadian funds—a new high record for standard bred horses produced in Canada—has caused a remarkable out-of-season awakening in harness horse affairs here.

Yesterday when Peter Carroll, his veteran trainer, took Bill Sharon out to jog him on the streets, people jumped to the windows to catch a glimpse of what they never before realized was one of the world's greatest horses. During the next few days, probably tomorrow or on Thursday, the big chestnut trotter will be on his way to Murphy establishment on the Hudson to rub noses with Peter Manning, 2:02 1/4, and others of the elite in the harness world.

Horsemen look upon the sale of Bill Sharon as likely to prove a great boon to both the breeding and racing of harness horses in the Maritime Provinces, and believe the transaction will result in renewed interest being shown in the sport during the coming season. The development of such a phenomenal trotter as Bill Sharon evidently must be to cause a judge of horses like Murphy to pay $25,000 in United States funds for him shows the possibilities of getting rich returns, and there are always many who are willing to pay for big stakes "While we all dislike seeing such a wonderful horse leave this country, the sale of Bill Sharon at such a price will do a lot to help the racing game in the Maritime Provinces," commented Tommy Raymond, a well known local trainer and driver. "Here we have Mr. Alcorn, a newcomer to the sport, successful in having developed under his ownership a trotter which wins himself out in his races and then is sold for in thousands—all in somehing like six months. What could happen to encourage others to go into breeding and raising horses than such an illustration of the rich profits which can be made?"

Frank Murchie's Judgment Vindicated

Another very agreeable feature of the sale is the complete vindication which it brings to the judgement of Frank C. Murchie, of St. Stephen, N. B., who acts as the manager of the racing interests of his business partner, Mr. Alcorn. Mr. Murchie is no newcomer to the racing game; he has known about all there was to know about it for a good many years now because he has been an owner, a breeder and has driven many races. It was not long after he had formed a partnership with Mr. Alcorn in the pulpwood business that he induced the Blackville man to pay $2,500 for the then four-year-old trotter, and within a short time he had engaged Peter Carroll as trainer and race driver, establishing him with Bill Sharon and several other racing prospects at the Chatham, N. B. track. It was not so very long after Bill Sharon was brought before other parties were seeking to buy him. The first offer that came was for $4,000, and the price was then $5,000. Later on Mr. Murchie advanced the figure to $7,000, then he made it $10,000 and after he had won a race or two more the word was told that nothing less than $15,000 would buy the unbeaten chestnut trotter. Finally after he had romped away with track records almost everywhere he went and would up by beating even the free for all pacers at the Woodstock Driving Club's "overcoat" meeting, and the announcement was made that $25,000 in United States funds—and no less—would buy him.

Mr. Murchie, who had been criticized by armchair experts all over the country for having what they declared to be an inflated idea of the trotter's value, stuck to his ultimatum and coolly turned down an offer of $15,000 from another American a week or so before he received a telegram from Hector Molinas, of Boston, Mass., who was acting as scout for the Murphy interests. The completion of the sale at $25,000 is therefore striking evidence of the excellence of Mr. Murchie's judgment and shows that when he matched his business wits against even America's leading horsemen he was ultimately emerged successful. Hats off, therefore, to Mr. Murchie, whom Mr. Alcorn is most fortunate to have associated with him in his racing career.

Congratulations are due to Mr. Alcorn, Mr. Murchie, Mr. Carroll and last but not least, Samuel J. Boyle, breeder of Canada's first 2:00 trotter.—J. D. B.

Would not be Without Baby's Own Tablets

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she would not be without them. They are the ideal home remedy for the baby; being guaranteed to be absolutely free from opiates or other harmful drugs. They are a gentle but thorough laxative and have been proved of the greatest aid in cases of constipation, indigestion, colic, colds and simple fevers. The Reindeer Do Not Drink The Polar Sea

The migrations of the reindeer is one of the mysteries of natural history but it is not true, as we have been told that they are performed in order that the reindeer may drink of the Polar Sea.

A splendid description of such a march in enshrined in literature, but the idea underlying it is totally wrong. The reindeer do not go to quaff the bitter sea, but to fill their empty stomachs with seaweed cast up on the beach. No animal drinks sea water. It drives wrecked men mad, and it is impossible as a drink for animals. It is believed that seals do not drink it, but obtain their moisture from the fish they eat; and it is one of the marvels of fish structure that, in absorbing moisture from the sea by way of the skin, they possess the power of expelling the salt from the water, just as frost on converting the sea into ice, rids the water of its saline element. All ice at sea is free from salt; all drink of men and beasts must also be free from it. So the migrations of the reindeer, at ever increasing speed—a hundred miles at a gallop from inland to the coast—is not undertaken so that "once in his life the reindeer must taste of the sea in one long, satisfying draught, or perish if he be hindered;" it is that he may find the food which, by some mysterious agency, he knows is stored for him upon the shore.

The Toad Does Not Live in Rocks Without Food

Science has proved that toads can live long periods in confinement without food, but the longest period possible is only a few months, not years. In a receptacle to which no food can come to the toad its life departs well within a year. If the conditions are such that insects can crawl into the prison through holes or crevices, the toad may live for two years, but three years under such conditions would be fatal to the sturdiest toad of moderate appetite. Whenever toads are found in holes from which there has clearly been no recent way of escape until they were set free by hand, it is certain that the path by which they crawled in must have remained open, and that, where the little toad went, insects followed, and were eaten by the prisoner, which gradually grew too large to get out again, and had to remain, there, waiting for its meals to come to it. If its meals do not come to it in such conditions the toad must die.

THE ASSEMBLY ROOM
We understand that the Assembly Room in Harkins' Academy is about completed, and will in the very near future be ready for the pupils to hold their exercises therein. Carpenters have been engaged for the past few months getting this large room in shape, and a large amount of money has been expended on same. Har-kins' Academy is now equipped with a room, which for a number of years has been badly needed and we feel confident that our teachers and scholars will appreciate in no small degree, the addition of this beautiful Assembly Room.

Now that the school has been equipped with this spacious room, would it not be a most advisable plan for the Board of School Trustees to engage the services of some musical teacher to teach the children
one of the most beautiful studies that can be taught. It would not only be most helpful to the children, but would also provide one of the greatest pleasures in life, which they in turn would be in a position to pass along to the general public in entertainments which they would in future give. We hope something will be done in this matter, as it is a most vital one. The expense would be small.

CONSERVE THE WATER
The Public has heard for a long time from our Town Fathers, of the necessity of conserving the town's water supply, but it has been left to our present Town Council to devise the latest method of doing so, viz:- to increase the rates charged the two printing offices. How this is going to conserve the water supply is more than we can fathom. The two printing offices have been accused of wasting an enormous quantity of water,

CASTORIA

which is absolutely without foundation, and to prevent them from wasting water our present Town Council has increased the rates charged, in our own particular case, 150%. Last week we had a visit from the Town Engineer, and after a thorough examination, that official was satisfied that in so far as the Union Advocate Office was concerned, we were not wasting water, but simply using the quantity necessary for operation purposes. The printing offices in this town are ready, willing and anxious to do all they possible can, in the matter of conserving our present water supply, but we fail to see how the Town Council are going to achieve this purpose by increasing the rates of only the printing offices.
Our Town Council, as do all other citizens, know full well that there are places in this town that use far more water than they are entitled to or pay for, but nothing is done to prevent them from doing so, their rates even are not advanced, such as has been done to the printing offices.
Why such discrimination? The two local papers do more in the way of boosting and advertising our town than any other agency, and it does not cost the town one cent, but nevertheless, when the Town Council want to conserve the water supply, they boost our rates 150%. Is this fair treatment? We do not think it is.
The two printing offices are perfectly willing and prepared to pay their proportionate share of the water used by them but they do object when they are discriminated against. The new method devised by the Town Council is to our way of thinking,
more of a money making scheme
than it is of a water conservation one, and if this is the intention of the Town Council, we fail to see why the water rates of others using water are not increased proportionately, in accordance with the increase given to the printing establishments. There would be some wisdom in this move, which would be commendable, but when they raise the rates on only two users of water in order to conserve the water supply, it is rather too weak a theory for the public to countenance.

The members of our Town Council,
do not require to be told by us or by any one else, as they are quite well aware of the fact, who it is that is using so much water unnecessarily, but for some reason or other their rates are not advanced. Play the game fair and the printing offices will not protest. Now that the Town Council have invented an entirely new method of conserving water, it is their duty to use all alike. We wonder if they will do it? We will await and see.

We are satisfied that if they do, a considerable increase in money will be received, but very little water will be conserved.

Pallid Cheeks
And Dull Eyes

Tell the Story of Watery Blood
How to Regain a Good
Color and Health

To be run down in health and to lose their attractiveness is the double misfortune of many young girls.
Their pallid cheeks and dull eyes tell everyone that they are doomed to days of wretched headaches and are victims of breathlessness and bloodlessness. The anemic girl, if she neglects her health, may be a sufferer all her life; for an active happy woman cannot be developed out of a bloodless, consumptive looking girl,
without the help of new, rich red blood.
Bloodlessness must not be neglected.
Plenty of good air, a nourishing diet
and rest will help you, but the cure
you need most promptly is new blood.
Good new blood in abundance, such as makes all the difference between sound health and poor health to girls and women, is supplied by Dr. Williams Pink Pills. Their one mission is to make new blood which reaches every organ and every nerve in the body, bringing to anemic girls and women new color, bright eyes, an elastic step and a feeling of joy in Pink Pills to young girls is shown by the cure of Miss Bessie Clarke, R. R.
No. 1, Stevensville, Ont. who says:
"Two years ago while studying for the entrance examination, my health broke down and I fell away to a mere shadow of my former self. When the day for the examinations came, I should have been in bed instead of trying them, but I went on with the work and when through was almost on the verge of collapse. I thought then that a rest would help me, but I did not regain my strength. Then my mother was advised to have me try Dr. Williams Pink Pills, and after taking them for about a month
I found myself restored to health, with good color and a change for the better, which people who know me readily noticed. I am very thankful for what Dr. Williams Pink Pills did for me, and hope my experience will benefit some other weak girl."
You can get Dr. Williams Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, postpaid, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr.
Williams Medicine Co., Brockville,

The chief object of the meeting

THE THREE LARGEST TEA WAREHOUSES IN THE WORLD

SALADA BUILDING, TORONTO

These three high warehouses owned and operated exclusively by the Salada Tea Company, are the largest in the world devoted to the blending and packing of tea. In less than 30 years "Salada" has become a household word throughout Canada and the United States and is, indeed, by far the largest selling tea in America. Large quantities are also exported to South America and to Europe.

Besides, these buildings in Toronto, Montreal and Boston, other Salada Offices are situated in Winnipeg, New York, Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and London, Eng. The Company trades only in tea and only in tea of Salada quality, thus assuring undivided attention to the product. Every package of Salada wherever bought may be relied upon to be of exactly the same fine quality and to yield an unequalled cup of tea. This policy of keeping faith with the public has been responsible for Salada's extraordinary sale.

SALADA BUILDING, BOSTON

This building, situated at Stuart and Berkeley Streets, Fos on, is constructed of granite and limestone, and has eight stories and a basement. It is replete with every modern convenience for the speedy and cleanly packing of tea.

Prof. Morrissey Legge, the eminent British scientist, in a recent address before the students of Harvard University, described it as "the finest example of commercial architecture he had ever seen."

SALADA BUILDING, MONTREAL

The magnificent building shown above, situated at the corner of St. Lawrence Blvd. and La Royer Street, Montreal will be occupied by the Salada Tea Company about February 1st next. The present building at St. Paul and St. Sulpice Sts. erected 11 years ago, has for some time proved inadequate for the business.

$11,000,000 Timber Deal Dragging

The immense transaction, involving the purchase of the New Brunswick Railway Company's timber lands at approximately $11,000,000 which was to have been completed by the Fraser Companies, Limited, recently has not yet been closed. Archibald Fraser said this morning that the consummation of the deal had been "postponed" and added that "no big deals are being put through just now." For continuing the option which they have on the New Brunswick Company's lands the Fraser interests have been paying $25,000 a month for some time now.

satisfactory last year may be too expensive to use this year or one that was too expensive last season may be cheapest this. The successful poultry keeper will not only vary the rations according to the prices of feeds, but also according to the condition of his flock. A hen that is not laying cannot stand as heavy a ration as one that is producing heavily, neither can a flock of old hens stand as heavy a ration as a flock of pullets.

THE LAYERS' FEED IS IMPORTANT; Grit, oyster shell, charcoal, and dry mash are kept in a hopper constantly before the flock. Fresh water, and when possible a dish of sour milk is also supplied. In the morning a light feed, and in the evening a full feed, of mixed grain, is given in the latter; at noon, green feed and, if desired, a feed of moist mash. When sour milk is not available, green cut bone may be fed alternately, with the moist mash, or coarse beef scrap may be supplied in the hoppers.

The mixed grain usually consists of corn and wheat, equal parts, and oats one half part, but if any other grains are cheaper or more easily obtained, they are used. In cold weather, the proportion of corn is increased, and in hot weather decreased.

The green food consists of roots, mangels preferred, or sprouted oats. Chopped clover is sometimes steamed and mixed with the mash. The mash mixtures is equal parts, corn, bran, and middlings, one half part gluten and one half part fine beef scrap or blood flour. For old hens, either the percentage of bran is increased in the mash or the hopper is kept closed except at certain times of the day.

MARITIME AND MAINE CIRCUIT
The meeting of the members of the Maritime and Maine Circuit which was called for next week at Chatham is expected to be postponed. Thursday, December 9th, is the new date that has been suggested and it is expected that Fred M. Tweedie, the secretary, will send out new notices asking the representatives of the various tracks to assemble at that time. It is also said that President S. D. Blackbert, of Chatham, is insistent upon the North Shore town as the place of meeting.

Man's Worst Foe

Except a snake, a rat is probably the most repulsive creature in the world, and against both rats and snakes the aversion seems to be so natural, so deep-rooted, so general, that it is almost instinctive. Our language and our literature are full of phrases that express it. The destructiveness of the poisonous snake has been known from a time beyond the gray dawn of history. Perhaps some dim intuition of the destructiveness of the rat, too, may have filtered down through the ages and, being associated with his secret and furtive ways, his scavenger life and ghoul-like character, may have helped to fix his place in the minds of men; but it is only of late years that science has proved the case against him. "Man's chief foe," "the cause of more deaths than all the wars of history," "the most destructive animal in the world," are some of the phrases that the Bureau of Biological Survey applies to the common house

rat. If they seem to be exaggerated, it is only because we do not know the facts on which they rest. Here in the Western Hemisphere we are accustomed to reckon the destructiveness of rats in terms of money or other material things, but in the East they reckon it in terms of human life. It is the house rat that harbors the flea that transmits the bubonic plague that causes the "black death," which in the fourteenth century destroyed twenty-five million people in Europe, and which under the name of plague is always epidemic in Asia, Africa, Australasia and South America. Since 1896 it has killed nine million of the people of India alone.

The economic loss owing to rats no one can reckon, for there are no accurate statistics; but investigations among the older cities of the Atlantic seaboard show that it is in very close ratio to the population. If we figure, as the Biological Survey figures, that every rat destroys at least two dollars' worth of property a year, the bill for the whole country is two hundred million dollars. That does not include the cost of traps, of poison, of maintaining cats, or any other item of the expense of combating the evil; nor does it cover the cost of the work of the Public Health Service, through which alone the plague is kept out of New York, Boston, San Francisco, Seattle, Hawaii, New Orleans and Porto Rico.

As with so many other evils, the remedy is preventive rather than curative. Buildings must be so constructed as to be rat-proof, which is not at all difficult; and then streets, neighborhoods and communities must be rid of rats and kept free of them by cooperative work under intelligent and ample authority. One half the money that now goes to feed and fight rats would do it in a few years. But until such cooperative work begins, let every farmer and every household look after his own premises with traps, shotgun, rifle, poison and the assistance of Thomas H. Cat.

Feeding The Layers

In feeding for eggs the same as for anything else regularity is essential no matter what method is followed. There are many methods that give satisfactory results. What suits one feeder may not suit another, so that it is necessary for individual poultry keepers to decide for themselves just what system of feeding they will adopt. It will be found that the best results are obtained where a certain amount of the grain fed is ground. This may be fed either as a moist mash or dry in hoppers according to the personal of the feeder.

The Hopper System
For some years the feeding of a dry mash in hoppers has been very popular, especially on large plantations where labour has to be considered. This system has some advantage and some disadvantages, but the former greatly overbalance the latter. The principal disadvantage is the waste of feed by the scattering of it out of the hoppers. This can be largely avoided by the use of properly constructed hoppers or by the closing of the hoppers except at certain regular periods. Dependence need not necessarily be placed on any given feed. So long as it is borne in mind that the various forms of food, cereal, vegetable, animal and mineral, must be supplied, rations may differ widely in make-up. Farmers should depend largely on home-grown feeds, and when it is necessary to buy, those feeds most readily and cheaply obtainable in the various localities are the ones that should be used. A ration that proved

Carvell Will Not Preside at Phone Hearing by Board

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—F. B. Carvell, Chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners, it was learned today, has decided not to sit as chairman of the commission when hearing is resumed of the application of the Bell Telephone Company for an increase in rates. Some exception has been taken to the chief commissioner sitting on the case because of his connection as a director and shareholder with the New Brunswick Telephone Company. Mr. Carvell, however, was of the opinion that there was no reason why he should stay out of the matter because the New Brunswick Company is operating under a provincial charter and does not come within the jurisdiction of the railway board. It is understood that in view of the unavoidable absence from hearings in Toronto, Hamilton and Montreal recently, and the objections which have been raised, Mr. Carvell has decided not to sit as chairman of the board during the further hearing of this party's application.

Canadian Major Praises Tanlac

Former Member of Mounted Police and Overseas Officer Says it Restored His Health.

"I have tried Tanlac and give it my unqualified endorsement," declared Sgt. Park, of Victoria, B. C. who formerly was connected with the Royal Northwest Mounted Police and during the war was a Major in the Canadian Expeditionary Forces. "For the past two years my health declined, brought on by a chronic case of stomach trouble," said Major Park. "My appetite was gone and I ate very little of anything, for I was unable to get any food down and I had a heavy, bloated feeling and cause my heart to palpitate till I could hardly breathe."

"I was constipated, had awful headaches and many times I wasn't able to work. While in France I was shell-shocked and my nerves were simply a total wreck. It was hard for me to get to sleep at night and then I was disturbed by terrible dreams. My back, too, was weak and pained me constantly. "A few weeks ago I started taking Tanlac and I feel better and stronger in every way and am enjoying the very best of health. My appetite is fine and everything agrees with me perfectly. I am not troubled with constipation or headaches and my back never hurts me at all. My nerves are quiet and steady and I sleep fine every night."

Tanlac is sold in Newcastle by E. J. Morris, in Redbank by Wm. M. Sullivan and in Doaktown by O. Hildebrand.

St. John Writer's Poem Linked With Flanders Fields

The Royal Lithographic and Printing Co., of Halifax is circulating an illustrated copy of Col. John McCrae's immortal poem, "In Flanders Fields," and on the opposite page an illustration of "Victory," by Lieut. J. Harold Manning of the 52nd, Port Arthur, and son of Dr. James Mannings of St. John.

VICTORY
 Sleep ye in peace, on Flanders Plain!
 Your righteous cause through toil and pain
 Has triumphed, for the nations all
 Have shaken off the tyrant's thrall,
 And now supreme doth Freedom reign;
 For from those crimson flowers, a stain
 Of fresher crimson spreads amain,
 And wakened people heard the call
 From Flanders Fields.

"Fear not, ye have not died in vain!
 Your flickering torch burns high again!
 A million hearts, wate'er befall,
 Are pledged to guard it lest it fall,
 In memory proud that ye lie slain.
 On Flanders fields."
 —J. Harold Manning.

 Pepp's is the discovery!
 Pepp's are little tablets, containing certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapour, and are at once breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the lungs. In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Pepp's do get there direct, and at once commence their work of healing.

A Series of Talks On Music

By Prof. C.C. Laugher, Mus. Bac. Sarnia, Ont.

...NO. V.—CHEST OF VIOLS...
 The family of viols is generally considered to be various sized instruments played with the bow, by drawing it across the strings and causing them to vibrate thus producing the sound.

The most ancient viol on record is the Ravanatoron, an ancient Hindoo instrument supposed to have invented about 5000 years B. C. The sounding box resembles the bowl of a pipe and the long neck into which two pegs are inserted in the stem. It has but two gut strings and is played with a bow of hair and bamboo. The instrument is still used among the Chinese and other Buddhist people.

An instrument of that type that we do know more about is the Rebec. This instrument is mentioned historically as appearing in Europe in the eighth century. It has a pear shaped body terminating in a slender neck, also having three strings and from the rebec we save the viol.

The first viol was originally the size of a viola or tenor violin as used in the modern orchestra. The chest of viols is a huge case with a family of viols in, comprising two trebles, two tenors and two basses. All we now have left in general use of the viol family is the viola, violoncello and the double bass.

Viol da Gamba is an instrument about the size of the violoncello, but is no more used as the violoncello displaced it. The gamba had six strings and bars or frets across the finger board.

Another instrument was the Viol di Bordone, also having six strings but below the neck lay sixteen metal strings which were plucked with the left hand.

Many instruments of the viol family have been added from time to time, but were short lived.

The Viola Bastarda was an instrument a little smaller than the bass viol. This instrument fell into disuse about the seventeenth century.

An instrument called Viola da Braccio, was another instrument having six strings and was known as the arm viol, as it required to be held in the bend of the arm when played.

Viola da Gamba mentioned above was called the leg viol. Owing to the size of the instrument it was held between the knees when played. It is now obsolete.

An instrument called Viola Fomposo was a five string viol and measured four feet in length, said to be invented by J. S. Bach. This instrument was played like the violin.

The violin of today takes predominance in the formative period of modern music because it has such opportunities for brilliance and melodic expressiveness.

Sir John Hawkins tells of the early viol thus "The viol was in use only to accompany the voice and when madrigals, and singing was in the decline gentlemen began to excel on the violin and substituted instrumental music in place of vocal. The composers therefore framed compositions called fantasias for the violin, these compositions having six parts answering to the number of viols in a set or chest.

We have now traced the violin kind and noted the development right from its rude beginning to its present perfection. It certainly makes one of the most interesting subjects in the history of instrument making.

Only one of the remaining bowed instruments used in the modern orchestra has retained the viol model. This is the double bass with its flat back and sloping shoulders.

The violin itself has remained unaltered for three hundred years and no further improvement seems possible.

The Snake Does Not Move Along in Loops

A little logic is worth a ton of credulity in Nature study. Again and again we find mistakes in really good pictures.
 One of them is the familiar mistake of representing snakes climbing trees by coiling themselves round and round the trunks, or as moving along the ground with their bodies arranged in a series of up-and-down loops. Nothing of the sort happens. Snakes, wriggle, pull themselves along, curved from side to side, by means of the scales attached to the end of each pair of ribs. They wriggle along the ground or up the trunk of a tree, with their bodies curved so that they touch the surface everywhere. Lifted from the surface along which they drag themselves, they would require help to push or carry them; they must keep to the ground, as to the trunk of a tree they may be climbing, in order that each pair of ribs may set in turn upon the scales which scrape the surface, and so produce forward motion.

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep.
