MARCH 11, 1917

S GREETINGS

F 'FAIRPLAY"

t of by Alberta soldiers than Algar ing and outspoken journal "Fairplay." olished (1915) it has been his policy graft and coruption that is rampant s deadly an enemy internally as is ran of the South African campaign, e turned men together and form the n in Calgary, which is spoken of as o minion.

REVEILLE

Wake: the silver dusk returning
Up the beach of darkness brims,
And the ship of sunrise burning
Strands upon the eastern rims.

Wake: the vaulted shadow shatters,
Trampled to the floor it spanned,
And the tent of night in tatters
Straws the sky-pavilioned land.

Up, lad, up, 'tis late for lying:
Hear the drums of morning play;
Hark, the empty highway crying
"Who'll beyond the hills away?"

Towns and countries woo together,
Forelands beacon, beltries call;
Never had that trod on leather
Lived to feast his heart with all.

A. E. HOUSMAN.

"GOD SAVE OUR MEN"

God save our noble men,
May they return again, Victorious!
Defend them now, we pray,
Go with them day by day,
Give them the victory,
God save our men!

Lord Jesus, let Thy love
Fall on them from above,
On them descend!
With them their sorrows share,
Help them their pains to bear,
When death their life shall tear
From them away!

God save our King and Queen,
Long may they live and reign,
In righteousness!
In love may they be found,
In Jesus Christ abound,
With thy rich blessing crown'd,
Till Jesus comes.

J. W. BATES.

ator Company

President

CO., Limited

LIMITED

MANY A MAN LEADS A WOMAN TO THE ALTAR---AFTERWARDS HE IS LEAD.

If you don't receive your Standard promptly we want you to kick, and kick hard. Every reader in Calgary, and most of Western Canada, including Alberta and Saskatchewan, should get their Standard on Saturday in time for Sunday reading. If you don't get it, it is either the fault of the delivery boy or the mails. In either event we can not correct the complaint without learning of the non-delivery, so kick like a bay steer every time you fail to get the great Sunday Newspaper, The Calgary (Western) Standard.

CALGARY
Western Standard
ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY

INDEPENDENT OPTIMISTIC

STANDARD READERS AND ADVERTISERS

The Standard desires to impress upon it's readers' attention that it still has a number of copies of the Good Cheer Issue, which the publishers will be happy to mail free of expense to any of your friends or relatives at the front. Send us their names and addresses and a copy will be sent without expense to you. Do it today. Address, Editor, Good Cheer Issue, The Standard, Calgary, Alberta.

Vol. VII. No. 2 CALGARY, ALBERTA, MARCH 18, 1917 Five Cents the Copy

Calgary's Spring Show Will Be a Big Event

Entries so far Indicate that the Exhibition Will Exceed all Others in the History of Calgary and Will be Greatest Sale in North America

Calgary's spring show promises to eclipse all former ones if present indications is any criterion to go by. Already the number of entries have exceeded those of former years by several hundred.

The animals for sale include many Shorthorns, Herefords, Angus and other well known stock. The entries so far indicate that this well be the largest sale of bulls to be held in North America this year.

Arrangements are now being made by Mr. E. L. Richardson, the genial manager of the show, for the proper transportation and housing of such noted stock.

The spring sale will begin on the morning of April 10, and will run for three days. The prize list has just been issued by the association, together with explanatory notes regarding the conditions of the sale.

At the same time the annual spring horse show will be held in the big arena which should gladden the hearts of all lovers of horses.

Society will welcome back this event as it has always proved a red letter day (or night) in the social life of the city, the holding of the spring horse show.

The fact that special rates will be given on all the railroads should be a sufficient incentive for many stockmen and farmers to come to Calgary for this gala week and to do their spring shopping.

Many surprises are in store for the public not only in the stock entries but in the horse show entries. Visitors are going to see animals that they have heard much about but have never had the pleasure of a close scrutiny.

A striking event each night will be the parading of Frank Collicutt's wonderful Hereford bull, which is valued at over $11,000, a price that has been exceeded only once in America's history.

Likewise there will be running and jumping races and a "push ball" game on horses that will be as interesting as it is exciting. The ball for this event costs over $500 and stands six feet high. Teams of 10 men from different localities will vie with each other to win in this game.

Red and blue ribbons will be most pronounced in the arena and the question of awarding additional medals will be a most exciting one.

As a whole the spring stock and horse showis going to be a great event.

The Plaza is the place where you get something to eat, while you listen to good music and singing.

Ford Is In England-

American Auto Builder to Invest $10,000,000 in Plants

The sum of $10,000,000 is to be invested in motor car plants in Great Britain by the Ford Motor company, according to plans that have been under way for some time. Negotiations for sites have been reported in the English newspapers, but no announcement has been made by the Ford company in this country. It is known that the intention to invade Great Britain with two large factories, one to start with not less than 2,000 employes, is now being pushed with vigor. The Ford company admitted that the proposal called for the expenditure of $10,000,000, but said that any formal announcement would have to come from Mr. Ford.

NEW MAP ISSUED BY DEPARTMENT AT OTTAWA

A new map has just been issued by the railway lands branch, department of the interior, Ottawa, which will no doubt be hailed with pleasure by the mercantile and professional community. It is entitled the judicial district map. The merchant, farmer or other citizen of the west, as well as the wholesaler of the east, has oft-times noted the paucity of information with regard to the exact location of the points at which sittings of the courts are held, or at which title deeds or other important documents of a similar nature may be registered. This data is of obvious benefit and importance to all those having matters of a litigious nature in hand. The new publication shows, by an elaborate, but not complicated, color scheme, the location of both land registration and judicial districts, in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Certain towns containing both court house and registry office are indicated on the map by a circle of one color, while those containing one, but not both of these conveniences, are shown by a circle of a distinctive nature. Where the county court—as distinguished from the supreme, or court of king's bench—sits, this too is indicated. Those places which are the centers of land titles or land registration districts, are shown on the map by boundary lines of different colors.

Application to the superintendent of railway lands branch, department of the interior, Ottawa, will secure a copy of this useful map, gratis.

ONE MAN SUBMARINE

This one-man submarine shown in photo is now being tried out for coast defence purposes, and would be used in large numbers in event of war. Henry Ford purposes to turn them out from his factory by the thousands.

Offer of the Government is Not Satisfactory

Farming Interests Think That $1.70 Should Be Name the Price That Government Should Pay — Some Want $1.90 For Their Crops.

Much discussion has been indulged in in the past few weeks between the government and representatives of the farming interests respecting the government taking over the entire wheat crop of the country guaranteeing the farmers a stated price.

After much deliberation the government officials suggested that $1.30 per bushel would be a price that would satisfy the government to be paid for the entire crop.

The farming representatives have objected to this price because they feel that in view of the fact that price of living has advanced so greatly that a material advance should be made in the price should the government carry out its determination o take over the crop.

The following bulletin has been issued by the Canadian Council of Agriculture which is in session in Regina:

"Respecting the matter of fixing or guaranteeing a price for the surplus crop of Canadian wheat for the year 1917 discussed with you at your request in Ottawa on March 3, by representatives of the Canadian Council of Agriculture your suggestion that a price be fixed about $1.30 a bushel basis No. 1 northern Fort William for the entire crop was considered by the full meeting of the council here today, and after full deliberation upon the matter the council having in view the present high cost of production believe that to ensure the maximum production of wheat for the coming year, it is advisable to fix a minimum price covering all of this year's crop and the council, therefore, recommends that a minimum price at Fort William of $1.50 a bushel basis No. 1 northern be guaranteed and that a maximum price of $1.90 basis No.1 northern Fort William be fixed. Spreads in prices on grades lower than No. 1 northern to be fixed on the actual difference in value between such grades as determined by milling and baking tests or if a flat price be decided upon such price should be $1.70 a bushel basis No. 1 northern, Fort William, this being less than the average price of No. 1 northern at Fort William during the last six months."

A report from Ottawa says that in case the government takes over the surplus wheat crop that the following prices would be satisfactory:

That a minimum price of $1.50 and a maximum price of $1.90 for No. 1 northern at Winnipeg should be fixed, or, failing that, that a flat price of $1.70 on the same basis at Fort William would be satisfactory.

WILLARD TO CONTINUE IN THE CIRCUS BUSINESS

Tom Jones, acting for Jess Willard, signed a contract with the management of the Buffalo Bill Wild West show for the summer season of 1917. The show formerly was the 101 Ranch show of Oklahoma. The name of Buffalo Bill was willed to Johnny Baker, the old-time wing shot upon the death of William F. Cody, and under the general organization that followed the ranch show will be known under this title. The season will open April 14.

GERMANY'S BOAT WARFARE WAS A COMPLETE FAILURE

During Last Month German U Boats Sank Only One-fifth of Expected Tonnage.

New York, March 15.—Germany's "ruthless" program of sinking one million tons of British shipping a month, and end the war in three months by starving England, failed in February.

Two hundred and two vessels of approximately 420,460 gross tonnage were sunk in February. This compares with 164 vessels of 338,851 gross tonnage in January. Norwegian and Dutch shipping during February suffered losses heavier than any of the Entente Allies except that of Great Britain, which lost more than half of the month's total. The February figures were the highest for one month, however.

Shipping destroyed since the war began, exclusive of war vessels, represents 10 per cent of the world's merchant marine as it existed August 1, 1914, according to figures published by the Journal of Commerce today. Construction of new ships has offset most of the losses, it was stated.

The statistics record the destruction of 2,573 vessels of 4,811,100 gross tons, of which more than half was owned by Great Britain. The next heaviest sufferer has been Norway, with France third, Italy fourth and Germany fifth.

Entente losses have been about 75 per cent. of the total, and Teutonic 20 per cent.

NEWS IN BRIEF

GERMAN AMBASSADOR SAFE

Reports from Germany state that Count Bernstorff has arrived safely [illegible]

BIG HOTEL TO CLOSE

The King Edward hotel in Toronto has announced that they will close. Since the advent of prohibition the hotel has been steadily losing money.

TURKS ADMIT FALL OF BAGDAD

The evacuation of Bagdad by the Turks was announced the early part of the week. Upwards of 15,000 prisoners is reported to have been taken.

BREWERY MUST PAY TAXES

The application of the Mountain Spring Brewery Co. for exemption from taxes for a certain period was denied by the municipal law committee in session at Edmonton.

CHINA SEVERS RELATIONS

Dispatches the middle of the week state that China has severed diplomatic relations with Germany and have taken possession of all German merchant ships in Shanghai.

Alberta Women In Conference Past Week

Over 300 Delegates Congregated in Calgary and Talked Shop

Calgary was the host to upwards of 300 women delegates to the Alberta Women's conference which was held in this city the last three days of the past week.

The ladies were welcomed by His Honor Mayor Costello, assisted by Lt. Gov. Brett, Hon. George Marshall and others who made addresses.

Many subjects of vital interest to the women of Alberta were discussed. The following delegates were in attendance:

Mrs. A. E. Bruce and Mrs. H. Daggard, of St. Albert; Mrs. R. H. MacPherson and Mrs. B. S. Nicholls, of Ryley; Mrs. J. E. Galey, of Holman; Mrs. J. A. McKenzie, of Nightingale; Mrs. J. Byer, Mrs. C. C. Watershut, Mrs. D. A. Langston, Mrs. C. E. Henker, Mrs. James Daley and Mrs. E. H. Arlt, of Granum; Mrs. George H. Buckley and Mrs. Bertha Harman, of Carmangay; Mrs. E. G. Holtze and Miss Cornwall, of Milk River; Mrs. Jean Muldrew, of Edmonton; Mrs. A. H. Edwards, of Vermilion; Mrs. A. H. Rogers, of Fort Saskatchewan; Mrs. J. R. Bolick and Mrs. N. Casey, of Crossfield; Mrs. Dennan, Mrs. Peck and Mrs. Mills, of Chinook; Mrs. Glen and Mrs. Wilson, of Sibbald; Mrs. Sherriff, of Daysland; Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Garland, of Rumsey; Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. Rodell, Mrs. Caldwell, Mrs. Maguire and Mrs. Montgomery, of Wetaskiwin; Mrs. Taylor, of Shinny Bank; Mrs. MacGregor, of Wimborne; Mrs. Ennon, of Wetaskiwin; Mrs. Ball, of Milk River; Mrs. MacKay, of Vulcan; Mrs. Skomer, of Raymond; Mrs. Pollock, of Retlaw; Mrs. Rome, Mrs. Hawkins and Mrs. Johns, of Retlaw; Mrs. J. H. Brown and Mrs. Jamieson, of Delburne; Mrs. Wilson, of Wainwright; Mrs. Hunt, of Tofield; Mrs. McArthur, of Trochu; Miss H. Zurke, of Huxley; Mrs. Bury, of Olds; Mrs. Noble, of Nobleford; Mrs. Sally, of Cereal; Mrs. Campbell and Miss B. Keith, of Delia; Mrs. Carmichael and Mrs. Phipps, of Strome; Mrs. Fraser, Mrs. Reesor, Mrs. Mercer and Mrs. Paulson, of Bawlf; Mrs. Welsh, of Rosebud; Mrs. Briggs and Mrs. Edgar, of Innisfail; Mrs. Falkirk and Mrs. Archer, of Didsbury; Mrs. McPhee and Mrs. Hall, of Queenstown; Mrs. Stranger, of Strathmore.

GLOOMY OUTLOOK IN GERMANY

London (by mail)—"Thus far only fragmentary reports of the remarkable debate in the Prussian Diet on the food crisis have been printed in the German newspapers," a dispatch from Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent says. "The Vorwaerts, received today, contains the following passage from the speech of Herr Hofer (a Socialist member of the Prussian Diet):

"'The mortality among elderly people is increasing at a terrible rate, while epidemics are spreading everywhere, owing to the decreased powers of resistance. The situation is much more serious than has been admitted. The numbers of suicides is increasing and parents are killing their children, owing to their inability to obtain food for them. Yet the price of potatoes, which long ago became generally scarce, is to be increased.'"

PIKE RETURNS TO CALGARY

R. A. Pike, formerly manager for Baird-Botterell Co., and until recently Winnipeg manager for this concern, has returned to Calgary and will make this city his future home.

Don't say Cabaret Garden any more. Be up to date and "say you are going to The Plaza."

Canada Is Doing Her Part in the War's Offensive

More Than One Hundred Thousand Men to Go Overseas Shortly — Battalions Have Been Pouring Into the Maritime Provinces for a Month or More.

St. John, N. B.—Canada has been doing her share in providing troops to meet the overseas' demand. Thousands of troops have arrived in New Brunswick within the last few weeks for final training before embarking at Halifax, N. S., for England. The housing and feeding of these troops has proved quite a problem, but is being met successfully and has brought increased business prosperity to the province.

Major-General Lessard, inspector-general for eastern Canada, has been here supervising the work of mobilization. He recently was quoted as saying that 100,000 additional men would be needed within the next few months to offset possible casualties in the spring offensive and to keep the Canadian divisions at full strength.

The presence of large numbers of troops has stimulated recruiting. Since the provincial election the work of enlistment has been taken up with increased vigor and a close competition has developed among the different units.

Churches have opened their doors to recruiting parties and appeals from the pulpit and altar for Canadians "to do their bit" is meeting with a ready response.

Officers and men alike express confidence that the war is approaching its final stage and all are eager for service at the front. Increased activity on the part of German submarines in the Atlantic has caused little concern. Officials point out that not one life was lost in the transportation overseas of more than 300,000 Canadian soldiers and they confidently expect this record will be kept up. The transports are adequately armed and convoyed.

Great Scientist Dies and Sends Back Message

Woman Claims That She Has Received Word From the Great Scientist

Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, the Harvard physchologist, has spoken from the dead, according to Miss Caroline T. Pilsbury, a Brookline, Mass., "explorer" in the psychic field. "Spirit return is truth," is the message Miss Pilsbury says she received from the famous deliver into the mysteries of the human mind.

Munsterberg, in life, was frankly skeptical of communication from beyond the grave and he gave not a little study to its possibilities. When the late Prof. William James, his friend and fellow scientist, failed to transmit any authentic message from beyond, Munsterberg's doubts increased.

Miss Pilsbury, the recipient of Munsterberg's "message," is not a medium, but is merely interested in spiritualism. She is the editor of Boston Ideas, a weekly publication, and is widely known as a suffragist. When the spirit of Munsterberg revealed itself to her, she says, she was not even thinking of the psychologist, who died December 6. Miss Pilsbury said she had a feeling that a strong personality had entered the room. Then this message, she says, came to her:

"I, a spirit, come to you, not because of any special relationship or because I am particularly interested in you as an individual, but because you are free and willing to give to the public any truths that may come to you from the occult world.

"When I was an inhabitant of the earth I always endeavored to be honest with myself and honest with the public, and I did not then find any proofs that excarnate being communicate with their earth friends. I am still living, and I still endeavor to be honest with myself and with the world. I therefore bring this message:

"Although I have been in the spirit world but a brief time, I have received absolute proof that excarnate beings can and do communicate with their earth friends.

"However valuable the messages I may bring in future time, this one today is important: Spirit return is a truth. I am Hugo Munsterberg."

JACK NESS QUITS THE GAME

Chicago.—Jack Ness, who has been considered by many as Comiskey's one best bet for the first base position, has retired from baseball for good. The player who shattered To Cobb's record for consecutive hitting, disgruntled over a cut in his last year's contract, believes he can make more money in the long run by learning the machinist's trade and playing semi-pro ball. He has returned a contract calling for $2,500 to the Sox owner. His last year's contract was $3,000.

Russian Revolution Resulted In Victory

The Pro-German Element Is Completely Anihilated---The Czar Will Abdicate in Favor of the Crown Prince---Alexandrovitch Is Regent

(By wireless)

London, March 15.—A revolution has been in progress which resulted in a complete overthrow of the pro-German element in Russia. It is possible that the czar will abdicate the throne.

And on this meager dispatch hangs the destiny of many people, incidentally it means that the allies are now in complete power in the Russian government.

All Canada as well as the world in general were surprised on Thursday to see the bulletins of the daily papers with this welcome news in big display type.

While few of the people of the world were cognisant of the fact that a revolution was in progress in Russia, still to the best informed ones, it has been evident for some time that there was something amiss in the Great Russian.

It was evident that there was some hitch somewhere because the aggressive attitude that was necessary for a complete annihilation of the enemy seemed to be somewhat lacking.

The news of the trouble has only leaked out by slow degrees and the ordinary reader was not informed as to the true state of affairs in that country.

Now that the news has been flashed far and wide it will mean much to the allies everywhere. It will give renewed ambition to the boys now fighting in the far away lands and it will be an incentive for greater effort on the part of those at home.

WAR'S DEADLY ENEMY BEING ELIMINATED

London.—Dr. Wood Hutchison, the noted United States physician, who is at present in London, stated that the deadliest enemy in warfare to the soldiers was streptococcus, not bullets.

Thirty years ago the regular ratio of deaths from disease in war compared with deaths on the field from wounds was seven to one. The English royal army medical corps on the western front under the leadership of Sir Alfred Keogh, had more than reversed that ratio. There was now only about one death from disease compared with five on the field of battle. It was largely due to this brilliant result that the terrible struggle was able to go nearly three years with such comparatively little signs of exhaustion to the man power on either side. In the present war on the western front 95.97 per cent. of the wounded recovered; that was to say, of those who were not so terribly lacerated that they died at once or within 24 hours, only about three or four in 100 died.

CALLS 1,000 WOMEN COOKS

England Wants to Assign Them to Army Units

The larger role that women are taking in the great war is illustrated by a recent call for 1,000 women cooks for the army, issued in England.

These cooks, who must be between the ages of 30 and 45, are to be assigned to the various army units and are to be paid $1.00 a year with free board, uniforms, laundry, insurance and fares paid to their destinations. They must be willing to sign for at least one year's service or for the duration of the war.

The women undergo one month's probation before being assigned to the army areas. They are being enrolled through the Women's Legion.

Twenty women carpenters have been sent to France to help build huts for the soldiers. They are but the advance guard of other women artisans, it is said. A housekeeper and social supervisor accompanied this pioneer party.

FEW HORSES LEFT FOR ARMY

It Would Be Impossible to Supply War Needs, an Expert Says

"If the United States needed horses for military purposes, it would be almost impossible to supply that need," John F. Ryan, head of a Canadian national bureau of breeders, said recently. His statement is based upon long experience and much investigation. He has interviewed and had business dealings with the inspectors of almost every belligerent nation. hTe excessive call upon the stock of horses in this country has very nearly depleted it.

"My estimate is that the United States has shipped to France and England alone about 1,850,000 horses from October 8, 1914, to February 1, 1917," Mr. Ryan continued. "In addition to this Italy has taken about 160,000 and the Greeks about 30,000.

"In April of last year there were no real cavalry horses available in America. In the beginning it was possible to get several thousand in Kentucky; today it would be possible to get hardly a carload. The same holds true in other states."

NEW EYES FOR THE FRENCH ARMY

In addition to the use of aeroplanes and balloons the French Army has devised this periscope of giant size for field use. It is collapsable, being moved about on wheels; it has proved to be a valuable part of the equipment.

Alive :: Alert
Up to the Minute

NEWS AND VIEWS ON SPORTS

Local .: Provincial
World in General

The Fight Game Not as Big a Gold Mine as Reported

Every now and then upon turning to the sport sheet of the Blade stories of the big money some boxers make sounds so good that any one who has a kick in his doubled fist undoubtedly sees visions of himself cramming bank bills into a travelling bag as he leaves a rope-ringed arena to the acclaim of hundreds of admirers.

They are stories about Fred Fulton—the Minnesota plasterer seeking to get a crack at Jess Willard's heavyweight championship crown—slapping dope on the walls of houses for years only to wake up and find he could make more in a minute wielding his mitts than he could in a week at his trade.

The Other Side of the Story

But, as usual, there is another side to the story. Many an aspiring young boxer is not stowing away banknotes in travelling bags, banks, ratholes, tin cans, or anything else. They're lucky if they keep from going back to the blacksmith shop.

It's a hard, rough road, this business of getting anywhere in the ring, as any champ will tell you, and the ones who get the coin are in the minority. Most of 'em just get a smell of it. Of course the big fellows drag down lots of it when they get to the top of the ladder, and it's worth trying for.

Experience of One Boxer

But for the benefit of those who have not yet made the debut they may be contemplating, let them consider the case of Art Magril, an Oklahoma fighter, just back from Australia.

Magirl has many interesting things to relate about his journey to Kangarooland, especially about the methods employed by the promoters in "doing" the boxers out of their "jack." Magirl claims he was signed for five bouts with a guarantee of a trifle over $400 a match, with a percentage privilege.

But before Magirl was able to leave the boat at Sidney he was informed that he would be obliged to pay a government tax of 28 per cent. on all the money he had with him or which he might make in his engagement. When American boxers leave the United States they are furnished with first class transportation tickets, but after their first battle the promoter deducts $75, the difference between the first and second class passage.

When fighters are engaged in this country, says Magirl, they are signed for bouts at Sidney and Melbourne, but when they travel back and forth between these two cities they are obliged to pay their own railroad fare. This means another cut in their bankroll.

Gets Guarantee With Crimp In It

Magirl got his guarantee, as promised, but it was minus the 28 per cent war tax; $75, the difference between first and second class passage; less the railroad fares between Melbourne and Sidney, and when he was ready to sail for home his return tickets were cancelled at the last minute.

The captain of the boat happened to be short-handed and Magirl was able to work his way back as a kitchen hand. He says he does not know why his transportation was cancelled, as the boat was just about ready to leave when he was notified of the cancellation.

While abroad Magirl split up with his manager, Bert Connors, who handled him in this country.

You may say that Magirl didn't do so badly after all, but what are the comparatively few dollars he picked up—from a ring standpoint—for all the trouble he went to and the time he spent accumulating the coin?

What with the regulations on the game and the expense attached to it, it apepars after all that the best way to the magnate route is the slow but sure way after all.

Baseball Fans are Coming to Life

With big league clubs all training now for the coming contest which promises to be the biggest in the history of baseball, the Hot Stove league are getting ready to close the winter season and move toward the diamond and watch the boys limber up.

The New York team of the Hot Stove league is making itself heard, however, before adjournment of the dope season. From that city the experts are turning their eyes to the Chicago Americans. The experts are saying that the White Sox are due to win the flag. But as the White Sox have looked this way before, only to turn out the other way, they are using the White Sox as an example of the inaccuracy of doping baseball.

The Chicagoans never have been afflicted with the parcels of hard luck that have laid low the hopes of other baseball clubs. They struggled along last year with a few hard knocks and the average run of good luck, but they weren't equal to the task of distancing Detroit and Boston in the drive for a pennant. What is more, they failed right at the time when the Red Sox were weakened by injuries.

White Sox Has Talent

The Boston team is not composed of the galaxy of high paid, high class stars that romp around over Charles Comiskey's South Side lot in Chicago. They haven't got the punch that is supposed to lurk within the hickories of the white hosed warriors. But they have something and it has been sufficient to win pennants for two years.

Harold Janvrin isn't the second baseman that Eddie Collins is reported to be, but he finished under the strain in pretty good shape. Ray Schalk is rated a better catcher than any of the Red Sox backstops, but he played with a second place team.

It may be that most folks point to the difference in pitching staffs—and there undoubtedly is a lot of truth in the rumor that the Red Sox have the best hurling corps in the game.

Real Trouble a Mystery

But the real trouble with the White Sox is not in the pitching staff, nor anywhere that it can honestly be located. The White Sox have been handicapped at first base and at third base, but fair performers have been at these stations. The mystery still is as deep as ever.

It was quite noticeable last summer that when Kid Gleason was recalled by Comiskey to help Clarence Rowland put over the winning punch that the Sox began to come out of the dumps. So there is a reason for believing the Sox have a better chance this year. But then dope is pretty inaccurate, and while the White Sox may nab the pennant, they may also make a dreadful showing. But we'll all know by this fall anyway.

Has Carload of Real Troubles

Grant Hugh Browne, the new promoter of fights at the Madison Square Garden in New York, surely has been the victim of the bucks. He scheduled a Darcy-McCoy match. The public laughed, but the boxing commission refused to permit the fight. He booked a Darcy-Dillon bout. The public approved, but the governor refused to allow the fight. Now there is a chance that Browne will have to give up the garden.

Browne is a millionaire. He owns vast properties—including a magnificent estate in Goshen, N. Y., and two race courses in Canada. He has been engaged since the beginning of the war in shipping horses and mules to France. He has averaged 500 a day for the last two years.

Browne is a college man. He was once a professional ball player in Fort Wayne in the capacity of pitcher. He was one of the first college men to ever take up the game professionally, and in those rough days the ball players were a hard lot, and made it rather tough for young "Educated" Browne. He finished with baseball as a member of the Chicago Reserves in 1884.

At present he is the owner and president of the Devonshire Park race track in Windsor, Ont., and the owner and honorary president of Montreal race track. He has offices in Paris and London in connection with financial affairs. He bought supplies, munitions and ships for the United States government at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war. He was paymaster for the Venezuelos forces in Mexico a few years ago.

"I merely took up the boxing game for fun. Of course, if I can help pay for the lights I shan't kick. You see, some friends of mine bought Madison Square Garden. All being sportsmen, they thought if I took charge and continued the boxing end of it that I might save the game. Here I am. If I can make the boxing end of it pay 6 per cent. of the expenses of the Garden, you will see the old place remodeled next year into the finest athletic arena in the world."

CLEVELANDS FOR 1917 ARE BUNCH OF GIANTS

Ten Are Six Footers and Seven Are Only an Inch Shorter

Lee Fohl, manager of the Clevelands, will lead a team of giants this year. On his roster are 10 six-footers and seven players 5 feet 11 inches.

Clark Dickerson, a recruit pitcher from Dothan, Ala., tops the bunch. Allen Gould, the Muscatine midget, is the smallest. Dickerson is 6 feet 2 inches, while Gould stands 5 feet 6.

There is not a 200-pounder in the squad, Gandil, 195, being the heaviest. Guisto comes next with 187, while Morton, Klepfer and Chapman are close up.

Seventeen states and two provinces combined to provide birthplaces for the Clevelands. Pennsylvania leads with six. Klepfer, Turner, Covaleskie, O'Neill, Coumbe and Miller. Fohl and Wambganss are Ohioans. Roth and Howard boast that Illinois was their native state, while Kansas turned out Lambeth and Billings. Tris Speaker and Dickerson are sons of Texas.

Here's where the others were born: Bagby in Georgia, Boehling in Virginia, Gould in Iowa, Morton in Alabama, Smith in Tennessee, Petty in Oklahoma, Chapman in Kentucky, Evans in Mississippi, Gandil in Minnesota, Guisto in California, Kavanagh in New Jersey, Allison in Michigan. Graney and Daly are foreign born. Graney hailing from Ontario, while Daly was born in New Brunswick.

FOR LATE SPORTS SEE NEWS PAGE

Big League Games to begin April 11

Western Nationals Start in East, Eastern Americans in West

The baseball season of 1917 will be opened by American and National league clubs on April 11, with the Boston Americans, world's champions, playing in New York, and the Brooklyn National league pennant winners playing at home with Philadelphia. Other opening games are:

National—New York at Boston; Pittsburg at Chicago and St. Louis at Cincinnati.

American—Washington at Philadelphia, Chicago at St. Louis and Cleveland at Detroit.

In the National league the last games will be played October 4 by Brooklyn at home with Boston, and by New York at Philadelphia.

The American league season will close on the same date with the Red Sox playing Washington in Boston.

The western clubs of the National league go east first this year, and correspondingly the American eastern teams come west.

ALASKA DOGS BREAK RECORDS

Nome, Alaska.—Fred Ayer won the annual 26-mile dog team race, thereby gaining possession of the silver trophy cup presented by John Borden, wealthy sportsman of Chicago, and $1,000 prize money.

The trail was fast and his time of 1:55:46 broke all records for the distance.

Paid $15,000 for Joe Wood

Cleveland Bought the Player Outright from Boston at This Figure

New York.—Joe Wood, who refused to play wih the Boston Americans last year on account of salary difference, was sold to the Cleveland Americans for $15,000, and has signed a contract with Lee Fohl's team. It was a straight sale and no other players were involved. Robert McRoy, business manager of the Indians, came to New York and made the deal with Harry Frazee, the new Boston owner.

Wood has not pitched since 1915, when he was troubled with a sore shoulder, which caused his trouble with the Boston management. Joe's refusal to sign with the Red Sox last season cost him nearly $10,000. He was offered a salary of $7,500 and would have collected a share in the world's series money.

Wood is said to be satisfied with the sale, as he is eager to play on the same team with Tris Speaker. The two were close friends when they were together on the Hub team.

Wood has been in the American league since 1908. He was purchased from the Kansas City club for $3,200. The Blues bought him from Hutchinson for $300.

Irving Bacheller, having finished the manuscript of a new novel and turned it in to his publishers, and having closed an extended and successful lecture tour, has gone to South Carolina to play golf. He will not return to New York until late in April.

A. C. BOWNESS
WINES, LIQUORS AND CIGARS

I am doing the largest liquor mail order business in Alberta, and "There is a reason." My prices and my goods are right and my service is the best of all. You can wire or phone your order to me in the afternoon and the goods will be at your station before you are up the next morning. I am the agent for the best beer made in the West, viz.: "Calgary Beer." I will send you a case (8 doz. pints) of Bass' Ale for $20, prepaid to any point. I will make up assorted cases of 12 bottles of any kind of liquors or wines you want and put them in at the case price of any of these kinds of liquor or wine on my list. Can you beat this? I am out to get the business and am getting it, and will meet the price of any house in existence no matter who they are or where they come from.

Send for my March Price List. It tells you all about it.

A. C. BOWNESS
CRANBROOK, B. C.

Cut Rate Liquor Company
205 8th. Ave., W.

The decision given by the Court of Appeal enables us once more to be at your service in ordering Liquors of the highest qualty. We make a specialty in our prompt delivery. Put in your order before 3 p.m. and the goods are at your station the following day.

We guarantee goods as ordered.

We save you any worry or trouble in looking after any delay in delivery.

We carry the highest brands of Liquors, Imported Brandies, Scotch, Gins, and Wines.

Drop in and give us a trial order.

Cut Rate Liquor Co.
205 Eighth Ave. West
PHONE M3029

Rheumatism Conquered at Last!
MONEY-BACK COUPON WITH EACH BOTTLE
CALKINS' RHEUMATISM CURE
A Wonderful Remedy for Any Blood Disease

Drives out Poisons through the Urine, Bowels, Lungs and Pores of the body. Soothes the nerves, and is a heart sedative. Heals the mucous membrane linings of the body, corrects bronchial affections, so that the lungs can help in throwing off the poisons.

Money Returned if Results are Not Satisfactory
Send for Testimonials of Prominent People
Sent by Mail or Express only, charges prepaid, on receipt of price
$2.00
H. M. Calkins & Co., 7 Bruce Ave.,
Windsor, Ontario, Canada

To Physicians—You are urged to try this in cases of Rheumatism. You will not be disappointed. Will gladly answer any questions as to the effects of the 12 ingredients. CALKINS & CO.

Columbia Wine and Spirit Co., Ltd.
GOLDEN, B. C.
DEALERS IN CHOICEST WINES, LIQUORS, ETC.

We are he people who are closest to Central Alberta and can give you the quick service. Look at this table of distances:
Saskatoon to Calgary, 339 miles ..... Rate $2.25
Regina to Calgary, 480 miles ..... Rate $2.75
Golden to Calgary, 172 miles ..... Rate $2.00
It takes 18 hours to travel from Saskatoon to Calgary, and it takes over 20 hours from Regina to Calgary, and nearly nine hours from Maple Creek. From Golden you can reach Calgary in exactly 7½ hours on two trains a day. It should not take an intelligent person long to see where he should order his goods.

We act on telegraph orders and ship immediately and prepay all charges and jugs, etc., are free. Our goods are of the best the market affords and our prices are right, being consistent with good quality and good service. We will make up hampers to suit you. We are the agents for Calgary Beer and the best goods on the market.

We have hundreds of customers in Alberta who will vouch for the quality of our goods and our service. Our price list will be sent on request.

COLUMBIA WINE & SPIRIT COMPANY, LIMITED
GOLDEN, B. C.

Alberta Import Company Limited
129 Ninth Ave. West

We are a[lways] open to attend to your business if you wish to Order Liquor Outside of Alberta

The Co[urt] of Appeal put the local authorities "right" and found our [bu]siness quite legal and legitimate.

We do [your] work for you at a small charge and attend to any delays [that] may occur in deliveries—we can wire in your order for [Calgary] and you get the goods before you are up the next morn[ing]. Drop in and see us.

Alberta Import Co., Ltd.
Phone M61[...] 129 Ninth Ave. West

The Nat Bell Liquors Ltd.
Box 304, Saskatoon, Sask.
The Reliable Mail Order House
Mail Us Your Orders Direct

You know our Service. You know the High Standard we set for Quality.

You know our Draught Whiskies is the pure unadulterated product of the best distillers.

Why experiment with other houses.

A card will bring our price list

THE NAT BELL LIQUORS LTD.
Saskatoon, Sask.

GRAY-DORT AUTOMOBILES

For beauty, easy riding qualities, strength and economy these cars cannot be excelled
"The Quality Goes Clear Through"
PRICE $960.00 at Calgary
SHOWROOMS: 235 8th Avenue West
Phone M5337

WEBBER'S GARAGE
FORD SPECIALISTS
: Everything for the :
:: Motorist ::
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT
129 5th Ave. W. Phone M2033

PRUDENCE
OF THE PARSONAGE
THE FAMOUS STORY OF A HAPPY FAMILY
By Ethel Hueston

COPYRIGHT 1915 BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

SYNOPSIS

The town of Mount Mark is brought to the attention of the world by the arrival of Rev. Mr. Starr and his five daughters, he having been assigned to pastoral work in this Methodist diocese. The story opens with the arrival of Prudence, on the train at Mount Mark, her demure appearance and gentle nature immediately impressing favorably the bystanders, including the operator and express carrier at the station. The minister's family are well pleased with the parsonage, they having heretofore been living in towns where such luxuries as a real home have been denied them, since the death of their mother, Prudence a young girl still in her teens, has been compelled to take over the duties as head of the household and mother of the four young sisters.

After the arrival of Prudence, the ladies of the church decide to call on the parsonage to welcome the minister and his daughter. Quite a discussion follows as to who will have the privilege of representing the ladies. Finally they draw straws, and the lot falls to Mrs. Adams, who calls on Prudence and gets the history of the family that Prudence is bringing up. Mrs. Adams cannot help but admire the kind and sweet disposition of Prudence, whose one aim in life is to be worthy of the privilege of bringing up four gifted and clever girls to do great things.

The twins get Prudence and the parsonage into embarrassing positions. A clergyman calls and remains for lunch. The twins laugh at the way he says grace. Carol also degrades herself when coming home from the pasture by riding on the back of the Jersey cow.

Several days later the parsonage is in a state of excitement, the Ladies' Aid are holding their monthly meeting there. The twins again embarrass Prudence by taking the bottom out of one of the chairs and just leaving a cushion in, also Fairy is very much mortified at having one of her love poems read aloud.

Carol and Lark have a secret society, known as the "Skull and Crossbones," in which Constance applies for admission. She is accepted and her two weeks' probation are filled with many trials; she finally throws up the whole thing when asked to give her pear to Skull and Crossbones.

Connie is taken back in the society, but her weeks of probation are harder than before. She is finally induced by Skull and Crossbones to take some apples from a neighbors' garden, and being found out by Prudence is being punished severely when the twins confess. Prudence abolishes the order of Skull and Crossbones as a punishment.

Miss Allen, the principal of the school, meets Prudence and tells her many amusing incidents of the schol life of the twins.

She also tells Prudence that the twins do not like her (Miss Allen) and wants Prudence to find out the cause. Prudence interviews the twins and finds that their only reason is the belief that Miss Allen is a heretic.

Many of the young men of Mount Mark admired Prudence very much, and the latest one to fall in love with her is Proefssor Bayburn, who invites her to a picnic.

The picnic is only the beginning of a friendship between Prudence and Professor Bayburn, who calls many times during the following weeks, but the aversion Prudence has for "bugs" keeps her from becoming close friends, as she always thinks he has them in his pockets.

Professor Bayburn brings things to a climax, by kissing Prudence and telling her that he loves her. Prudence, who is always frank and truthful, tells him that she does not care for him in that way and he must not come to see her again, and feels quite relieved and happy when the ordeal is over.

Fairy has a college boy, "Babbie," call to spend the evening; the twins go for oysters for the supper in Babbie's honor and incidentally purchase some red pepper and a liquid from the druggist, in whom they confide that they want something with a most disagreeable odor; they also cut the sleeves out of the dress Fairy is going to wear.

CHAPTER IX.

Practising Economy

It was a dull day early in December. Prudence and Fairy were sewing in the bay window of the sitting-room.

"We must be sure to have all the scraps out of the way before Connie gets home," said Prudence, carefully fitting together pieces of a dark, warm, furry material. "It has been so long since father wore this coat, I am sure she will not recognize it."

"But she will ask where we got it, and what shall we say?"

"We must tell her it is goods we have had in the house for a long time. That is true. And I made this fudge on purpose to distract her attention. If she begins to ask questions, we must urge her to have more candy. Poor child!" she added very sympathetically. "Her heart is just set on a brand-new coat. I know she will be bitterly disappointed. If the members would just pay up we could get her one. November and December are such bad months for parsonage people. Coal to buy, feed for the cow and the horse and the chickens, and Carol's sickness, and Larkie's teeth! Of course, those last are not regular winter expenses, but they took a lot of money this year. Every one is getting ready for Christmas now, and forgets that parsonage people need Christmas money, too. November and December are always my bitter months, Fairy,—bitter months!"

Fairy took a pin from her mouth "The velvet collar and cuffs will brighten it up a good bit. It's really a pretty material. I have honestly been ashamed of Connie the last few Sundays. It was so cold, and she wore only that little thin summer jacket. She must have been half frozen."

"Oh, I had her dressed warmly underneath, very warmly indeed," declared Prudence. "But no matter how warm you are underneath, you look cold if you aren't visibly prepared for winter weather. It's a fortunate thing the real cold weather was so slow in coming. I kept hoping enough money would come in to buy her a coat for once in her life."

"She has been loking forward to one long enough," put in Fairy. "This will be a bitter blow to her. And yet it is not such a bad-looking coat, after all." And she quickly ran up a seam on the machine.

"Here comes Connie!" Prudence hastily swept a pile of scraps out of sight, and turned to greet her little sister with a cheery smile.

"Come on in, Connie," she cried, with a brightness she did not feel. "Fairy and I are making you a new coat. Isn't it pretty? And so warm! See the nice velvet collar and cuffs. We want to fit it on you right away, dear."

Connie picked up a piece of the goods and examined it intently.

"Don't you want some fudge, Connie?" exclaimed Fairy, shoving the dish toward her hurriedly.

Connie took a piece from the plate, and thrust it between her teeth. Her eyes were still fastened upon the brown furry cloth.

"Where did you get this stuff?" she inquired, as soon as she was able to speak.

"Oh, we've had it in the house quite a while," said Prudence, adding swiftly, "Isn't it warm, Connie? Oh, it does look nice, doesn't it, Fairy? Do you want it a little shorter, Connie, or is that about right?"

"About right, I guess. Did you ever have a coat like this, Prudence? I don't seem to remember it."

"Oh, no, it wasn't mine. Take some more candy, Connie. Isn't it good?—Let's put a little more fullness in the sleves, Fairy. It's more stylish this year.—The collar fits very nicely. The velvet gives it such a rich tone. And brown is so becoming to you."

"Thanks," said Connie patiently. "Was this something of yours, Fairy?"

"Oh, no, we've just had it in the house quite a while. It comes in very handy right now, doesn't it? It'll make you such a nice serviceable, stylish coat. isn't it about time for the twins to get here, Prudence? I'm afraid they are playing along the road. Those girls get more careless every day of their lives."

"Well, if this didn't belong to one of you, whose was it?" demanded Connie. "I know the twins never had anything like this. It looks kind of familiar to me. Where did it come from?"

"Out of the trunk in the garret, Connie. Don't you want some more fudge? I put a lot of nuts in, especially on your account."

"It's good," said Connie, taking another piece. She examined the cloth very closely. "Say, Prudence, isn't this that old brown coat of father's?"

Fairy shoved her chair back from the machine, and ran to the window. "Look, Prue," she cried. "Isn't that Mrs. Adams coming this way? I wonder——"

"No, it isn't," answered Connie gravely. "It's just Miss Avary getting home from school.—Isn't it, Prudence? Father's coat, I mean?"

"Yes, Connie, it is," said Prudence, very, very gently. "But no one here has seen it, and it is such nice cloth, —just exactly what girls are wearing now."

"But I wanted a new coat!" Connie did not cry. She stood looking at Prudence with her wide hurt eyes.

"Oh, Connie, I'm just as sorry as you are," cried Prudence, with starting tears. "I know just how you feel about it, dearest. But the people didn't pay father up last month, and nothing has come in for this month yet, and we've had so much extra expense.—I will have to wear my old shoes, too, Connie, and you know how they look! The shoemaker says they aren't worth fixing, so I must wear them as they are.—But maybe after Christmas we can get you a coat. They pay up better then."

"I think I'd rather wear my summer coat until then," said Connie soberly.

"Oh, but you can't, dearest. It is too cold. Won't you be a good girl now, and not make sister feel badly about it? It really is becoming to you, and it is nice and warm. You know parsonage people just have to practice economy, Connie,—it can't be helped. Take some more fudge, dear, and run out-or-doors a while. You'll feel better about it presently, I'm sure."

Connie stood solemnly beside the table, her eyes still fastened on the coat, cut down from her father's. "Can I go and take a walk?" she asked finally.

"May I, you mean," suggested Fairy.

"Yes, may I?" Maybe I can reconcile myself to it."

"Yes, do go and take a walk," urged Prudence promtply, eager to get the small sober face beyond her range of vision.

"If I am not back when the twins get home, go right on and eat without me. I'll come back when I get things straightened out in my mind."

When Connie was quite beyond hearing, Prudence droped her head on the table and wept. "Oh, Fairy, if the members just knew how such things hurt, maybe they'd pay up a little better. How do they expect parsonage people to keep up appearances when they haven't any money?"

"Oh, now, Prue, you're worse than Connie! There's no use to cry about it. Parsonage people have to find happiness in spite of financial misery. Money isn't the first thing with folks like us."

"No, but they have pleydegd it," protested Prudence, lifting her tear-stained face. "They must know we are counting on the money. Why don't they keep their pledges? They pay their meat bills, and grocery bills, and house rent! Why don't they pay for their religion?"

"Now, Prue, you know how things go. Mrs. Adams is having a lot of Christmas expense, and she thinks her four dolars a month won't really be missed. She thinks she will make it up along in February, when Christmas is over. But she forgets that Mrs. Barnaby with two dollars, and Mrs. Scott with five, and Mr. Walter with seven, and Mr. Holmes with three, and about thirty others with one dolar each, are thinking the same thing! Each member thinks for himself, and takes no account of theo thers. That's how it happens."

Prudence squirmed uncomfortably in her chair. "I wish you wouldn't mention names, Fairy," she begged. "I do not object to lumping them in a body and wondering about them. But I can't feel right about calling them out by name, and criticizing them.—Besides, we do not really know which ones they are who did not pay."

"I was just giving names for illustrative purposes,' said Fairy quickly. "Like as not, the very ones I named are the ones who did pay."

"Well, get this stuff out of the way, and let's set the table. Somehow I cant' bear to touch it any more. Poor little Connie! If she had cried about it, I wouldn't have cared so much. But she looked so—heartsick, didn't she, Fairy?"

Connie certainly was heartsick. More than that, she was a litle disgusted. She felt herself aroused to take action. Things had gone too far! Go to church in her father's coat she could not! But they hadn't the money. If Connie's father had been at home, perhaps they might have reasoned it out together. But he had left town that morning, and would not be home until Saturday evening,—too late to get a coat in time for Sunday, and Prudence had said that Connie must be coated by Sunday! She walked sturdily down the street toward the "city,"—ironically so called. Her face was stony, her hands were clenched. But finally she brightened. Her lagging steps quickened. She skipped along quite cheerfully. She turned westward as she reached the corner of the Square, and walked along that business street with shining eyes. In front of the First National Bank she paused, but after a few seconds she passed by. On the opposite corner was another bank. When she reached it, she walked in without pausing, and the massive door swung behind her. Standing on tiptoe, she confronted the cashier with a grave face.

"Is Mr. Harold in?" she asked politely.

Mr. Harold was the president of the bank! It was a little unusual.

"Yes, he is in," said the cashier doubtfully, "but he is very busy."

"Will you tell him that Constance Starr wishes to speak to him, privately, and that it is very important?"

The cashier smiled. "The Methodist minister's litle girl, isn't it? Yes, I will tell him."

Mr. Harold looked up impatiently at the interruption.

"It's the Methodist minister's little daughter, and she says it is important for her to speak to you privately."

'O'h! 'Probably a message from her father. Bring her in."

Mr. Harold was one of the trustees of the Methodist church, and prominent among them. His keen eyes were intent upon Conie as she walked in, but she did not falter.

"How do you do, Mr. Harold?" she said, and shook hands with him in the good old Methodist way.

His eyes twinkled, but she spoke briskly. 'Did your father send you on an errand?"

"No, father is out of town. I came on business,—personal business, Mr. Harold. It is my own affair."

(To be continued.)

The Chums of the War

British Tommy and French Poilu Are Real "Soul Mates"

With the British army in the field.—(By mail).—The natural tendency of foreigners, when thrown together helter-skelter, is to scrap among themselves. Especially is this the case when these foreigners belong to races strongly different. Yet for more than two years and a half British and French have lived side by side in the war zone of France on most cordial terms. Scarcely a fight between Tommy and Poilu has been heard of in all that time.

Are Widely Different Types

The British Tommy is as different from the French Poilu as two men very well can be—temperamentally, in habits and in thought. If, as between sexes, opposites attract, as between man and man extremes have a habit of settling the differences with sticks and fists. The wonder is, therefore, all the greater that French soldier and English soldier have mingled for so long and under such trying circumstances without the slightest hitch.

This state of things has not been accident. Nor has it been a mere matter of army discipline. Rather it is a question of something far deeper than either, for all the discipline in the world could never have produced such a phenomenon.

"Soul mates" has become a much abused term and a misused one, but it would seem that the French and British armies had found in each other a warrior "soul mate," a battle partner, and all such petty superficialities as mere personal habits and mannerisms have been completely sunk in the one big, all-absorbing fundamental. They are fighting and dying for the same cause.

Customs Do Not Matter

What does it matter if Tommy eats bacon and eggs and perhaps porridge for breakfast and Poilu only coffee and bread; and does it make any real difference if Tommy drinks tea every afternoon and Poilu doesn't like tea at all, if both men are standing shoulder to shoulder in uncomfortable trenches and firing at the same enemy, or charging through a rain of shrapnel and machine gun bullets against the same trench?

While British and French armies maintain their own individual organization and fight under their own flags, there have been a number of times since the outbreak of this war when British and French have literally fought side by side. And at the taking of Combles, for example, the British attacked from one side, the French from another, the two forces meeting in the captured city, fallen under their combined blows.

So the Tommy and the Poilu have gotten acquainted. They have come to know each other. They do not pay any attention now to how the other fellow cuts his hair or ties his tie or sets his cap on his head. They have unconsciously swapped customs and even their difference in language has ceased to bother or be strange to them. Almost every Poilu knows a few words of English and there is hardly a Tommy but knows how to "polly francay" a bit. So as far as these details are concerned things bowl along in perfect style.

A "Big" Understanding

But the real thing is the "big" understanding which has sprung up between these two vastly different types of men, the understanding which is the result of long acquaintance and of seeing each other in most difficult places and of coming out of them gallantly and with colors flying.

The fact that the Frenchman would never have done the thing as the Englishman did it, nor the Englishman as the Frenchman did it, is lost sight of because the thing was done and done bravely and contributed to the winning of the war and having it over. So far as this war is concerned, and so far as British and French getting on together is concerned, the question of nationality now seems to have just about the same importance as whether a man is blond or brunette, short or tall.

Courage is the all important personal equation and as each has actually seen the other prove time and again that he possesses this quality to the utmost, the rest is easy going.

NO ALUM

ALL INGREDIENTS ARE PLAINLY PRINTED ON THE LABEL

MAKES THE WHITEST, LIGHTEST

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

CONTAINS NO ALUM

For Delicate Children

Powerful Nutrients, Hypophosphites, Nerve Restoratives, Valuable Stomachics

OF NERVOUS TENDENCY GIVE DR. CASSELL'S TABLETS.

Strengthen, Build up, and Nourish the Children, and you are conferring incalculable benefits on the country. You are also ensuring the physical well-being and success of future breadwinners and mothers.

Dr. Cassell's Tablets, whose success in Canada has been both immediate and striking, owes its popularity in great part to its safety and unquestionable medicinal activity. It is now doing more for the little ones of three continents than many mothers realise.

A powerfully nutritive food-medicine which can be given to the youngest infant, Dr. Cassell's Tablets feed the entire system, vitalise the nerves, and create healthy flesh, blood, and muscle in a manner truly remarkable.

They are the recognised modern home remedy for Nervous Breakdown, Nerve and Spinal Paralysis, Infantile Paralysis, Rickets, St. Vitus' Dance, Anæmia, Sleeplessness, Kidney Disease, Dyspepsia, Stomach Catarrh, Brain Fag, Headache, Palpitation, Wasting Diseases, Vital Exhaustion, Loss of Flesh, and Premature Decay. Specially valuable for Nursing Mothers and during the Critical Periods of Life.

Druggists and Dealers throughout Canada sell Dr. Cassell's Tablets. If not procurable in your city send to the sole agents, Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., 10, McCaul Street, Toronto, who will see that you get them. One tube 50 cents, six tubes for the price of five. War Tax, 2 cents per tube extra.

Sole Proprietors:—Dr. Cassell's Co., Ltd., Manchester, Eng.

GET A FREE SAMPLE

Send your name and address and 2 cents for postage, etc., to Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., 10, McCaul Street, Toronto, and a generous sample will be mailed you free of charge.

Dr. Cassell's Tablets

Britain's Greatest Remedy

Calgary Trunk and Bag Store

All Kinds of Leather Goods.

Calgary, Alberta — W. G. ZIEGLER, Prop.

111A Eighth Ave. East. — Phone M5044

Lowest Prices.

W. J. GRAY

GROCER

818 8th Ave. West

Phone M6395

IMPERIAL HOTEL

DANIEL F. WHITNEY, Prop.

Second Street East and Ninth Avenue

FAMILY HOTEL

Buffet in Connection

Large, Light, Airy Rooms

Rates Reasonable

Music Afternoon and Evening

BRITAIN— CALLS TO CANADA—

THE FACTORY — THE FARM

She must have Food—for her Armies in the Field—for her Workers in the Factory—in the Munition plant—in the Shipyard—in the Mine.

THERE'S DANGER IN SIGHT—BUT YOU CAN HELP

DO YOU KNOW— that the rapidly rising price of food stuffs means that the World's reserve supply is getting small?

DO YOU KNOW— that a world-wide famine can only be averted by increasing this supply?

DO YOU KNOW— that a "food famine" would be a worse disaster to the Empire and her Allies than reverses in the Field?

YOU CAN— help thwart Germany's desperate submarine thrust on the high seas.

YOU CAN— do this by helping to make every bit of land in Canada produce—the very last pound of food stuffs of which it is capable.

AND REMEMBER— that no man can say that he has fully done his part—who having land—be it garden patch, or farm, or ranch—fails to make it produce food to its utmost capacity.

THESE FARM PRODUCTS ARE NEEDED FOR EXPORT

WHEAT, OATS, BEEF, BACON, CHEESE, EGGS, BUTTER, POULTRY, BEANS & PEAS, WOOL, FLAX AND FLAX FIBRE, DRIED VEGETABLES

BRITAIN APPEALS TO CANADA

THE NEAREST PRODUCER OF STAPLE FOODS

India and Argentina are more than twice the distance away and Australia more than four times.

Canada to Britain — 2625 MILES

India & Argentina to Britain — 6000 MILES

Australia to Britain — 11500 MILES

"No matter what difficulties may face us, the supreme duty of every man on the land is to use every thought and every energy in the direction of producing more—and still more."

Martin Burrell—Minister of Agriculture.

The Department invites every one desiring information on any subject relative to Farm and Garden, to write—

INFORMATION BUREAU

DOMINION DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

OTTAWA

MARCH 13, 1917

Local .: Provincial World in General

BOWNESS LIQUORS AND CIGARS
for mail order business in Alberta, and and my goods are right and my service or phone your order to me in the after- your station before you are up the next the best beer made in the West, viz.: a case (8 doz. pints) of Bass' Ale for make up assorted cases of 12 bottles you want and put them in at the case liquor or wine on my list. Can you beat ess and am getting it, and will meet the no matter who they are or where they list. It tells you all about it.
BOWNESS BROOK, B. C.

te Liquor
mpany
. Ave., W.
ven by the Court of Ap- nce more to be at your g Liquors of the highest ke a specialty in our Put in your order before oods are at your station oods as ordered.
ny worry or trouble in delay in delivery.
ighest brands of Liquors, ies, Scotch, Gins, and ve us a trial order.

e Liquor Co.
hth Ave. West
NE M3029

Bell Liquors Ltd.
Saskatoon, Sask.
Mail Order House
our Orders Direct ur Service. You know ard we set for Quality.
ur Draught Whiskies is lterated product of the ment with other houses.
ll bring our price list
NAT BELL ORS LTD.
katoon, Sask.

THEATRES | WHERE TO GO | PICTURE PLAYS | WHAT TO SEE | VAUDEVILLE

Grand

Three Days, Commencing Thursday, March 22nd
Matinee Saturday

The Distinguished Comedienne

MAY ROBSON

and Her Own Company, in the Sparkling Comedy

"The Making Over of Mrs. Matt"

(By James Forbes, author of "The Chorus Lady," etc.)

ALL SUNSHINE and LAUGHTER

PRICES:

Evenings: $1.50, $1.00, 75c, 50c and 25c
Saturday Matinee: 25c to $1.00

Scene from "The Making Over of Mrs. Matt," at the Grand Next Week.

Big Picture Feature Coming to the Grand Mar. 29

"The Eyes of the World," Clune's big cinema version in ten reels of Harold Bell Wright's celebrated story of southern California, which has just been completed and will have its first showing at the Grand, theater, Thursday 29, beginning a three days' engagement, must be inevitably associated in the public mind with that other Clune film triumph, "Ramona." Not only was it made by the same producers, but by the same methods followed in the construction of Helen Hunt Jcakson's wonderful story.

Like the other story, "The Eyes of the World" is a romance of southern California, and the producers have put into their second great achievement the same labor of love that was mingled with the necessary commercialism in the making of the former subject for the screen.

Having set such a high standard with "Ramona," the Clune company know that it could not afford to invite disparaging comparison by turning out an inferior successor, so it spent money freely and the undivided energies, for six months, of its great studio force in Los Angeles, and on the scenes of the book in the valleys and mountains of San Bernardino and Riverside counties to insure an output worthy of its subject. The same photographers who made "Ramona," a work of such rare beauty were entrusted with the mission.

Three of the prominent members of the "Ramona" cast are in "The Eyes of the World." These are Monroe Salisbury, who played Alessandro, the Indian lover; Lurline Lyons, who enacted Senora Moreno, the Spanish matron, and Arthur Tavares, who was Senor Ortegna. These artists were chosen for "The Eyes of the World" cast not merely because their characterizations in "Ramona" were so remarkable but because they really fitted parts in Mr. "Ramona" were so remarkable, but because they really fitted parts in Mr. Wright's story.

Clune was the first of the big producers to discourage the idea of the stock company, which led to so many causes of mis-casting. For each production he picks his actors from the widest field. How much better this is than the old way, was seen in the wonderful selection of types and the fine quality of acting in "Ramona."

Photoplays of ALLEN Distinction

LAST TIMES TODAY

LATEST WAR GRAPHIC | Theodore Roberts in The American Consul | LASKY PARAMOUNT FEATURE

Monday and Tuesday

Mary Miles Minter

The Winsome Little Star

—in—

"FAITH"

Illustrating a Foundling's Faith in the World's Goodness

WEDNESDAY—THURSDAY

JESSE L. LASKY PRESENTS

LOU TELLEGEN

In a Thrilling Adventure Play

"THE BLACK WOLF"

NEW CHRISTIE COMEDY

FRIDAY—SATURDAY

OLIVER MOROSCO OFFERS

LEONORE ULRICH

In a Thrilling Modern Drama of Racial Conflict, Entitled

"HER OWN PEOPLE"

LATEST WAR GRAPHIC

"The Road of Love" at the Allen Next Fri.--Sat.

Lenore Ulrich, the beautiful and versatile young star, who recently created such a success on the Paramount program in "The Road to Love," will be seen at the Allen next Friday and Saturday, in the Pallas-Paramount picture of Julia C. Ivers' unusual Indian story, "Her Own People," adapted for the screen especially for her, has the distinction of being the best portrayer of Indian types on the screen, although in "The Road to Love" she scored a great success as an Arabian beauty and her performance on the stage as a Hawaiian belle in "The Bird of Paradise" ranks among the classics.

In this production, "Her Own People," Miss Ulrich is seen as Alona, the daughter of John Kemp, a wealthy society man, and the Indian wife whom he married after renouncing his own society following an unfortunate love affair.

Alona grows up in ignorance of her father's wealth, and she meets Frank Colvin, a young prospector. Kemp, realising that he must provide for his daughter's future, sends her to a fashionable eastern boarding school. The majority of the girls promptly snub her, but one, realizing that she will be a great catch for her brother, takes her to her home. Alona overhears the brother and sister talking of her wealth, promptly becomes disgusted and returns to her Indian friends. Colvin finds her and offers his love but Alona, suspicious, refuses him. Finally through an agent she buys Colvin's mine and returns to her mansion in Washington and Colvin, now wealthy, finds her and again offers his love to the poor Indian maid who has suddenly been transformed into a beautiful society girl.

The Indian portions of these scenes were photographed high in the California mountains, and an entire tribe of Indians being brought from the reservation especially for this production.

Miss Ulrich has the opportunity to display a number of beautiful modern gowns. The interior scenes are unusually artistic, and an excellent cast supports the popular screen star.

Six Big Features to be Seen at the Pantages

Six vaudeville features, three of which are exclusively composed of comedy will be the contribution offered by the Pantages theater, next week, for the entertainment of Calgarians. One of the most enjoyable bills of the season is promised for the coming week.

Among the many features one may mention The Phun Phiends as one of the bright spots of the program. It is described as being a prescription of mirth and melody, featuring Jack Hallan and Murray Harris, supported by a bevy of pretty misses who sing and dance and wear beautiful clothes besides being good to look at; a pleasant rest-cure for the eyes, as it were.

Many will remember Chris Richards, the English comedian. Richards is one of the funniest of funmakers, he has a style exclusively his own and doesn't fear competition, in fact it is doubtful if anyone would dare attempt to duplicate his antics. It has been said in many quarters that he is funnier than Charlie Chaplin, and those who have seen him all seem to agree with the above statement.

The Famous Kimiwa troupe of Tokio's foremost equilibrists will present a novel and amazing assortment of balancing feats of which the versatile sons of Nippon alone are masters. They will exhibit the most elaborate set of oriental embroidered scenery ever seen on the vaudeville stage.

Paul Decker & Company will offer a unique farce comedy entitled "The Twister," a screamingly funny playlet that is made funnier by the clever presentation given by a capable cast.

The Knickerboker Quartette will offer harmony supreme in their own peculiar way, they render classical as well as popular numbers in a most capable manner.

Pearl of the Army will continue to perform sensational feats for the edification of her many friends.

A vaudeville program that no one can afford to miss, it is one of the treats of the season.

"The Warning" Striking Picture Bijou Thurs.

"The Warning," a startling allegorical story of the evils of drink, is the next release on the Equitable program at the Bijou theater, being scheduled for presentation Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Henry Kolker, who plays the leading part, that of a man who gives way to the amiable but destructive weakness of being a "good fellow," is not only a well known actor in the "legitimate," but has accomplished some excellent screen work, which, however, was only preparatory to this remarkable example of his art. The wonderful imagery used in working out the striking theme of the story will be a revelation to lovers of the silent drama, and the pictures, which range from a quiet, domestic interior, through the glitter of Broadway at night to the terrors of Dante's "Inferno," are of such wondrous beauty and excellence that they make a standard of their own in the realm of filmdom.

Singing and music, such as you cannot hear at any other place, is rendered every night at The Plaza.

Miss Minter in "Faith" at Allen Mon.--Tues.

Mary Miles Minter, the charming little screen star will be seen in "Faith" at the Allen on Monday and Tuesday, a photodrama full of human interest.

Lovely Mary, as she is called, plays with her sister in the cast, in this appealing production, which marks the first appearance of these two clever little artists in the same picture.

Margaret is the exact antithesis of Mary so far as complexion and general coloring are concerned, the former being a pronounced brunette.

Little Mary had her chance on the stage before Margaret did, owing to a curious set of circumstances. They were looking for a child to appear in "Cameo Kirby" when it first went into rehearsal in New York, and Mrs. Shelby thought Margaret would be about right for the part.

When Margaret was introduced the stage manager thought her too large for the part. He was turning away when he caught sight of Mary.

Ten minutes later Lovely Mary was rehearsing with the company and since then she has been one of the foremost attractions on the American stage.

"Faith" is the child of a millionaire's daughter, who has married secretly and whose father, John Thorpe, insists that the child be sent to an orphanage for adoption by strangers. Mrs. Stimson, an old housekeeper in the Thorpe family, who knows the secret, follows the fluctuating fortunes of the little girl until she is approaching young womanhood, when she takes her into the home in which she was born, unknown either to Thorpe or the mother, as a domestic.

Laura is forced by her trouble to steal money from her father to hush up) blackmailers, and Faith is accused of the theft. Mark Strong, a lawyer of one time distinction, now a drink victim, volunteers to defend "Faith," in his investigations he learns of her true parentage, and in the splendid courtroom climax reveals it, restoring "Faith" to the arms of her mother.

Bertha Kalick in a Forceful Role at the Bijou

Mother love forms one of the chief themes in the master motion picture drama "Slander," recently released by William Fox, who presents in this film for the first time under his auspices the stage star Bertha Kalich. The ability of Mme. Kalich as an emotional actress already has placed her in the halls of dramatic fame.

As her character in the film story of "Slander," Mme. Kalich is ousted from her home and divorced from her husband through the injustice of that cowardly weapon the name of which is used as the play's title. She is forced to leave her two children, which parts are taken by the talented juvenile actor and actress, little Miss Jacqueline Morhange and Master Walter Ferguson.

The wronged wife after a long absence returns to see her children, although the courts gave the father their custody. She is discovered by her husband, which part is acted by T. Jerome Lawler. The latter returns to discover his divorced wife with the two children, and a scene follows which is a wonderful piece of acting on the part of the great star, her opposite and the two little ones.

Mme. Kalich in this picture play does acting which critics assert is even more wonderful than her stage triumphs. She is a great advocate of the motion picture, and doubtless feels before the camera an inspiration which is as great or greater than that "stage power" which actor folks feel before the footlights. Mme. Kalich knows that her work will be see "by millions as against thousands on the stage," as she expresses it. And she shows it in her acting—a power of pantomimic expression which reaches the very peak of dramatic expressive art. The international actress who has appeared on the stages of many countries is supported in Mr. Fox's latest film by a strong company, many of whom have noteworthy records.

Orpheum Program Promises Fine Bill for Next Week

Seven of the men who helped to make the late George Evans' Honey Boy Minstrels the standard of that form of entertainment, have gone into vaudeville, presenting a miniature minstrel show. The materials they use have been put through a condenser and only the cream retained, resulting in an act absolutely void of a dull second. "The Seven Honey Boys" will be one of the feature acts of next week's bill.

One of the standard teams of vaudeville in the field of light entertainment is Arthur McWatters and Grace Tyson. Mr. McWatters is a comedian of rare ability, while Miss Tyson is one of the best mimics on the stage today. In addition she is a comedienne of rare talent, possesses magnetism to a marked degree, and is good to look upon.

Alice Lyndon Doll will be seen with her company in "A Little Bit of Mirth and Song." The act is novel and pleasing and the young ladies of the company display a number of handsome gowns.

"La Graciosa" will appear in an electric-Thurston and orchestra of four native Hawaiians, is a beautiful and dramatic Hawaiian dance pantomime which introduces those haunting melodies and musical compositions that have swept like a torrent into the musical liking of the entire world in the past year or two.

Una Clayton, is both the authoress and the leading lady of "Collusion," a delightful drama in one act, which another of the feature acts for next week. As a comedienne, Miss Clayton has a way all her own of endearing herself to the hearts of the audience. Her methods are refreshingly new and her work is of a standard seldom found in vaudeville in tabloid drama.

"La Graciosa" will appear in a electric-scenic production, "Visions of Fairyland." It is a novel act, comprising a series of brilliant transformations. There are 14 visions each one surpassing the previous one in beauty and splendor.

Artie Mehlinger will offer his Musical Melange. His offering consists bi a delightful selection of songs supplemented by comedy talk. As a songster he has unusual powers of expression.

The Orpheum Travel Weekly will take us through the picturesque Caucasia and among the Eskimos of Siberia.

May Robson has Never Regre'ted Her Change

In private life, May Robson, who comes to the Grand next Thursday, Friday and Saturday in her new comedy, "The Making Over of Mrs. Matt," is Mrs. Brown, her husband being Dr. Augustus H. Brown, a physician of eminence in New York City, where the pair have a magnificent and decidedly artistic home. Miss Robson was born in Australia in the Murembidgee district, where her father, formerly an officer in the East Indian company, settled upon his retirement. When a young girl, Miss Robson was sent to Europe and received her education in Brussels and Paris. When her studies were completed, she first made china painting her vocation, and excelled in that art to a remarkable degree. She came to America with the ambition to establish herself as an artist, but shortly after her arrival an opportunity to adopt the stage as a profession presented itself. Miss Robson made her first apeparance before the footlights as "Tilly," in the "Hoop of Gold," produced by the Mallory's at the Madison Square theater. From there she went to the Lyceum theater under the management of Danil Frohman, and finally with Charles Frohman, whose direction she was under for many years. During that time she appeared in a long line of parts in the Frohman successes, that ranged in character from ingenue to grand dame. Miss Robson was the comedienne of the Empire Stock company and was cast for all the feminine eccentric parts. Possibly no other actress has been as willing to conceal a pleasing personality with grotesque wigs, ugly facial make-up and gowns that do not fit the actress. However, they may fit the part she assumes. But these sacrifices have had their advantages, as today Miss Robson stands as the premiere character actress of America.

AT THE ORPHEUM NEXT WEEK

Good Picture At the Allen for Tonight

Theodore Roberts, the screen's greatest character actor, will be seen for the last times today at the Allen, in the Lasky-Paramount production, "The American Consul," a stirring tale of politics and intrigue in a Latin-American Country.

Mr. Roberts always makes his characters distinctive, no matter what role he portrays, whether a Russian grand duke of a Bowery drunkard. His wonderful art of make-up always makes his part, no matter how insignificant, stand out clear and distinct.

In "The American Consul" Mr. Roberts is seen as a small town patriot who is called upon by a local politician to make a political address.

Feeling that his talk saved the entire nation from destruction, the patriot goes to the capital to answer his country's call, but his country does not call until a scheming senator, to get rid of him, has him appointed as the American coasul to a small South American republic.

The Lasky company has given Mr. Roberts an excellent supporting cast which includes Maude Fealy, Tom Forman, Raymond Hatton, Charles West, Ernest Joy and others. The production was made for the Lasky company by Rollin Sturgeon and is of unusual lavishness.

Concert at Allen Sunday Night

The following program will be given at the Allen tomorrow evening in aid of the Prisoners of War fund. The program has been selected to please those who are lovers of Irish music, and on account of its length patrons of these concerts are advised that this will commence promptly at 9 p.m.

1.—Grand March—The Prophet.
Allen Concert Orchestra
2.—Concert Waltz—The Shamrock
Allen Concert Orchestra
3.—Popular Airs—
(a) What do you want to make those eyes at me for.
(b) How's every little thing in Dixie?
Allen Concert Orchestra
4.—Vocal Solo—Selected—Madam Gardner
5.—Selection—Il Trovatore.
Allen Concert Orchestra
6.—Irish Ballads—(a) Killarney
(b) The Dear Little Shamrock
Allen Concert Orchestra
7.—Vocal Solo—Kathleen Mavoureen.
Miss M. S. Smart.
8.—Selection—The Bohemian Girl.
Allen Concert Orchestra
God Save the King

The Plaza is the place where so many banquets are held.

Lou Tellegen, the popular screen star, will be seen in "The Black Wolf," at the Allen next Wednesday and Thursday.

Mr. Tellegen's last appearance was with Miss Cleo Ridgley in "The Victory of Conscience," which scored such a decided success, but undoubtedly "The Black Wolf" is the best production that Mr. Tellegen has ever appeared in.

This stirring tale of "The Black Wolf," which is laid in Sunny Spain, is the greatest romance in which this romantic actor has portrayed. This production marks the actor's last appearance on the screen this season, as he will return to the stage for several months during the remainder of the theatrical season. During the course of this production, the star has an opportunity of giving an exhibition of his great swordsmanship, of which Mr. Tellegen is a master of this art, and in one of the big scenes, a desperate duel takes place. His opponent being an expert swordsman also, a vivid and realistic fight ensues, at many times it would appear that both would be severely wounded.

Others in the cast are James Neill, Paul Weigel and H. J. Herbert. The production was made for the Lasky company under the direction of Frank Reicher and abounds in lavish settings, full of action, beautiful exteriors and the unexcelled Lasky photography.

Special music by the Allen Paramount Concert Orchestra.

"The Black Wolf" At the Allen Wed.--Thurs.

PANTAGES

UNEQUALLED VAUDEVILLE

WEEK OF MARCH 19

THE PHUN PHIENDS

A Prescription of Mirth and Melody with Jack Hallan, Murray Harris and a Chorus of Pretty Girls.

The Marconi Brothers
"The Wireless Orchestra"

The Kimiwa Troupe
Japanese Marvels

Paul Decker & Co.
"The Twister"

KNICKERBOCKER QUARTETTE
Just Singers

PEARL OF THE ARMY

CHRIS. RICHARDS
The Funny English Comedian

PRINCESS

PHONE M1944
"Where Everybody Goes"

DON'T MISS
"THE PURPLE MASK"
Every Friday & Saturday
Miss Gert. Moody
—and—
The Princess Girls
3—Performances Daily—3

BIJOU

Mon. Tues. Wed.
Wm. Fox Presents
Bertha Kalick
(FOX) in (FOX)
"SLANDER"
A Story every woman should see, every man should study.

Thurs., Friday, Saturday
Henry Kolker
in
THE WARNING
The evils of drink accurately portrayed

ORPHEUM

The Best of Vaudeville

8:30—Next Mon., Tues. and Wed.—8:30
2:30—Matinees, Tues. and Wed.—2:30

Seven Original HONEY BOYS
All features of the late George Evans' Honey Boy Minstrels.

Presenting their "Revue of Revues"
Arthur McWATTERS and Grace TYSON

Alice Lyndon Doll and Co.
In a Bit of Music and Song

THE GARDEN OF ALOHA
Hawaiian Dance Pantomime, with Pauline Thurston, Leo Henning and Royal Hawaiians

LA GRACIESA
In an Electro-Scenic Production, "Visions of Fairyland"

Artie Mehlinger
In a Musical Melange

Unia Clayton and Her Players in "Illusion"

Travel Pictures — Orchestra
Orpheum's Popular Prices

...EVILLE

...LEN— Distinction

...MES TODAY

...e Roberts in ...rican Consul

LASKY PARAMOUNT FEATURE

...nd Tuesday

...les Minter

...me Little Star

—in—

...ITH"

...Faith in the World's Goodness

...Y—THURSDAY

...SKY PRESENTS

...ELLEGEN

...g Adventure Play

...CK WOLF"

...STIE COMEDY

...—SATURDAY

...ROSCO OFFERS

...E ULRICH

...ama of Racial Conflict, Entitled

...N PEOPLE"

...WAR GRAPHIC

...to ...edi- ...was ...ros- ...to ...que ...do ...fit ...ave ...son ...of

...ence," which scored such a decided success, but undoubtedly "The Black Wolf" is the best production that Mr. Tellegen has ever appeared in.

This stirring tale of "The Black Wolf," which is laid in Sunny Spain, is the greatest romance in which this romantic actor has portrayed. This production marks the actor's last appearance on the screen this season, as he will return to the stage for several months during the remainder of the theatrical season. During the course of this production, the star has an opportunity of giving an exhibition of his great swordsmanship, of which Mr. Tellegen is a master of this art, and in one of the big scenes, a desperate duel takes place. His opponent being an expert swordsman also, a vivid and realistic fight ensues, at many times it would appear that both would be severely wounded.

...S. Others in the cast are James Neill, Paul ...will Weigel and H. J. Herbert. The production ...llen was made for the Lasky company under the direction of Frank Reicher and abounds in lavish settings, full of action, beautiful exteriors and the unexcelled Lasky photography.

...with Special music by the Allen Paramount Con- ...asci- cert Orchestra.

...HEUM

...t of Vaudeville

..., Tues. and Wed.—8:30
... Tues. and Wed.—2:30

...S ...te ...oy

...is exciting their "Revue of Revues"

Arthur McWATTERS and Grace TYSON

...on Doll and Co.
...f Music and Song

...EN OF ALOHA
...me, with Pauline Thurston, Leo ...d Royal Hawaiians

...RACIESA
...oduction, "Visions of Fairyland"

...r Unia Clayton and Her Players in ...rusion"

Orchestra

...'s Popular Prices

WOMAN'S PAGE
Fads and Fancies

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. W. Lent spent last week in Edmonton.

• • •

Mrs. Hawkshaw entertained at tea at the Palliser on Thursday.

• • •

Mrs. Findlay and Miss Helen Findlay have returned from the east.

• • •

Mrs. J. A. Palmer has as her guest Mrs. Frank Brown, of Vancouver.

• • •

Mrs. J. A. Smith has as her guest Mrs. Herbert Scott, of Claresholm.

• • •

The Calgary Automobile club held a luncheon in the Plaza on Friday.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Christie are being congratulated on the birth of a son.

• • •

Miss Agnes Watters is confined to her home with an attack of rheumatism.

• • •

Miss Jennie Carmichael attended the Shriners' ball in Edmonton last week.

• • •

Mrs. A. F. Ritchie and little son are on an extended visit to Butte, Montana.

• • •

Miss Edith Morrison has gone to Vancouver and expects to be away about two months.

• • •

Mrs. A. W. Larmour is ill in the Holy Cross hospital, being operated on for appendicitis last week.

• • •

Mrs. Inverarity entertained the Tuesday bridge club last week, Mrs. Norman Lougheed winning the prize.

• • •

Mr. Sam Hart announces the engagement of his daughter, Miss Bertha Hart, to Mr. Sam Segall, of this city.

• • •

Mrs. McGillivray and Mrs. Atkinson have returned from Victoria, where they spent the past few months.

• • •

Mrs. H. R. Harris, of Elbow Park, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Drummond, in Edmonton, for some time, has returned home.

• • •

Mr. P. J. Parker, general manager of the Hudson's Bay company, entertained at tea on Monday, Lieut.-Col. Williams, Major and Mrs. Eaton and their entire party. Tea was served in the Elizabethan dining room, after which the guests were shown through the store.

• • •

A delightful little sketch was given by the ladies of S. Paul's Methodist church, Hillhurst, on Friday evening. The sketch was entitled "The Peabody Pew," and was given in old-time costume. Vocal numbers by Mr. Clipperton and selections from the Crescent Heights collegiate orchestra, added greatly to the program.

• • •

Miss Felton and Mrs. McCullough entertained on Wednesday evening complimentary to Miss Shearer, who leaves shortly for overseas nursing. The guests included Miss Prickett, Miss Swanson, all of whom are nurses accepted for overseas service; Mrs. Haag, Mrs. Robbins, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Jackson, Miss Branscombe and Mrs. M. Christie.

• • •

The marriage was solemnized at the Central Methodist parsonage Wednesday, March 14, of Miss Edo Lind Huguenin and Mr. Benjamin McKinnon by the Rev. S. W. Fallis. They were attended by Mrs. and Miss Shouldice, of Shouldice Park. On account of the recent death of Miss Huguenin's father the wedding was a very quiet one.

• • •

Both London and Ottawa are interested in the recent announcement of the engagement of Captain Kenyon-Slaney, Grenadier Guards, A.D.C. to the governor-general of Canada, only son of the late Colonel the Right Honorable W. S. Kenyon-Slaney and Lady Mabel Kenyon-Slaney, and Lady Mary Hamilton, eldest daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Abercorn.

• • •

Miss Lenna Anderson entertained a number of friends at her home, 1036 Ninth street east, on Wednesday evening. During the evening Mr. W. H. Robertson, who leaves shortly for Strathmore, was presented with a traveling case by some of his business associates. Those present were Misses Edythe and Muriel Towhey, of Medicine Hat; N. Gascoigne, M. Heagle, Mrs. Gunthorpe, Messrs. G. E. Healey, W. H. Robertson, A. Anderson, L. C. Watson, C. Kneeshaw, L. Anderson, B. Gunthorpe, G. Buckley, J. Brownlie and H. Heagle.

• • •

The girls of the Crescent Heights club met on Monday afternoon in the assembly hall for their regular semi-monthly meeting, followed by a bean supper. One of the girls read the "Echo." Mr. Clipperton gave several vocal selections and the club members gave several choruses.

Dr. Cringan, house surgeon of the general hospital, gave a particularly interesting address, impressing upon the students the necessity of passing their matriculation examinations and advised them to forego some of the every-day pleasures that they might fit themselves better for a successful and happy future.

• • •

St. Patrick's day is Irishmen's day the world over, and wherever two or three are banded together, whether on verdant Irish soil or on inhospitable foreign shores, they attune their hearts to the sprightly lilt of "St. Patrick's Day in the Morning," and in joy their minds flash back like sunbeams in showers to "suffering Ireland."

The very name Ireland stirs the deepest fountains of sympathy in all good natures. Who is there that has not shared the feelings of the poet when he wrote:

"The stranger shall hear the lament o'er his plains;
The sigh of the harp shall be sent o'er the deep,
Till the tyrants themselves as they rivet the chains Shall pause o'er the captives and silently weep."

The St. Patrick's concert on Monday, March 19, the advertisement of which appears elsewhere in this paper, has a very select and inspiring program. It will give the concert lovers of the city something novel in its typically Irish atmosphere of mingled joys and sorrows, of laughter and sighs, of sunbeams in showers.

United Ireland will be there. An Irish Catholic mayor will preside as chairman and an Irish Protestant orator will tell the story of Irish heroes in the present war. He will relate how the intrepid sons of Erin charged their country's foe with the gaiety and dash of true Irishmen. See them at Courcelette in their gallant charge on the German first line trenches, dribbling a football to the very parapet and their holding out their lit cigarets at arm's length to show by their steady hands that Irish nerves are strong.

This gem of oratory will be fittingly set by Irish artists in a splendid corona of Irish songs, dances and melodies. The old favorites of your childhood will be rendered by the new favorites of the concert hall, Mrs. Florence Blake Mahony, Miss Burns, Messrs. Horace Reynolds, J. R. Hall, the Misses Rankin, Sweet, McKinnon. The harp and violin will be a feature of the entertainment.

Events Past, Present, Future

His royal highness, the Duke of Connaught, Right Honorable David Lloyd George and other notables attended the dinner given by Sir George Perley in London last week, in honor of Sir Robert Borden.

• • •

By consent of her royal highness, the Princess Patricia, the convoy of a new army motor ambulance unit, the cost of which has been defrayed by the Salvation Army, has been named the Princess Patricia ambulance.

• • •

An enjoyable concert was given in Al Azhar temple on Monday night by Miss Jenny Taggart, prima donna soprano, and the Calgary Scottish choir.

Others contributing to the program were Dr. J. E. Hodgson, accompanist; Mr. Maurice Hunter, baritone; Miss Pearl Christie, elocutionist, and Mr. James Smart conducted the Scottish choir.

Every number of the program was well rendered and enjoyed by the large audience, and at the conclusion of the program a supper was served by the ladies of the choir in the dining room of the Al Azhar.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. A. Robinovity entertained on Thursday evening of last week for their daughter, Miss Rose Robinovitz, whose engagement to Mr. J. Greenberg was announced.

The house was prettily decorated for the occasion with carnations and greenery, the supper table centered with a basket of tulips.

During the evening Mr. G. Robinovitz entertained the guests with several piano selections.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. Bercuson, Mr. and Mrs. D. Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. M. Freed, Mr. and Mrs. M. Mamovitch, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Pepper, Miss P. Namovitch, Mr. J. Diamond, Mr. W. Robinovitz, Mr. and Mrs. A. Robinovitz, Miss Rose Robinovitz, Mr. J. Greenberg, Mr. G. Robinovitz and others.

• • •

The reception held by the provincial president and officers of the Women's Institutes on Wednesday evening in the Palliser hotel was largely attended, some hundred delegates and their friends being present. The guests were received in the ball room by the officers who included the president, Miss Noble, Mrs. Fleming, of Sedgewick, Mrs. McKenzie, of Nightingale, Mrs. Muldren, of Edmonton, Mrs. Montgomery, of Wetaskiwin, Mrs. Rogers, of Fort Saskatchewan, Mrs. Warren, of Milk River, Mrs. McIsaacs, the superintendent, and Miss McMrkin, Miss McDermid and Miss Hutchings, of Edmonton.

• • •

The Calgary Jewish Benevolent society held their first annual meeting in the club room on Wednesday. The secretary read the report for the year and the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. D. Cohen; vice-president, Mrs. Charles Bell; secretary, Mrs. H. Margolis; treasurer, Mrs. J. S. Barron; executive committee, Mrs. Goldstein, Mrs. Bercuson, Mrs. Wise, Mrs. Barron, Mrs. Wolf, Mrs. Rose, Mrs. Hart and Mrs. Mager.

• • •

Mrs. McGuire, 3227 Seventh street west, gave the nearest guess to the number of beans in the glass jar that was displayed at Hudson's Bay, and consequently secured the lovely hand-made five o'clock cloth.

The committee, consisting of Mrs. Scott, Miss Murdy and Miss Smith, superintendent of the general hospital; Mr. Mackay head druggist at the Bay, and Mr. La Rose, secretary of the general hospital, met at the Bay, and the beans were counted and there were found to be 5,353. Mrs. McGuire's guess was in the neighborhood of 5,250.

As a result of this effort, $87 has been raised by the Calgary Nurses' association for comforts for the men at the Military hospital.

The association wishes to express thanks to Mr. Parker for his kindness in allowing the contest to be held at Hudson's Bay.

• • •

An interesting event took place at Connaught school on Friday last at the commencement of the regular monthly meeting of the Mothers' club, when the sports trophies were presented to the winning teams of the school.

A pennant was presented by Dr. Kerby to the junior girls' basketball team.

A pennant from the school board to the "A" soccer team, was presented by Miss Foote.

A shield from Mr. J. T. Macdonald to the "D" soccer team, in his absence was presented by Mr. Davidson, and the Bayne shield was presented by Mr. Sharpe to the "D" hockey team. A shield was also presented to the "B" hockey team by Mr. Nimmo.

The Herald cup was presented to the Connaught football team by Mr. J. H. Woods.

After the presentation of trophies, shields and Herald cup to the winning teams of the school, Mr. Frank Stavert, of the Vacant Lots Garden club, addressed the Mothers' club and the children of the school on "The Child and the Garden."

Under present world conditions, with the high cost of living ever climbing upward, every man, woman and child is urged to become a producer and Mrs. Stavert sought to interest the boys and girls in cultivating garden plots, thus learning the fundamental principles of agriculture. "Nothing is so wonderful as the garden, through which boys and girls are brought into close relationship with God the Creator, making them God's partners."

Mrs. Stavert outlined the conditions of the Vacant Lots competition for which prizes will be offered, and assured the children of the club's co-operation, not only in giving them something to work for, but, in helping them to attain the larger object, the goal of success.

She hoped that an exclusive exhibit of children's garden products would occupy a large space in the Horticultural show this fall, and, in closing, appealed to the mothers, as broad-minded citizens, to assist this good movement which meets a definite need at this critical stage of Canadian life.

The Red Cross circle reported 154 articles made during the month, and knitting circle, 20 pairs of socks.

The prisoners of war fund contributed by the pupils and mothers, amounted to $45.69.

Thirty dollars of the proceeds of the recent sale of home-cooking, etc., was voted to the Red Cross fund.

A committee, consisting of Mrs. Fairn, Mrs. Henderson and Mrs. Lewis was appointed to gather information about playground apparatus for the school grounds and report at the next meeting. The president, Mrs. J. H. Cannon, presided.

Calgarians Enjoy Fashion Treat

Hudson's Bay Spring Opening Delights Feminine World

Calgary's feminine world was in a state of suppressed excitement the early part of the week in anticipation of the fashion event of the season, the "Hudson's Bay spring opening," and realization certainly proved better than anticipation, for never in the history of Calgary has there been such a showing of beautiful models.

One gains an idea of the wonders inside the store from the attractive window displays, groups of awe-stricken demoiselles are seen continually before the windows casting yearning glances at the lovely gowns, dear little French model hats and the other accessories that go to complete a spring outfit. Baskets of fresh cut flowers, tulips, roses and carnations add greatly to the attractiveness of the windows.

On entering the store one is struck by the holiday appearance, the newest and most attractive goods are wonderfully displayed to give the guests the best possible chance of admiring the newest in dress goods, silks, sport goods, collars and novelties. A profusion of greenery, palms and flowers makes one feel almost like being in fairyland.

But the floor most dear to the feminine heart is the second floor, which is exclusively a ladies' salon; here are displayed wonder creations by Premet, Paquin and Bernard; these suits are in beautiful new shades such as Kelly green, American rose, shadow-lawn green, old gold, Chartreuse, silver grey, minuet and tapestry blue.

One has almost decided on a suit being "just what she wants" when a bevy of loveliness meets the eye. This is a display of beautiful gowns including French models by Collot, Georgette, Drecoll, Doucet and Jenny, some of the models favor the Russian blouse, the quaint lines of the Moyen age, and dainty draped and pompadour styles, introducing the peg-top pockets; the favorite material used is Georgette in combination with taffeta, crepe-de-chine, or Roman satin. Silver and gold embroidery figures largely as trimmings; also a silk soutache or stitching of contrasting colors is very popular.

After the whirl of exciting inspection is over the selections rendered by the orchestra are a pleasing interlude, and the tired but happy throng finish off a delightful afternoon with a dainty little tea served in true "Hudson's Bay" style.

Cabaret Garden Changes Name

Announcement is made this week that the well known pleasure palace of Calgary, the Cabaret Garden, has changed its name. It will hereafter be called The Plaza.

This change was made, after the management had received many requests to do so. It seemed as though the public wished to eliminate the word "Cabaret" from the place, owing to the many uncomplimentary remarks which have been made about this line of business during the past few months.

To change the name to "The Plaza" will no doubt meet the approval of all. The changing of the name, however, will have nothing to do with changing the usual line of entertainment, which will continue just the same.

It would be very hard to improve the line of music and singing which is rendered every night by the Morgan Brothers' quartette. These men have given universal satisfaction ever since they arrived here from Chicago, and it is hoped that the management will be able to retain them for an indefinite period.

The Plaza has become a very popular place for banquets, as many as four being held there in a single day. No doubt people wishing banquets in the future will like to say that they are holding their function at "The Plaza," instead of the Cabaret, for while nothing has yet ever been proven against any cabaret, as far as their being an immoral place of amusement, it will, however, sound much better to some few people.

THE NEAR SKIN SHOE

It Looks Like Leather, Smells Like Rubber and Sells for $4

"Have you seen the near skin shoe—our latest laboratory product?" asked the boot and shoe expert.

The boot that he set down on the table seemed to be made of calfskin. It would certainly pass for an ordinary black calf boot if displayed in any shop window. Perhaps not one person in one hundred thousand or even one million would have discovered its true identity without an exceedingly careful inspection.

"There isn't a bit of leather in it," said this unfolder of mysteries, "and I'll bet you can't tell the difference."

He enjoyed my astonishment for a moment and then he said: "Smell it."

I put the seeming box calf toe to my discerning nose and inhaled. Ah! There was rubber in it! At least it had the smell of a rubber factory around it. It might perhaps have come from some tire works or garden hose plant.

"Here is the story," the boot and shoe philosopher went on. "There you have a near skin or leatherette shoe. You can call it what you please. It is a laboratory masterpiece. The vamp and top are made of imitation leather, a rubberized product with a fabric base. Sole and heel are composed of what they call fiber, and this fiber is a mystery and masterpiece all by itself. The box toe counter is made of the same material. You will find felt welting and inner sole, imitation leather back and lace stays and top facing.

"That's the whole story, and that is what one part of the world is coming to as regards boots and shoes."

This laboratory shoe is made in Brockton, Mass., which also happens to be one of the chief sources of the old-fashioned leather boot and shoe supply. The near skin boot is not yet on the market, but they say that another "near" boot of some kind has been sent to the market tentatively from a Boston factory. The Brockton boot would retail for probably $4 to $4.50 in the states.

The Plaza music is different from any other you have ever heard.

The death of the Duchess of Connaught which came over the wire the first of the week, was a sad blow to many Calgarians and especially so to those who were fortunate enough to be numbered among her acquaintances.

Lady Lougheed, who has had the honor of entertaining her ladyship many times while visiting in Calgary, was particularly grieved over the announcement.

After a show at the Grand, you then go downstairs to The Plaza.

What the Press Says of Miss Kalich

In offering Bertha Kalich in her first great motion picture drama William Fox feels confident of the unusual merit of the star, an opinion on which agree America's leading critics. Country-wide comment favors this great Jewish artist who by hard work and sheer genius has risen to the foremost among stage folk. Mme. Kalich is appearing in the motion picture drama "Slander," which recently has been released to public view. Here are only a few of the good things which the press says about this great artist:

Has Earned Reputation

"Madame Kalich has earned the reputation of being an earnest and serious artist."—New York Herald.

Perfect Technique

"Such perfect technique as hers, combined with such emotional abandon, is rare."—New York Morning Telegraph.

Touches the Heartstrings

"Bertha Kalich is the sort of actress that captivates and touches the heartstrings in melodramatic roles without overdoing it."—San Francisco Call-Post.

Spells Art with Big A

"Kalich spells art with a big A in all her work."—The Chicago Examiner.

The Most Colorful

"The most vivid and colorful actress."—Winnipeg Free Press.

Easy to Understand Success

"You have no difficulty in understanding how an obscure actress in an East Side Yiddish theater in New York became an instant success when she accepted a broader opportunity."—Kansas City Journal.

All Her Work Memorable

"Madame Kalich's dramatic handling makes all of her work memorable."—Chicago Tribune.

Is Greatest Tragedienne

"Only praise for Kalich, our greatest tragedienne."—Chicago Herald.

She Has "Speaking Eyes."

"Her mobile countenance and speaking eyes and her exotic beauty all contribute to the effect."—Philadelphia Press.

Displays Every Emotion

"Kalich displays every emotion."—Los Angeles Examiner.

Greatest Pantomimist

"A role that will be long remembered in the minds of the public as one of the greatest demonstrations of pantomimic art ever recorded on the screen."—Newark Evening Star.

Great on Screen or Stage

"Kalich is one of our few real tragediennes whether the medium is screen or stage."—Minneapolis News.

Adds Glory by Screen Work

"Madame Kalich's acting before the screen adds more glory to her already wonderful reputation as an emotional actress."—San Antonio Light.

Only Praise

"Of Miss Kalich's work there can be said only that which is praise."—Des Moines Register-Leader.

A Real Improvement

The Sitting Position You Occupy When Sewing is a Very Important Matter

Your work is directly in front of you THE "WHITE" SIT-STRATE is only one of the many Real Improvements offered in the "WHITE"

You Can Have Yours Now, Just—

PAY $1.00 EACH WEEK—SOON PAID FOR

Sold by THE NEILSON FURNITURE CO., Calgary

McDonald School of Dancing and Physical Training

Several private classes have already begun. Persons wishing to form their own club Phone W4870 for appointment.

Children's classes Saturdays at 10.30 a.m., and 2 p.m.

Academy may be rented for dances or entertainments of exclusive order.

914 12TH AVE. W.

St. Patrick's Concert

To be given at

Al Azhar Temple, Monday Ev'g, March 19

A Feast of Song and Story

PROGRAM

1.—Trio—Irish Airs ..... Moore
Violin, Miss Mae Rankin; 'Cello, Miss Freda Sweet Pianoforte, Mary McKinnon

2.—Song—"Killarney" ..... Moore
Miss Zeta Burns

3.—Song—"Father O'Flynn" ..... Moore
Mr. Horace Reynolds

4.—Harp and Violin—
(a) "Believe Me, Of All Those Endearing Young Charms"
(b) "The Last Rose of Summer." ..... Moore
Miss Gillis and Mr. Tardy

5.—Song—"Rich and Rare Were the Gems She Wore." —Moore
Mrs. Florence Blake Mahony

6.—Song—"Three Leaves of Shamrock That Are Calling Me Home."
Mr. J. R. Hall

7.—Oration—"Irish Hopes in Irish Heroes."
Mr. T. M. Tweedie, M.L.A.

8.—Part Song—"Dear Little Shamrock" ..... Cherry
(b) "Comrades" ..... Adams

9.—Pianoforte Solo—Impromptu in F Sharp, Op. 36 ..... Chopin Miss Marguerite Hachette, L.A.B.

10—Duet—"The Moon Has Raised Its Lamp Above" (from the Lily of Killarney) ..... Jules Benedi
Mrs. Florence Blake Mahony and J. R. Hall

11.—Dance—Irish Jig.
Miss Marie McDonald

12.—Song—"St. Patrick Was a Gentleman."
Mr. Horace Reynolds

13.—Trio—Popular Airs.
Accompanist, Miss Marguerite Hachette.

Plan of hall and tickets for sale, 75c, 50c and 25c, at Heintzmann & Co., 322 Eighth Ave. W.

Knabe Concert Grand Pianoforte used (Willis Piano Co. sole distributors for Canada; Calgary showrooms, 325 8th Avenue W.)

Nowhere in Calgary Can Be Seen Such

EXCLUSIVE STYLES

IN LADIES' HATS

As We Are Showing.

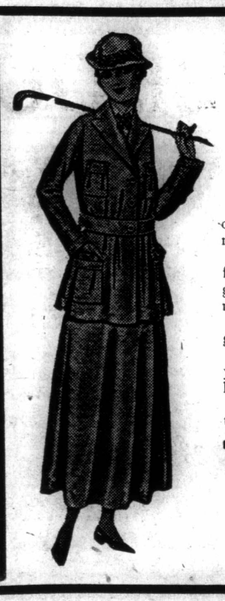
Our advanced style in Paris and New York models for Spring are now on exhibit in our show room.

Make Your Selections Early

Our prices are extremely moderate.

In our Fur Department we are making special reductions. All Furs are of the Highest Quality.

Bring your Furs now to be remodeled, also we take care of the dressing of the Raw Furs and make them up to your order.



Advanced Style for 1917 from New York are now in.

Expert Designing and First Class Workmanship Guaranteed

W. W. BELL

Calgary's Leading Manufacturing Furrier and Ladies' Hatter

237 Seventh Ave. W. and 706 2nd St. W.

Ladies' Spring SUITS

No Matter What Style We Have It

Our Suits are made to your order and hand tailored to your measure by experts.

We ask you to inspect our offerings in all the Spring shades, greys, tweeds, checks and fancy materials.

We specialize in our dyes—guaranteeing every dyed article.

All our work is guaranteed and you will find our prices are the lowest.

We ask out-of-town customers to send in for samples and prices.

The La Mode Ladies' Tailoring

H. SILVER, PROP.
1211 First St. W. Phone M6170

Empire Winter Gardens

In Conjunction with the Empire Hotel

Open Monday, Wednesday and Saturday

Dancing 9.30 p.m. to 1 a.m.

The Grand Theatre Orchestra W. H. Davies Director.

1,800 Square Feet of Maple Dance Floor.

Admission 50c. Inclusive of Choice of Six Club House Refreshments

ENTRANCE OFF CAFE

W. J. Stokes Proprietor. E. B. Stokes Manager.

FARMING AND MARKETS

Results of the Third Alberta Trap-Nest Egg-Laying Competition

Third egg laying contest held under the supervision of the Provincial Department of Agriculture at the Poultry Plant, University Grounds, South Edmonton, Alta., from Nov. 15th, 1916, to Oct. 14th, 1917.

TOTAL EGGS LAID FROM NOV. 15TH to FEB. 14TH

Pen	Owner	Breed	Eggs in Month	Total Eggs
18	A. R. Gillies, Clover Bar, Alta.	White 'Dottes	37	141
19	L. F. Solly, Westholme, B.C.	White 'Dottes	33	111
13	C. C. Ewing, Lacombe, Alta.	White 'Dottes	23	102
6	Regan Bros., 10726 78th Ave., S. Edmonton	Buff Orps.	10	95
21	J. E. Swanson, West Edmonton, Alta.	White 'Dottes	49	92
11	C. C. Ewing, Lacombe, Alta.	Buff Orps.	24	90
22	A. R. Gillies, Clover Bar, Alta.	Barred Rocks	18	74
17	Robt. Henderson, 1649 2nd Ave. S.W., Calgary	White 'Dottes	19	69
2	Nels Linden, Wetaskiwin, Alta.	Brown Leghorns	14	40
12	D. Gibbard, Mission City, B.C.	Barred Rocks	19	27
15	H. A. Clute, 63rd Ave., S. Edmonton	White 'Dottes	17	24
4	G. C. Rogerson, 1042 8th St. E., Calgary	S. C. R. I. Reds	20	21
20	J. C. Longmore, 11325 85th St., Edmonton	White 'Dottes	11	20
3	John Tough, Dewberry, Alta.	White Leghorns	12	15
16	Reid & Greenwood, Box 928, Victoria B.C.	S. C. R. I. Reds	13	15
10	C. J. Wyatt, Diamond City, Alta.	White 'Dottes	9	9
7	E. S. Farren, 528 7th Ave. E., Calgary	White 'Dottes	7	7
1	Finn & Storrar, 2216 26a St. S.W., Calgary	White Leghorns	3	3
14	C. W. Robbins, Chilliwack, B.C.	Buff Orps	2	2
5	E. F. Twitchell, 12420 109th Ave., Edmonton	White Rocks	0	0
8	D. P. Woodruff, Magrath, Alta.	White Cornish	0	0
9	J. J. Skalitzky, Viking, Alta.	Barred Rocks	0	0

Six birds to a pen.

Summary.—Total number of eggs laid during month, 350, including 10 laid on the drop-board. Total eggs to date 975. Total laid on drop-board since competition commenced, 20.

Eight pens that had not previously laid commenced laying during the month. A general changing of positions of pens previously laying may be noted. Pen No. 18 still leads with 141 eggs with Pen 19 now taking second place with 111 eggs.

Highest pen record for the month is 49 eggs, laid by Pen 21.

Highest individual record for month is 21 eggs laid by hen 119 in Pen 21.

The highest individual records to date are as follows:

Hen No. 105 in Pen 19 with 41 eggs — Hen No. 121 in Pen 22 with 39 eggs
Hen No. 34 in Pen 18 with 37 eggs — Hen No. 119 in Pen 21 with 35 eggs
Hen No. 99 in Pen 17 with 33 eggs — Hen No. 30 in Pen 18 with 31 eggs

The result of the month may be considered very satisfactory as weather conditions were very severe during a considerable portion of the time, on one occasion the thermometer registering 52 degrees below zero.

J. SHACKLETON, Manager of Poultry Plant
A. W. FOLEY, Poultry Superintendent

White Whale in Big Demand

Ben Nygren, who, with his partner, Sam Torkolson, is making a success of the white whale industry at Cape Nome, says that white whales have been plentiful this season.

At the white whale plant at Cape Nome no part of the animal is wasted. Hides, flesh, oil and bones are all utilized. The hides bring a good price and are made into the strongest kind of leather. After the oil is extracted the meat is dried and sold for dog meat.

The oil of the white whale is said to excel the oil of any fish. Some of the local product is so clear and transparent that one can look through it and easily read a paper held on the other side. It sells in England at the remarkable price of $500 a barrel. One single fleet carrying the products of the Norwegian white whale industry recently sold its cargo for more than 26 million dollars.

SASKATCHEWAN WHEAT CROP

The latest Saskatchewan official government announcement estimates the total wheat crop of that province for 1916 as 126,857,760 bushels. Oats is given as 146,468,585 bushels. Earlier estimates by Dominion authorities placed the Dominion crop at 150,000,000 bushels.

WINNIPEG LETTER

(Thompson, Sons, & Company)

Owing to high prices for wheat and flour, and the congestion in railway transportation in the United States in the last three months, the invisible supply n the hands of millers and dealers must naturally be also much under the average for the time of year. From these figures it may be suggested that the United States government estimate of last year's wheat production was too large by several millions of bushels. In Canada the visible supply decreased last week 1,385,250 bushels against an increase of 426,203 bushels a year ago, and the total is now 39,575,032 bushels against 36,243,500 bushels a year ago. In comparing the world's shipments of wheat and flour from exporting to importing countries, a great contrast s found between the quantities this year and last year. In the last six weeks world's shipments have been 51,723,000 bushels against 77,875,000 bushels in same period last year, or 26,152,000 bushels less this year than last year. A very great reduction in the consumption of wheat needs to be going on in Europe in order to stand such a great reduction of supplies in comfort. And it looks as if this ratio would continue for some time, because it is evident that the main supply for Europe is going to depend on North America. A good deal has been written from time to time about Britain obtaining large supplies from Australia, but in the last five weeks the exports of wheat from Australia do not average over 700,000 bushels per week. Australia has plenty of wheat no doubt, but it is a long voyage from Australia to England and vessels are scarce.

In our Winnipeg market there has been a healthy demand for all the cash wheat offering, and a large business in future deliveries has also been done. Under the influence of favorable weather the movement from the country has increased considerably, even in spite of the congested condition of transportation which still prevails, but the receipts are far short of what they were a year ago. A regrettable feature in the receipts at present is the abnormal quantity in poor condition owing to too much moisture. Practically 50 per cent of the cars inspect "No grade." This is because the grain is tough or damp. In the case of wheat, yesterday's inspections had 362 no grade cars out of a total of 702 cars. The no grade takes in all grades not in dry warehousing condition. Thus, there is no grade 1 northern or no grade 2 northern and so on through all the grades down to Feed. Coming on to springtime no grade grain has to be dried in order that it may not spoil, but after being dried 1 and 2 northern or dried 2 northern, or go as straight 3 northern at the option of the owner. All grades under 2 northern when dried are allowed to go out as straight.

There are large facilities at Fort William and Port Arthur for drying tough or damp grain. On the decline in prices yesterday one or two of the large milling companies were big buyers of May wheat, as also was one of the leading exporters, and millers and exporters were also good buyers today. Very little is heard at present of government buying. Today's prices are 1 Nor. 185½, 2 Nor. 182¾, 3 Nor. 176¾, No. 4 165¾, No. 5 147¾, No. 6 115¾, Feed not quoted. Futures, May 184¾, July 182¾, October 147¾.

Oats—There continues to be a good demand for oats, but in sympathy with wheat prices are 1½c lower on the week. Today's prices are 2 C.W. 61½, 3 C.W. 59¾, Extra 1 Feed 59½c, 2 Feed 57½c. Futures, May 61⅞c, July 61¾c.

Barley is in good demand at 1c to 3c higher than last week. No. 3 105c, No. 4 101c. Rejected and feed 87c. May 106c.

Flax continued to advance but fell back on the decline in wheat yesterday and closed today 2c to 3c under last week. No. 1 N.W. 261c, 2 C.W. 257½c, 3 C.W. and Rejected 241c. May 265c, July 267¾c.

All prices quoted above are based on delivery in store Fort William and Port Arthur.

GRAIN PRICES

	Thurs	Year ago
Spring wheat—
No. 1 northern	181⅛	156⅜
No. 2 northern	172⅞	147⅝
No. 3 northern	179⅞	147⅝
No. 4	161⅜	132⅜
No. 5	143⅞	104½
No. 6	111⅜	77⅝
Feed	92¾	71½
Barley—
3 barley	104	86
4 barley	100	75
Oats—
2 Canada west	60¾	50⅜
3 Canada west	58¾	47⅜
Ex. 1 feed	58¾	47⅜
No. 1 feed	57¾	45⅜
No. 2 feed	56¾	44⅜

WINNIPEG OPTIONS

Wheat—	Open	Close
May	180½	183⅜
July	177¾	180⅜
October	147½	148¾
Oats—
May	60¾	61¾
July	60¾	61¼
Barley—
May	—	107
Flax—
May	264	265¾
July	266¾	267

Calgary Public Market

RETAIL PRICES

Fruit

Apples	$1.00 to $3.25 per case
Apples	$1.00 to $2.25 per case
Dates	15c per lb.
Figs	20c per lb.
Grape Fruit	7½ to 10c each
Bananas	20c to 30c per doz
Oranges	15c to 40c per doz
Lemons	20c to 25c per doz.

Vegetables

Beets	6 lbs. for 25c
Cabbage	4 lbs. for 25c
Cabbage, red	4 lbs. for 25c
Carrots	14 lbs. for 25c
Cauliflower	20c to 25c each
Cucumbers	25c each
Lettuce, head	2 heads for 25c
Lettuce, bunch	1 bunch for 5c
Onions, green,	per bunch 5c
Onions, cooking	4½ lbs for 25c
Parsnips	6 lbs. for 25c
Parsley	1 bunch for 5c
Potatoes	$1.30 to $1.40 per bus.
Radishes, green	1 bunch for 5c
Radishes, black Spanish	6c per lb.
Turnips	13 lbs. for 25c

Poultry—Dressed

Chicken	23c to 28c per lb.
Chicken	18c to 20c per lb.

Poultry—Live

Chicken	17c to 18c per lb
Fowl	17c to 18c per lb.

Produce

Butter creamery	45c to 48c per lb.
Butter, dairy No. 1	38c to 40c per lb.
Butter, dairy No. 2	30c to 35c per lb.
Eggs, new laid	45c per doz.
Eggs, No: 2	35c to 40c per doz.

Meats

	Per lb.
Beef, boiling	10c to 12½c
Pot roast	12½ to 15c
Rib roast	16c to 20c
Sirloin roast	22c to 23c
Round steaks	18c to 20c
Porterhouse steaks	22c to 25c
Mutton, sides	22c
Front quarters	20c
Hind quarters	24c to 25c
Chops	25c to 28c
Stew	12½c to 15c
Veal, stew	12½c to 15c
Shoulder roast	16c to 18c
Steaks	25c to 28c
Pork, sides	19c to 20c
Roast, shoulder	20c to 22c
Hind quarters	20c to 22c
Spare ribs	15c

Fresh Fish

Herring	12½c
Pike	10c
Whitefish	12½c

Sundries

Dripping	15c
Head Cheese	15c
Sausage	12½c to 15c

WHOLESALE PRICES

All farm killed meats must be accompanied by the viscera, viz. heart, liver and lungs.

Meats

	Per lb.
Beef, No. 1 steer, hind quarters	14c to 15c
Front quarters	10c to 11¾c
Cow, hind quarters	11c to 12½c
Front quarters	8c to 9c
Pork, lightweight	18c to 18½c
Mutton, ewes	19c to 20c
Wethers	20c to 21c
Veal, No. 1 light	15c to 17c
Heavy	13c to 15c

Produce

Butter, creamery	42c to 44c
Dairy No. 1	33c to 35c
Dairy No. 2	30c to 32c
Eggs, new laid	$12.50 per case

Poultry, Dressed

Chicken	22c to 25c
Fowl	18c to 20c

Poultry, Live

Chicken	18c to 20c
Fowl	18c to 19c

Vegetables

Beets	$2.50 per cwt.
Cabbage	$5.25 per cwt.
Carrots	$2.00 per cwt.
Onions	$5.00 per cwt.
Parsnips	$2.75 per cwt.
Potatoes	$35.00 per ton
Turnips	$1.00 per cwt.

LIVESTOCK

(By D. H. MacIntosh & Co.)

PRICES WERE GOOD AT THE STOCK YARDS

Steers—
Choice heavy 1100 up	$8.75 to $9.00
Common butcher	7.50 to 8.25
Choice killers	7.00 to 7.50
Choice feeders	7.00 to 7.25
Heifers—
Choice heavy	8.00
Common	7.00 to 7.25
Cows—
Choice heavy	7.00 to 7.50
Common butchers	6.00 to 6.50
Thin canners	2.00 to 3.50
Bulls—Choice butcher	5.25 to 5.85
Common	4.00 to 5.00
Oxen—
Choice	6.00 to 6.50
Common	5.00 to 5.50
Calves—Light	9.00
Sheep—
Wethers	11.50
Ewes	10.50 to 11.00
Lambs	12.00
Hogs—
Selects, off cars	14.75
Fed and watered	14.50

WINNIPEG LIVESTOCK

Winnipeg, March 15.—Union stockyards' receipts are 550 cattle and 2,260 sheep. Cattle market steady for butcher cattle; strong for stockers. Hogs dropped 25c a hundred on a heavy run of selects down to $14.50.

Butcher heifers: Choice to good, $6.75 to $7.50; common to medium, $5.25 to $7.00.

Butcher cows: Choice to good, $7.50 to $8.50; common to medium, $5.50 to $6.30.

Bulls: Good to common, $4.50 to $8.00; oxen, good to common, $5.75 to $7.50.

Feeders: Steers, choice to good, $6.25 to $6.85.

Stockers, steers and heifers: Choice to good, $7.00 to $7.50; common to medium, $5.75 to $6.75; choice to good heifers, $7.75 to $8.50; common to medium, $5.75 to $6.50.

Sheep and lambs: Choce yearling lambs, $10.50 to $11.50; common to medium, $7.50 to $9.25; heavy sheep, $8.25 to $8.75; light sheep, $6.50 to $7.00.

Hogs: Select, $14.25 to $14.50; heavies, $10.00 to $10.50; sows, $8.00; light hogs, $11.00 to $12.50.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Chicago, March 15.—Hog receipts, 33,000; market weak. Bulk, $14.50 to $14.70; light, $14.00 to $14.65; mixed, $14.20 to $14.75; heavy, $14.20 to $14.80; rough, $14.20 to $14.35; pigs, $10.75 to $13.60.

Cattle receipts, 12,000; strong. Native beef cattle, $9.00 to $12.65; stockers and feeders, $6.80 to $9.75; cows and heifers, $5.80 to $10.75; calves, $9.75 to $13.50.

Sheep receipts, 12,000; firm. Wethers, $10.90 to $12.35; ewes, $8.75 to $12.10; lambs, $12.25 to $14.75.

BANK CLEARINGS

	Week ending Mar. 15, 1917	Corr. week last year
Montreal	$70,775,556	$56,797,773
Toronto	50,840,452	40,298,328
Winnipeg	37,496,810	24,578,412
Vancouver	6,400,889	5,321,819
Ottawa	4,447,102	3,829,080
Calgary	5,703,857	3,283,724
Hamilton	.....	3,007,106
Quebec	3,882,728	3,093,167
Edmonton	2,413,831	1,780,975
Halifax	2,776,371	2,009,010
London	2,090,890	1,683,598
Regina	2,402,520	1,540,416
St. John	2,057,324	1,543,750
Saskatoon	1,458,211	964,417
Moose Jaw	967,209	851,740
Brandon	456,843	430,584
Fort William	371,868	326,425
Lethbridge	657,073	426,861
Medicine Hat	572,867	353,513
N. Westminster	215,330	207,733

NEW YORK STOCKS

	Open	Close
Atchison	101¾	102
B. R. T.	67⅜	67
Baltimore and Ohio	76	75⅝
Canadian Pacific	153¾	153⅞
Soo	—	110⅜
Erie	26¾	26½
Great Northern, pfd.	112¾	112¾
Northern Pacific	102¾	103¼
Kansas City Southern	21½	22
M. K. and T.	8	8⅝
Missouri Pacific	—	11
New York Central	94½	94¼
New Haven	43⅛	43½
Pennsylvania	53⅜	53⅞
Rock Island	—	36¾
Reading	92¾	94¼
Lehigh Valley	67	67
Southern Ry.	27½	27½
C. M. and St. Paul	80⅜	81⅛
Southern Pacific	93¾	94⅛
Union Pacific	138	135¾
Anaconda	83⅛	83⅜
Ken Copper	44¾	45
Inspiration	60⅞	60½
Miami Copper	40⅜	40¾
Ray Consol	28½	28⅞
Utah Copper	112	113⅜
American Beet Sugar	92¼	91¾
American Sugar	112½	112½
American Canners	46½	46¼
American Smelters	104	104⅞
National Lead	—	55
Colorado F. and I.	47	47½
Great Northern Ore	35	34⅝
Mexican Petrol	87¼	88
American Locomotive	70¾	70½
Baldwin Locomotive	—	52⅞
Westinghouse	50¾	52
Allis-Chalmers	—	26¾
Studebaker	—	102⅛
Goodrich	—	56¼
U. S. Rubber	59⅜	59¾
Bethlehem Steel	—	132½
Crucible Steel	65	65⅜
Rep. Iron and Steel	79⅛	79½
Sloss-Sheffield	—	63½
U. S. Steel	110½	110½
U. S. Steel, pfd.	117⅜	117½
United Cigars	101⅞	100¾
Virginia Chemical	—	40½

High Class American Dentistry

Expression 20th Century Plates that Fit

Cute-Rate Prices. 10-Year Guarantee.
The Greatest Scientific Painless Methods Used.
Office Hours: 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Daily; 7 to 9 p.m. Evenings
Thousands of Pleased Patients
Gold Crowns and Bridge Work a Specialty
DR. P. C. BRUNER | DR. W. B. REEVE
Graduates from Chicago, Detroit and Philadelphia Colleges
Phone M1051
Calgary Office: Eighth Avenue East, Next to Allen Theatre
Edmonton Office: Crystall Block, Jasper Avenue

S. BERING
OPTOMETRIST AND OPTICIAN
180 Eighth Avenue East
CALGARY

TAILORED CLOTHES TO MEASURE UNIFORM SPECIALIST
A.S. Nimmo
ALBERTA CORNER, 1st ST. WEST, CALGARY.

A GENUINE FARMER'S MARKET

A Public Market owned and operated by the City of Calgary in the interests of the producer and consumer.

Farmers living at a distance and unable to attend the Market in person can forward their produce direct to the Superintendent and have same sold through a bonded agent with prompt returns.

For further particulars phone or write
SUPERINTENDENT,
Calgary Public Market

Potatoes Wanted
CAR LOTS OR LESS
Must Be Good Sized, Sound, White Stock
KENNETH R. SIMPSON & CO.
435-437 Tenth Ave. East
Phone M1232 Calgary, Alta.

THE C.P.R. GIVES YOU TWENTY YEARS TO PAY

An immense area of the most fertile land in Western Canada for sale at low prices and easy terms ranging from $11 to $30 for farm lands with ample rainfall—irrigated lands up to $50. One-tenth down, balance if you wish within twenty years. In certain areas, land for sale without settlement conditions. In irrigation districts, loan for farm buildings, etc. up to $2000, also repayable in twenty years.—interest only 6 per cent. Here is your opportunity to increase your farm holdings by getting adjoining land, or to secure your friends as neighbors. For literature and particulars apply to Allan Cameron, General Superintendent of Lands, Department of Natural Resources, 925 First Street East, Calgary, Alta.

A. LAYZELL
AUCTIONEER
Livestock Commission Agent. Office: M2260
Auctions Every Tuesday and Friday
We Specialize in Horses
When you have Horses or Cattle to sell, drop us a line and we will buy your stock or sell on commission.
Layzell's Horse Repository
R. THOMPSON, Mgr. RIVERSIDE

A House Without Music IS ONLY A HOUSE--
BUT A HOUSE WITH MUSIC IS A HOME

These are the Big Sellers of the Day, and we have them in both Sheet Music and Records.

Records are 70c each, and Songs as quoted below. Latest Catalogue on request.

Ireland Must Be Heaven	15c
There's a Little Bit of Bad in Every Little Girl	15c
Little Bit of Heaven	30c
In An Old-Fashioned Town	30c
Till the Boys Come Home	30c
We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall	30c
My Mother's Rosary	30c
Love's Old Sweet Song	30c
It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary	20c
The Sunshine of Your Smile	30c
Mother—Little House Upon the Hill	25c
Tip-Top Tipperary Mary	25c
Somewhere a Voice is Calling	30c
A Perfect Day	30c
One Fleeting Hour	40c
I Want to Go to Michigan	25c
Back Home in Tennessee	25c
The Rosary	30c
When I Dream of Old Erin	25c
Peg o' My Heart	25c
I'll Be a Long, Long Way from Home	25c
The Road to Yesterday	25c
Turn Back the Universe	30c
Goodbye, Good Luck, God Bless You	30c
The Best Old Flag of All	15c
Tulip Time in Holland	25c
In the Garden of My Heart	30c
I Didn't Raise My Boy to Be a Soldier	25c
Every Soldier Has a Sweetheart	25c
Back in the Old Town Tonight	25c
Crossing the Bar	25c
Chinese Love Song	30c
O, Canada	25c
Chinatown, My Chinatown	25c
Hearts of Oak	30c
It Takes a Little Rain with the Sunshine	25c
In the Valley of the Moon	25c
Laddie in Khaki	30c
When Irish Eyes Are Smiling	30c
Where the River Shanon Flows	30c
By the Old Wishing Well	25c
When the Boys Come Home	30c
Poor Butterfly	40c
Oh, Johnnie	30c
Why Did You Make Those Eyes?	30c
Memories	25c
Mother Machree	30c
Daughter of Mother Machree	30c
Little Grey Home in the West	30c
There's a Long, Long Trail	40c
Killarney and You	25c
When You Wore a Tulip and I Wore a Rose	25c
There's a Little Spark of Love Still Burning	25c
That's the Song of Songs for Me	30c
Smile, Smile, Smile	30c
Yaaka Hula Hickey Dula	30c
When the Sun Goes Down in Romany	30c
Somewhere in France	30c
Aloha oe (Hawaiian) Song and Waltz	25c
Bridal Blushes Waltz	25c
June Waltzes	30c
When God Gave Me You	30c
Ship of My Dreams	30c
Those Songs My Mother Sang	30c
She Sang Aloa to Me	30c
My Beautiful Lady	30c
I'm On My Way to Mandalay	25c
Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm	25c
Rose of the Mountain Trail	25c
You Are Here and I Am Here	25c
My Sweet Sweeting (Waltz, Hawaiian)	30c
Queen of the Earth	40c
Good Luck to the Boys of the Allies	30c
After the Roses Have Faded Away	30c
The Girl from Jersey	15c
Are We Downhearted?	30c
Absent (Song and Instrumental)	30c
Boys in Khaki Boys in Blue	30c
Army and Navy March	25c
When I Leave the World Behind	30c
Valley Where the Bluebirds Sing	25c
Dream Days	25c
Kiss Your Soldier Boy Good-bye	25c
My Old Lady	25c
March—Calgary	15c
Melody of Love	30c
Silver Threads Among the Gold	15c
When I Lost You	25c
Snooky Oukooms	15c
My Dear	30c
Pack Your Troubles in a Kit Bag	30c
Mammy's Coal Black Rose	25c
Childhood Days	30c
Give Me All of You	30c
Sing Me to Sleep	30c
A Little Love, a Little Kiss	30c
Perfect Day Waltz	45c
Sunshine of Virginia	30c
If We Can't Be the Same Old Sweethearts	25c

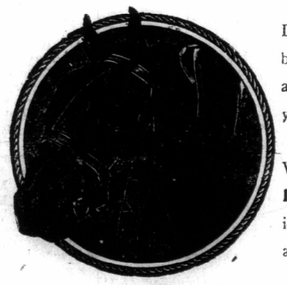
NEW OR OLD, IF IT'S GOOD WE HAVE IT. ASK US.

PEARSON'S BOOKSHOP
216 EIGHTH AVENUE EAST PHONE M1970

MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

The old reliable remedy for rheumatism, neuralgia, sore throat and sprains.

Best Liniment Made



MR. A. E. LAUNDRY, EDMONTON, writes.—"I fell from a building and received what the doctor called a very bad sprained ankle, and told me I must not walk on it for three weeks. I got MINARD'S LINIMENT and in six days I was out to work again. I think it the best Liniment made."

Minard's Liniment always gives satisfaction. For any ache or pain. It gives instant relief.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited
Yarmouth, - - N.S.

The Company with a Record for prompt payment of losses

Don't wait till its too late before insuring your valuable animals, or renewing your policies now in force.

We grant fair and liberal Live Stock Insurance policies covering animals against the risk of death.

Great North Insurance COMPANY
Oddfellows Block Calgary

High Class American Dentistry

Expression 20th Century Plates that Fit

10-Year Guarantee.
Painless Methods Used.
Daily: 7 to 9 p.m. Evenings
Pleased Patients
Bridge Work a Specialty
DR. W. B. REEVE
Detroit and Philadelphia Colleges
M1051
Rue East, Next to Allen Theatre
Tegtall Block, Jasper Avenue

ERING AND OPTICIAN
130 Eighth Avenue East
CALGARY

CLOTHES ASURE SPECIALIST
immo
ST WEST. CALGARY.

ARMER'S MARKET operated by the City of Calgary producer and consumer.
ance and unable to attend the ard their produce direct to the ne sold through a bonded agent hone or write
SUPERINTENDENT,
Calgary Public Market

YZELL
TIONEER
Agent. Office: M2260
Tuesday and Friday
lize in Horses
r Cattle to sell, drop us a line and ll on commission.

rse Repository
RIVERSIDE

y with a Record pt payment losses

Don't wait till its too late before insuring your valuable animals, or renewing your policies now in force.

We grant fair and liberal Live Stock Insurance policies covering animals against the risk of death.

rth Insurance COMPANY ck Calgary

SPRING SHOW WEEK

WHERE TO SHOP——WHAT TO SEE

NO. 510

NO. 510

This is a very popular design for a Prairie Farm Home, and can be built at a very moderate cost.

Write us about the plan, or if it does not appeal to your especial requirements, write us, describing what you want, and we will advise you free of cost.

Do not spend a cent until you see what we can do for you. Your new home will cost too much t take any chances on not being satisfied, and you may be assured we can satisfy you in every respect and save you money as well.

Write us now.

PRAIRIE BUILDERS LIMITED
209-210 I.O.O.F. Building :: Calgary

BEST WORK
BEST SERVICE
BEST PRICES

PRINTING

Send for Samples

A. R. LITTLEBURY
105 6.h. AVE., W.
CALGARY

ARE YOUR
HAIL PREMIUMS EXCESSIVE?
OUR RATES ARE REASONABLE
Twenty Years in Business Losses Paid in Full Full Government Deposit in Alberta Government Bonds for Protection of Policy-Holders

We issue a fully paid Policy—no assessments.

Prompt Adjustments and sure pay.

We settle within sixty days after proof of loss.

Licensed for Province of Alberta.

ASSETS - - - $450,000.00

GOOD LOCAL AGENTS ARE WANTED, WHERE WE ARE NOT REPRESENTED. YOU CAN ADD SEVERAL HUNDRED DOLLARS TO YOUR INCOME BY A FEW WEEKS' WORK

St. Paul Mutual Hail and Cyclone Insurance Company
715 HERALD BUILDING - - CALGARY, ALBERTA

Come to Calgary---You Will be Welcome---Alberta's Greatest Spring Attraction---Annual Farmers' and Breeders' Stock Show---Special Railroad Rates---Big City Attractions---Calgary
April 9th, 10th, 12th, 13th

Programme of Spring Show to be held at Victoria Park

Monday, April 9

Annual meeting Alberta Cattle Breeders' association, exhibition offices, Victoria park, 4 p.m.

Annual meeting Alberta Horse Breeders' association, Palliser hotel, 8 p.m.

Annual meeting Canadian French Coach Horse Breeders' association, immediately after Horse Breeders' association meeting.

Tuesday, April 10

Judging of bulls, 9:30 a.m. Horse show all day and evening.

Wednesday, April 11

Bull sale, commencing at 9:30 a.m.
Horse show in evening.

Thursday, April 12

Bull sale (continued). 9:30 a.m.
Horse show (continued). Afternoon and evening.

Friday, April 13

Shipping of bulls.
Horse show (continued).
Entries close—
For the auction sale of bulls, on March 10.
For the horse show, March 27.

Reduced Passenger Rates

Single fare for round trip from all stations in Alberta. See agent for dates of sale.

Exhibitors from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia may obtain single fare rate by securing a certificate from the secretary.

For rules governing auction sale of bulls, write E. L. Richardson, Calgary, Alberta. Entries close March 10.

Coming Events

Auction sale of purebred bulls, beef breeds, Calgary, April 10, 11, 12. Entries close March 10.

Spring horse show, Calgary, April 10, 11, 12, 13. Entries close March 27.

Auction sale purebred bulls, beef breeds, Lacombe, May 30. Entries close April 30.

Calgary Industrial exhibition, June 28-July 5. Entries close June 13.

Co-operative sale of wool, Calgary, August 8. Entries close July 10.

Calgary Horticultural show, August 21, 22, 23. Entries received August 5-11.

Auction sale dairy cattle and swine, Calgary, October 30. Entries close September 29.

Auction sale of sheep, Calgary, October 31. Entries close September 29.

Soil Products exhibition, Calgary, October 30, 31, November 1. Entries close October 15.

Western Canada Live Stock union convention, Regina, November 14, 15.

Auction sale of cattle, females of beef breeds, Calgary, December 13. Entries close November 12.

Alberta winter fair, Calgary, December 11, 12, 13, 14. Entries close December 1.

Alberta provincial poultry show, Calgary, December 11, 12, 13, 14. Entries close December 1.

Officers of the Alberta Horse Breeders' Association 1916-17

Patrons

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta.
His Worship the Mayor of Edmonton.
His Worship the Mayor of Lethbridge.
His Worship the Mayor of Medicine Hat.
His Worship the Mayor of Wetaskiwin.
His Worship the Mayor of Calgary.
E. J. Dewey, president Calgary Industrial exhibition.
Honorary president—Hon. A. L. Sifton.
President—Geo. Lane.
First Vice-president—Dr. J. G. Rutherford.
Second Vice-president—Geo. Hoadley, M.P.P.

Ex-Officio Directors

Hon. Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture; John Bright, live stock commissioner, Ottawa.

Breed Directors

Clydesdales—D. Thorburn, Davisburg.
Percherons—C. R. de la Vergne, Glenbow.
Shires—Tom Rawlinson, Innisfail.
Belgians—W. W. Hunter, Olds.
Suffolk Punch—F. J. Hartell, Cheadle.
Standardbreds—I. G. Ruttle, Calgary.
Thoroughbreds—A. K. Morrison, Calgary.
Hackneys—John Weir, Carbon.
Coach Breeds—G. E. Goddard, Cochrane.
Heavy Draught—E. D. Adams, Calgary.
Agricultural—Thos. McMillan, Okotoks.
Cartage horses—Fred Johnston, Calgary.
Delivery horses—N. J. Christie, Calgary.
Roadsters—Arch. McKillop, Calgary.
Carriage horses—D. P. McDonald, Cochrane.
Saddle horses—F. C. Lowes, Calgary.
Ponies—O. E. Brown, Calgary.
Shetland and Welsh ponies—P. M. Bredt, Calgary.

General Directors

F. R. Drake, Glenbow.
B. J. R. Muckle, Cluny.
R. F. Bevan, Cochrane.
H. Banister, Davisburg.
Wm. Moodie, Davisburg.
A. McIntosh, De Winton.
D. Clark, Gleichen.
A. L. Dollar, High River.
W. B. Thorne, Aldersyde.
F. Schroeder, Midnapore.

Honorary Directors

W. F. Stevens, live stock commissioner, Edmonton.
H. S. Arkell, assistant live stock commissioner, Ottawa.
Geo. Roels, Calgary.
O. E. Critchley, Cochrane.
C. W. Peterson, Calgary.
A. C. Shakerley, Pekisko.
Dr. J. C. Hargrave, Medicine Hat.
Dr. S. F. Tolmie, Victoria, Dominion live stock representative.
Dr. Creamer, Qu'Appelle, Sask., Dominion live stock representative.
W. T. McDonald, Victoria, B. C., live stock commissioner.
P. F. Bredt, Regina, live stock commissioner.

TO INVESTORS

THOSE WHO, FROM TIME TO TIME, HAVE FUNDS REQUIRING INVESTMENT MAY PURCHASE AT PAR

DOMINION OF CANADA DEBENTURE STOCK

IN SUMS OF $500, OR ANY MULTIPLE THEREOF

Principal repayable 1st October, 1919.

Interest payable half-yearly, 1st April and 1st October by cheque (free of exchange at any chartered Bank in Canada) at the rate of five per cent per annum from the date of purchase.

Holders of this stock will have the privilege of surrendering at par and accrued interest, as the equivalent of cash, in payment of any allotment made under any future war loan issue in Canada other than an issue of Treasury Bills or other like short date security.

Proceeds of this stock are for war purposes only.

A commission of one-quarter of one per cent will be allowed to recognized bond and stock brokers on allotments made in respect of applications for this stock which bear their stamp.

For application forms apply to the Deputy Minister of Finance, Ottawa.

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE, OTTAWA
OCTOBER 7th, 1916.

Why not be particular about your principal food supply?

PURE MILK

is desired by everyone. You are invited to inspect our plant and satisfy yourself as to the quality of our Goods.

CARLYLE DAIRY CO.

Telephone Main 4686.

BY USING
"Our Best" Flour
You will reduce the High Cost of Living

McKelvie & Stirrett Co. Ltd
EIGHTH AVE. WEST

Many Love Music

Who have not had the long training needed to make a good player. To such a Player-Piano offers a source of unlimited enjoyment.

Come in and Play the Famous

Bell Autonola

Whether you are thinking of buying or not, it is a pleasure for us to demonstrate the great possibilities of this marvelous instrument.

ALBERTA PIANO CO.

130 Eighth Ave. West Phone M3596 CALGARY

Grocery Values

Farmers, Ranchers, etc., within 175 miles, write for our Grocery Catalogue. Enormous stocks and rapid turnover guarantee you greater variety and freshness of supplies.

Free Freight to Your Nearest Station

S. G. FREEZE

P.O. BOX 449 CALGARY

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

640-ACRE HOMESTEADS IN MONTANA —new law just passed. New towns, Business Opportunities. Send 50c for maps and information. Address, U. S. Commissioner, Outlook, Mont. U. S. A.

We are specialists in vulcanizing everything in rubber. We are agents for the famous Firestone Tire. Don't forget the address:
BELL TIRE CO.,
602 First Street East
Phone M5905 Res. M4702

The Most Famous Clock

Strasburg's Great Timepiece is a Triumph of Art

One of the greatest triumphs of modern mechanical art is the celebrated astronomical clock in the cathedral of Strasburg. For five hundred years the cathedral has been famous for its clocks, of which the present is the third which has been erected. The first was begun in 1352 and completed in 1354. It represented the movements of the sun and moon, and near its summit was a statue of the blessed virgin, before which at noon each day three small statues, representing the three Magi, bowed their heads, while a cock on top flapped its wings and crowed. It continued to run nearly two hundred years. The second clock was completed in 1574. It had new machinery, but retained the crowing cock, which crowed faithfully for 435 years, until the breaking out of the French Revolution in 1789.

The present clock, invented by M. Schweitgue, was begun on June 24, 1838, and was completed in a little less than four years. It was set running October 2, 1842.

At the base of the clock is a large copper sphere, resting on four metallic columns, on which are represented all the fixed stars of the firmament down to the sixth magnitude, numbering more than five thousand, and placed in their acurate relative positions in 110 constellations readily recognized by astronomers. This sphere revolves from east to west in the sideral day and is so arranged as to indicate the exact moment of the rising and setting of all the fixed stars visible at Strasburg and their exact position in the heavens at any hour.

Near this sphere is the calendar, a metallic band nine inches in breadth and twenty-nine feet in circumference, on which are marked on a gift ground the months and days, the festivals of the Church, the name of the saints, dominical letters, etc. Even the movable feasts, such as Easter, Ascension, Penticost, etc., fix themselves in place at the proper moment year after year.

Combines Beauty of Allegory

The days of the week are represented on an azure ground above the calendar to represent the firmament and at the instant of midnight, as each day succeeds that previous, allegorical figures appear, surrounded by clouds, in beautiful chariots moving on an aerial circular railroad.

Perhaps the most astonishing feature is the mechanism for striking the hours and quarter hours. There appear successively four small statues, representing childhood, youth, manhood and old age, which come out as follows: At each quarter of the figure with a scepter in one hand and a little hammer in the other, gives the signal by tapping the bell. Immediately on the first quarter of each hour the child makes his appearance bearing a small javelin, with which he strikes the bell once. He is succeeded the next quarter by the youth, who, dressed as a hunter, strikes the half hour with his arrow. Next comes the man, clad in a coat of mail and armed with a sword, with which he strikes the three-quarters. Finally comes the old man, bending over his crutch, which he, however, has strength enough to raise to strike the four-quarters.

Pictures Christ and Apostles

The upper compartment, much more richly decorated, is occupied by a figure of Jesus Christ, seated upon a throne in the middle. Each day, immediately after the hour of 12, twelve figures, representing the twelve apostles, each bearing the badge of his martyrdom or some other distinctive emblem, form themselves into a procesion and present themselves at the feet of their Master.

The Plaza is the finest "after the show" place of amusement in Canada.

The Morgan Brothers' quartette entertain hundreds every week at The Plaza.

CONNIE MACK LIKES HIS TEAM VERY MUCH

Philadelphia.—Before leaving for the training camp, Connie Mack said: "My team looks mighty good to me now. I have four pitchers who I am confident can be relied upon. These men are Bush, Elmer Myers, Seibold and Jing Johnson. I am so sure of them that only Jing Johnson will go south to Fort Pierce in the first squad to train. Jing will go along, as he requires a lot of work to get into condition.

"Some of the other pitchers look very promising. To make any headway, we must have a good pitching staff, and I am sure that I will have a competent staff of hurlers, so that we can be counted upon to make a good showing in the fight for the pennant this year."

The Plaza.. A place where you forget your troubles and be merry.

Lougheed building is the entrance

Promising Another Week of Brilliance in the Garment Salons

Every Day a Spring Opening at the Bay

YOU WILL FANCY the return of the tailored. It is at once a pleasing feature of Spring. And in strong contrast to this condition appear the new bright splashes of color but applied with the touch of a master. Here are bright greens, vivid blues and the entire family of gold. Sports suits show Futurist designs and a variety of stripe patterns. In street suits, braids and buttons are smartly applied. Fabrics include Tricotine, Burella and Gunniburl, Peru, Khaki Kool, Yo San, Jersey and Tussah weaves. A wonderful combination of colored effects.

The separate coat this spring has a change of silhouette, which is indeed striking. The waist line is raised, and the coat much fuller over the hips, but again the fashions are so various that all figures may be easily suited. Models by Cheruit, Bulloz, Beer and Paquin come in most beautiful all wool velours, Bolivia and burella cloths, in such delightful colors as old gold, Kelly green, American rose, castor and apple green. Some are belted, others full and loose. The shoulder cape and the capuchia hood are new features contrasting colors are used in many cases as trimmings.

THE SUITS YOU'LL SEE AT THE BAY

You will find a style for every taste in these collections of beautiful suits. Many favor the sport lines and are softly belted, or pleated below a yoke, and made with the new panel and plaited skirt. Jersey cloth or Yo San silk are very popular materials in these styles, while the semi-dressy tailor mades of Poiret twill, tricotine, velour, Chanessine and vigoreau are delightful. Models by Premet, Paquin and Bernard, have considerable prominence this spring, and the colors are just wonderful; new and beautiful shades, such as Kelly green, American rose, shadow-lawn green, old gold, Chartreuse, silver-grey, minuet and tapestry blue. The strongest note of these models being simplicity, the trimmings consist of oriental embroidery, separate collars of lovely silk, and tassels of silk fringe. The linings also have been carefully studied, and the contrasting flowered and broche silks are most fascinating.

THE GOWNS, EXPRESSIVE OF CHARM

Just a bevy of loveliness are the gowns this spring, and when we learn that they include French models by Callot, Georgette, Drecoll, Doucet and Jenny, the reason of their fascination is obvious. The designs are so various and different, there are the long-waisted models favoring the Russian blouse the quaint lines of the Moyen age, the dainty draped and pompadour styles, introducing the peg-top pockets; the favorite material used is Gorgette, and we find it in many combinations with taffeta, crepe de chine or Roman satin. Silver and gold embroidery figures largely as trimming; also a silk soutache or stitching of contrasting colors is very popular. The shades are lovely, old gold, tapestry blue, Chartreuse, silver grey, Bordeaux, American rose, and black with silver, gold, or jet trimmings make a delightful selection.

In all probability the Week's Finest Collection of Millinery

BY UFLAND

A stunning conceit, taking the form of a two-style or convertible hat. Fashioned of rich-looking gold cahelpular braid, with underbrim of midnight blue silk. Both crown and brim are covered with brown Maline threaded with gold. A single ornament graces this headgear—a French rose in blue and gold.
Price $35.00

BY AMOLIN

A huge sailor with droop brim in narrow midnight blue ribbon and crepe combination. This model has a lovely feature in panels of white crepe painted in blue. Price $16.50

BY RAWAK

that celebrated New York designer, we show a number of smart sailors, one in particular a Beige novelty straw with towering crown and trimmings of gold and green. A very narrow brim, characteristic of this maker's leaming this spring. Price $30.00

Another is a tailored model of green Milan hemp. Features a high crown and narrow, drooping brim. Dragon ornaments in tones of grey, rose and blue.
Price $15.00

BY JOSEPH

appears a strictly tailored model with crown of black Milan. Exceedingly high in front and tapering slightly to the back. The brim is of black and white silk. An emerald mount finished this production.
Price $25.00

BY FRANK

we have a flop brim sailor, quite girlish in line. Underbrim of Wenchow, with purple crown and upper brim of floral Jap crepe. Caterpillar ornament finishes it. Price $30.00

MONDAY

Last Day to Buy That Suit at $15.00

And Secure a Pair of OVERALLS FREE

To introduce our $15.00 Men's High-class Suits and our Special Northern Brand Overall, we are for three days giving one pair of our Special $1.50 Overalls free with each $15.00 Suit. These suits cannot be bought in Canada for less than $18.00 and $20.00 per suit, and we wish to demonstrate our buying strength in this suit at $15.00. The colors and styles are all products of Spring, 1917. We have 250 suits in the lot, and more coming in each day. The selling ends Monday. No more than one suit and two pairs of overalls to any one customer. This limitation to prevent dealers from buying in quantities

Men's Store, Main. Direct entrance from 7th Avenue

The Hudson's Bay Company.

INCORPORATED 1670 "ECONOMISTS FOR THE PEOPLE" HERBERT L. BURBIDGE, STORES COMMISSIONER

Bay HARM

en we learn Doucet and e so various ssian blouse dour styles, orgette, and Roman satin.
ilk soutache
e lovely, old an rose, and tion.

crown of black Milan.
ng slightly to the back.
k. An emerald mount
..... $25.00

irlish in line. Underwn and upper brim of ent fin-
..... $30.00

:-: COURTESY IS A BUSINESS ASSET; KINDNESS IS A GAIN, NEVER A LOSS :-:

THE FUTURE

All strange and veiled and silent
In front of us she stands;
Her face is hidden from us,
But hope is in her hands.

CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD

THE GREATEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER IN WESTERN CANADA

There is a time in every man's education when he arrives at the conclusion that envy is ignorance; that imitation is suicide; that he must take himself for better, for worse, as his portion.—Emerson.

TWO SECTIONS—Section Two | CALGARY, ALBERTA, MARCH 18, 1917 | SECOND SECTION—Pages 9 to 12

STORIES OF EVENTS OF IMPORTANCE IN THE WORLD TODAY

SLAVS TAKE TO FRANCE

With the Russian Armies on the French Front, (by mail).—In the few months the Russian expeditionary force has been in France it has adapted itself in an amazing manner not only to the French military system, but to French customs and French life generally. With the wonderful facility which the Russian, and in fact all Slav people, have for the languages nearly all of the soldiers have now mastered sufficient French to be perfectly at home, thus bridging one of the greatest obstacles to foreign people who must fight or work side by side.

France Equipped Slavs

When the Russians came to France they did not bring arms with them and it was therefore not only necessary to arm them throughout with the French weapons, but to instruct them in the French tactics nd methods of warfare. All of this they have mastered as readily as they have the language.

The entire Russian army, while retaining its national uniform, has been equipped throughout with the famous French steel helmet, but bears in front, however, the Russian coat of arms instead of that of the French republic. The helmets are painted brown, the same as those furnished the Belgian army, and, together with the long brown overcoats, give to the Russian army very much the same general appearance as that of the Belgian army, although never for an instant do the Russians lose the swinging march or other characteristics that mark them as soldiers of the czar.

Godmothers for All

Along with the other French customs adopted by the Russians is that of having godmothers to send them nice things to eat and to wear from outside the war zone. Nearly all of the Russians have now been adopted as "godsons," either by the women members of the large Russian colony at Paris or by French women themselves, who want to show the appreciation of the French to the Russians who are fighting for them. The Russians get their six days of permission, from time to time, the same as the French, and every one can count upon the home either of a Russian or a French godmother at Paris or elsewhere in which to be received and entertained while he is enjoying his leave.

The Russians are accompanied by their own orthodox priests and the same religious fervor that marks the fighting of the armies in Russia characterizes that of the Russian army in France.

All Are Picked Men

The soldiers themselves all appear to be more than content with their transplanting. The regiments were formed entirely not only of picked companies that had distinguished themselves in the fighting on the Russian front, but even the companies themselves were formed of picked men especially fitted by physical and soldierly qualifications for the service in France. An unusual degree of intelligence is therefore found amongst the men which probably accounts in no small way for their quick assimilation of French military life and customs. A good sprinkly of French military decorations, won in the fighting in which they have already participated, shows also that the change has not lessened their military value.

But if the Russians are glad to be in France, it would appear that the French are glad to have them. A regiment of French engineers, in which were a number of students from the French School of Fine Arts, was assigned to the task of preparing the camp for the Russians. The result is that there is, perhaps, not another army headquarters camp on the entire French front fitted out with a greater degree of comfort and artistic taste, from the kitchen to the marvelously decorated chapel, than that now being occupied by the Russians.

Map illustrating the danger zone in which Germany declares she will sink ships without warning. The inset sketch of ship illustrates the rule laid down in the German note as to how American ships must be marked for immunity.

LOUISE IN A MADHOUSE

Rome (by mail).—Broken in health and mind, Louise, former crown princess of Saxony, publication of whose memoirs startled the world, is an inmate of the insane asylum at Dresden. A woman friend found her there, detained under a fictitious name at the order of the German commanders who led the invasion of Belgium.

The Germans found her convalescent in a nursing home, following a surgical operation.

Ten years ago she fled her home with her music teacher, M. Giron. She was found later by her husband, now King of Saxony.

Princess Louise is a cousin of the present Emperor of Austria-Hungary. She is of the Tuscany branch of the Hapsburgs. Her diary's revelations of life in royal households of Europe detailed the alleged attempt of the court chaplain to force his attentions on her and her mother's "fanatic" rejection of her appeals for protection.

Told Court Secrets

Her brother lashed the chaplain with a long whip, while the clergyman fled to his room, she declared.

Her father-in-law, George, late King of Saxony, twice kissed her in greeting, she declared, but the kiss felt "like a bit of gritty ice rubbing against her forehead."

The three Russian czars, Paul, Nicholas I., and Alexander III., were "brought up with the knout," according to the princess, and they "turned out a madman, a brute, and a people's executioner." Czar Paul, she said, would "run a mile to cane a soldier" on whose boots was a speck of dust.

Against the late Francis Joseph, Emperor of Austria-Hungary, and her grandnucle, she made a similar charge. He would travel miles, she declared, to box the ears of a member of his family.

Because her father-in-law declared with solemn gravity that he would rather ride around in a simple cab than in the state carriage, to avoid acclaim of the populace, the princess said she laughed until she had to call her tire woman to loosen her corset.

"The old monkey," she declared, "as if he wasn't after hochs morning, noon and night."

Again she drew royal displeasure by singing out "Prosit" while Emperor William of Germany was speaking at the birthday dinner of King Albert, her uncle.

Created a Sensation

The disappearance of the princess caused as great a sensation in Europe as did her memoirs, published later. The princess, her husband and their children had been at the castle of Francis Joseph at Salzburg for a month. Because of her frequent attacks of nervousness, the princess had been under surveillance. One night she retired at 2 o'clock; three hours later maid attendants gaining no response to their raps on her door, entered. They found a dummy figure had been placed in her bed and she had fled. The castle grounds were searched and ponds and streams were dragged in the belief that she might have ended her life.

Police of every kingdom of Europe joined in the search for her and after ten days of fruitless anxiety, the king caused to be published a paragraph in the newspapers announcing her disappearance and blaming it to her mental condition.

In 1903 the crown prince obtained a divorce from the crown princess. She soon married Prof. Giron. Francis Joseph promptly deprived Louise of all archducal titles and prerogatives. She has been in seclusion ever since.

MRS. WILSON SHARES STATE HONORS

For the first time in the nation's history the wife of its chief executive was by his side when he took the oath of office at the impressive inaugural ceremonies of March 5.

On that Monday morning Mrs. Woodrow Wilson not only rode with the president from the White House to the Capitol, but she stood only a few feet from him when he took the oath of office on an improvised stand that had been erected in the eastern corner of the Capitol plaza.

Thus Mrs. Wilson established an even more noteworthy precedent than did Mrs. Taft eight years ago when she caused almost endless comment by riding down Pennsylvania avenue with President Taft and by going as far as the door of the senate chamber where the ceremonies were held. While Mrs. Taft could not go onto the floor of the senate and stand beside her husband as he took the oath of office, Mrs. Wilson was near the present president when he replied to the oath which was administered by the chief justice of the United States.

Washington had been converted into a tremendous workshop in preparation for the ceremonies. Thousands of mechanics were employed in constructing the great wooden stands from which the people viewed the almost endless passing parade. The greatest care had been taken in designing the court of honor which was occupied by the president and his guests. A classical colonnade extended the length of the court, each column carrying an urn of flowers and smilax, the columns being relieved at intervals by pilons bearing the American flag, and the whole connected by festoons of laurels.

Capital Bubbled with Excitement

As inauguration time swings around every four years Washington gradually loses its atmosphere of southern leisure and becomes a feverishly alert, businesslike city. The merchants forget their afternoon golf in order to superintend the arrangement of new stocks—and new prices; boarding house keepers refurnish their establishments, at least so far as cot beds are concerned; while the hotels become scenes of almost hurried confusion with lumber, furniture, chinaware and other equipment packed in the corridors. Society, politics and genealogy are all forgotten in the preparation for the thousands of visitors who troop to the city to witness the inauguration.

The preparations this year were more elaborate than ever before. Woodrow Wilson is the first Democratic president to succeed himself since the days of Andrew Jackson, and it is only natural that the Democrats felt that it was an occasion for exceptional celebration. Special train followed special train, bringing delegations from the south, west, north and east. Exceptional interest was paid by the country as a whole in the ceremonies because the main feature was a patriotic demonstration intended to prove that the nation is ready to uphold the hand of the president whatever his action may be in dealing with Germany.

How different the inaugurations of other days. Thomas Jefferson, for example, the first president to be inaugurated in Washington, merely walked to the Capitol from his lodging house a few hundred feet away, and was escorted only by his friends in congress. After taking the oath of office and making his address, he returned to his lodgings, where he remained for several weeks after the inauguration, owing to the uncomfortable condition of the White House which was surrounded by a swamp at that time.

The Simplicity of Other Days

When Madison took the oath he was escorted only by two troops of cavalry, who brought him back to his own residence, which he had occupied as secretary of state under Jefferson. That night the first inaugural ball was given at a hotel on Capitol Hill.

Those in charge of the plans of the inauguration did everything possible to prevent a repetition of the troubles of the last inauguration when the suffragists' parade, left unprotected by the police, was the scene of violent rioting. In order to prevent the recurrence of such a disaster the inaugural committee invited the suffragists to participate in the parade so that, contrary to precedent, one entire section was made up of women.

As is customary, there was an inauguration medal—of gold for the president and vice-president, silver for the inauguration officials and bronze for general distribution. It did not differ greatly from that of four years ago.

Not only was Washington hung with electric lights and trimmed with thousands of yards of bunting, but it was serenaded by every kind of a band in the United States. Its wide, clean streets were thronged with thousands of strangers, who ate peanuts, threw confetti and playfully brandished feather dusters and distributed paper bags and refuse, to the infinite disgust of the corpulent and comfortable street sweepers.

At least 100,000 persons gathered four years ago to witness the first inauguration of Woodrow Wilson, and without question as large a crowd gathered here during the last few days to witness the second successive ceremony.

"BAT-MEN" REAL HEROES

London (by mail).—The British officer takes off his "tin hat" to his "batman."

"Bat-man" means nothing else than body servant, but the "bat-man" is no less a fighting man than any other soldier in the trenches. Thousands of men are told off for duty as officers' attendants, to pack their grips, polish their high boots, shine their buttons and keep their dugouts in order. Civilians began to hear of this and bitterly complained of the seeming waste of man power. Now the officer has had his turn in the rostrum and has silenced all reproach about the "bat-man."

The job of officers' servant makes double demand upon a soldier's time for slight additional pay. Their relations is not that of master and man. British officers of the new army are too democratic for that. Except for the gap betwen their ranks they are pals. It is the officer's proud tradition that the last person he thinks of is himself. The comfort and well-being of the men come first. While the officer is making a mass of soldiers comfortable the "bat-man" gets in his work, putting in order the officers' quarters, whatever they may happen to be.

Letters home from officers coninually refer to the servant's adaptibility, his skill in anticipating needs and his blind unselfishness. Sullenness common to servants in civil life, is a missing trait in the army attendant.

Many an officer owes his life to the man who carried him back through the inferno of a barrage when wounded in the attack. Stretcher bearers know these fierce authoritative soldiers who come dodging through a curtain of pelting shells, scorning their own wounds, to yell:

"For God's sake, 'urry up; Lootenant Jones is 'it and I've plowed 'im but shell 'ole. Double up now, it's getting light."

Many a "Lootenant" Jones has reached the hospital because of his batman's fearless devotion who otherwise would have stayed there in the shell tortured field at the mercy of high explosives, grenades and shipers throughout the glaring day.

In former wars one bat-man attended an officer perhaps for years. In the present war a month may bring one bat-man several charges or one officer half a dozen servants. Casualties are so heavy that men see their friends disappear like mist.

An army chaplain who attended a dying bat-man cherishes a scribbled card, addressed to the officer, the last man in his thoughts.

"The cleaning polish is in your long boots, sir," it says. "Private Andrews can look after you good, sir."

PATRIOTISM vs. POUNDS

There are many ugly by-products of war and one of them is graft. Graft flourishes as well in times of peace, but in times of peace it is merely a clog to machinery of commerce and government and not the menace that it becomes in war time.

England, faced with the threat of conscription, is learning unpleasant truths about recruiting frauds. The "White City" case, now on trial, is revealing the methods of a ring of civilians and recruiting officers who have been selling exemptions from service.

John Burn McQueen Mitchell, a civilian paymaster, 27 years old, appears from testimony to be the active head of a very profitable little conspiracy hat involves several of the recruiting force at the White City station.

With Mitchell there have been arrested Sergt. Maj. William Sheppard, Dr. Andrew Robertson Dow, civilian; C. J. R. Riley, a clerk; Dr. William Burch Caley, examining physican, and Hugh Brinkman, clerk.

The troubles of this ring of conspirators began when they innocently took as clients several detectives from Scotland Yard. From the evidence produced before the West London Police Court it looks as if the detectives "had the goods on" the prisoners.

One day at the Old Swan public house at Notting Hill-gate Mitchell was introduced to "Mr. William Locke," who bought a drink and invited him to lunch.

"This army business is a terrible thing," remarked Mitchell, by way of making conversation.

"I've got to join up," replied Locke sadly. "I'm a railway manager's clerk and I guess they'll ship me to the trenches. Even if they don't I won't have any job when I get back."

"I can fix it up so you won't have any trouble, offered the accommodating Mitchell, "but it will cost 100 pounds to pay doctors and get you proper introductions."

"If you can get me out of this I'll be willing to spend 150 pounds," said Locke.

"That will be all the better," declared Mitchell. "More for the doctors. I don't want you to make a mess of it."

Mitchell warned his new friend to be careful to present the disability certificate he would receive, telling him of an absent minded customer who had muddled affairs by forgetting to hand the examining physician the certificate one of Mitchell's doctors had given him and had therefore been rated for active service.

The first doctor Locke was sent to was evidently honest. At least he offered the applicant no disability certificate. Then Locke was sent to Doctor Dow.

"You are suffering from recurrent synovitis of the right knee," said Doctor Dow as he signed his name to a certificate which stated he had been treating Locke for several years and found him unfit for military service.

"What's the damage, doctor?" asked Locke.

"I'll leave that to you," said the smiling doctor. Locke laid two 5-pound notes on the table.

Next day Locke went to White City and handed Sergeant Major Sheppard a sovereign. The sergeant major took him to Doctor Caley, examining physician. Doctor Caley must have suspected the synovitis, for he told the applicant to hop about the room, then called to his clerk, "Chronic synovitis, right knee."

Locke got a C-2 classification, exempting him from active service. Then he paid Mitchell 130 pounds in 1-pound notes.

When Mitchell met Locke again Locke was introduced as Detective Sergeant Soden, of Scotland Yard.

WHY SERBIANS ARE WINNING

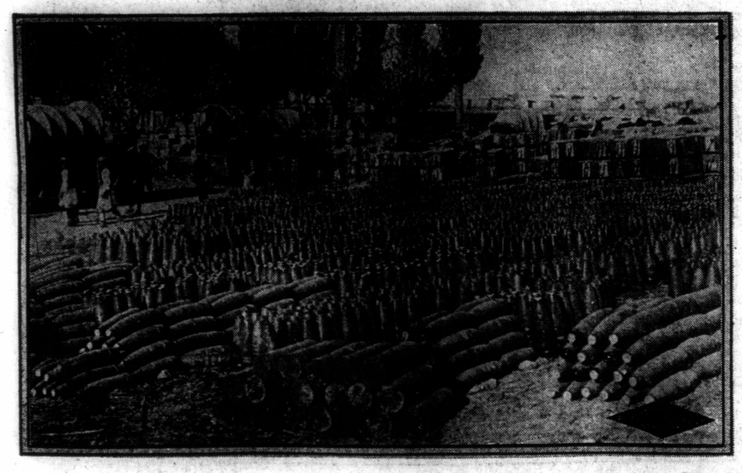

Photo shows vast stores of ammunition in Salonica at the disposal of the Serbians. Recent events show that they have been making good use of it.

QUEEN HONORS DUSKY OFFICERS

Photo shows officers of the British Indian army just after they have received the gift of a Union Jack and Silver Shield from Queen Alexandra of England.

CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD

An Independent Weekly Newspaper Illustrating Current Events and Devoted to the Advancement of Western Canada.
Published Every Saturday
109 SIXTH AVENUE WEST
Calgary Alberta, Canada.

E. H. MACARTHUR, :: Publisher
S. S. WHITE, :: Editor and Manager
Telephone for Editorial and Circulation Department, M4219.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:
In Calgary $2.50 per year; in Canada $2.00; in United States $2.50 per year; Foreign $3.00 per year.
Subscriptions may commence at any time.
The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription will expire. Your paper will stop unless you renew promptly. It is always best to renew at least two weeks before expiration to insure uninterrupted service
Subscribers failing to receive copies regularly will confer a favor by notifying the Circulation Department by post or telephone.
No agent or newsboy is authorized to sell The Sunday Standard on Sunday. Any person doing so is acting without permission from this company.

ADVERTISING RATES:
Advertising rates upon application.
All advertising copy must reach The Standard Office not later than Thursday noon to insure insertion in Mail and Local Editions.
NOTE—Owing to the prejudicial feeling that seems to exist among some of our readers regarding Sunday newspapers, the publisher has decided to eliminate this objectional word, although the publication dates will be the same.
Address all correspondence to Calgary Sunday Standard, 109 Sixth Avenue, West, Calgary.

BE OF GOOD CHEER! VICTORY FOLLOWS THE FLAG!

GOVERNMENT WILL HELP BOOST RESOURCES

It is gratifying news to learn that Alberta will not suffer for want of help for its farming industry the coming season. This assurance comes from Ottawa and is back up with the fact that the government will take herculean efforts if necessary to avoid this difficulty.

An active newspaper advertising campaign is now progressing through the United States, showing the great possibilities that Western Canada offers to the settlers. This campaign is to be supplemented with numerous special agents who will canvass the territory and supply the people with all needed information. Alberta and Western Canada can look forward to the greatest season of prosperity in its history unless all signs fail. Everything today points to this fact.

COUNT BERNSTORFF WAS FOOLED

Count Bernstorff tried to put one over on the Canadian people, but he depended too much on his own sagacity and too little on the Canadian people, when he did so.

When his goods were examined at Halifax there were found over 200 suits of pyjamas. Cotton goods are a scarcity in Germany. The makers of ammunition use quantities of cotton goods in their manufacture. The people have gone so far in Germany as to surrender their underwear to meet the demands made on them by the government.

This is well known, and the custom officers were alive to this fact when they noted the numerous quantities of sleeping apparel that the Count had purchased in the States for future needs.

However the custom officers took no chances and the Kaiser's ambassador was compelled to leave the greater part of his sleeping articles behind, albeit, he may be compelled to suffer certain inconveniences in the future.

USE FOR EVERYTHING

We no longer throw away fortunes as was once the case; today everything has its use. Old bones go to make soap and gelatine; are cut up into eggspoons, toothpicks penknife handles and tooth-brushes. Scraps of paper make paper again, papier mache trays and dolls heads. Solder is taken from old tins, and broken glass becomes whole once more—via the melting pot. A jeweler always gets enough for an old waistcoat to buy him a new one. Gold dust is found in the old garment. For this reason his apron is very valuable. Pastry cooks now keep the whites of eggs, selling them to photographers, with which to prepare albumenized paper. For many years coal tar was a pest; nobody knew what to do with it. It seemed to have no atom of use. Now it is converted into beautiful aniline dyes. Today there is a use for everything.

PEOPLE REMISS ABOUT RETURNED SOLDIERS

Certain criticism has been hurled at the Calgary people for their lack of interest in the returned soldier. Time after time these men have returned without any attention being made on the part of the civilians to welcome them.

Every man in this Dominion, who wishes the British Empire to continue on its course as free and independent and untrammelled as it was before this war came, knows that the fulfilment of his wishes hangs on the issue of the titanic conflict. Every man fighting to turn the issue as the Canadian would have it turn, is fighting for him; and when such a fighter returns to Canada, whence he set out, broken or injured, it is the highest duty of the Canadian people to care for the broken and succor the injured, all of us remembering that these men faced death and suffered for us all—for the security of our homes, for the preservation of our institutions, for the future of our Dominion and our Empire.

This being the case it behoves us to do everything we can to welcome and assist the injured soldier when he returns from the scene of the conflict.

DO YOU WANT TO SEE YOUR TOWN GROW?

If you want to see your town grow, remember that you are a part of it and that its growth depends as much on you as on your neighbors. Don't get the idea that its future prosperity rests with a few, for it is the business of the many. Above all, don't criticize those who are trying to upbuild the community and do nothing yourself. They at least have the proper spirit and, just as long as you deny them your support, just that much harder their work will be.

Be a booster for the city and lend your co-operation to those who had the nerve to start first. It is never too early to start and it is never too late to begin.

Yours is a good city. Let us all get all the good out of it we can. The way to get the good out of land is to improve it. The way to get the good out of a city is to develop it. It is a poor farm that is all pasture. It ought to be worked. He is a poor farmer who is content to take merely what nature sends. He is a poor citizen who is willing to let his city shift for itself, taking only such benefits as come without labor. The man who is satisfied to harvest merely what comes up will have to live on a diet of weeds.

THE GAME OF MAKING GOOD

In the game of making good there's a time limit.

When we were 17 the future to us was a world unexplored, with time unlimited.

But at 37 or 47 our perspective has changed.

We look into the future through wiser eyes and are startled—time has acquired boundary lines.

We look back at opportunities lost—at things done which we ought not to have done—at things left undone which we ought to have done—at long hours and well meant labor which proved profitless.

And it shows in our score.

We stand at the crest of the hill—the game is half over—to win we must capitalize the future with experience gathered from the past.

But we cannot afford to put off till tomorrow.

There is a limit—a time limit—and every day, every hour, every minute, is reducing just that much our chance of rolling up a good score in the game of making good.

We can't afford to go through the year not knowing whether we are winning, playing even or going behind.

A year is 365 precious days—8,760 hours—the best days and hours of our life—and we can't coax them back.

If we are losing we want to know today, so that tomorrow we can "change the trump."

And next week we want to know how much we profited by the change.

SAVE AND SERVE MEANS OUR SUCCESS

Premier Lloyd George's speech in the House of Commons on the German U campaign was an exhibition of plain speaking wholly characteristic of the man. The dictator did not do as other British statesmen have done—mince words and endeavor to hide the true condition of affairs. He made no attempt to minimize the terrible importance and danger of the present situation.

Neither did the premier pretend to intimate that there was any present hope of replenishing the present gap caused by the enemies' submarine torpedoes. He even went so far as to state that there was no sure road to victory unless England started an active campaign to destroy these octopuses of commerce.

All this speech was merely food for thought for the British people. It emphasized the fact that the people must face a period of strict economy, and abstention from many luxuries.

There is no evading the subject. What Lloyd George tries to impress on the British people Canadians will have to grasp as well. The time has now come when all Canada is going to feel the sting of this war more and more.

The fact that Germany was listening with all ears to this speech and would report it far and near, had no effect on the premier. Neither should it effect us in the slightest degree.

The entire British nation is up against a real problem that must be solved to meet success, and the sooner the people of England and the Dominion realize this fact and begin to save, the sooner success will be within our grasp.

Save and serve is the solution of the present war problems.

FOOD PRESSING ISSUE IN STATES

A food shortage which produces such intense feeling in an American city as has been demonstrated in New York within the last few days is an extremely serious proposition and not one to be lightly regarded by those in official positions. Mayor Mitchel, of New York, shows an appreciation of that fact in calling upon three municipal departments having to do with the control of food distribution for a detailed and exact statement of the food situation. The mayor desires this information in order that he may act intelligently upon the proposition that the city appropriate a million dollars to aid in the securing of food for hungry people.

Many elements enter into the situation. In the first place there is unquestionably a shortage of staple supplies, due in some instances to crop failure and in others to scarcity of labor which has cut down the output of farms and is traceable to the fact that the United States has been confining its efforts too much to the business of supplying foreign countries with the munitions of war. In a sense the United States will have to pay the price for this activity in lack of food production, the same as every other country will have to do.

Canada is now paying this same price in the high cost of living. And while the people of Canada do not complain in view of the good work we have accomplished still some thought must be given to the needs and necessities of our home folks.

We cannot help our king and our country better than to help ourselves. In this instance the great need of the country is for more products of all kinds.

Calgary and Alberta can produce a large amount of produce of all kinds. By doing this we reduce the high cost of living and we furnish the country with better means to win this fight.

Hence it is the duty of every citizen to make a careful study of the present needs of the city and the country and to do their part in alleviating this need as far as possible.

A Modern Heroine

INEZ MILHOLLAND BOISSEVAN, dying in the bloom of her beautiful womanhood, yet wrought so bravely as to leave a record of constructive achievement. It was not alone this woman's face and figure that was beautiful. Her soul was transfigured with that greater beauty which is the product of unselfish devotion to high causes. This woman's heart was filled with that same chivalry which in an earlier age urged knight errants on in paths of glory.

Well born and well educated, this child of fortune, instead of surrendering herself to the ease of her environment, consciously gave up her life to difficult service. She championed the cause of the poor and the oppressed, taking their part actively. Strong and ardent, her whole being rebelled against injustice, whether social, economic or political. The girl who served in the slums of whitechapel, working side by side with the women of the Salvation Army; the woman who fought side by side with the shirtwaist makers and the laundry workers in the battle they waged against slave driving masters, glorying in her sisterhood with them, was the same Inez Milholland who, as Mrs. Boissevan, later became a leader in the struggle for the abolition of sex discrimination in government.

She saw, as every intelligent woman sees, that the possession of the ballot gave man an economic advantage over women; that women could not hope to become enfranchised industrially and receive equal pay for equal work until they had emancipated themselves politically. In political equality she beheld a door leading to those larger liberties to which women are as fundamentally entitled as men. In the cause of equal suffrage she worked until she died—laboring with an earnestness, enthusiasm and intensity that exhausted even her superb vitality. She gave all she had to the cause, and having given all else, at last gave her life.

Under the shadows of those wooded Adirondack hills, where as a girl she dreamed her dreams, presently she will be laid. The mountains that she loved will be her monuments. She needs no other, for in the heart of every woman responsive to noble examples her memory in fragrance will abide.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

WHAT A FATHER OF SIX DID ON $1,000 A YEAR

A letter carrier in Indianapolis worked 30 years on an income of $1,000 a year or less; and only recently could it have risen as high as $1,200 a year.

Yet this man today says that Providence has been kind to him; and well he may say so, for this is what he has done:

He has reared and educated a family of four boys and two girls.

Three of the boys and one of the girls have been through college—in part, no doubt, by their own efforts, though the parents deserve credit for so rearing them that they were willing and able to help on the college expenses.

The three boys who went to college are all civil engineers with good positions, and the girl who went to college is a teacher of physical training. Two of the boys helped build the Panama canal. One of them was in the engineering division six years and is now an examiner in civil engineering for the United States civil service commission at Washington. The other was with the Panama railroad eight years and is now in Alaska with the United States Alaska engineering commission. The third boy is assistant superintendent of maintenance and right of way with an important railroad.

The youngest boy didn't go to college but did get all the common schools could give him, and has a splendid position as managing salesman with a great corporation. The girl who didn't go to college took a high school course and remains at home with her father and mother.

Every child born to this family got a fair start in life and is doing well. The home from which they emerged into the world is the kind of home of which the foundations of the republic are built.

And it was all done on $1,000 a year!

HERE'S THE PERFECT GIRL

According to the Harvard View, She Need Not Be Pretty

Cambridge, Mass.—The following are the attributes of the perfect girl as seen through Harvard eyes, some 50 bachelor graduates having recently, and after considerable discussion, agreed on them for the "girl that's worth while."

She is attractive, graceful and healthy, but not necessarily pretty.

She can dress tastefully and entertain anyone and make him feel at ease.

She can make bread as well as fudge, and cake as well as a "rarebit."

Her dancing is not necessarily latest, her tennis is not necessarily up to the standard, but she is appreciative of the dance and of the sports.

She is broad minded, sympathetic, tactful, unselfish, optimistic, thrifty, of good disposition and moderate in all things.

She can stand everses without worry.

She is gentle to children and kind to older people, especially to her parents.

She has a broad education, but not necessarily a college one.

She is modest and true and home loving.

She has good social standing, is of a religious nature and is not "too proud to pray."

DOMINION OF CANADA
WAR LOAN

Write or telephone for our circular letter and application form.

Subscriptions received and given careful attention, without charge.

The Trusts and Guarantee Company Limited
H. A. HOWARD, Manager
220 EIGHTH AVENUE WEST PHONE M5518

WAR LOAN
DOMINION OF CANADA
Issue of $150,000,000 5% Bonds Maturing 1st March, 1937

Payable at par at Ottawa, Halifax, St John, Charlottetown, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Victoria, and at the Agency of the Bank of Montreal, New York City.

INTEREST PAYABLE HALF-YEARLY, 1st MARCH, 1st SEPTEMBER.

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD.

ISSUE PRICE 96.

A FULL HALF-YEAR'S INTEREST WILL BE PAID ON 1st SEPTEMBER, 1917.

THE PROCEEDS OF THE LOAN WILL BE USED FOR WAR PURPOSES ONLY.

THE MINISTER OF FINANCE offers herewith, on behalf of the Government, the above-named Bonds for Subscription at 96, payable as follows:—

10 per cent on application;
30 " 16th April, 1917;
30 " 15th May, 1917;
26 " 15th June, 1917.

The total allotment of bonds of this issue will be limited to one hundred and fifty million dollars, exclusive of the amount (if any) paid for by the surrender of bonds as the equivalent of cash under the terms of the War Loan prospectus of 22nd November, 1915.

The instalments may be paid in full on the 16th day of April, 1917, or on any instalment due date thereafter, under discount at the rate of four per cent per annum. All payments are to be made to a chartered bank for the credit of the Minister of Finance. Failure to pay any instalment when due will render previous payments liable to forfeiture and the allotment to cancellation.

Subscriptions, accompanied by a deposit of ten per cent of the amount subscribed, must be forwarded through the medium of a chartered bank. Any branch in Canada of any chartered bank will receive subscriptions and issue provisional receipts.

This loan is authorized under Act of the Parliament of Canada, and both principal and interest will be a charge upon the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

Forms of application may be obtained from any branch in Canada of any chartered bank and at the office of any Assistant Receiver General in Canada.

Subscriptions must be for even hundreds of dollars.

In case of partial allotments the surplus deposit will be applied towards payment of the amount due on the April instalment.

Scrip certificates, non-negotiable or payable to bearer in accordance with the choice of the applicant for registered or bearer bonds, will be issued, after allotment, in exchange for the provisional receipts.

When the scrip certificates have been paid in full and payment endorsed thereon by the bank receiving the money, they may be exchanged for bonds, when prepared, with coupons attached, payable to bearer or registered as to principal, or for fully registered bonds, when prepared, without coupons, in accordance with the application.

Delivery of scrip certificates and of bonds will be made through the chartered banks.

The issue will be exempt from taxes—including any income tax—imposed in pursuance of legislation enacted by the Parliament of Canada.

The bonds with coupons will be issued in denominations of $100, $500, $1,000. Fully registered bonds without coupons will be issued in denominations of $1,000, $5,000 or any authorized multiple of $5,000.

The bonds will be paid at maturity at par at the office of the Minister of Finance and Receiver General at Ottawa, or at the office of the Assistant Receiver General at Halifax, St. John, Charlottetown, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary or Victoria, or at the Agency of the Bank of Montreal, New York City.

The interest on the fully registered bonds will be paid by cheque, which will be remitted by post. Interest on bonds with coupons will be paid on surrender of coupons. Both cheques and coupons, at the option of the holder, will be payable free of exchange at any branch in Canada of any chartered bank, or at the Agency of the Bank of Montreal, New York City.

Subject to the payment of twenty-five cents for each new bond issued, holders of fully registered bonds without coupons will have the right to convert into bonds of the denomination of $1,000 with coupons, and holders of bonds with coupons will have the right to convert into fully registered bonds of authorized denominations without coupons at any time on application to the Minister of Finance.

The books of the loan will be kept at the Department of Finance, Ottawa.

Application will be made in due course for the listing of the issue on the Montreal and Toronto Stock Exchanges.

Recognized bond and stock brokers having offices and carrying on business in Canada will be allowed a commission of three-eighths of one per cent on allotments made in respect of applications bearing their stamp, provided, however, that no commission will be allowed in respect of the amount of any allotment paid for by the surrender of bonds issued under the War Loan prospectus of 22nd November, 1915, or in respect of the amount of any allotment paid for by surrender of five per cent debenture stock maturing 1st October, 1919. No commission will be allowed in respect of applications on forms which have not been printed by the King's Printer.

SUBSCRIPTION LISTS WILL CLOSE ON OR BEFORE THE 23rd OF MARCH, 1917.

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE, OTTAWA, March 12th, 1917.

RURAL MAIL ORDER GUIDE

STANDARD

BARRISTERS & SOLICITORS

E. F. RYAN BARRISTER, and Notary, 402 Maclean gary, Alta. Phone M1670.

E. A. DUNBAR, BARRIS Royal Bank Chambers, and Centre Street. Phone M

FRANCOIS DE ROUSSY Barrister, Solicitor, Frenc ence. 209-211 Grain Exchan Calgary. Phone M2077.

JAMES D. CAMPBELL, B.L., and Solicitor, 312 Beveri Calgary. Phone M2977.

J. J. MACDONALD, B.A., rister, Solicitor, Notary, idge Building, Calgary, Alta.

J. J. PETRIE, BAR ISTE and Notary, 2 Mills Eighth Ave. West. Phone M

TWEEDIE, McGILLIVRAY, Oldham, Solicitors, Etc. A. A. McGillivray, J. B. Oldham. 105A Eighth Avenu

LOUGHEED, BENNETT, Mc Clarence Block, 122 Eigh Calgary, Alberta, Ca Hon. J. A. Lougheed, P.C., Bennett, K.C.; W. H. McLaw Kovski, J. B. Roberts, D. L M. Roberts, W. C. Pollard, H. H. E. Forster.

P. HARCOURT O'REILLY, Solicitor, Notary, 716-717 Calgary. Phone M5959.

SAVARY, FENERTY & Stringer Block. Main

H. P. SAUNDERS, BAR Solicitor, etc. 22 Old H Phone M2747.

ACCIDENT INSU

WHEN IN NEED OF AC Sickness Insurance, co eral Accident Assurance Lougheed Building. Phone G. E. RODWEL Bran

ARTISTS

ARTISTS, DESIGNERS HICKS ENGRAVING Makers of Photo Engrav Purposes. Herald Western Building, and 6th Street Phone M6761

STAFFORD & KENT, DE ENGRAVERS Illuminated Addresses, E Engraved Car 222A Eighth Avenu

AUCTIONE

PEOPLE'S AUCTION MA at 326 Eighth Avenue 136 Seventh Avenue East.

M6209 CITY EXCHA ers, 326 Eight House and Office Furnitu rooms at SNAP PR Call, write or ph

BOOTS AND

FOR UP-TO-THE-MINUT go to RICHARDSON'S L The Home of Goo 216 Eighth Ave. West

BROKER

FINANCIAL BROKERS AND INSURA Provincial Managers for State of Penn Agents Dominion Gresha Casualty G. G. DEVENISH & CO 300 P. Burns B

COAST FISH

TRY OUR FRESH FISH Prices Daily shipm Phone M6999 232 Eighth Avenue We Telegram

DO YOU WANT

If you are a boy or girl and make money se name and addres send you the part will make you m dependent for lif have to devote a spare time to it money you need or you can devo time to it and ma ing. You don't perience. You energy and amb the effort and come.—Address, Sixth Ave., Calg

HERE'S THE PERFECT GIRL

According to the Harvard View, She Need Not Be Pretty

Cambridge, Mass.—The following are the attributes of the perfect girl as seen through Harvard eyes, some 50 bachelor graduates having recently, and after considerable discussion, agreed on them for the "girl that's worth while."

She is attractive, graceful and healthy, but not necessarily pretty.

She can dress tastefully and entertain anyone and make him feel at ease.

She can make bread as well as fudge, and cake as well as a "rarebit."

Her dancing is not necessarily latest, her tennis is not necessarily up to the standa d, but she is appreciative of the dance and of the sports.

She is broad minded, sympathetic, tactful, unselfish, optimistic, thrifty, of good disposition and moderate in all things.

She can stand everses without worry.

She is gentle to children and kind to older people, especially to her parents.

She has a broad education, but not necessarily a college one.

She is modest and true and home loving.

She has good social standing, is of a religious nature and is not "too proud to pray."

OF CANADA
LOAN for our circular letter ved and given careful atuarantee Company
nited
ARD, Manager
ST PHONE M5518

ADA
t March, 1937
, Toronto,
f MBER.
.
MBER, 1917.
ONLY. and of bonds will be made from taxes—including any uance of legislation enacted
.
ll be issued in denominations y registered bonds without ominations of $1,000, $5,000
f $5,000.
maturity at par at the office and Receiver General at e Assistant Receiver General
ttetown, Montreal, Toronto, r Victoria, or at the Agency York City.
registered bonds will be paid remitted by post. Interest paid on surrender of coupons.
at the option of the holder, nge at any branch in Canada at the Agency of the Bank
y.
f twenty-five cents for each ully registered bonds without to convert into bonds of the coupons, and holders of bonds right to convert into fully rized denominations without pplication to the Minister of ll be kept at the Department in due course for the listing and Toronto Stock Exchanges. ck brokers having offices and ada will be allowed a commis-per cent on allotments made earing their stamp, provided, on will be allowed in respect ment paid for by the surrender War Loan prospectus of 22nd spect of the amount of any nder of five per cent debenture r, 1919. No commission will applications on forms which e King's Printer.
F MARCH 1917.

RURAL MAIL ORDER GUIDE

RURAL BUYERS' GUIDE

RELIABLE FIRMS—SATISFACTORY SERVICE

FARMERS' AND RANCHERS' BUSINESS DIRECTORY

HOME CLASSIFIED BUSINESS GUIDE

STANDARD BUSINESS DIRECTORY

BARRISTERS AND SOLICITORS

E. F. RYAN BARRISTER, SOLICITOR and Notary, 402 Maclean Block, Calgary, Alta. Phone M1670.

E. A. DUNBAR, BARRISTER, ETC., Royal Bank Chambers, Eighth Ave. and Centre Street. Phone M2311. 11-1yr.

FRANCOIS DE ROUSSY DE SALES, Barrister, Solicitor, French correspondence. 209-211 Grain Exchange Building, Calgary. Phone M2077.

JAMES O. CAMPBELL, B.L., BARRISTER and Solicitor, 312 Beveridge Building, Calgary. Phone M2977.

J. J. MACDONALD, B.A., LL.B., BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary, 303-306 Beveridge Building, Calgary, Alta. Phone M3371

J. J. PETRIE, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR and Notary, 2 Mills Block, 322a Eighth Ave. West. Phone M3375.

TWEEDIE, McGILLIVRAY, BARRON & Oldham, Solicitors, Etc. T. M. Tweedie, A. A. McGillivray, J. B. Barron, J. N. Oldham. 105A Eighth Avenue West.

LOUGHEED, BENNETT, McLAWS & CO. Clarence Block, 122 Eighth Ave. West, Calgary, Alberta, Canada

Hon. J. A. Lougheed, P.C., K.C.; R. B. Bennett, K.C.; W. H. McLaws, J. C. Brokovski, J. B. Roberts, D. L. Redman, L. M. Roberts, W. C. Pollard, H. A. Chadwick, H. E. Forster.

P. HARCOURT O'REILLY, BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary, 716-717 Herald Bldg Calgary. Phone M3959.

SAVARY, FENERTY & CHADWICK, Stringer Block. Main 6614.

H. P. SAUNDERS, BARRISTER AND Solicitor, etc. 22 Old Herald Building Phone M2747.

ACCIDENT INSURANCE

WHEN IN NEED OF ACCIDENT AND Sickness Insurance, consult the General Accident Assurance Company, 408 Lougheed Building. Phone M4237. G. E. RODWELL, Branch Manager.

ARTISTS

ARTISTS, DESIGNERS & ENGRAVERS HICKS ENGRAVING CO., LIMITED, Makers of Photo Engravings for all Purposes. Herald Western Building, Cor. 2nd Ave. and 6th Street West Phone M6761

STAFFORD & KENT, DESIGNERS AND ENGRAVERS Illuminated Addresses, Engrossings and Engraved Cards 222A Eighth Avenue West

AUCTIONEERS

PEOPLE'S AUCTION MART, FORMERLY at 326 Eighth Avenue West, moved to 136 Seventh Avenue East. Phone M3480.

M6209 CITY EXCHANGE AUCTION eers. 406 Eighth Avenue West. House and Office Furniture at our Sales-rooms at SNAP PRICES Call, write or phone us.

BOOTS AND SHOES

FOR UP-TO-THE-MINUTE FOOTWEAR, go to RICHARDSON'S LIMITED (The Home of Good Shoes) 216 Eighth Ave. West Phone M4509

BROKERS

FINANCIAL BROKERS REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE Provincial Managers for Insurance Co. of State of Penn. (Fire) Agents Dominion Gresham Guarantee and Casualty O. G. DEVENISH & COMPANY, LIMITED 300 P. Burns Building

COAST FISH SUPPLY

TRY OUR FRESH FISH AT THE LOWEST Prices. Daily shipments from Coast. Phone M6290 Prompt Delivery 232 Eighth Avenue West, opposite News-Telegram 13-26

DO YOU WANT MONEY?

If you are a man, woman, boy or girl and you want to make money send us your name and address. We will send you the particulars which will make you money and independent for life. You only have to devote a part of your spare time to it to earn all the money you need for luxuries or you can devote your entire time to it and make a good living. You don't need any experience. You simply need energy and ambition to make the effort and success will come.—Address, Manager, 109 Sixth Ave., Calgary, Alberta.

COMMISSION AGENTS

McKELVIE & STIRRETT CO., LIMITED, 107 Eighth Ave. West. Main 1684.

COUPLAND BUSINESS COLLEGE

THE OLD SCHOOL, THE TRIED SCHOOL, the School for you. Why not start now? Phone M1208. 109 14th Ave. West.

DANCING LESSONS

PROF. MASON GUARANTEES QUALIFIcation in all modern dances of the ballroom. Academy 1209 First street West Phone M2964.

DENTISTS

DR. A. B. C. DANDO Dentist Prices Cut in TWO 123 8th Ave. W. Phone M2141

OSTEOPATHY

DR. M. E. CHURCH, OSTEOPATHIC Physician and Surgeon; member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Alberta. Suites 7, 8, 9, Alberta Block. Phones M2787 and W4999. All Curable Diseases Successfully Treated. Adenoids removed without anesthesia, the famous Irrigation Treatment used in the treatment of Catarrh. Going on Nine Years in Calgary.

DR. SIZE, THE DENTIST

Naturopath and Violet Ray's Expert 233 8th Ave. East, Calgary

DENTISTRY—All branches; also how to successfully treat Teething, and other disorders in children; Open Frontalles, Slow Learning to Walk, Under development, Blood and other Tumors, Bone Disease, Spinal Curvature, etc., also these unnatural adult ailments: Failing Hair, Indigestion, Morning Sickness Weaknesses, Labor Pains, Diseases. Do not use poison drugs, they will serve you false.

DYEING AND CLEANING

NEW PARISIAN DYE WORKS, 836 12th Avenue West. Phone M3949 Plant of Old Parisian Dye Works Hats Blocked and Remodeled. Ladies' and Gents' High Class Tailoring. Furs Cleaned and Remodeled. Known as the largest and most complete French Dry Cleaning and Dyeing Plant in Western Canada.

WHEN IN NEED OF FIRST-CLASS DRY Cleaning, Dyeing or Repair Work, on the shortest notice, 'phone THE DON DRY CLEANING COMPANY, 102 Seventh Ave. West Phones M3335—M2906

FURNITURE REMOVERS

THE PACIFIC CARTAGE CO., LIMITED, Furniture Moving and Storage, expert packers and forwarding agents. Phone M6007. Office in C.P.R. freight shed, Ninth Avenue and Second Street East.

FURNISHED ROOMS TO RENT

THE SAMIS APARTMENTS, CENTRALLY Located, 330 Eighth Avenue East. Furnished Rooms to Rent by Day, Week or Month; Also Unfurnished Rooms by the Month. Prices Moderate. Phone M5664. 102-26

FURS AND LADIES' TAILORED HATS

WE ARE BUSY NOW IN THE FUR Remodelling Dept. What will it be in the season? So don't defer sending your furs to us: you will save time and money W. W. BELL LADIES' HATTER AND FURRIER 237 7th Ave. West, between 1st and 2nd Sts.

GASSFITTING

JOE CARNEGIE, 744 FIVE AND A HALF Street N.W. Gas Fitting and Repairs, day or night. Phone M5910. 13-1yr

HAIR DRESSERS

MRS. ARTHUR, SHAMPOO, MANICURE, Face and Scalp Treatments; Combings Made Up; All Kinds of Hair Work. No. 6 Royal Bank Building, entrance first door west of Woolworth's Store. Phone M6948

HARDWARE

MARSHALL HARDWARE, LIMITED, 131 Eighth Avenue East. Main 6888

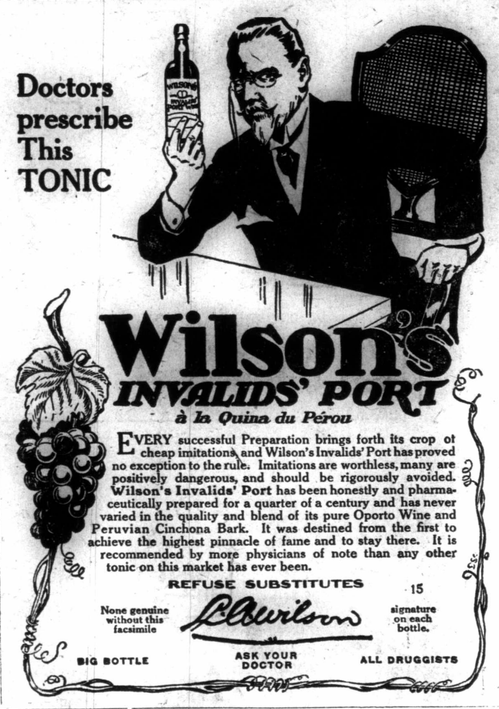
HAT WORKS

EMPIRE HAT WORKS HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED & REMODELLED 310 7TH AVE. EAST PHONE M 6286.

BOSTON HAT WORKS AND SHOE REPAIR SHOP HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED AND REshaped. Straws of every description Cleaned and Renovated. First-Class Shoe Repairing. All work guaranteed. Skates sharpened. All goods called for and delivered. Phone M4798.

How to Pronounce the Names in War Dispatches

If you were touring the eastern war area in Europe just now you would have to carry along a Russian-English, Hungarian-English, Serbian-English, Bulgarian-English, German-English and a half dozen other dictionaries. In the western war area, on the other hand, a French-English and a Flemish-English dictionary would be required. To save the expense which would thus be incurred, the New York Times has compiled a vocabulary for the benefit of Americans. You probably will not have occasion to use it abroad, but you will find it handy in following the war news in The Star. Here it is:



Words From Eastern War Area—Slavonic, Hungarian and German

Augustowo—Ou-goos-to-vo.
Blatystock—Bla-tees-stock.
Braunsberg—Brownsberg.
Bucharest or Bukharest — Boo-kar-rest.
Cettinje—Tzet-teen-yeh.
Czech—Check.
Czenstochowa—Chenz-tow-ha-va.
Dantsic or Danzig—Dansik.
Durazzo—Door-rahd-zo or doo-rah-so.
Dnieper—Neeper.
Epirus—Ee-per-rus.
Eydtkunen—Eyt-koo-nen.
Gumbinnen—Goom-bin-nen.
Herzegovina—Hert-tse-go-vee-nah.
Ivangorod—Ee-van-go-rod.
Jaroslaw—Ya-ros-lov.
Jassy or Yassy—Ya-see.
Javorow—Ya-vo-rov.
Jemappes—She-mapp.
Kalisz—Kar-lidz.
Kiev or Kieff—Keev.
Knoigsburg—Kern-eggs-beorg.
Kragnyevatz—Krah-yew-vatz.
Kuustrin—Kues-treen.
Lutzk—Loodz.
Minsk—Meenz.
Mitrovicza—Meet-rro-vit-sah.
Obryte-Pultusk—Obreet-pool-toosk.
Ostrog—Os-trogz.
Ostrowa—Os-tro-vah.
Przemysl—P-jhem-izzle, with j pronounced as in the French word "jour."
Pultusk—Pool-toosk.
Proskurov—Pros-koo-rov.
Radzivilloff—Radzee-vee-lov.
Rawa-Russka—Rava-roos-ka.
Sarajevo—Ser-ra-jayvo
Skutari or Scutari—Skoo-tah-ree.
Sierok—See-er-rock.
Sokolka—So-kol-ka.
Stettin—Stet-teen.
Suwalki or Suwalky—Soo-val-kee.
Tarnow or Tarnoff—Tar-nov.
Tarnopol—Tarr-no-pol.
Tomaszow—To-ma-zov.
Urumiah—Ooo-roo-mee-var.
Uzsok—Ud-sock.
Valijevo or Valyavo—Val-yea-vo.
Warthe (Polish, Warta)—Vor-teh.
Zamosc or Zamost—Zar-mosh.

Words From Western War Area—French and Flemish

Note—Much confusion will be avoided if it be remembered that "ville" does not conform to the French rule for the pronunciation of "ill" followed by a vowel. It is always pronounced "veel" in a short, sharp manner; never "ee-yr," as in "fille" or "famille."

Ailette—Aye-let.
Ailly—Aye-yee.
Aisne—Ainn.
Aix-la-Chapelle (in German, Aachen, in Dutch, Aiken)—Aks-lah-sha-pell.
Amiens—Ah-me-an.
Antwerp (in Spanish, Amberes; in French, Anvers; from "Aan't werp," meaning "at the wharf.").
Aube—Obe.
Avricourt—Av-ree-koorr.
Bar-le-Duc—Bar-luh-Duhq.
Belfort—Pell-forr.
Berry-au-Brac—Ber-ree-o-bahk.
Besancon—Beh-zon-son.
Bethune—Bay-toon.
Blamont—Blah-mon.
Bois-le-Duc—Bwah-luh-duhq.
Bouillon—Boo-yon.
Boulogne—Boo-lon-yah.
Bouvines—Boo-veenn.
Brabant-le-roi—Brah-bon-luh-rwah.
Brame-le-Comte—Brain-luh-Kont.
Cahbrae—Kon-braye.
Chalons—Shalon.
Chambley—Shaan-blaye.
Charleroi—Shar-luh-rwah.
Charleville—Shar-luh-veel.
Chateau Thierry—Sha-toh-tee-ai-ree.
Chateauroux—Sha-tow-roo.
Chatel—Sha-tel.
Chaudfontaine—Showd-fon-taine.
Commercy—Kon-mehr-see.
Compeigne—Kom-pee-ayn.
Consenvoye—Kahn-son-vwah.
Crecy—Kray-see.
Demer—Day-mare.
Dijon—Dee-zohn, not dee-yon.
Dinant—Dee-nahn.
Dixmude—Dee-muhd.
Dompierre—Dom-pee-airr.
Douai—Doo-ay.
Dyle—Dill.
Epernay—Ay-payr-naye.
Epinal—Ay-pee-nal.
Genappe—Zheh-napp.
Giromville—Zhee-ron-veel.
Givet—Zhee-vay.
Grammont—Gran-mon
Guise—Geeze.
Haelen—Hah-len.
Halnaut—Aye-no.
Ha—lAhl.
Havre—Ahvrr.
Huy—Wee.
La Fere Shampenoise — Lah-fair-shon-pah-nwahzz.
Langres—Loyn-gr.
Laon—Lon.
Lassigny—Lah-seen-yee.
Le Catelet—Luh-kat-lay.
Liege (in French, Liege)—Lee-aye-Lys—Liss, not lee.
Longwy—Lon-vee.
Louvain—Loo-van.
Louers—Loo-ayr.
Maestricht—Mahs-trikt.
Mainz—My-ntz.
Maubeuge—Mow-buhzh.
Meaux—Mow.
Mechelin—Mesh-lin; in Flemish, Meckline.
Meuse—Muhz.
Mezieres—May-zee-ayr.
Mons—Mons.
Montmirail—Mon-mee-raye.
Mouilly—Moo-yee.
Namur—Nah-mohr.
Nancy—Nahn-see.
Neufchateau—Nuh-sha-tow or nef-sha-tow.
Oise—Wahz.
Oudenarde—Ohdn-ard.
Ourcq—Oork.
Ourihe—Oortt.
Peronne—Pay-ronn.
Petit roix—Puh-tee-krwah.
Petit Morin—Puh-tee-mo-rant.
Pont-a-Mousson—Pon-ta-moo-son.
Quatre Bras—Katre-brah.
Ramillies—Rah-mee-yeh.
Raon l'Etape—Rah-own-lay-tapp.
Rhelms—Rance or ranz.
Rocrol—Rok-rwah.
Roye—Rwah.
Sedan—Seh-don.
Senlis—Son-lee or Son-leece.
Sexanne—Say-zann.
Soissons—Swah-son.
Somme—Summ.
St. Bonhomme—San-bon-omm.
St. Die—San-dee-ay
St. Mihiel—San-mee-yel.
St. Quentin—San-kon-ton.
Thionville—Tee-on-veel.
Tirlemont—Teer-leh-mon.
Tongres—Tong-r
Valenciennes—Val-lon-syenn.

FOR SALE

FOR SALE, QUARTER-SECTION OF land, within 5 miles of Olds; price moderate and on easy terms of payment; fenced, and 25 acres under cultivation. Apply office Sunday Standard, 109 6th Avenue W., Calgary.

FOR SALE, IF SOLD AT ONCE, FIVE slightly used Organs, prices $25.00 to $60.00. Terms if desired. These have been polished and tuned, and will be taken back inside of two years on a Willis Piano (Canada's Best) at the full price paid. Willis Pianos, peerless in tone, touch and finish. Alberta Showrooms, 325 8th Ave. West, Calgary. W. M. Howe, manager.

Satisfied Customers for three years is our best advertisement

COUPON
To Dewis & Shaw, Box 78, Calgary, Alta. Enclosed find 50 cents for one tube of E-Z Rust Remover. If I do not get satisfactory results I can return same and my money will be refunded.
.....

HIDES AND FURS

BEST MARKET PRICE FOR HIDES, FURS, WOOLS, PELTS AND HORSE HAIR, by the CANADIAN HIDE AND FUR COMPANY 510 Fourth Street East Calgary Phone M6589 We pay 2 cents per lb. for old rags. We pay 30c per pound for Horse Hair.

HELP WANTED

MEN AND WOMEN TO LEARN BARBering. Highest wages, steady employment guaranteed. Tools furnished free. Send for free illustrated instruction book. CALGARY BARBER COLLEGE, 815B Centre Street (near C.P.R. Depot).

LADIES WANTED TO DO PLAIN, LIGHT sewing at home; whole or spare time good pay, work sent any distance. Charges prepaid. Send stamp for particulars, National Manufacturing Co., Montreal.

HOTELS

QUEEN'S HOTEL Second Street East and Eighth Avenue FURNISHED ROOMS TO RENT BY DAY, week or month. Weekly rates from $2.75 to $5.00; monthly rates from $10.00 to $20.00. All outside rooms, warm and comfortable, most central location in city. B. A. Atkinson, Jr., proprietor.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Any Standard reader patronizing advertisers on this page are guaranteed satisfactory service. If you make a purchase and the goods are not right consult The Standard. When you buy mention The Standard.

HOMESTEADS OR FARM LANDS

OREGON AND CALIFORNIA RAILROAD Co. Grant Lands—Titles to same revested in United States by act of Congress, dated June 9, 1916. Two million three hundred thousand acres to be opened for homesteads and sale. Timber and Agricultural Lands, containing some of best lands left in United States. Now is the opportune time. Large sectional map showing lands and description of soil, climate, rainfall, elevation, etc., postpaid One Dollar. Grant Lands Locating Co., Box 616, Portland, Oregon.

HIGH CLASS CLOTHING

MRS. BRENNAND, PHONE M6187, DEALer in high class cast-off clothing Samples in Ladies' Suits, Coats and Furs Highest prices given. Mrs. Brennand, 810a First St West. Alberta rooms.

ICE CREAM MANUFACTURERS

ICE CREAM IN BRICK AND BULK. Pure Goods Prompt delivery P. PALLESEN Calgary Central Creamery Phone M5630

INSURANCE

ST. PAUL MUTUAL HAIL & CYCLONE Insurance Company, Calgary 715 Herald Building Phone M6959

JEWELERS

DIAMOND MERCHANTS AND MANUFACTURING JEWELERS AND OPTICIANS Issuers of Marriage Licenses D. E. BLACK & CO. LTD Corner 7th Avenue and 1st Street West

LAUNDRY

FAMILY WASHING—HAVE YOU TRIED Our "Wet Wash" System? 10 pounds washed and semi-dried 75c Phone M3991. NEW METHOD STEAM LAUNDRY, LTD.

STANDARD'S MOTOR DIRECTORY

AUTO GARAGES

CENTRAL GARAGE FOR GENERAL Repairs. The place to get your Magnetos, Coils, Self-Starters, Storage Batteries, or anything ELECTRICAL Repaired. Autos Overhauled. Tires Vulcanized. Satisfaction Guaranteed. 417 Sixth Avenue E. Phone M3145.

TRY THE WEST END GARAGE FOR Automobile Repairs; our work is superior at low cost, and satisfaction guaranteed. 12th Ave. and 5th St. West. 15-26

SECOND-HAND CARS BOUGHT AND Sold. We always have a good line of autos to make a good selection. Our Garage is second to none for Repairs and supplies. WEBBER'S GARAGE 129 8th Avenue W. Phone M2021

BICYCLE REPAIRS

STAR CYCLE AND MOTOR COMPANY, 244 SEVENTH AVENUE EAST Just a few steps from the old stand

LOCKSMITHS

IDDIOLS BROS., SAFE AND LOCK EXperts. We repair Bicycles, Sewing machines, Guns, Locks, Etc. We sharpen lawn mowers, saws, shears, razors, etc. 712 2nd Street East, City Hall Corner Blk. East. Phone M6616. 13-1yr

MANUFACTURING FURRIER

FURS REMODELLED AND REPAIRED— Your own skins dressed and made up. Highest prices paid for raw furs. THOMAS PAIN, Successor to Mackay & Dipple. Fur Manufacturing Department 218A Eighth Avenue West Calgary

MARRIAGE LICENSES

D.E.BLACK & CO. LIMITED JEWELERS & OPTICIANS ISSUERS OF MARRIAGE LICENSES LARGEST WATCH REPAIR BUSINESS IN WESTERN CANADA SEND FOR CATALOGUE HERALD BUILDING CALGARY ALBERTA

MOUNT ROYAL COLLEGE CALGARY

ACADEMIC COURSES; BOOK-KEEPING and Stenography; Music, Expression, Art, Etc. Resident and Day Students. Open to all denominations and classes. Phone M2191. Calendar free on application.

NURSING HOMES

ENGLISH MATERNITY HOME—TERMS $20 per week inclusive. Graduate nurses supplied. Phone M3423. 812 2nd Ave. W.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS REPAIRED

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT REPAIRING Violins retoned and repaired; 3 years' practical experience; bows rehaired All kinds of musical instruments repaired. Webb's Musical Instrument Repairing Rooms, 202-203 Bruner Block, Calgary.

PIANOS

YE OLDE FIRME HEINTZMAN & CO Limited, 322 Eighth Avenue West, Calgary, Alberta. D. J. McCutcheon, Alberta Manager. Office Phone M6174.

GOURLAY, WINTER AND LEEMING 220 Twelfth Ave. West. Main 1659

HARDY & HUNT PIANO CO., LIMITED 916 Eighth Ave. West. Main 1586.

PICTURE FRAMING

THE ART SHOP — PICTURE FRAMING a Specialty. 217 Seventh Ave. West J. W. BOOTH, Proprietor Four years with Royal Picture Gallery

PLUMBING CONTRACTORS

YOUNG PLUMBING CO., LTD. PHONE M2869, Steam Fitters, Gas Fitting, Tinsmithing 203 Seventh Avenue East.

PHELPS BROS. PHONE M1630 Plumbing, Gasfitting, Hot Water Heating Steam Fitting. Furnace Work. 930 Second Avenue N.W.

PRINTING

A. R. LITTLEBURY, COMMERCIAL AND Book Printer; 105 Sixth Avenue West Phone M2207. Estimates given.

PHOTOGRAPHER

CHAZIN PHOTO STUDIO—PORTRAITURE enlarging, developing, printing, and commercial work. 7 Eighth Ave. West Phone M3925.

SAFETY RAZORS SHARPENED

JUST TO CONVINCE YOU, SEND UP three blades, we will resharpen them and return to you Free of charge. Our prices are: Gillette 35c per doz.; and single edge blades 25c per doz., old fashioned razors 25c each. We sharpen Clippers Scissors and Lances of every description Give us a trial THE CALGARY SHOE HOSPITAL

AUTO REPAIRS

THE WESTERN CARRIAGE WORKS, Auto and top builders and upholsterers; Side Curtains, Jiffey Curtains (patent); Seat Covers. Top Accessories always in Stock. 632 Seventeenth Avenue West. Phone W4958.

UNIVERSAL REPAIR SHOP Centre Street and 4th Ave.

AUTO OVERHAULING AT MODERATE prices. Oils, Greases, Ford Accessories. Second-hand cars for sale. FIRST CLASS STORAGE

VULCANIZED DOUBLE TREADS

PHONE M6755. NO STITCHES no bolts, no looseness, no extra weight; guaranteed 5,000 Miles. Red Star Vulcanizing Works. 103 Twelfth Avenue East. 13-1yr

SHOES REPAIRED

O. K. SHOE CO. Calgary's Leading Shoe Repairers Let Us Fix Your Shoes We Guarantee the Utmost Satisfaction Country Orders Receive Prompt Attention 710 First St. E. Phone M5078

STORAGE AND CARTAGE

STORAGE AND CARTAGE FOR ANY kind of goods. Warehouse specially fitted for household merchandise, each customer having separate rooms. Trackage. Padded vans for furniture and pianos. Expert packers and shippers. Estimates cheerfully given Official cartage and baggage agents G.N.R JOHNSTON STORAGE & CARTAGE CO. Phone M4444 and M5678. Limited Office and Warehouse 422 Sixth Ave. East

CALGARY STORAGE & CARTAGE CO. LIMITED 437 TENTH AVENUE EAST PHONE M1349 Storage for all classes of Merchandise, including Cold Storage Equipment; Separate Compartments for Furniture, Pianos; Padded Furniture Vans; Packers, Forwarders. Baggage Delivered. Trackage for carlots.

TRUST COMPANIES

THE TRUSTS AND GUARANTEE COMpany, Limited, 220 Eighth Avenue West. Phone M5518. Private Exchange.

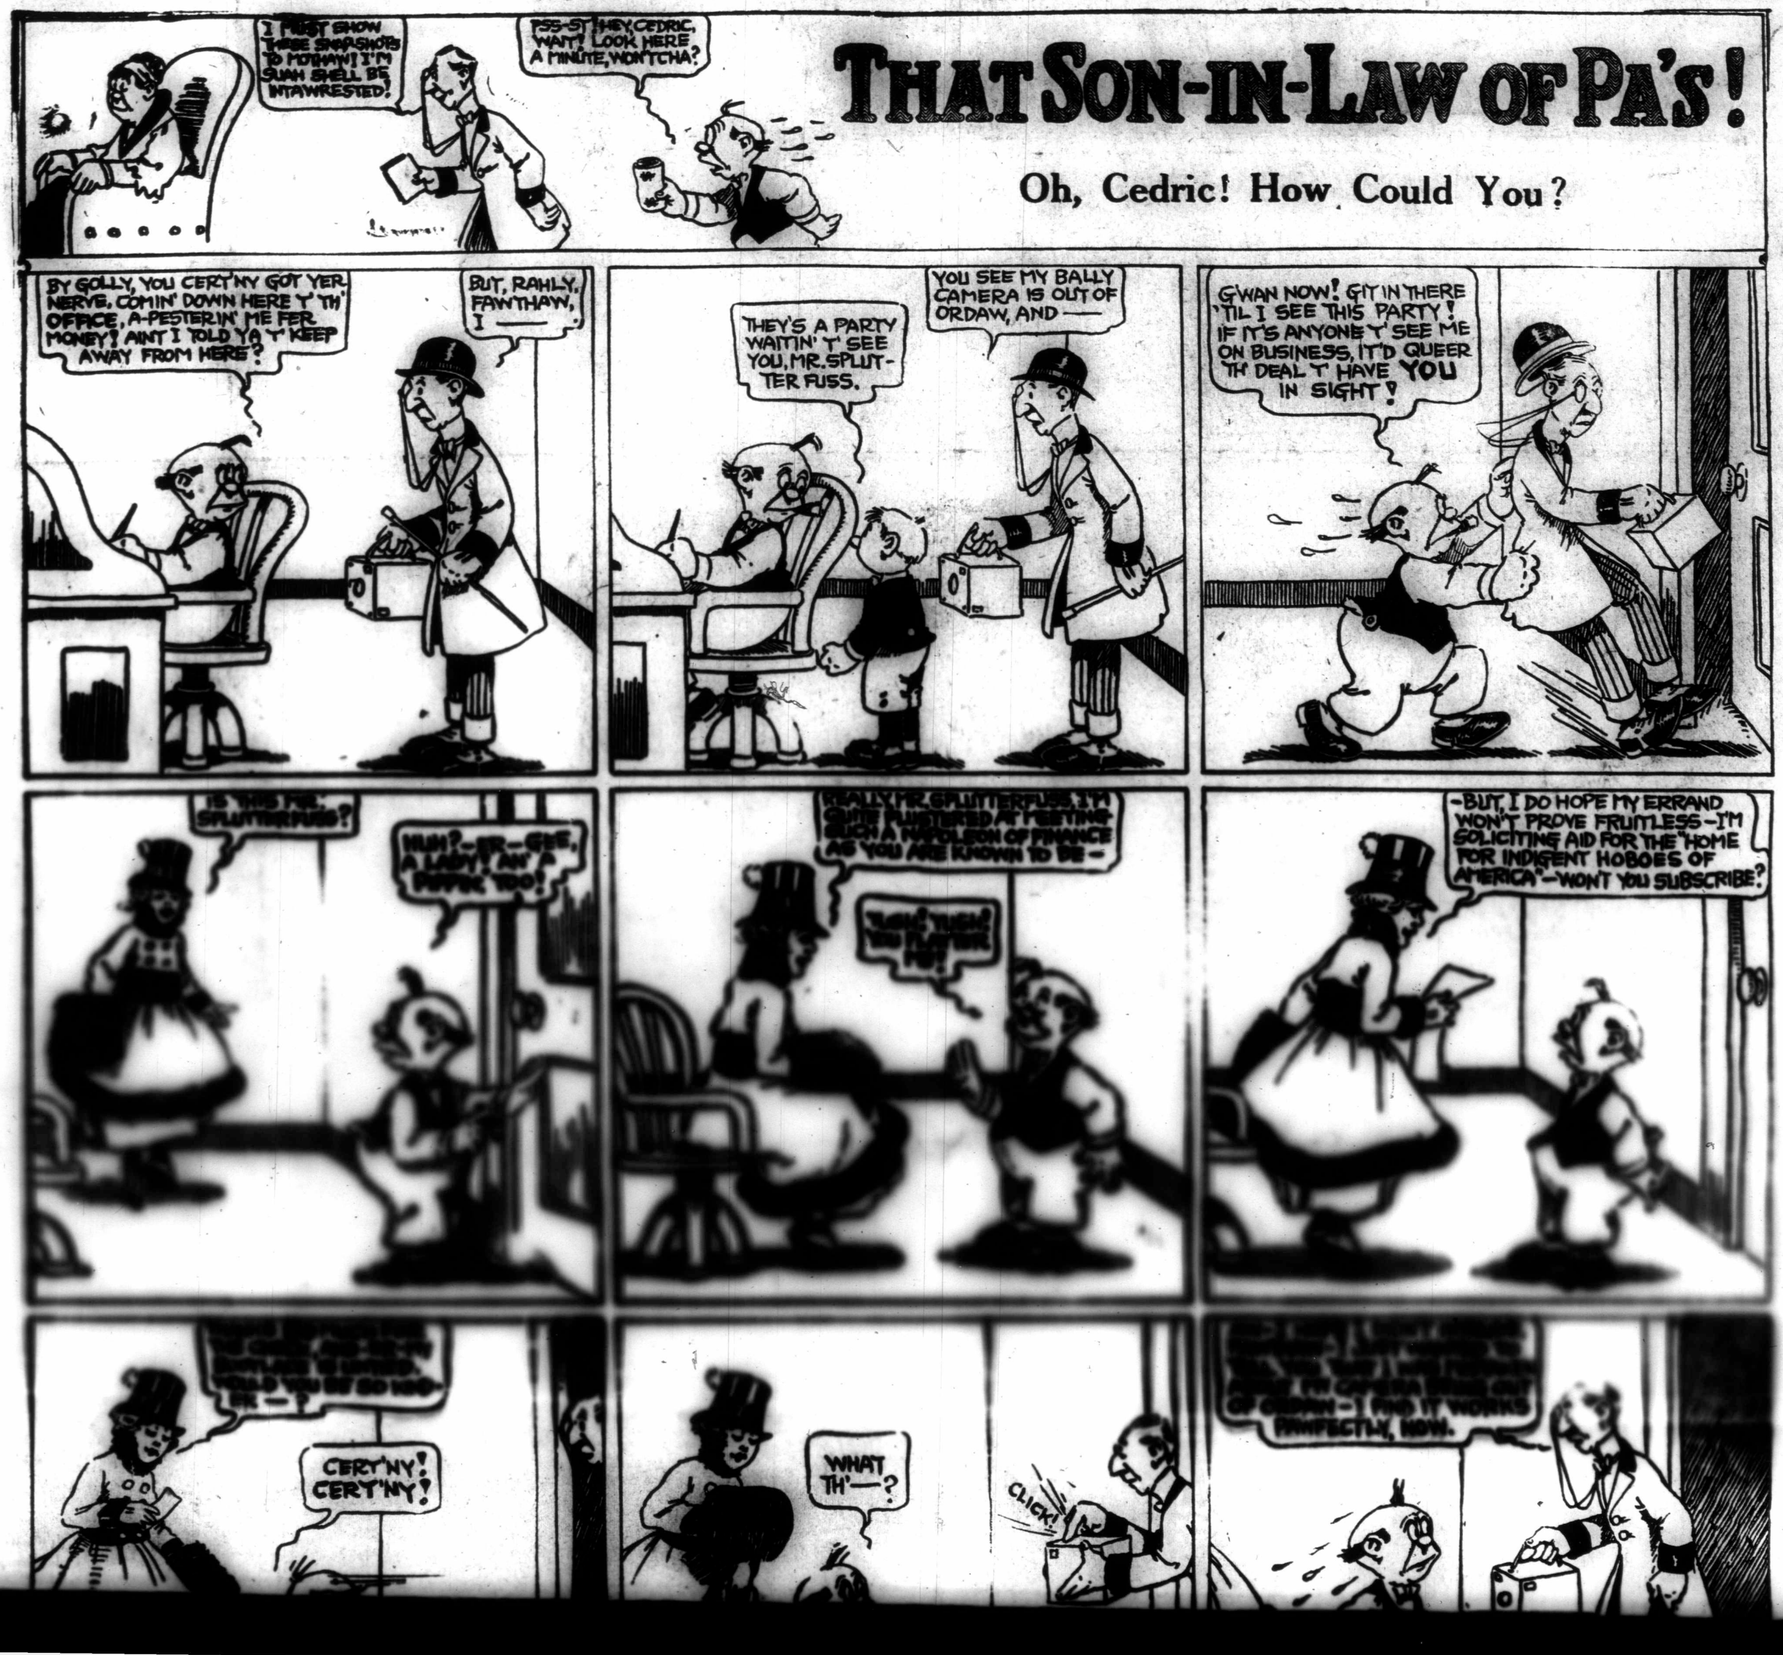
UNDERTAKING PARLORS

GRAHAM, McCALL AND RUTTLE, LTD. FUNERAL DIRECTORS Horse and Motor Equipment, Ambulance in connection. 611 Centre St. Phone M3789

ROSEDALE STAR

LUMP $6.00
STOVE $5.25

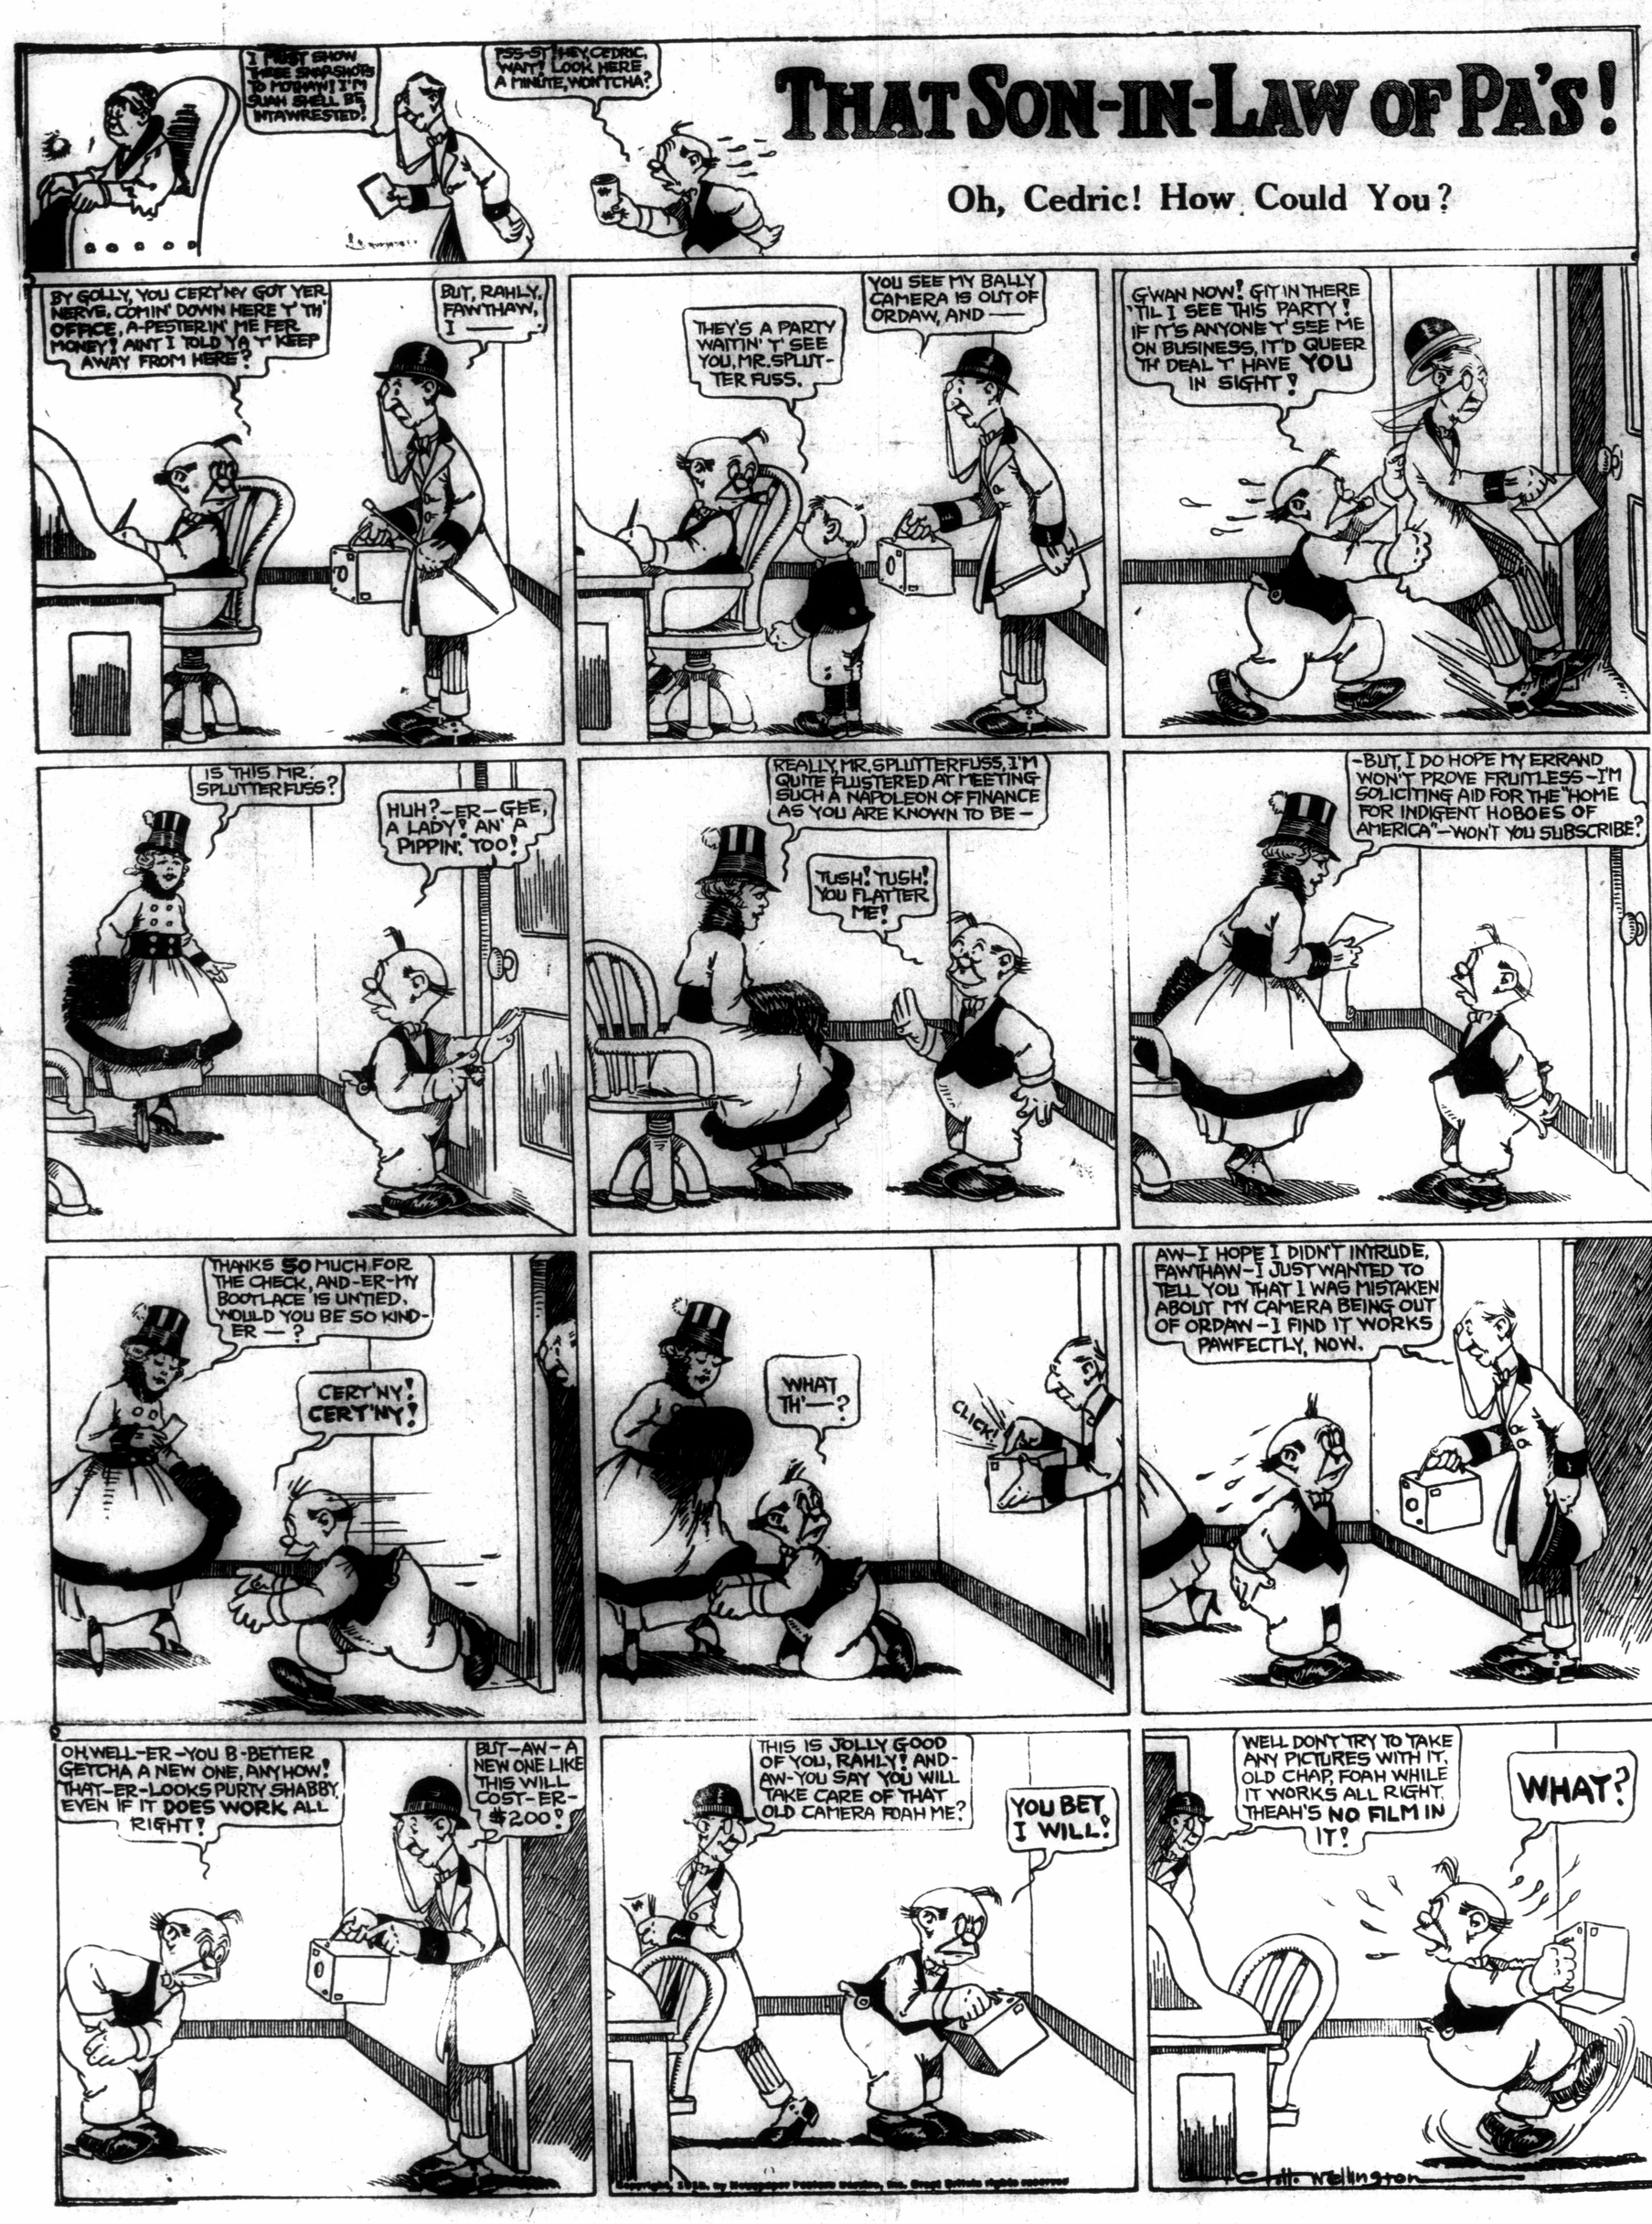
Stock up now before the raise in price.



YORK SHAW
238 Eighth Ave. East
Phone M6423

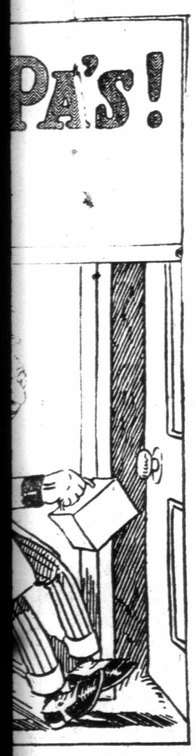
PARCEL POST RATES

Any P. O. within twenty miles of Calgary, five cents for the first lb. and one cent additional for each additional lb. up to five lbs. when the rate is two cents for each additional lb. up to eleven lbs. To any P.O. beyond 20 miles but within the radius of Alberta, ten cents for the first lb. and four cents for each additional lb. To any P. O. in Saskatchewan ten cents for the first lb. and six cents additional for each additional lb.. To any P. O. in Manitoba, twelve cents for the first lb. and eight cents for each additional lb.



THAT SON-IN-LAW OF PA'S!

Oh, Cedric! How Could You?



THAT SON-IN-LAW OF PA'S!

Oh, Cedric! How Could You?

APRIL

A MAN'S HEADACHE SEEMS A LOT WORSE WHEN HE HAD NO FUN ACQUIRING IT

EASTER GREETING

Blow, Bugles of Battle,
The Marches of Peace;
East, West, North, and South,
Let the Long Quarrel Cease.
Sing the Song of Great Joy
That the Angels Began,
Sing of Glory to God—
And of Goodwill to Man!
—WHITTIER.

CALGARY
Western Standard
ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY
INDEPENDENT OPTIMISTIC

STANDARD READERS AND ADVERTISERS

The Standard desires to impress upon it's readers' attention that it still has a number of copies of the Good Cheer issue, which the publishers will be happy to mail free of expense to any of your friends or relatives at the front. Send us their names and addresses and a copy will be sent without expense to you. Do it today. Address, Editor, Good Cheer Issue, The Standard, Calgary, Alberta.

Vol. VII. No. 5 CALGARY, ALBERTA, APRIL 8, 1917 Five Cents the Copy

Canada Is Prosperous As Shown by Reports

April Dividends of Large Corporations, Public Utilities and Others Will Total $16,000,000--Industrial Activities Predict a Prosperous Year

If any one has any doubt regarding the prosperity of Canada this thought should be dispelled by reviewing the industrial condiions as reported by the government each month. These reports have shown a decided healthy appearance for months. Those for the quarter ending March 31st are particularly pleasing, as they show an increase of business that is most encouraging irrespective of the high cost of living.

The industrial activity which has been general throughout the Dominion, particularly in lines that have been affected by the war demand, and the general business of the country in the past few months as well, find reflection in the increased dividend returns that Canadian security holders will receive this month.

An eastern financial paper publishes a list of the companies and the amount of dividends which will be paid this month which will be a surprising revelation to the average man.

It is estimated that over $16,000,000 will be paid as the quarterly dividend on stocks of industrial companies, public utility corporations, trust, loan, insurance and mining companies and banks.

This amount being paid to the public is an important factor in the progress of the country. It is bound to have a most favorable effect upon general business conditions.

The above estimate for example, the dividends on stocks of the industrial companies, public utility corporations and others the amount would probably run up into twice or thrice the amount named, that will be paid.

A summary of the list as compiled of stock dividends is as follows:

Industrials	$ 2,552,792
Utilities	11,195,684
Banks	608,122
Trust and Loan	862,238
Insurance	84,715
Mines	536,618
	$15,844,169

From this it will clearly be seen that Canadian business has not sufferer materially from the high prices that now prevail and that every indication shows that the present year will be a most phenominal one for every line of industry.

WILSON WANTS BIG AMOUNT

President Wilson has asked congress for $3,300,000,000 for immediate expenses incidental to carry out present plans for war protection.

It is said that a big influx of Germans are fleeing from the United States to Mexico.

PROF. JACOBS RETURNING

Prof. F. S. Jacobs(an old time Calgarian, and for the past two years connected with the Agricultural college of Manitoba, has resigned his position and will return to the city shortly.

CALGARY SPRING SHOW WILL OPEN ON TUESDAY

All Arrangements Completed to Make This the Banner Show of the Season—Horse Show Will be Big Social Event.

Cattle, sheep and fat stock breeders will convene in Calgary the early part of the week and will have a gala time for several days. They will talk shop and incidentally vie with each other as to the merits of the different breeds that they are mostly interested in.

At the annual Spring show of the Calgary association and a rousing good time is expected by every one who attends. The horse show, which will be a part of the entertainment will be the principal event for the society followers, and from present indication a large attendance will be the result. Many boxes have already been sold and the list of box holders include most of the prominent people of the city and the province.

The showing both at the spectacular horse show and during the judging of the cattle and the sales will be fully equal to the events of the past although it is predicted that they will exceed all other shows of like character.

Whether this is correct remains to be seen. It certainly looks from a casual review of the prize lists and other data that the Calgary Spring show will be some show, to say the least.

The Spring sale will open on the morning of April 10th, and will run for three days. The animals for sale include shorthorns, Herefords, Angus and other well known stock.

In the evening society will hold sway when the annual horse show will become the center of the attraction. Lovers of horse flesh will have an opportunity of seeing some of the most celebrated horses in this section of the country duiing the nightly performances.

Running, jumping and other forms of sport will be indulged in.

All arrangements have practically been completed by Mr. E. L. Richardson, the genial manager of the show, and when Mr. Richardson promises a thing one may rest assured that it will be done.

Half-rate tickets are provided by the railroads for out-of-town visitors who desire to come to the city during this event, and a goodly crowd will probably take advantage of this opportunity not only to enjoy the pleasures of the week but to do their spring shopping as well.

SPAFFORD TRANSFERRED

Lieut. S. E. Spafford has been transferred to the 128th, a Moose Jaw battalion, now stationed near London. He expects to be transferred later to the Flying corp.

SIGHTS AND SCENES AT THE CALGARY HORSE SHOW

Prosperity Will Flow Into Canada After War

Every Indication Points to the Fact That Canada Will Be World Beater After War is Over---Government Making Provisions to This Effect

In the consciousness of every thinking man there is stamped indelibly the fact that after this war is over Canada will enjoy a period of prosperity undreamed of. This prosperity will redound to the credit of Calgary and Alberta in no unmistakable manner. The growth and expansion of Calgary in the next generation will be far beyond our wildest dreams. The opening up of additional plowfields and the raising of a greater number of cattle and livestock will mean prosperity of the greatest magnitude. This is the concensus of opinion of those who are well versed in the history of similar movements of this character and the effect it has had in the past.

The government is going to use every means and give every assistance possible for the development of the resources of the country. Not only is the national government going to do this but the local governments as well. This is practically the consensus of opinion of the leaders of both parties. They are a unit in this respect.

A council has been formed by the government at Ottawa looking to a complete investigation of the resources of the country and the needs of the manufacturers, the raw materials needed for Canadian industries, the by-products that can be produced, and the solution of other questions necessary for the proper exploitation of Canada's resources.

To Establish Fellowships

In order to develop in Canada a body of men who have been thoroughly trained in science and its application to industry—such as that which has aided so greatly in the industrial development of Germany in recent years—the council will recommend the establishment of 20 or more studentships and fellowships in our universities and technical schools, which will be given to men who have completed their regular course of study and have displayed a special aptitude for scientific research. These will enable such men to purchase a course of advanced work at college for a further period.

Arrangements will also be made by which men after graduation will be placed in one or other of the great manufacturing establishments of the Dominion, where they will continue their training under the conditions of actual commercial practice. They will thus be fitted to aid in the development of the industries of the Dominion.

Research Bureau Planned

In order to furnish direct assistance to the manufacturing industries of Canada at once—the council is recommending the establishment at certain of the great industrial centres of the Dominion, such as Toronto, Montreal and Winnipeg, in co-operation with the provincial governments or other bodies, of industrial research bureaus, here a complete set of technical magazines and trade journals will be found, and where technical staffs, provided with suitable and properly equipped laboratories, will assist the manufacturers of the district in solving problems which present themselves in their factories or works.

In addition to these broad general movements for the advancement of the industries of the Dominion, the council has decided to examine carefully a number of specific projects which have been submitted to it, and which appear to give promise of yielding valuable results. They have also decided to recommend that certain of these be at once taken up and work upon them be at once started.

HORSE LOVERS TO HAVE ANOTHER TREAT THIS YEAR

Association Has Issued Annual Schedule Showing That Races Will Be a Big Feature This Season

War reports are to have no effect on harness horse racing in Canada the coming season. The official program which has been announced by the association includes some thrilling races both trotting and pacing for the summer, including an occasional running race and jumping contest.

The opening meet will be at Calgary where many attractive races are now scheduled to be run.

All these races are for $800 except the free-for-all, which is for $600 Calgary, the opening meeting of the circuit, has a very attractive program, as there are three straight trotting events for the 2.14, 2.17 and 2.25 classes. Their 2.14 trot may attract more horses and provide a much better contest than the 2.15 at Regina and randon unless the 2.14 class trotters are taken to other circuits on account of not having a chance to race at the big meets in this circuit. The Brandon meeting lasts only three days, with eight harness races for $800 each, with two straight trotting events for the 2.15 and 2.20 classes, but Regina's program lasts through four days and is much more attractive, with three trotting events and two big pacing races in the 2.09 and free-for-all classes. Of the smaller cities on the circuit, North-Battleford has the most attractive program on account of separating the trotters and pacers. Very often a good trotter is soured by being made to score away against fast pacers and on account of a trotter being unable to score fast enough many good starts are spoiled and a great amount of time lost.

The program as set forth by the association is a very interesting one to lovers of horse flesh. Calgary has the reputation of giving excellent races and fine purses in the past and this season will probably eclipse all others in this respect.

BULLETIN

UNITED STATES DECLARES WAR ON GERMANY

On Friday President Wilson signed the resolution which had been prepared some time ago declaring that a state of war existed between the United States and Germany.

All of the noted German ringleaders in the United States have been ordered arrested as well as many suspects.

German ships that have been lying in the American harbors were ordered seized.

As soon as the announcement became known many demonstrations were made throughout the country.

BIG EXPLOSION IN FERNIE KILLS 34 MINERS

On Thursday night an explosion occurred in the Coal Creek camp about six thousand feet underground, which resulted in the death of 34 miners The accident happened just at a time when the shift was being made.

BRAZIL WILL FOLLOW THE STEPS OF U. S.

It is reported that Brazil has decided to follow the steps of the United tates and declare war on Germany. In accordance with the resolution on German ships have been detained and will be confiscated.

The Brazilian government warned Germany some time ago that if she persisted in unrestricted submarine warfare that she would hold Germany responsible for the consequences.

GREAT BRITAIN IS HOLDING 71,000 PRISONERS

London, April 4.—Reports from headquarters say that Great Britain holds more than 71,000 prisoners of war, of whom 55,379 are Germans, while Germany has 32,500 British war prisoners. Very few Britons are held as prisoners outside of Germany. Proposals for exchange of prisoners have been considerably advanced with Turkey, but Germany and Austria-Hungary have not replied to the British suggestions.

Farmers Losing Millions Through Inadequate Storage

Unless Government Provides More Terminal Elevators Farmers Will Lose Large Amounts Through Damp Crops.

The prying need in the western provinces today is more terminal elevators. To alleviate the condition to some extent the farming associations are building elevators in large numbers at various points in the two provinces, but even these will not be sufficient to handle the crop if the increase comes as expected that it will this year.

It is said that there are millions of bushels of wheat in the provinces held up that is in a decidedly bad condition through lack of proper housing. That this grain is damp and will be held up until June before it will be in condition for the market on account of not having been stored in an elevator.

The worst part of this report is that there is no hope for a better condition of affairs the coming year, unless some herculean efforts are made to build sufficient storage elevators this summer, and this not at all likely from present reports.

It is possible for the farmer to dry his own grain. This has been done in some instances, but it is a tedious job. The farmer would have to be equipped with a steam engine, and be in touch with sufficient fuel at a low cost to make the job profitable.

Damp grain can not be put into shape until it reaches the terminals. At the northern points there are millions of bushels of this grain still to be moved. Samples show that from 14 to 16 per cent. moisture.

All grain in storage has practically been sold for May delivery so that it will be the end of May or the first of June before there will be adequate space to take care of any sizable amount of this damp crop. This will throw the grain in the July market which is usually much lower than the early spring market.

From this it will readily be seen that the farmers of the country who have not been able to find terminal facilities for their grain are going to saddle a big loss through this lack of storage.

There is not the slightest doubt that this condition will get worse and a movement should be started at once by the agricultural associations to see that the government provides proper facilities for the farmer.

PREMIER SIFTON HONORED WITH GLOWING TRIBUTE

At Opening of Horse Show in Edmonton the Association Expresses its Feeling in Straight Manner

Premier Sifton was honored with a glowing tribute the early part of the week at the opening of the Edmonton Industrial exhibition. Over a thousand people were present at the presentation including Lt.-Gov. Brett. The address was as follows:

"We avail ourselves of this opportunity to congratulate you upon the long years of public service you have rendered to the people of this province and the northwest territories and to assure you that your work has left an abiding mark on the character of the laws and institutions of this country.

"Although not actively engaged in the pursuits of the farm, yet we know that since you were identified with the Brandon Agricultural society in the early eighties you have continuously evinced a keen interest in the welfare of the producers on the land.

"Your wide and extensive knowledge of conditions in western Canada, of the vicissitudes of the early settlers and of the problems incident to opening up the great lone land has kindled in your heart a strong sympathy for the pioneers and those who make their living by tilling the soil.

"This has no doubt been the inspiration of the large measure of beneficial legislation such as the Alberta farm loan act, the agricultural schools, the act for the encouragement of increased production of livestock, laws that affect the fundamental industries of the province enacted by your government, and for the truly generous grants to agricultural associations and societies."

WOMEN UNIFORM CONSTABLES

The ministry has employed 500 lady constables for work in munition factories in Great Britain. The work of these lady constables is to guard women workers and prevent carelessness.

MUSIC IN THE BATTLE ZONE

Photo shows remains of an old church in northern France almost entirely demolished by shell fire. Strangely the organ was untouched affording an opportunity for use by the soldiers.

BUY A WHEEL AND ENJOY LIFE

G. HURLBUT, Res. Phone W1351 Phone M3661

Star Cycle and Motor Company

224 Seventh Avenue East, CALGARY, ALTA.

LOCAL AGENCY OF PERFECT BICYCLES

Motor and Bicycle High-Class Repairing. Auto Electrical Systems a Speciality. Sole Agents for Indian Motor Cycles

Established 1906

THE BEST—

Perfect Bicycles - - $50.00

Star Bicycles - - - $37.50

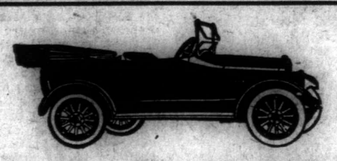
One of the Best Equipped Workshops in the West

Ask For Catalogues

IDDIOLS BROS.

LOCKSMITHS

We Sell the "Crescent" Bicycle. Made in Canada by C. C. M. Co.



Bicycle Tires and Accessories.

All Kinds of Repairs Made on Short Notice.

We always have a few good second-hand Wheels for sale

712 Second St. E. Phone M6516

GRAY-DORT AUTOMOBILES

For beauty, easy riding qualities, strength and economy these cars cannot be excelled

"The Quality Goes Clear Through"

PRICE $960.00 at Calgary

SHOWROOMS: 235 8th Avenue West

Phone M5337

WEBBER'S GARAGE

FORD SPECIALISTS

: Everything for the :

:: Motorist ::

OPEN DAY AND NIGHT

129 5th Ave. W. Phone M2033

For Business or Pleasure

Fill every leisure moment with keen, healthful enjoyment. Learn to know the swiftly passing panorama of the city streets—the beauty of the wild places—the supreme joy of cycling that wipes out the cares of yesterday and the problems of tomorrow, by riding a bicycle. Then, too, you will know the incomparable sensation that comes to him who can go anywhere, at a loitering pace or with the wind, at will. Don't overlook cycling this year if you want real sport.

The Bicycle

The bicycle is coming into its own again. After years and years in which this much-needed and pleasure-giving vehicle has been put on the shelf, it is now coming back more strongly than ever. Physicians are recommending it as one of the strongest advocates of health and people generally are recognizing that it has few equals for pleasure at a moderate expense.

The bicycle is beginning to invade Western Canada as it has invaded other countries. Bicycles are being used today for health, pleasure and business. Bicycle week is now a thing of the past, but the bicycle, that mighty savior of public health, will go on for ever.

"Ride a Bicycle" and "Time to Buy a Bicycle" are the slogans which are being used by members of the bicycle trade throughout Canada this spring in a movement to encourage cycling for health, pleasure, economy and utility.

Organizations of bicycle boosters have been formed in a number of the leading cities of the country to demonstrate the various advantages of wheeling. The bicycle will be brought to the attention of the general public in every possible manner.

It is confidently believed that 100,000 new bicycles will be sold in the Dominion this year while in the United States, with its greater home market, the bicycle authorities anticipate the sale of one million wheels.

The bicycle is earning more and more staunch supporters every day but the wheel has not come back as a means for a fad or craze, it is pointed out. One reason for this is that there is no tendency to adopt the bicycle for furious or reckless riding while the day of freak performances is over. The old club days will probably never be revived but the bicycle is now being looked upon as a simple and practicle vehicle with which one may obtain exercise and business benefit with very low cost.

One big indication that the bicycle is coming back to stay is that the society leaders of the United States have been using the bicycle a great deal in the Florida summer resorts during the past three winters. If the bicycle had been classed as a whim of fashion or as a fad, it would have been discarded the second season. The women and men of the exclusive set at Palm Beach and other winter resorts have been making good use of the bicycle, although many of them have several automobiles at their disposal constantly.

RELIANCE AUTO CYCLE CO.

The Reliance Auto Cycle Co., 107 Seventh avenue west, are agents for the Harley Davidson, which is sufficient guarantee for the products which they represent. This concern carries a large stock of accessories and repairs for the motorcycles and any work intrusted to their care is sure of prompt and efficient service. When you need anything in the motorcycle line you should make this firm a call before completing your purchases.

STAR CYCLE AND MOTOR CO.

The Star Cycle and Motor Co., at 224 Seventh avenue east, advertise the fact that they are local agents for the Perfect bicycle. They also handle the Star bicycle.

We do not know whether there are any bicycles superior to those handled by the Star Cycle Co., but, knowing the firm, we are convinced that if there were any better bicycles made, than they handle, the Star company would have them. They have an enviable reputation for first class work in the cycle and motor field and they enjoy a patronage in Calgary that is growing greater daily.

GET THE HABIT

A writer in the States has compiled a list of good habits that might be adopted with good results by everyone. A few of the suggestions are as follows:

Get the habit—of early rising.
Get the habit—of retiring early.
Get the habit—of eating slowly.
Get the habit—of being grateful.
Get the habit—of being punctual.
Get the habit—of fearing nothing.
Get the habit—of speaking kindly.
Get the habit — of radiating sunshine.
Get the habit—of seeking the sunshine daily.
Get the habit—of speaking correctly.
Get the habit — of pronouncing correctly.
Get the habit — of closing doors gently.
Get the habit—of neatness in appearance.
Get the habit—of relying on self, always.
Get the habit—of a forgiving spirit.
Get the habit—of being industrious
Get the habit—of apprehending no evil.
Get the habit—of anticipating only good.
Get the habit—of always being progressive.
Get the habit—of always paying as you go.
Get the habit—of promptness at meals.
Get the habit—of a quiescent concentration.
Get the habit—of daily physical exercise.
Get the habit—of being accommodating.
Get the habit—of being a good listener.
Get the habit—of economy—not stinginess.
Get the habit—of eating but one meal a day.
Get the habit—of eating but one hearty meal a day.
Get the habit—of hoping on and hoping ever.
Get the habit—of expecting that for which you hope.
Get the habit—of respecting everyone's religious views.
Get the habit—of respecting everyone's political views.
Get the habit—of looking at things from another's point of view.
Get the habit—of healing a wound, rather than making one.

Habit is a good thing, a very good thing—if it is a good habit. In such a case it should be encouraged.

Many a self-made man looks as if he might have been greatly improved with a very little outside assistance.

NEVER AGAIN.

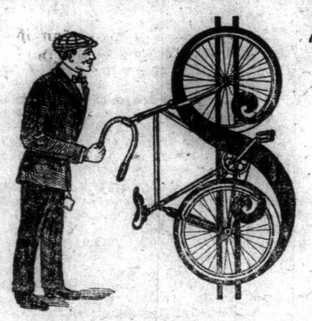
"Does your wife ever make you exchange goods she buys and does not like?"

"She tried that once, and once only. I exchanged a silk dress for a meerschaum pipe."

Best Bicyle Values

WE ARE CLEVELAND AGENTS

Cleveland Roadster, best grade equipment - - $50.00



Cleveland Roadster, "B" grade equipment - - $42.50

Martin's Rambler, extra good value - - - $37.50

FULL STOCK OF ACCESSORIES

Alex. Martin Sporting Goods Co., Ltd.

231 EIGHTH AVE. EAST

$ $ $ $ $

Premier - - - $37.50

Ivanhoe A - - - $50.00

Ivanhoe B - - - $42.50

Canadian made and guaranteed; also the best equipped repair shop in Alberta.

Only first-class mechanics employed

PREMIER CYCLE WORKS

102 Seventh Avenue West

Cor. 7th Avenue and Centre St.

Phone M1755

Join the Satisfied Throng

And Ride a HARLEY-DAVIDSON

Agents for Southern Alberta

The Reliance Auto Cycle Company

107 Seventh Avenue West

Phone M3727 CALGARY

We carry a large stock of Accessories, and repair all makes of Motorcycles

Our shop is fully equipped with machinery to do any kind of work in the repair line. We also repair and handle sewing machines. Our Oxyacetylene plant gives you any service you wish in broken parts.

General Repair Works

P. C. HEAD, Prop.

230 Seventh Avenue East

(Opposite Post Office)

Phone M3115 CALGARY

We Repair Guns, Sewing Machines, Gramophones, Typewriters, Cash Registers, Musical Instruments, Slot Machines, Carpet Sweepers, Vacuum Cleaner, etc.

We Grind Scissors, Knives, Clippers and All Edged Tools. Work done by and Expert Grinder

Locks Repaired and Keys Made. We Repair Electric Irons, Stoves, etc. Guns Repaired by an Expert Gunsmith. We do Welding, Brazing and Soldering

ALL WORK GUARANTEED

Rheumatism Conquered at Last!

MONEY-BACK COUPON WITH EACH BOTTLE

CALKINS' RHEUMATISM CURE

A Wonderful Remedy for Any Blood Disease

Drives out Poisons through the Urine, Bowels, Lungs and Pores of the body. Soothes the nerves, and is a heart sedative. Heals the mucous membrane linings of the body, corrects bronchial affections, so that the lungs can help in throwing off the poisons.

Money Returned if Results are Not Satisfactory

Send for Testimonials of Prominent People

Sent by Mail or Express only, charges prepaid, on receipt of price

$2.00

H. M. Calkins & Co., 7 Bruce Ave.,

Windsor, Ontario, Canada

To Physicians—You are urged to try this in cases of Rheumatism. You will not be disappointed. Will gladly answer any questions as to the effects of the 12 ingredients. CALKINS & CO.

BEST WORK
BEST SERVICE
BEST PRICES

PRINTING

Send for Samples

A. R. LITTLEBURY
105 6th. AVE., W.
CALGARY

Alive :: A Up to the

No More S

Stalling in the prize ri be getting unpopular with that he. Time was when got away with, but no stuff doesn't seem to go Witness the case of J who has just been barr lumbia, Ohio. The champion, with his ma
Morgan, have been susp reported, because the missioners at Columbus that Britton's recent bou Downey there was "fra the encounter. The c are investigating the l with a view to handin punishment to the Colu his manager, Emil Thiry them parties to such an

Know Britton St

In a statement the c state that they know Br but are doubtful about D think Bryan tried hard a Several weeks before fought, Britton passed cago on his way to St.
Mike O'Dowd. While i ing at the Arcade gym several rounds with those who watched the Britton appeared to be
The result was Downey tremely good against the
The next day it was match would be made clubs, but this was dis cause it was known classed Downey by too l
A week later it was an would meet in Columbus
The fathers of the tw warm friends and it is Downey is entirely inn may have permitted Bry a showing" to keep fr parental wrath.

Not Britton's First

This is not Britton's Fans remember how he fight with Packey McF so very long ago. Br closed boxing in Clevel barred from there. New very seldom use him.
Britton is a Chicago b been making his home for the last several yea his claim to the welterw pionship when he beat T
20 rounds in New Orlea decisively outpointed Al
the Frenchman, in a 10
Downey is only a youn making Chicago his head comes from Columbus.
When one steps to ring career of each, ther parison. Britton stands shoulders above Downey opinion of experts he w once if he cared to pre from doing so.
Accounts of their figh bus differ, but the majo side critics thought D
They all agree it was and that Britton didn't hand until the last few

Another Problem

While boxing commi making an attempt to many fight fans wish it to compel champions to tiles instead of giving bids on their services tention of squeezing eve sible out of their crown ing to Jess Willard, cha weight, of course. But case of Jess.
Jess Willard began hi boxer six years ago.
since he faced Louis F
pulpa, Okla., ring Febru
Big Jess has spent jus hours in the actual pr profession.
Just how much he has last six years cannot b any degree of accuracy on the subject showing
He has had to split his big stable of managers on, but even so, Jess ha cleared up a lot of k dozen hours of scrapp reputation he gained th

RUSSO-

Late dispatches Persian army hard are advancing up t capture of the enti

LIFE

Throng
DAVIDSON
Alberta cle Company e West
CALGARY

ipped with machinery to do any line. We also repair and handle Oxyacetylene plant gives you any parts.

epair Works
HEAD, Prop.
th Avenue East
ite Post Office)
CALGARY
hines, Gramophones, Typewriters, Cash s, Slot Machines, Carpet Sweepers, m Cleaner, etc.
ppers and All Edged Tools. Work done Expert Grinder de. We Repair Electric Irons, Stoves, y an Expert Gunsmith. We do razing and Soldering GUARANTEED

Conquered at Last!
Y-BACK COUPON
EACH BOTTLE
HEUMATISM CURE
dy for Any Blood Disease
the Urine, Bowels, Lungs and Pores of rves, and is a heart sedative. Heals linings of the body, corrects bron- t the lungs can help in throwing the poisons.
Results are Not Satisfactory onials of Prominent People ly, charges prepaid, on receipt of price
$2.00
& Co., 7 Bruce Ave.,
, Ontario, Canada ged to try this in cases of Rheumatism. nted. Will gladly answer any questions 12 ingredients. CALKINS & CO.

NTING
les
A. R. LITTLEBURY
105 6th. AVE., W.
CALGARY

Alive :: Alert Up to the Minute

NEWS AND VIEWS ON SPORTS

Local .: Provincial World in General

No More Stalling Will Be Permitted In The Ring

Stalling in the prize ring seems to be getting unpopular with the powers that be. Time was when it could be got away with, but nowadays the stuff doesn't seem to go.

Witness the case of Jack Britton, who has just been barred from Columbus, Ohio. The welterweight champion, with his manager, Dan Morgan, have been suspended, it is reported, because the boxing commissioners at Columbus have decided that Britton's recent bout with Bryan Downey there was "framed" before the encounter. The commissioners are investigating the Downey end with a view to handing the same punishment to the Columbus boy and his manager, Emil Thiry, if they find them parties to such an arrangement.

Know Britton Stalled

In a statement the commissioners state that they know Britton stalled, but are doubtful about Downey. They think Bryan tried hard all the way.

Several weeks before the fight was fought, Britton passed through Chicago on his way to St. Paul to meet Mike O'Dowd. While he was training at the Arcade gym. he boxed several rounds with Downey. To those who watched the performance, Britton appeared to be going easy. The result was Downey looked extremely good against the champion.

The next day it was reported the match would be made for nearby clubs, but this was discouraged because it was known Britton outclassed Downey by too big a margin. A week later it was announced they would meet in Columbus.

The fathers of the two boxers are warm friends and it is possible that Downey is entirely innocent. Jack may have permitted Bryan to "make a showing" to keep from incurring parental wrath.

Not Britton's First Offence

This is not Britton's first offence. Fans remember how he stalled in his fight with Packey McFarland. Not so very long ago Britton almost closed boxing in Cleveland. He is barred from there. New York clubs very seldom use him.

Britton is a Chicago boy, but has been making his home in the east for the last several years. He won his claim to the welterweight championship when he beat Ted Lewis in 20 rounds in New Orleans and then decisively outpointed Albert Badoud, the Frenchman, in a 10-round bout. Downey is only a youngster and is making Chicago his headquarters. He comes from Columbus.

When one stops to consider the ring career of each, there is no comparison. Britton stands head and shoulders above Downey, and in the opinion of experts he wouldn't be hit once if he cared to prevent Bryan from doing so.

Accounts of their fight in Columbus differ, but the majority of ringside critics thought Downey won. They all agree it was a slow fight and that Britton didn't use his right hand until the last few rounds.

Another Problem of Ring

While boxing commissioners are making an attempt to stop stalling, many fight fans wish it were possible to compel champions to defend their titles instead of giving circuses first bids on their services with the intention of squeezing every penny possible out of their crowns; not alluding to Jess Willard, champion heavyweight, of course. But consider the case of Jess.

Jess Willard began his career as a boxer six years ago. In the period since he faced Louis Fink in a Sapulpa, Okla., ring February 15, 1911, Big Jess has spent just about 12¼ hours in the actual practice of his profession.

Just how much he has made in the last six years cannot be stated with any degree of accuracy, the guesses on the subject showing a wide range. He has had to split his coin with his big stable of managers and hangers-on, but even so, Jess has undoubtedly cleared up a lot of kale from his dozen hours of scrapping, and the reputation he gained thereby.

Most of his snug fortune has been derived from his circus engagements and various by-products of pugilistic fame. If Jess had received only the money he has earned by actual fighting he wouldn't be any plutocrat.

Thirty-one Bouts to His Credit

Since his first bout in Sapulpa six years ago, which he won on a foul in the tenth round, Jess has participated in a total of 31 contests, with a total of 246 rounds.

He fought eight bouts, lasting 55 rounds, in 1911, all of them in Oklahoma. In 1912 his total was seven battles, lasting 43 rounds. One of these was fought in Indiana, two in Illinois, three in New York, and one in Buffalo.

Willard's busiest year was 1913, when he fought 11 times, a total of 85 rounds. In that year Jess displayed his fistic goods in New Haven, New York, Buffalo, Fort Wayne, Ind., Milwaukee, Reno, Nev., and San Francisco. In 1914 he fought three bouts, lasting 27 rounds, in Youngstown, Ohio, Buffalo, and Atlanta, Ga.

His 26-round contest with Jack Johnson in Havana was his only ring appearance in 1915. Last year he took part in one bout, the 10-round affair with Frank Moran in New York.

Enter, New Champion

Speaking of champions, one of those dancing, cautious, reserved kind of fighters hung up his hat and coat and settled down in New York the other day along with Freddie Welsh. His name is Pete Herman. He claims the bantamweight championship and he declares he proved it by whipping Dutch Brandt.

Pete did whip Dutch Brandt, and he showed the Broadway Sporting club crowd, before whom the bout took place, that he can fight when he feels like it, but he earned a shade over the rugged New York bantam by the narrowest of margins.

Brandt was willing, forcing the scrap from one gong to another, while Herman was content to cover and stay covered except at various moments. Brandt caught the southern bantam once flush on the chin and sent him reeling into the ropes, but Herman quickly recovered, and subsequently was given the popular decision; and now he's looking for worlds to conquer.

New Rules That Players Must Keep

Mandatory in Future That Players Hold Tongue Until Game is Started

New regulations to curb the carrying of instructions from the side lines and the elimination of the field goal from a multiple kick formation are the outstanding features of the new rules adopted by the football rules committee for the 1917 season. The committee, at its recent annual session in New York, instructed the secretary to prepare corrections and additions to the code to cover the following changes:

A substitute player entering the game must not speak to any other player on the field until after the ball has been put into play; in case any change in the positions of the players is necessary, the incoming substitute must give information through the referee.

In case the substitute takes the place of the player giving signals, he may give the signals for the next play, but cannot speak to any player until after the ball is put into play. The penalty for a violation of this rule is the loss of 15 yards.

Seek to Avoid Handicap

That the present rule may not work a hardship, considerable leeway has been given the referee in the matter of inflicting penalties for the failure of a substitute to report to the game officials before entering the play.

The new addition to the code makes it discretionary with the referee whether or not the penalty shall be imposed when the incoming substitute fails to report, but does not interfere with the play or speak to the players prior to the ball being put into play.

It was further ruled that a goal from the field could only be scored by a place kick or a drop kick, and the fact was emphasized that a place kick was made with the ball resting upon the ground, which would appear to bar the use of multiple kick formation, as now in vogue, as the ball is held suspended a few inches above the ground when kicked. The use of artificial tees for a kickoff at the beginning of periods also was barred.

New Rules on Forward Pass

Other changes include the giving of the ball to the offended side where there is illegal interference with the player receiving a forward pass, at the point where the foul is committed. In case the foul is committed [illegible] goal line the ball goes to [illegible] team on the yard line.

The penalty of five yards will be imposed in the future for running into the kicker, and 15 yards and disqualification for roughing; the penalties to be imposed from the point where the ball was put into play.

The referee is also empowered to permit the substitution of a new ball in play on a wet field at the end of the second period at his discretion.

E. Caddock After Stecher's Scalp

Young Iowaian Wrestler Thinks He Will Win in Coming Bout with Noted Champion.

When Earl Caddock, of Anita, Iowa, meets Joe Stecher, of Dodge, Neb., in Omaha, Neb., April 9, two old rivals of amateur days will clash and the stake will be the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world. Stecher bears the crown now. He never has been defeated, though recently a decision was given John Olin when Stecher quit the match.

No wrestler ever has pinned Stecher's shoulders to the mat except Caddock, and no wrestler ever has pinned Caddock's back to a canvas except Stecher. Both men flattened each other in their amateur days before either had gained prominence. Stecher won the match, but not until his opponent had won one fall.

Caddock will go to Omaha backed by Frank Gotch, retired heavyweight champion, and many of the sport-loving public of Iowa. Gotch is helping train the Anita boy for the match. Long ago he picked Caddock as the coming champion, despite the fact that Caddock weighs only 190 pounds.

Unlike Stecher, Caddock is not a one-hold wrestler, although his favorite means of throwing his opponent is with a head scissors and wrist lock. Stecher rarely throws an opponent except with the body scissors and some auxiliary hold.

Caddock has earned the name of "the wrestler of a thousand holds." He is considered the most scientific heavyweight wrestler in the game today and his speed is a revelation. It is his alertness and quickness of feet and arms that are expected to win for him over the much slower Stecher.

Oldest Ball Player Died at Age of 67

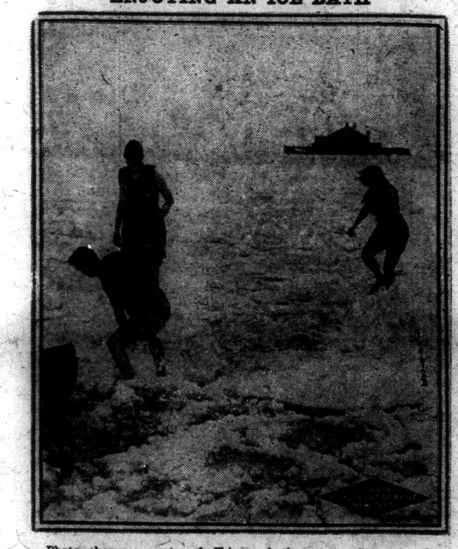
Eddie Miller Played with Boston Before Day of Big Leagues

Eddie Miller, reputed to have been the oldest professional baseball player in the United States, died the other day at Ogden, Utah. Miller was a member of the Boston and Brooklyn teams before the National league was organized. He was a teammate of Sidney Farrar, father of Geraldine Farrar, the opera singer, on the old Hub City team. He was born in Toronto, Canada, 67 years ago.

Sam C. Bittle, former star bare knuckle fighter and ball player, is dead at his home in Detroit, Mich., after an illness of three years. Bittle won a great battle from Harry Gilmore, of Chicago, in 1886, in one of the bloodiest battles in the history of the ring. Bittle won at the end of the 26th round, when he sent Gilmore down for the count with a blow on the jaw.

Jim Barry, American heavyweight pugilist, is dead, according to word brought to New York by Sam McVey, negro pugilist, on his return from Panama, where he went to meet Barry in a bout. Barry, according to McVey, lost his life in a quarrel.

ENJOYING AN ICE BATH



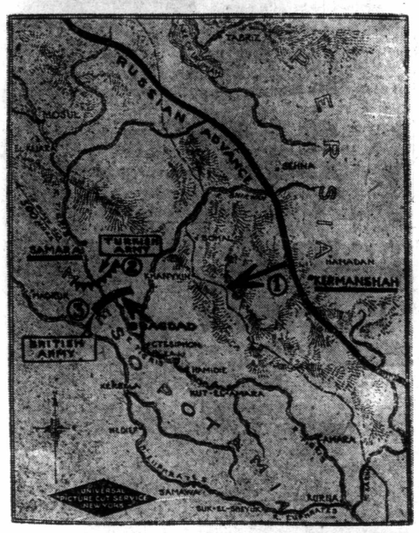


Photo shows a party of Chicago bathers returning over the ice from the weekly plunge into the icy waters. The temperature on this occasion was about 10 degrees above zero.

RUSSO-BRITISH JUNCTION NEAR

RUSSIAN ADVANCE TURKISH ARMY
BRITISH ARMY
KERMANSHAH
BAGHDAD
MOSUL KIRKUK
KERMANSHAH
SAMARRA
KUT-EL-AMARA
KARIND KERIND
KIRIND
SAMARRA
KIRIND
KUT-EL-AMARA
KERMANSHAH
BAGHDAD
MOSUL KIRKUK
SAMARRA
KERMANSHAH
BAGHDAD

THEATRES | WHERE TO GO | PICTURE PLAYS | WHAT TO SEE | VAUDEVILLE

Grand

Three Days Commencing Thursday, April 12th

MATINEE SATURDAY

PRETTY GIRLS — GUS HILL'S Whirlwind Musical Comedy — GOOD COMEDY

"MUTT AND JEFF'S WEDDING"

CATCHY MUSIC — The Laughing Show of the Age. A Laugh every second and then some. A Real "PHUNPHEST" for old and young. Bring the Kiddies to the Matinee — GORGEOUS COSTUMES

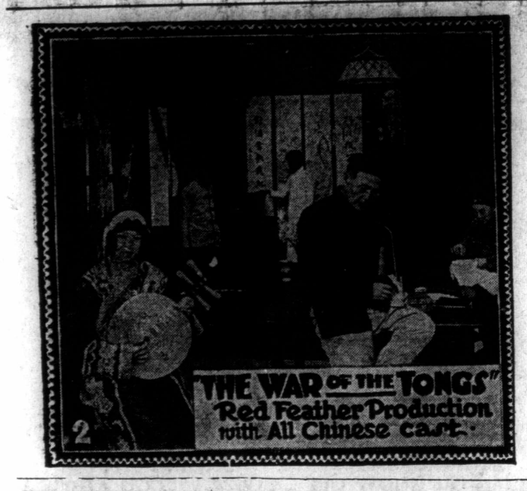
POPULAR PRICES:
Evenings —$1.00, 75c, 50c and 25c
Saturday Matinee—50c and 25c

Rosalind Coghland and Belle Story Orpheum Features

Two very capable and talented actresses will be seen as the joint headliners on the Orpheum bill next week.

From a parsonage near Pittsburg to the Grand Opera stage, seems an almost endless journey. However, Belle Story has travelled the greater part of the distance. In fact, she has reached so near her goal that the rest of the trip seems comparatively easy. Miss Story is the daughter of a minister, who had her study music with the intention of making her a choir girl. This was accomplished only for a short period, as it was not long after her preliminary musical education had been finished, that she found her way into vaudeville, where she has become one of the most famous singers of the two-a-day.

Rosalind Coghlan, daughter of the famous Coghlan family, will present "Our Little Bride," a pretty comedy especially written for her by George Bloomquest. She is ably assisted by a capable and talented company of players.



Johnny Johnston and Bob Harty will be seen in their comedy offering "On the Shrewsbury." The story, for there is one, although the piece makes no claim except being a laugh provoker, concerns two actors who are bungalowing on the river that threads itself to the Jersey coast.

Bert Kenney and Nobody will present an original and novel comedy blackface offering. Mr. Kenney is a blackface comedian par excellence, and he and Nobody relate a few lines about the truth that is farcical and enlightening. It might be said that I. R. Nobody is Kenney's implement to extract laughs from the gloom.

The Barry and Fays a generation ago were the best known and best liked comedians in America, and the present generation of Barrys hold their own in any company. Among the Barrys who are enjoying public favor at the present time are the Barry Girls, who describe themselves as dainty delineators of popular melodies. The sisters bring the family fresh laurels, at the same time create a fine position for themselves on the Canadian stage.

Three musicians, a violinist, a pianist and a vocalist, each of whom have gained individual prominence have banded together for the presentation of their combined efforts in vaudeville. These they call "The Recital," so named because their program is in reality a recital. The three soloists are composed of Modesta Mortensen, violin, Granville English, pianist, and Greta Spencer, soprano.

To finish the bill the Monroe Brothers are to present a comedy bounding acrobatic act, some of their feats being of a highly novel nature.

PANTAGES

UNEQUALLED VAUDEVILLE

WEEK OF APRIL 9TH

THE AL GOLEM TROUPE
"The Slave Dealers"

Foley & O'Neil
"Two Nifties"

Bevan & Flight
"A Slight Interruption"

Queenie Dunedin
"The Variety Girl"

Pearl of The Army

HARLAN E. KNIGHT CO.
"The Chalk Line"

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG
At the Allen Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday

Annual visit of Our Old Friends Mutt and Jeff

Once again the merrymaking Mutt and Jeff will be with us. The season of laughter is about to begin. Mutt and Jeff in a brand new dress comes to the Grand next Thursday Friday and Saturday with a bigger and better show than has ever appeared before, under this well known title. Giving Mutt and Jeff a new and superior production each successive year is an act of diplomacy on the part of Gus Hill. Bud Fisher's eccentric characters can live for a century or die as dead as a door nail in sixty days, if allowed to do so, but it is decidedly to the interest of both Bud Fisher and Gus Hill to see them live for years innumerable, which they will do as long as Fisher is able to furnish new dope and up-to-the-minute comedy situations and as long as Gus Hill furnishes a new and acceptable vehicle for their stage work. Both of these gentlemen seem to be successfully keeping up their pace at the present writing. Mutt and Jeff's Wedding will represent the last word in musical comedy production, everything being new but the name. The American public never wanted to laugh more than they do at this time. They seek comedy even in moving pictures. Gus Hill's mission since his entry into the theatrical producing game has been to make people laugh. He is the acknowledged dean of cartoon comedy production, never having offered a play of this sort that did not prove a success. It is, therefore, distinctly evident that the enormous success of Mutt and Jeff's Wedding is due to proper handling, by catering to the wishes and desires of the theatergoing public. This season's show consists of a sixty foot car load of scenery, properties and costumes. A cast of fifty capable artists and the inevitable chorus of pretty girls without which the phun phest would be incomplete. Don't miss Mutt and Jeff's Wedding at the Grand, for three days, beginning Thursday, April 12th.

"Oliver Twist" with Marie Doro at Allen Monday

Special attraction at the Allen on Easter Monday, one day only.

Marie Doro, the celebrated stage and screen star, who recently scored such a pronounced success in "Oliver Twist," will be seen at the Allen Easter Monday, for one day only, in the Jesse L. Lasky production of the clever Irish drama, "Castles for Two," written especally for her by Beatrice De Mille and Leighton Osmun.

By her beauty, personal charm and wonderful dramatic ability Miss Doro has within a year achieved as great popularity in the photodrama as she did on the speaking stage, and each Lasky Production in which she has appeared has added fresh laurels to her wreath of fame. In "Castles for Two" she has a wonderful opportunity to show her ability as a comedienne, and is also given plenty of scope for her dramatic talents.

The story of "Castles for Two" has to do with the adventures of an impulsive heiress, who, tiring of social life in New York, flees with her nurse to Ireland, and, disguised as a maid, wins the heart of an impecunious but fine Irish lord.

The efforts of this young society girl, trained to be waited upon, to act as a servant in order to make the lord and his wealth-seking family believe she is of poor origin, are depicted by Miss Doro in her usual charming manner.

As the wealthy society girl, Miss Doro has an opportunity to display a number of beautiful gowns, several of which were designed especially for this production

Miss Doro's supporting cast is headed by Elliott Dexter, as the young Irish Lord and includes Mayme Kelso, Lillian Leighton, Horace B. Carpenter, Billy Elmer, Jane Wolff, Harriett Sorenson, Julia Jackson and Marie Mills.

The production is unusually artistic and the exterior scenes are especially beautiful, and all are photographed in the usual splendid Lasky manner.

Extraordinary Bill Featured at the Pantages Monday

A great program of extraordinary features will prevail at the Pantages Theater for next week; comedy will be the predominating feature of the entertainment commencing with the matinee next Monday afternoon.

The Al Golem Troupe of Pantomimists and acrobats extraordinary, will be the feature attraction in their spectacular presentation entitled "The Slave Dealers"; they will present the following numbers: "Prayer to the Sun", the living sun, balancing ladders, Persian pyramids, hanging fans and temples, balancing bamboos, the swing of death, and a number of other sensational performances.

"The Chalk Line" is the title of the playlet to be presented by Harlan E. Knight and Company. This playlet takes its title from an actual incident in Limerick, Maine, the home of Mr. Knight, who stars in the sketch as the old grocery store keeper. "The Chalk Line" is a rural comedy drama given with special settings and a wealth of rustic realism. Foley and O'Neil known as "The Two Nifties," will amuse with their comedy patter and clever singing and dancing. These boys are sure to make a great hit as they are real entertainers.

Bevan and Flint will offer a comedy skit entitled, "A Slight Interruption," which abounds in laugh producing lines. It is sure of much popularity while in Calgary.

Queenie Dunedin billed as "The Variety Girl," will present a pot-pourri of singing, dancing, riding and many other things of which she is an expert.

"Pearl of the Army" will conclude a most interesting and entertaining program of unequalled vaudeville that is sure to please even the most exacting of theatergoers.

Big Pictures at the Allen Beginnig Tuesday

The evolution of a strong, self-sufficient woman out of a social butterfly is seen in "The Price She Paid," which will be the Selznick-pictures attraction at the Allen four days next week commencing Tuesday.

Miss Clara Kimball Young, whose popularity with the moving picture public increases constantly, is the star of this offering, appearing as Mildred Gower, a young woman who has been used to luxury, but finds herself in poor circumstances at the death of her father.

David Graham Phillips, author of this popular story, has shown in real colors the problems which confront thousands of women every year. There is the temptation to marry for money, the temptation to purchase ease at the price of self-respect, and other sorts of "easiest ways." But Mildred Gower is shown to be a young woman who cherishes certain high ideals, and will not, when it comes to the crisis, pay the necessary price for sheltered existence.

She does, however, marry for money, but she leaves her wealthy husband when she realizes the humiliation of her position. She does accept help from a man who, she knows, loves her, but again comes to an understanding of what it means, and again strikes out for herself. How she achieves her ambition forms one of the most fascinating of fiction and screen stories. It is the story of a woman's life, and reveals secret emotions in a manner seldom encountered in the photo-drama.

An interesting fact, forcibly brought out in the story, is that no singer can become great without a perfect constitution. Most of the famous operatic stars are naturally robust. Those who have not perfect health as a birthright are compelled to acquire it by a course of training as rigid as that undergone by athletes. The person who is so fragile as to be easily susceptible to colds with every change in the weather can never reach success on the operatic or concert stage. The same is true, to a less degree, of actors and actresses.

These facts are, necessarily, only touched upon in the story of Mildred Gower, in which Miss Young finds one of her most engaging and delightfully human roles. This character is no tinsel heroine, but a girl who is actuated by impulses and desires common to her sisters in every stratum of society and in every part of the world. There are few women who would not do what she did, but what makes the character impressive is that she has the force of character to raise herself from the dead level of life. While her career is in the making, however, there is a fascinating love story, three men of contrasted character being enamored of the beautiful girl.

(Continued on Page Five)

At the Bijou Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday

BARRY SISTERS
At the Orpheum Next Week

Paramount Pictures | ALLEN | Paramount Music

LATEST WAR GRAPHIC — Blanche Sweet —in— "Those Without Sin" Lasky Paramount. — LAST TIMES TODAY

MONDAY—ONE DAY ONLY

MARIE DORO

Elliott Dexter, H. B. Carpenter and Billy Elmer, in the old Irish-American romance

"Castles For Two"

Lasky Paramount

ALSO NEW COMEDIES

FOUR DAYS COMMENCING TUESDAY

Clara Kimball Young

The Screen's Supreme Star

—IN—

"The Price She Paid"

A splendid picturization of the great American novel, by David Graham Phillips—Seiznick's Supreme Achievement—Special Music—Screen Time, Two Hours

Commencing 11:30, 1:30, 3:30, 5:30, 7:30, 9:30

Matinee—Child, 5c Adults, 15c
Evening—Child, 10c Adults, 25c
Reserved Section, 35c

SATURDAY ONLY

VIVIAN MARTIN

—IN—

"The Spirit of Romance"

An Exquisitely Fantastic Comedy-Drama

Pallas Paramount

F FOX X BIJOU F FOX X

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday
WM. FOX HEADLINES

GEORGE WALSH

—in—

"Blue Blood and Red"

A Real Western Drama

Thursday, Friday, Saturday
Star in "The Argyle Case"

ROBERT WARWICK

in

"Sudden Riches"

J. R. Hall, Calgary's leading baritone, will sing popular and patriotic songs at afternoon and evening performances.

THE

BIG PICTURES AT T
ALLEN, BEGIN

(Continued from Pa

In its outward aspects, " Paid" is a picture de luxe, the lives of people of unlimit Young's gowns are of the her beauty never has been s advantage. The director, C a new member of the Selz
"The Price She Paid" will b series of big features which under his supervision.

During the engagement of ary attraction the prices w
Matinees; 10c, 25c, 35c eveni Director H. G. Copley, of mount Concert Orchestra, exceptionally fine musical above production, and all be pleased to learn of th which will be rendered at ea

As one of the leading emo the screen, Kathlyn Williams fer Morosco-Paramount star laurels to her brow by he formance in the Morosco pr the Wreck," which will be ance.

Miss Williams is not only of fashionable society, but duma.

Edna Goodrich Mutual

William Russell American-Mutual

Margarita Fische Pollard-Mutual

Orane Wilbu Horsley-Mutu

NEXT M DAY AN

BI ST

...EVILLE

...LEN — Paramount Classic

...e Sweet
—In—
...Without Sin"
...Paramount.

LAST TIMES TODAY

...NE DAY ONLY
...L DORO
...penter and Billy Elmer, in the ...merican romance
...For Two"
...Paramount
...W COMEDIES

...MMENCING TUESDAY
...mball Young
...n's Supreme Star
—IN—
...ce She Paid"
...of the great American novel, by
...eiznick's Supreme Achievement—
...creen Time, Two Hours
...1:30, 3:30, 5:30, 7:30, 9:30

...ild, 5c Adults, 15c
...ild, 10c Adults, 25c
...ed Section, 35c

...RDAY ONLY
...N MARTIN
...—IN—
...it of Romance"
...Fantastic Comedy-Drama
...as Paramount

...o has ...poor ...this ...rs the ...women ...marry ...ase at ...rts of ...eer is ...erishes ...hen it ...price

...y, but ...n she ... She ...knows, ...erstand- ...es out ...hibition ...fiction ...a wo- ...es in a ...photo-

...e out in ...e great ...of the ...robust. ...a birth- ...course ...one by ...ie as to ...every ...ch suc- ...e. The ...ors and

...touched ...n which ...ngaging ...s char- ...who is ...mon to her sisters in every stratum of society and in every part of the world. There are few women who would not do what she did, but what makes the character impressive is that she has the force of character to raise herself from the dead level of life. While her career is in the making, however, there is a fascinating love story, three men of contrasted character being enamored of the beautiful girl.

(Continued on Page Five)

At the Bijou Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday

...JOU — FOX

...Tuesday, Wednesday
...FOX HEADLINES
...GE WALSH
—in—
...lood and Red"
...al Western Drama

...ay, Friday, Saturday
..."The Argyle Case"
...T WARWICK
in
...den Riches"

...'s leading baritone, will sing popular ...afternoon and evening performances.

THEATRICAL NEWS

BIG PICTURES AT THE ALLEN, BEGINNING TUES.

(Continued from Page Four.)

In its outward aspects, "The Price She Paid" is a picture de luxe, as it deals with the lives of people of unlimited wealth. Miss Young's gowns are of the latest mode, and her beauty never has been seen to such good advantage. The director, Charles Giblyn is a new member of the Selznick forces, and "The Price She Paid" will be the first of the series of big features which will be produced under his supervision.

During the engagement of this extraordinary attraction the prices will be 5c-15c for Matinees; 10c, 25c, 35c evenings.

Director H. G. Copley, of the Allen Paramount Concert Orchestra, has arranged an exceptionally fine musical program for the above production, and all music lovers will be pleased to learn of this musical treat, which will be rendered at each performance.

As one of the leading emotional actresses of the screen, Kathlyn Williams, the ever popular Morosco-Paramount star has added new laurels to her brow by her wonderful performance in the Morosco production, "Out of the Wreck," which will be seen at the Allen soon.

Miss Williams is not only seen as a leader of fashionable society, but as a girl of the slums.

A Real Western is coming to the Bijou Theatre

A Western drama that is different is found in the new Fox feature film, "Blue Blood and Red," featuring George Walsh. True western scenes are used throughout this feature drama and should prove a pleasing change from the ordinary run of feature films, the story is as follows:

Algy Dumont (George Walsh), son of a millionaire, after being dismissed from college, leaves home in a racing automobile with the family butler (Martin Kinney), who acts as his young master's valet. The story goes to the west. In Montana Algy starts his adventures by boxing a match with a heavyweight in a small town through which they are passing, who has advertised to meet all comers and pay $100 to anyone who stays three rounds. Algy defeats the champion and wins a much needed century. Leaving here he has car trouble and is chased by a bear which leads him to meet Mildred Demarest (Doris Pawn), daughter of a rancher, Big Bill (James Marcus). The bear proves to be a pet of Mildred's and causes much laughter at the ranch. Algy's attentions to Mildred causes hate of Buck (Vester Perry), foreman of the Demarest ranch, who is in love with Mildred.

Buck is sent by Demarest to buy horses for the British government for use in the European war. Buck takes along $25,000.00 to buy the animals, and Algy goes with him as a companion. Algy's faithful valet follows Buck and overhears Buck and Chippawa Charlie plotting to get away with the money and throw the blame on Algy. Buch and Charlie make for the Mexican border after forcing Algy to write a note to Buck which would evidence that the former had stolen the money.

Cowboys find the supposed note from Algy to Buck, and a posse is sent in pursuit. As they near the border Charlie decides to get all the money for himself, Algy has been brought along as a prisoner as far as the border. In a thrilling fight between the two cowboys they are both killed, and Algy is left alone with the money, just then the posse arrives and arrest Algy with the money in his possession. Algy is declared guilty and the mob of angry cowmen try to lynch the innocent easterner, Algy fresh from his college athletics succeeds in breaking away from the angry mob and escapes.

The valet who has been imprisoned by Buck and Charlie in an empty ice house gets out half-frozen and makes his way to the ranch and tells Mildred the story of Algy's innocence.

In the meantime Algy is pursued by the posse and his horse shot from under him, he is captured again. Mildred having been informed of Algy's innocence takes the fast automobile and arrives at the scene of the arrest in time to prevent the mob from violence, she tells the story as related by Algy's valet and the mob is satisfied.

In a pretty closing scene Algy and the ranchman's daughter ride back to the ranch-house in the racing automobile whose speed hase saved the lover's life.

Edna Goodrich
Mutual

Charles Chaplin
Mutual Comedian

Mary Miles Minter
American-Mutual

Richard Bennett
American-Mutual

William Russell
American-Mutual

Nance O'Neil
Powell-Mutual

Ann Murdock
Empire-Mutual

Gail Kane
American-Mutual

Margarita Fischer
Pollard-Mutual

Marjorie Rambeau
Powell-Mutual

Helen Holmes Signal-Mutual

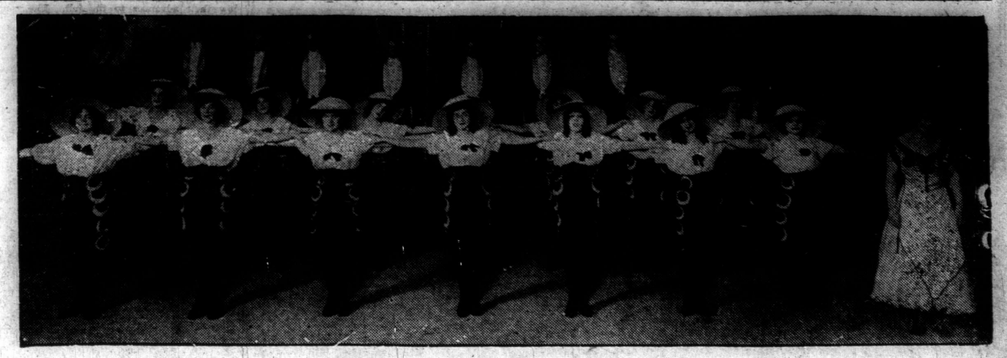
George Ovey
Cub-Mutual

Orane Wilbur
Horsley-Mutual



Ben Turpin
Vogue-Mutual

Paddy McQuire
Vogue-Mutual

Shorty Hamilton
Monogram-Mutual

SCENE FROM "MUTT & JEFF'S WEDDING"
At the Grand, 3 days, starting Thursday, April 12—Matinee Saturday

'Spirit of Romance' with V. Martin at the Allen Sat

Vivian Martin, the charming Pallas-Paramount star, will be seen at the Allen next Saturday in her latest success, "The Spirit of Romance."

The story has to do with Abby Lou Maynard, a maid of all work in the antique shop of Richard Cobb, a testy old man, is merely a little drudge. Tom Cobb, his son, is an inventor and has just perfected a tea kettle which can not boil over.

Joseph Snow is a grouchy old millionaire who knows his relatives are just waiting for him to die so that they can enjoy his fortune. One day in the antique shop he meets Abby Lou, breaks a vase, but she refuses to take Snow's money. That night at home, Snow, whose love of romance had prompted him to fill his house full of secret rooms, sliding panels and the like, decides to pretend he is dead, conceals himself in one of the hidden rooms and there see what will happen to his wealth.

He leaves all of his fortun to Abby Lou. She takes possession of the big house and believing Snow the greatest and wisest of all men, proceeds to spend his money as she thinks he would like it spent.

She takes some of his relatives to live with her, induces one of them to go to work, advances money to Tom for the promotion of his invention, feeds candy to all the kids in the neighborhood and does a great deal of good, changing the money-seeking relatives into good and lovable people.

When Snow, through his peep holes, sees what great amount of good the little girl has done, he decides to come back to life and startle them all. He appears a changed man and goes on with Abby Lou's kindnesses. Tom's invention proves a success, and he comes to tell Abby Lou of his gratitude. Her old love is re-kindled and everyone is happy.

"Sudden Riches" with R. Warwick at Bijou Thurs-Sat.

What would you do if you had five million dollars? That is the problem which confronted Robert Crewe and Marion, his young wife, when Abner Crewe, Robert's uncle, made him sole heir of his vast fortune. It was given him for spite, and for the sole purpose of ruining him financially and morally, because the uncle felt sure that he would not make good use of the money, that he would soon wade through it, and end up a physical and moral wreck, result in breaking up his happy home, and otherwise, working entirely to the detriment of the young man.

How he had the millions, spent them recklessly, suffered terribly, supported a Broadway siren, estranged himself from his wife, she from him, and how, when apparently on the very edge of the brink, their little daughter was taken sick, bringing both parents to her bedside, is all most dramatically told in the five reels of emotional pictures which will be shown at the Bijou theater next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with Robert Warwick, Clara Whipple and Gerda Holmes in the leading roles. Marrion and Robert, their souls smeared and scarred by the night of suffering, begin to realize that all their trouble emanated from Uncle Abner's legacy.

Losing the fortune, but saving the child has brought Robert to his senses, and he recognizes that he has regained all that really makes life worth while. Besides the bed where lies their feeble child, th couple tenderly and solemnly plan the rebuilding of their happiness.

In his nasty old office back in Chicago, Eli Ketcham, Abner's lawyer, reading in a newspaper, accounts of Robert's business failure and how it reunited the estranged couple, chuckles to himself, and shakes his finger at the crayon portrait of Old Abner Crewe, saying, "You had everything figured, Abner, excepting the child."

A most thrilling and beautiful production at the Allen today

In one of the most thrilling of her many beautiful productions Blanche Sweet will be seen last times today at the Allen in the Lasky-Paramount Production, "Those Without Sin."

The story was written especially for her by Harvey T. Thew and prepared for the screen by George D. Proctor and Thomas Geraghty, Miss Sweet has played many parts, but never has she been seen to as good advantage as in this role of a young southern girl. The scene of the story are laid in Richmond, Va., during the Civil War.

Entrusted with valuable despatches, this young girl is captured by the Federal troops, and is told that by giving herself, her friends will be saved. The role is entirely different from anything in which Miss Sweet has heretofore appeared. How she saves her neighbors and herself is brought about in a most ingenuous manner.

For the scenes in this picture it was necessary for the Lasky company to reproduce one of the residential streets in that famous southern city. An architect visited Richmond and by searching through the libraries and museums, found a photograph of one of the best known residential streets. This was reproduced in exact detail for the screen, and although the name of the street is not mentioned, it will probably be familiar to many who recall Richmond during the exciting days of the rebellion.

Miss Sweet is surrounded by a splendid cast including Tom Forman, G. H. Geldert, Guy Oliver, James Neill, Charles Ogle, Mabel Van Buren, George Beranger, Edna Wilson and Little Billy Jacobs. The production was made for the Lasky company under the direction of Marshall Neilan and photographed by Walter Stradling.

Mary Pickford in "A Poor Little Rich Girl"

The third Mary Pickford photoplay has just been completed and will be seen at the Allen soon, and shows the popular star once more in the role of an American girl. For sometime past "Little Mary" has portrayed characters of foreign climes, all of which have displayed the remarkable versatility of this beloved girl.

As the girl of India in "Less Than the Dust," she charmed the hearts of the country, and then made the big trip to Scotland in her portrayal of "The Pride of the Clan." Her latest Artcraft-picture and effort on the screen in "A Poor Little Rich Girl," shows her in the part of the neglected daughter of a wealthy American family, the action of the play taking place in this country. Watch for dates of this coming attraction.

"THE ARISTOCRAT" A SENSATION

London's Newest Play is a Romantic Drama of the French Revolution

London's newest theatrical sensation is a romantic drama with a French setting, "The Aristocrat," which Sir George Alexander is producing at the St. James. It is the work of Louis N. Parker and besides being the most spectacular and sumptuously mounted play since the great war began it affords Sir George a role radically different from those he has essayed in recent years. To a reporter for the London Chronicle the actor-manager said of it:

"It is so long since I appeared in a costume drama that I enjoy renewing acquaintance with the silks and the satins, and the broidered glaces of an earlier day. It is invigorating, amid these days of turmoil, to step aside, for a moment, into the last great storm in France and to see how the great gentlemen of that day managed—and occasionally mismanaged—their affairs.

"To some extent the play deals with the revolution, but the theme is that of the age long struggle between age and youth, between the conservative and the democratic ideals, between the static and the dynamic elements in human nature.

"I am the Aristocrat, the Duke of Chastelfranc. The duke is a man already up in years at the time of the Revolution. He is an impassioned Royalist, an aristocrat of the aristocrats. His whole heart is bound up in the great traditions of the French court and French culture. From the first he defies the whole revolutionary movement. But the stronghold of his convictions is carried at last when his favorite child insists on marrying a Republican. He refuses even to oblige Napoleon by teaching manners to his somewhat bourgeois courtiers.

"So democracy wins the day after all, but not until you have seen three pictures of France; first, the rather hectic gaiety during the last days of the monarchy; next the end of the Reign of Terror; and, finally, the establishment of the empire under Napoleon."

LOCAL CLUB NEWS

Calgary Auto club is letting no grass grow under its feet to make their club house proposition a popular one. The proposed plan of running a road west of Bowness is now the center of attraction and will probably be successfully put through at an early date.

• • •

Board of trade is said to have settled upon a part of Cabaret Garden as future headquarters for the board. Almost daily meetings are now held by the various members.

• • •

Calgary Ad club are holding some rousing good meetings of late. The attendance grows larger each meeting, which shows that the members are much interested in the proceedings.

PRINCESS
PHONE M1944
"Where Everybody Goes"
DON'T MISS
"THE PURPLE MASK"
Every Friday & Saturday
Miss Gert. Moody
—and—
The Princess Girls
3—Performances Daily—3

Specialty Dress Shop
Ladies' and Misses' Dresses
For Ladies and Misses, smart Dresses, Coats, Neckwear, etc., Fitted by Experienced Dressmakers. No charge for alterations, Prices moderate.
1321 First Street West Phone M4468

NEXT MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY, AT 8:30
ORPHEUM
MATINEES TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY AT 2:30

MISS BELLE STORY
THE YOUNG AMERICAN PRIMA DONNA

JOHNNY JOHSTON & BOB HARTY
In "On the Shrewsbury" BLUE BERT
Kennedy and Nobody-I.R
An Original and Novel Comedy Offering in Blackface
The Barry Girls
Dainty Delineators of Popular Melodies
"The Recital"
Modesta Mortensen—Violin
Greta Spencer—Soprano
Granville English—Piano
The Monroe Brothers
Comedy Bounding Acrobats

Rosalind Coghlan
AND HER COMPANY OF PLAYERS
—IN—
"Our Little Bride"
By George Bloomquest

TRAVEL PICTURES CONCERT ORCHESTRA

KING of the Khyber Rifles
By TALBOT MUNDY
Author of Rung Ho!
THE author gives us the atmosphere of India which he evidently knows from personal association and which most of us think of only in terms of Kipling, but he outdoes that writer in the wealth of his imagination, the creation of weird situations and the manner in which he brings the tale to a climax. It is a vivid story well told. —Philadelphia Press
INTRIGUE and thrills, love and war, and a vaulting ambition, combined with the glamour and mystery and ruthlessness of the East, make this a fascinating romance. —New York Times
CARRIES to the limits of the novelist's license the mysticism and super-thrill of the East. —N. Y. World
A peach of a story
Illustrated $1.50 net
The Bobbs-Merrill Company, Publishers
McLEOD & ALLEN :: Toronto, Ontario

FARMING AND MARKETS

More Should be Done For the Farm Girl

She Needs Assistance and It Should Not be Denied Her—Her Duties Are Numerous, Her Pleasures Few, and There Is Much Room for Bettering Conditions

While the girl on the farm has less desire to leave home than the farm boy, some occasfoually want to get away from the old life and go to the city.

Everything is being done for the boy and little for the girl. She wants pleasures and expects privileges which are often denied her.

More should be done to interest her in the farm, and she should get an even chance with the boy. There are many feminine duties on the farm which prove irksome from year to year.

Much work falls on the young farm girl. An effort should be made to arrange things around the house to lessen the weight of her work.

Life in the city is not all joy, and a girl all alone in a strange town has a hard struggle for existence. She should stay on the farm, where there is room for all and more congenial friends are to be found.

The farm girl is badly neglected in some homes where they get the idea that she is not worth more than her "victuals and clothes" in exchange for her daily tasks in domestic work.

This is not just. She needs assistance and encouragement, and they should not be denied her. There are not many ways by which she can earn money to spend which she can call her very own, but there are some.

With a little help she can have a flower garden and the money from the sale of the flowers should be hers. Even vegetables can be sold at a profit to many a passer-by if one lives on the public road.

A little note can be tacked on the gate that cakes, cookies and sandwiches can be had at the house. A tired and hungry traveler would be only too glad to be able to get a refreshing lunch and a chance to rest on his way.

Then there are the chickens. Probably she would appreciate an interest in them and at the shipping season her share would buy many things which she has wanted.

Social life on the farm is advancing rapidly each year and she should share in it. Clubs for the girls are as beneficial as those for the boys, and more of them should be organized.

Helping the girl will cause her to be more self-reliant and prompt in her domestic duties and she will gladly stay at home on the farm.

How to Exterminate the Gopher

Official Instructions Issued by the Ottawa Agricultural Department

There is no specific legislation in this province setting out methods or powers with regard to gopher extinction. All that is being done by individual farmers and gardeners and the trouble is being more or less successfully met. A few districts on their own accohnt give encouragement to children by giving premiums for the destruction of gophers, but the remedy that is used with most effect is poison. In answer to inquiries as to the best remedy to employ, the department commonly furnishes the following recipe as the one which appears to be used with best results:

(1) Mix thoroughly one ounce strychnine alkaloid (powdered) and one ounce baking soda.

(2) Sift this into ¾ pint of thin, hot starch paste and stir to a creamy mass The starch paste is made by dissolving one heaping tablespoonful of dry gloss starch in a little cold water, which is then added to ¾ pint of boiling water. Boil and stir constantly until a clear thin paste is formed.

(3) Add ¼ pint of heavy corn syrup and a tablespoonful of glycerine and stir thoroughly.

(4) Add ⅛ ounce saccharine and stir thoroughly.

(5) Pour this poison solution over 20 quarts of clean oats and mix thoroughly so that each grain of oats is coated. Prepare it 24 to 48 hours before using.

For mixing small quantities an ordinary galvanized washtub is convenient; for larger quantities a tight smooth box may be used, and mixing may be done with a spade.

(6) A teaspoonful of the poisoned oats should be placed near each ground squirrel hole on clean hard ground, letting it scatter slightly as it falls. (Placed in this way it will not endanger stock.) Do not put the poisoned grain on the loose dirt of the mound or into the holes. Each quart of the poisoned grain is sufficient to treat about 60 holes.

Women Use Farm Tractor

Scientific Instruction is Being Given by England to Women of Country

Among the organizations which are taking an active part in promoting the cause of national service is the Women's Legion, founded and presided over by the Marchioness of Londonderry. Lady Londonderry explained recently the chief objects of the legion. Briefly, they are to provide:

National work for all women who apply, if they are willing to take it up seriously.

Trained women for the land and for horticultural work and herb culture.

Capable staffs for canteens for munition workers at Woolwich and in the North of England.

Trained women instructors to train men cooks for the army.

Women cooks to replace men for convalescent camps and various depots.

Women for motor transport.

Each of these branches of activity is thoroughly organized, and skilled instructors are employed to insure that the workers trained shall be able to render efficient service. Lady Londonderry proceeded:

"One of the most important tasks today is that of safeguarding the nation's food supply. The agricultural section of the Women's Legion has branches in various counties, where we have proved the success of women's work on the land, even to farmers who were at first, as they openly confessed, skeptical of their utility.

"We have made a special effort to help farmers by providing motor tractors and plows, and I think we are the pioneers in this branch of agriculture, the importance of which is now fully realized by the government. Tractors have been at work for the last six months in Rutland, and we now have them in Hampshire, Worcester, Northamptonshire and other counties. In Northamptonshire the legion has a fleet of six tractors, which will do the plowing for the supply of oats for the war office in connection with the department of the controller of cultivated land areas, for which discharged soldiers have been trained in the driving of these engines. It is intended also to instruct women for this work. These tractors, with a 4-furrow plow, do five or six times the acreage in one day that a man and team are able to do, and we hope by their use not only to release men for the army, but greatly to assist in getting the land into cultivation in time to increase the 1917 crops."

POULTRY

AN EGG-EATING HEN

Egg-eating is a rather vicious and, of course, unprofitable habit for a hen to acquire, not only this, but it is sometimes hard to cure. Hens probably acquire this habit by the accidental breakage of eggs in the nest or in the pen. If a bird is not particularly valuable, the safest and surest cure is the hatchet, followed by a chicken dinner. As a precautionary measure, it is well to provide dark nests, so that the birds would not find a broken egg, and furthermore if the hens are kept busy from morning till night they are less likely to acquire habits of this sort. An English writer suggests the folowing remedy: Blow out the contents of a fresh egg, then fill the shell with breadcrumbs and saturate with ammonia. It is said that oftentimes a single peck at the doctored egg is sufficient, and that inveterate egg eaters can be cured in this way.

PREPARING POULTRY PRODUCE FOR MARKET

The householder who buys a poorly nourished and carelessly marketed chicken or fowl secures a very inferior article of food, whereas the purchaser of a well finished and properly prepared, crate fed bird, obtains a luxury. There is a corresponding difference between grades of eggs that are offered at many stores. To enlighten poultry keepers in the method of preparing both poultry and eggs for the market and placing thereon, the Dominion department of agriculture has issued an excellent bulletin. It is written by Mr. F. C. Elford, Dominion poultry husbandman, and issued as Bulletin No. 88 of the Experimental farms. It treats the subject in paragraphs bearing the following heads:

Preparing Poultry Produce for Market, System of Marketing, Packages, Marketing, Crate Feeding, Killing, Plucking, Cooling and Packing.

The Bulletin is helpfully illustrated in showing the proper and improper methods of packing poultry as well as of modern egg cases, crates and other features connected with the industry.

The frontispiece, printed in colors, represents the roof of a bird's mouth, showing precisely where to sever the artery to bleed and where to penetrate the roof of the mouth to strike the brain causing immediate insensibility and easy plucking.

Copies of this Bulletin are obtainable from the Publications branch of the department of agriculture at Ottawa.

THE BREEDING PULLETS

Feed stimulating mixtures to the laying stock if you wish, but on no account permit any of it to be fed to the young pullets which you are keeping for the breeding season. If you do, you will be wondering in the spring why you get such a high percentage of infertile eggs. Pullets or hens intended for breeding this spring should not be overstimulated for winter eggs. Feed good, wholesome food, plenty of it, and keep them as warm as good health will allow, but don't force them. Many of them will lay under god conditions, but that is only natural. It is the feeding of condiments and mixtures intended to artificially force egg production that we object to for breeding stock. It is weakening to the birds and results in loss of vigor at the very season when vigor is most needed.

WINNIPEG LETTER

(Thompson, Sons, & Company)

Our Winnipeg market keeps firm, offerings are moderate and demand is good and cleans up all that is offered. Prices are steadier than in the American markets and do not follow their advances to the full. The movement from the country is fair considering that railway transportation is still congested. This condition will improve as we draw towards the opening of navigation about the end of this month. Deliveries by farmers from off the farms are now stopped for practically two months during seedtime and spring work. Today's prices are 1 Nor. 197¾c, 2 Nor. 193¾c, 3 Nor. 187¾c, No. 4 177¾c, No. 5 158¾c, No. 6 128¾c, feed 105c. Futures closed May 193¾c, July 192¾c, October 160¾c.

Oats—The oat market continues firm with good demand, and prices are 3½c higher on the week. 2 C.W. 67¾c 3 C.W. 65¾c, extra 1 feed 65¾c, 1 feed 65½c, 2 feed 64c. May 67½c, July 65¾c, October 50¾c.

Barley—Demand for barley is good with prices 2½c to 3c up on Nos. 3 and 4, but unchanged on Rejected and Feed. No. 3 110c, No. 4 103c, Rejected and Feed 87c. The May future closed 110½c.

Flax—The flax market is stronger and more active and prices have advanced 8c on the week. 1 N.W. 271½c, 2 C.W. 267½c, 3 C. W. and Rejected 254c. Futures closed May 274c. July 277c.

Calgary prices are on the basis of grain in store at Fort William or Port Arthur.

GRAIN PRICES

PRICES AT CHICAGO MARKET WERE WAY UP

Chicago, Apr. 5.—Very high prices prevail for hogs, sheep and cattle. The high mark was reached today when $15.65 was asked for some choice hogs and were taken. Wheat was sold at $2.02½.

WINNIPEG PRICES ALSO ABOVE THE MARK

Winnipeg, Apr. 5.—Good prices were the order of the day at the Union Stockyards. 500 cattle and 1,045 hogs were received. Prices from $14.65 to $14.80 prevailed.

ALL CROP PRICES WENT UP THIS WEEK

Wheat this week has taken a rise of 2½ cents. Thursday's price was $1.98¾, while oats sold for 67 cents and barley $1.08½. In Winnipeg the $2.00 mark was touched in wheat, while in eastern U. S. points $2.07 were reported to have been reached.

CALGARY PRICES

	Thurs.	Year ago
Spring wheat—
No. 1 northern	198⅜	118¼
No. 2 northern	194⅜	116
No. 3 northern	188⅜	112½
No. 4	179⅜	110¼
No. 5	166⅜	101¾
No. 6	129½	93¾
Feed	102½	88¾
Barley—
3 barley	108½	63
4 barley	101½	57
Oats—
2 Canada west	67	42½
3 Canada west	65¾	40½
Ex. 1 feed	65¾	40½
No. 1 feed	64	38½
No. 2 feed	63¾	38

LIVESTOCK

(By D. H. Macintosh & Co.)

TOP NOTCH PRICES PREVAIL AT STOCKYARDS

Hogs jump to $15 and local steers were $9.85 on Thursday. While these were extraordinary good stock the prices were also exceptionally high. The bulk of the stock for the day were slightly less than this figure.

Steers—
Fat, good to choice butcher	$8.50 to $9.85
Extra export	9.50 to 9.60
Common to medium butcher	7.25 to 8.00
Heifers—
Com. to choice heavy butcher	7.50 to 7.75
Cows—
Choice	6.75 to 7.25
Common	5.50 to 6.50
Canner, cows and oxen	3.50 to 4.00
Fat oxen	6.00 to 6.50
Thin and fair oxen	4.00
Veal calves—
150-250 lbs.	8.75 to 9.25
Over 450 lbs.	7.75 to 8.25
Stockers two-year-olds	7.00 to 7.25
Light feeding steers	7.50 to 7.75
Stags	5.75 to 6.00
Springers, choice	95.00 to 100.00
Springers, common	55.00 to 75.00
Fat bulls	5.75 to 6.50
Sheep—
Good wethers	10.25 to 10.75
Ewes	9.50 to 10.50
Lambs, choice fat	13.00 to 13.50
Hogs—
Selects, weighed off cars.	15.00

OIL MARKET

Reports from the Southern Alberta field state that the atmosphere around the oil market is beginning to clear and that many of the companies are beginning to drill again.

The Prudential is reported to have been sold to the Southern Alberta for $17,000.

CALGARY OIL STOCKS

	Bid	Asked
Alberta Associated	.15	—
Alberta Pet. Con.	.00½	.01
Alberta Pacific	.02½	.03¾
A. P. Con.	.02¼	.02¾
Athabasca	—	.25
Beaver	.00½	.00⅝
Calgary Alberta	.01	.02
Calgary Pet. Products	—	.20
Federal	—	.02
Monarch	.01	—
Moose Mountain	.04	—
Mount Stephen	.16	.20
Northwest Pacific	.02	.05
Piedmont	—	.00¾
Progress	—	.00¾
Stokes-Stephens	.02½	.03½
Southern Alberta	3.00	4.00
Segur	—	.01
U. P. Con.	.00½	.00¾
United	—	1.25
Western Pacific	.05	—
Record	.09	.15
United (escrow)	—	.40
Western Pet.	.01	—

Calgary Public Market

RETAIL PRICES

Fruit
Apples	5 to 8 lbs., 25c
Apples	$1.00 to $3.25 per case
Dates	15c per lb.
Figs	20c per lb.
Grape Fruit	7½ to 10c each
Bananas	20c to 30c per doz
Oranges	15c to 40c per doz
Lemons	20c to 25c per doz.
Vegetables
Beets	6 lbs. for 25c
Cabbage	4 lbs. for 25c
Cabbage, red	4 lbs. for 25c
Carrots	14 lbs. for 25c
Cauliflower	20c to 25c each
Cucumbers	25c each
Lettuce, head	3 heads for 25c
Lettuce,	3 bunches for 5c
Onions, green	3 bunches for 5c
Onions, cooking	4½ lbs for 25c
Parsnips	6 lbs. for 25c
Parsley	1 bunch for 5c
Radishes, green	1 bunch for 5c
Radishes, black Spanish	6c per lb.
Potatoes	$1.25 to $1.30 per bus.
Turnips	18 to 20 lbs. for 25c
Poultry—Dressed
Chicken	23c to 28c per lb.
Fowl	22c to 25c per lb
Poultry—Live
Chicken	18c to 20c per lb.
Cockerels	17c to 18c
Produce
Butter creamery	45c to 48c per lb.
Butter, dairy No. 1	38c to 40c per lb.
Butter, dairy No. 2	30c to 35c per lb.
Meats	Per lb.
Beef, boiling	10c to 12½c
Pot roast	12½ to 15c
Rib roast	16c to 20c
Sirloin roast	22c to 25c
Round steaks	18c to 20c
Porterhouse steaks	23c
Mutton, sides	22c
Front quarters	20c
Hind quarters	24c to 25c
Chops	25c to 28c
Stew	12½c to 15c
Veal, stew	12½c to 15c
Shoulder roast	16c to 18c
Steaks	25c to 28c
Pork, sides	19c to 20c
Roast, shoulder	20c to 22c
Hind quarters	20c to 22c
Spare ribs	15c
Fresh Fish
Herring	12½c
Pike	10c
Whitefish	12½c
Sundries
Dripping	15c
Head Cheese	15c
Sausage	12½c to 15c

WHOLESALE PRICES

All farm killed meats must be accompanied by the viscera, viz. heart, liver and lungs.

Meats	Per lb.
Beef, No. 1 steer, hind quarters	14c to 15c
Front quarters	10c to 11¾c
Cow, hind quarters	11c to 12½c
Front quarters	10c to 11½c
Pork, lightweight	18c to 18½c
Mutton, ewes	19c to 20c
Wethers	20c to 21c
Veal, No. 1 light	15c to 17c
Heavy	13c to 15c
Produce
Butter, creamery	42c to 44c
Dairy No. 1	33c to 35c
Dairy No. 2	30c to 32c
Eggs, new laid	$7.75 to $8.00
Poultry, Dressed
Chicken	22c to 25c
Fowl	18c to 20c
Poultry, Live
Chicken	18c to 20c
Fowl	18c to 19c
Vegetables
Beets	$2.50 per cwt.
Cabbage	$2.25 per cwt.
Carrots	$2.00 per cwt.
Onions	$5.00 per cwt.
Parsnips	$2.75 per cwt.
Potatoes	$32.00 per ton
Turnips	$15.00 per ton

THE C. P. R. GIVES YOU TWENTY YEARS TO PAY

An immense area of the most fertile land in Western Canada for sale at low prices and easy terms ranging from $11 to $30 for farm lands with ample rainfall—irrigated lands up to $50. One-tenth down, balance if you wish within twenty years. In certain areas, land for sale without settlement conditions. In irrigation districts, loan for farm buildings, etc. up to $2,000, also repayable in twenty years—interest only 6 per cent. Here is your opportunity to increase your farm holdings by getting adjoining land, or to secure your friends as neighbours. For literature and particulars apply to Allan Cameron, General Superintendent of Lands, Department of Natural Resources, 835 First Street East, Calgary, Alta.

Potatoes Wanted

CAR LOTS OR LESS

Must Be Good Sized, Sound, White Stock

KENNETH R. SIMPSON & CO.

435-437 Tenth Ave. East

Phone M1232 Calgary, Alta.

MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

The old reliable remedy for rheumatism, neuralgia, sore throat and sprains.

Best Liniment Made

MR. A. E. LAUNDRY, EDMONTON, writes:—"I fell from a building and received what the doctor called a very bad sprained ankle, and told me I must not walk on it for three weeks. I got MINARD'S LINIMENT and in six days I was out to work again. I think it the best Liniment made."

Minard's Liniment always gives satisfaction. For any ache or pain. It gives instant relief.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited

Yarmouth, N. S.

PEPPER & CO.

THE LEADING Pork Butchers

PORK SAUSAGES A SPECIALTY

AGENTS FOR ENGLISH BACON

Phone M2639 212 Eighth Ave. E.

FREE WITH YOUR SUBSCRIPTION

Every Farmer Should Have a Copy of

The Veterinarian

By Chas. J. Korinek, V.S.

Graduate of Ontario College of University of Toronto

The regular retail price of this book is $2.50, and no Farmer or Breeder can afford to be without it.

The book is well bound, the printing clear and distinct; it is one of the best veterinary books of the present day..

"The treatise on the disease of domestic animals has been written with the primary purpose of placing in the hands of stock owners a book of practical worth. Hence, all technical language or terms, as used by professional veterinarians, have been eliminated and only such language used as all may read and understand.

"The treatment suggested in each case is one I have used and found efficient in my many days of practice. If the readers will study and follow these directions carefully, they will save themselves much unnecessary loss. My confidence in this accomplishment is my reward for my labor in behalf of our dumb friends—the domestic animals."—The Author.

Only a limited supply of books on hand—so mail Subscription today.

HOW TO OBTAIN THIS BOOK FREE

All you have to do is to send in your renewal or a new Subscription for $2 and a copy of this very valuable publication will be mailed to you promptly. Address Circulation Dept., The Calgary Standard, 109 Sixth Avenue W., Calgary, Alberta.

FREE PRESENTS

For the Boys and Girls of Alberta

The Calgary (Western) Standard takes much pleasure in announcing the opening of their GIFT DEPARTMENT to the boys and girls of Alberta. Starting at once it will be possible for any boy or girl in this province to secure for themselves almost any article they wish to possess, ABSOLUTELY FREE. This is indeed a wonderful offer and undoubtedly will bring joy to the hearts of hundreds of Alberta's bright girls and boys.

We have selected the following gifts as a few that boys most desire, but remember our gifts are not confined to these few suggestions, and anything that you should want not included below will be arranged for you by the Gift Editor. Air guns, Cameras, Bicycles, Roller Skates, Pencil Cases, Books, Boxing Gloves, Baseball Gloves or Bats, Punching Bags, Footballs or Rifles.

FREE

For the girls we would suggest the following, but the same rules apply as to the boys, if what you want does not appear on the list, let the Gift Editor know and he will help you get it. Rings, Bracelets, Wrist Watches, Pendants, Fountain Pens, Correspondence Outfits, Perfumes, Books, Lockets, Music, Hair Brushes.

Now, Boys and Girls, decide which present you want. The Gift Editor is waiting to please you and is eager to hear from you. Fill in the coupon and mail it today. Don't delay.

GIFT EDITOR,
CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD
CALGARY.

My name is.....

My address.....

I would like to get.....free

according to your offer.....

BISON HERD IN UNITED STATES

To keep alive the few remaining herds of Bison, the United States government has set apart a large area in Yellowstone Park where they are fed and cared for.

Fowl ..... 18c to 20c

Poultry, Live

Chicken ..... 18c to 20c
Fowl ..... 18c to 20c

Vegetables

Beets ..... $2.50 per cwt.
Cabbage ..... $5.25 per cwt.
Carrots ..... $2.00 per cwt.
Onions ..... $5.00 per cwt.
Parsnips ..... $2.75 per cwt.
Potatoes ..... $33.00 per ton
Turnips ..... $15.00 per ton

R&CO.

ADING

utchers

A SPECIALTY

NGLISH BACON

12 Eighth Ave. E.

H YOUR

IPTION

Should Have

y of erinarian orinek, V.S.

of University of Toronto

f this book is $2.50, and no be without it.

printing clear and distinct; it oks of the present day..

domestic animals has been written in the hands of stock owners a technical language or terms, as ave been eliminated and only such nderstand.

ach case is one I have used and practice. If the readers will study , they will save themselves much this accomplishment is my reward friends—the domestic animals."— oks on hand—so mail Subscrip-

THIS BOOK FREE

nd in your renewal or a new f this very valuable publication y. Address Circulation Dept., Avenue W., Calgary, Alberta.

ENTS

f Alberta

n announcing the opening of . Starting at once it will be mselves almost any article a wonderful offer and un- 's bright girls and boys.

r the girls we would suggest llowing, but the same rules as to the boys, if what you does not appear on the list, e Gift Editor know and he help you get it. Rings, elets, Wrist Watches, Pend- Fountain Pens, Correspond- Outfits, Perfumes, Books, ets, Music, Hair Brushes.

WESTERN) STANDARD
LGARY.

.....
.....
get .....free
r offer .....

Spring Horse Show Week

WHERE TO SHOP ═══ WHAT TO SEE

Why not be particular about your principal food supply?

PURE MILK

is desired by everyone. You are invited to inspect our plant and satisfy yourself as to the quality of our Goods.

CARLYLE DAIRY Co.

Telephone Main 4686.

A GENUINE FARMER'S MARKET

A Public Market owned and operated by the City of Calgary in the interests of the producer and consumer.

Farmers living at a distance and unable to attend the Market in person can forward their produce direct to the Superintendent and have same sold through a bonded agent with prompt returns.

For further particulars phone or write

SUPERINTENDENT,
Calgary Public Market

S. BERING

OPTOMETRIST AND OPTICIAN

130 Eighth Avenue East
CALGARY

TAILORED CLOTHES

TO MEASURE
UNIFORM SPECIALIST
A.S.Nimmo
ALBERTA CORNER 1st ST. WEST, CALGARY.

Spring Horse Show

AND

Cattle Show and Sale

CALGARY
April 10th. to 13th.

Spectacular Horse Show events afternoon and evening, including four-horse teams and regular horse show classes, hurdle and high jumping, push-ball competition, tent pegging by the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. Parade of prize winning horses, and a parade of Canada's most expensive Hereford bull, costing $11,900.

Boxes may be obtained from the Secretary.

Reserve seat sale opens at D. J. Young & Co.'s Book Store, April 5th.

500 Purebred Beef Bulls to be sold by auction. Largest auction sale ever held on this continent.

Judging commences at 10 a.m., April 10th.. Auction sale commences at 9.30, April 11th.

Single fare for return trip from Alberta stations.

Special rates on bulls purchased at the sale.

Entries for the horse show close March 27th.

Auction sale catalogue now ready.

GEO. LANE, President, Alberta Horse Breeders' Association.
J. L. WALTERS, President, Alberta Cattle Breeders' Assn.

E. L. RICHARDSON, Secretary and Managing Director, Alberta Live Stock Association, Calgary, Alta.

Come to Calgary---You Will be Welcome---Alberta's Greatest Spring Attraction---Annual Farmers' and Breeders' Stock Show---Special Railroad Rates---Big City Attractions---Calgary
April 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th

The program showing the hours of judging for the forthcoming horse show has been arranged, and it is with difficulty that the management are able to find time to judge all the classes in the four evening and three afternoon programs. An endeavor has been made to balance the programs as equally as possible. There will be jumping classes each evening, and special care has been taken to see that there is a good jumping class for Friday afternoon which has been set apart for the children. On that afternoon, the admission is 10c for children and 25c for adults, and as there is no school during horse show week, it is expected that there will be a record attendance. The necessary alterations and repairs are being rapidly made for the accommodation for the stock, and it is expected that everything will be in readiness by the morning of the 10th. Some of the stock has already arrived, but the bulk of it will come in on Saturday and Monday.

HOURS OF JUDGING

Tuesday Evening

7:30—Push ball—Calgary Brewing & Malting Co., vs. Ontario Laundry.
7:50—Cavalry horses.
8:15—Single trotter, not over 15.2.
8:30—Hackney or coach stallion to vehicle.
8:45—Tent pegging by members of R. N. W. M. police.
9:00—Heavy delivery mare or gelding to vehicle.
9:15—Carriage mare or gelding, exceeding 14.2.
9:30—Ladies' saddle horse, exceeding 14.2.
9:45—Agricultural team to vehicle.
10:00—Push ball—No. 1 Fire Dept., vs. Army Medical Corps.
10:15—F. Collicutt's bull.
10:15—Hunter over 15.2.
10:30—Hunter over 14.2 or not over 15.2.

Wednesday Evening

7:30—Push ball—Postoffice vs. No. 2 Fire Dept.
7:50—Novice saddle mare or gelding exceeding 14.2.
8:20—Clyde stallion, previous to 1913.
8:40—Novice mare or gelding over 14.2 to vehicle.
9:00—Percheron stallion previous to 1914.
9:15—Saddle mare or gelding exceeding 15.2.
9:30—Heavy draft team to vehicle.
9:45—Tent pegging by members of R. N. W. M. police.
10:00—Light delivery mare or gelding.
10:15—High steppers.
10:30—Push ball—Ordinance Dept. vs. 103rd Sergeants.
10:45—F. Collicutt's bull.
10:45—Jumping pairs.

Thursday Evening

7:30—Push ball (semi-final)—Winners of Tuesday's games.
7:50—Officers' chargers.
8:15—Single driver, 14.2 or over, driven by lady.
8:30—Clyde mare, previous to 1914.
8:45—Novice ladies' saddle horse, over 14.2.
9:00—Farmers' class.
9:15—Tent pegging by members of the R. N. W. M. police.
9:30—Heavy team to lorrie.
9:45—Single trotter over 15.2.
10:00—Pair high steppers.
10:15—Push ball (semi-final)—Winners of Wednesday's games.
10:30—F. Collicutt's bull.
10:30—Hunter, 14.2 or under, ridden by lady.

Jumping—Open.

Friday Evening

7:30—Saddle mare or gelding, not exceeding 15.2.
8:00—Pair matched trotters over 14.2.
8:15—Four-horse team.
8:30—Champion saddle horse.
8:45—Carriage mare or gelding driven by lady.
9:00—Tent pegging by members of R. N. W. M. police.
9:15—Carriage pair, mares or geldings.
9:30—Roadster championship.
9:45—Cow horse under stock saddle.
10:00—Carriage horse championship.
10:15—Push ball—Final.
10:30—Hunter over 14.2, ridden by lady.
10:45—High jump.

Friday Afternoon (Children's Day)

1:30—Thoroughbred mare, previous to 1914.
Thoroughbred mare foaled in 1915.
Thoroughbred mare foaled in 1916.
Light grade foals.
Polo pony bred mare.
Saddle pony over 13 and not over 14.2, ridden by boy.
Saddle pony not over 13 hands.
Saddle pony not over 14.2, ridden by girl.
Pony in harness, not over 13 hands.
Saddle pony, exceeding 13 but not over 14.2. Ladies to ride.
3:15—Children's turnout.
Shetland and Welsh female.
3:30—Saddle pony not over 14.2.
3:45—Champion saddle pony.
4:00—Pair ponies in harness.
4:15—Pony in single harness.
Champion harness pony.
Best girl rider.
Best boy rider.
Hunter, 14.2 or under.
Push ball.

BOXES RESERVED

Following is the list of boxes which have been reserved for the horse show:

Lieut.-Governor Brett, President Geo. Lane, Vice-president Dr. J. G. Rutherford, Vice-president George Hoadley, M.P.P., Archie McKillop, D. E. Black, Shrine club, C. R. de la Vergne, W. H. Berkinshaw, William Pearce, S. Downie & Sons, Col. Geo. McDonald, T. A. McCauley, J. M. Cameron, Supt. Horrigan, A. M. McMahon, W. R. Hull, Mayor Costello, Alberta government, P. Burns, E. D. Adams, R. J. Hutchings, A. E. Cross, Col. E. G. May, Major Aitken, Capt. Sutherland, Geo. Walters, P. Burns & Co., A. G. Graves, A. J. Samis, W. H. DeVine, Geo. May, Thos. Laycock, P. Pallesen, Frank Collicutt, Messrs. Glanville & Co., C. P. McQueen, the Judges, N. J. Christie, Messrs. Wade & Jack, J. W. Durno, P. M. Bredt, Richard Atkins, D. P. McDonald, Col. Bryan, M. J. Carr, Fred Johnston, E. L. Richardson.

The press will be the guests of the association, also the competitors in the push ball competition. The management will be pleased to reserve boxes for those who wish to show their interest in supporting the show.

The reserved seat sale opened Thursday morning at D. J. Young & company's book store.

HEAVY DRAFT AND AGRICULTURAL

Pure Bred or Grade

Class 141—Heavy draft team, mares or geldings, pure bred or grade, shown to an appropriate vehicle (vehicle not to count). First prize, $25; second, $15; third, $10; fourth, ribbon.

Rowland Ness—Tayport Queen and Stewarton Belle; Tom Nelson & company—Jennet and Majestic Lady; Johnston Storage & Cartage Co.—Prince and Queen; P. Burns & Co.—Farmer and Jolly; P. Burns & Co.—Mabel and Pete; P. Burns & Co.—Queen and Prince; D. Thorburn—Rosie Elcho and Albioness; D. Thorburn—Maggie Fleming and Dandy Molly; Pacific Cartage Co.—Nap and Ned.

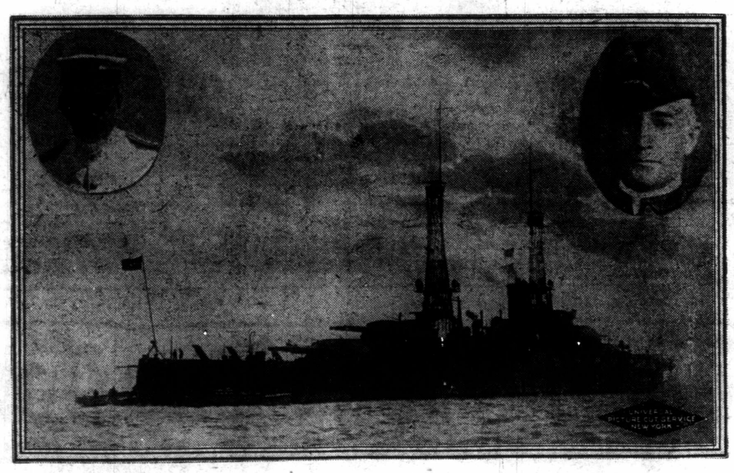
Grade

Class 151 — Agricultural team, shown to an appropriate vehicle (vehicle not to count). First prize, $25; second, $20; third, $15; fourth, $10; fifth, ribbon.

Tom Nelson & Co.—Betty and Netty; P. Burns & Co.—Queen and Prince; P. Burns & Co.—Doll and Silver; P. Burns & Co.—Bess and Johnny; Pacific Cartage Co.—Prince and Chief.

BREEDING CLASSES

Clydesdales



Class 5—Clydesdale mare, foaled previous to 1914. First prize, $25; second, $20; third, $15; fourth, $10; fifth, ribbon.

Thomas Macmillan—Royal Maud, 31484, b. June 13, 1913; Dr. McEachran—Lady Hugo, imp., 19120, b. May, 1909; Rowland Ness—Tayport Queen, imp., 31206, b. May, 1911; Rowland Ness—Gerranton Queen, imp., 31201, b. April, 1911; Rowland Ness—Stewarton Belle, imp., 31205, b. May, 1911; McKay Bros.—Fran Solway, 28095, b. May, 1913; G. E. Goddard—Morning Glory, 32350, May, 1913; G. E. Goddard—Water Lily, 7702; A. Webster—Solway Girl, 32736, b. June, 1911; A. Webster—Dalton Chance, 32730, b. May, 1912; D. Thorburn—Maggie Fleming, 15445, b. June, 1907; D. Thorburn—Albioness, 30301, b. May, 1912; D. Thorburn—Rosie Elcho, 27423, b. 1911; P. M. Bredt & Co.—Grandview Lassie, 18518, b. 1908; P. M. Bredt & Co.—Lady Ascot, imp., 33740, b. 1913; P. M. Bredt & Co.—Golden Heather, 26679, b. 1911; P. M. Bredt & Co.—Flora of Brinsley, 37974, b. 1912; P. M. Bredt & Co.—Molly Doone, 32087, b. 1913; P. M. Bredt & Co.—Hawatha Scott, 24172, b. 1910; P. M. Bredt & Co.—Nellie C., 37949, b. 1912; Ben Finlayson, Rosie McLaren, 16205, b. 1906.

EXERCISE FOR LAYING HENS

The hen should be given exercises in the winter. One way to furnish some exercise is to feed such grain as corn, oats, wheat and barley in litter. Cover the floor with feed in it. The straw should be changed frequently, as it must be remembered that it will son become soiled from the droppings from the birds. Some of the poultry diseases are spread through the droppings.

GUARDING THE COAST

The U.S.S. Pennsylvania, superdreadnought, carrying twelve 14-inch guns, twenty-two 5-inch guns, four 3-pounders and 4 21-inch torpedo tubes.

High Class American Dentistry

Expression 20th Century Plates that Fit

Cute-Rate Prices. 10-Year Guarantee.
The Greatest Scientific Painless Methods Used.
Office Hours: 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Daily; 7 to 9 p.m. Evenings
Thousands of Pleased Patients
Gold Crowns and Bridge Work a Specialty
DR. P. C. BRUNER | DR. W. B. REEVE
Graduates from Chicago, Detroit and Philadelphia Colleges
Phone M1051
Calgary Office: Eighth Avenue East, Next to Allen Theatre
Edmonton Office: Crystall Block, Jasper Avenue

N

You will SAVE MONEY by ordering from us.
Here are some of our prices.

Blue Serge—Imported, guaranteed dye ..... $32 to $40
English Grey—Imported, guaranteed dye ..... $32 to $40
Seal Brown—Imported, guaranteed dye ..... $33 to $40

A.S.Nimmo
MADE TO MEASURE CLOTHES FOR MEN
ALBERTA CORNER 1st ST. WEST CALGARY.

IMPERIAL HOTEL

DANIEL F. WHITNEY, Prop.
Second Street East and Ninth Avenue
FAMILY HOTEL
Buffet in Connection
Large, Light, Airy Rooms
Rates Reasonable
Music Afternoon and Evening

OPENED JAN. 1ST, 1913

"The HOTEL that's BEST in all the WEST"

WHEN IN LOS ANGELES
STOP at the NEW FIRE PROOF HOTEL NORTHERN EUROPEAN 200 OUTSIDE ROOMS
150 WITH BATH
420 W. 2ND ST., NEAR HILL
CAFE IN CONNECTION
NORTHERN HOTEL CO., PROP.
FRANK L. CRAMPTON, MGR
RATES $1.00 PER DAY AND UP

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN A

PIANO OR A PHONOGRAPH?

We Are Representatives for the Following Pianos:

STEINWAY—A piano with a world-wide reputation.

NORDHEIMER—The quality-tone piano, one of the highest-grade pianos manufactured in Canada.

SHERLOCK-MANNING—A medium-priced piano. Nothing sold in Alberta to compare with it for real value.

HAINES BROS.—A real, artistic, high-grade piano.

BRAMBACH—One of the smallest and sweetest little grand pianos manufactured.

We Are Also Representatives of the Famous

Aeolian-Vocalion Phonographs

—AND—

PATHE PATHEPHONE AND PATHE RECORDS

Both Phonographs use a Sapphire Ball Point
No needles to change for Pathe or Edison Records

If you are thinking of purchasing a Phonograph, why not buy one that is right up-to-date?

The VOCALION

With its wonderful Graduola, will play a record not simply like a machine, but any way to suit your taste. These Phonographs cost no more than ordinary machines. Do not fail to hear them before purchasing. Call or write for prices and terms and catalogues.

Hardy & Hunt Piano Co., Ltd.

216 EIGHTH AVENUE WEST, CALGARY

CONSERVE THE FOREST —A GREAT NECESSITY

Secretary of Forestry Association Gives Some Valuable Advice and Information Regarding Forestry in the Provinces.

Speaking on forestry before the Canadian club in Regina Mr. Robert Black eulogizes the forester. His report is most interesting as it gives some insight into a subject that few people give any thought to. While his talk was confined to Saskatchewan the same conditions that prevail in that province undoubtedly do so in Alberta. In part he said:

"Give the forest his due. At the very least he borrows nothing from agriculture, for he asks only non-agricultural land on which to build his revenues. At the very least he makes the existence of the farmer possible in this northern climate. He takes nothing away from your precious water powers which some day must turn the wheels of wood-using industries even as it turns the wheels of about 1,800 forest industries in Ontario or Quebec. Strip or neglect to replenish the forest reserves and you have fortified the sole protection for the purity and volume and uniformity of every lake and stream you have.

Wood a Necessity

"When your immigrant comes knocking at the door of the west he wants his land. Yes, and he wants equally his wooden house, his wooden barn, his wooden fence posts, his wooden furniture, his half wooden implements. From the cradle to the coffin he is surrounded with wood. Doubtless he does not want the trees cluttering his whole homestead, but he does want the product of trees laid down at his door promptly, abundantly, cheaply.

"If Saskatchewan cannot complete the contract, if Saskatchewan can only go half way and supply the land alone, the deal is necessarily off. You have left a chunk out of his rainbow. He asks for a home and a full-fledged farming plant, and no country on this broad earth is fit for home without a supply line running back into an abundant forest.

Saskatchewan's Timber

"We have in this province three and a half million acres containing sawn timber, out of a total land area of 155 million acres. You may think that is enough to keep up the wood pile for all the people you can see coming this way. But measuring forest possessions by acres is slovenly reckoning. It is almost the same as going down town to select a diamond armed with a foot rule. What lies upon these million acres is disappointingly meagre. It is the wreckage of an earlier and rich heritage abandoned by a thoughtless public to every form of waste."

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT DEALERS

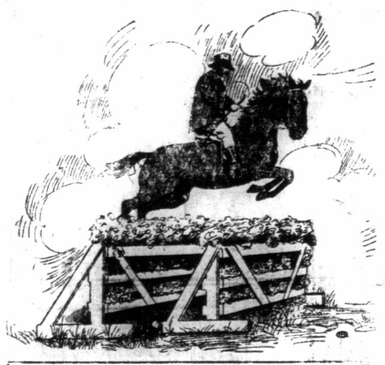
WESTERN MUSIC SUPPLY CO.
Everything known in Music Supplies of all kinds for all instruments. Brass Band Instruments bought and sold. 405a Eighth Ave. West. Phone 3154, Calgary, Alta.

VIOLINS AND VIOLONCELLOS

JAS. J. DOHERTY
Violin Repairer and Appraiser. Tone Restored. Bows Rehaired. Brass Band Instruments Repaired. 405a Eighth Ave. West. Phone 3154, Calgary, Alta.

THE BEATON
Hairdressing, Shampooing and Manicure Parlors
Satisfied Customers Secret of Our Success.
1009 First St. W. Phone M2153

The Elbow Shop
SHOE REPAIRING
An Expert Shoemaker at Your Service. "Quality and Satisfaction," our motto.
1120A FIRST ST. WEST



I WANT
Beef, Cattle, Hogs, Veal, Poultry, Butter and Eggs
I supply consumer (thus enabling me to return highest market prices).
No shipment too large or too small for me to handle.
Cash remitted same day that shipment arrives. SHIP TO CHARLES TAYLOR
Meat and Poultry Purveyor
STALLS 7 and 8, NEW MARKET
SEVENTH AVE., CALGARY

Please Mention The Standard

Farm and City LOANS
8 PER CENT.

No Commission charged. 1 per cent. Commission paid to Agents. Loans promptly negotiated.

The Standard Agencies Limited
213 Eighth Ave. W., Calgary
Phone M6929

"Horse Show," Victoria Park April 10 to 12

THE HORSE SHOW
Comes to Calgary on Tuesday and the Next Best Attraction Is "The Bay"

The Bay with its hundred and one conveniences for shoppers—its Rendezvous, Circulating Library, Post Office, Men's Smoking Room, Ladies' Rest Room, Telegraph and Cable Offices. Truly this Store is one of the sights of Calgary. With after Easter displays in full bloom, with shelves and cases full to overflowing with the wealth of a dozen countries, this great mercantile establishment sets its Spring sails in immediate preparation for the Spring Style Voyage.

Visitors to the City will discover a quiet courteous service and a remarkable dispatch of orders in all sections of the store.

In the Elizabethan Dining Room on the 6th Floor, Breakfast, Lunch and Afternoon Tea is served in a manner quite characteristic of this Company's service. On Saturday the popular 50c Table de Hote Dinner is served from 6 to 8 p.m.

But the style displays alone make this store worth a visit from you.

Another Province-Wide Interest Creator---The "Bay's" Annual

See News in Next Sunday Standard

Dress-Up Week

Another Feature of This Store's Great Merchandise Movement for the Week Is This MOTHER'S DAY, that Occurs on MONDAY!

Among the Offers--50 Pairs of Boys' Bloomers, Each Pair

Something to write home about, that is, if you are present early enough on Mothers' Day (Monday) to share in this value.

The bloomers were originally purchased to sell at a considerably higher cost than is quoted here. A snap for 50 boys will occur on Monday, when the sale price of these blomers is $1.29

$1.29

Half a hundred boys will receive new bloomers on Monday morning. That number of full cut American bloomer pants will be placed on sale as early as 8.30 a.m. in honor of our third weekly "Mothers' Day." In size we will supply any from a 26 to a 35—owing to the limited quantity but one pair can be sold to each customer. Monday only the pair $1.29

Prices Apply on Monday — Selling Monday Only

Suits for Twenty-five Boys
EACH $4.99 EACH

25 Boys' Suits grouped at the ridiculously low price for disposal on Mothers' Day (Monday); sizes include those from 26 to 35. These are good suits. Some of them should be marked to sell as high as $8.00 or $10.00. One suit to a customer, Monday as the price is $4.99

Selling Monday Only

12 Pairs of Men's Overalls
PAIR 79c PAIR

The first twelve men who apply here on Monday will be presented with overalls each at a cost of 79c. This is a remarkable price concession, but includes sizes 40, 44 and 46 only. One pair to a customer. We are selling just 12 of these pairs of overalls—no more. each pair 79c

Selling Monday Only

Monday We Offer Men's Trousers at
There are exactly 25 pairs in the lot—with the usual run of sizes—all medium. Good greys and mixed effects, linings of good quality Italian cloth—all seams taped to prevent fraying. Trousers complete with belt loops and suspender buttons, 25 pairs—one pair to a customer—the cost $1.95

A TABLE OF ODDMENTS IN BOYS' OVERCOATS
ALL DIFFERENT STYLES. WE MIGHT CALL THEM REMNANTS.

5 O'CLOCK TEA in the Elizabethan Rooms Floor Six

The Hudson's Bay Company.
INCORPORATED 1670 HERBERT L. BURBIDGE, STORES COMMISSIONER

The Newest ARROW COLLARS "Gordon" "Tyrone" 15c Straight

Annual

Is This NDAY!

ir hers cut sale ekly any an-9 en's Overalls PAIR

Monday will be presented with remarkable price concession, but r to a customer.
veralls—no more. 79c

y Only

The Newest ARROW COLLARS
"Gordon"
"Tyrone"
15c Straight

CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD

THE GREATEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER IN WESTERN CANADA

TWO SECTIONS—Section Two | CALGARY, ALBERTA, APRIL 8, 1917 | SECOND SECTION—Pages 9 to 16

2. And, behold, there was a great earthquake: for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it. 3. His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow: 4. And for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as dead men. 5. And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified. 6. He is not here: for He is risen, as He said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay.—St. Matthew, Chap. 28.

CHRIST THE LORD HATH RISEN TODAY

FOR upwards of thousands of years Easter festivities have been celebrated. Only within the past thousand or more years has it been celebrated by the civilized world in connection with the death of Jesus Christ. While next to Christmas this day is the most inspiring and joyful one of the church year it is only within a short period of time that it has been associated with the life of the great man who lived and died for humanity.

Today throughout the civilized world the gladsome news rings out from thousands upon thousands of souls —"He has Risen, He Has Risen; Christ, the Lord, Has Risen Today!" This inspiring expression takes with it a message of love and sacrifice that is dear to the heart of every true Christian. It is the personification of true love—God.. Such is the day we will celebrate on the Eighth of April, A.D. 1917, just nineteen hundred and seventeen years after the Christ God lived and died that mankind might see the error of his ways and profit accordingly.

The name Easter originated from old Teutonic mythology. It has been handed down from generation to generation by the Anglo-Saxon race, who believed in love, pleasure and happiness.

Although the observance of Easter was at a very serious difference as to the day for its observance soon arose between the Christians of Jewish and those of Gentile descent, which led to a long and bitter controversy. The point at issue was when the Paschal fast was to be reckoned as ending. With the Jewish Christians, whose leading thought was the death of Christ as the Paschal Lamb, the fast ended at the same time as that of the Jews, on the fourteenth day of the moon at evening, and the Easter festival immediately followed, without regard to the day of the week. The Gentile Christians, on the other hand, unfettered by Jewish traditions, identified the first day of the week with the Resurrection, and kept the preceding Friday as the commemoration of the crucifixion, irrespective of the day of the month. With the one the observance of the day of the month, with the other the observance of the day of the week, was the guiding principle.

Generally speaking the Western churches kept Easter on the first day of the week, while the Eastern churches followed the Jewish rule, and kept Easter on the fourteenth day. St. Polycarp, the disciple of St. John the Evangelist and bishop of Smyrna, visited Rome in 158 to confer with Anicetus, the bishop of that see, on the subject; and urged the tradition, which he had received from the apostle, of observing the fourteenth day. Anicetus, however, declined to admit the Jewish custom in the churches under his jurisdiction, but readily communicated with Polycarp and those who followed it. About forty years later (197) the question was discussed in a very different spirit between Victor, bishop of Rome, and Polycartes, metropolitan of pro-consular Asia. That province was the only portion of Christendom which still adhered to the Jewish usuage prevailing at Rome. This Polycrates firmly refused to agree to, and urged many weighty reasons to the contrary, whereupon Victor proceeded to ex-comunicate Polycrates and the Christians who continued the Eastern usage. He was, however, restrained from actually proceding to enforce the decree of excommunication, owing to the remonstrance of Irenaeus and the bishops of Gaul. Peace was thus maintained and the Asiatic churches retained their usage unmolested. We find the Jewish usage from time to time reasserting itself after this, but it never prevailed to any large extent.

"He has risen, He has risen,"
Joyfully do the Angels sing.

During the days of the apostles the celebration of the Easter festivities were not indulged in, and no reference is made to Easter festivities in the New Testament or in the writings of the Apostolic Fathers. The sanctity of special times was an idea absent from the minds of the first Christians.

Socrates, the great historian, says: "The apostles had no thought of appointing festival days, but of promoting a life of blamelessness and piety," and he attributes the celebration of Easter to the perpetuation of an old adage: "just as many other customs have been established."

While it is undoubtedly true that the first celebration of this great day is due to the Jewish time of festivities, nevertheless with the death of Jesus Christ this day took on greater significance and became symbolic in later years of what this great man had done for us.

Easter as the crowning factor of the Christian year was at one time celebrated on the first of the year. This idea continued up to the days of Charles the IX., when by a special ordinance the first of January took its place.

Many ecclesiastical ceremonies, growing from early days, clusters around the celebration of the Easter festival. The most notable one was the adoption of the Paschal candle. This was a large candle set in a candlestick, placed on the north side, just before the first ascent to the altar. This candle was kept lighted during the service until Whitsuntide. After Whitsuntide what remained of the candle was made into smaller candles for the funerals of the poor.

In the ancient churches at Rome the Paschal candles were fixtures, sometimes being most elaborate specimens of the jeweler's art. Others were movable. But even today the burning of the Paschal candle is a part of the religious ceremonies at Easter time in the Roman Catholic church.

In later years the celebration of Easter has taken on special significance by the exchanging of gifts and cards of remembrances as well as the ornamenting of eggs and animals.

These forms, however, are only expressions of certain nations, advocated principally by those who desire to make the day one of special personal character.

RURAL MAIL ORDER GUIDE

RURAL BUYERS' GUIDE

RELIABLE FIRMS—SATISFACTORY SERVICE

FARMERS' AND RANCHERS' BUSINESS DIRECTORY

HOME CLASSIFIED BUSINESS GUIDE

STANDARD BUSINESS DIRECTORY

BARRISTERS AND SOLICITORS

E. F. RYAN BARRISTER, SOLICITOR and Notary, 402 Maclean Block, Calgary, Alta. Phone M1670.

E. A. DUNBAR, BARRISTER, ETC., Royal Bank Chambers, Eighth Ave. and Centre Street. Phone M2511. 11-1yr.

FRANCOIS DE ROUSSY DE SALES, Barrister, Solicitor and Notary Public; Avocat Francais. Rooms, 209-211 Grain Exchange, Calgary. Phone M1910.

JAMES G. CAMPBELL, B.L., BARRISTER and Solicitor, 312 Beveridge Building, Calgary. Phone M2977.

J. J. MACDONALD, B.A., LL.B., BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary, 505-506 Beveridge Building, Calgary, Alta. Phone M3571

TWEEDIE, McGILLIVRAY, BARRON & Oldham, Solicitors, Etc. T. M. Tweedie, A. A. McGillivray, J. E. Barron, J. N. Oldham. 1004 Eighth Avenue West.

LOUGHEED, BENNETT, McLAWS & CO. Clarence Block, 122 Eighth Ave. West, Calgary, Alberta, Canada Hon. J. A. Lougheed, P.C., K.C.; R. B. Bennett, K.C.; W. H. McLaws, J. C. Brokovsal, J. E. Roberts, D. L. Redman, L. M. Roberts, W. C. Pollard, H. A. Chadwick, S. S. Forster.

P. HAMOUDT O'REILLY, BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary. 716-717 Herald Bldg Calgary. Phone M2959.

SAVARY, FENERTY & CHADWICK, Stringer Block. Main 5614.

H. P. SAUNDERS, BARRISTER AND Solicitor, etc. 22 Old Herald Building Phone M2647.

ARTISTS

ARTISTS, DESIGNERS & ENGRAVERS HICKS ENGRAVING CO., LIMITED, Makers of Photo Engravings for all Purposes. Herald Western Building, Cor. 2nd Ave. and 6th Street West Phone M6761

STAFFORD & KENT, DESIGNERS AND ENGRAVERS Illuminated Addresses, Engrossings and Engraved Cards 202A Eighth Avenue West

AUCTIONEERS

M6209 CITY EXCHANGE AUCTION corp. 405 Eighth Avenue West. House and Office Furniture at our Salesrooms at SNAP PRICES Call, write or phone us.

BOOTS AND SHOES

FOR UP-TO-THE-MINUTE FOOTWEAR, go to RICHARDSON'S LIMITED (The Home of Good Shoes) 826 Eighth Ave. West Phone M4509

BLACKSMITHS

J. W. SCOTT, GENERAL BLACKSMITH and Carriage Repairing. My business has been built up on years of practical experience and fair dealings with my customers. Satisfaction Guaranteed. 619 Eleventh Ave. West.

CHIROPRACTIC

HAVE YOU BEEN PRONOUNCED INCURABLE? If so, investigate Chiropractic, Scientific, safe, sane, specific. T. E. Davis, D. C., 203 I.O.O.F. Blk. Graduate Palmer school, Davenport, Ia. Phone M3972. Consultation free.

BROKERS

FINANCIAL BROKERS, REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE. Provincial Managers for Insurance Co. of State of Penn. (Fire) Agents Dominion Greenam Guarantee and Casualty. O. G. DEVENISH & COMPANY, LIMITED 500 P. Burns Building

COMMISSION AGENTS

McELVIE & STIRRETT CO., LIMITED 9 Eighth Ave. West. Main 1584.

COUPLAND BUSINESS COLLEGE

THE OLD SCHOOL, THE TRIED SCHOOL the School for you. Why not start now? Phone M1908. 109 14th Ave. West

DO YOU WANT MONEY?

If you are a man, woman, boy or girl and you want to make money send us your name and address. We will send you the particulars which will make you money and independent for life. You only have to devote a part of your spare time to it to earn all the money you need for luxuries or you can devote your entire time to it and make a good living. You don't need any experience. You simply need energy and ambition to make the effort and success will come.—Address, Manager, 109 Sixth Ave., Calgary, Alberta.

DENTISTS

DR. A. B. C. DANDO Dentist Prices Cut in TWO 123 8th Ave. W. Phone M2141

OSTEOPATHY

DR. M. E. CHURCH, OSTEOPATHIC Physician and Surgeon; member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Alberta. Suites 7, 8, 9, Alberta Block Phones M2787 and W4999. All Curable Diseases Successfully Treated. Adenoids removed without anesthesia, the famous Irrigation Treatment used in the treatment of Catarrh. Going on Nine Years in Calgary.

IRON

is never absent in the Blood-Serum of Anæmia patients. It is several of the other 12 natural cell-salts that Nature needs to supply that which is lacking.

See Me, if Ailing, or Phone M1660

DR. SIZE, THE DENTIST

Naturapath and Violet Ray's Expert 233 8th Ave. East, Calgary

DYEING AND CLEANING

NEW PARISIAN DYE WORKS, 236 12th Avenue West. Phone M3940 (Plant of Old Parisian Dye Works) Hats Blocked and Remodeled. Ladies' and Gents' High Class Tailoring. Furs Cleaned and Remodeled. Known as the largest and most complete French Dry Cleaning and Dyeing Plant in Western Canada.

PARKER'S DYE WORKS—DRY CLEANers, Dressers, Repairers and Dyers. Work called for and delivered. No other address or phone number. 1114 First Street West, Opp. Bryce-Jones. Phone M1496.

WHEN IN NEED OF FIRST-CLASS DRY Cleaning, Dyeing or Repair Work, on the shortest notice, 'phone THE DON DRY CLEANING COMPANY, 102 Seventh Ave. West Phones M3835—M3906.

FURNITURE REMOVERS

THE PACIFIC CARTAGE CO., LIMITED, Furniture Moving and Storage, expert packers and forwarding agents. Phone M5007. Office in C.P.R. freight shed, Ninth Avenue and Second Street East

FURNISHED ROOMS TO RENT

THE SAMIS APARTMENTS, CENTRALLY Located, 530 Eighth Avenue East. Furnished Rooms to Rent by Day, Week or Month; Also Unfurnished Rooms by the Month. Prices Moderate. Phone M5654. 1012-26

FURS AND LADIES' TAILORED HATS

WE ARE BUSY NOW IN THE FUR Remodelling Dept. What will it be in the season? So don't defer sending your furs to us; you will save time and money

W. W. BELL LADIES' HATTER AND FURRIER 237 7th Ave. West, between 1st and 2nd Sts.

GASSFITTING

JOE CARNEGIE, 744 FIVE AND A HALF Street N.W. Gas Fitting and Repairs, day or night. Phone M5910. 11-1yr

HAIR DRESSERS

MRS. ARTHUR, SHAMPOO, MANICURE, Face and Scalp Treatments; Combings Made Up; All Kinds of Hair Work. No. 6 Royal Bank Building, entrance first door west of Woolworth's Store. Phone M6948.

HARDWARE

MARSHALL HARDWARE, LIMITED, 151 Eighth Avenue East. Main 6388

HAT WORKS

EMPIRE HAT WORKS HATS CLEANED BLOCKED & REMODELLED 310 7th AVE. EAST PHONE M 6286

BOSTON HAT WORKS AND SHOE REPAIR SHOP HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED AND Reshaped. Straws of every description Cleaned and Renovated. First-Class Shoe Repairing. All work guaranteed. Skates Sharpened. All goods called for and delivered. Phone M4798.

HELP WANTED

MEN AND WOMEN TO LEARN BARBering. Highest wages, steady employment guaranteed. Tools furnished free Send for free illustrated instruction book. CALGARY BARBER COLLEGE, 615B Centre Street (near C.P.R. Depot).

HOTELS

QUEEN'S HOTEL Second Street East and Eighth Avenue FURNISHED ROOMS TO RENT BY DAY, week or month. Weekly rates from $2.75 to $5.00; monthly rates from $10.00 to $20.00. All outside rooms, warm and comfortable, most central location in city. B. A. Atkinson, Jr., proprietor.

Canadian Women Shopping Abroad

They Find Many Words in Their Vocabulary Have Varying Interpretations Now

At the present time when so many Canadian women are going to England to be near their husbands whose military duties require their presence abroad, many amusing incidents must be brought to their notice relative to the interpretation of many commonplace words on that side of the Atlantic.

"Take the word 'homely,' for instance," says Everywoman's world in its January issue. "This word applied to an English woman would signify her to be domesticated, hospitable and kind-hearted; in fact, would embrace all the qualities essential to the making of a womanly woman. A plain person would be called ugly."

Especially in shopping do these Canadian women find their vocabulary not quite understood. The article continues:

"On going into an English shop, and asking for a spool of thread, the clerk would be at a loss to know what you meant. A request for a reel of cotton would bring forth the desired article.

"Re wearing apparel, the term shirt-waist is particularly unknown, but a blouse is dear to the heart of every Englishwoman.

"My lady's suit is a costume; her waist a bodice.

"Men go over and enjoy the sole possession of boots; women's footwear is also known under the same name. Shoes apply only to low-cuts and house slippers.

"Shopping, as the word implies here, is not tolerated in some parts of England. Many tourists will be ready to testify to this. It is not the easiest thing in the world to enter a place of business—say in a provincial town—just look around, then endeavor to walk out without making a purchase, especially if the clerk has disarranged any of his stock for you. With a polite, 'Just a moment, madame,' the floor-walker is summoned, the assistant explains that you are not suited; then follows a cross-examination by that autocrat, and to say the least, the situation is embarrassing; doubly so if you had not any intention of buying, and the excuses given were purely fictitious.

"In London and Liverpool, however, this system is being abolished by the larger firms, and many have notices to the effect that ladies are invited to inspect and admire without being pressed to buy."

A Real Improvement

The Sitting Position You Occupy When Sewing is a Very Important Matter

Your work is directly in front of you THE "WHITE" SIT-STRATE is only one of the many Real Improvements offered in the "WHITE"

You Can Have Yours Now, Just—

PAY $1.00 EACH WEEK—SOON PAID FOR

Sold by THE NEILSON FURNITURE CO., Calgary

STARCHED COLLARS TO GO

Wash fewer clothes and help the war. That is the latest advice given to the public.

The London Launderers' Association has issued a statement pointing out that owing to the increasing demand of the military authorities for men and the further call for women by munition works, the laundry industry is working under great difficulties, and it is impossible for promptness o regularity to be maintained in collection and delivery of work.

The whole question of economies in washing is to be discussed at the South London National Economy Exhibition at Dulwich Baths. It is urged that if people use fewer fabrics which have to be washed frequently, not only will the country be richer in labor, but in money, fuel, time and soap.

Some Suggestions

Among the suggestions advanced are the following:

Men should wear soft collars which can be washed at home, instead of stiff ones.

They should use darker shirts, and cuffs should be abolished.

In place of delicate crepe de chine blouses women should wear darker and more serviceable clothes.

Maid's starched frocks, aprons and caps should be dispensed with.

Dark overalls should be used in home and office as well as in the factory.

For children navy serge tunics and knickers can replace starched, frilly clothes.

Dust absorbing lace curtains should come down.

Many persons may or may not be surprised to learn, on official authority, that "towels will last longer if hands and face are washed more carefully."

Dearer Clothes and Hats

Fr men there will be worse troubles than having to wear soft collars and dark shirts, for all kinds of men's clothing, which has steadily advanced in price since the war, will cost even more this year. The government has commandeered the wool supplies, and after the requirements of our army and those of our allies have been satisfied, the export trade has had first call.

Hatters' fur and other materials are also exceedingly scarce and dear. This means that a "bowler" of fur felt previously obtainable for 4s. 6d. will soon cost 6s. 6d.

HOMESTEADS OR FARM LANDS

REGON AND CALIFORNIA RAILROAD Co. Grant Lands—Titles to same revested in United Staes by act of Congress, dated June 9, 1916. Two million three hundred thousand acres to be opened for homesteads and sale. Timber and Agricultural Lands, containing some of best lands left in United States. Now is the opportune time. Large sectional map showing lands and description of soil, climate, rainfall, elevation, etc., postpaid One Dollar. Grant Lands Locating Co., Box 816, Portland, Oregon.

WANTED—to hear from owner of good farm for sale. Northwestern Business Agency, Minneapolis, Minn.

Satisfied Customers for three years is our best advertisement

COUPON

To Dewis & Shaw, Box 76, Calgary, Alta. Enclosed find 50 cents for one tube of E-Z Rust Remover. If I do not get satisfactory results I can return same and my money will be refunded.

.....

FOR SALE

FOR SALE, IF SOLD AT ONCE, FIVE slightly used Organs, prices $25.00 to $60.00. Terms if desired. Those have been polished and tuned, and will be taken back inside of two years on a Willis Piano (Canada's Best) at the full price paid. Willis Pianos, peerless in tone, touch and finish. Alberta Showrooms, 325 8th Ave. West, Calgary. W. M. Howe, manager.

HIDES AND FURS

BEST MARKET PRICE FOR HIDES, FURS, WOOLS, PELTS AND HORSE HAIR, by the CANADIAN HIDE AND FUR COMPANY 519 Fourth Street East Calgary Phone M6589 We pay 3 cents per lb. for old rags. We pay 30c per pound for Horse Hair.

HIGH CLASS CLOTHING

MRS. BRENNAND, PHONE M5137, DEALer in high class cast-off clothing Samples in Ladies' Suits, Coats and Furs Highest prices given. Mrs. Brennand, 810a First St West. Alberta rooms.

INSURANCE

ST. PAUL MUTUAL HAIL & CYCLONE Insurance Company, Calgary. 718 Herald Building. Phone M5959.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Any Standard reader patronizing advertisers on this page are guaranteed satisfactory service. If you make a purchase and the goods are not right consult The Standard. When you buy mention The Standard.

ICE CREAM MANUFACTURERS

ICE CREAM IN BRICK AND BULK. Pure Goods. Prompt delivery P. PALLESEN Calgary Central Creamery Phone M5630

JEWELERS

DIAMOND MERCHANTS AND MANUFACTURING JEWELERS AND OPTICIANS Issuers of Marriage Licenses D. E. BLACK & CO., LTD Corner 7th Avenue and 1st Street West

LOCKSMITHS

IDDIOLS BROS., SAFE AND LOCK EXperts. We repair Bicycles, Sewing-machines, Guns, Locks, Etc. We sharpen lawn mowers, saws, shears, razors, etc. 712 2nd Street East, City Hall Corner Blk. East. Phone M6516. 13-1yr

MANUFACTURING FURRIER

FURS REMODELLED AND REPAIRED—Your own skins dressed and made up. Highest prices paid for raw furs. THOMAS PAIN. Successor to Mackay & Dipple. Fur Manufacturing Department 216A Eighth Avenue West Calgary.

CALGARY MOUNT ROYAL COLLEGE

ACADEMIC COURSES: BOOK KEEPING and Stenography; Music, Expression, Art, Etc. Resident and Day Students. Open to all denominations and classes. Phone M3191. Calendar free on application

NURSING HOMES

ENGLISH MATERNITY HOME—TERMS $20 per week inclusive, Graduate nurses supplied. Phone M3423. 812 2nd Ave. W.

STANDARD'S MOTOR DIRECTORY

AUTO GARAGES

TRY THE WEST END GARAGE FOR Automobile Repairs; our work is superior at low cost, and satisfaction guaranteed. 12th Ave. and 5th St. West. 13-26

SECOND-HAND CARS BOUGHT AND Sold. We always have a good line of autos to make a good selection. Our Garage is second to none for Repairs and Supplies. WEBBER'S GARAGE 128 6th Avenue W. Phone M2653

AUTO REPAIRS

THE WESTERN CARRIAGE WORKS, Auto and top builders and upholsterers; Side Curtains, Jiffey Curtains (pat ent); Seat Covers. Top Accessories always in Stock. 632 Seventeenth Avenue West Phone W4958.

BICYCLE REPAIRS

STAR CYCLE AND MOTOR COMPANY, 244 SEVENTH AVENUE EAST Just a few steps from the old stand

MARRIAGE LICENSES

D.E.BLACK & CO. LIMITED JEWELERS & OPTICIAN ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES LARGEST WATCH REPAIR BUSINESS IN WESTERN CANADA SEND FOR CATALOGUE HERALD BUILDING CALGARY ALBERTA

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS REPAIRED

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT REPAIRING Violins retoned and repaired; 3 years' practical experience; bows rehaired All kinds of musical instruments repaired. Webb's Musical Instrument Repairing Rooms, 202-205 Bruner Block, Calgary.

OPTICIANS

PATENT SOLICITORS

FORD, WRIGHT & MILLER, PATENT Solicitors Patents secured in all countries. Phone M6071. 207 Alberta Corner. Calgary, Alberta.

PIANOS

HARDY & HUNT PIANO CO., LIMITED 816 Eighth Ave. West. Main 1585.

PICTURE FRAMING

THE ART SHOP — PICTURE FRAMING a Specialty. 527 Seventh Ave. West J. W. BOOTH, Proprietor. Four years with Royal Picture Gallery

PLUMBING CONTRACTORS

YOUNG PLUMBING CO., LTD. PHONE M2869, Steam Fitters, Gas Fitting, Tinsmithing. 203 Seventh Avenue East.

PHELPS BROS. PHONE M1636 Plumbing, Gasfitting, Hot Water Heating Steam Fitting. Furnace Work. 930 Second Avenue N.W.

PRINTING

A. R. LITTLEBURY, COMMERCIAL AND Book Printer; 105 Sixth Avenue West Phone M2207. Estimates given.

PHOTOGRAPHER

CHAZIN PHOTO STUDIO—PORTRAITURE enlarging, developing, printing, and commercial work. 7 Eighth Ave. West Phone M3923.

ROLLER SKATING

ROYAL ROLLER RINK HAS OPENED under new management. Drop in and enjoy yourself. Afternoons 2.30 to 5 p.m. Evenings 7 to 10.30. Mr. C. Anderson, instructor. Will be pleased to give lessons to beginners, also fancy skating. Admission, Ladies 15c, Gents 25c. 210 9th Ave. East. Proprietors, Thompson & Miller.

SAFETY RAZORS SHARPENED

JUST TO CONVINCE YOU, SEND US three blades, we will resharpen them and return to you Free of charge. Our prices are: Gillette 35c per doz., and single edge blades 25c per doz., old fashioned razors 25c each. We sharpen Clippers, Scissors and Lances of every description Give us a trial. THE CALGARY SHOE HOSPITAL

SHOES REPAIRED

UNIVERSAL REPAIR SHOP Centre Street and 4th Ave.

AUTO OVERHAULING AT MODERATE prices. Oils, Greases, Ford Accessories. Second-hand cars for sale. FIRST CLASS STORAGE

VULCANIZING

We are specialists in vulcanizing everything in rubber. We are agents for the famous Firestone Tire. Don't forget the address: BELL TIRE CO. 602 First Street East Phone M5905 Res. M4702

VULCANIZED DOUBLE TREADS

PHONE M6755. NO STITCHES no bolts, no looseness, no extra weight; guaranteed 3,000 Miles. Red Star Vulcanizing Works, 103 Twelfth Avenue East. 13-1yr

O. K. SHOE CO. Calgary's Leading Shoe Repairers Let Us Fix Your Shoes We Guarantee the Utmost Satisfaction Country Orders Receive Prompt Attention 710 First St. E. Phone M5078

SECOND-HAND DEALERS

CHICAGO IRON AND METAL CO. 501-503 Sixth Ave. E., corner 4th St. Phone M4448. Dealers in Scrap Iron, Brass, Copper, Zinc and Lead, Rubber Tires and Inner Tubes, also Manilla Rope and all kinds of Old Machinery. It will be to your convenience to see us. Phone, call or write. MAX RUBEN, Manager.

STORAGE AND CARTAGE

STORAGE AND CARTAGE FOR ANY kind of goods. Warehouse specially fitted for household merchandise, each customer having separate rooms. Trackage. Padded vans for furniture and pianos. Expert packers and shippers. Estimates cheerfully given. Official cartage and baggage agents C.N.R. JOHNSTON STORAGE & CARTAGE, CO. Phone M4444 and M5678. Limited Office and Warehouse 422 Sixth Ave. East

CALGARY STORAGE & CARTAGE CO. LIMITED 437 TENTH AVENUE EAST PHONE M1349 Storage for all classes of Merchandise, including Cold Storage Equipment; Separate Compartments for Furniture, Pianos; Padded Furniture Vans; Packers, Forwarders. Baggage Delivered. Trackage for car lots.

TAILORS

SANDY MACLEAN Alterations, Tailoring, Repairs, Cleaning and Pressing Suits made to measure from $18 to $35 433 Lougheed Building, over Grand Theatre—Phone M6506. Calgary, Alberta

UNDERTAKING PARLORS

GRAHAM, McCALL AND RUTTLE LTD. FUNERAL DIRECTORS. Horse and Motor Equipment, Ambulance in connection. 611 Centre St. Phone M3709

LUMP $6.00
STOVE $5.25

Stock up now before the raise in price.

YORK SHAW
238 Eighth Ave. East
Phone M6423

PARCEL POST RATES

Any P. O. within twenty miles of Calgary, five cents for the first lb. and one cent additional for each additional lb. up to five lbs. when the rate is two cents for each additional lb. up to eleven lbs. To any P.O. beyond 20 miles but within the radius of Alberta, ten cents for the first lb. and four cents for each additional lb. To any P. O. in Saskatchewan ten cents for the first lb. and six cents additional for each additional lb.. To any P. O. in Manitoba, twelve cents for the first lb. and eight cents for each additional lb.

HOME
CLASSIFIED BUSINESS
GUIDE

OTOR DIRECTORY

UNIVERSAL REPAIR SHOP
Centre Street and 4th Ave.

AUTO OVERHAULING AT MODERATE prices. Oils, Greases, Ford Accessories. Second-hand cars for sale. FIRST CLASS STORAGE

VULCANIZING

We are specialists in vulcanizing everything in rubber. We are agents for the famous Firestone Tire. Don't forget the address:
BELL TIRE CO.,
602 First Street East
Phone M5905 Res. M4702

VULCANIZED DOUBLE TREADS

PHONE M6755. NO STITCHES no bolts, no looseness, no extra weight; guaranteed 2,000 Miles. Red Star Vulcanizing Works, 103 Twelfth Avenue East. 13-17r

O. K. SHOE CO.
Calgary's Leading once Repairers
Let Us Fix Your Shoes
We Guarantee the Utmost Satisfaction
Country Orders Receive Prompt Attention
710 First St. E. Phone M5078

SECOND-HAND DEALERS

CHICAGO IRON AND METAL CO.
501-503 Sixth Ave. E., corner 4th St.
Phone M4448.
Dealers in Scrap Iron, Brass, Copper, Zinc and Lead, Rubber Tires and Inner Tubes, also Manilla Rope and all kinds of Old Machinery. It will be to your convenience to see us. Phone, call or write.
MAX RUBEN, Manager.

STORAGE AND CARTAGE

STORAGE AND CARTAGE FOR ANY kind of goods. Warehouse specially fitted for household merchandise, each customer having separate rooms. Trackage. Padded vans for furniture and pianos. Expert packers and shippers. Estimates cheerfully given. Official cartage and baggage agents C.N.R. JOHNSTON STORAGE & CARTAGE CO. Phone M4444 and M5673. Limited Office and Warehouse 422 Sixth Ave. East

CALGARY STORAGE & CARTAGE CO LIMITED
437 TENTH AVENUE EAST
PHONE M1949
Storage for all classes of Merchandise, including Cold Storage Equipment; Separate Compartments for Furniture, Pianos; Padded Furniture Vans; Packers, Forwarders. Baggage Delivered. Trackage for carlots.

TAILORS

SANDY MACLEAN
Alterations, Tailoring, Repairs, Cleaning and Pressing
Suits made to measure from $18 to $35
433 Lougheed Building, over Grand Theatre—Phone M6506.
Calgary, Alberta

UNDERTAKING PARLORS

GRAHAM, McCALL AND RUTTLE LTD.
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
Horse and Motor Equipment, Ambulance in connection.
811 Centre St. Phone M3789

ROSEDALE STAR
LUMP $6.00
STOVE $5.25
Stock up now before the raise in price.
YORK SHAW
238 Eighth Ave. East
Phone M6423

PARCEL POST RATES
Any P. O. within twenty miles of Calgary, five cents for the first lb. and one cent additional for each additional lb. up to five lbs. when the rate is two cents for each additional lb. up to eleven lbs. To any P.O. beyond 20 miles but within the radius of Alberta, ten cents for the first lb. and four cents for each additional lb. To any P. O. in Saskatchewan ten cents for the first lb. and six cents additional for each additional lb.. To any P. O. in Manitoba, twelve cents for the first lb. and eight cents for each additional lb.

THE ADVENTUROUS CAREER OF CONSTANCE DUNLAP

The Eavesdroppers

By ARTHUR B. REEVE

"I SUPPOSE you have heard something about the troubles of the Motor Trust? The other directors, you know, are trying to force me out."

Rodman Brainard, president of the Motor Corporation, searched the magnetic depths of the big brown eyes of the woman beside his desk. Talking to Constance Dunlap was not like talking to other women he had known, either socially or in business.

"A friend of yours, and of mine," he added frankly, "has told me enough about you to convince me that you are more than an amateur at getting people out of tight places. I asked you to call because I think you can help me."

There was a directness about Brainard which Constance liked.

"It's very kind of you to place such confidence in me—on such short acquaintance," she returned pointedly, searching his face.

Brainard laughed.

"I don't need to tell you, Mrs. Dunlap, that anything I have said so far is an open secret in Wall Street. They have threatened to drag in the Sherman law, and in the reorganization that will follow the investigation, they plan to eliminate Rodman Brainard—perhaps set in motion the criminal clauses of the law. It's nothing, Mrs. Dunlap, but a downright hypocritical pose. They reverse the usual process. It is doing good that evil may result."

He watched her face intently. Something in her expression seemed to please him. "By George," he thought to himself, "this is a man's woman. You can talk to her."

Brainard, accustomed to quick decisions, added aloud, "Just now they are using Mrs. Brainard as a catspaw. They are spreading that scandal about my equaintance with Blanche Leblanc, the actress. You have seen her? A stunning woman—wonderful. But I long ago saw that such a friendship could lead to nothing but ruin." He met Constance's eye squarely. There was nothing of the adventuress in it as there had been in Blanche Leblanc. "And," he finished, almost biting off the words, "I decided to cut it out."

"How does Blanche Leblanc figure in the Motor Trust trouble?" asked Constance keenly.

"They had been shadowing me a long time before I knew it, ferreting back into my past. Yesterday I learned that some one had broken into Miss Leblanc's apartments and had stolen a package of letters which I wrote to her. It can't hurt her. People expect that sort of thing of an actress. But it can hurt the president of the Motor Trust—just at present."

"Who has been doing the shadowing?"

"Worthington, the treasurer, is the guiding spirit of the 'insurgents,' as they call themselves—it sounds popular, like reform. I understand they have had a detective named Drummond working for them."

Constance raised her eyes quickly at the name. Was Drummond always to cross her trail?"

"This story of the letters," he went on, "puts on the finishing touch. They have me all right on that. I can tell by the way that Sybil—er, Mrs. Brainard—acts, that she has read and reread those letters. But, by God," he concluded, bringing down his fist on the desk, "I shall fight to the end, and when I do down,"—he emphasized each word with an additional blow—"the crash will bring down the whole damned structure on their own heads, too."

He was too earnest even to apologize to her. Constance studied the grim determination in the man's face. He was not one of those destined to fail.

"All is not lost that is in peril, Mr. Brainard," she remarked quietly. "That's one of the maxims of your own Wall street."

"What would you do?" he asked. It was not an appeal; rather it was an invitation.

"I can't say yet. Let me come into the office of the trust. Can't I be your private secretary?"

"Consider yourself engaged. Name your figure—after it is over. My record on the streets speaks for how I stand by those who stand by me. But I hate a quitter."

"So do I," exclaimed Constance, rising and giving him her hand in a straightarm shake that made Brainard straighten himself and look down into her face with unconcealed admiration.

The next morning Constance became private secretary to the president of the Motor Trust.

"You will be 'Miss' Dunlap," remarked Brainard. "It sounds more plausible."

Quietly he arranged her duties so that she would seem to be very busy without having anything which really interfered with the purpose of her presence.

She had been thinking rapidly. Late in the forenoon she reached a decision. A little errand uptown kept her longer than she expected, but by the late afternoon she was back again at her desk, on which rested a small package which had been delivered by messenger for her.

"I beg you won't think as badly of me as it seems on the surface, Miss Dunlap," remarked Brainard, stopping beside her desk.

"I don't think badly of you," she answered in a low voice. "You are not the only man who has been caught with a crowd of crooks who plan to leave him holding the bag."

"Oh, it isn't that," he hastened; "I mean this Blanche Leblanc affair. May I be frank with you?"

It was not the first time Constance had been made a confidante of the troubles of the heart, and yet there was something fascinating about having a man like Brainard consider her worthy of being trusted with what meant so much to him.

"I'm not altogether to blame," he went on slowly. "The estrangement between my wife and myself came long before that little affair. It began over—well—over what they call a serious difference in temperament. You know a man—an ambitious man—needs a partner, a woman who can use the social position that money gives not alone for pleasure, but as a means of advancing the partnership. I never had that. The more I advanced, the more I found her becoming a butterfly—and not as attractive as the other butterflies either. She went one way—I, another. Oh well—what's the use? I went too far—the wrong way. I must pay. Only let me save what I can from the wreck."

It was not Constance, the woman, to whom he was talking. It was Constance, the secretary. Yet it was the woman, not the secretary, who listened.

Brainard stoped again beside her desk.

"All that is neither here nor there," he remarked, forcing a change in his manner. "I am in for it. Now, the question is—what are we going to do about it?"

Constance had unwrapped the package on her desk, disclosing an oblong box.

"Mr. Brainard," she answered tapping the box, "there's no limit to the use of this little machine for our purposes. We can get at their most vital secrets with it. We can discover every plan which they have against us. We may even learn the hiding place of those letters. Why, there is no limit. This is one of those new microphone detectives."

"A microphone?" he repeated as he opened the box, looked sharply at the two black little storage batteries inside, the coil of silk-covered wire, a little black rubber receiver and a curious black disc whose face was pierced by a circular row of holes.

"Yes. You must have heard of them. You hide that transmitter behind a picture or under a table or desk. Then you run the wire out of the room and by listening in the receiver you can hear everything!"

"But that is what detectives use—"

"Well?" she interrupted coolly, "what of it?" If it is good for them, is it not just as good for us?"

"Better!" he exclaimed. "By George you are the goods."

It was late before Constance had a chance to do anything with the microphone. It seemed as if Worthington were staying, perversely, later than usual. At last, however, he left with a curt nod to her.

The moment the door was closed she stopped the desultory clicking of her typewriter with which she had been toying in the appearance of being busy. With Brainard she entered the board room where she had noticed Worthington and Sheppard often during the day.

It was, without exaggeration, one of the most plainly furnished rooms she had ever seen. A long mahogany table with eight large mahogany chairs, a half-inch pile of velvety rug on the floor and a huge chandelier in the middle of the ceiling constituted the furniture. Not a picture, not a cabinet or filing case broke the blankness of the brown painted walls.

For a moment she stopped to consider. Brainard waited and watched her narrowly.

"There isn't a place to put this transmitter except up above that chandelier," she said at length.

He gave her his hand as she stepped on a chair and then on the table. There was a glimpse of trim ankle. The warmth and softness of her touch caused him to hold her hand just for a moment longer than was absolutely necessary. A moment later he was standing on the table beside her.

"This is the place, all right," she said, looking at the thick scum of dust on the top of the reflector.

Quickly she placed the little black disc close to the center on the top of the reflector. 'Can you see that from the floor?" she asked.

"No," he nswered, walking about the room, "not a sign of it."

"I'll sit here," she said in just a tremor of excitement over the adventure, "and listen while you talk in the board room."

Brainard entered. It seemed ridiculous for him to talk to himself.

"If the microphone works," he said at length, "rap on the desk twice." Then he added, half laughing to himself "If it doesn't, rap once—Constance."

A single rap came in answer.

"If you couldn't hear," he smiled entering her office, "why did you rap once?"

"It didn't work smoothly on that last word."

"What—Constance?"

He thought there was a subtle change in their relations since the microphone incident. At any rate, she was not angry. Were they not partners?

Mrs. Brainard was standing in the doorway

"I think it will be better if I turn that microphone around," she remarked. "I placed it face downwards. Let me change it."

Again he helped her as she jumped up on the board room table. This time his hand lingered a little longer in hers and she did not withdraw it so soon. When she did there was a quick twinkle in her eyes as she straightened the microphone and offered her hand to him again.

"Jump!" he said, as if daring her.

A moment she paused, "I never could take a dare," she answered.

She leaped lightly to the floor. For just a moment she seemed about to lose her balance. Then she felt an arm steadying her. He had caught her and for an instant their eyes met.

"Well, Rodman—I scarcely thought it was as brazen as this!"

They turned in surprise.

Mrs. Brainard was standing in the doorway.

She was a petite blonde little woman of the deceptive age which the beauty parlors convey to thousands of their assiduous patrons.

For a moment she looked coldly from one to the other.

"To what am I indebted for the pleasure of this unexpected visit, Sybil?" asked Brainard with sarcastic emphasis. "I shall finish those letters tomorrow. Miss Dunlap. You need not wait for them."

He held the door to his own office open for Mrs. Brainard.

Sybil Brainard shot a quick glance at Constance. "Well, young lady," she said haughtily, "do you realize what you are doing and with whom you are?"

"It isn't necessary, Sybil, to bother about Miss Dunlap. The lights were out of order and I found Miss Dunlap standing on the table trying to fix them. You came just in time to see her jump down. By the way, Worthington seems to be another who works late. He left only a few minutes ago."

Constance passed a restless night. To have got wrong at the very start worried her. Over and over she thought of what had happened. And always she came back to one question. What had Brainard meant by that reference to Worthington?

He came in late the next day, however. Still, there was no change in his manner as he greeted her. The incident had not affected him, as it had her. Neither of them said anything about it.

A young man had been waiting to see Brainard and as he entered he asked him in.

Just then Sheppard walked casually through the reception room and into the board room.

Constance quickly closed her door. She heard the young man leave Brainard's office but she was too engrossed to pay attention to anything but the voices that were coming through the microphone. She was writing feverishly what she heard.

"Yes, Sheppard, I saw her again last night."

"Where?"

"She was to meet me here, but he stayed later than usual with that new secretary of his. So I cut out and met her at the street entrance."

"And?"

"I told her of the new secretary. She did just what I wanted—came up here—and, say Sheppard—what do you think? They were in this room and he had his arms about her!"

"The letters are all right, are they? How much did you have to pay the Leblanc girl?"

"Twenty thousand. That's all charged up against the pool. Say Leblanc is—well—give you my word, Sheppard—I can hardly blame Brainard after all."

"You are the last word in woman haters, Lee."

Both men laughed.

"And the letters?"

"Don't worry. They are where they'll do the most good. Sybil has them herself. Now, what have you to report? You saw the district attorney?"

"Yes. He is ready to promise us all immunity if we will go on the stand for the State. The criminal business will come later. Only, you have to play him carefully. He's on the level. A breath of what we really want and it will be all off."

"Then we'll have to hold the stock up, as though nothing was going to happen."

They had left the board room.

Constance hurried into Brainard's office. He was sunk deep in his chair reading some papers.

"What's the matter?" she asked.

"She has entered a suit for divorce. That young man was a process server."

"Yes."

"You are named as co-respondent along with Blanche Leblanc."

"I?"

"Yes. It must have been an afterthought. Everything is going—fortune, reputation—even your friendship, now, Constance——"

"Going? Not yet."

She read hastily what she had overheard.

"Devil take Worthington," ground out Brainard, gripping the arms of his chair. "For weeks I have suspected him. They have been too clever for me. Constance, while I have been going around laying myself open to discovery, Sybil has played a cool and careful game."

He was pacing the floor.

"So—that's the plan. Hold back, keep the stock up until they get started. Then let it go down until I'm forced to sell out at a loss, buy it back cheap, and control the reorganization. Well, I haven't control now, alone. I wish I did have. But neither have they. The public owns the stock now. I need it. Who'll get it first—that the question!"

He was thinking rapidly.

"If you could do a little bear manipulation yourself," she suggested. "That might get the public scared. You could get enough to control, perhaps, then. They wouldn't dare sell—or if they did they would weaken their own control. Either way, you get them, going or coming."

"Exactly what I was thinking. Play their own game—ahead of them—accelerate it."

It was just after the lunch hour that Constance resumed her place at her desk with the receiver at her ear.

There were voices again in the board room.

"My God, Sheppard, what do you think? Some one is selling Motors—five points off and still going down."

"Who is it? What shall we do?"

"Who? Brainard, of course. Some one has peached. What are you going to do?"

"Wait. Let's call up the News Agency. Hello—yes—what? Unofficial rumor of prosecution of Motors by the government—large selling orders placed in advance. The deuce—say, we'll have to meet this or——"

"Meet nothing. It's Brainard. He's going down in a big crash. We pour our money into his pockets now and let him sell at the top and grab back control of our money? Not much. I sell, too."

Already boys were on the street with extras cryng the great crash in Motors. It was only a matter of minutes before all the news reading public were thoroughly scared at the apparently bursting bubble. Shares were dug up in small lots, in huge blocks and slammed on the market for what they would bring. All day the pounding went on. Thousands of shares were poured out until Motors, which had been climbing toward par in the neighborhood of 79 had declined forty points. Brainard had jumped in first and had realized the top price for his holdings.

Yet during all the wild scenes when the telephone was ringing insistently for him, Brainard, having set the machinery in motion and having been ostentatiously in the office when it started in order to avert suspicion, could not now be found.

The market had closed and Constance was reading the account of the collapse as it was interpreted in the Wall Street editions of the papers, when the door opened and Brainard entered.

"This has been a good day's work. Constance," he said, flinging himself into a chair.

"Yes, I was just reading of it in the papers. The little microphone has put an entirely new twist on affairs. And the best of it is that the financial writers all seem to think it was planned by Worthington and the rest."

"Oh, hang Worthington—hang Motors. That is what I meant."

He slapped down a packet of letters on the desk.

"You—you found them?" gasped Constance. She looked at him keenly. It was evident that a great weight had been taken off his mind.

"Yes, indeed. I know there was only one place where she would put them—in her safe with her jewels. She would think I would never suspect that she had them and, besides, she had the combination changed. I went up to the house this afternoon when she was out. I had an expert with me. He worked two hours, steady—but he opened it. Here they are. Now for the real game."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean that I noticed the name of the manufacturer on you microphone. I have had one installed in the room which she uses most of all. The wires run to the next house where I've hired an apartment. I intend to 'listen in' there. I'll get this Worthington—yet!"

That night Constance and Brainard sat for hours in the empty apartment patiently waiting for word over the microphone.

At last there was a noise as of a door opening.

"Show them in here."

"Sybil," whispered Brainard as if perhaps she might even hear.

Then came more voices.

"Worthington and Drummond," he added. "They suspect nothing yet."

"Drummond knows this Dunlap woman," said Worthington.

The detective launched forth in a tirade against Constance.

"But she is clever, Drummond. You admit that."

"Clever as they make 'em."

"You will have her shadowed?"

"Every moment, Mrs. Brainard."

"What's all this about the panic in Motors, Lee?"

"Some other time, Sybil, not now. Drummond, what do people say?"

Drummond hesitated.

"Out with it, man."

"Well, Mr. Worthington, it is said you started it."

"The deuce I did. But I guess Sheppard and I helped it along. We'll go the limit, too.

After all, it had to come. We'll load up after it reaches the bottom."

The voices trailed off.

"Good night, Mrs. Brainard."

"Good night, Mr. Drummond. That was what I wanted to know."

A pause.

"Lee, how can I ever thank you?"

A sound suspiciously like a kiss came over the wire. Brainard clenched his fist.

"Good night, Sybil. I must go now——" Again the voices trailed off.

It was several minutes before Brainard spoke. Then it was that he showed his wonderful power of concentration.

"I have a conference in half an hour, Constance," he remarked, looking at his watch. "It is very important. It means getting money to support Motors on the opening tomorrow after I have gathered in again what I need. I think I can come pretty near doubling my holdings if I play it right. That's important. But so is this."

"I will listen," put in Constance. "Trust me. If anything else occurs I will tell you."

She was at the office early the next day, but not before Brainard, who, bright and fresh, even though he had been up all night, was primed for the battle of his life at the opening of the market.

Brainard had swung in at the turn and had quietly accumulated the stock control which he needed. He was now bulling the market by matching orders, pyramiding stock which he owned, using every device that was known to his astute brain.

On up went Motors, recovering the forty points, gradually, and even going beyond in the reaction. Worthington and Sheppard had been squeezed out. Not for a moment did he let up.

As the clock on Trinity church struck three, the closing hour, Brainard suddenly in his chair.

"Miss Dunlap," he said quietly. "I wish that you would tell Worthington and Sheppard that I should like to see them in the board room at four."

Constance looked at her watch. There was time also to execute a little scheme of her own.

Four o'clock came. Brainard lounged casually across to the board room. Instantly Constance had the receiver of the microphone at her ear, straining to catch every word, and to make notes of the stormy scene, if necessary.

Her door opened. It was Sybil Brainard.

The two women looked at each other coldly. Constance was the first to speak.

"Mrs. Brainard," she began. "I asked you to come down here—not Mr. Worthington. More than that, I asked the office boy to direct you here instead of to his office. Do you see that machine?"

Sybil looked at it without a sign of recognition.

"It is a microphone detective. It was the installing of that machine in the board room which you interrupted the other night."

"Was it necessary that Mr. Brainard should put his arm around you for that?' inquired Mrs. Brainard with biting sarcasm.

"I had just jumped down from the table and had almost lost my balance—that was all," pursued Constance imperturbably.

"Another of these microphone eavesdroppers told me of a conversation last night in your own apartment, Mrs. Brainard."

Her face blanched. "You—have one—there?"

"Yes. Mr. Brainard heard the first conversation, when Drummond and Mr. Worthington were there. After they left he had to attend a conference himself. I alone heard what passed when Mr. Worthington returned."

"You are at liberty to——"

"Mrs. Brainard. You do not understand. "I have no reason to want to make you——"

An office boy tapped on the door and entered. "Mr. Brainard wants you, Miss Dunlap."

"I cannot explain now," resumed Constance. "Won't you sit here at my desk and listen over the microphone to what happens?"

She was gone before Mrs. Brainard could reply. What did it all mean? Sybil put the black disc receiver to her ear as she had seen Constance do. Her hand trembled. "Why did she tell me that?" she murmured.

"You can prove it," shouted a voice through the black disc at her ear. She was startled. It was the voice of Worthington.

"Miss Dunlap—have you that notebook?" came the deep tones of her husband.

Constance read from her first notes that part relating to the conspiracy to control Motors, carefully omitting the part about the Leblanc letters.

"It's a lie—a lie."

"No, it is not a lie. It is all good legal evidence, the record taken over the new microphone detective. Look up there over the chandelier, Worthington. The other end is in the top drawer of Miss Dunlap's desks."

"I'll fight that to a finish, Brainard. You are clever but there are other things besides Motors that you have to answer for."

(Continued on Page Fourteen)

CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD

An Independent Weekly Newspaper Illustrating Current Events and Devoted to the Advancement of Western Canada.
Published Every Saturday
109 SIXTH AVENUE WEST
Calgary Alberta, Canada

E. H. MACARTHUR, :: Publisher
B. S. WHITE, :: Editor and Manager
Telephone for Editorial and Circulation Department, M4218

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:
In Calgary $2.50 per year; in Canada $2.00; in United States $1.50 per year; Foreign $3.00 per year.
Subscriptions may commence at any time.
The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription will expire. Your paper will stop unless you renew promptly. It is always best to renew at least two weeks before expiration to insure uninterrupted service.
Subscribers failing to receive copies regularly will confer a favor by notifying the Circulation Department by post or telephone.
No agent or newsboy is authorized to sell The Sunday Standard on Sunday. Any person doing so is acting without permission from this company.

ADVERTISING RATES:
Advertising rates upon application.
All advertising copy must reach The Standard Office not later than Thursday noon to insure insertion in Mail and Local Editions.
NOTE—Owing to the prejudicial feeling that seems to exist among some of our readers regarding Sunday newspapers, the publisher has decided to eliminate this objectional word, although the publication dates will be the same.
Address all correspondence to Calgary Sunday Standard, 109 Sixth Avenue, West, Calgary.

BE OF GOOD CHEER!
VICTORY FOLLOWS THE FLAG!

Have you ever met a Judas Iscariot?

Did you ever hear the story of the "Octopus" and the Lamb? Watch for it. It will be worth reading.

"Billy" Sunday is reported to have saved 35,000 converts and, incidentally, added $42,000 to his coffers through this operation in his Buffalo campaign. Rev. William Sunday is some evangelist—and some money-maker as well.

MAKE LINEN OUT OF STRAW

A new industry is being talked of for Alberta's waste straw. A well known farmer of the province, William Dunlop, near Bassano, says that he is convinced that the flax straw which abounds throughout the province can be made into linen and will be worth in its raw state 25 cents per pound. This is gratifying news and the idea is worthy of a thorough investigation by the provincial agricultural department.

FLY THE FLAG

For some time The Standard has been urging that we should show our patriotism by flying the flag. Unfurl the flag should be our watchword. Nothing can arouse the average mind to a sense of country and duty than the flying of the red, white and blue. More battles have been won by the opportune arriving of the flag bearer with the band than the average man has any idea. The flag is a badge of patriotism. It makes for a better spirit of loyalty and patriotism. Fly the emblem of the Dominion's greatness. Fly the flag!

NO NEED FOR WORRY

Glad news comes from our United States agents. We are going to have all the help we need for the cultivation of our farm products.

It is said that the advertising campaign instigated by the Dominion government is bearing fruit and that hundreds of farm helpers are either on the way or are making plans to come to Canada at an early date.

These men are capable farm hands, not scrubs of a nation. They are the kind that make real settlers, and when they see the opportunities that surround them here they will no doubt stay and make Canada their permanent home.

Welcome, say we. The more the merrier.

WHAT IS LOVE?

A few weeks ago a New Orleans paper was possessed with the idea that they would like to know what love is so they offered a prize amounting to upwards of one hundred dollars for the best answer to this interesting subject.

One would think from the number of answers received that this was the most absorbing subject of all the United States.

The first prize was won by a young lady of Alabama whose answer was: "Love is the doorway through which the human soul passes from selfishness to service, and from solitude into kinship with all humanity."

This may be the theory, but practically it means an insane desire on the part of a young man to pay a girl's board bill for life, so we understand.

ARE WE PATRIOTIC?

In the past eighteen months the people of Canada have been asked by the government of Canada to advance money for war loans to the extent of three hundred million dollars. These loans were oversubscribed nearly once again. The last loan seemed more popular than the first.

To the first loan there were upwards of 25,000 subscribers. To the last loan over 40,000 citizens showed their loyalty to the country.

What does this mean? It means that the people are with the government heart, soul and body. It means that the citizens of this great country believe in honesty and justice. And they are willing to back up a country that stands for its rights in this direction as long as there is a farthing left.

THE UNITED STATES DECISION WILL HELP US

The United States decision to declare war against Germany has at last become a fact. By those deep thinkers who could see the "signs on the wall" there has been no question from the first but that the United States would be drawn into the controversy. The fact that she has been able to stand out so long has been a source of wonderment. Now that she is really truly in it, all sins of the past will be forgiven, and we will work like brothers with one accord to wipe from the face of the earth this demagog of pluto-aristocracy.

From present reports, however, the allies may be saved from a great deal of worriment and incidental warfare as it is said that a movement is growing in Germany daily which will probably revolve itself into a revolution. Should this be the case, and there seems to be much grounds for this report, then the whole of the present difficulties which the warring nations are fighting about would be settled.

In any event the United States' entry into the war is bound to have a most gratifying effect all along the line.

HOW THE PEOPLE CAN HELP THEMSELVES

The Provincial government started this week an advertising campaign to arouse and instruct the people to the necessity of home culture of food products.

If there is one thing that will bring the people to a sense of appreciation of conditions that confront us and the need for prompt action in this direction it is a good advertising campaign of this character.

We have no doubt that the people of Alberta and the whole west will do their best to raise sufficient crops to satisfy the local demands.

If for no other reason they will do so because the majority of the housewives have been brought to appreciate what the high cost of living means.

Forty-six per cent. increase, which we believe is the estimated figures of the total increase in food and drugs in the past two years, is something that strikes home. It means that the ordinary householder is paying half again as much to feed and clothe his family today as he was two years ago while his income remains practically the same.

Home production of garden products will go a long way to reduce these figures of the high cost of living, and it is up to us to do it.

THE BOYS DAYS OF HEAVEN

The kids are playing ball and rolling marbles on the streets and in the alleys. We might be a little more elegant in our manner of expression and say boys, but it would not be nearly as expressive.

The seasons in Boyville are the same the world over. A little chap will go to bed in some dark tenement not knowing where his breakfast is to come from and next morning, by a certain way the sun strikes the roof across the way, he knows that breakfast or no breakfast he must find enough pennies to buy a few marbles. He knows it's marble time. Don't ask him how; he couldn't tell you, but out in the clean, wide districts where the more fortunate youngsters play it's marble season on the same day, and so throughout the country.

As with marbles, so with tops and kites. They have their seasons, unmarked in the calendar but unchangeable. Being a boy carries with it the wisdom to know these seasons and as boyhood is left behind, Nature sees to it their beginnings and endings are forgotten. That's one reason why a fellow never returns to Boyville. But the crack of the kindling on the rag ball and the exultant cry of the lad with the crutch as he hobbles around the bases remind dull grown-ups that the cycle of Boyville's seasons has begun again and that the kids, bless 'em, never forget.

BRITISH PEOPLE ANSWER THE CALL

The British farmers are being mobilized. For the time being the hand that guides the plowshare directs the tide of war.

Premier Lloyd-George has sent a personal letter to every farmer in the country pointing out that the next few weks will decide the harvest and urging that every available acre be sown.

"It is," says the Prime Minister, "in the farmer's power to defeat the German submarine, the last hope of desperate Prussianism."

Satisfaction has been expressed by the members of the British agricultural board over the hearty and patriotic response of both men and women to meet the agricultural needs of the country. Not only are the people eating less without murmuring, but they are striving with commendable zeal for the maximum production from the soil. Lawns, back yards and parks are being prepared for vegetable gardens.

All the motor tractors in the country are being commandeered for day and night plowing.

There is no doubt that the food problem was proving a serious menace to England. More so than the war, but since the people have taken such an active step to alleviate the wants in this direction the government can see daylight ahead.

GOVERNMENT SHOULD TAKE ACTION

In these days of stress, privations and self-denial that all Canada is undergoining on account of the war, it is a sad commentary on the times to review the reports of the profiteers of the war. For instance, take the profits reported that is being made by the war munitions manufacturers. According to the figures that we have at hand one concern in the east made a profit of over 800 per cent. making war munitions for the government. This same concern before the war never declared dividends for over a reasonable amount. Then why take advantage of the exigencies of the occasion, and insist on unheard of profits from a government that is doing everything in its power to help and protect this same concern from an invasion of an enemy who would confiscate their property in case they did invade the country.

It strikes us that the government should take drastic steps in cases of this kind, not only to compel the company to do its duty but to show a more patriotic spirit by contributing the profits over and above a fair amount to the good of the cause.

It's a sad condition of affairs to realize that a body of men would exact enormous profits in cases of this kind, but since they do, it is up to the government to protect the people's interest by proper legislation and compell the concerns to recognize what patriotism means.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

MONTREAL EDITOR MADE A PEER

A former office boy employed by a Montreal newspaper, has been created a British peer, the first native-born Canadian to sit in the British House of Lords. News was received here from Montreal that King George had conferred this honor on Sir Hugh Graham, proprietor of the Montreal Star.

Graham is one of the Dominion's self-made men, probably its most eminent journalist. He is the first newspaper man of any British overseas possession, Canada, Australia, South Africa or any other, to be elevated to the peerage. He has been created a baron, but has not decided what title he will assume.

The remarkable qualities of the new Canadian peer are shown by the fact that though at the age of 15—he is now 69—he was an office boy on the Montreal Telegraph, just two years later he became general manager of the same paper, being then only 17. In two years more this remarkable young man was able to buy a half interest in the Montreal Star and another two years saw him, at 21, full owner of the Star. He has so remained for 48 years.

The young man who owned a great newspaper by the time he came of age was not content with one newspaper. He originated a weekly edition of the Star and accumulated several other newspapers as well. He has identified himself with all the principal patriotic movements in Canada in the last 30 years, and has supported liberally, with energy and purse, every project for the upbuilding of the British empire that has been advanced since the early '90s. He has taken a large part in the charitable work of Canada. He is vice-president of the Children's Memorial hospital and a director of most of the widely known Canadian charities. He received the honorary degree of doctor of laws from Glasgow university recently.

Until 1908 the new peer was simply Hugh Graham. Then he was knighted and became Sir Hugh Graham. Before their marriage, Lady Graham was Annie Beekman Hamilton, of Montreal. They have one daughter.

NOT IN HIS CAREER.

She—How long have you been out of college?
He—All my life

THINGS TO KNOW AT 21

At a church meeting in Cleveland, O., recently, the speaker gave the replies of 19 men to the question: "What I wish I had known before I was 21 years old." These are the 19 answers:

What I was going to do for a living—what my life work would be.

That my health after 30 depended, in a large degree, on what I ate before I was 21.

How to take care of my money.

The commercial asset of being neatly and sensibly dressed.

That a man's habits are mighty hard to change after he is 21.

That a harvest depends upon the seed sown—wheat produces wheat, thistles bring forth thistles, ragweeds will spoil a good pasture, and wild oats once sown will surely produce all kinds of misery and unhappiness.

That things worth while require time, patience and work.

That you can't get something for nothing.

That the world would give me just about what I deserved.

That by the sweat of my brow would earn my bread.

The value of absolute truthfulness in everything.

THE PLOW OUR HOPE

This was One of the Significant Phrases Recently Used by the Prime Minister of Great Britain

There is Only One Way to Reduce the HIGH COST OF LIVING

That is to

INCREASE PRODUCTION

Everyone cannot OPERATE A FARM, but every GARDEN that is cultivated this year will increase the Food Supply.

EVERY HEN YOU SET
will mean more chickens, and after MORE EGGS. These will mean INCREASED VITALITY IN CANADA. This may be THE WAY IN WHICH YOU CAN HELP.

THIS SHOULD BE CANADA'S GREATEST YEAR OF NATIONAL SERVICE
The appeal comes to everyone. Whether you live in a City, Town or Village or on a Farm. No matter how small your garden patch is, it will help.

The Alberta Department of Agriculture is at your service in this work. If you want information or assistance, write to the Department, or write to the nearest School of Agriculture or Demonstration Farm and your request will have immediate attention.

TEST ALL THE SEEDS YOU SOW
We will do this for you if you send in samples of the seed

FARM HELP. If you require farm help, write to one of the following:—

Agent of Department of Agriculture, Board of Trade Building, Lethbridge.
Agent of Department of Agriculture, Dairy Commissioner's Office, Calgary.
Agent of Department of Agriculture, Office of Publicity Commissioner, Edmonton.

Let this year be one of
THE GREATEST EFFORT OF ALBERTA

We shall be pleased to mail you bulletins upon "Vegetable Gardening," "Poultry Raising" or any other agricultural endeavor, as well as to give assistance through the officials of the Department.

HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL.
Minister of Agriculture

VISITORS TO THE CALGARY HORSE AND CATTLE SHOW

HAVE YOU EVER VISITED A BIG PACKING PLANT AND SEEN 600 OR 1,000 DRESSED BEEF HANGING IN ORDERLY ROWS IN A SPOTLESS ROOM OF ICE AND SNOW? HAVE YOU EVER GONE THROUGH THE CUTTING-ROOM OF A BIG MEAT CONCERN AND WITNESSED THE MANNER IN WHICH A HUNDRED PORKERS ARE SWIFTLY DISMEMBERED AND DIVIDED INTO HAMS AND BACONS AND OTHER CUTS? IF YOU HAVE NEVER PASSED THROUGH THE PACKING-ROOM AND SEEN THE FILLING OF THE THOUSANDS OF CANS OF LARD THAT PASS THROUGH THE PLANT IN A DAY, OR WATCHED THE MAKING OF YARDS OF SAUSAGES, THEN THIS VISIT TO CALGARY WILL BE AN OPPORTUNE TIME TO ACCEPT THE INVITATION WHICH P. BURNS & CO., LTD., ARE EXTENDING, TO VISIT THEIR PLANT IN EAST CALGARY. A GUIDE WILL BE PROVIDED, WHO WILL DO NOTHING ELSE THAN SHOW VISITORS THROUGH THE ESTABLISHMENT, AND A SPECIAL INVITATION IS EXTENDED BY MR. BURNS TO THOSE WHO ARE COMING IN FROM OUTSIDE POINTS DURING SHOW WEEK.

Impressions gained by a Standard representative who went through the plant last week were twofold:—First, the absolute cleanliness of the place; and second, the enormity of the business done daily in this far western concern. Everywhere there was evidence of precaution taken to keep out any unsanitary condition. The floor was either covered with sawdust or kept hozed with a handy nozzle. The men wore oilskin coats, and the air of cleanliness pervaded everything.

The pork-room was first visited, where as many as 1,700 hogs a day are put through the required process. Long rows of carcasses were drawn over a table on a pulley rope and dropped upon the surface. Ten men stood in line, and each had his particular portion of the carcass to attend to. One removed the hams and sent them down the chute to the curing-room; another took care of the head, another had the sides of bacon to remove, and another the spare ribs, etc., until by the time the carcass reached the other end of the table, it was divided into all the shapes which pork can assume.

In the lard-room, boiling vats of the purest lard delivered their contents down long tubes, which ran into the packing-room. Rows of pails of all sizes were spread under the mouth of the spout, and the hot liquid filled these at a rapid pace. Ten thousand pounds a day are produced from this room in busy seasons.

The sausage-room was also a place of interest. After the removal of the bones, the pork was placed in big grinders, and the packing process was one at which to marvel.

A visit to the cold storage room revealed tons of beef carcasses hanging frozen from their hooks.

Visitors are always welcome to go through the establishment, and watch the process of the final disposing of the cattle and hogs that have been gathered from far and wide of Alberta's plains. But, as already stated, Show Week will be Special P. BURNS & CO., LTD., WEEK.

Samples of all the products of the packing-house are always on exhibition at the Calgary Market, corner of Eighth avenue and Second street east, where rows of cured hams, white ruddy pork carcasses, appetizing-looking beef cuts and sides, are displayed to the shopper. All visitors in town are invited to inspect this palatial branch of the big industry as well as the packing plant.

seed sown—wheat produces wheat, thistles bring forth thistles, ragweeds will spoil a good pasture, and wild oats once sown will surely produce all kinds of misery and unhappiness.

That things worth while require time, patience and work.

That you can't get something for nothing.

That the world would give me just about what I deserved.

That by the sweat of my brow would earn my bread.

The value of absolute truthfulness in everything.

HOPE

...ases Recently
...Great Britain

...duce the LIVING
...DUCTION

...vice on this work. If you want ...t the nearest School of Agriculture ...te attention.

...OU SOW
...el
...of the following:—
...e Building, Lethbridge.
...ssioner's Office, Calgary.
...ulty Commissioner, Edmonton.

...F ALBERTA
...etable Gardening," "Poultry Rais... ...sistance through the officials of the

...NCAN MARSHALL.
Minister of Agriculture

...GARY
...E SHOW
...00 DRESSED BEEF HANGING ...EVER GONE THROUGH THE ...WHICH A HUNDRED PORK... ...AND OTHER CUTS? IF YOU ...ING OF THE THOUSANDS OF ...THE MAKING OF YARDS OF ...O ACCEPT THE INVITATION ...EAST CALGARY. A GUIDE ...THROUGH THE ESTABLISH... ...WHO ARE COMING IN FROM

...week were twofold:—First, the ...this far western concern. Every... ...he floor was either covered with ...cleanliness pervaded everything. ...gh the required process. Long ...ce. Ten men stood in line, and ...sent them down the chute to the ..., and another the spare ribs, etc., ...he shapes which pork can assume. ...g tubes, which ran into the pack... ...e hot liquid filled these at a rapid

... pork was placed in big grinders, ...om their hooks. ...s of the final disposing of the cat... ...eady stated, Show Week will be

...Calgary Market, corner of Eighth ...es, appetizing-looking beef cuts ...palatial branch of the big industry

WOMAN'S PAGE
Fads and Fancies

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. J. A. Irvine has returned from Edmonton.

* * *

Lieut. and Mrs. C. B. Reilly have gone to Ottawa.

* * *

Miss Jean Ryan is visiting at her home in Winnipeg.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Jennings are visiting at the coast.

* * *

Mrs. W. D. Spence spent a few days in Lethbridge last week.

* * *

Miss A. L. Burwash is spending the Easter holidays in Edmonton.

* * *

Mrs. Bruce Robinson, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Trout, in Edmonton.

* * *

Mr. E. D. Adams went to Edmonton last week to attend the Edmonton horse show.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. I. K. Kerr have returned from California, where they spent the winter.

* * *

Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. West-Jones have returned from a short visit in Edmonton.

* * *

Mrs. L. Goldberg and children have have returned from New York and other eastern cities.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. David A. Levi have returned from the coast, where they spent their honeymoon.

* * *

Miss Mary McNair, who has been visiting her parents at St. John, N.B., has returned to the city.

* * *

Mrs. W. A. Stevens, who has been spending the winter in California, returned home on Thursday.

* * *

Mrs. Doherty, Devenish apartments, has as her guest her daughter, Mrs. Wilson Lang, of Medicine Hat.

* * *

Miss L. M. Fitzpatrick leaves on Monday night on an extended visit to New York, Chicago and other eastern cities.

* * *

Mrs. Norman Rankin and her two children will leave shortly for Montreal to reside with Mrs. Rankin, senr., while Captain Rankink is overseas.

* * *

Mrs. George W. Morfitt and three sons left on Thursday for Bowden where they will spend the Easter holidays with Mr. and Mrs. William Morfitt.

* * *

Miss Beryl Graham entertained at tea at the Palliser, Wednesday, complimentary to Mrs. W. M. McLean, who left on Thursday with Mr. McLean en route to Winnipeg, where they will reside.

* * *

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the "Y" gave a banquet to the Y. M. C. A. High School club, on Thursday night. An interesting program of songs, speeches, etc., added greatly to the pleasure of the evening.

* * *

The sport association of the Army Medical corps closed the winter season with a banquet and dance on Wednesday night at the Empire Winter Gardens. Many prominent club women were present, as well as the wives of the members.

* * *

The pupils of the Hillhurst Presbyterian Sunday school gave a splendid concert on Thursday evening. The program included songs, duets, tableaux and a cantata. The tableau, "Britannia," was given, by kind permission of the composer, Mr. W. A. Montgomery. Other items were choruses and drills.

* * *

Louis Graveure, assisted by Miss Eleanor Painter and Mr. Frank Bibb, gave a return engagement at the Al-Azhar temple on Wednesday evening that proved as delightful as their first appearance here and gave many Calgarians who were unable to hear them at the first performance a pleasure they had not expected.

Louis Graveure, brilliant Belgian baritone, will long be remembered by Calgary music lovers.

Events Past, Present, Future

Ponoka, April 3.—Before a meeting of the Boys' club of this town, the mayor, council and other prominent citizens, on Monday night, J. M. Sharpe, boys' work secretary of the Calgary Y. M. C. A., declared that if the ideals for which the Canadians were dying at the front were to be conserved the boys of today must be given virile leadership, and the methods of developing the boys must be so adapted as to secure the largest results.

The opportunities for boys to display their loyalty. Mr. Sharpe told them, was to secure the best possible training at school, to develop character in their play, to serve their fellows liberally in Sunday school and boys' clubs, and thus develop themselves so that they can live daily the principles for which the men are fighting.

During the evening a boy was charted on the standard efficiency test basis and the principles and methods of the test explained.

* * *

The postponed regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Musical club was held in the public library Monday evening and took the form of an illustrated musical lecture by Judge Jennison on "Hymnology." The program, which was arranged by Mrs. Glen Broder, included the following numbers: Creation's Hymn, Mr. Horace Reynolds; Elizabeth's Prayer, Mrs. Blake Mahoney; Meditation, a violin solo, Miss Mary MacKinnon; Cherubim Song, from the Russian church, the Pro-Cathedral quartet, accompanied by Mr. W. A. Montgomery; Night Hymn at Sea, Miss Zelle Delsart and Mr. Horace Reynolds; Ave Maria, Miss May Pearson; Recordare, from Manzoni Requiem, Mrs. Blake Mahoney and Miss Zelle Delsart; Offertorio, from Requiem, Mrs. Glen ... Abide With Me, Miss Zelle Delsart; The Long Day Closes, St. Stephen's quartet. A collection was taken up in aid of St. Dunstan's home for blind soldiers.

* * *

The members of the Housekeepers' association listened to a good address on Tuesday evening at the Y. W. C. A., given by Mr. James Pettigrew, a returned veteran.

The speaker pointed out many instances wherein the pension failed to accomplish its purpose.

One of the main points mentioned was that the present pension was inadequate to properly educate the children of soldiers. The children have to leave school at an early age to help build up the family income, therefore they have no chance of a good education. Every widow is expected to find some work to help eke out her pension, which alone is not sufficient to maintain the ordinary comforts and decencies of life.

Another class of dependents who were not granted sufficient means for livelihood were the orphan children of both officers and privates alike, each of whom was granted $12 monthly. A scheme of soldiers' orphanages had been mentioned, but where was the orphanage that could maintain a child on that amount monthly? It was only fair to their fathers' sacrifices that they be maintained and not be a charge on their relatives or friends.

Mrs. A. J. Lewis and Miss Coutts addressed the meeting and in conclusion Mrs. William Carson moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Pettigrew, and urged everyone present to become an agitator the rights of those who had sacrificed so much for the nation.

* * *

On Tuesday evening Hickman hall presented a lively scene when the members of the Calgary Ad club, with their wives and friends, attended the Mardi Gras arranged by the club.

Following the midway the gentlemen bought the baskets brought by the ladies, and in this way quite a sum was realized for the Belgian relief fund. The program, which was particularly pleasing was as follows: Solos by Mrs. McCracken and Mr. Zara Stanley, readings by Miss Theresa Seigel and Mr. Ernest Willis, and selections by the Zingari quartet, composed of Messrs. H. A. Maclean, C. A. Lydiatt, W. A. Ackland and Dr. C. B. Johnson. Mrs. Zara Stanley and Miss Alberta Boyd acted as accompanists. Among those present were noticed Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Nimmo, Mr. and Mrs. I. K. Ruttle, Miss Norma Ruttle, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Zara Stanley, Mrs. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Maclean, Miss Pansy Macgregor, Miss Rheta Bolton, Miss Minnie Kern, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Stokes, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mallette, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. McCutcheon, Mr. and Mrs. J. McFarland, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Chauncey, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ackland, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Burland, Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Woodbridge, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Lydiatt, Miss Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Larramour, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Love, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Glover, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sales, Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Richardson, Dr. and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Walker, Miss Theresa Seigel, Mr. Herbert Akitt, Mr. Ernest Willis, Mr. Inverarity, Mr. Douglas Hayes, Mr. Tom Campbell, Mr. L. A. Lambert, Mr. Charles Holmes, and others.

A FAVORITE EXHIBITOR

Miss Margaret Layzell, daughter of A. Layzell, the well-known horseman of Calgary. Miss Layzell has always taken a deep interest in horses and is a general favorite with lovers of the tan bark.

WEDDINGS

Clark—Gordon

The marriage took place at five o'clock Wednesday afternoon of Miss Lilian Gordon and Mr. H. F. Clark, both of Calgary. The young couple, who were the recipients of many handsome gifts, left on Thursday morning for Three Hills, Alberta.

JAEGER
For Men

Here are some Jaeger Wool Goods some of which every man needs: Blazers, Sweaters, Dressing Gowns, Waistcoats, Coat Sweaters, Shirts, Collars, Cardigan Jackets, Smoking Jackets, Ulsters, Coats, Gloves, Socks, Mufflers, Slippers Caps, etc. Ask to see these Jaeger Garments, they are well worth your inspection.

A fully illustrated catalogue and Dr. Jaeger's Health Culture will be sent free upon application to:

TORONTO, MONTREAL, WINNIPEG.
Incorporated in England in 1883, with British Capital for the British Empire.

Currie—Dawn

On Monday evening, April 2, at the home of the Misses Currie, 211 Tenand-a-half street, N.W., Mr. Herbert C. Currie and Miss Lily May Dawn, of Ghost Lake Creek, Alberta, were united in marriage, by the Rev. Wm. Mahaffy.

* * *

Clarke—London

Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Herbert S. Clarke and Miss Lillie London, Calgary, were united in marriage by Rev. A. C. Wishart, of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, at his residence. The couple was attended by Miss Lottie Thompson, of Calgary, and Mr. Wilson Gouge, of Drumheller. Mr. and Mrs. Clarke will take up their residence near Three Hills.

* * *

May—World

The marriage took place quietly Tuesday afternoon at the Central Methodist church parsonage of Miss Ethel Maude World, of Pasadena, California, and Private Norman Russell May, of the C.A.M.C., Calgary. The immediate friends of the contracting parties were present to witness the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. S. W. Fallis.

The bride, who was attired in a ... rose gabardine trimmed with white and horsehair braid picture hat with a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses was attended by Mrs. H. S. Roberts, while Mr. Horace E. Woolmer attended the groom.

Besides the attendants there were present Mr. H. S. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kitchen, Mr. Stanley Kitchen and Mr. Wilfred Chambers. Later the bridal party was entertained at dinner at the Palliser by Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Wilson and Mr. Woolmer.

* * *

A pretty but quiet wedding took place Wednesday at noon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Ford, when Miss Hazel E. Evans, a sister of Mrs. Ford, became the wife of Mr. J. Carleton Dance, of Kingsmill, Ontario. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. W. Fallis, of Central Methodist church, in the presence of a number of relatives and guests. The house was artistically arranged with a profusion of palms, ferns, spring daffodils and sweet peas, the ceremony taking place in the drawing room before a bank of greenry.

The bride was very attractive in a rich gown of ivory duchesse satin trimmed with lace and pearls. The long veil of tulle was worked with pearls and caught with orange blossoms and her bouquet was a shower of white roses. The only attendant was Miss Helen Ford, the bride's niece, who was very pretty and dainty in a frock of pink pussy willow taffeta and carried a basket of pink sweet peas. The wedding music was played by Miss Margaret Evans, the bride's sister, who wore an old rose taffeta and lace. During the signing of the register Miss Evans sang delightfully, "I Love You Truly." To the bride the bridegroom's gift was a gold watch bracelet, while to the flower girl he gave a gold bracelet, and to the organist a cameo ring as souvenirs.

Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served and later Mr. and Mrs. Dance left for their future home at Kingsmill, Ont., the bride traveling in a tailored suit of dark green cloth with hat to match. Among the out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Evans, of Vulcan; Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Evans, of Weyburn, Sask., and Dr. and Mrs. Brown, of Cayley.

PRUDENCE
OF THE PARSONAGE
THE FAMOUS STORY OF A HAPPY FAMILY
By Ethel Hueston

COPYRIGHT 1915 BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

SYNOPSIS

Mr. Starr, minister, arrives in Mount Mark to take charge of the Methodist diocese, he is a widower with five children, all girls, namely, Prudence, the eldest, who mothers the rest of the family, who include, Fairy, Connie and Carol and Clark, who are twins. The girls all go to school and are particularly clever.

The twins, though very lovable and obedient children, are very mischievous, and often embarass Prudence and Fairy.

Every one in the parish admires Prudence for her sweet and womanly disposition. Professor Rayburn of the college, is a suitor for her hand, but Prudence refuses him, considering her home and the bringing up of the family, her particular duty.

Owing to Mount Mark being a small parish and the congregation rather slack about money matters, the parsonage family have quite a hard time to make ends meet. Fairy and Prudence make over an old coat of their father's for Connie, who always comes in for the left-overs, being the smallest, this being a particular disappointment, as she was promised a new coat. Connie calls on Mr. Harold, the president of the bank, and asks for the loan of $5.00, explaining the situation to him and promising to pay it back in two years, a nickle at a time. Mr Harold tells her he's proud to have her trade. Conne surprises the family at dinner-time by producing the $5.00.

"No. I was in my bare feet, and I tried to be quiet because if there was any one in the house, I did not want him coming at me in the dark. I ran back up-stairs, and we looked in father's room. I thought father had forgotten to take his watch with him, but it wasn't there.—Do you really think it was Sunday to keep from scaring the twins."

In a few minutes, they heard footsteps around the house and knew the officers had arrived. Mr. Allan let them into the house, four of them, and led them out to the hall. There could be no doubt whatever that the burglar was in the dungeon. He had been busy with his knife, and the lock was nearly removed. If the officers had been two minutes later, the dungeon would have been empty. The girls were sent up-stairs at once, with the Allan boy as guard,—as guard, without regard for the fact that he was probably more frightened than any one of them.

The chief officer rapped briskly on the dungeon door. Then he clicked his revolver.

"There are enough of us to overpower of you," he said curtly. "And we have men outside the house, too. If you make any disturbance, we shall all fire the instant the door is opened. If you put your firmearms on the floor, and hold both over your head, you'll be well treated. If your hands are not up, we fire on sight. Get your revolvers ready, boys."

Then the officer opened the door. Evidently the burglar was wise enough to appreciate the futility of fighting against odds. Perhaps he did not wish to add the charge of manslaughter to that of robbery. Certainly, he did not feel himself called to sudden death. At any rate, his hands were above his head, and in less than a second he was securely manacled.

The chief officer had been eying him closely. "Say!" he exclaimed. "Aren't you Limber-Limb Grant?" The burglar grinned, but did not answer. "By jove!" shouted the officer. "It is! Call the girls down here," he ordered, and when they appeared, gazing at the burglar with mingled admiration, pity and fear, he congratulated them with considerable excitement.

"It's Limber-Limb Grant," he explained. "There's a reward of five hundred dollars for him. You'll get the money, as sure as you're born" Then he turned again to the burglar. "Say Grant, what's a fellow like you doing on such a fifth-rate job as this? A Methodist parsonage is not just in your line, is it?"

Limber-Limb laughed sheepishly "Well," he explained good-naturedly "Chicago got too hot for me. I had to get out in a hurry, and I couldn't get my hands on any money. I had a fine lot of jewels, but I was so pushed I couldn't use them. I came here and loafed around town for a while, because folks said Mount Mark was so fast asleep it did not even wake up long enough to read the daily papers. I heard about this parsonage bunch and knew the old man had gone off to get more religion. This afternoon at the station I saw a detective from Chicago get off the train, and I knew what that meant. But I needed some cash, and so I wasn't above a little job on the side. I never dreamed of getting done up by a bunch of preacher's kids. I went up-stairs to get those family jewels I've heard about, and one of the little ones gave the alarm. I already had some of them, so I came down at once. I stopped in the dungeon to get that money, and first thing I knew the door banged shut. That's all. You're welcome to the five hundred dollars, ladies. Some one was bound to get it sooner or later, and I'm partial to the ladies, every time."

Limber-Limb Grant was a modern thief of the new class. At that moment, in Chicago, he had in storage, a hundred thousand dollars' worth of jewels, which he could not dispose of on the pressure of the moment. The law was crowding him close, and he was obliged to choose between meeting the law, or running away from it. He ran. He reached Mount Mark, and trusted to its drowsiness for concealment for a few weeks. But that afternoon the arrival of a detective gave him warning, and he planned his departure promptly. A parsonage occupied by only five girls held no terrors for him, and with fifty dollars and a few fairly good jewels, a man of his talent could accomplish wonders.

But Mount Mark had aroused from its lethargy. Limber-Limb Grant was in the hands of the law.

(To be continued.)

EASTER IN FLOWERS

IN EVERY CLIME AND IN EVERY LAND, EARTH AND IT'S PEOPLE COME FORTH ON THIS DAY IN FLOWERS

LILIES are Mother Nature's contribution to the spirit of Easter Day. Their beautiful buds and blossoms express the lovely sentiment of the holiday.

Surely you want one in your home Easter Morning.

Words cannot describe what a wonderful lot of Easter Lilies we have here. There are all sizes at a wide range of prices. Never were they in better condition or more lovely blooms.

Send "her" flowers for Easter. They will be very acceptable indeed. Her Easter Sunday won't be complete without them.

Following are a few suggestions:

EASTER PLANTS

Easter Lilies, per bloom	25c
Asparagus Ferns	15c to $1.00
Whitmani Ferns	75c, $1.00, $1.50
Boston Ferns	75c, $1.00, $1.50
Petris for Fern Dishes	15c to 50c
Spirea, white (large)	1.50
Spirea, white (medium)	1.00
Spirea, pink (large)	2.00
Spirea, pink (medium)	1.50
Hyacinths	75c to 1.50
Daffodils	1.00
Primula Obconica	$1.00 and 1.50

(Very large plants)

Many other beautiful plants ranging in price from 50c up.

EASTER CUT FLOWERS

Easter Lilies	Doz. $3.00
Roses, No. 1	" 4.00
Roses, No. 2	" 3.00
Roses, short stem	" 2.00
Carnations, all colors	" 1.50
Daffodils (double and single)	" 1.00
Tulips (red(pink, yellow)	" 1.00
Lily of Valley	" 1.00
Violets	" .35
Asparagus Plumosa Form	" .75
Asparagus Sprengeri	" .50
Smilax	per string .50
Lettuce and Parsley	" .50

Also a large assortment of Beautiful Basket Arrangements.

CAMPBELL FLORAL COMPANY
Store—224 8th Ave. W. Greenhouse—16th St. & 8th Ave. N.W.

Our Store is as near as your telephone. Just phone us and we will Promptly send out a Lily to any address. Phone M1726.

Springtime is seedtime! Have you received "Our Seed Annual?"

Grocery Values

Farmers, Ranchers, etc., within 175 miles, write for our Grocery Catalogue. Enormous stocks and rapid turnover guarantee you greater variety and freshness of supplies.

Free Freight to Your Nearest Station

S. G. FREEZE
P.O. BOX 449 CALGARY

BY USING
"Our Best" Flour
You will reduce the High Cost of Living
McKelvie & Stirrett Co. Ltd
EIGHTH AVE. WEST

Ladies' Spring Suits
No Matter What Style We Have It

Our suits are made to your order and hand tailored to your measure by experts.

We ask you to inspect our offerings in all the Spring shades, greys, tweeds, checks and fancy materials.

We specialize in our dyes—guaranteeing every dyed article.

All our work is guaranteed and you will find our prices are the lowest.

We ask out-of-town customers to send in for samples and prices.

LA MODE
Ladies' Tailoring
H. SILVER, PROP.
1211 First St. W.
Phone M6170

SALE Of Slightly Used PIANOS
AT GREATLY REDUCED PRICES

In order to make room for new stock which will arrive shortly, we are offering a large number of slightly used Pianos at Greatly Reduced Prices. Below you will find a list of a few of them. All of these Pianos are in good condition and are fully guaranteed by us.

Bell Piano — Walnut case; in excellent condition; cost new $500.00. Sale price $325.00

Schumann Piano—Mahogany case; in very good condition; cost new $425.00; Sale Price $290.00

Willard Piano—Oak case; cannot be told from new; cost new $425.00; Sale Price $280.00

Lackner Player Piano—Beautiful mahogany case; cost new $750.00. A bargain at $495.00

Call and see these instruments or write us for further particulars.

ALBERTA PIANO CO.
130 8th Ave. West Calgary
Phone M3596.

TOOTH TALK
ON THE GROUND FLOOR

No stairs, no elevators, beautiful light and ventilation, easy of access, easy to locate, street cars pass the doors

Sixteen years in Calgary is our guarantee of efficiency. Our prices are not duplicated in Calgary We will prove it to you. We pay NO RENT. We buy in large quantities and pay cash. We give our patients the benefits of these discounts.

We guarantee our work and stand behind our guarantee.

OPEN EVENINGS

DR. FRANKLIN EDMONDS
TWELFTH AVENUE AND FIRST STREET WEST
Our Phone is M3686 Opposite Pryce Jones Stores

Smile, Laugh and be Merry and Kill Old King Worry

CHEER UP.

Her Future Husband—I'm afraid our wedding trip will take all the cash I've saved up.

Mrs. Reno-Freed (cheeringly)—Never mind, dear. A wedding trip only happens once in three or four years.

COMPLIMENTS.

Great Baseball Player—"My brother is a judge, sir."

Irate Fan—"Your best work is done on the bench, too."

A GENEROUS MAN.

"There are two hammocks here," she said as she sat down in one of them.

"Well, there's no use of our being selfish," he replied as he sat down in the same hammock. "Let some one else have the other."

GIVING SIS AWAY.

Mr. Phatt—Now that I'm to be your new brother-in-law, won't you give me a kiss?

Luis—If I had kissed all de fellers what sis has promised to marry, it would be goin' some.

FAIRY TALES FOR THE LITTLE ONES

Diamonds and Toad

THERE was once upon a time a widow who had two daughters. The older was so extremely like her, both in temper and person, that whosoever saw the one saw the other also; they were both so very proud and disagreeable that nobody could live with them. The younger, who was the exact picture of her father in good nature and sweetness of manner, was also the most beautiful creature ever seen. As it is natural to love those who resemble us, the mother doted upon the older, and no less hated the younger. She made her eat in the kitchen, and work all day with the servants.

Among other things the poor child was obliged to draw water at a fountain more than a mile and a half from the house, and bring home a large pitcher filled with it, as best she could. One day when she was at he fountain a poor woman came up to her and asked her to let her drink.

"That I will," she said, "and most readily."

Washing out the pitcher, she filled it with water from the clearest part of the fountain and held it to the old woman's mouth so that she might drink the more easily. The old woman, having had all she could drink, said to the girl:

"Since you are so pretty, so kind and so obliging, my dear, I will bestow on you a gift" (for it was a fairy in disguise who had asked her to drink, just to see how far the little girl's good nature would go). "I give you," she continued, "this gift, that whenever you speak there shall come out of your mouth either a rose or a diamond."

When the sweet girl got home her mother began to scold her for staying so long at the fountain.

"I ask your pardon, mother," she said, "for not being at home sooner;" and as she pronounced these words there fell from her lips two roses, two pearls and two large diamonds.

"What do I see?" exclaimed the mother, much surprised. "As sure as anything she drops pearls and diamonds from her mouth in speaking. My child, how happens this?"

This was the first time the sweet girl had been called "my child" in all her life. The poor girl told her mother all that had befallen her at the fountain, dropping pearls and diamonds from her mouth all the time that she was speaking.

"Upon my word," said the mother, "this is very lucky. I will send my darling thither immediately. Fanny! Fanny look! Do you see what falls from your sister's mouth when she speaks? Should not you like to have the same gift bestowed on you? Well, you have only to go to the fountain, and when a poor woman asks you to drink, to grant her request in the most civil manner."

"That is fine," said the hateful sister with scorn. "To think of my going to draw water from the fountain. Not I, indeed!"

"But I insist upon your going," said her mother, "and this very instant, too."

So the pert girl set out for the fountain, taking with her the best silver pitcher in the house. She grumbled and complained all the way.

She had no sooner reached the fountain than a lady most magnificently dressed came out of a wood nearby and asked her for a drink. This was the very fairy who had bestowed the gift on the younger sister. The fairy had now taken the dress and manners of a princess to see how far the haughty and insolent disposition of the elder sister would go.

"Am I come here," said the ill-bred girl, "to draw water for you? Oh, yes, the best silver tankard in the house was brought on purpose for your ladyship, I suppose. However, you may drink out of it if you have a fancy."

"You are very obliging," said the fairy, without showing any anger, "but since you have behaved with so little civility, I give you for a gift that at every word you speak there shall come out of your mouth either a toad or a viper."

As soon as her mother saw her coming home she ran to meet her, and said:

"Well, daughter?"

"Well, mother," answered the girl, and as she spoke out of her mouth dropped two toads and two vipers.

"Oh," cried her mother, "what do I see? It is your sister who is the cause of all this. But she shall pay for it."

STUCK.

Mother House Fly—Have you seen Big Buzz, your father?

Child House Fly—Yes, ma, but he wouldn't speak to me—he was busy with a paper.

Consequently she began to look for the younger daughter to beat her.

The poor child ran away as fast as she could and reached a neighboring forest. The king's son, who had been hunting, met her. Seeing how beautiful she was he asked what she was doing all alone in the forest and why she was crying so bitterly.

"Alas!" she said, "my mother has turned me out of doors."

The king's son seeing pearls and diamonds fall from her mouth at every word, desired her to tell the reason of such a wonder. And so the pretty girl told him all that had happened to her at the fountain.

Her beauty and charm so pleased the young man that he fell in love with her and realizing that the gift she possessed was worth more than any marriage portion another girl would have, he took her to his father, the king. The prince and the younger sister were married immediately.

As to the other sister, she behaved more rudely every day. For a long time she and her mother wandered about the world. No one would have anything to do with them and they were despised and shunned by all.

PLODDING

Somebody's got to be steady
And stick at a regular job,
Somebody's got to be ready
To toil with the laboring mob.

Somebody's got to be trudging
The path from the house to the mill,
Somebody's got to be drudging
At work that has never a thrill.

Every one cannot be left to roam
Careless and blithe and free,
Somebody's got to stay at home,
Somebody else—not me!

—Berton Braley.

The Eavesdroppers

(Continued from Page Eleven)

"No. Those letters—that is what you mean—are in my possession now. You didn't know that? All the eavesdropping, if you choose to call it that, was not done here, either, by a long shot, Worthington. I had one of these machines in my wife's reception room. I have all sorts of little scraps of conversation," he boasted. "I also have an account of a visit there from two—er—scoundrels——"

"Mrs. Brainard to see you, sir," announced a boy at the door.

Constance had risen. Her face was flushed and her breast rose and fell with excitement.

"Mr. Brainard," she interrupted. "I must explain—confess. Mrs. Brainard has been sitting in my office listening to us over the microphone. I arranged it. I asked her to come down, using another name as a pretext. But I didn't think she would interrupt so soon. Before you see her—let me read this. It was a conversation I got after you had left last night and so far I have had no chance to tell you of it. Some one," she laid particular stress on the word, "came back after that first interview. Listen."

"No, Lee," Constance read rapidly from her notes, "no. Don't think I am ungrateful. You have been one friend in a thousand through all this. I shall have my decree—soon, now. Don't spoil it——"

"But Sybil, think of him. What did he ever care for you? He has made you free already."

"He is still my husband."

"Take this latest escapade with this Miss Dunlap."

"Well, what do I really know about that?"

"You saw him."

"Yes, but maybe it was as he said."

The door was flung open, interrupting Constance's reading, and Sybil Brainard entered. The artificiality of the beauty parlor was all gone. She was a woman, who had been wronged and deceived.

"Next friend—a true next friend—fiend would be better, Lee Worthington," she scorned. "How can you stand there and look me in the face, how could you tell me of your love for me, when all the time you can no more for me or for any other woman than for that—that Leblanc? You knew that I, who was as jealous as I could be of Rodman, had heard a little—you added more. Yet when you had played on my feelings, you would have cast me off, too—I know it; I know your kind."

She paused for breath, then turned slowly to Brainard with a note of pathos in her voice.

"Our temperaments may have been different, Rodman. They were not when we were poor. Perhaps I have not developed with you, the way you want of me. But, Rodman, did you ever top to think that perhaps, perhaps if I had ever had the chance to be taken into your confidence more often——"

"Will you—forgive me?" Brainard managed to blurt out.

"Will you forgive me?" she returned frankly.

"I—forgive? I have nothing to forgive."

"I could have understood, Rodman, if it had been Miss Dunlap. She is clever, wonderful. But that Leblanc—never!"

Sybil Brainard turned to Constance.

"Miss Dunlap—Mrs. Dunlap," she sobbed, "forgive me. You—you are a better woman than I am."

HIS GUESS.

"Who was it wrote 'Distance lends enchantment to view?' "

"I don't know, but I'll bet he never sat on the gable end of a barn and watched a ball game that was goin' on two blocks away."

A FOOZLE FOR FAIR.

Reggy—I play golf just to kill time you know.

Peggy—Well, your style of play would kill most anything.

SO BROILED.

Reggy—Don't lean over so much. What do you suppose would do if this boat turned turtle?

Clara—Oh, I s'pose you'd turn lobster and join the turtle in saying it was to blame.

HIDDEN PUZZLE

OUT FOR A SPIN.

Find a driver.

REBUS.

An article of equine babilliment.

HIDDEN PUZZLE

ENID BENNETT.

Find a movie director.

REBUS.

A fruit with an indehiscent shell.

HIDDEN PUZZLE

TO SCHOOL AGAIN.

Find a teacher.

REBUS.

A word meaning to avoid

NOT SO BAD.

Nervous Lady—Don't your experiences frighten you terribly, professor? I hear that your assistant met with a horrible death by falling 4,000 feet from a balloon.

Professor—Oh, that report was greatly exaggerated.

Nervous Lady—Exaggerated! How?

Professor—It wasn't much more than 2,500 feet that he fell.

Worry

GUESS.
nds enchantment to view?'" never sat on the gable end of a hous goin' on two blocks away."

FOR FAIR. time you know.
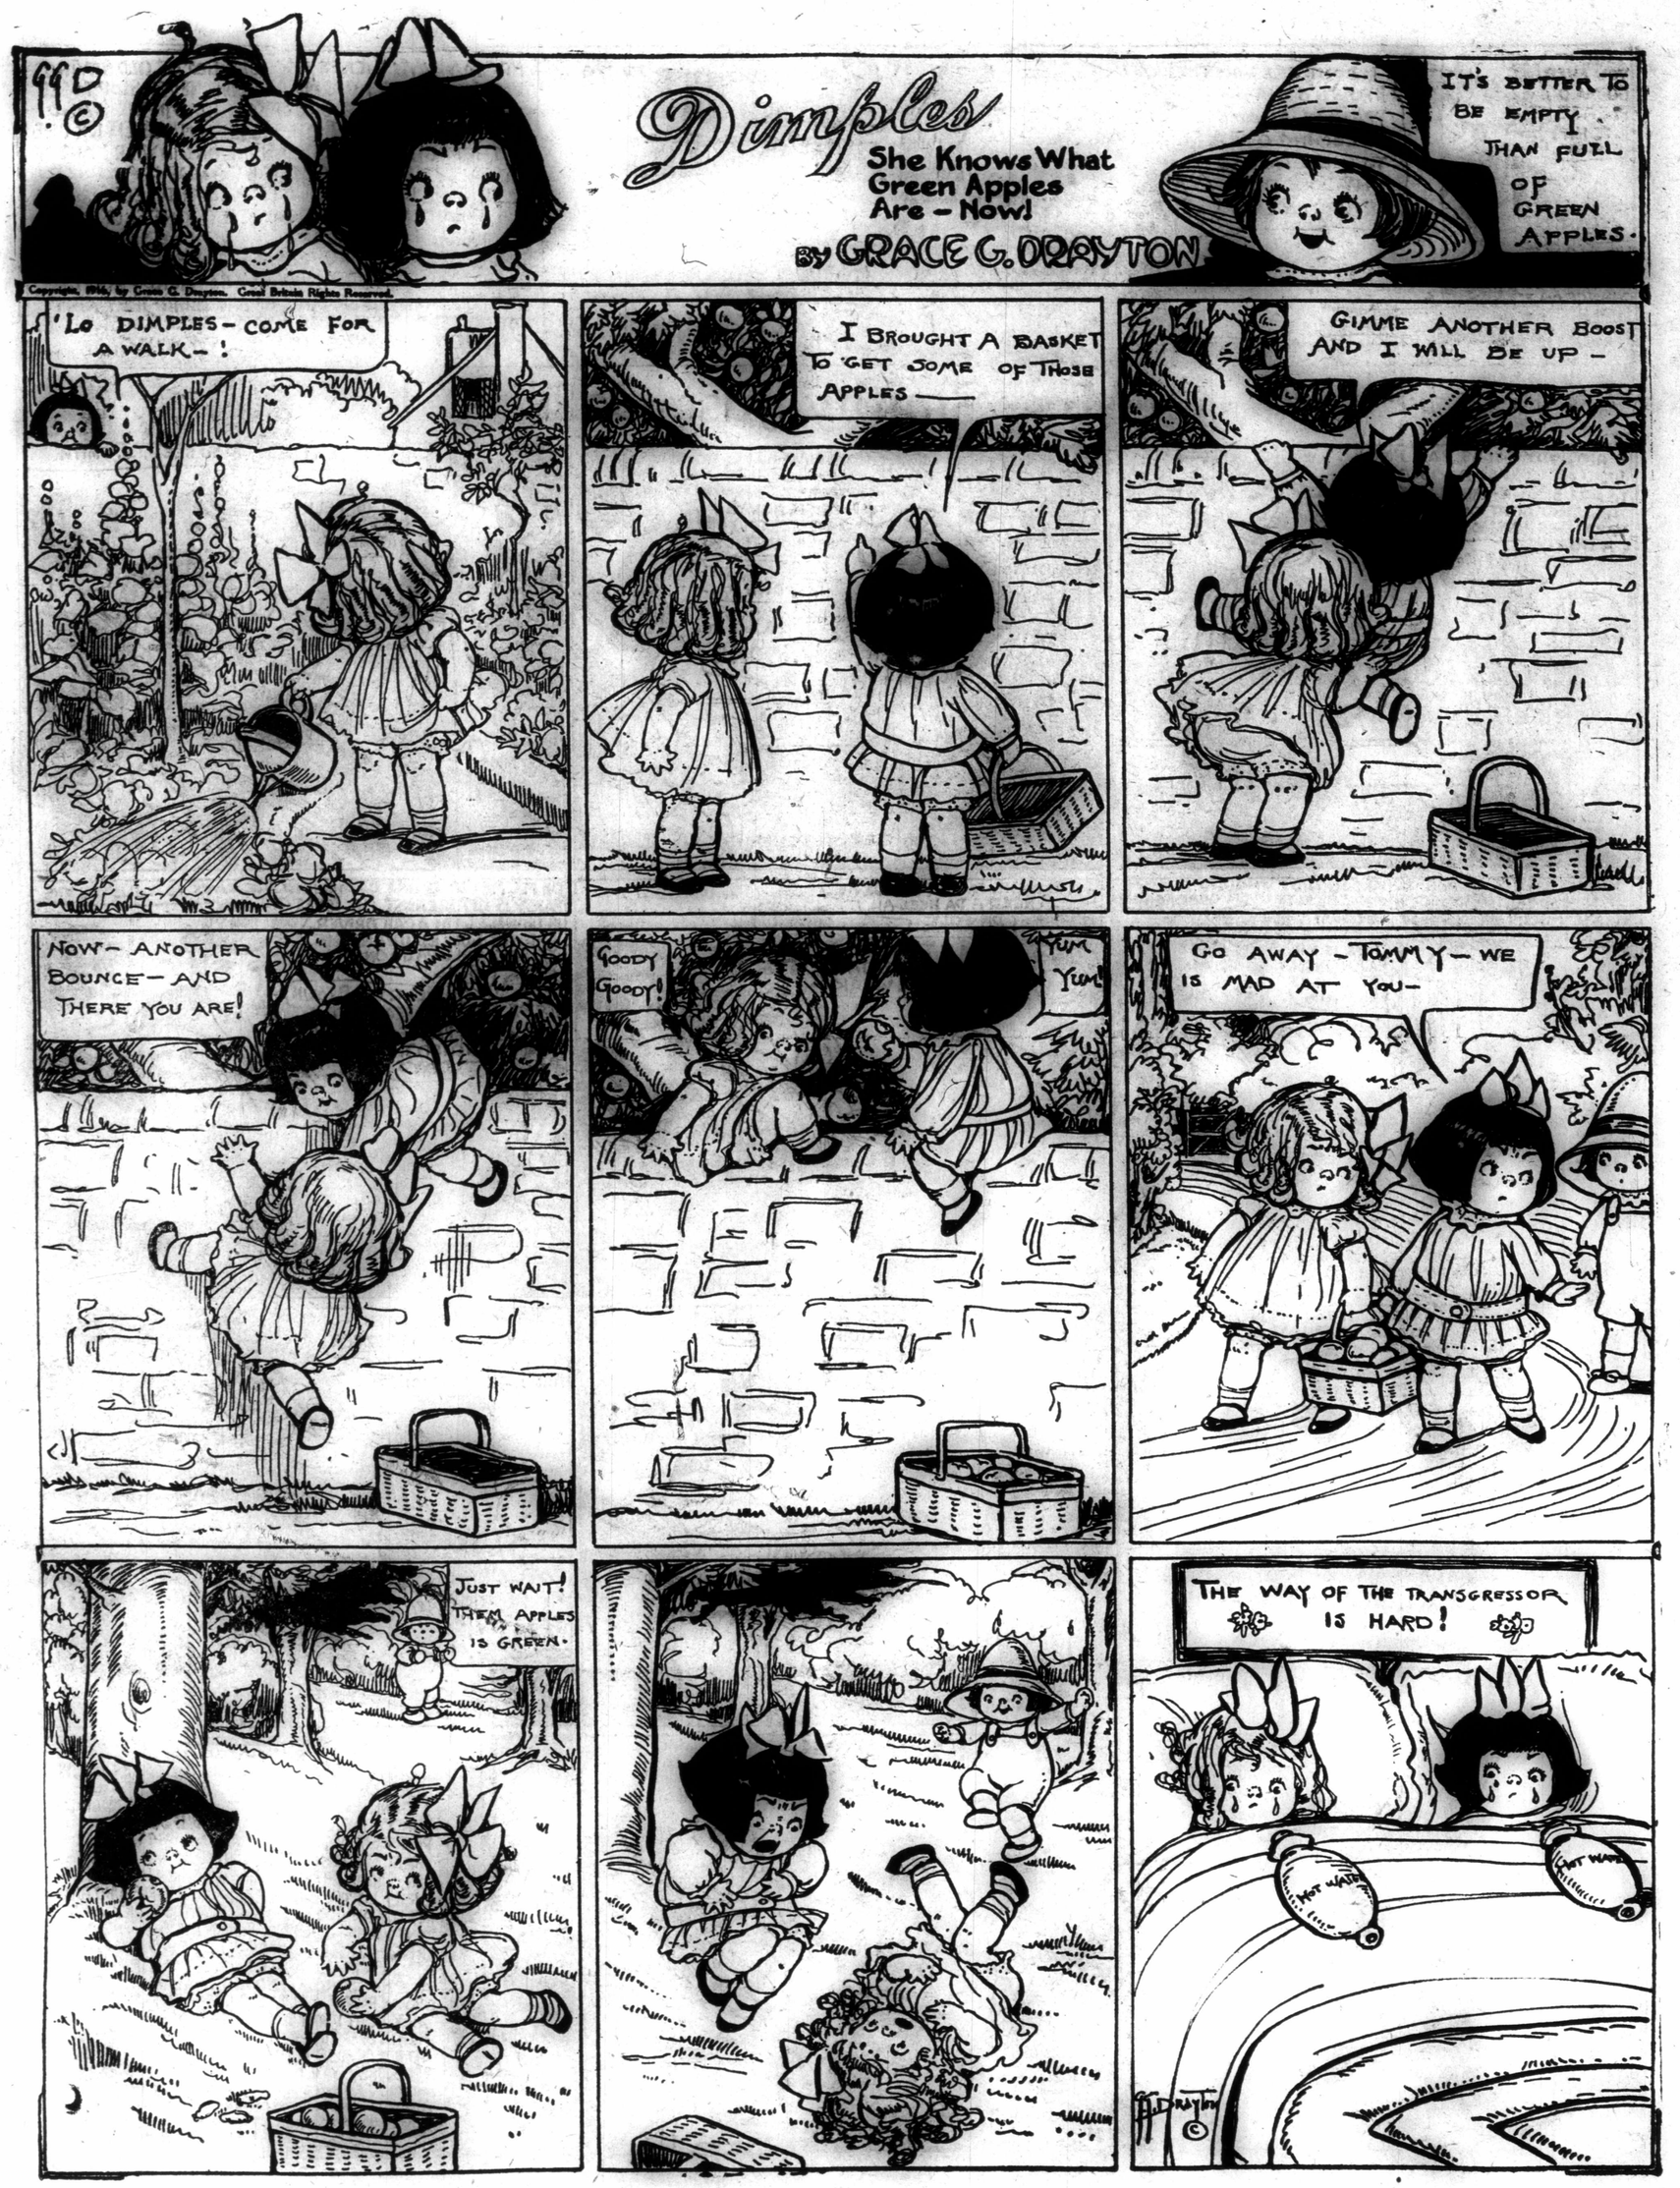
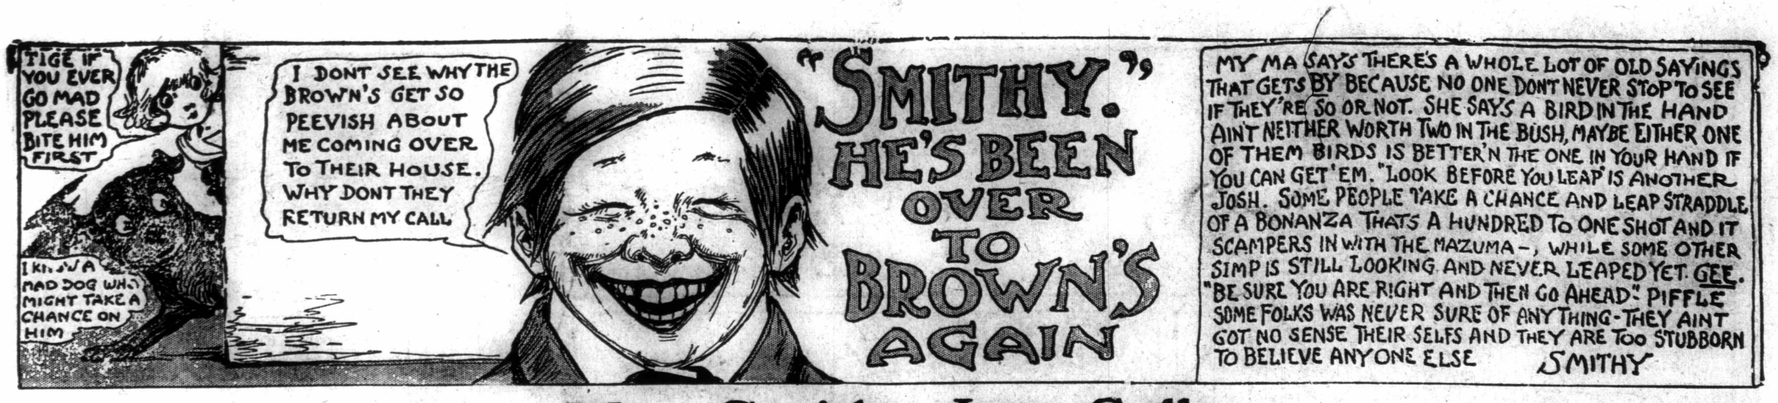
would kill most anything.





OILED.
ch. What do you suppose would do if lobster and join the turtle in singing t

SO BAD.
periences frighten you terribly, profes met with a horrible death by falling s greatly exaggerated.

How?
ore than 500 feet that he fell.

Mrs. Smithy Just Calls

...right, 1916, by Newspaper Feature Service, Great Britain Rights Reserved.

MAY

PROMISES MAKE DEBTS AND DEBTS MAKE MANY PROMISES

If you don't receive your Standard promptly we want you to kick, and kick hard. Every reader in Calgary, and most of Western Canada, including Alberta and Saskatchewan, should get their Standard on Saturday in time for Sunday reading. If you don't get it, it is either the fault of the delivery boy or the mails. In either event we can not correct the complaint without learning of the non-delivery, so kick like a bay steer every time you fail to get the great Sunday Newspaper, The Calgary (Western) Standard.

CALGARY
Western Standard
ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY

INDEPENDENT OPTIMISTIC

SPECIAL NOTICE

Any reader having a copy of the issue of March 25, will confer a favor upon us by sending or delivering it to the office, incidentally we will pay 25 cents for the issue. Manager, 109 Sixth Avenue West.

Vol. VII. No. 9 TWO SECTIONS—12 Pages CALGARY, ALBERTA, MAY 6, 1917 TWO SECTIONS—12 Pages Five Cents the Copy

COMMENT AND CRITICISM

SOLICITING OF PATRIOTIC FUNDS

The solicitation of public funds presumably for patriotic purposes is to be made a matter of government inspection and supervision from now on. A dispatch from Ottawa the past week says that a special committee that has the welfare of the soldiers in hand will have general supervision of the matter. Sir Herbert Ames, chairman of the committee, is of the opinion that while some of the bodies that have solicited in the past have done excellent work, that many of them can be conveniently done away with without detriment to the purposs. This has been a subject of much comment in the Standard in the past and the fact that the government is now going to have general supervision over the various campaigns will be a relief to many contributors and others in Calgary and the west.

* * * *

GERMANS HELP OUR ENLISTMENT

One of the war correspondents sends over a piece of news this week that should help enlistment in Canada—at least in the arid zones. Men have been stirred to deeds of valor and a desire to avenge some of the numerous outrages which have been told of by the alert correspondent. But the news that in one of the trenches which was captured by the Australians there was found a great store of beer and cigars should have the effect of assisting recruiting in Alberta. There are some people who would willingly go on capturing trenches all the way to Berlin if there was that reward. At the same time it shows that the Germans must be very badly demoralized when such loot is left behind, but it does seem mighty strange that there were not some of those wet canteen Canucks around about that time.

* * * *

ORPHEUM SHOWS HAVE UPLIFT TENDENCY

A few days ag o the Orpheum closed after one of the most successful seasons known in its history. The character of the shows given were of the best. Nothing that money could buy either in talent or in appointment were spared to make the features a success. From an intellectual standpoint the managers are to be commended for their efforts. They have certainly raised the standard of vaudeville and made what was at one time purely an amusement feature, shows that go far beyond this now and are helpmates in learning to the young as well as the old. The knowledge that some of the vaudeville production disseminate is equal to ma ny hours spent in a school room. In many instances the reproduction of scenes and incidents of early history as well as the repartee of the performers have help to stimulate the minds of the patrons both old and young. On a whole the Orpheum shows have an uplifting tendency and their return in the fall will be looked for with much pleasure by many patrons of the house.

* * * *

A WORD ABOUT MANAGER JACK SPURR

With the closing of the Orpheum Mr. Jack Spurr, the genial and obliging manager of the company, takes his departure. With him goes the best wishes of the patrons of the house. His courteous treatment and obliging attention to the welfare of the theatregoers has been most marked. He has shown a disposition to please the public, and in this respect he has been more untiring in his efforts during his engagement here. Calgary has been fortunate in the character of the theatrical managers who cater to the public taste. The men stationed in this city are par-excellent in manner and deportment, but even in this galaxy of celebrities Jack Spurr stands out prominently as an ideal theatrical manager. With him goes the Standard's good wishes for a pleasant vacation, well earned, and a hope that he may return to us next year to enjoy the fruits of the good seed he has sown in Calgary.

* * * *

ARBOR DAY— WHY ONLY ONE?

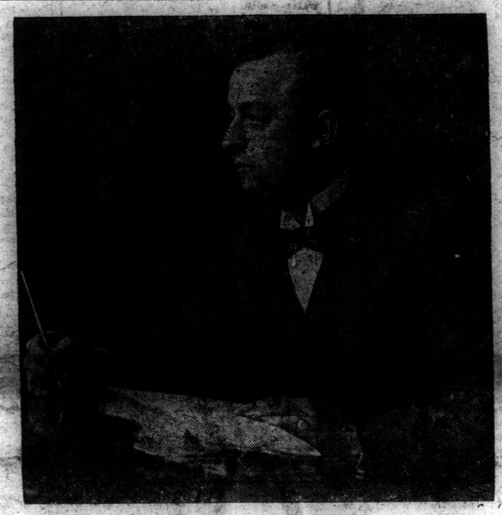
Some years ago a local cynic said Arbor Day was the day in spring when a lot of people went out and dug up trees which were growing nicely and stuck them in some other place where they died. However, this has been very largely changed nowadays, and there is a lot of very effective work done in city beautification, and no doubt the benefits of next Friday's activities will be reaped in the years to come. In previous years there have been concerted drives made against certain inoffensive trees which seem hardly fair. For instance when a lot or great big men grab a poor little tree away from its kindred and plant it out in the corner of a park and then never give another thought to their foster child it is little short of criminal negligence. "Their's is no sapling chance sown by the fountain, blooming at Beltane, in winter to fade," for it was not sown by the fountain and it is not the kind of a tree that fades in winter, that is, unless it dies. Yet the inspiration that is afforded by witnessing representatives of great corporate bodies—in fact some with very fair corporations themselves—seizing the trenching tool and proceeding to do their bit in planting a tree may inspire others to equal activities. And while the authorities are at it why limit the arboring to one day? Why not have two or three arbor days? No ordinary office man can plant half a dozen trees properly in an afternoon, without having a back next day that creaks like a rusty hinge.

* * * *

Reports say that Filippinos are eating grasshoppers, but even grasshoppers can't hop as high as sirloin steaks these days.

SOMEHOW OR OTHER

By WILLARD WATTLES



Somehow or other, I believe
We're paid about what we should receive,
For what Life sets on the credit side
To the debtor Death is not denied,
And someone sets the balance right
With seven stars for his candlelight. * * *
I'll not much care for anything
When it comes to that final reckoning.

Somehow or other, I believe
There is utter rest for hearts that grieve,
And Peace with a cool, green coverlet
Will tuck us in, when the time is set,
On a little hill, and we shall not miss
The toys of day for her goodnight kiss,
And Love will come like a weary thing
Home at last from his wandering.

Somehow or other, I believe
There's a plan beneath that we don't perceive,
For a thought that's low or a life that's foul
Set their sign in belly or jowl,
And little faith or a withered soul
Will weazen a face like a shriveled scroll. * * *
Travel the path that the doubters trod,
But find at the end of the journey—God.

Somehow or other, I believe
He is strong like a brother to relieve;
And when I'm gone like a puff of wind,
The good I've done, and the evil sinned,
The hopes I've lost, and the soul I've made,
The loves I've known, and the prayers I've prayed,
Will seem like a strangely futile thing
In the light of his face at the balancing.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

MR. HERBERT E. BURBIDGE

The celebration of the Hudson's Bay Company's 247th anniversary brings into the limelight the men who are responsible for the progress of this mighty concern. Chief among those in the West is Mr. Herbert E. Burbidge, Stores Commissioner and general overseer of the great establishments. Mr. Burbidge is very retiring in disposition and naturally comes but little before the public. Nevertheless his remarkable ability and personality is seen in the calibre of the men who manage this wonderful establishment, and the character of the goods they have on display. From the smallest to the largest, everything in the concern breathes of energy, ambition and progress. It is the precepts that has been the foundation of the company's success and the same proclivities predominate in the makeup of the management and employees of the concern. Mr. Burbidge is a striking example of the younger generation of Canadian Captains of Industry. Quiet, unassuming, courteous, and yet back of this all a bulwark of energy and business ability.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

WHAT CHINA WILL GAIN FROM THE WAR

China comes into the war for the same reason that the United States was compelled to enter—because the lives of the Chinese have been sacrificed to the unrestricted submarine warfare of Germany. Back of this China has a long list of grievances which helped her to the decision she has arrived at.

China has had its experience of German kultur in the Boxer rebellion and the seizure of Kiaochow. I remembers the kaiser's instructions to the German troops to make the German name feared in China. I remember that Germany demanded 20 per cent. of the total amount of the indemnity laid upon the country by the allied governments and that more than 100 million dollars is still due Germany on account. Although the United States handed back its share of that indemnity—or rather stipulated that it should be devoted to educational purposes—there are large amounts yet due other countries in the Entente Alliance and China may reasonably expect that her aid in the war will cancel the bill.

The nature of the Chinese participation in the war probably will be similar to that of Japan. Chinese armies may not be expected in Europe, but Chinese industrial workers, already there in considerable numbers, probably will be greatly increased and by releasing European industrial workers for the trenches will in effect actually strengthen the fighting line. Chinese iron and coal will supply the Entente demand, and probably China will not neglect to ask after the war that these great deposits which have been largely taken from under her control by the "concession" and "ultimatum" routes be returned. Altogether China appears to have made an exceedingly good move in joining in with the Entente and should emerge after the peace with a better developed nationality at home and a better defined position among her neighbors.

* * *

THE COMING FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY

All Canada should vie wth each other to fittingly celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the confederation of the Dominion.

Probably never again until the population of Canada is numbered by many tens of millions will there be so many Canadians absent from their own country, and within close reach of the metropolis of the Motherland of the British peoples overseas as in the present year of grace. How incredible it would have seemed to the Fathers of Confederation, assembled at Westminster in 1866—67 that in fifty years' time nearly half a million Canadians would be directly or indirectly represented in the battlefields of Europe, and that a prime minister of Canada and three members of his cabinet would be sitting on an equality with members of the British cabinet in framing the measures for the defence and future policy of the entire empire.

What form the celebration will take both in England and Canada is a matter of conjecture at present, but there is little doubt that the Canadian clubs will see to it that this great historic event will be celebrated in a manner that befits the occasion.

HERE AND EVERYWHERE

"MILLIONAIRE KID" TAKES UP RANCHING

It will be a pleasing report to many friends of J. Blandy Jenkins, better known as the "millionaire kid," to learn that he has now sown his wild oats and settled down to a life of a country gentleman in keeping with his wealth and position. He has purchased a ranch in the Black Diamond district and his activities in this connection has earned him the commendation of the farmers and breeders who welcome such an evident friend to the country, as his lavish expenditures in this respect has proved. Mr. Jenkins is going to raise the standard of livestock in Alberta. With this end in view he has purchased a number of thoroughbreds, including several Percherons and Clydes, which are now en route to his country place. On a whole, it will be a source of gratification to learn that Mr. Jenkins has decided to put his wealth and time to such a good purpose, and the fact that he has selected Alberta as the seat of his future activities and home is doubly pleasing to the country generally.

* * * *

THEY HAVE ONLY ULTERIOR MOTIVES

As we review past elections and subsequent events the thought exerts itself how few of the men who were hollering so loud for their country really meant it. That in nine cases out of ten every mother's son of them didn't give a tinkers' darn about the future welfare of the city, they needed a good job, and the future outlook of the political plum looked good to them becaue it meant a real salary once a month, a thing they were not sure of under ordinary circumstances. Naturally some of the candidates will resent this thought, and rightly too, for one in every ten was honest in his own mind that he was working for the good of the city and country. But the other nine, well, they wanted a job, and if you don't think we know whereof we speak we can be a little more explicit and give substantial reasons for this rambling thought. And some of them are smacking their lips and smiling softly as the report becomes more frequent that we are going to have another election. They see a chance for a steady job. Perhaps!

* * * *

YOUNG MARAUDERS MAKE MIDNIGHT HOWL

It behoves the police department to get after the automobile marauder—the enthusiastic crank who makes midnight howl by his senseless escapades which he indulges in. Har dly a night passes, particularly in the down-town districts when a slumberer is not awakened by the wild noises eminating from some machine which some dissipating young autoist is responsible for. Usually this occurs between the hours of one to three, caused principally from the fact that the young maurader has forgotten his machine and left it uncovered too long. It grows too cold, and when he attempts to start it a million unearthly sounds accompany the undertaking waking up the inhabitants for blocks around. This does not occur once a night but usually several times, much to the chagrin and displeasure of the sleepers in the neighborhood. This may be very amusing to the young men who are usually in a state of mind at this hour of the morning that nothing can "quench," still the fact that it is imposing a hardship upon the better class of citizens who are trying to slumber peacefully in their homes that the habit should be squelched by the police department arresting a few of the law-breakers. Just as soon as a fine or two is imposed upon this ceaseless noise-rendering, law breaking bunch, just so soon will the habit cease and not before.

* * * *

"A NATION OF LIARS" OR BECOMING SO

It was admitted a number of years ago by a gentleman who said that all men were liars that he spoke hastily. Evidently speaking more deliberation last Sunday afternoon at the Forum, James W. Hutchinson said "We are becoming a nation of liars." So it would seem that the old world is not going to the bad as rapidly as some people would have us imagine. Back in the dim ages of the past there were some who told the truth, and a very careful student of things in general is even yet not able to report that the art of prevarication has been universally achieved. This is really very creditable when it is remembered that there are so many more things to lie about now than there were a few thousand years ago. For one thing there were not any telephones—and if there is one thing more than another that will eventually lead mankind and womankind up to a perfect score in the prevaricators' league, it is the telephone. It is so easy to fib over the telephone that it places a premium on untruths, because one is able to get them over without getting caught—and that fear is what makes a lot of people truthful at times.

* * * *

SAVING MONEY ON THE MAYOR

When it comes to getting down to the financial bottom of things Alderman Arnold is in a class all by himself. He bubbles over with economies—and sometimes even doesn't know that he is doing it. At Monday nights meeting of council he put forth a suggestion that proved without a doubt that the fact that Mayor Costello had held office for three years had saved the city at least $800. What is more, every year that he holds office the city saves that much. Alderman Arnold is quoted as saying: "If we can spend $400 a year to get a picture of the mayor—an oil painting—I think we can afford to spend $65 for a photograph of the council." See where the saving comes in?

Alive :: Alert Up to the Minute

NEWS AND VIEWS ON SPORTS

Local .: Pro... World in Ge...al

Tribute to Lajoie

Ban Johnson Officiates at Dinner Given in Honor of Noted Ball Player.

Ban Johnson, president of the American league, gave a little dinner in New York recently. On his right, as a guest of honor, sat Napoleon Lajoie. For 15 years the great batsman has been thumping American league pitchers, and now, at the age of 41, he is passing out. But he is not through as a player by any means. This season he is managing and playing second base for the Toronto team.

It is not often that a player or manager is called to dine with a league executive. Ban meets most of his athletes "on the carpet," for he is a strict disciplinarian. But this was a special occasion. Lajoie "grew up" with the American league. He was one of the players who cast his fortunes with Johnson back in 1902, and since then he has compiled a remarkable record.

Ban to Attend "Lajoie Day"

Jim McCaffrey, Lajoie's new employer, was talking.

"Mr. Johnson," he said, "the Toronto club is going to celebrate a 'Lajoie day' at Toronto some time along in June. It would please me beyond words if you could be there as my guest and tell our people just what you think of Larry."

Johnson looked thoughtfully at the embarrassed and uncomfortable Lajoie a full minute before he replied. Before Ban's gaze the swarthy giant dropped his eyes. Big Larry, callous to excitement on the baseball field, looked as if he wanted to dive under the table.

Johnson arose.

"Mr. McCaffrey," he began, "you ask me if I'll be there. I should say I will. In the picturesque language of our friend, Captain Huston here, you go bet your shirt I'll be there."

Big Ban fairly beamed on Lajoie, who was mentally calculating the distance to the door.

Credit to Baseball

"I want to say to you all here and now," Johnson went on, "that Mr. Lajoie always was a credit to baseball. More than that, he was a wonderful asset to the American league. I am proud to meet him at any time, willing to admit that he is an American league institution, and happy to bestow any public compliment on him. You can count on me being in Toronto on 'Lajoie day,' and I hope to be accompanied by a representative of the National league, for Lajoie doesn't belong to any one league. He belongs to all.

"I've wanted to tell Mr. Lajoie this for a long time, but when a man is so close to you and still in harness such an appreciation can hardly be put into words. Now that Larry is standing apart from us we can tell him what we think of him. No player ever gave me less trouble. I don't remember that I ever had to impose strict disciplinary measures on Lajoie. At least not in late years. I tell you we hate to part with him."

Ban sat down and Lajoie, without getting to his feet, replied:

"Yes, you had to hand it to me a couple of times, Mr. Johnson," he said, "but I'm not saying that I didn't get what I deserved. We lose control of ourselves in the heat of the game sometimes. I have known for a long time that the American league was run right. I'm sorry to leave, but I can't expect to stick around forever. If you come to our little celebration in Toronto I'll consider it the greatest compliment I ever was paid as a baseball player."

And still they say there's no sentiment in baseball.

FOWLER'S CIDERS
THEY'RE MIGHTY GOOD
13 DIFFERENT KINDS
BUY THEM BY THE GALLON FROM YOUR DEALER

BROCK & MILLAR
LADIES' AND GENTS' TAILORS
Breeches Makers
711A First St. East, Cameron Blk.
Phone M1267 CALGARY

NATIONAL BASEBALL

AMERICAN LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Boston	10	4	.714
Chicago	10	7	.588
New York	8	7	.533
St. Louis	8	7	.533
Cleveland	8	10	.444
Detroit	6	8	.429
Philadelphia	6	9	.400
Washington	6	10	.375

NATIONAL LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
New York	8	5	.615
St. Louis	11	7	.611
Chicago	11	8	.579
Cincinnati	10	11	.476
Boston	9	10	.474
Philadelphia	7	8	.467
Brooklyn	4	7	.364
Pittsburg	7	13	.350

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

	W.	L.	Pct.
Indianapolis	10	4	.714
Kansas City	7	5	.583
Milwaukee	6	5	.545
Louisville	7	7	.500
Minneapolis	5	5	.500
Columbus	6	7	.462
Toledo	5	8	.385
St. Paul	3	8	.273

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Baltimore	13	3	.813
Newark	8	4	.667
Rochester	7	7	.500
Providence	6	6	.500
Toronto	7	8	.466
Richmond	7	9	.438
Montreal	4	8	.385
Buffalo	3	11	.214

NORTHWESTERN LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Great Falls	5	1	.833
Tacoma	7	2	.778
Spokane	5	5	.500
Seattle	3	4	.429
Butte	3	5	.375
Vancouver	2	7	.222

COAST LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
San Francisco	16	12	.571
Salt Lake	14	11	.560
Vernon	16	14	.533
Oakland	15	16	.484
Los Angeles	12	14	.462
Portland	11	17	.393

Practical Hints on Spring Auto Repair

"If your automobile has been in storage during the winter give it a thorough overhauling at this time of the year before starting it on the road," according to a pioneer in the industry.

"Here is a list of the things which need to be done to prepare your car for the good driving," he said.

1. Fill the radiator with water. See that the gasoline tank contains a sufficient quantity of gasoline and that there is plenty of oil in the crank case.
2. Take your storage batteries down and have them tested.
3. Assuming that the tires were taken off when the car was stored and put in a warm place, they should be looked over for weak spots and properly inflated.
4. Scrape the rims and paint them with shellac and flake graphite.
5. Start your motor and drain out the old oil. Put kerosene in the crank case and run the motor so as to pump it thoroughly through the oiling system. Then draw it out and fill it up with fresh oil.
6. Remove the carbon from the engine.
7. Grind the valves.
8. Adjust the valves, brakes and bearings.
9. Oil the gear, shifting mechanism, clutch and brake mechanism and all clevis pins.
10. Clean out and fill all grease cups with good grade of medium weight grease.
11. For the next week put three tablespoons of kerosene in each cylinder to cut the carbon. Let it stand over night.
12. Clean differential and oil universals and gearsets.
13. Look it all over again.

"In a word, go over every part of the mechanism, cleaning, oiling and tightening loose parts. Don't take anything for granted. Above all things do not meddle with the carburetor. When it leaves the factory it is properly adjusted. Ninety per cent. of all motor car trouble is with the ignition."

GRAY-DORT AUTOMOBILES

For beauty, easy riding qualities, strength and economy these cars cannot be excelled
"The Quality Goes Clear Through"
PRICE $995.00 at Calgary
SHOWROOMS: 235 8th Avenue West
Phone M5337

WEBBER'S GARAGE
FORD SPECIALISTS
: Everything for the :
:: Motorist ::
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT
129 5th Ave. W. Phone M2033

Fisk Tire Co. Opens Branch in Calgary

The Fisk Tire Co. have opened an agency on the corner of Seventh avenue and Third street west, with an up-to-date vulcanizing plant in connection, including the free service station, for which the Fisk is famous all over the continent, having over 500 stations in the United States alone.

This will be a decided advantage to motorists, there being absolutely no charge for dismounting, reassembling, testing and inflating tires, no matter what make of tires used.

The Fisk tire is one of the best known tires in the United States, being manufactured at the rate of 11,000 per day in a factory covering 29 acres, located at Chicopee Falls, Mass., and it is stated that the company is fitting up a large factory in Canada.

Although the Fisk tire is a new tire in Calgary, yet it is not altogether unknown, being used on some of the heaviest fire cars for some time.

The vulcanizing department is in charge of Mr. Cox, who has had several years' factory experience and is certainly an artist in his line.

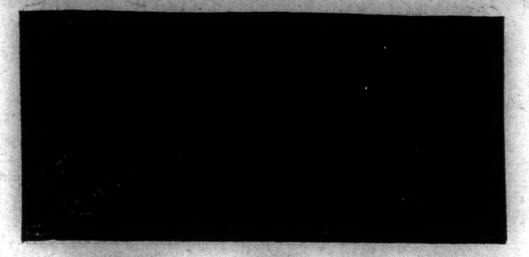
In conversation with the writer, Mr. Cox paid a compliment to the Calgary Gas Co. and to the Union Iron Works, explaining that he had had charge of several different plants of the same size as the Calgary branch, and that never before had he been able to keep steam up for less than $1.50 per day, whilst the cost of keeping up steam on this plant was less than 2c per hour. The boiler used was manufactured by the Union Iron Works and is fired with gas.

After seeing a sample of the work turned out by Mr. Cox and being shown the quality of the Fisk tire we have no hesitation in predicting a brilliant future for the Calgary branch.

The New Metz Car a Marvel in Power, a Wonder in Looks

If all the good things are right that is said about the wonderful Metz automobile then it is certainly a wonder. Among the strong features mentioned for the car is the fact that it is a marvel of power. It has the Metz fibre grip gearless transmission which is the only flexible drive. Aside from this it has many other features that will endear it to all drivers of good cars. The equipment of the Metz cars include Gray & Davis electric starter and electric lights, instant one-man top, built-in plate glass rain vision wind shield, 25 horse-power, water-cooled motor, high tension magneto, 32-inch artillery wheels, 3½-inch Goodrich clincher tires, automatic signal horn, speedometer, gasoline gauge, tools, etc.

Speaking of one of the good qualities of the Metz car a few days ago a representative said:



"It is pretty smooth." Yes, it is smooth; in fact, it shines, it is polished. The surfaces look as if they would slide over each other like skates on ice; but—that is where they fool you. Slip'm? Say, you couldn't do it any more than you could slide down an asphalt sidewalk with rubbers on your feet. That fibre wheel clings to the aluminum composition disc closer than a brother. And yet, when power is applied too suddenly, it can give a bit; just enough to ease the shock on engine and tires and start the car gently.

Examine the cut of the transmission; or, better still, watch the transmission itself in a Metz chassis, you will catch the idea at once. That special fibre surface possesses an affinity for the composition disc. They cling together and cause every ounce of power in the engine to be delivered to the driving wheels.

Metz cars are the latest thing in automobile building and a trial will demonstrate this fact.

The Metz car is a car that can be used for country or city use. It is so made that it is as serviceable as any car on the market. Once you buy a Metz car you are always a Metz driver. Before you buy give the Metz car a trial.—That's all.

$945 F.O.B. Calgary

$945 F.O.B. Calgary

THE METZ
A Marvel of Power
METZ FIBRE GRIP
NO GEARS TO STRIP

Specifications Of Touring Model

CHASSIS—design contains three units; (1) a motor of our own manufacture; (2) fibre grip gearless transmission; (3) rear axle and differential gears with single silent chain completely enclosed.

MOTOR—35 horse power, four-cylinder, water-cooled.

CYLINDERS—Cast en-bloc with water jackets and valve chambers, 3 7-8-inch bore, 4-inch stroke. Pistons ground, fitted with four ground rings. Castings for cylinders, pistons, etc., made from specially high grade gray iron and steel mixture.

FRAME—Pressed steel channel section.

CRANK SHAFT—Made of a fine grade of steel, specially heat treated to insure the greatest degree of strength. Supported on three main bearings of liberal dimensions.

VALVES—Mechanically operated and interchangeable. Positively lubricated cam shaft enclosed within crank case. Inlet and exhaust valves operate on right side of cylinder.

CRANK CASE—Upper half is carried on two steel channel sections, bolted to main frame. Bottom section is an oil well, easily removable for inspection. Crank shaft bearings are held to upper portion between these two sections.

CARBURETOR—A. W. T., float feed, automatic regulation for all motor speeds.

GASOLINE SUPPLY—Tank is placed in cowl, and gasoline is fed by gravity direct to carburetor. Capacity, 10 gallons.

IGNITION—This is one of the most important items in the equipment of an automobile, and in adopting the high tension system installed in METZ cars, we have been guided solely by considerations of efficiency, regardless of cost.

LUBRICATION—Our constant level splash oiling system is the best that has ever been installed in a motor. More oil than is necessary is at all times supplied by the geared pump, but the overflow level permits it to return to the reservoir. Thus all the motor parts are constantly supplied with an ample quantity of fresh oil, and there is no waste.

Let us prove the merits of this car by giving you a demonstration.

Have you ever stopped to consider what transmission trouble means? With the Metz Car you cannot have transmission or rear axle trouble. Absolutely and positively eliminated with the Metz Fibre Grip Gearless Transmission. That fibre wheel clings to the aluminum composition closer than a brother.

Examine the cut of the transmission; or better still, watch the transmission itself in a Metz chassis and you will catch the idea at once.

Simplicity with power is what every automobile owner wants. Anyone with ordinary intelligence can handle the Metz.

When you are climbing a hill you do not get that grinding, jerky, wearing effect so often noticed where a sliding gear and clutch do not work in perfect harmony.

Listen, Mr., Mrs. or Miss Auto Owner. When you shift speeds with your gear car you release your clutch (losing all power), shift your gears (which often mesh hard or fail to mesh perfectly), then apply your clutch again. In doing this your engine is subjected to at least two severe strains; one when you release and another when you apply your clutch. Your driving gears, rear axle, rear wheels and tires are all subject to strains, which tend to weaken them and wear them out. And (don't overlook this), if you strip a gear or even break a cog, good night! Old Dobbin is called into service—which as a rule is expensive.

Now, with the Metz Fibre Grip Gearless Transmission you have:

1st—Positive and Constant Power and Action
2nd—Simplicity and Direct Drive
3rd—All Engine Power Applied to the rear wheels as driving power

The Metz Car—the Quality Car—won the Classic Glidden Trophy, and still retains it.

Specifications Of Touring Model

STARTING AND LIGHTING—We use the Gray & Davis two unit starting and lighting system. The starter has a torque sufficient to turn motor in the coldest weather. The generator supplies the batteries with ample current both for frequent starting and brilliant lighting.

WHEEL BASE—108 inches. Standard tread, 56 inches.

WHEELS AND TIRES— Standard 32-inch artillery wheels, with Goodrich 33X 3½-inch clincher tires.

Quick detatchable demountable rims will be furnished, with one additional rim, and bracket for carrying same on rear of car, at extra cost of $10.00.

TRANSMISSION—Fibre grip gearless transmission includes special alloy driving plate and a fibre-ring driven wheel, permitting seven different speeds forward and one reverse, eliminating all gear and clutch trouble.

DRIVE—Left-hand drive, centre control

SPRINGS—Full elliptic, both front and rear.

BRAKES—Two powerful brakes are provided, one external contracting, and one internal expanding, in addition to reverse on transmission, which in case of extreme emergency can be used to snub the wheels instantly.

BEARINGS—All bearings are of liberal dimensions. Hyatt Roller Bearings are provided for rear axle and jack shaft.

WIND SHIELD—Built-in, rain-vision, polished plate glass, adjustable for rain and ventilation.

TOP—Instant one-man top, designed so that when in use it fits down over the wind-shield frame in a weather-tight joint. Provided with close-fitting storm curtains, and cover slip.

UPHOLSTERY—Heavy tufted upholstery and deep cushions, padded with genuine hair.

GASOLINE GAUGE—Located on top of cowl, and indicator is always in view from Quality Auto Cars Ltd.

Garage and S... ...or Centre Street and 4th Ave.

Gillespie Tire & Vulcanizing Works
Geo. J. Gillespie, Proprietor
Auto Tires and Tubes Vulcanized.
We Supply Any Make of Tires.
Our Repair Work is First Class and Done in the Most Modern Way.
We solicit your patronage and ask you to give us a trial.
209 Sixth Ave. West, Calgary

DO YOU RIDE A WHEEL?
When Enamelled, "Baking Process". By the Premier Man
Looks Good as New
If you are thinking of making a purchase, or if you have an OLD WHEEL YOU WISH REBUILT, it will pay you to call and see US. This is our SPECIALTY, and we stand alone in this particular line.
OUR SYSTEM IS PERFECT AND MODERN, and in rebuilding your WHEEL, it is given a thorough overhauling, and the only difference in our REBUILT MACHINES AND THE NEW ONE, "IS THE PRICE."
PREMIER CYCLE WORKS
102 Seventh Ave. West Phone M1755
W. B. COMPTON, Prop.

Siegel Garage Company
SUPPLIES AND ACCESSORIES, STORAGE AND REPAIRS
Phone Us When in Trouble
708 1st St. E. Phone M4050
129 3rd Ave. E. Phone M4206

General Repair Works
P. C. HEAD, Prop.
230 SEVENTH AVE. EAST
(Opp. Post Office), CALGARY
WE REPAIR—Guns, Sewing Machines, Gramophones, Typewriters, Cash Registers, Musical Instruments, Slot Machines, Carpet Sweepers, Vacuum Cleaners, Wash Machines, etc.
Guns Repaired by an Expert Gunsmith
We Do Welding, Brazing, Soldering
We Specialize on Sewing Machines

E. P. BOSSARD
SAFE EXPERT and LOCKSMITH
KEYS of every description
FINE REPAIR WORK
717 4th St. West.
PHONE M 6317.
Residence PHONE M 6508.

YOUR BICYCLE
When Enamelled, "Baking Process." By the Premier Man.
Looks As Good As New.
—Do It Now—
We'll Store It Free Until Spring
Phone M1755
PREMIER CYCLE WORKS
102 Seventh Avenue West

Star Cycle & Motor Co.
Sole Agents for Perfect Bicycles, Star Bicycles and Indian Motorcycles
Auto Electrical Systems a Specialty
Complete Line of Accessories Always on Hand
Expert Repairing
Our Ten Years of Practical Experience, coupled with Our Many Satisfied Customers, is sufficient guarantee of what we can do for others.
A Trial Will Convince You.
224 Seventh Ave. E. Phone M3661

GEO. EDWARDS
Spring Manufacturer
All Kinds of Carriage and Wagon Springs Made to Order.
Prices Moderate
A trial is solicited.
330 Sixth Avenue East, Calgary

ALLFORD GARAGE
EVANS & LINDBERG, PROPS.
Ford Specialists
All Repair Work Guaranteed
All Makes and Grades of Second-Hand Cars for Sale
211 TENTH AVENUE WEST
Residence: Phone M4964
Garage: Phone M2548

CALGARY WELDING SHOP
Up-to-Date Steel Cutting Appliances
Steel Tanks Made to Order
All Metals Welded—Cast Iron, Steel, Aluminum and Brass Castings of All Kinds
We Specialize in Farm Machinery Repairs—Oxy-Acetylene Process
We Solicit Your Patronage
All Work Guaranteed
306 Third Avenue East, Calgary
Phone M4322

FISK TIRES

Time to Re-tire? (Buy Fisk)

ALBERTA RETAIL PRICE LIST

Size	Non-Skidd Casing	Grey Tubes
3½ x 30	$23.60	$4.55
3½ x 32	28.35	5.00
4 x 31	35.65	6.15	Ford Oversize
4 x 32	38.80	6.50
4 x 33	39.80	6.70
4 x 34	40.40	6.95
4 x 36	43.20	7.60
4½ x 33	50.85	8.40
4½ x 34	54.00	8.50
4½ x 35	56.35	8.65
4½ x 36	59.60	8.90
4½ x 37	62.80	9.25
5 x 35	71.15	10.25
5 x 37	76.40	10.90

Prices subject to change without notice.

Adjustments made from this Office, and based from retail price list.

We guarantee that you get your money's worth when you use a "Fisk."

Tire Hospital in connection.

FISK TIRE AGENCY
CALGARY, ALBERTA
Corner Seventh Ave. and Third St. West Phone M6213

"BABY'S RIGHTS" OR THE MONARCH'S RIGHTS

A Lecture Given By Dr. C. S. Mahood, before the Meeting of the Naomi Mothers' Society at Knox Church During Child Welfare Week.

THE history of the child and his rights, with what has been done for him by civilization of different types, as it comes down from the pre-historic times through the Egyptian, Greek and Roman periods to the mediaeval European period and so on down to modern times, has one ray of comfort for us after all. When we realize that in the earlier times the child was exposed and deliberately killed or left to die, that in the middle period not only this was a common fact but that the child was deformed and distorted to suit man's whim, this even as late as the eighteenth century in Europe, that in 1850 the first real effort was made in England even to control labor legislation for the women or children, and then contrast this with the immense amount of concerted effort being put forth now to conserve or preserve child life and to give children that start in life from a mental, moral and physical point of view to which each and all of them is entitled, we feel a little moment of pride.

We have in this country numerous societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. Good people are shocked when they find a horse or dog that has been abused and will pray and work to prevent a repetition of such outrages. This is well. No right thinking man would have it otherwise. It shows a splendid spirit. We have developed so far that we sympathize with suffering and cannot endure it, even in a brute. This speaks well for the present humanity and augurs well for the future of the race.

Good as this is, how about our children? It would seem as if they also had rights and were more important than animals. In one respect the animal young fares well. The mother is not too proud to suckle it, and so the young animal receives the food designed for it by nature. Unfortunately this is not always the case with human infants. The mothers' milk is the best food for the baby. It is the nourishment provided by nature, and it is the baby's right to have its natural food. Instead of giving the little one this and giving it the best chance in life, the babe is often given (far too often) cow's milk or some other poor substitute. The chances of a baby living are nine times greater if breast fed than if given other preparations. Cow's milk is often infected with disease germs and kills babies. Breast-fed babies develop more rapidly, the muscles and bones will be stronger at the same age than in those artificially nourished. There will also usually be less trouble in teething for those fed in Nature's way. Those naturally fed will run less chance of being attacked by "croup," bronchitis and pneumonia, and, if attacked, are more likely to throw it off. In view of such facts the mother, if she really loves her child and is intelligent, will nurse it unless advised otherwise for sufficient cause by her physician.

DR. STANLEY MAHOOD
Head of the health department of Calgary and strong advocate of the right principles of enjoying life.

Farther than the wrong done to the child is the injury to the mother. It is a law of nature that organs are strengthened by use, but atrophy and become rudimentary by disuse. This is equivalent to saying that when an organ ceases to be of use it becomes, as it were, a parasite on the rest of the body exacting support and rendering no service and nature thus relieves the body of the burden by causing atrophy of the useless parasitic member. Thus we have muscles to move our ears and scalp, but from long continued disuse, with most of us, they have become so atrophied that we could not use them, if we tried. In like manner animals in dark places such as caves and underground become blind, many lizards have rudimentary hind legs, the snakes no legs at all, and birds that have neglected to use their wings become incapable of flight followed by the wasting away of their wings. Innumerable other instances might be cited such as our parasites which are believed to have once been perfect animals, but by their habit of sponging their living have degenerated into practically mouths and reproductive organs incapable of existing except in this manner.

In view of the above law of nature one must see the effect upon a woman of neglecting to suckle her young. The breasts not being put to their normal use will tend to waste away. In other words these parts of her body will remain undeveloped or atrophy, and in time she will become incapable of giving nurse to a child, if she so desired. To right thinking people such waste or atrophy seriously mars the attractiveness of a woman. There is nothing more charming than the human form divine seen in a beautiful woman but not if parts of her body have shrivelled by being denied their normal use.

Obiously the same fact about not developing her whole self will apply to the woman who avoids bearing children, mother is the sublimest word in any language. The woman is to be pitied who never knows its meaning, as she has failed to realize the best part of living. Worse than this her reproductive organs, being denied their normal use, degenerate and in time become incapable of performing their functions properly, and the thus subject to disease.

The only correct life is in accordance with nature. Exercise of all parts is essential to health. The best balanced organism is that in which all parts are developed in harmonious ratio. The suppression of faculties disturbs the balance of the organism, especially when pernicious means are used to thwart nature.

It has been claimed that in some of our provinces the birth-rate among our native born Canadians is less than the death rate. If this condition it indicates a state of affairs that may well cause us to take notice, as without the influx of foreigners our population would be on the decline. Doubtless there are various causes for this. One is the prevalence of venereal diseases. Syphilis is, as is well known, a frequent cause of abortion. If the disease is in an active state, miscarriage or abortion may be expected. The sterility-producing power of gonorrhoea must also be kept in mind.

In these two diseases are found some of the wrongs inflicted on helpless childhood. The child has a perfect right to clean parents. The little one will not have this, if the father's and mother's blood is polluted with syphilis or if the mother is only half a woman in consequence of mutilated sexual organs made necessary as a sequel of the gonorrhoea of the father.

We often hear the statement that parents have the right to control their children and bring them up as they please. This style of reasoning belongs to the patriarchial stage of human evolution. There is no such right recognized by up-to-date thinkers of today. The world has long since repudiated that so-called right. It began to repudiate it when it denied the right of parents to kill their children. It further repudiated it when it passed laws for compulsory education. It completely repudiated it when it passed enactments for the majority of children, that is to make the child absolutely free from its parents at 21 years of age. Evidently if we can establish that age, we can as well set 18 or 15 or any other limit desired. More than that the state exercises the right to take children from their parents at an earlier age whenever it decides the latter are unfit to rear their children properly. In fact, our truancy laws and enactments against child labor distinctly repudiates this so-called parental right and the whole trend of modern law-making is in the direction of asserting that society rather than the parentsis entitled to dictate the control of the child.

Society is also more interested in the control of the child than are the parents, as he is to be with them only until he is 21, but with society all his life. In other words the parents have him while young and immature, but society has him to deal with all his life, and the years after he leaves the parental hearth are the ones when his power for good or ill will be exercised. Still farther through the reproduction of his kind he will greatly affect society, but his parents scarcely at all. For just such reasons the state is today looking after its young and this oversight is destined to increase rather than diminish as the years roll along.

From such considerations it is clearly the state's duty to see that every child born has healthy parents. The child has the right to be born strong and healthy. Strong and healthy children grow into successful men and women. Such become the jewels of the state but weaklings are its burden. Hence a state which neglects to protect its childhood is recreant to its highest trust and invites decay.

The child has many rights, in addition to healthy parentage and the use of natural foods. it's mothers' milk, such as mother's love and care, a good home and home surorundings, places to play, fit conditions for living, genuine affection between father and mother so that its young life may not be sullied by bitter family quarrels, protection from disease and the best education in the power of society to give. In brief, the child has the right to everything necessary to develop it into full man or woman, and the state is charged with the duty of securing those rights.

In this country we hear much said about the rights of men and women (especially the latter) and very little, if any, about the rights of children. The children are often trampled upon with impunity. The rights of the child are inhumanly violated when it is denied its mother's milk, by the mother being taken from the home to earn a living, by every quarrel of the mismated father and mother, by being compelled to live in vile tenements in the slums of cities, by being brought up in rags and filth, by being subjected to overcrowded homes in small towns and villages, by being given sewage-polluted water to drink, by being served with adulterated and insanitary food, especially filthy germ-laden milk, by fool mothers exposing it to communicable diseases, like measles and whooping cough, by every case of gonorrhoea and syphilis running at large and exposing the community, instead of being treated as a leper, by being sent to ill-ventilated schools and by being forced to leave school when their education is barely begun in order to take their place in the army of labor. In other words, everything that detracts from the child becoming a fully developed, perfect man or woman is a wrong to the child and a loss to the state.

While we are helpless to save the lives of those in the firing line, we are responsible for those who are dying amongst us every year from preventable diseases. It matters little whether the life is crushed out by automobile or express train, drowned in river or lake, poisoned by the germ of some of our communicable diseases, or killed in the firing line. It is a human life just the same.

Thus the business of being born a baby is a most serious and hazardous occupation.

Future of the State Depends Upon Children of Today

The true glory of a nation is in its manhood and womanhood. This nation of ours needs strong men and women. If it is to have them, it must raise them from the children of today. We older persons will soon pass from earth and its activities and the younger generation will take our place. If we do our full duty of securing the rights of all children, we shall leave behind us the best citizenship which the world has ever known. We have no right to leave mental and physical wrecks behind. The children have not sinned and they should not be punished for the poverty and ignorance of their parents, but taken and given the highest intellectual culture by the nation as necessary for the best citizenship. We should feed and clothe, if necessary, the street gamins and waifs of society in order to make men and women of them, instead of permitting them to grow up a menace to the future welfare of the race. This would be vastly cheaper than to let them become wrecks and then care for the wrecks and criminals.

The higher a nation stands upon the stage of culture and civilization the stronger is its race consciousness, the more clear its recognition of its duty to future generations, and the more pronounced and emphatic its assertion of the rights of children as members of society.

Today we hear much about children's diseases. There should be none. We know enough to nearly or quite abolish them, and it should be done. It is the duty of the nation to protect its children from preventable disease. We need men who will insist on having an efficient health service in the nation, the county, the city, the towns and rural municipalities, working conjointly to eradicate diseases and their causes, and that will do for this country this province and this city what the United States did for Panama—make it a health resort. By being ready to pay for and uphold such measures we can show a loyalty for our children, and do our part towards causing foreign nations to recognise this country of ours as the greatest, the wisest and the best nation the world has ever known.

Medical Officer of Health.

EXHIBIT OF BABY WELFARE
One of Calgary's cherubs and a striking example of proper food and baby welfare

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Intelligent Motherhood conserves the Nation's best crop?
A low infant mortality rate indicates high community intelligence?
The breast-fed baby has the best chance?
"Health First" is the highest form of "Safety First"?

GIVE THE BABY A CHANCE!

Many babies suffer because they are used to amuse other people and are tossed about and excited when they should be resting or sleeping. Try to have people leave the baby alone. Think how tired and irritable you get yourself on a hot day, and shield the baby as much as possible from excitement and "attention."

If the baby cries when put down to sleep, don't get nervous about it. Leave the baby alone without handling or talking to it, and it will soon go to sleep. It is much beter for the baby not to be rocked, and gives much more time to the mother for keeping things clean and resting herself.

BE SURE YOUR BABY'S BIRTH IS PROPERLY RECORDED

There is nothing in all the world so important as children, nothing so interesting. If you wish to go in for philanthrophy, if ever you wish to be of any real use in the world, do something for children. We can dress the sore, bandage the wounded, imprison the criminal, heal the sick and bury the dead, but there is always the chance that we can save the child.

If the great army of philanthropists ever exterminate sin and pestilance, ever work out our race's salvation, it will be because a little child has led them.

Department of Public Health

City of Calgary, Is Always At Your Service
PHONE M1151

JAEGER
FOR BOYS AND GIRLS
YOUR CHILDREN

Your children's health is of the first importance. Start them right by clothing them with Jaeger Garments. We stock Jaeger Underwear and Night Wear, Dressing Gowns, Knitted Suits, Golfers' Coat Sweaters, Jerseys, Raglan Camel Hair Fleece Coats, Gloves, Stockings, etc.

A fully illustrated catalogue will be sent free on application.

DR. JAEGER Sanitary Woollen System CO. LIMITED
Toronto Montreal Winnipeg
British "founded 1883".

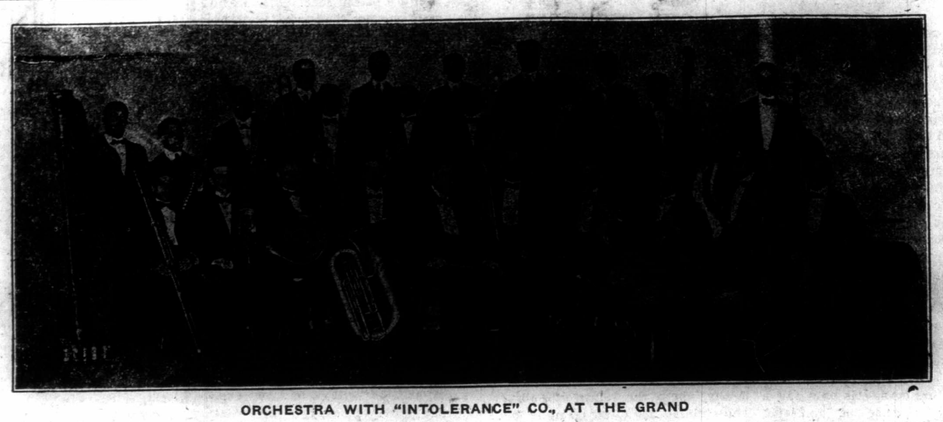
THE BEATON
Hairdressing & Shampoo and Manicure Parlors
Satisfied Customers Secret of Our Success.
1009 First Street W. Phone M2153

WM. S. PARK
Maker of PHOTOGRAPHS
218A EIGHTH AVENUE WEST
Phone, Main 6489 Calgary, Alta.

Ezy-Way Glycerine Washing Tablets
Use Two EZY-WAY GLYCERINE WASHING TABLETS
to your usual bath water. It will soften the water, cleanse the pores, and make the skin soft, white and smooth. Why pay high prices for Turkish baths when you can get the same results at home with the Ezy-Way Glycerine Washing Tablets? The secret of good health is poral elimination. Don't take our word for it; just give it a trial and be your own judge. It will surprise and delight you.
Washes dirtiest clothes in from 10 to 15 minutes with very little rubbing, makes the clothes white as snow without bluing. Ezy-Way contains no paraffin wax, lye, lime, potash or other injurious chemicals. Ezy-Way will not cause the slightest injury to skin or the finest fabric. We ask you to get a free sample and give it a trial. If out of City send five cents to pay postage and packing and you will receive sample by return mail. Our guarantee, money back if not pleased, no questions asked. Agents wanted. This is the real thing, so get a-hold of a live wire.
EZY-WAY MFG. CO.
704-A Center St. Calgary, Alta.

SLAVIN HAIR GROWER
The only preparation on the market that will Positively Cure Dandruff, Falling Hair, and Grow Hair on Bald Heads. Endorsed by scores of Calgary people.
PRICE $1.00 PER BOX
With Full Instructions.
218 BRUNER BLOCK

Calgary Furniture Hospital
We Will Trade Good Furniture for Old or Damaged, or Pay Highest Cash Prices.
We invite those who have not dealt here, to visit us, and give us an opportunity to show you what we do for our customers.
1312 First St. W. Phone M4670



A NEW WAY TO SAVE
The Province of Alberta Offers to the Public
Province of Alberta Savings Certificates
In denominations of Ten Dollars, One Hundred Dollars, and One Thousand Dollars.
These Certificates will bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, compounded half-yearly.
Certificates are redeemable in three years, but may be cashed at any time on the demand of the holder.
ABSOLUTE SECURITY. QUICK CONVERTIBILITY
For full information write or apply to
W. V. NEWSON,
Deputy Provincial Treasurer,
Edmonton

Why not be particular about your principal food supply?
PURE MILK
is desired by everyone. You are invited to inspect our plant and satisfy yourself as to the quality of our Goods.
CARLYLE DAIRY CO.
Telephone Main 4686.

GUARANTEED DENTISTRY
During the 16 years I have been practicing dentistry in Calgary I have treated hundreds of patients. I have had the satisfaction of building up a large practice through the personal recommendation of my clients. My motto is the same today as it has been in the past, to give guaranteed dentistry at prices within the reach of all.
I specialize in all the up-to-date painless methods known to the best dental practitioners and am an expert in fitting plates and bridgework.
I buy for cash, and having no rent to pay, give my patients the benefit of my services at prices that cannot be dupicated elsewhere.
Remember, we stand behind the guarantee of efficient service.
OPEN EVENINGS.
DR. FRANKLIN EDMONDS
TWELFTH AVENUE AND FIRST STREET WEST
PHONE M3686. Opposite Pryce-Jones' Store.

MAY 6,
Local .: Pro
World in Ge al $945
F.O.B. Calgary
TZ
Specifications Of Touring Model
STARTING AN LIGHTING—We use the Gray & Dav two unit starting and lighting system. The starter has a torque sufficient to turn motor in the coldest weather. The generator supplies the batteries with ample current both for frequent starting and brilliant lighting.
WHEEL BASE—108 inches. Standard tread, 56 inches.
WHEELS AND TIRES— Standard 32-inch artillery wheels, with Goodrich 32X 3½-inch clincher tires.
Quick detatchable demountable rims will be furnished, with one additional rim, and bracket for carrying same on rear of car, at extra cost of $10.00.
TRANSMISSION—Fibre grip gearless transmission includes special alloy driving plate and a fibre-ring driven wheel, permitting seven different speeds forward and one reverse, eliminating all gear and clutch trouble.
DRIVE—Left-hand drive, centre control
SPRINGS—Full elliptic, both front and rear.
BRAKES—Two powerful brakes are provided, one external contracting, and one internal expanding, in addition to reverse on transmission, which in case of extreme emergency can be used to snub the wheels instantly.
BEARINGS—All bearings are of liberal dimensions. Hyatt Roller Bearings are provided for rear axle and jack shaft.
WIND SHIELD—Built-in, rain-vision, polished plate glass, adjustable for rain and ventilation.
TOP—Instant one-man top, designed so that when in use it fits down over the wind-shield frame in a weather-tight joint. Provided with close-fitting storm curtains, and cover slip.
UPHOLSTERY—Heavy tufted upholstery and deep cushions, padded with genuine hair.
GASOLINE GAUGE—Located on top of cowl, and indicator is always in view from nd 4th Ave.
YOUR BICYCLE
When Enamelled, 'Baking Process,' By the Premier Man, Looks As Good As New.
—Do It Now—
We'll Store It Free Until Spring
Phone M1755
PREMIER CYCLE WORKS
102 Seventh Avenue West
Star Cycle & Motor Co.
Sole Agents for Perfect Bicycles, Star Bicycles and Indian Motorcycles
Auto Electrical Systems a Specialty
Complete Line of Accessories Always on Hand
Expert Repairing
Our Ten Years of Practical Experience, coupled with Our Many Satisfied Customers, is sufficient guarantee of what we can do for others.
A Trial Will Convince You.
224 Seventh Ave. E. Phone M3661
GEO. EDWARDS
Spring Manufacturer
All Kinds of Carriage and Wagon Springs Made to Order.
Prices Moderate
A trial is solicited.
330 Sixth Avenue East, Calgary
ALLFORD GARAGE
EVANS & LINDBERG, PROPS.
Ford Specialists
All Repair Work Guaranteed
All Makes and Grades of Second-Hand Cars for Sale
211 TENTH AVENUE WEST
Residence: Phone M4964
Garage: Phone M2548
CALGARY
WELDING SHOP
Up-to-Date Steel Cutting Appliances
Steel Tanks Made to Order
All Metals Welded—Cast Iron, Steel, Aluminum and Brass Castings of All Kinds
We Specialize in Farm Machinery Repairs—Oxy-Acetylene Process
We Solicit Your Patronage
All Work Guaranteed
306 Third Avenue East, Calgary
Phone M4322

THEATRES | WHERE TO GO | PICTURE PLAYS | WHAT TO SEE | VAUDEVILLE

ORCHESTRA WITH "INTOLERANCE" CO., AT THE GRAND

George Beban in 'The Bond Between' at the Allen

That ever popular portrayer of Latin characters, George Beban, who scored such a success in "Pasquale," as the Italian, and in "His Sweetheart," and other productions, will be seen at the Allen next Friday and Saturday in the Pallas-Paramount production of "The Bond Between." Mr. Beban is the author of the story as well as the star of the production. There is no actor on the American stage or screen who so well knows the Latin temperament and characteristics as does Mr. Beban.

He scored his first success as a Frenchman, and later as the Italian in his wonderful production "The Sign of the Rose" which has also been transferred to the screen.

As the Italian in "Pasquale," Mr. Beban firmly established himself as a photodramatic star and his most recent production, 'His Sweetheart," has been pronounced by all to be a masterpiece of its kind.

In "The Bond Between," Mr. Beban is seen as Papa Duval, a Frenchman living with four cronies in a French restaurant in New York city. By his meager earnings as a teacher of the piano, he is educating his son as an art student in Paris. The war brings the son home and upon his return trip, he unconsciously acts as an agent of a clever band of crooks.

A girl detective is put on his trail. The father secures a position as night watchman in an art gallery and his son finds him there. That night a valuable painting is stolen. The father is arrested, but greed. Later he believes the son guilty and gives himself up to the police. Finally matters are adjusted in an unusual and clever manner.

Mr. Beban has carried throughout the picture a wonderful and true Bohemian atmosphere of the real artist's section of New York city. One of the unusual sets is the entire basement and first floor of a typical New York boarding house. The production was made for the Pallas-Paramount company by Donald Crist. Included in the cast are Colin Chase, Cola Vale and Eugene Pallette.

PANTAGES

UNEQUALLED VAUDEVILLE

WEEK OF MAY 7

HELLO JAPAN
A Comic Operetta

Will and Mary Rogers
"It Didn't Take The First Time"

University Four Harmony Singers

D'Amour and Douglas Hand Balancers

"Pearl of the Army."

WM. SCHILLING & Co.
"The Lash"

Fannie Ward in 'A School for Husbands' at Allen

Fannie Ward, the beautiful and popular Lasky star, who will be seen in the Lasky-Paramount production, "The School For Husbands," at the Allen on Wednesday and Thursday, has a wardrobe which is a Lasky studio mystery, as it seems inexhaustible. For any occasion which presents itself, Miss Ward has only to delve into its depths and bring forth gowns the like of which have never before been seen at the studio. It is never known when she replenishes this supply, but she is always able to produce the latest and most charming frocks, and in her forthcoming production, 'The School for Husbands," she has more than surpassed her usual cleverness.

When in a picture she decides to dress up, out comes the most marvellous gowns with their accompanying jewels. One of her many beautiful creations is a sable and silk opera cloak which must have cost many thousands of dollars. No one at the studio had heard of this marvellous garment, nor had Miss Ward mentioned purchasing it, but suddenly she appeared, and every other woman at the studio dropped what she was doing, and stood and marvelled.

The story of "The School for Husbands," has to do with Betty Manners, the wife of John Manners. John is a frivolous young broker, who loves to gamble on the races and have a good time. His young wife, feeling that she must economise, goes around in most unbecoming and inexpensive clothes. John becomes infatuated with another woman and loses his money in the stock exchange just as his wife discovers that she is the heiress to a vast fortune. Realizing that she is losing her husband by her plain dress and "stay-at-home" manner, she starts out to win him back.

She first arrays herself in better clothes and then, through an old friend, manages to arouse her husband's jealousy. How the husband is taught to look only toward his own fireside, is brought about by many clever and amusing situations.

The production was made for the Lasky company under the direction of George Melford.

"Cost of Hatred" A Thrilling Story at the Allen

Two of the most distinguished stars of the photodramatic stage, Kathlyn Williams and Theodore Roberts, will be seen at the Allen Monday and Tuesday in the Lasky-Paramount production of Beulah M. Dix's thrilling story, "The Cost of Hatred," which was produced under the direction of George Melford.

In her recent Morosco-Paramount production "Out of the Wreck," Kathlyn Williams has established herself as one of the foremost dramatic artists in the country, and her youth, personality and ability all go towards making her a great photo-dramatic favorite. Co-starring as she is with Theodore Roberts the most distinguished character of the stage or screen, it is felt that this combination will prove most popular.

Theodore Roberts has been hailed as a past master in villainy, and although he redeemed himself as the kind Pudd'n Head Wilson, and the lovable American consul, in 'The Cost of Hatred" he has full opportunity to display his entire scale of feelings.

The story of "The Cost of Hatred" has to do with Sarita and Justus Graves, a stern, harsh man, seeing his wife, Elsie, in the arms of Robert Amory, shoots Amory and flees with his little daughter Sarita to Mexico.

The lover recovers and marries Elsie, and his son by a former marriage, is offered a position in the diplomatic corps. On the way to Mexico city, young Ned Amory is left behind in a Mexican settlement, is robbed and thrown into jail. Graves finds him and learns that he is the son of the man who stole his wife. So great is his hatred that he induces the Mexican government to sell him Ned Practically as his slave, and subjects him to the utmost cruelty, arousing the pity of Sarita who has now grown into a beautiful young woman. These two young people fall in love and flee, leaving the father childless and alone, at the cost of his hatred. Miss Williams has two unique roles in this thrilling drama; at first she is seen as Elsie Graves, the mother, and later as the charming young Sarita Graves, the daughter. Supporting Miss Williams and Mr. Roberts in the cast are Tom Forman, J. W. Johnston, and other prominent players.

PRINCESS

PHONE M1944
"Where Everybody Goes"

DON'T MISS
"THE PURPLE MASK"
Every Friday & Saturday

Miss Gert. Moody
—and—
The Princess Girls
3—Performances Daily—3

At the Pantages the coming week

A Comic Opera will be Big Feature at the "Pan"

George Choos, whose name is a guarantee of merit, is the sponsor of the headline attraction at the Pantages theater commencing next Monday afternoon, he will offers his latest musical comedy effort entitled "Hello Japan," a comic operetta in two scenes by Walter L. Rosemont, featuring two exceptionally funny comedians Jack C. Claire and Vincent Erne, assisted by a bevy of pretty girls; a wealth of scenery and gorgeous costumes are very much in evidence. In this act a newspaper reviewer describes the different changes of costumes as "making the front row dizzy," which is in itself a very strong recommendation of its effectiveness. Many tuneful musical numbers are introduced during the playlet such as "The Rising Sun," "Chop Suey," "I'll love you whate'er betide," and others.

William Schilling, the eminent character actor and his company will offer a dramatic playlet entitled "The Lash," which deals with the methods employed in police headquarters in obtaining confessions from prisoners, such as the third degree, etc. Some remarkably strong situations are developed during the action of the sketch and the acting is all that could be desired; a sensational as well as very dramatic novelty offering.

The University Four will offer a melodious melange of vocal, selections in a very harmonious style: these four boys are all gifted with good voices that they use to advantage.

Will and Mary Rogers will present a very amusing comedy skit entitled: "I didn't take the first time," which is full of humorous repartee and clever patter; a most enjoyable comedy offering. D'Amour and Douglas, two wonderfully well developed men, will give physical, culture demonstrations as well as unusual feats of strength. The thirteenth episode of "Pearl of the Army" will offer many sensational situations as well as an inkling as to the identity of the Silent Menace.

A most enjoyable program of vaudeville is assured at the popular playhouse for the coming week and one that everyone will want to see.

Great Spectacular Picture 'Intolerance' Opens Monday

"Intolerance," D. W. Griffith's clossal spectacle and his first and only production since "The Birth of a Nation" will be the attraction at the GGrand for one week, starting Monday evening, May 7. A matinee will be given every day except Monday.

"Intolerance" traces a universal theme through the various periods of the race history. Ancient, sacred, medieval and modern times are included in its scope. There are four seperate stories, each with its own set of characters. The modern story is laid in a western American city of the present time. It shows the baneful wrokings of intolerance upon the victims of so-called uplifters who are financially supported by a self-seeking philanthropist.

The story of the sacred time is laid in Judea, A.D. 27. Jerusalem is the scene of the intolerance of the Roman law which finds its victim in the Man of Men, the great exemplar of intolerance on all ages, who explates upon the cross the penalty to be paid by "Those who do not believe as we believe."

In the medieval time the scourge of intolerance was sweeping over France which after suffering four civil wars within a decade was the victim of the horror of the massacre of 1572 perpetrated by Catherine de Medici, the arch exponent of the law, "We must Destroy or be Destroyed."

The ancient story depicts the destruction of the greatest civilization o fantiquity. One must see its wonders to have any conception of its mighty thrill and irresistible charm. The interpretive musical score is rendered by a large smyphonyo rchestra and an ex-cellent choir.

Allen Theatre

PHOTOPLAYS OF DISTINCTION

LAST TIMES TODAY
JESSE L. LASKY PRESENTS
FANNIE WARD
The Versatile Screen Star, in
"Betty to the Rescue"
A Stirring Tale of the Southern Californian Mines, also NEW WAR GRAPHIC

MONDAY AND TUESDAY
JESSE L. LASKY PRESENTS
KATHLYN WILLIAMS and THEODORE ROBERTS
—IN—
"The Cost of Hatred"
A Powerful Virile Story of the Life Long Search for Vengeance AND GOOD COMEDY

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY
"A School for Husbands"
Jesse L. Lasky's Latest Screen Success, Starring
FANNIE WARD

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
GEORGE BEBAN
In His Greatest French Characterization
"The Bond Between"

COMING SOON ! ! GEO. M. COHAN in Broadway Jones

PRINCESS BELOVED in BABYLONIAN SCENE of D.W.GRIFFITH'S INTOLERANCE..

Coming to the Grand, Twice daily, May 15th and 16th

WM. CRANSTON
PRESENTS

Grand

D.W.GRIFFITH'S
COLOSSAL SPECTACLE
INTOLERANCE
LOVE'S STRUGGLE THROUGHOUT THE AGES

WEEK STARTING
Monday, May 7th
Matinee Daily

Four Paralleled Stories of the World's progress unfold before your vision in thrilling sequence.

The Fall of Babylon
Belshazzar's Feast
The Humble Nazarene
Paris Under the Scourge
A Modern Drama

PRICES:
Night—25c, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.50
Matinees — 25c, 50c, 75c, $1.00

With a Big Symphony Orchestra and Excellent Choir

EVILLE

Theatre
OF DISTINCTION

MES TODAY
SKY PRESENTS
E WARD
e Screen Star, in the Rescue" uthern Californian Mines, also
R GRAPHIC

ND TUESDAY
SKY PRESENTS
nd THEODORE ROBERTS
—IN—of Hatred" of the Life Long Search for ngeance
OD COMEDY

AND THURSDAY or Husbands"
st Screen Success, Starring
E WARD

ND SATURDAY
E BEBAN
French Characterization nd Between"

EO. M. COHAN in Broadway Jones

LOVED in BABYLONIAN
GRIFFITHS
...
Twice daily, May 15th and 16th

WOMAN'S PAGE
Fads and Fancies

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. Clive Betts left on Tuesday night for the coast.

• • •

Mrs. E. M. Adams has returned from a short visit to Winnipeg.

• • •

Lady Lougheed and her daughter, Mary, are spending the week-end in Banff.

• • •

Mrs. Reginald Stewart and children are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Stewart in Banff, this week.

• • •

Miss Leslie Proud, of Macleod, has returned home after paying an extended visit to Mrs. Wm. Harris.

• • •

Mrs. Captain Harrison left on Saturday for New York to join her husband, who leaves for duty overseas shortly.

• • •

Mrs. M. Goldman, of Chicago, arrived in the city to spend the summer with her daughter, Mrs. Lowenstein.

• • •

Mrs. Harry Graham, who has been visiting in Edmonton has returned home.

• • •

Mrs. C. A. Stuart and children have returned from spending three months at the coast.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McNeill arrived home from California last Tuesday morning.

• • •

Mrs. Ruse left last Saturday for Toronto to join Mr. Ruse who has been there for some time.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Suckling, of Toronto, were guests at the Palliser for a few days last week.

• • •

Mrs. M. A. Young returned home from Winnipeg on Wednesday where she has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Laird.

• • •

Mrs. T. J. Costello and her mother, Mrs. Reilly, left on Friday to spend some time in Edmonton.

• • •

Mrs. C. B. Waagen, left on Monday for Toronto, to attend a meeting of the executive of the Canadian War Contingent association.

• • •

Mrs. David Carter and Miss Carter have returned from an extended visit to the east, and are the guests of Mrs. Harvey.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Griffiths, of Elbow Park, returned on Monday from a two weeks' visit to Vancouver and Victoria.

• • •

Captain and Mrs. J. Elmer Wright have gone to Hamilton, where the latter will stay while the captain is overseas.

• • •

Mrs. Howard Splane, of Hollywood, Cal., is spending a couple of weeks in the city the guest of Mrs. Wm. Wayman.

• • •

Mrs. P. L. Naismith entertained at the Palliser at a luncheon on Saturday for her guest, Mrs. J. O. Wilson, of Lethbridge, who left for home Sunday night.

• • •

The friends of Mrs. Captain E. A. Harrison will be pleased to know that she is able to be out again after having been confined to the house for the past three months.

• • •

Judge and Mrs. Winter and Mrs. Ritson-Bennett have returned from Victoria where they spent the last two months, visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. A. W. Fraser.

• • •

Mrs. Leacock, who has been the guest of her daughter, Dr. Rosamond Leacock, for the past five months, left Monday for Montreal, where she will pay an extended visit to her son, Professor Stephen Leacock.

• • •

The Countess de Foras and her daughter, Miss Odette, of High River, who spent several days in the city during which time the latter sang very acceptably at the Soiree de Dance on Friday and Saturday evenings, returned home on Sunday.

Events Past, Present, Future

The tea room of the Palliser was crowded last Saturday afternoon, many having to wait at the door until the tables were vacated. Among those present were:

Mrs. E. M. Adams, Mrs. McCauley, Mrs. Sutherland, Mrs. Hugh Sutherland, Mrs. Thoburn Allen, Mrs. Lee Redman, Mrs. Shimmin, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Martin Cleaver, Mrs. Dunham, Mrs. Schultz, Mrs. McLeod, Mrs. Culbert, Mrs. Heal, Mrs. J. W. Cameron, Mrs. Russell, Mrs. Hanson, Mrs. Dagg, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Glanville, Mrs. Bruce Robinson, Miss Hamilton, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. McDonald, Miss McLeod, Miss Lowden, Mrs. Hawkshaw, Mrs. Nourse, Mrs. Allen.

• • •

Mrs. A. S. Holliday entertained Wednesday afternoon in Hickman hall at a tea, and dance for the Woman's Patriotic society, when there was a large attendance of veterans as well as members of the society and their friends. Nearly forty dollars was received and with this the women propose buying a gramophone for the boys at the discharge depot.

Baby Alice Young delighted everyone with her Spanish tambourine dance, Madame Gardiner sang in her usual delightful manner, and Private Ward furnished some splendid vocal numbers. The music for the dancing was provided by the Calgary Musicians' association.

Among those present were: Mrs. Gilchrist, Mrs. Birney, Mrs. Robbins, Mrs. Dyer, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Henthorn, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Trainer, Mrs. Talbot, Mrs. Timms, Mrs. Trigg, Mrs. Woodford, Mrs. Innis, Mrs. Careon, Mrs. Young, Miss Bowman, and Miss Simpson.

• • •

The card party and dance given by four groups of Red Cross workers of the Military Chapter, I.O.D.E., at the McDonald academy on Monday night was most successful socially and financially. One hundred and seventy dollars was taken in from which there is to be deducted about thirty dollars for expenses. The prizes and refreshments were donated by the four groups, two prizes by each. The funds will be used for comforts for the Mountview Tubercular hospital. Last year the Military chapter hired automobiles in which to take out the patients who were unable to walk. It was proposed to do the same this year, but it is understood the Automobile club has offered to help with this work, so that the money which has been raised can be used for the purchase of comforts for the patients.

The conveners of these four groups, Mrs. Peacock, Mrs. Birney, Mrs. Morfitt and Mrs. Robie, are to congratulated on the success which attended their efforts in this most worthy cause.

The prizes were won by the following:

Bridge—Mrs. West, Miss Ethel Egbert, Mr. Galloway and Mr. S. G. Dorland.

"500"—Mrs. Van Blaren, Mrs. Poster, Mr. Douglas and Dr. Leslie Wright.

Among those present were: Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. Peacock, Major and Mrs. Birney, Major and Mrs. Mapson, Major Danields, Major Wilson, Captain Hobbs, Captain and Mrs. Hawkshaw, Captain and Mrs. West, Captain McDonald, Captain and Mrs. Annand, Captain and Mrs. Bishop, Captain and Mrs. Sutherland, Captain and Mrs. Merritt, Lieut. Peacock, Lieut. Taylor, Dr. and Mrs. Leslie Wright, Dr. and Mrs. Victor Wright, Mrs. Archie McKillop, Mr. and Mrs. Zara Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Askland, Mrs. and Miss Robie, Mrs. Earl Curry, Mrs. and Miss Wetmore, Mr. and Mrs. MacNeill, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Sinclair, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pavey, Mrs. DeVaney, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Raney, Mr. Justice Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. George May, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Irvine, Mr. and Mrs. Miquelon, and Miss Miquelon, Mr. and Mrs. Beal, Mrs. H. H. Sharples, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Traunweiser, Mrs. Spence, Mrs. and Miss Egbert, Miss Parlee, Miss Tavender, Miss Murray, Mrs. Earl Smith, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Kitchen, Mr. and Mrs. Bilton, Mr. and Mrs. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Houlton, Mrs. Porritt, Mrs. Boyle, Mrs. C. Clarlin, Mr. and Mrs. Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. Riorden, Mr. and Mrs. Dorland, Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Bland, Mrs. E. McLean, Mrs. Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. Hutcheson, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. Gordon Savage, Mr. and Mrs. John Irvin and Miss Irvin, Mrs. J. Kerr, Mrs. Roy Merkeley, Mrs. C. J. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. A. Harris, Mrs. Melville, Mr. and Mrs. Skene, Mrs. Higgins, Mrs. R. C. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield, Mrs. Mulligan, Mr. and Mrs. Tennant, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker, Mrs. Chamberlain, Mrs. Bagley, Mr. and Mrs. Vandelinder, Mr. and Mrs. H. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Little, Mr. and Mrs. McArthur, Mr. and Mrs. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Selwood, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rowan, Mrs. Geiske, Mrs. Mosher, Mrs. Muirson, Mr. and Mrs. McInnis, Miss Clarke, Miss Mawhinney, Miss P. McGregor, Miss McGee, Miss Dunbar, Miss Maveety, Miss Whitlock, Miss Glassford, Miss McCallum, Miss Toop, Miss Hudson, Miss Tolson, Miss Boardman, Miss Margaret Ranahan, Miss Gladys Traunweiser, Miss Sparrow, Miss F. Glassford, Miss Ruth Watt, Miss Freda Sweet, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce, Mrs. Eckersley, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron, Mrs. A. Trounweiser, Mrs. R. Ellis, Mrs. Mackie, Mrs. E. McLean, Mrs. Kinnisten, Mrs Vincent, Mrs. W. E. Spankie, Mrs. Galloway, Mrs. Hervey, Mrs. Allen, Mrs. C. F. Comer, Mrs. Powell, Mrs. Kilgour, Mrs. Boomer, Mr. and Mrs. Gaunce, Miss Brill, Miss Turpin, Miss Ross, Miss Todd, Miss Lusk, Miss McMaster, Miss Edith May, Mr. Cy Clarke, Mr. Durrick, Mr. G. Johnson, Mr. Glendenning, Mr. Dayton, Mr. Luxton, Mr. Scarr, Mr. Cunningham, Mr. Scott, Mr. Learson, Mr. Sexon, Mr. Tivey, Mr. Ranahan, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Carter, Mr. A. Harris, Mr. Callum, Mr. Lowe, Mr. Little and Mr. G. Johnston.

OSTEOPATHY

OSTEOPATHY EXPLAINED

Science is merely knowing the truths of Nature. Osteopathy is the new Science and Art (or method) of healing disease without drugs, or other harmful and unnatural agencies.

It accomplishes these results by the wise control of Nature's remedial agencies (blood, lymph, and nerve force) which are already in the body.

Osteopathy utilizes the curative powers resident within the body itself, and claims that it is both unnatural and unscientific to introduce within the body, from without, anything but food, water and air; and that drugs are foreign compounds, often rank poisons, and when introduced into the body as such, imparting no vitality to the tissues.

CHILD'S WELFARE WEEK

With a view to arousing interest in the Baby Welfare Week, the advisory board initiated its campaign last Saturday with an automobile parade, and Mrs. Deachman, at whose suggestion the affair was undertaken, judged correctly that nothing more attractive could have been devised to call attention to the work that the society is trying to accomplish for the child life of the city.

Headed by the 191st band, playing stirring national music, the automobiles with their most valuable cargoes passed along the streets and not even the crustiest bachelor could prevent a smile at the happy faces of the small inmates who waved flags or sang as the spirit moved them.

The motors teemed with children of varying ages and the little ones who took part will long remember their successful and triumphal ride through the city's main streets.

Baby Week is now a national institution in the United States and is becoming somewhat of the same in Canada and if Rev. Hugh Dobson's plans do not miscarry the plans for next year's campaign will commence as soon as this one is over. He proposes that the Social Service Workers have charge of it and that all the cities, towns and villages of Alberta be notified that they will be expected to arrange a program and exhibits for next year. Various organizations will be asked to co-operate so that all will have a chance to participate in making the child welfare week the success it merits.

History of Baby Welfare

Controlled by an earnest sociological purpose the first Baby Week was held in Chicago in 1914 under the direction of the city board of health. That same year the New York board of health instituted a Baby Week, which it made a great success. The idea soon spread and the last three years nearly every city in U. S. and Canada has instituted a week devoted to the study of the child.

Last year was the first campaign in this city and a most successful opening meeting was held at the Empress theater under the auspices of the Forum. Then during the week following there were meetings at various points in the city. Great enthusiasm was evinced, so much so, that the baby advisory board felt justified in securing the Grand theater for the first meeting this year.

But why a Baby Welfare Week at all? Are people not sufficiently interested in their own offspring? It is a most surprising fact that there are hundreds of intelligent and well educated mothers and fathers in the city who have never read a statistical table on infant mortality or inquired into the causes of the death of so many of the little ones. Baby Week is a popular way of presenting the fact that thousands of young lives are wasted every year through ignorance.

In spite of all that has been done to make conditions better and to stamp out the diseases of childhood, it is found that one baby in eight dies before the end of the first year of life. Another object is that of protecting as many of the babies from attacks of diseases which often leave them in a battered or crippled condition and handicapped for the race of life.

Sunday Afternoon

Mayor Costello, as the city's representative, opened the proceedings. He advised everyone to attend meetings and also to read accounts of same in the press.

Mrs. Harold Riley

(1) Impressed the need of mothers' pensions, either for widows or women whose husbands were incapacitated for work.

(2) Explained her proposed act in regard to infants, in order that poor parents might be encouraged in bringing children into the world.

Rev. Hugh Dobson

(1) Regretted that marriage conditions were becoming so different on account of industries leaving the home and women workers following. Desertions, divorce and separations are increasing alarmingly. Something new must be put into marriage to develop the highest integrity of our people.

(2) Parents are allowing the school to usurp the home in all training. Religious instruction is neglected.

(3) Censorship of moving pictures is a pressing need.

(4) There is a crying need for sex education for the children on the part of the parents who do not seem to realize the dangers of allowing their children to go out into life without proper instruction about their own bodies.

MONDAY AFTERNOON AND EVENING

Mrs. J. E. Gustus (Convenor)

(1) Urged that parents love other children as well as their own and that all true citizens interest themselves in conserving the life of the child.

(2) Scientists are urging for an increased birth rate but the first question should be to conserve the life we already have.

Dr. Mahood on "Babies' Rights"

(1) The child has a right to everything necessary to develop it into full manhood or womanhood and the state is charged with the duty of securing these rights.

(2) The decline in the population is due to a great extent to the prevalence of venereal disease.

(3) The baby should be nourished in Nature's own way—by the mother. This results in an all round growth and prevention of diseases.

Rev. A. D. McDonald, of the Children's Aid Society

(1) Laid stress on the development of the soul of the child as well as his body. Foster parents are required to be professors of Christianity.

(2) Conservation of life is more necessary than its regulation. His idea is that birth control is a fad.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON AND EVENING

Dr. Jamieson on "Infectious Diseases of Children"

(1) Provincial government labors to conserve natural resources, so-called, but has failed to put forth efforts to conserve the health of people. Disease is rampant in Alberta, especially tuberculosis. Measles carries off vast numbers of our babies. More deaths have occurred in Canada from preventable diseases during the war period than by our forces on the battlefield.

(2) Men have failed to make adequate provision for the protection of the lives of the people, the women must not fail in this essential duty.

Dr. Hays on "Milk, Its Value as a Food"

(1) Only certified milk should be given to the baby, as not one death had been reported where this grade of milk had been used. Calgary and Edmonton obtain certified milk cheaper than any other city in United States or Canada.

(2) Scored women for thinking of introducing oleomargine into Canada to take place of butter. Although so much like butter in appearance that only an expert can detect difference its food value is very small, the highest grades only containing 10 per cent. of the fat that butter possesses. It is manufactured from lards, tallows and cottonseed oil, the latter usually amounting to 48 per cent., which alone condemns it.

Regent Theater

(1) Films were shown in which the value of physical exercise as obtained through recreative work, was demonstrated.

(2) The need of proper treatment for tuberculosis was illustrated by showing what disastrous results carelessness brings.

Mr. C. C. Thom, M.Sc., on "Care of Milk in the Home"

(1) Emphasized the necessity of pure milk for babies and of a special medical commission to pass upon and certify to the purity and sanitary condition of the milk sold as certified milk.

(2) Depicted through excellent slides a simple milk refrigerator that operates without ice and is so cheap as to be within everyone's reach.

Dr. Stockton on "Infant Mortality"

(1) Urged hospital accommodation for babies.

(2) Standardization of pure milk was emphasized.

(3) Showed how necessary it is to enforce more rigid quarantine laws.

(4) Wants the extension of the campaign of education to take in parents, and all relations, school girls and, most of all, the city council.

(5) Compel the registration of births immediately by the doctor, as in this way only can the child welfare nurse find out where there is a baby to save.

Dates For Chautaugua Now All Settled

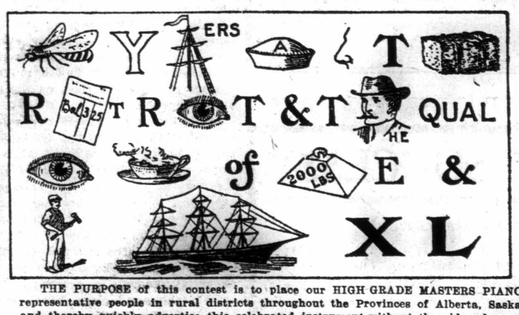
Meeting Will Begin of August 8 and Run For a Week

The dates for the Calgary Chautauqua have been finally settled as August 3, 4, ..., 7, 8 and 9, and it is expected that the series of lectures and entertainments will prove an immense success.

The Chautauqua movement has grown in 30 years from one assembly to over 5,000 assemblies on this continent. It brings the world's greatest scientists, authors, lectures, statesmen, musicians and entertainers to the different assemlies, and it is called a sort if twentieth century fair which features intellect, oratory, art, music and entertainment rather than prize pigs. The Chautauqua is an international movement toward world democracy, expressed in the fellowship of mutual service, emulating the highest aspirations of mankind in every avenue of progressive endeavor.

Among those who have fostered the movement in Calgary and undertaken the obligations which go with it are some of the most public-spirited people in the city, and they are looking forward to the affair being received with great enthusiasm by the general public.

SMITH'S
PLEATING and BUTTON WORKS
606A First St. W., Calgary
Phone M3464
Hemstitching Hemming Picot Edging Button Holes Made Chain Stitching
We are specialists in our line, and can turn out your work quickly and well. All Work Guaranteed.
Local Manager: F. O. Barnard



Grocery Values
Farmers, Ranchers, etc., within 175 miles, write for our Grocery Catalogue. Enormous stocks and rapid turnover guarantee you greater variety and freshness of supplies.
Free Freight to Your Nearest Station
S. G. FREEZE
P.O. BOX 449 CALGARY

The Elbow Shop
SHOE REPAIRING
An Expert Shoemaker at Your Service. "Quality and Satisfaction." our motto.
1120A FIRST ST. WEST

Calgary Silverplating Works
We Silver and Nickel-plate any Metal Article. We are the only Electro Platers between Winnipeg and Vancouver
710 Second Street W. Phone M5277

The Mineral Oil Treatment For CONSTIPATION
Was First Advocated by a Famous English Surgeon and Now by Eminent Physicians Everywhere
Mineral Oil is an excellent lubricant for the intestinal tract. In other words, it acts as a substitute for the mucous which exhausted nature failed to supply. It relieves constipation in a natural way and its use for a limited time will overcome the trouble permanently.
OUR MINERAL OIL
bottled by a leading pharmaceutical house, is a colorless, odorless and tasteless preparation. It is slow but sure in action and leaves no bad after effects. We consider this oil equal to the famous Russian Mineral Oils which are not now available.
Price: 75c and $1.00 per Bottle
MACLEAN'S DRUG STORE
Maclean Block, 109 Eighth Ave. East Phone M6150
CALGARY, ALBERTA

$65.00 Phonola Given Away FREE

INVESTIGATE!
It's Worth While.
Open to Readers of This Paper.

THE PURPOSE of this contest is to place our HIGH GRADE MASTERS PIANO in the homes of a number of representative people in rural districts throughout the Provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia, and thereby quickly advertise this celebrated instrument without the aid and usual custom of salesmen and newspaper publicity. To this end we have made arrangements for a large advertising fund, to be distributed among those who answer this ad., in the following manner:

To the first five persons who send in the correct solution of the above rebus, we will issue a credit check for $250, good to apply as a cash payment on any NEW MASTERS PIANO to be selected from our stock in Edmonton, or from our branch store, THE ALBERTA PIANO CO., 130 Eighth Avenue, West, Calgary, and at the regular marked selling price. To the next ten persons we will issue a credit check for $225. The next ten following will receive a credit check for $205, and the next person who sends in the correct solution, whose number will be twenty-six, will receive the GRAND PRIZE, A CABINET PHONOLA, VALUE $65, ABSOLUTELY FREE, and also a credit check for $200, good to apply on any new Masters Piano as specified above. Following these, every person whose reply is correct will receive a credit check for $125.

All these credit checks are good only to apply on the purchase of a new Masters or Player Piano to be selected from our stock.

A record will bekept, and all replies will be numbered in the order in whih they are received. If two or more replies are received at the same time, they will be numbered as the envelopes are opened.

Only one reply will be permitted from any one person or family. Any violation of this clause will forfeit the right to compete. Read conditions carefully, be sure your reading of the rebus is correct, write your name plainly, and enclose it in an envelope addressed to THE MASTERS PIANO CO., 10524 Jasper Ave., Edmonton, Alta., with Department "A" written in one corner of the envelope, and mail or bring it to our store at once. REMEMBER THOSE RECEIVED FIRST WILL GET THE LARGEST CHECKS, and those received later will stand a chance to win the Phonograph. No one in any way connected with The Masters Piano Co. will be permitted to take part in the contest, and the awards as placed by the judges will be final. ALL REPLIES MUST BE MAILED NOT LATER THAN MAY 15th, 1917.

The Masters Piano is guaranteed to be one of the finest instruments manufactured today, and the Masters Piano Co. is noted for selling pianos upon the uniform one-price plan. Therefore prize winners have the assurance of a bona-fide reduction to the amount of their credit check, on any piano they may select. As to our reliability, we refer to the Edmonton branch of The Royal Bank of Canada or the Bank of Montreal. SEND IN YOUR REPLY TODAY. Write your name and adress plainly.

The Masters Piano Co.
10524 JASPER AVE. - EDMONTON, ALTA.

EXTRAORDINARY OFFER

New York Dress Shop

MRS. BRENNAND has just received a large shipment of Ladies' Dresses and Coats, direct from New York, in all the latest fashions.

This stock of goods was purchased at greatly reduced prices, and cannot be duplicated elsewhere at more than twice the prices asked.

The material in these fabrics is all of the best quality money can buy.

Before you purchase elsewhere, we ask you to make us a visit and see the real values we are offering the public.

All Sizes Carried in Stock, ranging from 34 to 44

210 8th Avenue East Phone M5187

BEST WORK
BEST SERVICE
BEST PRICES

PRINTING

Send for Samples

A. R. LITTLEBURY
105 6th. AVE., W.
CALGARY

SUCCESS! SUCCESS!!

Nothing Succeeds Like It

Coupland School, after patient years of quiet endeavor, has now nearly all the students it can take. The wonderful success of our champion, Miss May Knights, is turning attention to the fact that we do what we say—teach well in three to four months—how thoroughly you may judge by our successful students. When there is anything doing our students get the preference. If you want to attend, get your name down.

COUPLAND (Pioneer)
BUSINESS COLLEGE
109 FOURTEENTH AVE. W. PHONE M1202

In the Protection of Child Life a PURE MILK SUPPLY
Is Most Essential

We would be pleased if every mother in Calgary would investigate our methods of handling milk and the source of our suply.

Carlyle Dairy Co.
Phone M4686

FARM LANDS

Before buying, investigate our lists. We specialize in Farm Lands, both mixed and wheat growing. Call and see us.

Arthur J. Gehm & Co.
Phone West 4738 134 9th Ave. West

Patriotism by Production on Indian Reserves

(By MAX McD.)

It would require all the full grown Indian horses in Canada, harnessed in spans to as many stout wagons bearing two tons each and making one trip a day for a whole week to haul to market the grain, roots and fodder produced on Indian reserves last year; and 4,000 cars and 100 locomotives would be nearer for railway transportation. To have grown one million and one-third bushels of grain, and 135,000 tons of roots and fodder, besides raising live-stock and poultry to the value of more than $4,00,000, is no small accomplishment for the aborigines of Canada, and, if repeated this year, the Patriotism and Production movement will receive quite material help. "Back to the Land" has become the trumpet call of Indian Agents from coast to coast, and 1915 will undoubtedly see a large increase in acreage and a larger number of Indians engaged in agriculture and the raising of live-stock. Notwithstanding the unfavorable conditions in nearly every district of Canada last year, there was an increase of nearly half a million bushels of grain and roots on the Indian reserves.

In Saskatchewan nearly two acres of reserve land per capita of Indian population is producing crop. Alberta shows considerably over one acre, and Manitoba slightly under one acre per capita. While Ontario has more than one half and British Columbia less than one-half an acre, Quebec and the Maratime provinces fall considerably under a quarter of an acre per capita of aboriginal population growing grain.

Saskatchewan Indians have some 18,000 acres under tillage, and the average yield in late years may be regarded as indicating the correctness of the methods of cultivation adopted by the Red Men. On the Muskeg Lake Reserve an average yield of 21 bushels of wheat and 32 bushels of oats per acre was recorded last year. George Greyeyes, an individual Indian on this reserve, had 2,200 bushels of wheat, 2,500 bushels of oats, and 200 bushels of barley. Four other Indians of this band and six members of Ahtahkakoop's band each raised between 1,000 and 2,000 bushels of cerals. On Onion Lake Reserve farming is increasing steadily, last season's crop of oats amounting to nearly 10,000 bushels, just twice that of the year before.

On the reserves of Southern Saskatchewan there has been a marked change in the style of farming in late years, and many Indians have become well-to-do farmers who depend entirely on themselves for everything. It is not uncommon to see South Saskatchewan Indians producing from 6,000 to 8,000 bushels of grain on their individual farms. In this district, as in others, there are the usual careless farmers whose work is not well done and the contrast in production is very apparent.

In the File Hills Ex-pupil Colony, 33 farmers, last year, grew 97,209 bushels of grain, mostly oats. This community was started in 1902, and today the Indians are taking their places beside the white farmers of the province in methods of farming and yields of grain. In a report of the work of this colony, the inspector of Indian Agencies quotes a few cases of individual prosperity that prove beyond a doubt that these Indians are holding their own, and in some cases surpassing their white neighbors in the production movement.

Joseph Ironquil has been farming eight years, and last year his crop totalled 9,578 bushels of good grain. He had 235 acres in crop, broke 40 acres and summer fallowed 37, making a total of 312 acres under cultivation. When the inspector wrote Ironquil had shipped three cars of grain and had returns amounting to $1,547. In addition to this he had sold a good deal of grain by the load. He is well equipped with machinery, is out of debt, and has a private bank account.

John Bellegrade grew nearly 10,000 bushels last year. He has 280 acres under cultivation, and his farm is well stocked with horses, cattle, pigs, poultry, etc. Fred. Deiter had 6,388 bushels of grain on 200 acres and fallowed 100 acres besides. Francis Dumont harvested 6,776 bushels from 140 acres and summer fallowed 75 acres. Thomas had 4,201 bushels; Stonechild, 5,738; Pinay, 3,232; Moise Bellegarde, 3,385; McKay, 3,552; and Fisher 3,461 bushels each.

The Indians of Saskatchewan produced 315,000 bushels of oats last year.

Alberta is next to Saskatchewan in the list of production per capita of population with a cultivated area of reserve land totalling 8,000 acres. Nearly 5,000 of this is on the Blood Reserve in the southern part of the province, where more than half the industrial population is engaged in grain growing. This is the largest reserve in Canada both in the matter of population and extent of territory. These Indians own 75 plows, 25 seed drills, 100 mowers, 15 binders ,100 horse rakes, 350 wagons, and more than 2,000 other implements. Farming was inaugurated in 1907, when, out of tribal funds, the band bought a 32-horse-power traction engine and 10 furrow gang plow. The engine is used for plowing only, all other work being done by Indians with horses.

In 1908, Emile Bull Shield raised 2,300 bushels of wheat on 60 acres of breaking. Chief Running Antelope, from 80 acres, had a cash balance after all expenses were paid of $1,310. Bull Shield had $1,204 and Tallow $1,200. There is a healthy tendency now to increase the farming area, and if the present rate of progress is kept up, a few years hence the younger Blood Indians will be one large farming community each with a comfortable home and good outbuildings.

On the Peigan Reserve, which lies between Macleod and Pincher Creek on the Crow's Nest branch of the C. P. R., there are 80 individual farmers with about 2,500 acres under cultivation. The Indians of this agency did little farming previous to the season of 1910 when $30,000 was expended out of funds received from the sale of lands, for farming equipment. Plowing done with a steam plow, and from 40 to 80 acres constitute a farm. The value of the farm products of the Peigans last year was approximately $10,000. The number of able-bodied men on this reserve is about 100.

The Blackfeet Indians near Gleichen were the last of the Alberta Indians to farm on any extensive scale. Their first crop was harvested in 1913, when 60,000 bushels was threshed from 973 acres, the wheat averaging 31 bushels to the acre. Seventy-five Indians are located with their families on quarter-sections on which frame cottages and stables have been erected. In 1914 these Blackfeet had over 1,500 acres of wheat besides a considerable area of oats. The sale of grain and hay products in 1914 netted the farmers over $40,000.

Manitoba, with 13,636 Indians and 9,000 acres of reservation cultivated, grew last year 108,000 bushels of grain, a little under one acre per capita. On the Griswold Reserve, 21,780 bushels of wheat was grown on 2,018 acres. Birtle had 6,000 bushels of wheat and 40,000 of oats, and Portage la Prairie 10,000 of wheat and 10,000 of oats.

There are 2,000 Indian farmers in Ontario out of an Indian population of 26,419, about 5,000 of whom are industrially inclined. A total of 354,600 bushels of grain was harvested, 60,000 of which was Indian corn, and 1,400 beans. Ontario Indians are the only ones in Canada growing beans to any extent.

On nearly all Ontario reserves, general farming is the main occupation of those Indians that stay on the reserves, but the Six Nations lead with 6,360 acres under cultivation, and a crop last year valued at $109,000. This tribe had 27,690 bushels of wheat, 108,630 bushels of oats, 11,000 of barley, 15,000 of corn, and 138 of peas. The Caradoc Indians had 2,043 bushels of wheat, 26,354 of oats, 19,000 of corn, besides smaller quantities of other grains. The Manitowanings had 3,970 of wheat; the New Credits 2,500; the Chapleau and Walpole Indians each 2,000, and Sarnia, Rice Lake each 1,000 bushels of wheat. The Tyendinaga's had 15,000 bushels of oats; the Manitowanings had 12,000 bushels, and the New Credits, 10,000. Ontario grew all told 219,000 bushels of oats.

British Columbia has never been regarded as an agricultural province, and it is hardly just to ask the Indians on the reserves of rough and mountainous districts to produce grain on a scale commensurate with their brothers in the prairie provinces. Notwithstanding this we find the Indian Reserves of British Columbia using just a little less than half an acre per capita of Indian population for growing grain. In production of wheat last year British Columbia equalled Ontario, but in other grains the Indians on the Pacific coast fell short. The Okanagan Reserve had 70,000 bushels of grain on 3,000 acres; Kamloops had 65,000 bushels on 1,300 acres; while Kootenai, Lytton, and New Westminster, all had around 25,000 bushels. Some 2,400 Indians in British Columbia are engaged in farming.

Quebec Indians are not large growers of grain having only about 4,000 acres under cultivation for both grain and roots. The total grain crop does not exceed 57,000 bushels, 40,000 of which is oats, and only 3,000 wheat. St. Regis Reserve is the only reserve producing wheat. This reserve and Caughnowaga each grew 10,000 bushels of oats. Indians of the Maratime provinces are farming hardly 1,000 acres of reserve and are growing mostly oats for their own use.

This is a splendid showing for the Indians of Canada, and is a marked illustration of how to be a patriot by production of grain. Only 67,366 acres of the 4,894,065 set apart for Indian use is under cultivation. The possibilities of the Red Men supplying a large proportion of the horse feed and food cereals for the empire in the present crisis are very great and will doubtless be strongly emphasized by agents and others in authority.

THE C. P. R. GIVES YOU TWENTY YEARS TO PAY

An immense area of the most fertile land in Western Canada for sale at low prices and easy terms ranging from $11 to $30 for farm lands with ample rainfall—irrigated lands up to $50. One-tenth down, balance if you wish within twenty years. In certain areas, land for sale without settlement conditions. In irrigation districts, loan for farm buildings, etc. up to $2000, also repayable in twenty years—interest only 6 per cent. Here is your opportunity to increase your farm holdings by getting adjoining land, or to secure your friends as neighbors. For literature and particulars apply to Allan Cameron, General Superintendent of Lands, Department of Natural Resources, 925 First Street East, Calgary, Alta.

Rheumatism Conquered at Last!

MONEY-BACK COUPON
WITH EACH BOTTLE

CALKINS' RHEUMATISM CURE

A Wonderful Remedy for Any Blood Disease

Drives out Poisons through the Urine, Bowels, Lungs and Pores of the body. Soothes the nerves, and is a heart sedative. Heals the mucous membrane linings of the body, corrects bronchial affections, so that the lungs can help in throwing off the poisons.

Money Returned if Results are Not Satisfactory

Send for Testimonials of Prominent People

Sent by Mail or Express only, charges prepaid, on receipt of price

$2.00

H. M. Calkins & Co., 7 Bruce Ave.,
Windsor, Ontario, Canada

To Physicians—You are urged to try this in cases of Rheumatism. You will not be disappointed. Will gladly answer any questions as to the effects of the 12 ingredients. CALKINS & CO.

When Buying Liquor---

In sealed bottles in cases, you pay one-third more than in draught and the quality no better, very often the strength is much less.

Why one-third more? Because you pay for the bottle, duty and transprtation on same, labor and other expenses bottling.

We recommend our draught goods and guarantee their purity.

WE ARE DIRECT IMPORTERS
PRICES ON APPLICATION

Revelstoke Wine and Spirit Co. Ltd.
REVELSTOKE, B. C.

The Nat Bell Liquors Ltd.

Box 304, Saskatoon, Sask.

The Reliable Mail Order House

Mail Us Your Orders Direct

You know our Service. You know the High Standard we set for Quality.

You know our Draught Whiskies is the pure unadulterated product of the best distillers.

Why experiment with other houses.

A card will bring our price list

THE NAT BELL LIQUORS LTD.

Saskatoon, Sask.

Ales, Wines, Stouts, Spirits
—BY MAIL ORDER—

A Comparison of Our Quality and Prices Will Convince You that "IT PAYS TO TRADE WITH US."

	Bottle	Case	Gallon
BRANDIES
Mortell or Hennessy, X	2.00	22.00	....
Martell or Hennessy, XXX	2.25	25.00	....
Ducourt, XXX	1.75	18.00	....
Ducourt, bulk	....	.....	6.75
Brandy, in wood, proof	....	.....	8.75
Brandy in wood, 15 underproof	....	.....	7.50
NORWEGIAN AND DANISH SPIRITS
Loiten's Aquavit	1.25	13.50	....
Loiten's Arac Punsch	1.50	15.00	....
Danish Aquavit	1.15	12.50	....
Danish Arac Punsch	1.25	13.50	....
GIN
Gold Cross Geneva Red	1.35	18.50	....
Gold Cross Geneva Green	1.10	12.00	....
De Kuyper's Geneva Red	1.65	22.50	6.25
Coates' Plymouth; Boord's Old Tom; Wolf's Schnapps; Bol's Liquer; Parrott Brand; Ross' Irish Sloe Gin	1.50	16.50	....
Booth's Old Tom	....	.....	6.75
Williamson's Old Tom	....	.....	4.25
RUM
E. & J. Burk's Jamaica	1.40	15.00	....
Thom & Cameron's Jamaica	1.40	14.50	7.00
Thom & Cameron's Demarar	1.30	14.00	6.50
Demerara, proof strength	....	.....	7.50
Demerar, 34 overproof	....	.....	9.00
WHISKIES
Cedar Brook, eight summers old..Bourbon	1.50	16.50	7.50
E. & J. Burke's .....XXX Irish	1.50	16.50	....
Mitchell's, Bulk ..... "	....	.....	7.50
J. Callaghan & Son's, imperial quarts. "	1.75	20.00	6.75
Gooderham & Worts' special .....Rye	1.25	13.50	5.25
Walker's Imperial; Seagram's 83; B. C. Special .....Rye	1.10	12.00	....
Golden West Imperial Quarts ..... "	1.15	12.50	....
Goderham & Worts' ..... "	....	.....	4.50
Walker's Canadian Club..... "	....	.....	6.00
Walker's Imperial ..... "	....	.....	5.00
B. C. Rye ..... "	....	.....	4.25
Mount Vernon .....American Rye	1.75	19.50	....
Old Kentucky ..... " "	1.35	15.00	....
Johnnie Walker, Black Label.....Scotch	2.00	23.00	....
Johnnie Walker, Red Label ..... "	1.85	21.00	....
Johnnie Walker, White Label ..... "	1.65	18.00	....
White & Mackay's Special ..... "	1.65	18.00	....
Dewar's Special ..... "	1.50	16.50	....
Teacher's Highland Cream ..... "	1.75	18.50	....
Buchanan's Black and White ..... "	1.75	19.50	....
Macdonald's Special Reserve, qts... "	1.25	13.50	7.50
Teacher's Highland Cream, 15 u.p... "	....	.....	8.50
Greenlees' Extra Special ..... "	....	.....	9.00
Kilmarnock, 15 u.p. ..... "	....	.....	9.00

Cost of Packing, Jars and War Tax Included

PITHER & LEISER, LIMITED
(Owned and controlled by British Capital)
LLOYDMINSTER, SASK.
VICTORIA, B. C.

FARMING AND MARKETS

VALUE OF AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION

The following table shows a comparison of the agricultural production for recent years. The figures are those given by the government and are as near official as possible:

Year	Wheat	Oats	Barley	Rye	Flax	Buck-wheat	Corn
1910-13*	$ .66	$ .34	$ .47	$ .71	$1.11	$ .62	$ .62
1915	.83	.34	.82	1.11	2.05	1.07	1.07
1914	1.22	.48	.60	.83	1.03	.72	.71
1916	1.31	.53	.49	.79	1.50	.75	.71

* Average.

WINNIPEG LETTER

(Thompson, Son & Company)

This year, owing to the British government's buying, it has made one leading buyer who is not offering the wheat back in the pit again. This, of itself might not have been a cause to make much trouble, but to fill sales for May delivery it requires to be contract wheat, which in the Winnipeg market is No. 1, 2 and 3 Nor. Those who have this year hedged on a large scale, however, are said to have sold May delivery against large quantities of lower grade wheat, which cannot be delivered as contract. While there is plenty of wheat, there is only a moderate percentage of contract grade, and so in approaching the time of May delivery, those that have sold and do not have the required kind of wheat to cover the contracts. Then at the beginning of last week, and for some days afterwards, sensational statements (well enough meant—no doubt), were given out by persons in prominent places, about the world facing a food shortage, and that the crop outlook in America was the worst in history. These statements went the round of the newspapers and started a hysterical buying of food in the United States, especially flour, nearly everybody buying and hoarding for future use in fear of higher prices and scarcity. Hotels, boarding houses and householders mobbed the flour dealers with their big orders for flour. This forced the millers to keep in the heat at the advancing prices, and that just added strength to further advance, and the various markets, as they always do, acted and reacted on each other, carrying the advances higher. In the Winnipeg market, this continued advancing of several cents every day, was becoming a serious matter, because those who had sold May wheat, had every day to hand to the clearing house, at the close of the market cheque for the amount of the advance per bushel from the previous day, on the aggregate number of bushels of their sales. As some large companies may easily have from one to five million bushels hedged, very large drafts on their bankers had to be made to meet the clearing house, and save themselves from default This caused nervousness among the bankers interested, because, besides the actual amounts already advanced, no one could tell how much more cash might be required, if the advance in prices continued. Evidently the parties thus affected could not stand the nervous strain prices much longer, and on Saturday the Council of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange took the matter up, and decided that no purely speculative trades would be permitted to be made on the trading floor and be taken by the clearing house, but only such as were connected with the trading in cash grain. A committee was appointed consisting of the secretary of the Grain Exchange, the manager of the clearing house, and a member of the floor committee, to censor all orders to buy or sell grain for future delivery. This committee is working very satisfactorily, and the effect is that so long as the present regulation continues no new speculative trade will be allowed. The action of our Winnipeg exchange has caused all markets to slow up and has led to a sharp drop in prices today, although this was greatly helped by a report of probable new peace proposals from Germany; also a report that the United States would appoint a National Food Dictator. Lake navigation at head of the lakes opened yesterday, the weather over the winter wheat country is more favorable, and spring wheat seeding is progressing, although backward. All these things decline from the high points reached by which in the last week, and now that it has started the price may decline much further, until it reaches a level at which it will be a good purchase again, The drop from highest point reached on the 28th ulto. to the closing price today is 32c per bushel.

The action of our Winnipeg Exchange in stopping all speculative trading on the floor has quietened down trade all round, and the demand for cash wheat is light, but as lake navigation opened yesterday at Fort William, there will be something doing as soon as a number of boats get through. Today's prices are 1 nor. 255⅝c, 2 nor. 251c, 3 nor. 246c. No quotations on Nos. 4 and 5, No. 6 174c. Futures closed May 254c, July 239⅜c, October 184c.

Oats—The oat market has been with the decline in wheat, and closed at 1c to 1½c under a week ago. Today's prices are 2 C.W. 70⅞c, 3 C.W. and extra 1 feed 70⅛c, 1 feed 68⅝c. Futures closed May 70⅛c, July 67c, October 59c.

Barley—Barley is irregular, top grades 4c higher, lower grades unchanged on the week. No. 3 122c, No. 4 113c, rejected and feed 100c. The May future closed 122c.

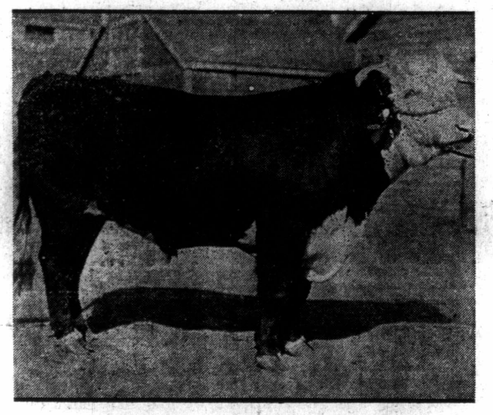
Flax—The flax market has been firm with prices irregular but steadier today. 1 N.W. 300c 2 C.W. 296¾c, 3 C.W. and rejected 284c. May and July both 300c.

All prices quoted above are based on delivery in store Fort William and Port Arthur.

Many a man's idea of comfortable clothing is the kind his wife won't let him wear.

GRAIN PRICES

WHEAT AT $3.14 IS THE HIGHEST PRICE IN HISTORY



Will wonders ever cease? Wheat at $3.14 cents a bushel and the top notch prices still a question of time. A strong demand is noticeable throughout the states for wheat for immediate delivery and there is every indication that prices will rise still further as the demand grows greater. Likewise corn and other products are going up with wheat with no possibility of any immediate relief on the supply.

Grain Prices, Winnipeg

	Weds.	Thurs.
Spring Wheat—
1 northern	282¼	295¾
2 northern	277½	291
3 northern	273½	286
No. 4	240	264
No. 5	208	208
No. 6	175	175
Feed	137	137
Oats—
2 C.W.	72¾	78
3 C.W.	71¾	77
Extra 1 Feed	71¾	77
No. 1 Feed	70¼	75
Flax—
1 N. W. C.	305¼	312½
2 N. W. C.	311¼	309

WINNIPEG OPTIONS

	Open	Close
Wheat—
May	280	294
July	255½	266
September	—	—
October	191	194½
Oats—
May	72½	77
July	69⅝	69¾
September	60	60
Flax—
May	305	—
July	306	—

ANOTHER PRIZE WINNER AT SPRING SHOW
Example of Alberta Bred Livestock that took blue ribbons at the recent show.

LIVESTOCK

PRICES AT STOCKYARDS STILL GOING UP

The reports from the stockyards indicate that the high water mark in prices have not been reached. Prices continue to hold their on with a leaning to an upward tendency. The majority of the shipments are light weight and will probably increase as the demand becomes greater.

Steers—
Extra exports	$10.25 to 11.00
Fat, good to choice but.	9.25 to 10.00
Com. to medium butcher	8.50 to 9.25
Heifers—
Com. to choice heavy but.	8.25 to 9.00
Cows—
Choice	7.50 to 8.00
Common	6.75 to 6.75
Canners cows and oxen	3.75 to 4.25
Fat oxen	6.75 to 7.25
Thin and fair oxen	5.00
Veal calves—
150-250 lbs.	8.75 to 9.25
Over 450 lbs.	8.00 to 8.75
Stocker, 2-year-olds	7.50 to 7.75
Light feeding steers	7.75 to 8.25
Stags	6.75 to 7.00
Springers, choice	95.00 to 100.00
Springers, common	55.00 to 75.00
Fat bulls	7.00 to 7.50
Sheep—
Good wethers	10.25 to 10.75
Ewes	9.50 to 10.50
Lambs, choice fat	13.00 to 13.50
Hogs—
Selects, weighed off cars	15.75

TORONTO LIVESTOCK PRICES

Toronto, May 3.—Receipts at the Union stockyards today were 244 cattle, 183 calves, 2,875 hogs and 34 sheep and lambs.

Trade was fairly active and a good steady market at this week's prices Receipts moderately light and everything cleaned up. Hogs firm; stockers and feeders firm, with a good demand for grass cows. Milkers and springers firm. Sheep and lambs firm. Calves a little slower and easier.

Chicago, May 3.—Hogs—Receipts, 22,000; weak. Bulk, $15.65 to $15.95; light, $14.80 to $15.85; mixed, $15.35 to $15.30; heavy, $15.30 to $16.00; rough, $15.30 to $15.50; pigs, $10.00 to $13.90.

Cattle—Receipts, 6,000; steady. Native beef cattle, $8.90 to $10.40; stockers and feeders, $7.50 to $9.90; cows and heifers, $6.25 to $11.50; calves, $8.50 to $13.00.

Sheep—Receipts, 10,000; strong. Wethers, $11.15 to $13.65; ewes, $10.40 to $13.65; lambs, $13.25 to $17.65.

FINANCE

METAL MARKET SHOWS WAVERING TENDENCY

New York, May 3.—Copper unsettled; electrolytic, spot and second quarter, $30 to $31, nominal; later deliveries, $26 to $30.

Iron firm and unchanged. Metal exchange quotes tin steady; spot, $58.25 to $59.

At London: Spot copper, £130; futures, £129 10s; electrolytic, £142; spot tin, £229 10s; futures, £230 5s.

BANK CLEARINGS FOR PAST WEEK SHOW INCREASE

Bank statements show a steady increase in business generally. The bank clearings are materially advanced over the previous week of last year:

	Week ending May 3, 1917	Corresponding week last year
Montreal	$96,360,501	$78,489,695
Toronto	63,528,536	55,697,519
Winnipeg	100,640,605	39,144,365
Vancouver	8,004,440	6,110,271
Calgary	7,032,940	4,000,372
Ottawa	6,666,546	5,677,374
Hamilton	4,961,184	4,338,640
Quebec	4,647,140	4,176,318
Edmonton	2,613,848	2,352,014
Halifax	2,816,810	2,509,402
London	2,533,999	2,103,132
Regina	2,830,905	2,092,548
St. John	—	1,962,110
Victoria	1,737,417	1,439,200
Saskatoon	1,345,605	1,242,922
Moose Jaw	1,846,423	1,068,545
Brandon	649,455	535,077
Fort William	607,473	520,726
Lethbridge	900,042	532,511
Medicine Hat	642,508	411,680
New Westmnstr	—	308,773

STATEMENT OF THE BANK OF ENGLAND

London, May 3.—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes:

Total reserve, decreased	£795,000
Circulation, increased	622,000
Bullion, decreased	172,384
Other securities, decreased	343,000
Public deposits, decreased.	5,223,000
Notes reserve, decreased	843,000
Government securities, increased	7,553,000

Proportion of the bank's reserve to liabilities this week is 19.69 per cent.; last week it was 20.90 per cent. Rates of discount, 5 per cent.

STATEMENT OF THE BANK OF FRANCE

Paris, May 3.—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes:

Gold in hand, increased	9,267,000
Silver in hand, increased	139,000
Notes in circulation, increased	173,535,000
Treasury deposits, decreased	51,474,000
General deposits, decreased	53,309,000
Bills discounted, increased	144,248,000
Advances, decreased	27,163,000

INSURANCE
ST. PAUL MUTUAL HAIL & CYCLONE INSURANCE COMPANY
CALGARY . . . . ALTA.
Before buying Hail Insurance, we invite you to call and Inspect Our Policies.

McKelvie & Stirrett Co. Ltd.
General Brokers and Commission Agents.
Bain Building, 11th Avenue West
Phone W1736
By using "Our Best" Flour and our other brands of goods, you will reduce the high cost of living.

BARGAINS IN Cream Separators
H. L. ROGERS
301A 7th Ave. W. Phone M3022

LASHER & GILLILAN LIMITED
Farm and Ranch Lands
Head Office: 809 Center Street
Phone M2996
Calgary, Three Hills, Youngstown, Alberta

LAND BUYERS
Let Us Help You in the Selection of Your Alberta Farm
We were Pioneer Farmers in the States, and we have developed thousands of acres of Alberta's best Wheat Lands.
We have located a large number of Land Seekers during the many years we have been in business in Calgary, and it is a source of satisfaction to us to know that every settler who has followed our advice is making good.
Exclusively Farm Lands
Valuators and Developers
GILBERT BROS., LIMITED
613 Grain Exchange Building
Calgary, Alberta

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be, a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A settler after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot secure a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agent's Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

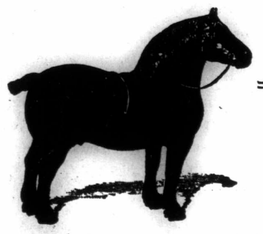
W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N. B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.

CROSSLAND & BEALE
Decorators
Wall Paper, Sanitas, Burlaps, Mouldings, Paints, Oils, Stains, Varnishes and Brushes
714 SECOND STREET EAST
Phone M4344 City Hall Corner

FURRIER
THOS. PAIN
Manufacturing Furrier
Successor to Mackay & Dipple Fur Manufacturing Department
218A Eighth Ave. West. Phone M3806
Furs Remodeled and Reparied. Your Own Skins Dressed and Made Up. Highest Prices Paid for Raw Furs.

Order Your Help from
J. R. ROBERTS Employment Office
108a Ninth Avenue West
Phone M5881 Calgary, Alta.



O. Hanson & Co.
EMPLOYMENT AGENCY
Head Office:
813A Centre St., Calgary, Alta.
P. O. Box 1346 Phone M2963
We make a specialty in furnishing Labor for Railroad Contractors and Companies. All kinds of help Furnished on Short Notice.
For Quick, Reliable and Satisfactory Service, See Us.
C. P. R. Labor Agents.

MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT
The old reliable remedy for rheumatism, neuralgia, sore throat and sprains.
Best Liniment Made
MR. A. E. LAUNDRY, EDMONTON, writes:—"I fell from a building and received what the doctor called a very bad sprained ankle, and told me I must not walk on it for three weeks. I got MINARD'S LINIMENT and in six days I was out to work again. I think it the best Liniment made."

Minard's Liniment always gives satisfaction. For any ache or pain. It gives instant relief.
Minard's Liniment Co., Limited
Yarmouth, - - N.S.

"A TRUST COMPANY" is the trusted and confidential agent in all forms of business and relations of life, where the individual cannot or does not wish to act for himself.

The Northern Trusts Company
Offers its services in the management of properties for absent owners, acts as Trustee, Executor, Administrator, Guardian and Assignee.
Money invested for Clients on "Guaranteed Trust Investment Plan" insures absolute safety at a satisfactory rate of interest.
Money to loan at current rates on improved security.
Head Office Winnipeg, Man. Capital Paid Up $1,500,000
Alberta Branch Office: Canada Life Building, Calgary
J. S. McMURCHY,
Branch Manager

LAYZELL & PARR
Desire to announce that they have a Large Shipment of Two to Six-Year-Old
PERCHERONS, BELGIANS, CLYDES
Every Farmer and Rancher should be interested in this great collection of Registered, Imported and Canadian Bred Stock. Besides this, we have horses of all kinds, ready for work.
ALL HORSES SOLD WITH FULL GURANTEE
If you want a stud, write us. Terms to suit responsible parties.
Calgary Address: 520 Center Street
Telegraph Address: Horses, Calgary
Phone M2260
References: Union Bank of Canada

High Class American Dentistry
Expression 20th Century Plates that Fit
Cute-Rate Prices. 10-Year Guarantee.
The Greatest Scientific Painless Methods Used.
Office Hours: 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Daily; 7 to 9 p.m. Evenings
Thousands of Pleased Patients
Gold Crowns and Bridge Work a Specialty
DR. P. C. BRUNER | DR. W. B. REEVE
Graduates from Chicago, Detroit and Philadelphia Colleges
Phone M1051
Calgary Office: Eighth Avenue East, Next to Allen Theatre
Edmonton Office: Crystall Block, Jasper Avenue

SPRING and SUMMER SUITS
Made to Your Order, From $25 to $40
300 Patterns From Which to Make Your Selection.
A. S. Nimmo
MADE TO MEASURE CLOTHES FOR MEN
ALBERTA CORNER 1st. ST. WEST CALGARY.

IMPERIAL HOTEL
DANIEL F. WHITNEY, Prop.
Second Street East and Ninth Avenue
FAMILY HOTEL
Buffet in Connection
Large, Light, Airy Rooms
Rates Reasonable
Music Afternoon and Evening

A GENUINE FARMER'S MARKET
A Public Market owned and operated by the City of Calgary in the interests of the producer and consumer.
Farmers living at a distance and unable to attend the Market in person can forward their produce direct to the Superintendent and have same sold through a bonded agent with prompt returns.
For further particulars phone or write
SUPERINTENDENT,
Calgary Public Market

HAY'S MILK
THE BABY'S :: FRIEND ::
Milk from clean, heathy, contented cows, properly handled, is safe for infants, and is a wholesome, economical food for older children.
Nowhere in Western Canada is Milk produced under more sanitary conditions than is HAY'S HIGH GRADE
SANITARY MILK
PHONES M 6959 and M 6957

J. W. VERMILYEA & CO.
Real Estate and Farm Lands
805 First Street West 25 Alberta Block
Calgary, Alberta Phone M1617
We have first class Farm Lands for Sale in all parts of Southern Alberta, both Raw and Improved, at Right Prices.
We also have a large list of Fully Modern Houses for Sale in any part of Calgary you wish.
Money to Loan on Improved Farm Lands, Mortgage Investments, Estates Managed and Valuations Placed.
Those wishing to locate either in the City or Country, will do well to visit our office, where full information may be had.

Calgary (Western) Standard

Independent Weekly Newspaper Illustrating Current Events and Devoted to the Advancement of Western Canada
Published Every Saturday at 109 Sixth Avenue West.
Calgary, Alberta, Canada.
R. H. MACARTHUR ..... Publisher
B. S. WHITE ..... Editor and Manager
Telephone for Editorial and Circulation Departments Main 6.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

Two dollars per year throughout Canada. Fifty Cents Extra by mail or carrier in the City of Calgary, or to Foreign Points.
Subscription may commence at any time.
The date on your wrapper indicates when your subscription will terminate. Your paper will stop unless you renew promptly. It is always best to renew at least two weeks before expiration to insure uninterrupted service.
Subscribers failing to receive copies regularly will confer a favor by notifying the Circulation Department by post or phone.
No agent or newsboy is authorized to sell CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD on Sunday. Any person doing so is acting without permission or authority of this company.
The Standard takes no responsibility for any obligation incurred by any employee unless such obligation is ordered and accepted by the proper officer of this company.

ADVERTISING

Advertising rates upon application.
All advertising copy must reach the Standard Office not later than Thursday afternoon to insure insertion in Mail and Local Editions.
All correspondence and editorial communications should be addressed to CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD, Calgary, Alberta.

ALBERTA, SASKATCHEWAN AND MANITOBA

The above is the name of a new booklet just issued by the department of colonization and development of the C. P. R. As its name implies, it is a description of these three great provinces, with particular reference to their agricultural resources. Although designed primarily to interest intending settlers in C. P. R. lands, the booklet also contains a vast amount of general information of value to all who have thrown in their lot in western Canada, or who may contemplate doing so. In addition to general descriptive matter the booklet contains tables of western Canada's temperatures and precipitations, an article on the grain trade, tables of elevator capacity and grain prices, average yields of grain for last 17 years, livestock statistics, an article on the value of irrigation, and information on such topics as "ready-made" farms, naturalization, school system, agricultural education, railway facilities, taxation, system of land survey, etc. The booklet is handsomely illustrated with 84 photographs of scenes in western Canada, and includes a railway and land map of western Canada. Any person interested may obtain a copy without charge by writing to the Publicity Branch, C. P. R., Calgary, Alberta.

TIMELY COMMENT ON WOMAN'S SAYINGS & DOINGS

NO CHANGE WHEN WOMEN ENTER POLITICS, SAYS MINISTER

Last Sunday night, one of the city's clergymen made the statement that things would not change in the political world when women entered. As he had no precedent on which to hang his statement, and no facts for his argument, it might have been as well to have modified his sweeping language a little.

In the countries where there has been political equality, it has been found that few women have offered themselves as legislators and even although they have had votes, they have not had sufficient representatives in the Legislative Halls to make any difference in policy. With the privilege open to them, women still hesitate to venture to consider themselves sufficiently conversant with the affairs of the state, to want to take responsibilities until they are sure they can discharge them with credit.

It is just as sensible to say that a bachelor's home is better than that of a married man. Just as a real home is represented by a man and a woman as co-workers and co-rulers so a real government will be at its best when both sexes will work together for the good of all.

Men cannot think for women, nor women for men, yet there is plenty of common ground on which to meet and while it has been shown that women are more interested in the moral and social welfare of the country, there is a great need of man's interest and support in carrying out any of the needed reforms.

* * * *

WHY WORRY OVER VOTES OF FOREIGN-BORN WOMEN!

The women of the city seem to be doing a great deal of unnecessary worrying over the franchise of the foreign-born woman and it is such a waste of good time and energy which might be devoted to something worth while.

The exercising of the franchise is about the last thing which seems to bother the vast majority of our women—our English-born, English-speaking women.

Why not agitate first of all for the registration of all women in the city? There are hundreds of our young women who have not as yet made it convenient to have their names on the voters' lists.

When one is faced with the statistics, which Alderman Adshead can furnish, of how few have taken the trouble in the last two years to cast their votes in municipal elections, which merely involves selecting candidates with whom the public is more or less familiar, it can be roughly estimated that the influence of the vote of the foreign woman or man either, will not make a great deal of difference in the votes cast in provincial or federal elections.

Then again when a foreign-born woman finds that for five years she is debarred from the franchise, her ideas of sisterly interest might undergo a change and she might forever resent the restriction, and resolve that she will never, by any chance, poll a vote.

The unification of the non-English in Canada is one of the great problems and we should be careful on the outset not to antagonize either women or men.

* * * *

RESULTS ACTUALLY ACCOMPLISHED

In looking over the various exhibits while talking to Rev. Hugh Dobson, I had only finished with two when I suddenly stopped and inquired, "But why call it a Baby Welfare Week"? "Yes, that is a misnomer, as far as my work is concerned," said he, "it should be called Child Welfare. The work is not limited to the baby at all but embraces all ideas connected with the growing child."

Having successfully explained away this ambiguity, he was quite as ready to answer the interrogation, "What have you actually accomplished? what success has attended your work?" (Looking at charts and pictures seemed to be so futile in accomplishing anything.)

"In my own city of Regina," said Mr. Dobson, "the work has been instrumental in having a juvenile court established, in adding another nurse to the city's staff and in providing a teacher for retarded pupils."

Certainly the results have justified the efforts. The campaign carried on this week may not result in directly interesting mothers but the facts brought to the public's notice, so well through the daily press, which has faithfully given reports of all the meetings, will certainly open the eyes to the necessity of protecting the child life of the city by prevention as well as cure from unsanitary conditions and disease. The necessity of teachers in the schools for retarded pupils has been brought out prominently as also the great need for homes for feeble-minded and incurably diseased. The wonderful work of the social service homes in Edmonton and this city has been demonstrated in their exhibits and the appeal for assistance will not have to be so strenuous in the future.

At the Allen, Friday and Saturday.

A MILLINERY DISPLAY TONIGHT

A WINDOW DISPLAY TONIGHT

Unveiling All That's Fresh and New in "Bay" Summer Millinery

A Review of Warm Weather Modes on Monday

So many women have awaited with breathless interest this announcement. The summer may be a bit tardy in putting in an appearance, but nevertheless its calling is just as insistent. Discard the high and sombre tones of Spring, for the delicate tints of Summer time. Monday a formal presentation of the Summer fancies in headwear will take place in the Salons of Millinery.

Dainty transparencies in exquisite lace hair effects, Varon Sailors with towering crowns and broad brims. The Bankok sailor, New York's latest protege. Wide sweeping brim sailors in duplex straws, quaintly beveled and cable edges, and a perfect world of white hats in straws, silks and the like.

N. Y. has made a "Pet" of the Bankok Sailor

And well New York may. It is distinctly new and very, very "Different." Bankok straw is a natural closely woven material, that shows to advantage when associated with such bright tones as country club green, Sharon rose, Dutch blue and black. Some models in this collection possess the tapering crown, an odd shaped effect that is at once quite unusual.

This opening, we believe to be in miniature, a reproduction of some of the better class specialty shops presentations for Summer 1917.

NEW LEGHORNS
NEW MILAN
NEW CREPE
and Chiffon Hats, Light and Summery

NEW PANAMAS
NEW TRIMMING EFFECTS
NEW BANKOK SAILORS
All Light Hearted and Summer Shades

MONDAY THEN 9 TO 5.
Floor Two

Hardware That Spells Economy

Clothes Baskets—A full size splint clothes basket, oblong shape, with strong side handles. Reg. 98c, for 49c

Plain Building Paper—400 square feet, good quality building paper. Reg. 90c per roll, for 69c

Tarred Building Paper—Roll containing 400 square feet, tarred sheathing. Reg. $1.45 roll for 98c

Trunks — Canvas covered, with heavy sole leather straps all around. Bound with angle iron, brass-plated steel corners, clasps and good lock; strong inside tray; a good deep trunk. Reg. $9.00, for $6.95

A Monday Grocery Budget!

Cow Brand Soda, 1 lb. pkg. ..8c
Bisto Gravy Maker, pkg. ...10c
Libby's Pineapple, sliced Hawaiian in heavy syrup, per tin 27c
Porridge Oats, 2 cartons 45c
Raisins, choice seeded, 3 pkgs. 35c
Kellogg's Wheat Biscuit, 3 pkgs. 35c
Bon Ami, 3 cakes 35c
Seni Flush, 2 tins 45c
B. C. Syrup, qt. sealer 33c
Bulldog Ammonia Powder, 4 packages 30c
Crisco, 1½-lb. tin (1 tin only to a customer) 43c
Shredded Cocoanut, finest, per lb. 23c
Enos' Fruit Salts, per bot... 69c (1 bot. only to a customer)
Breakfast Cocoa, pure unsweetened bulk, per lb.... 25c (2 lbs. only to one customer)
Floor Three

Mother's Day Typifies the Best in Value Giving

Tomorrow 12 Boys Will Fit Into New Spring Overcoats---Each at a Cost of

When mother goes a-coating for the boy she rarely expects to have the cost touch her pocketbook so lightly as this. $3.99! Think of it!! Of course there are but 12 coats, and the size range is limited—22 to 26, but the value is so conspicuous as to cause city-wide comment. There are several American blue cheviot-serge garments here, trimmed with Naval brass buttons and velvet collars—also dark grey and black checks with collars of self. You'll find many of these marked $7 regular. Any one of the 12 coats for $3.99

$3.99 As the Happy Price for Boys Suits

And on top of all this THE AVERAGE REGULAR PRICE OF THESE SUITS IS $7.50. There's a few smart little stripe patterns in high yoke Norfolks. Several mixed patterns, too. Some have loose belts, other belts are attached. A fine grade of twill lining in coats. Pants are regulation full American bloomer style. Sizes 26 to 34. Just ten suits to sell.

And a Table of Oddments You'll Like to Look Over

Mothers who know of the presence of this table in the Boys' store come to look over it each morning. A coat that is the last of a long line of brothers may be placed here. Several suits, remaining from a once complete stock—just odds and ends of boys' clothing. ANYTHING ON THE TABLE, AT .. $1.99

Main—Direct entrance from 7th Avenue

MEN!

Here's a Good Suit

You could place a wager on that much. There's a fair size range here—36 to 42. 25 suits that run up to $18 (regular value) in a good range of styles and patterns. Just one suit to a customer for $9.99

And Pair of Trousers

Black, with faint hairline stripe. Make splendid working trousers. Five pockets, strap and buckle to adjust the fit. Well assembled. Sizes 30 to 40. 50 pairs at $1.95

News Effecting the Wardrobe of the Child

Tub Dresses Came in Friday!

Such sensible little clothes—dresses of gingham, chambray and percale; solid or plaid effects, and a combination of both. Will launder perfectly, and give entire satisfaction.

See These In Perfectly Washing Suits at

Children's Dresses that will stand tubing, will be found here in a wide range of smart styles and many colors, at ..... 69c.

in checked Ginghams of blue and white, pink and white, and shepherd's check, trimmed with self solid colors, also in smart styles in plain colors of blue and linen shades trimmed with red lacings, and piping, full cut, and very serviceable. Sizes 6 to 14 years, each 97c large range of pretty little dresses in percales and ginghams, many popular plaids, smartly trimmed with self or contrasting colors, some in middy effect, sizes 3 to 6 years, each .. $1.95

Children's Gingham Dresses, in many popular plaids, neatly trimmed with contrasting shades of solid colors, and pearl buttons, sizes 2 to 6 years. Selling at, each 69c

For the older sister, a good assortment in gingham in stripes trimmed with solid colors, neat collars and cuffs. Other styles in plaid with little coatee of solid colors, and collar and cuffs to match. Sizes 6 to 14 years, each $1.95

A Corset for the Growing Girl

Gossard Misses Corset, front lace, most suitable for the growing girl, pliable boning, short skirt, with 4 strong hose supports. Price $2.00

Royal Worcester-This Back Lace Model

Royal Worcester Corsets—Another popular back lace model designed for the ages of 13 to 16 years. Medium low bust and shorter skirt, soft boning, and perfectly free hip. Made of good coutil and 4 hose supports. All sizes, pair $1.50

Floor Two

Do you read in bed o' nights? Then stop it—if you do not wish to wear glasses. If you have reached that stage, consult us. — Optical Parlors, Rendezvous.

The Hudson's Bay Company.

INCORPORATED 1670 "ECONOMISTS FOR THE PEOPLE" HERBERT S. BURBIDGE STORES COMMISSIONER

We have a good watch repairer. Matter of fact we believe he is the best in his line in opinion is invited. Canada West. Your

Main Ontre

SILKS

The Washable Variety

This is an Outgoing of Mill Ends--yard

50c

Tub Silks—Remnants and mill ends. 1 case lot of choice new tub silks for underwear and waists and dresses. In new shades of tea rose, tan, lilac, fawn, sea green, ivory, navy, sky blue, wisteria, etc. Rich weave, very summery. Special, yard 50c

There's a Bright little Sport Pattern and a New Shantung at $1.85

New Silks arriving daily. This is a charming new sport pattern shantung silk in the natural color. In Chinese and Oriental designs. New exclusive patterns. All, per yard $1.85

Genuine Indigo Blue Washable Prints

Fast colors, 24 inches wide, in saxe blue with small figure only. Ideal for house dresses, aprons, children's wear, etc. No mail or phone orders, limit 6 yds to one cutsomer. Reg. 14c. For, yard 10c

New York has voted Shantung and Yo San Silks the correct material for dresses of the moment. We have a delightful assortment in prices, from $15.00 to $35.00

Pretty Dress of Natural Shantung Silk, trimmed with fancy Oriental Silk in shades of blue and green, full simple style with wide collar and fancy cuffs. Prices $15.00

Dress of Gold Yo San Silk. Plain pleated skirt with coat of fold with floral patterns in blue and mauve. Soft sash belt Price $25.00

Dainty dress of natural Shantung Silk, with closely pleated skirt, coatee effect at back of waist, long panel in front which hangs down over skirt, which is beautifully embroidered Price $29.75

Dress of natural Shantung, beautifully embroidered in berries in shades of Kelly green and cerise, smartly pleated skirt with Russian blouse effect, loosely belted. Price $35.00

Many other styles in stock, and inspection would please you.

Floor Two

SILKS

The Washable Variety

This is an Outgoing of Mill Ends--yard

50c

Tub Silks—Remnants and mill ends. 1 case lot of choice new tub silks for underwear and waists and dresses. In new shades of tea rose, tan, lilac, fawn, sea green, ivory, navy, sky blue, wisteria, etc. Rich weave, very summery. Special, yard 50c

There's a Bright little Sport Pattern and a New Shantung at

$1.85

New Silks arriving daily. This is a charming new sport pattern shantung silk in the natural color. In Chinese and Oriental designs. New exclusive patterns. All, per yard $1.85

Genuine Indigo Blue Washable Prints

Fast colors, 24 inches wide, in saxe blue with small figure only. Ideal for house dresses, aprons, children's wear, etc. No mail or phone orders, limit 6 yds to one cutsomer. Reg. 14c. For, yard 10c

New York has voted Shantung and Yo San Silks the correct material for dresses of the moment. We have a delightful assortment in prices, from $15.00 to $35.00

Pretty Dress of Natural Shantung Silk, trimmed with fancy Oriental Silk in shades of blue and green, full simple style with wide collar and fancy cuffs. Prices $15.00

Dress of Gold Yo San Silk. Plain pleated skirt with coat of fold with floral patterns in blue and mauve. Soft sash belt Price $25.00

Dainty dress of natural Shantung Silk, with closely pleated skirt, coatee effect at back of waist, long panel in front which hangs down over skirt, which is beautifully embroidered Price $29.75

Dress of natural Shantung, beautifully embroidered in berries in shades of Kelly green and cerise, smartly pleated skirt with Russian blouse effect, loosely belted. Price $35.00

Many other styles in stock, and inspection would please you.

Floor Two

the Growing Girl

nt lace, most suitable for the growing with 4 strong hose $2.00

This Back Lace Model

Another popular back lace model de- years. Medium low bust and shorter free hip. Made of good sizes, pair..... $1.50

loor Two

We have a good watch repairer. Matter of fact we believe he is the best in his line in opinion is invited. Canada West. Your

Main Cntre

Education Benefits a Man But Little If He Is Unable to Recognize an Opportunity When He Sees It

LIVING IS THE THING

Engage in nothing that cripples or degrades you. Your first duty is self-culture, self-exaltation; you may not violate this high trust. Yourself is sacred, profane it not. Forge no chains wherewith to shackle your own members. Either subordinate your vocation to your life or quit it forever.

—Amos Bronson Alcott

CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD

THE GREATEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER IN WESTERN CANADA

PROGRESS

THIS is a world of action. Neither men nor business can stand still. When a plant in the field quits growing it begins to decay. It is the same in business—in all phases of life. Progress is the key to survival.

TWO SECTIONS—Section Two | CALGARY, ALBERTA, MAY 6, 1917 | SECOND SECTION—Pages 9 to 12

STORIES OF EVENTS OF IMPORTANCE IN THE WORLD TODAY

EQUIPMENT OF THE BRITISH ARMY A STUPENDOUS TASK

Vaguely, everyone has known that the task of supplying the British army with its equipment and food has been an enormous one. In twenty months the land forces have been increased from about 200,000 to the present millions. How the system that sufficed in August, 1914, for the existing service has grown and adapted itself to meet the ever-increasing developments will be, whenever it can be told, one of the most wonderful chapters of the history of the war. At present, that full tale cannot be recorded, but the time has now come when it is permissible to give some particulars of the mighty work that has been achieved, and the new conditions which British manufacturers met and satisfied. It constitutes a narrative of the happiest co-operation between the war office in England, the great industrial enterprises, and the workers—men and women—and is one of which the whole Empire can be unreservedly proud.

There were good and sufficient reasons for not revealing all the magnitude of the nation's needs and transactions at an earlier stage. It was clearly undesirable to permit information to come out that would result in unduly enhanced prices not only to the war office but to the civilian population. Not until clear knowledge of the reserves of raw material, the machinery available, and labor conditions could be tabulated would it have been possible to estimate the prices that the country would have to pay. To have given general ideas as to the magnitude of the contracts to be called for would probably have resulted in vastly increased demands.

Mistakes of this kind have been marvellously well avoided. Huge, almost unthinkable, additions to the output of clothing, equipment, tools, and the rest have been made, and though, of course, the cost has risen, the increase has been far below what might have been expected. While the production in many departments of industry has been multiplied literally some forty, some sixty, some hundredfold, in view of army needs, there has still been no scarcity so far as the non-fighting community is concerned. Buying has been done on a definite principle that has kept the widest resources and requirements of the empire always in view.

The Question of Clothing

To plunge forthwith into figures that fairly stagger the imagination, let it be said that during the first twenty months of the war the amount of woollen cloth required has been 90,000,000 yards, which would suffice to put a girdle twice round the earth. Of the flannel required for shirts and so forth the amount has been nearly as great, and totals 88,000,000 yards. So far as contrasting these huge totals with the normal requirements of peacetime, there is the safe and sure standard of the last census of production issued in 1907. And this is how the table works out, if requirements for the allies as well as for our own army are included:

Material	Annual total August, 1914, average to March, 31. Peace Yrs. Yds.	1916. Yds.	Ratio of requirements for 12 months of war to peace average.
Cloth, woollen, worsted	1,149,000	117,000,000	61
Flannel	1,224,000	84,000,000	41
Cloth, cotton	632,000	194,000,000	175

To understand, however, more clearly what this implies in regard to the country's industry it should be understood that the war requirements cover a period of twenty months. Taking twelve-twentieths of the amount shown in the second column, we have, roughly, the requirements of twelve months of war to compare with the average demands of peace-time. The ratio is given in the last column, and does not represent an increase in percentages in the way most of us are accustomed to think. It means actual multiplication, and that the demand on the British industry for flannel has been increased 41-fold, for woollen and worsted tissues 61-fold, and for cotton tissues 175-fold. Of these textiles the allies have taken the largest share in the case of woollens and cottons. Over 25 per cent. of the woollens and worsted, and over 20 per cent. of the cotton textiles, have been, or are being, manufactured to meet the requirements of the allies.

In the matter of value the figures are impressive. The census of production returned the entire annual output of flannels and delaines as being 48,473,000 yards, worth £1,774,000. The requirements of flannels in twenty months of war have been for 84,000,000 yards, of an approximate value of £6,750,000. Put in another way, this means that the output has been 75 per cent. more than, and between three and four times the value of the entire output of delaines and flannels in 1907. Compared with our entire export trade in these fabrics in the year preceding the war, which was 7,718,000 yards, of a value of £300,000, the total is indeed astonishing. In no branch of industry was the strain more acute, but in all the great centres of these industries the utmost efforts were put forward to supply deficiencies. In the Colne Valley the visitor was told of mills that ran tirelessly night and day for weeks to supply the pressing needs.

Supplying the Uniforms

After securing the khaki worsted tissues and the flannel, there was the question of making them up. The materials have been supplied to contractors (who to some extent supplemented the government materials by what they provided themselves), and they have made from them uniforms and shirts. Of these latter something like 26,000,000 have been required for ordinary, field and training wear, apart from the further huge total demanded in the hospitals. For it must be borne in mind that the soldier, whether in training camp, the trenches, and all phases of active service, wears out his clothes very rapidly. It may give a comprehensible idea of the constant replenishment that has to go on steadily to say that the army now calls for nearly as much clothing in a week as it formerly did in a year.

And it is not only the very big items that constitute difficulties. Buttons, for instance, may seem but mere accessories, yet they have in the aggregate constituted a very important commercial asset. Something like 840,000,000 of them have been required in their various forms since the war began, which, as it is pointed out, is about equivalent to a dozen and a half to every man, woman, and child in the United Kingdom. You are tempted then to speculate on the ratio that has been distributed or taken in the form of souvenirs by the soldiers' friends and admirers.

In the actual work of making up the army clothing factory, strained to its utmost output, was quite unable to meet the requirements that began to be felt the moment that the expeditionary force made ready to leave for France. The great clothing contractors of London, Leeds, and elsewhere were called upon to meet these urgent and necessary labors. In the factories the work was highly specialized, and as ordinary trade declined and women and the male civilian population bought less in the way of clothing, the labor problems, especially in regard to tailoresses and blouse-makers, adjusted themselves by meeting the military requirements. The dreaded spectre of unemployment which the queen's "Work for Women Fund" was intended to combat, passed entirely, and there was more work than workers.

Another table will show some of the amazing totals that have been provided:

	Annual average of orders to the trade in peace years.	Total August, 1914, to March 31, 1916.	Ratio of requirements for 19 months of war to peace average.
Boots, pairs	227,000	21,750,000	57
Jackets, service	78,000	11,490,000	88
Trousers, service	92,000	11,004,000	72
Frocks, drill	58,000	1,134,000	12
Trousers, drill	75,000	1,167,000	10
Pantaloons	13,000	2,507,000	116
Greatcoats	34,000	4,836,000	85
Caps, service	338,000	11,088,000	30
Socks, pairs	980,000	54,684,000	33
Cardigans, jerseys	77,000	7,555,000	59
Drawers, woollen and cotton	194,000	23,144,000	72
Vests		6,855,000	—

Boots and Hosiery

The new situation in regard to boots is extraordinarily interesting. In the vast total quoted, ordinary marching boots are alone referred to, and the millions of pairs of canvas shoes and slippers for hospital wear are not included. The industry of Northampton, Kettering, Leicester, and the other centers was unprepared for the new demands, and only the most careful organization and amendment, by an expert, of the specifications has made it possible for the British manufacturer to undertake with safety, in addition, huge orders on behalf of the allied governments. Of the enormous number already mentioned some 16 per cent. were ordered for or supplied out of stock to allied governments, but it does not include the 7,000,000 pairs in course of making for the Russian government. The value of boots alone, apart from shoes and slippers, demanded from the British trade in the 20 months of war would come to something like 90 per cent. of that of all the boots, shoes and slippers manufactured in the United Kingdom in 1907. It is absolutely essential to keep a large stock of footgear in order to provide for emergencies, and a proportion is set aside for this reserve for future consumption. In boots, as in other details of clothing, the army requires for refitting every week sufficient raiment to supply entirely the male population of a great town or one of the larger metropolitan boroughs.

Socks and hosiery presented great difficulties in the autumn of 1914. The queen, who was consulted by Lord Kitchener on the subject, took a step that was of real value in relieving the strain on this branch of industry when she appealed, at the end of September, 1914, for 300,000 belts and 300,000 pairs of socks from the women of the empire. The quantity was more than forthcoming—indeed, the total of the two items reached 970,000, or nearly equal to the whole demands of the pre-war army. In the breathing-space thus gained the manufacturers could secure and put up the additional machinery required, and to turn out the almost incredible total of 54,684,000 pairs of socks and 8,855,000 vests, or at the present moment nearly 9,000,000 of these last, which were not a normal issue in peace time. The allies have taken some 14 per cent. of the socks and smaller proportions of the other articles, as caps. To summarize briefly what these figures mean as regards the conditions of two years ago, it may be said that for the more important items of uniform clothing the demands on trade have increased 70 to 80-fold, and for hosiery from 30 to 70-fold.

These requirements have naturally thrown exceedingly heavy demands upon their manufacturers. Again, to cite the census of production, the entire output of hosiery for the United Kingdom would average in value £8,445,000. Including such further items as between nine and ten million pairs of woolen gloves, and 13,000,000 "cap comforters," the total value of the hosiery demanded from the industry in the United Kingdom for military exigencies during 20 months of war exceeded this value by some 45 per cent. These heavy calls, and the increase in the cost of wool, have, of course, meant higher prices, but even at the rates that were paid before the war value would have been appreciably higher.

Blankets and Tents

Another important detail of equipment for which the country was totally unprepared was in regard to blankets. Moreover, it will not be forgotten how the late Sir George Pragnell and some other magnates of the wholesale warehouses of the city circumvented an unscrupulous effort that was made to corner these essentials. In the early autumn of 1914 all sorts of makeshifts had to be resorted to, as cutting up and hemming squares of heavy coatings. But here again British energy and resource soon made headway, and met the urgency of the situation. The actual figures are:

Annual average of blankets in peace years was 139,000; total from August, 1914, to March 31, 1916, 19,800,000; ratio of requirements for 12 months of war to peace average, 86.

Here the claim on industry, it will be seen, have multiplied 86-fold. The 1907 output of blankets numbered 6,170,000, worth something over three times the number and five times the value of a normal year. A further interesting point in regard to these blankets is that some 2,000,000 have been supplied to the allies. The mills of the United Kingdom have produced 54,000,000 yards of tent-duck. This, as an ingenious statician has worked out, would suffice for a marquee three and a half miles square. The tent-pins have numbered 33,000,000, but their comparison becomes impossible. No records of tent-pins made in the empire before the war exist.

It is frankly admitted that great difficulty was experienced in the early months of the war in obtaining from home resources anything like an adequate amount of harness and saddlery, and large orders for this were perforce placed in the United States. The difficulties are now being rapidly overcome, and it may be recalled that women were asked some 14 months ago to come forward and take up leather work of various degrees. Up to the end of last March our own manufacturers had been able to undertake orders to the approximate value of £10,000,000. This, it is pointed out, is an exceedingly striking and significant figure, for in 1907, when, of course, the motor was well started on its dominance over the horse, the entire output of saddlery and harness was about £1,800,000. This industry, therefore, in the 20 months under review has amounted to something like five times the entire output of the trade during the last period for which reliable information is forthcoming. But some standard of comparison becomes possible when it is realized that in the last financial year of peace (1913-14) the amount under the harness and saddlery vote was only £61,000. For 12 months of war, therefore, the figure already cited would give an expenditure of £6,000,000, or an increase in the ratio of little less than 100 to 1. Up to December 1 last contracts in saddlery to the value of $1,000,000 had been placed in this country for the allies.

Perhaps it is hardly to be wondered at that we had sunk to a very low stage in the matter of the production of horseshoes. But the lost ground has been more than recovered. Instead of having to send orders abroad, we were able to say in November last that the out-turn of this country had been increased five-fold, and in March last 10-fold, while 15-fold is now in sight. In other words, not only are we self-supporting in this direction, but are able to help our allies. The motor has played a great part in the war, but the horse is far indeed from being superseded, as may be judged from the fact that nearly 140,000,000 frost-nails and cogs have been required so far. In the matter of forage, difficulties even greater than in regard to those of the men's commissariat have had to be faced, and it may be said have been most effectually dealt with.

Camp Requirements

In camp kettles and mess tins the demands have multiplied 74 and 78-fold respectively. These are the figures:

	Annual aver. in peace times.	Total Aug. 1914, to Mar. 31, 1916.
Camp kettles	8,000	982,000
Mess tins	73,000	9,450,000

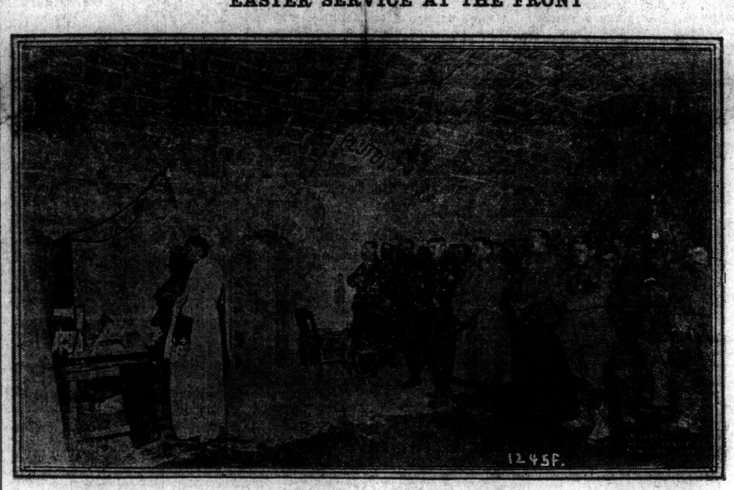
Of the mess-tins about 20 per cent. have gone to our allies. Very careful organization was required to secure the necessary supplies of cutlery for the training centers and for the men in the field. About 23,000,000 knives and forks and 11,000,000 spoons represent the demands in this direction. Of the former production has been increased about three-fold and of the latter five to six-fold. Incidentally you learn that the production of clasp knives has been doubled. Brushes, for the making of which there was an appeal to women to come forward, have reached the huge total of 43,000,000. In that, of course, all sorts are included, whether the hard and soft, the long and short handled for sweeping, and those designed for scrubbing, cleaning, harness, clothes, and shaving. It constitutes, indeed, a tribute to the cleanliness and tidiness of the camps and the persons of the army.

Barbed wire has been requisitioned by miles. It was an auxiliary of warfare which at first we were quite unable to supply in adequate quantities. But the production has now been trebled, and it is hoped will be quadrupled.

There are good and sufficient reasons at this juncture for not entering too closely into details as to the extent and sources of the food supply. The steady maintenance of the fare for the best-fed army in the world is one of the wonders of the world, and when all can be told the real and scientific economics that have guided the whole system will throw new light upon the knowledge of the world's resources and the way in which it has been used by men whose names even are unknown to the average citizen.

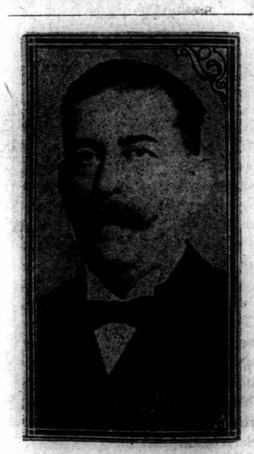
It may be said, however without indiscretion, that the normal requirements for 1,000,000 men for a year on the British scale of rations come to some 365,000,000 pounds of fresh or frozen meat, or 274,000,000 pounds of preserved meat, 91,000,000 pounds of bacon, 68,000,000 pounds of cheese, the same quantity of jam and sugar, 22,000,000 of condensed milk and 14,000,000 pounds of tea. This number of men will further need 11,000,000 pounds of salt, 630,000 pounds of pepper, and 450,000 pounds of mustard. A further provision of tea and sugar, with pea-soup and the "tots" of rum, must be allowed on these totals when the men are in the trenches. Tinned and dried vegetables by the million pounds must be available to take the place of the fresh varieties where these cannot be obtained. Then a certain amount of alternatives, as rice in place of biscuits, or dried fruit and honey instead of jam, must be provided.

If these quotations be multiplied by the number of millions of men you think have to be supplied some idea may come of the stupendousness of the provisions required. To this add thought as to what it means to keep these in regular, cleanly, and attractive service, the millions of packing cases, bags, tins and jars that are necessary. It is easy to sit down and talk of freights and steamer shortage. But the stay at home person has no conception as to what is involved in the seaborne transport of the many necessaries we do not produce at home.



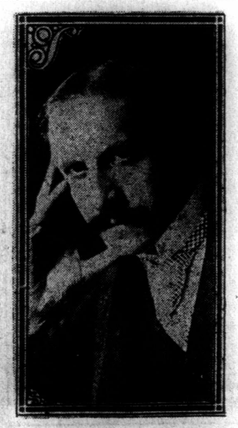
Again, in spite of all the magnificent supplemental work of the British Red Cross organization, there is a very big addition to the provision for the fighting men, in the "hospital comforts" for the wounded. The phrase implies meat extracts, tinned chicken and rabbit, corn, flour and arrowroot, port and champagne, and very much more. And the country only desires that the best in abundance shall be provided for the men who have dared and done so greatly.

A word, too, may be added in regard to the supplies of drugs, though precise figures on this matter are not at present available. This country is now making better progress in the production of these than is generally realized, especially in regard to the synthetic compounds for which formerly we were dependent on Germany. This is notably the case in regard to the salicylates, as salicylic acid, salicylate of sodium, salol, methyl salicylate, and aspirin, which are all being manufactured in England now upon an extensive scale. Some of the leading universities and schools of science have also taken up the productions of such local anaesthetics as novocaine and eucaine, and there is now no difficulty in obtaining them in sufficient quantities. Even salvarsan is now made in our midst.



Better organization has come into the supply of crude vegetable substances used in medicine. The overseas dominions are helping the allies as well as the motherland in regard to valuable plants that they can raise.

How the needs have been met as they have arisen would be interesting indeed, could it be told in detail. Great experts have been called in and trades have given their practical men whenever their help has been needed, but behind them all has been the practical knowledge of the heads of the various departments involved, whose services in the nation's needs can never be over-estimated. The growth of the army in itself has been an amazement to ourselves, not to speak of the enemy.



EASTER SERVICE AT THE FRONT

Scene shows church service being conducted in one of the subteranean vaulted bombproof casemates of Fort Douament.

GEN. JOSE MIGUEL GOMEZ
The unfortunate rebel prisoner, a result of German intrigue in Cuba.

LORD ALFRED MILNER
One of the most influential ministers in the British cabinet.

RURAL MAIL ORDER GUIDE

RURAL BUYERS' GUIDE

RELIABLE FIRMS—SATISFACTORY SERVICE

FARMERS' AND RANCHERS' BUSINESS DIRECTORY

HOME CLASSIFIED BUSINESS GUIDE

STANDARD BUSINESS DIRECTORY

BARRISTERS AND SOLICITORS

E. F. RYAN BARRISTER, SOLICITOR and Notary, 402 MacLean Block. Calgary Alta Phone M1670.

E. A. DUNBAR, BARRISTER, ETC., Royal Bank Chambers, Eighth Ave. and Centre Street Ph. M2311. 11-1yr

FRANCOIS DE ROUSSY DE SALES, Barrister, Solicitor and Notary Public; Avocat Francais. Rooms, 209-211 Grain Exchange, Calgary. Phone M1916

H. P. SAUNDERS, BARRISTER AND Solicitor, etc. 22 Old Herald Building Phone M2747.

JAMES U. CAMPBELL, B.L., BARRISTER and Solicitor, 512 Beveridge Building, Calgary. Phone M2977.

J. J. MACDONALD, B.A., LL.B., BARrister, Solicitor, Notary, 303-306 Beveridge Building, Calgary, Alta. Phone M3371

J. McKINLEY CAMERON, BARRISTER and Solicitor. Office, 230. Phone M6769. Corner of 8th Ave. and First St. West.

LOUGHEED, BENNETT, McLAWS & CO. Clarence Block, 122 Eighth Ave. West, Calgary, Alberta, Canada

Hon. J. A. Lougheed, P.C., K.C.; R. B. Bennett, K.C.; W. H. McLaws, J. C. Brokovski, J. B. Roberts, D. L. Redman, L. M. Roberts, W. C. Pollard, H. A. Chadwick, H. E. Forster

McLEAN, PATTERSON AND BROAD. W. W. McLean, W. H. Patterson, W. E. Broad. Phone M6356. 502 MacLean Block, Calgary. Branch Offices, Acme, and Beiseker, Alta.

P. HARCOURT O'REILLY, BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary. 716-717 Herald Bldg Calgary. Phone M5969.

SAVARY, PENERTY & CHADWICK, Stringer Block. Main 6614.

TWEEDIE, McGILLIVRAY, BARRON & Oldham, Solicitors, Etc. T. M. Tweedie, A. A. McGillivray, J. B. Barron, J. N. Oldham. 105A Eighth Avenue West.

ARTISTS

ARTISTS, DESIGNERS & ENGRAVERS HICKS ENGRAVING CO., LIMITED, Makers of Photo Engravings for all Purposes. Herald Western Building, Cor. 2nd Ave. and 6th Street West Phone M6761

STAFFORD & KENT, DESIGNERS AND ENGRAVERS Illuminated Addresses, Engrossings and Engraved Cards 222A Eighth Avenue West

AUCTIONEERS

M6209 CITY EXCHANGE AUCTIONeers. 406 Eighth Avenue West. House and Office Furniture at our Salerooms at SNAP PRICES Call, write or phone us.

BOOTS AND SHOES

FOR UP-TO-THE-MINUTE FOOTWEAR, go to RICHARDSON'S LIMITED (The Home of Good Shoes) 816 Eighth Ave. West Phone M4509

BROKERS

FINANCIAL BROKERS, REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE. Provincial Managers for Insurance Co. of State of Penn. (Fire) Agents Dominion Gresham Guarantee and Casualty. O. G. DEVENISH & COMPANY, LIMITED 300 P. Burns Building

COUPLAND BUSINESS COLLEGE

THE OLD SCHOOL, THE TRIED SCHOOL, the School for you. Why not start now? Phone M1303. 109 14th Ave. West.

CHIROPRACTIC

HAVE YOU BEEN PRONOUNCED INcurable? If so, investigate Chiropractic. Scientific, safe, sane, specific. T. E. Davis, D. C., 202 I.O.O.F. Blk. Graduate Palmer school, Davenport, Ia. Phone M2572. Consultation free.

DENTISTS

DR. A. B. C. DANDO Dentist Prices Cut in TWO 123 8th Ave. W. Phone M2141

DO YOU WANT MONEY?

If you are a man, woman, boy or girl and you want to make money send us your name and address. We will send you the particulars which will make you money and independent for life. You only have to devote a part of your spare time to it to earn all the money you need for luxuries or you can devote your entire time to it and make a good living. You don't need any experience. You simply need energy and ambition to make the effort and success will come.—Address, Manager, 109 Sixth Ave., Calgary, Alberta.

DR. SIZE THE DENTIST AND NATUROPATH

233 EIGHTH AVENUE EAST 30 years successful practice. All branches

Have your Dental work done, your Plates, Crowns or Bridges repaired.

BABY WELFARE

Avoid all drugs and patent medicines. They will serve you false. The cause of decay of the teeth is in the general system not the mouth. Let me explain this to you.

DYEING AND CLEANING

WHEN IN NEED OF FIRST-CLASS DRY Cleaning, Dyeing or Repair Work on the shortest notice, phone THE DON DRY CLEANING COMPANY. 703 Seventh Ave. West Phones M3335—M3905

APPAREL SERVICE CO., DYERS, Cleaners of everything. 233 17 Ave. W. Phones M3150, W1533.

FURNITURE REMOVERS

THE PACIFIC CARTAGE CO., LIMITED Furniture Moving and Storage, expert packers and forwarding agents. Phone M5007. Office in C.P.R. freight shed, Ninth Avenue and Second Street East.

FURNISHED ROOMS TO RENT

THE SAMIS APARTMENTS, CENTRALLY Located, 330 Eighth Avenue East. Furnished Rooms to Rent by Day, Week or Month; Also Unfurnished Rooms by the Month Prices Moderate Phone M5654.

FURS AND LADIES' TAILORED HATS

WE ARE BUSY NOW IN THE FUR Remodelling Dept. What will it be in the season? So don't defer sending your furs to us; you will save time and money W. W. BELL LADIES' HATTER AND FURRIER 227 7th Ave. West, between 1st and 2nd Sts.

FOR SALE

FOR SALE, IF SOLD AT ONCE, FIVE slightly used Organs, prices $25.00 to $60.00. Terms if desired. These have been polished and tuned, and will be taken back inside of two years on a Willis Piano (Canada's Best) at the full price paid. Willis Pianos, peerless in tone, touch and finish. Alberta Showrooms, 325 8th Ave. West, Calgary. W. M. Howe, manager.

GASFITTING

JOE CARNEGIE, 704 FIVE AND A HALF Street N.W. Gas Fitting and Repairs, day or night. Phone M5910. 12-1yr

WE BEG TO ANNOUNCE THE REopening of the Central Plumbing, Gasfitting and Heating Store on 1211 First Street East. Gas Stoves and Water Heaters connected and general repairs of every description. If you have anything in the above line, by patronizing me you are helping a returned Soldier. Phone M1265. R. C. Laurie.

HAIR DRESSERS

MRS. ARTHUR, SHAMPOO, MANICURE, Face and Scalp Treatments; Combings Made Up; All Kinds of Hair Work. No. 6 Royal Bank Building, entrance first door west of Woolworth's Store. Phone M5948.

HAT WORKS

EMPIRE HAT WORKS HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED & REMODELLED 310 7th AVE. EAST PHONE M 6280

HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED AND REmodeled. Apparel Service Co. Phones M3150, W1533, 233 17 Ave. West. We call and deliver.

BOSTON HAT WORKS AND SHOE REPAIR SHOP HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED AND REshaped. Straws of every description Cleaned and Renovated. First-Class Shoe Repairing. All work guaranteed. Skates sharpened. All goods called for and delivered. Phone M4798.

HOTELS

QUEEN'S HOTEL Second Street East and Eighth Avenue FURNISHED ROOMS TO RENT BY DAY, week or month. Weekly rates from $2.75 to $5.00; monthly rates from $10.00 to $20.00. All outside rooms, warm and comfortable, most central location in city. B. A. Atkinson, Jr., proprietor.

HOMESTEADS OR FARM LANDS

REGON AND CALIFORNIA RAILROAD Co. Grant Lands—Titles to same revested in United States by act of Congress, dated June 9, 1916. Two million three hundred thousand acres to be opened for homesteads and sale. Timber and Agricultural Lands, containing some of best lands left in United States. Now is the opportune time. Large sectional map showing lands and description of soil, climate, rainfall, elevation, etc., postpaid One Dollar. Grant Lands Locating Co., Box 616, Portland, Oregon.

WANTED—to hear from owner of good farm for sale. Northwestern Business Agency, Minneapolis, Minn.

Allies Sadly in Need of Horses

The British army as well as the French and other countries are sadly in need of horses. The market today is unlimited for livestock of all kinds and the demand for horses for army purposes is as great as the demand for other products. The worst feature is that there will probably be a larger demand in the future than the country can supply.

Today the British as well as the French are looking to Canada to supply this demand to some extent. Methods which are employed in connection with the purchase of horses may be of extreme interest to the horse raiser.

A description of the purchasing machines of the French and British governments at the present time is particularly opportune by reason of the fact that the British commission is on the even of resuming its operations in Canada.

Information secured this week was to the effect that the only preliminary still lacking was the official announcement. The fact that the British purchasers pay higher prices than do the French makes the above announcement one of vital importance. The statements which came out about two weeks ago were declared to be entirely premature.

In connection with charges which horse dealers make for lending the use of their establishments as a place for centralizing the work of inspection. The Sun is informed that $3 per head has been levied by some of the large establishments.

The French government buys all army horses from large contractors at a fixed price per head for each class, delivered in France. The contractor gets his money a certain number of days after landing in France, for such horses as are alive and able to go into service. Only a millionaire can handle one of these deals, and besides a large capital the contractor must have control of ships as well, in order to be reasonably sure of being able to carry out his contract, in these days of extreme scarcity of ocean tonnage.

Many People Involved

The chief contractor decided how much he can afford to pay sub-contractors for the horses, after allowing for freight charges to the sea board, general expenses, feeding from the time purchasers laid down in France, cost of space on the ship, losses in deaths on board and after landing and expenses in France. Each sub-contractor is accompanied by two French officers, one of whom is a competent judge of army requirements, and the other an experienced veterinary surgeon.

These men cannot afford to travel about looking at one or two horses in a hundred different places, but must inspect at least one hundred horses each day. They find that the only way to do this is to depend on dealers who are willing to take the risk of buying horses with their own money and submitting them for inspection.

The dealers know how much they will get if the horse passes the inspection of the French officers, but they are never sure of the exact percentage of "rejects." The operations of the horse dealers shape up as a gamble, and it depends on the skill of the individual buyer as to whether he can break even, while many of the buyers have lost heavily, on account of an unusually small percentage of "accepts." However, most of the careful buyers have been able to make a fair commission in spite of the fact that they may lose from $30 to $40 on each rejected horse.

Most farmers having horses for sale know the price paid by the French government to contractors in Toronto, and many of them think they should get that price or quite near it. If they are willing to pay the freight to the place of inspection they can get within three dollars of the contract price, which as stated above, is the charge made by the large stables for placing their premises and staff at the disposal of the inspectors, and for cost of labor in showing, galloping and branding.

British is Different

The British army system is conducted along quite different lines. The purchasing on the North American continent is entirely under the control of Sir Charles Gunning, chief remount officer, who has at his command a staff of purchasing officers and veterinary surgeons. Arrangements are made with the chief remount officer for inspections to be held at all large horse centres, generally conducted under the supervision of the most active horsemen in the district.

A purchasing officer and a veterinary officer are sent to each appointment for the day, or whatever time is needed for the number of horses to be inspected. The price is a fixed one for the various classes. The cavalry horse commands the lowest price. The next class is for artillery, and is designated by "A," while the "AA" is the especially good horse for artillery or transport work. Any horse that is up to the required standard in any of these three classes is accepted.

Rare judgment must be exercised by the purchasing officer, as to the suitability of the animal for his particular purpose, even if he should comply with the specifications as to height, age, weight and soundness. The horse must be active, free from all defects in gait, and with conformation that will ensure endurance and thrift. The British army pays for the horses they buy each day and assume all risk and expense from the moment they buy at the various centres fixed for the inspections. They pay more for their horses than do the French, and they require a better class of horses. The two governments work together in complete harmony in this phase of the war's activities as in all others.

THE DICTAPHONE

A. HARPER & SON

213 Oddfellows' Building, Calgary

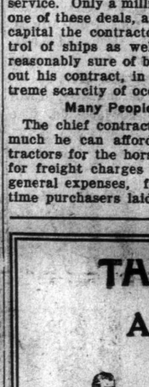
Royal Typewriters, all makes of Ribbons; Carbon Paper Multigraph Supplies, and Dictaphone Supplies.

GIVE US A TRIAL

Phone M2572

HARDWARE

MARSHALL HARDWARE, LIMITED, 131 Eighth Avenue East. Main 6300



HELP WANTED

MEN AND WOMEN TO LEARN BARBering. Highest wages, steady employment guaranteed. Tools furnished free. Send for free illustrated instruction book. CALGARY BARBER COLLEGE, 815B Centre Street (near C.P.R. Depot).

LADIES WANTED TO DO PLAIN AND light sewing at home, whole or spare time; good pay; work sent any distance; charges paid. Send stamp for particulars. National Manufacturing Company, Montreal 8-5

HIGH CLASS CLOTHING

MRS. BRENNAND, PHONE M5197, DEALer in high class cast-off clothing. Samples in Ladies' Suits, Coats and Furs. Highest prices given. Mrs. Brennand, 810a First St West. Alberta rooms.

Satisfied Customers for three years is our best advertisement

COUPON

To Dewis & Shaw, Box 78, Calgary, Alta. Enclosed find 50 cents for one tube of E-Z Rust Remover. If I do not get satisfactory results I can return same and my money will be refunded.

.....

HIDES AND FURS

BEST MARKET PRICE FOR HIDES, FURS, WOOLS, PELTS AND HORSE HAIR, by the CANADIAN HIDE AND FUR COMPANY 510 Fourth Street East Phone M6589 Calgary We pay 3 cents per lb. for old rags. We pay 30c per pound for Horse Hair.

ICE CREAM MANUFACTURERS

ICE CREAM IN BRICK AND BULK. Pure Goods. Prompt delivery P. PALLESEN Calgary Central Creamery Phone M5530

JEWELERS

DIAMOND MERCHANTS AND MANUFACTURING JEWELERS AND OPTICIANS Issuers of Marriage Licenses D. E. BLACK & CO., LTD. Corner 7th Avenue and 1st Street West

LOCKSMITHS

IDDIOLS BROS., SAFE AND LOCK EXperts. We repair Bicycles, Sewing machines, Guns, Locks, Etc. We sharpen lawn mowers, saws, shears, razors, etc. 712 2nd Street East, City Hall Corner Blk. East. Phone M6516. 13-1yr

MARRIAGE LICENSES

D. E. BLACK & CO. LIMITED JEWELERS & OPTICIANS ISSUERS OF MARRIAGE LICENSES CORNER 7TH AVENUE AND 1ST STREET WEST CALGARY, ALBERTA

ANNOUNCEMENT

Any Standard reader patronizing advertisers on this page are guaranteed satisfactory service. If you make a purchase and the goods are not right consult The Standard. When you buy mention The Standard.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT DEALERS

WESTERN MUSIC SUPPLY CO. Everything known in Music Supplies of all kinds for all instruments, Brass Band Instruments bought and sold. 405a Eighth Ave. West. Phone 3154, Calgary, Alta.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS REPAIRED

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT REPAIRING Violins retoned and repaired; 20 years' practical experience; bows rehaired All kinds of musical instruments repaired. Webb's Musical Instrument Repairing Rooms, 202-203 Bruner Block, Calgary.

MANUFACTURING FURRIER

FURS REMODELLED AND REPAIRED—Your own skins dressed and made up. Highest prices paid for raw furs. THOMAS PAIN, Successor to Mackay & Dippie, Fur Manufacturing Department 218A Eighth Avenue West Calgary.

MOUNT ROYAL COLLEGE CALGARY

ACADEMIC COURSES: BOOK-KEEPING and Stenography; Music, Expression, Art, Etc. Resident and Day Students. Open to all denominations and classes. Phone M2191. Calendar free on application.

NURSING HOMES

ENGLISH MATERNITY HOME—TERMS $20 per week inclusive. Graduate nurses supplied. Phone M3423. 612 2nd Ave. W.

OSTEOPATHY

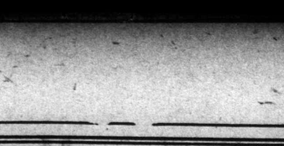
DR. M. E. CHURCH, OSTEOPATHIC Physician and Surgeon; member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Alberta. Suites 7, 8, 9, Alberta Block Phones M2787 and W4999. All Curable Diseases Successfully Treated. Adenoids removed without anesthesia, the famous Irrigation Treatment used in the treatment of Catarrh. Going on Nine Years in Calgary.

OXY-ACETYLENE WELDING

CITY WELDING AND REPAIR SHOP (formerly Calgary Welding Co.). Your Broken articles made like new. You will find us prompt and efficient. We stand behind every job. 142 First Ave. East, Calgary, Alta.

STANDARD'S MOTOR DIRECTORY

AUTO GARAGES



PBY THE WEST END GARAGE FOR Automobile Repairs; our work is superior at low cost, and satisfaction guaranteed. 18th Ave. and 5th St. West. 13-95

SECOND-HAND CARS BOUGHT AND Sold. We always have a good line of autos to make a good selection. Our garage is second to none for Repairs and supplies. WEBBER'S GARAGE 229 8th Avenue W. Phone M2833

VULCANIZED DOUBLE TREADS

PHONE M6755. NO STITCHES no bolts, no looseness, no extra weight; guaranteed 5,000 Miles. Red Star Vulcanizing Works. 103 Twelfth Avenue East. 13-1yr

OPTICIANS

PATENT SOLICITORS

FORD, WRIGHT & MILLER, PATENT Solicitors. Patents secured in all countries. Phone M6671. 207 Alberta Corner, Calgary, Alberta.

PIANOS

HARDY & HUNT PIANO CO., LIMITED 216 Eighth Ave. West. Main 1535.

PICTURE FRAMING

THE ART SHOP — PICTURE FRAMING a Specialty. 537 Seventh Ave. West J. W. BOOTH, Proprietor. Four years with Royal Picture Gallery

PLUMBING CONTRACTORS

YOUNG PLUMBING CO., LTD. PHONE M2869, Steam Fitters, Gas Fitting, Tinsmithing. 205 Seventh Avenue East.

PHELPS BROS. PHONE M1630 Plumbing, Gasfitting, Hot Water Heating Steam Fitting. Furnace Work. 930 Second Avenue N.W.

PRINTING

A. R. LITTLEBURY, COMMERCIAL AND Book Printer; 105 Sixth Avenue West Phone M2207. Estimates given.

PHOTOGRAPHER

CHAZIN PHOTO STUDIO—PORTRAITURE enlarging, developing, printing, and commercial work. 7 Eighth Ave. West Phone M5923.

PHOTOGRAPHIC COLORING

FOR ENLARGING, COLORING, FRAMing Photos of all kinds, faded and damaged Enlargements and Pictures restored. The Colorphoto Co., 710 First St. East. Please mention the Standard.

ROLLER SKATING

ROYAL ROLLER RINK HAS OPENED under new management. Drop in and enjoy yourself. Afternoons 2.30 to 5 p.m. Evenings 7 to 10.30. Mr. C. Anderson, instructor. Will be pleased to give lessons to beginners, also fancy skating. Admission, Ladies 15c, Gents 25c. 210 9th Ave. East. Proprietors, Thompson & Miller.

SAFETY RAZORS SHARPENED

JUST TO CONVINCE YOU, SEND US three blades, we will resharpen them and return to you Free of charge. Our prices are: Gillette 35c per doz., and single edge blades 25c per doz., old fashioned razors 25c each. We sharpen Clippers Scissors and Lances of every description Give us a trial. THE CALGARY SHOE HOSPITAL

SHOES REPAIRED

O. K. SHOE CO. Calgary's Leading Shoe Repairers Let Us Fix Your Shoes We Guarantee the Utmost Satisfaction Country Orders Receive Prompt Attention 710 First St. E. Phone M5078

STATIONERY AND OFFICE SUPPLIES

WILLSON STATIONERY CO., LIMITED, 215 Eighth Avenue West.—Everything in Stationery and Office Supplies. The most complete stock in Western Canada.

AUTO REPAIRS

THE WESTERN CARRIAGE WORKS. Auto and top builders and upholsterers; Side Curtains, Jiffey Curtains (patent); Seat Covers. Top Accessories always in Stock. 532 Seventeenth Avenue West. Phone W4958.

UNIVERSAL REPAIR SHOP
Centre Street and 4th Ave

AUTO OVERHAULING AT MODERATE prices. Oils, Greases, Ford Accessories. Second-hand cars for sale FIRST CLASS STORAGE

VULCANIZING

We are specialists in vulcanizing everything in rubber. We are agents for the famous Firestone Tire. Don't forget the address: BELL TIRE CO., 602a First Street East Phone M5905 Res. M4702

SECOND-HAND DEALERS

CHICAGO IRON AND METAL CO. 501-503 Sixth Ave. E., corner 4th St. Phone M4448.

Dealers in Scrap Iron, Brass, Copper, Zinc and Lead, Rubber Tires and Inner Tubes, also Manilla Rope and all kinds of Old Machinery. It will be to your convenience to see us. Phone, call or write. MAX RUBEN, Manager.

STORAGE AND CARTAGE

STORAGE AND CARTAGE FOR ANY kind of goods. Warehouse specially fitted for household merchandise, each customer having separate rooms. Trackage. Padded vans for furniture and pianos. Expert packers and shippers. Estimates cheerfully given. Official cartage and baggage agents C.N.R. JOHNSTON STORAGE & CARTAGE CO Phone M4444 and M5678. Limited Office and Warehouse 423 Sixth Ave. East

CALGARY STORAGE & CARTAGE CO LIMITED 637 TENTH AVENUE EAST PHONE M1308

Storage for all classes of Merchandise, including Cold Storage Equipment; Separate Compartments for Furniture, Pianos; Padded Furniture Vans; Packers, Forwarders. Baggage Delivered. Trackage for carlots.

TAILORS

SANDY MACLEAN Alterations, Tailoring, Repairs, Cleaning and Pressing Suits made to measure from $18 to $35 433 Lougheed Building, over Grand Theatre—Phone M6506. Calgary, Alberta

UNDERTAKING PARLORS

GRAHAM, McCALL AND RUTTLE LTD. FUNERAL DIRECTORS Horse and Motor Equipment, Ambulance in connection. 811 Centre St. Phone M1788

VIOLINS AND VIOLONCELLOS

JAS. J. DOHERTY Violin Repairer and Appraiser, Tone Restored, Bows Rehaired. Brass Band Instruments Repaired. 405a Eighth Ave. West. Phone 3154, Calgary, Alta.

ROSEDALE LTAR

LUMP $6.00
STOVE $5.25

Stock up now before the raise in price.

YORK SHAW
238 Eighth Ave. East
Phone M6423

PARCEL POST RATES

Any P. O. within twenty miles of Calgary, five cents for the first lb. and one cent additional for each additional lb. up to five lbs. when the rate is two cents for each additional lb. up to eleven lbs. To any P.O. beyond 20 miles but within the radius of Alberta, ten cents for the first lb. and four cents for each additional lb. To any P. O. in Saskatchewan ten cents for the first lb. and six cents additional for each additional lb.. To any P. O. in Manitoba, twelve cents for the first lb. and eight cents for each additional lb.

HOME CLASSIFIED BUSINESS GUIDE

OTOR DIRECTORY

AUTO REPAIRS

THE WESTERN CARRIAGE WORKS. Auto and top builders and upholsterers; Side Curtains, Jiffey Curtains (patent); Seat Covers. Top Accessories always in Stock. 632 Seventeenth Avenue West. Phone W4958.

UNIVERSAL REPAIR SHOP
Centre Street and 4th Ave

AUTO OVERHAULING AT MODERATE prices. Oils, Greases, Ford Accessories. Second-hand cars for sale. FIRST CLASS STORAGE

VULCANIZING

We are specialists in vulcanizing everything in rubber. We are agents for the famous Firestone Tire. Don't forget the address:
BELL TIRE CO.
602 First Street East
Phone M5905 Res. M4708

SECOND-HAND DEALERS

CHICAGO IRON AND METAL CO.
501-503 Sixth Ave. E., corner 4th St.
Phone M4448.
Dealers in Scrap Iron, Brass, Copper, Zinc and Lead, Rubber Tires and Inner Tubes, also Manilla Rope and all kinds of Old Machinery. It will be to your convenience to see us. Phone, call or write.
MAX RUBEN, Manager.

STORAGE AND CARTAGE

STORAGE AND CARTAGE FOR ANY kind of goods. Warehouse specially fitted for household merchandise, each customer having separate rooms. Trackage. Padded vans for furniture and pianos. Expert packers and shippers. Estimates cheerfully given. Official cartage and baggage agents C.N.R. JOHNSTON STORAGE & CARTAGE CO. Phone M4442 and M5678. Limited. Office and Warehouse 423 Sixth Ave. East.

CALGARY STORAGE & CARTAGE CO LIMITED
437 TENTH AVENUE EAST
PHONE M1848
Storage for all classes of Merchandise, including Cold Storage Equipment; Separate Compartments for Furniture, Pianos; Padded Furniture Vans; Packers, Forwarders. Baggage Delivered. Trackage for carlots.

TAILORS

SANDY MACLEAN
Alterations, Tailoring, Repairs, Cleaning and Pressing
Suits made to measure from $18 to $35
433 Lougheed Building, over Grand Theatre—Phone M6506.
Calgary, Alberta

UNDERTAKING PARLORS

GRAHAM McCALL AND RUTTLE LTD.
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
Horse and Motor Equipment, Ambulance in connection.
611 Centre St. Phone M3788

VIOLINS AND VIOLONCELLOS

JAS. J. DOHERTY
Violin Repairer and Appraiser, Tone Restored, Bows Rehaired. Brass Band Instruments Repaired. 405a Eighth Ave. West. Phone 3154, Calgary, Alta.

ROSEDALE STAR
LUMP $6.00
STOVE $5.25
Stock up now before the raise in price.
YORK SHAW
238 Eighth Ave. East
Phone M6423

PARCEL POST RATES

Any P. O. within twenty miles of Calgary, five cents for the first lb. and one cent additional for each additional lb. up to five lbs. when the rate is two cents for each additional lb. up to eleven lbs. To any P.O. beyond 20 miles but within the radius of Alberta, ten cents for the first lb. and four cents for each additional lb. To any P. O. in Saskatchewan ten cents for the first lb. and six cents additional for each additional lb.. To any P. O. in Manitoba, twelve cents for the first lb. and eight cents for each additional lb.

PRUDENCE
OF THE PARSONAGE
THE FAMOUS STORY OF A HAPPY FAMILY
By Ethel Hueston

COPYRIGHT 1915 BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

SYNOPSIS

Mr. Starr, minister, arrives in Mount Mark to take charge of the Methodist diocese, he is a widower with five children, all girls, namely, Prudence, the eldest, who mothers the rest of the family, who include, Fary, Connie and Carol and Lark, who are twins. The girls all go to school and are particularly clever.

The twins, though very lovable and obedient children, are very mischievous, and often embarrass Prudence and Fairy.

Every one in the parish admires Prudence for her sweet and womanly disposition. Professor Rayburn, of the college, is a suitor for her hand, but Prudence refuses him, considering her home and the bringing up of the family, her particular duty.

Owing to Mount Mark being a small parish and the congregation rather slack about money matters, the parsonage family have quite a hard time to make ends meet. Fairy and Prudence make over an old coat of their fathers for Connie, who always comes in for the left-overs, being the smallest, this being a particular disappointment, as she was promised a new coat. Connie calls on Mr. Harold, the president of the bank, and asks for the loan of $5.00, explaining the situation to him and promising to pay it back in two years, a nickle at a time. Mr. Harold tells her he is proud to have her trade. Connie surprises the family at dinner-time by producing the $5.00.

"Don't be frightened, father. I've just sprained my ankle, and it doesn't hurt hardly any. But the bicycle is broken,—we'll have to pay for it. You can use my own money in the bank. Poor Mr. Davis had to walk all the way to town because there wasn't any room for him in the wagon with me lying down like this. Will you carry me in?"

Connie's single bed was hastily brought downstairs, and Prudence deposited upon it. "There's no use to put me up-stairs," she assured them. "I won't stay there. I want to be down here where I can boss the girls."

The doctor came in, and bandaged the swollen purple ankle. Then they had dinner,—they tried to remember to call it luncheon, but never succeeded! After that, the whole parsonage family grouped about the little single bed in the cheery sitting-room.

"Whose coat is this, Prudence?" asked Connie.

"And where in the world did you get these towels and silk shirts?" added Fairy.

Prudence blushed most exquisitely. "They are Mr. Harmer's," she said, and glanced nervously at her father.

"Whose?" chorused the family. And it was plain to be seen that Lark was ready to take mental notes with an eye to future stories.

"If you will sit down and keep still, I will tell you all about it. But you must not interrupt me. What time is it, Fairy?"

"Two o'clock."

"Oh, two. Then I have plenty of time. Well, when I got to that little cross-cut through the hickory grove, about four miles out from town, I thought I would coast down the long hill. Do you remember that hill, father? There was no one in sight, and no animals, except one hoary old mule, grazing at the bottom. It was irresistible, absolutely irresistible. So I coasted. But you know yourself father, there is no trusting a mule. They are the most undependable animals." Prudence looked thoughtfully down at the bed for a moment, and added slowly, "Still, I have no hard feelings against the mule. In fact, I kind of like him.—Well, anyway, just as I got to the critical place in the hill, that mule skipped right out in front of me. It looked as though he did it on purpose. I did not have time to get out of his way, and it never occurred to him to get out of mine, and so I went Bang! right into him. And it broke Mattie Moore's wheel, and upset me quite a little. But that mule never budged! Jerry—er Harmer,—Mr. Harmer, you know,—said he believed an earthquake could coast downhill on that mule without seriously inconveniencing him. I was hurt a little, and couldn't get up. And so he jumped over the fence,—No, Connie, not the mule, of course! Mr. Harmer! He jumped over the fence, and put his coat on the ground, and made a pillow for me with the shirts and towels in his bag, and carried me over. Then he wanted to go for a wagon to bring me home, but I was too nervous and scared, so he stayed with me. Then Mr. Davis came along with his cart, and Jerry—er—Harmer, you know, helped put me in, and the cart was so small they both had to walk."

"Where is he now?" "Is he young?" "Is he handsome?" "Did he look rich?"

"Don't be silly, girls. He went to the hotel, I suppose. Anyhow, he left us as soon as we reached town. He said he was in a hurry, and had something to look after. His coat was underneath me in the wagon, and he wouldn't take it out for fear of hurting my ankle, so the poor soul is probably wandering around this town in his shirt-sleeves."

Already, in the eyes of the girls, this Jerry—er—Harmer, had taken unto himself all the interest of the affair.

"He'll have to come for his coat," said Lark. "We're bound to see him."

"Where does he live? What was he doing in the hickory grove?" inquired Mr. Starr with a strangely sinking heart, for her eyes were alight with new and wonderful radiance.

"He lives in Des Moines. He was just walking into town, and took a short cut through the grove."

"Walking! From Des Moines?"

Prudence flushed uncomfortably. "I didn't thing of that," she said. "But I do not see why he should not walk if he likes. He's strong and athletic, and fond of exercise. I guess he's plenty able to walk if he wants to. I'm sure he's no tramp, father, if that is what you are thinking."

"I am not thinking anything of the kind, Prudence," he said with dignity. "But I do think it rather strange that a young man should set out to walk from Des Moines to Mount Mark. And why should he be at it so early in the morning? Doesn't he require sleep, as the rest of us do?"

"How should I know? I guess if he likes to be out in the morning when it is fresh and sweet, it is all right. I like the morning myself. He had as much right out early as I had. His clothes were nice, and he is a Harvard graduate, and his shoes were dusty, but not soiled or worn. Anyhow, he is coming at four o'clock. If you want to ask if he is a tramp, you can do it." And Prudence burst into tears.

Dramatic silence in the cheerful sitting-room! Then Fairy began bustling about to bathe the face and throat of "poor little Prudence," and her father said sympathetically:

"You're all nervous and wrought up with the pain and excitement, Prudence. I'm glad he is coming so we can thank him for his kindness. It was mighty lucky he happened along, wasn't it? A Harvard graduate! Yes, they are pretty strong on athletics at Harvard. You'd better straighten this room a little and have things looking nice when he gets here," said Father Starr, with great diplomacy. And he was rewarded, and startled, by observing that Prudence brightened wonderfully at his words.

"Yes, do," she urged eagerly. "Get some of the roses from the corner bush, and put them on the table there. And when you go up-stairs, Fairy, you'd better bring down that little lace spread in the bottom drawer of our dresser. It'll look very nice on this bed.—Work hard, girls, and get everything looking fine. He'll be here at four, he said. You twins may wear your white dresses, and Connie must put on her blue and wear her blue bows.—Fairy, do you think it would be all right for you to wear your silk dress? Of course, the silk is rather paused on the staircase, looking up at her.

GERMANS ATTACK RUSSIAN LINE

Map showing northern half of the battlefront extending from the Baltic to the Black Sea. An assault on the Russains east of Lida at the point indicated by the heavy arrows by the forces of Prince Leopold.

"Lark and I are going to use some of Fairy's powder, father," she said. "We feel that we simply must on an occasion like this. And for goodness' sake don't mention it before him! It doesn't happen very often, you know, but today we simply must. Now, don't you say anything about falling in the flour barrel, or turning pale all of a sudden, whatever else you do. We'd be so mortified, father."

Mr. Starr was concerned with weightier matters, and went on down to Prudence with never so much as a reproving shake of the head for the worldly-minded twins.

"Father," began Prudence, her eyes on the lace coverlet, "do you think it would be all right for me to wear that silk dressing-gown of mother's? I need something over my nightgown, and my old flannel kimono is so ugly. You know, mother said I was to have it, and—I'm twenty now. Do you think it would be all right? But if you do not want me to wear it——"

"I do want you to," was the prompt reply. "Yes, it is quite time you were wearing it. I'll get it out of the trunk myself, and send Fairy down to help you." Then as he turned toward the door, he asked carelessly, "Is he very good-looking, Prudence?"

And Prudence, with a crimson face, answered quickly, "Oh, I really didn't notice, father."

He went on up-stairs then, and presently Fairy came down with the dainty silk gown trimmed with fine soft lace. "I brought my lavender ribbon for your hair, Prudence. It will match the gown so nicely. Oh, you do look sweet dearest. I pity Jerrold Harmer, I can tell you that. Now I must hury and finish my own dressing."

But with her foot on the bottom stair, she paused. Her sister was calling after her. "Send father down here, quick, Fairy."

Father ran down quickly, and Prudence, catching hold of his hands, whispered wretchedly. "Oh, father, he—he is good-looking. I—I did notice it. I didn't really mean to lie to you."

"There, now, Prudence," he said, kissing her tenderly, "you mustn't get excited again. I'm afraid you are too nervous to have callers. You must lie very quietly until he comes. That was no lie, child. You are so upset you do not know what you are saying today. Be quiet now, Prudence,—it's nearly time for him to come."

'You are a dear good father," she cried, kissing his hands passionately, "but it was a lie. I did know what I was saying. I did it on purpose."

And Mr. Starr's heart was heavy, for he knew that his feare were realized.

(To be continued.)

POINTERS FOR THE BABY

Never use a feeding-bottle with a tube.

Never give medicine to make the baby sleep.

Never wake the baby except for nursing.

Never give teething powders. They are poison.

Never forget that the little baby's head needs support.

Never give the baby a comfort. It is a bad habit, for which the baby is not responsible.

Never let a fly touch the baby or the baby's milk.

Never let the baby's skin get red or sore in or about the natal cleft. Keep clean.

Never use a soiled diaper again before it is washed.

Never wean a baby younger than nine months, unless your family physician advises you to do it.

Never put the nipple of the baby's nursing-bottle into your own mouth.

Never give the baby "loose" milk. Any milk that is not clean, cool and covered may kill the baby.

Never try any "Baby Food" without your doctor's advice. What suits your neighbor's baby may not suit yours at all.

Never exploit the baby as an attraction for friends and relatives.

RHEUMATISM PAIN

The exact cause of rheumatism is unknown, though it is generally believed to be due to an excess of uric acid in the blood. It may be also said with equal truth that no remedy has been found which is a specific in all cases. In fact the literature of rheumatism shows that there are but few drugs which have not been given a trial. In the hands of an observer we find that a certain drug has been used with the utmost satisfaction; others have found the same remedy to be a great disappointment. All physicians however agree that every method of treatment is aided by the administration of some remedy to relieve the pain and quiet the nervous system and Dr. W. S. Schultze expresses the opinion of thousands of practitioners when he says that anti-kamnia tablets should be given preference over all other remedies for the relief of rheumatism. These tablets can be purchased in any quantity. They are also unsurpassed for headaches, neuralgias and all pain. Ask for A-K Tablets.

GRAY HAIR

Dr. Tremain's Natural Hair Restorative, used as directed, is guaranteed to restore gray hair to its natural color or money refunded. Positively not a dye and non-injurious. Price $1.00, post-paid. Write Tremain Supply Co., Dept. C., Toronto, Ont.
On sale in Calgary at MacFarlane's Drug Stores, 124 Eighth Ave. E.

The Only Grand Prize (Highest Award) given to Dictionaries at the Panama-Pacific Exposition was granted to WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL
FOR
Superiority of Educational Merit.
This new creation answers with final authority all kinds of puzzling questions such as "How is Przemysl pronounced?" "Where is Flanders?" "What is a continuous voyage?" "What is a howitzer?" "What is white coal?" "How is akal pronounced?" and thousands of others.
More than 400,000 Vocabulary Terms. 30,000 Geographical Subjects. 12,000 Biographical Entries. Over 6000 Illustrations. 2700 Pages. The only dictionary with the divided page—a stroke of genius.
Regular and India-Paper Editions.
Write for specimen pages, illustrations, etc. Free, a set of Pocket Maps if you name this paper.
G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Springfield, Mass.

DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST EVERY MORNING

Hopes every man and woman here will adopt this splendid health habit.

Says a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it washes poisons from system, and makes one feel clean, sweet and fresh.

Why is man and woman, half the time, feeling nervous, despondent, worried; some days headachy, dull and unstrung; some days really incapacitated by illness.

If we all would practice the drinking of phosphated hot water before breakfast, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of thousands of half-sick, anaemic-looking souls with pasty, muddy complexions we should see crowds of happy, healthy, rosy-cheeked people everywhere. The reason is that the human system does not rid itself each day of all the waste it accumulates under our present mode of living. For every ounce of food and drink taken into the system nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out, else it ferments and forms ptomaine-like poisons in the bowels which are absorbed into the blood.

Just as necessary as it is to clean the ashes from the furnace each day, before the fire will burn bright and hot, so we must each morning clear the inside organs of the previous day's accumulation of indigestible waste and body toxins. Men and women, whether sick or well, are advised to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of washing out of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the indigestible material, waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Millions of people who had their turn at constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, sick headaches, rheumatism, lumbago, nervous days and sleepless nights have become real cranks about the morning-inside bath. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will not cost much at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate to anyone its cleansing sweetening and freshening effect upon the system.

Would You Like a Set of Beautiful TEETH? Then write or call at Dr. Harry P. Wright's Dental Offices without delay

CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK
OUR GREAT SPECIALTY

ARE you contemplating Crown and Bridge Work? If so, do not make the mistake so many others have made, namely, having the work done by other than a specialist in this branch of dentistry. In order to be successful in Crown and Bridge Work, an intimate knowledge of this work, combined with mechanical skill and years of experience is required.

¶ The lack of these qualifications explains the failure to attain strength, durability, its natural appearance, and sanitation, all of which are so very important.

¶ By visiting our offices you will readily appreciate the fact that we are thoroughly equipped with the most modern appliances for the proper execution of this work, and a test of skill will convince you, as it has hundreds of others, who have been wearing our crowns and bridges for years with perfect satisfaction, that all the assertions we have made are entirely justifiable.

WRITE FOR OUR FREE BOOK

¶ If you cannot call conveniently for a few days, send a postcard, and a useful and interesting book, "The Care of The Teeth," will be sent by return mail. It tells you a great many things about your teeth, and shows how many thousands suffer from bad health through no other cause than defective teeth ¶ Expert advice is always at the service of callers free of charge.

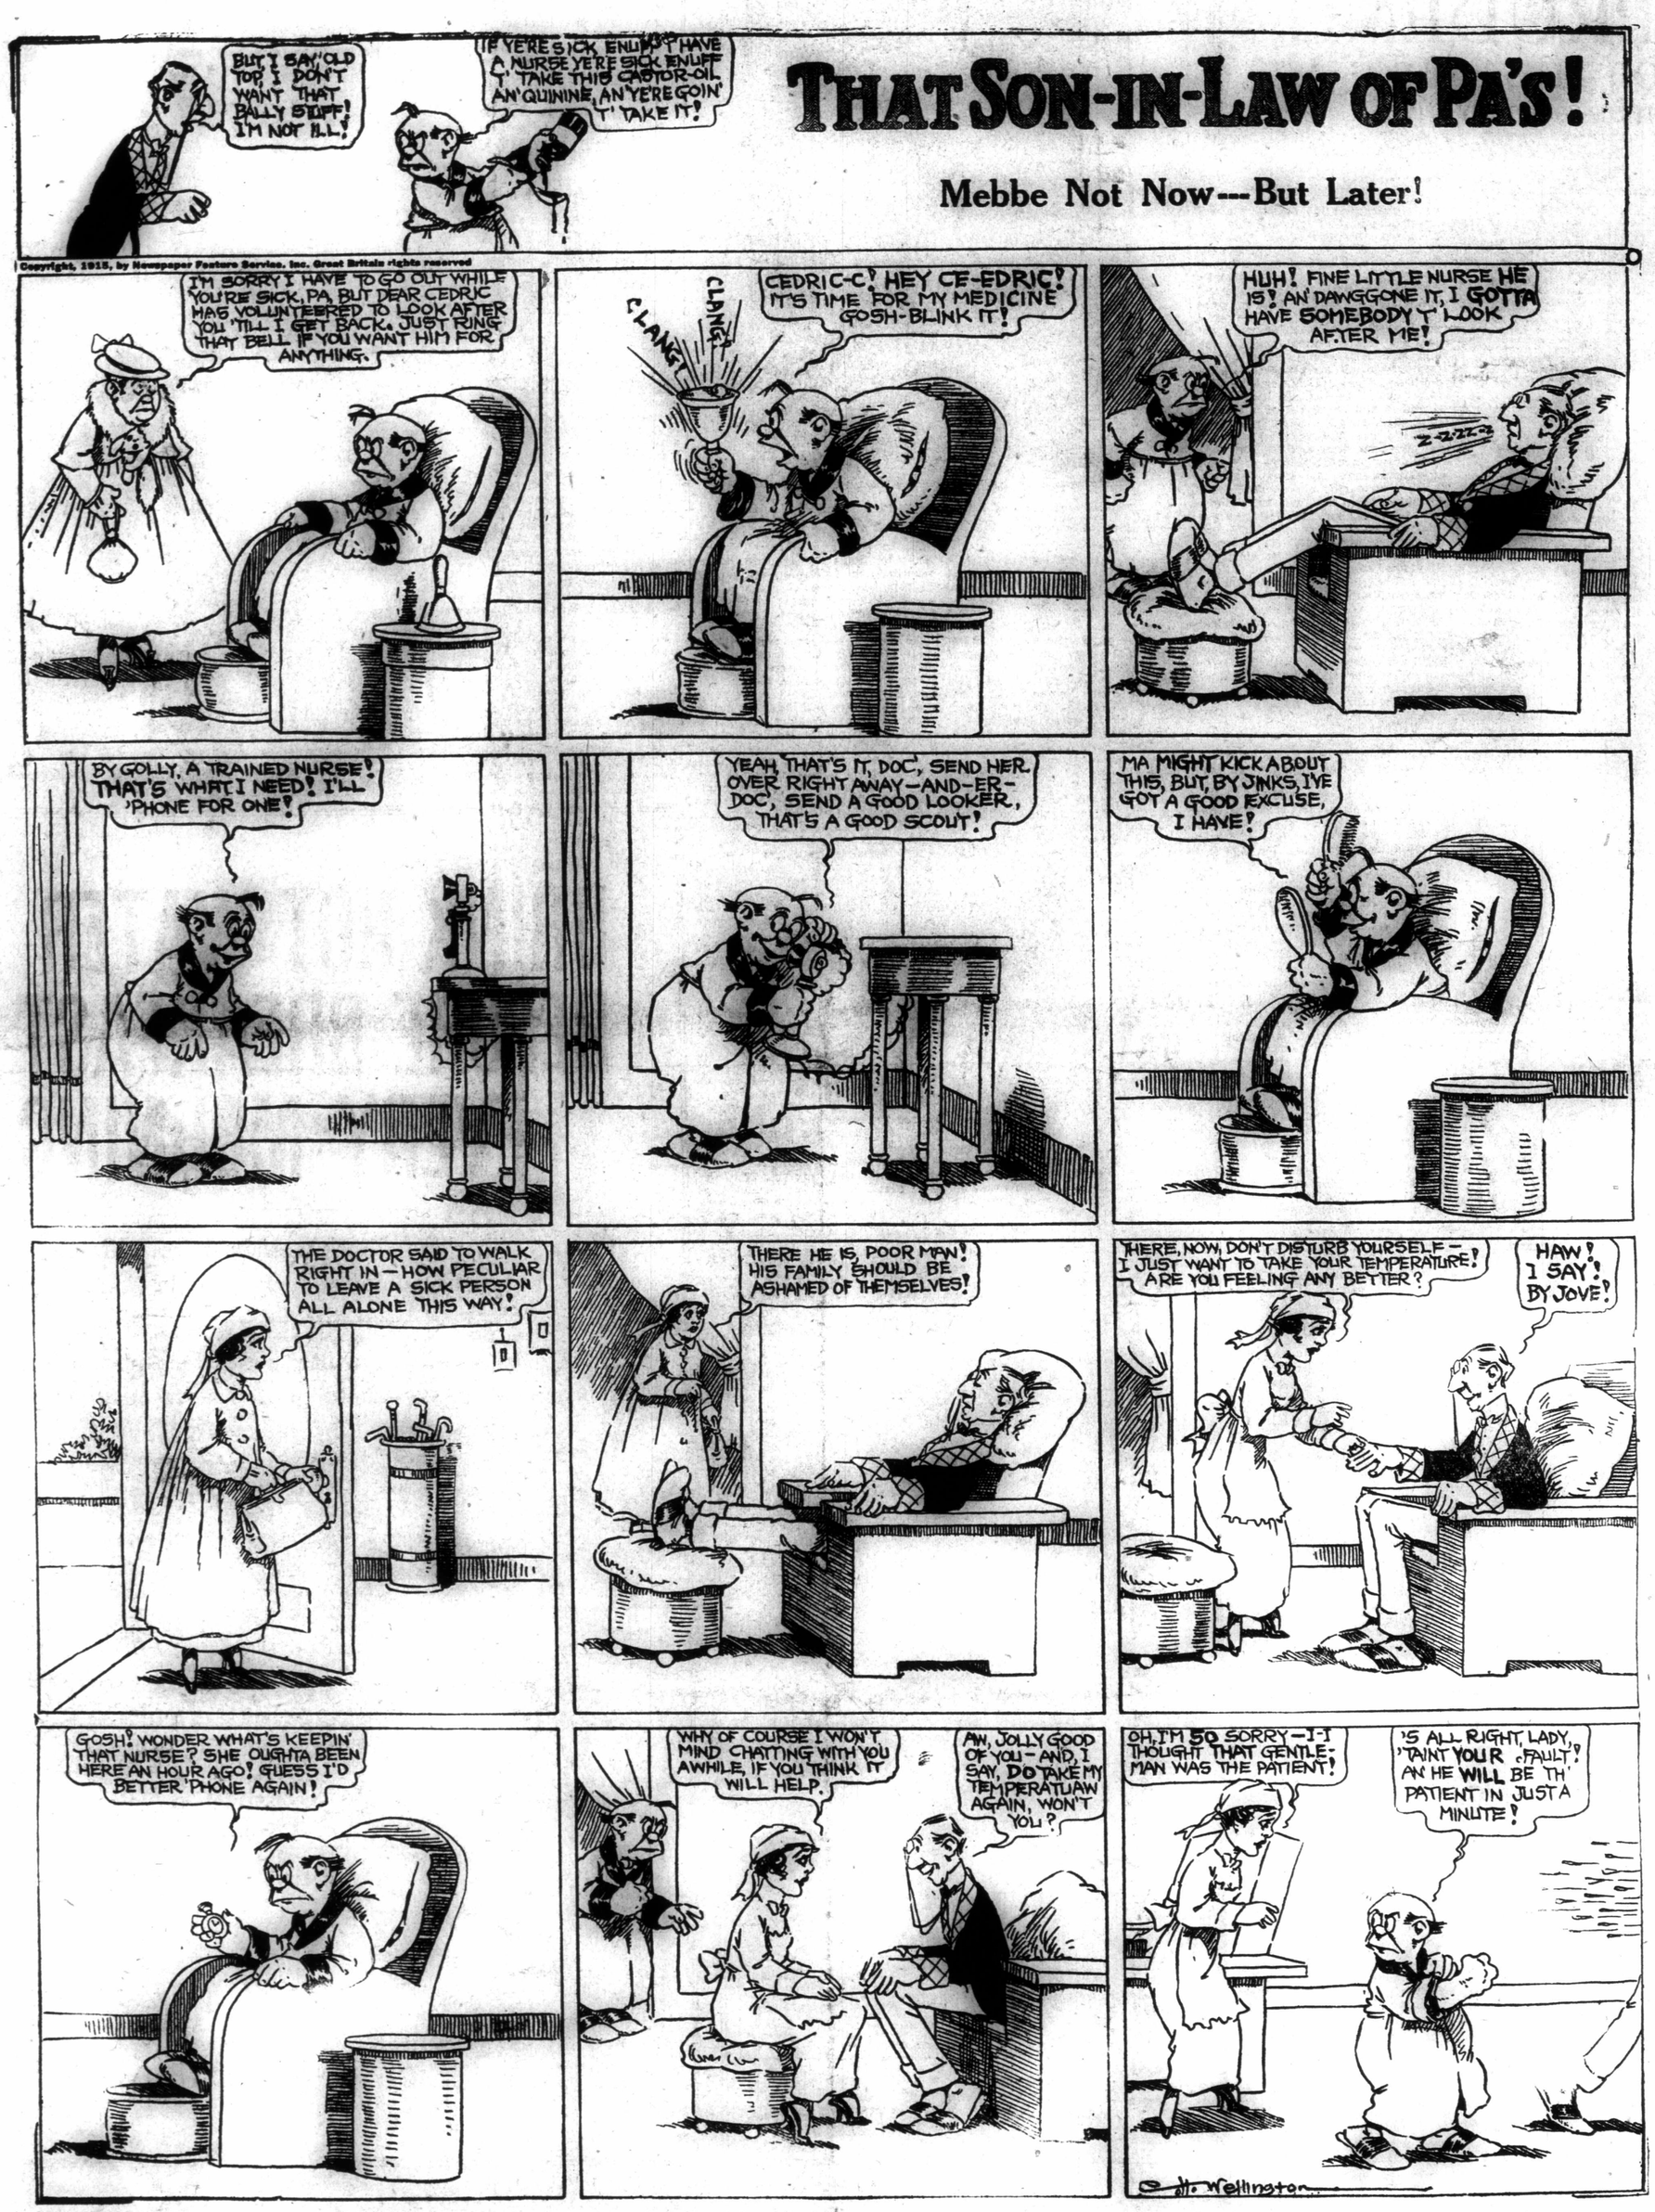
Study our location carefully—look for this sign:

NOTE

Patients from the country, not acquainted in the city, will find every member of our staff cheerfully at their service should they require advice or information. Being in the centre of the business district our offices make a convenient place to rest, transact business, write letters, etc. Make our offices your headquarters while in town. Every courtesy will be extended, and every effort made to be of service to you. Your dental work will be accomplished with a promptness and dispatch that will surprise and delight you.



DR. HARRY P. WRIGHT, DENTIST
(In White Letters on Eleven Windows), ALBERTA BLOCK

To avoid mistakes cut this address out. Bring it with you.
Corner Eighth Avenue and First Street West, CALGARY, ALBERTA

THAT SON-IN-LAW OF PA'S!

Mebbe Not Now---But Later!

Copyright, 1915, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved

MAY 6, 1917

(POSTAGE PAID)

IT IS NEVER TOO LATE TO BLAME THE OTHER FELLOW FOR YOUR MISTAKES

If you don't receive your Standard promptly we want you to kick, and kick hard. Every reader in Calgary, and most of Western Canada, including Alberta and Saskatchewan, should get their Standard on Saturday in time for Sunday reading. If you don't get it, it is either the fault of the delivery boy or the mails. In either event we can not correct the complaint without learning of the non-delivery, so kick like a bay steer every time you fail to get the great Sunday Newspaper, The Calgary (Western) Standard.

CALGARY
Western Standard
ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY

INDEPENDENT OPTIMISTIC

SPECIAL NOTICE

Any reader having a copy of the issue of March 25, will confer a favor upon us by sending or delivering it to the office, incidentally we will pay 25 cents for the issue.. Manager, 109 Sixth Avenue West.

Vol. VII. No. 10 TWO SECTIONS—12 Pages CALGARY, ALBERTA, MAY 13, 1917 TWO SECTIONS—12 Pages Five Cents the Copy

COMMENT AND CRITICISM

TRYING TO MAKE THE CITY THE "GOAT"

Very properly the city commissioners this week refused to consider the protest of a firm who wanted damages because their basement was flooded, endeavoring to show that the responsibility rested on the city. These claims and others for alleged damages are constantly being made, and as a rule the party who thinks he has a grievance hunts up a couple of aldermen and pours his troubles into their ears and they in turn take up the matter with the commissioners. In many cases where people have bought low lying lots cheap, or riverfront lots which are subject to erosion during high water, find they are suffering, they think the people of Calgary should be assessed to help them out. It is pleasing to note that in some instances at least the commissioners are able to shut off these applicants and save the city some money.

* * * *

POLITICS BEGIN TO BRIGHTEN UP

Things in the political world are beginning to freshen up, and from the present outlook the country and Calgary will be a whirlpool of political activity before many moons roll by. Rumors upon rumors are circulated regarding the forthcoming election and many sages are making predictions that seems logical, but in politics experience has taught us that even "the best laid plans of mice and men sometimes go awry." Whether the Conservatives will win or whether the Liberals will handle the affairs of the country for the next term is a matter of conjecture hard to predict. They both have an equal chance judging from the present outlook. Unless something unforeseen occurs to change the present impression of the two factions it is almost certain to be a "neck and neck" race. The wise sages have much to say in favor of the present government while the opposition have just as many who predict that they will have a clean walk over. All this talk, however, is only preliminary to events which will later occur and which will undoubtedly have much bearing on the final outcome. The future is uncertain, but the contest for supremacy is an assured fact and the pot has already been started to boil of political activity means that something will soon be doing.

* * * *

ALL CALGARY NEGLIGENT OF DUTY

It is a sad reflection to hurl upon the good name of the Calgary people, but the fact is true neverthless that the average Calgarian, man or woman, is not making the slightest effort to win this war. The average man thinks that by making a monthly or semi-occasional contribution to a patriotic fund that he is doing his duty and a majority of the women think that when they purchase a ticket to a so-called patriotic entertainment or attend a tea which is given presumably in the interest of some patriotic purpose they are doing all that could be expected of them. It is a sad commentary on the people to find this condition of affairs exist. The fact is, however, that a majority of the people, both men and women, do nothing but get together and criticise and imagine what great things they are doing. Attending a fashionable tea in the interests of a so-called patriotic fund is not making material effort to help the cause. You attend the tea because it is the fashionable thing to do and probably during the whole time you are at the tea not one word is spoken of the intent or purpose of the entertainment. The whole time is taken up in idle gossip or criticism of your neighbor. And you men, you get together at your club meetings and under the influencing talk of some speaker you make great plans and subscribe a certain amount of money and then go away and forget its purpose in the belief that you have done your duty. And your duty consists of applauding for a few minutes and writing out a check for a small amount. This is a sample of Calgary patriotism.

* * * *

CHILD WELFARE WEEK NOT WELL PATRONIZED

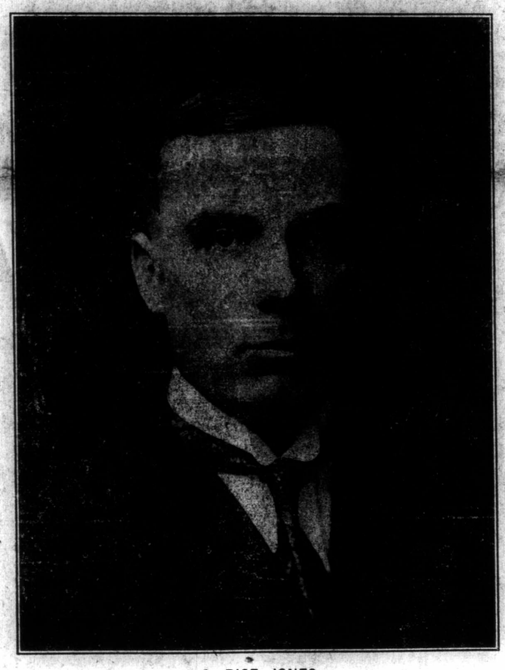
The noses of the grown-ups should have been completely out of joint this past week if as great success as it deserved had attended the child welfare campaign, but it is a most regrettable fact that from whatever the cause, the proboscis of the adults did not receive even a good bump. A fine program had been prepared, a large amount of press work done, and a most enthusiastic leader engaged and yet but a very few took advantage of the meetings held in the afternoons and evenings or even of seeing the exhibits provided from various sources. "The most dangerous job in the world is that of being a baby," was apparently not realized by the vast majority of the city's mothers else they would have found time to make at least one visit to a lecture or talk on behalf of their offspring. A bargain sale at the Hudson's Bay on a Friday attracts more women at 8.30 a.m. than did any of the meetings during the campaign arranged at the hours during which the homemakers is free. But surely it is not lack of interest in the heild? It is a well known fact that the visitor in the home is usually bored to extinction even in that of a large family where it might be supposed a baby is not a novelty, with details of the youngsters doings and sayings. The whole household seems to conspire to convince the guest that their's is the most wonderful baby in the world. It appears that the meeting places selected for the campaign have been unfortunate. Had they been in such places as were most convenient for the mothers to attend a larger audience would have greeted the speakers. The Grand theater, too, as the place of the opening, is rather a foreign element for mothers with small babies, especially those whom the campaign is supposed to benefit. Let us hope that next year will see a change in the arrangements of the meeting places for the Child Welfare Week.

HYMN BEFORE ACTION

By RUDYARD KIPLING

The earth is full of anger,
The seas are dark with wrath,
The nations in their harness
Go up against our path:
Ere yet we loose the legions—
Ere yet we draw the blade,
Jehovah of the Thunders,
Lord God of Battles, aid!

High lust and froward bearing,
Proud heart, rebellious brow—
Deaf ear and soul uncaring,
We seek thy mercy now!
The sinner that forswore thee,
The fool that passed thee by,
Our times are known before thee—
Lord, grant us strength to die!



For those who kneel beside us
At altars not thine own,
Who lack the lights that guide us,
Lord, let their faith atone!
If wrong we did to call them,
By honor bound they came,
Let not Thy wrath befall them,
But deal to us the blame.

From panic, pride and terror,
Revenge that knows no rein,
Light haste and lawless error,
Protect us yet again.
Cloke thou our undeserving,
Make firm the shuddering breath.
In silence and unswerving
To haste thy lesser death!

Ah, Mary, pierced with sorrow,
Remember, reach and save
The soul that comes tomorrow
Before the God that gave!
Since each was born of woman,
For each at utter need—
True comrade and true foeman—
Madonna, intercede!

E'en now their vanguard gathers,
E'en now we face the fray—
As thou didst help our fathers,
Help thou or host today!
Fulfilled of signs and wonders,
In life, in death made clear—
Jehovah of the Thunders,
Lord God of Battles, hear!

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

C. RICE JONES

One of the most active workers for the farming interests of the West, is C. Rice Jones, Vice-President of the Alberta Farmers' Elevator Co. Mr. Jones has been one of the foremost workers for the recent farmens' merger. He is a man with a wonderful amount of executive ability combined with a personality that appeals to you. Quiet, unassuming in appearance, one would hardly imagine that he was the mouthpiece and mainstay of the farming interests of this great Western country.

REVIEW OF THE WAR

The war reports of the past week has been one series of thrills intermingling with a great many disappointments. Taking it all in all it has been a most favorable week for the allies. The fact that so many of our noble boys have suffered or given up their lives to the great cause is a matter of deep regret, but the consoling thought is the fact that real headway has been made against the Germans. The progress that has been made will be continued without doubt. The Germans realize that they have a losing fight, and this is bound to dishearten them more or less, as it is now doing.

The report that a new revolution has been started in Russia will not materially effect things. The provisional government has matters well in hand, and any move that the enemies of the republican form of government may make will doubtless be anticipated by the government and acted upon promptly. The people are undoubtedly in favor of the present form of government, and it will be a hard matter to overcome the present organization.

Reports from the front state that the fighting continues with unabated vigor on both sides, but the fact that the French and British are both making progress is encouraging. The report that over 16,000 casualties have occurred at Vimy Ridge has a dampening effect upon our enthusiasm. It has a compensation thought when we learned that the Germans have lost twice as many in the same engagements.

* * *

It is unfortunate that England is not better prepared to allay the submarine menace. This has proven a most serious matter to the people of England. The assistance that the United States will give hereafter to combat this difficulty, however, has a most reassuring effect. England knows that the United States will leave no stones unturned to help in this great fight. This has been shown most conclusively in the past few days, and the combined efforts of the two nations is bound to bring success.

HERE AND EVERYWHERE

CARRYING THE MESSAGE TO UNCLE SAM

No one thing is more typical of the unanimity of all classes in the prosecution of the war than the characters of the three envoys chosen by the allies to carry the message to Uncle Sam. Balfour, though a Scot by birth, presents to the Canadian mind an ideal representative of the British political aristocrat—one of those who look on the whole thing as a beastly bore. At the same time he is a contradiction, for while a student and a writer, still in his handling of affairs in Ireland he was a man of action—so much so that they called him Bloody Balfour, and the ensanguined epithet was not applied in a Cockney sense either. Associated with this British Conservative of the Salisbury school is Viviani, the French Socialist, who was born in Algiers. He was so radical that he would not even be bound by Socialism, but put socialistic theories into practice and earned the disapproval of those of his party who would not be satisfied with half way measures. Completing the trio is Joffre, who from the age of seventeen has been a soldier, and whose thought and training has been as widely different as that of the aristocratic British Conservative or the fiery French Socialist.

* * * *

ONE WAY TO GET CHEAPER BREAD

Commissioner Graves says that a municipal flour mill could be put in operation at a cost of only $5,000, and while its presence would no doubt be beneficial, there will have to be something a great deal more drastic undertaken to meet the intolerable position which everybody is finding themselves in regarding the price of bread. The paltry suggestion that eliminating the paper wrapper would have any really beneficial result, can be abolished without a thought. The whole trouble is that there is a wheat shortage; therefore the natural thing to do is to conserve the supply. Great Britain went about this in the right way by fixing a grade of milling which retained all the nutriment in the grain and still making the product palatable. This is what will have to be done in Canada and the United States. It is quite likely that under present conditions there is nobody making any very great profit out of selling bread at eight loaves for a dollar—but the conditions should be altered.

* * * *

HEALTH DEPARTMENT IS OF REAL SERVICE

Few of the citizens realize the great amount of work the government and municipal authorities do to relieve the people from any unnecessary evil or scourge that might beset them if it was not warded off through precautionary effort. The health department which seem small in itself is in reality one of the mainstays of the community. Without its fostering help a city would soon be overrun with a multitude of disease and epidemics that would destroy it as rapidly as a cyclone can destroy a country. In Calgary the health department is under the supervision of Dr. C. S. Mahood, a genius in his line. That he knows his work and does it is evident from the fact that Calgary has never suffered materially from any epidemics. Time and again when the city has been threatened by some microbe that might have proved most serious to the community the trouble has been averted through the precautionary methods adopted by this wise overseer of public health. Dr. Mahood is an expert in his line—and his work is deserving of due appreciation from the people of all Calgary for the good that it does.

* * * *

LIMITING THE USE OF MILK, CREAM AND SUGAR

In these days of new ideas many strange suggestions come in the newspaper mail, but here is a man who writes in apparent earnest—and like many people who do not like certain things themselves—he proposes to make their use, except under certain conditions, a crime. Of course he also brings in patriotic duty also. In his letter he says that since prohibition came in he has no further use for either milk or sugar as a flavor with his beverages. Prior to July 1916 he used to drink milk toddies in which he liked to have a couple of small spoons of sugar. Now there are no more milk toddies, and as he does not care for mlk or sugar in his tea or coffee he says they are unnecessary for other people. By diluting these stimulants with the "trimmings" he says people use more than is necessary, and in addition they lose the flavor of the tea and coffee. If this milk and cream was not used in this way it could be converted into butter and the milk used to feed calves. The heifer calves would grow to be cows and help to reduce the cost of milk as well as increasing the live stock. The steers would be raised for baby beef and so help to reduce the ever increasing price of meats. The men who are engaged in milking and delivering would be releasd for other works of greater natural importance that catering to the depraved taste of those who want cream or milk in their beverages. The correspondent who writes to the Western Standard naturally sees that there would be a lot of trouble in enforcing the law; but he suggests that anyone found habitually having the milkman call at his door be made to show cause that the dairy product is not being misused. The efforts of the provincial government could be directed to the suppression of the "evil," and if there was a fine of say $200 for the first offence for the man or woman who is found using milk, cream or sugar in their cheering cup; and for hardened offenders who persisted in this immense national waste a term of imprisonment of six months without the option of a fine, would in his opinion do a great deal of good. It may be said for the correspondent that his attitude of "intolerance" is just like that of a great many other people. They very cheerfully want other people to give up what they do not care for themselves.

Alive :: Alert Up to the Minute

NEWS AND VIEWS ON SPORTS

Local .: Provincial World in General

The Wonderful Metz Car That Startles Calgary

There are so many cars today on the market that unless a car has something decidedly striking and different from the ordinary run of selection it is a toss up.

The Metz car is the car that is different. It is the twentieth century wonder, and its natty appearance attracts attention where ever it is seen.

The Metz car with its graceful lines and over which the driver has perfect control all the time, is being commented on very favorably by many people in Calgary.

The stream-line, clean cut appearance of this wonderful little car attracts everyone. The mechanical perfection, coupled with simplicity, acts as a magnet to the people of Calgary and surrounding country.

Mr. C. M. Meyers, of 507 Grain Exchange, called on the agents of the Metz car and he was very enthusiastic over the Metz car. He said his first Metz was a 2-cylinder—a real old-timer—and that he got better than twenty thousand miles out of it. His second car was a 1914 Roadster from which he has received better than fifty thousand miles. His order is on file for another Metz. Mr. Meyers thinks the new Metz is a marvel in appearance as well as performance.

Mr. Meyers' opinion of the Metz car is voiced by thousands of drivers of Metz cars all over the country. The drivers of Metz cars everywhere with one accord extol on the merits of car —the car that is different.

BOWNESS GOLF CLUB OPENING POSTPONED

The bad weather of the past week compelled the Bowness club to postpone the opening until a later date. If the situation should improve sufficiently to justify the same the club will be formally opened in about a week or ten days.

THE MAN GOTCH IS BOOSTING

Earl Caddock, the Anita, Ia., boy, is the wrestler Frank Gotch is tutoring for the championship. Caddock won his spurs in the Omaha match with Joe Stecher. Gotch says he is a game boy and will make a great wrestler.

FOOTBALL PLAYER DANGEROUSLY ILL

Ottawa.—Lt. Jack Ryan, famous football player, and now connected with the Royal Flying corp, is dangerously ill, the result of an accident while trying out a new machine.

HORSE RACING HAS CEASED IN ENGLAND

London, May 1.—All horse racing in the United Kingdom has ceased by order of the house of parliament. Whether any special orders will be issued for special occasions is a matter of conjecture.

CALGARY LAWN TENNIS OPENED UP LAST SATURDAY

The grounds of the Calgary Lawn Tennis club were formally opened to the members last Saturday and a good attendance were in evidence. The club intends to hold a series of matches and tournaments during the summer similar to those of last year.

Now Concern Opens With Second Hand Cars

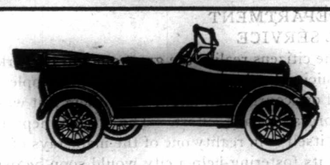
The Calgary Auto Auction Co., 101 Centre Street, has recently opened up with a proposition that will appeal to those that are intersted in purchasing an automobile or desire to sell one. This company will purchase any make of second hand cars, giving you the highest available price for your auto. This is practically a new business in Calgary, although it has met with remarkable success in other cities where the business has developed on most elaborate lines. If you want to sell a car or desire to purchase one, be sure to call on the Calgary Auto Auction Co. as their proposition is a good one.

Beware of people whose politeness is excessive.

CALGARY AUTO AUCTION COMPANY

701 CENTRE STREET, COR. SEVENTH AVE. Phone M 1715

W. McLEOD H. HAYES



We Buy and Sell all Makes of Second Hand Cars

Why Pay Fancy Prices When You Can Get Perfect Satisfaction With One of Our Second Hand Cars?

AUCTION SALES HELD REGULARLY.

See Us Before Buying or Selling.

GRAY-DORT AUTOMOBILES

For beauty, easy riding qualities, strength and economy these cars cannot be excelled

"The Quality Goes Clear Through"

PRICE $995.00 at Calgary

SHOWROOMS: 235 8th Avenue West

Phone M5337

ALLFORD GARAGE

EVANS & LINDBERG, PROPS.

Ford Specialists

All Repair Work Guaranteed

All Makes and Grades of Second-Hand Cars for Sale

211 TENTH AVENUE WEST

Residence: Phone M4866

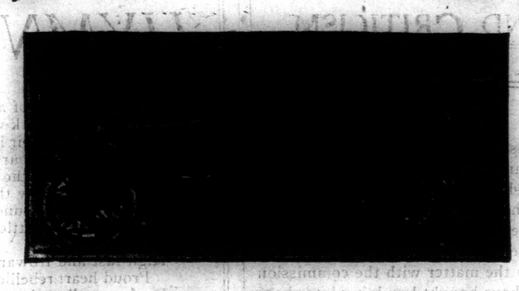
Garage: Phone M2548

OXY-ACETYLENE WELDING

City Welding and Repair Shop (formerly Calgary Welding Co.)

143 First Ave. E., Calgary. Phone M2749

Broken articles made like new. Customers doing business with us, find that we give prompt and careful attention to all orders. We are efficient in this line, and guarantee to give satisfaction.



FOWLER'S CIDERS

"THEY'RE MIGHTY GOOD"

13 DIFFERENT KINDS

BUY THEM BY THE GALLON FROM YOUR DEALER

THE METZ

HERE ARE REAL FACTS:

A MARVEL OF POWER METZ FIBRE GRIP

GEARLESS TRANSMISSION THE ONLY FLEXIBLE DRIVE

NO GEARS TO STRIP NO REAR AXLE TROUBLE

SIMPLICITY

DOES THIS APPEAL TO YOU?

With the Metz car you drive and ride in comfort. Your wife, daughter or son can handle the Metz with absolute safety. No tugging at the speed lever to change speeds. Simply release the clutch with your foot, place the lever in the notch required. No crashing of gears or jerky motion as you experience with most geared cars. You glide along as smoothly and gracefully as could be desired.

Examine the cut-out of the transmission or better still, watch the transmission itself. That Special Fibre Surface possesses an affinity for the Composition disc. They cling together and cause every ounce of power in the engine to be delivered to the driving wheels.

The pull of that Fibre wheel is uncanny, which probably causes you to be skeptical, still, from a logical standpoint you will have to admit that the PRINCIPLE IS IDEAL.

Every Metz owner is a BOOSTER—you will be one yourself after a demonstration in the Metz.

With the METZ FIBRE GRIP GEARLESS TRANSMISSION you have:

1st Positive and constant power and action.

2nd Simplicity and direct drive.

3rd All engine power applied to the rear wheels as driving power.

Others have competed for the Classic Glidden Trophy, but the Metz Company still retain it.

QUALITY AUTO CARS, LTD.

Phone M1498 - - - - Centre Street and 4th Avenue

ANNOUNCEMENT

We have just secured the Agency for "Massey Bicycles," prices ranging from $42.50 to $50.00

CANADA'S TRIED AND TRUE MACHINE

We are also Agents for the "Ivanoe Bicycle," prices ranging from $42.50 to $50.00

Our Repair Department is Thoroughly Equipped for Brazing, Enameling "Baking Process," and Our Work is Always Guaranteed.

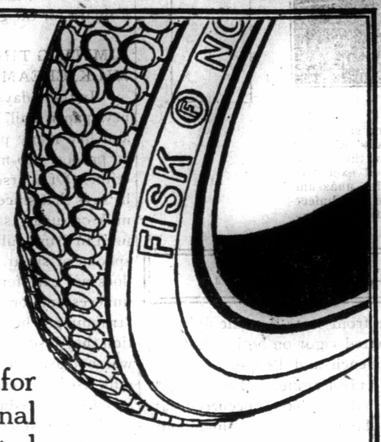
REBUILT MACHINES RANGING FROM $25.00 UP

INSTALLED

OXY-ACETYLENE WELDING FOR BRAZING, ETC.

We have the only Enameling Oven West of Winnipeg, and are thoroughly equipped for Cycle Repairs

RIDE A MASSEY



PREMIER CYCLE WORKS

102 Seventh Avenue West Phone M1755

W. B. COMPTON, Proprietor

Compare Quality—Prices

FISK NON-SKID TIRES

have a national reputation for quality. Their exceptional mileage value is supplemented by the strongest Service Organization in the industry.

Note the Prices

RETAIL PRICES, FISK TIRES, EFFECTIVE MAY 15TH, 1917

Size	Non-Skidd Casing	Grey Tubes	Size	Non-Skidd Casing	Grey Tubes
3½ x 30	$24.75	$5.00	4 x 31	$37.45	$6.75
3½ x 32	29.75	5.50	4 x 34	42.45	7.65

Why buy plain treads when you can get the safest, most satisfactory non-skid made at such prices as these?

Fisk Tires For Sale By

FISK TIRE AGENCY

CALGARY, ALBERTA

Corner Seventh Ave. and Third St. West Phone M6213

WESTERN CARRIAGE WORKS

A. H. ADAMS, Manager

Auto and Carriage Top Builders and Upholsterers, Manufacture and Repair Side Curtains, "Jiffy" Curtains patent), Seat Covers, Top Envelopes, Radiator Covers, Woodwork. Top Accessories always in stock.

"Your Satisfaction is Our Success."

832 17th Avenue West Phone W4938

Star Cycle & Motor Co.

Sole Agents for Perfect Bicycles, Star Bicycles and Indian Motorcycles

Auto Electrical Systems a Specialty

Complete Line of Accessories Always on Hand

Expert Repairing

Our Ten Years of Practical Experience, coupled with Our Many Satisfied Customers, is sufficient guarantee of what we can do for others.

A Trial Will Convince You.

224 Seventh Ave. E. Phone M3661

DO YOU RIDE A WHEEL?

When Enamelled, "Baking Process". By the Premier Man Looks Good as New

If you are thinking of making a purchase, or if you have an OLD WHEEL YOU WISH REBUILT, it will pay you to call and see US. This is our SPECIALTY, and we stand alone in this particular line.

OUR SYSTEM IS PERFECT AND MODERN, and in rebuilding your WHEEL, it is given a thorough overhauling, and the only difference in our REBUILT MACHINES AND THE NEW ONE, "IS THE PRICE."

PREMIER CYCLE WORKS

102 Seventh Ave. West Phone M1755

W. B. COMPTON, Prop.

Siegel Garage Company

SUPPLIES AND ACCESSORIES. STORAGE AND REPAIRS

Phone Us When in Trouble

708 1st St. E. Phone M4050

129 3rd Ave. E. Phone M4206

General Repair Works

P. C. HEAD, Prop.

230 SEVENTH AVE. EAST (Opp. Post Office), CALGARY

WE REPAIR—Guns, Sewing Machines, Gramophones, Typewriters, Cash Registers, Musical Instruments, Slot Machines, Carpet Sweepers, Vacuum Cleaners, Wash Machines, etc.

Guns Repaired by an Expert Gunsmith

We Do Welding, Brazing, Soldering

We Specialize on Sewing Machines

Gillespie Tire & Vulcanizing Works

Geo. J. Gillespie, Proprietor

Auto Tires and Tubes Vulcanized. We Supply Any Make of Tires.

Our Repair Work is First Class and Done in the Most Modern Way.

We solicit your patronage and ask you to give us a trial.

209 Sixth Ave. West, Calgary

GEO. EDWARDS Spring Manufacturer

All Kinds of Carriage and Wagon Springs Made to Order.

Prices Moderate

A trial is solicited.

330 Sixth Avenue East, Calgary

CALGARY WELDING SHOP

Up-to-Date Steel Cutting Appliances

Steel Tanks Made to Order

All Metals Welded—Cast Iron, Steel, Aluminum and Brass Castings of All Kinds

We Specialize in Farm Machinery Repairs—Oxy-Acetylene Process

We Solicit Your Patronage

All Work Guaranteed

306 Third Avenue East, Calgary

Phone M4322

STOR

Is Lord Geniu

About the Former the Greatest Na Want Him Rein While Others A

So much is being heard controversy raging about and there are such lively nected with his name, th most gravely wonders real facts.

In the one hand they h er first sea lord acclaimed sent genius; on the oth hear him spoken of as whose day of usefulness over. There is a section that his return to the adm peratively demanded by naval situation; there i equally insistent that his admiralty would be a terr

What is the truth abou er? Is he indispensable istration of the navy and ful prosecution of the w represented, or is he the out of date old man his cr him?

Take his age to begin w born in 1841, and is the seventy-sixth year. A say the anti-Fisherites, is for active control of the the settlement of the pr hourly arise. It is wo severely to tax a man ful years younger.

It is true that Lord answer the Fisherites, genius young at 76, with ence of naval matters t man living, and as much work as when he was c lord in 1904.

Father of the Dre

To Lord Fisher is due Great Britain inaugurate naught era and gained a start over the rest of th his supporters.

True, reply his oppone troduce the dreadnaught ing he lost us the bene dreadnaught superiority cond naval power. Ha manding superiority, it ness of ours to seek to introducing new types, retorted that if we had n naughts first Germany done so, as the idea was

In Lord Fisher we h who has done more to d chanical side of the Bri any of his contemporar pro-Fisher argument. the mechanical side o navy at the expense of side, and for this defec to pay heavily, runs t argument.

His friends say that has had a man whose i fertile in inventivene quicker to bend to new foresaw with more une the inevitable trend of ness his concentration bine engines, 13-inch an

His critics declare th

ALLIED CO

Top row lef battle of the Mar Britishe cabinet. Ribot's right-han President.

TZ

ARS TO STRIP
AR AXLE TROUBLE is uncanny, which probably rom a logical standpoint you

NCIPLE IS IDEAL.
STER—you will be one your-e Metz.
P GEARLESS TRANSMISower and action.
rive.
d to the rear wheels as driv-

Trophy,

LTD. and 4th Avenue

MENT
ncy for "Massey
42.50 to $50.00
RUE MACHINE
cle," prices ranging 0 ly Equipped for ss," and Our eed.
ROM $25.00 UP

BRAZING, ETC.
Vest of Winnipeg, Cycle Repairs
MASSEY
LE WORKS
Phone M1755
N, Proprietor

GEO. EDWARDS
Spring Manufacturer
All Kinds of Carriage and Wagon Springs Made to Order.
Prices Moderate.
A trial is solicited.
330 Sixth Avenue East, Calgary

CALGARY
WELDING SHOP
Up-to-Date Steel Cutting Appliances
Steel Tanks Made to Order
All Metals Welded—Cast Iron, Steel, Aluminum and Brass Castings of All Kinds
We Specialize in Farm Machinery Repairs—Oxy-Acetylene Process
We Solicit Your Patronage
All Work Guaranteed
306 Third Avenue East, Calgary
Phone M4322

STORIES OF EVENTS OF IMPORTANCE IN THE WORLD TODAY

Is Lord Fisher a Naval Genius or a Failure?

About the Former Sea Lord There is Raging in England the Greatest Naval Controversy of the War—Some Want Him Reinstated as Head of British Admiralty While Others Are Bitterly Opposed.

So much is being heard in the great controversy raging about Lord Fisher, and there are such lively debates connected with his name, that the public most gravely wonders what are the real facts.

In the one hand they hear the former first sea lord acclaimed as a Heaven sent genius; on the other hand they hear him spoken of as an old man whose day of usefulness is practically over. There is a section which urges that his return to the admiralty is imperatively demanded by the serious naval situation; there is a section equally insistent that his return to the admiralty would be a terrible mistake.

What is the truth about Lord Fisher? Is he indispensable to the administration of the navy and the successful prosecution of the war at sea as represented, or is he the quarrelsome, out of date old man his critics describe him?

Take his age to begin with. He was born in 1841, and is therefore in his seventy-sixth year. A man past 70, say the anti-Fisherites, is much too old for active control of the admiralty and the settlement of the problems that hourly arise. It is work calculated severely to tax a man fully twenty-four years younger.

It is true that Lord Fisher is old, answer the Fisherites, but he is a genius voting at 76, with more experience of naval matters than any other man living, and as much a glutton for work as when he was called first sea lord in 1904.

Father of the Dreadnaught

To Lord Fisher is due the fact that Great Britain inaugurated the dreadnaught era and gained a commanding start over the rest of the world, urge his supporters.

True, reply his opponents, he did introduce the dreadnaughts, but in so doing he lost us the benefit of our predreadnaught superiority over the second naval power. Having this commanding superiority, it was no business of ours to seek to negative it by introducing new types. To which it is retorted that if we had not built dreadnaughts first Germany would have done so, as the idea was in the air.

In Lord Fisher we have the man who has done more to develop the mechanical side of the British navy than any of his contemporaries, runs the pro-Fisher argument. He developed the mechanical side of the British navy at the expense of the intellectual side, and for this defect we have had to pay heavily, runs the anti-Fisher argument.

His friends say that the navy never has had a man whose mind was more fertile in inventiveness, who was quicker to bend to new ideas, or who foresaw with more unerring accuracy the inevitable trend of things—as witness his concentration on oil fuel, turbine engines, 13-inch and 15-inch guns.

His critics declare that any good he did in his dealings with material he undid by ruthless scrapping, consigning to the lumber yard scores of ships whose period of service was far from being exhausted, and turning over to disuse most of the dockyards abroad.

His North Sea Concentration

Lord Fisher's strategical disposition of our naval forces was perfect, and contributed to our present success in the war with Germany; he correctly envisaged the character of the war, and prepared for it accordingly. When war broke out our forces were assembled in the North Sea, not scattered over all the oceans. So the Fisherites say.

Admittedly Lord Fisher stood for the policy of concentration in the North Sea, say the anti-Fisherites, but this step was automatically the consequence of the Anglo-French entente, which led to the naval convention whereby France agreed to do the main work of policing the Mediterranean. As for the rest, it was his disposition of our naval forces which found the ill-fated Admiral Cradock compelled to give fight at Coronel to infinitely superior forces.

When Lord Fisher was at the admiralty the U-boat menace was adequately met; when he left the defensive measures languished, and conditions of real peril were allowed to spring up. Such is the plea of his friends, countered by the contention that the U-boat menace never was adequately met, but that the public was grossly deceived into believing it had been overcome, whereas it always remained very serious; further, that, had Lord Fisher shown the proper grasp of the problem, he would long ago have commenced to arm the ships, seeing that eperience has shown that 75 per cent. of vessels that are armed escape the U-boats.

Lord Fisher ruled the admiralty with an iron hand, assert his friends, and unless there had been this iron control the admiralty would have been the seat of innumerable cliques and intriguing sections, whose activities would have told against the efficiency of the navy.

The Gallipoli Gamble

The way Lord Fisher ruled the admiralty, reply his critics, was to set his brother officers by the ears, to create endless contentions, to pursue with relentless vindictiveness those who honestly disagreed with him, and so gain his way by methods of propaganda which were not in accordance with the long established traditions of the navy. When he was at the admiralty he was feared rather than respected, and where he should have achieved his ends by inspiring esteem he achieved them by inspiring terror.

The chorus of approval with which the suggestion of Lord Fisher's return quarters, urge the Fisherites, is a sign that people well qualified to judge are on his side. The people who hail him as the right man for the job, retort the anti-Fisherites, are the people he has assiduously cultivated for years, and whom he has bound to his side by consistently kindly treatment, in sheer contradistinction to his treatment of his brother officers.

If Lord Fisher were at the admiralty we should have a greater assurance of things going right, insist his friends. To which it is replied that when Lord Fisher was at the admiralty we had the disastrous Gallipoli gamble.

What is wanted at Whitehall is a man of ripe experience, inventive genius and broad outlook, runs the pro-Fisher argument. What is wanted at Whitehall, runs the anti-Fisher argument, is a cool thinking intellect, fresh from command of the fleet, which we have in Admiral Jellicoe. He has the advantage of having been afloat in supreme command in the present war, whereas Lord Fisher has not been afloat in supreme command in the present war, whereas Lord Fisher has not been afloat for many years. Further, Admiral Jellicoe is 58, Lord Fisher is 76, and those eighteen years made all the difference.

Common and Debatable Ground

It is common ground:

That Lord Fisher is clever.

That Lord Fisher is hard working.

That Lord Fisher has done much good work in his time.

That Lord Fisher is 76.

That Lord Fisher has many admirers.

It is arguable ground:

That Lord Fisher did much that was disadvantageous for the navy.

That Lord Fisher left undone much that should have been done.

That Lord Fisher is masterful with all the intolerance of age.

That Lord Fisher wantonly scrapped eighty unarmored cruisers and built few light cruisers in their place.

That Lord Fisher's freak ships—monitors, armored motor boats, etc.—were a waste of money.

Here, stated without bias or passion one way or the other, are the main facts in the great Fisher controversy, the most piquant interlude in parliamentary politics today, and the public may be left safely to decide for themselves whether truth lies with those who claim for Lord Fisher all the virtues and few of the defects of eminent qualities, or with those who attribute to Lord Fisher all the defects and few of the virtues of powerful personality. With the former are many admirals; with the latter are Mr. Churchill and a host of newspaper friends.

Meanwhile, as Lord Fisher is the head of a department for considering inventions, the admiralty has the use of his brains, and the war goes on.

SPEED IN BRINGING UP SUPPLIES

One of the chief reasons why the British and French are able to hold the gains they make in this spring offensive, is due to the use of the light railway following closely behind the advancing troops, keeping them supplied with food and ammunition.

Novelist's Life Spent in a Siberian Prison

In a Publication Just Issued, "The House of the Dead," Fyodor Dostoevsky Gives a Graphic and Poignant of Prison Life Under the Old Regime.

I could never have imagined how terrible and agonizing it would be, never once for a single minute to be alone for the ten years of my imprisonment. At work to be always with a guard, at home with two hundred fellow prisoners; not once, not once alone!

There were here men who were murderers by mischance and men who were murderers by trade, brigands and brigand chiefs. There were simple thieves and trampe who were pickpockets or burglars.

There were people about whom it was to the admiralty is received in certain difficult to guess why they had come. Yet each had his own story, confused and oppressive as the heaviness that follows a day's drinking. As a rule it was rare for anyone to talk of his life, and curiosity was not the fashion; it was somehow not the custom and not correct. I remember how a robber began once when he was drunk (it was sometimes possible to get drunk in prison) telling how he had murdered a boy of 5, led him away to an empty shed and there had murdered him. The whole roomful of men who had till then been laughing at his jokes, cried out like one man and the brigand was forced to be silent; it was not from indignation they cried out, but simply because there is no need to talk about that, because talking about that is not the correct thing.

Almost all the convicts raved and talked in their sleep. Oaths, thieves' slang, knives, axes were what came most frequently to their tongues in their sleep. "We are a beaten lot," they used to say, "our guts have been knocked out, that's why we shout at night."

• • •

The Daghestan Tartars were three in number and they were all brothers. Two of them were middle aged men, but the third, Aley, was not more than two-and-twenty, and looked even younger. His whole soul was apparent in his handsome, one might even say beautiful, face. His smile was so confiding, so childishly trustful, his big black eyes were so soft, so caressing, that I always found a particular pleasure in looking at him, even a consolation in my misery and depression. When he was in his native place, one of his elder brothers ordered him to take his saber, to get on his horse and to go with them on some sort of expedition. The respect due an elder brother is so great among the mountaineers that the boy did not dare ask, did not even dream of asking, where they were going, and the others did not think it necessary to inform him. They were going out on a pillaging expedition to way lay and rob a rich American merchant on the road. And so indeed they did. His brothers were very fond of him, and their affection was more like a father's than a brother's. He was their comfort in exile, and sullen and gloomy as they usually were, they always smiled when they looked at him, and when they spoke to him their surly faces relaxed, and I guessed that they spoke to him of something humorous, almost childish. It was hard to imagine how this boy was able during his prison life to preserve such a gentle heart, to develop such strict honesty, such warm feelings and charming manners, and to escape growing coarse and depraved. But his was a strong and steadfast nature in spite of all its apparent softness. As time went on I got to know him very well. He was pure as a chaste girl, and any ugly, dirty, cynical unjust or violent action in the prison brought a glow of indignation into his beautiful eyes, making them still more beautiful. There are natures so innately good, so richly endowed by God that the very idea of their ever deteriorating seems impossible. One is always at ease about them. I am at ease about Aley to this day. Where is he now?

• • •

Money was of vast and overwhelming importance in prison. One may say for a positive fact that the sufferings of a convict who had money, however little, were not a tenth of what were endured by one who had none, though the latter, too, had everything provided by government, and so, as the prison authorities argue, could have no need of money. I repeat again, if the prisoners had been deprived of all possibility of having money of their own, they would either have gone out of their minds, or have died off like flies (in spite of being pro-

(Continued on page Eleven)

ALLIED COMMISSIONS TO UNITED STATES

Top row left to right: Gen. Foch, Field Marshall Joffre, victors of the battle of the Marne. Centre: A. J. Balfour, distinguished member of the Britishe cabinet. Bottom row, left to right: Octave Homberg, Premier Ribot's right-hand man, Ex-Premier Rene Viviani, who is now Vice-President.

One of the Greatest Adventurers of the Day

Col. Charles Chaille-Long Discovered the Source of the Nile River and Knew All About Four Continents—Honors Were Tardy in Coming to Him and He Died a Comparatively Poor Man.

One of the greatest travellers and adventurers of the times died the other day. He was Col. Charles Chaille-Long, and his death received the same scant notice that had been awarded so many of his achievements during his lifetime. Soldier, author, diplomatist and explorer, he lived his seventy-five years as thoroughly as any man of his time. He knew four continents and he solved a riddle that had puzzled mankind for many years—the source of the Nile river.

As a youth Chaille-Long fought with distinction in the Civil war. He entered as a private and came out a lieutenant colonel. Then he figured in a chapter of our history that is little known to the present generation—our military mission to Egypt. Khedive Ismail wanted to reorganize his army and he wanted the work done by men who would be free from the petty intrigues of the various European countries, all of which were interested in Northern Africa. The khedives obtained the co-operation of General Sherman, and in 1869 ten American officers—half of them Federals and half former Confederate commanders—were sent to Egypt. Chaille-Long was one of the party and he became the widest known for his work in Africa. Some of the others of the party were Generals Loring, Libby Libby and Stone and Majors Morgan and Kennon.

Found Lake Ibrahim

Chaille-Long came under the influence of the famous "Chinese" Gordon, then campaigning in the Sudan. He and Gordon designed the fortifications of Tel-el-Kebir, for the defence of Cairo and Gordon induced the American to explore the upper Nile. In two shallops constructed of tough bark Chaille-Long and two companions continued along the river until they found Lake Ibrahim, now known as Lake Chogs. They found the bosom of the lake radiant with the great lotus, whose leaves are strong enough to support the body of a child. The party discovered that the river issuing from the Victoria Nyanza is the Nile, thus settling a question that long had troubled geographers.

On this trip Chaille-Long and his two companions, both Egyptian officers, were attacked by a force of several hundred natives. The explorers carried sheet iron travelling cases and barricaded in these they stood off the attacking force for hours, killing more than eighty natives.

Chaille-Long led several expeditions into Africa, conquering the Niam-Niam country and adding it to Egypt, and exploring a long stretch of the east coast of Africa that hitherto had been unknown to civilization.

Called Back to Egypt

His health failing under the incessant hardships to which he had been subjected, Chaille-Long came back to this country in 1877 and studied law. He became an authority on international law, afterward teaching for a time in Paris. But at the time of the Sudanese uprising in 1881 he was besought by the American government to go back to Egypt and take charge of the consulate at Alexandria, from which all the other Americans had fled. He saved hundreds of lives during those troublous times, the consulate being made a refuge for all nationalities.

In 1887 Cleveland appointed Chaille-Long consul general and secretary of the legation in Korea. The man's restless energy again manifested itself in exploration and he made an overland trip to Seoul, discovering on the way the source of the Han river. Egypt called him again in 1890 and he spent eight years there, writing and exploring.

Recognition Came Late

The honors that had been tardy in their coming began to be showered upon him then. Great Britain finally recognized his share in the uncovering of the secrets of the Nile and gave him equal rank with Speke and Baker. The American Geographical Society gave him a gold medal and he was made secretary for the Universal Postal Congress at Washington and later secretary to the United States commission at the Paris Exposition.

Chaille-Long wrote a number of books dealing with the lands he had explored. They are standard works upon the little known regions of the world, but they brought him little revenue. Though half a dozen nations honored him with medals and titles, he died a comparatively poor man. His only reward of any consequence was the tribute paid him by "Chinese" Gordon, another of the great adventurers: "This man deserves to rank with the world's chief discoverers."

Count Beaufort a Spy and a British Hero

As a Secret Service Agent He Enter d the Secret Rooms of the German Admiralty and Obtained a Map of Heligoland—Married a Girl from the States.

A British hero, one of the boldest of international spies, is a young man whose name was once on many a lip in America, but in mention far from heroic.

He is Count Jan Mourik de Beaufort who married Irma Kilgallen, Chicago heiress, who afterwards married Joe Howard, the actor, and then killed herself.

Beaufort, who left the United States after his unfortunate marriage, became a secret agent.

Five years ago Count de Beaufort told an interviewer: "I am going to prove to the American people that a count can be a man in spite of his title."

That remark is now recalled by American correspondents in London. They think he has made good.

Talked With Von Hindenburg

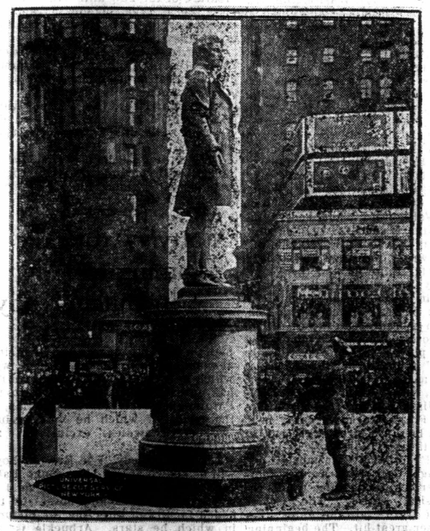
One of the count's war feats was interviewing Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, in the guise of a newspaper correspondent, before making his trip along the North Sea coast and entering the secret rooms of the German admiralty.

In the admiralty, Beaufort found large scale maps of British harbors and dockyards—better maps than he had seen in England.

But his most valuable work was in connection with coast defences. His discoveries along the North Sea have proved of great value to the British admiralty.

He mapped the mouths of the Elbe and Weser, including Cuxhaven and Wilhelmshaven, and the twenty-seven forts and many batteries that guard this little strip of coast.

Visited Strongholds



He also obtained a war map of Heligoland, the tiny islet that is Germany's North Sea Gibraltar. Now England knows the exact location of the guns and the Zeppelin sheds.

Accompanied by a German naval officer, Beaufort inspected the Kiel Canal, although he was allowed to bring nothing from the canal but the information he could store in his brain.

He also listened to a naval lecture by Admiral Von Koester of the German fleet, and returned to England through Holland.

Beaufort's title is Dutch, and he posed in Germany as a correspondent for Dutch newspapers.

HONOR TO NATHAN HALE

Boy Scouts on the occasion of their assembly in City Hall Park, New York City, do honor to Nathan Hale, patriot of the Revolution, who said before being hanged as a spy, "I regret that I have only one life to give for my country."

THEATRES | WHERE TO GO | PICTURE PLAYS | WHAT TO SEE | VAUDEVILLE

PANTAGES
UNEQUALLED VAUDEVILLE

WEEK OF MAY 14

"HONEYMOON ISLE"
Girls and Comedy

Will Morrissey
Annoyed at the Piano, by Freddie Clinton

Ed. F. Reynard
"Before the Court"

Alberto
Terpsichorean Musicians

Dorothy Vaughan
Singer of Cheerful Songs

"Pearl of the Army."

MLLE. BIANCA & CO.
Artistic Terpsichorean Conceptions

George M. Cohan at the Allen Monday to Thursday

As a distributor of mirth and general good cheer, it is safe to say that George M. Cohan, who will be seen at the Allen four days next week commencing Monday, in his celebrated stage triumph "Broadway Jones," has no equal on the stage today. Quite the most dominant, popular and conspicuous figure we have had in the amusement field for a decade, Mr. Cohan, seemingly as well turns out a successful play, a fascinating song number, evolves a rapid fire farce or dramatizes a novel, always with the sure touch of the genius that marks the student who has acquired the knowledge of the stage and its technique at first hand and therefore presents his work with absolute authority. His recent affiliation with the Artcraft Pictures Corporation, marked the advent to the motion picture industry of another acquisition of great import to the future of the art.

George M. Cohan's career started at an early age when he toured the New England States with his father, mother and sister in an entertainment called "Four of a Kind," written by his father, Jere J. Cohan. Later he appeared in vaudeville, then known as "variety," followed by a season with "Peck's Bad Boy," in which he played the title role.

Mr. Cohan's first original sketch, "The Professor's Wife," was a tremendous success, followed by another hit, "Money to Burn." Then come "The Governor's Son," "Running for Office," was the next Cohan output. Later as a three-act musical comedy it met with success at the 14th Street theater.

In 1901 Mr. Cohan joined hands with Sam H. Harris, Mr. Cohan appearing for the first time as an individual star in his musical comedy hit, "Little Johnny Jones." This play ran for two solid years. "45 Minutes from Broadway," written by Mr. Cohan in 1904, was presented throughout the country and is said to have earned over a million dollars. "George Washington, Jr.," was composed, produced and acted by Mr. Cohan in 1905 and the next year he appeared with his own company at the roof garden atop the New Amsterdam theater, N.Y., in a revival of "The Governor's Son." Later famous hits written and produced by Mr. Cohan were "50 Miles from Boston," "The Talk of New York," "The Yankee Prince," in which he starred personally, "The American Idea," "The Cohan and Harris Minstrel company" and "The Man Who Owns Broadway."

In 1910 he dramatized the George Randolph Chester stories, "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," and scored the biggest author's success ever known in this country. 'The Little Millionaire," which he wrote, produced and appeared in as star followed and then came "Broadway Jones," which he has now produced in motion picture form. Hailed as the biggest hit of the season, Mr. Cohan scored great success as an actor-author-producer in connection with this play. "The Seven Keys to Baldpate," founded on the novel of the same name by Earl Derr Biggers, came next.

"The Miracle Man," based on the novel by Frank Packard, came next and had a long and prosperous run at the Astor theater, New York. "Hello, Broadway!" Cohan's first musical review brought him back to the footlights after which he offered his second musical satire, "The Cohan Review of 1916" at the Astor theater, another great hit. The beginning of 1917 found Mr. Cohan a member of the motion picture fold in the production of "Broadway Jones" as his initial starring vehicle on the screen for Artcraft Pictures.

Mr. Cohan has had one of the greatest theatrical career in the annals of the business. He is universally loved and respected by friends both in and out of the profession, a great lover of things American and the head of a happy family.

"Broadway Jones" is positively the greatest triumph of the season.

An Array of Talent and Abillity at the "Pan" This Week

A vaudeville program of extraordinary features will be presented at the Pantages theater commencing with the matinee next Monday afternoon, when a large array of variety will be offered for the first time in Calgary.

Rowland and Howard, two famous Chicago producers, are the sponsors of the headline number, which is given the title of "Honeymoon Isle," a most delightful musical comedy, featuring a large chorus of pretty misses, some amusing mirth provokers, many musical numbers of the latest vintage and some beautiful scenery, not forgetting to mention the gorgeous creations displayed by the girls.

Another big feature will be offered by Mlle Bianca, the charming danseuse, who for seven years was premiere danseuse of the Metropolitan Opera Company. She will be assisted by Mr. Korsakoff and Wilhelmina Ragnhild. The offering will consist of vaudeville's latest and most artistic terpsichorean conceptions, including "Springtime Gavotte," "Russian Kawarinsky," "Mazurka Polonaise," "Egyptian Slave Dance," "Dance Orientale." Some beautiful scenic and lighting effects give the act the proper atmosphere so necessary to spectacle of this description. Ed F. Reynard, famous ventriloquist will offer another great novelty which is called "Before the Court," which is an up-to-date dancing and subvocaling number; some great comedy situations are offered during the act as well as some nifty dancing.

Dorothy Vaughan, the cheerful singer of cheerful songs will be another feature of the new bill. Miss Vaughan is gifted of great personality and wins her way into the heart of the audience from the start.

Alberto, the terpsichorean musician, will present quite a novel number which consists of playing selections on the xylophone while dancing.

Will Morrissey, the eminent violinist, annoyed at the piano by Freddie Clinton, will offer a great musical number.

The 14th episode of "Pearl of the Army" will conclude the new program of unequalled vaudeville which is sure to meet with great success.

"Fatty" Arbuckle coming to Allen "In Butcher Boy"

"Fatty" Arbuckle, the funniest fat man on the screen, who has long since abandoned the first name Roscoe, with which he was endowed by his parents, has entered into a contract with the Paramount Pictures Corporation, by the terms of which he will produce two-reel comedies exclusively for Paramount.

His first comedy "The Butcher Boy," will be shown at the Allen soon. Fatty ranks today uniquely in the field of comic productions and possesses the added faculty of directing the pictures in which he stars. Arbuckle is the jovial fat man who is the butt of every joke—except the ones which he turns on his tormentors.

The fact that he directs him own pictures is important because he will

ROSCOE "FATTY" ARBUCKLE
in
"THE BUTCHER BOY"
PARAMOUNT-ARBUCKLE COMEDY

COMING TO THE ALLEN SOON

set tasks for himself to do what no other director would have the moral courage to ask him to perform.

Watch for the exact dates of "Fatty's" first comedy on the Paramount program. It's a scream from start to finish.

"Conquest of Canaan" A Story Features at Allen

The "Conquest of Canaan," made into screen form by George Irving for the Frohman Amusement Corporation, from Booth Tarkington's story of the same name, will be seen at the Allen next Friday and Saturday.

Edith Taliaferro, the beautiful and talented screen star co-starred with Jack Sherrill are seen in the leading roles of this extraordinary attraction.

For various rural town scenes, Mineola, Long Island was the basis. The city authorities granted the director free use of the street, civic buildings and the natives of the town entered into the spirit of the enterprise and made a Saturday half-holiday at the time. When the huge crowds are seen fronting the courthouse, witnesses of the noted Booth Tarkington story in its screen form, will see rural people—volunteers in every sense of the word, and the result of the production in itself, shows the wisdom of director Irving's actions in inviting the people to participate.

A scared, yellow dog, rescued from the wagon of the society for prevention of cruelty to animals, play the important role in this production. Jack Sherrill and director Irving were seeking a mongrel. Passing one of the society's wagons one day, they shopped among dozens of doomed dogs for the type they were looking—thus a mongrel cur, already tagged for the chloroform room was made a movie actor and given a permanent home at the Frohman studio.

"The Conquest of Canaan" is in six parts, contains over eleven hundred scenes and required twenty principals two thousand people and took ten weeks to consummate.

Others in the cast are Edith Wells, Ralph Delmore, Jack Hopkins, Gene La Motte and other prominent photoplay stars.

PRUDENCE OF THE PARSONAGE

THE FAMOUS STORY OF A HAPPY FAMILY

By Ethel Hueston

COPYRIGHT 1915 BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

SYNOPSIS

Mr. Starr, minister, arrives in Mount Mark to take charge of the Methodist diocese, he is a widower with five children, all girls, namely, Prudence, the eldest, who mothers the rest of the family, who include, Fary, Connie and Carol and Lark, who are twins. The girls all go to school and are particularly clever.

The twins, though very lovable and obedient children, are very mischievous, and often embarrass Prudence and Fairy.

Every one in the parish admires Prudence for her sweet and womanly disposition. Professor Rayburn, of the college, a suitor for her hand, but Prudence refuses him, considering her home and the bringing up of the family, her particular duty.

Owing to Mount Mark being a small parish and the congregation rather slack about money matters, the parsonage family have quite a hard time to make ends meet. Fairy and Prudence make over an old coat of their fathers for Connie, who always comes in for the left-overs, being the smallest, this being a particular disappointment, as she was promised a new coat. Connie calls on Mr. Harold, the president of the bank, and asks for the loan of $5.00, explaining the situation him and promising to pay it back in two years, a nickle at a time. Mr. Harold tells her he is proud to have her trade. Connie surprises the family at dinner-time by producing the $5.00.

CHAPTER XII.

Roused From Her Slumber

At twenty minutes to four, the parsonage family clustered excitedly in the sitting-room, which the sunshine flooded cheerily. They were waiting for the hero of Prudence's romance.

'Oh, Larkie, will you run up-stairs and bring my lace handkerchief? It's on our dresser, in the burnt-wood box." And after Lark had departed, she went on, "The flowers are not quite in the centre of the table, Fairy,—a little to the right.—If you would move the curtains the least little bit, those torn places would not show." Then she sighed. "How nice you all look. Oh, Connie, won't you turn the clock a little this way, so I can see it? That's better, thank you, precious. Thank you, Lark,—isn't it a pretty handkerchief? I've only carried it three times, and I have never really used it. Would you keep these pearls on, Fairy, or would you take them off?"

'I would keep them on, Prue,—tney catch the color of the gown a little, and are just beautiful. You do look so sweet, but your face is very flushed. I am afraid you are feverish. Maybe we had better not let him see Prue today, father. Perhaps he can come back tomorrow."

"Fairy!" exclaimed Prudence. "Besides, he must come in to get his coat. We can't expect him to go coatless over Sunday. Listen,—listen, girls! Look, Fairy, and see if that is he! Yes, it is, I know,—I can tell by his walk." Warm rich color dyed her face and throat, and she clasped her hands over her heart, wondering if Connie beside her could hear its tumult.

"I'll go to the door," said Father Starr, and Prudence looked at him beseechingly.

"I—I am sure he is all right, father. I—you will be nice to him, won't you?"

Without answering, Mr. Starr left the room. He could not trust his voice.

"Listen, girls, I want to hear," whispered Prudence. And she smiled as she heard her father's cordial voice.

"You are Mr. Harmer, aren't you? I am Prudence's father. Come right in. The whole family is assembled to do you honor. The girls have already made you a prince in disguise. Come back this way. Prudence is resting very nicely."

When the two men stepped into the sitting-room, Prudence, for once, quite overlooked her father. She lifted her eyes to Jerrold Harmer's face, and waited, breathless. Nor was he long in finding her among the bevy of girls. He walked at once to the bed, and took her hand.

"My little comrade of the road," he said gaily, but with tenderness, "I am afraid you are not feeling well enough for callers today."

"Oh, yes, I am," protested Prudence with strange shyness.

He turned to the other girls, and greeted them easily. He was entirely self-possessed. 'Miss Starr told me so much about you that I know you all to begin with." He smiled at Fairy as he added, "In fact, she predicted that I am to fall in love with you. And so very likely, I should,—if I hadn't met your sister first."

They all laughed at that, and then he walked back and stood by Prudence once more. "Was it a bad sprain? Does it pain you very badly. You look tired. I am afraid it was an imposition for me to come this afternoon."

"Oh, don't worry about that," put in Connie anxiously. "She wanted you to come. She's been getting us ready for you ever since the doctor left. I think it was kind of silly for me to wear my blue just for one caller."

The twins glared at her, realizing that she was discrediting the parsonage, but Jerrold Harmer laughed, and Prudence joined him.

'It is quite true," she admitted frankly. "The mule and I disgraced the parsonage this morning, and I wanted the rest of you to redeem it this afternoon." She looked at him inquiringly. "Then you had another coat?"

"No, I didn't. I saw this one in a window this morning, and couldn't resist it. Was the ride very hard on your ankle?"

Mr. Starr was puzzled. Evidently it was not lack of funds which brought this man on foot from Des Moines to Mount Mark,—half-way across the state! He did not look like a man fleeing from justice. What, then, was the explanation?

'You must have found it rather a long walk," he began tentatively, his eyes on the young man's face.

"Yes, I think my feet are a little blistered. I have walked farther than that many times, but I am out of practice now. Sometimes, however, walking is a painful necessity."

"How long did it take you coming from Des Moines to Mount Mark?" inquired Carol in a subdued and respectful voice,—and curious, withal.

"I did not come directly to Mount Mark. I stopped several places on business. I hardly know how long it would take coming straight through. It would depend on one's luck, I suppose."

Well," said Lark, "taking it a little at a time it might be done, but for myself, I should never dream of undertaking so much exercise."

"Could you walk from here to Burlington at one stretch?" asked Connie.

He looked rather surprised. "Why, perhaps I could if I was in shape, but —seven miles was all I cared about this morning."

'Well, I think it was mighty brave of you to walk that far,—I don't care why you did it," announced Connie with emphasis.

"Brave!" he repeated. "I have walked three times seven miles, often, when I was in school."

Oh, I mean the whole thing—clear from Des Moines," explained Connie.

"From Des Moines," he gasped. "Good heavens! I did not walk from Des Moines! Did you—" He turned to Prudence questioningly. "Did you think I walked clear from Des Moines?"

"Yes." And added hastily, "But I did not care if you did. It did not make any difference how you came."

For a moment he was puzzled. Then he burst out laughing. I am afraid we had too much to talk about this morning. I thought I had explained my situation, but evidently I did not. I drove from Des Moines in the car, and——"

"The automobile!" gasped Carol with a triumphant look at Lark.

(To be continued.)

PRINCESS
PHONE M1944
"Where Everybody Goes"

DON'T MISS
"THE PURPLE MASK"
Every Friday & Saturday
Miss Gert. Moody
—and—
The Princess Girls
3—Performances Daily—3

Allen Theatre
PHOTOPLAYS OF DISTINCTION

LAST TIMES TODAY — GEORGE BEBAN IN "THE BOND BETWEEN" Also WAR GRAPHIC — LAST TIMES TODAY

Four Days Commencing Monday
Broadway's Greatest Star

GEORGE M. COHAN
in his Initial Photo Play Success
"BROADWAY" JONES

A Notable Art Craft Contribution to the screen
SCREEN TIME TWO HOURS
Matinee, Children 5c. Adults 15c.
Evening, Children 10c. Adults 25c.
Reserved Section 35c.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
EDITH TALIAFERRO
JACK SHIRRELL
—IN—
"THE CONQUEST OF CANAAN"

COMING SOON
'Fatty' Arbuckle in 'The Butcher Boy'

TAKE SALTS FOR THE KIDNEYS IF YOUR BACK HURTS

We Should Drink Lots of Water and Eat Less Meat, Says Noted Authority on Kidney Disorders

Recommends a Spoonful of Jad Salts In Glass of Water Before Breakfast to Stimulate Kidneys and Eliminate the Uric Acid

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy, the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

PERSONAL MENT

Mrs. R. A. Pike has returned visit to Minneapolis.

Miss Norma Stokes is spe week with Lady Lougheed a

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert returned from a visit to Edm

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Spurr for the east on an extended

Mrs. Elton, of Cowley, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. V nard.

Miss Seymour, of Okotok few days in the city this we her friends.

Hon. Charles Mitchell week-end visiting friends and the vicinity.

Mrs. L. A. Cavanagh ha Seattle where she will spen visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. W gone to the coast where spend three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Denn R. J. C. Stead left on Tue short visit to Chicago.

Rev. Dr. Dyde, of Edmo the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W Laren the early part of the

His Honor the Lieutenan spent Thursday in the city home from a visit to Medic

Mrs. C. W. Hewson, of N.S., is a guest at the Pal ing her brother, T. M. Twee

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. de la son, of Cochrane, spent a fe the city this week guests liser.

Mrs. Bruce Robinson an ter, Mrs. A. E. Sinclair, a shortly on an extended v east.

Rev. J. A. Spencely, of W lege, Winnipeg, paid a sho Mr. and Mrs. L. Redman, India.

The engagement is ann Harriett Irene, daughter o Mrs. Alex McCullough, the to take place the latter pa

Mrs. McKinney, of Clares the city for the W. C. T. tion and is the guest of Rev W. Shearer.

Mrs. T. B. Moffatt and Rowe left on Thursday f to attend the convention minion Presbyterian Wo sionary society.

Mrs. W. Hulbert A. Tho little son have left for To they will spend the summe and Mrs. Thompson.

Dr. J. V. Follett has ret the east. Mrs. Follett and ter are remaining for some ing in Belleville, Ont.

Mrs. Angus Sutherland, erland and Mrs. William Winnipeg, who have spent in California, are guests Mrs. A. C. Hutton, for a on route home.

Mrs. Kenny, of Toronto small son and daughter, a the Palliser, where they until Mr. and Mrs. McPar from their honeymoon, being Mrs. Kenny's broth

The Women's Press ained on Tuesday at the honor of Mrs. Harold Pea on, who, before her m year was a member of t staff of the London Daily

Mr. and Mrs. G. Bailey monton visiting their daug F. Price, who with her l little son, leave shortly fo River district to reside.

Rev. S. Middleton, of th serve who has been a gues Mrs. Sidney Houlton retur Friday. Mrs. and Miss Th cee are spending the w guests of Mrs. Houlton.

Dr. Eakins, of Port Art on Thursday to join Mrs. children who have been g home of the latter's siste Millican, next week, by Mrs. James Meek, w been a guest of her da Millican, for some time, leave for the east.

Mrs. Blackmer and he Hayden, of Worcester, have been guests for six home of the former's s Park, left on Tuesday n home in the east. Duri they were much feted Blackmer, junior, ente them, also Mrs. Patchel A. Crooks, Mrs. Carver, land and Mrs. Cherry, park.

VILLE

Theatre
DISTINCTION

BEBAN ETWEEN" APHIC
LAST TIMES TODAY

ncing Monday eate st Star
RGE
HAN
Play Success WAY" ES
ft Contribution reen
WO HOURS
Adults 15c.
c. Adults 25c.
ion 35c.

ATURDAY
AFERRO
RRELL OF CANAAN"
OON
The Butcher Boy'

tion, but evidently I did not. I e from Des Moines in the car,
"
The automobile!" gasped Carol.
a triumphant look at Lark.
(To be continued.)

R
IF HURTS
Less Meat, Says orders
s of Water Before Eliminate days and your kidneys will s famous salts is made from and lemon juice, combined

s been used for generations kidneys and stimulate them also to neutralize the acids nger is a source of irritation, r weakness.
pensive, cannot injure, makes cent lithia-water drink which e now and then to keep the active. Druggists here say Salts to folks who believe in trouble while it is only

Society

PERSONAL MENTION

Mrs. R. A. Pike has returned from a visit to Minneapolis.

• • •

Miss Norma Stokes is spending the week with Lady Lougheed at Banff.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert McFarland returned from a visit to Edmonton.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Spurr have left for the east on an extended visit.

• • •

Mrs. Elton, of Cowley, is in the city, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bernard.

• • •

Miss Seymour, of Okotoks, spent a few days in the city this week visiting her friends.

• • •

Hon. Charles Mitchell spent the week-end visiting friends in Calgary and the vicinity.

• • •

Mrs. L. A. Cavanagh has gone to Seattle where she will spend a month visiting relatives.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Woods have gone to the coast where they will spend three weeks.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Dennis and Mr. R. J. C. Stead left on Tuesday on a short visit to Chicago.

• • •

Rev. Dr. Dyde, of Edmonton, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William McLaren the early part of the week.

• • •

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, spent Thursday in the city on his way home from a visit to Medicine Hat.

• • •

Mrs. C. W. Hewson, of Amherst, N.S., is a guest at the Palliser, visiting her brother, T. M. Tweedie, M.L.A.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. de la Vergne and son, of Cochrane, spent a few days in the city this week guests at the Palliser.

• • •

Mrs. Bruce Robinson and her sister, Mrs. A. E. Sinclair, are leaving shortly on an extended visit to the east.

• • •

Rev. J. A. Spencely, of Wesley College, Winnipeg, paid a short visit to Mr. and Mrs. L. Redman, en route to India.

• • •

The engagement is announced of Harriett Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex McCullough, the marriage to take place the latter part of June.

• • •

Mrs. McKinney, of Claresholm, is in the city for the W. C. T. U. convention and is the guest of Rev. and Mrs. W. Shearer.

• • •

Mrs. T. B. Moffatt and Mrs. J. L. Rowe left on Thursday for Toronto to attend the convention of the Dominion Presbyterian Women's Missionary society.

• • •

Mrs. W. Hulbert A. Thompson and little son have left for Toronto where they will spend the summer with Col. and Mrs. Thompson.

• • •

Dr. J. V. Follett has returned from the east. Mrs. Follett and little daughter are remaining for some time visiting in Belleville, Ont.

• • •

Mrs. Angus Sutherland, Miss Sutherland and Mrs. William Boyd, of Winnipeg, who have spent the winter in California, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hutton, for a short time en route home.

• • •

Mrs. Kenny, of Toronto, with her small son and daughter, are guests at the Palliser, where they will remain until Mr. and Mrs. McParland return from their honeymoon, the former being Mrs. Kenny's brother.

• • •

The Women's Press club entertained on Tuesday at the tea hour in honor of Mrs. Harold Peat, of Edmonton, who, before her marriage last year was a member of the editorial staff of the London Daily Chronicle.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. G. Bailey are in Edmonton visiting their daughter, Mrs. J. F. Price, who with her husband and little son, leave shortly for the Peace River district to reside.

• • •

Rev. S. Middleton, of the Blood Reserve who has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Houlton returned home on Friday. Mrs. and Miss Timms of Sarcee are spending the week-end as guests of Mrs. Houlton.

• • •

Dr. Eakins, of Port Arthur, arrived on Thursday to join Mrs. Eakins and children who have been guests at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. A. E. Millican, next week, accompanied by Mrs. James Meek, who has also been a guest of her daughter, Mrs. Millican, for some time, they will all leave for the east.

• • •

Mrs. Blackmer and her neice, Miss Hayden, of Worcester, Mass., who have been guests for six weeks at the home of the former's son, in Elbow Park, left on Tuesday night for their home in the east. During their stay they were much feted guests, Mrs. Blackmer, junior, entertaining for them, also Mrs. Patchel, Mrs. George A. Crooks, Mrs. Carver, Mrs. Sutherland and Mrs. Cherry, all of Elbow park.

Mr. and Mrs. James Allan are visiting friends in Victoria and Vancouver.

• • •

Mrs. Philip Wolfe left on Wednesday on a six weeks' visit to Denver, Col.

• • •

Miss Lucie Woodford, who has been visiting in Edmonton, has returned home.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wrigley and little son, of Vancouver, are making a short visit in the city the guests of Mrs. Wrigley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Blow. Mr. Wrigley, who is somewhat "under the weather" is yet able to be around and is being greeted by his many friends.

Events Past, Present, Future

The W. A. Missionary tea at the home of the Diocesan president, Mrs. W. L. Bernard, on Thursday, was very largely attended over seventy guests being entertained. Consequently a nice sum was realized for missionary work.

Mrs. Sidney Houlton and Mrs. Stavert poured tea for the first hour and Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. J. E. McKenzie relieved them at the end of that time. The assistants were: Mrs. Bates, Mrs. Porritt, Miss Heney, Miss Groves and Miss Alice Stocken.

Among those present were: Canon and Mrs. James, Mrs. Sharpe, Mrs. West, Miss Peacock, Mrs. Darker, Mrs. Wilford, Mrs. W. A. Geddes; Mrs. Herbert Akitt, Mrs. Jennison, Mrs. Markley, Mrs. Savary, Mrs. E. H. Riley, Mrs. Sage, Mrs. Beatty, Mrs. Bedingfield, Mrs. MacRae, Mrs. Dennis, Miss Seymour (Okotoks), and Mrs. Pugh.

• • •

The last dance of the season of "Our Club," at the Unity hall on Thursday night was enjoyed by nearly 50 couple of enthusiastic young people who voted it the best of the series.

Among those present were the bride, the Misses Crockett, Mrs. Munro, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. McLean, Misses Rice, Donovan, Crawford, Ranahan, Main, Le Marche, O'Brien, Irwin, Miquelon, Anderson, Harding, McCaffrey, Kelly, McClockey, McBride, Davidson, Smith, Avis, Murphy; Messrs. Dalton, Donovan, Kelly, Anderson, Costello, Wright, Aird, Scott, Smith, B. Armstrong, G. Armstrong, Boyce, Main Marr, Tempest Twilley, Avis, Eveleigh, and Ritchie.

• • •

Last Saturday afternoon saw, as usual, a very large number of afternoon tea devotees at the Palliser. Among many women of the city this is their only relaxation during the week, in which they spend many hours with their needle doing Red Cross work.

Among those present were: Mrs. Sisley, Mrs. Hulberta, Mrs. Heal, Mrs. E. M. Adams, Mrs. T. McCauley, Mrs. George A. Crooks, Mrs. Cherry, Mrs. B. S. White, Mrs. Kenny (Toronto), Mrs. John Irwin, Mrs. D. Grant Mackay, Mrs. Weisbroad, Mrs. William Harris, Miss Birdie Harris, Mrs. J. H. Woods, Mrs. Spence, Miss Lilian Patrick, Miss Mabel Hutton, Miss Connie Clark, Miss Bessie Findlay, Mrs. McKelvie, Miss Gladys McKelvie, Miss Corinne Dingman, Miss Beryl Graham, Miss Margaret Muir, Dr. Rosamond Leacock, Miss Hazel Ruttle, Miss Eileen Dennis, Mrs. Gallon, Miss Helen Thompson, Mrs. Vanderhoof, Miss Vanderhoof, Mrs. Percy Barton, Mrs. R. T. Holman, Miss S. Sereth, Mrs. George Wright, Mrs. R. T. A. Aitken, Mrs. McNab, Mrs. Hugh Reid, Miss Gladys Traunweiser, Miss Hilda Wetherall, Mrs. Leeson, Capt. and Mrs. Parry, Major Wilson, Hon. Charles Mitchell, and Mr. J. J. McHugh.

• • •

The dance on Wednesday night at the Automobile club's new home was quite as successful as on the opening night a week previous.

Among those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Cope, Dr. and Mrs. P. W. Richards, Mrs. Splane, Mrs. J. G. Savage, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Sinclair, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Steinford, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Terwilliger, Mrs. A. J. Jones, Mrs. R. E. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Blair, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Burns, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Hess, Mr. and Mrs. James Hill, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Goodison, Mrs. V. Meyers, of New York; Mrs. R. A. J. Little, Mrs. J. C. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Reid, Miss Harris, Miss Daisy McGregor, Miss H. Beveridge, Miss K. Brown, Miss J. Cartwright, Miss Parker, Miss L., Miss Y. and Miss C. Patrick; Miss Ramage, Miss Maddock, Miss E. Smith, Miss McMillan, Miss Bell Larkin, Miss L. E. and Miss T. R. Mans, Miss E. F. Mapson, Miss Cartwright, Miss Gallon, Miss M. Kerr, Miss T. B. Tompson, Miss Gladys Traunweiser, Miss Scott, Messrs. H. D. Edwards, H. B. George, Dr. McCauley, C. H. Faten, O. C. Thompson, A. V. Smith, Major Daniels, F. Bryant, G. W. Gould, J. E. Morrow, C. H. Hunt, George Henley, H. C. Bailey, H. C. Johnston, R. A. Garneau, W. E. Dixon, Frank Freeze, M. B. Armstrong, H. F. Blow, A. L. Jackson, H. E. Feer, F. Hayden, M. McMillan, A. W. Patrick, F. W. Compton, Cy Clarke, B. S. Smith, A. McEwen, M. Bailey, F. E. Beggs, J. A. Christie, C. E. Beggs, F. M. George, W. J. Craig, Roland S. Jones, James Wright, Montreal; A. McTeir, G. Derry, H. Proctor, Roy Russell, D. Anderson, J. H. Argue, W. S. Armstrong, C. B. McAllister, Ottawa; Jos. Anderson, Vince Pugh Blainey Clarke, J. C. Mackay, G. C. Conway and others.

• • •

A number of friends of Mrs. Shimmin, who is leaving shortly for Edmonton, have been entertaining in her honor, among them Mrs. George Wright, at a luncheon, and Mrs. R. T. Aitken at a "tea."

• • •

Those who attended the luncheon of the American Women's club in the Tapestry room at the Hudson's Bay were as follows: Mrs. Dahmers, Mrs. Pascoe, Mrs. Charlton, Mrs. Welch, Mrs. Harold Meyer, Mrs. W. J. Duffy, Mrs. F. C. Field, Mrs. C. E. Fox, Mrs. W. N. Deming, Mrs. E. R. Birnie, Mrs. G. W. Monroe, Mrs. Milton Green, Mrs. H. Theriault, Mrs. M. G. Clever, Mrs. R. T. Brighty, Mrs. W. J. Walker, Mrs. H. Homer Gay, Mrs. B. H. Armstrong, Dr. Helen Walker, Mrs. A. Pierson, Mrs. R. N. Walker, Mrs. T. Genge, Mrs. A. J. Hilliker, Mrs. W. J. Buck, Mrs. C. F. Leif, Mrs. F. Murchison, Mrs. Roy E. Stubbs, Mrs. H. L. Fink, Mrs. C. Terwilliger, Mrs. Carl Steinford, Mrs. J. A. Gorman, Mrs. H. B. Wright, Mrs. C. D. Golpel, Mrs. H. L. Freeland, Mrs. A. H. Mellor, Mrs. J. I. Loenstein, Mrs. E. P. Newhall, Mrs. Philip Wolfe, Mrs. W. F. McNeill, Mrs. Charles E. Fenkell, Mrs. E. H. Reed, Mrs. F. G. kell, Mrs. E. H. Reed, Mrs. F. G. Carpenter, Mrs. Harold D. Clum, Mrs. Guy W. Johnson, Mrs. S. S. Savage, Mrs. J. M. Streib, Mrs. W. B. Merrick, Mrs. W. S. Jacobs, Mrs. W. M. Jamieson, Mrs. H. W. Zemans, Miss Daisy Mcgregor, Miss Gibbons and Miss Nora Bingaman.

Timely Comment on Women's Doings

(By JEAN GRANT)

WOMAN REGISTRAR OF VITAL STATISTICS

The public notice inserted in the papers during the past week by H. A. Craig, Deputy Minister of the Department of Agriculture, that Mrs. Elizabeth McDougall, of 220 Sixth avenue east, had been appointed Registrar of Vital Statistics, came as a pleasant surprise to the women of the city.

Besides adding another woman to the growing list of those already in responsible public offices, it is a matter of congratulation that the partner of the late Rev. John McDougall, who shared his pioneer missionary efforts, should have been chosen by the government for this important position.

The position, when one comes to consider it, seems naturally to belong to a woman. Is not she the most important factor in birth, marriage and death? Through her directly is the tiny life introduced into this mundane sphere, with her rests the chief interest of the marriage ceremony, and it is her hand that ministers to the dying and closes the eyes when death has come.

There is no doubt that Mrs. McDougall will prove a most valuable and efficient acquisition to the provincial vital statistics branch.

Women's Letters to the Editor

"Madam, did you give the newspaper in which you say you have been reported incorrectly a chance to publish your letter or did you send it off to another paper without so much as courteously inquiring for a correction?

"Whoever was unfortunate not to get your meaning was quite as sorry as you were and had no thought of intentionally misrepresenting you. Indeed you could not name one reason for believing that and you could give many for wishing your report to be correct."

The consideration of the above by the women of our city, and the suggestion made will perhaps mend matters to a great degree. The realisation that they are doing an underhand thing has probably not come to them so marked before. Those who report the speeches and addresses at the various meetings are there for that purpose, and no other, and their object is solely to get news. Their obligation to their paper is to get "news," not color anything that has been said.

Another procedure which should not be countenanced is that of a woman asking the editor of one department to have her letter appear on another page. Her sense of honor certainly needs some training and her communication must be of a doubtful character when she has to resort to such methods.

• • •

Girls Become Motor Experts

Even to those who have been reading most industriously about the new school of Technology, the announcement that three girls had passed in motor mechanics came as a surprise. Who knew that girls were allowed to take such a course? And what girl did not immediately resolve that she would be in the next graduating class?

Then the announcement that these girls might drive ambulances for the allies overseas gave another incentive to mastering the motor. So many girls have envied the nurses for their great chance of serving in the great war that any other means of going that might present itself is very welcome.

The School of Technology will not lack women students in this course next term.

• • •

Business Girls Should Not Be Urged to Work on Land

The proposal that arrangements be made for land on which business girls may work in their spare time is a very poor one and the business girl who made the suggestion must surely have a position that girls designate as a "snap."

For the ordinary girl who spends from whatever time she rises in the morning until six in the evening in a continual rush, the idea of going forth to work again is not a very palatable one. She may force herself to do it as many of the girls are doing with Red Cross work but in time her strength gives out and she has to pay dearly for her added endeavors. Her enthusiasm to try and help might lead her to begin, but it could not last very long. An example of the good intentions of many a business girl is shown at the first meetings of a physical culture class. She intends to take the course but when she comes home after working all day, she thinks that a rest would be just as beneficial as the drill and decides to take the former.

It was for the purpose of the business girl getting a little more time for recreation and relaxation that the women of the city put their approval on the weekly half-holiday so that at least either Wednesday afternoon or Sunday might see her out in the sunshine and fresh air.

• • •

Do Women Love Bargains?

"Yes," and "No" are the answers to this question that might be given all in one breath. Ninety per cent. of our women have become so accustomed to shopping with a view to getting a bargain that there would be an "aching void" to be without the accustomed hunt. But the reason for this is that it has become a habit and the good business man knowing this so well actually preys on women because of it and spends a great deal of money in advertising, knowing that the average woman values the newspaper more for this reason than any other, and although sometimes a shipment of new goods is announced the general trend of an advertisement is a notation of bargains.

But underlying the whole there is rather a pitiful reason for all this rush and hurry to purchase garments or food at a lower than usual cost. The woman in the home is the greatest financier in the world. It is she who has to stretch the salary or wages to meet the demands of the family, and when we consider that, roughly speaking, 75 per cent. of the men of any city are wage earners, we do not wonder that it is with difficulty that both ends are made to meet.

Child after child is added to the home. But does the income increase? The father continues to spend his days working as usual, but the mother has to so arrange it that the same amount of money in the pay envelop feeds and clothes another mouth.

It is not a matter of surprise that she has to try to save even a small amount and consequently her interest centres in the store news of the paper. And it is a sorry fact that oftentimes she spends hours tramping around trying to secure some bargain, and when she returns home has probably saved only a few cents.

With the women with larger incomes, the habit has become so firmly fixed when the salary was smaller, that they still feel a glow of pride and satisfaction in being able to tell how much they have saved in buying.

So while men point with scorn at women for their bargain hunting, they should stop occasionally and consider the real reason for it. If it were possible, the man of the house should be made purchasing agent for a period of time and he would soon modify his expressions of disapproval of his wife's bargain hunting proclivities.

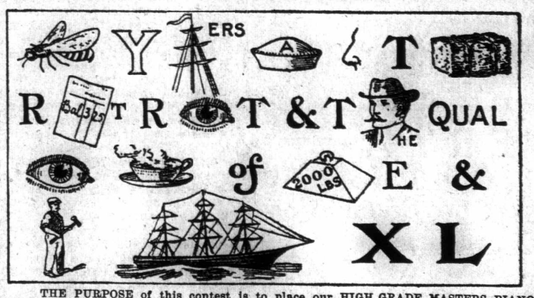
• • •

At the annual meeting of the American Women's club it was decided to substitute "benevolent" in place of "charity" as the name of one of their departments. The word charity carries with it a stigma which even the manner in which it is carried out, cannot overcome and the women of the club were wise in making the change to benevolent, which calls forth a sisterly or brotherly suggestion. Those who have by accident of birth or chance, been favored with a large amount of comfort should surely not forget that there are others who need help which they are able to bestow.

Anyone who studies economics knows that ere long conditions will have to change for the poor worker, but until that time arrives, the ones who have the larger share will have to help the others.

SMITH'S
PLEATING and BUTTON WORKS
606A First St. W., Calgary
Phone M3464
Hemstitching Hemming Picot Edging
Button Holes Made Chain Stitching
We are specialists in our line, and can turn out your work quickly and well. All Work Guaranteed.
Local Manager: F. O. Barnard

Calgary Silverplating Works
We Silver and Nickel-plate any Metal Article. We are the only Electro Platers between Winnipeg and Vancouver
710 Second Street W. Phone M5277



THE WONDER OF THE AGE
:: PHOTOGRAPHS ::
They Move, Smile or Scowl at your pleasure, in fact everything just like a Moving Picture.
COME IN AND SEE THEM
LIVING PORTRAIT COMPANY
SERGT. ATHERTON (82nd and 9th Albertas)
135A Eighth Avenue E. Opposite Monarch Theatre

Grocery Values
Farmers, Ranchers, etc., within 175 miles, write for our Grocery Catalogue. Enormous stocks and rapid turnover guarantee you greater variety and freshness of supplies.
Free Freight to Your Nearest Station
S. G. FREEZE
P.O. BOX 449 CALGARY

A. L. HESS
MAKER OF HIGH-GRADE
- PORTRAITS -
Your Friends Can Buy Anything You Can Give Them — Except Your Photograph.
124 Eighth Avenue East
Calgary, Alberta
Phone M3885

The Elbow Shop
SHOE REPAIRING
An Expert Shoemaker at Your Service. "Quality and Satisfaction," our motto.
1120A FIRST ST. WEST

$65.00 Phonola Given Away FREE

INVESTIGATE!
It's Worth While.
Open to Readers of This Paper.

THE PURPOSE of this contest is to place our HIGH GRADE MASTERS PIANO in the homes of a number of representative people in rural districts throughout the Provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia, and thereby quickly advertise this celebrated instrument without the aid and usual custom of salesmen and newspaper publicity. To this end we have made arrangements for a large advertising fund, to be distributed among those who answer this ad., in the following manner:

To the first five persons who send in the correct solution of the above rebus, we will issue a credit check for $250, good to apply as a cash payment on any NEW MASTERS PIANO to be selected from our stock in Edmonton, or from our branch store, THE ALBERTA PIANO CO., 130 Eighth Avenue, West, Calgary, and at the regular marked selling price. To the next ten persons we will issue a credit check for $225. The next ten following will receive a credit check for $205, and the next person who sends in the correct solution, whose number will be twenty-six, will receive the GRAND PRIZE, A CABINET PHONOLA, VALUE $65, ABSOLUTELY FREE, and also a credit check for $200, good to apply on any new Masters Piano as specified above. Following these, every person whose reply is correct will receive a credit check for $125.

All these credit checks are good only to apply on the purchase of a new Masters or Player Piano to be selected from our stock.

A record will bekept, and all replies will be numbered in the order in whih they are received. If two or more replies are received at the same time, they will be numbered as the envelopes are opened.

Only one reply will be permitted from any one person or family. Any violation of this clause will forfeit the right to compete. Read conditions carefully, be sure your reading of the rebus is correct, write your name plainly, and enclose it in an envelope addressed to THE MASTERS PIANO CO., 10524 Jasper Ave., Edmonton, Alta., with Department "A" written in one corner of the envelope, and mail or bring it to our store at once. REMEMBER THOSE RECEIVED FIRST WILL GET THE LARGEST CHECKS, and those received later will stand a chance to win the Phonograph. No one in any way connected with The Masters Piano Co. will be permitted to take part in the contest, and the awards as placed by the judges will be final. ALL REPLIES MUST BE MAILED NOT LATER THAN MAY 15th, 1917.

The Masters Piano is guaranteed to be one of the finest instruments manufactured today, and the Masters Piano Co. is noted for selling pianos upon the uniform one-price plan. Therefore prize winners have the assurance of a bona-fide reduction to the amount of their credit check, on any piano they may select. As to our reliability, we refer to the Edmonton branch of The Royal Bank of Canada or the Bank of Montreal. SEND IN YOUR REPLY TODAY. Write your name and adress plainly.

The Masters Piano Co.
10524 JASPER AVE. - EDMONTON, ALTA.

EXTRAORDINARY OFFER

New York Dress Shop

MRS. BRENNAND has just received a large shipment of Ladies' Dresses and Coats, direct from New York, in all the latest fashions.

This stock of goods was purchased at greatly reduced prices, and cannot be duplicated elsewhere at more than twice the prices asked.

The material in these fabrics is all of the best quality money can buy.

Before you purchase elsewhere, we ask you to make us a visit and see the real values we are offering the public.

All Sizes Carried in Stock, ranging from 34 to 44

210 8th Avenue East Phone M5187

SUCCESS! SUCCESS!!

Nothing Succeeds Like It

Coupland School, after patient years of quiet endeavor, has now nearly all the students it can take. The wonderful success of our champion, Miss May Knights, is turning attention to the fact that we do what we say—teach well in three to four months—how thoroughly you may judge by our successful students. When there is anything doing our students get the preference. If you want to attend, get your name down.

COUPLAND (Pioneer) BUSINESS COLLEGE

109 FOURTEENTH AVE. W. PHONE M1202

Resident Agent

WANTED IN

EVERY TOWN

IN

ALBERTA

For Taking Orders on Commission

Line of goods required by all engaged in business.

Address in first instance.

"Enterprise," care of A. R. LITTLEBURY,

Printer, Calgary.

SHORT TERM LOANS

may be obtained

For Farming Purposes

to Finance Season's Operations by forming a Co-operative Credit Society under the Alberta Co-operative Credit Act : : : : :

Societies formed under the said Act will receive

Assistance from the Province of Alberta

For further particulars apply or write to

W. V. NEWSON,
Deputy Provincial Treasurer,
Edmonton.

Rheumatism Conquered at Last!

MONEY-BACK COUPON WITH EACH BOTTLE

CALKINS' RHEUMATISM CURE

A Wonderful Remedy for Any Blood Disease

Drives out Poisons through the Urine, Bowels, Lungs and Pores of the body. Soothes the nerves, and is a heart sedative. Heals the mucous membrane linings of the body, corrects bronchial affections, so that the lungs can help in throwing off the poisons.

Money Returned if Results are Not Satisfactory

Send for Testimonials of Prominent People

Sent by Mail or Express only, charges prepaid, on receipt of price

$2.00

H. M. Calkins & Co., 7 Bruce Ave.,

Windsor, Ontario, Canada

To Physicians—You are urged to try this in cases of Rheumatism. You will not be disappointed. Will gladly answer any questions as to the effects of the 12 ingredients. CALKINS & CO.

Standard Ads Pay

The BACKYARD GARDEN

Reduce the H.C.L. by Raising Your Own Vegetables

VERY few of us realize the possibilities of the small piece of ground represented by the backyard of the ordinary lot. Too often it is made the unsightly depository of useless trash when it could and should be made into a profitable beauty spot by the growing of vegetables and flowers. Where the space is limited, only a few should be attempted. It does not require a large area to grow lettuce and a few fine tomatoes and onions. If only two or three square rods are available it will pay to have a "gardenette." A space of ground 20 by 30 feet can be made to produce a large part of all the vegetables needed to supply the table of an average family throughout the season. More vegetables in the diet mean better health and cheaper living.

The Garden Plan

Taking into consideration the space available, a plan should be made, preferably on paper but at least in mind, of what is to be grown and where each kind of vegetable or flower is to be sown or planted. Arrange to have the taller growing vegetables at the north of the garden and the lower growing plants at the south in order to let in as much sunlight as possible.

Soil Preparation

The soil should be thoroughly prepared bewore planting. Clean out the sticks, stones and rubbish. If the soil is heavy clay it will be improved by adding a little sand and a liberal dressing of rotted manure. If the soil was ploughed last fall, so much the better, but if it has to be worked up in the spring, plough or spade it over carefully turning under all of the manure. Then put the soil into good mechanical condition by raking it over and finely pulverizing all the lumps. This will make a good seed-bed and will go a long way towards aiding germination and giving the young plants a good start.

Varieties

Greater satisfaction will be had from growing a few of the more common vegetables than from an attempt to grow everything listed in the seed catalogue. Decide what shall be grown and indicate it upon the plan. Standard sorts of proven merit of the vegetables decided upon are always to be preferred to novelties. Those mentioned in the catalogue as "too well known to need further description" will generally be more suitable for the beginner or the amateur than those with extended descriptions.

Seeds

When buying seed, get only the best. Deal with reliable firms. Consult your plan and place your order early to insure the seeds being on hand when needed.

Sowing

The seeds of hardy plants such as peas, spinach, radishes, lettuce, carrots and onions may be sown as early in the spring as the ground is in condition. The seeds of tender crops as corn, cucumbers and beans should not be planted until there is no danger from frost. The small seeds as lettuce, radishes, carrots and onions may be covered one-half inch in depth; while corn, beans, peas and cucumbers may be sown from one and one-half to two inches deep. Sow enough seed to permit of thinning the plants after they are up. It will not be advisable to purchase a seed drill unless the garden is very large. Make a mark with a sharp stick or the end of the hoe handle and sow the seed evenly from between the fingers covering it to a uniform depth with a rake or hoe. Then press the soil down firmly over the seed with a board or the flat side of the hoe. This brings the soil closely around the seed and hastens germination.

Thinning

Spinach needs no thinning. Beets may be thinned to three or four inches, and those taken out used as greens. Carrots may be thinned to two inches apart and further thinned for use as the season advances; beans to four inches and peas to one inch apart. Corn planted in hills three feet apart should be thinned to three or four good plants to a hill. Cucumbers may be planted between the corn hills if plenty of sunlight gets in, and may be thinned to three plants in each place.

The crops mentioned in these brief notes are likely to be successful with any gardener in Calgary provided they are sown in a properly prepared soil and receive sufficient attention. Keep the soil stirred and free from weeds. If the garden is watered with a hose do not keep it too wet or allow it to go too long without water.

Do not be discouraged to begin even if your back yard does not look a good gardening proposition. The writer had the experience of having to remove an immense amount of hardware, stores and rubbish from a very uninviting quantitiy of raw sand before gardening operations could be begun. Last season's crop was the third from his back yard garden and gave a splendid supply of fresh vegetables for the home table and some to spare.

Produce, produce, produce! It is a world challenge as we stand at the threshold of another springtime. Never before have farmers faced a growing season when their efforts to grow something to eat seemed so certain of reward. From reichstag, parliament and congress come warnings that another half-crop will put whole nations on starvation rations. From a world viewpoint things are bad enough as they are, but the silver lining is the 1917 harvest. The genius of those into whose hands the soil is given is put to the test. How will it be met? Is the work of the year planned for maximum production? Will the seed grow? Will it yield heavily? Is the land to be put in good tilth? enough? Is the soil fertility high? Is there power enough or equipment or can it be made so? Are the animals well enough bred to turn rough feed into maximum amount of meat, milk, wool and power? Are the wastes stopped, the inefficiencies corrected? Is every man at his proper post in the farm organization? All that is left is the weather, and many centuries of work in the open fields have taught the farmer how to substitute faith for prophecy in that regard.—Breeders' Gazette.

Farm Animals in United States

The crop reporting board of the bureau of crop estimates of the United States department of agriculture, from reports of its correspondents and agents, makes the following estimates of livestock on farms and ranges of the United States (1916 figures revised):

Jan. 1	Number	Av. Value
Horses
1917	21,126,000	$102.94
1916	21,159,000	101.60
1915	21,195,000	103.33
1914	20,962,000	109.32
1913	20,567,000	110.77
1912	20,509,000	105.94
1911	20,277,000	111.46
1910	*19,833,000	108.03
Mules
1917	4,639,000	118.32
1916	4,593,000	113.83
1915	4,479,000	112.36
1914	4,449,000	123.85
1913	4,386,000	124.31
1912	4,362,000	120.51
1911	4,323,000	125.92
1910	*4,210,000	120.20
Milch Cows
1917	22,768,000	59.66
1916	22,108,000	53.92
1915	21,262,000	55.33
1914	20,737,000	53.94
1913	20,497,000	45.02
1912	20,699,000	39.39
1911	20,823,000	39.97
1910	*20,625,000	35.29
Other Cattle
1917	40,849,000	35.88
1916	39,812,000	33.53
1915	37,067,000	33.38
1914	35,855,000	31.13
1913	36,030,000	26.36
1912	37,260,000	21.20
1911	39,679,000	20.54
1910	*41,178,000	19.07
Sheep
1917	48,483,000	7.14
1916	48,625,000	5.17
1915	49,956,000	4.50
1914	49,719,000	4.02
1913	51,482,000	3.94
1912	52,362,000	3.46
1911	53,633,000	3.91
1910	*52,448,000	4.12
Swine
1917	67,453,000	11.73
1916	67,766,000	8.40
1915	64,618,000	9.87
1914	58,933,000	10.40
1913	61,178,000	9.86
1912	65,410,000	8.00
1911	65,620,000	8.27
1910	*58,186,000	9.17

*Census report of numbers April 15, 1910.

N.B.—The number NOT on farms, i.e., in cities and villages, is not estimated yearly, but their number in 1910 as reported by the census was: Horses, 3,183,000; mules, 270,000; cattle, 1,879,000; sheep, 391,000; swine, 1,288,000. The census of 1910 also reported 106,000 asses and burros on farms and 17,000 not on farms; 2,915,000 goats on farms and 115,000 not on farms.

Following changes in farm animals, compared with January 1, 1916, are indicated:

In numbers, horses have decreased 33,000; mules increased, 46,000; milch cows increased, 660,000; other cattle increased, 1,037,000; sheep decreased, 142,000; swine decreased, 313,000.

In average value per head, horses increased, $1.34; mules increased, $4.49; milch cows increased, $5.74; other cattle increased, $2.35; sheep increased, $1.97; swine increased, $3.33.

In total value, horses increased, $24,843,000; mules increased, $26,030,000; milch cows increased, $166,480,000; other cattle increased, $130,858,000; sheep increased, $94,470,000, and swine increased, $221,669,000.

The total value on January 1, 1917, of all animals enumerated above was $6,685,029,000, as compared with $6,020,670,000, on January 1, 1916, an increase of $664,350,000, or 11 per cent.

Figures Show Big Increase Over all Previous Years

Auction Sale of Bulls and Other Livestock at the Spring Show Were Remarkably Good Under the Conditions.

Statistics regarding the auction sale of purebred beef bulls, held by the Alberta Cattle Breeders' association sale held by the association at Calgary:

1917—Sold 470, $136,821; average, $291.18.
1916—Sold 304, $72,845, average, $239.62.

	1916	1917
Shorthorns—	187 at $221.06	268 at $248.18
Herefords—	82 at 310.06	157 at 366.37
Angus—	34 at 176.73	38 at 303.68
Galloways—	1 at 105.00	6 at 184.16
Red Polled—		1 at 245.00

Previous average prices at Calgary sales:

1916	$239.62
1915	158.79
1914	186.65
1913	202.61
1912	113.11
1911	98.39

The association has now sold 4,244 animals for $650,698. A few of the outstanding sales were as follows:

Shorthorns — No. 258, Kinmel Prince, $1,350, sold by Geo. A. Davidson, Calgary, to Wm. Sharp, Lacombe.

No. 19, Gainford Reliance, $825, A. W. Latimer, Bowden, to J. A. Nelson, Carmangay.

No. 156, Red Villager, $805, P. A. Switzer, Lacombe, to W. J. Delmage, Trochu.

Angus—No. 209, Just Pride of Glencarnock, $610, sold by C. H. Richardson, Bowden, to Jas. Honens, Mazeppa.

Herefords—No. 407, Willow Spring Bariah, $1,500, sold by Frank Collicutt, Calgary, to W. H. McIntyre, Magrath.

No. 406, Willow Spring Basil, $900, sold by Frank Collicutt, Calgary, to W. H. McIntyre, Magrath.

No. 334, Emperor, $850, sold by S. M. Mace, Pekisko, to J. Peters, Cardston.

No. 397 Alberta, Don 3rd, $1,025, sold by O. A. Beggs, Daysland, to Paul Brodersen, Wittenburg.

Four Alberta bred Hereford yearlings, by Perfection, averaged $906.

The sale entry list included 500 bulls contributed by 149 breeders. They were shipped to the sale from 59 stations in Alberta; 470 bulls were actually shipped to the sale, and these were sold to 324 different buyers. They were distributed to 113 stations in Alberta, 10 stations in Saskatchewan, and 3 stations in B.C. The new sale ring, 50x100, accommodating 1,000 people, was provided for the sale. It was so built that it could be raised by a windlass in two minutes to make a ring suitable for the sale of horses where a larger sale ring is required. The sale pen was raised 18 inches from the ground and was surrounded by a fence of iron gates. At one side there were two openings, each five feet wide, one as an entrance and one as an exit. These were connected with passageways fenced with iron gates which led past the auctioneer's stand at the center of one side of the sale ring, without interfering with the public. Two hundred and twenty-four bulls were sold the first two days by auctioneers S. W. Paisley, of Lacombe, and J. W. Durno, of Calgary.

A noticeable feature in connection with this year's sale, as compared with the association's sales of a few years ago, is that the breeders have no reason to fear putting their very best bulls in the sale, and leaving the buyers to decide the values. The considerable number of bulls which exceeded $500 is evidence of the satisfactory condition of the cattle industry, as well as the discrimination shown by the buyers. While the prices realized this year are higher than usual, in making settlement for the bulls, the buyers were outspoken in their appreciation of the sale and the fact that they were able to make their own selection from approximately 500 bulls and save themselves considerable expense if it had been necessary for them to travel to different breeders' establishments to purchase. The fact that the association loads the bulls for the buyers and pays the freight to their nearest railway station for a nominal fee, has been a most important feature in the development of these sales. The secretary of the association takes as much interest in seeing that the purchasers get a square deal as in selling the bulls, and this fact has established a confidence without which the sales could not have been built up to their present magnitude.

When Buying Liquor---

In sealed bottles in cases, you pay one-third more than in draught and the quality no better, very often the strength is much less.

Why one-third more? Because you pay for the bottle, duty and transprtation on same, labor and other expenses bottling.

We recommend our draught goods and guarantee their purity.

WE ARE DIRECT IMPORTERS

PRICES ON APPLICATION

Revelstoke Wine and Spirit Co. Ltd.

REVELSTOKE, B. C.

THE WASTE OF MILK BOTTLES

Hearken to this little plain talk on waste as applied to milk bottles:

From Edward W. Woolman, whose ancestors have sold milk in Philadelphia for more than 100 years, I learn that a milk bottle now makes only 15 trips before it is lost.

Five years ago a bottle made 30 trips. This means doubling the price you pay for the use of bottles, and why?

Because you are too careless to save the bottles. Last year Woolman's bottles cost $6,000 more than they did the year before.

Don't imagine, my friend, that you can ultimately escape the penalty for such gross neglect. You pay for the bottles as well as for the milk.

The Nat Bell Liquors Ltd.

Box 304, Saskatoon, Sask.

The Reliable Mail Order House

Mail Us Your Orders Direct

You know our Service. You know the High Standard we set for Quality.

You know our Draught Whiskies is the pure unadulterated product of the best distillers.

Why experiment with other houses.

A card will bring our price list

THE NAT BELL LIQUORS LTD.

Saskatoon, Sask.

Ales, Wines, Stouts, Spirits

—BY MAIL ORDER—

A Comparison of Our Quality and Prices Will Convince You that "IT PAYS TO TRADE WITH US."

	Bottle	Case	Gallon
BRANDIES
Mortell or Hennessy, X	2.00	22.00	....
Martell or Hennessy, XXX	2.25	25.00	....
Ducourt, XXX	1.75	18.00	....
Ducourt, bulk	....	.....	6.75
Brandy, in wood, proof	....	.....	8.75
Brandy in wood, 15 underproof	....	.....	7.50
NORWEGIAN AND DANISH SPIRITS
Loiten's Aquavit	1.25	13.50	....
Loiten's Arac Punsch	1.50	15.00	....
Danish Aquavit	1.15	12.50	....
Danish Arac Punsch	1.25	13.50	....
GIN
Gold Cross Geneva Red	1.35	18.50	....
Gold Cross Geneva Green	1.10	12.00	....
De Kuyper's Geneva Red	1.65	22.50	6.25
Coates' Plymouth; Boord's Old Tom; Wolf's Schnapps; Bol's Liquer; Parrott Brand; Ross' Irish Sloe Gin	1.50	16.50	....
Booth's Old Tom	....	.....	6.75
Williamson's Old Tom	....	.....	4.25
RUM
E. & J. Burk's Jamaica	1.40	15.00	....
Thom & Cameron's Jamaica	1.40	14.50	7.00
Thom & Cameron's Demarar	1.30	14.00	6.50
Demerara, proof strength	....	.....	7.50
Demerar, 34 overproof	....	.....	9.00
WHISKIES
Cedar Brook, eight summers old..Bourbon	1.50	16.50	7.50
E. & J. Burke's .....XXX Irish	1.50	16.50	....
Mitchell's, Bulk ..... "	....	.....	7.50
J. Callaghan & Son's, imperial quarts. "	1.75	20.00	6.75
Gooderham & Worts' special .....Rye	1.25	13.50	5.25
Walker's Imperial; Seagram's 83; B. C. Special .....Rye	1.10	12.00	....
Golden West Imperial Quarts ..... "	1.15	12.50	....
Goderham & Worts' ..... "	....	.....	4.50
Walker's Canadian Club..... "	....	.....	6.00
Walker's Imperial ..... "	....	.....	5.00
B. C. Rye ..... "	....	.....	4.25
Mount Vernon .....American Rye	1.75	19.50	....
Old Kentucky ..... " "	1.35	15.00	....
Johnnie Walker, Black Label.....Scotch	2.00	23.00	....
Johnnie Walker, Red Label ..... "	1.85	21.00	....
Johnnie Walker, White Label ..... "	1.65	18.00	....
White & Mackay's Special ..... "	1.65	18.00	....
Dewar's Special ..... "	1.50	16.50	....
Teacher's Highland Cream ..... "	1.75	18.50	....
Buchanan's Black and White ..... "	1.75	19.50	....
Macdonald's Special Reserve, qts... "	1.25	13.50	7.50
Teacher's Highland Cream, 15 u.p... "	....	.....	8.50
Greenlees' Extra Special ..... "	....	.....	9.00
Kilmarnock, 15 u.p. ..... "	....	.....	9.00

Cost of Packing, Jars and War Tax Included

PITHER & LEISER, LIMITED

(Owned and controlled by British Capital)

LLOYDMINSTER, SASK.

VICTORIA, B. C.

you pay for the use of bottles, and why?

Because you are too careless to save the bottles. Last year Wool-man's bottles cost $6,000 more than they did the year before.

Don't imagine, my friend, that you can ultimately escape the penalty for such gross neglect. You pay for the bottles as well as for the milk.

Liquors Ltd.

skatoon, Sask.

ail Order House

Orders Direct

ervice. You know

ve set for Quality.

raught Whiskies is ted product of the

with other houses.

ng our price list

AT BELL

RS LTD.

on, Sask.

Stouts, Spirits

L ORDER—

ty and Prices Will Convince

O TRADE WITH US."

NDIES

	Bottle	Case	Gallon
	2.00	22.00	....
	2.25	25.00	....
	1.75	18.00	....
	....	....	6.75
	....	....	8.75
	....	....	7.50
D DANISH SPIRITS
	1.25	13.50	....
	1.50	15.00	....
	1.15	12.50	....
	1.25	13.50	....
KIN
	1.35	18.50	....
	1.10	12.00	....
	1.65	22.50	6.25
Old Tom;
er; Parrott
	1.50	16.50	....
	....	....	6.75
	....	....	4.25
UM
	1.40	15.00	....
	1.40	14.50	7.00
	1.30	14.00	6.50
	....	....	7.50
	....	....	9.00
SKIES
d..Bourbon	1.50	16.50	7.50
.XXX Irish	1.50	16.50	....
"	....	....	7.50
quarts. "	1.75	20.00	6.75
Rye	1.25	13.50	6.25
83; B. C.
Rye	1.10	12.00	....
"	1.15	12.50	....
"	....	....	4.50
"	....	....	6.00
"	....	....	5.00
"	....	....	4.25
erican Rye	1.75	19.50	....
" "	1.35	15.00	....
Scotch	2.00	23.00	....
"	1.85	21.00	....
"	1.65	18.00	....
"	1.65	18.00	....
"	1.50	16.50	....
"	1.75	18.50	....
"	1.75	19.50	....
qts. "	1.25	13.50	7.50
u.p. "	....	....	8.50
"	....	....	9.00
"	....	....	9.00

e and War Tax Included

EISER, LIMITED

lled by British Capital)

NSTER, SASK.

RIA, B. C.

FARMING AND MARKETS

New Cattle Co. Organized to Boost Industry in West

The cattle industry is going to have a big boost if the plans of the British Cattle Supply Co., a new corporation of livestock men if the country can do so. The men mostly responsible for the organization are Hon. Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture for Alberta; Hon. Peter Talbot, of Alberta; Hon. Nelson Monteith, and Mr. McIlroy, M.P.P. for Carleton.

The officers of the corporation are—President and treasurer, T. E. Good, manager and treasurer of the Union Stockyards, Toronto; general manager, Harry Talbot, vice-president and general manager of the Wm. Davies Co., and owner of the Talbot Ranch, Alberta; directors: F. H. Corlin, general manager of the Montreal Stockyards; Saul M. Boren, ex-president United States National Stock association; J. H. Fussell, vice-president of the Fussell & McReynolds Company, Toronto; L. C. Lambert, manager and treasurer of the Winnipeg Stockyards; A. C. Gordon, manager of the National Drug company; D. B. Wood, general manager of the Wood Milling company; J. C. Doane, vice-president of the Winnipeg Livestock Exchange.

The company is capitalized at $5,000,000, divided into fifty thousand $100 shares of common stock. Less than $2,000,000 of this stock is to be issued at present. A large part of this is already subscribed, so that only $1,800,000 is to be raised by public subscription at present. The three million reserve is to provide for the extension of the company's operations in the meat-packing field. At present the company will confine itself to raising cattle. A herd of ten thousand is now being assembled, and will be placed on the lands of the corporation—chiefly in Alberta.

The company already controls 492,000 acres of carefully selected range land (part by purchase and part under lease). The managers plan to have a permanent herd of 75,000 head on the ranges within four or five years.

The directors of the corporation are chiefly practical men with experience and high standing in the livestock trade. The company has already commenced operating certain of its ranches. The others will be stocked as rapidly as the herds can be assembled. It is understood that the corporation has close relations, not only with the Canadian government departments, but with the Imperial government also.

INSURANCE

ST. PAUL MUTUAL HAIL & CYCLONE INSURANCE COMPANY

CALGARY . . . . ALTA.

Before buying Hail Insurance, we invite you to call and Inspect Our Policies.

McKelvie & Stirrett Co. Ltd.

General Brokers and Commission Agents.

Bain Building, 11th Avenue West

Phone W1736

By using "Our Best" Flour and our other brands of goods, you will reduce the high cost of living.

LASHER & GILLILAN LIMITED

Farm and Ranch Lands

Head Office: 209 Center Street

Phone M2266

Calgary, Three Hills, Youngstown, Alberta

LAND BUYERS

Let Us Help You in the Selection of Your Alberta Farm

We were Pioneer Farmers in the States, and we have developed thousands of acres of Alberta's best Wheat Lands.

We have located a large number of Land Seekers during the many years we have been in business in Calgary, and it is a source of satisfaction to us to know that every settler who has followed our advice is making good.

Exclusively Farm Lands

Valuators and Developers

GILBERT BROS., LIMITED

613 Grain Exchange Building

Calgary, Alberta

The Alberta Farm Loan Act and What It Means

As many farmers and others are still unacquainted with the facts regarding the Alberta Farm Loan Act as passed by the last legislature the following information will not be amiss. The bill is the outcome of a careful investigation of similar systems adopted in other countries and which have proven successful.

The act is the outcome of a careful investigation of existing systems of rural credits in other countries and the study of the measure by the best brains of the provincial government in order to make it suitable to Alberta conditions.

The Act shall be administered by a board of not less than three nor more than five, to be known as the Alberta Farm Loan Board. Members are appointive.

A commissioner of farm loans shall be in direct charge of the work.

The board may loan money on first mortgages on farm lands, and all mortgages shall be for a term of 30 years, to be repaid in equal annual instalments.

All payments shall be made on Jan. 1st of each year.

The rate of interest shall be fixed from time to time, and the basis of the rates charged on loans shall be as nearly as possible not more than one per cent. per annum greater than is paid by the board for the money.

No loan shall be granted for more than 40 per cent. of the appraised value of the land.

Not more than $3,000 shall be loaned to any one person not at the time actually engaged in, or intending to be engaged in agriculture, stock-raising or dairying, and whose experience and whose ability to carry on the same, the board may have reasonable ground to question.

Loans may be made for acquiring land for agricultural purposes, purchasing live stock, machinery or equipment, erecting buildings and making improvements, discharging liabilities incurred in making improvements and the development of land used for agricultural purposes, and for any purpose which in the opinion of the board will increase the productiveness and usefulness of the land.

Arrangements have been made for the repayment of a loan before the date of expiry in case the mortagee is in a position to take up his indebtedness. At any time after the first year the mortgagee may, provided his mortgage is not in arrears, by payment of six months' interest by way of bonus, pay to the board on account of his mortgage the sum of $25 and accrued interest. This simply means that a farmer can pay his mortgage off in full or in part at any time he has the money, provided he pays a bonus of six months' interest for the privilege of doing so.

The farm loan board is required to maintain a sinking fund.

Money for loan under this act shall raised by the issuing of debentures unbe raised by the issuing of debentures under the Act. The repayment of such bonds shall bo by the Crown in right of the province of Alberta.

Money borrowed by the board under the act shall not be for a longer term than 50 years. The total amount of bonds issued shall not exceed $5,000,000. Bonds and the proceeds thereot shall be free from all forms of provincial, municipal or other kinds of taxation. These bonds shall be considered a lawful investment for provincial, mnuicipal and school district sinking funds.

VANCOUVER WILL STAGE BIG DOG SHOW

Vancouver, May 9.—The end of the month will see the biggest dog show ever held in Western Canada, held in this city. With 400 entries and over 300 dogs benched the show is expected to eclipse all former events of this character. Dogs from Portland, Seattle, Spokane, Victoria, and many other points will vie for the prizes and make sport for the canine lovers. The dates are May 24 to 26, and the event will be pulled off by the Terminal City Kennel club.

WINNIPEG LETTER

(Thompson, Son & Company)

In our Winnipeg market trading is quiet. Practically all the elevator to the agents of the Royal Wheat sold to the agents of the Royal Wheat companies wheat has to be sold agreed upon in exchange for May wheat, which leaves only the car lot shipments from farmers and country dealers consigned to commission merchants for the rest of the trade to work on. The government agents arbitrarily fix the prices they will exchange the May for cash wheat and these prices are quoted in the daily market lists, but individual buyers pay what they think fit and so today we find May wheat and cash 1 northern quoted at 290c, but sales have been made this afternoon since the U.S. government report came out as high as $3. Government prices are 1 nor. 290c, 2 nor. 287c, 3 nor. 282c, No. 4 270c, No. 5 245c, No. 6 215c, feed 141c ,May 290c, June 271c, July 266c, October 199⅛c.

Oats—The oats market has become very strong, owing to demand for the May future. A large quantity of the oats coming from the country are no grade and won't apply on contract sales, so the market has been run up by shorts trying to cover. Today's prices 2 C.W. 79c, 3 C.W. and Ex. 1 Feed 76c. No other grades quoted. May 79c, July 72c, October 59¾c.

Barley—Barley is very firm and 2c to 3c higher on the week. No. 3 129c, No. 4 124c. Rejected and Feed 102c. The May future closed 129c.

Flax—The flax market is very strong and has made advance of 18c to 23c on the week. The short crop in the United States and the Argentine having no flax to ship to the United States this year, combined with the big demand for linseed oil in the United States has forced prices up. No. 1 N.W. 323⅜c, 2 C.W. 320½c, 3 C.W. and Rejected 306⅝c. May 323⅛c, July 318¼c.

GRAIN PRICES

Spring Wheat	Wednesday	Thursday
1 Northern	286	294
2 Northern	283	291
3 Northern	278	286
No. 4	266	274
No. 5	241	249
No. 6	211	200
Feed	140	147
Oats—
2 C. W.	78⅞	81¼
3 C. W.	78½	78¼
Extra 1 Feed	74⅛	78¼
No. 1 Feed	—	74⅛
Barley—
3 barley	123	132
4 barley	118	127
Flax—
1 N. W. C.	316¼	333⅛
2 N. W. C.	313	332

WINNIPEG OPTIONS

Wheat—	Open	Close
October	217	217
Oats—
May	82	81¼
July	73½	72⅞
October	60½	60⅜
Barley—
May	—	129
Flax—
May	334	335
July	330	328

LIVESTOCK

CALGARY PRICES FOR HOGS CONTINUE GOOD—BEEF LOW

The demand for cattle and hogs continues good and prices for hogs are up while the demand for cattle had the effect of lowering prices somewhat.

Steers—
Extra export	$10.00 to $10.50
Fat, extra choice butcher	9.25 to 9.75
Com. to medium butcher	8.50 to 9.25
Heifers—
Com. to choice heavy but.	8.25 to 9.00
Cows—
Choice	7.50 to 8.00
Common	5.75 to 6.75
Canner, cows and oxen	4.25 to 4.75
Fat oxen	6.75 to 7.25
Thin and fair oxen	5.00
Veal calves—
150-250 lbs.	8.75 to 9.25
Over 450 lbs. (good color)	8.00 to 8.75
Stocker, 2-year-olds	7.50 to 7.75
Light feeding steers	7.25 to 7.75
Stags	6.75 to 7.50
Springers, choice	96.00 to 100.00
Springers, common	55.00 to 75.00
Fat bulls	7.50 to 8.00
Sheep—
Good wethers	10.25 to 10.75
Ewes	9.50 to 10.50
Lambs, choice fat	13.00 to 13.50
Hogs—
Selects, weighed off cars	15.75
Hides (no dockage), lb.	.14

MONTREAL PRODUCE MARKET

Montreal, May 9.—Butter was firm, with a fair demand for small lots. There has been no settled price made for cheese. Demand for eggs good and undertone to the market is strong.

Cheese—Not quoted.

Butter—Choicest creamery, 42½c; seconds, 41c to 41¼c.

Eggs—Fresh, 44c; No. 1stock, 42c.

Pork—Heavy Canada short mess, barrels, 35 to 45 pieces, 55 to $56; Canada short cut back, barrels, 45 to 55 pieces $52 to $53.

CHICAGO MARKET

Chicago, May 9.—Hogs—Receipts, 28,000; strong, 10c to 15c above yesterday's average; bulk, $15.65 to $15.90; light, $14.65 to $15.85; mixed, $15.30 to $16.00; heavy, $15.30 to $16.00; rough, $15.30 to $15.50; pigs, $10.00 to $14.10.

Cattle—Receipts, 17,000; strong; native beef cattle, $9.40 to $13.70—a new high record; stockers and feeders, $7.10 to $10.30; cows and heifers, $6.65 to $11.50; calves, $9.50 to $14.00.

Sheep—Receipts, 12,000; strong; wethers, $11.50 to $14.10; ewes, $10.85 to $14.35; lambs, $14.25 to $18.35.

MONTREAL MARKET

Montreal, May 9.—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market the offerings today amounted to 300 cattle, 25 sheep and lambs, 450 hogs and 1,200 calves. The tone of the market for cattle was very firm at the late advance in prices noted, owing to the fact that the demand was more than ample to absorb the supply, and a fairly active trade was done with sales of choice steers at $12.25 to $12.75; good at $11.75 to $12.00, and the lower grades at from that down to $9.75, while butchers' cows sold at $9.00 to $11.00, and bulls at $10.00 to $11.75 per 100 pounds.

The feature of the small meat trade was the active demand for calves for shipment to outside points, and in consequence all the offers met with a ready sale at prices ranging from $8.500 to $11.00 per 100 pounds as to quality and quantity. A few spring lambs brought $8.00 to $12.00. Old sheep sold at $10.00 to $11.00 per 100 pounds. The tone of the market for hogs was firm, with a good demand from packers, and sales of selected lots were made at $17.75 to $18.00 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

FINANCE

CALGARY OIL EXCHANGE

	Bid	Asked
Alberta Associated	15	..
Alberta Pet. Con.	½	1
Alberta Pacific Con.	3¼	3½
Athabasca Oil Co.	..	20
Beaver	⅛	½
British Canadian Oils	..	½
Calgary Alberta Oils	1	2
Cal. Pet. Prod.	15	18
Federal Oil & Gas	½	1
Monarch	1	..
Moose Mountain	4	..
Mount Stephen Oil & Gas	19	20
N. W. Pacific Oil Co.	2	5
Piedmont Pet. Products	..	⅛
Progress	..	¼
Record	9	15
Stokes-Stephens Oil Co.	3	5½
Southern Alberta	3.25	3.50
Segur Oils, Ltd.	..	1
Union Pacific	⅛	¼
United	..	1.25
Western Pacific	5	..
Western Petroleum	1	..

"THE COW BILL"

The Live Stock Encouragement Act, which was passed at the recent session of the Alberta Legislature, commonly known as "The Cow Bill," is now in operation, and applications are being received at the Department of Agriculture for loans under this Act. The Act provides that any five or more farmers may avail themselves of its provisions by joining together for that purpose. These men may borrow up to $500 each. The money is loaned to them for a period of five years at 6 per cent. interest. The farmer receives the full $500 and he has nothing to pay but $30 interest once a year until the end of five years. The only expense in connection with the loan is a fee of $1 for every $100 borrowed. There is no further expense in connection with chattel mortgages or the registration of the same as the Live Stock Commissioner in the Department of Agriculture holds the cattle in security for the loan by means of a government brand. A certain amount of supervision is made over the purchase of the cattle, or rather, the farmer is given whatever assistance he may require in the purchase of his cows. The money must be used exclusively in the purchase of cows or heifers, except in case a number of members of an association wish to purchase a pure-bred bull to be used by them as an association, and then 10 per cent. of their money may be used for that purpose.

The purchaser of live stock under this Act must retain the progeny of the cows or heifers so purchased until the note is paid, except that he can sell the steers when they are two years old and use the proceeds in connection with his farming business. None of the original cows or heifers, or cows or heifers bred from them, can be sold without the written consent of the Live Stock Commissioner. This consent, of course, will be given in case a farmer should require to sell any of them on account of their being non-breeders or for any other reason, replacing those sold with other cows or heifers. In this way the live stock loans will practically all be well secured after the first crop of calves has been raised, so that there will be a comparatively small amount of risk either for the oGvernment or for any individual member of an association.

In order to avail themselves of this loan, five farmers are asked to join together, signing joint and several notes for the money, so that in case of any man wilfully neglecting his stock there will be some interested person in the shape of another member of the syndicate to notify the Live Stock Commissioner, and he, under the provisions of this Act, can take charge of the stock so neglected, and see that the other members of the syndicate as well as the Government are protected against loss.

Provision is also made in the Act for the Live Stock Commissioner to proceed against the one man who so neglects his stock and compel nim to pay whatever loss there is without involving the other members of the syndicate in a law-suit, the idea being to work out, as simply as possible, a system by which men can borrow money at a low rate of interest for the purchase of live stock, and still have reasonable protection for the Treasury of the Province of Alberta, which guarantees these loans, and thus materially reduces the rate of interest.

Already a number of applications have been received from associations, and the Live Stock Commissioner is now prepared to take the matter up with any farmers who are interested in the Act. Write the Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, for information, forms of application and copies of The Live Stock Encouragement Act.

CITY SIGN WORKS

SECOND STREET EAST

For Sign Painting and Show Cards

Opposite Post Office

See Us.

Prices Right. Good Workmanship

FURRIER

THOS. PAIN

Manufacturing Furrier

Successor to Mackay & Dipple Fur Manufacturing Department

218A Eighth Ave. West. Phone M3806

Furs Remodeled and Repaired. Your Own Skins Dressed and Made Up. Highest Prices Paid for Raw Furs.

Office Phone M3375

Residence Phone M3251

JOHN J. PETRIE

Barrister, Solicitor and Notary

2 MILLS BLOCK

322A Eighth Avenue West

Calgary . . . Canada

MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

The old reliable remedy for rheumatism, neuralgia, sore throat and sprains.

Best Liniment Made

MR. A. H. LAUDRY, EDMONTON, writes:—"I fell from a building and received what the doctor called a very bad sprained ankle, and foldane. I must not walk on it for three weeks. I got MINARD'S LINIMENT and in six days I was out to work again. I think it the best Liniment made."

Minard's Liniment always gives satisfaction. For any ache or pain. It gives instant relief.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited

Yarmouth, - - N.S.

The Only Grand Prize (Highest Award) given to Dictionaries at the Panama-Pacific Exposition was granted to WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL

FOR

Superiority of Educational Merit.

This new creation answers with final authority all kinds of puzzling questions such as "How is Przemysl pronounced?" "Where is Flanders?" "What is a continuous voyage?" "What is a howitzer?" "What is white coal?" "How is okra pronounced?" and thousands of others.

More than 400,000 Vocabulary Terms. 30,000 Geographical Subjects. 12,000 Biographical Entries. Over 6000 Illustrations. 2700 Pages. The only dictionary with the divided page—a stroke of genius.

Regular and India-Paper Editions.

Write for specimen pages, illustrations, etc. Free, a set of Pocket Maps if you name this paper.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Springfield, Mass.

WEBBER'S GARAGE

FORD SPECIALISTS

: Everything for the :

:: Motorist ::

OPEN DAY AND NIGHT

129 5th Ave. W. Phone M2033

High Class American Dentistry

Expression 20th Century Plates that Fit

Cute-Rate Prices. 10-Year Guarantee.

The Greatest Scientific Painless Methods Used.

Office Hours: 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Daily; 7 to 8 p.m. Evenings

Thousands of Pleased Patients

Gold Crowns and Bridge Work a Specialty

DR. P. C. BRUNER | DR. W. B. REEVE

Graduates from Chicago, Detroit and Philadelphia Colleges

Phone M1051

Calgary Office: Eighth Avenue East, Next to Allen Theatre

Edmonton Office: Crystall Block, Jasper Avenue

N

SPRING and SUMMER SUITS

Made to Your Order, From $25 to $40

300 Patterns From Which to Make Your Selection.

A. S. Nimmo

MADE TO MEASURE CLOTHES FOR MEN

ALBERTA CORNER 1st. ST. WEST. CALGARY

IMPERIAL HOTEL

DANIEL F. WHITNEY, Prop.

Second Street East and Ninth Avenue

FAMILY HOTEL

Buffet in Connection

Large, Light, Airy Rooms

Rates Reasonable

Music Afternoon and Evening

A GENUINE FARMER'S MARKET

A Public Market owned and operated by the City of Calgary in the interests of the producer and consumer.

Farmers living at a distance and unable to attend the Market in person can forward their produce direct to the Superintendent and have same sold through a bonded agent with prompt returns.

For further particulars phone or write

SUPERINTENDENT,

Calgary Public Market

LAYZELL & PARR

Desire to announce that they have a Large Shipment of Two to Six-Year-Old

PERCHERONS, BELGIANS, CLYDES

Every Farmer and Rancher should be interested in this great collection of Registered, Imported and Canadian Bred Stock. Besides this, we have horses of all kinds, ready for work.

ALL HORSES SOLD WITH FULL GURANTEE

If you want a stud, write us. Terms to suit responsible parties.

Calgary Address: 520 Center Street

Telegraph Address: Horses, Calgary

Phone M2260

References: Union Bank of Canada

CROSSLAND & BEALE

Decorators

Wall Paper, Sanitas, Burlaps, Mouldings, Paints, Oils, Stains, Varnishes and Brushes

714 SECOND STREET EAST

Phone M4344 City Hall Corner

J. W. Vermilyea & Co.

805 First St. West, 25 Alberta Blk.

Phone M1617 Calgary, Alta.

We have first-class Farm Lands for sale in all parts of Southern Alberta, both raw and improved, at right prices, also a large list of fully modern houses for sale, in all parts of the city. Money to loan.

Order Your Help from

J. R. ROBERTS

Employment Office

108a Ninth Avenue West

Phone M5881 Calgary, Alta.

BROCK & MILLAR

LADIES' AND GENTS' TAILORS

Breeches Makers

711A First St. East, Cameron Blk.

Phone M1267 CALGARY

O. Hanson & Co.

EMPLOYMENT AGENCY

Head Office:

613A Centre St., Calgary, Alta.

P. O. Box 1346 Phone M2963

We make a specialty in furnishing Labor for Railroad Contractors and Companies. All kinds of help Furnished on Short Notice.

For Quick, Reliable and Satisfactory Service, See Us.

C. P. R. Labor Agents.

E. P. BOSSARD

SAFE EXPERT and LOCKSMITH

KEYS of every description

FINE REPAIR WORK

PHONE M 6317

Residence PHONE M 6508.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be, a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A settler after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot secure a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agent's Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

W. W. CORY.

Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N. B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.

Calgary (Western) Standard

Independent Weekly Newspaper Illustrating Current Events and Devoted to the Advancement of Western Canada
Published Every Saturday at 109 Sixth Avenue West.
Calgary, Alberta, Canada.
E. H. MACARTHUR . . . . Publisher
B. S. WHITE . . . . Editor and Manager
Telephone for Editorial and Circulation Departments M4210.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

Two dollars per year throughout Canada. Fifty Cents Extra by mail or carrier in the City of Calgary, or to Foreign Points.
Subscription may commence at any time.
The date on your wrapper indicates when your subscription will terminate. Your paper will stop unless you renew promptly. It is always best to renew at least two weeks before expiration to insure uninterrupted service.
Subscribers failing to receive copies regularly will confer a favor by notifying the Circulation Department by post or phone.
No agent or newsboy is authorized to sell CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD on Sunday. Any person doing so is acting without permission or authority of this company.
The Standard takes no responsibility for any obligation incurred by any employee unless such obligation is ordered and accepted by the proper officer of this company.

ADVERTISING

Advertising rates upon application.
All advertising copy must reach the Standard Office not later than Thursday afternoon to insure insertion in Mail and Local Editions.
All correspondence and editorial communications should be addressed to CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD, Calgary, Alberta.

S.P.A.League Start Playing Next Monday

Baseball fans will rejoice over the proposed game of the Hustlers and Columbus club which will start on Monday next. The schedule has been drawn up for the year, and it includes 16 games for each team, and the league will be divided into two series billed to meet for the championship in September.

As in former years all games will be played at Mewata park, commencing at 6.30 on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The following is the list of games for May:

May 14—Columbus vs. Hustlers.
May 16—Cubs vs. Columbus.
May 18—Hustlers vs. Cubs.
May 21—Hustlers vs. Columbus.
May 24—Columbus vs. Cubs.
May 24—Cubs vs. Hustlers.
May 25—Columbus vs. Hustlers.
May 28—Cubs vs. Columbus.
May 30—Hustlers vs. Cubs.

NATIONAL BASEBALL

AMERICAN LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Boston	12	5	.706
New York	10	7	.588
Chicago	14	10	.583
St. Louis	11	11	.500
Cleveland	11	12	.478
Detroit	8	11	.421
Washington	7	12	.368
Philadelphia	6	11	.353

NATIONAL LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
New York	10	5	.667
St. Louis	12	7	.632
Chicago	15	9	.625
Philadelphia	8	8	.500
Boston	7	8	.467
Cincinnati	11	13	.458
Brooklyn	5	10	.333
Pittsburg	6	14	.300

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Newark	11	4	.733
Baltimore	13	6	.684
Rochester	10	7	.588
Providence	9	8	.529
Toronto	9	9	.500
Richmond	7	11	.389
Montreal	7	11	.389
Buffalo	3	13	.188

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

	W.	L.	Pct.
Indianapolis	18	5	.783
Kansas City	9	7	.563
Columbus	11	9	.550
Louisville	12	10	.545
Milwaukee	8	10	.444
St. Paul	6	11	.353
Minneapolis	5	10	.333
Toledo	6	13	.316

NORTHWESTERN LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Tacoma	12	3	.800
Great Falls	7	5	.583
Spokane	7	7	.500
Seattle	6	7	.462
Vancouver	7	9	.438
Butte	3	11	.214

COAST LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Salt Lake	20	12	.625
San Francisco	20	14	.588
Portland	16	16	.500
Oakland	16	17	.485
Vernon	15	20	.429
Los Angeles	13	21	.382

ENGLISH FIGHTER BESTS AMERICAN

Columbus, Ohio, May 9.—Johnny Griffith, of Akron, was bested by Ted Lewis, the English welterweight, in a 12 round bout. Lewis' weight was 141¾; Griffiths 141¼.

Cupid makes a mistake when he grafts a bud on an old shrub.

MONUMENTS
The Somerville Co.

2313 SECOND STREET EAST
Phone M3305
South of C.N.R. Subway, Near Union Cemetery Gate

Beginning Tues. for a Run of Half a Month--This Annual May

GOWNS, SKIRTS, COMBINATIONS, PRINCESS SLIPS, CORSET COVERS, DRAWERS, CAMISOLES

5893 Pieces Fine Whitewear in this

GREAT MAY SALE

OF

'BAY' UNDERMUSLINS

At Savings of from 1-4 to 1-3 and in many cases as much as 1-2 of Regular Prices. An Unparalelled Opportunity for Past, Present or Future Brides---You Will Benefit Greatly by an Early Attendance

Mail Orders Will Be Filled on all items, Providing the Quantity Remains, With the Exception of Lines Marked "Limited Quantities" or Designated as not Subject to Mail Order Filling.

Shop in Person, if You Can

Sale Starts Tues. A.M.

The Hudson's Bay Company.

INCORPORATED 1670 HERBERT L. BURBIDGE, STORES COMMISSIONER

Sale Opens Tues. A.M.

nual May this

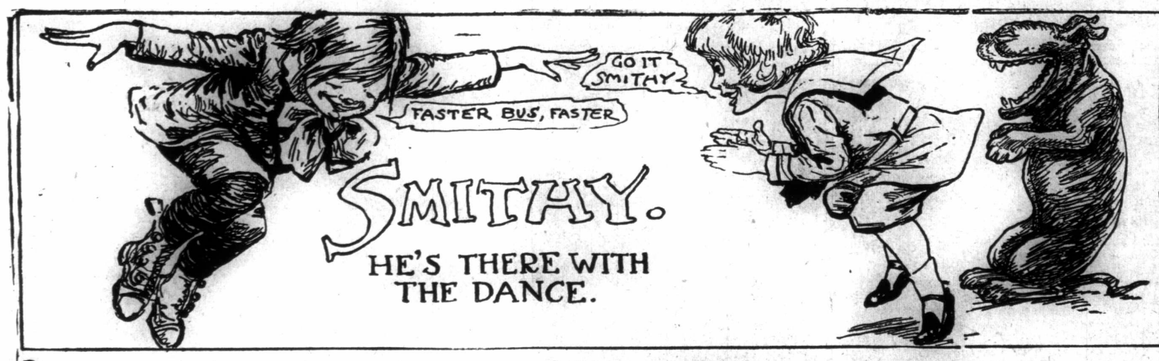
LE



NS

Sale Opens
Tues.
A.M.

COMIC SECTION

Western Standard
ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY
CALGARY, ALBERTA MAY 13, 1917

MY MA SAYS SHE DONT BELIEVE IN TELLING ANYTHING NOR CONTRIBUTING ANY INFORMATION. WHATS THE USE ?. IF PEOPLE WANT TO KNOW ANYTHING SHE SAYS LET 'EM ASK PEOPLE THATS PAID TO TALK ABOUT IT. SHE SAYS SHE AINT NO MISSIONARY. WHEN YOU GET FULL OF JOY OVER SOMETHING YOU JUST FOUND OUT, KEEP IT TO YOURSELF. NOBODY WANTS TO HEAR IT. THEY'LL LOOK AT YOU LIKE A DEAD FISH AND THINK YOU ARE FULL OF PRUNES. SHE SAYS DONT LEND ANYBODY A BOOK TILL THEY COAX FOR IT NOR TELL WHAT YOU TOOK TO GET WELL. NOR SWAP SICK TALK WITH 'EM NOR TRY TO PICK OUT A WIFE FOR 'EM, OR TELL 'EM WHO YOUR DOCTOR IS, 'LESS YOU HATE 'EM

SMITHY.

---On With the Dance and Things.

Copyright, 1916, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved

RESOLVED THAT
WE CANNOT SAY TOO MANY NICE THINGS FOR THE GENTLE ART OF DANCING - IT IS THE BEST AND HEALTHIEST EXERCISE. IT HAS MUSIC FOR ITS ACCOMPANIMENT. IT STIMULATES SOCIAL INTERCOURSE AND GIVES SOMETHING TO DO FOR THOSE WHO ARE TOO STUPID TO BE INTERESTED IN A SANE CONVERSATION. TO BE A REALLY EXPERT DANCER IT MUST BE A HABIT. TO BE AN EXPERT AT ANYTHING IT MUST BE A HABIT. IF ONE'S MIND IS CONSTANTLY UPON ONE THING HE WILL SURELY SUCCEED AT IT. LOOK OUT BOYS, AND PICK OUT SOMETHING WORTH WHILE TO GET INTO THE HABIT OF. IF YOU ARE IN THE HABIT OF KICKING, GET OUT OF IT. GET INTO THE HABIT OF SMILING AND EXCUSING THINGS. HEALTH IS LARGELY A HABIT OF THINKING. SOME ARE ALWAYS THINKING THEY ARE SICK AND KICKING IF THEY HAV'N'T GOT A PAIN. THE WORST HABIT IS KNOCKING EVERYTHING AND EVERYBODY. IF YOU DONT LIKE A THING OR PERSON FORGET IT. YOU ONLY HARM YOURSELF

R. F. Outcault
12

RURAL MAIL ORDER GUIDE

RURAL BUYERS' GUIDE

RELIABLE FIRMS—SATISFACTORY SERVICE

FARMERS' AND RANCHERS' BUSINESS DIRECTORY

HOME CLASSIFIED BUSINESS GUIDE

STANDARD BUSINESS DIRECTORY

BARRISTERS AND SOLICITORS

E. F. RYAN BARRISTER, SOLICITOR and Notary, 402 Macican Block, Calgary, Alta. Phone M1670.

E. A. DUNBAR, BARRISTER, ETC., Royal Bank Chambers, Eighth Ave. and Centre Street. Phone M2311. 11-1yr.

FRANCOIS DE ROUSSY DE SALES, Barrister, Solicitor and Notary Public; Avocat Francais. Rooms, 209-211 Grain Exchange, Calgary. Phone M1915.

H. P. SAUNDERS, BARRISTER AND Solicitor, etc. 22 Old Herald Building Phone M2747.

JAMES O. CAMPBELL, B.L., BARRISTER and Solicitor, 312 Beveridge Building, Calgary. Phone M2977.

J. J. MACDONALD, B.A., LL.B., BARrister, Solicitor, Notary, 303-306 Beveridge Building, Calgary, Alta. Phone M3371

J. McKINLEY CAMERON, BARRISTER and Solicitor. Office, 230. Phone M6769. Corner of 8th Ave. and First St. West.

LOUGHEED, BENNETT, McLAWS & CO. Clarence Block, 122 Eighth Ave. West, Calgary, Alberta, Canada.
Hon. J. A. Lougheed, P.C., K.C.; R. B. Bennett, K.C.; W. H. McLaws, J. C. Brokovski, J. B. Roberts, D. L. Redman, L. M. Roberts, W. C. Pollard, H. A. Chadwick, H. E. Forster.

McLEAN, PATTERSON AND BROAD. H. W. McLean, W. H. Patterson, W. B. Broad. Phone M6356. 502 MacLean Block, Calgary. Branch Offices, Acme, and Beiseker, Alta.

P. HARCOURT O'REILLY, BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary, 716-717 Herald Bldg Calgary. Phone M5969.

SAVARY, FENERTY & CHADWICK, Stringer Block. Main 5614.

TWEEDIE, McGILLIVRAY, BARRON & Oldham, Solicitors, Etc. T. M. Tweedie, A. A. McGillivray, J. B. Barron, J. N. Oldham. 105A Eighth Avenue West.

ARTISTS

ARTISTS, DESIGNERS & ENGRAVERS HICKS ENGRAVING CO., LIMITED, Makers of Photo Engravings for all Purposes.
Herald Western Building, Cor. 2nd Ave. and 5th Street West
Phone M6761

STAFFORD & KENT, DESIGNERS AND ENGRAVERS
Illuminated Addresses, Engrossings and Engraved Cards
222A Eighth Avenue West

AUCTIONEERS

M6209 CITY EXCHANGE AUCTIONeers. 406 Eighth Avenue West. House and Office Furniture at our Salesrooms at SNAP PRICES
Call, write or phone us.

BOOTS AND SHOES

FOR UP-TO-THE-MINUTE FOOTWEAR, go to RICHARDSON'S LIMITED
(The Home of Good Shoes)
816 Eighth Ave. West Phone M4509

COUPLAND BUSINESS COLLEGE

THE OLD SCHOOL, THE TRIED SCHOOL, the School for you. Why not start now? Phone M1209. 109 14th Ave. West.

CHIROPRACTIC

HAVE YOU BEEN PRONOUNCED INcurable? If so, investigate Chiropractic. Scientific, safe, sane, specific. T. B. Davis, D. C., 202 I.O.O.F. Blk. Graduate Palmer school, Davenport, Ia. Phone M2072. Consultation free.

DENTISTS

DR. A. B. C. DANDO
Dentist
Prices Cut in TWO
123 8th Ave. W. Phone M2141

FRONT OFFICE TO RENT

IN MILLS BLOCK
For particulars apply
J. J. PETRIE
SUITE 2, MILLS BLOCK
322A 8th Avenue West Phone M3375

DO YOU WANT MONEY?

If you are a man, woman, boy or girl and you want to make money send us your name and address. We will send you the particulars which will make you money and independent for life. You only have to devote a part of your spare time to it to earn all the money you need for luxuries or you can devote your entire time to it and make a good living. You don't need any experience. You simply need energy and ambition to make the effort and success will come.—Address, Manager, 109 Sixth Ave., Calgary, Alberta.

DR. SIZE
THE DENTIST AND NATUROPATH
233 EIGHTH AVENUE EAST
30 years successful practice.
All branches
Have your Dental work done, your Plates, Crowns or Bridges repaired.

BABY WELFARE

Avoid all drugs and patent medicines. They will serve you false. The cause of decay of the teeth is in the general system not the mouth. Let me explain this to you.

DYEING AND CLEANING

WHEN IN NEED OF FIRST-CLASS DRI Cleaning, Dyeing or Repair Work on the shortest notice, 'phone THE DON DRY CLEANING COMPANY. '02 Seventh Ave. West Phones M3235—M3905.

APPAREL SERVICE CO., DYERS, Cleaners of everything. 233 17 Ave. W. Phones M3150, W1533.

FURNITURE REMOVERS

THE PACIFIC CARTAGE CO., LIMITED. Furniture Moving and Storage, expert packers and forwarding agents. Phone M6007. Office in C.P.R. freight shed, Ninth Avenue and Second Street East.

FURNISHED ROOMS TO RENT

THE SAMIS APARTMENTS, CENTRALLY Located, 330 Eighth Avenue East. Furnished Rooms to Rent by Day, Week or Month. Also Unfurnished Rooms by the Month Prices Moderate Phone M5654.

FURS AND LADIES' TAILORED HATS

WE ARE BUSY NOW IN THE FUR Remodelling Dept. What will it be in the season? So don't defer sending your furs to us; you will save time and money
W. W. BELL
LADIES' HATTER AND FURRIER
237 7th Ave. West, between 1st and 2nd Sts

FOR SALE

FOR SALE, IF SOLD AT ONCE, FIVE slightly used Organs, prices $25.00 to $60.00. Terms if desired. These have been polished and tuned, and will be taken back inside of two years on a Willis Piano (Canada's Best) at the full price paid. Willis Pianos, peerless in tone, touch and finish. Alberta Showrooms, 325 8th Ave. West, Calgary. W. M. Howe, manager.

GASFITTING

JOB CARNEGIE, 744 FIVE AND A HALF Street N.W. Gas Fitting and Repairs day or night. Phone M5918. 13-1yr

WE BEG TO ANNOUNCE THE REopening of the Central Plumbing, Gasfitting and Heating Store on 1211 First Street East. Gas Stoves and Water Heaters connected and general repairs of every description. If you have anything in the above line, by patronizing me you are helping a returned Soldier. Phone M1265. R. C. Laurie.

HAIR DRESSERS

MRS. ARTHUR, SHAMPOO, MANICURE Face and Scalp Treatments; Combings Made Up; All Kinds of Hair Work No. 6 Royal Bank Building, entrance first door west of Woolworth's Store. Phone M6948

HARDWARE

MARSHALL HARDWARE, LIMITED 131 Eighth Avenue East Main 5499

HAT WORKS

EMPIRE HAT WORKS
HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED & REMODELLED
310 7th AVE EAST PHONE M 6286.

HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED AND REmodeled. Apparel Service Co. Phones M3150, W1533, 233 17 Ave. West. We call and deliver.

BOSTON HAT WORKS AND SHOE REPAIR SHOP
HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED AND RE shaped. Straws of every description Cleaned and Renovated. First-Class Shoe Repairing. All work guaranteed. Skates sharpened. All goods called for and delivered. Phone M4798.

HOTELS

QUEEN'S HOTEL
Second Street East and Eighth Avenue
FURNISHED ROOMS TO RENT BY DAY, week or month. Weekly rates from $2.75 to $5.000; monthly rates from $10.00 to $20.00. All outside rooms, warm and comfortable, most central location in city. B. A. Atkinson, Jr., proprietor.

HOMESTEADS OR FARM LANDS

REGON AND CALIFORNIA RAILROAD Co. Grant Lands—Titles to same revested in United Staes by act of Congress, dated June 9, 1916. Two million three hundred thousand acres to be opened for homesteads and sale. Timber and Agricultural Lands, containing some of best lands left in United States. Now is the opportune time. Large sectional map showing lands and description of soil, climate, rainfall, elevation, etc., postpaid One Dollar. Grant Lands Locating Co., Box 618, Portland, Oregon.

WANTED—to hear from owner of good farm for sale. Northwestern Business Agency, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thrills Indulged In By British Aviators

One British Flyer Whipped Three Germans and Was Ready For More

With the British Armies in France by mail).—One of the most thrilling of recent war adventures was that of a young naval airman who now is attached to the army service. With several other machines he was escorting some bombing planes over the German lines when, like a flock of geese, German airmen dashed at them from the clouds. For five minutes there was very hot fighting. In the general melee the naval man selected one particular opponent and, after a brilliant duel, he drove him down in flames.

During this fighting the Britisher had become entirely detached from the remainder of the formation. Seeing this, three of the hostile machines made for him. He bravely attacked and drove the German leader tumbling out of control, but the other two Germans kept up the battle. In a few minutes, however, one of these suddenly flew away, and the combat again became a duel, with the machines wing to wing. Finally the naval flier manoeuvred into a position which gave him the vital opportunity. There was another burst of fire and down crashed the last German machine.

Fought Almost to the Ground

At certain periods of the fighting the machines were less than fifty feet from the ground. The Britisher managed to struggle back to his lines. Exhausted from the fury of the fighting he let his machine fall in landing. He was unhurt, however. The wings of his plane had been peppered with bullets. The airman had not realized the fact, but during the fighting he had been fired on not alone by his aerial opponents, but by German infantry and cavalry as well.

While the fighting scouts ordinarily have the most interesting experiences to relate, the poor, old, hard working photographing machines also have their desperate moments. One of these recently was attacked by eleven hostile fighting scouts. Nearly all its controls were shot away and the observer, seriously wounded, fell half out of his machine. Although still manoeuvring his machine in an attempt to escape the direct fire of the surrounding Germans, the British pilot grasped the wounded observer to prevent him from from falling out and brought the plane safely down inside his own lines just as it burst into flames. Then, under a heavy shell fire, the pilot carried the observer to safety.

Photographers Have Narrow Escapes

Another photographer aviator brought his machine down under a heavy attack and, as usual, the German artillery began to shell it. Despite this, he managed to remove all his exposed plates and get away just before a heavy shell tore the plane to bits. The rescued plates proved most valuable.

Further details have been learned of the experience of two British airmen who were forced to bring their machine down just in front of the German lines south of Lens. In salving the guns from the wrecked planes they set up a little fortress in No Man's Land, and fought successfully for their lives. When they landed they did not know precisely what their position was, for in these days of semi-open warfare the lines are apt to change over night. They had a feeling that their surroundings were decidedly hostile and that "digging in" might prove the better part of valor.

Wrenching a light automatic gun from the machine they sought the quickest shelter nearby—a bit of sunken road. Hardly had they reached it when a patrol of eight Germans appeared. The airmen opened fire and the grey clad warriors ducked to cover. The pilot and observer remained thus intrenched until late in the afternoon with shells whistling over them from both directions. Toward darkness they sallied out and fortunately fell in the hands of a Canadian advanced patrol and were able to give valuable information regarding enemy positions.

Grand Duchy of Luxemberg Is Practially a Prison

While the Country Is Not at War It Is a German Captive—Inhabitants All Working at Good Wages but Can't Spend Their Money.

Amsterdam, Netherlands. — Little news reaches the outside world concerning the state of affairs in the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, the little state wedged in between Germany, France and Belgium, that was the first country to resound to the tramp of the German legions on their way to France. Luxemburg is entirely isolated by the Germans, and its inhabitants are like the Belgians, practically prisoners within their own borders, where they are sharing all the economic hardships of the central powers.

Everybody Is Working

According to information furnished to the Amsterdam Telegraaf by a Luxemburger, who has just succeeded in getting through to Holland, there is practically no unemployment in the grand duchy, where numerous iron foundries, steel manufactories and engineering works are busily engaged on German orders. But while this results in high wages and a lot of money being put into circulation, there is little to be had for money. The food position in particular is described as serious.

The government has tried to get food from Holland and Denmark, but the Germans refuse to let it pass, frankly declaring that they will not have the competition of Luxemburg buyers on the markets in those countries. The Luxemburg government bought and paid for a quarter million francs' worth of butter in Denmark, but it has not reached its destination.

Must Sell Food to Germans

The country would itself be able to meet its own prime needs were it not for the fact that it still has to regularly cede a large part of its products to Germany. As a result of the complaints of the government, however, Germany has restricted its requisitions. The duchy has to feed one German battalion, and on the other hand German soldiers are forbidden to requisition or buy eatables there. Notwithstanding the latter regulation, however, troops going to or coming from the front are well provided with paper money, and are glad, for instance, to pay as much as 15 francs for a pound of ham.

It is true the Luxemburg soldiers serving as customs officers have recently obtained the right to search German soldiers leaving the country, but this right does not extend to officers, and the latter smuggle quite as much or more than their men.

Our mistakes of yesterday are mainly responsible for our worries of today.

HEADACHES

Thousands of men and women suffer from headaches every day, other thousands have headaches every week or every month, and still others have headaches occasionally, but not at regular intervals. The best Doctor is often unable to find the cause of many of these headaches, and in most other cases, knowing the cause, he does not know what will remove it, so as to give a permanent cure. All he can do is to prescribe the usual pain relievers, which give temporary relief, but the headaches returns as usual, and treatment is again necessary. If you suffer from headaches and have been unable to remove the cause, take anti-kamnia tablets, and obtain the greatest possible relief. You can obtain them at all druggists in any quantity, 10c worth, 25c worth or more. Ask for A-K Tablets.

SICK-HEADACHES

Sick headache, the most miserable of all sicknesses, loses it terrors when A-K Tablets are taken. When you feel an attack coming on take two tablets, and in many cases, the attack will be warded off. During an attack take one A-K Tablet every two hours. The rest and comfort which follow, can be obtained in no other way.

A Real Improvement
The Sitting Position You Occupy When Sewing is a Very Important Matter

Your work is directly in front of you
THE "WHITE" SIT-STRATE is only one of the many Real Improvements offered in the "WHITE"
You Can Have Yours Now, Just—
PAY $1.00 EACH WEEK—SOON PAID FOR Sold by
THE NEILSON FURNITURE CO.,
Calgary

THE DICTAPHONE
A. HARPER & SON
213 Oddfellows' Building, Calgary

Royal Typewriters, all makes of Ribbons; Carbon Paper Multigraph Supplies, and Dictaphone Supplies.
GIVE US A TRIAL
Phone M2572

HELP WANTED

MEN AND WOMEN TO LEARN BARBering. Highest wages, steady employment guaranteed. Tools furnished free. Send for free illustrated instruction book. CALGARY BARBER COLLEGE, 815B Centre Street (near C.P.R. Depot).

LADIES WANTED TO DO PLAIN AND light sewing at home, whole or spare time; good pay; work sent any distance; charges paid. Send stamp for particulars. National Manufacturing Company, Montreal 8-6

HIGH CLASS CLOTHING

MRS. BRENNAND, PHONE M5197, DEALer in high class cast-off clothing. Samples in Ladies' Suits, Coats and Furs. Highest prices given. Mrs. Brennand, 810a First St West. Alberta rooms.

HIDES AND FURS

BEST MARKET PRICE FOR HIDES, FURS, WOOLS, PELTS AND HORSE HAIR, by the CANADIAN HIDE AND FUR COMPANY
510 Fourth Street East
Phone M5589 Calgary
We pay 3 cents per lb. for old rags.
We pay 35c per pound for Horse Hair.

ICE CREAM MANUFACTURERS

ICE CREAM IN BRICK AND BULK. Pure Goods Prompt delivery
P. PALLESEN
Calgary Central Creamery
Phone M5630

JEWELERS

DIAMOND MERCHANTS AND MANUFACTURING JEWELERS AND OPTICIANS
Issuers of Marriage Licenses
D. E. BLACK & CO., LTD.
Corner 7th Avenue and 1st Street West

LOCKSMITHS

IDDIOLS BROS., SAFE AND LOCK EXperts. We repair Bicycles, Sewing-machines, Guns, Locks, Etc. We sharpen lawn mowers, saws, shears, razors, etc. 712 2nd Street East, City Hall Corner Blk. East. Phone M6516. 13-1yr

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT DEALERS

WESTERN MUSIC SUPPLY CO.
Everything known in Music Supplies of all kinds for all instruments, Brass Band Instruments bought and sold. 405a Eighth Ave. West. Phone 3154, Calgary, Alta.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Any Standard reader patronizing advertisers on this page are guaranteed satisfactory service. If you make a purchase and the goods are not right consult The Standard. When you buy mention The Standard.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

D.E.BLACK & CO. LIMITED
JEWELERS & OPTICIAN
ISSUERS OF MARRIAGE LICENSES
LARGEST WATCH REPAIR BUSINESS IN WESTERN CANADA
SEE IN CATALOGUE HERALD BUILDING
CALGARY, ALBERTA

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS REPAIRED

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT REPAIRING Violins retoned and repaired; 30 years' practical experience; bows rehaired All kinds of musical instruments repaired. Webb's Musical Instrument Repairing Rooms, 202-203 Bruner Block, Calgary

MANUFACTURING FURRIER

FURS REMODELLED AND REPAIRED—Your own skins dressed and made up. Highest prices paid for raw furs.
THOMAS PAIN,
Successor to Mackay & Dipple,
Fur Manufacturing Department
218A Eighth Avenue West Calgary.

MOUNT ROYAL COLLEGE CALGARY

ACADEMIC COURSES; BOOK-KEEPING and Stenography; Music, Expression Art, Etc. Resident and Day Students Open to all denominations and classes Phone M3191. Calendar free on application.

STANDARD'S MOTOR DIRECTORY

AUTO GARAGES

TRY THE WEST END GARAGE FOR Automobile Repairs; our work is superior at low cost, and satisfaction guaranteed. 12th Ave. and 5th St. West. 13-26

SECOND-HAND CARS BOUGHT AND Sold. We always have a good line of autos to make a good selection. Our Garage is second to none for Repairs and Supplies.
WEBBER'S GARAGE
129 8th Avenue W. Phone M2033

NURSING HOMES

ENGLISH MATERNITY HOME—TERMS $20 per week inclusive. Graduate nurses supplied. Phone M3423. 613 2nd Ave. W.

OSTEOPATHY

DR. M. E. CHURCH, OSTEOPATHIC Physician and Surgeon; member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Alberta. Suites 7, 8, 9, Alberta Block Phones M2787 and W4999. All Curable Diseases Successfully Treated. Adenoids removed without anesthesia, the famous Irrigation Treatment used in the treatment of Catarrh. Going on Nine Years in Calgary.

OPTICIANS

HERBERT JAKOTT
OPTOMETRIST & OPTICIAN
PHONE M.6150. MACLEAN BLOCK

PATENT SOLICITORS

FORD, WRIGHT & MILLER, PATENT Solicitors. Patents secured in all countries. Phone M5671. 207 Alberta Corner. Calgary, Alberta.

PIANOS

HARDY & HUNT PIANO CO., LIMITED 816 Eighth Ave. West. Main 1585

PICTURE FRAMING

THE ART SHOP — PICTURE FRAMING a Specialty. 237 Seventh Ave. West J. W. BOOTH, Proprietor. Four years with Royal Picture Gallery

PLUMBING CONTRACTORS

YOUNG PLUMBING CO., LTD. PHONE M2269, Steam Fitters, Gas Fitting, Tinsmithing: 203 Seventh Avenue East.

PHELPS BROS. PHONE M1636 Plumbing, Gasfitting, Hot Water Heating Steam Fitting. Furnace Work. 930 Second Avenue N.W.

PRINTING

A. E. LITTLEBURY, COMMERCIAL AND Book Printer; 105 Sixth Avenue West Phone M2207. Estimates given.

PHOTOGRAPHER

CHAZIN PHOTO STUDIO—PORTRAITURE enlarging, developing, printing, and commercial work. 7 Eighth Ave. West Phone M3923.

PHOTOGRAPHIC COLORING

FOR ENLARGING, COLORING, FRAMing Photos of all kinds, faded and damaged Enlargements and Pictures restored. The Colorphoto Co., 710 First St. East. Please mention the Standard.

ROLLER SKATING

ROYAL ROLLER RINK HAS OPENED under new management. Drop in and enjoy yourself. Afternoons 2.30 to 5 p.m. Evenings 7 to 10.30. Mr. C. Anderson, instructor. Will be pleased to give lessons to beginners, also fancy skating. Admission, Ladies 15c, Gents 25c. 210 9th Ave. East. Proprietors, Thompson & Miller.

SAFETY RAZORS SHARPENED

JUST TO CONVINCE YOU, SEND US three blades, we will resharpen them and return to you Free of charge. Our prices are: Gillette 35c per doz., and single edge blades 25c per doz., old fashioned razors 25c each. We sharpen Clippers Scissors and Lances of every description Give us a trial.
THE CALGARY SHOE HOSPITAL

SHOES REPAIRED

O. K. SHOE CO.
Calgary's Leading Shoe Repairers
Let Us Fix Your Shoes
We Guarantee the Utmost Satisfaction
Country Orders Receive Prompt Attention
710 First St. E. Phone M6079

VULCANIZED DOUBLE TREADS

PHONE M6755. NO STITCHES no looseness, no extra weight; guaranteed 3,000 Miles. Red Star Vulcanizing Works, 105 Twelfth Avenue East. 13-1yr

VULCANIZING

We are specialists in vulcanizing everything in rubber. We are agents for the famous Firestone Tire. Don't forget the address:
BELL TIRE CO.,
602 First Street East
Phone M5905 Res. M4702

STATIONERY AND OFFICE SUPPLIES

WILLSON STATIONERY CO., LIMITED, 215 Eighth Avenue West,—Everything in Stationery and Office Supplies. The most complete stock in Western Canada.

SECOND-HAND DEALERS

CHICAGO IRON AND METAL CO. 501-503 Sixth Ave. E., corner 4th St. Phone M4448.
Dealers in Scrap Iron, Brass, Copper, Zinc and Lead, Rubber Tires and Inner Tubes, also Manilla Rope and all kinds of Old Machinery. It will be to your convenience to see us. Phone, call or write.
MAX RUBEN, Manager.

STORAGE AND CARTAGE

STORAGE AND CARTAGE FOR ANY kind of goods. Warehouse specially fitted for household merchandise, each customer having separate rooms. Trackage. Padded vans for furniture and pianos. Expert packers and shippers. Estimates cheerfully given. Official cartage and baggage agents C.N.R. JOHNSTON STORAGE & CARTAGE CO. Limited
Phone M4444 and M5678.
Office and Warehouse 423 Sixth Ave. East

CALGARY STORAGE & CARTAGE CO. LIMITED
437 TENTH AVENUE EAST
PHONE M1349
Storage for all classes of Merchandise, including Cold Storage Equipment; Separate Compartments for Furniture, Pianos; Padded Furniture Vans; Packers, Forwarders. Baggage Delivered. Trackage for carlots.

TAILORS

SANDY MACLEAN
Alterations, Tailoring, Repairs, Cleaning and Pressing
Suits made to measure from $18 to $35
433 Lougheed Building, over Grand Theatre—Phone M6506.
Calgary, Alberta

UNDERTAKING PARLORS

VIOLINS AND VIOLONCELLOS

JAS. J. DOHERTY
Violin Repairer and Appraiser, Tone Restored, Bows Rehaired. Brass Band Instruments Repaired. 405a Eighth Ave West. Phone 3154, Calgary, Alta.

LUMP $8.00
STOVE $5.25
Stock up now before the raise in price.
YORK SHAW
238 Eighth Ave. East
Phone M6423

PARCEL POST RATES

Any P. O. within twenty miles of Calgary, five cents for the first lb. and one cent additional for each additional lb. up to five lbs. when the rate is two cents for each additional lb. up to eleven lbs. To any P.O. beyond 20 miles but within the radius of Alberta, ten cents for the first lb. and four cents for each additional lb. To any P. O. in Saskatchewan ten cents for the first lb. and six cents additional for each additional lb.. To any P. O. in Manitoba, twelve cents for the first lb. and eight cents for each additional lb.

HOME
CLASSIFIED
BUSINESS
GUIDE

TOR DIRECTORY

VULCANIZED DOUBLE TREADS

PHONE M6755. NO STITCHES looseness, no extra weight; guaranteed 3,000 Miles. Red Star Vulcanizing Works, 103 Twelfth Avenue East. 13-1yr

VULCANIZING

We are specialists in vulcanizing everything in rubber. We are agents for the famous Firestone Tire. Don't forget the address: BELL TIRE CO., 602 First Street East. Phone M5905 Res. M4702

STATIONERY AND OFFICE SUPPLIES

WILLSON STATIONERY CO., LIMITED, 215 Eighth Avenue West.—Everything in Stationery and Office Supplies. The most complete stock in Western Canada.

SECOND-HAND DEALERS

CHICAGO IRON AND METAL CO. 501-503 Sixth Ave. E., corner 4th St. Phone M4448.
Dealers in Scrap Iron, Brass, Copper, Zinc and Lead, Rubber Tires and Inner Tubes, also Manilla Rope and all kinds of Old Machinery. It will be to your convenience to see us. Phone, call or write. MAX RUBEN, Manager.

STORAGE AND CARTAGE

STORAGE AND CARTAGE FOR ANY kind of goods. Warehouse specially fitted for household merchandise, each customer having separate rooms. Trackage. Padded vans for furniture and pianos. Expert packers and shippers. Estimates cheerfully given. Official cartage and baggage agents C.N.R. JOHNSTON STORAGE & CARTAGE CO. Phone M4444 and M5678. Limited Office and Warehouse 423 Sixth Ave. East

CALGARY STORAGE & CARTAGE CO. LIMITED
437 TENTH AVENUE EAST
PHONE M1848
Storage for all classes of Merchandise, including Cold Storage Equipment; Separate Compartments for Furniture, Pianos; Padded Furniture Vans; Packers, Forwarders. Baggage Delivered. Trackage for carlots.

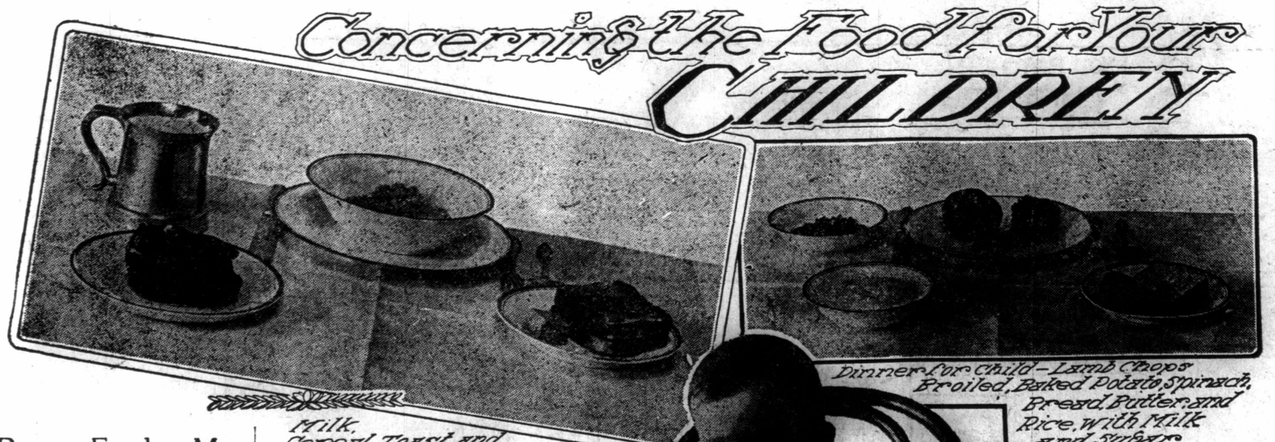
TAILORS

SANDY MACLEAN
Alterations, Tailoring, Repairs, Cleaning and Pressing
Suits made to measure from $18 to $35
433 Lougheed Building, over Grand Theatre—Phone M6506.
Calgary, Alberta

UNDERTAKING PARLORS

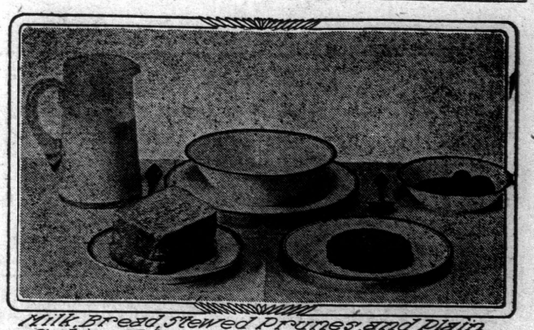
GRAHAM McCALL AND RUTTLE LTD.
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
Horse and Motor Equipment, Ambulance in connection.
611 Centre St. Phone M3788

VIOLINS AND VIOLONCELLOS



JAS. J. DOHERTY
Violin Repairer and Appraiser, Tone Restored, Bows Rehaired. Brass Band Instruments Repaired. 405a Eighth Ave. West. Phone 3154, Calgary, Alta.

ROSEDALE STAR
LUMP $8.00
STOVE $5.25
Stock up now before the raise in price.
YORK SHAW
238 Eighth Ave. East
Phone M6423



PARCEL POST RATES

Any P. O. within twenty miles of Calgary, five cents for the first lb. and one cent additional for each additional lb. up to five lbs. when the rate is two cents for each additional lb. up to eleven lbs. To any P.O. beyond 20 miles but within the radius of Alberta, ten cents for the first lb. and four cents for each additional lb. To any P. O. in Saskatchewan ten cents for the first lb. and six cents additional for each additional lb.. To any P. O. in Manitoba, twelve cents for the first lb. and eight cents for each additional lb.

Concerning the Food For Your CHILDREN

Dinner For Child—Lamb Chops Broiled, Baked Potato, Spinach, Bread Butter and Rice, with Milk and Sugar

Milk, Bread, Stewed Prunes, and Plain Cookies Make a Splendid Supper For a Child

Milk, Cereal, Toast and Baked Apple For Breakfast For the Youngster

In Proportion to his Weight, a Child Eats Four Times as Much as a "Grown Up"

Proper Food a Matter of Utmost Importance--- Suggestions From Uncle Sam-What to Give the Infant -- Food for the "Toddler" Lunches for the School Child.

IN all innocence, of course, the average child lives to eat. But Science steps in and says he should eat to live. And no less a personage than Uncle Sam now comes to the front with a carefully planned and tested list of foods suitable to the baby, the "toddler" and the school child. Further, he supplies recipes and menus and complete directions as to the preparation and consuming of the food.

During the first year of the baby's life he should have the food provided by Nature—there is none other equal to it. But when this is impossible, artificial foods should be most painstakingly prepared. It has been estimated that thirty out of every one hundred bottle-fed babies die in their first year; while not more than seven out of the same number of breast-fed babies fail to survive their first year of life.

Home Pasteurizing

Cows milk is best for the bottle baby, says Uncle Sam; but the milk should be beyond question. If possible, certified milk should be obtained no matter what the cost. But if this cannot be secured, the mother should at least know that it is clean, pure and from a tuberculin tested herd. Even then, though, the milk must be pasteurized before feeding—that is, it must be heated to 150 degrees Fahrenheit for a half-hour and then rapidly cooled.

Further, according to the U. S. Public Health Service, this pasteurizing should be done in the feeding bottles, they having been sterilized before by boiling for fifteen minutes. A clean cork or absorbent cotton is used as a stopper for the bottle. There are a number of pasteurizing outfits on the market; or one may be made at home, as follows:

Place the bottle, or bottles, of milk to be sterilized in a wire basket which, in turn, is placed in a receptacle filled with cold water to a point a little higher than the level of the milk. Let the water come to a boil and continue to boil for about five minutes. Then allow cold water to run into the receptacle until the milk is cooled to the temperature of the cold water. It is imperative, then, that the milk be kept cold until used; and a refrigerator clean and well stocked with ice, is advisable.

Milk For the Baby

Uncle Sam, through his Children's Bureau, Public Health Service and Department of Agriculture, has prepared many bulletins on the subject of baby welfare; they are most thorough and specific, and can be obtained by any mother who requests them.

Three ounces of milk, diluted with seven ounces of water and one tablesponful of lime water and two level teaspoonful of sugar should be given daily in seven feedings, beginning on the third day.

At one week of age, the average youngster needs five ounces of milk each day, diluted with ten ounces of water, one ounce of lime water and one and one-half level tablespoonsful of sugar, in seven feedings. From then on, about every four days, increase the quantity of milk by one-half ounce; and the quantity of water by one-half ounce every eight days.

When three months of age, the average baby should consume each day, in six feedings, sixteen ounces of milk mixed with the same quantity of water, three tablespoonsful of sugar and two ounces of lime water. From then on every six days, increase the milk by one-half ounce, and reduce the water every two weeks by one-half ounce.

At Half a Year Old

At six months, the average baby should receive daily in five feedings, twenty-four ounces of milk, twelve ounces of water, three level tablesponsful of sugar, and two ounces of lime water. Then increase the milk only if the youngster is hungry and digesting his food well.

Then, too, from about the third month on it is sometimes advisable to substitute a weak barley water for the plain water in the following proportions: One half level tablespoonful of barley flour to sixteen ounces of water, cooked for twenty minutes. At six months, one and one-half tablespoonsful of barley cooked in eight ounces of water.

In general, says the Children's Bureau, for every pound the baby weighs feed an ounce and one-half of milk in twenty-four hours, properly diluted, according to the age, with the lime water and sugar. For example, a twelve-pound youngster should consume daily eighteen ounces of milk mixed with sugar and lime water in the correct proportions.

For The Older Baby

Consider now the older baby, able to run about. A number of suggestions herewith are of real value. The child should have access to an abundance of cool, but not iced water. And each day, unless his bowels are loose, he should be given from one to three tablespoonsful of strained fruit juice.

At nine months of age, beef tea, squeezed beef juice or chicken or mutton broth once a day will prove a pleasing and safe addition to his menu; and at ten months old, he may be given a small piece of toast or a crust of bread with part of a soft-boiled egg. But he should not be given any other solid food during his first year.

When the youngster is one year of age, the following hints are worthy of consideration: He should be weaned from his bottle, being taught to drink milk out of a cup four times each day; moreover, his milk may be given undiluted. Cereals, thoroughly cooked and for the first few months also strained, may be given twice each day.

When he has passed his fifteenth month, let him have each day a teaspoonful, later a tablespoonful, of rare scraped beef, chicken or mutton. And three months later one-half of a well-cooked baked potato daily will work no injury; also, juice of fresh fruits and cooked fruits such as apple sauce or a baked apple.

Fresh green vegetables, carefully prepared and mashed, are safe when the child is two years of age; and he should be fed each day at 6 a.m., 10 a.m., 2 p.m., and 6 p.m.

Balanced Rations

The Department of Agriculture offers an extensive list of instructions and suggestions as to feeding the child of from three to six years of age, of which the following extracts are well worth consideration. First of all, it is not merely a problem of selecting food that will suit his bodily requirements, but also one of pleasing his eye and taste and of offering a variety of good things to eat.

Further, he should have one food each day from each of the following groups, as arranged by the department: (a) milk and dishes prepared of meat, poultry, eggs, fish; (b) bread and cereal foods; (c) butter and wholesome fats; (d) vegetables and fruits; and (e) sweets. This, of course, as a foundation for his day's ration, a balanced one.

For example, take sample menus for a single day. For breakfast give him a baked apple, cereal mush, milk, toast and butter; for dinner, which is best in the middle of the day, a broiled lamb chop, spinach, baked potato, rice with milk and sugar and bread and butter; and for supper, stewed prunes, milk, cookies and bread and butter. At the end of the day he should have consumed a full quart of milk divided between the three meals.

Emphasis is placed upon the fact that the above menus for a day are merely samples to show the proper selection and combinations of food and it is not meant that the child should be fed these same things every day.

With that in mind, here are several sample breakfasts: (a) apple sauce, oatmeal with milk, toast and butter; (b) baked pears, milk toast, cocoa; (c) stewed prunes, cornmeal mush and milk, toast and butter; (d) grape fruit but only the juice for the very young children, grated yolk of hard boiled egg, milk toast; (e) apple, toast, hot milk.

Sample dinners: (a) meat soup, egg on toast, string beans, rice pudding; (b) roast beef, baked potato, asparagus, bread and jelly; (c) lamb stew with carrots and potatoes, twice baked bread, tapioca custard; (d) baked halibut, boiled potatoes, stewed celery, boiled rice with syrup or honey; and (c) creamed potatoes, green peas, stewed plums with a thin cereal milk pudding.

And for suppers: (a) baked potatoes, served with milk gravy or with cream and salt, cookies; (b) apple sauce, bread and milk, sponge cake; (c) potato soup, twice-baked bread, marmalade sandwiches; (d) Graham crackers and milk, baked custard; and (e) milk toast, stewed peaches, cup cake.

Lunch For School Child

Going ahead a few years, one comes to the rather perplexing problem of the proper lunch for the school child; and experts in the division of home economics, Department of Agriculture, offer a number of interesting suggestions. From them, mention may be made of nine practical school lunches all of which are properly balanced rations. They are:

(a) Sandwiches filled with sliced meat, baked apples, cookies.

(b) Slices of meat loaf, or bean loaf, bread and butter sandwiches, stewed fruit, frosted cakes.

(c) Crisp rolls, hollowed out and filled with chopped meat or fish seasoned and moistened or mixed with salad dressing, an orange, apple, mixture of sliced fruits or berries, cake.

(d) Lettuce or celery sandwiches, cup custard.

(e) Cottage cheese and chopped green pepper sandwiches, or a portion of cream cheese with bread and butter sandwiches, peanut sandwiches, fruit, cake.

(f) Hard boiled eggs, baking powder biscuits, celery or radishes, brown sugar or maple sugar sandwiches.

(g) Bottle of milk, corn bread and butter, dates, apple.

(h) Raisin or nut bread with butter, cheese, orange, maple sugar.

(i) Baked beans and lettuce sandwiches, apple sauce, sweet chocolate.

In many schools nowadays, the hot lunch is a feature; or the child has sufficient time during recess to return home for lunch. In either case the Department of Agriculture offers a number of suggestions. Cocoa and soups of all kinds, but with the preference for milk and cream soups, should play an important part in such luncheon. Here are sample ones:

(a) Vegetable milk soup, crackers, rolles, fruit and plain cake.

(b) Meat and vegetable stew, bread and butter, sweet chocolate.

(c) Boiled custard, lettuce sandwiches, fruit and cookies.

(d) Dried cod fish chowder, crackers, fruit and maple sugar sandwiches.

(e) Bean soup, crackers, baked apple and sponge cake.

Authorities agree that food for children is a matter which demands the utmost care; and that the future powers of digestion of the child depend in a large measure upon the the start. A digestion ruined or impaired by improper feeding at a tender age is apt to be an ailing one all through life.

Is Lord Fisher a Naval Genius or a Failure?

(Continued from page three.)

vided with everything), or would have resorted to incredible violence—some from misery, others in order to be put to death and end it all as soon as possible. The convict is morbidly insanely greedy of money, and if he throws it away like so much rubbish, he throws it away on what he considers of even more value. What is more precious than money for the convict? Freedom or some sort of dream of freedom. The prisoner is a great dreamer. The word convict means nothing else but a man with no will of his own, and in spending money he is showing a will of his own. In spite of bonds, fetters and the hateful prison fence which shuts him off from God's world and cages him in like a wild beast, he is able to obtain vodka, an article prohibited under terrible penalties, to get at women, even sometimes to bribe the veterans and even the sergeants, who will wink at his breaches of law and discipline. He can play the swaggering bully over them into the bargain, and the convict is awfully fond of bullying; that is pretending to his companions and even persuading himself, if only for a time, that he has infinitely more power and freedom than is supposed. He can, in fact, carouse and make an uproar, crush and insult others and prove to them that he can do all this, that it is all in his own hands; that is, he can persuade himself of what is utterly out of the question for the poor fellow. That, by the way, is perhaps why one detects in all convicts, even when sober, a propensity to swagger, to boastfulness, to a comic and very naive though fantastic glorification of their disorderliness has its special risk, so it all has a semblance of life, and at least a far off semblance of freedom. And what will one not give for freedom?

OSTEOPATHY

Why I Believe in Osteopathy

(Howard Crawford, Boston, Mass.)

First and primarily, because it cures disease. Not every disease to be sure, but a great majority of them.

Secondly, I believe in osteopathy because of its reasonableness. One does not have to believe something that the intellect balks at; but a rational and consistent theory of the causation of disease, such as is the basis of osteopathic procedures, meets the approval of thinking people. Everyone knows that the body is a machine, and that machinery is subject to wear and strain, and, therefore, in need of occasional adjustment.

Thirdly, I believe in osteopathy because of the ease with which the remedy for a grain of trouble can be chosen. If a misplaced cervical vertebrae or a sub-dislocated innominate bone be the diagnosis, the treatment is obviously to replace the misplaced parts. There can be no confusion of the multiplicity of remedies as in other schools of practice.

Fourthly, I believe in osteopathy because of its use I have seen in invalids, supposedly hopeless or suffering from incurable diseases, restored to life at the least partial usefulness. Sucess under such circumstances is good ground for belief in the efficacy of osteopathy.

THE BEATON
Hairdressing & Shampoo and Manicure Parlors
Satisfied Customers Secret of Our Success.
1009 First Street W. Phone M2153

WM. S. PARK
Maker of PHOTOGRAPHS
218A EIGHTH AVENUE WEST
Phone, Main 6489 Calgary, Alta.

SLAVIN HAIR GROWER
The only preparation on the market that will Positively Cure Dandruff, Failing Hair, and Grow Hair on Bald Heads. Endorsed by scores of Calgary people.
PRICE $1.00 PER BOX
With Full Instructions.
310 BRUNER BLOCK

Calgary Furniture Hospital
We Will Trade Good Furniture for Old or Damaged, or Pay Highest Cash Prices.
We invite those who have not dealt here, to visit us, and give us an opportunity to show you what we do for our customers.
1312 First St. W. Phone M4070

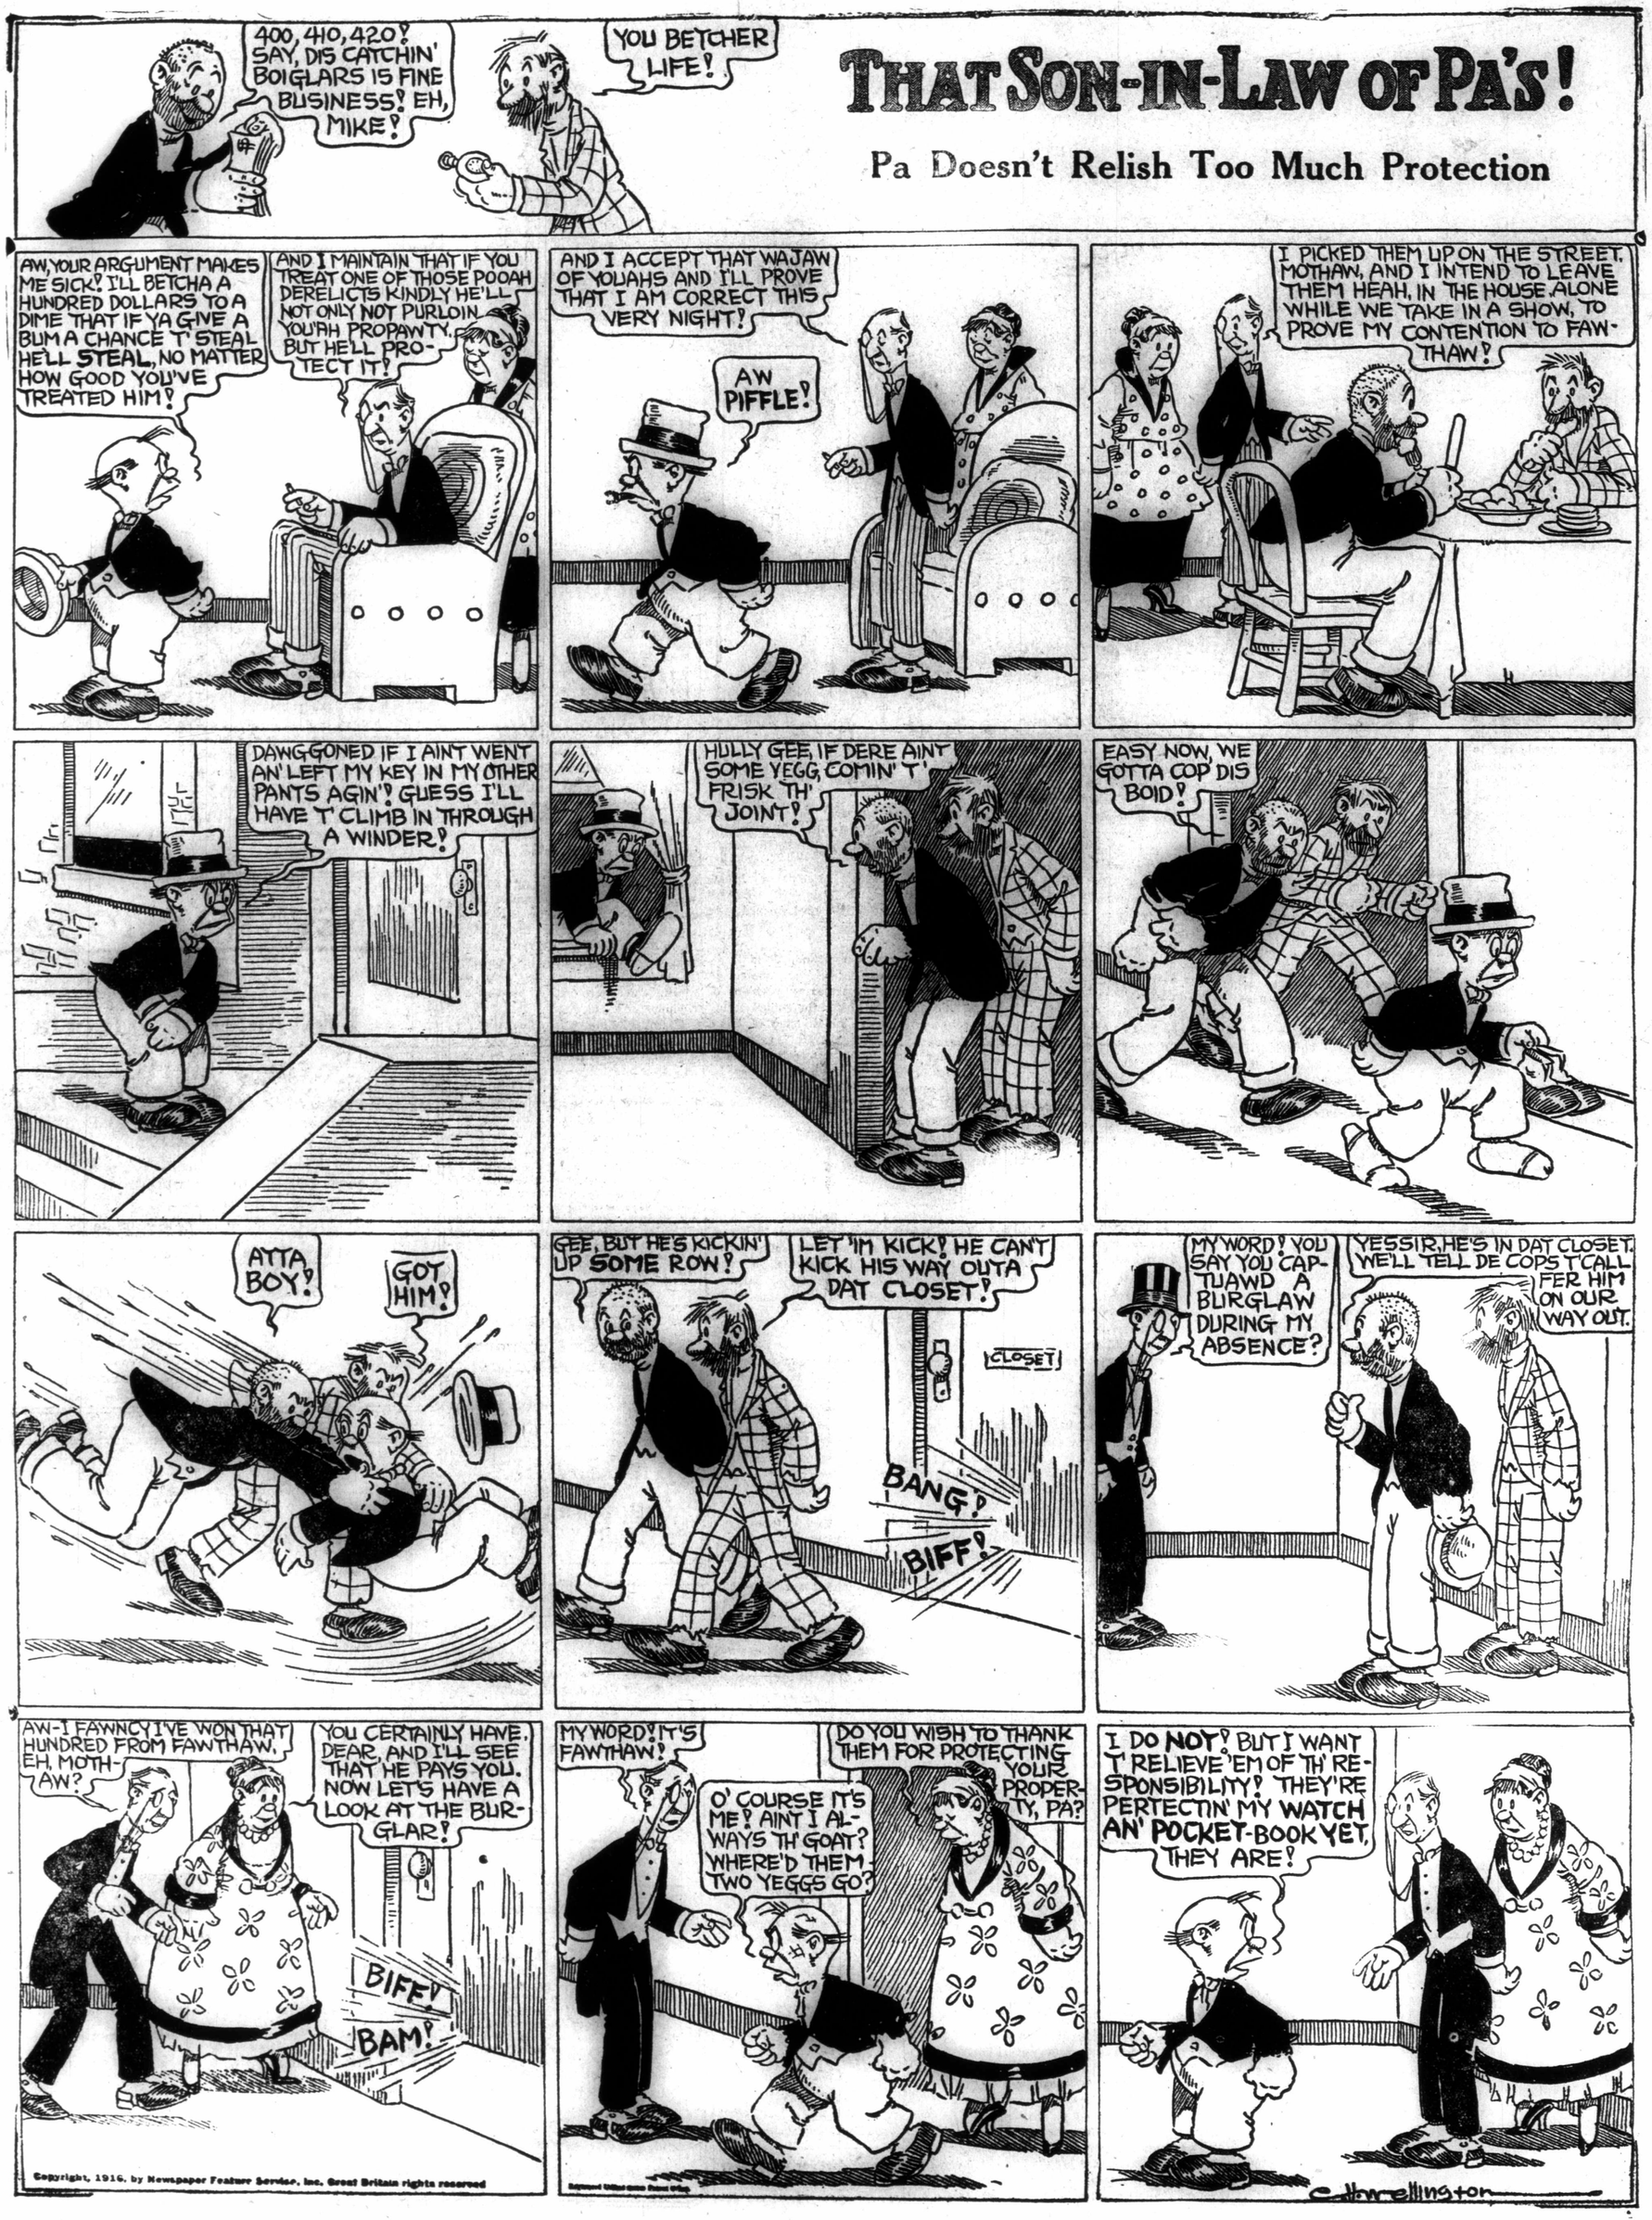
Ezy-Way Glycerine Washing Tablets
Use Two EZY-WAY GLYCERINE WASHING TABLETS
to your usual bath water. It will soften the water, cleanse the pores, and make the skin soft, white and smooth. Why pay high prices for Turkish baths when you can get the same results at home with the Ezy-Way Glycerine Washing Tablets? The secret of good health is poral elimination. Don't take our word for it; just give it a trial and be your own judge. It will surprise and delight you.
Washes dirtiest clothes in from 10 to 15 minutes with very little rubbing, makes the clothes white as snow without bluing. Ezy-Way contains no paraffin wax, lye, lime, potash or other injurious chemicals. Ezy-Way will not cause the slightest injury to skin or the finest fabric. We ask you to get a free sample and give it a trial. If out of City send five cents to pay postage and packing and you will receive sample by return mail. Our guarantee, money back if not pleased, no questions asked. Agents wanted. This is the real thing, so get a-hold of a live wire.
EZY-WAY MFG. CO.
704-A Center St. Calgary, Alta.

A NEW WAY TO SAVE
The Province of Alberta Offers to the Public
Province of Alberta Savings Certificates
In denominations of Ten Dollars, One Hundred Dollars, and One Thousand Dollars.
These Certificates will bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, compounded half-yearly.
Certificates are redeemable in three years, but may be cashed at any time on the demand of the holder.
ABSOLUTE SECURITY. QUICK CONVERTIBILITY
For full information write or apply to
W. V. NEWSON,
Deputy Provincial Treasurer,
Edmonton

Why not be particular about your principal food supply?
PURE MILK
is desired by everyone. You are invited to inspect our plant and satisfy yourself as to the quality of our Goods.
CARLYLE DAIRY CO.
Telephone Main 4686.

PUBLIC NOTICE

PROVINCE OF ALBERTA
DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
VITAL STATISTICS BRANCH



NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Mrs. Elizabeth McDougall has been appointed Registrar of Vital Statistics for the City of Calgary, from this First Day of May, 1917, and that all registrations of births, marriages and deaths shall be made at her office, at 230 Sixth Avenue East. Office hours, 9.30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

H. A. CRAIG,
Deputy Minister.

GUARANTEED DENTISTRY
During the 16 years I have been practicing dentistry in Calgary I have treated hundreds of patients. I have had the satisfaction of building up a large practice through the personal recommendation of my clients. My motto is the same today as it has been in the past, to give guaranteed dentistry at prices within the reach of all.
I specialize in all the up-to-date painless methods known to the best dental practitioners and am an expert in fitting plates and bridgework.
I buy for cash, and having no rent to pay, give my patients the benefit of my services at prices that cannot be dupicated elsewhere.
Remember, we stand behind the guarantee of efficient service.
OPEN EVENINGS.
DR. FRANKLIN EDMONDS
TWELFTH AVENUE AND FIRST STREET WEST
PHONE M3686. Opposite Pryce-Jones' Store.

THAT SON-IN-LAW OF PA'S!

Pa Doesn't Relish Too Much Protection

Copyright, 1916, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved

If you don't receive want you to kick, and Calgary, and most of Alberta and Saskatche ard on Saturday in ti
you don't get it, it is livery boy or the mai not correct the compl non-delivery, no kick
you fail to get the gr
Calgary (Western) St

Vol. VII. No. 1

COMMEN

Political Situat

NOT since Alberta
ed a hotter elec servatives are they are meeting with indicates that there is a present premier of the his own purposes. Un men gather to discuss t current develops again made the play that it w even if the cities had t has been thrown into t their resentment of " league. This organiza more Conservative tha the methods that have friends, including the c more from the Sifton g

Then the Labor e has catered, is enterin center and south Cal much Labor as Social tice and is running in Stettler. All these ne ernment hearten the urged for years is exa tion has wasted the pr has slipped millions of scrupulous railway a short, regard the new bespeaks a critical an on the part of Liberals
the Sifton government spending. They ask sweeping investigatio nominees on June 7.

They point to the
in the probing of the charges by Dr. Stanle rake-off of hundreds o
of the "go-betweens" government. It is als troduced by Sifton ha
Conservatives but als
the bulk of it has bee to make the farmer t
ism includs him in its Siftonism has only or the extraction of the
they can go drown
Siftonism will not be tion centers Siftonis
one scheme of bleedi Siftonism, it has not all this bleeding is th
even of other section pose of bolstering up cations.

For instance, if M have to put up hundr turally there are rak and naturally later t
The public. And t
Sifton steadily refus will reveal the identi ford Sifton, the pre charge is denied by to explain McArthur ties for his own roa
35 cents, of even 4 ties to a miles. Or mile more than a ro
Who gets this extra meated with Siftonis
the country electio junkets to London
terious trips hither pays. It is all clea
the orginal tightwa

Then there is t
the votes away fro
31,000 alien enemy
Sergt.-Major Guilf
suppressed by Sch possession. Siftoni Siftonism's desire t clamored-for reform will perhaps offset are back from the despicable chicaner

If you don't receive your Standard promptly we want you to kick, and kick hard. Every reader in Calgary, and most of Western Canada, including Alberta and Saskatchewan, should get their Standard on Saturday in time for Sunday reading. If you don't get it, it is either the fault of the delivery boy or the mails. In either event we can not correct the complaint without learning of the non-delivery, so kick like a bay steer every time you fail to get the great Sunday Newspaper, The Calgary (Western) Standard.

CALGARY
Western Standard
ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY
INDEPENDENT OPTIMISTIC

MY CANADA

I LOVE my country. There is nothing that she can ask I will not do. I am ready to live or die for her. She is the realization of a dream and the fulfillment of an ideal—this Canada of ours. She is the embodiment of what a country should be—and right or wrong, it is my home, my country—the one I love.

Vol. VII. No. 12 TWO SECTIONS—16 Pages CALGARY, ALBERTA, MAY 27, 1917 TWO SECTIONS—16 Pages Five Cents the Copy

COMMENT AND CRITICISM

Political Situation from Conservative View

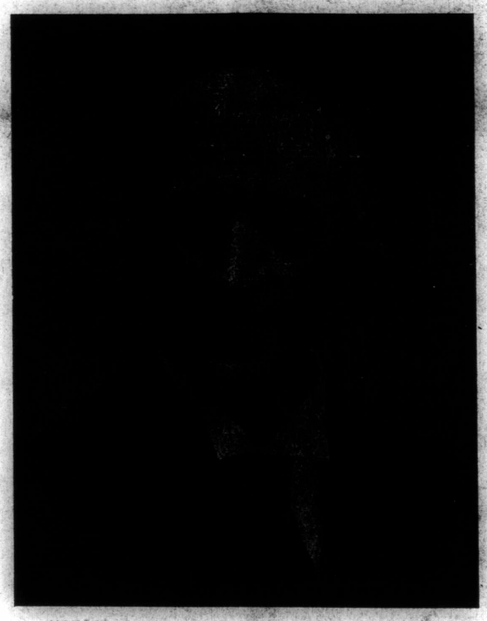
NOT since Alberta was erected into a province has been witnessed a hotter election fray than is now being waged. The Conservatives are making relentless war on "Siftonism," and they are meeting with a response that is most encouraging, since it indicates that there is a very general and pronounced feeling that the present premier of the province has subordinated the public weal to his own purposes. Underneath all meetings at which men and women gather to discuss the political affairs of the hour a quiet undercurrent develops against the government. The latter has for years made the play that it was 'for the farmers" first, last and all the time even if the cities had to be crucified. This plank in their platform has been thrown into the river by the agriculturists who have shown their resentment of "Siftonism" by establishing the Non-Partisan league. This organization, while not out and out Conservative, is more Conservative than Liberal, since it embodies a protest against the methods that have been used by the premier, and his coterie of friends, including the one and only J. D. McArthur, who get can get more from the Sifton government than any other man in the world.

The Labor Opposition

Then the Labor element, to which Sifton has pretended that he has catered, is entering the lists against him and his candidates in center and south Calgary, while Joseph Knight, who is about as much Labor as Socialist, is imitating Sifton and Cross' usual practice and is running in two constituencies. East Edmonton and Stettler. All these new parties and policies aligned against the government hearten the Opposition as they indicate that what it has urged for years is exactly true, namely, that the Liberal administration has wasted the provinces resources, has destroyed its credit and has slipped millions of dollars into the pockets of avaricious and unscrupulous railway and other promoters. The Conservatives, in short, regard the new opposition as strengthening their cause, for it bespeaks a critical and suspicious attitude towards the government on the part of Liberals as well as others. The Conservatives ask that the Sifton government be judged strictly on its record of profligate spending. They ask that the electors advertise their demand for a sweeping investigation into Siftonism by turning down the Sifton nominees on June 7.

No Probe For Sifton

They point to the refusal of Sifton and his supporters to permit in the probing of the odoriferous railway scandals, of the liquor charges by Dr. Stanley, and of the telephone charges. Also to the rake-off of hundreds of thousands of dollars on bond deals, the names of the "go-betweens" who officiated being carefully hidden by the government. It is also a notorious fact that the farm legislation introduced by Sifton had all been prepared years ago not only by the Conservatives but also by the United Farmers of Alberta, and that the bulk of it has been introduced solely as "election pap" intended to make the farmer think for the election period at last that Siftonism includs him in its scope. As a matter of cold, indisputable fact Siftonism has only one use for the farmers and their wives, namely, the extraction of their votes once every five years. In th interim they can go drown themselves or be sold up by the bailiff and Siftonism will not be even interested. As for crucifying the population centers Siftonism makes this its chief hobby. If there is any one scheme of bleeding the town and cities that has been omitted by Siftonism, it has not come to general attention. And the curse of all this bleeding is that it is not done for any benefit of the urban or even of other sections of the province. It is done for the one purpose of bolstering up Siftonism in its thousand and one evil ramifications.



McArthur and His Pull

For instance, if McArthur has a deal to put over then the people have to put up hundreds of thousands of dollars, even millions. Naturally there are rakeoffs galore when this money is changing hands and naturally later the piper has to be paid. Who foots the bills? The public. And the worst feature of the whole matter is that Sifton steadily refuses to let McArthur be drawn into an inquiry that will reveal the identities of his associates. It has been said that Clifford Sifton, the premier's brother is one of the associates, but this charge is denied by Siftonism's apologists, who are unable however to explain McArthur's strength with the premier. McArthur can buy ties for his own road at 17 cents and charge these to the people at 35 cents, of even 40 cents, and get by with it, and there are 3,000 ties to a miles. Or he can get a guarantee of $10,000 to $15,000 a mile more than a road is estimated by competent engineers to cost. Who gets this extra money? The whole government service is permeated with Siftonism. Siftonism sends out its myrmidons through the country electioneering, and the public pays the bills. Sifton junkets to London every so often and Duncan Marshall makes mysterious trips hither and yonder every so often, and again the public pays. It is all clear profit for Duncan, is this travelling, for he is the orginal tightwad.

About the Soldiers' Vote

Then there is the matter of the soldiers' vote. Siftonism takes the votes away from 35,000 Alberta soldiers and gives the vote to 31,000 alien enemy born. Siftonism refuses to let a returned veteran, Sergt.-Major Guilfoyle, speak at High River, and causes him to be suppressed by Schoeppe, a name that was never coined in a British possession. Siftonism is afraid of the soldiers' vote, and it was only Siftonism's desire to combat that vote that caused it to grant long-clamored-for reform of votes for women. But the soldiers' relatives will perhaps offset the aliens this time and later when their menfolk are back from the trenches, Siftonism will reap the reward of its despicable chicanery.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

HON. ARTHUR L. SIFTON, PREMIER OF ALBERTA.

When the announcement was made that Alberta was to have an election it was a general surprise. Rumor upon rumor had been circulated from time to time that an election was to be held, but no one gave the rumor much credulence, until the official announcement was made. Then the Conservatives realized that the Liberals had sprung one on them. The two factions are now at it tooth and nail and the result will be awaited with abated breath by the people from al sides. In the meantime the man of the hour is Hon. A. L. Sifton, the present Premier and candidate to succeed himself. Aside from party feelings Hon. Sifton has made a very satisfactory Premier and the fact that the province has grown was expanded in progress and prosperity is sufficient evidence of the Premier's ability as an Empire builder.

Review of The News of the Day

Although the fighting at the front continues with unabated vim the reports for the past few days have been somewhat meagre. That something important is doing across the water there is little doubt, and when the dispatches come, as they are bound to within a few days, there will undoubtedly be a world of news of real happenings at the seat of the war.

* * *

Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour having completed his work at Washington to the complete satisfaction of himself and his country is now touring the eastern part of Canada where he is being royally entertained by the different municipalities. Thousands upon thousands of citizens have welcomed the royal visitor at the different stops he has made and the crowds have been overwhelmingly enthusiastic greeting him with signal applause.

* * *

According to reports from Ottawa the International Mine Workers will not get any assistance from the parent body in case District No. 18 goes on strike. The Hon. T. W. Crothers has taken a decided stand in the matter and threatened government control in case the strike was called. This stand has had a decided effect, and the officials have refused to support the local district, in their request. Up to date nearly a half-million tons of coal have been lost through the failure of the miners to go to work.

* * *

Great plans are being made all over Canada for the celebration of the confederation of the Dominion, which will occur on July first. Ottawa will have a public demonstration, likewise reports from Montreal, Toronto, and other cities indicate that the occasion will be fiittingly celebrated in a manner that leaves no cause for doubt as to the feeling of the people.

* * *

It is said that R. B. Bennett's stand on the disfranchisement of the aliens is not the utterances of the government. Mr. Bennett feels that this country should remain a white man's country as he forcefully expresses it. The local leader of the Conservatives, Edward Michener, is quite silent regarding the disfranchisement vote. He has made no statement although many requests have been sent him for his position in the matter.

* * *

The long dispute over the parliament building construction between the Manitoba province and the government has practically been settled and Thomas Kelly & Sons are to pay back a million and a quarter dollars. This decision was arrived at at a meeting of the appraisal board, which has been in session in Winnipeg for some time. Although suit has been threatened the case never came to trial, and this division practically settles the matter.

* * *

Many public demonstrations are being held in Montreal and other points in Quebec against the government's decision for conscription. It is gratifying to note, however, that most of these demonstrations are composed of the foreign element, and no true Canadian has taken such decided stand against the voice of the country. At some of the meetings that have been held seditious language has been used to such an extent that it is a wonder that the government has not taken a hand in the proceedings. This will probably come later, however.

* * *

In Gleichen a warm contest is being conducted by J. P. McArthur, the city member. He has opposed to him Mr. Davis, on the Conservative ticket, and Ex-Governor Leedy, who is representing the Non-Partisan league. All the candidates have had a number of meetings, and the constituency has been thoroughly canvassed, so that giving us fine weather an exceptional vote will be polled.

The Honorable Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture, is again a candidate in his riding at Olds, and is again opposed by Mr. Geo. Cloakey. The minister has his wonderful record as administrator to support him, and Mr. Cloakey his promises. The issue between the two men is quite clear, and the contest will be among the most interesting in the south country.

* * *

In the city of Calgary the Liberals have Mr. W. M. Davidson, of the Morning Albertan, as candidate in north Calgary, and running against him is Mr. S. B. Hillocks. Mr. Davidson's popularity and prominence as editor of the leading Liberal newspaper in the south country, his record on the public school board, of which he has been a member for the past two years, make him an outstanding candidate. It is almost a surety that in this instance Calgary will in the next house be represented by at least one Liberal member.

HERE AND EVERYWHERE

Political Situation from Liberal View

THE leader of the Opposition in his manifesto declares that if elected to power he will immediately establish five commissions to look after public affairs. He would have the Telephone Commission, the Road Commission, a commission to handle the prohibition law, a Civil Service Commission, and a Provincial Hospital Board. In that particular he would be following the example of the leaders of his party at Ottawa during the last year. The Borden government has appointed some 91 commissions, of which about one-half dozen have so far reported, but of which number the majority are still drawing salaries. As an instance, over two years ago a commission was appointed to investigate the high cost of living, but up to the present time nothing has been achieved. What this country requires is not Government by Commission but responsible government where the ministers of the crown elected by the people can be held responsible for the administration of their department, where the ministers are responsible for any legislation that is passed. And what this country does not want is a government that does try to shirk its responsibility by appointing its partisan friends on commissions and then endeavoring to disclaim responsibility for the actions of those commissions.

Agricultural Schools

That the agricultural school in Alberta has achieved everything that their friends could wish is supported by the statement of the late Dr. C. C. James, who was regarded as the greatest authority on agricultural education in the Dominion, and who was appointed Dominion Commissioner of Agriculture by the Honorable Martin Burrell, a member of the Borden cabinet. In speaking of agricultural education in the Christmas number of the Farmers' Advocate in December, 1915, Dr. James states: "In agricultural schools Alberta is the pioneer, and the great success achieved from their work will no doubt stimulate other provinces. New Brunswick has followed her example, and now has two fine buildings where short courses already have been held. These, it is hoped will soon be providing for more extended courses. The question at once arises: Why have other provinces not established agricultural schools similar to those of Alberta? This applies particularly to Ontario where the agricultural college is being taxed to the limit. If the people of Ontario were aware of the great benefits resulting from such schools as those of Alberta, there would be a public demand that would soon result in the establishing of two at least—one in eastern Antario and one in western Ontario. If the importance of such training were fully appreciated we would see in the next ten years an agricultural school in every county in Ontario."

Opposition Charges

In regard to the charges made by Dr. Stanley, the member for High River, in connection with the English bond issue, the statement was made by the Opposition that there were no personal charges against the attorney-general. Premier Sifton demanded particulars, but particulars were refused by the Opposition. The premier then said if any member would prefer a charge against any government official, that such official would immediately be put on trial. The premier would have allowed the courts to decide, and if anyone were convicted punishment would naturally ensue. Quite a different proceeding from that followed by the Davidson commission appointed by the Dominion government to probe scandals and irregularities were found by the Davidson commission, the kind of graft and corruption in war purchases were discovered—but no prosecutions have been instituted by the Borden government. The Commission has run up a large bill of costs, has uncovered many wrong doings, but none of the guilty men have been placed on trial.

As has been the policy of Premier Sifton the only way to be absolutely honest in the conduct of public matters is to deal with them as private transactions are dealt with, and when an official—be he high or low—is found to have been false to his trust, he should be placed under arrest and tried by the duly constituted courts of the county. In the charges by Dr. Stanley claims as to the possession of evidence were made, but no evidence was forthcoming. If an opposition really possessed evidence, it was the duty of the Opposition to produce such evidence. The fact that it did not produce such is sufficient proof that the evidence was lacking.

Returned Soldiers

The Alberta government in the first instance established a training school in Calgary to fit returned men to better earn a livelihood, and since the begnning of the war this province has trained more discharged soldiers than the province of Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island combined. The province also recognizes the fact that the civil service should be open to a very large extent to returned soldiers, and not only have quite a few appointments been made in the departmnt, but the province has trained more discharged soldiers to pass the civil examination than all the other provinces combined. It has been suggested that many of the returned soldiers might go on the land, and the province of Alberta is the only province that has trained any discharged soldiers in the pursuits of agriculture, and that was because it was the only province in Canada that had institutions exactly fitted for this work. The agricultural schools of this province are especially designed for the training of men and boys in practical farm life and farm operation. In regard to the Patriotic fund, the contributions made by the members of the Patriotic commission and the Civil Service in the province of Alberta amount to $100,000.00 a year, and has been among the most constant and regular supports that the Patriotic fund has received anywhere. There has been assistance to returned soldiers that this government did not give, and no proposals with respect to the Patriotic fund were made by the Opposition.

THEATRES | WHERE TO GO | PICTURE PLAYS | WHAT TO SEE | VAUDEVILLE

PANTAGES
UNEQUALLED VAUDEVILLE

WEEK OF MAY 28

OH! PLEASE, MR. DETECTIVE with Bobby Woolsley and Girls

Green, McHenry & Deane
"From Farm to Cabaret"

Stuart
The Male Patti

Will Morris
The Rag Entertainer

Current Events

WOMAN PROPOSES Satirical Playlet

AT THE ALLEN ONE DAY ONLY—MONDAY

Douglas Fairbanks Great Pictures at Allen Soon

Douglas Fairbanks, the popular screen star appearing in "In Again—Out Again," his first artcraft picture which will be seen at the Allen soon, was recently asked what the screen's greatest appeal to him was.

"Best of all in motion picture work," replied "Doug," "is the consciousness of having the power to give a consistent quality of entertainment to millions of people. What I mean to say is, that the same amount of pleasure can be derived from "In Again—Out Again," for instance, in this city as in Bingville. The tired business man goes to the film theater to laugh. He not only receives his laugh, but he exercises the emotional side of himself. Irons out his emotion, so to speak. He is then better prepared to meet life's battles. A man realizes when he laughs, and relaxation means emotional strength. It isn't the laughter that gives us strength, but rather the exercise of the emotions. This is clearly proven by the fact that we feel just as much refreshed after a good cry as we do after a good laugh."

In the scenes of the photoplay of "In Again—Out Again" are located in and about New Jersey and present a story dealing with the romantic and spectacular career of a young blood who goes through many trials and tribulations to win the girl of his choice. Portrayed in the typical Fairbanks style. Strange to say this young man finds it more difficult to keep in jail than out of it, and many surprises are evolved during the course of the story.

Grand The Theatre Beautiful

ALL NEXT WEEK—TWICE DAILY
Afternoon at 2.30—Evenings at 8.30

Lois Weber & Phillips Smalley present

The marvellous Play with all Humanity in the Cast

"Idle Wives"

From the Novel by James Oppenheim

The play that astonished New York. The play that shows the lives of both rich and poor, and the evils they have in common.

Every Mother, Daughter, Sister should see it

It will Grip You—Hold You Spellbound
Augmented Orchestra with Special Musical Settings

Prices—Matinees: All Seats, 25c.; Evenings: 25c and 50c

All Seats Reserved for Evening Performances

Scenes from "Idle Wives" to be seen at the Grand all next week.

'The Running Fight' with Voilet Heming at Allen Monday

The opening attraction for next week at the Allen which will be seen Monday, one day only, with Violet Heming in the stellar role of "The Running Fight," a Paramount production, is one of the most unusual photodramatic successes ever screened and offered to the public.

Miss Violet Heming is one of the most talented and clever actresses in filmdom today, having appeared in many screen plays of great prominence, and now is being starred by the Paramount Corporation in her first attraction of that company's name.

The story is powerful and many tense situations are seen throughout this unusual society drama, from the book by M. Hamilton Osborne and dramatized by Louis Albion and David Perkins especially for Miss Heming for the screen.

From the first flash on the screen "The Running Fight" will hold the audience spellbound with the action that takes place as the story is told on the screen, and must be seen to be appreciated.

The cast supporting Miss Heming were especially chosen by this popular photoplay star for this production, and some of the scenes are lavish beyond expectations.

"The Running Fight" plays for one day only, and should not be missed.

A new comedy will also be shown with the above attraction and special music by the Allen Paramount concert orchestra.

"Idle Wives" Great Photoplay at The Grand

"Idle Wives," the Universal play within a photoplay which comes to the Grand theater on Monday for one week, is replete with many intensely appealing situations, but one stands out as a masterpiece of dramatic action. This scene shows the downfall of Molly Shane, a role played by Mary McLaren, the Universal recent "find."

Molly Shane makes the disheartening discovery that she is about to become a mother. In her despair she appeals to the man she has run away from home with to make their union a legal one. She pleads with him to remember the teachings of the church of which both are members, but the ne'er-do-well throws her to the floor of their living room and kicks viciously the pitiful little box which contains the baby clothes upon which she is working.

Then follows the girl's desperate pleading which is so pitiful that it is a hard heart indeed which can withstand its poignant human appeal. In this scene Mary MacLaren shows that she is a natural actress.

With all the lure of her sex she first exercises her physical appeal upon the man she loves while at the same time she attempts to break down his determination to leave her. Failing in this she clings passionately to him with the tears welling from her eyes. Fiercely, he tries to rid himself of her, to disengage her arms from his neck. One can almost hear the convulsive sobs of the girl as with reddened eyes she fights piteously to retain the last vestages of the affection of the street rat who has encompassed her ruin.

The latter struggles desperately to free himself from the incubus, as he feils his sweetheart to be, and then makes the plausible disclosure that he has no money. By working upon the poor girl's sympathies he diverts her thoughts from her own sorrows and pleads with her to something to help him.

"What can I do?", Molly asks, anxious to help the man she loves despite the barb in her own breast.

Then by specious arguments and the administration of drugs the souteneur imposes his will upon the helpless girl.

Edna Goodrich, New Mutual Star.

He leads her to the street and attempts to debase her still further.

With her sorrow corroding her very brain fibres, Molly makes a pitiable attempt to comply with his demands, and then comes the revulsion.

Her love turns to hate. The vials of her pent-up grief are opened and she flees from the man who seeks to degrade her further. For days she wanders, subsisting precariously and sleeping on doorsteps. Finally, a sympathetic friend directs her to a house of refuge, where she throws herself upon the mercy of a woman of wealth (Lois Weber), who has given herself up to the care of just forlorn wrecks of womanhood as Molly Shane.

The picture is a powerful sermon to headstrong girls who are dissatisfied with their lives at home, and a warning to young men whose methods of living are a menace to society.

Better expect a prima donna to pass through the shank of a phonograph needle than that a rounded purse shall live in peace with a full garbage pail.

STANDARD ADS PAY

PRINCESS
PHONE M1944
"Where Everybody Goes"

DON'T MISS
"THE PURPLE MASK"
Every Friday & Saturday
Miss Gert. Moody
—and—
The Princess Girls
3—Performances Daily—3

"The Law of Compensation" at the Allen

Norma Talmage's second Selznick-Pictures offering, "The Law of Compensation," will be the attraction at the Allen next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

In this photodrama Miss Talmage returns to America from her tragic journey through Russia, England and France in her recent success, "Panthea," and is the central figure in a gripping drama of modern social conditions in this country. The story is by Wilson Mizner, whose ability as an author was proved in his collaborations with Paul Armstrong, "Alies Jimmy Valentine," and "The Deep Purple."

"The Law of Compensation" is divided into three intensely interesting phases of the life of an American woman. In the first Miss Talmadge is seen as a happy young girl, first in a boarding school and then as the only child of a wealthy and devoted father. Her mother she cannot remember. The next phase is the young married woman, in which Miss Talmadge portrays a distinct development of character as a young wife and mother, to whom comes the frequently encountered spirit of restlessness which often brings domestic tragedies to women who feel their outlook upon life is too cramped.

Then comes the third and most powerful episode. This is introduced in the form of a story told to the young woman by her father, who fears she is about to take a foolish step. He tells her the story of her mother, and in this Miss Talmadge plays the part of the mature woman, whose unhappy history she was in grave danger of repeating in her own life. Thus the popular young star is given the opportunity of depicting carefree youth, the romance of young womanhood, and the tragedy of an unfortunate, older woman.

This given the photodrama a great variety of incident and scene, such as has seldom been presented in a single feature. Joseph M. Chenck has provided a remarkably sumptuous setting for the story, and the supporting cast includes some of the best known stars in motion pictures.

In "Panthea" Miss Talmadge proved her right to recognition as a star of the first magnitude in the screen firmament, and in "The Law of Compensation" it is expected that still more laurels will be added to her Selznick-Pictures collection.

Chester Barnett, one of the most popular juvenile men on the stage and screen, will be seen in the leading support of Miss Talmadge. Mr. Barnett had important roles in various Clara Kimball Young features, he is a unique type among juveniles, combining the romantic element of youth with vigor that is not usually expected of, or found in the juvenile actor. In "The Law of Compensation" he plays the part of a young inventor, who is too deeply engrossed in his work to notice the restlessness of his young wife and her desire for diversion.

PAULINE FREDERICK
WHO HAS DESERTED THE STAGE FOR THE SCREEN

Another prominent in her support is John Charles, an important member of the Selznick forces. Mr. Charles has had a varied career before the public. His experience ranges all the way from black art to shadow drama. He began diverting the public when fourteen years old, as helper to a magician. Feeling the call of dramatic art he played in stock for eight years. In his stage career he appeared with such stars as Louis Mann, Helen Ware, Tyrone Power and Otis Harland. With the rise of moving pictures he embarked in this new branch of the art, and has been seen in such important photoplays as "The Ogony of Fear," "The Black Sheep," and other big productions.

A new Christie comedy will also be shown with the above attraction, which rounds out one of the biggest programs ever seen in Calgary.

ALLEN
Last Times Today

PHOTOPLAYS

HOUSE PETERS and LOUISE HUFF in "The Lonesome Chap."
ALSO NEW WAR GRAPHIC

MONDAY---One Day Only
VIOLET HEMING
The Popular Paramount Sar in
"The Running Fight"
A Startling Society Photodrama Dramatized by Louis Albion and David Perkins, from the book by Wm. Hamilton Osborne

Also Other Attractions

TUESDAY—WEDNESDAY—THURSDAY
Selznick-Pictures PRESENT
Norma Talmadge
In a Gripping Drama of Modern American Life
By Wilson Mizner
"The Law of Compensation"
How a Woman Was Saved as She Stood on the Brink of an Abyss
Special Musical Settings and New Christie Comedy

COMING SOON
DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS
In
"In Again---Out Again"

"The Wax Model" with Vivian Martin at the Allen

Vivian Martin, the dainty little actress, who made such a pronounced success in "The Wax Model," "The Right Direction" and "The Spirit of Romance," will be seen at the Allen next Friday and Saturday, supported by Jack Pickford, in the Lasky-Paramount production of "The Girl at Home," written by George Middleton and prepared for the screen by Beulah Marie Dix.

Vivian Martin, by her wonderful dramatic ability, has established herself as one of the most popular photodramatic stars. Jack Pickford, brother to the wonderful Mary, is also a star and scored a great hit in "The Dumnt." In their present production they are both given an opportunity to show their splendid dramatic training.

"The Girl at Home" is a typical boy and girl story. It reminds the older persons in the audience of experiences in their own youthful career and it brings surprising revelations to many of the younger generation. No two stars in the country are better equipped to appear in photodramas of this nature than the young couple whose names are seen at the head of the program. The story of "The Girl at Home" has to do with Jean Hilton, the wealthy ward of Squire Padgate who lives with the mother of Jimmie Dexter. The boy and girl are in love and Jimmie is preparing for college when his mother learns that her small income is wiped out. Jean is permitted to defray Jimmie's expenses without his knowledge.

Jimmie falls in with a fast set of older boys and becomes infatuated with Diana Parish, a cabaret singer. Diana, thinking he is wealthy, pays considerable attention to him. Back home, Jimmie's mother and Jean are depriving themselves of all luxuries that Jimmie may finish college. Squire Padgate sees Jimmie and gives him a severe scolding. Jimmie promises to do better, and next morning banks his cheque for $200.00 which his mother has sent him as his monthly allowance. Diana thinks it is his weekly allowance. She sees a set of furs and decides to purchase them getting the money from her boy friends. Jimmie gives her a check for $35.00 which she raises to $350.00. When the check is returned marked "No funds" a detective is sent to investigate. Diana rushes in, throws her arms around Jimmie's neck just as his mother, Squire Padgate and Jean walk into the room. How affairs are finally straightened out makes a most interesting story.

Variety Galore at Pantages

A bill of vaudeville with variety galore will be the offering of the Pantages theater next week, for the entertainment of the amusement seeker.

Oh, Please, Mr. Detective, a musical comedy playlet featuring Bobby Woolsey, and many pretty girls is the headline attraction of the new bill. It is replete with bright sayings, tuneful musical numbers, pretty girls wearing gorgeous wardrobes, special scenery that gives the scene the necessary atmosphere, in fact it is a number under the direction of George Choos, which is in itself a very strong recommendation in its favor.

'Woman Proposes," a satirical one-act comedy by the famous author Paul Armstrong, will be another strong attraction; it deals with the theme that it is the woman who proposes instead of the man as is generally accepted. There is some very bright repartee and witty sayings during the action of this playlet, which is very well acted by eight very capable players.

Green, McHenry and Deane, will offer a comedy number entitled "From the Farm to the Cabaret."

Stuart, the male Patti, will entertain with his repertoire of songs and a display of gowns.

Will Morris, the rag entertainer, in tattered talent, will amuse with his funny antics.

Current Events and a comedy film will be the picture portion of the new program.

SOCIAL

Miss Gladys Peters is the guest of Miss Winnif

Mrs. W. D. Spence has toria to attend the annua the I. O. D. E.

Mrs. Harold Peat left fo on Tuesday morning afte Medicine Hat and this cit

Mrs. Adam Shortt, of attend the annual general the National Council of W

Mrs. W. E. Underwood h from New York and ot cities where she has bee

Captain and Mrs. Ha turned Friday night from where they visited for weeks.

Mrs. C. B. Waagen h from Montreal where she gate to the Canadian War Association.

Mr. Graham Morgan an Williams, of Vancouver, Alberta Musical Festival this past week.

T. M. Tweedie, M.L.A., ter, Mrs. Howson, of N have taken Mrs. Richard the next few months.

Mrs. McDougall's son, L. McDougall, arrived h day from overseas and is ed by a host of friends.

Mrs. Sidney Begg ent the tea hour on Tuesday, including Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Cherry and Mrs. Cra Mrs. Stanley Jones and Reilly returned to the c from overseas, Mrs. Jone guest at Braeman Lodge stay in Calgary.

Mr. E. E. Vincent, of spent a few days in the ci of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Cr Park, en route from Mon he has been on a business Major and Mrs. Crichlo rane, spent a few days w in the city before going ranch. They have retu overseas on a three mont absence.

Lord Hartingdon, eldes heir of the Duke and Devonshire, is to enter th Commons as member for Derbyshire at the next g tion. The Duke of Deve for East Derbyshire for 1

His Excellency the Duk shire, accompanied by Cavendish, and Captains Johnson and Ridley, left la Hamilton, Niagara and To the last moment Her Exce it impossible to go.

The young ladies who the motor truck for the So forts Committee of the men's Canadian Club are Brophy, the Misses R. C mings. Miss Edith McLa Miss Winnifred Porter. now equipped for doing

Lady Mary Hamilton, the Duke of Abercorn, ar tawa last Saturday on the carried Premier Borden an is the guest of Their Exce Duke and Duchess of De Government House. La marriage to Captain Ke aide-de-camp to the Gove will shortly take place i tawa.

The Marchioness of A Temair will arrive in V Tuesday the 31st, to atte ing session of the Natio of Women, which will be on that evening with th Civic Improvement Comm W. E. Sanford, of "Wesan ilton, has been nominated don local council for the sident of the National Co men.

Mrs. J. M. Cameron was at the tea hour on Frida entertaining informally Murray Cameron.

Among the guests were lay, Mrs. Naismyth, Mrs. tello, Mrs. L. S. Mackid Cape, Mrs. A. Allan, Mr Mrs. T. J. Anderson, Mrs. Miss Fraser, and Miss M

THE WO
:: PHO

They Move, everything just
C

LIVING

SERGT. A
135A Eighth Av

VILLE

Last Times Today

LAYS

H LOUISE HUFF me Chap."
R GRAPHIC

ne Day Only
HEMING mount Sar in ing Fight"
ma Dramatized by Louis ins, from the book on Osborne ttractions

DAY—THURSDAY Pictures
ENT almadge
Modern American Life
Mizner of ensation"
s She Stood on the Brink Abyss
nd New Christie Comedy

G SOON
AIRBANKS
Out Again"

Variety Galore at Pantages

A bill of vaudeville with variety galore will be the offering of the Pantages theater next week, for the entertainment of the amusement seeker.

Oh, Please, Mr. Detective, a musical comedy playlet featuring Bobby Woolsey, and many pretty girls is the headline attraction of the new bill. It is replete with bright sayings, tuneful musical numbers, pretty girls wearing gorgeous wardrobes, special scenery that gives the scene the necessary atmosphere, in fact it is a number under the direction of George Choos, which is in itself a very strong recommendation in its favor.

'Woman Proposes," a satirical one-act comedy by the famous author Paul Armstrong, will be another strong attraction; it deals with the theme that it is the woman who proposes instead of the man as is generally accepted. There is some very bright repartee and witty sayings during the action of this playlet, which is very well acted by eight very capable players.

Green, McHenry and Deane, will offer a comedy number entitled "From the Farm to the Cabaret."

Stuart, the male Patti, will entertain with his repertoire of songs and a display of gowns.

Will Morris, the rag entertainer, in tattered talent, will amuse with his funny antics.

Current Events and a comedy film will be the picture portion of the new program.

income is wiped out. Jean is permitted to defray Jimmie's expenses without his knowledge.

Jimmie falls in with a fast set of older boys and becomes infatuated with Diana Parish, a cabaret singer, Diana, thinking he is wealthy, pays considerable attention to him. Back home, Jimmie's mother and Jean are depriving themselves of all luxuries that Jimmie may finish college. Squire Padgate sees Jimmie and gives him a severe scolding. Jimmie promises to do better, and next morning banks his cheque for $200.00 which his mother has sent him as his monthly allowance. Diana thinks it is his weekly allowance. She sees a set of furs and decides to purchase them getting the money from her boy friends. Jimmie gives her a check for $35.00, which she raises to $350.00. When the check is returned marked "No funds" a detective is sent to investigate. Diana rushes in, throws her arms around Jimmie's neck just as his mother, Squire Padgate and Jean walk into the room. How affairs are fin-

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Miss Gladys Peters is in Ottawa the guest of Miss Winnifred Bate.

• • •

Mrs. W. D. Spence has left for Victoria to attend the annual meeting of the I. O. D. E.

• • •

Mrs. Harold Peat left for Edmonton on Tuesday morning after a visit in Medicine Hat and this city.

• • •

Mrs. Adam Shortt, of Ottawa, will attend the annual general meeting of the National Council of Women.

• • •

Mrs. W. E. Underwood has returned from New York and other eastern cities where she has been visiting.

• • •

Captain and Mrs. Hawkshaw returned Friday night from Edmonton where they visited for a couple of weeks.

• • •

Mrs. C. B. Waagen has returned from Montreal where she was a delegate to the Canadian War Contingent Association.

• • •

Mr. Graham Morgan and Mr. J. E. Williams, of Vancouver, attended the Alberta Musical Festival in Edmonton this past week.

• • •

T. M. Tweedie, M.L.A., and his sister, Mrs. Howson, of Nova Scotia, have taken Mrs. Richard's house for the next few months.

• • •

Mrs. McDougall's son, Corporal D. L. McDougall, arrived home yesterday from overseas and is being greeted by a host of friends.

• • •

Mrs. Sidney Begg entertained at the tea hour on Tuesday, the guests including Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Cherry and Mrs. Craig.

• • •

Mrs. Stanley Jones and Miss Minnit Reilly returned to the city Monday from overseas, Mrs. Jones will be a guest at Braeman Lodge during her stay in Calgary.

• • •

Mr. E. E. Vincent, of Vancouver, spent a few days in the city the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Croaks, Elbow Park, en route from Montreal where he has been on a business trip.

• • •

Major and Mrs. Crichley of Cochrane, spent a few days with friends in the city before going on to their ranch. They have returned from overseas on a three months' leave of absence.

• • •

Lord Hartingdon, eldest son and heir of the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire, is to enter the House of Commons as member for North East Derbyshire at the next general election. The Duke of Devonshire sat for East Derbyshire for 17 years.

• • •

His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire, accompanied by Lady Maud Cavendish, and Captains Mackintosh, Johnson and Ridley, left last week for Hamilton, Niagara and Toronto. At the last moment Her Excellency found it impossible to go.

• • •

The young ladies who are driving the motor truck for the Soldiers' Comforts Committee of the Ottawa Women's Canadian Club are Miss May Brophy, the Misses R. Clarke Cummings, Miss Edith McLachlin and Miss Winnifred Porter. The truck is now equipped for doing good work.

• • •

Lady Mary Hamilton, daughter of the Duke of Abercorn, arrived in Ottawa last Saturday on the liner which carried Premier Borden and party, and is the guest of Their Excellencies the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire at Government House. Lady Mary's marriage to Captain Kenyon-Slaney, aide-de-camp to the Governor-general, will shortly take place quietly in Ottawa.

• • •

The Marchioness of Aberdeen and Temair will arrive in Winnipeg on Tuesday the 31st, to attend the opening session of the National Council of Women, which will be held jointly on that evening with the Dominion Civic Improvement Commission. Mrs. W. E. Sanford, of "Wesanford," Hamilton, has been nominated by the London local council for the post of president of the National Council of Women.

• • •

Mrs. J. M. Cameron was the hostess at the tea hour on Friday afternoon, entertaining informally for Mrs. Murray Cameron.

Among the guests were: Mrs. Findlay, Mrs. Naismyth, Mrs. M. C. Costello, Mrs. L. S. Mackid, Mrs. D. V. Cape, Mrs. A. Allan, Mrs. Halstead, Mrs. T. J. Anderson, Mrs. J. T. Burns, Miss Fraser, and Miss Markle.

Lady Lougheed is spending some time at her cottage at Banff, where she has been entertaining a few close friends off and on each week.

• • •

A tea social and dance will be held by the Women's Patriotic Society in the Hickman Hall on Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 5.30. Proceeds for the Victrola for the veterans' discharge depot. Returned soldiers cordially welcome.

• • •

Mrs. Clive Betts was the hostess at the Palliser on Tuesday afternoon at a "good-by" tea for Miss Helen Muckleston, who has left for the east to reside. Those present were Mrs. W. H. Barker, Mrs. Kenny, Mrs. Fred Lowes, Mrs. West Jones, Mrs. Black (Winnipeg), Miss Eileen Dennis and Miss Marion Cardell.

• • •

A number of Miss Mary Glassford's friends were invited to the home of Mrs. Leo Miller, Harvard Apartments, where the popular bride-to-be was "showered" with linen.

Among those present were: the Misses Glassford, the Misses Robertson, the Misses Mooney, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. A. MacGuire, Mrs. Manning, Miss MacRae, Miss A. Miller, Miss Roble, Miss E. Whitlock, Miss Freda Sweet, Miss B. Watchorn, Miss L. MacQueen and Mrs. A. MacQuire.

Mrs. H. H. Reed was the hostess on Wednesday afternoon at a "bridge" of five tables. The prize winners were Mrs. W. F. MacNeill and Mrs. Carpenter. A feature of the afternoon was the raffling off of a lovely crochet yoke, the proceeds going to the Red Cross work. Among those present were: Mrs. Kolb, Mrs. McCaw, Mrs. W. M. Jamieson, Mrs. Gordon Savage, Mrs. S. Savage, Mrs. Fenkell, Mrs. J. A. Gorman, Mrs. R. Wright, Mrs. McNeill, Mrs. Harold Clum, Mrs. Stokes, Mrs. Lowenstein, Mrs. Mellor, Mrs. Kickley, Mrs. Streib and Mrs. Ritson-Bennett.

• • •

Among those present at the Press Club tea on Monday afternoon in the Hudson's Bay Tapestry Room were: Mrs. Kerby, Mrs. R. R. Jamieson, Mrs. P. J. Nolan, Mrs. Grogan, Mrs. Harold Clum, Mrs. T. Underwood, Mrs. West Jones, Mrs. E. Taylor, Mrs. A. C. Hutton, Mrs. D. E. Black, Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. Martin Clever, Mrs. Langford, Mrs. H. H. Reed, Mrs. Charles Thompson, Mrs. Sage, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Akitt, Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. Lamont, Mrs. Spence, Mrs. Earl Curry Mrs. Robie, Mrs. John Irwin, Mrs. MacWilliams, Mrs. Beal, Mrs. Ross Wallace, Mrs. H. H. Sharples, Mrs. Critchley (Cochrane), Mrs. Nease, Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. Dunn, Mrs. McCallum, Mrs. Gillan, Mrs. Aird, Mrs. A. A. Moore, Mrs. Stuart, Mrs. George Macdonald, Mrs. A. M. Scott, Miss Edith Lilly, Miss Bessie Findlay, Miss Corinne Dingman, Miss Eleanor MacLennan, Miss Mabel Hutton, Miss Daisy MacGregon, Miss Reta Wetmore, Miss Mae Garnett and Miss Agnes Watters.

Timely Comment on Women's Doings

(By JEAN GRANT)

GOOD HORSE SENSE

"I wish women would say 'Thank you!' said a man to me the other day, referring to holding the door open for women passing into a department store. "I stood while six women passed into the store and not one offered to hold the door or say one word," said he. "They all swept by like queens and I the poor slave. Of course I could have let the door bang in their faces, and it would have served them right, but my early training stood me in good stead and I stayed at my post meekly until there was a lull."

Since this complaint has come to me I have been more thoughtful as well as more watchful. Why a busy man, who has but one hour at noon should be expected to hold a door for a woman on a shopping tour is beyond me. A mother with a baby carriage, or small children by the hand, needs assistance, and the majority of men and women have the common decency to see that their entrance to a store is not obstructed, but there is no excuse for an able bodied woman who has her arms free to slide past a man without making some attempt to do her share in making her entrance or exit.

Women of the helpless clinging-vine type, have very little place in today's busy world and they are only destroying the newly awakened admiration that men have for the good, hard horse sense that women have been displaying and which is the best thing with which nature can endow any woman.

* * *

"GETTING THE DICKENS."

I have heard of people getting the Dickens and never realized exactly what it meant until last week when Frank Speaight was at the Grand theater. The week previous I had been talking to a young Scotchman about the coming entertainment and had waxed enthusiastic over the thought of a real Dickens man coming to the city. My friend was pleased also but was somewhat surprised to find a mere Canadian delighted at the prospect.

He said he had been out to dinner at a home recently and had quoted something from Shakespeare and had laughingly said the name after it, not thinking but that the host knew all about the great dramatist. On the contrary, he looked bewildered and said, "What!" and the repeat did not seem to enlighten him.

From this the young Scotchman concluded that there would be but a small audience to hear the Dickens recitals. From my observation of the way in which Oliver Twist had been received at the Allen theater, I had decided that there would be capacity houses. Each day that house had been crowded and not one home where I had visited for a week afterwards where there were children but someone had spoken of the pictures.

Also, I had promised a little friend to get the book of Oliver Twist at the library and when I tried to secure one, I found that out of six, there was not one available.

But my friend was right. Small audiences greeted the distinguished English character actor on the two occasions and when I met "Scotty" I ———.

• • •

THE JOY OF LIVING

An aimless existence is no longer the cry of anyone today in England, and Francis Clements, son and heir of the late Earl of Leitrim, who has recently been officially declared dead by the probate court, would not be able to say to a fellow stoker on his way from Liverpool to this country: "I decided that if I stuck to London drawing rooms, my life would ferment into mere froth."

This man disappeared ten years ago and a search by detectives on two continents has failed to reveal trace of him.

If reports be true, few men in the Old Country, are wasting their time over the tea cups in London society. Women, too, have abandoned this favorite pastime, though no doubt, the cheering cup is squeezed in some time during the afternoon. But the "killing of time" has become a thing of the past and the complaint is rather on the other side—that wealthy women are making somewhat of a nuisance of themselves wanting to do things which are impossible without special training.

The question as to what women are going to do after the war is over, is a large one. There will be the joy and satisfaction of accomplishment and of work well done, that cannot be replaced by anthing superficial such as a round of receptions and bridges. Red Cross work with its insistance of perfection of detail has emphasized the necessity of doing things well and carefully. Knitting has developed the quality of patience in its finest shades of meaning, and the carrying out of tag days, concerts and other entertainments has shown their executive ability. Then in the field entirely outside the home girls have entered the munition factories and within a very short time have become as expert as men who have worked for long periods.

All this work will be swept away at the close of the war and there must be some substitute. What is it going to be?

• • •

ONLY ONE QUALIFICATION FOR WOMEN VOTERS

The New York Sun of last week tells of Dr. Abraham Jacobi, specialist in children's diseases, who is 89 years old, yet working, as he has for the last 64 years of practice and medical teaching, in New York.

One marvels at such a record of work—what an amount must have been accomplished in such a lifetime of usefulness! Today he is just as happy and enthusiastic as ever, but his great sorrow is the terrible war that is raging in Europe. He knows that the children of the future must pay the price—that this age of killing the youngest and strongest means that the physique of the children of those that remain behind will not be that of the others.

Another result of the war will be that women will gain a prominence that they never could have otherwise. Already the franchise has come to them in many places and there is no doubt but in conservative England women will soon become enfranchised. There has always been the excuse that women should not have votes because they could not fight, but if their "serving" in this war is not an evidence that they cannot play their part, nothing will convince men that they can. In Servia and Russia women have served in the army and many women would readily go to the front as soldiers if they were but allowed. This excuse, then, about serving in war, is on a par with an excuse women might give for not enfranchising men—that they cannot give birth to children, future voters, and therefore, should not have votes.

There seems to be quite a good deal of discussion as to whom among women should possess this privilege of voting. If an alien enemy in time of war, she would have to uncitizenize herself, according to some. If unable to come up to a certain age standard in England, she is debarred. A certain educational standard is demanded by others. These restrictions as well as many others have been voiced, but if they were all thrown overboard and but one substituted—that a woman voter could show definitely that she was earning her own living in no matter what respectable way—the matter would be simplified.

This would lead up to the establishment of vocational schools, where every girl, rich or poor, would be trained in some definite work so that when she left she held a certificate in some branch in which she was efficient. No doubt the vast majority would choose household science, and it would be wise, but no matter what vocation it was, the girl would have to graduate, because she would know that unless she could be useful in the world, she would not be accorded the privilege of citizenship.

• • •

SOME GROUNDLESS OBJECTIONS

In some communities there is much misinformation extant concerning osteopathy. This is circulated by interested parties, or is repeated by those who are misinformed.

Some people have the idea that the treatment is so expensive as to make it prohibitive to those of moderate means. Others seem to believe it is so severe that invalids cannot "stand the treatment." There are still others who have the idea that all patients are treated nude.

These erroneous notions have prevented many who need the treatment, and who would be benefited by it from having it. On all these matters the best way is to get information at first hand, from reputable physicians of the system. If this is done, it will be found that, all things considered, osteopathy is the most economical treatment known; that it is adapted to the condition of the patient; is as applicable to babes and the weakest invalids as to the more robust; and that there is nothing about it to which the most refined and sensitive could offer the slightest objection.

Great Purpese Behind "Joan the Woman"

Of all the motion pictures ever made none has had a finer purpose than "Joan the Woman," in which Geraldine Farrar, the famous opera star, appears at the Grand theater shortly.

It is not merely awe-inspiring as a spectacle and thrilling in its heroic moments, but there is something bigger and more ennobling back of it than stage craft.

It shows to what heights a woman can rise when it comes to a moment of sacrifice. No one can hold back the lumps that come to the throat when they see this wonderful peasant girl of France with one of England's greatest invading knights at her feet in the humble supplication of genuine love, hold back her humane emotions because her country needs her. And in the continuance of this throbbing love story every soul must be stirred to see the girl. Joan, hard as adamant on the battlefield, twice saved the life of her suitor only to find in the end that he is the one selected to trap her fo rthe king of England. Historical and wonderful in pageantry it is, but the thing that will make it take rank with the greatest motion pictures of our time is the way Joan's great love story is woven through it all.

Cecil B. DeMille, the producer of the picture, has created an epoch in photodramatic history with this thrilling and artistic achievement.

Czarina Led Unhappy Life

Russia Has Never Felt Kindly Towards Its German Empress

The most unhappy of women, the Czarina Alexandra, has lost her throne. Perhaps she is not sorry. Since her marriage to the deposed Nicholas II. when 22 years old, the misery of her life has been such to call forth the sympathy of the world. She is 45 years old now. She has tried to be a good queen, but it seems she has failed. For the fall of Nicholas II. is in part ascribed to her influence.

Czarina Alexandra is of German and English blood. She was born at Darmstadt in Germany, and christened Princes Alix-Victoria-Hellene-Louise-Beatrix. She was the youngest daughter of the Grand Duke and Duchess of Hesse and the Rhine. Her mother was Princess Alice of England, favorite daughter of Queen Victoria and sister of Edward VII. The kaiser is her cousin.

Her family was poor. There are many girls in America today who have never felt the press of poverty as did Princess Alix in the early years of her life. The little princess was taught to sew and to assist in home duties, because of necessity. She was reared in a home corresponding to that of Americans of the middle class. Her allowance of pocket money was twenty-five cents a week.

Yet those were the happiest days in the life of the unfortunate queen. So light-hearted and gay was the Princess Alix that she was known as "Sunny." Then Nicholas, at that time only heir to the throne, came into her life, and with him came sadness.

Her "Romance" Began Early

Nicholas was of a royal party which once visited Darmstadt. The princess was 12 then and Nicholas 16. It is said that Nicholas lost his heart to her, but that the princess saw little in the delicate and somewhat dull czarovitch.

When Nicholas had sown his wild oats and was ready to marry, his mind went back to the Princes Alix. In the intervening years the two had kept up a desultory correspondence. Then the princess visited St. Petersburg with her father, and Nicholas again lost his heart. He asked his father's consent to his marriage with her, but Alexander III. wanted a Montenegrin princess for a daughter-in-law.

Nicholas appealed to other crowned heads of Europe, especially the kaiser, to help him. The kaiser was quite desirous that the Russian throne should be occupied by a German woman. Queen Victoria did not oppose the match. And so, as happens when politics shapes the course of love, Nicholas and Princess Alix were married.

From the day she entered the royal palace happiness vanished from the life of the girl, who from circumstances little better than those of a peasant stepped upon a throne. She had been a Protestant, but was forced to be baptized into the Greek church. The Russian people resented the German and English blood in her veins. They accused her of not being at heart of the same religion with them, and it is true that the princess had reserved the right to worship in private according to the Lutheran faith.

Alexander III. on his deathbed had sanctioned the match, but Nicholas's mother would not. For years the czarina and her mother-in-law avoided each other. Nicholas, while undoubtedly caring much for his wife, was too weak-willed to oppose his mother. It was a tacit understanding between the two women that they should never appear at the same social event. For purposes of policy they exchanged smiles when they met in public, but that was all.

The Most Beautiful Princess

The czarina, as a bride, was hailed as the most beautiful queen in Europe. The pink and white complexion of a face whose features were nearly perfect enough to have been sculptured came from the outdoor life she had led at Darmstadt. She was tall and stately and her head was crowned with a mass of wavy dark brown hair.

But soon into her large, dark blue eyes, which had come to the czar full of laughter, crept a melancholy look. She lived in constant dread of being killed. For Russia has been a place of unrest.

Soon babies came to require her attention. The first was a girl. The czar was disappointed. The second, the third and the fourth were girls. Then the church powers began to urge the czar to divorce his wife. Russian law requires a man on the throne. The czar seemed on the point of giving in to the request of his advisers when a fifth child was born—and died within a few hours. The people hissed the queen and her princesses when they appeared on the streets, despite the guards.

Then it was that there came into her life a man whose influence changed her from a simple, motherly woman, interested in her own household, to a scheming queen. This man was Rasputin, the half-razed monk, who recently was murdered and thrown into a river by Russian noblemen.

The monk taught spiritualism. How he gained entrance to the czar and czarina's presence is not known to the world, but in one of his seances with the czar and his wife, Rasputin promised that the queen should give the czar an heir. A short time later a boy baby was born. He was the crown prince, Alexis Nicholaievitch, the 13-year-old prince who has been put on the throne by the revolutionists, with the Grand Duke Nicholas as regent.

Rasputin Was Pro-German

So grateful was the queen to the monk that it is said she was completely in his power. Rasputin was against the liberal movement which has been seething in Russia. Rasputin was leagued with those leaders who wished to put the yoke more tightly around the necks of the people. The czar, too, listened to the combined voices of the monk and his wife. The revolutionists say the Russian offensive against the Germans had not been pushed vigorously. Rasputin was pro-German and the queen was born in Germany.

The poor princess who became an empress today has lost much of her beauty. Years of sadness and sickness have left their mark. She is said to suffer from inherited consumption. Her life at court has been bitter. The courtiers did not like her, and the people held her ancestry against her. When the czar was considering divorcing her she suffered a nervous breakdown. Once during that period she was rescued from the ledge of a window several stories high. The change after all, may please her.

WRITER CALLS WOMEN GROWN-UP CHILDREN

A very clever article in April Physical Culture, in which the writer denounces the birth control campaign which is being carried on to a certain extent in the United States, and whose echo is reaching Canada, is somewhat spoiled for women readers by the judgment pronounced that "Women are but grown-up children" and really do not know what is best for them.

The article is the strongest which has been written against the campaign and the reasons advanced are most sensible, or at least more sensible than one ordinarily hears where the subject is discussed, but a large part of the value is lost for women readers when she is so unmercifully attacked.

No doubt women have not attained a great deal of brain development, but they were made to match the men in that respect. When one considers that women have only entered the professional and business world to any extent with the last two decades, it cannot be wondered at that their knowledge in these lines is not as great as men's, but on the other hand, compare man's knowledge with their's on managing a home and taking care of children and I think it will not compare very favorably either.

The writer states emphatically that women do not want children, but that when they arrive, that they are immensely appreciated; that a woman would not sell her baby for a million dollars but that she would not give two cents for another.

This statement is far from correct. The average girl looks forward to marriage and consequent motherhood with great delight and very many times, and within the past week, have I heard girls express themselves very strongly on that point—that life contains nothing more happy for them that the thought of little children.

No doubt if a man had to go down to the "valley of the shadow" as a woman has at the birth of a child, there would be fewer men who would advocate the baker's dozen family or even two, and yet how often a delicate woman expresses herself as wanting another child, particularly one of the opposite sex to that which she has.

Another thing that the writer disregards is the fact that the young man of today is quite as anxious to limit his family as his wife. He knows and seems to realize much better than his father and grandfather, who merely followed his instincts regardless that life today is a complicated matter and the ones who succeed are those who are given a good start in the matter of education and environment.

Milk Dumplings

Work four ounces of butter, very slightly warmed; three eggs and eight ounces of fine bread crumbs; add a teasponful of salt and a pinch of pepper; mold in small balls and boil in two quarts for 15 minutes. When ready lift with skimmer and add yolks of two eggs to milk; pour over all dumplings and serve.

THE WONDER OF THE AGE
:: PHOTOGRAPHS ::
They Move, Smile or Scowl at your pleasure, in fact everything just like a Moving Picture.
COME IN AND SEE THEM
LIVING PORTRAIT COMPANY
SERGT. ATHERTON (82nd and 9th Albertas)
135A Eighth Avenue E. Opposite Monarch Theatre

A. L. HESS
MAKER OF HIGH-GRADE
- PORTRAITS -
Your Friends Can Buy Anything You Can Give Them — Except Your Photograph.
124 Eighth Avenue East
Calgary, Alberta
Phone M3885

The Elbow Shop
SHOE REPAIRING
An Expert Shoemaker at Your Service. "Quality and Satisfaction," our motto.
1120A FIRST ST. WEST

Calgary Silverplating Works
We Silver and Nickel-plate any Metal Article. We are the only Electro Platers between Winnipeg and Vancouver
710 Second Street W. Phone M5277

THE BEATON
Hairdressing & Shampoo and Manicure Parlors
Satisfied Customers Secret of Our Success.
1009 First Street W. Phone M2153

WM. S. PARK
Maker of PHOTOGRAPHS
218A EIGHTH AVENUE WEST
Phone, Main 6489 Calgary, Alta.

Ezy-Way Glycerine Washing Tablets
Use Two EZY-WAY GLYCERINE WASHING TABLETS
to your usual bath water. It will soften the water, cleanse the pores, and make the skin soft, white and smooth. Why pay high prices for Turkish baths when you can get the same results at home with the Ezy-Way Glycerine Washing Tablets? The secret of good health is poral elimination. Don't take our word for it; just give it a trial and be your own judge. It will surprise and delight you.
Washes dirtiest clothes in from 10 to 15 minutes with very little rubbing; makes the clothes white as snow without blueing. Ezy-Way contains no paraffin wax, lye, lime, potash or other injurious chemicals. Ezy-Way will not cause the slightest injury to skin or the finest fabric. We ask you to get a free sample and give it a trial. If out of City send five cents to pay postage and packing and you will receive sample by return mail. Our guarantee, money back if not pleased, no questions asked. Agents wanted. This is the real thing, so get a-hold of a live wire.
EZY-WAY MFG. CO.
115 Fifth Ave. West Phone M1663

SMITH'S
PLEATING and BUTTON WORKS
606A First St. W., Calgary
Phone M3464
Hemstitching Hemming Picot Edging Button Holes Made Chain Stitching
We are specialists in our line, and can turn out your work quickly and well. All Work Guaranteed.
Local Manager: F. O. Barnard

New York Dress Shop

Mrs. Brennand is now located at 210 Eighth Avenue East, where you will find a complete line of Ladies' Suits and Coats, from some of the leading Houses in New York.
The material in these fabrics is of the best quality money can buy, and at less than half the cost. In order that you may be able to appreciate these goods, it will be necessary for you to call and inspect our wide range of samples in sizes ranging from 34 to 44.
210 Eighth Ave. E. Phone M3472

Grocery Values
Farmers, Ranchers, etc., within 175 miles, write for our Grocery Catalogue. Enormous stocks and rapid turnover guarantee you greater variety and freshness of supplies.
Free Freight to Your Nearest Station
S. G. FREEZE
P.O. BOX 440 CALGARY

PUBLIC NOTICE

PROVINCE OF ALBERTA
DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
VITAL STATISTICS BRANCH

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Mrs. Elizabeth McDougall has been appointed Registrar of Vital Statistics for the City of Calgary, from this First Day of May, 1917, and that all registrations of births, marriages and deaths shall be made at her office, at 230 Sixth Avenue East. Office hours, 9.30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

H. A. CRAIG,
Deputy Minister.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS FOR SALE
Great Snap in one slightly used Willis Auto Player Piano, 88 note, mahogany finish, $550.00, formerly sold at $950.00. Terms if desired. Also bargains in some slightly used Organs.
WILLIS & KNABE
Show Rooms: 325 Eighth Ave. W., Calgary
W. M. Howe, Manager Alberta Branch

Why not be particular about your principal food supply?
PURE MILK
is desired by everyone. You are invited to inspect our plant and satisfy yourself as to the quality of our Goods.
CARLYLE DAIRY CO.
Telephone Main 4686.

Welcome!---Everyone---Welcome!

NINTH ANNUAL

Auction Sale of Pure Bred Bulls

AND ANNUAL

PURE BRED CATTLE SHOW

Held Under the Auspices of the Alberta and Dominion Departments of Agriculture

AND

Alberta Cattle Breeders' Association

AT

LACOMBE, ALBERTA

EXHIBITION GROUNDS

Wednesday, MAY 30

Lacombe--The Prize Beef Centre of The West

The Financial and Commercial Firms of the District Have Entered on a Period of Pushful Progressiveness. Tillers of the Soil and Feeders of Steers in Lacombe District are sure of a Rich Harvest

IN no part of Alberta can one look so straight into the eyes of prosperity as in that Mid-Provincial town of Lacombe, where one meets only farmers who cater to the needs of the Empire and business men who cater to the needs of the farmer, and when one sees the multiplicity of figures which go to show the shipments of steers and hogs and horses from Lacombe, one does not wonder at those modern business blocks and splendid banks and hotels which seem to say to the visitor all that needs to be said about progressive prosperity and though the lands around Lacombe are owned by farmers who have proved the worth of only tilling the amount of land, they "till well," and only handling those breeds of cattle which are worth keeping on their lands, and when one realizes that the highest priced animal ever shipped into our west country was purchased only a few weeks ago by Mr. Wm Sharpe at the price of $13,500, so, following in the wake of the purchase of such a splendid animal, one can see men from all Canada and the states coming towards Lacombe to purchase their prize breeders in the years to come, and when those new visitors follow in those prize bulls and heifers, they will assist materially in the upbuilding of that central Albertan town of

Lacombe

with its fifteen hundred population and its situation at the junction of the Calgary-Edmonton-Lacombe-Moose Jaw branches of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and its surrounding dips of fertile valleys. Lacombe has never yet struck one of those boom-growths periods, her citizens have been content to all their place to grow up with that great farming community which has settled around it, and when a town is allowed its natural growth in that manner it means a truly substantial city when the seal time of prosperity comes to it. The town's wide streets and cement sidewalks are evidence of that substantial basis on which the municipal council mean to build the town on a reputation fo r the future years. The stores of Lacombe do more trade than any other town of twice its size in Alberta, and when one sees the department stores already established at Lacombe one is convinced of the prosperity of the area surrounding the town. And those branches of our national banks at Lacombe are concrete evidence that business is brisk at that central Alberta town. One of the most beautiful blocks in town has been erected only recently by the Merchants Bank of Canada, and the faith of that bank's directorate in Lacombe's future is evidenced by the beauty of their buildings' architecture, and the Royal Bank of Canada has also one of the best corner blocks in town. The Union Bank also has expressed its confidence in the future years of the Lacombe district and as a districts's prosperity is always measured "critically" by our banking houses before launching out to establish large branches at any centre, one can "critically measure" Lacombe as one of the coming large business centres of Alberta. Then in the matter of hotels, Lacombe is in the forefront of any of the towns between the capital and Calgary, or Winnipeg. The beautiful Adelphi Hotel would do credit to any city both in external appearance and internal beauty and comfort, which has gained for it the reputation of being one of the best hotels in the province. Lacombe boasts three hotels which says much for the trade of the district.

Lacombe has also a large sanitarium, which is situated in a commanding position, overlooking the beautiful Lacombe Valley. The institution is based on the lines of that famous Battle Creek Sanitarium.

The Dominion Experimental Farm at Lacombe has done wonders in the last few years under Superintendent G. H. Hutton, B.S.A., in the experiments carried out in horticulture, animal culture, field husbandry and poultry raising.

"The best in the West" is Lacombe's slogan, and that is also the slogan of every farmer and stockman in Lacombe's area.

Lacombe has one of the prettiest summer resorts in Alberta, Gull Lake, with its wide, sandy beach and its beauiful surroundings is destined to be yet Central Alberta's summer resort, and with the cheap power supplied by the Blindman River Electric Power Company, operating an extensive hydro-electric plant close to the town on the Blindman River, the future may see Lacombe building a short electric line out to Gull Lake for the benefit not only of the town of Lacombe, but for the profitable pleasure of those who would crowd in from

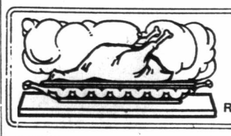
Morrison & Johnston
Limited
Hardware, Implements
Automobiles, Tools, Pumps and Furnishings
GARAGE
Our Garage is the Ford Service Station for the district
We carry a ull line of Accessories and Ford Repairs and have Competent Men in Charge

CREIGHTON'S DRUG STORE
WE CARRY A FULL LINE OF DRUGS, BOOKS, STATIONERY AND PHOTOGRAPHIC SUPPLIES
AGENTS FOR—Colombia Graponolas and Records
WILLARDS' FORKDIPT CHOCOLATES
Everything in Smokers' Supplies.
PRESCRIPTIONS CAREFULLY FILLED
BARNETT AVENUE PHONE 128

ARNOT & CO.
BARNETT AVENUE LACOMBE, ALBERTA
GENERAL MERCHANTS
DRY GOODS GROCERIES
MEN'S WEAR BOOTS and SHOES
FRESH FRUIT
YOU ALWAYS GET QUALITY AT ARNOTS

LACOMBE FURNITURE STORE
E. TITSWORTH, Proprietor
COMPLETE HOUSE FURNISHNGS
Organs, Pianos, Sewing Machines
Carpets, Linoleums
UNDERTAKERS AND EMBALMERS

The McDermid Drug Co. Limited
Calgary, Lacombe Castor and Carstairs
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL
Drugs, Patent Medicines, Drug Sundries, Toilet Articles
Stationery, Fancy Goods, Gramophones and Phonographs
Cigars and Tobacco
DEPENDABLE VETERINARY REMEDIES
Our Veterinary Preparations are scientifically prepared from drugs of the very highest quality We specialize in the requirements of stockmen and farmers and carry a full stock of all reliable remedies.



THE LEADING STORE
A. M. CAMPBELL
General Merchant
LACOMBE ALBERTA
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS
in
FRESH FRUITS | HOUSE FURNISHINGS
GROCERIES | HARDWARE
DRY GOODS | STOVES
DRESSMAKING | TINWARE
MILLINERY | PLUMBING

A Department Store
Catering to the Every Day Needs of the Farming Community
F. E. McLEOD
Lacombe ∴ Alberta

Swift Canadian Company, Limited
OF CANADA
LACOMBE BUYING STATION
Highest Prices for Cream, Butter Eggs and Farm Produce
R. G. GILMOUR, Purchasing Agent

MACDONALD & McBRIDE
BARRISTERS AND SOLICITORS
Merchant' Bank Block, Lacombe, Alberta
Phone 6 Drawer 1

D. CAMERON, Merchant Tailor
We Sell Clothing Inspection Invited
If you know values and think you can do better elsewhere then we have no kick coming.
BARNETT AVENUE NEXT TO POST OFFICE

CROWN CAFE
(Opposite Railway Station)
MEALS AT ALL HOURS
R. C. Metzgar, Proprietor All White Help

C. R. DENIKE
WATCHMAKER AND JEWELER
OPTICIAN
Issuer of Marriage Licences BURNETT AVE., LACOMBE
Phone 113

Western Globe.
LACOMBE, ALBERTA
We have the best equiped Printing Plant in Central Alberta, and our stock of paper cardboards, etc., is up-to-date.
COMMERCIAL PRINTING JOB PRINTING
Assist your Province's Progress by Purchasing at Home

W. F. PUFFER & SON
Dealers in All Kinds of Livestock
LACOMBE ∵ ∵ ALBERTA

A. Urquhart & Co., Ltd.
Departmental Stores
Dry Goods, Boots and Shoes, Men's Furnishings,
Ladies' Ready-to-Wear, Carpets, Linoleums
Congoleum Rugs. Groceries, Tea,
Coffee and Spices
QUALITY GOODS QUALITY PRICES
BARNET AVENUE, LACOMBE, Alta.

nent Store

the Every s of the Community

CLEOD
Alberta

ompany, Limited
DA
ING STATION or Cream, Butter rm Produce Purchasing Agent

& McBRIDE D SOLICITORS
k, Lacombe, Alberta
Drawer 1

Merchant Tailor
Inspection Invited
you can do better elsewhere
o kick coming.
NEXT TO POST OFFICE

ROWN CAFE
(Opposite Railway Station)
MEALS AT ALL HOURS
Metzgar, Proprietor All White Help

DENIKE AND JEWELER
ICIAN
BURNETT AVE., LACOMBE
one 113

Globe. ting Plant in of paper card-OB PRINTING
gress by Purchasing at Home

t & Co., Ltd.
ntal Stores
Shoes, Men's Furnishings, ar, Carpets, Linoleums Groceries, Tea,
nd Spices QUALITY PRICES
E, LACOMBE, Alta.

Lacombe, Alberta---The Great Farming Centre---
History of the Town Told by Picture and by Story

THE MERCHANTS BANK BLOCK, LACOMBE, ALTA.

the larger cities to spend some summer days at Gull Lake.

The educational facilities of Lacombe are far in excess of any town of the same size in our central west, and her churches are a credit to those who have taken a part in their upbuilding Hospitality is the keynote of Lacombe's population, and patriotism and loyalty is evident everywhere, and Mayor Morrison and Town Treasurer N. E. Crothers are ever on the watch to show to the visitor loyal hospitality.

Mr. F. E. McLeod is the energetic vice-president of the Lacombe branch of the Alberta Patriotic Fund, and W. F. Puffer, M.P.P., as organizer, is constantly in the service of the fund which is providing for the dependents of our soldiers who have gone out from our province to fight the cause of Empire. Senator Talbot has done yeoman service as president of the Lacombe Patriotic Branch and Treasurer Nickerson is ever to the fore when funds are needed to fill those coffers which have a habit of developing a serious gap in the bottom end just at the time when they should be full to the brim—when the central patriotic sends out a call for "more money," but Mr. Nickerson "just smiles" start out to load up the credit side of the Patriotic Fund's bank account. Mr. A. M. Macdonald is the worthy secretary of the Patriotic Fund, and has done special service in the cause since its inception at Lacombe.

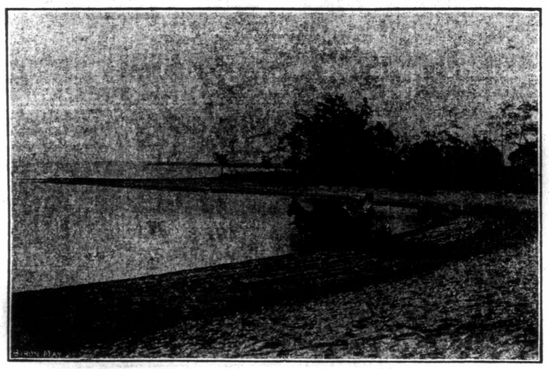
The Red Cross branch at Lacombe is aggressive in its effort to help in the cause of our heroic wounded on the other side, and the Red Cross and St. John's Ambulance contributions to the Alberta Red Cross society have been sent out in a steady flow since the beginning of the war in 1914.

Mrs. Misener is the energetic president of the Red Cross, and Mrs. Morrison and Mrs. Campbell are joint secretaries. To these valiant women are due much of that successful cooperation which has been the keynote of Lacombe's Red Cross work in the war. Convener, Mrs. David Calder, and Secretary, Mrs. Simpson, are at the head of that energetic band of workers which make the Lacombe branch of the St. John's Ambulance.

The Lacombe Board of Trade are contemplating reorganization on a broader basis just now to take care of Lacombe's interests in the "after the war" matters in which Lacombe will be vitally interested. Secretary John McKenty, of the Board of Trade, is one of those men of Lacombe whose aim is for the "natural" development of the district, which means the "substantial" development of the town of Lacombe.

President Wm. Sharpe, of the Alberta Cattlebreeders' Association, — the optimistic Albertan who had the courage to put the price of a dozen automobiles into the purchase of a bull which cost $13,500, and who is not only looking to the material benefit to himself, but to that wider benefit he will do his district by the importing of such an animal. Here's wishing President Sharpe that measure of success in his endeavor on behalf of stockbreeding in Alberta which is the due of one with such an optimistic outlook.

Duncan Anderson, the Federal Government Cattle Expert, says Lacombe is the best beef center in the Dominion, and he will have cause to say more praise-giving things if those "William Sharpes" of Lacombe keep at it.



Last year the shipments from the Lacombe area in cattle and hogs approximated $80,000, and with these figures, and the district in the hands of the sane type of business men whom one meets at Lacombe, one can know that they will not try to overreach the districts' progressive possibilities So with a royal bow to Lacombe's future prospects we will leave her now with her progressive problems of hogs and steers; grains and grasses; seedbeds and sunshine; clover blossoms and apples, and wish to her that prosperity which will be the mainstay of our Canadian national prosperity.

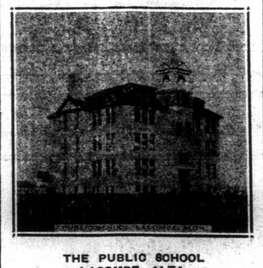
JAS. PETTIGREW.

Miss Marie Peary, daughter of the discoverer of the North Pole, is now taking up aviation.

SOME OF THE NEW RESIDENCES, LACOMBE, ALTA.

THE WINDING BEACH, GULL LAKE, LACOMBE, ALTA.

U. S. CROP REPORT



The crop reporting board of the bureau of crop estimates, United States department of agriculture, makes the following estimates from reports of its correspondents and agents:

On May 1 the area of winter wheat to be harvested was about 27,653,000 acres, or 12,437,000 acres (31.0 per cent.) less than the acreage planted last autumn and 7,176,000 acres (20.6 per cent.) less than the acreage harvested last year, viz., 34,829,000 acres.

The average condition of winter wheat on May 1 was 73.2, compared with 63.4 on April 1, 82.4 on May 1, 1916, and 86.6, the average for the past 10 years, on May 1.

A condition of 73.2 per cent. on May 1 is indicative of a yield per acre of approximately 13.2 bushels, assuming average variations to prevail thereafter. On the estimated area to be harvested, 13.2 bushels per acre would produce 366,116,000 bushels, or 24.0 per cent. less than in 1916, 45.7 per cent. less than in 1915, and 46.6 per cent. less than in 1914. The outturn of the crop will probably be above or below the figures given above according as the change in conditions from May 1 to harvest is above or below the average change.

The average condition of rye on May 1 was 88.8 compared with 86.0 on April 1, 88.7 on May 1, 1916, and 90.2, the average for the past ten years on May 1. The condition May 1 forecast a production of about 60,735,000 bushels, compared with 47,383,000, last year's final estimate, and 54,050,000, the 1915 final estimate.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL LACOMBE, ALTA.

The average condition of meadow (hay) lands on May 1 was 88.7, compared with 88.4 on May 1, 1916, and a ten-year average on May 1 of 87.9.

Stocks of hay on farms May 1 are estimated as 12,488,000 tons (11.4 per cent. of crop), against 14,452,000 tons (13.5 per cent.) on May 1, 1916, and 10,827,000 tons (12.5 per cent.), the five year average on May 1.

The average condition of pastures on May 1 was 81.9, compared with 85.2 on May 1, 1916, and a ten-year average on May 1 of 85.2.

Of spring plowing 72.4 per cent. was completed up to May 1, compared with 70.4 per cent. on May 1, 1916, and a ten-year average on May 1 of 69.3.

"THE COW BILL"

The Live Stock Encouragement Act, which was passed at the recent session of the Alberta Legislature, commonly known as "The Cow Bill," is now in operation, and applications are being received at the Department of Agriculture for loans under this Act. The Act provides that any five or more farmers may avail themselves of its provisions by joining together for that purpose. These men may borrow up to $500 each. The money is loaned to them for a period of five years at 6 per cent. interest. The farmer receives the full $500 and he has nothing to pay but the $30 interest once a year until the end of five years. The only expense in connection with the loan is a fee of $1 for every $100 borrowed. There is no further expense in connection with chattel mortgages or the registration of the same, as the Live Stock Commissioner in the Department of Agriculture holds the cattle in security for the loan by means of a government brand. A certain amount of supervision is made over the purchase of the cattle, or rather, the farmer is given whatever assistance he may require in the purchase of his cows. The money must be used exclusively in the purchase of cows or heifers, except in case a number of members of an association wish to purchase a pure-bred bull to be used by them as an association, and then 10 per cent. of their money may be used for that purpose.

The purchase of live stock under this Act must retain the progeny of the cows or heifers so purchased until the note is paid, except that he can sell the steers when they are two years old and use the proceeds in connection with his farming business. None of the original cows or heifers, or cows or heifers bred from them, can be sold without the written consent of the Live Stock Commissioner. This consent, of course, will be given in case a farmer should require to sell any of them on account of their being non-breeders or for any other reason, replacing those sold with other cows or heifers. In this way the live stock loans will practicaly all be well secured after the first crop of calves has been raised, so that there will be a comparatively small amount of risk either for the Government or for any individual member of an association.

In order to avail themselves of this loan, five farmers are asked to join together, signing joint and several notes for the money, so that in case of any man wilfully neglecting his stock there will be some interested person in the shape of another member of the syndicate to notify the Live Stock Commissioner, and he, under the provisions of this Act, can take charge of the stock so negelected, and see that the other members of the syndicate as well as the Government are protected against loss.

Provision is also made in the Act for the Live Stock Commissioner to proceed against the one man who so neglects his stck and compel him to pay whatever loss there is without involving the other members of the syndicate in a law-suit, the idea being to work out, as simply as possible, a system by which men can borrow money at a low rate of interest for the purchase of live stock, and still have reasonable protection for the Treasury of the Province of Alberta, which guarantee these loans, and thus materially reduces the rate of interest

Already a number of applications have been received from associations and the Live Stock Commissioner is now prepared to take the matter up with any farmers who are interested in the Act. Write the Department of Agriculture, Edmonton for information, forms of application and copies of The Live Stock Encouragement Act.

OFFICIAL FIGURES OF BUTTER AND CHEESE OUTPUT DURING 1911-1916

Figures have been compiled showing the total output of the butter and cheese industry for the years ending 1911 to 1916, for the two provinces of Alberta and Manitoba, which were as follows:

Alberta

Year	Butter Pounds	Cheese Pounds
1911	2,540,000	100,000
1912	3,050,000	40,000
1913	4,115,000	70,716
1914	5,444,806	70,581
1915	7,376,871	372,693
1916	8,400,000	680,000

Manitoba

Year	Butter Pounds	Cheese Pounds
1911	7,638,416	560,725
1912	7,285,042	536,618
1913	8,217,898	400,496
1914	8,650,355	471,355
1915	9,990,111	726,725
1916	10,997,799	880,728

The increase in value has, of course, been much greater than is shown by these figures. The value of the butter and cheese produced in Manitoba during the four years 1910-13, averaged $1,800,000 yearly, while in 1916 it had risen to $3,312,655.

The drain upon the stock of cattle in Canada, due to the recent large exports, necessary as they no doubt were, accentuates the importance of conserving all animals that may be utilized for increasing our herds, and it is a national duty to facilitate efforts to this end.

Some years before the war, employment was abundant at high wages, but urban development, the growth of railways and the construction of public works, while they led to an increase in demand were not accompanied by a corresponding increase in the production of food and other farm products. Prices are likely to remain high for some years, or until the chief belligerent countries are able to reorganize their means of productions as well as their systems of transportation. Meanwhile, Canada suffers, relatively speaking, less than other belligerent nations from transportation difficulties, and has great facilities for raising all kinds of livestock. The value of these was officially estimated at $239,000,000 in June, 1914, at $376,000,000 in June, 1915, and is about $450,000,000 at the present time.

While there are no signs as yet of any decline in the value of the animal produce exported, there is an evident falling off in the number of livestock in the Dominion. In the year 1913 the estimated number of cattle other than milch cows was 3,915,687, and in 1916 only 3,313,519, a decline of 15.4 per cent. Milch cows declined in numbers during the same period from 2,740,434 to 2,603,345, or by about 5 per cent. Swine and sheep also decreased in number. In eastern Canada the raising of sheep has suffered from lack of co-operation among the breeders, but they are now working together with a view to removing the obstacles to the success of the industry. Except in the case of swine, there has been no decrease in the livestock in the western provinces, where, despite shipments fully up to the average, the number of livestock on the farms continues to show a fair increase The movement mentioned in a previous letter, to retain young stock for breeding purposes is receiving decided encouragement from the provincial governments as well as from the bankers.

The general outlook for the cattle industry would appear to be favorable. Even a country of such great agricultural resources as the United States found it necessary, during the past 12 months, to import approximately $12,000,000 worth of dairy produce, going to Switzerland and Australia for condensed milk, to Japan for cream, to Switzerland and Italy for cheese, and to Denmark and New Zealand for butter. A year or two ago, western Canada purchased large quantities of dairy produce in the United States and in eastern Canada, but the department of agriculture recently announced that 81 carloads, or about 2,000,000 pounds of butter, valued at $729,000, had been exported from Manitoba, a province which, in 1912, had imported 50 carloads.

PART OF THE BUSINESS SECTION, LACOMBE, ALTA.

BURNETT AVENUE CORNER, LACOMBE, ALTA.

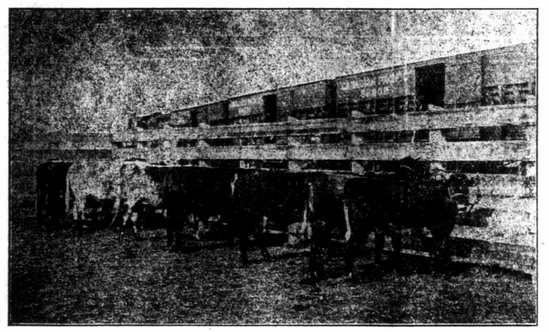
HOW TO PRODUCE GOOD MILK

Cows must be healthy and kept clean.

The barn should be kept clean, well lighted and ventilated. The barnyard should be kept clean and properly drained. Utensils should be thoroughly washed and scalded or steamed and kept in a clean room.

Cows should be fed good wholesome food and pure water.

Milkers and attendants who come in contact with the milk should be healthy and clean.



Cows should not be fed at milking time or immediately before. Dust from feed falls into the milk and contaminates it with germs.

Wipe the udder and sides of cow with a damp cloth and milk with clean, dry hands. Use small top milking pail. This helps to keep foreign matter from the milk.

Immediately after milking remove the milk to a separate room from the barn, to be strained and cooled. Cool the milk to as low a temperature as possible without freezing. Forty or 50 degrees F. retards growth of most germs, and particularly those that cause milk to sour quickly.

In summer keep flies out of the barn and milk room. One fly may carry as many as 150,000 germs to the milk. These may be disease germs. Manure should not be allowed to accumulate around the barn—it is a breeding place for flies.

The number of bacteria in milk depends largely upon cleanliness of milking and handling, temperature at which milk is kept and age of milk. Therefore, clean milk, quick cooling and prompt delivery are very important factors in producing pure dairy products.

SHIPPING THE STEERS AT LACOMBE, ALTA.

Royal Bank of Canada

HEAD OFFICE: MONTREAL

Drafts, Letters of Credit, Travellers' Checks issued, available in all parts of the world.

Savings Department at all Branches

Deposits of One Dollar and upwards received

Capital authorized	$25,000,000
Capital Paid up	12,000,000
Reserve Fund	12,560,000
Undivided Profits	852,346
Total Deposits	200,227,595
Total Assets	253,261,427

J. G. NICKERSON, Manager.

The Merchants' Bank
OF CANADA

LACOMBE - - - - - - ALBERTA

Conserve the Livestock of Your District.
Finish the Feeders in Lacombe.
Keep the Heifers at Home.

-$- Total Assets: One Hundred Millions -$-

H. G. MORRISON, Manager

MOTORS AND MOTORING

The Motor Adds Zest to Pleasure and Makes Life Worth Living

Health Hints For Tires

Tire trouble in winter is as aggravating as leaky shoes on a slushy day. Improperly stored tires—if you are one of the few who do not drive in the winter—are about as fit for spring service as a pair of summer oxfords relegated to a dusty basement.

Some persons will ear rubbers or oil their shoes in winter to keep their feet dry and save the shoe leather. Some will put their summer oxfords on shoe-trees and store them away in a clean place. Yet these same persons will start the winter season with tires on their car in poor condition or store them away either with the weight of the car on them or thrown in a heap in some warm, damp room. Tires cost most then.

Experiences of Tire Service Men

The managers of the several service departments of tire companies wrote letters to Motor Age, extracts of which follow:

"The proper care of tires at the different seasons of the year will greatly reduce the number of tire changes on the road. Of all seasons, no doubt, winter is the worst, and productive of the most discomforting and ruffled feelings.

"The bugbear of winter driving is water working its way through neglected cuts in the thread, where it rots the fabric and in time causes a blowout. A careful examination of your tires, filling the small thread cuts with rubber gum made for the purpose and in taking care of the larger ones by vulcanizing, will greatly lengthen the life of the casing.

Effect of the Water on Tires

"Punctures through the thread and fabric of the casing should receive prompt attention at all times of the year, and more particularly in winter because of the deteriorating effect of water in rotting and causing irregular breaks in the fabric, eventually causing a blowout.

"Overloading is another cause for winter tire changes by the roadside. Many know that continuous overloading greatly weakens the tire. However, the first overload produces the strain, which has weakened the tire for all time.

"Another cause for the short life of a casing is from improper care of the rim. It is surprising the deteriorating effect a rusty rim will have on the fabric of the tire above the bead.

Assemble Tires with Care

"At this point the tube should come in for its share of the inspection and care. The valve nut should be tightened and all trace of sand or lumpy soapstone and all other foreign substances removed from the casing. Care should be taken that the flaps are properly placed, in order that there may be no danger of pinching particularly on spare tires when mounted on a rim, as the pinch would not be noticed until the weight of the car was placed on the tire.

"Quite often the pavement along the inside edges of the track is rough and may result in cuts to the rubber and bruises to the fabric. Driving over street car track switches at the pointed frogs may cut the tire seriously.

"Rails on hills are to be avoided as much as possible as they usually have sharp, thin splinters on the edges, which are liable to cut or puncture the tires.

Driving on Wet Rails

"Be careful when driving on wet rails; quick twisting of the front wheels may result in accident from the rear of the car skidding sideways when leaving the rails.

"The edges of the rails wear away the tread rubber and cause a sharp bending action of the fabric, which will usually develop breaks inside. It is just a matter of time until the rubber cover loosens underneath and the fabric weakens from moisture and decay."

Anti-skid devices are advisable and often imperative for winter driving. However, regardless of their construction, their continued use is bound to wear the tires. They should only be put on when actually needed. Some devices are noisy and there is a temptation to fasten these tightly to the tires to eliminate the rattle and hum they create. When this is done, the extra pressure and flattening out of the tires at the point in contact with the ground, will cause the cross chains to cut and gouge into the rubber tread and fabric underneath. When cross chains become worn and rough they should be replaced immediately, otherwise cutting of the casing cannot be avoided.

Another great temptation in winter driving is to neglect to watch the inflation pressure of the tires. The tires should be kept at the proper pressure in winter just as much as in summer. With an under-inflated tire, the rough ruts and ice of winter streets will soon pound holes through the casing where they come in contact with the rims.

Store Tires with Care

"We have learned from experience that the most satisfactory means for preserving tires during the winter months may be obtained by removing the tires from the car and wrapping them in heavy paper or burlap. They should be stored in a place where the temperature does not exceed 65 degrees. Before the tires are stored away they should be carefully inspected and all small cuts in the tread and side walls repaired.

THREE OF A KIND, AND ALL WORKERS

W. McKINNON, Calgary Agent — JAMES U. BUDD, Fisk Rubber Co. — D. C. ALEXANDER, Calgary Agent

The above are the portraits of three representatives of the Fisk Ruber Co. The centre portrait is that of Mr. James G. Budd, the personal representative of the company, who came to Calgary a few days ago and was loud in his praise of the city. Incidentally, he divulged the plans the company has for exploiting the business of the Fisk Rubber Co. upon a larger and more extensive order in Calgary. The other two are Mr. W. McKinnon and Mr. D. C. Alexander, the two progressive agents of the company, who will have charge of pushing the local business of the well-known corporation. The two later named gentlemen are making a name for themselves by their aggressive attitude and energetic handling of the Fisk Rubber Co.'s business in Southern Alberta. Those who are familiar with the situation predict a big future for this company in their territory under the able management of the later named gentlemen.

Fisk Rubber Company Have Faith in the Future of Calgary

AMONG the visitors who recently visited Calgary from the United States was Mr. Jas. G. Budd, export manager of the Fisk Rubber Co., of New York, a concern that needs no introducing to the motor world. The Fisk Rubber Tire Co. has a world-wide reputation, for the quality and superiority of the tires they manufacture. No concern in the motor tire business has grown any faster or accomplished more than the Fisk Tire Co. The whole foundation of this firm's success has been due to the fact that they believe in producing a superior article irrespective of the cost. They adhered to this principle at the beginning of their business and it has been one of the precepts responsible for their remarkable growth and progress.

While the Fisk Rubber Co. is not by any means the largest makers of rubber tires in the United States their business sizes up well among the leaders in the business. Their works in Chicoopee Falls, Mass., covers a total of 29 acres. They employ upwards of 6,000 people and the daily output is about 9,000 tires daily.

The Fisk Rubber Co. have 153 agencies in all the principal cities in the United States and Canada including branches at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Calgary, the latter office being connected with the well known firm of McKinnon and Alexander, who were formerly connected with fuel and forest products under the firm name of Jack Pine Fuel Co., where they developed a large and lucrative business in the wholesale line.

Mr. Budd's visit to Calgary is due to the fact that the firm have had their eyes on this growing community for a long time and the growth of the country for the past few years has so impressed the officers of the Fisk Rubber Co. that they decided to push the business in this part of the country with the idea of further development as the business demands increased.

Speaking of Calgary and the Canadian west generally, Mr. Budd stated that he was most favorably impressed with the appearance and evident progressiveness of Calgarians. The town, he said, had all the earmarks of a metropolitan city and one that would undoubtedly compare favorably with the larger cities of the States in a few years.

Speaking of the Fisk tire, Mr. Budd said that the great success of the Fisk tire was due in a great measure to quality of the product coupled with the fact that their guarantee established a confidence which the people appreciated although seldom called upon to carry out.

The Fisk rubber tire is made in all sizes and many irregular sizes. Messrs. McKinnon and Alexander, who are the local agents, have under their control the whole of Alberta.

The fact that McKinnon and Alexander are back of the guarantee of the Fisk Rubber Tire Co. with their personal bond is sufficient evidence that they are convinced of the superior quality of the products.

While the above concern is practically in its infancy in the tire business of the city the fact of their success of the past is evident that they will push the Fisk rubber tire to a successful termination.

Motorists and others interested in tires should call upon McKinnon and Alexander and interview Mr. Alexander at Seventh avenue and Third street east and inspect the Fisk rubber tire before making selection.

One important factor in connection with the Fisk Rubber Co. is the fact that there is no charge whatever at any branch in the States or agency in Canada for dismounting, reassembling, testing or inflating tires, irrespective of what make of tires you use.

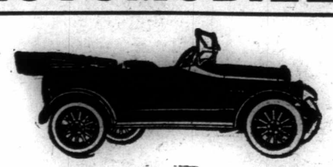
FISK TIRES

Price subject to change without notice.
Fisk Free Service.

There is no charge at any Fisk branch for dismounting, re-assembling, testing or inflating, it is free to all and given promptly and courteously, no matter what tires you use.

Free Air and Water Service.

Service Station and Show Room



Retail Prices, Fisk Tires, Effective May 15th, 1917

NEW PRICE LIST

Size	Non-Skidd Casing	Grey Tubes
3½ x 30	$24.75	$5.00
3½ x 32	29.75	5.50
4 x 31	37.45	6.75
4 x 32	40.75	7.15
4 x 33	41.80	7.35
4 x 34	42.46	7.65
4 x 36	45.35	8.35
4½ x 33	53.35	8.90
4½ x 34	56.70	9.35
4½ x 35	59.20	9.50
4½ x 36	62.60	9.80
4½ x 37	65.95	10.15
5 x 35	74.70	11.25
5 x 37	80.10	12.00

Fisk Tire Agency
Corner Seventh Avenue and Third Street West
Phone M6213

GRAY-DORT AUTOMOBILES

For beauty, easy riding qualities, strength and economy these cars cannot be excelled

"The Quality Goes Clear Through"

PRICE $995.00 at Calgary

SHOWROOMS: 235 8th Avenue West

Phone M5337

CALGARY AUTO AUCTION COMPANY

701 CENTRE STREET, COR. SEVENTH AVE. Phone M 1715

W. McLEOD H. HAYES

We Buy and Sell all Makes of Second Hand Cars
Why Pay Fancy Prices When You Can Get Perfect Satisfaction With One of Our Second Hand Cars?

Cars to be auctioned must be entered two hours previous to sale for inspection.

Sales held at 3 p.m. sharp every Saturday

See Us Before Buying or Selling.

"However, if the owner expects to use the car somewhat during the winter months, he can obtain very satisfactory results by jacking up all four wheels from the floor and deflating the tires until only enough air remains to keep them rounded out.

"Before taking the car out in the spring it is advisable to inspect the rims of the wheels carefully and remove all rust and uneven places. The rims should be painted with graphite before the car is laid up for storage."

Spare Tire Is Often Neglected

The spare tire is a sadly neglected accessory. I once knew of a car owner who bought a new car with four very good tires and a spare. He fastened the spare on the rear tire support, without covering, and drove 13,000 miles before he had a puncture. This is an unusual record, but this mileage is accurate. When the time came for him to change one of the tires, he put on the spare, drove five miles and had a blowout. The spare had become cracked and fairly rotted due to the exposure to light and heat and was practically useless before it had been driven a mile.

By all means provide your spare tire with a cover. If you remove a tire in your garage and it has been standing on an oil soaked floor, wash off all the oil before putting it on the tire carrier or storing it away. Oil will soon ruin rubber. Use soap and water to remove the oil.

Many owners will equip a spare rim hastily with tube and casing, blow it up and lock it onto the tire carrier. Later, when they have occasion to use the spare, it will perform well for a block or two and explode, due to a tube which was pinched in careless assembly.

CHICAGO AUTO DERBY JUNE 16

Total Prize Money for 250-mile Race Is $21,000

Another change has been made in the plans of the Speedway Park Association of Chicago in regard to its third annual Automobile Derby The date for the race, originally set for June 9, has been changed to June 16. The prize money is $21,000 for the first ten places.

The postponement was caused by the desire of President David F. Reid to afford drivers more time after the Cincinnati Memorial day race to repair any cars which might be damaged in that event.

The race will be 250 miles in length. of the $21,000, the first ten drivers to finish divide $20,000, and $500 goes to the leader at the completion of 100 and 200 miles.

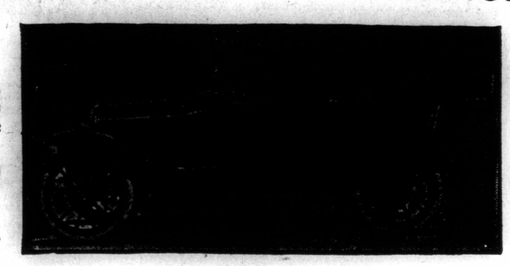
THE BOGEY OF SEASONS

This year has been a great step forward in the evolution of the automobile—the liberation of the motor car from the bogey of seasons and its proper recognition by the people as a vehicle for service all the year round.

A number of years ago motor cars reached a mechanical efficiency which merited their use the year round, but such an idea as that of using motor transportation winter as well as summer was too new in the minds of the people.

The idea has been gradually gaining its proper support, however, and during the winter just past everyone agrees that more motor cars were kept in service throughout than ever before.

As is often the case, necessity was the greatest factor in bringing the new idea to its own with the people. The commercial users of the cars were the first to realize the importance, and the money-saving qualities of the motor car were too great to be sacrificed under the stress of the weather. So each winter for the past few years the experiment of operating the year round was tried on a larger scale. And with the exception of that territory where weather conditions are most severe, business concerns are using their motor equipment the year round for both city and country travel.



Other classes of motorists have gradually come to the same ideas on this, and the unusual demand for cars which has continued during the past year has seen no interruption during the winter months, and those prospective buyers who have not placed their orders early are likely to be caught in the rush of demand and resulting scarcity of cars which inevitably marks the spring season.

Siegel Garage Company

SUPPLIES AND ACCESSORIES, STORAGE AND REPAIRS

Phone Us When In Trouble
798 1st St. E. Phone M4050
129 3rd Ave. E. Phone M4206

The Metz $945.00 CALGARY

The Metz $945.00 CALGARY

For beauty of line, attractiveness of finish, completeness of equipment and 365-day in the year practicably, the METZ outranks by several hundred dollars any other car in its own price list.

GEARLESS TRANSMISSION
METZ FIBRE GRIP
NO GEAR TO STRIP
THE ONLY FLEXIBLE DRIVE
SEVEN SPEEDS AHEAD—ONE REVERSE
FULLY MODERN EQUIPPED NO GUESSING WITH THE METZ

SIMPLICITY

No tugging a the speed levers to change speeds.

Glides away easily and comfortable.

No jerky motion when handling the Metz

For comfort, ease of handling, the Metz is absolutely in a class by itself.

The full elliptic springs are a guarantee of comfort, no matter how rough the roads.

With The Metz Fibre Grip Gearless Transmission You Have :

1st—Positive and constant power and action.

2nd—Simplicity and direct drive.

3rd—All engine power applied to the rear wheels as driving power.

Others have competed for the Classic Glidden Trophy but the Metz Car still retains it.

A DEMONSTRATION IN THE METZ WILL PROVE ITS SUPERIORITY

Quality Auto Cars, Limited

Phone M1498 Centre Street and Fourth Avenue

CALGARY AUTO CLUB

...e of the past is evident that they ...l push the Fisk rubber tire to a ...cessful termination.
...Motorists and others interested in ...es should call upon McKinnon and ...xander and interview Mr. Alexan... ...r at Seventh avenue and Third ...eet east and inspect the Fisk rub... ...tire before making selection.
...One important factor in connection ...h the Fisk Rubber Co. is the fact ...t there is no charge whatever at ...y branch in the States or agency in ...nada for dismounting, reassembling, ...ting or inflating tires, irrespective ...what make of tires you use.

...IRES
...out notice.
...isk branch for dismounting, ...g, it is free to all and given ...atter what tires you use.
...d Show Room
...ffective May 15th, 1917
NEW PRICE LIST

Size	Non-Skid Casing	Grey Tubes
...½ x 30	$24.75	$5.00
...½ x 32	29.75	5.50
... x 31	37.45	6.75
... x 32	40.75	7.15
... x 33	41.80	7.35
... x 34	42.46	7.65
... x 36	45.35	8.35
...½ x 33	53.35	8.90
...½ x 34	56.70	9.35
...½ x 35	59.20	9.50
...½ x 36	62.60	9.80
...½ x 37	65.95	10.15
... x 35	74.70	11.25
... x 37	80.10	12.00

Agency
...nd Third Street West
...16213

The Metz
$945.00
CALGARY
...sh, completeness ... practicably, the ...dollars any other
TO STRIP
...E REVERSE
THE METZ
... ease of handling, the Metz ... a class by itself.
...ptic springs ...re a guarantee ...matter how rough the roads.
... Transmission
...s driving power.
...the Metz Car still retains it.
...TS SUPERIORITY
... Limited
...d Fourth Avenue

FARMING AND MARKETS

Fifth Month Alberta Trap-Nest Egg-Laying Competition

Third egg-laying contest held under the supervision of the Provincial Department of Agriculture at the Provincial Poultry Plant, University Grounds, Edmonton, Alta., from Nov. 15, 1916, to Oct. 14, 1917.

Total Eggs Laid from Nov. 15th to Apr. 14th

Pen	Owner	Breed	Eggs in Month	Total Eggs
13	C. C. Ewing, Lacombe, Alta.	White 'Dottes	142	336
19	L. F. Solly, Westholme, B.C.	White 'Dottes	123	314
18	A. R. Gillies, Clover Bar, Alta.	White 'Dottes	107	300
21	J. E. Swanson, West Edmonton	White 'Dottes	115	276
11	C. C. Ewing, Lacombe, Alta.	B. Orpingtons	125	276
12	D. Gibbard, Mission City, B.C.	B. Rocks	165	268
6	Regan Bros., 78th Ave., S. Edmonton	B. Orpingtons	111	255
15	H. A. Clute, 63rd Ave., S. Edmonton	White 'Dottes	109	195
22	A. R. Gillies, Clover Bar, Alta.	B. Rocks	79	192
3	Nels Linden, Wetaskiwin, Alta.	Brown Leghorn	109	189
5	John Tough, Dewberry, Alta.	White Leghorn	107	188
4	G. C. Rogerson, 1042 8th St. E., Calgary	S.C.R.I. Reds	119	188
16	Reid & Greenwood, Box 928, Victoria, B.C.	S. C. Reds	115	186
17	R. Henderson, 1649 2nd Ave. S.W., C'gary	White 'Dottes	88	175
20	J. C. Longmore, 85th St., Edmonton	White 'Dottes	87	154
14	C. W. Robbins, Chilliwack, B.C.	Buff Orpingtons	106	145
9	J. J. Skalitzky, Viking, Alta.	B. Rocks	83	122
7	E. S. Farren, 528 7th Ave. E., Calgary	White 'Dottes	54	91
10	C. J. Wyatt, Diamond City, Alta.	White 'Dottes	64	91
1	Finn & Storrar, 2216 26A St. S.W., C'gary	W. Leghorns	70	83
5	E. F. Twitchell, 125th St., Edmonton	White Rocks	45	45
8	D. P. Woodruff, Magrath, Alta.	White Cornish	26	38

Six birds to a pen except No. 20, which has five, and No. 7, which has four birds.

Summary—Total number of eggs laid in month, 2149. Total to date, 4149. Average per hen for month, 16.03. Total average to rate, 31.47. Pen No. 13 with a total of 336 still leads. The pen record for the month is held by Pen No. 12 with 165 eggs, an average of 27.5 eggs per hen. The individual records in this pen were 29, 30, 22, 27, 28, 29.

Broody hens—One each in Pens 8, 17, 18, 20, 21. Two in Pen 11. Four in Pen 6.

Highest individual record for month—No. 68, in Pen 12, 30 eggs; No. 65, in Pen 11, 67 and 72, in Pen 12, 29 eggs each.

Highest Individual records to date—Hen 121, in Pen 22, 79 eggs; Hen 76, in Pen 13, 69 eggs; Hen 105, in Pen 19, 67 eggs; Hen 41, in Pen 11, 67 eggs; Hen 119, in Pen 21, 66 eggs; Hen 34, in Pen 18, 65 eggs; Hen 106, in Pen 19, 65 eggs; Hen 65, in Pen 11, 63 eggs; Hen 33, in Pen 6, 63 eggs; Hen 73, in Pen 13, 63 eggs.

Seven hens have not yet commenced laying, four of which are in Pen 8, two in Pen 9, and one in Pen 10.

J. SHACKLETON,
Manager of Poultry Plant.

A. W. FOLEY,
Poultry Superintendent

WINNIPEG LETTER

(Thompson, Son & Company)

In our Winnipeg market there has been a good demand for practically all grades of cash wheat, the government buyers, millers and exporters all being in the market. Movement from the country is on a liberal scale, averaging over one thousand cars per day, including all grains, three-quarters of the receipts being wheat. Our western wheat crop is now all seeded, and all but the latest sown fields are above ground showing fresh and green. The cool time, owing to the cool and backward weather in April has been a late one, but there has been practically no rain except in one or two limited districts, and after seeding work was fairly started there has been no delay and between the 10th and 17th inst. there come a spell of warm weather 85 to 95 degrees in the shade in the day time, which coming over all the country made vegetation fairly jump, and has made up some of the delay. The last few days have been bright, cool and dry, so that farm work with the seeding of oats, barley, etc., will be making good headway. There is no increase in the acreage under wheat. We estimate it at about the same as last year. Today's cash prices are 1 Nor. 275c, 2 Nor. 272c, 3 Nor. 267c, No. 4 255c, No. 5 230c, No. 6 180c, Feed 125c. Futures closed May 275c, June 269c, July 263c, October 210½c.

Oats—There has been a good demand for oats, but it is less keen than a week ago, although prices are ⅝c to 1½c higher. Today's prices are 2 C.W., 78¼c, 3 C.W. 75¼c, Extra 1 Feed 75¼c, 1 Feed 71¼c, 2 Feed 69¼c. May 78¼c, July 73¼c, October 60½c.

Barley—The barley market is quiet and prices are down 2c to 6c on the week. No. 3 126c, No. 4 120c. Rejected and Feed 105c. The May future closed 126c.

Flax—The flax market has been somewhat irregular, and it is easy under the influence of liberal receipts and the prospect that the duty going into the United States will be advanced. The demand is fair. Today's prices are 1 N.W. 308c, 2 C.W. 304c, 3 C.W. and Rejected 286¼c. May 307c. July 306¼c.

All prices quoted above are based on delivery in store Fort William and Port Arthur.

GRAIN PRICES

SPRING WHEAT HAS BIG DROP IN TWO DAYS

Spring wheat dropped from $2.63 to $2.46 Friday. October options also dropped from $2.04 to $1.97. Indications point to the fact that there is a material drop throughout the country.

Spring wheat—	Calgary Fri.	Year ago
No. 1 northern	246	263
No. 2 northern	243	260
No. 3 northern	238	255
No. 4	226	243
No. 5	201	218
No. 6	161	176
Feed	...	121
Oats—
2 Canada west	68¾	72
3 Canada west	65¾	69
Ex. 1 feed	65¾	68½
No. 1 feed	60¾	64½
No. 2 feed	58¾	62½

MINNEAPOLIS PRICES

Minneapolis, May 25.—Close cash wheat: No. 1 hard 288 to 293; No. 1 northern 278 to 283; 2 northern 268 to 275; No. 3 253 to 258.

Oats: No. 3 white 62¼ to 63¼c.

Flax, 332 to 338.

LIVESTOCK

Prices Were Little Off From Last Week

FoFllowing are the prices for Livestock at the Calgary stocqyards the end of the week.

Steers—
Choice export, 1100 up	9.50@10.00
Common butcher, 1100 up	9.00@ 9.50
Killers	7.50@ 8.00
Heifers—
Choice heavy	8.50@ 9.00
Common	7.75@ 8.25
Cows—
Choice heavy	7.75@ 8.25
Comomn butcher	6.50@ 7.00
Thin canners	2.00@ 3.50
Bulls—
Choice butcher	7.50@ 8.00
Common	5.75@ 6.25
Oxen—
Choice	8.50@ 9.00
Common	5.50@ 6.00
Calves—Light	10.00@ 1.00
Sheep—
Wethers	11.25@12.00
Ewes	11.25@11.75
Lambs	12.60
Hogs—
Select off cars	15.90
Fed and watered	15.65

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Chicago, May 25.—Hogs, receipts 29,000; weak 20 cents under yesterdays average; bulk 15.65 to 16.15, light 14.80 to 16.05; mixed 15.50 to 16.20; heavy 15.45 to 16.20; rough 15.45 to 15.60; pigs 10.50 to 14.50.

Cattle receipts 6,000; weak. Native beef cattle 9.40 to 13.60; stockers and feeders 7.90 to 10.00; cows and heifers 10.00 to 11.40.

Sheep, receipts 7,000; unsettled. Wethers 12.25 to 14.75; ewes 11.50 to 14.15; lambs 13.00 to 17.00; springs 15.00 to 21.00.

WINNIPEG LIVESTOCK

Winnipeg, May 25.—Union stockyards' receipts, today, 700 cattle and 1,492 hogs. Cattle trading steady on all grades of butcher steers. Cows and heifers, stockers and feeders are selling at firm prices, while bulls, oxen and common rough cattle are in good demand at strong prices. Veal calves steady. Milch cows and close up springers steady to strong. Hog prices steady at 15.85 per hundred. Market has a weak undertone.

Butcher steers—Choice to prime 10.50 to 11.75; medium to good 9.25 to 10.00; common 6.50 to 7.25.

Butcher heifers—Choice to good 10.00 to 10.50; common to medium 7.25 to 9.50.

Bulls—Good to common 4.50 to 8.00; oxen, good to common, 3.75 to 7.50.

Feeders—Steers, choice to good 7.50 to 8.00.

Stockers, steers and heifers—Choice to good 7.25 to 8.60; common to medium 6.75 to 7.25; choice to good heifers 8.25 to 8.75; common to medium 6.50 to 7.00.

Sheep and lambs—Choice yearling lambs 10.50 to 11.50; common to medium 7.50 to 9.25; heavy sheep 8.25 to 8.75; light sheep 6.50 to 7.00.

Hogs—Selects 15.75 to 15.85; heavies 10.00 to 11.00; sows 8.00; light hogs 12.00 to 13.00.

FINANCE

BANK CLEARINGS SHOW INCREASE TWO MILLION

Following are the prices for livestock at the Calgary stockyards the corresponding week of 1916:

	1917	1916
Montreal	$73,770,097	$63,689,115
Toronto	54,903,325	46,715,898
Winnipeg	51,775,218	35,808,067
Vancouver	6,444,400	5,116,452
Calgary	5,828,292	3,938,706
Ottawa	4,528,034	3,941,367
Hamilton	4,638,093	3,045,982
Quebec	4,114,705	2,877,976
Edmonton	2,112,753	1,861,483
Halifax	3,464,845	1,846,987
Regina	2,576,147	1,630,360
St. John	1,692,540	1,636,733
Victoria	1,083,591	1,181,100
Saskatoon	1,324,102	939,157
Moose Jaw	...	678,147
Brandon	427,277	414,091
Fort William	...	427,996
Lethbridge	...	394,766
Medicine Hat	508,565	352,196
New West'ster	288,005	213,730

CALGARY OIL EXCHANGE

	Bid	Asked
Alberta Associated	30	..
Alberta Pet. Con.	⅝	1
Alberta Pacific Con.	2¾	3¼
Athabasca Oil Co.	..	20
Beaver	¼	½
British Canadian Oils	..	½
Calgary Alberta Oils	1	2
Cal. Pet. Prod.	15	18
Federal Oil & Gas	½	2
Monarch	1	..
Moose Mountain	4	..
Mount Stephen Oil &Gas	19	20
N. W. Pacific Oil Co.	2	5
Piedmont Pet. Products	..	¾
Progress	..	¼
Record	9	15
Stokes-Stephens Oil Co.	3	5½
Southern Alberta	3.25	3.50
Segur Oils, Ltd.	..	1
Union Pacific	⅛	¼
United	..	1.25
Western Pacific	5	..
Western Petroleum	1	..

Coming Fair Meetings

COMING FAIR MEETINGS

The following is a list of the exhibitions to be held this year in Western Canada under the auspices of the Western Canada Fair Association:

Calgary Industrial Exhibition—June 28 to July. 5. E. L. Richardson, manager.

Red Deer Agricultural Society—July 5-7. G. H. Lindsay, secretary.

Edmonton Exhibition—July 9-14. W. J. Stark, manager.

Provincial Fair of Manitoba—July 16-20. W. I. Smale, manager.

Regina Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition—July 23-28. D. T. Elderkin, manager.

Saskatoon Industrial Exhibition—July 30 to August 4. D. C. Fisher, manager.

North Battleford Agricultural Society—August 6-7. F. Wright, secretary.

Yorkton Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition—August 6-7. J. A. Duncan, manager.

Prince Alberta Agricultural Society—August 9-11. W. O. McDougall, manager.

Weyburn Agricultural Society—August 8-10. Frank Heard, Sec.-Treas. and Manager.

New Westminster Exhibition—September 25-29. D. E. McKenzie, Manager.

Alberta Fair Dates for 1917

Crossfield	June 20-21
Calgary	June 28-July 5
Red Deer	July 5-7
Edmonton	July 9-13
Lacombe	July 17-18
High River	July 19-20
Okotoks	July 24-25
Nanton	July 26-27
Stavely	July 31
Claresholm	August 1-2
Vulcan	August 2-3
Granum	August 7-8
Macleod	August 9-10
Carmangay	August 14-15
Langdon	August 16
Gleichen	August 17
Medicine Hat	July 10-13
Irvine	August 7
Winnifred	August 8
Warner	August 9-10
Magrath	August 10-11
Raymond	August 13-15
Cardston	August 17-18
Grassy Lake	August 21-22
Taber	August 23-24
Youngstown	August 6-7
Chinook	August 8
Hanna	August 9
Delia	August 10
Oyen	August 13-14
Munson	August 15
Swalwell	July 26-27
Empress	July 31
Suffield	August 1-2
Retlaw	August 3-4
Peace River Crossing	August 8-10
Vegreville	August 14-15
Stony Plain	August 15-16
Edgerton	August 17
Irma	July 31
Chauvin	August 1
Wainwright	August 2-3
Sedgewick	August 7
Hardisty	August 8
Provost	August 9
Strome-Killam	August 10
Daysland	August 14-15
Camrose	August 16-18
Wetaskiwin	August 21-22
Coronation	August 7-8
Stettler	August 10-11
Consort	August 14-15
Castor	August 16-17
Bidegord	August 21
Cochrane	September 4-5
Didsbury	September 5-6
Olds	September 7-8
Three Hills	September 11-12
Lousana	September 13-14
Leduc	September 17-18
Innisfail	September 19-20
Alix	September 21
Gadsby	September 22

(Continued on Page Eight)

Farm Loans
(ALBERTA FARM LOANS ACT)

Loans to Farmers, Ranchers and Dairymen may be obtained for a period of 30 years on first Mortgage Security.

Interest Rates at Actual Cost.

Repayment may be made by equal annual installments of Principal and Interest.

Full payment accepted at end of 5th year or at any time thereafter without notice or bonus.

Application forms will be forwarded on request

For further information address:

W. V. NEWSON,
Deputy Provincial Treasurer,
Edmonton, Alberta.

FARMS

Farm Lands For Sale

2,000 ACRES, four miles from good town; 1,600 acres under cultivation; 850 acres in crop, 600 being in to wheat, balance to oats. Soil rich black loan. Adapted to both winter and spring wheat. All well fenced and watered. Adjoins river with spring at buildings. Good house, fair barns, sheds and granaries. Price, including crop, $35 per acre. Terms $8,000 to $10,000 cash, balance on terms at 6 per cent. interest.

960 ACRES, six miles from good town in Southern Alberta, C. P. R. line; 318 acres in crop, 218 in crop to wheat on summer fallowed land; 35 acres to oats. 65 acres to Flax. Soil good chocolate loan. Small house, barn and granaries. Steam plow proposition. Price $27.00 per acre, including crop. $6,000 cash, balance half crop payments at 6 per cent. interest.

J. W. ROUTLEDGE
(Formerly 105 P. Burns Bldg.)
Farm Lands and City Property
Insurance and Loans
806A Second St. E., Calgary, Alta.
Office Phone, M4001
Residence Phone, M5271

J. W. Vermilyea & Co.
805 First St. West, 25 Alberta Blk.
Phone M1617 Calgary, Alta.
We have first-class Farm Lands for sale in all parts of Southern Alberta, both raw and improved, at right prices, also a large list of fully modern houses for sale, in all parts of the city. Money to loan.

LASHER & GILLILAN LIMITED
Farm and Ranch Lands
Head Office: 809 Center Street
Phone M2996
Calgary, Three Hills, Youngstown, Alberta

LAND BUYERS
Let Us Help You in the Selection of Your Alberta Farm
We were Pioneer Farmers in the States, and we have developed thousands of acres of Alberta's best Wheat Lands.
We have located a large number of Land Seekers during the many years we have been in business in Calgary, and it is a source of satisfaction to us to know that every settler who has followed our advice is making good.
Exclusively Farm Lands
Valuators and Developers
GILBERT BROS., LIMITED
ESTABLISHED 11 YEARS
613 Grain Exchange Building
Calgary, Alberta

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be, a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A settler after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot secure a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agent's Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.

Infants' Official Guardian

The Province of Alberta now has an Official Guardian. The Lieutenant-Governor in Council has appointed Arthur G. Browning, K.C., Deputy Attorney General, of Edmonton, to be Official Guardian under the Act, with the powers and duties therein specified. The Government deemed legislation advisable to protect the property of infants as well as, and in addition to, the protection afforded to their persons under the Children's Protection Act. The Official Guardian Act, 1917 (c. 19) enables this to be done, Section 4 provides as follows:

The Official Guardian may

(a) Act as guardian ad litem of infants

(b) Act in the administration of estates upon order of the Court;

(c) Act as custodian of property of missing persons, convicts or deceased persons;

(d) Act as judicial trustee of the estate of any deceased person upon the order of the Court;

(e) Act as guardian of any infant made ward of the Court under the Children's Protection Act, being Chapter 12 of the Statutes of 1909;

(f) Act in such other capacity and do such other acts, matters, and things, as an official guardian is authorized or required to do by the Rules of the Court or by order of a Judge or by order of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council or under the Act.

These powers are very wide in their Application and in order that every assistance possible be given to the Official Guardian to carry them out, the Act provides he shall be served with Notice of every Application to any Court in any manner affecting the infant or his estate. Full particulars must be given showing the object of the Application and the effect it will have on the estate of the infant. Executors and administrators can be compelled to pass their accounts as required by law. Trust estates can be audited and dealings therewith investigated. Actions and proceedings where the infant is a party can be conducted by the Official Guardian on behalf of the infant and generally he is authorized to take all such proceedings as may be deemed necessary for the protection of the estate of the infant. The Act does not in any way interfere with the rights of any parties at present or in the future, who are acting legally as guardian of any infant, but in cases where the infant's property seems likely to be endangered, the Official Guardian will be able to entervene. Orders under the Act can be enforced by attachment. He will at all times be available for consultations and advice where the estate of any infant is affected.

All correspondence should be addressed to

The Official Guardian,
c.o. Attorney General's Dept., Government Buildnigs,
Edmonton, Alta.

Calgary Furniture Hospital

We have a very complete line of Secondhand Furniture. All classes and descriptions. Several good sets for sale and at reasonable prices.

Our Stock of Stoves and Ranges are the best to be found in the City. We invite you to see our Stock before buying elsewhere.

THE C.P.R. GIVES YOU TWENTY YEARS TO PAY

An immense area of the most fertile land in Western Canada for sale at low prices and easy terms ranging from $11 to $60 for farm lands with ample rainfall — unlimited lands up to $50. One-tenth down, balance if you wish within twenty years. In certain areas, land for sale without settlement conditions. In irrigation districts, loan for farm buildings, etc., up to $2,000, also repayable in twenty years—interest only 6 per cent. Here is your opportunity to increase your farm holdings by getting adjoining land, or to secure your friends as neighbors. For literature and particulars apply to Allan Cameron, General Superintendent of Lands, Department of Natural Resources, 925 First Street East, Calgary, Alta.

High Class American Dentistry

Expression 20th Century Plates that Fit
Cute-Rate Prices. 10-Year Guarantee.
The Greatest Scientific Painless Methods Used.
Office Hours: 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Daily; 7 to 9 p.m. Evenings
Thousands of Pleased Patients
Gold Crowns and Bridge Work a Specialty
DR. P. C. BRUNER | DR. W. B. REEVE
Graduates from Chicago, Detroit and Philadelphia Colleges
Phone M1051
Calgary Office: Eighth Avenue East, Next to Allen Theatre
Edmonton Office: Crystall Block, Jasper Avenue

N
SPRING and SUMMER SUITS
Made to Your Order, From $25 to $40
300 Patterns From Which to Make Your Selection.
A. S. Nimmo
MADE TO MEASURE CLOTHES FOR MEN
ALBERTA CORNER 1st. ST. WEST CALGARY.

IMPERIAL HOTEL
CALGARY FAMILY HOTEL
Second Street East and Ninth Avenue
Large, Bright and Airy Rooms at Reasonable Rates.
BUFFET IN CONNECTION
Newly Equipped — : : — Newly Decorated
Music Afternoon and Evening
Splendid Billiard Room Equipped with First Class Tables Made in Canada
Phone M6217 DANIEL F. WHITING Prop.

A GENUINE FARMER'S MARKET
A Public Market owned and operated by the City of Calgary in the interests of the producer and consumer.
Farmers living at a distance and unable to attend the Market in person can forward their produce direct to the Superintendent and have same sold through a bonded agent with prompt returns.
For further particulars phone or write
SUPERINTENDENT,
Calgary Public Market

Hotel Radisson
MINNEAPOLIS
409 ROOMS
275 ROOMS AT $1.50 TO $2.50 PER DAY.
MODERN - FIRE PROOF

Phone M5910
JOE CARNEGIE
Gas Fitting and Repairing
744 5½ ST. N.W., CALGARY
Estimates Given

BUD SHOW CARDS
Signs of the Times
218A EIGHTH AVENUE EAST
Cotton Signs Phone M5263
Late Card Writer Hudson's Bay Co

McKelvie & Stirrett Co. Ltd.
General Brokers and Commission Agents.
Bain Building, 11th Avenue West
Phone W1736
By using "Our Best" Flour and our other brands of goods, you will reduce the high cost of living.

CITY SIGN WORKS
SECOND STREET EAST
For Sign Painting and Show Cards
Opposite Post Office
See Us.
Prices Right. Good Workmanship

FURRIER
THOS. PAIN
Manufacturing Furrier
Successor to Mackay & Dippie Fur Manufacturing Department
218A Eighth Ave. West. Phone M3806
Furs Remodeled and Repaired. Your Own Skins Dressed and Made Up. Highest Prices Paid for Raw Furs.

CROSSLAND & BEALE
Decorators
Wall Paper, Sanitas, Burlaps, Mouldings, Paints, Oils, Stains, Varnishes and Brushes
714 SECOND STREET EAST
Phone M4344 City Hall Corner

BROCK & MILLAR
LADIES' AND GENTS' TAILORS
Breeches Makers
711A First St. East, Cameron Blk.
Phone M1267 CALGARY

INSURANCE
ST. PAUL MUTUAL HAIL & CYCLONE INSURANCE COMPANY
CALGARY . . . . ALTA.
Before buying Hail Insurance, we invite you to call and Inspect Our Policies.

Office Phone M3375
Residence Phone M3251
JOHN J. PETRIE
Barrister, Solicitor and Notary
2 MILLS BLOCK
322A Eighth Avenue West
Calgary - - - Canada

Order Your Help from
J. R. ROBERTS
Employment Office
108a Ninth Avenue West
Phone M5881 Calgary, Alta.

MONUMENTS
The Somerville Co.

2513 SECOND STREET EAST
Phone M3805
South of C.N.R. Subway, Near Union Cemetery Gate

O. Hanson & Co.
EMPLOYMENT AGENCY
Head Office:
813A Centre St., Calgary, Alta.
P. O. Box 1346 Phone M2963
We make a specialty in furnishing Labor for Railroad Contractors and Companies. All kinds of help Furnished on Short Notice.
For Quick, Reliable and Satisfactory Service, See Us.
C. P. R. Labor Agents.

Calgary (Western) Standard

Independent Weekly Newspaper Illustrating Current Events and Devoted to the Advancement of Western Canada
Published Every Saturday at 109 Sixth Avenue West.
Calgary, Alberta, Canada.
E. H. MACARTHUR . . . . Publisher
B. S. WHITE . . . Editor and Manager
Telephone for Editorial and Circulation Departments M4210.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

Two dollars per year throughout Canada. Fifty Cents Extra by mail or carrier in the City of Calgary, or to Foreign Points.
Subscription may commence at any time.
The date on your wrapper indicates when your subscription will terminate. Your paper will stop unless you renew promptly. It is always best to renew at least two weeks before expiration to insure uninterrupted service.
Subscribers failing to receive copies regularly will confer a favor by notifying the Circulation Department by post or phone.
No agent or newsboy is authorized to sell CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD on Sunday. Any person doing so is acting without permission or authority of this company.
The Standard takes no responsibility for any obligation incurred by any employee unless such obligation is ordered and accepted by the proper officer of this company.

ADVERTISING

Advertising rates upon application.
All advertising copy must reach the Standard Office not later than Thursday afternoon to insure insertion in Mail and Local Editions.
All correspondence and editorial communications should be addressed to CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD, Calgary, Alberta.

AN APPRECIATION

Headquarters, Canadians,
Bramshott, Hants.,
April 16, 1917.

To the Editor of The Standard—

Just a few lines to congratulate you on the excellent "Good-Cheer" number just to hand. The nice sentiments towards the "boys," expressed therein by so many prominent Calgarians, makes very pleasant reading and their wishes for a speedy and victorious termination of the war and our early return to Calgary is heartily echoed by everyone.

The special number of the "Standard" is the best of its kind I have yet seen and is a particularly praiseworthy effort in view of the strenuous and uncertain times through which we are now passing.

The paper has been read by Mrs. Clayton and myself and I am now passing it on to a Canadian convalescent camp, where I know it will be much appreciated.

Kind regards to you and best wishes for the continued success of the "Standard."

Yours very truly,
SIDNEY J. CLAYTON, Capt.

SAFETY FIRST IN THE GARAGE

Absolutely prevent smoking in the garage by anybody—yourself, your friends, your employees, your customers.

Keep the garage immaculately clean Have a self-losing can in which to throw oily waste and other refuse.

Keep the car, and particularly the drip-pan, clean and free from oil.

Install in the garage an efficient drainage system, which will keep the floor free from pools of gasoline and oil drippings.

Never allow an unguarded flame of any kind to be brought into the garage.

Use no lighting system but electricity and protect the bulbs with wire guards.

If any lights but electricity are used on the car, see that they are put out before the vehicle enter the garage.

Be certain that the heating system that you install is absolutely safe.

Be sure that the gasoline and oil storage outfit that you are using is approved by the fire underwriters.

In handling gasoline, always treat it with the respect due a potential explosive.

Have an adequate number of fire extinguishers and buckets of sand at startegic positions in the garage.

If the car actually takes fire in the garage, push it out into the open, if possible.

Remember that in regard to garage fires, an ounce of prevention is worth tons of cure. Obviate carelessness in your garage and you have reduced by ninety per cent the chances of fire.

FAIRS TO BE HELD

Continued from Page Seven)

Rocky Mountain House	Sept. 24-25
Ponoka	September 26-27
Milnerton	September 28
Trochu	October 2-3
St. Albert	October 4-5
Bowden	October 5
Priddis-Millarville	October 6
Fort Saskatchewan	September 4-5
Innisfree	September 6-7
Manville	September 11
Vermilion	September 12-13
Kitscoty	September 14-15
Lloydminster	September 18-19
Viking	September 20
Holden	September 21
Boshaw	September 25-26
St. Paul	September 5
Elk Point	September 7
Berry Creek	September 7
Colinton	August 28
Athabasca	August 30-31
Mid-Pembina	September 4
Paddle River	September 6
Westlock	September 8
Nakamum	September 11
Onoway	September 12
Entwistle	September 13
Edson	September 14

In reference to the northern fairs below it is recommended that the dates be fixed by the superintendent of fairs and institutes, after consultation with those conversant with conditions in the respective districts:

Griffin Creek.
Lesser Slave Lake (High Prairie).
Grande Prairie.
Water Hole.
Spirit River.
Lake Saskatoon and Beaver Lodge.

Continuing All Day Monday---This Great Occasion

FOR MONDAY'S SELLING ONLY

"The 3 in 1 Sale for Men"

OWING to the immense demand for the merchandise incorporated in the great Three-in-One Sale for men at the store today and yielding to the appeals of those who could not get to the store on Saturday—We are continuing this event on Monday.

You men who read this tonight will wonder why in the face of rising wholesale cost in almost every commodity we insist in stripping prices to core in a sale of this character. During the past season, and for goodly portion of the present one, the business in our Three Men's Shops has increased wonderfully. This is due to several things—chiefly to a broad-minded merchandise policy and an accurate and intimate knowledge of the markets to which we look for our merchandise. This heavy spurt in business necessarily leaves odd sizes and one of a kind oddments in every line and the contents of this sale is made up of this character of stock to a large extent. But, to make such a selling a success we have been forced to include plenty of leaders from regular stock. Several window displays tonight tell a most wonderful story.

SHIRTS 95c

Just about 250, soft and starched cuff; stripe effect in good color combinations; made by famous makers. Values up to $1.50 each, for 95c

Spring Weight Top Coats FOR MEN AND YOUNG MEN

"Slip Ons" Similar to Those Advertised in the "Post" Sell for Smart loose-fitting backs, in jaunty looking mixed fabrics. Tailored for exclusive men's shops in the United States and Canada by the sponsors for "Campus Togs." Set in shoulder models in greys and mixed dead grass green fabrics. Raglan shoulder style with "punch" sticking out all over them. Sizes 36 to 40, and each at this phenomenal price of..... $8.95

Neckwear

Soft, silky fabrics that tie up into smart bows and four-in-hands. An immense shade range. Patterns to please the most fastidious.

50c and more

Men's Trousers $1.59

Good quality Pants, five pockets; heavily stitched and of durable dark fabric; 100 pairs, sizes 32 to 46. Each pair..... $1.59

Walking "Slickers" $4.95

The old reliable Waterproof Slicker; yoke lined and with steel fasteners and throat strap. Sell elsewhere at $5.50. Here Monday at $4.95

Riding "Slickers" $5.50

For use on horseback principally; sizes 36 to 46, otherwise same quality as the walking slicker offered at the left. Monday $5.50

Wear Porus Knit

Union Suits of this skin breathing fabric; white yarns that wash and wear well; worth easily $1.00 per suit; all sizes.
Per suit 69c

Taking 50 Suits Right Out of Regular "Up to $18 Stock"

Suits for Conservative Dressing, Large Men, for Young and Old Men

Odd sizes and lines for the most part but for that matter, all the more exclusive. A collection of suits for the extra size man, the small size man as well. Conservative patterns and those one might term Ultra Fashionable. Sizes 35 to 46 and about every color and pattern mortal man could wish for. Fifty suits will be sold to 50 men before sun has climbed very far Monday morning. Values to $18.00, and any suit $8.95

Oxfords $3.95

Men's Oxfords for street or golf wear, tan calf. Made on full or narrow toe last, in a medium dark shade of leather, in blucher pattern, welted sole, some English "K" lasts are included; regular to $6.00, for ... $3.95

$15 is the Price Attached to Suits for Men

Garments that sold for $30 recently. 250 Suits in all!

A great outgoing of our "Type Suits" for men. Those suits made by master tailors to fit men who usually say that clothing for them must be made to measure. Styles for the tall, stout, short or normal figure. About 250 garments in the lot. Just one suit to a customer. Regular pricing rises as high as $30.00. Sizes 34 to 48.
In the "3 in 1 Sale" Monday, at $15.00

Raincoats 20 Only $8.97

Our special number coat, guaranteed waterproof. This is practically a new stock, each, at $8.97

Final Farewells to All Evening Clothes Monday

Evening clothes are more or less of a "staple line" with Men's Apparel stores. Cut prices are seldom attached to them. It is therefore with some surprise to many that we announce this sterling event.

10 Dress Suits

Handsomely lined and finished. The three-piece suits, coat, vest, trousers; regular to $50.00 for $24.95

3 Frock Coats

One is size 35, another 37 and the last 39. $22.50 coats, examples of fine tailoring at $15.00

3 Tuxedo Coats

Together with the vests; sizes 35 and vests; sizes 35 to 38. Dinner coats we should call them Regular $22.50, for $15.00

Flannel Outing Suits $9.95

best white English flannel, with pin stripes; patch pockets, bone buttons. One suit to a customer. Regular $15.00 for $9.95

Men's Hose

Holeproof and other standard weaves of Men's Fine Hose. You'll find your size, color and design in this shop for men.

Sample Felt Hats For Men $1.95

Blue, brown, grey and black, some green; sizes 6⅞, 7, 7⅛; all perfect quality. Values run to $4.00 each. for, each $1.95

Your Golf Clubs and Balls Are Ready Floor Three

Tennis Balls Racquets Tapes and Nets Reasonably Priced Floor Three

Raincoats 10 Only $7.50

Good tan waterproofs. The kind most men like to wear; thoroughly rainproof and priced regularly at a much higher figure; sizes 36 to 48. Each $7.50

Men's New Overalls 79c

From 8.30 to 9.30 only Monday, we will dispose of 25 pairs of Men's Overalls, sizes 40 to 46, at the rate of 79c

Good Watch Repairing Main—Centre

The Hudson's Bay Company.

INCORPORATED MDC — HERBERT L. BURBIDGE, STORES COMMISSIONER

Free Eye Examination on the Rendezvous

SELLING ONLY

1

Raincoats
20 Only
$8.97

Our special number coat, guaranteed waterproof. This is practically a new stock, each, at $8.97

Flannel Outing Suits
$9.95

best white English flannel, with pin stripes; patch pockets, bone buttons. One suit to a customer. Regular $15.00 for $9.95

Raincoats
10 Only
$7.50

Good tan waterproofs. The kind most men like to wear; thoroughly rainproof and priced regularly at a much higher figure; sizes 36 to 48. Each $7.50

Men's New Overalls
79c

From 8.30 to 9.30 only Monday, we will dispose of 25 pairs of Men's Overalls, sizes 40 to 46, at the rate of 79c

Free Eye Examination on the Rendezvous

Some Men Like to Talk of Their Business Successes and the Others Would if They Had Any

TO brag a little, to show well, to crow gently if in luck; to pay up, to own up, and to shut up if beaten—these are the virtues of a real sportsman.

—Personality

CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD

THE GREATEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER IN WESTERN CANADA

I have seen many clever men, very clever men, who had not shoes to their feet. I never act with them. Their advice sounds very well, but they cannot go on themselves; and if they cannot do good to themselves how can they do good to me?—Rothschild.

TWO SECTIONS—Section Two | CALGARY, ALBERTA, MAY 27, 1917 | SECOND SECTION—Pages 9 to 16

STORIES OF EVENTS OF IMPORTANCE IN THE WORLD TODAY

Ferdinand of Bulgaria Is a Chocolate Soldier

The Soldier King Has Become a Most Mysterious Being—Disappears for Nine Months Out of the Year—Some Say Woman in the Case.

STOCKHOLM (by mail). — Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria has disappeared from his subjects' eyes, and his subjects when they pause from fighting Serbs, Montenegrins, Russians, Frenchmen, Englishmen, Italians and Rumanians, are wondering what has become of him.

He has become "Ferdinand Tainstveni"—which means mysterious Ferdinand. For nine months of the year no man knows where he is. Sometimes for a few days he stays with the army—well at the rear; sometimes he drives headlong down Sofia's boulevard of the Czar Liberator, and Sofiotes discover that he is at his palace; and sometimes newspapers record that he has sent congratulatory telegrams to Vienna or Berlin. Once of late he has seen Kaiser Wilhelm and once Kaiser Karl. But most of the time Ferdinand so keeps out of sight that legends spread about his death, and Sofia swears that a dummy dressed up as Ferdinand is doing Ferdinand's work.

Ferdinand lately visited the Dobrudja, and through a quarrel with his own general, Kutintcheff, revealed why he keeps in the background. Ferdinand is a man of peace and diplomacy; he has a particular distaste for blood and ugly sights and an overpowering passion for making war clean, pleasant and nerve-restful as war could conceivably be. So, before he visits an army that has been fighting or a battlefield that has seen slaughter, he insists that all signs of human passion, cruelty and disorder should be decently swept away. And Ferdinand went to Dobritch.

When Ferdinand reached Schumla fortress, thirty miles off, his military secretary telegraphed to General Kutintcheff saying that he would come along when the mess had been cleared up—when the dead were buried, when the wounded if not sent to the rear had been dressed and washed. Ferdinand was anxious to see the Russian trenches. The reply from the front said that things would be in order by the morning. When Ferdinand arrived in the morning things seemed to be in order; all the wounded had been put out of sight and all the dead slept under neat white crosses. But when Ferdinand descended into the first Russian dugout a disgraceful sight struck him. It was an unburied corpse.

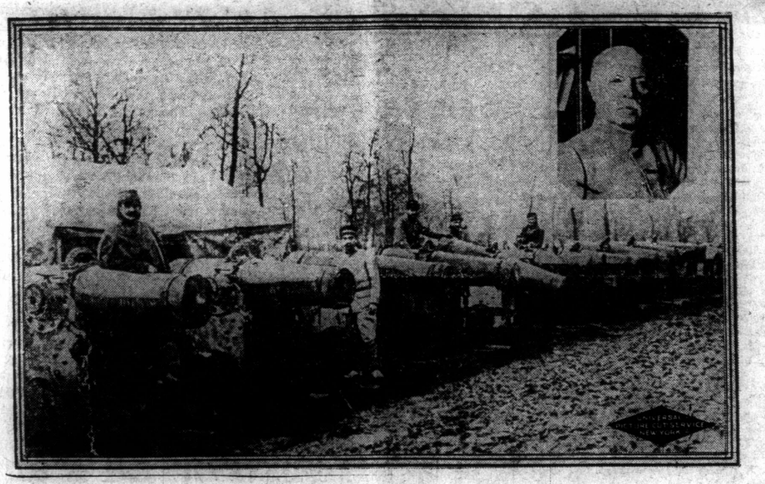
Disgusted Ferdinand rushed up, entered his motor car and left Dobritch for the rear.

A Double Traitor

Slanderers affirm that Ferdinand avoids battle fields because he fears for his own safety. Ferdinand's friends say that his real motive is delicacy and dread of the ugly and unaesthetic. Friends and enemies agree that he is a diplomat first and a man of war last. For nearly a year he has been trying secret diplomacy with the aim of making a comfortable separate peace, and getting the Allies to recognize enough of his conquest of Macedonia to satisfy his by no means moderate subjects.

Ferdinand knows that he holds high trumps. If he makes peace and betrays his German, Austrian and Turkish allies, Turkey will cease to have direct communication with Europe; the supply of German shells and German shells and German officers will cease and Turkey will incontinently collapse. Ferdinands' intrigues with this aim are just now being exposed by his revolutionary foes in Jamboli. Jamboli is a cotton spinning town in Eastern Bulgaria, full of Socialists, and before the war it was very much tied up with England; it has steadily twenty years ago, opposed the anti-Russian policy of Ferdinand's premier, Stambuloff.

Jamboli was so much against Stambuloff that it supplied some of the men who murdered him in a Sofia street. Jamboli has a young anti-Ferdinand revolutionary named Yuzhoff, who clamors for peace and for a reconciliation with the Allies. Last June Yuzhoff, with the war cry, "Down with Ferdinand!" took to the little Balkan hills and tried a revolt, but hunger forced him to give way. He returned to Jamboli. Ferdinand, who always prefers sweet reason to violence, thought it wise to leave him alone. Yuzhoff started a peace campaign, the chief feature of which is revelations to prove that Ferdinand himself, unknown to his subjects and to his prime minister, Radoslavoff, has been trying his hand at peace himself.



Barometer of War

"Czar Ferdinand," says Yuzhoff, "is an accurate barometer of the war. His policy towards the different alternatives of peace, war or compromise oscillates without ceasing. When the smallest advantage is gained by his army or by the Germans, Austrians or Turks, he immediately sends up his terms, and he lets his envoy, Grekoff, know them by cable. If the Bulgarians take ten prisoners Ferdinand, within ten minutes, demands ten square miles extra of Serbian land; if Bulgaria loses a trench his terms next day fall a little; if England breaks through a wire entanglement on the Somme he grows sweetly reasonable; if Italy loses a transport ship in the Mediterranean he demands an extra town or a new mountain pass. Anyone who follows closely Ferdinand's negotiations could, without any further knowledge, write a history of the ups and downs of the war."

Ferdinand's intrigues for peace and treason are a prime cause of his mysterious disappearances. The wonderful tale circulates in Sofia that he disappeared last August on a visit to Czar Nicholas II in Kieff. When Ferdinand is away his womenfolk run the country's civil affairs.

Eudoxia is the cleverest member of Ferdinand's family. She manages the Sofia palace, receives ministers and envoys and apologizes to them for Ferdinand's mysterious absences; runs Ferdinand's farm at Vitosch when Ferdinand is not hiding there; directs his business speculations and his enormous private wealth, and in particular runs his big land development scheme round Chaskovo, near the Turkish frontier. Eudoxia is black-eyed lively and pretty, with an ambition, Sofia declares, to be married quickly, and cynics add that Ferdinand chose the German side instead of the Allies' because Germany has vast supplies of bridegrooms of royal, princely and ducal blood. In Sofia Eudoxia is known as "Balkanska Dieva"—the Maid of the Balkans.

BIG GUN RESERVES

A French official photograph showing reserve of guns marshalled ready. Now being brought up to attack the Hindenburg line.

When Broadway Clocks Were Three Hours Ahead

The Cabaret Life and Midnight Seances Have Practically Ended—Restaurants Lose Much Business but Prefer the New Order of Things.

IN Europe they set the clocks ahead an hour in the summer time and save thereby an hour of daylight each day. In New York City they're now setting the clocks in Broadway ahead three hours every night and saving thereby three hours' worth of electric light bills and a headache on Sunday morning. Europe has saved its daylight and New York City has lost its night life.

The great white way after 1 o'clock in the morning has become nothing more nor less than a paved street until the rumble of early dairy wagons, around 4 o'clock, makes it the great milky way. For several long, long nights Mayor Mitchel's edict that there shall be no alcoholic beverages sold anywhere in the city after 1 o'clock has been observed and the end of the first week of aridity demands that an accounting be held and a balance struck.

Consider the Morning After

On the profit side of the ledger might be written the fact that tongues are no longer the size of telephone books in the morning and calls for "brain dusters" have decreased perceptibly.

On the other side of the sheet may be written in red ink the authoritative fact that hundreds of persons have found themselves without work; restaurateurs have noticed with dismay the shrinkage of receipts in the cashiers' offices every night and hotel keepers have found themselves for the first time this season with vacant rooms.

These entries, however, are based upon mercenary considerations solely. Over against them, upon the profit side, must be placed the moral value of a community united in observance of a patriotic edict. An investigation during the week found not one restaurateur, cab driver, waiter, bartender or any other person of the thousnads affected directly by the closing order who, upon the score of money losses, desired a change back to all licenses.

"No matter what the effect on my business, if the law is good, I'm for it and will observe it faithfully," was the usual answer to inquiries regarding conditions.

Psychology of Night Life

As one experienced restaurateur phrased it, most persons only sit up late because they're afraid something will happen after they've gone and they won't be there to see it. They're perfectly willing to go home at 1 o'clock or 10 o'clock or any other hour, just so long as everybody else must go home too.

In almost all restaurants, cabarets and other amusement places up and down Broadway the clock has simply been advanced. Performances which began at 1 o'clock have been set forward to 10 o'clock. Midnight suppers may be eaten at half past 10 o'clock. Service to theater parties has been speeded up so that when 1 o'clock strikes the guests have just finished the demitasses. Chorus girls who have been accustomed to entertaining themselves after entertaining audiences have learned anew to take home edibles for the little gas range in the kitchenette.

In passing it must be noted that furniture dealers have reported increased sales. Buffets, wine chests and miniature lockers have happened in even the best of families. It was a

(Continued on Page Ten)

Marshall Joffre Is the Greatest French Genius

A Strategist of Remarkable Ability He Has Won His Fight Through Sheer Force of Character—His Endurance One of His Strong Features—A Man of Men.

NO imaginable event in the long months of conflict still to come can rob the victor of the Marne of his pre-eminence. He is the one grandoise figure of the war. No imaginable event can rival the Battle of the Marne in its significance for the history of the world and civilization. It the genius of Joffre spent itself on the Marne, it was in the performance of a supreme mission carried out amidst all the circumstances of a great drama—a mighty issue decided after agonizing suspense amidst the hush of a watching world.

After two and a half years of crashing conflicts and untold heroisms, of sweeping victories and great retreats, of a war map unrolling itself over three continents, it is still impossible to go back to the now old story of the Marne without that catch of the breath, without the sacred awe, aroused by the presence of powers and issues almost more than human. The drama of the great war has worked itself out contrary to all the rules of dramatic construction. There were no long acts of preparation and development. Hardly had the play begun when the climax was upon us. Forty-one days from the rise of the curtain to the pitch of the action, and thirty-two months of slow descent towards a final curtain not yet in sight. It is any wonder the events and the man of those first forty-one days still maintain an unapproachable fascination?

If the Marne was a victory won for civilization by France, it was also won in accordance with the genius of France. It is impossible to read again the story of the first five weeks of the war without recognizing that at bottom there is truth in the oft exaggerated generalizations about the peculiarities of national genius. Perhaps we are today, after two and a half years of war, inclined to stress too much the new discoveries of the French temperament. It has become a commonplace to say that, instead of a frivolous people, the French are really the most practical of nations; instead of a nation of talkers, they are really a nation of doers. * * * But what adds glory and poetry to the Battle of the Marne is that it was fought and largely won in the spirit of the older, historic French virtues and traits. It was won by the old French heroism, and more than that, by the old French imagination founded upon innate reason. Brilliant, but unsafe, used to be the commonplace generalization of the French national temperament. Brilliant and daring was the strategy of the Battle of the Marne. It was a victory of the French mind over the German mind.

The difference between German strategy and French strategy in the campaign that ended with the Marne was the difference between mechanical precision and imagination. The German plan was to set into motion two enormous pincers, one swinging in from Belgium, one from the western front between Nancy and Belfort, and to crush the French armies somewhere in the calley of the Seine. The French plan did not call for the exertion of all the power of the nation's armies to re-

(Continued on Page Ten)

England Must Find New Resting Place for Heroes

Historic Westminster Abbey is Now So Crowded that New Chapel Must be Erected to Accommodate Those Who Have Won Renown in the Great War.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY, the resting place of England's renowned, is now crowded with heroes, rulers, poets, statesmen and others upon whom fame has rested during their lifetime. It is so filled with memorials, in fact, that an addition has become positively necessary, and the London newspapers are devoting considerable space to suggestions for new chapels.

It is felt that the great war will produce a number of personages deserving of the lasting glory of a place in Westminster Abbey. But few of these can be so accommodated unless the historic abbey is enlarged. Nearly a score of years ago the great abbey began to show signs of congestion. The disposal of John Ruskin's body brought up the issue. Manifestly he should be buried in the abbey, but there was no room in the poet's corner, which was deemed the most fitting spot for his monument. Ruskin, in the end, was buried where he died, near to his beloved Lake Coniston.

Since that time more than a dozen great Englishmen have found their last earthly home in the abbey. There have been others, not so fortunate, who have died in war. These new buildings would adjoin the main section of the abbey and would be connected with it by a vestibule. The suggestion receiving the most favor is to erect buildings, architecturally in keeping with the rest of the abbey, that would be ample for the purpose for the next several hundred years.

As a beginning it is proposed to place in the Valhalla memorials to Lord Kitchener, Nurse Edith Cavell and Captain Fryatt.

Must Keep Out Nonentities

Most of the prominent Englishmen offering suggestions for the enlargement of the abbey assert there must be more strictures placed upon conferring of the honor of such memorials. There are many nonentities resting in the chapels of the old abbey. The Westmoreland family, for instance, seems to have enjoyed a sort of inherited burial privilege there, despite the deeds of the respective members of the family. And others in the past managed through their ancient aristocracy or through privilege in finding a place among the immortals of the kingdom. Which recalls Washington Irving's comment upon the abbey:

"What, thought I, is this vast assemblage of sepulchres but a treasury of humiliation, a huge pile of reiterated homilies on the emptiness of renown and the certainty of oblivion! It is indeed the empire of death—his great, shadowy palace, where he sits in state, mocking at the relics of human glory and spreading dust and forgetfulness on the monuments of princes. How idle a boast, after all, is the immortality of a name!"

GUARDING GREAT U. S. RADIO STATION

Sceen showing barbed wire fence charged with 30,000 volts guarded by sentry. United States greatest radio station at Challas Heights, California.

THE FRENCH IN MACEDONIA

Photo shows section of trench in Macedonia, being inspected by French officer. This line of works is strongly fortified, as it separates the Bulgarian and Teutonic Allies from Greece.

RURAL MAIL ORDER GUIDE

RURAL BUYERS' GUIDE

RELIABLE FIRMS—SATISFACTORY SERVICE

FARMERS' AND RANCHERS' BUSINESS DIRECTORY

HOME CLASSIFIED BUSINESS GUIDE

STANDARD BUSINESS DIRECTORY

BARRISTERS AND SOLICITORS

E. F. RYAN: BARRISTER, SOLICITOR and Notary, 402 Maclean Block, Calgary, Alta. Phone M1670.

E. A. DUNBAR, BARRISTER, ETC., Royal Bank Chambers, Eighth Ave. and Centre Street. Phone M2311. 11-1yr.

FRANCOIS DE ROUSSY DE SALES, Barrister, Solicitor and Notary Public; Avocat Francais. Rooms, 209-211 Grain Exchange, Calgary. Phone M1916.

H. P. SAUNDERS, BARRISTER AND Solicitor, etc. 22 Old Herald Building Phone M2747.

JAMES O. CAMPBELL, B.L., BARRISTER and Solicitor, 312 Beveridge Building, Calgary. Phone M2977.

J. J. MACDONALD, B.A., LL.B., BARrister, Solicitor, Notary, 303-306 Beveridge Building, Calgary, Alta. Phone M3371.

J. McKINLEY CAMERON, BARRISTER and Solicitor. Office, 250. Phone M6769. Corner of 8th Ave. and First St. West.

LOUGHEED, BENNETT, McLAWS & CO. Clarence Block, 122 Eighth Ave. West, Calgary, Alberta, Canada. Hon. J. A. Lougheed, P.C., K.C.; R. B. Bennett, K.C.; W. H. McLaws, J. C. Brokovski, J. B. Roberts, D. L. Redman, L. M. Roberts, W. C. Pollard, H. A. Chadwick, H. E. Forster.

McLEAN, PATTERSON AND BROAD. H. W. McLean, W. H. Patterson, W. E. Broad. Phone M6356. 502 MacLean Block, Calgary. Branch Offices, Acme, and Beiseker, Alta.

D. HARCOURT O'REILLY, BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary. 716-717 Herald Bldg Calgary. Phone M5959.

SAVARY, FENERTY & CHADWICK, Stringer Block. Main 6614.

TWEEDIE, McGILLIVRAY, BARRON & Oldham, Solicitors, Etc. T. M. Tweedie, A. A. McGillivray, J. B. Barron, J. N. Oldham. 105A Eighth Avenue West.

ARTISTS

ARTISTS, DESIGNERS & ENGRAVERS HICKS ENGRAVING CO., LIMITED, Makers of Photo Engravings for all Purposes. Herald Western Building, Cor. 2nd Ave. and 5th Street West Phone M6761

STAFFORD & KENT, DESIGNERS AND ENGRAVERS Illuminated Addresses, Engrossings and Engraved Cards 222A Eighth Avenue West

AUCTIONEERS

M6209 CITY EXCHANGE AUCTIONeers. 406 Eighth Avenue West. House and Office Furniture at our Salesrooms at SNAP PRICES Call, write or phone us.

BOOTS AND SHOES

FOR UP-TO-THE-MINUTE FOOTWEAR, go to RICHARDSON'S LIMITED (The Home of Good Shoes) 616 Eighth Ave. West Phone M4509

COUPLAND BUSINESS COLLEGE

THE OLD SCHOOL, THE TRIED SCHOOL the School for you. Why not start now? Phone M1309. 109 14th Ave. West.

DENTISTS

DR. A. B. C. DANDO Dentist Prices Cut in TWO 123 8th Ave. W. Phone M2141

FRONT OFFICE TO RENT

IN MILLS BLOCK For particulars apply J. J. PETRIE SUITE 2, MILLS BLOCK 322A 8th Avenue West Phone M3375

FURNITURE REMOVERS

THE PACIFIC CARTAGE CO., LIMITED, Furniture Moving and Storage, expert packers and forwarding agents. Phone M5007. Office in C.P.R. freight shed, Ninth Avenue and Second Street East.

DO YOU WANT MONEY?

If you are a man, woman, boy or girl and you want to make money send us your name and address. We will send you the particulars which will make you money and independent for life. You only have to devote a part of your spare time to it to earn all the money you need for luxuries or you can devote your entire time to it and make a good living. You don't need any experience. You simply need energy and ambition to make the effort and success will come.—Address, Manager, 109 Sixth Ave., Calgary, Alberta.

DR. SIZE THE DENTIST AND NATUROPATH

233 EIGHTH AVENUE EAST 30 years successful practice. All branches Have your Dental work done, your Plates, Crowns or Bridges repaired.

BABY WELFARE

Avoid all drugs and patent medicines. They will serve you false. The cause of decay of the teeth is in the general system not the mouth. Let me explain this to you.

DYEING AND CLEANING

WHEN IN NEED OF FIRST-CLASS DRY Cleaning, Dyeing or Repair Work, on the shortest notice, 'phone THE DON DRY CLEANING COMPANY, 402 Seventh Ave. West Phones M3135—M3906.

APPAREL SERVICE CO., DYERS, Cleaners of everything. 233 17 Ave. W. Phones M3150, W1533.

FURS AND LADIES' TAILORED HATS

WE ARE BUSY NOW IN THE FUR Remodelling Dept. What will it be in the season? So don't defer sending your furs to us; you will save time and money W. W. BELL LADIES' HATTER AND FURRIER 227 7th Ave. West, between 1st and 2nd Sts.

FOR SALE

FOR SALE, IF SOLD AT ONCE, FIVE slightly used Organs, prices $35.00 to $60.00. Terms if desired. These have been polished and tuned, and will be taken back inside of two years on a Willis Piano (Canada's Best) at the full price paid. Willis Pianos, peerless in tone, touch and finish. Alberta Showrooms, 325 8th Ave. West, Calgary. W. M. Howe, manager.

GASFITTING

WE BEG TO ANNOUNCE THE REopening of the Central Plumbing, Gasfitting and Heating Store on 1211 First Street East. Gas Stoves and Water Heaters connected and general repairs of every description. If you have anything in the above line, by patronizing me you are helping a returned Soldier. Phone M1265. E. C. Laurie.

HARDWARE

MARSHALL HARDWARE, LIMITED, 131 Eighth Avenue East. Main 6128

HAT WORKS

EMPIRE HAT WORKS HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED & REMODELLED 310 7th AVE. EAST PHONE M 6260

HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED AND REmodeled. Apparel Service Co. Phones M3150, W1533, 233 17 Ave. West. We call and deliver.

BOSTON HAT WORKS AND SHOE REPAIR SHOP HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED AND REshaped. Straws of every description Cleaned and Renovated. First-Class Shoe Repairing. All work guaranteed. Skates sharpened. All goods called for and delivered. Phone M4798.

HOTELS

QUEEN'S HOTEL Second Street East and Eighth Avenue FURNISHED ROOMS TO RENT BY DAY, week or month. Weekly rates from $2.75 to $5.000; monthly rates from $10.00 to $20.00. All outside rooms, warm and comfortable, most central location in city. B. A. Atkinson, Jr., proprietor.

HOMESTEADS OR FARM LANDS

REGON AND CALIFORNIA RAILROAD Co. Grant Lands—Titles to same revested in United Staes by act of Congress, dated June 9, 1916. Two million three hundred thousand acres to be opened for homesteads and sale. Timber and Agricultural Lands, containing some of best lands left in United States. Now is the opportune time. Large sectional map showing lands and description of soil, climate, rainfall, elevation, etc., postpaid One Dollar. Grant Lands Locating Co., Box 810, Portland, Oregon.

WANTED—to hear from owner of good farm for sale. Northwestern Business Agency, Minneapolis, Minn.

HELP WANTED

EN AND WOMEN TO LEARN BARBering. Highest wages, steady employment guaranteed. Tools furnished free. Send for free illustrated instruction book. CALGARY BARBER COLLEGE, 815B Centre Street (near C.P.R. Depot).

LADIES WANTED TO DO PLAIN AND light sewing at home, whole or spare time; good pay; work sent any distance; charges paid. Send stamp for particulars. National Manufacturing Company, Montreal 8-6

HIDES AND FURS

BEST MARKET PRICE FOR HIDES, FURS, WOOLS, PELTS AND HORSE HAIR, by the CANADIAN HIDE AND FUR COMPANY 510 Fourth Street East Phone M6589 Calgary We pay 3 cents per lb. for old rags. We pay 30c per pound for Horse Hair.

Use Electricity to Increase Production

Fields Are Wired in England and Ionized Air is Being Experimented With

Experiments on a large scale with the use of electricity to stimulate the growing of crops are among the British government's latest efforts to increase the country's food production.

The Department of Agriculture has taken over a large area near Hereford, where installations already have been set up for the use of ionized air produced by an electric discharge from a system of thin wire. A staff of agricultural experts under Prof. W. H. Blackman, of the Imperial College of Science and Technology will supervise the experiments.

How Crops Will Be Treated

Proposals for the use of ionized air in agriculture have aroused interest in England for the last fifteen years, and some experiments have been conducted on a small scale, but with inconclusive results. In the Hereford experiment, high tension alternating current is to be used. Spring wheat, barley, oats and clover will be dealt with, and fertilizers of various types also will be used.

The method adopted is to stretch over the field to be treated a number of thin wires or poles, something like low telegraph wires, but high enough for loaded wagons to pass underneath. The wires are supported by high tension insulators on posts in long parallel spans 30 feet apart.

Gives Details of the Plan

"The charge fizzes off from the wires," says one account, "with a sound which is sometimes audible, and with a glow which is visible in the dark. Any one walking about below the wires sometimes can feel the effect on the hair of the head, as of a cobweb on the face.

"The electricity does not act as a fertilizer, but as a substitute for sunlight. The current is only used in the early morning and in cloudy weather."

The initial cost of the apparatus for twenty-four acres is about $1,500 and the annual cost, including depreciation and labor, is about $300.

The electrification of crops is said to have been first suggested by a Swedish professor named Lemstron. While conducting experiments in his greenhouse with the object of producing an electric discharge similar to the Aurora Borealis, he noticed that the plants around seemed to thrive as a result of the electrification of the air.

FACTS AND FIGURES REGARDING CANADIAN PROGRESS

Here are some striking facts about Canada. The following figures should make every Canadian from coast to coast feel a thrill of pride, as well as a sense of the true proportions and prosperity which the country has attained:

Canada has the largest and richest nickel mines in the world.

Canada's grain crop yield, 1916, 808,054,000 bushels.

Canada's dairy production last year, $29,673,977, chiefly cheese. Increase of $6,721,417 in a year.

Canada's exports to Great Britain nearly trebled in first two years of the war.

Canada's enlistments up to November, 1916, 371,595.

Canada has now 13,348 postoffices.

Canada's estimated water power, contiguous to population centers, 17,750,000 horse power. Only 1,715,000 h.p. developed.

Canada has 3,059 grain elevators, 1,334 stations and 19 warehouses. Capacity, 180,988,000 bushels.

Canada's net registered vessel tonnage, 27,972,660. Ranks tenth among maritime nations.

Area sown to field crops, 1916, 24,510,070 acres.

Canada has 2,990,635 horses, cattle, sheep and swine.

Canada is as large as 30 United Kingdoms and 18 Germanys; twice the size of British India; almost as large as Europe.

Canada is larger in area than the United States, including Alaska, by 111,992 square miles (Canada, 3,729,665; United States and Alaska, 3,617,673).

HIGH CLASS CLOTHING

MRS. BRENNAND, PHONE M5187, DEALer in high class cast-off clothing. Samples in Ladies' Suits, Coats and Furs. Highest prices given. Mrs. Brennand, 810a First St. West. Alberta rooms.

ICE CREAM MANUFACTURERS

ICE CREAM IN BRICK AND BULK. Pure Goods. Prompt delivery P. PALLESEN Calgary Central Creamery Phone M5639

ANNOUNCEMENT

Any Standard reader patronizing advertisers on this page are guaranteed satisfactory service. If you make a purchase and the goods are not right consult The Standard. When you buy mention The Standard.

Population, rural, 3,925,502; urban, 3,281,141. Three-fourths of Canada's population is British born. Canada's 10-year population increase, 34 per cent.; United States' 24 per cent.

When Broadway Clocks Were Three Hours Ahead

(Continued from Page Nine)

highly disillusioned wife who became curious last week about her husband's sudden taste for Shakespeare and opened "Henry VIII" to find within the hollow covers a fine brand of rye.

In order to give the public the inside facts leading up to this great destruction of materials for Billy Sunday's sermon upon the sins of the great city the following interviews were obtained:

"Jack" Dunston, proprietor of Jack's—We have met a loss of $400 a day since the mayor's order. People are going to bed earlier. I don't mind, however, for I'm glad to get a rest.

Julius Keller, proprietor of Maxim's—We lost about $1,400 the first week. People do not have time to eat and drink after shows any longer. I estimate that one thousand waiters have been laid off in this city, with a proportionate number of night hack drivers and other night workers.

J. S. Lovenstein, manager of Montmartre—We have no kick to register. We have a table d'hote dinner for which people are coming earlier.

Silver Lining at Rector's

George Rector, proprietor of Rector's—We find that the loss of patronage at our late dinner is offset considerably by the increase of those who come for our 7 o'clock dinner. I believe we're all better off.

James Churchill, proprietor of Churchill's—We have an increase in our business of $300 a day since the closing order went into effect. We are now getting back to the real restaurant business and away from the theatrical.

Thomas Healy, proprietor of Healy's—I'm for the law. There is no restaurant man in New York City who will not forget his own material interests and be a thorough American. Concerning the main question—the effect on the morals and social welfare of the people—I fear the order will open up new channels for dissipation in other directions than when things were open and above board. The home life of this city may suffer.

G. Schult, manager of Reisenweber's—We are losing from $1,500 to $2,000 a night. Still, we feel that conditions warranter the mayor's action, and, while I believe that conditions will never be as good as they were, people are beginning to come in at 10 o'clock instead of 12, as formerly.

Marshal Joffre Is the Greatest French Genius

(Continued from Page Nine)

sist this strangling maneuver. Joffre took the chance of holding back the iron pressure with part of his forces while watching for the opportunity to throw the remainder in a hammer blow against the enemy claw from without.

The German armies were all in place when the hostilities began; the machine was complete in every part, and once set into motion, had only to be kept going. The French armies were not at all in being. Joffre preferred to wait and see. Against the German machine he had what is called in chess a combination; that is to say, against caution and method he opposed mind. He created one new army while in the full course of retreat and brought another army from his extreme right wing to play a decisive role in the center of his line. Nothing in the history of the war can rival for combined foresight and daring the gathering of the army of Bretons and Normans, the Sixth army, which Joffre first attempted to throw against the northern claw of the German pincers from Amiens. The attempt failed. But the army that was driven back around Amiens appeared within a few days around Paris. Thence it was thrown against Von Kluck's right wing on the Ourcq, and the Battle of the Marne was won.

The German plan of victory counted upon existing armies arriving at a certain place at a certain time. Joffre's plan depended upon the creation of a new army and its arrival where and when it was wanted. It is this evocation of an army from the void which gives the dramatic, the characteristically French touch, to the great event.

The conception of the battle had French imagination and dash; its execution revealed those marvelous powers of resiliency and endurance which have stirred the imagination of the world. The victory which saved the cause of international faith and democracy was won by men who rallied to the attack after five weeks of disaster and retreat. The men who were hurled back with bloody loss at Saarbruck stood like an iron wall against the kaiser's furious attacks before Nancy. The men who were beaten in Alsace came under Foch to shatter the Prussian Guard at La Fere Champenoise. The Breton and Norman territorials who gave way before Von Kluck around Amiens were the men who on the Ourcq carried out Joffre's injunctions to die in their tracks if they must, but not to give way. In the decisive moment French imagination was justified by French devotion.

For all Pain

"The efficiency of any drug" says Dr. C. P. Robbins "is known to us by the results we obtain from its use. If we are able to control pain and disease by means of any preparation, we certainly are warranted in its use. One of the principal symptoms of all diseases is pain, and this is what the patient most often applies to us for, i.e., something to relieve his pain. If we can arrest this promptly the patient is most liable to trust in us for the other remedies which will effect a permanent cure. One remedy which I have used largely in my practice is antikamina tablets. Many and varied are their uses. I have put them to the test on many occasions, and have never been disappointed. I found them especially valuable for headaches of malarial origin, where quinine was being taken. They appear to prevent the bad after-effects of the quinine. Anti-kamina tablets are also excellent for the headaches from improper digestion; also for headaches of a neuralgic origin, and especially for women subject to pains at certain times. Two anti-kamina tablets give prompt relief, and in a short time the patient is able to go about as usual."

A Real Improvement

The Sitting Position You Occupy When Sewing is a Very Important Matter

Your work is directly in front of you THE "WHITE" SIT-STRATE is only one of the many Real Improvements offered in the "WHITE"

You Can Have Yours Now, Just—

PAY $1.00 EACH WEEK—SOON PAID FOR

Sold by THE NEILSON FURNITURE CO., Calgary

JEWELERS

DIAMOND MERCHANTS AND MANUFACTURING JEWELERS AND OPTICIANS Issuers of Marriage Licenses D. E. BLACK & CO., LTD. Corner 7th Avenue and 1st Street West

LOCKSMITHS

IDDIOLS BROS., SAFE AND LOCK EXperts. We repair Bicycles, Sewing machines, Guns, Locks, Etc. We sharpen lawn mowers, saws, shears, razors, etc. 712 2nd Street East, City Hall Corner Blk. East. Phone M6516. 13-1yr

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT DEALERS

WESTERN MUSIC SUPPLY CO. Everything known in Music Supplies of all kinds for all instruments, Brass Band Instruments bought and sold. 405a Eighth Ave. West. Phone 3154, Calgary, Alta.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

D.E.BLACK & CO. LIMITED JEWELERS & OPTICIAN ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES LARGEST WATCH REPAIR BUSINESS IN WESTERN CANADA 2ND FLOOR CATALOGUE HERALD BUILDING CALGARY, ALBERTA

STANDARD'S MOTOR DIRECTORY

AUTO GARAGES

TRY THE WEST END GARAGE FOR Automobile Repairs; our work is superior at low cost, and satisfaction guaranteed. 12th Ave. and 5th St. West. 13-86

SECOND-HAND CARS BOUGHT AND Sold. We always have a good line of autos to make a good selection. Our Garage is second to none for Repairs and Supplies. WEBBER'S GARAGE 129 5th Avenue W. Phone M2883

MANUFACTURING FURRIER

FURS REMODELLED AND REPAIRED—Your own skins dressed and made up. Highest prices paid for raw furs. THOMAS PAIN, Successor to Mackay & Dipple, Fur Manufacturing Department 218A Eighth Avenue West Calgary.

MOUNT ROYAL COLLEGE CALGARY

ACADEMIC COURSES; BOOK-KEEPING and Stenography; Music, Expression, Art, Etc. Resident and Day Students. Open to all denominations and classes. Phone M2191. Calendar free on application.

NURSING HOMES

ENGLISH MATERNITY HOME—TERMS $20 per week inclusive. Graduate nurses supplied. Phone M3423. 812 2nd Ave. W.

OSTEOPATHY

DR. M. E. CHURCH, OSTEOPATHIC Physician and Surgeon; member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Alberta. Suites 7, 8, 9, Alberta Block Phones M2787 and W4999. All Curable Diseases Successfully Treated. Adenoids removed without anesthesia, the famous Irrigation Treatment used in the treatment of Catarrh. Going on Nine Years in Calgary.

OPTICIANS

HERBERT J. AKITT OPTOMETRIST & OPTICIAN PHONE M. 6150. MACLEAN BLOCK

PATENT SOLICITORS

FORD, WRIGHT & MILLER, PATENT Solicitors. Patents secured in all countries. Phone M6671. 207 Alberta Corner. Calgary, Alberta.

PIANOS

HARDY & HUNT PIANO CO., LIMITED 816 Eighth Ave. West. Main 1585.

PICTURE FRAMING

THE ART SHOP — PICTURE FRAMING a Specialty. 527 Seventh Ave. West J. W. BOOTH, Proprietor Four years with Royal Picture Gallery

PRINTING

A. R. LITTLEBURY, COMMERCIAL AND Book Printer; 105 Sixth Avenue West Phone M2207. Estimates given.

PHOTOGRAPHER

CHAZIN PHOTO STUDIO—PORTRAITURE enlarging, developing, printing, and commercial work. 7 Eighth Ave. West Phone M3923.

PHOTOGRAPHIC COLORING

FOR ENLARGING, COLORING, FRAMing Photos of all kinds, faded and damaged Enlargements and Pictures restored. The Colorphoto Co., 710 First St. East. Please mention the Standard.

SAFETY RAZORS SHARPENED

JUST TO CONVINCE YOU, SEND US three blades, we will resharpen them and return to you Free of charge. Our prices are: Gillette 35c per doz., and single edge blades 25c per doz., old fashioned razors 25c each. We sharpen Clippers Scissors and Lances of every description Give us a trial. THE CALGARY SHOE HOSPITAL 1239 Eighth Avenue West

SHOES REPAIRED

HIGH GRADE STOCK — MADE TO ORDER — EXPERT WORKMANSHIP — SHOES — THE DRI-PED CUSTOM SHOEMAKERS AND REPAIRERS 226 8th Ave East Calgary — SERVICE — SATISFACTION — SYSTEM

O. K. SHOE CO. Calgary's Leading Shoe Repairers Let Us Fix Your Shoes We Guarantee the Utmost Satisfaction Country Orders Receive Prompt Attention 710 First St. E. Phone M6078

VULCANIZED DOUBLE TREADS

PHONE M6755. NO STITCHES no bolts, no looseness, no extra weight; guaranteed 3,000 Miles. Red Star Vulcanizing Works, 103 Twelfth Avenue East. 13-1yr

VULCANIZING

We are specialists in vulcanizing everything in rubber. We are agents for the famous Firestone Tire. Don't forget the address: BELL TIRE CO., 602 First Street East Phone M5905 Res. M4702

STATIONERY AND OFFICE SUPPLIES

WILLSON STATIONERY CO., LIMITED, 215 Eighth Avenue West,—Everything in Stationery and Office Supplies. The most complete stock in Western Canada.

SECOND-HAND DEALERS

CHICAGO IRON AND METAL CO. 501-503 Sixth Ave. E., corner 4th St. Phone M4448. Dealers in Scrap Iron, Brass, Copper, Zinc and Lead, Rubber Tires and Inner Tubes, also Manilla Rope and all kinds of Old Machinery. It will be to your convenience to see us. Phone, call or write. MAX RUBEN, Manager.

STORAGE AND CARTAGE

STORAGE AND CARTAGE FOR ANY kind of goods. Warehouse specially fitted for household merchandise, each customer having separate rooms. Trackage. Padded vans for furniture and pianos. Expert packers and shippers. Estimates cheerfully given Official cartage and baggage agents C.N.R JOHNSTON STORAGE & CARTAGE CO Phone M4444 and M5678. Limited Office and Warehouse 423 Sixth Ave. East

CALGARY STORAGE & CARTAGE CO LIMITED 437 TENTH AVENUE EAST PHONE M1349 Storage for all classes of Merchandise, including Cold Storage Equipment; Separate Compartments for Furniture, Pianos; Padded Furniture Vans; Packers, Forwarders. Baggage Delivered. Trackage for car lots.

TAILORS

SANDY MACLEAN Alterations, Tailoring, Repairs, Cleaning and Pressing Suits made to measure from $18 to $35 433 Lougheed Building, over Grand Theatre—Phone M6506. Calgary, Alberta

UNDERTAKING PARLORS

GRAHAM, McCALL AND RUTTLE LTD. FUNERAL DIRECTORS Horse and Motor Equipment, Ambulance in connection. 611 Centre St. Phone M3788

VIOLINS AND VIOLONCELLOS

JAS. J. DOHERTY Violin Repairer and Appraiser, Tone Restored, Bows Rehaired. Brass Band Instruments Repaired. 405a Eighth Ave West. Phone 3154, Calgary, Alta.

ROSEDALE STAR

LUMP $6.00
STOVE $5.25

Stock up now before the raise in price.

YORK SHAW 238 Eighth Ave. East Phone M6423

PARCEL POST RATES

Any P. O. within twenty miles of Calgary, five cents for the first lb. and one cent additional for each additional lb. up to five lbs. when the rate is two cents for each additional lb. up to eleven lbs. To any P.O. beyond 20 miles but within the radius of Alberta, ten cents for the first lb. and four cents for each additional lb. To any P. O. in Saskatchewan ten cents for the first lb. and six cents additional for each additional lb.. To any P. O. in Manitoba, twelve cents for the first lb. and eight cents for each additional lb.

HOME
CLASSIFIED
BUSINESS
GUIDE

TOR DIRECTORY

VULCANIZED DOUBLE TREADS

PHONE M6755. NO STITCHES no bolts, no looseness, no extra weight; guaranteed 3,000 Miles. Red Star Vulcanizing Works, 103 Twelfth Avenue East. 15-1yr

VULCANIZING

We are specialists in vulcanizing everything in rubber. We are agents for the famous Firestone Tire. Don't forget the address: BELL TIRE CO., 602 First Street East. Phone M5905 Res. M4702

STATIONERY AND OFFICE SUPPLIES

WILLSON STATIONERY CO., LIMITED, 215 Eighth Avenue West.—Everything in Stationery and Office Supplies. The most complete stock in Western Canada.

SECOND-HAND DEALERS

CHICAGO IRON AND METAL CO. 501-503 Sixth Ave. E., corner 4th St. Phone M4448.

Dealers in Scrap Iron, Brass, Copper, Zinc and Lead, Rubber Tires and Inner Tubes, also Manilla Rope and all kinds of Old Machinery. It will be to your convenience to see us. Phone, call or write. MAX RUBEN, Manager.

STORAGE AND CARTAGE

STORAGE AND CARTAGE FOR ANY kind of goods. Warehouse specially fitted for household merchandise, each customer having separate rooms. Trackage. Padded vans for furniture and pianos. Expert packers and shippers. Estimates cheerfully given. Official cartage and baggage agents C.N.R. JOHNSTON STORAGE & CARTAGE CO Phone M4444 and M5678. Limited Office and Warehouse 423 Sixth Ave. East

CALGARY STORAGE & CARTAGE CO LIMITED 437 TENTH AVENUE EAST PHONE M1852

Storage for all classes of Merchandise, including Cold Storage Equipment; Separate Compartments for Furniture, Pianos; Padded Furniture Vans; Packers, Forwarders. Baggage Delivered. Trackage for car lots.

TAILORS

SANDY MACLEAN
Alterations, Tailoring, Repairs, Cleaning and Pressing
Suits made to measure from $18 to $35
433 Lougheed Building, over Grand Theatre—Phone M6506.
Calgary, Alberta

UNDERTAKING PARLORS

GRAHAM, McCALL AND RUTTLE LTD. FUNERAL DIRECTORS.
Horse and Motor Equipment, Ambulance in connection.
811 Centre St. Phone M3789

VIOLINS AND VIOLONCELLOS

JAS. J. DOHERTY
Violin Repairer and Appraiser, Tone Restored, Bows Rehaired. Brass Band Instruments Repaired. 405a Eighth Ave. West. Phone 3154, Calgary, Alta.

ROSEDALE STAR
LUMP $6.00
STOVE $5.25
Stock up now before the raise in price.
YORK SHAW
238 Eighth Ave. East
Phone M6423

PARCEL POST RATES

Any P. O. within twenty miles of Calgary, five cents for the first lb. and one cent additional for each additional lb. up to five lbs. when the rate is two cents for each additional lb. up to eleven lbs. To any P.O. beyond 20 miles but within the radius of Alberta, ten cents for the first lb. and four cents for each additional lb. To any P. O. in Saskatchewan ten cents for the first lb. and six cents additional for each additional lb.. To any P. O. in Manitoba, twelve cents for the first lb. and eight cents for each additional lb.

The Adventurous Career of Constance Dunlap

THE GAMBLERS

By ARTHUR B. REEVE.

(Concluded from last week).

Over and over he turned the answer he had intended to make. He caught her eye again and knew that it was of no use.

"Yes," he muttered, as a cloud spread over his face at not being able, as usual, to let the gay life put the truth out of his mind. "Yes, I have been using—their funds."

As if a switch had been turned, the light broke on Constance. She saw herself face to face with one of the dark shadows in the great city of high lights.

"How?" she asked simply, leaning forward over the table.

There was no resisting her. Quickly he told her all.

"At first with what little money of my own I had I played. Then I began to sign I O U's and notes. Now I have been taking blank stock certificates, some of those held as treasury stock in the company's safe. They have never been issued, so that by writing in the signatures of myself and the other officers necessary, I have been able to use it to pay off my losses in gambling."

As he unfolded to her the plan which he had adopted, Constance listened in amazement.

"And you know that you are watched," she repeated, changing the subject, and sensing rather than seeing that Drummond was watching them.

"Yes," he continued freely. "The International Surety, in which I'm bonded, has a sort of secret service of its own, I understand. It is the eye that is never closed, but is screened from the man under bond. When you go into the Broadway night life too often, for instance," he pursued, waving his hand about at the gay tables, "run around in fast motors with faster company—well, they know it. Who is watching, I do not know. But with me it will be as it has been when others came to the end. Some day they will come to me, and they are going to say, 'We don't like your conduct. Where do you get this money?' They will know, then, too. But before that times comes I want to win, to be in a position to tell them to go——"

Halsey clenched his fist. It was evident he did not intend to quit, no matter what the odds were against him.

Constance thought of the silent figure of Drummond at the other table—watching, watching. She felt sure that it was to him that the Surety Company had turned over the work of shadowing Halsey. Day after day, probably, the unobtrusive detective had been trailing Halsey from the moment he left his apartment until the time when he returned, if he did return. There was nothing of his goings and comings that was not already an open book to them. Of what use was it, then, for Halsey to fight?

It was a situation such as she delighted in. She had made up her mind. She would help Haddon Halsey to beat the law.

Already it seemed as if he knew that their positions had been reversed. He had started in to warn her; she now was saving him.

Yet even then he showed the better side of his nature.

"There is some one else, Mrs. Dunlap," he remarked earnestly, 'who needs your help even more than I do."

It had cost him something to say that. He had not been able to accept her help, even under false pretences. Eagerly he watched to see whether jealousy of the other woman played any part with her.

"I understand," she said with a hasty glance at her watch and a covert look at Drummond. "Let us go. If we are to win we must keep our heads clear. I shall see you tomorrow.

For hours during the rest of the night Constance tossed fitfully in half sleep, thinking over the problem she had assumed.

How was she to get at the inside truth of what was going on across the hall? That was the first question.

In her perplexity, she rose and looked out of the window at the now lightening gray of the courtyard. There dangled the LeMar telephone wire, only a few feet from her own window.

Suddenly an idea flashed over her. In her leisure she had read much and thought more. She recalled having heard of a machine that just fitted her needs.

As soon as she was likely to find places of business open Constance started out on her search. It was early in the forenoon before she returned, successful. The machine which she had had in mind proved to be an oak box, perhaps eighteen inches long, by half the width, and a foot deep. On its face it bore a little dial. Inside there appeared a fine wire on a spool, which unwound gradually by clockwork, and, after passng through a peculiar small arrangement, was wound up on another spool. Flexible silk-covered copper wires led from the box.

Carefully Constance reached across the dizzy intervening space, and drew in the slack LeMar telephone wires. With every care she cut into them as if she were making an extension, and attached the wires from the box.

Perhaps half an hour later the door buzzer sounded. Constance could scarcely restrain her surprise as Mrs. Lansing Noble stepped in quickly and shut the door herself.

"I don't want her to know I'm here," she whispered, nodding across the hall.

"Won't you take off your things?" asked Constance cordially.

"No, I can't stay," returned the visitor nervously, pausing.

Constance wondered why she had come. Was she, too, trying to warn a newcomer against the place?

She said nothing, but now that the effort had been made and the little woman had gone actually so far, she felt the reaction. She sank down into an easy chair and rested her pretty head on her delicately gloved hand.

"Oh, Mrs. Dunlap," she began convulsively, "I hope you will pardon an entire stranger for breaking in on you so informally—but—but I can't—I can't help it. I must tell some one."

Accustomed as she was now to strange confidences. Constance bent over and patted the little hand of Mrs. Noble comfortingly.

"You seemed to take it so coolly," went on the other woman. "For me the glamor ,the excitement are worse than champagne. But you could stop, even when you were winning. Oh, my God! What am I to do? What will happen when my husband finds out what I have done?"

Tearfully, the little woman poured out the sordid story of her fascination for the game, of her losses, of the pawning of her jewels to pay her losses and keep them secret, if only for a few days, until that mythical time when luck would change.

"When I started," she blurted out with a bitter little laugh. "I thought I'd make a little pin money. That's how I began—with that and the excitement. And now this is the end."

She had risen and was pacing the floor wildly.

"Mrs. Dunlap," she cried, pausing before Constance, "today I am nothing more nor less than a 'capper,' as they call it, for a gambling resort."

She was almost hysterical. The contrast with the gay, respectable, prosperous-looking woman at Bella's was appaling. Constance realized to the full what were the tragedies that were enacted elsewhere.

As she looked at the despairing woman, she could reconstruct the terrible situation. Cultivated, well-bred, fashionably gowned, a woman like Mrs. Noble served admirably the purpose of luring men on. If there had been only women or only men involved, it perhaps would not have been so bad. But there were both. Constance saw that men were wanted, men who could afford to lose not hundreds, but thousands, men who are always the heaviest players. And so Mrs. Noble and other unfortunate women no doubt were sent out on Broadway to the cafes and restaurants, sent out even among those of their own social circle always to lure men on, to involve themselves more and more in the web into which they had flown. Bella had hoped even to use Constance!

Mrs. Noble had paused again. There was evident sincerity in her as she looked deeply into the eyes of Constance.

Nothing but desperation could have wrung her inmost secrets from her to another woman.

"I saw them trying to throw you together with Haddon Halsey," she said, almost tragically. "It was I who introduced Haddon to them. I was to get a percentage of his losses to pay off my own—but—"—her feelings seemed to overcome her and wildly, desperately, she added—"but I can't—I can't. I—I must rescue him—I must."

It was a strange situation. Constance reasoned it out quickly. What a wreck of life these two were making! Not only they were involved, but others who as yet knew nothing, Mrs. Noble's husband, the family of Halsey. She must help.

"Mrs. Noble," said Constance calmly, 'can you trust me?"

She shot a quick glance at Constance. "Yes," she murmured.

"Then tonight visit Mrs. Le Mar as though nothing had happened. Meanwhile I will have thought out a plan."

It was late in the afternoon when Constance saw Halsey again, this time in his office, where he had been waiting impatiently for some word from her. The relief at seeing her only too plainly on his face.

"This inaction is killing me," he remarked huskily. "Has anything happened today?"

She said nothing about the visit of Mrs. Noble. Perhaps it was better that each should not know yet that the other was worried.

'Yes," she replied, "much has happened. I cannot tell you now. But tonight let us all go again as though nothing had occurred."

"They have twenty-five thousand dollars in stock certificates already which I have given them," he remarked anxiously.

Some way—any way, you must get them back for a time. Let me see some of the blanks."

Halsey shut the door. From a secret drawer of his desk he drew a package of beautifully engraved paper.

Constance looked at it a moment. Then with a fountain pen, across the front of each, she made a few marks Halsey looked on eagerly. As she handed them back to him not a sign showed on any part of them.

"You must tell them that there is something wrong with the others, that you will give them other certificates of your own about which there is no question. Tell them anything to get them back. Here take this other fountain pen, sign the new certificates with that, in their presence so that they will suspect nothing. Tonight I shall expect you to play up to the lim it, to play Mrs. Noble's hand and assume her losses, too. I shall meet you there at nine."

Constance had laid her plans quickly. That night she waited in her own apartment until she heard Halsey enter across the hall. She had determined to give him plenty of time to obtain the old forged certificates and substitute for them the new forgeries.

Perhaps half an hour later she heard Mrs. Noble enter. As Constance followed her in, the effusive greeting of Bella LeMar showed that as yet she suspected nothing. A quick glance at Halsey brought an answering nod and an unconscious motion toward his pocket where he had stuffed the old certificates carelessly.

A moment later they had plunged into the game. The play that night was spirited. Soon the limit was the roof.

From the start things seemed to run against Halsey and Mrs. Noble even worse than before. At the same time fortune seemed to favor Constance. Again and again she won, until even Watson seemed to think there was something uncanny about it.

"Beginner's luck," remarked Bella with a forced laugh.

Still Constance won, not much, but steadily, though not enough to offset the larger winnings of Watson.

Fast and furious became the play and as steadily did it go against Halsey. Mrs. Noble retired, scarcely repressing the tears. Constance dropped out. Only Halsey and Watson remained, fighting as if it were a duel to the death.

"Please stop, Halsey," pleaded Mrs. Noble. "What is the use of tempting fortune?"

An insane half light seemed to gow in his eyes as, with a quick glance at Constance and a covert nod of approval from her, he forced a smile and playfully laid his finger on Mrs. Noble's lips.

'Double or quits, Watson," he cried "Return the new certificates or take others for twice the amount. Are you game?"

"I'm on," agreed Watson coolly.

Halsey laid down his hand in triumph. There were four kings.

"I win," ground out Watson viciously, as he tossed down four aces.

Constance was on her feet in a moment.

"You are a lot of cheats and swindlers," she cried, seizing the cards before any one could interfere.

Deftly she laid out the four aces beside the four deuces, the four kings beside the four queens. It was done so quickly that even Halsey, in his amazement, could find nothing to say. As for Bella and Watson, nothing could have aroused them more than the open charge that they were using false devices.

Yet never for a moment did Watson lose his iron cynicism.

"Prove it," he demanded. "As for Mr. Halsey, he may pay or I'll show the stock I already hold to the proper people."

Constance was facing Watson, as calm as he.

"Show it," she said quietly.

There was a knock at the door.

"Don't let any one in," ordered Bella of the maid, who had already opened the door.

A man's foot had been inserted into the opening. "What's the matter, Chloe?"

"Good Lawd. Mis' Bella—we done been raided!" burst out the maid as the door flew wholly open.

Halsey staggered back. "A detective!" he exclaimed.

"Oh, what shall I do?" wailed Mrs. Noble. "My husband will never forgive me if this becomes known."

Bella was as calm as a good player with a royal straight flush.

"I've caught you at last," fairly hissed Drummond. "And you, too, Mrs. Dunlap. Watson, I overheard something about some stock. Let me see it. I think it will interest International Surety as well as Exporters and Manufacturers."

Through the still open door Constance had darted across the hall to her apartment.

"Not so fast," cried Drummond. "You can't escape. The front door is guarded. You can't get out."

She was gone, but a moment later emerged from the darknuess of her rooms, carrying the oak box.

As she set it down on the card table, no one said a word. Deliberately she opened the box, disclosing two spools of wire inside. To the machine she attached several head pieces such as a telephone operator wears. She turned a switch and the wire began to unroll from one spool and wind up on the other again.

A voice, or rather voices, seemed to come from the box itself. It was uncanny.

"Hello, is this Mrs. LeMar?" came from it.

"What is it?" whispered Halsey, as if fearful of being overheard.

"A telegraphone," replied Constance, shutting it off for a moment.

"A machine for registering tele- " machine for registering telephone conversations, dictation, anything of the sort you wish. It was invented by Valdemar Poulsen, the Danish Edison. This is one of his new wire machines. The record is made by a new process, localized charges of magnetism on this wire. It is as permanent as the wire itself. There is only one thing that can destroy them—rubbing over the wire with this magnet. Listen."

She had started the machine again. Whose voice was it calling Bella? Constance was looking fixedly at Drummond. He shifted uneasily.

"How much is he in for now?" pursued the voice.

Halsey gasped. It was Drummond's own voice.

"Two hundred and fifty shares," replied Bella's voice.

"Good. Keep at him. Don't lose him. Tonight I'll drop in."

"And your client will make good," she asked anxiously.

"Absolutely. We will pay five thousand dollars for the evidence that will convict him."

Constance's little audience was stunned. But she did not let the telegraphone pause. Skipping some unimportant calls, she began again.

This was a call from Bella to Watson.

'Ross, that fellow Drummond called up today."

"Yes?"

"He is going to pull it off tonight. His client will make good—five thousand if they catch Halsey with the goods. How about it?"

"Pretty soft—eh, Bella." came back from Watson.

"My God! it's a plant!" exclaimed Halsey, staggering and dropping heavily into a chair. "I'm ruined. There is no way out!"

"Wait," interrupted Constance. "Here's another call. It may serve to explain why luck was with me tonight. I came prepared."

"Yes, Mrs. LeMar," came another call. It may serve to explain why luck was with me tonight. I came prepared."

"eYs, Mrs. LeMar," came another strange voice from the machine. "We'd do anything for Mr. Watson. What is it—a pack of strippers?"

"Yes. The aces stripped from the ends, the kings from the sides."

The group looked eagerly at Constance.

"From the maker of fake gambling apparatus, I find," she explained, shutting off the machine. "They were ordering from him cards cut or trimmed so that certain ones could be readily drawn from the deck, or 'stripped.' Small wedge-shaped strips are trimmed off the edges of all the other cards, leaving the aces, say, projecting just the most minute fraction of an inch beyond the others. Everything is done carefully. The rounded edges at the corners are recut to look right. When the cards are shuffled the aces protrude a trifle over the edges of the other cards. It is a simple matter for the dealer to draw or strip out as many aces as he wants stack them on the bottom of the pack as he shuffles the cards, and draw them from the bottom whenever he wants them. Strippers are one of the newest things in swindling. Marked cards are out of date. But some decks have the aces stripped from the ends, the kings from the sides. With this pack, as you can see, a sucker can be dealt out the kings, while the house player gets the aces."

Drummond brazened it out. With a muttered oath he turned to Watson again. 'What rot is this. The stock, Watson," he repeated. "Where is that stock I heard them talking about?"

Mrs. Noble, forgetting all now but Halsey, paled. Bella LeMar was fumbling at her gold mesh bag. She gave a sudden, suppressed little scream.

"Look!" she cried. "They are blank—those stock certificates he gave me."

Drummond seized them roughly from her hands.

Where the signatures should have been there was nothing at all!

Across the face of the stock were the words in deep black, "SAMPLE CERTIFICATE," written in angular, feminine hand.

What did it mean ? Halsey was as amazed as any of them. Mechanically he turned to Constance.

"I didn't say anything last night," she remarked incisively. "But I had my suspicions from the first. I always look out for the purry kind of 'my dear' woman. They have claws. Last night I watched. Today I learned—learned that you, Mr. Drummond, were nothing but a blackmailer, using these gamblers to do your dirty work. Haddon, they would have thrown you out like a squeezed lemon as soon as the money you had was gone. They would have taken the bribe that Drummond offered for the stock—and they would have left you nothing but jail. I learned all that over the telegraphone. I learned their methods and knowing them, even I could not be prevented from winning tonight.

Halsey moved as if to speak. "But," he asked eagerly, "the stock certificates—what of them?"

"The stock!" she answered with deliberation. "Did you ever hear that writing in quinoline will appear blue, but will soon fade away, while other writing in silver nitrate and ammonia, invisible at first, after a few hours appears black? You wrote on those certificates in sympathetic ink that fades. I in ink that comes up soon."

Mrs. Noble was crying softly to herself. They still had her notes for thousands.

Halsey saw her. Instantly he forgot his own case. What was to be done about her? He telegraphed a mute appeal to Constance, forgetful of himself now. Constance was fingering the switch of the telegraphone.

"Drummond," remarked Constance significantly, as though other secrets might still be contained in the marvelous little mechanical detective. "Drummond, don't you think, for the sake of your own reputation as a detective, it might be as well to keep this thing quiet?"

For a moment the detective gripped his wrath and seemed to consider the damaging record of his conversation with Bella LeMar.

"Perhaps," he agreed sullenly.

Constance reached into her chatelaine. From it she drew an ordinary magnet, and slowly pulled off the armature.

"If I run this over the wires," she hinted, holding it near the spools, "the record will be wiped out." She paused impressively. "Let me have those I O U's of Mrs. Noble's. By the way, you might as well give me that blank stock, too. There is no use in that, now."

As she laid the papers in a pile on the table before her she added the old forged certificates from Halsey's pocket. There it lay, the incriminating, ruining evidence.

Deliberately she passed the magnet over the thin steel wire, wiping out what it had recorded, as if the recording angel were blotting out from the book of life.

"Try it, Drummond," she cried, dropping on her knees before the open fireplace. "You will find the wire a blank."

There was a hot, sudden blaze as the pile of papers from the table flared up.

"There," she exclaimed. "These gambling debts were not even debts of honor. If you will call a cab, Haddon, I have reserved a table at Jack's for you and Mrs. Noble. It is a farewell. Drummond will not occupy his place in the corner tonight. But—after it—you are to forget—both of you—forever. You understand?"

[THE END]

MONUMENT TO BUFFALO BILL

The National Monument to Col. William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) on Lookout Mountain, Denver, where he will be buried, the spectator can see parts of four States: Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska and Kansas, where his famous exploits as Scout and Hunter were performed.

PROVERBS ADAPTED FOR WAR TIME

Waste not, want not!
Cherish thy parings.
H. C. of L. is the whine of life.
A word to the wives is: "Emcient."
If the shoe fits, keep on wearing it.
Better no garbage can than a full one.
A fool and his garden are soon parted.
It's a wise father that owns his own crop.
Beauty is less than skin deep—in a potato.
A full dinner pail, but leave room for the cover.
"He becometh poor that dealeth with a slack hand."
Bread, scattered from the door, is the chaff of life.
Bread cast upon the oven will return as cottage pudding.
What comes up must stay up—if it's fenced from the chicks.
Eat to live; the grocer needs an eight hour day for a change.
Weigh the groceries coming in and they'll find the way harder out.
When prosperity flies in at the window, garbage slips out at the door.
If he giveth an inch, take an ell—and plant the last row to radishes.
A tempest in a teapot costs even less, but it doesn't go as far as a stew in a kettle.
Do your bit by letting the garbage man get the kink out of his back.
This season there is little use for either the weevil or the deep blue pea.
Cherish thy father and thy mother; likewise thy knife—and use it prudently.
What matters though the luscious tomato be neither fish nor flesh nor fowl.
"He also that is slothful in his work is brother to him that is a great waster."
"Much food is in the tillage of the poor; but there is that which is destroyed for want of judgment."

SLAVIN HAIR GROWER

The only preparation on the market that will Positively Cure Dandruff, Falling Hair, and Grow Hair on Bald Heads. Endorsed by scores of Calgary people.

PRICE $1.00 PER BOX
With Full Instructions.
319 BRUNER BLOCK

Calgary Furniture Hospital

We Will Trade Good Furniture for Old or Damaged, or Pay Highest Cash Prices.

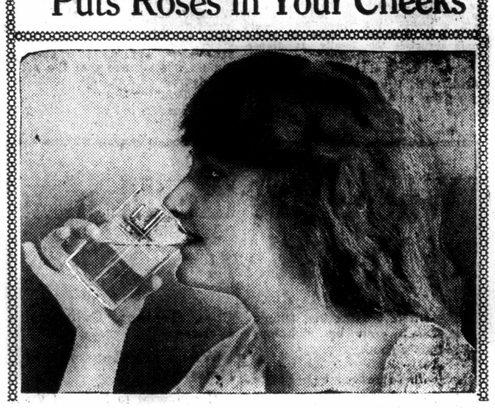
We invite those who have not dealt here, to visit us, and give us an opportunity to show you what we do for our customers.

1312 First St. W. Phone M4670

GUARANTEED DENTISTRY

During the 16 years I have been practicing dentistry in Calgary I have treated hundreds of patients. I have had the satisfaction of building up a large practice through the personal recommendation of my clients. My motto is the same today as it has been in the past, to give guaranteed dentistry at prices within the reach of all.

I specialize in all the up-to-date painless methods known to the best dental practitioners and am an expert in fitting plates and bridgework.



I buy for cash, and having no rent to pay, give my patients the benefit of my services at prices that cannot be dupicated elsewhere.

Remember, we stand behind the guarantee of efficient service.

OPEN EVENINGS.

DR. FRANKLIN EDMONDS
TWELFTH AVENUE AND FIRST STREET WEST
PHONE M3686. Opposite Pryce-Jones' Store.

Hot Water Each Morning Puts Roses in Your Cheeks

To look one's best and feel one's best is to enjoy an inside bath each morning to flush from the system the previous day's waste, sour fermentations and poisonous toxins before it is absorbed into the blood. Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken each day leave in the alimentary organs a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not eliminated, form toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which are intended to suck in only nourishment to sustain the body.

If you want to see the glow of healthy bloom in your cheeks, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, you are told to drink every morning upon arising, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless means of washing the waste material and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Girls and women with sallow skins, liver spots pimples or pallid complexion, also those who wake up with a coated tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, others who are bothered with headaches, bilious spells, acid stomach or constipation should begin this phosphated hot water drinking and are assured of very pronounced results in one or two weeks.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store but it is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs We must always consider that internal sanitation is vastly more important than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do no absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

Women who desire to enhance the beauty of their complexion should just try this for a week and notice results.

A FROCK O' STEELY HUE.

Mat brass bands, but bands of steel gray taffeta herald her approach when she walks abroad in her newest afternoon frock. No less than five such bands enhance the charm of the skirt, while two narrower bands lend grace to the simple little bodice. A deep cuff of gray taffeta finished with a dare ruffle of crepe Georgette, completes the sleeve. The frock by the way is of crepe Georgette wherever it is not of taffeta. Cut steel buttons bedeck the front of the blouse and a narrow throw sash boasts two shimmery tassels of cut steel.

Furnishing the Nursery

A CHARMING nursery is so easy to achieve at moderate cost that the young mother should not be discouraged because of the luxuriously furnished apartments for infants, on which she feasts her longing eyes in magazine pictures and in model rooms arranged in the big shops. Of course, one may spend a thousand dollars fitting up an appropriate room for the little stranger who is coming—if one has the thousand dollars and such a room seems becoming to the rank and station of its future small occupant. Every baby is priceless to its fond parents, but very few babies would be fittingly housed in thousand-dollar nurseries—at least the said fond parents would feel a bit out of place, visiting their offspring in such sumptuous surroundings.

Charm in the nursery is not so much a question of money as of taste, and a very pretty room may be devised with the expenditure of only a few dollars. First, and most important, is the matter of sunshine. To the baby must be given the sunniest room in the house, even if it is the chamber that has heretofore been set apart as a guest room. The more windows the better, and an ideal arrangement is a long, low seat running under the sills. Warmth is another important consideration. An even, equable heat must be maintained all day long in the nursery. Spasmodic heating from an open fire, oil stove or gas burner will not do; though an open fire will be a delightful addition to the nursery if it can be managed and an oil or gas heater may be called into use at bath hour on specially cold mornings. But furnace heat of some sort there should be, all winter long.

Floor draughts must be avoided. Weather strips should be put in all the windows and also along the bottom of doors opening into the hall or other rooms. Sometimes in old or poorly built houses a draught makes its way between floor and baseboard and any crevice of this sort should be attended to. One large, soft rug is better than several small ones, and the rug should be heavy enough to keep its place on the floor and not rumple up under active little feet or drag about when toys or chairs are moved.

Posing as a Fashionable "Day-Bed" Nis This Luxuriously Draped Crib With Adjustable Side.

Everything should be planned for fresh, sweet cleanliness. And the nursery should be given a thorough cleaning oftener than any other room in the house. A big rug, for this reason, is much better than a nailed down carpet; and woodwork should be white or very light in color so that a weekly washing will be necessary for the sake of looks at least. Marks of little fingers and boots will not show on dark woodwork and a careless maid will be tempted to forego the weekly wiping down of the walls, sills and door frames. Only such curtains and hangings as can be readily taken down and laundered should adorn the nursery windows, and it will be best to have two sets of shades; white or pale tan shades for use during the day, and dark green shades for night use and for afternoon nap hour. Children will sleep later in the morning in a well darkened room; like the birds they are awake and a-twitter with the first peep o' light—a habit most distressing to worn out parents who yearn for another forty winks in the early morning.

Yellow, the sun color, is the ideal tint for a nursery. Pale yellow, orange, a touch of blue, and white in woodwork, make a delightful color scheme. Pink, should be avoided in the nursery, and lavender is a color that does not appeal either. An enchanting nursery that the Scribe knows of has white woodwork and walls tinted light yellow from picture moulding to within four feet of the baseboard, and deep yellow below. Between the two yellows runs a two-inch strip of gray and just above the strip all around the room are pasted pictures of animals, birds and children; some in motion, some at rest. The pictures have been clipped from picture books, magazine advertisements and the like; some are in color, some in printed black and white, and some in silhouette effect—all black. Now and then a new treasure is added above the "picture rail" and the little folks never tire of their fascinating gallery. This pale yellow and white room has a rug in yellow, brown and blue tones, blue and white cretonnes in the windows and chair and window seat cushions in plain yellow. There is a fireplace with black andirons and a cozy fireside chair with broad arms for the snuggling-up story-telling hour at dusk.

Yellow is a rather strident hue for the wee baby whose divine right seems to be pink or blue; but the very little baby seldom has a special nursery all to itself. By the time it comes to crib and nursery age, pink and blue have become a bit passe. Part of a very luxurious nursery, however, is the baby's bed pictured—part of such a nursery as every little mother dreams of for the incalculable treasure that is hers. The dainty crib, made of enameled wicker and with adjustable sides that may be let down when convenient, stands in a room whose be perhaps. The only things I would walls are hung with palest blue satin dn which are festoons of pink roses. The woodwork is cream enamel and all the furniture is cream enamel wicker, the pretty crib, the fire screen with panels of pale blue silk, the low chairs cushioned also in pale blue, and all the small belongings for baby's comfort. There is even a diminutive cheval mirror framed in cream enamel and if the occupant of the room is a girl baby one is sure her first uncertain steps will be taken in the direction of that fascinating mirror! There is also a little padded chair—the tiny wicker chair in which every baby from time immemorial has learned to sit up. Seat, back and arms of this chair are padded with pale blue silk and the tray is of cream enameled wood.

The crib has been turned into a day-bed—for every baby, if she is fashionable, must have her luxurious day-bed just now. The drapery is of rose-flowered white chiffon over pale blue soiree silk, with an edge-trimming of net frilling. The down quilt is covered with pale blue soiree silk embroidered delicately in white and pink, and the small pillows have embroidered mull slips over blue silk.

Small belongings for the baby are in keeping with the crib and mirror. There are ribbon trimmed hangers for tiny coats, a white enameled "tree" for baby's night clothes when not in use, and wicker wardrobes and little frocks and petticoats; all the chiffoniers for the safe keeping of little frocks and petticoats; all the receptacles lined with padded and perfumed silk. A little washstand of enameled wood is supplied with a Kate Greenaway set of china and even the toilet appurtenances—the brush, comb and powder jars, are in cream, pink and pale blue.

The Only Grand Prize (Highest Award) given to Dictionaries at the Panama-Pacific Exposition was granted to

WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL

FOR Superiority of Educational Merit.

This new creation answers with final authority all kinds of puzzling questions such as "How is Przemysl pronounced?" "Where is Flanders?" "What is a continuous voyage?" "What is a howitzer?" "What is white coal?" "How is skat pronounced?" and thousands of others.

More than 400,000 Vocabulary Terms. 30,000 Geographical Subjects. 12,000 Biographical Entries. Over 6000 illustrations. 2700 Pages. The only dictionary with the divided page—a stroke of genius.

Regular and India-Paper Editions.

Write for specimen pages, illustrations, etc. Free, a set of Pocket Maps if you name this paper.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Springfield, Mass.

PRUDENCE OF THE PARSONAGE

THE FAMOUS STORY OF A HAPPY FAMILY

By Ethel Hueston

COPYRIGHT 1915 BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

SYNOPSIS

Mr. Starr, minister, arrives in Mount Mark to take charge of the Methodist diocese, he is a widower with five children, all girls, namely, Prudence, the eldest, who mothers the rest of the family, who include, Fary, Connie and Carol and Lark, who are twins. The girls all go to school and are particularly clever.

The twins, though very lovable and obedient children, are very mischievous, and often embarrass Prudence and Fairy.

Every one in the parish admires Prudence for her sweet and womanly disposition. Professor Rayburn, of the college, a suitor for her hand, but Prudence refuses him, considering her home and the bringing up of the family, her particular duty.

Owing to Mount Mark being a small parish and the congregation rather slack about money matters, the parsonage family have quite a hard time to make ends meet. Fairy and Prudence make over an old coat of their fathers for Connie, who always comes in for the left-overs, being the smallest, this being a particular disappointment, as she was promised a new coat. Connie calls on Mr. Harold, the president of the bank, and asks for a loan of $5.00, explaining the situation to him and promising to pay it back in two years, a nickle at a time. Mr. Hasold tells her he is proud to have her trade. Connie surprises the family at dinner-time by producing the $5.00.

After that, Prudence lay back happily on the pillows and smoothed the lace on her mother's silk dressing gown.

"Talk to me," she said, "tell me about where you live, and what you do,—your work, you know, and how you amuse yourself. I want you to amuse me now, Mr. Harmer."

"You called me Jerry this morning."

"Yes, I know. Do you want me to call you Jerry still?"

"Yes, Prudence, I do. Do you mind if I move my chair a little closer?"

"No, put it right here. Now, I am ready."

"But there's nothing interesting about me. Let's talk of——"

"It's interesting to me. Tell me about your business."

"You don't care anything about business, I am sure."

"I care about your business."

"Do you, Prudence?—You look so sweet this afternoon, I nearly blurted it out before the whole family. Wouldn't the twins have laughed? It would have disgraced the parsonage. I think Mr. Starr is awfully lucky to have girls, and all of them pretty. But isn't it strange that the prettiest and dearest of them all should be the oldest daughter?"

"Oh, but I'm not really—" Prudence began earnestly. Then she stopped, and added honestly, "But I am glad you think so."

No, they did not quote poetry, they did not discuss the psychological intricacies of spontaneous attraction, they did not say anything deep, or wise, or learned. But they smiled at each other, with pleased investigating eyes. He put his hand on the coverlet, just near enough to touch the lace on the sleeve of her silk dressing gown. And together they found Paradise in the shabby sitting-room of the old Methodist parsonage that afternoon.

"Must you prepare meat for breading half an hour before cooking, or when?" demanded Fairy, from the dining-room door.

"What?—Oh!—Fifteen minutes before. Don't forget to salt and pepper the crumbs, Fairy."

'Perhaps some time your father will let you and a couple of the others come to Des Moines with me in the car. You would enjoy a few days there, I know. I live with my aunt, a dear, motherly little old soul. She will adore you, Prudence, and you will like her, too. Would your father let you spend a week? We can easily drive back and forth in the car."

"Maybe he will,—but who will keep the parsonage while I am away?"

"Fairy, to be sure. She must be a good fairy once in a while. We can take the twins with us, Connie, too, if you like, and then Fairy will only have to mother your father. Do you like riding in a car?"

'Oh, I love it. But I have not ridden very much. Willard Morley took me quite often when he was here, but he is in Chicago now."

"When's he coming back?" suspiciously.

"Prudence, shall we have tea or coffee?" This was Lark from the doorway. 'Fairy wants to know."

"What?—Oh!—Which do you want, Jerry?"

"Which does your father prefer?"

"He doesn't drink either except for breakfast."

"I generally drink coffee, but I do not care much for it, so do not bother——"

"Coffee, Lark."

"When's that Morley chap coming back?"

"I do not know." And then, "He is never coming back as far as I am concerned."

Jerrold relented promptly. "You are why he went away, I suppose."

"At any rate, he is gone."

"Did you ever have a lover, Prudence? A real lover, I mean."

"No, I never did."

"I'm awfully glad of that. I'll——"

"Prudence, do you use half milk and half water for creamed tomato soup, or all milk?"

"What?—Oh!—All milk, Connie, and tell Fairy not to salt it until it is entirely done, or it may curdle."

"What in the world would they ever do without you, Prudence? You are the soul of the parsonage, aren't you?"

"No, I am just the cook and the chambermaid," she answered, laughing. 'But don't you see how hard it will be for me to go away?"

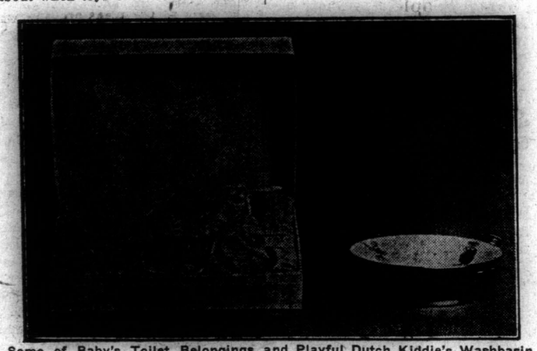
"But it isn't fair! Vacation is coming now, and Fairy ought to take a turn. What will they do when you get married?"

"I have always said I would not get married."

'But don't you want to get married,—some time?"

"Oh, that isn't it. I just can't because I must take care of the parsonage, and raise the girls. I can't."

"But you will," he whispered, and his hand touched hers for just a second. Prudence did not answer. She lifted her eyes to his face, and caught in her breath once more.



A little later he said, "Do you mind if I go upstairs and talk to your father a few minutes? Maybe I'd better."

"But do not stay very long," she urged, and she wondered why the brightness and sunshine vanished from the room when he went out. "First door to the right," she called after him.

Mr. Starr arose to greet him, and welcomed him to his combination study and bedroom with great friendliness. But Jerrold went straight to the point.

"Mr. Starr, it's very kind of you to receive a perfect stranger as you have me. But I understand that with a girl like Prudence, you will want to be careful. I can give you the names of several prominent men in Des Moines, Christians, who know me well, and can tell you all about me."

(To be continued.)

Some of Baby's Toilet Belongings and Playful Dutch Kiddie's Washbasin.

Where Are the Men of Yesterday?

—where are the big, simple men that grew up with our country's youth,

—where are the men of simple faith and simple lives,

—strong, rugged, direct-speaking men,

—rough hewn, perhaps, but builders—the builders who laid the foundation of this Republic?

Where are the Wrights, the Clays, Bentons, Calhouns, Websters?

Where are these men of yesterday?

If you want to know of the greatest of them, read Irving Bacheller's masterful new novel, The Light in the Clearing.

You will be fascinated and thrilled by the bigness of his story.

To-day get a copy of

The LIGHT in the CLEARING

By IRVING BACHELLER, Author of Eben Holden, etc.

Illustrated by Keller. $1.50 net. The Bobbs-Merrill Company, Publishers

McLEOD & ALLEN :: Toronto, Ontario

Will YOU Give 3-½ Cents a Day to Keep

A Child From Starving?

If you will, read this appeal carefully then decide what share you will take in helping avert the greatest tragedy of all time.

1,250,000 CHILDREN ARE FACING SLOW STARVATION IN BELGIUM TODAY.

The Belgian Relief Commission has not the means to supply these growing children with the food that is necessary. THE SITUATION IS SERIOUS. This great relief fund has largely been administered through Americans; the break between the States and Germany has brought about a crisis; there is more need of funds now than at any previous time.

THE GREAT RELIEF WORK MUST AND WILL GO ON. WE MUST DO OUR SHARE.

At the present time the growing child in Belgium receives only a "hunk of bread and a bowl of soup" each day. It is not enough; they must have more—or starve.

For 3 1-3 cents a day the Relief Commission can supply one child with an extra "meal" of a biscuit made with fat or lard and a cup of cocoa, not much, but it is the difference between life and death, between health and disease, for the children of heroic Belgium.

ALBERTA HAS BEEN BLESSED WITH TWO RECORD-BREAKING CROPS.

We are prosperous—the future looks bright—we are in a position to help. How many starving children can you look after? How many will we look after?

HOW MANY WILL YOU FEED?

$12.00 a year, the price the Alberta farmer received for eight bushels of his wheat, will give this extra "meal" to one child for a whole year. 10c a day or $36.00 a year will keep three children from starvation. $60.00 a year will feed five; $120.00 a year will feed 10.

WERE YOU EVER HUNGRY?

Can you picture starvation, the pinched faces, the piteous cries?

IF THE CHILDREN WERE STARVING IN ALBERTA you would help—

YOU WILL HELP IN THIS CASE

You can't pass by the children's cry for food from starving Belgium!

AND YOU MUST ACT NOW

The thought that you are feeding some of these unfortunates each day will bring you happiness. Think of the eager little hands reaching for the meal you supply.

Your own meals will taste sweeter when you do your share. The paper in which you are reading this is doing its share by publishing this appeal without charge—WHAT WILL YOU DO?

You may send contributions by the week, month, or in one lump sum. You are ASSURED that your money is used for the purpose it is sent.

THERE ARE HUNGRY CHILDREN AWAITING YOUR DECISION. HOW MANY WILL YOU FEED?

Send cheques payable to—

Belgian Relief Fund

FOR SOUTHERN ALBERTA,

and address them to J. H. Woods, Hon. Secretary-Treasurer, Southern Alberta Committee, Herald Building, Calgary.

tle frocks and petticoats; all the ceptacles lined with padded and rfumed silk. A little washstand of ameled wood is supplied with a te Greenaway set of china and en the toilet appurtenances—the ush, comb and powder jars, are in eam, pink and pale blue.

The Only Grand Prize (Highest Award) given to Dictionaries at the Panama-Pacific Exposition was granted to

WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL

FOR

Superiority of Educational Merit.

This new creation answers with final authority all kinds of puzzling questions such as "How is Przemysl pronounced?" "Where is Flanders?" "What is a continuous voyage?" "What is a howitzer?" "What is white coal?" "How is skat pronounced?" and thousands of others.

More than 400,000 Vocabulary Terms. 30,000 Geographical Subjects. 12,000 Biographical Entries. Over 6000 Illustrations. 2700 Pages. The only dictionary with the divided page—a stroke of genius.

Regular and India-Paper Editions.

Write for specimen pages, illustrations, etc. Free, a set of Pocket Maps if you name this paper.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Springfield, Mass.

ts a Day rom

g?

ide what share you time.

TARVATION IN

eans to supply these THE SITUATION been administered and Germany has ow than at any pre-

WILL GO ON.

gium receives only is not enough; they an supply one child and a cup of cocoa, ath, between health

WO RECORD-

we are in a position after? How many

D?

ed for eight bushels d for a whole year. en from starvation. 10.

?

he piteous cries?

IN ALBERTA you

ASE

m starving Belgium!

se unfortunates each little hands reaching do your share. The re by publishing this)?

nth, or in one lump for the purpose it is AWAITING YOUR

?

Fund

-Treasurer, Southern Calgary.

SUCCESS! SUCCESS!!

Nothing Succeeds Like It

Coupland School, after patient years of quiet endeavor, has now nearly all the students it can take. The wonderful success of our champion, Miss May Knights, is turning attention to the fact that we do what we say—teach well in three to four months—how thoroughly you may judge by our successful students. When there is anything doing our students get the preference. If you want to attend, get your name down.

COUPLAND (Pioneer) BUSINESS COLLEGE

109 FOURTEENTH AVE. W. PHONE M1202

Resident Agent

WANTED IN

EVERY TOWN

— IN —

ALBERTA

For Taking Orders on Commission

Line of goods required by all engaged in business.

Address in first instance.

"Enterprise," care of A. R. LITTLEBURY,

Printer, Calgary..

SHORT TERM LOANS

may be obtained

For Farming Purposes

to Finance Season's Operations by forming a Co-operative Credit Society under the Alberta Co-operative Credit Act : : : : :

Societies formed under the said Act will receive

Assistance from the Province of Alberta

For further particulars apply or write to

W. V. NEWSON,

Deputy Provincial Treasurer,

Edmonton.

Rheumatism Conquered at Last!

MONEY-BACK COUPON WITH EACH BOTTLE

CALKINS' RHEUMATISM CURE

A Wonderful Remedy for Any Blood Disease

Drives out Poisons through the Urine, Bowels, Lungs and Pores of the body. Soothes the nerves, and is a heart sedative. Heals the mucous membrane linings of the body, corrects bronchial affections, so that the lungs can help in throwing off the poisons.

Money Returned if Results are Not Satisfactory

Send for Testimonials of Prominent People

Sent by Mail or Express only, charges prepaid, on receipt of price

$2.00

H. M. Calkins & Co., 7 Bruce Ave.,

Windsor, Ontario, Canada

To Physicians—You are urged to try this in cases of Rheumatism. You will not be disappointed. Will gladly answer any questions as to the effects of the 12 ingredients. CALKINS & CO.

Standard Ads Pay

THE HOME GARDEN

Yes, in the poor man's garden grow
Far more than herbs or flowers,
Kind thoughts, contentment, peace of mind,
And joy for weary hours.
—The Poor Man's Garden.

From the cares of business and the nervous strain of the office, the backyard garden offers a relief which is not sufficiently enjoyed. Open air exercise is essential to good health. To what better end could this effort be devoted than the cultivation of the backyard garden.

It requires but a small area of land to supply a table with green vegetables. These may be had crisp and fresh and, on this account, much more of such food will be used, to the great advantage of health.

The product of the home garden relieves to that extent the demand upon the general supply. "Self-preservation is the first law of nature." Do not abuse that law by expecting others to provide your food supply when you are capable and have the facilities for growing at least part of your needs.

* * *

The Garden on the Farm or Home

Very few people, whether living in the country, or in towns, or in cities, fully realize the possibilities of the small piece of ground represented by the back-yard of the ordinary city lot or the garden plot on the farm. The farm garden does not receive the attention of the farmer himself to a sufficient extent, and is often left entirely to the care of the farm women. More vegetables in the diet mean better health and cheaper living. This applies to the farmer as well as to the other members of the family.

Planting.—If the farm garden is properly arranged, it can be worked with a horse and horse-cultivator, thus eliminating much of the drudgery. A plan should be made of the garden, preferably on paper, but at least in mind. This plan will be very useful when purchasing, planting and recording the dates of planting.

Soil Preparation.—The soil should be thoroughly prepared. All rubbish and clods should be thoroughly cleaned out, and the coarser lumps of soil finely pulverized. If there is any doubt as to whether the soil is sufficiently prepared, give the garden the benefit of the doubt, and put a little more work on it. Well prepared soil means a proper seed-bed and better germination of the seed when it is planted.

Varieties.—It is better to grow a few of the standard varieties of the more common vegetables than to attempt too many novelties.

Seeds.—When buying seed, it is well to remember that the best are the cheapest. Deal with reliable seed firms and place orders for the seeds early.

Sowing.—The seeds of such hardy plants as peas, spinach, radishes, lettuce, carrots and onions may be sown as soon as the ground is in proper condition. The seeds of tender crops, such as cucumbers, corn and beans should not be planted until danger from frost is past.

There is no reason why there should not be a good and productive garden on every farm. It is a profitable undertaking and will give good returns. The time will be well spent and much may be accomplished in the time that the busiest farmer and his family can easily find if they have an appreciation of the importance of the garden and a disposition to undertake the work.

* * *

Applying Farm-Yard Manure

The rate of applying farm-yard manure to give the best results gives rise to difference of opinion wherever the question is discussed. The rates will naturally depend upon a variety of circumstances, such as the nature of the soil and the crop to be grown. There is little doubt that, on the majority of Canadaian farms, the rate at which manure has been and is being applied is excessive. Opinion is gaining ground among a number of practical farmers, that lighter and more frequent dressings would give better results than the heavy applicants given at longer intervals. Science supports this view. Manures and fertilizers are subject to various risks in the soil and the importance of minimizing these risks should not be overlooked. Regardless of how manure is applied, a part of it is lost by leaching. The sooner the fertilizing elements of manure applied to land can be recovered and the greater the number of plants working for this purpose per ton of manure applied, the less will be the waste. In other words, there will be less loss from twenty tons of manure, if applied at ten tons per acre on two acres, than if the whole twenty tons were applied on one acre, because there will be the plants on two acres rather than on one acre working to recover the plant food from the manure. A short rotation with plenty of hoe crop and the manure well cared for and applied frequently as a light dressing, mean better crops and greater farm profits.

Summary of the Legislative Work At the Last Session

A Great Deal of Work Was Done and Many Bills Passed of Vital Interest to the People.

The Alberta legislature at its last session passed over 50 bills and amendments that will be of material interest to the people. A list as recently announced were as follows:

1. An act o incorporate the Alberta Guarantee and Fdelity company.
2. An act to amend the act incorporating the Brule Lake Railway company, as amended by chapter 35 of the statutes of Alberta, 1915.
3. An act to incorporate the Merchants and Traders Assurance company.
4. An act respecting the Central Canada Railway company.
5. An act to amend chapter 31 of the statutes of 1911-12, being an act to incorporate the Athabasca Valley Railway company.
6. An act to amend the Edmonton charter and to validate and confirm certain bylaws of the city of Edmonton.
7. An act to amend the acts and ordinances constituting the charter of the city of Calgary, and to validate certain bylaws of the said city.
8. An act to amend the Lethbridge city charter.
9. An act to incorporate the Crow's Nest and Tent Mountain Railway company.
10. An act to foster and encourage agricultural development by means of standard forms of investment upon farm mortgages and the equalization of rates and interest.
11. An act to amend the statute law.
12. An act to amend the drainage act.
13. An act respecting the police force of the province of Alberta.
14. An act to incorporate the Farmers' Fire and Hail Insurance company.
15. An act to amend the succession duties act.
16. An act to amend an act to provide for the taxation of theatergoes.
17. An act to amend the life insurance and beneficiaries act.
18. An act respecting co-operative credit.
19. An act to amend the provincial loans act.
20. The municipal hospitals act.
21. An act to amend the town act.
22. An act to amend the village act.
23. An act to amend an act respecting rural municipalities.
24. An act to amend an act respecting local improvements.
25. An act to encourage the increased raising of stock in the province of Alberta.
26. An act respecting advances for the purchase of seed grain and the securities for the repayment thereof.
27. An act to amend an act to incorporate the Alberta Farmers' Co-operative Elevator company.
28. An act to amend the public works act.
29. An act to amend the private ditches act.
30. An act to amend the liquor act.
31. An act to provide for the borrowing of certain moneys by means of savings certificates or other securities.
32. An act for the protection of persons employed in factories, shops and office buildings.
33. The dower act.
34. An act to provide for representation in the legislative assembly of Alberta's soldiers and nurses in the present war.
35. An act to provide for protection of electrical workers.
36. An act to amend the act respecting seed grain, fodder and other relief.
37. An act to amend the game act, being chapter 14 of the statutes of Alberta, 1907, as amended.
38. An act respecting all houses of public accommodation.
39. An act to authorize the guarantee of certain securities of Lacombe and Blindman Valley Electric Railway company.
40. An act respecting the reclamation of lands.
41. An act to amend chapter 51 of the statutes of 1910 (second session), being an act to incorporate High River and Hudson Bay Railway company.
42. An act to amend the school ordinance, and the school assessment ordinance.
43. An act to amend the municipal co-operative hail insurance act.
44. An act to incorporate the Red Deer Valley Railway company.
45. An act for raising money on the credit of the general revenue of Alberta.
46. An act to amend the wolf bounty act.
47. An act to amend the agricultural societies ordinance.
48. An act for the enrolment of stallions.
49. The patriotic tax act.
50. An act to provide for the guarantee of certain borrowings of the hail insurance board of Alberta.
51. An act to incorporate War Veterans' associations.
52. An act amending the election act respecting members of the legislative assembly on active service.
53. An act to amend the trustee odinance.
54. An act to amend an act respecting the legislative assembly of Alberta.
55. An act to provide for an administrator of the estates of infants, and an official guardian of said estates.

The Municipal Hospitals Act

How to Incorporate a Hospital District and Provide for Operations of a Hospital.

Under the Municipal Hospitals Act passed at the recent Session of the Legislature, the Minister of Municipal Affairs is authorized to divide the Province into Hospital Districts. He is also charged with the responsibility of supplying plans, specifications, estimates, advice on sites and management and such other assistance as he may be able to give. The bringing into existence of a hospital depends upon the initiative of the people. When only one municipality is concerned all that is necessary to initiate action is a petition signed by twenty-five electors and agreed to by the municipal council. When more than one council is concerned, the consent of the other council or councils is necessary, as well as the petition from the electors within the municipality. The preliminary work being done, the council shall appoint a hospital board. In the case of one municipality undertaking the work, the board shall consist of three members of the council and three electors outside the council. When there are two municipalities in the proposed district each council shall appoint three representatives, one being a member of the council, and two electors not councillors. When the appointments are made the names are sent to the Minister who names a convenor and the place and date of meeting for organization. The board has power—

To appoint such officials as may be necessary and to fix the amount of remuneration;

To determine the site and arrange for purchase of same;

To arrange for the acquiring or erection of a suitable building;

To make arrangements with any existing hospital if preferred, to undertake the establishment and maintenance of a separate institution;

To engage medical practitioners and nurses;

To arrange for financing the hospital, the preparation of estimates, etc., the municipality providing the money as for other municipal enterprises.

The levy for capital expenditure shall not be higher than two mills on the dollar.

As soon as the plans are approved by the Minister of Municipal Affairs, the council shall prepare a by-law for submission to the electors, which must be voted on within three months.

For full information as to how to arrange for and conduct a Municipal Hospital under this Act, apply to

JOHN PERRIE,
Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs,
Edmonton.

YOUNG PLUMBING Co. Ltd
Steam & Gas Fitters
Tinners M 2869
253 7th AVE E.

MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

The old reliable remedy for rheumatism, neuralgia, sore throat and sprains.

Best Liniment Made

MR. A. R. LAUNDRY, EDMONTON, writes:—"I fell from a building and received what the doctor called a very bad sprained ankle, and told me I must not walk on it for three weeks. I got MINARD'S LINIMENT and in six days I was out to work again. I think it the best Liniment made."

Minard's Liniment always gives satisfaction. For any ache or pain. It gives instant relief.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited

Yarmouth, - - N.S.

When Buying Liquor---

In sealed bottles in cases, you pay one-third more than in draught and the quality no better, very often the strength is much less.

Why one-third more? Because you pay for the bottle, duty and transprtation on same, labor and other expenses bottling.

We recommend our draught goods and guarantee their purity.

WE ARE DIRECT IMPORTERS

PRICES ON APPLICATION

Revelstoke Wine and Spirit Co. Ltd.

REVELSTOKE, B. C.

FAMOUS ENGLISH RACES STOPPED UNTIL WAR IS OVER

The stewards of the oJckey Club in London, England, at the instance of the government have cancelled all the 1917 racing fixtures, which were to have been run after the first spring meeting

The steps was taken to save foodstuffs which now are diverted to the racing stables.

The cancellation of the summer racing dates will prevent the running of such classic events as the Derby, the Oaks the Ascot Derby, the Eclipse, the oJckey Club and the St Ledger stakes.

The Nat Bell Liquors Ltd.

Box 304, Saskatoon, Sask.

The Reliable Mail Order House

Mail Us Your Orders Direct

You know our Service. You know the High Standard we set for Quality.

You know our Draught Whiskies is the pure unadulterated product of the best distillers.

Why experiment with other houses.

A card will bring our price list

THE NAT BELL LIQUORS LTD.

Saskatoon, Sask.

Ales, Wines, Stouts, Spirits

—BY MAIL ORDER—

A Comparison of Our Quality and Prices Will Convince You that "IT PAYS TO TRADE WITH US."

	Bottle	Case	Gallon
BRANDIES
Martell or Hennessy, X	2.00	22.00	....
Martell or Hennessy, XXX	2.25	25.00	....
Ducourt, XXX	1.75	18.00	....
Ducourt, bulk	....	.....	6.75
Brandy, in wood, proof	....	.....	8.75
Brandy in wood, 15 underproof	....	.....	7.50
NORWEGIAN AND DANISH SPIRITS
Loiten's Aquavit	1.25	13.50	....
Loiten's Arae Punsch	1.50	15.00	....
Danish Aqnavit	1.15	12.50	....
Danish Arae Punsch	1.25	13.50	....
GIN
Gold Cross Geneva Red	1.35	15.50	....
Gold Cross Geneva Green	1.10	12.00	....
De Kuyper's Geneva Red	1.95	22.50	6.25
Coates' Plymouth; Boord's Old Tom; Wolf's Schnapps; Bol's Liquer; Parrott Brand; Ross' Irish Sloe Gin	1.50	16.50	....
Booth's Old Tom	....	.....	6.75
Williamson's Old Tom	....	.....	4.25
RUM
E. & J. Burk's Jamaica	1.40	15.00	....
Thom & Cameron's Jamaica	1.40	14.50	7.00
Thom & Cameron's Demarar	1.30	14.00	6.50
Demerara, proof strength	....	.....	7.50
Demerar, 34 overproof	....	.....	9.00
WHISKIES
Cedar Brook, eight summers old..Bourbon	1.50	16.50	7.50
E. & J. Burke's .....XXX Irish	1.50	16.50	....
Mitchell's, Bulk ..... "	....	.....	7.50
J. Callaghan & Son's, imperial quarts. "	1.75	20.00	6.75
Gooderham & Worts' special .....Rye	1.25	13.50	5.25
Walker's Imperial; Seagram's 83; B. C. Special .....Rye	1.10	12.00	....
Golden West Imperial Quarts ..... "	1.15	13.50	....
Goderham & Worts' ..... "	....	.....	4.50
Walker's Canadian Club..... "	....	.....	6.00
Walker's Imperial ..... "	....	.....	5.00
B. C. Rye ..... "	....	.....	4.25
Mount Vernon .....American Rye	1.75	19.50	....
Old Kentucky ..... " "	1.35	15.00	....
Johnnie Walker, Black Label.....Scotch	2.00	23.00	....
Johnnie Walker, Red Label ..... "	1.85	21.00	....
Johnnie Walker, White Label ..... "	1.65	18.00	....
White & Mackay's Special ..... "	1.65	18.00	....
Dewar's Special ..... "	1.50	16.50	....
Teacher's Highland Cream ..... "	1.75	19.50	....
Buchanan's Black and White ..... "	1.75	19.50	....
Macdonald's Special Reserve, qts... "	1.25	13.50	7.50
Teacher's Highland Cream, 15 u.p... "	....	.....	8.50
Greenlees' Extra Special ..... "	....	.....	9.00
Kilmarnock, 15 u.p. ..... "	....	.....	9.00

Cost of Packing, Jars and War Tax Included

PITHER & LEISER, LIMITED

(Owned and controlled by British Capital)

LLOYDMINSTER, SASK.

VICTORIA, B. C.

Alive :: Alert Up to the Minute

NEWS AND VIEWS ON SPORTS

Local .: Provincial World in General

Wasting Space on a Pair of Pugilists

Newspapers recently have wasted a great deal of space on Freddie Welsh and Les Darcy, a couple of pugilists, who, while they may be clever in the ring, look as though they would be eminently qualified for the appellation of "canaries" which our phrasemaking cousins from across the line have dubbed the "slackers." Darcy, who said that he ran away so that he might live to fight another day, will likely be forced to get into a uniform; and Welsh, whose disgraceful exhibition while in Calgary and other western cities disgusted the ring followers, has been fourflushing around New York talking about raising a regiment of "sportsmen," and now it is announced that he is to join on as captain of something. If there was a regiment of "sports" such as Welsh, they would be very easy picking for the Fritzies. The splendid war record that the pugilists of the allies have made in the present war makes the attitude of this renegade Australian and the vegetarian Englishman show up all the worse.

GIRL PITCHES WITH EITHER ARM

Utah has produced a unique figure in baseball, a girl who can pitch with either arm and hold her own against the best boy teams of the State.

Miss Adah Clays is her name.

There have been mighty few players in baseball who could throw equally well with either hand, but this little Utah girl, who plays sand lot baseball all season, can cut the corners, and usually knows what a batter cannot hit after she has pitched to him a couple of times. She is also a good batter, and bats from either side of the plate.

The team of girls on which Miss Clays plays claims the girls' championship of the world. They have never been beaten.

Two other girls on the team, Miss Adderley and Miss Dixon, can pitch or play the infield, and Miss Dixon leads the team in batting.

All three girls have been offered positions with travelling women's teams, but have refused.

FERDIE SCHUPP A WONDERFUL BALL PLAYER

Ferdinand Schupp seems to have resumed where he left off last season. The phenomenal young southpaw of the Giants who won fame as the hero of the New York Nationals' famous winning streak of 26 straight last year, has begun again as an invincible hurler.

If you remember correctly, young Ferdie Schupp—the same Schupp, by the way, who finished absolutely last in the pitchers' percentages in 1915—is also the same Schupp who won six of the record run of 2 games. Five of these six games resulted in shutouts. Schupp allowed 20 hits and 5 runs in 63 innings—a marvelous performance.

Schupp finished the 1916 season as the leading pitcher in baseball. He pitched nine winning games and lost but three. He broke the world's record by allowing only .90 earned runs to a game. He outranked Alexander and Johnson.

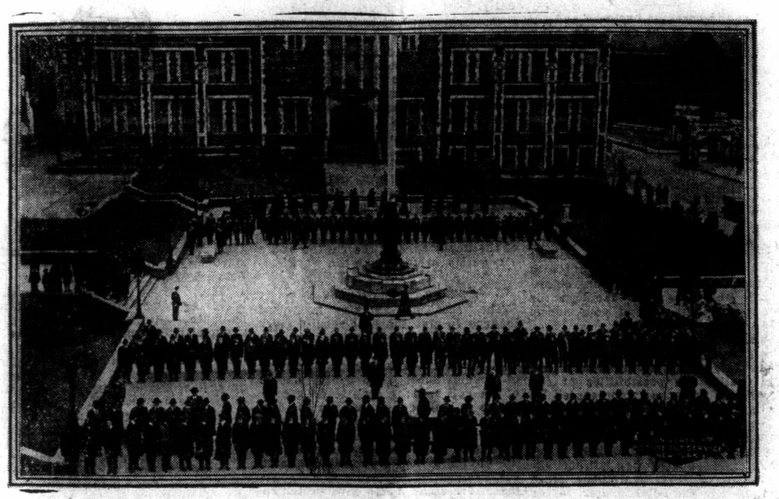
Schupp came to the Giants in 1913 from the Decatur team of the Three-I-league. He is just 25 years old. In 1912 he won 22 games and lost 20 with Decatur. All the wise ones predicted a hurried trip back to the bushes for the youthful lefthander. He sat on the bench three years. The success of the Louisville Kid—as he is called—is just another testimonial to the wisdom and patience of McGraw.

The youngster promises to develop into the greatest lefthander the game has known. There is no doubt that he is the best of his southpaw kind in the National league. He uses a puzzling fast ball that zipps over the corner of the plate with deadly aim. This—combined with a beautifully controlled wide-sweeping curve—makes the most efficient batters break their backs. His control is the secret of his success.

Watch him this year.

GEORGE BURNS IS A BREAKER OF RECORDS

George Burns, Giant left-fielder, has set a new record for ball players to shoot at.



Burns has played in 322 games without a day off, a record for continuous performance which no other major league player has equalled.

Burns is one of the most valuable men in the National league. Last year he led the league in scoring, which is more remarkable when it is considered that Burns was a lead-off man for the Giants.

In seven games this season he scored nine runs, and with the exception of one game hit safely in the first ten games this season.

To celebrate his 320th game Burns made a double, a single and a triple off Alexander and a double off Mayer, who relieved the Nebraskan.

CITY COLLEGE BOYS TRAINING ON CAMPUS

A scene at the College of the city of New York, showing the students on their picturesque campus in first routine drills. The college students represent practically every one of the warring nations, and it has often been termed a "students melting pot."

Home Runs and Swipes Out of The Ordinary

Freak and wonderful homers were under discussion recently, and the consensus of opinion was that George Cutshaw's swat last summer perhaps earned the title of "flukiest of them all."

The Dodgers' second sacker caught a twister on the end of a bat in a game in Brooklyn and sent the ball to the right field wall. The ball landed at the bottom of the fence on a little concrete incline. And then, to the amazement of the populace, it started slowly to climb up that fence. Tantalizingly but surely it moved right up that wall as though it had legs. The fence is about twenty-five feet high. When the ball had climbed to the very top it hesitated for a fraction of a second, and then rolled outside the park while Cutshaw hurried home.

And then there's that funny four-bagger that Milton Stock made while a member of the Giants. He cracked one that hit the third bag and then bounced into one of the boxes. The enemy third-baser retrieved the ball before Stock had rounded second, but the umpires ruled that Milton was entitled to a round trip journey because the ball, after landing fair, had gone out of the field of play.

Joe Jackson's Long Hit

Josephus Jackson rammed out a hit while in Gotham on a visit a few years ago that will go down in history as one of the longest—if not the longest—ever made. Joe grabbed one of those waist high ones on the end of his buldgeon and immediately propelled it over the extreme end of the double-decked grandstand on the Polo grounds. The ball cleared the stand with about forty feet to spare and was still arching when it moved out of sight in the general direction of downtown New York.

Just how far that drive went before it finally reached terra firma probably never will be known. But it looked like a 750-foot drive at the very least. It's close to 400 feet from home plate to the extreme end of the grandstand, and the ball, mind you, was then close to 100 feet in the air and still moving upward.

Johnson Knocked Cover Off

"Big Bill" Lange, while a member of the old Chicago team, rapped a homer over the fence in his old home town that travelled about 500 feet, crashed through a saloon window and into a pinochle party.

One of those most psychological circuit drives was that which Larry Doyle delivered in 1914. The Giants and Pirates had battled for twenty-one innings when Doyle came along and ended the longest game in major league history by hammering the pellet out of the lot.

A few years ago Walter Johnson, the pitching person, walloped an offering and knocked off the cover. The lid of the ball landed back of second base. The rest of the ball cleared the fence. Oddly enough, Johnson, kidded by a sport writer just before he went to bat because of his poor hitting, had made a bet of $10 that he'd get a hit in that trial with the club.

Sun Aided Huggins

Miller Huggins once sent a Texas leaguer at an opposition center fielder. The sun got in his eyes and he lost the ball. Before he could get away from the glare and find the ball, which was almost at his feet, Huggins scooted around the sacks for a home run. Cy Seymour, while with the Giants, is said to have driven a ball over the Boston fence that landed in an open freight car and was "fielded" by a brakeman when the train arrived in New York.

Buck Freeman picked out one of Chief Bender's offerings in Philadelpia one afternoon and drove it through an open window in the second story of a house a block away from the park.

MACDONALD FOUND GUILTY

Vancouver.—Justice Gregory has brought in his verdict finding Attorney General Macdonald guilty of accepting a campaign donation of $15,000, these payments having been made by Dr. Robert Mackenzie. Macdonald has resigned from the position as Attorney-General.

JESS WILLARD IS FAR FROM BEING OVERWEIGHT

Conflicting Reports Are Set at Rest by New York Expert Who Denies Rumor.

New York.—So many conflicting repors have appeared as to the physical condition of Jess Willard that I decided to inspect him at close range, says a New York expert, and succeeded in having a few verbal rounds with the champion at Washington Park previous to his celebrated impersonation of a cowboy.

Willard was dressed in a tight-fitting suit of blue, and the first glance at him showed that he possessed what corset makers call a "straight front." The paunch that has been so fully described was conspicuous by its absence.

Then I looked at his great shoulders and back, where, according to some reports, great rolls of fat had gathered. Again I failed to see any evidence of surplus flesh, and after a walk around the behemoth, viewing him from all angles, I feel compelled to testify that he is in good condition and could be ready for a bout in three weeks.

After boxing with his sparring partner Willard puffed considerably, but a bit of road work would put the big chap's "bellows" in good order.

In fact Willard does not appear to have any of the physical defects with which he has been charged, and the only trouble which the Brobdingnagian pugilist appears to be that there is no one to fight him.

He expressed regret over the dent that had been put in Fulton's record, and declared that Morris seemed to be determined to win without reference to the rules.

Willard said he was ready to fight for his title or his country and would go to the front when he was called.

The champion expressed the opinion that the boxing game would be in much better favor with the public if the promoters who have invested money in the sport saw the necessity for organization along the lines of the baseball associations.

Baseball May be Stopped Next Year

Experts Think that the Year 1918 Will be Blank One—Players in Big Leagues will be Called to Colors.

There may be no major league baseball next year.

Ban Johnson, president of the American League, flatly stated his belief that unless peace comes by December and halts conscription, it will be necessary for the two big leagues to call off their 1918 schedules.

John K. Tener, president of the National League, foreseeing the conscription of hundreds of young ball players said he did not believe baseball could continue under such conditions.

Many May Go

"Our business is just like any other business, said Tener, "except for the fact that our employes collectively are of military age, for the most part. Our business would therefore be affected more than any other.

"Baseball will have its share the same as other walks of life. When the call comes there will be no hesitating. Our men will respond and will be found to be just as patriotic and just as ready to fight as any others."

Johnson does not expect any favors to be granted ball players when the draft comes nor does he want them. There are now 214 men in the two big leagues subject to draft.

Will Not Quibble

"Our men are going to war," said Johnson, "and when the call comes we will go at once. There will be no quibbling.

"Then, if we haven't the players, we naturally won't have baseball."

Johnson left the other day for Washington. His trip was only part of his regular eastern swing and had no connection with probable service for the ball players.

PREMIER OF CANADA RETURNS

Ottawa.—After a most successful trip the Premier of Canada, Sir Robert Borden has returned from England where he went some weeks ago at the urgent request of the King to a conference of the premiers and governors of the provinces.

Former Pirate Manager Scores Pink Tea Tactics

Fred Clarke, winner of four pennants and one world's championship with the Pittsburgh club of the National league, in an interview at Louisville, Ky., the other day deplored the "pink tea" tactics that have found their way into baseball. Clarke, who has retired from the game, feels he is qualified to point out weak spots in the national pastime.

The game, he says, lacks aggressiveness; there is too much brotherly love and fraternizing among the players. Players on opposing teams should be friends, he maintains, but not in the ball park.

"The fight between Ty Cobb and Herzog in Dallas, Texas, will do more to draw crowds than anything that could have happened," Clarke said. "Of course, I do not approve of fist fighting on the field, as was staged at Dallas, but I would like to see more aggressiveness and less of this brotherly love stuff."

Clarke believes that golf is vastly overrated as a means for improving the hitting of a ball player.

"The golf itself does not hurt a man's batting, and may improve it," he said, "but I think that a player has all he can do to play baseball for six months without looking for more work. That extra exertion spent in trudging around a golf course is too much if you are playing ball. If a man should play golf all morning he would sap up energy that should be expended at the ball park in the afternoon.

"That is why I never played golf as long as I was in baseball. Since I retired in 1915, however, I have taken up the game and play a great deal."

Concerning the retirement of Hans Wagner, the veteran shortstop of the Pittsburgh club, Clarke said that Wagner could go back 90 per cent and still be above the average player.

Clarke has announced that he is ready and willing to lead or join a rough rider regiment. Clarke who is wealthy, will help equip, as well as recruit the regiment.

THRIFT IN FOREST FIRES; SPORTSMEN CAN HELP

There are estimated to be 10,000 forest fires in Canada every year of all sizes and descriptions. Nine-tenths are set by human hands, and the damage runs from four to ten millions of dollars, not counting damage to soil, to the value of watershed areas and many other factors.

"Thrift in forest fires" is a new movement which the Canadian Forestry association has started amongst the guides and campers and sportsmen of Canada with a view to cutting down the country's timber losses in 1917. As is well known, the present-day causes of forest fires are not the railways as much as the settlers, campers, hunters and fishermen. Thoughtlessness in respect to camp fires, the throwing away of lighted tobacco, matches, etc., has caused some of the worst conflagrations in history. During the months of May and June, before the fire season is well under way this year, thousands of outdoors men are being asked by the co-operation of the newspaper publishers of Canada to make 1917 a year of thrift in the forest. Not only is Canada's inexhaustible supply of timber seriously reduced in a time when it should be protected and improved by every possible means, but hundreds of miles of once excellent fishing and hunting and camping grounds are turned into blackened ruin.

No camp fire should be left this year until it is "dead out." A few extra pails of water or spades of sand will make this point certain. No fire should be set except among rocks or gravel, never in a bog or in leaves or needles. Throwing lighted tobacco or matches into the forest is conduct that is chargeable only to the amateur.

RUSSIAN WAR MINISTER RESIGNS

Petrograd.—Gen. Guchkoff, minister of war, has resigned. He recently made a sensational speech in which he stated that military power in Russia was fast crumbling away. He issues a solemn warning to the government to beware of impending trouble.

Kilbane Has Fought Self Out of The Ring

Johnny Kilbane has fought himself out of the fight game. There's nothing left for him unless he goes into the welterweight class.

There isn't a featherweight or a lightweight that has a chance with him.

Kilbane outpointed Freddy Welsh, lightweight champion, in every round of their fight in New York. The fact that the fight was a no-decision affair and only went ten rounds prevents Kilbane from claiming the title. A champ must be knocked out to lose his crown in a short bout.

Welsh weighed 139 pounds and Kilbane 130 when they entered the ring. Welsh had made 135 pounds at 3 p.m. and then hastily added the four pounds.

This incident showed two things:

First, Welsh feared Kilbane.

Second, Welsh realizes he can't be at his best at the lightweight limit he himself set, 135 pounds.

Welsh, noted for his covering up tactics, called on them most of the time, Kilbane doing practically all the leading. Welsh left the ring with a damaged eye and lip. Kilbane didn't receive a scratch.

Promoters are already talking of a twenty-round bout between the two. It would be a good thing financially for the promoters, probably, but there doesn't seem to be any need for it to decide who is the better man.

ART FLETCHER— THE GREAT UNKNOWN

They talk about everybody but ol' Art Fletcher. We are always listening to ravings about the marvelous Maranville, the scintillations of Scott, and the various and wondrous performances of Bancroft, Bush, Chapman, Peckinpaugh, Wortman, Lavan and the rest—but hardly a murmur about Fletcher. The quiet, unassuming Giant goes about his work and says nothing.

The fans do not appreciate Fletcher at his real worth. He is one of the most underrated and unhonored players in the game. Most fans have forgotten—or never knew—that Fletcher is the best hitting shortstop in the game today, and in fielding he ranks with the leaders. During the last six years that he has played with the Giants only the great Hans Wagner has eclipsed him with the stick. The lowest mark the long-shinned Giant ever touched was .254 in 1915. In 1911 Fletcher hit .319, and usually averages around .290. Last year, for instance, Fletcher hit .286.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Famous Grant Six is Here

Other Cars Have Come and Gone

We desire to notify our many customers, that we have just received Four Carloads of the Famous Grant Six Autos. One carload already unloaded and in our garage, and We Are Now Ready for Business.

A POPULAR CAR AT A POPULAR PRICE
$1,325.00, SIX CYLINDER, FULLY EQUIPPED, F. O. B. CALGARY

Our garage has been enlarged and remodelled and is without exception the best equipped and most modern in Western Canada, having all the conveniences necessary to give you the most satisfactory service.

We have an up-to-date Repair Shop in connection, under the supervision of expert mechanics.

Free Air and Water Service.

Repairs and Accessories, including Gas and Oil, furnished at Lowest Possible Cost.

I. G. RUTTLE MOTOR COMPANY
319 Sixth Avenue East Phone M6447

WEBBER'S GARAGE

FORD SPECIALISTS

: Everything for the : :: Motorist ::

OPEN DAY AND NIGHT

129 5th Ave. W. Phone M2033

General Repair Works
P. C. HEAD, Prop.
230 SEVENTH AVE. EAST
(Opp. Post Office), CALGARY
WE REPAIR—Guns, Sewing Machines, Gramophones, Typewriters, Cash Registers, Musical Instruments, Slot Machines, Carpet Sweepers, Vacuum Cleaners, Wash Machines, etc.
Guns Repaired by an Expert Gunsmith
We Do Welding, Brazing, Soldering
We Specialize on Sewing Machines

DO YOU RIDE A WHEEL?
When Enamelled, "Baking Process", By the Premier Man Looks Good as New
If you are thinking of making a purchase, or if you have an OLD WHEEL YOU WISH REBUILT, it will pay you to call and see US. This is our SPECIALTY, and we stand alone in this particular line.
OUR SYSTEM IS PERFECT AND MODERN, and in rebuilding your WHEEL, it is given a thorough overhauling, and the only difference in our REBUILT MACHINES AND THE NEW ONE, "IS THE PRICE."
PREMIER CYCLE WORKS
102 Seventh Ave. West Phone M1755
W. B. COMPTON, Prop.

WESTERN CARRIAGE WORKS
A. H. ADAMS, Manager
Auto and Carriage Top Builders and Upholsterers. Manufacture and Repair Side Curtains, "Jiffy" Curtains patent), Seat Covers, Top Envelopes, Radiator Covers, Woodwork. Top Accessories always in stock.
"Your Satisfaction is Our Success."
632 17th Avenue West Phone W4938

GEO. EDWARDS
Spring Manufacturer
All Kinds of Carriage and Wagon Springs Made to Order.
Prices Moderate
A trial is solicited.
330 Sixth Avenue East, Calgary

Gillespie Tire & Vulcanizing Works
Geo. J. Gillespie, Proprietor
Auto Tires and Tubes Vulcanized.
We Supply Any Make of Tires.
Our Repair Work is First Class and Done in the Most Modern Way.
We solicit your patronage and ask you to give us a trial.
208 Sixth Ave. West, Calgary

FOWLER'S CIDERS
"THEY'RE MIGHTY GOOD"
13 DIFFERENT KINDS
BUY THEM BY THE GALLON FROM YOUR DEALER

CALGARY WELDING SHOP
Up-to-Date Steel Cutting Appliances
Steel Tanks Made to Order
All Metals Welded—Cast Iron, Steel, Aluminum and Brass Castings of All Kinds
We Specialize in Farm Machinery Repairs—Oxy-Acetylene Process
We Solicit Your Patronage
All Work Guaranteed
306 Third Avenue East, Calgary
Phone M4322

Star Cycle & Motor Co.
Sole Agents for Perfect Bicycles, Star Bicycles and Indian Motorcycles
Auto Electrical Systems a Specialty
Complete Line of Accessories Always on Hand
Expert Repairing
Our Ten Years of Practical Experience, coupled with Our Many Satisfied Customers, is sufficient guarantee of what we can do for others.
A Trial Will Convince You.
224 Seventh Ave. E. Phone M3661

OXY-ACETYLENE WELDING
City Welding and Repair Shop (formerly Calgary Welding Co.)
143 First Ave. E., Calgary. Phone M2240
Broken articles made like new. Customers doing business with us, find that we give prompt and careful attention to all orders. We are efficient in this line, and guarantee to give satisfaction.

ALLFORD GARAGE
EVANS & LINDBERG, PROPS.
Ford Specialists
All Repair Work Guaranteed
All Makes and Grades of Second-Hand Cars for Sale
211 TENTH AVENUE WEST
Residence: Phone M4964
Garage: Phone M2548

A NEW WAY TO SAVE

The Province of Alberta Offers to the Public

Province of Alberta Savings Certificates

In denominations of Ten Dollars, One Hundred Dollars, and One Thousand Dollars.

These Certificates will bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, compounded half-yearly.

Certificates are redeemable in three years, but may be cashed at any time on the demand of the holder.

ABSOLUTE SECURITY. QUICK CONVERTIBILITY

For full information write or apply to

W. V. NEWSON,
Deputy Provincial Treasurer,
Edmonton

Local .: Provincial World in General

CEMENT
nt Six is Here
Come and Gone

any customers, that we have the Famous Grant Six Autos. id in our garage, and We Are

A POPULAR PRICE
ULLY EQUIPPED, F.O.B.
ARY

rged and remodelled and is uipped and most modern in he conveniences necessary to service.

air Shop in connection, under hanics.

e.

cluding Gas and Oil, furnished

OTOR COMPANY
Phone M6447

GARAGE

ECIALISTS

g for the :
orist ::

AND NIGHT

. Phone M2033

General Repair Works
P. C. HEAD, Prop.
230 SEVENTH AVE. EAST
(Opp. Post Office), CALGARY
WE REPAIR—Guns, Sewing Machines, Gramophones, Typewriters, Cash Registers, Musical Instruments, Slot Machines, Carpet Sweepers, Vacuum Cleaners, Wash Machines, etc.
Guns Repaired by an Expert Gunsmith
We Do Welding, Brazing, Soldering
We Specialize on Sewing Machines

DO YOU RIDE A WHEEL?
When Enamelled, "Baking Process". By the Premier Man
Looks Good as New
If you are thinking of making a purchase, or if you have an OLD WHEEL YOU WISH REBUILT, it will pay you to call and see US. This is our SPECIALTY, and we stand alone in this particular line.
OUR SYSTEM IS PERFECT AND MODERN, and in rebuilding your WHEEL, it is given a thorough overhauling, and the only difference in our REBUILT MACHINES AND THE NEW ONE, "IS THE PRICE."
PREMIER CYCLE WORKS
102 Seventh Ave. West Phone M1755
W. B. COMPTON, Prop.

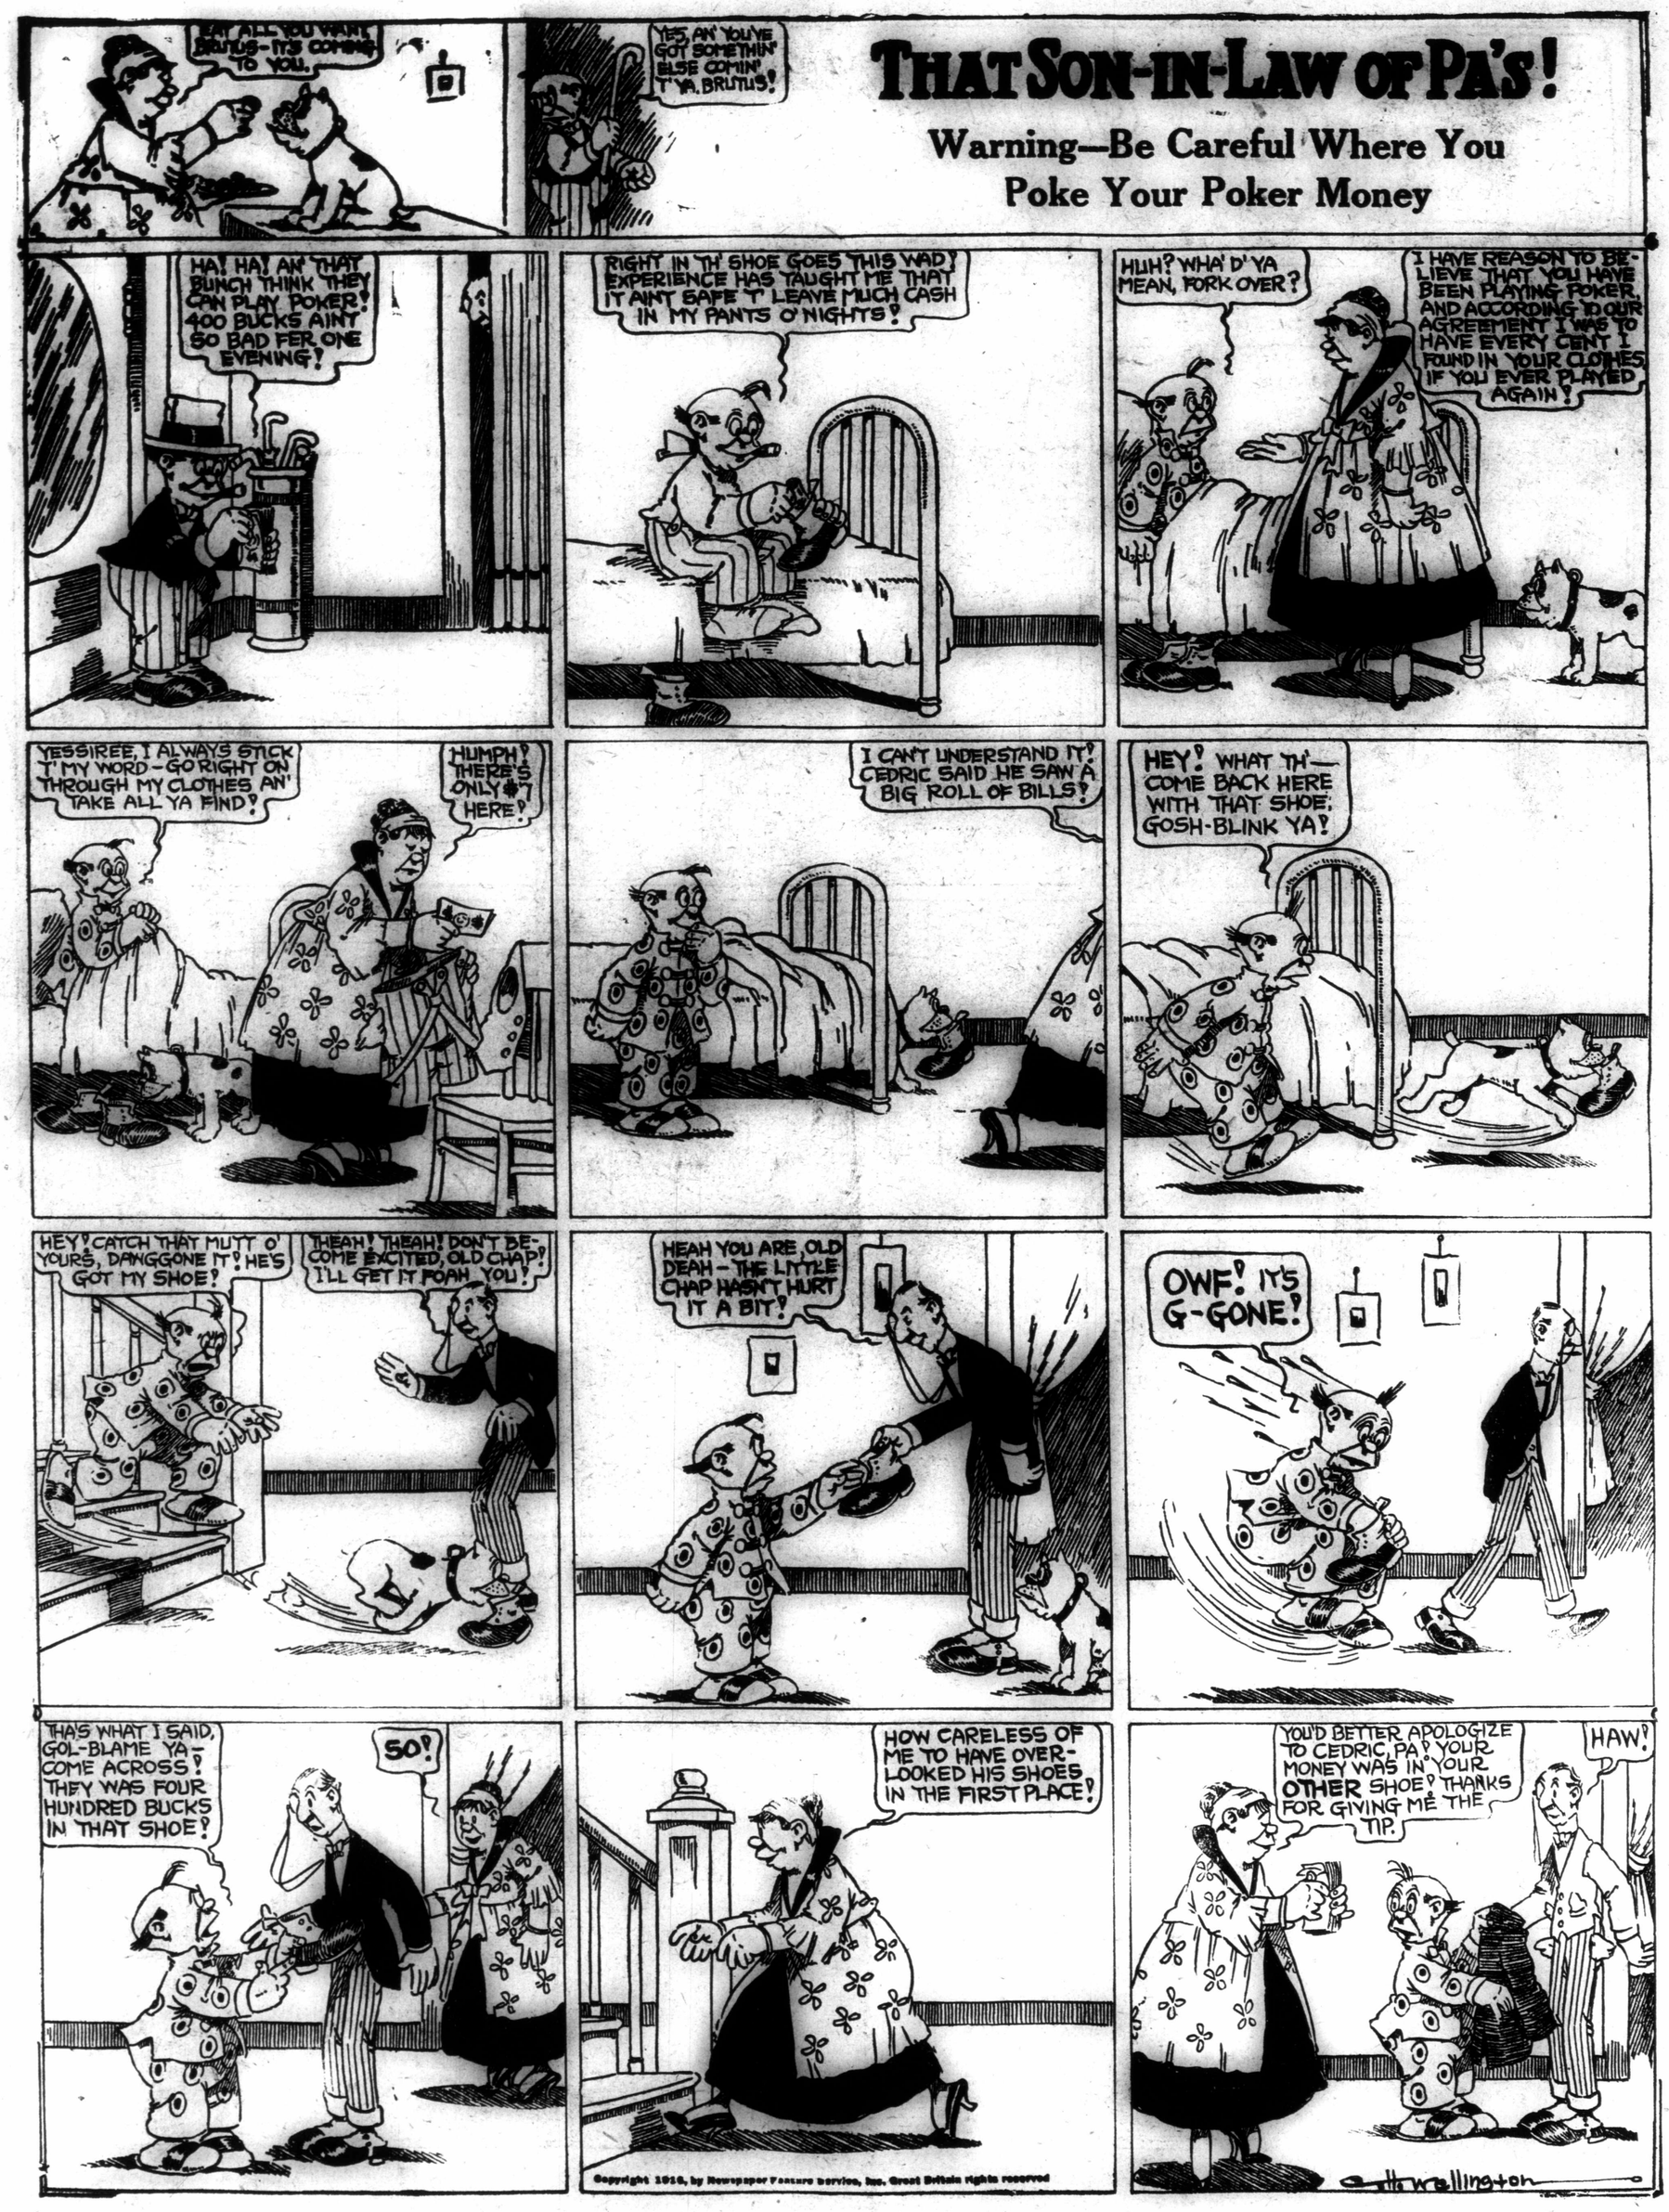
WESTERN CARRIAGE WORKS
A. H. ADAMS, Manager
Auto and Carriage Top Builders and Upholsterers. Manufacture and Repair Side Curtains, "Jiffy" Curtains patent, Seat Covers, Top Envelopes, Radiator Covers, Woodwork. Top Accessories always in stock.
"Your Satisfaction is Our Success."
632 17th Avenue West Phone W4038

GEO. EDWARDS
Spring Manufacturer
All Kinds of Carriage and Wagon Springs Made to Order.
Prices Moderate
A trial is solicited.
330 Sixth Avenue East, Calgary

Gillespie Tire & Vulcanizing Works
Geo. J. Gillespie, Proprietor
Auto Tires and Tubes Vulcanized.
We Supply Any Make of Tires.
Our Repair Work is First Class and Done in the Most Modern Way.
We solicit your patronage and ask you to give us a trial.
209 Sixth Ave. West, Calgary

Dimples

She Carries Happy Birthday Greetings



BY GRACE G. DRAYTON

Copyright, 1916, by Grace G. Drayton. Great Britain Rights Reserved.

THAT SON-IN-LAW OF PA'S!

Warning—Be Careful Where You Poke Your Poker Money

JUNE

THE BIRTH OF SAMSON

There was a certain man of Zorah, of the family of Danites, whose name was Manoah; and his wife. And the angel of the Lord appeared unto the woman, and said unto her, Behold thou shalt bear a son; and no razor shall come on his head: for the child shall be a Nazarite unto God, and he shall begin to deliver Israel out of the hand of the Philistines. And the woman bare a son, and called his name Samson.—Judges xiii, 2 to 24.

CALGARY
Western Standard
ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY
INDEPENDENT OPTIMISTIC

MY CANADA

I LOVE my country. There is nothing that she can ask I will not do. I am ready to live or die for her. She is the realization of a dream and the fulfillment of an ideal—this Canada of ours. She is the embodiment of what a country should be—and right or wrong, it is my home, my country—the one I love.

Vol. VII. No. 14 TWO SECTIONS—16 Pages CALGARY, ALBERTA, JUNE 10, 1917 TWO SECTIONS—16 Pages Five Cents the Copy

COMMENT AND CRITICISM

Now Turkey says she wants no territorial annexation, she simply wants peace. She isn't the only nation that will be hollering the same way before long.

* * * *

BLACKFOOT LAND SALE GRATIFYING

The results of the Blackfoot land sale were most gratifying, as it shows that not even the present war conditions can retard the progress of this country. People are going to take advantage of the great opportunities this country holds forth and are going to locate here—war or no war. The fact that in most cases they were practical farmers who made the purchases is doubly gratifying, as it means greater production of products and consequent increase in the revenue of the province. The total increase in the cost of the land also portends well for the province, for it means that the land values of this country are on the increase. Greater sales of land will mean greater production and greater production means more wealth for the province and for the people.

* * * *

AVOID THE WASTE AND HELP THE COUNTRY

A single slice of bread seems a most unimportant thing. In most households one or more slices of bread are thrown away daily and not used for food. Sometimes stale quarter or half loaves are thrown away. Yet one good sized slice of bread—such as a child likes to cut—weighs an ounce. It contains almost three-quarters of an ounce of flour. If every one of the country's twenty-five million homes in Canada and the United States wastes on an average only one slice of bread a day it means the throwing away daily of fifteen million ounces of flour—about a million pounds, or enough flour for over a million one-pound loaves of bread a day. For a full year at this rate there would be wasted over three hundred million pounds of flour—nearly two million barrels—enough to make upwards of four hundred million loaves of bread. To produce this waste alone calls for an army of farmers, railway men, flour workers and many others in various lines of pursuit. Some say that there is not a daily waste. We will grant that they may be right and still when one figures on the enormous waste and the great necessity for economy under the circumstances it is little wonder that the United States and Canadian authorities are impressing the people upon the necessity for strict attention to avoid the waste.

* * * *

THE SPRINGTIME OF OUR YOUTH

While to some people the rejuvenation which is usually associated with spring is announced by remonstrating twinges from joints which object to the spring moisture, still it is pleasing to recall that to some everyday life is for a number of years at least continually unfolding a new outlook. For instance those who attended the soiree which was given in the Grand last week end saw the kiddies tripping through graceful dances and pleasing figures, with the youthful abandon and charm which is always theirs and which makes childhood days perpetual sunshine. When Calgary gets its long-talked-about auditorium, or convention hall, or whatever it will be called, there will be a splendid opportunity afforded the promoters of similar performances to the recent entertainment to put on others. At present the Grand is the only place where such performances can be given satisfactorily, and the inevitable expense which is attached to the use of a large theatre is a serious handicap. Children take to the art of acting so readily—in fact at their age everything they do is "learning a part"—that if given the opportunity there should be many performances similar to those given by the high school pupils in Paget Hall a few weeks ago and last week's entertainment in the Grand.

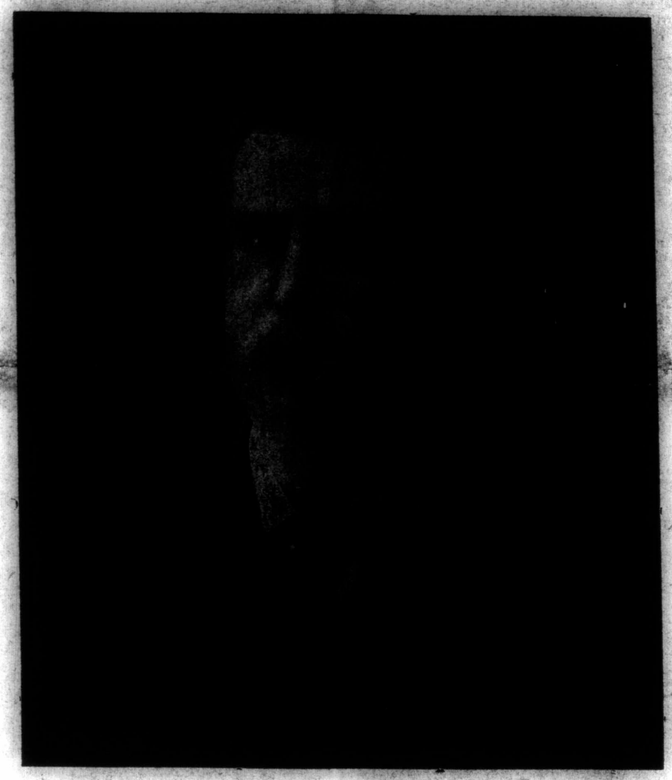
* * * *

CAN A LEOPARD CHANGE HIS SPOTS

"Once a crook always a crook," is an old saying, but nevertheless true. No matter how he may try a leopard can not change its spots and neither can a crook get away from the desire to be a theif. He may be straight for years, but sooner or later the old desire will reappear and he will succumb to the inevitable. While this is not a positive rule and statistics show that there are many wrongdoers who have fallen once who are never guilty again, but if he is a crook—a real full fledged crook—one that has that insane desire to do the other fellow he will never be anything else but a thief. This thought is father to one we have on certain promoters who have fostered schemes in Calgary in years gone by of a nature that were nothing short of crooked. These promoters in some cases have successfully avoided the entanglements of the law through various and dire means known only to themselves. After many ups and downs we see these same men beginning to gain a foothold in the community. The schemes they have look feasible and their talk is so logical that th public forget their past deeds and give credulence to their proposition. Prosperity begins to shine for them and they slowly but surely take on the appearance of good business men. Their past is forgotten and forgiven until the old desires reappears in them and they again overstep the bounds and the seemingly good business projects goes up in smoke. The character of the men are wrong—their projects are built on sand, and no matter to what height they may rise the fall is inevitable. The question is—is it best to let a thousand people be fleeced rather than to acquaint the public of the past deeds of all these promoters even if it does stop in the making one honest man who might have made only one mstake and who would be honest if given another chance?

REVIEW OF THE POLITICAL SITUATION

The return to power of Premier A. W. Sifton was not unexpected, even by the Conservatives. The leader of the Liberals, while not successful in the centers of population, had built up a strong following in the country mainly through his legislation respecting agricultural matters and this body of adherents was faithful to him in time of storm. The Sifton administration has consulted the farmers' interests and in fact its platform is founded, to no small extent, on reforms that have been promulgated by the United Farmers of Alberta. It has therefore been difficult for the opposition candidates to gain much ground in the rural ridings for naturally the agriculturists know what the Liberal government has done and in the light of that knowledge, they are not inclined to change their allegiance. Their steadfast support has given Premier Sifton another five years of power and unless the Non-Partisan league grows to great proportions in the meantime or unless the Conservative party adopts an aggressive and progressive policy that will promise the farmers the reforms they need and demand, the Liberals will doubtless win another five years' sway after the present term elapses.



THE SOLDIERS' VOTE

The only flaw in this forecast is the fact that it does not include the influence of the soldiers' vote. The soldiers who return from service abroad may not like the premier's action in depriving them of the ballot and they may have sufficient influence to swing the province. There is no guarantee of this for the soldiers may feel as the premier does and may be satisfied with the two seats at large and with the military seats that have been filled by acclamation.

THE CALGARY SURPRISES

Thursday's result in Calgary was the greatest surprise of the election. It was generally believed that T. M. Tweedie could not be beaten in Center Calgary and yet Alex Ross, the Labor candidate, administered a crushing defeat to the well known lawyer. The Conservatives' alibi is that there was not enough work done in the constituency and that there was too much cocksureness.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

S. J. CLARKE

Aside from Lieut.-Governor Brett no man in Alberta is better known than Simon J. Clarke, Superintendent of the National park, Banff. He has been closely associated with the life and progress of the province for the past decade or two. An "old-timer" so to speak who has always had the interest of the province at heart and who has been identified with every progressive movement of any note. At present he rules at Banff where his word is law and where he is as popular as his predecessor.

The Standard Congratulates the People of Alberta and the Members of the Sifton Administration

The Standard is jubilant over the result of the election. Three times in the history of the present management has an election been held in Calgary and THREE TIMES HAS THE STANDARD WON.

The Standard does not claim that all of its readers have taken its advice and voted as we suggested, but it is evident from the result of the contest many did.

Some would say we were a good guesser. We say that we are a good analyzer of conditions. We have studied the situation and better still we know our people.

We know the readers likes and dislikes.

We know what they want and what they don't want.

We know that a majority of the people feel that the Liberal government has given the people of Alberta a fair administration. And we feel that they were justly entitled to a second term for the efforts they have made in the people's behalf.

It was for this reason we—an independent newspaper, with no party affiliations, advocated that the Liberals should be returned to power in the province of Alberta.

And we are glad—doubly glad—that our readers have concurred in our suggestions and voted as they did.

We know that the men elected will do their best to serve the interest of the people of this thriving province.

We feel that with this reward of merit which you have bestowed upon them by electing them to a second term will bear good fruit.

That they will make even a greater effort to serve the people, if this be possible, than they have in the past.

This substantial renewal of confidence can have but a good effect.

And so we congratulate the people of Alberta upon the wise choice they have made, and we congratulate the members of the Sifton administration, one and all, upon their good fortune. And our earnest prayer is that they may so conduct the affairs of the province in future that on their retirement we may be as profuse in heaping laurels upon their heads as we are now doing over their re-election.

HERE AND EVERYWHERE

Reviewing the political situation we have but one regret—Tom Tweedie's defeat. Oh! Why wasn't he a Liberal.

* * * *

Marconi, the inventor of the wireless, has at last come into his own. And only a few years ago the whole of the United States rang with the rumors of the wireless being a fake.

* * * *

AN ORIGINAL IDEA THAT DESERVES A TRIAL

Some time ago one of the leading magazines of the United States published a story showing the reasons why public libraries should advertise. His strong point was that the average young man or woman was not cognizant of the fact that on the shelves of the public library were many books that would answer the very questions which were bothering them daily—the problems of life that they had to solve. The writer certainly has suggested an original idea and one that would bear a thorough trial. How many boys and girls there are that are trying their best to solve the main question of life. If they only knew that the libraries held just the books that would assist them in these problems there would be such a rush that the business of the libraries would be doubled and trebled several times over.

* * * *

TRACTOR IS THE WORLD'S GREATEST FRIEND

The tractor, now known as the farmer's horse of the twentieth century, is already becoming a very important factor in the development of the farming industry. Marked progress has been made in the past year, and it seems certain that the redemption of the "man with the hoe" will come through the gasoline motor. The farm tractor will plow spring and fall and cultivate all summer, chop wood in the winter and not "eat its head off." The ambition of Henry Ford is a gasoline tractor within reach of the farmer. His success will mean more for the world than all gasoline motor development to date. The farm tractor will solve the labor problem on the farm, enable the individual farmer to till a greater acreage, quickly cultivate the same and rapidly store the crops. The result will be greater prosperity for the farmer and the much needed additional stores of food supplies.

* * * *

MR. COMMON PEOPLE WILL EVENTUALLY PAY

Not for many years has the situation in the coal mining industry looked as grave as it does right now. The owners have sent word to Ottawa to Hon. Mr. Crothers that they have negotiated with the mine officials and after having reached an agreement the men refused to ratify it. The intimate that the government must either now make the men carry out the agreement or else take over the mines and run them until after the war is over. On the face of the contention the operators are right to a certain extent, but there are many who think that the union officials got all they could from the operators, and that the latter looked with a certain amount of favor on government control of the mines. Whatever the result will be there is one thing certain—Mr. Common People will have to pay in the end. Of course there is always the possibility that the government will be able to reach an agreement with the union men whereby they will continue to work the mines at a reasonable increase to meet these extraordinary conditions, which will make the advance in the price of coal not too serious. And if this is accomplished why give the control of the mines back to the operators at all?

* * * *

THE PRICE THAT RUSSIA MUST PAY

No country is more interested in a peace that shall be a guaranty of the safety of democracy in the world than is Russia. But the soldiers and workmen, who are agitating for a peace conference, should reflect that no peace that would leave the fundamental issue of the war unsettled would afford such a guaranty to any democracy, least of all to Russia. They may feel very sure, too, that if their peace overtures find any favor in Germany it is not because of any sympathy of the German government with their aims. German militarism has its own aims, and even though those aims may contemplate peace at this moment, the motive behind that program is not one that promises any security to a peace that would meet the aspirations of the Russian people for the free development of their institutions. Russia's democracy was war born and it must be war nurtured until it finds stability, not in a separate peace that leaves autocracy undisturbed as its next neighbor, but is a world peace that leaves that autocracy broken and forever incapable of again plunging the world into the horrors it is now passing through. Democracy is not a boon to be won cheaply. It is not to be purchased and made secure by a peace of expediency or a peace of unrighteousness. When Russian democracy overthrew its own autocracy it had only made a start toward the goal it must attain if it is to deliver the Russian people from their enemies. Another autocracy, more powerful than that of the Romanoffs, must be overthrown before the Russian people are free and that autocracy still confronts them unbroken. The Russian soldiers and workmen, who have everything to gain by a peace that the democracies of America, England and France are striving to bring to them, and which will be one in which all democracies of America, England and France are striving to bring to them, and which will be one in which all democracies can find safety, should not make that task harder by trying to buy freedom at a bargain. Nothing but payment of the full price—which is continued war until German military autocracy is crushed—can bring it to them with a guarantee that it is safe for the future.

Alive :: Alert Up to the Minute

NEWS AND VIEWS ON SPORTS

Local .: Provincial World in General

HINTS ON PLAYING GOLF

The Secret of "Putting" Is to Hold the Body In an Easy Attitude and Without Moving.

If the average golfer could only strike adroitly upon the science or art of good putting he would soon be seven or eight strokes better off to the round.

But putting, to the average golfer, in fact to most golfers, even above the average, is one of the game's leading mysteries. Yet there is at least one essential to good putting, which, if followed, will give the golfer a long start in the proper direction.

Here is a case in hand. James S. Worthington, now visiting this country, is one of England's leading golfers, only a shade, in fact, below Harold Hilton and John Ball. Worthington is a fine, straight player from the tee to the green. And once on the green he is one of the finest putters that ever laid a 40-footer dead or holed consistently from six to eight feet away.

A few days ago Worthington was playing in a four-ball match that included a well known Scotch professional. The Englishman, putting wonderfully well, soon attractel the attention of one of the contenders.

An Unimportant Part

The man referred to noted at once that the English player, while putting, held the forefinger of his right hand down the shaft of the club. He called attention to the fact at once, as he tried the system out.

"That's the trouble with so many of you golfers," remarked the professional. "You see this man is a fine putter and your attention is drawn at once to the unimportant part of his play. The way he holds his forefinger or his thumb has nothing at all to do with the case. If you want to find out why he is a fine putter watch his body as he putts. Watch it and you will find that it doesn't move the fraction of an inch. You will find on the short putts he uses only his wrists and forearms, and that his body is as immovable as a rock. Which is one of the main reasons that he can putt."

From that point on we watched Worthington continue to sink his putts and at the same time continue to hold his body in an easy attitude, unrestrained, but at the same time immovable.

There was at no time any effort or attempt to hunch his shoulder or his right hip into the stroke, as so many golfers do.

And then we recalled the putting manners and methods of Travers, Travis and Ouimet, three of the finest putters golf has ever known.

But All Keep Their Eyes on the Ball

Their stances, their grips, their attitudes, are not nearly alike. Travis stands with his feet well separated, bending over the ball much more than Travers does, who stands with his heels only a few inches apart. Ouimet has both elbows extended, differing from both. But there is this one point in common—they not only keep body still is to first keep the head still. The head directs the body. If the head moves, the body is sure to move with it.

It has been proved that a man can look at the hole, not the ball, and still putt very well—provided that in looking at the hole he keeps his head fixed in one place, and, therefore, keeps his body from swaying out of their eyes on the ball, but their bodies never quiver with the stroke—the wrists, the forearms and the club do the workk.

The easiest aid in keeping the line.

A moving head or a moving body, in putting, not only takes the club away from the proper line, but it brings in an immediate tendency to jab or push the putter.

Let the Wrists and the Club Work

You may notice on certain days, when feeling sluggish, that you putt very well. The answer is that, not being keyed up, you are willing to let the wrists and club do the work. Over-eagerness and over-anxiety is almost sure to cause a shift of the head and body before the putter's blade strikes the ball.

Jerry Travers calls this process of keeping the head and the body still "concentration."

Others have called it "mental and muscular control."

You can call it anything you care to, but the fact remains that it is the foundation of steady, successful putting. The golfer who takes an easy, comfortable stance over the ball, gets the line, and then keeps his head still and his body out of the stroke, is almost sure to be a first class putter. And if he makes a habit of this he is just as sure to be a good putter in a hard, close match as at any other time.

General Repair Works
P. C. HEAD, Prop.
230 SEVENTH AVE. EAST
(Opp. Post Office), CALGARY
WE REPAIR—Guns, Sewing Machines, Gramophones, Typewriters, Cash Registers, Musical Instruments, Slot Machines, Carpet Sweepers, Vacuum Cleaners, Wash Machines, etc.
Guns Repaired by an Expert Gunsmith
We Do Welding, Brazing, Soldering
We Specialize on Sewing Machines

DO YOU RIDE A WHEEL?
When Enamelled, "Baking Process". Be the Premier Man Looks Good as New
If you are thinking of making a purchase, or if you have an OLD WHEEL YOU WISH REBUILT, it will pay you to call and see US. This is our SPECIALTY, and we stand alone in this particular line.
OUR SYSTEM IS PERFECT AND MODERN, and in rebuilding your WHEEL, it is given a thorough overhauling, and the only difference in our REBUILT MACHINES AND THE NEW ONE, "IS THE PRICE."
PREMIER CYCLE WORKS
102 Seventh Ave. West Phone M1755
W. S. COMPTON, Prop.

WESTERN CARRIAGE WORKS
A. H. ADAMS, Manager
Auto and Carriage Top Builders and Upholsterers, Manufacture and Repair Side Curtains, "Jiffy" Curtains patented, Seat Covers, Top Envelopes, Radiator Covers, Woodwork. Top Accessories always in stock.
"Your Satisfaction is Our Success."
827 11th Avenue West Phone W4838

GEO. EDWARDS
Spring Manufacturer
All Kinds of Carriage and Wagon Springs Made to Order.
Prices Moderate
A trial is solicited.
326 Sixth Avenue East, Calgary

FOWLER'S CIDERS
TO BE MIGHTY GOOD
13 DIFFERENT KINDS
BUY THEM BY THE GALLON FROM YOUR DEALER

CALGARY WELDING SHOP
Up-to-Date Steel Cutting Appliances
Steel Tanks Made to Order
All Metals Welded—Cast Iron, Steel, Aluminum and Brass Castings of All Kinds
We Specialize in Farm Machinery Repairs—Oxy-Acetylene Process
We Solicit Your Patronage
All Work Guaranteed
306 Third Avenue East, Calgary
Phone M4322

OXY-ACETYLENE WELDING
City Welding and Repair Shop (formerly Calgary Welding Co.)
143 First Ave. E., Calgary. Phone M2246
Broken articles made like new. Customers doing business with us, find that we give prompt and careful attention to all orders. We are efficient in this line, and guarantee to give satisfaction.

ALLFORD GARAGE
EVANS & LINDBERG, PROPS.
Ford Specialists
All Repair Work Guaranteed
All Makes and Grades of Second-Hand Cars for Sale
211 TENTH AVENUE WEST
Residence: Phone M4984
Garage: Phone M2246

Youth Should Train to Build Up Bodies

"If the youth of America are to build up their bodies and their minds to be ready for war or for universal military training, there is no branch of athletics that will be more worth while than boxing."

This is the advice of Jess Willard, heavyweight champion of the world. This advice is for young Americans who may be called out in defence of their country.

Willard is 27 years old, and is a picture of physical perfection.

Here are Willard's rules for conditioning. What they did to make Jess strong and healthy, they will do for any boy:

"Avoid dissipation. Do not form bad habits. Smoking hurts the wind and drinking tears down the body tissues faster than they can be built up.

"Get to bed early. Get a regular amount of sleep. Eat regularly.

"Exercise every day, practice deep breathing, take long walks or runs.

"Learn boxing, under an instructor, if possible.

"When Uncle Sam wants men, he does not want weaklings," said Willard. "The reason so many men cannot pass physical examinations to get into the army is because these men did not take care of themselves when they were young.

"There is nothing in the world that will develop a boy as learning to box, and in order to know how to box, he must take other exercises which will give him wind and endurance and will build up his body.

"Boxing has another advantage. It builds the mind. It causes a person to think quickly and accurately. It makes it possible for him to meet difficult situations and know what to do without hesitation.

"The boxer who will conscientiously try to improve his mind will do so more quickly than the man who has never learned the fundamentals of boxing. He will grasp that which he is striving for much easier and will be able to put it to better use."

Venezuela Sports Benefitted by War

With discouraging comment on all sides as to the effect that war by this country will have on American sports, there, at least, is one country where the war would seem to have benefited sports in no little degree.

The news comes from Venezuela, South America, and it is to the effect that the magnitude of the sugar industry in the continent south of us, resulting from the demand growing out of the war, has attracted many Cuban baseball players to the continent, and these men have organized baseball teams and started to play the American game.

Many Are Players

All the South American countries whose soil is adapted to the cultivation of sugar are sending to Cuba for expert workmen, and many of course who are responding have been diamond stars in the Pearl of the Antilles. As a result, baseball promises to become at least as well known, if not as popular, in Latin-America as it is in the West Indies. The South Americans are a sport-loving people, and once the fascination of the old cry, "Play ball!" fastens itself on them, there should be a wave of enthusiastic response throughout the continent. The turnstiles at bull fights may suffer, but this, in the minds of many, would be a consummation devoutly to be desired.

To Help Baseball

Thus the war, which unquestionably has done much to stifle sport abroad, may be of lasting benefit to at least one continent, and indirectly may be the cause of a renewed interest in baseball in this country. It is not beyond the range of possibilities that the world's series will hereafter be a truly international affair, and that the real championship of the diamond may not be settled until the northern and southern hemispheres of America have battled for the title.

FOOLS

Fool!
Fool with the bauble and fool with the bells!
There's a generous laugh if your story excels.
There's a sneer if your quip fails to waken a smile,
And your only reward is to loiter awhile
In the sunshine with idlers like truants from school,
To live and be swiftly forgotten, oh, Fool!

Fool!
Fool with the scepter and fool with the crown.
Striving in hate to make nations bow down,
Plunging the world into darkness and fear,
Your memory will live in a curse and a tear
As men reckon the toll of your mischievous rule—
Far better the bells and the bauble, oh, Fool!

HATED RIVALS AT ONE TIME

Photo shows Bob Fitzsimmons and James J. Jeffries, former heavyweight champions, meeting as friends on Jeffries' ranch in California.

NATIONAL BASEBALL

AMERICAN LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Boston	29	13	.696
Chicago	30	15	.667
New York	22	19	.548
Cleveland	25	23	.521
Detroit	18	24	.429
St. Louis	17	26	.396
Washington	17	27	.386
Philadelphia	14	26	.350

NATIONAL LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Philadelphia	24	14	.632
New York	24	14	.632
Chicago	28	18	.609
St. Louis	23	20	.535
Brooklyn	15	20	.429
Cincinnati	20	27	.426
Boston	14	21	.400
Pittsburg	14	28	.333

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

	W.	L.	Pct.
Indianapolis	32	16	.667
St. Paul	24	20	.545
Columbus	25	21	.543
Louisville	25	24	.510
Minneapolis	21	22	.488
Kansas City	18	24	.429
Milwaukee	18	26	.409
Toledo	17	27	.386

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Newark	23	13	.639
Providence	24	15	.615
Baltimore	25	16	.610
Toronto	22	18	.550
Rochester	20	17	.541
Buffalo	15	23	.395
Montreal	14	23	.378
Richmond	12	30	.286

NORTHWESTERN LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Great Falls	24	14	.632
Tacoma	25	15	.625
Seattle	23	21	.523
Vancouver	20	23	.465
Spokane	17	26	.395
Butte	15	25	.375

COAST LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
San Francisco	38	26	.594
Salt Lake	32	27	.542
Oakland	32	30	.516
Los Angeles	30	31	.492
Vernon	27	36	.429
Portland	25	34	.424

THINGS A GOLFER SHOULD KNOW

Golf has many missionaries among the heathen who know it not, and some very strong and convincing arguments may be derived by these propagandists from a little card circulated by the Beverly, Mass., Evening Times. Here's what the Scotch game will do for you, according to the Times:

"It is a science—the study of a lifetime, in which you may exhaust yourself but never your subject.

"It is a contest, a duel or a melee, calling for courage, skill, strategy and self-control.

"It is a test of temper, a trial of honor, a revealer of character.

"It affords a chance to play the man, and act the gentleman.

"It means going into God's out-of-doors, getting close to Nature, fresh air, exercise, a sweeping away of mental cobwebs, genuine recreation of the tired tissues.

"It is a cure for care—an antidote to worry.

"It includes companionship with friends, social intercourse, opportunity for courtesy, kindliness and generosity to an opponent.

"It promotes not only physical health, but moral force."

And—although the card doesn't mention it—golf adds a lot of new words to the vocabulary.

ATHLETICS NECESSARY

Why stop athletics of any kind?

Sport is beneficial physically and mentally, to the participant and productive of good soldiers, as well as diverting to the spectator. And that is what we will need in this war—physical and mental benefit—yes, and some diversion.

England in the first rush toward efficiency at the outbreak of the war placed a ban on all forms of athletics. She soon realized her mistake and now the ban has been lifted on all branches of sport and encouraged. We should profit by her lesson.

NEW YORK ASSEMBLY REPEALS BOXING LAW

In the closing hours of the session the New York legislature bowed to the will of Governor Whitman and passed the Slater bill repealing the Frawley law, under which boxing is conducted in New York state. Twenty senators and 42 assemblymen voted "no."

The governor has declared ever since charges were brought against Frederick A. Wenck, former head of the boxing commission, that the Frawley law should be repealed.

The bill was passed in the senate and transmitted to the house. Immediately afterward Speaker Sweet called the Republican assemblymen into a caucus. When they came out it had been decided to pass the bill as a party measure and the victory of the governor was assured.

THE NEW STYLE PATRIOT

Listen, my children, and you shall hear
Of a patriot's work in this present year.
He didn't ride through the roads at night
To rouse the neighbors to arm and fight,
But he went to work with a spade and hoe
And he made ten bushels of 'taters grow.

He mopped the sweat from his beady brow
As he trudged behind his hand-power plow;
His hands grew tough and his feet got sore
As he turned the stubborn furrows o'er,
And his neighbors laughed as they called him slow,
But he made ten bushels of 'taters grow.

Oh, cheer the boy with the sword and gun
Who has fought and bled, when the war is done,
And cheer the generals and majors too,
And the sailors bold on the ocean blue;
But cheer this man and his spade and hoe,
For he made ten bushels of 'taters grow.

—EDGAR A. GUEST.

Count it disloyalty to oppose any farm movement that is going to increase farmers' powers.

SLEEP IS HEALTH

Sleep is to a large extent a matter of habit. It is one that should be taught the growing child.

Too often young children are allowed to enjoy the same privileges of the evening as their parents. This is a mistaken notion of kindness. A child that is allowed to sit up until 10 o'clock too frequently grows up into a youth given to late hours and becomes a nervous wreck who cannot sleep at all. Digestion affects sleep. The child with poor digestion sleeps poorly and often needs more sleeping hours than the healthy child.

The growing child needs sleep and should be put to bed early and kept there even if the parents have to forego a few social pleasures.

Indoor life, stimulating drinks and excitement are the enemies of sleep. Outdoor physical exercise, especially in the evening before retiring, followed by a warm bath, will often cure or relieve temporary conditions of insomnia. Such simple remedies are not likely to benefit the chronic sufferer.

It is impossible to prescribe any fixed dose of sleep. Most people need at least eight hours. A few can get along with less; others require much more. Because Napoleon is said to have required only four to six hours of sleep is no argument that we all sleep too much.

History tells us that Napoleon when not in action slept like all the rest of us, going to bed at 10 or 11 and rising at 7. But during periods of great exertion he was obliged to lessen his hours of sleep. Even then he found six hours in the 24 absolutely indispensible. He would sleep these six hours most faithfully, either at intervals or on a stretch. Napoleon was remarkable not so much for keeping awake as for his ability to fall asleep whenever he wanted to sleep. It was his ability to sleep, even during a battle, which kept him going.

It is the same in everyday life. It is the habit of sleep which in many a person spells success. Parents who neglect to teach their children to sleep may lay the foundation for that nervous suffering and failure in achievement which insomnia often causes in adult years.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Famous Grant Six is Here

Other Cars Have Come and Gone

We desire to notify our many customers, that we have just received Four Carloads of the Famous Grant Six Autos. One carload already unloaded and in our garage, and We Are Now Ready for Business.

A POPULAR CAR AT A POPULAR PRICE
$1,325.00, SIX CYLINDER, FULLY EQUIPPED, F. O. B. CALGARY

Our garage has been enlarged and remodelled and is without exception the best equipped and most modern in Western Canada, having all the conveniences necessary to give you the most satisfactory service.

We have an up-to-date Repair Shop in connection, under the supervision of expert mechanics.

Free Air and Water Service.

Repairs and Accessories, including Gas and Oil, furnished at Lowest Possible Cost.

I. G. RUTTLE MOTOR COMPANY
319 Sixth Avenue East Phone M6447

A NEW WAY TO SAVE

The Province of Alberta Offers to the Public

Province of Alberta Savings Certificates

In denominations of Ten Dollars, One Hundred Dollars, and One Thousand Dollars.

These Certificates will bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, compounded half-yearly.

Certificates are redeemable in three years, but may be cashed at any time on the demand of the holder.

ABSOLUTE SECURITY. QUICK CONVERTIBILITY

For full information write or apply to

W. V. NEWSON,
Deputy Provincial Treasurer
Edmonton

KNIGHTS' BINDERY

605 CENTRE STREET, CALGARY
(Note the Address Carefully)
Phone M5226
W. G. KNIGHTS, Prop. and Manager

The above address is the location of Calgary's latest and most fully equipped BOOK BINDERY, PAPER RULING, and LOOSE LEAF establishment. The proprietor is a thoroughly practical man, with 35 years' experience in the book-binding trade and its kindred branches. In addition to the manufacture of new goods this go-ahead Bindery will specialise in the REPAIRING and RE-BINDING of old books and dilapidated Loose Leaf Covers. An expert in repair work will be sent out to do repairing at any office where the book is of too much importance to allow it to be taken away. This information should be of great interest to bankers.

MUSIC BINDING will be another feature of our work. No matter how old or torn your music sheets may be, we can mend and bind them, and return to you a strong and respectable book. We have every facility and are fully prepared to make POSTAL TUBES in any quantity, any length or diameter. It will be to the financial advantage of any business house to give us the privilege of quoting on any special work—either new work or repair work—before placing their order elsewhere.

We cordially invite Out-of-Town Customers to allow us to submit our price for BLANK BOOKS and LOOSE LEAF BINDERS. SYNOPTIC SHEETS and Municipal Tax-Roll Sheets ruled to any specification. Loose Leaf Binders made to fit any sized sheet. Loose Leaf Indexes made upon short notice.

WE STAMP NAME OR INITIALS on Suitcases, Grips, Purses, etc., etc., in guaranteed 22 carat pure gold, at reasonable prices.

Give Us a Trial and We Will Give You Satisfaction

FIRST PHOTOGRAPHS OF THE RUSSIAN REVOLUTION

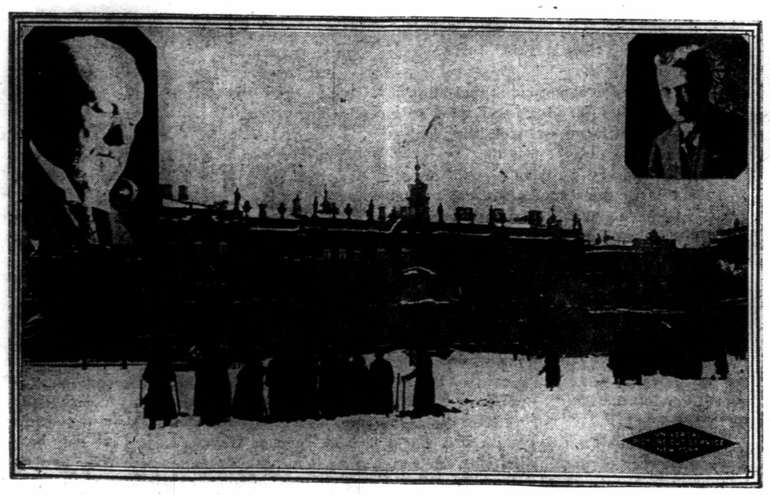

Photo shows soldiers digging graves for those killed in the revolution. In the background is the Winter Palace. In the 1905 revolution many people were killed on this spot. Insets, left: M. Rodzianko, the president of the duma; right: A. F. Kerenski, minister of justice in the cabinet.

Local .: Provincial World in General

more. Because Napoleon is said to have required only four to six hours of sleep is no argument that we all sleep too much.

History tells us that Napoleon when not in action slept like all the rest of us, going to bed at 10 or 11 and rising at 7. But during periods of great exertion he was obliged to lessen his hours of sleep. Even then he found six hours in the 24 absolutely indispensible. He would sleep these six hours most faithfully, either at intervals or on a stretch. Napoleon was remarkable not so much for keeping awake as for his ability to fall asleep whenever he wanted to sleep. It was his ability to sleep, even during a battle, which kept him going.

It is the same in everyday life. It is the habit of sleep which in many a person spells success. Parents who neglect to teach their children to sleep may lay the foundation for that nervous suffering and failure in achievement which insomnia often causes in adult years.

NCEMENT
rant Six is Here
e Come and Gone

many customers, that we have f the Famous Grant Six Autos. and in our garage, and We Are

T A POPULAR PRICE
FULLY EQUIPPED, F.O.B.
LGARY

nlarged and remodelled and is equipped and most modern in the conveniences necessary to ory service.

Repair Shop in connection, under echanics.

rvice.

including Gas and Oil, furnished

MOTOR COMPANY
Phone M6447

AY TO SAVE

erta Offers to the Public of Alberta
Certificates

Ten Dollars, One Hundred e Thousand Dollars.

bear interest at the rate of 5 compounded half-yearly.

in three years, but may be cashed e demand of the holder.

QUICK CONVERTIBILITY

tion write or apply to
V. NEWSON,
Deputy Provincial Treasurer,
Edmonton

BINDERY
STREET, CALGARY
Address Carefully)
ne M5226
TS, Prop. and Manager

he location of Calgary's latest and K BINDERY, PAPER RULING,
ishment. The proprietor is a thor-35 years' experience in the booked branches. In addition to the this go-ahead Bindery will spe-
and RE-BINDING of old books
Covers. An expert in repair work ring at any office where the book o allow it to be taken away. This great interest to bankers.
be another feature of our work.
your music sheets may be, we can eturn to you a strong and respect-facility and are fully prepared to any quantity, any length or diamancial advantage of any business ge of quoting on any special work
r work—before placing their order

-Town Customers to allow us to submit nd LOOSE LEAF BINDERS. SYNOP.
ex-Roll Sheets ruled to any specification.
t any sized sheet. Loose Leaf Indexes

INITIALS on Suitcases, Grips, Purses, at pure gold, at reasonable prices.
We Will Give You Satisfaction

MOTORS AND MOTORING

The Motor Adds Zest to Pleasure and Makes Life Worth Living

Will the Future Car be a Steamer?

During the early part of the last decade the steam automobile was developed to a point where it became a thing fearfully and wonderfully made, practical perhaps, but deucedly inconvenient. And just at this point it was abandoned by its sponsors, not because it had inherently uncorrectable faults, but because in the eyes of eager designers and manufacturers, the larger field, the bigger chance, the surer profits lay with the more popular gas car.

Now, after nearly ten years, the pendulum is beginning to swing back. The gas car is now suffering from a surfeit of development. In a long arc it has swung from one cylinder to four and then six and eight and twelve and is now on its way back, on the other side of the circle, to four—with sixteen valves. Throughout its long sweep it has nowhere reached a state of what can rightly be called ultimate development; the problem of adopting the constant speed gas motor to the varying load of a road vehicle has not been satisfactorily solved. We still have gears to shift and are in doubt about the ideal number of cylinders. In this state of things the steamer has been re-discovered.

It has been given a substantial, if delayed, dose of gas car brains and it has responded amazingly. From its quiescent state of fearful and wonderful complication it has taken up an orderly evolution and is becoming quite simple. It now starts from the seat much as a gas car does; it has electric lights and good lines; its insatiable appetite for water has been curbed; its bewildering glasses and gauges and cocks and hand pumps have nearly all been removed; its water level and fire are quite automatic; it has no hot cushions and plume of hot steam and finally, wonder of wonders, it successfully burns kerosene. This is its crowning glory: the stimulus of its re-discovery.

There is no use to argue about the price of gas: it is high and it is going to be higher. In many cases it is poor and it is going to be poorer. Gas cars are going to cost more and more to operate and under unfavorable conditions—as cold weather and poor gas—they are going to give more and more trouble.

Always possessed of certain inherent advantages of flexibility, power, torque and simplicity of operation, the steam car, stripped of its inconveniences, is in the future going to appeal not only to the few who intuitively love steamers—as some people love dogs—but to the great majority of motorists who want simplicity and ease of operation coupled with performance—plus.

But the steamer of the future is going to make its greatest hit on the score of economy. In the truck field especially, it is going to be fitted to burn most any old fuel; coal dust for one thing. And when it does that it will become an almost undreamed of factor in land transportation.

UNITED STATES ALIVE WITH MOTOR CARS

There were 3,550,000 motor cars registered in the United States on January 1, 1917, and in all probability there will be 5,000,000 motor vehicles in operation by the end of the year. New York state leads all its sister commonwealths with 280,000 motor vehicles and Pennsylvania registered the greatest gain in cars, having 80,000 more automobiles at the end of 1916 than it had in 1915. Nevada brings up the rear of the procession with 4,609 motor cars, but the mountain state gained 2,400 cars in 1916, which amounts to a 111 per cent. increase over its 1915 showing.

United States automobile exports during 1916 reached the astonishing total of $138,289,514, as against $125,306,568 for 1915. In the calendar year in question we sent to foreign countries 80,850 complete motor vehicles, having a total value of $96,595,861, an increase of 16,892 vehicles over the 1915 record and a gain in total value of $1,711,468. There was a decrease in the number and value of motor trucks exported, the 1916 record being 18,903 commercial vehicles, valued at $52,870,774, as against 22,094 trucks valued at $59,839,303 in 1915. On the other hand, passenger car shipments increased from 41,864 valued at $35,045,090 in 1915 to 61,947 cars worth $43,725,087 in 1916.

BERKELEY GIVES POLICEMEN EACH A MOTOR CAR

The city of Berkeley, Cal., is providing every man on its police force with a motor car and allowing him $25 per month for the purchase of gasoline, oil and other necessities. The cars are fitted up with a fire extinguisher, first aid kit and emergency ladder. It has been found that under this system the patrolmen can cover much greater territory, more efficiently than under the old method of walking the beat. When it is necessary to bring a prisoner to the station, the patrolman loads him into the car and whisks him in before he has time to think about protesting.

RECONSTRUCTION COST WILL BE GREAT

The foreign trade council estimates that $6,000,000,000 will be required in reconstruction work in Europe after the war ends, including buildings, factory equipment, public improvements, etc., and that much of this money must be found by America.

What to do in an Emergency.

Q. I have a 1911 (——) car, and have a storage battery for the lights, but no generator and must take the battery to have it charged outside. This is not very satisfactory, because I never know when it is going to run out, and it must be charged very often of late. I have seen chauffeurs in our garage put some liquid acid I guess, in their batteries. Will putting an acid in the battery help, and what kind? Any information will oblige.

A. Once a week you should pour into your battery some distilled (not filtered) water until the plates are just covered. Never put acid in a storage battery. Let the battery man do this. I would suggest that you get about a dozen dry cells and connect these in multiple series, and then with a two-way switch couple them up to the lights, so that when your battery runs out you can switch to them.

Q. I just bought a second-hand car, and am learning to drive it. Please give me any hints you can so that I will become a good driver.

A. Learn to make the car travel slowly; to shift from high to second or low when going up or down hill or on the level; to start the car on a hill; to turn corners slowly. Fill the battery with distilled water about once a week. Get an instruction book from the manufacturer and study it carefully. Be careful of your lubrication. Use your horn freely, especially when going around hidden turns in the country. Watch for people coming from behind trolley cars. Watch children. Do not get mad at the other fellow. That which made him stop suddenly may now be in front of you. Remember that, when you have driven about 3,000 miles, you are a dangerous man. Before that you will be careful; at 3,000 miles you will be over-confident; after that you will have had experience. When in doubt be on the safe side.

Q. The lights on my car do not always burn, they go out, get low, and then get bright again. I have gone over my wiring and the connections are all tight. Please suggest what might be the cause of this.

A. Clean all the metal—especially the spring holding the glass in place—in the left head light, from rust, as it may be that the current is not getting to the ground. The lighting wire is grounded in this light. Your wires may be oil soaked or worn and so cause a short circuit.

Q. What is the best way to tell when the storage battery is properly charged?

A. Buy a hydrometer and syringe. When you want to test your battery, with a syringe draw some of the solution out of the battery and put the hydrometer in the solution so that it floats. When the top of the solution is at the 1,200 mark or lower (number) mark, the battery should be recharged. At 1,250 the battery is fully charged.

Q. Will you please tell me how to take the side play out of my front wheels? I have a 1913 (——) car. Some time ago I saw this instruction given, but forgot how to do it.

A. Jack up the wheels. Put a wedge of wood between the portion of the steering knuckle through which the "king bolt" passes, and the fork in the axle, so as to take out the play here. Now take hold of the wheel on top and bottom and see if the play is in the bearings. If it is, gradually tighten the bearing nut until this play disappears. If the play is not in the bearings, then it will be in the steering mechanism parts, and the remedy is to replace the clevis pins and bushings.

Q. I am going to reline my clutch. Would it be advisable to use raybestos instead of the leather?

A. I would use the same kind of material as the manufacturer of your car originally put into it.

Q. Is there any law against the use of headlights?

A. A number of states have made laws against the use of glaring lights, as have many of the larger cities.

REGARDING THE CLUTCH

The clutches of modern cars are generally so well designed and constructed that their careless use can do very little damage to a car. Indeed, many of them can be let in abruptly without taking hold in such a way as to produce a detrimental or even disagreeable shock to the car or its passengers. Still there are some that require gentle and gradual release of the pedal to effect a properly easy engagement. Many of them will withstand almost unlimited slipping without serious injury. With the introduction of engines possessing very wide ranges of speed and large margins of reserve power, the required use of the clutch has become very slight in fact almost restricted to starting the car from a state of rest. There are, however, certain general rules as to the operation of the clutch that still apply in a general way. Too many operators use it too freely as a means of car speed control, throwing it out and in, slipping it inordinately and allowing the motor to race excessively. The throttle is the proper speed control device and almost any modern car can be controlled to any reasonable speed by its use alone. It should be remembered that clutch-slipping, even if the clutch can withstand it successfully is a practice very wasteful of fuel, all the energy developed by the engine and not transmitted to the wheels being wasted as heat in the clutch. The best operators seldom release their clutches except upon stopping their cars or changing gears—the flexibility of modern motors not requiring it. Here are a few general rules for clutch operation. Change gears freely rather than slipping the clutch excessively. Don't try to start a car on high gear, no matter if the agent shows you that this can be done. Don't hold the clutch out when coasting hills or rounding corners, but let the engine regulate the speed. On general principles always let the clutch in gently, even though it can be let in abruptly without violent "grabbing." Remember that the clutch is not a speed-regulating device.

EVERY BUSINESS MAN SHOULD HAVE AN AUTO

"Because it multiplies the minutes that may be devoted to the office or store, an automobile owned by an alert and active man pays for itself quickly," says a prominent distributor.

"Estimated conservatively, a half hour each day is probably the average saving of time the typical business man of America enjoys through the use of his car. In the course of a business year of 312 days this means 156 hours, or about three weeks of his working time. It is not necessary to remind 'Mr. Busy Person' that much can be accomplished in three weeks.

"Figure out what your own time is worth by the hour and you realize the personal importance of the saving, but go a little further, consider it from the standpoint of public welfare. With 3,000,000 automobile running in America, an aggregated 1,500,000 hours' time are thus saved each day. This is nearly 530 years when you figure it out.

"And the more you figure the more fascinating the problem grows. Still, based upon the six days' work of nine hours per day, what does it amount to when you reduce this saving of time to actual money value. If the ownership of these 3,000,000 automobiles represented only an average income of $4 per day, six days a week, it amounts in currency to about $220,000.

"Suppose the average man saves only twenty-two cents worth of time each day through the use of his car. The amount would buy nearly 275 gallons of gasoline at twenty-five cents, or enough to run his car more than 5,000 miles."

GEARLESS CARS IN GREAT DEMAND

There may be automobile enthusiasts who enjoy the active operations of driving the usual high powered car, just as many horseback riders prefer a horse they have to "ride." But the majority of owners are looking for a simplified car, just as most equestrians prefer a gentle horse, which leaves them free to enjoy outdoors and general surroundings, and this class are becoming interested in the new Woods dual power.

The car is without gears, driven by the operation of one foot pedal. The usual gear shifts, or the hand operated emergency brake, is lacking. Two foot pedals are all that are disclosed of the mechanical construction of the dual-power.

To start the car the driver sets the electric control lever. Pressure on the foot pedal brings the car to a gradual stop. When the pedal is released the car will pick up to its original speed. That a car of this type appeals especially to business men who don't want to put too much effort into their driving is proved by the standing and position of those who come to look at the daul-power. It is an ideal car for women who do not want to be dependent on a chauffeur.

It takes a good politician to drive a pig through a gate, and maintain oneself a master of the situation.

NEW UNITED STATES ARMY BALLOON

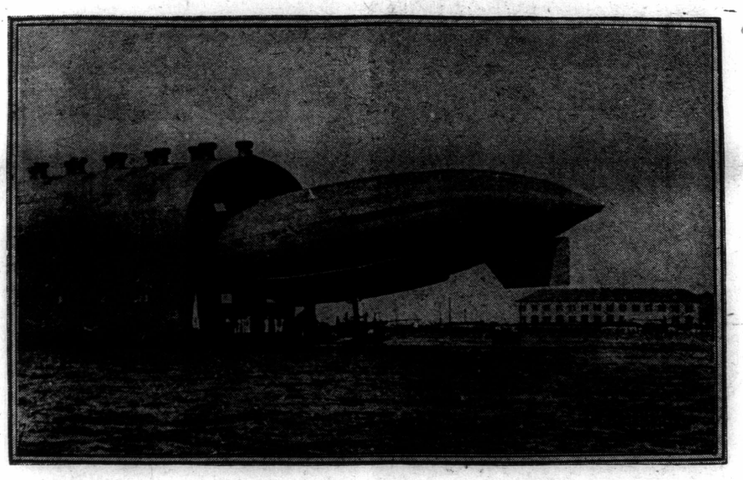

Photo shows the new U. S. army dirigible, the D-N-I, leaving its hanger for a trial flight at the aviation station at Pensacola, Florida.

A Desirable and Necessary Improvement

Temperature regulation produces an operating condition similar to that of an engine carrying a constant load. It is obvious that constant load would be an ideal duty for any motor, but obviously it is rarely approached in actual operation. The nearest approach to constant load is accomplished when a motor is operated at constant speed. This condition can be nearly obtained by means of the magnetic transmission, or entirely obtained by the gas electric car.

Temperature regulation is obtained in two ways, either by regulating the flow of air through the radiator, or by regulating the flow of water through the water jackets of the engine. Thermostats are usually used to regulate the flow of water by short circuiting some of the water, so that the full quantity does not flow through the water jackets. There has been some complaint this last winter that this system caused the radiator to freeze up in extreme cold weather such as we have had.

By the other method the flow of air through the radiator is more or less restricted so that not only the water in the jackets, but the water in the radiator warms up. Personally, I prefer this system over the other. It is the simplest system and helps to maintain all of the equipment under the hood warm in cold weather. This same idea is carried out easily for air cooled cars and secures good results.

Temperature regulation assists in using low grade fuel in cold weather. It also betters the operation of the carbureter during cool nights when first starting up. A great deal has been accomplished in using low grade fuel by including the intake manifold in the cylinder castings, and by connecting the carburetor direct to the cylinder block. In this way the intake manifold is entirely water-jacketed and by means of the schemes of temperature regulation the cooling water is heated up rapidly when starting up and maintained at a high temperature when running, regardless of the weather.

There are just two things that it is desirable to accomplish, first, to secure engines with equipment having ability to use low grade fuels, and second to use any fuel efficiently. Most any engine will run well on any fuel, including kerosene, in very hot weather, but there is a vast difference in the performance of different designs in cold weather. Some are hard to start and some give very poor efficiency after they are started.

I believe temperature regulation is desirable and will be included in some form in the majority of designs from this time on. Fuel economy is becoming more and more an important question, also the day may not be far off when we will need all the assistance we can get to use low grade fuels.

MOTOR TRUCK DEALERS TO BE LIMITED

Motor truck dealers and users in California are very much worried over a proposed law that is pending in the legislature, which would limit the capacity of motor vehicles operating on the state roads, to five tons. In addition a heavy increase in fees and taxes for motor trucks would compel all classes of commercial motor vehicles to pay burdensome imposts to the state, in the case of the five-ton trucks $650 to $700 being the amount of the revised taxes. Motor buses, the humble jitney among them, are listed for taxation at the rate of $25 per seat of their carrying capacity, plus four and a half per cent. of their gross earnings to the state railway commission, bringing the ordinary bill for this class of vehicle up to about $600.

WHY THE PRESSURE OILING SYSTEM?

Many of the recent changes in motor car engine design and construction are the results of a single cause, namely, the effort to secure a greater output from a given piston displacement, in other words of the development of the high-speed motor, which implies a degree of intensity in all the actions of the mechanism that was undreamed of until recently. In the low-speed motor, because of its relatively small valves and ports and other causes, the effective gas pressure upon each square inch of its pistons was much lower than that employed in modern motors, and the cylinders were generally cast in pairs and sometimes even cast separately, thus giving room for numerous crankshaft bearings of large area. Moreover, their rotative speeds were low and the bearing pressures, due to the changes of direction of movement in the moving parts were moderate. With the development of the movement toward weight reduction and toward compactness in proportion to output, and with the adoption of block-cast cylinders, the number of bearings and their area were decreased and the difficulties of the lubrication problem became serious, especially in view of the fact that the reduction of frictional losses was a necessity in order to secure the high fuel efficiency and long life desired. Oil, fed to the crank-shaft bearings by splash and by gravity distribution through oil-ways, had generally proved sufficient for low-speed engine lubrication, but it was soon found that a reliable oil film could not be infallibly maintained, under the greatly increased bearing pressures found in high speed engines, except by the feeding of oil under very considerable pressure and in quantities sufficient to distribute the heat of friction, directly to the bearing surfaces. Unless under pump pressure the desired "floating" of the crank shaft on an oil film cannot be insured under the intensive operative conditions prevailing in modern motors. These considerations have led to the introduction of the pressure-feed system of lubrication in which the pressure is created by an engine driven pump and is increased with engine speed, somewhat in proportion to the increase in bearing pressure.

MOTOR EQUIPMENT OF THE UNITED STATES ARMY

The motor transport equipment of the United States army now consists of 10 truck companies of 27 vehicles of one and a half ton capacity, six companies of 28 trucks of three-ton capacity and two companies of 33 trucks of three-ton capacity. About $2,175,5000 has been spent on this equipment and the cost of operation of the trucks per ton mile, including all incidentals of every kind, is estimated at 70 cents.

U. S. ROAD WORK RUNS INTO BIG FIGURES

More than $300,000,000 was spent on highway construction and maintenance in the United States in 1916. Of this amount 16 southern states spent approximately $52,000,000. The state of California has voted $15,000,000 to be spent in perfecting the state highway system and not a single county failed to give the empowering measure a majority. Ohio is talking of a $50,000,000 highway bond issue and the state of Illinois will put to its voters at the next election, the question of issuing $60,000,000 in highway bonds, the interest and retiring fund for which is to be provided for by an increase of about 100 per cent. in the motor vehicle registration fees.

Study the government advertisements carefully and co-operate when possible.

FISK TIRES

Price subject to change without notice.
Fisk Free Service.

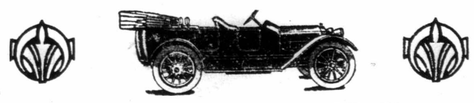
There is no charge at any Fisk branch for dismounting, re-assembling, testing or inflating, it is free to all and given promptly and courteously, no matter what tires you use.

Free Air and Water Service.

Service Station and Show Room

Retail Prices, Fisk Tires, Effective May 15th, 1917
NEW PRICE LIST

Size	Non-Skidd Casing	Grey Tubes
3½ x 30	$24.75	$5.00
3½ x 32	29.75	5.50
4 x 31	37.45	6.75
4 x 32	40.75	7.15
4 x 33	41.80	7.35
4 x 34	42.45	7.65
4 x 36	45.35	8.35
4½ x 33	53.35	9.90
4½ x 34	56.70	9.85
4½ x 35	59.20	9.80
4½ x 36	62.60	9.80
4½ x 37	65.95	10.15
5 x 35	74.70	11.35
5 x 37	80.10	12.00



Fisk Tire Agency
Corner Seventh Avenue and Third Street West
Phone M6213

GRAY-DORT AUTOMOBILES

For beauty, easy riding qualities, strength and economy these cars cannot be excelled
"The Quality Goes Clear Through"
PRICE $995.00 at Calgary
SHOWROOMS: 235 8th Avenue West
Phone M5337

CALGARY AUTO AUCTION COMPANY
701 CENTRE STREET, COR. SEVENTH AVE. Phone M 1715
W. McLEOD H. HAYES

We Buy and Sell all Makes of Second Hand Cars
Why Pay Fancy Prices When You Can Get Perfect Satisfaction With One of Our Second Hand Cars?
Cars to be auctioned must be entered two hours previous to sale for inspection.
Sales held at 3 p.m. sharp every Saturday
See Us Before Buying or Selling.

THE WELDER At Your Service

City Welding and Repair Shop
All kinds of Metal Welded Strong as New 142 1st Av. E. (by the river)
Telephone Main 2240

Star Cycle & Motor Co.
Sole Agents for Perfect Bicycles, Star Bicycles and Indian Motorcycles
Auto Electrical Systems a Specialty
Complete Line of Accessories Always on Hand
Expert Repairing
Our Ten Years of Practical Experience, coupled with Our Many Satisfied Customers, is sufficient guarantee of what we can do for others.
A Trial Will Convince You.
224 Seventh Ave. E. Phone M3661

Gillespie Tire & Vulcanizing Works
Geo. J. Gillespie, Proprietor
Auto Tires and Tubes Vulcanized. We Supply Any Make of Tires.
Our Repair Work is First Class and Done in the Most Modern Way.
We solicit your patronage and ask you to give us a trial.
209 Sixth Ave. West, Calgary

Siegel Garage Company
SUPPLIES AND ACCESSORIES, STORAGE AND REPAIRS
Phone Us When in Trouble
708 1st St. E. Phone M4050
129 3rd Ave. E. Phone M4296

THEATRES | WHERE TO GO | PICTURE PLAYS | WHAT TO SEE | VAUDEVILLE

Grand

ALL NEXT WEEK

2.30 TWO PERFORMANCES DAILY 8.30

WILLIAMSON BROS.

PRESENTS

A Gripping Tale of Super-Dramatic Climaxes

THE SUBMARINE EYE

Introducing the Most Remarkable Invention in the Record of Science, The Inverted Periscope

POPULAR PRICES

EVENINGS: Orchestra 50c; Balcony 25c
MATINEES: All Seats 25c
Reserved Seats for Evening Performances

Fairies, Knights and Elves at the Allen Fri.-Sat.

A whimsical story dealing with fairies, knights and elves will be shown at the Allen next Friday and Saturday, when Mae Murray, the charming Lasky-Paramount star, appears in "The Primrose Ring." This screen adaptaton was made by Martan Fairfax from Ruth Sawyer's clever story.

Since her debut on the screen in "To Have and to Hold," the popularity of the winsome Mae Murray has gone up in leaps and bounds. In "The Dream Girl" Miss Murray scored a pronounced success, to be followed by further triumphs in "The Plow Girl" and "On Record".

In "The Primrose Ring" this captivating young star is seen as a nurse in a children's hospital, and as she herself was once a crippled child, she takes an unusual interest in them and, in spite of the disapproval of the head nurse and trustees, amuses the children with thrilling fairy stories of goblins, elves, plumed knights and fairy steeds.

The little nurse has fallen deeply in love with the handsome young head doctor of the hospital and when he forces her to stop amusing the children with her wonderful fairy tales she promptly resigns.

How matters are finally straightened out and how the primrose ring is woven about the little nurse and the young doctor, and the fairies go mad with joy, is presented in a most novel, charming and wonderful fashion.

In the cast supporting Miss Murray are Tom Moore, little Billy Jacobs, Winter Hall and Mayme Kelso.

The production was made for the Lasky Paramount company by Robert Leonard.

"The Crisis" comes to the Grand Soon

Marshall Neilan, who plays Clarence Colfax, the young southern lover of Virginia Carvel in "The Crisis," which comes to the Grand for one week, starting Monday, June 18, is one of the most versatile young men in the Los Angeles studio world. He is equally well known as an actor, a director and a scenario writer. His most distinguished achievement as a director was the production for the Selig Polyscope company of "Chronicles of Bloom Center." As a scenario writer, he has nearly a hundred scripts to his credit, many of them staged in the Selig studios. His impersonation of Clarence Colfax in "The Crisis" is his most notable piece of work as an actor. Heretofore he has been cast in light comedy roles.

Margaret Illington in Thrilling Drama at the Allen

Margaret Illington, the distinguished star of the speaking stage, makes her debut on the photodramatic screen in the gripping and vivid drama, "Sacrifice," written especially for her by Charles Kenyon and prepared for the screen by Beatrice C. De Mille and Leighton Osmun, which will be the attraction at the Allen next Thursday, one day only.

An unusual incident is in the fact that Miss Illington will make her screen debut in a story by the same author in whose play, "Kinderly", she scored her greatest dramatic triumph. As soon as the story "Sacrifice" appeared on the screen, Mr. Kenyon made a version of it for the speaking stage.

Ever since her first appearance before the footlights, Miss Illington has been one of the most distinguished and popular stars on the American stage. Her wonderful performance in "The Thief," which ran for over a year in New York city, established Miss Illington as one of the country's most successful emotional actresses. Later she repeated her success in "Kindling", which was hailed by all as one of the most unusual and appealing plays of the decade.

Still later, Miss Illington won fresh laurels in "Within the Law". In "Sacrifice" Miss Illington plays a dual role—that of the daughter of a high government official and as a notorious dancer in a small principality of Europe. To play a double role requires a great deal of knowledge of dramatic technique and experience before the camera, but so adaptable was Miss Illington the silent art that she was given this unusual task at the outset.

The Lasky company has surrounded Miss Illington with a cast of unusual excellence, including Jack Holt, Winter Hall and Nash Beery.

The scenes, laid as they are amid the principalities of Europe, are unusual in their beauty and the production is made in the thorough Lasky manner under the direction of Frank Reicher.

A new comedy rounds out an exceptionally fine program.

PANTAGES

UNEQUALLED VAUDEVILLE

WEEK OF JUNE 11

Wanted, A Wife

Musical Comedietta, with Frank Harrington, assisted by Charlotte Taylor and Many Pretty Girls

WOMEN

A Novel Comedy Incident

Lucy Lucier Trio

Harmonious Funsters

JULIAN HALL, The Versatile Boy

JUGGLING CASCOIGNES

The Universal Current Events No. 3

A SENSATIONAL THRILL STAGED AT THE BOTTOM OF THE SEA REVEALED BY "THE SUBMARINE EYE"

AT THE GRAND ALL NEXT WEEK

The greatest "girl act" in vaudeville will be at the Pantages theater, week of June 25, when the Mimic World Co. will appear for a weeks' engagement. It is a very versatile aggregation of feminine beauty and funny comedians.

Great Novelty Features at Pan. Coming week

A very entertaining program of vaudeville will be offered at the Pantages theater for the coming week, it is composed of novel entertaining features of the light comedy kind.

George Choos is responsible for the headline attraction. The many acts presented by Mr. Choos have proved very attractive and worthy of headline honors; this new number is called "Wanted, a Wife," a musical comedy featuring Frank Harrington, assisted by Charlotte Taylor and many pretty girls. The comedy is of a new brand, while the singing and dancing are above the ordinary. The girls are very easy to look at, as it is said; they also display a great wealth of costumes, and in some cases lack of them. Special scenery further enhance the beauty of the offering.

Women, is the title of a delightful and intensely amusing little sketch, which has created a veritable furore of favorable comments whenever it has appeared. It is a novel comedy incident which is very well cast, and the comedy situations are numerous, to the delight of the audience.

Lucy Lucier Trio, billed as Harmonious Funsters, will offer a very entertaining singing and comedy number of the bright kind, which is sure to appeal to every theatergoer.

Julian Hall, the versatile entertainer, will offer instrumental, singing and dancing of the latest style.

The Royal Juggling Gascoignes will present an up-to-date juggling novelty which is replete with unusual tricks.

The Universal Current Events, No. 3, will show the latest and most timely happenings of the world, and a comedy motion picture will complete a very promising bill of vaudeville.

Douglas Fairbanks in "In Again Out Again" at Allen

Douglas Fairbanks, the most popular male screen star, will be seen in his initial Artcraft picture, "In Again—Out Again," three days commencing Monday, at the Allen.

"In Again—Out Again" was produced by his own company, and is a typical Fairbanks picture, which presents the smiling "Doug" at his best in a subject of rapid-fire theme and hundreds of hearty laughs. Never before has the athletic one had a better opportunity to give his thousands of admirers so much of his inimitable self and various surprises are for those who witness this Fairbanks attraction.

John Emerson, the director of various Fairbanks hits, has turned out one of the triumphs of his career in this latest subject by Anita Loos and reports indicate that "In Again—Out Again" will add many new admirers to "Doug's" long list of friends, not only because of its typical Fairbanks theme, but for the reason that its appeal is probably of wider scope than anything in which he has as yet appeared.

As the story goes: Behind the majestic Hudson, in peaceful and nonmilitant New Jersey, lives Teddy Rutherford, a red-blooded youth of metropolitan ideas and a vigorous exponent of preparedness. Before the natives realize it, the community becomes the very hive of munition manufacturers and behind many rural walls immense quantities of powder are being prepared for the nation's defence.

In due time Teddy falls in love with Pacifice Ford, who happens to be the daughter of an extreme pacifist; the vigorous youth vows that he is through with the fair sex for all time and imbibes freely in spirits nectarial. On awakening the next morning he finds himself in jail with a pretty girl nursing a discolored optic, the cause for which he does not seem to be able to remember.

After becoming acquainted with his fair nurse, Teddy decides that the world is not so bad after all and when he learns that she is Janie Smith, the deputy sheriff's daughter, who is never allowed to venture outside the prison grounds by her watchful parent, he welcomes with joy the informaton that he is sentenced for 30 days in jail.

The supporting cast is Arline Pretty, Walter Walker, Arnold Lucy, Helen Greene, Homer Hunt, Albert Parker, Bull Montana, Ada Gilman, Frank Lalor, Betty Tyrel, Spike Robinson, and others.

Special music by the Allen Paramount concert orchestra, under the direction of H. G. Copley.

'The Submarine Eye' comming to the Grand next week

The other week there was exhibited privately in New York city a marvelous motion picture, very different from any film ever before produced. It is of sufficient length for an evening's entertainment, and bears the timely title of "The Submarine Eye". It portrays vividly and realistically a story of romantic love, of castaways, of sunken treasure and man-eating sharks, and introduces an amazing invention—the submerged periscope, one of the developments of the great world war.

There are none of your ordinary movie thrills in it; no, indeed! Scorning all the tricks of the scenario writers for puling an audience out of its seats, the producers of "The Submarine Eye" have taken a new tack, one that leads them right down to Davy Jones' locker at the bottom of the sea, in the shark infested waters of the West Indies. Their labors have resulted in a production so thrilling that the theatrical men who were present at the private showing actually applauded for five minutes without a pause. And they were the biggest men in their field, too, showmen who are not at all interested in ordinary motion picture productions.

"The Submarine Eye" is the third of a seres of motion pictures secured beneath the water by the Williamson brothers.

Four years ago they gave to the world its first glimpse of the beauties of Nature, so long concealed from the eyes of mankind, at the bottom of the sea. They were able to do so by descending through the Williamson tube, a collapsible metallic affair, which acts very much like an accordion or bellows, and readily withstands the pressure of the water. The diameter is sufficiently large to allow the camera man to descend to the very floor of the ocean. Under normal atmospheric pressure he sits in a large circular chamber of steel before a large funnel shaped window, fitted with a specially ground glass 5½ feet in diameter and two inches in thickness.

Very recently the world was startled by a picturization of Jules Verne's "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." The submarine portions of this masterpiece of literature were made with the Williamson devices for under-sea photography, which are protected by patents in every country the world over.

"The Submarine Eye" will be shown at the Grand all next week. Two performances will be given every day, the afternoon show starting at 2:30, and the evening performance at 8:30.

PRINCESS

PHONE M1944

"Where Everybody Goes"

DON'T MISS

"THE PURPLE MASK"

Every Friday & Saturday

Miss Gert. Moody

—and—

The Princess Girls

3—Performances Daily—3

"The Whip" with Hair Raising scenes at the Grand

"The Whip," heralded as the biggest of all motion picture plays, will be seen at the Grand soon. This wonderful picture with its hair-raising scenes is undisputed as the most remarkable photoplay ever presented before the public. In one of the many thrilling scenes two fast express trains are shown going at a tremendous speed; the rear car is detached from the first train directly in the path of a following express. The latter crashes into the car and is shattered into a mighty wreck, lit up by lurid flames and shrouded in a pall of steam from the bursted boiler of the overturned locomotive.

The purpose of the wrecker—to work injury to the crack racehorse, "The Whip," and to prevent her from entering the Saratoga handicap—is defeated through the appearance of a rescue party who remove "The Whip" from the stalled car just before the crash. This stirring incident is merely one of the many that make "The Whip" stand out and eclipse all its predecessors.

OUT OF THE MOUTH OF BABES

Little Eleanor had been to church for the first time and on her return home her grandmother asked her how she liked it. "Oh, I liked it all right," she replied, "but the men didn't act a bit fair." "What did they do?" "Why, one man did all the hard work and another man came around and got all the money."

Paramount Pictures ALLEN THEATRE Paramount Music

LAST DAY

MARIE DORO --IN-- HEART'S DESIRE

ALSO NEW WAR GRAPHIC

THREE DAYS COMMENCING MONDAY, JUNE 11

Douglas Fairbanks

In His Initial Artcraft Picture

"IN AGAIN — OUT AGAIN"

Presenting various new departures in the way of humorous incidents, with a rapid-fire theme that will keep you on edge from start to finish

MATINEE:
Children 5c
Adults 15c

ALL THE NEW FAIRBANKS PICTURES ARE SHOWN EXCLUSIVELY AT THE ALLEN

EVENING:
Children 10c
Adults 15c
Reserved Section 25c

The Music, always a feature at the Allen, will be in keeping with the picture, arranged by Director Copley.

THURSDAY
Margaret Illington
-IN-
"Sacrifice"
ONE DAY ONLY

ALLEN

FRI. SAT.
Mae Murray
-IN-
"The Primrose Ring"
LASKY-PARAMOUNT

WHAT THE THEATERS IN NEW YORK ARE DOING

New York, by mail.—"An Evening with J. M. Barrie" at the Empire theater is about as pleasant an evening as one would hope to spend theatrically. An additional pleasure, if any should be needed, is the fact that the profits are to be turned over by the Charles Frohman management to the Stage Women's War Relief fund.

Appropriately enough, two of the plays are about the war. As might be expected of Barrie, he treats the subject with that touch of whimsy for which he is noted, yet with a human touch to it all that leaves few of his hearers with dry eyes.

"The Old Lady Shows Her Medals" is the quaint title of the play that proves the favorite of the bill. It has for its central figure an old Scotch charwoman, who, because she is the only one in the block with no dear one in the war, "adopts" a soldier of the Black Watch, whom she has seen mentioned in orders, sends him little gifts under the name of a great lady and pretends to receive letters from him. It turns out that the strapping young Scotchman comes to London, learns the truth about the old woman who claims him as her son and comes to expose this fictitious mother. At first he is very angry, but in the moving scene that follows Barrie shows him giving way little by little before the old woman's sincerity. At last he is won over completely and before he goes away again to the front he asks her formally to be a mother to him.

When the curtains rises again it is to show her several months later after the word comes that he has been killed, tenderly putting away the uniform and service medals of the son she has found and lost.

Miss Beryl Mercer as the charwoman is superb and John M. McFarlane as the soldier gives her able assistance.

"The New Word" is a picture of a young lieutenant appearing before his family for the first time in his uniform. In a scene between father and son Barrie is at his best in showing the deep love of the two hidden under the gruff conventionalities of every day life. Norman Trevor is excellent as the father.

Not so successful is "Old Friends," not at all like Barrie, but a somber portrayal of a father who sees his appetitie for liquor, which he believed was a thing of the past, break out anew to curse his young daughter. Miss Eileen Huban, whose delightful acting in "Grasshopper" was the outstanding feature of that production, demonstrates again her undoubted ability.

MARGARET ILLINGTON IN "SACRIFICE" LASKY-PARAMOUNT

AT THE ALLEN THURSDAY

VILLE

LEN
ATRE
Paramount Music

DAY
HEART'S DESIRE
AR GRAPHIC
ENCING MONDAY, 11
Fairbanks
tcraft Picture
OUT AGAIN"
res in the way of humorous theme that will keep you tart to finish

E NEW ANKS RES HOWN IVELY THE EN

EVENING:
Children 10c
Adults 15c
Reserved Section 25c

e at the Allen, will be in keep- by Director Copley.

FRI. SAT.
Mae Murray
-IN-
"The Primrose Ring"
LASKY-PARAMOUNT

scene that follows Barrie shows him giving way little by little before the old woman's sincerity. At last he is won over completely and before he goes away again to the front he asks her formally to be a mother to him.

When the curtains rises again it is to show her several months later after the word comes that he has been killed, tenderly putting away the uniform and service medals of the son she has found and lost.

Miss Beryl Mercer as the charwoman is superb and John M. McFarlane as the soldier gives her able assistance.

"The New Word" is a picture of a young lieutenant appearing before his family for the first time in his uniform. In a scene between father and son Barrie is at his best in showing the deep love of the two hidden under the gruff conventionalities of every day life. Norman Trevor is excellent as the father.

Not so successful is "Old Friends," not at all like Barrie, but a somber portrayal of a father who sees his appetite for liquor, which he believed was a thing of the past, break out anew to curse his young daughter. Miss Eileen Huban, whose delightful acting in "Grasshopper" was the outstanding feature of that production, demonstrates again her undoubted ability

LLEN THURSDAY

Society

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. Philip Wolfe has returned from a visit to Denver, Col.

* * *

W. A. Cross, of Winnipeg, is visiting Dr. and Mrs. N. J. Sills.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. I. K. Kerr spent a few days in Banff this week.

* * *

Mr. Tom Campbell returned early in the week from a trip to Edmonton.

* * *

Mrs. A. Harron, of Lethbridge, is spending a couple of weeks in the city.

* * *

L. V. Kelly returned to Vancouver on Thursday night after a three weeks' stay.

* * *

Miss Jean Jephson left on Wednesday for a trip through Columbia Valley.

* * *

Mrs. J. H. Woods returned home from an extended trip to the coast on Wednesday.

* * *

Mrs. (Canon) McMillan and daughter Hilda, of Lethbridge, who attended the W.A. convention, returned home on Friday morning.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McParland, of Kingston, have arrived in the city to spend a month as guests at the home of their son, Mr. Arthur McParland.

* * *

Lieut. "Pat" Allen returned to Calgary a few days ago, and is about town renewing old acquaintances. Lieut. Allen is on three months' leave recuperating from wounds received at the front.

* * *

Mrs. Fred Downer, of Lethbridge, who has been the guest for a week of Mrs. Stavert, returned home yesterday. She was accompanied by her son, Fred, who has received his discharge from the Ogden Convalescent home.

* * *

Mr. E. D. Marshall, who recently retired from the staff of the Herald after many years' service, to embark in the publishing business in connection with Miss Jean Grant, was honored with a token of appreciation by the employes of the Herald. Mr. J. H. Woods made the presentation address.

* * *

Calgary boys are receiving all kind of honors at the front these days. The latest news and most pleasing received for some time were the press dispatches stating that Capt. T. B. T. Hewitt, Capt. Vivian Graham and Capt. Stirrett were among the list that has just been notified of special honors for distinguished services rendered to the country.

* * *

Mr. P. J. Parker, manager Hudson's Bay store, was the recipient of a welcome feast which was given to him a few nights ago by the employees of the establishment in honor of his return to Calgary. Mr. Parker has been away for the past two months on an important tour, incidentally gathering up many new ideas which the Big Store will show the benefit of as the season progresses.

* * *

Seated at the table of honor at the luncheon last Saturday in honor of the New Zealand party at the Palliser were: Premier Massey and Miss Massey, Sir Joseph Ward and Lady Ward, F. D. Thompson, H. O. Brown, J. Grier, Hon. Justice Walsh, Hon. Justice Stuart, Hon. Justice Ives, Mayor Costello, Mrs. MacWilliams, Alderman Ruttle, J. A. Irvine, Mr. and Mrs. Lynch, Major Fitz-Horrigan and Mrs. MacFarlane.

* * *

A very pleasant time was spent at St. Hilda's college on Tuesday night when the delegates attending the W.A. convention were entertained by the Calgary branches. Many of the Anglican clergy and their wives were present and a delightful social time was spent. A program of musical selections was rendered and for a variation there was a question bureau. Dainty refreshments were served before the gathering broke up with the singing of "God Save the King."

* * *

Mrs. Mellor's unit of the Daughters of the Allies entertained in Unity hall at a card party on Tuesday night in aid of their Red Cross fund.

Mrs. F. G. Carpenter, assisted by Mrs. Mellor, received the guests. Bridge and five hundred were played at 20 tables, the prizes for the former being won by Mrs. Lucy and Mrs. Beveridge and for the latter by Mrs. Fenkell and Mrs. W. F. MacNeill.

Among those present were: Mrs. Philip Wolfe, Mrs. Murchison, Mrs. Fink, Mrs. Powell, Mrs. Stanley Jones, Mrs. Clum, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Powell, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Urquhart, Mrs. E. H. Reid, Mrs. Guy Johnson, Mrs. H. B. Wright, Mrs. Beavers, Mrs. Blair, Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. H. B. Moore, Mrs. Goldman (Chicago), Mrs. Lowenstein, Mrs. Schultz, Mrs. Hartonft, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Birney, Mrs. Corey, Mrs. Churchill, Mrs. Mercer, Mrs. Tempest, Mrs. Kemmis, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. F. Horn, Mrs. Leif, Mrs. Jamieson, Mrs. Patrick, Mrs. King, Mrs. Brighty, Mrs. Ritson-Bennett, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Dippie, Mrs. Fox, Mrs. F. A. Schultz, Mrs. Dahners, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Martin Clever, Mrs. W. G. MacKay, Mrs. Churchill, Mrs. Corey and Mrs. Yates.

the national I. O. D. E. annual meeting.

* * *

Mr. R. J. Lydiatt and W. H. Thompson, president and secretary of the Rotary club, will leave today for Atlanta, Georgia, where the annual meeting of the Rotarians will be held.

* * *

Mrs. George Cook, of Lethbridge, who was in the city as a delegate for St. Cyprian's W. A., has returned home.

* * *

Mrs. T. W. Quayle, of Edmonton, is the guest of Mrs. A. A. Moore for a few days, a delegate at the W.M.S. convention.

* * *

Colonel and Mrs. Porter, of Winnipeg, are guests at the Palliser, the latter having joined the colonel a week ago.

* * *

The dance given at the Bowness Golf club house on Monday night was a decided success and the decorations made the house very attractive. The music was particularly good and those who attended enjoyed themselves very well. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Pugh, Mr. and Mrs. McCullough, Mr. and Mrs. Hamlin, Mrs. Earle Currey, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. High, Mrs. Grogan, Mr. and Mrs. Constable, the Misses Bloomfield, Miss Harriet Redman, Miss Wilson, Miss Beryl Graham, Miss J. de Capalino, Miss Thompson, Miss Robertson, Miss Hogg, Miss Barber, Miss McEachren, Miss Broomfield, Mr. Smith, Mr. Hill, Mr. MacWilliams, Mr. Stevens, Mr. J. D. Campbell, Mr. Simpson, Mr. Sanders, Mr. Wright, Mr. Cy Clark and others.

Timely Comment on Women's Doings

(By JEAN GRANT)

A NEW CLUB BORN EVERY WEEK

The concern which some are expressing as to the multiplicity of clubs and associations being formed among women is easily understood when one thinks of how short a time it is since there were any gatherings outside the church for women, the only legitimate clubs yet, according to some.

Clubs, however, are but the echo of a tremendous movement and their greatest benefit is that of developing individuality. Women meet together and in the exchange of ideas each gains a knowledge of value in forwarding her own individual work. By these unions a strength is gained whereby efforts for improvement of social conditions become more effectual.

Among the difficulties which women encounter is the making the club life agreeable to husbands. No matter how many nights they may spend at their clubs, if they find that once a week their wives are not at home at dinner or supper time, the cry is raised that "Home is woman's sphere." Naturally the great difficulty is to get a happy medium. Some women are so absorbed in their families that they cannot give a thought to anything which takes them outside the home, even though they might benefit the home by so doing. There are other women who live their lives for the club and naturally they match the men who spend all their time outside business at these "outside homes."

Most women now have adjusted things that they have affiliated themselves with the organizations through which they gain most that applies to their work.

It was formerly a difficult matter to get women sufficiently self-confident to stand up and express opinions. Today the majority of club women have so gained in power of expression that they have no difficulty in saying exactly what they mean and thus the value of the meeting has increased immeasurably.

Religious prejudices are being broken down by means of clubs. The barriers that have been built up by our churches have been overthrown effectively.

The club has become a common meeting ground, and social distinctions are to a great measure obliterated. Intolerance, which is the bone of most people's existence should receive its death blow through clubs. How flat the world would be without variety of opinions and yet one gets angry at another because she cannot get the other to swallow her viewpoint.

With the introduction of Mothers' clubs, it seems as if there is nothing left, yet each week some group felt to be unrepresented gathers together and organizes. May the good work go on!

* * *

WHY NOT WOMEN, TOO!

The usual birthday honors were handed out last Monday but not one single woman got the present of a title. Notwithstanding all the good work that women have done this past two years, no one has been considered worthy of a handle to her name for having done her duty well.

There is no real regret to be felt in regard to the ttiles, but otherwise, for in this country people are supposed to be above such petty ambitions and "Jack is as good as his master," but if such things are being passed around, women should surely have the chance of making a refusal.

Men have ever eulogized mothers, and especially those who have brought up large families with credit. This is their ideal of women, but whoever heard of a mother ever receiving any special reward for the performance of her duties. The greatest compensation has always been supposed to be the devotion of her family, but be they sons or daughters, they all leave for nests of their own and their mates and offspring soon demand their attention.

Should duty be rewarded, "duty" including doing the best with brain or brawn that one is capable of? It is a large question and one that would probably involve a religious controversy—such as reward in heaven for deeds done on earth.

Nothing brings more satisfaction to anyone than merely "doing one's best" at anything in which one is engaged. The effort may not be crowned with success and there may be someone to pick flaws in it, but the consciousness of doing what was possible places one on a plane where criticism may be "taken dispassionately."

Let us hope that our women will never look for rewards for "acting well their part."

* * *

NELLIE McCLUNG AGAIN

And now I can write in a different strain about Nellie McClung. Her first appearance in Calgary for the political campaign was not a success. I had written of her speech at 2:30 a.m. after her meeting in the Grand theater and the next day my attention was called to what had been written about her speech in Edmonton, and it was so much like my own criticism that I felt sure someone would think I had seen it before writing. It confirmed my opinion however, and I felt rather relieved that I was not alone in my severity. Not having been swayed by any party affiliations whatever, what I had said was from an independent woman's standpoint.

The real Mrs. McClung of fearless opinions was most evident in her speeches of Saturday and Sunday. Not that I am doubting her sincerity at the first of the campaign but her talk was foreign to us, who have heard her and read her books.

She said she had changed her opinion somewhat since the beginning of the political season and interjected her remark by saying that no one "had a better right to change her opinions than herself." Her experiences in Manitoba during the siege there had been strenuous but no bitterness such as there has been in the present election, had been evinced. She had always had great regard for the majority of politicians but why they should have to resort to bringing up things entirely out of the line of any issue there might be, she could not understand. She thought that it was not necessary to juggle figures in such a way as to absolutely cloud the facts.

All through her address there was a realization that she was speaking from the depths of her heart and she carried her audiences with her, even those who had come to criticize.

McClungigrams

In slippery times the best brains are liable to skid round the corner.

There are plenty of votes to go round.

Fight things out on issues.

* * *

NEW ZEALAND'S DEMOCRACY

The pride in which Sir Joseph Ward, minister of finance of the New Zealand coalition government, spoke last Saturday of the true democracy of that country, made some of the Canadians envy him, especially when he told of the provision made for widows with small children.

Mothers' pensions seem to be of the greatest necessity and although there has been an agitation off and on for a number of years in this province, it has not been sufficiently strong to bring any results.

To those whose work brings them in touch with women left alone to bring up small children, who have to go out to seek their daily bread, the need for government measures is most apparent.

There are dozens of women in this city who are striving to keep their homes in order, send their children to school properly fed and clothed and yet have to go out several days a week to work in other homes, often where there is not a child at all. Nobody thinks for a moment that it is just, but because things have gone on for years, is no reason why it should endure.

One point, that must have amazed some of the women present, who are anxious to put restrictions on proposed help to families, was that all widows were entitled to the grants for their children. There is no distinction made for rich or poor.

At the time the Infants' Gift act was brought before the Local Council of Women, one woman, Mrs. William Carson, rose and expressed herself as favorable to the act if it were made to include all, just as this act does in New Zealand. The mover of the proposed act in a reply said that she did not propose to pay taxes for any rich person's children.

Now, it is not probable that any rich or well-to-do family would attempt to collect the money but the only way to show that Canada is trying to be democratic, or at least that her women are leaning that way, is to include all in any measures provided.

This is but a tiny step in the way of democracy. Why one woman should be able to have in her home to work another man's wife who is needed in her own home, ought to form a question that all thinking women should study in order to arrive at some solution.

PRUDENCE OF THE PARSONAGE

THE FAMOUS STORY OF A HAPPY FAMILY

By Ethel Hueston

COPYRIGHT 1915 BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

SYNOPSIS

Mr. Starr, minister, arrives in Mount Mark to take charge of the Methodist diocese, he is a widower with five children, all girls, namely, Prudence, the eldest, who mothers the rest of the family, who include, Fary, Connie and Carol and Lark, who are twins. The girls all go school and are particularly clever.

The twins, though very lovable and obedient children, are very mischievous, and often embarrass Prudence and Fairy.

Every one in the parish admires Prudence for her sweet and womanly disposition. Professor Rayburn, of the college, a suitor for her hand, but Prudence refuses him, considering her home and the bringing up of the family, her particular duty.

Owing to Mount Mark being a small parish and the congregation rather slack about money matters, the parsonage family have quite a hard time to make ends meet. Fairy and Prudence make over an old coat of their fathers for Connie, who always comes in for the left-overs, being the smallest, this being a particular disappointment, as she was promised a new coat. Connie calls on Mr. Harold, the president of the bank, and asks for loan of $5.00, explaining the situation him and promising to pay it back in two years, a nickle at a time. Mr. Harold tells her he is proud to have her trade. Connie surprises the family at dinnertime by producing the $5.00.

"My eyesight is quite unimpaired," answered Jerry, for he knew his twins.

"Well, we found this over by the Avery barn. They have a big scrap pile out there. We couldn't find anything around here that would suit, so we looked over there. It's just a pile of rubbish, and we knew they wouldn't mind."

"Else you would not have taken it, eh? Anything like apples, for instance, is quite under the ban."

"Yes, indeed," smiled Lark. "We're too old to steal apples."

"Of course," added Carol. "When we need our neighbor's apples, we send Connie. And get nicely punished for it, too, I promise you."

"Quite so! And this exquisite board?"

"Well, we've found a perfectly gorgeous place up in the old tree where we can make a seat. It's quite a ways out from the trunk, and when the wind blows it swings splendidly. But it isn't very comfortable sitting on a thin limb, and so we want a seat. It's a fine place, I tell you. We thought you could nail this securely on to the limbs,—there are two right near each other, evidently put there on purpose for us. See what dandy big nails we have!"

"From the Avery's woodshed, I suppose," he suggested, smiling again.

"Oh, they are quite rusty. We found them in a sack in an old barrel. It was in the scrap heap. We're very good friends with the Averys, very good, indeed," she continued hastily. "They allow us to rummage around at will—in the barn."

"And see this rope," cried Carol. "Isn't it a dandy?"

"Ah! The Avery barn must be inexhaustible in its resources."

"How suspicious you are, Jerry," mourned Lark.

"I wish we were that way, instead of innocent and bland and trustful. Maybe we would get rich, too. This is the first time I ever really understood how you came to be a success in business."

"But you are quite wrong this time," said Lark seriously. "Old Mr. Avery gave me this rope."

"Yes, he did! Lark told him she was looking for a rope just exactly like this one, and then he gave it to her. He caught the idea of philanthropy right away. He's a very nice old gentleman, I tell you. He's so trusting and unsuspicious. I'm very fond of people like that."

"We thought when you had the board nicely nailed on, you might rope it securely to the limbs above. They are in very good position, and that will make it absolutely safe. Do you suppose you can do that, Jerry? Do you get seasick when you climb high?"

"Oh, no, high altitudes never make me seasick. I've a very good head for such purposes."

"Then suppose you get busy before it grows dark. We're in a great hurry. And we do not want Connie to catch us putting it up. It'll be such fun to sit up there and swing when the wind blows, and have poor Connie down beneath wondering how we manage to stick on. She can't see the seat from the ground. Won't it be a good joke on her?"

"Oh, very,—yes, indeed.—Well, let's begin—Now, observe! I will just loop this end of the rope lightly about my —er—middle. The other end will dangle on the ground to be drawn up at will. Observe also that I bestow the good but rusty nails in this pocket, and the hammer here. Then with the admirable board beneath my arm, I mount to the heights of— Say, twins, didn't I see an old buggy seat out in the barn today? Seems to me——"

"Oh, Jerry!" The twins fairly smothered him. "Oh, you darling. You are the nicest old thing.—Now we can understand why Prudence seems to like you. We never once thought of the old buggy seat! Oh, Jerry!"

Then they hastily brought the discarded seat from the barn, and with the help of Jerry it was shoved up on the woodshed. From there, he lifted it to the lowest limb of the old maple, and a second later he was up himself. Then it was lifted again, and again he followed,—up, and up, and up,—the loose end of the donated rope trailing loose on the ground below. The twins promptly,—as promptly as possible, that is,—followed him into the tree.

(To be continued.)

HOLIDAYS FOR TIRED TEACHERS

"Only three more weeks," says the children, the examinations will be over and happy youth will again be free to roam for a couple of months. The strain of the last few weeks is hard on the pupils but nothing to what the teachers endure. The wisdom of having such tests is always questioned by anyone who knows anything of the tortures of the average teacher during the month of june, but nearly every mother knows how much the ordinary sensitive child shrinks from the annual terror.

And yet no one seems to have found any way of avoiding this means of classifying school children.

The tests act as tonics to the majority of children, and the careless boy and girl will exert themselves with this end in view. The incentive does not seem the correct one, but it works well as regards "passing."

From the teacher's standpoint, examinations are a failure, for they know better than any test can tell them whether the child is prepared for the next grade. Sometimes this is rather an "eye-opener," for a certain child may receive enough marks from some "last hour" cramming to put him where it is difficult to disqualify him—and the worst of it is, he knows it.

Another bad feature is the ideal that is held up a large part of the year and especially the term from Christmas to midsummer that passing is the all-important matter. Scholarship is not what counts, but being promoted to a higher grade, gets to be the aim and object of the majority.

Some changes will have to be made in this examination matter both for the sake of teacher and pupil. If either need the incentive of such in their work they are unworthy and lack a correct ideal.

AMERICAN CONSUL HAS REGISTRATION CARDS

The American consul, Mr. Harry D. Clum, announces that his office has now received a small supply of the registraton cards for the registration of American citizens under the selective draft act of May 18, 1917. American citizens who were not able to register in the United States on June 5, and who desire to register themselves in their home counties or cities by mail, should present themselves in person at the American consulate, No. 210 P. Burns building, between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. (Saturdays, 10 to 1), to fill in the cards and have them certified, after which they will mail their cards to the registrars of their home precincts in the United States. No particular day is set for this; but as the supply of cards received is very small those desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity to register should do so without delay. The registration for the selective draft is for male American citizens who have attained their 21st birthday and have not attained their 31st birthday.

Osteopathy Is the Women's Friend

The body and organs of women are extremely delicate and require very careful attention when anything goes amiss with them. If anywhere, rough treatment and sharp operations should be avoided where women are concerned. A little wrong can do a great injury, a haphazard guess may occasion interminable suffering. It is right here that osteopathy steps in and performs some of its most remarkable benefits. "Cures"—they would be called by the doctors; "miracles" are what they are to the patient. In effect, they are nothing but sensible adjustments of perhaps some slight defect in the bone-structure or the relief of undue pressure on a nerve. How much better it is to treat them as such—quickly, surely—than to rely on medicines which are themselves poisons, or to have resort to the knife!

Osteopathy first finds the cause of the disorder, then goes straight to it with manipulative gentleness and firmness. In few cases does an osteopathic physician need to touch the skin of a patient except at the hands, neck, or arms. The embarrassment of disrobing is entirely done away with.

Osteopathy aids a woman's organism to function naturally.

A. L. HESS
MAKER OF HIGH-GRADE
- PORTRAITS -
Your Friends Can Buy Anything You Can Give Them — Except Your Photograph.
124 Eighth Avenue East
Calgary, Alberta
Phone M3885

The Elbow Shop
SHOE REPAIRING
An Expert Shoemaker at Your Service. "Quality and Satisfaction," our motto.
1120A FIRST ST. WEST

Calgary Silverplating Works
We Silver and Nickel-plate any Metal Article. We are the only Electro Platers between Winnipeg and Vancouver
710 Second Street W. Phone M5277

THE BEATON
Hairdressing & Shampoo and Manicure Parlors
Satisfied Customers Secret of Our Success.
1009 First Street W. Phone M2153

WM. S. PARK
Maker of PHOTOGRAPHS
218A EIGHTH AVENUE WEST
Phone, Main 6489 Calgary, Alta.

SMITH'S
PLEATING and BUTTON WORKS
606A First St. W., Calgary
Phone M3464
Hemstitching Hemming Picot Edging Button Holes Made Chain Stitching
We are specialists in our line, and can turn out your work quickly and well. All Work Guaranteed.
Local Manager: F. O. Barnard

Ezy-Way Glycerine Washing Tablets
Use Two EZY-WAY GLYCERINE WASHING TABLETS to your usual bath water. It will soften the water, cleanse the pores, and make the skin soft, white and smooth. Why pay high prices for Turkish baths when you can get the same results at home with the Ezy-Way Glycerine Washing Tablets? The secret of good health is poral elimination. Don't take our word for it; just give it a trial and be your own judge. It will surprise and delight you.
Washes dirtiest clothes in from 10 to 15 minutes with very little rubbing, makes the clothes white as snow without bluing. Ezy-Way contains no paraffin wax, lye, lime, potash or other injurious chemicals. Ezy-Way will not cause the slightest injury to skin or the finest fabric. We ask you to get a free sample and give it a trial. If out of City send five cents to pay postage and packing and you will receive sample by return mail. Our guarantee, money back if not pleased, no questions asked. Agents wanted. This is the real thing, so get a-hold of a live wire.
EZY-WAY MFG. CO.
115 Fifth Ave. West Phone M1663

SLAVIN HAIR GROWER
The only preparation on the market that will Positively Cure Dandruff, Falling Hair, and Grow Hair on Bald Heads. Endorsed by scores of Calgary people.
PRICE $1.00 PER BOX
With Full Instructions.
319 BRUNER BLOCK

Calgary Furniture Hospital
We Will Trade Good Furniture for Old or Damaged, or Pay Highest Cash Prices.
We invite those who have not dealt here, to visit us, and give us an opportunity to show you what we do for our customers.
1312 First St. W. Phone M4070

Grocery Values
Farmers, Ranchers, etc., within 175 miles, write for our Grocery Catalogue. Enormous stocks and rapid turnover guarantee you greater variety and freshness of supplies.
Free Freight to Your Nearest Station
S. G. FREEZE
P.O. BOX 449 CALGARY

New York Dress Shop

Mrs. Brennand is now located at 210 Eighth Avenue East, where you will find a complete line of Ladies' Suits and Coats, from some of the leading Houses in New York.
The material in these fabrics is of the best quality money can buy, and at less than half the cost. In order that you may be able to appreciate these goods, it will be necessary for you to call and inspect our wide range of samples in sizes ranging from 34 to 44.
210 Eighth Ave. E. Phone M3472

THE WONDER OF THE AGE
:: PHOTOGRAPHS ::
They Move, Smile or Scowl at your pleasure, in fact everything just like a Moving Picture.
COME IN AND SEE THEM
LIVING PORTRAIT COMPANY
SERGT. ATHERTON (82nd and 9th Albertas)
135A Eighth Avenue E. Opposite Monarch Theatre

Why not be particular about your principal food supply?
PURE MILK
is desired by everyone. You are invited to inspect our plant and satisfy yourself as to the quality of our Goods.
CARLYLE DAIRY CO.
Telephone Main 4686.

Resident Agent

WANTED IN

EVERY TOWN

IN

ALBERTA

For Taking Orders on Commission

Line of goods required by all engaged in business.

Address in first instance.

"Enterprise," care of A. R. LITTLEBURY,

Printer, Calgary.

Farm Loans

(ALBERTA FARM LOANS ACT)

Loans to Farmers, Ranchers and Dairymen may be obtained for a period of 30 years on first Mortgage Security.

Interest Rates at Actual Cost.

Repayment may be made by equal annual installments of Principal and Interest.

Full payment accepted at end of 5th year or at any time thereafter without notice or bonus.

For further information address:

W. V. NEWSON,

Deputy Provincial Treasurer,

Edmonton, Alberta.

Rheumatism Conquered at Last!

MONEY-BACK COUPON

WITH EACH BOTTLE

CALKINS' RHEUMATISM CURE

A Wonderful Remedy for Any Blood Disease

Drives out Poisons through the Urine, Bowels, Lungs and Pores of the body. Soothes the nerves, and is a heart sedative. Heals the mucous membrane linings of the body, corrects bronchial affections, so that the lungs can help in throwing off the poisons.

Money Returned if Results are Not Satisfactory

Send for Testimonials of Prominent People

Sent by Mail or Express only, charges prepaid, on receipt of price

$2.00

H. M. Calkins & Co., 7 Bruce Ave.,

Windsor, Ontario, Canada

To Physicians—You are urged to try this in cases of Rheumatism. You will not be disappointed. Will gladly answer any questions as to the effects of the 12 ingredients. CALKINS & CO.

When Buying Liquor---

In sealed bottles in cases, you pay one-third more than in draught and the quality no better, very often the strength is much less.

Why one-third more? Because you pay for the bottle, duty and transportation on same, labor and other expenses bottling.

We recommend our draught goods and guarantee their purity.

WE ARE DIRECT IMPORTERS

PRICES ON APPLICATION

Revelstoke Wine and Spirit Co. Ltd.

REVELSTOKE, B. C.

Standard Ads Pay

THE HOME GARDEN

GROWING POTATOES ON VACANT LOTS

There will, no doubt, be many bushels of potatoes grown in the cities and towns of Canada this year. The very high price now asked for this popular food produce will, if nothing else, be a stimulus to the cultivation of the potato but, in addition to this, is the call from all sides for greater production to aid the empire.

A Fascinating Occupation

Once one has begun to grow potatoes there will be found a fascination in the cultivation of this crop which will not be limited to a single season. To prepare the soil, to cut the seed into sets, to plant and cover them is but the beginning of a most interesting season's occupation. Later, the plants will push through the soil and then begins the battle with the weeds. Soon potato bugs which have been hibernating, will discover the potato plants and descend upon them and deposit numerous eggs on the under sides of the leaves. The eggs will soon hatch and the voracious young quickly destroy the foliage, and the chances of a good crop, unless killed. Now will be found a peculiar satisfaction in preventing these insects from eating the foliage of the plants one has tended so carefully thus far, by either brushing them off into pans and killing them or by the slower but sure death by poison. But the grass and weeds are in the meantime struggling to gain the ascendancy and there will be found ample exercise for the muscles in hoeing out and destroying these enemies to good crops.

Cultivation

Cultivation will not be discontinued when the weeds are under control but the surface will be kept loose with the hoe for a time longer in order to conserve as much moisture as possible in the soil as the potato requires an abundance when the tubers are setting and by keeping the surface loose much moisture will be prevented from evaporating. This loosening of the surface soil also allows the air to enter freely which is necessary if there is to be strong growth. And now the labor of the early part of the season is nearly over and if the work has been well done, fine vigorous tops, uninjured by insects, will be the reward. If the soil is very loose, hilling up is not necessary but in most soils in which potatoes will be planted in the cities it will be necessary to hill up in order to have that loose medium in which the tubers develop easiest and shapeliest. This hilling up consists of drawing up the soil around each potato plant to a height of six to eight inches above the surface of the ground when the tops of the potatoes are nearly meeting. It is desirable to have the soil shaded by the tops as soon after the hilling is done as possible. About the middle of July, in some seasons, the potato plant is attacked by a serious disease known as late blight, which, if the weather is favorable for its development will, in a few days' time, destroy the tops and ruin the crop. This can be prevented by keeping the tops covered with Bordeaux mixture from the middle of July until autumn, an application every 10 days or two weeks being usually sufficient and the potato grower who saves his or her plants in this way when his neighbor's vines are dead is filled with a justifiable pride which adds to the delight of growing potatoes.

A Prize Packet

If early potatoes are planted early one can start digging by the middle of July or before, but it is usually a greater satisfaction to wait and dig the full crop in the autumn when all the pleasure (or disappointment) that one gets in drawing for a prize is experienced, with this difference, however, that, if we have done our part well, and the weather has been propitious, we are practically certain of a good crop although there is the excitement of not knowing how large the crop will be. Each hill that we dig is, as it were, a prize packet, for the yields from one hill may differ widely from another and until all are dug the yield is uncertain.

Directions to Follow

Having, it is hoped, caused our readers to become interested in growing potatoes by pointing out how varied and interesting a pastime it is, a few definite directions may be of more value to those who have decided to grow a crop of potatoes this year.

1. Potatoes succeed best in a rich, deep, friable, warm, sandy loam soil, with good natural drainage, a constant, though not too great a supply of moisture, and well supplied with decayed or decaying vegetable matter. It will be difficult to get all these conditions on most city lots but it is surprising on how poor a soil a good crop of potatoes can be grown if good cultivation is given and no one should be discouraged by the character of the soil available.

2. If it is possible to obtain manure there should be a good application, preferably of rotted manure, before the ground is plowed in the spring. While manuring is very desirable, good crops are often obtained without any manure and if no manure is available this should not deter one from growing potatoes. The pure manure should not be put in the furrow or hill with the sets as it is liable to induce scab. It should be thoroughly mixed with the soil. Chemical fertilizers sometimes give good results in Ontario and sometimes they do not. They are expensive and often the increase in yield obtained by their use is offset by the cost of the fertilizers.

3. The better the soil is prepared the better the crop is likely to be. As much sod as possible should be destroyed, broken up, or buried deeply, the object being to have a loose soil of as uniform a consistency as possible to a depth of 8 to 10 inches or more.

4. Usually the best kind of set to use is about one-fourth of a medium sized potato which will have two or more eyes, the tuber being cut lengthwise and then across but small whole potatoes will often produce good crops and if the season is very favorable and the soil in good condition even an eye with very little flesh will give quite a crop, but even at the high price of potatoes it will be found to pay best to use good potatoes for seed and to have sets of fair size. The Irish Cobbler is one of the best early potatoes and the Green Mountain and Gold Coin are two of the best for main crop, but other sorts will give good results if the seed is free of disease and of strong vitality. Seed for the maritime provinces will usually give better results than locally grown seed, hence we should advise asking for it when buying from local merchants.

5. The best time to plant potatoes is between the middle and the end of May. The crop usually decreases in proportion to the time after the middle of May that planting is done.

6. When the soil is ready and the time for planting arrives, perhaps the simplest method of planting on small plots is to begin at one side of the plot to the other or across it, and then every 12 to 14 inches along this line open a hole about four or five inches deep wih the hoe and drop in a potato set, covering it immediately or soon after with soil. If the ground was under cultivation the previous year a furrow about five inches deep could be opened and the sets dropped 12 to 14 inches apart in it. If there is sod or couch grass which is still alive as will often be the case, trouble will be saved afterwards if this is well chopped up with the hoe before the set is planted. When a thick sod which has not yet rotted has been turned under, a good method of planting, in order to bring the sod to the surface as it will rot more quickly if kept well buried, is to plant with a sort of dibble made of a round piece of wood about four inches in diameter, sharpened bluntly at one end, with a cross piece running through it about six inches from the end. A cross handle at the upper end of the pole is desirable for holding with both hands. This is pressed into the soil by putting the foot on the cross piece and the set is dropped into the hole and the latter filled with soil. The rows should be about two and one-half feet apart.

7. As soon as the potatoes are up enough to make out the rows, hoeing should be started, the aim being to prevent any plant from living in the potato plot but the potatoes. In hoeing, the grass or weeds when loosened, should be thrown on the surface of the soil with the hoe so that they will dry up, and die, as if loosened and covered with soil they are liable to grow again. The ground should be hoed in the early part of the season, after each heavy rain, even if there are no weeds, as it is important to keep the ground loose. The hoeing at first should be deep but later it should be shallow so as not to injure the roots.

8. Potato bugs are destroyed by using eight ounces of arsenate of lead paste to six gallons of water, or four ounces of dry arsenate of lead to six gallons of water, the latter being easier to mix. Paris green, two ounces to six gallons, will also kill them quickly.

9. Bordeaux mixture to prevent late blight is made in the proportion of six ounces bluestone, four pounds lime, and 40 gallons of water. Full directions for making it will be found in a pamphlet which can be obtained at the experimental farm.

THE KARSAKOFF BALLET

One of the most dainty and pleasing dancing attractions touring the continent which has been engaged for the Calgary exhibition.

Many Pleasing Features Promised for Coming Fair

After the strenuous winter season on the vaudeville circuits performers who have acts that are suitable for the fairs and amusement parks whenever possible book engagements which will take them out in the open. The long hours and traveling on the theatrical circuits are hard on the entertainers and for this reason exhibition managers are able to select a splendid line of attractions for the patrons of the fairs. This is easily demonstrated at the Calgary exhibition this year, where there are a number of headliners in vaudeville who will all be in action on the attraction platform in frone of the grand stand.

Of course there are some exceptions. For instance Katherine Stinson cannot do her stunts in the theaters, but she for a change goes where the weather will permit of her flying in the winter months, and she has just returned from a trip to the Orient where she had the greatest success, and there will be thousands who saw her last year, and the tens of thousands whom they told about her wonderful performance, who will be greatly pleased that they are to have an opportunity of seeing her this fair time.

Ramona Ortez, the Cuban queen of equipoise, who has been acknowledged to be the world's greatest wire equilibrist, has been engaged as one of the chief attractions at the fair. Each afternoon and evening she will perform her wonderful wire acts—most marvelously she maintains her balance under the most alarming conditions. In the accompanying picture she is shown balancing on a piece of board which is laid across the swaying wire and in the swing she reaches an almost horizontal position. On the ladder and in the big "frying pan" that she balances on the wire she electrifies her audiences by her skilled performance.

There are a number of other splendid acts which will be on the regular afternoon and evening program which include Gruber's trained animals; Bellclair brothers, the Wilhat comedy troupe, the funny Shipmans, Waterson brothers and the Karsakoff ballet presenting a novelty terpsichorean kaliedoscope.

World at Home shows, which have proved to be the most popular and pleasing of the big tent aggregations, will again be found on the Midway. They have secured a number of new and pleasing performances, and for glitter, fun, entertainment, amusement and instruction will have something better than they have ever brought over the road before.

But there are a great many people who think that a "fair" is not deserving of that appellation unless there are races—and this large and important class of red-blooded enthusiasts have to be catered to. There will be four days of horse racing, starting June 29 and continuing to July 3. During these four days there will be a number of very fine racing events, for which the stables at Victoria park are already well stocked with flyers from all over the western provinces and states. The purses are sufficiently attractive to bring out the good ones and the excellent treatment which the horsemen have received at Calgary has made this, which is one of the first racing events of the season, a very popular one.

While the race horse still has his day, there are many ardent enthusiasts who think there are really more thrills in auto racing and this year, the last two days of the fair, July 4 and 5, will be given over to auto racing. There are a number of professional drivers coming and they will drive the noisome, powerful, speedy machines which are used on the big racing circuits.

These are some of the attractions which have been arranged for this year's exhibition and there surely cannot be any criticism offered as to the lack of variety in the program.

The old reliable remedy for rheumatism, neuralgia, sore throat and sprains.

Best Liniment Made

MRS. A. E. LAUNDRY, EDMONTON, writes:—"I fell from a building and received what the doctor called a very bad sprained ankle, and told me I must not walk on it for three weeks. I got MINARD'S LINIMENT and in six days I was out to work again. I think it the best Liniment made."

Minard's Liniment always gives satisfaction. For any ache or pain. It gives instant relief.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited

Yarmouth, - - N.S.

YOUNG PLUMBING CO. LTD. Steam Gas Fitters Tinners M 2869 205 9th AVE. E.

Large Dividends Paid by American Mining Companies

During the last three years the dividends paid by United States mining companies have been colossal. In 1914 90 companies paid in dividends an aggregate of $60,323,529 while in 1915 the total dividends paid by 109 companies amounted to $78,369,535. Those figures were eclipsed by the huge dividends paid last year, the total reaching $170,388,378, disbursed by 127 companies. These figures create a new record for the United States, reflecting the domestic prosperity and the tremendous war demand for metals.

A tabulation of a few of the large dividend paying companies will be of interest.

The Calumet and Hecla company of Michigan, who are working ore averaging $4.03 per ton at a cost of $2.08 per ton for production, paid during 1915 a dividend of $50 per share on their $25 par value stock, or a profit of 200 per cent. per annum. Last year this company paid $75 dividend per share or a profit of 300 per cent. on the par value. The total dividends paid by this company to date reach the grand total of $136,750,000 and the stock is quoted on the Boston exchange at the price of $640 per share.

The Ahmeek company of Michigan, who are working $4.22 ore at a cost of $1.838, have issued 200,000 shares of stock at a par value of $25 per share. This company paid $15.50 per share dividend in 1915 and $12.50 per share dividend in 1916. The total dividends paid to date are $6,050,000 and the $25 stock sold in 1916 on the Boston stock exchange at $125.25 per share.

The Butte and Superior of Montana, who have 290,197 shares of stock issued of a par value of $5 per share, paid $18 per share dividend on their $5 shares during 1915, and $34 per share dividend during 1916. Their total dividends to date amount to $15,010,486, and their $5 par value stock is selling on the New York stock exchange at $105.25 per share.

The Champion of Michigan, which has 100,000 shares issued of a par value of $25 per share, paid in dividends during 1915 $30 per share, and in 1916 $64.60 per share. The total dividends paid by this company to date amount to $17,960,000 and this from ore which is valued at $6.29 per ton.

The Anaconda mine of Montana paid in dividends during 1915 $6,993,750, and in 1916 $16,318, 750, and a grand total to date of $115,891,875.

The above are a few of the principal U. S. mining companies and this list could be continued almost indefinitely.

When we consider the enormous revenue derived from mining, it is deplorable that Canadian capital is doing so little towards developing the mining resources of B. C. and Alberta. In an official report the imperial munitions board states that 90 per cent. of the mining interests of B. C. are owned outside of Canada and that this figure will soon be increased to 95 per cent. This condition not only takes to other countries the smelting and refining of the bulk of our ores but forces the Canadian government to buy from abroad metals which are vital to the manufacture of munitions, while the raw material from which those metals are made is being produced within our own borders.

If mining in western Canada is so highly profitable to foreign capital, and it must be profitable or foreign capital would not control 90 per cent. of it, it is only logical to assume that it should be profitable to Canadian capital and yet Canadian capital only controls a very small portion of it.

Alberta is fast following in the footsteps of B. C. and her natural resources are fast falling into the hands of foreign capitalists. Why should this be? Why should not Alberta develop her own resources and conserve same for the use of the Dominion and of the empire? A permanent industry would thus be established and patriotism and profit would be combined.

Alberta's resources should be developed by the people of Alberta with their own money and then the resultant profits would also belong to the people of Alberta and would not have to be paid out to foreign stockholders.

After long years of apathy on the part of both the people themselves and of the government in the matter of developing the enormous wealth of metal that undoubtedly lies in the Rocky mountains and within the boundaries of this province, we are glad to say that a move in the right direction has been made by both the parties referred to above. The people and the government are now co-operating to bring about the ideal condition. Local enterprise started to prove the property of Eldon Mining Co., Ltd., and considerable money has been spent with this in view. When sufficient had been done, the munitions officials were called in to inspect and advise, which they did immediately, with the result that the efforts of the company were endorsed and they were advised to keep up the good work of development.

This company is now offering shares for public subscription and it is to be hoped that they will meet with a hearty response. After spending their own money on this property in order to prove its worth and after receiving the approval of the munitions resources commission to the extent of permitting the reproduction of their report in the prospectus of the company, the directors of this company deserve to receive the full support of the people of this province. It is essentially a company run for the benefit of the shareholders and is controlled by no individual. Economy has been and always will be the watchword and it can hardly be doubted but that the property of the company is full of possibilities that may ultmately bring it into the same class as the enormous corporations mentioned at the head of this paragraph.

To conclude we will only say, look well into it. It deserves your attention.

The Nat Bell Liquors Ltd.

Box 304, Saskatoon, Sask.

The Reliable Mail Order House

Mail Us Your Orders Direct

You know our Service. You know the High Standard we set for Quality.

You know our Draught Whiskies is the pure unadulterated product of the best distillers.

Why experiment with other houses.

A card will bring our price list

THE NAT BELL LIQUORS LTD.

Saskatoon, Sask.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be, a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A settler after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot secure a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agent's Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

W. W. CORY,

Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.

could be continued almost indefiely.
When we consider the enormous enue derived from mining, it is de-rable that Canadian capital is do-so little towards developing the ning resources of B. C. and Alberta.
an official report the imperial mu-ons board states that 90 per cent.
the mining interests of B. C. are ned outside of Canada and that s figure will soon be increased to per cent. This condition not only es to other countries the smelting d refining of the bulk of our ores t forces the Canadian government buy from abroad metals which are al to the manufacture of munitions, ile the raw material from which se metals are made is being proced within our own borders.
f mining in western Canada is so hly profitable to foreign capital, d it must be profitable or foreign pital would not control 90 per cent.
it, it is only logical to assume that should be profitable to Canadian pital and yet Canadian capital only ntrols a very small portion of it.
Alberta is fast following in the otsteps of B. C. and her natural re-urces are fast falling into the hands foreign capitalists. Why should is be? Why should not Alberta de-lop her own resources and conserve me for the use of the Dominion and the emplie? A permanent industry uld thus be established and pat-tism and profit would be combined.
Alberta's resources should be devel-ed by the people of Alberta with eir own money and then the result-t profits would also belong to the ople of Alberta and would not have be paid out to foreign stockholders.
After long years of apathy on the rt of both the people themselves d of the government in the matter developing the enormous wealth of etal that undoubtedly lies in the ocky mountains and within the undaries of this province, we are ad to say that a move in the right rection has been made by both the arties referred to above. The people d the government are now co-oper-ting to bring about the ideal conition. Local enterprise started to rove the property of Eldon Mining o., Ltd., and considerable money has en spent with this in view. When fficient had been done, the munions officials were called in to in-pect and advise, which they did im-ediately, with the result that the fforts of the company were endorsed nd they were advised to keep up the ood work of development.
This company is now offering shares or public subscription and it is to be oped that they will meet with a earty response. After spending heir own money on this property in rder to prove its worth and after eceiving the approval of the munions resources commission to the ex-ent of permitting the reproduction of heir report in the prospectus of the ompany, the directors of this comany deserve to receive the full suport of the people of this province. It s essentially a company run for the enefit of the shareholders and is ontrolled by no individual. Economy has been and always will be the watchword and, it can hardly be doubted but that the property of the ompany is full of possibilities that may ultimately bring it into the same class as the enormous corporations mentioned at the head of this paragraph.
To conclude we will only say, look well into it. It deserves your attention.

l Liquors Ltd.
skatoon, Sask.
ail Order House
Orders Direct
Service. You know we set for Quality.
Draught Whiskies is ated product of the t with other houses.
ing our price list
AT BELL
RS LTD.
on, Sask.

FARMING AND MARKETS

WINNIPEG LETTER

(Thompson, Son & Company)

In our Winnipeg market, owing to the new regulations which practically suppress trading in future deliveries in wheat, business is very quiet. The bulk of the grain coming from the country goes into the hands of the government agents, and the large milling companies who had it bought ahead from the elevator companies and others first for May delivery and then for July. Alongside of that there is a good demand for wheat of all grades available for sale, the government agents, other exporters and buyers for millers all being in the market for cash wheat. After the heavy decline in prices, which halted in the middle of the week under review, there has been a good recovery again which is natural. There is now beginning to come into the situation apprehension as to the progress of the new crop. Since winter went away there has been a steady spell of cool, dry, bright and windy weather lasting for fully two months. In western Alberta there has been fair rainfall, but east of that with the exception of a few local showers there has been no rain this season. It goes without saying then that our prairie wheat country is very dry. The first sown wheat fields came away very nicely and are looking healthy and green, except where badly cut with night frosts last week, but many later sown fields of wheat and oats have not germinated yet, and will not do so until good rains come. The ground is so hard and dry that new breaking of the prairie sod cannot be done. Without immediate and copious rain hay crops will fail. Today's cash wheat prices are 1 Nor. 249c, 2 Nor. 246c, 3 Nor. 241c, No. 4 229c, No. 5 204c, No. 6 165c. Feed 125c. The October future closed 202c.

Oats—The oat market suffered a relapse in prices with wheat. Speculative trading in oats is not prohibited, and there is a bear element in our market at present which holds prices down. A recovery at 4c has taken place since May 31st, and today's prices are 2 C.W. 69½c, 3 C.W. and extra 1 feed 67½c; 1 feed 68⅝c; 2 feed 61⅝c. Futures closed, July 67⅝c, October 57⅞c.

Barley—Barley is stronger than a wek ago and prices 4c to 5c up. No. 3 122c, No. 4 116c, rejected and feed 104c.

Flax—The flax market has recovered from the heavy decline reported last week and has advanced 26c per bus. The present dry weather will prevent expected increase in acreage of flax and is very unfavorable for the seed already sown. Today's prices are 1 N.W. 209½c, 2 C.W. 304c, 3 C.W. and rejected 288c. Futures closed July 210c, October 291c.

All prices quoted above are based on delivery in store Fort William and Port Arthur.

GRAIN MARKET

WHEAT AND GRAIN WERE ALMOST STATIONERY

Prices Fluctuated Very Little the Past Few Days—Chicago Active on Corn

Spring Wheat—	Thurs.	Wed.
No. 1 Northern	241	241
oN. 2 Northern	238	238
No. 3 Northern	233	233
No. 4	221	221
No. 5	196	196..
No. 6	165	163
Feed	122	124
Oats—
2 C. W.	68⅞	68⅞
3 C. W.	65¼	67⅜
Ex. 1 Feed	64¾	66⅞
No. 1 Feed	61¾	63⅞
No. 2 Feed	60¼	62⅞

WINNIPEG OPTIONS

Wheat—	Open	Close
October	—	202
Oats—
July	60⅛	66¾
October	59½	56⅜
Flax—
July	300	297½
October	—	278

WINNIPEG CASH

Wheat, No. 1 northern, $2.49; 2 northern, $2.46; 3 northern, $2.41; No. 4, $2.29; No. 5, $2.04; No. 6, $1.75; feed, $1.30.

Basis contract—June, $2.46; July, $2.41.

Oats—No. 2 C.W., 67¾c; 3 C. W., 66¼; ex. feed, 65¾; 1 feed, 62¾; 2 feed, 61¼.

Barley—No. 3, $1.27; No. 4, $1.21; rejected, $1.06; feed, $1.06.

Flax—1 N.W.C., $2.96½; 2 C.W., $2.91½; 3 C.W., $2.73½.

CHICAGO CASH

Chicago, June 7.—Close cash wheat: No. 2 red, nominal; 3 red, $2.80; 2 hard and 3 hard, nominal.

MINNEAPOLIS CASH

Minneapolis, June 7.—Close cash wheat, No. 1 hard, $2.96; No. 1 northern, $2.86 to $2.96; to arrive, $2.60; No. 2 northern, $2.76 to $2.86; No. 3 wheat, $2.61 to $2.76.

Oats—No. 3 white, 62¼c to 63¼c.

Flax—$3.16 to $3.32.

LIVESTOCK

CALGARY CATTLE MARKET FAIRLY ACTIVE

Prices continued about the same during the end of the week. Buyers were prompt and offerings were taken up early. The quotations were as follows:

Steers—
Com. to medium butcher	9.00@ 9.50
Heifers—
Com. to choice heavy butcher	8.50@
Common to choice heavy butcher	8.50@ 9.00
Cows—
Choice	8.00@ 8.50
Common	6.50@ 7.00
Canner, cows and oxen	4.25@ 4.75
Fat oxen	8.50@ 9.00
Thin and fair oxen	5.00
Veal calves—
150-250 lbs.	9.25@ 9.75
Over 450 lbs. (good color)	8.75@ 9.00
Stocker, 2-year-olds	7.50@ 8.25
Light feeding steers	7.50@ 8.25
Fat bulls	8.00@ 8.25
Sheep—
Good wethers	11.25@ 12.00
Ewes	11.25@ 11.75
Hogs—
Selects, weighed off cars	14.65

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORTED WEAK

Chicago, June 7.—Hogs—Receipts, 17,000; tomorrow, 16,000; weak, 5c to 10c under yesterday's average. Bulk, 15.30 to $15.80; light, $14.75 to $15.65; mixed, $15.10 to $15.85; heavy, $15.15 to $15.90; rough, $15.15 to $15.30; pigs, $10.50 to $14.60.

Cattle—Receipts, 6,000; weak. Native beef cattle, $9.20 to $13.70; stockers and feeders, $7.40 to $10.50; cows and heifers, $6.25 to $11.75; calves $9.75 to $14.50.

Shep—Receipts, 7,000; weak. Wethers, $8.30 to $10.80; ewes, $7.00 to $7.75; lambs, $9.50 to $14.50; springs, $12.00 to $16.50.

WINNIPEG TRADING SLOW PRICES DOWN

Winnipeg, June 7.—Receipts today: 850 cattle, 2,160 hogs. Cattle trading slow. Prices are on the decline for all grades of stuff, especially low-grade cattle. Stockers and feeders slow with a decline of 75c per hundred; veal calves steady. Milch cows in good demand at steady prices. Hog market weak at $14.50, a decline of 10c per cwt. since Wednesday.

Quotations—Hogs, selects, $14.25 to $14.50.

CATTLE AND PRODUCE PRICES IN CALGARY

Hogs	$14.65
Cattle	10.00
Sheep	12.00
Potatoes—B. C., ton	75.00
Potatoes—Alta., ton	50.00
Eggs, case	11.50
Buter, creamery, lb.	.43
Buter, dairy, lb.	.36
Potatoes, Albertas, bushel	2.00
Potatoes, B. C., bushel	3.00
Eggs, new laid	.40
Butter, No. 1 creamery, lb.	.48
Butter, No. 1 dairy, lb.	.40
Baled hay, timothy, bale	1.25
Baled hay, prairie, bale	1.00

EASTERN PRICES FOR PRODUCE GOING DOWN

Montreal, June 7.—Demand for butter is quiet and cheese unchanged. Eggs easy with a limited demand.

Cheese—Finest westerns, 21c to 21½c; finest easterns, 20c to 20½c.

Butter—Choicest creamery, 38½c to 39c; seconds, 37½c to 38c.

Eggs—Fresh, 42c to 43c.

Pork—Heavy Canada short mess, barrels, 35 to 45 pieces, 55c to 56c; Canada short cut back, barrels, 45 to 55 pieces, 55c to 54c.

TORONTO MARKET WEAK AND PRICES FAIR

Toronto, June 7.—Receipts at the Union stockyards today were 148 cattle, 37 calves, 2,027 hogs, 46 sheep and lambs.

A light run of cattle today left a better opening to let out several loads of choice heavy stuff that had been held over from the earlier markets. There was also a slightly more active demand for butcher cattle by big packers, with the result that everything was closed out at a shade higher prices than were offering in the past couple of market days. Choice calves good and strong. Fat cows and bulls strong.

Sheep and lambs steady at prevailing prices.

Hogs steady at this week's decline.

FINANCIAL

STATISTICS ON LIFE INSURANCE FOR PAST YEAR

Life insurance business written in Canada last year amounted to $231,146,125, as compared with $221,119,558 in the year previous, according to the abstract of the insurance report tabled in the house of commons recently. Payments for death claims amounted to $16,358,678, as compared with $13,621,455 in 1915. Claims due to the death of soldiers at the front and other persons engaged in war service paid by commpanies operating under Dominion licenses last year totalled $4,560,938, making the total from the beginning of the war until the end of 1916, $6,518,268. In addition Canadian companies incurred claims under policies held by British and foreign policy-holders to the amount of $524,935, and companies and fraternal societies operating under provincial licenses paid since the beginning of the war $352,369.

Fire insurance premiums totalled $27,713,308, while the losses paid were $4,611,280. Of the totals British companies received over fourteen million and paid nearly eight million dollars, while Canadian companies received $4,736,038, and paid in losses $2,580,594.

MONEY IN FRANCE SHOWS FAIR INCREASE

Paris, June 7.—The weekly statement of the aBnk of France shows the following changes:

Gold in hand, increased, 4,840,000 francs.

Silver in hand, increased, 142,000.

Notes in circulation, increased, 200,461,000.

Treasury deposits, decreased, 51,792,000.

General deposits, increased, 12,591,000.

Bills discounted, decreased, 28,504,000.

Advance, increased, 11,187,000.

ENGLAND SHOWS INCREASE IN RESERVE FUNDS

London, June 7.—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes:

Total reserve, increased, £37,000.

Circulation, decreased, £49,000.

Bullion, decreased, £12,601.

Other securities, decreased £8,306,000.

Other deposits, increased, £1,317,000.

Public deposits, decreased, £9,440,000.

Notes reserve, increased, £33,000.

Government securities, increased £167,000.

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liabilities this week is 20.48 per cent.; last week it was 19.51 per cent.

Rate of discount 5 per cent.

BANK CLEARINGS SHOW INCREASE FOR CALGARY

Following are the bank clearings of the principal cities of the Dominion for the week ending today:

Montreal	$93,038,602
Toronto	58,588,191
Winnipeg	49,117,705
Vancouver	7,674,455
Ottawa	6,852,480
Calgary	6,642,496
Hamilton	4,843,675
Quebec	4,625,171
Edmonton	2,627,277
Halifax	2,751,392
London	2,338,504
Regina	3,098,738
St. John	2,136,216
Victoria	2,363,589
Saskatoon	1,613,299
Moose Jaw	1,104,345
Brantford	835,679
Brandon	511,716
Fort William	747,897
Lethbridge	816,913
Medicine Hat	523,463
New Westminster	354,631

NEW YORK STOCKS

(Lougheed & Taylor)

	Open	Close
American Sugar	118⅛	118¾
American Beet Sugar	95½	95½
American Canners	53	52
American Locomotive	76	75⅛
American Smelters	111	110
American Car Foundry	78	76¼
Anglo-French	93½	93⅛
Anaconda	86⅛	85¼
Atchison	102½	102⅛
Baldwin Locomotive	68½	66⅛
Baltimore and Ohio	71⅜	72
Bethlehem Steel	152½	154
Canadian Pacific	161½	161
C. M. and St. Paul	72⅞	74
Central Leather	96⅝	96
Ches. and Ohio	61¼	61
Colorado F. and I.	57⅝	56½
Crucible Steel	82⅝	81½
Distillers	18⅜	20¼
Erie, cdm.	25½	25½
Great Northern, pfd.	107⅜	107⅜
Ind. Alcohol	158	160⅞
Inspiration	65⅜	64⅜
Kansas City Southern	22½	22½
Lehigh	63⅞	64¼
Louisville and Nashville	127	127
Mexican Petrol	99½	101¼
National Lead	59½	59½
New York Central	91	91¼
Northern Pacific	103¼	103⅛
Pennsylvania	53¼	51¼
Ray Consol	31	31
Rep. I. and S.	93	92½
Reading	94	93⅛
Southern Pacific	93½	93⅛
Soo Ry.	27¾	27¾
Studebaker	80	79¼
St. Paul	73⅞	74
Tennessee Copper	16⅞	17⅛
Union Pacific	136¼	137½
Utah Copper	115½	115
U. S. Steel, com.	133	131⅞
Westinghouse	55	53¾

Calgary Public Market

Prices Asked Consumers

Fruit
Apples	3½ to 5 lbs. for 25c
Apples, per case	$2.00 to $2.75
Bananas	30c per doz.
Grape Fruit	7½c to 10c each
Lemons	20c to 25c per doz.
Oranges	15c to 40c per doz.
Strawberries	15c to 18c per box
Tangerines	7½c to 10c per doz.
Vegetables
Carrots	6 lbs. for 25c
Carrots	10 lbs for 25c
Celery	12½c per lb.
Cauliflower	10c to 25c each
Cucumbers	10c to 25c each
Lettuce (head)	3 for 15c
Lettuce (bunch)	5 for 10c
Onions (green)	5 for 10c
Onions (cooking)	3 lbs. for 25c
Parsnips	6 lbs. for 25c
Parsley	3 bunches for 10c
Peas (green)	18c per lb.
Potatoes (new)	12½c per lb.
Radishes	5 bunches for 10c
Spinach	12½c per lb.
Tomatoes	25c to 30c per lb.
Plants
Cabbage plants	$1.00 per 100
Cauliflower	$1.00 per 100
Cabbage plants, Cauliflower, asters, carnations golden feather, hops, ivy geraniums, petunia, phlox	17½c per basket
Poultry—Dressed	Per lb.
Chicken	28c to 30c
Fowl	25c to 28c
Poultry—Live
Chicken and fowl	20c to 22c
Produce
Butter, creamery	45c to 48c
Dairy, No. 1	40c to 45c
Dairy, No. 2	35c
Eggs, new laid	per case $12.00
Eggs, new laid	43c per doz.
Meats	Per lb.
Beef, boiling	12½c to 15c
Pot roast	15c
Rib roast	20c to 25c
Sirloin roast	25c to 28c
Round steak	20c to 25c
Porter house steak	25c to 28c
Mutton, sides	25c
Front quarters	20c
Hind quarters	25c to 30c
Chops	25c to 30c
Stew	15c to 18c
Veal, stew	15c to 20c
Shoulder roast	20c to 25c
Steak	30c to 35c
Pork, sides	22c to 25c
Roast shoulder	22c to 25c
hind quarters	25c to 28c
Spare ribs	18c
Fresh Fish
Herring	12½c
Pike	10c
White fish	15c
Sundries
Dripping	15c
Head cheese	15c
Sausage	15c

Calgary Public Market

Prices Paid to Farmers

All farm killed meats must be accompanied by the viscera.

Meats	Per lb.
Beef, No. 1 steer, hind quar	18c to 19c
Front quarters	13c to 13½c
Cow, hind quarters	17c to 18c
Front quarters	12c to 13c
Pork, lightweight	20c to 21c
Mutton, ewes	19c to 20c
Wethers	20c to 21c
Veal, No. 1 light	20c to 22c
Heavy	16c to 18c
Produce
Butter, creamery	42c to 43c
Dairy, No. 1	34c to 36c
Dairy, No. 2	30c to 33c
Eggs, new laid, case	$11.25 to $11.50
Vegetables
Beets	$3.50
Carrots	$3.00
Cabbage	$8.50
Onions	$7.00
Potatoes, per ton	$50.00
Potatoes, per ton	$55.00 to $60.00
Turnips, per ton	$16.00

Teachers' Examinations

High School and University Matriculation Examinations Board Will Meet During June.

I beg to advise you that the departmental examinations for Grades VIII, IX, X, XI and XII will be held this year on June 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 25, 26, 27 and 28 at the following centers:

Acme, Alderson, Alix, Athabasca, Banff, Barons, Bassano, Bawlf, Beaver Lodge, Bezanson, Bentley, Big Valley, Blackfalds, Blackie, Blairmore, Bowden, Bow Island, Calgary, Camrose, Cardston, Carmangay, Carstairs, Castor, Cereal, Champion, Chauvin, Chinook, Claresholm, Clive, Coaldale, Cochrane, Consort, Coronation, Crossfield, Daysland, Delburne, Delia, Didsbury, Drumheller, Edmonton, Edson, Empress, Fort Saskatchewan, Gadsby, Gleichen, Grande Prairie, Granum, Hanna, Hardisty, High River, Innisfail, Killam, Lacombe, Lake View S. D. (Elnora), Lamont, Langdon, Lavoy, Leduc, Lethbridge, Lloydminster, Lomond, Lougheed, Macleod, Magrath, Mannville, Medicine Hat, Milk River, Mirror, Morinville, Mundare, Munson, Nanton, New Dayton, Nordegg, Okotoks, Olds, Oyen, Peace River, Pincher Creek, Ponoka, Provost, Raymond, Redcliff, Red Deer, Rimbey, Ryley, Sedgewick, Sibbald, Springbank, St. Albert, Stavely, Stettler, Stirling, St. Paul de Metis, Strathmore, Strome, Taber, Three Hills, Tofield, Trochu, Vegreville, Vermilion, Viking, Vulcan, Wabamun, Wainwright, Warner, Wetaskiwin and Youngstown.

The examinations in the five grades will be conducted at the same centers and under the same presiding examiners. The department will supply the required foolscap, drawing paper, squared paper and ink, but candidates are advised to provide themselves with a soft eraser, a good drawing pencil, and, if possible, India ink, water color and suitable brush or brushes. For the work in water color a supply of water and conveniences for cleansing the brushes should be available.

Candidates who have not already selected one of the above centers should advise the board at once at which center they desire to write.

The examinations for the first and second year commercial course will be conducted at Calgary, Edmonton, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat, during the same period as the grade examinations.

FARMS

Farm Lands For Sale

3 sections of raw land about 30 miles north from Calgary. Can mostly all be cultivated; plenty of good water, Price $15.00 per acre. Good terms.

2 sections improved land, 25 miles from Calgary. 400 acres under cultivation. Good buildings. Price, $22.00 per acre Good terms.

Both of these are first class mixed farming propositions.

J. W. ROUTLEDGE
(Formerly 105 P. Burns Bldg.)
Farm Lands and City Property
Insurance and Loans
806A Second St. E., Calgary, Alta.
Office Phone, M4001
Residence Phone, M5271

J. W. Vermilyea & Co.
805 First St. West, 25 Alberta Blk.
Phone M1617 Calgary, Alta.
We have first-class Farm Lands for sale in all parts of Southern Alberta, both raw and improved, at right prices, also a large list of fully modern houses for sale, in all parts of the city. Money to loan.

LASHER & GILLILAN LIMITED
Farm and Ranch Lands
Head Office: 809 Center Street
Phone M2996
Calgary, Three Hills, Youngstown, Alberta

LAND BUYERS
Let Us Help You in the Selection of Your Alberta Farm
We were Pioneer Farmers in the States, and we have developed thousands of acres of Alberta's best Wheat Lands.
We have located a large number of Land Seekers during the many years we have been in business in Calgary, and it is a source of satisfaction to us to know that every settler who has followed our advice is making good.
Exclusively Farm Lands
Valuators and Developers
GILBERT BROS., LIMITED
ESTABLISHED 11 YEARS
613 Grain Exchange Building
Calgary, Alberta

Calgary Furniture Hospital
We have a very complete line of Secondhand Furniture. All classes and descriptions. Several good sets for sale and at reasonable prices.
Our Stock of Stoves and Ranges are the best to be found in the City. We invite you to see our Stock before buying elsewhere.

Now! Get Ready for
Calgary Exhibition
Thursday, June 28th, to Thursday, July 5th
Grand Program of Attractions Including
--- KATHERINE STINSON ---
Horse Races—June 29 to July 3 Auto Races—July 4 and 5
Generous Prizes offered in all departments.
ENTRIES CLOSE JUNE 15
Fifty per cent. of Freight Refunded on Alberta Live Stock Exhibits.
Prize List and All Information from
E. J. DEWEY, President
E. L. RICHARDSON, Manager

High Class American Dentistry
Expression 20th Century Plates that Fit
Cute-Rate Prices. 10-Year Guarantee.
The Greatest Scientific Painless Methods Used.
Office Hours: 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Daily; 7 to 9 p.m. Evenings
Thousands of Pleased Patients
Gold Crowns and Bridge Work a Specialty
DR. P. C. BRUNER DR. W. B. REEVE
Graduates from Chicago, Detroit and Philadelphia Colleges
Phone M1051
Calgary Office: Eighth Avenue East, Next to Allen Theatre
Edmonton Office: Crystall Block, Jasper Avenue

N
SPRING and SUMMER SUITS
Made to Your Order, From $25 to $40
300 Patterns From Which to Make Your Selection.
A. S. Nimmo
MADE TO MEASURE CLOTHES FOR MEN
ALBERTA CORNER 1ST. ST. WEST CALGARY.

IMPERIAL HOTEL
CALGARY FAMILY HOTEL
Second Street East and Ninth Avenue
Large, Bright and Airy Rooms at Reasonable Rates.
BUFFET IN CONNECTION
Newly Equipped — : : — Newly Decorated
Music Afternoon and Evening
Splendid Billiard Room Equipped with First Class Tables Made in Canada
Phone M6217 DANIEL F. WHITING Prop.

A GENUINE FARMER'S MARKET
A Public Market owned and operated by the City of Calgary in the interests of the producer and consumer.
Farmers living at a distance and unable to attend the Market in person can forward their produce direct to the Superintendent and have same sold through a bonded agent with prompt returns.
For further particulars phone or write
SUPERINTENDENT,
Calgary Public Market

Hotel Radisson
MINNEAPOLIS
409 ROOMS
275 ROOMS AT $1.50 TO $2.50 PER DAY.
MODERN - FIRE PROOF

Phone M5910
JOE CARNEGIE
Gas Fitting and Repairing
744 5½ ST. N.W., CALGARY
Estimates Given

BUD SHOW CARDS
Signs of the Times
218A EIGHTH AVENUE EAST
Cotton Signs Phone M5263
Late Card Writer Hudson's Bay Co

McKelvie & Stirrett Co. Ltd.
General Brokers and Commission Agents.
Bain Building, 11th Avenue West
Phone W1736
By using "Our Best" Flour and our other brands of goods, you will reduce the high cost of living.

CITY SIGN WORKS
SECOND STREET EAST
For Sign Painting and Show Cards
Opposite Post Office
See Us.
Prices Right. Good Workmanship

FURRIER
THOS. PAIN
Manufacturing Furrier
Successor to Mackay & Dippie Fur Manufacturing Department
218A Eighth Ave. West. Phone M3806
Furs Remodeled and Reparied. Your Own Skins Dressed and Made Up. Highest Prices Paid for Raw Furs.

CROSSLAND & BEALE
Decorators
Wall Paper, Sanitas, Burlaps, Mouldings, Paints, Oils, Stains, Varnishes and Brushes
714 SECOND STREET EAST
Phone M4344 City Hall Corner

BROCK & MILLAR
LADIES' AND GENTS' TAILORS
Breeches Makers
711A First St. East, Cameron Blk.
Phone M1267 CALGARY

INSURANCE
ST. PAUL MUTUAL HAIL & CYCLONE INSURANCE COMPANY
CALGARY . . . . ALTA.
Before buying Hail Insurance, we invite you to call and Inspect Our Policies.

Office Phone M3375
Residence Phone M3251
JOHN J. PETRIE
Barrister, Solicitor and Notary
2 MILLS BLOCK
322A Eighth Avenue West
Calgary - - - Canada

Order Your Help from
J. R. ROBERTS
Employment Office
108a Ninth Avenue West
Phone M5881 Calgary, Alta.

MONUMENTS
The Somerville Co.

2318 SECOND STREET EAST
Phone M3305
South of C.N.R. Subway, Near Union Cemetery Gate

O. Hanson & Co.
EMPLOYMENT AGENCY
Head Office:
813A Centre St., Calgary, Alta.
P. O. Box 1346 Phone M2963
We make a specialty in furnishing Labor for Railroad Contractors and Companies. All kinds of help Furnished on Short Notice.
For Quick, Reliable and Satisfactory Service, See Us.
C. P. R. Labor Agents.

WHAT DO THE PRESS SAY ABOUT

Eldon Mining Company Limited

NON-PERSONAL LIABILITY

Here are Extracts from their Comments:

Calgary Herald, 2nd June, 1917:—"The Herald is able to say it is a legitimate and well managed institution, with moderate capital and having a directorate consisting of well known local people. The public may have confidence in the honest and careful management of the Company's funds."

Calgary Eye Opener, 2nd June, 1917:—"We know a good deal about this particular mine, and about the men handling it, and can state with clear conscience that there is nothing bogus about either the mine or the men."

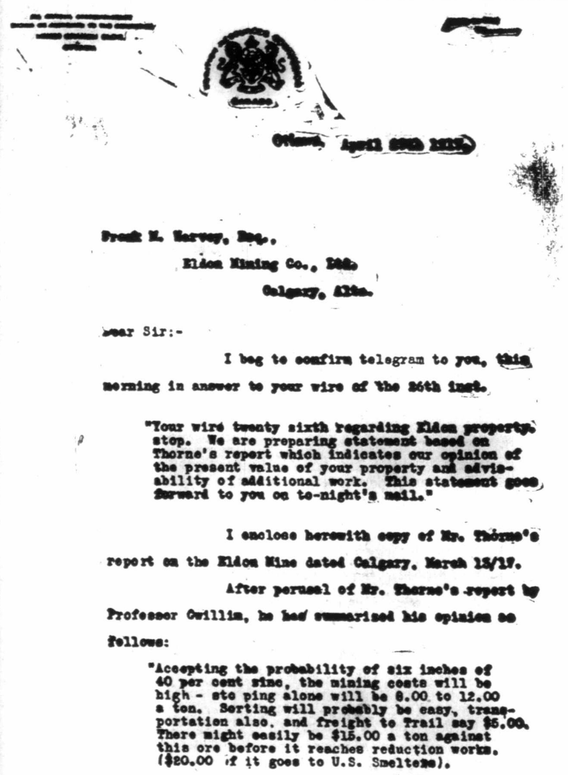
Western Standard:—The officers of Eldon Mining Co., Ltd., are all well known business men of the city who have been associated with the professional or business progress of Calgary for many years.

Fairplay, 31st May, 1917:—"We have gone into the Company's affairs carefully and have seen the correspondence between the Company and the Imperial Munitions Commission. It should not be forgotten that money expended prospecting mining properties is actually spent in developing the Province. The Government requires for war purposes, all the Zinc and Copper it can get, and there is but little doubt that this Company has excellent prospects. We can commend it to all who are in the habit of investing in speculative and mining propositions."

Albertan, 31st May, 1917:—"The Company has, we know, been run on very conservative lines the Directors are reputable business men."

Oil Review:—We are glad to call attention to a real Alberta mining company, backed by Alberta people, and located in the province. The strong recommendation this Company has received from the Munitions Resources Commission of Canada, both as to property and management, should be a matter of great pride to the Company. We have studied the Prospectus of the Company carefully and it has every element of success. We trust they will receive support and that this may only be the beginning of companies devoted to the development of the great mineral resources of this Province.

The above com.nents will prove to the careful investor that the Mine is one of exceptionally good promise and managed by reputable and capable men.



The Eldon Mine is not a Mere Undeveloped Mining Claim which may be worked in the future. It is being worked today, and has been worked continuously for the last seven months. Further, it has been developed with the Promoters' own money to the extent that several shipments of ore have actually been made to Trail Smelter and paid for on the following basis after deduction of existing rate of freight:

Zinc -	46.55	per cent.	$31.99	per ton,	F.O.B.	Smelter
"	31.3	"	15.50	"	"	"
"	37.6	"	25.81	"	"	"
Copper	7.2	"	27.74	"	"	"

Throughout the developed area the vein has been permanent and continuous, and has shown high mineral values.

As Fiscal Agents we are offering 50,000 shares of stock of the par value of One Dollar, at the price of 50c per share, non-assessable. Put in your application Today.

Ottawa, April 26th 1917.

Frank H. Harvey, Esq.,
Eldon Mining Co., Ltd.
Calgary, Alta.

Dear Sir:-

I beg to confirm telegram to you, this morning in answer to your wire of the 26th inst.

"Your wire twenty sixth regarding Eldon property. stop. We are preparing statement based on Thorne's report which indicates our opinion of the present value of your property and advisability of additional work. This statement goes forward to you on to-night's mail."

I enclose herewith copy of Mr. Thorne's report on the Eldon Mine dated Calgary, March 13/17.

After perusal of Mr. Thorne's report by Professor Cirillin, he has summarised his opinion as follows:

"Accepting the probability of six inches of 40 per cent mine, the mining costs will be high - ste ping alone will be 8.00 to 12.00 a ton. Sorting will probably be easy, transportation also, and freight to Trail say $6.00. There might easily be $15.00 a ton against this ore before it reaches reduction works. ($20.00 if it goes to U.S. Smelters).

Trail will give, at present, about $20.00 a ton for this rather desirable - silver free ore, but when spelter falls to 5 cents it will be worth about $20.00 f.o.b. reduction works.

- 2 -

The copper value of 1 per cent, over say, 3 feet, is not much of an asset, but as it will probably come out anyway it may pay to sort or mill. To me there seems to be a good enough chance to justify spending more money in putting down the winze, or the 400 foot cross-cut, say $10,000 worth of development work."

We are informed that your Directors are reputable business men, but without much experience in practical mining, and are quite sanguine as regards the future of the Eldon Mine. Do not therefore, misunderstand me when I say that we are impressed with the value of your mine as a PROSPECT, but consider that development work must be accomplished before your property can be classified as an assured producer.

We have no objection to your publishing our reports and essays in full, and feel satisfied, on Mr. Thorne's recommendation, that no improper use will be made of the information we submit.

Yours very truly,

Secretary.

REPORT ON ELDON MINE

The property of the Eldon Mining Co. is located on the south west side of the Bow River Valley about two miles in a direct line from Eldon siding on the main line of the C. P. R., and consists of six claims. The workings are about 1,500 feet above the level of the railway and are connected with the siding by a road. The claims are located within the boundaries of the Rocky Mountains Park and were originally staked in 1883 but lapsed and were relocated in 1907. A camp to accommodate 16 men has been built at the mine and a small camp and stable the siding. The locality is timbered with Jack Pine and Spruce.

The formation is gray shale with a north west strike and dips at about 45 degrees to the south west. At the time of my inspection there was about four feet of snow so that it was only possible to see the rocks at a few places on the sides of the gully from which the mine entry is driven.

The vein as exposed in the workings is about four feet in thickness and is conformable in strike and dip to the shales. It is claimed that the vein outcrop has been traced for some distance to the north west and that other claims have been staked on the extension. At this time of the year it is impossible to verify this by examination. Four of the claims owned by the Company are on the strike of the seam now being worked and two lie to the north east and parallel to the others.

Sections were measured across the vein at three points in the workings and are marked as "A," "B" and "C" on a sketch of the workings which is attached. The measurements are as follows:

"A" Hanging Wall	46 inches with Chalcopyrite and Pyrite.
4 inches Zinc ore and Galena.	—
5 inches Zinc ore.	56
16 inches Schist.
15 inches Quartz with Chalcopyrite and Pyrite.	"C" Hanging Wall
—	1 inch Zinc ore and Galena.
40	40 inches Quartz with Chalcopyrite and Pyrite.
"B" Hanging Wall	—
10 inches Zinc ore with some Galena.	41

Samples of zinc ore were taken at points "A" and "B" also at a point at the top of the winze where the zinc ore is 13 inches thick.

A sample of copper ore taken from point "C" is picked ore and does not represent an average of the section.

The samples taken represent ore as picked for shipment. The zinc ore runs from 1 inch to 30 inches in thickness according to the statement of the Company but the greatest thickness I found was 13 inches. Taking into consideration the ore shipped and now in store at the mine I estimate the average thickness over all the ground worked by the Eldon Company to have been about 6 inches of zinc ore averaging 40% zinc. The balance of the vein would average about 1% in copper which is picked to a shipping ore carrying about 7% copper.

The Eldon Company have made the following shipments of zinc and copper ore to Trail which gave the following returns:

	First grade	12,870 lbs.	Second grade.
Zinc—25,600 lbs.
Silver	Trace		Trace
Lead	4.0%		7.3%
Zinc	42.8%		31.3%
Iron	2.7%		4.2%
Insol.	16.8%		31.8%
Ca O	1.3%		1.1%
Sulphur	26.0%		19.0%

Copper ore—10,390 lbs.
Gold	.03 oz.
Silver	1.50 oz.
Copper	7.20%
Iron	17.60%
Si O2	42.40%
Ca O	1.80
Sulphur	9.50%
Al	8.10%

The following ore is now on hand at the mine:

First Grade Zinc	1¾	tons
Second Grade Zinc	19	tons
Copper Ore	8	tons

A sketch showing the workings on the plane of the pitch is attached. The original locators of the claims in 1883 drove the first 33 feet of the tunnel. The Alberta Copper Co. extended the tunnel to 150 feet and opened up two stopes. The present operators extended the tunnel to 200 feet, sunk a winze 23 feet and extended the stoped area 50 feet in length by an average of 9 feet up the pitch. The tunnel is timbered and tightly lagged for the first 100 feet so that very little could be seen. The general dip of the vein in stopes and winze is about 45 degrees but about the tunnel level there is a local flattening which is most pronounced near the end of the tunnel.

No surveys have been made along the outcrop to determine the exact amount of ground above tunnel level, but it does not appear to be very great and it is the intention of the present operators to sink the winze to a lower level and then drift on the vein.

Calgary, March 13th, 1917. (Sgd.) B. L. THORNE.

CUT THIS BLANK OUT

WHITAKER, ANDERSON & CO., LTD.
ELDON MINING CO., LIMITED, FISCAL AGENTS
131 SIXTH AVE. WEST, CALGARY, ALTA.

Date.....

Gentlemen:—Herewith please find the sum of.....Dollars ($.....)

being the amount of the purchase price of.....shares of Eldon Mining Company, Limited, (Non-personal Liability). I hereby make application for the said shares on the terms of the Prospectus of the Company, dated the 29th day of May, 1917, a copy whereof I hereby acknowledge to have received, and I agree to take the said shares or any less number which may be allotted to me.

(Signature)

Witness:

Name in full .....

.....Address .....

Occupation .....

FISCAL AGENTS:

WHITAKER, ANDERSON & CO., Limited

812, First Street West, Opposite Grain Exchange

131, Sixth Avenue West,
Ground Floor, Lougheed Building

CALGARY, ALBERTA

ted

a real Alberta mining cated in the province.
ny has received from f Canada, both as to matter of great pride rospectus of the Com-of success. We trust ay only be the begin-lopment of the great

d laim

side of the Bow River Valley the C. P. R., and consists of six ay and are connected with the Rocky Mountains Park and were mp to accommodate 16 men has ality is timbered with Jack Pine out 45 degrees to the south west.

it was only possible to see the ry is driven.
and is conformable in strike and for some distance to the north time of the year it is impossible ny are on the strike of the seam ers.
ings and are marked as "A," "B"
nts are as follows:
Chalcopyrite and Pyrite.

e and Galena.
z with Chalcopyrite and Pyrite.

int at the top of the winze where e not represent an average of the ore runs from 1 inch to 30 inches est thickness I found was 13 the mine I estimate the average been about 6 inches of zinc ore % in copper which is picked to a d copper ore to Trail which gave 90 lbs.

.....	.03 oz.
.....	1.50 oz.
.....	7.20%
.....	17.60%
.....	42.40%
.....	1.80
.....	9.50%
.....	8.10%

% tons tons tons

ed. The original locators of the r Co. extended the tunnel to 150 tunnel to 200 feet, sunk a winze ge of 9 feet up the pitch. The ry little could be seen. The gen-the tunnel level there is a local act amount of ground above tunnel the present operators to sink the (Sgd.) B. L. THORNE.

.....

.....

.....Dollars ($.....)

of Eldon Mining Company, Limited, res on the terms of the Prospectus of by acknowledge to have received, and allotted to me.

.....

.....

.....

ted

Vest,
Lougheed Building

THERE ARE A LOT OF PINS IN THE LAP OF LUXURY.

UP AND DOING

Let us then be up and doing
With a heart for any fate,
Still achieving, still pursuing,
Learn to labor and to wait.
—Longfellow.

CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD

THE GREATEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER IN WESTERN CANADA

DO GOOD

Do good with what thou hast, or it will do thee no good. If thou wouldst be happy, bring thy mind to thy condition, and have an indifferency for more than what is sufficient.
—William Penn.

TWO SECTIONS—Section Two | CALGARY, ALBERTA, JUNE 10, 1917 | SECOND SECTION—Pages 9 to 16

STORIES OF EVENTS OF IMPORTANCE IN THE WORLD TODAY

When War is Over England Will Need Half Million Homes

London.—When the war is over and Tommy comes back from the front there is going to be an epidemic of matrimony in this country. It is calculated that there will be about three-quarters of a million weddings just as fast as the preachers can get around to them.

Hayes Fisher, parliamentary secretary to the local government board, told a conference on the housing problem the other day that Great Britain would not have houses enough for its people under the new conditions, by a round half million.

The local government authorities are planning the most ambitious housing scheme that was ever contemplated. The propose to invest 150 million dollars in building houses in various parts of the country, just as a starter. Of course, 150 million dollars will not be much more than a start and the problem of financing such a task, to say nothing of the feature of physical construction, is going to tax every resource that can be mustered.

The greatest of all wonders of this war, it has seemed to me, is the capacity of the people to think under pressure. The British public mind is in a perfect ferment today about a thousand questions. It is not only fermenting, but it is producing conclusions. This housing question is just one of the problems which the new England must deal with.

London has done more than any other city in the world toward the systematic ripping out of slums and the substitution of respectable and desirable homes suited to the needs and incomes of the poor people. For a long time it was hard to get the people to appreciate what was offered to them. Stories are still familiar of families who were moved into four-roomed apartments with bath, and promptly turned the bathtub into a coal repository. But things are changing very fast now. England is discovering that the way to make a people self respecting, to make bathtubs popular and sanitary conveniences necessary, is to pay the people wages enough to justify them in a taste for better modes of living.

It has been said a good many times that during the war nobody has been poor except the rich, while the poor have been better off than they were ever before. That is absolutely true and it explains why millions of families are now in a frame of mind to insist upon a chance to live better, broader, cleaner, healthier and more self respecting lives.

At the bottom of this problem of rehousing England is the question of agricultural wages. Incomes in the country have been so small that for two generations the agricultural laboring classes have been constantly drawn away to the cities, attracted by the lure of high wages and supposedly better opportunity. This congestion in the cities tended to bring wages there down to a level just as bad as it had been in the country, if not worse; but the people once taken away from the country almost never returned to it.

About a decade ago when modern intramural transportation was generally introduced into English cities London and some of the other large towns were overbuilt by speculators, just as has happened in a good many American cities. Millions and millions of cheap and showy houses in rows were put up in the suburban areas and presently the speculators found themselves holding the sack; the houses were not occupied and didn't sell and so building suddenly stopped. Then London began to grow rapidly and presently had filled up these houses and demanded more; they were not supplied fast enough, and even when the war broke out the question of houses was becoming serious.

People don't agree as to why London contains more people today than it probably ever did before in its existence. But it is a fact. It is almost impossible to get a house of the type which the family of the workingman requires, although palatial residences are plentiful enough. If rents have not increased as rapidly as some other necessaries they have nevertheless increased very considerably as to this type of establishment.

Everybody wonders what will happen to London when the war is over; whether the population that has been gathered into the metropolis will dissolve back to the provinces again or whether it will to a considerable extent want to stay here. The general belief is that London is going to have a tremendous boom when the war is over, always assuming, as everybody in England does, that the war's end will be favorable to the allies.

In Other Cities, Too

What is said here about London is true, though to a less extent, of the provincial centers. England is going to have more big houses that it can't use and more demand for small houses that it will want to use than ever confronted a community. The first effort to cope with this situation will be through plans for inducing the people to go back to rural life.

This means a herculean struggle with the land question in the effort to get the land divided into small parcels and turned over to the people who will live on it and work it. Among the soldiers there is a striking disposition to accept this program because so many of them are determined not to live in cities again.

But in order to get the soldiers back to the land they must be provided with houses on the land, so it is going to be necessary not only to build extensively in the cities, but also in the country. Mr. Fisher's estimate that a half million new houses would be needed within a very short time after the war's end is probably quite moderate, despite the fact that hundreds of thousands are likely to emigrate to the colonies or elsewhere.

There will be plenty of work for everybody to do, and there will be the released man power from the armies added to the newly organized and trained woman power, which can never again be excluded from an important relationship to the national industry. But to organize these resources, to provide capital, to pay wages, to bring materials together from a world that has rapidly been denuding itself of all manner of materials to feed these teeming millions during the year of high prices that undoubtedly will follow this war, as they have followed every other war in modern times—these are tasks which confront British statesmen and economists as they confront the statesmen and economists of other European countries.

NEW SPANISH MINISTRY IN SESSION

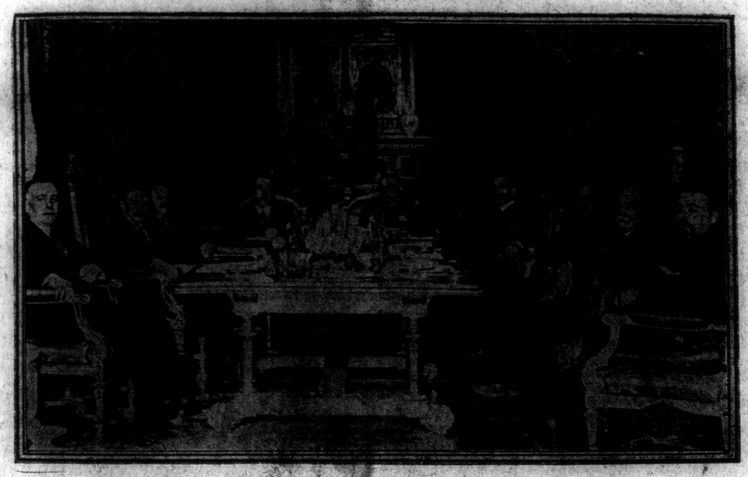

Photo shows the first meeting of the new Spanish Ministry. Left to right, Senor Alvarado, minister of foreign affairs; Garcia Prieto, the premier; Marquis D'Alhucemas, Senor Ruiz Valarino, minister of justice; Senor Burell, minister for home affairs; Senor Frances Rodrigues, minister of public instruction; the Duke D'Lamodovar, minister of public works; Gen. Aguilera, minister of war; Admiral Miranda, minister of marine, and Senor Alba, minister of finance.

All Royalty in England is Troubled with the Supernatural

There are few royal families in Europe which have not at one time or another been visited by supernatural beings, says Chambers' Journal.

One of the most notable of these is the White Lady of the Hohenzollerns, who has appeared before the death of members of that family for several centuries. It is stated that quite lately this specter has been seen again—portending disaster to the present family.

The White Lady dates back to the fifteenth century, and is said to be the ghost of Lady Bertha von Rosenberg, who was born in Bohemia in the year 1425.

Those who have seen the White Lady have stated that there was nothing terrifying about the apparition, which had a sad, gentle face and calm, stately mien. She appears before the doomed members of her family for the purpose of warning them to reflect and repent before their passing into the next world.

Appeared to Napoleon

An apparition called the Red Man has been connected with the rulers of France for ages. This Red Man is said to have appeared always before any great calamity to France, and before the death of the kings. It is a historical fact that the apparition visited Henry IV on the night before he was assassinated, and appealed to Louis XVI immediately prior to the outbreak of the French revolution, also to certain members of the imperial family before the Franco-Prussian war.

Just before he was murdered President Carnot saw the Red Man, and took it as a warning of disaster or death, and, though every precaution was taken, he was unable to avert the tragedy.

Napoleon saw the apparition several times, and appears to have been quite intimate with it. The best known instance occurred January 1, 1814. Three months later the emperor abdicated. Count Montholon relates that Napoleon, when on his deathbed, told him that he had been warned of his approaching end by this same strange being.

The Romanoff Ghost

The ghost attached to the imperial family of Russia appears in the form of a "double;" that is, the royal personage doomed to die sees his or her own specter either walking about the rooms of the palace or seated on the throne, looking generally "as real as life."

It is related that the Empress Catherine, shortly before her death, was sitting reading in her boudoir when one of her ladies in waiting came to tell her in a breathless voice that a very strange thing had just happened. They had seen a figure exactly like the empress enter the stateroom, and were greatly mystified, as they knew her majesty could not possibly be in that part of the palace at that time.

The empress turned pale, as she knew what such an apparition signified; but she followed her attendant to the stateroom, and there beheld, seated on the throne, a figure the exact counterpart of herself. She boldly advanced toward the mysterious being, and, addressing it, demanded to know who it was that dared to intrude thus.

The figure remained motionless and silent; so the empress turned to her guards, who were close behind her,

(Continued on page Eleven)

Maskelyne Was Known as the King of Magicians

You notice, ladies and gentlemen, that my hand never leaves the end of my arm."

For 62 years John Nevil Maskelyne, king of magicians, prince of conjurers, used that expression. It looks inane in type, but it never failed to get a laugh, when by a dexterous move of the muscles of his hand he made billiard balls disappear seemingly into thin air.

Maskelyne, who died in London recently, was the greatest illusionist of whom the world has record. His feats of optical and mechanical trickery mystified scientists for almost half a century. His exhibition theaters, Egyptian hall and afterwards St. George's hall in London, were celebrated the world over. He made a place in religious history for himself by producing the "$5,000 spook."

Men and women are but children, Maskelyne once said. He wrote a book on magic. Where a child will squeal with laughter when guessing in which hand held behind the back the apple is, grownups guffaw loudly when the magician pulls a kicking rabbit from a silk top hat. And when he slaps a boy on the back of the head and takes an egg from the youth's mouth it's simply killing. Tricks never grow old.

"If the ladies will excuse me I will roll up one of my sleeves and show you what I mean," the magician says, and the fun is on.

The Pagans Used It

Back in the days of Egypt's prime conjuring was an art. In ancient Greece and Rome optical illusions were used by pagan priests. Visible representation of divinities passing before spectators in dark subterranean chambers were made by the use of concave metal mirrors. The most hardy Roman warrior dropped to his knees in the presence of these forms "from the other world." He consulted voices in trees and stones in regard to his campaigns. For the belief that some way, somehow, those who have gone before are still in touch with those on earth exists today with many persons, and always has existed, it seems.

It was this side of human nature, more than the art of manipulating a deck of playing cards for the amusement of his audiences, that Maskelyne appealed to. Born in England, he began his career as a conjurer when 16 years old. He was an originator of mysteries. Interested from the first in mechanics, he devoted practically all his time as a boy and young man to a close study of mechanical science.

Maskelyne was always eager to take up any new phase of spiritualism and produce the same results the "mediums" did. He showed himself floating in air and perfected what is known as the levitation mystery—a performer in a recumbent position rises several feet up from the stage and remains suspended in space. Other magicians had done this trick, but they admitted it was done by mechanical means and that the steel hoop which they passed up and down

(Continued on page Eleven)

Belva Lockwood, Leader of Women of States, is Dead

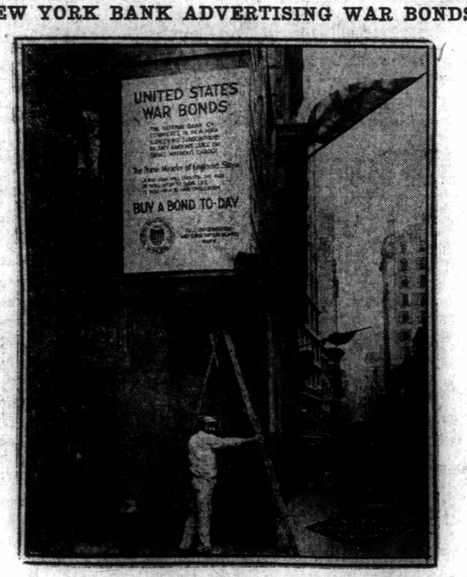
Washington.—Mrs. Belva A. B. Lockwood, 86 years old, the only woman who was ever a candidate for president of the United States, the first woman admitted to practice before the supreme court of the United States, a pioneer in the woman suffrage movement and the one person to whom women employed in the government service are indebted for the law which gave them equal pay with men, died here after a long illness, so says the press dispatch.

It was in 1884 that Mrs. Lockwood was nominated for the presidency of the United States by the Woman's Equal Rights party in San Francisco, and although her campaign lacked a strong supporting organization and money for expenses, she polled a creditable number of votes. She was renominated in 1888, her platform containing many of the advanced ideas of present administration.

Mrs. Lockwood outlived three sets of judges and three sets of lawyers. She was in active practice of law in the District of Columbia for 43 years. During her legal career she participated in more than 7,000 pension cases. Her last speech in court was in the court of claims in 1915 for a settlement of the estate of Gen. John Sevier, first governor of Tennessee, on which she had been engaged for more than seven years.

Among the famous cases in which she was engaged was the eastern and emigrant Cherokees against the United States government, in which she was one of the attorneys of record who won a five million dollar verdict.

Mrs. Lockwood was born at Royalton, N. Y., October 24, 1830. Her maiden name was Belva Ann Bennett. She was graduated from Genesee college in 1817. For eleven years she was a teacher. At the close of the Civil war she moved to Washington and conducted a private school for seven years.



She was graduated from the National University Law school in 1873, with the degree of B.L., and admitted after a hard struggle to the District of Columbus bar. In 1876 she obtained the passage of a bill, which she drafted, admitting women to the bar of the supreme court of the United States, and she was the first woman admitted under it in 1879.

In 1890 she took a course of university extension at Oxford university, England. She had been called in as arbitrator and mediator in a number of labor disputes. She was an honorary member of the Vie Internationale of Brussels and an honorary member of the women's branch of the World Center society of Rome, Italy.

Mrs. Lockwood was married twice, first at Royalton, N. Y., November 8, 1848, to Uriah H. McNall, a farmer, who died in 1853. She was married the second time in Washington, March 11, 1868, to Dr. Ezekiel Lockwood, a chaplain in the Civil war. He died April 23, 1877.

She had two daughters, one by each marriage, both of whom are dead.

NEW YORK BANK ADVERTISING WAR BONDS

It is believed that the National Bank of Commerce is the first bank to advertise the sale of the new U. S. war bonds with posters.

FIRST PHOTOS OF RUSSIAN REVOLUTION

Scene taken during early stages of Russian revolution, showing Petrograd students and soldiers firing across the Moika canal at the police, who sided with the supporters of the old regime.

RURAL MAIL ORDER GUIDE

RURAL BUYERS' GUIDE

RELIABLE FIRMS—SATISFACTORY SERVICE

FARMERS' AND RANCHERS' BUSINESS DIRECTORY

HOME CLASSIFIED BUSINESS GUIDE

STANDARD BUSINESS DIRECTORY

BARRISTERS AND SOLICITORS

E. F. RYAN BARRISTER, SOLICITOR and Notary, 402 Maclean Block, Calgary, Alta. Phone M1670.

E. A. DUNBAR, BARRISTER, ETC., Royal Bank Chambers, Eighth Ave. and Centre Street. Phone M2311. 11-1yr.

FRANCOIS DE ROUSSY DE SALES, Barrister, Solicitor and Notary Public, Avocat Francais. Rooms, 209-211 Grain Exchange, Calgary. Phone M1916.

H. P. SAUNDERS, BARRISTER AND Solicitor, etc. 22 Old Herald Building Phone M2747.

JAMES O. CAMPBELL, B.L., BARRISTER and Solicitor, 312 Beveridge Building, Calgary. Phone M2977.

J. J. MACDONALD, B.A., LL.B., BARrister, Solicitor, Notary, 303-306 Beveridge Building, Calgary, Alta. Phone M3371

J. McKINLEY CAMERON, BARRISTER and Solicitor. Office, 230. Phone M6769. Corner of 8th Ave. and First St. West.

LOUGHEED, BENNETT, McLAWS & CO. Clarence Block, 122 Eighth Ave. West, Calgary, Alberta, Canada

Hon. J. A. Lougheed, P.C., K.C.; R. B. Bennett, K.C.; W. H. McLaws, J. C. Brozovski, J. B. Roberts, D. L. Redman, L. M. Roberts, W. C. Pollard, H. A. Chadwick, H. E. Forster.

McLEAN, PATTERSON AND BROAD. H. W. McLean, W. H. Patterson, W. G. Broad. Phone M6356. 502 MacLean Block, Calgary. Branch Offices, Acme, and Beiseker, Alta.

P. HARCOURT O'REILLY, BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary. 716-717 Herald Bldg Calgary. Phone M3959.

SAVARY, FENERTY & CHADWICK, Stringer Block. Main 6614.

TWEEDIE, McGILLIVRAY, BARRON & Oldham, Solicitors, Etc. T. M. Tweedie, A. McGillivray, J. B. Barron, J. N. Oldham. 105A Eighth Avenue West.

ARTISTS

ARTISTS, DESIGNERS & ENGRAVERS HICKS ENGRAVING CO., LIMITED, Makers of Photo Engravings for all Purposes. Herald Western Building, Cor. 2nd Ave. and 6th Street West Phone M6761

STAFFORD & KENT, DESIGNERS AND ENGRAVERS Illuminated Addresses, Engrossings and Engraved Cards 224A Eighth Avenue West

AUCTIONEERS

M6209 CITY EXCHANGE AUCTIONeers. 406 Eighth Avenue West. House and Office Furniture at our Salesrooms at SNAP PRICES Call, write or phone us.

BOOTS AND SHOES

FOR UP-TO-THE-MINUTE FOOTWEAR, go to RICHARDSON'S LIMITED (The Home of Good Shoes) 815 Eighth Ave. West Phone M4509

COUPLAND BUSINESS COLLEGE

THE OLD SCHOOL, THE TRIED SCHOOL, the School for you. Why not start now? Phone M1908. 109 14th Ave. West.

DENTISTS

DR. A. B. C. DANDO Dentist Prices Cut in TWO 123 8th Ave. W. Phone M2141

FRONT OFFICE TO RENT

IN MILLS BLOCK For particulars apply J. J. PETRIE SUITE 2, MILLS BLOCK 222A 8th Avenue West Phone M3375

FURNITURE REMOVERS

THE PACIFIC CARTAGE CO., LIMITED, Furniture Moving and Storage, expert packers and forwarding agents. Phone M6097. Office in C.P.R. freight shed, Ninth Avenue and Second Street East.

DO YOU WANT MONEY?

If you are a man, woman, boy or girl and you want to make money send us your name and address. We will send you the particulars which will make you money and independent for life. You only have to devote a part of your spare time to it to earn all the money you need for luxuries or you can devote your entire time to it and make a good living. You don't need any experience. You simply need energy and ambition to make the effort and success will come.—Address, Manager, 109 Sixth Ave., Calgary, Alberta.

DR. SIZE THE DENTIST AND NATUROPATH

233 EIGHTH AVENUE EAST

30 years successful practice.

All branches

Have your Dental work done, your Plates, Crowns or Bridges repaired.

BABY WELFARE

Avoid all drugs and patent medicines. They will serve you false. The cause of decay of the teeth is in the general system not the mouth. Let me explain this to you.

DYEING AND CLEANING

WHEN IN NEED OF FIRST-CLASS DRY Cleaning, Dyeing or Repair Work, on the shortest notice, 'phone THE DON DRY CLEANING COMPANY, 102 Seventh Ave. West Phones M2335—M2906.

APPAREL SERVICE CO., DYERS, Cleaners of everything. 233 17 Ave. W. Phones M3150, W1533.

FURS AND LADIES' TAILORED HATS

WE ARE BUSY NOW IN THE FUR Remodelling Dept. What will it be in the season? So don't defer sending your furs to us; you will save time and money

W. W. BELL

LADIES' HATTER AND FURRIER 227 7th Ave. West, between 1st and 2nd Sts.

GASFITTING

WE BEG TO ANNOUNCE THE REopening of the Central Plumbing, Gasfitting and Heating Store on 1211 First Street East. Gas Stoves and Water Heaters connected and general repairs of every description. If you have anything in the above line, by patronizing me you are helping a returned Soldier. Phone M1265. R. C. Laurie.

HARDWARE

MARSHALL HARDWARE, LIMITED, 131 Eighth Avenue East Main 6288

HAT WORKS

EMPIRE HAT WORKS HATS CLEANED BLOCKED & REMODELLED 240 7th AVE. EAST PHONE M.6006

HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED AND REmodeled. Apparel Service Co. Phones M3150, W1533, 233 17 Ave. West. We call and deliver.

BOSTON HAT WORKS AND SHOE REPAIR SHOP HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED AND REshaped. Straws of every description Cleaned and Renovated. First-Class Shoe Repairing. All work guaranteed. Skates sharpened. All goods called for and delivered. Phone M4798.

HOTELS

QUEEN'S HOTEL Second Street East and Eighth Avenue FURNISHED ROOMS TO RENT BY DAY, week or month. Weekly rates from $2.75 to $5.00; monthly rates from $10.00 to $20.00. All outside rooms, warm and comfortable, most central location in city. B. A. Atkinson, Jr., proprietor.

HOMESTEADS OR FARM LANDS

OREGON AND CALIFORNIA RAILROAD Co. Grant Lands—Titles to same revested in United States by act of Congress, dated June 9, 1916. Two million three hundred thousand acres to be opened for homesteads and sale. Timber and Agricultural Lands, containing some of best lands left in United States. Now is the opportune time. Large sectional map showing lands and description of soil, climate, rainfall, elevation, etc., postpaid One Dollar. Grant Lands Locating Co., Box 618, Portland, Oregon.

WANTED—to hear from owner of good farm for sale. Northwestern Business Agency, Minneapolis, Minn.

HELP WANTED

MEN AND WOMEN TO LEARN BARBering. Highest wages, steady employment guaranteed. Tools furnished free. Send for free illustrated instruction book. CALGARY BARBER COLLEGE, 615B Centre Street (near C.P.R. Depot).

LADIES WANTED TO DO PLAIN AND light sewing at home, whole or spare time; good pay; work sent any distance; charges paid. Send stamp for particulars. National Manufacturing Company, Montreal 8-6

HIDES AND FURS

BEST MARKET PRICE FOR HIDES, FURS, WOOLS, PELTS AND HORSE HAIR, by the CANADIAN HIDE AND FUR COMPANY 510 Fourth Street East Phone M6589 Calgary

We pay 3 cents per lb. for old rags. We pay 30c per pound for Horse Hair.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Any Standard reader patronizing advertisers on this page are guaranteed satisfactory service. If you make a purchase and the goods are not right consult The Standard. When you buy mention The Standard.

Calgary (Western) Standard

Independent Weekly Newspaper illustrating Current Events and Devoted to the Advancement of Western Canada

Published Every Saturday at 109 Sixth Avenue West.

Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

S. S. WHITE . . . Editor and Manager

Telephone for Editorial and Circulation Departments M4310.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

Two dollars per year throughout Canada. Fifty Cents Extra by mail or carrier in the City of Calgary, or to Foreign Points.

Subscription may commence at any time.

The date on your wrapper indicates when your subscription will terminate. Your paper will stop unless you renew promptly. It is always best to renew at least two weeks before expiration to insure uninterrupted service.

Subscribers failing to receive copies regularly will confer a favor by notifying the Circulation Department by post or phone.

No agent or newsboy is authorized to sell CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD on Sunday. Any person doing so is acting without permission or authority of this company.

The Standard takes no responsibility for any obligation incurred by any employee unless such obligation is ordered and accepted by the proper officer of this company.

ADVERTISING

Advertising rates upon application.

All advertising copy must reach the Standard Office not later than Thursday afternoon to insure insertion in Mail and Local Editions.

All correspondence and editorial communications should be addressed to CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD, Calgary, Alberta.

Earl's Death Recalls Blasted Romance

If a Friend Had Not Proved False Daisy Leiter Would Never Have Been the Countess of Suffolk.

The death of the Earl of Suffolk in the great drive on the western front brings back into print the name of Daisy Leiter, the beautiful Chicago heiress whose heart affairs provoked no little sympathy and interest, something like a score of years ago. Daisy Leiter, when forbidden to marry the man of her choice, became the wife of the Earl of Suffolk and one of the leading women of the English nobility.

It is now nearly 20 years since Daisy Leiter, tall, graceful and gifted with as much charm of manner as she was gifted with beauty of face and figure, appeared in Washington society. The position of her mother, Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter, as arbiter of the capital's leading set afforded the attractive 19-year-old girl an elaborate debut. She at once became the acknowledged belle of Washington. Among her admirers was Bob Wallach, a clean cut, handsome young New Yorker of a respectable but penniless family.

Wallach and Miss Leiter at once formed an attachment for each other that was so pronounced that every gossip in Washington discussed it with fervid joy. Mrs. Leiter, who hoped for notable marriages for all three of her daughters, frowned on good looking Bob Wallach. However, she did not take the affair seriously until one day a letter written by Bob Wallach to Daisy Leiter fell into the hands of Daisy's family. The missive could be regarded as nothing else than a love letter. Terms of endearment, hopes for the future, expressions of lasting affection all were contained in it. Wallach was cut off the Leiter visiting list forthwith.

Youth is resourceful and hard to discourage and Bob and Daisy planned to elope. Young Wallach even went so far as to obtain a marriage license. They were going to slip away one April night, cross into Maryland and be married before Mamma Leiter should know of it. But a Judas among Wallach's friends betrayed the plan. Mrs. Leiter learned of it and immediately hustled Daisy off to Europe.

Bob Wallach did not learn of his sweetheart's departure until the day the Leiters were due to arrive in New York to take ship. He caught a train and managed to overtake the party at the Pennsylvania station in New York city. That was destined to be their last meeting. The girl saw him and ran to his side.

"Oh, I'm so glad you have come," she whispered. "I'm afraid all I can say is good-by, but I'll be true."

Daisy Leiter did not come back from abroad for several years. In the meantime young Bob Wallach, to drown his sorrow, went off to the Spanish-American war. He served with honor in Cuba and in the Philippines, coming back from the latter campaign a lieutenant, broad-shouldered and handsomer than ever.

However, war honors counted little in the view of Mamma Leiter. Her elder daughter had been married to Lord Curzon, her second daughter had become the wife of Maj. Colin Campbell, a distinguished English army officer, and she had high hopes for Daisy, her youngest child. These hopes appeared due for fulfilment when the Earl of Suffolk, member of an English house, appeared as a suitor. The earl was several years older than Daisy, famed as a hunter and was the owner of a great baronial castle and 10,000 acres of land. Moreover, he was a favorite at the English court.

The earl's suit was successful. He married Daisy Leiter in Washington, December 26, 1904. It was never spoken of as a love match; probably it was not. The earl was about as much the opposite of young Bob Wallach in appearance as was possible to be, for he was prematurely bald, undeniably homely and had none of the courtier-like bearing of the luckless American officer.

Daisy Leiter as the Countess of Suffolk figured quite extensively in the society of the English court. She became the mother of three sons and was very popular with the poor folks who lived on her husband's baronial acres. She visited America rarely. Perhaps there were memories she did not wish to revive.

The Earl of Suffolk was the commander of a battery of artillery. It can be said of him, in all fairness, that he played a man's part in the great war. He had been in the field almost since the beginning of the conflict and he died in the greatest effort his countrymen yet have attempted. His 11-year-old son will succeed to the title.

The countess is still a remarkably beautiful woman, one of the most accomplished in the higher ranks of English society. She is said to be devoted to her children, who, fortunately, have inherited their mother's striking appearance.

Wallach continued his army career and is now a captain.

BAT'S NEW FACE FOOLS CLERK

Oscar Battling Nelson blew into Youngstown, Ohio, the other day and registered at the Tod house. John McAleer, chief clerk, formerly the famous Jimmy McAleer of baseball fame, looked several times at the register and then at Bat.

"You're not the famous Bat Nelson?" he asked.

"I'm the same guy," replied the registered one, "and I know you, Jimmy. Let's shake hands."

Bat then told Jimmy how a beauty doctor recently removed his cauliflowered ears and threw his scarred visage into the discard.

Nelson was in Youngstown to consult Bonesetter Rees before meeting Freddy Welsh in St. Louis.

SPRING POETRY UP TO DATE

Boys, if you want to be right up to the minute, you'll write her something like this to touch her marble heart:

I love your sweet potato eyes,
Your hair of carrot hue.
You are my little cauliflower—
I'm going to cabbage you!

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We Eat Too Much Meat, Which Clogs Kidneys, Then the Back Hurts

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

A Real Improvement

The Sitting Position You Occupy When Sewing is a Very Important Matter

Your work is directly in front of you THE "WHITE" SIT-STRATE is only one of the many Real Improvements offered in the "WHITE"

You Can Have Yours Now, Just—

PAY $1.00 EACH WEEK—SOON PAID FOR

Sold by THE NEILSON FURNITURE CO., Calgary

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash the poisons and toxins from system before putting more food into stomach.

Says inside-bathing makes anyone look and feel clean, sweet and refreshed.

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream, through the lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of real hot water with a teasponful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons, gases and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside-bathing. Men and women who are accustomed to wake up with a dull, aching head or have furred tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, sallow complexion, others who have bilious attacks, acid stomach or constipation are assured of pronounced improvement in both health and appearance shortly.

Various Forms Of Headache

"It is necessary in order to treat headaches properly to understand the causes which produce the affection," says Dr. J. W. Ray, of Blockton, Ala. Continuing, he says, "Physicians cannot even begin the treatment of a disease without knowing what causes give rise to it, and we must remember that headache is to be treated according to the same rule. We must not only be particular to give a remedy intended to counteract the cause which produces the headache, but we must also give a remedy to relieve the pain until the cause of the trouble has been removed. To answer this purpose anti-kamnia tablets will be found a most convenient and satisfactory remedy. One tablet every one to three hours gives comfort and rest in the most severe cases of headache, neuralgia, and particularly the headaches of women.

"When we have a patient subject to regular attacks of sick headache and when he feels the least sign of an oncoming attack, he should take two A-K Tablets. Obtainable at druggists in any quantity desired."

HIGH CLASS CLOTHING

MRS. BRENNAND, PHONE M5187, DEALer in high class cast-off clothing. Samples in Ladies' Suits, Coats and Furs. Highest prices given. Mrs. Brennand, 810a First St West. Alberta rooms.

ICE CREAM MANUFACTURERS

ICE CREAM IN BRICK AND BULK. Pure Goods. Prompt delivery. P. PALLESEN Calgary Central Creamery Phone M5530

STANDARD'S MOTOR DIRECTORY

AUTO GARAGES

TRY THE WEST END GARAGE FOR Automobile Repairs; our work is superior at low cost, and satisfaction guaranteed. 12th Ave. and 5th St. West. 13-96

SECOND-HAND CARS BOUGHT AND Sold. We always have a good line of autos to make a good selection. Our Garage is second to none for Repairs and supplies. WEBBER'S GARAGE 129 8th Avenue W. Phone M2033

MANUFACTURING FURRIER

FURS REMODELLED AND REPAIRED— Your own skins dressed and made up. Highest prices paid for raw furs. THOMAS PAIN, Successor to Mackay & Dipple, Fur Manufacturing Department 218A Eighth Avenue West Calgary.

MOUNT ROYAL COLLEGE CALGARY

ACADEMIC COURSES; BOOK-KEEPING and Stenography; Music, Expression, Art, Etc. Resident and Day Students. Open to all denominations and classes. Phone M2191. Calendar free on application.

NURSING HOMES

ENGLISH MATERNITY HOME—TERMS $20 per week inclusive. Graduate nurses supplied. Phone M3423. 812 2nd Ave. W.

OSTEOPATHY

DRS. CHURCH & PLUMMER, OSTEOpathic Physicians and Surgeons, members of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Alberta. Suites 7, 8, 9, Alberta Block. Phones M2787. All Curable Diseases Successfully Treated. Adenoids removed without anesthesia, the famous Irrigation Treatment used in the treatment of Catarrh. Going on Nine Years in Calgary.

OPTICIANS

HERBERT J. AKITT OPTOMETRIST & OPTICIAN PHONE M. 6150. MACLEAN BLOCK

PATENT SOLICITORS

FORD, WRIGHT & MILLER, PATENT Solicitors. Patents secured in all countries. Phone M6671. 207 Alberta Corner. Calgary, Alberta.

PIANOS

HARDY & HUNT PIANO CO., LIMITED 816 Eighth Ave. West. Main 1595.

PICTURE FRAMING

THE ART SHOP — PICTURE FRAMING a Specialty. 237 Seventh Ave. West J. W. BOOTH, Proprietor. Four years with Royal Picture Gallery

PRINTING

A. R. LITTLEBURY, COMMERCIAL AND Book Printer; 105 Sixth Avenue West Phone M2207. Estimates given.

PHOTOGRAPHER

CHAZIN PHOTO STUDIO—PORTRAITURE enlarging, developing, printing, and commercial work. 7 Eighth Ave. West Phone M3923.

PHOTOGRAPHIC COLORING

FOR ENLARGING, COLORING, FRAMing Photos of all kinds, faded and damaged Enlargements and Pictures restored. The Colorphoto Co., 710 First St. East, Please mention the Standard.

SAFETY RAZORS SHARPENED

JUST TO CONVINCE YOU, SEND US three blades, we will resharpen them and return to you Free of charge. Our prices are: Gillette 35c per doz., and single edge blades 25c per doz., old fashioned razors 25c each. We sharpen Clippers Scissors and Lances of every description Give us a trial. THE CALGARY SHOE HOSPITAL 1239 Eighth Avenue West

SHOES REPAIRED

O. K. SHOE CO. Calgary's Leading Shoe Repairers Let Us Fix Your Shoes We Guarantee the Utmost Satisfaction Country Orders Receive Prompt Attention 710 First St. E. Phone M6678

VULCANIZED DOUBLE TREADS

PHONE M6755. NO STITCHES no bolts, no looseness, no extra weight; guaranteed 3,000 Miles. Red Star Vulcanizing Works. 103 Twelfth Avenue East. 13-1yr

VULCANIZING

We are specialists in vulcanizing everything in rubber. We are agents for the famous Firestone Tire. Don't forget the address: BELL TIRE CO., 602 First Street East Phone M5905 Res. M4702

STATIONERY AND OFFICE SUPPLIES

WILLSON STATIONERY CO., LIMITED, 215 Eighth Avenue West,—Everything in Stationery and Office Supplies. The most complete stock in Western Canada.

SECOND-HAND DEALERS

CHICAGO IRON AND METAL CO. 501-503 Sixth Ave. E., corner 4th St. Phone M4448.

Dealers in Scrap Iron, Brass, Copper, Zinc and Lead, Rubber Tires and Inner Tubes, also Manilla Rope and all kinds of Old Machinery. It will be to your convenience to see us. Phone, call or write MAX RUBEN, Manager.

STORAGE AND CARTAGE

STORAGE AND CARTAGE FOR ANY kind of goods. Warehouse specially fitted for household merchandise, each customer having separate rooms. Trackage. Padded vans for furniture and pianos. Expert packers and shippers. Estimates cheerfully given Official cartage and baggage agents G.N.R. JOHNSTON STORAGE & CARTAGE CO. Phone M4444 and M5678. Limited Office and Warehouse 422 Sixth Ave. East

CALGARY STORAGE & CARTAGE CO LIMITED 437 TENTH AVENUE EAST PHONE M1348

Storage for all classes of Merchandise, including Cold Storage Equipment; Separate Compartments for Furniture, Pianos; Padded Furniture Vans; Packers, Forwarders. Baggage Delivered. Trackage for carlots.

TAILORS

SANDY MACLEAN Alterations, Tailoring, Repairs, Cleaning and Pressing Suits made to measure from $18 to $35 433 Lougheed Building, over Grand Theatre—Phone M6506. Calgary, Alberta

UNDERTAKING PARLORS

GRAHAM, McCALL AND RUTTLE LTD. FUNERAL DIRECTORS Horse and Motor Equipment, Ambulance in connection. 641 Centre St. Phone M3700

VIOLINS AND VIOLONCELLOS

JAS. J. DOHERTY Expert Violin Repairing, Tone Restored, Bows Rehaired Musical Instruments of All Kinds Rebuilt and Repaired 405A EIGHTH AVE. WEST

ROSEDALE STAR

LUMP $6.00
STOVE $5.25

Stock up now before the raise in price.

YORK SHAW 238 Eighth Ave. East Phone M6423

PARCEL POST RATES

Any P. O. within twenty miles of Calgary, five cents for the first lb. and one cent additional for each additional lb. up to five lbs. when the rate is two cents for each additional lb. up to eleven lbs. To any P.O. beyond 20 miles but within the radius of Alberta, ten cents for the first lb. and four cents for each additional lb. To any P. O. in Saskatchewan ten cents for the first lb. and six cents additional for each additional lb. To any P. O. in Manitoba, twelve cents for the first lb. and eight cents for each additional lb.

Maskelyne W

(Continued from Page 1

the suspended body had a break in it.

They did not permit the to come to the stage and in But Maskelyne used a hoop, and his audiences w his stage and walked around the floating body. ever was able to prove an connection between Maskel pended body and the earth did it, so far as is general is still a mystery. His se dently died with him.

Another of his inventio wood cabinet trick, now throughout the civilized wo trick drew the attention of of Lords, the only time th body ever heeded officially ing of "white magic." permitted himself to be bou in a cabinet and roped in. was then put behind a curt a few seconds the magician before his audience free o

The cabinet was next ins it was found the sealing which the ends of the knot had been fastened was

BE PRETTY! TU GRAY HAIR

Look young! Nobody can use Grandmother's simp of Sage Tea and Sul

Almost everyone knows Tea and Sulphur, properly ed, brings back the natura lustre to the hair when fad or gray. Years ago the c get this mixture was to home, which is mussy a some. Nowadays, by ask drug store for "Wyeth's S phur Compound," you will bottle of this famous old proved by the addition gredients, for about 50 ce

Don't stay gray! Try can possibly tell that yo your hair, as it does it and evenly. You dampen soft brush with it and through your hair, taking strand at a time; by morn hair disappears, and after plication or two, your h beautifully dark, glossy an Wyeth's Sage and Su pound is a delightful to for those who desire dark youthful appearance. It i ed for the cure, mitigatio tion of disease.

DOGS

DOGS are a versat bloodhound w down his reco man; the Pekinese his career as a Sun favorite; the merè m serves to evoke memo of sport; the trained his tail on every vaud Red Cross dogs of t bring a lump into the round But after all, the role of "friend" w dogs are born for, the dogdom so useful as t land canine who thin

We can't go to t Greenland or the Lab dan-shaped teams sleighs along under th of us can't go any steam heat in the bit

But all of us pla other to run up to Al mer, and when we th suns and totem poles and Jack London ya get that Skagway is the land of Alaska greatest event of world, and the one mortality for "the do

Nome to Candle a distance—412 miles. $5,000. The time is ther disdains to rise are entered by own California clear to every dog who run eligible to compe mute, Siberian wo wonderful all-endur

In Alaska and t are sleeping places taken in side-street ese cooks. Last su travelled the thou

HOME CLASSIFIED
BUSINESS
GUIDE

OR DIRECTORY

VULCANIZED DOUBLE TREADS

PHONE M6755. NO STITCHES no bolts, no looseness, no extra weight; guaranteed 5,000 Miles. Red Star Vulcanizing Works, 25 Twelfth Avenue East. 13-1yr

VULCANIZING

We are specialists in vulcanizing everything in rubber. We are agents for the famous Firestone Tire. Don't forget the address:
BELL TIRE CO.,
602 First Street East
Phone M5905 Res. M4702

STATIONERY AND OFFICE SUPPLIES

WILLSON STATIONERY CO., LIMITED, 215 Eighth Avenue West.—Everything in Stationery and Office Supplies. The most complete stock in Western Canada.

SECOND-HAND DEALERS

CHICAGO IRON AND METAL CO. 501-503 Sixth Ave. E., corner 4th St. Phone M4448.
Dealers in Scrap Iron, Brass, Copper, Zinc and Lead, Rubber Tires and Inner Tubes, also Manilla Rope and all kinds of Old Machinery. It will be to your convenience to see us. Phone, call or write
MAX RUBEN, Manager.

STORAGE AND CARTAGE

STORAGE AND CARTAGE FOR ANY kind of goods. Warehouse specially fitted for household merchandise, each customer having separate rooms. Trackage. Padded vans for furniture and pianos. Expert packers and shippers. Estimates cheerfully given. Official cartage and baggage agents C.N.R. JOHNSTON STORAGE & CARTAGE CO. Phone M4444 and M5678. Limited. Office and Warehouse 423 Sixth Ave. East

CALGARY STORAGE & CARTAGE CO. LIMITED
437 TENTH AVENUE EAST
PHONE M1848
Storage for all classes of Merchandise, including Cold Storage Equipment; Separate Compartments for Furniture, Pianos; Padded Furniture Vans; Packers, Forwarders. Baggage Delivered. Trackage for car lots.

TAILORS

SANDY MACLEAN
Alterations, Tailoring, Repairs, Cleaning and Pressing
Suits made to measure from $18 to $35
433 Lougheed Building, over Grand Theatre—Phone M6506.
Calgary, Alberta

UNDERTAKING PARLORS

GRAHAM McCALL AND RUTTLE LTD.
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
Horse and Motor Equipment, Ambulance in connection.
811 Centre St. Phone M3708

VIOLINS AND VIOLONCELLOS

JAS. J. DOHERTY
Expert Violin Repairing, Tone Restored, Bows Rehaired
Musical Instruments of All Kinds Rebuilt and Repaired
405A EIGHTH AVE. WEST

ROSEDALE STAR
LUMP $6.00
STOVE $5.25
Stock up now before the raise in price.
YORK SHAW
238 Eighth Ave. East
Phone M6423

PARCEL POST RATES

Any P. O. within twenty miles of Calgary, five cents for the first lb. and one cent additional for each additional lb. up to five lbs. when the rate is two cents for each additional lb. up to eleven lbs. To any P.O. beyond 20 miles but within the radius of Alberta, ten cents for the first lb. and four cents for each additional lb. To any P. O. in Saskatchewan ten cents for the first lb. and six cents additional for each additional lb.. To any P. O. in Manitoba, twelve cents for the first lb. and eight cents for each additional lb.

Maskelyne Was Known as the King of Magicians

(Continued from Page Nine)

the suspended body had a hidden break in it.

They did not permit the audience to come to the stage and investigate. But Maskelyne used a solid steel hoop, and his audiences went up on his stage and walked completely around the floating body. No one ever was able to prove any tangible connection between Maskelyne's suspended body and the earth. How he did it, so far as is generally known, is still a mystery. His secrets evidently died with him.

Another of his inventions is the wood cabinet trick, now familiar throughout the civilized world. This trick drew the attention of the House of Lords, the only time that august body ever heeded officially the working of "white magic." Maskelyne permitted himself to be bound, placed in a cabinet and roped in. The box was then put behind a curtain and in a few seconds the magician appeared before his audience free of cords.

The cabinet was next inspected and it was found the sealing wax with which the ends of the knot of the rope had been fastened was unbroken. Stepping back behind the curtain, Maskelyne disappeared. And this time, when the cabinet was rolled to the front of the stage and opened, he was found inside it, bound as at first.

He offered a reward to anyone who could do the same trick. Others took it up, and soon a claim was laid to the offered money. Maskelyne protested that they did not know his secret, and the dispute was carried before the House of Lords. Maskelyne lost the suit, but all others who did the cabinet trick have been known to fail. Maskelyne never failed. And he never disclosed how his trick was done.

In was in 1906 that Maskelyne got into a controversy with a high church dignitary of England which attracted wide attention. England had had its period of spiritualistic "table rapping" and the rotation and tilting of tables, presumably by spirit hands. Spirit photography also had created a furore similar to that caused today by Sir Oliver Lodge's recent book, "Raymond, or Life and Death."

Scientists were unable to explain some of the manifestations said to be from the other world, just as today Sir Oliver Lodge, himself a noted scientist, has puzzled a world yearning for communication with loved ones now departed.

The churchman with whom Maskelyne had his famous controversy was Archdeacon Thomas Colley. The archdeacon had experimented with supernatural phenomena for more than 30 years. There was no question whatever as to his standing as a clergyman of the Church of England. After a distinguished early career in England he went to South Africa, where he was made archdeacon of Natal. In 1906 he was rector of Stockton, near Rugby, in England, and was perhaps the most generally beloved man in that section of the country, it is said.

The experiences with spirits which the archdeacon claimed to have had are so extraordinary and are backed by the word of a man whose honesty was never questioned by his fellow church leaders, that it is worth while relating some of these adventures which led up to the controversy with Maskelyne. Perhaps none is more amazing than that with what the archdeacon himself described lightly as the "psychic parcels post." Here is the story in the archdeacon's own words:

Case of Wireless Delivery

"At Southsea, some years ago (the story was told in 1906), I, with no little discomfort, wore all day under my clothes and next to the skin several yards of white muslin, in the evening, still wearing it, I cycled to Chichester for a surprise visit to a young lady medium of my own developing.

"Making there an unwrapped-up bundle of the attire, and loosely pinning my card to it with no other address, I, a friend and the young lady's sister saw the muslin fade away, disappear and melt like vapor from the lap of the little medium. It was then nearly midnight, and I had willed the muslin to go to London to a friend.

"Next day came a telegram from my friend, quickly followed by a letter, to the effect that at the first hotel he had chanced on—having been to the opera and missed the last train that would have taken my friend to his home out of London—the muslin and card so insecurely pinned to it had fallen upon his face just as he had gotten into bed, and seeing my name and address he wired to me the first thing in the morning.

"He afterwards found that it had taken less than five minutes from Chichester to secure midnight delivery of the goods in London, some where at a chance hotel by psychic parcels post."

The distance between the two cities is more than 70 miles on a direct line.

This astounding story, vouched for by a respected pillar of the church, is little less surprising than the accounts of "materializations" witnessed by him in London and elsewhere, according to his stories told in 1906. The scene of these usually was placed in his own drawing room at night with gas lights flaring from many chandeliers. This is the way he explained the coming of psychic bodies:

"As a column of support, standing at his right side, I, with my left arm at his back, usually upheld our entranced medium, having thus the best opportunity that could be desired for closely observing what took place.

"Then was seen, steaming, as from a kettle spout, through the texture and substance of the medium's black coat, a little below the left breast toward the side, a vaporous filament, which would be almost invisible until when within an inch or two of our friend's body. Then it grew in density to a cloudy something, which would step forth timidly or occasionally boldly and naturally, to companion with us mortals. Exhaling again to invisibility in a cloud (sucked back into his body) they were withdrawn from us, who wistfully gazed on their mysterious departure and noted this or that particular phase of it to within a few inches of the point of their inscrutable disappearance and evanishment."

Thus, according to the archdeacon, came his two most remarkable "psychic visitors." One was a ghost which munched apples and another a spritely young woman spirit which boxed the medium's ears.

The spirit with an appetite for fruit was a giant Egyptian, dead some 3,000 years. The archdeacon named him "the Mahedi," and thus he described him:

A Ghost Ate Apples

"The bronze hued skin of our abnormal visitor I was suffered very closely to scrutinize with my Stanhope lens, and observed the flesh markings, the finger nails and toe nails, the small hands, wrist, feet and ankles; the swarthy, hairy arms and nether limbs to the knee; the features mobile with life, yet at times with a sphinx-like cast of expression; the haughty, prominent, black, piercing, but not unkindly eyes; hair lank and jet, with mustaches and beard; long and drooping limbs, wiry and muscular, and height some 6 feet 8 inches."

This giant of a mummy, who by all rules and regulations should have been crumbling into dust in some mummy case beneath the years' coverings of mud spread over the valley of the Nile river, according to the archdeacon's story, was interested in everything around him. He walked up and down the drawing room, examining different articles with great wonder. He saw a dish of baked apples on a side table, and the archdeacon offered the spirit an apple or two. The medium was a dozen feet away at the other end of the room. The Egyptian gobbled the apples in the full glare of the gas lights.

Even more strange was the "materialization" of a young woman the archdeacon had known years before. Here is his account:

"One also joined us whom I and my wife had in the flesh long ago known as 'Alice.' Her womanly shape grew from the left side of the entranced medium. Her voice in a whisper was recognized as she greeted me with the words 'so glad to see you' even during her busy time of psychic parturition; and well remembered indications of identity proclaimed her to be our dear Alice of former years before I went to India.

"There had always been a feminine playfulness of self-will about the maiden, and this was now seen in her laughing opposition to the will of 'Samuel,' in control. She walked about the room, in many ways with girlish contumacy and engaging superciliousness, acting the part of a wilful young lady, just to show that she was not to be ordered about and had a will of her own. At my laughing suggestion that for 'Samuel's' momentary petulance the spirit maiden should box his ears, she merrily responded, and saying, 'Oh, yes, I will do that,' stepped gaily up to the medium, lifted her hand and boxed his ear."

The archdeacon's stories of these visitations from the other world were widely published. Some accepted them as possible. The archdeacon's veracity never had been questioned. But others scoffed. Stung by taunts, the archdeacon offered $5,000 to anyone who could produce any one of these "manifestations" by illusion.

Maskelyne came forward and announced he could perform any of these "psychic manifestations" the archdeacon would name. Archdeacon Colley ridiculed the notion that Maskelyne could reproduce them. The controversy became hot, and the archdeacon finally selected the kind of manifestations he desired. The churchman deposited his money in a bank, and for seven months Maskelyne worked to perfect his illusion. The conjurer undertook to fulfil all the conditions stated by the archdeacon, but just before the test was to take place the churchman withdrew his offer. Maskelyne gave the exhibition anyway.

Magician Calls Up Spirit

He appeared on the stage in the role of Dr. Monck, the "medium" with whom the archdeacon had witnessed the manifestation. Maskelyne had undertaken to reproduce. A colleague impersonated Archdeacon Colley. Each was attired in clerical dress.

While the orchestra played low, solemn music, they talked earnestly. The platform was hung with black cloths and was lighted from above by three electric light bulbs. The "archdeacon" professed to be haunted by evil spirits. "Dr. Monck" promised to exorcise them. He went into a "trance."

Presently a wisp of smoke issued from "Dr. Monck's" side. The volume of smoke increased, then died away, and a soft light appeared at "Dr. Monck's" side. The head, shoulders and bust of a woman gradually appeared in this glow of light. Then the entire figure of a woman was seen.

Finally, while the stage archdeacon gazed in amazement, the spirit tripped daintily to the footlights and revealed itself as a most attractive young woman. Then she disappeared.

Maskelyne made public claim to the $5,000. The archdeacon asserted that the terms of his challenge, in the matter of a committee of investigation, had not been carried out and that the illusion was by no means the proper one. Spiritualists took the archdeacon's side. The public generally was with Maskelyne.

Pamphlets were printed and circulated on both sides. An action at law for alleged libel was brought against the magician by the archdeacon, and the former countered by threatening a lawsuit against the latter to recover the $5,000 claimed to have been fairly won.

And the result of it all was that Maskelyne got some mighty fine advertising. Twice a day he packed his hall with paid admissions to see him produce the spirit. It paid well. But the question of the genuineness of Archdeacon Colley's spirits still is unsettled.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Look young! Nobody can tell if you use Grandmother's simple recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

All Royalty in England

(Continued from Page Nine)

and ordered them to fire at it. They had no sooner done so than the apparition vanished. The empress died about ten days later.

It is reported that one of the palaces of the Romanoffs has several ghosts, one of which is that of the Emperor Paul, who was assassinated. An English woman who was resident in the palace as a governess shortly before the present war declares that she twice saw one of these apparitions.

Ghost of George III.

It is a matter of history that Charles I was visited by the ghost of Lord Strafford, who warned him of impending defeat, disaster and tragic death.

Queen Elizabeth was warned of her death by the apparition of her own double. The ghost of George III, it is alleged, was often seen at Windsor castle. Ghosts of royalties have also been seen at Hampton court and the Tower of London.

The Empress of Austria had a warning of her death on the night preceding the tragedy at Geneva in 1898. She was awakened in the night by the bright moonbeams which filled her room, and saw in the moonlight the face of a woman weeping bitterly.

A few hours later Lucchini stabbed her to death as she was about to embark on a steamer.

Two kings of Denmark of olden times are said to "revisit the pale glimpses of the moon" in much the same way as Hamlet's father. Abel, who reigned several centuries ago, and murdered his brother, still haunts the wood of Poole, near Slesvig; and the old Scandinavian King Waldemar IV is said to appear at times in the great forest of Gurre, near Elsinore.

"TIZ"—A JOY TO SORE, TIRED FEET

Use "Tiz" for aching, burning, puffed-up feet and corns or callouses.

Good-bye, sore feet, burning feet, swollen feet, tender feet, tired feet.

Good-bye, corns, callouses, bunions and raw spots. No more shoe tightness, no more limping with pain or drawing up your face in agony. "Tiz" is magical, acts right off. "Tiz" draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet. Use "Tiz" and wear smaller shoes. Use "Tiz" and forget your foot misery. Ah! how comfortable your feet feel.

Get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" now at any druggist or department store. Don't suffer. Have good feet, glad feet, feet that never swell, never hurt, never get tired. A year's foot comfort guaranteed or money refunded.

The Only Grand Prize (Highest Award) given to Dictionaries at the Panama-Pacific Exposition was granted to WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL

FOR
Superiority of Educational Merit.
This new creation answers with final authority all kinds of puzzling questions such as "How is Przemysl pronounced?" "Where is Flanders?" "What is a continuous voyage?" "What is a howitzer?" "What is white coal?" "How is skat pronounced?" and thousands of others.
More than 400,000 Vocabulary Terms. 30,000 Geographical Subjects. 12,000 Biographical Entries. Over 6000 Illustrations. 2700 Pages. The only dictionary with the divided page—a stroke of genius.
Regular and India-Paper Editions.
Write for specimen pages, illustrations, etc. Free, a set of Pocket Maps if you name this paper.
G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Springfield, Mass.

GRAY HAIR

Dr. Tremain's Natural Hair Restorative, used as directed, is guaranteed to restore gray hair to its natural color or money refunded. Positively not a dye and non-injurious. Price $1.00, post-paid. Write Tremain Supply Co., Dept. C., Toronto, Ont.
On sale in Calgary at MacFarlane's Drug Stores, 124 Eighth Ave. E.

Service Is Unexcelled

ON YOUR SUMMER TRIP TRAVEL BY Canadian Northern

PACIFIC COAST

Round trip summer excxursion fares to Vancouver, Victoria, New Westminster, Seattle, Bellingham, Everett, Tacoma, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego.

On Sale June 15th to September 30th

Final return limit three months, but not later than October 31st. Stopover allowed.

Special fares to Lucerne, Jasper Park and Mt. Robson. On sale May 11th to September 30th. Final return limit 16 days. Single fare plus 10c for round trip.

TO EASTERN CANADA

Round trip 60 days. Summer Tourist fares June 1st to September 30th Standard electric-lighted trains carrying compartment observation cars through the momuntains and Winnipeg to Toronto. Standard Sleeping and Tourist cars.

Full information from

J. H. NORTON, City Passenger Agent, Phone M3626, Calgary, Alta.
A. R. McDOUGALL, Depot Ticket Agent, Phone M5656, Calgary, Alta.
Or Write J. Madill, D.P.A., Edmonton, Alta.

BOW VALLEY FROM BANFF SPRINGS HOTEL

CANADIAN PACIFIC ROCKIES

Magnify Switzerland by fifty and you have the Canadian Pacific Rockies. They are on your way to the Pacific Coast—no side trips necessary.

The Garden of the Giants

Jagged and snowy topped peaks — glittering in the sunlight — pierce the sky North, South, East and West.
Velvety green meadows inlaid between precipice and glacier with their belts of dark fir and thousand foot waterfalls veiled in spray make this the Garden of the Giants.
Every kind of mountain recreation — pony riding, golf, hiking, boating, fishing, camping with Jim Brewster's guides.

Canadian Pacific Railway
"The World's Greatest Highway"
For full information ask any agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway.
R. DAWSON
District Passenger Agent, Calgary

Banff — Magnificent hotel, superbly situated in the heart of the Canadian Pacific Rockies. Hot springs, sulphur swimming pool, golf, mountain climbing.
Lake Louise — The fairyland lake of North America—held in a chalice of glacier and mountain. Climbs with Swiss guides.
Yoho Valley — Field is the gateway to the Yoho Valley, with its waterfalls, glaciers and peaks. Hotels at Field and Emerald Lake. Summer camps.
Glacier B.C. — Illecillewaet Glacier at the back door of the Canadian Pacific Hotel. Guides for Alpine climbers. Trails to lovely mountain lakes.

DOGS OF THE MIDNIGHT SUN

DOGS are a versatile breed. The bloodhound will never live down his record as a policeman; the Pekinese always suggests his career as a Sunday supplement favorite; the mere mention of a gun serves to evoke memories of the dogs of sport; the trained mongrel wags his tail on every vaudeville stage; the Red Cross dogs of the French front bring a lump into the throat the world round. But after all, save and except the role of "friend" which is what all dogs are born for, there's no trade in dogdom so useful as that of the Northland canine who thinks he's a horse.

We can't go to the open ice of Greenland or the Labrador to see the dan-shaped teams whirling their sleighs along under the aurora. Most of us can't go anywhere north of steam heat in the bitter weather.

But all of us plan some time or other to run up to Alaska in the summer, and when we think of midnight suns and totem poles, Yukon nuggets and Jack London yarns, let's not forget that Skagway is the entryport to the land of Alaska Sweepstakes, the greatest event of its kind in the world, and the one sure road to immortality for "the dog who works."

Nome to Candle and return is the distance—612 miles. The prize is $5,000. The time is April. The weather disdains to rise to zero. Teams are entered by owners living from California clear to the pole. And every dog who runs in a collar is eligible to compete—husky, malamute, Siberian wolfhound or plain wonderful all-enduring mongrel.

In Alaska and the Yukon, hotels are sleeping places and meals are taken in side-street cafes with Chinese cooks. Last summer the writer travelled the thousand miles from Vancouver to Skagway in the Canadian Pacific Steamer "Princess Charlotte," took train a hundred and ten miles over the old "trail of '98 to Whitehorse and was preparing myself by an excellent dinner to catch the Yukon river boat for Dawson City. I was sitting with my back to the screen door of the little restaurant when I had that odd sensation of "being watched" which comes to everyone with eyes in the nape of his neck.

Turning I saw the biggest silver-greyest, softest furred dog you ever set eyes on. I dropped my knife in amazement.

The restaurant waitress came smiling out with a plate of fish refuse.

"Never seen a malamute before?" she asked. "Some dogs, ain't they, and they do say they can live on air. I don't see how the ones in this town always look so fat in summer unless they fish in the rapids."

"Why, yes, you could buy him if you liked. Guess you could just run away with him, and nobody'd bother you. But, of course, you know he'd eat up your own dog when you got him down home. Then he'd jump the tallest fence you could find, and go clean up the neighborhood."

Grey Brother had finished his fish course. His eyes were as yellow as topazes and the fur on top of his head stood up in a silver fluff an inch thick. He was laughing all over with good nature and the idea of such murderous exploits as the waitress suggested seemed impossible.

Down the street came a tingle of bells and a tangle of dogs. In the middle was a team—Jersey, Sport, Blackie and Shep—and surrounding them like sportive comets was an assortment of unattached canine energy sufficient to run a mill. The boy who drove the dogs from his little cart was about thirteen.

"Mush on Mush on! he cried to his team, unmindful of the cameras of the tourists as of the gyrations of his satellites.

The Light in the CLEARING

By IRVING BACHELLER Author of Eben Holden

Plot — It is worth any amount of time and effort to make a book so lofty in inspiration, so deft in the construction of its plot, and so finished and polished in its style. —New York Sun

Characterization — To have drawn the three leading characters in The Light in the Clearing with such vital and compelling truth is an achievement worthy of immortality. —New York Tribune

Charm — There is charm in every page of The Light in the Clearing; the charm of honesty, the charm of ruggedness, the charm of right thinking, the charm of self-sacrifice, the charm of real human nature, and the charm of romance. There is also no little charm in the period. —Phila. Press

Appeal — One loves every page in the reading of The Light in the Clearing, and is jealous and regretful to see them slipping away so rapidly. —Utica Observer

Illustrated by Keller. Price $1.50 net

New York : THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY : Indianapolis

McLEOD & ALLEN :: Toronto, Ontario

Banff the Beautiful

Canada's Famous Mountain Resort

Summer in the Mountain Resort

Where Nature Smiles on All

The Brewster Trading Co.

Everything to Eat, Everything to Wear

The Big
Banff Store

THE BREWSTER TRANSPORT CO.

Autos, Carriages and Ponies operating at Banff, Lake Louise, Field and Glacier

Dave White & Co.

Banff's Departmental Store

Everything for the Summer Visitors.
First Quality Goods at City Prices.
Come and see us when at Banff.
--- Enquiries Carefully Answered ---

Dave White & Co.

HOTEL MOUNT ROYAL

Banff's Leading American Plan Hotel
Rates: $2.50 per Day and Up
Orchestra, Garage, Sample Rooms and Livery
Proprietors: BREWSTER HOTEL CO., LTD.
J. H. Broad, Manager

ALBERTA HOTEL

Centrally Located
Rates: $2.50 per Day and Up
C. E. STENTON, Manager

J. McCOWAN
MERCHANT TAILOR
Ladies' and Gents' Tailor-made Suits at Lowest Prices
Cleaning, Pressing and Repairing
PHONE 64 BANFF, ALBERTA

Proclamation

AN INVITATION TO THE WORLD

WHEREAS: It is a well known fact that Banff is the most beautiful spot in North America—the Playground of Canada. Its scenery is unsurpassed in all the world. The tall, majestic mountains, rising out of valleys of green foliage, intermingling with rippling streams and crystal lakes, and overtopped with sparkling white snow—proud, serene and mighty in their greatness—fill you with awe and admiration. And

WHEREAS: Banff has been further endowed by Nature with gifts of health-giving properties in the way of bracing and invigorating mountain air, and clear, sparkling, aerated waters and sulphur springs, whose properties are conducive to the welfare of mankind, and

WHEREAS: Banff has accommodations that are unexcelled in the entire country while the pleasure resorts are of a nature to entertain the most fastidious, and

WHEREAS: The Commemoration of the Jubilee of the Confederation of the Dominion—Fifty years of triumph and progress of a great nation—will be celebrated by all loyal citizens of Canada on July first, therefore

BE IT RESOLVED: That We, the Citizens of Banff, hereby extend a cordial invitation to all Canada in particular and to the world in general, to visit this Mountain Spot of the World on this great occasion if possible, or at any other time that is convenient, to enjoy our beautiful scenery and accept our hospitality.

Subscribed and Issued this 10th day of June, A.D. 1917, by the people of Banff whose signatures are hereunto annexed:

R. H. Brett
W. H. Scarth
S. J. Clarke
Dave White

W. Grant Mackay — G. & W. Fear
Jas. McCowan — Byron Harmon
Wm. Mather — L. C. Orr
W. L. Mitcheltree — L. S. Crosby
A. Benaglia — H. E. Sibbald
N. B. Sanson — Barney W. Collison
L. A. Luxton
James Brewster

The Sanitarium Hotel

- - Banff - -

American Plan
Rates: $3.00 per Day and Uuwards
W. H. SCARTH, Manager

LUX THEATER
The Popular Banff Picture House
Two Shows Nightly—7:30 and 9
TOM A. DUNSMORE, Manager.

FIREPROOF MODERN
King Edward Hotel
BANFF, ALBERTA
—American Plan—
Terms: $3.00 Per Day, and $2.50 Double
L. C. ORR, Manager

Banff Meat Market

Up-to-date service in the best products Western Canada produces

W. L. MITCHELTREE, Sole Proprietor

WESTERN
Advertising Agency
NEWS-TELEGRAM BUILDING, CALGARY

Advertise throughout our publications and get Direct Results
Let us tell you how to make your Business Grow
Phones M1494—W1002

BOW RIVER BOAT HOUSE

Over a hundred Rowboats and Canoes of the best quality kept for hire. Rowboats of all sizes, from the light rowing single scull, to the big, comfortable family boat.
Canoes of all kinds from the light racer, suitable only for the expert, to the "can't upset" Sponson Canoe, in which the most inexperienced are perfectly safe.
Special Attention Given to Fishing Parties. Fishing Tackle Provided
WM. MATHER, Proprietor

Mackay & Dippie

CALGARY Established 1888 BANFF

Patronized by Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia

SUMMER FURS

We carry a popular line of fine Furs for summer wear at both of our Stores, and when you visit Banff we invite inspection of our stock. Moccasins, Indian Curios, Fur Rugs and Robes, and Novelties in great variety.

218 EIGHTH AVE. W., CALGARY BANFF AVE., BANFF

G. & W. FEAR
PHOTOGRAPHERS AND SOUVENIRS
Kodaks and Supplies Always Fresh. Amateur Finishing by Careful Workers
BANFF ALBERTA

B

"BANFF th tiful" is the fittin for such grandeur sees a r these mo of beauty
the "sunkist snowcapped peep out through the above that "mirage of in the hottest days
June sunshine, and one if those peaks above the line have become detache their present mountain floating above the snows azure blue.

In awed silence we gaze handiwork and mighty of the Great Creator w away back down the mil years, "Let there be ligh on the beauty spots o shone out that sum on jestic magnificence of m river and sea which h been an awe-inspiring v us, and on the crags and of Banff no sparing h
been laid to mar any of t
ness of its beauty.

The hands of man w committing a sacrilege temping to add to the g of the mountain crags a yons of the Rocky M park. The efforts of th dian National Parks com ers have been crystalli
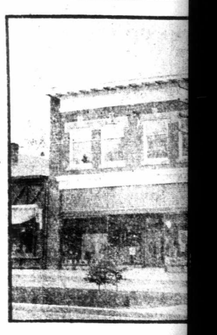
one great endeavor to ma



BOW R

road and bridge and bu coincide with Nature's b the environs of the Ba tional park.

The town of Banff
ideal in its construction ception; its position in t of the Mountains" and commodation and hospi offers to the pleasure se the health seeker is uns
by any mountain resor
North American contine

Your days are filled effort to see the wild b
the mountains, and you find you seeking rest f tired limbs and those yours which have been be "filled with seeing," every day is filled with greater mountain wond
you tear yourself away mystery of it all, and y of the story of the creat commences with the w
the beginning", have

DAVE WH ite & Co. mental Store Summer Visitors. at City Prices.

when at Banff.
lly Answered —
White & Co.
rium Hotel ff - - Plan
y and Uuwards
W. H. SCARTH, Manager
EATER
Picture House
ly—7:30 and 9
. DUNSMORE, Manager.
MODERN ard Hotel LBERTA
n Plan—
y, and $2.50 Double
L. C. ORR, Manager at Market
t products Western Canada
ces
EE, Sole Proprietor TERN
g Agency
UILDING, CALGARY
cations and get Direct Results
ake your Business Grow
494—W1002
BOAT HOUSE
es of the best quality kept for hire.
ht rowing single scull, to the big, family boat.
racer, suitable only for the expert.
n Canoe, in which the most e perfectly safe.
Parties. Fishing Tackle Provided
R, Proprietor

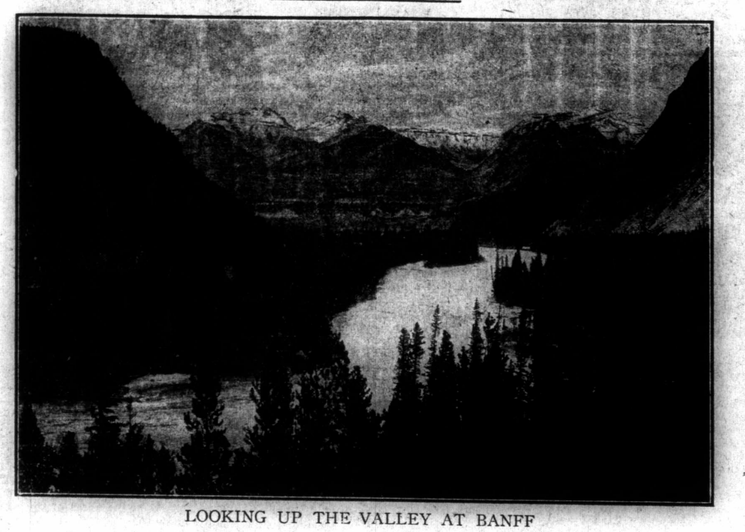
Banff, the Mountain Picture of Our North America

Compiled Especially for The Calgary Western Standard, Amidst Banff's Crags and Canyons, by Pte. Jas. Pettigrew.

"BANFF the Beautiful" is not just the fitting name for such rugged grandeur as one sees amidst these mountains of beauty where the "sunkist snowcapped peaks" peep out through the clouds above that "mirage of snows" in the hottest days of our June sunshine, and one wonders if those peaks above the cloudline have become detached from their present mountain and are floating above the snows in the azure blue.

In awed silence we gaze on the handiwork and mighty majesty of the Great Creator who said away back down the millions of years, "Let there be light," and on the beauty spots of earth shone out that sun on the majestic magnificence of mountain, river and sea which has ever been an awe-inspiring vision to us, and on the crags and canyons of Banff no sparing hand has been laid to mar any of the wildness of its beauty.

The hands of man would be committing a sacrilege in attemping to add to the grandeur of the mountain crags and canyons of the Rocky Mountain park. The efforts of the Canadian National Parks commissioners have been crystallized into one great endeavor to make every road and bridge and building to coincide with Nature's beauty in the environs of the Banff National park.



The town of Banff itself is ideal in its construction and conception; its position in the "Lap of the Mountains" and the accommodation and hospitality it offers to the pleasure seeker, and the health seeker is unsurpassed by any mountain resort on our North American continent.

Your days are filled with an effort to see the wild beauty of the mountains, and your nights find you seeking rest for those tired limbs and those eyes of yours which have been trying to be "Filled with seeing," but your every day is filled with sights of greater mountain wonders, and you tear yourself away from the mystery of it all, and your vision of the story of the creation which commences with the words "In the beginning", have a deeper meaning for you, and you picture the mirrored surface of those mountain lakes and the sparkle of those tumbling streams, and the golden green of the undermoss shaded by those tall pines which fringe every crag and valley in that mountain basin of Banff, and when you explore the mysteries of the caves and crevices of her canyons, Banff has still some mysteries left in those streams of medicinal waters which pour from her mountain sides, and her lakes are pictures which will remain in your memory forever.

The loops and twists of those mountain drives are things which add to the splendor of those "mountain pictures" which continually present themselves to you on your daily pilgrimages to those silvery lakes in the clouds. You make that "mountain circling" drive along the Cascade river to Lake Minnewanka, and your head reels with the sights of those steep canyons and those "strips" of road over which your conveyance has passed and when you cross some of the rustic bridges crossing the "Devil's Head" you commence to wonder just how safe will be your journey back over those seemingly unfathomable chasms. Your "day" up to the top of Sulphur mountain and the vision you will get from that vantage point will increase your outlook on the beauties and benefits of Mountainous Banff.

Your wanders on the banks of the beautiful Lake Louise will create in you another "wonder spot" and your trip up to the "great Divide"—where the mountain waters seem to murmur goodbye, as they separate on their eastward and westward way to those restless oceans which lap our great Canadian seaboards—majesty and might are expressed in every ripple of those mountain streams and lakes and while you are enjoying the hospitality of those native mountain dwellers of Banff—with their life-knowledge of those mountain beauty spots—you are filling your blood anew with that mountain ozone which brings the flush to your city-paled cheeks. And when you take a last parting look at those mountains through whose crags and canyons you have wandered for days, your thoughts will grow solemn at the sight of those majestic mountain peaks which stand up in heavenly blue.

"Like the spires of some great temple,
With solemn, serene might,
Their snowcapped peaks assembled,
To point you to the light.
Where peace with all its pleasures,
Like radiant suns shall shine.
Where temple spires are numbered,
As prints on the sands of time."

LOOKING UP THE VALLEY AT BANFF

BOW RIVER FALLS, BANFF

Mountain Haunts Near Banff

(By Swedo Nymm)

I was at breakfast the other morning when a delightful remark by an Australian visitor drew my attention. The remark was simply, "Golly, look at that, Martha!" Martha looked, and others close at hand looked also, to find that "That" was simply a lovely, clinging cloud effect on Cascade mountain.

Banff is full of surprises for the visitor. To take the drive to the Vermilion lakes, for instance: There is nothing I know of in two continents to equal this drive on a well-made road, along and under frowning mountains, which lave their feet in the lakes and caper with the clouds thousands of feet above. There is nothing to equal a ramble in the timber, or to equal the sporty feeling one gets poking around for the myriads of fish which frequent the creeks having their outlet in these lakes. This road is not a well known one to the average visitor to Banff, although it is pretty well frequented by the drivers of the rigs which ply for hire in the town; but it is certainly a trip which should be taken by all who can spare the two hours or so necessary to cover the distance. The route is across the level way over the railway, just at the depot, and is as easy to find as is falling off a log.

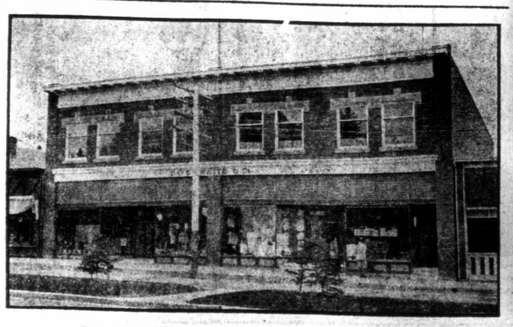
An equally fine drive is to Lake Minnewanka, where 20-pound whoppers are as easy to catch as the sea trout of old Scotland, and are as game as the rainbow trout of Loch Leven, and where the visitor will find the fully informed John Standly doing business in the cheery old way for which he is so well known. On the route to the lake the city visitor may observe black bear on the road, ready, not to contest the right-of-way, but to stare disdainfully at the caller; or, if he or she be a camera fiefind, snapshots of gloriously armored mountain sheep may be had for the home gallery.

Still another route, not so well known as it ought to be by the day-visitor, is the lop drive around the golf course which Professional Thompson does wonders with a single club and still more wonders with a bag o' sticks. He did the course four times the other day and did 33 each time, which is only two above his record of 31; and, besides being a very cheery, talkative man, with a fund of badinage which makes the game most enjoyable, he is well worth seeing when he settles properly down to the business of the royal and ancient game.

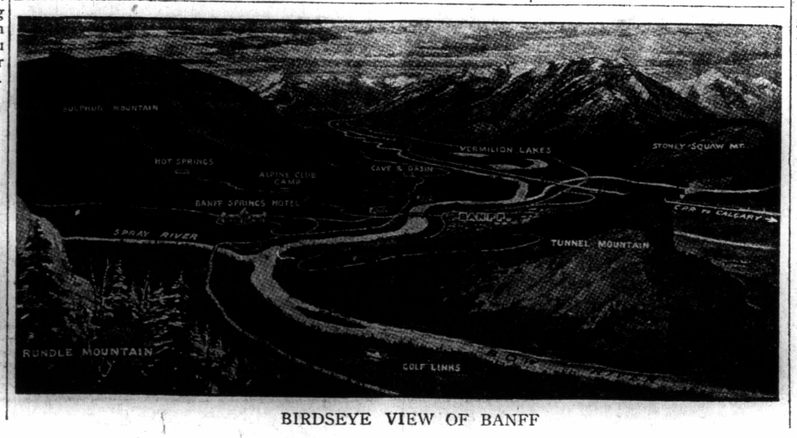
But why go on? I could take you all, in English, to the Cave and Basin, where, after you have passed Mr. Walker's barrier you may disport in water that maintains an even temperature of around 90 degrees Fahr.; for a lovely river spin up to the mouth of Healy creek in one of Mr. Mather's launches; for a horseback gallop to Sun Dance canyon; a little jaunt to Mr. Woodworth's preserve at Buffalo park, or a little afternoon's visit to Mr. Garrett at the Upper Hot Springs, with, thrown in, an evening stroll to the Bow Falls.

I shall have occasion during the "season" to do a little descriptive writing which you may find room for as opportunity offers. I shall take you to the top of Stony Squaw mountain; to the lovely lakes on the road past Mount Edith, where the wild ducks are alone in their glory; There is the cougar (mountain lion) caught near the town, just as his imprisonment was all but accomplished. Last winter, Joseph Smith caught and kept a wolverine 48 hours. The town was almost sure of possessing this specimen for the park. The captive retired for the night in apparent calm spirits, and when morning came was found missing. It had bitten completely through the bars of its cage, wriggled its body through and made a brilliant escape to the mountains. The disappointment of these two escapes has been keener owing to the fact that it is almost impossible to trap this clever little animal. Cases have been known and reported by the Hudson's Bay trappers of wolverines by ingenious methods stealing the bait and escaping the trap. One method employed for trapping these creatures is that of placing a "dead-fall"—really a log pivoted on a delicate "figure four" which collapses when the bait below is touched and sleeping peacefully in his small quarters. From morn till night the great white bear sadly sways its head, closes its eyes and longs for its northern ice-floored haunts. The monkeys chatter and make faces at the visitors, while the peacock and the pheasants flaunt their gaudy plumage in the mountain sunlight. The deer in the park through the excellent system of protection, have become very numerous and very tame. In winter it was almost impossible to go down town without seeing one or more on the quieter streets. Often seven or eight of them visited the back doors of tents and cottages to eat the potato peelings thrown out for them. Although many are kept in confinement, according to government regulations, it has been found that those allowed their freedom are much healthier and stronger specimens. Great efforts have been made to secure a wolverine for the Zoo, and every attempt has failed. At one time the capture was almost sure. The fierce animal had been brought to town, ready to be placed in a new cage. The captors sought to chloroform the prisoner and threw into his box a rag saturated with the sleep-producing liquid. The beast snatched the rag, ate it and died, perhaps take you for a day's angling to the lakes closer at hand; and may let you into the secret of some of the beauties around Lake Louise. It would, however, please me ever so much more, and please a lot more people I wot of around Banff, if the Calgary and Edmonton folks came around our beautiful place to see it for themselves. But they are beginning to come—and stay, and when we get the oil out of our blood for a little time we trust all to be able to take a little jaunt to the heart of Canada's greatest national park.

Banff's Famous Zoo

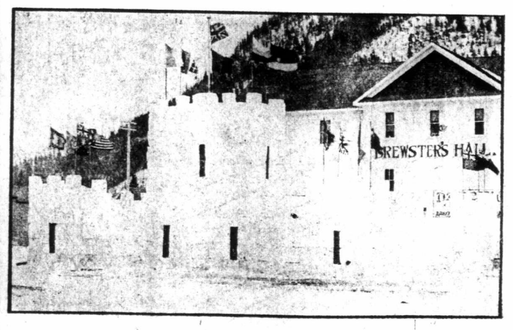


Almost as well known as some of the old-timers at Banff are the animals in the cages and corrals. precipitates a gigantic log on the thief. The "figure four" is covered by a cleverly made little house which holds the bait. The wolverine is supposed to poke his nose in the door for the food, grab it, disjoint the "figure four" and allow the huge log to pin him to the ground. No such death for this native of the mountains. He goes around to the back of the house, gnaws a hole, steals the bait and makes away to his home. Perhaps before another year a good specimen will be added to the collection in the National park. Meantime, some strong cage should be found for the reception.



THE BYRON HARMON STORES

STATISTICS OF THE UNITED STATES PARKS



United States now have 16 national parks, containing 7,537.7 square miles of area, which is equal to 4,824,141 acres. During 1916 they added two new national parks to their galaxy in the Lessen Volcanic National park in California and the Hawaii National park, embracing the three great volcanoes of the island territory, Kilauea, Mauna Loa and Haleakala. The number of visitors entertained in national parks in 1916 was 352,512. Of this total 78,916 came in 19,848 private motor cars, which paid $65,311 in fees for the privilege of driving through the parks, as against $42,589 in 1915 and $14,245 in 1914. It is expected that before many years have passed the national parks will have been placed on a business-like basis of self-support and this condition will be due entirely to motor traffic.

DAVE WHITE'S DEPARTMENT STORE

BIRDSEYE VIEW OF BANFF

THE ICE PALACE

Smile and be Merry and Kill Old King Worry

THE RESULT.

"How are men down here, Evelyn? Scarce, I hear."
"So scarce that Mazie is learning to swim out of a magazine."

Over-talented.

AH, better far it is to be
Blest with one gift that shines
Than cursed with mediocrity
In half-a-dozen lines!

For instance: You could hardly name
A thing Jones couldn't do;
Of ways to reach success and fame
A score at least he knew.

But yet his talents, strange to say,
Were not of much avail
In helping him to make his way
Or fill his dinner pail.

While Smith, whose wit and skill are small,
His course triumphant goes;
On one thing only can he call,
But that one thing he knows.

And so Jones hustles hard and long
To make his two ends meet,
While Smith in power waxes strong
And lives on Easy Street.

Hence we contend: Far better be
Blest with one gift that shines
Than cursed with mediocrity
In half-a-dozen lines.

A COOLING DRINK.

I just heard some one call that man a cold-blooded villain.
Let's sample him. Cold blood would taste very nice this hot weather.

AN EXCELLENT AUTHORITY

When Sir Walter Scott was a boy his teacher asked him to give the part of speech of the word "with."

"It's a noun," said young Scott.

"You are very stupid," said the teacher. "How came you to say such a thing?"

"I got it from the Bible, sir," declared the future novelist stoutly. "There's a verse that says 'they bound Samson with withs.'"

NOT A SQUARE DEAL

"Remember, children," said Miss Mason to her Sunday school class, "the tares represent the bad people and the wheat the good ones."

"Why, that's funny," said a small auditor who had listened to the lesson with breathless attention.

"Why is it funny, James?" asked the teacher.

"Because," replied the youngster, "the wheat always gets thrashed and the tares don't."

MEMORIES.

As we swung gently to and fro in the moonlight, she promised to marry me, old chap! Never will I forget the hammock I sat in last night.
Same here. The one I sat in broke.

FAIRY TALES FOR THE LITTLE ONES

Neureddin and the Wonderful Persian

WHEN the good Haroun Al Raschid became Caliph of Bagdad, he made his cousin, Zenebi, King of Balsora, and Zenebi then sought for a woman worthy to be his queen. He ordered his minister to find him a maiden perfect in charm and beauty, and excellent in wit and intelligence.

For a long time the minister tried in vain to discover this maiden, but one morning a merchant brought to his house a Persian slave girl of great loveliness and marvelous gifts. The minister gave the maid a set of rooms in his house and resolved to introduce her to the king. But in the course of the day the minister's son, Noureddin, saw her, and fell deeply in love with her, and she fell deeply in love with him, so that when the minister came to conduct her to the royal palace he found her sitting with Noureddin.

"Oh, unhappy boy!" he cried. "You have ruined me. The king will find this out."

But after struggling between his affection for his son and his duty to the king, the minister gave way, and allowed Noureddin to marry the beautiful Persian. He then tried to keep the king quiet, by pointing out how hard it was to discover a maiden in whom great beauty and wisdom were joined. But the king found out about the Persian maid and sent his men to bring Noureddin and the maid to him.

Happily, a friend of Noureddin's heard the order, and hurried out and warned him, and Noureddin and the beautiful Persian at once fled from Balsora, and got on a ship sailing to Bagdad. When they arrived at Bagdad they did not know where to stay, as they had never been in this famous city before. After wandering about the crowded streets until they were tired they entered a gate leading to a splendid garden and sat down by the fountain and fell asleep. At evening an old man came to the spot and woke them up.

"Pardon us, pray, for falling asleep here," said Noureddin. "We are strangers in Bagdad, and we have walked about the city until we were tired. This garden is really the most delicious spot I have ever seen in my life. Oh, what a happy man you are to possess such a place!"

Now, the garden was really one of the pleasure grounds of the great caliph, and the old man was only one of the keepers. But he was so flattered at being taken for the owner of the place that he offered to show Noureddin and the beautiful Persian over the lordly pleasure house which stood in the middle of the garden opposite the royal palace. He led them up the golden staircase, into the great hall built of jasper, and adorned with the richest treasures of the kingdom. At the sight of all the splendor, Noureddin was filled with joy, and he gave the old man a handful of gold, saying:

"Do, please, allow me to provide a banquet this evening. Give this gold to one of your slaves, and get him to buy a supply of meats and fruits and wine."

The old man ran out into the streets and bought a rich repast, and returned with it to the pleasure house, and Noureddin and the beautiful Persian lighted all the costly lamps by the eighty windows of the great hall, and they sat down to the feast.

Now, the Caliph of Bagdad had a good view of the pleasure house from his palace, and he was much surprised to see lights shining in all the windows of the great hall. Any other ruler would have sent some courtier to inquire into the matter, but Haroun Al Raschid liked to see into things himself. Disguising himself as a beggar, he went into the garden, and crept up to the pleasure house just as the beautiful Persian was singing to the sound of a lute.

"What a sweet voice," he said. "I must certainly find a way to see this charming singer without making myself known."

As he was wondering what to do, he saw a man poaching fish in the river that ran through the garden.

"Have you caught any fish?" he inquired.

"Two," replied the poacher.

The caliph bought them, and, entering the pleasure house, said to Noureddin:

"I see you are holding a feast here, and as I have just caught two fine fish I thought I would bring them to you."

"Very well," said Noureddin. "Go and fry them in the kitchen."

The caliph did so, and returned with the fried fish, and served the three merrymakers with it.

When Noureddin had eaten his portion he gave Haroun Al Raschid a handful of gold, saying:

"Pray accept this small gift. I have never tasted a better cooked fish."

The caliph took the gold and thanked Noureddin and said:

"And now may I ask a great favor? I should like very much to hear your lovely wife sing a song."

The beautiful Persian at once took up her lute and sang song after song, and the caliph listened to her with exceeding delight. And in between the songs Noureddin related to him the story of his marriage and flight. Haroun Al Raschid then told Noureddin that he himself was really the caliph and he sent a letter to King Zenebi commanding him to retire from the throne and made Noureddin and the beautiful Persian King and Queen of Balsora.

A Story of Millions in Gold

MOST people, of course, wouldn't believe it. It is easier to scoff at a romantic tale than to swallow it whole. Nevertheless, the old man sitting in the little hotel in the little dot of a Southern Missouri town almost convinced the young visitor from the city when he told about the finding of a lost mine over the line in Mexico. Gold and silver bullion worth two million dollars had been dumped in the bottom of the shaft. Besides that, the pay ore was so rich that you could take your pick and break it off in expensive chunks.

There it is today, waiting for someone to make himself a millionaire. Figuring in the story is an old map giving the location of the mine. The narrator possessed the map from the hand of a dying miner, and now he himself is in poor health and unable to endure the journey through the wild mountains after the loot. So far, the story smells to high heaven of the old stuff. It's Cocos island, the Dying Miner, the Spanish Prisoner and the quaint little gold brick of hoary memory rolled into one. It seems an aged miner known as "Old Bill" was about to expire as a result of the ravages of time and exposure. Just before he departed he told the story and gave the map to an old friend and benefactor, who was none other than the old man in the little hotel who tells the story.

If the story were told in the lobby of any of the hotels in Excelsior Springs, where the wire tappers get their customers, there would be a rush of potential victims. But, strangely enough, the story sounds plausible as it is told in the little town down the line.

Death to Look for it Now

In the first place the old man doesn't dwell on the prospects of getting the fortune. In fact, he says, it would be suicide to attempt it, because of the bandits that infest the state of Chihuahua, where the mine is. If peace ever comes to Mexico, he adds, it may be possible, but for the present there is no chance of getting in and getting out safely. That point alone seems to lend an air of truth to his story. If it were a bait for a swindle the mine could have been placed in some peaceable community. Yet, on the other hand, the difficulty may have been injected to make the task more appealing to the adventurous.

"It took me three years wondering around in the lonely mountains to find the mine," he tells. "Three of the men who set out with me at first were killed from ambush. My Indian guide and I escaped. When we found the mine I chipped off some of the ore with my pick, and it was the real thing. The Indian disappeared, and I am certain he was killed by bandits.

"It was just then that the revolution broke out against Diaz, and I had to get out to save my skin. The tradition regarding the mine is that a band of Jesuit priests, a hundred and fifty years ago, were fleeing from bandits, and to save their gold and silver they dropped it down the shaft of the mine. I don't know that it is there yet—probably it isn't, and then again it may be. But the mine itself is one of the best on earth, and there is no limit, hardly, to the gold it will produce.

A Gold Seeker Forty Years

"For forty years I've been a miner and a prospector through the Southwest and in Old Mexico, and I never saw a better one. Some day, if I am ever strong enough again, I'm going to try for that money—if there is ever peace in Mexico, but the Mexican government, as it has been and as it is today, has the same idea as a bandit gang.

'It would be suicide to go into that country today after the gold, but it's there, nevertheless. I stumbled onto it, partly guided by the map I had. If things ever clear up again and I get back to the mine, I'll have all the money that I and my people can ever spend."

That's his story, told without much detail. How he happens to be staying, week after week, at the little hotel in the little town is a mystery. The hotel proprietor doesn't know, but he has an idea.

"He's got money, all right," the host confides, "and he talks about that mine all the time. Know what I think? I think he's a government detective lookin' for something."

So there you are.

HIDDEN PUZZLE

THE PUZZLED TOURIST.

Who will direct him?

REBUS.

Word being "to dig in."

SHAME BETTER THAN REGRET

"Aren't you ashamed, William," exclaimed the indignant minister, "to hit a boy smaller than yourself?"

"Well, I don't know," said William, who was a bit of a philosopher. "I guess I'd rather be ashamed to hit a smaller boy than be sorry I hit a bigger one."

WHERE HE WOULD FIND IT

"Now, doctor," said the convalescent patient, "all I need is something to stir me up—to put me in fighting trim. Did you put something like that in this prescription?"

"No-o," answered the physician with some hesitation, "but wait until you get the bill. You will find it there."

A DEAD GIVE WAY.

"Look a heah, dawg! Yo' looks like a nigger's dawg, so quit follerin' me aroun' or folks'll think I'm a cullud pusson."

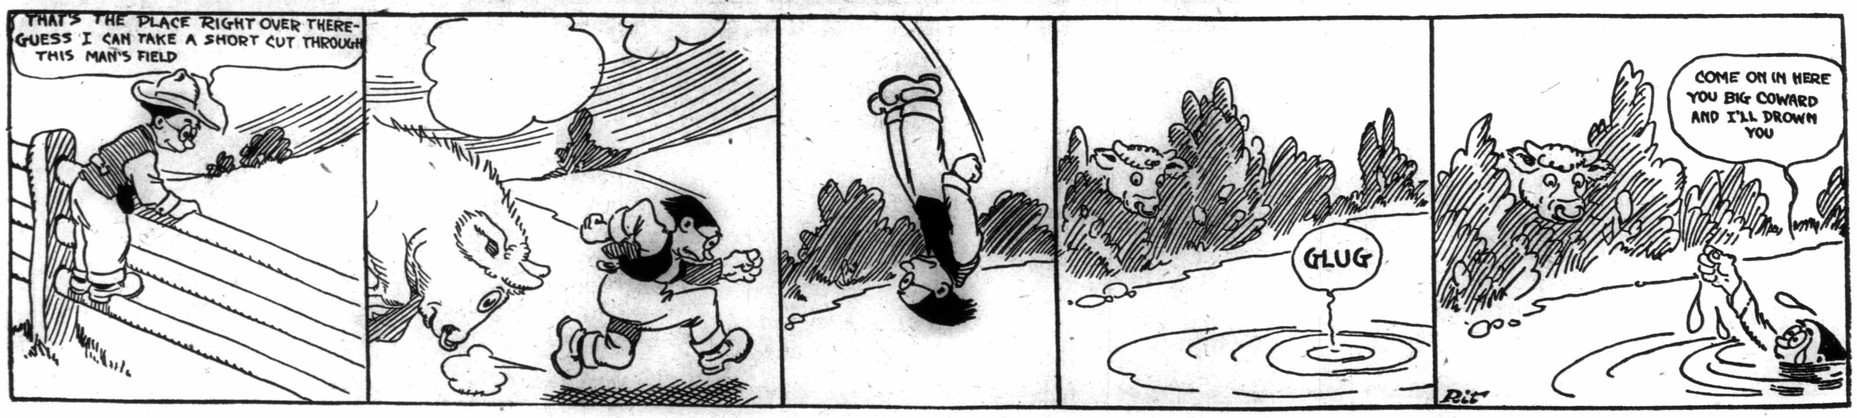
DISREGARDED.

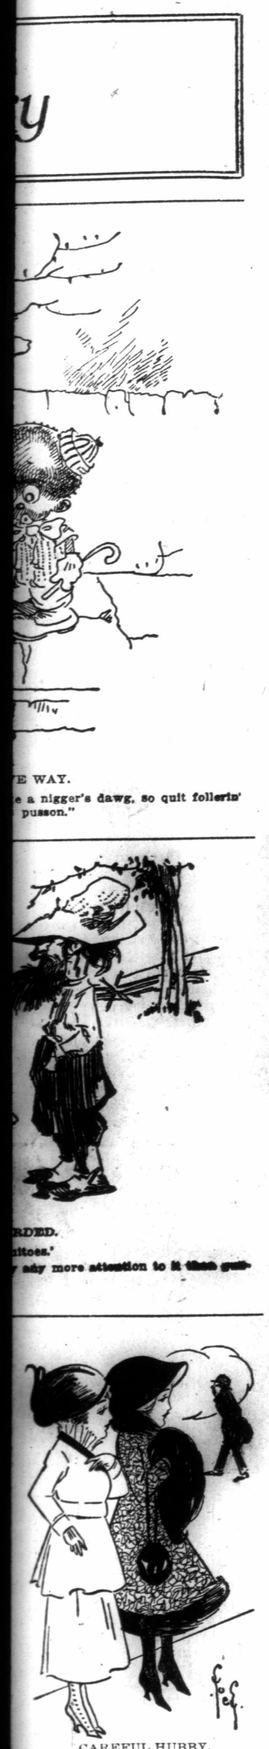
"I see you put up a sign 'No mosquitoes.'
"Yes. But the mosquitoes don't pay any more attention to it than gunners pay to the sign 'No trespassing.'"

CREDULOUS.

"She believes everything she's told, doesn't she?"

"Yes, indeed. Why, that woman would even believe a letter of recommendation."





CAREFUL HUBBY.

"Does your husband subscribe to the theory that kissing transmits germs?"

"No. He thinks that germs are usually transmitted by money, and is very careful not to hand me any."

BACK TO THE SOIL — Well, anyway, Jinx made the first hundred yards in nothing flat — BY RITTER

E WAY.
e a nigger's dawg, so quit follerin' pusson."

RDED.
itoes.'
ay more attention to it than gath-

CAREFUL HUBBY.

"Does your husband subscribe to the theory that kissing transmits germs."

"No. He thinks that germs are mostly transmitted by money, and is very careful not to hand me any."

BY RITTER

DIMPLES

She Doesn't Spill a Drop; Neither do the Twins.

BY GRACE G. DRAYTON

Copyright, 1916, by Grace G. Drayton; Great Britain Rights Reserved.

Alberta's Greatest Store Welcomes You To Its Mail Order Family!

HARDLY a day passes but someone writes us in such a vein as this:

..."Am awfully pleased with the Millinery selected for me. It is so surprisingly satisfactory to shop with you without having to consult a large bulky catalogue that lists only styles out of date or goods that are not offered to city customers."

Someone else visited us, yesterday. The part came from near the boundary of Alberta and Saskatchewan, said she: "I am sure most people in ——— appreciate the fact that you sell goods actually offered to Calgary customers and not SPECIALLY purchased lots and seconds for catalogue inclusion."

Though we do not possess a large so-called catalogue, we do have a price list, that we would like to send you.

Two Numbers in Hosiery Clear Early

No. 106-17—
Women's Mercerized Lisle Hose, deep hem top, double heels and toes. A good dye, black; all sizes; present value 50c
Very special, pair 33½c

No. 106-19—
Children's Hose, a regular hose for school and hard wear, made of good quality black cotton, 1x1 rib, sizes, 7 to 9½.
Very special, pair 33½c

Silk Suits and Wash Suits

Taken from Calgary Stocks

Priced for Out-of-Town Trade $2.95 to $29.50

Some beautiful Silk Suits in the new material, so popular this season, Gros-de-londre. Prettily made on simple lines. Some of the coats are pleated with yoke and all round narrow belts, many on full loose lines with sash belt, while a number are semi-fitted to waist with deep basque. The skirts are full and smartly finished. The colors include purple, tapestry and navy blue, Russian green, taupe and black. A few have trimming of natural shantung silk, also a few separate collars of white satin and georgette.
Formerly selling to $47.50. Special price $29.50

Smart little wash suits of white linen, trimmed with fancy stripes of pale blue or pink. Separate belted coat, and neat skirt.
Formerly selling, 5.00. Special price $2.95

Pretty Suit Dresses of fancy striped linen in shades of Holland, navy blue and pink. Waist is separate with wide collar, cuffs and belt of contrasting white linen; smart little skirt.
Formerly selling, $5.00. Special price $3.95

Dainty wash suits in shades of pink and pale blue linen. Fashioned on full sport lines, with all round belt, fancy patch pockets, collars and cuffs of fancy white linen, smartly tailored skirt.
Formerly selling, $6.95. Special price $4.95

A Gabardine Raincoat for Women

The Agnatite Raincoat of Gabardine, thoroughly showerproof. Full length all round belt, convertible storm collar, patch pockets. In good shades of tan and leather colors. Reg. store price, $17.50
Out of town customers $15.00

A Summer Coat for Women

Smart Summer Coat of white chinchilla cloth, ¾-length, wide cape collar, all round loose belts, patch pockets; reg. store price, $15.00. Out of town orders,
Price $12.95

Shoes for Every Member of the Big Family

MEN'S HI CUT BOOTS, $5.85

Stout oil tan uppers, full bellows tongue; soles sewn and reinforced with standard screw, fitted with buckles and straps. Postage prepaid.

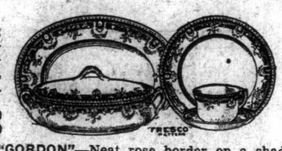
Same style boot for boys, only without buckle.
Sizes 11 to 13 ..... $4.45
Sizes 1 to 5 ..... $4.95

BOYS' STURDY BOOTS

Uppers of black or oil tan; bellows tongue; soled leather insole and counters, soles double to heel, sewn and reinforced with standard screws. Give size, and if black or oil tan.

Postage prepaid. Prices—
Sizes 11 to 13½ $3.45
Sizes 1 to 5½ $3.95
Women's and growing girls' low heel boots $4.45

Made on a full toe last and a low heel. Uppers of kid or gun-metal calf in lace or button style. Sizes 2½ to 8.

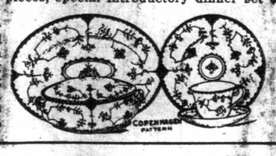


Open Stock Dinnerware--Order by name

In order to introduce to our many customers the large assortment of patterns in open stock dinnerware we are offering at a special price an introductory Dinner Set of 21 pieces, consisting of 6 tea cups and saucers, 6 dinner plates, 1 platter, 1 cream pitcher, and 1 bowl or open sugar. Among the many patterns are:

"E. L. & S."—Well known as the "Clover Leaf" pattern. Made by one the best known Staffordshire potteries. Fine hard body, well glazed; large, roomy, plain shape.
Dinner set, 97 pieces $15.00
Special introductory, Dinner set, 21 pieces $2.10

"FRESCO"—This pattern is a very pleasing border design, printed under the glaze, in peacock green. A most serviceable English Semi-porcelain that will practically wear for ever, as the pattern positively can never come off. Fine large plain shape.
Dinner set, 97 pieces $15.00
21 pieces, special introductory dinner set $2.10



"GORDON"—Neat rose border on a shaded ground, dark green outside, fawn inside, relieved with green leaves, all in natural colors and full gold edge; traced handles.
Dinner set, 97 pieces $32.50
Special introductory dinner set, 21 pieces $4.50

"WILLOW"—The pattern Grandmother had. It needs no description. Dark blue, English Semi-porcelain. Dinner set, 97 pieces ..$17.50
Also in light blue, English bone china. Special introductory dinner set, 21 pieces $2.35

"YUAN"—An Oriental bird design, made by Wood & Sons' well known Staffordshire pottery, sufficient guarantee as to the quality of the ware; printed under glaze in a pleasing neutral shade and beautifully glazed. This set will always be appreciated.
Dinner set, 97 pieces. $20.00
21 pieces, special introductory dinner set $2.80

"COPENHAGEN"—One of the old time favoritesand previously only shown on Imported China. We have had this reproduced on a high grade English semi-porcelain from a leading maker, printed under the glaze in a pleasing blue color. It is a pattern you will never tire of.
Dinner set, 97 pieces $16.25
Special introductory dinner set, 21 pieces $2.25

A Sextette of Grocery Specials

Sunmaid Fancy Seeded Raisins, 25-lb. bulk boxes, net weight, special, box $3.10

Soda Biscuits—North West No. 1, in boxes containing 12½ lbs. net. Extra special box $1.89

Choice Broken Orange Pekoe Tea—At the present market price of Tea this line is a 60c value. Extra special, 3 lbs. $1.35.
10 lbs. $4.30

H. B. Co.'s guaranteed pure, true flavors, all kinds. Extra special. 16-oz. bottle 89c

Rice—Good, sound "Siam," 10 lbs. for 55c, 25 lbs. for $1.35
50 lbs. sack $2.60

H. B. Co.'s Household Blend Coffee of exceptional value, whole or ground. Extra special, 5 lbs. $1.60;
10 lbs. $3.10

Any one or all of above Specials with a General Grocery Order

Children's and Infants' Stores

Apparel for all ages up to 8 years

A few very special values from our busy Infants' and Children's Department, which cannot be duplicated elsewhere, because of the Bay's far reaching purchasing power. This department will be pleased at any time to submit prices on any baby requirements.

No. 246-11—
A very serviceable school dress for the child, made of percale in splendid quality, perfect tubbing pattern, in light check. Trimmed with blue at collar, cuffs and skirt. Ages 2 to 6 years, a 69c value, very special 35c

Many other smart styles from 2 to 14 years ..... 98c to $3.95

No. 246-50—
Another wonderful value, Children's Knitted Waists, extra well stayed over shoulders and body with stout white tape, very neatly finished edges. A 25c value for 19c each, or Very special, 3 for 50c

In the Land of Dainty Petticoats

No. 250-40—Women's Wash Petticoats
English make of fine quality Percale, fine white and blue stripe, deep knife pleated bias flounce, draw string top, four gored, roomy, lock stitched throughout, perfect tubbing; lengths 36, 37, 38.
Regular $1.25; very special 89c

WOMEN'S PETTICOATS

No. 250-41—Women's Petticoats
Splendid quality white muslin, deep embroidered full flounce with embroidered insertion, scalloped edge, with dust frill or underlay and draw string top, roomy skirt in lengths 36, 38, 40.
Regular $1.50; very special 98c

Told in "The Bay" Blouse Stores

No. 249-11—Made of splendid quality fine Jap silk, very plain, but smart appearing, new large pointed collar, edged with fine lace; sleeve has tailored cuff; all sizes. Very special 98c

No. 249-14—Same quality as No. 249-13, having embroidered front with fine pin tucks and hemstitching; square flat collar neatly embroidered, with cuffs to match; all sizes
Very special 98c

No. 249-22—Dressy Blouse of sheer crepe de chine, of splendid quality adorned with tucks and fine hemstitching, large flat collar possessing tucks with hemstitching and wide hem; sleeve with flare cuff in white, flesh and rose; all sizes. Regular $6.50,
Special $4.95

No. 249-15—Very smart styles, fine quality voile, eyelet emb., and tucked front, double row of dainty pearl buttons, large pointed collar and square neck, empire sleeve, turned back cuff, and neatly trimmed with fine lace.
Very special value 98c

No. 249-12—Same as 249-11, only with jabot front effect; all sizes
Very special 98c

No. 249-13—Very pleasing blouse of fine lawn, embroidered fronts, tucks and double row of small pearl buttons, and has new large collar, trimmed wide colored border of organdie, also colored organdie at cuffs; all sizes. Very special..... 98c

When you come to the Fair--Don't fail to look up these two Sections

Our Ribbon Department, the finest in Canadian West, artistic bows, tiny or large tied free, by the clever little exponent of Ribbon Craft—Miss Alson.

New fancy work arriving constantly—all manner of fancy stitch work stamped pieces—New Royal Society Package Outfits ready.
Don't fail to visit our Art Needle shop on the 5th floor.

The Best is the EASTMAN KODAK

Why not begin the season with a Kodak or a Brownie?

THE BOX BROWNIES

No. 0 Brownie, takes pictures 1⅝ x 2½ $1.25
No 2 Brownie, takes pictures 2¼ x 3¼ $2.00
No. 2A Brownie, takes pictures 2½ x 4¼ $3.00
No. 3 Brownie, takes pictures 3¼ x 4¼ $4.00

THE FOLDING AUTOGRAPHIC BROWNIE

No. 2A Folding Autographic Brownie, takes pictures 2½ x 4¼. Meniscus Achromatic lens, Kodak ball bearing shutter $8.00
Ditto, with R.R. Lens $10.00
No. 2C Folding Autographic Brownie, takes pictures 2⅞ x 4⅞. Meniscus Achromatic lens ... $9.00
Ditto, with R. R. Lens $11.00

No. 130 To the Left is an American Lady

A model for the slender or average figure at the moderate price of $1.50 made of white coutil with low or medium bust, and long skirt. 4 hose supports, all sizes from 19 [illegible]

To the Left a Model for Average Figure

A Royal Worcester model for the average and well developed figures, low bust and long skirt. Well boned and made of white coutil, emb. trimmed, 6 strong supports, $2.50

TO THE LEFT WE ILLUSTRATE

A Gossard

Ideal for heavy figure, a model designed for this type, as illustrated, reduces the hip line from 2 to 4 in. Confines upper and lower back, and this style is perfect. There is a Gossard for every figure type. Ranging in price from $2.50 $3.50 $4.25, $5.00 and up

AN AMERICAN LADY CORSET

A very special value, designed for the slender or average figure. Low bust and medium light skirt. Re-inforced across abdomen and graduated clasp. Good wearing coutil, and 4 hose supports, all sizes, $1.25 value for 89c.

The Bay Hardware Store

19 GAUGE, 2 IN MESH POULTRY NETTING

Thoroughly galvanized, suitable for chicken runs, garden plots, etc.
24 inch. 150 ft. roll $2.40
30 inch. 150 ft. roll 2.70
36 inch. 150 ft. roll 3.25
48 inch. 150 ft. roll 4.25
60 inch. 150 ft. roll 4.75
19 gauge; 1-inch mesh
24 inch. 150 ft. roll $4.75

GALVANIZED WIRE CLOTHES LINES

Made of galvanized twisted wire, put up in rolls.
50 ft. 25c
100 ft. 45c

GALVANIZED WATER PAILS

14 quart size, straight pattern.
Each 39c

TRIANGLE CEDAR OIL MOP AND BOTTLE OF CEDAR OIL

This splendid mop is filled with good quality yarn, triangle shape, making it easy to get into corners, adjustable handle, complete with 6 ounce bottle Cedar Oil.
The two 49c

WE CONDUCT AN EFFICIENT DEVELOPING AND PRINTING DEPARTMENT

SEND US YOUR FILMS --- WE GUARANTEE ALL WORK --- PRICES UPON APPLICATION

Send for June Catalog Yours for a Postal

The Hudson's Bay Company.

INCORPORATED 1670 "ECONOMISTS FOR THE PEOPLE" HERBERT E. BURBIDGE STORES COMMISSIONER

Send for June Catalog Yours for the asking

JUNE 10, 1917

Family !

ery Specials

Co.'s guaranteed pure, true all kinds. Extra
16-oz. bottle 89c

Good, sound "Siam," 10 lbs.
25 lbs. for $1.35
pack $2.60

Co.'s Household Blend Coffee itional value, whole or ground.
pecial, 5 lbs. $1.60; $3.10
.....
eneral Grocery Order

fants' Stores to 8 years

Infants' and Children's Depart-here, because of the Bay's far ent will be pleased at any time ed Waists, extra well stayed over very neatly finished edges.

..... 50c

ty Petticoats

white and blue stripe, deep knife
r gored, roomy, lock stitched 38.
..... 89c

ICOATS

idered full flounce with embroid-h dust frill or underlay 36, 38, 40.
..... 98c

' Blouse Stores

No. 249-14—Same quality as No.
9-13, having embroidered front th fine pin tucks and hemstitchg; square flat collar neatly emoidered, with cuffs to match; all zes
ery special 98c

No. 249-15—Very smart styles, ne quality voile, eyelet emb., and ucked front, double row of dainty earl buttons, large pointed collar nd square neck, empire sleeve, urned back cuff, and neatly trim-ed with fine lace.
ery special value 98c

bot front effect; all sizes
..... 98c

e lawn, embroidered fronts, tucks nd has new large collar, trimmed ored organdie at cuffs;
..... 98c

e Fair--Don't fail to wo Sections

New fancy work arriving constantly—all manner of fancy stitch work stamped pieces—New Royal Society Package Outfits ready.
Don't fail to visit our Art Needle
Shop on the 5th floor.

The Bay Hardware Store

19 GAUGE, 2 IN MESH POULTRY NETTING

Thoroughly galvanized, suitable for chicken runs, garden plots, etc.
24 inch. 150 ft. roll.....$2.40
30 inch. 150 ft. roll.....2.70
36 inch. 150 ft. roll..... 3.25
48 inch. 150 ft. roll..... 4.25
60 inch. 150 ft. roll..... 4.75
19 gauge; 1-inch mesh
24 inch. 150 ft. roll.....$4.75

GALVANIZED WIRE CLOTHES LINES

Made of galvanized twisted wire, put up in rolls.
50 ft. 25c
100 ft. 45c

GALVANIZED WATER PAILS

14 quart size, straight pattern.
Each 39c

TRIANGLE CEDAR OIL MOP AND BOTTLE OF CEDAR OIL

This splendid mop is filled with good quality yarn, triangle shape, making it easy to get into corners, adjustable handle, complete with 6 ounce bottle Cedar Oil.
The two 49c

MOST MEN WITH SWELLED HEADS WEAR AWFULLY SMALL HATS

This section contains:
SPORTS
THEATER
SOCIETY
FARMING
LIVESTOCK
MARKET REPORTS
FINANCE

CALGARY Western Standard

ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY

INDEPENDENT OPTIMISTIC

MY CANADA

I LOVE my country. There is nothing that she can ask I will not do. I am ready to live or die for her. She is the realization of a dream and the fulfillment of an ideal—this Canada of ours. She is the embodiment of what a country should be—and right or wrong, it is my home, my country—the one I love.

Vol. VII. No. 16 TWO SECTIONS—12 Pages CALGARY, ALBERTA, JUNE 24, 1917 TWO SECTIONS—12 Pages Five Cents the Copy

COMMENT AND CRITICISM

ALBERTA RESOURCES TO BE DEVELOPED

Scientists for a long time have recognized the value of the natural resources of Alberta, but capital has been slow to take advantage of the opportunities to develop these mines of immense wealth that the earth holds. Now comes the report that the mineral fields of the north are to be explored with the idea of developing the country, if the resources promise as well as they are reported. Mr. Charles F. Law, a representative of Baron Rhondda, will probe for deposits of all kinds this summer. The coal, oil and potash fields as well as copper, zinc and many other minerals show evidences of big deposits in the great north country. Some one is going to reap a big harvest from this locality some day. The fact that Manitoba has just developed its mining interest to a marked extent, getting big returns, argues well for other western provinces. At no distant date we can see Alberta taking a foremost position in the production of mineral wealth of all kinds.

* * * *

THE WORLD'S GREATEST BUYER

The biggest business job ever intrusted to one man is about to be assigned to an American yet unnamed. The agreement of the Allies, including the United States, to pool their demands for supplies of all kinds during the war, and to leave the apportionment and the directing of the purchasing to one head, marks the greatest massing of interests the world has seen. It makes the operations of the largest private or government interests look relatively small. It involves the expenditure of approximately 10 billion dollars a year. The demand will be for a man who is pre-eminently an organizer rather than an expert in details. Inevitably the various departments under the general director will require, in turn, men of exceptional capacity for large transactions, and these departments will need many other directing heads. Therefore, assuming that the dictator of supplies is to have the power suggested by his position, he must be an exceptional judge of men and their products. On his appointments rather than on his knowledge and direction of details will depend the measure of his success. The country will be keenly interested in the announcement of the administration's choice of a man for this stupendous assignment. Although the plan has been carefully thought out and subscribed to by all the allied powers, it is nevertheless a romantic adventure in a sort of business imperialism.

* * * *

ANOTHER NAIL FOR THEIR COFFIN

The people along the border in Canada have just awakened to a fact that they are behind the times when they don't get a Sunday paper and have just petitioned the government to permit them to have their papers on Sunday. Over 5,000 citizens of Windsor, Sarnia, and other cities in Eastern Canada have signed this petition to the attorney-general. He has stated that if the Lord's Day Alliance will permit he is agreeable. As it is now the people of these localities are compelled to get their papers surreptitiously and in consequence are law-breakers. This is a sad condition of affairs when the people are made criminals through a set of laws enacted by a chosen few whose minds are as narrow as their ways are unprogressive. Sooner or later the progressive people of Canada are going to rise and smite this body as David did Goliath. Because of going to rise and smite this body as David did oGliah. Because of this narrow minded feeling The Standard was compelled to discontinue its Sunday edition, and because of this self same narrowness hundreds and thousands of people dread the day as one of intolerable boredom who would otherwise look forward to Sunday as a day of enjoyment and pleasure.

* * * *

YOU CAN LIVE AN IDEAL LIFE

Ideals are like stars—you will not succeed in touching them with your hands. But, like the seafaring man on deserts of water, you choose them as your guides, and following them you can reach your destiny. It is the custom to think that only educated persons, men and women of book learning, have ideals. Not so. The Power that fashioned the human brain did not give the right to dream, to see beyond the moment, alone to the person who has studied the philosophies of Greece or has delved in the mysteries of the higher mathematics. Some of the finest followers of ideals are found among the dwellers in the wind-swept prairies who have never seen the walls of academy or college. Among the shepherds on the lonely heights, fighting cold and snow that their charges may live, dreamed dreams that are akin to the wisdom of Socrates, the reasoning of Aristotle, the speculation of Kant. The cobbler who puts an honest patch on your shoe works a little of his ideal on the line taken by his waxed thread. The bricklayer, squaring his brick true with the wall and laying his mortar properly, realizes an ideal. Sometimes these humble followers of ideals can put their thoughts into words. Then, following behind the plow wth the man who holds the handle, we hear homely wisdom which, if we could translate it into words, would add to the world's store of wisdom. Among the higher, finer spirits who labor hard with their hands and still harder to give birth to the children of their brains, we hear worded poetry of the best of writers. The ideals are there. Only oftentimes the expression is wanting. These men cannot touch their ideals with their hands. They cannot give body and shape to them. But they can do more and better. They can live their ideals. So can you and I. And by living our ideals we do more good than by merely putting them into words.

REVIEW OF THE WAR HERE AND EVERYWHERE

A review of the war situation is encouraging although activities for the week are somewhat meagre to report. The press dispatches are still filled with complimentary remarks regarding the good work of the Canadian troops. It seems that whenever a Canadian battalion enters into the arena there are doings and they usually distinguish themselves through their good work. It mattered not in what walk of life the men have been following before entering into the war, the same courageous demean is characteristic of their behavior whenever they have occasion to show their fighting ability.

* * * * * *

The middle of the week the Canadians captured a nest of trenches at the foot of the Reservoir hill, the approach to Lens. This has made the German task more difficult to overcome the allies' position at this point.

* * * * * *

The Italian army have resumed their offensive movement with the results that several points have been captured including a good position on Mount Ortigara where nine hundred prisoners were captured, including several field guns.

* * * * * *

British forces have made more gains on the Arras front. An engagement with the enemy on the Cojeul river resulted in the capture of 356 prisoners. Also very valuable work has been done in this territory by the aeroplanes.

It is said that heavy artillery fighting has been indulged in on the Aisne and Champagne fronts. The Germans made one or two unsuccessful attacks in the region of Mont Carnillet, but were repulsed with considerable losses.

* * * * * *

A big drive is contemplated there is no doubt. Fighting activity in Flanders has been resumed and in several minor engagements the Germans have lost men and guns. These engagements are only preliminary to the real encounter which is daily expected.

* * * * * *

Gen. Sir Arhur Currie has been appointed commander of the Canadian forces. Sir Arthur has been in command of the Canadian corps since Sir Julian Byng left. His appointment has the approval of the entire army.

* * * * * *

There is a rumor that some of the Canadian press has been subsidized with German money. This report has been going the rounds of Ottawa for some time and was officially taken cognizance of within the past week. Sir Sam Hughes hints that an organized movement is afoot to restrict conscription and that this is the result of German activity.

* * * * * *

The C. P. R. have made a loan of $10,000,000 to the imperial board for munition purchases. This loan will be of great assistance to the Dominion as it will be distributed among the manufacturers of Canada.

DEVASTATION BY THE GERMANS

Scene in the French City of Bapaume which is once more in the hands of the Allies. This is one of the cities the Germans evacuated in their retreat to the "Hindenburg" line.

COMMENT ON THE POLITICAL SITUATION

One of the absorbing subjects of gossip in local political circles is that of the federal nominations for the ridings of East and West Calgary. The Liberals have one sure candidate, Captain C. B. Reilly, in East Calgary, but they may switch from John A. Irvine in West Calgary. It is admitted that Mr. Irvine has earned the nomination but it is reported that certain interests are trying to subordinate his claims to their selfish desires and are offering the excuse that he is "Not a big enough man to oppose Bennett."

Now J. A. Irvine may not be a big man physically but mentally he is the equal of any potential Liberal candidates in sight and he is absolutely four-square. He already has a good organization and while certainly he would play the game were he to be ousted from the nomination, it could hardly be expected that his heart would be in it the same as if he had received fair treatment.

For six months Mr. Irvine has made great sacrifices in order that he might help the recruiting for the navy. He has not got a cent in return for his work and has paid his own expenses, has given illustrated lectures, supplied an office and attended to multitudinous details.

Incidentally he has been one of the real workers of the Liberal party for years and if there is any man who deserves the federal nomination that man is John A. Irvine, Good Citizen.

Clifford Reilly has had the East Calgary nomination sewed up for two years and has been quietly laying the foundations of an aggressive fray since his return to the front.

On the Conservative side all is uncertainty. S. B. Hillocks resigned the federal nomination of East Calgary to contest North Calgary in the recent provincial elections and the result is pretty well known. He will hardly be eligible as a defeated candidate cannot hope to swing an already dubious riding.

Mayor Costello seems the logical choice. He retired in favor of Dr. Blow in South Calgary but not without making a fighting speech that won him more friends. Mike is not heavy on the rhetoric nor on eloquence but he has the faculty of pleasing people; he is a good mixer, he is fair and he is a worker. He would be true to all classes were he to be elected.

John Irwin has a claim on this nomination but he does not care for the limelight and will not run.

Perhaps the Conservatives will bring out a farmer at the last moment figuring that he would get a large percentage of the rural vote, the labor vote in the city and the old guard.

But taking the situation as a whole the prospect is not very inviting in East Calgary so far as the Conservatives are concerned.

In West Calgary there is a riot of speculation all hinging on the possibility of R. B. Bennett not being nominated. It is by no means certain that Mr. Bennett could get the nomination even if he wanted it and it is by no means certain either that he wants it. It has been reported that he is going to the Senate where he would be independent of the votes of the people. Or he may run in one of the Ontario constituencies. But it is said that the Conservatives here will demand an accounting of his stewardship as member for Calgary before he sinks into the oblivion of the senate or into the remote fastnesses of an eastern riding.

If R. B. is not nominated, T. M. Tweedie or his partner, A. A. McGillivray, may be chosen.

Against the old line parties will be arraigned candidates of the Labor Representation league. Encouraged by the election of Alex Ross and by the support of the Non-Partisan league, the labor forces are preparing for a vigorous battle and they will make both the Liberals and Conservatives travel to get under the wire first.

COMMENT AND CRITICISM

The government stopped the gamblers last week when the bulls and bears got too strenuous in their wheat manipulations. If the government can do it once she can twice, and why not for all time?

* * * *

PROSPECTS FOR THIS YEAR'S CROP

The season has been one of ups and downs, so far, sunny days blasted by chilly winds and lowering clouds and much rain. At one time there seemed certain promise of good weather and a fair crop but this thought would soon be dispelled by winter conditions setting in. Still later hope revived again only to be withered by the fierce winds and the cold rains. But even these conditions have not entirely blasted the hope that fall crop will be all right. It is a serious question whether we shall have the bumper crop of last year. Some authorities predict we will while others say that it will fall away short. One thing is sure spring grain went in under fair conditions and despite spells of cold weather the farmers have a fair grip on an excellent seed bed. The reports say that cattle are in fair condition. There is a promise of an abundant yield of fruit from the western orchards. One thing is sure. If nature smiles on us from now on an average yield may be expected. So all is well in Alberta.

* * * *

GERMANY SHOULD EVER BE DESPISED

The report of the treatment of the Belgians by the Germans that continue to come in are so appaling that, if true, and one can hardly doubt the authenticity of the reports, then Germany has forfeited all rights ever again to be classed as a Christian nation, and should be treated as barbarians of the worst sort. How any nation could inflict the atrocities on another nation that was helpless and in its power that Germany has done on Belgium is beyond the comprehension of the people of this Christian age. Looking at it from any point of view the cold facts present themselves that Germany has shown that she is not only a demagog—but a barbarian of the lowest order. And the people of that origin—the good, honest workers of Canada and the United States—should eschew the name of their fatherland and cast it aside as they would a vicious viper. A nation to be ever hated and despised. Such has the Kaiser made of Germany.

* * * *

EDMONTON GETTING AHEAD OF CALGARY

Calgary will have to wake up and get busy or Edmonton will be getting all the civic honors before long. She is not only running a close second as to population but in many other ways the citizens are showing a more progressive spirit in various lines of endeavor. The latest achievement was the invitation to the members of the National Editorial association, which will convene in St. Paul in July and will afterwards visit Edmonton to the number of a thousand strong. This is one of the best advertisements any city could have because in bringing these newspaper men in personal contact with the city and impressing on them its greatness and future possibilities it is bound to have a far reaching and lasting effect. When these men go back to their work and the name of Edmonton is ever brought up, they will always write something of the town gathered from their personal experiences. It is the kind of advertising that pays and Calgary will do well to observe this fact. The board of trade should get busy and try and get similar organizations to come to Calgary.

* * * *

WHEN A MAN IS RIPE

We call this the age of young men. But this age is not peculiar in this respect. Every age has had its eminent young men. The world cannot overlook David, Napoleon, Byron. Nor can the world forget that brilliant careers have generally been brief. Meteoric flights are short-lived. They may for the moment cause the steady old-fixed stars to pale in comparison, but in the long run it is the fixed stars that give light to the benighted world. Kipling once said that no man is fit to write a novel until he is 40. Up to that time, he explained, a man's human sympathies are not sufficiently developed, his control of himself and his grasp of affairs are not sufficiently secure for him to comprehend and portray the deeper forces of life. Brilliant books come from men under 40. But the books that stay with us, as a perpetual source of inspiration and human sympathy, are, nine times out of ten, written by older men. A Pittsburg financier has just declared that of the 500 richest men in America, not 50 made their fortunes before 40. He said that there is an instinctive feeling among financiers that the young man, however brilliant his proposed scheme may be, is not to be implicitly trusted. His character is not fully made up. There may at any moment develop some fatal flaw. He is apt to fly to pieces. But the man who has steadily pursued paths of success until the 40th milestone has been passed has a firm footing. He is a ripe man. Of him are required no references. Statistics show that over 90 per cent. of American business men fail. Most of the failures are by young men. A little success has caused them to overestimate their powers. They grasp more than they can hold. This age is like all others. Young men make brilliant successes and monumental failures. But the men who really direct the destinies of the world are the careful-thinking, hard-working men who are ripe.

Alive :: Alert Up to the Minute

NEWS AND VIEWS ON SPORTS

Local .: Provincial World in General

Horse Races and Aeroplane Driving Features at Fair

Lovers of thrills should be well satisfied at this year's exhibition, for there will be demonstrations of the two most sensational pastimes—aviation and motoring. Lovers of horse flesh will also have a chance to see the popular and fast animals which have entered for the four days of horse racing—but the auto races will furnish a new thrill. In addition there will be a very complete list of attractions which will be presented every afternoon and evening, so that the combination is a most happy one and one in which Manager Richardson has shown rare care in selecting for the entertainment of the crowds which are assured for the big fair which opens next Thursday and continues for a week. There will also be the attractive displays which are made in the various buildings to entertain and instruct the patrons of the fair and everything will be arranged as conveniently as is possible.

There will be one spectacle presented at the exhibition each evening which will be particularly appropriate and effective. In "The Sons of the Empire" there is a patriotic call which will inspire a warmer feeling in the hearts of all true Canadians. It will link the past with the present, showing as it does the Indians as they were when the march of civilization rolled up to the doors of their tepees. The heralds of the new era were the members of the North West Mounted police and these two form the opening picture of the spectacle which will be carried out during the closing of the evening performance, when the gathering gloom will make the tableau effects all the more striking as special lighting arrangements have been effected to present the patriotic setting effectively. After the Indians and police are shown there is a change of scene and the picture is carried through to the present war.

In the background Britannia is seen coming up from the sea backed by her warships and calling upon the sons of old England, whose parents have settled in all parts of the world, to come to the assistance of the motherland.

How noble they have fought in France and Belgium you all know, and what they have done to uphold the traditions of the British empire will go down in the nation's honor roll from generation to generation.

Program

Opening scene—Indians surrounding campfires in front of their tepees.

1. Entry of state trumpeters; N. W. M. P.; the assembly.
2. Entry of generals and admirals.
3. Entry of detachments from India, Canada, South Africa, Ireland, Scotland, West Indies, Hong Kong, Straits Settlements, Australia, and Egypt.
4. Trooping the colors.
5. Entry of sailors, who also represent England, carrying the largest Union Jack ever shown in western Canada.
6. Unfurl the flag.
7. Rule Britannia.
8. Three cheers for the king.
9. March past of all detachments.

"God Save the King."

Calgary to Have Big Auto Races July 4th and 5th

First Time in the History of the Exhibition Races Will Be Held During the Meeting

For the first time in the sport history of Calgary a championship automobile race meet is to be held in this city. The International Motor Contest association annually awards championship events to different fairs and expositions, which have the best tracks and which can show the best facilities for conducting a race.

While it was generally known that the Calgary race track was among the best in the country, it remained for the International Motor Contest association to show by comparison that few other short distance tracks in America are better adapted for auto racing.

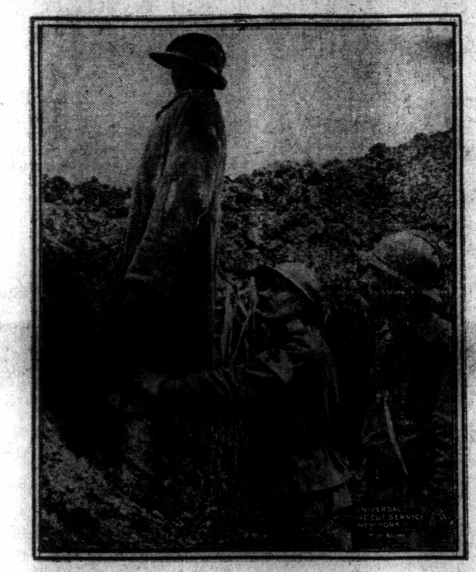
No race meet ever run on a dirt track oval will be more elaborately planned than the races here July 4th and 5th. Safety zones will be created to protect the thousands that will turn out to witness the event. All the latest preparations will be used in preparing the track, and an electrical automatical timing device will be used to catch the correct time, as the drivers are going to strive for new world records.

The fact that the speedways are afraid of war conditions has increased the interest in dirt track racing year. Over two million people paid to see the events hun to the dirt tracks in 1916, while less than 700,000 witnessed the races on the great speedways. Over fifty drivers have already applied for drivers' licenses to the Secretary I. S. Maham, of the I. M. C. A.

Fred Horey, champion dirt track driver of the world, who lowered seven world's marks last season is sure to participate in the Calgary meet as his entry is guaranteed by the International Motor Contest association, the controlling body which looks after practically all sanctioned dirt track races. He has never appeared on the local track, but will be on had early to work out his wonderful little Fiat racing car.

George "Texas" Clark, another driver, whose entry is assured, is easily the dean of American dirt track drivers since the retirement of Barney Oldfield. He has been piloting a car over the dangerous courses of America for the past ten years, and has won many great races. He has defeated such men as Oldfield, Endicott, Disbrow, Tetzlaff, Eddie Hearne, DePalma, the late Bob Burman and others. He will drive his famous Case car, which shattered three world's records last year.

WHAT'S A NECKTIE GOOD FOR?



Man's only nonutilitarian garment is the necktie. It's as useless as a monocle Yet we wear 'em. We'd feel awfully awkward walking down the street without one.

Once upon a time the necktie was used to fasten the collar on. But now it doesn't do that.

Man's necktie is the Indian's eagle feather, the cannibal's necklace of teeth, the mid-African's ivory earrings. It's his pride, on which he bestows much thought, great care. We wonder what would happen to the vanity of the human race, masculine half, in case of a necktie famine.

The brainy girl makes up her mind to succeed; the other sort makes up her face and gets there first.

FOOLING THE GERMAN SHARPSHOOTERS

While by no means a new one, nevertheless this trick of erecting a dummy pollu for the German sharpshooters to fire at is proving most effective along the western front these days. This photo was taken in that part of the Champagne section occupied by the Russians.

NATIONAL BASEBALL

NATIONAL

	W.	L.	Pct.
New York	32	17	.653
Philadelphia	31	19	.620
Chicago	32	27	.542
St. Louis	28	25	.529
Cincinnati	28	33	.459
Boston	20	27	.426
Brooklyn	19	28	.404
Pittsburg	18	32	.360

AMERICAN

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	36	19	.655
Boston	33	20	.623
New York	29	23	.558
Cleveland	28	29	.491
Detroit	24	37	.471
St. Louis	23	30	.434
Washington	20	33	.377
Philadelphia	18	30	.375

INTERNATIONAL

	W.	L.	Pct.
Newark	32	20	.615
Providence	32	22	.593
Toronto	31	23	.574
Baltimore	31	24	.564
Rochester	29	23	.558
Buffalo	31	35	.470
Montreal	19	32	.373
Richmond	20	36	.357

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

	W.	L.	Pct.
Indianapolis	37	23	.617
Columbus	34	26	.567
Louisville	32	28	.533
St. Paul	29	27	.518
Kansas City	26	28	.462
Minneapolis	25	32	.439
Toledo	25	33	.431
Milwaukee	24	33	.421

NORTHWESTERN

	W.	L.	Pct.
Tacoma	29	20	.592
Great Falls	28	20	.583
Seattle	30	24	.556
Vancouver	28	28	.500
Butte	20	30	.400
Spokane	22	35	.386

Should Keep Foot Off Clutch Pedal

Things Every Autoist Should Remember

Instructors seem unable to convince the average amateur driver of an automobile that he must keep his foot off the clutch pedal while driving, they do not seem to realize that even a slight touch of the foot on the pedal disengages the plates, and that serious trouble finally results from this.

When the clutch is even slightly disengaged, as by the pressure of a light touch of the toe on the clutch pedal, the plates do not set firmly together but rub, and the result is overheating and wearing of the parts. This wear does not occur with close contact, but when slightly pressed apart, the plates heat rapidly and finally burn out and cars are brought in because of clutch trouble, and, of course, the por manufacturer is blamed for having a clutch built of poor material or because it is improperly set. The real reason is thatthe driver keeps his foot constantly on the clutch, and unconsciously presses it out of engagement just enough to wear it out.

* * *

Remember that chains are needed in summer as well as in winter. A heavy rain will soon make the streets and roads dangerous. Some people only carry one chain on the right rear wheel, away from the crub. Two are better, both on the rear wheels, but it is best to use four and have one in reserve.

* * *

Every ignition wire should have a terminal soldered at each end. This insures a firm contact and prevents wires breaking off and so gradually shortening. If terminal breaks off be very careful in fastening wire, as a single strang of wire touching another metal part may ground the current, thus preventing ignition system from working, or even ruining the storage battery.

* * *

When coasting down a long hill change from one brake to the other to allow them to cool. Unfortunately this does not cool the brake drums. So use the motor as a brake and go down very steep hills against compression. Leave the gears in high speed, or, if you find that too fast, the second or first speed. Stop the ignition and it will cool your motor at the same time.

* * *

"Beginners in motoring will be very much the same in some ways when automobiles have been in use a hundred years as they were when automobiles were novelties," says Automobile Topics. "They will forget to put gasoline in their tanks. They will wear themselves out cranking the engine—or letting the starter do it—with the ignition switch turned off.

"They will burn up their engines by forgetting to put oil in the crank cases. In short, they will do all those funny picture stunts that are such a source of revenue to the repair man.

"So it is up to the dealer to pass out the same old warnings to his customers that he did in days of yore and to watch over their early toddling with the same fatherly solicitude.

* * *

"Remind them that there must be gasoline in the tank, oil in the crank case, water in the radiator, and air in the tires. If the fan belt is loose or the hose connection leaky or plugged up, there will be overheating. If there is loose wiring there will be an interruption in the flow of electricity and trouble in ignition or starting-lighting.

"If the storage battery is not filled with distilled water, it will deteriorate and either curtail its activities or, in an extreme case, cease them altogether. If valve stems and push rods are not oiled, they will squeak and wear.

"Ordinary grease cups are not automatic; they will not screw themselves down. Neither will the nuts on the spring bolts or the spring clips keep themselves tight without assitsance.

* * *

"The steering gear housing needs soft grease, the gear shifting mechanism under the floor and, the clutch and brake mechanism require oiling. Brakes must be adjusted, or trouble may follow on the first steep hill. Lubricant between the spring leaves really makes the car hide easier.

"The dealer can add to this list as much as he pleases or as much as the individual peculiarities of his car may demand, but he will do the best thing by himself and his owners by remembering that it is only the exceptional owner of his first car who learns from the experience of others."

NOT YET

"Does your daughter play the piano by ear?"

"No," replied Mr. Cumrox, "She uses both hands and feet. But I don't think she has learned to use her ears."

MOTOR LAW

Motorists rather than farmers will find satisfaction in a recent decision of Judge Hazzard, of New York. One Charles H. Parke, it seems, had a turkey which wandered across the the road in front of an automobile and met an untimely end. The driver of the car was haled before a justice of the peace, where a jury awarded Parke $5 for his turkey. On appeal, however, Judge Hazzard reversed the jury's verdict. Turkeys in the street, he ruled, are trespassers, and motorists may run them down and need not pay for them, even though they kill them intentionally. The judge said turkeys have no business in the road and that their rights, if they have any, must give way to those of the traveling public. Owners of fowls, he declared, are at fault if they let them run at large on the public highways.

* * *

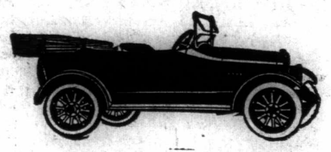
A Missouri motorist, seeking to hold a dealer liable for delay in supplying new automobile parts, failed in his attempt the other day. On ordering the parts, the purchaser was assured that the dealer carried a full line of them in stock and that the order would have "prompt attention." Later he was told that they would not be available for three weeks, since the factory could not supply them sooner. Because of the missing parts, the plaintiff claimed, several profitable chances to sell his car were lost, but the court gave him no consolation.

* * *

Fatal injuries sustained by a pedestrian who tries to pass between automobiles connected by a towline do not indicate negligence on the part of drivers or their employers if reasonable precautions are taken. This is the substance of a New York ruling in a case where, it was shown, the machines were about ten feet apart and that the driver keeps his foot constantinge out a warning, put on his brake and steered to one side in an effort to avoid hitting the victim.

Second thoughts may be best, but bigamy does not pay in the long run.

THE WELDER
At Your Service



City Welding and Repair Shop
All kinds of Metal Welded Strong as New 142 1st Av. E. (by the river)
Telephone Main 2240

Star Cycle & Motor Co.
Sole Agents for Perfect Bicycles, Star Bicycles and Indian Motorcycles
Auto Electrical Systems a Specialty
Complete Line of Accessories Always on Hand
Expert Repairing
Our Ten Years of Practical Experience, coupled with Our Many Satisfied Customers, is sufficient guarantee of what we can do for others.
A Trial Will Convince You.
224 Seventh Ave. E. Phone M3661

Siegel Garage Company
SUPPLIES AND ACCESSORIES, STORAGE AND REPAIRS
Phone Us When in Trouble
708 1st St. E. Phone M4050
129 3rd Ave. E. Phone M4206

Gillespie Tire & Vulcanizing Works
Geo. J. Gillespie, Proprietor
Auto Tires and Tubes Vulcanized. We Supply Any Make of Tires.
Our Repair Work is First Class and Done in the Most Modern Way.
We solicit your patronage and ask you to give us a trial.
209 Sixth Ave. West, Calgary

GRAY-DORT AUTOMOBILES

For beauty, easy riding qualities, strength and economy these cars cannot be excelled
"The Quality Goes Clear Through"
PRICE $995.00 at Calgary
SHOWROOMS: 235 8th Avenue West
Phone M5337

I'd Like to Talk This Over With You Personally

If I could have my say we would get together and do it. It is always a lot more satisfactory that way. But since we can't this is the next best way.

Suppose we consider the subject from your standpoint.

Let's say that you are in the market for a motor car and you are willing to pay $1,000 or $1,500 for the RIGHT KIND OF A CAR.

On the other hand, I am in the business of selling cars. Everybody knows me. For upwards of thirty years I have catered to the wishes of the public.

When I make a statement they know it is true because I never voluntarily told an untruth.

My private and personal opinion is that the Grant Six is a car of quality and ability and at the price cannot be excelled in all Canada.

The Grant Six has all the features of the better class of cars and many that the others do not have.

These cars are built right because this factory has established a reputation for quality rather than quantity.

The Grant Six is an economical car. It will use less oil and gasoline to the mile than any car of equal size and horse power sold today.

As to speed there is lots of spirit in the Grant Six—a lot of eagerness. You never have to wait after you have started the accelerator.

I could keep on all day telling you of the good points of the Grant Six but the best way is to let me show it to you, and see how it acts in operation.

Just drop in or phone and I will meet you.

I. G. RUTTLE MOTOR COMPANY GRANT-SIX

I. G. RUTTLE.
Sixth Avenue East Telephone M—

A NEW WAY TO SAVE

The Province of Alberta Offers to the Public

Province of Alberta Savings Certificates

In denominations of Ten Dollars, One Hundred Dollars, and One Thousand Dollars.

These Certificates will bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, compounded half-yearly.

Certificates are redeemable in three years, but may be cashed at any time on the demand of the holder.

ABSOLUTE SECURITY. QUICK CONVERTIBILITY

For full information write or apply to

W. V. NEWSON,
Deputy Provincial Treasurer,
Edmonton

KNIGHTS' BINDERY

605 CENTRE STREET, CALGARY
(Note the Address Carefully)
Phone M5226
W. G. KNIGHTS, Prop. and Manager

The above address is the location of Calgary's latest and most fully equipped BOOK BINDERY, PAPER RULING, and LOOSE LEAF establishment. The proprietor is a thoroughly practical man, with 35 years' experience in the bookbinding trade and its kindred branches. In addition to the manufacture of new goods this go-ahead Bindery will specialise in the REPAIRING and RE-BINDING of old books and dilapidated Loose Leaf Covers. An expert in repair work will be sent out to do repairing at any office where the book is of too much importance to allow it to be taken away. This information should be of great interest to bankers.

MUSIC BINDING will be another feature of our work. No matter how old or torn your music sheets may be, we can mend and bind them, and return to you a strong and respectable book. We have every facility and are fully prepared to make POSTAL TUBES in any quantity, any length or diameter. It will be to the financial advantage of any business house to give us the privilege of quoting on any special work—either new work or repair work—before placing their order elsewhere.

We cordially invite Out-of-Town Customers to allow us to submit our price for BLANK BOOKS and LOOSE LEAF BINDERS. SYNOPTIC SHEETS and Municipal Tax-Roll Sheets ruled to any specification. Loose Leaf Binders made to fit any sized sheet. Loose Leaf Indexes made upon short notice.

WE STAMP NAME OR INITIALS on Suitcases, Grips, Purses, etc., etc., in guaranteed 22 carat pure gold, at reasonable prices.

Give Us a Trial and We Will Give You Satisfaction

General Repair Works
P. C. HEAD, Prop.
230 SEVENTH AVE. EAST
(Opp. Post Office), CALGARY
WE REPAIR—Guns, Sewing Machines, Gramophones, Typewriters, Cash Registers, Musical Instruments, Slot Machines, Carpet Sweepers, Vacuum Cleaners, Wash Machines, etc.
Guns Repaired by an Expert Gunsmith
We Do Welding, Brazing, Soldering
We Specialize on Sewing Machines

DO YOU RIDE A WHEEL?
When Enamelled, "Baking Process". By the Premier Man
Looks Good as New
If you are thinking of making a purchase, or if you have an OLD WHEEL YOU WISH REBUILT, it will pay you to call and see US. This is our SPECIALTY, and we stand alone in this particular line.
OUR SYSTEM IS PERFECT AND MODERN, and in rebuilding your WHEEL, it is given a thorough overhauling, and the only difference in our REBUILT MACHINES AND THE NEW ONE, "IS THE PRICE."
PREMIER CYCLE WORKS
102 Seventh Ave. West Phone M1755
W. B. COMPTON, Prop.

WESTERN CARRIAGE WORKS
A. H. ADAMS, Manager
Auto and Carriage Top Builders and Upholsterers. Manufacture and Repair Side Curtains, "Jiffy" Curtains patent), Seat Covers, Top Envelopes, Radiator Covers, Woodwork. Top Accessories always in stock.
"Your Satisfaction is Our Success."
832 17th Avenue West Phone W4898

GEO. EDWARDS Spring Manufacturer
All Kinds of Carriage and Wagon Springs Made to Order.
Prices Moderate
A trial is solicited.
336 Sixth Avenue East, Calgary

FOWLER'S CIDERS
THEY'RE MIGHTY GOOD
13 DIFFERENT KINDS
BUY THEM BY THE GALLON FROM YOUR DEALER

CALGARY WELDING SHOP
Up-to-Date Steel Cutting Appliances
Steel Tanks Made to Order
All Metals Welded—Cast Iron, Steel, Aluminum and Brass Castings of All Kinds
We Specialize in Farm Machinery Repairs—Oxy-Acetylene Process
We Solicit Your Patronage
All Work Guaranteed
306 Third Avenue East, Calgary
Phone M4322

OXY-ACETYLENE WELDING
City Welding and Repair Shop (formerly Calgary Welding Co.)
143 First Ave. E., Calgary. Phone M2246
Broken articles made like new. Customers doing business with us, find that we give prompt and careful attention to all orders. We are efficient in this line, and guarantee to give satisfaction.

ALLFORD GARAGE
EVANS & LINDBERG, PROPS.
Ford Specialists
All Repair Work Guaranteed
All Makes and Grades of Second-Hand Cars for Sale
211 TENTH AVENUE WEST
Residence: Phone M4984
Garage: Phone M2548

WAR P

Lessons From

DURING the year 1916 C added more than two millions of dollars bank deposits. The per cap age in savings banks was during this period from $55
Our export trade, during ending September 1, 1916, rea grand total of one billion two millions of dollars.
total trade for the same perio
a gain of about 90 per cen that—within 10 per cent. of the total trade of the prev months.

The estimated value of cultural production of Canad ern provinces, during 1916, total of more than two hun thirty-one millions of dolla great wealth was created b population of only slightly three-quarters of a million

These figures indicate prosperity in Canada. They story of prosperity in a war that is almost unbeliev the outside world. Resident United States who come int express amazement at the prosperity to be found hand. The crowds to be see theaters and places of am and indulgence in practical large city indicate that our have plenty of money to spe manner in which the war lo been over-subscribed may as another indication of the war prosperity in Canada to

But what of the period war? Will this prosperity li Canada at the close of the able to maintain the big ba trade in her favor which is ing piled up at the rate of billion dollars per year?
demand for munitions cease be able to transfer all these to normal trade conditions hold this war-time prosperit

Accepting the possibility war will continue for anot or more, it is time we were some plan to care for these war conditions. But to pla enough. We must act.
ada faces a serious situatio approaching ante-war perio dicted in the history of the in the United States, whe tions in the northern stat quite similar in many re those which now prevail in

From 1862 on to the clos war, the northern states prosperity on every hand.
ing parties from the Co army breaking through into vania carried back to the ha south stories that northern were going ahead as if the was running upon a well-peace schedule, instead of gaged in a momentous civil Chicago Tribune near the cl war said, "Commerce, busin factures and labor are goi as in a profound peace, s more impetus and whirlwin than peace ever knew.
York Economist, however, out that much of the appa perity was fictitious. It dec the labor people were suff cause of war conditions, wages had increased only per cent., while the cost of more than doubled. Prof and P. Falkner, a recognize cal authority of that day, two important conclusions careful study of civil war
"During the war period the wages was not commensu
the advance in prices."
Nelson W. Aldrich, the gre ist of the United States s viewed the apparent pros ing and after the Civil w following: "Money wages with unmistakable slowne inflating influence of the
In 1865, when prices stood compared with 100 in 186 had only touched 143."

We find also that the d labor was the greatest in of the States, up to that p extensive recruiting from and farming districts, and ordinary demands of the plants, brought a shortag everywhere. During the years of the Civil war ma farms in the central west remained idle because it w sible to secure help. Fro 1865 immigration from Eur
United States increased a

Farm

(ALBE

Loans to Farmer obtained
Mortgage Interest R

Repayment ma ments of Full paym at any t bonus.

For further information
W

Local .: Provincial
World in General

I'd Like to Talk
This Over
With You
Personally

...e would get together and do it.
...actory that way. But since we
...y.
...subject from your standpoint.
...the market for a motor car and
...or $1,500 for the RIGHT KIND

... in the business of selling cars.
...upwards of thirty years I have ...public.
...t they know it is true because
...ntruth.
... opinion is that the Grant Six
... and at the price cannot be ex-

...e features of the better class of
...s do not have.
... because this factory has estab-
...y rather than quantity.
...nomical car. It will use less oil
... any car of equal size and horse

...of spirit in the Grant Six—a lot
...e to wait after you have started

...elling you of the good points of
...ay is to let me show it to you,
...ion.
...d I will meet you.

GRANT-SIX

I. G. RUTTLE.
Telephone M—

AY TO SAVE

...erta Offers to the Public

of Alberta
Certificates

...en Dollars, One Hundred ... Thousand Dollars.

...ear interest at the rate of 5
... compounded half-yearly.

...n three years, but may be cashed
... demand of the holder.

QUICK CONVERTIBILITY

...on write or apply to

...V. NEWSON,
Deputy Provincial Treasurer,
Edmonton

BINDERY

...STREET, CALGARY
...ddress Carefully)
...ne M5226
...S, Prop. and Manager

...e location of Calgary's latest and
BINDERY, PAPER RULING,
...ment. The proprietor is a thor-
...35 years' experience in the book-
...ed branches. In addition to the
...this go-ahead Bindery will spe-
...and RE-BINDING of old books
...overs. An expert in repair work ...ing at any office where the book
... allow it to be taken away. This
...reat interest to bankers.
...be another feature of our work.
...our music sheets may be, we can ...turn to you a strong and respect-
...facility and are fully prepared to ...ny quantity, any length or diam-
...ncial advantage of any business
...e of quoting on any special work
... work—before placing their order

...Town Customers to allow us to submit
...d LOOSE LEAF BINDERS. SYNOP-
...-Roll Sheets ruled to any specification.
... any sized sheet. Loose Leaf Indexes

...NITIALS on Suitcases, Grips, Purses,
...t pure gold, at reasonable prices.
...e Will Give You Satisfaction

WAR PROSPERITY

Lessons From The American Civil War

DURING the year 1916 Canadians added more than two hundred millions of dollars to their bank deposits. The per capita average in savings banks was increased during this period from $55 to $92.25. Our export trade, during the year ending September 1, 1916, reached the grand total of one billion and fifty-two millions of dollars. Canada's total trade for the same period showed a gain of about 90 per cent.—mark that—within 10 per cent. of doubling the total trade of the previous 12 months.

The estimated value of the agricultural production of Canada's western provinces, during 1916, reached a total of more than two hundred and thirty-one millions of dollars. This great wealth was created by a rural population of only slightly more than three-quarters of a million people.

These figures indicate wonderful prosperity in Canada. They tell a story of prosperity in a nation at war that is almost unbelievable to the outside world. Residents of the United States who come into Canada express amazement at the signs of prosperity to be found on every hand. The crowds to be seen at the theaters and places of amusement and indulgence in practically every large city indicate that our people have plenty of money to spend. The manner in which the war loans have been over-subscribed may be taken as another indication of the flood of war prosperity in Canada today.

But what of the period after the war? Will this prosperity live? Will Canada at the close of the war be able to maintain the big balance of trade in her favor which is now being piled up at the rate of half a billion dollars per year? When the demand for munitions cease will we be able to transfer all these factories to normal trade conditions and still hold this war-time prosperity?

Accepting the possibility that the war will continue for another year or more, it is time we were evolving some plan to care for these after the war conditions. But to plan is not enough. We must act. That Canada faces a serious situation in this approaching ante-war period is predicted in the history of the Civil war in the United States, where conditions in the northern states were quite similar in many respects to those which now prevail in Canada.

From 1862 on to the close of the war, the northern states showed prosperity on every hand. The raiding parties from the Confederate army breaking through into Pennsylvania carried back to the half-starved south stories that northern industries were going ahead as if the nation was running upon a well-organized peace schedule, instead of being engaged in a momentous civil war. The Chicago Tribune near the close of the war said, "Commerce, business, manufactures and labor are going ahead as in a profound peace, save with more impetus and whirlwind activity than peace ever knew. The New York Economist, however, pointed out that much of the apparent prosperity was fictitious. It declared that the labor people were suffering because of war conditions, because wages had increased only about 12 per cent., while the cost of living had more than doubled. Professor Roland P. Falkner, a recognized statistical authority of that day, presented two important conclusions after a careful study of civil war condition: "During the war period the dvance in wages was not commensurate with the advance in prices." The late Nelson W. Aldrich, the great economist of the United States senate, reviewed the apparent prosperity during and after the Civil war in the following: "Money wages responded with unmistakable slowness to the inflating influence of the Civil war. In 1865, when prices stood at 217 as compared with 100 in 1860, wages had only touched 143."

We find also that the demand for labor was the greatest in the history of the States, up to that period. The extensive recruiting from the farms and farming districts, and the extraordinary demands of the munition plants, brought a shortage of labor everywhere. During the last two years of the Civil war many of the farms in the central western states remained idle because it was impossible to secure held. From 1863 to 1865 immigration from Europe to the United States increased at a rapid rate, yet the demand for laborers was so great that congress saw fit to enact laws to still further increase this immigration.

According to Rhodes' "History of the United States," it was tradition in skilled labor circles that times were hard just before the war and began to be good during the Civil war. According to this authority the wage-earning mechanics bought lots and saved money during the war period, while the clerks, teachers and others on a salary basis suffered.

At the close of the war there was a rapid spread of enthusiasm for a continuation of the so-called prosperity. New enterprises were launched on every hand; speculation was rife. The returning soldier farmers migrated in large parties to fertile valleys tributary to the Mississippi. This broadening of the agricultural situation brought a demand for more rail mileage and something more than 15,000 miles were constructed in the west from 1865 to 1873. This work brought employment to thousands. The first annual report of the commissioner of labor published in 1886, reviews this construction period, as follows:

"The stimulation to all industries resulting from the war, the speculative enterprises undertaken, the extension of credits, and the slackening of production necessarily caused a reaction; but the period was hardly spoken of by business men as one of any particular hardship. People for a while began to be conservative, but the impetus engendered by the war could not be overcome and it was not until the crash of 1873 that the effects of undue excitement in all branches of business and trade were thoroughly realized."

Comparing these Civil war conditions with those prevailing in Canada, we see many danger signals. The most important of these is the necessity for reorganizing production upon a sound and economic basis after our great munition plants have fulfilled their function, and for increasing our agricultural production.

We take pride in the large agricultural production in Canada, yet it is startling the great quantities of farm products we purchase every year from the United States. The imports for 1913 shows that we bought 6,000,000 dozen more eggs than we sold the Americans, and that we consumed a quarter of a million pounds of butter made across the line and sold them practically nothing. We purchased 300,000 pounds more cheese from our neighbors to the south than we sold them, and we paid $100,000 in duty upon $1,000,000 worth of tomatoes grown in the States. We even bought 500,000 bushels of potatoes more than we sold.

Canada ought to produce all this farm produce within her own borders and have a balance for sale in the world markets.

It is estimated that some 200,000 workers are now employed upon munitions, and that 75 per cent. of this number will require different employment after the war. We will have some 200,000 soldiers returning to our shores after the war, of which number, it is estimated, we will be called upon to find employment for fully 150,000. In addition, there will be, quite probably, a flood of immigration to add to the labor market.

A practical scheme for reorganizing our manufacturing production should embrace a plan to induce American manufacturers to build branch plants in Canada. We must make a study of the market possibilities which our manufacturers will have at home and among the entente nations after the war.

These After-the-War problems are worthy of the best efforts of our greatest statesmen and thinkers. Canada has won nationhood through her part in the great war on behalf of the empire. She holds an opportunity to develop into a world power if she builds her future upon the proper economic foundation. But we must act quickly and intelligently if we are to make the most of these big opportunities.

WANTED THE JOB

"What line did you say you were in?"

"I manufacture a face powder that can't be kissed off."

"Who has charge of your proving grounds?"

Farm Loans

(ALBERTA FARM LOANS ACT)

Loans to Farmers, Ranchers and Dairymen may be obtained for a period of 30 years on firs. Mortgage Security.

Interest Rates at Actual Cost.

Repayment may be made by equal annual installments of Principal and Interest.

Full payment accepted at end of 5th year or at any time thereafter without notice or bonus.

For further information address:

W. V. NEWSON,
Deputy Provincial Treasurer,
Edmonton, Alberta.

BATTLESHIP "RECRUIT"

Inset—J. P. Morgan's son, now chief gunner on U-boat chaser. As a recruiting station a model battleship 250 feet long has been built in Union Square Par, New York City. This will house a crew of sailors and a squad of marines, performing nearly the same duties as when on sea service.

THE RAID

"The Raid" was written by Patrick McGill, Irish soldier and writer, in the New York Sun. Mr. McGill's thrilling narrative of life in the trenches and on the battlefield, entitled "The Great Push," in which he told of his own experiences as a stretcher bearer, previously had attracted wide attention.

The night was bitterly cold and a wind, keen as a knife, sweeping across the snow clad levels of No Man's Land, bit the ears of the sentries standing on the firesteps of the British trench. Now and again a man would bend down, shelter his face behind a parapet and look at his luminous wrist watch; then he would stand erect again and resume his vigil.

In one of the dugouts a dozen men or more were busy, fastening bombs to their equipment and buckling iron rations to their belts. They were making ready for a raid, one of those "shows" in which the British soldiers delight and which keep the Germans constantly apprehensive and jumpy. The attack for which the men were preparing had a definite purpose. A machine gun had been worrying the sector for days, and ration parties crossing the open at night had paid toll to the vicious weapon. Its exact location could not be determined, but somewhere out there in the confines of he tenemy lines it lurked and though the English guns pounded at the German trenches they did not silence it.

At midnight, after a comfortable allowance of hum had been served round, the raiders crossed the parapet and made their way over No Man's Land. The snow, frozen hard, lay on the ground and filled up the shell holes. The advance was made silently at a slow, steady pace, a yard interval between each man and his neighbor. The men's sheepskin coats blended with the snow, and at a short distance off the raiders were invisible to an onlooker.

A Hail of Bullets Overhead

They had just got half way across when the machine gun, which had been silent for a good two hours, suddenly woke up and a hail of bullets flew over the raiders' heads. The men dropped flat on the snow and lay there, their rifles stretched out in front, the bayonets showing like black straight lines against the whiteness.

An order came from the officer on the right. "Advance!"

The machine gun was merely searching for ration parties; its objective was the road immediately behind the British front trench. The raiders were safe as yet. They went forward for a dozen yards, then threw themselves flat again. A star shell had risen from the enemy trench, lighting up the whole vicinity. The men, lying down, peered intensely ahead, their eyes dazzled by the star shell's reflection in the snow. A million sparks fell earthward and the flare died down. The men continued their advance.

They reached the rim of the trench; no wire entanglements obstructed their way, the British gunners had seen to that. The men looked in, down on the occupants. Here stood a sentry half asleep. He looked up, grabbed his rifle, then dropped it and flung up his hands. "Kamerad!" he whined. On his right a mate made fight, a rifle shot rang out; then somebody uttered a piercing yell.

A raid depends for success on its suddenness and swift accomplishment. Of these qualities British soldiers are masters. They set about their labor with zest: "got down to it," as the phrase has it.

Raiding Party in the Trench

One squad jumped into the trench and moved toward the right, a bayonet man leading and a number of bombers following. Another squad went toward the left. A third party spread out behind the trench on the lookout for the machine gun emplacement. The clearing of the trench was done rapidly; the enemy was too surprised at the sudden onslaught to offer a great resistance.

The bombers took posesssion of the bay, then flung a bomb into the next. The bayonet man was round the corner immediately after the explosion and dealt with the survivors. A halt was called at each dugout. "Come out and give yourselves up," the British soldiers cried and waited until the Germans surrendered. If fight was shown a bomb was flung into the dugout. And so the great game of life and death went madly on.

The young officer who led the party across walked along the parapet, a revolver in his hand, directing the attackers. He was in his element. Indifferent to danger, he took part in the episode with a certain air of detachment which seemed to put youngster, brave and daring, eager to take any risk and unwilling to allow his men to take part in any hazardous enterprise to which he was not an active party. His men loved him.

"Look in that dugout," he shouted down to the attackers as they waited impatiently for the Germans who occupied a shelter to make their way out into the trench. "Every scrap of paper you can find bring along with you."

A House Below Ground

The next bay held a still more pretentious dugout, one with a roof flush with the floor of the trench and stairs leading down into remote apartments.

"This is interesting," cried the young officer springing into the bay. "I must see what is hidden here."

The officer reached out his hand for a bomb. One of his men gave him one. He pulled the pin and flung it down. A second bomb followed and a third.

"If I'm not back in three minutes clear off out of it," he said to a sergeant who was standing at the entrance.

At the end of two minutes he returned, holding his revolver in one hand, a bunch of papers in the other.

As he reached the trench a bomb burst somewhere behind the parados, then another. There was the sound of a scuffle and the report of rifles.

A soldier appeared on the rim of the trench.

"It's that machine gun," he said. "We found it and 'twasn't an easy job. Stuck on a moving platform, it was one that could come up and go down. We put it down for good with a bomb. We just saw it and plunk! The two gunners were damned quiet; they must have seen us, but they didn't say a word until we got on top of them. They're out of the doin's now anyhow."

"Splendid," said the young officer. "Now, sergeant, we'll get all together, prisoners and men, and get back to our own lines."

The soldiers climbed hastily over the parados. Now that the raid was at an end they were in a hurry to get back.

All in the Day's Work

"Prisiners in front," the young officer ordered; "make haste there on the right. We'll have all sorts of things flung at us if we don't get back at once. What's that?"

A rifle shot followed by a scream was heard on the right; then the sergeant made his appearance.

"Who fired that rifle?" asked the officer.

"One of our men, sir," said the sergeant. "A German tried to scoot back. 'Twas the only thing to do."

They made their way back, arriving at the home trench at 1 o'clock in the morning. Thirty-five prisoners were taken, the papers captured by the young officer were found to be important, and the machine gun emplacement was destroyed.

Raids such as this occur nightly but are seldom mentioned in official communiques. Such incidents occur when there is nothing else doing, when there is nothing to write home about or when, as the trenchant official announcement has it, "there is nothing to report."

Inventions New and Neat

Marvellous Conceits Are Registered in the Patent Office

"Wilder than the dreams of Edison," says Homer Croy, "are the actualities presented at the Washington patent office for registration, and to them are granted papers protecting them from imitators—on inventions and appliances that one wonders who could be so mad as to wish to imitate."

It will suffice to "dash off" a few of the marvellous inventions which Mr. Croy has seen and recorded in the Scientific American. Among labor saving devices, to begin with, might be mentioned the hat tipper. This was designed, evidently, for the laziest man in the world. Its operation does not require the user to remove his hands from his pockets upon meeting a friend of the gentler sex. A simple, graceful inclination of the head operates a small spring and governor combination, artfully concealed inside the hat, which raises the hat a little and softly replaces it; an extra motion of the head will even rotate the hat, a la Chaplin, to lend a finishing touch to the salutation.

Among other unique conceits may be mentioned: A tornado proof house constructed on a pivot—the tornado rotates the house, like a merry-go-round; an arrangement like a horse's bit which prevents snoring; an adaptation of the useful corncob as a polisher for artificial teeth; a neat, bifurcated rubber tube which, concealed beneath the clothing, enables the pedestrian to breathe upon his toes in winter time and warm them; an arrangement above a door which throws red pepper in the eyes of anyone attempting to break in.

There are numerous inventions designed to annoy the heavy sleeper. Most of these are devices attached to alarm clocks. One rouses the victim by volently shaking his arm. Another releases a slat in the bed and throws the sleper on the floor. Another is intended for use by the attendant in a garage; a wire or string attached to the legs of a specially constructed bed passes out through the garage wall and across the entrance way for motor cars. The obvious operation is said to be instantaneous and very effective.

For those who keep barn yard fowl two inventions will be of interest. One is a pair of spectacles to prevent the hen's eyes from being scratched out; the other is an eye shield and prevents chickens from flying over the fence.

Last, but not least, may be mentioned a neat little conceit on the order of the vanity box suspended on a chain from the wearer's neck. Jewellers will find this a very snappy little innovation. It is designed as a receptacle for chewing gum. For this purpose, however, it is to be doubted whether anything so snobbish will ever replace the old familiar chair bottom.

NEW THINGS SCIENCE HAS FOUND

Electric bulbs lighted from a dry battery, form animals' heads on a recently patented muff for women.

Cuban deposits are estimated to contain all the way from 2,000,000,000 to 3,000,000,000 tons of iron ore.

A Michigan inventor has patented a crane to be attached to any wagon to enable one man to pick up a can of ashes or garbage along a curb and empty it into the wagon.

Douglas fir from the United States has been recommended for reforesting western Norway by an expert from that country who has been studying American and Canadian trees for more than a year.

Some Vienna theaters do without ushers by mounting electric lights in such positions that they illuminate the number on seats as long as the latter are unoccupied.

A frame that will hold a heavy can of oil and permit it to be tipped for pouring has been invented to prevent waste.

English manufacturers have developed a steel for cutlery that is said to be non-rusting, unstainable and untarnishable.

An instrument has been invented to permit draftsmen to draw perfect ovals and to draw two or more of the same dimensions.

Apparatus for winding clocks with air pressure obtained when doors are opened and closed has been invented by a Frenchman.

There are believed to be more hunchbacks in Spain than in any other country.

Injections of turpentine can be successfully used to preserve wood from insects.

Will YOU Give 3-⅓ Cents a Day to Keep

A Child From Starving?

If you will, read this appeal carefully then decide what share you will take in helping avert the greatest tragedy of all time.

1,250,000 CHILDREN ARE FACING SLOW STARVATION IN BELGIUM TODAY.

The Belgian Relief Commission has not the means to supply these growing children with the food that is necessary. THE SITUATION IS SERIOUS. This great relief fund has largely been administered through Americans; the break between the States and Germany has brought about a crisis; there is more need of funds now than at any previous time.

THE GREAT RELIEF WORK MUST AND WILL GO ON. WE MUST DO OUR SHARE.

At the present time the growing child in Belgium receives only a "hunk of bread and a bowl of soup" each day. It is not enough; they must have more—or starve.

For 3 1-3 cents a day the Relief Commission can supply one child with an extra "meal" of a biscuit made with fat or lard and a cup of cocoa, not much, but it is the difference between life and death, between health and disease, for the children of heroic Belgium.

ALBERTA HAS BEEN BLESSED WITH TWO RECORD-BREAKING CROPS.

We are prosperous—the future looks bright—we are in a position to help. How many starving children can you look after? How many will we look after?

HOW MANY WILL YOU FEED?

$12.00 a year, the price the Alberta farmer received for eight bushels of his wheat, will give this extra "meal" to one child for a whole year. 10c a day or $36.00 a year will keep three children from starvation. $60.00 a year will feed five; $120.00 a year will feed 10.

WERE YOU EVER HUNGRY?

Can you picture starvation, the pinched faces, the piteous cries?

IF THE CHILDREN WERE STARVING IN ALBERTA you would help—

YOU WILL HELP IN THIS CASE

You can't pass by the children's cry for food from starving Belgium!

AND YOU MUST ACT NOW

The thought that you are feeding some of these unfortunates each day will bring you happiness. Think of the eager little hands reaching for the meal you supply.

Your own meals will taste sweeter when you do your share. The paper in which you are reading this is doing its share by publishing this appeal without charge—WHAT WILL YOU DO?

You may send contributions by the week, month, or in one lump sum. You are ASSURED that your money is used for the purpose it is sent.

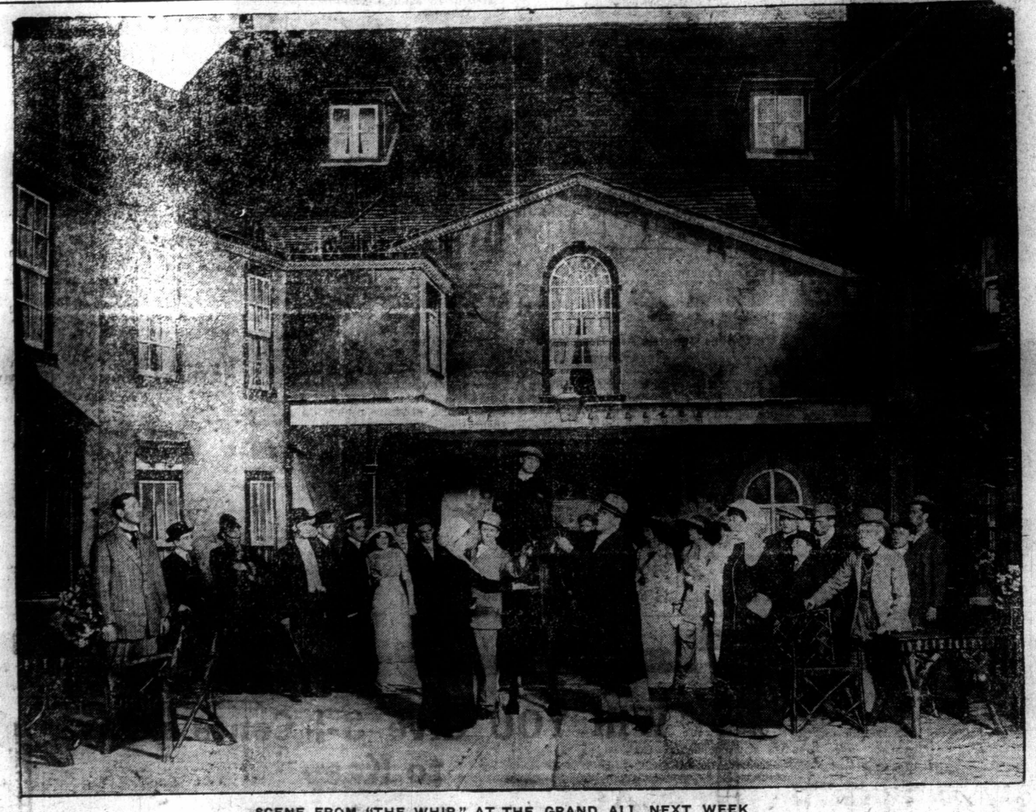
THERE ARE HUNGRY CHILDREN AWAITING YOUR DECISION. HOW MANY WILL YOU FEED?



Send cheques payable to—

Belgian Relief Fund

FOR SOUTHERN ALBERTA,

and address them to J. H. Woods, Hon. Secretary-Treasurer, Southern Alberta Committee, Herald Building, Calgary.

THEATRES | WHERE TO GO | PICTURE PLAYS | WHAT TO SEE | VAUDEVILLE

SCENE FROM "THE WHIP," AT THE GRAND ALL NEXT WEEK

Blanche Sweet in a Social Drama Coming Soon

Blanche Sweet will be seen at the Allen soon in the Jesse L. Lasky production, "The Silent Partner," a thrilling drama of business and social life, by Edmund Goulding, prepared for the screen by George Dubois Proctor.

In "The Tides of Barnegat," Miss Sweet was seen as a school teacher in a small Jersey town. In her latest success she is discovered as the secretary of a busy New York stock broker. How she discovers her employer is being robbed by his partner, how she aids in dissolving the partnership and how, eventually, although discharged, saves her employer's fortune and good name, is presented in a most unusual and startling manner.

Scene follows scene in quick succession, and as the head of the firm is about to be pitched into a most impossible tangle, his private secretary deftly intrudes herself and rescues him from the grasp of ruin.

One of the most unusual characters in this photodrama is the office boy. His reputation as a practical joker having become so well known among business men in Los Angeles that he could not secure a position, he makes his living playing office boy for motion picture companies. It is said he has been discharged more times than any other living office boy. No sooner is he comfortably initiated into a new position than he springs some practical joke on the head of the firm, and is promptly "bounced." His innocent expression won him job after job, but even that fails now, as his cherubic face and auburn hair are well known in Los Angeles business circles.

"The Silent Partner" was produced for the Lasky company under the able direction of Marshall Neilan, and the excellent cast supporting Miss Sweet is composed of such prominent artists as Thomas Meighan, Ernest Joy, Mabel Van Buren, George Herbert and Florence Smythe.

"The Mimic World" at Pantages Next Week

"The Mimic World," the greatest vaudeville creation that ever played popular priced houses, a one-hour musical comedy, with a company of 30 people, will be the headline attraction the coming week at the Pantages theater. This is the act which has been breaking records everywhere it has appeared in New York city, and is expected to create a sensation in Calgary. It is a play of youth, of life, of happiness and mirth, filled with everything that goes to make the stage worth while. It has a "chicken chorus" of 22, a score of the prettiest, cutest little kiddies ever seen on any stage, all young, fresh and unspoiled by stage life. There are only three men in the act, all the rest, visions of lovely femininity, "the pick of America's garden of loveliness," to borrow a phrase from the enthusiastic press agent.

The show has a number of stars, all of whom will offer impressions of famous stars of the stage. Among the stars will be the clever little girls, Helen and Olo Hudson, making their last tour in this vaudeville production, previous to entering into a contract with one of the biggest producers of musical comedies in the country, for next season, when they will be starred on Broadway. The contribution of the Hudson sisters will include impressions of the great dancers, Nijinski and Lopokova, in a song hit of their show, "The Bridal Night," and other bits. In the cast also is Felix, formerly of Felix and Claire, a remarkably versatile little chap who features wonderful eccentric dancing. He is also a good singer, a comedian and impersonator of such stars as Geo. M. Cohan, Fred Stone in his celebrated cowboy dance and rope spinning, and other stars. Other stars include Sylvia Winkle, a little Danish girl, impersonating the great Pavlowa; Mae and Margaret Rogers, impersonating the Courtney sisters, Margaret Smith and Lillian McGuire, impersonating Tempest and Sunshine and Chip and Marble, and others.

"Gentle Intruder" at the Allen Mon.-Tues.

Mary Miles Minter, the dainty young screen favorite, will be seen in her latest picture, "The Gentle Intruder," at the Allen Monday and Tuesday.

Probably there is not a more popular young star appearing in motion pictures today than this beautiful little Mary, her recent triumph, "Environment," which she last appeared in at the Allen, established herself as one of the most versatile and talented screen stars for her age.

"The Gentle Intruder" presents her in a role entirely different to anything she has yet offered to her host of admirers, and surpasses any work that Miss Minter has yet done; this alone is sufficient guarantee that this new Mary Miles Minter production is one of the highest order, and she will no doubt double her popularity.

The settings are most novel and unique, with a supporting cast of excellent photoplay stars.

In connection with the above attraction a new comedy will also be shown, with special music by the Allen Paramount concert orchestra, under the direction of H. G. Copley.

"The Whip" at the Grand Next Week

"The Whip" was originally produced in the famous Drury Lane theater in London and it made the most sensational success ever recorded in that home of sensational successes. For over two years the throngs surged into the theater day in and day out to see this wonderful production. Then "The Whip" was brought to this country by Wm. A. Brady and produced in the Manhattan opera house and there it repeated its tremendous English success. Later "The Whip" was presented in Australia and ran for two years there and it was then translated into foreign languages and presented with equal success on the continent.

There are many reasons for the wonderful success of this play—reasons that make it even more successful as a motion picture. For instance: It is modern, it is about people of today; it has mammoth scenes, the biggest ever seen in motion pictures; i tis smart, its people are well dressed; it has a thrilling, intense story; it is consistent; it has scores of "punches" and it tells a love story and a story of villainy that cannot fail to grip and hold the attention of every spectator.

It is a real treat that is in store for everyone who can see "The Whip." It will be a treat to see the tremendous scenic effects, the gorgeous gowns, the wonderful interior views and to see and enter into the enthralling and thrilling story revolving around "The Whip," the famous racehorse, whose success in a great race means so much to so many people.

"The Whip" will play a week's engagement at the Grand, commencing next Monday, with two performances daily, at 2:30 and 8:30.

Fannie Ward at the Allen Wed.-Thurs.

Fannie Ward, the brilliant Lasky-Paramount star, who with each appearance on the screen adds fresh thousnds to her host of admirers, will be seen at the Allen next Wednesday and Thursday in "Unconquered," a thrilling drama of modern society life written especially for her by Beatrice C. De Mille and Leighton Osmun.

In her recent production, "The School for Husbands," Miss Ward is seen as a young wife who teaches her rather wayward husband that his attention and interest should be centered in his home. In "Unconquered" she is seen as the wife of a relentless millionaire who devotes all her time to her little son, Billy.

How the husband becomes infatuated with another woman and tricks the wife into a compromising situation, secures a divorce and the child, and how the child is finally won back by the mother's offering to sacrifice her own life to a half-crazed negro is presented in a most graphic and unusual manner.

As the young wife of the millionaire, Miss Ward has an opportunity to display many of the most beautiful gowns from her wonderful wardrobe.

Many of the scenes of the production are laid in a fashionable house in the wealthy districts of Florida and the photodrama is filled with beautiful exterior scenes.

The cast supporting Miss Ward is one of unusual excellence, including such prominent artists as Jack Dean, Hobart Bosworth, Tully Marshall, Mabel Van Buren and Little Billy Jacobs.

Hobart Bosworth as the husband, infatuated with another womn, a role splendidly played by Mabel Van Buren, gives one of his customary finished performances. Tully Marshall, who will be remembered for his successful performance in many Lasky productions, gives an unusual characterization of Jake, the half-crazed negro whose heart is filled with fear of the Voodoo woman. Little Billy Jacobs plays the role of the little son in his usual clever manner.

The production was made for the Lasky Paramount under the direction of Frank Feicher.

In connection with the above attraction will also be shown a new Christie comedy which rounds out a bill par excellence.

At the Allen, Wednesday-Thursday

"Intolerance" at the Grand Fair Week

"Intolerance," D. W. Griffith's latest masterpiece, will be the attraction at the Grand for fair week with matinees every day during the engagement.

Never within the memory of theatergoers has anything approaching the splendor and magnificence of this attraction been presented on the American stage. Nothing short of a master mind could conceive the story and produce it as Griffith has done. Those who have been of the opinion that Griffith had reached the limit in his production of "The Birth of a Nation," simply gasp at the magnitude and splendor of "Intolerance." As one New York critic said: "'The Birth of a Nation' is to 'Intolerance' what the old one-reeler is to the feature of today."

The musical score is interpreted by a large symphony orchestra carried by the company and many realistic effects add greatly to the enjoyment of the attraction.

Matinees start at 2:30 sharp and evenings at 8:30 sharp. Patrons are earnestly requested to buy their seats early and so avoid standing in line and possibly missing the impressive opening scenes.

"Highway of Hope" at the Allen Fri.-Sat.

The clever Morosco stars, Kathlyn Williams and House Peters, will be seen at the Allen next Friday and Saturday in a picturization of Willard Mack's thrilling story, "The Highway of Hope," which was especially prepared for the screen by Harvey Gates.

Kathlyn Williams firmly established herself as one of the leading emotional actresses of the screen by her wonderful performance in "Out of the Wreck" and also in "The Cost of Hatred." These successes placed her in a niche all her own, and with House Peters, an alliance most pleasing to Paramount patrons has been formed.

Kathlyn Williams as Lonely Lou the drudge of a mining town, later transformed into a wealthy mine owner, presents a remarkable characterization. In her first appearance on the screen in this production she is seen industriously scrubbing a flight of steps with soap and water. Later, when she has made her fortune, she has a splendid opportunity to display a number of beautiful gowns.

The scenes of "The Highway of Hope" are laid either in the desert towns and the Morosco company was fortunate enough to find, for use in the picture, one of the famous abandoned mining towns in Death Valley. This town, in the early days of the gold rush, was the home off four or five thousand industrious souls. Men lived, fought and died in its streets and in its gambling dens.

The rush for gold swept on and gradually the citizens rushed away until now there is nothing left but row after row of abandoned buildings which in the dry desert air are in a remarkable state of preservation, and which are occupied but occasionally by some "desert rat," who, with his pack burros, pauses over night in his journey across the valley to hunt gold hidden in the distant Panamint mountains. The subsequent scenes of the active mining town were taken on the other side of the range to which the occupants of the first village fled.

ALLEN

Photo Plays of Destinction

Last Times To day

GEORGE BEBAN

In his latest Italian characterization

A Morosco-Paramount Attraction

Current Edition War Graphic

"The Marcellini Millions"

MONDAY AND TUESDAY

MARY MILES MINTER

A charming picture, presenting lovely "Little Mary" in a role that outshines any of her many photodramatic successes

"The Gentle Intruder"

A Delightful Story Told in a Different Manner

AND OTHER ATTRACTIONS

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY

JESSE L. LASKY PRESENTS

FANNIE WARD

The Celebrated Star of Many Screen Triumphs

IN

"Unconquered"

A Powerful Drama with Mother-Love as the Theme, and an All-star Cast, including Hobart Bosworth, Tully Marshall, Mabel Van Buren, Little Billy Jacobs, and Jack Dean

AND NEW CHRISTIE COMEDY

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Special Week-end Attraction

Kathlyn Williams and House Peters

The Popular Stellar Combination of the Screen

—IN—

A Startling and Unusual Western

"THE HIGHWAY" OF HOPE

Drama Replete with Action from Start to Finish

Coming—July 2nd

BLANCHE SWEET, IN "THE SILENT PARTNER"

PRICES:

Evenings: Children 10c; Adults 15c. Reserved Section 25c

Matinees: Children 5c; Adults 15c

PANTAGES

WEEK OF JUNE 25th

ALEXANDER PANTAGES PRESENTS

"The Mimic World of 1917"

with "Felix" of Felix and Claire

Biggest and Best Musical Comedy in vaudeville

25 People — Mostly Girlies

One Solid Hour of Wonderful Entertainment

The Lampinis---Abrams & Johns

Smith and McGuire---Current Events

JOE ROBERTS---King of the Banjo

PRINCESS

PHONE M1944

"Where Everybody Goes"

Don't Miss

"THE COUNTRY STORE"

Every Tuesday Night

A Gigantic Amateur Contest

Every Thursday Night

"The Voice on the Wire"

And a splendid Week-end Program every Friday and Saturday.

GERTRUDE MOODY MILLER EVANS

Grand

ALL NEXT WEEK

2:30—Two Performances Daily—8:30

The World's Greatest Play in Motion Pictures

"The Whip"

Produced on a Mammoth and Elaborate Scale With Special Features

POPULAR PRICES

Evenings, - - 25c., 50c. and 75c.

Matinees, 25c. and 50c.

SOCIAL

Dean Paget has gone to ... for his health.

* * *

Lieut. Pat Allen is at Ba... military hospital.

* * *

Dr. and Mrs. Lincoln are ... on a pleasure trip.

* * *

Mr. Orr, of Banff, has bee... visitor in the city.

* * *

Mrs. J. A. E. McLeod ha... Halifax for the summer.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Dippie have... Banff for the summer.

* * *

Mr. H. C. Bailey spent th... Calgary en route to easter...

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. McC... spend the summer at Shou...

* * *

Mr. S. S. Savage has go... States to attend the Trav... vention.

* * *

Mr. J. M. Shultz, of Bu... spent a few days at the P... week.

* * *

Mrs. M. G. Maberley ann... engagement of her son, Al... Miss Lily Earle, of this ...

* * *

Mrs. Kenny, of the Pall... tained on Monday in hon... mother who has just ar... Toronto.

* * *

Mrs. Dr. McNab enter... Friday in a shower for M... Kerr whose marriage will ... short time.

* * *

Mrs. Kickley entertained ... Friday in honor of Mrs. Mc... Toronto, and Mrs. Arthur ... of Calgary.

* * *

Mr. H. W. Lunney, wh... cently married in Everett, ... returned to Calgary accon... his wife, and will reside ... Park.

* * *

Reports from the front ... all kinds of honors are b... on the Alberta boys. Ca... Graham, Capt. Newton St... Edgar Lougheed are all ... promotion for especially ...

* * *

Major Clarence Loughe... a few days ago from the f... fine although somewhat ... his recent illness. Majo... will take a much neede... Banff to recuperate from ... nate accident after which ... turn to his duties with t... overseas forces.

* * *

Mrs. Guttman, of Fou... nue west, entertained a ... little folks on Sunday l... of her daughter's birthda... was six years old. T... spent in games, etc. T... were: Lillian Gallay, ... Clara Ghuitar, Pearl Go... tha Pepper and Katie G... the Messrs. Gallay and G...

MAN'S F...

COMPL... it is to ... stones ... upward ... him!

The ... thing ... ence in ... ment a...

He can accomplish a... sible. The doing of ... little further to the ... and builds and stren...

It is only when a... ing, that he is not pu... to grow, that he fails ... the man without ins... without a mainspring ... things. He is useles...

A man doesn't h... and his fellows. It i... that results follow t... are made up of the s... whole. Nothing a m... his littleness conceiv... facts of human activi...

So the intelligen... cover wherein he ha... the front. If he has ... appointed with hims... though he may not ... ceasing of effort. W... more striving, and w...

The plant is the ... may be considered t... tion it is considered ... seed to seed there m... ate its species. Wha... erations. It strives ... earth to push forwa... maturity of seed i... fore ordained even ... history of its ancest... sprouts push toward... it stops it starts in t...

The life history ... Man's mission and ... avenues he must sel... elling it he must acc... he begins to fall be... he is in the same st... all that is finest and ... of activity.

VILLE

EN

Destinction

Last Times To day

N

erization

A Morosco-Paramount Attraction

e Marcellini Millions"

D TUESDAY

ES MINTER

g lovely "Little Mary" in a her many photodramatic sses

e Intruder"

in a Different Manner ATTRACTIONS

ND THURSDAY

KY PRESENTS

WARD

Many Screen Triumphs N

quered"

er-Love as the Theme, and an art Bosworth, Tully Marshall, Billy Jacobs, and Jack Dean RISTIE COMEDY

D SATURDAY

-end Attraction and House Peters

mbination of the Screen

N—

IGHWAY" HOPE

Drama Replete with Action from Start to Finish

—July 2nd "THE SILENT PARTNER" ICES: ults 15c. Reserved Section 25c iren 5c; Adults 15c

The scenes of "The Highway of Hope" are laid either in the desert towns and the Morosco company was fortunate enough to find, for use in the picture, one of the famous abandoned mining towns in Death Valley. This town, in the early days of the gold rush, was the home of four or five thousand industrious souls. Men lived, fought and died in its streets and in its gambling dens.

The rush for gold swept on and gradually the citizens rushed away until now there is nothing left but row after row of abandoned buildings which in the dry desert air are in a remarkable state of preservation, and which are occupied but occasionally by some "desert rat," who, with his pack burros, pauses over night in his journey across the valley to hunt gold hidden in the distant Panamint mountains. The subsequent scenes of the active mining town were taken on the other side of the range to which the occupants of the first village fled.

and

XT WEEK

ormances Daily—8:30

Greatest Play in n Pictures

Whip"

moth and Elaborate Scale cial Features

AR PRICES

25c., 50c. and 75c.

25c. and 50c.

Society

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Dean Paget has gone to California for his health.

* * *

Lieut. Pat Allen is at Banff in the military hospital.

* * *

Dr. and Mrs. Lincoln are in the east on a pleasure trip.

* * *

Mr. Orr, of Banff, has been a recent visitor in the city.

* * *

Mrs. J. A. E. McLeod has gone to Halifax for the summer.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Dippie have moved to Banff for the summer.

* * *

Mr. H. C. Bailey spent the week in Calgary en route to eastern points.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. McCallum will spend the summer at Shouldice Park.

* * *

Mr. S. S. Savage has gone to the States to attend the Travelers' convention.

* * *

Mr. J. M. Shultz, of Butte, Mont., spent a few days at the Palliser last week.

* * *

Mrs. M. G. Maberley announces the engagement of her son, Alexander, to Miss Lily Earle, of this city.

* * *

Mrs. Kenny, of the Palliser, entertained on Monday in honor of her mother who has just arrived from Toronto.

* * *

Mrs. Dr. McNab entertained on Friday in a shower for Miss Mildred Kerr whose marriage will occur in a short time.

* * *

Mrs. Kickley entertained at tea on Friday in honor of Mrs. McParland of Toronto, and Mrs. Arthur McParland of Calgary.

* * *

Mr. H. W. Lunney, who was recently married in Everett, Wash., has returned to Calgary accompanied by his wife, and will reside in Elbow Park.

* * *

Reports from the front state that all kinds of honors are being heaped on the Alberta boys. Capt. Vivian Graham, Capt. Newton Stirritt, Lieut. Edgar Lougheed are all in line for promotion for especially good work.

* * *

Major Clarence Lougheed returned a few days ago from the front looking fine although somewhat pale after his recent illness. Major Lougheed will take a much needed rest at Banff to recuperate from his unfortunate accident after which he will return to his duties with the Canadian overseas forces.

* * *

Mrs. Guttman, of Fourteenth avenue west, entertained a number of little folks on Sunday last in honor of her daughter's birthday, Katie, who was six years old. The time was spent in games, etc. Those present were: Lillian Gallay, Ida Pepper, Clara Ghnitar, Pearl Goldstein, Bertha Pepper and Katie Guttman, and the Messrs. Gallay and Guttman.

Hon. Charles Fisher was a Calgary visitor the past week.

* * *

Mr. William Gravelle will leave for the east in a few days.

* * *

Mrs. George Wright entertained at tea during the past week.

* * *

Lieut. Harry Helliwell was down from Banff the middle of the week.

* * *

Miss Connie Clarke has left for eastern Canada to spend the summer.

* * *

Mrs. Clive Betts and Mrs. W. H. Barker have been in Edmonton the past week.

* * *

Mr. R. J. Lydiatt is expected back the end of the week after a flying trip to New York and southern points.

* * *

Mr. Wm. Fraser, of the University of Colorado, is spending his vacation in Calgary and the surrounding country.

* * *

Miss Midge Mills is visiting Miss Dorothy Lougheed at Banff. Miss Mills returned with Miss Lougheed on Friday.

* * *

Miss Reta Wetmore is returning to Calgary the first of the week after a fortnight spent as the house guest of Mrs. H. H. Reid.

* * *

Mrs. Kay, accompanied by her two daughters, the Misses Celia and Doris, left on Monday, June 18, for a trip to the eastern states.

* * *

Mrs. D. A. Coste, of Niagara Falls, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. R. L. Bevan, has returned to her home.

* * *

Mr. James Brewster came down from Banff on Tuesday en route to Winnipeg to meet his daughter, who is returning from an eastern trip.

* * *

Miss Dorothy Lougheed and Major Clarence Lougheed spent Thursday and Friday in Calgary and returned to Banff on the evening train.

* * *

A jolly party were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Reid last week in Banff. Among the house guests were Miss Reta Wetmore and Mr. and Mrs. Myers.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Zeemans expect their daughters, the Misses Ruth and Hazel who have been teaching in Chicago, home for the summer holidays.

* * *

Mr. J. B. Jenkins spent several days in the city the past week. Mr Jenkins is now located on his ranch at Black Diamond where he is engaged in breeding livestock.

* * *

Mr. J. H. Woods has returned from Toronto where he went to attend the annual meeting of the Canadian Press association. Mr. Wood was elected president of the association for the ensuing year.

* * *

Mr. Marshall Watson, a well known society youth of this city, leaves for Toronto Sunday morning where he will commence his training with the Imperial Air service. Mr. Watson will make a short stop in Winnipeg to visit some of his friends in that city.

* * *

First Church of Christ, Scientist, Calgary, announces a free lecture on Christian Science by Clarence W. Chadwick, C.S.B., member of the board of lectureship of the mother church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., on Sunday afternoon, June 24, at 3 o'clock, in the Grand theater, Calgary, and invites you and your friends to be present.

Events Past, Present, Future

Mr. Adolph Bromberg of the post office staff, who left six weeks ago for St. John N. B., was united in marriage there to Miss Jennie M. Stearn. After spending their honeymoon in the eastern states they are expected home tonight. They will take up their residence at 509 Eleventh avenue west.

WEDDINGS

KILGORE—BARKER

Miss Ethel Alberta Barker and Mr. George Kilgore were married this week by Rev. A. McTaggart, at St. Andrew's manse.

McKENZIE—YEATS

A quiet wedding took place at St. Andrew's manse, Wednesday, when Rev. A. McTaggart united in marriage Miss J. G. Yeats and Mr. Finlay McKenzie. Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie will reside at Cereal.

HAYDEN—WATSON

Rev. McTaggart officiated at the quiet wedding of Dorothy L. Watson and Reginald N. Hayden, at the home of the bride's parents, 1135 Thirteenth avenue west. The bride, who was beautifully gowned in a very attractive creation of crepe de chine, carried a bouquet of rosebuds, maidenhair and ferns with long satin streamers. She was given away by her father, Mr. H. W. Watson, and attended by her sister, Miss Ruth, who was attired in a pretty dress of pink crepe de chine, while Mr. W. Tempest assisted the groom. The young couple are spending a short honeymoon at Banff. Mr. Hayden leaves very shortly for Toronto where he will commence his training for the Imperial Air service, accompanied by the bride's brother, Mr. Marshall Watson.

CANADIAN PATRIOTIC FUND
Calgary Local Branch

Amount received from subscribers during April, $10,625.53. Salaries, stationery, printing, postage and sundry expenses of Calgary Local branch as per cash book for April, $418.65. Amount paid to dependents of Soldiers from money received from Calgary local branch, $10,206.88. Amount paid to dependents of soldiers from money received from South Alberta branch, $17,778.77. Total paid to dependents of soldiers in Calgary, $27,980.65. Number of dependent families of soldiers in Calgary who are recipients of the fund, 1430.

ROYAL GOWNS SOLD

Berlin (by mail).—Personal belongings of Princess Louise of Belgium, daughter of the late King Leopold, were disposed of at public auction in Munich today before a large crowd of women bidders. Pawned articles placed on sale include 90 hats, 27 evening gowns, 28 theater wraps, 58 parasols, 95 veils of fantastic texture and 72 bottles of foreign perfume, in addition to the other articles required to complete the wardrobe of the princess.

During the sale the police were frequently called on to restore order among the clamorous bidders.

Princess Louise of Belgium is the divorced wife of Prince Philip of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha. The princess for many years has been before the public because of her love affairs, her quarrels with her family and her extravagances. Shortly after the war broke out a dispatch from Vienna said she had been requested to leave that city.

A CREED

Faith in him who calls me friend,
Faith in what is sweet and clean;
Faith that just around the bend
All is peaceful and serene.
Faith that after care and strife
Come the happy days of rest
Faith that everything in life
Really happens for the best.

This my faith and this my shield
'Gainst the arrows of distrust;
Much of justice is concealed
In what seems to be unjust,
Now what seems a dismal way
That alone I'm forced to tread
I may come to see some day
Is a glorious path instead.

Undisturbed by petty wrongs,
Undismayed by what is mean,
Tho the false attracts the throngs,
Tho the multitude unclean,
Tho at times I stand alone,
Tho I'm oft misunderstood,
Faith I still would keep and own
In the decent and the good.

MAN'S REAL SATISFACTION

ACCOMPLISHING a little every day! What an incentive it it is to the man who is trying to keep watch of the milestones of his progress! How it urges him onward and upward! How it exhilirates him! How it rejuvenates him!

The man who can see that he is accomplishing something every day is a growing man. There is no decadence in his career. He belongs to the forward movement and can be pretty well in the vanguard if he desires. He can accomplish a great deal more than he at present believes possible. The doing of something a little more every day, of pushing a little further to the front each twenty-four hours gives him assurance and builds and strengthens his self-confidence.

It is only when a man begins to realize that he is not accomplishing, that he is not pushing a little further ahead each day that he fails to grow, that he fails to progress, that he fails to get inspiration. And the man without inspiration is just about as dependable as a watch without a mainspring. He is of little value in taking the equation of things. He is useless as far as the world is concerned.

A man doesn't have to do the big things to be of value to himself and his fellows. It is in doing the little things, and doing them so well that results follow that he makes his real telling hits. All big things are made up of the smaller, and all acts must have an effect upon the whole. Nothing a man does is to or for himself alone. He may, in his littleness conceive that it is, but that doesn't alter the fundamental facts of human activities or human responsibilities.

So the intelligent man takes stock at the close of each day to discover wherein he has failed, wherein he has pushed a little more to the front. If he has not taken the forward steps he is legitimately disappointed with himself. But if he has pushed ahead he is gratified, though he may not be satisfied. Satisfaction always indicates rest, a ceasing of effort. When we are satisfied we are not likely to do much more striving, and when we fail to strive we fail to progress.

The plant is the best illustration of that. The mission of the plant may be considered to be manifold, but for the purpose of this illustration it is considered only as an example of continued progression. From seed to seed there must progression. The plant's mission is to perpetuate its species. Whatever uses man makes of it are secondary considerations. It strives from the moment its seed germinates under the earth to push forward and upward. The goal is the production and maturity of seed in some definite form. Its mission was therefore fore ordained even long before its own germ was formed in the life history of its ancestor. But the seed once having germinated the sprouts push towards the light and the plant continues to grow. When it stops it starts in the other direction and its decline is rapid.

The life history of man isn't much different from that of the plant. Man's mission and his activities are manifold, but out of the many avenues he must select one along which we must travel. And in travelling it he must accomplish something definite each day. If he doesn't he begins to fall behind; others pass him by and before he realizes it he is in the same state of collapse in which the plant finds itself when all that is finest and desirable in it has withered away because of lack of activity.

KATHERINE STINSON

The youthful flying celebrity dropping Red Cross literature over in Japan. She will during her visit to Calgary during the exhibition give a couple of flights for the benefit of the Calgary branch of the Red Cross carrying two passengers. She was asked to do this and the reply which she sent was wholehearted in its response and her prompt compliance with the request will make her more popular than ever with Calgarians.

PRUDENCE OF THE PARSONAGE

THE FAMOUS STORY OF A HAPPY FAMILY

By Ethel Hueston

COPYRIGHT 1915 BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

SYNOPSIS

Mr. Starr, minister, arrives in Mount Mark to take charge of the Methodist diocese, he is a widower with five children, all girls, namely, Prudence, the eldest, who mothers the rest of the family, who include, Fary, Connie and Carol and Lark, who are twins. The girls all go school and are particularly clever.

The twins, though very lovable and obedient children, are very mischievous, and often embarrass Prudence and Fairy.

Every one in the parish admires Prudence for her sweet and womanly disposition. Professor Rayburn, of the college, a suitor for her hand, but Prudence refuses him, considering her home and bringing up of the family, her particular duty.

Owing to Mount Mark being a small parish and the congregation rather slack about money matters, the parsonage family have quite a hard time to make ends meet. Fairy and Prudence make over an old coat of their fathers for Connie, who always comes in for the left-overs, being the smallest, this being a particular disappointment, as she was promised a new coat. Connie calls on Mr. Harold, the president of the bank, and asks for loan of $5.00, explaining the situation him and promising to pay it back in two years, a nickle at a time. Mr. Harold tells her he is proud to have her trade. Connie surprises the family at dinnertime by producing the $5.00.

One night while Mr. Starr was away from home the twins hear a noise and awake the other girls. Through the braveness of Prudence the thief was caught. Prudence wins the $500.00 which had been offered as a reward for the catching of this noted burglar. Prudences decides to go for a bicycle ride and runs into a mule. She is hurt and is seen safely home by a stranger, Jerold Harmer. He later calls and asks for Prudence's hand, to which Mr. Starr consents.

"You must go right away, or I can not let you go at all!"

"Do you mean you want me to get my things, and go right now?"

"Yes." She buried her face in his shoulder. "If—if you stay in your room until breakfast time, I will lock you in, so you can not leave me again. I know it. I am crazy today."

"Don't you think you owe me something, as well as your father and sisters? Didn't God bring us together, and make us love each other? Don't you think He intended us for each other? Do you wish you had never met me?"

"Jerry!"

"Then, sweetheart, be reasonable. Your father loved your mother, and married her. That is God's plan for all of us. You have been a wonderfully brave and sweet daughter and sister, I know. But surely Fairy is old enough to take your place now."

"Fairy's going to be a professor, and—the girls do not mind her very well. And she isn't as much comfort to father as I am.—It's just because I am most like mother, you see. But anyhow, I promised. I can't leave them."

"Your father expects you to marry, and to marry me. I told him about it myself, long ago. And he was perfectly willing. He didn't say a word against it."

"Of course he wouldn't. That's just like father. But still I promised. And what would the girls say if I should go back on them? They have trusted me, always. If I fail them, will they ever trust anybody else? If you love me, Jerry, please go, and stay away." But her arm tightened about his neck. "I'll wait here until you get your things, and we can—say goodby. And don't forget your promise."

"Oh, very well, Prudence," he answered, half irritably, "if you insist on ordering me away from the house like this, I can only go. But——"

"Let's not talk any more about it, Jerry. Please. I'll wait until you come down."

When he came down a little later, with his suitcase, his face was white and strained.

She put her arms around his neck. "Jerry," she whispered, "I want to tell you that I love you so much that—I could go away with you, and never see any of them any more, or papa, or the parsonage, and still feel rich, if I just had you! You—everything in me seems to be all yours. I—love you."

Her tremulous lips were pressed against his.

"Oh, sweetheart, this is folly, all folly. But I can't make you see it. It is wrong, it is wickedly wrong, but——"

"But I am all they have, Jerry, and—I promised."

"Whenever you want me, Prudence, just send. I'll never change. I'll always be just the same. God intended you for me, I know, and—I'll be waiting."

"Jerry! Jerry! Jerry!" she whispered passionately, sobbing, quivering in his arms. It was he who drew away.

"Good-by, sweetheart," he said quietly, great pity in his heart for the girl who in her desire to do right was doing such horrible wrong. "Good-by, sweetheart. Remember, I will be waiting. Whenever you send, I will come."

He stepped outside, and closed the door. Prudence stood motionless, her hands clenched, until she could no longer hear his footsteps. Then she dropped on the floor, and lay there, face downward, until she heard Fairy moving in her room upstairs. Then she went into the kitchen and built the fire for breakfast.

CHAPTER XIV.
She Comes to Grief

Fairy was one of those buoyant, warm-blooded girls to whom sleep is indeed the great restorer. She slept soundly, sweetly, dreamlessly. And every morning she ran down-stairs so full of animation and life that she seemed all attingle to her finger-tips. Now she stood in the kitchen door, tall, cheeks glowing, eyes sparkling, and smiled at her sister's solemn back.

"You are the little mousey, Prue," she said, in her full rich voice. "I didn't hear you come to bed last night, and I didn't hear you getting out this morning. I am an abominably solid sleeper, am I not? Shall I get the maple sirup for the pancakes? I wonder if Jerry knows we only use maple sirup when he is here. I'm constantly expecting Connie to give it away. Why am I always so ravenously hungry in the morning? Goodness knows I eat enough—Why, what is the matter?" For Prudence had turned her face toward her sister, and it was so white and so unnatural that Fairy was shocked.

"Prudence! You are sick! Go to bed and let me get breakfast. Why didn't you call me? I'm real angry at you, Prudence Starr! Here, get out of this, and I will——"

"There's nothing the matter with me. I had a headache, and did not sleep, but I am all right now. Yes, bring the sirup, Fairy. Are the girls up yet?"

Fairy eyed her suspiciously. "Jerry is out unusually early, too, isn't he? His door is open. I didn't hear him coming down so he must have quite outdone himself today. He generally has to be called twice."

"Jerry has gone, Fairy." Prudence's back was presented to view once more, and Prudence was stirring the oatmeal with vicious energy. "He left early this morning,—I suppose he is half-way to Des Moines by now."

"Oh!" Fairy's voice was non-committal.

"Will you get the sirup now?"

"Yes, of course.—When is he coming back?"

"He isn't coming back. Please hurry, Fairy, and then call the others. The oatmeal is ready."

To be continued)

DR. SIZE
Dentist and Naturopath
226 Eighth Avenue East
Note change of address
(Over Palmetto Bakery)

A. L. HESS
MAKER OF HIGH-GRADE
- PORTRAITS -
Your Friends Can Buy Anything You Can Give Them — Except Your Photograph.
124 Eighth Avenue East
Calgary, Alberta
Phone M3885

The Elbow Shop
SHOE REPAIRING
An Expert Shoemaker at Your Service. "Quality and Satisfaction," our motto.
1120A FIRST ST. WEST

Ezy-Way Glycerine Washing Tablets
Use Them
EZY-WAY GLYCERINE WASHING TABLETS
to your usual bath water. It will soften the water, cleanse the pores, and make the skin soft, white and smooth. Why pay high prices for Turkish baths when you can get the same results at home with the Ezy-Way Glycerine Washing Tablets? The secret of good health is poral elimination. Don't take our word for it; just give it a trial and be your own judge. It will surprise and delight you.
Washes dirtiest clothes in from 10 to 15 minutes with very little rubbing, makes the clothes white as snow without blueing. Ezy-Way contains no paraffin wax, lye, lime, potash or other injurious chemicals. Ezy-Way will not cause the slightest injury to skin or the finest fabric. We ask you to get a free sample and give it a trial. If out of City send five cents to pay postage and packing and you will receive sample by return mail. Our guarantee; money back if not pleased, no questions asked. Agents wanted. This is the real thing, so get a-hold of a live wire.
EZY-WAY MFG. CO.
115 Fifth Ave. West Phone M1663

SLAVIN HAIR GROWER
The only preparation on the market that will Positively Cure Dandruff, Falling Hair, and Grow Hair on Bald Heads. Endorsed by scores of Calgary people.
PRICE $1.00 PER BOX
With Full Instructions.
819 GRUNER BLOCK

Calgary Furniture Hospital
We Will Trade Good Furniture for Old or Damaged, or Pay Highest Cash Prices.
We invite those who have not dealt here, to visit us, and give us an opportunity to show you what we do for our customers.
1312 First St. W. Phone M4070

Grocery Values
Farmers, Ranchers, etc., within 175 miles, write for our Grocery Catalogue. Enormous stocks and rapid turnover guarantee you greater variety and freshness of supplies.
Free Freight to Your Nearest Station
S. G. FREEZE
P.O. BOX 449 CALGARY

Calgary Silverplating Works
We Silver and Nickel-plate any Metal Article. We are the only Electro Platers between Winnipeg and Vancouver
710 Second Street W. Phone M5277

THE BEATON
Hairdressing & Shampoo and Manicure Parlors
Satisfied Customers Secret of Our Success.
1009 First Street W. Phone M2158

WM. S. PARK
Maker of PHOTOGRAPHS
218A EIGHTH AVENUE WEST
Phone, Main 6489 Calgary, Alta.

SMITH'S
PLEATING and BUTTON WORKS
606A First St. W., Calgary
Phone M3464
Hemstitching Hemming Picot Edging Button Holes Made Chain Stitching
We are specialists in our line, and can turn out your work quickly and well. All Work Guaranteed.
Local Manager: F. O. Barnard

New York Dress Shop

Mrs. Brennand is now located at 210 Eighth Avenue East, where you will find a complete line of Ladies' Suits and Coats, from some of the leading Houses in New York.
The material in these fabrics is of the best quality money can buy, and at less than half the cost. In order that you may be able to appreciate these goods, it will be necessary for you to call and inspect our wide range of samples in sizes ranging from 34 to 44.
210 Eighth Ave. E. Phone M3472

Why not be particular about your principal food supply?
PURE MILK
is desired by everyone. You are invited to inspect our plant and satisfy yourself as to the quality of our Goods.
CARLYLE DAIRY CO.
Telephone Main 4686.

NOTICE OF REMOVAL
DAVE WILLIAMS, Auctioneer
Will in future conduct all Auction Sales at 233 Seventh Avenue West, ust West of the Hudson's Bay Store (late Mitchell's Auction Galleries) where all communications will receive prompt attention. Phone M6209.
Will Sell or Buy anything you have to sell.
Auction every Tuesday

FARMING AND LIVESTOCK

Calgary Exhibition Opens Next Week in a Blaze of Glory

On Thursday the Gates Will Be Opened With a Blare of Trumpets and Rush of People to See the Wonderful Exhibits—Attractions Far Above Previous Years.

EDUCATIVE influences which are now associated with the ordinary large exhibition such as the Calgary fair has developed itno during recent years, are being realized and taken advantage of more generally than was previously the case. There was a time when exhibitions were devoted entirely to showing the best product of any section, province or state, and there was of course a portion of amusement instructive in the cars composing the train, and lectures are given by recognized experts on topics of interest.

This is the fourth year this innovation has been carried out and each year it has been attended by greater success. There are three cars containing the larger classes of livestock. In two of them there are models of housing and appointments for stock, showing the buildings and giving a variety of approximate costs. Information regarding grain cultivation is specially grouped in one car and there is a lot of information to be gained on the troublesome weed question. Dairying and poultry raising, two most important and rapidly developing industries of the province will be specially attended to and there will also be lectures on these subjects.

Farm women will find one section allotted as well. Now there is all the advantages of the old fairs—with a great deal of educative influences in addition.

At the forthcoming Calgary exhibition, which opens next Thursday and continues for a full week, the government demostration train which has been touring the province and will continue its educative journey until July 26, will be at the fair for two days, June 30 and July 2. The train will be stationed at the east end of the grounds and the farmers and stockmen and their wives and the younger members of their families will all find something educative and of the car which will be particularly interesting to them as there will be special lecturers on the subjects in which they are interested, and in another car there will be special entertainment provided for the children, so that parents may give their undivided attention to the lectures.

The exhibition company is instituting something new every year for the convenience of its patrons, as well as attending to their other needs. This year there will be a special children's playground where there will be all the playground equipment and the whole under the direct supervision of a trained official who will see that mothers can leave children of all ages at the playgrounds headquarters with every assurance that they will be well looked after. This department will be very popular and should be well patronized as it will relieve tired mothers of the care of the little ones.

People from out of town will find another convenience in the Exhibition Information bureau which will have its headquarters at the C. P. R. station. All the incoming trains will be met during fair week and from the lists of available rooms which have been secured by canvassers representing the exhibition company, visitors will be able to make their choice of their own quarters, if they have not made arrangements beforehand regarding their accommodation.

With the splendid prices that are being obtained for livestock just now it is a natural sequence that there should be especial interest in these sections. This year this will be stimulated by the wonderful animals which will be in the ring for inspection by the judges. The splendid $17,000 bull which was recently brought over from the states, and a number of other animals from the herd of the owner of this animal, Mr. Fuller, of Girvin, Sask., have been entered for competition. Frank Collicutt has also entered his famous bull, Gay Lad 40th, which was so much admired when shown here during the spring show. These two animals will make the Calgary fair one of the most famous in Canada if not on the continent, and in addition there will be the pick of the best herds of eastern and western Canada, as well as several exhibits of different breeds which are being brought over from the states by prominent American exhibitors.

The quality of the horses which have been gaily paraded before the judges at the Calgary exhibition has been commented on by visitors on many occasions and this year this will again be a feature. Some very large entries have been received in the classes for sheep and swine and breeders of the best herds will be represented.

There will be government exhibits which will remain permanently on the grounds and from which there will be available literature pertaining to all branches of the farming industry as well as stock raising.

Exhibits will be made by individuals and in the buildings and outside there will scarcely be a foot of the available space which will not be occupied. There have been some new and commodious accommodation provided for the livestock, but it is anticipated that space will be at a premium.

So from this end of the exhibition, which is after all the most important insofar as it will be an educational feature and demonstration, Calgary's fair which opens next Thursday, presents many outstanding features.

GEO. W. BUCHAN
The Working Man's Shoemaker
For Quality Shoes, See Me—All grades and styles, both in Heavy and Fine Shoes—Prices Lowest
Expert Shoe Repairing in Connection
322 NINTH AVE. EAST

FARMS

Farm Lands For Sale
3 sections of raw land about 30 miles north from Calgary. Can mostly all be cultivated; plenty of good water, Price $15.00 per acre. Good terms.
2 sections improved land, 25 miles from Calgary. 400 acres under cultivation. Good buildings. Price, $22.00 per acre
Good terms.
Both of these are first class mixed farming propositions.
J. W. ROUTLEDGE
(Formerly 105 P. Burns Bldg.)
Farm Lands and City Property
Insurance and Loans
806A Second St. E., Calgary, Alta.
Office Phone, M4001
Residence Phone, M5271

Service Is Unexcelled

ON YOUR SUMMER TRIP TRAVEL BY Canadian Northern

PACIFIC COAST
Round trip summer excursion fares to Vancouver, Victoria, New Westminster, Seattle, Bellingham, Everett, Tacoma, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego.
ON SALE JUNE 15TH TO SEPTEMBER 30TH
Final return limit three months, but not later than October 31st. Stopover allowed.
Special fares to Lucerne, Jasper Park and Mt. Robson. On sale May 11th to September 30th. Final return limit 16 days. Single fare plus 10c for round trip.
TO EASTERN CANADA
Round trip 60 days. Summer Tourist fares June 1st to September 30th Standard electric-lighted trains carrying compartment observation cars through the mountains and Winnipeg to Toronto. Standard Sleeping and Tourist cars.
Full information from
J. H. NORTON, City Passenger Agent, Phone M3626, Calgary, Alta.
A. R. McDOUGALL, Depot Ticket Agent, Phone M5656, Calgary, Alta.
Or Write J. Madill, D.P.A., Edmonton, Alta.

A.R.Littlebury
THE Printer
105 6th Ave. West, Calgary

Ask for Estimates Phone M2207

Official Seeding Reports Show Shortage For Year

Alberta Crop Report Says Season is Late But Good Indication

Ottawa.—The Census and Statistics Office issued today a preliminary estimate of the areas sown to grain crops this spring, with a report of their condition on May 31 as compiled from the returns of crop correspondents. The reports from the prairie provinces state that the spring there is very backward, and seeding is consequently late. At the end of May severe frosts cut down the growing wheat plant; but rapid recovery was anticipated. Rain was needed for the germination of the later sown crops and of wheat sown on stubble.

Area and Condition of Wheat

It is estimated from the reports of correspondents that the total area sown to wheat for 1917 is 13,450,250 acres, as compared with 14,897,000 acres, the area sown, and with 12,900,600 acres, the area harvested in 1916. Thus, the area sown this year, whilst nearly 10 per cent. less than the area sown for 1916, is about 4 per cent. more than the area harvested for 1916. In arriving at these figures revised returns of the Census of 1916 have been included for Manitoba; for Saskatchewan and Alberta similar revisions have not yet been completed. As compared with the areas sown for 1916, the returns this year indicate small increases under wheat in each of the Atlantic provinces and in British Columbia and an increase of 25,000 acres in Quebec; but for each of the remaining provinces decreases are reported to the extent of 154,000 acres in Ontario, 254,000 acres in Manitoba, 927,000 acres in Saskatchewan and 158,000 acres in Alberta. Of the total area under wheat 809,250 acres were sown last fall and 12,641,000 acres were sown this spring. In the three prairie provinces the total area sown to wheat is estimated at 12,497,550 acres, comprising 2,476,850 acres in Manitoba, 7,605,700 acres in Saskatchewan and 2,415,000 acres in Alberta.

The average condition on May 31 in per cent. of the standard representing a full crop is for all wheat for Canada 84 per cent. as compared with 90 per cent. on May 31 last year and with 91 per cent. the average condition on the corresponding date for the seven years ended 1916. In the prairie provinces the condition of wheat is 87 per cent. of the standard in Manitoba, 80 per cent in Saskatchewan and 92 per cent. in Alberta. Converted into a standard of 100 as representing the average condition at the end of May of the past seven years 1910-16 the condition for the whole of Canada of fall wheat is 86, of spring wheat 94, and of all wheat 93 93 per cent. Thus, according to its reported condition on May 31, the anticipated yield per acre of wheat this year is 7 per cent less than the average of the seven years 1910-16.

Area and Condition of Other Crops

The decrease in the area sown to wheat this year is partly due to the curtailment of the seeding season by the lateness of the spring, and efforts were therefore apparently directed towards an increase in the areas sown to other crops. For oats, the acreage is 11,781,900 acres as compared with 11,376,346 acres, the area sown, and 9,875,346 acres, the area harvested last year. Barley is sown to 1,954,100 acres, as against 1,827,780 acres, the area sown, and 1,681,180 acres, the area harvested in 1916. Rye has a sown area of 158,470 acres, as compared with 147,170 acres in 1916; peas 152,465 acres, compared with 159,680 acres; mixed grains 558,250 acres, as compared with 410,726 acres; hay and clover 7,661,800 acres, against 7,892,932 acres; and alfalfa 84,900 acres, against 89,472 acres. The condition of these crops in per cent. of the standard representing a full crop is for oats 85 per cent. compared with 90 per cent. last year and 93 per cent., the average at the end of May for the seven years 1910-16; for barley 87 per cent., as against 89 per cent. last year and 92 per cent., the seven years' average; for rye 86 per cent. against 91 per cent. last year, and 89 per cent. the average; for peas 88 per cent. compared with 90 per cent. last year and 91 the average; for mixed grains 89 per cent. both this year and last year and 92 per cent., the average; for hay and clover 80 per cent. compared with 98 per cent. and 92 per cent. the average.

Conditions in Alberta

A telegram from the Alberta department of agriculture dated June 12 states that the general season is somewhat late, especially between Wetaskiwin and Crossfield. The weather is cool, but crops are doing well. No frost has been reported since June 5. All grain for threshing is sown, but there is 40 per cent. for green feed yet to sow. There is plenty of moisture in all parts.

Hogs on the Farm

Alberta Offers Ideal Conditions for Hog Raising—Profitable Use for Waste Products

Swine are profitably grown in practically every locality and on almost every type of soil. Although the most heavily stocked region is found in the corn belt, the east, the south and the north are increasing the number of their swine at a rapid rate, very largely because of the use of pasture crops to replace part of the grain ration. In fact, hogs are grown under many different methods of farming and fed upon a great variety of crops showing that they are well adapted to almost any condition found upon the farms of this country.

In locating, the question of a market also must be considered, and the facilities for reaching it. Most communities are connected with the large central livestock markets by the railroads but these will be of little avail if the roads to the railroads are poor. Good roads are of inestimable importance, for, among other things they enable the farmer to market his products at any and all times.

The number of hogs for each farm must be determined by a study of local conditions and the type of farming. The maximum number of hogs per acre is found on farms chiefly or wholly devoted to the raising of that class of stock; as, for example, farms in the State of Iowa, where it is quite common to see farms stocked with several hogs to the acre, while the average for the entire state is 1 to every 3 acres of improved farm land. Under average conditions hogs return the largest profit when raised to utilize waste products, and when kept for this purpose alone the number will depend upon the quantity of waste products to be consumed. Skim milk from dairy herds, shattered grain from grain fields, unmarketable products from the truck farm, undigested grain in the droppings of fattening steers, and many other minor wastes on the average farm are examples of feedstuffs which would be wasted were it not for their uailization by the thrifty farmer for the production of pork.

In order to utilize some of these products it is necessary to have a number of pigs on hand for a relatively short time on account of the perishable nature of these feeds. The rest of the year the fattening pigs and the breeding stock must be maintained upon feed raised expressly for their consumption, and while they are not kept at a loss during this time, still the greatest profit is derived when they are eating the cheap feed in the form of waste products. The number of hogs which can utilize the waste to the best advantage, therefore, should be the limiting factor in determining the number of hogs to the farm. On farms in the corn belt, where hogs are raised simply to market the corn crop on the hoof, the number is controlled by the amount of corn which can profitably be raised to fatten them.

Irrigation and Livestock

Irrigigation Convention Will Convene in Maple Creek Next August—Subjects of Vital Interest Will Be Discussed.

Among the organizations for benefiting agriculture in Canada few are playing a more prominent part than the Western Canada Irrigation association. Owing to the fact that Canada has drawn its settlement mainly from humid countries, the part which irrigation plays in agriculture is but vaguely understood by a large section of the population. The Western Canada Irrigation association, by means of its printed reports and its annual conventions, held in various irrigation centers in the west, has done a great work toward bringing about a better understanding of the part that irrigation can play in the agricultural development of a country like western Canada.

The development of irrigation communities proves how closely irrigation farming is linked up with the livestock and dairy industries. Speaking before the convention of the Western Canada Irrigation association last summer at Kamloops, W. T. MacDonald, of the livestock branch of the B. C. department of agriculture, laid particular emphasis upon the relationship of irrigation to livestock raising. "A few years ago," he said, "when irrigated lands were being developed rapidly and many new areas were being brought under irrigation, livestock farming seemed to be left out entirely. Under irrigation, with our favorable climate and soil, we get very large yields, but those large yields which we get represent the taking from the soil of large quantities of fertility. Even orchard lands take a large amount of fertility from the soil; an apple orchard in full bearing will take as much out of it as 30 bushels of wheat. We cannot go on without replacing this fertility in the soil, and the logical way is to feed some of our crops to livestock."

Mr. MacDonald referred to the rapid growth of the livestock industry in British Columbia, mentioning the fact that last year in the Kelowna district 14 silos were erected. He emphasized the need of introducing only the better qualities of livestock in the irrigated districts. "You will probably think that we livestock people are egotistical," he said, "but it is only a few years ago when we were almost ashamed to be in a livestock country, but we are now having our innings. We have come back, and this time we have come back to stay. Wherever livestock gains a foothold, there you will find prosperity, and there can be no permanent system of agriculture that does not include livestock. In history there has not been such a system, and we can only judge the future by the past."

The relationship of livestock to irrigation will again be discussed at this year's convention of the Irrigation association, which is to be held at Maple Creek, Sask., August 1, 2 and 3.

THE GUINEA FOWL

Guinea eggs are good eating.

The flavor of Guinea meat is similar to that of the wild fowl.

Guineas pair, when sexes are equal.

As a rule, the Guinea hen does her laying between the hours of 10 o'clock in the morning and 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

When hatching the young break through the shell at practically the same time.

Young Guineas are tender and delicate until they are well feathered. For this reason it is advisable not to hatch the eggs before June.

The Guinea cock shares with his mate the work of raising the young. He seems very fond of them, and will guard them during the day, and hover them at night on the ground.

It is hard to distinguish the old and the young in the fall of the year, when they are running together.

There are two varieties recognized—the white and the pearl.

The call of the male Guinea is different from that of the female.

The male is a larger and more aggressive bird.

The Guinea gives a cry of warning which at once alarms the rest of the poultry, and they keep in hiding until the alarm ceases.

It is the nature of Guineas to forage. They will go off in a body, having their hunt in common. Quite frequently old birds will be seen assisting young ones to hunt, even though they may not be of their own breed.

When returning home to roost, the hen by some instinct is able to pick out her own young from the flock and remain with them for the night.

Guineas do not scratch, and for that reason they are valuable to have in the garden, as they are constantly in search of bugs and worms without digging up plants, as would chickens.

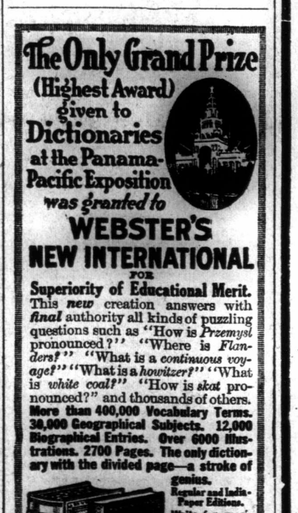
While it is natural for Guineas to roost in trees or on low buildings at night, it is best to early train them to roost in the house.

They are of too tender a nature to roost outdoors during winter.

The Guinea seems to sleep "with one eye open." The least noise puts them on the alert at night, and they quickly send out the alarm.

Guineas generally start laying in April and keep it up until October.

As the shells of the Guinea eggs are hard, their keeping qualities are held much longer.



The flesh is dark colored.

The meadows and fields in summer afford much feed, and they prefer seeking it themselves.

The cry of the male and female differ. That of the female sounds like "Come back, come back," while that of the male resembles "Tick, tick!"

The red ear lobes of the cock are larger than those of the hen.

Guineas do not thrive in confined quarters.

THE WONDER OF THE AGE :: PHOTOGRAPHS ::

They Move, Smile or Scowl at your pleasure, in fact everything just like a Moving Picture.
COME IN AND SEE THEM
LIVING PORTRAIT COMPANY
SERGT. ATHERTON (82nd and 9th Albertas)
135A Eighth Avenue E. Opposite Monarch Theatre

When Buying Liquor---

In sealed bottles in cases, you pay one-third more than in draught and the quality no better, very often the strength is much less.

Why one-third more? Because you pay for the bottle, duty and transportation on same, labor and other expenses bottling.

We recommend our draught goods and guarantee their purity.

WE ARE DIRECT IMPORTERS
PRICES ON APPLICATION

Revelstoke Wine and Spirit Co. Ltd.
REVELSTOKE, B. C.

The Nat Bell Liquors Ltd.
Box 304, Saskatoon, Sask.
The Reliable Mail Order House
Mail Us Your Orders Direct

You know our Service. You know the High Standard we set for Quality.

You know our Draught Whiskies is the pure unadulterated product of the best distillers.

Why experiment with other houses.

A card will bring our price list

THE NAT BELL LIQUORS LTD.
Saskatoon, Sask.

ultry, and they keep in hiding
til the alarm ceases.
It is the nature of Guineas to for-
e. They will go off in a body, hav-g their hunt in common. Quite freently old birds will be seen assist-g young ones to hunt, even though ey may not be of their own breed.
When returning home to roost, the n by some instinct is able to pick t her own young from the flock
d remain with them for the night.
Guineas do not scratch, and for that ason they are valuable to have in e garden, as they are constantly in arch of bugs and worms without ging up plants, as would chickens.
While it is natural for Guineas to ost in trees or on low buildings at ght, it is best to early train them roost in the house.
They are of too tender a nature to ost outdoors during winter.
The Guinea seems to sleep "with e eye open." The least noise puts em on the alert at night, and they uickly send out the alarm.
Guineas generally start laying in pril and keep it up until October.
As the shells of the Guinea eggs e hard, their keeping qualities are ld much longer.
The flesh is dark colored.
The meadows and fields in summer fford much feed, and they prefer eeking it themselves.
The cry of the male and female dif-er. That of the female sounds like Come back, come back," while that the male resembles "Tick, tick!"
The red ear lobes of the cock are rger than those of the hen.
Guineas do not thrive in confined arters.

OF THE AGE
RAPHS::
l at your pleasure, in fact Picture.
SEE THEM
AIT COMPANY
2nd and 9th Albertas)
Opposite Monarch Theatre

quor--- pay one-third more than in r, very often the strength is use you pay for the bottle, e, labor and other expenses goods and guarantee their
T IMPORTERS PPLICATION
d Spirit Co. Ltd.
KE, B. C.

Liquors Ltd.
katoon, Sask.
il Order House
Orders Direct
rvice. You know
e set for Quality.
raught Whiskies is ed product of the
with other houses.
g our price list
T BELL
RS LTD.
n, Sask.

MARKET AND FINANCE

WINNIPEG LETTER

Winnipeg, June 19, 1917.

Wheat—The wheat markets have during the past week lapsed into a dull and apathetic condition, in some markets bordering on stagnation. This is attributable to more causes than one, but the principal cause is the restrictive regulations imposed on trading for future delivery, which also prevents the milling trade from entering into contracts for the sale of flour to be delivered in some future month. In the meantime, while flour mills are being closed, or only running part time, flour dealers and large bakers are working off their stocks of flour, some of them being down to a hand to mouth basis. So long as trading in future deliveries of wheat is prohibited or restricted, buying flour for forward months delivery will be at a standstill, and the ordinary activity in trading, such as we have been accustomed to, will be at an end, and the farmer will just have to hold back much of his wheat on the farm until it is wanted, or sell it at a much lower figure than he would do if markets were open in the usual way. The influence of these features combined, has caused a steady decline in prices in all markets, but especially in Chicago and Minneapolis, for July delivery, the decline in Chicago being 28c per bushel and in Minneapolis 29½c. The decline in Duluth July is 16c and in Winnipeg only 12c. We are of opinion that the present decline in prices is mostly owing to the semi-stagnant condition of the markets caused by the present restrictions on trading rather than from any assurance of large crop prospects. At present, of course it is still the month of June and fields are green, and most of the people are optimistic on the crop prospect, not looking beyond the mere superficial aspect off things. Today someone is quoted as estimating the United States wheat crop as going to produce over 700,000,000 bushels and the Canadian wheat crop 300,000,000 bushels, and there is a big surplus in Australia and India, and Argentina has planted a large new crop and the weather is favorable, and Australia is planting her new crop, all pointing to apparent abundance of wheat. Why then so much ado in appointing supervisors and boards of control? The people who optimistically forecast such an abundance in the future, would do well to wait to see what the harvest will be. In the meantime old stocks are being reduced. Last week the United States visible supply decreased 3,716,000 bushels against a decrease a year ago of 867,000 bushels, and the total now stands at 20,142,000 bushels against 43,337,000 bushels a year ago. Our Canadian visible decreased last week 2,021,997 bushels against a decrease of 766,513 bushels last year, and now stands at 16,949,073 bushels against 24,999,355 bushels last year. Last week the world's shipments from exporting to importing countries were measurably increased again, being 12,762,000 bushels against 11,474,000 bushels the previous week and 15,142,000 bushels for same week last year. This year the same as last, over two-thirds of the quantity were shipped from the North American continent. Australia is this season a much larger shipper than last year, and last week cleared 1,976,000 bushels against 1,232,000 bushels a year ago. The Argentine owing to her crop failure is a small shipper, last week only 351,000 bushels against 2,576,000 bushels a year ago.

Our Winnipeg market is very quiet, owing to the restrictions in trading. The movement from the country keeps fair for the time of year, although not so large as a year ago. The demand for cash wheat is good, from the government buyers, millers and shippers. Stocks in interior elevators west of Winnipeg on June 13 (the latest report) were 9,282,000 bushels wheat against 24,804,621 bushels a year ago. We reported in our last weekly letter that the drought which had prevailed for several weeks over our western provinces, except the western part of Alberta, had been broken by general showers. These continued more or less spread over four days including the 13th inst. They were very welcome and superficially caused a great improvement in the appearance of all vegetation. On looking more closely, however, into the measurement of the precipitation as given by the daily official meteorological reports, it is found that the rainfall was quite moderate, and, looked at in that way quite inadequate to the requirements of the crops, therefore, we need more rain. In the meantime the weather les keeping cool and growth is slow. Today's prices are: 1 Nor. $2.48; 2 Nor. $2.45; 3 Nor. $2.40½; No. 4 $2.28½; No. 5 $2.06; No. 6 $1.88; feed $1.38. Futures closed, July $2.40; October $1.93.

Oats—The oats market has been stronger under a good demand for cash oats by government buyers, and for export, and in mid-week the price was up 4c from a week ago. Part of the advance has been lost since, but priced closed 1½c to 2¼c over last week; the October future, however, is ⅝c lower. Today's prices are: 2 C.W. 70⅝c; 3 C.W. 68¼c; extra 1 feed 68⅛c; 1 feed 66⅝c; 2 feed 64⅝c. Futures closed, July 70⅜c; October 57½c.

Barley—The demand for barley has been good and prices are 1c to 3c higher on the week. No. 3 $1.31; No. 4 $1.26; rejected and feed $1.09.

Flax—The flax market has been weak and prices are 7c down on the week. Today's prices are: 1 N.W. $2.79; 2 C.W. $2.74; 3 C.W. and rejected $2.58. Futures closed, July $2.79; October $2.64.

All prices quoted above are based on delivery in store Fort William and Port Arthur.

THOMPSON, SONS & CO.

COMPARATIVE STATEMENT GRAIN PRICES

The prices are quoted on grain in warehouses at Fort William and Port Arthur:

	Fri.	Sat.	Mon.	Tues.	Wed.	Thurs.
SPRING WHEAT—
No. 1 Northern	252	248	243	240	235	235
No. 2 Northern	250	245	240	237	232	232
No. 3 Northern	246	240	235	232¼	227	227½
No. 4	233½	228	223	220½	215	215½
No. 5	209	206	201	198	190	190
No. 6	180	180	180	180	177	177
Feed	130	130	130	130	—	—
OATS—
2 C. W.	69¾	71¼	70	69⅞	69	69⅜
3 C. W.	68⅛	..	67¾	67⅝	67¼	67⅞
Ex. 1 Feed	68⅝	..	67⅜	67⅜	67¼	67⅛
No. 1 Feed	66	68½	66¼	66⅛	65½	66⅜
No. 2 Feed	64⅛	66⅛	64¼	64⅛	63½	64⅜

Do You Want to go Up With Miss Stinson During the Fair ?

Information regarding Tickets may be obtained from the Calgary Branch of the Red Cross

Greatest Attraction Program Ever Secured,
JUNE 28 Given Twice Daily JULY 5

HORSE RACES
For which there are splendid entries
June 29, 30, July 2, 3

AUTO RACES
World's greatest drivers and record holding cars
July 4th and 5th

EXCURSION TRAINS

C. P. R.
June 30—Bassano, Lethbridge, Macleod.
July 4—Banff, Bassano, Lethbridge, Macleod.

C. N. R.
June 30—Hanna and Stettler.
July 4—Hanna and Stettler.

G. T. P.
June 30—Mirror to Calgary.

FREE ACCOMMODATION BUREAU
Conducted by the Exhibition Company, will have offices in the C. P R. depot. Representatives will meet trains on all lines and tell visitors where rooms may be obtained.

E. L. RICHARDSON, Manager
General Offices, Phone M2732 Victoria Park, Phone M2506

GRAIN MARKET

MINNEAPOLIS CASH

Minneapolis, June 21.—Close cash wheat:

No. 1 hard	$2.56½	to	$2.61½
No. 1 northern	2.51½	to	2.56½
No. 2 northern	2.36¼	to	2.46½
No. 3 wheat	2.21½	to	2.36½
Oats—
No. 3 white	.64¾	to	.65¾
Flax	3.15	to	3.20

LIVESTOCK

WEEKLY LIVESTOCK REVIEW

Top Prices at the Calgary Livestock Exchange

Thursday's Prices at Calgary Stockyards

Steers—
Fat, extra choice export	$9.50@$10.00
Com. to medium butcher	9.00@ 9.50
Heifers—
Common to choice heavy butcher	8.50@ 9.00
Cows—
Choice	8.00@ 8.50
Common	6.50@ 7.00
Thin and fair oxen	5.00
Veal calves—
Veal calves	10.00
Fat bulls	8.00@ 8.25
Sheep—
Good wethers	11.25@ 12.00
Ewes	11.25@ 11.75
Hogs—
Selects, weighed off cars	13.75

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Montreal, June 20.—Butter quiet with an easier undertone; demand for cheese good; eggs quiet and easy.

Cheese—Finest westerns, 21¾c.

Butter—Choicest creamery, 37c to 37½c; seconds, 36c to 36½c.

Eggs—Selected, 38c; No. 1 stock, 35c; No. 2 stock, 32c to 33c.

Pork—Heavy Canada short mess, barrels, 35 to 45 pieces, $55 to $56; Canada short cut back, barrels, 45 to 55 pieces, $53 to $54.

WINNIPEG LIVESTOCK

Winnipeg, July 21.—Livestock receipts at the Union stockyards today totalled 350 cattle and 767 hogs. The movement of cattle was slow with prices a shade weaker than yesterday's trading; quality of the offerings were mostly the medium and common class stuff. All grades of cattle were inclined to weaken. Stockers and feeders are selling about steady, also bulls and oxen, but receipts were light for this class of stuff. Veal calves steady for the good kind; sheep and lambs bring strong prices. Milch cows and close-up springers are the only kind that are wanted; the far-off kind slow.

The hog market was strong and active, hogs sold at $15 per 100, with a possible chance of their declining tomorrow, as buyers only took what hogs they required.

AT TORONTO YARDS

Toronto, June 21.—Union stocqyard receipts, 45 cars with 313 cattle, 91 calves, 2,470 hogs and 143 shep and lambs.

With a moderate run the market was steady to strong at the week's general average advance of about 15 cents over last week. Everything was cleaned up good and early. Stockers moderately active and firm with a little better demand for good feeders of choice quality. Fat butcher cows and bulls steady to firm. Milkers and springers in easier demand. Calf trade strong. Sheep and lambs steady. Hog market stronger and 25 cents higher.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Chicago, June 21.—Hogs—Receipts, 25,000; weak, 10c under yesterday's average. Bulk, $15.50 to $15.95; light, $14.95 to $15.95; mixed, $15.10 to $16.50; heavy, 15.10 to $16.10; rough, $15.10 to 15.30; pigs, 11.00 to $14.65.

Cattle—Receipts, 4,000; weak. Native beef, $8.50 to $13.80; stockers and feeders, $6.90 to $10.00; cows and heifers, $5.75 to $11.70; calves, $11.50 to $15.75.

Sheep— Receipts, 8,000; strong. Wethers, $9.15 to $12.00; ewes, $8.10 to $10.75; lambs, $11.00 to $16.75; springs, $14.50 to $19.00.

AT SOUTH ST. PAUL

South St. Paul, June 21.—Hogs—Receipts, 4,000; steady, 10c lower. Range, $14.90 to $15.55; bulk, $15.10 to $15.25.

Cattle — Receipts, 2,000; killers weak, 15c to 50c lower for week. Steers, $7.50 to $12.60; cows and heifers, $7.25 to $10.50; calves steady, $6.00 to $14.00; stockers and feeders, slow and weak, 5.00 to $9.50.

Sheep — Receipts, 130; steady. Lambs, $7.00 to $12.50; wethers, $7.00 to $10.00; ewes, $5.00 to $9.50.

FINANCIAL

BANK CLEARINGS

Winnipeg, June 21.—Following are the bank clearings of the principal cities of the Dominion for the week ending today, as compared with the corresponding week last year:

	Week ending June 14, 1917	Same Week Last year
Montreal	$92,632,110	$72,574,668
Toronto	58,958,448	51,909,202
Winnipeg	48,249,350	35,399,010
Vancouver	9,075,832	6,180,879
Ottawa	6,562,212	5,178,455
Calgary	6,332,209	3,984,960
Hamilton	6,041,949	3,694,336
Quebec	4,280,504	3,981,181
Edmonton	2,487,656	1,918,330
Halifax	2,989,184	2,398,205
London	2,030,903	1,861,849
Regina	3,077,150	2,433,376
St. John	1,996,517	1,705,777
Victoria	1,538,160	1,359,918
Saskatoon	1,716,545	1,230,758
Moose Jaw	—	913,324
Brandon	487,155	477,308
Brantford	838,049	589,377
Fort William	1,027,126	653,838
Lethbridge	909,116	456,974
Medicine Hat	729,744	374,261
New Westm'ster	—	283,804

BANK OF FRANCE CHANGES

Paris, June 21.—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes:

Gold in hand increased 3,111,000 francs.

Silver in hand increased 569,000 francs.

Notes in circulation decreased 15,861,000 francs.

Treasury deposits increased 76,877,000 francs.

General deposits decreased 1,533,000 francs.

Bill discounted decreased 13,285,000 francs.

Advances increased 8,640,000 francs.

London, June 21.—The weekly statement of the aBnk of England shows the following change:

Total reserve increase £1,216,000.

Circulation increased £61,000.

Bullion increased £1,777,660.

Other securities decreased £723,000.

Other deposits increased £6,398,000.

Public deposits increased £1,149,000.

Government securities increased £220,000.

Proportion of bank's reserve to liability this week is 21.37 per cent.; last week it was 19.94 per cent. Rate of discount 5 per cent.

NEW YORK STOCKS
(Lougheed & Taylor)

Name	Close
Am. Sugar	120¼
Am. Beet Sugar	94
Am. Can.	48
Am. Loco.	71⅞
Am. Smelt.	108
Am. Car Fdy.	76¾
Anglo-French	93¼
Anaconda	82¼
Atchison	100¾
Baldwin Loco.	64¼
B. & O.	72¾
C. P. R.	160
C., M. & St. P.	75
Cen. Leather	93¼
Ches. & O.	59½
Col. F. & I.	51½
Crucible Steel	83¼
Distillers	24½
Erie (c)	25⅞
Gt. Nor. pfd.	107
Ondus. Alcohol	163⅞
Inspiration	63½
Lehigh	64½
Mex. Pet.	95¾
N. Y. C.	91
Nor. Pac.	103⅞
Pennsylvania	52¾
Ray Consol	28½
Rep. I. & S.	90⅝
Reading	96
Sou. Pac.	93½
Sou. Ry.	27¾
Studebaker	84½
Tenn. Copper	18¼
Union Pac.	136⅝
Utah Copper	110
U. S. Steel (c)	127⅝
Westinghouse	51½

MONTREAL STOCKS
(Lougheed & Taylor)

Name	Close
Brazil	38¾
Bell Tel.	139½
Can. Cement	62½
Sar Fdy	31
Civic	76
Det. United	107
Dom. Loan 1925	97¼
Dom. Loan 1931	94¼
Dom. I. & S. (c)	61½
Laurentide	171
N. S. Steel	99
Ogilvie (c)	138½
Quebec Ry.	18½
Riordan Paper	125
Shawinigan	120
Steel of Can.	58½
New Dom. Loan	94¼
Can. Steamships	44¼

CALGARY OIL EXCHANGE

	Bid	Asked
Alberta Associated Oils	..	40
Alberta Petroleum Con.	¾	1
Alberta Pacific Con.	2½	3
Athabasca Oil Co.	..	20
Beaver	¼	½
British Canadian Oils	..	½
Calgary Alberta Oils	1	2
Calgary Pet. Products	10	16
Federal Oil & Gas	½	2
Monarch	1	..
Moose Mountain	4	..
Mt. Stephen Oil & Gas	18	20
N. W. Pacific Oil Co.	2	5
Piedmont Pet. Products	..	¾
Progress	..	¼
Record	9	15
Stokes-Stephens	2	4
Southern Alberta	3.25	3.50
Segur Oils, Ltd.	..	1
Union Pacific	⅛	¼
United	..	1.25
Western Pacific	5	..
Western Petroleum	1	..

Calgary Public Market

Prices Asked Consumers

Fruit

Apples	3 to 5 lbs. for 25c
Apples, per case	$2.00 to $2.75
Bananas	30c to 35c per doz.
Grape Fruit	7½c to 10c each
Lemons	20c to 25c per doz.
Oranges	15c to 40c per doz.
Pineapples	18c to 25c each
Cocoanuts	12½c each

Vegetables

Asparagus	18c per lb
Beets	6 lbs. for 25c
Carrots	6 lbs. for 25c
Celery	12½c per lb.
Cauliflower	10c to 25c each
Cucumbers	10c to 25c each
Lettuce (head)	3 for 25c
Lettuce (bunch)	5 for 10c
Onions (green)	5 for 10c
Onions (cooking)	3 lbs. for 25c
Parsnips	6 lbs. for 25c
Parsley	3 bunches for 10c
Peas (green)	18c per lb.
Potatoes (old)	$1.75 per bus.
Potatoes (new)	12½c per lb.
Radishes	6 bunches for 10c
Spinach	12½c per lb.
Tomatoes	25c to 35c per lb.
Turnips	15 to 20 lbs. for 25c
Rhubarb	8 lbs. for 25c

Plants

Cabbage plants	$1.00 per 100
Cauliflower	$1.00 per 100
Asters, carnations, golden feather, hops, ivy geraniums, lobelia, marigold pansy, petunia, phlox	17½c per basket

Poultry—Dressed

	Per lb.
Fowl	25c to 28c

Poultry—Live

Chicken and fowl	20c to 22c

Produce

Butter, creamery	45c to 48c
Dairy, No. 1	37½c
Dairy, No. 2	35c
Eggs, new laid	$10.50 per case
Eggs, new laid	37½c per doz.

Meats

	Per lb.
Beef, boiling	12½c to 15c
Pot roast	15c
Rib roast	20c to 25c
Sirloin roast	25c to 28c
Round steak	20c to 25c
Porter house steak	25c to 28c
Mutton, sides	25c
Front quarters	20c
Hind quarters	25c to 30c
Chops	25c to 30c
Stew	15c to 18c
Veal, stew	15c to 20c
Shoulder roast	20c to 25c
Steak	30c to 35c
Pork, sides	22c to 25c
Roast shoulder	22c to 25c
hind quarters	25c to 28c
Spare ribs	18c

Fresh Fish

Herring	12½c
Pike	10c
White fish	15c

Sundries

Dripping	15c
Head cheese	15c
Sausage	15c

Calgary Public Market
Prices Paid to Farmers

All farm killed meats must be accompanied by the viscera, viz., heart, liver and lungs.

Meats

	Per lb.
Beef, No. 1 steer, hind qr.	17c to 17½c
Front quarters	12c to 13c
Cow, hind quarters	15c to 16c
Front quarters	11c to 12c
Pork, lightweight	17c to 18c
Mutton, ewes	17c to 18c
Wethers	19c
Lamb	20c to 21c
Veal, No. 1 light	20c
Heavy	16c to 17c

Produce

Butter, creamery	42c to 43c
Dairy, No. 1	30c to 32c
Dairy, No. 2	28c to 29c
Eggs, new laid	$9.25 to $10.00

Poultry—Dressed

Fowl	22c to 25c

Poultry—Live

Fowl and pullets	18c to 20c

Vegetables

Beets (new)	$6.50
Carrots	$3.00
Cabbage	$8.50
Onions	$6.50
Potatoes, per ton	$48.00 to $50.00
Turnips, per ton	$16.00

HOG RAISING IN THE PEACE RIVER COUNTRY

The Peace River country is going to be a strong competitor in hogs hereafter. The country is developing this industry to a marked extent and shipments are beginning to find their way southward for the first time in the history of this country.

First experiments in the way of shipping hogs from the north country to the Edmonton market have proved highly satisfactory, according to reports from Peace River, and it is likely that there will be considerable activity in this line during the coming season.

Sheep are excellent weed destroyers, as they keep the weeds nibbed so closely that no seeds are formed and the rots are exhausted. A small flock of sheep is an excellent scavenger on almost any farm, and they make profitable use of waste land, provided that dogs and internal parasites can be controlled.

J. W. Vermilyea & Co.
805 First St. West, 25 Alberta Blk. Phone M1617 Calgary, Alta.
We have first-class Farm Lands for sale in all parts of Southern Alberta, both raw and improved, at right prices, also a large list of fully modern houses for sale, in all parts of the city. Money to loan.

LASHER & GILLILAN LIMITED
Farm and Ranch Lands
Head Office: 809 Center Street Phone M2996
Calgary, Three Hills, Youngstown, Alberta

LAND BUYERS
Let Us Help You in the Selection of Your Alberta Farm
We were Pioneer Farmers in the States, and we have developed thousands of acres of Alberta's best Wheat Lands.
We have located a large number of Land Seekers during the many years we have been in business in Calgary, and it is a source of satisfaction to us to know that every settler who has followed our advice is making good.
Exclusively Farm Lands
Valuators and Developers
GILBERT BROS., LIMITED
ESTABLISHED 11 YEARS
613 Grain Exchange Building
Calgary, Alberta

Calgary Furniture Hospital
We have a very complete line of Secondhand Furniture. All classes and descriptions. Several good sets for sale and at reasonable prices.
Our Stock of Stoves and Ranges are the best to be found in the City. We invite you to see our Stock before buying elsewhere.

High Class American Dentistry
Expression 20th Century Plates that Fit
Cute-Rate Prices. 10-Year Guarantee.
The Greatest Scientific Painless Methods Used.
Office Hours: 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Daily; 7 to 8 p.m. Evenings
Thousands of Pleased Patients
Gold Crowns and Bridge Work a Specialty
DR. P. C. BRUNER | DR. W. B. REEVE
Graduates from Chicago, Detroit and Philadelphia Colleges
Phone M1051
Calgary Office: Eighth Avenue East, Next to Allen Theatre
Edmonton Office: Crystall Block, Jasper Avenue

SPRING and SUMMER SUITS
Made to Your Order, From $25 to $40
300 Patterns From Which to Make Your Selection.
A. S. Nimmo
MADE TO MEASURE CLOTHES FOR MEN
ALBERTA CORNER 1st. ST. WEST CALGARY

IMPERIAL HOTEL
CALGARY FAMILY HOTEL
Second Street East and Ninth Avenue
Large, Bright and Airy Rooms at Reasonable Rates.
BUFFET IN CONNECTION
Newly Equipped — : — Newly Decorated
Music Afternoon and Evening
Splendid Billiard Room Equipped with First Class : : : Tables Made in Canada : : :
Phone M6217 DANIEL F. WHITING Prop.

A GENUINE FARMER'S MARKET
A Public Market owned and operated by the City of Calgary in the interests of the producer and consumer.
Farmers living at a distance and unable to attend the Market in person can forward their produce direct to the Superintendent and have same sold through a bonded agent with prompt returns.
For further particulars phone or write
SUPERINTENDENT,
Calgary Public Market

Hotel Radisson
MINNEAPOLIS
409 ROOMS
275 ROOMS AT $1.50 TO $2.50 PER DAY.
MODERN - FIRE PROOF

Phone M5910
JOE CARNEGIE
Gas Fitting and Repairing
744 5½ ST. N.W., CALGARY
Estimates Given

BUD SHOW CARDS
Signs of the Times
218A EIGHTH AVENUE EAST
Cotton Signs Phone M5263
Late Card Writer Hudson's Bay Co

McKelvie & Stirrett Co. Ltd.
General Brokers and Commission Agents.
Bain Building, 11th Avenue West Phone W1736
By using "Our Best" Flour and our other brands of goods, you will reduce the high cost of living.

CITY SIGN WORKS
SECOND STREET EAST
For Sign Painting and Show Cards
Opposite Post Office
See Us.
Prices Right. Good Workmanship

FURRIER
THOS. PAIN
Manufacturing Furrier
Successor to Mackay & Dippie Fur Manufacturing Department
218A Eighth Ave. West. Phone M3806
Furs Remodeled and Reparied. Your Own Skins Dressed and Made Up. Highest Prices Paid for Raw Furs.

CROSSLAND & BEALE
Decorators
Wall Paper, Sanitas, Burlaps, Mouldings, Paints, Oils, Stains, Varnishes and Brushes
714 SECOND STREET EAST
Phone M4344 City Hall Corner

BROCK & MILLAR
LADIES' AND GENTS' TAILORS
Breeches Makers
711A First St. East, Cameron Blk.
Phone M1267 CALGARY

INSURANCE
ST. PAUL MUTUAL HAIL & CYCLONE INSURANCE COMPANY
CALGARY ALTA.
Before buying Hail Insurance, we invite you to call and Inspect Our Policies.

Office Phone M3375
Residence Phone M3251
JOHN J. PETRIE
Barrister, Solicitor and Notary
2 MILLS BLOCK
322A Eighth Avenue West
Calgary Canada

Order Your Help from
J. R. ROBERTS
Employment Office
108a Ninth Avenue West
Phone M5881 Calgary, Alta.

MONUMENTS
The Somerville Co.

2313 SECOND STREET EAST
Phone M3305
South of C.N.R. Subway, Near Union Cemetery Gate

O. Hanson & Co.
EMPLOYMENT AGENCY
Head Office:
813A Centre St., Calgary, Alta.
P. O. Box 1346 Phone M2963
We make a specialty in furnishing Labor for Railroad Contractors and Companies. All kinds of help Furnished on Short Notice.
For Quick, Reliable and Satisfactory Service, See Us.
C. P. R. Labor Agents.

Fair Week on the Horizon---The First and Best Western Exhibition of 1917

Calgary's Greatest Store Welcomes You to Calgary's Big Fair !

June 28th to July 5th Inclusive

DOWN at Victoria Park there's a regiment of men preparing for your coming and the advent of fa Fair that is destined to wear the word "Great" in its buttonhole. Many features NOT TO BE SEEN IN ANY OTHER WESTERN FAIR WILL BE ON TAP at Calgary. Katherine Stinson, world's greatest living avaitrix, and the two-day Speedway Auto Contests by noted drivers are two of these. Instead of curtailing amusements this year, Manager Richardson has INCREASED them, giving you a Fair the peer of any ever held in Canada West.

Old Country Dress Ginghams
15c

2,000 yards of lovely quality English ginghams, 26 inches wide, in endless variety of stripes and checks; all colors; fast washing dyes. Yard 15c

DAILY BALLOON ASCENSIONS

From the roof of this store. Each Balloon contains about 200 circulars. Pick one up and present it here and it applies 25c on merchandise purchase of $2.00 or more. Also one $5.00 circular in each Balloon.

MEN!
Grey Serge Suits With Two Pairs Trousers
$36

Men's Suits in medium grey serge, all wool, including two pairs of trousers, 3-button sack coat, medium cut pants, unbreakable front. Regular $42.50. Special $36.00

Our New $15 "Type Suits"

$15.00 will purchase a suit in the following types, stout, tall stout, short stout, stub and tall, and regular models, pinch backs and Norfolks; values to $25.00.

Chinchilla Coats
For Women

White Coats of Wombo Chinchilla, three-quarter length; large wrap collar, deep cuffs, fancy pockets, and all round narrow belt. Former value $19.75. Special $12.50

See You in Calgary Soon!

Steel Axes
98c

'Ottawa Chief" handled Axes; single bit, western pattern; weights 3½ to 4½ lbs.; solid silver steel, polished and gold bronzed; No. 1 over turned white hickory handle. Regular $1.50.

PAINT READY MIXED

In grey, blue, drab, brown, cream, slate, dark green and white. For interior or exterior finish. Absolutely guaranteed.

1 gal. $4.00. Special...$3.25
½ gal. $2.05. Special...$1.65

Varnish
For Furniture

For all chairs, tables, woodwork, covering finger marks and scratches; a splendid glossy finish—1 gal., regular $2.50. Special $1.89

Silk Suits
For Women

Gros de Londres Silk Suits, fashioned on the very newest lines; just an ideal warm weather garment. Tapestry and navy blue, purple, taupe and Russian green. Sizes from 16 to 44. Our former selling price, $37.50. Special $25.00

These Conveniences Arranged for YOUR Comfort--Please Use Them

THE RENDEZVOUS
Where your letters may be written, where you will meet your friends or lounge in the easy chairs provided for the purpose.

THE POST OFFICE
Where letters may be posted, stamps bought, money orders purchased, etc.

THE TELEGRAPH OFFICE
For wires and cablegrams.

THE CIRCULATING LIBRARY
Take a book at the cost of 2c a day, 50c a month, or $5.00 a year.

THE RESTAURANT AND THE CAFETERIA
On the Sixth Floor.

THE MEN'S SMOKING ROOM
On the same floor.

THE LADIES' REST AND RETIRING ROOMS
On the Second Floor.

TELEPHONES IN EVERY PART OF THE HOUSE

THE PLAYGROUND ON THE ROOF

DON'T FORGET THE DAILY BALLOON ASCENSION

From the roof of the Bay. Circulars dropped are worth 25c in merchandise, while one in each balloon is worth $5.00 cash. Any special in this news saleable by mail or personally at the store when you reach Calgary.

Water Pails
39c

Dufferin pattern, 14-qt. size, thoroughly galvanized; a good strong pail at less than today's wholesale price. Regular 65c.

SHIRTS of Flannel

Military Flannel Shirts, English make, with two pockets with flaps buttoned down, reversible large turn-down collar, pearl and medium grey shades. Special, each $1.95

Men's Hose
Medium Weight

Medium weight Black Worsted Socks, also grey and tan merino, two lines that are very comfortable and good wearing. All sizes. Regular 35c and 40c pair. Special, pair 25c
4 pairs for $1.00

PUMPS
For Women

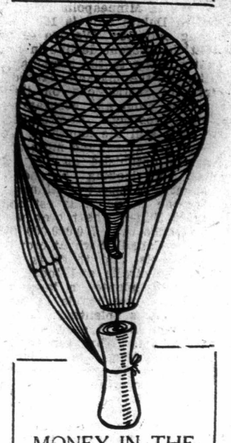
Dark grey, silver grey and champagne kid, patent and plain leathers, in buckle or plain styles; all are stylish pumps; retail ordinary up to $7.00. Special..... $5.00

A PRIZE LIST that would do credit to a city twice the size of Calgary, Demonstration Trains of the Dominion government, livestock entries from all over the continent, races that are bound to be the best seen on the local turf and a Midway that is one of the best outside of Coney Island itself—These are but a tithe of the amusements scheduled for occurrence here from June 28 to July 5. All the usual special days and attractions will be in force. As the man in the tower says: "It's goin' to be a grand Fair."

A Gathering of Women's Underwear
39c

400 Knitted Summer Undervests and Pants; good quality white cotton thread; various styles. They are all worth very much more today. Sleeveless Vests or with wing sleeves. Drawers are eight lace trimmed umbrella style or with tight knee; all one price, each 39c

High-Cut Kid Boots for Women
$5.45



A special sale of High Cut Lace Black Kid Boots, shown in smart styles in either all kid or with patent foxing and dull kid tops, welted sole, French heels.

The West's Best Fair

This year Calgary may well claim the honors. This Fair will undoubtedly place all other similar events in the shade.

Grey Striped Bath Towels
18c

1,000 large sizes Bath Towels; deep spongy weave; ideal for hard and rough use. They are worth 25c each today. Special, each 18c

MONEY IN THE BALLOON

$5.00 for you, in cash, if you can pick up the lucky circular. Any of the 200 in each balloon worth 25c if you purchase merchandise to the value of $2.00. Balloon ascensions daily from the store roof.

Meet Me At The Fair!

The Hudson's Bay Company.
INCORPORATED 1670 HERBERT E. BURBIDGE, STORES COMMISSIONER

A LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

A Thought World

In the evolution of human thinking it is becoming more and more evident that we live in a thought world. Whatever confronts us must be of mental procurement, else there could be no mental or conscious recognition of it. What does the eye behold but a mental image pictured on the retina? We see thoughts because we think them. Things are thoughts and thoughts are things. Divest human existence of all thought and there would be nothing left to see, hear, touch, taste or smell. Without thought there would be nothing to think or to talk about.

Mrs. Eddy's Discovery

It was in the year 1866 that Mrs. Eddy made the all-important discovery that "all causation was Mind, and every effect a mental phenomenon" (Retrospection and Introspection, p. 24).

By Mind she means not the carnal or mortal mind which "is enmity against God," but one infinite supreme creative governing intelligence of the universe, eternal and unchangeable.

Health and Disease

Christian Scientists are a great deal more interested in the subject of health than in disease. They have found out that the right idea of health when intelligently presented to humanity is far more contagious than the thought of disease. They do not believe in getting sick and then having to become proficient in a knowledge of disease before learning how to be well. They have learned that health is the normal condition of man in Christian Science, and that disease is a mistake of the human mind to be corrected by a right understanding of health as an attribute of God.

Jesus did not advise us to acquire a knowledge of disease in order to heal disease. He did not counsel his followers to study medical works in order to cope intelligently with the ills of the flesh. He did not say to study what the world says about sin in order to avoid its experience. What did He say? This, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness" which is equivalent to saying, "Seek ye first the spiritual understanding of God and his right thoughts or ideas." Christian Science has come to open the door of consciousness to receive this understanding of God and to apply it to the correction of every human mistake.

Christian Science Healing

The beneficent influence of Christian Science is far-reaching. "It blesses him who gives and him who takes." It is no respecter of persons or ailments. It appeals to all classes of people, bidding them awaken from the daydream of life in matter. Those who listen to its message of "on earth peace, good will toward men," experience moral and physical healing.

It is very plain to the student of Christian Science that the direct effects of wrong thinking upon the body, such as the indulgence of malice, anger, hatred and revenge, cannot be healed either by drug or knife. The root of the trouble is not visible in any physical manifestation, but lies hidden in the dark recesses of mortal consciousness. In this consciousness must we grapple with every mortal belief, theory, opinion and suggestion, and silence its self-assumed right to existence, before real healing can be accomplished. Only through mental surgery, in other words, do we make practical use of the ounce of prevention. Drugging the poor innocent body to correct the effects of sinful thought is little else than trying to erase a shadow on the wall without interfering with that which is responsible for the shadow.

Christian Science deals directly with the moral fault in the treatment of disease. If one is receptive to the true idea of God, ready and willing to be shown how to change his habits of thought, this idea will quickly supplant a multitude of erroneous theories and opinions and often bring immediate relief from suffering.

The greatest reform movement on earth today is Christian Science healing, because it means the coming of Christ to human consciousness. One who honestly approaches Christian Science, even as a remedy for some so-called physical ailment, will meet with the greatest surprise of his life.

Mrs. Eddy's vision of the Christ not only healed her of the effects of a so-called fatal accident, but enabled her to reach a purified mental height where she could spiritually discern the deep things of God and give them to the world She named her discovery Christian Science. She was, to use her own words, "only a scribe echoing the harmonies of heaven in divine metaphysics" (The First Church of Christ, Scientist and Miscellany, p. 115), consequently she had no excuse to offer for inditing the pages of "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures." The world owes a profound debt of gratitude to this noble woman for what is contained in this unique book. There are many thousands who can testify that the Bible was a sealed book before Science and Health came to them.

Mrs. Eddy as the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, fought the good fight and bravely won her laurels. Her works which have followed her have proved her one of the greatest and yet most humble of religious Leaders and Teachers.

The world is burdened with false teaching. There is much in the world concerning health and disease which is misleading in the extreme. It is the province of Christian Science to correct such teaching by turning the thought of humanity to Christ Jesus as the sole authority on all subjects essential to human progress and happiness.

Who could accuse Jesus of ever establishing a clinic? He paid little attention to disease or its symptoms, but he constantly healed the sick by the spoken word, and he bade his followers do likewise. His ideals of Life embraced no knowledge of disease as an entity or reality. His mission, as well as that of Christian Science, is to prove such knowledge unreal, a nonentity. This was not and cannot be done by human argument or reasoning. It requires spiritual understanding, and according to Scripture this understanding is a "knowledge of the holy," or holy one.

Would years of study of counterfeit money enable one to detect a spurious bill sooner than could one who is thoroughly familiar with the genuine bill?

Would the musician who advocated a systematic study of discords ever succeed in bringing out a true sense of harmony to his pupils?

Has anyone ever heard of a school of mathematics where mistakes in calculation are specialized to the exclusion of the rule of exactness which alone enables one to correct such mistakes?

Would a human parent be very liable to advise his child to make a special study of malice, envy hatred and revenge as a preliminary to understanding the nature of everpresent divine Love?

Then why make an exception in the case of disease and insist that it alone among the errors of the human mind shall be feared, studied, investigated, classified, discussed, diagnosed and published broadcast in the attempt to find health? Christian Science makes it very clear to the world that this is a very sure method of perpetuating disease and of eradicating one's true sense of health. Since this method has been in vogue diseases and fear have multiplied and suffering has increased.

One of the first lessons off Christian Science is to reverse this barbarous habit of thinking, talking, and heralding the symptoms of disease. There is nothing more enervating and demoralizing than to magnify in thought some phase of evil which one would overcome or destroy.

Practitioner and Treatment

In deference to the world's ignorance of Christian metaphysics we speak of treatment and practitioner in Christian Science. Students of Christian Science who have experienced healing and regeneration, who have made a thorough study of our Leader's works, and are loyal to her teachings, are in a position to prove to others their understanding of the Christ healing. Through what is known as treatment hundreds of persons throughout the world are daily being healed in Christian Science. Such treatment is not the erroneous influence of any form of mesmerism or hypnotism, of one human mind over another, but is the activity of the Word of God in human consciousness. It is the mental approach or coming of the right idea of God. It is the prayer that knows instead of believes what constitutes the kingdom of God in man.

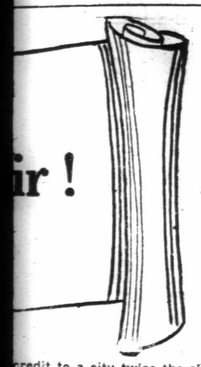
Many who are sufficiently purified in thought and manner of living to express the right idea of treatment, and who can devote their time to such work, are known as Christian Science practitioners. Their mission is not primarily to effect physical healing, but to bring to humanity a scientific understanding of God and His "saving health." This right idea of health acts as a spiritual leaven, purging out of human consciousness every erroneous or unholy thought.

There is nothing more sacred than treatment in Christian Science, and the practitioner who lets God give the treatment is indeed a true follower of the Christ.

The Text-Book

Along with all great subjects, Christian Science has its text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. This book is indeed a spiritual key to the Bible, and as such it has proved itself to be the Bible's best friend. It has opened up the hidden spiritual or metaphysical meaning of the Scriptures, has caused thousands upon thousands of persons to reverence the "book of books" as never before, to ponder and study its sacred pages from a pure sense of love for the truth, has greatly increased its sale and circulation, in fact, has made the Bible an indispensable companion in numberless homes in all sections of the world.

Despite all opposition to what the world imagines Christian Science to be, the demand for Mrs. Eddy's book is constantly increasing, and its inspired healing message continues to bring joy and happiness into the lives of suffering humanity.



Results certainly prove that the Christitn Science text-book is a scientific presentation to the world of right ideas. These brave warriors of the mental realm will continue to "fight the good fight of faith" and to "lay hold on eternal life," until "the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of he Lord, as the waters cover the sea." (Hab. ii, 24.)

KATHLYN WILLIAMS AND HOUSE PETERS in "THE HIGHWAY OF HOPE" MOROSCO-PARAMOUNT

AT THE ALLEN, NEXT FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

First Church of Christ, Scientist, Calgary announces a FREE LECTURE on CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
by
CLARENCE W. CHADWICK, C.S.B., Member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.
On Sunday Afternoon, June 24th, at Three o'Clock
In the Grand Theater, Calgary
THE PUBLIC IS CORDIALLY INVITED

ir !

credit to a city twice the size of rains of the Dominion govern-m all over the continent, races on the local turf and a Midway Coney Island itself—These are eduled for occurrence here from ecial days and attractions will be says: "it's goin' to be a grand

Grey Striped Bath Towels
18c

1,000 large sizes Bath Towels; deep spongy weave; ideal for hard and rough use. They are worth 25c each today. Special, each 18c

MONEY IN THE BALLOON

$5.00 for you, in cash, if you can pick up the lucky circular. Any of the 200 in each balloon worth 25c if you purchase merchandise to the value of $2.00. Balloon ascensions daily from the store roof.

The Text-Book

Along with all great subjects, Christian Science has its text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. This book is indeed a spiritual key to the Bible, and as such it has proved itself to be the Bible's best friend. It has opened up the hidden spiritual or metaphysical meaning of the Scriptures, has caused thousands upon thousands of persons to reverence the "book of books" as never before, to ponder and study its sacred pages from a pure sense of love for the truth, has greatly increased its sale and circulation, in fact, has made the Bible an indispensable companion in numberless homes in all sections of the world.

Despite all opposition to what the world imagines Christian Science to be, the demand for Mrs. Eddy's book is constantly increasing, and its inspired healing message continues to bring joy and happiness into the lives of suffering humanity.

Results certainly prove that the Christitn Science text-book is a scientific presentation to the world of right ideas. These brave warriors of the mental realm will continue to "fight the good fight of faith" and to "lay hold on eternal life," until "the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of he Lord, as the waters cover the sea." (Hab. ii, 24.)

, Scientist, Calgary es a ECTURE SCIENCE
C.S.B., Member of the Board
Church, the First Church of ass.
e 24th, at Three o'Clock eater, Calgary
RDIALLY INVITED

EVEN A STINGY MAN WILL OPEN UP WHEN IT COMES TO GIVING ADVICE

CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD

THE GREATEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER IN WESTERN CANADA

TWO SECTIONS—Section Two | CALGARY, ALBERTA, JUNE 24, 1917 | SECOND SECTION—Pages 9 to 12

STORIES OF EVENTS OF IMPORTANCE IN THE WORLD TODAY

Entente Might Find Brazil Useful Ally

The following article is by the author of "The Clean Fighting Turk," and is published in the London Times, which says he is a distinguished authority on Oriental affairs.

BRAZIL, which is to follow the lead of the United States in joining the league of democracies that is battling with the German alliance, might under the press of necessity put a formidable fighting force into the field. The big South American republic has a system of universal military training which became effective last December. All men between 21 and 44 years old are liable for military service. At present something like 1 million men either have received or are obtaining military training in Brazil.

At one time Brazil seemed on the road to become one of the great naval powers. That was back in 1907-8 British shipbuilders for three of the biggest warships afloat. The vessels which Brazil contracted for were mightier in size and gun power than any then possessed by Great Britain or Germany. The move created a great deal of grave speculation in the various foreign offices. It was rumored that Brazil contemplated an imperialistic program that would seriously disturb the balance of power in South America and might involve the United States. Another rumor was that Brazil ordered the warships as an investment and intended to sell them to the highest bidder, which at that moment appeared to be Japan.

England Got Biggest Ship

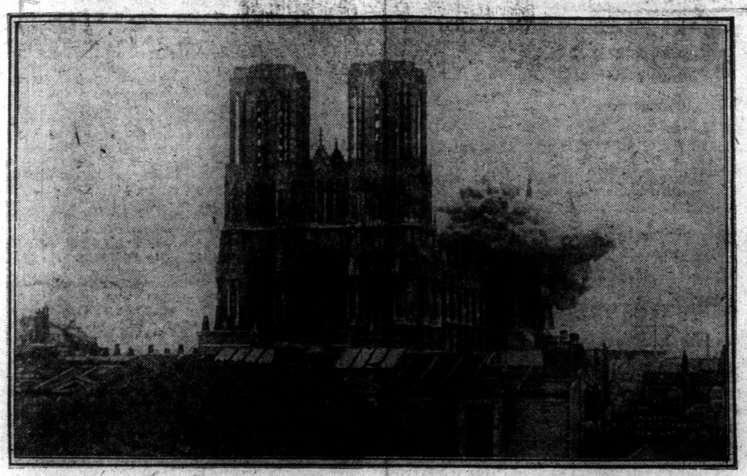
Two of the ships, which are of the earlier dreadnought design, were actually delivered to Brazil and are now in shape for sea service. They are the Minas Geraes and the Sao Paulo, both of 19,500 tons. The third warship, the Rio deJaniero, of 27,500 tons, was not completed to carry one of the most powerful batteries of naval guns in existence. Brazil sold the ship to Turkey, but before it could be taken over by the Turkish government Great Britain seized it and renamed it the Agincourt. It is now in the British North Sea fleet.

Brazil, in addition to its two battle ships, has one large cruiser and two scout cruisers, ten torpedo boat destroyers and a number of ships that could be only for coast defence. Its navy is fairly well trained, though discipline until a few years ago was quite lax. This laxity, in fact, led to a revolt of the sailors in 1910 and the city of Rio de Janiero was shelled. The revolt was put down with slight bloodshed.

The nation has been extremely fortunate in being guided during the last three years by Dr. Lauro Muller, credited with being the ablest diplomat in South America. He has been foreign minister under two administrations and his influence has been widely felt in Brazilian public life. Many of the recent reforms, especially along government ownership lines, have been attributed to his efforts, and it was Muller who linked the three big nations of South America, Brazil, Argentina and Chile, together in the A. B. C. league. He also cultivated the friendship of Uruguay, the nation that in all things economic and political, is the leader of Latin-America. For many years there had been a feeling of intense bitterness existing between the progressive little republic and its big neighbor to the north. But Muller realized the value of importing Uruguayan ideas and ideals and he paid a personal visit to Uruguay, investigating many of the nation's governmental experiments. He has been in the United States several times and is greatly respected by American diplomats.

Has Found Hard Problems

Muller, like many of the leading Brazilians, has some German blood, but it has not interfered with his course during the world crisis. He has been unbendingly firm with the German government, though he has had to meet many of the discouraging problems which confronted this country. Brazil has a large German population—the number is sometimes put as high as a half-million—and German propaganda has been unceasing in its activities. Then the German raiders have been active off the Brazilian coast and it has been reported that they had a base of supplies on Brazilian soil. German bankers have financed many of the larger enterprises in Brazil, especially in the state of Rio Grande, and vast sums were spent by the pro-Germans to stir up the feeling of the country against the United States and the Entente powers. Through it all Brazil, until within the last few days, has maintained a course of unswerving neutrality.



Brazil came near breaking with Germany in May, 1916, after the sinking of the steamer Rio Branco, which was torpedoed in European waters. At that time the German foreign office gave the Brazilian government pledges similar to those given the United States in regard to the protection of neutral ships from submarine attacks. This pledge was violated a few days ago by the sinking of the steamer Parana without warning.

Need Interned Ships

The thirty-four German and four Austrian merchant ships interned in Brazilian ports come in handy to the Brazilian government, which has been hard pressed for tonnage since the beginning of the war. Brazil's exports of coffee, rubber and tropical fruits and woods are enormous. These have suffered considerably at a time when the demand for them was greater than ever before. The Brazilian government owns and operates a steamship line with seventy-five vessels and controls a coasting fleet of fifty vessels. These merchant fleets have proven highly profitable to the Brazilian government also owns virtually all the port properties.

Brazil now has a population of about 25 million persons. It is the fifth largest country in the world, only Russia, Great Britain, China and the United States surpassing it in size.

RHEIMS CATHEDRAL AGAIN UNDER GERMAN FIRE

In retaliation for the recent French successes the Germans again subjected the beautiful Cathedral at Rheims to a severe bombardment. This picture was taken in the afternoon and shows a German shell exploding on the Cathedral roof.

Pres. Wilson Declines Offer of Duke of Orleans

INTENSE disappointment is entertained by the Duke of Orleans, head of the House of Bourbon, which so long occupied the throne of France, over the refusal of President Wilson to accept the offer of his sword.

As soon as the United States proclaimed its decision to join the cause of the allies and declared that a state of war existed with Germany, the duke cabled to Col. John P. Nicholson at Philadelphia, recorder general of the military order of the loyal legion of the United States, claiming the honor and the right as a member of that organization to serve under the American flag and requesting the colonel to take without delay all the necessary steps to find for him some military employment under the Stars and Stripes.

The duke owes his membership in the military order of the loyal legion of the United States to the fact that he is the son of the late Coun of Paris, who served on the staff of Gen. George B. McClellan throughout the greater part of the war of the union, along with his brother, the late Duke de Chartres, an uncle of the Duke of Orleans.

Request Laid Before President

Colonel Nicholson at once communicated the duke's proffer of his sword to President Wilson and to Secretary Baker at the war department, and in due course received a reply from William Phillips, assistant secretary of state, in which he acknowledged in the name of the president the duke's offer of his services to the United States government, and declared that, while the president keenly appreciated the offer of the duke and thanked him for it, it did not appear to him that the United States government could utilize his services at the present moment.

The action of the United States in the matter is in keeping with that of all the other allies of France in the present war. The duke, as head of a house that long exercised sovereign sway in France, and as a claimant to its throne, has been an exile from its territory ever since the enactment of the laws of banishment, nearly 30 years ago, at the instance of General Boulanger, for a brief and unhappy moment the dominant figure in French politics. On one occasion, when the Duke of Orleans, in defiance of these laws of exile, entered France, arrived in Paris and presented himself to the military authorities, there demanding the right incumbent upon every French citizen of performing his obligatory service in the army, he suffered six months' imprisonment.

Offered France His Services

On the outbreak of the present war the duke offered his sword once more to the French government and received a most courteous reply from President Poincare to the effect that the laws of exile, still unrepealed, stood in the way of the acceptance of his services. Thereupon the duke offered his sword in turn to England, in whose army he had received his military training and won a commission, to the emperor of Russia, to his cousin, the king of the Belgians, and to King Victor Emmanuel. They all expressed regret at being unable to avail themselves of his services, owing to the difficulty of having under their command a prince who was exiled by their ally, France.

It may be assumed that similar considerations have prompted President Wilson in the matter. For it would create an awkward situation if the duke, although an exile from France as a pretender to its throne, and therefore inimical to its republican form of government, were to appear

(Continued on Page Ten)

Pigeons Doing Their Part in the Great War

IN the city hall at Leyden, Holland, are two stuffed pigeons that have rendered the state valuable service, when in the year 1573 the Spanish army besieged the city of Haarlem, in Holland. Through the long siege the city was brought into a state of starvation and, as there was no help in sight, the burgomaster was on the point of surrendering the city to the beseiging army. However, a letter pigeon arrived on the scene, bringing the good tidings that the Prince of Orange was approaching the city with a strong relief force. After a hard battle before the town the Spaniards were defeated and the victorious prince marched into the town, welcomed by the long suffering Hollanders. In memory of their relief from famine the citizens preserved the pigeons and later placed them in the museum at Leyden.

Carrier pigeons in time of war are nothing new, for in olden times Egyptians and Chinese used the pigeons as message carriers, and as far back as the Fifteenth Century the Greeks used the birds to announce the results of the Olympian sports. The Calif of Bagdad, Sultan Nur-Eddin, had established a pigeon post in the Twelfth Century, and the Knights of the Cross established pigeon posts in Germany after their return from the Holy Land. It is a fact that the great banking firm of Rothschild of Frankfort-on-the-Main received the news of the Battle of Waterloo by pigeon post three days before the good news reached England. On the early news the firm of Rothschild based operations on the bourse and, through his successful speculation Meyer Anselm Rothschild laid the foundation of his enormous wealth. English and French bankers ured pigeons to carry news of the rise and fall of the money market to their different branches and clients. In the war of 1870-1871, when Paris was beseiged by the German forces and when there were no other means available to communicate with the government at Bordeaux, pigeons were used to carry the message between Paris and Bordeaux, and in spite of German vigilance, thousands of messages passed the German lines and were successfully delivered at their destination.

Even today, where airplanes and wireless play a conspicuous role, carrier pigeons play their part as well. Fliers can be shot down, and wireless messages might be taken up by enemy operators. The pigeon, in many cases, is the safest carrier, for seldom the bird is shot down. As a rule four or five pigeons are sent off with the same message, tomake sure that at least one will reach its destination.

In Germany there are thousands of carrier pigeon clubs. The army especially has many stations where pigeons are trained. This is not exactly a secret, but, for reasons, they are never mentioned. In the present war private owners have placed their birds at the disposal of the military authorities.

Not Germany alone, but France and Russia have military carried stations and Belgium is the principal country for training pigeons.

OUR COUNTRY

"And for your country, boy, and for that Flag, never dream a dream but of serving her as she bids you, even though the service carry you through a thousand hells. No matter what happens to you, no matter who flatters you or who abuses you, never look at another flag; never let a night pass but you pray God to bless that Flag. Remember, boy, that behind officers and government, and people even, there is the Country Herself—your Country—and that you belong to her as you belong to your own mother. Stand by her, boy, as you would stand by your mother."

—Edward Everett Hale.

Parliament Seat Won by Dead Sinn's Father

THAT the Sinn Fein forces in Ireland are far from crushed are indicated by the numerous arrests being made in Dublin and other parts of Ireland by the English authorities, and by the election of Count George Noble Plunkett as a member of Parliament from North Roscommon. Count Plunkett is the father of Joseph Plunkett, who was shot for his share in the Sinn Fein uprising, and of George and John Plunkett, both of whom were sentenced to ten years' penal servitude.

The election of Count Plunkett, mention of which evidently was suppressed by the British censorship for a time, as it has just become known in this country, is causing a great stir among English newspapers and politicians. He has announced that he will not go to London to take his seat in the House of Commons. In Dublin a few days ago he counseled the Irish against sending their representatives again to a "foreign government," but advised keeping them at home until they should have a government of their own.

The campaign which resulted in Count Plunkett's election seems to have been a very bitter one. He was opposed by friends of John Redmond and a number of able speakers were sent from England to oppose him. Of the election the Manchester Guardian says:

"The North Roscommon election is a very serious incident in Irish politics. For the first time in fifty years the representatives of Constitutional action have been beaten at the polls by a candidate proclaiming his distrust of the methods by which the political progress of the Irish people during two generations has been accomplished.

"But there is no mystery about the meaning of this landslide. The people were challenged by Count Plunkett for a verdict on the government of Ireland since Easter week. The opposing candidate could neither defend that government nor give any definite assurance that it would be soon changed for the better."

Count Plunkett has had a notable career. His family is one of the oldest and most influential in Ireland and he has devoted much of his life to the betterment of the Irish people. His title is a papal one, bestowed in recognition of his services to the church. He is a member of many scientific and historical associations and has aided in the founding of a number of societies for the promotion of education and the study of art, literature, music and science.

After the failure of the Sinn Fein uprising he and his wife were arrested and held in a Dublin jail for a considerable time. Following his release he was forbidden to enter Dublin for several months but this ban was finally lifted.

RECRUITING FOR THE NAVY

Photo shows scene in naval enlistment bureau. A well known actress is assisting the bringing in of men. The insert button on top of picture is given to rejected volunteers, it reads: "I have volunteered for the Navy—have you?"

BLIND OFFICER'S MARRIAGE

The wedding took place at Leicester; Second Lieutenant C. N. Rawson and Miss Longwill. The bridegroom joined the army soon after the start of the war and is totally blind having lost his eyes from a bullet in the head.

RURAL MAIL ORDER GUIDE

RURAL BUYERS' GUIDE

RELIABLE FIRMS—SATISFACTORY SERVICE

FARMERS' AND RANCHERS' BUSINESS DIRECTORY

HOME CLASSIFIED BUSINESS GUIDE

STANDARD BUSINESS DIRECTORY

BARRISTERS AND SOLICITORS

E. F. RYAN BARRISTER, SOLICITOR and Notary, 402 Maclean Block, Calgary, Alta. Phone M1670.

E. A. DUNBAR, BARRISTER, ETC., Royal Bank Chambers, Eighth Ave. and Centre Street. Phone M2311. 11-1yr.

FRANCOIS DE ROUSSY DE SALES, Barrister, Solicitor and Notary Public: Avocat Francais. Rooms, 209-211 Grain Exchange, Calgary. Phone M1916.

H. P. SAUNDERS, BARRISTER AND Solicitor, etc. 22 Old Herald Building Phone M2747.

JAMES O. CAMPBELL, B.L., BARRISTER and Solicitor, 312 Beveridge Building, Calgary. Phone M2977.

J. J. MACDONALD, B.A., LL.B., BARrister, Solicitor, Notary, 303-306 Beveridge Building, Calgary, Alta. Phone M3371

J. McKINLEY CAMERON, BARRISTER and Solicitor. Office, 230. Phone M5769. Corner of 8th Ave. and First St. West.

LOUGHEED, BENNETT, McLAWS & CO. Clarence Block, 122 Eighth Ave. West, Calgary, Alberta, Canada. Hon. J. A. Lougheed, P.C., K.C.; E. B. Bennett, K.C.; W. H. McLaws, J. C. Brokovski, J. B. Roberts, D. L. Redman, L. M. Roberts, W. C. Pollard, H. A. Chadwick, H. E. Forster.

McLEAN, PATTERSON AND BROAD. H. W. McLean, W. H. Patterson, W. E. Broad. Phone M6356. 502 MacLean Block, Calgary. Branch Offices, Acme, and Beiseker, Alta.

P. HARCOURT O'REILLY, BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary. 716-717 Herald Bldg Calgary. Phone M5959.

SAVARY, FENERTY & CHADWICK, Stringer Block. Main 6614.

TWEEDIE, McGILLIVRAY, BARRON & Oldham, Solicitors, Etc. T. M. Tweedie, A. A. McGillivray, J. B. Barron, J. N. Oldham. 105A Eighth Avenue West.

ARTISTS

ARTISTS, DESIGNERS & ENGRAVERS HICKS ENGRAVING CO., LIMITED. Makers of Photo Engravings for all Purposes. Herald Western Building, Cor. 2nd Ave. and 5th Street West Phone M6751

STAFFORD & KENT, DESIGNERS AND ENGRAVERS Illuminated Addresses, Engrossings and Engraved Cards 522A Eighth Avenue West

AUCTIONEERS

M6209 CITY EXCHANGE AUCTIONeers. 406 Eighth Avenue West. House and Office Furniture at our Salesrooms at SNAP PRICES Call, write or phone us.

BOOTS AND SHOES

FOR UP-TO-THE-MINUTE FOOTWEAR, go to RICHARDSON'S LIMITED (The Home of Good Shoes) 615 Eighth Ave. West Phone M4509

COUPLAND BUSINESS COLLEGE

THE OLD SCHOOL, THE TRIED SCHOOL, the School for you. Why not start now? Phone M1302. 109 14th Ave. West.

DENTISTS

DR. A. B. C. DANDO Dentist Prices Cut in TWO 123 8th Ave. W. Phone M2141

FRONT OFFICE TO RENT

IN MILLS BLOCK For particulars apply J. J. PETRIE SUITE 2, MILLS BLOCK 522A 8th Avenue West Phone M3376

FURNITURE REMOVERS

THE PACIFIC CARTAGE CO., LIMITED. Furniture Moving and Storage, expert packers and forwarding agents. Phone M6007. Office in C.P.R. freight shed, Ninth Avenue and Second Street East.

DO YOU WANT MONEY?

If you are a man, woman, boy or girl and you want to make money send us your name and address. We will send you the particulars which will make you money and independent for life. You only have to devote a part of your spare time to it to earn all the money you need for luxuries or you can devote your entire time to it and make a good living. You don't need any experience. You simply need energy and ambition to make the effort and success will come.—Address, Manager, 109 Sixth Ave., Calgary, Alberta.

DR. SIZE THE DENTIST AND NATUROPATH

233 EIGHTH AVENUE EAST 30 years successful practice. All branches Have your Dental work done, your Plates, Crowns or Bridges repaired.

BABY WELFARE

Avoid all drugs and patent medicines. They will serve you false. The cause of decay of the teeth is in the general system not the mouth. Let me explain this to you.

DYEING AND CLEANING

WHEN IN NEED OF FIRST-CLASS DRY Cleaning, Dyeing or Repair Work, on the shortest notice, 'phone THE DON DRY CLEANING COMPANY, 702 Seventh Ave. West Phones M3236—M3906.

APPAREL SERVICE CO., DYERS, Cleaners of everything. 233 17 Ave. W. Phones M3150, W1533.

FURS AND LADIES' TAILORED HATS

WE ARE BUSY NOW IN THE FUR Remodelling Dept. What will it be in the season? So don't defer sending your furs to us; you will save time and money W. W. BELL LADIES' HATTER AND FURRIER 227 7th Ave. West, between 1st and 2nd Sts.

GASFITTING

WE BEG TO ANNOUNCE THE REopening of the Central Plumbing, Gasfitting and Heating Store on 1211 First Street East. Gas Stoves and Water Heaters connected and general repairs of every description. If you have anything in the above line, by patronizing me you are helping a returned Soldier. Phone M1265. R. C. Laurie.

HARDWARE

MARSHALL HARDWARE, LIMITED, 131 Eighth Avenue East. Main 6320.

HAT WORKS

EMPIRE HAT WORKS HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED & REMODELLED 310 7th AVE EAST PHONE M 4080

HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED AND REmodeled. Apparel Service Co. Phones M3150, W1533, 233 17 Ave. West. We call and deliver.

BOSTON HAT WORKS AND SHOE REPAIR SHOP HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED AND REshaped. Straws of every description Cleaned and Renovated. First-Class Shoe Repairing. All work guaranteed. Skates sharpened. All goods called for and delivered. Phone M4798.

HOTELS

QUEEN'S HOTEL Second Street East and Eighth Avenue FURNISHED ROOMS TO RENT BY DAY, week or month. Weekly rates from $2.75 to $5.000; monthly rates from $10.00 to $20.00. All outside rooms, warm and comfortable. most central location in city. B. A. Atkinson, Jr., proprietor.

HOMESTEADS OR FARM LANDS

OREGON AND CALIFORNIA RAILROAD Co. Grant Lands—Titles to same revested in United States by act of Congress, dated June 9, 1916.. Two million three hundred thousand acres to be opened for homesteads and sale. Timber and Agricultural Lands, containing some of best lands left in United States. Now is the opportune time. Large sectional map showing lands and description of soil, climate, rainfall, elevation, etc., postpaid One Dollar. Grant Lands Locating Co., Box 816, Portland, Oregon.

WANTED—to hear from owner of good farm for sale. Northwestern Business Agency, Minneapolis, Minn.

HELP WANTED

MEN AND WOMEN TO LEARN BARBering. Highest wages, steady employment guaranteed. Tools furnished free. Send for free illustrated instruction book. CALGARY BARBER COLLEGE, 615B Centre Street (near C.P.R. Depot).

LADIES WANTED TO DO PLAIN AND light sewing at home, whole or spare time; good pay; work sent any distance; charges paid. Send stamp for particulars. National Manufacturing Company, Montreal 8-6

HIDES AND FURS

BEST MARKET PRICE FOR HIDES, FURS, WOOLS, PELTS AND HORSE HAIR, by the CANADIAN HIDE AND FUR COMPANY 510 Fourth Street East Phone M6589 Calgary We pay 3 cents per lb. for old rags. We pay 30c per pound for Horse Hair.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Any Standard reader patronizing advertisers on this page are guaranteed satisfactory service. If you make a purchase and the goods are not right consult The Standard. When you buy mention The Standard.

Calgary (Western) Standard

Independent Weekly Newspaper Illustrating Current Events and Devoted to the Advancement of Western Canada
Published Every Saturday at 109 Sixth Avenue West.
Calgary, Alberta, Canada.
B. S. WHITE . . . Editor and Manager
Telephone for Editorial and Circulation Departments M4210.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

Two dollars per year throughout Canada. Fifty Cents Extra by mail or carrier in the City of Calgary, or to Foreign Points. Subscription may commence at any time. The date on your wrapper indicates when your subscription will terminate. Your paper will stop unless you renew promptly. It is always best to renew at least two weeks before expiration to insure uninterrupted service. Subscribers failing to receive copies regularly will confer a favor by notifying the Circulation Department by post or phone. No agent or newsboy is authorized to sell CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD on Sunday. Any person doing so is acting without permission or authority of this company. The Standard takes no responsibility for any obligation incurred by any employee unless such obligation is ordered and accepted by the proper officer of this company.

ADVERTISING

Advertising rates upon application. All advertising copy must reach the Standard Office not later than Thursday afternoon to insure insertion in Mail and Local Editions. All correspondence and editorial communications should be addressed to CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD, Calgary, Alberta.

President Wilson Declines Offer of Duke of Orleans

(Continued from Page Nine)

upon its soil as an officer of the United States army organized for service in Europe.

Brother Offered Services

As long as the duke, who is childless, remains living, his only brother and next heir, Prince Ferdinand, Duke of Montpensier, a frequent visitor to the United States, is permitted to reside in France, though barred, by reason of his French royal birth, from service in the army or navy. But the moment that the elder brother dies and Ferdinand in turn becomes the head of the French former sovereign house of Bourbon, he too, will, by virtue of the existing French laws, become an exile from France and have to give up his home in Paris, as well as his castle of Randary in Puy de Dome and his villa in the Riviera, both of which latter he has converted into hospitals for wounded and convalescent soldiers.

He, too, offered his services to all the powers of the entente in vain. Having seen a good deal of fighting as an officer of the Spanish navy at Mililla and on the coast of Morocco, where he was wounded, and received the cross of Maria Christina, which is the Spanish equivalent for the congressional medal of honor in the United States and for the Victoria Cross in England, he had reason to hope that his application would be favorably received. But it was everywhere declined, out of deference to the French government, and consequently he has devoted himself since the beginning of the war to the relief and care of the wounded.

DETERMINED TO GO

"Doctor," asked the invalid, "don't you think a change to a warmer climate would do me good?"

"Heavens, man!" replied the doctor, "that's just what I'm trying to save you from."

HEADACHES

Thousands of men and women suffer from headaches every day, other thousands have headaches every week or every month, and still others have headaches occasionally, but not at regular intervals. The best Doctor is often unable to find the cause of many of these headaches, and in most other cases, knowing the cause, he does not know what will remove it, so as to give a permanent cure. All he can do is to prescribe the usual pain relievers, which give temporary relief, but the headaches returns as usual, and treatment is again necessary. If you suffer from headaches and have been unable to remove the cause, take anti-kamnia tablets, and obtain the greatest possible relief. You can obtain them at all druggists in any quantity, 10c worth, 25c worth or more. Ask for A-K Tablets.

SICK-HEADACHES

Sick headache, the most miserable of all sicknesses, loses it terrors when A-K Tablets are taken. When you feel an attack coming on take two tablets, and in many cases, the attack will be warded off. During an attack take one A-K Tablet every two hours. The rest and comfort which follow, can be obtained in no other way.

HIGH CLASS CLOTHING

MRS. BRENNAND, PHONE M5187, DEALer in high class cast-off clothing Samples in Ladies' Suits, Coats and Furs Highest prices given. Mrs. Brennand, 810a First St West. Alberta rooms.

ICE CREAM MANUFACTURERS

ICE CREAM IN BRICK AND BULK. Pure Goods. Prompt delivery P. FALLESEN Calgary Central Creamery Phone M5630

How Britain Fights the Submarine

Without minimizing in any degree the frightful seriousness of Germany's submarine warfare, there is a ray of hope and encouragement in the reasons for secrecy on the part of Great Britain concerning just what is being accomplished in stalking these snakes of the sea. In a communication to the National Geographic society, Sydney Brooks, the English journalist, gives some of the strategic reasons for silence relative to the successes which the British admiralty is meeting in bagging this nefarious game. A part of the communication is issued as the following bulletin by the society:

"Just as Great Britain never advertises the feats of her armies, so she allows the world to think that the Prussians are having it pretty much their own way with their submarines. As a matter of fact, the German submarines have scored very few legitimate successes that conform to the usages of civilized warfare. It must be nearly two years since they sunk a British man-of-war of any importance.

"As pirates preying upon fishing smacks, trawlers, Atlantic liners, and the merchantmen of all nations, they have added a new and infamous chapter to naval history. Otherwise it is, I believe, the opinion of most naval men that in German hands the submarine has proved disappointingly ineffective.

"People, I remember, were thrown into a state of quite unbalanced admiration when the Deutschland appeared in American waters. It was spoken of as one of the most remarkable achievements of the war. Few stopped to remember—even indeed if they ever knew—that the war was only a few months old when 10 British submarines crosed the Atlantic from Halifax to the British Isles—the first submarines in naval history to make the journey under their own power.

"While we publish the number of vessels sunk by Prussian submarines we say not a word about the U-boats whose careers are brought to a sudden stop. I do not know how many of them we have caught, or sunk, or destroyed: It may be 180; it may be 200; it may be 220. They come out and they do not return, and there is no one in Germany, and perhaps not half a dozen people in England, who know what becomes of them.

"The reasons for our secrecy must be tolerably obvious to anyone who thinks the matter over. All that the Germans are able to infer from the failure of any given U-boat to return to port is that somehow or other it has been lost. But how or where they cannot tell.

"It may have been through some error of structure or design—a thought to send a chill down the spine of every admiralty official. It may have been through a mistake in navigation. It may have been through one or other of the endless and constantly changing devices that British ingenuity has evolved and brought into play against the new piracy. It may, too, have happened near the German coast or after the U-boat had reached its appointed station. They cannot tell.

"They are faced with a blank wall of possibilities that they have no means of verifying. Weeks must often elapse before they can be sure that a submarine which they thought was operating in a certain area had really perished, and that another boat should be dispatched to take its place.

"Sometimes, however, the veil of mystery is partially lifted. Sometimes a German U-boat is towed up the Thames, moored to the embankment, and from $75,000 to $100,000 collected for some naval charity by throwing it open to the public. Sometimes if you are dining with a naval officer you will hear wondrous tales of submarines netted, bombed by aeroplanes even when they are well below the surface, hunted and caught by destroyers, induced by one ruse after another to show themselves where they can be got at.

"Sometimes, too, in a British port the men of the merchant marine will tell you of Homeric combats that would warm the hearts of Nelson and Farragut and made Drake and Frobisher gasp and stare.

"But these are mere haphazard personal gleanings. No one knows the full extent of the harvest or how it has been gathered in. But we do know enough—or at any rate we think we do—to feel fairly confident that the German can attempt nothing and can invent nothing that we cannot find the means of countering; and that confidence has been rather more than justified by all that has happened since February 1."

The editor was pretty mad. "Are you the chump who wrote up that recruiting ball?" he said to the quaking reporter. "Oh, you are? Well, look here. 'Among the prettiest girls in the room was Colonel Oldnut.' Nice rubbish, that is. The colonel's a man, I suppose, isn't he?"

"He may be," said the reporter brazenly, "but that is where he was."

A Real Improvement

The Sitting Position You Occupy When Sewing is a Very Important Matter

Your work is directly in front of you THE "WHITE" SIT-STRATE is only one of the many Real Improvements offered in the "WHITE"

You Can Have Yours Now, Just—

PAY $1.00 EACH WEEK—SOON PAID FOR

Sold by THE NEILSON FURNITURE CO., Calgary

JEWELERS

DIAMOND MERCHANTS AND MANUFACTURING JEWELERS AND OPTICIANS Issuers of Marriage Licenses D. E. BLACK & CO., LTD. Corner 7th Avenue and 1st Street West

LOCKSMITHS

TIDDIOLS BROS., SAFE AND LOCK EXperts. We repair Bicycles, Sewing machines, Guns, Locks, Etc. We sharpen lawn mowers, saws, shears, razors, etc. 712 2nd Street East, City Hall Corner Blk. East. Phone M6516. 13-1yr

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS FOR SALE

Great Snap in one slightly used Willis Auto Player Piano, 88 note, mahogany finish, $550.00, formerly sold at $950.00. Terms if desired. Also bargains in some slightly used Organs.

WILLIS & KNABE

Show Rooms: 325 Eighth Ave. W., Calgary W. M. Howe, Manager Alberta Branch

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT DEALERS

WESTERN MUSIC SUPPLY CO. Everything known in Music Supplies of all kinds for all instruments, Brass Band Instruments bought and sold. 405a Eighth Ave. West. Phone 3154, Calgary, Alta.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

D.E.BLACK & CO. LIMITED JEWELERS & OPTICIAN ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES LARGEST WATCH REPAIR BUSINESS IN WESTERN CANADA SEND FOR CATALOGUE HERALD BUILDING CALGARY ALBERTA

OLD NEWSPAPERS FOR SALE

The Western Standard has a quantity of old newspapers for sale, suitable for wrapping, putting on shelves or putting under carpets. Apply Circulation Dept., 109 Sixth Avenue West.

PLUMBING CONTRACTOR

YOUNG PLUMBING & Etc Steam & Gas Fitters Tinners M 2869. 253 7th Ave E.

STANDARD'S MOTOR DIRECTORY

AUTO GARAGES

TRY THE WEST END GARAGE FOR Automobile Repairs; our work is superior at low cost, and satisfaction guaranteed. 12th Ave. and 5th St. West. 13-26

SECOND-HAND CARS BOUGHT AND Sold. We always have a good line of autos to make a good selection. Our Garage is second to none for Repairs and Supplies. WEBBER'S GARAGE 129 5th Avenue W. Phone M2033

MANUFACTURING FURRIER

FURS REMODELLED AND REPAIRED—Your own skins dressed and made up. Highest prices paid for raw furs. THOMAS PAIN, Successor to Mackay & Dippie, Fur Manufacturing Department 218A Eighth Avenue West Calgary.

MOUNT ROYAL COLLEGE CALGARY

ACADEMIC COURSES; BOOK-KEEPING and Stenography; Music, Expression, Art, Etc. Resident and Day Students. Open to both denominations and classes. Phone M2191. Calendar free on application.

NURSING HOMES

ENGLISH MATERNITY HOME—TERMS $20 per week inclusive, Graduate nurses supplied. Phone M3423. 812 2nd Ave. W.

OSTEOPATHY

DRS. CHURCH & PLUMMER, OSTEOpathic Physicians and Surgeons, members of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Alberta. Suites 7, 8, 9, Alberta Block. Phones M2787. All Curable Diseases Successfully Treated. Adenoids removed without anesthesia, the famous Irrigation Treatment used in the treatment of Catarrh. Going on Nine Years in Calgary.

OPTICIANS

HERBERT J. AKITT OPTOMETRIST & OPTICIAN PHONE M. 6150. MACLEAN BLOCK

PATENT SOLICITORS

FORD, WRIGHT & MILLER, PATENT Solicitors. Patents secured in all countries. Phone M6671. 207 Alberta Corner. Calgary, Alberta.

PIANOS

HARDY & HUNT PIANO CO., LIMITED 816 Eighth Ave. West. Main 1585.

PICTURE FRAMING

THE ART SHOP — PICTURE FRAMING a Specialty. 227 Seventh Ave. West J. W. BOOTH, Proprietor. Four years with Royal Picture Gallery

PRINTING

A. R. LITTLEBURY, COMMERCIAL AND Book Printer; 105 Sixth Avenue West Phone M2207. Estimates given.

PHOTOGRAPHER

CHAZIN PHOTO STUDIO—PORTRAITURE enlarging, developing, printing, and commercial work. 7 Eighth Ave. West Phone M3923.

PHOTOGRAPHIC COLORING

FOR ENLARGING, COLORING, FRAMing Photos of all kinds, faded and damaged Enlargements and Pictures restored. The Colorphoto Co., 710 First St. East. Please mention the Standard.

SAFETY RAZORS SHARPENED

JUST TO CONVINCE YOU, SEND US three blades, we will resharpen them and return to you Free of charge. Our prices are: Gillette 35c per doz., and single edge blades 25c per doz., old fashioned razors 25c each. We sharpen Clippers Scissors and Lances of every description Give us a trial. THE CALGARY SHOE HOSPITAL 1239 Eighth Avenue West

SHOES REPAIRED

HIGH GRADE STOCK SHOES MADE TO ORDER EXPERT WORKMANSHIP THE DRI-PED CUSTOM SHOEMAKERS AND REPAIRERS 226 8th Ave East Calgary SERVICE SYSTEM SATISFACTION

O. K. SHOE CO. Calgary's Leading Shoe Repairers Let Us Fix Your Shoes We Guarantee the Utmost Satisfaction Country Orders Receive Prompt Attention 710 First St. E. Phone M5078

VULCANIZED DOUBLE TREADS

PHONE M6755. NO STITCHES no bolts, no looseness, no extra weight; guaranteed 3,000 Miles. Red Star Vulcanizing Works, 103 Twelfth Avenue East. 13-1yr

VULCANIZING

We are specialists in vulcanizing everything in rubber. We are agents for the famous Firestone Tire. Don't forget the address: BELL TIRE CO., 602 First Street East Phone M5905 Res. M4702

STATIONERY AND OFFICE SUPPLIES

WILLSON STATIONERY CO., LIMITED, 215 Eighth Avenue West,—Everything in Stationery and Office Supplies. The most complete stock in Western Canada.

SECOND-HAND DEALERS

CHICAGO IRON AND METAL CO. 501-503 Sixth Ave. E., corner 4th St. Phone M4448. Dealers in Scrap Iron, Brass, Copper, Zinc and Lead, Rubber Tires and Inner Tubes, also Manilla Rope and all kinds of Old Machinery. It will be to your convenience to see us. Phone, call or write MAX RUBEN, Manager.

STORAGE AND CARTAGE

STORAGE AND CARTAGE FOR ANY kind of goods. Warehouse specially fitted for household merchandise, each customer having separate rooms. Trackage. Padded vans for furniture and pianos. Expert packers and shippers. Estimates cheerfully given Official cartage and baggage agents C.N.R. JOHNSTON STORAGE & CARTAGE CO. Phone M4444 and M5678. Limited Office and Warehouse 422 Sixth Ave. East

CALGARY STORAGE & CARTAGE CO. LIMITED 437 TENTH AVENUE EAST PHONE M1349 Storage for all classes of Merchandise, including Cold Storage Equipment; Separate Compartments for Furniture, Pianos; Padded Furniture Vans; Packers, Forwarders, Baggage Delivered. Trackage for carlots.

TAILORS

SANDY MACLEAN Alterations, Tailoring, Repairs, Cleaning and Pressing Suits made to measure from $18 to $35 433 Lougheed Building, over Grand Theatre—Phone M6506. Calgary, Alberta

UNDERTAKING PARLORS

GRAHAM, McCALL AND RUTTLE LTD. FUNERAL DIRECTORS. Horse and Motor Equipment, Ambulance in connection. 611 Centre St. Phone M3788

VIOLINS AND VIOLONCELLOS

JAS. J. DOHERTY Expert Violin Repairing, Tone Restored, Bows Rehaired Musical Instruments of All Kinds Rebuilt and Repaired 405A EIGHTH AVE. WEST

ROSEDALE STAR

LUMP $6.00
STOVE $5.25

Stock up now before the raise in price.

YORK SHAW
238 Eighth Ave. East
Phone M6423

PARCEL POST RATES

Any P. O. within twenty miles of Calgary, five cents for the first lb. and one cent additional for each additional lb. up to five lbs. when the rate is two cents for each additional lb. up to eleven lbs. To any P.O. beyond 20 miles but within the radius of Alberta, ten cents for the first lb. and four cents for each additional lb. To any P. O. in Saskatchewan ten cents for the first lb. and six cents additional for each additional lb.. To any P. O. in Manitoba, twelve cents for the first lb. and eight cents for each additional lb.

FAIRY T... THE...

The Tongue-Cut Spa...

ONCE upon a time there old man who was alw... to everyone. His wi... ever, was cross and made lif... fortable because she scolde... time. She grumbled from ... till night. The old man wa... and had lived with her so lon... did not pay much attention t... temper any more.

Besides, he had one pleasu... which helped him endure his ... wife. This was a little sparr... he loved as much as a father ... child. At the end of each da... work he would come home ... with the little sparrow. He ... all sorts of pretty tricks and ... proud of it. At supper he w... all of the choice morsels for ... bird.

One day when the old man ... to the forest to chop wood th... man mixed some starch. W... was washing clothes the little ... ate the starch. Of course, ... old woman saw that the b... empty she was angry and ... scold.

"I ate the starch," said ... sparrow, bowing its head. ... know what it was and thoug... food you had set out for m... will forgive me I will n... again."

Although she ought to b... glad to have the little sp... truthful and penitent, the o... flew into a rage. She did no... sparrow anyway and often c... about it to her husband. ... made up her mond to punish ... bird. So while the sparrow ... bowing its head with sham... woman took the scissors a... tongue out.

Still talking in a loud ... mixed some more starch. ... ing sparrow flew away out o... dow.

When the old man came h... evening he looked everywhe... little pet. It usually flew o... him and this night he was g... puzzled to know what ha... of it.

At first the old woman ... that she didn't know where ... was or what had become o... late in evening she became ... with the old man's sorrowin... told him what she had done.

"How cruel," said the old ... poor little bird will never ... talk and sing again."

After a night of grievi... man got up in the morning ... ed out to find his sparrow. ... hills and through the wood... asking:

"Do you know where the ... sparrow lives?"

He came to a bamboo fo... was his own sparrow, his li... cut sparrow to meet him. ... hardly believe his eyes ... meet the bird.

The old man told her h... was for all that had happe... to his surprise the sparro... talk. It put out its tongs... him that a new one had g... place of the one which the... cut off. At this the old ma... his sparrow must be a fair... joiced more than ever.

The Lady Sparrow, as ... call her now, took the ol... beautiful house in the woo... had servants and lovely ... The house was of finest ... and all of the rugs and fu... of cream color. The Lady ... vited her friend in and h... ants serve a dainty meal ... she sat down beside him a... ed on all the pleasant s... in his poor hut and been h... long. As the hours flew b... on. Then the old man k... must return to his home a... wife. Although he wante... felt it his duty to return ... He told the Lady Sparrow ... he was to find her well, ... that he could never have b... he had thought she was ... the world suffering with h... out. He also said that ...

HIDDEN PU...

C...

A FAIR BA...
Find a friend.
REBUS.
Found on the shore.

HOME CLASSIFIED
BUSINESS
GUIDE

FOR DIRECTORY

VULCANIZED DOUBLE TREADS

PHONE M6755. NO STITCHES no bolts, no looseness, no extra weight; guaranteed 5000 Miles. Red Star Vulcanizing Works, 1103 Twelfth Avenue East. 13-1yr

VULCANIZING

We are specialists in vulcanizing everything in rubber. We are agents for the famous Firestone Tire. Don't forget the address:
BELL TIRE CO.,
602 First Street East
Phone M5905 Res. M4702

STATIONERY AND OFFICE SUPPLIES

WILLSON STATIONERY CO., LIMITED, 215 Eighth Avenue West.—Everything in Stationery and Office Supplies. The most complete stock in Western Canada.

SECOND-HAND DEALERS

CHICAGO IRON AND METAL CO. 501-503 Sixth Ave. E., corner 4th St. Phone M4448.
Dealers in Scrap Iron, Brass, Copper, Zinc and Lead, Rubber Tires and Inner Tubes, also Manilla Rope and all kinds of Old Machinery. It will be to your convenience to see us. Phone, call or write.
MAX RUBEN, Manager.

STORAGE AND CARTAGE

STORAGE AND CARTAGE FOR ANY kind of goods. Warehouse specially fitted for household merchandise, each customer having separate rooms. Trackage. Padded vans for furniture and pianos. Expert packers and shippers. Estimates cheerfully given. Official cartage and baggage agents C.N.R. JOHNSTON STORAGE & CARTAGE CO. Phone M4444 and M5678. Limited
Office and Warehouse 423 Sixth Ave. East

CALGARY STORAGE & CARTAGE CO LIMITED
437 TENTH AVENUE EAST
PHONE M1349
Storage for all classes of Merchandise, including Cold Storage Equipment; Separate Compartments for Furniture, Pianos; Padded Furniture Vans; Packers, Forwarders. Baggage Delivered. Trackage for carlots.

TAILORS

SANDY MACLEAN
Alterations, Tailoring, Repairs, Cleaning and Pressing
Suits made to measure from $18 to $35
433 Lougheed Building, over Grand Theatre—Phone M6506.
Calgary, Alberta

UNDERTAKING PARLORS

GRAHAM, McCALL AND RUTTLE LTD.
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
Horse and Motor Equipment, Ambulance in connection.
611 Centre St. Phone M3789

VIOLINS AND VIOLONCELLOS

JAS. J. DOHERTY
Expert Violin Repairing, Tone Restored, Bows Rehaired
Musical Instruments of All Kinds Rebuilt and Repaired
405A EIGHTH AVE. WEST

ROSEDALE STAR
LUMP $6.00
STOVE $5.25
Stock up now before the raise in price.
YORK SHAW
238 Eighth Ave. East
Phone M6423

PARCEL POST RATES

Any P. O. within twenty miles of Calgary, five cents for the first lb. and one cent additional for each additional lb. up to five lbs. when the rate is two cents for each additional lb. up to eleven lbs. To any P.O. beyond 20 miles but within the radius of Alberta, ten cents for the first lb. and four cents for each additional lb. To any P. O. in Saskatchewan ten cents for the first lb. and six cents additional for each additional lb.. To any P. O. in Manitoba, twelve cents for the first lb. and eight cents for each additional lb.

FAIRY TALES FOR THE LITTLE ONES

The Tongue-Cut Sparrow

ONCE upon a time there was an old man who was always kind to everyone. His wife, however, was cross and made life uncomfortable because she scolded all the time. She grumbled from morning till night. The old man was patient and had lived with her so long that he did not pay much attention to her bad temper any more.

Besides, he had one pleasure in life which helped him endure his scolding wife. This was a little sparrow which he loved as much as a father would his child. At the end of each day of hard work he would come home and play with the little sparrow. He taught it all sorts of pretty tricks and was very proud of it. At supper he would save all of the choice morsels for the little bird.

One day when the old man had gone to the forest to chop wood the old woman mixed some starch. While she was washing clothes the little sparrow ate the starch. Of course, when the old woman saw that the bowl was empty she was angry and began to scold.

"I ate the starch," said the little sparrow, bowing its head. "I did not know what it was and thought it was food you had set out for me. If you will forgive me I will never do it again."

Although she ought to have been glad to have the little sparrow so truthful and penitent, the old woman flew into a rage. She did not love the sparrow anyway and often complained about it to her husband. Now, she made up her mond to punish the little bird. So while the sparrow was still bowing its head with shame the old woman took the scissors and cut its tongue out.

Still talking in a loud voice, she mixed some more starch. The suffering sparrow flew away out of the window.

When the old man came home in the evening he looked everywhere for his little pet. It usually flew out to meet him and this night he was grieved and puzzled to know what had become of it.

At first the old woman pretended that she didn't know where the bird was or what had become of it. But late in evening she became so angry with the old man's sorrowing that she told him what she had done.

"How cruel," said the old man. "My poor little bird will never be able to talk and sing again."

After a night of grieving the old man got up in the morning and started out to find his sparrow. Over the hills and through the woods he went, asking:

"Do you know where the tongue-cut sparrow lives?".

He came to a bamboo forest. There was his own sparrow, his little tongue-cut sparrow to meet him. He could hardly believe his eyes and ran to meet the bird.

The old man told her how sorry he was for all that had happened. Then to his surprise the sparrow began to talk. It put out its tongue and told him that a new one had grown in the place of the one which the old woman cut off. At this the old man knew that his sparrow must be a fairy and he rejoiced more than ever.

The Lady Sparrow, as we had best call her now, took the old man to a beautiful house in the wood. Here she had servants and lovely furnishings. The house was of finest white wood and all of the rugs and furniture were of cream color. The Lady Sparrow invited her friend in and had her servants serve a dainty meal. After this she sat down beside him and they talked on all the pleasant subjects they in his poor hut and been his pet for so long. As the hours flew by night drew on. Then the old man knew that he must return to his home and his cross wife. Although he wanted to stay he felt it his duty to return to his home. He told the Lady Sparrow how happy he was to find her well. He told her that he could never have been happy if he had thought she was going about the world suffering with her tongue cut out. He also said that he would be glad to be of any service to her if she ever needed him.

When the Lady Sparrow saw that she could not persuade her kind old friend to stay, she sent two of her servants out to bring in two boxes of presents for him. One of the boxes was large and the other was small and she gave him his choice of them or both of them if he wished.

"No," said the old man. "I will take only the smaller one, and I shall be glad of something to remember you by."

So the sparrows helped him strap the small box on his back and then with many farewells and kind words they saw him on his way.

When the old man reached home you may be sure he got a scolding for being gone so long. Where had he been and why had he stayed? The old woman talked so fast that he could not explain for a while. At length, noticing his box, the old woman wanted to know what was in it and she actually stopped talking long enough for him to tell where he got the box.

"Now, let us open it," he said.

And this the old woman helped him do. Imagine their surprise when they found all sorts of gold pieces and precious stones in the box. Their cottage fairy sparkled with the light from these.

For a few moments the sight of them made the old woman speechless. But when she learned that the sparrow had offered him a larger box also, she fell to scolding again.

"You foolish thing," she screamed, "you could have carried them both. Think of what we have lost by your laziness."

Then the old man was sorry that he had mentioned the larger box. But it was too late, for the old woman grumbled and grumbled all night.

Next morning she put on her shawl. After learning the way to the Lady Sparrow's house she set out to get the larger box. It did not enter her head that the sparrows might not give it to her as punishment for her cruel treatment of the Lady Sparrow.

After walking for hours the old woman came to the bamboo wood. She made her way to the Sparrow's house and knocked at the door.

The Lady Sparrow greeted her kindly and did not say anything about the old woman's cruelty. But as they chatted the old woman became uneasy. She finally burst out:

"You don't need to entertain me. I have come for the large box of treasures which you offered my husband and which he was so foolish as to refuse."

Without saying a word the Lady Sparrow motioned to one of her servants to bring the box. And when it was before her the old woman seized it and started away without even thanking the Lady Sparrow.

Now the box was very heavy and the old woman had to sit down often to rest. She got so impatient to see the treasure she supposed was in it that she decided to open it before she got home.

Sitting down by the road she worked until she pried the lid off the heavy box. And almost before she could breathe again a troop of awful demons and black creatures rushed out of the box and wrapped themselves around her. They choked and beat her and the old woman thought they were going to kill her.

She fought with all her strength and at last was free for a minute. As fast as her feet would carry her she ran away and didn't even look behind until she had reached her own hut. At once she began telling the old man what had happened and she scolded the sparrow.

"Don't blame the Lady Sparrow," said he. "It was your own fault for being so greedy. I hope this is a lesson to you."

And so it was, for the old woman became gentle and kind. She never scolded her husband again. And they lived happily ever after, spending carefully the treasure which the Lady Sparrow had given to the old man.

AMBITION

Ambition is a sharp-edged instrument that cuts fast and surely. Indifference is a blunt instrument that simply jars and jolts.

Ambition is to business what fire is to fuel. It is the same to business as steam to the engine.

All printers look much alike, but some have the punch and grip, and some lack these qualities. Some are six-cylinder, making the grades on first speed; and some are two-cylinder, making the climb on low speed.

Live ambition is not only the desire or hope to succeed, but it is the governing influence that whips all other qualities into line. It takes the burden off the will power, and makes every day's battle interesting.

Ambition is not a gift, but an acquisition. Like the fattening corn that is first planted and then cultivated.

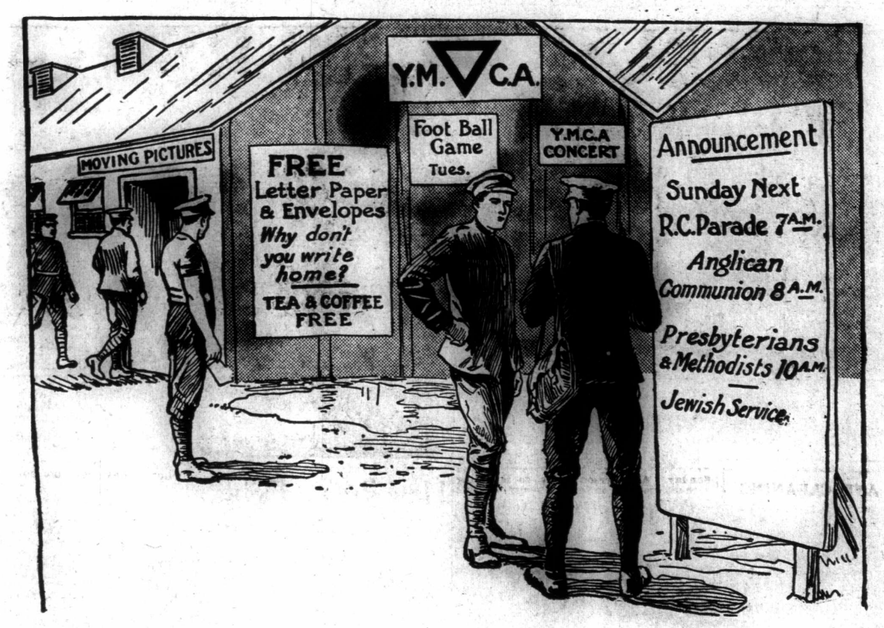
Ambition is like an electric current in the telegraph and telephone wires. It carries the message.

It is like the "temper" in steel—not something that can be seen, but something that is known for its results.

It is like the razor edge, honed and stropped on the surfaces of competition and determination.

Ambition is like a great building, into which the bricks and mortar of desire, honesty, truth and many other qualities have gone.

It is not haphazard result, but is a product of the mind that comes of careful training, experience, and weeding out the detrimental ideas and practices.



Ambition is also a bank balance that fattens and grows. It is a security that is always good collateral, that is never affected by slumps, and that cannot be shattered by the "bears of ridicule."

HIDDEN PUZZLE

A FAIR BATHER.
Find a friend.

REBUS.
Found on the shore.

Be Generous!

VAINLY do we endeavour to realize the terrible hardships of army life which Tommy endures so bravely for our sake. Try to imagine yourself, after a weary march of many miles, hurried into the firing line; picture those terrible days and watchful nights amid the rushing of "whizz-bangs" and screaming "coal-boxes," those weary, trying hours of tense nervous strain and extreme physical endurance that test men's very souls. Meanwhile Grim Death stalks alert and ready—always!

After those boys of priceless worth have withstood the strain, thankful are they to be alive, thankful for the bit of strength left to get them back to lonely billets, but with still the merry jest in spite of all! Are they not ready for a bit of extra relief which you can provide? What magnificent heroes! And yet all this is but their routine duty! What of the strain and terrors of actual battle! Where is the man or woman in all Canada who could withhold from them one single comfort! Unthinkable!

"Do you know what 'fed up' means? Ask the Tommy who has spent seven days in the trenches in the wet and cold. Come into a bright and cheery Y.M.C.A. 'hut' for two or three hours before going to that billet of yours in some barn—then place your value on the work of the Y.M.C.A."

$20,000 Needed From Calgary

$4,000 FOR WORK WITH SOLDIERS
$16,000 FOR LOCAL ASSOCIATION

OVER 600 MEMBERS OF CALGARY Y.M.C.A. HAVE GONE TO THE FRONT.

Campaign Dates
JUNE 19 TO
JUNE 22, 1917

Help the Y.M.C.A. to help the soldiers

On your behalf, for the welfare of your boys in that vast line of military camps from Vancouver to the firing line in France, the Y.M.C.A. Military Service Department spent about $50,000.00 during the period from August, 1914, to April, 1916. It was far from enough to go around.

During the ten months ending January 31st, 1917, the sum of $332,191.67 has been used. The financial report is now available for your inspection. For the coming year, with upwards of half a million of our precious Canadian boys now in uniform, this sum must be doubled this year. We need your help to cope with the immense task we now face. We have every confidence in your generosity towards our boys. We must provide for them, not only in England and France, but in Military Camps all over Canada. Your boy must be started right!

If you are one of those who fondly hope for the end of this horrible war in 1917, please remember this: When the spectre of Death retreats from the battlefields, it will take many months to transport millions of men from the continent to England and Canada. The Y.M.C.A.'s task will be vaster than ever. For then will arise in greater menace and strength than ever that other dangerous spectre—Temptation.

A British workman donated a lifetime's savings in grateful appreciation. The poor widow sends her mite. The soldier sends part of his pay. One officer sent $50; another sent $100 from France, "being a donation of the officers, N.C.O.'s and men of the unit as an expression of appreciation of splendid work." We ask you, for the sake of your boys—be generous according to your means.

Some Suggestions:

$7,500 will erect and furnish large hut in England. $6,000 will erect, but not furnish, large hut in England. $2,000 will erect, but not furnish, small "hut" (25 ft. x 100 ft.) in France. $1,500 will maintain special Y.M.C.A. evangelists among the troops for six months. $500 will furnish small "hut" (25 ft. x 100 ft.) in France.

Many "huts" in France bear the names of dead heroes. These huts were built as memorials.

If the Y.M.C.A. Representatives do not reach you personally, send your offering by cheque, post office order or registered letter to Treasurer of Y.M.C.A. Military Committee (address below). Make cheques payable to Treasurer of Y.M.C.A. Military Committee.

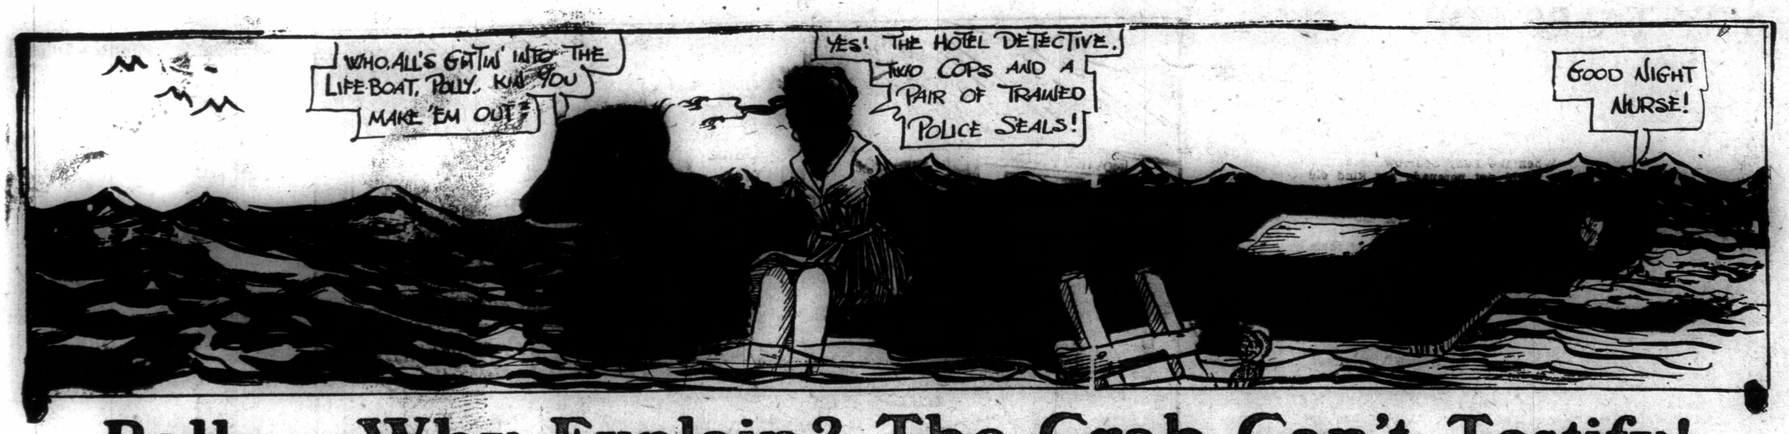
Write for illustrated paper giving extended reports of Y.M.C.A. activities, soldiers' stories and letters from the front.

Six Reasons Why Calgary Business Men Should Contribute To Local Y.M.C.A. as Well as Military Fund.

BECAUSE during the year 500 Calgary boys have been developed in an all-round way. Hundreds were taught to swim; 70 out of 80 in Teachers' Training Class went to the front with rank of sergeant or higher; 2,000 boys participated in 116 games of various kinds; 7 Gymnasium classes for boys were held weekly. Talks on business efficiency conducted for office boys.

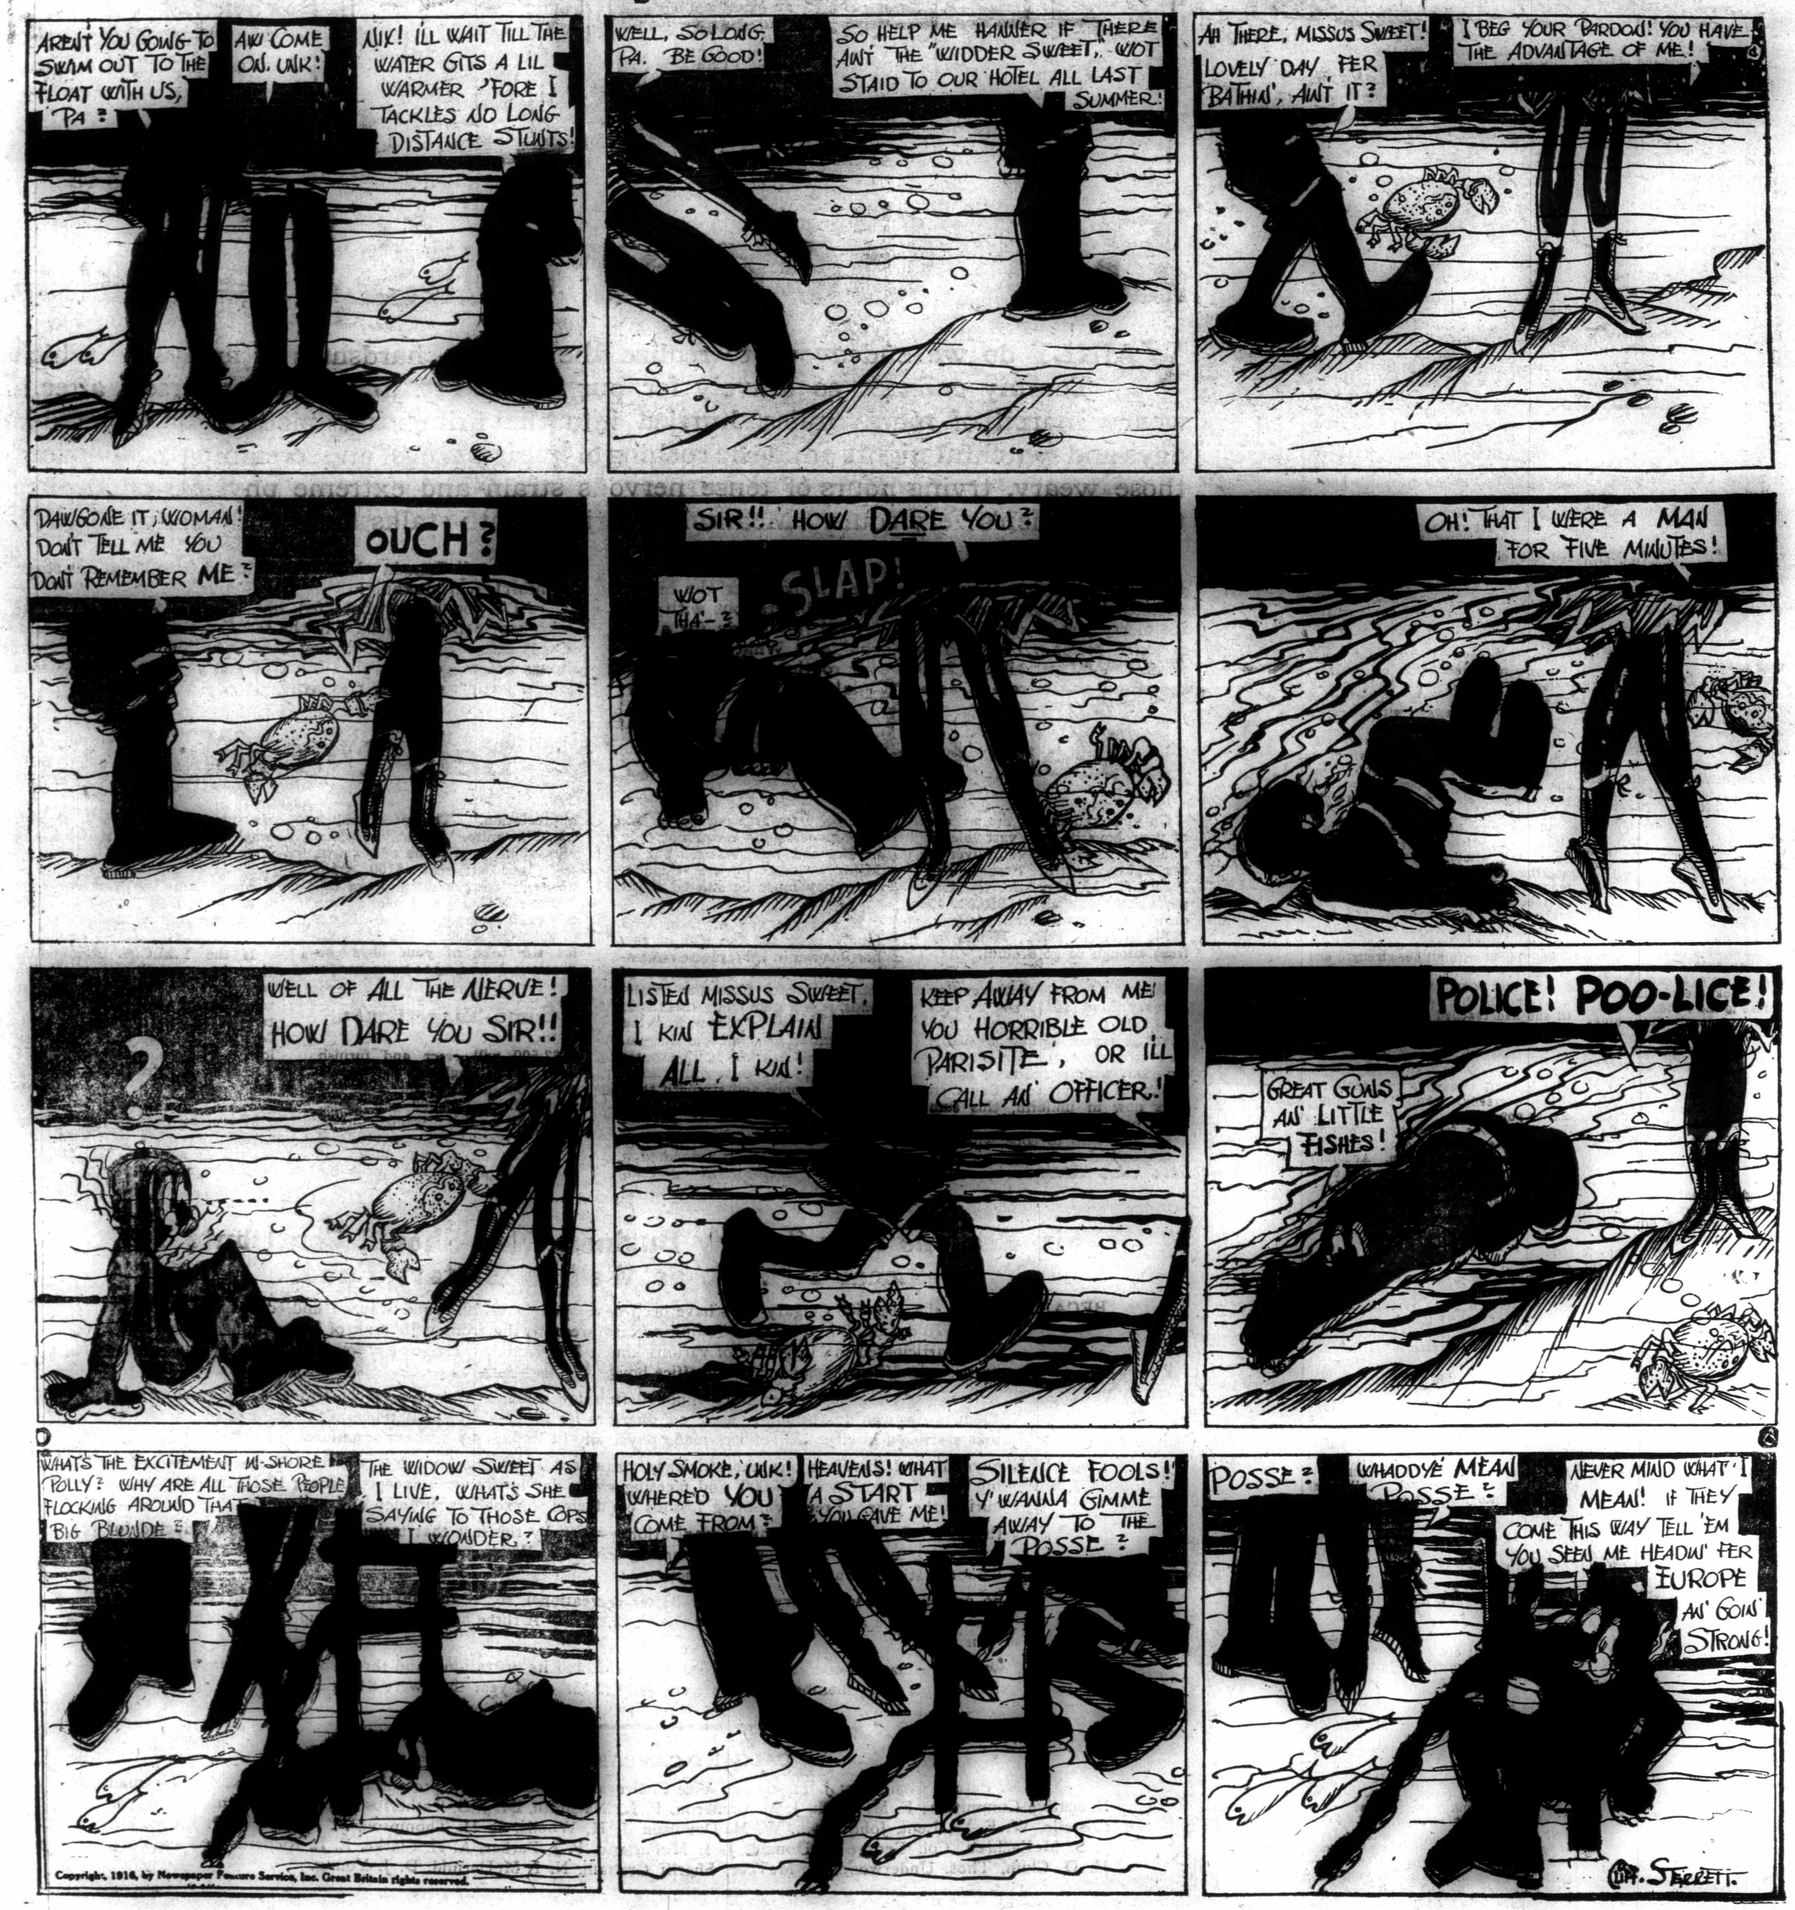
BECAUSE writing material and games were supplied free for soldiers, and parcels checked and goods stored for them. Association Building used as quarters for night pickets. Bath parades arranged for all Battalions stationed in city. 23 soldiers made physically fit to pass medical examinations.

BECAUSE physical, and therefore business efficiency, promoted by gymnasium classes, with 100 business men, having a total attendance of 4,000, and meeting every day in the week except Sunday; 12 Health talks given during the year. Free swimming lessons conducted for soldiers, firemen and policemen.



BECAUSE the Y. M. C. A. is a community organization, proven by the fact that training classes were conducted for supervisors of City Playgrounds, Extension Physical Work conducted among Chinese. Six physical demonstrations arranged in city churches.

BECAUSE no organization in Calgary can offer better recreational, social and physical and general development advantages to the returned soldier than the Y. M. C. A. A three months' membership ticket is provided each man free.



BECAUSE war time financial conditions have seriously effected its operations, and threatened its existence. In 1914 its receipts from membership fees were $10,922.15. Last year they were $4,048.60.

CALGARY CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE:

A. M. Peters, Chairman; J. H. Hanna, Vice-Chairman; J. A. Walker, Treasurer; R. C. Marshall, Chairman Executive Committee; F. M. Black, J. M. Cameron, P. L. Naismith, Dr. J. G. Rutherford, Mr. Justice Simmons, Mayor Costello, W. F. W. Lent, John Irwin, W. M. Davidson, J. H. Woods, G. M. Thompson, H. W. Wood, P. Burns, Dr. J. S. McEachren, Col. George McDonald, J. I. McFarland, P. J. Parker, A. H. Clarke, E. L. Richardson, Alex Ross, H. D. Clum, Thos. Underwood, A. McTeer, Sheriff Graham, N. I. McDermid, D. J. Young.

Polly---Why Explain? The Crab Can't Testify!

Copyright, 1916, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved.

A GOOD

This section co
SPORTS
THEATE SOCIETY
FARMIN
LIVESTO MARKET
FINANCE

Vol. VI. No. 17

COMMEN

FLY THE FLAG ALL NEXT WEEK

On July 1st and 2 household should fly th our loyalty to our count ing our patriotism by illustrate this sentiment It is a small thing, it is the big ones. Flying th impulses and re-establi It is the duty of every and particularly upon

OPTIMISM IS CALGARY'S WATCH

Optimism is the wa precept is signally prev Calgary. Whenever th display of the standard by its prominence. It s ous sunshine and by th on all citizens alike. E carries wtih it love, laug so we people of Calgary —meanwhile plodding contentment and doing

CO-OPERATION IS THE KEY TO SUC

Co-operation is the fact may be seen in th charge of the raising o standing that many ot opposition to the Y. M sive workers of Calgary sheer ability raised th less time than was al co-operation will do. C It changes failure into the shaft on which s watchword.

THE FILTHY HA SHOULD BE CUR

The greatest men cigarette smoking. Th Cigarette smoking is If the Lord's Day Al for humanity it would smoking. The habit s air. Indoor smoking o have not acquired th smokers are as impoli as they are uncleanly place will show a strik by a cigarette fiend. would have long sinc And today the habit is men and women, boys restraint should imme menace today.

REVERIES AND VISIONS

Day dreams and waking nights! They all the autumnal mad picture that reaches ou long hills where India frost ate its heart aw freshest bloom, this gi ionary landscape and the beauties and loveli his winters and make wind-swept dunes of his harvests over mell of bounteous husband that intone domestic b Reverie! Such a musici timed with the tappin violet of his laughing e ings that he wore, he f Challenge his art if yo him out in the dampe bring water to your d tions! At times they bring balsam from To wind far around the ea at spring or hummock they come.

JULY

A GOOD NEIGHBOR IS ONE WHO LACKS INTEREST IN THINGS THAT DO NOT CONCERN HIM

This section contains:
SPORTS
THEATER
SOCIETY
FARMING
LIVESTOCK
MARKET REPORTS
FINANCE

CALGARY
Western Standard
ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY
INDEPENDENT OPTIMISTIC

MY CANADA

I LOVE my country. There is nothing that she can ask I will not do. I am ready to live or die for her. She is the realization of a dream and the fulfillment of an ideal—this Canada of ours. She is the embodiment of what a country should be—and right or wrong, it is my home, my country—the one I love.

Vol. VI. No. 17 TWO SECTIONS—12 Pages CALGARY, ALBERTA, JULY 1, 1917 TWO SECTIONS—12 Pages Five Cents the Copy

COMMENT AND CRITICISM

FLY THE FLAG
ALL NEXT WEEK

On July 1st and 2nd, and, in fact, all week, every Canadian household should fly the flag—the emblem of our independence and our loyalty to our country. Some of us may be deterred from showing our patriotism by taking up arms but we can all graphically illustrate this sentiment by the flaunting of the red, white and blue. It is a small thing, it is true, but it is the small things that create the big ones. Flying the flag instils patriotism. It stimulates the impulses and re-establishes the feeling of pride in your country. It is the duty of every true Canadian to fly the flag, at all times, and particularly upon Dominion day.

* * * *

OPTIMISM IS CALGARY'S WATCHWORD

Optimism is the watchword for the average Canadian and this precept is signally prevalent in the every day life of the people of Calgary. Whenever there is the slightest excuse or reason for this display of the standard bearer of progress optimism is conspicuous by its prominence. It seems to be wafted over the town by the glorious sunshine and by the soft chinook winds, and it alights equally on all citizens alike. Being the forerunner of prosperity optimism carries wtih it love, laughter and song, wealth and happiness. And so we people of Calgary are all living in a bright haze of anticipation—meanwhile plodding away at our daily labors—sowing seeds of contentment and doing our duty to country and our fellow man.

* * * *

CO-OPERATION IS THE KEY TO SUCCESS

Co-operation is the backbone of success. Illustrations of this fact may be seen in the good work of the committee who had charge of the raising of the 20,000 for the Y. M. C. A. Notwithstanding that many other schemes for money were running in opposition to the Y. M. C. A. movement, the committee of progressive workers of Calgary put their shoulders to the helm and through sheer ability raised the required amount, and more than that, in less time than was allotted. This is a good indication of what co-operation will do. Co-operation builds cities and it builds worlds. It changes failure into success. Co-operation is the foundation of the shaft on which success stands. Co-operation should be our watchword.

* * * *

THE FILTHY HABIT
SHOULD BE CURBED

The greatest menace to public health and decency today is cigarette smoking. The cigarette fiend is the scourge of humanity. Cigarette smoking is parent to uncleanliness, indecency and filth. If the Lord's Day Alliance wanted to really do something good for humanity it would wage the fight against promiscuous cigarette smoking. The habit should be curtailed and restricted to the open air. Indoor smoking of cigarettes is most obnoxious to those who have not acquired the unhealthy habit, nevertheless cigarette smokers are as impolite in their manner of continuing the disease as they are uncleanly in the performance of the act. Any closed place will show a striking example of this fact after the occupancy by a cigarette fiend. If it was not for the war cigarette smoking would have long since come under the ban of national restraint. And today the habit is growing so alarmingly among all classes of men and women, boys and girls, that government supervision and restraint should immediately be enacted. Cigarettes is the world's menace today.

* * * *

REVERIES AND VISIONS

Day dreams and abstractions, and visions that come in the waking nights! They steal in unaware, with palette and brush and all the autumnal madders of russet and gold are dashed into the picture that reaches out in hazy lanes, corn fields, orchards and the long hills where Indian summer stayed until the keen tooth of the frost ate its heart away. Or with vernal green and the pink of freshest bloom, this great artist of the heart will decorate his visionary landscape and reproduce in the gloomy confines of a cell all the beauties and loveliness of life's brightest scenes. He will crisp his winters and make them white, staging old man Christmas with wind-swept dunes of snow, and forest etchings. Or he will pile his harvests over mellow valleys and troupe them with the spirit of bounteous husbandry, making into his picture sweet sounds that intone domestic beauty. Such a master, is the great artist of Reverie! Such a musician he is that he can bring up a baby's croon, timed with the tapping of his chubby fist and back it with the violet of his laughing eyes. Not satisfied with the little blue stockings that he wore, he fetches with them the hole at that baby's toe! Challenge his art if you dare, in the bottom of the deepest pit; try him out in the dampest of isolation holes and see if he will not bring water to your dry eyes. Reveries, day dreams and abstractions! At times they seem to afflict us, but they refresh us. They bring balsam from Tolu and balm from Gilead. Their caravans wind far around the earth to find us, but they never camp nor stop at spring or hummock till they do. And they are blessed when they come.

CALGARY, THE SUNKISSI D BRIDE OF PROGRESS

Calgary is the only city of its kind in all Canada. There never was a city just like it in all the world and there never will be another one like it anywhere else. Calgary has happened once and in the process of the ages it cannot happen again.

Calgary has its mood, of course. It is at times sad as well as glad. It changes as the spirit takes it, but no matter in what humor it may be it is still Calgary, dear old Calgary, the city of sunshine and gladness.

Go east if you want to; or south or west, no matter where you may wend your way, the same irresistible impulse will make you long for the city near the snowclad mountains, with the purple skies and the wind that lulls you to sleep with a song no singer can sing.

In Calgary we have liberty. That beautiful word that is spoken loudest by those who roam the hills and mountains and open prairies. They know full well how to appreciate the full meaning of such a word as we all do in Calgary. And with that love of liberty has been instilled an equal love for man and womankind. So by common instinct we have made our laws the best for woman that there are in all the land.

The people of Calgary love pleasure but hate monopolies. They revel in sunshine but resent the extra cost of our necessities. They are as changeable as the wind but albeit when necessity comes they are staunch and true as the Rock of Gibraltar, Calgary may be wrong at times. She may be disappointing; she may even be ungrateful, but she is Calgary and being Calgary we are bound by bonds of unexplainable loyalty to love and serve her forever and a day.

HIS MAJESTY KING GEORGE V.

Ruler of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions Beyond the Seas. Was born June 3, 1865, and succeeded his father, King Edward, VII., May 6, 1910. Was married to Princess Victoria Mary of Teck in July, 1893.

REVIEW OF THE WAR HERE AND EVERYWHERE

Sunday saw little fighting of very much magnitude under way. The Germans showed considerable activity on certain parts of the Belgian line especially near Reninghe, Pypegaele and Lizerne, while between the French and Huns lively hand grenade fighting took place near Streenstraete and the "Fenyman's House." Hostile raids were checked by British machine guns with great loss to the Huns, southeast of Grafelle, and southeast of Armentieres.

On the Canadian front there was increased artillery activity.

On the Italian front there was sharp fighting between the Austrians and King Victor Emmanuel's troops, which resulted favorably for the latter.

June 25—On this day our Canadian boys captured a very valuable bit of trench, 400 yards long, on the outskirts of Lens, placing their line much closer to the great coal city.

According to a statement submitted by F. Von Georgi, minister of the defence in the retiring Austrian cabinet, three Czec regiments have deserted to the Russians, and that Czec regiments have been formed in the ranks of Austria's enemies.

A British steamer hits magazine of Hun submarine at five mile angle—exit U-boat.

A threatened coal famine together with pessimistic reports of their crops, have caused the Teuton populace much distress.

June 26—With great joy we learn that the Canadians have surrounded Lens; this having been made possible by the gain on June 25.

After a long lull the Huns and Slavs are at grips again and sharp fighting is taking place in Galicia between the Zlopa Lipa and Narayuvka rivers.

The pro-Germans, headed by Alexander Zaimas, have resigned, and Venizelos has been asked to form a cabinet. Venizelos will undoubtedly comply with this request and form a cabinet which will declare for war.

In a great air battle three British planes routed 10 Teuton machines.

Austrian troops attempt to recapture lost positions in Trentino from the Italians and suffer terrible losses.

June 27—The troops of our American allies landed on French soil today amidst great enthusiasm.

June 28—The capture of the town of Eludit Leuvitte, places the Canadians in a position within half a mile of Lens.

Venizelos is now, to the great joy of the allies, premier of Greece, and minister of war.

June 29—The Canadians have captured Avion (to the south of Lens) reports London. Lens promises to fall within three days and the German position in that locality is critical.

Organized labor has threatened a general strike if conscription is enforced.

Portugal rejoices in the recent victory of her troops on the western front. W. McC.

COMMENT AND CRITICISM

OFFICIAL CATALOG
OF THE EXHIBITION

The official program and catalog of the Calgary Industrial exhibition shows conclusively the progress and prosperity of the country. The publication has grown from a booklet of about 80 pages last year to one double this size this year. It is filled with advertisements from the business houses of the city and includes much interesting data regarding the Industrial Exhibition and the various attractions. The book is a fine example of the printers' art. It was printed by the well known firm of A. R. Littlebury, 105 Sixth Ave., West.

* * * *

FUTURE ROSEATE
WITH CROP WEALTH

Everyone is jubilant over the bright prospects for the crops this coming year. On every side we hear nothing but favorable reports of the future wealth in store for us this fall when the harvest has come in. The rains and sunshine of the past few weeks has raised the hopes of the farmers to the top notch. Nature seems to have worked hand and glove with the country to help in the big fight we are all waging. On every side we hear nothing but gratifying remarks as to the prospects. The fact that the Allies will bring over $30,000,000 to the livestock breeds this year has had a most favorable effect on every line of business. The farmers are afraid to estimate the prices that they will receive for their crop. But the fact is clear that Calgary and Alberta has great wealth in store for her this year.

* * * *

RAISING PIGS
A GOOD INVESTMENT

"Pigs is Pigs," so says Ellis Parker Butler, one of the cleverest writers the United States has ever produced. Pigs is also food and is also dollars in the farmer's pocket. A pig is marketable at four months from birth. At approximately 120 days the pig, properly fed, will gain at least a pound a day. At current prices for pork the value of the pig will double the cost of the feed consumed so that at the end of the 120 days the pig is worth all that he has cost and as much again. The pig market like all other food markets grows better each day. This demand is sure to continue as long as the war lasts and perhaps longer. Properly inoculated this animal is immune against scourge, cholera and other troubles. This is a great investment—pig production—and every farmer should raise a pig.

* * * *

STRIKING ILLUSTRATIONS THAT COUNTRY IS PROSPEROUS

Those pessimists who refuse to believe that Canada can be prosperous even in the face of the awful waste of life and wealth that is being consumed across the water, cannot help from taking cognizance of the indication of prosperity that the summer show crowd brought to Calgary. The country buyers simply overrun the town and the stores. These living evidences of prosperity show to the world striking illustrations of what the real business conditions are. Their evidences are more convincing than anything that the bankers and others can say. Their actions speak louder than words. They have the evidences of prosperity in the shape of real money and they spread this evidence everywhere they go. Alberta is prosperous and the farmer and rancher are doing a lot to make it so.

* * * *

DON'T CRITICIZE
THE GOVERNMENT

Government supervision of food is a good thing. It is a matter of deep regret that the Canadian food controller was not appointed two years ago. The United States has a very wise president. This has been shown in many ways, and particularly in the way he is profiting through the experience of Canada and taking no chances in the coming conflict. From the manner in which he has taken hold of the leading subjects, it demonstrates that he is for the people's interests first, last, and always. There is no question in the minds of those that are well versed in the questions of the day that the conscription of wealth in the United States is bound to come if the money-men do not respond generously to the appeals of the government for funds for war purposes. The Canadian government has been somewhat backward in taking hold of these questions, but this is to be expected under the circumstances. The government had nothing to govern themselves by like the United States. In this war the Canadian government has practically had to blaze a trail. It has done many things that were thought impossible so it is hardly to be expected that they should be severally criticised for things that they seem to be remiss in, in view of the many great things that they have accomplished. The Canadian government should be criticised, however, should they fail at this time to take over government supervision of food, clothing and necessities of all kinds including the extra wealth of the country if this is needed for the country. If we need men let's have them by every means within our power. If we need money and it is not forthcoming from the usual channels then it must be taken through force. This is a fight for life and liberty, and every means possible must be used to win, because win we must and shall.

RURAL MAIL ORDER GUIDE

RURAL BUYERS' GUIDE

RELIABLE FIRMS—SATISFACTORY SERVICE

FARMERS' AND RANCHERS' BUSINESS DIRECTORY

HOME CLASSIFIED BUSINESS GUIDE

STANDARD BUSINESS DIRECTORY

BARRISTERS AND SOLICITORS

E. F. RYAN BARRISTER, SOLICITOR and Notary, 402 Maclean Block, Calgary, Alta. Phone M1670.

E. A. DUNBAR, BARRISTER, ETC., Royal Bank Chambers, Eighth Ave. and Centre Street. Phone M2311. 11-1yr.

FRANCOIS DE BOUSSY DE SALES, Barrister, Solicitor and Notary Public; Avocat Francais. Rooms, 209-211 Grain Exchange, Calgary. Phone M1916.

H. P. SAUNDERS, BARRISTER AND Solicitor, etc. 22 Old Herald Building Phone M2747.

JAMES O. CAMPBELL, B.L., BARRISTER and Solicitor, 312 Beveridge Building, Calgary. Phone M2977.

J. J. MACDONALD, B.A., LL.B., BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary, 503-506 Beveridge Building, Calgary, Alta. Phone M3571

J. McKINLEY CAMERON, BARRISTER and Solicitor. Office, 230 Phone M6769. Corner of 8th Ave. and First St. West.

LOUGHEED, BENNETT, McLAWS & CO. Clarence Block, 122 Eighth Ave. West, Calgary, Alberta, Canada

Hon. J. A. Lougheed, P.C., K.C.; R. B. Bennett, K.C.; W. H. McLaws, J. C. Brotovski, J. B. Roberts, D. L. Redman, L. M. Roberts, W. C. Pollard, H. A. Chadwick, H. B. Forster.

McLEAN, PATTERSON AND BROAD. H. W. McLean, W. H. Patterson, W. S. Broad. Phone M6356. 502 MacLean Block, Calgary. Branch Offices, Acme, and Beiseker, Alta.

P. HARCOURT O'REILLY, HARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary. 715-717 Herald Bldg Calgary. Phone M5969.

SAVARY, FENERTY & CHADWICK, Stringer Block. Main 6614.

TWEEDIE, McGILLIVRAY, BARRON & Oldham, Solicitors, Etc. T. M. Tweedie, A. A. McGillivray, J. B. Barron, J. N. Oldham. 106A Eighth Avenue West.

ARTISTS

ARTISTS, DESIGNERS & ENGRAVERS HICKS ENGRAVING CO., LIMITED, Makers of Photo Engravings for all Purposes. Herald Western Building, Cor. 2nd Ave. and 9th Street West Phone M6761

STAFFORD & KENT, DESIGNERS AND ENGRAVERS Illuminated Addresses, Engrossings and Engraved Cards 822A Eighth Avenue West

BOOTS AND SHOES

FOR UP-TO-THE-MINUTE FOOTWEAR, go to RICHARDSON'S LIMITED (The Home of Good Shoes) 815 Eighth Ave. West Phone M4509

COUPLAND BUSINESS COLLEGE

THE OLD SCHOOL, THE TRIED SCHOOL, the School for you. Why not start now? Phone M1808. 109 14th Ave. West.

FRONT OFFICE TO RENT

IN MILLS BLOCK For particulars apply J. J. PETRIE SUITE 2, MILLS BLOCK 822A 8th Avenue West Phone M3376

FURNITURE REMOVERS

THE PACIFIC CARTAGE CO., LIMITED, Furniture Moving and Storage, expert packers and forwarding agents. Phone M6097. Office in C.P.R. freight shed, Ninth Avenue and Second Street East.

DYEING AND CLEANING

WHEN IN NEED OF FIRST-CLASS DRY Cleaning, Dyeing or Repair Work, on the shortest notice, 'phone THE DON DRY CLEANING COMPANY, 902 Seventh Ave. West Phones M3825—M3906.

APPAREL SERVICE CO., DYERS, Cleaners of everything. 233 17 Ave. W. Phones M5150, W1533.

DO YOU WANT MONEY?

If you are a man, woman, boy or girl and you want to make money send us your name and address. We will send you the particulars which will make you money and independent for life. You only have to devote a part of your spare time to it to earn all the money you need for luxuries or you can devote your entire time to it and make a good living. You don't need any experience. You simply need energy and ambition to make the effort and success will come.—Address, Manager, 109 Sixth Ave., Calgary, Alberta.

DR. SIZE THE DENTIST AND NATUROPATH

226 Eighth Avenue East 30 years successful practice. All branches

Have your Dental work done, your Plates, Crowns or Bridges repaired.

BABY WELFARE

Avoid all drugs and patent medicines. They will serve you false. The cause of decay of the teeth is in the general system not the mouth. Let me explain this to you.

FURS AND LADIES' TAILORED HATS

WE ARE BUSY NOW IN THE FUR Remodelling Dept. What will it be in the season? So don't defer sending your furs to us; you will save time and money

W. W. BELL

LADIES' HATTER AND FURRIER 237 7th Ave. West, between 1st and 2nd Sts.

GASFITTING

WE BEG TO ANNOUNCE THE RE-opening of the Central Plumbing, Gasfitting and Heating Store on 1211 First Street East. Gas Stoves and Water Heaters connected and general repairs of every description. If you have anything in the above line, by patronizing me you are helping a returned Soldier. Phone M1265. H. C. Laurie.

HARDWARE

MARSHALL HARDWARE, LIMITED, 121 Eighth Avenue East. Main 6288.

HAT WORKS

EMPIRE HAT WORKS HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED & REMODELLED 310 7th AVE. EAST PHONE M 6700

HATS CLEANED, BLOCKED AND REmodeled. Apparel Service Co. Phones M3150, W1533, 233 17 Ave. West. We call and deliver.

HOTELS

QUEEN'S HOTEL Second Street East and Eighth Avenue FURNISHED ROOMS TO RENT BY DAY, week or month. Weekly rates from $2.75 to $5.000; monthly rates from $10.00 to $20.00. All outside rooms, warm and comfortable, most central location in city. B. A. Atkinson, Jr., proprietor.

HOMESTEADS OR FARM LANDS

OREGON AND CALIFORNIA RAILROAD Co. Grant Lands—Titles to same revested in United States by act of Congress, dated June 9, 1916. Two million three hundred thousand acres to be opened for homesteads and sale. Timber and Agricultural Lands, containing some of best lands left in United States. Now is the opportune time. Large sectional map showing lands and description of soil, climate, rainfall, elevation, etc., postpaid One Dollar. Grant Lands Locating Co., Box 818, Portland, Oregon.

WANTED—to hear from owner of good farm for sale. Northwestern Business Agency, Minneapolis, Minn.

HELP WANTED

MEN AND WOMEN TO LEARN BARBering. Highest wages, steady employment guaranteed. Tools furnished free. Send for free illustrated instruction book. CALGARY BARBER COLLEGE, 815B Centre Street (near C.P.R. Depot).

LADIES WANTED TO DO PLAIN AND light sewing at home, whole or spare time; good pay; work sent any distance; charges paid. Send stamp for particulars. National Manufacturing Company, Montreal 8-6

HIDES AND FURS

BEST MARKET PRICE FOR HIDES, FURS, WOOLS, PELTS AND HORSE HAIR, by the CANADIAN HIDE AND FUR COMPANY 510 Fourth Street East Phone M6589 Calgary

We pay 2 cents per lb. for old rags. We pay 30c per pound for Horse Hair.

HIGH CLASS CLOTHING

MRS. BRENNAND, PHONE M5187, DEALer in high class cast-off clothing. Samples in Ladies' Suits, Coats and Furs. Highest prices given. Mrs. Brennand, 810a First St West. Alberta rooms.

ICE CREAM MANUFACTURERS

ICE CREAM IN BRICK AND BULK. Pure Goods. Prompt delivery. P. PALLESEN Calgary Central Creamery Phone M5638

ANNOUNCEMENT

Any Standard reader patronizing advertisers on this page are guaranteed satisfactory service. If you make a purchase and the goods are not right consult The Standard. When you buy mention The Standard.

Calgary (Western) Standard

Independent Weekly Newspaper Illustrating Current Events and Devoted to the Advancement of Western Canada

Published Every Saturday at 109 Sixth Avenue West. Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

B. S. WHITE . . . Editor and Manager

Telephone for Editorial and Circulation Departments M4310.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

Two dollars per year throughout Canada. Fifty Cents Extra by mail or carrier in the City of Calgary, or to Foreign Points. Subscription may commence at any time.

The date on your wrapper indicates when your subscription will terminate. Your paper will stop unless you renew promptly. It is always best to renew at least two weeks before expiration to insure uninterrupted service.

Subscribers failing to receive copies regularly will confer a favor by notifying the Circulation Department by post or phone.

No agent or newsboy is authorized to sell CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD on Sunday. Any person doing so is acting without permission or authority of this company.

The Standard takes no responsibility for any obligation incurred by any employee unless such obligation is ordered and accepted by the proper officer of this company.

ADVERTISING

Advertising rates upon application.

All advertising copy must reach the Standard Office not later than Thursday afternoon to insure insertion in Mail and Local Editions.

All correspondence and editorial communications should be addressed to CALGARY (WESTERN) STANDARD, Calgary, Alberta.

Fortune Floats In the Sea

A Whale With Indigestion Produces the Valuable Ambergris

Should you go to the seashore this summer keep your eyes open for ambergris. It's worth $26 an ounce now.

Ambergris? Ambergris is a blubberous substance found floating in the sea and sometimes it is washed up on shore. For the second time within the last few years a vessel owned by a Provincetown, Mass., man has brought in a piece of this substance valued at some $30,000. The man who finds a medium sized chunk of this jelly, which hardens when exposed to the air, might invest the proceeds from the sale of it and retire for life. A lump the size of a washtub would raise the mortgage on the old homestead.

Ambergris for many years was a mystery. It was usually found washing around in the sea, and whence it came and what its composition was were long unknown. Years ago some obscure man, yet a clever one, discovered its peculiar and valuable qualities. Perfumery makers had long been troubled by the evanescent properties of perfumes, and the great need had been for a binder to produce staying qualities.

This genius took four ounces of the mysterious substance known as ambergris and dissolved it in a gallon of cologne spirits, thus producing a tincture of ambergris. The tincture is allowed to stand for a year to "ripen," after which a small quantitity, a few drops mingled with perfumery, gives an odor that lingers.

But ambergris, being so extremely scarce, commands an enormous price. Perfumers use it in only the most expensive perfumes.

In recent years scientists have established the fact that ambergris is really the secretion of a whale suffering with indigestion. Whales are exceedingly fond of squid, the little cuttlefish which swarm in Atlantic waters. Sometimes the whale eats too much of this delicacy. And it always eats carelessly. The squid is provided with a horny beak, which the whale neglects to remove before eating.

The result is that too great an accumulation of these horny substances in the whale's interior causes a rebellion, which results in the accumulation of the horny substances in lumps. The lumps seek the open air, and a small fortune is set floating on the sea.

Sick-Headache

Dr. J. J. Caldwell says that this exceedingly distressing disease does not shorten life, but does not appear to be curable. Sufferers from this affliction are condemned to undergo the periodical attacks every few weeks until they are forty years of age, after which the attacks are less frequent, and finally disappear entirely. Palliative measures during the attack are all that it is possible to suggest, while care in the diet is the best preventive measure. An attack may often be prevented by taking two anti-kamnin tablets when the first symptoms appear, and one anti-kamnin tablet every two hours during the attack shortens it, eases the pain and brings rest and quiet.

Anti-kamnin tablets may be obtained at all druggists. Ask for A-K Tablets. They quickly relieve all pain.

JEWELERS

DIAMOND MERCHANTS AND MANUFACTURING JEWELERS AND OPTICIANS Issuers of Marriage Licenses D. E. BLACK & CO., LTD. Corner 7th Avenue and 1st Street West

LOCKSMITHS

IDDIOLS BROS., SAFE AND LOCK EXperts. We repair Bicycles, Sewing machines, Guns, Locks, Etc. We sharpen lawn mowers, saws, shears, razors, etc. 212 2nd Street East, City Hall Corner Sik. East. Phone M5516. 13-1yr

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS FOR SALE

Great Snap in one slightly used Willis Auto Player Piano, 88 note, mahogany finish, $550.00, formerly sold at $950.00. Terms if desired. Also bargains in some slightly used Organs.

WILLIS & KNABE Show Rooms: 328 Eighth Ave. W., Calgary W. M. Howe, Manager Alberta Branch

Perhaps the whale whose interior apartments Jonah inspected was dyspeptic.

Whale hunters always look through the carcass of a captured whale for this substance. But whales are scarcer than they once were, and not all of them are suffering with indigestion when caught. So ambergris remains scarce.

It would be a paying investment to buy a whale and make him sick on squids each day.

The first chunk for which Captain Cook got $30,000 was the size of a barrel. And pieces weighing as much as two hundred pounds are said to have been found on seashores, where they had been cast up by the waves. At present a pound of crude ambergris is worth about $250. Two hundred times $250 is $50,000!

So watch your step this summer. You might stub your toe on a fortune.

UNCLE SAM TELLS HOW TO BUILD ICELESS REFRIGERATOR

Refrigerators can be made to do their part in conserving food this summer. Preserving milk, butter and other supplies and keeping leftovers and unused portions until they are needed will be their service. If ice is not obtainable, an iceless refrigerator, cooled by evaporation, can be easily constructed.

Make a screened case 3½ feet high with the other dimensions 12 by 15 inches. If a solid top is used, simply place the water pan on this. Otherwise fit the pan closely into the opening of the top frame and support it by one-inch cleats fastened to the inside of the frame.

Place two movable shelves in the frame, 12 to 15 inches apart. Use a biscuit pan 12 by 14 inches on the top to hold the water, and where the refrigerator is to be used indoors have the whole thing standing in a large pan to catch any drip.

A covering of white Canton flannel should be made to fit the frame. Have the smooth side out and button the covering on the frame with buggy or automobile curtain hoks and eyes, arranged so that the door may be opened without unfastening these hooks. This can easily be done by putting one row of hooks on the edge of the door next the latch and the other just opposite the opening, with the hem on each side extended far enough to cover the crack at the edge of the door.

This dress or covering will have to be hooked around the top edge also. Two double strips one-half the width of each side should be sewed on the top of each side covering and allowed to extend over about two and a half or three inches in the pan of water. The bottom of the covering should extend into the lower pan.

BANFF TRIP NOT COMPLETE WITHOUT IMBIBING THE WATERS

Calgarians will particularly appreciate these days the Banff wonderful aerated waters as we are forced to drink the muddy, dirty, unsanitary Bow river water which is clogged with all kinds of impurities.

The Banff Aerated Water Works have installed a modern plant for proper exploitation of these health giving waters, which are imbued with life giving properties.

The visitors to Banff appreciate the superior qualities of these waters to the extent that large quantities of these various waters are drunk at Banff, and on their departure many visitors have arranged for the different products to be sent to them.

British Columbia pleasure resorts are also large users of these wonderful waters that are filled with sunshine and life and brewed through the clear mountain air.

Many others in Canada are learning to appreciate the value of the Banff waters, and are sending in regular orders from Alberta, Saskatchewan and eastern points.

The Banff Aerated Water Works, which is owned by Samuel Diamond, a member of the well known Calgary family of Diamonds, manufactures various products including Mountain Brew, Ginger Ales, Banff Mineral Water, etc.

A visit to Banff would not be complete unless one enjoyed the pleasure of drinking the aBnff waters, and when it is taken into consideration that these same waters may be sent to your home and enjoyed long after your trip to aBnff it makes the pleasure doubly enjoyable.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be, a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section pre-emption. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A settler after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot secure a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agent's Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

W. W. CORY, Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N. B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.

DIVINING RODS STILL IN VOGUE IN THE WORLD

It is evident from the large number of inquiries received by the United States Geological Survey that the superstition of a forked twig, or so-called divining rod, being useful in locating minerals, finding hidden treasure or locating underground water, still has a strong hold on the popular mind. To all inquirers the Survey gives the advice not to spend any money for the use or purchase of any machine or instrument devised for locating underground water or minerals.

The origin of this superstition is lost in antiquity. The divining rod became common in German mineral sections during the early sixteenth century. It was introduced in England by German miners during the reign of Elizabeth and before the end of the seventeenth century had spread throughout Europe. The rules prescribed for the cutting of the forked twig partook largely of heathen sorcery and astrology and were directly traceable to old Scandinavian and Aryan mythology. This heathen influence was later offset when the road was duly Christianized by baptism, being laid for that purpose in the bed with a newly baptized child by whose Christian name it was afterward addressed.

The divining rod continued to be a favorite suject with alchemistric writers during the whole of the seventeenth century, at which time witchcraft had become a frenzy, and was generally used in pointing out sorcerers, etc., until the inquisition issued a decree in 1701 against its further use.

Before the present war there were several societies in Germany whose sole object was said to be the study of the diving rod. In 1910 the Department of Agriculture of France appointed a committe to investigate the subject and in 1914 this committee was still investigating.

OH, FIE!

To advertise a corset, sir,
You take a maiden fair,
Undress her in a pubic place,
And leave her standing there!
—Judicious Advertisng.

A Real Improvement

The Sitting Position You Occupy When Sewing is a Very Important Matter

Your work is directly in front of you THE "WHITE" SIT-STRATE is only one of the many Real Improvements offered in the "WHITE"

You Can Have Yours Now, Just—

PAY $1.00 EACH WEEK—SOON PAID FOR

Sold by THE NEILSON FURNITURE CO., Calgary

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT DEALERS

WESTERN MUSIC SUPPLY CO. Everything known in Music Supplies of all kinds for all instruments, Brass Band Instruments bought and sold. 405a Eighth Ave. West. Phone 3154, Calgary, Alta.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

D.E. BLACK & CO. LIMITED JEWELERS & OPTICIANS ISSUERS OF MARRIAGE LICENSES EXPERT WATCH REPAIRING IN WESTERN CANADA 2ND FLOOR, SCOTTISH HERALD BUILDING CALGARY, ALBERTA

OLD NEWSPAPERS FOR SALE

The Western Standard has a quantity of old newspapers for sale, suitable for wrapping, putting on shelves or putting under carpets. Apply Circulation Dept., 109 Sixth Avenue West.

STANDARD'S MOTOR DIRECTORY

AUTO GARAGES

TRY THE WEST END GARAGE FOR Automobile Repairs; our work is superior at low cost, and satisfaction guaranteed. 12th Ave. and 5th St. West. 13-26

SECOND-HAND CARS BOUGHT AND Sold. We always have a good line of autos to make a good selection. Our Garage is second to none for Repairs and Supplies. WEBBER'S GARAGE 129 5th Avenue W. Phone M2033

VULCANIZING

We are specialists in vulcanizing everything in rubber. We are agents for the famous Firestone Tire. Don't forget the address: BELL TIRE CO., 602 First Street East Phone M5905 Res. M4702

MANUFACTURING FURRIER

FURS REMODELLED AND REPAIRED—Your own skins dressed and made up. Highest prices paid for raw furs. THOMAS PAIN, Successor to Mackay & Dipple, Fur Manufacturing Department 218A Eighth Avenue West Calgary.

MOUNT ROYAL COLLEGE CALGARY

ACADEMIC COURSES; BOOK-KEEPING and Stenography; Music, Expression, Art, Etc. Resident and Day Students. Open to all denominations and classes. Phone M2191. Calendar free on application.

NURSING HOMES

ENGLISH MATERNITY HOME—TERMS $20 per week inclusive, Graduate nurses supplied. Phone M3423. 812 2nd Ave. W.

OSTEOPATHY

DRS. CHURCH & PLUMMER, OSTEOpathic Physicians and Surgeons, members of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Alberta. Suites 7, 8, 9, Alberta Block. Phones M2787. All Curable Diseases Successfully Treated. Adenoids removed without anesthesia, the famous Irrigation Treatment used in the treatment of Catarrh. Going on Nine Years in Calgary.

OPTICIANS

HERBERT J. AKITT OPTOMETRIST & OPTICIAN PHONE M. 6150. MACLEAN BLOCK

PATENT SOLICITORS

FORD, WRIGHT & MILLER, PATENT Solicitors. Patents secured in all countries. Phone M6671. 207 Alberta Corner. Calgary, Alberta.

PIANOS

HARDY & HUNT PIANO CO., LIMITED 816 Eighth Ave. West. Main 1585.

PICTURE FRAMING

THE ART SHOP — PICTURE FRAMING a Specialty. 837 Seventh Ave. West J. W. BOOTH, Proprietor. Four years with Royal Picture Gallery

PLUMBING CONTRACTOR

YOUNG PLUMBING Co. Ltd. Steam & Gas Fitters Tinners M 2869. 203 7th AVE E.

PRINTING

A. R. LITTLEBURY, COMMERCIAL AND Book Printer; 105 Sixth Avenue West Phone M2207. Estimates given.

SAFETY RAZORS SHARPENED

JUST TO CONVINCE YOU, SEND US three blades, we will resharpen them and return to you Free of charge. Our prices are: Gillette 35c per doz., and single edge blades 25c per doz., old fashioned razors 25c each. We sharpen Clippers Scissors and Lances of every description Give us a trial. THE CALGARY SHOE HOSPITAL 1239 Eighth Avenue West

SHOES REPAIRED

HIGH GRADE STOCK — MADE TO ORDER — EXPERT WORKMANSHIP — THE DRI-PED CUSTOM SHOEMAKERS AND REPAIRERS 226 8th Ave East Calgary — SERVICE — SYSTEM — SATISFACTION

O. K. SHOE CO. Calgary's Leading Shoe Repairers Let Us Fix Your Shoes We Guarantee the Utmost Satisfaction Country Orders Receive Prompt Attention 710 First St. E. Phone M5078

PHOTOGRAPHER

CHAZIN PHOTO STUDIO—PORTRAITURE enlarging, developing, printing, and commercial work. 7 Eighth Ave. West Phone M3923.

PHOTOGRAPHIC COLORING

FOR ENLARGING, COLORING, FRAMing Photos of all kinds, faded and damaged Enlargements and Pictures restored. The Colorphoto Co., 710 First St. East. Please mention the Standard.

STATIONERY AND OFFICE SUPPLIES

WILLSON STATIONERY CO., LIMITED, 215 Eighth Avenue West,—Everything in Stationery and Office Supplies. The most complete stock in Western Canada.

SECOND-HAND DEALERS

CHICAGO IRON AND METAL CO. 501-503 Sixth Ave. E., corner 4th St. Phone M4448.

Dealers in Scrap Iron, Brass, Copper, Zinc and Lead, Rubber Tires and Inner Tubes, also Manilla Rope and all kinds of Old Machinery. It will be to your convenience to see us. Phone, call or write. MAX RUBEN, Manager.

STORAGE AND CARTAGE

STORAGE AND CARTAGE FOR ANY kind of goods. Warehouse specially fitted for household merchandise, each customer having separate rooms. Trackage. Padded vans for furniture and pianos. Expert packers and shippers. Estimates cheerfully given Official cartage and baggage agents C.N.R. JOHNSTON STORAGE & CARTAGE CO Phone M4444 and M5678. Limited Office and Warehouse 423 Sixth Ave. East

CALGARY STORAGE & CARTAGE CO LIMITED 437 TENTH AVENUE EAST PHONE M1349

Storage for all classes of Merchandise, including Cold Storage Equipment; Separate Compartments for Furniture, Pianos; Padded Furniture Vans; Packers, Forwarders. Baggage Delivered. Trackage for carlots.

TAILORS

SANDY MACLEAN Alterations, Tailoring, Repairs, Cleaning and Pressing

Suits made to measure from $18 to $35 433 Lougheed Building, over Grand Theatre—Phone M6506. Calgary, Alberta

UNDERTAKING PARLORS

GRAHAM McCALL AND RUTTLE LTD. FUNERAL DIRECTORS. Horse and Motor Equipment, Ambulance in connection. 611 Centre St. Phone M3789

VIOLINS AND VIOLONCELLOS

JAS. J. DOHERTY Expert Violin Repairing, Tone Restored, Bows Rehaired Musical Instruments of All Kinds Rebuilt and Repaired 405A EIGHTH AVE. WEST

ROSEDALE STAR

LUMP $6.00
STOVE $5.25

Stock up now before the raise in price.

YORK SHAW 238 Eighth Ave. East Phone M6423

PARCEL POST RATES

Any P. O. within twenty miles of Calgary, five cents for the first lb. and one cent additional for each additional lb. up to five lbs. when the rate is two cents for each additional lb. up to eleven lbs. To any P.O. beyond 20 miles but within the radius of Alberta, ten cents for the first lb. and four cents for each additional lb. To any P. O. in Saskatchewan ten cents for the first lb. and six cents additional for each additional lb.. To any P. O. in Manitoba, twelve cents for the first lb. and eight cents for each additional lb.

HOME CLASSIFIED BUSINESS GUIDE

FOR DIRECTORY

PHOTOGRAPHER

HAZIN PHOTO STUDIO—PORTRAITURE enlarging, developing, printing, and mmercial work. 7 Eighth Ave. West hone M3923.

PHOTOGRAPHIC COLORING

OR ENLARGING, COLORING, FRAMing Photos of all kinds, faded and amaged Enlargements and Pictures reored. The Colorphoto Co., 719 First St. ast. Please mention the Standard.

STATIONERY AND OFFICE SUPPLIES

WILLSON STATIONERY CO., LIMITED, 215 Eighth Avenue West.—Everything n Stationery and Office Supplies. The ost complete stock in Western Canada.

SECOND-HAND DEALERS

HICAGO IRON AND METAL CO. 01-503 Sixth Ave. E., corner 4th St. Phone M4448.

Dealers in Scrap Iron, Brass, Copper, inc and Lead, Rubber Tires and Inner ubes, also Manilla Rope and all kinds f Old Machinery. It will be to your conenience to see us. Phone, call or write. MAX RUBEN, Manager.

STORAGE AND CARTAGE

STORAGE AND CARTAGE FOR ANY kind of goods. Warehouse specially fitted for household merchandise, each customer having separate ooms. Trackage. Padded vans for furniure and pianos. Expert packers and hippers. Estimates cheerfully given Official cartage and baggage agents C.N.R. JOHNSTON STORAGE & CARTAGE CO. Phone M4444 and M5678. Limited Office and Warehouse 423 Sixth Ave. East

CALGARY STORAGE & CARTAGE CO LIMITED
437 TENTH AVENUE EAST
PHONE M1949

Storage for all classes of Merchandise, including Cold Storage Equipment; Separate Compartments for Furniture, Pianos; Padded Furniture Vans; Packers, Forwarders. Baggage Delivered. Trackage for all points.

TAILORS

SANDY MACLEAN
Alterations, Tailoring, Repairs, Cleaning and Pressing
Suits made to measure from $18 to $35
433 Lougheed Building, over Grand Theatre—Phone M6506.
Calgary, Alberta

UNDERTAKING PARLORS

GRAHAM McCALL AND RUTTLE LTD.
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
Horse and Motor Equipment, Ambulance in connection.
911 Centre St. Phone M3720

VIOLINS AND VIOLONCELLOS

JAS. J. DOHERTY
Expert Violin Repairing, Tone Restored. Bows Rehaired
Musical Instruments of All Kinds Rebuilt and Repaired
405A EIGHTH AVE. WEST

ROSEDALE STAR

LUMP $6.00
STOVE $5.25

Stock up now before the raise in price.

YORK SHAW
238 Eighth Ave. East
Phone M6423

PARCEL POST RATES

Any P. O. within twenty miles of Calgary, five cents for the first lb. and one cent additional for each additional lb. up to five lbs. when the rate is two cents for each additional lb. up to eleven lbs. To any P.O. beyond 20 miles but within the radius of Alberta, ten cents for the first lb. and four cents for each additional lb. To any P. O. in Saskatchewan ten cents for the first lb. and six cents additional for each additional lb.. To any P. O. in Manitoba, twelve cents for the first lb. and eight cents for each additional lb.

Alive :: Alert Up to the Minute

NEWS AND VIEWS ON SPORTS

Local .: Provincial World in General

Annual Field Day of Hudson's Bay Enjoyable Affair

The fourth annual field day of the Hudson's Bay Amateur Athletic association was celebrated by the usual crowd of enthusiastic employees of the big store.

Hundreds upon hundreds of the employees took advantage of the opportunity to spend the afternoon in riotous pleasure.

That the occasion is a success and a much looked for event in the lives of the people of the store was evident from the manner in which they all entered into the spirit of the occasion. From the youngest to oldest the employees all vie with each other to spend an enjoyable afternoon, and the tired but happy faces that greeted the passers-by as the crowds wend their way homeward after the event was ever bore striking evidence of the pleasure, they had had.

Many prizes were given, being donated by the different firms in the city who take this one occasion to show their appreciation for the courteous treatmeint accorded to them by the employees during the year.

The prizes were presented by Mr. P. J. Parker, the general manager of the store. Mr. Parker's popularity with the employees of the establishment was very evident from the manner which the employees displayed toward him whenever occasion permitted. His earnest solicitude for the welfare of the employees has been remarked upon time and again, and the employees evidently appreciate this fact.

Mr. Parker was assisted by Mr. Morrell, Mr. Landry, and Mr. Edgecombe, who were equally solicitous that the boys and girls all went away happy.

The event is a red letter day in the annals of this store and goes a long way to cement the feeling of good fellowship that predominates among the employees throughout the establishment.

The following is a list of the winners in various events:

Boys' race, 75 yards open—First, baseball glove, James Kelly; second, fishing rod, W. Hunter; third, baseball, Allan Devitt.

Girls' race, 50 yards, open, under 18 years—First, silk sweater, Hilda Lee; second, silverware, Fannie Mitchell; third, biscuits, Gertie Walker.

Girls' race, under 18, employes only—First, gold pendant, Edith Bridgen; second, box Corona chocolates, Mildred McElroy; third, box chocolates, Norah Dyson.

Boys' race, 75 yards, employes only—First, fishing rod, Will Hunter; second, Brownie camera, Alex Armstrong; third, tie, Fred Whetley.

Lady and gentlemen's three-legged race, employes—First, McLaughlin and lady; second, Benson and partner. The prizes were two 49-pound sacks of flour for first, and chocolates and cigars for second.

Married ladies' race, 50 yards, open—First, Mrs. Barker, 49-pound sack of flour; second, side of Shamrock bacon, Mrs. Fletcher; third, five pounds baking powder, Mrs. Parker.

Men's race, over 18 years, employes only, 100 yards—First, fishing rod and reel, McKellar; second, shaving mirror, Sproule; third, 50 cigars, Benson.

Ladies' race, 50 yards, employes only—First, five pound box of chocolates, Helen Woods; second, box biscuits, Miss Pretty; third, box chocolates, Miss Hicks.

Children's race—First, parasol, Minnie Tyson; second, box candies, Isabel McFarlane.

Wholesale house race, open to wholesalers and employes—First, pipe, George Campbell; second, box cigars, Rooney; third, five pounds of tea, Hoskin.

Managers' race, 50 yards—First, 49-lb. sack of flour, George Salter; second, nickel plated tea kettle, H. A. McDonald; third, box apples, H. Over.

Obstacle race, open—First, leatherlined club bag, Sproule; second, electric percolator, Kelly; third, case of oranges, Tyson.

Bandsmen's race—First, 49-lb. sack of flour, Sonner; second, 24-lb. sack of flour, Carroll; third, box of cigars, Edwards.

Returned veterans' race—First, military shoes, A. J. Lewis; second, 24-lb. sack of flour, Sonner; third, 12 handkerchiefs, Trombley.

Ladies' race, 50 yards, open—First, Rayo lamp, Miss Woodall; second, case Kellogg's cornflakes, Miss Helen Dean; third, five boxes Royal Crown toilet soap, Miss Dyson.

Relay race, department employes only, three men to a team—First, silk shirts, Over, McLaughlin and Grondurall; second, boxes of cigars, McKernan, McDonald and Shennan.

Lady and gentleman tie race, employes—First, lady's sweater and tennis racket, Miss Gean and Mr. Wheller; second, five boxes toilet soap and shirt and tie, Miss McGuire and Mr. McLaughlin; third, Miss Duncan and Mr. Stewart.

Slow bike race, employes—First, fishing rod, R. E. Argue; second, bicycle lamp, J. A. Walsh.

FOWLER'S CIDERS
THEY'RE MIGHTY GOOD
13 DIFFERENT KINDS
BUY THEM BY THE GALLON FROM YOUR DEALER

The new Liquor Regulations make new conditions. Our latest Price List complies with these. Write to us for one.

Revelstoke Wine and Spirit Co. Ltd.
REVELSTOKE, B. C.

The Nat Bell Liquors Ltd.
Box 304, Saskatoon, Sask.
The Reliable Mail Order House
Mail Us Your Orders Direct
You know our Service. You know the High Standard we set for Quality.
You know our Draught Whiskies is the pure unadulterated product of the best distillers.
Why experiment with other houses.
A card will bring our price list
THE NAT BELL LIQUORS LTD.
Saskatoon, Sask.

NATIONAL BASEBALL

AMERICAN

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	42	21	.667
Boston	37	25	.597
New York	35	26	.574
Cleveland	33	32	.508
Detroit	29	30	.492
Washington	25	36	.410
St. Louis	22	37	.373
Philadelphia	20	36	.357

NATIONAL

	W.	L.	Pct.
New York	35	21	.625
Philadelphia	35	22	.614
Chicago	37	30	.552
St. Louis	32	29	.525
Cincinnati	33	35	.485
Brooklyn	24	31	.436
Boston	23	31	.426
Pittsburg	19	39	.328

INTERNATIONAL

	W.	L.	Pct.
Newark	38	21	.644
Baltimore	37	23	.617
Providence	38	24	.613
Toronto	32	29	.525
Rochester	31	30	.508
Buffalo	25	39	.391
Richmond	24	40	.375
Montreal	19	38	.333

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

	W.	L.	Pct.
Indianapolis	41	26	.612
St. Paul	33	27	.550
Columbus	35	31	.530
Louisville	35	32	.522
Kansas City	30	30	.500
Minneapolis	29	35	.453
Milwaukee	26	36	.419
Toledo	27	39	.409

NORTHWESTERN

	W.	L.	Pct.
Seattle	34	27	.557
Tacoma	31	25	.554
Great Falls	30	25	.545
Butte	25	29	.463
Vancouver	28	34	.452
Spokane	26	34	.433

COAST LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
San Francisco	50	34	.595
Salt Lake	42	35	.545
Los Angeles	40	40	.500
Oakland	41	42	.494
Portland	35	42	.455
Vernon	34	49	.410

S. P. A. STANDING

	W.	L.	Pct.
Hustlers	7	3	.700
Cubs	5	5	.500
Columbus Club	2	6	.250

STANDING OF THE GOLF CLUB CONTEST

The following is a summary of the tournament held between the St. Andrew's "A" Golf club and the Country club "B":

St. Andrew's "A" Team		Country Club "A" Team
A. Cruttenden	0	C. W. Hague	1
Robt. White	1	F. F. Wilson	½
D. Mackenzie	0	J. L. Bell	1
H. D. Mann	½	W. A. Ross	1
J. B. Hill	½	A. L. Smith	1
M. Constable	½	A. M. McMahon	1
T. C. Rankin	1	F. R. Cochran	0
W. Ballingall	0	W. Coglet	1½
J. W. O'Brien	½	A. C. Russell	1
R. A. Jackson	1	H. J. Maber	0
R. A. Morrison	0	G. N. Bull	1
A. M. Sinclair	0	S. Kidd	1½
	4		9½

Calgary Golf Country Club "B" Team		St. Andrew's Golf Club "B" Team
C. G. Nourse	0	T. Martin	1½
H. W. Supple	0	E. Black	1
D. J. Young	0	W. L. Warner	1½
F. C. Lowes	0	A. Hannah	1
G. L. Peat	1	D. M. Stirton	0
J. A. Walker	1	W. D. Gow	0
H. K. Reed	1	H. Leonard	0
H. S. Jones	0	G. H. Ross	1½
H. N. White	1½	A. W. Ambrose	0
A. McGillivray	1	M. Gossip	½
J. Wilson	0	M. L. High	1½
P. J. Bergeron	0	J. G. Innes	1½
	5½		8½

WILLARD SPLITS WITH MANAGERS

Chicago.—The split between Jess Willard and his managers, Tom Jones and Jack Curley, means that the fighting days of the world heavyweight champion are over, according to a statement by a member of the Willard family.

That Willard will not pull out of the game without a last fight, in a legal way, was indicated by a telegram from Tom Jones received here today. Jones declared he would force Jess to meet Fred Fulton and Carl Morris in two bouts under his contract with the champion, which he declares will hold.

Jones expects the Fulton fight to draw $100,000, and the other bout at least half that.

BEST SWIMMERS IN THE UNITED STATES

United States swimmers hold a majority of the speed swimming records of the world. Langer, Ross, Vollmer, Ted Cann, and Kahanamooku, all Americans, can outswim all rivals at any and all racing distances, while Olga Dorfner, Gertrude Artell, and Bessie Ryan of Philadelphia, Claire Galligan of New York, Frances Cowells and Dorothy Burns of St. Louis represent a team of American mermaids good enough to compete against the foremost women swimmers of the world.

COAST GIRL BREAKS NATIONAL RECORD

Los Angeles, Cal.—Dorothy Burns of the Los Angeles Athletic club established a new American record last night of 2:26 1-5 for the women's 150 yard back stroke swim and retained the national championship. Her former record, made June 29, 1916, was 2:33. Ralph Ong of the Los Angeles Athletic club won the national championship in the plunge for distance at 71 feet. Both events were held under Amateur Athletic union sanction.

BIG CUE MATCH PENDING

New York.—Negotiations are under way for the biggest balk line billiard match in years with Leonard Howison, champion of Canada, and Welker Cochran as the contestants. The match will be for $500 a side.

AERO CLUB OF U. S. SENDS 20 FLIERS ABROAD

The Board of Governors of the Aero club of America voted to pay the expense of sending twenty aviators to France to join the Lafayette Flying Corps. The action was decided upon because of the demand of thousands of young men, who have been unable to join the flying service here, who seek active service at the western front. The twenty young American aviators will, the club announced, soon be on their way to France. The club will pay all their expenses from the day of their acceptance until they are enrolled in the Lafayette Corps.

Thousands of requests for aviation training have come to the Aero Club from men who have enlisted in the aeronautical division of the Naval Militia. Since the militia was placed under Federal control only officers are supposed to get aeronautical training. Many men who were denied admission to the Army Aerial Reserve Corps because they had not two years of college training have also applied to the club.

Rigid tests have been prescribed for applicants for the Lafayette Corps. After a severe medical examination they will be sent to Newport News, Va., for the test flight of 1 hour and 40 minutes. If the candidate passes his personal and family connections will be the subject of an enjuiry.

BOYS KNOW LOT MORE ABOUT CARS THESE DAYS

"Much credit has been given to wives and sweethearts for influencing the sale of cars, but they are not the only ones whose counsel is taken," says general manager for the Gray-Dort Motor Car company.

"Just stick a peg in this! A lot of heed is paid to the boys in a family, and rightly so, for they know a great deal more about automobiles and are learning more every day.

"Our organization is specially instructed to extend the same careful attention to boys who seek information or literature, as is given to their elders."

MODERN ROBIN HOODS

A novel method of holding up autoists has been adopted by highwaymen in Pennsylvania. A tire is placed in the road at the spot selected for the holdup and when the motorist get out, thinking he has made a lucky find, the footpad steps up and either presents a gun or gently lulls the unsuspecting victim into a state of coma with a tap on the head with a blackjack.

CANADIAN NORTHERN
CALGARY EXHIBITION
SPECIAL TRAINS
Leave Hanna 6:00 a.m. Saturday and Wednesday, June 30th and July 4th.
Leave Stettler 5.20 a.m. Saturday and Wednesday, June 30th and July 4th.
Stopping at all intermediate stations, arriving Calgary 12:00 noon.
Returning leave Calgary 11:30 p.m.
Single Fare for Round Trip.
This fare will also apply on regular train, June 27th to July 5th. Final return limit July 7th.
Full particulars from any C. N. R. Agent.

DO YOU RIDE A WHEEL?
When Enamelled, "Baking Process". By the Premier Man
Looks Good as New
If you are thinking of making a purchase, or if you have an OLD WHEEL YOU WISH REBUILT, it will pay you to call and see US. This is our SPECIALTY, and we stand alone in this particular line.
OUR SYSTEM IS PERFECT AND MODERN, and in rebuilding your WHEEL, it is given a thorough overhauling, and the only difference in our REBUILT MACHINES AND THE NEW ONE, "IS THE PRICE."
PREMIER CYCLE WORKS
102 Seventh Ave. West Phone M1765
W. B. COMPTON, Prop.

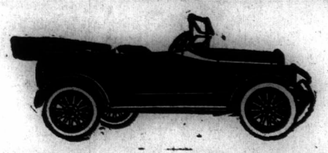
ALLFORD GARAGE
EVANS & LINDBERG, PROPS.
Ford Specialists
All Repair Work Guaranteed
All Makes and Grades of Second-Hand Cars for Sale
211 TENTH AVENUE WEST
Residence: Phone M4964
Garage: Phone M2543

WESTERN CARRIAGE WORKS
A. H. ADAMS, Manager
Auto and Carriage Top Builders and Upholsterers, Manufacture and Repair Side Curtains, "Jiffy" Curtains patent), Seat Covers, Top Envelopes, Radiator Covers, Woodwork. Top Accessories always in stock.
"Your Satisfaction is Our Success."
832 17th Avenue West Phone W4838

CALGARY WELDING SHOP
Up-to-Date Steel Cutting Appliances
Steel Tanks Made to Order
All Metals Welded—Cast Iron, Steel, Aluminum and Brass Castings of All Kinds
We Specialize in Farm Machinery Repairs—Oxy-Acetylene Process
We Solicit Your Patronage
All Work Guaranteed
806 Third Avenue East, Calgary
Phone M4322

General Repair Works
P. C. HEAD, Prop.
230 SEVENTH AVE. EAST
(Opp. Post Office), CALGARY
WE REPAIR—Guns, Sewing Machines, Gramophones, Typewriters, Cash Registers, Musical Instruments, Slot Machines, Carpet Sweepers, Vacuum Cleaners, Wash Machines, etc.
Guns Repaired by an Expert Gunsmith
We Do Welding, Brazing, Soldering
We Specialize on Sewing Machines

GEO. EDWARDS
Spring Manufacturer
All Kinds of Carriage and Wagon Springs Made to Order.
Prices Moderate
A trial is solicited.
330 Sixth Avenue East, Calgary



THE WELDER
At Your Service

City Welding and Repair Shop
All kinds of Metal Welded Strong as New 142 1st Av. E. (by the river)
Telephone Main 2240

OXY-ACETYLENE WELDING
City Welding and Repair Shop (formerly Calgary Welding Co.)
142 First Ave. E., Calgary. Phone M2240
Broken articles made like new. Customers doing business with us, find that we give prompt and careful attention to all orders. We are efficient in this line, and guarantee to give satisfaction.

Star Cycle & Motor Co.
Sole Agents for Perfect Bicycles, Star Bicycles and Indian Motorcycles
Auto Electrical Systems a Specialty
Complete Line of Accessories Always on Hand
Expert Repairing
Our Ten Years of Practical Experience, coupled with Our Many Satisfied Customers, is sufficient guarantee of what we can do for others.
A Trial Will Convince You.
224 Seventh Ave. E. Phone M3661

Siegel Garage Company
SUPPLIES AND ACCESSORIES. STORAGE AND REPAIRS
Phone Us When in Trouble
708 1st St. E. Phone M4888
129 3rd Ave. E. Phone M4288

GRAY-DORT AUTOMOBILES

For beauty, easy riding qualities, strength and economy these cars cannot be excelled
"The Quality Goes Clear Through"
PRICE $995.00 at Calgary
SHOWROOMS: 235 8th Avenue West
Phone M5337

FARMERS:
When in town and you are in need of Tube or Tire Repiaring of any kind call and see us.
We are Specialists in Vulcanizing of all kinds. We do Repair Work rn first class order and at Reasonable Rates.
WE CAN SUPPLY
ANY MAKE OF TIRES
Gillespie Tire & Vulcanizing Company
211 6th Ave. West. Calgary, Alberta

THEATRES | WHERE TO GO | PICTURE PLAYS | WHAT TO SEE | VAUDEVILLE

Grand

The Greatest Photoplay Art Ever Produced

One Week--Monday, July 2nd

Twice Daily at 2:30 and 8:30

Wm. Cranston presents D. W. Griffith's Colossal Spectacle

"Intolerance"

Love's Struggle Throughout the Ages

—with—

Big Symphony Orchestra and Choir

56,000 People—Special Stage and Electrical Effects—8,000 Scenes

Four Separate Stories with a Logical Theme Cohering Them All Into One Magnificent Whole

Special Return Engagement as an Additional Attraction to the Big Fair

PRICES:

Evenings, 25c, 50c, 75c, $1.00; a Few at $1.50
Matinees, 25c, 50c, 75c, $1.00
Box-Office Sale Now Open

The FLAMING ENGINE IN THE SIEGE of BABYLON in D.W. GRIFFITH'S "INTOLERANCE"

AT THE GRAND NEXT WEEK

Special Fair Week Attraction at the Allen Commencing Tuesday "Smashing The Hindenburg Line"

Actual pictures of the victorious French raid are shown in this new official war films in "The Smashing of the Hinderburg Line."

This new war film which comprises the picorial record of the spring offensive on the western front, would not be complete as it is, if it did not include a graphic demonstration of trench raiding.

Trench raiding is one of the most successful methods of attack developed in the great war. It is a noteworthy fact that the trench raid was a contribution to modern tactics presented by the Canadian army. And naturally was this likely to be so. The traditions of this continent have largely to do with raids and ambushes. In the old days of Indian fighting woodcraft and stealth were the chief resources of the warrior of the woods and plains. And the white man copied those methods as most effective for the kind of country he had to fight in.

Naturally in wilderness country such as this, within the memory of men still living, and preserved in the history of others long since dead—when white men fought, they adopted the Indian style of fighting. Scouts and rangers of the Canadians on the one side, and the Americans or "Long Knives" on the other, were simply bushmen and plainsmen developed by their environment into Indian fighters superior to the Indians at their own game.

Inactivity on the western front where last winter had brought about another deadlock, did not suit the Canadians. They had too much of the restless spirit of the western continent to be content with the monotony of life in the muddy trenches with no fighting going on but that supplied by the artillery. So they got into the habit of making up little surprise parties for Fritz. They would slip over to his trenches, taking advantage of the natural cover in the way of shell mounds and other irregularities in the ground of "No Man's Land" and before Fritz was aware of visitors they would heave a few bombs into his dugout. Then when he was half-scared to death or half-bombed out of existence, he would surrender, and the Canadians would return with prisoners and helmets as in the old days when scalplocks were the fashion in this country.

These tactics prevented Fritz from ever feeling secure and comfortable in his deep trenches and underground sleeping quarters while he was stationed opposite the Canadians, and they had a great deal to do with wearing him down and breaking his power of resistance.

The British and French were quick to see the merits of trench raiding as introduced by the Canadians and it became the regular method of the "war of attrition" last winter. In these new British official pictures, trench raiding is but one feature of the film which includes every form of modern fighting from airships to "tanks," from submarines to cavalry. It is at once an historic record of the events leading pu to the German retreat to the Hindenburg line, and an education to the world of the full grown power of Britain and her allies.

Prices: Matinee, children 5c; adults 15c. Evening: Children 10c; adults 25c. Reserved seat section 35c.

PANTAGES

UNEQUALLED VAUDEVILLE

WEEK OF JULY 2

CHAS. AHEARN

And His Comedy Cycling Company

Kane and Herman

Godfrey and Henderson

Nelson and Nelson

Current Events

BIRTH OF A ROSE

Dancing Carnival

Cunning, The Wonder Worker coming to Grand

Direct from the far east, Cunning, the Miracle Man, and his company of modern wonder workers come to the Grand for a week opening Monday, July 9. This will be the first road show since the Orpheum closed and will no doubt be welcomed by those who prefer the legitimate to the films. Tons of new illusions and equipment are carried, maikng an evening of mystery and enjoyment. Cunning will present his famous Simla seance, in which he offers wonderful tests in thought transference. In this particular line of work he is truly the super-mind. Ask him anything, he can and will give you the correct answer. He is indeed a mental marvel. The production is the most elaborate of its kind ever presented here.

Louise Huff and Jack Pickford at the Allen

These two charming young stars, Louise Huff and Jack Pickford, will be seen in Marian Fairfax's photodramatization of Gene Stratton Porter's celebrated novel "Freckles," at the Allen next Saturday, one day only.

The story is probably one of the most familiar in the English language. As a novel it had a great circulation and later was dramatized and played on the stage. The story is exactly suited to these clever young people, who, as co-stars, recently scored such a success in "Seventeen."

Jack Pickford recently increased his already enviable popularity as the star in "The Dummy" and later as the young college boy with Vivian Martin in "The Girl at Home."

Louise Huff, who is also one of the most popular of the young screen favorites, was recently seen with House Peters in the Fallas-Paramount production, "The Lonesome Chap."

Immediately upon the completion of "Freckles" the two stars began work on another photodrama in which they will appear shortly.

The story of "Freckles" has to do with the adventures of an orphan with a withered arm. He runs away from the orphanage and finally secures a position as watchman in the limberlost, a valuable timber swamp.

How he meets the "Angel," saves his employer's life at the risk of his own, and later nearly loses his life to save the "Angel" is presented in a most graphic and beautiful manner.

The scenes of this production were filmed in the famous lumber camp district of California and the swamp scenes are identical with the famous Limberlost described in the story. The company spent several weeks in the heart of the woods securing these scenes and Jack Pickford nearly lost his life as does the real Freckles of the story.

The production was made for the Lasky company under the direction of Marshall Neilan and included in the cast besides Miss Huff and Mr. Pickford are such prominent players as Hobart Bosworth, Lillian Leighton, Billy Elmer and Guy Oliver.

PRINCESS

PHONE M1944

"Where Everybody Goes"

Don't Miss

"THE COUNTRY STORE"

Every Tuesday Night

A Gigantic Amateur Contest

Every Thursday Night

"The Voice on the Wire"

And a splendid Week-end Program every Friday and Saturday.

GERTRUDE MOODY MILLER EVANS

"Birth Of The Rose Anotner Big Feature at Pan

Another splendid list of attractions will be offered at the Pantages theater during the coming week; many features of unusual entertaining value.

Charlie Ahearn, the tramp, and his big comedy cycling company, will be the headline attraction; they will offer a little of everything imaginable on wheels. It is a side-splitting comedy from start to finish. Ahearn is renowned for originating new devices for amusment purposes and his reputation was attained in the biggest theaters in the country.

Another big feature will be "Birth of a Rose," an alluring dancing carnival, described as a classic melange of modern terpsichorean achievement, featuring Miss Rae Snell and Gladys Harrison and eight dancing nymphs. A most pretentious offering that is sure to please the most discriminating theatergoers.

Eddie Kane and Jay Herman, billed as "The Midnight Sons," will offer "A Ragtime Cocktail," a comedy skit that is full of wholesome humor.

Harry Godfrey and Veta Henderson will offer a clever number entitled "Catskill New York," an original idea constructed for laughing purposes only.

Nelson and Nelson will present an "Up in the Air Surprise" that is full of clever stunts as well as a lot of comedy.

The Universal Current Events and a comedy motion picture will conclude a most promising program of vaudeville.

Paulihe Frederick Will be seen at the Allen

In speaking of her recent Famous Players-Paramount picture "Her Better Self," which will be the attraction at the Allen soon, Pauline Frederick said: Working in motion pictures is like taking a course in a university. I should have said like taking every course in a university, for with every picture something different comes up and one is learning new things every day. It is fascinating work. For instance, in "Her Better Self" we took many of the scenes in one of the most famous neighborhood charity houses in the country, and I learned much of the practical side of the work. We saw the hundreds of poor people that benefit each day from these busy centres of charity—mothers sent away with their arms piled high with food and clothes for their little ones, children suffering from negleet or cruelty relieved and all sorts of misery alleviated. It has made me form a resolution to do more than ever towards helping this wonderful work along," and with this the energetic star hurried away at the call of her director.

"Her Better Self" was written by Margaret Turnbull, directed by Robert G. Vignola and photographed by Ned Van Buren. These names alone would insure its success, but with the addition of Pauline Frederick as star, its popularity will be unquestioned.

At the Allen, July 11 and 12.

ALLEN

Photo Plays of Destinction

Allen Paramount Concert Orchestra

Last Times Today

KATHLYN WILLIAMS and HOUSE PETERS in "The Highway of Hope"

Also Current Edition War Graphic

Monday, One Day Only

BLANCHE SWEET in "The SILENT PARTNER"

A Thrilling Drama of Loyalty and Business

Other Attractions

FOUR DAYS COMMENCING TUESDAY
EXTRA SPECIAL FAIR WEEK ATTRACTION

Jule and J. J. Allen present
The Greatest Official War Film of the Time

Smashing THE Hindenburg Line

Actual Scenes of this Great British and French Victory Taken from the Front Line Trenches

Showing "Tanks," Trench Raids, Bombing Parties, Seaplanes, Heavy Artillery, Cavalry Charges, and Swarms of Germans Rushing to the British Lines Crying for Mercy

SIX REELS OF ACTION
Representing Six Months of Bitter Struggle

MATINEE: Children, 5c Adults, 15c

SPECIAL MUSIC

EVENING: Children, 10c Adults, 25c

Reserved Section, 35c

NEXT SATURDAY, ONE DAY ONLY

Louise Huff & Jack Pickford in "FRECKLES"

Special Attracion at the Allen On Monday

Blanche Sweet, the charming Lasky star, will be seen at the Allen Monday one day only, in the Jesse L. Lasky production, "The Silent Partner," a thrilling drama of business and social life by Edmund Goulding, prepared for the screen by George DuBois Proctor.

In "The Tides of Barnegat," Miss Sweet was seen as a school teacher in a small Jersey town. In her latest success she is discovered as the secretary of a busy New York stock broker. How she discovers her employer is being robbed by his partner, how she aids in dissolving the partnership and how, eventually, although discharged, saves her employer's fortune and good name, is presented in a most unusual and startling manner.

Scene follows scene in quick succession, and as the head of the firm is about to be plunged into a most impossible tangle, his private secretary deftly intrudes herself and rescues him from the grasp of ruin.

One of the most unusual characters in this photodrama is the office boy, who furnishes many laughs and amusing situations.

Mr. Thomas Meighan, Miss Sweet's co-star in "The Silent Partner" recently added a new page both in the history of the Lasky company and his own life. The event was Mr. Meighan's punctual arrival at the studio one morning. The studio entrance wildly cheered Tommy as he stepped into the doorway, for this was the first time in the two years that he had been in California that he had arrived on time, and more than that he was made up and ready to step onto the stage for his scenes as leading man for Miss Sweet in this production, without being called more than twice. In a few chosen words Mr. Meighan acknowledged the plaudits of the company and was presented with a large bouquet of morning glories by his director, Marshall Neilan. At first Mr. Meighan stood alone in the bright lights of his achievement, but later it was discovered that the cause of his early appearance was due to the fact that his director had gone after him and brought him to the studio in person.

In "Fires of Youth" two eminent players of the stage who are now eminent also on the screen appear. They are Frederick Warde and Miss Jeanne Eagels. Mr. Warde is one of the greatest Shakespearian acters of the last half century. Recently he has been starring in photoplays with great success. "The Vicar of Wakefield" and "Hinton's Double" are two which have recently been released. Miss Eagels starred in "The World and the Woman," a Pathe Gold Rooster play which has been more than ordinarily successful. "The Fires of Youth" was made by Thanhouser for release by Pathe.

At the Allen Monday Only

SOCIAL

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McGil visiting in Banff.

Mr. and Mrs. James Findl California for the summer.

Miss. M. D. Buchanan is of her mother, Mrs. Geo. L

Miss. Trotter has returned coast and is now at home at

Dr. and Mrs. Lincoln have after a lengthy visit to easte

Countess De Foras and tw ters are in Calgary for the

Miss Mary Gallay is lea afternoon to spend a few Banff.

Miss Esther Leith is lea afternoon to spend a few Banff.

Miss Norma Stokes is visi Lougheed and Miss Dorothy at Banff.

Young Frank De Foras, wh on three months' leave, is to France, August 1.

Mr. W. D. Spence entertai recently the officers of the chapter, I. O. D. E.

Mr. C. Roenisch has take residence at Nineteenth ave Twelfth street west.

Mrs. J. H. Walker is leav few days to spend the sum her parents in the east.

Mrs. Frank Shackle, who stopping at Braemar Lodge, for Montreal on Monday.

Mrs. Glen Broder has retu Edmonton where she went the Broder-Bible wedding.

Mr. J. A. McCaw has bee some time but is recovering pects to be out in a few day

Mrs. J. B. Hill entertain hour on Wednesday for he Mrs. Torrentine, from New

Mrs. F. S. Long will leave days for Halifax where she w while her husband, Lieut. F is overseas.

Mrs. Clive Betts accompa West-Jones on an outing to ley camp, returning to Calg several days.

Announcements have been the forthcoming marriage of Richardson and Miss Dolly which will take place next

Miss Minnie Gallay, who taking charge of a public Little Gem, Alta., is expec

QUEEN M Married to His

VILLE

N | Allen, Paramount, Concert Orchestra

stinction

Monday, One Day Only

BLANCHE SWEET

in

"The SILENT PARTNER"

A Thrilling Drama of Loyalty and Business

Other Attractions

NCING TUESDAY

WEEK ATTRACTION

len present

r Film of the Time

ng enburg

ritish and French Victory

t Line Trenches

Bombing Parties, Seaplanes,

s, and Swarms of Germans

es Crying for Mercy

F ACTION

s of Bitter Struggle

EVENING:

Children, 10c

Adults, 25c

ion, 35c

ONE DAY ONLY

ack Pickford

KLES"

-star in "The Silent Partner" recent- added a new page both in the his- ry of the Lasky company and his n life. The event was Mr. Meigh- 's punctual arrival at the studio one orning. The studio entrance idly cheered Tommy as he stepped to the doorway, for this was the first me in the two years that he had en in California that he had arrived time, and more than that he was ade up and ready to step onto the age for his scenes as leading man r Miss Sweet in this production, thout being called more than twice. a few chosen words Mr. Meighan knowledged the plaudits of the com- ny and was presented with a large uquet of morning glories by his di- ctor, Marshall Neilan. At first Mr. eighan stood alone in the bright hts of his achievement, but later it s discovered that the cause of his rly appearance was due to the fact at his director had gone after him d brought him to the studio in per- n.

In "Fires of Youth" two eminent ayers of the stage who are now inent also on the screen appear. ey are Frederick Warde and Miss anne Eagels. Mr. Warde is one of e greatest Shakespearian actors of e last half century. Recently he s been starring in photoplays with eat success. "The Vicar of Wake- ld" and "Hinton's Double" are two hich have recently been released. iss Eagels starred in "The World nd the Woman," a Pathe Gold ooster play which has been more an ordinarily successful. "The res of Youth" was made by Than- ouser for release by Pathe.

At the Allen Monday Only

Society

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McGillivray are visiting in Banff.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. James Findlay are in California for the summer.

• • •

Miss. M. D. Buchanan is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Geo. Leeson.

• • •

Mrs. Trotter has returned from the coast and is now at home at Shepard.

• • •

Dr. and Mrs. Lincoln have returned after a lengthy visit to eastern points.

• • •

Countess De Foras and two daughters are in Calgary for the week-end.

• • •

Miss Mary Gallay is leaving this afternoon to spend a few days in Banff.

• • •

Miss Esther Leith is leaving this afternoon to spend a few days in Banff.

• • •

Miss Norma Stokes is visiting Lady Lougheed and Miss Dorothy Lougheed at Banff.

• • •

Young Frank De Foras, who is home on three months' leave, is returning to France, August 1.

• • •

Mr. W. D. Spence entertained at tea recently the officers of the Tan-nis-uk chapter, I. O. D. E.

• • •

Mr. C. Roenisch has taken up his residence at Nineteenth avenue and Twelfth street west.

• • •

Mrs. J. H. Walker is leaving in a few days to spend the summer with her parents in the east.

• • •

Mrs. Frank Shackle, who has been stopping at Braemar Lodge, is leaving for Montreal on Monday.

• • •

Mrs. Glen Broder has returned from Edmonton where she went to attend the Broder-Bible wedding.

• • •

Mr. J. A. McCaw has been ill for some time but is recovering and expects to be out in a few days.

• • •

Mrs. J. B. Hill entertained at tea hour on Wednesday for her mother, Mrs. Torrentine, from New Orleans.

• • •

Mrs. F. S. Long will leave in a few days for Halifax where she will remain while her husband, Lieut. F. S. Long, is overseas.

• • •

Mrs. Clive Betts accompanied Mrs. West-Jones on an outing to Yoho Valley camp, returning to Calgary within several days.

• • •

Announcements have been issued of the forthcoming marriage of Dr. J. W. Richardson and Miss Dolly Skinner which will take place next month.

• • •

Miss Minnie Gallay, who has been taking charge of a public school at Little Gem, Alta., is expected home next week to spend her summer holidays.

• • •

Miss Boyd, of Winnipeg, is the guest of Mrs. R. T. D. Aitken. Miss Boyd is on her way home to Winnipeg after spending a pleasant season in Los Angeles.

• • •

Mrs. Geo. Wright is entertaining the Misses Haverson of Winnipeg. The Misses Haverson are spending a few weeks in Calgary on their way home from Los Angeles.

• • •

The ladies of the Olivet Baptist church gave a reception this week in honor of Mrs. A. G. Baker missionary to Bolivia, at the home of Mrs. Frazer, 930 Eighteenth avenue west.

• • •

Mrs. Garfield Carlyle, of Winnipeg, is visiting her sister, Mrs. R. J. Brown, Twenty-sixth avenue west, and after taking in the sights of the fair will resume her trip to coast points.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. McParland left the end of the week for their home in the east. Mr. and Mrs. McParland were the guests of their son, Mr. Arthur McParland during their stay in Calgary.

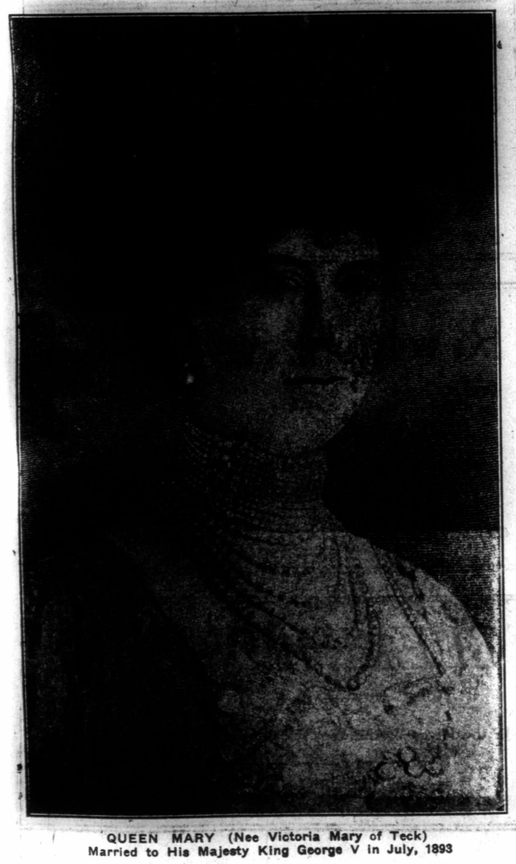
• • •

Mrs. West-Jones who returned a few days ago from a trip to the Rocky Mountains, which she made with Miss Eileen Dennis, was so impressed with the scenry that she has decided to return there for the summer.

• • •

The home of the automobile club at Bowfiess Park is proving a most enjoyable resort these warm nights. Many parties motor there during the week to idle away a few hours and partake of the courtesies of the club.

• • •



The wedding of Mr. Woodman and Miss Macdonald was celebrated on Thursday at the home of the bride on Fourteenth street. Mr. and Mrs. Woodman left immediately after the wedding for Edmonton and Gull Lake where they will spend the summer.

• • •

Mrs. Kenney and little son and daughter left the end of the week for the coast, visiting Banff and Lake Louise en route. Mrs. Kenney is the sister of Mr. Arthur McParland. She has made many friends in Calgary during her short stay who will regret her departure. Mrs. Kenney will return to her home in the east the last of July.

• • •

Mrs. Stanley Jones, together with the kindly assistance of a number of the Calgary ladies held a very pleasant and successful tea at Braemar Lodge for the benefit of the hospital in France for which Mrs. Jones is devoting her entire time and efforts. Mrs. Jones brought with her from France many attractive toys made by the wounded and convalescing soldiers which were sold during the afternoon and evening. Many seemed eager to possess one of these lovely souvenirs. Mrs. Jones' assistants were Mrs. J. M. Carson, Mrs. E. M. Adams Mrs. Arthur McParland, Mrs. C. Roenisch, Miss Bessie McKay, Miss Jessie McLeod, Miss Gladys Traunweiser, Miss Hilda Weatherall. The refreshments were donated and the proceeds of the afternoon's entertainment amounted to $57.25.

QUEEN MARY (Nee Victoria Mary of Teck)
Married to His Majesty King George V in July, 1893

A Message to Red Cross Workers

The following vivid story told by Col. C. B. Hardy in the Red Cross Bulletin and coming straight from the trenches, brings a message of encouragement to all Red Cross workers and must kindle the enthusiasm of Canadian men and women to still greater efforts on behalf of our brave soldiers.

Battle of Sanctuary Wood

"Picture the battle going on for days—a most terrific rain of shells, nerve-wrecking cannonading and continuous rifle and machine gun fire. Every now and then a brilliant charge by our brave boys, and more ground gained. The weather was inclement; the incessant rain had churned up the mud of Belgium such as only Belgium mud can churn, and though it was impossible to bring up food and water, our lads fought on with grim determination until they had gained their objective and consolidated the ground captured. It was not easy—far from it—and many were the casualties; with never a groan or a regret each man fought on until exhausted.

"A few miles in the rear was a field ambulance, acting as a reststation for slightly wounded and worn-out, exhausted troops. We only had room for 200; but as the battle went on and our room was filled up we arranged accommodation in barns, stables and sheds until every available inch was taken up and more than 600 were in our care.

"What did we do for them? I'll tell you, and how the Red Cross helped us:

"As each motor ambulance or lorrie drove up, the men tumbled out tired, exhausted, hollow-eyed and nerve-shaken. While their particulars were being taken a big bowl of soup or a good hot drink of Red Cross cocoa was given each man. Then into the doctors' hands, where their wet, soggy, blood-stained, mud-covered clothing was removed and any necessary dressings rapidly fixed up with, in many instances, Red Cross dressings. Then a good hot shower bath with Red Cross soap, dried upon a Red Cross towel, and into a suit of Red Cross pyjamas and a pair of Red Cross slippers or bed socks.

"Now for a good hot meal, as much as a hungry man could eat. Army rations? Yes, but supplemented by Red Cross jam, Red Cross biscuits, and Red Cross fruits and preserves, and washed down by more Red Cross cocoa. Then a Red Cross cigarette, and rolled up in a couple of blankets and off to sleep on a stretcher or paillasse for 24 hours or so; well deserved and much needed sleep in the huts which were lighted by Red Cross candles and heated by Red Cross Perfection oil stoves.

"Yes, that is how we helped to save many a poor fellow from breaking down completely—for the nerve strain was awful—and that is how we helped prevent disease brought on by exposure and exhaustion, and how we tried to show the lads that their efforts were appreciated.

"And if you take away the Red Cross comforts, what could we have done for them?"

This is the story of one battle as told by an eye-witness. Day after day brings a repetition of such scenes, brings the same call for Red Cross supplies and for those comforts which mean so much to those weary men.

Help the Red Cross to help them. Day by day needs become more pressing.

Alberta's Red Cross day, the jubilee of confederation, to be celebrated on July 2, and dedicated to our sick and wounded soldiers, will give every man and woman in this province an opportunity to assist the Red Cross.

If you cannot give a life you can save one.

LORD KITCHENER'S MESSAGE

Be invariably courteous, considerate and kind.
Never do anything likely to injure or destroy property,
And always look upon looting as a disgraceful act.
Your duty cannot be done unless your health is sound,
So keep constantly on your guard against any excesses.
Do your duty bravely,
Fear God,
Honor the King.
KITCHENER, Field Marshal.

WINS NATIONAL WOMEN'S TITLE

Philadelphia.—Miss Molla Bjurstedt of New York, successfully defended her title of national women's singles champion at the Philadelphia Cricket club defeating Miss Marion Vanderhoof of New York, 4-6, 6-0, 6-2.

GRAY HAIR

Dr. Tremain's Natural Hair Restorative, used as directed, is guaranteed to restore gray hair to its natural color or money refunded. Positively not a dye and non-injurious. Price $1.00, post-paid. Write Tremain Supply Co., Dept. C., Toronto, Ont.

On sale in Calgary at MacFarlane's Drug Stores, 124 Eighth Ave. E.

Law Examinations In Edmonton

The following are the results of the recent law examinations held in Edmonton. The results in the three classes are given:

First Intermediate

The following have passed: A. M. Knight, Edmonton, with Carswell prize; Roy Manzer, Medicine Hat; Evelyn K. Albright, Calgary; C. W. Niblock, Medicine Hat; A. Mahaffy, Calgary; C. E. Snow, Jr., Cardston; P. M. Dunne, Edmonton; G. D. Noble, Calgary; L. G. Dafoe, Edmonton; S. I. Poole, Wetaskiwin; L. A. Craig, Edmonton; W. E. Hall, Calgary.

The following are required to take supplemental examination in the subjects mentioned: P. S. Scott, Calgary, equity and real property; R. J. Gaunt, Wainwright, constitutional law.

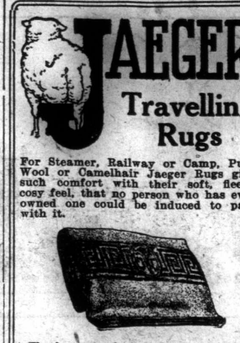
Second Intermediate

The following have passed: L. W. Brockington, Calgary, with Carswell prize; T. H. Randall, Calgary; R. F. Jackson, Edmonton; P. R. Bryenton, Calgary; J. Robinson, Edmonton; T. J. O'Connor, Calgary; L. M. Fradkin, Calgary; J. S. Kirkham, Lethbridge; Abe Barron, Calgary.

The following are required to take supplemental examination in the subject mentioned: O. C. Boness, Edmonton, real property; M. J. O'Brien, Edmonton, real property; H. L. Spankie, High River, contracts; C. R. Arnold, High River, real property.

Final Examinations

The following have passed: J. W. Moyer, Calgary, with gold medal; F. M. Brady, Calgary, with Carswell prize; H. C. Newland, Edmonton; V. E. Way, Edmonton; R. V. Bellamy, Edmonton; C. L. Beck, Edmonton; N. Blue, Edmonton; J. P. Ferguson, Calgary; M. I. Lieberman, Edmonton; R. M. Spankie, Calgary; F. O. McKenna, Calgary.



The following are required to take supplemental examination in the subjects mentioned: C. F. Jamieson, Lethbridge, equity; T. B. Devaney, Calgary, company law; H. A. White, Edmonton, constitutional law; E. M. Robertson, Edmonton, practice and procedure and mercantile law; F. G. Beaumont, Calgary, mercantile law; J. J. Tighe, Calgary, wills; T. H. Wells, Edmonton, torts.

The following has passed in three supplemental subjects: J. G. Porter, Calgary, constitutional law, private international law, criminal law.

OSTEOPATHY

A physician does not furnish the energy with which living bodies fight disease; his function is to supply the conditions under which health-producing forces will be evolved, and to control, guide and direct them. Physicians should be teachers and not wise lookers. It has been the aim of a great many to make their patients believe that they carried in their case just the chemical or the pill which could be swallowed and immediately restoration would be the result. The chemical in the form of anti-toxins or anti-body or physical resistance must be manufactured by the body tissue and not by a drug distiller.

Osteopathic treatment is the establishment of the harmonious relationship and action of all the tissues, forces and fluids of the body, which necessarily results in better organic functioning and consequent health.

JAEGER Travelling Rugs

For Steamer, Railway or Camp. Pure Wool or Camelhair Jaeger Rugs give such comfort with their soft, fleecy cosy feel, that no person who has ever owned one could be induced to part with it.

The home again brings the travelling rug into almost daily use.

A fully illustrated catalogue will be sent free on application to

DR. JAEGER Sanitary Woollen System CO. LIMITED
Toronto Montreal Winnipeg

British "founded 1883".

SHAKESPEARE AND THE WAR

The peace of Heaven is theirs that lift their swords
In such a just and charitable war.
—King John, Act 2, Scene 1.

Peace ascend to Heaven,
Whiles we, God's wrathful agent, do correct
Their proud contempt that beat his peace to Heaven.
—King John, Act 2, Scene 1.

We doubt not of a fair and lucky war.
—Henry V, Act 2, Scene 2.

In peace there's nothing so becomes a man
As modest stillness and humility:
But when the blast of war blows in our ears,
Then imitate the action of the tiger;
—Henry V, Act 3, Scene 1.

To ease your country of distressful war,
And suffer you to breathe in fruitful peace.
—1st Henry VI, Act 5, Scene 4.

Sound all the lofty instruments of war,
And by that music let us all embrace.
—1st Henry IV, Act 5, Scene 2.

These present wars shall find I love my country,
—Cymbeline, Act 4, Scene 3.

Have with you boys.
If in your country's wars you chance to die,
That is my bed, too, lads, and there I'll lie.
—Cymbeline, Act 4, Scene 4.

THE CARELESS WORD

Oh, many a shaft at random sent,
Finds mark the archer little meant!
And many a word at random spoken
May sopthe, or wound, a heart that's broken.
—SCOTT.

THE DREAMER
(By BERTON BRALEY)

Back of the beating hammer
By which the stele is wrought,
Back of the workshop's clamor
The seeker may find the Thought,
The Thought that is ever master
Of iron and steam and steel,
That rise above disaster
And tramples it under heel!
The drudge may fret and tinker
Or labor with dusty blows,
But back of him stands the Thinker,
The clear-eyed man who Knows;
For into each plow or saber,
Each piece and part and whole,
Must go to the Brians of Labor,
Which gives the work a soul!

Back of the motors humming,
Back of the belts that sing,
Back of the hammers drumming,
Back of the cranes that swing,
There is the eye which scans them
Watching through stress and strain,
There is the Mind which plans them—
Back of the brawn, the Brain!

Might of the roaring boiler,
Force of the engine's thrust,
Strength of the sweating toiler,
Greatly in these we trust,
But back of them stands the Schemer,
The Thinker who drives things through;
Back of the Job—the Dreamer
Who's making the dream come true!

SHE'S A $39,400 BEAUTY

Better insure her right away, for somebody might steal her. Some might want to steal her for the $40,000 smile she is wearing. More matter of fact burglars, however, might be moved by the $39,400 display of jewelry—mostly diamonds—that she has on.

The time is the present. The place is the convention of the National American Jewelers' association at the West hotel. The girl is Miss Alice Harvey of the "World of Pleasure" company.

Miss Harvey visited the convention and some of the delegates noted the $40,000 smile and thought it would go well with the jewels.

The camera man did the rest and went ahead with his work, dazzled as he was by the $40,000 smile, the $13,000 headband, the $8,300 necklace, the three rings worth $6,000, the $3,800 bracelet, the $2,800 brooch, another $2,150 brooch, the $2,500 hair ornament and the $900 barpin.

Ezy-Way Glycerine Washing Tablets

Use Two EZY-WAY GLYCERINE WASHING TABLETS to your usual bath water. It will soften the water, cleanse the pores, and make the skin soft, white and smooth. Why pay high prices for Turkish baths when you can get the same results at home with the Ezy-Way Glycerine Washing Tablets? The secret of good health is poral elimination. Don't take our word for it; just give it a trial and be your own judge. It will surprise and delight you.

Washes dirtiest clothes in from 10 to 15 minutes with very little rubbing, makes the clothes white as snow without blueing. Ezy-Way contains no paraffin wax, lye, lime, potash or other injurious chemicals. Ezy-Way will not cause the slightest injury to skin or the finest fabric. We ask you to get a free sample and give it a trial. If out of City send five cents to pay postage and packing and you will receive sample by return mail. Our guarantee, money back if not pleased, no questions asked. Agents wanted. This is the real thing, so get a-hold of a live wire.

EZY-WAY MFG. CO.
115 Fifth Ave. West Phone M1663

A. L. HESS
MAKER OF HIGH-GRADE
- PORTRAITS -

Your Friends Can Buy Anything You Can Give Them — Except Your Photograph.
124 Eighth Avenue East
Calgary, Alberta
Phone M3885

SLAVIN HAIR GROWER

The only preparation on the market that will Positively Cure Dandruff, Falling Hair, and Grow Hair on Bald Heads. Endorsed by scores of Calgary people.

PRICE $1.00 PER BOX
With Full Instructions.
319 BRUNER BLOCK

Calgary Furniture Hospital

We Will Trade Good Furniture for Old or Damaged, or Pay Highest Cash Prices.

We invite those who have not dealt here, to visit us, and give us an opportunity to show you what we do for our customers.

1312 First St. W. Phone M4078

The Elbow Shop
SHOE REPAIRING

An Expert Shoemaker at Your Service. "Quality and Satisfaction," our motto.

1120A FIRST ST. WEST

THE BEATON
Hairdressing & Shampoo and Manicure Parlors

Satisfied Customers Secret of Our Success.

1009 First Street W. Phone M2165

WM. S. PARK
Maker of PHOTOGRAPHS

218A EIGHTH AVENUE WEST
Phone, Main 6489 Calgary, Alta.

SMITH'S
PLEATING and BUTTON WORKS

606A First St. W., Calgary
Phone M3464

Hemstitching Hemming Picot Edging Button Holes Made Chain Stitching

We are specialists in our line, and can turn out your work quickly and well. All Work Guaranteed.

Local Manager: F. O. Barnard

New York Dress Shop

Mrs. Brennand is now located at 210 Eighth Avenue East, where you will find a complete line of Ladies' Suits and Coats, from some of the leading Houses in New York.

The material in these fabrics is of the best quality money can buy, and at less than half the cost. In order that you may be able to appreciate these goods, it will be necessary for you to call and inspect our wide range of samples in sizes ranging from 34 to 44.

210 Eighth Ave. E. Phone M3472

RAINCOATS

Natty Designs—Not Only Showerproof but Suitable for Cool Evenings—See Our Window
SPECIAL PRICES DURING FAIR WEEK
$14.40 to $16.10
Made-to-Measure Clothes for Men. At the Service of Calgary Men for 16 Years

A. S. NIMMO
Alberta Corner, First Street West

The Masters' Piano

is musically and mechanically as near perfection as human ingenuity can get. Unsurpassed for DURABILITY, TOUCH and QUALITY of tone.

It contains more real value for every dollar invested than any other piano in Canada.

Without doubt the finest talking machine on the market is the

Phonola

It is made in Canada and contains many new and exclusive features.

Visit our booth at Calgary Exhibition or our store and be convinced.

Alberta Piano Co.

130 Eighth Ave. W. Phone M3596 Calgary
Head Office: Masters Piano Co., Edmonton

Why not be particular about your principal food supply?

PURE MILK

is desired by everyone. You are invited to inspect our plant and satisfy yourself as to the quality of our Goods.

CARLYLE DAIRY CO.

Telephone Main 4686.

NOTICE OF REMOVAL

DAVE WILLIAMS, Auctioneer

Will in future conduct all Auction Sales at 233 Seventh Avenue West, ust West of the Hudson's Bay Store (late Mitchell's Auction Galleries) where all communications will receive prompt attention. Phone M6209.

Will Sell or Buy anything you have to sell.
Auction every Tuesday

Progressive Communities of Western Canada

GLEICHEN

The Prosperous Farming Centre of Southern Alberta

S. A. HALL

General Merchant

Dry Goods, Boots and Shoes, Groceries

We carry a full line of "No-Vary" pure food products

Quality and Service Our Aim

GLEICHEN, ALBERTA

J. O. BOGSTIE

GLEICHEN, ALTA.

Implements - Harness - Automobiles

Where Everybody Goes

J. E. JAMES

GLEICHEN POOL ROOMS

Bowling and Billiards

Tobaccos - Cigarettes - Soft Drinks

McKay Hardware Co.

GLEICHEN, ALTA.

General Hardware

Everything in House Fittings for the Alberta Homebuilders

FORD CARS, PARTS and ACCESSORIES

—For Sale by—

UNIVERSAL MOTORS LTD.

Gleichen, Alberta

W. R. McKIE, Mgr.

HENDERSON & MALLORY

REAL ESTATE and INSURANCE

Best District in Alberta — Correspondence Invited

P. O. Box 26 — GLEICHEN, ALTA.

Gleichen, Alberta---Its People and Progress

The popular farming center of Gleichen is one of the livest towns on the east branch of the Canadian Pacific railway. The importance of the town as a trading center is evidenced by the activity of its stores, and the lines of automobiles which crowd every thououghfare in the town speaks loudly for the prosperity of the surrounding farmers. Gleichen is one of the foremost Indian trading centers in Alberta and has been the mecca of great crowds of American landseekers even during the past few weeks when thousands of acres of valuable lands which formed a part of the Blackfoot Indian reserve, was put up for sale, and realized from thirty to forty dollars per acre. Such land sales at this time of financial stress means much for the popularity of the Gleichen area. Those lines of elevators which are ready at Gleichen to carry that great harvest of golden grain which is to be that district's contribution this year to the progress of our national commerce.

Gleichen town is the historic trading post of our Blackfoot Indians since times away back in the dim years of Canadian history, and today one sees that same Indian interest centered around his old-time trading post. The council of Gleichen have now taken over the electric power plant and the streets will be better lighted and the citizens will be in a position to know just what better lighting means to their town. At no town in Alberta is there such a business being done in lumber and hardware as at Gleichen, and its stores are overcrowded with those farmers who are so prosperous just now in the Gleichen area.

So evident is the prosperity of the town that a Calgary firm has reopened the old Gleichen hotel, whiih had been closed down since the storm of prohibition had passed over our province. The local council should take an optimistic view of Gleichen's oyportunities just now, and keep the town ahead of the farmers' inclination to purchase motor cars, by having some of the streets put in a better condition for motor traffic.

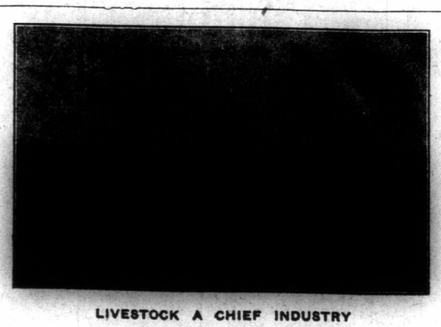
Gleichen has kept her boundaries free from that over-expansion which has throttled the progress of many of our large cities, and though the town is seriously handicapped by the need of greater territory to get the necessary revenue to cope with the improvements necessary for the better well-being of the town, but durinf those days which will follow the war one can realize just the prosperity which will come to Gleichen, with its great area of wealth producing wheat lands which will this year be pouring into those five elevators that stream of golden grain, and the town's cattle shipments are coming nearly up to the level of even the great cattle shipping center of the province, and though many towns claim to be the premier cattle and wheat center, we believe that Gleichen will keep pace with the times in the matter of shipment of the material things that matter to the great cause for wh'ch our Canadian sons are dying, over on the soil of Europe.

The town of Gleichen has never before done the advertising necessary to bring in the outside trader, and her commerce has been a steady growth rather than a growth caused by a boom at any time, but the time of Gleichen's future will be after victory comes, when our valiant Canadian men are coming back to "our west" with all that honor of victory upon them. It will be in those happy days that Gleichen will come into her own in the matter of expansion, and though the Gleichen people have given of almost every son they had who was fit to go and nearly 200 of those brave lads have gone out from Gleichen, that town is knowing today just how hard it is to share in the paying of the price for victory, and though many of Gleichen's sons have paid the price in lives and limbs, yet from those families who have given so much has never a word of sorrow or regret been expresed and a silent pride is evident in the spirit of those people of Gleichen that they were permitted to give so much in the cause of so great a victory as will come to the arms of those allied nations which have drawn the sword in the cause of the freedom of those weaker nations of earth.

We will leave the town of Gleichen with a recollection of the town's hospitality during our stay amidst their busy hours and the bright sunshine of a few summer days.

Those Gleichen citizens have the exact viewpoint of life which never ceases to bring contented prosperity to all those citizens who are resident within the limits of the town of Gleichen and on those broad acres which compose the prosp rous farming area.

JAS. PETTIGREW.



THE PRIDE OF THE FARM

TOOK COLLECTION FOR SOLDIER SPORTS

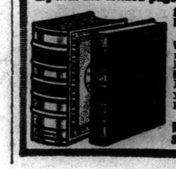
"Billy" Sunday's first collection in New York was illustrated with an announcement that he intended to do something for the boys at the front. He said:

"I used to play baseball. That is the way I got my material start. It is the cleanest game in America. Now, thousands of your boys are going to the firing lines to fight for you and they need some recreation. Instead of giving all of the collection that was taken this afternoon to the Y. M. C. A. and the Red Cross I'm going to reserve it for the recreation of the boys. I'm going to use it to buy them baseball bats and the rest of the outfit, so that they may have a little fun with baseball while fighting on foreign soil."

LIVESTOCK A CHIEF INDUSTRY

THE C.P.R. GIVES YOU TWENTY YEARS TO PAY

An immense area of the most fertile land in Western Canada for sale at low prices and easy terms ranging from $11 to $60 for farm lands with ample rainfall — irrigated lands up to $50. One-tenth down, balance if you wish within twenty years. In certain areas, land for sale without settlement conditions. In irrigation districts, loan for farm buildings, etc., up to $2,000, also repayable in twenty years—interest only 6 per cent. Here is your opportunity to increase your farm holdings by getting adjoining land, or to secure your friends as neighbors. For literature and particulars apply to Allan Cameron, General Superintendent of Lands, Department of Natural Resources, 925 First Street East, Calgary, Alta.



The Only Grand Prize (Highest Award) given to Dictionaries at the Panama-Pacific Exposition was granted to WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL

FOR

Superiority of Educational Merit.

This new creation answers with final authority all kinds of puzzling questions such as "How is Przemysl pronounced?" "Where is Flanders?" "What is a continuous voyage?" "What is a howitzer?" "What is white coal?" "How is skat pronounced?" and thousands of others.

More than 400,000 Vocabulary Terms. 30,000 Geographical Subjects. 12,000 Biographical Entries. Over 6000 illustrations. 2700 Pages. The only dictionary with the divided page—a stroke of genius.

Regular and India-Paper Editions.

Write for specimen pages, illustrations, etc. Free, a set of Pocket Maps if you name this paper.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Springfield, Mass.

J. R. RAMSAY

The Busy Stores

GLEICHEN and CLUNY

Specialties: Service, Values and Satisfied Customers

Record—Biggest and Best Country Store Business in Alberta

T. H. BEACH

Harness, Saddles and Tents

See our Special Prairie Breaking Harness

Agent for Plymouth Binder Twine—Book Your Order Now

The W. H. JAMES HARDWARE STORE

Paints, Oils, Varnishes, House Fittings and Utensils

Bombproof Price and Bombproof Quality Goods

GLEICHEN, ALBERTA

Revelstoke Sawmill Co.

LIMITED

We Have

The Largest and Cleanest Stock of Lumber and Posts in the Country

Gleichen Branch - - - V. BASHAW, Manager

GLEICHEN CALL

Published every Thursday

In the Heart of the Wealthiest Farming District in Alberta

W. PARK EVANS, Proprietor

MAR

WINNIPEG LETT

Our Winnipeg market is qu there is a good demand for cash wheat that is coming which averages about 500 c day. The board of grain sup appointed by our Canadian ment to control the handlin transportation of our grain cr been in session here for ne week, and elevator companie growers' grain companies, com merchants, brokers, exporters milling interests have all had ate sessions set apart, in whi could supply information to th and present their views and collectively and individually, how best the grain trade of should be conducted with the conserving the surplus for the government and our allies, inflated prices through spe buying and at the same time age the farmer to increase pro
It is understood that the bo evolved a policy, but as it is t that United States and Canad act together in the matter, thi has been communicated to W ton, and it is withheld from t lic in the meantime. Today' are: No. 1 northern, $2.43;
ern, $2.40; 3 northern, $2.36;
$2.24; No. 5, $2.00; No. 6, $1.8
October future closed at $1.9

Oats—The oat market ha active with good demand grades, but supplies have bee and prices though 1c to 2c hi the week are steady and firm.
prices are: 2 C.W. 71¼c; 3 C extra 1 feed 70c; 1 feed 68¾c
66½c. Futures closed, July October 59⅛c; December 57⅛

Barley—Barley is in good but prices of high grades hav down 5c on the week, wi grades show 1c advance. No.
No. 4, $1.21; rejected and fee

Flax—Th flax market has ratic with advances and dec 7c to 9c, but finishes about 2c down on the week. No
$2.76½; 2 C.W. $2.72½; 3 C rejected $2.57½; July $2.76
tober $2.66.

All prices quoted above a on delivery in store Fort Wil Port Arthur.

THOMPSON, SONS

GRAIN MARKET

Wheat—	Open	High	Lo
July	...	...	...
Oct.	193⅜	193⅝	191
Dec.	...	...	...
Flax—
July	272½	272½	265
Oct.	263	264	260
Dec.	...	...	...
Oats—
July	70½	71¼	70
Oct.	58⅞	59¾	58
Dec.	57	58⅜	57

COMPARATIVE

The prices are quoted on Arthur:

SPRING WHEAT—	Fri.
No. 1 northern	238
No. 2 Northern	235½
No. 3 Northern	231
No. 4	219
No. 5	195
No. 6	189
OATS—
2 C. W.	70⅜
3 C. W.	68⅞
Ex. 1 Feed	68⅜
No. 1 Feed	67⅜
No. 2 Feed	65⅜

The
Is Ru

HAVING STAR CONDITIONS LIVING UP TO BETTER MORE LARG

FAS

Cheap Fares on

Fair Does No

MSAY Stores
H CLUNY
ce, Values and ustomers
y Store Business in Alberta

EACH s and Tents
Breaking Harness
ne—Book Your Order Now

. JAMES
E STORE Varnishes,
ings and ils
mbproof Quality Goods
ALBERTA

Sawmill Co.
LIMITED ave tock of Lumber and Posts ountry
V. BASHAW, Manager

N CALL
y Thursday
Farming District in Alberta
NS, Proprietor

MARKET AND FINANCE

WINNIPEG LETTER

Our Winnipeg market is quiet, but there is a good demand for all the cash wheat that is coming along, which averages about 500 cars per day. The board of grain supervisors appointed by our Canadian government to control the handling and transportation of our grain crops, has been in session here for nearly a week, and elevator companies, grain growers' grain companies, commission merchants, brokers, exporters and the milling interests have all had separate sessions set apart, in which they could supply information to the board and present their views and opinions collectively and individually, as to how best the grain trade of Canada should be conducted with the view of conserving the surplus for the British government and our allies, prevent inflated prices through speculative buying and at the same time encourage the farmer to increase production. It is understood that the board has evolved a policy, but as it is intended that United States and Canada shall act together in the matter, this policy has been communicated to Washington, and it is withheld from the public in the meantime. Today's prices are: No. 1 northern, $2.43; 2 northern, $2.40; 3 northern, $2.36; No. 4, $2.24; No. 5, $2.00; No. 6, $1.84. The October future closed at $1.96.

Oats—The oat market has been active with good demand for all grades, but supplies have been liberal and prices though 1c to 2c higher on the week are steady and firm. Today's prices are: 2 C.W. 71¼c; 3 C.W. and extra 1 feed 70c; 1 feed 68¾c; 2 feed 66½c. Futures closed, July 70¾c; October 59½c; December 57⅛c.

Barley—Barley is in good demand, but prices of high grades have slipped down 5c on the week, while low grades show 1c advance. No. 3, $1.26; No. 4, $1.21; rejected and feed, $1.10.

Flax—Th flax market has been erratic with advances and declines of 7c to 9c, but finishes about 2c to 2½c down on the week. No 1 N.W. $2.76½; 2 C.W. $2.72½; 3 C.W. and rejected $2.57½; July $2.76½; October $2.66.

All prices quoted above are based on delivery in store Fort William and Port Arthur.

THOMPSON, SONS & CO.

GRAIN MARKET

Wheat—	Open	High	Low	Thurs.
July	...	...	...	...
Oct.	193⅝	193⅝	191⅛	191¼
Dec.	...	...	...	...
Flax—
July	272½	272½	265½	267
Oct.	263	264	260	260
Dec.	...	...	...	...
Oats—
July	70½	71½	70⅝	71½
Oct.	58⅝	59⅜	58⅞	59⅝
Dec.	57	58⅜	57	58⅜

COMPARATIVE STATEMENT GRAIN PRICES

The prices are quoted on grain in warehouses at Fort William and Port Arthur:

SPRING WHEAT—	Fri.	Sat.	Mon.	Tues.	Wed.	Thurs.
No. 1 northern	238	238	236	237	232	225
No. 2 Northern	235¼	235	233	234	229	222
No. 3 Northern	231	231	229	230	225	218
No. 4	219	219	217	218	213	206
No. 5	195	195	193	194	189	182
No. 6	189	179	177	178	173	166
OATS—
2 C. W.	70⅜	70½	70½	70½	70½	70⅞
3 C. W.	68⅞	68⅜	68⅞	69¼	69⅜	69⅞
Ex. 1 Feed	68⅞	68⅜	68⅞	69⅛	69⅜	70⅛
No. 1 Feed	67⅜	67½	67⅝	68	68⅜	68⅞
No. 2 Feed	65⅜	65¼	65⅝	65¾	66½	66⅞

The Big Fair
Is Running Now

HAVING STARTED UNDER MOST FAVORABLE CONDITIONS THE CALGARY EXHIBITION IS LIVING UP TO ITS PRELIMINARY ANNOUNCEMENTS.

BETTER ATTRACTIONS
MORE COMPETITORS
LARGER EXHIBITS FASTER RACES

Cheap Fares on All Railway Lines and Excursions Next Week

Fair Does Not Close Until Thurs. July 5

MINNEAPOLIS

July	226½	226½	224	224
Sept.	175	175	171½	174
Dec.	...	...	...	...

CHICAGO

Wheat—
July	201	201	200	201
Sept.	180	181½	180	181½
Dec.	...	...	...	...

OPTIONS

	July		Oct.
Wheat—	Thurs.	Yest'y	Thur.	Yesty'
Winnipeg	...	...	191¼	194
Min'apolis	224	230	201	177½
Chicago	...	205	181	183

LIVESTOCK

CALGARY LIVESTOCK PRICES GOING UP

Steers—
Choice export	9.25@$10.00
Fat, extra choice butcher	8.50@ 9.00
Com. to med. butcher	8.50@ 8.50
Heifers—
Common to choice heavy butcher	8.25@ 9.00
Cows—
Choice	7.75@ 8.00
Common	6.00@ 7.00
Canner—Cows and oxen	4.50@ 5.00
Oxen—
Fat	6.50@ 7.25
Thin and fair oxen	4.00@ 6.00
Veal calves—
150 to 250 lbs.	9.25@ 9.75
Over 450 lbs. (good color)	8.75@ 9.00
Stocker, 2-year-olds	7.50@ 8.00
Light feeding steers	7.50@ 7.85
Stags	6.00@ 7.50
Springers—
Choice	95.00@100.00
Common	70.00@75.00
Fat bulls	6.50@ 7.50
Sheep—
Good wethers	10.25@10.75
Ewes	9.50@10.50
Lambs—Choice fat	13.00@13.50
Hogs—
Selects, weighed off cars	14.75

WINNIPEG LIVESTOCK

Winnipeg, June 28.—Union stockyards' receipts, today, were 400 cattle and 1,450 hogs. Cattle trading steady. Prices are fully 25c to 50c lower since Monday's market on all grades of cattle, Stockers are a shade lower, also feeders, which are slow at much easier prices. Veal calves steady. Milch cows in good demand at steady prices. Hogs steady at $15.15 a hundredweight, Wednesday's close.

Butcher steers—Choice to prime 10.50 to 11.75; medium to good 9.25 to 10.00; common 6.50 to 7.25.

Butcher heifers—Choice to good 10.00 to 10.50; comomn to medium 7.25 to 9.50.

Bulls—Good to common 4.50 to 8.00; oxen, good to common, 3.7 5to 7.50.

Feeders—Steers, choice to good 7.50. to 8.00.

Stockers, steers and heifers—Choice to good 7.25 to 8.60; common to medium 6.75 to 7.25; choice to good heifers 8.25 to 8.75; common to medium 6.50 to 7.00.

Sheep and lambs—Choice yearling lambs 10.50 to 11.50; common to medoum 7.50 to 9.25; heavy sheep 8.25 to 8.75; light sheep 6.50 to 7.00.

Hogs — Selects 15.00 to 15.15; heavies 10.00 to 11.00; sows 8.00; light mogs 12.00 to 13.00.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Chicago, June 28.—Hogs, receipts 29,000; weak, 10 to 25 cents below yesterday's average. Bulk 14.65 to 15.50; light 14.10 to 15.20; mixed 14.40 to 15.70; heavy 14.35 to 15.70; rough 14.35 to 14.55; pigs 10.75 to 14.10.

HCattle, receipts 21,000; weak. Native beef 8.50 to 13.85; stockers and feeders 6.75 to $10.00; cows and heifers 5.60 to 11.25; calves 11.00 to 15.50.

Sheep, receipts 16,000, weak; Wethers 8.65 to 11.40; ewes 8.00 to 10.25; lambs 10.75 to 10.75; springs 13.50 to 18.10.

ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK

South St. Paul, Minn., June 28.—Hogs—Receipts, 5,000, steady. Range $14.25 to $15.25; bulk $14.50 to $14.75.

Cattle—Receipts 3,400; killers 10c to 15c lower; steers $7.00 to $12.60; cows and heifers $7.25 to $10.50; calves, steary, $5.50 to $13.75; stockers and feeders, 50c lower for week, $5.00 to $8.50.

Sheep—Receipts 650, steady. Lambs $7.00 to $13.50; wethers $7.00 to $10.25; ewes $5.00 to $9.50.

FINANCIAL

BANK CLEARINGS

Winnipeg, June 28.—Following are the bank clearings of the principal cities of the Dominion for the week ending today, as compared with the corresponding week last year:

	1917	1916
Montreal	$93,093,931	$71,143,677
Toronto	59,644143	56,320,154
Winnipeg	41,982,136	32,421,876
Vancouver	7,666,041	5,940,942
Ottawa	7,030,295	4,919,402
Calgary	6,155,134	3,873,052
Hamilton	4,684,967	3,871,494
Quebec	4,071,638	3,408,215
Regina	2,787,665	1,781,077
Halifax	2,427,790	2,033,374
Edmonton	2,215,980	1,762,083
London	1,842,500	1,669,053
St. John	1,944,878	1,664,080
Victoria	1,752,367	1,364,645
Saskatoon	1,492,793	970,507
Moose Jaw	1,116,825	794,961
Lethbridge	814,850	426,311
Brantford	737,584	528,552
Fort William	594,327	470,574
Medicine Hat	529,069	298,914
Brandon	423,554	496,165
New Westminster	———	305,712

NEW YORK STOCKS
(Lougheed & Taylor)

Name	Close
Am. Sugr	120⅜
Am. Beet Sugar	93½
Am. Can.	49
Am. Loco.	70
Am. Smelt.	106⅛
Am. Car Fdy.	77¼
Anglo-French	93¼
Anaconda	81⅞
Atchison	103⅝
Baldwin Loco.	70⅛
B. & O.	74
Beth. Steel	138⅝
C. P. R.	159⅛
Cen. Leather	93⅝
Ches. & O.	60⅛
Col. F. & I.	52⅛
Crucible Steel	86⅛
Erie (c)	26⅛
Gt. Nor. pfd.	108⅛
Indus. Alcohol	151
Inspiration	62⅛
Kan. City So.	23½
Mex. Pet.	93½
N. Y. C.	92
Nor. Pac.	102⅞
Pennsylvania	53¼
Ray Consol.	28⅛
Rep. I. & S.	90¾
Reading	96
Reading	94⅜
Sou. Ry.	27¾
Studebaker	67⅝
Tenn. Copper	18
Union Pac.	136¾
Utah Copper	110¼
U. S. Steel (c)	129⅝
Cir. Chem.	44
Westinghouse	51⅝

MONTREAL STOCKS
(Lougheed & Taylor)

Name	Close
Brazil	38¾
Bell Tel.	139
Can. Cement	61¾
Car. Fdy.	31
Civic	75⅞
Det. United	108
Dom. Loan 1931	93½
Dom. I. & S. (c)	61
Laurentide	175
N. S. Steel	100
Ogilvie (c)	138½
QQuebec Ry.	18
Riordan Paper	121¾
Shawinigan	119½
Steel of Can.	57¾
Can. Steel	43

CALGARY OIL EXCHANGE

	Bid	Asked
Alberta Associated Oils	..	335
Alberta Petroleum Con.	⅞	1⅛
Alberta Pacific Con.	2¼	2¾
Athabasca Oil Co.	..	20
Beaver	¼	½
British Canadian Oils	..	½
Calgary Alberta Oils	1	2
Calgary Pet. Products	15	18½
Federal Oil & Gas	½	2
Monarch	1	..
Moose Mountain	4	..
Mt. Stephen Oil & Gas	18	20
North West Pacific Oil	..	3½
Piedmont Pet. Products	..	⅜
Progress	..	¼
Record	9	15
Stokes-Stephens	2	4
Southern Alberta	3.25	3.50
Segur Oils, Ltd.	..	1
Union Pacific	⅛	¼
United	..	1.25
Western Pacific	5	..
Western Petroleum	1	..

NORTHWEST CROP OF POTATOES TO SET NEW RECORD

Portland, Ore.—Oregon, Washington and Idaho will produce the largest crop of potatoes in their history this year. The combined yield of these states is now estimated at 75,000,000 bushels as compared with an estimated crop of 47,000,000 last year.

Figures gathered from reliable sources in these states indicate the yield and acreage divided as follows:

	Acreage 1917	1916
California	112,000	69,000
Washington	105,000	62,000
Oregon	101,000	60,000
Idaho	60,000	25,000
	Yield 1917	1916
California	23,000,000	15,300,000
Washington	21,000,000	14,000,000
Oregon	20,000,000	13,125,000
Idaho	11,000,000	1,000,000

It is believed by expert crop reporters that this estimate is a conservative one and the ultimate yield likely will exceed these figures.

Weather conditions recently have been favorable for potatoes in the Pacific northwest and fair in California.

Business Conditions Very Satisfactory

Writer for Canadian Bank of Commerce Commercial Bulletin Finds Country in Good Condition.

At the close of May the crop outlook in the Dominion was, generally speaking satisfactory. At the beginning of the month seeding had barely commenced but the advent of extremely favorable weather resulted in abnormal activity throughout the prairie provinces. In other parts of the country though cool weather was the rule, seeding was completed under conditions that may be regarded as normal. In the latter part of May some severe frosts were recorded in the west, and were followed by cool weather. Occasional showers fell in the early part of June and subsequently rain became general. In some districts frosts set back the crops a little and in others some damage was done by dry weather, but so far the cereal crops promise to be normal and are as forward as last year. Fruit prospects are promising.

Accurate figures of the crop acreage are not available, and the estimates made by various authorities show wide differences. Some indicate a decrease of about 12½ per cent. in the acreage of wheat and slight increases in the acreage of oats, barley and flax. It is quite evident, however, that strenuous efforts were made to put under crop as much land as possible, and of this no better evidence can be adduced than the great demand for implements. While the prairies have furnished a large number of men for the defence of the empire, there has not been at any time serious complaint of a shortage of labor. Help at seeding time was no doubt secured from the smaller urban communities, the exodus from which, during the seeding season, was very noticeable. The present high prices for cereals are in themselves a very potent influence in stimulating agricultural activity and it would not be surprising if, after all, this year's acreage proves to be as large as that of last year.

Conditions in Western Canada

Generally speaking, the western farmer is, in many respects, in a much better position than hitherto to increase his production. Two years of high prices for his products have enabled him, even with a normal crop, to liquidate a substantial proportion of his liabilities and at the same time to buy improved farm machinery. His prosperity is reflected in the demand for building materials, motor cars and other equipment. It is no doubt true that some extravagance is evidenced by the astonishing demand for motor cars, but it must be remembered that many of these cars will make for efficiency on the farm and economize both time and labor.

In Saskatchewan 21,000 licenses for motor cars were issued up to the beginning of May, and it is estimated that the total would reach 30,000 before the end of the summer. In 1916 the number issued amounted to 15,000 and in 1915 to 9,000. This extraordinary increase has been accompanied by considerable activity in the business centers of the province. Two years ago empty dwellings were numerous in almost every city from the head of the lakes to the Pacific coast. Rents were so low that in some cases high-priced property did not bring in sufficient revenue to pay taxes. Today houses are in general demand, rents are becoming normal and population is again increasing. This desirable change relieves anxiety with regard to the financial position of some municipalities and evidences general prosperity in the surrounding rural communities. Happily there does not appear to be any desire on the part of the business public to encourage real estate speculation. There has arisen, however, a very natural demand for land among successful farmers and the number of promising immigrants on the lookout for homesteads has also increased. Railways and land companies report more sales during the past two months than have taken place in the same length of time for many years. Altogether the outlook is promising and the high prices for farm products, on which the present prosperity depends, are likely to continue for some time after the war.

Industrial Conditions

Labor conditions render it increasingly difficult to meet the continued heavy demand for munitions. Loss of time through trade disputes and desultory work are as great an obstacle to the full utilization of the country's industrial resources as the actual shortage in the supply of labor. Unless some more effective regulation of labor is introduced, which will bring about more regular and more permanent service, it may not be possible to sustain the present volume of exports of manufactured goods, essential as it is to the maintenance of our financial position. Labor and ocean transportation difficulties are perhaps equally responsible for the falling off in exports, which were less in April by $21,000,000 than the imports for that month, the first unfavorable balance since February, 1915.

ELECTRIC PLANTS FOR THE FARM

One of the recognized necessities in connection with our increased agricultural production is better and more attractive conditions on the farm, and among the many suggestions the use of electricity should be considered. Electric power is a great convenience in the farm home, and saves much time to the farm help. The farm or country home situated within the area of an electric system of transmission or distribution is fortunate, but the vast majority must look to the small isolated plant.

This alternative, however, is now much more promising than a few years ago. Many factories manufacture this type of equipment, the operation of the plants has been simplified and the cost has been much reduced.

These small plants may be advantageously used for many domestic purposes in addition to lighting, such as ironing, washing, toasting, pumping water, etc.; and also for the very important usee of charging storage batteries.

There are a number of these small plants now on the Canadian market, ranging in size from 175 watts, and costing from $300 upward. Six different types were described in a recent electrical magazine, some using storage batteries in conjunction, and generally using a gasoline engine as a prime mover.

High Class American Dentistry
Expression 20th Century Plates that Fit
Cute-Rate Prices. 10-Year Guarantee.
The Greatest Scientific Painless Methods Used.
Office Hours: 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Daily; 7 to 9 p.m. Evenings
Thousands of Pleased Patients
Gold Crowns and Bridge Work a Specialty
DR. P. C. BRUNER | DR. W. B. REEVE
Graduates from Chicago, Detroit and Philadelphia Colleges
Phone M1051
Calgary Office: Eighth Avenue East, Next to Allen Theatre
Edmonton Office: Crystall Block, Jasper Avenue

C N
SPRING and SUMMER SUITS
Made to Your Order, From $25 to $40
300 Patterns From Which to Make Your Selection.
A. S. Nimmo
MADE TO MEASURE CLOTHES FOR MEN
ALBERTA CORNER 1st. St. WEST CALGARY

A GENUINE FARMER'S MARKET
A Public Market owned and operated by the City of Calgary in the interests of the producer and consumer.
Farmers living at a distance and unable to attend the Market in person can forward their produce direct to the Superintendent and have same sold through a bonded agent with prompt returns.
For further particulars phone or write
SUPERINTENDENT,
Calgary Public Market

GEO. W. BUCHAN
The Working Man's Shoemaker
For Quality Shoes, See Me—All grades and styles, both in Heavy and Fine Shoes—Prices Lowest
Expert Shoe Repairing in Connection
322 NINTH AVE. EAST

J. W. Vermilyea & Co.
805 First St. West, 25 Alberta Blk.
Phone M1617 Calgary, Alta.
We have first-class Farm Lands for sale in all parts of Southern Alberta, both raw and improved, at right prices, also a large list of fully modern houses for sale, in all parts of the city. Money to loan.

LASHER & GILLILAN LIMITED
Farm and Ranch Lands
Head Office: 809 Center Street
Phone M2906
Calgary, Three Hills, Youngstown, Alberta

LAND BUYERS
Let Us Help You in the Selection of Your Alberta Farm
We were Pioneer Farmers in the States, and we have developed thousands of acres of Alberta's best Wheat Lands.
We have located a large number of Land Seekers during the many years we have been in business in Calgary, and it is a source of satisfaction to us to know that every settler who has followed our advice is making good.
Exclusively Farm Lands
Valuators and Developers
GILBERT BROS., LIMITED
ESTABLISHED 11 YEARS
813 Grain Exchange Building
Calgary, Alberta

Calgary Furniture Hospital
We have a very complete line of Secondhand Furniture. All classes and descriptions. Several good sets for sale and at reasonable prices.
Our Stock of Stoves and Ranges are the best to be found in the City. We invite you to see our Stock before buying elsewhere.

Service Is Unexcelled
ON YOUR SUMMER TRIP TRAVEL BY Canadian Northern
PACIFIC COAST
Round trip summer excursion fares to Vancouver, Victoria, New Westminster, Seattle, Bellingham, Everett, Tacoma, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego.
ON SALE JUNE 15TH TO SEPTEMBER 30TH
Final return limit three months, but not later than October 31st.
Stopover allowed.
Special fares to Lucerne, Jasper Park and Mt. Robson. On sale May 11th to September 30th. Final return limit 16 days. Single fare plus 10c for round trip.
TO EASTERN CANADA
Round trip 60 days. Summer Tourist fares June 1st to September 30th
Standard electric-lighted trains carrying compartment observation cars through the mountains and Winnipeg to Toronto. Standard Sleeping and Tourist cars.
Full information from
J. H. NORTON, City Passenger Agent, Phone M3626
A. R. McDOUGALL, Depot Ticket Agent, Calgary, Alta. Phone M5656
Or Write J. Madill, D.P.A., Edmonton, Alta.

Hotel Radisson
MINNEAPOLIS
409 ROOMS
275 ROOMS AT $1.50 TO $2.50 PER DAY.
MODERN - FIRE PROOF

Phone M5910
JOE CARNEGIE
Gas Fitting and Repairing
744 5½ ST. N.W., CALGARY
Estimates Given

BUD SHOW CARDS
Signs of the Times
218A EIGHTH AVENUE EAST
Cotton Signs Phone M5263
Late Card Writer Hudson's Bay Co

McKelvie & Stirrett Co. Ltd.
General Brokers and Commission Agents.
Bain Building, 11th Avenue West
Phone W1736
By using "Our Best" Flour and our other brands of goods, you will reduce the high cost of living.

CITY SIGN WORKS
SECOND STREET EAST
For Sign Painting and Show Cards
Opposite Post Office
See Us.
Prices Right. Good Workmanship

FURRIER
THOS. PAIN
Manufacturing Furrier
Successor to Mackay & Dippie Fur Manufacturing Department
218A Eighth Ave. West. Phone M3808
Furs Remodeled and Repaired. Your Own Skins Dressed and Made Up. Highest Prices Paid for Raw Furs.

CROSSLAND & BEALE
Decorators
Wall Paper, Sanitas, Burlaps, Mouldings, Paints, Oils, Stains, Varnishes and Brushes
714 SECOND STREET EAST
Phone M4344 City Hall Corner

BROCK & MILLAR
LADIES' AND GENTS' TAILORS
Breeches Makers
711A First St. East, Cameron Blk.
Phone M1267 CALGARY

INSURANCE
ST. PAUL MUTUAL HAIL & CYCLONE INSURANCE COMPANY
CALGARY . . . . ALTA.
Before buying Hail Insurance, we invite you to call and Inspect Our Policies.

Office Phone M3375
Residence Phone M3251
JOHN J. PETRIE
Barrister, Solicitor and Notary
2 MILLS BLOCK
322A Eighth Avenue West
Calgary - - - Canada

Order Your Help from
J. R. ROBERTS
Employment Office
108a Ninth Avenue West
Phone M5881 Calgary, Alta.

MONUMENTS
The Somerville Co.

2318 SECOND STREET EAST
Phone M3305
South of C.N.R. Subway, Near Union Cemetery Gate

O. Hanson & Co.
EMPLOYMENT AGENCY
Head Office:
813A Centre St., Calgary, Alta.
P. O. Box 1346 Phone M2963
We make a specialty in furnishing Labor for Railroad Contractors and Companies. All kinds of help Furnished on Short Notice.
For Quick, Reliable and Satisfactory Service, See Us.
C. P. R. Labor Agents.

Motorists' Attention

Of Particular Importance to Automobile Owners

The executive of the Calgary Automobile club has circularized its membership and the members of clubs in affiliation, calling special attention that during the fair week Calgary thoroughfares will be taxed to the utmost and particularly so during the opening and closing hours of the exhibition and asking motorists generally to co-operate with traffic officials in the discharge of their duties. Much of the danger and inconvenience caused by the increased traffic would be obviated if motorists wherever possible would use the less congested streets and thoroughfares and avoid busy intersections and transfer points such as: 8th avenue, between 2nd street west and 2nd street east, and streets and avenues leading to the exhibition grounds.

It is also pointed out that under his efficient management, Mr. E. L. Richardson has given special attention to the convenience and safety of motorists in providing enlarged and more convenient parking facilities at the fair grounds in setting apart the old baseball field and providing at that point a ticket booth and entrance for the exclusive use of motorists. The members of the various clubs have been requested to show their appreciation of this consideration on the part of Manager Richardson by approaching the fair grounds, via 18th avenue to 2nd street east, then south to the city stables; at the south end of the stables the special auto entrance is located. In this way the congestion and danger to pedestrians at the main entrance of the fair Grounds will be avoided.

The executive has also requested its members to keep well below the speed limit and in the interests of safety to immediately report any infractions of traffic rules and to assist the police department and the street railway officials in handling the greatly increased traffic.

The Executive have particularly requested their entire membership to show their appreciation of what Manager Richardson in the interests of the Calgary Automobile club and motorists generally has done by not only being themselves in attendance but generally boosting the automobile end of the exhibition.

The Calgary Auto club will have a large tent on the Fair Grounds where every autoist, whether he is a member of the club or not, is requested to make himself at home.

COOPER WON AUTO RACE IN CHICAGO

Chicago.—Earl Cooper, driving a Stutz, won the 250 mile auto Derby at the Chicago Speedway, driving a terrific race, in 2:25:28.8, an average of 103.1 miles an hour.

Ralph Mulford, smiling Ralph of the Hudson team, lost the speed contest by the hair breadth margin of 46 seconds. One stop at the pits had cost him the victory at the last moment after he held the lead for 130 miles and had broken two world's records.

Eddie Hearne's Duesenberg flashed across third by a still narrower margin. He was only 21 seconds behind Mulford.

Time of Contestants

Mulford's time and those of the other leaders at the end of the race were as follows:

Mulford, Hudson, 2:26:15.5 miles per hour.

Hearne, Duesenberg, 2:26:36.5, or 103.35 miles per hour.

Durant, Delage, 2:26:36.45, or 102.25 miles per hour.

Haines, Mercer, 2:29:46.5, or 100 miles per hour.

Henderson, Duesenberg, 2:31:53, or 99 miles per hour.

Lewis, Hoskins Special, 2:35:08.1, or 97 miles an hour.

Vail, Hudson, 2:39:5, or 94 miles an hour.

Frontenac, Mercedes.
Chevrolet, Frontenac.
Milton, Duesenberg.
Alley, Pan-American.

The finish was as spectacular as could have been imagined and Mulford, the loser, was cheered as wildly as Cooper, the winner.

ENJOYED LONG TRIP IN HER GRAY-DORT CAR

Miss Marian Newland, a clever and experienced driver, has become a great Gray-Dort enthusiast after "doing" California with her parents, and Mrs. Newland, of Newport, Vermont.

Miss Newland has this to say regarding the performance of her Gray-Dort:

"We have called it our "Little Big Car" because of the things it will do. We drove up and down all the canyon and mountain roads from San Diego to Bakersfield and traveled in company with all kinds of cars on the inland and coast roads.

"We paid out not a penny for repairs, had not a single delay and on the heavy grades took delight in passing the many-cylindered big cars. Our gasoline consumption was from one-half to two-thirds that of the larger cars we have owned. We are certainly delighted with the Gray-Dort. It has made our tour a wonder."

FORD'S PROFIT $21 ON EACH CAR

Vice President Klingensmith of the Ford Motor company testified in the Dodge-Ford suit that Ford cars cost $260 each to make and are sold to dealers for $281, giving the company a profit of $21 a car. He said the Ford company expects to make 12.01 per cent gross on $250,000,000 business this year.

Andrew D. White stated recently that murder in America was a safer pursuit than hunting—that only one in 100 murderers were punished with death.

"Our morality, so far as the treatment of murder is concerned," said Mr. White, "seems to me as loose as the morality of the guests at a Balkan ball."

Even the poorest housewife can cook a man's goose successfully.

Vacationists' Shopping Headquarters

Great Fair-time and Economy Holiday Sale

PARASOLS FOR THE HOLIDAY

For the little ladies and grown-ups.

Ladies' Silk Parasols, in variety of plain and fancy tops, figures, spots and stripes, strongly made and well finished, each $2.98, $3.50, $6.95, $10.00, $11.50.

Ladies' Cotton Parasols

Three especially good values at $1.25, $1.50 and $1.98 each.

Children's Parasols--Specials

Children's parasols at 59c, 69c and 98c each. An extra special at 25c each.

Buy one of our 98c special umbrellas if you're caught down town in the rain.

Main, Opp. Elevators

DRUG SUNDRIES at Cut Prices

Hubaco face cream does wonders to the sunburned, wind irritated skin ..... 35c and 50c sizes
Men! Hubaco after shave lotion will leave your skin refreshed and invigorated; large size bottle 50c; small size..... 25c
Other Hubaco preparations equally good for their respective purposes.
1 lb. bottle of peroxide; regular 50c 29c
144 only pocket combs; regular 15c 10c
144 only ladies' dressing combs 25c
36 oz. of ideal lilac sachet powder, per oz. $1.00
Pivers' perfumes, Vivitz, La Trifle or Safronor, half oz. 50c
Sticky fly paper, 1 yard rolls, per dozen 19c
Ruth complexion beautifier, 50c jar for 39c
Shop in our cut price toilet section and save money.

Main, Opp. Elevators

NEW BUTTONS

Latest novelty buttons, new stock for summer trimmings:

Summer suit buttons, white ball centres with rims of black; four sizes, per dozen 35c, 65c, 85c, $1.25

Roman pearl balls for blouse trimming, per dozen 50c

Ivory celluloid dress buttons, ball centres, in mustard, chartreuse, navy, prairie green; three sizes..... 50c, $1.00, $1.50

Crimson buttons for sports suits; three sizes 25c, 50c, 75c

All white, half round summer suit buttons; three sizes 35c, 75c, $1.50

And many more. Main, Centre

Leather Goods

Sale of leather goods at Value to $6.50..... $1.98

360 pieces in all, ranging up to $6.50 each. On sale. Handbags and other leather goods. Main, Centre

Jewelry Novelties

300 pairs dainty hat pins. 100 pairs dainty earrings. New goods, latest novelty. On sale at, per pair 25c

Main, Centre

Are You Ready for Your Holidays?

NOT WITHOUT A KODAK

Let us show you some of the popular models—Brownie from $1.25 to $12.00; Kodaks from $7.00 to $62.00.

Enter our Ameteur Photograsprehs' competition, which is open to any amateur, up to September 15th. First prize $10.00, Second prize $7.50, Third prize, $5.00, and five prizes of $2.00 each in any merchandise throughout the store.

Bring in your films to us and insure satisfaction.

Main—Right of Elevators

Fancy Linens in a 98c Clearance

300 lovely sample pieces, round hand embroidered centres, 45x45 inches round lace edge ablecloths, 54x54 embroidered and hand drawn tablecloths, 54x54 round tablecloths, fancy guipure lace edge centres, hand made Tenériffe centre pieces all beautiful goods. See window display. Regular $1.59 to $6.50. No mail or phone orders

News From The Bookshop

Glance over the following list of books, previously published at $1.25 and $1.50. for 69c each; 3 for..... $1.00

The Lovable Meddler—Dalrymple.
The Sixty-first Second—Johnson.
The Daredevil—Davies.
The Inside of the Cup—Churchill.
The One Way Fail—Cullem.
The Eyes of the World—Harold Bell Wright
The Money Master—Gilbert Parker.
Who Goes There?—Chambers.
And hundreds of other titles.

Linen notepaper, high grade stock in shades of white blue grey, etc. Reg. to 65c. for, each 27c

Fountain Pens. Regular 50c, for each 29c

Writing Tablets. Regular 25c each for 17c

White House Cook Book. Regular $1.25, for 99c

Table of books, containing books suitable for all ages, only a few copies of title. Regular to $1.00 each. Your choice.... 25c

Quality Gloves

Ladies' Black Silk Gloves with embroidered tips. Niagara Maid Queen Quality and Kayser makes, double tipped fingers, two dome fasteners, one hundred pair only, Regular $1.00 Special 79c

Misses White Silk Gloves, with double tipped fingers, Paris pts. Sizes from 1 to 6, suitable for children from 3 to 12 years of age. Regular 85c. Special 69c

White Washable Doe Skin, with gauntlet cuffs. P X M seams, Paris pts., a broken range of sizes, mostly 6¼. Reg. $1.75 Special $1.15

16-button length Black Silk Gloves, of good quality silk, double tipped fingers. Reg. $1.25. Special 88c

Extra heavy quality white and black Silk Gloves, double tipped fingers, Emb. pts., Queen Quality Kayser and Niagara Maid makes $1.25

Natural and white washable Doe Skin Gloves, pique sewn fingers, one or two button fasteners, very serviceable glove, Price $1.50

White Chamois Lisle Gloves, pique sewn fingers, Paris Pts., two dome fasteners 85c

White Kid Gloves with Extra Black emb. pts.., pique sewn fingers; one dome fasteners, also white black and tan with self pts. Oversewn fingers, two dome fasteners..... $1.75

Main, Centre

MEN'S SUITS $9.95

50 only, Men's Suits in brown, grey and mixture. Regular values up to $18.00. Saturday $9.95

75 only, Men's Suits, three and two button models; well tailored and finished; medium cut pants, values up to $22.50, for $14.85

Comfo Hats

Panama Hats, in smart pencil curl sunk crown and boater shapes, the most recent styles. all sizes. Each $8.00

Boater Hat, in all the favored rough braid sennit straws and fine smooth split straws. Special values, each, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50 and $3.00

Caps, for the man who stays young, smart long peak in tweeds and mohairs, enduring, unbreakable peak, all sizes at, each, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75 $2.00

Boys' Hats, in cotton or straw, smart round stiff crown cottons in fawn, blue, white, black and white check; ages 2 to 6 years. All sizes. Regular 65c., for, each 39c

Fine Straw Dip Leaf with brown American leather trim. Regular 75c. All sizes each 39c

See The "Bay" Exhibits at The Exhibition

The entire series will well be worth any effort it requires to visit the industrial building. Early Fall showings of Furs, Ready to Wear, Piece Goods, Men's Effects, Fresh Foods, etc., grouped most attractively by the store's expert staff of decorators.

SLIP ONS

50 only, Men's light weight Coats, suitable for summer evenings, they were purchased at a very special rate, for quick selling. Sizes 34 to 46. Values $7.50, for $5.00

Another Photograph Competition

June 28th to Sept. 15th—No Charge for Entry

You enter the contest by simply buying one roll of film to fit your camera. An entry blank is then given you to fill out and file with us. Simply proceed and take any snapshots you will between now and September 15th, when the contest closes. Competent judges will then make the awards.

$32.50 in Merchandise Prizes

As follows:
First—$10.00 in Kodaks or supplies or your choice to the same value of merchandise in any department of this store.
Second—$7.50 worth of merchandise in any department of the store.
Third—$5.00 worth of merchandise in any department of the store.
Fourth—Five prizes of $2.00 each in Kodaks or merchandise from any department in the store.

Only One Condition Exists—Buy a Roll of Film

Have your films developed or printed anywhere. Print your name in INK on the back of each picture you enter. Enter as many as you desire. A four-page folder of this contest will be given you upon application at the

Kodak Corner—Main, Near Elevators

Photo Enlargements Sensational Offer

A remarkable offer indeed! To take advantage you must act promptly. Bring to us any small photo (bust style) postal photo or cabinet picture and we will faithfully enlarge it to a handsome Convex Oval Portrait, measuring 14x20 inches. Thousands of homes have but small pictures of their soldier boys.

This should prove to be of great interest to many who have relatives or friends on the firing line. Many of these men went away leaving no resemblance behind but a small snapshot or cabinet photo. How nice it would be to have a large Convex portrait of them hanging on the wall, flag draped! No phone or mail orders. 29c

Good for Limited Time Only

We guarantee the safe return of your original photograph. These reproductions are actually works of art, so faithfully are the original lines followed. Then, too, these portraits are of the very latest style Convex enlargements. Please do not ask us to fill mail orders. This procedure would be most unsatisfactory to you as well as to this house.

Sweaters in Silk or Wool

The sweater you neek for golf and sports wear, in silk or wool; in various styles. All the leading shades, of saxe, rose, white, canary, mauve, black, paddy and reseda. Some have large sailor collars, plain or white trimmed, plain or shield shaped pockets, and sash orbelt; all very smart.

Wool sweaters from $10 to $16.50
Silk sweaters, from $10.95 to $35

NEWS FROM THE PAINT SHOP---EXTRA

White Enamel

An absolutely sanitary finish, especially adapted for kitchens, bath, refrigerator, and furniture of every description. Reg. 25c for 19c

Varnish Stain

in shades of dark oak, light oak, rosewood, mahogany, and walnut. Equally good for floors, furniture, or the finish of a complete room. Regular $1.40 for $1.00

Paint and Brush

taken from regular stock, obtainable in all shades, including white, also in a specially prepared durable floor paint. Very high grade and absolutely guaranteed Reg. $1.40 for $1.00

2 Pkts. Kalsomine and Brush, Reg. 50c.

for all plastered walls, or over other colors. Hot water mixture only, and superior to the ordinary cold water preparations. Procurable in all shades. $1.00

Floor Five

The Hudson's Bay Company.

INCORPORATED 1670 HERBERT K. BURNHAM, STORES COMMISSIONER

Our Cre

WE BELIEVE in love her as honor her in rejoice in the her resources. We ha confidence in the abili prise of her people, an exalted ideas of her the nations of the world

TWO SECTIONS—Sect

1867

ON July 1, 1917, Canada
tion—the completion Dominion. The date
ments and resources such as her also throwing herself in way that sets the final seal fitting time to pass in brief achievements and resources.

National Boundaries.—
inces, embarcing a narrow s
Lawrence, with a limited fro
In 1917, there are nine tory, embracing half a conti
Atlantic and from the Unite
The greatest single facto opening up of the West, wh trol made possible.

Area and Population.—
540,000 square miles, with area measured 3,729,665 sq
7,600,000.

Immigration.—In 1867, fore 1900 it had increased reached 402,000; and in 1914 place of the United States
tion.

Agriculture: the backbo of 1871, under 17,000,000 bu crop of 1916, 220,000,000 bu were sown to wheat; today $,500,000, and the total for a in 1871 yielded 42,500,000 bu ley in 1871 yielded 11,500,0 Hay in 1871 yielded under tons. The total value of C alone has risen from $195,00

Live Stock Increases.—

Total number of horse
" " milch
" " other
" " swine

The total value of live last fifteen years alone, i.e.,
000,000 in 1916.

Butter.—The producti
74,190,584 lb.; in 1910 it wa made butter in 1915 was 79,

Factory-made cheese, c shows an annual productio

The exportable surplu
1868-70 was only $13,000,00

Fisheries.—Total valu
$31,264,631.

Mines.—Value of ann to $137,000,000 within forty

Forestry.—Value of log about $175,000,000.

Manufactures.—There the annual product is valu as wood pulp, automobiles lighting were unknown in millions annually. Other uoted as follows:

Iron and steel .....
Foundry products .....
Meat products .....
Sugar, refined .....
Flour and grist mill produ
Bread, biscuits and confec
Smelting .....
Clothing (factory product)
Car works .....
Tobacco .....
Paper .....
Cottons .....

Transportation—The
ed the earliest means of co had been expended on thei penditures on canals exceed ada in railways building, h by the following statistics

Mileage .....
Capital .....
Freight handled (tons) ...
Passengers carried .....

Three great transconti above. Even the first of t of Canadian corporations—mote future.

Statistics relating to e 1901, when the number of mileage was about three ti of passengers carried in 19 than five times as many in

JULY 1, 1917

arriers

y Sale

SLIP ONS

en's light weight Coats, suit-mer evenings, they were pur-very special rate, for quick s 34 to 46.
for $5.00

her Photograph Competition

Sept. 15th—No Charge for Entry

the contest by simply buying ilm to fit your camera. An is then given you to fill out h us. Simply proceed and napshots you will between ptember 15th, when the con-Competent judges will then ards.

in Merchandise Prizes

:
) in Kodaks or supplies or e to the same value of mer-in any department of this

50 worth of merchandise in tment of the store.
worth of merchandise in
tment of the store.
e prizes of $2.00 each in merchandise from any dein the store.

One Condition Exists—
uy a Roll of Film

r films developed or printed Print your name in INK on f each picture you enter. any as you desire. A four-of this contest will be given plication at the ner—Main, Near Elevators

o Enlargements sational Offer able offer indeed! To take ou must act promptly. Bring nall photo (bust style) postal picture and we will faith-o a handsome Convex Oval ng 14x20 inches. Thousands t small pictures of their sole to be of great interest to many or friends on the firing line.

went away leaving no resemblsmall snapshot or cabinet photo.
e to have a large Convex portrait the wall, flag draped!
rders. 29c

imited Time Only

he safe return of your original reproductions are actually works are the original lines followed.
traits are of the very latest style ts. Please do not ask us to fill procedure would be most unsat-well as to this house.

in Silk or Wool

neck for golf and sports wear, various styles. All the leading se, white, canary, mauve, black, paddy and reseda.
Some have large sailor collars, plain or white trimmed, plain or shield shaped pockets, and sash orbelt; all very smart.

Wool sweaters from $10 to $16.50
Silk sweaters, from $10.95 to $35

POSTAGE PAID

CALGARY
Western Standard
ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY
INDEPENDENT OPTIMISTIC

Our Creed

WE BELIEVE in Canada. We love her as our home, we honor her institutions, we rejoice in the abundance of her resources. We have unbounded confidence in the ability and enterprise of her people, and we cherish exalted ideas of her destiny among the nations of the world.

TWO SECTIONS—Section Two CALGARY, ALBERTA, JULY 1, 1917 SECOND SECTION—Pages 9 to 12

1867--JUBILEE of CONFEDERATION--1917

Today Marks the Most Auspicious Occasion in the History of the Dominion---The Fifthieth Anniversary of the Growth, Progress and Prosperity of Canada

ON July 1, 1917, Canada will celebrate the Jubilee of Confederation—the completion of the first fifty years of the life of the Dominion. The date finds Canada with a record of achievements and resources such as few young countries possess, and it finds her also throwing herself into the world's struggle for liberty in a way that sets the final seal of nationhood upon her brow. It is a fitting time to pass in brief review the more remarkable of these achievements and resources.

National Boundaries.—In 1867, Canada comprised four provinces, embarcing a narrow strip along the Lower Lakes and the St. Lawrence, with a limited frontage on the Atlantic.

In 1917, there are nine provinces and a large unorganized territory, embracing half a continent, stretching from the Pacific to the Atlantic and from the United States to the Pole.

The greatest single factor in the progress of Canada has been the opening up of the West, which the above extension in political control made possible.

Area and Population.—In 1867, Canada embraced an area of 540,000 square miles, with a population of 3,600,000. In 1917 her area measured 3,729,665 square miles, with a population of about 7,600,000.

Immigration.—In 1867, immigration was small and sporadic; before 1900 it had increased to 20,000—45,000 annually; in 1913 it reached 402,000; and in 1914,385,000. Canada has since 1900 taken the place of the United States as the chief magnet for old-world migration.

Agriculture: the backbone of Canadian Industry.—Wheat crop of 1871, under 17,000,000 bushels; crop of 1915, 426,746,000 bushels; crop of 1916, 220,000,000 bushels. In 1871 less than 2,000,000 acres were sown to wheat; today the acreage in Saskatchewan alone is 8,500,000, and the total for all Canada is close upon 15,000,000. Oats in 1871 yielded 42,500,000 bushels; in 1915, 523,684,000 bushels. Barley in 1871 yielded 11,500,000 bushels; in 1915, 60,699,000 bushels. Hay in 1871 yielded under 4,000,000 tons; in 1916 nearly 15,000,000 tons. The total value of Canadian field crops in the last 15 years alone has risen from $195,000,000 in 1901 to $841,000,000 in 1915.

Live Stock Increases.—

	1871	1916
Total number of horses	836,743	2,990,635
" " milch cows	1,252,209	2,603,345
" " other cattle	1,373,081	3,326,519
" " swine	1,366,083	2,814,672

The total value of live stock has increased by three times in the last fifteen years alone, i.e., from $268,000,000 in 1901 to over $800,000,000 in 1916.

Butter.—The production of home-made butter in 1870 was 74,190,584 lb.; in 1910 it was 137,110,200 lb. The quantity of factory-made butter in 1915 was 79,646,393 lbs.

Factory-made cheese, of which there was very little in 1870, now shows an annual production of about 200,000,000 lbs.

The exportable surplus of Canadian agricultural products in 1868-70 was only $13,000,000; in 1916-17 it was $480,000,000.

Fisheries.—Total value of catch in 1870, $6,577,391; in 1915, $31,264,631.

Mines.—Value of annual product has grown from $10,000,000 to $137,000,000 within forty years.

Forestry.—Value of log products in 1871, $34,156,483; at present about $175,000,000.

Manufactures.—There were few manufactures in 1868; today the annual product is valued at over $1,300,000,000. Such products as wood pulp, automobiles, electrical apparatus, coke, and electric lighting were unknown in 1868, but now run into a value of many millions annually. Other evidences of remarkable growth may be uoted as follows:

	1871	1915
Iron and steel	$ 2,852,380	$ 49,848,049
Foundry products	7,325,531	36,702,288
Meat products	3,799,552	78,431,125
Sugar, refined	$ 4,132,750	$ 37,752,235
Flour and grist mill products	39,135,919	112,525,320
Bread, biscuits and confectionery	6,942,469	40,772,216
Smelting	298,000	52,782,156
Clothing (factory product)	11,931,554	55,874,054
Car works	512,000	24,951,922
Tobacco	2,435,343	28,987,250
Paper	1,071,651	29,395,535
Cottons	781,800	20,512,909

Transportation—The magnificent waterways of Canada provided the earliest means of communication. In 1868 about $20,000,000 had been expended on their improvement by canals; to date the expenditures on canals exceed $106,000,000. The achievement of Canada in railways building, however, overshadows her canals as shown by the following statistics of progress:

	1867-76	1915
Mileage	2,278	35,582
Capital	$257,035,188	$1,875,810,888
Freight handled (tons)	5,670,836	101,393,989
Passengers carried ....No.	5,190,416	46,322,035

Three great transcontinental railway systems are included in the above. Even the first of these—the C. P. R., now the most famous of Canadian corporations—was at Confederation the dream of a remote future.

Statistics relating to electric railways have been collected since 1901, when the number of miles in operation was 553; in 1915 the mileage was about three times this number, or 1,590. The number of passengers carried in 1901 was 120,934,656; this figure was more than five times as many in 1914, namely 614,709,819.

The EMBLEM of NATIONAL HONOR and JUSTICE

Government Issues Announcement Regarding The Celebration

On February 7, 1917, a resolution was passed in the senate and house of commons for the appointment of a joint committee to consider and report on the matter of celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of confederation. The following is the report of the committee presented to the house of commons on May 31:

The special committee, appointed to consider and report upon the arrangements which should be made for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the foundation of this Dominion, ask leave to submit their first and final report.

That a topical pamphlet comparing and contrasting Canada of 1867 with Canada of 1917, be published for the purpose of drawing attention to the outstanding features of Canadian growth and development and giving direction to the thoughts which should animate the memorial services.

That the government issue a proclamation inviting churches, Sabbath and day schools, colleges, municipal authorities, Canadian clubs and other associations to co-operate in the working out of fitting commemorative services for the day.

That the provincial authorities be requested to arrange for a special official celebration of the anniversary at the capitals of the several provinces.

That the federal government provide for the issuance of a commemorative post card and postage stamp, with appropriate design and legend representative of the work of the fathers of confederation.

That appropriate memorial services be held at London and Paris on July 1.

That upon the central stone column, upholding the roof of the great entrance hall of the new parliament buildings, the following inscription be incised:

JULY

1867 1917

On the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Confederation of British Colonies in North America as
The Dominion of Canada
The Canadian Parliament and People Dedicated This Building
Then in Process of Construction
After Damage by Fire as a Memorial of
The Deeds of Their Forefathers and of the Valour of Those Canadians Who in the Great War Fought for the Liberties of Canada of the Empire and of Humanity.

That the government arrange a fitting ceremonial service for setting in place and dedicating this inscribed stone at 12 noon, on the 2nd day of July, 1917.

In accordance with the above recommendations a pamphlet was issued and the various governments, religious and educational bodies, clubs and associations of Canada invited to co-operate in the commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of our natal day.

As the day itself falls on Sunday, and it seems to be particularly fitting that the churches and Sabbath schools of all denominations should on that day incorporate into their exercises the recognition of the facts and lessons embodied in our national birth and fifty years of progress. This can be done by sermons from the pulpits of the churches and by appropriate exercises and addresses in the Sabbath schools. A unique opportunity is thus afforded of reaching a vast and interested national congregation with the wonderful story of our birth and advancement along material, intellectual and spiritual lines, and of impressing on the minds of our people at this most critical and eventful period in our history, the grave duties and weighty responsibilities of Canadian citizenship. The light of past experience can be held up to the dim unfolding future, and high hopes for the coming fifty years of our national life can be read out of the splendid progress of the past half century.

To this end a request is made to all clergy and Sabbath school superintendents for their hearty and intelligent co-operation.

Monday, the second day of July, has been fixed by proclamation for the celebration of Dominion day, and for the general celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the foundation of the Dominion of Canada.

It is confidently hoped that the provincial governments and municipalities, educational institutions, clubs and associations will take efficient steps to fittingly commemorate the day and the occasion along the lines suggested in the above report.

The committee desired that the celebration should be as general as possible, without expensive and elaborate display as befits war time, and carried out in the broadest social and democratic lines—a plain, sincere people's demonstration and tribute to the founders of our Dominion and the institutions and ideals of our common country.

The number of post offices has grown from 3,638 in 1868 to 13,057 in 1916. The revenue of the Post Office Department has grown from $808,858 in 1868 to $13,046,650 in 1915.

Canadian telegraph companies now handle 12,000,000 messages annually, compared with an insignificant business in 1867. Over fifty wireless stations have been built for communicating with ships at sea. The telephone, like the wireless, was of course wholly unknown fifty years ago; today there are over half a million telephones in use in Canada, and the wire mileage of the companies approaches a million and a half.

Foreign Trade.—Total trade 1867, $114,107,674; 1917, $1,996,706,671. Details of this follow:

	1868	1917
Imports	$ 68,564,497	$ 845,330,903
Exports	45,543,177	1,151,375,768
Duty collected	8,801,446	147,623,230
Leading Exports—
Wheat	3,648,081	244,394,586
Oats	754,526	47,473,474
Flour	2,284,488	43,778,034
Beef	203,705	5,750,435
Cattle	1,099,940	7,883,842
Cheese	629,043	36,721,136
Canned salmon	45,765	6,288,257
Planks and boards	6,640,689	25,976,526
Mine products	1,276,129	85,616,907

Many manufactured articles in which we had no export trade in 1868 now stand high on the list; examples are, cartridges exported in 1916 to the value of $73,904,584; paper to the value of $20,021,270; clothing, $9,148,878; explosives, $7,080,926; aluminium, $3,682,351.

Finance, Public and Private.—The total assets of the Dominion at Confederation were $17,317,410; today they are well over $321,832,000. Total Dominion revenue on consolidated fund which was in 1868, $13,687,928, was $172,148,000 in 1916.

The chartered banks of Canada have increased their capital from $30,507,447 in 1868 to $113,175,353 in 1916. The total on deposit in chartered banks has grown from $33,653,594 in 1868 to $1,418,035,429 in 1916. The assets of chartered banks have grown from $79,860,976 in 1868 to $1,839,286,709 in 1916.

Post Office savings banks have grown in number from 81 to 1,289 and in annual deposits from $212,507 to $10,154,189 since the Dominion was founded. In 1868 about $1,700,000 were on deposit in all government savings institutions; today the amount is over $54,000,000.

Education.—Compared with the period of Confederation the number of schools in Canada has increased from about 10,000 to over 26,000, the number of teachers from some 11,000 to over 39,000, the number of pupils from 664,000 to 1,327,000, and the expenditure on education from about $2,500,000 to approximately $56,000,000.

Colleges and universities have grown apace, have strengthened and broadened their scope in the older provinces, and in the newer provinces have laid firm foundations for the increasing needs of the future.

Labor Organizations.—In 1867 there were a few isolated trade unions. In 1917 there were in Canada 1,880 local unions, 47 trades and labor councils, and two nation-wide confederations of labor bodies.

Non-material Progress.—The above is a record of material gains. But the life of Canada has broadened equally along other lines. A literature distinctly Canadian has grown up, notwithstanding peculiar difficulties. A vigorous school of Canadian painting exists. But perhaps the most striking spiritual achievement of Canada is the evolution of a Canadian national consciousness as a great self-governing community within the bonds of the British empire, at the same time that a series of relationships unique in history as an example of international amity and good neighborhood have been worked out with the adjacent republic of the United States.

Canada and the War.—The seal upon Canadian nationhood has been set by the war. Canada has raised 411,000 men and sent 311,000 overseas. For many months Canada has spent a million a day on the war, and has added $60,000,000 in private benefactions to war-causes. Canada has greatly stimulated her agriculture to provide foodstuffs for the Allies, and she has revolutionized her industry to supply munitions of war. Canada has manufactured and sent forward $510,000,000 worth of munitions to date.

The $30,000,000 already contributed to the Patriotic fund, the many millions more given to Red Cross and various relief funds, and the continual stream of widely distributed givings of comforts and helps for the soldiers, attest to the depth and sincerity of her sympathy with and loyalty to the great ideals for which the empire is fighting.

Canada and the Future.—The necessity for restoring the devastation caused by the war must throw unlooked for opportunities upon the newer countries of the world, and especially upon Canada.

The agriculture of Canada is still in its initial stages. It is estimated that less than one-fourth of the soil available for agriculture has to date been occupied, i.e., 110,000,000 acres of a possible 440,000,000, and of this only about 50,000,000 acres have been actually improved. Probably 10,000,000 acres are available for immediate improvement. There are 500,000,000 to 600,000,000 acres under forest in Canada, half of which area carries timber of merchantable size. The mineral potentialities of Canada are enormous.

With natural resources such as these to draw upon—resources that must be requisitioned to the full in the rehabilitation of civilization—Canada may look to the future with just confidence, heavy as is the burden of the great struggle and grievous as is the loss of her sons.

If the heritage is so rich, if the resources are so almost immeasurable which the Fathers of Confederation have committed to our trust, if the progress so far made has been so marked and so generally satisfactory, and if the future looming large before us is so rich in splendid possibility, what grave responsibilities rest upon Canadians of today who are to develop and hand on to succeeding generations this priceless patrimony!

May this fiftieth anniversary of our nation's birth lead us to deep and honest thinking as to the great duties of citizenship and the high standards of national life demanded from the happy inheritors of so vast and wonderful an estate.

Feminine Fads and Fancies

Hints on Dress, Fashions and Their Accessories
News and Gossip of the Fashion World

Paris Decides on Autumn Colors

Already Paris is busy planning fall fashions, and the very first thing to be decided is the question of colors, so that manufacturers of materials may set to work. After that, there will be time enough to arrange about styles and silhouettes.

Decidedly rusty is the shade that promises to be most fashionable next fall. It is called rouille which in fact means rust. There are two rust shades, both reddish brown but one very much brighter than the other. All the new grays are metallic graye —nothing so soft as smoke. Silver, nickel, gun-metal and iron gray are represented; there is platinum gray too, and there is pewter; even aluminum gray is not forgotten. Quite appropriately, for autumn time, the new greens are called duck-greens, and the browns are known as pheasant browns. Most of the new blues are called army blue, and the shades number as many as their kinds of blue uniforms in the world. Of course, the choice of Paris is the French uniform blue.

Summer Frocks

The summer wardrobe this year will have its foulard.

Women who have scorned this silk because it was practical—there are women whose brains work in such freakish fashion—will wear it now because it is chic, and as for the legion of women who have counted foulard as their best hot weather friend and have even remained loyal to it when fashion gave it the cut direct they will heartily applaud the old favorite's new process.

There are many occasions upon which a foulard meets the emergency, provided foulard does happen at the moment to have fashion's sanction. It is a general utility silk. One can wear it for morning, for afternoon, for travel. It may be made the soberest of the sober or may take on a discreetly frivolous air; but even when at its most frivolous it must retain a note of unpretentious simplicity.

The fussy and elaborate foulard frock is taboo. If a frock of this silk is to be smart it must achieve the effect through design, coloring, clever handling, slight details; not through elaboration.

Understanding this fact thoroughly, the French designers have done some delectable things with foulard this season and American designers have followed suit.

Some of the very good looking French models show long straight tunics of attractive foulard falling over narrow one-tone skirts and relying on clever details of collar, sleeve, etc., to suplement the effectiveness of line and color. One of these models is a clear, rather light green foulard figured quaintly in small design of white and black falls over a narrow skirt of black satin and has a wide, perfectly loose girdle of the foulard showing a lining of black satin where it rolls over a little on its upper edge.

The loose open sleeve shows a glimpse of black satin facing. There are some black satin buttons for trimming and a charming collar of white organdie finishes the slipover neck opening. Simplicity itself, but incredibly chic for the slender woman who can wear such a green.

Organdie is wedded to foulard not only in the shape of collars and cuffs, but it is a combining material. The French designers use the sheer material in this fashion, even with serge and gabardine, so it is not surprising to find it entering boldly into the scheme of a silk frock, and though it may detract slightly from the model's wearing qualities it does lend a charm that makes up for utilitarian sacrffice.

Pleasure a Girl Pays For

Do you ever wonder how much some girls earn and what they do with it? Do you speculate, too, on how much pleasure they get out of all they make? There are girls who could afford not to work, having homes and some one to support them, who yet enter the field of labor, to earn money to waste on their pleasures, whether it be dress, theater or dinners at restaurants. Such girls pay for their pleasures and no one suffers from it. Other girls, who are obliged to earn their daily bread, quite differently situated, do not feel that they can take a penny of their earnings to satisfy their pleasures. It is so needed by their loved ones at home. Every dear old mother is too eager to have her girl have pleasure and would gladly go without the bare necessities that her girl may enjoy one play she longs to see or take an occasional dinner amid lights, music and cheerful surroundings, even though it does make a considerable hole in the weekly earnings. Such daughters yearn secretly for pleasures. But if warmer clothing is needed for an invalid mother, and more nourishing foods, the girl shuts her eyes upon those luxuries without a murmur of regret. While it is true every dollar of salary she earns belongs to a girl, her sense of duty, promoted by love, is generally stronger than her desire to spend money on herself. All such girls realize that every life must have its pleasures. Joys are not the same in different hearts. It is a sacrifice, yet the greatest pleasure many girls know is to spend their money on their helpless dependents. It is a keen joy to them to be able to do so.

Two girls worked side by side. They earned the same salary. The families of both were poor. They struggled hard to keep their heads above water. One gave all her earnings to the members of her family, except carfare and enough to clothe her plainly, and 75 cents to enjoy Saturday matinees. Her neighbors gossiped about her spending the matinee money. They declared she could go to a lecture which wouldn't cost a cent. The girl disliked lectures. She had enough of them in her daily work. She did like the pleasure of different phases of life the theater showed her. Saturday afternoons were something to look forward to. She was unable to save much, but the brightness lent zest to the work. The other girl spent upon herself every dollar she earned save a small amount for her board. She bought extravagantly and was always in debt to loan sharks who sell the cheap ready-made clothes to the working girl. She was never at home when she could find any place else to go. Her old mother suffered in silence.

A girl's wages are her own, but she feels better if her money buys the right kind of pleasures.

How to Beat the High Cost of Living

MEATLESS RECIPES

Baked Onions

The large Bermuda onions are best forthis purpose. Remove the outer skin and boil onions in salt water and milk until tender. Place in baking pan with butter on top, and a little fresh milk. Bake in the oven until brown.

Oyster Plant Fritters

Scrape oyster plant, boil in salt water until very soft. Drain off water and mash very fine; add one beaten egg, one tablespoonful of butter, one tablespoonful of milk, one tablespoonful of flour, a pinch of salt and pepper. Grease frying pan, drop spoonful of batter, brown on one side, then on the other. Serve hot.

Fried Eggplant

Boil eggplant until tender, putting it on with cold water. Remove meat from shell, mash fine, add pinch of salt and pepper, two tablespoonfuls of flour and two well-beaten eggs. Mix well. uPt a very little fat in the skillet, and when hot drop in batter, a spoonful to every fritter. Fry brown on one side, then on the other. Serve hot.

Macaroni With Tomatoes

Steam macaroni in boiling water until tender. Stew one-half pint tomatoes, strain and season with one teaspoonful sugar, pinch of salt and pepper. When macaroni is done drain water off and mix with heaping tablespoonful of fresh butter, a little salt and pepper. Put a layer of macaroni in baking dish, a layer of tomatoes, a layer of macaroni, and so on. Bake in oven until brown on top and serve in same pan in which it was baked.

CASSEROLE COOKERY

Casserole cookery is as delicious as it is economical. The word "casserole" itself means a stew pan or a utensil in which food is cooked. Earthenware is ideal for this purpose and very slow cooking is possible, which makes even cheap cuts of meat tender and delicious. Vegetables are combined in many dishes with meat, thus extending the meat flavor and making a satisfying and nourishing dish at reasonable cost.

As the casserole is put directly upon the table in perhaps a decorative frame of nickle or silver, it saves dish washing and enables the food to be served hot and at its best.

Even an inexpensive, brown earthenware dish, covered with a plate, however, will give practically the same results. Less fuel is required when cooking en casserole, because earthenware is a non-conductor of heat and after the contents of the dish is heated through, the cooking process can be continued without a very hot oven. Casserole foods can be kept hot easily for late comers.

Patriotic Casserole Stew

Two pounds of neck mutton, two onions, five potatoes, one teaspoonful chopped parsley, salt, pepper.

Trim the meat into neat, finger-shaped pieces. Lay in the greased casserole. Cover with the sliced onions and enough water to cover. Simmer two hours. Season with the salt and pepper and add the potatoes thinly sliced. If necessary, add a little more water, but not enough to cover the potatoes as the steam will cook them. Simmer an hour. Take off the cover and sprinkle with the parsley just before serving.

Spanish Steak

Two pounds of round steak, one carrot, one cupful diced turnip, one onion, one tomato, three sliced potatoes, one bay leaf, salt, pepper, a little flour, three tablespoonfuls drippings, one cup of hot water.

Have the steak cut an inch and three-quarters or two inches thick. Take the edge of a rather thick saucer and pound into both sides of the steak all the flour it will hold, or use a steak pounder. Melt the drippings in the casserole and brown the steak in the hot fat on both sides. Cover with the onion sliced, the carrot cut in strips, the turnip and the tomato. Break the bay leaf up and scatter it about. Turn in the hot water, cover and simmer two hours. Uncover add the sliced potatoes, salt and pepper, and a quarter of a cup of hot water. Simmer another hour. Serve hot.

PRUDENCE OF THE PARSONAGE

THE FAMOUS STORY OF A HAPPY FAMILY

By Ethel Hueston

COPYRIGHT 1915 BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

SYNOPSIS

Mr. Starr, minister, arrives in Mount Mark to take charge of the Methodist diocese, he is a widower with five children, all girls, namely, Prudence, the eldest, who mothers the rest of the family, who include, Fary, Connie and Carol and Lark, who are twins. The girls all go school and are particularly clever.

The twins, though very lovable and obedient children, are very mischievous, and often embarrass Prudence and Fairy.

Every one in the parish admires Prudence for her sweet and womanly disposition. Profesor Rayburn, of the college, a suitor for her hand, but Prudence refuses him, considering her home and bringing up of the family, her particular duty.

Owing to Mount Mark being a small parish and the congregation rather slack about money matters, the parsonage family have quite a hard time to make ends meet. Fairy and Prudence make over old coat of their fathers for Connie, who always comes in for the left-overs, being the smallest, this being a particular disappointment, as she was promised a new coat. Connie calls on Mr. Harold, the president of the bank, and asks for loan of $5.00, explaining the situation him and promising to pay it back in two years, a nickle at a time. Mr. Harold tells her he is proud to have her trade. Connie surprises the family at dinner-time by producing the $5.00.

One night while Mr. Starr was away from home the twins hear a noise and awake the other girls. Through the braveness of Prudence the thief was caught. Prudence wins the $500.00 which had been offered as a reward for the catching of this noted burglar. Prudences decides to go for a bicycle ride and runs into a mule. She is hurt and is seen safely home by a stranger, Jerrold Harmer. He later calls and asks for Prudence's hand, to which Mr. Starr consents.

Fairy went soberly down cellar, and brought up the golden sirup. Then, ostensibly to call her sisters, she hurried up the stairs.

"Girls," she began, carefully closing the door of their room behind her. "Jerry has gone, and isn't coming back any more. And for goodness' sake, don't keep asking questions about it. Just eat your breakfast as usual and have a little tact."

"Gone!"

"Yes."

"A lovers' quarrel," suggested Lark, and her eyes glittered greedily.

"Nothing of the sort. And don't keep staring at Prue, either. And do not keep talking about Jerry all the time. You mind me, or I will tell papa."

"That's funny," said Carol thoughtfully. "We left them kissing eat other like mad in the back yard last night, —and this morning he has gone to return no more. They are crazy."

"Kissing! In the back yard! What are you talking about?"

Carol explained, and Fairy looked still more thoughtful and perturbed.

She opened the door, and called out to them in a loud and breezy voice, "Hurry, girls, for breakfast is ready, and there's no time to waste in a parsonage on a Sunday morning." Then she added in a whisper, "And don't you mention Jerry, and don't ask Prudence what makes her so pale, or you'll catch it!"

Then she went to her father's door. "Breakfast is ready, papa," she called clearly. She turned the knob softly, and peeped in. "May I come in a minute?" Standing close beside him, she told him all she knew of what had happened.

"Prudence is ghastly father, just ghastly. And she can't talk about it yet, so be careful what you say, will you?"

And it was due to Fairy's kindly admonitions that the parsonage family took the departure of eJrry so calmly.

"Fairy says Jerry took the morning train," said Mr. Starr, as they were passing the cream and sugar for the oatmeal. "That is too bad! But it is just the worst of being a business man,—one never knows when one must be up and away. And of course, one can not neglect business interests. —The oatmeal is unusually good this morning, Prudence." This was nothing short of heroic on his part, for her eyes upon her father's face were so wide and dark that the lump in his throat would not stay down.

That was the beginning of Prudence's bitter winter, when the brightest sunshine was cheerless and dreary, and when even the laughter of her sisters smote harshly upon her ears. She tried to be as always, but in her eyes the wounded look lingered, and her fave grew so pale and thin that her father and Fairy, anxiously watching, were filled grave concern. She remained almost constantly in the parsonage, reading very little, sitting most of her leisure time staring out the windows.

Fairy had tried to win her confidence, and had failed.

"You are a darling, Fairy, but I really do not want to talk about it.— Oh, no, indeed, it is all my own fault. I told him to go, and not come again.— No, you are wrong, Fairy, I do not regret it. I do not want him to come any more."

And Fairy worried. What in the world had happened to separate in the morning these two who had been kissing so frankly in the back yard the evening before?

Mr. Starr, too, had tried. "Prudence," he said gently, "you know very often men do things that to women seem wrong and wicked. And maybe they are! But men and women are different by nature, my dear, and we must remember that. I have satisfied myself that Jerry is good, and clean, and manly. I do not think you should let any foolishness of his past, come between you now."

"You are mistaken, father. Jerry is all right, and always was, I am sure. It is nothing like that. I told him to go, and not to some again. That is all."

"But if he should come back now—"

"It would be just the same. Don't worry about it, father. It's all right."

"Prudence," he said, more tenderly, "we have been the closest of friends and companions, you and I, from the very beginning. Always you have come to me with your troubles and worries. Have I ever failed you? Why then, do you go back on me now, when you really need me?"

Prudence patted his shoulder affectionately, but her eyes did not meet his. "I do not really need you now, father. It is all settled, and I am quite satisfied. Things are all right with me just as they are."

Then he took a serious step, without her knowledge. He went to Des Moines, and had a visit with Jerry. He found him thinner, his face sterner, his eyes darker. When the office boy announced "Mr. Starr," Jerry ran quickly out to greet him.

"Is she all right?" he cried eagerly, almost before he was within hailing distance.

Mr. Starr did not mince matters. "Jerry," he said abruptly, "did you and Prudence have a quarrel? She declines to tell me anything about it, and after the conversations you and I have had, I think I have a right to know what has happened."

"Does she miss me? Does she seem sory that I am away? Does——" His voice was so boyish and so eager there was no mistaking his attitude toward Prudence.

"Look here Jerry, I want to know. Why are you staying away?"

"Won't Prudence tell you?"

"No."

"Then I can not. She made me promise not to tell you a word. But it not my fault, Mr. Starr. I can tell you that. It is nothing I have done or said. She sent we away because she thinks it was right for her to do so, and—you know Prudence! It is wrong, I know. I knew it all the time. But I couldn't make her see it. And she made me promise not to tell."

In the end Mr. Starr went back to the parsonage no wiser than he left, save that he now knew that Jerry was really not to blame, and that he held himself ready to return to her on a moment's notice.

The Ladies of the Methodist church were puzzled and exasperated. They went to the parsonage, determined to "find out what's what." But when they sat with Prudence, and looked at the frail, pathetic little figure, with the mournful eyes,—they could only sigh with her and go their ways.

The twins continued to play in the great maple, even when the leaves were fallen. "It's a dandy place, I tell you, Prudence," cried Carol. "Jerry didn't have time to put up the rope before Connie pulled him down, but we've fixed it ourselves, and it is simply grand. You can go up and swing any time you like,—unless your joints are too stiff! It's a very serious matter getting up there,—for stiff joints, of course, I mean. Lark and I get up easy enough."

For a moment, Prudence sat silent with quivering lips. Then she burst out with unusual passion, "Don't you ever dare climb up in that tree again as long as you live, twins! Mind what I say!"

Lark loked thoughtfully out of the window, and Carol swallowed hard. It was she who said gently, "Why, of course, Prue,—just as you say."

For the first time, Prudence had dealt with them harshly and unfairly. They knew it. There was neither sense nor justice in her command. But they did not argue the point. They knew it. There was neither did not arfgue the point. They kept their eyes considerately away from her, and buried themselves in Julius Caesar,— it must be remembered the twins are sophomores now. Five minutes later Prudence spoke again, humbly.

"I beg your pardon, twins,—that was a perfectly idotic thing for me to say. Of course, you may play in the maple whenever you like. But be careful. You couldn't save yourselves in falling as—as men can."

"We won't play there if you want us not to," said Carol kindly.

"I do want you to play there," she answered. "It's a very nice place, and great fun, I know. I might try it myself if—my joints weren't so stiff! Now, go on with your Latin."

But Prudence did not pass under the maple for many weeks without clenching her hands and shuddering.

The twins were not satisfied. They marveled, and wondered, and pondered over the subject of Jerry's disappearance. Finally they felt it was more than human flesh could stand. They would approach Prudence on the subject themselves. But they gided their time. They must wait until Fairy was safely out of the house. Fairy these days had an infuriating way of saying, "That will do, twins. You'd better go and play now." It enraged and distracted the twins almost to the point of committing crime.

They had made several artistic moves already. Professor Duke, of their freshman biology class, had written Carol a gay long letter. And Carol was enthusiastic about it. She and Lark talked of "dear old Duck" for two weeks, almost without pausing for sleep.

"I'm sure you would fall in love with him on the spot," Carol had said to Prudence suggestively.

Prudence had only smiled, evidently in sarcasm!

To be continued)

Few Calgarians realize that they came pretty close to having a woman occupy the seat now taken by W. M. Davidson, in the next legislature of Alberta. Mrs. Thompson was to have been nominated, in fact it was practically settled but at the last minute it was suggested that for the good of the party it would be best to nominate Mr. Davidson and so Mrs. Chas. Thompson lost her opportunity of representing the people of Alberta at the coming session. However, this will probably not be Mrs. Thompson's last opportunity because she is a worker and a maker of opportunities. Head of the Press club, she is actively in charge of the work of this organization in the city. As an executive or as an all around newspaper worker she has few equals and no peers.

Mrs. Thompson, who was formerly connected with The Standard as Miss Alice Elliott, married Captain Chas. Thompson about two years ago. He is also a well known Calgarian.

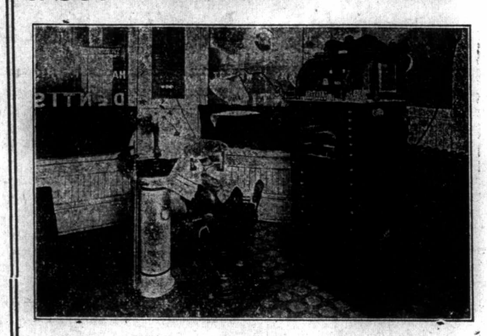
DRINK
Banff Mineral Water

"A TRUST COMPANY" is the trusted and confidential agent in all forms of business and relations of life, where the individual cannot or does not wish to act for himself.

The Northern Trusts Company

Offers its services in the management of properties for absent owners, acts as Trustee, Executor, Administrater, Guardian and Assignee.

Money invested for Clients on "Guaranteed Trust Investment Plan" insures absolute safety at a satisfactory rate of interest.



Money to loan at current rates on improved security.

Head Office Winnipeg, Man. Capital Paid Up $1,500,000

Alberta Branch Office: Canada Life Building, Calgary

J. S. McMURCHY,
Branch Manager

Would You Like a Set of Beautiful TEETH? Then write or call at Dr. Harry P. Wright's Dental Offices without delay

CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK
OUR GREAT SPECIALTY

ARE you contemplating Crown and Bridge Work? If so, do not make the mistake so many others have made, namely, having the work done by other than a specialist in this branch of dentistry. In order to be successful in Crown and Bridge Work, an intimate knowledge of this work, combined with mechanical skill and years of experience is required.

¶ The lack of these qualifications explains the failure to attain strength, durability, its natural appearance, and sanitation, all of which are so very important.

¶ By visiting our offices you will readily appreciate the fact that we are thoroughly equipped with the most modern appliances for the proper execution of this work, and a test of skill will convince you, as it has hundreds of others, who have been wearing our crowns and bridges for years with perfect satisfaction, that all the assertions we have made are entirely justifiable.

WRITE FOR OUR FREE BOOK

¶ If you cannot call conveniently for a few days, send a postcard, and a useful and interesting book, "The Care of The Teeth," will be sent by return mail. It tells you a great many things about your teeth, and shows how many thousands suffer from bad health through no other cause than defective teeth ¶ Expert advice is always at the service of callers free of charge.

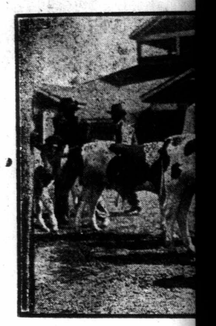
NOTE.
Patients from the country, not acquainted in the city, will find every member of our staff cheerfully at their service should they require advice or information. Being in the center of the business district our offices make a convenient place to rest, transact business, write letters, etc. Make our offices your headquarters while in town. Every courtesy will be extended, and every effort made to be of service to you. Your dental work will be accomplished with a promptness and dispatch that will surprise and delight you.

Study our location carefully—look for this sign:

DR. HARRY P. WRIGHT, DENTIST
(In White Letters on Eleven Windows), ALBERTA BLOCK

To avoid mistakes cut this address out. Bring it with you.
Corner Eighth Avenue and First Street West,
CALGARY, ALBERTA



SIG

View of the Champion Shorthor

Ayrshire cat

Alberta b

P. Burns' six-ho

Exhibit

rance. Finally they felt it was re than human flesh could stand.
ey would approach Prudence on the ject themselves. But they glided ir time. They must wait until ry was safely out of the house.
ry these days had an infuriating
y of saying, "That will do, twins.
u'd better go and play now." It ened and distracted the twins almost the point of committing crime.
They had made several artistic ves already. Professor Duke, of ir freshman biology class, had writ-Carol a gay long letter. And Carol s enthusiastic about it. She and rk talked of "dear old Duck" for o weeks, almost without pausing for ep.
"I'm sure you would fall in love with n on the spot," Carol had said to udence suggestively.
Prudence had only smiled, evidently sarcasm!

To be continued)

NK
ral Water

he trusted and confidential and relations of life, where not wish to act for himself.

rusts Company

nagement of properties for e, Executor, Administrator, nts on "Guaranteed Trust solute safety at a satisfac-

ates on improved security.

Capital Paid Up $1,500,000
ada Life Building, Calgary

URCHY,
Branch Manager

r call at Dr. Harry ental Offices without delay

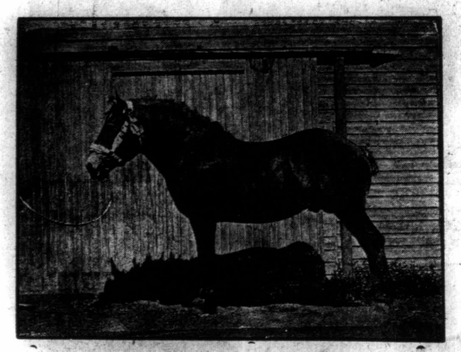
NOTE.
Patients from the country, not acquainted in the city, will find every member of our staff cheerfully at their service should they require advice or information. Being in the center of the business district our offices make a convenient place to rest, transact business, write letters, etc. Make our offices your headquarters while in town. Every courtesy will be extended, and every effort made to be of service to you. Your dental work will be accomplished with a promptness and dispatch that will surprise and delight you.

mistakes cut this address out.
ring it with you.
Avenue and First Street West,
LGARY, ALBERTA

SIGHTS AND SCENES AT THE EXHIBITION



View of the Race Track and Grand Stand

Champion Shorthorn Herd, exhibited by Yule and Bowes

Ayrshire cattle exhibited by Lakeview Stock Farm

Alberta bred and a Blue Ribbon winner

P. Burns' six-horse team that has taken many prizes

Exhibit of Alex Martin Sporting Goods

Illustrated Views of Interesting Things and Important Events at Calgary's Great Summer Show.

LIVE STOCK EXHIBITS

The live stock exhibits at the Exhibition will present an exceptional opportunity to see the best herds of the several breeds, including a bull which cost $17,000, another which cost $11,900 and several other animals costing from $1,000 to $5,000 each.

SPECIAL DAYS

Thursday, June 28—Getting Ready Day.
Friday, June 29—Boys' and Girls' Day.
Saturday, June 30—United Farmers' Day.
Monday, July 2—Dominion Jubilee Day.
Tuesday, July 3—Soldiers' Day.
Wednesday, July 4—International Day.
Thursday, July 5—Automobile Day.

SPECIAL EVENT

Miss Katherine Stinson, the girl aviator, will fly each day, weather permitting, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and 9 o'clock in the evening.

Daily Program of Events at the Exhibiton

RACING PROGRAM

Friday, June 29

Race No.
1—2:25 pace or 2:20 trot.....Purse $600.00
2—2:25 trot .....Purse 500.00
3—Selling purse, five furlongs, for three-year-olds and upwards ....Purse 200.00
4—Four furlongs, for two-year-olds foaled in Canada, west of the Great Lakes .....Purse 200.00

Saturday, June 30

10—2:12 pace or 2:07 trot.....Purse $600.00
11—2:14 trot .....Purse 500.00
12—Selling purse, five furlongs, for three-year-olds and upwards.....Purse 200.00
13—Six furlongs, for three-year-olds and upwards .....Purse 200.00
14—President's Handicap, 7/8-mile, $300 added, for all ages .....Purse 300.00
15—Alberta Derby, handicap, one mile, any age, bred in Alberta....Purse 300.00
16—Galloway race, one mile .....Purse 200.00

Evening

17—Cowboy race, 75 yards each way from starting point; face east, swing to left, at first post turn to right, second to left, third to right and finish at starting point..Purse 150.00

Monday, July 2

20—2:20 pace or 2:15 trot.....Purse $700.00
21—2:15 pace or 2:10 trot.....Purse 700.00
22—Three-year-old or under, trot or pace, bred in Canada, best two in three .....Purse 300.00
23—Five furlongs, for three-year-olds and upwards, 10 lbs. below scale .....Purse 200.00
24—Selling purse, six furlongs, for three-year-olds and upwards.....Purse 200.00
25—Half mile pony race, 14.2 or under .....Purse 150.00
26—6½ furlongs, for three-year-olds and upwards .....Purse 200.00
27—Calgary Handicap, one mile, $300 added, for three-year-olds and upwards .....Purse 300.00

Tuesday, July 3

30—Free-for-all, pace or trot.....Purse $600.00
31—2:17 trot .....Purse 500.00
32—Selling purse, five furlongs, for three-year-olds and upwards.....Purse 200.00
33—Chinook Derby, handicap, one mile, any age, bred in Alberta...Purse 200.00
34—Five furlongs, for three-year-olds and upwards .....Purse 200.00
35—Consolation race, 4½ furlongs.Purse 200.00
36—Consolation race, five furlongs, all ages .....Purse 200.00

SONS OF THE EMPIRE

In August, 1914, events took place so rapidly that Germany had invaded Belgium and war was declared before England had time to mobilize her army, but the navy was ready and every man prepared to do his duty as in Nelson's time.

The soul of the nation as one declared that Belgium's neutrality must be protected, no matter at what cost, so in presenting the spectacle, "Sons of the Empire," our aim is to show how the lion's cubs have responded to the call.

In the opening scene of this spectacle will be shown a large Indian tepee, in front of which will be the camp fire surrounded by Indian families. Next will be seen a large detachment of Royal North West Mounted Police, who have performed such a remarkable service to the empire in the province while our soldiers have been at the front.

In the background Britannia is seen coming up from the sea backed by her warships and calling upon the sons of old England, whose parents have settled in all parts of the world, to come to the assistance of the motherland.

How nobly they have fought in France and Belgium you all know, and what they have done to uphold the traditions of the British empire will go down in the nation's honor roll from generation to generation.

Program

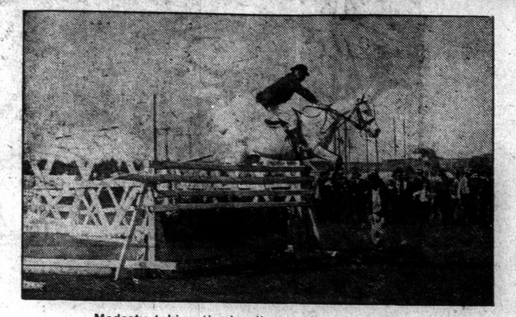
Opening scene—Indians surrounding camp fires in front of the tepees.
1—Entry of state trumpeters; R. N. W. M. P.; the assembly.
2—Entry of generals and admirals.
3—Entry of detachments from India, Canada, South Africa, Ireland, Scotland, West Indies, Hong Kong, Straits Settlements, Australia, Egypt.
4—Trooping the colors.
5—Entry of sailors, who also represent England, carrying the largest Union Jack ever shown in Western Canada.
6—Unfurl the flag.
7—Rule Britannia.
8—Three cheers for the King.
9—March past of all detachments.
God Save the King.

DEMONSTRATION TRAIN

Through the courtesy of the Alberta Department of Agriculture and the Canadian Pacific railway, the demonstration train which has been touring the province, will be at the exhibition for two days—Saturday, June 30, and Monday, July 2. It is located at the east end of the fair grounds.

GOVERNMENT EXHIBITS

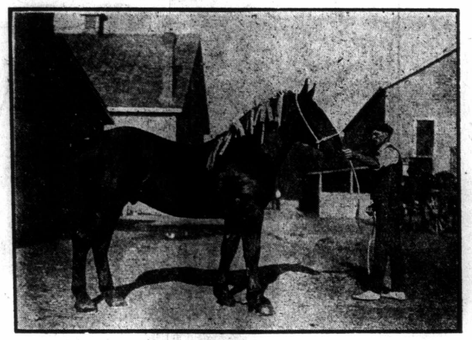
In addition to the splendid industrial exhibits to be seen at the exhibition, we especially call attention to the instructive exhibits made by the Dominion livestock branch, representing the poultry and sheep divisions, and the exhibits made by the Dominion experimental farms.



E. L. RICHARDSON

Standard booth of last summer's show

E. J. DEWEY



Modesty taking the hurdles at the last show

Mr. Fred Lowes' tandem team—Lord and Lady Tuck

A prize winner with colt at the last show

Horses will be a strong feature of the exhibit

Prize bulldogs a big part of the summer show

One of the Industrial Exhibits

Tige Dolls Up—for a Minute

Copyright, 1916, by Newspaper Feature Service, Great Britain Rights Reserved.

DOING

This section conta
SPORTS
THEATER
SOCIETY
FARMING
LIVESTOCK MARKET
FINANCE

Vol. VII. No. 18

COMMENT

A DELUGE OF NEW TITLES IN PROSPECT

One thing this war w titles and chivalrous orde country has of expressing are going to be as numer latest thing in the chivalr to be called "Dame," and services at home or abroa style "Order of the Britis to men and women alike.
men and "Dame" for wom stricted and exclusive is e and both sexes are equa
Still we can look for man
States who will set heaver

RACE HORSE BETTIN TO STOP AUGUST FI

The Dominion gover betting on horse racing a with all gambling, and th tracks. It will not inter man's point of view althe fought the bill in the past racing stock. It is conce race horse touts, thieves, are most undesirable citi race tracks will undoubte cess because of the gambl closed. The raising of bl be a great success and i earthly reason why the b and the gentlemen's spor that the gambling elemer

QUEBEC AND CONSCRIPTION

A disgrace to the Bri
Canada refer to Quebec's den has and is taking a s sure to be passed sooner to the Conservatives whe ment. Does that worthy men are needed at the fro ation when Quebec only must and shall be adopte the stand that they will would take less than a w country, if the British fle ish fleet will not contro truth, that nation is not men, guns and supplies.
named. An Alberta sla slacker, but Alberta has recruiting, and the numb distinguished themselves raise her army to 500,0 the slackers are dragge his duty should be comp Victory must not be de bill will obtain the hea hasten the fate of Prussi

THE HABIT OF SAVING

A skilled and high forced to sell a valuable had no capital of his ow little money I could ha is sadly in error. The paid position, without h
he has not the tempera financial backbone to m
The stores, the streets, tion to a young man to pose within him—is no
his income, be it large sary expenditures, and handed. It is the order ure, not the mere fact possession of small sav stone to great success.
But every one can, if h of thrift is saving. Th enrolls in the school th his earnings each week in moments of opportu
to build a fortune, is th
The habit of putting m itself is a valuable acce
acter developed throug

DOING WHAT ONE CAN THE BEST WE CAN IS ALWAYS THE RIGHT WAY

This section contains:
SPORTS
THEATER
SOCIETY
FARMING
LIVESTOCK
MARKET REPORTS
FINANCE

CALGARY
Western Standard
ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY
INDEPENDENT OPTIMISTIC

MY CANADA

I LOVE my country. There is nothing that she can ask I will not do. I am ready to live or die for her. She is the realization of a dream and the fulfillment of an ideal—this Canada of ours. She is the embodiment of what a country should be—and right or wrong, it is my home, my country—the one I love.

Vol. VII. No. 18 TWO SECTIONS—12 Pages CALGARY, ALBERTA, JULY 8, 1917 TWO SECTIONS—12 Pages Five Cents the Copy

COMMENT AND CRITICISM

A DELUGE OF NEW TITLES IN PROSPECTS

One thing this war will bring out will be a super-abundance of titles and chivalrous orders. Perhaps it is the only means the country has of expressing its appreciation, but certainly the orders are going to be as numerous as flies around a molasses can. The latest thing in the chivalry line is an order for women. They are to be called "Dame," and the orders will be given for meritorious services at home or abroad. The first is an order of Knighthood style "Order of the British Empire," and will be awarded equally to men and women alike. One carries the title of Knighthood for men and "Dame" for women. The second order which is more restricted and exclusive is entitled "Order of Companions and Honor" and both sexes are equally eligible. This order carries no title. Still we can look for many applicants both here and in the United States who will set heaven and earth aside for the coveted titles.

* * *

RACE HORSE BETTING TO STOP AUGUST FIRST

The Dominion government has passed a bill prohibiting the betting on horse racing after August 1st. This law will do away with all gambling, and the unpleasant element that follow the race tracks. It will not interfere much with the game from a sportsman's point of view although the hew and cry of those who have fought the bill in the past was that it would kill the breeding of fine racing stock. It is conceded that it will put out of business many race horse touts, thieves, gamblers and book makers, but as these are most undesirable citizens it can do little harm. Some of the race tracks will undoubtedly be closed, but if they were only a success because of the gambling element then it is better that they be closed. The raising of blooded live stock of all kinds continue to be a great success and investment in the country so there is no earthly reason why the breeding of race horses will not continue and the gentlemen's sport indulged in irrespective of the fact that that the gambling element is eliminated.

* * *

QUEBEC AND CONSCRIPTION

A disgrace to the British empire is the way the loyal citizens of Canada refer to Quebec's disgraceful stand on conscription. Borden has and is taking a splendid stand about the bill, which will be sure to be passed sooner or later. How many Liberals went over to the Conservatives when Laurier took a stand opposing the movement. Does that worthy realize that men, more men, and still more men are needed at the front? Why should all Canada suffer humiliation when Quebec only is the root of the trouble. Conscription must and shall be adopted in spite of French Canada. They take the stand that they will fight only when Canada is invaded. It would take less than a week for any foreign power to subdue our country, if the British fleet did not control the waves; and the British fleet will not control the waves if Germany wins—know the truth, that nation is not defeated yet. To win the struggle we need men, guns and supplies. We have the greatest need of the first named. An Alberta slacker is just as contemptible as the Quebec slacker, but Alberta has very slackers. Alberta has the record for recruiting, and the number that have gone from this proivnce have distinguished themselves to the very highest degree. Canada must raise her army to 500,000. This she will easily accomplish when the slackers are dragged into the ranks. A man who will not do his duty should be compelled to do his duty. Is this not the truth? Victory must not be delayed. A life in time may save nine. The bill will obtain the hearty co-operation of loyal Canada, and will hasten the fate of Prussian autocracy.

* * * *

THE HABIT OF SAVING

A skilled and high-salaried machinist, who, at 50 had been forced to sell a valuable invention for a small amount, because he had no capital of his own to float it, remarked: "If I only had had a little money I could have made a fortune out of that device." He is sadly in error. The fact that he reached the age of 50 in high-paid position, without having savd any money, is proof positive that he has not the temperament and habits that insure success in financial backbone to make a success in any big financial venture The stores, the streets, the places of amusement all furnish temptation to a young man to part with his money. If his ideal—the purpose within him—is not stronger than these outside inducements, his income, be it large or small, will be frittered away in unnecessary expenditures, and opportunity will always find him empty handed. It is the order of mind a course indicates which spells failure, not the mere fact of being without ready money, though the possession of small savings has in itself often been the stepping stone to great success. Not every one can be rich, or wants to be. But every one can, if he will, be thrifty, which is better. The soul of thrift is saving. The first lesson one is given to learn when he enrolls in the school that qualifies for success is to put by a part of his earnings each week. The truest friend in times of adversity or in moments of opportunity, and the surest foundation upon which to build a fortune, is the accumulated savings of months and years. The habit of putting money away is reflex in its action. The money itself is a valuable accessory, but it is the quality of mind and character developed through this habit that makes for ultimate success.

RUSSIA'S CABINET

Members of the recent Russian Cabinet before the resignations and reorganizations. At the left is Prince Lvoff, a brother of the Premier. Seated at the right is M. Rodzianko, the President of the Duma, and back of him is M. Kerenski, the young minister of war. Standing directly in front of the mirror is Col. Englehart, the organizer of the revolution.

REVIEW OF THE WAR HERE AND EVERYWHERE

July 1.—Canadians celebrate Dominion Day in the trenches and take 700 yards near Lens. for the first time since the Revolution Russian troops took the offensive. German positions are stormed on a front of 18½ miles in the region of Brzezany, Galicia. Konuichy is captured and 8,400 Austrians and 164 officers captured. Kerinsky leads the attack in person. The British make a successful raid east of Agicourt.

Greece must enter the war, says Venizelos.

July 2.—The great Russian victory continues, and 16,000 Austians have been captured. The Russians are advancing towards Flochooff, reports Petrograd. The objective of the Slav army is Lemberg, the fall of which would be disastrous to the central powers. The Germans admit the Russian successes.

A plot to destroy shipping on the Great Lakes is exposed.

The Austrians are massing a division to each mile preparatory to a drive on Italy.

The food situation in Vienna is described as very grave. China once more becomes a kingdom with the boy Hsuan Tung as emperor.

Four Swedish vessels are sunk ruthlessly by German U-boats.

July 3.—The great Russian offensive develops and 20,000 prisoners have been captured. The Huns are evacuating strongly fortified Brzezany, and north of this place the Russians have captured the villages of Presovce, Zboroff and Korshiduv. There are signs that Russia will also take the offensive in Volhynia.

Prisoners taken in British operations around Lens admit that there is small chance for Germany to win.

U. S. troops in France will undergo training immediately.

July 4.—12 to 14 German aeroplanes raid an Essex port and the casualties are eight killed and 22 injured. On the the Aisne front the French rout the huns with great loss to the latter.

British aeroplanes raid Bruges (Flanders) and drop several tons of explosives.

The American destroyers convoying U. S. troops beat off submarine attacks, sinking one or possibly two of the U-boats.

In today's air raid on Harwich three machines are driven down by British anti-aircraft guns.

July 5.—Russians are maintaining their hard drive and prisoners continue to pour in.

The German offensive against the French lines around Cerny and Ailles is beaten down. The French capture a strong salient in this locality. Italians checked Austrian attacks on the Carso, south of Gorizia.

A British destroyer of an old type has been lost.

July 6.—After 14 days of debate conscription passes in the Canadian parliament by 111 to 62.

The British drive Huns back on a front of 600 yards along the Ypres canal, southwest of Hollebeke.

The Russians check attempts of the Austro-Germans to regain lost territory.

It is reported that there is a probability of Mexico jjoining the allies.

PREPARING FOR CHARGE ACROSS "NO MAN'S LAND"

The French soldiers seen in the accompanying photograph are preparing to clamber out of their trenches and charge across the open field. In the distance is seen a barbed-wire entanglement erected by the Germans, and behind that the "curtain of fire" provided by the French artillery.

COMMENT AND CRITICISM

ABOUT THE RETURNED SOLDIER

Take your hat off to him men, the one with the empty sleeve. He's done his duty to his God, his country and himself; he went to give his life but they only took his arm. He's been created a physical wreck to save you and me from Prussian despotism. He has seen the carnage and horror of war, ruthless destruction and terrible slaughter. He knows the truth about the crucified Canadians, poison gas, liquid fire, saw-tooth bayonets, dum-dum bullets and the other instruments of war that Germany has employed in defiance of the Hague convention. A man of his caliber is the most splendid type of manhood on God's earth. He showed his unselfishness at the very outset of the war, when on learning of Belgium's plight he placed himself at the disposal of his king and empire. The very ground he walks on is sacred, as are the graves of his fallen comrades in France and Flanders—yet this man is hardly allowed to walk Quebec's streets without having insults hurled at him by the populace.

* * *

MORE ABOUT TAG DAYS

"These tag days are a nuisance," was the opinion of some worthless mortals on Wednesday last. An utterance of this kind not only shows the meanness of a man, but it shows how despicable is his character. It is a very small thing for a man to take a quarter from his pocket and donate it to a worthy cause. How can any one who is enjoying the comforts of home refuse to help the wounded soldiers at the front. Men who have been physically wrecked for you and for me. Why was it that the returned veterans gave so freely? It is this. They know the hell which their comrades are passing through; they know the agonies they are enduring. The insults which were thrown at some of the workers were disgraceful. They unselfishly work through the day many of them have husbands or sons at the front and some both. By unselfish work they obtained $2,000 on Saturday, June 30, $5,000, on July 2nd, and a very splendid sum on July 4th. Is this not splendid? For in spite of the fact that tag days are unpopular to the selfish mortals, yet the general opinion is that tag days are among the best ways of raising funds until the conscription of wealth is successfully accomplished.

* * *

SPECIALISTS NEEDED IN THE OIL INDUSTRY

The success that the Dingman and other oil companies are having in Alberta is only another evidence that it takes experience to make a success of any business. The history of the successful mines of the country shows that while many great discoveries have been made by novices that the real profits have only been made after experienced and practical men have taken hold of the propositions. The history of mining in general is mighty apt to be repeated here. To bring in oil wells calls for experts instead of muscular nonentities. To drill a well properly requires brains and expert workmen. The driller who can sit complacently alongside of the drill and smoke his pipe and wait for the machinery to bring in the oil is a fallacy. Many oil operators thought this when they started their wells in Alberta. It is because of these erroneous beliefs that their are so many derelict companies on Alberta's grave yard. The fact that the experienced oil men are slowly but surely making oil history for Alberta and incidently wealth for themselves demonstrates that this is an age of specialists—and they are needed in oil as well as in other lines of industry if they expect to attain success.

* * *

HANGING TOO GOOD FOR THE QUEBECIANS

Even though the reports that emanate from Quebec regarding the unpatriotic attitude of the people of that province reach us from time to time few of the westerners understand fully, or realize the dastardly conduct that many of the citizens of that province resort to, to show their hatred of the country. If the average Canadian was fully aware of the deeds that many of these people are guilty of, or of the unpatriotic attitude assumed by the people generally it would make his blood boil with righteous indignation. A report made by an officer who recently returned from the front of the inhuman treatment that was accorded him and many other veterans in the towns of Quebec were so startingly inhuman and unpatriotic that is surprising that the government permits the province to exist at all. If the reports are true, and they can hardly be discredited under the circumstances, then Quebec with the present population should be wiped from the face of the map. To permit this class of scallywags to exist and bear the fair name of Canadians is an insult of the worst kind. In their refusal to co-operate with the government or to give any assistance to the army the people of Quebec have shown quite clearly what their views are regarding this war and the sooner the politicians at Ottawa awaken to the fact that Quebec is only a small part of Canada and the people of that province can very easily be dispensed with without detriment to the Dominion the better it will be for the nation. If it is necessary to have war in our own territory to bring such dissenters to their senses and to a realization of their duty to the country then let us have a war. One more or less will not matter, and such scum of humanity as inhabit the province of Quebec may easily be dispensed with in the usual manner accorded to traitors.

Alive :: Alert Up to the Minute

NEWS AND VIEWS ON SPORTS

Local .: Provinci a World in Gener a Review of the Week's Sport News

June 29.—Robert Bescher, left fielder of the St. Louis Nationals, has refused to join the Louisville American team, though the St. Louis club had arranged the largest share of his salary when he played with Louisville. Bescher's salary is $6,200 a year.

Bill Leard, the star infielder and captain of the Seattle club, has been sold to the Brooklyn Nationals.

Clonie Tait and Johnny O'Leary will meet during the Stampede at Medicine Hat for the championship of Canada.

John K. Tener has declared that he is through as president of the National league.

Alfred Badored, claimant for the welter championship of France, defeated Joe Egan of Boston, in a 12-round fight.

Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, will battle with Benny Leonard, holder of the lightweight title, on July 23.

Mike O'Dowd of St. Paul, outfought Soldier Barnard of Brooklyn, in a 10-round bout last night.

Prohibition has been issued, according to the Associated Press, against Canadian soldiers in the British Isles entering boxing competitions for money after August 1.

July 2—St. Louis defeated Pittsburg, 6 to 4. Cincinnati defeated Chicago, 8 to 5. Brooklyn beat Philadelphia, 7 to 3. New York defeated Boston, 6 to 1.

Adam Debus, shortstop of the Fargo Moorhead team, has been sold to the St. Louis Nationals.

Herman Pillett, of Tacoma, is creating quite a sensation by his wonderful pitching.

The Nationals defeat the Ottawas at Lansdowne park (Ottawa) by a score of 16 to 7.

As a result of being unable to fulfil their scheduled lacrosse agreement with a local team at Cornwall, the Tecumsehs get in wrong with eastern farms.

July 3—St. Louis defeats Pittsburg, 8 to 6. Cincinnati defeats Chicago, 3 to 1.

July 4—Philadelphia defeats Boston, 5 to 3 (first game). Boston defeats Philadelphia, 4 to 2 (second game). St. Louis defeats Pittsburg, 4 to 3 (first game). St. Louis defeats Pittsburg, 4 to 1 (second game). Cincinnati defeats Chicago, 2 to 0 (first game). Cincinnati defeats Chicago, 13 to 10 (second game). New York defeats Brooklyn, 9 to 2 (first game). New York defeats Brooklyn, 8 to 0 (second game).

Wrestling—Stranger Lewis defeated Zbyzsko in two falls in three at Boston.

Boxing—Al McCoy, middleweight champion, wins from Jockie Clark on points at Cumberland, Maryland.

Baseball—The Three-Eye league, an old baseball organization, is forced to close down on account of the war.

Local—George H. Ross wins the Martin trophy on the St. Andrew's golf course, having obtained the excellent score of 87 less 12, equals 75.

THE BENCH SHOW AWARDS

Tuesday's judging of dogs brought the following results:

Gordon setter, class 27, open, dogs and bitches—Mrs. C. Burland, Shilto.

Pointers, class 28, puppy dogs and bitches—1, Hercules kennels, Dr. D.; 2, W. Guilley, Diamond; 3, C. H. Garvie, Alberta Dash. Class 30, novice dogs—1, W. Guilley, John Bull; 2, Hercules Kennels, Dr. D.; 3, W. Quilley, Diamond. Class 31, limit dogs—1, C. H. Garvie, Bob; 2, Roy Stringer, Stringer's Penny; 3, C. H. Garvie, Alberta Dash. Class 32, open, dogs—1, C. H. Garvie, Bob; 2, Hercules kennels, Dr. D.; 3, Roy Stringer, Stringer's Penny. Class 33, novice bitches—1, W. Read, Queenie; 2, M. Horn, Polly. Class 34, limit, bitches—L. Doyle, Mollie. Class 35, open, bitches—L. Doyle, Mollie.

Retrievers (any variety) class 36, novice dogs and bitches—1, W. J. Fleeton, Gynna; 2, J. Sharples; 3, E. D. Adams, Jack.

Retrievers (curly) class 37, limit, dogs—1, E. D. Adams, Beechgrove Burleight; 2, E. D. Adams, Beechgrove Victor.

St. Bernards, class 1, open, dogs and bitches—1, F. W. Pinchbeck, Barry; 2, D. D. Cain, King's Scout.

Great Danes, class 3, novice dogs and bitches—1, Mrs. D. Murray, King of the Rockies. Class 4, limit, dogs and bitches—1, Mrs. D. Murray, King of the Rockies; 2, D. C. Samson, Prince Rupert's Double; 3, E. McDonald, Prince Rupert H. Class 5, open, dogsg and bitches—1, Mrs. D. Murray, King of the Rockies; 2, D. C. Samson, Prince Rupert's Double; 3, E. McDonald, Prince Rupert H.

Deerhounds or Irish wolfhounds, class 6, open, dogs or bitches—1, J. M. Lister, P at;2, A. Ramsey, Vick; 3, Mrs. W. Corlet, Mona's Thor.

Russian wolfhounds, class 7, puppy dogs and bitches—1, H. L. Dargie, Olga Russ.

Greyhounds, class 12, open, dogs and bitches—Mrs. R. Thompson, Ratalplant.

Beagles, open, dogs and bitches, class 4—Lemmon and Robertson, Ring.

English setters, class 15, puppy dogs and bitches—1, W. M. Glasgow, Commerce Sport; 2, Mrs. R. Emery, Queenie; 3, H. Turnbull, Jedwater Dart. Class 16, novice dogs and bitches—1, Lemmon and Robertson, Tangox; 2, H. G. Parker, Bloom. Class 17, limit dogs—J. Proctor, Tom. Class 18, open, dogs—J. B. Lee, King; 2, J. Proctor, Tom. Class 19, limit bitches—1, F. E. Richmond, Countess Bradford; 2, A. S. Neimann, Danbie's Beauty; 3, H. Turnbull, Jedwater Dart. Class 20, open, bitches—1, Lemmon and Robertson, Tango; 2, H. G. Parker, Bloom; 3, F. E. Richmond, Countess Bradford.

Irish setters, class 21, puppy dogs and bitches—1, T. Belanger, Alberta Rosey; 2, T. Belanger, Alberta Molly. Class 22, novice doggs and bitches—1, A. T. Kinnaird, Donovan; 2, T. Belanger, Alberta Rosey; 3, T. Belanger, Alberta Molly. Class 23, limit, dogs—1, A. T. Kinnaird, Donovan; 2, A. V. Beale, Brownie. Class 23, open, dogs—1, A. T. Kinnaird, Donovan; 2, C. Venables, Pete; 3, A. V. Beale, Brownie. Class 25, open, bitches—1, Wm. Irons, Jerkie of Ellainty; 2, O. Hougan, Norah; 3, Wm. Irons, Irish Beauty.

Gordon setter, class 27, open, dogs and bitches—1, Mrs. C. Burland, Shilto.

Retrievers, class 38, open, dogs—1, E. D. Adams, Beechgrove Burleigh; 2, E. D. Adams, Beechgrove Victor. Class 39, limit, bitches—W. J. Fleeton, Gwynn. Class 40, open, bitches—1, W. J. Fleeton, Gwynn; 2, F. Knowles, Strathcona Bess.

Retrievers (smooth), class 41, limit, doggs—1, J. Sharples, Muirton Jet. Class 42, open, dogs—J. Sharples, Muirton Jet.

Retrievers (Labrador), class 45, limit, dogs—E. D. Adams, Jack. Class 46, open, dogs—1, E. D. Adams, Jack.

Chesapeakes, class 49, novice, dogs and bitches—1, Mrs. E. C. Collins, Sandy; 2, B. Grather, Sport; 3, E. I. Bolander, Edmonton Water Queen.

Class 49a, limit, dogs—1, F. Hogg, Major Frank; 2, Mrs. E. C. Collins, Sandy; 3, B. Grather, Sport. Class 50, open, dogs—1,"F. Hogg, Major Frank; 2, Mrs. E. C. Collins, Sandy; 3, B. Grather, Sport. Class 50a, limit, bitches—1, F. E. Richmond, Chestermere Babe; 2, E. I. Bolander, Edmonton Water Queen.

Irish water spaniels, class 52, limit, dogs—L. A. Duke, Erin's Duke. Class 52a, open, dogs—L. A. Duke, Erin's Duke; 2, Dr. Rooney, Clyde.

Collies, class 56, novice, dogs and bitches—1, Thos. Stephens, Weston Sunbeam; 2, H. A. Alexander, Prince of Elmwood; 3, Mrs. J. Millen, Major. Class 57, limit, dogs—1, Thos. Stephens, Weston Sunbeam; 2, W. J. Cameron, Perfection; 3, H. A. Alexander, Prince of Elmwood. Class 58, open, dogs—1, Thos. Stephens, Weston Sunbeam; 2, W. J. Cameron, Perfection; 3, P. H. Scott, Nraemarx Bonguard. Class 59, limit, bitches—1, W. Armstrong, Vesta Tilley; 2, Mrs. J. McKeith, Flossie. Class 60, open, bitches—1, W. Armstrong, Vesta Tilley; 2, Mrs. J. McKeith, Flossie.

English sheep dog—1, H. G. Parker, Seathorn County; 2, T. Hemingway, Puck. Class 61, novice, dogs and bitches—1, E. T. Kieran, Seathorn Captain; 2, H. G. Parker, Seathorn Count. Class 63, open, dogs—1, H. G. Parker, Seathorn Monarch; 2, E. T. Kieran, Seathorn Captain.

Dalmatians, class 73, open, dogs and bitches—1, J. Shibley, Trixie S.

Cocker spaniels, black, class 74, puppy dogs and bitches—1, H. P. Saunders, Billy Obo; 2, A. W. Forbes, Strathisla King. Class 75, novice, dogs—1, H. P. Saunders, Billy Obo; 2, A. W. Forbes, Strathisla King; 3, Mrs. H. H. Waugh, Prince. Class 76, limit, dogs—1, H. P. Saunders, Billy Obo; 2, A. W. Forbes, Strathisla King; 3, Mrs. H. H. Waugh, Prince. Class 77, open, dogs—1,H. P. Saunders, Billy Obo; 2, J. T. Thompson, Rosedale Teddy; 3, A. W. Forbes, Strathisla King. Class 78, novice, bitches—1, Moore's Cocker kennels, Moore's Moonshine; 2, J. T. Thompson, Rosedale Trixie; 3, Harold H. McChesson, Black Queen. Class 79, limit, bitches—1, Moore's Cocker kennels, Moore's Moonshine; 2, Smith, Tiny; 3, H. P. Saunders, Betty Obo. Class 80, open, bitches—1, Moore's Cocker kennels, Moore's Moonshine; 2, Moore's Cocker kennels, Roseline; 3, F. T. Miller, Rillenderf Daisy.

AMERICAN FLIERS FIGHT NINE BATTLES IN FRANCE IN A WEEK

The intensity of the airmen's activities on the French front is indicated in the week's record of the American Lafayette squadron from June 10 to 16. Fifty-four of their airplanes patrolled over the German lines and fought nine air battles, of which Adjutant Raoul Lufbery, Edwin Parsons, and Sergt. Robert Soubiran each fought two, and Stephen Bigelow, Sergt. Walter Lowell and Thomas Hewitt each fought one.

Adjutant Lufbery brought down one of his opponents, winning his tenth victory, while two other German machines were severely damaged Lufbery is mentioned in a late army order as "a marvelous fighting pilot, who is a living example of audacity, coolness and devotion to his squadron."

MILLIONS TO BE SPENT FOR AIRPLANES BY U. S.

Washington.—The United States government is getting ready to expend the sum of $600,000,000 on 35,000 airplanes to combat the present U-boat campaign of the Germans. A bill to this effect has been introduced in congress.

CURLEY RESTRAINS WILLARD FROM CIRCUS

An injunction has been obtained by Jack Curley preventing Jess Willard from going into the circus business. It will be recalled that Willard bought the Cody circus a few weeks ago from Ed. Arlington for $105,000. The case is now in court.

Arab Horses Do Not Compare With Ours

English and Australian Thoroughbreds Make Much Better Showing

An outstanding feature of the racing season in India, which closed a month ago, was a demonstration that the poetic fleetness of the Arab horse is so largely dream stuff that it does not stand the actual test of racing. There was the Bombay Derby, for instance, which brought together the best of the Arabs owned in India, where the myth as to their superior fleetness still obtains. It was won by one Majbur, property of an English gentleman who races under the nom de course of R. S. S. Majbur, carrying 120 pounds in a race at a mile and a half, won, all out, in 2:52½, with the rest of the field beaten off in that slow time and staggering in. The same day another Arab, called Cyanite, won at a mile and a quarter in 2:09, records which were several seconds slower than the time made by rather ordinary English and Australian thoroughbreds, for which no poetical wings of the desert were claimed.

In a review of the seaon at Calcutta, the Racing Form, of Chicago, has compiled these interesting statistics:

Mr. Goculdas this year had a profitable time in India. His horses won several big races in Calcutta, and at Bombay the English importation, Salandra, by Roquelaure-Bell Flower, which he races in partnership with Mr. Gadas, won the Grand Western handicap, worth $6,665 and a cup to the winner. The time for the mile was 1:39. The same afternoon Mr. Goculdas had an experience similar to one at the Calcutta big meeting, the three place-getters in the Flying Plate being owned by him. There were nine runners. Salandra was ridden in his race by W. Huxley, who was on nearly all Mr. Goculdas' big winners during the season. Another good race won by Salandra at Bombay was the Malabar Plate of $3,300. On the day the Malabar Plate was run the owner, who races in India as Mr. "R. S. S.," had a good inning, his horses winning four of the seven races on the program.

Mr. Goculdas was the most successful owner, his winnings totaling $25,240, next coming Mr. "R. S. S.," with $16,180, and then Wilton Bartlett, with $6,250. W. Huxley, who rode for Mr. Goculdas, was an easy first among the jockeys, with 16 wins, 11 seconds, and a third, for 42 mounts. The next highest were: Stokes and Barrett, 10 wins each; Wing, 9; Ruiz, 8, and Firth and Northmore, 7 each. Robinson, with 19 wins, headed the list of successful trainers, being succeeded by J. D. Scott, 16; Watson, 15; Ferguson, 13, and Ramshaw, 11. All the jockeys are Englishmen.

ENGLAND WILL RACE HORSES IN STATES

New York.—Since England has put a veto on horse racing some of the staunchest supporters of the sport are going to the U. S. to indulge their pleasures. Lord Rosebery, once premier of England, is one of the latest to make the move. His stable of 68 horses arrived a few days ago in charge of his trainer, Frank Hartigan. Nominally the property belongs to Hartigan. Lord Rosebery has won three Derbies and has been a prominent figure in racing circles for years.

KILBANE WILL MEET LEONARD IN PHILADELPHIA

Articles have been signed by which the featherweight champion, Johnny Kilbane, and Benny Leonard, who holds the lightweight title, will meet at Philadelphia on July 23.

OMAHA MAN WINS GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP IN STATES

St. Joseph, Mo.—S. W. Reynolds, of Omaha, has captured the trans-Mississippi golf championship from Howard Legg, the past holder, and five times winner of the cup. Reynolds won with two up and one to play.

HARVARD BALL TEAM JOINS U. S. ARMY

Cambridge, Mass.—Nearly all of the Harvard eleven, the famous baseball team, have joined the army.

Charley Coolidge and Dick Hart, the slashing varsity ends, Jose Harris, center; Billy Robinson, quarterback, and Tom Thacher were among the successful candidates for the Plattsburg, N. Y., federal training camp, and will start their studies for the reserve officers' corps there.

OFFICIALS WANT BOXING CONTINUED IN ANTIPODES

On the occasion of the opening of the first of a number of cottages for returned soldiers at French Forest, just outside of Sydney Australia, Mr. Gus James, minister for education, expressed an opinion on boxing, which is sharply in contrast with the attitude taken by public officials in this country. The minister made a strong plea for the continuation of the sport.

The plan for these cottages originated with Reginald L. (Snowy) Baker, the leading boxing promoters of Australia, and the work of construction was carried on and completed by boxers and their friends. In the course of his address Mr. James, who is the son of a clergyman, said that he had had an interest in boxing as long as he could remember, and that he had taken the sport up actively for beneficial reasons. He declared boxing to be a fine sport, which inculcated manliness, clean living and respect for others. The minister for education even went as far as to say that the reason why Australians made such good soldiers was that the fighting spirit had in a manner been trained into them as a result of their competitive sport.

More Than 3,500,000 Motor Cars in the U.S.

Increase of 43 Per Cent. Last Year Over 1915

Washington, D. C.—In 1916 there were 1,067,332 more motor cars registered in the United States than in 1915. This was an increase of 43 per cent. The gross total of registered cars, including commercial cars, was 3,512,996; the number of motorcycles registered was 250,820. The several states collected in registration and license fees, including those of chauffeurs and operators, a total gross revenue of $25,865,369.75. Of this amount 92 per cent., or $23,910,811, was applied directly to construction, improvement, or maintenance of the public roads in 43 states, according to figures compiled by the office of public roads of the United States department of agriculture, in circular 73, "Automobile Registrations, Licenses and Revenues in the United States, 1916."

The figures for 1916 correspond very closely with the annual percentage increase of motor car registration of the last three years. This yearly increase has averaged 40 per cent. in the number of cars and 50 per cent. in revenues.

When viewed over a period of years, the increase in motor car registration and gross revenue has been remarkable. In 1906 the total state registrations were approximately 48,000 cars, on account of which the several states collected in fees and licenses a total gross revenue of about $190,000. Only a small part of this was applied to road work. In 1916 the $25,865,369.75 collected formed nearly 9 per cent. of the total rural road and bridge revenues of the states.

Recent years have shown an increasing tendency to put the spending of the motor car revenues directly in the rands of the state highway departments. Of the total amount applied to road work in 1916, 70 per cent. or $16,411,520, was expended more or less directly under the control or supervision of state highway departments. Only 13 states did not exercise any direct control over the expending of the net automobile revenues.

FORD TRUCKS NEXT MONTH

Ford trucks will be in production and will be turned out at the rate of 25 a day in July. This truck will be provided with an overhead worm drive axle, operated in connection with the power plant now employed for the Ford passenger car and though a planetary gearset. Final details are rapidly being cleared up at the Ford factory.

FORD SHOW DATES SET

Chicago's first Ford show, planned recently at a dealers' conference here, is to be held at the Coliseum September 22 to 29. The exhibit will be concerned entirely with Fords and appliances designed to improve their performance and appearance.

Things Worth Knowing About Autos and Motors

When two or more leaves of a spring break it is not advisable to install new leaves without resetting the spring. In a spring that has been used for some time the set is different from that of the new leaves installed and the inequality soon leads to another break.

Opening the relief valves to see if a cylinder is missing is not always a reliable guide unless you speed up the engine. Feed plenty of gas and you will frequently get a burst of flame through the valve from what you thought was a dead cylinder.

In installing tire chains don't try to pull them too tight. If the chains are held in a fixed position as the wheels revolve the tread of the tire is likely to be worn and loosened. A slightly loosened chain will "creep" into constantly shifting positions, distributing the wear and causing less injury.

If the screws that hold the small brass brackets to the vibrator box become worn so that they do not hold, don't use longer screws. They may injure the windings of the coil and ruin the vibrator. Put a metal band clear around the box and attach it to the dash with small bolts.

The man who buys a box of socket wrenches is making a good investment. They save time and keep nuts and bolts in good condition, since they fit perfectly and do not round off the edges. Open end wrenches are next best. If you must use a monkey wrench, set it up carefully and avoid rounding off the nut corners as much as possible.

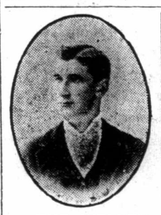
Here's a dependable program to follow in putting your car in order for the summer:

First—Remove carbon from engine.
Second—Grind valves.
Third—Clean gasoline line.
Fourth—Flush out crank case.
Fifth—Adjust valves.
Sixth—Care for clutch.
Seventh—Clean and oil gear set.
Eighth—Clean and oil universals.
Ninth—Clean and oil differential.
Tenth—Adjust bearings.
Eleventh—Adjust brakes.
Twelfth—Care for tires.
Thirteenth—Renovate chassis.
Fourteenth—Clean and polish body.
Fifteenth—Touch up unexposed metal.
Sixteenth—Care for top.
Seventeenth—Care for curtains.

Drivers of the Saxon trail blazer which is circling the boundaries of the United States and reached its westernmost point in San Francisco last week report that the California automobile clubs are expecting more tourists from the east this year than ever before. Many miles of new scenic highways, completed within the year, have been encountered.

Of the 14 cars in which members of the San Francisco Advertising club started overland to St. Louis three weeks ago, only three succeeded in negotiating the deep mud and clay of th Lincoln highway as far as Denver. Of these two were Studebakers—one the official pilot car and the other with the main body of tourists. The 11 machines which were forced to drop out at various points in Nevada and Wyoming were shipped to their destinations by freight.

An average of 27.47 miles per gallon of gasoline for 892 cars is reported as the achievement made in the Maxwell economy demonstrations held throughout the United States on May 23. A second contest—for owners this time—is to be staged next week, with 50,000 in Liberty bonds offered as prizes.



Builders of the Standard claim for it the distinction of being the first car of eight cylinder design to be magneto equipped. This, they maintain, means a surer and a hotter spark, with less drain on the starting and lighting batteries, keener acceleration, and less wire trouble.

With a record of 261,800 miles to its credit a 1909 Buick started last week on an 11,000 mile jaunt that will carry it across the continent and back. The trip, from Detroit to New York and thence to Los Angeles and Seattle and back to the starting point, is designed as a further test of the single set of Hyatt bearings on which the car's mileage record has been made without replacement or adjustment.

The Firestone Tire and Rubber company maintains a dental clinic for its employes, at which 20,000 cases are treated annually.

GEO. EDWARDS
Spring Manufacturer
All Kinds of Carriage and Wagon Springs Made to Order.
Prices Moderate
A trial is solicited.
330 Sixth Avenue East, Calgary

General Repair Works
P. C. HEAD, Prop.
230 SEVENTH AVE. EAST
(Opp. Post Office), CALGARY
WE REPAIR—Guns, Sewing Machines, Gramophones, Typewriters, Cash Registers, Musical Instruments, Slot Machines, Carpet Sweepers, Vacuum Cleaners, Wash Machines, etc.
Guns Repaired by an Expert Gunsmith
We Do Welding, Brazing, Soldering
We Specialize on Sewing Machines

THE WELDER
At Your Service

City Welding and Repair Shop
All kinds of Metal Welded Strong as New 142 1st Av. E. (by the river)
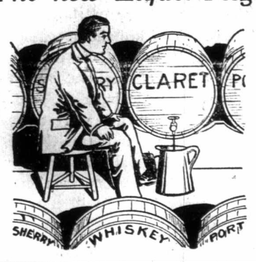
Telephone Main 2240

ALLFORD GARAGE
EVANS & LINDBERG, PROPS.
Ford Specialists
All Repair Work Guaranteed
All Makes and Grades of Second-Hand Cars for Sale
211 TENTH AVENUE WEST
Residence: Phone M4964
Garage: Phone M2548

WESTERN CARRIAGE WORKS
A. H. ADAMS, Manager
Auto and Carriage Top Builders and Upholsterers, Manufacture and Repair Side Curtains, "Jiffy" Curtains patent), Seat Covers, Top Envelopes, Radiator Covers, Woodwork. Top Accessories always in stock.
"Your Satisfaction is Our Success."
632 17th Avenue West Phone W4938

GRAY-DORT AUTOMOBILES

For beauty, easy riding qualities, strength and economy these cars cannot be excelled
"The Quality Goes Clear Through"
PRICE $995.00 at Calgary
SHOWROOMS: 235 8th Avenue West
Phone M5337



CALGARY WELDING SHOP
Up-to-Date Steel Cutting Appliances
Steel Tanks Made to Order
All Metals Welded—Cast Iron, Steel, Aluminum and Brass Castings of All Kinds
We Specialize in Farm Machinery Repairs—Oxy-Acetylene Process
We Solicit Your Patronage
All Work Guaranteed
806 Third Avenue East, Calgary
Phone M4322

Star Cycle & Motor Co.
Sole Agents for Perfect Bicycles, Star Bicycles and Indian Motorcycles
Auto Electrical Systems a Specialty
Complete Line of Accessories Always on Hand
Expert Repairing
Our Ten Years of Practical Experience, coupled with Our Many Satisfied Customers, is sufficient guarantee of what we can do for others.
A Trial Will Convince You.
224 Seventh Ave. E. Phone M3661

FOWLER'S CIDERS
"THEY'RE MIGHTY GOOD"
13 DIFFERENT KINDS
BUY THEM BY THE GALLON FROM YOUR DEALER

Siegel Garage Company
SUPPLIES AND ACCESSORIES, STORAGE AND REPAIRS
Phone Us When In Trouble
708 1st St. E. Phone M4050
129 3rd Ave. E. Phone M4286

The new Liquor Regulations make new conditions. Our latest Price List complies with these. Write to us for one.

Revelstoke Wine and Spirit Co. Ltd.
REVELSTOKE, B. C.

The Nat Bell Liquors Ltd.
Box 304, Saskatoon, Sask.
The Reliable Mail Order House
Mail Us Your Orders Direct
You know our Service. You know the High Standard we set for Quality.
You know our Draught Whiskies is the pure unadulterated product of the best distillers.
Why experiment with other houses.
A card will bring our price list
THE NAT BELL LIQUORS LTD.
Saskatoon, Sask.

Local .: Provinci a World in Gener a

CALGARY
WELDING SHOP
Up-to-Date Steel Cutting Appliances
Steel Tanks Made to Order
All Metals Welded—Cast Iron, Steel, Aluminum and Brass Castings of All Kinds
We Specialize in Farm Machinery Repairs—Oxy-Acetylene Process
We Solicit Your Patronage
All Work Guaranteed
306 Third Avenue East, Calgary
Phone M4322

Star Cycle & Motor Co.
Sole Agents for Perfect Bicycles, Star Bicycles and Indian Motorcycles
Auto Electrical Systems a Specialty
Complete Line of Accessories Always on Hand
Expert Repairing
Our Ten Years of Practical Experience, coupled with Our Many Satisfied Customers, is sufficient guarantee of what we can do for others.
A Trial Will Convince You.
224 Seventh Ave. E. Phone M3661

Siegel Garage Company
SUPPLIES AND ACCESSORIES, STORAGE AND REPAIRS
Phone Us When in Trouble
708 1st St. E. Phone M4059
129 3rd Ave. E. Phone M4296

Regulations make new conditions. Our latest Price List complies with these. Write to us for one.

e and Spirit C[illegible]d.
ELSTOKE, B. C.

Bell Liquors Ltd.
Saskatoon, Sask.
Mail Order House
ur Orders Direct ur Service. You know
ard we set for Quality.
ur Draught Whiskies is terated product of the nent with other houses.
bring our price list
NAT BELL
ORS LTD.
atoon, Sask.

Acts of the Last Legislature Reviewed By the Deputy Minister

Facts Pertaining to the Principal Bills Passed---Outlined By John Petrie in the Financial Post.

The main features of the municipal legislation passed at the last session of the Alberta legislature were the Municipal Hospitals Act, the Patriotic Tax Act, and the amendments to the Municipal Co-operative Hail Insurance Act.

Municipal Hospitals Act

By the provisions of this Act the organized portions of the province; that is, the areas incorporated as local improvement districts, rural municipalities, villages, towns and cities (of a population of less than 500) will be grouped into hospital districts, and these organizations may unite to provide hospital accommodation within such hospital district for the people living within its boundaries. This provision may be made by an arrangement with an existing hospital, or by the erection or purchase of a hospital to be operated under the direction of the hospital district.

The business of the hospital district will be administered by a board appointed by the councils of the organizations within the district. The regulations which will govern the operation of these hospitals, as well as the charges made for such accommodation and so on, are matters which will be dealt with by the hospital board, and a hospital district may make arrangements whereby all residents will be given free hospital accommodation and medical attendance at the expense of the municipalities; such expense to be met out of the revenue derived from the taxes levied, or the arrangements may simply provide for hospital accommodation to be paid for by the municipality, leaving the doctor's fees to be paid by the individual.

The rate of taxation which may be levied for capital expenditure in connection with any hospital scheme is limited to a maximum of two mills on the dollar. From information available as to the expense attached to the operation of a hospital of this kind, this amount will, no doubt, provide ample funds. The rate for running expenses will, of course, depend entirely on the arrangements made by the board as to what payments will be made by the municipality, and what amounts will be paid by the individual and upon the amount of sickness in the district.

All proposed arrangements by a hospital board in regard to acquiring, building or operating a hospital must be set forth in a scheme which has to be approved by the Minister of Municipal Affairs before it can be put into operation; such scheme being, of course, subject to the public health act, the public utilities act, and the hospital [illegible]ance.

[illegible]otic Tax Act

This [illegible]es provision whereby any urban [illegible] rural municipality, or organized local improvement district, may levy a tax to provide a fund to be paid over to the Canadian Patriotic Fund in Alberta. The rate of taxation to be levied for this purpose is not limited; the amount of the rate being a matter which is left entirely in the hands of the council of the municipality or local improvement district. All property of persons who have enlisted for overseas, naval or military service of His Majesty's allies is exempt from this tax, and such property may by the same act be exempted from taxation for any other purpose. If any taxes have been paid on such property, the act gives authority for the rebate or remission of such taxes, and validates all grants hitherto given to the patriotic fund.

Hail Insurance Act

During the year 1916, on account of the heavy hail losses, the hail insurance district was not able to pay all awards. Provision has been made by an amendment to the act whereby the system of taxation for hail purposes is changed from a flat rate on all assessable lands to a flat rate of 5c. per acre on all assessable lands and an additional rate on all lands under crop, such as will be sufficient, together with the flat rate of 5c. per acre, to pay all hail losses for the year, administration expenses, and unpaid awards of former year. This will make it absolutely certain that any farmer in the hail district suffering loss will receive payment in full of his claim, and provision has been made by legislation whereby the province has guaranteed a loan to the hail district so that they may be in a position to pay up all outstanding unpaid awards; [illegible] loan to be repaid during the next [illegible] years out of the hail tax levied by the hail district. This amendment places the business of the hail insurance district on a solid footing, and will give to grain growers within the area of the district, hail insurance at less than cost.

Rural Mnuicipality Act.

To meet conditions complained of by a number of municipal councils, an amendment was made providing for a penalty where a councillor on his own individual authority authorizes an expenditure contrary to the wishes of a majority of the council as a whole. and no independent authority is given to individual councillors, but in some cases councillors take such authority upon themselves and thus place the council in a rather embarrassing position by making it necessary to authorize expenditure on an unfair basis.

To assist residents in rural municipalities which may be so located as to make it impossible for a hospital district to be organized, power has been given to the council to make a grant to induce a physician to locate in the municipality. It is clear that there is likely to be some rural organizations that will not be in a position to become part of a hospital district scheme for some time, and therefore, it seemed advisable that power should be given whereby they might assist in securing the services of a physician for the ratepayers if they so desired.

Local Improvement Act

The principal change in this cat was the amendments making a local improvement district a corporate body, giving them power to issue debentures for hospital purposes, and placing tax enforcement proceedings entirely in their own hands. It is, of course, desirable that local improvement districts should have the privilege of joining with municipalities in hospital districts if they wish, and in order to place them in a positon to benefit by the municipal hospitals act, it was necessary that they should be made a corporate body, have power to issue debentures for hospital purposes, and that they should have full control of their collection of taxes so that they might have power within themselves to make definite arrangements to meet the payments required. It should also be noted that provision was made for further organization of local improvement districts, so that no locality might be deprived of the advantages o fthe municipal hospitals act through lack of organization. An amendment was also made to the local improvement act, similar to that made to the rural municipality act, whereby a local improvement district may give a grant to induce a physician to locate in the district.

Houses of Public Accommodation Act

Under this act any city; town or village in the province is given power to pass by-laws licensing, regulating and governing all houses of public accommodation. This will enable such municipalities to see that all houses of public accommodation are kept by people of good character, that the premises are suitable for the business, and that such premises are kept in good condition. The act also gives the municipality power to allow rebates on municipal taxes levied in connection with such houses, and in general, gives a municipality power to assist in any way that appears desirable to provide proper accommodation for the travelling public. All moneys collected for license fees or penalties under such by-laws are payable to the municipality.

Charter Amendments

In addition to the public municipal bills, the cities of Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge, came before the legislature for amendments to their charters. As might probably be expected, these amendments were largely in connection with the questions of finance and taxation.

The principal change made in the charter under which the city of Edmonton carries on business was the adding of a provision widening the city's powers of taxation so as to allow taxes to be levied on business, buildings and improvements, as well as on land values. This power, however, can only be exercised after a by-law authorizing the levying of such taxes has been passed by the city council and approved by the burgesses.

The only amendment to the Calgary city charter of outstanding importance was an amendment under which that city is authorized to issue and sell tax certificates against lands on which taxes are in arrears.

The principal request made by the city of Lethbridge for increased power was also in connection with the collection of arrears of taxes, and authority was given to the city of Lethbridge to issue and sell tax certificates against land on which taxes are outstanding.

Tax Certificates

The giving to the cities of Calgary and Lethbridge power to issue tax certificates is the first instance where provision has been made in any of the statutes in force in the province for the use of this method of enforcing payment of taxes. Prior to the last session of the legislature, the methods in force by which action might be taken against land to enforce payment of taxes were (a), the regular tax sale proceedings by which land is put up for sale for the amount of taxes outstanding, and the owner is given a certain period of time after such sale in which he may redeem his land by payment of the amount charged up against it, (b) the tax enforcement procedings by confirmation of the taxe enforcement return. Under this system, after due warning has been given, as in tax sale proceedings, the title to the land is forfeited to the municipality subject to redemption by the owner within a certain period of time. After this period of time has elapsed, if the land is not redeemed, title will pass to the municipality and a clear title given.

By the system of enforcing payment of taxes by selling tax certificates, the purchaser obtains a claim against the land under which the land after a certain length of time will have to be sold, unless it is redeemed. As in a ta xsale, the amount paid becomes a first charge against the land, and, of course, bears interest; the purchaser being given a document called a tax certificate to indicate his claim against the land.

All three methods of procedure have much in common, but it is claimed by the advocates of the tax certificat system that it will appeal rather more to the investors than either of the other two methods, that it will be more popular, and that it does not appear quite so drastic.

PRUDENCE OF THE PARSONAGE

THE FAMOUS STORY OF A HAPPY FAMILY

By Ethel Hueston

COPYRIGHT 1915 BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

SYNOPSIS

Mr. Starr, minister, arrives in Mount Mark to take charge of the Methodist diocese, he is a widower with five children, all girls, namely, Prudence, the eldest, who mothers the rest of the family, who include, Fary, Connie and Carol and Lark, who are twins. The girls all go school and are particularly clever.

The twins, though very lovable and obedient children, are very mischievous, and often embarrass Prudence and Fairy.

Every one in the parish admires Prudence for her sweet and womanly disposition. Profesor Rayburn, of the college, a suitor for her hand, but Prudence refuses him, considering her home and bringing up of the family, her particular duty.

Owing to Mount Mark being a small parish and the congregation rather sla about money matters, the parsonage family have quite a hard time to make ends meet. Fairy and Prudence make over old coat of their fathers for Connie, who always comes in for the left-overs, being the smallest, this being a particular disappointment, as she was promised a new coat. Connie calls on Mr. Harold, the president of the bank, and asks for loan of $5.00, explaining the situation him and promising to pay it back in two years, a nickle at a time. Mr. Harold tells her he is proud to have her trade. Connie surprises the family at dinner-time by producing the $5.00.

One night while Mr. Starr was away from home the twins hear a noise and awake the other girls. Through the braveness of Prudence the thief was caught. Prudence wins the $500.00 which had been offered as a reward for the catching of this noted burglar. Prudences decides to go for a bicycle ride and runs into a mule. She is hurt and is seen safely home by a stranger, Jerrold Harmer. He later calls and asks for Prudence's hand, to which Mr. Starr consents.

"Jerry was very nice,—oh, very nice,—but you ought to see our little Duck!" Carol rattled rashly. "I'm sure you wouldn't regret Jerry any more if you could just get hold of Duckie. Of course, his being in New York is an obstacle, but I could introduce you by mail."

"I do not care for Ducks," said Prudence. "Of course, they look very nice swimming around on the water, but when it comes to eating,—I'll take spring chicken every time."

Carol did not mention "Duck" again for three days.

But there came a day when Fairy was out in the country. Connie had gone driving with her father. The moment had arrived. The twins had their plan of campaign memorized, and they sauntered in to Prudence with a nonchalance that was all assumed.

"Prudence," Lark began, "we're writing a book."

"That's nice," said Prudence. Conversation languished. The subject seemed exhausted.

Carol came to the rescue. "It's a very nice book. It's a love-story, and perfectly thrilling. Larkie does the writing, but I criticize and offer suggestions."

"That's kind of you."

A pause.

"I'm going to dedicate it to Carol.—To my beloved sister, to whose kindness and sympathy, I owe all that I am,—or something like that," Lark explained hopefully.

"How proud Carol will be!"

A long pause.

"We're in a very critical place just now, though," Lark seemed to be commencing at the beginning once more. "We have our heroine in a very peculiar situation, and we can't think what to do with her next."

"How sad."

Another pause.

"We thought maybe you could help us out."

"I'm afraid not," Prudence smiled a little. "I haven't any imagination. Ask Fairy. She's strong on love-stories."

"Maybe if we explain the situation to you, you could give us a suggestion. Is is like this: The young people have had all kinds of thrilling experiences, but they are not yet bethrothed. But they are just on the point of getting there,—and something crops up all of a sudden! The hero goes dashing away, and returns no more. The heroine lies upon her silken couch, weeping. And no one knows what to do about it, because no one knows what has happened. What do you suppose could have sent the lover away like that?"

"Maybe he hasn't enough money for the heroine."

"Oh, yes,—he's very rich.

"Maybe he is already married."

'No, indeed. He's a bachelor."

"Maybe he didn't love her, after all."

Here Carol chimed in helpfully. "Oh, yes, he did, for we left him kissing her all over the back yard, and he wouldn't have done that if he radn't loved her, you know."

Prudence's eyes twinkled a little, but her smile was sad.

"Now, what would you advise us to do?" inquired Lark briskly, feeling instinctively that Carol had explained too much.

Prudence rose slowly. "I think," she said very gently, "I think I would burn the book if I were you, and pay a little more attention to my studies."

Then she went up-stairs, and Carol told Lark sympathetically that they did not deserve an authoress in the parsonage when they didn't give her any more encouragement than that!

On the day before Christmas, an insured package was delivered at the parsonage for Prudence. A letter was with it, and she read that first.

"My dearest little sweetheart: I chose this gift for you long before I had the right to do it. I was keeping it until the proper moment. But the moment came, and went again. Still I want you to have the gift. Please wear it, for my sake, for I shall be happy knowing it is where it ought to be, even though I myself am banished. I love you, Prudence. Whenever you send for me, I am ready to come. Entirely and always yours, Jerry."

With trembling fingers she opened the litle package. It contained a ring, with a brilliant diamond flashing myriad colors before her eyes. And Prudence kissed it passionately, many times.

Two hours later, she went quietly down-stairs to where the rest of the family were decorating a Christmas tree. She showed the ring to them gravely.

"Jerry sent it to me," she said. "Do you think it is all right for me to wear it, father?"

A thrill of hopeful expectancy ran through the little group.

"eYs, indeed," declared her father. "How beautiful it is! Is Jerry coming to spend Christmas with us?"

"Why, no, father,—he is not coming at all any more. I thought you understood that."

An awkward silence, and Carol came brightly to the rescue. "It certainly is a beauty! I thought it was very kind of Professor Duckie to send Lark and me a five-pound box of chocolates, but of course this is ever so much nicer. Jerry's a bird, I say."

"A bird!" mocked Fairy. "Such language."

Lark came to her twin's defence. "Yes, a bird,—that's just what he is."

Carol smiled. "We saw him use his wings when Connie yanked him out of the big maple, didn't we, Lark?" Then, "Did you send him anything, Prue?"

Prudence hesitated, and answered without the slightest accession of color, "Yes, Carol. I had my picture taken when I was in Burlington, and sent it to him."

"Your picture! Oh, Prudence! Where are they? Aren't you going to give us one?"

"No, Carol. I had only one made,—for Jerry. There aren't any more."

"Well," sighed Lark resignedly, "it's a pretty idea for my book, anyhow.

From that day on, Prudence always wore the sparkling ring,—and the women of the Methodist church nearly had mental paralysis marvelling over a man who gave a diamond ring, and never came a-wooing! And a girl who accepted and wore his offering, with nothing to say for the man! And it was the consensus of opinion in Mount Mark that modern lovers were mostly crazy, anyhow!

And springtime came again.

Now the twins were always original in their amusements. They never followed blindly after the dictates of custom. When other girls were playing dolls, the twins were jumping the rope, the twins were conducting a circus. And when other girls played "catch" with dainty rubber balls, the twins took unto themselves a big and heavy croquet ball,—found in the Avery woodshed. To be sure, it stung and bruised their hands. What matter? At any rate, they continued endangering their lives and beauties by reckless pitching of the ungainly plaything.

One Friday evening after school, they were amusing themselves on the parsonage lawn with this huge ball. When their father turned in, they ran up to him with a sporting proposition.

"Bet you a nickel, papa,' 'cried Carol, "that you can't throw this ball as far as the schoolhouse woodshed!—By the way, will you lend me a nickel papa?"

He took the ball, and weighed it lightly in his hand. "I'm an anti-betting society," he declared, laughing, "but I very strongly believe it will carry to the schoolhouse woodshed. If it does not, I'll give you five cents' worth of candy tomorrow. And if it does, you shall put in extra nickel in the collection next Sunday."

Then he drew back his arm, and carefully sighted across the lawn. "I'll send it right between the corner of the house and that little cedar," he said, and then, bending low, it whizzed from his hand.

Lark screamed, and Carol sank fainting to the ground. For an instant, Mr. Starr himself stood swaying. Then he rushed across the lawn. For Prudence had opened the front door, and stepped quickly out on the walk by the corner of the house. The heavy ball struck her on the forehead, and she fell heavily, without a moan.

CHAPTER XV.

Fate Takes Charge

Four hours Prudence lay unconscious, with two doctors in close attendance. Fairy, alert but calm, was at hand to give them service.

It is a significant thing that in bitter anguish and grief, Christians find comfort and peace in prayer. Outsiders, as well as Christians, pray in times of danger and mental stress. But here is the big difference between the prayers of Christians and the prayers of "others." "Others" pray, and pray, and pray again, and continue still in the agony and passion of grief and fear. And yet they pray. But Christians pray, and find confidence and serenity. Sorrow may remain, but anguish is stilled.

Mount Mark considered this a unique parsonage family. Their liveliness, their gaiety, their love of fun, seemed a little inapropos in the setting of a Methodist parsonage.

"They ain't sanctimonious enough by half," declared old Harvey Reel, the bus driver, "but, by Jings! I tell you they are dandies!"

But as a matter of fact, every one of the family, from Connie up, had a characteristic parsonage heart. When they were worried, or frightened, or grieved, they prayed. Fairy passing up the stairs with hot water for the doctors, whispered to her father as he turned in to his own room, "Keep on praying, father. I can't stop now, because they need me. But I'm praying every minute between errands!" And Mr. Starr, kneeling beside his bed, did pray,—and the stony despair in his eyes died out, and he came from the little room quiet, and confident, and calm.

Connie had been unfortunate. In seeking a secluded corner to "pray for Prudence," she had passed the door of the dungeon, and paused. A fitting place! So she turned in at once, drawing the door after her, but leaving it a couple of inches ajar. Then in the farthest and darkest corner, she knelt on the hard floor, and prayed, and sobbed herself to sleep. Fairy passing through the hall, observed the door ajar, and gave it a slight push. The lock snapped into place, but Connie did not waken.

Lark remained loyally with Carol until consciousness returned to her. As soon as she was able to walk, the two went silently to the barn, and climbed into the much-loved haymow. There they lay flat on the hay, faces downward, each with an arm across the other's shoulder, praying fercently. After a time they rose and crept into the house, where they waited patiently until Fairy came down on one of her numerous errands.

"Is she better?" they whispered. And Fairy answered gently, "I think she is a little better." Then the twins, in no way deceived, went back to the haymow again.

Fairy prepared a hasty supper, and arranged it on the kitchen table. She drank a cup of hot coffee, and went in search of her father. "oG and eat, dadsie," she urged. But he shook his head.

"I am not hungry, but send the girls to the table at once."

On their next trip into the house, Fairy stopped the twins. "Get Connie and eat your supper. It's just a cold lunch, and is already on the kitchen table. You must help yourselves,—I can't come now."

The twins did not speak, and Fairy went hurriedly up the stairs once more.

"I do not think I can eat," said Carol.

"I know I can't," was Lark's reply. "Won't Fairy make us? She'll tell papa."

"We'd better take away about half of this food, and hide it. Then she will think we have already eaten."

This novel plan was acted upon with promptitude.

"Where's Connie? She ought to eat something. We must make her do it."

"She probably cried herself to sleep somewhere. We'd better let her alone. She'll feel much better asleep and hungry, than awake and sorry for Prue."

To be continued)

DRINK
Banff Mineral Water

Northern Navigation Cruises

Spend your vacation on the Great Lakes. Get away for a complete change. Make new acquaintances—breathe new air—see new sights aboard the luxurious, steel liners that sail tri-weekly on the

1600 Mile, Six-Day Duluth-Detroit Cruise

Between Duluth, Ft. William, Port Arthur S. S. Marie, Sarnia and Detroit

Excellent meals, comfortable staterooms, side trips—all included in your ticket. No extras. More enjoyment with less expense than any other vacation trip you can take.

Travel East by the Water Route

Reduce the cost of your trip to the coast and back, traveling by boat. Enjoy the wonders of America's most beautiful Lake District—the comforts and conveniences that land travel cannot give you.

Train connections east and west at Duluth, Ft. William Port Arthur, Sarnia and Detroit.

Write for Cruise Booklet and rates to E. W. Holton, General Passenger Agent Northern Navigation Company
Sarnia, Ontario
For Information Ask Your Local Ticket Agent

O.K. SHOE CO.
E. T. ARNOLD, Proprietor
Phone M5070 - Calgary, Alta.

VISITORS TO CALGARY
Call and See Us. We will Show You the Best Shoe Repairing that can be done in Calgary. Modern Machinery--Skilled Mechanics--First Quality Material.
Will Guarantee Our Statement
Calgary's Leading Shoe Repairers
710 FIRST STREET EAST

Original Defective

THEATRES | WHERE TO GO | PICTURE PLAYS | WHAT TO SEE | VAUDEVILLE

PANTAGES

UNEQUALLED VAUDEVILLE

WEEK JULY 9, 1917

The New Producer
A Grand Opera Cocktail

Harry Coleman
Ventriloquist

Morgan & Wiser
Boomerang Throwers

Devine & Williams
Comedy and Novelty

The Curzon Sisters
Flying Butterflies

Current News

Sessue Hayakawa at the Allen Friday and Sat.

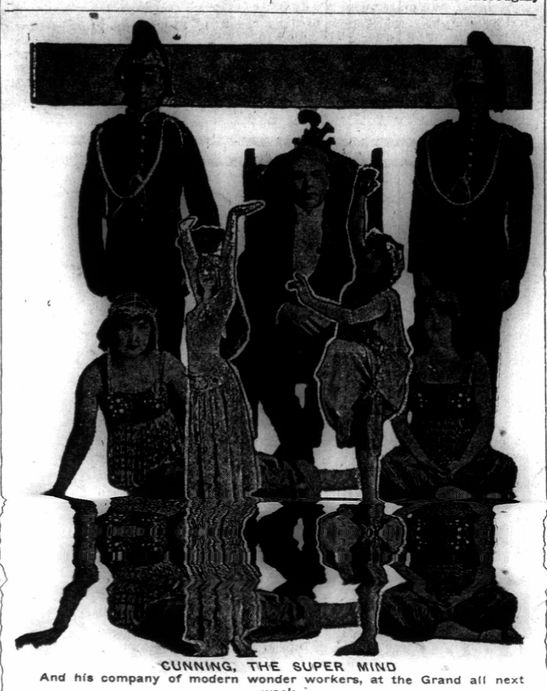
In one of the most unusual of the many startling photodramas in which he has appeared, Sessue Hayakawa, the noted Japanese actor will be seen at the Allen next Friday and Saturday in the Lasky-Paramount production, "The Jaguar's Claws," by Beatrice C. de Mille and Leighton Osmun from an adaptation by Roswell Dague of William M. McCoy's story.

Hayakawa has been seen as a Japanese, a Chinese, Hawaiian, East Indian and American Indian and now for the first time is to be seen as a Mexican—a cruel, merciless bandit who with his band of followers, whom he rules by fear, terrorizes a certain portion of northern Mexico.

As the bandit he captures two American girls and the young American oil field manager, who is the bridegroom of one of the girls and the brother of the other one. Having the three in his power, El Jagual gives the man the right to take one of the girls into safety, but the other must remain with him. The young American is at a loss what to do; whether to leave his young sister to the mercy of the bandit, or his bride of a few days.

How the problem is solved is brought about in a most startling and unusual manner. Needless to say a play of this unusual theme, with Sessue Hayakawa as the bandit, abounds in gripping incidents.

The major portion of the picture was filmed in the exact locality in which the scenes of the story are laid, the Lasky company having received permission from the Mexican commander who was at that time in charge, to spend several days in the interior. But they nearly caused a breach in neutrality by bringing a hundred cowboys over the border to take part in the raid on a Mexican town. The Lasky company had rented the town for the day from the local jeffe, of mayor, who had failed to notify all the residents; consequently when the Americans swooped down through the streets, firing revolvers, great confusion ensued but fortunately no serious damage was done. In the supporting cast are Tom Moore, Marjorie Daw, Tom Forman, Mabel Van Buren, Lucien Littlefield and Horace B. Carpenter. The production was made for the Lasky company under the personal direction of Marshall Neilan.



Cunning, the Geat Coming to the Grand next week

In presenting his famous Simla seance as part of his varied program, Cunning the Miracle Man, who opens a week's engagement at the Grand next Monday, will offer one of the most remarkable performances ever seen upon the stage. He comes among the audience, calls you by name and talks to you as though he had knows you for years. He will answer any and all questions asked him with almost perfect accuracy. He is well named the master-mind. His demonstrations are indeed wonderful.

Cunning is surrounded by a company of competent assistants and the program is replete with many new and startling illusions. Everything from small magic to the latest Hindu wonders. Pretty Oriental dancing girls, taking one to the atmosphere of the far east. The program is in two parts, the first devoted to modern mysticisms and the latter part to tests in thought transference.

There are no pictures used during Cunning's performance.

Matinees will be given Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. On Friday afternoon ladies only will be admitted.

CUNNING, THE SUPER MIND
And his company of modern wonder workers, at the Grand all next week

Geraldine Farrar at the Allen Mon. and Tue.

Pauline Frederick, the screen's greatest emotional actress, has temporarily forsaken her customary "heavy" roles and in her latest Famous Players-Paramount picture, "Her Better Self," is seen as a young society butterfly in love with a very serious young doctor.

In this picture Miss Frederick has drawn a character sketch of the very heart and life of this young girl that will live as one of her most remarkable pieces of work and rank with such of her masterpieces as "Sapho," "Audrey," "Zaza" and others, although differing widely from any of these.

The story deals with the way Vivian Tyler, pampered daughter of wealthy parents, successfully bridges the vast gulf of poverty which yawns between her and the man she loves who is a charity doctor.

When their mutual attraction for each other has brought about a situation almost demanding that he propose to her, he is forced to tell her that their marriage would be utterly impossible. "You could not stand even a week of my life," he told her bitterly.

The way she secretly plans to take this test, coming to his sanatorium to help and mingle with his co-workers, but is at last discouraged, not by the endless squalor and drudgery of it but by discovering what she thinks is a love affair between him and a girl of the streets who worships him, makes a situation that is thoroughly gripping in its intensity and great "human interest".

Returning to her home, Vivian loses all interest in her life and allows her parents to announce her engagement to a foreign baron whom she secretly despises. The latter urges an early wedding, but a telephone call from the young doctor brings her back to him to try again.

But the girl who had caused their first misunderstanding soon widens the gulf between them by committing suicide. The blame attaches to the doctor who chivalrously allows himself to be indicted because he thinks he is shielding Vivian.

The tangle of circumstantial evidence is at last unwound however, by Vivian herself, and the happiness of the lovers only heightened by their terrible experience.

Pauline Frederick has given an exceptionally fine interpretation of this difficult role and is notably supported by a splendid cast including Thomas Meighan, who has been seen with Miss Frederick in most of her Armand Cortez, Alice Hollister and recent productions, Frank de Rheim, Maude Turner Gordon.

A new Christie comedy will also be seen with the above attraction, and special music by the Allen Paramount concert orchestra.

MISS CURZON
of the Curzon Sisters at Pantages next week.

Talent Galore

A new Christie comedy will also be seen with the above attraction, and special music by the Allen Paramount concert orchestra.

Talent Galore at the Pantages Coming week

A great variety of talent will be offered at the Pantages theater commencing with the matinee next Monday afternoon, when the new program of vaudeville will be seen for the first time.

Henry Bellitt is responsible for the headline attraction which is called "The New Producer," and is described as being a grand opera cocktail, featuring Bertram Peacock, Blanche Morrison and Albert Parr, assisted by a metropolitan chorus of splendid voices The "New Producer" is a novelty introducing some remarkable singing and dancing in a novel manner. The scene is taking place at rehearsal when the director is trying out some new people; a splendid bit of entertainment that is replete with remarkable artistic features.

Harry Cotemen, the 20th century ventriloquist, will offer a comedy number in which he introduces his famous international walking doll of which he is the inventor; a very amusing offering.

Morgan and Wiser will present something different; they are billed as comedy boomerang hat throwers; to describe the offering of these two boys is impossible as some of their tricks are baffling to say the least.

Harry Devine and Belle Williams will present a rollicking comedy number entitled "The Traveling Salesman and the Female Drummer," which is choke full of bright patter and clever repartee.

The Curzon sisters known as the original flying butterflies, will offer their inimitable dancing and flying exhibition in a most artistic manner.

The Universal Current Events will present the latest happenings of the world, while a comedy motion picture will complete a most promising program of unequaqlled vaudeville, that is sure to please immensely.

Pauline Frederick at the Allen Wed. and Thur.

Those who saw Geraldine Farrar, the celebrated prima donna, in the Jesse W. Lasky photodramatic version of her famous opera "Carmen," have another treat in store when she appears in "Temptation" at the Allen Monday and Tuesday.

As Carmen, Miss Farrar was seen as the fascinating, half-wild, wholly cruel, heartless gypsy. In "Temptation", written especially for her by Hector Turnbull, she is seen in a totally different characterization—that of a true and sympathetic sweetheart of a poor composer. It is a Paramount picture.

As Renee Dupree, the cafe singer, who is offered the triumphs and glories of an operatic career, but spurns them rather than lose her sweetheart's love, this brilliant woman is seen at her best. Gone is the thirst for excitement, the shrug and smirk of the adventuress, and instead is a deep affection, sympathy and respect of a sincere woman. Miss Farrar showed her wonderful ability as a dramatic actress in "Carmen" and she is still more wonderful in "The Temptation."

Supporting the prima donna is a cast of careful selection and unusual excellence. Pedro de Cordoba, the man who will be remembered for his brilliant performance of the toreador in "Carmen," is seen as the young composer in love with Renee. In this role, de Cordoba is given ample opportunity to display the talent which has made him one of the foremost young artists upon the American stage. Being a foreigner, de Cordoba is able to place all of the finesse and temperament of the Latin in his delineation of the struggling musical genius.

That distinguished dramatic artist, Theodore Roberts, as Otto Muller, the impresario, is seen in one of the best characterizations in which he has appeared since he has been with the Lasky company. Those who have followed Mr. Roberts in his stage and screen career, know what to expect and it is enough to say that they will not be disappointed.

As Madame Naroff, Elsie Jane Wilson, Muller's discarded plaything, has a part exactly suited to her wonderful emotional ability.

The remainder of the cast is of the usual Lasky excellence. As in "Carmen" nothing has been spared on the production. The scenes in the opera house are correct in detail and magnificent in scope.

In addition to this powerful attraction will also be shown Fatty Arbuckle's latest ide-splitting two-reel comedy entitled "A Reckless Romeo." The terrible secret in the otherwise unblemished life of "Fatty" Arbuckle, motion picture's mightiest minstrel of mirth, is that in his early youth he was a inger. His fond parents, never supecting in those days that their young hopeful was destined to become one of the highest salaried fun-makers the world will ever know.

"Poppy" will be Seen at the Allen July 16-17

Kept prisoner in a magnificent home in South Africa, a young woman wanders out into the garden on a moonlit, tropical night. A young man, stricken with jungle fever and half delirious, eludes his servants, and in his aimless roaming of the streets, finds his way into the retreat, the gate of which has been inadvertently left unlocked. The two fall in love at sight, and part after one ecstatic hour, not learning each other's names. The man is taken back to his bed, and for weeks is unconscious, in his terrific fight for life. When he recovers, the vision of the girl in the garden seems only a part of his delirium. This is one of the several important situations in "Poppy" a big Selnick-Pictures production which will be the feature attraction at the Allen July 16 and 17.

The star of this photodrama is Miss Norma Talmadge, whose recent success, "Panthea" and "The Law of Compensation" have placed her in the front rank of screen favorites. The story is taken from a play by Ben Teal and John P. Ritter, which is based upon the popular novel by Cynthia Stockley. It is directed by Edward Jose, who formerly lived in South Africa and has given the scenes a strongly realistic flavor.

Miss Talmadge, as Poppy Destin, appears first as a poor maltreated waif, he runs away from home and is befriended by Abinger, who later marries her, the ceremony being performed in French, and Poppy told that it is merely a formal adoption.

Abinger keeps his secret until Poppy reaching womanhood, demands that she be permitted to make outside acquaintances, as she is kept a prisoner in Abinger's home. She falls in love with another man, and then learns that she is the wife of Abinger. How she carries out her determination to make her own way in the world, and finally returns to face both men who have come into her life, and win her happiness, forms a fascinating and dramatic story. The scenes are laid in South Africa, and are unique and beautiful in the extreme.

ALLEN THEATRE

Concert Orchestra
Today Only

LOUISE HUFF & JACK PICKFORD
THE STELLAR COMBINATION OF THE SCREEN
—in—
"FRECKLES"
ALSO OTHER ATTRACTIONS

MONDAY and TUESDAY
JESSE L. LASKY PRESENTS
GERALDINE FARRAR
THE FAMOUS GRAND OPERA ON METROPOLITAN STAR
—in—
"Temptation"
FAMOUS ARTISTE, WHO CREATED SUCH A SENSATION IN "JOAN THE WOMAN," ENACTS ROLE OF A GREAT OPERA SINGER, SHOWING THE LIFE BEHIND THE SCENES OF A GREAT OPERA COMPANY, AND TRUE INCIDENTS DEPICTED IN THIS POWERFUL PHOTOPLAY

EXTRA ADDED ATTRACTION
FATTY ARBUCKLE
in
"A RECKLESS ROMEO"
HIS LATEST COMEDY RIOT BY HIS OWN COMPANY

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY
Pauline Frederick
THE SCREEN'S FOREMOST EMOTIONAL STAR
in
"HER BETTER SELF"
A THRILLING STORY OF HEART APPEAL AND SACRIFICE

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
Sessue Hayakaway
in
"THE JAGUAR'S CLAWS"
THE FAMOUS JAPANESE STAR

COMING SOON— —COMING SOON
NORMA TALMADGE in "POPPY"

Grand

One Big Week Commencing MON. JULY 9
Matinees Wednesday, Friday and Saturday

THE SUPER MIND
CUNNING
The Man Who Knows
And His Company of Modern Wonder Workers
The Greatest Mystery Show on Earth

MR. CUNNING

Nights 25c and 50c Few at 75c

Special Matinee on Friday for LADIES ONLY Girls under 16 not admitted

Matinees All Seats 25c

NO MOVING PICTURES USED

PRINCESS

PHONE M1944
"Where Everybody Goes"

Don't Miss
"THE COUNTRY STORE"
Every Tuesday Night

A Gigantic Amateur Contest
Every Thursday Night

"The Voice on the Wire"
And a splendid Week-end Program every Friday and Saturday.

GERTRUDE MOODY
MILLER EVANS

VILLE

EN
EN TRE

Concert Orchestra
Orchestra Concert Orchestra
Today Only

JACK PICKFORD
ATION OF THE SCREEN
—
KLES" ATTRACTIONS

Y and TUESDAY
LDINE
RAR
THE FAMOUS GRAND OPERA ON METROPOLITAN STAR
—
tation"

ATED SUCH A SENSATION IN TS ROLE OF A GREAT OPERA FE BEHIND THE SCENES OF NY, AND TRUE INCIDENTS
OWERFUL PHOTOPLAY

D ATTRACTION
RBUCKLE
—
SS ROMEO"
OT BY HIS OWN COMPANY

AND THURSDAY
"HER BETTER SELF"
EART APPEAL AND SACRIFICE

D SATURDAY
"THE JAGUAR'S CLAWS"
JAPANESE STAR
—COMING SOON
DGE in "POPPY"

is merely a formal adoption.

Abinger keeps his secret until Poppy reaching womanhood, demands that she be permitted to make outside acquaintances, as she is kept a prisoner in Abinger's home. She falls in love with another man, and then learns that she is the wife of Abinger. How she carries out her determination to make her own way in the world, and finally returns to face both men who have come into her life, and win her happiness, forms a fascinating and dramatic story. The scenes are laid in South Africa, and are unique and beautiful in the extreme.

PRINCESS
PHONE M1944
"Where Everybody Goes"

Don't Miss
"THE COUNTRY STORE"
Every Tuesday Night

A Gigantic Amateur Contest
Every Thursday Night

"The Voice on the Wire"
And a splendid Week-end Program every Friday and Saturday.

GERTRUDE MOODY
MILLER EVANS

Society Circle

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. J. Christie has returned from a short stay at Banff.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lowes are leaving for Banff in a few days.

• • •

Mr. S. Diamond, of Banff, spent a few days in the city last week.

• • •

Hon. L. B. Lucas has arrived in the city on his way to Vancouver.

• • •

Mrs. W. McD. Tait and family have gone east for the summer.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Jones will spend the summer at Gull Lake.

• • •

Mrs. J. E. Lethbridge will leave in a few days for the maritime provinces.

• • •

Dr. and Mrs. A. O. MacRae have left for Vancouver to spend the summer.

• • •

Mrs. H. F. Mustard has left for Chicago and will be there for some time.

• • •

Mrs. J. A. Millican entertained at tea the past week for a few visiting friends.

• • •

Hon. A. J. McLean was in the city Wednesday from Edmonton and left on Thursday for Taber.

• • •

The new superintendent of the Y. W. C. A., Miss Mabel Witner, has arrived and taken charge.

• • •

Mrs. and Miss Woodhall left the middle of the week for their holidays to be spent at the coast.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. D. Anderson, South Calgary, have returned after a several weeks' trip to the coast.

• • •

Miss Minnie Gallay, who has been in charge of a public school at Little Gem, arrived home this morning.

• • •

Mrs. L. F. Clarry and family have gone east for their holidays. Mr. Clarry will follow during the month.

• • •

Miss Marie Beatty has returned from Guelph to spend the summer with her mother, Mrs. J. E. Wright.

• • •

Mr. R. J. Lydiatt is expected home the first of the week after a business trip to the south and eastern points.

• • •

Mr. S. Grinker has been elected at Winnipeg on July 4 as a member of the Zionist council for western Canada.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Hutchinson, of Montreal, are in the city for a few days and are registered at the Palliser.

• • •

Mr. Louis Bromberg, who has been visiting friends in Vancouver and Seattle for the past two months, has returned home.

• • •

Dr. E. W. Coffin, principal of the Calgary normal school, has left for Edmonton where he will be a member of the staff of the summer school at the university.

• • •

Major Clarence Lougheed is ordered to report to headquarters in Quebec the end of the month if his health will permit.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. George Christie announces the early marriage of their daughter Kathleen to Mr. Frank Burnett, of High River.

• • •

General Neil, of the British remount commission, and Lieut.-Col. George Carruthers, of Winnipeg, are spending a few days in Calgary.

• • •

Mr. Justice McCarthy has left for Toronto where his daughters are attending school, and he will bring them with him, on returning.

Many merry parties are spending the week-end at Banff including Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Carson, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Reid, Lady and Miss Lougheed, and many other Calgarians.

• • •

Mr. H. W. Wood, of the Alberta Farmers' organization, has been summoned to Ottawa. It is rumored he will be offered a cabinet position.

• • •

The friends of Lieut. Pat Allen will be pleased to learn that he is rapidly recovering his general health at Banff although it is with regret we state that his recovery from the shell shock is extremely doubtful.

• • •

Mr. C. E. Leppard, principal of Ramsay school, and Mr. R. F. B. Johnson, principal of Mount Royal public school, have gone to Kingston, Ont., to attend the summer's school at Queen's university.

• • •

Miss Katherine Stinson was the recipient of much attention from the social leaders and the crack organizations during her short stay in Calgary. Mr. and Mrs. Lent had her as guest of honor likewise the Rotary club and many others.

WEDDINGS

A very pretty wedding took place Wednesday, uJly 4, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Newcombe, 1236 Twelfth avenue west, when their daughter Laura Jessie was united in marriage with Mr. Alexander Cameron Mackenzie, of Kincardine, Ont., Rev. J. Austin Huntley, pastor of the First Baptist church, performing the ceremony. At 3 o'clock the wedding march was played by Miss Hilda Newcombe and the bride was escorted to the parlor by her father where the groom was awaiting. Mr. Fred Newcombe acted as groomsman and Miss Lena Newcombe as bridesmaid. The bride was prettily attired in a dress of ivory duchess satin trimmed with Georgette crepe, with bridal veil draped with lilies of the valley. She wore a pearl necklace, gift of the groom, and carried a beautiful bouquet of bridal roses. The bridesmaid wore a dress of nile green messaline silk trimmed with lace and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The bride's traveling coat was of corded silk, deep heliotrope, and her hat was of white satin. The happy couple left on the 5:20 train for the mountains where they will spend their honeymoon.

Miss Newcombe was a member of the First Baptist church choir and of various classes in the church from all of which she received beautiful presents. Mr. Mackenzie was vice-principal of the Normal Teachers' Training school. The wedding party consisted of the family and immediate friends.

DEATHS

SHANLEY—On Monday, July 2, Anna Moore Stanley, aged 22 years, beloved daughter of Mrs. Ida Shanley, of Montreal, Que., and niece of Mrs. J. S. Dennis, of 640 Twelfth avenue west. The remains were forwarded from Harrison & Foster's undertaking parlors.

WALLACE—On July 3, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Mina Daley, 2122 First avenue northwest, Margaret Lindsay Wallace, aged 79 years, widow of the late Noble Wallace. Funeral services will be held at A. M. Shaver's funeral chapel.

LEE—One of the pioneers of the west, William H. Lee died at his home on Twelfth avenue the past week. Mr. Lee was married, his widow being Mrs. Clara Harriet Lee, two daughters, Mrs. B. E. Atkinson at home, Mrs. Newton Wallis in England, and two sons, Lieut. S. J. Lee of the Royal Flying Corps, in France, and J. Roy Lee, a trooper of the 15th Light Horse, overseas draft, in Calgary.

Woman's Fashions in the War

Ever since the war began, there has been a reflection of military styles, for fashion makers turn to history, present and past, to gain inspiration for pleasing modes.

If this were all the influence that the war were to have on the garments worn by women, it would scarcely be worth noticing, for it would be of a more or less passing nature. But as a matter of fact, it is a safe prediction that the great world war will have a permanent and beneficial influence upon woman's dress throughout the civilized world.

Dress reform has never been taken seriously. Now, however, when women are being called upon to do the work of men in so many cases, and when that work must be done properly and economically, both in point of materials and time, the question of the right kind of dress is of first importance.

In the British Isles alone no less than 3,219,000 women are employed outside their own homes. Upon the accuracy and speed of these women workers much depends. Practically the same conditions prevail in all of the other nations engaged in the conflict. Once a sensible working uniform has been found and universally adopted, it will not be lightly discarded.

At the Allen, Friday and Saturday

Some clever individual has already devised a very good looking overall for women which is known as "Feminals." The garment is made of sanitary, washable materials. It is quite full, is comfortable to wear, and modest in appearance. It can be worn with or without a short skirt according to the task.

After all it is an ill wind that blows no one any good and whereas we are perfectly willing to have military braid and buttons and metal tissues on our best gowns, it is sensible and practical to wear garments which will give the greatest freedom of working movement and make necessary tasks a joy rather than a burden. Imagine a man gardening in long skirts!

Public sentiment has much to do with fashions and the woman who would go along the street today dragging a train behind her, wearing an enormous hoop skirt, or bristling crinoline, with wasp-waist bodice and skintight sleeves, would be stared at as mentally unbalanced. Reasonably short skirts and comfortable clothes have come to stay. If the war brings us an approved working uniform for women, it will have accomplished something worth-while for the further emancipation of women from foolish custom!

VARIED ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN

Boston is to have women conductors on its elevated and street cars.

Mrs. R. E. Darbee, who has several acres of violets under cultivation in Colman, Cal., is known as America's leading violet grower.

Mlle. Cheng, who has just passed the final examination at the Paris University Law school, is the first Chinese woman lawyer.

Besides giving her three sons to the colors and her daughter to the Red Cross, Mrs. Esther Gaddes, of Atlanta, Ga., has herself gone to the Charleston navy yard to run a sewing machine for Uncle Sam.

During the absence of her husband, who has been called to the colors, Mrs. F. A. Savage will take his place as general agent of an insurance company in Baltimore.

A call for women volunteers for work as street car conductors was issued recently by City Traction Commissioners Sanders of Cleveland, O.

The first woman "flagman" in New Albany, Ind., is Miss Marie Travers, who has begun her duties at the Baltimore and Ohio crossing.

For the first time in history one of the greatest English religious societies has elected a woman president, Mrs. Barrow Cadbury having been made president of the Sunday School union, which has nearly 400,000 members.

Miss Kathleen Burke is a London girl whose great success in Red Cross relief work has won for her in England the sigularly fitting title of effection "Knight of Tenderness and Pity." Every one of her four medals has been nobly earned by splendid performance. She is the first alien woman to receive from Rpssia the decoration of the Slavonic Red Cross. By her eloquence she raised more than a million dollars in this country for the Scottish women's hospitals of Serbia and France.

Lieut. E. L. Hoffman, stationed at the army aviation camp on North island, California, and James Urquhart of San Diego arrived in the latter city last week with the news that they had made a new road record for motorcycle and side car in a twenty-four hour run. The two rode on a twenty-four mile circular stretch of road near El Centro, making 963 miles.

Etiquette For the Boy and Girl Graduate

This being the season for school and college graduations, a few words as to the etiquette of this ceremonial are not out of place. The increasing tendency to extravagance and display, which has been a national characteristic for the last quarter of a century, has affected the rites of commencement day. From the few flowers given nineteenth century the custom has grown to enormous dimensions and developed undue importance. Handsome and expensive gifts frequently take the place of flowers and the spirit of emulation and rivalry among the young recipients is an unfortunate outgrowth.

Now, on the threshold as we are of one of the nation's greatest, most formidable crises, is the time to reintroduce the old simplicity. If your heart impels you to express affection and admiration to the young girl graduate, send flowers, and flowers only, and these of the less expensive varieties. You've no idea how much can be expressed by such a gift, especially if it be accompanied by a few appreciative lines or a verse, original or quoted.

Try to put personality, not purse, into your gifts of all kinds, for birthdays, brides, etc., from now on.

The graduation attire for the college or school girl should be governed by the same impulse which makes her tributes less spectacular. This has the immediate result of putting the student with little money on the same footing as the one with much, and helps in the great movement for world democratization, which, between you and me, is one of the deep, underlying currents in this world conflict. So you, my young friend on the threshold of life, are helping in the great struggle when you do youh bit to abolish the extravagance and show incident to graduation day by discouraging expensive gifts and encouraging inexpensive attire.

AMBITION

Unless a business man hopes to better his condition, for the sake of his family, himself and his pride, he is content to go through his work like an automatic machine.

CRY OF THE NATIONS

O Lord of Sky and Sea and Land!
Who hold'st the fragile lives of men
Within the hollow of Thy hand
To crush or to let live again!
In mercy let Thine edict come
That war's red crime forever cease!
For blighted love and ruined home
In pity speak! "Let there be peace!"

O Lord of Earth and Sky and Sea!
Who sheltered within Thy hand
The thing that Thou hast made to be!
That men may see and understand,
Let Hatred die, give Love increase!
O God of all, let there be peace!

—ALAN PAGE.

OSTEOPATHY

A physician does not furnish the energy with which living bodies fight disease; his function is to supply the conditions under which health-producing forces will be evolved, and to control, guide and direct them. Physicians should be teachers and not wise lookers. It has been the a'm of a great many to make their patients believe that they carried in their case just the chemical or the pill which could be swallowed and immediately restoration would be the result. The chemical in the form of anti-toxins or anti-body or physical resistance must be manufactured by the body tissue and not by a drug distiller.

Osteopathic treatment is the establishment of the harmonious relationship and action of all the tissues, forces and fluids of the body, which necessarily results in better organic functioning and consequent health.

WAYSIDE THOUGHTS

We wonder which species of the donkeys enjoyed themselves the most —those that ran in the races or those that drove?

• • •

"Cappy" Smart certainly looked well content with life as he rolled back in the big chair on the judges' stand and surveyed the crowd in the grand stand.

• • •

We don't know which is the most gallant at the summer show—like Ruttle, Fred Johnston or President Dewey, but we do know which is the most popular with the fair sexes. Ask us.

• • •

He was only [illegible] and his pay was only about [illegible] dollars a day. He sat on a bale of hay, took out his pipe, filled it with tobacco, then quietly struck a match and lit it. And there was a million dollars worth of livesock within a stone's throw of him. Should he be forgiven for his ignorance?

Some say they are coming too fast these tag-days, but somehow we all seem to have just as much money to spend for pleasure after contributing our little "might" to the tin boxes and think what great relief our little contributions are doing to help the needy. No, never too fast.

• • •

If there was a man who stood on the sidewalk and watched the boys in khaki pass on Dominion day, marching to the tune of our national anthem, with the wind flaunting the red, white and blue emblem over their heads and did not feel a tightening of the heart-strings—he was no true Canadian, that's all.

• • •

And for weeks and months we have passed him and spoken cheerily to him, all the time wondering why he did not join the colors and lo, and behold, there he was on Dominion day as buoyant as a stripling, in his beautiful khaki suit, marching along in the procession like a veteran. Didn't you feel cheap?

• • •

He gives us many enjoyable days during the year but the one day of days he makes stand out pre-eminently above all others is Dominion day because he gives us some place to go that is different and where we can thoroughly enjoy ourselves. And yet we hardly give him a thought. But his name is E. L. Richardson and he is the man responsible for thousands of Calgarians' pleasure at Victoria park on that day. So give him a silent thank-thought. Perhaps it may reach him.

Why not be particular about your principal food supply?

PURE MILK

is desired by everyone. You are invited to inspect our plant and satisfy yourself as to the quality of our Goods.

CARLYLE DAIRY CO.

Telephone Main 4686.

RAINCOATS

Natty Designs—Not Only Showerproof but Suitable for Cool Evenings—See Our Window
SPECIAL PRICES DURING FAIR WEEK
$14.40 to $16.10
Made-to-Measure Clothes for Men. At the Service of Calgary Men for 16 Years
A. S. NIMMO
Alberta Corner, First Street West

The Masters' Piano

is musically and mechanically as near perfection as human ingenuity can get. Unsurpassed for DURABILITY, TOUCH and QUALITY of tone.

It contains more real value for every dollar invested than any other piano in Canada.

Without doubt the finest talking machine on the market is the

Phonola

It is made in Canada and contains many new and exclusive features.

Visit our booth at Calgary Exhibition or our store and be convinced.

Alberta Piano Co.

130 Eighth Ave. W. Phone M3596 Calgary
Head Office: Masters Piano Co., Edmonton

WAYSIDE THOUGHTS

WAYSIDE THOUGHTS

Ezy-Way Glycerine Washing Tablets

Use Two EZY-WAY GLYCERINE WASHING TABLETS to your usual bath water. It will soften the water, cleanse the pores, and make the skin soft, white and smooth. Why pay high prices for Turkish baths when you can get the same results at home with the Ezy-Way Glycerine Washing Tablets? The secret of good health is poral elimination. Don't take our word for it; just give it a trial and be your own judge. It will surprise and delight you.

Washes dirtiest clothes in from 10 to 15 minutes with very little rubbing, makes the clothes white as snow without blueing. Ezy-Way contains no paraffin wax, lye, lime, potash or other injurious chemicals. Ezy-Way will not cause the slightest injury to skin or the finest fabric. We ask you to get a free sample and give it a trial. If out of City send five cents to pay postage and packing and you will receive sample by return mail. Our guarantee, money back if not pleased, no questions asked. Agents wanted. This is the real thing, so get a-hold of a live wire.

EZY-WAY MFG. CO.
115 Fifth Ave. West Phone M1663

A. L. HESS
MAKER OF HIGH-GRADE
- PORTRAITS -
Your Friends Can Buy Anything You Can Give Them — Except Your Photograph.
124 Eighth Avenue East
Calgary, Alberta
Phone M3885

SLAVIN HAIR GROWER
The only preparation on the market that will Positively Cure Dandruff, Falling Hair, and Grow Hair on Bald Heads. Endorsed by scores of Calgary people.
PRICE $1.00 PER BOX
With Full Instructions.
319 BRUNER BLOCK

Calgary Furniture Hospital
We Will Trade Good Furniture for Old or Damaged, or Pay Highest Cash Prices.
We invite those who have not dealt here, to visit us, and give us an opportunity to show you what we do for our customers.
1312 First St. W. Phone M4078

The Elbow Shop
SHOE REPAIRING
An Expert Shoemaker at Your Service. "Quality and Satisfaction," our motto.
1120A FIRST ST. WEST

THE BEATON
Hairdressing & Shampoo and Manicure Parlors
Satisfied Customers Secret of Our Success.
1009 First Street W. Phone M2153

WM. S. PARK
Maker of PHOTOGRAPHS
218A EIGHTH AVENUE WEST
Phone, Main 6489 Calgary, Alta.

SMITH'S
PLEATING and BUTTON WORKS
606A First St. W., Calgary
Phone M3464
Hemstitching Hemming Picot Edging Button Holes Made Chain Stitching
We are specialists in our line, and can turn out your work quickly and well. All Work Guaranteed.
Local Manager: F. O. Barnard

New York Dress Shop

Mrs. Brennand is now located at 210 Eighth Avenue East, where you will find a complete line of Ladies' Suits and Coats, from some of the leading Houses in New York.

The material in these fabrics is of the best quality money can buy, and at less than half the cost. In order that you may be able to appreciate these goods, it will be necessary for you to call and inspect our wide range of samples in sizes ranging from 34 to 44.

210 Eighth Ave. E. Phone M3472

Freshwater Sea Voyage
(Through the Great Lakes)

From Thunder Bay to Georgian Bay—a six hundred mile trip from Fort William and Port Arthur—through the blue-green waters of Lake Superior, Sault Ste. Marie, Lake Huron, and the island fairyland of the Georgian Bay.

At times out-o'-sight of land with only a vista of tumbling green waters and wheeling seagulls. Again through green embowered passages of wonderful loveliness. Luxurious

CANADIAN PACIFIC
Great Lakes Steamships

Splendid service, excellent food, all at moderate cost. Alternative for all Transcontinental Passengers.
Canadian Pacific Standard—None Better.
For full information call, phone or write any Canadian Pacific Agent.
R. DAWSON
District Passenger Agent, Calgary

VILLE

EN | Concert Orchestra
ATRE | Today Only

JACK PICKFORD
NATION OF THE SCREEN
-in-CKLES"
R ATTRACTIONS

Y and TUESDAY
ALDINE THE FAMOUS GRAND OPERA ON METROPOLITAN STAR RRAR
-intation"
EATED SUCH A SENSATION IN CTS ROLE OF A GREAT OPERA
IFE BEHIND THE SCENES OF ANY, AND TRUE INCIDENTS POWERFUL PHOTOPLAY

ED ATTRACTION
ARBUCKLE
in ESS ROMEO"
OT BY HIS OWN COMPANY

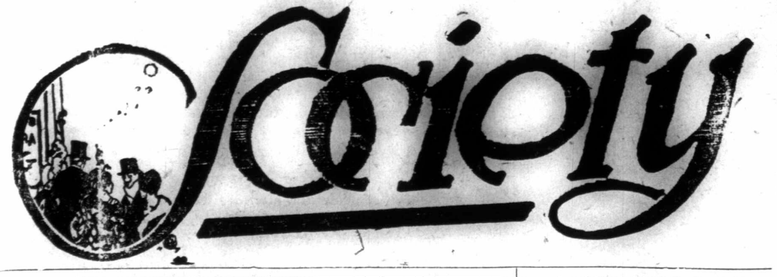
AND THURSDAY
K
"HER BETTER SELF"
HEART APPEAL AND SACRIFICE

ND SATURDAY
"THE JAGUAR'S CLAWS"
JAPANESE STAR

—COMING SOON
ADGE in "POPPY"

is merely a formal adoption.

Abinger keeps his secret until Poppy reaching womanhood, demands that she be permitted to make outside acquaintances, as she is kept a prisoner in Abinger's home. She falls in love with another man, and then learns that she is the wife of Abinger. How she carries out her determination to make her own way in the world, and finally returns to face both men who have come into her life, and win her happiness, forms a fascinating and dramatic story. The scenes are laid in South Africa, and are unique and beautiful in the extreme.



PRINCESS
PHONE M1944
"Where Everybody Goes"

Don't Miss
"THE COUNTRY STORE"
Every Tuesday Night

A Gigantic Amateur Contest
Every Thursday Night

"The Voice on the Wire"
And a splendid Week-end Program every Friday and Saturday.

GERTRUDE MOODY
MILLER EVANS

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. J. Christie has returned from a short stay at Banff.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lowes are leaving for Banff in a few days.

* * *

Mr. S. Diamond, of Banff, spent a few days in the city last week.

* * *

Hon. I. B. Lucas has arrived in the city on his way to Vancouver.

* * *

Mrs. W. McD. Tait and family have gone east for the summer.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Jones will spend the summer at Gull Lake.

* * *

Mrs. J. E. Lethbridge will leave in a few days for the maritime provinces.

* * *

Dr. and Mrs. A. O. MacRae have left for Vancouver to spend the summer.

* * *

Mrs. H. F. Mustard has left for Chicago and will be there for some time.

* * *

Mrs. J. A. Millican entertained at tea the past week for a few visiting friends.

* * *

Hon. A. J. McLean was in the city Wednesday from Edmonton and left on Thursday for Taber.

* * *

The new superintendent of the Y. W. C. A., Miss Mabel Witner, has arrived and taken charge.

* * *

Mrs. and Miss Woodhall left the middle of the week for their holidays to be spent at the coast.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. D. Anderson, South Calgary, have returned after a several weeks' trip to the coast.

* * *

Miss Minnie Gallay, who has been in charge of a public school at Little Gem, arrived home this morning.

* * *

Mrs. L. F. Clarry and family have gone east for their holidays. Mr. Clarry will follow during the month.

* * *

Miss Marie Beatty has returned from Guelph to spend the summer with her mother, Mrs. J. E. Wright.

* * *

Mr. R. J. Lydiatt is expected home the first of the week after a business trip to the south and eastern points.

* * *

Mr. S. Grinker has been elected at Winnipeg on July 4 as a member of the Zionist council for western Canada.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Hutchinson, of Montreal, are in the city for a few days and are registered at the Palliser.

* * *

Mr. Louis Bromberg, who has been visiting friends in Vancouver and Seattle for the past two months, has returned home.

* * *

Dr. E. W. Coffin, principal of the Calgary normal school, has left for Edmonton where he will be a member of the staff of the summer school at the university.

* * *

Major Clarence Lougheed is ordered to report to headquarters in Quebec the end of the month if his health will permit.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. George Christie announces the early marriage of their daughter Kathleen to Mr. Frank Burnett, of High River.

* * *

General Neil, of the British remount commission, and Lieut.-Col. George Carruthers, of Winnipeg, are spending a few days in Calgary.

* * *

Mr. Justice McCarthy has left for Toronto where his daughters are attending school, and he will bring them with him, on returning.

Many merry parties are spending the week-end at Banff including Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Carson, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Reid, Lady and Miss Lougheed, and many other Calgarians.

* * *

Mr. H. W. Wood, of the Alberta Farmers' organization, has been summoned to Ottawa. It is rumored he will be offered a cabinet position.

* * *

The friends of Lieut. Pat Allen will be pleased to learn that he is rapidly recovering his general health at Banff although it is with regret we state that his recovery from the shell shock is extremely doubtful.

* * *

Mr. C. E. Leppard, principal of Ramsay school, and Mr. R. F. B. Johnson, principal of Mount Royal public school, have gone to Kingston, Ont., to attend the summer's school at Queen's university.

* * *

Miss Katherine Stinson was the recipient of much attention from the social leaders and the crack organizations during her short stay in Calgary. Mr. and Mrs. Lent had her as guest of honor likewise the Rotary club and many others.

WEDDINGS

A very pretty wedding took place Wednesday, uJly 4, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Newcombe, 1236 Twelfth avenue west, when their daughter Laura Jessie was united in marriage with Mr. Alexander Cameron Mackenzie, of Kincardine, Ont., Rev. J. Austin Huntley, pastor of the First Baptist church, performing the ceremony. At 3 o'clock the wedding march was played by Miss Hilda Newcombe and the bride was escorted to the parlor by her father where the groom was awaiting. Mr. Fred Newcombe acted as groomsman and Miss Lena Newcombe as bridesmaid. The bride was prettily attired in a dress of ivory duchess satin trimmed with Georgette crepe, with bridal veil draped with lilies of the valley. She wore a pearl necklace, gift of the groom, and carried a beautiful bouquet of bridal roses. The bridesmaid wore a dress of nile green messaline silk trimmed with lace and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The bride's traveling coat was of corded silk, deep heliotrope, and her hat was of white satin. The happy couple left on the 5:20 train for the mountains where they will spend their honeymoon.

Miss Newcombe was a member of the First Baptist church choir and of various classes in the church from all of which she received beautiful presents. Mr. Mackenzie was vice-principal of the Normal Teachers' Training school. The wedding party consisted of the family and immediate friends.

DEATHS

SHANLEY—On Monday, July 2, Anna Moore Stanley, aged 22 years, beloved daughter of Mrs. Ida Shanley, of Montreal, Que., and niece of Mrs. J. S. Dennis, of 640 Twelfth avenue west. The remains were forwarded from Harrison & Foster's undertaking parlors.

WALLACE—On July 3, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Mina Daley, 2122 First avenue northwest, Margaret Lindsay Wallace, aged 79 years, widow of the late Noble Wallace. Funeral services will be held at A. M. Shaver's funeral chapel.

LEE—One of the pioneers of the west, William H. Lee died at his home on Twelfth avenue the past week. Mr. Lee was married, his widow being Mrs. Clara Harriet Lee, two daughters, Mrs. B. E. Atkinson at home, Mrs. Newton Wallis in England, and two sons, Lieut. S. J. Lee of the Royal Flying Corps, in France, and J. Roy Lee, a trooper of the 15th Light Horse, overseas draft, in Calgary.

Woman's Fashions - in the War

Ever since the war began, there has been a reflection of military styles, for fashion makers turn to history, present and past, to gain inspiration for pleasing modes.

If this were all the influence that the war were to have on the garments worn by women, it would scarcely be worth noticing, for it would be of a more or less passing nature. But as a matter of fact, it is a safe prediction that the great world war will have a permanent and beneficial influence upon woman's dress throughout the civilized world.

Dress reform has never been taken seriously. Now, however, when women are being called upon to do the work of men in so many cases, and when that work must be done properly and economically, both in point of materials and time, the question of the right kind of dress is of first importance.

In the British Isles alone no less than 3,219,000 women are employed outside their own homes. Upon the accuracy and speed of these women workers much depends. Practically the same conditions prevail in all of the other nations engaged in the conflict. Once a sensible working uniform has been found and universally

SESSUE HAYAKAWA
IN THE JAGUAR'S CLAWS
LASKY-PARAMOUNT

At the Allen, Friday and Saturday

adopted, it will not be lightly discarded.

Some clever individual has already devised a very good looking overall for women which is known as "Feminals." The garment is made of sanitary, washable materials. It is quite full, is comfortable to wear, and modest in appearance. It can be worn with or without a short skirt according to the task.

After all it is an ill wind that blows no one any good and whereas we are perfectly willing to have military braid and buttons and metal tissues on our best gowns, it is sensible and practical to wear garments which will give the greatest freedom of working movement and make necessary tasks a joy rather than a burden. Imagine a man gardening in long skirts!

Public sentiment has much to do with fashions and the woman who would go along the street today dragging a train behind her, wearing an enormous hoop skirt, or bristling crinoline, with wasp-waist bodice and skintight sleeves, would be stared at as mentally unbalanced. Reasonably short skirts and comfortable clothes have come to stay. If the war brings us an approved working uniform for women, it will have accomplished something worth-while for the further emancipation of women from foolish custom!

VARIED ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN

Boston is to have women conductors on its elevated and street cars.

Mrs. R. E. Darbee, who has several acres of violets under cultivation in Colman, Cal., is known as America's leading violet grower.

Mlle. Cheng, who has just passed the final examination at the Paris University Law school, is the first Chinese woman lawyer.

Besides giving her three sons to the colors and her daughter to the Red Cross, Mrs. Esther Gaddes, of Atlanta, Ga., has herself gone to the Charleston navy yard to run a sewing machine for Uncle Sam.

During the absence of her husband, who has been called to the colors, Mrs. F. A. Savage will take his place as general agent of an insurance company in Baltimore.

A call for women volunteers for work as street car conductors was issued recently by City Traction Commissioners Sanders of Cleveland, O.

The first woman "flagman" in New Albany, Ind., is Miss Marie Travers, who has begun her duties at the Baltimore and Ohio crossing.

For the first time in history one of the greatest English religious societies has elected a woman president, Mrs. Barrow Cadbury having been made president of the Sunday School union which has nearly 400,000 members.

Miss Kathleen Burke is a London girl whose great success in Red Cross relief work has won for her in England the sigularly fitting title of effection "Knight of Tenderness and Pity." Every one of her four medals has been nobly earned by splendid performance. She is the first alien woman to receive from Rpssia the decoration of the Slavonic Red Cross. By her eloquence she raised more than a million dollars in this country for the Scottish women's hospitals of Serbia and France.

Lieut. E. L. Hoffman, stationed at the army aviation camp on North island, California, and James Urquhart of San Diego arrived in the latter city last week with the news that they had made a new road record for motorcycle and side car in a twenty-four hour run. The two rode on a twenty-four mile circular stretch of road near 231 Centro, making 963 miles.

Etiquette For the Boy and Girl Graduate

This being the season for school and college graduations, a few words as to the etiquette of this ceremonial are not out of place. The increasing tendency to extravagance and display, which has been a national characteristic for the last quarter of a century, has affected the rites of commencement day. From the few flowers given nineteenth century the custom has grown to enormous dimensions and developed undue importance. Handsome and expensive gifts frequently take the place of flowers and the spirit of emulation and rivalry among the young recipients is an unfortunate outgrowth.

Now, on the threshold as we are of one of the nation's greatest, most formidable crises, is the time to reintroduce the old simplicity. If your heart impels you to express affection and admiration to the young girl graduate, send flowers, and flowers only, and these of the less expensive varieties. You've no idea how much can be expressed by such a gift, especially if it be accompanied by a few appreciative lines or a verse, original or quoted.

Try to put personality, not purse, into your gifts of all kinds, for birthdays, brides, etc., from now on.

The graduation attire for the college or school girl should be governed by the same impulse which makes her tributes less spectacular. This has the immediate result of putting the student with little money on the same footing as the one with much, and helps in the great movement for world democratization, which, between you and me, is one of the deep, underlying currents in this world conflict. So you, my young friend on the threshold of life, are helping in the great struggle when you do youh bit to abolish the extravagance and show incident to graduation day by discouraging expensive gifts and encouraging inexpensive attire.

AMBITION

Unless a business man hopes to better his condition, for the sake of his family, himself and his pride, he is content to go through his work like an automatic machine.

CRY OF THE NATIONS

O Lord of Sky and Sea and Land!
Who hold'st the fragile lives of men
Within the hollow of Thy hand
To crush or to let live again!
In mercy let Thine edict come
That war's red crime forever cease!
For blighted love and ruined home
In pity speak! "Let there be peace!"

O Lord of Earth and Sky and Sea!
Who sheltered within Thy hand
The thing that Thou hast made to be!
That men may see and understand,
Let Hatred die, give Love increase!
O God of all, let there be peace!

—ALAN PAGE.

OSTEOPATHY

A physician does not furnish the energy with which living bodies fight disease; his function is to supply the conditions under which health-producing forces will be evolved, and to control, guide and direct them. Physicians should be teachers and not wise lookers. It has been the a'm of a great many to make their patients believe that they carried in their case just the chemical or the pill which could be swallowed and immediately restoration would be the result. The chemical in the form of anti-toxins or anti-body or physical resistance must be manufactured by the body tissue and not by a drug distiller.

Osteopathic treatment is the establishment of the harmonious relationship and action of all the tissues, forces and fluids of the body, which necessarily results in better organic functioning and consequent health.

WAYSIDE THOUGHTS

We wonder which species of the donkeys enjoyed themselves the most —those that ran in the races or those that drove?

* * *

"Cappy" Smart certainly looked well content with life as he rolled back in the big chair on the judges' stand and surveyed the crowd in the grand stand.

* * *

We don't know which is the most gallant at the summer show—Ike Ruttle, Fred Johnston or President Dewey, but we do know which is the most popular with the fair sexes. Ask us.

* * *

He was only a hostler and his pay was only about three dollars a day. He sat on a bale of hay, took out his pipe, filled it with tobacco, then quietly struck a match and lit it. And there was a million dollars worth of livesock within a stone's throw of him. Should he be forgiven for his ignorance?

Some say they are coming too fast these tag-days, but somehow we all seem to have just as much money to spend for pleasure after contributing our little "might" to the tin boxes and think what great relief our little contributions are doing to help the needy. No, never too fast.

* * *

If there was a man who stood on the sidewalk and watched the boys in khaki pass on Dominion day, marching to the tune of our national anthem, with the wind flaunting the red, white and blue emblem over their heads and did not feel a tightening of the heart-strings—he was no true Canadian, that's all.

* * *

And for weeks and months we have passed him and spoken cheerily to him, all the time wondering why he did not join the colors and lo, and behold, there he was on Dominion day as buoyant as a stripling, in his beautiful khaki suit, marching along in the procession like a veteran. Didn't you feel cheap?

* * *

He gives us many enjoyable days during the year but the one day of days he makes stand out pre-eminently above all others is Dominion day because he gives us some place to go that is different and where we can thoroughly enjoy ourselves. And yet we hardly give him a thought. But his name is E. L. Richardson and he is the man responsible for thousands of Calgarians' pleasure at Victoria park on that day. So give him a silent thank-thought. Perhaps it may reach him.

Why not be particular about your principal food supply?

PURE MILK

is desired by everyone. You are invited to inspect our plant and satisfy yourself as to the quality of our Goods.

CARLYLE DAIRY CO.

Telephone Main 4686.

RAINCOATS

Natty Designs—Not Only Showerproof but Suitable for Cool Evenings—See Our Window
SPECIAL PRICES DURING FAIR WEEK
$14.40 to $16.10
Made-to-Measure Clothes for Men. At the Service of Calgary Men for 16 Years
A. S. NIMMO
Alberta Corner, First Street West

Ezy-Way Glycerine Washing Tablets

Use Two EZY-WAY GLYCERINE WASHING TABLETS to your usual bath water. It will soften the water, cleanse the pores, and make the skin soft, white and smooth. Why pay high prices for Turkish baths when you can get the same results at home with the Ezy-Way Glycerine Washing Tablets? The secret of good health is poral elimination. Don't take our word for it; just give it a trial and be your own judge. It will surprise and delight you.

Washes dirtiest clothes in from 10 to 15 minutes with very little rubbing, makes the clothes white as snow without bluing. Ezy-Way contains no paraffin wax, lye, lime, potash or other injurious chemicals. Ezy-Way will not cause the slightest injury to skin or the finest fabric. We ask you to get a free sample and give it a trial. If out of City send five cents to pay postage and packing and you will receive sample by return mail. Our guarantee, money back if not pleased, no questions asked. Agents wanted. This is the real thing, so get a-hold of a live wire.

EZY-WAY MFG. CO.
115 Fifth Ave. West Phone M1663

A. L. HESS
MAKER OF HIGH-GRADE
- PORTRAITS -
Your Friends Can Buy Anything You Can Give Them — Except Your Photograph.
124 Eighth Avenue East
Calgary, Alberta
Phone M3885

SLAVIN HAIR GROWER
The only preparation on the market that will Positively Cure Dandruff, Falling Hair, and Grow Hair on Bald Heads. Endorsed by scores of Calgary people.
PRICE $1.00 PER BOX
With Full Instructions.
319 BRUNER BLOCK

Calgary Furniture Hospital
We Will Trade Good Furniture for Old or Damaged, or Pay Highest Cash Prices.
We invite those who have not dealt here, to visit us, and give us an opportunity to show you what we do for our customers.
1312 First St. W. Phone M4078

The Elbow Shop
SHOE REPAIRING
An Expert Shoemaker at Your Service. "Quality and Satisfaction," our motto.
1120A FIRST ST. WEST

THE BEATON
Hairdressing & Shampoo and Manicure Parlors
Satisfied Customers Secret of Our Success.
1009 First Street W. Phone M2153

WM. S. PARK
Maker of PHOTOGRAPHS
218A EIGHTH AVENUE WEST
Phone, Main 6489 Calgary, Alta.

SMITH'S
PLEATING and BUTTON WORKS
606A First St. W., Calgary
Phone M3464
Hemstitching Hemming Picot Edging Button Holes Made Chain Stitching
We are specialists in our line, and can turn out your work quickly and well. All Work Guaranteed.
Local Manager: F. O. Barnard

New York Dress Shop

Mrs. Brennand is now located at 210 Eighth Avenue East, where you will find a complete line of Ladies' Suits and Coats, from some of the leading Houses in New York.

The material in these fabrics is of the best quality money can buy, and at less than half the cost. In order that you may be able to appreciate these goods, it will be necessary for you to call and inspect our wide range of samples in sizes ranging from 34 to 44.

210 Eighth Ave. E. Phone M3472

The Masters' Piano

is musically and mechanically as near perfection as human ingenuity can get. Unsurpassed for DURABILITY, TOUCH and QUALITY of tone.

It contains more real value for every dollar invested than any other piano in Canada.

Without doubt the finest talking machine on the market is the

Phonola

It is made in Canada and contains many new and exclusive features.

Visit our booth at Calgary Exhibition or our store and be convinced.

Alberta Piano Co.

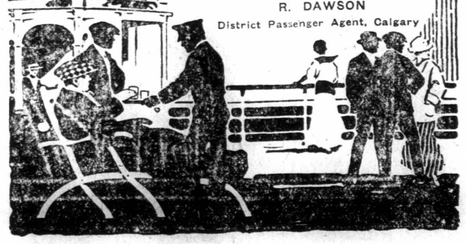
130 Eighth Ave. W. Phone M3596 Calgary
Head Office: Masters Piano Co., Edmonton

AT THE ALLEN, MONDAY AND TUESDAY

Freshwater Sea Voyage
(Through the Great Lakes)

From Thunder Bay to Georgian Bay—a six hundred mile trip from Fort William and Port Arthur—through the blue-green waters of Lake Superior, Sault Ste. Marie, Lake Huron, and the island fairyland of the Georgian Bay.

At times out-o'-sight of land with only a vista of tumbling green waters and wheeling seagulls. Again through green embowered passages of wonderful loveliness. Luxurious



CANADIAN PACIFIC
Great Lakes Steamships

Splendid service, excellent food, all at moderate cost. Alternative for all Transcontinental Passengers.

Canadian Pacific Standard—None Better.

For full information call, phone or write any Canadian Pacific Agent.

R. DAWSON
District Passenger Agent, Calgary

FARMING AND LIVESTOCK

ISLAY FARMER BUYS SOME BLOODED STOCK

J. J. Bell of Islay, attended the auction sale at Bolna Iowa, and made some purchases of Aberdeen-Angus cattle. Mr. Bell bought 30 head in all. Among his purchases was Twin Burn Pride 2nd, a cow rising four years, for which he paid $1,000; Fairland Prima Donna 2nd, for $600; Pure Ito Pride, $780; Kitturah 144,257 for $470; Eurotia Bell 195,461 for $560; Ebeenette 198,293 for $690; Blackbird of Cherokee 44th for $530; Butterfly Lassie 198,188 for $440; Blackbird of Cherokee 47th for $425. These cows and heifers are bred in the purple and will make a valuable addition to the pure breeding stock of Alberta.

U. S. SHIPPED 40,000 HORSES

More than 30,000 horses and 10,000 mules were exported during January. The entente allies have taken more than 1,000,000 horses from this country during the last three years.

FARMERS GETTING MORE MONEY THAN EVER

Washington, D. C.—The level of prices paid producers of principal crops on June 1 was 99.8 per cent. higher than a year ago and 107 per cent. higher than the last nine years' average on that date, the department of agriculture reported. Producers of meat animals on May 15 received 48.4 per cent. more than a year ago and 71 per cent. more than the average price on that date in the last seven years. The composite condition of all crops on June 1 was 5.8 per cent. less than their 10-year average on that date.

ROUTE OF MIXED FARMING TRAIN

The annual mixed farming train is now visiting the various farming points in Alberta. The schedule announced is as follows:

Lacombe Branch C. P. R.
Fleet—July 7, 9 to 12 a.m.
Coronation—July 7, 2 to 5 p.m.
Veteran—July 9, 9 to 12 a.m.
Loyalist—July 9, 2 to 5 p.m.
Consort—July 10, 9 to 12 a.m.
Monitor—July 10, 2 to 5 p.m.
Kirriemuir—July 11, 9 to 12 a.m.
Compeer—July 11, 2 to 5 p.m.

Wetaskiwin Branch C. P. R.
Provost—July 12, 9 to 12 a.m.
Cadogan—July 12, 2 to 5 p.m.
Metiskow—July 13, 9 to 12 a.m.
Czar—July 13, 2 to 5 p.m.
Hughenden—July 14, 9 to 12 a.m.
Amisk—July 14, 2 to 5 p.m.
Hardisty—July 16, 9 to 12 a.m.
Lougheed—July 16, 2 to 5 p.m.
Sedgewick—July 17, 9 to 12 a.m.
Killam—July 17, 2 to 5 p.m.
Strome—July 18, 9 to 12 a.m.
Daysland—July 18, 2 to 5 p.m.
Bawlf—July 19, 9 to 12 a.m.
Camrose—July 19, 2 to 5 p.m.
Arrive Edmonton 9 p.m. July 19.

Dunvegan Line
High Prairie—July 21, 2 to 5 p.m.
Peace River—July 23, 2 to 5 p.m.
Falher—July 24, 2 to 5 p.m.
Spirit River—July 25, 2 to 5 p.m.
Grande Prairie—July 26, 2 to 5 p.m.

This special train will consist of 15 cars, including three cars of cattle, horses, sheep and hogs, to be used for demonstration purposes; other cars will contain exhibits upon which demonstrations and lectures will be given on different phases of agricultural work, live stock and domestic science.

Ladies are specially invited to inspect the train, and everybody is welcome.

PROVINCE OF ALBERTA SAVINGS CERTIFICATES

The deputy provincial treasurer, Edmonton, reports that provincial savings certificates are meeting with a splendid reception from the public. Under this plan one may deposit his savings and be sure of receiving a good interest rate with the solid security of the government behind it. There has been a steady flow of deposits into the provincial treasury, the amounts received from individual investors varying from $5 to sums representing a modest fortune. The averagt daily receipts continue to increase in amount as time goes on, evidencing the growing popularity of the idea. As the savings certificates act was intended primarily for the benefit of residents of the province of Alberta, deposits from outside the province were hardly looked for, but considerable sums have been received from neighboring provinces. The advantage of obtaining 5 per cent. and of being able to withdraw the deposit on demand without any unnecessary formality naturally appeals to investors, especially when interest is allowed for the full time the money remains on deposit, however short it may be. Another attractive feature is the option of having interest compounded half-yearly, or if preferred, of having it forwarded yearly or half-yearly.

Awards at Calgary Exhibition

AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS

Awards in agricultural products have been made as follows:

Hard spring wheat, 1 bushel—1, Giffin Bros.; 2, H. Mackintosh; 3, W. Turner; 4, W. J. Cranston.

Hard winter wheat—1, P. Middlemiss; 2, W. Turner; 3, S. J. Waddell; 4, W. A. Bell.

Soft winter wheat, 1 bushel—1, P. Middlemiss; 2, W. A. Bell.

White oats, 1 bushel—1, Albert Lougheed; 2, James Black; 3, W. J. Cranston; 4, P. Middlemiss.

Six-rowed barley, 1 bushel—1, Albert Lougheed; 2, W. A. Bell.

Two-rowed barley, 1 bushel—1, E. G. Young and Son; 2, W. C. Short; 3, W. A. Bell.

Peas, 1 peck—1, W. Turner; 2, C. Turner; 3, Giffin Bros.

Flax seed, 1 peck—Giffin Bros.

Rye, 1 peck—1, E. J. Young and Son; 2, Wm. Cook; 3, W. A. Bell.

Six-rowed barley, 1 bushel—1, Albert Lougheed.

White oats, 1 bushel—1 Albert Lougheed.

Hard spring wheat, 1 bushel—1, Albert Lougheed.

Sheaf timothy, this year's—1, Jas. Williamson.

Sheaf brome grass, this year's—1, Wm. Cook; 2, W. A. Bell.

Sheaf this year's alfalfa—1, John Cameron; 2, James Williamson; 3, W. A. Bell.

Collection wild grasses, this year's—1, Dan Patton; 2, W. R. Stewart.

Bale of hay—1, Albert Lougheed.

Timothy seed, 1 peck—1, J. H. Grose; 2, W. Grose; 3, W. A. Bell.

Western rye grass, 1 peck—1, W. A. Bell.

Red clover seed, 1 peck—1, Dan Patton.

Millet seed, 1 peck—1, Giffin Bros.; 2, W. A. Bell.

Hops, native, 1 lb.—1, Mrs. Wm. Miller; 2, A. Hutcher.

Six carrots for stock feeding—1, Wm. Cook; 2, Mrs. W. Miller.

Six carrots for domestic use—1, Mrs. W. Miller; 2, Wm. Cook.

One bushel potatoes, any variety—1, Steve C. Swift; 2, J. A. Coulthard; 3, W. Grose.

Collection potatoes, not less than five varieties—1, Wm. Cook.

Bunch asparagus—1, S. J. Waddell; 2, Dan Patton.

Bunch rhubarb—1, W. Grose; 2, Mrs. D. Davidson; 3, Mrs. Kneeshaw.

Collection beets—1, Wm. Cook.

Collection onions—1, Wm. Cook.

Collection vegetables, grown by one exhibitor—1, Wm. Cook.

DAIRY PRODUCTS

Cheese prizes awarded were:

One, factory, white or colored, 70 pounds or over, make of current season—1, C. J. Donnelly, Lambert, Ont.; 2, Mr. Brophy, Olds; 3. A. A. Dunkley, Olds; 4, Walter Hamilton, Calgary; 5, the Woodland Dairy, Ltd., Edmonton; 6, W. F. Oliver, Atwood, Ont.

Two, factory, white or colored, flats or Stilton shape, make of current season—1, C. J. Donnelly, Lambeth, Ont.; 2, A. A. Dunkley, Olds; 3, Walter Hamilton, Calgary; 4, Mr. Brophy, Olds; 5, W. F. Oliver, Atwood, Ont.; 6, Woodland Dairy, Ltd., Edmonton.

Asortment of cheese, factory—1, W. Hamilton, Calgary; 2, Edmonton City Dairy; 3, A. A. Dunkley, Calgary.

Best cheese on exhibition—1, C. J. Donnelly, Lambeth, Ont.

Cheese, farm dairy, full milk cheese, 8 to 10 pounds, make of current season—1, E. Wirth, Kopernick.

Creamery butter results, in which 30 out of 32 awards, went to Alberta, were as follows:

One package, 14 pounds solid pack—1, H. Hanson, Markerville; 2, Carlyle Dairy, Calgary; 3, Co-operative Dairy, Calgary; 4, A. A. Munro, Elnora; 5, W. Hanson, Innisfail; 6, Geo. Nielson, Red Deer; 7, Edmonton City Dairy; 8, Hays' Dairy, Calgary.

One package, 14 pounds solid pack—1, H. Hanson, Markerville; 2, Carlyle Dairy Co., Calgary; 3, Geo. Nielson, Red Deer; 4, P. Pallesen, Mayton; 5, Edmonton City Dairy, Edmonton; 6, Woodland Dairy, Ltd., Edmonton; 7, A. A. Munro, Elnora; 8, G. H. Carter, Moosomin.

One package, 56 pounds solid pack—1, H. Hanson, Markerville; 2, J. J. Skalitzy, Viking; 3, Carlyle Dairy Co., Calgary; 4, Edmonton City Dairy, Wetaskiwin; 5, W. Hanson, Innisfail; 6, P. Pallesen, Olds; 7, Co-operative Dairy, Calgary; 8, Campbell & Griffin, Calgary.

One package, 20 pounds in one pound prints—1, H. Hanson, Markerville; 2, Edmonton City Dairy, Wetaskiwin; 3, W. Hanson, Innisfail; 4, Co-operative Dairy, Calgary; 5, Campbell & Griffin, Calgary; 6, T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg; 7, Hepworth and Trimble, Red Deer; 8, P. Pallesen, Calgary.

Average score in above classes—1, H. Hanson; 2, Carlyle Dairy Co.; 3, Co-operative Dairy.

Farm dairy butter—Farm dairy, 5 pounds in 1 pound prints (13)—1, M. Margaret King, Cochrane; 2, Mrs. J. C. Hunter, Parkland; 3, Mrs. H. Allwood, Parkland; 4, Mrs. E. Corbett, Shouldice Park; 5, M. Hunt, Priddis; 6, Mrs. W. Northcott, jr.; 7, Mrs. H. Hankinson, Cochrane; 8, Mrs. Mitchell, Midnapore.

Package farm dairy, 10 pounds solid pack—1, M. Margaret King; 2, Mrs. H. Hankinson; 3, Miss Lily Livingstone; 4, Mrs. J. J. Martin; 5, A. G. Stewart; 6, Mrs. W. Northcott, jr.; 7, Mrs. Chas. Cote; 8, Mrs. J. H. Roland.

Best average score of exhibits in farm dairy butter—1, Margaret King, Sunset ranch, Cochrane.

EGGS

Awards in eggs were as follows:

One dozen, specials—1, John Cameron, Nightingale; 2, James Williamson, Calgary; 3, Mrs. Northwood, Calgary; 4, E. Northcott, jr., Calgary.

One dozen, extras—1, Wm. Stuckey, De Winton; 2, John Cameron, Nightingale; 3, Mrs. Northwood, Calgary; 4, F. L. Paine, Calgary; 5, A. A. Elkins, Calgary.

One dozen, No. 1—1, John Cameron, Nightingale.

Six dozen specials—1. Wm. Northcott, jr., Calgary; 2, James Williamson, Calgary.

Six dozen extras—1, James Williamson, Calgary; 2, Mrs. Northwood, Calgary; 3, Wm. Northcott, jr., Calgary; 4, John Cameron, Nightingale.

Six dozen No. 1—1, Wm. Northcott, jr.; 2, James Williamson; 3, Wm. Eyers.

One case, 30 dozen, in cartons—1, Wm. Northcott, jr.; 2, P. Pallesen.

Twelve dozen, specials—1, Wm. Northcott, jr.; 2, P. Pallesen.

Twelve dozen, extras—1, W. Northcott, jr.; 2, Reardon Bros.; 3, P. Palleson.

Twelve dozen No. 1—1, P. Pallesen; 2, Reardon Bros.; 3 W. Northcott, jr.

Best exhibit of eggs—1, W. Northcott, jr.

CATTLE

Herefords awards were:—

Bull, three years or over—1, Geo. E. Fuller, Martin Fairfax; 2, L. O. Clifford, Oshawa, Bonnie Brae 31st; 3, L. O. Clifford, Lord Fairfax; 4, W. M. Williams, Bawlf, General Anderson; 5, Frank Collicutt, Bow Perfection 11th; 6, Curtice Cattle Co., Beau Donald 48th.

Bull, 2 years—1, Curtice Cattle Co., Beau Perfection; 2, Frank Collicutt, Gay Lad 40th; 3, J. A. Chapman, Hayfield, Mack Fairfax; 4, J. A. Chapman, Brydon Perfection; 5, W. M. Williams, Bawlf, Otis Farmer.

Bull, senior yearling—1, Curtice Cattle Co., Beau Donald 192nd; 2, Frank Collicutt, Wilton Fairfax; 3, W. M. Williams, Don Perfection; 4, W. M. Williams, Prince Donald.

Bull, senior yearling—1, Curtice Cattle Co., Beau Donald 199; 2, John Wilson, Milnerton, Royal Fairfax; 3, J. A. Chapman, Beau Major; 4, W. M. Williams, Dandy Perfection; 5, L. O. Clifford, Brae Real 8th; 6, W. M. Williams, Virgil Fairfax.

Beef Cattle—Herefords

Bull, senior calf—1, L. O. Clifford, Lord Fairfax; 2, W. M. Williams, Hoff Farm Elect; 3, Curtice Cattle Co., Beau Perfection; 4, Curtice Cattle Co., Beau Donald; 5, L. O. Clifford, Oshawa, Grove Fairfax.

Junior calf (bull)—1, Curtice Cattle Co., Beau Donald; 2, J. A. Chapman, Hayfield, Beau Magor; 3, L. O. Clifford, Dale's Gift; 4, W. M. Williams, Bawlf, Keystone Albert; 5, W. M. Williams, Bawlf, Keystone Improver.

Bull, senior champion, two years or over—Champion, Curtice Cattle Co., Beau Perfection; reserve, Geo. E. Fuller, Martin Fairfax.

Bull junior champion, under two years—Champion L. O. Clifford, Lord Fairfax 5th; reserve, Curtice Cattle Co., Beau Donald.

Bull, grand champion—Grand champion, Curtice Cattle Co., Beau Perfection; reserve, L. O. Clifford, Lord Fairfax 5th.

Aberdeen Angus

Bull, three years or over—1, Jas. Bowman, Guelph, Young Leroy; 2, Jas. W. McGregor, Brandon, Black Abbot Prince; 3, Jas. D. McGregor, Brandon, Enjoiner of GGlencarnock.

Bull, two years—1, Jas. Bowman, Beauty's Leroy; 2, A. E. Hoad, Olds; Marshall of Glencarnock; 3, Wm. Porterfield, of Brandon, Bomade of Glencarnock; 4, S. C. Pritchard, Camrose, Rosedore of Glencarnock; 5, Jas. Bowman, Elm Park, Kelso; 6, W. R. Setwart, Pride Lad of Gwenmawr.

Bull, senior yearling—1, J. D. McGregor, Brandon, Quality Lad of Glencornock; 2, Jas. Bowman, Guelph E. P. Raregoods.

Bull, junior yearling—1, Jas. D. McGregor, Marshall of Glencarnock; 2, Jas. D. McGregor, Brandon, Pathfinder of Gwenmawr; 3, J. D. McGregor, Glencarnock Dude; 4, Jas. Bowman, E. P. Rambler; 5, Jas. Bowman, E. P. Pulto.

Bull, senior calf—1, J. D. McGregor, Black Cap McGregor; 2, Jas. Bowman, E. P. Buxom; 3, A. E. Nead, Glencarnock Donald; 4, Jas. Bowman, Guelph, E. P. Partaker; 5, S. C. Pritchard, Glenrose Edward.

Bull, junior calf—1, Jas Bowman, E. P. Kenyon; 2, Jas D. McGregor, Balatum of Glencarnock; 3, S. C. Pritchard, Glenrose Edward 3rd; 4, W. R. Stewart, Meadow Brook Pride 2nd; 5, J. D. McGregor, Prince Felzar of Gwenmawr.

Bull, senior champion—Champion, J. D. McGregor, Black Cap McGregor; reserve, J. D. McGregor, Quality Lad of Glencarnock.

Bull, grand champion—J. D. McGregor, Black Cap McGregor; reserve, Jas. Bowman, Beauty's Leroy.

Aberdeen Angus

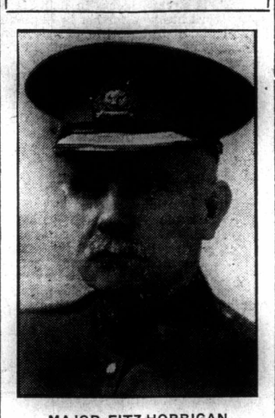
Cow, 4 years and over—1, Jas. D. McGregor, Brandon, Majesty Queen; 2, Jas. Bowman, Guelph, E. P. Rosebud 15th; 3, J. D. McGregon, Key of Heather 2nd; 4, Jas, Bowman, E. P. Rosebud 17th; 6, S. C. Pritchard, Camrose, Rose of Glendale 5th; 6, A. E. Noad, Olds, Ruby Nancy.

Cow, 3 years—1, S. C. Pritchard, Pride of Glencarnock; 2, W. R. Stewart, Hastings Coulee, Meadow Brook Flower 3rd; 3, W. R. Stewart, Meadow Brook Flossie.

Heifer, 2 years—1, Jas. Bowman, Emmeline of L. F.; 2, J. D. McGregor, GGlencarnock Rubicon 2nd; 3, J. D. McGregor, Glencarnock Pride Petite; 4, A. E. Noad, Prilena of Glencarnock; 5 Jas. Bowman, Elm Park RoRsebud 23rd.

Heifer, senior yearling—1, Jas. D. McGregor, Blackbird of Glen 3rd; 2, Jas. Bowman, E. P. Pride 15th; 3, Jas. Bowman, E. P. Keepsake 15th; 4, A. E. Noad, Pride Lass of Gwenmaur 2nd; 5, W. R. Stewart, Meadow Brook Best.

Heifer, junior yearling—1, J. D. McGregor, Pride of Glencarnock 3rd; 2, J. Bowman, E. P. Rosebud 26th; 3, J. D. McGregor, Glencarnock Rubicon 3rd; 4, W. R. Stewart, Meadow Brook Liewella.



Heifer, senior calf—1, J. D. McGregor, Pridista of Glencarnock; 2, J. D. McGregor, Pride Lass of Gwenmaur; 3, J. Bowman, E. P. Bertha; 4, J. Bowman, E. P. Idalia; 5, E. Gillespie, Ohaton, Bessie of Spring Creek; 6, S. C. Pritchard, Glen Rose Precious Pride.

Heifer, junior calf—1, J. D. McGregor, Glencarnock, Pretty Rose 2nd; 2, J. D. McGregor, Glencarnock Rubicon 4th; 3, J. Bowman, E. P. Rosebud 29th; 4, W. R. Stewart, Meadow Brook Neonia; 5, J. D. McGregor, Black Bird of Gwenmaur; 6 S. C. Pritchard, Glenrose Patricia.

Senior champion female, 2 years and over—J. D. McGregor, Majesty Queen; reserve, Jas. Bowman, Emmeline.

Junior champion female, under 2 years—J. D. McGregor, Pride of Glencarnock 3rd; reserve, Predista.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

MAJOR FITZ-HORRIGAN

As a conspicuous member of the Confederation and as head of the R. N. W. M. P. of Calgary, he made the address at the celebration held on the barracks' site on Monday.

Grand champion female—J. D. McGregor, Pride of Glencarnock 3rd; reserve, J. D. McGregor, Majesty Queen.

Ayrshires

Cow, 4 years and over—1, Rowland Ness, De Winton, Birdie of Lone Spruce; 2, Laycock & McDonald, Calgary, Bonnie Bessie; 3, Rowland Ness De Winton, Ada; 4, Laycock & McDonald, Lily of Lone Spruce; 5, Rowland Ness, Lakeside Clara; 6, D. Livingstone, Jumping Pound, Lady Kelso.

Cow, 3 years—1, Rowland Ness, Marie of Lone Spruce; 2, Rowland Ness, Woodlands Myrtle; 3, Rowland Ness, Braemar Lass; 4, W. J. Mortson, Fairlight, Sask., Bonnie Jean 2d.

Heifer, 2 years—1, Rowland Ness, Lakeview Brown Dell; 2, RoRwland Ness, Burnside Lady Laurier; 3, Laycock & McDonald, Springfield Pet; 4, Rowland Ness, Grange Annie; 5, W. L. Baker, Calgary, Springfield May.

Heifer, senior yearling—1, Rowland Ness, Lakeview Pansy; 2, Laycock & McDonald, Springfield Nora; 3, Rowland Ness, Burnside Monkland Dorothy; 4, Laycock & McDonald, Springfield Prairie Flower; 5, Rowland Ness, Lakeview Flossie.

Heifer, junior yearling—1, Rowland Ness, Lakeview Blossom; 2 Rowland Ness, Lakeview Vera; 3, A. D. Black, Airdrie, Glen Burn's Duchess; 4, Laycock & McDonald, Springfield Jean; 5, Laycock & McDonald, Springfield Damsel.

Heifer, senior calf—1, Rowland Ness, Lakeview Monkland Maud;; 2, Rowland Ness, Lakeview Primrose; 3, Rowland Ness, Lakeview Dewdrop; 4, Laycock & McDonald, Springfield Violet; 5, Laycock & McDonald, Springfield Minnie; 6, Rowland Ness, Lakeview Addie.

Heifer, junior calf—1, Rowland Ness, Lakeview Elexa; 2, Rowland Ness, Lakeview Blanche; 3, Laycock & McDonald, Springfield Queen.

Senior champion wemale, 2 years or over—Rowland Ness, Birdie of Lone Spruce; reserve, Rowland Ness, Marie of Lone Spruce.

Junior champion female—Rowland Ness, Lakeview Monkland Maud; reserve, Rowland Ness, Lakeview Elexa.

Grand champion female—Rowland Ness, Birdie of Lone Spruce; reserve, Rowland Ness, Lakeview Monkland Maud.

Red Polled

Bull, 3 years or over—1, Jean Du Luth Farm, Du Luth, Minn., Paul; 2, J. H. & W. E. Elliott, Irma, Noble Robin; 3, O. C. Thubron, Freshfield, Dwight.

Bull, junior yearling—1, Jean Du Luth Farm, Pilot Lee.

Bull, junior calf—1. J. H. & W. E. Elliott, Noble 15th; 2, J. H. & W. E. Elliott, Noble 16th; 3, J. H. & W. E. Elliott, Noble 17th.

Senior champion bull—Jean Du Luth Farm, Paul; reserve, J. H. & W. E. Elliott, Noble Roblin.

Junior champion bull—Jean Du Luth Farm, Pilot Lee; reserve, J. H. & W. E. Elliott, Noble 15th.

Grand champion bull—Jean Du Luth Farm, Pilot Lee; reserve, Jean Du Luth Farm, Paul.

Grand champion bull—Jean Du Luth Farm, Pilot Lee; reserve, Jean Du Luth Farm, Paul.

Shorthorns

Bull, 3 years and over—1, Yule & Bowes, Carstairs, Missie's Wonder, Jr.; 2, Yule & Bowes, Banner Bearer; 3, John Miller, Ashburn, Ont., Lancaster Boy.

Bull, 2 years—1, Geo. Walters, Calgary, Barron Stamford; 2, John Graham, Carberry, Montrich Prince; 3, John Graham, Bridgebank Reginald; 4, G. A. Davidson, Calgary, Fashion King; 5, Chas. G. Beeching, Nanton, Gainford Duke.

Bull, senior yearling—1, Yule & Bowes, Rosebury; 2, John Graham, Signaller; 3, W. C. Short, Gwynne, Alta., Matchless Bluff; 4, P. M. Bredt & Co., Fancy's Broadhooks; 5, W. C. Short, Scotch King.

Bull, junior yearling—1, P. M. Bredt &Co., Red Major; 2, J. A. Neilson, Calgary, Gainford Reliance; 3, J. G. Barron, Carberry, Star of Morning; 4, Dr. O. H. Patrick, Crown Reserve; 5, W. A. & B. G. Todd, Clinock, Danny Gardner; 6, W. C. Short, Fame Duke.

Bull, senior calf—1, J. G. Barron, Fairview Chief; 2, J. G. Barron, Jubilee Star; 3, Yule & Bowes, Kinmale Hercules; 4, Yule & Bowes, Kinmel Sovereign; 5, Yule & Bowes, Kinmel Chieftain; 6, G. R. Hughes, Cobble Hill, Brigadier General.

Bull, junior calf—1, J. G. Barron, Oakland Star 2nd; 2, Yule & Bowes, Oakland Opportunity; 3, J. G. Barron, Fairnview Prince; 4, Chas. G. Beeching, Tranby Clipper.

Bull, senior champion—Yule & Bowes, Missie's Wonder Junior; reserve, George Walters, Baron Stamford.

Bull, junior champion—J. G. Barron, Fairview Chief; reserve, Yule & Bowes, Roseberry.

Bull, grand champion—Yule & Bowes, Missie's Wonder Junior; reserve, J. G. Barron, Fairview Chief.

3 Get of one bull—1, J. G. Barron; 3 sired by Scotch Thistle; 2, J. G. Barron, 3 sired by Oakland Star; 3, Yule & Bowes, 3 sired by Missie's Prince; 4, W. C. Short, 3 sired by Baron Chief; 5, J. G. Barron, 3 sired by Emma's Prince.

2 progeny of one cow—1, J. G. Barron, 2 by Fairview Queen; 2, Yule & Bowes, 2 by May Violet 3rd; 3, J. G. Barron, 2 by Jubilee Queen 2nd; 4, J. G. Barron, 2 by Baroness Queen.

Herd—1, Yule & Bowes; 2, John Miller.

Junior herd—1, J. G. Barron; 2, Yule & Bowes; 3, G. R. Hughes; 4, John Miller.

3 calver under one year—1, J. G. Barron; 2, G. R. Hughes.

Jerseys

Bull, 3 years or over—1, J. Harper and Son, Westlock, Pet's Kentucky, Wonder; 2, J. Harper and Son, Kitty Noble.

Bull 2 years—1, N. L. McGregor, Calgary, Sir Victor Glen Lyon.

Bull, senior yearling—1, J. Harper and Sons, Kentucky Jolly wonder.

Bull, junior yearling—1, J. Harper and Sons, Kentucky Ruler.

Bull, senior calf—1, J. Harper and Sons, Manila's Daisy Lad; 2, J. Harper and Sons, Kentucky Champion; 3, J. Harper and Son, Kentucky's Noble.

Bull, junior calf—1, J. Harper and Sons, Kentucky's red ribbon.

Senior Champion bull, J. Harper and Sons, Pets Kentucky Wonder; reserve J. Harper and Sons, Kentucky Champion.

Grand champion bull, J. Harper and Sons, Pet's Kentucky Wonder; reserve J. Harper and Sons, Manila's Daisy Lad.

Guernseys

Bull, 3 years or over—1, W. Tims, Crossfield, Juel.

Bull, 2 years—1, Jean Du Luth Farm, Duluth, Starlight Excelsior of Jean Du Luth.

Bull, senior yearling—Jean Du Luth Farm, King Starlight of eJan Du Luth.

Senior champion bull—Jean Du Luth Farm, Starlight's Excelsior of Jean Du Luth; reserve, W. Tims, Juel.

Junior champion bull—Jean Du Luth Farm, King Starlight of Jean Du Luth.

Grand champion bull—Jean Du Luth Farm, Golden Noble of the Lakes; reserve, eJan Du Luth Farm, Starlight's Excelsior of Jean Du Luth.

KNIGHTS' BINDERY

605 CENTRE STREET, CALGARY
(Note the Address Carefully)
Phone M5226
W. G. KNIGHTS, Prop. and Manager

The above address is the location of Calgary's latest and most fully equipped BOOK BINDERY, PAPER RULING, and LOOSE LEAF establishment. The proprietor is a thoroughly practical man, with 35 years' experience in the bookbinding trade and its kindred branches. In addition to the manufacture of new goods this go-ahead Bindery will specialise in the REPAIRING and RE-BINDING of old books and dilapidated Loose Leaf Covers. An expert in repair work will be sent out to do repairing at any office where the book is of too much importance to allow it to be taken away. This information should be of great interest to bankers.

MUSIC BINDING will be another feature of our work. No matter how old or torn your music sheets may be, we can mend and bind them, and return to you a strong and respectable book. We have every facility and are fully prepared to make POSTAL TUBES in any quantity, any length or diameter. It will be to the financial advantage of any business house to give us the privilege of quoting on any special work —either new work or repair work—before placing their order elsewhere.

We cordially invite Out-of-Town Customers to allow us to submit our price for BLANK BOOKS and LOOSE LEAF BINDERS. SYNOPTIC SHEETS and Municipal Tax-Roll Sheets ruled to any specification. Loose Leaf Binders made to fit any sized sheet. Loose Leaf Indexes made upon short notice.

WE STAMP NAME OR INITIALS on Suitcases, Grips, Purses, etc., etc., in guaranteed 22 carat pure gold, at reasonable prices.

Give Us a Trial and We Will Give You Satisfaction

The Only Grand Prize (Highest Award) given to Dictionaries at the Panama-Pacific Exposition was granted to WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL

FOR
Superiority of Educational Merit.
This new creation answers with final authority all kinds of puzzling questions such as "How is Przemysl pronounced?" "Where is Flanders?" "What is a continuous voyage?" "What is a howitzer?" "What is white coal?" "How is skat pronounced?" and thousands of others.
More than 400,000 Vocabulary Terms. 30,000 Geographical Subjects. 12,000 Biographical Entries. Over 6000 Illustrations. 2700 Pages. The only dictionary with the divided page—a stroke of genius.

Regular and India-Paper Editions.
Write for specimen pages, illustrations, etc. Free, a set of Pocket Maps if you name this paper.
G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Springfield, Mass.

A. R. Littlebury
THE Printer
105 6th Ave. West, Calgary

Ask for Estimates Phone M2207

FARMER, RANCHER and BUSINESS MAN

Here is one of the opportunities of your life and you can't afford to miss it. We are giving away absolutely free a handsome bound edition of Canadian Business and Law: The Careful Man's Friend and the Careless Man's Safeguard.

This publication tells you what you can do and what you can't do legally. It will post you on a thousand and one things in everyday life. It is a complete legal and business compendium for the ordinary man. No matter what your vocation is in life the CANADIAN BUSINESS AND LAW will advise and protect you. It should be your daily companion.

Remember all you have to do to get this handsome publication is to subscribe for one year. Send $2 for one year's subscription and the publication will be mailed to you forthwith.

Subscription Rates
$2 for One Year

CALGARY WESTERN STANDARD
109 Sixth Ave. West
Calgary, Alberta

FREE To Subscribers of The Calgary Western Standard
"CANADIAN BUSINESS AND LAW"
By EDWARD MEEK, K.C.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

