GAMEY'S MINING PLEA

Survey of Mineral Resources of New Ontario.

Many Hints of Value Thrown Out in His Scathing Indictment of Late Government's Mining and Timber Policy—Man From Manitoulin Tells Bluntly His Idea of Late Commissioner's Policy—Routine.

Toronto, April 15.—In the Legislature yesterday, in reply to the question of the Provincial Secretary, L. E. Thorne, of Port Huron, was engaged by verbal combat as auditor and that the remuneration is $200 a month.

In reply to Mr. Munro, the Commissioner of Crown Lands said no decision had been arrived at in respect to amending the volunteer land grant act to entitle volunteers of 1866 who performed military duties at inland points and at headquarters of corps, to grants.

Hon. Dr. Beaudry said the Government was considering the question of increasing the number of factory inspectors.

The following bills were introduced: Dr. Smellie—Respecting the Town of Fort Williams.

Mr. Crawford—To amend the Consolidated Municipal Act.

The Budget Debate.

Mr. Gamery arose amid loud applause and criticised the policy of the late Government regarding its timber policy. It had allowed holders of timber limits to retain the licenses after the timber was all taken off. It would surprise many to learn that holders of timber limits got as much as 100 per cent. of the value of the timber.

These valuable water powers they retained forever. Several instances of immense water powers given away were enumerated. The revenues could have been greatly increased. He hoped the Government would exercise care in the future and see that individuals might be able to secure water power privileges.

Electric smelting was favorable only where water powers were had. Nearly all the water powers had been given away by the late Government, and now a serious state of affairs existed.

Railway companies had received very large land grants, a policy he did not quarrel with. But he would object to their having complete control of it. Prospecting should be the cheapest; therefore the prospector was excluded, and any number of townships were tied up and prospecting retarded.

"The late Minister of Crown Lands, after technical education, establishing of assaying offices and reduction works, all constituting a wide and important field, providing the minerals were to be had."

Our Mineral Resources.

That we possessed great mineral resources in Ontario was already evident from the meagre evidence secured by the late Government. After giving some information regarding the vast resources of New Ontario, its topography and extent, he pointed out that many people got a wrong impression from what they saw along the railway, which only passed through the roughest country. The late Government was criticised for failing to get out correct maps showing the peculiar value and nature of various portions of the country. "Everything they did," said he, "was what they were compelled to do. We never heard until two or three years ago that there were millions of acres of good agricultural land up there." The Government should have known it sooner. The new Government should, he contended, establish observation bureaus in New Ontario.

Our Copper Resources.

In Ontario there were no less than 13,000,000 acres of copper-bearing lands with which the Government did not do anything. "Nature has done wonders for us," laughed Mr. Gamery, "except in supplying the lack of brains in certain quarters." Ontario copper ore would not stand transportation. Therefore, we should have refining plants in our own country. Ores, in the upper lake districts, were not nearly so productive as Ontario's, yet from there thousands of tons were being sold to the United States. It was clear that the present Government should bonus some refinery in Ontario.

Zinc Ore.

What had the Ross Government done for the encouragement of zinc mining? The bureau of mines established by it was an intelligent one. They got much information, but, none about zinc. Yet there were millions of tons in Ontario worth from 75 to 135 on the market, and not being mined. The Liberal Government should have done something to encourage this industry. He mentioned the instance of an Ottawa company, who, unable to have ore refined in Ontario, sent some 5,000 tons to Belgium. The Government promptly put a prohibitive tax upon it to keep it here where there were no refineries. It might be said they didn't know the circumstances. "But they ought to have known," said Mr. Gamery. "Since we could not refine our own ores we could not get our share of the refining of foreign ores, a very large portion of which was done by the United States.

The Essay Judges

Iron Ore.

While admitting that considerable had been done to favor the iron industry by establishing smelters, he felt there should be some distinction as to the quality of the iron.

Referring to the fact of $2,000,000 made by the late Government in the Lake Superior Co., he complained regarding a large contract for 100,000 tons of iron ore given to the American market, a large part of which could have been provided by Canadian mines. He suggested that nearly all the iron used by the Soo Company should come from the States.

Look Out For Ontario.

The Soo company should be compelled to use as much Canadian ore as possible. He hoped the present Government would not commit the mistake of allowing the contract to be renewed without safeguarding Ontario's interests.

He urged that the prospector should be protected by proper freight charges and new railways wherever needed.

Regarding its mining policy, the Government has a very long way to go. "I urge that whatever changes are made the policy should be uniform throughout the country. Every possible bit of information should be obtained regarding the country and all the lands retained under the control of the Government. The interests of the prospector, should be guarded. I would even say that he should be given free land, provided the country would be assisted in development."

Give It To Manitoulin.

Mr. Gamery thought the new territory around Egan, which the Government was striving for, was not of sufficient value to make it worth contending for. He did not think we should endeavor to deprive Manitoulin of an outlet to Hudson Bay.

Mr. Gamery's concluding remarks were a strong plea for the interests of New Ontario, interests he felt sure could be safely entrusted to the hands of the new Government, in whom he had the greatest confidence.

The speaker was greeted with prolonged applause as he resumed his seat after having spoken over an hour.

Samuel Charles, of West Northumberland, moved the adjournment of the debate.

In answer to Mr. Graham, the Premier said the speaker would be permitted to put the matter in the hands of the estimates should not be retarded, and an arrangement might be suggested whereby the budget and estimates might be considered alternately. He also suggested that when the House adjourned next Thursday for the Easter holidays the recess should continue till a week from Easter Monday. This matter could be considered later.

THE TELEPHONE COMMITTEE.

Secretary-Treasurer of Montreal Company Gives His Evidence.

Ottawa, April 15.—There was a very brief session of the Telephone Committee yesterday morning.

Joseph Molson, secretary-treasurer of the Merchants' Telephone Co., Montreal, testified. His company operated solely in the City of Montreal; had 1,346 subscribers; rates $10 to $25 for private houses, and $30 to $45 for business establishments. Witness said his company had no working agreement with the Bell company and were unable to put their instruments in the C. P. R. and G. T. R., and also the R. & O. Navigation Co. and Shredon Cartage Co. on account of a contract these companies had with the Bell.

His company had paid no dividends since its organization in 1881. In the City of Montreal they used the poles of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Co. The company had never tried to get outside connections. Witness produced a financial statement, but requested that it be not published.

Delany MacDonald, ex-Mayor of Ridgway, on the request of Mr. Monk, was ordered to be summoned as a witness.

He knew something of municipal telephone services in that district. Dr. Oates, of Heepeler, will also be called.

The marriage of Miss Vetriche West, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. West, to Mr. John Middleton, took place yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Main street west, before a large company of invited guests.—Hdgetown Dominion.

GLAD HE MADE GOOD JOB

Alexis Desroche Talks of Murder of Wife and Daughter.

Verdict of Wilful Murder Returned Against Him by the Coroner's Jury—Taken to Barrie Jail After Being Committed for Trial at the Fall Assizes—His Brother's Estimation of the Murderer.

Fenestangishene, April 15.—A verdict of wilful murder was returned against Alexis Desroche at yesterday morning's session of the Coroner's inquest, after Dr. Bowman and Addison described the terrible injuries received by the woman and her daughter. There were ten witnesses at the preliminary investigation, all of whom offered corroborative evidence. The prisoner was committed for trial at the fall Assizes by Magistrate Hawson.

The evidence of Mr. Bowman included a statement by Desroche, giving in detail the facts of the murder.

A final plea of "not guilty" was entered on behalf of the self-confessed murderer by his counsel, Barrister D. S. Storey, of Midland.

"Glad He Made Good Job."

Alexis Desroche, the murderer, was taken yesterday afternoon to the county jail at Barrie. He evinced no signs of regret or weakness. On the contrary, to his brother, Xavier, who saw him in his cell, he said he was "glad that he made a good job of it."

"What do you think will happen to you?" Xavier asked.

"It is understood I will get into trouble," was the reply.

Alexis accused his brother of being the cause of it all, taking the reasoning that if he (Xavier) and Father Laboriau, the executors of his father's estate, had given him a farm or home, he would have settled down to work and would not have "met this woman," meaning his murdered wife. It appears that when the father died he left $1,000 for Alexis to be given him by the executors as they deemed best.

"There Was No Use."

"There was no use in my placing him on a farm," said Xavier, "because he did not know how to take care of it."

He then gave him money from time to time, however, until almost all the $1,000 had gone. He says Alexis was always weak-minded and this is borne out by neighbors who say that he was a very nervous man.

When Alexis ever had any trouble, or even when he was by great fury, he lost all control of himself, and did not know what he was doing. Finally he would take a notion not to work, and then no person could compel him to. He would hang around as long as any person would give him money, but when that was refused him he would get terribly ugly. "This he believed had been one cause of trouble with his wife."

"You could not believe a word he said," added his brother. "You could never get anything straight from him."

Still Won't Talk.

Three Rivers, Que., April 15.—In the Slater adjourned murder investigation the widow of the murdered man was again brought up as a witness, but on the advice of her lawyers refused to answer any interrogations, and the case was postponed until 22nd inst.

PRIVATE BUT CANDID.

Mr. Balfour Reads Statement Prepared By Mr. Chamberlain.

London, April 15.—A deputation, strictly private of Chamberlainites was received by Premier Balfour in the House of Commons yesterday.

The interview took the form of a conversation. Mr. Balfour carefully read the statement prepared by Mr. Chamberlain as the outcome of the meeting of the tariff reforms on Thursday. He was not pressed for an immediate reply, so the deputation left without any decision being arrived at.

It is understood the proceedings were of a cordial character.

Must Market Manufactures.

A. Bonar Law, M. P., Unionist, as principal speaker at the Central Finbury Unionist Association meeting, discussing the fiscal question, said: "What we need more than anything else was a market for our manufactured goods. Surely it was worth while to try and get a bigger share of trade by even imposing a small tax on corn in order that a bigger amount of the immense trade with the British Empire should be done by British hands."

Montcalm Still Fast.

Quebec, April 15.—The position of the steamer Montcalm in the Cap Rouge ice jam was unchanged at 9 o'clock last evening. She is lying without apparent danger behind the Point Aux Basile rock, some thirty or forty feet from the south shore. The vessel is completely wedged in on all sides with ice, in some places from thirty to forty feet high. Above the vessel the ice is a solid barrier from one side of the river to the other. Officials of the department are of the opinion that the Montcalm is doomed to be helpless until the high tides come. The next series of spring tides are due on the 19th inst.

Fell In A Fit and Drowned.

Brookville, April 15.—Thursday the body of John D. Robinson, aged 27 years, and unmarried, was recovered from a small creek running through Motte Mills in Leeds County. On Tuesday Robinson told his mother he was going along the bank of the creek for a walk to see if the fish had begun to run. This was the last seen of him alive. The body was found under the projecting roots of a stump, held in three feet of water. Robinson was supposed to be fainting fit.

BATTLE NOW IN THE AIR

Russian and Japanese Fleets May Fight Any Moment.

Admiral Rojestvensky With His Warships Sailing Right Into the Teeth of the Japanese, and at Present Going Will Be Off Formosa, Togo's Base, on Sunday Morning—The Land War.

Salon, April 15.—There is now no doubt that a fight between the Russian and Japanese fleet may take place at any moment. The British ship Sir George White, in last evening from Manila, passed the entire Russian squadron. Thursday morning 150 miles south of Triton Island in the Farasels group. The warships were taking the nearest route to Formosa, their course being almost due east and their speed about nine knots an hour. It is clear, therefore, that the Russians are not seeking to evade the Japanese warships, and at nine miles an hour the fleet will be off the Island of Formosa on Sunday morning. It is hardly probable that Admiral Togo will permit them to get so far without a night attack upon a portion of the fleet.

RUSSIANS AT KIRIN.

Main Force Reaches Objective Having Fought All the Way.

Tokio, April 15.—The following official announcement was made yesterday: "Our force advancing eastward via Fushun and Halling road encountered and defeated the enemy on the morning of the 12th at Erhousen, seven miles east of Kirin. The enemy's strength was one regiment of infantry, six squadrons of cavalry and four guns. Our force then occupied Tangshan, about 19 miles west of Kirin. The enemy, in retreating toward Halling, fought at every stop.

"The enemy on the Kirin road has gradually retreated since the evening of the 12th. A portion of the force still remaining to bar the passage of the Tushu river."

"No change has occurred in the Chungtu or Fakhmen districts, except occasional cavalry skirmishes."

Main Force at Kirin.

It is reported that the main force of the Russians, which retired in the direction of Heilung, has reached Kirin. The rear guard, which is estimated at 15,000 men, continues in the vicinity of Harbin, closely in touch with the Japanese vanguard.

The main force, which retired from Kailuan, over the Kirin road, is reported as Kirin, with a rear guard of 5,000 men at Hsuehchow, Haklusu and Atsulipao, keeping in touch with the Japanese forces.

Changchen is evidently the rallying point for the Chungtu and Fakhmen forces. Although a force, estimated at 15,000 men, to hold Pablenchong, the latter force seems assigned to check and retard the Japanese advance.

The Imperial ordinance, which declared Wako Harbor, on the Pascoo-deo Islands, in a state of siege, became operative yesterday.

Japanese Spy Shot.

Gumahu Pass, April 15.—Lieut. Kobashi, of the Twenty-third Japanese dragons, who was captured disguised as a Chinaman, confessed he was a spy and was tried by court martial, was shot yesterday.

Stosses Not Condemned to Death.

St. Petersburg, April 15.—There is no truth in the report from Cracow that Lieut.-Gen. Stosses had been as a formally condemned to death by the commission appointed to enquire into the surrender of Port Arthur. His trial only began yesterday.

THE WIZARD OF OZ

"The Wizard of Oz," the musical extravaganza, which has brought fame and fortune to its authors and managers, arrive in Chatham on Sunday at 2:17 p. m., per G. T. R., for their engagement at the Grand on Monday night. There are nearly one hundred people in the cast, which is exactly the same as played the Detroit Opera House in Detroit a short time ago, and it can safely be said that no comic opera company ever made a more favorable impression on the Detroit audiences than the "Wizard of Oz." Every seat was sold for the week long before the opening performance.

There is only one medicine intended for use among infants and young children that gives mothers a guarantee that it is free from opiates and poisonous soothing stuffs. That medicine is Baby's Own Tablets. Milton L. Hersey, M. These tablets cure all minor ailments of little ones, such as teething troubles, simple fevers, colds, constipation, diarrhoea, colic and worms. They make little ones sleep naturally because they remove the cause of sleeplessness. THE STAGE

"All the world's a stage and all the men and women merely players."

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

At the Grand—
Wizard of Oz—April 17.
(Supplied to The Planet by Press Agents.)

"THE WIZARD OF OZ."

The "Wizard of Oz," which is to be seen at the Grand on Monday, April 17, is more than duplicating its success of last year, a success as great that it is easily the leader of the class of entertainments.

Frank Baum's fairy tale is one that is well adapted for a spectacular extravaganza, and both his ideas and those of the dramatist have been most faithfully copied in the construction of the play. The Scarecrow, the Tin Woodman, the Cowardly Lion and the Cow are most original creations and are being capitalistically portrayed at the hands of a quartette of clever players. Bert Swor's Scarecrow and John Swor's Tin Woodman are, of course, the principal features, and it is said it would be hard to imagine any two similar characters being better played. Both gentlemen keep well within the bounds of good taste, and their "make-ups" and general performance denote studious effort.

There is just enough of other things in the way of music, dances and spectacular effects to keep an audience in good humor, and the play is never permitted to drag for a moment when the comedians are off the stage. The ladies of the company are good to look upon and dance and sing with never failing vigor.

Whistler at the Barber's.

In the midst of enthusiasm and nonsense, Whistler moved the prince of folly: dapper, fantastic, irresponsible, a farcical of genius, Ariel and Puck made flesh. Mr. Menpes gives us a ruthless picture of this exterior Whistler. We go with him to the tailor and see him prancing for a quarter of an hour before the mirror—hand on hip, his cane balanced between his fingers and his cocked hat over one eye—a perfect figure out of Moliere. Or to the barber's: Even in so small a detail as the dressing of his hair, Whistler was most particular. Many people thought him vain; but that idea is quite false. He treated his hair as he would not but treat everything about him, purely from the artistic standpoint, as a picture, a bit of decoration. Many a time have I been with him to the hair-dresser in Regent street. Customers ceased to be interested in their own hair; operators stopped their manipulating everyone turned to watch Whistler having his hair dressed.

The hair was trimmed, but left rather long. Whistler directing the cutting of every lock he watched the barber in the glass.

The clipping completed, Whistler waved the operators imperiously on one side, and we noticed for a while the back view of this superb little figure surveying himself in the glass, stepping now backward, now forward. Suddenly, to the intense surprise of the bystanders, he put his head into a basin of water, and then, half drying his hair, shook it into matter wet curls. With the comb he carefully picked out the while lock, a tuft of hair just above his forehead, wrapped it in a towel and walked about the room for from five to ten minutes pinching it dry, with the rest of his hair hanging over his face. Still pinching the towel, Whistler would then beat the rest of his hair into ringlets (to comb them would not have given them the right quality) until they fell in decorative waves all over his head. A loud scream would then rend the air! Whistler wanted a comb! This procured, he would comb the white lock into a feathery plume, and with a few broad movements of his hand form the whole into a picture. Then he would look beamingly at himself in the glass, and say but two words, "Menpes, amazing!" and sail triumphantly out of the shop.

To Prove Earth Round.

Although it was demonstrated more than 2,000 years ago that the earth is globular in form, there are certain persons who maintain that it is flat. About thirty years ago a controversy on the subject waxed so hot that it was determined to put the matter to direct experiment in order to settle the question once for all.

The place chosen was near Bedford, England, where there is a straight six-mile stretch of water. At both ends and in the middle of this water posts were erected, each of the same definite height above the water level.

Upon looking with a telescope along the tops of these three posts it was clearly seen that the centre one was topped the others by about six feet, owing to the curvature of the surface of the earth.

These experiments were recently repeated in a more scientific manner by E. Yule Oldham, who read a paper on the subject before the Glasgow meeting of the British Association. The same results were obtained, with the important difference that by the employment of a telephoto-photographic lens and camera the six-foot prominence of the middle post was recorded in an unmistakable manner.

An unfulfilled promise is apt to come back in a way not at all pleasant.

My wife has purchased Cuticura for other sufferers, with good results in each case.—Robert J. Finnemore (Judge of the Natal Supreme Court), Pietermaritzburg, Natal."

Needed No Introduction.

"It pays sometimes to know a little of the family history of your clients," said a business woman the other day. "It would have saved me from making a blunder if I had known the relations that formerly existed between two men who met in my office. Their business was practically of the same nature, and as I was obliged to leave them together for a few minutes while I attended to some telephone calls, I thought it would be more agreeable if I introduced them. They responded rather stiffly, but I put that down to temperament and went into my inner office. When I returned a quarter of an hour later the younger man dispatched his business as quickly as possible and got out. The other said: "I was not aware that you were acquainted with my ex-brother-in-law." "Ex-brother-in-law?" I asked stupidly. "Yes. My sister got a divorce from him last summer."

Schools in France.

The French system of education is intensely national. Its plan is exactly the opposite from our own school system. With us the local community controls primary schools. In France the local community has no voice in the matter. The French system is the most centralized, the most strictly regulated, the most autocratic and the farthest removed from democratic ideas of any school system in existence. The exact uniformity of the schools is almost unbelievable. The minister of instruction, sitting in his office in Paris, can tell at any moment just what style of La Fontaine each child of a certain age throughout the whole of France is reciting. Teachers are not allowed any latitude at all. The result is to leave both teachers and scholars at most completely lacking in mental originality.—F. A. Vanderlip in Scribner.

LIFE IN A ROLLING MILL.

Handling Big Chunks of White Hot Metal and Rolling It Into Bars is Strenuous Work.

Do you love the strenuous life. Would you like a taste of it? Then go to a rolling mill, get to work, and you will find the real article that so many people talk about, and so few really like to live.

Only men of might and muscle, men who are quick to think and quick to act, can "make good" in a place where great chunks of iron are heated in huge furnaces until they are white hot, and then by the process of rolling are converted into symmetrical bars or rods, and made ready for the bolt-maker.

Windows Wide Open.

There is no place like a rolling mill for building up a rugged and hardy physique. It makes men tough. When a Toronto Star and took a walk through the mill of the Toronto Bolt and Forging Co. at Sunnyside one day recently the men were at work, and evidently keeping warm, although some of them were clad only in a single suit of underwear, trousers, boots, and hat. The mill is no hot-house, for it is open to the winds on all sides, and the mercury was hovering about ten or twelve degrees below the zero mark, yet these sturdy, hardy fellows were evidently unconcerned by the bitings of Jack Frost.

The men in the mill get to work about 5:30 in the morning, and they are generally through at 4 or 4:30 in the afternoon. They prefer to get an early start, and as they have to work almost continuously, they eat their luncheon whenever they get a chance.

A Picturesque Process.

The process of rolling out the iron into bars and rods is a most picturesque one, particularly at night when the glare of the red-hot metal seems brighter than usual. The work is done so swiftly that the iron, after passing and repeating through the rollers some sixteen times, is almost as hot as when taken in a chunk from the furnace. There are two mills through which it passes, the "roughing" mill, the "finishing" mill. It goes into the first a solid block, about six or eight inches thick and two feet long. In the mill there are a number of grooves, and a man stands at each side of the machine, armed with long tongs. The iron is fed back and forth from one side to the other into grooves of decreasing size, until when it leaves the roughing mill it is perhaps eight or ten feet long and much thinner than before. Then it is fed into the finishing mill, and squeezed to still greater length, sometimes even to 100 feet. The average length is 60 or 70 feet.

Iron Like a Rope.

When passing through these finer rolls the iron becomes almost like a rope. Pliable, twisting, turning, it runs like a worm between the rapidly revolving rollers, and stretches itself, sometimes in coils on the floor. For people who are not familiar with the process, the sight is very strange. The required size, and comes out into a long narrow coil, where it must run straight. Then the men come along with the tongs and lead it out into a floor of iron plates. When it is cold enough to handle, each long bar is cut into lengths of fourteen feet, and afterwards carted to the bolt works at Swanton.

Sometimes there is a gorgeous pyrotechnic display when the iron is first fed into the rolls. Sparks fly to the roof, and the natural fireworks are often more brilliant and beautiful than the artificial variety. This is particularly true of certain qualities of iron, which, when entering the grooves of the rolls, make a crashing noise like the roar of a cannon.

There's Danger In It.

The men who handle these bars of iron must be quick and careful, for a twist or a turn of a red-hot bar might put a scar on a man for life. Men who throw hot iron about must have iron nerve.

The iron rolled out so neatly is all made from scrap, which is sold to the mill by junk dealers. A large proportion of it comes from the sides of ways. This is thrown into the furnaces, rolled into balls weighing probably 200 lbs., and carried by a crane from the furnace to the "squeezing" machine. This squeezing is really a very small enough to go into the grooves of the rolls.

It is very important that the rolls be kept true. The least variation spoils the size of the bars. Sometimes it happens that the iron is too big for the grooves, and then comes a crash. It is generally the couplings that burst in this event, and the machine is so arranged that the rolls, which are the most valuable part of the outfit, are saved at the expense of the other parts of it.

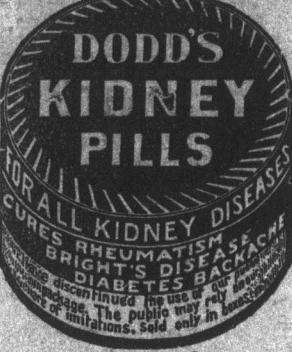

A great deal of power is necessary to run a rolling mill. In the one in question there is a 250-horse-power engine, another of 350-horse-power, and four smaller ones. The quantity of water needed is also great, for the rollers must be fed with water, and the rolls must be kept cool. There is almost a net work of water and steam pipes in the mill.

Twenty-five tons of coal are burned every day in the record of the mill for the past few weeks of cold weather, when it was harder than usual to keep steam up.

The rolling mill, in point of heat is the summer months, is probably only second to Hades itself. "We open her up then, though," said the Manager, referring to this point, and meaning by that statement the sides of the mill were opened as much as possible, and that the mill consisted mainly of a roof when the weather was very warm. It is not so warm, however, that the men in the mill dread most. It is the scorching heat of the dog days that kills them.

Electric Ears For Ships.

Ships will soon have an organ that will hear the approach of a torpedo boat that the captain cannot see or that will hear the sound of the fog bell or the waves beating against a dangerous rock on a stormy night. These electrical ears are more sensitive than human ears, because the sounds they will hear are sounds which travel under water, a medium which transmits sound better than air. It is the superiority of the water as a sound transmitter that has brought about the new invention.

International Bible Lesson for To-morrow.

The Supper at Bethany.—John 12, 1-11.

Golden Text—"She hath done what she could."—Mark 14, 8.

There never was such a supper as this before or since, with a healed leper as the host and Lazarus called from death and corruption back to life and health, his sisters and Jesus' disciples all met to honor their Lord and be honored by Him.

The occasion was sensational and uncommon, and from curiosity came to Bethany. The difference of disposition in Martha and Mary shows itself again—Martha's faithful activity, Mary's quiet, loving sacrifice of her precious pound of spices.

It is worth about fifty dollars which she had kept to anoint her Lord for his burying. Note the diversity of attitude toward Jesus in our lesson. Simon, the leper, gave the supper to honor Him, Lazarus and his sisters adored him. His disciples indignantly thought it waste to spend so much on Him; Judas, thief and hypocrite, wanted plunder—see verses 5 and 10.

Between these two extremes whereabouts comes in our treatment of Jesus Christ? Teacher, will you daily pray until the answer comes—Oh, Lord, send a revival and begin it in me, for Jesus' sake. Amen!

FOR TEACHERS

Arrangements have been completed for the entertainment of the visiting teachers of the county at the McKee School, next Wednesday evening. The entertainment promises to be the best ever provided for the teachers in convention.

W. N. May, chairman of the Public School Board, will act as chairman of the evening.

Dr. Geo. T. McKee will deliver a lecture on Rome, giving an account of his travels through Italy.

Miss Gertrude Somerville, soprano, will sing a couple of solos and the Christ Church Male Quartette, composed of Messrs. J. W. Wilson, J. R. Smith, W. M. Smith and R. W. Angus, will give a number of selections.

This will be followed by a conversation and the serving of refreshments.

The dancing committee, under the direction of Miss Irving, will make the room attractive and inviting for the visitors.

Some men give the bill to a sentiment before it is half uttered.

Rashness is the faithful but unhappy parent of misfortune.

To be firm of character does not mean to be steadily stubborn.

Bearing burdens gracefully does not always come with practice.

Do You See Specks

And spots before your eyes and imagine you are simply bilious? Do they continue in spite of ordinary curative remedies? Does your headache constantly or more or less intermittently? All these ailments may be due to stomach or liver trouble; but the chances are that once your eyes are set right by well adjusted glasses or spectacles, the spots and specks, the head aches and heart aches will miraculously disappear. At all events it's worth trying, isn't it, when the trial costs you nothing whatever here.

Leading Jeweller and Scientific Optician, Chatham, Ont.

...SOCIETY...

Miss Gertrude Scott, Park avenue, is visiting friends in Detroit.

Miss Mary McKee, of Dover Lodge, left Saturday on an extended visit to Montreal.

Mayor Cowan, of Chatham, was a caller on Mayor Campbell at the City Hall yesterday. He was on his way home from Toronto. — London Free Press.

P. H. Bowyer, M. P. P., East Kent, and A. B. McCole, M. P. P., West Kent, were among the invited guests at the Government House dinner at Toronto. The function was under the personal supervision of His Honor, the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province.

Howard Stevens, son of Mr. H. J. Stevens, manager of the Canada Flour Mills Co., is expected home from California next week. Mrs. Stevens is too ill to come home, but will return as soon as it will be safe for her to make the journey. She is at present suffering with a brother of Mr. N. H. Stevens.

Ex-Mayor McKee has received a letter of thanks from his friend Edmund Bristol, M. P. Mr. McKee wrote congratulating Mr. Bristol on his election in Toronto to represent the seat formerly held by the late Ned Clarke. Mr. Bristol and Mr. McKee were room-mates when they were both law students together. At that time the Chatham young man predicted that his friend would some day make a political name and be Premier of Canada. Mr. Bristol is brilliant and a born fighter.

For an Easter Gift.

There is nothing nicer, nor anything more appropriate than a fine plant. This year we promise you something out of the ordinary. Mr. Ross tells us that his collection of Palms, Ferns, and other decorative plants is the finest he has had. You will have an opportunity of seeing them here the early part of next week. Prices are reasonable, and the plants are beautiful.

Besides these we have several hundred small plants—Tulips, Hyacinths and Daffodils, to sell at 10c. and 15c. Each. No one need be without flowers this Easter. Our regular Easter contribution at the Candy Counter is much larger than usual. The ordinary barnyard cannot compare with our display. Such variety of Birds, Chickens, Rabbits and Eggs is not to be found anywhere else. In more fancy things, our baskets are very attractive, and our fancy boxes are things of beauty.

You will find our Candy stock as complete now as it is at Christmas, and you can depend on getting the best there is in the candy line here. We shall be glad to have you come in and see what we have. We know you will be pleased, and the children will be delighted.

Richard McNairnie, of Dover Township, while driving home on Tuesday with a load of chop, had a bad accident. He turned to straighten a bag that was slipping when the horses became startled and jumped. Dick fell from the wagon, striking the ground with his shoulder, breaking his shoulder blade. One wheel passed over his ankle. He is expected to recover in a week.—Wallaceburg News.

Mr. Thos. McCall, Communication Road, met with an accident last week that might easily have resulted much more seriously than it did. He was looking at the fat steers in the barn of his father, Mr. Duncan McCall, Black Ridge, and when he stepped in between two of the animals one of them kicked him and knocked him down. He was then kicked in the face and body and only the fact that one of the steers broke its chain and ran out from the barn saved him from much more serious injury.—Blenheim News-Tribune.

Indigestion

It isn't always the stomach's fault that food is not digested. Torpid liver brings Constipation. Bile gets in the stomach. The kidneys become affected. The whole process of digestion is weakened. No wonder you feel so uncomfortable after eating.

Fruit-actives

or Fruit Liver Tablets

make digestion complete by making the liver strong and active. They cause more bile to be excreted, thus effectively curing Constipation. They tone up the stomach, regulate the kidneys, build up the whole system. Made from pure fruit juices, their medicinal action is intensified by a secret process of combining them.

THE PET MOUSE.

It is Made of Cork, but Really Acts as Though it Were Alive.

You can have a pet mouse if you want to, and even though he is only made of cork with the proper manipulation he will act as though he were really alive.

First carve a cork into the form of a mouse as well as you can. Then cut away the under part of the body so it will lie perfectly flat. Two ears are now added by means of cardboard and a little glue, and the tail is formed by attaching a piece of cord in the place where it should be.

Blacken Mr. Mouse in the flame of a candle and then insert a tiny hook in the front part of his body, concealing it from view underneath his neck.

Next tie a piece of black thread about ten inches long to a convenient buttonhole. The end of the thread terminates in a loop.

Fix the loop in the hook, tightening the thread and put the mouse upon the back of your left hand.

If you move the hand back from the body the mouse, which does not move at all, seems to glide across the back of the hand, and at the moment it is about to fall, when it reaches the thumb, the right hand passed below arrives to catch it near the little finger, and from there by the same previous movement it appears to travel to the thumb.

When Women Jump.
Two things there are that women will jump at: a man's conclusions and a timid little maid.
—Detroit Free Press.

THE HAPPINESS OF HOME.
Very largely depends on the mother's disposition; if she is kind, generous and bright, everyone is happy; but if she is nervous, irritable and cross-everything goes wrong. Bright, cheerful women usually use Ferrozene, the greatest health-maker known. By acting through the blood Ferrozene is able to reach all the organs that need assistance; it establishes regular and healthy action of all functions, builds up the general health, fortifies the system with a reserve of energy that defies disease. Don't put off—Ferrozene costs only 50c. at any drug store; get it to-day.

A bachelor says no woman can throw straight because she squints. But just the same she's accurate when it comes to throwing hints.
—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

"Have by some surgeon, Shylock, on thy charge, to stop his wounds lest he do bleed to death." People weaken the body. It must follow that gain of blood gives the body strength. The strengthening effect of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is in large part due to its action on the blood-making glands and the increased supply of pure, rich blood it produces. It is only when the blood is impoverished and impure that disease finds a soil in which to root. The "Discovery" purifies the blood and makes it antagonistic to disease. When the body is emaciated, the lungs are weak, and there is obstinate cough, "Golden Medical Discovery" puts the body on a fighting footing against disease, and so increases the vitality that disease is thrown off, and physical health perfectly and permanently restored. It has cured thousands who were hopeless and helpless, and who had tried all other means of cure without avail.

Thirty-one one-cent stamps to cover expense of mailing and customs will obtain a copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Advice, 1008 pages, in paper cover. Send 50 stamps if cloth binding is preferred. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

MR. SIFTON'S CAREER.

Sketch of the Life of a Man in the Public Eye.

The Hon. Clifford Sifton, Irish by descent, was born in the township of London, Ont., on March 10, 1861, the son of John W. Sifton, formerly speaker of the Manitoba Legislative Assembly, and his wife, Catharine Watkins. Educated at the high school of London, at the Boys' College, Dundas, and Victoria University, Cobourg, he graduated B. A. and Prince of Wales medalist in 1880, and was called to the Manitoba bar in 1882. Removing from Winnipeg to Brandon, where he commenced the practice of law, he became city solicitor and solicitor to the Western Judicial Board, and in 1886 was created Queen's counsel by Lord Aberdeen.

In 1888 he entered the Manitoba Legislative Assembly as member for North Brandon, and joined the Greenway administration on May 14, 1891, as Attorney-General and Minister of Education. During his tenure of office he codified the law relating to civil procedure in Manitoba and conducted the negotiations with the Dominion Government on the Manitoba school question. He was one of the representatives of the Province at the Ottawa Reform convention of June, 1893, being elected a vice-chairman, acted as Premier during Mr. Greenway's illness in 1895, and in June of the latter year introduced in the Legislature the resolution refusing to carry out the Dominion Government's order of council for the restoration of separate school privileges to the Catholics of Manitoba. In February, 1896, he introduced the resolutions protesting against the passage of the Manitoba Act, and was appointed a commissioner to meet in conference with the Dominion delegates to discuss the school question.

On November 17, 1896, Mr. Sifton retired from the Government and entered Sir Wilfrid Laurier's administration as Minister of the Interior and Superintendent General of Indian Affairs. In the same month he was returned for Brandon in the Liberal campaign on the vacation of the seat by Dalton McCarthy and in the autumn of 1897 personally inspected the various inlets of the Yukon region. On his return Mr. Sifton visited Washington and negotiated the arrangement made with the United States Government for the free passage of Canadian goods into the Yukon. He acted as agent of the Yukon Government before the Alaska Boundary Tribunal in 1903 and throughout his official career has devoted special attention to increasing immigration to Canada. Mr. Sifton was re-elected member for Brandon in 1900 and again at the last Dominion election. He is a vice-president of the Dominion Educational Association and a member of the Methodist Church. Mr. Sifton was married in August, 1884, to Elizabeth A. A. daughter of H. T. Burrows, of Ottawa. In politics he is a "life-long Liberal."

A Great Painter's Beginning.

Sir Thomas Lawrence was one of the great portrait painters in England. His parents were poor, his father being a country innkeeper. One day Lord Shaftesbury's father and mother stopped at the inn, having their young son, the future lord, with them. In conversation the innkeeper spoke of the genius of his boy in drawing and wished them to test it by a picture of their son. They assented, thinking to gratify a father's pride, but not looking for any evidence of superior talent. The boy came in modestly, with chalk and paper, and in a few minutes had drawn a picture of their son on which the parents looked with wonder. They recognized the genius and the promise of future greatness and befriended the young artist, giving him the help needed to develop his wonderful gift.

GOES WEST

George Findlay, who for the past eight years has kept a vegetable booth on the market square, has decided to leave Chatham and seek his fortunes in the Northwest.

Mr. Findlay's departure will be greatly regretted by those who patronized him on the market square. He has always proved himself an up-to-date gardener and was always courteous and obliging to his customers. He has rented his farm to Mr. Vaneckle who, it is understood, will continue the business on the market.

Mr. Findlay will go to Calgary on the 1st of May and leaves this evening for Pontiac, where he will visit his sister. He will return to Chatham before he goes west.

MUSICAL

A KINGSTONIAN YOUNG LADY WINS LAURELS IN THE "MAPLE CITY."

At a recital, given at the Ursuline Academy last evening, Miss Mona Natalie Knight, daughter of Dr. A. P. Knight, Queen's University, Kingston, won high laurels by her rendition of several vocal numbers, among which were "The nightingale has a cry of gold," "The Rose," "The river and the sea," and a most exquisite aria from one of the "Grand Old Masters," in appreciation of which she was presented with gorgeous flowers.

If, a beautifully free, resonant and unforced tone, faultless intonation, a nice differentiation of the vowel quality, yet preserving the evenness and continuity of the tone, dramatic ability, clear, intellectual conception of the text, if these, combined with a phenomenal range and beautiful quality of tone, go to make up a singer, the young lady we had the pleasure of hearing in the Academy hall last evening is entitled to the highest meed of praise given her by an appreciative and soul-stirred audience.

Naturally, the question arose: "Under whom has the young lady been studying?" When told she was a pupil of Mrs. J. R. C. Dobbs, of Kingston, we could not but think that the teacher should come in for a share—and a generous one, too—of the many complimentary remarks and congratulations offered to this gifted young girl. From the enthusiastic manner in which Miss Knight spoke of her teacher it seemed that she would have the honor of all her successes shared by the one who, as she said, "has had such unlimited patience teaching me."

MAY DRAG INTO JULY

Autonomy Debate May Throw Proportion of Commons into Summer.

Ottawa, April 15.—This is going to be a long session, and, according to calculations made yesterday, it will extend well on towards the end of June or even into the beginning of July. The autonomy debate still holds the centre of the parliamentary stage, and it will be the first week of May before a division is reached.

The debaters yesterday were Mr. Cockburn, Brantford; Mr. Bruneau, of Richelieu; Mr. Crawford, Portage la Prairie, Man.; and Mr. Schaffer, of Souris, Man. The adjournment was moved by Mr. Grant, of North Ontario, and the House rose at midnight.

The Government bill to relieve Mr. Lewis, of West Huron, from certain disabilities arising from the fact that he was the guarantor of a holder of a small mail-carrying contract in his riding, was read a first time.

The Cattle Embargo.

Ottawa, April 15.—P. H. Mackenzie, M. P. in the agricultural committee yesterday secured a day to be set apart for the discussion of the embargo on Canadian cattle going to Great Britain.

Fewer Rejected Ballots.

Ottawa, April 15.—In the last Dominion election there were less rejected ballots than ever before. There is not a constituency in Canada where individual voters did not purposefully mark ballots for more than one candidate, the idea being to keep promises made to rival candidates. When an allowance is made for these cases the probability is that the number of ballots accidentally spoiled is very small, indeed. The rejected ballots in November last numbered 8,097 out of a total vote of 1,039,128 throughout the Dominion, in 1900 there were 7,718 out of a total vote of 952,496, and in 1898 13,871 out of a total vote of 935,600. The diminution, therefore, represents over 20 per cent. over the record of the preceding general election.

Mrs. Chadwick Pleads Again.

Cleveland, April 15.—Mrs. Chadwick, when arraigned yesterday, pleaded not guilty to the new indictment charging her with aiding and abetting Cashier A. B. Spear, of the Oberlin Bank, in making false entries in the bank's books and in making untrue statements to the controller of the currency. Spear was also arraigned and pleaded not guilty to the joint indictment.

Trawler Sinks a Bark.

Lowestoft, Eng., April 15.—The crew of the Norwegian bark Tanored, from Goole for Gaspe, Que., were landed here yesterday. The Tanored, a wooden vessel of 471 tons gross, was sunk in a collision on April 8 with the steam trawler Ostrich.

It doesn't look as if the pavement builders would have much more to do this year than the market builders.

The middle-aged child is always getting into trouble, but I'll venture to remark that The Planet Junior's gold medal child will be the pride of the nation.

A little girl, daughter of a prominent Liberal in Canada, and who has been taught to pray for everybody, recently startled her mother one evening by her devout prayers, as follows: "Now, O God, take care of yourself; for, if we lose you, we shall only have Laurier left to take care of us, and he is not doing as well as papa expected he would do." —Edinburgh, Scotland. Weekly Star.

The trustees of the Public School Board substantiated their appreciation of their teacher, Miss Walker, when they presented her with the usual salary for the period during which she was incapacitated. Miss Walker, by an injury resulting from a fall, last Christmas, was unable to resume her duties until the third week in March.—Wallaceburg News.

President To The Mothers

Text of Theodore Roosevelt's Address to the United States National Congress of Mothers.

The following is a portion of Mr. Roosevelt's address to the National Congress of Mothers at Washington, April 13:

As much as I am speaking to an assembly of mothers I shall have to say in praise of the mother's work. Yours is the work that is never ended. No mother can have very hard times; and yet a true mother would rather barter her experience of joy and sorrow in exchange for a life of cold selfishness, which insists upon perpetual amusement and the avoidance of care, and which often finds its fit dwelling place in some flat designed to furnish with the least possible expenditure of effort the maximum of comfort and of luxury, but in which there is literally no place for children.

The woman who is a good wife, a good mother, is entitled to our respect as is no one else, but she is entitled to it only because, and so long as she is worthy of it. Effort and self-sacrifice are the way of worthy life for the man as for the woman, though neither the effort nor the self-sacrifice may be the same for the one as for the other.

INSTEAD TOO SUBMISSIVE WIVES help do not in the least believe in the Patient Griselda type of woman. Once the woman who submits to gross and long-continued ill-treatment, any more than I believe in a man who tamely submits to wrongful aggression. No wrongdoing is so abhorrent as wrongdoing by a man toward the wife and the children who should arouse every tender feeling in his nature.

Selfishness toward them, lack of tenderness toward them, lack of consideration for them, above all, brutality in any form toward them, should arouse the heartiest scorn and indignation in every upright soul.

I believe in the woman's keeping her self-respect just as I believe in the man's doing so. I believe in her rights just as much as I believe in the man's, and, indeed, a little more, and I regard marriage as a partnership, in which each partner is in honor bound to think of the rights of the other as well as of his or her own.

But I think that the duties are even more important than the rights, and in the long run I think that the reward is ampler and greater for duty well done than for the in-assistance upon individual rights, necessary though this, too, must often be.

Your duty is hard, your responsibility great, but greatest of all is your reward. I do not pity you in the least. On the contrary, I feel respect and admiration for you. Into the woman's keeping is committed the destiny of the generations to come after us. In bringing up your children you mothers must remember that while it is essential to be loving and tender it is no less essential to be wise and firm.

Foolishness and affection must not be treated as interchangeable terms, and besides training your sons and daughters in the softer and milder virtues you must seek to give them those stern and hardy qualities which in after life they will surely need. Some children will go wrong in spite of the best training, and some will go right even when their surroundings are most unfortunate; nevertheless, an immense amount depends upon the family training.

If you mothers through weakness bring up your sons to be selfish and to think only of themselves, you will be responsible for much sadness among the women who are to be their wives in the future. If you let your daughters grow up idle, perhaps under the mistaken impression that as you yourselves have had to work hard they shall know only enjoyment, you are preparing them to be useless to others and burdens to themselves.

Teach boys and girls alike that they are not to look forward to lives spent in avoiding difficulties, but to live spent in overcoming difficulties. Teach them that work, for themselves and also for others, is not a curse but a blessing; seek to make them happy, to make them enjoy life, but seek also to make them face life with the steadfast resolution to meet success from labor and adversity, and to do their whole duty before God and to man. Surely, she who can thus train her sons and her daughters is threefold fortunate among women.

CONTEMPT FOR WIFE'S CHILD-LESSNESS.

There are many good people who are denied the supreme blessing of children, and for these we have the respect and sympathy always due to those who, from no fault of their own, are denied any of the other

ANCIENT TOOLS

The ancient Egyptians had tools for stone working equal to anything in use today. They used both solid and tubular drills and straight and circular saws. The drills were set with jewels, probably corundum, and even lathe tools had such cutting edges. So remarkable was the quality of the tubular drills, it is said, and the skill of the workmen, that the cutting marks in the hard granite gave no indication of the wear of the tool, while a cut of a tenth part of an inch was made in the hardest rock at each revolution, and a hole through both the hardest and softest material was bored perfectly smooth and uniform throughout. Of the material and method of making the tools nothing is known.

AN EASY CREDITOR

In a certain town of Connecticut a deacon of the church, charged with soliciting subscriptions for a charity, recently experienced considerable difficulty in getting the townsmen to contribute. To one of his neighbors the deacon said:

Oh, come, Richard, do give something.

Sorry, deacon, answered Richard, but I don't see how I can.

Why not? Isn't the cause a good one?

Oh, yes, the cause is good enough, but I owe too much money.

But, Richard, you owe God a larger debt than anyone else.

That's true, too, drawled Richard, but God ain't pushin' me.—Harper's Weekly.

HELEN KELLER

The World's Most Remarkable College Graduate

The story of Helen Keller's life is the biography of two wonderful women—the blind, deaf and dumb girl, who for over twenty years has fought against awful odds; and the kind, ingenious and patient teacher who has led her charge into the sunlight of knowledge and of kinship with humanity.

In 1886, when Miss Annie Sullivan was called to Tuscomb, Ala., to assume the care of Helen, the child had been living for nearly five years in the mental darkness that followed her treble affliction resulting from convulsions. The task of education seemed well-nigh hopeless, for the one sense through which the child's mind was to be awakened to consciousness was her sense of touch. But in June, 1904, eighteen years later, Miss Keller graduated from Radcliffe with distinction, and received her degree of B. A.

This fairy tale of education, this romance of the conquest of obstacles, is a superb triumph of concentration. At her entrance examination in June, 1900, as if Nature had not sufficiently handicapped her efforts, she had to submit to two additional trials. The questions were given her in the American Braille system of writing for the blind, with which Miss Keller was only slightly familiar, having learned the English Braille—the two systems being as different as two distinct systems of shorthand. This duty in puzzling out the translation of the questions was further aggravated by the fact that her little Swiss watch with raised figures had unfortunately been left at home, so she had no means of gauging the time, yet her typewriter clicked out the answers and she "passed," with flying colors in every study.

During her college course, in many studies Miss Sullivan repeated the lesson while Helen's fragile fingers feathered their way over her mentor's face, translated the muscular motions of speech into ideas. She studied English, Latin, French, Greek, German, political economy, logic, higher mathematics, chemistry and all the other myriad phases of college wisdom, through her wonderful fingers.

She uses the typewriter in five languages, has learned to speak with clear articulation, can swim, row, play cards, chess and basketball; dance, and perform a hundred other seemingly impossible things. Her memory is marvellous, her temperament sunny and happy; her mind is wonderfully broad, subtle and thorough, and her book, "The Story of My Life," besides being great as a biography, is the most important work of the century on psychology as a revelation of the human mind, its methods and possibilities.

Entered according to Act of the Parliament of Canada, in the year 1904, by W. C. Mack, at the Department of Agriculture.

INVENT A FAD AND MAKE A FORTUNE

"Little things" have brought fortunes to many an inventor. The once popular toy known as "Dancing Jimmy" yielded its inventor a $75,000 income yearly. The sale of another toy, "John Gilpin," brought its inventor $100,000 a year. Mr. Plimpton, the inventor of the roller skates, made $1,000,000 out of his idea. When Harvey Kennedy introduced the shoe lace he made $2,500,000, and the ordinary umbrella benefited six people by as much as $10,000,000. The inventor of the Howard patent for boiling sugar in vacuum realized an income of $250,000 per annum. The millions Sir Josiah Mason realized from the improved steel pen he gave to English charities by his death. The patentee of the pen for shading in different colors made $200,000 a year out of it. The wooden ball with an elastic attachment brought $50,000 a year to its inventor. The metal plates formerly used for protecting the soles and heels of shoes from wear made $1,150,000 in a year. The woman who invented the modern baby carriage made $50,000. A young woman living in Port Elizabeth, South Africa, yet realizes $500 a year from the invention of the Mary Anderson curling iron. The wife of a clergyman made a fortune from the invention of the modern woman's corset. A little girl who invented the screw-pointed gimlet made millions. Miss Knight, who invented the machine for making paper bags, refused $50,000 for it shortly after taking out the patent, and realized a princely fortune for the exceptional ingenuity her conception reveals.—American Boy.

HER MISSING BUNDLE LOCATED

When the passengers alighted from an express train in the Grand Central station, New York, one afternoon last week, one of them, an old woman from up-State, remained searching for a package. A brakeman came in to help her, and to him she explained that when she boarded the train she had five bundles. Now only four could be found.

Every nook and cranny of the car was searched, but the package could not be found. Then the conductor appeared.

He had to give the signal to back the train into the yards for a few minutes, he declared, and there could not be much more delay. If the woman would leave her address, the package would be sent to her if it was found, he said.

But she wouldn't agree to that. Her bundle was in the car and she meant to have it.

Minutes were passing. The conductor fumed. So did the brakeman. The woman still hunted. All of a sudden her face showed that her memory had come to her assistance.

"I'm sorry to have caused you all this trouble," she said sweetly. "I did have five bundles when I came on the train, but one of them was my lunch, and I've eaten that. But I'm sure you don't mind."

The brakeman helped her off politely. Then he hunted up the conductor again.

"Well, I'll be blowed," they declared in chorus, and the train backed out of the station.

It is just as well to think your own ideas can occasionally be improved upon.

This very dainty Swiss elder, which shows a delicate Dresden pattern printed in the familiar Dresden oranges, is lined with a foulard silk at has a snowball design printed in all blues and soft white. This gown, made by a well known Parisian house, all to the fondness of the Parisienne to be extremely loose and graceful. The back is cut with a neat waistline, pleated in the centre, and lined to the lining as far as the waist, where it meets the skirt seams and adds to the fullness. The underarm seams are shaped to the figure, while the fronts are left loose and flowing. The broad collar over the shoulder is continued in long points that cross over the bust and afford somewhat of a draped effect. The sleeve is a loose, open pagoda pattern, and both collar and sleeve are amply trimmed with full ruffles of net-top lace that shows a small and dainty design.

Both styles find adherents for reception wear, but the décolleté appears after dark only. The gown pictured shows white chiffon combined with embroidered and spangled panels and flounce-shaped inserts, the tiny ribbon embroidery being used, and the chiffons spangled with several sizes of small gilt paillettes. The corsage is fashioned on the bebe order, with deep girde of white panne. The skirt has tablier front panel of embroidery and from knee to the hem the embroideries are spaced with deep tucks. The high-neck gown is in a fine net lace with chiffon yoke and a sleeve puff. The skirt, in two pieces, has the upper part shirred to the band, and the flounce applied with corded tucks. Both corsage and skirt are trimmed with pomegranate pink silk—a dull pink covering upon a brown—this threaded in narrow stripes through the lace, and finished with a plain border of white anne.

PATRONAGE IN THE STATES.

It is announced from Washington that the executive orders which the President signed before he left on his present trip put under the classified civil service almost the last bits of patronage left to members of Congress.

The President lopped off about 375 patronage positions when he ordered that cashiers and finance clerks in the big postoffices should be put in the classified list, providing the postmaster general endorsed their efficiency. No future appointments may be made to these positions unless the appointees have passed a civil service examination.

Heretofore these have been purely political jobs. All laborers in the Government departments are now classified, and this rule will prevent slipping some fellow into a nice genteel desk job and putting his name on the roll as a laborer, he thereby escaping the service test. All immigrant inspectors serving in contiguous countries must hereafter pass a civil service examination. This takes from the spoilsman a number of good places.

Postmaster-General Cortelyou has put into operation a system which it is declared will take out of the reach of the spoilsman about 70,000 fourth-class postoffice places. In fact, the number of places which are now opened to appointment without examination is so small that it is much easier to enumerate them than it is to enumerate those for which an examination is required. There is a prospect that even the present exempt list will be made smaller before long.

Deputy-collectorships of internal revenue, about 1,000 in number, are still open to the office-grabbers, but it is said that these, with the field deputies in the office of United States marshals, will soon be converted into the classified lists. And with them may go some 1,200 assistant postmasterships.

ROJESTVENSKY'S CHALLENGE.

Although the accounts vary as to the number of Russian ships that have passed through the Malacca Strait, and it is reported that Admiral Rojestvensky himself and the most powerful of his vessels are not with the squadrons that have been sighted, it may be taken for granted that the absentees are not very far off. The Russian commander is apparently about to throw down the gage of battle to the Japanese. He will need every ship and every gun at his service to put himself on something like terms of equality with Admiral Togo, and it cannot be assumed that he would commit the folly of dividing his forces in the presence of the enemy.

The superiority of the Russian fleet is purely nominal. It contains seven battleships against the five included in Admiral Togo's squadrons, but two of the former are of an obsolescent type. To the Russian armored cruisers, two in number, the Japanese can oppose seven homogeneous vessels of recent construction. The strength of the two fleets in armored ships is therefore respectively, nine and twelve; but it is likely that two or more of Japan's armored cruisers are on the watch for a possible sortie of the Russian squadron at Vladivostok. If so, there would be little, if any, preponderance in numbers and a scarcely estimable superiority in weight of broadside fire for either party. In the qualities that count, however—in precision of gunfire and tactical ability—there is hardly room for comparison between the two forces. In warfare, to be sure, there is always an element of luck, which occasionally proves decisive; but barring a misadventure of this character the victory of the Japanese in the prospective encounter is almost a certainty.

It must be perfectly well understood by the Russians, from the Admiral down to the meanest sailor, that in all probability they are going to their doom. It is a solemn spectacle—these fifteen thousand or more brave fellows courting death and destruction, merely to show that if they cannot win, they are good men and true. "This," to invert a famous saying, "may not be war, but it is splendid."—S. Ratford Herald.

Mr. Tompkins, a member of the New York State Assembly, has earned an undying claim to immortal fame. In the "Star Spangled Banner" there is this verse with reference to Englishmen—

"And where is that band, who so vauntingly swore,
 That the havoc of war and the battle's confusion,
 A home and a country should leave us no more?
 Their blood has washed out their foul footsteps' pollution.
 No refuge could save the hireling and slave,
 From the terrors of flight or the gloom of the grave."

School Superintendent Maxwell, a Britisher by birth, substituted another verse for the use of the scholars, and Tompkins has since been bristling over with indignation to an extent which would by comparison make a fretful porcupine look like a downy sofa cushion. As the outcome Tompkins has had the assembly reinstate the verse, and they say that he confidentially considers that Washington and Lincoln alongside of him are, not only a couple of has-beens, but never wores.

APPETIZING NAMES.

At Montreal the advertising manager of the Canadian Pacific railway is a man named Ham, and the city ticket office is in charge of a man named Egg. The two are fast friends and if both happen to be out of town at once inquiries for Ham and Egg are frequent. By a coincidence both report to an official named Bacon, whose chief clerk is named Brown. Recently Ham and Egg were both in Bacon's office. The telephone rang and Brown answered. He caught an inquiry for the Canadian Pacific office, and said:

"Who's this talking?" asked the voice.

"This is Brown. Do you want Bacon?"

"No, I don't want Bacon, brown or any other way. I want one of the Canadian Pacific officials."

"Well, will Ham and Egg do?"

"I don't want any of them! Central, switch that cheap hash house off this wire!"

Prayer for Restoration—Powerful Appeal for a Renewal of Spiritual Ties and for a Rekindling of Spiritual Activities—Review of the Years Shows Only Character Remains, All Things Else Change.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1905, by Frederick Dyer, of Toronto, at the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 9.—To the indifferent and especially to the backslider who has gone back to the world and its pleasures, this sermon makes a powerful appeal for a renewal of spiritual ties and a rekindling of spiritual activities. The text is Psalm 112, "Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation."

Oh, how quickly the wheel of fortune may whirl around! What we are to-day is no earnest of what we may be to-morrow. Rich and affluent, prosperous and happy now, that does not prove that we shall be rich and happy and prosperous, with a multitude of friends hanging around us, next week or next month or next year. The night follows the day as well as the day the night. The people living in the South American republic of Chile reckon history by this or that or the other earthquake, which has made the heaving earth rock down homes and destroy whole cities and towns and villages. Some of us may reckon the passing away of our lives by the epiphany which are chased upon the tombstones of our buried hopes.

"Year of 1872." Oh, yes, scores of you have seen better days in your body, your property and your families! But, alas, many of us, like the writer of the words of my text, have seen better days in our spiritual condition. I do not know whether this author held, as do the Methodists of our day, that a good man might lose his hold on salvation, but one thing is sure—he knew that he had fallen from grace. He had once tasted the joys of divine sonship. He had once waded ankle deep, knee deep, waist deep, chin deep, into the great depths of God's love and drank of those living waters. But now he has climbed out of those depths and stands shivering upon the jagged rocks of evil in the cold, biting winds of sin. Thus we find him crying out in a word of entreaty: "Oh, God, bring back to me the happiness and the exhilaration and peace of my past gospel life! Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation!"

Have not some of us need to offer the prayer of the psalmist? I know that there are many who are in the position of this psalmist. I know, furthermore, that if you will only return you may taste again the gospel joys, and they will be sweeter to you than they ever were before. An eminent minister of the cross a short time ago told me that the greatest blessing of a revival of religion was not found in introducing sinners to Jesus, but in bringing back to his service those who had once been found at the foot of the cross. "And," said he, "when these wanderers return they make the very best workers in our Christian churches." May God help me to prevail on some of you backsliders again to taste the gospel joys!

But I never did like praying for anything in general and for the universe in particular. In order to be explicit we would divide the psalmist's prayer under three or four distinct headings. In the first place, I would have you make the prayer: "Return unto me, O Lord, the joy which I experienced when I first began to realize the heights and the depths and the lengths and the breadths of thy sacrifices for me. Restore unto me the joy which came to my soul when years ago I first approached the communion table and saw, 'Lord, I believe; help thou mine unbelief.'" Then the tidal wave of happiness rolled over us in surges. Then we said to ourselves: "Saved by grace! Saved by grace! Oh, God, I thank thee that I have been saved by grace!"

Once our souls were aflame with gratitude for what God had done for us. No sooner were we converted than, like the psalmist, we cried out, "Evening and morning and at noon will I pray and cry aloud, and he shall hear my voice." But after awhile our joyful enthusiasm began to cool. We grew indifferent. We turned our backs upon God. We now find reading the Bible a bore and praying a drudgery and talking to Christ and waiting for Christ to talk to us a task instead of an endless pleasure. Oh, my friends, do you want to feel again the exhilaration which came over you on the day of your conversion? Then make the prayer of my text. Make it day in and day out. Make it and continue to make it as you rehearse all God has done for you by the sacrifice of Jesus Christ. Oh, that to-day we could have the thrill which surged through us when we first felt that God had purged us with hyssop until we were clean, that he had washed us until we were whiter than snow!

But gratitude to God for what Christ has done for us is not the only joy of salvation that is buried and needs to be renewed. One of these joys that needs to be resurrected is the one used to find in Christian service. No sooner were we converted than immediately we went forth to try and save some one else. Then when we brought a brother or sister to the cross there came over us another joy which we had not hitherto conceived, the joy of saving men and women for Christ. There is no joy on earth greater than that. Not even the joy of being saved ourselves and being compared to the joy of knowing that by the grace of God we have been able to save some one else from perishing.

The man of the world who has never experienced this joy cannot understand it. The exhilaration of it is conveyed for him in mystical and unknown tongues. For years and years I could not understand what Paul meant in his letter to the Romans. I felt he did not mean what he said. I believed he was only using an exaggerated oratorical figure of speech when he said, "For I could wish that myself were accursed from Christ for my brethren, my kinsmen according to the flesh." The more I studied that passage the more I felt and do feel to-day that Paul literally made this prayer, "Oh, Christ, if there is no way to save my brothers, my sisters, my friends, my people, but by blotting my name out of the book of life then destroy me for their sakes!" In other words, Paul said, "Destroy me if by my spiritual death others might spiritually live forever in this world, yet is not this joyful willingness to be sacrificed to save others: experienced by the new convert always?"

Oh, apostates, oh, ye negligent and slothful church members, stand idly about in the market places when God's vineyards are filled with the ripest clusters just ready for the plucking, you have known in the past the joy of salvation in the saving of others. Why, I can see even now the reflection of a past joy upon your faces as in the time when you used to labor in the Sunday schools and bring little children to Christ. I can see you now smiling as you used to do when you brought your friends to the revival meetings and labored with them to accept Christ. I can see you now going up to your minister and earnestly and rapturously saying: "Pastor, keep on praying. We will get them. They are bound to give their hearts to Christ. We will get them yet." But now the world and the flesh have crept in. You do not work for souls as you used to do. You do not have the old joy of saving souls. Oh, my friends, will you not pray that this joy may come to you again: "Lord, God, give me the old thrill of being saved by thy sacrifice. But do more than this, Lord. Give me the joy of saving some one else for thee. It is necessary in order that others may spiritually live, that I must spiritually die. Then, as Paul wished, let me die for this honor and glory."

But in this psalmist's prayer we would find another joy. It is this: "O God, restore unto me the joy of Christian fellowship with Christians! O God, make me again love church services and the prayer meetings and the missionary gatherings and the convocation of the young people of the Christian Endeavorers and Epworth leagues and the Brotherhood of Andrew and Phillip! O God, may I desire to associate with thy disciples more than to go with any other class of people on earth!" You think this is a strange prayer to make? I do not. When I make it, I know that one of the sweetest signs of the true

Christian life is to be found in the desire of a Christian to be where other Christians are. Yet, if I mistake not, some of you never go to the midweek prayer meetings or to Sunday schools or to our cottage prayer meetings. You look upon these meetings as a bore, a drudgery, a tiresome hour, wasted for duty's sake. When you go to these meetings you do so under protest.

"Yes," you answer, "I do look upon these religious gatherings as a bore. But I am not responsible for my likes and dislikes any more than I am to be blamed because my favorite color is blue, my favorite flower a carnation, my favorite musician Beethoven, my favorite novelist Thackeray, my favorite artist Rubens and my favorite poet Longfellow or Tennyson. I like what I like and dislike what I dislike, and I cannot help it. Now, if I dislike to associate with the class of people who make up our distinctively religious gatherings, such as the Sunday school, the midweek prayer meeting, the missionary society, I am not to blame. I am no more to blame than I am because I dislike codfish or mackerel and like apples and grape fruit."

Ah, yes, you are to be blamed. You are individually responsible for your likes and dislikes. If you do not care to associate with Christian people in Christian gatherings then it is high time you learned to enjoy their society, and the quicker the better. Because I do not love them now that is no excuse why I should not learn to love these people. Supposing I was a dyspeptic, supposing I had for years been living on meat and vegetables and ham and pork and cabbage and highly seasoned salads and rich pastries, supposing on account of my dyspepsia I was sent to a sanitarium, what would be the first order of my physicians? "Put that man on the simplest diet." Because I tell my physician I do not like plain toast and milk and cold bread and good, wholesome beefsteaks and potatoes, what would he make any difference? No. My physician would reply: "Then the sooner you learn to like them the better. You have a diseased appetite. You must develop a healthy appetite for good, wholesome, simple foods."

Now, my Christian friend, by the same law you may have a diseased spiritual appetite for spiritual association. If you cannot find enjoyment in communion with Christian people, then the sooner you learn how to enjoy their society the better. You are exactly in the position of the frivolous girl or the dissipated boy growing up in a Christian home. They are just as happy unless they are off at some party or visiting some neighbor or attending some theatre. But after awhile they will find that the sweet, gentle fellowship of the Christian people, the best kind of enjoyment, the best kind of recreation, the best kind of reading of a book by the glowing heart in the sitting-room is one. The loving caress of a mother's or a wife's hand, the mother's or the wife's smile, the little child, the quiet prayer, the sweet memories of long years that are past, are others. The hopes of the years to come, being talked over, offer the highest relief to the mind. The sweetest of all is the thought of associating with men of the world offers to you the acme of pleasure. If you cannot find any enjoyment in the fellowship of Christian people, the sooner you have grace that God will give you a diseased spiritual appetite the better for your own enjoyment and the better for your life.

That you can govern your love for the good and your dislike for the bad or the indifferent was illustrated to me by the experience of a lady member of my church who is a very fine musician. Her brother was a happy go lucky young man who seemed to have no ear for good music. Every popular air, every music hall jingle, every new melody that had a jolly ring to it, he knew by heart. All the latest college songs he could sing until the very rafters echoed. But the deeper, sweeter, holier calls of the great musical masters fell unheeded upon his dull ears. This brother, fine athlete, who had had his leg broken and was brought home from college and had to lie in bed for about six weeks. During those six weeks his sister had to continually practice for a difficult performance which she was about to give before a famous musical society of the city. At first the brother protested. He wanted to hear her play some of the popular airs. But she insisted that she must play the music she was to perform. He thought into his mind and heart through the vestibule of his ear there was born in his soul a love for the truly great music. The old songs which he once loved he now despises. The truly beautiful music he once despised now he loves. My friends, if you do not love the society of Christian people there is something wrong in your life. You have a diseased spiritual appetite. The sooner you go with the truly consecrated people the sooner you will learn to love their society. Do not make the prayer of my text, "Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation," unless by constant association with Christian people you do all in your power to develop that spiritual joy.

But in order to fully grasp the beauty of the psalmist's prayer you must remember that it is given with the absolute knowledge that in his own strength he was nothing, but that in God's strength he could be everything. David at this time was standing under the shadows of his past sins. God had blessed him again and again, yet just after these many manifestations of the divine love he had fallen back into sin because he had depended upon his own strength. Thus David says, "Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation and uphold me by thy free spirit." That means in plain English, "Oh, God, bring me back to thy loving grace, cleanse me from sin and then by thy power do not let me again wallow in the quagmires and the bogs and the fith of evil."

It is only by doubting and continuing to distrust our own strength that we are led to rely entirely upon God's protecting power. I would have us feel our dependence on God when we make this prayer exactly as the little saved daughter of a dear friend of mine feels toward her father. Some months ago this little girl was in a foundling institution in one of our large cities. By this institution she was sent west and put into a low Mexican home of ignorance and filth. There my friend found her and said: "She shall not remain here. She shall come and be my daughter and live in my home." He took her west. Then he and his wife washed the little girl and put clean clothes upon her and put her into a clean, white bed. They surrounded her with all that wealth and love could give. Yet, though that little girl is now only about two and one-half years old, she lives in continual terror of being taken back to her past surroundings. Every night before she goes to bed she calls her foster father to her side or crawls up into his lap and puts her little arms about his neck and says, "Papa, you won't let them come and take baby away, will you?" Sometimes she awakes at night and calls and asks the same question, "You won't let them take baby away, will you?" And the great, strong man, with tears in his eyes, says: "No, baby, no, daughter! I will not let them come and take you away from me and mamma! Go to sleep now; papa will keep you safely by his side!" So David, as a heart-broken sinner, just reaches up and puts his arms up in plea to God and says: "Oh, Father, keep me. Don't let me go back to sin as I have done in the past. Keep me, Lord. Keep me in the power of thy love." Have you not, oh, man, sinned after God has restored to you again and again the joy of salvation? Can you not say to him now: "Keep me, Lord. Keep me, Father. Keep me."

Thank my friends, because you have again and again come to Christ and tasted of the joy of salvation and then fallen away do not let your broken resolutions keep you away from the Father's love. First, let a clean sheet. Say, "O God, forgive." Then make a prayer, an earnest prayer, which will be a continuous prayer for every morning, noon and night. Let this be your prayer: "O God, keep me. Keep me, O Lord, keep me every step I go!" And God will keep you, brother. He will keep you under the shadow of his wings. Will you make the prayer of my text now? Will you continue to make the earnest prayer, "Uphold me with thy free spirit," until at last he delivers you forever from all sinful temptations at the great white throne of heaven?

Sir Redvers Buller and His Tenant. One of the bravest of our generals is trustee of the Newton estate near the Village of Newton St. Cyres. On going over the estate on a recent occasion, he came in contact with a tenant who failed to recognize him, and who was full of complaints. On finding out the identity of the general, he requested him to visit his house some little distance away, and his wife would show him some dilapidations that urgently required attention. On reaching the cottage, the general was confronted by the female occupant, who invited him to enter. She showed him over the premises, pointed out the requirements and "waxed" with the visitor. He did not appear to agree to all her wishes. Then she threatened that if she could not get the work done she should get and see "Mr. Buller" about it. Grasping the situation, the general inquired if she would know "Mr. Buller" if she saw him. She declared she should, as she had his likeness hanging up in her house. After considerable discussion it gradually dawned on the woman who her visitor was, and his likeness was really in her house. She was then full of apologies, but the general assured her she had done nothing wrong, and left her to her own reflections, assuring her that the necessary wants should receive attention.
