MEETING OF FAIR BOARD

Ouestion of Directors' Luncheons Discussed.

Things Are Being Put In Shape for the Big Exhibition.

The Western Fair Board met in the board rooms on Saturday afternoon, and although the time occupied was short, considerable business was dealt with. In the absence of President Gartshore, Vice-President Little was in the chair. The provision of meals for the directors was the most important matter touched upon. At the last meeting of the board the secretary was instructed to approach a catering firm with a view to making an arrangement by which the directors could obtain suitable meals on the grounds, for which each director would obtain a stated number of tickets.

In discussing the matter on Saturday Mr. Isaac Waterman entered an objection to the proposition. It was true, he said, that last year the plan of having a tent upon the grounds as a dining hall for the directors was abused. Persons not having the least connection with the board had dined in the tent and had run up the bill far more than if the privileges of the tent had been kept exclusively for the directors. It should be no trouble, however, to devise a plan by which last year's system would be impracticable. Each director could be furnished with a ticket which could be checked by the person in charge of the

been proposed. "If the Western Fair is so poor as to be unable to supply meals directors, who work hard on the grounds all day or for any visitor a director may choose to bring to lunch, it should be wound up at once," said Col. Levs. in answer to Mr. Spencer's explanation.

Dr. Cl. T. Campbell said he had had no experience with the lunch business, as with many of the other directors he had found no occasion to take meals served on the grounds. It seemed to him that last year's plan had been abused. The new idea would give the directors who are required to be on the grounds an equally good chance to get refreshment.

"I'll bet that at Toronto they spend ten times as much money as they do here for meals for the directors," said

Col. Leys. It was moved by Mr. Wiliam Moore that the matter be left in the hands of Messrs. Brown and Waterman and Col. Leys. This was ruled out of order. Quite an argument took place as to whether any action could be taken before the secretary's report on the matter, asked by the board at their last meeting, had been received. Chairman Little was of opinion that such a course would be out of order, and therefore no direct action was taken. Col. Leys moved, however, to the effect that the board would prefer a continuance of last year's plan if A WREATH FROM CHAMBERLAIN proper arrangements could be made.

This motion carried. London Horticultural Society asked leave to make a collective exhibit of flowers at the exhibition. The matter was left in the hands of the chairman of the horticultural committee with power.

A communication from Wesley Kent, of Youngsville, complaining of the way he was treated by one of the judges in the heavy draught horse department last year, was referred to the committee on horses with power.
Secretary Nelles reported that he had been communicating with the mercial agent for Canada at Port-of-Spain, Trinidad, with a view to obtaining an interesting exhibit of the resources of that island. The exhibit will be at the Toronto Exhibition, and if the board will assume all liability for the goods after leaving Toronto they can obtain the exhibit for the M. Gerome and he dived repeat local fair. The chairman of the main building committee was given power quest the hospital trust to again maintain an emergency tent on the grounds, with two nurses and one house sur-in charge. Replying to a question from Mr. Moore, Mr. James Brown, superintendent of the grounds and buildings, said that the barns rented to the horse dealers for the past year or so had been left in very bad condition. but that the workmen were now getting everything in good shape and the grounds and buildings would soon be ready for the exhibition.

The members of the board present were Chairman Littie, Col. Leys, Dr. Cl. T. Campbell, C. E. Trebilcock, John Kennedy, Ald. Abram, James H. Brown, Isaac Waterman, Wm. Moore, Alian Bogue, George Scatcherd, W. J. Reid, W. M. Spencer, and William Gammage.

GENERALS WORE SOBER GARB

They Were Most Courteously Received-Presented to the Queen and Much Pleased.

London, Aug. 18.-It was General Sir Dedvers Buller who a week ago expressed the chastened reflection that th Boers generally did the right thing. Saturday the three generals emerged from a delicate position with complete success by simply following the dictates of their own straightforward, chivalrous characters.

Secretary Brebner made the following statement Sunday evening in regard to the visit of the generals to the King: "After having talked over the visit to the royal yacht, the generals say they were awfully pleased with their reception by the King, and cannot say enough about it. The talk was purely informal, and no political matters were touched upon. The train was a little late, and the interview was very

Mr. Ferreira, son-in-law of General Delarey, willingly gave his impressions of the visit to the King to a reporter. He said: "I accompanied the generals as a guide and interpreter, because I been here before. You see," exhibiting a pair of apparently new kid gloves, "I bought these in London in 1898, but I never wore them. I was compelled to handle a Mauser rifle instead. I left the gloves in Pretoria, and moths gnawed this hole, but his majesty never noticed it." Mr. Ferreira seemed to regard this as a good joke on the King. Continuing, Mr. Ferreira said: "We were all dressed in the sober fashion in which you see me." Boer adjutant wore a sober black morning suit devoid of the least semblance of color. The King, when he received his visitors was dressed in the full uniform of admiral of the fleet.

Mr. Ferrera went on to say: COURTEOUSLY RECEIVED. "The King received us all with the most kindly courtesy, but beyond the necessary politeness he did not evince that particular interest which has been shown by his more humble subjects. The interview was very brief, partly because it was necessary for me to translate each of the replies of Generals Dewet and Delarey, as they would not trust themselves to attempt their expressions in English, and partly also because they had not lunched aboard the royal yacht, and were probably getting hungry. General Botha made his own replies in English, so his majesty spoke mostly to him. "The King expressed pleasure at seeing us, and inquired as to our health. All I can say further is that there was not time during the conversation to deviate from the ordinary channels. His majesty shook hands with me in an affable manner, and inquired if I had accompanied the gen-erals in South Africa. I was not pre-not every day that one meets a king."

The Boer generals themselves, of their own inclination, and on the advice of the delegate, Abraham Fischer, were immovable in their refusal to make any statement on any matter. Funds are coming into the delegation in a very satisfactory manner. One check was received today for £500. ANXIOUS TO ATTEND MEYER'S FUNERAL. The generals will probably go to the continent on Tuesday, as they wish to attend the funeral of their late comrade. Gen. Lucas Meyer, but as it is known that it would be impossible for them to escape an enormous popular ovation at Brussels, which would not look well at a funeral ceremony, they may not attend the services. A dispatch from Brussels states, however, that Mrs. Botha has received a telegram from her husband, announcing that he will arrive there on Tuesday, with Generals Dewet and Delarey, Mrs. Meyer, the widow of the Boer commander, received a telegram of condolence from the three generals. The extreme cordiality between Lord Roberts and the Boers was noteworthy. They returned with him on his special train. During the journey the com-mander-in-chief explained all the surroundings of the countryside. Lord FIENDS. During the voyage from South Africa Gen. Dewet did not mix much with his fellow-passengers. He was engaged most of the time in writing his book on the South African war In common with his colleagues snapshot photographs were constantly being taken of him, and he was worried with requests for his autograph, until he had to protest against the nuisance. Gen. Botha, on the contrary, was extremely genial, and indulged in sports on shipboard. He was constantly in the smoking room, where he played cards. Gen. Delarey, playing draughts, took keen pleasure in discussions with British army officers on board the steamer.

Botha a place in the Natal Minwitness the review of the fleet off Spitcaused great exultation in the continental press, and undoubtedly upset the plans of Colonial Secretary Chamberextremely anxious that the generals should see no newspaper representatives before their visit to King Edward, and he accordingly caused instructions to be issued that no reporters be allowed on board the Wildfire or Nigeria, while every unusual restrictions were placed on all reporters. The general impression is that Gen. Botha and his companions declined the invitation to witness the review and see King Edward because it came direct from Mr. Chamberlain, but on receiv-

round his neck. When he came out M. Gerome and he dived repeatedly, and at the end of half an hour the box was found. The contents were to act in the matter.

GEN. MEYER'S FUNERAL. Brussels, Aug. 18.-The Boer generals, Dewet, Delarey and Botha, are expected to reach here next Tuesday for the funeral of General Lucas Meyer. Enormous crowds viewed the embalmed body of Lucas Meyer yesterday. It will be taken to South Africa. Among the many floral tributes were wreaths from former President Kruger, of the Tansvaal, and Joseph Chamberlain, the British colonial secretary. The wreath sent by Mr. Chamberlain was composed of splendid orchids.

London, Aug. 18.—Time-expired South African soldiers have been the victims of a curious delusion which is causing the officials of the United States embassy considerable annoyance.
Former British soldiers who have served against the Boers have been applying in numbers at the embassy for enlistment in the American army in the Philippines. Diplomatic circles anticipate further undue delay and that this may possibly lead to a sharp reminder from the United who arrived at Dover yesterday and stopped at the Lord Warden Hotel, reached London today and took up their residences at Marlborough House as guests of King Edward. In accordance with the Persian monarch's express wish the train from Dover majesty, therefore, had plenty of time to array himself in full state uniform, and when he left the train at Victoria station he was resplendent in a blaze foreign minister; Lord Roberts, the commander-in-chief, and the members of the Persian legation, and others met the royal traveler at the station. > Halifax, Aug. 18 .- The rapid increase in the foreign sales of the Dominion Coal Company, particularly in the United States, makes it necessary for the company to open new mines. As a result, the abandoned workings at Port Morien and Victoria Mines will probably be reopened at early date. The output of the Dominion Coal Company for the past year will be considerably over three million tons. This was the statement made last evening by Mr. James Ross, managing director of the company. The output for the preceding year was a little over a million and a half tons, so the past year will likely be the banner year in the history of the company. Mr. Ross said that the output for the past month would amount to about 310,000 tons. The average daily output was now about 12,000 tons. The shipments to the St. Lawrence this year will be a little over a million tons, which is a small increase over last year's shipments. The Steel Company is now the biggest consumer of the Coal Company's product. Its coal consumption is rapidly increasing. Last week Mr. Ross, in company with officials of the Coal Company, visited the old collieries at Port Morien and Victoria Mines, and Mr. Ross intimated that when Dominion No. 2 was put to its full capacity their attention would be directed towards the opening of other collieries.

The Dominion Iron and Steel Company have received an order from the Consolidated Gas Company of New York City for 25,000 tons of coke, and the first cargo will be sent as soon as it can be loaded by the five-masted schooner Nathaniel R. Palmer, which is now at the Intercolonial pier. Splendid Illumination of the Fleet Off Spithead After the Storm: Had Passed.

London, Aug. 17 .- Generals Botha, Dewet and Delarey, who reached here yesterday from South Africa, left London at 9:80 this morning for Cowes, Isle of Wight, to see King Edward on board the royal yacht Victoria and Albert. The hour of the generals' departure was kept secret. The streets were deserted when the three generals, accompanied by their secretaries, but by none of the ladies of their party. Murderous Deed of a Halfleft. On arriving at Southampton the visitors were welcomed on board the commander-in-chief's yacht Wildfire by Earl Roberts and General Lord Kitchener. Immediately afterwards they visited King Edward on board the Victoria and Albert, and were then taken for a trip around the fleet in the Wildfire. They returned to London this evening, accompanied by Earl Roberts and General Lord Kitchener, who took leave of them at Waterloo station. In an interview with a representative of the Associated Press, Gen. Botha's secretary described the visit to his majesty. He said that when they boarded the royal yacht, King Edward came forward, and after they had been introduced shook hands with each of them. After a brief and informal talk of a non-political character with King Edward, they were introduced to Queen Alexandra and Princess Victoria. The generals were highly pleased with their reception. INTEREST FLAGS.

There is a decided lack of public interest in the settlement and development of South Africa. The publication of a number of tentative schemes, official and otherwise, has not resulted thus far in any rush of emigrants. In fact, the United States embassy seems with a large proportion of the applicants for South African passes, many having registered applications during the past week. None, however, could properly be classed as emigrants.

The pro-Boers are quite gleeful at the apparent fulfillment of their prophecies that the wages of the whites would be lower under the British than under the Boer regime. ILLUMINATION OF THE FLEET. Portsmouth, Aug. 18. — The storm of Saturday night, which drenched thousands of persons who gathered to see the illumination of the fleet off Spithead, continued for an hour. After the night was fair, illuminations were carried out were witnessed by thousands, who reappeared upon the shore. A rocket was sent up from the royal yacht, and a minute later the dim outline of the yacht burst out in incandescent lights. This was the signal for the hundreds of other ships, and, as if by magic, the entire fleet was illuminated in a great blaze of light. The sudden change from the dusky shadows of the battleships to one of electric brilliancy had a startling effect on the crowds, and they made manifest their delight by rounds of cheers. The lines of the funnels, masts and unner decks of the ships were out lined in mellow, glowing lines, and the flagships by a clear, pale light, mast high. The brilliant lights of merchant ships and pleasure craft added to the splendor of the marine fete. Simultaneously dreds of public and private buildings on shore were illuminated, while an imposing display of fireworks, varied color and form, gave fresh inter-After an hour's est to the carnival. succeeded by a gorgeous display of colored searchlights, trained uniformly in various directions and ending with rainbow effects, which heightened by the clouds of steam exhausted from the funnels of the vessels. The searchlights were gleaming when the royal salute was fired at midnight. Then all were extinguished, save that on the royal yacht, which remained glittering.

foronto, Aug. 18 .- Arrangements for the exhibition here appear to be progressing exceptionally well. Although the new dairy building and the new art gallery were expected to relieve the pressure on the old buildings, every inch of space was taken up a week before entries closed, and in the last few days some applications for space have had to be refused. A feature of the exhibition is the great showing that will be made by United States agricultural implement makers, who appear determined to seize the Canadian market. SHOT CHILDREN AND HIMSELF. New York, Aug. 18.-While in a halfcrazed condition Saturday night, Patrick Dietz killed himself, after attempting to end the lives of his two children, Edward and Mary. After finishing his dinner at his home, No. 551 West Forty-fifth street, Dietz went from the dining-room into his bedroom, and taking a 38-caliber revolver year-old child, whom he wounded in the forehead, and then at Edward, he wounded in the left eye. He then turned the pistol upon himself and fired a ball into his ear, dying instantly. The two children were taken in an ambulance to Roosevelt Hospital, where it was said tonight that their condition was serious.

MURDERED BY MOTHER. Victoria, B. C., Aug. 18 .- A frightful murder was committed here Saturday. Mrs. Fleming, an old woman over 50 years of age, whose husband suicided seven months ago, was laboring under an halluncination that her husband had called to her to take her daughter, 24 years of age, and join him in heaven.

The crazed woman stole to her daughter's bed as the girl was sleeping and crashed her skull in with an axe. After killing her daughter the old woman went into the garden and tried to bury herself. The girl was to leave this morning for a little town up the island, where she had received an appointment as school teacher. Both mother and daughter were devout churchgoers.

Beyond is an old tower, which formed part of the walls of Leo IV.'s garden. Close to this tower is a small pavilion built by the present Pope, when he formerly spent the hot hours of the day during the summer, sometimes dining there with a few friends. This summer, however, he has not yet entered it. On the ceiling of the principal room is a representation of the firmament, with electric lamps for each star. Near the pavilion is the vineyard planted by the Pope's orders; no one, save his holiness and one gardener, is allowed to enter it. The wine produced is not very good, and is sold cheap to the inferior Vatican officials. There are few flowers in the gardens and none of them rave.

CARRIED IN SEDAN CHAIR. The Pope is carried from his apartments to his carriage in a sedan chair, going down the Scala Papale, through the Loggia and the rooms decorated by Raphael, and then down stairs into the gardens. The carriage is drawn by a pair of black Hungarian horses presented to him by the Bishop of Osnabruck. The Cameriere Segreto, who happens to be on duty sits opposite his holiness. An officer of the Guardie Nobili rides beside the carriage, and two others follow. The drive lasts about three-quarters of an hour, during which the carriage is generally stepped ever, so that the Pope may get out and walk a few steps. He seizes the occasion to talk to the Guardie Nobili, asking them about their families and telling them anecdotes of his past life.

After the drive the Pope reads, looks over some of his old poems, or composes new ones. Sometimes Mgr. Angeli reads to him passages from the classics, usually from Virgil. At 7 p.m. the Ossevatore Romano, the only paper which his hollness reads in full,

JUBSON'S TRIP ON GIDDY LOOP

How He Lost His $35 Panama in Its Sinister Whirl.

The Stout Colored Woman's Clinging Embrace Was Too Much for Him.

Ever since the arrival of the Jobsons at the beach Mr. Jobson has been doing more or less flirting, so to speak, with the loop-the-loop contraption; that is to say, he has been furtively eyeing the huge electric loop-the-loop sign, and giving vent to expressions knowing that your blood even ran red. health and wishes everybody to knew it. The other day, when some nuns who had come to pay their respects to him wished him health and strength amusing the people, and otherwise plied, "And why the hundredth? She said something like this last evening, when, as they paraded down the board walk, Mr. Jobson began to cast sheep's eyes at the loop-the-loop sign, and to comment upon the amount of fun the loopers appeared this time, somewhat tartly. "D'ye sup-pose the people that run the thing are ging to take chances on having to pay heavy damages to people that hurt or killed on the contrivance? Not much are they!"

"Well, it looks mighty sinister, anyway," said Mrs. Jobson.
"So does a church, if you've got a sinister way of looking at things, Mrs. Jobson," said Mr. Jobson, acrimoni-'So has a canal boat on the ously. bosom of the raging Chesapeake and Ohio canal. Fifteen minutes later, however, when they were on the return stroll and passed the loop-the-loop sign, Mrs. Jobson, who had hold of Mr. Jobson's arm, felt herself being propelled directly to the window where loop-the-loop tickets are bought. "Where are you going?" she asked 'We are going," replied Mr. Jobson, with a strong accent on the "we," "to loop the loop." The expression of rock-like determination which only crosses Mrs. Job-son's features once in a great while crossed it now. "You may be going to loop the loop," she said quietly, "but I-certainly-am -not."

Mr. Jobson dropped her arm and stood off and looked at her with grieving eyes. He knew that when she took that tone the reproachful manner was the only one worth while for him to employ.

"How beautifully you enter into my little amusements," he said to her in a sad, sad way. "What an amiable, yielding, delightful companion you do make for a man who toils and slaves for eleven months in the year for the sole and only purpose of being able to take you off on an annual month-long vacation trip?" Mrs. Jobson gazed off in the direction of the phosphorescent sea, made no comment—which induced Mr. Jobson to suppose that she was ashamed of herself. Therefore he felt that he could assume his usual tone.

"You have got about as much sporting blood," he went on in his best Jobsonian manner, 'as a can of imperted sardines, packed in the State of Maine. If it wasn't that you occasionally cut your finger in slicing bread, I'd never have any means of

MAN WHO BROKE THE BANK

Detroit Jury Find Frank C. Andrews Guilty.

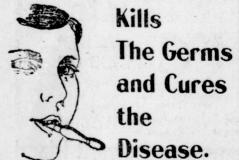

Praudulently Misapplied Punds of the City Savings Bank.

Detroit, Aug. 18.-What was probably one of the greatest legal battles ever fought in the criminal courts of Michigan, came to a close Saturday afterneon, when Frank C. Andrews, vicepresident of the wrecked City Savings Bank and ex-police commissioner, was found guilty, by a jury of his peers, of willfully misapplying the funds of the bank. The verdict was announced shortly after 2 o'clock, and ten minutes later Andrews was taken to the county fail to await sentence. That he was surprised and stunned by the finding of the jury could be seen plainly, but no sign of weakening breaking down. Andrews' counsel at once gave notice of intention to appeal the case to the supreme court. Judge Murphy's charge to the jury Special apparatus has been devised, and the work is in full swing at all of the four cool-curing rooms established by the government this season. This practice has been tried before, but, so far as is known, it has not been successfully applied to Canadian cheddar cheese of the regular size, when cured at the temperature of an ordinary cheesecuring room. The heating of the cheese and consequent swelling and exudation of fat causes the wax to peel off. It is hardly expected, therefore, that the cheese factory with an ordinary curing room can adopt this method of treating their cheese, although experiments are now being conducted to determine this point. #### Ontario's Representation.

Replying to the Toronto Mail and Empire cry that Ontario is being robbed of seven representatives in the Dominion House, the Ottawa Journal, Independent, says:

"We in Ontario are not to lose seven members, but let that pass. Let us see what sort of an 'outrage' it is against which the Mail and Empire raises its voice in protest.

"Why is Ontario to lose some members by the coming parliamentary redistribution?

"Because, if Ontario did not do so, Ontario would have a larger parliamentary representation in proportion than Quebec.

"The redistribution is merely to give the same proportionate representation in each province, and in all the provinces.

"In other words, the redistribution is for the purpose of arranging that if each (say) 25,000 people in Quebec have a member in Parliament, each 25,000 in Ontario shall have one member.

"That is fair, is it not? "Yet the Mail and Empire calls it an outrage. "What the Mail and Empire wants is that if each 25,000 people in Quebec have a member in Parliament, Ontario shall have a member for (say) each 22,000. "That is apparently the Mail and Empire's idea of justice and deceneyof something not an outrage.

"Beautiful, is it not? "Doesn't it give you great respect for the intelligence and equity of the

"By the Confederation act proviways have 65 members in the Dominion Parliament. For the other provinces representation is fixed on the basis that each province shall have as many members in proportion to its population as Quebec. After each census any necessary rearrangement must be made in the provinces other than Quebec. By last year's census. Quebec was reported as having 1,620,974 people. Quebec's 65 members of Parliament therefore represent each an average of 24,938 peo-The redistribution of parliamentary seats in the other provinces at next session of Parliament will be basis that each 24,938 person will be represented on the average by one member of Parliament. The reason that Ontario will lose five (not seven) representatives is that Ontario's population during the ten years between the censuses of 1891 and 1901 did not grow so rapidly as the Province of Quebec. In 1891 Quebec had 1,488,535 people, so that with 65 members of Parliament, each member represented 22,900 people. On the same basis Ontario's 2,114,-321 people had 92 members. Ontario's population having grown less rapidly than Quebec's, amounted to only 2,167,978 by the census of 1901, and dividing into that the 24,938 which is now the representative figure for Quebec, the result is 87 representative figure for Ontario, or a loss of five compared with the redistribution following the census of 1891.

"The remark may be added that .it is a poor rule that will not work both all sections of the country are reported ways. Although Ontario is to lose five members as compared with its recent representation, its membership in the Commons will still be larger than at Confederation. At Confederation Ontario got 82 members against Quebec's 65. Ontario's population increasing next twenty years, her representation in Parliament grew to 92. No whimper from the Mail and Empire about that. But when the rule begins to work the other way-behold an outrage!

"This is the sort of thing in supposedly sane Ontario papers which causes Quebec to grit its teeth and spit back-and then, lo, Quebec is disloyal, and anti-British, and all that!

"Although Ontario will lose five parliamentary seats in the coming redistribution (which by the Confederation Act must take place next session). Prince Edward Island loses one seat, Nova Scotia two seats and New Brunswick one seat, making nine fewer members of parliament east of Manitoba, the House of Commons will not be smaller in number. The same law which works to decrease the English-speaking representation in the Eastern Provinces works to increase it in the West. Manitoba's increased population will by the redistribution gain three members (namely to ten, from seven), British Columbia will gain two, the Northwest Territories will Brass strutted in fine raiment

Exit the Beard.

The British Medical Journal, the

"thunderer" of the medical world, has discovered signs that point to the doom of the beard, fashion and hygiene having for once combined to compass its destruction. One may be pardoned, however, for suspecting that the latter has less to do with the matter than the former. The term "hygiene" is pleasantly vague and elastic and may be made to cover many things. If Fashion should take it into her head to decree a new shape in corsets, the erratic dame at once lays it at the door of hygiene, and if the edict should go forth that wooden clogs, such as the French peasantry affect, must be worn at afternoon teas, or on the links, doubtless hygiene would be solely responsible. It is so with the beard, for ages untold man's distinctive adornment. Fashion suddenly conceived an eversion for the hirsute appendage and simultaneously came the appalling discovery that the beard is the favorite camping ground of the deadly microbe. It isn't enough to point out that our ancestors from the Stone Age down to the present, worried along very well with beards; modern science is not to be overcome so easily. Probably microbes did not exist in the days of the prophets; at least there are no records extant of their depredations. It would be indiscreet to suggest that our late adversaries, the Boers, are a virile as well as a bearded race of men, for we should probably be confronted with statistics showing the terrible death rate in the concentration camps due to the Boers' whiskers. If it were suggested that Longfellow and the good gray poet Whitman, and Tennyson, despite the deadsion is made that Quebec shall al- ly and constant menace of their beards managed to live to a ripe and useful old age; or-to get down to the present-that Lord Salisbury still shows evidences of unusual mental and physical activity, handicapped as he is with a veritable microbe forest, we should likely be told with the utmost gravity that these instances are the

The news dispatches indicate that the coal strike will probably be settled this month. The date on which the average householder's coal bill will be settled is still indefinite.

The despicable attack of the French journal La Patrie (Paris) on Sir Wilfrid Laurier has served only to direct the attention of the world toward the first man of "Britain beyond the seas."

A dispatch from London says that a serious problem has arisen in the hordes of discharged soldiers now clamoring for employment. Strangely enough, while the cities are glutted with men out of work, the farmers in to be lamenting the dearth of field hands. It is difficult for Canadians, looking upon their own land with its vast resources, to comprehend such a situation. There is room enough in New Ontario alone to accommodate every discharged soldier in Britain and more rapidly than Quebec's for the yet leave each as much elbow room as pleases him.

(By Wiliam Cul len Bryant.)

This imperishable poem was written by William Cullen Bryant when he was 18 years old. It was sent to the North American Review either by the poet or his father. Richard Henry Dana, of the Review, supposed the writer to be someone of international repute. The poet's father was then a member of the Massachusetts Senate. Dana went to the Statehouse to call on him, but the appearance of Dr. Bryant seemed to satisfy Dana that he must look elsewhere for the author, and so he returned to Cambridge without an interview with the Senator. Later he learned that the author was

Old Songs Are the Sweetest. [Pittsburg Dispatch.]

During a discussion on Saturday be-tween the employes of a large office concern regarding the relative merits of the popularity of old songs over new ones the old employes scored a victory through a happy coincidence. Two of the older men excepted to what the youngsters had said about ragtime, and took the ground that the popular songs of today had no melody in them, and so lacked enduring qualities. They tried to prove that the songs of their youth were the only songs worth while listening to. The discussion had become warm when the boom! of a bass drum was heard. Presently a delegation of yet-

It is impossible to fix a price now. Anthracite sells simply for what it will bring. It is a luxury and is only bought by people who must have it and who have the money to pay for it."

Two British Vessels Wrecked Near Cape Town.

Storm Beaches an English Transport and Injures a German Steamer.

Cape Town, Aug. 18 .- As the result of a storm which has just swept over here, the British bark Highland, Capt. Smith, from New York, July 10, for East London, and the British bark Brutus, Capt. Dallachie, from London, June 3, for Table Bay, have been wrecked off this coast.

The British transport, City of Lin-coln, is ashore and the German steamer Kaiser from Hamburg, July 15, for East Africa, has been damaged. Chief Officer Bourke, of the Highland, says that the bark sank almost instantly and that 23 of the crew were drowned. The captain, ten men and himself, clung to the bridge, which floated, but the captain and others were washed off. Bourke and two other men were rescued, after having been six hours in the water.

COOLLY-PLANNED CRIME CONFESSED

Startling Developments at a Coroner's Inquest.

MURDER FOR INSURANCE MONEY

Brother Charges Brother With the Mine Dreadful Deed-Story of the Conspiracy.

Bennington, Vt., Aug. 18 .- A starting story was brought cut at the inquest into the death of Marcus Rogers. whose body was found in the Walloomsac River here, when Levi Perham, aged 19, confessed that the man had been murdered, and implicated himself and the wife of the dead man as the participants in the crime. Rogers, who separated from his wife several months ago, had his life insured for $500 for the woman's benefit. He left Hoosic Falls last Tuesday morning, and was not seen again until his body was found in the river Thursday morning.

A TERRIBLE CHARGE. At the inquest the Perham brothers, Levi and Boyd, were placed on the stand. Boyd, the elder, was first examined, and directly charged his brother and Mrs. Rogers with the crime of murder. He said that the deed had been under consideration for several weeks. He said Mrs. Rogers approached him several days ago and offered to give him the insurance on her husband's life, $500, if he would go to Hoosic Corners and do away with him. Failing to enlist him in her service. Boyd said that Mrs. Rogers approached his younger brother, and exerted such an influence over him that the latter consented to lure Rogers to

VICTIM ENTRAPPED. Rogers was enticed to Morgan's Grove, where on Tuesday evening he met his wife and Leon. The meeting was apparently a friendly one, and under the impression that his companions were showing him a trick with ropes, Rogers allowed them to bind him hand and foot. In his helpless condition they chloroformed him and threw him into the river. To create the impression that Rogers had committed suicide they wrote the note which was found pinned to his hat, purporting to have been written by him, in which he said he had suicided. The sensation was increased when Leon Perham confessed that all that had been revealed against himself was CONFUSION OF NAMES. Bennington, Vt., Aug. 18 .- The aetails of the carefully planned murder of Marcus Rogers, which was brought out at the inquest, when Leon Perham confessed that the crime was committed by himself and Mrs. Rogers, the wife of the victim, have been fruitful topics for discussion here today. In the earlier reports there was a confusion of names, by which it was made to appear that Levi Perham was the accomplice of Mrs. Rogers. It was Leon Perham, however, who confessed the murder after his brother Levi had testified against him at the inquest, and Leon Perham, Mrs. Rogers and Stella Bates are now held without bail for the grand jury.

LEON THE MURDERER. Leon Perham supplemented his confession with the statement that he and Mrs. Rogers were the only ones concerned in Marcus Rogers' death, but that Stella Bates had knowledge of all the facts in the case.

Miss Bates also made a statement to the effect that she did not purchase the chloroform in Hoosic as stated at the inquest, but that Leon Perham got it in this village. The officers discredit her story, however. Miss Bates has worked here as domestic in various families, and has been very intimate with Mrs. Rogers. Mrs. Rogers is but 27 years old, Leon Perham is 24 years, and Miss Bates is about the same age.

HIS COMPATRIOTS

Against Federation of Unions on Political Lines.

UNION MINERS IN THE MILITIA

The Policy of Having Trades Union Men in the National Guard Discussed.

New York, Aug. 18.-The Central Federated Union of this city has received a letter from Samuel Compers. president of the American Federation of Labor, warning the Central Federated Union against having anything to do with a proposed new federation of central bodies on political lines. This federation was suggested by the trades council of Milwaukee, and some time ago the Central Federated Union appointed a committee to make an investigation about it.

President Gompers said in his letter that he believed the promoters of the new federation to be sincere, but he believed that such an organization would cause dissension and rivalry in the ranks of organized labor. It would be following the policy of the enemies of labor to cause a split in its ranks. MINERS IN THE MILITIA.

New York, Aug. 18.—The subject of the relations of the militia to the coal miners has caused an animated discussion among the delegates to the meeting, just held, of the Central Federated Union of this city. The matter was brought up by a delegate, who said he had been informed that there is a regiment of militia in Pennsylvania, composed entirely of members of the United Mine Workers.

"This is a remarkable condition affairs," he continued. "These militia-men are liable to be called on to take up arms against their brethren who are on strike for living wages." He proposed that President Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, be requested to see that members of the union do not join the National Guard. Several delegates said that the central body should consider well before taking any such action. The miners, they said, have trouble enough on their hands

Another delegate remarked that it would be better if the National Guard were made up of trades unionists preferred to encourage members of labor unions to join the militia.
"I am a member of the National Guard," another delegate said, "and I am not ashamed of it. But if I were called on to shoot down workingmen on strike I would resign."

The decision was to allow the subject to rest until after the end of the strike

LABOR DAY AMONG MINERS. Mountain Lake Park, Md., Aug. 18 .-Saturday was one of the greatest in the history of the Chautauqua, being the first Labor Day celebrated there. Fully 5,000 people gathered to listen to John Mitchell, president of the United Workers, speaking on "Phases of the Labor Problems," and Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, on "Labor and Capital-the Workingman's Side Story." Excursion trains brought in hundreds of miners from the enjoined region of West Virginia.

COMPANY SIGNS SCALE. Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 18.-With the signing of the scale by the Merchant's Coal Company of Tunnelton, it is thought that the miners' strike in this district has come to an end. The miners gained all they asked for and all the mines where the strike was instituted will probably resume work on Monday.

UNION LABOR HOSPITAL. Chicago, Aug. 18.—The first union labor hospital in the world is soon to be established in Chicago by the In-ternational Association of Machinists. Membership will be limited to 3,000, each member to make an initial pay-ment of $1 and to be assessed 10 cents week. If the venture is successfu hospitals will be established in other cities throughout the United States.

STRIKE SYNOPSIS. Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 18.-"The strike in the anthracite region is as firm as the everlasting hills. Confidence and quiet reign supreme.' Such is the "strike synopsis" of the situation in the anthracite field, as published in the Mine Workers' Jourofficial organ of the United Mine Workers of America. The fourteenth week of the strike has closed, and the managers declare that the strikers are Bennington, where a trap had been set stronger than when the strike was de-

"The fact that 179,000 men remain on strike for that period," said W. B. secretary-treasurer, without a sign of a break in the ranks, is the strongest argument that I know of in favor of the justice of their claims.

"I do not believe that there is any way to whip the striking miners un-less it is to starve them out," Wilson said, "and I do not see any very grave danger of that coming to pass.

AMUSING ERROS

Patronized His Two Cabin Mates for a Few Days.

Though They Had Never Been on a Steamer They Were Not Sick as He Expected.

"When I was ordered to take a flysaid a man who does the European buying for his firm, "I knew that I'd encounter the coronation rush, and I was right. The agent told me that the Lehigh Valley Coal Company, I've have to be put in a stateroom with two other men

'But,' said I gloomily to the agent 'I'm an old voyager, and have been across any number of times, and I never get seasick any more. Now, suppose these two fellows that you're going to throw me in with are both lubbers, and both of 'em get sick at the same time, what sort of fun d'ye suppose I'll have on the trip across?"

'Life,' replied the agent, cheerily, is one great big gamble at best, and it's a condition and not a theory that confronts you.' "The agent looked over his passenger list carefully to find two of the right kind of people to head me with. I noticed that there was a sort of grin on his face when his pencil finally arrived at a couple of names assigned to a certain cabin. "I went aboard the ship full of ing capacity of my two cabin mates. Well, when I met them they didn't impress me at all as men capable of standing the deep sea gaff very well. "They were both big, stout English-men of middle age, and I reflected dismally that big, stout men are much more susceptible to mal de mer than small, stingily-built chaps. They were bronzed, out-of-doors-looking fellows, and I put them down at once as drovers or wholesale meal dealers or treet contractors or something like 'Get sick as a general thing?' I asked them with a would-be amiable grin, looking from one to the other, after we'd got acquainted.

"They gazed sort o' sheepishly at each other and fiddled with their hands

a bit before replying. 'Well,' replied one of them, after & pause, 'we haven't done much traveling on steamers, and so we can't tell you that. "'Oh, I guess you'le be all right-hope so-," said I, patronizingly. 'All you've got to do is to set your mind against being sick at sea, you know, and you won't get sick, that's all.' "The three of us were still busying ourselves in the cabin when the steamer got down to the Hook. When she passed out into the open sea I felt the swell right away, and I looked at my two cabin mates. They, in their turn, were looking at me. "You look a bit chalky, old chap, said one of them to me, solicitously. "He must have been right. I surely felt chalky. Worse than that, I felt sick-seasick. There was no use in my trying to cover it up. I was plain sea-"'Oh, a bit of indigestion,' I said with assumed carelessness, however, my pair of mates. 'It'll when I get my sea legs." "But it didn't wear off. The ship ran smack into a summer squal after getting outside the Hook, and then, for the first time in about ten years, I felt myself getting just deadly seasick and nothing else. "My two room mates were very kind to me, but I didn't want kindness. I wanted eternal peace. Moreover, I was sore on them because they didn't get seasick. 'Neither of them showed the first sign of seasickness. Neither of 'em missed a meal. They'd come poking into the cabin after each meal and they would ask each other how the pancakes or the sausage or the steak or what-not had been relished. "'Why,' I yelled at them in my misery, 'don't you two lubbers get sick?' but they only guffawed and asked me what they could do to make my sad lot a bit easier.

"After three days I crawled on deck, more dead than alive, and my two cabin mates certainly were decent in helping me around and handing my things. They sat and talked with me as I was swaddled up on deck, and I noticed that they exchanged, in a quiet sort of way, a lot of nautical talk with each other.

"That puzzled me. I couldn't conceive of their picking up so much of the lingo of the deep water in the course of the three days we'd been to sea. 'See here,' I said to them, 'I thought you fellows told me you hadn't done much riding on steamships? 'Neither have we,' replied one of them, chuckling, as he looked at his companion "And then It came out. "They were both British skippers of world-touring sailing ships, and both of 'em had been to sea for about 50 years. They had left their ships in dry dock for repairs in a New York basin, and they were running across the pond while the repairs were in progress to visit their folks. They told me all this as mildly as they could, so as not to make me feel too cheap over the patronizing air I had assumed when taiking to them about seasickness, but I couldn't see it that way, and I lashed myself openbefore them and did my penance by doing the buying for the remainder of the voyage. The next time I try a patronizing stunt I'm going to know in advance whether the people I'm working it off on have got the skids underneath me or not." A LADY WRITES: "I was enabled to remove the corns, root and branch, by the use of Holloway's Corn Cure." Others who have tried it have the same experi-

THE SINKER HIT HIM

Boy Accidentally Killed by His Father Who Was Fishing.

New York, Aug. 18.-While fishing in the Hudson River, Gustav Grunwald, jun., 13 years old, was killed in a remarkable manner. He was with his father and his brother, when a fisherman standing near them made a sweeping cast with a long line, to which was attached a heavy lead sinker. The sinker struck young Grunwald just behind the left ear, and knocked him off the string piece on which he was seated. He was dead when picked up, having been killed instantly. The angler disappeared before he could be arrested.

CITY ENGINEER PROTESTS

Says L. E. and D. R. R. Gives "Villainous Accommodation."

Wants Trains Run on Schedule Time, Not Half an Hour Late.

City Engineer Graydon this afternoon wrote a letter to President Walker, of the L. E. and D. R. R., in which he protested against what he called the "villainous accommodation and grossly irregular train service" furnished on the Port Stanley branch, particularly on Wednesdays and Saturdays, the excursion days. The engineer said that it was an outrage that people should be obliged to stand up in the aisles or sit on the car platforms all the way down or back. The delay in starting trains till 15, 30 or 45 minutes after train time was also made a ground of vigorous objection on the part of the engineer.

"Highway robbery" was the strong term used by a city official today to describe the latest high-handed action of the street railway company. When the 12:45 train from Port Stanley arved on Sunday morning, the tired ssengers found awaiting them several belt line, Oxford and Wellington cars. They climbed aboard rejoicing in the prospect of a ride home, in-stead of a weary walk. Passer are on the leading belt line car, who ished to go further north, were told to alight a Central avenue and wait for the following cars. As these reached the corner, however, they one after another turned eastward preparatory to running to the barns. The surprised passengers' protests were of no avail and all had to get out and walk the remainder of the distance to their re-

THE TRAVELERS' PICNIC To the Editor of The Advertiser: I beg space in your valuable paper for a few remarks about the picnic. Much credit is due the travelers for all the sports given at Port Stanley, except one, called Griving the geese. which was brutal, and was condemned by many of the spectators. The poor things, weak and exhausted from many hours of confinement in a box, were taken to the race track and strong white ribbons tied to their wings; then at the word "Go!" each man, armed whip, urged, flogged and dragged his goose along, while the poor birds pleaded for mercy from their tormentors. The whole thing was a failure from the start, as might be expected. Enough said. Many thanks to the travelers for the rest of the programme, but may they leave such sport alone in the future is the wish of meny. A LADY PICNICKED

"You have yours with the ponies, at any rate," I replied. "Your system, I see, is one of rewards and punishments. Do you not think, however, it would be better to try the caresses first? Or perhaps you consider they are the more welcome for the flogging that precedes them."

I think she was answering her own thoughts when she replied, for she looked straight between the ponies' heads far beyond the new lodges which we were rapidly approaching.

"I believe a stronger than itself. I believe all creatures, not excepting the human race, are prone to despise the yielding and give way before the firm. And yet it is far more painful to insist than to concede. But it never answers to give in, never! Fancy, Uncle Edward, if I had let that pony turn round! why, we should have been back at the hall door by this time."

"And if he had insisted," said I—"for after all he is much stronger than both of us put together—and you had thought proper to fight it out?"
"Then the carriage would have been proper to fight it out?"

"Then the carriage would have been broken all to pieces, and you and I had to trudge home on foot. You see some-body must get the worst of it."

This feminine argument was conclusive. I recognized in it the principle that has held the sexes in equipoles so many thousand years. I remembered our mother, and the apple her honest husband would never have dreamed of touching but for her. I did not forget Samson with his head in that coaxing Phillstine's lap. A vision came across me touching but for her. I did not forget Samson with his head in that coaxing Phillstine's lap. A vision came across me of routed legions and galleys scattered like scared waterfowl over the blue southern sea, and frank-hearted Antony destroyed because dark Egypt smiled. It needed not to go back into history to find parallel examples. I thought of many a bright, joyous comrade and many a trusty friend. I thought—no, I dared not think—of the story I knew best of all, but I subscribed sincerely to the sentence, "Somebody must get the worst of it" and it is not the least generous, the it"; and it is not the least generous, the least trusting, the least devoted, that is to "get the worst." No; in this, as in other matters, they take sufficient care so-called weakest shall not go to the wall.

We stopped at the lodges, and inspected the progress that had been already made. We looked down across the park to where the chimneys and gables of the halls peeped through a mass of towering elms, and a thin smoke curled upward into that blue sky laced with a streak of silvery clouds. The lake at our feet glowed like burnished gold, and the woods beyond seemed sleeping, hushed, and still, in the hot haze of noon. The same thought, I am sure, crossed each of our minds at the same moment, "To be lord of all this and not to be happy!" was my inward reflection; and Gertrude, touching the ponies with her whip, broke silence, and put the cariage in motion at the same time.

"What a deal Gilbert might do here," said she, "if he were only to turn his mind to it; and it would be the best cure for himself at the same time! Uncle Edward, I want to ask your advice. What do you think ought to be done about Gilbert?"

It was a comprehensive question, and It was a comprehensive question, and she put it with the clear, penetrating look that sat so well on her fair young face. I know not what prompted me to answer as I did. I known not why, being so intimate as I was with both I should have chosen not to be sure that her feelings toward her cousin were like those of a sigter for a brother searcely se of a sister for a brother scarcely less, certainly not more. I looked full in-to her eyes as I replied:

"He ought to marry; I see no other chance of saving him from everything that is worse."

"Ah! if he would do that," said she "Ah! if he would do that," said she, with the same clear, bright look, "it would make us all so happy. But do you think there is any hope of it? Are you sure if he did he would not make bad worse? I thought you were more or less romantic than the rest of us, Uncle Ed-ward, and did not consider marriage the universal panacea for improvement when everything else has failed."

She read my thoughts pretty clearly. I have never lowered the richest blessing earth can bestow to a mere remedy for dissipation—never looked upon the trothplight of a pure and loving woman as the safety-valve that shall possibly check the excesses of a wild young man.

"If he married some one who could guide as well as interest him," was my answer. "whom he respected as well as loved. I do believe that even now it would not be too late. Such a wife would make him a different being here and make him a different being here and hereafter. You know as well as I do how much good there is about Gilbert, how much good there is about Gilbert, how generous and forgiving he is, how sensitive to kindness, how easily led by his affections."

The bright eyes were filling fast with tears, but the little hands guided the driving-reins to an inch. Old fool that I was! I must needs put my oar into waters already sufficiently troubled. I who eight to have known who did know who ought to have known, who did know, that it was simply impossible, must needs subscribe for the moment to the conclusthat it was simply impossible, must needs subscribe for the moment to the conclusions of the gossiping circle of relatives and friends, who dispose in theory of the feelings and affections as readily as of the prospects and fortunes of another.

"I only know one person," I resumed, "who has it in her power to rescue Gilbert programment of the control of the contro bert now. I wish I was as sure of her willingness as her ability."

I looked straight into her face while I

I looked straight into her face while I spoke. She met my eye quite calmly; not a shade of confusion darkened her fair open brow, but there was something bitter and unhappy about the expression of her mouth, as she replied:

"I know what you mean, Uncle Edward; but it will never be. Once, I grant you, it was not impossible; now it is completely out of the question. Deer cliteria. you, it was not impossible; now it is com-pletely out of the question. Dear Gilbert! now happy he would be with anyon she would be teo! Where shall we find the princess, Uncle Edward? Is she coming, think you, in a coach-and-six with outriders; like Cinderella at 11 o'clock at night, or in rags and tatters, like poor Cinderella at 1 in the morning? I think, if I know my cousin, the rags will have it. I wish I could see her, though, whether she came in pattens or glass slippers! I won't have you start off because you hear a shot fired)—"as for me, I shall never marry, but remain Lady Wilful to the end of the chapter."

"We like you very much as you are," was my reply, as the carriage stopped at the turn down Marigold Lane, and we espled the three sportsmen wading kneedeep in a field of Swedes; "but you would not be a woman if you were not liable to change your mind; and it don't follow that because you promise some deluded

What fun they had in that field of Swedes! How they traversed it backward and forward, lengthwise and crosswise, up and down, and beat it every inch! How steady was that sagacious old pointer, whose duties were limited to the quest after dead game and baffling pursuit of "runners," of which I am bound to say there were indeed but few! The three gentlemen were no uncertain shots, and so surely as the russet partridge whirred up from its variegated covert, so surely it went down, shot dead and true, before one or other of those unerring barrels. How grim and unmoved was the broad-shouldered keeper? An institution at West Acres was that man of superhuman gravity, who was never known to smile, but who entered into every detail of his profession with a reverent earnestness as of one who lived for nothing else in the world. He was not without a sort of dry humor, nevertheless, and a bon-mot of Orme's old keeper had even found its way to the clubs in St. James' street. It was produced at Flippant's expense, who, although a deadly shot, had suffered a woodcock to escape him while draining his sherry flask in the middle ride of West Acres Wood on occasion of a large battue, and afterward spoken of by the keeper as "the London gentleman as didn't seem to take much notice."

How the stable boy in the rear, ordered out on a young horse for the purpose of

How the stable boy in the rear, ordered out on a young horse for the purpose of "making" the wilder coveys, scampered hither and thither! Not doing much in the way of observation, certainly, but finishing countless imaginary Derbys and St. Legers, with his hands down, his feet remand home in the attravers to his term. rammed home in the stirrups, to his own boundless satisfaction, and the general agitation and discomfiture of the young agitation and discomfiture of the young horse.

How another assistant, following with beer, made repeated applications to that fluid, till his face shone rubicund under the influence of its own innate health, combined with a mild stage of intoxication, and exposed to a broiling sun!

How John Gordon walked untiring, with his fron muscles and his indefatigable stride, and rarely missed and never smiled; how Gilbert, with his light, springy step, and a certain grace of gesture which never left him, reminded me of the Gilbert of old times! and lastly, how cheery and gladsome was Holyhead's manly face as he sprang over the fence into the lane, and announced his delight at our arrival, and the good things with which we had come provided!

"Two-and-thirty brace, Lady Gertrude!" exclaimed the peer in triumph; "and the practice, though I say it that shouldn't, remarkably accurate. Do you know, Gordon has scarcely missed a shot the whole morning! We've all done well, and now exhausted nature must sink without sumblies What have you and now exhausted nature must sink without supplies. What have you brought? Sandwiches? Good! Cold pie? Good! Sherry? Very good! And a bottle of claret. My old friend at my elbow again! Lady Gertrude, you come like the Goddess of Plenty to the thirstiest of your worshipers. Here's your good health!"

Holyhead drained his glass with exceeding good will, applying himself thereafter to the pie with an earnestness that stopped his mouth for a season most effectually.

In the meantime Gilbert and Gordon had leid their guns aside, and came up to the pony-carriage to welcome its inmates and its provisions, though with far less energy than their demonstrative companion. My boy looked more like himself than I had seen him for a long time. His eye was bright with the excitement of the sport, and hard exercise had brought a healthy color to his cheek; but I listened in vain for the good-humored banter and flow of livery fanciful conversation which used to make him the banter and flow of fivery fanciful conversation which used to make him the life and soul of a party like the present. Alas! a ribald sentiment or a bitter sarcasm was the nearest approach to mirth that ever now crossed the lips of Gilbert Orme. John's talent for silence, too, had wonderfully increased of late, particularly in Lady Gertrude's presence. Formerly they were never tired of appealing to each other on the most trivial subjects, and would wrangle good-humoredly upon every possible topic from morning till night; now they only exchanged words when it was unavoidable, and even then I could not help remarking that their I could not help remarking that their eyes never met. It was for Holyhead to keep us all in good spirits. He had already discussed a capital luncheon, and while he puffed at his cigar was deep in an argument with Lady Gertrude upon the charms of partridge-shooting. His was one of those enviable dispositions which take their most vivid coloring which take their most vivid coloring from the objects immediately surrounding them. Holyhead was always engrossed with the present occupation or amusement. If he was hunting, life seemed to have nothing to offer equal to the stride of a good horse and the pace of a pack of fox-hounds. If he was deer-stalking, the essence of poetry and delight was comprised in the dim mountain and the distant herd, the deep corrie, and the wreathing mist rising like a curtain from the black fastnesses of the glen. In salmon-fishing he vowed there was no music to him like the spin of the reel, and the swirl of a rushing stream; while of all sports in the world he declared to-

of all sports in the world he declared to-day, none could vie with such a morn-ing's shooting and such a luncheon as the ing's shooting and such a luncheon as the present.

Lady Gertrude admitted the merits of the luncheon, "But surely," said she, "you don't call this like being on a Highland hill, up to your knees in heather, with fifty brace of grouse in the creels?"

"Infinitely superior," answered Holyhead, with a vigorous application to the claret; "I cannot admit the comparison. Look at the variety of a day's shooting in a low country. The constant change of scene—the snug farm on the rising ground—the pretty village in the valley—the rich autumnal woods to back those slopes of bright yellow and intense green. Luxuriant hedgerows everywhere—a gleaming river gliding peacefully to the sea through a perfect wilderness of beauty in the distance, and—Lady Gertrude with her pony-carriage for a foreground!"

We all appleaded his levdshirks also

We all applauded his lordship's elowe all applauded his lordship's elo-quence. Gilbert slapped him on the back, a quoting at the same time the words put into Balaam's mouth by a certain French philosopher, "Mon ane parle, et meme il parle bien." Gertrude laughed, and vowed she could not dispute the merits of the last feature in the landscape; "but you might have that in the Highlands equally well," she added.

HANDICAP TO BRIGADIER.

St. Louis, Aug. 16.-Brigadier carried the colors of F. D. Wier to victory today in the Southern Hotel Handicap for 3-year-olds and upwards, at Kinloch Park. The distance was 6 furlongs, and the sturdy son of Rayon d'Or made a runaway race of it, negotiating the distance in 1:12%, the fastest time made on the St. Louis tracks this season. Brigadier got none the best of the start, but he went to the front at once with an amazing burst of speed, and maintained it to the end, winning by three lengths from Jack Ratlin, the favorite, who was eight lengths in front of Bummer. Noweta, Teller and Mabel Winn were the winning favorites. Weather clear; track fast. Summary:

NEW WORLD'S RECORD. New York, Aug. 16 .- A big crowd witnessed the last day's sport of the Grand Circuit meeting at Brighton Beach today. The card provided one exceedingly sensational race, and a new world's record, the amateur wagon race record being broken twice, first by C. E. Bedford's York Boy, who went the distance in 2:08%, and a few minutes later by E. E. Smathers' Lord Derby, who made the mile in 2:05% in his first heat and 2:06% in his second heat against Louise Jefferson. The card opened with a novelty race for the 2:12 pacers that was rather ordinary. In the 2:07 trot the money fairy poured in at $100 to $75 on Monk against the field. In the first heat The Monk and Anzella went apped all the way around to the top of the stretch, where the mare broke and The Monk took a good lead. zella settled and came very fast, but was beaten half a length. Pools now sold $100 to $25 on The Monk. Monk led with Anzella second, and they got to the quarter in 311/4 seconds, when Kingmond went to second place. They got to the half in 1:031/4. The Monk came down the stretch for all he was worth, but Anzella, with an extra burst of speed, got almost on even terms, and was only defeated by The third heat was most exciting

The market was 50 to 30 on Anzella in the next heat, and she led all the way around, but in the scratch Geers tried one of his old-time drives. The Monk responded gamely, and looked like a winner, but went to a break, and the mare won. The last weat was a repetition of the fourth heat, Anzella carrying off the prize.

The wagon racers smashed the amateur race record twice, and Lord Derby, by trotting in 2:05%, set a champion mark which will take a lot of beating. into the Hitchcock barn. HENDRIE'S HORSE WON. Detroit, Aug. 16 .- Lady Kent forced herself into the limelight at Highland Park yesterday, winning the third race after a most impressive performance, in which a track record was horribly shattered, three and a quarter seconds being lopped from it. In addition, Lady Kent had the distinction of being the only long-priced horse to bring home the money, favorites and second choices splitting the balance of the card, each of the classes mentioned taking three races. Lady Kent's price was 15 to 1, and she was in every sense of the word a surprise party. There were seven horses in the event named, a handicap race at a mile and 20 yards. Lady Strathmore was favorite at 7 to 5, with Uledi and Circus was the only horse at a longer price than Kent, who opened at 10 to 1 and closed at the high better price quoted above. Few seemed to want the horse, but with a very clever ride by C. Kelly, she won all the way. Bill Massie, another despised one, forced was all out at the finish. Her time, 1:42, reduces the record from 1:451/4, at which figure it has stood for years. This is better than Fort Erie, whose record was cut to 4314 this last meeting, and it is also lower than the time over Latonia, Worth, and any one of the three St. Louis tracks.

The announced feature was the Highland Park stake, the fourth number, which Springwells, odds on favorite, won in the drive down the stretch. Themar led all the way to the last sixteenth, where Springwells came through, winning handily. Handvice, betting. Her owner had a good sized bet on the colt, winning $16,000 in ready, trailing at the start, coming up towards the middle of the race, and field numbered thirteen. Athol, on the the asphaltum at the rate of at least winning easily when the time came to make his run. The principal interest in this race was in speculating at which jump Brandywine would fall. The horse struck three or four of the obstacles, and Thomas increased the girth of his biceps by a half inch, holding the horse on his feet. Brandywine ultimately finished the race. The other events were good ones, with no upsets of any kind.

Consequent upon the trouble of Wednesday, the judges announced yesterday that Blake Hurns, owner of Blondie Grayson and other horses, and Col. "Skid" Howard, another horseman, had been ruled off. It is alleged that these persons participated in the being carried out at the head of the disturbance that followed the decision stretch, and with clear sailing would in the Enue-Bismarck race. It was also announced that entries of Helen Oakford and Sly Boots, 2-year-olds from the stable of D. J. Kilby, will be refused. The judges have not been satisfied with the work of these entries. Mr. Kilby is not at the track.

Willie Stewart, the steeplechase jockey, was seriously injured yesterday while schooling a horse to the jumps. He was thrown and was badly cut about the head. Listless Youth's Fruitless Ride in Rackety Hack.

A sharp-eved young man was walking listlessly past the hack stand close to one of the squares in the northwest section of Washington, the other afternoon, when, as he got alongside an old rattlety-bang closed carriage to which a sleepy-looking, bony horse was attached, he gave a slight start. He saw something in his Fifth race, 6 furlongs-Lass of Lang- glance directed at the inside of the old hack. does not always work when a flimflam game is unearthed. The game is an old one, being a common bagatelle board fitted out with springs by which the marble, upon which the money depends, is manipulated into a position most favorable to the fakirs. A local merchant, who was familiar with the rudiments of the game, quickly saw that the "inner works" were in operation, and he gave the alarm. One result was that a well-known London gentleman, occupying a semiofficial position in an important organization, having his ire roused by considerable loss on the game, landed simultaneously on the machine, and the machinist, a feat for the expeditious and successful performance of which nature had admirably adapted him. The rest of the crowd concluded to take a hand in, and they rushed the other fakirs and their be-longings. So precipitate was the enforced retreat of the fakirs that they left their money lying on the tables, and these being overturned, there ensued a big scramble for the showers of coin. The fakirs forgot to come back after their money, and if they had come it is doubtful if they would dhressed up, sor!" "Soilence! Roight fa-ace! Roight fa-ace, McCormick!" "This is me roight fa-ace, sor!" "Soilence! Coompany, 'shun! Shouldher blades! Port woine! Mark Twaine! Carry on! Cart wheel! Quick lime! And so the No. Al Company of London Travelers under command of old General Jollity, started on their memorable march to capture Port Stanley. An ideal day, an enormous crowd, a ong and interesting programme of amusements, and a spirit of joviality and joyousness, the whole pervaded by the general goodfellowship which marks every affair which is undertaken by the genial traveling-men, combined to make the Travelers' Club picnic to Port Stanley on Saturday a notable event in the sphere of summer amusements. Even the rosily colored predictions of the optimistic travelers were discounted, and those acquainted with the average drummer's powers of glowing description will appreciate what this statement means. The doings started at noon and kept up, with short intermissions for re-freshments, until midnight. At an early hour the travelers assembled at their headquarters in the Masonic Temple, and made what final arrangements were needed. At 11 a.m. they paraded the principal streets, half a hundred strong and headed by the Seventh Regiment Band. They wore jaunty caps of white and black and presented a very neat appearance. At the head of the procession marched Masters Harold and Leslie Edwards, Clifford and Clarence Whitehead and Harold Lindsay, sons of members of the Tra-

They then proceeded to the G. T. R. station, where, on the arrival of the express from the east, they welcomed the 500 travelers, who came as their guests from Toronto and Hamilton. They then entrained for Port Stanley, reaching the lake in time for dinner.

The elements, which had frowned so dismally on the two big national picnics of the season, had evidently nothing but smiles left for the travelers. Overhead the sun shone gloriously in a cloudless sky, but its fervent rays less perfect than the afternoon, for, when fair Luna shed her soft flood of radiance over the panorama of lake $2.00 to.....$3.50 $\int \text{ladiance over the panorama of lake and cliff, the scene was an indescribably beautiful one.

The travelers had with characteristic thoroughness made arrangements for giving their sports in a manner which would insure all a chance to see them. They had roped off a spacious area on the beach, which gave ample room for all the contestants desiring to enter the various events. It also afforded those who desired to witness the games in comfort a chance to view them from the shade of the hill-side. Many took advantage of this, and maidens and men displayed an agility and surefootedness which would have done credit to a mountain goat in elembering into apparently tain goat in clambering into apparently inaccessible positions on the cliffside.

did good service handling the traffic.

Much of the delay encountered was unavoidable, owing to the necessity of securing more cars to meet the exceptionally heavy demand. SPORTS AND GAMES.

The sports and games were of a most interesting and novel character. Evidently the travelers had sat up nights to devise some unique innova-tions in the line of races, and the laughter and applause of the crowds at the comical results were a sufficient indication of their success.

The baseball match between Toronto and London travelers attracted a great "Coompany, 'shun! Roight dhress! deal of attention, and was certainly here, Struthers!" It looked as though the Queen City men were about to put it all over their rivals from the Woodsy City, as they scored 7 runs in the first of the fourth inning. The locals produced a bracer from some unknown quarter and piled up 12 in the last half of the same inning. The Toronto men blanked in the first of the fifth inning, and as the Lonfour innings, against their opponents' score of 9 for an additional inning, they let it go at that. The score was:

H. Rennie,

In the tug-of-war between teams composed of ten Toronto and ten London travelers, the former were vic-torious, winning two pulls out of three. The races were run off on the beach, thus giving opportunity for a very large proportion of the spectators to see them. The novel character of many of them is indicated in their titles. The various events resulted as follows: Girls' race, under 15, 50 yards—1 Jessie Winslade, 2 Edna Lister, 3 Lillie Miller and Rosa Self (tie).

Boys' race, under 15, 50 yards—1 John McLeod, 2 R. Whetter, 3 Peter Moore. Ladies' race, over 15, 50 yards—1 Euply Turnbull, 2 Edna Neelands and Maggie Pearse (tie).

Hotelmen's race, 100 yards—1 L. Sage, 2 W. Obernesser.
Wholesale employes' race, 100 yards
—1 William Roberts (McClary's), 2 L. Goodge (A. M. Smith & Co.). Rolling the barrel, 20 yards-1 A. Skelton, 2 L. Goodge. Obstacle race, 50 yards—1 W. Obernesser, 2 S. Charlton. All fours, backward race, 25 yards—1 C. Walton, 2 W. Roberts.

All aboard race, travelers only-1 R. W. Green, 2 J. W. Couse. Four legged race, 75 yards-1 A. Skelton, Wardell and Goodge, 2 E. A. Crouse, F. G. Brenton and H. W. Lind, J. Johnston, J. May and J. Doidge. Traveling men's race, 100 yards—1 Dan McKenzie, 2 J. A. Connors. Traveling men's race (over 200 pounds), 75 yards—1 Harry Lawson, 2

T. Mortimore. Horseless carriage race (wheelbarrows), 1 Charles Lind and S. Charlton, 2 L. Sage and W. Plerce.

Jockey race, 25 yards and return—1
F. Short and J. Conseby, 2 Jacob Obernesser and W. Obernesser. Driving the geese, married travelers only, 50 yards—1 Hugh Rennie, 2 F. Welter, 3 W. Ward, 4 W. E. A. Best. This race was a most amusing one. Twelve travelers competed, each driving a goose with reins and a small switch. H. Rennie took the precaution of tying his steed's wings, and so waltzed home an easy winner. There were several neck-and-neck finishes, Egg and spoon race, 25 yards—1 W. Needham, 2 H. Rennie.

Square heel and toe race, judges only, 1,000 yards—1 J. Bowman, 2 C. M. R. Graham. The list of judges was a long one, many of those mentioned having been many of those mentioned having been appointed in an honorary capacity. The list included: Mayor Beck, J. Bowman, Walter Blackburn, Sir John Carling, T. H. Carling, R. K. Cowan, D. J. Cowan, J. M. Dillon, T. B. Escott, R. C. Eckert, J. H. Ginge, Thomas Gillean, C. M. R. Graham, Major T. S. Hobbs, ex-M. P. P., D. H. Howden, C. S. Hyman, M. P., W. H. #### cock, R. C. Struthers and others. THE EVENING PROGRAMME.

The travelers' promise that the evenng's part of the programme would be the finest and most novel of any-ever seen at London's pretty Lake Erie resort was fulfilled in every sense of the word. The drummers, fired by the enthusiasm which is one of the chief characteristics of their make-up, had determined to give the patrons of their picnic the best display of pyrotechnics that could be had. They thoroughly succeeded in satisfying the multitudes that thronged the heights and the beaches below. The energetic officials cannot take all the praise, however, for the success achieved by nature played an important part in pro-ducing many of the fine effects secured. She was, one might say, honorary chairman of the executive, and she recognized the fact that the travelers were a bunch of the best fellows that ever came down the pike," and she made up her mind to use her powers for their benefit. She set up a moon that bathed the lake in silver (though it did not need the bath), while the display of stars had the little Christmas tree bangles "beaten a block." The heights were brilliantly lit up with hundreds of Chinese lanters. Many people took their stand on the heights to view the fireworks, and from that point they had a most advantageous view. The fireworks exhibition was easily one of the finest ever seen in Western Ontario. It in-cluded an elaborate aquatic display, consisting of colored fountains, water snakes, skimmers and other interesting devices. A number of large set pieces on the beach were discharged at the conclusion of the exhibition. The usual rockets, bombs and balloons were also used to good effect. For those who preferred to dance there were hops at both the Fraser House and the dancing pavilion. Good music was provided, and many elected to pass the merry hours to its enlivening strains. Most of the fun was over before 12 o'clock, and a large proportion of the crowd came up shortly after midnight. A number of the Toronto travelers and their hosts came up on a later special, connecting here with the early express for the east.

OFFICERS AND COMMITTEES.

In giving credit where credit is due, mention must be made of Messrs. E. R. C. Struthers (chairman of committees) and Frank McCormick (secretary of committees). They have been indefatigable in the work of preparing for the great event. Their efforts would have been of little avail, however, had they not been given the hearty aid of their fellow-officers and committeemen, who are as follows:

Officers of the Travelers' Club-C. S. Hyman, M. P., honorary president; H. E. Buttrey, president; Dan Ferguson, first vice-president; E. R. C. Struthers, second vice-president; J. K.
