MANUFACTURERS WANT DUTY ON IMPORTED LEAF DOUBLED

Cigar Men Decide to Ask for Other Changes to Promote the Growth of Canadian Tobacco.

A most important meeting of the cigar manufacturers of Canada was held in this city Saturday. It was called for the purpose of discussing the raising of the duty on imported leaf and inaugurating but one stamp for cigars manufactured in Canada, the object being to protect Canadian tobacco and encourage its growth. The result of the meeting was that a resolution in accordance with the above was passed, though not unanimously. All the leading cigarmakers of Montreal were present or were represented.

The resolution carried embodied the following demands, which will be presented to the Government shortly. It was said at the meeting that the Government has already practically agreed to grant the requests:

First—That the present duty of ten cents a pound on imported tobacco be increased to twenty cents a pound.

Second—That the rebate of ten cents a pound allowed on cuttings of imported tobacco shipped out of Canada be done away with.

Third—That in future the Government issue but one stamp for cigars manufactured in Canada, no matter whether they be made from Canadian leaf or imported leaf.

The spectacle of manufacturers asking for an increase in the duty on leaf tobacco is somewhat unique, and it requires some explanation.

According to the statements of the manufacturers, who favored the idea, they are actuated by a desire to promote the growth of Canadian tobacco. They argue that tobacco fit for all purposes can be grown in this country, but that the Canadian article is suffering from the effects of an unwarranted prejudice.

They say also that the tariff mitigates against the Canadian article.

The Rebate on "Cuttings."

In the first place, the action of the Government in allowing the rebate duty of 10 cents a pound on foreign tobacco cuttings shipped out of this country, and refusing to allow Canadian cuttings to be exported, helps the foreign product, to the detriment of the Canadian article. At present the Government, actuated by a desire to be fair to the manufacturers, hands back the duty of 10 cents a pound on all cuttings of tobaccos which have been imported, when the manufacturers sell these cuttings and they are shipped out of the country. These cuttings go to Germany and France, as a rule, where they are made into cigars, cigarettes, cut tobaccos, etc. But the Government, in order to protect itself against any dishonest manufacturers, who might mix in Canadian tobacco cuttings with the imported article, for the sake of securing the 10 cents a pound rebate, lays down the law that if any manufacturer ships Canadian tobacco cuttings out of the country, he will get no rebate on any consignment of which they form a part. Thus there is an inducement for the manu-

CHICAGO HEBREWS RIOT IN CHURCH

Denounce M. Witte and Russian Tyranny During Service in the Synagogue.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—The police were called to quell a riot last night in the Russian synagogue, Clinton and Judd streets, where Adolph Crause was addressing a Jewish meeting. Several persons received slight wounds, and ten men and women were arrested. Mr. Crause was giving an account of his interview with Mr. Witte, the Russian envoy at Portsmouth, at which he asked justice for the Jews through Mr. Witte's good offices.

"We may trust the word of Mr. Witte that he will do all in his power to ameloriate the sufferings of the Jews," Mr. Crause was saying, when suddenly a member of Jewish society sprang to his feet.

"Do you trust a Russian politician?" he shouted.

Before Mr. Crause had time to answer, there was a shout from several hundred men and women in the audience: "Down with Witte." "Down with tyranny," came the shouts. While the excitement was at its height the doors of the synagogue were locked, and some one telephoned for the police. In a few minutes several patrol wagons, filled with officers, were on hand. The leaders were arrested, and the meeting was dispersed.

WANTS OLD MILL SITE

G. T. R Negotiating With Mr. Rumball for Bathurst Street Land.

It is understood that the Grand Trunk Railway is negotiating with Mr. Fred G. Rumball for the exchange of the property on Bathurst street upon which the factory of the London Box Company stood before the fire.

The company needs the ground to carry out its intentions of removing its rails south so as to do away with the present curve west of Richmond street, and it is said that it is willing to hand over the property on the southwest corner of Adelaide and Horton streets to Mr. Rumball for a site for a new mill, in exchange for the Bathurst street property.

Mr. Rumball is now largely interested in the Columbia Handle Company, the Crescent Milling Company, and several other firms, all of which are located in the immediate vicinity of the site now offered him for the planing mill by the Grand Trunk, so that the action looks like an advantageous one for him should he choose to accept the deal.

If the different works are consolidated it will mean that the southwestern section of the city will still further be benefited, as many men will be employed.

Good Farm Land.

Toronto, Sept. 25.—A. J. Halford, of Windsor, who has just completed a survey of the townships of Wesley and Moody, just west of Lake Abitibi, reports to the survey's department that most of the land in both townships is good agricultural land.

KEEP OUT OF IT, SAYS SOLICITOR

Mr. Meredith Advises City Not to Dabble in That Fence Trouble.

City Solicitor Meredith has written the city council advising that inasmuch as parties personally interested have seen fit to bring the matter into court, the city will do well to keep out of the dispute concerning the high board fence around the new building at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets.

Mr. Meredith, it is understood, also holds to the view that the contractor, under the bylaw, has the right to occupy one-third of the street, and that he may obstruct the sidewalk if he sees fit while building operations are going on.

As the matter now stands, if the fence is to be removed, the people will need to appeal to the courts, but it appears as though even then they will be none too sure of having the object of their grievance taken down.

CHANGING STREET NAMES

Bylaw Ready for Two Readings at Council on Monday Night.

The bylaw for changing the names of half a dozen city streets has been drawn up by City Solicitor Meredith, and it will be given a second reading at the council on Monday night next. Then it will be sent to the county judge for his approval, after which it will be read a third time and finally passed.

RIDDLED WITH BULLETS

Two In Head and Three In Body, But He Will Recover.

New York, Sept. 25. — After the removal of five 38-caliber bullets from his body, Joseph Guidivinski, a railroad detective, wounded on Aug. 18, in a battle with a freight thief, was pronounced yesterday to be on the road to recovery. The detective, according to the Fordham Hospital surgeons, presents one of the most remarkable cases of physical endurance that has ever come under their care. After his battle with the thief, Guidivinski was believed to be dead, but he was driven three miles to Fordham, where it was found he had been shot over the right eye, while another bullet had entered the forehead near the left temple, two lodged in the abdomen, and a fifth struck the left thigh, piercing the bone.

He revived, and was immediately put on the operating table. After three hours' work two bullets were removed from his head. Two weeks later an attempt was made to reach the bullets in his abdomen. One had lodged in the wall of the stomach, but the other was in the spleen. This necessitated a long and extremely difficult operation. Two minor operations followed, and the last piece of lead was removed yesterday.

CALLS WIFE TO SPEAKING TUBE TO HEAR HIM SHOOT HIMSELF

New York, Sept. 25.—Assenting reluctantly to listen to one last word from her husband, from whom she was estranged, Mrs. Henry Koch pressed her ear to the speaking tube leading from the vestibule of an apartment-house in East New York yesterday. A moment later she had sprung back with a cry of fear. Up the tube there had come the muffled report of a revolver. Ten minutes later, Dr. Whiton pronounced Koch dead. The man had called his wife to the speaking tube to hear him shoot himself. The wife told the police that it was impossible for her to live happily with her husband. In a letter found after his death, Koch declared the woman had forsaken him.

Koch not only besought friends to bring about a reconciliation, but called himself frequently in East New York to plead with his wife to return to him. Of late she refused to admit him. He appeared at the house early yesterday, and after ringing the bell, was accosted through the speaking tube. He asked his wife to receive him, which she refused to do. He pleaded with her to come down to the door, which was likewise refused. Then Koch begged her to listen a little longer.

"Listen, won't you?" he pleaded. "I promise you I will never ask you again to listen to me."

"Well, what is it you want to say?"

"I don't want to say anything," was the reply. "Only, listen closely." His voice was lost in the report of the pistol. The letter showed that Koch had planned the suicide.

ASSASSIN AT PEKIN

Blows Himself and Four Chinese Officers to Pieces.

Pekin, Sept. 24.—At the Pekin Railway station today, when one of the four commissioners appointed to study foreign systems of government was leaving, a bomb was exploded inside a private car.

Four officers were killed and twenty were seriously wounded, among them being Wu Ting Fang, former minister to the United States.

The would-be assassin, who was inside the car, was blown to pieces.

DANGER TO OCEAN LINERS

A Derelict Whale Is Floating Somewhere in the Atlantic.

New York, Sept. 25. — A derelict whale is the latest danger reported lurking in the middle Atlantic, directly in the course of trans-Atlantic trade. Last Wednesday the tramp steamer St. Andrew, of the Phoenix Line, in today, ran into a flathead whale, measuring eighty or ninety feet, and cut off ten feet of its tail. This portion of its anatomy is what the whale needs for steering apparatus, and deprived if it, the whale is like a rudderless ship.

The St. Andrew was not injured by the encounter, but the mutilated whale, according to the captain, will probably float there like the derelict of a ship and prove a menace to smaller craft.

IGICHI TRIES SUICIDE

Feels That He Is Responsible for the Loss of the Mikasa.

Tokio, Sept. 25.—Capt. Igichi, the commander of the battleship Mikasa, which was sunk in Sasebo harbor on Sept. 12 by explosions following a fire on board, was absent from the ship when the fire was discovered, but immediately went on board and did his utmost to save her. Since her loss he has been much depressed.

The captain collected the survivors and told them he considered himself personally responsible. After the audience he jumped out of a window, evidently with the intention of committing suicide. He was taken to a hospital in Sasebo, where he lies in a serious condition.

MENINGITIS OUTBREAK

Dread Disease Again Appears in Two Carlton County Townships.

Ottawa, Sept. 25. — Cerebro-spinal meningitis has again broken out in Torbolton and Huntly, and has also appeared at South March and North March, Carleton county, where it did not before visit. There are three cases in Torbolton, children of Mr. William Bresenoham, under the care of Dr. Wilson, of Kinburn, and Dr. Groves, of Carp. The latter has also six other cases under treatment now, four in March township and two in Huntley. The type of the disease is worse than what prevailed during the August epidemic. Six of the nine cases were paralyzed. Good hopes are entertained for the recovery of all the cases. Dr. Groves, who is medical health officer for the three townships, has quarantined them, and every house is placarded.

CHURCHILL'S BIG TASK

Is Trying to Raise a Moustache—May Marry Miss Wilson.

London, Sept. 25.—Winston Churchill, who is just about to start on a motor tour of the continent with the Duke of Marlborough, is filling a large place in the public eye just now. He has just completed the life of his father, Lord Randolph Churchill, for which three of the biggest publishing firms are competing. He is reported to be engaged to Muriel Wilson, the famous beauty of ten London seasons, and he is trying to grow a mustache. The last is generally regarded as the most difficult achievement of the three.

His book is looked forward to with keenest interest. A competent judge who has read the proofs of the first volume tells me he has been eminently dignified, thoughtful and almost judicial in the treatment of his father's career.

The domestic relations of Lord Randolph Churchill are necessarily only glanced at, the son concerning himself wholly with his father's public career.

Winston Churchill's alleged matrimonial designs on Muriel Wilson are an old story. He was said last year to be desperately in love with the Earl of Aberdeen's daughter, who has since married her father's secretary. His attentions to Miss Florence Padelford, Mrs. Ernest Cunard's daughter, also excited speculation, while for a time he raved about Gladys Deacon. As he has virtually no fortune, it is essential that his wife should bring him something, and Muriel Wilson will have a handsome dot.

JAPS STILL FEEL SORE

Memorials Against Ratification of Peace Now Number Hundred.

Tokio, Sept. 25. — The Emperor is giving personal attention to the memorials presented to the throne against the terms of the peace arranged with Russia. These memorials now number a hundred. The agitators who are trying to interview privy councilors, advocate the refusal to ratify the treaty of peace, and the public is almost unanimous in demanding the resignation of the cabinet. Even the moderates do not conceal their grief at the result of the negotiations.

CAUCASUS ARBITRATE

Tartars and Armenians Arrange to Settle Differences Peaceably.

Baku, Sept. 24. — A conference of representatives of the Armenians and Tartars under the presidency of Prince Louis Napoleon, Governor-General of the Caucasus, has just been concluded, during which the principal conditions of an entente were agreed upon.

Ten Armenians and ten Mussulmans, all millionaires, undertook to guarantee the strict observance of the agreement.

The conference also resolved to form an arbitration court to consist of five Armenians and five Tartars, which will draft the details of the agreement and remove any difficulties that may arise.

The agreement will become effective Oct. 14.

New Guns for Vigilant; Look Out, Mr. Poacher!

Quick-Firers Will Hurl Explosive Shell Four and Half Miles---May Not Conform With Agreement.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Sept. 25.—The department of marine has got four three-pounder quick firing guns lying at Halifax to place on the Vigilant, the Canadian cruiser on Lake Erie, but before doing so it has been decided to get the opinion of the imperial authorities as to whether this would be in conformity with the Rush-Bagot agreement of 1817. In that agreement it was provided that the largest gun on the lakes was to be an 18-pounder, muzzle loader, which would fire a ball about 300 or 400 yards. The quick-firing guns can send an explosive ball 4½ miles. Now the question arises would it be permitted under the agreement to have the modern gun on board. This point will be referred to the colonial office. The marine department here is determined to put a stop to the poaching of American fishermen on Lake Erie and the United States authorities are desirous of assisting.

Toronto, Sept. 25.—Hon. Dr. Reaume, Minister of Public Works, returned this morning from a trip in New Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia. The minister said today that the relation of the Booth and numbers of other American fishing companies to the Ontario fisheries department would be the subject of investigation. It has been unofficially stated that some of the boats engaged in the fish poaching operations on Lake Erie, though ostensibly chartered by the men who sail them, belong to American companies, which also, it is alleged, own boats operated in Ontario waters in the names of private individuals.

HUNS BOLDLY CENSURE KING

Francis Joseph Criticised for Not Listening to Parliamentary Statement.

Budapest, Sept. 25. — The executive committee of the coalition parties, summoned to discuss the situation arising from the ultimatum presented to the Hungarian leaders by the king-emperor, has passed what amounts to a severe vote of censure on his majesty and his advisers. The committee in the resolution expresses the deepest regret that the king-emperor did not listen to a statement by those who represent the majority in the Hungarian Parliament, and constitute therefore the leaders of the nation in its public affairs.

The committee further indignantly censured those who advise his majesty to take such a course, and approves the action of the coalition leaders in declining to negotiate with Count Golouchowski, and in declining the memorial presented by the king-emperor as a violation of the constitution and unsuitable for the settlement of the present constitutional conflict.

DEATH OF EX-ALD. BOYD

Had Served the City at the Council Board for Sixteen Years.

By the death at an early hour this morning of ex-Ald. John Boyd, another of the city's oldest residents is dead. Mr. Boyd was the eldest of five children of Robert and Mary Boyd, who emigrated to Canada from Ireland in 1861. He was born in King's county, Nov. 20, 1848, and was thus 13 years old when he came to this country. His father was a merchant tailor, who engaged in business as soon as he arrived, and continued until his death in 1888. His life was long identified with the interests of London, and his eldest son followed in his footsteps. In 1876, Mr. John Boyd was elected to the city council, and for sixteen years he served the city in this capacity. He was married to Miss Sarah Morris, of St. Marys (and a native of Scotland), in 1871, and their union was blessed with four children, all of whom survive—Mrs. Charles Hall, of Clarksburg, Mo.; Fred, of this city, and Agnes and Robert, at home. One brother and two sisters also survive—Rev. Thomas Boyd, Waterford, Ont.; Mrs. Alf Westland, Wyoming, Ont., and Miss Jennie Boyd, of this city. Deceased was a lifelong member of the Masonic order, and he was also a member of the I. O. O. F. and A. O. U. W. Many will remember him as one of the members of London's old-time fire brigade.

The arrangements for the funeral, which will be held from the family residence, 173 Mill street, have not yet been completed.

CLAIMS ESTATE OF ENGLISH DUKE

Australian Will Attempt to Wrest Title and Riches From Nobleman.

London, Sept. 25.—Very determined will be the attack to be made soon to wrest from the Duke of Portland his title and vast estates. So strong is considered the case of the claimant, George Holamby Druce, that a limited liabilty company with a capital of $55,000 has been registered at Somerset House under the title of "G. H. Druce, Limited."

Mr. Druce, it may be remembered, came to England from Australia in May, 1903. From that time he has been busy with his solicitor gathering every possible shred of evidence that bears on the famous claim. It is stated that everything is now in order for the reopening of legal proceedings in support of the claimant's contention.

Mr. Druce's claim is now, briefly, as follows: It is a fact that the present holder of the title and estates is descended from the third son of the third duke, while Mr. Druce claims that he is directly descended from the first son of the third duke, who was supposed at the time to have died unmarried and without issue, whereas he had married under the name of Druce.

This is what the claimant has to prove, but he and his solicitor, who have just left for the continent to rest after their labors, express themselves as quite confident of success. During two and a half years that Mr. Druce and his solicitor have been in this country a great deal of evidence as to the strange parallels of habits and eccentricities in the fifth Duke of Portland and Thomas Charles Druce, under which name he is alleged to have married the mother of the claimant, has been discovered, compared and collated.

Both were of the same height and build, and both loved to burrow in underground passages, Welbeck Abbey, the Portland seat, being literally honeycombed with subterranean works. Both had strong objections to wine and tobacco. Their portraits show remarkable resemblance. Both had the eccentric mania of constantly changing the position of things around them.

The story of the life of each alleged separate personality fits into the gaps in the history of the other. The fifth Duke of Portland is found to appear in public life when Thomas Druce is missing. When Druce reappears there is no trace of the duke.

Mystery in the dukedom claim has centered round a vault in Highgate Cemetery, in which Thomas Druce is said to have been buried. According to the claimant's theory an alleged burial of Druce on Dec. 31, 1864, was an imposture, an empty coffin being interred.

It is further alleged that Druce was seen and recognized by many persons after this date. Some of these persons are still alive. The death of the fifth Duke of Portland did not occur until 1879.

THINK SECRET IS OUT

Fear Germany Has Plans of Submarine Vessels.

Paris, Sept. 25.—Consternation reigns in French naval circles, according to the usually well informed Matin, owing to a fear that the plans of the French submarines have been obtained by German naval constructors.

Dispatches published recently in several papers stated that a submarine-boat had been launched at Kiel and that the vessel had been constructed on plans by a French engineer. It is asserted that these plans were treasonably sold to Germany.

M. Laubeauf, a naval constructor, upon whose plans the latest type of French submarine has been built, in an interview yesterday declared his belief that the boat launched at Kiel is a copy of the Aigrette. The description of the Kiel boat, which M. Laubeauf obtained, tallies exactly with the measurements of the Aigrette.

"That there should be merely a coincidence," says M. Laubeauf, "is impossible. The exact similarity of the figure implies a similarity of type in which the dimensions are the essential characteristics, and I cannot suppose that an engineer in Germany should have realized the type of the Aigrette without having my plans to work upon."

M. Laubeauf was asked how his plans could have been divulged, and in reply suggested that some traitor in the Rue Royale—that is, in the offices of the ministry of marine—must have had a hand in it, for the precautions taken at Toulon and Cherbourg were, in his opinion, sufficient to prevent leakage there.

Witte to See the Kaiser.

Berlin, Sept. 24. — M. Witte arrived in the Potsdam railway station this evening and was received by the staff of the Russian embassy. On Tuesday he goes to Rominten, one of Emperor William's famous hunting seats, situated near the Russian frontier, where he will have an audience with his majesty.

WILL UNCLE SAM DISCIPLINE CUBA?

Disorders of Island May Lead to Another War.

ARMY AND NAVY EXPECT IT

President Roosevelt May Intervene If the Internal Disorders Continue.

New York, Sept. 25. — The Tribune publishes the following from Washington: Nothing official came from Cuba today, but nevertheless occurrences such as those at Cienfuegos this week, when the American arms over the consulate were for the second time defiled and a prominent Cuban was killed in a political affray, awaken anxiety in army and navy circles. Officers of both services are taking account of their readiness for active service and feel that they are getting nearer to a campaign, which many of them believe is inevitable before a great while.

These officers look upon the present national campaign as likely to give rise to provocation which the United States cannot avoid meeting in the only manner possible to avert a state of anarchy and to prevent the annihilation of all the prosperity which this country has created.

One of the highest ranking and best posted officers of the army, who served in the island at the time of the American occupation, said today:

"Cuba may be able to take care of herself for a few years, but the United States will surely have to take hold in the long run. We all knew that when we evacuated Cuba, and everything that has occurred since has merely strengthened the conviction. Whether the republic there will last another year or two or fall in the present election, the first conducted without the supervision of the American troops, will make little difference.

"Fortunately the army was never so ready in all its history, not even in 1900, to undertake quick work anywhere. Only two months ago President Roosevelt thought it would be a good idea to test the new organization under the general staff by ordering five thousands troops to be assembled with urgent dispatch at Newport News, and landed as soon as possible at Portland, Me. The intention was kept secret until the Quartermaster-General could estimate the expense. The general staff was found to have its plans complete for this or any similar movement, including all railway and steamship accommodations, and was prepared to guarantee to have the troops at sea in this case within three days after the President issued the order, without any preliminary warning whatever to garrisons or carriers."

Inquiries made at the State Department today by several more or less interested persons regarding the authority of the United States to intervene in Cuban affairs, land troops or take other measures to suppress riots and restore order in the event of further political disturbances, were replied to with an emphatic declaration of the plenary powers of this country. Attention was called to repeated efforts of the Cuban Government to escape the provisions of the Platt amendment, and especially of article 3, which asserts that "the Government of Cuba consents that the President of the United States may exercise the right to intervene for the protection of life, property and individual liberty."

CATHOLIC FEDERATION

The American Military Orders Amalgamate and Form Single Camp.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Commanding officers of the Catholic Knights of America and of the Knights of St. John took the first step yesterday toward amalgamating the military orders in the country under the general name of Catholic Military Federation of America. The federation was organized by a committee from each order at a secret meeting held here.

Officers and an executive committee were elected, headed by Dr. Hubert Stratton, of Chicago, as president.

The federation represents a membership of 30,000 men, 20,000 of whom were members of the Knights of St. John, and the remainder members of the Catholic Knights of America.

FAVORS "T" RAIL

Engineer Says It Will Do for the South London Extension.

City Engineer Graydon is favorable to the proposal to allow the street railway company to put down "T" rails on the new belt line in South London. Those who are prominently identified with the scheme are also agreeable, so that it looks as if South London will have its new belt line in operation by July 1, 1906.

Mr. Graydon says the "T" rail is just as good as any other when it is not used on streets which are paved with asphalt or the like.

Schooner in Collision.

Detroit, Sept. 25. — The little Canadian schooner Vienna, laden with cedar, proceeding down under her own canvas, collided with the steamer Alconna at South East Bend, St. Clair River, yesterday, but the extent of the damage is not known. The Alconna was struck amidships. After the collision the Vienna went alongside the schooner Tilden, which was in tow of the Alcona.

BORDEN IGNORED BY CONSERVATIVES

Quebec Section of Party Repudiates His Policy.

FULL POWER TO BE GIVEN MONK

Neither Mr. Borden Nor Hugh Graham, of Star, To Be Invited to the Coming Convention.

Montreal, Sept. 25.—The Conservative party in the Province of Quebec are in open rebellion against the leader of the party, Mr. R. L. Borden, and the local leaders have decided that no invitation should be extended to Mr. Borden to attend the approaching convention.

The leaders of the party have held three important meetings during the past week, and in preparing the programme for the convention have made the first article one that renders it impossible that any invitation should be extended to Mr. Borden.

Further a decision has been reached that neither Mr. Hugh Graham, of the Montreal Star, nor any of his associates should be present at the convention.

The first action the leaders for the Province have decided to take, as officially stated by a leading official of the Lafontaine Club, will be to repudiate the stand taken by Mr. Borden on the school question in the new western provinces, and to claim for the Catholic minority the right to have separate schools.

A particularly interesting interview between some of the local leaders and Mr. Hugh Graham was described by the official of the Lafontaine Club as follows:

"When the leaders of the party went to see Mr. Graham the latter claimed that it was money that was needed to win elections in the Province of Quebec."

In answer the local leaders told Mr. Graham that he could keep his money and they would show that the Conservative party in this province did not need it.

"We intend not only naming Mr. F. D. Monk our leader, but we intend giving him a free hand, a thing he has never had up to the present time."

KANSAS BANK FAILS

A State Banking Institution Goes Into Voluntary Liquidation.

Kansas City, Sept. 25.—The Kansas City State Bank, W. O. Cox president, failed to open its door today, having gone into voluntary liquidation. The bank had loaned $168,000 to the Bank of Salmon & Salmon at Clinton, Mo., which failed last July owing depositors several hundred thousand dollars. The Kansas City State Bank was organized in 1888, and had a capital of $200,000. The last statement showed loans of $4,000,000; deposits, $4,750,000; surplus, $14,000.

The following notice was posted on the door at the opening hour today: "This bank has gone into voluntary liquidation through the Fidelity Trust Company. Checks drawn against this bank will be paid on presentation to the trust company."

Naval Base at Singapore.

London, Sept. 24. — The Sunday Observer says that the British Government has decided to establish a naval base at Singapore as part of a vast new scheme of imperial defense, which includes the compulsory purchase of the Tanjongpagar docks.

Battle Is On in Gotham.

New York, Sept. 25. — Campaigning for the control of the city administration for the next four years, and for the election of the county and borough officials throughout the city will begin in earnest today. Leaders of the Democratic forces will take active charge of the fight for Mayor McClellan's re-election.

Delegates from the Republican organizations, the Citizens' Union, and the Municipal Ownership League, will meet again tonight to make another attempt to defeat Tammany.

M. Caivaignac Dead.

Paris, Sept. 25.—Geodroy Caivaignac, who was Minister of War during the exciting period of the Dreyfus case, died suddenly today at his home at St. Calais, Department of the Sarthe, which he represented in the Chamber of Deputies. He was born in Paris in 1853.

Riot at Bull Fight.

Nimes, France, Sept. 24. — Twelve thousand spectators of a bullfight here today broke up the chairs, other seats and boxes and then set fire to the barriers surrounding the arena because the matadors refused to kill another bull as an encore after they had dispatched five.

ALL DISPUTES GO TO HAGUE IN NORWAY-SWEDEN AGREEMENT

Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 25. — The Associated Press has succeeded in securing the text of the protocol signed at Karlstad Saturday by the delegates appointed to arrange the terms for the dissolution of Norway and Sweden. The document will become a treaty when ratified by the two parliaments. It consists of five main articles, and 35 sub-clauses. The first article deals with arbitration; the second with the neutral zone, and the demolition of the fortifications; the third with reindeer pastures, etc.; the fourth with intertraffic, and the fifth with common waterways.

The agreement provides for the compulsory bringing before The Hague court of all disputes except matters of vital interest, for the period of a decade, with extensions for other periods of ten years, unless two years' previous notice is given of an intention to abrogate it.

The treaty provides for a zone on either side of the frontier, which shall forever be neutral, and for the demolition of the fortresses within that zone, with the exception of the old portions of the fortifications of Friedrickstein, Gildenloov and Overbjorget, which may remain, but which are not to be used as fortifications. A headquarters staff and garrisons may be maintained at Frederickstein to the same extent as prior to the erection of the new fortifications. No extension of the Konsvinger group of fortifications will be permitted, nor of the new forts erected within ten kilometers of the old fortress of Kongsvinger.

"First Aid" to the Bowels

DOCTOR CASCARET
Office = In your own Vest Pocket
On call any Minute-Day or Night

When Heartburn, Sour Stomach, Headache, Bad Breath, Coated Tongue, Belching of Stomach Gas, or any of these forerunners of Indigestion appear, Old Dr. Cascaret wants to be right on the spot in your pocket.

He wants to check the coming trouble instantly before it can grow into a habit of the Bowels to be costive.

Ladies, who extend to Dr. Cascaret the hospitality of their Purses or their Dress Pockets, will be rewarded with a fine complexion, and healthy Happiness.

These will about fifty times repay for the trifling space occupied, and the ten cents per week at cost.

* * *

Dr. Cascaret guarantees to cure the most obstinate cases of Constipation and Indigestion, without discomfort or inconvenience.

His medicine does not gripe nor purge, nor create a drug habit.

Because it is not a "Bile-driver," nor a Gastric-Juice Waster, but a direct Tonic to the Bowel Muscles.

Old Dr. Cascaret goes directly after these Bowel-Muscles. He wakes them up just as a cold bath would wake up a lazy person.

Then he works them (through the nerves) till they get so strong from that Exercise that they don't need any more help to do their duty.

But Dr. Cascaret wants to be right on the spot, in your Pocket or Purse, where he can regulate these Bowel-Muscles all the time, in health, and out of health.

Because, even the strongest Bowel-Muscles may be overworked.

Heavy dinners, late suppers, whiskey, wine, or beer drinking, nervous excitement, sudden exposure to cold or heat and a dozen other every day likelihoods tire the Bowel Muscles.

In such cases a little Cascaret in time is worth fifty dollars worth of Treatment later on, to say nothing of the suffering, discomfort, loss of Business Energy, and loss of Social Sunshine it saves.

BEAN MEN TO MEET

Ridgetown, Sept. 25.—On Sept. 29 the bean producers and dealers of Western Ontario will meet at this place to discuss means to secure better freight rates. It is also expected that plans will be made to lay the conditions of the Canadian beat industry before the tariff commission with the object of securing more protection. According to some of the producers California producers are able to monopolize the Pacific coast trade, while Ontario producers and dealers are excluded from the American market by reason of a prohibitory duty of 45 cents per bushel.

All producers are given an invitation to be present.

FELL BETWEEN RAILS

Engine and Two Cars Pass Over Him, But He Is Only Bruised.

Sarnia, Sept. 25. — An accident that might have been attended with fatal results happened at the tunnel yards of the Grand Trunk Railway Saturday morning.

That the young man did not lose his life or receive injuries that would cripple him for the rest of his days seems almost miraculous.

Shortly before 10 o'clock a freight train was brought through the tunnel by one of the large tunnel engines.

James J. Phillips, who is employed as a tunnel brakeman, was riding on the engine.

As the train was proceeding eastward Phillips jumped from the engine and was struck by an engine approaching on an adjoining track.

He was knocked down and the engine and two cars passed over him.

He fell between the rails, and this saved his life.

When picked up, to the amazement of his rescuers he was only cut and bruised.

Phillips is a son of G. L. Phillips, of Sarnia

ROMANCE IN HIGH LIFE

The Duchess of Marlborough Brings Happiness to Noble Lovers.

London, Sept. 25.—The appointment of Hon. William Walsh, son of Lord Ormathwaite, as private secretary to Ambassador Reid, has an interesting story hanging to it. When the engagement of Mr. Walsh and Lady Norah Spencer-Churchill, sister of the Duke of Marlborough, was first announced, it was understood that the Earl of Derby, on whose staff Walsh was when the earl was governor-general of Canada, would help the young couple

The Duchess of Marlborough was naturally interested in the welfare of her sister-in-law, and the earl, with a little pressure, offered Walsh the post of sub-agent, with a good house on his estate in Lancashire.

But the Countess of Derby, on thinking over the matter, discovered that as daughter of a duke, the wife of her husband's steward would go in to dinner before herself at any party they might attend together. This was more than she could stand, and the earl ultimately gave way. Walsh was informed that the proposed provision for him was impracticable.

The Duchess of Marlborough not only wrote Lady Derby, telling her what she thought of the heartless arrangement, but set to work to find something better for the young couple.

Eventually, by clever management, and the work of influential friends, Whitelaw Reid was persuaded that Walsh was just the sort of man to suit his purpose.

It is an open secret that the Landgrave of Hesse wanted to marry Lady Norah Spencer-Churchill, but she refused him. Had she done so, their children would have been royal highnesses, as he is royal, while the Duke of Marlborough's French title is also royal.

KITCHEN FRENZY, COOKS' FOE

German Scientist Diagnoses Strange Disease Affecting Chefs.

London, Sept. 25.—An eminent German scientist has discovered that the proverbial irascibility of cooks is a distinct type of hysteria, and classifies it as "kitchen frenzy." It is a nervous disease, capable of diagnosis, like any other. It is highly infectious and can extend from the servants of one family to those of neighboring families. It may even happen that entire districts may be infected.

The cause is usually found in the heat to which the victims are exposed, to excess of light, sometimes to long continued standing and other causes acting on the nerve centers.

In its earlier stages it manifests itself by sudden outbursts of temper in the midst of most serene surroundings without apparent cause. Hypochondria is not infrequently one of the symp-

A SHINING MARK

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Arthur Carr-Lyon sat huddled up in a chair before the fire, in the solitary dining-room of the house in Park Lane, his hands thrust deep in his pockets, his bloodshot eyes fixed with savage moodiness on the fire.

Two hours had elapsed since Jess had watched him enter the house, and it is scarcely necessary to say that he had spent the time in drinking. And now, with muddled brain, he was trying to realize his position and hit upon some way of escape.

For weeks past, in fact, since the night of the scene in the quarry, he had been drinking heavily, drinking and gambling, flinging vast sums—Desmond Carr-Lyon's money!—right and left, scarcely ever sleeping, and doing his very best—or worst—to bring about an attack of delirium tremens.

And now had come his meeting with Jess, the woman he had deceived and deserted.

"Curse her!" he muttered, with his usual facility of malediction. "I thought she was dead! She ought to be! Why isn't she? But no, it's just my luck! Desmond, who ought to be dead, is alive, and so is she! It is just like my luck, too, that I should have stayed in this cursed London! Another day and I should have gone."

The idea of taking flight never entered his head. He knew her too well to entertain any hope of being able to escape her.

"She's watching the house at this moment, I dessay," he muttered. "No, I've got to go through with it. Ten o'clock tomorrow, she said; if I forget it she'll come here and make a scene. What the devil shall I do?" He reached for the bottle of brandy, and, with an unsteady hand, mixed himself a glass. "What shall I do? Tell her I'm married! No; she'd—she'd tear my eyes out. I know her of old. What shall I do? If it were anyone else, money might settle it; but not Jess, not Jess! She didn't look poor, either. No; money is no use! Curse her! curse everything! What am I to say to her? I wish to heaven I'd spoken the truth when I said I wasn't married. It would have been better for me if I'd married Jess than the other one. Where is she, I wonder? With Desmond—with Desmond!" he repeated, between his teeth, and clenching his fist. "Oh! if I could see him lying dead here at my feet!"

Then he began to whine and whimper over the glass of spirits.

"I'm an unlucky wretch!" he moaned; "nothing ever goes right with me. I've been badly used all through, and by all of 'em; and now here's this cursed Jess turned up. And I've got to meet her at 10 o'clock, and she'll insist upon my marrying her, and then they'll have me for bigamy! For bigamy—"

Suddenly he woke with a start; so nesomeone had entered the room.

He looked round, clutching the chair and trying to rise.

"Who the devil—"

It was the major. The major, pale and haggered, with fear and horror written on every one of the dark lines which seemed suddenly to have been dug into his once suave and blandly complacent face.

"Arthur!" he exclaimed, with a hoarse gasp, shutting the door and leaning against it, "thank heaven, you're up—"

"Up, of course I'm up; middle of the day!" stammered the other, with a hiccough. "What d'ye mean by coming into a fellow's room in that—that scarecrow fashion?"

The major's hand went to his throat as if he were choking.

"Good heavens! drunk at such a time as this!" he exclaimed to himself, as he thought; but, like most tipsy men, Arthur's ears were sharp.

"Drunk! who's drunk?" he retorted. "You are, I should say, to look at you." And, indeed, the major's unkempt hair and general disorder were in such marked contrast to his usual neatness that it lent some show of reason to the retort. "What's the matter with you, and what do you stand there for like a ghost? Has Kate come back?"

"Kate!" and the major groaned; "don't talk about her, it's a waste of time. Arthur, for heaven's sake, try and pull yourself together. Something has happened— No!" and he put his hand on the weak and trembling arm as it strayed feebly towards the bottle, "leave that alone! You'll want all your senses. Good heavens, man, have you been like this ever since—"

"Yes," he assented, "ever since my—my wife deserted me," and he shook his head with a maudlin sigh.

The major grasped him by the shoulder and shood him roughly.

"Pull yourself together," he said, hoarsely. "I've news for you—bad news!"

"Bad news! Desmond—Kate—"

"I've just come from Sandford," went on the major, breathlessly. "Oh, take some brandy if it will restore what little sense you've yet left!" he added, desperately.

Arthur Carr-Lyon drained a glass and shook himself with a long shudder.

"Now then, what is it?" he stammered. "You look like a scarecrow or a ghost. What's happened? I want to go to bed—"

The major shook him again.

"I've just come from Sandford," he said. "Something has happened. A—a murder has been committed—"

Arthur Carr-Lyon sprang to his feet with a lurid flash of savage joy in his bloodshot eyes.

"That fellow has killed him! Desmond's dead!" he cried.

The major darted forward and pressed his hand over his swollen lips.

"Quiet, you—you fool!" glancing fearfully towards the door. "No, Desmond's alive! But—but he—that is, someone shot at him, and—and killed that girl at the quarry."

"My luck!—just my luck!" he muttred, thickly.

"They—Desmond and she—were together, it seems, and Vyse—I mean whoever it was—missed his aim, and shot the girl. It isn't known who committed the murder; but the hue-and-cry is out, and he'll be caught before morning—may be caught now! The whole place is up in arms! The streets are crowded. There was a rush to the railway station—"

He stopped, and wiped the heavy drops of perspiration from his ashen forehead. "Men are searching the place with torches—the women even! There's no time to lose."

"No time to lose?" repeated Carr-Lyon in sullen interrogation.

"No, not a minute! They'll catch the man—he can't escape! I tell you the whole place is after him! And—and he'll split, as sure as—as day is day!"

"Split, will he?"

"Yes. It will all come out," said the major, huskily, and looking round covertly, as if he already heard the mob at his heels. "There is not a moment to lose! I caught the train and came up here—I've stood by you to the last, through thick and thin, Arthur! I've come to tell you—I should have been on my way to Calais by now!—

no time!" and he began buttoning his coat.

Arthur Carr-Lyon stared at him with sullen gravity.

"Don't understand you," he said, thickly. "Why should I make haste? What do you want me to do?"

"What do I want? Good heavens, man, you're sober enough now to understand that every moment you stay here you run the risk of being found and arrested!"

"Arrested! What for?" demanded Arthur, with drunken cunning. "Look here, I don't know what you mean! I don't know anything of this girl or the fellow who shot her. If you do—and I suppose you do by coming here in this state—you've got no time to lose and had better be off. I don't know anything about it."

The major stared at him, speechless for a moment.

"You—you don't mean to say that you forget our meeting with the man—"

"Oh, no!" retorted Arthur, shaking his head till it was in danger of coming off; "I don't. I remember every word you said; could swear to it; but I can swear, too, that I didn't say a single word! Ha, ha!" and he laughed hoarsely. "If this fellow says he was incited to do this, you incited him, not me!"

The major grew a livid purple.

"And you'd—you'd turn against me, you—you white-livered cur!" he snarled.

"I'd turn against my own father to save myself," said the other, with charming candor. "As to white-livered, why, you said you'd brave it out—"

The major bit his lip.

"I hadn't seen the crowd then," he muttered.

"Well, I haven't seen it now," retorted Arthur Carr-Lyon. "But you're enough to frighten a fellow! But I'm not going to hook it. You do as you like."

"Yes," said the major, turning up his coat-collar; "perhaps you're right, Arthur. But I—I think I'd better go—ahem!—for a time. It will blow over—"

"Yes," stammered the other, mockingly; "murder generally does, doesn't it?"

The major winced.

"Can you let me have a—a little money?" he said, huskily.

Arthur Carr-Lyon deliberately turned his pockets out, and laid two shillings and fourpence on the table.

"If that's any use to you," he said, with gravity suited to the occasion.

The major glared at him.

"Sorry. Haven't any more. Been STORY—TWO vbg cmfwyppb cursed unluckly lately," remarked Arthur.

"There's—there's jewelry," said the major. "Kate's jewels. She didn't take them with her, I suppose?"

Arthur Carr-Lyon's eyes twinkled cunningly.

"No, and you don't!" he said, with a harsh laugh. "What do you take me for?"

"For a mean, ungrateful hound!" exclaimed the major, furiously, and he advanced upon him savagely.

"Lay a finger on me, you old scoundrel, and I'll ring up the servants, and give you in charge!" he cried, with a suppressed yell.

The major fell back.

"You—you cur!" he breathed, hoarsely. "You think you're safe, do you? You'll stop and face it! We shall see! You'll be a prisoner before this time tomorrow night, and—and I'll come back and give evidence against you!"

Arthur Carr-Lyon laughed.

"You come back!" he cried, with suppressed fury. "Yes, when they bring you back handcuffed. Get out of my sight, or I'll—"

His hand went towards the bell again, and the major, with a stifled oath, and a look of deadly hate, opened the door and hurried out.

Arthur Carr-Lyon fell back in his chair and burst into a fit of insane laughter. Then it died away, and he crouched over the fire shiveringly, and fell to thinking.

The night passed, the dawn came, and then the fuller day.

"Yes," he muttered, rising, and striving to steady his trembling limbs; "that's the best thing. Jess isn't a bad one! She's look after me! I'm sick of London — of England! Somewhere abroad! Yes, I always did like Jess! Shot the girl, did he, the fool! Why didn't he shoot that beast Desmond, then it would have been all right? But that's my luck; just my luck!"

Steadying himself by the banisters, he mounted the stairs to his own room, and taking off his coat, bathed his head with cold water.

Feeling sobered and refreshed, he collected the jewelry that lay about, put it in his pockets, and then went into Kate's room.

The miserable man had not entered it since he had discovered her flight, and at the sight of the bed in which she had not slept and her dresses that still lay about as she had left them, a feeling of desolation and coming ill fell upon him. But it did not soften him; and even as he emptied her jewel-case into his pockets he cursed her, and happening to touch the dinner-dress she had worn on the night of the marriage he dashed it under his feet and stamped upon it.

Then he went back to his room, and put on his overcoat, and, with a last glance round, descended the stairs and left the house.

The clock struck 9 as he went into the street; there was still another hour before he had to meet Jess; for even now he had no wish to escape her. He had made his plans. Together they would leave England, and somewhere—in Spain, where, he remembered, there was no extradition treaty—they would be happy.

He walked slowly towards the Embankment. Presently he came to a coffee shop, and, going in, got a cup of hot coffee, which he drank at a gulp.

It sobered and stimulated him; but as he left the place he was startled by a newsboy who sauntered down the street yelling:

"'Orrible murder in Devonshire! Capture of the hassassin! Full details! Mornin' paper!"

THE WEATHER TODAY—Fine and cool.

Fall Millinery Opening

Wednesday, Sept. 27th; and 28th, 29th, 30th.

This is our invitation to attend what we believe will be the Millinery Event of the Season—Our Autumn Opening. Our display is a most authoritative and comprehensive presentation of the correct styles for fall and winter wear. Side by side with charmingly beautiful Feather Hats from Paris, and smart Tailored Hats from New York, are exquisitely lovely creations, which speak highly of the artistic capabilities of our own milliners. This showing will serve to increase our millinery reputation and prestige.

SHAPES—The saying that history repeats itself is truthfully borne out in this season's styles. Shapes so much favored by the court ladies in the time of Henry II. of France, Louis XIV., and the Empire period have been revived for the fashionable ladies of the present time to wear this autumn and winter season. Many styles bend and curve gracefully in various picturesque ways. Sometimes the dips and curves appear almost saucy, so coquettish is the effect. Another noticeable and altogether pleasing feature is the smart military appearance of many of the shapes. All are types of a high order of millinery designing.

COLORS—Our exhibit is a scene of bewitching beauty. The lovely shades of the Queen's Browns and Alice Blues, the dull wood-browns, the peculiar smoke grays, the dark, olive greens, the brilliant peacock blues and greens, the exquisite wine shades, rival in beauty the colorings of the autumn foliage.

TRIMMINGS—Of course, Ostrich Plumes nod their graceful heads in welcome, but velvet predominates in the trimmings, with ribbons, birds, wings, flowers and buckles, adding to the enchantment of the scene.

Don't Miss This---Our Best Opening. Come and Bring Your Friends.

GLOVES OF QUALITY.

A well-gloved hand is essential to give the finishing touches of elegance to the fall outfit. Our gloves carry the trademarks of famous French manufacturers—gloves of quality—every one. Try on a pair. Note the accuracy of the fit, the shapeliness and gracefulness of the style. Feel the soft, smooth skins, how pliable they are—and on the elasticity depends the life of the glove. Then look how perfectly they are finished; the uniformity of the stitching; the security of the fastenings. No detail has been overlooked to make these gloves other than what they are—gloves of quality, fit to cover the daintiest hands.

WIRELESS AUTO TELLS OF STOCKS

Millionaire Receives News of Markets as He Speeks Along in Motor.

New York, Sept. 25. — Major William R. Wetmore, a millionaire resident of Allenhurst, N. J, and the oldest member of the New York Yacht Club, has contrived a scheme whereby he can keep in direct communication with his brokers in Wall street while he tours the New Jersey roads in his automobile.

A wireless telegraph instrument of his own construction has been placed in the tonneau of the car, and a similar instrument is in the railroad station at Allenhurst. There the station master, Fred Gerner, receives messages by wire from New York and transmits them by wireless to Major Wetmore.

It makes no difference where the major is, he can keep track of the rise and fall of stocks in which he is interested. Station Master Gerner says the instrument will transmit a distance of twenty miles and it is seldom that Major Wemore ever goes farther than this in his automobile.

Gerner says that there is no reason in the world why every broker owning an automobile should not equip it with this arrangement.

He keeps in constant communication with his office while he is traveling on Long Island or in New Jersey. If the batteries are strong enough and the coil large, messages can easily be sent forty and fifty miles.

The possibilities of the wireless automobile are so great that there is talk of forming a company to manufacture the instruments. The one in operation at Allenhurst is simple and compact, yet signals can be heard plainly for miles.

Young Gerner was of great assistance to Major Wetmore when he decided to try the experiment, Gerner is an expert operator and his experience made it possible to carry out the scheme. While the major worked on the batteries and coils Gerner rigged up a receiver and transmitter.

The transmitter is as crude as it could well be. Two pieces of board are fastened together in the shape of a cross, and copper wires are strung across these. The transmitter looks more like a lacrosse bat than anything else. The receiver is an ordinary telephone receiver.

Major Wetmore and Gerner are both telegraph operators. They understand the Morse code, and the code used in the navy. Conversation is kept up from the time Major Wetmore leaves his house.

The wireless instruments were installed in the automobile and the railroad station three weeks ago. Although purely an experiment at first, the arrangement has proved of such value to Major Wetmore that he will undoubtedly increase the power of the batteries and cells so that he will always be within speaking distance of Wall street.

WOMAN'S FIGHT ON THE MAFIA

Comes to America to Raise Funds With Which to Prosecute Murderers.

New York, Sept. 25. — Mrs. Germana Gueli, an Italian woman of Sicily, is in New York on rather a strange errand. The avenger in a Mafia murder trial which has dragged its course through the Italian courts for seven years, she comes here to raise money from the New York Italians to carry on her fight. She has not been very successful in this, and she will probably go back to Italy empty handed. Indeed she hasn't the money just now even to get back to Italy.

The story is an old one in Italy. Diego Maria Gueli was "chanceiler," or recorder, of Grotte, in Sicily. This is the center of the Mafia game in Sicily. The Mafia not only indulges in murder and graft, but it runs local politics

Diego Gueli was an honest man. He found that graft had been practiced in the management of a certain local public charity and began an investigation. He was warned to desist, but he kept on. So one night he was found stabbed.

He left six daughters. The eldest was Germana, a widow. Her husband's name was Nuovalone, but after his death, following a common Sicilian custom, she kept her maiden name. She had just lost her two children when her father was killed. There were no brothers in the family; it was for this eldest daughter to avenge her father Sicilian fashion.

Germana tried to get the authorities interested. They were only half-hearted. The fear of the assassin is over all that part of Sicily. She took the case in her own hands; she was her own lawyer and detective. In a few months she had worked up a case against two brothers named Zafuto, who had been concerned with the charity funds, and against a feudist of the Mafia who, she declared, was the actual murderer. At one stage of her work she dressed in man's clothing and worked in a vineyard in order to get evidence.

In 1897 she got the Zafuto brothers and the Mafia agent to trial. It was a sensational trial and attracted attention over Italy. Italian trials are often dramatic, and Germana Gueli furnished the climax here by rising up and denouncing the prisoners in court. They were found guilty and sentenced to long terms of imprisonment, there being no (legal) capital punishment in Italy.

There followed a long legal fight between this woman and the Mafia influence, which has all the "pull" in that part of Italy. There were new trials, changes of venue, appeals. Shortly after the first trial, Germana Gueli's chief witness was arrested—she says on a trumped-up charge—and the trial was reopened on the ground that he was not a fit person to give evidence. One change of venue sent the case to Potenzi, on the mainland. She had been earning her living and raising funds to prosecute by teaching in the public schools. She asked for leave of absence to go to Potenzi to the trial. It was refused—again because of Mafia influence, she says. Therefore she gave up her post. The last stage of the fight was made on money subscribed by her friends. In May of this year the Mafians secured a revision of the case, and the prisoners were set free.

By this time Germana Gueli had become almost a monomaniac on the case. A year ago, when she needed money she wrote a letter to Mayor ing him to appeal to the New York Italians for money. When the prisoners were discharged she used the last of her funds to work up the case against some other supposed accomplices. They were arrested and will be tried at Potenzi in October. By this time she was penniless. The story was an old one in Italy, and there was no one to help her.

Somehow she has always had the idea that the American Italians are rich. Last month she shipped for the United States in the steerage, armed with letters of introduction from members of the Italian parliament. An Italian newspaper took up her case, and a few dollars were raised by Sicilian haters of the Mafia. Then came the earthquakes in Calabria, calling out every dollar which the Italian colony can give for charity, and subscriptions stopped. The money has barely paid her board, and she will probably go back to Italy in October without a cent to show for her trip.

JAPS BEHEAD RUSSIANS

According to Russ Paper Are Acting Cruelly in Sakhalin.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 24.—The authorities here have received official reports from Siberian coast to the effect that the Japanese are pursuing a course which promise to result in the ruination of inhabitants of Sakhalin, north and south.

The Japanese are forcing the people to sell their property of all kinds at absurdly low and arbitrary prices and sign receipts for it at good prices under threat of death.

As an example of the extremity of the Japanese methods General Senemovsky, commanding the Alexandrovsk district, reports that 180 Russian colonists were led into marshes by the Japanese and were there decapitated.

STRICKEN CALABRIA

A Second Cyclone Adds to Horrors of Recent Earthquakes.

Rome, Sept. 24.—Another cyclone today caused enormous damage in Calabria.

Gradual clearance of the buildings ruined by the recent earthquakes shows that the number of persons to perish was greater than given in the first estimates.

Large numbers of bodies are being discovered.

Two thousand have already been completed and over 4,000 more will be necessary to shelter the homeless people who are sleeping in the railroad depots.

According to statistics 2,000 cattle perished during the earthquakes.

VERY MANY PERSONS die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly subdues the pain and disease.

CLEVER COMEDIAN IS RALPH RIGGS

"Florodora" Presented at the Grand Saturday—This Week at Bennett's Vaudeville.

"Florodora," the one-time fascinating musical comedy, was the attraction at the Grand Opera House Saturday afternoon and evening, drawing fair-sized audiences at both performances.

Were it not for the extremely clever work of Mr. Ralph Riggs as "Tweedlepunch," the production in the hands of the present company would be a failure. There is not a voice of merit in the cast, and the beautiful lyrics and choruses were very poorly rendered.

Mr. Riggs is, however, one of the funniest comedians it has ever been the privilege of Londoners to see. Though but a mere boy, he is already in the first class, and excels perhaps the majority of his contemporaries. His mother is the Lady Holyrood of the production, while his father is the business manager.

The rendition of the sextet, which made "Florodora" famous, was very weak.

The bill at Bennett's Vaudeville Theater this week promises to be of exceptional quality, and that it will be well patronized there is no room to doubt. The programme includes the following: Alfine and La Brant, a great hit, another mystery, novelty second sight or mind-readers; Jane Cawthorpe & Co., in a big sketch, "A Fisherman's Luck"; Wills and Barron, comedy sketch, "Hooligan, the Agent;" four Juggling Mortons, the original comedy club jugglers; Knox brothers, comedy musical act; Dawson and Whitfield, eccentric singing and talking comedians, and the kinetograph.

Matinee parties are becoming very popular at Benett's. The matinee habit is growing on the people of London, and each day an increase in the attendance is noticed.

New York, Sept. 25. — The success of "Zira," the new play on an old theme, which was played for the first time at the Princess Theater Saturday, hung in the balance until the middle of the third act, when Margaret Anglin, through sheer force of her remarkable emotional acting, moved the audience to such an exhibition of sincere enthusiasm as is not often witnessed, even on first nights. Miss Anglin's playing at this point was something more than a mere exhibition of familiar hysterics of the theater. It was a very faithful representation of a sort of emotionalism one might expect from a woman weakened by illness, maddened by the seeming culmination of a series of misfortunes, and goaded to despair by the unrelenting harshness of one to whom she had appealed for pity. To play such a scene as Miss Anglin played it on Saturday required manifold resources in the expression of rage, scorn, grief and defiance. In her eyes, charged with lightning, in her vibrant convulsive frame, in spasms of her voice, and in the ringing changes from high-pitched melodies of clearness to rasping gutteral hoarseness, the element of despair was sounded clearly and unerringly. It was not surprising that the audience rose in transports Miss Anglin's playing in the difficult scene of confession and in the simple passages in other acts was characterized by a simplicity and naturalness which justify the belief that she is one of the most satisfying artists on our stage.

TONIGHT AT THE GRAND.

A welcome visitor comes to the Grand tonight in the person of George Sidney in "Busy Izzy's Vacation." The company played the Grand Opera House in Toronto last week, and the Toronto Star has this to say:

"A rollicking, romping comedy vehicle, full of light and life and fun, is 'Busy Izzy,' the play at the Grand this week. 'Busy Izzy' has been seen in Toronto before—in fact, it is a favorite here, as was indicated by the bumper house last night, but this year the piece is considerably changed.

"Broncho Nell and her troupe of pretty maiden cow-punchers, some 20 in number, and all pretty, burst on the stage like a whirlwind.

"Whoa boy, what d'yer say?
Whoop 'er up and clear the way.
Let's gallop awhile around the town,
And let 'em know we've just come down.
Whoa, boy, spend the chink,
Nothing too good for you to drink.
A rip, a snort, a regular sport.
Whoa, boy, hip, hurrah, hip hurrah.
The Broncho Boy is here today.

"Fancy that sort of thing to a romping, ripping tune from the mouths of a troupe of 20 or more, who have simply cut loose, and you have some idea of the spirit of 'Busy Izzy.'

"Then, too, there is humor all through. The Dizzy Four, musicians and comedians, are continually working or cracking a joke that keeps the audience on the titter. The players are all capable, and George Sidney is as breezy as ever."

"HUMAN HEARTS."

"Human Hearts" will be shown at the Grand tomorrow afternoon and evening, at popular prices. The author has not minced matters in drawing his characters, and as the incidents of the play are based on real occurrences, he has not had to draw upon his imagination to invent a motive for "Human Hearts."

"THE SCHOOL GIRL."

A deep interest is centered in the approaching engagement at the Grand Opera House on next Wednesday night of "The School Girl," the famous comic opera in which Miss Vera Michelena plays the title role. Miss Michelena's remarkable success the last three seasons has been the topic of pages of magazine discussion, and it is very doubtful if there is a prima donna in America who has scored a greater triumph.

School life, frenzied finance, sentiment, an artist's jubilee, Japanese fetes and Parisian social life comprise the musical mixture that Leslie Stuart and Henry Hamilon employed in bringing into existence "The School Girl." The story of the play is from the pen of Henry Hamilton, who also wrote "The Duchess of Dantzig," and deals with a romantic convent school girl, who runs away from the convent to find the artist sweetheart of her schoolmate, and meets with many exciting experiences in her search of Paris. The musical numbers are from the pen of Leslie Stuart, composer of "Florodora," and they are said to possess all the melodic beauty that characterizes that famous composer's efforts.

"The School Girl" comes with a splendid reputation. In a recent article Alan Dale, the well-known New York critic, said: "It is one of two musical successes out of more than 40 presented in New York City last winter."

BACK TO COTTAGE FROM A PALACE

Poor Mother Pined for Daughter Adopted by Rich Brooklyn Family.

New York, Sept. 24. — Teresa Kimball Hyde, the pretty flaxen-haired child who became, four years ago, the adopted daughter of William A. and Frances H. Engeman, is again with her own parents.

Judge Aspinall, of the county court, Brooklyn, signed the application of Mr. and Mrs. Engeman abrogating the adoption.

Mr. Engeman, who is an officer of the Brighton Beach Racing Association, is rich. He lives at No. 105 Buckingham road, Flatbush.

The parents of the child are Hiram and Ellen Hyde, of Colchester county, Nova Scotia.

Mr. and Mrs. Engeman were touring in Nova Scotia, when, on Feb. 14, 1901, they saw little Teresa playing beside a brook near her home. In her arms was a doll, which she fondled and called pet names. At the edge of the brook lay the child's protector, a hansome St. Bernard dog, and near by was an apple tree laden with fruit.

Mr. and Mrs. Engeman were charmed by the scene. Alighting, they talked with the little girl. Teresa prattled about her dolly and her dog, Rover, which she embraced.

"Who are your mamma and papa?" Mrs. Engeman inquired. "And where do they live?"

Teresa escorted her now-found friends to her little cottage home, where they were welcomed by her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Engeman spoke of the love that entered their hearts for the little girl when they saw her with dolly at the brookside and expressed a desire to adopt her as their own.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyde at first demurred. It would break their hearts to lose their little girl. They then said they would give the matter consideration and expressed a desire to know more about the persons who wished to become the foster-parents of their child.

A few days afterward the information Mr. and Mrs. Hyde required was given to them, and they finally determined to intrust little Teresa to Mr. and Mrs. Engeman. Adoption papers were signed by the town magistrate, and Teresa went on to Brooklyn with her foster-parents.

The child was treated in every respect as if she were the real daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Engeman. A governess was engaged to educate her.

After little Teresa left her home there was a vacant chair in the cottage of her parents in Nova Scotia. At mealtime it was drawn to the table, and in front of it was placed the tiny plate, cup and saucer, knife and fork so often used by "Tessie."

During the four years that Tessie has been away from her parents Mrs. Hyde had grieved for her, and has constantly prayed for her return. The mother's health became greatly impaired.

Mr. and Mrs. Engeman being apprised of this, determined that the child should go back to her parents.

Burglars Repeatedly Enter House and End in Clubbing Girl.

New York, Sept. 25. — Irene Grossman, a girl of 16 years, was found, clubbed into insensibility, in the hallway of her home in West One Hundred and Forty-second, street, early today. The attack was the culmination of a series of nightly entries into the Grossman residence, which were to enforce, by Black Hand methods, payments of money for immunity from attack. Beginning Friday night, a negro visited the house nightly, appearing only to Miss Grossman, and escaping when frightened by her screams. Despite the lookout set for him by the family, he succeeded today in reaching Miss Grossman before she had a chance to give a warning.

The girl's brother told the police that his sister had started for an early morning walk, when she was attacked. He heard her screams and ran into the hallway, where he found her unconscious, but saw nothing of the man.

Immediately after the clubbing the police found two pictures in the Grossman home with the faces turned to the wall, and notes demanding money written on the backs. On the back of a photograph of Mrs. Grossman was written:

"We expect $900 from you.—B. F. C."

On the back of one of her daughter's pictures was written in the same hand:

"We expect $200 from you.—B. F. C."

In the two previous visits to the house the burglars had stolen several valuable pictures, and more than $400 worth of silverware.

Miss Grossman's injuries are not believed to be dangerous.

Provision for Consumptives.

The publicity given the case of Lephard, the Galt consumptive, has brought many offers of assistance, and will strengthen the agitation for public provision for this class of unfortunates. Lephard's pathetic letter to the Galt authorities explains the situation:

"The doctor tells me that I have consumption. I am unable to work, and am without means. Having the above-named disease I find it difficult to get a boarding-house. Consequently I am driven to the last extremity, and humbly request you to make some provision whereby I may receive proper treatment without endangering the lives of others.—Henry Lephard."

The Gravenhurst sanatorium will not take incurable patients, its object being to effect cures, if possible. There is only one institution in the Province which will receive incurables, but it is limited to Toronto patients. The Provincial Government is pledged to pay one-fifth the cost of any sanatorium erected by a municipality, but no municipality shows any intention of availing itself of the offer. The state of affairs disclosed by the Lephard case calls for immediate action, if not by the municipalities, by the Legislature. It has lately established an asylum for epileptics, the great majority of whom are incurable. A provincial hospital for incurable consumptives would seem to be as urgent. In the meantime medical men and health officers might do something to allay the unreasonable fear of consumptives which has taken hold of the public mind. The risk of contagion in a household may be minimized by the observance of a few simple regulations.

The exaggerated dread of consumptives makes the prospect of municipal sanatoria very remote, as no municipality cares to have a sanatorium within its boundaries. The National Sanatorium Association has done a noble work, but it is only a beginning. The association cannot fight the battle single-handed. Apparently we must look to the Provincial Government for the remedy.

Life Insurance Management.

Commencing with the difficulties of the Equitable Life Insurance Company in February last there has been an acute discussion on the subject of life insurance management. Life insurance in the United States has grown to such enormous proportions that it has become a very difficult problem to invest the large assets of some of the largest companies.

Investigations are being made by the Legislature insurance investigating committee, and one of the most important witnesses examined last week was Frederick Cromwell, treasurer of the Mutual Life. Mr. Hughes, counsel to the committee, questioned Mr. Cromwell very closely regarding the connection of the Mutual with various syndicates and subsidiary companies, the witness giving answers in detail with the utmost frankness and supporting his statement with documentary evidence. Upon taking the witness stand, he submitted the following statement:

"The law of combination which affects finance as everything else, has made syndicates necessary. When I became treasurer of the Mutual Life Insurance Company the total assets of our company were $100,000,000. The transactions in my department now are over $100,000,000 a year. When our receipts were less—20 years ago—it was quite possible for us to buy from bond dealers and pay the successive profit that might come with brokers, but now it is absolutely impossible to buy advantageously large blocks of securities, except as they are floated by these combinations of capital popularly called syndicates, and we have to go into them to get our investments and get them in sufficient size and at 'ground floor prices.' We could not make our investments without syndicates, and we are partners in every syndicate which we go into. I want to say further, that unless we went into these syndicates we would not be able to invest our funds except by buying in small quantities and paying the excessive profit of middlemen.

"I ask you, Mr. Hughes, and the committee, to consider that we have now over $450,000,000 of assets and have over $100,000,000 invested in bonds and mortgages, while we are constantly under the necessity of finding additional investments for our large accumulations of funds. That is the condition. It is no theory. It is a condition which we meet, and the exhibits are here which show how we have to employ it. Our investments are such that when Mr Tappan—I suppose about the most widely known and honored bank president in his day in New York—died, he left it as a condition that his trustees invest only in securities in which the Mutual Life Insurance Company had invested. This is the way we invested our money, but we could not make the transaction of $100,000,000 a year in the securities bought by this company without using syndicates."

Considering the gigantic sums paid out annually for investments, and the enormous annual income of these companies, they require the best business men it is possible to obtain in order to successfully handle their affairs. It ought not to be overlooked that while they are making investments of large sums they are paying out millions to those who have suffered the loss of the bread-winners. There has been a great deal of criticism and an attempt made to throw dust in the eyes of the public with reference to the connection of some of these companies with the different syndicates. Mr. Cromwell admitted that he had been a member of some syndicates, and during five years he had profited to the extent of $26,000, but he gave an explanation which is consistent with common sense. He was in favor of the companies subscribing to the investments, and the fact that the directors invested their own money in such securities proved them to be good. He claimed the right to invest his money wherever he saw fit, not withstanding his connection with the Mutual Life. On the witness stand he was asked. "If by reason of your trusteeship your liberty to invest your private funds as you please was curtailed, would you remain as a trustee of the Mutual?"

"No," was the reply.

"Could the Mutual have its present board of directors if they could not invest as they pleased?"

"I think not."

We believe that Mr. Cromwell's testimony is based upon sound facts. It is important that good business men become directors of life insurance companies, and they are entitled to make investments from their private funds as they see fit. The directors of these companies compete with all other great financial institutions, and they must have the assistance of the best men possible in selecting their investments.

There are one or two points worth noting. The investments in the companies referred to are very large. We have no such companies in Canada. There are no companies in Canada that find difficulty in making good profitable investments and nothing could be better for the upbuilding of Canada than such investments as will be made by these companies from their accumulated funds. They will be made no doubt with caution and good judgment, and will not be subject to much change in times of financial stress or panic.

The great blessings that life insurance have brought to the people by payments for losses by death are only a portion of the benefits. The number of large sums, yearly growing larger, invested by them, is a direct benefit to the business of the country, has a steadying influence and tends towards the transaction of business upon the soundest principles.

The Canadian Northern.

While public interest has been focussed upon the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Canadian Northern has been making its way across the prairies almost unnoticed. The announcement that it will reach Edmonton this autumn calls attention to the fact that in a few years three great railway systems will span the Dominion, as the Canadian Northern is steadily building up its eastern connections. A correspondent of the Toronto Globe, writing from North Battleford, says:

"The rise of new towns and their rapid growth along the line of the Canadian Northern Railway have been scarcely less wonderful or rapid than the advance of the road itself. Station after station at intervals of 25 or 30 miles apart all the way west of Kamsack, which is the first divisional point west of Dauphin, has been made the rallying center for a set of buildings such as go to make up the beginnings of a center of life and trade for the business and traveling public, and to which the farmers of the community can come.'

The thriving town of North Battleford with a population today of 500, has come into existence since the Canadian Northern entered it last May. The Canadian Northern is the most northerly of the three railway systems, the Grand Trunk Pacific lying between it and the Canadian Pacific from Winnipeg westward. Between Winnipeg and Lake Superior the Canadian Northern runs south of the C. P. R., cutting across a small portion of the State of Minnesota. Mackenzie & Mann have pushed their great undertaking unobtrusively, but with marvelous persistency and energy. They are both Canadians and the Canadian Northern will be a triumph of Canadian pluck and enterprise.

The elections are in full swing in the new western provinces. They will soon show whether they are well-behaved babies, or whether they will make the heads of the household at Ottawa sit up nights.

The latest judicial decision will send Gaynor and Greene to their own country unless their clever attorneys can raise another technical obstruction. The case has been a sad blot upon Canadian justice.

The increase in child-suicide in Germany suggests a doubt whether the country is not paying too much for its so-called educational progress. The stern regimen to which the German schoolboy must submit may develop brain power at the expense of health and happiness.

Autumn Leaves.

[American Illustrated Magazine.]

Flower and leaf of vine and tree,
Grass of meadow, weed of mire—
Summer gathered them to be
Faggots of the autumn's fire.

Smoke-like haze on vale and hill;
Flames of gold and crimson bright
Into life now leap and fill
Field and forest with their light.

All the glory of the year
Kindled into beauty so;
Soon the winter will be here,
Soon the curfew—then the snow.

So these lovely leaves I lay
In my book, all gold and red;
Embers for a winter's day
When the autumn's fire is dead.

Moral: Don't Scratch.

The Speed of Animals.

[Ottawa Journal.]

Mr. E. Thompson Seton has arisen to classify the speed of animals as follows: First the greyhound with a speed of 34 miles per hour, the race horse 32, American prong-horn antelope 30, jack rabbit 28, fox 26, coyote 24, foxhound 22, and American gray wolf 20. A man's best speed he works out at about 14 miles an hour. These animal speeds are stated to have been determined by actual observation with a stop-watch. If so, it was a very poor stop-watch that was held on the man, or else a very slow man the watch was held on. The English sprinter, Morton, who did 100 yards in 9 4-5 seconds in Montreal this week, went at the rate of a fraction less than 21 miles per hour. Of course, no man could keep up such a rate of speed for more than part of a minute, but how did Mr. Thompson Seton test the other animals? He could hardly have been holding a stop-watch on some of them for more than a few seconds.

Tommy's Idea of Them.

An Adaptation.

"Let me see," said the forgetful man, "what's the rest of that saying about 'Too many cooks?'"

"Well," replied the man who had just returned from Paris, "too many Cook's spoil the enjoyment of other tourists."

The Simple Life.

[G. K. Chesterton.]

One great complaint must stand against the modern upholders of the simple life—the simple life in all its varied forms, from vegetarianism to the honorable consistency of the Doukhobors. The complaint against them stands, that they would make us simple in the unimportant things, but complex in the important things. They would make us simple in the things that do not matter—that is, in diet, in costume, in etiquette; in economic system. But they would make us complex in the things that do matter—in philosophy, in loyalty, in spiritual acceptance, and spiritual rejection. It does not so much matter whether a man eats a plain tomato with a grilled mind. The only kind of simplicity worth preserving is the simplicity of the heart, the simplicity that accepts and enjoys. There may be a reasonable doubt as to what system preserves this; there can be no doubt that a system of simplicity destroys it. There is more simplicity in the man who eats caviar on impulse than in the man who eats grape-nuts on principle.

The Umbrella Days.

[The Khan, in Hamilton Herald.]

The umberella days have come,
The saddest of the year;
In every house and every home
There's bickering, I fear;
And this is where the trouble's found:
There ain't enough to go around.

The umberella thief is 'round,
The slickest of the year;
You've met the party, I'll be bound,
And wiped away a tear;
He will not need an umberell
In that fair land—er—where all is well.

The umberella girl has come,
Her shelter spread on high,
And with a sweet "Excuse me, please!"
She punches out your eye.
Oh, in life's wild and rainy whirl,
Evade the umberella girl!

The umberella days are come,
The gayest of the year
For I have got a chance to spread
My shelter o'er my dear;
For I have many things to tell
Beneath my blessed umberell!

A Dark Horse.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

It is generally supposed that the term "dark horse" is of American origin. But Thackeray used it in his "Adventures of Philip" before it became current in this country, and in exactly the same sense as we employ it. "Well, bless my soul!" Philip is made to say, referring to some mysterious candidate for the House of Commons, "he can't mean me. Who is the dark horse he has in his stable?"

The Word of Praise.

[William J. Lampton.]

It's an easy thing to say it,
And to say it good and strong,
And to say it pretty frequent,
For it helps a man along.
Oh, of course, you pay him money,
Doubtless all that he is worth;
But does money, man and brother,
Represent the best of earth?

What's the good of keeping from him
Any good thing you might say
That will lift his load of labor,
And is sometimes more than pay?
If he's worthy of your praises,
Do you think that's he'll be slack
If you tell him he's a good one,
And pat him on the back?

There are some who think it's praising
Not to raise a row and kick,
And they'll pay an extra dollar
To a chap that's extra slick;
But it isn't that that heartens—
It's the kind word and the thought
For the deed done and the doer,
Out of which the good is wrought.

As when the weary pilgrim,
Who has trod the long, hard way,
With its profits and its losses
Measured to him day by day,
Hears the kind words of the Master,
Like the songs of cherubim:
"Well done, thou good and faithful"—
It is heaven enough for him.

An Australian Theory.

[London Chronicle.]

With the death of Sir Augustus Gregory the last of the great Australian explorers has passed away. His demise recalls the most remarkable mystery in the annals of the Commonwealth. Fifty-seven years have passed since an exploring expedition commanded by a German scientist, Ludwig Leichardt, set out from Sydney to cross Australia from east to west. To this day nobody knows what happened to that exploring party. Not a scrap of paper, not a solitary relic of its fate has ever been discovered. It must have been either overwhelmed in some natural convulsion or absolutely annihilated by the blacks. Sir Augustus Gregory led two expeditions in search of it, one of them organized by the Royal Geographical Society.

Harvest Service in a Field.

[London Chronicle.]

At Ranworth, in Norfolk, the vicar revived an old custom by conducting a service in a cornfield on the conclusion of harvest, to which all engaged in the ingathering and the parishioners were invited. A Psalm was read, prayers offered and two hymns sung, after which the vicar gave a short address. The whole harvest service lasted but a few minutes.

The old custom of ringing the "gleaning bell" has again started at Irchester. This bell rings when the church clock strikes the hour of 8 in the morning and 6 in the evening, and the custom is that no person may glean in the fields before the bell rings in the morning and after it is rung in the evening.

Maiden Names in Other Lands.

[London Chronicle.]

When a woman is married in this country her maiden name is seldom mentioned. Many people to whom she is very well known have never heard it. In France, on the contrary, there are constant reminders of the earlier dignity. In Belgium marriage does not extinguish it, for many married women often combine the old name with the new. Moreover, they put the maiden name last, thus giving it the greater distinction. We can illustrate this by supposing the custom to prevail in this country. In that case Miss Brown, when she married Mr. Robinson, would have her visiting cards printed: "Mrs. Robinson-Brown." This double-barreled arrangement does not give the Belgian wife a better social status than the English wife's, but it is very soothing to feminine pride.

English and Canadians.

The truth is that we do not know each other properly, and we make little effort to get acquainted. The English people know us by the backwoods stories that reached them 50 years ago, and the photographs of Niagara in winter or of our governor-generals clad in furs; we too often know them by the helpless waifs that drift here from the crowded cities of England, or by the superior type of Englishman who looks upon the colonial brand as inferior, and until he gets a few hard bumps treats us accordingly.

Young Preacher—Fine. The congregation actually raised my salary this month.

Family Friend—How much was the increase.

Young Preacher—There was no increase. They merely raised it, that's all.

Mayor's Report.

[Toronto Mail.]

A protest against the report has been sent to Britain by the Manitoba Government. The Winnipeg Board of Trade has taken the matter up. The Dominion Government cannot ignore the mischief. If British emigrants are to be induced to give Canada the preference, the interior department must see that actual facts about our west are presented in readable form to the people of the United Kingdom at large. Something should be done at once to counteract the damaging effects of this report.

Tired. Nervous Mothers

Make Unhappy Homes—Their Condition Irritates Both Husband and Children—How Thousands of Mothers Have Been Saved From Nervous Prostration and Made Strong and Well.

Mrs Albert Mann Mrs Chester Curry

A nervous, irritable mother, often on the verge of hysteries, is unfit to care for children; it ruins a child's disposition and reacts upon herself. The trouble between children and their mothers too often is due to the fact that the mother has some female weakness, and she is entirely unfit to bear the strain upon her nerves that governing children involves; it is impossible for her to do anything calmly.

The ills of women act like a firebrand upon the nerves, consequently nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues," sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the female organism.

Do you experience fits of depression with restlessness, alternating with extreme irritability? Are your spirits easily affected, so that one minute you laugh, and the next minute you feel like crying?

Do you feel something like a ball rising in your throat and threatening to choke you; all the senses perverted, morbidly sensitive to light and sound; pain in the ovaries, and especially between the shoulders; bearing down pains; nervous dyspepsia, and almost continually cross and snappy?

If so, your nerves are in a shattered condition, and you are threatened with nervous prostration.

Proof is monumental that nothing in the world is better for nervous prostration than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; thousands and thousands of women testify to this fact.

Mrs. Chester Curry, Leader of the Ladies' Symphony Orchestra, 42 Saratoga St., East Boston, Mass., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"For eight years I was troubled with extreme nervousness and hysteria brought on by irregularities. I could neither enjoy life nor sleep nights. I was very irritable, nervous and despondent.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended and proved to be the only remedy that helped me. I have daily improved in health until I am now strong and well, and all nervousness has disappeared."

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I suffered a long time with ovarian trouble having intense pains in the back and abdomen and very sick headaches every month. I was tired and nervous all the time and life looked very dreary to me and I had no desire to live until I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to get some relief. My recovery was slow but it was sure and I have never regretted the money spent for the Compound as it brought back my good health."

Women should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the medicine that holds the record for the greatest number of actual cures of female ills, and take no substitute.

Free Advice to Women.

Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write to her for advice. Mrs. Pinkham's vast experience with female troubles enables her to tell you just what is best for you, and she will charge you nothing for her advice.

CHICAGO RIVALS IN AIR FLIGHTS

Woman Drops Into Auto and Knabenshue Swept Away by the Wind.

Chicago, Sept. 25. — Two rival aerial navigators — a man and a woman — were "up in the air" for fifteen minutes and came to grief just as Old Sol was winking his last wink at Chicago Saturday afternoon.

A. Roy Knabenshue, in his airship, decided against his better judgment, and made a flying attempt from White City that landed him in the wilds of Englewood. Mme. Meixell left San Souci Park, hanging by her chin from the trapeze of a parachute attached to a "hot-air" balloon, rose to a height of 1,000 feet and alighted in the tonneau of an automobile standing at the entrance to the Washington Park race track.

The balloon, contrary to intention and precedent, came with her, and for a time the smell of gasoline and black smoke enveloped the two machines, while the frightened chauffeur tried vainly to escape the frantic kicks of the pink-tighted aerial performer, whose exploit had rudely broken in on his peaceful slumbers.

Neither of the adventurers was hurt, although Mme. Meixell will be obliged to purchase another pair of tights.

Knabenshue's quick and birdlike ascension and his subsequent descent into Englewood came at the end of a week's tiresome waiting for Chicago's famous lake breeze to calm down. Each day the young inventor has risen with the sun, along with those who are interested financially or otherwise, and watched in vain for the elusive zephyr.

Saturday he decided to make the trial anyway. During the forenoon the wind was blowing from the north at a rate of twelve miles an hour, and as soon as it shifted to the east Knabenshue prepared for flight.

At 5:30 o'clock the aeronaut, declaring that he fully expected to lose control of his machine, straddled his narrow seat and the ropes were cast aside. With her big propeller whirling, and the immense gas bag straining every inch of the netting that covered it, the airship rose, "nose first." Thousands of people stood in the amusement park, and cheered, while a larger number, crowded around the Washington Park track at the close of the Marathon race, added their plaudits.

With seemingly lightning speed the big machine rose to a height of about 2,000 feet when, as if struck by a sudden gust, she careened. Ten thousand hearts rose in ten thousand throats and women hid their faces.

Then the airship started to fly sidewise in a southwesterly direction. About a mile away from White City, she began to descend. When the craft was 300 feet from the earth the engine stopped, and Knabenshue, pulling all the while at the gas valve, threw out a long rope. A little later the end was caught by several persons standing at Sixty-ninth street and Yale avenue, and the young aeronaut was pulled down to earth.

Knabenshue declared he had realized from the first that the wind was too strong to make a successful navigation possible. He probably will remain at White City another week in the hope of making his scheduled flight to the Masonic Temple and return.

Mme. Meixell's escape from death or serious injury was almost miraculous. At the beginning of her ascent the balloon struck a wire guy rope in the grounds, and it was with difficulty that she retained her hold upon the trapeze bar. When she tried to release the parachute the affair refused to work, and she was compelled to wait until the hot air had partially cooled, and the balloon descended of its own accord.

WROTE WOULD DIE; THEN TOOK DRUG

Windsor Man Attempts Suicide at Guelph, But Is Saved by Telegram.

Guelph, Sept. 25. — C. W. Sterling registered at the King Edward Hotel here Saturday.

About 2 p.m. one of the newspapers received a message asking if a man of that name had committed suicide.

The reporter was sent to the hotel to inquire.

He and the proprietor went to Sterling's room and found the door bolted.

When it was forced open they found Sterling lying on the bed under the influence of a strong drug, and a doctor was immediately called in. Sterling is supposed to be from Windsor.

He may recover.

Windsor, Sept. 25.—The C. W. Sterling, who was found in a Guelph hotel suffering from the effects of a powerful drug, is a resident of Windsor.

He notified his friends here Saturday morning that he would be no more when they received his message.

He tried to commit suicide in the International Hotel a few months ago by taking a dose of laudanum.

It is reported that he was pulled out of the river two months ago nearly drowned.

There were no domestic trouble, but it is possible that business worries have upset his reason.

What is called the twelve children act of the late Mercier Government, whereby a farm of Government land was given to every father of a family of that number, has developed the interesting fact that the French Canadians are far more prolific than any of the other races of the Dominion, though even with them the number who are qualified to take a claim under the law is small. Only about 6 per cent of those benefiting by the act are of English, Scotch or Irish descent.

WAR CLOUD LIFTS FROM SCANDINAVIA

Norway and Sweden Agree to Dissolve Union

WITHOUT A RESORT TO ARMS

Norway to Take Plebiscite to Decide Upon Form of Government—Will Have No Dane to Rule.

Garlstad, Sweden, Sept. 25.—The prolonged nature of the Karlstad conference indicates at once the difficulty the delegates found in coming to an agreement. The suparation of the twin kingdoms thus will be effected without what would have been civil war, and is received with general relief.

When King Oscar has approved the terms for presentation to the Riksdag, the treaty can be effected without recourse to a foreign chief of state as umpire.

The scope of arbitration is a compromise between Sweden's limited and Norway's wider proposals, and the treaty comprises also an alliance regarding the independencce of the Scandinavian peninsula.

A factor arousing interest is the determination of the Norwegians to hold a plebiscite to decide the future form of government. Sentiment in favor of a republic is increasing. The King's decision that no Swedish prince can accept the throne of Norway is understood in Denmark likewise.

The agreement between the delegates of Norway and Sweden means a peaceful solution of the political crisis, which threatened to embroil the two nations in war as a result of Norway's move for a separate consular system.

The crisis in the controversy, which has been going on for 300 years, came on June 7.

The two states were united under one king until last June, having separate governments, but only one central authority. There always has been more or less friction between the states, Sweden, it is claimed, being anxious to dominate Norway completely. This had the effect of stirring the national spirit of the Norwegians, and hastening the day when the bonds of union would be severed.

Both retained their own flags, both maintained their own armies.

The flag issue was one of the most important raised. The flags of Norway and Sweden always have been different, although similar in their general features. The ground of the Swedish flag is blue, and that of the Norwegian flag red. Both had the same jack in the corner. Indignation over what come to be looked upon as attempts to hide Norway under the cloak of Sweden reached such a pitch that a demand was made for the removal of the jack from the Norwegian flag.

King Oscar, who was opposed to a rupture of the relations between the two countries, called a special meeting of the Swedish Riksdag to consider the situation. This body authorized the Government to negotiate a loan of $25,000,000 for works of defense, and declared the harbors of Stockholm, Kariskrona, Gothenburg and Fopesund to be war ports, from which all foreign war vessels were to be excluded.

The Riksdag finally adopted resolutions agreeing to a dissolution of the union, one of the conditions being a referendum vote by Norway on the question of separation. This vote resulted 388,000 for separation and 184 against.

Delegates from the two countries then met at Karlstad and reached an agreement, after both states had mobilized their armies and a clash seemed almost inevitable.

VANCOUVER G. T. P. PACIFIC TERMINUS

Road Thinking Seriously of Abandoning Port Simpson, Says Windsor Man.

Detroit, Sept. 25.—Edward Kenning, a Windsor lawyer, has received word from British Columbia that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway will eventually decide on Vancouver as the western terminus of the road. Mr. Kenning says that many arguments are advanced in support of this prediction, and although the G. T. P. officials have not even intimated that Vancouver is under consideration the rapid advance in real estate in the northern part of the city leads to the belief that there is some foundation for the rumor.

"Fort Simpson is 600 miles away from the regular route of ocean boats," said Mr. Kenning, "and if the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway expects to compete with the C. P. R. and other transcontinental roads in carrying freight from the Pacific Coast to the eastern markets, the road will have to secure the same advantages or else expect to make less money.

"If the terminus is placed near Fort Simpson it means that the vessels engaged in business with the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway will have to travel 600 miles further than boats calling at Vancouver, besides making the return trip to the regular ocean course. This will occupy time and fuel, and will be a large addition to the expense of delivering a cargo to the G. T. P. or receiving one consigned to the Orient. The present proposed terminus is also so far north that there is no agricultural land in the vicinity, and there will be no inducements to settlers who desire to follow farming pursuits. The site of the town is also a barren spot and not one that will attract residents unless it be those who secure situations on the new road.

"When the C. P. R. was constructed the city of Vancouver was ignored as the western terminus, but the company afterward realized its mistake and later ran its line into the city. There is a natural harbor in front of the city, where the entire British navy could anchor, and this is a great inducement to vesselmen, as it is land-locked and makes a secure haven in times of storms.

"Further up the coast there are no natural harbors, and it will be far cheaper for the G. T. P. to construct a line down the coast than to attempt to found a new city and have vessels run 600 miles out of their course."

Newfoundland is developing a new industry, in the form of selling whale meat in place of beef. One of the dealers says that the new meat tastes more like venison than beef, and plans are already being made to ship some to England, where it is expected that it will sell for at least 12 cents a pound.

'TIS WELL TO KNOW A GOOD THING.—Said Mrs. Surface to Mrs. Knowwell, when they met in the street: "Why, where have you been for a week back?" "Oh, just down to the store for a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil," and Mrs. Surface, who hates puns, walked on. But she remembered, and when she contracted a weak back there was another customer for Eclectric Oil.

WAR LORD AGAIN WORRIES EUROPE

France, However, Likely to Escape a Fight.

WHAT'S KAISER'S REAL GAME?

English Think Berlin's Influence at St. Petersburg at Present Is Very Strong.

London, Sept. 25.—Germany's increase in her Morocco demands last week is having a different effect on France than was created by Emperor William's bellicose attitude in the early summer. There is no longer any talk in Paris of yielding to the war lord for the sake of peace.

That old lion of French politics, M. Clemenceau, suggests that Emperor William is discounting the failure of the conference, and asks:

"Can it be that Morocco is only the first card in the game of William, who is anxious to enlarge his fatherland? They talked early in the summer of coming to France to take the milliards required for the reconstruction of the German fleet if it should be sunk by the guns of the British ships. We were then told by authorized voice that if England declared war against Germany the latter would pounce upon us, even without our giving her any pretext, and take us as hostages. I do not think that ever in modern times a civilized power has manifested sentiments so closely bordering on pure savagery.

"I see clearly that an attempt is being made to frighten us into opposition to England, but as far as we are concerned, fright cannot take the place of reason."

Others also point out that the Kaiser has done his utmost to turn the Czar against France and it is generally admitted that the alliance has been so weakened that France could expect no help from Russia in case of war with Germany. This view of the situation excites no alarm, however.

Brilliant and able stateman, though he is, one cannot fail to note in the German Emperor's recent treatment of France a radical defect in his diplomacy which more than once has brought him discomfiture in dealing with enlightened nations. Either through misinformation or blinded by his doctrine of sovereignty by divine right he fails to understand the attitude of the mind of a free people. A score of times within recent years he has shown his belief that it can be cajoled, hoodwinked or bullied and in a majority of the cases the effect of his attempts to manipulate it to his own end have been the opposite of that he intended.

The uneasiness created throughout Europe by the Kaiser's obscure activities during the last few months, has been fully shared by a large section of his own people. Herr Bebel, the Socialist leader, severely criticised last week the unwise agitation in the German world policy which has accomplished nothing except doubtful participation in the settlements of the Morocco question. He pointed out that Germany had gained nothing from the great opportunity given her by the embarrassment of Russia. On the other hand, she had alienated France, which was watching her with most suspicious eyes; had increased the soreness of Great Britain, which originally sprang from other and quite removable causes, and was scarcely in a better position than she was before the Russo-Japanese war began.

The world is entirely dark in regard to what the Kaiser's immediate ambition really is and if this is his object he has accomplished it with exceeding cleverness.

There was yesterday a significant demonstration of German influence in the foreign press in the repudiation by the Novoe Vremya of the English suggestion of an Anglo-Russian understanding on the basis of British consent to Russian occupation of Constantinople. The Spectator justly remarks that the language of the Russian journal indicates that it was inspired from Berlin and amounts to a declaration that no nation can venture to come to an understanding with Great Britain since such an understanding would be construed by Germany as an unfriendly act.

AWAY WITH SENATE SAY LABOR MEN

Government Also Asked to Give Canada a Legal Eight-Hour Day.

Toronto, Sept. 25. — The Trades and Labor Congress are again on record as favoring the abolition of the senate instead of having it an elective body as their second resolution on the question provided. There was a phrase in the resolution characterizing the Upper House as a "political graveyard to which money was the open sesame."

Another resolution upon this vexed question urged trades councils and unions to demand that all political candidates give a definite promise to support legislation in the next session of Parliament to oppose the "usual and recently-increased supplies of the senate."

The congress passed a resolution calling attention to Canada's deficiency in technical education, and authorizing the executive to request the Provincial and Federal Governments to enact legislation permitting the mechanics and artisans of Canada to enjoy the privileges of education on lines of electrical engineering, chemistry, wood-carving, modeling, etc.

The Dominion Government will be asked to pass an act providing for a legal eight-hour day throughout the Dominion.

Fatal Quarrel Over a Woman.

New York, Sept. 25.—In a quarrel between two white men over the affections of a negro woman, a murder was committed last night in Oyster Bay. The victim was John Murray, a laborer. He was shot by an Italian, who escaped, with the authorities in pursuit. The murder occurred in an alley just off one of the principal streets of the town.

MILLIONS GONE; ROMANCE OVER

Capitalist Roger Morgan Falls From Vast Wealth to Absolute Poverty.

New York, Sept. 25.—Colonel Roger Morgan, once a multi-millionaire—son of the late Elisha Morgan, founder of the Envelope trust—and who emulated the example of John Ruskin, by wedding a woman whom her husband freed to permit the nuptials, astonished his financial friends in this city yesterday, when he filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court.

Not the least singular feature in the marvelous career of this man is that he is now as poor as the former husband of the beautiful girl he wedded—the husband who stepped aside and relinquished his wife of nine years that she might be married to the Colonel and enjoy for life the wealth that such a union promised.

Colonel Morgan today has not a penny, according to the schedule he filed with his petition. Indeed, he is in debt. He gives his liabilities at $81,618. His assets he places at $2,550. The 500 shares that he owned in the Hopper-Morgan Company, of Watertown, N. Y., are already pledged to pay debts, the petition declares.

Incidentally it may be mentioned that this company has been forced into the hands of a receiver, and the members of it, other than the Colonel, say the reason is that he issued notes of the company for $160,000 to Boston firms until a trust company could be organized. The trust company did not develop.

Colonel Morgan, at the death of his father, was regarded as one of the very richest men in this country. Indeed the news that he had actually been reduced to poverty was received by many yesterday with incredulity.

He was apparently in the hey-day of his business prosperity, carrying forward many of the enterprises in which his father had been interested when he selected Benton Harbor, Mich., for his summer home in 1899. It was there that the Colonel met Mrs. Sadie Pipp, the young woman who is now his wife. As Sadie Pease, she had been married to Pipp, a baseball player, some nine years before. They had lived an ideal life until the advent of the dashing millionaire.

He established himself at the best hotel in the place and maintained a costly retinue of servants. Later, he built a summer home. News of the dinners and balls given on a grand scale by the bachelor millionaire speedily made him famous.

Mrs. Pipp came of a fine family and she, too, moved in the best circles of Benton Harbor. Her beauty and accomplishments made her a favorite. Colonel Morgan became attracted from the very first.

It soon became known that he treasured more than a passing interest in Mrs. Pipp. He was often her escort on drives, where the presence of others rendered such attentions proper. In a year it was all too clear to Mr. Pipp that he had lost the heart of his wife. Then did the husband, with the heroism of which martyrs are made, offer to peacefully give up his wife to allow her to obtain her freedom to marry the man she loved better than she did himself.

Mrs. Pipp went to California, and in 1900 she was granted an absolute divorce from her husband on the ground of non-support. She was wedded by Colonel Morgan in December of the same year, and they came to New York. The Colonel, with a delicate regard for the feelings of the discarded husband, gave up his elegant summer home at Benton Harbor.

Four years ago Colonel Morgan was rated as a multi-millionaire. He had large holdings here and in other cities. In the summer the Morgans spent most of their time in Springfield, Mass., and Mrs. Morgan there became a social favorite. The match was apparently a very happy one, for, though Colonel Morgan is many years older than Mrs. Morgan, his devotion was always so marked that intimate friends had frequently commented upon it.

The Thin Man's Danger

He can't resist disease germs—that's why he's such a mark for consumption. In this land of plenty, thinness is wickedness, especially when it's so easily overcome with Ferrozone. This remarkable tissue builder makes you fat quickly; it does so by forming blood that's rich, nourishing and health-giving. Ferrozone supplies the nutriment needed by worn-out nerves, rapidly constructs muscle and fatty tissue. The form fills out, the cheeks redden, proving that weight is being added. To be well and stay well, use Ferrozone. Fifty chocolate-coated tablets in a box for 50 cents, or six for $2 50 at all dealers.

Manufacturers Want Duty On Imported Leaf Doubled

facturer to use foreign tobacco, as his cuttings of the Canadian article are a dead loss to him.

Then, as to having but one stamp for cigars, manufactured in Canada. At present there are four stamps known to the cigar trade. They are as follows:

Black Stamp—For cigars made in Canada from imported tobacco.

Pink Stamp—For cigars made in Canada from mixed domestic and imported stock.

Green Stamp—For cigars made from Canadian tobacco alone.

Injures Canadian Leaf Cigars.

It was the opinion of a majority of the manufacturers present that this system of issuing stamps injures cigars made from Canadian tobacco. They favored the issuing of a stamp—the black one—to designate the strictly imported article, and but one stamp for all cigars made in Canada. It appeared to be the opinion that if but one stamp is issued, the smoker will not be able to differentiate between the cigar made from Canadian tobacco and the cigar made from imported stock.

Consequently, the prejudice now existing against the Canadian article would be wiped out in time, and the manufacturer would naturally use the Canadian leaf instead of importing stock, inasmuch as there would be no rebate on cuttings of imported tobacco, and the present duty would be doubled under the new tariff, which is to be asked for.

A vigorous fight was put up against these arguments by five local men, one of them being the largest manufacturer in London. While they are as patriotic as anybody, and would like to see Canadian leaf used altogether in this country if possible, they argued that time and again it has been demonstrated that Canadian tobacco will not do for the better grade of goods. At present but one manufacturer in Canada is using Canadian tobacco for cigars to sell in this country. Hiram Walker lost thousands of dollars experimenting with the Canadian leaf.

They asked the question, why not be loyal and maintain the cry of "Made in Canada?" Why should not the cigar which is made in this country from Canadian tobacco be protected by a special label?

They argued, too, that in course of time, if only Canadian tobacco is used, the standard of cigars made in this country will be reduced so that a market will be created for cigars made in Cuba or elsewhere. In conclusion, they let it be known that they will lay their side of the case before the Government when the request, as given above, is presented.

Another meeting is being held in Toronto tonight. Friday night a meeting of the local manufacturers was held, and it is understood that they were then against the proposal to increase the duty on imported stock and to have but one label, but after hearing several of the eastern men go over the case, they changed their minds, or at least, a number of them did.

A Manufacturer's View.

Speaking of the matter with an Advertiser reporter today a manufacturer said that some of the men who were behind the scheme are tobacco growers, as well as cigar manufacturers, and they will make more money out of the new order of things if they ever go into effect, than they are now making out of the cigar business.

"I will never vote for the one stamp because it would simply mean that the public would be deceived," he said. "They would have no means of knowing whether the cigars they were buying were made from imported leaf or from home-grown stock—not until they had bought and tried the cigars. Why not allow Canadian-grown tobacco to stand on its merits? Why not allow the green label to stand, which shows that the cigar which bears it was made in Canada from tobacco grown in this country?

"Then why should the cigar which is made in a foreign land from foreign-grown tobacco be protected by a special label, while the cigar which is made in this country from imported tobacco is given no protection whatever?

"As to the rebate of 10 cents per pound, which the Government now allows the manufacturers on cuttings of imported stock, stopped out of Canada, it appears to me that the Government profits largely on the deal. If the rebate was not allowed the manufacturers would use these cuttings in their cigars, but instead they ship out the inferior article and import first-class stock to take its place, paying the Government the duty of 10 cents a pound."

THEY CLEANSE THE SYSTEM THOROUGHLY.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills clear the stomach and bowels of bilious matter, cause the excretory vessels to throw off impurities from the blood into the bowels, and expel the deleterious mass from the body. They do this without pain or inconvenience to the patient, who speedily realizes their good offices as soon as they begin to take effect. They have strong recommendations from all kinds of people.

STOCK MARKETS.

H. C. Becher, stock broker, next Free Press building, received the following by private wire from Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington today:

New York, Sept. 25. — Noon. — The opinion has been entertained for some days that the strength of the market was largely due to the professional operations, and doubts were expressed whether, when an attempt to take profits occurred, the market would be found to be in a strong enough position to absorb liquidation without reacting sharply. Today the market was put to the test, and it was disclosed that when the professional operations ceased there was comparatively little buying power. Sales to noon, 385,400.

CROP SENDS UP PRICES

Big West Harvest Advances Land Figures About 30 Per Cent.

Ottawa, Sept. 25.—C. W. Speers, general colonization agent of the department of the interior, is in the city. He says that immigration into the west this year is continuing longer than usual. The immense harvest, which will reach 100,000,000 bushels, has increased the value of land about 30 per cent. He had met many farmers who had 35 bushels and 40 bushels per acre. Workers in harvest fields got from $2 to $2 50 per day and they were scarce at that price. There were hundreds who went west from Ontario for the harvest, and about 50 per cent will remain. Other years about 10 and 15 per cent remained.

Mr. Speers looks for an invasion next year from the United States. The efforts of the United States people to direct immigration to the Southern States were somewhat successful this year, but the parties were not very well satisfied, and the big harvest on the Canadian side will be sure to bring them across next year.

Freethinkers Dine on Top of Eiffel Tower.

TOASTED ROBERT INGERSOL

Paris, Sept. 25.—Freethinkers from all countries of the world have just met in this city at a congress which opened with a unique banquet on the first platform of the Eiffel Tower.

The tables were set for 2,000 guests, and when the banquet began every seat was filled, and to the small hours of the morning the ungodly delegates kept the neighborhood awake.

America was well represented, and toasts were drunk in memory of the late Robert Ingersoll, to whom glowing tributes were paid. Many of the speeches were made in English.

In the face of strong opposition from the clergy, the city of Paris nevertheless officially welcomed the delegates to the congress. At the Hotel de Ville they were received by M. Paul Brousse, president of the municipal council, and the majority of the members of that body.

Even religious people heartily approved of many of the purposes of the congress, which, among others, adopted a strong resolution in favor of universal peace and outlined a most practical scheme of international agitation against war. Among the most eloquent speakers at the meeting of the congress was M. Anatole France, one of our most ardent Socialists and a firm believer in the splendid possibilities of democracy.

Even the bitterest opponents of the Kaiser must admit that he is forever thinking of promoting the interests of the country he represents.

An instance which shows how the ruler of Germany keeps an open eye on all opportunities to increase the export of German manufactures is told in the Globo, of Madrid.

Two years ago under the auspices of the "Maquinista Terrestre," a competition was held at Barcelona to decide the superiority of locomotives of various makes in view of the contemplated improvements of the rolling stock of Spanish railroads. German locomotives of a certain make showed many points of superiority which made them desirable in preference to others on Spanish roads, the only objection to them being their price, which was too high.

Shortly afterward the Kaiser visited the plant of the firm at Esslingen and the manager expressed to him his regret at not having been able to place his locomotives in Spain. "Never mind, my dear director," the Kaiser replied, "I shall look after that; it is a question of honor for Germany."

Recently another competition was held and the German locomotives now being offered at prices considerably lower than those of English and American engines, the Essingen firm was awarded the contract.

It appears that the Kaiser had ordered his minister of finance to give the firm a subsidy large enough to enable the manufacturers to underbid all competitors.

A paternal government at times has its great advantages.

An unexpected field of research has been opened to science by the announcement made by Commandant Darget on the subject of photographs of human radiations.

At a recent meeting of the Societe Universelle d'Etudes Pyschiques in this city photographs were made by Darget which had been obtained by the operator merely touching the sensitized plate with his fingers on an absolutely dark room for ten or fifteen minutes, while at the same time fixing his thoughts on a certain subject.

Without this concentration of mind the plates showed no mark whatever. On developing the plate the image of the object thought of, or even of a scene called up in the mind by the operator, was found to be fixed on it, evidently by the emanation of rays not yet known to scientists.

Camille Flammarion, the famous astronomer, is, I am told, exceedingly interested in the discovery, and intends to devote considerable time to investigation of thought photography.

This city, always the Eldorado of aeronauts, has decided on the founding of a unique institution, a school for the training of aeronauts.

On the site where stood formerly Theater Columbia, near Porte Maillot, a public aerodrome is being built where men, young or old, are to be instructed in aeronautics.

In the place are already several balloons, captives, which are able to ascend to a height of 1,200 feet. A garage for the storage of the airships belonging to the members of the Aero Club is connected with the aerodrome.

The craze for aeronautics among the upper ten thousands now amounts to a mania which has supplanted automobilism.

India has three and one-third times as much foreign trade as Japan; three times as much as China, easily beating Italy and Austria, also Belgium, and surpassing the Russian Empire by 25 per cent.

Madrid still has the medieval night watchmen. They admit late comers to the apartment houses at night, but no longer sing out the hour or the condition of the weather.

A spinster says that a stolen kiss is better than no kiss at all.

Things that go into the ears of gossip drop out of their mouths. Honesty buys and sells things; dishonesty steals and keeps them.

Only the sweetness of love's young dream doesn't seem to interfere with the dividends of the sugar trust.

LONDON JUNIORS OPEN AT SARNIA

Schedule Arranged by a Sub-Committee of the O. R. F. U.

At a meeting of the sub-committee of the O. R. F. U. held in Toronto on Saturday night, the schedule for the junior series was drawn up. London opens at Sarnia on Saturday next. The schedule for the three districts in close proximity to London is as follows:

District No. 1.

Sept. 30—London II. at Sarnia.
Oct. 6—Sarnia at Petrolea.
Oct. 14—Petrolea at London II.
Oct. 21—Sarnia at London II.
Oct. 26—Petrolea at Sarnia.
Nov. 4—London II. at Petrolea.

District No. 2.

Oct. 6—Parkhill at Stratford.
Oct. 13—Stratford at Parkhill.
Clinton, a bye.
Oct. 20—Winner Stratford vs. Parkhill at Clinton.
Oct. 26—Clinton at winner of Stratford vs. Parkhill.

District No. 3.

Oct. 7—Galt at Woodstock College.
Oct. 14—Woodstock College at Galt.

It is expected that another team will be entered in this district.

COMPANY GETS ANOTHER OFFER

Hamilton Said to Have Made a Second Bid for Another Concern

It was rumored today that the London Machine Tool Company has received another offer from the city of Hamilton to locate there, as well as an offer from another town to pull up stakes and leave London.

The Hamilton proposition, it is said, embodies a tempting offer of cheap power, and it is now said that it is as good as settled that the firm will leave London.

It is expected that a definite announcement to this effect will be made within a few days.

Acting Mayor Stevely, when seen today, stated that he had no information on the subject.

"If it is possible to keep the firm here I would be glad to see it remain," he said. "But I do not see what the city of London can do to keep it."

JEWISH NEW YEAR

Festival To Be Celebrated the Word Over on Sunday.

"Rosh Hashona," or the Jewish New Year, will be celebrated in London and the world over Saturday, Sept. 30.

The New Year festival is one of the most important on the Jewish calendar of religious observances. It is known as the feast of trumpets, and the "Shofer" or ram's horn occupies a very conspicuous place in the day's worship.

The first day of "Rosh Hashona" marks the beginning of the year 5666, which period dates back to creation. The Jewish calendar being computed by the lunar system, the date of the Jewish New Year does not always fall upon the same date on the Christian calendar. For instance, the Jewish New Year in 1904 occurred Sept. 10. The first lunar month of the Jewish year is the month of "Tishri."

Orthodox Jews observe two days of the New Year festival, beginning next Friday evening at sundown and continuing until sundown Sunday evening. In reformed circles, the festival closes at sundown Saturday.

Ten days after the first day of the New Years occurs the "Yom Kippur," or Day of Atonement. The day is observed with fasting and prayer, and is looked upon as the most solemn and universally recognized festival observed by the Jews throughout the world.

"Rosh Hashona," too, is universally observed. Where other Jewish festivals are lost sight of in many communities, the New Year and Day of Atonement retain a sacred palace in Jewish life.

It is a noteworthy incident, that during the Russo-Turkish and other wars of recent years, Jewish soldiers have been given furloughs on those festivals that they might spend the day in worship on the battlefield. During the Spanish-American war, the United States Government extended a similar furlough, which was taken advantage of by nearly 2,000 Jewish soldiers serving Uncle Sam.

UNIFORMS PAY PEDAGOGUES

Starving Teachers in Germany May Wear Gaudy Clothes.

Berlin, Sept. 25.—Some time ago a number of German minor poets, indignant at the miserably inadequate cash reward for their flowers of speech, formed themselves into a union to maintain a minimum rate fixed by themselves.

The German schoolmasters now have made a complaint, particularly the Mecklenburg teachers, who, though they enjoy the title of professor and are employes of the Government, are the worst paid pedagogues in the fatherland. Their poverty is such that nearly 70 per cent of them are obliged to eke out a livelihood by taking other positions, such as sexton, organist and auctioneer.

The Minister of Education at Mecklenburg has given ear to their complaint, and with a true insight into human nature has solaced them without raising their salaries and at their own expense.

A Government rescript has been published permitting them on state occasions to wear a brilliant uniform. The coat thereof is a bright blue, with a crimson collar and cuffs embroidered in gold. The coat and waistcoat have gold buttons ornamented with a crown and the initials of the grand duke. The trousers are white, with a gold stripe down the sides.

On his head the Mecklenburg schoolmaster will wear a cocked hat with a cockade in the colors of the grand duchy, from which a gold tassel will depend. A finishing touch is made with a rapier with a gold hilt. If the professor is of noble birth, or extraction, he may add a pair of heavy gold epaulettes.

One drawback to this boon in the eyes of some of the Mecklenburg teachers is the fact that the uniform will cost a year's income, and even more, for many are not earning more than $100 a year.

HATCHET-SLINGER EVER LIVE HERE?

Man Wants to Learn If Carrie Nation Was Once a Resident of London.

Did Carrie Nation ever live in London?

Joseph W. Phoenix, of Hamilton, Ont., is anxious to learn the whereabouts of Carrie Nation and offers a reward for information that will tend to show that she was once a resident of London, Ont.

Mayor of Wichita, Kan.:

Dear Sir—Kindly inform me what Carrie Nation's maiden name was before she was married in the first place, and whom she married first. Was he a doctor? Also please tell her present address, and if she was originally from London, Canada. If Carrie is the person we suppose she is, you shall be well paid for your trouble.

JOSEPH W. PHOENIX.

Carrie's maiden name being unknown, it is rather difficult to ascertain whether she once resided in this peaceful community, where no one dreams of instituting reforms by means of a hatchet.

Carrie, in the limelight, has not proven a figure of which Londoners have special reason to be proud, even though it can be shown that she at one time resided here.

If she was bred in Canada, it was a mistake, and she corrected the error by emigrating to where she belonged as soon as possible.

BIGGEST DOCKET IN SOME WEEKS

Magistrate Love Heard Many Cases at Police Court—Leniency the Rule.

One of the longest dockets in several weeks was what confronted Police Magistrate Love when he took the bench at the Carling street court this morning.

Walter H. Westby was charged by William A. Brammer with extortion, and he was commited for trial at the December sessions of the peace, bail in the sum of $100 being accepted for his appearance. The evidence went to show that Westby had written to Brammer demanding that the latter make good the damage alleged to have been done by his sons to a house belonging to the accused.

Henry Simpson, charged with theft, was allowed to go on suspended sentence, the court, however, giving him a severe reprimand.

The case of assault against George Currell was withdrawn by his son.

Edward Moxley and Charles Butler (both colored) and Leonard Gibbons, disorderlies, were fined $2 each. They were arrested for fighting on King street, near the market, on Saturday night, by P. C. Black.

The case against John Haines for stealing a watch and chain from Chas. Allenby was withdrawn. No evidence being offered.

The case against Brammer Harrison for breach of the liquor act was adjourned till Wednesday.

The case of John M. Parsons and Charles Parsons was adjourned until one week from Wednesday.

A case of non-support was also adjourned to give the defendant an opportunity to provide for his wife and family.

Eight boys, about 16 years of age, were lectured for loitering on street corners. A fine will be imposed if they appear again.

Joseph Shaw, an Italian, was charged with an unnatural crime. After hearing the case for the prosecution, the magistrate remanded Shaw, or Weyford, for a week, the defense being unprepared to go ahead with the case.

MAY BE CHANGED

Hamilton Does Not Like the Senior O. R. F. U. Schedule.

On good authority it was said today that at tomorrow night's meeting of the O. R. F. U. executive in Toronto, Hamilton would endeavor to have the present schedule of senior games changed. Hamilton seemed to be content with the present schedule, provided London would give them an exhibition game next Saturday. Ewart Field thought that this game could be played, but London cannot go to Hamilton on that date. The present schedule is not by any means disadvantageous to Hamilton and does not give London any advantages, but the Tigers seem to be discontented unless they have everything greatly in their favor. Should a revision of the schedule take place tomorrow night, as is most likely, London may not see any senior Rugby this season, for the local boys are not likely to stand for very much jockeying at the hands of the Toronto executive, whose methods toward the western division have not always been of the squarest.

FOR MUSHROOM EATERS

Professor Shuttleworth, of Toronto, Makes Interesting Statement.

In view of the recent cases of toadstool poisoning in Toronto Junction, a statement made by Prof. Shuttleworth, the Toronto analyst, will prove of interest to all those who take an interest in mushrooms.

Many pride themselves on expert knowledge as to the difference between the two fungi, but as a matter of fact the signs which are generally accepted to distinguish a mushroom from a toadstool are not to be relied upon.

"It is impossible by any general signs," said Prof. Shuttleworth, "to tell the difference. Some think that a mushroom is capable of skinning, some that a toadstool will turn black when rubbed with a gold ring, and others attach importance to the base of the stem and its attachment to the parts below, but all these are more or less fallacious.

"Those who wish to distinguish between the poisonous and the non-poisonous fungi must be acquainted with the specific characters of each.

"Many think that edible fungi are white and have big gills, but some species, which are entirely harmless and said to be delicious, are green, orange and red. One of the most handsome toadstools is white, well shaped and symmetrical, but is one of the most deadly kinds, as is also a brilliant red species."

"Are all toadstools poisonous?" asked the reporter.

"By no mean. Many are being eaten for mushrooms in Toronto. Take, for example, the species caprinus, which is frequently offered for sale. It is by no means as delicious as the agaricus campestris, the meadow mushroom, but in its absence is a rather tasty substitute."

"What posion does the toadstool contain?"

"The poisonous principle is an alkaloid termed muscarine, which is also obtained as a derivative from brain substance. It exists most largely in amanita muscaria, one of the deadly toadstools. Its action is mainly on the heart, death taking place while that organ is distended. It has a limited use, being used mainly for checking night sweating. In its physiological effects it is the opposite of that of nightshade and one is the antidote of the other."

SCHOOL ANNIVERSARY

Interesting Services Held in Richmond Street North Church.

Anniversary services in connection with the Sabbath school of the Richmond Street North Methodist Church were held yesterday, and were the most successful in the history of the school. In the morning the pastor, Rev. J. B. Freeman, B. D., preached to the parents and teachers before a fine congregation. In the afternoon Mr. W. H. Liddicoatt, principal of the Talbot street school, and Mr. Fred Matthews gave excellent addresses. The school passed the 100 mark in attendance, 110 being present. The collection, which was to aid in the purchase of a new library, amounted to $11 75. This will be added to $20 already given by the school, and will be a good start. In the evening the edifice was crowded to the doors, when Mr. Liddicoatt preached from the text, "We would see Jesus." Miss Matthews, of the First Church choir, and the children of the school, rendered excellent music. The school, under the superintendency of Mr. George McBroom and Mr. Edward Cook, is making rapid progress, and will soon need enlarged quarters.

SNAP-SHOTS AT VARIOUS SPORTS.

According to dispatches, Hildebrand, one of the best jockeys that ever tossed a leg, has had his license revoked because of reckless riding. He has been in considerable trouble of late. Hildebrand was a bootblack in 'Frisco, then took to the horses and immediately became a success. Last year his work was phenomenal, breaking the record for winning mounts. This year, however, he has been hitting the chutes, and the tinkling glasses and the fast company has put the finishing touches on a brilliant rider. Success was too much for him. To obscurity for Hildy.

The fact that Alfred Shrubb, the champion distance runner of Great Britain, was refused permission by the British Amateur Athletic Association to go to the United States to compete in the fall meets there because he was not to bear his own expenses is excellent evidence of the jealousy with which amateur sport is guarded in Great Britain against the taint of professionalism. Shrubb will go to America next season, paying his own expenses.

Balance is the name of the horse on which Jockey Connie Mack has swung into the stretch at the head of the speediest baseball flyers that ever faced the starter, says Mathison in the New York Mail. The strength of the team is so evenly distributed in the essential branches of hitting, pitching, base running and fielding that when exerted it proves irresistible.

Missouri Chief, the Stratford pacer, won a fourth heat in Grand Rapids in 2:10¾. He is going fast, but is not winning of late. He got second money at Rapids.

Sysonby and Artful have again concluded they will not race this year, and the reader may accept this as final until the next dispatch arrives from the east.

The Shamrocks keep the Minto tinware, and while St. Kitts may rest assured that they have a good team, they don't grow them fast enough in this part of the hemisphere to beat the Irishmen. It's about up, however, to the Telegram man to claim that the Tecumsehs could lift the silver. From his sanctum he beats the Athletics to a pulp every day or two with his Irish (?) Indians.

For years an incurable disease has afflicted the stewards on duty at Woodbine Park. That disease is somnolence. Under its overpowering influence they see not and they apparently hear not. The band plays upon the lawn such merry tunes as "My Pretty Jane" and "The Girl I Left Behind Me." It may be that the waves of melody bear the stewards away on their crests and their thoughts are therefore more with the subjects of the music than with the horse racing on the track. If not this, then it may be that such damnable heresy as the "No scandal doctrine" has been preached to them until they are prepared to let everything go, no matter how it goes. There is an old saying that in the midst of life we are in grave doubt, but there was never a moment in all our lives that we were in such grave doubt as when standing on the lawn at Woodbine, and wondering what on earth the stewards will wink at next.—Canadian Sportsman.

Since that was penned the Jockey Club have refused the Daly entries, but as there was only one day's more racing, it did not cut much figure. It was a fine play to the gallery, but the stewards might have shown signs of intelligence earlier in the week. It would have been better for the public.

Columbus won the American Association pennant in handy fashion this year. They wound up the season by establishing a record. They shut out Louisville four times in three days. Congalton, formerly of Guelph, is one of the players on the champions' team and played left field. He has done good work this year.

Grimshaw, a former London player, has been turned back to the minors by Boston, and next year he will play with Minneapolis. He was not quite of American League caliber. Collins made a mistake in allowing Lachance to go.

The Canadian Sportsman has a sensible suggestion in its editorial page, in which a Grand Circuit trotting meet is advocated. With the increasing prominence of Canadian horses on American tracks, it is about up to Canadians to give our fast ones a chance to show their speed. At present Windsor is the only track where a Grand Circuit meet is held, and that very early in the season. Toronto is big enough to have a meet. Here is the Sportsman's article: Now that the new track has been constructed at Woodbine, it would be a most gracious act if the Ontario Jockey Club would consent to allow the use of the track for one big trotting meeting each year, conditionally, of course, upon a financially strong club, composed of the right sort of men, being incorporated in this city. It was proved on Saturday last to be one of the fastest tracks on earth, and with such a course to trot or pace over, new Canadian records would speedily to made and a mighty impetus given to light harness interests in this Province. Under proper management, with competent officials in the stand who would fearlessly administer the rules and regulations as provided for the control of the sport, our people would respond, we are satisfied, in most generous fashion. We want no more mile heats, 3 in 5. That moss-backed programme should have been consigned to limbo long ago. Mile heats, 2 in 3, are long drawn out enough to suit the present mind, and with a programme of that character with liberal purses, Toronto would support a first-class meeting.

Quail shooting is prohibited by an order-in-council until Nov. 1, 1906. Farmers and sportsmen should take some precautions to protect the quail this coming winter.

From all accounts Eddie Siever's arm is better than ever, and it is predicted that Siever will be a star pitcher next year. He will be with Detroit.

McClary's champions are to play the Star Bloomer Girls on Thursday. The Bloomer Girls can play ball. They are not the aggregation that attempted to play the Rockets. Maud Nelson, the pitcher in this crowd, is a good twirler.

The Toronto News takes London to task about running after false gods in an athletic sense, and declares that we have more use for baseball and other foreign pastimes than they have for our own national game. That makes us very unpatriotic. The fact of the matter is that London has never been a lacrosse town. The aborigines may have played the game here, but that was before our time. An aggregation was imported here to teach us to love the game, but we certainly did not learn to love the article handed out to us by that outfit. And don't blame the city for it, either. The youth of this part of the hemisphere do not play lacrosse and have never seen a real first-class game. As a thriller and as a scientific game, lacrosse has them all "beaten to death." But some of the games that the writer has seen played in Toronto have not inspired him with any too much respect for the pastime. They say it has improved somewhat in the last couple of years. When they get the game down like they have it in Montreal and Ottawa, we'll take a day off and see it. In the meantime we will still chase our little gods, and have a little fun. We have not killed an umpire here for a long time.

COVERPOINT.

HERE'S GOOD BASEBALL FOR YOU; 14 INNINGS AT TECUMSEH PARK

McClarys Pull Out a Victory in a Hard Game With the Rockets.

The most exciting and by long odds the best City League game of the season was handed out to the fans at Tecumseh Park Saturday in the 14-innings struggle between McClarys and the Rockets. The "rooters" had scarcely recovered from the sensational game between these teams two weeks ago. McClarys won Saturday in the fourteenth.

The hero of the occasion was beyond a doubt W. ("Fat") Earley, the great pitcher for the iron men. The big boy twirled the greatest game of the year, and perhaps the best game in his history. He held the hard-hitting Rockets down to four hits, two of the scratchy variety, and he should have had a shut-out. Earley had good slants, a splendid change of pace, and also terrific speed when needed. He was never in a tight place. The team behind him fell down hard at times, and their errors were costly. The weather was cold and the sun bad, and this made perfect fielding out of the question.

McClarys pulled off some good plays at times, too. Ecclestone yanked a fine fly right off his boot tops, on the run, and Gibson, at third, made some sensational stops. Ball also contributed some fine work. Earley fielded his position in grand style. Beaton's work at first was also good.

It must be mentioned that Jack Wilson also pitched great ball. He was hit harder than Earley, but he pulled himself out of many a hole by splendid pitching, and good headwork. He kept the hits well scattered, but weakened somewhat in the fourteenth.

The Rockets fielded brilliantly. Their work was far superior to the McClarys'. Their outfield handled their chances in splendid form, while W. Arthurs, Hosie and George Arthurs pulled off plays that were sensational to a degree. Roberts handled his chances well, being a trifle overanxious, however, when the struggle became keen. He stood up to the plate better than formerly. He will make a good man with seasoning.

The Rockets secured first blood in the fourth. Hosie was wafted, and went to second on Dewan's sacrifice. G. Arthurs got down on Jackson's fumble. He stole second. W. Arthur's rolled one to Ball, who threw home to catch Hosie. Steele lost the throw, and Hosie and G. Arthurs scored. W. Arthurs went to third on Rose's out, and scored on Beaton's muff of Gibson's throw to catch Mines. Phillips threw Roberts outs at first.

Three runs and not a hit.

The Rockets scored one more in the ninth, when J. Wilson got a life on Jackson's error. He stole second, and went to third on a bad throw to second. He scored when Gibson failed to handle West's drive to third. Hosie made an easy out. This ended their scoring.

Wilson had the McClarys doing little until the sixth. Beaton hit to third, went to second on Mines' passed ball, and scored on Hosie's bad throw to first after Jackson had hit past second. Eddie went up a station on Ball's out, and scored when Earley biffed it to right for three bases. Phillips fanned, but Earley scored on W. Arthurs' bad throw to first to catch Steele. Ecclestone went out to Hosie. They scored another in the eighth. With two gone, Earley took four bad ones, stole second, and scored on Phillips' drive to right. Steele ended it all by bumping the haze. There was nothing doing after that until the fourteenth. McClarys got men on bases during the interval, but the necessary hit was wanting. They got going fast in the fourteenth, however. Beaton hit through third, Jackson bunted safely, Ball was wafted, Earley forced Beaton at the plate, and Phillips fanned. Steele, however, was good, and scored Jackson and Ball on a hit through short. The "Fat Boy" came in on Wilson's wild pitch, Steele going to second. The latter scored on Ecclestone's ripping rap to left center. Fitzmaurice got down on a hit over third, and with Ecclestone, pulled off a double steal. Gibson could not bring them home, however, as he fanned the fog three times. The Rockets could do nothing in their half. Thus the McClarys won the longest game of the season, and one of the longest in the history of Tecumseh Park

After the fast first game, most of the crowd went home. The second, between the Londons and Blue Labels was slow, as the air was cold, and darkness was fast falling. The game was drawn at the end of the fifth, with the score two all.

Young Heathfield pitched for the Labels, and did good work. He had fair speed, and good breaks. He is somewhat light yet, but will be good with time. Clark pitched a good game.

STAR JOCKEY HAS LICENSE REVOKED

Hildebrand Will Not Be Able to Ride on Jockey Club Tracks Again.

New York, Sept 23. — The stewards of the Brooklyn Jockey Club today revoked the license of Jockey Eugene Hildebrand for reckless and careless riding. The ruling of the stewards practically means that Hildebrand will not be able to ride on the jockey club tracks again. Hildebrand was suspended for four days the early part of last week for rough riding. He was also suspended last spring for his ride on Duenna, which allowed Last Cherry, who was backed down from 7 to 1 to 2 to 1, to win by a head. He was then reinstated, being at the time under a contract to H. P. Whitney. Last year he was at the head of the list of winning mounts, having scored 200 victories. He was also in good form this year and stood close to the top.

ANOTHER JOCKEY PUNISHED.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 23. — John Carroll, the favorite, won the Galt House Hotel handicap today in a terrific drive through the stretch with Major T. J. Carson. Jockey Vincent Foy's license was revoked today for indifferent riding.

SATURDAY'S WINNERS.

At Gravesend—Rusk 18 to 5, Gus Straus even, Lady of Navarre 10 to 1, Oiseau 4 to 5, Hippocrates 5 to 1, Consideration 15 to 1, Benevolent 5 to 2.

At Louisville—Black Fox 3 to 2, Rolla 3 to 1, Mayor Johnson 13 to 20, John Carroll 3 to 2, Mr. Rose 5 to 1, Darthula 11 to 5.

SUNDAY GAME WON FLAG FOR GRAYS

Providence Team Had Only Two Points to Good in Pennant Race.

Providence, Sept. 24. — The Providence baseball team today won the championship of the Eastern League by defeating Rochester by 14 to 3. More than 15,000 persons saw the game, which was played at Rocky Point.

At the conclusion of the game, the members of the championship team were awarded a tumultuous ovation by the crowd.

The results of Saturday's game made Providence and Baltimore tied for first place, each team having won 82 and lost 47 games, giving a percentage of .636. Baltimore's season closed yesterday, while Providence was scheduled to play Rochester today.

If Providence had lost today's game the team would have been given second place, but the victory over Rochester gave Providence a percentage of .638, two-tenths of 1 per cent higher than Baltimore: The score:

Rochester ....0 0 0 0 2 1 0 0 0— 3 9 7

Batteries—Cronin and Cooper; McLean and Payne. Umpires, Moran and Hassett. Attendance, 16,000.

The Eastern standing at the close of the season was:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Providence	83	47	.638
Baltimore	82	47	.636
Jersey City	81	49	.623
Newark	70	62	.530

ATHLETICS MADE POOR SHOWING IN SECOND OF MINTO CUP GAMES

Literally Swamped by Speedy Shamrocks - Hold Trophy Another Year.

Montreal, Sept. 23.—The Minto cup will stay in Montreal for another year. The poor showing made today by the challengers was a disappointment to everyone. A battle royal was expected and it was generally conceded, even in the Shamrocks' camp, that if they held their lead of two goals that they would do very well. The Athletics were never in the hunt and did not put up as good lacrosse as they did a week ago. On the other hand, the N. A. L. U. champions never played better. From the very start they proceeded to clinch the game, and in the first quarter ran in four goals in comparatively easy fashion, giving them a lead of six on the series. After that the result was never in doubt. The score today was 8 to 1 in favor of the Shamrocks, making the total for the series 13 to 4.

During a considerable portion of the game today the Shamrocks were a man or two men short, but even with this advantage the Athletics did not seem able to force the play. During the first half of the second quarter Shamrocks were two men short, but, in spite of this, with three men at the home, they were always on the aggressive, and scored two goals. Their passing was excellent and their shooting deadly, whereas their opponents seemed to be in a partial stage fright. The far-famed Shamrocks never played a better game, and once more demonstrated that they are undisputed kings of the lacrosse world. They had the ball in the enemy's territory most of the time, and the only speculation after the first ten minutes of play was as to the size of the score. The Athletics' defense appeared disorganized and could not cover up their men. Hess, Cameron and Elliott worked like beavers, but they could not hold out the Shamrock home. Forrester failed to hold Currie. The Athletics' home was weakened by an injury to Barnett. He had his ankle sprained early in the game, and afterwards did not play up to form. This seemed to disorganize the whole team, and they were rarely able to get within shooting distance of the Shamrock flags.

The weather was cold and raw, with a biting wind blowing. Neither team was anxious to appear on the field, and it was 3:26 o'clock when the Shamrocks appeared on the field, 4,000 spectators being in the stands and on the sides to witness the contest. Five minutes afterwards the Athletics trotted out, and at once Referee Joe Lally, of Cornwall, examined the goal nets, saw that they were adjusted according to C. L. A. rules, called the teams together, and started the match.

The teams lined up as follows:

St. Catharines — Goal, Hess; point, Harris; cover, Cameron; defense, Elliott, Richardson, Downey; center, Forrester; home, Barnett, Lowe, O'Gorman; outside home, Kalls; inside home, Hagan.

After the match the referee, Joe Lally, said he was disappointed in the Athletics' play. Their showing on the previous Saturday induced him to believe they would give the Shamrocks a hard run in the second game, but they seemed to be an altogether different team. They were at least 50 per cent weaker in both attack and defense than they were in the first game, while the Shamrocks were superior in every department to what they were in the first game. The westerners need coaching before they can hope to compete with the eastern game.

The gate last Saturday was $2,700, and today a little more. St. Catharines get half the net receipts of both games, after expenses are paid, so Athletics will get about $2,200, which, taking out expenses of $1,000, will leave them $1,-200.

A SLAUGHTER OF FAVORITES

Five Fell Down at Woodbine and the Betting Ring Rejoiced.

Toronto, Sept. 23.—Getaway Day at Woodbine was celebrated today with the slaughter of five favorites and there was general jubilation in the betting ring as a result. The feature of the card was the 2 1-16 miles Jockey Club Cup handicap, in which the Kirkfield pair, War Whoop and Wire In ran one, two. They were practically neglected third choices in the betting at post time. The time, 3:34¼, was a Canadian record and within 2¼ seconds of Fort Erie's best for two miles.

Away, taking 30 pounds actual weight from Tongorder, was off flying in the first race for all ages and never stopped, running a very fast three-quarter and winning handily. J. Daly rode Tongorder as if he thought the horse an auto and never moved until the last sixteenth when hopelessly beaten. The little Aloha filly has stamped herself as about the sweetest thing in 2-year-olds seen here in some time.

Chippewa's 5½ furlongs in 1:07½ was one quarter of a second inside the Woodbine record. Weather clear, track fast. The summaries:

First race, 6 furlongs, purse $400 added—Away, 84 (Preston), 15 to 1 and 3 to 1, 1; Tongorder, 114 (J. Daly), 2 to 5 and out, 2; Don Domo, 105 (D. Boland), 4 to 1, 3. Time, 1:12¾. Armistice also ran.

Second race, 5½ furlongs, purse $500 added—Chippewa, 104 (Foley), 3 to 1 and even, 1; Peter Sterling, 115 (Kunz), 13 to 5 and even, 2; W. H. Carey, 114½ (J. Daly), 7 to 2, 3. Time, 1:07½. Gold Mate, Factotum, Rubinon, Lady Walker, Come On Sam, Succeed and Baby Willie finished as named.

Third race, 2 1-16 miles, Ontario Jockey Club Cup handicap, purse $1,500 added. *War Whoop, 96 (Preston), 13 to 5 and 4 to 5, 1; *Wire In, 113 (J. Austin), 13 to 5 and 4 to 5, 2; Sir Ralph, 111 (J. Walsh), 8 to 5, 3. Time, 3:34¼. Royal Arms, Gay Minister and Honda finished as named.

Fourth race, 6 furlongs, purse, $400 added—Alibert, 120 (Lee), 6 to 1 and 2 to 1, 1; Miss Affable, 107 (Preston), 6 to 1 and 2 to 1, 2; Cheripe, 109 (Freeman), 10 to 1, 3. Time, 1:13¾. C. B. Campbell, Scarecrow, Fern Rock, Sandy Andy, Sampan, Termagant, The Elba, Glad Tidings, Lonspur, Bedlam, Doc Wallace and Prestige finished as named.

Fifth race, 1¾ miles, handicap steeplechase, purse, $500 added — Lord Radnor, 154 (Gaylor), 2½ to 1 and 1 to 2, 1. Frank Somers, 139 (E. Kelly), 20 to 1 and 8 to 1, 2; Bob Alone, 148 (E. Miller), 6 to 1, 3. Time, 3:14½. Japalak and Gipsano finished as named. Wellington J. refused. Ben Crockett, Butter Ladle, Heather Belle, Chatelaine, War Paint and Oliver Mac fell.

Sixth race, 1 mile, purse, $400 added—Peter Paul, 113 (Freeman), 7 to 5 and 1 to 2, 1; Moonraker, 103 (Preston), 3 to 1 and even, 2; Ralph Rees, 103 (D. Boland), 7 to 1, 3. Time, 1:40¾. Tom Lawson, Brushton, James F. and Mizzenmast finished as named.

Seventh race, 1 mile, purse, $400 added—Arab, 108 (Obert), 10 to 1 and 4 to 1, 1; Cloten, 108 (J. Walsh), 4 to 5 and 1 to 3, 2; Amberita, 108 (Lee), 3 to 1, 3. Time, 1:40. Lemon Girl, Wyfield, Blue Grouse, The Trifler, Probe and Southampton finished as named.

Pennant to McClary Nine; Rockets Look Safe Second

McClarys finished their City League season on Saturday, winning the flag with thirteen games won and four lost. They have played good ball and deserve the rag. The Rockets look safe in second place. This year's games have been good, and the prospects for next year are very bright. The standing up to date:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
McClarys	13	4	.765
Rockets	10	7	.589
Londons	10	8	.556
Blue Labels	8	9	.471
Ferrins	2	16	.111

BRADY'S FAST OISEAU WON GRAVESEND SPECIAL

New York, Sept. 23. — James B. Brady's Oiseau, the 4 to 5 favorite, easily won the Second Special, 1½ miles, at Gravesend today. The Brooklyn Jockey Club's fall meeting came to a close today and a big crowd was in attendance.

The Second Special, which was the feature, brought only three horses to the post, Oxford declining the issue early in the day. Oiseau was always a hot favorite, with Caughnawaga next in demand at 11 to 5, while 7 to 2 was laid against First Mason. At the start O'Neill sent Oiseau to the front, and passing the stand the first time was leading by six lengths, with the other two heads apart. This order remained for about a mile, when Redfern began to send Caughnawaga up, but O'Neill gave the favorite his head and drew away, and gradually increasing his lead to the finish, won under wraps by twelves lengths. Caughnawaga beat First Mason ten lengths for the place. The time, 2:33 1-5, is within one-fifth of a second of the track record.

Lady Navarre, at 10 to 1, closing with a rush under Burns vigorous ride, won the Prospect handicap, defeating Accountant, who also closed strong. Tiptoe was leading by three lengths in the first quarter when she shied at a shadow and dropped back. Burns then brought Lady Navarre up and won by three-quarters of a length.

BASEBALL.

WILD BILL'S FINE WORK.

Wild Bill Donovan, of the Detroit Tigers, has pitched one one-hit game, three two-hit games, two three-hit games, two four-hit games and five shut-out affairs this season.

HERRMANN FINED HIMSELF.

Cincinnati, Sept. 23. — Chairman August Herrmann, of the National Commission, recently recommended that the Cincinnati Club's president, Hon. August Herrmann, be fined $75 by the National Commission for not inquiring more closely in the line-up of the Youngstown, O., team with which the Reds played an exhibition game recently.

HOUSEBOAT FOR WHITE SOX.

William E. Collier, superintendent of the Racine Boat Manufacturing Company, of Muskegon, Mich., has announced that he has closed a contract with Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, for a houseboat to be built at a cost of $5,000, and which is to be delivered by Nov. 1. The boat will have sleeping accommodations for twenty people. Upon delivery of the boat Comiskey will take the White Stockings on a trip down the Illinois Canal and Mississippi River to the Gulf of Mexico, and the next spring the boat will be placed at the disposal of the members of the Chicago Club of the American League, and the men will prepare for their season's work in southern cities along the Missisippi instead of being kept in one city for practice work, as has been the custom in previous years.

THE TURF.

HORSES TO WINDSOR.

A special train conveying the race horses from the Woodbine (Toronto) to Windsor, passed through here last evening.

LACROSSE.

TWO PLAYERS EXPELLED.

At a meeting of the judicial committee of the C. L. A., held at Toronto, C. Barbar and F. Maundrell, of the Beaverton Lacrosse Club were expelled forever from the association, the former for striking at Referee Waghorne, and the latter for rough play and abusive language. The Stratford Club was ordered to pay St. Marys $15 for a defaulted game, and Referee Waghorne was allowed $4 for expenses incurred in attending a game at Elora.

ATHLETICS.

NEW 300-YARD HURDLE RECORD.

New York, Sept. 23. — Harry L. Hillman, jun., of the New York A. C., today broke the world's record in the 300-yard hurdle races at the New York A. C. games at Travers Island, covering the distance in 34 3-5 seconds.

John J. Flanagan, of the Irish-American A. C., champion hammer-thrower of the world, threw the 16-pound missile 172 feet 1 1-4 inches, 9 3-4 inches short of his own world's record figures.

J. W. Morton, of the South London Harriers, England, made his American debut in a special sprint of 100 yards, but, although he won rather handily, his time, 10 1-5 seconds, was three-fifths of a second behind Champion Duffy's figures. Morton is the English and Canadian champion sprinter.

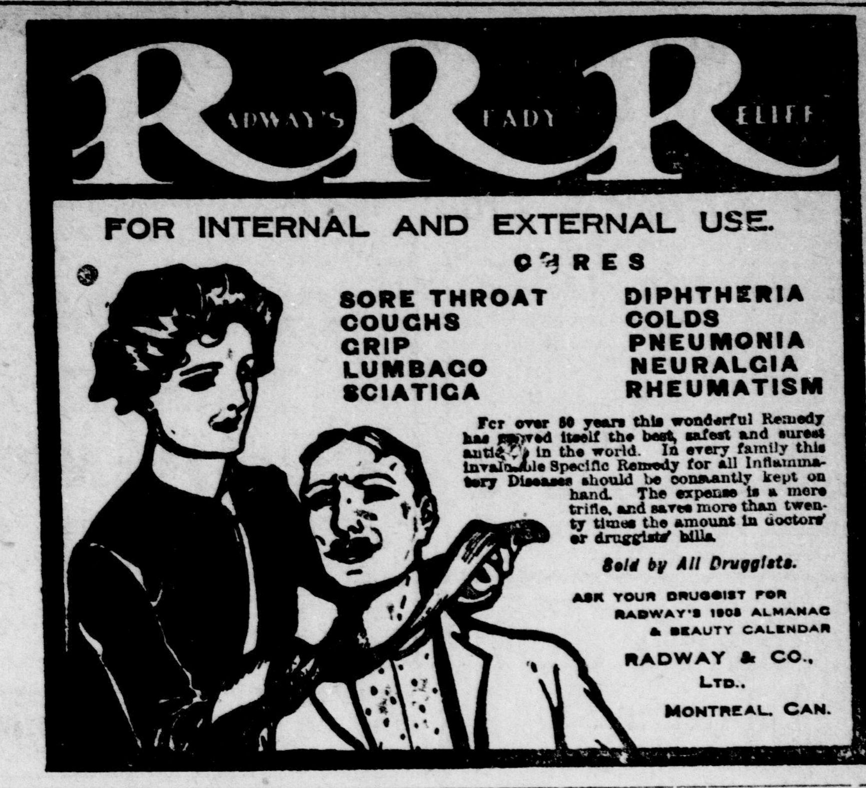

THE AUTO.

BARNEY FAILED.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 23. — Fully 15,000 persons attended the automobile races at the Narragansett Park track today. Barney Oldfield was the main attraction, but his attempt to lower his own figures for the five miles was unsuccessful. He covered the distance in 4:41 1-5, against 4:29, made at Los Angeles, Cal., on Dec. 21, 1904.

One record was broken during the afternoon, George C. Read making five miles with a touring car in 5:53 2-5. The previous mark was 5:59 2-5

Among the receipts in the French colonial budget there figures a sum of four lacs of sicca rupees, equivalent at the present time to about $143,135, paid by the British Indian Government. This money is paid annually in virtue of a treaty made in 1815, by which France conceded to England the exclusive right to buy the salt manufactured in what remained of the French possessions in India.

A GOOD WORKOUT FOR RUGBY BOYS

Players Are Rapidly Rounding Into Shape—Gibbons to Get In Game.

The Rugby players had a splendid work-out Saturday afternoon on the St. John's A. C. grounds in West London. A large number of boys were in uniform, and Capt. Bice and Coach Smith worked hard in perfecting the different plays, which are going to make the Tigers hustle this season to win the championship. Smith is, if anything, a worker, and every man has got to work while on the field. The practices are strenuous — sometimes even more so than the games will prove to be—but to get into good condition the boys must work steadily and faithfully. Practices will be held every night this week and every man is expected to turn out.

Several of the new players are developing well. Vining has weight and strength, and will get the speed necessary for a good wing. Morrison is making good at center. Canfield has a sure position on the junior team, and is a promising senior possibility. His work at full back has been improving rapidly.

Gibbons will be down to practice tonight. He is just the man needed on the back division. With Bice, Hueston and Gibbons on the half line, the local boys have a combination hard to beat.

Several bad bruises were received on Saturday by reason of the hard nature of the St. John's field. Bice received a cut over the eye, and Carmichael hurt his head somewhat.

Galt will have a team in the junior series this season.

Thomson will be back in the game in a few days.

Among those in uniform on Saturday were Bice, Hueston, White, Carmichael, Morrison, Edy, Vining, Tierney, Canfield, McGregor, Phelps, Houghton, Smith, Watson, McMahen and several others.

SHAMROCKS COULD NOT STAND PACE

Brantford Juniors Too Fast for Them in Sudden-Death Game for Flag.

Toronto, Sept. 23. — About 3,000 people witnessed the "sudden death" lacrosse match at the island this afternoon between Toronto Junction Shamrocks and Brantford for the junior C. L. A. championship.

The Shamrocks had the best of it at the start. Both teams put up a splendid defense and the first quarter ended 1 to 0 in favor of the Shamrocks, but the latter could not stand the pace set by their opponents.

In the second quarter both teams put forth a tremendous effort and the playing was fast and furious. The checking was very close and opportunities to pass or penetrate within decent shooting distance of the goal were few and far between. Goal shots were pretty evenly divided between the two teams. The quarter ended with the score a tie —1 to 1.

The third quarter was a repetition of the first two, but was somewhat in favor of Brantford, but ended without either team scoring, the quarter ending a tie.

In the fourth Brantford had considerably the better of the match, scoring two goals and winning the match by 3 to 1. The line-up:

Shamrocks—Titton, goal; C. Gilbert, point; Camplin, coverpoint; Don Rowntree and Art Gilbert, defense; Bobby Gilbert, center; Brown, King and McGraw, home; Joe Gilbert, outside home; Patterson, inside home; Breth, field captain.

Referee, Ed Baker, Oshawa.

GIVEN A WARM RECEPTION.

Brantford, Ont., Sept. 24. — Half the city turned out last night to give the junior lacrosse team, C. L. A. champions, a reception upon their return from Toronto after defeating Toronto Junction.

A torchlight procession was formed, headed by the Dufferin Rifles Bugle Band, which paraded the principal streets.

In the Waterloo street rink speeches were made by ex-Mayor D. B. Wood, T. H. Preston, M.P.P., W. S. Brewster, K. C., F. D. Reville and Ald John Muir, and Manager Rutherford and J. Kelly, of the team.

RADIUM AS MIND CURE

Experiments Good Results in Insanity Cases.

New York, Sept. 23.—A new remedy for insanity, from which English scientists expect much, was brought here by Dr. S. G. Tracy, of this city, who has been active in the investigation of the wonderful new power which promises to revolutionize the science of medicine.

Dr. Tracy returned from London, where he has spent a month in hospitals, studying the application of radium in medicine. There experiments were made with demented patients, according to Dr. Tracy, and remarkable results were obtained.

"The manner of application," said Dr. Tracy, "is by means of a sort of cap closely fitted to the patient's head. This is charged with radium and barium of 50,000 activity. This radio-activity has produced really remarkable results in cases not only of insanity, but of locomotor ataxia, though, of course, further experimentation will be necessary before the usefulness of the new remedy is established.

"Perhaps quite as interesting is the new method of applying radium for the cure of cancer and cancerous growths. This method was suggested by Sir William Ramsay, the distinguished English scientist. Its great cost puts it out of the reach of the mass of patients, which is its chief drawback.

"The method consists of dissolving radium in water and from the emanations of this forming a second solution. This second solution is injected into the patient with a hypodermic needle.

"The amount of radium dissolved is 100 milligrams, and this costs $3,500, but after the powder has once been dissolved it can be precipitated and again dissolved, and this repeated for an indefinite number of times.

"Six cases are under experimentation in London, and it is reported that the results are successful. They have not yet been under scientific scrutiny long enough thoroughly to prove the cure, however.

"Here is another cure, also new," continued Dr. Tracy, drawing a small disc of lead-colored metal from a case. "This is bismuth impregnated with radium and is applied externally. This cure comes from Germany."

The radium used by Mr. Tracy in his experiments is in a tiny phial. It is no bigger than a grain of gravel, which it resembles. The doctor bought it a year and a half ago from a firm of New York chemists, and he has been carrying it about with him ever since.

In describing his work the doctor said he first went to the Societe St. Centrale, in Paris, where it has been found that radium can be dissolved in water, forming a gas which is applied in hypodermic injections to a cancer or tumor. Thus the same radium can be used over and over again.

Dr. Tracy has been at Bad Nauheim investigating the efficacy of the cure for heart failure, which has been questioned since the death of Secretary Hay, who took the cure there. Dr. Tracy said he was satisfied there is much in the system.

DOES NOT WANT WEST OVERLOOKED

Rev. R. E. Welsh Asks for a Wide Distribution of Bibles There.

Rev. R. E. Welsh, M. A., the newly-appointed secretary of the Canadian Bible Society, preached a very scholarly and interesting sermon in the First Methodist Church yesterday morning. Mr. Welsh is a ready and fluent talker, with a good literary style. He is a decided acquisition to the pulpit forces of this country. His text was in Numbers, x., 23, and told the tale of the Israelites marching with the Ark of the Lord before them. Taking the Ark as his subject he drew an analogy between the Ark and the Bible, the latter being the modern equivalent of it. The Ark represented the compact of the Israelites with God. It was the charter of the people's liberties and privileges. It marked the presence of God with his people. Law must be at the basis of life. But greater than law was mercy. The greatest of all was when God reached out salvation through the sacrifice of Christ. The Bible contained the mind of God, the will of God. It contained the history of the incarnated Word of God, so men can know absolutely what God thinks and feels. It embodies the divine ideas and ideals.

Mr. Welsh made a plea for a wider distribution of the Word of God. He gave a short historical resume of the work of the British and Foreign Bible Society work, in which he declared that it was the testimony of missionaries that without the Bible Society colporteurs, their work would be practically unfruitful. Their colporteurs had gone to the most inaccessible corners of the earth and had spread the truth of God. He also made a plea for more Bibles for the Canadian Northwest. The most touching sight of his life was when he was at Winnipeg, and saw the motley thousands disembarking to find homes in the great west. A nation was being born. What is to be done? Give them the Bible in their own language. They were now in the plastic state and could be molded aright.

Rev. Mr. Welsh preached in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in the evening to a large audience.

The annual harvest thanksgiving services of Christ Church were held yesterday morning and evening. Rev. Dyson Hague, rector of Memorial Church, was the preacher in the morning, and his Lordship Bishop Williams preached at night. The church was beautifully decorated with the fruits of the fields. Special music was furnished by Mr. Percy, and the choir. Miss Cullis sang a splendid solo at the morning service, and Mr. J. Wilson a solo at the evening service. A congregational union will be held in the church this evening.

St. James' Church, South London, held its annual thanksgiving services yesterday. In the morning the preacher was his Lordship the Bishop of Huron and in the evening the rector, Very Rev. Dean Davis, preached. The church was nicely decorated. Miss Rosada Taylor and Mr. Henry Schwegler sang well.

BEQUESTS PAID AFTER 16 YEARS

Church and Orphanage Benefit by the Will of Late Charles Stead.

Through the death of the late Joshua Stead, who passed away in Thamesville a few days ago, St. James Church, South London, comes in for a bequest of $500, and the Protestant Orphans' Home receives the sum of $1,000.

The late Charles Stead, who died about sixteen years ago, stipulated in his will that upon the death of his brother Joshua, the above-named bequests should be made. Saturday Dean Davis received a check for the amount left to St. James Church, and the Protestant Orphans' Home board has also received a check for $1,000. Several other charitable bequests are also named in the will.

Mr. W. C. Myers Secures Land for Garbage Disposal System.

W. C. Myers, general manager of the London Sanitary and Produce Company, has purchased a valuable property in West London through Real Estate Agent Sangster, and will immediately proceed to get matters in shape for the installation of a thorough system of garbage collection and disposal. Galvanized iron garbage cans will be supplied the customers of the company, and the same will be removed semi-weekly, from May 1 to Oct. 1, and weekly thereafter.

Owing to the time required in completing the buildings on the farm and the building of specially constructed wagons, cans, etc., it is highly improbable that much will be done before the first of the year. However, any parties specially desirous of the service of the company may possibly be able to make temporary arrangements by communicating with Mr. W. C. Myers, 388 Clarence street. There is little doubt but that this announcement will be gratifying to many housekeepers, as the question of garbage disposal is a serious one in many sections of the city.

REV. WILLIAM LOWE INDUCTED RECTOR OF ST. MATTHEW'S CHURCH

Rev. William Lowe, of Wingham, and formerly of West London, was formally inducted rector of St. Matthew's Church, East London, yesterday morning. Archdeacon Richardson, of St. Johns, officiated on the occasion, and the ceremony was witnessed by a large and interested congregation. In the evening, when Mr. Lowe delivered his inaugural address, the church was filled to the doors, and the new minister's words were listened to with rapt attention.

At the brief ceremony of induction, Messrs. Thomas Brynes, the people's warden, and Henry Parnan, the rector's warden, were on the platform. The rector read first a declaration of assent to the canons of the church, after which the archdeacon read the mandate of the Bishop of Huron, authorizing Mr. Lowe's induction to the corporal possession of the incumbency of the parish. This was followed by the delivery of the keys of the church into the hands of the rector by the churchwardens and the formal acceptance of the same.

The archdeacon then handed to the rector-elect the Bible and Book of Common Prayer, to be the rule of his conduct in leading the devotions of the people. The newly-appointed rector afterwards proceeded with the morning's service, and the archdeacon preached a special sermon bearing upon the extension of the church. Taking Acts, i., 8, as a text, he spoke of the witnesses of God that have been sent out by the Church of England to all parts of the earth, and he dwelt impressively upon the vast field of Christian labor that is yet to be covered, especially in Canada, where in the Northwest alone are 15,000 Chinese, 5,000 Japanese and great numbers of Doukhobors, Galicians and other foreigners, to whom as yet the gospel is practically unknown. In the course of his remarks he paid a high tribute to the ability, zeal and earnestness of the new rector, who for eighteen years has been in active serve in the Diocese of Huron. Archdeacon Richardson impressed upon the people their duties and responsibilities toward him.

"This man of God is one of these witnesses of God who has been called to testify among you what he has seen with his eyes, what he has heard with his ears, and what has impressed him on his way through life, that would be a message to you to bring you nearer the saving grace of God."

The rector's inaugural message to his congregation emphasized some of the duties dependent upon the minister and his charge. He compared the actions of a minister to those of a sentinel, whose every movement is under the eye of the enemy. If a minister is going to be a faithful minister, his first duty is to set a watch over himself. A preacher, like other men, is subjected to the same passions, and many of the same temptations, and is not, as many suppose, a superior being, that is, exempt from having to resist temptation. The speaker would in all things set a watch over his every action. He impressed the importance of prayer in public life. He emphasized its absolutely essential nature to the success of any man or woman. In speaking of the modern rush and activity in business circles, he said that prayer was tabooed from many people's lives, because they had no time for it. It is the duty of the minister and his people to watch against the bustle, which so tends towards the failure of every man that lives his life apart from God. Mr. Lowe spoke of the duties the congregation owed each other. It was an impossibility to live their lives alone. A man could no live alone, neither could he die alone. Duties devolved among the congregation that the minister would not be able to attend to.

Very often individuals of the congregation became offended at remarks of a general nature, passed by the minister, which they took in a personal way. It was a minister's duty to warn his people, and a very important duty it was.

"I promise you while I am your rector I shall never preach what is called a personal sermon. I'll preach, mayhap, sermons of warning, but always of a general nature. The man who preaches to an individual who, in an audience, is unable to answer back, is a coward. The filling of the church was dependent as much on the people as on the rector, and he hoped to have everyone's assistance in this respect. He spoke briefly on several minor matters, all of which were essential to the smooth running of the church's affairs. In closing he said:

"Let us understand each other exactly. I do pray and I do trust that we shall work together in unity. I pray God's richest blessing will rest on you in your homes. I beseech your prayers, for the responsibilities of a minister are great."

The formal reception to Rev. Mr. Lowe will take place this evening in the church parlor.

A WELL-KNOWN RESIDENT DEAD

Mr. John Overell Had Spent Half a Century in London.

By the death on Saturday afternoon of Mr. John Overell, London lost one of her oldest and most respected citizens.

Mr. Overell, who was in his 74th year, was a native of England, but he had spent the greater part of his life in Canada. He was educated in Quebec city, where he remained until he was 18 years of age, going from there to California at the time of the gold fever. He returned to Quebec two years later, subsequently coming to London in 1854. For 51 years he had been a continuous resident of the city. Mr. Overell followed the business of an accountant, being identified at various times in that capacity with some of the leading financial concerns of the city. He was for some years secretary of the Proof Line Road Company, and auditor of the London Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

Mr. Overell was particularly prominent in Masonic matters. He was a past master and a life member of Kilwinning Lodge, No. 64, and had been for 25 years its efficient secretary. He was also a past grand officer of grand lodge, and a past first principal of St. George's Royal Arch Chapter, No. 5. For some years he was identified with the Lodge of Perfection of the Scottish Rite, but withdrew from that body some years since. He was one of the oldest members of the Brunswick Club and had for many years officiated as its secretary.

The deceased had been ill less than a week from kidney trouble.

Mr. Overell was a member of the Memorial Church. He is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Clode, of Paris. The funeral will be held this afternoon from the family residence, 437 Maitland street.

The "Blood Bible" has been sold by public auction at Breslau to the descendants of Fredrick von Trenk, its original owner, for $200. Frederick von Trenk was imprisoned and confined in chains by Frederick the Great for his temerity in making love to the King's sister, Princess Amalia. During his incarceration Von Trenk inscribed 200 blank pages in this Bible, a present from the princess, with love sonnets in her honor, every word of which was written with his own blood.

GAVE PRESIDENT A GOLD WATCH

Master Bakers Appreciate Services Rendered by Mr. O. J. Bridle.

A very pleasant evening was spent on Saturday, when the master bakers of the city assembled at the home of Mr. Robert Gilmore, East London, one of their number, to do honor to their president, Mr. O. J. Bridle. After a dainty supper, Mr. Harry Ranahan, well known to all the bakers, read an address, and Mr. Robert Gilmore presented Mr. Bridle with a very handsome gold watch, suitably engraved. Mr. Bridle, although greatly surprised, replied in an appropriate manner, thanking the bakers heartily for their kind appreciation of his services, after which all joined in singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." The remainder of the evening was spent in music, the programme including solos by Mr. Bridle and Miss L. Gilmore.

The address was as follows:

"To O. J. Bridle, Esq.: We, the bakers of the city of London, desire to place on record our appreciation of your services as president of our association, and we feel that we cannot let this opportunity pass without expressing in some tangible way, the esteem in which we hold you, for your kind and obliging help, so honorably given, no matter how inconvenient to yourself in the past years.

"We would therefore ask you to accept this gold watch and chain to mark the occasion, and trust that you may long be spared to enjoy them, and that we may still have you with us to give us your help.

"London, Ont., Sept. 23, 1905."

WILL BUILD OR BUY

Congregation of St. Paul's Evangelical to Have a Church.

At the services of St. Paul's United Evangelical Church, held at the Duffield block, every available seat was occupied yesterday. After these services a meeting, which, owing to the disagreeable weather of the previous Sunday had been postponed, was held. It had as its object the consideration of securing a church building either by purchase or erection. Mr. Henry Wagner presided, and Mr. E. Eichhorn acted as secretary, while Rev. Mr. Eiermann explained the object of the meeting. The congregation passed a unanimous resolution to build or buy a church. Mr. F. B. Hertel and Mr. John Pawlitzki were elected to act with the church council as a building committee. The committee will thus comprise the following: Rev. F. W. A. Eiermann, Messrs. Henry Wagner, Henry Hundertmark, Frederick Kaiser, Leonard Refoir, Frederick B. Hertel and John Pawlitzki.

The committee will meet at the pastor's residence, 114 Wellington street, next Thursday evening. The congregation is to be congratulated to its remarkable development.

The young people of the church will meet tomorrow evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. F. Kaiser, 812 Talbot street.
