Easy & Practical Home Dress Making Lessons

A dressy separate waist in one of the season's most fashionable silks, made upon a fitted lining and trimmed with Roman striped silk.

Although it is not quite as transparent as some of the other fashionable materials, there is nothing smarter for the separate silk waist for summer wear than chiffon taffeta.

If the waist is lined, 1 1/2 yards of coarse lawn at 15 cents will be needed for the purpose. The waist closes in front, the outer front and back being in one piece.

Up The River With The Man Who Looks Like Laurier

The "man who looks like Laurier" came out upon the veranda from the still unfinished living room of a bungalow perched away up on the hillside.

Mr. Black is the man and he is a brother of Dr. Black, the well known Liberal statesman of Hants county, N. S.

Speaking of building, of which Mr. Black has had some experience in St. John, as well as in Boston and New York, he said that it would cost him ten to fifteen per cent more to build a house in St. John than in Boston or New York.

When Mr. Black came to St. John on a visit a couple of years ago he entered a barber shop to be shaved.

"Have you lived here long?" queried Mr. Black. The barber replied that he had lived here all his life.

"In those old days you speak of," said Mr. Black, "you had great shipbuilding in St. John."

"Now," said Mr. Black, "if I had been a stranger in St. John, knowing nothing of its past, but having some idea of investing money there, how much encouragement would I have got from this man who had lived in St. John all his life, who made his living there, and who ought to have a good word to say for his home town?"

tone of superiority that should regulate your whole lives.

Comrades, Farewell: Fellow Graduates: This is truly a commencement for us. Life's task is but beginning; the foundation is laid; it now rests with us to continue, to the best of our abilities, the work of construction for the glory of God and the honor of old St. Joseph's. Farewell, kind classmates, may success attend you always.

Religion then is no accident in man's career. It is no secondary business in his journeying from the cradle to the grave. It is all essential as his motive power of action and as the determination of his whole existence and consequently it must be considered the vital factor in his education. As we have seen the influence of religious education in the formation of brave men, and the consequent influence of brave men upon their fellow-citizens are very great. The part the college graduate has to play, then is an important one, and great are the responsibilities that devolve upon him. It is the part of posterity to judge and of history to chronicle whether or not he plays his part well. One thing, however, is certain, he will do much good or evil—there is no middle course—for education has developed his God-given faculties.

Rev. Fr. President and Members of the Faculty: These principles have been the groundwork supporting your noble aim to cast us yet unformed in the mould of christian manhood. Keenly do we appreciate your endeavors and we trust that we may never prove unworthy of the confidence reposed in us. It is with a feeling of sincere gratitude then that we bid you farewell.

Fellow Students: Who are treading the same ground over which we have passed keep foremost in mind that your mission at St. Joseph's is of the utmost importance. Your future career in the world depends on the success you achieve here; for you are preparing for the great battle that awaits us all. Your college years are but few but they tend that

The Evening Times and Star

ST. JOHN, N. B., JUNE 18, 1914. The St. John Evening Times is printed at 27 and 29 Castlereagh Street every evening (Sunday excepted) by the St. John Times Printing and Publishing Co. Ltd., a company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act.

WHY THIS EXCITEMENT?

The Times last evening in its report of the proceedings before the Royal Commission said in regard to the copy of an affidavit, relative to an attempt to serve a subpoena on Mr. W. H. Berry at his residence, that "Mr. Fowler objected to the introduction of the affidavit but it was admitted."

Does the Standard lie? As a matter of fact the affidavit was not admitted in evidence, although it was read and discussed. The "Times" reporter and evidently the Standard reporter did not, however, understand that it was ruled out.

OUR SCHOOL BUILDINGS The decision of the board of school trustees to provide a modern building in Bentley street, which will not only meet present requirements but provide for the future, must commend itself to the citizens.

SCALING INFLUENCES STUMPAGE There are over forty different log-logs now in use in the United States and Canada, showing a variation of over 60 per cent in the amount of lumber they describe to a log of any given size.

PRESERVE THE FORESTS. In a circular sent out by the Canadian Forestry Association, to direct attention to the Canadian Forestry Convention, which will be held in Halifax, September 1-4 of the present year, there are some very striking statements in relation to the value of forestry.

and from injurious insects. Neither farming nor any other interest is injured by retaining forests on lands which are not fit for agriculture. The circular further tells us that the forest products of Canada, in their first stage of manufacture in the saw mill yard, are valued at $170,000,000 per year. What this means to all manufacturing and to the transportation business is apparent to all.

HE HELD UP A KING. A powerful automobile recently was being piloted through the picturesque old town of Bayonne in the south of France by a young man with a large nose and protruding under-lip.

RECENT DEATHS The Bangor Commercial reports word from Fredericton Junction from Joseph E. Landers, telling of the death of Mrs. James Landers, formerly of Bangor. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Ellen Beede of Bangor.

When Prince Victor of Hohenlohe Langenburg was serving as a midshipman his vessel touched at a port where there was an English garrison, and the commanding officer came on board.

Find Ancient Spanish Gun Panama, June 18.—W. C. Johnson, mining engineer, in charge of a mining property in the province of Varugas, Republic of Panama, has reported to the Panama government that he recently discovered an old Spanish cannon that probably has been in the isthmus since the days of the Spanish occupation. The cannon, he says, was found on a bluff near the mouth of the Rio Conception and probably formed part of a battery that at one time commanded other fields in the vicinity. A search is being made for them and if found it is believed to mount them as an exhibit at the forthcoming exposition to be held in Panama next year coincident with the annual meeting of the Panama Canal.

Let us fight as independently and earnestly for our principles as the liquor peddlers fight for their licenses, and the next legislature will surely 'abolish the bar-room.'

"I MUST NOT TALK TO YOU," SHE SAYS, "BECAUSE WE HAVE NOT BEEN INTRODUCED."

One day last summer I went to Pittsburgh—well, I had to go there on business. My chair-car was profitably well filled with people of the kind one usually sees on chair-cars. Most of them were ladies in brown silk dresses cut with square yokes, with lace insertion and dotted veils, who refused to have the windows raised. Then there was the usual number of men who looked as if they might be in almost any business and going almost anywhere. Some students of human nature can look at a man in a Pullman and tell you where he is from, his occupation, and his stations in life, both flag and social, but I never could. The only way I can correctly judge a fellow-traveler is when the train is held up by robbers, or when he reaches at the same time I do for the last towel in the dressing-room of the sleeper.

Such topics as rain, prosperity, health, residence, and destination. Politics might have followed next but I was not so ill-fated. I wish you might know John A. Pescud. He is of the stuff that heroes are not often lucky enough to be made of. He is a small man with a wide smile, and an eye that seems to be fixed upon that little red spot on the end of your nose. I never saw him wear but one kind of necktie, and he believes in cuff-holders and button-shoes. He is a hard and true as anything ever turned out by the Cambria Steel Works and believes that as soon as Pittsburgh makes smoke-consumers compulsory, St. Peter will come down and sit at the foot of Smithfield street, and let somebody else attend to the gate up in the branch Heaven. He believes that "our" plate-glass is the most important commodity in the world, and that when a man is in his home town he ought to be decent and law-abiding.

During my acquaintance with him in the City of Diurnal Night I had never known his views on life, romance, literature, and ethics. We had browsed, during our meetings, on local topics, and then parted, after Chateau Margaux, Irish stew, flannel-cakes, cottage-pudding and coffee (hey there!—with milk separate). Now I was to get more of his ideas. By way of facts, he told me that business had picked up since the party convention, and that he was going to get off at Coketown.

as one of the roses on the bushes in the yard. I remembered I had dropped off to sleep on a bench in the Shelbyville station, waiting to see which train she took, and only just managed to wake up in time. "And then I told her why I had come, as respectful and earnest as I could. And I told her everything about myself, and what I was making, and how that all I asked was just to get acquainted with her and try to get her to like me. "She smiles a little, and blushes some, but her eyes never get mixed up. They look straight at whatever she's talking to. "I never had anyone talk like this to me before, Mr. Pescud," says she. "What did your name be—John?" "John A.," says I. "And you came mighty near missing the train at Powhatan Junction, too," says she, with a laugh that sounded as good as a mileage book to me. "How did you know?" I asked. "Men are very clumsy," said she. "I know you were on every train. I thought you were going to speak to me, and I'm glad you didn't." "She had more talk, and at last a kind of proud, serious look came on her face, and she turned and pointed a finger at the big house. "The Ally she said, 'have lived in Elmcrest for a hundred years. We are a proud family. Look at that mansion. It has fifty rooms. See the pillars and porches and balconies. The ceilings in the reception rooms and the ball-room are twenty-foot feet high. My father is a lineal descendant of belted earls.' "I belted one of 'em once in the De-quesse house in Pittsburgh," says I, "and he didn't offer to resent it. He was there dividing his attentions between Monongahela, whiskey and betresses, and he got fresh. "Of course," she goes on, "my father wouldn't allow a drummer to set his foot in Elmcrest. If he knew that I was talking to one over the fence he would look me in my room." "Would you like me to come there?" says I. "Would you talk to me if I was to call for you, if you said, 'I might come and see you, the earls might be belted or suspended, or pinned up with safety-pins, as far as I am concerned.' "I must not talk to you," she says, "because we have not been introduced. It is not exactly proper. So I will say good-bye, Mr. Pescud." "Say the name," says I. "You haven't forgotten it?" "Pescud," says she, a little mad. "I rest of the name?" I demands, cool as could be. "John," says she, with her head high. "Are you coming to see the belted earls tomorrow?" says I. "I'm coming to see your fox-hounds," says she, laughing. "If he does, it'll improve their running," says I. "I'm something of a hunter myself." "I must be going now," says she. "I ought to have spoken to you at all. I hope you'll have a pleasant trip to Minneapolis—or Pittsburgh, was it?" "Cocky-night," says I, "and it wasn't Minneapolis. 'What's your name, first, I want to see the horse-hall of the World's Fair main building. After about three-quarters of an hour an old nigger man about eighty years of age asked what I wanted. I gave him my business card, and said I wanted to see the colonel. He showed me to the ever crack open a wormy English walnut. 'That's what you're looking for,' he said. 'There was a table in the room to sit on, and I had enough furniture in it to fill an eight-dollar flat. Some old horsehair lounges and three-legged chairs and some framed ancestors on the walls were all that met the eye. But when Colonel Allyn comes in, you'll see a different scene. You could almost hear a band playing, and see a bunch of old-timers in wigs and powdered hair dancing a quadrille. It was the style of him although he had on the same shabby clothes I saw him wear at the station. "For about nine seconds he had me rattled, and I came mighty near getting out feet and trying to sell him some plate-glass. But I got my nerve back pretty quick. He asked me to sit down, and I told him everything. I told him how I had followed his daughter from Cincinnati, and what I did for, and all about my salary and prospects, and explained to him my code of living—to be always decent and right in your home town, and when you're on the road, never take more than four glasses of beer a day or play higher than twenty-five cent limit. At first I thought he was going to throw me out of the window, but I kept on talking. Pretty soon I got a chance to tell him that story about the western congressman that had lost his pocket-book and the grass widow you remember that story. Well, that got him to laughing, and I'll bet that was the first laugh those ancestors and horsehair sofas had heard in many a day. "We talked two hours. I told him everything I knew, and then he began to ask questions, and I told him the rest. All I asked of him was to give me a chance. If I couldn't make a hit with the little lady, I'd clear out, and not bother any more. At last he says: "There is Sir Courtenay Pescud in the time of Charles I, if you remember rightly." "If there was," says I, "he can't claim kin with our bunch. We've always lived in and around Pittsburgh. I've got an uncle in the real-estate business, and one in trouble somewhere out in Kansas. You can inquire about any of the rest of us from anybody in old Smoky Town, and get satisfactory replies. Did you ever run across that story about the captain of the whaler who tried to make a sailor say his prayers?" says I. "It occurs to me that I have never been so fortunate," says the colonel. "So I told it to him. Laugh! I was wishing to myself that he was a customer. What a bill of glass I'd sell him! And then he says: "The relating of anecdotes and humorous occurrences has always seemed to me, Mr. Pescud, to be a particularly agreeable way of promoting and perpetuating amonities between friends. With your permission, I will relate to you a fox-hunting story with which I was personally connected, and which may furnish you some amusement." "He tells it. It takes forty minutes by the watch. Did I laugh? Well, say! When I got my face straight he calls in old Pete, the superannuated dandy, and sends him down to the hotel to bring up my ruse. It was Elmcrest for me while I was in town. "Two evenings later I got a chance to speak a word with Miss Jessie alone on the porch while the colonel was thinking up another story. "It's going to be a fine evening," says I. "He's coming," says she. "He's going to tell you, this time, the story about the old negro and the green watermelons. It always comes after the one about the Yankees and the game rooster. There was another time, she goes on, "that you nearly got left—it was at Palms City." "Yes," says I, "I remember. My foot slipped as I was jumping on the step, and I nearly tumbled off." "I know," says she. "And—and—I was afraid you had. John A. I was afraid you had." "And then she skips into the house through one of the big windows." "Coketown" I'd done the porter, making his way through the slowing car. "Pescud gathered his hat and baggage with the leisurely promptness of an old traveler. "I had married her a year ago," said John. "I told you I built a house in the East End. The belted—I mean the colonel—is there, too. I find him working at the gate whenever I get back from a trip to hear my new story I might have picked up on the road." "I glanced out of the window. Coketown was nothing more than a ragged hillside dotted with a score of dismal hills propped up against dreary mounds of slag and clinkers. It rained in slanting torrents, and the rills foamed and splashed down through the black mud to the railroad tracks. "You won't sell much plate-glass here, John," said I. "Why do you get off at this end?"—"The world?" "Why," said Pescud, "the other day I took Jessie for a little trip to Philadelphia, and coming back she thought she saw some petunias in a pot in one of those windows over there just like some she used to raise down in the old Virginia home. So I thought I'd drop here for the night, and see if I could dig up some of the cuttings or blossoms for her. Here we are. Good-night, old man. I gave you the address. Come out and see us when you have time." The train moved forward. One of the dotted brown ladies insisted on having windows raised, now that the rain beat against them. The porter came along with his mysterious wand and began to light the car. "I glanced downward and saw the best-seller. I picked it up and set it carefully further along on the floor of the car, where the rain-drops would not fall upon it. And then, suddenly, I smiled, and seemed to see that life has no geographical metes and bounds. "Good luck to you, Trevlyan," I said. "And may you get the petunias for your princess!"

Last Week's Corns Made these shoes impossible. But Inez told me of Blue-jay. I applied it and the pain stopped in a moment. In 48 hours all three corns came out. No soreness whatever. I never thought of the corns from the moment I used Blue-jay. And now they are gone, to never return unless tight shoes cause new ones. This is the story of millions of corns which have been ended by Blue-jay. It will be the story of your corns when you use this one right method. Don't pare them. Paring never ends a corn. Use the modern method, a famous chemist, by inventing Blue-jay, has made corn troubles needless. Blue-jay takes corns out, without any trouble, without any annoyance. Apply it in a fifty, then forget the corns. It is taking out about one million corns a month. It is the method now used and endorsed by physicians. You owe to yourself a test. all alike. Sometimes this going-away masher is a Washington newspaper correspondent, and sometimes he is a Van Something from New York, or a Chicago wheat broker worth fifty millions. But he's always ready to break into the king row of any foreign country that sends over their kings and queens and princesses to try the new plush seats on the Big Four of the B. and O. There doesn't seem to be any reason in the book for their being here.

"Well, this fellow chases the royal chairwoman home, as I said, and finds out who she is. He meets her on the corso or the strasse one evening and gives us ten pages of conversation. She reminds him of the difference in their stations, and that gives him a chance to ring in three solid pages about America's unowned sovereignty. If you'd take his remarks and set 'em to music, they'd sound exactly like one of George Cohan's songs. "Well, you know how it runs on, if you've read any of 'em—he slaps the king's Swiss body-guards around like everything whenever they get in his way. He's a great fence, too. Now, I've known of some Chicago men who were pretty notorious fences, but I never heard of any fences from there. He stands on the first landing of the royal staircase in King's Castle, and makes a Baltimore broil of six platform traitors who come to massacre the said king. And then he has to fight duels with a couple of chancellors, and foil a plot by four Austrian archdukes to seize the kingdom for a gasoline-station. "But the great scene is when his rival for the princess's hand, Count Pedor, attacks him between the portallis and the ruined chapel, armed with a mitre, a yataghan, and a couple of Siberian bloodhounds. This scene is what runs the best-seller into the 29th edition before the publisher has had time to draw a check for the advance royalties. "The American hero shucks his coat and throws it over the heads of the bloodhounds, gives the mitre a little slap with his mitt, says 'Yah!' to the yataghan and lands in Kid McCoy's best style on the count's eye. Of course, we have a neat little pique-fight right then and there. The count—in order to make the go possible—seems to be an expert at the art of self-defense, himself, and here we have the Corbett-Sullivan fight done over into literature. The book ends with the broker and the princess doing a John Cull Clay cover under the lindens on the Georgian solas Walk. That winds up the story plenty good enough. But I notice that the book dodges the final issue. Even a best seller has sense enough to shy at either leaving a Chicago grain broker on the throne of Lobthropodan or bringing over a real princess to eat fish and potato salad in an Italian chalet on Michigan avenue. What do you think about 'em?" "Why," said I, "I hardly know, John. There's a saying: Love levels all ranks, you know." "Yes," said Pescud, "but these kind of love stories are rank—on the level, I can't say anything about literature, even if I am in plate-glass. These kind of books are wrong, and yet I never go into a train but what they pile 'em up on me. No good can come out of an international clinic between the Old-World aristocracy and one of us fresh Americans. When people in real life marry, they generally hunt up some body in their own station. A fellow usually picks out a girl that went to the same high-school and belonged to the same single-society that he did. When young millionaires fall in love, they always select the chorus-girl that likes the same kind of sauce on the lobster that they do. "Washington newspaper correspondents always marry widow ladies ten years older than themselves who keep boarding-houses. No, sir, you can't make a novel sound right to me when it makes one of C. D. Gibson's bright young men get along with a girl who makes upside down just because he's a Taft American and took a course at a gymnasium. And listen how they talk, too!" Pescud picked up the best seller and hummed his page. "Listen at this," said he. "Trevlyan is chinning with the Princess Alwyn at the back end of the tulip-garden. This is how it goes: "Say not so, dearest and sweetest of earth's fairest flowers, would I aspire? You are a star set high above me in a royal heaven; I am only—myself. Yet I love you, and I have a heart to do and dare. I have no title save that of an unowned sovereign; but I have an sword and a sword that yet might free Schutzenstein from the plots of traitors." "Think of a Chicago man packing a sword, and talking about freeing anything that sounded as much like canned peas as that! He'd be much more likely to fight to have an import duty put on it." "I think I understand you, John," said I. "You want fiction-writers to be consistent with their scenes and characters. They shouldn't mix Turkish paahas with Vermont farmers, or English dukes with Long Island clan-diggers, or Italian countesses with Montana cowboys, or Cincinnati brewery agents with the rajahs of India." "Or plain business men with aristocracy high above 'em," added Pescud. "It don't lie. People are divided into classes, whether we admit it or not, and it's everybody's impulse to stick to their own class. They do it, too. I don't see why people go to work by hundreds of thousands of books like that. You don't see or hear of any such diodes and capers in real life." "Well, John," said I, "I haven't read a best seller in a long time. Maybe I've had notions about them somewhat like yours. But tell me more about yourself. Getting along all right with the company?" "Bully," said Pescud, brightening at once. "I've had my salary raised twice since I saw you, and I get a commission, too. I've bought a neat slice of real estate out in the East End, and have run up a house on it. Next year the firm is going to sell me some shares of stock. Oh, I'm in on the line of General Prosser, no matter who's elected!" "Met your affinity yet, John?" I asked. "Oh, I didn't tell you about that, did I?" said Pescud, with a broader grin. "O-ho!" I said. "So you've taken time enough off from your plate-glass to have a romance?" "No, no," said John. "No romance—nothing like that! But I'll tell you she; and then she turned almost as red been so fortunate," says the colonel. "So I told it to him. Laugh! I was wishing to myself that he was a customer. What a bill of glass I'd sell him! And then he says: "The relating of anecdotes and humorous occurrences has always seemed to me, Mr. Pescud, to be a particularly agreeable way of promoting and perpetuating amonities between friends. With your permission, I will relate to you a fox-hunting story with which I was personally connected, and which may furnish you some amusement." "He tells it. It takes forty minutes by the watch. Did I laugh? Well, say! When I got my face straight he calls in old Pete, the superannuated dandy, and sends him down to the hotel to bring up my ruse. It was Elmcrest for me while I was in town. "Two evenings later I got a chance to speak a word with Miss Jessie alone on the porch while the colonel was thinking up another story. "It's going to be a fine evening," says I. "He's coming," says she. "He's going to tell you, this time, the story about the old negro and the green watermelons. It always comes after the one about the Yankees and the game rooster. There was another time, she goes on, "that you nearly got left—it was at Palms City." "Yes," says I, "I remember. My foot slipped as I was jumping on the step, and I nearly tumbled off." "I know," says she. "And—and—I was afraid you had. John A. I was afraid you had." "And then she skips into the house through one of the big windows." "Coketown" I'd done the porter, making his way through the slowing car. "Pescud gathered his hat and baggage with the leisurely promptness of an old traveler. "I had married her a year ago," said John. "I told you I built a house in the East End. The belted—I mean the colonel—is there, too. I find him working at the gate whenever I get back from a trip to hear my new story I might have picked up on the road." "I glanced out of the window. Coketown was nothing more than a ragged hillside dotted with a score of dismal hills propped up against dreary mounds of slag and clinkers. It rained in slanting torrents, and the rills foamed and splashed down through the black mud to the railroad tracks. "You won't sell much plate-glass here, John," said I. "Why do you get off at this end?"—"The world?" "Why," said Pescud, "the other day I took Jessie for a little trip to Philadelphia, and coming back she thought she saw some petunias in a pot in one of those windows over there just like some she used to raise down in the old Virginia home. So I thought I'd drop here for the night, and see if I could dig up some of the cuttings or blossoms for her. Here we are. Good-night, old man. I gave you the address. Come out and see us when you have time." The train moved forward. One of the dotted brown ladies insisted on having windows raised, now that the rain beat against them. The porter came along with his mysterious wand and began to light the car. "I glanced downward and saw the best-seller. I picked it up and set it carefully further along on the floor of the car, where the rain-drops would not fall upon it. And then, suddenly, I smiled, and seemed to see that life has no geographical metes and bounds. "Good luck to you, Trevlyan," I said. "And may you get the petunias for your princess!"

Evidence Yesterday Brings Graft Fund So Far To $36,200

Largest Contributor Said "He Had to Pay" To Secure Renewal of Leases — Premier Told Lumberman That Berry Would Fix the Bonus — Witnesses Tell How Money Was Extorted

The North Shore lumbermen's money collected by W. H. Berry for "a campaign fund" (although there was no campaign in sight) went into a "bag" or "grip," according to yesterday's testimony. At the close of the session yesterday afternoon the evidence showed the contents of the "bag," so far as disclosed, to be as follows:

Table listing contributors and amounts: From the Bathurst Lumber Company $15,000; From J. P. Burdell 2,000; From the Dominion Pulp Company 4,500; From Lawrence MacLaren, trustee (J. B. Snowball) 7,200; From Allan Ritchie 4,500; From the Sinclair Lumber Company 3,000.

A total, after two days' testimony, of $36,200. And the worst is yet to come, according to all of the indications. All told yesterday the session, Berry visited each in turn. He indicated that the legitimate bonus would be $100 a square mile and said there would be an extra levy of $15 a square mile, on the side, for a campaign fund, or for political purposes. Sometimes the words were different; the meaning was the same. The $100 a mile went into the treasury and shows in the annual report, the $15 a mile, amounting in all to more than $100,000, of which sum witnesses have already sworn to contributing more than $36,000, was never received by the province. It was a ruse—pure and simple. Berry levied and collected it. Its destination is yet to be proved.

The court resumed for the afternoon session at 2:45 o'clock, with W. B. Snowball again on the stand. The chairman made an announcement regarding the admissibility of evidence of Mr. Snowball's payment of $15 a mile, at the instance of Mr. Berry in which objection was taken on account of its being made after the classification of the lumber lands had been completed. He disagreed.

Judge Wells also spoke saying that he thought it might be well to have the evidence allowed when they were reaching a decision. W. S. Fisher concurred with Judge Wells and the question was allowed.

Mr. Carvell proceeded with the examination—What amount did you pay to this fund? A—I paid $7,200, at the rate of $15 a mile on 480 miles, by cheque, deposited in the Bank of Montreal, Chatham, to the credit of J. W. Brankley.

The cheque was produced, shown payable to "cash" and introduced in evidence. Q—This was paid over and above your bonus? A—Yes.

Q—At the time you paid it did you know that the classification was complete? A—Not definitely. Mr. Berry had told me previously that we would be charged $100 a mile. Q—Why did you pay this money? This question evoked a lively discussion as to the admissibility of the evidence, Mr. Carvell arguing that it was a necessary part of the case. The question was modified and Mr. Snowball said the reason he paid was because the others had done so.

"If you want to know how I was influenced I cannot give what might be called a fact; it would rather be an influence." Q—Was the renewal of your license a matter of importance to you? A—Yes.

Q—Of such importance as to make you pay more than you believed them worth? A—Yes.

Q—Was the renewal of the licenses an element in your deciding to pay $15 to the election fund? This was objected to and the chairman suggested the question "What fact influenced you?" A—The fact was my investment in saw mills, in roads, etc.

Mr. Teed objected that this was not a statement of fact. Judge Wells suggested that the counsel might ask what was said and done by Berry to influence him but not what was in his mind.

Mr. Carvell pointed out that the mental attitude might well be the test of extortion. He quoted authorities and definitions to support his argument. This line of examination was not allowed and Mr. Snowball stood down.

Q—Were you told to take it there? A—Yes, by Mr. Berry. Q—You did not put it into a bag then? A—I did not see a bag.

for the stability of the business. The rate had not been fixed. Q—But it was known that this was the government's policy? A—I did not know that the government had committed themselves.

Q—But they had indicated that they would accede to the lumbermen's request? A—Yes. Q—What was the stampage rate? A—The old rate was $125 and the new rate $150.

Q—You think it was in the interests of the business that the rate should be specified for a fixed term and you approve of it? A—Yes. Q—It was important that these questions should be settled? A—Yes.

Q—And you were urging the government to arrange the matter? A—Yes. Q—And the premier had promised to do what he could? A—Yes. Q—Had you learned from the minister or any other member of the government what their policy was likely to be? A—Not at that time, not until the next spring.

Q—About this time you acquired other lands? A—Yes, 43 1/2 miles, the Robinson limits on the Nepisiquit river. We closed for them in May of 1913 after the act was passed. Q—Would you mind telling us what you paid for the limits? A—About $88,600 or $200 a mile.

Q—And you paid the bonus as well? A—Yes. Mr. Teed—Before you met Mr. Berry at Chatham had you learned what the probable amount of the bonus would be? A—No, sir.

Q—Did he tell you that the bonus had not been fixed by the government but he believed it would be $100 a mile? A—He said our lands would be $100. Q—Did you say that? A—Yes, and I tried to get him to exempt some barren land but they took them all through at that rate.

"Would Have to Pay." Q—Did you say that Berry said to you he was to pay $15 in order to get the renewal? I may have misunderstood you. A—Practically so. Q—What did he say? A—He said that our lands would be classed at $100 a mile but we would have to put up something for an election campaign.

Q—Did he say that you would have to pay for that? A—I considered— Q—Give us the exact words. Will you swear that he said that you would have to pay? A—It is the same thing. Q—It may or it may not be. A—He said I would have to.

Q—Did he use the words? A—Yes. Q—For campaign purposes? A—Yes. Q—Did he say that the lumbermen were contributing? A—Yes, sir.

Q—And that if you wanted the renewals you would have to pay $100 a mile bonus? A—Yes, sir. Q—Do you mean to tell us that you also believed that you would not contribute your renewals unless you paid the $15 additional? A—Yes, that is what I believed and understood. There might have been some way to beat that out but I did not know. It was certainly my understanding.

Q—Did you not rather understand from Mr. Berry that the others were contributing, some of them at all events, to a campaign fund and that you would also be expected to do so? A—He said the others were contributing. Q—And you had not the slightest intention of abandoning your holding? A—Well, there is a limit. Q—But you had an intention then of abandoning your holding? A—No.

Q—Did you tell him you wanted to consult friends? A—Yes. Q—Did you mention it to many friends? A—No, I do not think I mentioned it to many. I mentioned it to my friend Burdell.

Q—And Mr. Snowball? A—Yes, I think we did have a talk about it. Q—Did you see Mr. Berry again? A—Yes, I think I saw him on June 27.

Q—Did you protest against the payment of the $15 over and above the $100? A—I do not say I protested but I thought it was heavy. Q—Did you tell him you were paying too much? A—I do not know. Q—You were a rather easy mark? A—I do not think so.

Q—Did you pay a sum? A—I paid $4,000. Q—Why did you not pay the rest? A—Because some of the land was infertile. Q—Where did you pay it? A—Into Mr. Brankley's office. Q—Did you know how you paid it? A—I put it on the table in Mr. Brankley's office.

Q—Was Mr. Brankley there? A—Yes. Q—Practically so. Q—What did he say? A—He said that our lands would be classed at $100 a mile but we would have to put up something for an election campaign.

Q—Did he say that you would have to pay for that? A—I considered— Q—Give us the exact words. Will you swear that he said that you would have to pay? A—It is the same thing. Q—It may or it may not be. A—He said I would have to.

A—He said the others were contributing. Q—And you had not the slightest intention of abandoning your holding? A—Well, there is a limit. Q—But you had an intention then of abandoning your holding? A—No.

Q—Did you take it to be a sine qua non with you why did you confer with the other lumbermen? A—Well, as far as I was concerned it was a matter we thought would be fair to the other lumbermen and I wanted to verify Berry's statements about the terms with the others. Q—At all events you talked it over with the others? A—Yes.

Payments to Witnesses. When the witness had concluded Mr. Carvell asked the chairman as to the payments to witnesses in attendance. The chairman said that the act gave the commission power to deal with that subject and that the witnesses would have to make an affidavit of the number of miles traveled, etc., exactly as in a civil case.

Mr. Carvell also asked about the costs of serving the witnesses. In some cases the expense had been pretty serious. The chairman—if you make out a list of the services and submit them to the commission they will be considered. Allan Ritchie.

Q—Did you tell him you wanted to consult friends? A—Yes. Q—Did you mention it to many friends? A—No, I do not think I mentioned it to many. I mentioned it to my friend Burdell.

Q—And Mr. Snowball? A—Yes, I think we did have a talk about it. Q—Did you see Mr. Berry again? A—Yes, I think I saw him on June 27.

Q—Were you told to take it there? A—Yes, by Mr. Berry. Q—You did not put it into a bag then? A—I did not see a bag. Q—Did Mr. Brankley count the money? A—No, Mr. Brankley said he would not count the money and that I should put it on the table.

Q—Was it marked with the amount? A—Yes, the amount and I think the name. Q—Why did you pay this money? A—Well, I considered it part of the settlement of the bonus on the ground. Q—You paid the government $100 and the election fund of $15 a mile? A—Yes.

Q—Did you think your lands were really worth $100 a mile in bonus? A—Well, it was optional but I thought a lot of plant and the mill would have been of no use without the lands. Q—You would have done it in the past? A—Well, somewhere about there. Further answering Mr. Carvell, the witness said that the date of the payment was June 27, 1913.

Mr. Teed cross-examined at some length as to previous meetings with Berry. Quicker if He Paid. Q—You knew that the land lease would be renewed if you paid or not? A—Well, it was optional but I thought I should get it quicker if I paid.

Q—Contributing to a lumberman's campaign is no new thing to you, is it? A—No, but it is not often that it is given away. (Laughter.) Q—You have done it in the past? A—Yes, once or twice. Q—To the government party? A—Yes. Q—But it was never given away before? A—Not that I know of.

Q—To how many elections have you contributed? A—Well, it goes back a long way. Q—What about the election in 1908? A—Well, I don't think I paid then. Q—You paid to the Liberal campaign funds? A—Yes, I have. Mr. Carvell—You paid to the Conservative campaign funds, too? Witness—I don't know just exactly.

Q—Did you contribute to a fund at the renewal of licenses twenty years before? A—Yes, I think you will have to make it twenty-five years before. (Laughter.) Q—Oh, no, not that much. E. Hubert Sindlar.

A—Yes. Q—When? A—About June 1, 1913. No, it was about June 28, I think. Q—What was said? A—He said the bonuses had been fixed for $100 a mile for class A and as all the lumbermen about there were in class A we were all included and that the bonus would be $100 a mile. "To Cover the Requirements." Q—Anything else? A—Yes, that they wanted a campaign fund and that friends of the government should meet it. He mentioned $15 a mile which if paid by the lumbermen would be sufficient to cover the requirements.

Q—Did he say what the requirements would be? A—I do not know. Q—He must have had a goal of some kind. A—I presume so. Q—He did not mention the amount? A—No. Q—What did you say to him? A—That I was willing to pay in the way designated by him and he stated that we could pay the money into Mr. Brankley's office as was done by the others.

Q—What did you do? A—I met the next day, at Newcastle, Mr. Berry and Mr. Brankley and I told them I had the money. I think it was Mr. Brankley who said "There is a grip in a room at the hotel" and I put it in the bag. Q—How much? A—$8,000. Q—When was that? A—It was about June 26 or 27. Q—This was in addition to the amount of the bonus? A—Yes, in addition to the amount of the bonus.

Answering Mr. Teed, witness said that Mr. Berry got the information about their land from Mr. Bates. Mr. Teed—Was any threat or duress, direct or indirect, held out to you? A—No. Q—He only suggested that you should contribute to the campaign funds? A—Yes. Q—And you contributed freely and voluntarily? A—Yes. Q—There was no question of holding up the leases? A—No. A. H. F. Randolph.

Allan H. F. Randolph, a member of the firm of Handolph & Baker, then went into the witness box. Mr. Carvell—Did Mr. Berry or any other person ask you to pay to the campaign funds over and above the bonus? A—No. Q—Did you ever pay over and above the bonus? A—No. Witness then left the stand and it was understood that he was only called at his own request to deny making payments as alleged in the statement filed by Mr. Carvell.

Celebration of 100 Years of Peace St. John and Other New Brunswick Citizens Who Are Identified With the Movement

The movement for celebrating the hundred years of peace between the British Empire and the United States is, judging by a circular just issued by the Canadian Peace Centenary Association, taking rapid hold in Canada, Great Britain and the United States. The general proposals contain four main features, (1) Monuments and other memorials, (2) Thanksgiving services in the churches, (3) Educational propaganda, (4) Festivities. The circular enumerates various suggestions regarding the erection of monuments, and states that the matter has been referred to an international committee. February 14, 1914, has been selected for thanksgiving services in all the churches of the British empire and the United States. This date is the nearest Sunday to February 15, 1915, the centenary of the ratification of the Treaty of Ghent. The educational propaganda includes several important features, among which may be mentioned the preparation of a series of pamphlets dealing with the various treaties which have made the long peace possible, which it is intended to send to all the schools in Canada. Tabernacles and masques are in course of preparation which will also be sent to the schools for production upon a date to be hereafter arranged. A somewhat unique proposal is that schools in Canada and the United States in places bearing the same name should be invited to exchange shields. It is intended to arrange for the writing of competitive essays on Anglo-American relations, and provision is being made for Provincial and Dominion prizes. About 100 centres have been chosen for special celebrations in Canada and strong local committees have been arranged for in a majority of those. The circular also reports the progress made in Great Britain and the United States and contains replies received last Christmas from world rulers to a message sent in connection with the celebration by the American committee. The dominion government has arranged for an appropriation to meet the preliminary organization expenses. In announcing this the Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden said: "The cause which the Canadian Peace Centenary Association and the corresponding bodies in the United Kingdom and the United States have set before them is one with which we are warmly sympathetic. It is a triumph of humanity that during a century of rapid development, despite the existence of serious international differences and problems, the British Empire and the United States have found wiser and more humane methods of adjusting differences than the arbitrament of war. We welcome the achievement of a century of peace, and hope that it will prove to be but the first century of peace for the forerunner of a long series stretching into the future as far as human anticipation can trust itself. The list of members is a most representative one and contains the names of all the lieutenant-governors, all the ministers of education and nearly all the premiers in Canada. Among those prominent in this province, who have identified themselves with this movement, may be mentioned: Lieut. Gov. Wood, Hon. J. K. Fleming, Hon. D. Y. Landry, Hon. James Murray, Hon. George J. Clarke, Chief Supt. Carter and the following: St. John—The mayor, president of the Board of Trade, Rev. A. J. Archibald, Sir Frederic Barker, Senator Daniels, Mrs. H. Lawrence, Miss Grace Leavitt, Justice McKeown, E. W. McCready, H. A. Powell, Mrs. M. A. Sheffield, M. G. Ford, Senator Thorne. Fredericton—The mayor, president of the Board of Trade, Justice Barry, Justice Crockett, C. F. Chestnut, W. S. Hoopes, John T. Jennings, Chancellor Jones, George M. McDade, H. F. McLeod, M. P., Bishop Richardson, Rev. W. H. Smith. Moncton—The mayor, president of the Board of Trade, C. H. Boudreau, A. Chapman, J. E. Cochran, E. Cole, W. K. Gross, J. T. Hawk, F. A. McCully, George K. TOMB OF OSIRIS

Noted Egyptologist Says No Doubt About Discovery

NINE YARDS UNDERGROUND

Large Building of Granite and Very Hard Sandstone Found and in it Funerary Chamber of Egyptian King-god

Paris, June 18.—Professor Edward Naville, an Egyptologist who has been directing 600 men and boys in excavations to unearth the temple and tomb of Osiris, has returned to his chair at the University of Geneva elated with the belief that he has penetrated the actual funeral chamber of the ancient Egyptian king-god, and that another winter's work which is already assured under auspices of the Anglo-American Egyptian Exploration Company, will bring to light important details bearing upon the history of Osiris. The legend is that Osiris, a wise and beneficent king who reclaimed the Egyptians from savagery, met a sudden and premature death by the scheming of his wicked brother, Seth, who, with seventy-two fellow conspirators, invited Osiris to a banquet and induced him to enter a cunningly-wrought coffin. They shut down the lid and cast the chest and its body into the Nile. Isis, faithful wife of the beloved king recovered the body of the legend continues that Seth and his fellow conspirators then cut the body into fourteen pieces, and scattered the parts all over Egypt—each piece being entombed by worshippers of Osiris—which accounts for the numerous tombs to him. The faithful Isis, however, reassembled the pieces and brought them back to the Temple of Abydos. This temple where Professor Naville has been conducting the excavations, is, he is sure, the true burial place of Osiris. The place is about equidistant between Cairo and Assuan, in the desert about eight miles westward from the Nile. Professor Naville believes this temple is older even than the Pyramids. Relating some details of his work to the Associated Press correspondent at Geneva, he said: "We worked from December 24, 1913 to March 11, 1914, and during the eleven weeks we experienced some anxiety and excitement. At nine yards under the soil we found a large building constructed of granite and very hard red sandstone. This edifice is divided into three naves, which are surrounded by sixteen large cells all identical in size and shape. They have no inscriptions on the walls whatever. This proves that the building is very ancient as the walls of more modern edifices in Egypt are covered with inscriptions. "In front of the cells is a stone platform supported by ten huge blocks of granite. Skirting this platform we came upon the reservoir—or well of Osiris, which undoubtedly is the menhir by the Roman historian, Strabo. While the reservoir has not yet been explored, it is probable that its waters had been popular at one time for their supposed curative virtues. "On the opposite side of the temple to that where we entered we found the burial place of Osiris, as the Book of the

You swing on "joy makin's!"

Get it into your mind pretty quick that Prince Albert is just as bully delicious rolled up into a cigarette as jammed into a jimmy pipe—and that means going some, too. Just to change your luck, switch for a spell from the dust-brands and fire-brands and know first hand what a real and true makin's cigarette can taste like when you get the brand of tobacco that millions of men pin their faith to—

PRINCE ALBERT the inter-national joy smoke

It's all out of fashion now-a-days for men to suffer with a stung tongue or a parched throat. Because Prince Albert is scot-free from that sort of thing. If you didn't know it before, get this news direct from headquarters: Prince Albert tobacco is made by a patented process that cuts out the bite and the parch. It's just all-good with a flavor and a fragrance and freshness unequalled by any other brand at any price!

Men, that's some talk—some talk, but it's right and it's up to you to prove it. Do you figure for a minute that in five years Prince Albert would have become the largest selling pipe and cigarette tobacco in the United States if it was not all we claimed for it? Just lay a bet right here that P. A. will give you absolutely what you've hunted for years, either in a pipe or a cigarette. And that goes! Right now's the time, too, while the "listen" is in your system.

Prince Albert is imported into Canada by wholesale dealers, and is on sale, in one-eighth-pound tins, by all of the leading retail dealers. R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO. Winston-Salem, N. C., U. S. A.

WAS TROUBLED WITH Weak and Dizzy Spells. Heart Would Beat Something Awful.

Those feelings of weakness, those dizzy spells which come over people from time to time, are warnings that must not go unheeded. They indicate an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered state of the nerves. One dizzy spell may pass off, but eventually they will come frequently, and at the same time more serious. Those who are wise will start taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills before their case becomes hopeless, for they have no equal for restoring the heart to its usual strength, and making the nerves firm and steady. Mrs. Len. Kinney, Moose Mountain, N.B., writes—"I was troubled with weak and dizzy spells, and my heart would beat something awful. I got so I had those spells every day. I got so I would try one medicine, and then another, but nothing did me any good until I got Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I can safely say they did me more good than anything I ever took, for I feel like a very different woman. My friends often ask me what I have been taking, and I always say 'Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.' I tell all my friends who say their heart troubles them, to take your pills." ANOTHER GIANT LINER IN COLLISION AT SEA

Southampton, England, June 17.—The North German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II, which left Southampton shortly after noon today, bound for New York with 1,000 passengers lies at anchor tonight off Netley, three miles to the southeast, with a big hole in her side amidships caused by a collision with the Liverpool grain steamer Incormore, bound from a Black Sea port for Antwerp. The Incormore, a much smaller craft than the German steamer, of 8,000 odd tons, is in dock here with her bows badly smashed. Busy Parrsboro. Parrsboro is proving the busiest spot in Cumberland this summer. Five steamers carrying about sixteen million feet of deal have already been loading at that port, and two other steamers are expected shortly. There will be shipped from the port of Parrsboro to the English market fully forty million feet of deal this season and large shipments will also be made to the American market. There has, too, been a marked revival in coal shipments and Parrsboro is enjoying an exceptional busy summer. Labor is reported to be decidedly scarce. George J. Markey, a contractor doing city work in Clinton street, Milwaueke, sheltered his men under umbrellas during the recent hot spell.

Dead and the inscription on the walls of the funeral chamber, twenty yards by five, proved to us beyond all doubt. You can imagine that we were greatly delighted at the discovery. "We found also that in some remote past Egyptian thieves had been at work there. They had entered the funeral chamber by piercing a hole in the wall, but of course it will never be known what the thieves carried away. Did they take the sarcophagus of Osiris? All Egyptologists in the course of their researches in the ruins of Egypt have come across traces of thieves who were considered to be the cleverest in the then known world. They formed themselves into associations and gangs with the special object of robbing tombs, as it was the ancient custom among Egyptians to bury valuables with their dead. There was a supervision of the tombs, but this the thieves seem to have avoided easily, judging by their exploits. "The whole of the vast edifice we discovered is in a bad state of ruin, because it and its surroundings were used as a quarry in the time of Rameses II." Professor Naville, who is an elderly man, insisted upon paying honor to his "brave assistants" Messrs. Wainwright and Gibson of London, and Thomas Wiltmore of Tufts College, Massachusetts. BASEBALL Evening Games.

In the South End League more than 200 fans whooped in style last evening while the Victorias and Curlews battled for victory in the fastest and most exciting event that has been staged in the district this year.

The Palmonts defeated the Imperials by 6 runs to 1 on the Orange street grounds last evening. Batteries: Till and Morrison; Charter and Saunders.

The Young St. John's won from the Young Glenwoods by the score of 6 to 2, last evening. Batteries: Crowley and Gates; Short, Vogel and Day.

East End League.

The Alerts gave a sure defeat to the Nationals in the East End diamond last evening, when in five innings they netted ten runs to their opponents' two. Batteries—Donovan and McNutt; Sproul and Perkins.

A Challenge. The baseball team from McAvity's brass foundry has issued a challenge to the brass molders in the Fleming shops for a game on Saturday afternoon.

What Will Happen Sydney Team. The Sydney baseball club journeyed to Halifax last week and played there three games. Now comes the word that several of the Sydney players will be seen in the Halifax line-up in St. John this week and the question naturally arises "Has the Sydney team disbanded and what will become of the Cape Breton League?"

It is almost too late in the season to organize another team for Sydney, which was the mislady of the league. It looks like a balloon ascension for the whole organization.

Halifax vs. St. John.

All preparations have been made for the series of three games between St. John and Halifax professional teams, beginning at 8 o'clock today and continuing Friday and Saturday at the same hour.

The line up today will be as follows: St. John. Catcher. Halifax.

Case Has Given Notice.

Chicago, June 17.—Charles A. Comiskey, president of the Chicago American League team, admitted yesterday that Hal Chase had notified him he would leave the White Sox in ten days.

The first baseman in an interview with the club president, declared his intention of quitting, but Comiskey said he gained the idea that Chase was going into business.

Chase himself refused to make any further statement. From Federal League headquarters, however, came the information that he was practically sure to be with the Buffalo team within a fortnight.

EXPULSION OF NATIONAL LEAGUE EXPECTED

O'Fallenburgh and Tom Seaton

Three pitchers of Federals who will find themselves back in organized ball if the Feds are taken in.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton.) Can the Federal league last?

The question has been fired broadcast at me so frequently since the slump in attendance that I have made as thorough an investigation as is possible. Here is the situation, so far as I can figure it: The Federal league can last—practically is forced to last—if the club backers are game enough to stand their losses. The Federal League will lose close to $200,000 on the season at the present rate of attendance.

The National League will lose almost double that amount. The American League will do well to break even, with perhaps five clubs on the circuit losing money in spite of the interesting race.

AQUATIC Power Boat Race.

At Indiantown last evening the St. John Power Boat Club held the McAvity Cup race. Three speedy canopy boats were entered and at the starting gun crossed the line in the following order: Oulta, 7.38; White Heather, 7.33.5; A. S. R., 7.32.5.

The course was from a buoy off Public wharf to a buoy at Green Head and return. The time at the end of the first round was: Oulta crossed 7.48.5; White Heather, 7.48.5.

The A. S. R. owing to engine trouble was forced to withdraw and the Oulta crossed the finish line at 8.18 and the White Heather at 8.18.2, finishing the closest race ever held on Indiantown harbor. The secretary's book: Vacuna conveyed the officials.

Elapsed time, White Heather 49.50; Oulta, 52.8.

Players We Know

Ramsey, Waterhouse and Riley, of New Brunswick and Maine League fame, will be seen with the local line-up this week. Catcher McGovern, who will be with Halifax, needs no introduction either.

After pitching four innings without allowing a hit, Jack Dedrick was touched up for two singles in the ninth and Haverhill won from Lynn by a score of 5 to 4 in their game at Haverhill on Monday.

Dedrick relieved Johnson in the fourth with the score 4 to 0 against Lynn. The latter tied the score in the seventh but lost out in the ninth. Here is how Haverhill won the game: The winning run was scored on Howard's hit; Vacuna, McMahon, Duggan's sacrifice, and Boardman's single to center. Pat Duggan, whose sacrifice in the ninth was a big help to Haverhill, had another sacrifice hit and was hit by a pitched ball. He also had one stolen base and a safe hit. Boardman, the former Bangor player, came right along in the pinch with the hit that drove over the winning tally.

Larry Woodcock, a former Fredrickton pitcher, was returned a winner for Woonsocket in the Colonial League on Monday. Woodcock allowed Favvocket only five hits and won his game by a score of 8 to 2. Of his team's five hits Woodcock got two and scored one run.

Jack Fryer's New Bedford team is leading the Colonial League. Fryer seems to be improving in his fielding every day. He has been hitting well.

Bob Conley is starting to court the ball in fine style for Lawrence and had three hits on Monday, one a triple.

A skin you love to touch

Why it is so rare

A skin you love to touch is rarely found because so few people understand the skin and its needs.

Begin now to take your skin seriously.

You can make it what you would love to have it by using the following treatment regularly.

Make this treatment a daily habit

Just before retiring, work up a warm water lather of Woodbury's Facial Soap and rub it into the skin gently until the skin is softened, the pores opened and the face feels fresh and clean.

Rinse in cooler water, then apply cold water—the colder the better—for a full minute. Whenever possible, rub your face for a few minutes with a piece of ice. Always dry the skin thoroughly.

Use this treatment persistently for ten days or two weeks and your skin will show a marked improvement. Use Woodbury's regularly thereafter, and before long your skin will take on that finer texture, that greater freshness and clearness of "a skin you love to touch."

Woodbury's Facial Soap is the work of a skin specialist. It costs 25c a cake. No one hesitates at the price after their first cake.

Do this today—now! Tear out the illustration of the cake below and put it in your purse as a reminder to get Woodbury's and try this treatment. Tear out the cake now. Take it to your druggist or chemist. Begin tonight to get the benefits of this Facial soap. For sale by Canadian druggists from coast to coast, including Newfoundland.

Q.—What did you do with them? A.—Question changed to How were parcels marked? A.—Some were marked with the names of those who left them. Gave it to Teed. Q.—What did you do with them? A.—I gave them to Mr. Teed. Q.—Do you see that Mr. Teed in the court room? A.—Yes, that is he (indicating him). Witness—After this money was all paid in took over to Mr. Berry's room in the Touraine Hotel. Mr. Teed was there too. The money was in a newspaper parcel. I said "Here is the stuff," and put it on the bed. Mr. Teed opened the whole parcel but Mr. Berry took the envelope from Mr. Stevens. Q.—Did you ever see those parcels again? A.—Yes. I saw them in Newcastle that night. Q.—You all went to Newcastle together? A.—Yes. Q.—Do you know if they took a record of them? A.—I don't know. Q.—Mr. Snowball said yesterday that he paid $7,500 to your credit in Bathurst and Mr. McLean said he had $-5,000 transferred to you from Bathurst. Did you get that money? A.—Yes. I went to the bank and asked for notes of large denominations as it was too large to carry. Mr. Dick refused and I carried it across to the Bank of Nova Scotia and asked for $1,000 bills. They agreed but said it would take some time. Q.—Was this shown in your bank book? A.—Yes, (producing book showing entry of deposit on July 15). Q.—When did you withdraw it? A.—About July 26. Q.—In what form? A.—Chiefly in $1,000 notes. Q.—What did you do with it? A.—I brought it to St. John and gave it to E. R. Teed. Q.—When you left Mr. Fleming's room in Woodstock, did you leave Mr. Berry and Mr. Teed together? A.—I could not swear to it. Q.—There was no hold up, and you paid nothing else? A.—No. Mr. Carvell—This conversation in Woodstock was before you got any money? A.—Yes. This concluded his evidence. Stetson, Cutler & Co. Fred C. Cutler is the financial man and looks after the Maine woods, John Cutler looks after the selling in New York, G. C. Cutler is well known here. Q.—They have crown timber lands? A.—Yes. MAYPOLE AND MORE SWINGS FOR FAIRVILLE KIDDIES TO ENJOY

Community Council Also Takes Up Matters of Band Stand and Automobile Speeding

The Fairville Community Council held its fortnightly meeting last evening. It was decided to add a maypole to the playground equipment and W. E. Guntter was appointed to procure one and have it erected. Two more swings are being placed, as there will be nine all told, and a first class slide is under construction. The official opening will take place on July 2, probably in the evening, so that as large a number of citizens as possible may attend. The services of a band will be sought, it is expected, and full details are left in the hands of the managing committee with the local clergyman. Every effort will be made to make the opening worthy of the public sentiment that made the whole thing possible. Another matter brought up at the meeting was that of the speed with which motor vehicles of one kind or another sometimes drive through the town thoroughfare. Laws relating to the subject will be looked up and presented at the next meeting. Some of the members again referred to the advisability of erecting a band stand in the name of the Eastern Trust Company, which they had in July, 1913. Then we have three miles for the New River Lumber Co. We also have the Ingelwood Pulp & Paper Co., 42 miles. Stetson, Cutler & Co. have 474 miles. We have the Shives Lumber Company, 68 1/2 miles. This is carried on at Campbellton, W. F. Napier, manager, also the Richards & Co., Co. E. Richards, Campbellton, 58 1/2 miles. To Mr. Stevens the witness said he did not operate the Van Buren Lumber Company. His Boston office might. The total crown lands he knew of for his company were about 1,740 square miles. Q.—These were all renewed? A.—In what class? A.—Of our own 848 miles in Class C, 130 miles in Class B, 46 miles in the Ingelwood Co. in Class C, and all the others in Class A. Q.—Your companies all paid the bonus? A.—As far as I know, I only manage the St. John interests. Q.—Do you know W. H. Berry? A.—I do. Q.—What is his position? A.—Chief scaler for the government. Q.—Did Mr. Berry have any conversation with you regarding an extra payment? A.—No. Q.—Did you pay Mr. Teed and Mr. Berry any money? A.—Yes, $20,000; in July, 1913, $15,000, and in February, 1914, $5,000. I paid the $15,000 in the Dufferin Hotel in St. John. I was asked to go there, I think, by Mr. Berry. Q.—Did you have any instructions from your superiors about this? A.—Yes, from George C. Cutler. Q.—Did the Shives Lumber Co. contribute any of this? A.—Yes, $7,681.02. Q.—The Richards Company? A.—Yes, $5,270.92. Q.—Did the Shives Company send the money to you? A.—I made a demand draft on them; the name with the Richards Co. I made up the balance of the $15,000. Q.—Who paid the $5,000? A.—We did. Q.—Did Mr. Berry or Mr. Teed say anything when you paid the money. A.—Not very much. I don't know that they ever acknowledged it. Q.—What did you do with it? A.—I left it on the bureau in the room. Q.—Did you instructions to pay $20,000 all come at the one time. A.—No; first I was told to pay $15,000, and later $5,000. Q.—This was entirely over and above the bonus? A.—Yes. M. G. Teed—Did you make the last payment of $5,000 to Mr. Teed. A.—No, to Mr. Berry. Mr. Teed was not there. Mr. Carvell—Where is Mr. Cutler now? A.—Boston. Q.—You know that he has been subpoenaed? A.—Yes. Q.—Do you know if he will be here? A.—Not just now, on account of serious illness in his family. He will be glad to come when it is convenient. This concluded Mr. Beatey's evidence. Wm. Sullivan. William Sullivan was sworn next. He testified that he resides at Rtd. Bank, Northumberland County; he was a holder of crown timber lands. Frank and Dennis, his brothers, also are holders. His holdings are 184 1/2 miles. The leases have been renewed, some in his name and some by H. A. Powell in trust. All are classed in class A. Q.—Did Mr. Berry ask you to pay any other amounts? A.—No. Q.—Anyone else ask you? A.—No. Mr. Carvell—That will do; the fishing is poorer. Mr. Carvell asked for an adjournment to secure the evidence of N. M. Jones and J. A. Rundle. He would ask for a reasonable adjournment to see if they could not secure the evidence of George C. Cutler and W. H. Berry. The chairman—You expect Mr. Berry? Mr. Carvell—I have a reasonable hope. I may say that he has been communicated with very recently by telephone and I believe that he may come. Another witness is Mr. Peniston of the Loudon Lumber Company, but his payment was only $2,000, and that is a baguette in the case. The court adjourned until ten o'clock on Friday morning.

Reading About Good Clothes Isn't All, Seeing is Better--- and Convincing. Talk never yet made a poor suit good. And while the statements made by reliable stores should be given full credence, we never yet have been able to put in print all the ways in which Oak Hall Clothing appeals to men of taste as strongly as would seeing the suits—feeling the fabrics, noting the distinctive coloring and realizing the good, strong individual lines of the garments. No merely "ironed-in" lines that soon disappear, but the permanent shape given by careful and expert tailoring. The stocks are full and fine today. You are welcome to come in and look them over even for curiosity, keeping in mind the things we have been saying about them. Prices $6.50 to $30.00. You will notice the unusual variety between $15.00 and $25.00 in Worsteds, Cheviots and Serges, and in styles going from the extremes of fashion to the extreme of conservatism.
