SHE WORE FALSE WHISKERS

And Then Committed Murder-The Whiskers Fell Off and Betrayed Her.

Albany, Ore., Sept. 30.—Lottie Hiatt, was shot and fatally injured at her home near Scio, a small and remote town in Lynn county. Mrs. John Hanna, 45 years old, and the mother of a family, donned masculine garb and false whiskers, and entered the house of Mrs. Hiatt, and shot her twice. The motive was jealousy. Mrs. Hiatt, she believed, had estranged the affections of her husband. The Hiatt family, together with Mrs. Elizabeth Holman, Mrs. Lottie Hiatt's mother, lived about a quarter of a mile north of Jordan's store, and on Thursday evening last at dusk, their home was approached by a supposed man, who gruffly demanded admittance. This being accorded, he entered, and, drawing a pistal to the inventor to them. tol, told the inmates to throw up their hands and say where they kept their money. Mrs. Holman, aged 82, resented the intrusion, and promptly seizing a bit of wood, gave the intruder sharp rap on the face with it, being instantly knocked down for her temerity. Having disposed of the aged woman, the supposed man turned upon Mrs. Hiatt with his six-shooter, and began firing. One shot went wild, but the second and third struck the unfortunate woman in the head and she sank dying to the floor. The robber, to make sure of his work, bent over the prostrate woman and shook her violently, to ascertain whether she was dead or not. This act was witnesed at the time by Mrs. Holman, who had just regained consciousness.

The scoundrel fled, and Mrs. Holman made haste to Jordan's store for help

Several men were at the store, and has tened to the house, and did all in their power to succor the stricken woman. They found on the floor a hat, a false mustache, and a pair of eyeglasses. Someone present recognized the hat as the property of young Hanna, and this announcement precipitated a search for the young man, who was not found until early morning. When charged with the deed and confronted with the hat, he denied the killing, but admitted that the hat was his property, declaring further that his mother borrowed it the evening before, but for what purpose he did not know, remarking incidentally that she had not returned home until 1 o'clock in the morning. The searchers immediately sought out Mrs. John Hanna, the boy's mother, and under menacing inquiries, she at last broke down and confessed that she had purloined a suit of her husband's clothes and her son's hat, donning them and doing the deed. Robbery was only a blind in the case, and the deeper impulse of passionate jealousy was the real motive for the crime, as it had long been known in the countryside there that Mrs Hanna was jealous of her husband and Mrs. The would-be murderer was turned over to the officers of the counher victim at the house is still living, but beyond hope of recovery.

BRITAIN MEANS BUSINESS. London, Sept. 30 .- According to a dispatch from Pekin the British Government has addressed an ultimatum to China demanding that the Pekin Government issue within two weeks a proclamation degrading the Viceroy of Sze-Chuen; otherwise the British admiral in Chinese waters will take action, The same dispatch says that an American commission, consisting of the United States consul at Tien Tsin, the naval officer and the interpreter of the United States legation, is about to start overland for the scene of the outrages. The Viceroy, the dispatch says, has signified his intention of paying the French indemnity of places DEATH OF PROF. PASTEUR.

Prof. Louis Pasteur, the eminent bacteriologist, is dead at Garches, near St. Cloud, in the environs of Paris. He had suffered from paralysis for a considerable period of time. About eight days ago he sustained a violent paralytic stroke and Friday suffered still another severe attack. He grew worse rapidly and remained in a comatose condition during his last hours. At 5 o'clock yesterday he expired. The end was absolutely without pain. His wife devoutly watched his bedside. His son, his daughter and his son-in-law, A. Valleryradot, two grandchildren, as well as Dr. Roux and Dr. Chantemesse were present when he passed away. It is believed that the funeral of M. Pasteur will be national in character. Prof. Pasteur had been gradually failing in health for some months and recently the French papers announced the heginning of the end. This report was emphatically denied by his family and friends. They acknowledged the feeble condition of the distinguished bacteriologist, but attributed it to local rather than general causes. Louis Pasteur was born at Dole, Jura,

Dec. 27, 1822, entered the university in 1840, became a supernumerary master of studies at the college of Besancon, was received as a pupil in the Ecole Normale in 1843, took the degree of doctor in 1847 and was appointed professor of physics at the faculty of sciences, Strassburg, in 1848. He rapidly came to the front in his various lines of study and practice, and in December, 1863, he was appointed professor of geology, physics and chemistry at the Ecole des Beaux Arts, and was elected a member of the institute. The Royal Society of London, in 1856, awarded M. Pasteur the Rumford medal for his researches relative to the polarization of light, etc. He was decorated with the Legion of Honor August 12, 1853. was promoted to be an officer of the order in 1866 and a commander in 1868. In 1869 he was elected one of the 50 foreign members of the Royal Society of London. M. Pasteur has written numerous works relating to chemistry and bacteriology, for which, in 1861, he obtained the J. Ecker prize. In 1874, the national assembly accorded to M. Pasteur, as a reward, chiefly for his investigations on fermentation, a life annuity of twelve thousand francs. He was raised to the rank of grand officer of the Legion of Honor, October 24, 1878. His reception into the French academy took place April 27, 1882, when he delivered a panegyric on M. Littre to whose chair he had succeeded. In the same year the council of the Society of Arts awarded the Albert medal of the society to M. Pasteur for his researches in connection with fermentation, the preservation of wines and the propagation of zymotic diseases in silk worms and domestic animals. Of late years M. Pasteur had devoted himself to the study of inoculation for diseases other than smallpox and has achieved some very remarkable results in the prevention of hydrophobia; patients from all parts of Europe and even from America traveling to Paris to put themselves under his care. Large subscriptions were raised in France to form an "Institute Pasteur," where the methods of the great discoverer could be practiced and taught. On July 1, 1889, a meeting was convened at the Mansion House in London for the purpose of hearing statements by Sir Jas. Paget and others in favor of establishing a Pasteur institute in England. Prince of Wales contributed 100 guineas towards that object. A Pasteur institute has also been established in America under the direction of the pupils of Pasteur. The cholera epidemic of 1892, led M. Pasteur to institute experiments in anticholeraic vaccinations, which proved successful in the case of animals. On December 27, 1892, M. Pasteur's 70th birthday was enthusiastically celebrated before a representative official assembly at the Sorbonne. April 21, a Mural tablet was unveiled in his honor at Ecole Normale.

AWFUL MORTALITY CAUSED BY CHOLERA.

Rev. W. F. Walker, who is a Methodist missionary in Pekin, China, writes of the horrible ravages of cholera in the capital of the Empire. He says that in four days there were at least 20,000 deaths. The white population live in the center of the city, and upon the appearance of the disease nearly all of them fled to the country. Two English missionaries, he says, have fallen victims to cholera. ### THE HOLY CATHOLIC CHURCH. Efforts to Have the Protestant Episcopal Church Known Hereafter by Another Name. Chicago, Sept. 30.—An effort will be made at the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Minneapolis next week to change the name of the organization to "The Holy Catholic Church." There has been for years a steadily growing sentiment in the church in favor of a change of name, it being held that the appellation "Protestant," given the church shortly after revolutionary days, was a product of the troubled times, and was not properly descriptive of a religious body branch of the Church

Catholic. The party in favor of a change name felt itself strong enough years ago to force a vote on the issue, the name then selected being American Catholic Church. The majority against the change was not large. Interest in the subject was increased today by a resolution introduced at the annual convention of the New York Diocese by the Rev. Dr. Clendennin. The resolution in substance was:

"That the delegates to the coming convention at Minneapolis be requested to urge such change in the existing name of our branch of the church as may be more descriptive of the true work." The Right Rev. William E. McLaren, the bishop of the Diocese of Chicago, favors a change. Bishop Leonard, of Cleveland, says he does not like the name now used. Bishop Boyd Vincent, of Cincinnati, believes the change is sure to come, but does not think the church is ready for it. Thirty years ago Bishop Thompson, of Mississippi, advocated a change of name, and he will do so again next week.

Bishop W. C. Doane, of Albany, op-poses a change, saying: "Such an act would be a most arrogant piece of impertinent presumption."

Seen Flying Northeast.

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 30.-The advance guard of an army of grasshoppers, which took flight from the plains of western Kansas and Colorado a week ago, reached this part of Kansas today. They came by millions, flying in a northeasterly direction, and all day long the air has been full of them. Sometimes they would alight, but again continued their course, hopping in a northeasterly direction. The ground was covered with them. They rested on people and spread over roofs and gardens. Manitoba, so far as I could learn, is pretty solid on this point. One very intelligent gentleman put it to me in the following terms: 'I was an en-thusiastic supporter of a uniform system of public schools. I helped to fight the battle in my native Province of New Brunswick. We were willing there to break up federation rather than submit to dictation from Ottawa. We gained our cause, but how did the matter end? Clark Works Right Along When Asleep and Should Get On in the World. Greenup, Ky., Sept. 30. - Archibald Clark, a farmer living a few miles from here, is without doubt the most remarkable somnambulist in the State. During the past summer he has been accusing his neighbors of slipping into his truck patches at night and cultivating them. Of course he did not object to this, but thought it most extraordinary. It was also a strange fact that they always did at night just what he had intended to do the following day. Becoming anxious to know which of his neighbors he was indebted to for the kindness, he spent many wakeful nights watching his truck patches, but without success. No one ever came into them when he was on the watch, but wnen he would miss watching for a night there was invariably some work done.

A short time ago he drove his wagon inta his potato patch late one evening, so that he could load it early in the morning. He was very anxious to get well on his way to market before sun-up. However, he overslept himself, and got up in a terrible stew: but great was his surprise when he went into the potato patch to find the wagon already loaded and the horses hitched to it. ready to start, thus saving him a couple of hours' time and hard work. One night his wife saw him stealing out of the house in his night clothes, and, following him to the barn, saw him take a mattock and go out and begin digging up

Rain Interfered With Some of the Shows -Clinton and Brantford in Luck.

NORTH PERTH-The North Perth Fair at Stratford was interfered with by the weather, showers with a bleak northwest wind, considerably reducing the attendance as compared with last year. The exhibition closed Friday afternoon. The inside exhibits were not up to the average, the entries being very meagre in the ladies' work, art, and fruit departments, though the display of flowers was very fair. The live stock was creditable, and the different classes of horses, cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry were well represented.

THE NORTHERN-The Northern Fair was held at Ailsa Craig Thursday and Friday, 26 and 27. Although the weather was cold and raw, crowds attended, and everything was very successful. Entries were far in advance of last year in quality and quantity, and the speeding in the ring was very interesting.

EAST HURON-The Fair at Brussels was successful notwithstanding a drizzling rain and cold winds from the northwest. The roots, potatoes and grain were good. but fruit was not up to the usual standard. The exhibit of horses was good, that of sheep and swine especially good, and poultry extra good. The attendance and interest displayed was not less than any former year.

HURON CENTRAL-The fair at Clinton was on the whole a success, and the weather was perfect. The roots and vegetables have not been equaled for many years. Fruits presented a good appearance, considering the poor crop. The display of fine arts and ladies' work was superior, but the entries were not as numerous as on former occasions. On the whole the outside show was good, light horses and swine excelling. The attendance was slightly in advance of last year.

THE SOUTHERN-The Southern fair opened Thursday at Brantford. There is a fine show of horses, cattle and vegetables, while that of sheep and pigs seems to be larger than previous years. The exhibition, as to exhibits, is a great success, but the attendance is not as great as it should be.

Lessons From the Defeat of the Midianites-The Few Must Do the Fighting.

New York, Sept. 30.—In his sermon yes-terday Rev. Dr. Talmage discussed a subject which is of special interest to Sunday school teachers and scholars at the present time, being Gideon's battle with the Midianites, near Mount Gilboa. The text chosen was Judges vii., 20, 21. "And the three companies blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers and held the lamps in their left hands, and the trumpets in their right hands to blow withal: And they cried, 'The sword of the Lord and of Gideon.' And they stood every man in his place round about the camp, and all the host ran, and cried, and fled.

That is the strangest battle ever fought. God had told Gideon to go down and thrash the Midianites, but his army is too large; for the glory must be given to God, and not to man. And so proclamation is made that all those of the troops who are cowardly and want to go home, may go; and 22,000 of them scampered away, leaving only 10,000 men. But God says the army is too large yet; and so he orders these 10,000 remaining to march down through a stream, and commands Gideon to notice in what manner these men drink of the water as they pass through it. If they got down on all-fours and drank, then they are to be pronounced lazy and incompetent for the campaign; but if, in passing through the stream, they scoop up the water in the palm of their hand and drink and pass on, they are to be the men selected for the battle. Well, the 10,000 men marched down in the stream, and the most of them come down on allfours, and plunge their mouths, like a horse or an ox, into the water and drink; but there are 300 men who, instead of stopping, just dip the palm of their hands in the water and bring it to their lips, "lapping it as a dog lappeth." Those 300 brisk, rapid, enthusiastic men are chosen for the campaign. They are each to take a trumpet in the right hand and a pitcher in the left hand, and a lamp inside the pitcher, and then at a given signal they are to blow the trumpets, and throw down the pitchers and hold up the lamps. So it was done It is night, I see the great host of Midianites, sound asleep in the valley of Jezreel. Gideon comes up with his three hundred picked men, and when everything is ready, the signal is given, and they blow the trumpets, and they throw down the pitchers and hold up the lamps, and the great host of Midianites, walking out of a sound sleep, take the crash of the crockery and the glare of the lamps for the coming on of an overwhelming foe; and they run, and cut themselves to pieces, and horribly perish.

The lessons of this subject are very spirited and impressive. This seemingly of the little Bible the sailor can put in his valueless lump of quartz has the pure gold jacket when he goes to sea—if it had been in it. The smallest dewdrow on the meadow left to men to write, it would have been a at night has a star asleep in its bosom, and | thousand volumes, judging from the amount the most insignificant passage of Scripture of ecclesiastical controversy which has has in it a shining truth. God's mint coins no small change.

I learn in the first place, from this subject, the lawfulness of Christian stratagem. You know very well that the greatest victories ever gained by Washington or Napoleon were gained through the fact that they came when, and in a way they were not expected—sometimes falling back to draw out the foe, sometimes breaking out from ambush, sometimes crossing a river on unheard of rafts; all the time keeping the opposing forces in wonderment as to what would be done next.

I think that the finest of all fine arts is the art of doing good, and yet this art is the least cultured. We have in the kingdom of God to-day enough troops to conquer the whole earth for Christ if we only had skillful manoeuvering. I would rather have the three hundred lamps and pitchers of Christian stratagem than one hundred thousand drawn swords of literature and ecclesiastical combat.

I learn from this subject, also, that a small part of the army of God will have to do all the hard fighting. Gideon's army was originally composed of twenty-two thousand men, but they went off until there were only ten thousand left, and that was subtracted from until there were only three hundred. It is the same in all ages of the Christian Church; a few men have to do the hard fighting. Take a membership of a thousand, and you generally find that fifty people do the work.

We mourn that there is so much useless lumber in the mountains of Lebanon. I think, of the ten million membership of the Christian Church today, if five millions of the names were off the books, the church would be stronger. You know that the more cowards and drones there are in an army the weaker it is. I would rather have the three hundred picked men of Gideon than the twenty-two thousand unsifted host. How many Christians there are standing in the way of progress! I think it is the duty of the Church of God to pearl. The days and the nights went merride over them, and the quicker it does it, the quicker it does its duty.

Do not worry, oh Christian, if you have to do your share of the work. You had better thank God that he has called you to be one of the picked men, rather than to belong to the host of stragglers. Would not you rather be one of the three hundred that fight than the twenty-two thousand that run? I suppose those cowardly Gideonites who went off congratulated themselves. They said: "We got rid of all that fighting, did we not? How lucky we have been; that battle costs us nothing at all." But they got nothing of the spoils of the victory. After the battle the three hundred men went down and took the wealth of the Midianites, and out of the cups and platters of their enemies they feasted. And the time will come, my dear brethren, when the hosts of darkness will be routed, and Christ will say to his troops: "Well done, my brave men, go up and take the spoils! Be more than conquerors forever!" and in that day all deserters will be shot!

Again: I learn from this subject, that God's way is different from man's, but is always the best way, If we had the planning of that battle, we would have taken those 22,000 men that originally belonged to the army, and we would have drilled them, and marched them up and down by the day, and week, and month, and we would have had them equipped with swords or spears, according to the way of arming in those times; and then we would have marched them down in solid column upon the foe. But that is not the way. God depletes the army, and takes away all their weapons, and gives them a lamp, and a pitcher, and a trumpet, and tells them to go down and military tactics. The idea of three hundred men, unarmed, conquering such a great host of Midianites!" It was the best way. What sword, spear, or cannon ever accomplished such a victory as the lamp, pitcher God's way is different from man's way, but it is always best! Take, for instance, the composition of the Bible. If we had had the writing of the Bible we would have said: "Let one man write it. If you have twenty or thirty men to write a poem, or make a statue, or write a history, or make an argument, there will be flaws and contradictions. But God says: "Let not one man do, but forty men shall do it." And they did, differing enough to show there had been no collusion between them, but not contradicting each other on any important point, while they all wrote from their own standpoint and temperament; so the matter-of-fact man has his Moses, the romantic man his Ezekiel; the epigrammatic his Soloman; the warrior his Joshua; the sailor his Jonah; the loving his John; the logician his Paul. Instead of this Bible—which I now lift in my hand-instead of the Bible the child can carry to Sunday school-instead arisen. God's way is different from man's, but it is best, infinitely best.

So it is in regard to the Christian's life. If we had had the planning of a Christian's life we would have said, "Let him have 80 years of sunshine, a fine house to live in; let his surroundings all be agreeable; let him have sound health; let no chill shiver through his limbs, no pain ache his brow; or trouble shadow his soul." I enjoy the prosperity of others so much, I would let every man have as much money as he wants, and roses for his children's cheeks, and fountains of gladness glancing in their large round eyes. But that is not God's way. It seems as if a man must be cut, and hit, and pounded, just in proportion as he is useful. Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth. No pruning, no grapes; no grinding mill, no flour; no battle, no victory; no cross, no crown. I learn from the subject that the overthrow of God's enemies will be sudden and terrific. There is the army of the Midianites down in the valley of Jezreel. I suppose their mighty men are dreaming of victory. Mount Gilboa never stood sentinel for so large a host. The spears and the shields of the Midianites gleam in the moonlight, and glance on the eye of the Israelites, who hover like a battle of eagles, ready to swoop from the clif. Sleep on, oh, army of the Midianites! With the night to hide them, and strong arms to defend them, let no slumbering foeman dream of disaster! Peace to the captains and the spearmen!

I saw the defrauder in his splendid house. It seemed as if he had conquered God, as he stood amidst the blaze of chandeliers and pier mirrors. In the diamonds of the wardrobe I saw the tears of the widows whom he had robbed, and in the snowy satin the palor of the white-cheeked orphans whom he had wronged. The blood of the oppress-ed glowed in the deep crimson of the imported chair. The music trembled with the sorrow of unrequited toil. But the wave of mirth dashed higher on reefs of coral and rily. No sick child dared pull that silver door-bell. No beggar dared sit on that amidst that tapestry. No shadow of a judgmarble step. No voice of prayer floated tear of human sympathy dropped upon that upholstery. Pomp strutted the hall, and Dissipation filled her cup, and all seemed safe as the Midianites in the valley of Jezreel. But God came. Calamity smote the money market. The partridge left its eggs unhatched. Crash went all the porcelain pitchers! Ruin, rout, dismay and woe in the valley of Jezreel.

Alas for those who fight against God! Only two sides. Man immortal, which side are you on? Do you belong to the 300 that are going to win the day, or to the great host of Midianites asleep in the valley, only to be roused up in consternation and ruin? Suddenly the golden bowl of life will be broken, and the trumpet blown that will startle our soul into eternity. The day of the Lord cometh as a thief in the night, and as the God-armed Israelites upon the sleeping foe. Ha! Canst thou pluck up courage for the day when the trumpet which hath never been blown shall speak the roll-call of the dead, and the earth, dashing against a lost meteor, have its mountains scattered to the stars, and oceans emptied in the air? Oh. then, what will become of you? What will become of me? If those Midianites had only given up their swords the day before the disaster, all would have been well; and if you will now surrender the sins with which you have been fighting against God, you will be safe. Oh, make peace with him now, through Jesus Christ the Lord. With the clutch of a drowning man seize the cross. Oh, drive out the Midianites. I suppose some surrender! surrender! Christ, with his wiseasges were there who said, "That is not hand on his pierced aide, asks you to.

Walkerville, Ont., Sept. 27 .- At the last neeting of the Walkerville council, Councilor Tucker introduced a bylaw compelling every bicycle rider to have a bell and to ring it at the corners and street crossings. In the town there are a great many wheelmen and they have a club which is in a very prosperous condition. They did not take very kindly to the bylaw and decided on a mode of revenge. Last night about 30 riders assembled, and on each wheel was a bell. They varied in tones from a screeching soprano to a sepul-chral bass, and were of all sizes. Cow bells, dinner bells, marine bells, in fact bells of all descriptions were used. They paraded the town, rang at the corners and crossings and wound up by serenading Councilor Tucker, the father of the bylaw.

Gold Storage on the Farm.

How Produce and Berries May Be Kept Fresh a Long Time.

R cent Improvements Effected Over the The Potentate Who Helped to Overth: ow Border That Should Interest Canadlars.

Some interesting articles on the above subject have lately appeared in United States agricultural journals, and farmers across the lines are beginning to turn their attention to the matter. Canada should not be lagging behind in enything pertaining to the march of progress and improvement, so it may not be amiss to give the readers of the Witness an inkling of what is going on in this direction. Cold storage is a mode of keeping cheese, butter, small fruits and other perishable products, which is already being extenrively practiced in cities, and has made a great revolution in the produce trade. Formerly when these goods arrived in the market in hot summer months, they had to be rushed off at any prices that could be got for them in order to place them in the consumer's hands before they spoiled. Sometimes, when large quantities of these products were offered for sale, they had to be sacrificed at prices which would hardly pay transportation rates. Then, again, there would be a scarcity of such articles and prices would be-come extravagantly high. The markets were very uncertain, and it was quite a risk to produce articles of a perishable nature. They might or they might not pay the cost of production. If they happened to reach market when there was a keen demand for such things, high prices would be realized for them. But, not infrequently, whole carloads of goods were lost through lack of demand, and both producers and middlemen sustained great loss. There was loss also to the general community, because it is production that makes national wealth, But now, wherever the cold storage system is in operation, all such loss is prevented, while the price of perishable roods is regulated so that quotations do not fluctuate to any great extent from week to week. It is no longer an experiment, but a well-tested method of management. Enormous warehouses have been erected where butter is frozen hard as soon as it arrives in market. It can be kept in this condition all summer without any loss of flavor or deterioration of quality. If the demand is low when it arrives, there is no imperative reason why it should be sold immediately. It can be kept, at comparatively small expense, until prices improve. June grass butter is frequently kept frozen in storage houses until the middle of winter, when fancy prices are cheerfully paid for an article that has a distinctively grass flavor. The same is true of cheese when the sweetest and richest juices are in the green forage, and the pastures are at their best. In the same way, small fruits are kept in their freshness and remain so for many days after picking in the heat of summer. It is in operation, is a decided gain to the producer, and is at the same of warehouses.

In short, the storage system, wherever source of profit to the owners Advanced farmers in the United States are beginning to think that this rold storage system ought to be utilized by them, both individually and collectively. When June grass butter he bought in the open market at low prices, the speculators who store it are the ones who make the profit out of it. When poultry is abundant and cheap, these same speculators buy up the best specimens and freeze them. Later, they put them on the market when prices are at their best. The farmer is not benefited by this arrangement, except that there are no perishable articles lost, and that there is a more uniform quotation of prices. But the golden harvest is reaped by the speculator instead of the producer. With cold storage on the farm, the dairyman, roultry keeper and fruit grower could watch the market, note the rise and fall of prices, hold on to their goods during dull times, and self when the demand was briskest, and the price at its best. Thus the lion's share of the profits would go into the hands of the producers rather than those of the speculators, and more even-handed justice would be dealt out all round. Farmers have all the facilities for cold storage ready to hand. Ice, buildings, land and everything requisite, is much theaper in the country than in the city. A farm of any pretensions is not completely equipped without an ice-house, and it could be easily constructed so as to provide cold storage on a small scale. Many years ago, some plans appeared in the Illustrated Register of Rural Affairs, combining an ice-house and milk-house. A modification of these would be well suited for the purposes of cold storage on farm premises, and need not be very expensive. But the same arrangements which have been carried out so effectively for cooperative dairying could be just as well applied to co-operative cold storage. One large ice-house can be built much cheaper than several small ones, and the building once erected the cost or filling it in winter would be but trifling. If a number of farmers would combine together, the cost to each would be comparatively little. Then, year by year, the ice-house could be filled at practically no cost whatever, except that of time and labor, which the farmer can easily furnish in the season of winter. This appears to be the best way to develop the cold storage system in the rural districts. It will surely not be long before co-operative cold storage takes its place beside cheese factories and creameries. The value of cold storage for the preservation of fresh fruits is very great. Small fruits are generally picked from a hot field and kept over-night in crates where the air is close and warm, to be ship-ped to market next day. As a result, they are liable to deteriorate at once, so that they are often soft and spongy looking when they come to be opened out for sale. If these small fruits could be picked one day and put as fast as they are gathered into a cold storage the chill they would get there would stop all tendency to decay, keep them firm, and enable the seller to place them on the market in an attractive condition. Berries that by the ordinary method of marketing would rank as second-rate and inferior fruit, would by reason of their firmness and generally excellent appearance be classed as a fancy article, and as such bring the top price. It is very important to bear in mind that quality and appearance always dominate the market in every class of products. In the preservation of winter fruits, cold storage at the proper temperature somewhat above the freezing point, is very helpful in prolonging the season of apples, grapes and pears. Kept too warm, these fruits decay rapidly, pears especially. By means of cold storage, Seckel and other favorite pears are kept in prime condition until spring, when they readily sell in the large cities for $5 and $6 per box. With proper storage facilities, farmers and fruit growers could keep their choicer specimens at home, and drop them in on the market at a time of scarcity and high prices. This is one of the lines along which a shrewd business policy will have a tendency to increase the wealth and prosperity of the rural population. --Jindenbank, in the Montreal Witness.

A FAMOUS CHIEF.

Visit of a Great African King to Queen Victoria.

Khama, chief of the Bamangwata Bechuanas, is now in London, and has made a favorable impression on the public of the British capital. He is evidently a man of intelligence and a native ruler of exceptional ability. Theodore Bent, the distinguished archaeologist, who regards Khama as one of the most remarkable men of his time, has written as follows of him: "Perhaps he may be said to be the only negro living whose biography would repay the writing. I candidly admit that I advanced toward Palapye fully prepared to find the chief of the Bamangwata a rascal and a hypocrite, and that I left his capital, after a week's stay there, one of his most fervent admirers." A floating newspaper paragraph describes him as "a great It is true that he organized his people into nine regiments of about 800 men each, equipped them with breech-loading rifles, and enforced strict discipline among them, and that he assisted the British to conquer Lobengula, the ancient enemy of his race, but his career as a fighter is the least of his claims to fame. He is a civilized ruler, and has civilized his subjects. Khama was converted to Christianity in part by the example of a native Christian, and in part by Dr. Moffat, the father-in-law and predecessor of Livingstone. He went into exile rather than take a second wife at the command of his father. At the death of his father, Sekhame, Khama returned and became ruler of the tribe, among whom he abolished human sacrifices and witchcraft, and established trials by jury and introduced European tools and such European customs as deserved introduction. He even abolished the use of intoxicating drinks, and he once wrote: "I dread the white man's drink more than all the assegais of the Matabele." He has regulated the price at which goats and milk are sold to travelers, and nobody dare ask more while loaded wagons may be left standing on the road with no fear that anything will be stolen from them. Some years ago Khama moved his whole people, some 15,000 or 20,000 people, a distance of 70 miles to a spot where there was an ample supply of water and famine need not be feared. He gave the word one morning, and in two months the people were all established in their new homes without a murmur or dispute among them. They have gardens, workshops, stores, school-houses and a telegraph office. The women work in the gardens, but the men do the plowing and labor in the shops. Khama's town is the wonder of all visitors.

Mrs. Knight-Bruce describes him as a radical reformer, who yet develops both himself and his people on the natural lines of the race; he has made himself into a character that can be spoken of as a "perfect English gentleman," but without losing for a moment his self-respect as an African; he has kept his position as a disciple, not a mimic, of white civilizaton, and Bamangwata Bechuanas is known, even to the map-makers, as Khama's country, the inhabitants are called Khama's people, the capital, Palapye, is Khama's town.

GOING TO THE COUNTRY. The Manitoba Government Preparing

for a Popular Appeal. Winnipeg, Sept. 28. - Discussing the rumored general elections in Manitoba, the Tribune, recognized as Mr. Greenway's organ, says in denial: "The Government has never felt that it needed an opinion from the Province on its school policy. It has always felt and still feels, quite confident that nine-tenths of the citizens of Since then, from all accounts, he has Manitaba heartily indorse the policy which not improved. tion. ### OYSTER FARMING IN CANADA. Starting a Large Establishment in Canadian Waters.

Quebec, Sept. 30 .- One of the largest oyster farms in the world is being established at Carleton, in the Baie des Chaleures, by a newly-formed Quebec company. The bay contains 470 acres, or sufficient to permit of the breeding and fattening of 20, 000,000 oysters a year. The use of the bay at Carleton has been accorded to the company by the Government, and at its mouth a dam containing a number of sluice gates is being erected. The Canadian salt oyster known as Malpecques are now greatly in demand, not only in Canada but also in England and the United States. The utter lack of protection for the oyster fisheries has resulted in a great diminution in the yield and a large increase in the price of these succulent bivalves. A rapid increase in the number of these Canadian oyster forms is lookel for. In the pioneer company there are a number of American shareholders. The capital is all subscribed.

WESTERN DAIRYMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

(Notes by the Secretary.)

The directors met in Toronto during the Industrial Fair. Representatives from the Parry Sound district addressed the board, with a view to securing the co-operation of the association in furthering the interests of dairying in that section. Arrangements will be made to have one afternoon's session and an extra morning's session of the annual convention, when held at Woodstock on Jan. 7. 8 and 9, devoted exclusively to discussion on practical cheesemaking. Papers will be prepared and read by several of the cheese-makers in Western Ontario. Theodore Louis, of Wisconsin, one of the highest anthorities on divine husbandry in America, will be present at the coming convention, and also John Gould, the well-known Ohio dairy farmer. The prize lists for the joint fat stock and dairy show at Guelph, on Dec. 10, 11 and 12, are now ready for distribution. Copies can be had on application to the secretary, Henry Wade, Toronto, or to J. W. Wheaton, secretary, D. A. W. O., London. Prizes to the value of $210 will be given for dairy cows. There will be classes for the various pure breeds, and one for grades. Judging will be done by points, based upon the quantity and quality of the milk given by each cow. The morning's and evening's milk of Dec. I will be tested. The entrance fee for dairy cows will be $1 each. Entries

Good accommodation for dairy stock will be provided, and it is hoped that breeders of dairy stock will make numerous exhibits. This will be the nucleus for a winter dairy show if sufficient interest is shown in this first attempt.

A joint meeting, under the auspices of the Sheep and Swine Breeders and the Western Dairymen's Association will be held on one of the evenings during the show, when addresses of interest to the members of these organizations will be given by practical

ESCAPED IN THEIR NIGHT CLOTHES Serious Hotel Fire at Comber-Blaze in Brampton.

Comber, Ont., Sept. 30.—The Commercial Hotel, a large brick structure, and two general stores, owned and occupied by Messrs. A. M. Aubin and A. Dupuis, were destroyed by fire Saturday night. The fire caught in the barn of the hotel. Two horses were cremated. Nothing but wearing apparel was saved at the hotel, the inmates escaping in their night attire. From the general stores very little was saved, as the heat was intense and Comber has no system of fire protection. The citizens were unable to cope with the flames. The northern part of the village was at one time in imminent danger, and the Michigan Central Railway sent a special from Windsor conveying a staff of men to look after their property. The loss to buildings and stock will amount to fully $6,000. The fire is a severe blow to the village. It has been very unfor unate of late years in this respect.

Brampton, Ont., Sept. 30.—On Saturday Mr. Odlum's dwelling and barns on Vodden street were entirely consumed, together with most of the contents. Two horses and a cow were burned. Loss about $2,000; wholly covered by insurance in the Norwich.

CORBETT IN BAD SHAPE. Suffering From Melancholia-Pale and Nervous.

Buffalo, Sept. 28.-The Times this afternoon says: "From a gentleman who is close to Corbett, the Times learns that the champion is suffering from melancholia, which is gradually become ing more pronounced. That Jim Corbett is not so good as he was a year ago was patent to everyone who saw him on his recent visit to Buffalo. He was sallow, pale, nervous, and, in fact, exhibited many of those horrifying symptoms so graphically portrayed in the average patent medicine "ad." He was sunken-eyed, hollow-cheeked, and appeared to be at a high state of nervous tension. back, as he injured his knee in a bicycle race, and has been rendered worse by it. Again, Corbett's manner of life, from all accounts, is not what moralists would advise.

We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is without doubt the best medicine ever introduced for dysentery, diarrhea, cholera and all summer complaints, sea sickness, etc. It promptly gives relief, and never fails to effect a positive cure. Mothers should never be without a bottle when their children are teething.

DERMATCLOCY.

An Art for Which There Should be Little Use.

Why Not Have a Better Understanding With Yourself as to What Makes Your Skin Sallow and Blotchy.

The treatment of diseases of the skin has been much studied by scientific men. Soaps, lotions, cosmetics, etc., without number have beeen heralded all over the country for years. It is a fact that nearly all diseases of the complexion are directly caused by some stoppage of nature's drains. All the local treatment in the world cannot permanently cure these annoying complaints. The bowels, nature's drainage system, must be kept free from clogging or disease results.

Especially is this true with women. It is almost past belief to what extent female troubles are directly traceable to constipation of the bowels. The researches of an eminent physician led him to believe that much scientific treatment, with a view to regulating the bowels, was erroneous. He demonstrated that the simple remedies of nature used in as nearly a natural state as possible, were most efficient. These researches led to the production of Karl's Clover Root Tea, the greatest regulator of bowel disorders known to man. Its wonderful efficacy has amazed all who have used it.

Mr. Louis Goetz, of Buffalo, N. Y., President Cleveland's old caterer, says of this wonderful remedy: "I have taken Karl's Clover Root Tea every evening before going to bed, with great results. My skin looks better and the pimples are disappearing. Have been troubled for years with erup-tions on the skin, and all remedies so far have failed to help me. A few doses of Karl's Clover Root Tea worked wonders." A proper use of this sterling remedy will insure bright, clear skin, healthy color and freedom from headache, dizziness, indigestion, and all kindred ills.

It can and does cure all forms of disease resulting from a clogging of the system. This natural remedy, brewed directly from roots and herbs, strikes directly to the seat of the trouble, and is a boon to mankind. Do not suppose that you are a sufferer from some high sounding organic complaint. Look to your bowels. Keep them free and don't worry. Get a sample of Karl's Clover Root Tea at W. T. Strong's.

REFORM OF THE LORDS.

London, Sept. 29.—Reform of the House of Lords has, in the last two days, become a topic of principal discussion. While nothing may come of it immediately or in the near future, the vigor with which the subject is being handled in the press and in the public addresses indicates that the lever is working which will ultmately give the House of Lords at least some semblance of a representative character. The speech of the Marquis of Londonderry at a banquet in Ripon on Friday night, in which he admitted that the House of Lords is susceptible of improvement, and expressed the hope that the Unionists would grapple with the question, is heartily welcomed by the Unionist press, and appears to confirm the statement published in the Daily Chronicle, that the Conservative leaders meditate introducing a measure for the reform of the House of Lords. It is suggested, however, that there is a possibility that this is another scheme emanating from the circles dominated by the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, with a view to further "dishing" the Radicals. The latter, however, would conthe House of Lords in existence with from the date on which the prince was appointed to the office, which was the power of rejecting or modifying the power of rejecting or modifying bills adopted by the House of Commons. It is thought possible, however, that the Radicals might be induced to accept as an alternative of shelition some reform measure which abolition some reform measure which arily. It was alleged at the time that would leave the Lords the mere power of referendum to the people regarding any bill which they might decline to accept.

TROUBLE IN THE HEBREW COL-ONY.

There is trouble in the Hebrew colony over Lord Rothschild's scheme to build a colossal synagogue, clergy house and Jewish settlement in Whitechapel, at a cost of $200,000. Sir Samuel Montagu declares that he will fight the scheme to the utmost. Whitechapel is already congested with Jews, and rents there are as high as in Mayfair. It would be madness, says Sir Samuel, while the Government is meditating anti-alien legislation, to attract still more Jews to London. It would be far better, he thinks, to try to induce Jews to leave London for homes in colonies beyond the ocean. HOW AMERICAN TOURISTS SPEND THEIR MONEY.

BALTIC CANAL POORLY PATRON-

IZED. The traffic of the Baltic Canal has not been developed in a way to meet the expectations of its promoters. Owing to numerous accidents and the high tolls charged, only 700 vessels passed through the canal during the month of August. The fact that a still higher scale of charges is going into effect on Tuesday, Oct. 1, is likely to further reduce the traffic through the canal. The Government, however, appears to be confident of the ultimate success of the canal, for it has refused to accede to the appeals of the Stettin and Kiel chambers of commerce for a reduction in the schedule of rates. The Government has decided to appoint a naval commission to inquire into the conditions of transit through the canal, especially from a military point of

RELATIONS STRAINED.

The relations between Emperor William and Prince Von Hohenlohe are so strained that it would not be surprising if there should be a new incumbent of the Imperial Chancellorship before the expiration of the year on Oct. 29, 1894. The visit of Prince Von Hohenlohe to St. Petersburg the early part of this month has proved an unfortunate one for him pecunimarks. The advances which the Gerwere no more favorably received than were others which had preceded them. and the fact that under such circumstances Prince Von Hohenlohe should port, greatly angered Emperor William.

Lord Salisbury, however, instructed the British Minister that nothing would suffice less than a public imperial decree banishing him beyond the frontiers of China, with a statement that the crime for which he was punished was neglect to afford protection to the missions. This action of Lord Salisbury appears to have been prompted by the conviction that the Chinese literati, incited by most of the higher officials, foment agitation against Europeans generally, and not against the missions alone, and that the deg-radation of the Viceroy would be a blow to the literati and an effective example to the whole of China. The decisive attitude of England disposes of the published report that the the strongest practical measures in the event of a mere squadron demon-stration not proving sufficient to wake up the Government at Pekin.

James Quinn Fined $50 for Assault-An Indian Liquor Informer Contradicted.

James Quinn, the north end man, who was last winter charged with attempting to rob Loveless' grocery store, and who buried himself in a snowdrift in an endeavor to evade arrest, had another little escapade Saturday night, which cost him dearly. About 9:39 o'clock, Quinn, with an unknown man, was in the rear of Dean Bros.' bakery and residence on Richmond street north. A lady member of the family had occasion to go to the flour house, and seeing the two men she inquired what they were doing. The unknown weather was raw and cold. Despite this a jumped a fence and left, but Quinn seized her by the throat and com-menced to choke her. The appearance of a servant frightened Quinn, and he followed his partner over the fence and down a lane. He was arrested shortly afterwards by P. C. Lucas. In the Police Court this morning Quinn was convicted of common assault, and fined $50 or two months in jail. The fine was paid.

THE INDIAN INFORMED. Edward Patton, proprietor of Hod-gins' House, Talbot stret, was charged with furnishing liquor to Indians. The complaint, from all appearances, was made as a matter of spite. On Friday, Sept. 20-the last day of the Western Fair—George Fisher, an Indian from the Muncey reserve, was in the city, and stopped at Patton's hotel over night. It is said he left his room in a disorderly condition, and for the damage done and the night's lodging, Patton assessed him $1. With this, Fisher made a threat to lay a complaint, charging the landlord with selling liquor to Indians, and from information which he furnished the crown, the case was prosecuted. When put on the stand, Fisher said that on Sept 20 he was in Patton's bar with another Indian named Dan Madison and had several drinks of beer. To Mr. Love, Fisher claimed to be only a half-breed, and denied that he was ever arrested for perjury, or that an attempt was made to put him off the reserve because he was the worst Indian in the Chip-pewa tribe. He had blown himself pretty freely on the Friday morning in question, having spent over $2, treating his friends at Patton's bar. He had no intention of informing until he was charged $1 for his bed. Daniel Madison, Fisher's companion, swore he had three drinks at Patton's. Patton and his bartender, George Brownlee, positively denied having sold liquor to either of the Indians, and the case was dismissed. Fisher is of very light complexion, and could easily pass for a white man. The charge of assault against Peter Lewis was adjourned until Wednesday. The breach of bylaw charge against John McKenzie was adjourned for a

Spain Has Stepped on His Tail-An

Alleged Insult. Key West, Fla., Sept. 30.—Great excitement and indignation has been occasioned here by a report that marines from the Spanish cruiser Conde ds Venadito have been landed on the Florida Keys, north of here, to search for filibusterers. This is considered an outrage here and a gross insult to the United States. The Keys belong to Florida, and if Spain has a right to land searching parties on the Keys, it has also a right to land marines on the mainland. The State Department at Washington will be asked to investigate and demand an apology from Spain forthwith. So much indignation has been aroused here by the report that is feared the Spanish consul will openly insulted.

ROOT OF ALL EVIL.

Natives Thought Lenz's Wheel Was Silver and They Killed Him.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 30.—The executors of Frank Lenz, the bicyclist, who started to wheel around the globe, have received affidavits which circumstantially prove his murder. It appears that he was slain by the natives of Tehelkain, who thought his wheel was made of silver, and were excited by cupidity to obtain the treasure.

FOLEY SWALLOWED A FROG.

rywhere Foley Went the Frog as Sure to Go—and Croak.

ster, Sept. 30.-James Foley, of Wheat and, has brought suit against Philip C. Dickinson to recover $5,000 for damages to the plaintiff's health, alleged to have be caused by drinking impure water furnished by the defendant. The Foley and Dickinson farms adjoin, and Foley paid his neighbor $12 a year for the privilege of using water from the latter's well. A few weeks ago Mr. Foley was sitting with his family playing dominoes, when a peculiar grunting sound made the children

"What's the matter, James; aren't you well?" inquired Mrs. Foley. "Why, I didn't do that.

"Yes, you did, James. I heard you. Have you been drinking again?"

Mr. Foley was in the act of making a most emphatic denial, when the sound was heard again. "Yes, it comes from me, sure enough," he was forced to admit. Like a flash his mind grasped the true state of affeirs; he must have swallowed something. affairs; he must have swallowed something appeared for the defendant. in the drinking water, and it had grown inside him. To-day's suit for damages against Dickinson resulted. Mr. Foley claims that the animal inside of him is a frog. "I know it's that," said he, "for nothing else would make so queer a noise. Last month in church the frog took it into its head to kick up a fuss just as I was enjoying the sermon. First I knew it gave a big croak. Everybody looked at me, and of course I got embarrassed. Then it started to croak still louder. I couldn't stand that, so I got up and walked out. All the way down the aisle the frog, or whatever it is, kept making its strange and peculiar sounds. I'm afraid I've queered myself for that church.

"The worst of it is," continued Mr. Foley, 'they won't believe me. Everybody seems to think I am doing this for fun. I can't go to any little social gathering or prayer meetings without this infernal animal tuning up in my interior."

MAY CURE BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Cincinnati Physician Claims to Have a Remarkable Remedy.

Cincinnati, Sept. 30.—A physician in Cincinnati, who has made a study of the diseases, claims to have found a remedy which will absolutely and permanently cure dia fine. The Thomson Hall was crowded betes and Bright's disease. These dreadful afflictions are regarded by the medical profession generally as incurable, and necessarily fatal, except in rare instances. Certain it is, however, that the physician making the claim has already effected some remarkable cures. II has rescued from death a number of citizens of Cincinnati. The discovery of a cure for diabetes and Bright's disease must be a blessing to mankind. It is as important as the discoveries of Drs. Koch and Pasteur. The remedy, if one from Iowa. found to be what is claimed for it, should be given to the world.

The discoverer has proposed to some prominent citizens of Cincinnati to make a private test of his remedy with a very few ypical cases of diabetes and Bright's disase, free from any and all cost, the remedies and personal attendance to be without any charge, provided his cures, if they are effected, are certified by the patients. If unsuccessful, he will never make a claim for the efficacy of his remedy. The Commercial Gazette has been requested, in the interest of humanity, to state that if those suffering from diabetes and Bright's disease will send their addresses and a statement as to their condition, and briefly a history of their cases, to the editor of the Commercial Gazette, Cincinnati, their applications for free treatment will be considered. It is intended to select from the applications made a limited number of typical cases, covering the various stages of the two diseases. Desperate cases of Bright's disease are especially desired.

INTERESTING INTERVIEW.

An American Will Make Arrangements With a Canadian Firm.

Ottawa (Special), Sept. 30.—An American who has been here interviewing the members of the Government on private business has left for Toronto, where it is understood he will try and make an arrangement with the Dodd's Medicine Company, of that city, for the establishment of a manufactory of Dodd's Kidney Pills in New York State. He declined to specify the locality. During his stay in Ottawa he has been investigating the now celebrated case of G. H. Kent, who was saved by this remedy when in the last stages of Bright's disease, and has satisfied himself of the genuine nature of the case. He asserts that the medicine is now universally used throughout the State.

LOOKED LIKE A SPARROW'S SUI-CIDE. Aurora, Ind., Sept. 30.—The other afernoon a sparrow was seen to fly toward the steeple of the German Reform-

d Church, with a piece of string in its oill, and light on the church spire. Its singular actions attracted the attention of a number of spectators, and finally it became apparent that the bird had succeeded in securing one end of the string to the point of the steeple, and the other end about its neck. Then it hung and fluttered about until death ensued. The peculiar conduct of the bird impressed the witnesses with the thought that it was a studied case of suicide, and not an accidental hang-ing. The bird continued to sway in the wind, and while a number of its companions frequently flew about the steeple, they seemed to shun the struggling bird, and manifested none of that uneasiness at its fate which is usually the case with sparrows when one of their number is in trouble. After it had ceased to struggle the flying birds ut-tered a few shrill cries, and winged their way from that locality, as if to inform their mates of the death of their companion. Not a sparrow has appeared in that vicinity since. Give Holloway's Corn Cure a trial. It removed ten corns from one pair of feet without any pain. What it has done once it will do again.

DISASTER ON THE LAKES.

Steamers Stranded in Great Numbers-

Grave Fears. Chicago, Sept. 30.—Yesterday's storm on the lakes was one of the most violent and destructive of recent years. No less than eighteen vessels have been reported stranded at various points, while reports continue to be received of others flying the signals of distress. At Milwaukee the schooner Condor is long overdue, and grave fears are felt for her safety. Thirteen persons narrowly escaped drowning when the steam barge Kershaw went on the reef at Choclay Beach, breaking completely in two. Five steamers are grounded near Detroit and the barge R. J. Henry went to pieces on the rocks near the Saulte Ste. Marie. Several vessels lost deck cargo and also were stripped of all canvas, steering gear, etc.

A Clerk Seeks to Recover $2,000 From His Employer, Which He Is Said to Have Paid to Save His Reputation. Woodstock, Sept. 30.—The long-pending case of Miller vs. Krug, which by reason of the church and social connections of the parties to the suit, and the peculiar circumstances leading up to the action, has created much excitement in Tavistock and vicinity, came up at the Woodstock assizes on Thursday afternoon. The circumstanenes of the case are that in April of this year Frederick Krug, general merchant in Tavistock, accused his clerk, Abraham Miller, who had been in his employ over seven years, of stealing a sum of money. To settle the difficulty, Miller transferred certain securities, amounting to $2,000, to Krug. Miller sought to have these securities re-transferred on the ground that they were obtained from him by menaces and threats, and under duress. Krug denied that he received them other than by legitimate the term implies. It deals with stirring events, including a rescue from a lynching party, a murder, and the hero is even bound hand and foot, and an infernal machine set to explode at a certain time is placed beside him. The play gets its name from the fact that when the hero rescues the villain from a vigilance committee, the villain tears a Jack of Clubs in half and hands one part to his deliverer. The play was a big success in London and New York at Palmer's Theater, and Mr. Gustave Frohman has caste it with a very strong company, so that he has every confidence in its success on tour. A car load of special scenery is carried for the production. One of the strongest scenes in this play is where the villain, to save his daughter's life, seizes the bomb he has set to take his victim's life, and throws it through the window. It explodes before reaching the ground and the house is shattered. When the smoke clears away the villain's dead body is found in the ruins, the hero and heroine having escaped.

A PANCAKE DISAPPOINTMENT. One of Aunt Jemima's pancake trains passed through London at noon today. It consisted of fifteen cars filled with "Aunt Jemima" pancake flour, manufactured by the R. T. Davis Mill Company, St. Joseph, Mont., and was one of three trains, each headed for Boston, by different routes the other day. An idea had gone abroad that pancakes would be given away free on the arwet and hungry lovers of pancakes hied themselves to the Grand Trunk depot, only to find the train composed of ordinary freight cars, duly labeled and legally closed. The only man who a number of railroad men who had the pancakes in view while eating breakfast this morning, and left room accordingly, the disappointment was terrible. The engineer showed no disposition to slow up as the train drew in, and with thoughts bent on pancakes which appeared to pass in broad daylight, every unemployed person upon the platform, from the newsboy up to the station agent, began a systematic waving of hands. All this only added to the ultimate disappointment. The only way to remedy the evil is for Mr. McHarg to give a pancake party, and invite

CAN'T FIGHT IN TEXAS.

Legislators Want to Make Prize Fighting a Felony.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 30 .- Very few legislators have shown up, and a full quorum will hardly be on hand Tuesday. The sentiment of members heard from continues favorable to the immediate passing of a law making prize-fighting a felony, and all indicate a de-sire to prevent the Dallas fight. Gov. Culberson, in his message, will recommend a most rigid law, and urges its immediate passage with an emergency clause. It is intimated that he may recommend a law making gambling a felony. He will lay other matters before the Legislature, and it will probably be in session 30 days.

MANAGER SEARGEANT'S DENIAL Of the Reported Grand Trunk Changes -President Highly Pleased.

Montreal, Que., Sept. 30.-When spoken to Saturday regarding the reported changes and resignations of certain G. T. R. officials, Mr. L. J. Seargeant, general-manager, spoke as follows: The announcements in certain of the papers to the effect that there were to be certain changes are wholly unofficial, and may be regarded as having no significance whatever. The president, Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, and directors have, during the past six weeks, been over almost the entire G. T. R. system, and they have expressed themselves as highly pleased with what they saw. It is the intention of the new president and directors to report their conclusions to their colleagues in England, and I am under the impression that as such announcements as these you have called my attention to cannot be made with any authority until they have made their reports, any action that I may take in the future hinges on the report that may be made. I can only say that every reference to the condition of the Grand Trunk staff which has been made was most complimentary.

The operation of dressing in cold weather n the far north is so elaborate that it is difficult to understand how a deliberate boy or girl in Lapland can be ready for breakfast before dinner-time. First, two suits of thick woolen underclothing are put on, and over these goes a shirt of reindeer skin, with cloth bands to fasten at the wrists. Sometimes two of these shirts, or kaptas, are worn, and a reindeer skin vest beneath them. The trousers are of reindeer skin also. Two pairs of heavy woolen stockings are worn, and the child who puts these on when they are damp is sure to have trouble with his feet. Around the feet a peculiar Says McCarthy Will Hand His Followers Over to Balfour.

Montreal, Que., Sept. 30 .- Dr. O'Sullivan, of Limerick, Ireland, one of the delegates to the Irish convention held in Chicago last week, is in the city. He made a most startling statement today to the effect that a compact had been made between Justin Mc-Carthy and Arthur J. Balfour, by which the former promises the Government the support of his followers in return for Irish Home Rule. Dr. O'Sullivan says he had the news from McCarthy's own lips and is only afraid that the resolutions passed at the convention may interfere with the plan.

A LIFE SAVED .- Mr. James Bryson Cameron, states: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than a half-bottle cured me; I certainly be-lieve it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

"Only there's one down at the heel, I know," said Tizzy. "The servant's shoes!" this was an exclamation made by the maiden lady, and intended apparently only for her brother's ear, but it was clearly audible by all the party.

"Better that than no dinner," said

"But what are you to do about the dancing," said Fanny, with an air of dismay on her face which flattered me with an idea that she did care whether I danced or no. In the meantime Larry, now as

In about ten minutes a very light tap was heard, the door was opened to the extent of three inches, and a female voice, which I readily recog-nized, called to Jack.

Jack went out, and in a second or tyo put his head back into the room and called to me—"Green," he said, "just step here a moment, there's a good fellow." I went out, and there found Fanny standing with her brother.

"Here are the girls at their wits' ends," said he, "about your dancing. So Fanny has put a boy upon one of the horses, and proposes that you should send another line to Mrs. Meehan at Ballyglass. It's only ten miles, and he'll be back in two hours." I need hardly say that I acted in conformity with this advice. I went into Mr. O'Connor's book room with Jack and his sister, and there scribbled a note. It was delightful to feel how intimate I was with them, and how anxious they were to make me

"You have your wine to wink, and then there's the tea; and then we'll have a song or two. I'll spin it out, see if I don't." And so we went to the front door, where the boy was already on his horse-her own nag, as I afterward found.

"And, Patsey," said she, "ride for your life now; and Patsey, whatever you do, don't come back without Mr. Green's pumps—his dancing shoes, you know." And in about two hours the pumps did arrive, and I don't think I ever spent a pleasanter evening, or got more satisfaction out of shoes. They had not been two minutes on my feet before Larry was carrying a tray of a very unfortunate affair, but the "eph" negus across the room in those which and "cay" phell out and are lost. This I had worn at dinner.

"The Dillon girls are going to stay here," said Fanny, as I wished her good-night at 2 o'clock, "and we'll have dancing every evening as long as you remain.

"But I shall leave tomorrow," said I. "Indeed you won't. Papa will take care of that.'

And so he did. "You had better go over to Ballyglass yourself tomorrow,' said he, "and collect your own things. There's no knowing what else you may have to borrow of Larry." I stayed there three weeks, and in the middle of the third I thought that everything would be arranged between me and Fanny. But the aunt interfered, and in about a twelvemonth after my adventures she consented to make a more fortunate man happy for his life.

"I notice," sald Mr. Binks, as he folded up his London "Advertiser," "that the pictures of the autumn girl's new gowns give her a waist belt not quite as large round as her neck. Now, if that is to be the latest fashion, I pity Mrs. Binks, for what she is going to do with her superfluous inches is beyond my comprehension. Evidently those fashion plate young ladies are bound to sow misery among their imitators. 'Pon my word, though, if girls are to nip themselves till they can wear their collars for belts, or vice versa, we might as well order flowers at once! It will be a first-class funeral for some of them."

Queen Victoria's night cap-the real article, be it understood-is not a cap at all, but a very fine Shetland shawl, which protects the royal head from all insidious draughts. Besides, it is more becoming.

An Ohio woman has had her speech restored after six years of speechlessness. She probably wanted to ask for a bicycle.-Nashville American.

Among the neighborhood stories told and implicitly believed in the Massachusetts town of W. is one which we should be slow in asking any reader to credit, but which is interesting as an example of the local wit in story-making. The wife of Deacon Saunders, an excellent citizen of the place, is said to have possessed a parrot of exceptional intelligence and remarkable conversational powers.

On one occasion Mrs. Saunders was making cucumber pickles. She had the queumbers on the kitchen table, and was stirring a kettle of hot vinegar and spices over the fire with a wooden spoon. While thus engaged she charged to turn about, and saw the parrot making off with one of the cucum-

"Ha, you rascal! You've been stealing pickles!" she exclaimed, and threw the wooden spoon, dripping with bolling vinegar, at the bird.

It struck him on the top of the head, and though it inflicted no serious injury, its effect was to take the feathers entirely off the bird's head, leav-

Some time after a minister from another town came to preach at the W. church, and took dinner at Deacon Saunders'. He was quite bald. As the family and the minister sat down at the table, the parrot, who had the freedom of the room, came up and perched on the tall back of his chair. and eyed the top of his head with a close and highly interested scrutiny. And then the bird called out harshly:

"Ha, you rascal! You've been stealing pickles!"

Few people are aware of the quantities of lemons consumed in the United States. Three lines of steamships are engaged solely in keeping continuous cargoes afloat so as to daily arrive within Uncle Sam's domain, the importations in sum total amounting to fully $10,000,000 annually.

It is interesting to note the various stages through which a certain idea will go in women's frocks. Take the blouse. That at first was the old fashioned gar-ment full in both front and back. My lady decided that a loose back was ugly, so that was retired, and in its place came the tight-fitting back without any seams. No woman on earth is ever satisfied and the comfortable, loose-fitting blouse front became an object of irritation. It did not hang, it did not protect the under arm curve, one of the most graceful lines in a woman's figure. And she tugged at it and tried to make it hang flat in the center, when an idea took possession of her. She would make the front of her gown tight fitting, and on top of it, would put a very large flat box-plait, tucking it under the belt. That answered beautifully for slim maidens, and is still very much in favor with them, but those who are blessed with a sufficient quantity of flesh have gradually flattened that plait, with the result that they are wearing plain bodices.

To make them appear slim some have carried the long lines of the skirt up the bodices in the gown pictured. It is of blue crepon, with plaited panels of golden brown taffeta set in the skirt. The waist is slashed at each side, the front, and similar panels, which meet those in the skirt are inserted.

For Milady's Head.

The fall hat differs from the summer one in one particular very strongly. Whereas the summer hat had to be picturesque or lose all claim to distinction. autumn headgear has to be merely chic. Broad brims, crowns of many indentions and the like are tabooed and the trim little shapes which are most capable of developing into the "chic" beneath a skilful milliner's, touches have taken their places.

Bows of stiff ribbon, ospreys, quills and wings are the trimmings most favored for fall wear. They are set upon the hat with a sort of mathematical precision which is very charming when that adorns a fresh, young face, but which is trying in the extreme to worn ones.

The flower garden effects of the summer are, happily, to disappear. Those fall hats which boast any flowers at all will have them all of one variety. The warmer colored blossoms will be popular, such as nasturtiums and geraniums. Whenever they are used they are set in the midst of leaves, so that their brilliancy is toned down somewhat.

Some of the fall hats have set among their ribbon bows bunches of bright colored berries, which appear at this season of the year. A spray of barberries, a cluster of crimson partridge berries, a bunch of the red seed pods which come upon wild rose bushes in the fall, or a few bits of bitter-sweet berries are regarded as appropriate as well as pretty adornments.

A hat suitable for early fall wear is a combination of brown and white. The shape is a somewhat wide-brimmed, lowcrowned alpine and the material brown felt. The trimming consists of a low bow of brown ribbon placed exactly in the center of the front, with two white wings and a white osprey rising from it. The rim is edged with brown silk cord. A low, round-cornered walking hat in brown trimmed with brown ribbon, close balls of brownish-red ostrich feather and a brownish-red osprey is a pretty piece of fall headgear. Brown and yellow and brown and red are, by the way, two of the favorite fall combinations. A brown hat ablaze with nasturtiums ranging from pale lemon color through glowing reds and into rich brown is a triumph of the mil-

For the Children.

Small girls will blossom forth into Scotch lassies in remarkable numbers this fall. The bright plaids of the various clans will be used to make them kilted skirts and blouse waists, while Scotch caps turned back jauntily with quills will give the crowning touch to their Highland appear-

Short, double-breasted jackets will be worn by little girls this fall to the exclusion of every other small style of wrap. Big pearl buttons and small gilt buttons are both correct for fastening them, but it is needless to say that the brighter style is the more pleasing to the youthful wearers. A sleeveless velvet zouave jacket is a pretty addition to a little girl's bright silk or woolen dress. Only the merest scrap is required to make it and it is not only pretty but comfortable on chilly autumn

One of the new adornments permitted to children in this period of severe simplicity is the deep collar. Round ones of various Van Dyke designs are pretty and so are the square sailor collars of grasscloth and lace or of embroidery. The addition of either of these transforms a plain little frock into a thing of beauty in the eyes of its youthful wearer.

The Home of the Emperor of Austria. The residence of the emperor of Austria in Hungary, where he is supposed to assume his character of king of Hungary, is in the great palace, or bourg, which crowns the rocks at Often overlooking the Danube and the splendid city of Pesth. It was there where was preserved the crown of St. Stephen, king of Hungary, presented by Pope Sylvester A.D. 1.000, and regarded as the palladium of the Hungarian nation. The crown was removed by Kossuth during his campaign, but was returned to the chapel of the bourg in 1867. The palace is reached from Pesth by crossing the great suspension bridge which the students attempted to pass in vain recently.

SATURDAY'S GRAND OPERA. A large and fashionable audience greeted Marie Tavary's Grand English Opera Company at the Grand on Saturday night, the pit being entirely filled. At the last moment "Carmen" was substituted for "Les Huguenots," the company being better drilled in the former. Theo Dorre, who proved entirely capable. She has a splendid contralto voice and gave a most effective interpretation of her part. She was full of dramatic fire and acted with chic and vivacity. Sig. Michelena made a spirited Don Jose and displayed a resonant baritone voice. Max Eugene, the basso, is a giant in stature and has a robust, hearty voice. The work of the orchestra, under Carl Martens, was superb. There were two curtain calls during the evening.

LOVE LAUGHS AT LOCKSMITHS.

William Hyland and Miss Potter Were United in Wedlock Despite Parental Opposition.

Windsor, Sept. 30.—The gay Lothario never had more trouble in his courtship than had young Wm. Hyland, of Maidstone. Close to where Hyland lives is the farm of Wm. Potter, but for years the two families have not got along. Potter has a daughter, Jessie, who evidently thought pretty well of Hyland, but her parents ried to persuade her that she was doing wrong. For the last 18 months Hyland's efforts to see the girl and Potter's efforts to thwart them were the sensation of the locality. They had a free fight at church, and as a natural consequence the case found its way into the court in this city. Hyland, however, never let up on his determination to have the girl, and Potter was as watchful as ever. Shotguns have been used, but Friday Hyland outwitted Potter, secured the girl, and, driving to Comber, had the marriage ceremony performed. Both families are considered among the most respectable in the township.
