CHAPTER XII.

Margery remained standing at the door as Vane walked down the path. She did not move, as, in a dim way, she saw Miss Charteris settle herself in the dainty carriage, nor did she stir as the ponies started briskly from the gate. But, as the sound of their hoofs died away in the distance, she awoke with a shuddering sigh to the grossness of the insults that had been offered her. Suddenly her strength failed, and, with a groan, she sank back on her chair, burying her face in her hands. The thought of her loneliness had been bitter, her lover's false vows had rankled in her breast, but the weight of Vane's humiliating words crushed her. It was almost greater than she could bear.

She tried to banish all tender recollection of Stuart from her, to think of him only as the one man who had darkened the glory of life for her, as the man who had plucked the sweet blossom of her love only to trample it under foot; but she could not succeed. Her mind would go back to those happy walks, those brief moments of gladness when they met till it wandered to that day in Weald Wood, when, with her hand clasped in his, she had sworn to love him always, no matter what came between them. Yet she loved him—would love him to the end; though he had deceived and injured her, though he had treated her with such scant courtesy and degraded her shamefully, her love was still the same.

She shook back her wealth of red-gold curls and rose to her feet, she was growing calmer. She reflected that she had yet to plan her future. She pushed the chair to the doorway and sunk into it. The sun was sinking behind the woods; the air was soft and balmy—its touch seemed like a kiss upon her cheek. The musical note of a bird twittered its "good-night" amid the leaves, the babble of the distant brook, soothed her. She leaned her weary head against the door, and began to think.

One idea stood out clearly—she must leave Hurstley. She dared not even picture to herself a future in the village, where her eyes would rest on Stuart smiling on that cold, cruel woman—where she must sit down beneath a repetition of insult that had already roused her spirit almost to madness. No, there was no other course open to her—she must go, and soon. Ah, if she could but rush away at once, and let the veil of darkness cover her humiliation! But whither and to whom could she go? Reuben could not take her with him. Mrs. Bright would welcome her for a while; but she could not meet Robert—poor Robert!

Like a flash of light in darkness came the remembrance of Miss Lawson, and the letter from her sister. Would it be too late? It was not a week ago. This must be her chance. She rose hurriedly, her limbs trembling, and tied on her bonnet. She would go to Miss Lawson at once, the place might still be vacant; she might start perhaps in the morning! The thought lent her strength. She forced herself to eat some food, though every nerve in her body was quivering from excitement.

The simple viands, the glass of milk, seemed to put new life into her; she left a message for Reuben at the next cottage, and started in feverish haste for the rectory, losing all thought of fatigue in the rush of eager desire and hope that burned within her.

Miss Lawson was seated at her window, writing, when her eyes fell on Margery's figure coming rapidly up the path. The governess noted the girl's pale cheeks, her worn look of pain, and her heart thrilled with sympathy.

"Well, child?" she said, as the girl came in.

"Miss Lawson—" began Margery, and then her rapid walk told on her, and she half reeled to a chair.

The governess rose, untied the bonnet, and held a glass of water to her lips. She saw at a glance that something was wrong; but she asked no questions.

"You have walked too quickly, as usual, Margery," was all she observed.

OPERATIONS FOR FEMALE TROUBLES

In Many Cases Unnecessary These Women Gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a Trial First

Alberta Woman's Experience
Provost, Alberta.—"Perhaps you will remember sending me one of your books a year ago. I was in a bad condition and would suffer awful pains at times and could not do anything. The doctor said I could not have children unless I went under an operation. I read testimonials of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the papers and a friend recommended me to take it. After taking three bottles I became much better and now I have a bonny baby girl four months old. I do my housework and help a little with the chores. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and am willing for you to use this testimonial letter."—Mrs. A. A. ADAMS, Box 64, Provost, Alberta.

Operation Advised
Sarnia, Ontario.—"After my girls were born I was a wreck. My nerves were too terrible for words and I simply could not stand or walk without pains. I suffered with fainting spells until I was no longer any good for my household duties and had to take to my bed. The doctor said I should have an operation but I was not in a fit condition at that time. My neighbor said, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' I'm sure it will do you good and will save those doctor's ills." So I was advised by my husband to try it after I told him about it. I am very thankful to say that I was soon able to do my housework and a little washing and also to take a few boarders for a while as rooms were scarce at that time. My baby is 17 months old now and I have not yet had an operation, thanks to your medicine. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to a few people I know and have told them the good it has done me. I know I feel and look a different woman, these last few months and I certainly would not be without a bottle of your medicine in the house. You can use this letter as you see fit as I should be only too glad for those suffering as I have done, to know what it has done for me."—Mrs. ROBERT G. MACGREGOR, R. R. No. 2, Sarnia, Ontario.

Through neglect, some female troubles may reach a stage where an operation is necessary, but most of the common ailments are not surgical ones.

Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, over 250,000 replies were received and 98 out of every 100 said they had been helped by its use.

ed, as she turned away with the glass. "I wanted to see you," murmured Margery; then, after a brief pause, she added slowly, "You remember what you said, Miss Lawson, that evening we parted—you would help me? I have come to claim that promise. I want—"

"Tell me what you want."

"I want what I refused that night—to leave Hurstley—go away altogether. Is it too late—oh, Miss Lawson, is it too late to go to that poor young lady?"

Miss Lawson looked at her keenly. "No," she replied; "it is not too late. Strangely enough, I have heard from my sister again, urging me to persuade you. This letter I am writing is to her. I can tear it up."

Margery felt the first thrill of pleasure she had experienced during the long, dreary day.

"And soon—may I go soon?" she asked.

"The sooner the better—in fact, tomorrow, if you can be ready."

"I could be ready to-night," Margery answered, with a weary sigh, pushing aside her curls.

"Then I will telegraph to my sister in the morning, when you start. I will go with you to Chesterham and see you into the train, and I think you had better get yourself one or two things when there; you can repay me out of your first quarter's salary."

Margery bent her lips to Miss Lawson's hand.

"I can never thank you sufficiently," she whispered; "you are too good to me."

Miss Lawson pulled away her hand with a jerk; but her face bore no trace of anger.

"Have you spoken to Reuben?" she asked.

"No, but I will at once. He leaves Hurstley himself at the end of the week."

"Well, I am heartily glad, child, you have decided on this. I think you will be happy."

"I shall be away from here, and that will be enough," was Margery's muttered thought.

"I will speak to Mrs. Carr to-night. She will spare me to-morrow, I know," continued Miss Lawson. "You must be ready about eight in the morning, Margery. Your luggage will not be much; perhaps you can arrange with Reuben to take it for you to the corner of the lane, and I will meet you there with the village fly."

"Thank you," said Margery again.

All was settled, and a feeling of peace stole into her breast. She would disappear—leave behind her everything that recalled her brief dream of bliss, her agony of grief. Stuart would be troubled no more with the sight of her sad face to dim his happiness. He had regarded her as a poor village girl, without heart, mind or pride—a toy with which to while away the long, dull hours; and, as he had forgotten her—as she had gone from his memory—she would creep away in deed and in truth. She felt, as she sat in the twilight of the room that had seen her so often in her young, fresh content, that she would be satisfied if her name could be forgotten by Hurstley forever, if, with her departure, the veil of mystery that hung over her birth might envelop her in its folds, and she might be lost.

Miss Lawson, turning from her writing-desk, saw the plaintive look on the girl's face.

THINGS

He gathered treasures here and there and built his life around them. He loved to show his trinkets rare and tell you where he'd found them.

These lovely drapes from Persia came from Nottingham these jaces. And then he'd talk with eyes a flame of quaint and far-off places.

In things he found his greatest pride. In things his life was written. His love for them he could not hide, by things his heart was smitten; He fondled them from day to day and made them his obsession.

He would not let them get away one hour from his possession. Rare bits of beauty pleased his soul. Old bronzes him delighted. He loved the ancient and the droll, to them his love was pledged; And none could buy his trinkets rare, and none would he bestow them. The more he saw them gleaming there the more he joyed to show them.

He spent his life in gathering things, a selfish love, though gentle. His years were spent for clocks and rings and tokens sentimental. And yet how vain was all his pride. Did love of beauty blind him? He valued things, but when he died he left them all behind him.

Thumb Prick and Pimple Are Fatal

Death following a pimple, a cut while shaving, and a pricked thumb were investigated at the Lambeth Coroner's Court.

Beatrice Ellen Bradley, aged 18, daughter of Divisional-Inspector W. H. Bradley, died in St. Thomas' Hospital, from blood poisoning caused by a germ entering an inflamed pimple on her nose.

A verdict of Death by Misadventure was returned.

It was stated in the case of Alexander Henry Brooks, 33, an engraver's process operator, that in his work he had to use cyanide of potassium and other chemicals, which sometimes gave rise to dermatitis of the hands, and in Dr. Daly's opinion this caused blood poisoning through his hands coming in contact with a cut on his face sustained while shaving.

A verdict of accidental death was returned.

Frederick Charles Wagg, 26, died from blood poisoning through pricking his thumb with electric wire. A verdict of Accidental Death was returned.

Held for Manslaughter

CHARGED WITH CAUSING BOY'S DEATH IN ORPHANAGE.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4.—Brother Usmar, of the Brothers of Mercy, and teacher at the Hubs-dean Orphanage, was taken to Boreaux Jail late this afternoon, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death by scalding of eight year old Hector Gelaerneau, who died in St. Justin Hospital on January 24. The preliminary trial was set for February 11.

Brother Usmar, civilly known as Rene Francois De Vieschouwer, was conveyed to jail in the "Black Maria" in company with other prisoners. Evidence presented before Coroner McMahon to-day centred on the possibility of the dead child having accidentally caused his own death, but this, in the opinion of Dr. Wilfred Derome Provincial Autopsist, was unlikely. The boy had been scalded in a tub at the orphanage on January 21 having been conducted thither by Brother Usmar for a wash in consequence of the child's unfortunate personal weakness.

Dr. Derome testified that in his opinion the boy had been either held in the boiling water for more than an instant or stayed there of his own accord, which was not likely. In the boy's case, physical examination showed that his body was burned on the lower part, the legs and back. He had apparently been seated in the tub with his legs extended or sat resting on his toes. "In my opinion," said Dr. Derome, "the child could not have fallen into the water. He was either held or remained there."

Evidence of a number of inmates of the orphanage was to the effect that Brother Usmar had encouraged the boys to beat little Gelaerneau. This was brought out from Victor Cole, aged 9, who declared that about 12 boys of his own age had thereupon attacked young Gelaerneau with their fists, and after beating him down had piled on top of his. Brother Usmar was in the hall, but did not stop the assault. Finally, after Gelaerneau was weeping and covered with blood, the other boys left him of their own accord.

Other punishments inflicted by Brother Usmar on the child were testified to by Leo Beauharnais, 13, Archille Sureau, and Edouard Gelaerneau, an ex-inmate but no relation of the deceased. This evidence was to the effect that Usmar had kicked the child on several occasions, and that he had punished him by forcing him to walk apart from the other boys, and also by compelling him to kneel at the refectory, with the result that young Gelaerneau on the last occasion had only a piece of dry bread to eat.

Mrs. Gelaerneau, mother of the dead child, testified to the boy's declaration at St. Justin Hospital, where he died, that he had been dipped into boiling water by Usmar. She said that he was then fully conscious. His statement was afterwards corroborated by Detective Joseph Laroche.

 TORONTO, Feb. 10.—The speech from the Throne at the opening of the Ontario Legislature today announces an increase in the alcoholic content of beer permitted to be sold under the Ontario Temperance Act.

WANT GOVERNMENT CONTROL.
 TORONTO, Feb. 11.—Evidence that the "wet" element in the Conservative party will not be satisfied with the promise of 44 per cent. beer was contained in a notice of motion served in the legislature this afternoon by F. W. Wilson, member for Windsor, that "in the opinion of this house it is desirable that legislation be enacted at this session providing for the sale of beer, spirits and wine under a system of Government control upon the principle of total prohibition."

REVIS TO PAY PENALTY.
 OTTAWA, Feb. 10.—Lord Marshall Bevis, Halifax gunner, sentenced to hang to-morrow for the shooting of police officer Charles Wilson on July 14 last, must bear the penalty as the cabinet which reviewed the case, has refused to grant commutation.

ANOTHER GRAVE CROSSING DISASTER.
 CHESTER, Pa., Feb. 11.—Four men and two women were killed and another woman seriously injured when a shifting locomotive on the Pennsylvania railroad struck a motor truck and motor car at a grade crossing in Marcus Hook, near here, this morning.

CHILD'S FAIRY TALES.
 LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—Seven year old Alisa Thompson, who last week confessed she had killed her father in Dauphin, Man., two years ago, and poisoned another person since coming to Los Angeles has

(Yesterday afternoon's proceedings.)
 After recess yesterday Mr. Wylie was again called to the stand and his examination re the amounts he gave to Mr. Rooney was continued. A number of memos of amounts were identified by witness. The payments were from Dec. 1923 to Feb. 1924. The accused knew whose money it was as his instructions were to take it out of the cash account. Witness did not know Rooney was suspended when he gave him the amounts. He asked him for the sums and he promised to fix it up. Witness himself had to stand the loss, $149.00, as the department would not accept the notes. A number of consolidated sheets were next shown witness, two were unsigned (Oct. 26th, Sept. 25th, 1923), all the rest were signed by Mr. Rooney. The unsigned sheets were made in the accused's handwriting. Witness remembered the audit made in December, 1923, but did not know when they were audited before. After the audit, Mr. Rooney told witness to take all the statements, red check slips and consolidated slips that had been audited and burn them. Witness did as he was told. They were stamped by the auditor's stamp and afterwards Mr. Howley and Mr. LeMessurier enquired for them. Witness said he had burned them on Mr. Rooney's instructions. The signature of Mr. Rooney on several bills that had been paid was identified by witness, after which cross-examination by Mr. McNelly began. Witness did not know that anything unusual happened in the office until he was notified of Rooney's suspension by Mr. LeMessurier. After Mr. Rooney's absence in December and his return to duty the witness took charge of the cash. An extract from Telegram dated Jan. 12th, 1924 was read to witness. It is as follows:—

The Minister of Posts and Telegraphs authorizes us to state that he is not officially aware of any shortage in accounts by any of the officials of the Post Office Department. He says that if such exists it comes first under the notice of the Auditor General, and in his last report a week ago no report of a shortage was made. Witness said he had no knowledge that it referred to Rooney's department. Witness then explained the methods employed in the office, and admitted that it was possible for anyone with a key to get at the desk and take away a memorandum and its corresponding amount of cash during the absence of the accused. The accused was absent for periods from Sept. to Dec. and was drunk in his office during this period. When accused was away shooting, witness kept the cash and as he did not know the combination of Rooney's safe, he put it for safety in the Money Order Department. It was kept witness's own cash box. Asked by Mr. McNelly if it was so that Mr. R. Walsh on one occasion called his attention to a lot of money lying loose in Rooney's drawer, witness said it was not a fact. Witness saw a lot of people including 4 or 5 post office officials drinking together in the office of the accused. Often after returning from collections he would find the door locked and hear a bunch outside. He would have to leave as he would not be allowed in. The amount of from $120 to $180 per week spent in liquor would be about the whole receipts from any one of the offices. Witness did not know if all the information contained in the documents that were destroyed had since been gleaned from other sources. Witness when going on his holiday got a bottle of liquor at the Controller's through Mr. Rooney's influence, but he paid for it out of his own funds. In regard to the I.O.U.'s, most of these were whilst witness had charge of the cash, but none of the borrowings took place whilst accused was at the office. Counsel read a letter witness had received from Mr. Rooney, on which there were things witness did not understand. He did not know what was meant when the latter stated that Mr. Rooney was expecting a letter from Mr. Hawco instructing him to return to work, or when it stated that Mr. Hutchings had been up and said they did not hold a meeting last night as it was too stormy, but he thought it would be alright. He knows now that the Mr. Hawco was the Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, that Mr. Hutchings was the Inspector General, and that "they" meant the Executive. When Rooney was handed out money for liquor it did not occur to witness there was anything wrong. His salary was $140.00 a month, and he was spending about $180.00 a week. Many times witness had heard Mr. Rooney was a wealthy man, that he was worth between eighty and one hundred thousand dollars. Mr. Rooney had told witness this. Witness would not say if Mr. Rooney was sober when he said this. Witness was quite sure Mr. Rooney never told him of his suspension. Witness burned nothing except what had been used by the auditors. The auditors were in in December, witness did not know when they were up before. It was always on a half holiday or a whole holiday the audit took place. Instead of an average of $84.00 a week for liquor stated before Judge Morris, witness thought it more correct to say between $120.00 to $180.00.

Re-examined by Mr. Fox. Witness did not realize that giving Mr. Rooney money was wrong, he knew now. There was quite a lot of drinking going on in the office. When he received that letter from Mr. Rooney he just put it in his pocket and paid no more attention to it. When witness had money he kept it in a cash box, locked in the drawer. It might be possible that if he went out for a short time he might have left the drawer open. He was sure that Mr. Robert Walsh was never in the office under the circumstances as stated. If Mr. Walsh swears that he was in witness would say he did not remember such a case. Witness did not know Mr. Walsh until he saw him in the Court. Witness has a younger brother working in the Post Office now. Before Mr. Rooney went away every day he locked up the money in the safe. When Mr. Rooney was drunk around the office, he was not doing his work, and witness did and did his work alright. He was never too drunk to put the money in the safe. Witness did not ever take any money from Mr. Rooney's desk.

Re-cross-examined by Mr. McNelly. Witness did not ever complain to Mr. Stott that his desk and Mr. Rooney's desk were tampered with. Witness kept the cash box in the cupboard in his desk. Witness has been in the office nearly ten years, he did not know Mr. Walsh's name before to-day. Re-examined by Mr. Fox: Witness only knew of the audit because Mr. Rooney told him so. James Angus O'Dwyer, sworn, examined by Mr. Fox. Witness is cashier at Baines, Johnston & Company, St. John's. His firm has had an account for April and November, 1923, with the Postal Telegraph Department. Two accounts shown him were paid by the present Constable Peckham. Cross-examined by Mr. McNelly. Witness did not hand over the money actually to Mr. Rooney. Constable Peckham, sworn, examined by Mr. Fox. He was office boy at Baine, Johnston & Company in December, 1923. He paid accounts shown to Mr. Rooney. Cross-examined by Mr. Dunfield.—Witness found Mr. Rooney at a desk with Mr. Wylie. The accounts were paid in cash. Robert Thistle, sworn, examined by Mr. Fox.—Witness is cash keeper with William Nesworthy, Ltd., St. John's. He paid an account to Mr. Rooney, it was paid in cash, he identified re s.p. Edwin W. LeMessurier, sworn, examined by Mr. Fox.—Witness is accountant with the International Grenfell Association which had an account for August, 1923, with the Postal Telegraphs Department. Account shown him, was identified, Miss Parsons, the cash keeper, paid the amount. Charlotte Parsons, sworn, examined by Mr. Fox.—Witness is petty cash keeper with the International Grenfell Association. An account for August, 1923, was paid to the Postal Telegraphs by the witness to the accused, the money and slips came to him, and

Three Score and Ten Talks to Younger Crowd

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—Please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a word in reference to what Observer is saying in the Globe regarding Unemployment in the city of St. John's. The writer says that there are 700 long-term unemployed and over 300 mechanics and more than 100 green fish catchers who are in a most pitiable condition.

Truly this is a very trying circumstance for a man or a company of men to find themselves in; but, Mr. Editor, I think there is something to be said on the part of those men to find themselves at mid-winter in this fix. There is such a demand for men in the lumber woods. Why, it is reported that those Milling Companies had to import men from Nova Scotia. Loss of our men around here has done much to the lumber woods for the time to the lumber woods. I am writing you to see why able-bodied men should not go from St. John's as well as from the outports. The writer Observer refers to a few winters ago when the Squires Government gave employment in the way of stone breaking. I can remember clearing a road in a native in St. John's) and can say that those men get their jobs done in a few days when they were paid $2.00 per day, when they were given a demand for men at Corner Brook and the lumber woods. Again, Mr. Editor, probably some of those very men that are in need now are those who broke stone a few years ago. If St. John's is overcrowded, why do not some of those families move out and plant some in some of those thickly populated places, such as Random Island, and stick in the land where they could rear their own vegetables, feed their own fringe, and if forced to leave home for the summer months, they would live much cheaper than in the city. I am seventy years old and I earned $150 or 200 dollars this winter. Now listen, do you hear any talk of hard times this winter around in any of the outports, and why should we be any in St. John's? It is enough to make one think that booze has a share in making had times in St. John's. Anyway I would suggest that the unemployed get out and look for employment, and get down to work as those in the outports do, and then Observer will find that he will soon have less men to care for than he appears to have at the present time.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space. Yours truly,

AN OLD TIMER.

The success of a social gathering depends largely on minor details. An ideal atmosphere must be created at the start. Brightness of colour and gaiety have all to be suggested by decorations. One of the best ways of obtaining this, either at a dance or a children's party, is by the liberal use of balloons which can be had at very little cost from ROBERT A. TEMPLETON, 221 Water Street.

Post Office Men Who Joined up Get War Bonus

BRITISH GOVERNMENT PAYS OUT £2,000,000 ACCORDING TO DECISION.

The greatest New Year gift in the world will be given by the Government on behalf of the smiling taxpayer to an army of Post Office workers who served in the war. It will amount to about £2,000,000, and will be distributed in sums ranging up to £100 or more. It is known that one particular sorter will receive £120.

This wonderful present is in fact deferred war bonus, which the Post Office did not pay, but which the House of Lords decided they were liable to pay.

Soon after the war began the Postmaster-General issued a notice promising "full civil pay in addition to military pay" to postal servants who joined the R.E. Many thousands joined. When war bonus was granted to men at home the enlisted men claimed that they were entitled to it as part of the "full civil pay."

Lord Darling. Mr. Sutton, a telegraphist, brought his action. Lord Darling decided in his favor. The Court of Appeal reversed the judge's decision, but the House of Lords, by a majority, restored Lord Darling's decision.

Other classes of postal men then brought similar test actions, and most of them won. The Government have been advised not to appeal in these cases, and the bonus will now be paid.

IN THE REALMS OF SPORT

FELDIANS WINNERS OF HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIP FOR SEASON 1925.

Upwards of 2,500 people were present at the Prince's Rink last night, to witness the hockey game between the Feldians and the Guards, which decided the championship for the season 1925. The game, it might be said, was thrilling from beginning to end, and ended not only by a popular win for the Feldians by a score of four goals to two, but were acclaimed the undisputed champions for a second successive season. The Guards played to form throughout, and were compelled to wage an uphill battle all the way, but try as they would, "Nix" Hunt, the Feldian goalkeeper, always rose to the occasion, and cast numerous likely-looking shots aside. Hunt's spectacular saving put every confidence into the whole Feldian team, and from the defence out, every man played a splendid game, and well earned the victory. A great measure of the Feldians' success is largely due to Captain Ewing, who turned in a star game. The champions played the game in a clean and sportsmanlike manner throughout the season, and to Captain Ewing and the entire Feldian team, we wish them every congratulation.

First Period.
Referee Tobin started the game at 7.35, and with the opening play the Guards carried the puck to the Feldian danger zone, where a furious attack was kept up, but without result. The game grew very fast, and a hot pace was kept up for the first ten minutes. The Guards, quite determined to enter the scoring column, made several onslaughts on the Feldians, but Hunt was always found in the desired position. After a particularly pressing attack Ewing cleared the rubber out of danger and made a pretty sweep of the rink, and from a mix-up near mid-line "Duke" Winter took control and sent the puck at a peculiar angle towards the Guards goal, which fooled Joyce, thus opening up the scoring. Play transferred from end to end, with many speedy rushes by the opposing players. Both defences managed to guard their lines successfully, with the goalies doing some spectacular saving. On one occasion Ewing got inside of the Guards defence, but his calculations were upset when Joyce came out of his goal to make a splendid stop. The puck was then carried into the Feldian territory by Henry Munn, who shot, "Nix" cleared but Errol Munn rushed in and scored the equalizing goal from a rebound. Clouston then replaced Coultas, for the Guards, while Reid was rushed out to replace Winter, for the Feldians. Six minutes of hard fast hockey then elapsed, without any change, and just before the period closed, Lloyd put his team in the lead on a pass from Ewing. The gong sounded with Feldians 2, Guards 1.

Second Period.
Upon resumption of play the Feldians renewed their efforts and gave the Guards defence an anxious few minutes in keeping the rubber out of danger. Henry Munn then tore off a good run and passed to Brother Errol, but the shot was taken from too far out to bring the desired result. After four and a half minutes of play Ewing seized the rubber and scored No. 3 for his team by an individual effort. Scarcely had play commenced again, when the Guards took a hand in the scoring business. Errol Munn got possession of the puck, and beat Hunt with a shot from an almost impossible angle. With only one goal in the difference the spectators grew wild with excitement, and according as the game progressed the applause grew so great that at times the referee's whistle could not be heard. Attack after attack was staged on the opposing goals, with shots sent in from all angles, but no further scoring resulted up to the sounding of the gong. Herder and Withers both served time in the penalty box this period.

Third Period
It was felt by many that the Guards would ever up matters in the final session, because of their splendid play in the previous period. The "champs" however, were playing true to form, and from the drop of the puck they staged a furious onslaught on their opponents' goal, and only by good luck did Joyce manage to cast the accurate shots aside. Play then changed to the other end with the two Munnns and Clouston putting up a strenuous effort to gain the desired opening. Rendell and Bayly, playing an airtight defence, never wincing for a moment. The rubber was then captured by Rendell who made a successful getaway, but he was checked from scoring by Herder. The latter player was then sent to the "cooler" for two minutes and during his absence Ewing took control near mid-line and scored the prettiest goal for the evening from the outside. The Guards then bucked up somewhat and set up a terrific pace until the final gong, but try as they would, "Nix" Hunt in the Feldian goal, was found invincible. The game ended in victory for the Feldians by a score of four goals to two, amidst the plaudits of the large crowd, followed by the exchanging of cheers by the two teams.

Mr. J. M. Tobin, the referee, controlled the game to the entire satisfaction of everybody.

A One-Stage Audio Amplifier for Use With the Crystal One-Tube Sets

Probably the first thing that will be desired with the one-tube receiver is a one-stage audio amplifier, so today we will describe the construction of a small unit which may be hooked in with that set. A one-stage audio amplifier will more than justify its expense, and should be added before any radio frequency amplification is hooked in.

While the most obvious use of the audio amplifier is with the one-tube receiver which was described yesterday, it is a unit which will be a very valuable one to be added to the crystal receiver which was originally described at the first part of the week. With local signals, a one-stage audio amplifier added to the crystal set will usually enable a loudspeaker to be used, although the signal strength will not be "terrifically" loud.

The unit, and the hook-up of the various parts, is shown in the diagram. The audio transformer, of course, is the heart of the unit. Many people seem to think that a critical ratio is necessary, and that such-and-such a ratio must be used if the set is to work satisfactorily. This is not so; any ratio of audio transformer can be used in any audio amplifier.

INTER CLUB BILLIARDS.

Guards Defence offers a lead. Two games were played last night in the Inter Club Billiard Tournament, between M.G.C.A. and C.E.I., both resulting in a victory for the former Club. In the first game H. J. Wyatt, President of the M. G. C. A., defeated T. Hallett (C.E.I.) by the narrow margin of 1 point. In the second game W. Newbury (M.G.C.A.) defeated W. Reid (C. E. I.) by a majority of 154, thus cutting down the Institute lead to 153 points. The breaks were:—
WYATT (M.G.C.A.)—22, 11, 10, 14, 12, 10, 12, 17—108.
HALLETT (C. E. I.)—11, 10, 14, 10, 15, 12, 10—95.
NEWBURY (M.G.C.A.)—16, 32, 12, 10, 24, 11, 17, 12, 13, 10, 14, 10—181.
REID (C. E. I.)—18, 13, 13, 13—86.

The handsome cup offered for competition is now on exhibition in the Guard's rooms.

To-Night's Players.
The players taking part in the Inter Club Billiard Tournament to-night, are as follows:—
7.30—L. Bartlett (C.E.I.) vs. Charles Quick (M.G.C.A.).
9.00—E. Smith (C.E.I.) vs. F. Rabbits (M.G.C.A.).

MERCANTILE HOCKEY TO-NIGHT.

There will be no League hockey game to-day or to-night, but at 8.30 the teams of G. Knowling, Ltd., and A. Harvey & Co. will play for honors in the Mercantile League. There will be general skating this afternoon, and to-night, beginning at 7.30, there will be ten bands, with the full C. L. B. Band in attendance.

LEWIS BACK ON MAT.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Ed. "Strangler"

Lewis, making his first appearance on the mat since he was tossed from the ring by Wayne "Big" Munn, defeated "Tooth" Mondt Greely, colored wrestler, last night, after a desperate struggle, in which he several times was in danger of losing the deciding fall and the match.

Lewis took the first fall in 47.05 with a series of headlocks. Mondt won the second fall in 37.00 with a short arm-scissors. In the third fall, which Lewis took in 10.00 with a headlock, the former champion was sent to the mat several times with short arm-scissors holds, from which he freed himself by desperate efforts.

ICE UNFIT FOR PLAY.
The ice at the Curling Rink was not considered good enough last night for playing the games for the Victoria trophy. They will take place at the first opportunity.

Another Big Reception Accorded Arie Marks Company

LARGE AUDIENCE WITNESS "SINS OF THE FATHER"

"The Sins of the Father" is the best rural comedy drama seen in St. John's in a decade, and the Arie Marks Players production last night again attracted a large audience. Not only is the play well devised and staged but it is an artistic triumph from all angles. The characters seemed to have been made particularly for their individual roles, for each part fitted the performer like a glove.

Miss Arie Marks as Lucille Reynolds plays that role with keen craftsmanship giving emphasis to the smallest detail. Her beautiful personality is always noticeable and she has already become a popular favourite with our theatre-goers. Paul Brady portrays with exceptional skill the part of Joe Morelan. His appearance and dialect are all that could possibly be desired and thus he gives a finished performance. An outstanding character is that of Aunt Milly who is very cleverly taken by Agnes Stutz. Last evening Miss Stutz was the recipient of two beautiful bouquets as a token of appreciation of her wonderful work in this bill. The work of the remainder of the cast was nicely done. Lindsay E. Perrin as Toby Teeters appeared in a light comedy role in which he nearly rocks the building with laughter. Mr. Perrin is indeed a performer of many roles. Last night's routine was well up to the usual high standard for which this company is noted.

This afternoon and night are positively the last chance to see this beautiful play, as to-morrow's play will be "Mother's Irish Rose," a production of appeal to young and old.

DOMESTIC IMBROGLIOS THICK IN ELINOR GLYN'S CAPTIVATING COMEDY.

Most of the audience who came yesterday to witness the opening of Elinor Glyn's "How to Educate a Wife," at the Nickel Theatre, were not disappointed. On the contrary, they got the treat of their lives.

When the announcement was broadcast that Elinor Glyn, the creator of the book, "Three Weeks," which has gone on thrilling generation after generation, had a story on the education of wives, all who were married, or going to be married, made mental resolves to see the picture.

It is a wonderful picture.

The acting of Marie Prevost and Monte Blue in the leading roles is a thing worth seeing, Marie as the wife who tries to help her struggling husband to success by flirting with his clients, and Monte as the husband who likes the idea of educating his wife to help him, until the moment when his jealousy masters him, and he

The Ocean Around Newfoundland

(By A. H. HUNTSMAN, Director of Atlantic Station, Biological Board of Canada)

CATCHES VARY FROM SEASON TO SEASON.

The fishery in and near the Strait is very interesting, the catches at a given point varying enormously from season to season or even from week to week. Tradition has it that near Bonne Esperance there was once a "city" of one thousand souls, called Brest, of which now scarcely a trace remains, so good was the fishery for a time and so badly did it fail. It is now quite clear that these violent fluctuations are largely due to the changing temperature conditions, as the latter are extremely variable and range from 29 degrees F. to 60 degrees F.

What is the reason for the exceptional richness of the fisheries of the Newfoundland region? Its water comes largely from the Labrador current, which has received through Hudson Strait and Bay the drain water from a large part of the prairie region of Western Canada. The water is of a quite heavy nature in fish and food for fish. Its food material is largely locked up in the immense numbers of glittering jelly fishes, in which the water abounds, and which the fish will not touch. When they reach the Newfoundland region and the temperature rises, they die, decompose, and provide fertilizer for an abundant growth of minute plants, which serve as food for small shrimp, and, ultimately, for a wealth of fishes.

Carnation Has the Taste of Purity

Why is Carnation the purest and safest milk you can buy? Because it is hermetically sealed, then sterilized. And that accounts for that distinctive taste—the taste of purity.

This characteristic taste is not evident in your cooked foods, but you will find a greatly improved flavor in all dishes in which this wholesome milk is used. It adds a creamy smoothness and improves texture, because Carnation is pure, fresh milk evaporated to double richness, kept safe by sterilization.

Sold by grocers everywhere at moderate prices—order several tall (16 oz.) cans or by the case of 48 cans.

THE WET BLANKET OF INGRATITUDE. A Letter Friend has her ask what it cost and then remind me that she never had a dress that cost as much as that. "Or if my husband gives me a ring for Christmas, for her to say 'that, it's wicked to spend money that way. I really don't think it's mother's fault, but she has a sister who lives near her and who never liked and I think Aunt Emma puts these ideas into mother's head. I notice that mother is always more dissatisfied after Aunt Emma has been there. I try not to let it influence me but it's awfully hard not to be hurt by things like that. And that makes a girl between us. And then I keep wondering if I really am selfish. It is so hard to tell."

His People To Be Considered. "I really think I would do more if the money were all my own, but there's my husband to consider and I know his people think we do too much instead of too little. Do go a step further than you did the other day and write about the wet blanket of ingratitude, I know I ought not to feel that way but I do, and I guess other people are like me."

Peek-a-Boo Islands

After taking all the trouble to ascertain the exact position of a new island in the China Sea and mark it on the charts, the hydrographers of the various nations have had to exchange it again, says a writer in the New York Times. The ocean bottom, he says, is continually rising and falling, and islands, which are the tops of submarine mountains, frequently appear and disappear. We read of this particular island:

"It was the largest of several thrown up during the recent Japanese earthquake. When it was apparently firmly set and vegetation commenced to grow on it, one of the most notorious of the Chinese pirates, known as Mala Dahlak, settled on it with his band of desperadoes, and from there looted ships and other islands round about. Then one day, just when the inhabitants were feasting merrily, they saw the Mala Dahlak and his island had utterly vanished. Subsequent investigation established the fact that where the island stood there is now twenty-five fathoms of water.

"Tho' in this instance the coming and going of an island was spectacular occurrences are not so uncommon, considering the world as a whole and thinking in centuries. Many islands reported ages ago are to this day mysteries which, tho' it is not considered prudent to erase from the charts, are marked 'position doubtful' or 'existence doubtful'. Some are but little peaks, large enough to wreck a vessel, but not to sustain life, while others are well-established colonies.

"These conditions are especially prevalent in the Pacific Ocean, the whole of which from the Arctic to the Antarctic seems to bear a fantastic nature. What with volcanic islands coming up, sinking down or blowing skyward, with the slow but permanent appearance of coral islands; with gentle zephyrs or tornadoes, and so-called tidal waves, it is always the unexpected which happens on the Pacific.

"In the Atlantic one does not expect these vagaries, yet even there the bottom is heaving up and down. The South Atlantic and its shores are dotted with occasional volcanic peaks whose origins are eons apart. Quite recently word came that a whole area of the sea bottom had risen vertically more than two miles, which, according to most authorities, means a subsidence elsewhere.

"Right down the center of the Atlantic there is a submarine ridge called the Challenger bank. The average depth on it is about 1,700 fathoms, with depths of 3,000 fathoms and upward on either side. On the north end of this plateau are the Azores, and in the South Atlantic the islands of Ascension, St. Helena and Tristan d'Acunha, among others, rise from it. "The island of Ascension" is of volcanic origin. It is said that the crew of a vessel nearby saw it rise from the sea on Ascension Day, but as a matter of fact it was discovered by the Portuguese navigator, Joao do Nova on Ascension Day, 1501. It is extremely barren and is used as a naval supply station only.

"The rising of a large area of the Atlantic bed, the news of it passed almost unnoticed in the press, is one of the most vast and most important of the changes in the earth's surface. It was discovered when the Eastern Cable Company's cable between Cape Town and St. Helena broke some 800 miles north of the Cape.

"The repair ship, instead of finding it at the depth it was laid, in 1899 of 2,700 fathoms, or just over three miles picked it up only a little more than three-quarters of a mile deep. Therefore the ocean bed must have risen more than two miles within the last twenty-five years.

"The magnitude of this phenomenon and some idea of the enormous pressure within the earth may be realized when one considers that heaving the 18" x 18" Ben water would be resting on the bottom with a pressure of a million pounds to the square foot, or about thirteen thousand millions tons to the square mile."

Agree Next Debt Move up to Paris

U.S. MAY PLACE RESTRAINING HAND ON PRIVATE LOANS TO FRANCE.

Washington.—(United Press.)—All shades of opinion here are agreed that the next move in the French debt settlement situation is up to Paris.

With the speech of Senator Borah recently, the White House, State and Treasury departments and the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations are in unison in declaring that some concrete proposal from France for funding her $4,000,000,000 debt is indispensable to an understanding. Fundamentally, this country believes the basis of international credit is at stake and under no circumstances will be moved from its position that the validity of the French obligation must be recognized. Later, terms may be arranged.

With its opinion made clear in official utterances and in the recent note to France, rejecting the Clemont memorandum as a basis for settlement this country can do nothing but await France's move.

Pressure may be applied to secure some action by laying a restraining hand on private loans to France, which, it is reported, is already being done, but short of going to war no other course is open except to mark time, with occasional inquiries of what France's intentions are.

The State Department heads speculation that the Government had officially stopped in to deny private loans with the following statement: "There are no inquiries, based on the Department of State's request of 1922, from American bankers relative to projected private loans to France now pending before the department."

The department's request of 1922 was that this country would like to be informed of contemplated loans so that it could advise against them if it had information that the money was to be used for armaments or other undesirable purposes. The statement, however, did not eliminate speculation over possible informal admissions to banks against making loans to France right now and careful study of its language is held by some to show that the department purposely avoided denial of such informal suggestions.

WHEELER FACES NEW CHARGES.

Barth Stone-Burton Wheeler occupies the centre of the National Capital this week out of mere rumors of petty charges against him by Attorney Stone, because of which the appointment as Supreme Judge was held up, has now developed into a real sensation, the ground of which is, as usual, grand and corruption in high places. Mr. Stone's motives in prosecuting Senator Burton K. Wheeler were questioned by a second of the Senate who refused last night to pass Stone's nomination as Court Justice because they felt that Stone was unfair in his prosecution of Wheeler. The Justice Department was deliberately staging a scene against Wheeler on a charge that had been thrown out by the investigating committee of the Senate and that, contrary to all precedent, the department was having Wheeler tried in Washington, hundreds of miles from his own home and place where because of undue influence Wheeler would be almost sure to be put on trial.

As a result of these reports Attorney General Stone appeared yesterday before the Senate Judiciary Committee to defend his actions and he succeeded in putting the hearing in an open session beyond newspaper men, there were few spectators. For four days Senator Walsh of Montana in the Senate's dual capacity of committee chairman and Wheeler's counsel, Stone's committee that he assumed responsibility for the proceedings and that the case to be brought in Washington is wholly independent of the action which Senator Wheeler is undertaking in Montana and that the nature of the acts and the evidence to be used, and the only place, for the case to be tried, to a grand jury. The Attorney General said the present charges against Wheeler involve a conspiracy to defraud the Government of certain oil and mineral lands, and that the permits held by the Government are people from whom Wheeler charged with accepting a fee for going on their behalf before the Senate after he was elected to the Senate, but the charge is brought under an entirely separate section of the Act from the first alleged offence. On cross examination by Senator Walsh, the Attorney General admitted that some of the evidence taken in the previous case against Wheeler would be used in the new action and that some of the previous witnesses might likewise be brought in. Mr. Stone felt that his dignity had been rudely shaken by his having to appear before a Senate Committee to defend his motives as the highest law officer of the land but he stood the four-hour bombardment by Senator Walsh with commendable imperturbability, and there was little doubt on the point of the committee's being fully satisfied that the action against Wheeler has been taken in all good faith and that Washington is, under the circumstances, the logical place for the matter to be submitted to a grand jury. A special grand jury to hear the indictment was summoned and sworn in yesterday and the hearing will be proceeded with without delay.

A GREAT MISSIONARY GATHERING.

Thousands of delegates from all parts of Canada and the United States are now in Washington attending one of the largest conventions ever held in connection with foreign mission work. The convention, which is being sponsored by more than one hundred Protestant denominations, opened its sessions in the Washington Auditorium on Wednesday afternoon when the gathering was addressed by President Coolidge. This world missionary conference will exceed in importance, from all aspects, any such gathering held since 1888. In 1900 a similar convention was held in New York and ten years later Edinburgh, Scotland was the scene of another mammoth gathering of world missionary workers. A convention of a like nature was to have been held here in 1920 but general conditions at that time rendered the project impractical. It is estimated that some 5,000 delegates are here for the present sessions and this number includes many church dignitaries one of whom is Rev. Dr. James Endicott of Toronto. Telling of the aims of the convention, one of the city papers says: "The convention is not being held to deal with questions and problems of administration on the mission field. Its messages are being centered upon enlarging the interest and deepening the conviction of the Christian people at the home base as to their foreign mission responsibilities and obligations. There will be many sectional meetings. Literature, medicine, evangelism, education, even agriculture, social service, industry and recruiting work will enter into a tangent relationship with the main convention in simultaneous conferences by small groups. China, India, Siam and Malaysia, Africa and the Philippines, all nooks and crannies of the world, will present subject-matter for discussion."

WILL THEY NEVER LEARN!
What the average American seems to know about the world beyond the particular State he happens to be living in could be recounted on a postage stamp and there wouldn't be any kick about "pressure on space". This, however, is not to be wondered at when he sees almost daily evidences of unbelievable ignorance of the geography of their own continent displayed by leading American newspapers. Over a press dispatch dated at St. John's, Newfoundland, Washington's leading daily has this heading: "Fishing Villages in Nova Scotia Report Boats Missing in Storm Unfound". At first blush this sort of thing might be considered merely inadvertence, but the fact of the matter is that those in the United States who do not think that Newfoundland is within the Arctic Circle believe that it is part and parcel of Canada, and any attempt to explain that Newfoundland is a country entirely independent of her sister Dominion, having the same status as the latter as a British possession and with her own government, is regarded as a sign of mental weakness.

Addressing the semi-annual session of the business organization of the Government a few days ago, President Coolidge stressed the necessity for further economy in the administration of public affairs, so that the taxpayer's burden might be made lighter. Expenditures during the coming year, he said, exclusive of debt reduction and postal outlay, must be brought under $3,000,000,000, and to accomplish this there must be a reduction of $62,000,000 in the budget now in course of preparation. With this accomplished, the President expects a surplus of $373,000,000 to be achieved, and on the strength of that surplus proposals for tax reduction are to be made to the next Congress. The President expressed the belief that the country is entering upon an era of increased business activity and material prosperity, and that with increasing business it is to be expected revenues will increase, but he is adamant in his stand that increased revenues shall not be absorbed in unwarranted increases in Federal expenditures. The program is to utilize increased revenues in part to discharge the public debt and in part to make possible lessening the burden of taxation. There is no intention on the President's part that the efficiency of the Government shall be sacrificed, even in the cause of economy, and he realizes that with Federal growth there necessarily will come increased costs. But these increased costs, so far as possible, must be offset by reduction in costs of existing activities and the elimination of projects and the discontinuance of operations that can be dispensed with without interference with Federal efficiency. He believes the United States now occupies fields which should be abandoned, and that loyalty to the taxpayers demands reduction in the cost of government to a point which will reduce taxes so that they will cease to be a burden. The President emphasized the fact that the country has too many government employees and said that in 1924 the Federal pay roll reached the staggering total of $1,680,000,000. He insists that this must be reduced—not by reduction in salaries nor by parsimonious withholding from deserving pensioners—but by the dropping of unneeded employees. In the District of Columbia civil servants' salaries increased from an average of $1,134 in 1913 to $1,749 in 1924 but no suggestion is made that they are receiving too much to-day. The President realizes that his reduction program is going to call for sacrifices, but he wants "to see the sacrifices of those who are charged with the expenditure of the money of the Government somewhat commensurate with the sacrifices that have to be made in the home by the taxpayers who furnish the money for the Government."

AND STILL WE BUILD.
A building program entailing an expenditure of $50,000,000 has just been filed in the House by the Committee on public buildings and grounds and it is expected that Congress will give the bill a place on this session's program. The program has the approval of the President, the Secretary of the Treasury and the Postmaster General. Of the amount named, $50,000,000 will be spent on the erection of public buildings in Washington and $14,750,000 will be the outlay on the new memorial bridge across the Potomac from Washington to Arlington. In reporting the bill covering the buildings outlay, the Committee furnished some interesting figures and facts to substantiate their claim as to the urgency of the necessity for the expenditure. The Treasury Department, they say, is at present spending $1,185,000 annually for rentals in Washington and $23,000,000 a year elsewhere. The Post Office Department's annual rent bill is approximately $12,000,000. The report further adds that the Internal Revenue Bureau is housed in ten buildings here, the General Accounting Office in twenty-one buildings and the Department of Agriculture in forty-five buildings.

Choker necklaces come in mixed uneven effects, for instance, one side may be of smoke colored pearls and the other of pink or white pearls. Some of the hat crowns form three points on the top, while others are both pointed and dented, or perhaps just tucked in at one side. A huge poppy is used low on the flared hem of a crepe frock, and from it a scarf travels upward to wind about the neck of the wearer.
