Through Rail Service—Atlantic To Pacific

Canadian National Railways Furnish Direct Connections With Famous "Continental Limited" Out of Montreal.

The finest train service to the Pacific Coast is afforded by the Canadian National Grand Trunk "Continental Limited" now leaving at 9:00 p. m. daily from Bonaventure Station, Montreal. The route of this finely equipped all steel train to the coast is via Ottawa, North Bay, Cochrane and via the Transcontinental to Winnipeg, and by Grand Trunk Pacific to Saskatoon and Edmonton, and via Canadian Railways to Vancouver—the finest of scenic routes through the Rockies and over the smoothest roadbed.

From Maritime Provinces points there is connection by Ocean Limited with the Continental Limited daily, and by the Maritime Express daily except Sunday. The Maritime arriving daily in Montreal at 7:40 affords the most direct connection, but passengers by the Ocean Limited will have the advantage of a day spent in Montreal. The Maritime arriving at Levis at 1:50 p. m. affords connection with Train No. 11 leaving Quebec daily for Cochrane at 5:00 p. m. This train makes connection at Cochrane with the Continental Limited, so it will be seen there is really a choice of two distinct routes.

There is also the through service to the Pacific Coast by train leaving Toronto daily at 10:30 p. m., via Sudbury, Port Arthur, Fort William and Winnipeg. Connection for this is made by the Ocean Limited to Montreal, and the Grand Trunk International Limited to Toronto.

Particulars of these splendid rail services to the west will be explained by all C. N. R. ticket agents, and folders and illustrated matter may be obtained by application to any of the City Ticket Offices or by writing the General Passenger Department, Montreal, N. B. July 27, 1921—51

Sermons On Catholic Worship

The appended is the seventh of a series of Sermons on the general subject of Catholic Worship. This sermon was prepared by the Rev. James G. Tougas, Pastor of St. Helena Church at Maderville, Mont.

THE GLORIA AND THE COLLECTS.

Last Sunday you listened to an instruction on the Introit and the Kyrie. Today we shall speak of the Gloria and Collects.

When Jesus was born in Bethlehem an angel of the Lord announced His birth to the shepherds of the neighborhood, who were keeping the night watches over their flocks, and suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host, praising God and saying: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace to men of good will." (Luke 11, 13, 14) These are the first words of the Gloria, which is recited in all Masses of a festive character. They signify that the birth of the Saviour gives glory to God, who dwells in the highest heavens, a glory befitting God's infinite majesty. They signify, too, that the birth of the Saviour brings peace to earth, to a sin-born world, to men who because of their sins were children of wrath, but who now, because of Christ the Saviour, are well beloved of God. These initial words, "Glory to God and peace to men," constitute the theme of the entire hymn.

WORDS ADDED BY THE CHURCH.

The other words of the Gloria were added by the Church. They are an outburst of praise, thanksgiving and supplication—a fitting response to the angelic anthem which called them forth. "We praise thee," that is, we acknowledge and proclaim thy infinite perfection. "We bless thee," that is, we acclaim thee as the author of all good and fountain head from which all blessings flow. "We adore thee," that is, we render to thy supreme majesty the worship which belongs to it alone. "We glorify thee," that is, unservedly we devote ourselves and all we have to thy glory, serving thee in holiness and justice, and leading others to thy love and service. "We give thee thanks for thy great glory," that is, we thank thee because thou hast vouchsafed to reveal thy infinite perfections, thy power, wisdom, justice and mercy, in wondrous ways, especially by the work of our redemption through the incarnation of thy only begotten Son—a work which alone renders thee the infinite glory which is thy due, and is, at the same time, to us the source of all blessings.

IN PRAISE AND PRAYER.

After this the Gloria goes on in praise and prayer, addressing in turn each of the three Divine Persons: O Lord God, Heavenly King, God the Father Almighty. In these words the power of the Father is exalted as well as His supreme dominion over every creature, whether in heaven or upon earth. O Lord, the only begotten Son. These words signify that the Son is not less God than the Father, that He is His only Son, the brightness of His glory and the express image of His substance, and as such, perfectly equal to Him. But the Church does not stop here when she addresses the Divine Son who became her "brother" through the incarnation. She accumulates words and arguments to manifest her love for Him and to obtain His grace.

She calls Him "Jesus Christ" because he is our Saviour, and Christ, or the Anointed, because He divinely anointed His humanity at the moment of the Incarnation, and this made Him the High Priest of the New Covenant. She calls Him "Lord God," because He is both God and man, and as man, the Lamb of God, a victim of propitiation alone pleasing to God. She calls Him "Son of God" in whom the Father is well pleased. She begs of Him "Who taketh away the sins of the world" to have mercy on us and to receive our prayers. Because He sitteth at the right hand of God, our advocate, she again begs of Him to have mercy on us, and to direct our minds with His Father.

AFTER THE SUPPLICATIONS.

After these supplications the Church again exalts the divinity of her spouse, Christ Jesus, proclaiming Him "to be with the Father and the Holy Ghost the one only God who alone is holy alone is Lord, alone is Most High."

You may not have observed that the priest bows his head several times while reciting the Gloria, but you will not fail to notice that he makes these bows and uncovers his head during the singing of the Gloria by the choir.

THE PRAYER OF ALL.

To impress the people with the fact that he is about to say the prayer of all and for all, the priest first says "Let us pray, and at the end to show that it is their prayer, as well as that of the priest, the people say "Amen" or "So be it."

THE COLLECT.

The Collect is usually directed to God the Father, because He is the first person in the Blessed Trinity; because the Mass is the representation of the offering which Christ makes of Himself to the Father; and because Christ so taught us to pray: "If you will ask the Father anything in my name He will give it to you." (John XVI, 23)

Most Beautiful Flowers

I read a story the other day of an angel that came from heaven down to this world. He roamed through the fields and cities and when his roaming was over he said: "Now that I am through this visit on the earth I must gather some mementoes of my trip."

And he looked at the beautiful flowers in the garden and said: "How lovely and fragrant!" So he plucked some roses and he looked further and said: "Ah, a bright-eyed and rose-cheeked child! That baby is prettier than the flowers, and I will have to take that."

And then he looked and saw a mother sitting beside the cradle. "Ah, this mother's love is the prettiest thing I have seen on earth. I will take that too."

And with these three treasures he went back, and he said as he stepped in front of the gate: "Before I go I must examine my mementoes."

He looked at the flower and it had withered. At the baby's smile and it had faded. He looked at the mother's love and it was gone in all its beauty. He threw away the withered flowers and then cast away the faded smile, and with the mother's love pressed to his heart he passed through the gates into the heavenly city, crying to the angels in glory: "The only thing I could find that would keep fragrant from earth to heaven is a mother's love."—The Ligonier.

MILBURN'S Laxative PILLS

Stimulate the sluggish liver, clean the food-clogged tongue, do away with the accumulation of the stomach gases, banish the bilious headaches, cause the floating spots before the eyes to disappear, and prevent constipation, jaundice, heartburn, water brash and all sickness arising from a disordered condition of the liver and bowels.

Mr. John S. Carron, Donavon, Sask., writes: "I was troubled with my liver and had severe bilious attacks, a friend advised me to try Milburn's Laxative Pills, so I took two vials and I have had no more bilious attacks."

Price, 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE COLLECT.

The Collect is usually directed to God the Father, because He is the first person in the Blessed Trinity; because the Mass is the representation of the offering which Christ makes of Himself to the Father; and because Christ so taught us to pray: "If you will ask the Father anything in my name He will give it to you." (John XVI, 23)

The Collect concludes with the words: "Through Jesus Christ our Lord," to teach us that Christ is our mediator and advocate with the Father, and that thus we fulfill His injunction to ask the Father "in His name."

The conclusion also contains a solemn profession of faith in the Blessed Trinity, the three Divine Persons being referred to in the words: "Who with thee and the Holy Ghost, livest and reignest, world without end."

DOANS' KIDNEY PILLS

Mr. F. W. Gray, Edmonton, Alberta, writes: "Last winter I was in bed for a month with fever. My kidneys constantly gave me trouble, and I was warned to be very careful. On an evening attack of kidney trouble, followed by constant pains in my back, I took two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills. Relief was quickly apparent, and now I have no trouble."

"Doan's" have saved me much pain, and I am deeply thankful to them."

Price, 50c. a box at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The Sequel To
Two Fried Eggs

(Ottawa Journal)

One day last week an Ottawa commercial traveller was "going up to Pembroke on the C. P. R. local and had occasion to go into the G. T. R. restaurant for supper.
He ordered two fried eggs, toast, black tea and ice cream was charged and paid seventy cents, and left the place—disgusted. Seventy cents for two fried eggs, toast, ice cream and tea looked to this "knight of the grip" like a powerful lot of money, and so, exercising one of the inalienable privileges of our great democracy, he concluded that the Government must be rotten—and wrote his conclusions to The Journal. He accuses us of "deliberate lying on behalf of the party from which you suck the nursing bottle" and his only hope, though never "anything in his life but a Tory," is that he "will live till the next election to get one vote at the dam empty-headed lot in power at present."

The incident is amusing; also it is significant. It is significant because it affords a slight insight upon one of the difficulties of Government in a democracy. Most people have the idea that Ministries stand or fall upon vast issues upon clear-cut questions of domestic or foreign policy, upon great acts on behalf of, or sin-against, the state. Such, however, and unfortunately is not always true. More often than not indeed, and never more so than in these days of hectic, confused thought, Ministries are judged and condemned, not for their moral, but for their venial sins, and indictments are based, not upon well-defined delinquencies, but upon the thousand and one uncontrollable inconveniences of quite abnormal times. Our commercial traveller, judging people in the herd, was not an abnormal person. On the contrary, we venture to assume that he was an almost average man.
True, it is bad enough when a proverbial "intelligent elector" solemnly decides that Mr. Mackenzie King would make a better Premier than Mr. Arthur Meighen just because two fried eggs in Pembroke cost seventy cents; but how many among us are more logical? What is taking place all about us? We have just emerged from a mighty war. It was a struggle that shook the foundations of society. Thrones toppled, mighty empires were submerged, half the map of Europe was rolled up, creeds and theories perished, millions died; and from the stirred depths of society new and strange notions and ideas came to the surface. In democracies, where there is free flow of ideas, and where criticism always abounds, the result could not be other than profound. Men and women, and creeds, admit from their moorings, took on new and sometimes dangerous moods. The predominant tendency was to find fault, to criticize to complain; Voltaire's theory that "whatever is wrong," because the dominant note of the day; calm judgment upon facts and realities was thrown to the winds.

Canada has not been immune from this development. On the contrary, there has never been a time in our history when our people were so disinclined to reason, to deal with realities, to be guided by the force of facts.
Canada today, comparatively speaking, is among the favored spots in the world. We have less unemployment, higher wages, better houses, and more prosperity than any other nation. Our trade, in proportion to population, is greater than any other country; revenues keep pace, or nearly so, with expenditure; bank deposits, per capita, equal those of any other nation; taxation is comparatively light; unrivalled resources await development; the public health is good. But there is discontent. There is discontent, and criticism, and clamor; everything (according to the critics) is wrong.
No great issue divides the parties. No specific indictment stands against the Government. It brought the country through the war with honor. Its record in restoration is good. It has no notable achievements to its credit.
Yet it is not popular. Quite the contrary. And the reason is quite obvious. It is that the public is not in a normal state of mind. It is not basing its judgments and its estimates on political issues or policies. It is framing them from inconvenience and discontents.
The Government is not to blame because a hundred thousand Canadians are out of work. It is no more to blame than Lloyd George is to blame because three million persons are out of work in England, or than Mr. Harding is to blame because eight millions are out of work in the United States; but democracies, in an abnormal state, won't bother with facts.
The man who thinks Mackenzie King would make fried eggs cheaper in Pembroke—what are facts to him?
Nor do we know of a remedy.
Democracy, especially after the strain of a war, has its penalties, and loose thinking on politics is among them. It is an evil, and it works harm; but what is there to do? The alternative is autocracy, and that is impossible.
The only course is to accept the situation; to submit to the penalty; to bow to the inevitable; meanwhile remembering that democracy has its virtues as well as its weaknesses, and doing everything possible to effect a return to "normacy."

country are our own safety and prosperity and permanence, no man, woman or child in the United States can fail to have an interest in protecting our basic industry—that of agriculture—wherever Protection is necessary by the proper use of Tariff regulation.
"The time has come when we are ceasing to be a food exporting nation, and must look to guaranteeing that we shall be self-sustaining. A failure to do so in agriculture, in our food supply, will mean the weakness which afflicted and threatened one or more of our great Allies in the world war.
Failure to be self-sustaining would be a menace to us in war, and a menace to us in peace."

We quote also from the majority of the Committee which introduced the Emergency Tariff Bill, known as the Young Bill:
"There is now a large surplus of farm products in this country, caused partly from undercon-sumption, but chiefly by the dumping here of great quantities of foreign products. This surplus will continue to increase so long as present world conditions exist.
Our country alone among the large consuming countries of the world is able to pay for imported commodities. In this country is the one market where cash and credit conditions and exchange rates make it possible to buy and hold the world's surpluses until consumptive demands can absorb them, or until the same can be sold abroad, sometimes, unfortunately, on time. In other words, we have been buying the surplus of other countries for cash and reselling them on time." Then we have the actual fact staring us in the face that high rates of duty have been imposed as an emergency measure, and almost equally high duties of a permanent character are to be imposed against our food products.

Is it reasonable to believe that the Republican President and his party would stultify themselves by withdrawing from the United States farmer the protection they so earnestly promised him, a policy which has been and is being amply crystallized into legislation?
There is little use of shutting our eyes to the fact. We are up against it hard in our export trade to the United States and have to make the best of it. We certainly will not better the situation by crying, as Mr. Crerar does, for the moon.

Crying For The Moon

The Hon. Mr. Crerar is attempting to revive the Reciprocity cry. He is driven to that course by the unsoundness of his platform. He realizes that so long as the Americans shut out our food products we cannot open up our markets to the products of the United States. The Canadian farmers, carried away though they may be for the moment by the reaction from high prices for their produce and by wild political propaganda are not of the type that turn their other cheek to the smiter.

No one knows better than Mr. Crerar that the chances of getting a reciprocity arrangement with the United States in agricultural products are now practically nil. The indisputable fact is that the President of the United States and his Party, the Republicans, are definitely committed up to the hilt to a policy of protection to the agricultural industry of that country.
Considering the utterances of Mr. Harding during his election campaign. We quote a few of them:

"The Republican Party reaffirms its belief in the protective principle and pledges itself to a revision of the tariff as soon as conditions shall make it necessary for the preservation of the home market for American labour, agriculture, and industry."
"I believe in the protective tariff policy, and know we will be calling for it saving American agriculture again."
"Because the safety and prosperity of the farmers of this official residence of the first lord of the treasury. The premier may not be that, he may hold other ministerial office, but 10 Downing street is his official residence. The present premier is the first lord of the treasury.

Since Walpole's residence 50 premiers have occupied No. 10, those who were great well representing the pinnacle of British power.
No. 10 Downing street is in the very heart of the British government's body. It is at the foot of Whitehall. The treasury, the foreign office are opposite the honour office; the colonial office, the war department and the admiralty are all within ten minutes walk and the houses of parliament the same. Scotland Yard is just around the corner of Whitehall, and Westminster Abbey faces the houses of parliament. No. 10 is a scant half mile from Buckingham Palace and but ten minutes from the station to Windsor.
With all these powers practically within the premier's eyesight and speech, small wonder all the great projects of the British nation have been and are being brought up and dressed and brought to function at No. 10. The cabinet meets there and countless conferences are held—such as were those with De Valera—including since Lloyd George's tenure, conference breakfasts, when the distinguished of the day give their views on undecided issues to the premier. In the case of Lloyd George, many knotty problems have had light thrown upon them, at the breakfast, and if there had not been time when they were through with grilled sole, bacon and eggs and coffee and toast, or maybe muffins—the government's old-time regulations allows them "captain" biscuits and a mug of tea—there has been time to finish with a cigar under the elders in the garden.

Two other houses complete the existing Downing street row, Nos.
11 and 12. No. 11 is given to the chancellor of the exchequer and No. 12 devoted to the government whips of the day, the party men to get out the vote in the commons—so they may be in touch for an emergency.

Sir Sam Dies

Sincere and profound regret will be the feeling with which Canadians of all parties will receive the news of the death of Sir Sam Hughes, which occurred at Lindsay, Ontario, early Wednesday morning last. As Minister of Militia during the most strenuous period of the war, Sir Sam rendered inestimable service to Canada and the Empire. It is for the great work he did in organizing the country's early war efforts, and for the inspiration his example gave to the men overseas, as to Canadians at home during some of the most trying circumstances of the great conflict, that Sir Sam Hughes will be remembered in history. A strong party man, he was utterly regardless of political considerations, in the narrow sense, in the administration of the work of his department, while Canada was at war.

No. 10 Downing Street

Boston Transcript
In a London street, 100 yards long and 20 yards wide, sometimes narrowing to ten yards, there is a house that presents no attraction to the eye, a commonplace of the brown brick construction of 300 years ago, dull and darkened by time, as old London houses are. With its funny looking lion's head knocker, its old-fashioned street door and antiquated windows, brick faced, sunken area, and crumbling raillings, it is indeed a belated survivor. Transferred to London suburbs and divested of its fame, it might fetch $250 dollars a year; not more.
Yet this house is unique among all the houses in the world—it has no rival—because for 200 years history and many of history's important decisions have been made there, and it will continue to be made there. This house is No. 10 Downing street.
And there would have been no Downing street had it not been for the second named graduate in Harvard's first list of graduates in 1642—Geo. Downing. No.
10 Downing street was once his property and he gave it his name.
American or not by inference, the importance of 10 Downing street is incontestable. It is the official residence of the premier of the time being. The brass plate on the door announces:
"The first lord of the treasury."
It has done so since Sir Robert Walpole first entered No. 10—as that official—Nov. 10 1735.
When first it was offered to Walpole as a residence he was afraid to accept it thinking it would be the price of his allegiance, and he stipulated it should always be the Moment Of Horror

Hull, Eng., Aug. 24.—Seventeen officers and men of the United States navy, and 27 officers and men of the British navy met death today in the collapse of the great dirigible RZ-2 over the city of Hull.
Every one of the United States men on board the inflated craft perished, as far as could be ascertained at midnight tonight.
Only five men of the 49 who were making the trial trip in the dirigible prior to the vessel being turned over to the United States navy are known to have been saved.

The United States officers who started the trip included Commander Louis H. Maxfield, Lieut.
Commander Emory Coll, Lieut.
Henry W. Hoyt, Lieut. Marcus
F. Esterly, Lieut. Commander
Valentine N. Bieg and Lieut.
Charles G. Little. The United States enlisted men who went up with the craft from Howden were: C. I. Aller, Robert Coons, L. E. Crowl, J. T. Hancock, William Julius M. Lay, A. L.
Loftin, A. I. Pettit, W. J. Steele, V. O. Walker and George Walsh.
The British losses include the famous air veteran Brig-Gen. E.
M. Maitland, and all the other officers on board, except Lieut.
Wann, the commander of the RZ-2.
Starting from Howden on Tuesday morning on a test flight to Fulham, the big aircraft had been aloft for 34 hours, at times in bad weather, and was returning to the Fulham airfield at the time of the disaster, which constituted the most terrible of its kind in peace times.

Howden, Eng., Aug. 24.—Conversations between the British and U. S. officers just before they boarded the RZ-2 here yesterday for the flight which had such disastrous results indicated that not one of them had the slightest idea that an accident was likely to be met with during the air voyage.

"Are any of you ever troubled with thoughts of being wrecked?" the correspondent of the Associated Press asked Lieut.
Marcus H. Esterly, radio officer, of Washington, D. C., just before he embarked. "We are not worried," said Esterly, "but all the same we have gone ahead and made all preparations against every emergency."
"The others tease me for being too fearful of accident, but all the same I have figured that it was best to get ready for anything that might happen, and then if the worst comes we ought to have at least a fighting chance."

Before the fateful flight started, the correspondent found Brig-Gen. Maitland, the British Air Marshal, strolling under the mammoth air craft in the hangar while she was being made what was termed "air light," meaning the discharge of sufficient ballast to make the weight of the great gas bag nil.
"Now she is as light as a feather," remarked General Maitland, as this stage of the preparations was concluded. With excellent pride, General Maitland enumerated the points of excellence in the craft, which, he remarked, "is the greatest improvement on balloons, with which I started experiments in aeronautics 30 years ago."
"Is she beautiful," declared Gen. Maitland as the enormous hulk was cleared from the hangar by her party of 300 attendants.
He awaited until the six motors had been tested and the ship's signal bells tried out by Lieut.
Wann, British commander of the aircraft. Satisfied that all was well, General Maitland, with a cheery good-bye, and "I will see you in Fulham" climbed up the ladder and disappeared in the great silvery shell. A moment later Commander Louis H.
Maxfield, U. S. N., was boosted up into the control car alongside Lieut. Wann. Then the civilian observers boarded the ship, and the aircraft was off on her journey.

Mrs. Maxfield, with her daughter, Mrs. Harry T.P. ago, saw her husband sail away from the drome, and exchanged waves of hands with him as the dirigible ascended. Mrs. Coll, wife of Lieut. Commander Emory Coll, U. S. N., executive officer also was present to bid farewell to her husband. She is an English woman.

Ongoing Not Sell Herds

The Federal Department of Agriculture will be extensively represented at the forthcoming exhibitions at Toronto, Ottawa, Sherbrooke and Three Rivers.
Having regard to the serious drought conditions of last summer, the department plans special educational work in the matter of live stock. Insistence will be made upon the absolute importance of holding on to herds and flocks to the limit possible. The present unfavorable condition is regarded as purely temporary.
Better influences will be bound to prevail in the near future, and those farms where live stock has been too much depleted will be badly handicapped, both from the point of view of the soil and that of a renewal of live-stock production.
Farmers will be instructed at the exhibitions in the most economical use of feed throughout the winter, and they will also be urged to weed out, in the first place, the least desirable grades of breeding stock, holding on to the last to the better strains.
Similar educational work has been done by the department at fairs—which have already been held in the west.

Decision to this effect has been reached by the firemen and the sailors following a conference with Peter Wright, of Newport, Wales, who is in Vancouver.

Recent Toronto advice says: Experiments in wireless telephony will be started by the Hydro-Electric Commission between Toronto and Dundas within the next week or so. If they prove successful it is the intention of the Commission to extend the use of wireless telephones over the whole Hydro-Electric system of Ontario.

Eight men caught in a "put and take" game by Winnipeg police the other night put from $10 to $15 each in fines into the city treasury next day. The manager of the pool room in which the raid took place put $500. This is the first raid pulled off by Winnipeg police since the new "put and take" law was placed on the market there.

Montreal experienced an earthquake last Sunday morning at 4.15 o'clock. The shock was slight and lasted about fifteen seconds but was not severe enough to cause damage. The tremor was noticeable in the lower lying sections of the city particularly around Verdun, that residents were awakened by the rattle of windows and doors.

A writ has been issued for the Federal bye-election in West York, Ont., where polling will take place on October 6. No Government candidate has been put in the field there so far, but it is expected that Len Wallace, brother of the late member, Capt. Tom Wallace, will stand. Writs for the remaining bye-elections will be issued later.

In Philadelphia it was ascertained that certain contemptible grafters had charged $600 for coffins which cost only $30 wholesale. The Public Ledger says this is mean business and recalls the story of an unfortunate who on his deathbed heard two doctors discussing what fee they might recover from the estate. "I perceive," said the patient, "that I am dying beyond my means."

The United States Shipping Board steamer City of Brunswick struck the "Sisters" on Sambre Ledges, outside Halifax Harbor, early last Friday morning. She was observed from the shore about a mile and a half away to be sending up rockets signalling for assistance. The night was calm and clear. The City of Brunswick, a vessel of 7,225 gross tons, was last reported out of Mobile, Ala.

"Canadian coal for Canadian heating" is the slogan being followed by the purchasing commission of Canada in securing fuel supplies for government buildings for the coming winter. As far as possible the product of Canadian mines will be used this winter in the effort to assist in every way possible the Canadian industry. Domestic coal is being secured for points where it has not hitherto been used.

Asked concerning a statement that Canadians were being discriminated against in the matter of employment on ships of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, R. B. Teakle, General Manager of the Company, said in Montreal that exactly the reverse is the case. Instead of discriminating against Canadians we are anxious to get as many Canadians as we possibly can to man the ships of the national fleet, said Mr. Teakle.

Vancouver, B. C., August 26.—The fate of the 11 men of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine steamer Canadian Importer, drifting disabled on the waters of the Pacific, who left the ship a week ago in an effort to secure aid after the wireless plant had been put out of commission, is still in doubt tonight, although ships are circling within a wide radius of the latest marine casualty, bent on locating if possible the drifting lifeboat. The identity of the nine men who accompanied second mate A. Laird and third mate J. W. Watt has not been disclosed. When the plight of the waterlogged vessel became serious, and the wireless had been put out of commission, the second and third mates and nine men volunteered to man the ship's lifeboat and seek aid from vessels plying in the regular shipping lanes.

The old year took away for ever, we hope, the old burden of war prices. For months conditions have been working toward the great climax that brought the remarkable merchandise that is here assembled for this our greatest January Carnival of Economy. The results came in two ways: 1st. The drastic lowering of prices on our own stocks, down to the new low basis, and often far below it—to double your interest in January buying in our store. 2nd. We have combed the markets—taking utmost advantage of the opportunities created by far sighted manufacturers who were ready to co-operate with us in presenting to you now the lowest prices that will be possible, for the next six months, at least.

We can just see the delight of our Customers when they see the splendid assortment of goods, in every department of our store, and then realize that prices are away down to the bottom, where it is a pleasure to buy things. Many Manufacturers have ACCEPTED LARGE LOSSES. We shall forgo a large part of our profits on the new goods and accept large losses on our own mark-downs—to inaugurate this first New Year under the New Management and THE MOST STIRRING PRICE-UPSET THAT THIS COMMUNITY HAS EVER KNOWN. No matter what you need or desire, now is the best time for months to come to buy it. Some of the reasons are told on this page; but scores of others are here that can get no mention today, even in this broad space.

Wind-Gall

At night when the wind comes creeping And calling across the sea, What does it whisper, whisper To wanderers, you and me?

In The Footsteps Of His Master

One torrid day during the month named after the illustrious Roman Julius Caesar, in the fifth year of his reign of the tyrant Domitian, a solitary figure trudged along the Appian Way, on the outskirts of the city of Rome.

The artificial grandeur of the scenery that skirted the road was typical of the age in which the wealth of the world poured into the coffers of patrician Rome.

Along its entire length, at intervals of a mile or two, there arose the stately villas of these lords of creation, now silent and seemingly deserted in the broiling noontide.

But the wayfarer had no eyes for the smiling beauties of villas, lawns, and gardens. Though neither sad nor morose in appearance, his mind seemed to be intent upon other matters.

What? growled Lucretius. Master, the servants have apprehended the intruder, announced the steward.

Well, what of it? It is not my vineyard? Yes, master, but I thought thou didst desire to have him seized and brought to thee.

Well, I will see him when I have eaten. Bind him to a post in the courtyard. Continue playing Lucretius.

On came the defenders of the Empire, splendid specimens of physical manhood, mounted on black chargers and fully equipped for encounter.

Minard's Liniment for Dandruff

Pains in the Back

Are symptoms of a weak, torpid or stagnant condition of the kidneys or liver, and are a warning it is extremely important to neglect, so important if a healthy action of these organs.

They are commonly attended by loss of energy, lack of courage, and sometimes by gloomy foreboding and depression.

Dr. Fowler's Sarsaparilla cures kidney and liver troubles, revives the back, and builds up the whole system.

This is a great humiliation for us not to have captured a Christian today, remarked the other rousing himself from a doze.

Do not despair. We may encounter one before we reach our quarters. May the gods help us!

The stranger in the shrubbery crossed himself and sighed. Presently the horseman rode off, discussing as they went an incident in the great Roman Amphitheater when three lions, savage from want of food, were let loose on a crowd of Christian men and women.

Why art thou so brazen as to stare at me? Dost thou not recognize thine inferiority? Dost thou not know that my influence is great and that I may have thee punished for thine insolence?

But the stranger was silent. This angered Lucretius all the more.

Art thou a Roman? he asked. I am, replied the captive. Art thou a Christian? was the next query, for Lucretius thought that if he were a member of the new society which was gaining so rapidly among the slaves, he might punish him on that score and thus gratify the cancer which dwelt in his breast.

Then, by Bacchus, thou wilt never live to see another sunrise. Leave him in the courtyard till dusk, Marcus, and see that he is securely tied. Procure the scourges and order two slaves to be in readiness to do my bidding.

The captive's face was as impassive as before the cruel decision. A close observer, however would have noticed that his lips were moving, no doubt in prayer.

True unselfishness consists, not in always denying one's self, but rather in simply ignoring self; the former implies duty the latter, love.

FLYING MACHINES A few years ago flying machines were hardly thought of, nor was Scott's Emulsion in summer. Now Scott's Emulsion is as much a summer as a winter remedy.

"CHOLERA INFANTUM" THE SUMMER COMPLAINT OF INFANTS.

The trouble occurs mostly during the hot season, and is confined to infants between the ages of four to twenty months, and generally happens about the time of the cutting of the first teeth.

Mothers should look well after their children at this stage and not experiment with any new and untried remedies, but procure one having stood the test of many years usage in thousands of families.

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been on the market for 70 years and is acknowledged by all who have used it to be the very best remedy for Cholera Infantum, Diarrhoea, Colic, Dysentery and all Bowel Complaints, whether in children or adults.

I do not know, master, replied the servant. Why dost thou not know? Answer me. Is he or is he not? Dost thou spurn me? He is a Christian master. Bring him hither.

In a moment, a man dressed in worn clothes was led before Lucretius. He showed no deference to the wealthy man who had summoned him; nor was he abashed. His dark brown eyes gazed fearlessly at Lucretius, who was slightly discomfited by their cool scrutiny.

Now the Prices you've been waiting for are here

The old year took away, for ever, we hope, the old burden of war prices. For months conditions have been working toward the great climax that brought the remarkable merchandise that is here assembled for this our greatest January Carnival of Economy.

The results came in two ways: 1st. The drastic lowering of prices on our own stocks, down to the new low basis, and often far below it—to double your interest in January buying in our store.

2nd. We have combed the markets—taking utmost advantage of the opportunities created by far sighted manufacturers who were ready to co-operate with us in presenting to you now the lowest prices that will be possible, for the next six months, at least.

We can just see the delight of our Customers when they see the splendid assortment of goods, in every department of our store, and then realize that prices are way down to the bottom, where it is a pleasure to buy things.

Many Manufacturers have ACCEPTED LARGE LOSSES. We shall forgo a large part of our profits on the new goods and accept large losses on our own mark-downs—to inaugurate this first New Year under the New Management and

THE MOST STIRRING PRICE-UPSET THAT THIS COMMUNITY HAS EVER KNOWN. No matter what you need or desire, now is the best time for months to come to buy it. Some of the reasons are told on this page; but scores of others are here that can get no mention today, even in this broad space.
