PASSES MOUNTAINS OF ICE.

Empress of Britain Has Narrow Escape from Colliding with Iceberg before Entering Halifax Harbor.

The C. P. R. liner Empress of Britain, Captain Murray, came near colliding with an iceberg off the Banks of Newfoundland, last Wednesday morning, while on her way to Halifax from Liverpool with nearly 1,500 passengers and a large quantity of English mail.

The Empress sailed from Liverpool for Quebec and Montreal late on Friday evening, April 19th. Heavy field ice prevented Captain Murray in carrying out his first intention as to destination. Two days ago, ice was sighted on all sides and realizing the futility of attempting to reach the St. Lawrence, Captain Murray changed the steamer's course for Halifax.

"We met many bergs and steamed through heavy detached field ice. We also sighted a great quantity of field ice to the eastward which is unusual at this season of the year. The ice presented us from making Quebec. The field ice and bergs dotted here and there made us adopt extraordinary precautionary measures and for many hours we had to practically lay to."

Steamboat Rumors Again

St. John Globe.—There are reports, not yet officially confirmed, that the Dominion Atlantic Railway Company which is now controlled by the C.P.R. has sold to the Eastern S. S. Company the Yarmouth-Boston route and all the steamers engaged in that service. The deal is believed to include all the steamers of the D.A.R., excepting the Prince Rupert, which is suited only to the Bay of Fundy route. The steamers are the Prince George, Prince Arthur, Yarmouth and Boston. The important feature of the new deal is that it gives the Eastern S. S. Company control of the route from Boston to Yarmouth. The Globe's Montreal correspondent sought some information on the subject from Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the C.P.R. All that he said was: "There may be 1914 rearrangement of the steamship service between Boston and Yarmouth. If so it will be in the nature of a decided improvement."

There is a belief, says the Yarmouth Times, that at the present time one or more steamers for the bay service are being built in England to take the place of the Prince Rupert and possibly to provide for the projected car ferry service on the bay. It is not possible to get definite information on the subject at present, but that something is being prepared seems certain, and the statement of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy suggests the possibilities of new steamers and an improved service in 1914.

Another report says that the Eastern S. S. Co.'s steamer Governor Cobb may be placed on the Halifax-Boston route, the territory long occupied by the Plant Line. The latter has a new and magnificent steamer building. It was to be finished in early June but it is now said that she will not be ready at that time. She was to be named "Evangeline" provided the Ottawa government does not object to the selection.

Another report says that the Cobb may come to the Yarmouth-Boston route to assist the Princes during the heavy travel months and that the Boston may or may not go on the Digby-Boston run. The Times has made diligent inquiry into all the rumors and has come to the conclusion that no person in the province has any knowledge of what changes, if any, are contemplated.

Two of the Titanic's Survivors in Yarmouth

Mrs. Jamilla Nicola, fourteen years old, and her brother, Elias, aged nine years, who were among the rescued passengers of the steamer Titanic, arrived in Yarmouth on Wednesday morning to visit Mr. Louis Theberge for two days. They left for their future home in Liverpool this morning.

They tell a very interesting account of this terrible disaster. They have several members of the family, including their mother, on this side of the Atlantic, and their father and other relatives had decided to come across and settle in Canada and the States.

Leaving Syria, their home, they journeyed to Cherbourg, France, where they embarked on the ill-starred Titanic, but their father was obliged to remain in Cherbourg for a few days. They were among the stowaway passengers. When the Titanic struck the iceberg they had retired with the most of the passengers. They had passed a pleasant evening with music, and, of course, had no thought of disaster.

They were both asleep when the collision came, but they did not feel the shock. When the engines stopped Elias ran to his sister and told her to get up. They then heard the confusion on deck and they were told the ship was sinking. The girl assisted Elias to dress and then dressed herself, and lifebelts were put on them by one of the crew. They looked around for their relatives but could not find them and went on deck.

Some one told them to get into the boats, when Elias told Jamilla that he wanted to find his uncle. After waiting a few minutes Jamilla placed Elias into a boat and climbed in herself. The water was then level with the deck of the ship, they were cold and nearly perished in the water that was in the boat. They do not know what happened later, until they were on board the Carpathia. The band was playing when they rowed away from the Titanic.

Their brother, who had decided to reside in Liverpool, got word of their sailing from Cherbourg, and had reached Yarmouth on his way to New York to meet them, when he heard of the disaster. Mr. Shediac accompanied him to New York. Upon their arrival at the Carpathia they found the two the only survivors of a party of thirteen who had left Syria for their new homes. Their mother is in the United States and will meet her husband upon arrival, when they will at once proceed to Liverpool.

Elias was presented to the audience at the opera house on Wednesday evening, and was received with a right hearty welcome, as he and his sister took their seats among the audience. —Yarmouth Telegram.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

One of the most successful evenings the Epworth League has held was a pronouncing contest conducted by Mr. A. D. Brown, Bridgetown's genial postmaster. Mr. Brown had with great care selected a long list of words in daily use the incorrect pronunciation of which, in too many cases, is given.

Not only did the leader teach the large class to pronounce correctly the selected words but he frequently demonstrated by rule and usage why the accent of words should be placed on certain syllables.

In presenting Mr. Brown with the thanks of the League, the President, Mr. H. B. Hicks, voiced the feeling of the whole audience when he said that the meeting had been one of the very best and most profitable the Epworth League ever held.

The young ladies of the Mission Circle recently held a unique entertainment, in the home of Mr. W. H. Burns, called a "measuring party."

The funds of the Circle were handsomely increased by the effort.

Rev. Geo. T. Bryant, of Berwick, will occupy the pulpit of the church at the morning and evening services on Sunday next.

Choral Class Recital

The Choral Class, conducted by Mr. R. W. W. Purdy, during the winter months, closed its season for the present season on Wednesday evening last by giving a recital in St. James' school room.

In a quiet way this singing class has been meeting for a number of weeks, and the splendid work done was well demonstrated at the recital. That such an organization has been formed in our town is cause for congratulation, and Mr. Purdy, who so faithfully and without financial considerations has been conducting the class, deserves the praise and thanks of all who are interested in the welfare of Bridgetown.

About twenty of the boys and girls of the town have been in attendance and their progress in voice culture as well as their acquired knowledge of vocal music, made it possible for them to give to the public an evening of rare enjoyment in their closing concert.

Without making mention of any individual performer, it will be sufficient to say that in solo and class work alike the pupils gave evidence of good natural ability and careful training. At the close of the recital brief addresses were made by Rev. B. J. Porter, J. Irvin, Esq., K. A. A. Moore, Esq., and ex-Councillor E. A. Craig. These speeches were of a most complimentary character, both to Mr. Purdy and his class, and a desire was expressed that the class might be resumed next winter, when it was hoped the entire town would interest itself in the good work.

Miss Emily Young Was Not on Titanic

For some time last week, our citizens were filled with grave concern and anxiety when it was rumored that a daughter of the late Rev. F. M. Young, formerly of Parrsboro, was among the passengers on board the ill-fated Titanic, and that her name did not appear among the list of survivors. These fears were soon allayed, however when it became known that a close friend of Miss Young had received a letter from her from the South of France, stating that she would not be leaving for home till June.—Parrsboro Leader.

A note to the editor of the Monitor-Sentinel from Mrs. J. Huntington of Wolfville states:—"Mrs. F. M. Young had a letter today (April 29th) from Emily. She is now in Paris but the lady she is with lost both her father and her mother, Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Strauss, by the wreck of the Titanic. I thought Emily's friends would be glad to know of her safety." It is with much pleasure that the Monitor records the safety of Miss Young, knowing that the many friends of her family, among the Monitor's readers, will be relieved by the assurance.

Memorial to C. M. Hays

EVERY ENGINE, AND CAR ON THE GRAND TRUNK STOPPED FOR FIVE MINUTES.

Montreal, April 26.—There was a deeply impressive moment at the memorial service to the late C. M. Hays Thursday when the Congress of the Grand Trunk Railway system for five minutes stood with bowed heads in silent tribute to the dead railway magistrate. The service was held in the American Presbyterian church. All wheels were stopped on the Grand Trunk Railway system for five minutes.

MARCONI STOCK IN WILD SENSATION.

Wireless Shares go From $20 to $300 Within Ten Days.

American Marconi stock, par value $25 a share, sold up to $300 a share today, an advance of $280 a share within ten days. This is equivalent to about $1,200 a share on a Stock Exchange basis. It has been the most sensational advance in the history of the New York Club Market.

About six weeks ago, when the shares were selling around twenty, and then it was noted that the buying orders, coming from London, were in the hands of very few brokers in this country. These specialists ran the market completely and they do today.

One prominently identified with the Marconi interests declares that the boom in Marconi stock is a second South Sea bubble.

American Marconi never paid any dividends. For the year ending January 31st it earned only $16,933 for $1,662,500 stock, and heretofore has shown deficits. Now it has got to earn for $10,000,000 stock.—New York Telegram, April 19th.

LESSON OF THE WRECK.

"In building the Titanic it was the hope of my associates and myself that we had built a vessel which could not be destroyed by the perils of the sea or the dangers of navigation. The event has proved the futility of that hope. The present legal requirements have proved inadequate. They must be changed, but whether they are changed or not this awful experience has taught the steamship owners of the world that too much reliance has been placed on water tight compartments and on wireless telegraphy, and that they must equip every vessel with life boats and rafts sufficient to provide for every soul on board, and sufficient men to handle them." —Bruce Ismay.

CADET CORPS FOR BRIDGETOWN.

Bridgetown School Board, Addressed by Capt. W. E. Outhit, Sanctions Formation of Cadet Corps For Bridgetown.

A special meeting of the school commissioners of the town of Bridgetown was called by the Chairman and held on Monday evening in the Council Chamber at 7.30 o'clock, with Dr. Jost in the chair and Councillors Salter and Pratt and Dr. M. E. Armstrong present.

The Chairman explained that the object of the meeting was to meet Capt. Outhit, from the Department of Education, who had expressed a wish to meet with the board and discuss with them the advisability of forming a Cadet Corps among the pupils of the high school, under the Strathcona Trust.

Capt. Outhit was present, Rev. E. Underwood and A. F. Hiltz, Scout Masters of the Bridgetown Boy Scouts, and Mr. Micklewright, the Hon. Secty. of the Provincial Boy Scouts.

Capt. Outhit addressed the board at some length explaining fully and clearly the objects of the movement and its advantages to the pupils.

Dr. Armstrong followed and referred to the recently organized Boy Scouts here and called upon Mr. Micklewright to address the board.

Mr. Micklewright went into the matter very fully, comparing the two organizations and showing the respective advantages to be derived from each, and said that in his opinion there need be no conflict between the two.

Rev. E. Underwood was then called upon and spoke on the subject, Councillor Salter spoke of the proposed movement and approved of it, and moved the following resolution, which was seconded by Councillor Pratt.

"Resolved, that the principal of our high school, Mr. Hustin, be permitted to organize a Cadet Corps in the public school under the rules and regulations laid down in the act, if he so desires."

Obituary.

MISS ETHEL EATON.

After a very short illness, Miss Ethel Eaton, for two years a teacher in the primary grade of the public schools here, succumbed to a severe attack of pneumonia. The deceased had been in apparently good health up to within a day or two of her death. She was removed to the Hospital on Tuesday morning and died on Wednesday night April 10th, in spite of all that could be done to check the fast developing disease. The funeral took place from the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Clay and was largely attended. The teachers of both schools and the pupils marched in a body to the station to honor their beloved co-worker and teacher. The large number of flowers and the kind expressions of sympathy showed the love and esteem in which Miss Eaton had been held. The service at the house was conducted by Rev. E. J. Chave, pastor of the Baptist church, assisted by Rev. R. J. McIntyre and Rev. W. J. Stevenson. The pall-bearers were Messrs Paul Samson, E. Cameron, B. Duck, C. R. MacDonald, K. G. McRae and W. E. Dickey. Among the many handsome floral offerings were wreaths from the Baptist church, W.C.T.U. of which organization deceased was a prominent member, Basil of Hope, school trustees, school teachers, the young people of the Methodist church, and flowers from Young Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary, and many others. The body was taken east to her home in Granville Centre, N.S., where father, mother, sisters and brothers are living. It was accompanied by Miss Annie Eaton, sister of the deceased and also a teacher in the schools here. Mr. Judson Eaton, a brother, and Mr. Chas. Clay. The sympathy of all who knew her is extended to the sorrowing ones who make the journey, and to the ones who wait in the home by the sea. The late Miss Ethel Eaton was born in Granville Centre, Annapolis Co., N.S., her parents having been for many years respected citizens of the eastern province. After graduating Miss Eaton was engaged as a teacher of various eastern schools, and about two years ago accepted a position in the public school here, making her home with Mr. and Mrs. Clay of this city.

The premature death of this talented and popular young lady has cast a gloom over the city and district and the heartfelt sympathy of all is extended to the sorrowing family in their bereavement. A very sad feature of this death is that Miss Eaton was engaged to be married to Mr. C. R. Clay of this city and was shortly expecting to visit her old home in the East as a bride.—Revelstoke, B.C. paper.

Present: The Warden, Councillors Outhit, Elliott, Fitch, Foster, Bent, Armstrong, Porter, Healy, Willett, FitzRandolph, Grimm, Thomas, Gillis and Brown.

REPORT ON SAUNDERS ROAD.

The following is the correct report: To the Warden and Councillors of the Municipality of Annapolis County: Gentlemen: We, your Committee, appointed to consider matters in connection with Saunders Road, so called, in Road District No. 7, Ward No. 10, beg leave to report that we have examined and considered carefully the condition of said road, and find that a road has been opened from Mr. G. W. Shipton's house, running easterly to main Annapolis highway; also another running southerly, across marsh to Annapolis highway, which the residents of said road district have the privilege of using subject to gates and bars.

REPORT ON ROAD AT HILLSBURN

To the Warden and Councillors of the Municipality of Annapolis County: Gentlemen: In accordance with a precept directed to us by your clerk, O. S. Miller, dated March 2nd, 1912, we have examined the location of the proposed road from Hillsburn schoolhouse to Anderson's Cove Breakwater. In order that the public may use a public wharf and breakwater, a public road to it is a necessity. We believe the location the best one to accommodate the people who would use the road most, and comparatively easy to build. We have, therefore, laid out the road in the place suggested, three rods wide considering that width sufficient to meet the public needs for a long time to come. We have prepared two plans of said road according to law, showing connections and interested owners whose lands are crossed and signed by all the land owners crossed East of brook, giving a free right of way provided the Municipality open the road and fence it within one year. The shore end of breakwater when finished will be about five rods from bridge. The man claiming the land is living in the United States and beyond our reach in the time at our disposal.

Ordered that James Carter be County Constable for the County of Annapolis. Ordered that C. R. Bent, G. W. Wheelock and Judson Armstrong be appointed by this Council to make some arrangements with the land holders in Torbrook to enable W. H. WHOSE DOG?

"Now, boys," said the teacher, "I need not tell you anything further of the duty of cultivating a kindly disposition; but I will tell you a little story of two dogs.

"George had a nice little dog that was as gentle as a lamb. He would sit by George's side quietly for an hour at a time. He would not bark at passers-by, nor at strange dogs, and would never bite anybody or anything.

"Thomas' dog, on the contrary, was always fighting other dogs, and would sometimes tear them cruelly. He would also fly at the hens and cats in the neighborhood, and on several occasions had been known to seize a cow by the nostrils and throw her. He barked at all the strange men that came along, and would bite them unless somebody interfered.

"Now, boys, which is the dog you would like to own—George's or Thomas'?"

Instantly came the answer in one eager shout: "Thomas'."

THE GREAT STEADIER

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., impressing on his Bible class the steady influence of a good wife, smiled and said:

"A minister once asked a young man on a train:

"Do you smoke?"

"No, sir," was the reply

"I suppose you drink—that is to say, moderately."

"No, sir, I abstain," answered the young man.

"Do you gamble?"

"No, sir."

"Swear?"

"No, sir."

"Young man," said the minister, with an air at once pleased and puzzled—"young man, what are you away?"

"I'm married," the young man answered.

HER LEAP YEAR PROPOSAL

Ethel Barrymore, apropos of leap year, told a story at the Colony Club the other evening. "A girl," she said, "looked calmly at a caller one evening and remarked: 'George, as it is leap year—' The caller turned rather pale. 'As it is leap year,' she continued, 'and you have been calling regularly now four nights a week for a long, long time, George, I propose—' 'I'm not in a position to marry on my salary,' George broke in, hurriedly. 'I know that well, George,' the girl pursued, 'and so, as it is leap year, I thought I'd propose that you lay off and give some of the more eligible boys a chance.'"

WHY SHE BLUSHED.

A very pretty but extremely slender girl entered a street car and managed to seat herself in a very narrow space between two men. Presently a portly colored mammy entered the car, and the pretty miss, thinking to humiliate the men for their lack of gallantry, arose.

"Aunt," she said, with a wave of her hand toward the place she had just vacated, "take my seat."

"Thank you, missy," replied the colored woman, smiling broadly.

"But which gen'man's lap was you sittin' on?"

Brave in Death

COMMANDER OF THE TITANIC MADE GALLANT ATTEMPT TO SAVE LITTLE GIRL'S LIFE.

New York, April 20.—Taking refuge on the bridge of the ill-fated Titanic two little children remained by the side of Captain Smith until that portion of the big ship had been swept by water. Survivors of the crew who went down with the Titanic but were saved by clinging to an overturned lifeboat, today told of their gallant commander's efforts to save the life of one of the children. He died a sailor's death, and the little girl who had entrusted her life to his care died with him.

"He held the little girl under one arm," said James McGann, a fireman, "jumped into the sea and endeavored to reach the nearest lifeboat, with his arms as I was swept from the bridge deck. Then I was plunged into the cold water. I was compelled to release my hold on the child, and I am satisfied that the same thing happened to Captain Smith."

"I had gone to the bridge deck to assist in lowering a collapsible boat. The water was then coming over the bridge and we were unable to launch the boat properly. It was overturned and was used as a life raft, some thirty or more of us, mostly men, clinging to it. Captain Smith looked as though he was trying to keep back the tears as he thought of the doomed ship."

"He turned to the men lowering the boat and shouted: 'Well, boys, it's every man for himself.' He then took one of the children standing by him on the bridge and jumped into the sea. He endeavored to reach the overturned boat but did not succeed. This was the last seen of Captain Smith."

McGann said that Captain Smith from the bridge directed the lowering of the lifeboats. He said that the story that Captain Smith had committed suicide as the Titanic was going down was without foundation.

Another report is as follows— (Saturday's New York Herald)

Details of how the Titanic sank and the death of Captain Smith by drowning after he had saved the life of a child, was told yesterday to the Rev. Philip J. Magrath, of the Catholic Seaman's Mission, by a seaman of the lost steamship. The seaman's story in part is as follows—

"Two and a half hours after she struck and was in the water forward to her first funnel, with the captain on the bridge in water up to his neck, there was an explosion—the water had got to the forward boiler. This explosion was followed by another, which split the vessel in half and caused the bow and the stern to rise in the air."

"As the last boat left the wreck the men manning it called for Mr. Murdoch, the chief officer, and the captain to jump into it. 'Look out for yourselves and your charges,' was the answer they received. Murdoch was seen making his way to the bridge and in a few seconds a shot was heard. We can only guess at what happened."

"Some distance from where the bridge had sunk the crew of a lifeboat came upon Captain Smith struggling in the midst of the wreckage with a child on his shoulder. The lifeboat made its way toward him and took the child aboard, but the captain sunk out of sight."

MRS. MCGEE CHARGED WITH POISONING HER CHILDREN

Charlottetown, April 26.—A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Mrs. McGee of St. Mary's Road, charged with poisoning her six children. Dr. McMillan, Provincial Health Officer, has gone to Montreal with the stomach and other organs of the deceased children for a chemical analysis.

HOW PARCEL POST CUTS COST OF LIVING.

One of the chief reasons for the high cost of living is the number of middlemen who come between the producer and consumer. The closer the consumer can get to the man who makes the article he wants the less money he will have to pay. A parcel post would enable the consumer to purchase a great many things direct from the producer and save him the outrageous profits which now go to the express companies and the middlemen.

They have a parcels-post in Germany and it is doing such good work that the thrifty, sensible people of that country would not think of getting along without it. The farmer may ship his products for long or short distances in parcels weighing not more than eleven pounds and the cost to him is one and one-eighth cents per pound, or twelve cents for an eleven-pound parcel.

A farmer in Germany can ship to a city two hundred miles or more away a goose or chicken or anything that weighs eleven pounds or less and have it delivered in the city at a total cost of eleven cents. If we had the same common sense arrangements in this country, the farmers living a hundred miles or so from New York City, or any other city, could send their produce through the Post Office to customers in the city at a cost of a little over a cent a pound, and the produce would be delivered at the door of the consumer, without any additional charge. The express companies and a host of middlemen would be eliminated by this and the saving to the purchaser would be enormous.

Few people realize how much money is grabbed along the line between the farmer and your breakfast table by the express companies, the cold storage speculator and the middlemen. Mr. R. H. Fitch, of Norwalk, Conn., who owns the best farm in the county, recently paid (in February) fifty cents for a dozen eggs. He knew the farmer, or who owned the hens didn't get any such price. The eggs happened to be stamped with the farmer's name and address so Mr. Fitch wrote to him and found that the farmer had sold that dozen of eggs for seventeen cents on December 15th.

If we had a parcel post like other civilized countries the farmer could have mailed that dozen of eggs direct to Mr. Fitch very cheaply. A dozen of eggs weighs about twenty-four ounces and a cushioned egg-case as heavy as much more, weighing in all forty-eight ounces or three pounds. At a cent a pound for postage, or three cents, Mr. Fitch's eggs would have cost him twenty cents instead of fifty cents.

In Germany the Post Office handles over three hundred million packages yearly through the parcel post. In the United States, where the population is much greater, the business of parcels post would naturally be far in excess of Germany's figures. It would be a boon even if it carried nothing else but farm produce.—Boston American.

SHOCKING SUICIDE AT LUNENBURG.

On Monday morning this community was horrified to hear that Harris Zink, who was arrested on Saturday night and put in the lockup for being drunk and disorderly, had hanged himself sometime after twelve o'clock with his brass which he tied a round his neck passing the other portion through the bars of his cell. He on Sunday night, by strangling himself, sank on his knees, throwing his weight on the straps and when found the tips of his toes were resting on the floor. On Monday morning Constable Harry Eisenhart who acted as night watchman, went to the cell and called the deceased by name and getting no answer thought he was asleep; he went away and returned shortly afterward and called him again. On getting no answer at that time he concluded he would investigate and to his horror found the poor fellow dead with his face frightfully contorted and discolored from the awful means by which he came to his death. Dr. Forbes, the coroner, was hastily called and pronounced that death had taken place about five or six hours before. The coroner then empaneled the following jury: Foreman B. J. Rudolf; Jurymen J. E. Eisenhart, Stephen Myra, L. A. Little, Henry Burke, Moyle Smith, C. E. Miller, Z. A. Oxner, A. W. Ernst, W. K. Whyte, Harold Burns, G. C. Berringer. After the evidence was all taken, the following verdict was returned:

"That the deceased came to his death by strangulation, by his own act; Contributing cause being despondency after an excessive drinking bout."

HIS SPEAKING EYES.

Aunt Caroline and the partner of her woe evidently found conjugal bliss a misnomer, for the sounds of war were often heard down in the little cabin in the hollow. Finally the pair were held in court, and the dusky lady charged a charge of abusive language against her spouse. The judge, who had known them both all his life, endeavored to pour oil on the troubled waters.

"What did he say to you, Caroline?" he asked. "Why, judge, I jes' can't tell you 'all dat man do say to me.'" "Does he ever use hard language?" "Does 'o' mean cussin'?" Yassah, not wit' his mouf, but he's always givin' me dem cussory glances."

The Investigation

The most complete story of the Titanic's fate yet to be related, is being rapidly gathered in New York by the members of the Senate Investigating Committee. The Committee has already listened to the testimony of Mr. Ismay, managing director of the White Star Line, Captain Rostron, of the Carpathia, Charles W. Lightoller, second officer of the Titanic, and others.

The witnesses included H. J. Pitman, third officer of the Titanic, J. G. Roxhall, fourth officer, G. Lowe, also in an official position on the Titanic and fifteen members of the crew. The burden of the testimony thus far presented emphasizes the unquestioning faith of the Titanic officers in her unshakable character, the recklessness of steaming full speed through a sea where dangerous icebergs were known to be located, and the remarkable calmness with which passengers and crew faced the last moments of the sinking ship.

A NEW COURSE

The Titanic's fate has already resulted in prompt action by the transatlantic lines to insure liners hereafter, taking a course far to the south, where the iceberg danger will no longer be present. The various lines, it is announced, have agreed on a new "long" course which dips far to the south of the course upon which the Titanic met her fate.

There was some criticism among the survivors here today of the Titanic's crew in being unable to handle the lifeboats.

Ernest Ismay discussed with interviewers the work of the Senate investigating Committee, which he characterized as "brutally unfair."

"I cannot understand this senatorial inquiry. They are going at it in a manner that seems unjust and the injustice lies heaviest upon me. Why I cannot even protect myself by having my counsel ask questions. Don't misunderstand me by thinking I mean questions calculated to twist witness up, on the contrary, questions intended to simplify the crime involved."

Discussing his departure from the Titanic, Mr. Ismay said, "I have searched my mind with deepest care. I have thought long over each single incident that I could recall. I am sure that I did nothing that I should not have done. My conscience is clear, and I have not been a lenient judge of my acts."

"I tell you that if I thought that in the slightest way I had done anything wrong I would never have another happy moment. I took the chance of escape when it came to me. I did not seek it. Every woman and child had been cared for before I left the boat. And here, all the men within reach had been taken care of before I took my turn and why shouldn't I take my turn. There are only two classes on a ship, the crew and the passengers. I was a passenger. It is true I am President of the Company but I did not consider myself any different from the rest of the passengers. I took no other man's place."

HITS INSURANCE COMPANIES HARD. London, April 18.—The underwriters at Lloyds were staggered at the news but it is declared that the insurance on the lost vessel is so evenly distributed that none of the underwriters are likely to be hard hit. It was generally estimated, however, that with the cargo, the Titanic would represent a value of approximately $12,500,000.

Of this total, $750,000 was retained by the White Star Company with owners' risk and the balance was placed on the insurance market in London, Liverpool, Hamburg and elsewhere.

New York, April 17.—Accident insurance companies in this country and in England will stand to lose approximately $2,000,000, it was estimated today by insurance experts in this city, as a result of the Titanic disaster.

The loss, it was explained, will be doubled by reason of the so-called "double liability clause," which requires insurance companies to pay twice the amount of the death benefits where the policy holder loses his life while traveling on a public conveyance "propelled by steam or electricity." In cases, therefore, where a company has lost a policyholder insured for $50,000, the underwriters must pay $100,000.

—Whether or not a town should give bonuses to attract new industries is a mooted question. Saska-atoon has arrived at what appears to be a most feasible solution of the problem. They will not bonus new industries but the town is canvassed to induce the business men and citizens with means to take stock in the contemplated industries. They have employed a Chicago expert to canvass the town and raise the sum of one million dollars to be applied to the establishment of new business.

The whole is under the Industrial League and a paper of that town thus speaks of the undertaking.

"In brief the Industrial League, an organization formed for the express purpose of bringing industries to Saskatoon, will be capitalized at $1,000,000. The stock will be offered to citizens at $100 per share, with a cash payment of but five percent. The League wants the credit of citizens
 more than the actual cash.

"The Industrial League may require holders of its stock to pay the balance in five per cent amounts, at sixty days' notice. Stockholders will tie all intents and purposes remain simply guarantors.

"Under no circumstances will an additional call be made upon the subscribers until a manufacturer has declared his intention of building a factory in Saskatoon.

"The main object of the Saskatoon Industrial League is to purchase and hold securities in such industries as may locate in Saskatoon. Many bona fide industries have either outgrown their original locations or are contemplating the establishment of branch factories. These institutions are seeking new locations, and in many instances require more money for the expansion of their business.
 To the financial aid of such institutions will come the Industrial League with a concrete business offer to purchase stock."

CORRESPONDENCE

OUR FISHERMEN.

To the Editor Monitor-Sentinel:—
 If you will allow me a little more space in the columns of your paper, I should like to enter a little more into details regarding "Our Fishermen." "Port Wade" has waxed very eloquent on the subject in question, but he has yet much to learn. He says he is fully conversant with the doings of the fishermen, and knows the difference between two and four, but does he know the difference between a halibut and a haddock? I should like to know, when halibut ever sold for 2c. in our Canadian market, as he stated in his reply. Although "Subscriber" has been engaged in the fishing industry for the last fifteen years, he is not conceited enough to believe he is the only person endowed with piscatory lore. Suffice it to say, he has followed up, both Canadian and American markets long enough to know what he is talking about. If the American market is so much better than the Canadian market, why did Capt. Wm. Snow give up command of the "Quickstep" and take charge of the "Dorothy G. Snow." Perhaps he knows the difference between two and four, as well as "Port Wade." As the "Quickstep" has laid to the wharf for the last year, its owners have at last offered great inducements and Capt. Ansel Snow has taken her for three trips. As regards to the fitting that "Port Wade" speaks about, we fail to see wherein these vessels can fit for half the money in United States. In the course of three or four months, we will see the three vessels namely "Edie Morrissy," "Quickstep," and "Harvester" with swept holds, taking supplies of provisions, bait and ice, at one of our Canadian ports. "Port Wade" you are apt to make very erroneous statements. Where is the fine American vessel that Capt. Apt purchased? Do the glorious Stars and Stripes float over the "Albert Z. Luiz?" Who informed you that Capt. Longmire was on his last trip looking hard to pay expenses? He has landed his third trip, the crew again sharing over sixty dollars, and has contracted for the season.

I could say a great deal more in defence of our Canadian fish market, but I have intruded too long, perhaps, on your valued space, and will beg to remain as before

SUBSCRIBER.

P. S.—Am enclosing a clipping copied from Digby Courier, which will verify my statements regarding Capt. Longmire.

Digby Courier.—Schr. Dorothy M. Smart, Capt. Arthur Longmire, arrived Monday with 132,159 lbs. mixed fish, the largest fare ever landed by this vessel, and it is said, the largest fare ever landed at this port. The previous largest fare was also landed by Capt. Longmire in the Feb. Daisy Linden several years ago. The Dorothy M. Smart's big fare turned out as follows:—120,600 lbs. haddock, 9,319 lbs. cod, 1,400 lbs. cusk, 540 lbs. pollock, 300 lbs. scrod, and was all landed in Digby. This shows the difference between the capacity of the local, wholesale fish firms compared with Capt. Longmire's arrival during the month of March, 1902, with the big fare on the Daisy Linden referred to above. At that time the Captain landed 19,000 lbs. in Digby (all the firms could take), went to St. John and glutted the market across the Bay and was then obliged to return to Digby and land the remainder of his fare—10,000 lbs.

"NATTY" INSPIRES THE MUSE

To the Editor Monitor-Sentinel:—
 I have seen the letter in a recent issue of your paper signed "Natty," regarding the display of the family wash upon the house verandah, and being in thorough sympathy with the views expressed therein, beg to offer you the following:—

WASHING!
 Hurrah! The spring has come again, the trees and flowers bloom! So we can hang our washing out. 't will give us much more room, For 't is really awkward when you want to do some-tryng. To have the family washing hung from kitchen ceiling drying!

So all our neighbors now shall see when walking on the street How nicely we can do our wash, we keep our clothes so neat And by counting up the articles as on the way you pass You can reckon every garment to be long to lad or lass.

There's pa's duds and ma's duds, And little Willie's, too! And all the various finery that be- longs to sister, too. There are coverlets and bed spreads And many a pillow case. And a lot of things—I don't know what—adorned with pretty lace!

You can tell the number in each house by counting every stocking (To see the way they plant them- selves is really very shocking!) For every member has a pair to hang upon the row The family hose is, goodness knows, an interesting show! And strangers coming into town will think the place looks fine When they see the family washing hung out upon the line. But still, one does not want to see the clothes of all the kids, So take this motto to yourself—"Tis decency forbids!"

Obituary

MARY GLADYS TAYLOR.
 It is with genuine regret that we have to report the death of Mary Gladys (Mamie) Taylor, the eldest surviving child of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Taylor, of Carleton's Corner, which occurred at the residence of her parents, on April 17th at the age of ten years and two weeks.

The fatal illness was diagnosed by the doctors as appendicitis and after five days, during which she endured much suffering, she was taken to her rest. She is survived by four other children, two sisters and two brothers. The funeral, which took place on Friday 19th, was attended by the members of her family and relatives, together with about eighty of her former schoolmates, who marched in procession through the town to Riverside Cemetery, where the interment took place, and also by numerous friends and neighbors, who had gathered, not only out of affection for the child, but to try to express to the bereaved parents the respect and esteem in which they are held.

The services both at the house and at the grave were conducted by the Rev. E. Underwood, the rector of St. James church, who delivered a touching address on the "Good Shepherd." Suitable hymns were sung by the school children. Four of the boys acted as pall bearers.

"Mamie," as she was affectionately called, was a pupil of the Carleton's Corner school and was a favorite with teachers and children alike. At her lessons she was wonderfully diligent and bright and was prepared to enter the sixth grade, having lately graduated into the fifth.

At home she was not only the joy of the household, but also her mother's right hand in everything, always doing what she could to help, with all the cheerfulness and alacrity of her sweet disposition. And not only was she specially dear to her parents, but all who came in contact with her were bound to love her, and felt that a ray of God's sunshine was embodied in her gentle and winsome nature.

We can only extend to her family our deep sympathy and trust that they may derive some comfort in the knowledge of how she was loved and how sincerely mourned, and from the assurance that "He gathers the lambs into His bosom."—COM.

Primrose Theatre

The formal opening of Primrose Theatre took place on Thursday evening last. Five attractive rolls of films were shown and an illustrated song was given by Mr. L. Brooks. The feature of the evening was the display of the new scenery, painted by Mr. Bishop, illuminated by colored electric lights. Mr. Bishop's artistic taste and his technical ability are admirably displayed in the canvas, which forms the stage setting. The proscenium is in wood shades, very artistically applied and the drop curtain shows an attractive view of the Rhine. The scenes which form the background and wings are for two interior and two exterior scenes. The two latter depict a city street scene and a woodland road which are very effective. The interior scene are appropriate for various settings. The scenery was shown with suitable explanatory remarks by Mr. Micklewright.

Married in Boston

The announcement was received yesterday by the friends of Mr. Fred R. Beckwith and Miss Madge Morse of their marriage in Boston, which came as somewhat of a surprise, as although it was known that a warm friendship had existed between them for some years, their engagement had not been announced. Two weeks ago Miss Morse went to visit her brothers in Boston and a few days since Mr. Beckwith also went to Boston. Here the marriage is said to have taken place, after which the happy pair left on a trip to New York. Miss Morse and Mr. Beckwith are both extremely popular in social and musical circles and have a host of friends who will wish them every happiness, in which the Monitor cordially unites.

WASHED OVERBOARD.

At time young Brown was drowned four men were carried over the ship's side by a high wave. The succeeding wave returned two of the men to the vessel's deck but Brown and another of the four were never seen again.

Much sympathy will be felt with Mr. Brown in this bereavement which leaves him the sole survivor of his family.—Outlook.

"Jerome" Dead and His Secret Dies With Him

Digby County's Man of Mystery Who Was Found on the Shore Fifty-eight Years Ago and has Never Spoken a Word
 Since, is Dead.

Digby, April 19—"Jerome" died
 this morning, his secret dying with him. The sentence seems but an unimportant piece of news, but there is a great mystery of international importance surrounding this man, who was believed by many to be a son of a nobleman of some foreign nation.

About the year 1854 a small schooner sailed across the Bay of Fundy and after manoeuvring for a time off Mink Cove, Digby Neck, was seen to send a boat ashore and after a few minutes returned to the strange vessel. In the meantime a half-witted family living in a camp at the head of the tide noticed that the boat had left a man on the shore.

LEFT ON THE BEACH.

In this portion of the Bay of Fundy the tide rises and falls twenty-eight feet perpendicularly and in coves
 where the beach is quite level the tide runs off a long distance. The incident occurred at low water. Half way down the beach the strange people had left a man sitting on a rock. His legs had been recently amputated at the knees. Beside him were a box of ships' hard biscuits and a small keg of water. He would, however, have perished with the incoming tide if he had not been carried to this camp on the shore. This landing was also witnessed by two gunners who were cut shooting at the time, one of which was Mr. Sydney Gidney, Proprietor of the Westport and Digby Telephone Co., who still lives at Mink Cove.

HE REFUSED TO TALK.

The strange man appeared to be a body nineteen or twenty years of age,
 was dark complexioned, well-dressed,
 and thought to be a well-bred Italian
 of noble birth. He refused, however,
 to talk and as the people who rescued him were too poor financially to keep him, he was transferred to the home of a man named Morton at Centreville, (then known as Trout Cove) Digby Neck, about seven miles from where he was discovered.

A few years afterwards he was conveyed across St. Mary's Bay in a small boat and landed at Meteghan, a French settlement where an Italian and a number of other foreigners resided.

All these, however, he refused to converse with, and never spoke a word during the remainder of his life.

TAKEN TO CHETICAMP.

Nearly fifty years ago he was transferred to Cheticamp, also a French Acadian settlement, about three miles west of Meteghan, since which time he has remained with the family. In the days of the old stage-coach between Digby and Yarmouth, he would crawl out of the house during hot days in the summer time and wait for the stage to go by, perhaps thinking he would see someone he knew. Twenty-nine years ago the people with whom he resided until his death,
 built a new house and moved across the street.

HE WAS NAMED 'JEROME.'

The strange man, who had been named "Jerome," talked from peculiar sounds which he uttered, was taken to the new house, evidently much against his will. When once forced into the house, he refused to gain to go out doors and never did.
 He had a room of the kitchen. He wore leather protectors over the stumps of his legs and walked without cane or crutches. When in the kitchen he sat on the floor beside the cook stove and no amount of heat could drive him from his favorite place. On several occasions when he knew there was a very hot fire in the sitting room, he had been known to walk in the room and sit beside that stove as long as there was an intense heat.

A few years ago the men of the house died. Their large family have scattered to various parts of the country, one of them being a well educated Catholic priest.

During the latter part of his life
 the woman of the house lived alone with Jerome, except occasionally when some of his grandchildren were with her.

Of course hundreds of people have called to see him, especially during the summer tourist season. He always looked up once at all of them, but most of the time he looked toward the floor.

WAS ABOUT 75 YEARS OLD.

At the time of his death, which evidently occurred from old age, he was partially bald and completely grey.
 He was a well-built man and appeared to be between seventy-five and eighty years of age, having an intelligent look, and a well-shaped head.
 He positively refused to speak, but when annoyed by visitors' questions,
 etc. he made peculiar noises, some-

PERSONS CURED OF ECZEMA

Within the past few months
 over 100 persons have written to the Zam-Buk Co. reporting their cure of eczema, rashes
 and skin diseases by Zam-Buk!
 Doesn't that prove that Zam-
 Buk is something different?
 Don't you need it in your household?

Miss Mary McCaughey, 913 St. Catherine Street W., Montreal, says:
 "I do not know words powerful enough to express my gratitude to Zam-Buk. Eczema broke out on my scalp and hands. The irritation of the scalp was so bad that I could not sleep or rest, and I feared I would have to have my hair cut off. On my hands the disease appeared in sore patches, the burning and itching of which drove me many times to spells of weeping. I went to the dispensary, but they referred me to a skin specialist, who said that mine was as bad a case of eczema as he had seen. He gave me some ointment, and then a second lot, but neither
 gave me any relief.
 "It was in a very bad condition when Zam-Buk was introduced, but I soon found out that it was different from all the other remedies. I recovered with the Zam-Buk treatment, and each box did me more and more good. The irritation and smarting soon disappeared, and I am now quite free from all traces of eczema, both on head and hands.
 My hair has also been saved."
 Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for piles, eruptions, blood-poison, etc. It cures all skin troubles,
 at the expense of the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, Ont. Canada. Refuse substitutes.

what resembling a dumb animal and at the same time continually scratched the top of his head with his says that he sometimes sang during the night in what she believed was a foreign language.

LIVED LIFE OF IDLENESS

Among his peculiarities he led an entirely idle life. He was never known to do one bit of work not even to whittle with a jack-knife.

This mysterious human being never was seen to mark with a pen or pencil and never made an attempt to look at also refused to look at pictures.

A few years ago one of the gunners who saw him landed was cruising along the Coast of Maine in a vessel,
 and fell in with a man, whose name
 he has unfortunately forgotten, who said he was a member of the boat's crew who landed this man at Mink Cove and further pointed out the hill
 of the vessel which carried him there port.

THE TRUE STORY.

The story of Jerome has frequently appeared in various periodicals and has often been very much exaggerated. The above is a correct synopsis of the affair.

Three years ago a story went the rounds of the press claiming that the great mystery had been solved. It was said that Jerome was a runaway sailor from a ship in St. John N. B., that he wandered up the St.
 John river, where he was employed as a stream driver, that he fell off the logs into the icy waters of the St.
 John river, where he froze both feet, making amputation necessary. That the authorities there, who did not wish to pay for his support, hired a captain of a small vessel to land him on the Nova Scotia coast, and that the great shock caused by the icy waters and the amputation, took away his speech and affected his brain.

THE UNGRACIOUS FAVOR.

A gracious act done in an ungracious manner is never complete, never enough.
 The world needs love as well as service.

A single act done willingly and graciously out of the heart's good will is worth more than a dozen done ungraciously, and only because convention or some other force extorts
 them from the doer.

A single bitter word may disquiet
 the home for a whole day, but like unexpected flowers which spring up along our path, full of freshness and beauty, so do kind words and gentle acts and sweet dispositions make glad the home where peace and blessing dwell. The heart will turn lovingly toward it from all the corners of the world, and home "be it ever so humble" will be the dearest spot under the sun.

The Tomorrow Man

To take one drink of liquor seems to be a simple and harmless thing, but the majority of men who persist in taking "just one drink" don't stop there. They take more and end in ruin. Kings county has too many fine young men on the road to ruin today. It is coming more rapidly than they think. They don't know it, but their friends know and are very sad.
 You say you "Can stop when you wish." So you can, but thousands of men who have died drunkards have said the same thing till they reached a place where they couldn't stop.
 Some of your real friends fear you are almost there now. You can "stop" if you are a man and do it now, not tomorrow. The "tomorrow man" never stops. A real man can do anything, with God's help, and God helps the real man. There are forty young men in Kentville and five hundred in Kings County who ought to stop today, if they would ever stop. You can stop. Be a man. Assert your manhood. Look at the wrecks of once prosperous men on our streets—men who could stop once, but apparently can't do it now. Just stand until one minute and you will feel something pushing you on and downward, it will push harder tomorrow. Young man,
 I am not a crank. I am your friend.
 Stop now and say "forever." You can do it. Be a man—Kentville Chronicle.

AD.—This warning applies to the young men of Annapolis county as well as Kings.

It would surprise you to know of the great good that is being done by Chamberlain's Tablets, Dr. J. C. Downey, of Newburg Junction, N. B., writes

 lain's Tablets and finds them very effectual and doing her lots of good."

 stomach or bowels give them a trial.

DEATH OF CLARA BARTON

Miss Clara Barton, founder of the Red Cross Society, died at her home, Glen Echo, Md., at nine o'clock on the morning of April 12th. The cause of her death was chronic pneumonia,
 from which she suffered for one year.
 She was born in Oxford, Mass., in 1821 and was one of the most famous philanthropists of modern times. She was the youngest of five children of Stephen Barton who, when a boy, had been one of General Wayne's soldiers of the West. Her first experience in the duties of a nurse began when she was only twelve years old. Her real work began in 1861, when she attended thirty wounded soldiers who had been taken to the Washington Infirmary. She achieved her greatest fame in the year 1863 by noble work near Charleston, allowing nothing to keep her from the bedside of the wounded soldiers. She also was engaged at the request of the national labor among the wounded in the Franco-Prussian war. In recognition of her services she received decorations
 from Queen Victoria and Emperor William, and from hundreds of British and American Red Cross organizations.

Don't let repairs
 eat up your profits

Whether they represent actual cash outlay, or only the time of yourself and your help, repairs are waste just the same. When you make an improvement—no matter how small its cost may be—let it be permanent. Then it is a real investment, something on which you can realize in cash should you decide to sell your property; and something that will pay you constant dividends in convenience, sightliness and comfort as long as the farm remains your own.

Concrete Improvements Are Permanent

They last as long as the very hills themselves. They do not require experts to build them. Their first cost, in most cases, is no more than for inferior materials.

Aren't you interested in the subject of permanent, modern farm improvements?

Then write for the book that describes hundreds of them—
"WHAT THE FARMER CAN DO WITH CONCRETE"

It isn't a Catalogue. Every one of its 100 handsomely illustrated pages is interesting and instructive. They tell how to mix concrete, how to place it, what can be done with it. The book was printed to sell for 50 cents, but we have a copy for you, free.

LOVERS' QUARRELS.

Said the girl in love to the man she loved: "I don't think you care so much for me as you used to. Just think! You were in town all day yesterday and you didn't call me up. You know you would never have done that six months ago."

Said the man in love to the girl he loved: "Why, dear, I thought I just told you that I was with Rushford every single minute. You know I was trying to put through that big sale, and that I didn't dare let him get out of my sight for a minute."

Reiterated the girl in love: "I think you would have managed somehow six months ago before you were so sure of me."

Retorted the man in love: "You didn't use to be so abominably unreasonable. Are you always going to be like this?"

Flushed the girl in love: "Yes, when I have so much cause to be. Why? Don't you think you can stand it?"

And there they are with a perfectly good quarrel on their hands and unkind words on their lips and heart-breaks in their hearts, for "to be wroth with one we love doth work like madness in the brain."

And all for what? All just because the man in love didn't realize that what the girl in love wanted when she said he didn't love her as much as he used to, was reassurances—fond, foolish, reiterated convincing, reassurances. And because instead of these, he gave her cold, logical, sensible reasoning.

"Is there—I wonder—was there ever a couple who did not have at least one quarrel along these lines?"

I doubt it. Can't you imagine Eve saying to Adam, "When we lived in the garden you used to be with me all the time, and now I seldom see you except at meals. I don't think you love me the way you used to."

And of course Adam answered, "But, my dear, you know I didn't have any work to do then, and now I have to work for my living. I think you are unreasonable."

And poor little Eve, who just wanted to be told that he loved her quite as much, if not more, than ever, went off into the nearby glade to cry her heart out at the coldness of his tone, and Adam went back to his work, berating the unreasonableness of women.

All of which might have been avoided if Adam had just taken Eve right up in his arms and said, "But, dearest, you know I love you more every day. You are the one woman in the world for me."—Ruth Cameron.

A MAN.

Before a boy has doled his kilt, He wants a sword with a flashing hilt, He must manage a train, though it be of chairs, He must beat a drum, he must hunt bears, In fact, his highest ambition and plan, His dearest wish is to be a man.

But many a boy is unmanly today, Because there are so many "ifs" in the way; He scorns this "if" and he frowns at that, He shirks his lessons to find a bat, And so he will go, as best he can, From youth to old age, without being a man.

Oh, there are so many "ifs" in the road, That leads to manhood's highest abode! Kindness, purity, courage and truth, Scumbling blocks these to many a youth; For he who will not make these his own, Can never reach manhood's glorious throne.

So who would be manly should keep in mind He must ever be gentle and brave and kind, Obedient always to Right's fair laws, A brother to every noble cause; Thus shall he serve God's cherished plan, And come to the stature of man.

IF YOU WANT TO KEEP YOUNG.

Hold young thoughts persistently. Avoid fear in all its varied forms of expression. Simply refuse to grow old by counting your years of anticipating old age. Don't allow yourself to think, on your birthday, that you are a year older. Refrain from all kinds of stimulants and sedatives; they will shorten your life.

Keep in the sunlight; nothing beautiful or sweet grows or ripens in the darkness. Nature is the great rejuvenator, her spirit is ever young. Live with her, study her, love her.

Avoid excesses of all kinds, they are injurious. The long life must be a temperate, regular life.

PROPAGATING PLANTS

How to Multiply One's Stock by Means of Cuttings.

For propagating plants by cuttings in the home, use a shallow box, say four inches deep. Put in one depth of cinders or broken crocks for drainage and fill with clean sharp sand. Insert the cuttings in the sand about one inch deep and two inches apart each way, making the sand quite firm around each. Then soak thoroughly, to keep the leaves from wilting.

One good soaking is usually sufficient until the roots appear. A light place in the window and shade for a few days. Cuttings should root in about three weeks' time and be ready for planting in stronger soil. As soon as well rooted the cuttings should be potted or boxed and carefully watered until well established. Spraying may be given on bright days. Keep the blooms pinched off until the young plants are well rooted.

There are a great many plants which can be propagated in this way, such as coleus, heliotrope, geranium, ageratum, several varieties of begonia, alyssum, cuphea, fuschia, salvia, abutilon, etc.

Coleus requires a closer and more humid atmosphere and more heat than the others but this can be secured by covering the boxes with panes of glass. Coleus should root in about eight days.

Ferns of the Boston type can be increased at any time by taking off some of the smaller pieces with roots that grow around the edge of the larger plants. Pot them in small pots at first but care should be taken not to overpot them. Overpotting is putting a large plant into a small pot. They root more quickly in small pots and can be repotted as often as they require it.

Plants require a shift into a larger size of pots as soon as the present ones get full of roots and they should never be potted sooner. They grow more quickly if only a small shift be given each time. It is best to use a pot about one size larger than what the plant has been in.

There are quite a number of plants which with a little more care can be readily propagated at home and the pleasures of gardening are greatly increased by this practice.—T. McVittie

THE TEST OF FRIENDSHIP.

In friendship, as in most matters, it is the little things that count. Not promises of eternal fidelity, but thoughtfulness about trifles attests that our friend really cares for us. The one who knows instinctively what subjects of conversation may be unpleasant to us, what subject we do not like to hear jest about, who, knowing too when we wish to be silent, humors us in our wish—that is the one with whom we love to associate. We can never retain a friend long if we are not willing to take pains to find out his peculiarities and respect them.

He does not know his neighbors, to them he is unknown; Beyond his little orbit his face is never shown, He hurries every morning to catch a certain car;

At night he clings where other sad-faced stragglers are, And wonders how the people exist out on the farms, Deprived of social pleasures and all the city's charms.

HYMENEAL

MAHONEY—BOGART

One of the prettiest home weddings ever witnessed in the city was that of Mr. Hayes Mahoney and Miss Kate Bogart, two of Fernandina's most prominent and highly connected young people.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. P. Smith, of the Baptist church, the bride's pastor, who was assisted in the services by Rev. Eugene Daniel, of the Presbyterian church, pastor of the groom. The wedding took place at the lovely new home of the bride's parents on Atlantic Avenue, in the presence of only the immediate families of the young couple, making it a home wedding indeed, and a very unostentatious one, in accordance with the wishes of the bride.

At the appointed hour, two o'clock, Wednesday afternoon, April 3rd, 1912, the couple unattended, took their places under a beautifully constructed arch, made of stately spreading palms and festooned with delicate and fragrant flowers, intermingled with cupid's darts and orange blossoms. There and then the words were spoken which united the two hearts for the remainder of life's journey.

The bride is one of our choicest young ladies and is the daughter of Captain and Mrs. W. D. Bogart, who came to Fernandina when the daughter was quite small and have resided here ever since. From a girl, she, now Mrs. Mahoney, has grown up in our midst, honored by old and young alike. She has ever been a bright star in the home circle and now she will reign as queen in her own home.

The groom is a native of Fernandina, and having been endowed with traits of character that guarded him in youth, he is now a good and noble man.

After the ceremony those present partook of an elegantly prepared luncheon and the newly married couple left immediately for only a short trip through South Florida. Upon their return they will be "at home" to friends at the home of the bride's parents, where they will reside in the future.

The love and esteem in which this worthy couple are held was shown by the beautiful and numerous presents received, among the most handsome and valuable being a beautifully engraved silver tea service, the gift of George F. Craig & Co., of New York also a most elegant chest of silver, presented by the groom's mother, Mrs. P. C. Black. A very handsome pin, received from the Fernandina Lodge of Elks, was highly prized, not only because of its value and beauty, but because of the source from which it came. Another present that called forth a deep feeling of appreciation on the part of both the bride and groom was an elegant silver tray, bearing the initials of the bride's maiden name, "K. B.," presented by the colored employees in Fernandina of George F. Craig & Co., showing the high esteem in which the bride is held by all who know her.

Mr. and Mrs. Mahoney have the best wishes of their entire acquaintanceship for a long, happy and prosperous wedded life.—Fernandina paper

OUT IN THE FIELDS WITH GOD

The little cares that fretted me, I lost them yesterday
Among the fields above the sea
Among the winds that play
Among the lowing of the herds,
The rustling of the trees,
Among the singing of the birds,
The humming of the bees.

The foolish fears of what may happen I cast them all away
Among the clover-scented grass,
Among the new-mown hay,
Among the husking of the corn
Where drowsy poppies nod,
Where ill thoughts die and good are born,
Out in the fields with God.

—Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

REGION OF WARMTH.

Hot Springs Are Reported to the North of Percupine.

Superintendent A. E. Snyder, commanding the Royal Northwest Mounted Police at Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, reported to the commissioner in 1909 that from north of the now famous Percupine district in northern Ontario there had come repeated rumors of the existence of a wonderful "tropical" region which was still inhabited by mastodons, says the Success magazine. "The Indiana," concludes Superintendent Snyder, "report having seen the gigantic tracks of these animals."

But little attention was paid to these stories, until in November of last year Mr. C. J. McIntyre and two companions reported a most amazing discovery north of Percupine. They were traveling by dog-sledge, with the thermometer at forty below, when to their astonishment the temperature began to rise so fast that within a space of two hours they had taken off their parkies, and the snow was so soft that they were able to "It seemed," said Mr. McIntyre, "as though we were suddenly passing from winter into spring."

Soon after they came upon the first of numberless hot springs, the snow disappeared and melting, and the action took the place of the stunted bush and timber of the plains. Because of necessarily slow travel on foot the explorers were not able to determine the extent of this wonderful oasis in the far northern wilderness. They found several good-sized rivers flowing with warm water and teeming with fish, and the country was alive with bear, caribou, ducks, pheasants, wild geese, and other game, and gold was found in a number of places.

First House in Halifax.

The distinguished geographer, Sir Clements Markham, K.C.B., F.R.S., has entered upon his eighty-second year. He comes of a family famous for its antiquity and valour. A very interesting record of the Markham's history, edited by Sir Clements, was compiled by his father, the late Rev. David Markham, sometime Canon of Windsor. The house has given many gallant sons to both army and navy. Major William Markham, born 1686, who served in Spain under Peterborough, is said to have built the first house in Halifax, Nova Scotia. He is buried in the North Cloister of Westminster Abbey, where also lie the remains of his eldest son, who became Archbishop of York. The archbishop's second son entered the navy, rose to the rank of admiral, and twice served as a Lord of the Admiralty.

Sir Clement has been both secretary and president of the Royal Geographical Society, and recipient of one of its gold medals for research.

Kitchen Hints.

When hanging meat it is well not to put the meat hook through the meat itself, but through a loop of string tied on to the joint.

To preserve lemons for a length of time bury them in a box of sawdust. In this way they will keep fresh for several months.

To remove a grease spot from wall paper hold a piece of blotting paper over the spot with a hot flatiron for a few moments.

In order to beat the white of an egg to stiff froth quickly add a pinch of powdered sugar and fine salt and beat on a dinner plate with a broad-pointed knife.

Wood ashes are excellent for cleaning tin articles. Wring a cloth out of warm water, dip it in the ashes and with this scour the things; then rub off and polish.

To remove unpleasant odors from the hands dash a spoonful of sugar on the hot stove and hold the hands over the flames. Ground coffee answers the same purpose.

Duke's Escort.

The Canadian Military Gazette, Ottawa, says:

The escort for the Duke of Cornwall will be the same as for another Governor-General, namely, 34 of all ranks under the command of a captain. It was thought that since the duke was a member of the royal family, he would be entitled to a major's escort of 57 of all ranks, but the British War Office has informed the Canadian department that the position of Governor-General supercedes his position as member of the royal family, and he is entitled to the captain's escort instead of the major's. It is a fortunate thing for the dragons. The escorts are all drawn from a squadron, which would not have been large enough to supply the major's escort, nor would there have been enough ceremonial uniforms to go round.

Praise for Canada.

General Sir Walter Kitchener has been in Montreal with his daughter, who is to attend McGill. The general thinks that Canadian education is so far ahead of that of Oxford or Cambridge that he is having his son and daughter educated here.

He himself would have made Canada his home, but at the time that he was preparing to come, the war in Egypt broke out, and he spent years in campaigning after that. He was in command of the Strathcona Horse and the mounted rifles in South Africa, and says that the Canadians were as good soldiers as he ever saw. Sir Walter has returned to the Bermudas, of which he is governor.

A Proud Old Lady.

Jeremie Barrette of Montreal was a proud great-grandmother the other day. "Cracking at the age of 105 years," she held in her arms a one-day-old child, which was christened at the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

Five years ago she held in her arms the youngest of a family of great-grandsons, when he was christened at a church in Point St. Charles. The eldest of that family has now been married over a year, and only a few days ago a representative of the fifth generation was born.

DOCTORS COULD NOT HELP MY KIDNEYS

"Fruit-a-lives" Cured Me

CHESTERVILLE, ONT., JAN. 25th, 1911

"For over twenty years, I have been troubled with Kidney Disease and the doctors told me they could do me no good. They said my case was incurable and I would suffer all my life. I doctored with different medical men and tried many advertised remedies, but there was none that suited my case. Nearly a year ago, I tried 'Fruit-a-lives'. I have been using them nearly all the time since, and am glad to say that I am cured. I have no trouble now with my kidneys and I give 'Fruit-a-lives' the credit of doing what the doctors said was impossible. I am seventy-six years old and am in first class health."

Obituary

MRS. R. M. BURBIDGE.

On Saturday morning, April 6th, at six o'clock the grim reaper called from her home and friends the spirit of Edna, wife of Ralph M. Burbidge, to enter the house not made with hands.

Mrs. Burbidge was born in Adelaide, Cal., Jan. 2nd, 1884, and had just begun her twenty-ninth year. She was the third daughter of Wm. H. and Ludena Miner, and the granddaughter of Charles and Eliza Salter, early pioneers of Petulama, Cal. She is survived by her parents, her husband, one small son, and three sisters.

On June, 26th, 1905 she was married in San Louis Obispo, to R. M. Burbidge. One son was born to them, Glenn Burbidge, now four years and two months old.

The disease which caused her death was acute inflammation. Everything that loving care and skillful physicians could do was done. Two physicians and two most excellent professional nurses were in constant attendance upon her, but medical skill could not overcome the inroads of the disease.

During the years Mr. Burbidge was in business in Paso Robles, they made many staunch friends and this was again their experience in the few months since they removed to Santa Barbara, where Mr. Burbidge now has business interests.

Mrs. Burbidge was laid away in Adelaide cemetery on Easter Sunday, April 7th, a beautiful sunny day that seemed typical of her life. She was dressed in the white gown she had prepared to wear on Easter and looked like a sweet girlish bride, just fallen asleep. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. H. Horn, whose fitting theme was "The Resurrection of them that sleep." The hymns rendered were "Nearer my God to Thee," "Lead kindly light" and "Best be the tie that binds." Six friends of her childhood acted as pall bearers. The path to the grave was strewn with flowers and the grave was lined with white and festooned with evergreens. The newly-made mound was completely banked with ferns and greens and covered with wreaths and wreaths of flowers looking like a couch with a pillow surmounted by a beautiful cross at the head and a smaller cross laid at the foot.—Paso Robles Record.

Edna M. Burbidge was born at Lower Middleton and is eldest son of Arnold and Lavinia Burbidge and a nephew of Mrs. N. B. Foster, Clarence.

SPRAY! SPRAY! SPRAY!

Before the Leaves Come Out

It is safe to apply the dormant spray with the end of the leaves showing fully half an inch, with NIAGARA LIME-SULPHUR and SWIFT'S ARSENATE OF LEAD, using 4 gallons of the former and 2 1/2 lbs. of the latter to a 40 gallon barrel.

The poison will kill the bud moth which works such great destruction as the leaves are coming out, and later in the summer rolling the leaves up.

The early spray not only insures a CLEAN crop of apples but a Surer set of fruit.

The Cornell experiments proved that omitting the early spray cost 16 times the quantity of fruit.
