Carrying the Flag. The gentlemen in council who are pushing the passage of a bylaw to make it compulsory on all processions to carry the Union Jack have not surely studied the subject very deeply. Laying aside altogether the question whether the Council has power to impose such a regulation, every loyal citizen must see that the act that should be a proud and honorable distinction would be come a mere observance of a civic bylaw without any distinction whatever. For our part we would not like to see any man or body of men in this country carrying the national flag under compulsion. If they would not carry it freely and gladly no act of ours should compel them to carry it. The very introduction of such a motion was unfortunate. It is calculated to create the impression that it is necessary to make Canadians respect their national flag by ordinance. Nothing could be further from the truth, and it would be given to such an idea.

We are not aware that there are bodies of the Campaign in the Town Hall.

What I desire is that our young people be aught to play good chamber music as well is hear it. I do not agree with C. Sharp. In such large institutions many young people enter who only desire superficiality, but on the other hand the earnest student can and does obtain faithful instruction of both a theoretical and practical character.

I could name with the greatest ease a score of young ladies in either institution whose playing would take high rank anywhere.

Church shows, second-rate concerts and the desire to show off are rocks young students would do well to avoid. Piano students should also make their minds up to learn some orchestral instrument.

Mr. Torrington deserves the thanks of the community for his efforts to raise musical taste, and I trust his orchestral school may bring forth good fruit.

Death of a Young Lawyer. The sudden death of James Lahe removes a face well-known in newspaper and legal circles. Mr. Lane had a severe illness some time ago, from which he never entirely resovered. A day or two ago he again took covered. A day or two ago he again took ill. Dr. Phillips, who attended him, advised him to go to the hospital, but he did not wish to go. He was seen on the street on Sunday evening. As he was not seen yesterday morning and no answer could be obtained on knocking at the door of his room at 78 Baystreet, it was forced open, and his body was found lying across the bed. Coroner Powell was notified, but on ascertaining the facts he decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

Although a young man Mr. Lane was well-known around town. At one time he was on The World's staff as a legal reporter. Latterly he had been practising as a barrister and showed considerable ability in his profession.

ROMANCE IN A TRAGEDY. A Lover's Abduction of His Sweether Died in a Cave in the Attitude

AJACCIO, May 9.—A tragedy, with a strong color of romance, has just been enacted in this ancient city—the birthplace of Napoleon. For months a band of smugglers and bandits have preyed upon the people of this vicinity, but always managed to elude the authorites. Luigi Betano, the head of the band, during one of his daylight rambles, met Marietta Pagua, the pretty daughter of a wealthy merchant. In the course of time he made her acquaintance and made violent love to her. The girl reciprocated his feeling, and afterward they frequently met by moonlight on the Strand. His signal was a song which, when the young girl heard, she would secretly join her lover.

After this had been going on for some time the lover lured his sweetheart further away from home than usual, and, according to a preconcerted arrangement with his accomplices, had her abducted and imprisoned in a cave, where she was held for ransom. of Prayer.

The girl's father suspected that she had been secreted at the headquarters of the bandits and instituted a search, whole gang were arrested, but the girl was not found. A peculiar feature of the arrest was the frantic manner in which Betano resisted arrest. Some days afterward the authorities found the cave in a dense forest, where it proved the robbers had their headquarters.

dense forest, where it proved the total had their headquarters.
Further search revealed an adjoining cave, entrance to which was obstructed by a locked door. On breaking it open they entered a spacious chamber filled with valuable booty, and in the centre of the apartment was the unfortunate Marietta, who had fallen on her knees and clasped her hads in unavailing prayer. The bandits had fastened her in their lair, and being all thrown into prison were powerless to rescue her. SINBAD'S ROC.

A few of these eggs have been found in Madagascar. LETHBRIDGE, N.W.T., May 9.—The storm of last week was the hardest on stock of any since 1886-7 and the loss will not be fully known until after the spring round-up. Reports from Macloed and Pincher Creek state that a large number of cattle were snowed under, having got under cutbanks, and the snow drifted over them, in some cases completely covering them. The cowboys were busy last week pulling out all those which were still alive, but they state that a great number had succumbed. On the north side of the river they drifted over cutbanks and we understand numbers of them liedead at the bottom while numbers of calves are running on the prairie without mothers.

An ewithing of road has been tested in a western city, which the patentee claims to be a great improvement on the underground to revolutionize street railways the world over. It consists of an underground tunnel between the tracks, through which separate steam-electric moters run. The cars above are connected with these moters by a trace chain, which passes through a slot and is fastened to the sunderstack. These moters are in shape like a cigar, and these speed, the maximum of which is easily 100 miles an hour, can readily be governed by merely pressing a button. One big advantage of the new system is that it does away with the oven bead wires. Another is that people who cannot afford to pay regular fare are carried underground in the moters for two cents single fare, out the sunders of the case who went to the United States to investigate as to what would be the most suitable system

The Meeting of The Main Body Took Strong Feeling Exhibited by the Ladies. were in the scheme. were in the scheme.

The Toronto Relief Society held its annual meeting yesterday in the public hall of the Young Women's Association, Mr. John A. Patterson in the chair. Rev. Hugh Johnston conducted the opening devotions, and the chairman began the meeting with an address upon the year's work and prospects. He called the attention of the meeting to the new social need, the need for helping others, and referred to the society's furthering of labor for the unemployed, and especially to the Industrial Room work. He regretted that there had not been the holy harmony there should have been, that there had, in fact, been a separation, and that the society calling itself the Industrial Room Society had been started. While ordinarily they would wish them God-speed, yet the lack of union might prove disastrous, and he was disposed to deplore it. He then closed with an exhortation to work and earnestness.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed and the treasurer's report was then read showing an expenditure of $3394.66, receipts to the amount of $3506.22, balance on hand of $111.56, which sum, however, will be swallowed up by an indebtedness that has been contracted. Mr. E. F. Clerke in moving the reception of the report The Toronto Relief Society held its annual

Mrs. Henderson then returned to the charge with a resolution which authorized the officials in taking the steps to oblige the convener of the industrial room to account for the monies received. This called forth some angry feelings, but Bev. H. Johnston moved a conciliatory amendment calling for a private conference, urging the members not to hurt the work by quarreling. This was not well received, the general sentiment being voiced by Mrs. Gregg, when she said that all the talking had been done that could benefit and that the majority of the ladies would be thankful to see the refractory members join some other organization.  The World would ask all its readers to consider the case of this poor man, who by two successive accidents lost the sight of both his eyes—blinded for life. Milson's own exclamation on being taken home to his wife, "Maggie, it's hard, but I'll never see you again," is more eloquent than anything else that could be said. Oh, What a Cough! 246 Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c, to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails.

Whenest 1295 bushels. Bubles Gossip From Chicago, continued bad weather all through the wheat belt was cause of the short covering early part of seasion. The local buils enthused and hought freely, on expectation of big decrease in the visible supply. They all got loaded up when Illinois State report came in showing condition to 00 90. This, with reports of better weather through Northwest, caused an easier feeling towards the close, but the close is about at opening prices. Trade has been broader to-day and, if weather-does not improve, ought to do better. Government report will be out to-morrow afternoon. There is no guessing what it will be. Corn receipts were fair. Grading continues light. The weather has about the same effect on coin as on wheat, and it sold up. The same old buil crowd has been buying July corn. The receipts of hogs were about as estimated; the prices at the stock yards were higher. Provisions opened firm and higher, influenced somewhat by the grain, but they are strong, independent of other markets. With the strength in corn, induced by the unfavorable weather, and the long interest in ribs and lard concentrated we firmly helieve in a sharp upturn in provisions and advise liberal purchases.

Henry Allen & Co. to John J. Dixon & Co.: In to-day's stock market there has been no general activity, but there has been strength. The coal stocks are particularly strong. Reading has reached 60 and Delaware and Hudson has risen three points. The latter property is helped by quiet disclosures of the fact that though the present directors will be re-elected, three of the board will soon resign to make room for Cornelius Vanderbilt and two of his colleagues, making the board practically a Vanderbilt one. Money is easy and buil points are thick, but commission offices are empty. All the facts are on the built side, but the public is not in sight.

5 AND 6 PER CENT.

Special from Henry Clews & Co., New York:

During the past week, the adverse elements in the stock market have been the unsettled position of Northern Pacific and New England, the still undecided course as to the reconstruction of Richmond terminal and the exports of gold, about which, owing to the position of silver, the market is sensitive. These factors have been the main source of ammunition for the "bears," who have drawn liberally upon them. The adverse position of these stocks seems to have been reasonably discounted, and the foreign exchanges have developed a tendency towards at falling off, if not an early cessation, in the shipments which warrant more confidence than has been an improvement in the tone, and the conviction strengthens that there are elements which warrant more confidence than has been apparent for some time past. This feeling has become so marked that commission houses are encouraging buying in anticipation of an early upward movemen; especially as holders of stock declined to be frightened into selling by the "bent" raids.

The Western crop situation remains about stationary. The season is late and, the promise of the promise of the season is late and, the promise control of the position of an early cessation in the ship and the conviction strengthens that there are elements which warrant more confidence than has been apparent for some time past.
