About Socialism.

BY FATHER BERNARD VOUGHAN.

Socialism is so large a subject, and may be looked at from so many different points of view, that to avoid all misunderstanding I must begin by trying to make my position clear. I presume it is scarcely necessary for me to say I am not writing on behalf of either the capitalist or the politician; though both capitalist and politician are deeply interested in Socialism. In fact, who is not interested in this question, which involves many and far-reaching consequences? But my concern with Socialism is the curiosity of a plain, blunt Christian man, who wants to know what Socialism really means, and what it really involves. Some people tell us it is the Magna Charta of human liberty; others, on the contrary, that it is the juggernaut car of tyranny.

Putting aside prejudice and passions, we will make the acquaintance of Socialism, so as to satisfy ourselves whether Socialism is the friend or the foe of humanity, especially suffering humanity as we know it today. At the outset I must warn you that it is not possible for me or for anyone else to give you a description of Socialism which would satisfy all its advocates.

Like all things endowed with the vigor and freshness of youth, Socialism in its impact with many minds, some maddened by social wrongs, others fired with zeal for social reform, is Protean in the shape it assumes, and the appearance it presents. I cannot then pretend to give you with but a few turns of the kaleidoscope all the various guises of Socialism.

As you know better than I do there are evolutionary and revolutionary Socialists—there are German, French, Italian, and English Socialists, who represent many different schools of thought. There is Socialism as it is understood by the politician in his study, and Socialism as it is preached to the man in the street.

However, in spite of the extreme differences among Socialists, they all agree at least in this cardinal point, that the production of wealth is to be carried on solely by the State as the collective owners of the land and instrument of production. According to which principle the State monopolizes the right to distribute wealth, to guide, direct, and control all the energies and activities of its members.

It is a sort of deification of the State. For the Socialist the State is practically everything and the individual nothing. "The Socialist," writes Mr. M. J. Macdonald, "considers that the State is essential to individual life, as the atmosphere, and he regards the evolution of political democracy as having been necessary in order to create a State which could respond to the common will" ("Socialism and Society, 1907," p. 339.)

According to this authoritative exponent of English Socialism, the State is a living organism in which all individuals are what the cells are in the human body. "A vital relationship," he writes, "between organs, not a bodily form containing these organs, constitutes an organism. Its organs are connected by a living tissue of law, of habit and custom, of economic interdependence, of public opinion, of political unity; and these living connections maintain the stability of relationship between organs, precisely as bodily form does. In that tissue the individual and the class are not embedded as stones in lime, but live as cells or organs in a body." (Ib. p. 30.)

In the estimate of our Socialist friend the individual life is of very small consequence, the all-important matter is the organism. "The being that lives," he says, "that persists, that develops, in Society; the life upon which the individual draws, that he himself may have life, liberty and happiness, is the social life."

"The likeness between Society and an organism like the human body is complete in so far as Society is the total life from which the separate cells draw their individual life. Man is man only in Society," (p. 16.)

Whatever Socialists may state to the contrary, I am satisfied that Socialism, in its least unreasonable phase were to become an actuality, then man would cease to be a man;

he would not be free to choose his own occupation; he would not be free to choose his own district; most probably he would not be free to choose his own wife or to rear his own family, or to dispose of his own time, or to improve his position, or to do any of those things which develop talent, stimulate enterprise, and form character. Instead of this, he would be a thing, a chattel, or, at best, a State-servant.

What do I think of this analogy between the Socialist's State and a living organism, so elaborately drawn out by Mr. Macdonald? My verdict as a plain, blunt man upon it is, "Sentimental nonsense." All of us, of course, recognize, not only the Christian Church, but the State also, as an organism. As a member of the Catholic Church I recognize myself to be a member, a cell, if you will, of that mystical Body of which Christ is the mystical Head. Again, as a citizen, I realize that I am a member of another organized society called the State.

But observe, my teaching about the State cannot be reconciled with the Socialist's doctrine about it. The State I am free to confess, is necessary for man's complete development. The State, indeed, is intended to defend, to protect, to promote man's rights and interests; the State supplies man's deficiencies, and assists his many weaknesses; the State exists for man, and not man for the State; the State has no soul, mortal or immortal, and apart from the individuals who go to build it up, it has no life, no existence at all. Provided we know what we are talking about we may call it a living organism, but if we cannot keep before our own minds and that of our audience the fact that we are using the term in a sense not identical with, but only analogous to, that in which it is used of a human body, of an animal, or of a plant, we have no business to use it at all. This sheer nonsense to speak of the State as endowed with a vital principle such as a human body is dowered withal.

A really living organism does subordinate to itself the cells of which it is made up. The State, of course, as we all know, does nothing of the kind. It has power indeed so to order the lives of its subjects as public and private good may require; it may exact for the public weal contributions in the form of taxes, but it must not overstep the rules of justice and equity; it may never forget that its chief function is to promote the welfare and happiness of its subjects. Were it to act otherwise it would be nothing but a tyrant and a bully. The State exists not to appropriate, but to protect, the rights of the individual.

The right to possess private property," says Leo XIII, "is derived from nature, not from man; and the State has the right to control its use in the interests of the public good alone, but by no means to absorb it altogether. The State, therefore, would be unjust and cruel, if, under the name of taxation, it were to deprive the private owner of more than is fitting." (Encyclical on the Condition of the Working Classes.)

As a plain, blunt man, I say it is not the State, but, on the contrary, it is the man that matters. It is the man, and not the State, that is dowered with an immortal soul, whose destiny and ultimate end is not to be found on this third-rate planet. He has the right, as well as the duty, of ordering his life to the attainment of what he believes to be his end, and both he himself and the family in which he is born and reared are antecedent to the State, both in nature and in time.

The Socialist's State, then, which arrogates to itself the power to take into its own hands, no matter by what means it is done, the ownership and management of all the means of production, distribution and exchange, is usurping an authority to which it can lay no just claim, and is thereby committing nothing less than a gigantic act of tyrannical robbery.

The poor have an intense hatred of the workhouse, the State in miniature, not so much because in it they would, probably enough, be treated badly, but because there they have no personality, no scope for enterprise, and no real liberty. They gradually become workhouse creatures, or else settle down to the life of loafers.

Whatever Socialists may state to the contrary, I am satisfied that Socialism, in its least unreasonable phase were to become an actuality, then man would cease to be a man;

he would not be free to choose his own occupation; he would not be free to choose his own district; most probably he would not be free to choose his own wife or to rear his own family, or to dispose of his own time, or to improve his position, or to do any of those things which develop talent, stimulate enterprise, and form character. Instead of this, he would be a thing, a chattel, or, at best, a State-servant.

Doan's Kidney Pills

They act directly on the kidneys and make them strong and healthy, thereby causing pure blood to circulate throughout the whole system. Mrs. Frank Foon, Woodside, N.B., writes:—"I was a great sufferer with backache for over a year, and could get nothing to relieve me until I took two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and now I do not feel any pain whatever, and can eat and sleep well; something I could not do before. Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

"Why are all those people flocking down to Hiram Hardapple's barn?" asked the old farmer on the way back.

"He's got a curiosity down there," chuckled the village constable. The other night His old Jersey cow had the colic and He went down to give her a dose of cow medicine. Blamed if he didn't make a mistake and give her a pint of gasoline. Now instead of going 'Moo, moo' like any other sensible cow, she goes 'Honk, honk' like one of them blamed automobiles.

Away From Home. Greater Beeton is constantly growing still greater. The lines of electric railway extending further and further out, constitute the most potent factor in converting the localities, from rural to urban districts.

Among the medical practitioners with bin a brief radius in the Roxbury and Dorchester divisions of Boston are found the following, all apparently making admirable progress: Dr. R. J. McCormack, with an extensive practice, widely and favorably known in those parts. In him islanders find a warm hearted and generous friend.

In the Charlottetown district, Dr. James A. McDonald a veteran Islander has in addition to the names of J. A. McDonald M. D., and Louis McDonald M. D. All will admit that this is quite correct. Success to the trinity. An old resident of Charlottetown, but who with his family has been in Charlottetown for a good many years, is Mr. John Bowden. The hand of affliction has lain some what heavily upon him, and the sympathy of his former friends here will go out to him. First he was crippled by an accident while at his work. He lost a leg, in consequence of this accident. Latterly he has lost the sight of his eyes, and is now quite blind. These are severe trials indeed.

In South Boston, Dr. James S. McDonald is constantly progressing in his business and extending his professional practice. The Dr. and Mrs. McDonald make us welcome and dispense a generous hospitality in their fine home. Mr. D. B. McDonald and Mr. James Morgan are still in the insurance business in this district, and are doing well. Needless to say they both still cherish in affection the Island home and are pleased to see any one that comes from the region of the "Soundings." The McDonald Ice Cream Company are evidently prospering in their business. They are always busy, and always anxious to afford visitors, from the Island at any rate, an opportunity of thoroughly sampling the article they produce.

across the Charles River from Boston. Islanders are holding their own and doing their share in the march of progress. Dr. A. J. Donnelly is steadily advancing in the practice of his profession. Congratulations were recently extended to him, from all sides, on the occasion of his taking to himself a life partner. Mr. Henry J. Cunningham is hustling in the real estate business, and is looking fine. May his shadow never grow less. Mr. William E. Murphy is still in the book business and doing well. He and Mrs. Murphy dispense a generous hospitality. The children, growing apace, also express their joy in their own way, at seeing an old friend, Daniel J. McLean, with McCoskey and Harty, real estate men, in always found at his post, always happy and glad to see a friend. Dan is well informed concerning matters within his circuit. He is the right man in the right place. Mr. Peter J. Carmichael is progressing in the hardware business, and is always ready to attend to his customers. Integrity, affability and strict attention to business are, for P. J. reaping their reward.

Dr. C. H. Dalton, in Somerville, is solidly established, and evidence of his success is furnished by the fact that he uses an automobile in his visits to his numerous patients. May he flourish. Mr. J. J. McDonald, plasterer, of Medford, always has as many contracts on hand as he is able to attend to. In his charming home he and Mrs. McDonald are hospitably entertained. The children, filled with "forward and frolics," keep dull care far away. Good luck to them. J. D. McIntyre, with S. S. Pierce & Co., the great wholesale grocers, Boston, occupies a position of responsibility, and admirably measures up to the confidence reposed in him.

Anxiety for over 300 Men. Advice of the 4th, from St. John's Nfld. stated that to the already great anxiety felt here by shipowners and the relatives of the 300 men composing the crews of a score of schooners on their way to St. John's from Bonavista Bay, because of the continued presence of the ice in menacing proportions, has been added the fear of disaster through a combination of ice floes and storm. During Wednesday night and Thursday morning a heavy storm centred over the region between there and Bonavista Bay, a distance of fifty miles. When darkness fell on the 4th without word from the fleet, apprehension became heavy and with the succession of disasters of the present season, due to the ice, in mind, the persons interested were possessed by grave fears and forebodings. Although Bonavista Bay lies only fifty miles, to the north of St. John's it is possible that the schooners may now be harbored in some of the many remote bays and inlets which abound. At few of these are there any telegraph lines, so that there is strong probability that the schooners are in one of these harbors. Storms on the Newfoundland coast seldom occur without leaving visible signs of their presence in the piling of ships against the rocky shores. With the ice element also to be avoided, the captain of a small schooner as are most of those now overdue, would have little chance of running the many-sided blockade.

Sprained Arm. Mary Ovington, Jasper, Ont., writes:—"My mother had a badly sprained arm. Nothing we used did her any good. Then father got Hayward's Yellow Oil and it cured mother's arm in a few days." Price 25c.

Little Girl Burned. A candle carried by a little girl in a procession at St. James Catholic church Haverhill Mass last Friday, set fire to the veil of another child, Doris Maloney, aged 10, who was terribly burned. The child was removed to the hospital in a critical condition. Only heroic measures by priests and attendants prevented the child from being burned to death before the horrified audience of worshippers. Her burning clothing was snatched away by several hands while a robe wrapped quickly about her served to smother the flames. There was no pain among the congregation, one of the priests by his coolness succeeding in calming a few excited women who arose in their seats as if intending to run from the church. The burned child was removed to an ante-room and an ambulance hurried her quickly to the hospital. The physicians would make no prediction as to her prospects of recovery.

Smallpox on Ship-board. A case of smallpox was discovered on the Allan line S. S. Virginia while she was enroute up the St. Lawrence to Montreal on Friday. The steamer was put under detention at Grosse Ile quarantine station. The 587 steerage passengers were examined and their quarters disinfected, after which it was expected that the steamer would be allowed to proceed with her first and second class passengers. The third class will be detained for at least eighteen days at Grosse Ile. This is the first case of smallpox detected on an incoming steamer in three years, the last case having been on the Allan line steamer Ionian.

The School Book Question. The St. John Standard, referring to the reduction in the price of school books, effected by the Hazen Government, furnishes the following information: The list numbers nineteen books in all, and there is only one which has not been reduced in price. This is a drawing book which the teachers desired to retain. It was under contract and the price could not be changed. The total cost of the nineteen books under the old system was $5.03. It will now be $3.38. Moreover the books will be better bound. Some will be enlarged. Others will be superior books replacing the old ones. The reduction applies to French as well as English readers. Numbers one, two and three of the French series have together cost 50 cents. They will henceforth be bought for 52 cents. The old price was thus 63 per cent higher than the new. The new price of the seven readers in English is $1.85. The old price was $2.15, or 50 per cent higher. Copy books, of which many must be bought by every family, have been reduced from eight cents to three, a sweeping change. Scribblers, also required in large numbers, are so reduced that five may now be bought for the price of three. All this has been done without loss to any person, but the holders of the old monopolies. The province is not losing anything. The retail trade gets a sufficient profit on commission. It is clear gain, and means many thousands of dollars for New Brunswick parents.

A Bad Accident. A peculiar accident happened in the Miramichi pulp mill, at Chatham, N. B. the other day. About five o'clock Wm. Stewart, engineer of the machinery used in hauling the logs from the boom to the bark mill was standing near his engine when his coat became tangled in the machinery. He was whirled twice around the shaft and then thrown to the floor breaking an arm and leg. Before summoning assistance he managed to stop his engine. The men had all left the mill for the night and as the neighborhood is not largely frequented after mill hours it was some time before any one came along. Finally a little girl as she went by heard Stewart's calls and got help. Dr. Loggie was summoned and found it necessary to set both members. Stewart who has a large family will be laid up for three months, providing the injuries do not take any worse turn than at present.

The idea is meeting with general approval from the best barbers in the city.

Advices of the 7th from Beirut, Syria say: The conditions everywhere in Asia Minor are far from settled, and will take time and a government much stronger than the present one to make it possible for people to resume their labors and go about with any degree of safety. The crops in Adana regions are ripe, and unless they are gathered, a famine will inevitably stare the people in the face the coming year. The guards to protect people who have dared to venture out to gather the crops have time and again proved the treachery of the Turk. Farmers have either been stabbed or shot down like dogs as soon as they came outside of the city limits.

It is proposed in New Zealand to demonstrate the national attitude in support of the Empire in the face of foreign menace by sending the leader of the opposition as well as Sir Joseph Ward, the premier, to the Imperial naval conference in July. Seeing the Canadian attitude, as expressed by a unanimous resolution in the Commons, it is also national and entirely removed from party politics, it is suggested in London that Canada do likewise by Sir Wilfrid Laurier inviting Mr. Borden to accompany the ministers. It is felt that this would be the most effective demonstration to Germany and other nations that the Empire stands unitedly to hold its own, and also to remind party men in England that the security of the Empire is a question for common agreement, not political wranglings.

Crushed in the Ice.

In its thirst for ships, unassisted by nearly a dozen wrecks and a score of seriously damaged crafts, together with danger to hundreds of lives, the ice monster stretched along the Newfoundland coast has claimed another victim in the little fishing schooner Souris Belle, which was crushed to pieces off St. John's last Wednesday night. The crew of eight men took to the boats, one of which upset with two men in it, leaving them adrift on the southerly bound ice floes. They were rescued by a tug. Search of the shore resulted in discovery of remaining sailors exhausted and unable to proceed.

Taxation on Land Values.

Canadians in general will be interested to learn of the system of taxation in the province of Alberta. From a lecture delivered at the last International Tax Conference at Toronto by Mr. John Perrie, provincial tax commissioner, Edmonton, Alberta, it will be seen that the Western province has gone far ahead in the march of progress.

ALBERTA'S SYSTEM.

The taxable property in the province of Alberta may be divided into three classes. First, real property; second, village property; third, town or city property. Land is the only property assessed under the first class and the rate of taxation is levied at so much per acre without regard to the value of the land.

It may be contended that our assessment of rural property at a certain rate per acre is unfair, but the rate of assessment is as yet so uniformly low that the system is working out quite satisfactorily and we are saved the expense of valuing the land. If it should become necessary to levy a heavier rate of taxation it will be borne by the owner of improved property as well as the work of the government or municipality.

It may be contended that our assessment of rural property at a certain rate per acre is unfair, but the rate of assessment is as yet so uniformly low that the system is working out quite satisfactorily and we are saved the expense of valuing the land.

In all assessments the land is described by number of lot or section, and while the name of the owner is entered the land is in no way described by such name. All taxes levied and collected by the provincial government are simply trust funds handed for the benefit of the people paying such taxes, the revenue of the province being derived from subsidies from the federal government supplemented by taxation of companies, corporations, etc.

Get the Most Out of Your Food

You don't and can't if your stomach is weak. A weak stomach does not digest all that is ordinarily taken into it. It gets tired easily, and what it fails to digest is wasted.

Among the signs of a weak stomach are: uneasiness after eating, fits of nervous headache, and disagreeable belching.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Strengthens and tones the stomach and fits the digestive system.

It is in the towns and cities of the province there is only one assessment. It is made by the officials of the town or city and covers the taxes required for the support of the schools within the municipality and also for all work carried on by the municipality.

The Reason Why.

(Ottawa Citizen.)

The despatch of the latest and largest American warship through the Canadian canals into the upper lakes, has aroused a good deal of comment in the press, and there is a general expression of surprise that the Canadian government should continue to afford facilities for stocking the lakes with American gunboats.

AN OBJECT LESSON.

In a little hamlet in one of the southern counties of England lives a rich bachelor who draws a large income which he does little or nothing to create. He is not indifferent, however, to the social obligations it puts him under, and he has chosen to live on an income no greater than that of a superannuated postman and to give the rest of his wealth and all his time to the working out of plans for the common good, and especially to save young men from resorting to the sedulous for the satisfaction of their quite legitimate social cravings.

BRONCHITIS

Bronchitis is generally the result of a cold caused by exposure to wet and inclement weather, and is a very dangerous inflammatory affection of the bronchial tubes.

WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

Dr. D. D. Miller, Allandale, Ont., writes: "My husband got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for my little girl who had Bronchitis. She wheezed so badly you could hear her from one room to the other, but it was not long until we could see the effect your medicine had on her. That was last winter when we lived in Toronto.

HEADACHE.

Burdock Blood Bitters. What Medical Skill Could Not Do Was Accomplished With Burdock Blood Bitters.

Miss Muriel Wright, Muniac, N.B., writes: "I was sick and run down, would have headaches, a bitter taste in my mouth, floating specks before my eyes and pains in my back. I was not able to do any house work at all and could not sleep at night. Several doctors declared me but I was getting no help, and on the advice of a friend I got three bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters and they effected a complete cure."

His father, who was a prominent diplomatist and minister in British governments, married a daughter of Canning and looked likely to go to the highest position in the land, when a terrible scandal cut short his public life.
