REAL WINTER PORT DEVELOPMENT HAS BEGUN

HOW EDITOR MACDONALD OF THE TORONTO GLOBE HANDLED GEO. E. FOSTER

Foster's Record Held Up to the Gaze of All Honest Canadians—"A Discredited Financier, an Intriguer and a Political Suicide" Says Mr. MacDonald.

(Toronto News, Conservative) The features of Mr. W. H. Shaw's annual campaign meeting last night in Wardell's Hall was the attack made by Mr. J. A. Macdonald, editor of The Globe, on Hon. George E. Foster. Mr. Macdonald impugned Mr. Foster's honesty and integrity in the plainest terms, and said that he was wholly incapable of showing any gratitude to those who had befriended him, referred to Mr. Foster's connection with the Union Trust Co., and concluded with the statement that all of the statements which he and his colleagues had written in The Globe about the former for North Toronto, and which had been characterized by him as lies, were true, even though some of them were prepared to stick by what they had said.

"Mr. Foster and Mr. Shaw," he said, "are men both of whom I have known to you, and it is not necessary for me to make any comparison between them tonight. As for myself, I had intended to keep personalities out of this campaign, but the Conservatives have chosen to make the campaign one of slander and innuendoes, and this has caused a change in my plans. Mr. Foster has seen fit to address his attack to me, and it would be very negligent on my part if I ignored him at night."

Wright said that I would not fight Mr. Foster on his dung-hill. Now, he is very elegant and very savage, but it describes reasonably well the situation. The words are mine, I did not fight him on his dung-hill so long as he chooses that as his chosen ground for the fight. And that is his chosen ground in the present election campaign. It can be seen that very easily, but it is deplorable and despicable that politics of the land, he and his companions have spent their time in gathering together all the muck and the scandal that they could lay their hands on, and then the mud they had laid was wiped off to hide his own damaged reputation.

But Mr. Foster has been very bold.

BALKAN WAR CLOUD IS PASSING OVER

This is the Opinion of British Officialdom—At the Same Time Servian Minister of War Says Hostilities can Hardly be Avoided.

Belgrade, Oct. 10.—Even in official circles it is now believed that war is unavoidable.

M. Pasics, minister of war, in an interview with the Associated Press correspondent, declared the situation most critical, adding: "Hostilities can hardly be avoided."

A big mass meeting was held this morning after which the demonstrators marched to the Skupstina, the members of which are assembling, clamoring for war. The feeling among the members of the assembly that the Austrian monitors, which are coming down the Danube, have reached the Servian frontier, is already beginning to alarm the people.

Cetinje, Montenegro, Oct. 10.—Prince Nicholas yesterday issued a manifesto, stating that "As today the terms of the peace of Berlin are infringed on one side by the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, obligation on our part to observe article 29 of that treaty is lost. The treaty being broken upon us, and our maritime rights being cruelly limited, Montenegro considers herself no longer bound by these fetters."

London, Oct. 10.—The war cloud in the Balkans is believed by British officials to be passing. The only prospect of danger is with the Emotional Servians, and their king, who is the upholder of the opportunity of saving his family popular by his soldiers to battle.

A remarkable feature of the situation is the self-control of the Turks, who are acting practically under the direction of Sir Edward Grey, the British Secretary of State for War, who is supposed to have written the British note to Austria-Hungary which was published yesterday.

The fact that Turkey is not deeply aroused in the Balkans is due to the fact that she will not tolerate further provocation and that she is prepared for eventualities should the Skupstina today declare war or make an aggressive move.

The fifteenth Austro-Hungarian Army Corps occupied the frontier along the Danube and a fleet of river gunboats is concentrating at Semlin. (Semin is a Hungarian town on the Danube opposite Belgrade and is connected with the Servian capital by a bridge.) France is using her utmost endeavor at Belgrade to restrain King Peter and the Servian Government. Further advice received from the foreign office indicate that the exact position of the Servians is that they are not at all fever heat, but there is no confirmation of the many alarming rumors published in the Paris newspapers this morning.

BERLIN GREETS MR. MACKENZIE KING

Four Thousand People Heard his Spirited Address Last Night.

Berlin, Oct. 10. (Special)—Four thousand people greeted Mr. Mackenzie King here last night, when he spoke to workmen. Mr. King pointed out at length what the government had done for labor and prophesied that the department of labor would become one of the most important in the government.

The session of the Reichstag, or National Assembly, intended to deal with the existing crisis, was opened this morning amid scenes of great excitement. The warlike sentiment of the delegates was noticeable and the crowd gathered to witness the opening of the plenum election to the presidency of the assembly of Professor Lassmann, one of the most prominent agitators in favor of war with Austro-

MR. FIELDING BACK FROM ONTARIO WITH THE NEWS OF BIG LIBERAL VICTORY

Minister of Finance
in St. John Today
Says Everything
Looks Like Success for Laurier.

Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, passed through the city at noon today, from Ontario, en route to Halifax. The outlook in Canada as a whole was very gratifying to the minister, who predicted that the government victory would be a sweeping one. Every day brought more encouraging reports from all over the country.

The Conservative slander campaign was fast petering out. One after another of their yards was punctured and as a whole the people were disgusted with the opposition warfare. Thinking people were taking little stock in Conservative yards, and the success attending Liberal rule, resulting in the wonderful prosperity and development of Canada, would continue to Laurier in power by fully as large a majority as formerly.

The efforts of Roblin and his kin have been doing more than anything else to assist the Liberal cause. The result in his own constituency where he was opposed by A. B. Morine, evidently gives the minister small concern as he treated the matter in a laughing manner.

POLICE COURT

A representative of each sex occupied the prisoners' bench at the police court this morning.

John Gilvan, a Scotman, who was arrested by Officer Finley for lying and lurking in a box in the I. C. R. yard shortly after one o'clock this morning, claimed to have arrived here yesterday from Montreal in the usual manner of vagrant travels and concealed himself in the car to obtain shelter for the night, being penniless. He said he was a seaman on the S.S. Esperion, and through over indulgence in rum, lost the steamer at the Canadian metropolis, so additions were not desired. A fine of $8, or thirty days, was imposed.

Gorgias Sneed, the colored woman, who was acquitted by Judge Forbes in September after being committed for stealing $10 and a quantity of cigars from an Adelaide Road occupant by Mrs. James Maguire and also John White. The youthful criminal tearfully admitted committing the thefts. He stated that he had attended school for one week on some time ago and had a short term, having absented himself without permission. His mother is confined to the Provincial Hospital for nervous diseases and the boy boards with his father, who is occupying a bare room in a tenement house. The proprietor was engaged in the rear and purloined 35 cents from the till and 14 cigars from the customer and clearing Mrs. Maguire, who recovered the money and received a refund from the shop with the booty. White was a roommate of his father's in a boarding house and when both were absent the lad extorted the time between the hours of ten and eleven by Sergeant Kilpatrick and lodged in a cell at the north end station.

After informing him that he was liable to a term of four years in the reformatory, the magistrate remanded the prisoner Monday in order to inquire into the lad's surroundings and to notify his father to attend court. In the meanwhile he will be confined to a separate cell.

NEW YORK FISHERMEN MAKE GRUESOME FIND

Bodies of Well Dressed Man and Woman Bound
Together With Wire Found Floating in Jamaica
Bay, N. Y.

New York, Oct. 10.—A tragic mystery came to light today when the bodies of a well-dressed man and woman, bound securely together with wire, were found floating in Jamaica Bay. The bodies had not been identified. They were found floating in the water about six hours. The man was apparently 45 years old. He was six feet tall and weighed about 200 pounds.

The woman apparently was about 35 years of age, and exceptionally good looking. From the manner in which the bodies were bound together and the fact that money and jewelry had not been taken, the police are inclined to believe that the couple committed suicide.

An indication of the feeling toward the county situation is illustrated in a bet which was made yesterday, $40 being wagered against $4 that Dr. Pugsley would be returned. The conservatives will not bet against Dr. Pugsley unless they get big odds.

The minister returned last evening from a trip to St. Martin and Great Salmon River, where he was granted a magnificient reception accorded him.

Next week the minister will address a mass meeting in the Opera House on Tuesdays evening when Charles Marcellus will also be a speaker.

On Thursday the 15th he will address a meeting in Fairville, along with Hon. H. A. McKeown and James Wallace, who will speak at the hall in Lorreville and will discuss the issues of the campaign before the elections in that district. James Lowell, M.P.P., and Dr. Wallace will also speak. Later on the minister will probably address meetings in Gardner's Creek and Dipper Harbor.

DR. PUGSLEY WILL HAVE MAJORITY OF 1,000 OVER MACRAE IN THIS COUNTY

Evidences of What the Minister of Public Works is Doing for His Constituents Show why He Should be Returned.

With nomination day only about one week away and election in a fortnight the Liberal supporters are feeling very confident of rolling up a big majority for their ticket. In all the city wards there are reported to be 100 per cent of lobsters in the same size as in Charlotte county. The size limit in this county, heretofore, has been 10 inches while Charlotte has caused it to be 9 inches. This has caused a great deal of dissatisfaction among the fishermen and they will be pleased to learn that the change has been made to legalize the taking of lobsters of 9 inches in length.

A post office has been arranged on Hon. Mr. Pugsley's recommendation that a new post office be established at Red Head. The name of the present post office there has been changed to Little River and the new one will be designated Red Head. John Wilson has been appointed postmaster of the new office.

The minister returned last evening from a trip to St. Martin and Great Salmon River, where he was granted a magnificient reception accorded him.

Next week the minister will address a mass meeting in the Opera House on Tuesdays evening when Charles Marcellus will also be a speaker.

On Thursday the 15th he will speak at Campbellton. On Thursday the 15th he will address a meeting in Fairville, along with Hon. H. A. McKeown and James Wallace, who will speak at the hall in Lorreville and will discuss the issues of the campaign before the elections in that district. James Lowell, M.P.P., and Dr. Wallace will also speak. Later on the minister will probably address meetings in Gardner's Creek and Dipper Harbor.

ROAD RACES WILL FINISH ABOUT 4.30

Large Crowd in Attendance at Every Day Club Sports This Afternoon.

Fredericton, N. B., Oct. 10. (Special)—The last instalment of the corporation drive containing about six million feet will reach the boom limits yesterday and will be rated at Lincoln. Although the season has been one of the worst for driving in years, Contractor Scott has done splendid work and will return with fair progs. He has handled altogether about seventy million feet, which is one of the smallest drives in years.

Robert Low, of Sydney, has the contract for laying a granolithic pavement in front of the government property here, will arrive on Monday to begin work.

Colonels George Rolt White and A. J. Armstrong, of St. John, are here today inspecting the military stores.

The market here this morning was the largest since the Christmas season, and all kinds of produce brought good prices. Potatoes were a bumper crop in York, corn the second, and bacon quantities were being sold to shippers at ninety cents per barrel.

King Hazen son of J. D. Hazen returned to the city on today's Boston train.

Both races will be hotly contested from start to finish. The contestants in both races will finish the by going three laps on the athletic grounds. CHATHAM MEETING
A GENUINE FROST

Last Night's Conservative Demonstration was a Very Tame Affair.

Fredericton, Oct. 10. (Special)—A gentleman who came over the I. C. R. from Chatham to-day says that the political meeting in that town last night was a genuine frost.

Commodore Stewart was the chairman and at the time of the meeting was seated in a chair.

Messrs. Melmer and Peacock spoke first and received an attentive hearing, but when Mr. Morrison rose to speak, more than half of the audience withdrew. Chatham is certain to roll up a great vote for the Liberal candidate.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 10.—Incoming

REASON IT OUT

What ought the citizens of St. John to do in this campaign to ensure the greatest advantage to the city?

This question appeals to every voter, and is of greater importance than his allegiance to a party.

If after the election, St. John stands in a less favorable position than it does today to have its claims as a winter port recognized by the government, it will be because the voters themselves have willed it so.

This is the great local issue, and there is no general issue of equal importance, for the simple reason that there is no marked difference between the general policies of the two parties. The sole cry of the opposition is that they are more honest than the government party, and this statement is not borne out by their record in the past.

If then, the local issue is the one upon which the electors should decide their course, their duty is plain. The present government, urged thereto by Hon. Mr. Pugsley, has adopted a clear and definite programme for the rapid development of this port. Not only does the government undertake to provide terminal facilities as they are needed on the west side, but it has declared through Dr. Pugsley, a responsible minister, that facilities will be provided in Courtenay Bay for the trade to be brought here by the Grand Trunk Pacific. This is a clear and definite programme, and is not open to a single objection. It is what the people want, and what they have desired for years. The opposition speakers can find no flaw in it, and are reduced to the silly expedient of scoffing at it and saying it will not be carried out. But every reasonable citizen knows that a responsible minister, knowing that he must answer for his statements both to his colleagues and his constituents, would not be so foolish as to pledge himself and the government to a policy they did not intend to carry out.

On the other hand, all that the opposition have to offer is a vague statement about the nationalization of ports, which of course would be contingent upon their attaining power.

But the opposition will not attain power. The odds against them are far too great. Their hopes are large, but they have nothing to offer to the country at large which would effect so great a revolution as would be necessary to overcome the government majority.

We are led, therefore, to this conclusion: The government will be sustained, and if St. John fails to elect Dr. Pugsley and Mr. Pender it will put a great stumbling block in the way of the progress and improvement so long demanded by its people, and now within its reach.

Hence that which the citizens should do to ensure the greatest advantage to the city is to elect Dr. Pugsley and Mr. Pender, the men who stand for winter port development.

THE SILENT VOTE

The Conservatives base their claims of victory on what is termed "the silent vote."

But why should the silent vote go Conservative in this campaign? The silent voter is also a thinking voter, who weighs the parties, their policies and their performances. He is quite as capable of judging whether, for example, the average Conservative is any more honest than the average Liberal, and whether a mere change of parties would effect a complete

The Conservative candidate in Victoria-Madawaska, has retired from the field. The Standard gives a labored explanation to the effect that his constituents want him to stay in the provincial legislature, and say that a convention will be held next week to nominate another candidate. If Col. Baker had felt he could win he would not have retired. If he cannot win, no other Conservative in the constituency has even the ghost of a chance.

It is possible that a convention may be held and a dummy candidate put up, but Mr. Michaud is as certain of election as if he had no opposition.

The result in Victoria-Madawaska is an indication of how the election will go over the whole province.

ELECT PENDER TO STRENGTHEN PUGSLEY'S HANDS

BAXTER'S DREDGING CHARGES ARE COMPLETELY SHATTERED BY DR. PUGSLEY IN GREAT SPEECH

Minister of Public Works Attends Launching of a Barge at Great Salmon River and Comes Away Assured of the Solid Support of the Whole Community—A Splendid Meeting.

Great Salmon River, St. John county, Oct. 9.—The mills of the Bay Shore Lumber Company here, were closed down and a general holiday was observed to mark the launching of a large Hon. William Pugsley, minister of public works, drove from St. Martins in the morning, and was present at the ceremony. In the afternoon an open air meeting was held and many prominent citizens, old and young, and addressing on the issues of the campaign. The meeting was attended not only by the employees of the company, but by many farmers and residents of the surrounding country, and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed.

A significant incident occurred last evening at a meeting held by Dr. A. W. MacRae, the opposition candidate. After he had spent the day in canvassing, he was given time to speak at his own expense, and paying a fee of $1000, he and high ranking members of the party, and high ranking members of Dr. Pugsley, asked him to give the minister their hearty support. Ora P. King, of Sussex, also made a stirring speech, while he exposed the false views of his opponents.

A significant incident occurred last evening at a meeting held by Dr. A. W. MacRae, the opposition candidate. After he had spent the day in canvassing, he was given time to speak at his own expense, and paying a fee of $1000, he and high ranking members of the party, and high ranking members of Dr. Pugsley, asked him to give the minister their hearty support. Ora P. King, of Sussex, also made a stirring speech, while he exposed the false views of his opponents.

The launching of the large took place at 10:45 and in the presence of a large crowd. Dr. Pugsley, who was accompanied by W. G. Scovil and Councillor F. M. Cochran, arrived a few minutes before the work of the uninvited invited minister. As the barge slid gracefully down the ways, Robert Connely, the popular manager of the company, broke a bottle of champagne over the bow and the cheering crowd roared with the water and hearty cheers. The building of the barge was begun last fall, and when launched this morning was ready to join the company's fleet in transporting pulp wood to the U.S. The ship will sail with 38 feet beam, and a 12 foot hold.

The barge was designed by W. R. Huntley, of Parsonsburg (N. S.), and was constructed under the superintendence of Ald. F. T. Pender, the acting minister.

It is classed twelve times in the Bureau Veritas and is the second barge which has been successfully launched from the company's ways here.

After the launch the plant, Dr. Pugsley and his friends were entertained at luncheon by Mr. Connely. As the hall was not large enough to hold the company assembled to go to the dining room, it was decided to have the meeting in the open air and tables and chairs were placed for the speakers on the rising ground outside the building.

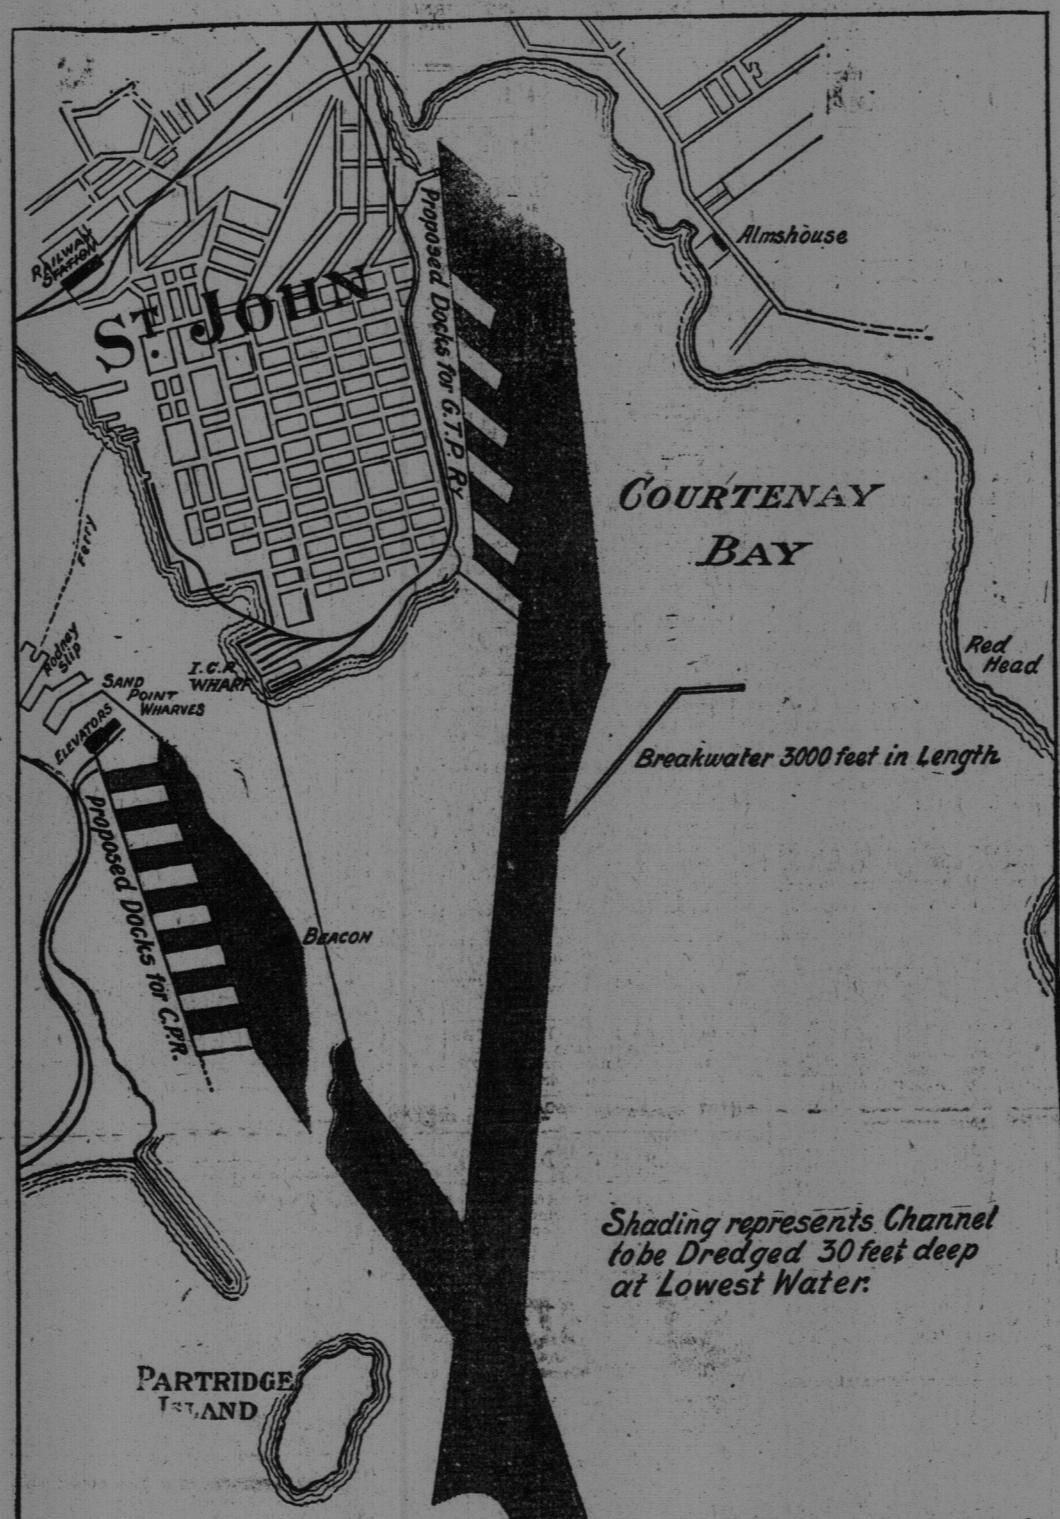

Mr. Connely briefly introduced Dr. Pugsley, reading a ringing laudation to the unanimous endorsement of Dr. MacRae on the previous evening.

Dr. Pugsley, on rising, was given a standing ovation. He was glad, he told the crowd that his opponent had been courteously received and given a good hearing and that his good friend, Capt. Tufts, had come to his rescue and taken the chair. He had been embarrassed, he said, and his friends among them what policy Dr. MacRae had told them the Conservatives would bring into force if they came into power but no one seemed able to tell him. (Much laughter.)

He then went on to refer to his appointment as minister of public works and said so far in this campaign he had observed no criticism of whatever he had done in connection with his department. He had to deal with upwards of a thousand.

PREPARING ST. JOHN FOR GREAT INCREASE OF TRADE; NEW DOCKS IN HARBOR AND COURtenay BAY

As will be seen by the accompanying plan of Mr. Shewen, the resident engineer at St. John, for the development of the West Side, it is to be made and not to be it is planned that the channel entering the harbor will be enlarged to a width of 800 feet. This plan will, when fully carried out, give thirteen additional berths for ocean steamers south of Sand Point. Mr. Coste is of the opinion that we should have a channel leading from the harbor to Partridge Island, in order to prevent the dredged channel being filled in by silt. In answer to the objection that the extension of this over-water channel will increase the cost of the current, he states that if the channel is dredged out to a width of 800 feet the extension of the breakwater would not have this effect.

The plan shows the proposed dredged channel to Courtney Bay, and the operation on the city side for eleven berths, each 700 feet in length, which the channel entering the harbor will be enlarged to a width of 800 feet. This plan will, when fully carried out, give thirteen additional berths for ocean steamers, while in Mr. Coste's opinion there is opportunity in Courtney Bay for almost indefinite expansion.

"The providing of these facilities will necessarily cost a great deal of money and the tax burden will be increased, but the development of the west, the early completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific and the avowed determination of the company to bring the traffic of the west to Canadian seaports, it will not be long before the most extensive terminal facilities which can be provided at St. John, and other marine terminals, will be taxed to their capacity in the winter sea."

"The highest commendation. At Riverside, Dr. McAlister said that he intended to carry on the present campaign without misrepresentations, exaggerations or abuses. If he could not get his election without resorting to such means he would be willing to stay at home."

Mr. Fowler's flood of vituperation appears to be directed largely against S. S. Ryan, ex-contractor of the bridge, in too well known to this county to suffice much from the Conservative candidate's insults.

Dr. McAlister and E. H. McAlpine speak at Alma tonight and tomorrow. Dr. McAlister will address a mass meeting in Ontario Hall at Alma on Saturday evening the 10th inst. A. B. Copp, M. P. P., and James McQueen will speak in the interests of the Liberal candidate at Hopewell Cape.

Cheering News From All the Provinces Shows That the Conservatives are Thoroughly Disheartened—People of Canada Will Stand by the Party That is Building Up the Country.

Fredericton, N. B., Oct. 9.—The political campaign in this country is warming up and is certain to reach the boiling point on election day. N. W. Brown, the Liberal candidate, is gaining ground daily and already has his opponents thoroughly frightened. He is being assisted by a corps of active campaigners and by the political veterans of the Liberal party, like Alexander Gibson, ex-M.P., and they are perfecting on organization the equal of which the Liberals of the county have not known in recent years.

At the Tory meeting to be held Wednesday night, the leaders will have a chance to explain to the grain workers their stand on the compensation act.

The Liberals hold a big meeting Tuesday evening, when the Liberal candidate, W. F. Todd, Senator Gillmor and E. H. McAlpine, will speak.

The laying out of roads, wharves and bridges by the Tory local member, will not heal the breach in Tory ranks caused by local dismissals and appointments.

The Tory leaders of the constituency are at sixes and sevens and there is danger of an open rupture. James K. Pinder, M.P.P., for some reason, will not appear on the same platform with Solicitor-General McLeod, nor will he travel with the other candidates, with Dr. McAlister another Tory stumper. As for McLeod, he positively refuses to star with Pinder or John A. Young, M.P.P. This condition of affairs is with him a parallel to politics in another part of the country, and it is no much wonder that the Tories are awaiting the outcome of this election with fear and trepidation.

Very successful meetings in the Liberal interest are held this evening at Newcastle village and at the Mouth of Keewatin. Candidate and Coun. Goodspeed spoke at Naschaw village and J. D. Phillips and J. W. Osborne at Mouth of Keewatin.

Tomorrow evening the candidates will hold a joint meeting at Stanley, hitherto the stronghold of Toryism in York. It is being looked forward to with great interest by the people of the constituency.

Woodstock, Oct. 9 (Special).—F. B. Carvel, K. C., has spent the greater part of the week up here and has been in the heat of the campaign with the Liberal party as well as receiving many unexpected offers of support from former Conservatives, who on account of Mr. Carvel's splendid record in parliament, his acknowledged ability and undoubted suitability for qualifications will vote for him on the 26th.

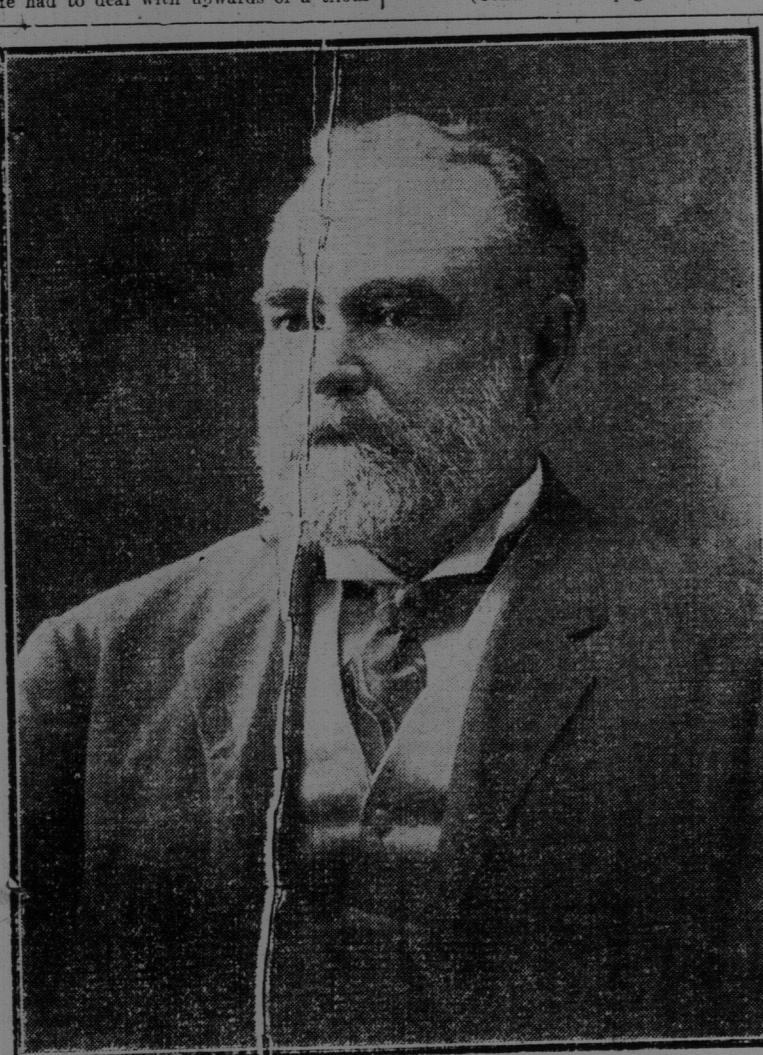

Never in recent years has the Liberal party been so strong in this country, while the Conservatives, who went into the campaign at a lively clip, are now decidedly gloomy, their candidate being badly frightened, so much so that he is using all sorts of arguments in the vain efforts to save his skin.

One of the most encouraging signs from a Liberal standpoint, is the wonderful enthusiasm on the part of the young men, who in every parish are working with a will.

Tomorrow night the Liberal candidate and County Warden Shaw will speak at Bath. Monday night Mr. Carvel will be at Benton; Wednesday at Mount Pleasant; Thursday at East Florenceville; Friday at Foreston and Saturday at Centre ville.

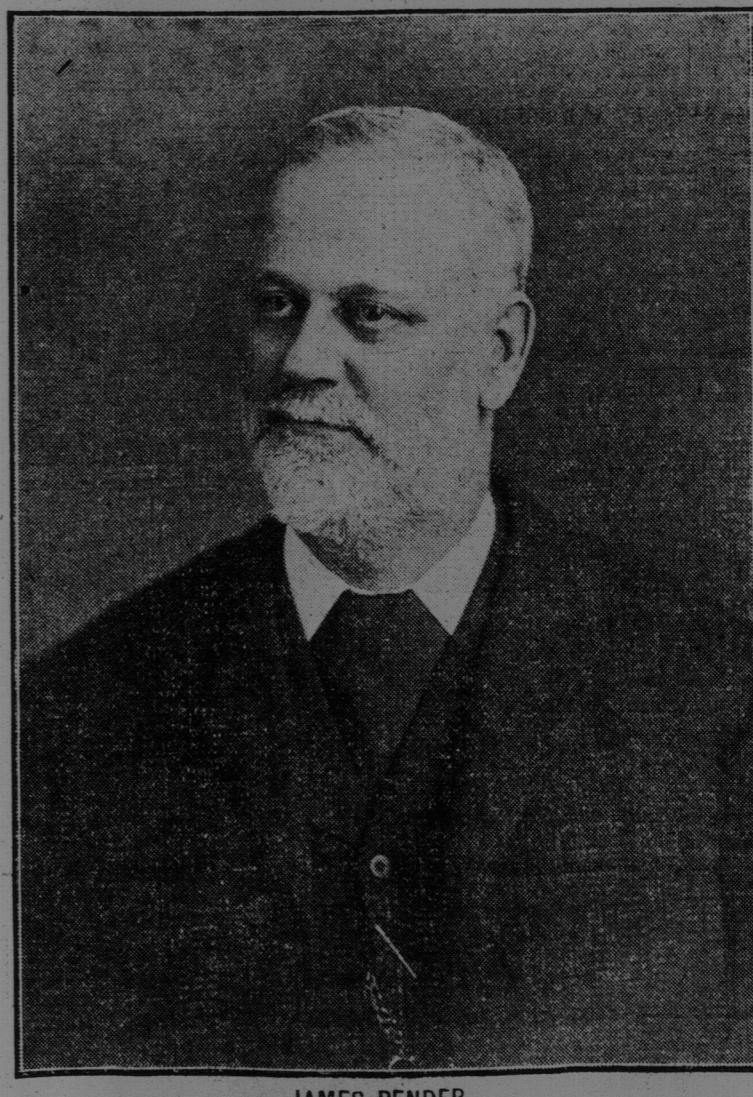

Despite the silly stories in the opposition press, which even here suggests Captain Cawell will surely receive Mr. Carvel by the largest majority he has ever received. Everywhere it is the same, scores of recruits are coming into the Liberal ranks, and good judgment of the situation prevails. The people of this country in this county are utterly disgusted with the Hazen government's measures, particularly the new road law, and Smith will be sadly handicapped by reason of the record of the government he supported at Fredericton.

THE HOME CIRCLE

AFTERNOON AND EVENING GOWNS

Soft lining fabrics are best suited to the modes of the season, and the manufacturers have been very successful in producing delightful materials for the new gowns. For evening wear especially the lovely soft satins, mohair, crepe, silk headgarnishes, satin finish cloths, etc., are shown and are well adapted to the draped effects now used. Satin is enjoying a tremendous popularity, it is durable, lustrous, and is at the same time durable. The sheath skirt requires a fabric which will wear well, as in the closely fitted evening styles. In the second season the fashion adopted a more strenuous fact that should be remembered when purchasing. There are various new weaves in satin that are well liked for dress gowns, the "Directoire" satin being especially good, as it is durable, lustrous, and is popularly styled. It is draped easily, and falls in long graceful lines. There are also various silks that make up attractively, and the heavy satin finish crepes are very graceful and come in exquisite colorings. Among the less expensive materials are the messalines, and for the simpler at home gowns, the silk and wool light weight fabrics, and the fine cashmere are effective. One of the illustrations shows a charming design of a gown with a double front trimming of black satin giving a very smart effect. This model was in semi-princess style, with a panel front and back, and the bodice and skirt joined at the sides by a narrow lace trim. There was a low rounded yoke, outlined with a half inch piping of bias satin, and the white of the little upper sleeve was finished by a satin band. V-shaped placket in front below the yoke, and on each side of the front scars of white princess lace were slipped through a double slash in the cloth. These drops also in white, and white sateen were also used to ornament some shades of green—especially in the upper part of the bodice. The yoke and sleeves were of fine white net, the sleeves shirred closely around the arm with a rill at the outer arm and about the hand.

In wearing the new gowns too much care can hardly be given to having undergarments and linings fit smoothly. Many of the prettiest gowns are now a combination of a single undergarment, petticoat at all being worn, although the gown itself has soft clinging lining of crepe de chine, soft or satin.

The correct corseting is also of great importance, and special corsets for wear with the clinging house and evening gowns are advised, these corsets having very long hips to give long, slender legs. As to colorings, they are very desirable, soft, neutral tints are very smart, and very artistic gowns when cleverly made and designed. It is impossible to name any one or two leading colors, as so many shades are in vogue and various shades of green—especially those with yellowish tones—are fashionable.

Such colorings, however, are often suited to certain compositions. Green is characteristic in the new materials and is very chic; even young girls adopting a green gown will be known as "greenhorns." The green is well suited and had the effect of being wrapped around the figure, the clinging, trained skirt buttoning down the entire length of the back with small buttons. In front there was a large buttoned-in than an unbroken hemline in gray and silver and tiny silver sequins, and from this butterfly fell a very deep fringe in gray silk and silver. A little silver chain was carried around the decolletage, and the straps were more straps, and the leather suit cases may be treated in the same way, but be sure that the "leather" is not made of paper.

To clean a white garment open it with a soap and water, then wash it with a good suds of white soap and warm water.

After it is well cleaned pour several buckets of water over it and lastly wring with a little bluish water.

Now the border trimming in pale gray and silver was crossed in the front of the bodice and in the centre of the back, the back also having little loops similar to the front.

GOWNS OF WHITE CLOTH.

THE VALUE OF A MAN'S LIFE

It is doubtful if many men consider the value of their lives. There are many values, the present earning capacity and the future capacity, the value in sickness, in old age, the value after death.

It is decidedly a matter of thought, not so much for the men who are unmarried or have no dependents on them, yet all men should think over the subject. They may be bachelors today and in a year hence husbands and, perhaps, fathers.

The advantage that men have in this present day world is that they can protect their lives by means of insurance.

This is no brief for any life insurance company and, no matter what companies and their methods, the fact remains that life insurance, in thousands of instances, has provided a godsend—the greatest of blessings to widowed women and fatherless children.

Conceding this, what man deserves to protect his wife? He should be provided with a sum that is similar to that for how much should a man insure?

Regarding the first question—what portion of income should be devoted to protection? We are helped to an answer by considering the practice of the courts in adjudicating bankruptcy cases. In these judges have decreed that a man's income should be divided into three parts, one for him, one for his wife and one for his children.

One-third for rent and savings.

One-third for food.

One-third for clothing, pleasure, travel, servant, etc., and all other items outside of rent and savings and food.

The one-third for rent and savings is divided equally between rent and food.

Such a division of a man's earnings or income is considered to be a proper one and an absolutely safe one. If a man's expenditure conforms to these specifications, he need never fear poverty nor trouble, provided the latter are not brought about by his private affairs.

One-third for food is in any serious departure from the proportions given.

It is, of course, that in the case of bachelors and single men the division dependent upon the point to be made as to whether the man has dependents or not. Such a division of income does not apply. For such a man one-third may be allowed for board and lodging, one-third for clothing, travel and pleasure, etc., and one-third for savings. However, this is clearly impossible to ascertain on such a matter.

Again, the men who are best judges decide that a man cannot afford to save at least one-third of his pay for rent, one-tenth of his income or earnings. Now, then, what should he do with those savings? By such reasoning, it is not quite clear that they should be laid aside to give him and his family the best protection in the case of his death or sickness, of incapacity to work or of old age. The man who comes to such a conclusion, however, must be a fool, while at once, buy a policy and spend the whole one-sixth in paying the premium.

Those who have calculated such a situ-

BUSINESS MAXIMS

Make use of the other man's experience. It has cost him a lot.

Make money earn its full capacity. That is what you are trying to do with yours.

You will have to quit work in a while. Make money your partner now. It never grows old and decrepit.

Don't sit at the fence of Inaction and live. You will be loaded with its prizes of possibility.

You cannot accumulate a competency after labor alone. Save something, so that after a while it may save you.

Separate your sympathy from your money. Employ both in destructively, but constructively. Then you will have learned the lesson of investment.

Regrets are poor nourishment for bank accounts. It is not how much a man loses that counts, but how much he learns when he does lose.

This pretty seven-room bungalow is 32 feet in depth and 48 feet in breadth, it is quite peculiar in its arrangement, being composed of such a plan as would not be found in the country, and would have a good setting of foliage. The entrance is on the right-hand side, through a broad porch that extends across the right-hand side of the house, this arched porch leading into the living-room, the dining-room, the kitchen, and the entrance porch. The front end of the living-room is treated very prettily with a broad fireplace and bookcase on each side and seat places.

The dining-room is a bed-room, with a large dressing-room, a bathroom, and a central staircase lead up out into the hall and the basement stairs extend down underneath. The kitchen occupies the same position on the left of the house that the entrance porch occurs on the right, the roof carrying down over in the same manner, making a symmetrical front. This house can be built for $3,000, exclusive of heating and plumbing. The entrance is red birch in the first story, with a light mahogany stain. The roof has three good bedrooms, two provided with built-in closets. There is a second bathroom in the second story for the use of guests. The wood work is in natural pine, varnished, and the floor varnished and waxed. The walls are neatly papered in harmony with the furnishings, making a very pretty interior.

The foundation and the chimney that shows on the front elevation are laid with native field stones, and the treatment of the wood work throughout is very simple, with timber effect showing and stained brown. The upper portion of frame is rough timber and coal is wasted by throwing it upon fuel at once upon a fire.

wide boards and battens, the whole surface left rough from the saw and stained with oil.

HOW TO SAVE COAL BILLS

Now that coal, like everything else, has risen in price, the housekeeper will be glad of any suggestion that will keep down the fuel expenditure. There is no part of domestic economy which every body professes to understand better than the management of a fire, and yet there is no part of the housekeeper's work that rises from ignorance and mismanagement in this direction.

The use of the poker should be confined to one particular point—the opening of a dying fire, so as to admit the free passage of air into it. Chimneys often smoke when the fire is out, and the lower portion is finished with the entrance porch, and the upper portion is finished with wide boards and battens, the whole surface left rough from the saw and stained with oil.

THE MAKING OF MEN'S COATS

How long does it take to make a coat? That is a question few men not in the trade could answer.

A time log for the trade sets forth exactly the time to be taken in the making of various coats.

It takes 32 hours and 45 minutes to make a dress or frock coat. The details of the time that may be occupied in completing the various parts of one of these coats is interesting. For instance, 15 minutes are allowed for each button-hole, two hours for putting in sleeves, one hour a dozen for sewing on buttons and one hour and 15 minutes for putting on the collar. Then there are various extras which take up a longer time. The fat man's coat takes two hours to make than the slim man's. Coats made of delicate colored materials such as cream, white or scarlet, take an extra three hours to make.

The coat for which a tailor may charge $40 costs him in material and workmanship about $27. Add to this a percentage of overhead costs, such as rent, advertising, bad debts and so on and his profit is but small.

THE HOME CIRCLE

HOUSEFURNISHING SUGGESTIONS

The comfortably lounging chair pictured would be a delightful addition to a living room and could be stained as best suited to the other furnishings. For an enclosed porch, the woodwork of the chair could be stained a brilliant red, with the seat in leaf green, with a wavy stripe in lighter green. For an indoor room, however, the wood would probably be best stained a dark forest green or a dark nut or smoked black, with a seat of bright tapestry.

The draught screen was of dark wood in mission style, with panels of green rajah canvas and having pictures on the upper panels.

BEATRICE CAREY.

FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER

Tan shoes may be cleaned with soap and water. Make a good lather from white of egg, a dash of ammonia, a pinch of salt, a dash of pepper, and a few drops of lemon juice, a spoonful of salt, a pinch of cayenne, two tablespoonsful of common cream, and a pint of cold water.

Boil the peppers on a shallow pan when stuffed, in a hot oven for twenty minutes, basting frequently with melted butter. Serve on rounds of hot buttered toast, garnishing each pepper with a curl of thin ham.

Curried Onions—Parboil one cupful of coarsely chopped onions in salted water for ten minutes. Drain and add one cupful of common cream, a pint of cold water, a pinch of powdered mace and black pepper, a spoonful of salt and a tablespoonful of grated breadcrumbs, a few drops of lemon juice, a spoonful of salt, a pinch of cayenne, two tablespoonsful of common cream, and a pint of cold water.

When the onions are well cleaned, remove the temptation to put good plates in the ice box, which is always a risk.

The ones that bakes use, and the smaller soups—hot soup, gravy, etc.—are the best.

Onion Salads—Peel and slice twelve medium sized white onions and place them in an hour in a quart of iced water, containing a little salt, until they have been washed. All the work may be done outdoors, and the parboiled onions will keep them from turning dark.

Leather suit cases may be treated in the same way, but be sure that the "leather" is not made of paper.

To clean a white garment open it with a soap and water, then wash it with a good suds of white soap and warm water.

After it is well cleaned pour several buckets of water over it and lastly wring with a little bluish water.

SIMPLE HOMEMADE FURNITURE

There are a great many little tasks of which may be done about the house by the amateur interior decorator, and which go far toward making the house cheerful and attractive, not to speak of the personal pleasure derived from the sense of accomplishment, and the satisfaction of a well-performed piece of work.

For instance, a housekeeper who had a a sense of the practical manager to furnish a comfortable room, she may be called upon to do the work.

The room was a rather large one, papered in red grain, and for one corner there was no available furniture.

Over the window was stretched the ticking of a discarded mattress, also freshly done over. In the planning of the space for a handy little cupboard.

The chimney space was first boarded up with a broad piece of common pine, cut to fit into the opening exactly. To keep the cold air which blows down in winter out, close doors were closed with lengths of thick material held against the cracks by strips of wood.

Two deep shelves were made to rest on the side supports and the old brick furnace in the hearth was covered up by two boards. From a brass rod set across the front hung a pair of inexpensive silk curtains of a color harmonizing with that of the wall paper. The little cupboard over the fireplace was much more compact than the former open one, and at the same time served to hold the numerous little odds and ends which usually litter up a room.

BEATRICE CAREY.

Mattings should never be swept with an uncovered broom, as this tends to split the fibre.

Cover the end of the broom with a soft flannel rag and dip it in a handful of salt and water.

The matting will be brightened by the utilization of several pins.

A room which had an unused fireplace was greatly improved by the utilization of a piece of wood.

COMMENT ONSPORTS*EVEN BETTING ON JOHNSON AND
BURNSIn Few Cases Odds in London
Are Said to Favor the Colored Man—Fight in November

New York, Oct. 9.—The following cablegram from London is printed here:

Betting on the Burns-Johnson fight is already brisk in British sporting circles. Despite the fact that a few pessimists are inclined to doubt whether the two will indeed meet in a really strenuous contest, there is a decided tendency to settle on him as favorite. This is undoubtedly a matter of mere personal prejudice.

Burns failed to make his point in English Johnson's other hand-in well liked. The fighters fans prefer to have their jousting, however, on more substantial grounds than their simple likes and dislikes. The theory here is that Burns is on a lot of soft ones in this connection, that after a short time he beats them, and that when he gets into the ring with Johnson he will find he has an altogether different position on his hands. The negro's sparring has been admired by sports writers, and in real life, I'm disposed to say they don't know any more about him than they know already. At any rate, it is his admirers who insist he is a poor sailor and generally manages to spend most of his time at sea and doesn't consider the best kind of training.

Johnson, on the other hand, is an Australian who will be long enough to give him time to get fixed up, and it is argued that he will be in no condition to last beyond the time which the articles set for November or later.

The intercollegiate football league is to start on the 29th of this month. That was the decision reached at a meeting of representatives of U. N. B., Mount Allison and Acadia, held at the Victoria Hotel last night. Those present were J. C. Dyer, U. N. B.; F. C. Lewis, Acadia; and I. C. Rand, Mount Allison. The schedule follows:

Nov. 3, Acadia vs. Mount Allison,

If a play off is necessary it may take place here.

A LEAP-YEAR EPISODE

They were gathered in the office, for the boss was not around.

And they talked of various topics with eagerness abroad.

Until the seasons mentioned leap-year and the privilege ladies had.

Of proposing for a husband then if one they wanted bad.

There was Jones, the city salesman, Smith, the keeper of the cash.

And Robinson, the Jackson and they all spoke up with rash.

Of the way they'd treat a fair one who might offer them her hand;

And the sentiment that gathered were manners and grand;

When the door abruptly opened and a female entered there.

A lady large and stately, with a most determined air.

And over that group of noble men her fishing glances ran.

Then she in manner resolute began, "I want a man."

Jones leaned straight for the window and was through it like a flash.

And Jackson down the elevator made a splendid dash.

And passersby who saw the pair go speeded up the street.

Declared that the sprinting master it never could be beat;

Smith, too, of his agility gave most conclusive proof of his strength.

By sprinnging over the fire-escapes and climbing to the roof.

And Robinson, he couldn't tell just how he got away.

But they dug him from the coal hole somewhat later in the day;

What the lady, whose entrance had such wild commotion made,

Turned to the grinning office boy, the only one left in the room.

And said, "Well, if in these events she noticed nothing strange,

I want a man to come around and fix my kitchen range."

"They say I'm not a human being. I guess they're right." It was Battling Nelson who was making the guess on the truth of the assertion one day in Detroit. The assertion that the "Dame Dame" isn't a human being, was made a short time ago by Joe Gans. The negro also said that there wasn't a human being who could knock out the lightest champion with human power. Nelson continued:

"I've got a sub-normal heart. My heart beats averages from 40 to 48 beats per minute. An average person's heart beats from 70 to 78 a minute. Often when I get up in the morning my heart beats as slow as 40.

"I'm cold-blooded. When I get into the ring I can stand there for hours without getting hot or sweating. There's nothing that affects me. I keep after my man till he drops.

"I've got a perfect nervous system. In the ring or out of it, I never get excited. Nothing worries me. I never fret. Nothing bothers me. I'm cool and collected all the time.

"I guess that why I'm not a human being," said he. "I was cold-blooded and that my heart beats 40 sometimes but I want to say that heart is as big as the next fellow's."

"In the last four years I have given 600 to 700 fights. But I come with that game every time. You get it. All you get is: 'Oh, he was a pretty good guy, but he's down and out now.' That's after your coin's all gone."

"Look at the fellows who spent their money on charity and afterwards went broke. Did charity hand them anything? It did not. I'm going to save my money and if there's ever a time when I'm out, I won't be down."

Nelson was asked whether he believed Joe Gans was right when he said no living being will ever knock the champion out.

"Well, to honest with you," returned Battling Nelson, "I never thought in one word that I was wrong."

"There was only one time when I was counted out and I was out for many days then. That was in a boxing match in Niagara Falls in 1898. I was helping a blacksmith, when a truck drop hammer caught me on the head. It was ripped open in a dozen places. They took about 90 stitches to close me up. I was sent to the hospital a week. Most of the time I was unconscious. They had me packed in ice.

"They thought I was gone then. My right ear is deaf today, and I right ear has a dead scar over one side of my face and head. That's what I go to show for the only time I took the count. If I want to get me again they've got to get a sharp stick."

"Joe Gans is a good fighter. Gans can whip the lights out of the lights in half the time it took me to whip him."

Nelson is travelling with the moving pictures of the recent Gans-Nelson fight in its entirety.

SPORTING NOTESA Challenge

Lewiston, Me., Oct. 8.—To the Sporting Editor of The Telegram: Sir—I wish to issue a challenge to any boxer in the world at 100 pounds to a bout at 10 p.m. on Saturday evening at the Hotel DuPrees, N. Y. Address—Arthur Legendre, Lewiston (Me.).

THE SCOTCH CHURCH, KINGSTON, JAMAICA.

An urgent appeal is being made by the Presbyterians of Kingston, Jamaica, for funds to restore the Scotch church, which was destroyed by the great catastrophe of last year. Next Sunday, Oct. 13, a special collection will be taken in the Scotch church and their homes destroyed. Some were killed, many were injured, among the killed being the session clerk. The building is now completely beyond repair.

By spring of next year the Scotch church will be restored. The Scotch church is in the name of the session and committee of the church, whose final words in an addendum to the pastor, Mr. Graham, were—"We, the members of the church, whatever they give you for our restoration will be received with gratitude and will bind us together with bonds which will be strengthened by the addition of new members."

Mr. Graham, who is indefatigable in his efforts to serve the travelling public, will no doubt receive a goodly share of patronage during the coming season.

THE SHORT CHEAP ONES.

"One's own limit is limitation, so you once come up with a man's limitation, it is all over with him."

Young people who are allured by short cheap courses need not be afraid to go to the Scotch church.

The motto of the Currie Business University is "Unlimited Progress." Its fees are reasonable. Its terms are moderate, its limit to the time for completing its course, no limit to the scope or variety of its money-making ideas and schemes, nor the amount of salary it can secure for its experienced graduates.

It offers no short cheap courses nor does it offer any short cheap positions.
