Fight Against The Brown Tail Moth.

Among the many activities carried on by the N. S. Dept. of Agriculture, not the least in importance is the campaign, now in its tenth year, against the Brown Tail Moth. This work is under the jurisdiction of the Entomological Branch, and being of a more or less quiet police character, is probably little known outside of certain areas.

The Brown Tail Moth is one of the most destructive of insects. When it is introduced into a new territory, it will devastate whole areas of fruit and of other trees in a single year. The U. S. Government, after allowing it to get a foothold in New England, has recently spent many millions of dollars in the endeavor to control and exterminate this pest.

It is worth remembering that all those life forms, when native or long established, are checked to a greater or less degree by natural foes or parasites which prey upon them. When carried into strange territory, however, or they are apt to be immune from these foes for many years, and thus multiply to an alarming degree before meeting any natural check. This is the history of the Brown Tail Moth, which was imported from Europe, and failed to bring its parasites with it. The introduction of these natural foes is one method of combating it, now being carried on by the Dominion Department. But a far more effective, and immediate remedy is necessary to prevent its ravages.

The Entomological Branch of the local Department, in co-operation with the Federal Department, the expense being halved, has at the present moment some ten men, divided into small parties, visiting the infected areas, and destroying the winter nests. The areas of infestation for far corresponds roughly with the main fruit belt in N. S. Scotia, though the pest has never been allowed to gain enough headway anywhere in the province to make it appear to many people as a serious menace.

The work being done falls into two divisions, the widely ranging scout work on the outskirts of the region for the purpose of preventing its spread, and the more intensive work of carefully examining the region where it is known to be, so as to destroy every nest possible. The following table giving the number of nests found and destroyed, indicates at once the success to date.

1911	8970
1912	11055
1913	24150
1914	18254
1915	14845
1916	10019
1917-18	3024

The period reported on so far for 1918-19 gives a return of 443 as compared with 1496 for the corresponding period of last year. Thus the persistent effort of the Department is now showing a very gratifying result. When the possibilities of fruit growing in Nova Scotia are taken into account, the value of this piece of work becomes inestimable.

The School Teacher's Creed.

I believe in Boys and Girls, the men and women of a great tomorrow, that whatsoever the boy soweth the man shall reap. I believe in the cure of ignorance, in the efficacy of schools, in the dignity of teaching, and in the joy of serving others. I believe in wisdom as revealed in the human lives as well as in the pages of a printed book. In lessons taught, and so much by precept as by example, the ability to work with the hands as well as to think with the brain; in everything that makes life large and lovely. I believe in the school room, in the home, in the daily life and in the out-of-doors. I believe in laughter, in faith in all ideals and standards, hopes that rise upon me, believe that every hour of every day we receive a just reward for all we are and all we do. I believe in the present and its opportunities, in the future and its promises and in the divine joy of living. Edwin Osgood Grover.

The conditions for medical boards was having a hard time answering the questions put to him. Finally one of the professors asked: How would you sweat a p-tent for the 'them-tion'?

"I would send him here to be examined," said the student, mopping his beaded brow.

Work your eyes and ears over me, but give your tongue an occasional holiday.

Always Had Headaches

Liver Was Torpid and Bilious

Billows Brought Back Headaches—Lost Much Time, But is Now Completely Cured.

Signs is convincing evidence that how much you may suffer from liver trouble and consequent biliousness, and the use of Dr. Cassell's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Overcoming is the most common cause of sluggish liver action. You lose your appetite, have distressing biliousness, usually accompanied by headache, and vomiting, the bowels become irregular, constipation and indigestion alternating, digestion is upset and you get irritable and downhearted.

Dr. Cassell's Kidney-Liver Pills. For the reason this medicine is so wonderfully popular and has enormous sales, writes Dr. Charles R. Tall, New York, N. Y.: "I was nearly always troubled with headaches, and would often have a very bad night's sleep every month with bilious sick headaches, and although I tried many different medicines, and also many other patent medicines, it was without success. When I had a headache I would vomit, and could keep nothing on my stomach."

After a box of Dr. Cassell's Kidney-Liver Pills from G. M. Fairweather, druggist, of Sussex, N. B., and before his stomach was any longer empty, I continued to take these until I am now completely cured. My advice to anyone suffering from sick headaches is to try Dr. Cassell's Kidney-Liver Pills and be completely cured."

Dr. R. Mack, J.P., endorses the above statements and says: "This is to certify that I am personally acquainted with Charles R. Tall, and believe his statements in every way to be true and correct."

Dr. Cassell's Kidney-Liver Pills, sold by all druggists, or by G. M. Fairweather, druggist, of Sussex, N. B., or by Dr. Cassell's Kidney-Liver Pills, Ltd., Toronto. Beware of cheap imitations. Look for the name of the doctor on the wrapper.

The Treasure of Good Health.

MAINTAINED THROUGH THE USE OF DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

There is not a nook or corner in Canada, in the cities, the towns, the farms and in the "lumber" camps, where Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have not been used, and from one end of the continent to the other they have brought to the heads of the people the treasure of good health and strength.

For Sunday School Sept.—We, the scholars and teachers of the North Grand Pre Sunday School, whose president you have been for so many years, are forced to realize that we have come to the parting of the ways. Your removal from our Island home and from our midst fills our hearts with regret and sorrow. We would have you know before we will leave us, that your faithful work for the Master, your unvarying kindness and politeness and your earnest striving to lead the young to the "higher life," are appreciated by many, and are not forgotten by some of those who have seen you in the school—and hours to set their part in the world.

You will be greatly missed in the school, in the church and a neighborhood. May the Master whom you so greatly love and Mrs. Kileup may have you happy years in your new home and permit you to be as useful there as you have been here.

Please accept our little offering with our sincerest love and respect. May the power of God uphold thee, And the power of God entold thee, May the Word of God direct thee, And His armor keep, protect thee, May His peace be a sweet cheer, thee, And His perfect love drive away all fear. Keep the same. He faith here. This same Jesus—now—forever.

Many New Ways of Travel

The whole perspective of travel has been altered by the war. A British night bombing pilot was in Dover about a year, returning from leave. He reached his squadron in France at 3.30 in the afternoon. At 6 o'clock he was told that at 3 o'clock he had to fly to Namur, 30 miles behind the lines between Brussels and Aachen. He arrived at Namur at 11.15, and immediately hunched the railway bridge, and landed at his own airfield a little after 12. So to one day he was on leave and on duty in one day. He was on leave and on duty in one day. He was on leave and on duty in one day.

Soil Element Deficiency.

This is the age of scientific farming. The farmer who proceeds scientifically keeps his soil built up to its maximum productivity. To do this he must know the cause for deterioration, what the soil contains and what it lacks, and what crop they are by nature best suited for. Below are given some general principles that will help to remember.

Clay soils are generally deficient in nitrogen and phosphorus, but contain potassium. The tendency is for clay soils to take and get hard, and the addition of a little lime is calculated to correct this. Such soils usually need drainage.

Sandy soils are generally deficient in potassium. Generally speaking they are short on all the soil elements. Here is another case where lime will prove a sweener and will help to retain moisture.

Unit Seed Prohibited

Regulations are now in force which prohibit the importation into Canada, in lots of ten pounds or more, of any lot seed of clovers, grasses, vetches, rape, other forage plants, field root and garden vegetables.

Unit seed is declared in Phamphlets K-12 of the Seed Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, and obtainable from the Publication Branch, as that which does not comply with the Seed Control Act regulations respecting the sale of seed in Canada, or if it has been refused admittance into any other country on account of low vitality.

The regulations governing this matter are fully described in this pamphlet which shows that unit seed that has arrived in Canada shall be deposited under Customs supervision. Penalties are attached to infractions of the law in this regard.

Used For Shaving.

Many men are troubled, more particularly in the cold weather, with a sort of roughness of the skin of the face, caused by shaving. The application of Dr. Chase's Ointment after the shave soon cures the trouble and by using it after each shave you keep the skin soft and prevent irritation and soreness. Because of its antiseptic qualities this ointment prevents and cures Barber's Itch.

Address of Appreciation.

Mr. N. B. Kileup who recently purchased a property on Gaspeaux avenue and came to Wolfville to reside, was for many years the faithful and respected superintendent of the Sunday school at North Grand Pre, where he made his home. Just before his departure from that place the school held a reception in his honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mary Palmer, and after a pleasant evening spent in social intercourse, Rev. Mr. Ryan, on behalf of the school, presented him with the following address:

To N. B. Kileup: Our Sunday School Sept.—We, the scholars and teachers of the North Grand Pre Sunday School, whose president you have been for so many years, are forced to realize that we have come to the parting of the ways. Your removal from our Island home and from our midst fills our hearts with regret and sorrow. Model Orchards.

I may not be a great expert on the public of Nova Scotia that the Provincial Department of Agriculture has at different times since 1914 set out some model orchards in different parts of the province. Of the number some have, though not at a commercial scale, been successful in their results.

The model orchards are now being established through the War Thrift Stamp Saving scheme, to offer opportunities to which not only the men and women, but the children of the country, can help to provide the money which is still so greatly needed to carry on the war. Tom Moore, Labor Leader, Endorses War Savings Plan.

HUMBLE "QUARTER" IS NOW BRINGING MOBILIZED IN THE SERVICE OF THE COUNTRY.

Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, is to day, by reason of his position, the recognized leader of organized labor in the Dominion. He is also a man of international standing. The advantages of the War Saving plan are obvious to him, as the following statement shows:

"During this reconstruction period the question of unemployment is one of the vital problems, and the Government, by carrying on of essential public works, etc., can materially help and thus stabilize the labor market. In order to do this money must be forthcoming.

The pre-war methods of financing were found unequal to the requirements of war time, and regulation imposed by other countries made it necessary to secure money direct from the people of Canada. The sale of Victory Bonds was instituted and the marvelous success achieved proved the value of the policy of placing the purchase of these within the reach of the greater number by introducing the low denomination of fifty dollars.

Even greater success can be achieved by still further reducing the minimum amount which can be purchased and sold. Canada has now decided through its War Thrift Stamp Saving scheme, to offer opportunities to which not only the men and women, but the children of the country, can help to provide the money which is still so greatly needed to carry on the war. THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., FEB. 7, 1919.

Wolfville's Memorial

THE ACADIAN has waited long and so far in vain for some action to be taken in the direction of a permanent and appropriate memorial to our brave boys who for the sake of king and country and a righteous cause have freely given their young lives on the field of battle, and who will not again return to home and loved ones. That our people generally are not in favor of fittingly commemorating their sacrifice we cannot believe, and so we take the opportunity of again referring to the matter.

A proposition which we have long had in mind and which, we believe, would be a most fitting offering to the memory of our noble dead, is the erection and full equipment of a public hospital in our town. That such an institution is much needed goes without saying. Members of the medical profession and others having the care of the public health have long felt the need, which has been more than ever apparent of late.

In many centres of population throughout the province and country such provision has been made, and splendid service is being done. The advantages must be plainly manifest to all.

Our plan would be to have a sufficient amount of money voted at once to provide for the erection and equipment of suitable buildings, and an endowment adequate to make the successful continuance of the hospital beyond question.

There are those, however, who think that a sufficient amount could be raised by private subscription, and in a few instances, at least, we know of citizens who would be glad to contribute to such an object.

This brief reference is offered and we trust that the matter may receive the attention of the public. THE ACADIAN will be very glad to publish the views of any of the readers.

30 Years Ago.

In the issue of THE ACADIAN published thirty years ago this week appears an account of one of the biggest fires which have occurred in the history of Wolfville. The fire broke out at 6:30 in the evening on Feb. 1, 1889, in the paint shop at the rear of Mr. B. G. Bishop's store. This building, which stood where the building occupied by Calkin's Drug store now stands, was completely destroyed, as was also the building owned by Dr. Barns which stood where F. W. Barteaux's store now is. The building at the east of these, belonging to C. A. Patrinquin, was on fire several times, but the flames were extinguished without doing much damage. As the flames gained strength from the burning buildings, and as the wind was blowing from the eastward, it appeared doubtful whether it would be possible to save any of the buildings on the north side of the street for a considerable distance westward. At the time the plant of THE ACADIAN was housed in the building next west of the burned buildings. The Customs was also in this building and the office of E. S. Crawley, and a determined effort was made to save it. This was successfully accomplished by the untiring efforts of a number of young men from the village and the institutions.

The result of this fire was the establishment of the present town water system. The idea had been in the minds of the people for some time, and this fire led them to take definite action in the matter.

A Sunday Visitor.

Rev. Alex. MacMillan, of Toronto, spent the week end in Wolfville the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Chase, and conducted the service on Sunday morning in the Presbyterian church. Mr. MacMillan is the Secretary of the General Assembly's Committee on church praise and has just completed a revision of the "Book of Praise." In this work he has gleaned from Christendom ancient and modern the best songs and has presented to the church a very wonderful book. At present he is visiting the different colleges of the church, delivering in each a course of lectures on hymnology and also an opportunity offers visiting churches and choirs. Mr. MacMillan would judge a church choir, not by its own performance but by the power to call forth songs from the people assembled.

On Sunday afternoon he conducted the whole service in the old church at Grand Pre, presiding at the organ and leading the service of praise as well as expressing deep interest in the old church and in everything pertaining to Grand Pre.

Mr. MacMillan is a master of church music and full of the ancient and modern songs of the church. He has travelled widely and is a gentleman of charming personality.

The Presbyterians of Wolfville feel that they were greatly honoured by this visit.

Don't advise the preacher how to preach—help him and he will preach better. Don't tell the lawyer how he ought to plead—pay him and he will plead better. Don't tell the physician how he should do—pay him and you will get better treatment. Don't tell the reporter, editor, or solicitor how he could make a better paper—patronize and pay for his paper and make it better each week.

I make no apology when I say that, next to winning the War, the running of our public schools is the most important problem before us.—S. W. Merrill, State Supt. of Teachers.

Citizen Cites Civic Conditions.

To the Editor of THE ACADIAN.
DEAR SIR.—Having been a citizen of Wolfville for the past few years and a great admirer of its natural beauty and advantages, I wish to bring to the notice of your readers a condition of affairs, of which they can hardly be unaware. I have waited in vain for signs of some civic awakening that would cause the citizens to get together and realize that a good Main street will not make up for the lack of everything else in the way of town improvement.

I was interested in reading in your last two or three issues some correspondence regarding the school, and also a letter signed "Citizen" which last is particularly well worth considering.

One thing that we badly need in this town is a Citizen League, where all newcomers and those who have lived here all their lives, may get together and discuss matters relative to progress. It is to be hoped that some such association may be formed, but, in the meantime, if you will allow me to trespass upon your space, I will endeavor to outline some of the things that should be considered in any scheme for the betterment of our town.

We are living at a time when history is being made faster than ever before. Old ideas are passing and new ones coming forward so rapidly that we must fall in quickly or step to one side. Is Wolfville to keep abreast of the times or is it content to be a "Sleepy Hollow"?

A very desirable class of citizens has of late years been coming here to reside (perhaps I may be one of them myself) and many more will come if conditions are satisfactory. They have been attracted here by the natural beauty of the place and its reputation as an educational and social centre; but they do not have to stay here and will not do so if other places offer them greater advantages.

Perhaps the stagnant pool of water lying on the south side of the reservoir and into which the road drains may have something to do with this. We should find out.

A further question is asked, "Have you a good Electric Light System?" Is there an all-night service? Are the lights steady? If the service is not satisfactory what steps are being taken to remedy it? A large number of towns in the province now own their own lighting plants and find it very profitable. Several are utilizing water power and not only do their lighting, but have a surplus for industrial purposes.

Have we investigated all the chances for such in our neighborhood? But I have already trespassed too much upon your space, Mr. Editor, and will close by thanking you and asking that some public-spirited citizen should form some sort of a society or league where matters of public interest may be discussed, and an effort made to do something to do with them.

We have in our midst one of the best educational institutions in Canada, and the greatest asset at the town. The College needs the town and the town needs the College, and it seems to me that there should be the very closest co-operation between the two. I note with pleasure that one of the College professors is a candidate for election to the Town Council. I congratulate those who selected him and wish him success. It seems to me that where the College and those connected with it form fully one-half of the town, they should be represented on the Town Council by at least two or three members. Another item in which we all are interested is the matter of Assessment.

I am informed that the present act is out of date and that the Legislature is only waiting to be asked to undertake the complete revision of it. However, be that as it may, I believe that we are now assessed (or supposed to be) on a 50 per cent. basis, i. e., if I paid $5000 for my property three years ago I am assessed $2500 and the rate is levied on that. Very well; but suppose that my neighbor is thought to have paid $1000 for the property adjoining mine 25 years ago. He is now assessed $500 and pays the rate on that amount, whereas his property may to-day be worth more than mine. Does that seem fair and does it not show where more money may be obtained for civic purposes? How inviting does it sound, do you think, to the person who contemplates coming here to reside? And yet I have not heard any complaint from the newer residents about the amount of their taxes; all they wish to see is an equitable adjustment.

Then there is the matter of sewers. Does anybody know or does anybody care what causes the festal odors from the sewer gratings during the summer? A gentleman from Montreal visiting here last summer told me that there were more bad smells in the square yard in Wolfville than in any other place he had ever visited.

And yet to one who is not versed in the mysteries of Engineering in general and sewerage in particular, it would seem that Wolfville possesses an ideal location for drainage. The side hill with a gradual slope all the way to a river where a strong tide flushes the mouth of the sewer twice a day should be ideal.

Again the question is asked, "Have you a good water system?" Now, Mr. Editor, as a citizen of Wolfville, with a desire to be truthful and yet not disparage your fair town, what would you say? We have, of course, the purest of spring water piped from the South Mountain to our reservoir on the Ridge, but does it reach the consumer in its pristine purity? I believe that the analysis, to whom a sample was sent last year, said that such was the case; but my own sense of taste and smell has at times made me doubt the accuracy of his research.

Perhaps the stagnant pool of water lying on the south side of the reservoir and into which the road drains may have something to do with this. We should find out.

A further question is asked, "Have you a good Electric Light System?" Is there an all-night service? Are the lights steady? If the service is not satisfactory what steps are being taken to remedy it? A large number of towns in the province now own their own lighting plants and find it very profitable. Several are utilizing water power and not only do their lighting, but have a surplus for industrial purposes.

Have we investigated all the chances for such in our neighborhood? But I have already trespassed too much upon your space, Mr. Editor, and will close by thanking you and asking that some public-spirited citizen should form some sort of a society or league where matters of public interest may be discussed, and an effort made to do something to do with them.

We have in our midst one of the best educational institutions in Canada, and the greatest asset at the town. The College needs the town and the town needs the College, and it seems to me that there should be the very closest co-operation between the two. I note with pleasure that one of the College professors is a candidate for election to the Town Council. I congratulate those who selected him and wish him success. It seems to me that where the College and those connected with it form fully one-half of the town, they should be represented on the Town Council by at least two or three members. Another item in which we all are interested is the matter of Assessment.

I am informed that the present act is out of date and that the Legislature is only waiting to be asked to undertake the complete revision of it. However, be that as it may, I believe that we are now assessed (or supposed to be) on a 50 per cent. basis, i. e., if I paid $5000 for my property three years ago I am assessed $2500 and the rate is levied on that. Very well; but suppose that my neighbor is thought to have paid $1000 for the property adjoining mine 25 years ago. He is now assessed $500 and pays the rate on that amount, whereas his property may to-day be worth more than mine. Does that seem fair and does it not show where more money may be obtained for civic purposes? How inviting does it sound, do you think, to the person who contemplates coming here to reside? And yet I have not heard any complaint from the newer residents about the amount of their taxes; all they wish to see is an equitable adjustment.

Then there is the matter of sewers. Does anybody know or does anybody care what causes the festal odors from the sewer gratings during the summer? A gentleman from Montreal visiting here last summer told me that there were more bad smells in the square yard in Wolfville than in any other place he had ever visited.

$350,000,000 Worth of Food

must be shipped to Europe at once, says Herbert Hoover, Food Controller. The United States Congress has voted $100,000,000 for this week for food for Europe. Most of this will come from the United States and Canada.

The next year will see the greatest demand for farm products there has ever been. There are unlimited ships to take this food to Europe. Prices will be in keeping with the demand. The farmer who has the crops to sell is the farmer who will get his share of this demand. The farmer who has his fertilizer will have good crops, but he must not take any chances on delay in preparing his ground, buying his seed and getting his fertilizer.

The planting season now seems a long way off, but when the time comes it is always altogether too short. There is a general shortage of fertilizer and materials, and the late buyer will surely be disappointed.

Shortly after the fighting ceased the flour substitutes on hand. Now we want to close this stock out as quickly as possible—hence your chance to get the lines mentioned below at low prices given—

Don't you think that it would be saving something worth while putting in a supply at this price and use freely with your flour?

Barley Flour, per 98 pound bag - 4.50
Rye Flour, per 98 pound bag - 6.35
Barley Flour, in 14 pound bags, 14 bags to the bbl., per bbl. - $10.50

For Progress.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ACADIAN: DEAR SIR,—I heard a townsman recently expatiating on the advantages of Wolfville. This is a most praise-worthy proceeding but when the said citizen attempted to give the impression that he had something to do with bringing these advantages to pass, I thought he was going very wide of the truth.

Aside from our town Main street I tried to think of something the town had made that was worth showing a stranger. The post office? Nay verily. The Government gas station? Royal Bank building? No. Our very decent little railway depot? No. Our excellent fruit houses are not here because of any town enterprise. Neither is our splendid Acadia institution here because we willed it. Certain individuals may have had something to do with placing some of these things, but what have we to show as the result of joint-public-spirited action?

Have we a modern school building and playground? Have we a public park? A town building or Hall? An electric light plant? A wharf or landing place?

Perhaps some of these are needed. But let us come out the Rip Van Winkle stuff and become sufficiently awake to realize that, with its location and assistance from outside agencies, Wolfville should be the model town.

We of this generation should do something for the town that our children in their day may be proud of. Let us get together—old residents—new residents—everybody.

Let us get away from the notion that in giving all our time and attention to our own little affairs we are doing the best we can for our own family. I thank you PROGRESS.

The End of War.

By Paul Goforth

Flashed from thunder-clouds of hatred,
Came the lightning sword of War.
Suddenly the tempest burst; and,
Echoing on from shore to shore,
Thundered summons called the nations.

In the name of Liberty,
Once for all to stand for justice,
Till the World at last was free,
Years have passed, the seasons come,
The rivers flow, and skylarks sing—
All as of days of old, yet,
In the river's blossoming,
Seems a richer, lovelier hue.

The grass is fresher, brighter skies
Smile on earth, a re-born Eden,
Fit to be a Paradise.

Peace is ours!—the peace of God
Which passeth understanding, 'Tis
Burned into our hearts and memories
Are the words, 'Let Us Forget.'
Nevertheless, if we can stay it,
Shall this curse destroying fall,
'Nevertheless'—the People's Voice—
Will crumble each dividing wall,
Walls of envy and suspicion,
Hate, misunderstanding, lies,
Hat too long have endured nations,
Classes, man and man. We rise,
Tried by fire and born again,
To fashion this old world anew.

Fellow-citizens and comrades,
We shall make our dreams come true!

Citizens we are, and shall be,
Of a World united, free—
Free for action, free for progress,
Free for service, land and sea,
Sound, from earth united, to the Farthest limits of the stars,
'Christ is Victor! Him alone we follow,
We have done with Mars.'

—The Presbyterian.

Apres La Guerre.

The war is over, or as the French say, 'Apres la Guerre'—so we hope, it seems too good to be true. It is hard to get one's perspective. It takes some serious thought to readjust one's self to the new conditions.

What a triumph for righteousness! What a collapse of iniquity! The cynics who said 'Christianity had failed' must see the glorious truth that Truth and Love have conquered, but the misled list of unbelly might, but the pierced hand of love is triumphant.

The glorious sunrise of the new day sheds its fulgent light over earth's glad, fresh morning. Browns, deep-furrowed, are becoming smoother; the care-lines obliterated. Women's faces are losing the strained, tense look of years, and eyes shadowed with apprehension's curtain are melting into a new tenderness, the soft, sweet radiance of renewed hope. Bowled shoulders of the aged are straightened and slowing steps have taken on a buoyant elasticity. The outlook and uplook are towards the light. The great world war is over, the war for an ideal, for the earth's very life.

The crimson tide of brave, young manhood has baptized the fields of the great conflict and mingled with the crystal tide of the flowing ocean deeps. A stupendous price has been paid, a victory beyond comparison achieved. Best of all righteousness has been vindicated, Christianity proved the hope of the world. What a collapse of iniquity. The evil thinking of men created the war atmosphere. Pride and lust of power demonstrated the evil purposes. Amid the crashing of Empires and falling of dynasties, through the Irish of ennobling thought forces, the God of Israel over-ruled all the machinations of the red in vice, outrage of men and all will outwork for His people's good.

Hints on Coal Oil Lamps.

Those of us who use coal oil lamps are wise to buy the best oil as it is more economical in the end. It lasts longer and gives a much better light. It is a good idea to get in the oil, a little bit of grit get into the burner and prevent it giving a good light. The oil may easily be strained by putting a piece of thin cloth, such as cheese-cloth, over the funnel.

Before using a new lampwick, it is improved by soaking in vinegar and then hanging it up to dry. This improves both lasting qualities and lighting propensities. When the wick is first put in the lamp, light it and let it burn with a yellow flame for a few minutes. Then blow it out and wipe the wick carefully with a piece of soft paper. Any little short ends of thread may be clipped off, but the wick itself should not be cut off in order to trim it.

Do not suffer from itching, burning, or stinging PILES. No matter how long they have been there, they will disappear if you use the only certain cure you can get—a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Sample box free if you mention this paper and enclose in stamp to pay postage.

Pushers and Pessimists.

Pushers are usually in the thick of the business fight, producing.

Pessimists grow on the outskirts, waiting to seize the spoils the pusher wins.

Pushers build and pessimists tear down. Pushers blaze new trails. Pessimists travel in ruts.

Pushers are bright, cheerful, jaunty and brave. Pessimists are gloomy, doleful, grouchy and weak.

Pushers boost each other and encourage all. Pessimists knock each other, and thus they fall.

Pushers bring prosperity. Pessimists throw blight on all prospects.

We're going to be Pushers. What are you going to be— and die!

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

An Irishman was walking through a lonely cemetery and stopped before an imposing looking monument bearing the following inscription: 'I sit in life.'

Pat reflected soberly for a moment and then said, 'well, if Orl was dead begorra, O'd own up to it.'

The more money a man has the harder it is for him to convince the world that he is a fool.

No matter how positive a woman may be of anything she is seldom willing to bet money on it.

A soldier should never lose his head in battle, says an officer. Of course not. If he did a pension would be of no earthly benefit.

Mollie's German Spy

By AGNES G. BROGAN

The light in Billy May's eye leaped as he looked at his sister, leaping over her flowers. In Billy's vocabulary, Mollie was "his only excuse for living."

Long years before when the little orphaned sister had piteously held out her arms to him, Billy had pledged her his life's devotion, and she had repaid. It had been no easy task to lay aside the coveted career and to take up as a necessity for her advancement the first opportunity offered in a country village. Being rural, small carrier had made it possible for "Angel" to leave her education and the usual accomplishments befitting a modern young woman. That is what Billy had named the girl when her stary eyes spoke their gratitude from beneath a aureole of golden hair, and "Angel" she had remained.

College life had not spoiled Mollie for the village; she but returned with new enthusiasms and plans for his home making. He came to her now across the garden, his hands held a perfect bunch of what he had prepared for the great artist had not arrived.

"He left the house early this morning," Anna Warwick confessed, "promising to return for lunch, but a perfect bunch of what he had prepared for the great artist had not arrived."

better perhaps anxiety might not trouble him.

He looked up refreshed from sleep as she entered.

"Gee!" he greeted her, "I am glad that trip is over. I am better. You must leave me this evening and go over to Warwick's, as you had planned."

"If it were not such a manual opportunity to meet a notable," Mollie said, "I would not think of leaving you, Billy. But fancy the privilege of seeing with one's own eyes a great sought-after artist. It is pure luck Anna Warwick happening to be his favorite cousin and thus persuading the person not only to meet her village friends but to talk to them upon 'Art Across the Seas.'"

"He has refused all invitations heretofore and the flattering hospitality of New York. So if you are sure you will not mind my going, Billy—"

And Billy was very sure that he did not mind. Mollie almost forgot the disagreeable incident of the morning as she arrayed herself in her new and modern white gown. She must show that artist from abroad that they were not behind the times in Warwick, even though the grass grew tall upon each side of Main street. But when she entered the Warwick's brightly lighted reception room, disappointment was evident among the assembled guests.

DOCTOR URGED AN OPERATION

Instead I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Was Cured.

Baltimore, Md.—"Nearly four years I suffered from organic troubles, nervousness and headaches and a very month would have to stay in bed most of the time. Treatments would relieve me for a time but my doctor was always urging me to have an operation. My sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before consenting to a n operation. I took five bottles of it and it has completely cured me and my A figure appeared before the car in the center of the road, and to avoid running the figure down seemed impossible. She must be quick or—"

Mollie closed her eyes in a faint, long figure stretched motionless beside the road, his face upraised to the stars.

In a moment Mollie was bending over him. "Oh," she breathed in relief as his unbelieving eyes looked up into hers. "I feared that you had fainted."

"I can't smile slowly spread itself over the artist's whitened face. "The surprising young woman" he murmured. "Have you returned to carry out your threat of shooting me down if I am completely at your mercy?" He pointed to his crudely bandaged ankle. "Couldn't get away if I tried."

"Oh, please," Mollie entreated, her eyes so wide and so pleadingly coherent in her repentant haste she told him the day's story.

"And so," he said at last, "you were defending these few's necks; you were plucky enough to take the place of an invalid brother, and tonight, his eyes held here in strange fascination, you came back alone over the rough ways, through the darkness, to rescue me, a stranger?"

Mollie nodded, and the class of his hand was so fervent, so pleasantly disconcerting, that she turned in laughing embarrassment to the emergency lunch she had brought him. And after that, his grateful glance still upon her, she led him heavily leaning upon her shoulder to the waiting car.

At the Warwick's entrance, when she turned to leave, the artist put forth his hand. "The statement," he said, and the slight accent had now a caressing sound, "is not yet complete. I must exact until the time of my recovery two hours reading each afternoon."

"As you will," answered Mollie, demurely.

"And at least one hour's conversation each morning," he agreed.

So, in a city art gallery is exhibited a wonderful picture, a girl whose wide eyes are as blue as the hand on the dial. Against the artist's name in the catalog is written, "Portrait of Mollie, his wife." But to Billy May the picture is that of "The Angel."

For You and Your Friends

"I beg you to publish my letter." It is only natural that people write us enthusiastic letters about GIN PILLS. Wouldn't you do the same, if, after suffering from backache for years, you found relief? Wouldn't you wish your friends and others to know what GIN PILLS had done for you, and what they will do for them? Of course, you would, and that is the only reason that prompts people to write us praising this great remedy.

Read what Isidore Thomas says in part:

"My case was very serious, and I was so sick everybody expected my death any day. No suffering could be worse than what I had to endure. Eight boxes of GIN PILLS were sufficient to cure me entirely. I beg you to publish my letter and tell all sufferers of Kidney Trouble not to despair nor wait, as GIN PILLS will cure them. I have to be very thankful to you, and I recommend GIN PILLS to all my friends suffering from kidney trouble."

To be the advice of those who have tried most remedies and found that GIN PILLS cure.
