Help the Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. of Canada is doing a great work among the Canadian soldiers in France, and its efforts are most highly endorsed on all sides. But the association finds it takes considerable money to keep the camps going, and is now making an appeal to Canadians in general to aid the work. The people of Carleton Place will have their opportunity to contribute next week. At least $3,000 is expected from our town.
As this service is of the highest order it is hoped our citizens will rise to the occasion and keep up their good record for liberality.

Fire at Perth.

A four inch floor probably saved the Perth shoe factory from destruction by fire last Wednesday. About four o'clock flames were discovered in the basement where a big stock of all kinds of leather was stored, and means were taken to fight it at once. A call was sent out for the firemen and meantime the equipment of the factory was employed. A dense smoke arose from the burning leather which made the work of the firemen very difficult, but for two hours they fought the flames and conquered them. The main floor is four inches thick and this helped to keep the fire to the basement out of which it never got.
The loss will amount to several thousands of dollars on stock but is covered by insurance. None of the employees were injured.

A Musical Treat

Was the Song Recital given last evening, in the town hall by Mr. Duncan Robertson, a Canadian, whose home at present is in New York. Mr. Robertson possesses a baritone voice of much power and sweetness, his enunciation being perfect, whilst his personality charms and draws the sympathy of his audience. He appeared here under the auspices of the Sunshine Y, the proceeds of the entertainment going to procure necessities for our town soldiers at the front. Mr. Robertson, who was most generous with his songs, and responded to repeated encores, was assisted in the programme by Mr. L. O. G. Poole, violinist, who won many new admirers
by his skilful performance, and by Mrs.
J. J. Monds, Miss M. Helene Allen, Mrs. D. Findlay, Mrs. J. F. Warren and Miss Hazel Allen. Mr. Robertson's selections included sacred, classical, patriotic and folk songs, and he seemed equally at home in all. The Misses Allen and Mr. Poole gave a violin and piano trio that was very well rendered. Mrs.
Monds, Miss Helene Allen and Mrs.
Warren and Mrs. Findlay, a quartette, and Mr. Poole a violin solo. Miss Hazel Allen was the accompanist of the evening. The chair was occupied by Mr. Robt. Patterson, with credit to himself and honor to the society. The ladies had the stage very tastefully decorated with flags. The concert was one that will long be remembered. The collection amounted to $85.

IN THE CASUALTY LIST

Mr. Ernest Reynolds received a cable on Saturday notifying him of the death of his brother, Pte. Thomas Reynolds, who was killed in action on April 24th, somewhere in France. Pte. Reynolds enlisted at Ottawa with the 77th Batt., and was transferred in England. He was 30 years of age, and was a man of splendid physique.

Pte. H. L. Horn, enlisted at Carleton

ing in a week or so, with his family, for been pastor of the Dominion Methodist church since 1913, leaves at the end of tenary church, Hamilton, Ont.

Owing to his health, Mr. J. G. Steele

Having purchased the Grocery Business of

The annual meeting of the Perth District will be held in the Methodist Church here to-morrow. In the evening an open meeting will be held, when Rev. Mr. Bates, a returned missionary from Japan, will deliver an address, as will also Mr. G. F. McKimm of Smiths Falls.

The Perth Courier says that Mr. Sid.
Orser has sold his grocery business and property, corner of Craig and Drummond streets, to Mr. J. R. Rathwell of Carleton Place, who will take possession the first of June. This is a good property and Mr. Orser enjoyed a good business, but his mining interests of late have taken up too much of his time to allow close attention to the store.

Mr. G. A. Burgess, himself a stockholder of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., obtained considerable publicity a week ago for his outspoken remarks at the annual meeting of the Company in Montreal. Mr. Burgess has a most practical idea of "what's what" in business, and does not hesitate to express his views when occasion offers. His ideas were too advanced for some of the shareholders, but this did not prevent his giving expression to them just the same.

Last Wednesday afternoon, at Zion Church manse, Miss Marguerite Helen Armstrong and Mr. Ivan Oscar Scott were united in the holy bonds of wedlock. The young couple will make their home in Carleton Place.

Auto Mishap at Perth.

The Perth Courier of last week says:
"Sunday afternoon last Mr. Sid. Orser and Mr. Stanley Kirkland were both driving in their cars between Greenley's corners and the House of Industry when Stanley turned out to pass the other car and in some way Mr. Orser's car, which was being driven by his daughter, went into the ditch and turned completely over, the wheels still going around as propelled by the engine. Luckily the top was up and this prevented the occupants of the car, who were Mr. and Mrs. Orser and two daughters, and Mrs.
A. Freeman, from receiving serious injury. All had escaped from underneath, before the top gave way, allowing the body of the car to settle to the ground. Mrs. Orser received some minor injuries. The top and windshield of the car, which was a new one, were broken, but it was soon placed in running order and taken into town.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Pleasant Evening Reveries dedicated to tired Mothers as they Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

"THEY SAY."

"They say"—Ah, Well, suppose they did, But can they prove the story true? Suspicion may arise from naught; But malice, envy, want of thought; Why count you self among the "they" Who whisper what they do not say?

"They say"—But why the tale rehearse, And help to make the matter worse? No good can possibly accrue From telling what may be untrue; And is it not a noisier plan To speak of all the best you can?

"They say"—Well, if it should be so, Why need you tell the tale of woe? Will it the bitter wrong redress, Or make one pang of sorrow less? Will it the crying one restore, Henceforth to go and sin no more?

"They say"—Oh! pause and look within, See how your heart inclines to sin; Watch I lest in dark temptation's hour, You, too, should sink beneath its power; Pity the frail—weep o'er their fall, But speak of good or not at all.

Children should be early taught both by precept and example, to keep their promises. Straws show which way the wind blows, likewise small things reveal a person's true character. The breaking of promises will lead us into a habit of neglect and carelessness, even if it injures no one else which it often does.

Show us a family where good music is cultivated, where the parents and children are accustomed to mingle their voices together in song; and we will show you one where peace, love and harmony prevail, and where the angry voices have no abiding place.

We ought to consider home and all the members of the household as entitled to the first consideration in all things. What are those we meet in society to us that we should take such pains to be agreeable to them and neglect those who have the strongest claim upon us? It all comes about because we have got into a wrong way of thinking. We have put the home into the background when it should occupy the foremost place in our thoughts. We should strive to make ourselves such pleasant members of the household band that our absence is like the loss of the sunshine from a summer day. We can do it and we will do it if we enter into the right spirit—the spirit of our home.

Our country needs grand and good men, and to become a grand and good man, one must be a grand and good boy. It is a wrong idea that every boy must "sow his wild oats." When you sow a crop of wild oats, you must take time to harvest a crop; and the crop is never anything but chaff. The time spent in sowing wild oats is worse than lost, for the time could be spent in sowing a crop of wild oats.

CANADIAN DEFENCE FORCE A NECESSITY.

At the Star Theatre last Tuesday night Captain Botsford addressed the audience. He stated that there were now in United States nearly one million German soldiers now naturalized or partly naturalized citizens who had been drilling in their private places of meeting and who were still drilling. The U. S. authorities could not interfere with them unless they committed some overt act and it would then be too late so far as Canada was concerned. A few trained raiders armed with modern magazine rifles and machine guns could and would do incalculable injury to lives and property in the face of thousands of untrained men. On the other hand if it were generally known that trained men were on the job over here there would be little danger from attempted raids. Captain Botsford stated that the special service battalions hitherto doing police duty in Canada were about to be sent overseas at once and that some must take their places. He emphasized the fact that men enlisting in the defence force enlisted for service in Canada only reading from the new attestation paper part of the "Declaration to be made by the men on attestation" as follows: "I hereby engage to serve in the Canadian Active Militia for Home Defence for the term of one year or during the war should that war last longer than one year, and for six months after the termination of the war provided His Majesty should so long require my services." For men who put on the uniform at once and thus serve full time daily the pay and allowance is $1.60 per day with separation of 60c per day extra when mobilized in camp or barracks. For those who cannot leave their work at the present time, but who can drill two and three evenings per week the pay is 50c per parade. In any case the men for the present—that is to say for some weeks to come—will remain at their homes till called on, and shall be under pay as above stated.

The final hearing of the appeal of the Town of Perth against the County of Lanark on the equalization of assessment took place at the Court House, Perth, last Tuesday. All the information is now before the Judge except a few lists which are being prepared by the urban municipalities affecting properties in the unassessable class, which lists are to be submitted to his Honor on or before May 20th.

Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

that would yield a golden harvest. Be careful about the kind of seed you sow for "whatever a man soweth that shall he also reap."

Nowhere is a woman's character more clearly shown, or her talents given more scope for cultivation than in home making, and in no sphere is the true woman more content and happier than in housekeeping. Home is indeed the "dearest place" on earth when rightly made, and the memory of which remains with us until death, and will do more to protect and restrain its inmates than the grandest and most eloquent sermons from the most gifted ministers and orators. In short, home is the kindergarten of all Christian work and influence, the starting point of all beautiful thoughts and deeds.

There is nothing in this world more beautiful than a happy home, a home ruled by the spirit of love; and it is woman's highest and noblest mission to preside over her home, and make it a perfect haven of love, peace and rest to those who dwell therein. It is not necessary to be rich and live in a stately mansion with gilded walls and carpeted floors, to be happy, for happiness depends on the mind, and it is better to live quietly in a little three room cottage than in the finest mansion, with worry and strife to contend with.

"You're the most curious woman I ever heard of," said a boy to his mother, "You tell me that I have a bad temper, and yet blame me for losing it."

Kindness makes sunshine wherever it goes; it is the real law of life; the link that connects earth with heaven. Would you live in the remembrance of others after you are gone? Write your name on the tablets of their hearts by acts of kindness and love.

Let the parents, the father as well as the mother, impress upon their young daughters, whether they are in the country school house or college, that the true woman's sphere is in the home, and the great business and educational world that have thrown wide open the doors for woman does not detract one iota from the importance of her sphere.

It is when the sun has gone down that the home influences become actual and potent. In opening the tender buds of young characters, the light from the hearthstone is far more efficient than the sunlight. The distinctive characteristics of the home life are manifested most strongly when the labors of the day are ended and the family gather round the fireside for the evening. One hour of evening homelife is worth a month of the ordinary daily experience.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS OF GREAT VALUE

Mrs. J. A. Lagace, Ste. Perpetue, Que., writes:—"Baby's Own Tablets have been of great value to me and I would strongly recommend them to other mothers." Thousands of other mothers say the same thing. They have become convinced through actual use of the Tablets that nothing can equal them in regulating the bowels and stomach; driving out constipation and indigestion; breaking up colds and simple fevers; expelling worms and curing colic. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

For the out-of-door man, Rod and Gun magazine, published by W. J. Taylor, Woodstock, Ont., for May has much that is of interest to offer. Bonnycastle Dale, the Canadian naturalist, gives the result of a midnight study of the wild duck in the leading article, "The Terror that Passeth by Night." A holiday in the Rockies is the story of a fishing trip and outing in the vicinity of Waterton Lakes, Alberta. Some Canadian Vacation Camps, gives an idea of some Northern Ontario camps where young lads can get more for their money than in any other way, enjoying many unique experiences at a moderate expense. Fishing Experiences of an Old Country Angler tells of fishing in the wonderful Georgian Bay region. There are other stories of equal interest and a treasure trove for the fisherman in this month's installment of Fishing Notes by Robert Page Lincoln.

Pulpwood Production. Figures submitted to the Financial Post by R. H. Campbell, director of forestry, indicate the effect of the increased demand for paper upon the pulpwood and wood pulp industries of Canada during 1916. The cut of pulp wood in 1916 amounted to 2,802,433 cords, compared with 2,355,550 cords in 1915, an increase of some 20 per cent, while the value increased from $15,590,330 to $19,826,640. At the same time the manufacture of wood pulp increased from 364,170 tons to 528,899 tons, or nearly 54 per cent. The increasing proportion of wood pulp in relation to pulp wood production is a favorable industrial indication.

It is proposed to make the wastage of food in Britain a punishable offence.

THIS QUAINT MAIDEN.

A Girlish Model For High School Graduates.

A LA MODE.

Navy pongee silk put up with a white guimpe gives this interesting frock for youth. Many ball buttons, red and gold beads and spirals of metal thread make an ornate trimming that girlhood carries with such charm.

ABOUT WINDOWS.

How to Treat Them For Spring Housecleaning.

Has it ever occurred to you that windows are as important a furnishing feature as any piece of furniture in a room? A window can be an asset or a disfigurement, according to the way it is treated. No window is so bad that it cannot be made attractive if a little time and forethought are spent upon it. One can't just slap up curtains in a hurry and expect miracles to happen overnight.

Take single windows first for consideration. If your window is too broad choose striped materials for the overdrapes and hang them in long lines clear to the floor with no valance. Instead of stripes, any patterned material with an up and down movement will answer the same purpose. The stripes are very good from the decorator's viewpoint if the rest of the room is kept under consideration.

If your window is too high use horizontal patterns and deep valances. Follow the architectural lines of your window in the hanging of curtains whenever possible; sometimes, too, the curtain may be held back with a strap without offending good taste. Where windows are grouped in bay or casement effect it is better to treat them as a whole instead of so many windows. A valance running across the series will usually serve to unite them sufficiently, and unless the woodwork between the windows is unduly conspicuous the drapes at the extreme ends are enough. If the windows are broad and the room low a curtain between each window will give a better effect.

Remember that a valance always makes the windows and room look lower. It also cuts off light where no shade is used, and shades are not used nearly so much as formerly, draw curtains being provided in most cases instead. Rods without ornamentation are in best taste.

Consider the view from your windows when hanging curtains. If you have a lovely sweep of landscape from your windows do not curtain it off unless privacy is necessary. Glass curtains should be added for privacy, closely enough woven to exclude a view of the house from outside, but thin enough to admit light.

Large windows need larger, bolder patterns for both overdrapes and glass curtains, while smaller windows should be treated to lighter, daintier things.

To Bake Potatoes.

In these days of high prices we must use potatoes with the skins on if we want to get the maximum amount of nourishment from them.

Here is a new way to bake them: Wash as many as are required for the meal and remove a slice from the end while damp, wrap them in oiled paper and tie.

Place in moderate oven and bake for an hour. Do not open until ready to serve. They will have no hard crust to throw away and the skin will be found tender enough to eat.

Smocked Evening Wraps.

Evening wraps which are really warm and entirely envelop the figure are made of velvet and satin, in veritable turquoise blue, slyic green, peacock blue and vatican purple. One of the best models is smocked with self colored silk thread.

On Active Service Abroad

PASSED by the censor, and approved for circulation abroad, these pictures have been forwarded to this country by Mr. George McLaren Brown, European manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The first illustrates life-boat drill on a troopship, the second a naval quick-firing gun and one of its operators, and the third the remains of a German Howitzer gun that had been struck by a British shell.

The three pictures are a suggestion for reflection on three different phases of the war. The transportation of troops from the overseas dominions to the motherland and from the motherland to the different spheres of military activity with which the motherland is concerned, has been a huge problem that has been solved with very little loss of life, despite the watch which the enemy submarines have kept out for them. The picture of life-boat drill on the troopship shows that troops crossing the seas are prepared for emergencies. Several of the Canadian Pacific liners have been engaged in conveying troops from Canada to England. They have also been occupied on other missions in the same transportation task, and so far there have been no casualties. The view of the quick-firing gun and its manipulator gives us some conception of the equipment of the navy. These guns are wonderful weapons of destruction when fights are being fought at a close range. The Jack Tars in charge of them are skilled marksmen, and should the German fleet ever take the open sea for a straight combat, they are sure to display the same grit as was shown by their ancestors who made the British rulers of the waves. How one of the fiercest of destroyers may be destroyed is illustrated for us by the third picture. German ingenuity is not proof against the ingenuity of Great Britain and her allies, and the greatest of German guns are rent to pieces by the force of a little British shell.

The Canadians who have overseas play no small part in the big gun fighting that is done on the Western battle-front. Heavy and light artillery batteries have been raised and put through a course of training in many parts of the Dominion and sent to England, where they completed training before proceeding to the front. In the firing zone their good marksmanship often levelled German trenches, smashed paved the ground for the advance of British infantry, and the paved enemy guns and corpses of the Germans that strewed the way were Kaiser's soldiers.

PROFITABLE BEEF PRODUCTION.

(Experimental Farm Note)

At the Experimental Farm at Nappan, N.S., a number of tests have been carried on in feeding and finishing steers for the market. During the last three years tests have been carried on in feeding good butchers, heavy fed, versus good butchers, light fed; good stockers, heavy fed, versus good stockers, light fed; good butchers, heavy fed, versus good butchers, light fed; good stockers, heavy fed, versus good stockers, light fed; good butchers, heavy fed, receiving two pounds molasses in addition to their regular meal ration, versus good butchers and good stockers, heavy fed, no molasses; good butchers, heavy fed, versus good butchers, light fed, are as follows:—Eight steers were selected in such a condition that they could be classed as good butchers. These were deboned and fed a preparatory ration to get them accustomed to their feed and surroundings; then divided into two lots of four each. The four heavy fed received 50 per cent more roots and meal than did the light fed. Number of days fed, 93; total live weight at beginning for Lot 1, heavy fed, 4478 pounds; at finish 5355, an increase of 377 pounds. For Lot 2, light fed, 4418 pounds at beginning; at finish 5135, an increase of 717 pounds. The original purchase price was 61 cents per pound, live weight. The selling price was 81 cents per pound, live weight. The gross profit for Lot 1 was $153.88; for Lot 2, $139.81. The total cost of feed for period was, for Lot 1, $89.16; for Lot 2, $75.29, leaving a net profit in the first instance of $64.72, or a profit per steer of $16.18. In the second $64.52, or a profit per steer of $16.13. The average profit per steer, for three years, over and above the actual cost of feed at market prices was, for Lot 1, $15.38, for Lot 2, $13.98. The cost to produce 1 pound gain was 10.33 cents for Lot 1 and 8.64 cents per pound for Lot 2. The ration fed to Lot 1 at the beginning was 60 pounds roots, 6 pounds meal, and 1 pound molasses; at the finish 45 pounds roots, 16.5 pounds meal and 2 pounds molasses. Lot 2 received at the beginning, 40 pounds roots, 4 pounds meal and 1 pound molasses; at the finish 30 pounds roots, 11 pounds meal and 2 pounds molasses.

From the above results it will be noted that a profitable limit can be reached in the amount of feed fed to good butchers and that in all our feeding work we should be guided accordingly. That is to say, feed liberally and well, but not to excess and good profits can be made by producing the right kind of beef.

At St. Andrew's Church Renfrew, the Synod of Montreal and Ottawa convened last Tuesday evening, Rev. Mr. Turnbull, M.A., of Chalmers, Church Ottawa, preached the Synod sermon, after which the election of the moderator for the ensuing year took place. Two names were put in nomination that of Rev. W. D. Reid, B.A.; B.D., of Westmount, and Rev. Mr. Horne, M.A., of Renfrew. As Mr. Horne's election was urged by Rev. Dr. Dickie, of Montreal, who moved his election, and by Rev. Mr. Reid himself, who seconded the motion, Mr. Reid's nomination was dropped and Mr. Horne was unanimously elected.

CROP TO PLANT LATER

Provide for Winter as Well as Immediate Needs.

CABBAGE AND OTHER THINGS

Good Food Products Can Be Secured by the Amateur by a Little Labor and a Small Expenditure.

(By S. C. JOHNSTON, Vegetable Specialist, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Besides growing many vegetables for immediate use the backyard garden should produce some vegetables which can be stored for consumption during winter months. Some, of course, do not need to be planted as early as the plants which were described last week. Possibly a week should elapse from the time the lettuce is planted before these should be sown.

BEETS, CARROTS, PARSNIPS, AND SALSIFY.

These include the most important members of the root vegetables. They are usually grown for winter purposes, though beets and carrots are relished by many in their earlier stages of growth. All these demand practically the same attention. The seeds should be sown in straight rows at a depth of about three-quarters of an inch. When the plants have reached a height of two inches they should be carefully thinned out so that they stand, beets and parsnips three to four inches apart, carrots and salsify two or three inches apart. It will be found that the parsnips are very slow growers, and for this reason it is sometimes advisable to plant a few seeds of lettuce with the parsnip seeds so that they will serve as a marker. The young beet plants may be used as spring greens. It is necessary that the soil be cultivated at intervals during the summer months so that the crops may grow. They do not as a general rule require as heavy watering as some of the other vegetable crops. In the fall the beets should be pulled up and the tops twisted off close to the head, not cut off with a knife as in the case of carrots, parsnips, or salsify, which should have the tops cut about one-half inch from the roots preparatory to storing for winter use.

CORN. In planting corn holes about two or three inches deep should be made with a hoe. Five or six kernels of corn should be dropped in this and covered with soil, which should be gently firmed by tramping on it. When the shoots are about three inches high all excepting the three sturdiest should be pulled out. The soil should be drawn up around the stalks as they grow, to give them support. When the kernels on the cob appear full of milk they are ready to use. It is also a good practice to cultivate the soil often around the corn. Expert growers claim that the crops corn and cabbage faster and better when plenty of cultivation is given.

CABBAGE. Cabbage is one of the most widely grown vegetables. The cabbage plant requires a supply of moisture, and yet if the cabbage soil is too wet the plant will be injured. Cabbage does particularly well on new land, and some growers claim that the cabbage grows without an abundant supply of manure in the soil better than many other vegetables. It is considered a good practice for backyard gardeners to purchase plants which have been grown in hot-beds or hot-houses and transplant them directly into the permanent bed. This saves considerable trouble. It is necessary when setting cabbage plants to set them fairly deep so that they will not be whipped about by the wind. They may be set eighteen inches apart and there should be quite a good deal of soil around the roots. When they are ready to be set out a hole may be made with a dibber or a sharpened stick. The roots may be watered after they have been set. One of the most important features of growing cabbage consists in the attention given to cultivation of the soil. There may be some occasions when the head will split, this may be stopped or prevented if the head is taken in the hands and turned forcibly from one side to another.

CAULIFLOWER. The cauliflower is treated in much the same way as cabbage, the plants being grown and set out in the same manner outside. They are treated practically the same as cabbage until it is noticed that a little white flower has commenced to grow. The dry leaves of the plant should be brought together at the top and tied with a piece of string so that these little white flowers are protected from the rays of the sun and the rain. All cauliflower heads should be treated in this manner when they are about two inches in diameter.

BRUSSELS SPROUTS. Brussels sprouts are perhaps the most hardy of the cabbage family. If it is impossible to secure brussels sprouts plants a few seeds may be planted about May 15 at a depth of about one inch. These should be transplanted to the permanent bed about the 15th of June. They should be set eighteen inches in the row and two feet between the rows. It is well to keep the patch clean, and the surface soil should be stirred frequently. It is unnecessary to trim off the leaves as the plants grown in the garden.

SWISS CHARD. Swiss chard can be grown easily from seed, in rows twelve inches apart, the young plants being thinned to six or eight inches apart. The advantage of this plant is that the leaves may be pulled off close to the root and new leaves shoot up, which may be consumed during the season. The roots are used for greens and the stem of the leaf as asparagus. A few plants should be sufficient for a small family.

RETIRED FARMERS TO ANSWER CALL

The organization of resources committee interviewed A. J. Reynolds, Hampton; A. Gifford, Meaford; A. Elliott, Galt, retired farmers. These men advised the committee that many retired farmers were already assisting in seeding and will continue to do so to the limit of their ability. They also believe that there are many others who should be aroused to the need of increased food production, and that each retired farmer should be personally appealed to in each city, town and village of the Province by the local committees.

In this connection it is of interest to note that Carroll S. Vrooman, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture of the United States, in launching his campaign to enlist 750,000 new workers for farms, spoke of the retired farmers as the first source of supply and boys between the ages of 15 to 19 years as the second source.

The organization of resources received today a report from the Y. M. C. A. Boy Secretaries, who have been appealing for the committee to the high school boys to enter farm service. They report that 118 collegiate institutes, high schools, business colleges, continuation schools and normal schools were visited and the appeal made to enlist older boys for service on the farm. Also mayors, presidents of the boards of trade, and in fact every leading citizen agreed to give this committee their hearty and earnest co-operation.

Seventy-five per cent. of the boys who were present at these meetings signified their intention to devote their time and energy to more food production; 2,638 is the estimated total of those already enlisted, while 2,638 per cent. of the enrollment of the schools visited. Two noteworthy features were brought out in the campaign. First, that many of the boys had already arranged for their own employment; and, secondly, that the girls were just as earnest to do their share to help the cause.

The boys who enlist in this farm service will receive a bronze service button, which is oval in shape, with the words, "Farm Service Corps, 1917," prominently displayed, and the coat-of-arms of Ontario, a typical boy, the maple leaf and a wheat sheaf, rake and hoe appearing thereon.

Intense patriotic feeling has been aroused in the young men of the Province and they are responding nobly to the cause, giving up their educational work, better paying positions and their summer recreations.

PLANTING FRUIT TREES.

Care Should Be Taken Not to Set the Roots Too Deep in Soil.

The beginner in tree planting usually sets his trees too deep rather than too shallow in the relatively heavy soils of Missouri, J. C. Whitten of the Department of horticulture of the University of Missouri says.

"Young trees should be selected for planting, and they should be set at the same depth at which they stood in the nursery," Mr. Whitten said. "Trees turn to the northeast and grow crooked because of the warm south and southwest winds during the growing season. The tree should be set with the heavier side to the southwest to avoid this."

"The roots should be trimmed so as not to be cramped and any ragged wounds taken off. Peach trees should be pruned most severely after planting of any of the orchard fruits. Trim all branches off leaving a single whip; then shorten the whip to a height of about two and one-half feet. Cherry trees should be less severely trimmed. If well branched the center of the tree should be cut out. The Japanese plum tree should be shaped like the peach. Other plum, apple and pear trees, having only a single whip, should be treated likewise. Older trees may be treated like the cherry, with the exception that all branches may be shortened to one-half or one-third of their natural length."

WAY TO CONTROL THE OX WARBLE PEST

Injury by the ox warble amounting to millions of dollars annually could be reduced to almost nothing if stockmen would practice effective practical methods of control, according to G. A. Deau, professor of entomology in the Kansas Agricultural college.

The presence of the ox warble is detected by passing the hand over the back of the animal. The warble may be destroyed by putting kerosene, turpentine or mercurial ointment in or on the opening through the skin directly over the grubs. This treatment should be given when the grubs appear on the backs of cattle, because if the grubs become tough before being killed they are likely to cause sores.

The Aberdeen-Angus breed of cattle have been popular with feeders and butchers. When matured and fattened they show form almost always symmetrical and not bunched as is the case with other breeds. The bull shown is an Aberdeen-Angus.

If the opening through the skin is very small it should be enlarged with a smooth, pointed stick. A machinist's oil can having a slender nozzle furnished an excellent method of applying the medicine. This treatment may be applied rapidly by running the cattle through a chute, with one man stationed on each side provided with an oil can filled with the medicine.

The cattle should be examined from fifteen to twenty days later, and any grubs that escape the first treatment should be squeezed out and crushed. It is important that any grubs squeezed out should be destroyed, else they will transform into adult flies.

The ox warble is one of the worst enemies of cattle, especially in the grazing sections. It is sometimes called botfly and hefly and is also often spoken of as a grub.

In general appearance and size the adult fly, like many other botflies, resembles the common honeybee. It is half an inch long, black and covered with yellowish white and reddish brown and black hairs.

In the spring from the latter part of March to the 1st of May the flies appear about the cattle, laying their eggs upon the legs, especially in the region just above the hoof. It is from this habit of placing the eggs near the heels that they get the name of hefly in the west and southwest.

In 1915 it was estimated that 60 per cent of the cattle in Kansas were infected with warbles. The annual financial loss on damaged hides alone is now estimated for the United States at from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000.

Corn Experiment Lesson.

In experiments with corn at the Pennsylvania state college during the last few years heavy seed gave a little better field germination and a little better yield than light seed. Seed from ears which germinated quickly gave a slightly better field germination. Seed selected on the stalk germinated better than seed selected at husking time in an outdoor test, for the single year for which the record was kept. Seed selected at husking in three years' trials, for some unaccountable reason, gave the better field germination. The yields were about alike.

Renew the Litter.

Straw, hay, alfalfa, chaff, leaves and cut corn stover all make good litters. Shavings and sawdust are not best because they tend to pack and also hold dampness. Regardless of the kind of litter used, it should be renewed frequently and never allowed to become badly contaminated with droppings.

CONTROL OF GARDEN INSECTS.

The Entomological Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture will issue early in May Circular No. 9 on "Common Garden Insects and their Control." This publication includes an account of the more important insect pests of the vegetable and flower garden. It has been prepared for wide distribution at this time when everywhere throughout Canada efforts are being earnestly made to increase the production of vegetable foods, etc., in back yards, vacant lots and other areas near cities and towns. The remedial measures for controlling the common destructive species and also formulae for the making of the chief insecticides are given. For easy reference the insects are grouped under the crop or flowering plants they infest. Gardeners will find this publication a most useful means for solving many troubles that will arise. Application for this Entomological Circular No. 9 should be made to the Chief of the Publication Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Insects concerning which further information is desired should be sent with a covering letter to the Dominion Entomologist, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Packages and letters so addressed up to 11 ounces in weight may be forwarded free of postage.

Queer Sources of Food.

Strange foods, such as potato flour, artificial protein cakes, green bonedust preparations, tabloid soups, pudding powders and other unusual things, have come into use during the war, says a writer in the New York Sun, and their adoption serves to remind us that much good food material is neglected in ordinary use. Only a few people eat snails; most of us would starve amidst plenty of locusts; and the thought of snakes as food would give those who call themselves civilized the shudders.

But unusual food, once become familiar, is often relished. Col. Roosevelt, the best work from his men on his African expedition by promising them raw steaks from slaughtered rhinoceroses and hippopotamuses. Capt. Bartlett, who carried Stefansson to the Arctic waters, found raw polar bear flesh more appetizing than anything he had eaten at home.

Frenchmen eat snails, rats are sold in the Chinese markets, and dog steaks cost there more than mutton. Some Arctic tribes prefer to have their fish deboned before eating them, and even then perhaps they smell no worse than Limburger or Brie cheese. South Americans eat lizards, and mares' milk is a favorite Russian beverage. Truly, "there is no accounting for tastes."

What a Mockery is War.

As the British armies were moving forward for the beginning of the big offensive which commenced on Easter Monday, the people of neighboring districts were assembling for prayer. Penetrated, trudged to Mass beside dusty covered columns of khaki and guns, or knelt in little village churches while aeroplanes fought deadly duels overhead. In the little villages behind the battle lines, the bells of the French churches were ringing gladly because the Lord had risen, and on the altar steps the priests were reciting the splendid old words of faith: "I am arisen, and I say unto thee always Alleluia."

No Doubt About the Surprise.

An Indiana farmer, bringing his produce to town, had found the market high for the first time in several years, and when he was ready to go home his pockets were bulging with coin. Then he recalled how his wife had goaded him to buy some new clothes and he had felt he couldn't afford them. He looked at his worn shoes his frayed trousers, his faded coat, chuckled, and said: "I guess I'll surprise Eliza." Going in the general store, the farmer bought an outfit, put the bundle under the seat of his wagon, and drove away, wearing his old togs.

A mile from home he left the wagon, where a convenient bridge crossed the creek, set the bundle of clothes down on the floor of the bridge, and slipped under the structure to remove the old garments. One by one he threw them into the creek—shoes, trousers, coat and hat—and watched them float down current. Then he reached around the corner and over his head for the new togs.

They were gone. A cloud of dust down the road suggested that they were not likely to return soon. The farmer waited until the sun went down, then climbed to the wagon seat in jaundiced humility, and, as he cracked his whip at the horses, remarked: "Well, I guess I'll surprise Eliza, anyhow." Judge.

BULLECOURT IS TAKEN

Brilliant Operation Gained the Greater Part of Town.

General Haig's Troops Breaking the Hindenburg Line Patiently and Deliberately, Only Advancing Against Strong German Defences After British Artillery Has Flattened Them Out.

LONDON, May 14.—Concentrated on a front of seven or eight miles the British troops during Friday night and Saturday morning made a brilliant attack on the Hindenburg line from Bullecourt northwards as the Arras-Cambrai road to the north of the Scarpe east of Fampoux. The troops established themselves in Bullecourt, where hundreds of prisoners were taken; and continuing the offensive on Sunday after desperate fighting possessed themselves of most of the village. A German position on the Arras-Cambrai road, about two-thirds of a mile wide, as well as a mile and a half of trench system near Roux, have been taken, and the British occupy the western section of Roux.

It is evident there is not much left of the famous Hindenburg line which was broken at Vimy, broken at Venduile, on the Cambrai-St. Quentin Canal, broken by the French between La Fere and St. Quentin, and lastly, broken at Bullecourt. What there is left, however, is of wonderfully strong construction and could not be taken at once in a general assault, except at such a terrible cost of lives that victory would be almost as disastrous as defeat.

Hence General Haig's taking it piecemeal, patiently and deliberately, only after every "push" has been preceded by artillery preparation which has flattened out the Prussian defences and abolished the communicating trenches so that the men in the forward dugouts have often been without food or supplies for two and three days at a time.

Estimates last week regarding the Prussian losses were entirely too low, and there have been substantial additions during the last seven days. They are now stated to be nearer 310,000, of which about 50,000 prisoners have been counted on both fronts, about 200,000 are believed to have been seriously wounded and 60,000 to have been killed in action—an unusually large proportion owing to the desperate nature of the Prussian counter-attacks in dense formation, attempting by sheer weight of men to regain lost positions.

Bullecourt has been the centre of these repeated assaults ever since the Australians pushed their way into it last Monday. The Hindenburg line ran through the village, which was honeycombed with parallel trenches, communicating lines of defences and dugouts, the whole being most strongly fortified. In the vicinity is a small wood which was a nest of machine-gun positions. The wood was first thoroughly shelled till only broken boles of trees remained.

Then the Australians carried it with a rush and pushed into the village which they have held with bulldog tenacity against assaults of liquid fire, boiling oil and other unpleasant accompaniments of Prussian attacks. Sunday's advance here was made possible chiefly through their valor and determination. Riencourt, about a mile and a half away, is the immediate objective of the move, and the Wotan or Drocourt-Queant line half a mile further on is gravely menaced at its southern end.

Little has appeared about the situation at Lens during the week, but the British line around it is being gradually extended until it is more than half encircled. The British are in the suburbs of the Cite St. Pierre and the Cite Jeanne d'Arc on the north-west, hold Lievin securely on the west and on the south last Wednesday captured a hamlet called La Coulotte, just west of Avion.

Lens still has one means of receiving supplies by the railway which runs from a loop below the town north-east of Lille. This junction is just north of Avion, which is only a mile and a half from La Coulotte, so that there is every prospect that with their methodical advance this source of supply will soon be cut off and the important coal centre of Lens be in British hands.

Too Many Orders.

PETROGRAD, May 14.—General Korniloff, commander of the Petrograd garrison, who arrested the former Empress Alexandra, resigned Sunday. The general explained to an interviewer that his resignation was due to an impossible position arising from the efforts of various organizations to control the garrison, and added, "Well, then, let them take the responsibility."

The last straw which led to the commander's resignation was the demand made Saturday by the executive committee of the Council of Soldiers and Workmen's delegates that all Korniloff's orders should be presented to the committee for its endorsement. Gen. Korniloff will go to the front to command one of the armies.

Hurled Many Shells.

ALMONTE.

From the Gazette.

Mr. G. B. Horton is spending a few days in Toronto this week.

A load of young people from town drove to Carleton Place on Tuesday evening and were entertained at the home of Miss Lor Dunlop.

The flag was at half-mast on Saturday for the late Pte. S. Fisher, who had been killed in action.

Mr. M. R. McFarlane is in Toronto this week, as examiner for the College of Pharmacy examinations.

Two young people, Mr. Hugh Featherstone, and Miss Alma Lodge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guli Lodge of Armpror, motored to Almonte on Wednesday, and were quietly married at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. W. H. Stevens.

Mr. Maxwell, cattle buyer, left his car at the Davis House on Wednesday, when a boy named Craig came along, entered the car and started for a ride. He only went a short distance when a collision occurred and the car was pretty badly damaged. Chief Constable Coulter took the matter up, but as he could not get a magistrate who would act on the case, he got the affair settled by the father of the boy agreeing to make good the damage done.

Mrs. M. J. Macfarlane received further word this week regarding the wounding of her brother, Pte. Jas. Greig. He was wounded on April 1st, a gunshot wound through the left side, above the hip. He lay in a shell hole thirty-five hours in the snow and rain, with no one near him, except eight Germans in another shell hole three feet away working a machine gun, and a German sniper walking up and down, passing him every minute or two. He fully expected a bayonet thrust or to be shot any minute. Pte. Greig was taken to an Australian hospital in France, where he had two operations. On April 19th he was admitted to the Birmingham hospital, where he is receiving every attention and good treatment. He is also suffering from trench foot and says they seem worse than the wound.

The report presented to the shareholders of the Kir-Ben Limited at the annual meeting held last week was somewhat of a surprise. The reports for former years were of an encouraging character, and it was generally believed that the business was going along in a satisfactory manner, but unfortunately such had not been the case as shown by the audit prepared by a chartered accountant. A committee of shareholders was appointed at the meeting to act in conjunction with the directors to prepare a full and correct statement of the affairs of the company. The investigation had not gone very far, however, when it was decided to close down the works for the present, and Messrs. Kirby and Bennett left on Monday, and Mr. T. J. Reid, secretary-treasurer of the company, was placed in charge.

ONTARIO AFFAIRS.

Toronto, May 12.—These are days of new things and a new sort of political convention was the gathering of Liberal women from all parts of the province in Toronto on May 11th for the annual meeting of the Ontario Women's Liberal Association. There was no sign of awkwardness or inexperience either in the Executive handling of the sessions nor in the range and depth of the subjects discussed. Women's training in other societies is standing here in good stead in these larger responsibilities that have been placed upon her.

The morning session was devoted to business and to the discussion of public problems and a luncheon at noon was followed by a public meeting with Mr. Newton Rowell and Dr. Michael Clark, M.P., from Red Deer, as the chief speakers. Among the places represented by delegates at the conference were: Paris, Brampton, Caledonia, North Bay, Kitchener, Wellington, Lindsay, Picton, Hamilton, Dunnville, Beamsville, Guelph, Strathroy, Bowmanville, London, Collingwood, Drumbo, Woodstock, and a number of others.

Among the topics discussed in the morning were "After the War, What?" and "Production." Mrs. Henry Carpenter said, "Let us adopt the slogan 'Stand behind the flag with this hoe.'" Mrs. David Williams of Collingwood proposed that women should stop using cake.

Mrs. Robert Glasgow referred to the Patronage system as "the stalk on which grow the beautiful blossoms of graft."

"Too many representatives," she said, "are so much afraid of their Party and of their constituents that they don't speak of the highest things that are in their mind. Let us show them that we are not afraid of them if they develop statesmanship."

Mrs. George Law of Drumbo explained the motives that led to the organization of Liberal women in that village. "Drumbo Liberal women," she said, "organized to study and to learn how to be of service to the community. We want the country to be better because we are there."

Mrs. Rowell thought that whether women were Liberals or Conservatives they must all have a more serious purpose now than ever before. "If the women would stand behind the best things the success of the best would be assured."

Mrs. J. M. Godfrey in discussing the work of the Association said that true Liberalism meant the liberation of spiritual energy. "Surely," she said, "we should strive to make the political arena as clean as our own homes."

Mrs. J. A. Macdonald was re-elected President of the Association and Mrs. Margaret Hyslop was appointed Organizing Secretary.

Dr. Michael Clark gave a scholarly and inspiring address on the war with references also to the tariff. Mr. Rowell in addition to discussing problems relating to the war referred to the race track evil, quoted from Detroit papers showing how Detroit deplored the going of their young men across the river to Windsor to gamble at the race meetings.

TORONTO LIBERALISM REVIVES.

Whether it is increased public seriousness arising from the war or a revived interest in public affairs, owing to Woman Suffrage, or a combination of these and other causes, a political transformation is occurring in Toronto, evidenced particularly by changes in the Liberal Party there. For a number of years the Liberal Party locally in the capital was neither as strong nor as admirable as it should have been. Within the last few months, however, evidence is accumulating that citizens, men and women alike of the very highest type are commencing to take an interest in practical public affairs as applied in Toronto City Riding Associations.

The latest sign of this stimulating development is the election and acceptance as President of the newly formed Parkdale Provincial Riding Association of Mr. S. J. Moore. Mr. Moore is an outstanding business man; one who has been a leader in all movements, social, economic and religious, for the good of the community. Mr. Mark Breen, another gentleman of the highest type is President of the new North East Toronto Provincial Liberal Association and for the South West Riding there is Mr. G. G. S. Lindsey also one of the leading citizens of Toronto. Associated with these leaders are large groups of men and women representing varied interests in the city, all co-operating in public affairs and exercising their responsibilities of citizenship particularly in these critical times of the war when every man and woman in some capacity should serve the state.

SHELLED U-BOAT BASE

Naval and Aerial Units Co-operated in Attack.

Reports From Rotterdam Say That It Was the Most Destructive Bombardment That Zebrugge Has Experienced—Even German Official Admits "Slight Material Damage Was Done."

LONDON, May 14.—A naval and aerial bombardment of the German submarine base of Zebrugge, on the Belgian coast, was, according to reports received here from Rotterdam, the most destructive yet made by British warships.

Two submarine sheds were blown up. Sixty-three persons were killed and upwards of a hundred others were taken to hospitals.

An official statement issued Sunday evening by the British Admiralty says:

"A very heavy bombardment of the important area at Zebrugge was successfully carried out Saturday morning by a portion of our forces under orders of the Dover vice-admiral.

"The Royal Naval Air Service rendered valuable co-operation and over 15 aerial combats occurred, in which four enemy machines were destroyed and others were driven down out of control."

"Two of our machines failed to return. One of these descended in Dutch territory and was interned."

"Enemy monitors, during foggy weather early Saturday morning, shelled Zebrugge from a great distance," says an official statement issued today by the German admiralty. "Our batteries replied. There was no loss of life. Slight material damage was done."

CROWN PRINCE BEATEN.

Attacks on the French Line Were Repulsed.

PARIS, May 14.—Troops commanded by the German Crown Prince Sunday morning launched several violent attacks against the French lines on the Champagne front, north of Rheims, on the plateau south of Craonne and in the region of Maisons-de-Champagne. The statement issued Sunday afternoon by the French War Office says all the German attacks were smashed by the French artillery and rifle fire, the Germans suffering heavy losses.

The text of the statement follows: "Lively activity was shown by both armies in the course of the night between the Somme and the Oise as well as on the Aisne front."

"This morning the enemy delivered violent attacks on the plateau of Craonne, north of Rheims, and in the region of Maisons-de-Champagne. All these attacks were broken up by our artillery and infantry fire, and the Germans were pushed back after suffering heavy losses. We made some prisoners."

"On May 11 our pursuit airplanes fought numerous engagements, in which seven German machines, brought down by our pilots, were entirely destroyed. Seven others, severely damaged, fell inside their own lines."

Russian Soldiers Desert.

LONDON, May 14.—The Times' Odessa correspondent, telegraphing under date of May 9, says a great impression has been created by a recent speech of General Alexis Brusiloff, commander-in-chief of the Russian armies on the south-western front, complaining of the serious shortcomings of the army and deploring the agitation for a premature peace, the relaxation in discipline, the number of desertions from the army, and the tendency of the Russian soldiers to fraternize with the enemy.

General Brusiloff, says the correspondent, declared that the enemy had tempted the Russian soldiers by offering them vodka and had tried to deceive them with proclamations. He added that the desertions were having a baneful influence in the armies' rear, along the railroads and in villages, and that if the army's discipline was continued it must entail the ruin of Russia.

Food Outlook in Germany.

LONDON, May 14.—Herr von Batoeki, the German food dictator, admitted in a speech that the crops were disappointing in Turkey, Bulgaria, Hungary, and the occupied parts of Roumania and admitted that American co-operation with England to prevent food reaching Germany through neutrals ends all hope of help from this source, which has been considerable. As heretofore, Herr von Batoeki insisted that the country would pass through this year's crisis until the harvest, but he said it would be a hard task.

The speech made a profound impression throughout Germany, and was considered the most pessimistic authoritative utterance yet. The people consider it preliminary to a further rigorous cutting down of food, which cannot be sustained without destroying the working capacity of millions of people.

Appeals to Strikers.

LONDON, May 14.—Dr. Christopher Addison, Munitions Minister, Saturday publicly appealed to striking munition plant engineers to resume work immediately and contribute their "bit" towards the British successes on the West front.

Dr. Addison pointed out that the recent British successes had resulted in urgent demands for great increases in supplies of all kinds, especially large-calibre shells.

Senator Dr. Sproule was operated upon at Owen Sound.

ONLY a little over a week until Victoria Day. Why not get your Ford Touring Car and learn to drive it before that, and give your family a real day's outing? The real motoring season is here, and what could be more pleasant than a drive through the country next month? Motor Cars drive dull care away. Woman's work is monotonous, and they are entitled to much more consideration than most get.

It is not only the first cost of a Ford Car ($517 at your door), but it's extremely low maintenance cost that counts. It's performance on hills, and in sand and mud is marvellous.

It's well known durability and dependability in the hands of over one million owners has earned for it the title of "The World's greatest Motor car value."

Incidentally you might compare the price of Ford parts with other cars.

You cannot get as much at the same price and very little more at any price in other cars.

The time payment plan on Ford Cars permits any responsible party to get their car at once. It is a very easy satisfactory way. Let us explain it to you.

Drop in and see our new fire proof Garage any time, you will be welcome.

New Austrian Emperor Read Prayer in Public At Peace Demonstration

THE Vienna correspondent of an Amsterdam paper sends an impressive account of a solemn peace service held in St. Stephen's recently, the Austrian Emperor and Empress Zita kneeling amid high officials and the sobbing congregation which crowded the edifice, imploring peace.

Cardinal Piffli officiated, and at the elevation of the host Emperor Charles in a loud voice read the prayer as follows:

"Almighty God, who hast promised us that the patient shall taste abundant peace, Thou knowest what patience we observed toward our enemies until righteous self-defence compelled us to draw the sword.

"In the midst of this war, thus forced upon us, we recognize the blessings of peace. We beseech Thee, knowing our impotence, yet trusting Thee, although we have often spurned Thy grace, Lord, oh, give peace to our land.

"The ruler and people of Austria, kneeling this day before Thy holy throne, promise to build a church dedicated to Our Lady the Queen of Peace, where a solemn service will be held every year to commemorate peace day and a requiem mass on All Souls' Day for Austria's fallen warriors. O Lord, bless this undertaking and grant us peace in our days.

Such events as this great service are signs that indicate how close is the debacle of the Central Powers. Yet Canadians will be struck with the universal irony of the prayer. The Patient Hapsburg, forsooth!

In 1909 the patient Hapsburg, by means of documents forged by an employee of the Austro-Hungarian Legation at Belgrade, invented a "conspiracy" of Serbo-Croatians, aided by the Serbian Government, against Austria-Hungary. The truth was exposed in the famous Friedjung trial. It never would have been exposed, divers Croats and Serbs would have been shot, Serbia would have been invaded and gobbled up, if Russia had not yielded to the German ultimatum, which forced Russia to accept the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina by Austria and to leave Serbia in the lurch.

In 1913 the patient Hapsburg proposed to make war on Serbia, as was officially stated in the Italian Parliament in 1915.

The patience of the Hapsburg toward Serbia, his long-awaited prey, in 1914 is known to the world.

Two Zeppelin Stories.

Two more stories from a recent zeppelin raid. When the worst was over, a resident went out into the town to see what damage had been done. In the darkness he heard a group of women talking loudly, and judging them a clue not to be neglected, he followed them along an entry into the back yard of a house. The debate never ceased, but he was unable to get the hang of it until one of the women—the most eloquent—appealed directly to him. "Ere," she said, "do you call it fair? T' bomb dropped in our yard, an' a bobby's gone and took it away—never even give me a receipt for it. It's a bomb."

The next-door neighbor of a railway guard noticed that that official had a look of intense weariness, and gently sought to find out the cause. "It's like this," said the guard. "I hadn't been long asleep when the buzzer went, and up jumps the missis, makes the tea, and gives me my breakfast. I got to the station before I found out that the buzzer was for an air raid in the middle of the night."

A Barometer of Health.

The tongue quickly betrays all disturbances in the economy of the body. In health it is clean, moderately red in color, and moist. When it is furred or "coated" it indicates fever, some impurity in the mouth, or trouble with the digestive organs. If fever be the cause the temperature of the body will be above the normal, 98½ degrees Fahrenheit. It is easy to determine if bad teeth are at fault, points out the Family Doctor. If these be all right, seek for the source of the trouble in the stomach. Constipation will produce a bad breath and a furred tongue. With nervous diseases a dry tongue is a sign of nervous depression; and a pale, flabby tongue indicates an anemic condition.

Mrs. Malaprop in an Air-raid

THAT the redoubtable Mrs. Malaprop, with her charming array of misused terms, did not pass with Sheridan, is evidenced by a recent account appearing in Tit-Bits, purporting to be a recital of the incidents of an air-raid as it would be done by that gay and affable lady. She has lost none of her ease at inept expression, even though the shock of the zeppelin's visit was disturbing, and though, it may be surmised, most of her nerves were considerably unstrung. We gather a full realization of this deadly instance of Teuton frightfulness when we hear the dear lady remark:

"I am not, my dear Lydia, congenially nervous, but ever since this terrible catechism has overwhelmed Europe I have been a prey to torpid apprehensions. Thinking that dissection was, after all, the better part of valor, I consulted the place-names in a gazetteer and removed my household penances—pardon this classical illusion—to a quiet provisional town fifty miles from the busy metropolis. Here, I facilitated myself, no zeppelins were likely to perpetuate their murderous deeds. My conclusions have proved sadly farinaceous. I have just precipitated in a zeppelin raid that may be hysterical in days to come. As I do not wish to be paralyzed by the censor, I refrain from giving exquisite geographical details, and will content myself with a general perversion of the alarming experience I have had.

"I had retired to bed about ten o'clock on Saturday night, when I was thrown into a state of permutation by the sound of some powerful meemierism traveling through the air. I had just raised a pious partition that this might not be a hostile airship, when my solidity was broken in upon by a loud tabu on my bedroom door. With frenzy eligible in her face, my maid Jane entered. Imperiled as she was in white robes hastily snatched from her bedclothes, she looked like Casabianca predicting the fall of ancient Troy. She declared that a zeppelin of compendious size was cruising overhead.

"I hastily dressed, and illuminated every peep of light in the house. Then, in darkness, and trembling with aggravation, we slipped out to the front porch to await possible devilements. We could easily make out the general outline of a giant airship, cynical in shape, with blunted ends. Beneath the huge body we could dimly descry the gorgonzolas that hold the wicked evaders. One of their terrible missives fell near our house, exploding with a deafening discussion and a dazzling polytechnical display. Lydia dear, must have been edible in London itself. I rushed with Jane—both of us on the verge of asterisks—to the seller beneath the kitchen. Five times in all we heard bombs explode with ear-splitting fumigations. Then the door-bell was rung perennially by a special constable, who cautioned us for leaving the front door open. He told us that the chief damage done was wrought on a three-story temperament that had been struck by a defamatory bomb. The local fire-brigade had been moralized to deal with this confabulation.

"Plucking up courage, we posted ourselves at an upper window, from which we had a pantomimic view of the heavens. The spectacle was one that roused my marital spirit. Shells were bursting around the monster, and cavalcades of little stars streamed like meters down the sky. Some of our gallant little monograms, too, had appeared on the scene, and were flying above the zeppelin at an amazing attitude. The enemy, realizing that the situation was vicarious, was seeking to escape, but his object was frustrated. Suddenly an anonymous cheer from the onlookers announced a hit. With astonishing felicity, tongues of flame began to leap from the monster's body, and within a few minutes the great vessel was in a hopelessly inebriate condition—its stem being broken. It fell from the skies, as Shakespeare says, 'like Luther, never to rise again.'

"In the morning I visited the scene along with hundreds of others in quest of mementos. The field where the wreck fell was strewn with half-insinuated material that was being sifted by a savage corps of military. I was lucky in securing a fairly large piece of that light metal albumen, which I have ordered to be made into two immature drinking-cups. One of these I shall send you, dear Lydia, as an intangible remembrance of our escape."

Cockatoo Island.

In the new Government dock on Cockatoo Island Sydney Harbor possesses a unique ship berth. It is hewn out of solid rock. The formation of the island was originally quite unsuitable for a dockyard, as the rock rose sheer from the water to a height of fifty to seventy feet. This was gradually cut back, first to permit the building of graving docks and later to make room for building slips and shops near water-level. The work has been continued until at present two-thirds of the total area of thirty-three acres has been brought to a practically uniform level of about fifteen feet above high tide.

A Valuable Cow.

"Beauty Maid," a four-year-old cow belonging to A. Boyle, of "The Firs," just outside Woodstock, holds the record for the whole of Canada in the matter of butter yield. Under Government test from January 28, 1916, to January 24, 1917, she gave 14,852 pounds of milk, which yielded 872 pounds of butter fat. The butter equivalent of this was 1,090 pounds in a year. The next best record for a four-year-old cow is slightly under 1,000.

KAISER DECIDED IT.

Ruled Shortening of Lines Would Weaken Moral Position.

I think I am now at liberty to tell you something few people in the world would be able to tell you. C. W. Barron, who formerly had the confidence of certain Teutonic authorities, writes in The Boston Post. In the latter part of last year there was an important conference of German military leaders on their Western frontier. The General Staff had figured out that if the German defences were removed from the line of the Somme to the heights of the Meuse, 400,000 men could be transferred elsewhere or held in reserve. This conference was presided over by the Emperor. Von Hindenburg was brought up from the southeastern front for his opinion, while another great German general advocated the plan of the General Staff.

Von Hindenburg said: "We do not need 400,000 men in the southeast or elsewhere." The reply was: "Unless you retire now, you will not be able to get the 400,000 men when you do need them. Why not shorten your lines and thereby increase your reserves?"

The Kaiser decided the conference with the declaration: "Four hundred thousand men are of less importance to us than the maintenance of popular support, which would be weakened by any drawing in of our lines." The Prussians have clamored for the last weapon of defence—ruthless submarine warfare—to strike terror to old England. The zeppelins failed. The promised indemnity from Paris failed. The attempt on the Channel ports failed. The attempt to weaken the union of the Allies failed. The Roumanian wheat supplies were burned and the Roumanian oil wells were dynamited ahead of the German invaders. The proposals for a peace dictated by Germany failed.

And now the German submarines attack the world's commerce, not as an effective weapon of offence or defence, but to satisfy German sentiment and keep the Hohenzollerns in power.

The Russian Hymn.

It was the strains of Rouget de Lisle's "Marseillaise" that ushered in the revolution in Russia, but the "Marseillaise" though sung the world over, is the French national song, and Russia will want one of her own. Probably the opinion of Mme. Folia Letvinne, the great Russian singer, on the matter is sound. She advises that the music of the "Boje Tsaria Khrani" shall continue to be the great national air, because, she says, nothing could better express the mysticism, the idealism, and the immensity of Russia. As for the words, of course they will have to be changed, but, and here Madame Letvinne is undoubtedly right: "Do not ask one of our Russian professionals to find new words, wait: let them spring naturally from the lips of a moujik fighting for his country; then, and not till then, our new hymn will be born."

Only a few weeks ago Madame Letvinne was singing the "Boje Tsaria Khrani" in the Russian sector on the French front. "I will sing the new song with great joy when it comes," she says; "but," she adds, "I cannot forget that I was singer to the Russian Imperial Court, and that the Tsar of yesterday was ever the artist's true friend." No one will think any the less of Madame Letvinne for remembering these things.

Italy's Unique Soldiers.

Italy has some of the most efficient and most picturesque soldiers in the world. They are divided into four classes, the Bersaglieri, the Alpini, the carabinieri, and the navy. Recently the men of the third category were called to the colors. This means that the Alpine troops of the first category, made up of first-choice men for the regular army, and the second category, men assigned to the regular army, but with "unlimited leave," have been exhausted, and now those men are to be drilled who, exempt for various reasons from active service, are to be assigned to the national militia for home defense.

The Bersaglieri are light infantry of great mobility. They are always seen on the run, and their picturesque costume, with low-crowned, plumed hat, is a feature of almost every Italian landscape.

The Alpini are specially trained to maneuver among the northern mountains, and their target practice consists in sharpshooting across the vast open spaces, where the atmospheric conditions would confuse the soldier of the lowlands. As to the carabinieri, experts have said that that of Italy is the finest in the world.

Besides these unique corps, there are the famous Carabinieri or national police.

A Slav Prophet.

A correspondent, in a letter to the Manchester Guardian, in England, records an interesting statement made by Stepiak, the great Russian revolutionary, which is worth quoting. When he first met Stepiak, in 1889, the writer says, he asked what real prospect there was of any revolution in Russia. The reply was: "A great European war will be our chance. It will show the bureaucracy to be quite incapable of managing the affairs of the nation in a crisis." This prediction, the correspondent points out, was partly verified by the events in 1905, when Russia took her "necessary first step towards freedom." It has certainly been fully realized in 1917.

Persian Bread.

The Persian native bread to-day is very little different from that used a thousand years ago. The Persian oven is built of smooth masonry-work in the ground, and is usually about the size of a barrel; many of them have been used for a century. The dough is formed into thin sheets about a foot long and two feet wide and slapped against the side of the oven. It bakes in a few minutes.

Be Cheerful.

A splendid slogan is: "Be cheerful!" We sometimes forget that the attitude of mind is to a large extent a matter of choice. By overlooking faults in others and searching for good points, a big start is made on the road to "Cheerfulness."

Cheerfulness is not the result of outside influences. You have known people who suffered adversities of many sorts, including poverty, and whose faces radiated happiness and contentment. You have known, too, many persons whose life seemed sheltered from trouble and discomforts, and yet who seemed to have lost the capacity of cheerfulness, but were nothing more or less than discontented grouches.

It is more pleasant to be cheerful than discontented and grouchy, so why not keep the slogan in mind: "Be Cheerful!" The very robins these days are singing: "Cheer up, cheer up, cheerily."

Three hundred miles more of railway trackage is asked for from Canada for the west front, and 200 hundred miles of G.T.P. track west of Edmonton where it parallels the C.N.R. will at once be pulled up and sent.

QUEER HUMAN NATURE.

How the Significance of Words May Change With the Years.

How the same word may have a different significance for the same man at different stages of his life is given in the following from the New York Post, as adapted and expanded from the French in the Paris Figaro:

Life.—At twenty: Days that are coming. At fifty: Days that are going.

The Heart.—At twenty: An organ whose frequent palpitations are due to strong emotion. At fifty: An organ whose frequent palpitations are due to indigestion.

The Truth.—At twenty: Something to be flaunted in the face of the whole world. At fifty: Something it is not always politic to tell.

Poetry.—At twenty: Something you read with eagerness and enthusiasm. At fifty: Something to quote.

Time.—At twenty: You imagine you never have enough of it. Therefore are always in a hurry. At fifty: You know you never have enough of it. Therefore never hurry.

A Muffler.—At twenty: A protection for one's dress shirt. At fifty: A protection for what is under one's dress shirt.

The Hair.—At twenty: You shake it back off your forehead. At fifty: Comb it carefully down across your forehead.

Key.—At twenty: A contrivance used to open things with. At fifty: A contrivance used to shut things with.

Wouldn't Need It.

Ethel was going to a party at a neighbor's house where she had already caught tantalizing glimpses of unlimited quantities of cake, fruit and fees. At the last mother inconsiderately held her back for final instructions. "Now, remember, darling, to say 'Yes, please,' and 'No, thank you.'"

"Oh, yes, mother," Ethel said. "I shall always say 'Yes, please,' but I don't think I shall have to say 'No, thank you.'"

Woman.

A woman may be a fool—a sleepy fool, an agitated fool, a too awfully noxious fool—and she may even be simply stupid. But she is never dense. She's never made of wood through and through, as some men are. There is in woman, always somewhere, a spring. Whatever men don't know about women (and it may be a lot or it may be very little), men and even fathers do know that much. And that is why so many men are afraid of them.—Conrad.

"An Englishman, Caesar says—an Englishman, who insists on seeing me—very important." Koch bit the end of one stubby thumb in hurried thought. He suddenly whipped open the door of one of the instrument cases, pulled out a stethoscope and hooked the two little black receivers into his ears. Then he turned to Woodhouse.

"Quick! Off with your coat and open your shirt. You are a patient; I am just examining you when interrupted. This may be one of those clumsy English secret service men, and I might need your alibi." The sound of an opening door beyond the folding doors and of footsteps in the adjoining room. "You say you are sleepless at night?" Dr. Koch was talking English. "And you have a temperature on arising?" "Hm'm! This under your tongue, if you please"—he thrust a clinical thermometer between Woodhouse's lips; the latter already had his coat off and was unbuttoning his shirt. Koch gave him a meaningful glance and disappeared between the folding doors, closing them behind him.

Minutes slipped by. The captain still nursed the clinical thermometer. The mumble and muttering continued to sound through the closed doors. Suddenly the high whine of the unseen visitor was raised in excitement. Came clearly through to Woodhouse's ears his passionate declaration:

"But I tell you you've got to recognize me. My number's 1932. My ticket was stolen out of the head of my cane somewhere between Paris and Alexandria. But I got it all right—got it from the Wilhelmstrasse direct, with orders to report to Dr. Emil Koch in Alexandria!"

Capper! Capper, who was to be betrayed to the firing squad in Malta after his Wilhelmstrasse ticket had passed from his possession! Capper on the job!

Woodhouse hurried every foot pound of his will to hear into his ears. He caught Koch's gruff answer: "Young man, you're talking madness. You're talking to a loyal British subject. I know nothing about your Wilhelmstrasse or your number. If I did not think you were drunk I'd have you held here, to be turned over to the military as a spy. Now, go before I change my mind."

Again the querulous protestation of Capper, met by the doctor's peremptory order. The captain heard the front door close. A long wait and Dr. Koch's black beard, with the surmounting eyes of thick glass, appeared at a parting of the folding doors. Woodhouse, the tiny thermometer still sticking absurdly from his mouth, met the basilisk stare of those two ovals of glass with a coldly casual glance. He removed the thermometer from between his lips and read it, with a smile, as if that were part of playing a game. Still the ghastly stare from the glass eyes over the bristling beard, searching—searching.

"Well," Woodhouse said lightly, "no need of an alibi evidently."

Dr. Koch stepped into the room with the lightness of a cat, walked to a desk drawer at one side and fumbled there a second, his back to his guest. When he turned he held a short-barreled automatic at his hip. The muzzle covered the shirt-sleeved man in the chair.

"Much need—for an alibi—from you!" Dr. Koch croaked, his voice dry and flat with rage. "Much need, Mr. 1932. Commence your explanation immediately, for this minute my temptation is strong—very strong—to shoot you for the dog you are."

"Is this—ah, customary?" Woodhouse twiddled the tiny mercury tube between his fingers and looked unflinchingly at the small, round mouth of the automatic. "Do you make a practice of consulting a friend with a revolver at your hip?"

"You heard—what was said in there?" Koch's forehead was curiously ridged and flushed with much blood. "Did you ask me to listen? Surely, my dear doctor, you have provided doors that are sound proof. If I may suggest, isn't it about time that you explain this melodrama?" The captain's voice was cold. His lips were drawn to a thin line. Koch's big head moved from side to side with a gesture curiously like that of a bull about to charge, but knowing not where his enemy stands. He blurted out:

"For your information, if you did not overhear: An Englishman comes just now to address me familiarly as of the Wilhelmstrasse. He comes to say he was sent to report to me; that his number in the Wilhelmstrasse is 1932—1932, remember—and I am to give him orders. Please explain that before I pull this trigger."

"He showed you his number—his ticket, then?" Woodhouse added this parenthetically.

"Much need—for an alibi—from you."

"The man said his ticket had been stolen from him some time after he left Paris—stolen from the head of his cane, where he had it concealed. But the number was 1932." The doctor voiced this last doggedly.

"You have, of course, had this man followed?" the other put in. "You have not let him leave this house alone?"

"Caesar was after him before he left the garden gate—naturally. But"—Woodhouse held up an interrupting hand.

"Pardon me, Dr. Koch; did you get this fellow's name?"

"He refused to give it—said I would not know him, anyway."

"Was he an undersized man, very thin, sparse hair and a face showing fissipation?" Woodhouse went on. "Nervous, jerky way of talking—fingers to his mouth as if to feel his words as they come out—brandy or wine breath? Can't you guess who he was?"

"I guess nothing."

"The target!" At the word Louisa had used in describing Capper to Woodhouse Koch's face underwent a change. He lowered his pistol.

"Ach!" he said. "The man they are to arrest. And you have the number."

"That was Capper—Capper, formerly of the Belgian office—kicked out for drunkenness. One time he sold out Downing street in the matter of the Lord Fisher letters. You remember the scandal when they came to light—his majesty, the kaiser's, Kiel speech referring to them. He is a good stalking horse."

Koch's suspicion had left him. Still gripping the automatic, he sat down on the edge of the operating chair regarding the other man respectfully.

"Come, come, Dr. Koch; you and I cannot continue longer at cross purposes." The captain spoke with terse displeasure. "This man Capper showed you nothing to prove his claims, yet you come back to this room and threaten my life on the strength of a drunkard's bare word. What his mission is you know; how he got that number, which is the number I have shown you on my ticket from the Wilhelmstrasse—you understand how such things are managed. I happen to know, however, because it was my business to know, that Capper left Marseilles for Malta aboard La Vendee four days ago. He was not expected to go beyond Malta."

"Your pardon, No. 1932."

Koch caught him up: "But the fellow told me his boat didn't stop at Malta; was warned by wireless to proceed at all speed to Alexandria for fear of the Breslan, known to be in the Adriatic." Woodhouse spread out his hands with a gesture of finality.

"There you are! Capper finds himself stranded in Alexandria; knows somehow of your position as a man of the Wilhelmstrasse. Such things cannot be hid from the underground workers; comes here to explain himself to you and excuse himself for the loss of his number. Is there anything more to be said except that we must keep a close watch on him?"

The physician rose and paced the room, his hands clasped behind his back. The automatic bobbed against the tails of his long coat as he walked. After a minute's restless striding he broke his step before the desk, jerked open the drawer and dropped the weapon in it. Back to where Woodhouse was sitting he stalked and stood out his right hand stiffly.

"Your pardon, No. 1932. For my suspicion I apologize. But you see my position—a very delicate one." Woodhouse rose, grasped the doctor's hand and wrung it heartily.

"And now," he said, "to keep this fellow Capper in sight until the Princess Mary sails and I aboard her as Captain Woodhouse of Wady Halfa. The man might trip us all up."

"He will not; be sure of that," Koch growled, helping Woodhouse into his coat and leading the way to the folding doors. "I will have Caesar attend to him the minute he comes back to report where Capper is stopping."

"Until when?" the captain asked, pausing at the gate, to which Koch had escorted him.

"Here tomorrow night at 9," the doctor answered, and the gate shut behind him. Captain Woodhouse, alone under the shadowing trees of Queen's terrace, drew in a long breath, shook his shoulders and started for the station and the midnight train to Alexandria.

Consider the mental state of Mr. Billy Capper as he sank into a seat on the midnight suburban from Ramleh to Alexandria. Even to the guard, unused to particular observation of his passengers save as to their possible propensity for trying to beat their fares, the bundle of clothes surmounted by a rusty brown bowler which huddled under the sickly light of the second class carriage bespoke either a candidate for a plunge off the quay or a "bloomer" returning from his vassalling. But the eyes of the man denied this latter hypothesis; sanity was in them, albeit the merciless sanity that refuses an alternative when fate has its victim pushed into a corner. So submerged was Capper under the flood of his own bitter cogitations that he had not noticed the other two passengers boarding the train at the little tiled station—a tall, quietly dressed white man and a Numidian with a cloak thrown over his white livery. The latter had faded like a shadow into the third class carriage behind the one in which Capper rode.

Lesson VIII.—Second Quarter, For May 20, 1917.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

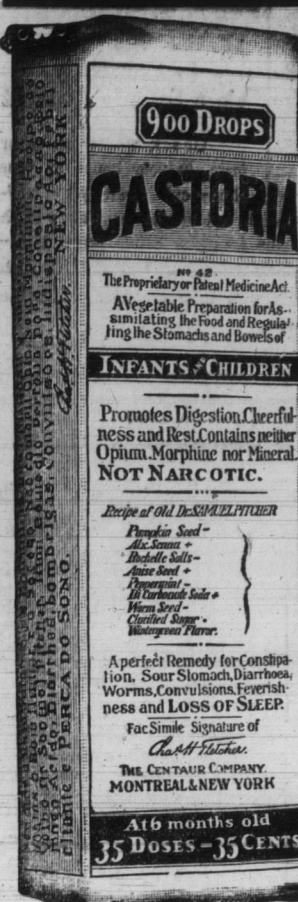

Text of the Lesson, Isa. xxviii, 1-13. Memory Verse, 7—Golden Text, 1 Cor. 9-25—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns

The title of this lesson is "The Importance of Self Control," and that fits well into the last lesson, for we cannot be faithful unless Spirit controlled. According to the Golden Text and its context, the self life must be persistently reckoned dead if we would win the incorruptible crown. Paul in that passage had no thought or reference to the loss of his soul, but was speaking only of service, which he knew might be rejected or disapproved, and he suffer loss, according to 1 Cor. iii, 14, 15.

This is called a temperance lesson, I suppose because of its references to drunkards and strong drink (verses 1, 3, 7, 8), but the whole chapter and the context refer to those who scorn the word of the Lord and take refuge in lies (verses 14, 15). No doubt the priest and prophet, as well as the people, were given to wine and strong drink and thus were out of the right way, drinking themselves drunk like those in 1 Kings xvi, 9; xx, 10.

The filthiness and beastliness of actual drunkards are seen in lesson verse 8, and those who continue such cannot enter the kingdom of heaven, but there are forgiveness and salvation for all kinds of sinners if they will only turn to the Lord, according to 1 Cor. vi, 9-11. In the next chapter (xxix, 9) there are a drunkenness and a staggering with which wine and strong drink had nothing to do. It was the religious, scholarly kind so prevalent today, a sleep from the Lord because they turned away from His word and said that they could not understand it. He called it drawing near to Him with their mouth only, while their heart was far from Him, and they were giving heed to precepts of men and not to His precepts (xxix, 10-13). They said to the seers, "See not," and to the prophets: "Prophecy not unto us right things; speak unto us smooth things. Prophecy deceits. . . . Cause the Holy One of Israel to cease from before us" (Isa. xxx, 8-11). According to Ezek. xxxiii, 31, they hear, but do not; with their mouth they show much love, but their heart goeth after their covetousness. It was just the same when our Lord was on earth, for He quoted from Isaiah and said, "In vain do they worship Me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men" (Matt. xv, 8, 9).

There is only one true foundation, and that is the tried stone, the precious cornerstone, the sure foundation of xxviii, 16, spoken of so plainly in 1

The Late Dr. Kennedy of Perth.

Perth lost one of its time-honored citizens and business men on Sunday morning, when Dr. J. E. Kennedy passed away at his residence on D'Arcy street. Dr. Kennedy had been in failing health for some time. In his younger days he was prominent in Perth affairs. Born in Dundas, he moved to Kingston when two or three years of age. He lived there until young manhood, when he attended Queen's and later graduated in dentistry. He came to Perth on April 16th, 1863, and established himself in dentistry here. In 1864 he married Sarah D. Henderson, daughter of the late Rev. Thomas Henderson, pastor of the Baptist church at that time. Mrs. Kennedy died eighteen years ago. Surviving are a family of four: T. W., of Ottawa, Sergt. M. B., of Perth, Mrs. Arthur Jackson, Gananoque, and Miss Grace at home. Dr. Kennedy was prominent in fraternal, social, political, church and business circles. He was a member of the Baptist church and its clerk for eighteen years. He was on the school board when the Collegiate Institute was built and was a member of the Masonic Order of long standing, also of the I.O.F. and Workmen. In politics he was a Conservative, and an active temperance worker. The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock from the family residence to Elmwood cemetery, services being conducted by Rev. J. P. McLennan. The pallbearers were Messrs. Hugh Robertson, J. R. McLaren, W. S. Robertson, G. B. Farmer, C. A. Farmer and James Dennison.—Perth Expositor.

Canada's New Detention Camp

The four hundred alien enemies who were transferred from Fort Henry are now safely installed in their new quarters. Kapuskasing Camp is the largest of any of the Canadian detention camps, and is said to be like a band of steel, escape being the next thing to an impossibility. The camp is located on the National Transcontinental line beyond McPherson, but the train service is for those carrying proper credentials only. As to anyone riding the bumpers, that is also impossible, and as to anyone walking away—there is no place to go, as there are no settlements east, west, north or south for many miles, and a man would have little chance of getting to a far-away settlement. The camp has its schools, stores, homes, and its own churches, which fact shows the gigantic nature of it.

Says War Will End in January.

This war will end January 27, 1918. This date is set in the Bible according to a certain Presbyterian minister near Ottawa, who believed that St. John predicted present day history in Revelations, and determined to find the meaning of the mysterious numbers and prophecies found in the 13th Chapter of that book of the Bible which has remained more or less of conundrum through all the centuries of theological study.—Ottawa Journal.

They have cleared land and built roads and ditches in the new experimental farms in the vicinity of the internment camps, principally in northern Ontario and Quebec. None of them have been employed on industrial work. The interned aliens included 212 Germans, 2,610 Austrians and 139 Turks.

ST. VITUS DANCE

Even the Most Severe Cases Can be Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Is your child fidgety, restless, or irritable? Are the hands shaky or the arms jerky? Does the face twitch? Do the legs tremble or drag? These are signs of St. Vitus Dance, a nervous disease which is confined chiefly to young children, but which often affects highly-strung women and sometimes men. St. Vitus Dance is caused by disordered nerves, due to poor blood, and is always cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which fill the veins with new, rich red blood, strengthening the nervous, and thus drawing out the disease. Here is proof:—Mrs. John A. Cumming, Lower Caledonia, N. S., says:—"When my daughter Myrtle was about nine years of age she became afflicted with St. Vitus Dance. The trouble ultimately became so bad that she could not hold anything in her hands, and had to be fed like a child. She could not even walk across the floor without help. She was treated for some time by a physician, but did not show any improvement. One day a neighbor said she had read of a case of St. Vitus Dance cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and we decided to give this medicine a trial. By the time the third box was used there was some improvement in her condition, and we continued giving her the pills for about a month longer when she was entirely cured, and has not since had the least return of the trouble.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Cobourg will Farm

The Corporation of Cobourg will farm this summer. The town teams will do the ploughing on some five or more acres of glebe and other untitled land, the town will furnish the seed, and the men, as far as possible, will assist in planting this land with potatoes. The help of some of the Collegiate Institute boys, who have volunteered, may also be utilized. About thirty of the sixty boys from the Cobourg Collegiate Institute are going out on farms; the others will help production in the town. Citizens are asked not to grumble if streets are not kept quite so spick and span in Cobourg this season, as the production of food-stuffs is the really important thing.
