PRICE 25 CENTS

PETITION TO BE SENT

To Washington D. C. by U. S. Residents

For the Purpose of Obtaining an Improvement in Mail Service.

The facts as set forth in the Nugget of yesterday relative to the delay in the delivery of the mail in Dawson have aroused the United States citizens in Dawson to a point where concerted action will be taken to see if the condition cannot be corrected.

The mail should be subjected to such delay as is being experienced with the present one is considered to be altogether unnecessary and could be easily avoided if the proper authorities were given the postal authorities. Complaints are being made daily to the United States consul not only on the delay in the delivery of the mail but also because of the fact that only old, old papers are being sent through and no magazines.

Mr. Saylor, the United States consul, in speaking of the matter with a Nugget representative this morning stated that he was eager to help to his utmost in bringing about an improvement in the mail service, but that material would have to be put into his hands for forwarding to the authorities setting out the nature of the grievances and the remedies that should be applied.

"All the complaints," said Mr. Saylor, "that have yet been registered with me have been in verbal communications and as such I can do nothing with them. What is necessary is to bring the matter properly before the department so to have a petition prepared or individual complaints set forth in writing."

"I have told complainants this time and again and am ready and more than willing to do what I can, but the people must do their part." It seems that the fault lies either with the Seattle or Skagway office or perhaps both.

Hockey Saturday

The return match of hockey between the Lawyers and Doctors has been fixed for Saturday night at which time the second heat of the three-mile challenge race will be run. The lineup of the hockey match will be the same as it was at the first game played and both sides are going in with blood in their eyes. Yesterday afternoon the Lawyers were out for practice, playing against a pickup team consisting of four of the Doctors and three others. Hockey that is both hard and wonderful to behold will be seen Saturday night.

The Nugget's stock of job printing materials is the best that ever came to Dawson.

GETS HARD FALL

Mrs. Rainey Sustains Compound Fracture of Arm

Mrs. Rainey, proprietress of the Lone Star laundry, situated at the corner of Turner street and Seventh avenue, met with a very serious accident last evening.

She was returning to her home, which is in the southern end of the city, about 8 o'clock and was passing the free library when she slipped, falling heavily on her left side. She was picked up by parties passing and carried to the Good Samaritan hospital, where an examination showed that she had sustained a compound fracture of her left arm about half way between the elbow and shoulder.

The bone was set back in its place and this morning Mrs. Rainey was resting comfortably.

Dance Postponed

The Amaranth dancing club has postponed its dance which was to have occurred tomorrow (Saturday) night for one week on account of the A. B. sheet and pillow case ball which is to occur this evening.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT

Miner From 55 Below on Bonanza

Has one of His Fingers Pulled From Its Socket by Getting it Caught in Machinery

One of the most painful accidents that could be imagined was sustained by Mr. J. S. Brown, a miner of 55 below on Bonanza, on Wednesday morning. While at work on the steam hoist his left hand became caught in the machinery, ripping the flesh all off the middle finger from the knuckle of the hand to the first joint, tearing off the tip and leaving the bone exposed on the balance of the finger. The tendon was pulled from the muscle of the fore arm. The index finger was likewise pulled off at the first joint.

Mr. Brown was brought to Dawson and taken to the Good Samaritan hospital where the middle finger was taken off and his other wounds dressed. He is considerably better today but it will be some time before he can return to his work.

BOARD OF TRADE TO ACT

Telegram Will be Forwarded to Ottawa Opposing Any Attempt to Confirm Treadgold Grant—Monster Pe- tition to be Circulated Throughout the District Calling for Government Aid in Supplying Water to the Placer Mining Districts.

"Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Premier of Canada; Hon. Clifford Sifton, Minister of Interior; Hon. Wm. Mullock, Postmaster General; Hon. Jas. H. Ross, Member for Yukon Territory."

"Oppose any attempt to pass order-in-council or act in parliament that will in any way confirm Treadgold concession. Are having monster petition signed and reliable data prepared to forward Ottawa asking government to aid in furnishing water for mining purposes. People are a unit in making demands and will insist on government protection from monopoly of Treadgold octopus."

Aggressive measures are being instituted by the board of trade for the double purpose of dealing a final deathblow to the Treadgold octopus and of securing government aid in furnishing a supply of water for the mining district.

A meeting of the council board and of the committee on mines and mining was held last evening in the office of Thos. Adair at which time it was decided to send the foregoing telegram to Ottawa.

It developed at the meeting that an attempt will be made during the present session to secure confirmation of the modified Treadgold grant and the board of trade will take every means possible to defeat the effort. In furtherance of this purpose the above telegram will be sent immediately and the work of circulating the petition spoken of will at once be put under way.

A committee was appointed for the purpose of drafting the petition and the work is already in progress. The document when completed will not only denounce the Treadgold grant in forcible terms but will also urge in the strongest language possible the necessity of government aid in furnishing the district with a supply of water for mining purposes.

As soon as the petition is prepared it will be given widespread circulation throughout the territory. It is hoped to place at least ten thousand signatures on the document and the committee are of the opinion that the number may exceed that amount.

Copies of the petition will be prepared and circulated simultaneously over the entire district and it is hoped to complete the work within a few days after the document is prepared.

In the meantime a circular letter is in process of preparation embodying the telegram and all the circumstances bearing upon the situation and copies of the letter will be forwarded to all boards of trade, chambers of commerce and other organizations in Canada, as also to every member of parliament.

The board of trade has taken the question up with the utmost earnestness and proposes to enlist every possible influence in securing desired results.

At the meeting last night there were present Messrs. Thos. Adair, J. L. Timmins, M. Des Brisay, R. P. McLennan, T. G. Wilson, M. Ryan, H. Henschberg, Jos. McGilvray, R. H. S. Cresswell, vice-president of the board, and Jno. Cormack, secretary. An adjourned meeting is called for Monday night at which time final action will be taken and the full draft of the proposed petition will be ready for circulation.

The A. B. dances are always enjoyable. The sheet and pillow case ball Friday night will be no exception.

WILL WIRE GOVERNOR GENERAL

Unless Meeting of the Yukon Council Is Called Elec- tive Members Have Presented Their Ultimatum to Acting Commissioner Wood.

A meeting of the recently formed Miners' Association was held in the Presbyterian church at the Forks yesterday evening which was attended by about one hundred members of the organization and resulted in the appointment of the elective members of the council as a committee to wait upon Acting Commissioner Wood today and present certain demands relative to the calling at once of a meeting of the Yukon council. The Miners' Association has several grievances that they wish to see rectified at the earliest opportunity and it is considered the duty of the governing body of the territory to memorialize parliament in regard to the changes that are deemed imperative for the welfare of the country. First and foremost is the Treadgold concession, that being considered the greatest menace to the mining prosperity of the Yukon. The order in council bestowing upon Treadgold the immense benefits he is now enjoying will expire unless such is ratified by parliament or a renewal is granted and that is to be protested against most vigorously. There is the question of an assay office for Dawson and a gold purchasing bureau, a wholly elective council, and many other things that are to be proposed. All of which it is considered should be suggested and receive the approbation of the Yukon council, but such can not be until a meeting of the council is held which the acting commissioner acting upon the advice of the acting legal adviser insists he has no power to call. At the meeting of the association last night a resolution was passed which the committee was requested to present to the acting commissioner together with an ultimatum to the effect that if their wishes were not acceded to a wire would be sent to the governor-general in which would be embodied the complaint that the wishes of the people expressed by their representatives to the council duly elected were not being treated with the consideration to which they were entitled.

The gentlemen comprising the committee consisting of Councilmen Thompson, Pringle, Landreville and Clarke were ushered into the office of the acting commissioner shortly after 12 o'clock and the conference lasted about 20 minutes. Mr. Senkler, the acting legal adviser, was sent for and upon his arrival the business of the committee was stated by Mr. Pringle who said:

"At a meeting of the Miners' Association held at the Forks last night a resolution was passed asking that the elective members of the council call upon you, Mr. Commissioner, and demand that a meeting of the Yukon council be called at once. Though it may be admitted that you may have no power to call such a meeting at which legislation might be passed which would be legal, yet it is felt that in view of the urgency of several matters that require immediate attention in the way of memorials that should be sent to Ottawa during the present session of parliament, such meeting could be called with propriety so that the resolutions that we desire to send to Ottawa will receive the sanction of the governing body of the territory."

The commissioner—"I much regret that I can not comply with your wishes as I have just this morning received a letter from the acting legal adviser to the effect and informing me that I have not the authority to call such meeting. Under the circumstances it seems to me that the best thing for the elective members to do is to wire the minister notifying him of the contents of the resolution and asking that I be given power to call the meeting such as you desire."

The suggestion at first did not meet with the approbation of the committee which seemed to doubt the decision of the acting legal adviser that the commissioner had not the power to call the meeting. In speaking of the session being called for the specific purpose of passing upon the resolutions it was desired to send to Ottawa, Mr. Pringle considered that if the commissioner had the power to call the meeting at all for any purpose whatever he could do so as well with the idea of enacting legislation.

"I do not wish to be considered discourteous," he continued, "but this matter was pretty thoroughly discussed at the meeting at the Forks last night and it was suggested that the present acting commissioner had the same authority to call a meeting if he so desired that Mr. Newlands had upon another similar occasion last year."

The commissioner—"He never called that meeting. I did so myself at the request of Mr. Ross who was still commissioner and was yet in the territory and also upon the request of the deputy minister of the interior who was in Dawson at the time."

Mr. Senkler—"Why not wait until the arrival of Mr. Congdon who will be here in a very short time. Parliament will still be in session after his arrival and it will not be too late to forward your resolutions."

Several Mr. Congdon's arrival seems to be something of an uncertainty.

The commissioner—"I have but a short time ago had a personal wire from Mr. Congdon and he assures me he will leave for Dawson within a very few days."

Mr. Pringle insisted that it was the opinion of the committee that a session should be called at once in order to get their resolutions to parliament at its convening. Mr. Clarke said it seemed as though the elective members who had been duly elected were being deprived of their rights because they were unable to get down to business.

Mr. Pringle—"We should get together and get these resolutions passed and forwarded to Ottawa. The council could meet in a week or ten days and pass them and they would then be on their way to their destination. In fact, I might add that we were instructed last night to inform you that if we did not get what we wanted we should wire the governor-general of the course that is being pursued in the matter. We realize, of course, that we should gain nothing by wiring to the minister of the interior."

"We thought, however," interposed Mr. Clarke, "that perhaps it would be better if you should wire the minister of the interior and tell him what we propose to do unless our demands are acceded to. We do not desire to pass over the head of the minister of the interior to the governor-general unless compelled to."

In reply to the ultimatum the commissioner said that he could wire the minister that the four elective members had called and demanded that a meeting of the Yukon council be called at once. That he (the commissioner) had been instructed by the acting legal adviser that he had no power to call such meeting and consequently was not inclined to do so, and in view of that fact the elective members were inclined to wire the governor-general. The members stated they were a unit in their demands. Dr. Thompson to this time had not spoken, but he soon let himself be heard and in no uncertain terms:

"The Treadgold concession is the first business we propose to tackle. On the 21st of April Treadgold's order in council will expire unless it is ratified by parliament or special legislation is enacted, and this we propose to protest most vigorously."

The commissioner, said it was all nonsense to talk about the failure to call a meeting being due to a desire of the government to wait until it had a majority, and then he sprang a mild sensation that was not looked for. "The elective members have a majority now even with all the members present as Mr. Justice Dugas has resigned his seat in the council."

Dr. Thompson—"Parliament will convene on the 12th and it is a certainty that Treadgold will lose no time in securing such legislation as he desires and getting his grant ratified by parliament. That is the greatest octopus we have to deal with and should lose not an instant in getting to work to combat it."

It was finally agreed that the acting commissioner is to wire the minister of the interior at once relative to the call of the committee and the purposes of their visit, demanding a session of the council be called at once. The minister will be given until Friday noon in which to reply and if he fails to do so or does not give the commissioner the authority he considers he desires then the committee will immediately wire the governor-general and seek the relief they desire in that quarter.

IMPOSSIBLE TO IDENTIFY

Victims* of Yesterday Morning Holocaust

Blackened and Charred Trunks, Sans Head, Arms and Legs, All That Remain

James H. Bell, connected with the department of public works, who was sent to the scene of the terrible fire on Hunker yesterday morning to attend to the remains of Baird who was in charge of the road gang on Hunker and was a victim of the fire, returned to the city yesterday evening bringing a tale so gruesome that it is horrible to relate. After the fire had subsided so that the rescuers could scrape about the burning embers the bodies of Bernise and Baird were found together in the bar room near the outer door. Both were burned beyond all possibility of recognition; there being nothing left but the blackened and charred trunks shriveled up almost to the size of an infant. The heads, arms and legs were entirely missing there being not even a bone left of those members and of the sickening portion that was recovered there was nothing to indicate that it had ever been a portion of a human body full of life and hope. It was thought that if the head or teeth could be found there might be some way of establishing the identity by means of the filling in the teeth, but as there is no trace of such both will be consigned to the grave without knowing which is Baird and which Bernise.

The coroner's inquest was held this morning at which it developed that a man named Eipper had been present in the road house at 11 o'clock the night of the fire. He gave evidence to show that the children went to bed at 9 o'clock, the wife at 10 and the men at 11. He was the sixth party known to have been in the house that night and therefore the theory that there was another victim was incorrect. The fire started in the kitchen as near as could be learned and caught in some paper lining and paper that had been torn from the wall and spread rapidly into the bar room shutting off all exit from the sleeping apartments. The little boy was found protected by his mother's body, she evidently having shielded him to the last. All the other bodies were burned beyond recognition.

In Court Today

In the territorial court today Oscar Demser was charged with stealing house logs from David Lowery of Deimos creek.

The evidence of the crown went to show that the logs in question owned by Lowery and marked by him had disappeared and were afterwards identified as a part of Demser's cabin. The case is continued this afternoon.

McARTHUR DISMISSED

Jury Returns Verdict of Not Guilty

Find That Gambling Was Not Be- ing Carried on at the Monte Carlo Club.

Contrary to expectations the case against Frank McArthur, charge with keeping a common gaming house, reached a conclusion yesterday afternoon, the case being given to the jury at 5:30 in the afternoon. Their deliberations lasted less than a half hour and a verdict of not guilty was reached on the first ballot. A. A. Jones was the foreman and upon the delivering of the verdict the jury was discharged and the accused dismissed.

As to whether the charge was proven or not much seemed to hinge upon the question of the rake-off, how much it was and whether it was more than sufficient to pay for the refreshments that were ordered from time to time. In that respect the testimony of the defense was the reverse of that of Constable Graham who was the principal witness for the crown. The latter had sworn that at the time he had sat in the games the "product of the kiddy" was much more than enough to pay for the drinks and cigars that had been ordered by the players; in fact, upon one occasion he had seen the drawer removed and taken to the cigar stand, the bottom of which at the time was quite covered with checks.

That evidence was denied in toto both by McArthur and Stephen Barrett, the bookkeeper of the club and who also managed the institution on the night shift. McArthur proved an excellent witness nor was his testimony shaken in the least on cross examination. He has been in Dawson since June, '98, and has been engaged in various pursuits since his arrival, among them being in the commission business, as a restaurant keeper, a capitalist who had money to loan and at present the proprietor of the White House business block on Third avenue which he avowed had cost him $24,000 to erect last summer. He admitted having dealt traps in the old Northern shortly after his first arrival in the country, but he had paid dearly for the privilege. Concerning the rake-off and the "kiddy" McArthur asserted that such was intended only as payment for the refreshments ordered by the players and that the game was frequently mortgaged before there was sufficient in the drawer to pay for what was ordered. The club was a strictly legitimate place of amusement deriving its support from the members and not from gambling games.

Stephen Barrett also made a good witness for the defense. While giving testimony the books of the club were offered in evidence as to the character of the business that was being conducted and also the constitution of the club.

His lordship's charge to the jury was a model of fairness and justice and he stated clearly that it was for them to decide whether the rake-off exceeded the cost of the refreshments or not, whether the evidence of Constable Graham was correct or that of Stephen Barrett. When the jury retired they were given the books of the club and also the constitution in order that they might refer to them if they so desired. An announcement that they had agreed upon a verdict was received in just twenty-five minutes after they left the court room. McArthur is receiving the congratulations of his friends today on having won out in the case.

Many Mushing

The stamped to the Tanana is assuming larger proportions as the days go by.

This morning over thirty dog teams and six horse teams were counted passing the Ladue Co. on First avenue. The average number of men was about 3 to every two teams, making more than fifty who started prior to eleven o'clock.

Quite a number have been seen leaving this afternoon, so that the total number who have left today will probably reach in the neighborhood of 75 people.

One of the largest outfits to leave started from the Log Cabin hotel, South Dawson. It was composed of five horse teams and was attended by six men, two of whose names were Forrest and Nelson, the balance not leaving their names at the hostelry.

Further news is expected from the district by the arrival of down river mail which is expected Sunday night.

ABOUT SOME GREAT MEN

Characteristics of Merchant Princes, Trust Magnates and Railway Monopolists. All Have Their Little Weakness.

A. J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania, who is forcing a hole under the Hudson into New York for the use of his railroad, likes a horse better than anything else in the world, but his tastes are so catholic and his information so varied that he is able to make himself interesting on almost any topic.

He is one of the charter members of a certain swell dining club in Philadelphia—that town is famous for such organizations—whose methods, though vastly more interesting, resemble one of a progressive euche party. Every member must attend every dinner, or be fined, and each must invite one guest—no more or less. There are twenty-one members, and there is a fully attended dinner is always served for forty-two. Often the number is less, but the club's table is so cunningly devised that it can be made just large enough for whatever number draws round it.

When all are seated, each guest is placed between two members and each member between two guests. At a certain stage of the dinner, on signal, the members, who are charged only to entertain the guests, but also to bring out whatever is in them, all change places, so that nobody has a chance to bore anybody else. This maneuver is repeated two or three times during the evening.

There is no formal speaking, but the dinners are so interesting, quite apart from the menu, that it is well worth scheming for a long time ahead to win an invitation to attend one. As one of them, the members and guests present included the most famous name specialist in the United States, a general in the army, the governor of a state, an explorer fresh from strange lands, a great shipbuilder, a noted foreigner, a world-famous financier, etc., but Cassatt's was the most interesting personality about the table. He talked like an expert about hackneys, runners, trotters, and the antiquities, German operas, irrigation, nervous diseases, Thibetan goats, automobiles, pictures, statistics, ecclesiastical architecture and, in fact, every topic he was approached upon excepting railroading. Concerning this he did not seem anxious to expell his knowledge. And his demeanor was as unassuming as his information was encyclopedic.

DEFEW DEVOTED TO NEWS-PAPER CLIPPINGS.

The most curious thing about Senator Chauncey Mitchell Depew is his devotion to the newspaper clipping. Nearly every man in public life today subscribes to one or other of the many clipping bureaus, for that is with the easiest way to learn what the newspapers say about him, but Depew keeps a goodly supply of his clippings constantly by him, so that he can consult them whenever he has a spare moment.

When he leaves his office in New York or his committee room in Washington, he sticks a handful of the latest cuttings he has received into the left-hand side pocket of his sack coat, and, as soon as he gets into a cab or car, he begins pulling them out, reading them one by one, and transferring them carefully to his right-hand side pocket as fast as they are read. In thus utilizing his spare time for the perusal of his clippings, he keeps much closer tab on the comments made on himself and his acts than almost any other man now in the public eye.

It might be added that he generally laughs long and heartily at the frequent gibes due to his story telling and jokes, but a serious criticism by a paper of his own faith sometimes causes him considerable discomfort.

FLOWERS ARE W. L. ELKINS' HOBBY.

Mr. Elkins experiences no discomfort in a trolley car, but he is miserable when his valet forgets to place a flaming red carnation or an orchid of the same color in his coat lapel every morning. It is said that such an untoward event has not happened since a certain day, several years ago when a new valet inadvertently forgot this most important duty, with disastrous results to himself.

By reason of his hobby, Mr. Elkins is a married man whenever he walks Philadelphia's streets, and many a promoter, unable to gain entrance into the financier's private office, has waited for him at the foot of the elevator, spotted him by the flower, and implored him in public to take up with this scheme or that.

Mr. Elkins' passion for these two flowers in particular, and all flowers in general, is so strong that at his beautiful country home in Elkins—a town whose name has been developed by him—he has no less than a dozen of his greenhouses filled with all sorts of blooming plants. His favorite flower, for his dinner table is the American beauty rose, and costly vases filled with selected buds are always to be found in the great dining room.

SCHWAB NO MEAN MUSICIAN.

Charles M. Schwab, as a musician, is not very well known to the world at large, but among his intimate associates the president of the United States Steel Corporation is considered a singer and a pianist of no mean ability.

Mr. Schwab, as a boy in Loretto, the little Pennsylvania mountain town from which he went into the world to make his fortune, was taught music by the Sisters of Mercy, who have a convent at that place. For years he sang in the church choir and when he went down to Braddock to work in the steel mills, his voice aided him in forming new acquaintances readily.

The story is frequently told in Braddock that this accomplishment was, in a large measure, responsible for Schwab's gaining the good will of Andrew Carnegie. Be that as it may, that is what Braddock folks say.

It seems that while Schwab was still in a very minor position in the mill, his fellow workers, knowing his abilities as a singer, asked him to sing at a certain social gathering of the mill employees. Schwab consented, and, at the appointed hour, appeared clad in Highland costume, and sang a typical Scotch song. He was just in the midst of it, and the audience was giving him close attention when the door leading into the room opened and — lo and behold — who should the unexpected newcomer be but Andrew Carnegie himself. It is said that Mr. Carnegie enjoyed both the song and the singer's evident confusion, and it is further said that the iron master, who had already heard something of Schwab, was led to inquire further about his commercial activities, with the result that he was given wider and wider opportunities.

Mr. Schwab particularly delights in indulging in his love of music when at his summer home in Loretto. He plays on the piano many times a day and those of his former playmates now remaining in the town of their boyhood believe that there is no pianist alive who can equal "Charlie" Schwab in playing "ragtime."

MR. CARNEGIE'S ADMIRATION OF TALL MEN.

Mr. Carnegie likes to talk to tall men. Pittsburgh friends say that they have known him to deliberately scrape up acquaintance with representatives of the six-foot-and-over class for no other reason in the world than to ask them how they managed to grow tall. Mr. Carnegie has never got over his boyhood-ambition to be a big man, physically. He once said to a friend apropos of this disappointment:

"People tell me that I'm a big man, but I'm not as big as I'd like to be. Look at me."

GEORGE GOULD'S CHARITY BASKET.

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould coming out from Georgian court on a cold winter's day to distribute charity to needy residents of Lakewood and thereabouts, is a far from uncommon sight.

Mr. and Mrs. Gould believe in personally relieving any suffering that may be within the shadow of their magnificent country seat in the pines, and, as a result, any person in Lakewood who gets into difficulty is now accustomed to look for aid from the Goulds.

Residents of Lakewood say that this winter the Goulds have supplied many tons of fuel to poor families, Mr. Gould frequently superintending the delivery of the coal.

"If there is a single case of unrelieved destitution in this township," said a prominent citizen of the resort recently, "it is because the Goulds have not heard of it. And if any one will be good enough to tell them of it, in less than an hour's time we'll see them making for the place with a basket occupying the better part of their trip."

Mr. Gould has told me that nothing gives him so much pleasure as to help a deserving neighbor, and he is so modest and unostentatious and diplomatic about it that the person helped never feels as if he were a dependent.

EX-SPEAKER REED'S ELEPHANT.

Thomas Brackett Reed never read the things printed about him with very much attention. He was intensely interested, though, in cartoons which took up him or his schemes. He used to preserve caricatures of himself, and the first in which he figured had a place of honor in his library, framed, much to the distress of Mrs. Reed, who could not bear to look at it. It was printed early in the seventies.

Reed's queerest fad was a grotesque statuette of an elephant about six inches high. Whenever he was puzzled, or when he had the blues—and even he had them sometimes—it was his wont to stand and contemplate his little elephant in all its ugly, grotesque humorosity, and thus he wrought out many a problem, and more than once would back the sunshine that had temporarily disappeared.

WHY MAGEE LIVED IN A FRAME HOUSE.

The late C. L. Magee, the multi-millionaire of Pittsburg, would never live in any other than a frame house.

REMEMBERS TILlicUMS

Chas. Macdonald Writes of the East

"A frame house was good enough for me to be born in," he always told his friends, when they asked him why he didn't build a modern residence, "and in a frame house I shall live until I die."

ORGAN GRINDERS BETTER OFF.

In these days of flats and tall tenements with families living on floor above floor towering in the air, the money for the hand-organ man is thrown down to him wrapped up in paper.

"I should think," said a benevolent appearing old gentleman who was walking along an uptown street the other day, to an Italian organ grinder who could speak English enough to be understood; "I should think that the money coming down that way, all done up so, would add greatly to the interest of the business. You never know just what you are going to get until you actually open the papers. You might find a cent in one, or you might find five dollars. There's a mystery in every package."

"Notta much mystery," said the organ grinder, smilingly.

He was willing to admit that there was a certain enjoyment in opening the package—it might contain large money, but he had never come across any gold there yet; people give the organ grinder now just what they used to give, namely, cents.

"Well then," said the benevolent old gentleman, who appeared to be a man who had time to stand around and talk, "if they don't give any more than they used to, how can you afford to double up on your plant like this? A big expensive organ, and two men to run it, instead of one."

"More people," was the substance of the organ man's answer; and, without undertaking to reproduce his dialect, what he told the old gentleman was that in no end of blocks where there used to be houses with one family apiece there would now be found, in flats and apartments, five or ten families; and that while people might not give individually more than they did years ago, there were ten times as many of them to give. So that even on small profits the greater volume of business nowadays made it possible to do even the hand organ business on the grander modern scale.

"Ye-es," said the benevolent old gentleman, turning, as he spoke and wrapping up a coin in a piece of paper, which, turning again, he handed to the suave organist, who smiled again as he opened it.

It was not a great mystery what this package contained, but it was greater than a cent.

The A. B.'s are sparing no pains to make the sheet and pillow case dance a complete success.

Chas. Macdonald Writes of the East

Doing Missionary Work for the Yukon Through the Eastern Provinces.

Upon the last mail was received a letter by a gentleman in the city from Mr. Charles Macdonald, clerk of the territorial court, he who has been so often referred to as the silver-tongued orator of the Yukon, which will be found to contain many breezy items of interest. Following a somewhat jocular introduction, Mr. Macdonald has this to say:

"Much interest is manifested in the Yukon and I have endeavored to remove many erroneous impressions that prevail respecting it. The Alaska boundary comes in for much discussion and I try to interest eastern Canada as to its importance in relation to our territory.

"The winter in this locality (western Ontario) has been extremely mild and to me depressing. Business generally is active, however, and times good.

"I leave for Ottawa in a day or two and hope to be in Dawson early in April. I have seen many Klondikers this winter among them being Fred Wade, 'Foxy Grandpa' Walsh of Orangeville, the musical metropolis of Canada—Wm. White, F. T. Congdon, R. B. Young, R. A. Rumsey, Chief Willis and many others. Mr. White denies absolutely that his cheek ever was or ever could be frozen while on the trail, as does Mr. Walsh the story that he took passage on the wrong boat. Many inquiries at this point are made for Mr. Cameron of the Bank of Commerce, who was formerly stationed here. All are delighted at the rapid advancement he has made in the bank. Also many inquiries are made as to Messrs. Herbert Robertson and William Thornburn; not by business men, in fact not by men at all, but by the fair sex. Mr. Thornburn is much missed in musical and church circles. In the latter as a leader of psalmody his place was hard to fill. I spent a part of today with Rev. Dr. Battis-minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, and told him of Mr. J. Newton Storry, a nephew whom he had never seen.

"I have also seen all the Dawson 'kiddies' who are attending school in Toronto and Mrs. Macdonald and myself took them all to a theatre party there one evening.

"Much as I am enjoying myself in renewing old acquaintances I will be glad to be back in Dawson again."

Mr. Macdonald's letter was written from Chatham, Ontario, under date of February 12. The following clipping is from the Chatham Daily News of recent date:

Mr. Charles Macdonald, of Dawson City, who, with Mrs. Macdonald, is at present the guest of his brother-in-law, Mr. H. D. Smith, Victoria avenue, is an enthusiast on the future of the Yukon. Mr. Macdonald, who practiced law at Ridgetown and then at Chatham, left here three years ago to fill the appointments of clerk of the territorial court and registrar of the exchequer court, with headquarters at Dawson.

He reaches Chatham at a very interesting stage of her history, just after the oil discovery in the vicinity and the incident excitement. With the rapid transformation of the town he is much pleased, three years having produced many improvements in paving, buildings and streets in general.

"When I went to the Yukon," said Mr. Macdonald, in a short talk about his adopted home, "Dawson was what is known as a wide-open town, in which gambling and all features that mark a mining place existed. Despite this, however, the best of order prevailed for the reason that justice was administered there with a firm hand, just as in any other town in Canada, while the mounted police as peace preservers were unexcelled in any part of the world. Since 1901 gambling has been stopped and today Dawson City with a population of about 8,000, eighty per cent of whom are male adults, is as orderly as any city in the Dominion. The creation of Dawson has been like that of a mushroom. Before the rush for gold in the autumn of 1897 and spring of 1898 it had no place on the map; now it is a thoroughly up-to-date city with all modern conveniences—electric light, telephone, telegraph, police and fire protection, well-paved and well-lighted streets, public schools and hospitals, and three daily newspapers, besides weeklies. These papers sell at twenty-five cents a copy, this being the smallest coin circulating in the territory.

"I am asked constantly as to the reported severity of the climate, but while at times the thermometer is low, no inconvenience is experienced by reason of the cold, as the air is dry and there is a complete absence of wind in severe weather. The summers are beautiful, the mercury ranging up to eighty for three months, while summer extends over a period of five months.

"Vegetation is prolific, garden truck of all kinds growing rapidly, also small fruits, but, excepting oats, no cereals are produced. There are great possibilities for agriculture in the valleys, but it is not followed as a business. Everybody is in the Yukon for gold and that territory now takes its place as the greatest placer mining camp in the history of the world.

"The facilities for getting into Dawson are much improved. In summer it is reached by rail and steam; in winter the distance of three or four hundred miles from the railway terminus to Dawson is traversed by stage.

"At one time the entire trade of the Yukon was in the hands of Americans, but now much of it is controlled by Canadians and seventy-five per cent of imports are Canadian. In the early days the population was almost purely American, with no knowledge of Canadian markets. Now not only is the duty saved, but often the goods are superior to those of American make.

"Yukon will always be a non-producing country—always a consuming market, for which everything has to be carried in. I was pleased to see Chatham-made wagons on the streets of Dawson, and I would like to impress on Canadians the vital importance of sending the very best of their products there. At least sixty-five per cent of the population are alien and, therefore, not predisposed to buy Canadian products unless they commend themselves by their superiority.

"The cost of living is still high in the Yukon—from five to seven times as much as in Ontario. Rents for ordinary houses range from $50 to $125 a month in Dawson, and domestic servants get from $60 to $100 a month. Water costs from $5 to $7 a month. In summer the water is supplied by waterworks, but in winter, of course, the mains are closed, and the precious fluid is delivered in wagons. This winter I have paid $8 a month for my supply, and all other necessities cost in proportion.

"Dawson has four churches, Presbyterian, Methodist, Anglican and Catholic. The Presbyterian place of worship—sprung from a log building—cost $23,000, and the organ alone $6,000. All churches are well attended. The city has no high schools but has a public as well as circulating libraries, and will soon erect a $25,000 building with a Carnegie grant.

"Social life in Dawson is very pleasant and we have our outdoor sports—in summer baseball, cricket and football, and in winter curling, skating and hockey.

"In the constitution of the population of the Yukon Ontario is not as well represented as other provinces—Nova Scotia, Quebec and British Columbia furnish most of the Canadian population. Chatham has contributed a few of the Dawson residents, among whom are Frank Powell, once of the office of Drs. Holmes and McKeough; and Herbert Robertson, son of the late Chief Justice Robertson, of British Columbia and grandson of the late Wm. Eberts, of Chatham. Herbert is the senior partner in the legal firm of Robertson & Robertson, the other member of the firm, his brother, being in Victoria, where Mrs. Robertson also resides. Another successful lawyer up there is Will Thornburn, who studied with Wilson & Co. of this city. Other Kent men are Capt. Jas. McLean, of Wallaceburg, commanding a steamer on the Yukon, and two Crows from Chatham-township.

"The people of the Yukon are taking a deep interest in the settlement of the Alaska boundary question, being highly desirous of having access to the seaboard without the necessity of crossing a strip of territory claimed by the United States. As the Yukon is an integral part of Canada the people up there expect the sympathy and support of the east in this dispute. They are pleased to know that Hon. David Mills has been named, a member of the Boundary commission, a man in whose probity, ability and firmness they have the utmost confidence.

"I predict a great future for the Yukon," said Mr. Macdonald in conclusion. "It is now regarded much as we looked at Manitoba and the Northwest twenty-five years ago, but I believe it to be almost as great a heritage as the Northwest."

Mr. Macdonald and family, who have much enjoyed their visit east, will soon return to resume their residence in the Yukon.

Will care for one or two good dogs for their use during the balance of the winter. Apply Nugget office.

On March 1st

The office of the Dawson Water and Power Co. will remove to near the corner of Third Avenue and Princess Street, next McLennan, McFeely & Co.'s warehouse.

HEALTH AND CLEANLINESS

Demands the Shaving of Prisoners Heads

Major Cuthbert Grants an Interview and Cites Some Authority.

Considerable discussion has arisen over the shaving of the heads of short sentenced prisoners by the goal authorities, and in order to place the matter properly before the public a Nugget representative called upon Major Cuthbert this morning and obtained from him the following interview. Major Cuthbert said:

"In view of the published report of territorial court proceedings yesterday in the MacArthur case, in which Herbert Schofield was a witness, and in reference to whose appearance his lordship is reported to have expressed surprise, I may state for the information of the public who might otherwise be led to place a wrong construction on the actions of the goal officials, that paragraph 38, section 8, of the rules and regulations for the government of common goals in the Northwest Territories of Canada, passed by the privy council in 1891, and in force in the Yukon Territory, states:

"On admission to the goal, all prisoners shall be bathed and cleansed, and shall be required to keep themselves clean and decent in their persons; and all male prisoners shall have their hair cut as close as may be necessary for the purpose of health and cleanliness; but the hair of a female prisoner shall not be cut without her consent unless the goal surgeon orders it to be done."

"While it is not left to the discretion of the goal officials as to which male prisoners—cause of imprisonment and length of term being immaterial—will be left in possession of a more or less luxuriant growth of hair, all being required to have it cut, it is a matter of their discretion as to how close it should be cut, and in a log building like the Dawson goal, where the result of any lack of cleanliness would be a serious and irremediable matter, it is of the utmost importance that all precautions should be taken.

"It is not my purpose to enter more fully into a defence of the rule and its enforcement, the necessity for which should be obvious, and that the police in cutting the hair of all male prisoners are acting under sufficient authority should be equally clear.

"I might further say, however, that the matter is vested in the discretion of the surgeon, and while there are a few cases where the hair is left long it is only when there are good and sufficient reasons for doing so.

"The shaving of the heads of prisoners is practised all over the world and is recognized as an absolute necessity in the preservation of cleanliness in the prison."

Brutal Assault

Monongahela, Pa., Feb. 9.—During the night an unknown man forced his way into the telegraph tower at Wall station, on the Pittsburg, Virginia & Charleston railroad, and assaulted Mrs. Wilson, the operator.

Mrs. Wilson shot the man and this so enraged him that he beat her almost into insensibility and then tried to burn her to death by forcing her head into the stove.

Before he succeeded, however, an arriving freight train frightened him and he fled, leaving his victim unconscious.

Mrs. Wilson is the wife of ex-Mayor Wilson of this city. She is a handsome woman, aged 30 years, and is regarded as fearless. Her condition is critical.

Early in the evening four men made an attempt to break into the tower, but they were frustrated by the timely arrival of several railroaders.

It is thought Mrs. Wilson's assailant belonged to this party and the police expect to have him before night.

Will be a Captain

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—It is said at the navy department that a captain near the head of the list will be assigned to the command of the Puget Sound navy yard in place of Admiral Stirling. The reason for this is that no rear admiral is available. Admiral Wildes, who died, was advanced in grade for war service and was an "extra number" on the list of rear admirals. Consequently no captain will be promoted to vacancy. The captain to be assigned to Bremerton will be high enough for promotion to admiral during his term of service there.

Made a Rich Haul

Newark, N. J., Feb. 10.—Burglars made a rich haul at Grace Episcopal church today. They gained entrance into the vestry and ransacked the church, securing vestments, valued at $10,000. They tried to break into the safe in which a costly chalice is kept, but were unable to open it.

GREAT SUCCESS.

Ball at Last Chance Most Pleasing Event

One of the most successful entertainments of the season was given at the Bachelors' Club rooms on Last Chance Wednesday evening, fully 150 couples participating. Every one enjoyed the privilege of tripping the light fantastic or listening to the strains of the most delightful music ever rendered on the creeks. The decorations were very artistic creations by Miss Edith Johnston. The ball was opened by a speech from the Rev. Mr. Pringle extolling the merits of the club. The grand march was led by the Honorable Bob Ogburn and wife of Last Chance. Six stages from Dawson, Grand Forks and Gold Bottom brought a merry crowd and Mr. W. Sam Clark as floor director gave the people participating one of the most enjoyable evenings of the season. An elaborate supper was served in the hall after which dancing and singing kept the merry party until 5 a.m. and with the parting salute, "Until your next dance, April 8," the happy but sleepy crowd slowly wended their way home.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The Zero Club is preparing for a Ping Pong tournament. All of the club's "cracks" are entered.

Dr. McArthur who has recently suffered a slight attack of appendicitis has again recovered his usual good health.

The telegraph line has been out of business for two days. It is expected to resume operations at any moment.

Word received from Mr. Charles Macdonald on the last mail is to the effect that he will arrive in Dawson the latter part of April.

The mercury took a sudden drop last night and at 7 this morning registered 22 below zero. Cold weather may be expected for at least a week.

Owing to the A. B. sheet and pillow case party on Friday evening the Amaranth club will postpone their regular Saturday evening social until next week.

During the past few days snow on the south side of the roofs has been melting for the first time this winter, a sure indication of the early approach of spring.

The latest to be attacked with the Tanana fever in its most virulent form is Ben Davis. It looks good to him and he may take the big push before the opening of navigation.

In referring to the hand ball game yesterday between Long and Brimstone the Nugget was in error in stating such was a scratch game. It was one of the games of the tournament.

Ernest Haddock will probably enter the skating race for the three mile championship, the second heat of which is to be run on Saturday night. He is "one of the speediest skaters in the territory and will give young Forrest a merry chase for first honors.

Several parties came down from the Forks last evening to attend the final performance of the Pirates of Penzance, among them being Mr. and Mrs. Walter Woodbury and Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Bense.

PIRATES AGAIN

Gave a Fine Performance Last Night

A final performance of the opera "Pirates of Penzance" was given at the Auditorium last night to a rather slim but highly enthusiastic audience. In some respects it was the best of all the performances given, as there was an entire absence of hesitation on the part of the cast and the opera went forward with snap and ginger from beginning to end.

There were a number of amusing incidents during the evening chief among which was the presentation of an immense cabbage head to Dick Cowan from his fellow employees in the Bank of Commerce.

A touching little love scene not down in the original rendition was also enacted in which the gallant Richard came off with flying colors, but rather short of breath—owing to a somewhat prolonged embrace.

The triumphant Civil Service hockey team graced the occasion with their presence and certainly contributed their share of the applause. It is safe to say that no other presentation of opera in Dawson ever gave an audience more solid enjoyment than the final performance of the Pirates.

Haunted House

Rome, Feb. 14.—A respectable Italian family living in Via Sampione, Milan, are in great distress owing to strange phenomena which have developed in their residence during the last two days. Chairs and wearing apparel are intermittently hung from room to room, both by day and night without any visible agency, and shadows fit along the walls. The terrified dwellers called for help, and the same inexplicable doings were repeated before the neighbors who crowded into the apartment.

MARKET REPORTS

No Change in Quotations During Week

Heavy Shipments of Eggs Arriving—A Large Consignment of Moose Coming in.

With the one exception of over-the-ice eggs there has been no change in the market quotations during the past week. In that one line, however, there has been quite a scurry to cover by some of the shorts. An attempt was made by several of the importers to corner the market and they had about succeeded in corraling everything with the exception of the stock held by one person. A war has resulted in which the pool has been endeavoring to force the one outsider to come to terms and the result has been that the succulent hen fruit of a vintage more recent than last summer has been selling at prices not little in advance of the old stock, quotations running as low as $26 a case, which is said to be less than they can be landed here. The consignment is the only one who has seen any profit in sight in the past week. There are said to be over 2000 cases on route between here and Whitehorse and if they are all dumped on the market at the same time there will be a drop that some one is sure to feel.

Spuds are still strong at 11 cents and there is every indication that they will see at least 12 1/2 wholesale and 15 retail within the next week or ten days.

The meat situation remains the same as it has been for the past month. Practically all the supply is in the hands of two outfits and as there is not an overplus on hand the chances are that no change will occur until the opening of navigation. During the past few days there have been several tons of moose and caribou brought to market but most of it has found its way to the cold storage houses. Several parties who were desirous of taking in the Tanana stampede have made offerings of large lots at less than the market price, but it was not accepted.

Two outfits are on their way from Whitehorse with cattle on foot the herd amounting to about 100 head. They are today 24 days out of Whitehorse and have been having all kinds of hard luck. One bunch was 13 days reaching the Yukon Crossing from Whitehorse, having taken the river trail almost the entire distance. They ran out of feed and was compelled to pay ten cents a pound for hay from the roadhouses along the way. To feed the entire bunch at that rate from Whitehorse here would cost $10,000 and it is a certainty that the animals will be in no condition to kill when they arrive from having been on the trail so long. The shrinkage will also be tremendous and there is but little doubt but what the herd will have to be turned out to grass and allowed to run until August before they will be ready for the abattoir.

Trade has been somewhat better during the past week and a marked improvement is looked for from now on. General quotations are as follows:

Local Doings of Creek People

Many Attended the Dance on Last Chance—Visitors in Dawson.

Mr. J. C. Larson has quit working for Mr. Hamilton on American gulch and will go to work on Bear creek. Mrs. G. N. Williams of No. 27 Eldorado is visiting in town for a few days. Mrs. Volekart of No. 22 below Bonanza returned home yesterday after a pleasant visit in town of several days. Mr. James Madden, the popular poet and newspaper scribe of Adams hill, with some of his friends, went to see the Pirates of Penzance last night. Mr. S. Murry, manager of No. 69 below Bonanza, came to town yesterday on business. Mr. Murry has a large crew of men working this winter. He has one of the best plants on the creek and has out some very large dumps. Mr. and Mrs. Delapole, of No. 48 Eldorado, have been visiting friends in town for several days.

As stated last week, Eldorado and Bonanza were well represented at the dance on Last Chance Wednesday night. Quite a number of the four hundred went over and all report a first class time. Mr. J. M. Nelson of Grand Forks has the Grand hotel about completed and will give a grand reopening there next Monday night.

The Kangaroos of Eldorado are making preparations to give a dance in their hall on No. 26 the 17th of March. Mr. A. J. Maiden, of No. 30 above Bonanza, one of the oldest sourdoughs in the territory, will go to the Tanana as soon as navigation opens.

The laymen on No. 6 Victoria gulch have had another misfortune. It will be remembered that they lost everything they had by fire a few weeks ago. Now they are drawn out. The chief of the fire department, Spidel, says they have struck a gusher and he would like a contract to cap it. He is satisfied he can make more money at that than mining.
