DETECTIVE'S AT LAST A VICTIM OF THE BLACKHAND

New York Officer, Who for Years Has Fought Italian Criminals, Murdered During a Visit to Italy in the Interests of His Country

NEW YORK, March 12.—Lt. Joseph Petrosino, head of the Italian Bureau of the New York Police Department, was assassinated yesterday in Palermo, Sicily, according to a special cable despatch to the Herald today.

The assassin, the despatch says, are unknown.

Lieutenant Petrosino went to Italy on a special mission to investigate the so-called Blackhand with a view to bringing about better protection for police-sending Italians in this country.

Petrosino was a Blackhand expert of the New York Police Department, and a terror to Italian criminals. He is said to have had more convictions for murder to his credit than any five policemen connected with the detective bureau. In his work it is only natural that he incurred the enmity of all Italian criminals, and the report of his death in Italy leads to the belief that at last he fell a victim to those whom he had so relentlessly prosecuted.

He went to Italy more than a year ago to work on a plan suggested by Police Commissioner Bingham. The object of which was to be the adoption of means to check the tide of undesirable Italians and Sicilians to this country, and particularly to New York City. A native of Italy and a man of great experience on the local police force, Petrosino was the best all-around man to accomplish the mission. A private subscription was started and $50,000 was raised. With this he defrayed the expenses of the undertaking. Petrosino left for his native land to establish bureaus through which it was hoped to keep such complete records that the news of the departure from Italy or Sicily of any criminals could be flashed to the country immediately so that the authorities here could be on the alert and prevent their landing or place them under arrest. Petrosino was so accustomed to receiving threatening communications and of hearing threats against his life that he paid little attention to them. It is said that he had been warned against going to Palermo, where he is said to have been assassinated, but he ignored them and scoffed at the idea of being killed. Prominent Italians in the city are of the opinion that the detective met death among his countrymen as a direct result of his untiring efforts to suppress the crime against these criminals which will bring out even a more drastic crusade against them than has hitherto been conducted. Petrosino's wife, who was seen at her home, No. 233 Lafayette street, but she said that she had heard nothing from her husband since he received a letter on Thursday last. There was a shade of anxiety in her voice as she stood in the doorway holding her little daughter in her arms.

"But," said she, "I am sure he is all right or I should know."

ROME, March 12.—A despatch has been received from the American Consul in Palermo, Sicily, confirming the report that Lt. Joseph Petrosino, head of the New York police department, had been assassinated in that city. His murderer, who was a member of the Blackhand, fired four shots from a revolver.

Petrosino arrived in Sicily only a short time ago and he was engaged in conducting an investigation regarding Italian criminals.

NEW YORK, March 12.—When official news of the assassination in Palermo of Lieut. Petrosino of the New York Detective Bureau, was received here, Chief of Detectives McCafferty immediately sent telegrams to all the chiefs of police in all the country's large cities, asking them to round up every "Blackhand" suspect in their locality.

JURORS WENT ON STRIKE; WANTED HIGHER PAY

Toronto Sheriff Granted It—Big New Hotel to be Erected.

MONTREAL, Mar. 12.—The English Jurors of the city went on strike this morning at the court of King's Bench when they were called on a panel. The judge asked their grievance. They claimed that they were paid for nine days at $150 while the city jurors were paid $2 a day for 12 days. They were sent to the sheriff who after hearing the case compromised by paying them for 11 days. The jurors then served on the panel.

There is to be another big hotel here. A syndicate of capitalists has an option on property on Phillips Square and will erect a modern hotel with accommodation for 400 persons and not even mention if it proves necessary. The names of the capitalists are not given out yet but the management will be the present management of the St. Hall which will be torn down next year.

JUDGE McLEOD, ATTY.-GEN. AND MR. PRICE FURNISHED INTEREST IN TODAY'S HEARING

SENSATIONAL SUICIDE OF A YOUNG PARISIAN GAMBLER

Twenty Years Old, After Going the Pace, He Was Tired of Life and Shot Himself as a Practical Joke

PARIS, March 12.—Ferdinand Ravenez, a wealthy young Parisian, committed suicide at Monte Carlo last night under remarkable and sensational circumstances.

The young man gave a supper to a number of friends at which the pleasure was fast and furious. Several times during the evening Ravenez cried: "This is nothing; a big surprise is waiting you at the end." At dawn, when the party was separating, Ravenez shouted: "Now for the great surprise!"

At the same time he arose abruptly and walked toward the Gypsy orchestra which was playing a Hungarian rhapsody. His friends, expecting a practical joke, watched him expecting. They were stupified to see him suddenly point a pistol at his temple and fire. He fell dead. The only reason for this act is described as "sheer boredom." Ravenez was only 20 years old, and he had been a familiar figure in Paris Boulevards where his liking for vivid clothing attracted attention.

Three years ago the young man figured in a sensational duel. He challenged a professional swordsman as a swordsman refused to fight on the ground that Ravenez had not yet reached his majority. Undaunted Ravenez issued a challenge dated the date he was 18 years old, and he devoted the intervening time to rigorous training. When he finally did meet his adversary on the field the contest was of the fiercest character, and it ended by Ravenez plunging his sword eight inches into his opponent's body.

SEARCHING OUT WEAKNESS IN FLORENCE KINRADE'S STORY

Police Claim They Can Secure Evidence That She Practised With a Revolver—Her Piercing Scream Not Heard by Others.

HAMILTON, Ont., March 12.—The adjournment of the Kinrade murder case for one week will give the provincial officers a chance to investigate immediately some of the things mentioned in the family history told in evidence, particularly Florence's trip around the country, and no time will be lost doing it.

Kinrade has promised the jury that he will close the evidence at the next session before midnight. Florence Kinrade will probably have to go on the stand again, and so will her mother, C. Montrose Wright, the girl's fiancée. They say they have communicated there with people who declare positively that Florence practised with a revolver although she avers she never fired one in her life.

One of the most sensational bits of evidence last night was Florence's statement that she uttered a piercing yell while the man was in the house. A minute before the Crown had asked Mrs. William Acres, who lives next door this question: "Would you have heard anyone if they called for help?"

Certainly," was her reply.

The police did not open the sewer from the street to the house but this will be done at once as was intended. The plumber informed them a revolver could get that far. They say an object as heavy as a revolver would not be washed as far as the street, with the flow from an ordinary house, for several days.

Florence Kinrade after fainting last night was examined by two doctors for the Crown. They may testify. She recovered rapidly and with her mother was able to walk to a cab. Florence rested well last night.

The family is staying at a hotel here, but will likely return to Toronto early next week.

LAKE LUMBER CARRIERS TO FORM A BIG COMBINE

Fifty of the Largest Vessels Will be Sold to a Company Now Being Formed by the Present Owners—Will Mean Lower Expenses.

DETROIT, Mich., Mar. 12.—The Free Press today says that the owners and managers of fifty of the largest lumber carrying vessels on the Great Lakes have agreed to sell their boats to a corporation now in process of formation which will own and operate fifty to sixty per cent. of the lumber carriers of the lakes.

Many prominent members of the Lumber Carriers' Association have been in Detroit for two weeks and preliminary arrangements for the organization of the corporation were completed at a two days' conference which ended here yesterday. The value of the fifty vessels to be sold at once has been mutually agreed upon as approximately $350,000. The new corporation will probably be capitalized at $1,000,000, but the name of the new concern, its capitalization and the selection of directors will be matters to be brought up at a meeting to be held next week probably in Detroit.

It is said that the Hines and Bloodgett fleets, which figure prominently in the project move 200,000,000 feet of timber in an average season. The consolidation of interests is expected to effect a considerable saving in insurance charges and expenses of management.

The Free Press quotes one of the leaders of the movement as saying: "This is not a pool or a gentlemen's agreement. The shipowners participating will sell their boats to the corporation and receive in return corporation stock according to the value of his vessel."

GEORGE COCHRANE TO BE COLLECTOR AT MONCTON

MONCTON, Mar. 12.—George Cochrane of this city has been officially notified of his appointment to the position of collector of customs and L. V. Binney who has held the position for several years past has also been notified of his superannuation which will go into effect April 1st.

The Maritime Express is four hours late today, the delay being due to derailment of a baggage car four miles above Campbellton.

PERSIA AGAIN UPSET; RUSSIA SENDS TROOPS

ST. PETERSBURG, March 12.—The situation in Persia again is attracting attention in St. Petersburg. The Government is sending a division of Cosaks to Teheran and it has ordered the consuls at Resht and Astrabad to summon Caspian warships in the event of outbreaks threatening the interests of Russia. The Novos Yermys today publishes a Teheran despatch saying the situation is still, that an insurrection is imminent, and that only a strong military detachment can prevent the sacking of Teheran.

It is significant that the Viceroy of the Caucasus has just reviewed the Frequent Exchanges of Compliments Between the Counsel—Downie's Alleged Confession, Made to Chief Clark in the Cell, Admitted as Evidence—Little Now.

The Downie case was resumed this morning. The proceedings, at times, were interesting, especially when the attorney general and Mr. Price, one of the counsel for the accused, exchanged greetings. It was during Mr. Price's cross examination of Chief Clark that the interest was at its highest. Mr. Price was not very well pleased with Chief Clark's answers and, jumping back, he grew intensely dramatic when demanding, "Now, sir, on your oath answer me."

Attorney General Hazen here requested Mr. Price to use a more moderate tone. Mr. Price answered that he would have no interjections even from the attorney general. His Honor then interfered and restored quietness. However, there were frequent interruptions from both counsel during the proceedings.

What he brought out in this morning's proceedings that the Simms people were reluctant to press the charge and were practically forced to by the police department.

Walter C. Peters was the first witness called this morning and his evidence was practically a reiteration of his testimony at the preliminary examination.

Lewis W. Simms, President of T. S. Simms Co., was the next witness and the only new element of his evidence was, when cross examined, that the Simms Company was unwilling to lay the charge against Downie and was therefore there in a suspicion cast upon it at once.

That the evidence shows that he (Clark) interrogated accused the night before as well as the following morning.

That he (Clark) acquainted prisoner that, by thought he was guilty.

WOMEN, WEARING HATS, NOT ALLOWED IN CHURCH

Too Much Attention to Headgear and Not Enough to Religion Provokes New Rule

NEW YORK, March 12.—A Boston despatch to the Times says: The First Baptist church of Somerville has officially barred from public worship all women who refuse to remove their hats before entering the church auditorium. The church is one of the important ones of New England.

"The fancy millinery of the present time attracts so much attention," said one of the trustees, "that women spend more time examining hats than they do listening to the sermon."

The matter has been before the church trustees for some time, and they took formal action, when resolutions barring hats in the church were unanimously adopted. They will be enforced beginning Sunday morning.

DISPELLING THE FOG BY ELECTRICAL DISCHARGES

French Engineer Meets Success in His Experiments in the English Channel.

PARIS, Mar. 12.—M. Dibot, a French engineer, is at present conducting a series of experiments on the English Channel, which have given rise to the hope that New York harbor may ultimately be kept free from fog. Attracted by the English experiments for dispelling fog by means of electrical discharges, M. Dibot conceived the idea of a combination of hertzian waves. Beneath a powerful Hertzian plant which emits waves of 40,000 volts he has placed four huge blowpipes directed to the four points of the compass. Simultaneously with the discharge of the Hertzian waves the blowpipes, each giving a temperature of 2,000 degrees centigrade, were lighted. In from 24 to 30 minutes a thick fog was dispersed over a zone of 30 yards. Encouraged by this success the experiments will be continued.

MOROCCO THE SCENE OF ANOTHER INSURRECTION

Rebels Advancing on Fez—Sultan's Troops are in Bad Shape

FEZ, Morocco, March 12.—The forces of Roghi, the Sultan's formidable rebel subject, are close to Fez and advancing on that city. The tribesmen are in good condition, while the opposing government column is in a pitiable state, due to exposure to the cold and the frequent rainfalls. The surrounding tribes are maintaining a neutral attitude, awaiting the success of Roghi's venture before they openly join him.

A second government column which is operating against the Aityoual tribe has been successful in a sharp engagement with the enemy at Sefrou.

ARRANGING CONVENTION TO DISCUSS AGREEMENT

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 12.—Full membership of the executive boards of the three anthracite districts of the United Mine Workers of America, went into session today to receive and act about the report of the sub-committee which had been in conference with the operators for two days, trying to arrange a working agreement to go into effect on April 1.

These boards will fix a time and place for a convention of miners to take up any matters that National President Lewis of the Miners Union might propose. The proposition of the operators to continue the existing wage agreement will be laid before that convention, the delegates to which will be elected by the local unions next week.

Despite the "stand pat" attitude of both sides there is still a feeling that there will be no serious interruption in the mining of anthracite coal.

TRURO MAN'S ROMANCE; WEDS A NEW YORK GIRL

Lieut. R. N. Henderson Married to Daughter of Judge Wyatt Last October

(New York Herald.)
 HENDERSON-WYATT—On October 23, 1908, by the Rev. Dr. McCleod, at Truro, Nova Scotia, Canada, Correllia Wyatt, daughter of William E. Wyatt, of New York, to Lieutenant Robert H. Henderson, Canadian Permanent Army.

Romance of a Canadian garrison life is hidden in the above marriage notice, which is printed in today's Herald, and made public a wedding of last fall.

The bride is a daughter of Judge William E. Wyatt, of the Court of Special Sessions, who also sits at times in the Children's Court. Before his appointment to the bench he was a well known practicing attorney of this city.

Mrs. Henderson is a charming and intellectual young woman, who, in addition to her society duties, was much interested in sociology and on several occasions berthed the wails who came under the jurisdiction of the Children's Court.

Judge Wyatt, who was a widower, married again in 1906, and the bride was Mrs. Mary Henderson, whose first husband, Robert J. Henderson, had died several years before. At the wedding Miss Wyatt was an interested spectator and she took a prominent part in the festivities attending the reception. Mrs. Wyatt was of a Canadian family, and she and the Judge went on their wedding trip to the north, and every summer they have been visiting in Nova Scotia.

On summer vacations they were accompanied by Miss Wyatt, and in Halifax she met Lieutenant Henderson. Although his name is the same as that formerly borne by Mrs. Wyatt, he comes of an entirely different family of Hendersons. Lieutenant Henderson is a dashing young officer who distinguished himself in the Boer war and was also in the United States army in the Spanish-American war.

There is more or less objection in the service of England or her colonies to marriages of army officers who have not obtained captaincies, and this is said to account for the fact that the wedding was kept a secret. The ceremony was solemnized in St. Michael's Protestant Episcopal church in Truro, by the Rev. Dr. McCleod, and only the members of the immediate family were in the secret. Mrs. Henderson telegraphed to this city yesterday directions to publish a notice of her marriage.

Judge and Mrs. Wyatt left for Nova Scotia last week and have just returned from the north. Lieutenant Henderson is attached to the division of the Canadian army, stationed at Truro, which is near Halifax.

Mrs. Henderson had been dividing her time between Nova Scotia and New York.

"I hear there is to be a new design for the one-cent piece. What's the reason for that?"

"Well, the one-cent piece is the most artistic coin we have. Too many people use them in preference to the larger ones. The purpose I believe in substituting an uglier design for the one now in circulation is to popularize the nickel."

"Your zeal in this order has gained for you the approval of the Grand Lodge and your ability has already been recognized by your elevation to the high and honorable office of Grand Master. We can assure you that your many admirable qualities have been appreciated by us and their recognition by others has afforded us a large measure of gratification.

On this day, which marks the passing of another milestone in your life's journey, it is fitting that those to whom you have given so much should express their esteem and perhaps offer some tangible recognition of your worth.

It is, therefore, my pleasure, on behalf of the officers and members of Pioneer Lodge No. 8, I. O. O. F. to present to you this Veteran's Jewel. We ask you to accept it as an expression of the deep love and esteem which we have for you as both friend and Oddfellow. I beg to assure you that the memory of your presence among us during the years of your connection with the order, will ever be an incentive to true Oddfellows, and to ask that you receive the jewel as an imperfect expression of the feelings we entertain toward you.

The Sunday services in connection with the Church of Engstrand Missionary Campaign will be as follows:—
 Holy Communion will be celebrated in Trinity, St. John's, St. Luke's, St. Paul's, St. John's and the Mission at 9 a. m., at St. James' at 8 a. m., and at St. Mary's at 11 a. m. The Bishop, the rectors and the central committee hope that the laymen in each parish will attend their own service, and pray especially for God's blessing on the other services of the day.

PRESENTATION TO HON. C. N. SKINNER

Addresses and Veteran's Jewel Given in Recognition of 33 Years of Service in Pioneer Lodge, I. O. O. F.

An interesting ceremony took place at the meeting of the Pioneer Lodge I. O. O. F., last night when a veteran's jewel was presented to Hon. C. N. Skinner, who has been a member of Pioneer Lodge for thirty-nine years. He has filled all the most important offices in the gift of the order. He is a past grand master of the Maritime Provinces and has, besides, been noble grand of Pioneer Lodge several times.

H. V. McKinnon, the present noble grand made the presentation on behalf of the members of the lodge and read an address which dwelt on the enviable record which Hon. Mr. Skinner has made for himself as an Oddfellow.

Speeches appropriate to the occasion were made by Dr. James Christie, W. F. Hatheway, M. P. P., H. E. Codner, D. B. Dole, Jeremiah Thompson, C. Fowler, Thomas McMaster, Dr. A. D. Smith, Thomas F. White, D. A. Sinclair and others.

The whole matter has been so carefully and quietly managed that it was a genuine surprise to Hon. Mr. Skinner. He made a eloquent acknowledgment of the gift and accompanying address. During his speech he referred to the fact that during his long public life that was the first presentation which had ever been made to him.

A veteran's jewel is presented only to Oddfellows who have been members of the order for twenty-five years. During the evening Joseph Murdoch sang a solo very acceptably. The address presented to Mr. Skinner was as follows:

St. John, N. B., Mar. 12, 1909.

Charles N. Skinner, K. C., Past Grand Master, I. O. O. F., Dear Sir and Brother:—

On the twenty-second day of April, 1870, you first crossed the threshold of Pioneer Lodge and were duly initiated into the mysteries of Oddfellowship. For almost thirty-nine years, we your associates, have found pleasure and profit in your society. We have recognized in your life the faithful performance of the duties, and a close adherence to the high ideals of our order, and have, as well, during these years, respected you as a citizen of the proper type.

In Oddfellowship you have ever been prompt in responding to the demands made upon you, whether of a fraternal, charitable, or ceremonial nature; by your readiness and activity along social lines, by your depth of information, on a wide range of subjects which you have so freely shared you have very largely increased the attractiveness of our regular gatherings. In your intercourse with the outside world you have upheld our precepts and have consistently practiced those admirable tenets of our order in Friendship, Love and Truth, and have contributed materially to the maintenance of the high position of Oddfellowship.

Your zeal in this order has gained for you the approval of the Grand Lodge and your ability has already been recognized by your elevation to

SPECIAL SHOW AT STAR TONIGHT.
 This is the great rush night at the new Star Theatre in Union Hall, North End, because those who intend going to town from the northern section of the city, Carleton and Fairville, generally take in the fine programmes at this house first. Doors open at 6.30. Those who saw the bill of pictures last evening were delighted; one regular patron said it was the best show he had enjoyed there yet. The leading film is entitled, A Welcome Burglar, and the comedy element is supplied in The Actor's Baby Carriage and two other new films. The special picture extra for Saturday night is entitled For Mother's Sake, a strong drama of heart interest.

PARISIAN POSTMEN CREATED DISORDER

Lively Times Last Night—Police Reserves Called Out to Restore Peace—M. Lepine Injured

PARIS, March 12.—Serious disorders occurred last night in the Central Telegraph Bureau of the Post Office which caused great delay to foreign communications and inconvenience to the patrons of the bureau.

A meeting of several hundred postmen held to protest against certain modifications in the service got out of hand, and the men marched to the Telegraph Bureau, which they stormed. Unheeding the protests of the chiefs there, the postmen went to the room where the telegraph employees were working and those joined the postmen. During the disorder a number of telegraph instruments were damaged.

Reinforcements of police were hastily summoned and headed by M. Lepine, Prefect of Police, they rushed the barricades of furniture that had been built by the demonstrators and expelled them from the building after a sharp tussle, in which M. Lepine's arm was crushed by a heavy door. Forty of the disturbing element were arrested. All who took part in the disorder will be dismissed from the service.

Anty Drudge on Education.

Katherine—"My, how provoked I am, Anty. You wouldn't dream this frock had once been white. Look at it now. I sent it to the laundress and it looks almost the color of weak coffee with milk in it."

Anty Drudge—"It's partly your fault, my dear. You're a college graduate, but you aren't educated until you know what is best for your clothes. If you had known enough to see that your white frock was washed with Fels-Naptha soap in cool or lukewarm water it would have been snowwhite. The Fels-Naptha way is the only method of washing to keep white clothes white without harming them."

Here's the easiest way that's ever been discovered to wash clothes—either in summer or winter. For the white things: Wet the clothes, soap well with Fels-Naptha, roll and let soak for thirty minutes in cool or lukewarm water. Unroll, rub lightly, rinse and hang out to dry.

That's all; no boiling, no hard rubbing, no hot water. This simple Fels-Naptha way of washing makes your clothes sweeter, whiter, cleaner than you can get them any other way.

And the clothes last longer because they are not weakened by boiling, nor worn by hard rubbing. Worth trying? It is for the woman who values her clothes, her time and herself. For washing colored clothes and other things, see plain directions on the red and green wrapper.

WITH A WILD, PIERCING SCREAM MISS KINRADE FALLS TO THE FLOOR

Dramatic Incident Ends Yesterday's Session of Coroner's Court

"The Man! He'll Shoot Me!" Shrieks Florence Kinrade Undergoes a Gruelling Examination—New Points Brought Out

HAMILTON, March 12.—"The man," she wailed, "He'll shoot me." The most dramatic incident thus far in the Kinrade inquest occurred at 8:05 tonight, when Florence Kinrade sank back unconscious in the box. Blackstock had asked her the last question, and she had answered it. His closing question was delivered slowly and impressively. "And if the man was not there, only two girls would be in that house, Miss Kinrade."

Piercing Shriek Descending the steps of the coroner's data the girl's lips parted and a piercing shriek rang through the place. "I see that man," was the long drawn out cry. "The man?" she wailed. "He'll shoot me." To resume the inquest Friday evening, the 19th, at eight o'clock. Blackstock asked the jurors that no more than the eventing would be occupied. Then the doors which had been closed to prevent any one entering or leaving the room during the discussion were opened as soon as the constable's formal proclamation had been delivered.

Earl Kinrade, former bank clerk of Montreal, and brother of the murdered girl, was next called. He said the relations between various members of the family were emphatically pleasant. He said his two sisters Ethel and Florence had been inseparable companions and never quarrelled. They formerly occupied the same room but for the last two years had occupied separate rooms. Florence was a strong girl, sometimes afflicted with headaches, while Ethel was not strong, but in good health. Witness knew of no firearms being in the house, and he never carried a weapon except when he went to target practice on odd occasions.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 12.—In the senate today Senator Clavin introduced a bill to restrict the evils of divorce by providing that the guilty one of a divorced couple shall not remarry in Canada and, if he or she do so they shall become liable to the bigamy provisions of the criminal code. To give religious societies and churches an opportunity to consider the bill he had the second reading deferred until March 24th.

A NAVAL ENGAGEMENT IN SOUTH AMERICA Nicaragua and Salvador at Each Other's Throats—Situation Serious.

MEXICO CITY, Mex., March 12.—A private despatch received here today absolutely confirms the reported naval engagement between the ships of Nicaragua and Salvador.

Three Nicaraguan gunboats led by the Momotombo, Tuesday, attacked the Salvadoran gunboat Presidentia. The latter, by a lucky shot, put the Momotombo out of action almost at the beginning of the engagement. The three Nicaraguans then withdrew. Later the Momotombo was repaired and went in pursuit of the Presidentia. The first engagement took place Tuesday and a second is believed to have been fought yesterday or today. The Momotombo is manned by American officers and gunners.

Assistant Secretary of State Gambon told the Associated Press tonight that he had heard nothing from Managua for a week. He declares no agreement for intervention has yet been reached by Mexico and the United States, but he admits the gravity of the situation between Nicaragua and Salvador. It is unofficially reported here that a protectorate is being considered and startling developments are predicted within the next few days.

SMOKES; DOES NOT EAT Massachusetts Man is Trying to Cure His Cancer.

NEW YORK, March 12.—A despatch to The Tribune from Marlboro, Mass., says—Jefford J. Bastien, 41 from Marlboro, is trying to carry out a fast of forty days in the hope of curing himself. He has already fasted thirty-eight days and today he prayed for endurance to fast two days more. Eight months ago he weighed 155 pounds. Today he weighs 29 pounds.

Far thirty-eight days Bastien has taken only a quart and a half of water. Last week a clairvoyant told him that if he lived over Saturday he would regain his health. Each day he has smoked a cigar, but has taken no food. Six months ago specialists told him he could not live a week.

P. O. INVESTIGATION IN CHARLOTTE COUNTY. ST. STEPHEN, N.B., Mar. 12.—During the past few days Assistant Post Office Inspector Thompson, of St. John, has been conducting an investigation at Moggie's Mills post office, complaints having been made that there were irregularities in the management of the post office at that place. The evidence seems to establish that the irregularities were of a trivial character.

A New Brunswick Southern freight train ran off the track at Oak Boy today and three cars were derailed.

EXPO. GRANT WILL COME TO ST. JOHN

Now About Definitely Settled

REID TURNS

Will Vote for St. John—Turgeon Also Inclined to Do So

OTTAWA, March 12.—It is generally understood that when the New Brunswick members take their final vote on the Dominion exhibition question, the grant will go to St. John. Mr. LeBlanc of Kent County, who was absent from the previous conference on the subject, is favorable to St. John's claims. Mr. Reid of Restigouche has received intimations from his constituency that lead him to look with approval toward St. John's claims and advocates, and it is understood that Mr. Turgeon of Gloucester is inclined the same way. This would give St. John a majority of three in the Liberal membership. Chatham Warrick

(Special to The Sun.) CHATHAM, N. B., March 12.—That Chatham may lose the majority vote of the Liberal members of this province in the matter of the Dominion grant of $250,000 is the fear that now renders the exhibition executive and members uneasy. It is not known generally, but word reached Chatham recently to the effect that Mr. Reid, M. P. for Restigouche, had decided to vote for St. John and left this word with the Minister at Ottawa when he left for home recently. Officers of the local exhibition association have been keeping the wires hot trying to locate Mr. Reid, but have been unsuccessful in attempts to find out definitely how he stands. Mr. LeBlanc has announced his intention to support St. John and if Mr. Reid's change of attitude is not merely a rumor then Chatham will have Messrs. Loggie, Michaud, Carval and Burnham, and possibly Turgeon to support its claims to the grant.

ITALIAN'S RESIDENCE BLOWN TO PIECES

A Black Hand Outrage—Family Away at the Time.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., March 12.—A black hand outrage occurred at Falconer, a village three miles from this city early today. The residence of John Valone, a prosperous Italian being blown to atoms. Fortunately the family were away from home for the night and thus escaped instant death. The remnants of two dynamite cans were found in the wreckage of the building. Valone had received threatening letters but paid no attention to them. His house was worth $1,500 and the furniture $1,000. Everything was completely destroyed, the explosion apparently took place directly beneath the family bedroom and the iron beams which supported the roof were blown in places scattered at a neighboring lot. A large black hand had been roughly painted on the village hall which adjoins the Valone residence, but there is no clue to the perpetrator of the act.

HOUSE SPENDS A PROFITABLE DAY

Public Works Estimates Passed

Lewis Brings Up His "Daylight Saving Act"

OTTAWA, March 12.—Another profitable day was spent in supplying the estimates of the Minister of Public Works, the votes for Quebec harbors and rivers being under discussion.

Major Currie introduced a bill to amend the adulteration act by doing away with deposits required under the present law in connection with prosecutions and by simplifying procedure. Mr. Lewis introduced a bill entitled Daylight Saving Act. It was read a first time.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier announced that the waterways treaty would be laid on the table on Monday.

Mr. Borden asked when the government would announce what attitude they intended to adopt in regard to changes in the boundaries treaty.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the government had been prepared to adopt the treaty as it was originally, but changes affected waters of St. John's River and the government was endeavoring to obtain local information before making up their minds.

WHEN YOU CAN'T SLEEP

There is many a man and woman tossing their eyes about upon a sleepless bed. Their eyes do not close in the sweet and refreshing repose that comes to those whose heart and nerves are right. Some constitutional disturbance, worry or disease has so debilitated and irritated the nervous system, that it cannot be quieted.

Or again, you have, a sinking sensation, a feeling you are going to die; or perhaps you wake in your sleep feeling as though you were about to choke or smother, and rest leaves you for the night. If you allow these conditions to continue for a short period even, you will begin to feel your health declining. It is the nerves and heart not setting right, and they can only be set right by the use of Miller's Heart and Nerve Pills. They soon induce healthful, refreshing sleep, not by deadening the nerves, but by restoring them to healthy action.

Mrs. E. Nest, St. Mary's, Ont., writes: "I can gladly recommend your Miller's Heart and Nerve Pills as I was greatly troubled with my nerves. I was so bad I could not sleep at night without the lamp burning, but after taking four boxes of the pills I became all right again."

SPECIALISTS IN THE WOODS

Odd Ways in Which Maine Men Make a Living.

The Gum Picker, Hoop Pole Man, And Handy Man, Ship Knot Man and Hemlock Bark Man.

BANNOCK, Me., March 12.—Only people who have peked around up there more or less realize how many persons make a living out of the Maine woods. This reference is not to the lumbermen and pulp mill choppers. Their presence in the woods is a matter of course. This is a word about the army of specialists. One might say that these are the gleaners who follow the red shirted reapers whose harvest is the giants of the forest. The side issues of the Maine woods fees, many mouths; and speaking about mouths there are of course the gum pickers. They are just getting at their work in the woods now. Some people have an idea that spruce gum is gathered in the forest by the lumbermen at odd jobs. It may be remarked in passing that from 4:30 a. m. until dark the Maine loggers have something else to do. They haven't any hankering to climb trees. Practically all the spruce gum of commerce is gathered by men who make it their business and work at it as steadily as a factory. You will find the snowshoe trail of these busy chaps snaking through pathless stretches, and if you happen to be up that way you will see their campfires glowing deep in many a lonely glen. Few people behold them at their work. The constant supply of gum in store windows shows they are kept busy. There is more or less excitement about gum picking. The standard price for gum is $1.00 per bushel. A regular article of clear nuggets brings $1.50. Some days when lucky strikes are frequent the gum picker can clear from $5 to $10. The gum picker can sell even the scraps and chippings. The patent spruce gum makes bolts those down. Several medicine firms also make a spruce gum cough balsam. Maine gum pickers usually travel in pairs. Some go on their own hook, others are employed by wholesale drug stores. Many of them are widowers, sleeping here and there in the deserted logging camps that sprinkle the woods. They have their boughs of bark over the habitable corner of the camp make the place a comfortable home. If a city man happens to be ordered into the woods by his physician he would do well to take up gum picking for his money. There is just enough activity about it to keep a man's mind busy, and he does not get healthy. It takes him abroad through the crisp winter air and gives him an excuse for "hunting" and cleaning his gun. A gum picker's equipment comprises warm clothing, snowshoes, clippers—much as a carpenter uses a—curved chisel in the hands of which alone he can be set, a good jackknife and a gun. These are the necessities. Almost all gum pickers carry a supply of plug tobacco, for if you can imagine a gum picker sitting down at an evening of work, a few bushels of his day's pick of gum without clouds of smoke about his head, your imagination pictures a very cheerful scene. There is a special thing about gum picking—the daily expenses are small. The man carries his register, his cotter or patronize saloons. It is either a deserted camp or the lee side of a tree at night. As they are obliged to tote their household supplies on a moose sled, they are frugal in their diet. With plenty of work, a few bushels of beans, flour and molasses, a gum picker is fixed nicely for a long and cold winter. He figures that it costs him about 50 cents a week, and if he is handy with a gun he reduces expenses materially. Of course it is rather lonely some times in the deep woods, but there is a special thing about gum picking—the daily expenses are small. The man carries his register, his cotter or patronize saloons. POOR DOCUMENT blocked out. Then they are buried so that they may season without cracking.

As an additional precaution against parting of the fibres the broad end of each handle is dabbed with a sort of paint the principal ingredient of which is grease. Ash goes to pieces easily if the sun gets at it, and the ash handle man must be careful of his wares. The rough handles are sent away to the factory as soon as the snow comes.

Of all tough jobs the ship knot man has the worst in the woods. The knees bring good prices, but the man who gets them out earns every cent.

He goes prospecting with an axe, hunting for back or buck jumper or tamarack. When one is found he looks to see if it has the proper crook in its roots. If the right angle is there and the roots prove sound he sets to work digging it out—and it is a muscle racking job.

The man who is after hemlock bark for the tanneries is another chap who strays far in the woods, for the bark is away back nowadays.

The Indian who hunts for basket stuff or birch bark for a canoe hull is the most patient searcher. The big stiches are found far between in the Maine woods and sometimes an Indian from the Penobscot or Passamaquoddy tribes will tramp a hundred miles before he finds a tree that will yield a piece of bark without knobble or crack and which will be large enough for a canoe.

A number of men are now making good money in the Maine woods by searching the brooks for fresh water canes. They are getting some good pearls from these brooks. Some hunters found a pearl valued at $500.

The most unscrupulous folk in the Maine forests are the trappers. They don't want anyone within twenty miles of them. Gainers will steal from the traps, they believe, and lumbermen scare away game. Even bobcats stop, as bloody smeared near a rifled trap indicate.

Some of the old trappers have a 30 mile circuit of traps and reset it if any catches come. One of the biggest, rough and tumble that the Maine trappers have ever witnessed is the case of a trapper who was chopping in the fall and then by means of a "frow" the axe handle is roughly

SAN FRANCISCO'S "LEAGUE OF JUSTICE"

In the fight for better government in San Francisco a contest as sensational as ever witnessed, the prosecution of the forces of political corruption has the support of the Citizens' League of Justice.

This organization had its beginning in 1908, following the disagreement of the jury sitting in judgment upon the boss "Abe" Hart. The situation was desperate and the need of the citizens was action. The sole purpose of the Citizens' League of Justice was to stand for the idea represented in the work of the graft prosecution. It appreciated that there was a distinct and deliberate campaign to impede the course of justice as represented in the work of the graft prosecution.

Thereupon the league set to work to divide the city, not to divide it realizing that there were very many honest citizens either indifferent or, for various reasons, actually allied with the enemies of the city. Meetings were held, articles written upon facts gathered by the league, and other methods adopted to arouse the citizens to an appreciation of the true situation.

Branches of the league were formed—the clergymen's branch, the physicians' branch, the lawyers' branch, the women's branch. All became active in the work. One of the most potent agencies in the campaign has been the newspaper organ of the league, The Liberator, issued weekly.

Each member of the Citizens' League of Justice was required to sign this pledge: "Reading the serious condition of public affairs in this city and fearing crossed trails and have believed that they were being crowded on a hundred square miles of territory.

the degradation of the city in the eyes of the world, should we from a low and torpid state of public conscience acquiesce in any permanent miscarriage of justice, I hereby deliberately express my condemnation of every act calculated to impede the course of the law in the trial of the graft cases now before us—that of establishing justice in our midst.

"I pledge my active and determined support to the courts and officers of the law now engaged in the trial of persons accused of corrupting the public honor and violating the law of the state.

"To carry out effectively this purpose of establishing justice and supporting an equal administration of the law, I hereby unite myself with the Citizens' League of Justice, and pledge to it my support."

Further it was stipulated that each member shall give it a month or more to continue the campaign.

INFLUENCE OF FOOD. "What do you think of the theory that food has a potent influence in determining character?" asked Miss Smithfield as he put three lumps of sugar in his coffee.

"I guess it's all right," replied Mr. Wood as he severed a portion of his beefsteak. "It always seems a little cannibalistic to me when you order lobster."

"Well, retorted Mr. Smithfield good humoredly, "I ought to have known it was dangerous to lend you money after I discovered your fondness for beefs. But, seriously, if there were anything in the theory, wouldn't it make a man shrewd to eat meat?"

"It would, and your fighters ought to restrict themselves to a diet of scrapes."

G.T.P. TO GET A GOVT. LOAN

Fielding Introduces Resolution

LOAN FOR 10 YEARS

Amount Not to Exceed $10,000,000—4 Per Cent. Interest Half Yearly

OTTAWA, March 12.—Hon. W. S. Fielding has given notice of the expected government resolution providing for temporary financial assistance to the Grand Trunk Pacific to aid in the completion of the prairie section of the road. The resolution provides for an advance by way of a loan to the company a sum not exceeding ten million dollars with four per cent. interest, payable half yearly, and repayable in ten years. Whether advanced in one or several instalments the loan is to be secured by Grand Trunk Pacific bonds bearing the same rate of interest, the principal amount of the bonds received in pledge to equal the sum advanced, such bonds to be secured subject to any prior lien or charge by mortgage or deed of trust by way of mortgages on the prairie section, including equipment and property, tolls, rights and franchises, and to be guaranteed as to payment of principal and interest by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company. It is provided that in event of default of interest payment or principal in addition to any right of recovery against the company or on the bonds the government shall be deemed to be the holder of such bonds and entitled to all the rights and remedies available to bond holders acting according to the terms of the mortgage, when default in payment of interest or principal is made. It is also provided that the government in council may raise by way of loan, in accordance with the statute relating to the public debt and the raising of loans authorized by parliament, a sum not exceeding ten million dollars to make the contemplated advance to the company.

JAMES J. HILL SECURES CONTROL OF CROW'S NEST PASS RAILWAY COMPANY

Hal McGivern, Ottawa, and R. N. Young, of Toronto, as secretary. This board represents the interests of the American Northern Securities Company, and the Granby smelter. In other words, of James J. Hill and the Northern Railway. The Crow's Nest Pass Railway last year mined 300,000 tons of coal and produced 250,000 tons of coke. The capital outstanding is $8,200,000.

Locally the announcement of the change has caused a considerable sensation and there is much speculation as to what will be the outcome. Out of the side of the Crow's Nest Pass Railway in Nova Scotia to this province the coal market of Ontario and British Columbia, with the exception of the former province of coal for household use, is practically controlled by the Crow's Nest Pass Company. One opinion given tonight was that the Hill interests would greatly enlarge the plants at the various mines, increase the output, and on the ground that it is now an American company secure free admission of coal into the American market over the Hill railway system.

At today's meeting Senator Jeffrey, G. G. Lindsay, managing director, Sir Henry Pellatt and E. R. Wood, the last two being directors, and all of them residents of Toronto, declined to further serve on the board, though urged to do so. The new board of directors, it was intimated, would consist of the following: Elias Rogers, Toronto; Colonel Clough of New York; J. P. Graves, of Spokane, W. F. Robertson, of Granby, Quebec; E. C. Whitney and

BILL MINER'S CODE OF ETHICS IS CERTAINLY INTERESTING

Mr. Owen also stated that he warned Deputy Warden Bourque to keep an eye on Miner, as the latter had said to the three men that if he had been in the penitentiary subsequent to the escape, should he be out of the frequent thing at the penitentiary to let the convicts hair grow to a moderate length. Miner's monstrosity of hair, valued at $20,000, said to have been taken by him in the Mission hold-up of a C. P. R. train, and Miner had further said that if he had been in an American prison with no powerful corporation as the C. P. R. behind him he would get out within 24 hours after the change of the bonds. This was all duly reported to Acting Warden Bourque. Inspector Dawson reported that he had seen Miner out of the penitentiary through the assistance of confederates on the outside.

CHARGE OF BRUTALTY IS NOT PROVEN

Investigation Fails to Show Truth of Startling Stories

HOPEWELL HILL, N.B., Mar. 13.—The charge of cruelty of a grave character which has been in circulation for some time against a resident at Forest Hill, Elgin, has been exploded. The investigations into the matter were made this week by A. W. Bray, clerk of the peace. Mr. Bray states that the reports were absolutely without foundation in so far as the specific charge is concerned which mentioned an act of cruelty of a most brutal character on the person of a ten year old lad, the man charged with the offense being the boy's step-father. Mr. Bray had a medical practitioner examine into the alleged victim. A physician's certificate shows the report to have been a complete fabrication so far as the charge against the boy's step-father is concerned.

WHEN ONE IS COMPANY.

Learn to be good company for yourself. Don't you know that some people believe that the future state of rewards and punishments consists of a cell-like arrangement somewhat like a honeycomb, into which the individual is hermetically sealed? writes Clarence Reese in the Detroit News-Tribune. Well, they do; and the idea is this, that the truly good soul is a heaven in a state of absolute bliss, when alone with its own reflections. But you are in a nice fix, for you are here alone with yourself, have a single minute if you can possibly help it. You have no resources for happiness in yourself, you weary of your own company, you have no thoughts, ambitions or meditations worth mentioning; you are only a wobbly unit of protoplasm no growth, no backbone, no consciousness to speak of. You depend on other people for every stage of your progress. If progress it may be termed in this connection. What will you do when you find yourself in the "heaven" above mentioned? You cannot complain that the state is one of punishment, hades or all that is miserable, because, presto, your next cell neighbor is in a state of ecstatic bliss, alone in his beautiful meditation, undisturbed, a noble essence expanding in itself, unencumbered, unhindered by all earthly substance or grossness. But you, you would be a raving maniac in a celestial week of time. You would crush and would harm yourself in your demented effort at escape. The condition would be the very opposite to life eternal and eternal happiness. You would give all you possess to be able to return to earth and mingle with the mob with its din and clatter. Why is this? Simply because you are not good company for yourself. You have no resources of your own. You look to others for your pleasures, for your levitations for your thoughts and purposes; you have not a single original notion; you cannot cultivate a single inspiration; you cannot follow out lines of thinking, or go anywhere or do anything, or be anything, without associates in action. You are always with a crowd and depending on a crowd for your good things. To remain indoors a single evening with yourself as company is torture; to stroll in the woods, to view a new picture, to select new goods, to buy a book, without someone with you to advise, suggest or judge the elbow, is not to be thought of without discomfort, agony, unhap-

LEARNING TO BE KING HARD TASK

The other day Prince Edward of Wales returned to Osborne to spend his last term at the famous Naval College. This summer, the second half of the time will complete his fifteenth year, and his education will be conducted on up-to-date lines. The time is certainly coming when kings will have to depend upon their personalities for their power, and not on their armies. King Edward is, of course, related to all the princely babies of Europe, for his near relatives are either ruling or will one day rule the continents. No doubt he is consulted often by parents who wish to obtain the guidance of the most influential man of his time, Prince Olaf of Norway is his grandson, and the baby who will be King of Norway in the years to come is the son of his niece, Norway and Sweden, once united, and now divided, will eventually be governed by very near relatives of King Edward VII. Prince Olaf appears to be having a jolly time of it, but he will have to study earnestly soon, although the comparative smallness of his kingdom will make his educational course less arduous. The elder son of Princess Margaret of Connaught is at present the second direct heir to the throne, and as his grandfather, the reigning monarch, is in the prime of life, it must be many years before he is called upon to wear the crown. All the same the Prince will be carefully prepared. UNEASY LIES THE HEAD. The youngest monarch in the world rules the greatest number of persons.

He is the Emperor of China, a young gentleman of six, who, according to the latest reports, spends his time crying for his mother. But his person is now too sacred to be touched by his own mother, and the child is allowed to cry himself to sleep. There could scarcely be a less enviable position today, and no healthy boy would care to exchange positions with his Majesty of China. The boy who is heir to the throne of Turkey will have an easier time of it now than the present sultan has placed his Parliament on a firm basis. When the present Shah celebrated the first anniversary of his reign, and mourned the anniversary of the murder of his father and his brother, 80,000 persons marched in procession to the graves of their murdered and placed hands on them in honor of the criminals. How true that "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown!"

EVERY WEAK MAN Can be Made Strong Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt If I Don't Cure You, Will Ask for no Pay My Belt Has Made a Man of Him Cured of Physical Weakness Nervousness—Sleeplessness—Run Down

It is pitiable to think of the vast number of people who go from day to day suffering mental and physical torture as a result of their weakness, while rights at their doors other men are being cured of the same disease. One who has not known himself cannot realize the feelings of a man in the advanced stage of the nervous debility, nor does he hear it, for these men do not talk of their troubles, and will have thousands upon thousands of grateful patients who are willing to testify to their cures. Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt is an absolutely positive cure for all forms of nervous debility, loss of memory, varicose, weak stomach, and all those physical and vital weaknesses, confusion of ideas, kidney and allied complaints, rheumatism, sciatica, etc. It has cured thousands every year after every other known remedy has failed. The fact is medicines cannot cure these complaints, as you will know when you have tried them. Electricity—which is nerve force—is the power that has been drained from the system, and, to cure, it must be replaced. This Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt will do. It is the crowning triumph in electrical science, and its cost is within the reach of every sufferer. If you haven't confidence in electricity let me treat you at my risk. The estimates for the year were first taken up. They were passed with but one very slight alteration. Ald. Baxter moving that money to be appropriated for sidewalks be not confined to the asphalt type. The estimated expenditure is the same as last year. The detailed list follows.

DISCUSSED SIDEWALKS.
The item providing the most discussion was that relating to asphalt sidewalks.

The chairman suggested that an additional gang be employed this year. He stated that owing to there being too few men employed the money voted last year had not been expended for the specific purpose for which it was intended.

Ald. Baxter believed that if the asphalt were installed with due regard to draining, the city would not be called upon to pay the bill for it. He stated that of every one thousand yards laid in Carleton at least eight hundred yards has already necessitated renewal. He moved that the engineer be instructed to go into the matter and to report at a subsequent meeting.

At the suggestion of Ald. Pickett the director was instructed to ascertain for the board the number of additional street signs needed.

On motion of Ald. Baxter the name of Minette street, Carleton, was recommended changed to Queen.

Ald. Frink brought up the amalgamation of the departments. He wanted to know where the ship of state was running and incidentally whether or not the Water and Sewerage Board was now in existence.

The chairman explained that it was still in charge of the Board of Works and would continue to preside over its immediate duties.

A letter was read from W. J. Mahoney, acting in behalf of Mrs. Burns, claiming damages for the overtopping of a property on Winslow street, West End. The matter was referred to the recorder and engineer.

WANT A SIDING.
A letter was read from Robert Reford and Co., asking that the city enter into a contract with the I. C. R. for the construction of a siding on McLeod's wharf. The communication was ordered laid on the table.

Ald. McGoldrick, Rowan and Elkin were appointed a committee to interview the New Brunswick Cold Storage Company in the matter of wharfrage charges on produce brought to the city by coastal schooners.

The Cold Storage Company claimed that the importer from Nova Scotia was being discriminated against.

The director submitted plans for the proposed extension of Wellington wharf, West Side.

On motion of Ald. Elkin the director was directed to call for tenders for the construction of the work.

The director, in answer to Ald. Barham, stated that the new wharf would afford an ideal berth for the ferry-boat.

The matter of the Eastern Steamship Company request for additional warehouse room was next taken up. The company asked that the city construct an extension to the present warehouse and to lease the same at a rental of ten per cent of the cost.

Ald. Rowan stated that he had been advised by the Chamberlain to go slow in the matter. The account against the property was already large and should not be increased.

Ald. Baxter suggested that the company build the warehouse and relieve itself of the rent.

Ald. Hamm asked what did seven hundred dollars amount to anyway.

Ald. McGoldrick, Holder, Hamm and Vanwart were appointed a committee to interview the company in the matter.

A MORNING BOAT.
At the suggestion of Ald. Baxter the committee was also directed to take up the matter of the increased wharf accommodation. The Eastern Company propose putting on a morning boat this year to connect with the Prince Rupert. The Sanlak's wharf will become vacant shortly and, the company is anxious to secure it.

The director submitted a blue print of the harbor master's soundings at No. 6 berth. The harbor master stated that under the requirement of the Mays contract a depth of thirty feet had been reached.

Ald. Baxter moved that the mayor write the Minister of Public Works asking for the results of the soundings taken by the department. The soundings of the city gave a depth of less than twenty-nine feet. The Alians naturally did not care to admit their steamers upon this basis.

Ald. Elkin thought it none of the city's business. The matter was only a matter of data, and the city was not into commission.

The motion upon being put, carried.

The chairman announced that the residents of any street desiring street improvement might put themselves in the way of obtaining such by communicating with the board and by expressing their willingness to assume a portion of the expense.

Ald. Elkin brought up the matter of McLeod's wharf. He stated that it was in a disgraceful condition owing to the handling of coal.

The recorder and engineer were instructed to look into and report upon complaint in question.

On motion the board adjourned.

THE NAME WAS FREED.
In a college talk the speaker, apropos of "tramp," said a story about a swindling tramp.

"This tramp," said he, "had the alert, unscrupulous, bold mind that makes 'grafting' successful.

"He was walking in Chicago one day when he saw a little boy stoop and pick up something.

"You have made a find, my lad," he said.

"Yes, sir," said the innocent boy. "I have found a silver ring."

"I thought so," said the tramp. "It's the one I just dropped. Now, ain't it lucky I had my name cut in it?"

"What's your name?" said the boy suspiciously.

"Sturtevant, lad."

"Take it, then. It's yours," said the boy, handing over the ring, with a disappointed air.

CROWD CHEERS BOTH SKATERS
A Pleasing Ceremony at Old Vic.
TROPHIES PRESENTED
Logan and Ingraham Both Make Speeches in Reply

Last evening His Worship Mayor Bullock presented to Fred Logan the trophy captured in the city championship series. The Mayor also presented to Elmer Ingraham the medal for winning the senior boys' championship of Canada.

Cheers were given with a hearty will for his worship and Messrs. Logan and Ingraham.

Both skaters in response made suitable remarks.

Mayor Bullock delivered a splendid address and was loudly applauded for several minutes.

It was about 8:45 o'clock when it was announced that the presentation would take place. Mr. Logan soon appeared on the ice accompanied by Gordon McKinnon. He was given a grand reception.

As Mayor Bullock ascended the chair the cheering began in earnest. His worship spoke as follows:

"The fact that St. John is the home of so many fast skaters gives us a very special interest in this class of sport. This old building has been the scene of many a gay carnival and the training ground for many fine skaters. I doubt if there has been under its roof a finer lot of amateurs than are found on the ice tonight. I am glad to know the interest is not waning; this is evidenced by the crowds present and the large number of competitors for prizes.

"It affords me great pleasure to be present and join in this public recognition of truly a Canadian winter sport. It is always a pleasure for me to see young people enjoying themselves in a purely healthful, vigorous way. I think it is well for us to try and give every boy and girl the opportunity to which they are entitled to bring out the best and not the worst that is in them. We need a well developed manhood, strong and vigorous in every particular to form the backbone of this great Canada of ours. I say Canada, because I want you all to feel that you form a part of the great Dominion, and we are not simply working and living for our city and community. Though we need the very best that can be given for our own city, there is no room in Canada any longer for a narrow provincial or sectional spirit. We must broaden out.

"This will be for our benefit every way, for it will make us better citizens.

"Let us make ourselves truly Canadians in every sense of the word.

"The club are to be complimented on the fact that they have made it possible to bring together such an assembly of fast skaters. Great credit is due the executives.

"I want to congratulate each of the boys who have won out.

"I will now proceed to present the prizes. We Fred Logan I will give this handsome trophy, which he is entitled to for having honorably captured the city championship.

Amid the vociferous cheering of the 1,000 spectators, Mr. Logan was handed the trophy. He was called upon for a speech. In response the city champion stated:

"I most heartily thank your worship and the Marathon club for the kindness shown me. I may say that I will always be proud to represent St. John in the champion races and will endeavor to do my best.

"There is not much that I can add, but I desire to again return my thanks."

To the music of the band the crowd sang For He's a Jolly Good Fellow. The cheering lasted several minutes.

Afterwards his worship again ascended the chair. He called upon Elmer Ingraham and presented to him a splendid medal as the senior boys' champion of Canada. Once more the Big Building resounded with loud cheering and the band struck up For He's a Jolly Good Fellow. Mr. Ingraham replied suitably.

BIG INCREASE IN ESTIMATES
LONDON, Mar. 12.—The British naval estimates which were laid tonight and show an increase of close to $15,000,000 over the estimates of last year, probably will fall to please the big men of the navy, but they fully prove that it is the government's determination to keep pace with the other naval powers and that no halt is likely to be called in the international competition for superior naval armaments.

In addition to four new Dreadnoughts, which are to be built as speedily as possible, the government seeks the power to start building, if necessary in 1910 four additional large armored vessels. The type of these latter ships is not indicated in the estimate, though it is generally estimated that they are to be two battleships of the Dreadnought type and two armored cruisers. There is little doubt, however, that this part of the naval programme will be dependent upon the progress made in Germany's battleship construction.

The statement of Admiral Jellicoe, first lord of the admiralty, factually makes no reference to foreign powers and further light on the government's intention must be awaited until the estimates are discussed in parliament.

An interesting point in the estimates is that the admiralty had under consideration the use of dirigible airships for naval purposes and has decided to carry out experiments and construct an aerial vessel.

Under Mr. McKenna's programme Great Britain should have by the end of 1911 fourteen vessels of the Dreadnought type against thirteen to them be completed by Germany.

Mr. McKenna's statement says that two of the new Dreadnoughts will be commenced in July and the other two in November, 1909. It also announces the coming absorption of the Channel fleet into the home fleet, which already has been announced in these dispatches, which will place 22 fully manned battleships and 14 fully manned armored cruisers in home waters together.

True Detective Stories

THE MAN WITH A LION'S HEART.

BY A. L. DRUMMOND,

Formerly Chief U. S. Secret Service

A 1812, square jawed, keen eyed man entered the office of Elmer Washburne, chief of the United States Secret Service, in Washington late in the year 1874 and introduced himself as George Albert Mason. He declined to take his business to anybody but the chief, and said he would speak to Mr. Washburne only behind closed doors. He was shown into an inner office.

"Chief," said he, "what would you give to get hold of Peter McCartney?"

Mr. Washburne smiled. Peter McCartney was perhaps the most wanted man of his kind in America. A few years later a Missouri sheriff might as well have been asked what he would give to get hold of Jesse James. McCartney, sought as he was on every hand, was not only hard to catch, but when trapped he had a habit of refusing to stay caught. So expert a jail breaker was he that, out of sheer humor, he once stood behind the bars in a St. Louis prison and told a chief of the Secret Service that he would call upon him at his hotel at ten o'clock that night. More than that, he kept the engagement, to the great astonishment of the chief.

"I would pay a good big reward to get Peter McCartney," replied Mr. Washburne. "But I would want to see my man first and be sure there was no mistake. Why? Can you get him?"

"Yes, I can. Appoint me a special officer and give me a man to help me and I will bring McCartney in."

The appointment was made and an operative named Duckworth was sent out with Mason to make the arrest, which was to take place in St. Louis. Now, a word or two about McCartney. If ever there was a jack-of-all-trades in crime he was one—and he was master of all. He was a wonderfully expert counterfeiter. He had just put out an imitation of a $5 note issued by the Treasurer National Bank of Chicago that baffled everybody but experts. Nor did he, like so many counterfeiters, know only part of his trade. He was a fine chemist, a good engraver of plates and a good printer.

When business became bad in the counterfeiting line Pete could turn a hand to burglary and do a job of safe blowing or house breaking in a manner that stamped him as an amateur. Once he set up shop as a dentist, but at this he failed. The only peaceful pursuit at which he was ever known to prosper was as a public lecturer. There may be still living in the West some persons who will recall a shaggy bearded speaker who gave minute directions with regard to how to detect counterfeit money. Pete was the man, though on such occasions he never went under the name of McCartney. At the conclusion of each lecture it was his custom to go about town and pass counterfeit right and left. Why he did these things, unless from a spirit of dare-devilry and humor, I have never been able to figure out. All I know is that he did them. It is true that in this way he distributed a good deal of counterfeit money, but that is no explanation. There are safer and better ways of putting bad bills into circulation.

It was to trap this man that Mason and Duckworth set out from Washington on the long journey to St. Louis. Mason knew McCartney and believed he had his confidence. The plan was for Mason to discover the place in which McCartney did his work, lead Duckworth to it and make the arrest.

Several days after the pair reached St. Louis Mason reported to Duckworth that he had obtained the desired information and everything was ready to make the capture. Shortly after nightfall they set out on the way Mason suggested that they stop in a saloon that McCartney was known to frequent. Having entered the place, Mason made an excuse to go into a back room. After waiting for him a little while Duckworth went to look him up. Mason was nowhere to be found. The door through which he passed led to a back yard that opened into an alley. Duckworth went back to the local headquarters of the Secret Service and reported what he regarded as Mason's breach of faith. While he was talking a report came from Police Headquarters that three men, one of whom claimed to be a Secret Service official, were in a hospital, badly slashed. Duckworth hastened to the hospital and found Mason on an operating table. Surgeons were trying to sew up an gash across his abdomen that extended almost from one side to the other.

The other two patients were Peter McCartney and a well known counterfeiter named Joe Rogers. They had been clubbed and cut until they were weak from their wounds, but the condition of neither was as serious as that of Mason.

When the trio had revived enough to talk they told their stories. McCartney declared that Mason tried to extort money from him by threatening to arrest him. He said he had a large amount of currency in his possession—which was true—and that Mason, claiming to be a Secret Service official, said he would arrest him if he did not give it up. McCartney said he did not purpose to be blackmailed and therefore drew his knife and used it. Rogers corroborated McCartney's story.

Mason told a simple story of cornered criminals who tried to murder him when he descended upon them, and he turned over $5,000 in counterfeit money that he found in their room.

There was nothing to be gained by taking the word of McCartney and Rogers, as against that of Mason, so his story was accepted as true. And, as the hospital physicians reported that McCartney and Rogers would be flat on their backs for some time, Duckworth was ordered back to Washington. He had not been more than ten days, however, before news was received from St. Louis that McCartney and Rogers had escaped from the hospital. Mason recovered and was given $1,000 for bringing about McCartney's arrest. He gave a plausible explanation of his disappearance from the saloon the night he left Duckworth, and, of course, the fact that McCartney escaped from the hospital was not to be charged upon him.

That seemed to end the case, but it didn't. The next spring a former chief of the Secret Service reported that he could obtain a set of rolls used to make counterfeit plates provided he were given a considerable sum of money to buy them from an informer who knew where to put his hands upon them. For reasons that it is not necessary to enlarge upon here I was ordered to shadow him. I did so, and quite by accident saw a transaction that convinced Chief Washburne that the former chief was not acting honestly.

The suspected man was brought before the chief. Satisfactorily accused of trying to sell rolls that he himself had captured when he was a government official years before, and told that it was idle to try to deny the charge.

"The question now is," said the chief, "what are you willing to do to buy your liberty? What criminal do you know that you can squeal on?"

"Well," he said, "I know George Albert Mason. He has been handling some of those counterfeit Chicago fives. He was in New York last week. If you have a man who knows Mason and whom Mason doesn't know I can show him how to make the arrest."

Mr. Washburne had heard other things about Mason since the occurrence of the stabbing affray in St. Louis and was eager to capture him. So I was ordered to accompany the former chief to New York, and David H. Crowley and William W. Kenoch were instructed to accompany me. We found the former chief living at the Park Hotel, on lower Broadway—now the Broadway Central. He had a room on the third floor and we took one on the second. Mason upon his arrival in the city was to call at the former chief's room, and we were to capture him.

When the day came to make the catch Chief Washburne came up from Washington and with the rest of us went to the room in the Park Hotel. As I was not known to Mason, I wandered around the corridors, occasionally going down to the office, waiting for him to appear. A little after noon he came to the front door, walked up the stairs and went to the former chief's room. I went to our room and told the chief and the two others of his arrival. Mason remained in the room perhaps ten minutes. When he went down stairs I followed him, with the other three a few steps behind.

After reaching the ground floor Mason started to go down stairs to the barber shop. He had descended perhaps three steps when I reached over the banister, grabbed him by the right arm and threw my weight on him. With his left hand he tried to reach a revolver that was in his right hand coat pocket, but before he could do so Chief Washburne had his own revolver in Mason's hand and the other two detectives were swinging on his left arm.

"Surrender or I'll blow your head off!" shouted the chief, as he pressed the muzzle of his gun a little closer to Mason's face.

"You'll blow anything off! Get out of here!" shouted Mason.

The chief did not shoot nor did he get out, and the fight went on. Mason was a powerful man and it was all the four of us could do to overpower him and put the handcuffs on him. All the while we were fighting he was hurling at us a volume of profanity the like of which I have never heard from a man day to this. Nothing that he could lay his tongue to seemed bad enough to call us.

As soon as we had the handcuffs on him we began to search him. One of the first things we found was an envelope. On one side was an address, but before we could read it Mason, manacled as he was, grabbed the piece of paper and bit out that part which bore a name. We had to choke him until he was black in the face before he would give it up.

The half-chewed paper bore the name and New York address of Kitty Wells. Kitty is dead now and the present generation does not know her even by reputation, so it may be of interest to give some facts pertaining to her.

Kitty Wells was originally a London barmaid. Charles Bullard, a noted bank burglar, took a fancy to her and married her. She obtained a divorce and was next heard of when she started the world by marrying Juan Terry, the Cuban sugar king. Terry saw her in London, fell a quick victim to her wiles and led her to the altar. About a year later he died, leaving in his will $5,000,000 to their child, born after his death, and $1,000,000 to her. She died in 1894.

It was after Kitty's divorce from Bullard and prior to her marriage to Terry that we found an envelope bearing her name and New York address in George Albert Mason's pocket. We went to her house and asked what it meant.

"You insult me," she replied, "by asking such a question."

"We are not here to insult you," I said, "but to find out what you know about George Albert Mason."

"I know he is a fine gentleman," said she, "if that will help you any."

"Do you know that he is wanted in Rochester on a charge of counterfeiting?" I asked—which was true.

"I know nothing of the kind," she replied. "So far as I know he is a gentleman. How he makes a living is a question concerning which I have never inquired."

It was evident that if Kitty knew anything to the discredit of Mason she was not ready to tell it, so we took her to the Blocher street office of the Secret Service, not as a prisoner, but as a witness, and then went back to search her rooms. In her bedroom was an old fashioned wooden bed with posts perhaps four inches square at the bottom and no castors. Under one of the bedposts was found $2,000 in big counterfeit bills.

Kitty was told of the discovery and asked for an explanation. She said she knew the money was there, but denied all knowledge of its spurious nature. She said Mason had given it to her to keep for him and she supposed it was genuine money. She adhered rigidly to this story, and after a week she was released.

About this time I received orders from Washington to go to Toronto and look up Mason's record in Canada. I found an amazing array of facts. First of all I learned that Mason was one of the men who forced an entrance into Secretary Seward's house the night President Lincoln was assassinated and tried to murder the Secretary of State. I don't know whether Chief Washburne knew this before I went to Canada, but I didn't, and he never told me. A man named Payne was the one who actually did the stabbing in the Seward house, but Mason was with him and for his part in the affair was sentenced to death. President Johnson commuted his sentence to twenty years' imprisonment, and after serving a few years in the penitentiary at Columbus, Ohio, President Grant pardoned him.

I learned that prior to the assassination of President Lincoln Mason was one of the conspirators who, from their hiding place in Canada, plotted not only the assassination of the chief officers of the federal government but the burning of New York and other Northern cities.

Throughout all of these criminal proceedings Mason appeared purely as a mercenary. Born in England and reared in Canada, he had never interest in the South nor a share in the animosity of any of its mistaken citizens. He was simply willing to kill Seward or burn New York for a financial consideration.

I also learned in Toronto that Mason had been arrested in the Dominion of Canada fifty-two times and convicted forty-eight times. His offences included almost all of the misdemeanors and minor crimes, as well as some of a serious nature. He had fought, stolen, assaulted with intent to kill, robbed in the highway, rifled houses by forcing an entrance at night and forged a few pieces of paper. Since his release from the Ohio Penitentiary he had spent most of the time in jail.

Mason was brought to trial before Commissioner Shields in New York city on a charge of having passed counterfeit money on Albert Emsor, of Rochester. He was quickly convicted, and when he was asked if he had anything to say why the sentence of the court should not be passed upon him replied by calling the Commissioner all the vile names that came to his mind. He was sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary at Albany.

His life in prison surpassed anything of the kind of which I have ever read. Almost the first thing he did was to knock down all the guards within reach. A huge man, with broad, powerful shoulders, even the other prisoners suffered at his hands, and he was chained hand and foot to the stone floor of a dark cell like an angry animal. He had suffered this punishment for a week when the Warden, a kindly old man, ordered that he be unchained and brought upstairs to his office.

The shackles were taken from Mason's arms and legs. So stiff were his joints that he could hardly walk, but with difficulty he hobbled to the room in which sat the Warden.

"Mason, you have had a pretty hard time," began the kindly official. "Aren't you ready to behave like a man and receive the treatment that men get?"

Mason spit in the Warden's face without saying a word. He was taken back to the dark cell and chained to the floor.

A month passed by and again the Warden sent for him. Asked if he was not ready to be good Mason cursed the Warden to the extent of his vocabulary and swore that if he were let loose he would kill everybody about the place.

To make a long story short, Mason spent the entire twelve years in Albany Prison chained to the floor. He was given a mattress to lie on, and a number of times was asked if he was not ready to obey the rules and come up into the daylight. But he refused to surrender and left the dark cell permanently only at the expiration of his term.

When he was released from prison the first thing he did was to visit me at my office in the Post Office building.

"Do you remember me?" he asked.

"Yes," said I, "you are George Albert Mason. What do you want?"

"I want to know where Washburne is. I haven't anything against you, but I am going to kill Washburne the first time I see him."

Mr. Washburne at that time had the contract for building a large reservoir in Westchester county, New York, but I told Mason I thought his old enemy was dead.

"What," he replied, "if he isn't dead I'll kill him."

Without saying another word Mason left the office and I never heard of him again. He never molested Mr. Washburne, who is still alive.

I always thought Peter McCartney sized Miles up about right. Old Pete, who as the years crept over a professor or a Russian admiral, finally fell into the hands of the police and served a term in prison. While in jail he heard how the man who betrayed him in St. Louis had chosen to remain chained to the floor of a dark cell rather than to promise to be good and remain in the daylight.

"That's just like Mason," said he. "He's got the courage of a lion, but the judgment of a jackass. He doesn't know enough to eat good food."

(THE NEXT STORY IN THIS SERIES WILL APPEAR NEXT SUNDAY.)

THE WEAR OF RAILROAD IRON.

MORE than one hundred thousand tons of steel is actually worn away from the surface of rails in the United States yearly. The tonnage of rails discarded as "worn out" every year is about one and a half times as much as the tonnage of steel wheels themselves, these lose from 17,000 to 18,000 tons of metal annually, of which the great bulk is rubbed off by the friction of the wheel on the rail. The old cast iron wheels are being rapidly replaced by steel, and this will doubtless affect the wear on both wheel and rail, although the result is somewhat uncertain. It may be expected that the loss from steel wheels will be greater than that from the harder, though more brittle, cast iron. In spite of this loss, however, they may last longer, as the steel wheels will wear more than the iron ones before becoming unfit for use. Tests made by one of the largest railroads in the country indicate that the "life" of a steel wheel is likely to be three times as long as that of an iron one. The importance of a careful study of the conditions of wear appears from the fact that the thousands of tons of valuable metal thus dissipated by wear are not recoverable, and might as well be annihilated so far as their future use to the world is concerned.

"Ask Your Father"

Jack and Janet Go to a Restaurant for Luncheon.

BY TUDOR JENKS.

"N OW," asked Mrs. Townsend, when they were settled in their places at the restaurant table, "what shall I order for luncheon?"

"Let me see the bill of fare," Janet said, reaching for it.

"In a minute," Jack answered; "I just want to see what kinds of soup there are."

"I don't want soup," said Janet.

"Neither do I," her mother added.

"But I'd like some," Jack insisted. "Now, here's some of the mulligatawny. What's that like?"

"If you take soup we'll have to sit doing nothing while you eat yours," Janet objected. "And, besides, one portion is more than you can eat, and it will be wasted."

"It won't save it to eat it, any more than to leave it after it is paid for," was Jack's answer.

"You don't have soup usually at home," his mother remarked.

"That's why I want it. What's the use of going to a restaurant if you just eat what you get at home?"

"You're not here for amusement, but to get some food," Janet observed.

"All right," Jack agreed; "then you can just eat oatmeal with bread and butter. That'll be cheap and filling."

Janet began to look cross.

"Here," Mrs. Townsend said, "let me take the bill of fare. I will order the luncheon." After a moment, she looked up. "Suppose, Janet, you and I have some tea and fancy cakes, and for Jack, I will order—some baked chicken pie."

"I don't like chicken pie. I'd rather have mock-turtle soup and chicken salad and ice cream."

"That's too much," his mother replied, "and it's too expensive."

"Well, then," Jack grumbled, "if I can't have what I want, I won't take anything!"

"That's just like you!" Janet exclaimed. "You just go and spoil everything!"

"Well," Jack muttered, "I'm not going to guzzle tea and crumble dried up cake. I'd sooner take chewing gum!"

Mrs. Townsend put down the bill of fare in despair.

"I do wish you wouldn't be so troublesome! I'm sure I can't suit you all without ordering a lot of things we don't want. And it is wasting money, too. All we need is a light luncheon so that you will not get too hungry before your dinner." She picked up the bill once more. "Let me see. What do you say, to a nice salad with French dressing, and some rolls?"

"Don't like leaves," Jack muttered, while Janet looked equally unhappy, and asked, "Can't we have some dessert?"

"Dessert!" echoed Mrs. Townsend. "Yes, we could. Suppose we say rice pudding?"

This was the last straw. Jack went down to the depths of despair, and Janet's lower lip began to tremble.

"Well, children," their mother said, "shall I give the order?"

"I'd rather go without anything," was Jack's reply, and he turned indifferently toward the table.

"So would I," Janet agreed.

"Have you ordered?" inquired a waiter, approaching briskly.

"Not yet," said Mrs. Townsend. "I'll let you know in just a moment. Come, children, what will you have?"

"You won't let us have what we want," Jack answered, coldly.

"I'm sure I don't know what to do. You suggest ridiculous things and won't say yes to anything else."

"Women don't know what men like for lunch," Jack observed grandly.

"Oh, very well," Mrs. Townsend replied. "We can't wait much longer. Your father wished us to be prompt so as to be in-time for the matinee. Now he will be here. He's coming. I'm glad. If you don't like me to order, you can just ask your father."

Mr. Townsend came in briskly, smiling and gay. He made his way to the table, and greeted them affectionately. Then he noted the frost in the air.

"What's the matter?" he inquired. "Luncheon not served? Where's your waiter?"

"We couldn't decide what to have," said Mrs. Townsend. "Janet wanted some ice cream."

"I didn't say so," Janet interrupted.

"And Jack chose mulligatawny soup!"

"Mock turtle," Jack corrected. "I only asked what mulligatawny was."

"That's neither here nor there," his father remarked, hastily consulting his watch. "And what did you want, my dear?"

"Only a cup of tea," Mrs. Townsend answered, "and some cake."

"That'll never do," her husband said, frowning and shaking his head. Then, rapping sharply on the table, he brought the waiter on the run. "Here, waiter," he said, "bring two portions roast beef, rare, with gravy, mashed potatoes, and have them served quick as you can. We're in a hurry!"

"Yes, sah," replied the waiter, and disappeared with a napkin trailing in the breeze.

"The longer you wait the less you can let what you want. Roast beef is always in season, makes good red blood, everybody likes it, and, after all, there's nothing better. We've got just twenty minutes. Let's talk of something else."

And so they did.

SOME RUSSIAN MEDICINES.

NEWS comes from Russia of a remarkable series of frauds in the drug trade that has just been exposed in that country. The swindlers had a large factory in Odessa, with offices and a completely organized system of distribution, and probably others, as yet undiscovered, are in existence. The bottles used had labels in imitation of those employed by an eminent German firm. Bottles labelled "Xeroform" (a disinfecting compound) contained a mixture chiefly of bricks, "sialin" was sweetened and colored water, and other drugs were imitated with soap, lime and dyes. Quinine, phenacetine and numerous similar imitations were all represented by common table salt! Inquiry showed that 98 per cent of all Russian drug stores that were examined sold more or less of these falsified products, although in many cases the adulterations were not so gross as those described above. The business of the Odessa factory alone is said to amount to a million dollars, and the end is not yet.

ENGINEER MURDOGH MAKES

NO RECOMMENDATIONS

Report of Trip Contains Only Statement of Information Gathered—Says City Has Enough Officials But Wants an Assistant.

The report of Engineer Murdoch concerning his recent extended trip through Upper Canada and American cities has at last been placed at the disposal of the city council. It consists of about twenty pages of closely typewritten manuscript, and contains a large amount of useful information. He touches on methods of civic government and administration, with particulars regarding a great many features of civic work.

Among other matters, the engineer reports quite fully on the system of selecting employees by civil service examination. He says he was treated with the utmost courtesy by all the officials whom he met, and was supplied with a large quantity of useful matter giving further information. The report is concluded with the following statement: "Concerning reorganization in this city, your engineer has no suggestions to make. The information acquired while abroad has been placed at your disposal and it is for your honorable committee to apply it in such form as you may consider best."

In the office of the city engineer it will be necessary to have at least one permanent assistant, and perhaps at times a surveyor may have to be employed to do extra work that cannot be undertaken by the engineer and his assistant. Otherwise the officials and employees now in the city's service are quite numerous enough to do all the work that is required of them at present.

This is the report for which the reorganization committee has been waiting a couple of months before tackling the problems for which they are appointed. Ald. Kelley, in conversation with the Star this morning said that he had expected that the report would contain some definite recommendations but they would have to draw their own conclusions. A meeting of the committee will be arranged next week when the report will be given careful consideration.

TALK ABOUT SPEEDY TRIALS; THIS BREAKS THE RECORD

An Hour and a Half After the Robbery Was Reported, the Thief Was Sentenced to a Year in Jail

Police Sgt. Baxter made a rather quick capture this morning when he arrested Wm. Parks on the charge of stealing a silver watch and chain valued at $14, the property of John Fox, and a pair of rubbers and shoes valued at two dollars from George Coleman. The matter was reported to Sgt. Campbell about 9:30 o'clock this morning and a half hour later the sergeant had the thief and the stolen property. John Fox today gave evidence that he was a cottian on the steamer Hesperian lying at Sand Point. The defendant slept in the same compartment as the witness last night, and was missing this morning as were the witnesses' watch and chain. George Coleman gave evidence that he recognized the man who stole his shoes and rubbers. He was sent into a Water street saloon by Sgt. Baxter and identified the defendant as the man who had been on board the ship last night and also identified the stolen shoes, which were being worn by the defendant who left his old shoes for the witness to wear.

Sam Margolis, who is a clerk in Isaac Williams' store on Dock street, identified the defendant as a man who sold the watch for a dollar. The defendant signed his name as William Parks. Sgt. Baxter gave evidence regarding the arrest and finding of the stolen property. The defendant told the officer that the watch was in a Dock street store. The defendant said he had no statement to make. After an address from the magistrate the prisoner was adjudged guilty and sentenced to a term of six months for stealing the shoes and at the termination of that term the defendant is to return to jail for six months longer for stealing the watch. It was a quick termination of justice Parks was arrested, tried, found guilty and sentenced to a year in jail, all within an hour and a half.

MAY ASK COUNCIL TO SUPPORT PLAYGROUNDS

The Mayor has received a communication from Miss Peters, of the Women's Council Playgrounds Committee, regarding the action recently taken by the School Board in deciding not to take over the summer playgrounds. She intimates that the Common Council may be asked for an appropriation of sufficient size to pay the expenses of the playgrounds at Centennial and Winter Street Schools, which, she says, are the only school grounds fitted for the work. She points out that the equipment has all been paid for and almost the only expense will be for supervision.

POLICE COURT.

There were nine prisoners on the police court bench this morning. Wm. Costello was charged with being drunk on Erin street and tearing Policeman Hove's coat. He was fined $5 or 30 days jail. Wesley Goodwin pleaded guilty to being drunk on Mill street, but said he knew nothing about being profane and resisting the police.

Officer Finley told of giving the defendant a number of chances to get off the street. He became profane and when placed under arrest he resisted violently and during "the tussle" the policeman received a sprained thumb. The prisoner was fined $5 or one month for drunkenness and $10 or two months in jail for his resistance. Six other drunks were dealt with in the usual manner.
