Central Span Takes Plunge While Being Put in Position

Second Disaster to Transcontinental Bridge Occurred at 10.15 This Morning—Loss of Life Feared—Central Span Was Being Hoisted to Position When Collapse Came—Crowd Was Present to Witness the Proceeding.

QUEBEC, Sept. 11.—The Central span of the new Quebec bridge collapsed at 10.15 this morning while being hoisted into position. Considerable loss of life is feared, but no figures can be given as yet.

THE DISASTER OF 1907

One of the greatest disasters in engineering history took place when this initial span collapsed on August 23, 1907, carrying with it more than eighty engineers and workmen. The loss in money to the Government was enormous between subsidies paid out and guaranteed bonds. The total loss was round eight million dollars.

LATER REPORT

Quebec, Sept. 11.—While the centre span of the Quebec Bridge may be a total loss, the rest of the bridge is uninjured, and, as Mr. Phillips Johnson, President of the St. Lawrence Bridge Company, said: "The bridge certainly cannot be left as it is. Naturally I cannot make a statement of hand as to the measures we will take to fill the central gap between the north and south cantilevers of the bridge."

FINED FOR NETTING.

At Morristown recently Charles Towley, of Augustus, who has been making cheese at Black Lake, and James Mandigo, were each fined $51 for netting fish in Black Lake.

as like rumbling thunder, told them that something was happening. All rushed to the shore. The oscillating ends of the cantilever arms made them fear also for a moment for the whole bridge, but they had builded wisely and well. It stood.

Of the fifty thousand people who covered the two shores of the St. Lawrence at all points where a good view could be had of the bridge, and filled the multitude of vessels, small and large, which were on the river from early morning, only a few thousands remained when the tragedy occurred.

Nine Men Still Unaccounted For.

Quebec, Sept. 11.—First reports of loss of life in the Quebec Bridge disaster were much exaggerated, and gave the list of dead as eighty or ninety. Then it dwindled to twenty—finally, figures from the St. Lawrence Bridge Co.'s office brought out a missing list of eleven.

METRO STAFF REORGANIZED

Walter C. Davidson Engaged as Provincial Manager in This Province. The Standard Film Service, Limited, distributors of Metro pictures in Canada, has completely reorganized its Toronto office and road staff. Mr. J. P. O'Loghlin, vice president of the company has been transferred from the Montreal office to take charge of the Toronto office, while Mr. Walter C. Davidson, one of the best known film men in Ontario province, has been engaged as provincial manager for Ontario. He will have as his assistant, Mr. Collinson, who has until recently been on the staff of Metro Pictures Corporation, New York. The news of the addition of Mr. Davidson to the Metro staff will no doubt be gladly received by all the exhibitors in the province of Ontario as he is known throughout the trade as a gentleman whose integrity is above reproach, and is also one of the pioneers of the film industry in Canada, having been connected with the Universal and World Film Companies, as well as having managed several moving picture theaters throughout the province, and working in conjunction with Mr. O'Loghlin and Mr. Collinson. Metro pictures should receive a great impetus in this territory, under Mr. Davidson's management, as his connections with the moving picture trade in Ontario are second to none. Mr. Davidson was at one time manager of Griffin's theater in Belleville, where he has a host of friends.

GOOD ROADS AND FARMERS

(Special to The Ontario.) TORONTO, Sept. 11.—The question of transportation in the Province of Ontario at the present time is a very live issue. Good roads are an essential to the further development of the province, seem to occupy a position of at least parallel importance to the extension of Hydro Railways and Steam Railways. In both New and Old Ontario the subject of good roads represents an ever-growing theme of popular discussion. Rural communities in the older portions of the province are agitating for better roads, not only for the main highways, but for the concession roads and side lines, which give the farmer access to the highways. In New Ontario more roads and still more roads is the urgent need in order to develop the country. The old complaint that roads are kept in repair, or provided, as the case may be, merely to suit the caprices of motor lands is losing weight, because the farmer has gradually come to consider an automobile part of his farm equipment, and now looks upon the roads question in a new light. Macadam roads are said to be unsuitable to the new conditions of motor transportation on the main highway. If this be the case, it is a matter for the provincial government to take in hand at once, with a view to finding a solution of this difficulty. Concrete roads are favored by many experts. They are more expensive than macadam, but it is believed the initial expense more than adjusts itself in the longer period of wear. In connection with the improvement of by-ways, the policy of the Liberal representatives in the Ontario Legislature has been drafted to meet the demands of the farmer; and radical measures to ameliorate conditions may be expected when the Conservative "sleepers" are removed from office, which is practically certain at the next general election. The Liberal policy is, "to secure the building up of a Good Roads system throughout the province" thereby facilitating traffic and ensuring quick delivery of farm and garden produce. The Ontario Liberal Party today is seriously studying all questions relating to the agricultural welfare of the province, in the confident expectation of an early return to power. Since 1911 its representatives in the House have urged and pleaded the cause of the farmer; and their success in alleviating offensive conditions, although in Opposition, and the soundness of their public proposals for the advancement of agriculture, are fast finding recognition among the farming community. It was a Liberal Government which in 1896 initiated the Good Roads Movement, realizing the importance of country roads as a factor in transportation, and recognizing their value to the farmer in making agriculture more profitable, farm life more agreeable, and in increasing the value of farm property. With this in view the government appointed a Highways Commissioner to direct the expenditure on the construction and maintenance of roads, and passed legislation under which appropriations might be made in connection with the development of the Good Roads system. Sylvester Bradford Admitted Stealing From Hotels. Sylvester Bradford, a tall young fellow, who came to Kingston a few weeks ago, must have a mania for Panama hats, collar buttons, cuff links, watch chains, wearing apparel of various kinds and any odd change that may be found lying around and not working for in Police Court on Friday morning, without making any fuss whatever, he very frankly admitted having pulled off thefts at three hotels, the Windsor, Anglo-American and Prince George. There were four charges lodged against him, and he pleaded "guilty" in every case but one. He admitted taking a Panama hat from the Anglo-American Hotel, watch chain, cuff links and collar buttons from the Prince George Hotel. He was also charged with stealing the sum of $3 from Mary McGraw, a domestic at the Windsor Hotel, but he pleaded "not guilty" to this charge. Evidence was given to show that the accused had been in one of the rooms at the Windsor Hotel, and it was also shown that the prisoner had about $3 in his possession when arrested. He was remanded in order to give the magistrate an opportunity of looking up his record. Bradford says that he came here from Montreal on August 16th, and had been working at the Locomotive Works. His wife and father reside in Montreal. He had been in an hospital for some time previous to his coming to Kingston. Bradford was placed under arrest on Thursday afternoon by Constable Edward Graham after a complaint had been made about the loss of the money in the Windsor Hotel. The complainant, Miss McGraw, told the Magistrate that she saw the accused coming out of a room next to her room, from which her money was taken. Mr. McCue, of the Windsor Hotel, also told about seeing the prisoner going upstairs. Kingston Whig.

The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Blanche, the groom being supported by his cousin, Arthur Hall. The bridesmaid also wore white duchess satin with ermine trimming. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. C. Huffman under an artistically arranged arch of evergreens and flowers, in the presence of some eighty guests. After congratulations were extended the guests retired to the dining tent, erected on the lawn, where dinner was served, the young people, friends of the bride and groom acted as very efficient waiters. NEGLECTED CHILDREN IN BELMONT TOWNSHIP.

Mr. C. A. G. Spence Has Returned From a Visit to That Locality -Families Intermarry. Mr. C. A. G. Spence, Agent for the Children's Aid Society, and Mr. Wm. Henry, superintendent of the Children's Shelter, have returned from a trip to Belmont Township in the interests of the society. Mr. Spence has little to say regarding the conditions he found in the particular locality visited. Sufficient to say had there been room at the Shelter at least one family of five children would have returned to Peterborough with Mr. Spence. In one house the conditions found were disgusting. Five children occupied a room in a log house from which strange and loathsome smells emanated. Rags covered the bed, while a casual investigation failed to reveal the true percentage of the children. Families in that neighborhood have long intermarried until it is next to impossible to trace out the family tree of any one individual. Mr. Spence says he could spend a month in that country securing data and information in the interest of the Society. This would better enable the authorities to keep in touch with the situation and follow up individual cases. -Peterborough Examiner.

FOX INVADDED THE TOWN.

A fox which made its home in the south ward, between John and Arthur streets, for some weeks, had its career suddenly terminated on Wednesday evening. Since Sunday it had frequented the premises of Mr. J. E. Abbott, presumably because a flock of young and tender pullets was conveniently near. The presence of reynard was not conducive to the peace of mind of the owner of the chickens, and a gun was procured and a guard established, in which the neighbors took part. The odds were soon little animal against so many? On the evening mentioned he was noticed scurrying to cover and followed. His hiding place afforded cover for all except the tip of his nose and Dr. Maboe succeeded at the first attempt in putting a ball between his eyes, and the life chapter of one fox was brought to a close. -Gananoque Reporter.

Collins, of Plainfield, was the scene of a very pretty wedding at high noon, Sept 6th, when their eldest daughter, Mary Luella was united in marriage to William Clarence Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hall, of Latta. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Blanche, the groom being supported by his cousin, Arthur Hall. The bride who was given away by her father, was groomed in white duchess satin and lace overdress, and carried a bouquet of carnations. The bridesmaid also wore white duchess satin with ermine trimming. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. C. Huffman under an artistically arranged arch of evergreens and flowers, in the presence of some eighty guests. After congratulations were extended the guests retired to the dining tent, erected on the lawn, where dinner was served, the young people, friends of the bride and groom acted as very efficient waiters. The bride was the recipient of many valuable and useful presents. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch and fob, to the bridesmaid a gold brooch and to the organist, Miss Sullivan, a gold brooch. The bride party left for Belleville by auto amidst a shower of rice and confetti, to take the 4.50 train for Toronto. The bride's travelling suit was navy silk with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Hall on their return will reside at Latta. Their many friends join in wishing them a long and happy wedded life.

DID GYPSIES KIDNAP GIRL?

There is a suspicion among the authorities at Prescott that the band of gypsies which operated in that section had something to do with the disappearance of the little McKenna girl who disappeared from her home at Marlborough some time ago. It is thought here that the gang may be the same as that which failed to appear in the local police court today.

PUBLIC IN THE NORTHWEST SATISFIED WITH PROHIBITION

Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta Have Had Prohibition for Several Months Past and "Dry" Area is Nearly 1000 Miles—A Neutral View of the Liquor Question in the West—Writer Believes Inkeepers Should Command Greater Respect Than They Do—Wet and Dry Hotels on Pacific Coast Compared.

By Chas. E. Compton.

Owing to the fact that the Province of Ontario will in a few days go dry, it may be interesting to Ontarians to know just exactly how the public of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta are finding the prohibition measures enacted a comparatively short time ago. In passing through those provinces last month I endeavored to get an expression of public opinion from the public and not from prejudiced individuals. I did not consult the long-faced minister, whose conscientious convictions compelled him to say that a smell of a whisky bottle was equivalent to walking over the inferno on a tight rope. Nor did I talk "boozers" exclusively to the man who had once sold it with the result that silver and gold dollars weighed down the scales on the balance of conscience. Again it seemed ridiculous to ask the woman what they thought of the "grog" for that very word is sufficient to open a tirade from them upon the liquor traffic.

The Temperate Man.

But I tried to find the man whose appearance gave me the impression that he had used liquor, and "could let it alone"—if necessary. It was the clerk, the tradesman, the mechanic or the teamster that appealed to me in this instance. When I was a boy in Toronto I was always led to believe that farmers considered it an outrage if they had to drive in the country for more than five or six miles without stopping at a tavern. Not only in York County, but in many others, the taverns were considered an absolute necessity. Time rolled on and gradually one by one these wayside bars disappeared, and the peculiar part of it all was that nobody died for the loss of them.

If it were necessary in moderate Ontario one would imagine that their usefulness would be two-fold on the prairie, where the traveller is at the mercy of terrible forces of nature.

1000 Miles Dry.

To think of a thousand miles west of Winnipeg so dry that a traveller cannot have a little "toddy" at first appeals one. Over the doors of the Canadian Northern coach was placed the sign, "Public drinking strictly prohibited within the Province of Saskatchewan."

Although it must be said to the credit of those temperance advocates that as a rule the passengers on trains are much improved by the prohibitory measures, yet I saw two men with a bottle making repeated visits to the women's washroom. The porter had to remind them where they were, and the drinking stopped to view at least. In Manitoba, and that province has been dry for three months, the consensus of opinion was in favor of prohibition. From several sources I understand the "dispensaries" in Saskatchewan were not so satisfactory as it was hoped they would be. The result is that the people will be asked to vote on their abolition.

At Edmonton two gentlemen who looked like general merchants, remarked that the number of drunks for the month of July was reduced from some thirty to three. They said it was their belief that the liquor business was going for good.

There is no use discussing the pros and cons of the liquor business in British Columbia for I believe prohibition in its general term has never been tried there.

Hotels Deteriorated.

In many local option communities in Ontario I have found from actual experience that when the three-fifths vote compelled the hotelkeeper to close his bar the hotel went back and was everywhere noticeable especially in the meals and rooms, but in Vancouver and Seattle I had experiences that will live as everlasting arguments that a man may keep a rooming house and without selling liquor make a comfortable living. As perhaps everybody knows, the State of Washington passed prohibition a considerable time ago and now is as "dry as a bone."

While in Seattle I stayed at the Rainier-Grand, a hotel of rather pretentious proportions. I was given a splendid room with a private bath, two wash basins, etc., for $1.50 per day.

The manager informed me that he was making as much as when his "house" was under license. For example he saved a heavy license that went up into the thousands each year. "Why," he said, "I save $400 per month by closing my dining room which had to stay open with the bar." There was no noise. Everything was orderly and there was no indication of deadness.

Coming back to Vancouver, having had the "Dunsmuir" recommended to me, I engaged a room there, not specifying what floor, only that it have a private bath. To the top floor I was escorted and it was not nearly as nice a room as my recent home in Seattle.

I nearly exploded when I found I had to pay $3 per day for the room only and extra for the telephone. In the Seattle hotel it was free to guests. Now I know what "milking the tourist" means. So I have pictured things as I have found them.

Whether Ontario will be satisfied under prohibition or not one cannot safely prophesy, but I believe those engaged in the business will never want to go back to it again when they learn that the travelling public will pay for good accommodation whether booze is served or not.

The innkeeper is one of the most useful agents in modern society and for years he has in many cases borne unjustly the stigma placed upon him by fanatics who have taught the public to believe that he is of the worst sample and kind of mankind.

Why should not an hotel proprietor be regarded in the same social standing as a merchant or professional man? Perhaps that day is not far distant.

A Thorough Pill.

To clear the stomach and bowels of impurities and irritants is necessary when their action is irregular. They can be used without fear by the most delicately constituted, as there are no painful effects preceding their gentle operation.

IN HARD STRAITS.

With her two sons fugitives from justice, being sought by the police as deserters, and being in the evening of life with no means of support, is the sad plight in which Mrs. Randall, an old resident of Opiticon, has found herself. The sons are deserters from the 156th Battalion.

While both sons were in the army the aged woman was in fairly good circumstances. When they deserted, her assigned pay and the patriotic allowances were cut off, and the result was that she was thrown on the mercies of the residents of Opiticon.

According to information that has been received by Col. Hunter, Justice of the Peace; one of her sons, after deserting from the camp, paid a visit to his home, and while there doffed his uniform and put on a suit of civilian clothing that was sold to him by a farmer. If this is correct, it is a case for the militia department to investigate, as it is a serious offence to assist a man in deserting from the ranks.—Gananogue Reporter.

GYPSIES STILL FLEEING

Were Last Heard of in the Vicinity of Seelye's Bay

The gypsies who failed to turn up in Lieut.-Col. Hunter's court Thursday morning and who, apparently, have decided to forfeit the money and jewelry which they left as security, were last reported in the vicinity of Seelye's Bay.

J. M. Jackson, of Glenburnie, who has charged one of the women with stealing $98 from him, in company with County Constable Smith, overtook the fleeing gypsies and endeavored to identify the woman who took his money, but without success. This was the second failure for Mr. Jackson, as he had, in vain, looked the woman over on Wednesday.—Kings-ton Whig.

TO THE MEMORY OF THE FALLEN

Memorial Service For Late Pte. W. M. Rutter at Holloway Street Church.

Tribute the memory of Private William Morley Rutter, who fell in action in July, was paid on Sunday morning at Holloway Street Methodist Church at a memorial service. Many mourners of the departed young soldier were present at the impressive event. The pulpit was covered with flags over which hung crepe.

Rev. J. N. Clarry, B.A., the pastor, preached on the text, "The Day-spring from on high hath visited us; to give light to them that sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet in the way of peace."

The shadow of war is upon earth, and we should be in darkness but for the Light that has come. "The Day-spring from on high hath visited us; to give light to them that sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet in the way of peace."

The shadow of war is upon earth, and we should be in darkness but for the Light that has come. "The Day-spring from on high hath visited us; to give light to them that sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet in the way of peace."

Among those who caught the vision and answered the call was Wm. Morley Rutter, who after training was found manning a machine gun. While serving at the front he wrote home courageous letters, with not a murmur, not a lament. In one of them he said he would gladly come home if the war were ended. But he had no regrets and would enlist if he had not already enlisted. "I wonder so few are filling up the ranks."

He was killed in action on July 25th. A pathetic letter, followed the telegram. It was from Capt. Stewart, chaplain, offering words of comfort to the bereaved and testifying to the fallen soldier's noble life.

When shall these awful lists of casualties cease? Not until blessed peace returns. Must we not endure hardness and wait the accomplishments of the purposes of God? The life of selfishness and sin has no place in our lives in these days. Things are shaken but some things will abide. Chaplains and Y.M.C.A. workers tell us that war tends to lower the soldier's moral tone. We shall pray for them earnestly and faithfully that they may continue their good work among the men.

Lives have been sacrificed which have been truly lived. We measure life by character not by the calendar. When a life has been lived according to the purposes of God, we shall say when the end comes, it is well. Sacrifice is the theme of the greatest songs. The songs of motherhood are songs of vicarious suffering. War songs are songs of sacrifice. There have been great adventures of daring for others' sakes. We do not live in a world where every day the books are balanced and a man gets his reward.

Our monuments are built to those who have sacrificed. On no marble is a man's wealth engraven.

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

Is there mourning for one who has fallen? What would be thought of one who saw his duty and then played the slacker?

The music of the service was particularly appropriate, the choir rendering "Immanuel's Land," and the Misses Wootton rendering a duet "Face to Face."

ROOM IN THOUSAND ISLAND PROPERTY.

There appears to be a boom in island property, several important transfers having been effected within the past two or three weeks.

The most important of these is the sale of the head of Hay Island, a well wooded and generally attractive piece of property. Fifteen years or more ago a syndicate composed of Henry Mason, of the firm of Mason & Risch, and Rev. James Allen, Toronto; Dr. Eugene Haanel, Ottawa; and the late Samuel Finley, Montreal purchased the property, comprising about twenty-five acres, from the late Jacob De Witte. The parcel was surveyed and a plan made, showing lots and streets, with trunk lines for water and sewerage, the purpose being, we believe, to make it an exclusive resort. It was named Melville Park. A large dock was built in the bay on the northeast side of the property, but nothing further was done, and the property has since been freely used by picnic and camping parties. Now it is passing into the hands of Messrs. Frederick and George Lewis, of Norfolk, Va. We are informed that work will be commenced this fall on the erection of one or more cottages, and that they will be the most pretentious in the vicinity.

The north half of Beilte's Island has been purchased by F. A. Engel, of Montclair, N.J. This is also one of the most desirable pieces of island

HEALTHIEST ONE IN THE FAMILY

No Sign Of Dropsy And Kidney Trouble Since Taking "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

HATTIE WARREN, Port Robinson, Ont., July 28th, 1915. "We have used 'Fruit-a-tives' in our house for over three years and have always found them a good medicine. Our little girl, Hattie, was troubled with Kidney Disease. The doctor said she was threatened with Dropsy. Her limbs and body were all swollen and we began to think she could not live. Finally we decided to try 'Fruit-a-tives'. She began to show improvement after we had given her a few tablets. In a short time, the swelling had all gone down and her flesh began to look more natural. Now she is the healthiest one in the family and has no signs of the old ailment. We can not say too much for 'Fruit-a-tives' and would never be without them."

LANDED RECORD BASS.

To Master Billy Edwards belongs the honor of securing the largest small mouth black bass that we have heard of being caught this season. While trolling with a plug in the north channel, near his father's cottage, on Friday of last week, he got a strike that brought him up standing. His mother and grandfather were in the boat with him, and with their assistance the fish was landed, after a fight full of thrills that would delight the most ardent angler. The fish measured eighteen inches in length, about twelve inches in girth, and weighed 5 1/2 lbs.—Gananogue Reporter.

BOY KILLED IN MANURE SPREADER

John Anglin, the eleven-year-old son of Edward Anglin, Brewers Mills, died at the General Hospital, Kingston, on Saturday, a short time after being admitted to the institution, from injuries received on his father's farm by becoming tangled up in the machinery of a manure spreader. The little lad was given attention as soon as found, and was immediately removed to the hospital.

A gash extended almost the entire length of the inside of one of his limbs, and he was otherwise bruised. The accident was caused by the lad falling backwards into the machinery of the spreader while it was in motion.

The remains were removed to his father's home, and the funeral took place Monday.—Gananogue Reporter.

FINE REMITTED.

Dr. Robinson Receives Cheque For $100 From Government. Peterborough, Sept. 11.—Dr. F. L. Robinson, proprietor of the Empire Theatre has received a letter from the Department of the Treasury, Toronto, returning him his cheque for $100, the amount of the fine imposed on him at the police court in connection with the sale of war tickets at the Empire Theatre a short while ago. The letter states that the matter has been gone into by the Department with the above decision. It was admitted at the time, that the Empire Theatre had been turning over to the Government all the amount required for the sale of tickets, but their mode of turning in the tickets was different from that required by law. No doubt this fact was instrumental in the fine being imposed.

LIEUT. JAMES RICHARDSON

2nd Battalion Officer Has Made Supreme Sacrifice—Died on Friday of Wounds.

Lieut. James Richardson, who was killed in action on Friday, was one of the best soldiers that ever left Military District No. 3. He proved his worth by winning the D.C.M., and also a commission on the field.

At the front in Belgium he was in charge of the Belleville boys of the 2nd battalion.

There are three boys in this family, and all are in uniform trying to do their part. The sergeant-instructor, at Kingston, was wounded at the front, and after coming through the convalescent homes was discharged as medically unfit. He offered his services, however, for some work on the headquarters staff and has since been a valuable man in the pay office.

The late Lieut. Richardson went overseas as a private in the 2nd Battalion, and was platoon sergeant under Major R. D. Ponton, went to France on February 22, 1915. He was through all the important engagements and did wonderful work. A quiet, unassuming fellow, he earned the highest regard of everyone, and became known as one of the best in the battalion. He was awarded the D.C.M. for his work at Ginchy and for valor at Messines received a commission. At St. Julien the late officer was wounded, but absolutely refused to leave the field.

A third brother is now overseas as a corporal in the 21st Battalion. In speaking of him, Major Ponton said that he was of the same manly stuff as the late Capt. George T. Richardson, and though not relatives, both were real men and the best of officers. He was deeply touched when the report was received of the death of his old platoon sergeant. An aged father and mother at Warwick, survive.

A Power of its Own.

Dr. Tnomas Electric Oil has a subtle power of its own that other oils cannot pretend to. Although there are many pretendents, all who have used it know this and keep it by them as the most valuable liniment available. Its uses are innumerable and for many years it has been prized as the leading liniment for man and beast.

MILITARY NOTES.

The Supreme Grand Lodge of the "True Blues" of Canada have presented their grand master, Lieut.-Col. Adams, officer commanding the 156th Battalion, with a fine leather travelling bag. The bag arrived in camp yesterday by express, with the good wishes of the Supreme Grand Lodge, and it is much appreciated by Col. Adams.

The 156th Battalion are asking for permission to send the battalion machine gun section under a number of pairs for the purpose of stimulating recruiting. The section is a good one and if permission is granted will give exhibitions in the use of the machine gun and in physical drill. The undertaking will no doubt prove profitable in recruits, and the various pairs will be glad to get such an attractive feature.

The band of the 156th Battalion has been engaged for the Kingston fair. "Bob" Bushell knows a good thing when he hears it.

Fred Acton, of Chicago and Robert Acton of Fort George, B.C., were visitors to camp yesterday, and spent some time among friends in the 156th Battalion. Both were formerly residents of Belleville. Mr. Fred Acton is in the employ of the Armour Co., of Chicago.

The draft of the Cobourg Heavy Battery of artillery has been completed. The fiftieth man to join and complete the unit was Lieut. Jack Johnson, son of Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P. of this city. Lieut. Johnson was tired of waiting for the opportunity to proceed overseas with the infantry units and chose this method to secure an early departure. Color-Sergeant Harry Ponton has had most to do with the recruiting of the battery and the early completion of the unit is a tribute to him.

Restore Health Avert Danger

Keep the Kidneys Right With Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Quebec Postmistress Adds Her Testimony to the Ever Accumulating Mass of Evidence That Dodd's Kidney Pills Are the Greatest of All Kidney Remedies.

Boscobel, Sheford, Co., Que., Sept. 11th (Special).—Mrs. Joseph Hackwell, the popular postmistress of this place, is one of the great army of Canadians who have tried Dodd's Kidney Pills and found them good.

"I have great pleasure in testifying to the worth of Dodd's Kidney Pills," says Mrs. Hackwell. "I have used them in my family for a number of years and find them an excellent medicine."

Thousands of Canadian families give the old reliable Canadian kidney remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills, the first place in the family medicine chest. At this season they are particularly valuable. Wet feet and colds nearly always affect the kidneys and the result is clogged circulation and lassitude and weakness all over the body. If the kidneys are toned up with Dodd's Kidney Pills the impurities—the seeds of disease—are strained out of the blood, health is restored and danger averted. To avoid Bright's Disease, rheumatism, etc., keep the kidneys right by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

AUTO WRECKS BICYCLES

Car in Turning Around on Front St. Struck Bicyclist.

An automobile the number of which was taken, cut up a caper on Saturday night about 8:30 on Front St. The car had been driven down Front and in turning around near McCoy's livery struck a bicycle on which was Edwin Makin of Albert College, knocking him against Jimmy Hunter's wheel. The auto is reported to have run over the sidewalk to make the turn and to have failed to stop. A boy named John Coon followed on a bicycle and read the marker Makin's wheel had the frame twisted and Hunter's one spoke broken.

AFTER SIX YEARS OF SUFFERING

Woman Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Columbus, Ohio.—"I had almost given up. I had been sick for six years with female troubles and nervousness. I had a pain in my right side and could not eat anything without hurting my stomach. I could not drink cold water at all nor eat any kind of raw fruit, nor fresh meat nor chicken. From 175 pounds I went to 118 and would get so weak at times that I fell over. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and ten days later I could eat and did not hurt my stomach. I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel like a new woman. I now weigh 127 pounds so you can see what it has done for me already. My husband says he knows your medicine has saved my life."—Mrs. J. S. BARLOW, 1624 South 4th St., Columbus, Ohio.

Prof. Hunt Returns to Bridge Street Methodist Church.

Prof. Hunt, the new organist and choir leader of Bridge Street Methodist Church, has arrived from Calgary and yesterday presided over the musical service for the first time. His many friends were pleased to welcome him back. During his absence from Belleville, the new organ has been installed and other improvements have taken place.

Yesterday's musical program was much appreciated by the large congregations.

The combined office of choir leader and organist will in Prof. Hunt's case prove a powerful feature in the service of the church.

Prof. Hunt's son, Lieut. Harry Hunt, is improving after a very serious illness.

GREAT FRENCH DRIVE CONTINUES AT COMBLES AND PERONNE.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—The French War Office announces the continuing of their great drive on the front of Combles and Peronne.

The French last night captured the whole of the village of Bouchayresne, midway between Combles and Peronne despite the Germans' most desperate resistance.

Early this morning the French pushed further eastward and took by assault a wood 600 yards east of the road from Peronne to Bethune.

SERBS AND FRENCH CAPTURE SOBROVITZ.

CAUSE OF DISASTER TO QUEBEC BRIDGE.

QUEBEC, Sept. 13.—As a result of a conference between officials and engineers on the possible cause of the fall of the center span of the Quebec bridge, the following statement has been authorized by Mr. G. H. Dugan, Chief Engineer of the St. Lawrence Bridge Company, Limited, after various eyewitness stories had been heard and thoroughly discussed:

"Careful examination by the Board of Engineers indicates that the center span of the Quebec bridge was lost through the failure of the casting on the lifting girder on which the span had been resting with a greater load for the last six weeks. The cantilever arms are uninjured in any way, and preparations are now under way to replace the center span as soon as practicable.

"It is now definitely established that the span first gave way on the south (Lévis) side, and it is practically certain, according to the most reliable stories, that it did not buckle, going down almost intact."

The loss of life is now placed at twelve.

ALLIES PREPARE STAGGERING BLOW IN THE BALKANS

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Varna, the principal Black Sea port of Bulgaria, is under a violent attack by the Russians from land and sea.

A despatch to this effect was received late last night by the Central News from Bucharest. The fact that Russian troops are co-operating with the Russian Black Sea squadron indicates that troops have been landed, for it is not believed possible that the Muscovite army operating at first accounts in the Dobrudja has already crossed into Bulgaria and without resistance has reached Varna.

Despatches from Petrograd and Bucharest several days ago stated that the Bulgarians had evacuated Varna. This port has been shelled frequently by the Russians since Bulgaria's entrance into the war.

The Allies' drive northward from Saloniki, which began yesterday, is being pushed with unabating vigor. New progress was made today by the British on the right flank, the French in the centre and the Serbs constituting the left.

FRENCH SCORE ANOTHER BIG WIN.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The French struck another swift blow north of the Somme today. General Foch's troops, in a vigorous assault, battered at the German line from Combles to the river. Within half an hour they had won an entire first line of German trenches, taking more than 1,500 prisoners.

The quickness of the French thrust took the enemy by surprise. Before the attack could be checked the polius had reached the road from Bapaume to Peronne, where they carried by storm a system of trenches which had been strongly fortified.

WANDERED AWAY. STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS

A four-year old girl yesterday paid a visit to Mrs. Lynch's grocery, West Moira St., and until someone called later in the day no one knew her name. The little dame had wandered away from home.

Mrs. C. R. Cole, corner of Cedar and Henry streets was stricken with paralysis yesterday morning at her home and is in a very precarious condition.

IMPORTANCE OF BATTLE OF MARNE

The British and French saved the day at the Marne. There is an element which had very much to do with this result which apparently has been greatly overlooked by the Canadian press. Had it not been for this element the masses of Germans would have overwhelmed the Allies on the West in all probability. During the summer and fall preceding the battle of the Marne, the Kaiser's object was to crush France. Russia kept this and resolved to come to the rescue. Now before alluding to what was done by Russia, let me mention that the sudden advent of the war caught Russia as it caught Great Britain, in a state of unpreparedness. Recovering from the Japanese war with a scanty supply of munitions, with a few ammunition factories at work, with no large guns to match the German centre batteries, the Grand Duke commenced the offensive involving the advance of hundreds of thousands of men into positions where they could be attacked by greater numbers. You remember the great successes followed by terrible defeats, wherein Russia lost principally in the Mogurium Marshes nearly a million of men.

At the Marne and the Tser, the German attack was stopped because they had to withdraw their forces from the West and send most numbers to the East to fight Russia. Suppose that Russia had not taken the offensive and had Germany had been free to send her millions against the Allies in the West, what could possibly have stopped them?

Hindenburg undertook two offensives against Russia to cripple her long enough to get time to finish France. The first time he was glad to get across the frontier with his army, the second time he met with a bloody repulse. Notice what Russia has been doing since that time. Her grand successes and the marvellous manner in which she has supplied herself with munitions, munition factories and has compelled the Hunns to withdraw, probably nearly a million of men, from the West. There is a tribe of Russians whose very name inspires the Hunns with terror. The "Cossacks". In this country we think of them very much as an American correspondent did who stated: "The Cossacks are humpy looking men, with round fur caps and sheepskin coats. They never wash or shave and have more wives than teeth. At one time Russia was continually invaded by Mongolian land Turkish raiders. The kings built fortifications filled with men and called them Cossacks, but the Russian word is "Kazak". These Kazaks received grants of land and were furnished with arms and ammunition. They pay no taxes. They obey the call to the Czar at once. Their discipline is rigorous. In a campaign a drop of wine or a sign of fear is punished with immediate death. They are just as cleanly in their habits as the ordinary soldier. They are brave and fear nothing. The finish horsemen of the world. Recently two companies fought six German companies and every man of them received an iron cross for bravery.

There is a regiment which it is said stood in battle until blood flowed to their boot tops. They now wear a band of red upon the tops of their boot legs.

The Kazaks are uniformed differently from other soldiers. They wear long spiced coats, caps of lamb's wool. The Kazak officers must graduate from cavalry schools. The men swinning from the pomells of their saddles while the horses are in full gallop, will leap from one side of their horses to the other side and also turn summersaults on horseback. Each Kazak provides his uniform and horse. They do not use curb or spurs. I append the opinion of an American officer who visited the Kazaks. He says: "The result is that the Kazaks are a body of soldiers such as exist nowhere else in the world. I speak with confidence for I have been to see all the Allies armies. I have been a horseman for twenty-five years, and I have played polo constantly in the last twelve years. There is no considerable body of troops in the world that can, mounted, offer any serious resistance to the Kazaks."

Yours truly, J. J. B. FLINT.

MR. ROBINSON LIKE THE FOXES

"Observer" in the Course of a Slaughtering Attack Brings Scriptural Evidence that Christians Should Observe Saturday as a Day of Rest.

Editor, Ontario:

Having been flattened out in his arguments on the Millennium, Mr. A. Robinson like the foxes in the desert, when driven down in one hole burrows his way through and pops his head up in another. This time he attacks another Bible truth—the Sabbath as taught in the Ten Commandments. But let he gets in a worse mix than ever. He tries to make out that the teaching of this law, the Sabbath included, was intended for literal Israel only, because the preface to this law in Ex. 20: 1 says "I am the Lord thy God that brought thee out of the land of Egypt." He therefore says in par. 2 "The Israelites then were the people to whom this command was given."

Very true Mr. R. The Ten Commandments were given to Israel but that's no proof they were intended for Israel only. For if this preface is a proof that this law was intended for the twelve tribes of Israel only, then I suppose you will reject the Epistle of James for the same reason. The opening language of James 1: 1 says "James a servant of God" to the twelve tribes that are scattered abroad." Be logical Mr. R. Was this intended for Israel only? Were the books of Romans, Corinthians, Ephesians, Galatians, etc., intended for those people only because they were addressed to them. Bosh. Mr. R. your logic is too thin.

That law was intended by God to be preached to the Gentiles. Proof. Isa. 49: 6 says in speaking of Israel "I will also give thee for a light to the Gentiles that thou mayst be my salvation unto the end of the earth."

Israel therefore according to this was to give the light that God gave them to the Gentiles. What was this light? Prov. 6: 23 says "The Commandment is a lamp and the law is light." Therefore they were to give that law to the Gentiles. How absurd to say "Thou shalt not steal, kill, commit adultery etc., were intended for Israelites only. If the Gentiles have no law against these wrongs then they can do as they like and not commit sin; for the Lord says in Rom. 4: 15, "Where no law is there is no transgression" or sin. And where no sin is there is no need of a Saviour. This no-law theory even does away with the Gospel. Mr. R. has no other way to try to get rid of the Sabbath only by getting rid of the law as a whole and in doing so stultifies himself. He makes a hobby of the expression "Within thy gates" and says this proves it was for Israel only. Did only Israelites have gates? Nonsense. He tries to infer that although God rested on the seventh day and sanctified it, yet He never intended it for man to keep it. Mr. R. evidently never read Mark 2: 28 where it says "The Sabbath was made for man." Was Adam a man? If so it was made for Adam. Perhaps Mr. R. will say that only the Israelites were men. Just like his logic.

Mr. R. refers to Ex. 31: 13, 17, where it says the Sabbath is a sign between Himself and the children of Israel forever. Why this very Scripture shows how anxious God was for Israel to be particular concerning Sabbath observance since Israel was to be a light to the Gentiles. And so He surrounds it with an additional reason in Deut. 5: 15 to impress them with His intention for them to keep it holy. They were to remember that it was the true God not the false gods of Egypt that gave them deliverance. In thus being particular about its observance the Gentiles would be brought to a knowledge of the Sabbath truth. Not only this but as Mr. Robinson says "The law is our schoolmaster to bring us unto Christ." Why then does Mr. R. find fault with it. If it leads the sinner to Christ it is surely schoolmaster or teacher. Yes the law of God does lead people to Christ even now and when Mr. R. or anyone else tries to do away with it they destroy the Divine means of leading people to Christ. Yes, Christ died to save people from transgressing the law of God. It says in 1 John 3: 4 "Sin is the transgression of the law." Sin therefore is the transgression of every part of it. The Sabbath is a part of it. Therefore it is a sin to transgress the seventh day commands equally as much as any other. Yes Jesus died to save us from the sin of Sabbath breaking. Let us not break the seventh day any more. We would advise Mr. R. to read Jer. 7: 8-16.

THANKSGIVING FOR PROHIBITION

Belleville Financial District Meeting Held Yesterday—Observance of Lord's Day

The financial meeting of the Belleville District of the Methodist Church was held in the Tabernacle church yesterday, with Rev. S. C. Moore, chairman and Rev. J. N. Clarry, Fin. Secretary. All the ministers of the district were present, and the attendance of the lay delegates was exceptionally good. The new ministers in the district are Rev. C. T. Scott, D.D., Bridge St., transferred from the E. C. conference and the Rev. Wm. Pimlott, Holloway street transferred from the Montreal conference, Rev. Geo. W. Marvin, B.D., Bayside and Rev. H. R. Seymour, Melrose. These brethren were all welcomed to the district and the courtesies of the district were extended to Rev. S. T. Tucker, Secretary of the Bay of Quinte Conference and to Rev. S. G. Rork of the Napanee District.

Rev. L. M. Sharpe had the honor of being elected statistical secretary.

The financial items were given careful consideration and anniversaries for Social Service, Education and Missions were arranged for. This District as well as other parts of Canada is aware that serious inroads have been made and are being made into the proper observance of the Lord's Day. In the interests of the public generally and patriotism in particular, the observance of the Lord's Day must not be disregarded and the working of the Lord's Day Alliance is commended to all the people.

The work of the Sunday School and Epworth Leagues was presented by Rev. W. W. Jones. Rev. L. M. Sharpe reminded the meeting of the convention of Epworth Leagues to be held in the Tabernacle.

A decidedly new departure was effected in the hope of eliciting the support of laymen in spiritual activities, when they appointed a committee of four laymen, viz. Messrs. R. N. Bird, (convenor); H. K. Denyes, T. F. Willis and Geo. Clare, to arrange for a convention and to plan for a permanent organization.

The district in the readjustment of charges requested the co-operation of the Conference Commission to review the whole work of the district, with a view to assisting those charges requiring it and securing the most efficient and uninterrupted service possible.

Of course the Methodist Church is interested in the approaching provincial prohibition and the following resolution was unanimously approved: "That the District Meeting request the Pastors of the Churches in this district to provide for special thanksgiving and prayer in all our churches next Sunday, over the enactment of the prohibition of the liquor traffic in the Province of Ontario and that wherever practicable special reference be made in the sermons to the duty of Christians towards the new law.

The work of the Sustentation Committee in arranging that all the ministers of the conference receive the minimum salary is commended to the favorable consideration of the boards.

The afternoon session was given over to a careful survey of the Missionary situation confronting the Church. Rev. Dr. Allen, one of the ablest missionary leaders, presented facts and drew conclusions that should bear fruit in days to come. "Give the Missionary a living wage met with a hearty approval on the part of the laymen.

Rev. C. S. Reddick, Missionary Secretary had his work well in hand and by a comparative statement during the past four years of the givings, per member per circuit per conference helped the members present to more adequately seize the situation. The average giving of the membership in this district is about 7 cents per member higher than the average of the entire conference; but there remains still considerable room for increase.

Rev. M. E. Wilson added not a little to the discussion by his vision and remarks and urged that we do not become lopsided by over emphasizing any one feature of our work. Keeping a balance between the extensive and intensive activities of the church. Men's banquets, a canvass of all members, the envelope system, were all approved as part of a proper organization. The last Sabbath of November and the first of December will be specially set apart for Missionary effort. It was a pleasure to see the decided improvement in the health of the chairman and the holiday is expected to restore to him his usual energy.

Mr. F. P. Carney is indisposed today.

Altoona, Pa., school teachers are to receive half pay for this month when they are not employed.

Pennsylvania State's income from the sales of stock transfer stamps so August amounted to $3,311.24.

What grace of Christian womanhood,
Was in her household ways.

Is more than books and scrolls.

Mr. Carruthers and Mrs. Carruthers were called to the floor and a short address of welcome was read by Mrs. George Fralick, after which a beautiful parlor chair was presented to Mrs. Carruthers by Mrs. Clarence Sharp on behalf of the young people. A barn containing about fifty tons of hay, two horses, five empty pigs, and a number of articles, tools etc., was totally destroyed by fire last Friday evening about 9 o'clock on the farm of Mrs. Thomas Lund, Hamburg Road, near Napanee. The fire was first noticed by a neighbor about 8 o'clock and the barn was then well alight. Willing hands soon reached the scene of the conflagration, and succeeded in saving some of the machinery, a couple of brood sows, and the poultry, but found it impossible to save the horses. Owing to the wind the house was in danger, but the efforts of a bucket brigade saved it. The cause of the fire is unknown. The barn and contents were insured for $2,000.

Six soldiers from Barrifield camp had a miraculous escape from death on Thursday night of last week when they were thrown out of an automobile on the bridge near the farm of Edward Kayler, on the York road, five miles from Napanee. The car was travelling at a lively rate of speed and was in the act of crossing the bridge when it swerved to one side, the chauffeur did his best to right the car when it swerved for a second time and crashed into the side of the bridge. The six soldiers were thrown out, two of them alighting in a tree alongside of the road, and they had presence of mind to hang on to one of the tree limbs and thereby save themselves a bad fall. The other four were thrown into the water, but were able to get out. Two of the khaki-clad men received such a severe shaking up that they were forced to remain at Mr. Kayler's home over night.

On Thursday evening his lovely home of Mrs. James Fitzpatrick was the scene of a dancing party, given in honor of Miss Anna's nineteenth birthday. The many friends of this popular young lady, there being about forty-five guests in all, enjoyed a most delightful evening dancing in the spacious living room, cheerily decorated with huge bundles of golden glow, Miss Evelyn Ryan, of Belleville, a marvellous little pianist of only fifteen years, supplied the music for the evening. Those who served were Mrs. Davy, Mrs. Frank McAlpine, of Belleville, and Mrs. McDonald, of Moose Jaw, Sask.

An unusually pretty but quiet wedding was solemnized on Wednesday noon, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. G. M. Card, when her eldest daughter, Florence Belle, became the bride of Mr. Charles Lewis Ackerman, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Ackerman, of Prince Edward county. The bride, looking very sweet sown in ivory Duchesse satin with touches of pearl trimming, and carrying a shower bouquet of carnations and maiden hair fern, entered the drawing room on the arm of her uncle, and took her place under a beautiful arch of evergreens and white asters, and from which was suspended a large wedding bell, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Rose Joy, a friend of the bride. The flower girl, little Miss Ida Card, sister of the bride, and little Miss Olga Ackerman, sister of the groom, gowned in white and carrying bouquets, looked very sweet, and were the only attendants. Immediately after the ceremony little Miss Ida Card was baptised, which made a very pretty and touching scene. Both these ceremonies were performed by Rev. Chas. E. Craig, of Grace church. After this the guests were invited to the dining room where a very dainty lunch was served, the color scheme being carried out in green and white. Toasts were drunk to the health of the bride and groom the groom appropriately responding. The bride and groom received many beautiful and costly presents, among them some very handsome checks, and an Overland car from her father. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome gold chain and pendant, and to the flower girls birthstone rings, and to the pianist a real leather hand bag. The happy representative of the company was here looking over the building and making inquiries as to labor, etc.

Expressed the feelings of those lads so proud,
 For in every heart was the safe feeling.
 Either to conquer or to die.
 Now we have been camping here for
 Close upon three months,
 And have won the praises of all around.
 For the work which we have done,
 But now the time is coming close,
 When to England we must sail,
 To help our comrades at the front.
 Put an end to all the Huns.
 Now when this great strife is over,
 May God bring us all back safe,
 To our mothers and wives and families,
 Whom we are all leaving behind.
 But if God wills that we must die,
 Then it is with the greatest pride,
 For gladly will we do it for our dear old Union Jack.

IF YOU HOPE TO DO BUSINESS

You must put on a good front—your store front may be bright with paint, taste and good sign writing. If it is you are doing good business. If your store front is gloomy, worn, untidy and your signs old and faded, on must expect the public to feel that the same thing exists internally. FALL-BEARING STRAWBERRIES

The thanks of the editor are due to Mr. Wilson of the Trenton Road, for a much appreciated gift of a box of the new and rare fall-bearing strawberries. This novelty, among small fruits is not of the insipid class with which we usually associate fruits grown out of season, but has a flavor that is actually finer than that of the best regular product in June. It more nearly approaches the delicate and unsurpassed quality of the wild strawberry.

THREE DAYS IN THE WORLD'S GREATEST CITY

Being an Account of a Visit to the City of London by Pte. J. M. Carl of the 80th Battalion, and a Former Teacher in Thurlow Township.

The Ontario has been favored with permission to copy the following exceedingly interesting letter written by Pte. J. M. Carl, of the 80th Battalion to his father, Mr. J. D. Carl, of Sidnev township. Pte. Carl was one of the younger teachers of Hastings county, having taught successfully some of the larger schools in Sidney and Thurlow townships. But he heard the call that has come to every true patriotic young man and now in company with a younger brother he is in France at the battlefront. His description of his visit to London has all the freshness and vigor of a writer to whom these things are new and the impression made is correspondingly strong.

It will be recalled that about a month ago we published a previous letter from Pte. Carl giving an account of the voyage over and of life at Bramshott Camp.

Everything on the evening of July 28th was in turmoil in our camp when the passes arrived for a trip to London and by six p.m. everyone was ready to leave for the little station of Lepphook, where three special trains were waiting to take us. We boarded the train about seven o'clock, everyone with a handkerchief in his hand wiping the perspiration from his brow. But that was nothing in comparison with the pleasure we were about to have. Our bunch were on the first train and it was only a short time until we were in the suburbs of that great mass of buildings, covering an area of ground having a diameter of nearly forty miles. As we neared the station traffic became intense and electric trains and cars were continually moving in all directions.

The Waterloo station, where we stopped is of an immense size and holds as many as twenty-four trains at once. Waiting-rooms, check-rooms, refreshment rooms are all built in accordance. Hundreds of people are passing in and out all the time. This is the largest station in Western London and Eastern Ontario represents the eastern part. Of course there are dozens of stations besides the two, but none so important.

The Streets of London. My friend, Mr. Mackey and myself, immediately secured an auto which took us to the Peel house, a boarding place for soldiers, but there were too many there before us and we then went to the Maple Leaf Club where we found room but were not there very long until it was filled up. You see these places are especially for soldiers. We had our tea and then my curiosity began to get the better of me and I with a bunch of fellows started to see what little we could that evening, one of the principal streets is the Strand and of course we had to see it. Streets were crooked and narrow but to my surprise none of the large buildings were over ten stories high. On the Strand the traffic is fearful. You have to be very careful not to get hit by some bus, car, auto or some other kind of vehicle because all kinds of cars, bicycles, cycles and people are to be seen on this street.

They have motor buses much the same as our street cars only they are double-decked and nearly everyone has all the work they want to do.

Up at Six in the Morning

Saturday morning saw me up and on the street at six seeing what I could for the first time in daylight. Well about the first cart to come along was a milk cart from the country. I stopped it and asked for a drink of milk. The driver said "this cup is twopenny." I had three of those, which is equal to about a quart and my, it was real good milk—some chalk and water as you get in some cities.

After breakfast, which was served at eight, we proceeded to see some more of the place. To begin at where we left off the night before, I might say here that, in the dining hall of the Club, there were sitting at the tables some of almost every kind of Britain's sons—English, Scotch, Irish and some from India, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand and last of all, not "some" but "many" of those who are here, not only for Britain's interest, but for Canada's interest—Canadians.

Trafalgar Square

The first place of interest we saw was Trafalgar Square, and in the middle of it stands that huge monument of Nelson. From there we went down another busy street—Piccadilly Cir-

House.

Leading from the House of Commons to the entrance is St. Stephen's Hall and here is seen some of the finest specimens of sculpture representing some of England's greatest ministers who have been the founders of many of our English laws and charters. This finished our view of the interior of the British seat of government and when we came on the street we were at the rear of one of England's oldest structures—Westminster Abbey. Don't you wish you were a Canadian soldier?

Westminster Abbey

Of course we immediately went to the Abbey and here we heard a service which was grand. It recalled to my memory those few lines in Burial of Moses—

In that great minister transcript. Where lights like glories fall. And the great choir sings and the organ rings.

All along the walls were lines of statuary and in the rear part was the crowning chair and beneath the seat of the chair is the Stone of Scone. We didn't stay long as we had to get a car which went to Madame Toussaud's Wax Works.

Sights at the Wax Works.

This is the greatest sight I ever saw in my life. There would be little use of me trying to make you realize what it is like. In the first place I can't impress the realities in words, which were pictured and designed in wax, and in the second place if I could impress it in words, there wouldn't be one per cent. of the people believe me. The motto to use in that place is, "speak to no one unless they speak first." They have all the prominent men of the age, rulers of the nations, crimes depicted and everything that is of note.

I noticed one lady in there who happened to hit another lady and of course she turned around and said, "Oh excuse me," but the other was of wax. Another peculiar image is that of a policeman standing just inside the entrance and many asked him where to go but no answer does he give to anyone.

At Buckingham Palace.

Mr. Steely, whom I met at Westminster, like myself, hadn't time to interview each specimen of war as we would have liked and left there for Buckingham Palace, the Royal Family's residence. What a structure it is. It is covered at present with a wire netting as a protection from bombs, which might be dropped by Zeppelins. The entrance to this place is most magnificent. Standing in front of the Palace is a large statue of Queen Victoria and it is all inlaid with gold, and cost hundreds of thousands of pounds. Just across the road was a large park and we went there for a rest for a little while and to get something to eat as travelling around is rather hungry work. We were sitting on the grass after tea just wondering what we would do on Sunday when a couple of ladies came along and wanted to get our pictures. Of course we didn't object to that nor did we object to talking to them. They were two ladies from the north of England on a holiday trip and as there are no Canadian soldiers up at these times we went to get our pictures. We went with them to Fox Hall to their stopping place and on our return we noticed some kind of light flash by the window of the car. I looked out and to my amazement the sky was covered with streaks of light. These were flashing about in search of Zeppelins which had been sighted off the coast in the afternoon. We arrived at the Club about eleven and shortly after we were in the land of rest being rather tired.

The Captured German Submarine.

Sunday morning, breakfast at ten. This sounds late but we make up for those late breakfasts when we are in camp. Immediately after breakfast I started out alone to find St. Paul's Cathedral which was not very far away and here I stayed for about a half hour's service and then began to wander back to the Club for dinner. I came by the way of Waterloo Bridge and from that bridge could be seen a British prize of war, the German submarine mine layer U.C.S. It is of the latest type. Its object in coming up the Thames was to plant a German flag on the Parliament Buildings and to sow some mines when going out. Instead of this the mines it carried are where they were at first and the British naval flag is planted on the sub. just above the German flag. It looks, from the shore, like a whale lying along shore. I got back to the Club about 11.30 and as dinner was not ready until one, Mackey and myself took a street car to Hyde Park, the finest park in London. Flowers of all kinds arranged in beds of all shapes and sizes, park roads and walks in all directions. A couple of small ponds where ducks, swans and small boats could be seen moving about in a leisurely way. Again we met a fellow back from the front and as he had been in London some time we were pleased to have his company.

The Road to Health

Went through Rich Blood and Strong Nerves.

Debilty is a word that fairly expresses many ailments under one name. Poor blood, loss of flesh, no energy, no ambition, listless and indifferent. This condition is perhaps the penalty of overwork or the result of neglected health. You must regain your health or succumb entirely. There is just one absolutely sure way to new health—take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills will bring you new life, fill every vein with new, rich blood, restore elasticity to your step, the glow of health to wan cheeks. They will supply you with new energy and supply the vital forces of mind and body.

There is not a corner in Canada where Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have not brought health and hope and happiness to some weak, debilitated person. If you have not used this medicine yourself ask your neighbors and they will tell you of some sufferer who has been restored to health and strength through using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. One who has always a good word to say for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mr. Luther Smith, of West Hill, Ont., who writes: "I feel it a duty as well as a pleasure to tell you what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. I had an operation for tumors. The operation in itself was quite successful, but I was so badly run down and anaemic that I did not gain strength, and the incision did not heal, and kept discharging for nearly a year, until I weighed only eight-six pounds and could scarcely walk across the floor: I had got so sick of doctor's medicine that I would vomit when I tried to take it. A good friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, so I bought a box. Before they were gone I thought I could feel a difference, and I got a further supply. By the time I had taken five boxes the wound ceased discharging and commenced to heal. I took in all thirteen boxes and am to-day enjoying the best health of my life and anyone suffering as I did will give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial, and I feel sure they will not be disappointed."

Entertained by the Daughter of Lord Crews.

Monday morning saw us getting up at eight o'clock feeling some-what rested but still tired. After breakfast Mr. Little and I took a train to Westminster and I went to where he works. It is in the Engineers' Department of the War Office. Now I was all by myself and the last place of importance I wished to visit was the Tower of London and London Bridge, where I immediately started for. When I got there I wasn't allowed in so all I saw was the outside view which was very old looking and covered with moss and vines. As for the bridge, it was a sight to see. Instead of the centre-arching it tips up on its ends, breaking in the middle. Coming back I noticed a large building being erected and found out it was the London County Council building. To give you an idea of what they are like I'll tell you they will cost at least 2,250,000 or about $2,250,000. Now judge the size of them from that. By this time I was feeling a little tired in my feet and I went to the Club where I rested until after dinner. About two o'clock I went by street car to Farnborough and Tollington Roads where is situated some of the residences of the aristocracy of London. They certainly are some sights to see. After an hour's stroll, I came back to Hyde Park and thence to St. James Park. This is where a great many people go for recreation and I thought that was what I was commencing to need. Here I met two ladies, Miss Crews, daughter of Lord Crews and her lady friend. They were just returning from the Charing Cross Convalescence Hospital and were passing the time away the same as myself. I accompanied them to their London residence, where I was entertained for tea and after tea was taken to the Putney Commons and Putney Parks. It was here where I saw the most magnificent flower beds in London. I could have stayed there for hours but my pass was drawing to a close and we started to return. The girls accompanied me to the Waterloo Station and at 10.30 I started for Bramshott Camp feeling just like I do now—tired out. I arrived in camp at 2 a.m. after seeing some of the world's greatest sights and having tried to tell you as best I could how I spent my three days.

AUTO GOES OVER BRIDGE

Five persons had a terrible experience and miraculous escape when they went over the Bay bridge, on the sand road, a mile from Smith's Falls, travelling at the rate of 45 miles an hour. The car fell into five feet of water, but beyond a shaking up, a bad fright and a good soaking, none of the occupants were hurt. The car, a new Overland, was badly wrecked. W. J. Shields, was the driver. He approached the bridge on a curve at a high rate of speed, and instead of accelerating his power, put his foot on the accelerator and the big car leaped like a live thing from the road and crashed through the railing into the water. Fortunately the top was up, and the car fell on its side, which saved the driver and passengers from being killed or drowned.

THE MILLENNIUM.

The controversy between the two doughty warriors, ex-Alderman Robinson and "Truth-Lover," has served to revive interest in a subject that many believe will soon be relegated from the field of actual into that of historic theology—the subject of the Millennium.

This idea of the Millennium, or, more properly speaking, the establishment of a Messianic kingdom on earth, is not the recent diabolical discovery of Pastor Charles Russell, as many orthodox church members have convinced themselves. On the contrary it is one of the oldest religious creeds in existence—older even than Christianity itself. The emphasizing of the doctrine by the International Bible Students Association is but a revival of beliefs that were far more extensively held three-quarters of a century ago.

What is the Millennium? It is made a distinctive dogma by the International Bible Students, the Adventists, the Christadelphians and other denominations of greater or less numerical strength. The beliefs differ very widely in regard to details, as the animated controversy by Mr. Robinson and "Truth-Lover" has brought out. But, generally speaking, the idea is that Christ will return to earth and reign with His saints on the earth for a definite period of one thousand years, or, as others maintain, for all time to come. The main basis for the belief is found in the twentieth chapter of Revelation where several references are made to "the thousand years." During this Millennial period evil will be non-existent for Satan will be bound and there will be a complete triumph of holiness. "They shall be priests of God and of Christ and shall reign with him a thousand years," are the words of St. John. The general purport of the chapter is that after Christ has appeared from heaven in the guise of a warrior and vanquished the anti-Christian world-power and the devil, those who have remained steadfast in the time of the great catastrophe and have given up their lives for their faith, shall be raised up and shall reign with Christ on this earth as a royal priesthood for one thousand years. At the end of this time Satan is to be let loose again for a little season. He will prepare a new onslaught, but God will miraculously destroy him and his hosts.

During the first century and a half of Christianity the doctrine of the coming Messianic kingdom was almost universally accepted and was believed to be then imminent. It remained for Augustine, one of the most astute theologians and statesmen of the early Catholic church and previously himself a believer in Millennialism, to bring forward the ingenious argument that the Millennium had already been established by the coming of Christ and the triumph of His religion over the pagan empire of Rome. That has since been the accepted position of the Roman Catholic church, and of some of the large Protestant denominations.

It remained for William Miller of Massachusetts to give the movement or belief a new impetus in the early part of the last century. Miller even set the day in the year 1843 when the present order would come to an end and the Millennium would begin. Many now living can recall the bitter disappointment that existed among his numerous following, the Adventists, or Millerites, as they were generally called, when the day of the expected advent of the Messiah passed off about the same as any other day with no unusual phenomena either in the clouds or upon the earth.

Since Miller's day there have been frequent revivals of the Millennial dogma, but in no instance have the professed believers attained preponderating numbers. The modern churches, as a rule, hold the view that Millennialism is only a very small and unimportant part of the Christian religion. Theology is daily becoming more practical. Admitting, for argument's sake, that the Millennium is a matter of certain expectation, why, asks the twentieth century theologian, should we worry about it? All agree that it belongs to the future, and all further agree that our status in that beatific FUTURE depends entirely upon how we conduct ourselves in this commonplace PRESENT. The thing to be concerned about then is the life that now is and how we can best fulfill life's mission. Therefore we find the men who are stirring the present-day religious world with their compelling message are not devoting much attention to the mystic, and highly figurative passages in Revelation but are basing their creed more and more upon the 5th, 6th and 7th chapters of Matthew, containing the all-comprehensive Sermon on the Mount. Here the plain meaning is easily understood and is not unduly obscured by the language of metaphor.

It has always seemed to us an indeterminate and profitless task to endeavor to place definite logical or mathematical values upon the poetic and mystical expressions of St. John. It is equally unconvincing and unsatisfactory to set up text against text and verse against verse in order to establish or disprove certain positive arguments about what the original author meant or did not mean. Even if we go back into original languages our difficulties are not lessened but rather increased. Language at best is a very uncertain and inadequate medium to convey thought. The Greek verb "poieo," generally means "to do" or "to make" but it also at times may signify such widely different acts as "to write," "to procure," "to use," "to fulfil," "to suppose," "to think," "to live," "to put a case," "to signify," "to be powerful," "to pretend," "to subjugate," as well as more than forty other strangely divergent meanings. This one word serves to illustrate the elusive task a man essays who sets himself to place bounds and limits to the significance of the inspired imagery of the words of the Apocalypse.

To appreciate this difficulty it is not necessary to go outside the English language. Take the last stanza of Tennyson's well known and popular "Bugle Song":—"O love, they die in yon rich sky, They faint on hill or field or river: Our echoes roll from soul to soul, And grow for ever and for ever. Blow, bugle, blow, set the wild echoes flying, And answer echoes, answer, dying, dying."

The most illiterate reader at least appreciates the music of the master's touch and a certain indefinable inspiration as he repeats the noble words. But, he would be a very rash critic who might attempt to define strictly all that the great Victorian intended. Even the author would never have permitted himself to set such arbitrary limits. The stanza contains all the meaning that we are capable of reading into it. And so it is with the Revelation. Viewed aright it is magnificent in its inspirational power. But to dissect it, and label the various parts with the exactitude of scientific formulas, uselessly disintegrates and destroys its wondrous literary beauty, its exalted spiritual vision, and its matchless prophetic symbolism.

GIRLS EXPECT TOO MUCH FROM HUSBANDS.

The reason given by most bachelors for being single is "I can't afford a wife." Now that does not mean that he blames the feminine sex with all the trouble, necessarily. It may also mean that he, too, has his expensive tastes and if the two are added together it spells prohibition as far as marriage is concerned.

The modern tendency to educate daughters to expect as much from their husbands as they receive from their parents at the time of marriage, explains the aloofness of many a good man who ought to marry and really wants to. Without criticizing the ambition of every girl to have higher education and best accomplishment should be the care of a home, the ability and willingness to cook a perfect dinner. Now, girls, don't flare up and say that when you marry you won't be anybody's drudge. That is what causes divorces.

Marry with the idea that it is a fifty-fifty division of work and responsibility.

Let the young man find you in the kitchen making toothsome dishes once in a while, rather than always in the parlor dressed in your most expensive gown.

AERIAL WAR.

After two years of fighting in the air, with flying machines steadily becoming more and more efficient, what is the lesson learned?

Here it is as written for the Fortnightly Review by England's greatest aerial war authority and a flying expert himself—Claude Grahame-White:

"Any nation which falls behind in the struggle for air power may, in years to come, be defeated in a campaign lasting not a year or a month of even a week, but as the result of a blow delivered and completed within a few hours.

"With aircraft flying, as they will, at speeds of 200 miles an hour and even more, it will be possible for an enemy, immediately on a declaration of war or without waiting for one, to strike in the course of an hour or so and with precision—using fleets of thousands of machines—against the very nerve centers and vital arteries of any opponent who is ill prepared; destroying government buildings, arsenals, factories and railways, paralyzing all communications and blotting out whole cities.

"The power of a perfected aeroplane, when in unscrupulous hands, may in the future become so fearful as to appear almost superhuman.

"Pestilence may be spread by aeroplane; the inhabitants of great cities may be slain in thousands by poisonous or suffocating gases.

"Swift and pitiless may be the action of sea power. Far more swift, far more pitiless, will be the action, ultimately, of air power.

"Disaster awaits a nation which ignores these warnings—which refuses to read this writing that the war has written on the wall!"

DON'T LET CLOTHING MISREPRESENT YOU.

It is interesting to analyze the influence of character on clothes, clothes being a rather sure indication of the type of the individual. Of course we readily make up our minds that the unshaven man with soiled and frayed collar and tie, baggy trousers and unshined boots, falls into the same lot with the down-at-the-heels woman, whose belt fails to perform its duty, whose buttonholes are buttonless, and whose ratty-looking hair suggests the need of a thorough combing.

But, aside from these, we can easily recognize the neat, nonimaginative kind, regular in habits, going through life in well-made, unostentatious garb that never attracts attention, because of its commonplaceness. Every rent is darned and there are often patches, but the clothes never need pressing or show the lack of mending.

The imaginative person suggests his bent by a bit of color, a line of originality in the style of the gown, in his selection of tie or his boot, and, nowadays, even of his hosier.

There is the foppish man appearing in the morning in one costume, another in the afternoon, another in the evening, with further changes for the following day. It takes no great insight to know that his wardrobe absorbs all the thought in his little brain, and we rejoice that fortune has given him a means of existence other than his own exertions.

Of course one's purse must limit the personality expressed in clothes, but the dominant traits are bound to be reflected, if not in the whole, in little ways.

There is danger that New Yorkers will have to walk on account of a strike of surface lines, but the exercise will do them good.

Recent German official reports are largely composed of "fighting continues," or "fighting is in progress." Most enlightening!

The despatches tell us that the Kaiser has already awarded 430,000 Iron Crosses. When he thinks of his deserving "Baby-Killers" he must be astonished at his own moderation.

Take Jonescu, the Liberal leader of Roumania, like Venizelos of Greece, was threatened with arrest a year ago for his pro-Ally sentiments. Now he is a popular hero. Times have indeed changed.

There is a splendid lesson for people suffering from insomnia in that report from Kingston that a man who piously knelt down early in the evening to say his prayers did not wake up until broad daylight next morning. It is worth trying.

About the same time that we learn of the refusal of the British Cabinet to be filmed at work, we are told that the moving pictures of President Wilson signing the Philippine Bill will be released. They do things differently in America, don't they?

"DOC SIFERS."

Within a few years after the conclusion of peace between the Northern and Southern States, I settled in a frontier town beyond the Mississippi River, and living there for seven years I had many opportunities for the study of interests, not only social but medical. Many of the doctors with whom I was associated had been assistant surgeons in the army, and there were some who never had graduated, yet had experienced much in varied hospital and field service and had considerable schooling in surgery. The first surgical instruments I secured were those purchased from an old army surgeon. My first saddle bags were those that had been used throughout the war. In fact, for many years I was daily associated with army surgeons who—I may here state—very seldom mentioned their experiences, and in after years—as for more than thirty years, with the venerable Dr. Robert Parker, Stirling, who had seen nearly five years of continuous service as surgeon, yet seldom, he ever referred to his military life; for, evidently it was far from pleasing to do so. I often met "Doc" Sifers out West where the corn was full of kernels and the Colonels full of corn. One fact, not publicly understood or even known, is that of those who return from the battlefields, but few escape the ravages of those disorders contracted by associations with meretricious Piccadilly, or polluted camp followers. That these loathsome distempers are more disastrous to the possessors thereof and to the commonwealth at large than the mutilations by shot and shell is well known to army doctors, and with such unwritten history for the public I have countless references, personally witnessed cases, and professionally obtained facts. Such is the scourge—the leprosy that medals or stripes or shoulder straps can not hide, but follows the victim as long as he can cast a shadow on the earth and is transmitted to innocents. Army surgeons talk more about such cases than amputations, the waste by fevers, tainted rations, or surgical or medical successes. Fathers, advise your sons who are defending us and the British Empire.

In July 1910 I stood by the graves of four U.S. army surgeons, my conferees in early practice, in Humboldt, Iowa, and it is needless to state there were recalled memories imperishably etched—yes there were many tears shed by me—especially, near the grave of one—

my dear friend (H.) whose eyes I had closed (June 3rd 1871); and with one of his surgical instruments, today (August 5th 1910) I did some minor surgery. Drs. Rutten (Napanee), Kuttan (Wellington), Parker (Stirling), Potts and Canniff (Belleville) were assistant U.S. surgeons during the Rebellion, and many others could be named from this section. In those times Canadian M.D.'s were given positions, why not now U.S. M.D.'s be given the similar appointments in our Canadian regiments?

The British War Office is asking for more doctors. Candidates must be British subjects, under 40 years of age and graduates of some Canadian medical college. They must pass the regular military service examinations, be members of the Army Medical Corps and vouchered for by the authorities of that corps.

I am too old—I can not go, as the eldest son of him who served in 1837.—Medicus.

(Read at the banquet of the Indiana Medical Assn.)

Of all the doctors I could cite you in this ere town, Doc Sifers is my favorite, jes' take him up and down; Count in the Bethel neighborhood, and Rollins, and Big Bear, and Sifers' standin' jes' as good as any doctor's ther!

There's old Doc Wick, and Glenn, and Hall, and Wurgler and McVeigh, But 'll' buck Sifers' ginst 'em all, and down 'em any day; Most old Wick ever knowed, I s'pose, was whiskey; Wurgler—well He et morphine—et actions shows, and fact's reliable!

But Sifers—though he ain't no sot, he's got his faults; and yet When you git Sifers ont, you've got a DOCTOR, don't ferget!

He ain't much at his office, or his house, or anywhere You'd macturly think certain fer to ketch the fellow there;

But don't blame Doc—he's got all sorts o' curious notions, as The feller says—"odd-come shorts." Like smart men mosterly has; He'll mor'n like be potter'n 'round the blacksmith shop, er in Some back lot spadin' up the ground, er gradin' it agin;

Er at the workbench, plain' things, er buildin' little traps To ketch birds; galvanizin' rings, er graftin' plums, per-haps. Make anything, good as the best—a gunstock, or a flute; He whittled out a set o' chessmen ont o' laurel root.

Durin' the army—got his trade o' surgeon there—I own Today a finger-ring Doc made out of a Secesh bone; An' gived a fiddle ont for me—jes' all so busted you 'D a-throwed the thing away, but he jes' fixed her good as new.

And take Doc, now, in ager, say, or bites, or rheumatiz, And all the afflictions thataway, and he's the best they is; Er Sanders—milk-sick—I don't keer—k-yore anything he tries— An abscess, gather'n in yer year, er, granulated eyes.

There was the Widder Daubenspeck, they all give up fer dead; A blame cowbanche on her neck, and clean out of her head! First had this doctor, what's his name, from "Puddlesburg," and then This little red-head, "Burnin' Shame" they call him, Dr. Glenn;

And they "consulted" on the case, and claimed she'd haf to die, I jes' was joggin' by the place, and heard her dorter cry, And stops and calls her to the fence, and I-says-I, "Let me Send Sifers—bet you fifteen cents he'll k-yore her!" "Well," says she,

"Light out!" she says, And, lip-tee-out, I loped in town, and rid 'Bout two hours more to find him, but I kissed him when I did. He was down at the gunsmith shop a-stuffin' birds. Says he, "My sulky's broke." Says I, "You hop right on and ride with me."

I got him ther. "Well, Aunty, ten days k-yores you." Sifers said; "But what's yer idy livin' when yer jes' as good as dead?" And there's Dave Banks—jes' back from war, without a scratch—one day Got ketched up in a sickle-bar—a reaper runaway.

His shoulders, arms, and hands, and legs, jes' sawed in strips; and Jake Dunn starts for Sifers—feller begs to shoot him for God's sake! Doc 'Course was gone, but he penned the notice, "At Big Bear; Be back tomorrow; gone to 'tend the Bee Convention there."

But Jake, he tracked him; rid and rode the whole en-durin' night, And 'bout the time the roosters crowed they both hove into sight. Doc had to amputate, but 'greed to save Dave's arms, an' swore He could a-saved his legs if he'd been there the day before.

Like when his wife's own mother died, 'fore Sifers could be found, And all the neighbors, fer and wide, a all jes' chaasin' 'round, Tell Snally—I had to laugh, it's jes' like Doc, you know— Was learning for to telegraph, down at the old dee-po.

But all they're faultin' Sifers fer, they's none of 'em kin say, He's biggity, or kee-les, or not posted anyway; He ain't built on the common plan of doctors nowadays; He's jes' a great, big, brainy man—that's where the trouble lays! —James Whitcomb Riley (the Hoosier Poet).

Other Editors' Opinions

OUT OF TOUCH WITH PUBLIC OPINION.

One of the greatest surprises in connection with Northwest Toronto election was to read the speech of Sir Alan Aylesworth in support of Mr. Gordon Waldron, the anti-prohibition candidate, so we mourn with The Pioneer that it should be possible that a man of his attainments should be so blinded by prejudice as to exert his splendid talents in behalf of the liquor traffic, and therefore in aid of the enemies of the great principles for which our men are today laying down their lives at the front—is one of the painful and incomprehensible anomalies that are sometimes found among the few citizens who in selfish class-isolation have utterly failed to bring themselves into touch with the needs, the sorrows, and the growing moral purpose of their fellowmen. We are glad to find by the returns that only 130 votes out of 5360 polled were given for the anti-prohibition candidate, so that Sir Alan must see that he really is out of touch with public opinion.—Bowmanville Statesman.

SELF-CONFIDENCE.

The truth that follows should cause every young person and older ones, too, to take stock of themselves to place an estimate of the value he or she is to the community in which they live. The doctor says that no man can rise higher than his estimate of himself. One has said, "there is no power in the universe that can help a man to do a thing when he thinks he cannot do it." He must have faith in himself, or he will not succeed. Let a young person realize that his ambitions along a certain line are proofs of his ability to reach the ideal along that line, and success is his. If a young man or woman has selected a life work that he loves, that he takes supreme pleasure in, there can be little doubt he is in his proper niche. Then his achievement will be according to his faith in himself.

The great deeds of history have been accomplished by men and women of great self-confidence, men and women who had unwavering faith in their own power to accomplish the tasks they undertook. If one has chosen the occupation for which he is adapted, that life work for which he believes his Creator has placed him here, then an unwavering belief in himself will remove all obstacles. The persistent thought that you are not as good as others will lower your whole standard of life, and paralyze your abilities. If you want to amount to anything in the world, you must hold up your head. Instill into the boys and girls the idea that they are of some importance in the community, in the nation, that God has placed them here for some purpose, and that nothing outside themselves can keep them from success if they but do their best.—Bowmanville Statesman.

AN UNDEMOCRATIC EDITOR.

Attempts to chloroform The Vindicator having been brought to naught, that wise Solon, that cultured man-about-town, that righteously-minded individual, Mr. Alex. McLeese, promulgated a method by which a wedge could be entered under our armour. This he did at the meeting of the Board of Education on Monday night, in those words: "I make this request. As our discussions are upon matters of a personal nature, I would ask that the report be suppressed, and that the powers that be hand out reports for the newspapers. We could then deal with these personal matters more frankly."

It is not upon record, in the long series of centuries in which the liberty of the press has been gained, that an Editor took the initiative to curtail his own powers, won by his predecessors at the cost of much imprisonment, blood and treasure. Great lovers of liberty and democratic freedom in the past history of our nation had served time in the stocks, had bared their necks on the block, had suffered imprisonment of the most strenuous character, before Junius was able to freely write: "The subject who is truly loyal to the Chief Magistrate will neither advise nor submit to arbitrary measures."—Oshawa Vindicator.

The pills that will do this work thoroughly are Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which are mild in action but mighty in results. They purge painlessly and effectively, and work a permanent cure. STRANGE ODORS
FROM THE RIVER

Resident Writes Vigorous Protest and Calls for Action on the Part of Officials.

Editor Ontario,—
With your valuable assistance I would like to draw the attention of the guilty parties whoever they may be, who are causing the present state of our river.

I may say the residents of Moira street, east, are grateful to you for the way you brought this matter before the health officials through your editorial columns, and since then others have followed you up in the good work—but without effect. Why?

Why do not our health officials or city officials take steps to put an end to this disgraceful state of affairs? We believe the continuation of this is endangering the lives of hundreds of our citizens. The condition of the river today is almost beyond description. Large pieces of matter were taken from the river today and left to dry in the sun but the smell drove the spectators to retreat. I have lived by the river for over a core of years and never have I known of such an odor to come from it as fills the houses by day and by night. It is almost unendurable.

Will our city fathers give us fair-play? We are heavy tax-payers and deserve some attention. Are we to be compelled to ask provincial assistance or will the council we have elected to protect us, do so? Why should any privileged parties be allowed to rob us of our municipal rights? Now, city council, get busy. Don't let this matter go like Victoria avenue pavement.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space.
A Shareholder in "The River Bank".

RECRUITING AT FALL FAIRS

Most Strenuous Efforts Will Be Made to Secure Recruits From the Visitors at the Fall Fairs.

Major G. I. Campbell, Chief Recruiting Officer for Military District No. 3, was at Barriefield Camp this week in consultation with officers of the units located there. The major is trying to devise some scheme that will bring in sufficient recruits to send all the recruits out of the district at full strength. To do this, advantage of the season must be taken owing to the probability of the orders for immediate overseas service being expected at any time. There are very few days, or weeks at the most, in which the work may be done, and for this reason the greatest speed must be shown.

The fall fairs will be taken advantage of to the fullest extent, and no one is a closer student of the dates for the fall fairs than the officers of the units at the camp. To every one, without regard to the place in which it is held a recruiting staff will be sent. They will conduct meetings, and the visitors to the fairs will have given them a full explanation of why the Empire now needs men. The requirements of the service will be detailed and the most strenuous effort of personal appeals will be made to bring in more men to the khaki ranks.

At present the details for the plans have not been completed, except in cases where the fairs are already being held. Every commanding officer has taken the matter up and will detail parties for the work.

HE TRIED TO

Man Wanted in Trenton—Was Met on Arrival of Train Here.

(From Friday's Daily)

Frank Marshall, aged 55 years, when he left Trenton yesterday afternoon little imagined that he was going to land into the arms of a police officer at Belleville. Marshall is accused of having entered and robbed a church in Trenton. The police there secured a fair description of the man and telephoned to Belleville on learning that he had left on the train. Constable Harman got the message just in time to get to the C.N.R. station to meet the train which was a little late. The desired man was on the rear platform and the sight of a cop upset his calmness. Mr. Harman knew him at once by his dress and was ready for Marshall's tricks. Marshall ran around the baggage room but could not get away.

On examination at the police station, his clothing was found to contain coppers and five cent pieces and a long chisel.

Constable Miller of Trenton took him back last night to stand his trial. Recently three churches in Belleville were entered—St. Andrews, St. Thomas and St. Michael's. Who the perpetrator was in these cases is not known.

About $7.72 is supposed to have been taken from St. Peter's-in-Chains Church, Trenton, yesterday.

THIS DISTRICT AND RECRUITING

It is Good Only Where Battalions Have Been Organized.

Major G. I. Campbell, chief recruiting officer for No. 3 military district stated that where battalions were organized and actively enlisting men, recruiting was as good as it was a year ago. Where, however, no battalions were organized it was practically dead.

On the front, from Belleville east, where there were no battalions actively recruiting, very few recruits are being secured.

Asked if more battalions would be organized in this district, Major Campbell replied in the affirmative, but he thought it would be some little time yet before they were authorized, not until, in fact, the battalions now in training were ready to go overseas.

The major stated that details for the national registration scheme were being worked out, and that he expected an announcement in a short time.

PRESENTATION OF LAMP

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Clarke Recipients of Gift from John St. Choir

At John St. Presbyterian Church after choir practise a pleasant event took place last evening. The leader, Mr. D. M. Clarke, having recently joined the ranks of the benedictines, the choir members wished to express in some way their appreciation of his services and to welcome Mrs. Clarke. An address of congratulation was read to Mr. and Mrs. Clarke by Mr. Hugh Rogers and a presentation of a beautiful electric reading lamp was made by Miss L. Currie on behalf of the choir. In accepting the gift, Mr. and Mrs. Clarke voiced their appreciation of the kindness of the donors.

After the presentation, a social hour was spent at which refreshments of ice cream, cake, sandwiches and coffee were partaken of.

INSPECTS Y. M. C. A. MILITARY BRANCHES

C. W. Bishop Leaves for Trip to Canadian Camps Overseas.

C. W. Bishop, general secretary of the national council of the Y. M. C. A. of Canada, who for some months has been devoting special attention to the military service department, left last night on a visit to England and France. The overseas military work is under the supervision of Major Birks, who will accompany Mr. Bishop in an inspection of the Y.M.C.A. military branches in the Canadian camps in England and across the channel.

Mr. Bishop is a son of the late Rev. Dr. Bishop, former pastor of Bridge Street Methodist Church and is well known in Belleville.

Within the Military Circle

The fire dance at the conclusion of the program of presentation to Brig-General Hemming on Tuesday night, was a most delightful feature.

Major, Ponton, Captain Kidd, Major Patterson, Miss Marguerite Macdonald, Miss Loid Rolland of Montreal, Miss Betts, Miss B. Small, Miss Phyllis Delvin and a number of other ladies and officers took part. The music of the pipes of the 154th battalion pipe band, but all the vim necessary into the dancers and the exhibition could not have been excelled on the boards of the best opera house.

Lieut. McKimmon inspector, from the pay department, held a muster parade of the 154th battalion Wednesday morning.

Lieut. Adams, son of Lieut.-Col. Adams, was in Ottawa, and returned to Barriefield yesterday. Lieut. Adams has to report in England on the 22nd of September, and in order to do this will leave on Monday.

The 155th battalion are clearing up their work on the ranges and all men who have not had their turn at the butts, are now doing their shooting.

Lieut. Smith of the 39th battalion, who some time ago came back from the front on sick leave, is still visiting with the 155th battalion.

Lieut.-Col Putman of the 155th battalion is on leave of absence, and has gone to Northport for a few days. The Colonel is still suffering from the kick he received on the march on Saturday last.

E. Gus Porter, K.C., M.P., of Belleville, is interested in having North Hastings placed back in the recruiting area of Hastings County, instead of being used for Peterboro.

The 154th and 155th battalions went on a route march around Kingston Mills Wednesday night. The alarm was sounded about 8.45 and the battalions were quick to respond. The two units marched a distance of 12 miles and returned to camp yesterday morning about three o'clock. The 155th battalion went into the trenches last night, and remained there until reveille this morning.

Lieut.-Col. McCammon, Camp Sanitary Officer, is arranging for the installation of a new system of injecting chlorine into the water of Barriefield camp. At times the chlorine has become so harsh that the water is almost unfit to drink but experiments have improved matters.

The latest, and what promises to be the best innovation is the use of chlorine gas instead of the solid. A specialist from New York is there for the work and new apparatus will be installed which promises to completely take the taste of chlorine out of the camp drink.

Serjt. Morris, pay staff, 155th battalion, is in the Field Hospital with pleurisy.

Major R. D. Ponton, who is drilling the men of the 154th battalion, has the battalion in splendid shape now. The major takes a deep interest in the work and his overseas training is very beneficial.

The total enlistments in Canada to date are 361,693. During the last fortnight they amounted to 3,670. The Toronto and Winnipeg districts are still far in the lead in recruiting with 81,537 and 73,431 men respectively. The Maritime Provinces have enlisted 32,668 men; London district, 29,946; Kingston, 37,908; Montreal, 31,681; Quebec, 6,996; British Columbia, 34,885, and Alberta 32,702.

Lieut. H. L. Ingram is attending at the E.S.I. to qualify as Captain. Lieut. H. L. Wallace of the 155th is also qualifying for his captaincy.

A great many people on Dundas street today wondered where all the beautiful music was coming from. Mr. Kenney, the Gerhard Heintzman agent has a most beautiful player piano of the latest design built in their own player piano factory, the only factory of its kind in America. Those who did not hear it should step inside and hear some classical music.

Miss Edna White has just returned from a two months' visit in the great North West. Miss White stopped over every little way on the trip out and back, thus relieving the monotony of a steady four-day train journey. She motored to Toronto where she took train as far as Sarnia then the "Huronian" through Sault Ste Marie to Fort William and after seeing all of that town and Port Arthur journeyed by G.T.P. to Winnipeg.

Short stop-overs were made at these cities as well as trips to Banff, Lake Louise and Field, B.C. While in Banff Miss White saw snow fall to the depth of 6 1/2 inches. She also made particular mention of the hot-spring baths as well as climbing to a great height on Sulphur Mountain. She called at Melville and Regina on the way back and sailed by steamer "Noronic" one of the most beautiful of the lake passenger steamers. On arriving home a score or more of her friends met Miss White and at the home of her mother, Henry Street, an elaborate midnight dinner had been prepared. Miss White speaks very highly of the West.

BUSY TRENTON
OUR Daily News Letter from this thriving Town furnished by The Ontario's Special Correspondent.

(From Friday's Daily)
TRENTON, Sept. 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Simpson, Dufferin Ave., motored to Port Perry in their new Chalmers runabout.

Mrs. (Rev.) Datoe of Castleton, spent the past two days in town.

Mr. Larke, manager of the Standard bank, Colborne, was a business visitor to town yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ruff have returned to their home in Brantford after a couple of weeks' visit at his home. Miss Pearl and Emma Ruff went back with them and on their way home will visit with Toronto friends.

Word reached town today of the death of a former Trenton resident in the person of Mr. Henry Bonter, of Toronto. The funeral is to take place tomorrow in Iroquois.

This year there are too many scholars in the senior fourth for the public school, so an extra class is being taught by Miss Malby in the Hill building on Front street.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized in the Catholic Church in Bancroft on Wednesday, Sept. 6th, when Miss Jane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McCabe was joined in the holy bonds of matrimony to James C., son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Shannon, Front street, Trenton, by Rev. Father Warwick of Maynooth. The bride was given away by her father in the presence of a host of friends and relatives and was assisted by her sister, Miss Margaret. Mr. Harry Shannon, being groomsmen. Miss McCabe was married in her travelling suit of navy giberdine with hat to match. The happy couple passed through town at five o'clock on their way to Toronto. Before returning they will visit points west and in the States. Their many Trenton friends wish them prosperity and happiness.

BELLEVILLE FAIR PROSPECT

Directors Making Efforts to Have Exhibition Biggest and Best Yet.

Nineteen sixteen bids fair to be a red-letter year in the history of Belleville. With several promising industries making preparation to establish themselves in the city, with the remodelling of our beautiful streets, and the building of many fine homes, Belleville is, without doubt entering upon an era of prosperity and good times unknown before in the history of the city.

The Directors of the Belleville Fair have also felt the impetus of the times, and have made their greatest effort to make the 1916 Fair the biggest and best yet. Now that the Toronto Exhibition is over, they see no harm in using the slogan which echoed the turnstiles at the big show to the tune of "almost a million," "Let's Go!" is the motto, with the improvement "Let's all go" and enjoy at least one day of real old fashioned fun at the Belleville Fair, Sept. 14th and 15th.

Horse races with $400.00 prizes, largest exhibit of live stock, poultry, and farm produce ever shown in Belleville. The Special Prize List is swelled out to the largest proportion to meet the increase in exhibits. There will be an excellent Band Concert in front of the Grand Stand each day, as well as a programme of sports unequalled by any of the smaller fairs in the Province. In addition to the excellent Horse Races, there will be many laugh-producing tests of skill, including the Hurry-up Call, Everybody's Race, and on down through a list of the best day of sports given yet.

"Let's all go" to Belleville's 1916 Fair, and have two bumper days of enjoyment.

JOHN STREET JOYS

The communion service in John St. Church yesterday was well attended, though some of our members are still absent from the city. Eight new names were added to the roll of membership. The subject of the evening was "Sin as a Disease," and while the subject is an old one, the method of treatment was uncommon and interesting. In Jesus' view of man's state and His own work as regarded sin as a disease and Himself as the Physician. As a disease it has: (1) a location and center; (2) symptoms seen in the eyes, hands and tongue; (3) malignancy and (4) fatal tendency.

(1) Divinely appointed; (2) perfectly valid; (3) uniformly successful and (4) adapts himself to the patient with peculiar sympathy. Yet many in Christian countries are not cured of Him. Why? (1) because unconscious of disease; (2) because they postpone application to the Physician; (3) because they dislike the remedy He prescribes, and (4) because they belittle the seriousness of the trouble. A man says "it is only a cold" though a legion of troubles come in its train. So of sin they say "It is but a trifling derangement of our moral nature which we can of ourselves rectify. If that be true Jesus came in vain and the Scriptures give a false representation of the nature of sin. But it is not "trivial" in the estimation of God. It presents the great problem to which He applies Himself in the gift of His Son. When at His command we are willing to rise out of sin's paralysis, He will give the strength to do so.

ST. LAWRENCE RIVER TRAGEDY

How Two Occupants of Motor Boat Lost Their Lives When Boat Took Fire.

A tragedy occurred near Ogdensburg on Wednesday night of last week, in which two persons lost their lives, bringing sorrow to two homes, the sad affair being the absorbing topic of conversation in the towns bordering on the St. Lawrence. The victims of the tragedy were Michael Powell and Mrs. P. B. Whiteley, of Prescott. To readers of The Reporter the sad affair has peculiar interest, as Mrs. Whiteley was a former resident of Gananoque, her husband, Capt. Whiteley, Quartermaster of the 156th Battalion, being formerly T. I. R. agent here.

The Ogdensburg Advance publishes the following particulars:—The tragedy, which caused much talk first came to the attention of the watchman at the pulp terminal shortly after two Thursday morning when he saw what appeared to be a passenger boat in flames about midstream in the St. Lawrence. Screams of a man were said to have been heard coming from the burning boat, which was rapidly drifting toward shore. The police and fire department were notified, and they soon reached the scene, which is about two miles above this city.

As the boat neared the shore the flames jumped to the bank and set the lumber piles afire on the docks of the Skillery, Whitner & Barnes Co., doing damage to the extent of between $4000 and $5000 before the flames were subdued. It was necessary to dump about 100,000 feet of pine into the river to check the spread of the flames.

The boat, upon its arrival at the shore, was burned to the water edge, and was without occupants. It was sunk by the police at the dock.

Friday afternoon the boat was raised by Prescott parties. The boat was burned to the water edge, but was identified by Fred Barton, who on different occasions acted as engineer for Mr. Powell.

Powell, who was manager of the Buckley estate in Prescott, left that town on Wednesday afternoon, telling his clerk that he was going to Brockville to see his sister, Mrs. Hamell, who was confined in a hospital there. He was in company with Fred Barton, but instead of going to Brockville they came to Ogdensburg. Mrs. Whiteley arrived in this city on the noon ferry. They registered that evening about 6.30 at the Norman Hotel, and had supper. They left the hotel at 7.30 and the last seen of them alive was by Mr. Barton, when he saw the two leave the harbor in the motor boat, bound for up the river. Where they went or what caused the accident will probably never be known.

On Tuesday the body of Mr. Powell was found about noon floating in the Bay near the State Hospital, by Jas. Gibson, an attendant. He quickly notified the authorities, and word was sent to Ogdensburg. Coroner C. C. Bartholomew was soon on the scene and directed that the body be sent to the McGill's morgue, deeming an inquest unnecessary. The body was found without a coat, and was badly decomposed.

The body of Mrs. Whiteley was found at Point Rockaway, 14 miles below Ogdensburg, on Monday afternoon, by Leslie Clark, lying on a rock in the St. Lawrence river. Mr. Clark and another man secured a boat and went after the body and brought it to shore, after notifying the police department of Ogdensburg.—Gananoque Reporter.

AGED RESIDENT PASSED AWAY

Joseph Binninger, One of Our Oldest Citizens Answers the Call.

On Saturday afternoon, Joseph Binninger, one of the city's oldest residents, passed away at his home, Foundry Street, after an illness of some weeks' duration.

Mr. Binninger was the son of the late John Binninger and was born near Cannifton in the township of Taurlog, eighty-nine years ago. He spent the greater part of his life in farming in his native township and came to reside in Belleville about twenty years ago. During his residence here his health has not been good.

He leaves no family, his wife and children all having passed away years ago.

He is survived by one brother, William who resides on Ridley St., this city, and three sisters, Misses Martha Susan and Cornelia, of Belleville with whom he made his home. He is also survived by three nephews, William Binninger, Los Angeles, Cal., Freeman McMillen of Detroit and Charles McMillen of Belleville.

Mr. Binninger was a life-long Liberal in politics and in religion a Methodist.

The funeral was held this afternoon.

THE SABBATH OR SUNDAY?

Are Christians Bound to Observe Saturday as a Day of Rest.

Editor Ontario. I understand that Mr. Johnston, the gentleman who is preaching rightly in the tent, has been strenuously trying to impress his hearers with the idea that they are making a great mistake if they continue to observe the first day of the week as Sabbath instead of the seventh. In other words he contends that all Christians who are keeping the first as Sabbath are committing a grievous error and in doing this are disregarding one of the most important of God's commandments and consequently are alienating themselves from the life of God. The command is one of the "Ten" found in Exodus 20. We read them as follows:

"Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work: But the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God: In it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maid-servant, nor thy cattle, nor the stranger that is within thy gates." Now the question arises: To whom were these words addressed? In the first verse we read, "And God spake all these words, saying, 'I am the Lord thy God which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt; out of the land of bondage.'" Now every reader of the Bible knows that the Israelites were the people who were in bondage to the Egyptians, and were made free and brought out of that land "through a mighty hand and by a stretched out arm." The Israelites then were the people to whom this command was given. Now to whom did it apply? As to humanity it evidently applied to the Israelites and those only who were under their jurisdiction—"with in the gates." It had then only a very limited application, it is evident. We have no record showing that the other nations were ever given this command by God let alone being obliged to keep it holy. On the contrary we do not find the Sabbath mentioned in the Bible until about twenty-five hundred years after creation. Although God rested on the seventh day, and blessed that day, and sanctified it, because that in it He rested from all His work, there is no account of Adam or any others being commanded to observe the day and keep it holy, until the time of the exodus.

A very strong proof that the keeping of the Sabbath was applicable to the Israelites only is found in Ex. 1: 13—"Verily My Sabbath ye shall keep: for it is a sign between Me and you (the Israelites) throughout your generation". Again "It is a sign between Me and the children of Israel for ever". Ver. 17. Any intelligent person can see that if other nations were Sabbath-keepers as well as the Israelites the keeping of the day holy by the Israelites would not make it effective as a sign between them and God. There would in that case be nothing special in the Israelites observing the day, and therefore it would have no significance as a sign between God and the Israelites, in any special sense.

And here is an additional reason why God commanded the Israelites to keep the Sabbath:—The chairman of the Board of Education, Sheriff Nesbitt, opened the proceedings by calling upon the Rev. E. W. Pickford, "The Maple Leaf" was then heartily sung by the audience.

Public School Inspector, of Cobourg, interference with any one.

Mr. Nesbitt generously donated the twelve acres of ground for the school. Hon. Howard Ferguson, Acting Minister of Education, said he was amazed and delighted when he viewed the school. The fact that such a grand building was constructed for the price and with no larger sum than $170 for extras was worthy of great praise for the management. He spoke at some length in respect to the resources and excellencies of the Province of Ontario, and of the need of the proper kind of men and women to develop and handle these great resources. Ontario's educational system is credited as the best in the world by men of high prominence. He would like to see more patriotism taught in our schools. He has a fund of information in respect to Ontario, all of which was greatly appreciated.—Ensign.

Miss Anna Mather left on Tuesday for Thomasburg where she has been engaged as teacher in the primary department of the public school.

Mr. W. Ashton spent from Saturday to Monday evening with Belleville friends. Mrs. Ashton who has been visiting in the city returned home with him.

Mr. F. C. Fawcett returned on Wednesday from a motoring trip to Brockville. His family who have been holidaying there for the past month returned home with him.

Messrs. M. Lesage and Jas. Gaborie each delivered a fine horse to the buyers at Stirling on Friday last. The animals will be sent overseas for use in the French army.

Mr. Ed. Speck, of Actinolite, who had his hand severely crushed at Queensboro mines about a month ago returned to work last week his injuries having completely healed up.

Mrs. E. R. Huyck and daughter, Miss Marion returned last week from a month's visit with Mrs. Sanborn, New York City. Baby Maurice Sanborn returned home with them.

Mrs. W. Donohue, of Belleville, spent Sunday with friends in Tweed. Her little daughter Wanda, who had been spending a few days in town the guest of her little friend Rena Quinn returned home with her.

Miss L. Carroll returned on Monday from her parental home in Trenton and has resumed her duties as principal of Tweed Separate School. Miss Margaret Feehey has also resumed her duties as teacher of the primary department.

Dr. Robertson spent Labor Day with his family in Kingston. We are pleased to learn that Mrs. Robertson has practically fully recovered from her recent operation and Miss Eliza, who sustained a fracture of her leg in the automobile accident near Toronto is improving nicely.

Mr. E. Trudeau, general merchant, Stoes, returned last week from Rome, N.Y., where he underwent treatment for cancer of the lip. He was under the care of the specialist for three weeks. There was no surgical operation performed and Mr. Trudeau feels fully confident that the treatment received has affected a complete cure.

Mr. Naftel, manager of the Bank of Montreal, has received word that Mr. D. V. McNaught, who was recently transferred from the Tweed branch to Almonte will rejoin the local staff in the course of a few days. "Mack's" many Tweed friends will be pleased to learn of the change. Mr. Campbell has received orders to report at Bowmanville, and his place on the local staff is to be taken by Mr. McQuaig, of Picton.

One might safely judge from the speed by which some motorists turn the street corners that the man behind the wheel is not fully conversant with the regulations respecting pedestrians. It would be well to remember that the man on foot has a legal right to stop every motor car that is coming towards him at an intersection of two streets until he has passed in safety.

S. Lesage, Casey Healy, Leo Byrne and Franklin Mulrooney returned on Monday to resume their studies at Alexander College, Ironsides, Que. They were accompanied by the following who purposes taking a course at the same college: F. Whalen, Felix Lesage, Herbert Detlor and Charlie Quinn. Mr. Jas. Quinn accompanied them to the institution.

The advance in the price of flour has caused the local dispensers of the "staff of life" to raise the price of that commodity and we now pay 12 cents for a 2 1/2 lb. loaf instead of 10c. It is generally supposed that Roumania's declaration of war will have a salutary effect on the wheat market as she is said to have a tremendous quantity on hand. Since she threw her lot in with the Allies there has been a noticeable decrease in the price of wheat on the Chicago market.

Miss Kathleen Quinn left on Tuesday for Marmora where she has purchased and will conduct the millinery business formerly carried on by Mrs.

Roberts. Miss Quinn learned the art of millinery in the local parlors after which she took positions in larger centers acquiring a knowledge of the business which cannot fail to be of great benefit to her in the new venture she has undertaken. She was one of Tweed's popular young ladies and she carries with her the best wishes of a host of friends for abundant success.

The continuation classes and public school opened on Tuesday with somewhat of a change in the personnel of the teaching staff. Prior to the holidays there were no male teachers engaged whereas now there are two, viz.: Mr. A. H. Erwin, formerly of the Redfrew Collegiate, principal of the Continuation Classes and Mr. R. Brodgen, of Stratford, principal of the public school. The other teachers are Miss McDowell, formerly principal, now assistant; the Misses Margaret Holdcroft, Emma Wallace, May Heath and Cora Grant.

While engaged at the shaper in the Houston Co.'s planing mill on Tuesday Mr. Thos. Hinds met with a painful accident in consequence of which he will be incapacitated from work for some time. He was operating the machine when the piece of wood he was shaping slipped letting his hand come in contact with the saw. The result was the index finger of the right hand was badly lacerated and the second finger also cut to some extent. Dr. Mather dressed the wounds and while he experiences considerable pain he is doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

Our power press was moved to our new quarters on Tuesday and we feel much relieved as the thought of bringing it down without dismantling it caused us some anxiety. We placed the job in the hands of Mr. Jos. Rasmussen whose reputation for moving buildings prompted us and our confidence was not misplaced as the machine came down the street as smooth as grease and landed without a hitch. The weight of the press is over three tons and Mr. Rasmussen and his assistant, Mr. P. LaBarge, completed the job of removing it in five hours unaided which we consider splendid work. The plant will very soon be in ship-shape again and we will be in a position to bring the Advocate back to its former equilibrium.—The Advocate.

PICTON

Miss Edith Anning of Belleville, visited last week at the home of Mrs. G. W. McMullen.

Mr. Joseph Roe, of Belleville, has returned home after spending a few days as the guest of friends in this town.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Hagerman and Mr. and Mrs. Bert McKee, Thurlow, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Clow over Sunday.

On August 31st, Thursday afternoon, the I.O.O.F.'s decorated the graves of their brothers, in accordance with their custom for many years. It was an ideal day, with a hint of the autumn everywhere. The attendance was not as large as upon former occasions.

Mr. George Sheriff, cheesemaker, will manage the Cherry Valley cheese factory in the absence of the proprietor, Dr. C. A. Puhlow, who has assumed his duties as medical officer of the 15th battalion at Kingston. Mr. A. M. Platt has been appointed salesman for the factory.

Several more Prince Edward boys have signed up with Cobourg Heavy Battery. David Benson, a former Picton boy, came all the way from Wisconsin to accompany his old schoolmates across the sea to do battle for the Empire. Lucius Carter Wilcocks, another Picton boy, has also joined. H. W. Reid, of Milford and A. H. Rowe of Carrying Place, are two more who have recently joined. These four with the six others—Jack Ringger, Ralph Burns, George W. Jordan, Alex. Learmonth, John Welch and Clinton Dulmage—make ten from Prince Edward county in this battery.

There passed away at Bloomfield, Aug. 21, 1916, Gilbert P. Bull, aged 83 years. He was the son of Corey Bull and Clara Clarke. He was a descendant of Josiah Bull who was born in 1738, who lived and died in Dutchess county, N.Y., not far from Poughkeepsie. His grandfather, John Bull, came to Canada about the year 1802, and was married to Mary Pallen in 1803. Mr. Gilbert Bull was born in Bloomfield in 1833. He married Miss Sarah Lawson and leaves beside his widow, a son, Mr. Edward M. Bull, Bloomfield. The deceased was an ardent Conservative in politics. In religion he was united with the Salvation Army.

Mr. George Thibault has purchased the East Lake Summer Resort property. This property belonged to the estate of the late Daniel McDonald, who died before completing his plans for the East Lake Resort. Mr. Thibault will erect a row of cottages along the Outlet, and will clear a road through the evergreens to the sand beach on Lake Ontario.

This is undoubtedly one of the finest bathing beaches on this continent. The road to the beach will be directly in front of the hotel and will bring the guests within view of the sea. A portion of the woods across the road from the house will be cleared and a sporting green made. Most of this work will be done during the winter and next summer the East Lake Resort will have a different appearance.

Mr. F. G. Dewry of the Hydro Electric Municipal Engineering Department spent Thursday of last week in Picton. Accompanied by Mayor Newman he visited the electric light station, some of the canning factories, and had an interview with Warden Purcell of Bloomfield and Ex-Warden Cleminson of Wellington, and many other citizens. The object of his visit was to estimate the amount of power likely to be used in Picton, Bloomfield and Wellington. He was very favorably impressed with prospects here and agreed with Mr. Bucke of the Hydro Electric Railway Department that no county in Ontario was as much in need of a Hydro Electric Railway and power line or could support it as well as Prince Edward county. Surveyors are expected to start the survey at once.—The Times.

Rev. Earl and Mrs. McCutcheon, of Beaverton, and Mrs. Isaac McCutcheon of Belleville, motored in town yesterday and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry McCutcheon.

F. R. Parker, M. A., Principal of Elmira, N.Y., High School, made a brief visit to Stirling on Friday last. He has 1200 pupils under his care, and a staff of forty-five teachers.

Misses Evelyn and Hazel Cavertley were home for the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Cavertley. Evelyn has returned to her school at Creemore, and Hazel to a situation in Toronto.

Pte. Thos. Young, of Rawdon, who enlisted in the second contingent, has been wounded in the recent fighting in France. Mrs. H. V. Hoover has received the following in reference to him: Mrs. H. V. Hoover—I am writing you for Thos. Young, who has been badly wounded. He is over the worst now, but he has had to lose his right leg to save his life. He is in No. 13 General Hospital at Boulogne, France where he is being looked after, and where he has every comfort, and I am seeing him every day.

Life of THE TWEED NEWS. By the installation of a modern type-setting machine, the mechanical equipment of this journal is now equal to the best of that found in any newspaper office in Ontario.

The object of the management is to make THE NEWS the brightest, newest and best local family newspaper in Ontario. To accomplish this the hand setting process is too slow and having faith in the great constituency of readers that from week to week read the pages of THE NEWS we decided to spend nearly $3,000 to equip ourselves for the work.

That THE NEWS is holding what it has and winning more is shown by the fact that since the 1st of April nearly 100 new subscribers' names have been added to our list. We have greatly appreciated this testimony to the worth of THE NEWS and it inspires us to put forth still greater efforts.

We invite our subscribers and readers to call at the office, when in town and we will be pleased to show them our plant in full operation.—THE NEWS.

DESERONTO.

Mr. A. H. Woodman leaves next week for Deloro where he has secured a position with the Deloro Mining Co.

Mrs. Edward Gaulin Jr. and Miss Veronica have returned to their home here, after having spent the summer on Manitoulin Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Barnhart, Capt. F. R. Barnhardt and Mrs. Boyd of Belleville returned home on Sunday last from a week's sailing trip across the lake. While at Oswego the oil stove exploded but not much damage was done.

Mr. MacBartley recently received a substantial walking stick from his uncle Spr. Alex. Foote, somewhere in Belgium. The stick is ornamented with a brass band taken from a shell and the top end is composed of the nose of a German shell below which is a circle of smaller German bullets.

Mr. Geo. Clement went fishing one fine morning last week off their camp, "Cedarwyde," on Carman's point and caught the largest black bass that has ever been seen in these parts. It measured 23 1/2 inches from tip to tip and 18 1/2 inches girth.

It was the first fish Mrs. Clement ever caught and with the aid of Miss Jessie it was promptly landed. It was immediately photographed and he head is being mounted. Mrs. Clement is much enthused over her catch, and you can bet your small change that there will be considerable fishing down in that locality in future.

The marriage of Calla Ethel, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Richardson, Deseronto to Mr. George E. Lawton, third son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lawton, of Chatham, took place in the Methodist Church on Tuesday, September 5, Rev. S. T. Tucker officiating.

The bride who was given away by her father, wore a gown of Georgette crepe with tulle veil and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. Miss May Lawton, the groom's sister, was gowned in blue silk crepe and carried pink roses. The groom was supported by Mr. Stewart Field of Windsor.

A reception was held later at the home of the bride's parents, after which the bride and groom left by motor for their future home in Windsor, the bride wearing a suit of blue.—The Post.

Among the officers selected from this military district to go overseas in the special draft leaving shortly are Lieuts. V. Masson and G. Dolman of Campbellford.

Mr. H. R. Cole and party of friends opened navigation to Hastings on Labor Day by going through the locks at Healey Falls in Mr. Cole's motor boat.

On Thursday evening fire completely destroyed Dr. S. West's barn, which is situated just south of his residence on Grand Road. Dr. West discovered the blaze in time to rescue his horse and other live stock but everything else in the building including many valuable articles was lost. The fire brigade was on the scene in a few minutes but they had not a sufficient length of hose to reach from the nearest hydrant to the blaze. The loss is estimated at over $1,000, on which there is only $300 insurance.

Mr. T. J. Kennedy, formerly of Campbellford, died at his home in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., on Tuesday, the 29th of August last, after an illness of over three months, at the age of 61 years and 11 months. Mr. Kennedy was very well known in railway circles and played an active part in the railway development of Canada. He was a native of Campbellford, being the eldest son of the late Mr. Daniel Kennedy, for many years chairman of the Board of Education in this place.—The News.

PICTON

Miss Josephine Redmond, B.A. of Picton, has been engaged as teacher on the Trenton High School staff.

One of those entire successes which repay all the labor expended upon them was the dinner given Monday, Aug. 28th at Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Williams' summer camp on the beautiful bay front on Mr. John O'Neil's farm, in honor of the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Rev. Williams' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Williams.

This brilliant affair was somewhat of a surprise to the complimented guests.

A bowling club has been organized by a number of the older sports of Picton and is to be known as the Picton West End Bowling Club. Mr. N. D. Gilbert was elected President and Mr. John Habbs, Secretary. Mr. D. A. Kelly, West Main St., has offered the use of a portion of his lawn for the purpose and work commenced at once to prepare the green, and it is expected the grounds will be levelled and lighted and ready in about two weeks.

The Picton Collegiate fall term began on Tuesday morning last with an attendance of nearly two hundred pupils. This number will be increased during the next few weeks by many who could not begin at the opening, and the indications now are for the largest attendance in the history of the institution. The Collegiate teaching staff is as follows:—H. W. Kerfoot, B.A., Principal; Mr. E. M. Bigg, M.A., Mr. A. S. Zavits, B.A., Miss C. E. Hewitt, B.A., Miss H. M. Soimes, B.A., Miss E. L. Reid and Mr. C. S. Guleston.—The Gazette.

Five Hungarians were arrested at Havelock on Saturday by Constable McNeleoh. They were under agreement to work in the stone quarries in Belmont for $2.75 per day, but were not satisfied and quit work. They were taken to Peterborough and placed in jail.

A man named Thos. Martin, who is supposed to hail from Campbellford, was arrested by Constable Puffer on Tuesday night and placed in the lock-up, charged with violating the liquor law in a local option municipality. On Wednesday morning Martin was brought before Magistrate J. L. Squire, who remanded him to appear before the county police magistrate, when a more serious charge may be preferred against him.

A marriage of local interest took place at Pontypool on Tuesday when Rev. T. W. F. G. Andrews, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Andrews, Peterborough street, Norwood, was united in marriage to Miss Erma I. Hooper, by the Rev. J. G. Lewis, B.A., resident pastor of the Pontypool circuit. The ceremony, which took place at 5 o'clock p.m., was witnessed by only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The groom's many Norwood friends will join in extending congratulations.—The Register.

NORWOOD.

Three residents of Cardova appeared before Magistrate Mathison last week on a charge of being intoxicated in a township adjoining a local option municipality. They were found guilty and fined $20.00 and costs each.

The Trent River Regatta on the 18th inst. was a decided success in every way. The events were keenly contested and the winners received valuable prizes. The proceeds amounted to $107.00 and a cheque for $100 has been forwarded to the Red Cross Society.

The mantle of the reeveship of the village for the remainder of the year has fallen upon the ample shoulders of our chief magistrate, Wm. Mathison, who was elected by acclamation at the nomination proceedings on Wednesday of last week to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Reeve Pennell.

Messrs. W. T. Curtis and F. Coon were also nominated for the office but both withdrew in favor of Mr. Mathison.

The new reeve's election seems to be a popular one. He has long been known as the "Father" of Havelock because of originally being the owner of most of the village site, and now he is doubly so in that he is the head of our village.—The Standard.

G. F. Lent and wife, A. J. Anderson, H. East and Collins, D. Valteau and W. G. Anderson spent last week at Toronto Fair.

Charlie Ackerman and bride returned on Saturday from their honeymoon spent at Western points. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ackerman gave a reception for them the same evening. We are sorry to lose them from our neighborhood, but our loss is someone else's gain.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Osborne, of Melrose, motored up on Monday to spend a few days with his uncle, Mr. Ben Osborne.

THE CONSERVATIVE PARTY DIVIDED.

(Special to The Ontario)

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—Since the death of Sir James Whitney the old Conservative regime has been followed by a period of spineless administration in the Ontario Legislature. Divided among themselves, the blunderers in the Cabinet will hardly be able to retain office long. Internal jealousy, with its consequent dissension, has robbed the government of the least vestige of efficiency; and the spectacle of Ministers of the Crown repudiating their leader and his policy and descending to gutter talk and impractical promises to secure their mean personal ends, particularly as witnessed in the recent Toronto bye-election, has caused the utter degradation of the Conservative Party throughout the Province of Ontario.

That the rank and file of the Tory Party are disgusted with affairs as they are, and embittered against the supine leadership forced upon them in the person of Mr. Hearst, who had not statesmanship enough to stick to his guns and defend his position on the Prohibition question, is manifested from the expressions of dissatisfaction heard on all sides. Open threats of a split in the ranks and the creation of a separate party are circulating in the provincial capital and a general re-organization of the Cabinet and, at the same time, a re-casting of the Ontario Temperance Act, is demanded by leading lights in the Conservative Party, including several Legislative members.

In an interview with the Toronto Globe, a Conservative worker said he expected something shortly to happen. The dissatisfaction was not all due to the stand of the Government on the liquor question. The people are taking notice of the friction between the government and advocates of further development of Hydro-Electric power, under the leadership of Sir Adam Beck. Public opinion is becoming indignant over the obvious antagonism of the present administration towards Hydro expansion.

Many Conservative members of the Legislature are expected to decline to stand for re-endorsement by their constituents at the next general election, some finding themselves utterly opposed to their present leadership, and others convinced that it is wise to desert a sinking ship.

All progressive opposition proposals in the House are shelved by the Government with laudatory compliments to themselves for what they and their party have done in the past. When a government arrives at this stage it is clearly time for a change. The slide is coming soon.

WHO IS GUILTY OF MUD-THROWING?

"Truth-Lover" Blames Mr. Hobson for Trying to Obscure the Issue and Accuses Him in Return of Mud-Throwing.

Dear Sir.—It must now be clearly evident to all the thinking public that the lengthy and empty tautology employed by Mr. Robinson in his article of Sept. 6th shows beyond any doubt the terrible mental labor he has, to try to make his positions even appear plausible...

We believe with Mr. R. that the saints are going eventually to live upon the earth made new 2 Pet. 3:13, but not until the 1000 years expire, and all the texts that are jumbled up in the last paragraph of Mr. R.'s articles which apply to the new earth will then be fulfilled—not before...

Mr. R. doesn't like Jer. 25:33 which says that the slain of the Lord which takes place at His coming will be "from one end of the earth to the other." The whole earth is included...

He doesn't like Heb. 11:16 where it says a city is "prepared" and says it is not prepared in heaven. Christ says in John 14:2 "I go to prepare a place" He went to heaven Acts 1:9.

The Associated Boards of Trade will meet in Toronto on Nov. 21st and 22nd. Col. Ponton is honorary president and Mr. John Elliott is chairman of the agricultural committee.

Rowell Addresses London-Gathering

LONDON, Sept. 6th.—Addressing a prohibitionist meeting to-night Mr. Newton W. Rowell, K.C., M.P.P., leader of the Ontario Opposition, emphasized the fact that prohibition could never have been carried in Ontario unless by the hearty cooperation of the men who took the special glass themselves but realized the necessity of absolute prohibition at the present time.

COOK & SON PAID 20-1-16

New High Price for Cheese on Peterborough Board.

A new, high record price was reached on the Peterborough Cheese Board, yesterday morning, when Mr. W. S. Cook of Belleville paid 20 1-16 cents a pound for 2,346 boxes, the entire offering of the board, after a three weeks' rest. When butter holders around 40 cents and cheese is above 20 cents no further evidences are required to indicate the present value of milk.

Mr. Kerr opened at 18 1-8 cents, and Cook jumped to 19c. Mr. Hodgson named the 20 cent bid and Mr. Cook went one better, saying: "You cleaned up here once, only once."

The session was perused by an address by Mr. John W. Johnson, M. P. P. for West Hastings, who spoke of the importance of the cheese industry and its present strong position.

INVALIDED SOLDIERS ARRIVE

Four invalided soldiers have arrived in Kingston from Quebec. The party was in charge of Sergt. Stinson, of the 21st battalion, who was gassed some months ago. They were met at the station and immediately taken to the convalescent home.

B. L. Germaine, a well-known Kingston boy was in the party, and when the train pulled in he was met by his father and mother and sister. Although he had a grueling time at the front and was wounded three times by shrapnel, he wore a broad smile when he alighted on the platform and was welcomed by a number of friends.

HEART FLUTTERING EASILY CORRECTED.

Good Advice to Folks Bothered With Palpitation, Weakness, etc.

If your heart flutters, be careful. An attack is liable to come on at any time. Excitement, over-exertion or emotion may cause it. If blood rushes to the head, if palpitation and short breath are noticeable, there's cause for alarm.

If you want a good honest remedy try Ferruzone. We recommend Ferruzone because we know it's just right for heart trouble. It cured A. F. Beattie, who lives at Allen Hotel, Bay City, Mich. See if your symptoms resemble these:

A GOOD SIZE MARKET.

Today's market was well attended for a Thursday morning. Prices remained steady, tomatoes keeping at 30c per peck or one dollar per bushel and potatoes at 50c per peck. Plums sold uniformly at 10c per bushel and pears at 40c per peck. Melons brought from 15c to 25c each.

LIFE ON THE WIDE MEDITERRANEAN

Capt. Walter Sneyd B.N., Writes of Interesting Experiences the Eastern War Zone.

Mr. Henry Sneyd, manager of the local branch of the Merchants bank has received the following most interesting letter from his brother, Capt. Walter Sneyd, of the Royal Navy. It will be recalled that some weeks ago the Ontario was permitted to publish another very informative letter from Capt. Sneyd while he was doing duty at Saloniki.

Eastern End of Mediterranean Dear Henry,—

I have to thank you for a letter which I received some time ago in Malta. I wrote you a long letter of our experiences at Anzac and Svabia, some months ago. I don't think you can have had it. Such a number of letters go astray, especially to our colonies. I know of a great many that were never received in South Africa. I don't think it is the censor this end, but it is either the chap at the other end, or post office people who want copy for the papers, any really interesting letter never seems to arrive safely, and it's hard to write when you can't say what is in your mind. I reckon our work with the Serbs was as interesting and perhaps more exciting than Anzac. The Italians saw us and I don't think we have much of an opinion of them, but the Serbs are real men. I should very much like to visit Carthage, again. But of course that doesn't rest with us, although there is a chance. Everything is upside down as regards odds and ends in the shipping line, and it is no uncommon sight to see the American flag out this direction, and yesterday we came across the Brazilian flag No doubt America is piling up the dollars. That reminds me of the latest yarn. Scene in a train at home—just after the July "push" in Flanders. Yank and phlegmatic Britisher—Yank looks up from his morning paper and says in his nasal drawl, "Some fight." "Yes," says the Britisher—"Some don't." I don't think I sent Clem any Valona stamps did I? Any way here are one or two more, the only issues up to the time we were there, they should be worth having, and one or two others I have come across. I got them all at Post Office so they are genuine, but if I put them on letters you wouldn't see them. Lately we have been doing most at Saloniki and Alexandria, and I have just had three days at home where I found everyone well. We brought some wounded over from France, and I would have stayed on that run, but ships were urgently required out this way, of course we might go anywhere after we have put ashore our present crowd, and their goods. Have you ever been to a big service at a music hall, if so you know what our promenade deck looks like. Ladies do not look to advantage in khaki and belts and shoulder strap, and puttees and short hair and a cigarette case, etc., etc. Still they all do very useful work as lady doctors, nurses, cooks, chauffeurs, etc. and the Serbs will be very glad of their assistance.

I don't think peace will be settled this year, it may be discussed and all that, but it will take time to accomplish. I should not be surprised if the Germans had one or two surprises before long. We are a long suffering race. The one person who is really worried and scared is the man in the German submarine. His life is not a happy one. Many of our submarines are grown up to be quite large children and let's hope they get a lock-in. Monitors bulge more than ever, and crosses and hybrids are developing. The imagination of the world's best brains are brought into play at sea, and their works are weird and wonderful. Few people ashore really grasp what sea-power means and that Germany can even smell old Neptune's rostrum is laughable in the extreme. They can and do a tremendous lot of damage, so can a baboon with his back to a tree, and a pack of dogs and a man with a rifle in front of him, but his number is up. At the present moment we are off Mount Aetna bound East, and there is a good deal of snow on the summit. I have seen some wonderful Turkish and Persian porcelain which would well repay buying, but there again the outfit is big, and if we were mined I should lose it. There are some very beautiful and interesting spots around this end of the world and I should very much like to visit the Aetna peninsula where the gorgeous monasteries are. We have been close in all along it and saw the beautiful architecture and the 13th century buildings, more like gigantic palaces, wonderful terraces and gardens, etc.

Ever your brother, Walter.

Walter.

A ROYAL FEAST

Stranger With Can of Salmon Attracted Crowd.

A seedy stranger who has seen better days but still preserves his sense of delicacies, gave a few minutes' amusement to a crowd of citizens today. The knight of the King's highway had come into possession of a can of salmon and the banquet he enjoyed as he sat on McAnnam street against the city hall seemed to him to royal taste. He opened the tin top and having none of the civilized weapons of the table used in the king's instruments, his pickers and stealers digging out the rich fish food. His fingers would extract the sweet oily-relish and his mouth would open and close in a fond embrace of the salmon. Anon he would draw out some put the contents in the other hand and sort it with gusto and carry the food to his watering lips.

SHINERS DIE IN HARBOR

Silvery Bodies of Small Fish Found in Clusters and Among Woods.

Hundreds of little shiners have come to grief in the Belleville harbor and their silvery bodies are now dotting the dark blue surface of that portion of the city's waterfront. With them are just a few larger fish such as perch, but they are negligible in quantity. Citizens who visited Victoria Park yesterday afternoon and boatmen on the east side of the harbor have complained of the situation to the authorities. The situation will be improved by the removal of the fish.

FULL MILITARY HONORS.

155th Battalion Escort Laid Pte. John Y. Beaton to Rest.

(From Thursday's Daily) The late Pte. John Y. Beaton, Bleecker Avenue, was yesterday accorded full military honors, a firing party of twenty men of the 155th Battalion under Sergt. Lynn from Barrieffield attending the obsequies. Rev. Father Hyland had conducted the rites of the church at St. Michael's. The funeral cortege was an impressive one. Besides the military large numbers of citizens attended and followed the remains. At the grave in St. James Cemetery, three volleys were fired over the grave and "The Last Post" was sounded on the bugle. The pall bearers were six comrades of deceased in khaki, Wm. Rees, Wm. Hefferman, Percy Babcock, Charles Babcock, Leo Sullivan and Edward Cronan, all of whom deeply mourn the untimely death of a true comrade.

FINED TEN DOLLARS

(From Thursday's Daily) Harry Daynard, a stranger, was fined $10 and costs today for being drunk. He is a mechanic employed in an important industry in Toronto.

APPLE STEALING IN PROGRESS.

Boys are up to their old tricks of stealing apples from gardens in the city. The police were given an alarm yesterday to investigate one of these thefts.

SOLDIERS' SAD TALE.

A few days ago some soldiers came up to Belleville on leave. Three of them foregathered and one invited the two to a drive. They each dipped and gave him a dollar and how they claim that their friend went to the bank and took all they had.

- OBITUARY -

GEORGE BABCOCK

(From Thursday's Daily) George Babcock, a well known and esteemed resident of Belleville, passed away yesterday. He was 53 years of age and was twice married, his first wife dying some years ago. Surviving are his widow, five sons, and two daughters. Charles and Percy are in the 155th battalion, Barrieffield, and George junior resides in this city. By the second marriage are the following children, William, Walter, Nellie and Sarah. Two sisters also mourn his loss—Mrs. Robert Black of Chicago and Mrs. Cream of New York State.

A pathetic touch in association with his death was that his two sons, Charles and Percy of the 155th came up from Barrieffield yesterday to act as pall bearers at the funeral of the late Private Beaton and until their arrival here did not know of the decease of their father.

TWO MONTHS FOR FALSE PRETENCE.

Arthur LaVergne Denied Ever Having Gone by Name of Giroux.

(From Thursday's Daily) Arthur LaVergne of Montreal appeared before Magistrate Masson this morning for sentence on conviction on a charge of securing two dollars from a Belleville grocer by false pretences. He was sentenced to two months in jail at hard labor. LaVergne admitted that he had spent eighteen months in Montreal jail for theft and sentenced on June 12, 1912 at that city to five years in the St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary. A man named Arthur Giroux had according to the authorities at Ottawa, who examined the finger prints against that term, being paroled on Oct. 21st, 1915. LaVergne denied ever having gone by the name of Giroux. LaVergne and the Ottawa authorities agreed that he (LaVergne) had enlisted in the 69th Regiment.

FUNERAL OF JOHN BELNAP

(From Thursday's Daily) The funeral of the late John Belnap took place on Wednesday afternoon at Rosemont, Rev. Mr. Webber, conducting the last sad rites. A large number of friends attended the service at the family residence and followed the remains to Simons' cemetery where interment was made. The bearers were nephews of the deceased.

DO YOUR EARS RING? HAVE YOU CATARRH?

A buzzing noise in the head is the beginning of chronic Catarrh. If not checked the result is deafness. A simple remedy that many physicians advise is to slowly inhale Catarrhose a few times each day. The soothing vapor of Catarrhose cures the Catarrhal condition, and hearing improves at once. Head noises, buzzing ears are cured. For Catarrhal deafness, throat, nose and lung Catarrh, there is probably no remedy so efficient. The large one dollar outfit lasts two months and is guaranteed to cure; smaller size 25c and 50c, sold everywhere.

DEATH

MACLEAN — At Arlington Beach, Esq., Malcolm John Maclean, son of the late Rev. M. W. Maclean, of Belleville.

A BRANTFORD SLATE. 1—Five Base. 2—First coating of Asphalting. 3—Second coating of Asphalting. 4—Coating of crushed slate.

Yesterday and To-day

Wooden shingles of twenty or thirty years ago were of splendid quality, and answered the purpose very well. There was nothing better at that time. In fact no other roofing material was on the market. Yet who would think of putting on shingles to-day? When the deterioration of wooden shingles became noticeable, efforts were made to invent a roofing that would not only be an economical and permanent substitute for wooden shingles, but one that would outlast them in service.

Brantford Roofing was the result. It has "made good." The secret of its success is this: First, the base is of pure, long-fibered felt which is thoroughly saturated with asphalt or mineral pitch. The asphalt and crystal rock roofings are then thickly coated with crushed rock particles, which adhere tightly to that base, and the whole forms a permanent fireproof, water-tight roof.

Brantford Asphalt and Rubber Roofing are made in three different weights. Crystal is made in heavy weight only, and in red or green natural colors. All three grades are pliable and well suited to either flat or steep roofs.

Brantford Roofing

comes in rolls with protected ends. The layers do not stick together and the roofing is easily laid. It requires no painting or tarring when put on. It does not crack with the cold nor melt with the summer's heat. It does not curl, split, rust or blow off. It gives permanent weather and fire protection at a reasonably low initial cost.

May we send you our roofing book and samples? They will show you the real value of these roofing materials.

"PREPAREDNESS"

SERMON BY REV. R. C. BLAGRAVE,
B. A., D. D., OF CHRIST CHURCH,
BELLEVILLE, ON TIMELY SUBJECT

"Preparedness" was the subject of a sermon delivered at Christ Church by the Rev. R. C. Blagrove, B.A., D.D.

"Preparedness" is a word, he said, to reckon with these days. We hear it on all sides, and we have become acquainted with its significance on such a scale as to give it full meaning. There can be no mistake, even in the popular mind, at least in the living present, as to the value and importance of it. Since the commencement of the war the burden of our lament has been Britain's unpreparedness. If we had been prepared for war, as our enemies were, it is said, there would not have been any war, or if there had we would not have suffered terrible anxiety of the first twelve months, when flesh and blood alone had to resist the efficiency of the perfected machine. If we had been prepared Belgium would not have been overrun, nor would the thundering Hun hordes have advanced to the wals of the Marne and the gates of Paris. Thousands of the noblest and bravest lives of Britain and France have been sacrificed because these nations were not prepared for the initial iron stroke of the German machine. Hence it is that we know from bitter experience that our unpreparedness has cost us. It has afforded indeed one of the most decisive proofs, that Britain and France were not responsible for the war, and that Germany was, but it is far too great a price to pay for the proof. In one branch of service we were prepared and by a comparison of its efficiency with failure in other directions the importance of preparedness becomes the more evident. Our navy, in bulwark as well as the cement of our Empire, sweeps clear the seven seas, and declares to a questioning world that there is such a question as British efficiency too, and that Britain knows well the indispensable asset to her imperial existence.

Tonic Preparation.

The great surprise about our enemies is their capability to sustain from within, by their own resources and energies, so long and so persistent a warfare, surrounded as they are by so threatening a band of steel. But from the beginning it was evident that Germany had made preparation for almost every emergency, and her own internal resources were not overlooked in the calculation. The strength of her resources in munitions and in the manufacture of all kinds of explosives, together with the furnishing of all the essentials for them, independently of shipping and imports, is the most telling example of preparedness the world has ever seen.

Readjustment After the War.

The world is already seriously taking to heart to apply this great lesson so recently and so bitterly learnt. We are already making preparation for the end of the war. The readjustment of the world's life which will follow the declaration of peace cannot, without grave peril to the wellbeing of the European nations, be left to chance. The reopening of channels of trade and the resumption of industrial activity must be anticipated, and efforts must be made to avoid the clogging of the wheels of commerce, and the paralysis of economic activity which are certain to take place without intelligent and systematic preparation. A Paris conference has been held with a view to coordinating the economic interests of the Allies, as against those of the Central powers. Sir Rider Haggard has been sent around the world to appraise the possibilities which other parts of the Empire afford for the rapid and efficient distribution and settlement of returned soldiers, and for industrial cooperation and development. It is most important that these matters should be taken up and properly organized, so as to bring order out of chaos as speedily as possible after the war. We have learned the lesson of preparedness very well so far as our national and material interests are concerned, because we know from experience the fearful cost of not being ready.

Preparation in Spiritual Sphere.

But there is a sphere in which we may quite unwillingly fail to learn, or to apply, the lesson, and where failure involves just as grave and serious loss and pain as in the matters we have been considering. We may fail to realize that the law holds good in the weightiest matters of the soul and spirit. A warning has been sent out, and has been heralded incessantly since the beginning of the Christian era, a warning which no one can plead ignorance of, and about which no one can say, as has been often said with regard to England's unpreparedness for war, why were we not told? or why, if told, did the people not hear? They have been told and they have heard, even though they have not heeded, the warning that came from the heart and mind of Christ Himself. "Be ye therefore ready."—Ready for what? "for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh." And what does that mean? It means judgment. Be ready for judgment; all the time ready. It is the same thing as to say be ready to die. Be ready to die, did we say? No, that is not what is meant. Be ready to live. The warning is to be ready to live hereafter—live so here as to be ready to enter into the fullest, freest, most glorious life, hereafter. The warning is personal and individual, but it is also national. The individual is the unit. The nation and the world is made up of so many individuals, and the urgent appeal to prepare for the fullest, freest life, hereafter, is for the nations and the world to make the greatest preparation here. But hereafter the individual is not lost in the mass and each one's own personal life is at stake under the great summons. It is none the less the most sacred obligation in the world because it means looking after one's own salvation, because that is the way the whole is saved, for looking after one's own involves the losing of it in the service of the highest end. It is the selfishness of personal interest, or narrow selfishness. We are saved by service; saved by the greatest effort that is possible to be made in resisting wrong and upbuilding right.

What is the most worthy purpose in all the world is this very one. It is the heavenly, the supermundane one. It runs through or rather lies back of everything notable that has ever been achieved. All truly great efforts turns upon this centre. Everything worthy that the world or men have ever done, has a religious motive, a supermundane motive. It is surely the other world and not this which is the inspiration for every noble purpose. When we are urged to be ready for the life to come we touch upon the center from which all truly great efforts must eternally radiate. Nothing temporal or evanescent is truly worthy in and of itself. It is only so when it tends to serve the eternal. It is only the eternal thing, the abiding thing which ultimately is worthy of us, or of our best. This is true, whether we are conscious of it or not, in every walk of life. The look is upward and forward. The motive is supermundane and eternal. Every great political ambition such as the state may conceive of, or aspire to, is a foregleam of Heaven. Every attempt at social reform is the call of the Divine to preparedness. No social reform is of value in itself except for what it accomplishes in the lives of men for all eternity. It must look beyond itself for its object as it looks about itself for its motive. Every aspiration of the human heart which may succeed in expressing itself in moulded clay, in musical sound, or rhythmic verse, or which, as most often happens, never succeeds in expressing itself at all, is the striving of the eternal. The nations' effort in this great crisis is the same. It is the effort after the eternal. Various reasons are urged for men to enroll themselves in their country's defence. Every one who uses them when they are all exhausted, knows they are inadequate for so great a sacrifice, whether it be that our country may be free, or that the dread thing called Prussianism may be dethroned, or that our posterity may live in peace, and may pursue, unmolested, the ideals of life, personal and national. All of these things, in themselves, are insufficient for so great an offering. In themselves they are unworthy. What is the value of Britain's greatness or Canada's freedom? Is it for their own sakes? Is it worth fighting for and dying for to be great or to be free in themselves. What good after the freedom is dead is either greatness or freedom for him? We find ourselves striving after some further reality, some elusive thing which like a shadow passes on before and eludes our quest. As a matter of fact none of these things could ever drive a nation to war, the inclination to fight apart, unless there was some eternal purpose. We want Britain to be great that it may redound to the good of mankind. But what is the good of mankind if only temporal? It is a shadow, a delusion. No, it is the eternal good of man, the good of the soul of man, and of the souls and spirits of men, that warrant any true glorying in any nation's greatness. The people will only die for something that will live, and live for ever. Every sacrifice worthy of the victim must have an eternal value. The only adequate ground, if we would dare to express it, if we would dare enough and be brave enough to say it, upon which any people can justly go to war, or any one can be asked to give himself, for his country's service, is the religious one; it is because he has accountability; not to man directly, to whom the relation ceases at death, but to God the Eternal with whom his relation of responsibility never ceases. It is a nation's accountability to him who has endowed it with gifts, and called it into existence, and give it a place in the world as a contributing factor to the eternal sum of life, that furnishes a truly justifiable ground for any great effort which involves sacrifice. Thousands of men are laying down their lives today altogether unconscious that, whether in them or not, the only motive that explains their country's cause, as seen from a material point of view, greater than the time-honoured chivalry of our people, greater than the valour so highly prized among us, greater than the honour for which we are in the war, greater than all these except in so far as they have a transcendent sense, and are known to spring, as they really do, from heavenly sources. They are doing it, whether they or we realize it or not because God is above and both they and we are accountable to Him for the investment of ourselves. In other words, the religious motive is the only one in the long run that adequately and worthily explains and justifies. The eternal thing, the thing that lives with God for ever, is the only thing worth while. If this is so it will readily seen what a transcendent significance what an eternal value, for everyone of us, Jesus' warning and exhortation was: "Be ye also ready." Preparedness for the judgment to come, and the life to come, is the highest purpose to which we can apply ourselves men. And let us be forewarned that neglect on our part in this regard, carries just as certain penalties and regrets as in any other. Let this then be our just and greatest duty of all, as it is paramount in all realms of thought and activity, over all other things whatsoever, the greatest and most worthy of all, to be ready against the day of our Lord Jesus Christ.

HOTEL RATES GOING UP.

With prohibition coming two weeks from today, Cobourg hotels are preparing to boost the rates for transients, in order to make up for the falling off in the revenue from the bar trade. Hotels that were $2.00 per day, the British and Dunham, will boost their rates to $2.50 per day while those that were $1.50 per day will raise to $2.00, and charge 10c for yard room, which formerly was free to guests of the hotel. The hotel managers state this raise must come into effect, if they are going to keep hotel.

HAYFORK ACCIDENT NEAR MILLBROOK.

Mr. W. T. Donaldson met with a painful accident recently. They were working the hayfork and he was standing at the door on a plank over the pulley was fastened. The pulley fastener pulled out of the beam and took the plank with Mr. Donaldson on it to the top of the barn. His head was bruised and his hand badly mangled.

THE VOICE OF THE SOLDIERS.

Sir Robert Borden's government has lived long enough in a fool's paradise. The alleged popularity of Sir Sam Hughes, K.C.B., among the Canadian soldiers was and is an artificial product. The voice of gentlemen who have acquired commissions or promotion or other gentlemen who are expecting commissions or promotion is not the voice of the soldiers any more than the voice of honorary colonels or of gentlemen who were favored with contracts or hope to be favored with contracts is the voice of the country. — Toronto Telegram (Con.)

APPRECIATION OF SOLDIERS

Useful Gifts Were Sent To Men in the Trenches.

Miss Hurley, Queen Street, has received a letter from the front expressing appreciation for comforts sent to the men.

August 19th, 1916.

Miss A. M. Hurley,
48 Queen Street,
Belleville, Ont. Can.

Dear Madam,—
I beg to advise having received from you through the Canadian Field Comforts Commission, Shorncliffe, four boxes containing field comforts to be distributed among the Belleville boys. I have already distributed some of the parcels and while I am not sure whether I will be able to reach all the boys from home that I have seen out here, I can assure you that I will do my very best to get them all distributed. I might say that every thing you sent will, I am sure be greatly appreciated by all the boys.

With regards to the socks that you spoke of sending I would be only too glad to distribute as many as possible to the boys. At present however things are kind of unsettled around here, so if you will kindly wait until you hear from me again, before you send any socks, I would be greatly obliged to you. Again thanking you for your kindness and assuring you that these comforts will be appreciated by all the boys, I remain,

Yours sincerely,

I beg to inform you that I received your parcel today 14th inst, and I do not know how to thank you for it, but everything that comes from Belleville I think more of than any parcel that I received. I may also say that I have seen all the Belleville boys in the regiment and the way they speak of the presents they receive from Belleville, they will always remember the Women's Patriotic and Red Cross Society.

September Brides

ALEXANDER-BOWYER

A quiet, but very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Bowyer at high noon on Wednesday, September 6th, when their daughter Myrtle Elizabeth was united in marriage to Mr. Percy Alexander, of this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Blagrove, of Christ Church. The bride who was given away by her father, entered the drawing room to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Miss Jennie Bishop. The bride was gowned in a beautiful dress of white tulle and silk trimmed with shadow lace, and carried the white Prayer Book, and beautiful bouquet of white asters. The young couple were unattended.

The groom presented the bride with a beautiful silver mesh, chatelaine. After a very dainty repast was partaken of, the Rev. Dr. Blagrove made a very appropriate toast to the health and happiness of the bride and groom which was responded to by Mr. Darragh, brother-in-law of the groom. The esteem in which the young couple were held was manifested by the numerous and costly presents received.

Amid showers of confetti and good wishes, the young couple left for Niagara Falls and Western points. Upon their return they will be at home to their many friends at 120 Chatham street of this city.

SAFECRACKER NOW IN CUSTODY.

About a month ago burglars attempted a wholesale clean-up in Cobourg, Dobensky's store and Henderson's planing mill being entered, though the booty did not amount to anything, and Dundas' store had a rear window broken. Chief Russ has been quietly working on the case and the party who did the deed is now in custody, having been arrested on another charge and while in custody talked too much. The same night, as the burglars were attempted, here, a bicycle was stolen at Senator Oliver's farm on which the burglar made his getaway.

DO LONG BREATHS HURT? DANGEROUS PLEURISY ALWAYS BEGINS THIS WAY.

Speediest Cure is Nerviline. Ouch, that stab-like pain in the side is like a hot knife blade in the ribs!

Probably got overheated—cooled too fast—now there is congestion, tightness, such soreness you can't draw a long breath.

This is the beginning of Pleurisy. Pleurisy is far too serious to neglect a single instant.

utmost relief will come from a vigorous rubbing with Nerviline. This trusty old pain reliever will fix you up in no time—will take away the congestion—make you well just as it did Mr. Samuel St. Johns, of Stamford, who says:—“In running to catch a train last week I became much overheated. I put up the train window and rode that way in order to get cooled off. In an hour my side was so full of pain and my breathings hurt so much that I thought I had pneumonia. I always carry Nerviline in my grip and at destination I rubbed my side thoroughly three times. The warm penetrating effect was soon noticeable and I quickly got relief. Nerviline I consider saved me from a serious illness.”

Any sort of a cold can be quickly broken up with Nerviline which is a marvel for reducing inflammation, for relieving congestion in the throat and chest, for curing stitch in the side, lumbago, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism. Nothing more soothing or powerful. The 50c. large family size is the most economical. Small trial size 25c. at dealers everywhere.

CELLARS ARE BEING STOCKED.

Prices on all sorts of brandies whiskies, wines and other imported spirits that were almost sky high before prohibition legislation was passed, are now being reduced. Some of the whiskies are being sold at what the dealers paid for them, and in some cases even less.

The men who expect to close up business in two weeks are making sales—not profits—letting the stuff go in lots, cases, hampers—any way to get rid of it. Some of the shopkeepers, however, fear that they will have a large stock on hand when prohibition comes into effect. The men who will suffer most in this respect will no doubt, be the hotelkeepers. Some of them carry large stocks of case whiskies, barrels of whisky, and other wines, which cannot very easily be disposed of.

There is no getting away from the fact that some people are stocking their cellars. It is the low prices that are now enticing the householders to stock up when the dealers are selling out as rapidly as possible.—Lindsay Post.

THREE PARSONS IN KHAKI.

Capt. the Rev. W. G. Clarke, B.A., pastor of Bowmanville Methodist church, presented the Sunday School on Sunday afternoon with an enlarged sepia photo, framed of the present and two previous pastors—Rev. Clarke, Rev. H. B. Kenny and Rev. John Garbutt—all in khaki, photographed at the Bay of Quinte Conference at Peterborough, in June, by Rev. S. T. Bartlett, Provincial S. S. Secretary. Mr. C. Rehder, associate superintendent, acknowledged the gift on behalf of the school, thanking the donor and expressing the pleasure of all in having such a nice memento to grace the walls of the school room. Capt. the Rev. Garbutt is Chaplain of the 114th Batt., in England, Capt. the Rev. Kenny is Chaplain of the 139th Batt., at Valenciennes and Capt. the Rev. Clarke is Chaplain of the 235th Batt. Bowmanville Methodist church is thus singularly honored in having its three successive pastors doing duty.—Bowmanville Statesman.

ESCAPED FROM ASYLUM

Belleville Man Escape d Watch at Kingston and Returned Home
A well known Belleville resident, who for several months has been an inmate of the Kingston Asylum, slipped away on Wednesday night and yesterday was in Belleville. He was found around the street last evening and was locked up. When the local police called up the asylum to find if he had been discharged or had escaped, this was the first intimation the authorities in Kingston had that he was away.

On Wednesday night, he broke into a stable to get a horse and outfit which belonged to him.

He claims to have secured a ride in an automobile as far west as Nanapanes and to have caught a freight at that place.

An officer of the asylum took him back this morning.

HEAVY FINES FOR HUNTING OF GAME.
Germans Find New Means of Preventing Belgians From Saving Themselves from Starvation.
Meat has become so scarce in Belgium that many Belgians were driven to resort to game for food and learning of this the German military governors reserved the privilege to themselves. Not only have they taken away the right to this food from the fathers of Belgian children but they have fixed a fine of 4,000 marks for each violation of the new regulation.
This means that Belgium is driven to the point where it is necessary to rely almost wholly on the imports of the Belgian Relief Committee for food for the seven million people in a Belgian family a whole month.

VISITOR FROM THE ANTIPODES

Mr. George M. Yerex of New Zealand Favours The Ontario With an Interview.

A few days ago The Ontario was privileged to have a brief interview with Mr. George M. Yerex, of New Zealand, but formerly of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties, in fact Mr. Yerex is a native of Bloomfield and descended from the good old U. E. L. stock that has helped to give to the sons of this district the sturdy, distinctive character that places them in the very forefront in various parts of the world.

Mr. Yerex is of that bright, affable type who make friends wherever they go. He has in addition fine descriptive and conversational powers that make it a rare pleasure to listen to his breezy accounts of life in the Antipodes.

Mr. Yerex was educated at Albert College and after graduation he engaged in the teaching profession, spending four years in the schools at Plainfield, No. 19 Sidney, and Front of Sidney.

At the end of his pedagogical experience he was induced by the J. W. Lyon Publishing Company of Guelph to go to New Zealand as their representative. In New Zealand he has since made his home, though he left Canada's shores thirty-three years ago.

He now has a large and interesting family composed of four sons and three daughters. Three of the sons are at Valparaiso, Ind. and two of them have already taken their B.Sc. degree. The eldest expects to complete his course for LL.B. next year.

The second son, Lieut. Frank Yerex, has been serving with the overseas forces in Egypt and has taken part in three important actions. At present he is encamped almost in the shadow of Mount Sinai.

Mr. Yerex was accompanied on his tour by Mrs. Yerex and three daughters and also by their friends, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Pinney and daughter also of New Zealand. The party of eight left New Zealand on June 12th and came on the S. S. Niagara to Vancouver where they landed the last day of June. After a few days in Vancouver they came on to Valparaiso where Mr. Yerex purchased a residence and where he will make his home until the boys complete their college course. Two of the boys will then return to New Zealand and engage in sheep-farming.

Mr. Yerex and Mr. Pinney and party were making the tour through Ontario by auto and enjoying the experience immensely. From Belleville they intended to proceed to Kingston, and thence across over to the United States and visit New York City and Washington and then return to Chicago whence Mr. and Mrs. Pinney and daughter will return home via San Francisco. Mr. Yerex will accompany them as far as Tahiti where he has an extensive coconut plantation.

Mr. Yerex gave us in his hurried interview some comprehensive facts about New Zealand and Tahiti. He was at one time proprietor of a newspaper in New Zealand and also was at one time a candidate for parliament. Though unsuccessful in the latter quest he had the satisfaction of piling up the largest vote ever given to one of his party in that particular constituency.

At the present time there is a line of steamers between Montreal and New Zealand on the east, and also between Vancouver and New Zealand on the west. Through this instrumentality a considerable amount of business is being done and the volume is rapidly increasing.

New Zealand butter and some other commodities are now getting to be well known throughout Canada. Like Canada, New Zealand has contributed many of her best sons to carrying on the war. Out of a total population of one million, including the native Maori which number about forty thousand, she has sent over fifty thousand to the front, and has a standing agreement with the Imperial Government to send 2,500 per month as long as the war lasts.

Notwithstanding the great expense which New Zealand has been put to keep up her war expenses which amounts to about $20,000,000 per annum, during the last two years her revenue has increased about $30,000,000, after paying war expenses above the normal. This is because New Zealand is very wealthy as a food producing country, supplying beef, frozen mutton, cheese and butter in immense quantities. Besides this she ships vast quantities of wool, lumber, minerals, etc. The country is very prosperous, and it is expected after the war that there will be considerable influx of immigrants.

At present there is a coalition government. The Conservative premier, Mr. Massey and Sir Jos. Ward, the late Liberal Premier, having united their forces with good results.

There are two steamship lines connecting New Zealand with America, both controlled by the Union S. S. Co. of New Zealand. They both start from Sydney, one ending at Vancouver after touching on Fiji, and Honolulu and connecting with the C. P. R. and known as the "All Red" route. The other connects with San Francisco after calling at the Cook and Society Islands. Tahiti, the land of romance, is an island of the Society group and from there are exported largely coconuts, the product of the cocconut, vanilla and pearl shells.

As France has conscription and Tahiti is a French possession, practically all her eligible young French as well as about 1000 young Frenchians have gone to the war in France. It may be remembered that the town of Papeete the capital of all the French possessions, and a city on the island of Tahiti was bombarded by the two German war ships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau in the earlier days of the war. A large portion of the city was destroyed, but is being now rapidly rebuilt. Tahiti has undoubtedly a great future before it as a tourist resort, as it is one of the healthiest and prettiest of all the South Sea Islands being known as the Pearl of the Pacific. It is eight days' steam from New Zealand, and twelve days from San Francisco. It claims to be better suited to the wants of the white man, both as regards climatic conditions and food products than any of the other islands of the Pacific. It is free from devastating storms which frequently destroy other groups. It is never as warm as has been experienced throughout Canada during the last few days, while frosts are entirely unknown. The island was discovered by Capt. Cook about 1767 and two years later he observed the transit of Venus there, the spot being marked by a statue in his memory, and the point called Pt. Devenus.

The first missionary society, "The London Missionary Society," was for the purpose of carrying the gospel to the people of Tahiti. Mr. Yerex, who has given us the above facts visited the islands about 3 years ago for his health and was so impressed with their beauty, healthfulness and fertility that he purchased a plantation there of over 500 acres, which is devoted to the raising of cattle, coconuts and vanilla. Mr. Yerex is a great admirer and lover of Canada. He extends to any Canadian who may visit that part of the world a cordial invitation to stop over at Tahiti between steamers and make him a visit at his plantation.

Police blotter. Officers Responded to Number of Calls Last Night. Belleville police officers were kept busy responding to calls last night. Two of them were for a young man who was finally rounded up. A family jar on St. Charles street had subsided when the "boys in blue" arrived.

A citizen who had his cellar filled with liquor was holding forth with a hotelman about certain goods which he desired to get from the hotel where he had left them. The police constable saw him safely home.

A Chinaman did not understand the city cab and hack regulations and his ignorance of the bylaw resulted in a police call at 12.10 to the G.T.R. depot. He refused to pay the fifty cents fare, but the police explained to him that a hackman is entitled to charge half a dollar per passenger to and from boat and train between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. The celestial then coughed up.

PROHIBIT SEWAGE POLLUTION. The international commission appointed by the United States and Canadian governments to consider ways and means for remedying or preventing the pollution of boundary waters, held a hearing in Ogdensburg last week. It was attended by delegations from Ogdensburg, Prescott, Brockville and other places along the river. The general opinion was that sewerage into the river should be prohibited as a menace to the health of the people. The commissioners showed great interest in the conditions at Brockville, which was represented by a delegation of eight municipal officials headed by Mayor Wright. The Brockville delegation stated that samples of river water at that place four or six times every week showed filthy conditions upon each and every analysis. The town takes its water supply from the river, but it is chemically treated before being consumed.

LOSE ALL THEY HAVE INVESTED

Thirteen Port Hope Members A.O.U.W. Have "No Value" Policies.

Thirteen members of the local branch of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, who have been in the Order for years, are today holding policies on which is written across the face the words "No Value." The ruling follows the re-valuation that has been made of the policies, and the holders are not at all pleased.

In conversation with a citizen who has been a member for over thirty years, the Guide learned that this gentleman had paid in about six hundred and fifty dollars. Three years ago he received a paid-up policy for this amount, payable at death, but this, with his policy, is returned bearing the words "No Value." If he wishes to remain a member of the Order, he must re-join at his present age, and the cost would be $8.25 per month for a $1,000 policy. A similar blow has fallen on thirteen men in Port Hope, all now up in years. Another citizen was paying $9.50 a month for $2,000; his policy has been reduced to $861, but the premium remains the same.

The members consider this treatment gross injustice. They claim that if the Order had wrongly estimated the value of the premiums on insurance years ago, that it was up to the officers to look after the older members and not send them out of the Order without any return for the money they have invested. There is talk of appealing to the courts.

BUTTER WAS STILL HIGHER.

Forty-Two Cents Asked - Egg Prices Firm in Tone - Condition of the Meat Market.

(From Saturday's Daily) Late summer products occupied the attention of buyers and sellers at the Belleville market today. Few new features were to be seen. Plums might have been more plentiful, yet there was a fair supply of produce and fruit.

Potatoes were scarce and unchanged in price. This is unique as a carload was brought into the city on Thursday and distributed around the city at about $2.50. Still today sixty cents per peck was the general rate on the market. The imported variety were British Columbia Early Rose.

Butter took another leap ahead. Forty cents a week ago, today the farmers tacked on a two cent increase and calmly asked 42c for the golden product. Some little sold down to 40c.

Eggs were firm at 29c and 30c with a good number of offerings. Chickens brought nearly one dollar per pair. They were fairly plentiful.

Apples and cucumbers held the usual prices. Melons and pumpkins loomed a little larger to the view at 10c and 15c and upwards. Mush melons sold at 10 cents and upward.

All manner of reasonable produce, parsnips, onions, carrots, beets, and sortof brought regular prices by the bunch.

Wheat is still advancing. Today's local grade is $1.25 per bushel. Oats are steady at 53c to 55c. Hides are unchanged at 13c to 14c.

New hay has sprung a little sensation. New baled would be worth $11 to $11.50 here for delivery in Montreal. By the load farmers are asking $11. There are no quotations on old baled hay.

The apple market is quiet. The price $1 to $1.25 depends upon the class of fruit. Honey is firm at 10c to 11c wholesale and 13c retail.

Bees hives are quoted at 12 1/2 to 13c, and fronts at 10c. Lambs have declined to 13c by the carcass. Hogs are worth $11.00 to $11.75 live-weight and $15.50 to $15.75 dressed.

SAVES CITY MONEY

Ald. Parks Builds a Movable Scaffold at City Hall.

To Aid John Parks (alls the credit of constructing a movable scaffold, which is being used in the decoration of the city hall interior. Instead of a scaffold being moved with difficulty at every few feet, this huge structure can be removed from place to place as it is upon wheels. A change of position is now a matter of a few seconds. It is estimated that the structure will save from fifty to one hundred dollars in the decorating scheme of the hall. Ald. Parks' former experience as contractor has in this way benefited the city.
