HOME, SWEET HOME.

Whenever thy heart is bowed down with care,
At Home kind words and smiles await thee there;
And tender hands and loving hearts will be Open and outstretch'd still to welcome thee

Home! there the footsore wanderer may rest,
And tell the story of his joyless years
Home! there the grief-sung, sorrow-buried breast
Finds sympathy in words, or smiles, or tears

Home! when in far-off brighter lands, e'en there
The lone soul yearns its simple joys to share;
And if the trackless deep 'tis thine to roam,
Thou'lt lovest to talk or dream of "Home, sweet Home."

The lowliest thatch-roof'd cot e'er built on earth
Is Home when loving hearts meet round its hearth.

UNIVERSITY OF OTTAWA.

Conferring of Degrees and Awarding of Diplomas.
The Archbishop's Address.

From the columns of the "Ottawa Free Press" we see that: notwithstanding the heavy rain of last evening, a good audience gathered in the Academic hall of the Ottawa university, to witness the conferring of degrees by his Grace Archbishop Duhamel. The boys of the school were present in good form and made matters lively by the loud and continued applause, which followed the calling of each name. The scholars all through the different grades of the school were in a perfect furere of excitement all this week waiting for the last evening's meeting.

There were present on the platform which had been beautifully decorated for the occasion His Grace Archbishop Duhamel, of Ottawa, chancellor of the university; Rev. J. McGuckin, D.D., rector of the university; Father Pillatre, D.D., the vice rector and a number of the deans, directors, professors and others. Justice Fournier, who received the title of L.L.D., occupied a prominent seat on the platform as did Justice Taschereau, Hon. Senator Scott, L.L.D., Mr. N. Belcourt, L.L.D., secretary of the faculty of law; J. J. Curran, Q. C., L.L.D., solicitor general of Canada, Rev. Father Dawson, who had the title of L.L.D., conferred upon him last evening.

The Chancellor, His Grace Archbishop Duhamel, addressed the audience in English and French, speaking in glowing terms of the benefits to be derived from a sound Catholic education in an institution of this kind, where science is linked arm in arm with virtue. His Grace pointed out the excellency of this particular institution on account of its learned professors and devoted teachers. There can be no better proof as to the benefits to be derived from this university than the fact that its pupils come from all over Canada and many from the other side of the line. He would thank all who have favored in any way this institution and would commend it to the liberality of good Catholic citizens.

He would say to those leaving the university "God bless and prosper you" and urged the younger students to return after their holiday season is past with hearts and minds ready to absorb all the faithful instruction which will most certainly fall to the lot of every one attending the school.

THE SOLICITOR GENERAL.
spoke more especially to the pupils themselves. He himself could look back as an old pupil some thirty-seven years with age pleasant recollections of the time he spent there among old associates. In the other provinces of our fair Dominion a movement is on foot leading the feeling higher and yet higher for a revolution in education. The Protestant universities are being pushed ahead very rapidly, and Toronto is still pushing its institution for further advantages in every branch of the work. Montreal deserves wonderful credit for the way its educational institutions have been kept going. To do this in this city it is absolutely necessary that large endowments should be given. To the boys who would say, be faithful to the institution from which you have graduated; be true to fatherland; be ever ready to stand up for your own faith. The friendship gained at the school is secondary only to that by the fireside. Remember in after years the teachers who have brought you ahead in useful knowledge by their hard toil and incessant endeavor.

The valedictory address was delivered in French by one of the retiring graduates, D. O. Raymond, of San Francisco, Cal., and in English by John P. Smith, of Ottawa. The citizens are thanked for their kind interest in the boys. The speech also pointed out the great self sacrifice exhibited by the rector and teachers of the university. The boys were exhorted to keep up their sports, and in conclusion the address bade farewell to the boys and teachers who have

We are pleased to note that Mr. Walter Walsh, son of William Walsh of this city and a former student of St. Boniface college, passed his matriculation examination, standing fifth in the list. Mr. Walsh is a bright and industrious youth and we predict for him a successful University career.

Safe Guides in Life.

Many men are fond posing as liberal minded. It makes no difference, say they, what a man's religious belief may be providing he leads a good life. Their philosophy is summed up in the following lines:

"For modes of Faith let graceless bigots fight,
He can't be wrong whose life is in the right."
Cardinal Manning in one of his sermons thus paraphrases them:

"For chart and compass let dull bigots fight,
He can't be wrecked who steers the ship aright."
But who can steer the ship aright without chart and compass? Who can direct his life aright without some fixed principles or dogmas by which to determine what is aright and what is awrong? Just as the mathematician regulates his operations by the fixed, unalterable, eternal principles, truths or dogmas of geometry, so must the man who would live aright regulate his actions by the equally unalterable principles of truth, justice and right. As the mathematician must know the principles of the science of geometry before he can reduce them to practice, so the free agent, man, must know the principles of moral science before he can regulate his actions by them for every human act is good or bad as it conforms to or clashes with these principles.—Philadelphia Catholic Times

Gleaned From Many Sources.

A Scotchman, who employs 4,000 French women in Paris making lace, has sent a pair of curtains for a bay window to the World's Fair. In the six months required for the making of these curtains 2,000 different women worked on them. The cost of this single pair of curtains three yards long, was $6,000. The Scotchman himself came to superintend the hanging of his $50,000 worth of lace exhibit.

Doctor: Now, Jonny, put out your tongue, and let me see it. Jonny: Well, I'd rather not. I've been walloped often enough for making faces at you behind your back.

become as brothers and very close friends.

Twelve thousand bushels of Canadian wheat which had become wet were dumped into lake Superior from the steamer Sitka to avoid the duty of twenty-five cents a bushel.

The beautiful stone structure standing at the corner of 35th street and Wabash avenue, Chicago, one-half way to the fair and known as the "De La Salle Institute," is now open and complete for the reception of visitors. Single rooms $1.00; double rooms 75 cents each; Rooms in the immediate neighborhood accommodating two persons can now be procured from $1.00 a day in respectable private families, while meals in the best restaurants are supplied for 25 cents. The present rates are lower than have been since the fair opened.

The election in the parliamentary division of North East Cork to fill the vacancy caused by the withdrawal of Michael Davitt was held on the 28th of June, and resulted in the return of William Abraham, anti-Parnellite, without opposition. In the south-east division of Cork Dr. Andrew Cummings, anti-Parnellite, was elected by acclamation.

Director-General Davis wants to substitute 1,000 regular policemen for the Columbian Guards, and thus save $23,000 to the fair, besides giving visitors better protection.

Our esteemed contemporary the "Boston Republic," gives this sensible advice: "It is the duty of all Catholics to demonstrate their loyalty to the institutions of the republic by faithfully, patriotically and honorably discharging their obligations as good citizens and upholders of law and order. Let the bigots have a monopoly of the dark lantern business of proscription and intolerance. The time will come when they will be relegated back to the oblivion which is their proper lot and portion. It is absurd to suppose that 11,000,000 American citizens can be deprived of their rights and privileges by the clamor of a few fanatics."

Catholics and Protestants joined in tendering Mgr. Satolli a reception on his arrival in Helena, Mont. The archbishop in reply to the address of welcome, spoke extemporaneously in English for the first time in this country. He said he had long nourished a desire to see the State of Montana, and it was a source of pleasure to find among the mountains a vigorous church built upon the solid foundation of free institutions and equal justice to all men.

Dearlest Norah, I just got your letter,
And I hasten to answer the same.
If the writing is bad or the spelling,
It's the pen, not myself, you must blame.

But it is not of that you'll be thinking
When the contents of this you peruse
Faith, I know you will give me your blessing
When I send you such excellent news;
Oh, how often I think of the last time
When together we stood side by side,
You gave your pure heart to my keeping,
And promised that you'd be my bride.

Then I left you and came to the city,
Little fearing its tumult and strife,
Ever patiently toiling and striving
To build up a home for my wife.
That was six months ago, dearest
Norah,
And it almost discouraged my mind
To think that with six months of labor
So little saved up do I find.

But whisper, my beautiful colleen,
A secret I'll tell in your ear
That will gladden the heart of my darling
And banish all shadow of fear.
There's a place in this prosperous city
That's famous all over the land.
It is stocked with all things you can think of,
Carpets and Furniture grand.

And the best of all, dearest Norah,
We can wed now without much delay.
We can furnish our house upon Credit,
Having trifling installments to pay.
You see there is hope for us, Norah,
And all things turn out for the best.
Let us trust to J. H. Black & Co., Wood-ward avenue,
And they will arrange all the rest.
I'll engage a quiet cottage to live in
With peace and contentment and you,
And with this I'll be after remaining
Michael Foley, your lover so true.

lot are only two of many—all worthy of praise—Catholic Review.

In another column we give a short report of the closing exercises of the University of Ottawa. This celebrated institution, which has taken a front rank among the Universities of Canada, has had a most successful scholastic year.

The Catholic Record of London, Ontario, says: The New York Catholic parochial schools have again shown their superiority to the Public Schools of the city.

His Grace's Letter. We recently published a lengthy letter addressed by His Grace, to the Free Press, on the subject: "Are the Public Schools of Manitoba the continuation of the Protestant schools of the same province?"

After a careful perusal of that letter by any intelligent man, the only conclusion that can possibly be arrived at is that the archbishop has made it quite clear that they are, in every sense of the word, a continuation of the Protestant schools.

The local organ of the government has made an attempt to refute the position of His Grace; but its articles are unworthy of even a passing notice, and emphasize by their utter failure, the absolute impossibility of successfully weakening the masterly arrangement of those schools, by His Grace.

The politicians in the east, who appear so anxious to evade this question, will not be able to longer claim that they are ignorant of the position in which the new law places the Catholic minority.

CONTEMPTIBLE HYPOCRISY. The Winnipeg Tribune is nothing if not dishonest. Here is a sample: Once in a while one of the Roman Catholic organs asks if we would like to see separate schools abolished in Quebec where the minority is Protestant.

What term in the English language, can describe such canting hypocrisy? What we have frequently asked of the Tribune was not "how it would like to see separate schools abolished in Quebec," but how it would like to see the Catholic majority in Quebec abolish the separate school system there, and compel the Protestant minority in that province to support Catholic schools under the dishonest name of National Public Schools?

France has just conferred the decoration of the Legion of Honor on two Jesuit priests—Collin and Robet—for their great-geographical work in the Island of Madagascar and the east coast of Africa.

The Catholic minority here is proportionally larger than the Protestant minority in Quebec. Is the answer to be found in Protestantism itself? As our contemporary is so ready to answer questions never asked it, would it have the goodness to take up those questions, not in the spirit of a canting hypocrite, but in that of an honest man, and give us its views.

VICE PRESIDENT SIFTON. At the recent convention of the Liberal Party the Hon. Clifford Sifton was chosen a Vice President, to represent the principles and uphold the policy of the great Liberal Party in Manitoba.

Mr. Sifton is a very slick politician and, we admit, represents all the brains and ability to be found in the Greenway government, as at present constituted, but as an exponent of Liberal principles, as we were taught them, he is a huge fraud. In Dominion politics, he denounced the gerrymander and the franchise act while in Manitoba politics he defended and aided in passing acts on gerrymander and franchise monstrously worse.

True; but he was a member of the House and was an active and apt defender of the government when they were engaged in the dishonorable and infamous occupation of violating those pledges; he made a speech in defence of the government's dastardly policy, although at the time he knew that the First minister and his attorney general had pledged their honor, the honor of the government and, what was more, the honor and integrity of the Liberal party, that that foul deed, that monstrous breach of faith would never be entertained much less perpetrated on the Catholics of Manitoba.

THE COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

The following is the programme of the Distribution exercises at the academy last Friday. Chorus—Hail Festal Morning. Piano Solo—Hail Festal Morning. Chorus—Hail Festal Morning. God Save the Queen.

The choruses were well rendered especially the second "Hail Festal Morning," the bright, gay air was well adapted to the title. But the piece that followed deserves special mention. Although it is so difficult it was executed by three young ladies. Misses E. Cyr, A. Kition, A. Gingras, on three pianos, each playing the same composition, but with such perfect measure and expression, that you would believe only one piano was in play.

His Grace at Peguis and Selkirk.

Last Friday the 7th inst. our venerable archbishop started for Selkirk in company with Very Rev. Fr. A. Langevin, O. M. I., vicar of missions, in view of visiting this part of his immense diocese and also to bless a new bell lately bought by Very Rev. Fr. T. Allard, O. M. I., vicar-general in charge of that mission.

His Grace wished to profit by this occasion to pay a visit to the good Indians of Peguis—three of them came to take him in their canoe, last Saturday, and on his arrival at the Reserve the Indians fired a salute to express their joy. Sunday morning after high mass, Very Rev. Fr. Allard, O. M. I., having given a most impressive sermon, they say, in Indian, the sacrament of confirmation was administered by the archbishop to several members of the congregation, children and adults.

Several spoke even eloquently. At the end, the father of a young Indian who had left the Industrial school of St. Boniface in a moment of discouragement, came forward and making his child kneel down—"speak thy heart, he said, and beg pardon for thy fault." Then both father and son as well as the mother before made excuse for the past.

When the Indians departed each one gave evident signs of gladness like good loving sons surrounding a beloved father and the impression was "how they love him, and how he loves them!" As a result of this visit a pagan square whose children are Catholics and who refused baptism for several years, came forward, and, touched by the grace of God, she asked for that sacrament—being sufficiently instructed, she received it at the hands of the Very Rev. Fr. T. Allard, O. M. I., their zealous missionary.

Sunday afternoon the same bark brought back His Grace to Selkirk where the church was crowded with people anxious to see the venerable prelate, and to take part in the ceremony of the blessing of the new bell. The sacrament of confirmation was first administered to several persons, children and adults. The Very Rev. Fr. A. Langevin, O. M. I., delivered a sermon on the significance of the ceremony that was to take place. He showed how every part of it, every prayer was based on scripture, and both Protestants and Catholics pronounced it to be a very interesting and instructive discourse. His Grace blessed and anointed the bell and the first to toll it. The collection is said to have been very abundant. His Worship the Mayor of Selkirk and his wife, and several prominent persons were present.

When the religious ceremony was over, an address was read by Mr. Russell on behalf of the Catholics of Selkirk. His Grace answered by urging the necessity of living in peace with all who surround us. Being all British subjects, he said, we should try to take our share of the privileges and rights imparted to us by this title. Every "Manitoban" should work for the good and prosperity of this country. Loyalty to the country, cannot prevent us from being faithful to our religious convictions. I bless those who are here present, and the whole city of Selkirk.

BECAUSE SHE WAS A CATHOLIC. A Denver Orangeman Murders a Defenceless Woman. The work of the insane Orange bigot is beginning to bear its deadly fruit. One of them, a William Nesbit, from the North of Ireland, the incubator where the unnatural things are produced, was condemned to death in Denver for the murder of Mrs. Irwin. The wretch walked into her bedroom and deliberately killed the defenceless woman. The plea put forth by counsel was an extraordinary one. It was alleged in his behalf that he was not responsible for the killing of Mrs. Irwin, owing to the fact that he was an Orangeman, with whom hatred of Catholics was a virtue which had been religiously instilled into his nature by his mother when he was a child in Ireland. It was intimated that he had as a child taken an oath to hate, detest and dispise the name of Catholic.

GRANTLEY MANOR

A TALE

LADY GEORGINA FULLERTON,

Author of "Lady Bird," "Ellen Middleton," &c

CHAPTER IX.

"You will see her to-morrow," Maud answered; "she will come with my father and mother, and we all remain till Saturday."

"I am so glad of that," exclaimed Mrs. Warren, who had followed them into the room, "and especially that I find you mean to be very gay this week, Miss Leslie."

"Oh, yes," replied Margaret, in an absent and dejected tone; "so very gay."

"On Thursday there is to be a ball," said Maud, "and on Friday we shall act charades. Whom do you expect to-morrow, Margaret, besides my people?"

"Sir Charles D'Arcy, and my uncle, John Thornton."

"You must display all your talents on the occasion, signora," said Mrs. Warren turning to Ginevra; "you must sing, and act, and compose."

"Oh, of course," interrupted Maud; "you will be the prima donna, and act to perfection. I wonder what part would suit you best?"

Ginevra's lip was quivering, and her head bent over her frame to hide the workings of her countenance.

"We ought to have a scene from 'The Two Foscari,'" Maud continued, "or, to aspire still higher, from 'All's Well that ends Well.' The very name of that play is a moral."

"Do you know that he talks of running away? I believe we are actually to lose him to-morrow."

"What, Mr. Neville, is it possible?" Maud exclaimed; and Margaret and Ginevra raised their eyes at the same moment.

"I have had letters from Ireland, which oblige me to go home," he answered briefly.

"And when shall you settle at Darrellcourt?" asked Walter.

"That depends entirely upon circumstances. Perhaps very soon—perhaps never."

"A scuffle was heard at the door, and a large mastiff of the St. Bernard breed burst into the room; and rushed to his master with all the impetuosity of joy and exulting recognition."

"Oh, what a magnificent creature!" exclaimed Maud Vincent, and bent down to caress him. He growled at her, and she withdrew alarmed. Margaret and Mrs. Warren also vainly tried to approach him, and Edmund called him towards the door, when, suddenly leaving his master, the dog approached Ginevra, smelt her dress an instant, and then uttering a low joyful cry, jumped upon her, licked her face and hands, and laid his large head on her knees. She caressed him an instant, and then pushed him gently away, Edmund said, aloud—

"I suppose, signora, that old Bruno acknowledges you for his countrywoman?"

The color rushed into her cheeks; perhaps these words brought to her mind her own snowy Alps, and the Italian valleys at their feet, for she snatched the dog in her arms, and laid her face on his shaggy neck. Twice she repeated his name with a kind of passionate fondness, as if she lingered over the syllables and fixed them in her memory.

"You should improvise some stanzas, signora," observed Mr. Warren, "in honor of the dog who has paid you so signal a compliment."

General exclamations broke forth in support of Mr. Warren's suggestion. Edmund at the same time said something in a low voice to old Bruno, who had returned to him, and Ginevra's eyes fixed themselves upon him with an earnest, steady gaze that seemed to make him uneasy; the color deepened in his cheek, and leaning against the chimney, he hid his face with his arm. Still her eyes followed him, as if unconsciously; but in a few seconds she fixed them on the dog, who was now lying at her feet, and in a low, deep voice, whose accents fell on the ear like the whisperings of an Eolian harp, she repeated some stanzas in Italian, the sense of which may thus be rendered in English—

"Friend of the wanderer! Guide in the storm! In thy native mountains thou art wont to seek the lingering life that is ebbing away in the grasp of death. The voice of the torrent, the fall of the avalanche, the smooth and fatal whiteness of the deep valley, cannot blind thy instinct or deceive thy sympathies."

"Brave dog of the St. Bernard! Tried friend of the wanderer! When the shades of night have closed about him, and the precipice is yawning at his feet, and the peaks of the Alps, in their snowy shrouds, hang over him like ghosts, and he gives himself up for lost, it is then thy familiar bark, thy warm breath, thy strength, and thy tenderness, revive him. O, thou friend in need! O, thou guide in darkness! But it is given to thee, too, to read the tearless eye, and discern the struggles of the soul under the smooth surface of apparent calmness. Does some strange instinct tell thee where a human heart is throbbing in silence, like the torrents of thine own Alps, when an icy prison binds them?"

"The first breath of summer will burst their chains; they will spring forth exulting into life, and gladden the valleys with their cataracts of foam, their rainbow colors, and their deep songs of joy. The spring must come to them; the sweet breeze of the south must waken them again to life and to liberty; but the whisperings of hope—when will they reach the heart that is waxing cold in its misery? The sunshine of love—when will it melt the icy prison where the soul is struggling in silence?"

"Thy kind eyes, thy warm breath, cannot do it; thy strength is vain, thy pity is useless. It lies not with thee to comfort the sick at heart, or to revive the spirit which man has blighted. Go back to thy mountains, brave dog of the St. Bernard; go to the snow-drifts, and bid them yield their victims; call to the abyss, and bid it give up its dead; seek for life in the glaciers, and carry warmth to the perishing; but come not in thy impotent love, and in thy vain compassion, to speak of hope to those whom hope is forsaking, or of joy to those whose joy is departed."

"What do you wish? What do you want, sister?" she asked, as if she did not know what she said.

"At that moment the sound of carriage-wheels was heard, and both sisters started.

"Yes," exclaimed Margaret, in a loud voice, as the sound died away in the distance—"yes, he is going! he goes! and would to Heaven he had never known you or me; would to God he had never set his eyes upon us, and brought misery to me and to you. Oh! what has he brought to you? I know not—I dare not—I cannot think or speak; but guilty, very guilty you must be, Ginevra—for darkness, and silence, and shame have attended your actions. A false innocence has been on your brow, and a false virtue on your tongue. You have deceived me with every feature in your face, and with every accent of your voice. He is gone; yes, thank Heaven! he is gone; but peace, and hope, and trust, are gone too, forever gone, from this, my once happy home. O, may he never return! May my eyes never behold him again! May his own conscience, if deceit and treachery have not forever hardened it, torment and punish him for the misery he has brought upon me,—ay, and upon you," she continued, (as Ginevra faintly murmured, "For God's sake—for mercy's sake, do not curse him, Margaret.")—"you, my fallen, my most unhappy sister. O Ginevra! Ginevra! was it for this that you were made so beautiful, so highly gifted, so captivating, to be only so infinitely vile. Ginevra, I could hate you for the injury you have done me, if I did not pity you from my soul. You, who know so well, who can talk so well of pure, and noble, and holy things, you cannot be hardened—you cannot be so dead to all feeling—"

Was it the calm of death; was it the leadenness of the soul that made those pale blue eyes so clear and mild, in their meek and most expressive sadness? Was the look of tenderness with which she watched the excited and quivering features of her indignant sister, another piece of well-acted deceit; and the convulsive energy with which she pressed to her heart the small crucifix she wore round her neck, another proof of hollow formalism or miserably hypocrisy?"

"Sister," she said at last, when, exhausted by her own vehemence, Margaret fell on a chair with her face hid in her hands—"sister, you must think ill, very ill of me; I cannot expect, or even wish that you should not. No, Margaret, always shrink from the very first approach to evil or deceit. Shrink from it as from a poisonous serpent, and abhor it whenever and wherever you meet with it."

The fashionable resort for all pleasure seekers visiting "the Saratoga of the West."

This hotel has been recently largely increased, completely renovated and luxuriantly furnished. No expense has been saved in making it the most comfortable, attractive and home like residence for the public.

The pleasure and comfort of our guests are our constant and studious consideration and no trouble is spared to secure this object. We have just completed arrangements with a band of musicians who are now coming from the east to furnish music during the lunch and dinner hours and in the evening for our guests.

Once a week the band will supply dance music in the large and comfortable hall of the hotel for those of our guests who like dancing.

The proprietor has secured a steamer of sufficient size to accommodate parties wishing to make excursions on the lake and view its charming scenery, and enjoy its cool and health-giving breezes.

The hotel is beautifully situated, overlooking the lake and the balconies being wide, make a pleasant resort for guests in the cool of the evening.

Hot and cold baths, large, airy bed-rooms and elegant parlors, double rooms for families.

The dining room, offices and commercial sample rooms are perfect.

All enquiries from tourists or camping parties, re rates, camping grounds, etc., promptly answered.

The bar supplied with choicest liquors and cigars. Camping parties supplied with everything needed on short notice.

and no mistake, but we can fit it, or any other head for that matter. It's a matter of importance to you to look at our stock of Spring hats before you make a purchase. Know what to buy before you do so. You can't half appreciate the new styles until you look over our collection. When you've done that, it'll be as easy as falling down to make up your mind what your new hat will be. It'll be a delay, if bought at our store.

The Law Regarding Newspapers

1. Any person who takes a paper regularly from the post office, whether in his name or another's, or whether he has subscribed or not, is responsible for payment. 2. If a person orders his paper discontinued, he must pay up all arrears, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made and then collect the whole amount whether the paper is taken from the office or not. 3. In suits for subscriptions, the suit may be instituted in the place where the paper is published, although the subscriber may reside hundreds of miles away. 4. The courts have decided that refusing newspapers or periodicals from the post office, or removing or leaving them uncalled for while unpaid, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

"Be sure you get Ayer's" is an important caution to all in search of a thoroughly reliable blood-purifier, Ayer's Sarsaparilla being the one on which there can be no manner of doubt. It has stood the test of nearly half a century, and has been considered the standard.

Keep the Works in good order. NORMAN, Ont., January 15, 1890. DEAR SIR—Your "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills" are the best regulator for the system that humanity can use. Life is as the time-piece: frail and delicate are many of its works. A tiny particle of foreign substance adheres to the smallest wheel in the works, and what is the result?—at first, only a slight difference is perceptible in its time-keeping, but wait you; as the obstruction grows, the irregularity becomes greater, until at last, what could have been rectified with little trouble, in the beginning, will now require much care in thoroughly cleansing the entire works. So it is in human life—a slight derangement is neglected, it grows and increases, imperceptibly at first, then rapidly, until what could, in the beginning, have been cured with little trouble, becomes almost fatal. To prevent this, I advise all to purify the system frequently, by the use of Morse's Pills, and so preserve vigor and vitality. Yours faithfully, H. F. ATWELL.

The Travelers' Safe-Guard. AMAGAUDUS FORD, N.S., Jan. 27, '90. W. H. COMSTOCK, Brockville, Ont. DEAR SIR,—For many years, I have been a firm believer in your "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills." Not with a blind faith, but a confidence wrought by an actual personal experience of their value and merit. My business is such that I spend much of my time away from home, and I would not consider my traveling outfit complete without a box of Morse's Pills. Yours, etc., M. R. McLEWIS.

A valuable Article sells well. BORACIOUS HARBOR, N.S., Jan. 23, '90. DEAR SIR,—This is to certify that I deal in Patent Medicines, including various kinds of Pills. I sell more of the Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills than of all the others combined. Their sales I find are still increasing. Yours, etc., M. L. NICOLETSON.

It is stated that a large number of new churches and school houses are being built upon the Indian reservation in South Dakota this year. Agent Lillibridge, of the Cheyenne agency is authority for the statement that there are seventeen missionaries, all Indians but two; ten churches, and four more being built. During the past year the Indians have donated a large amount of money for the support of these churches.

THE funeral of Archie McEachran the switchman who met death by an accident in the C. P. R. yards on Thursday evening last took place at St. Mary's cemetery on Sunday. Deceased was an old employe of the company, a married man with a family of young children. The injuries included broken ribs and scap wound, and it is thought the latter caused concussion of the brain. The funeral arrangements were in charge of the Association of Switchmen, of which deceased was a member and was largely attended.

A CATHOLIC priest writing to the Michigan Catholic well says: To the Catholic family the weekly Catholic paper is priest, friend and physician. In my experience I have discovered that the more ignorant a Catholic parent is of the Catholic faith and of the duties which it demands, the less Catholic the parent is, and the more trouble will the said Catholic parent make for the priest concerning the Catholic school. It is because I feel the Catholic parent would prove a great help to me that I write you this.

WE clip the following encouraging paragraph from the Milwaukee Catholic Citizen regarding Catholic education in the United States, of which the same is applicable to our Catholic schools of Manitoba, despite a "colossal" Government: Judging from the commencement reports, our Catholic colleges, academies and schools have enjoyed a prosperous year of it, and are steadily advancing all over the country. The attendance at the parochial schools is annually growing larger and the schools themselves are multiplying in all the dioceses, a pretty good indication that late endeavors to begot the educational question have not been productive of any detriment to the cause of Catholic education.

THE Canadian Freeman says: The latest sensational event of importance in Ontario is the matter of a member of the Ontario Legislature becoming a preacher. Mr. Miscampbell, M.P.P., applied to the Presbyterian Assembly in session at Brantford, last week, for permission to enter the ministry without the necessity of going through an art course in Toronto University. Some of the members doubted if a course in provincial politics was a preparation for the ministry equal to an art course in the university. We would suggest that if Mr. M.P.P., has any doubt as to gaining permission to enter the ministry in Ontario it would be a pious notion for him to get sail for Winnipeg, and by the time he puts in a term in the Manitoba Legislature he will be fit for almost anything. In fact we have some ministers here that are very fair politicians, without even a course in provincial politics. There should be no reason why this rule should not work both ways.

THE Rev. John Baptiste Charbonneau, pastor of the church of Notre Dame, in Adams, Mass., died at his home in that town on Thursday evening last. Father Charbonneau was born Dec. 16, 1852, at Contrecoeur, Province of Quebec, Canada. He received his early education in that place and finished his classical studies in Assumption Seminary near Montreal. In December, 1876, he was ordained a priest of the Roman Catholic by Bishop Fabre, Archbishop of Montreal. He was retained as curate in Montreal at the church of the Sacred Heart for three years. His health being poor, he was then given a brief vacation, after which he went to Albany, N. Y., as curate. There he remained a few months and then was transferred to North Adams, where he was given the local French parish, taking charge in March, 1882. The regard in which Father Charbonneau was held by the Protestants as well as Catholic of Adams, is demonstrated by a touching tribute to his memory signed by the pastor of six Protestant churches of that town. These ministers speak of him as "a brother and a fellow worker for the uplifting of mankind."—Montreal True Witness.

Mgr. Satolli's Wit. The Catholic Citizen contains the following:—There is a vein of humor in Mgr. Satolli's make-up, as witness the following incident: In blessing St. Joseph's school at St. Paul, on Sunday, he also took occasion to impose a benediction on all the schools of the country. At this point his benign countenance became radiant, and his eye twinkled with a merry smile as he continued: "And a particular blessing on the schools of Stillwater and Paribault." Every one present saw the point, and a ripple of laughter was the result. This is not what the paid organs of the Manitoba Government would lead us to believe.

The Great Female Medicine. The functional irregularities peculiar to the weaker sex are invariably corrected, without pain or inconvenience by the use of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. They are the safest and surest medicine for all the diseases incidental to females of all ages, and the more especially so in this climate. Ladies who wish to enjoy health should always have these Pills. No one who ever uses them once will allow herself to be without them. Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are sold by all Medicine Dealers.
