DEEP GLOOM IN ST. PETERSBURG

Feeling of Terror and Insecurity Never Previously Equalled

Russian Auxiliary Cruiser in Pursuit of One British and Two Swedish Vessels

London, Aug. 4.—The Birmingham Post to-day states that a messenger arrived in London at a late hour on Monday from St. Petersburg with despatches and an autograph letter from the Czar to King Edward. The letter was taken to the King, who is at Cowes attending the yacht races. Continuing, the Post says that the despatches which the messenger brought were read and discussed by the members of the Cabinet, who held a meeting yesterday, and that another messenger left London later for St. Petersburg.

The negotiations that are proceeding, the Post says, are quite apart from the question of the passage of the Dardanelles by the Russian volunteer fleet, and the letter from the Czar that came in this connection.

Meanwhile, people from St. Petersburg give the gloomiest account of affairs in the Russian capital, stating that "there is a feeling of terror and insecurity in many quarters there which has never been equalled even in Russia."

A St. Petersburg correspondent says that the Russian auxiliary cruiser Donruss has left the Baltic Sea in pursuit of one British and two Swedish vessels, believed to be carrying five submarine and seven torpedo boats in sections of Japan.

BOWLING CLUB

Singles Contest—First Draw.

The following draw has been made from the whole membership of the club for the present season.

Players who began only this season are given a handicap of 3 points against their opponents.

All the plays of the first draw are to be completed by Aug. 20th.

Prizes will be announced and second draw made and published Aug. 21st.

Each player is urged to get his opponent out and play off the draw as promptly as possible. Any player not wishing to enter the contest could do so by reporting to his opponent without delay, so that the opponent's name may be entered in the second draw, as winning by default. Game is to consist of 18 ends.

NOW AWAITING GLAD NEWS

Japanese are Hourly Expecting Tidings of Victory from Port Arthur.

Believed that Russian Fleet Will be Driven out of Harbor and Forced to Fight Togo.

Tokio, Aug. 5.—The Japanese are hourly awaiting tidings of a victory of Port Arthur with more interest and eagerness than heretofore displayed during the war. From a political, strategical and a sentimental standpoint the position of the Russian fortress and naval base is considered of paramount importance by the Japanese. It is known that the Japanese news about the besieged city is gradually tightening. The Japanese guns are pouring fire into the diminishing forts, and it is felt here that the critical hour is fast approaching. But when the final assault will be made, and also of the details around Port Arthur.

It is believed that the fire from the Japanese batteries will compel the Russian fleet to leave the harbor and accept battle from Admiral Togo. It is becoming proverbial that the Japanese infantry will go anywhere and will refuse to retreat no matter how great their losses may be.

It is believed that Port Arthur could have been taken before this time with a heavy loss of life, but it is evident that military leaders are working to effect the reduction and capture of the fortress with the minimum loss of life. There will be no charges of great masses of infantry until the artillery has finished the task of silencing the Russian guns.

A story is current to the effect that the Emperor has expressed the wish that the capture shall be effected with the smallest possible sacrifice of life, hence the care and precision taken by the Japanese in approaching the Russian defenses and the extensive use of the large engines of war with which they clear the way.

RUSSIANS CUT OFF.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 5, 3.10 a. m.—The fact that General Kuropatkin's recent despatches have not mentioned General Skobelev or General Zverev, leads to supposition here that their forces to the southward may have had their communications cut by General Nodrus's army.

IN THE FIELD.

New Chwang, Aug. 4.—Field Marshal Oyama, commander-in-chief of the Japanese forces in Manchuria, and General Kikuma, chief of staff, left Kai-Chou-Yan and have established headquarters in the field with the army.

French Consul Agent Albert Krueiter was arrested last night in a Russian house where he was mistaken for a spy. After a short detention he was released.

BATTLE TO NORTH.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 4.—A rumor is current here that a battle is in progress north of Hai-Cheng.

JAP ADVANCE CONTINUED.

London, Aug. 4.—A despatch to a news agency from Anshan Shan (half way between Hai Cheng and Liao Yang), says—"The Japanese advance is being continued with great energy against the southern army. The Russian main force continue their retirement northward, but the cavalry has checked the Japanese threatening flank movement."

RUSSIAN LOSSES.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 4.—General Sakharoff reports that twenty-one officers and over 1,000 men were killed and wounded in the engagements of July 30 and 31.

A GOOD TIME

The 24th Bugle Band Doing all in Their Power to Make Their Excursion to Port Huron a Success.

The 24th Bugle Band excursion to Port Huron on Monday, Chatham's civic holiday, promises to be one of the most popular and successful of the season. Those who attended this excursion last year have not forgotten the splendid time and have told their stay at home friends all about it. They are all going this time, however, and the Bugle Band boys may look for a record-breaking crowd. They are a deserving lot of boys and should be encouraged. They have one of the best Bugle Bands in Ontario, under the leadership of Bugle Major Plummeridge, and this fact alone should claim for them the support of every loyal minded citizen.

Everyone who goes will be assured of a good time and a well spent one. The boys are leaving nothing undone to make their excursion a success, and judging from their past efforts in anything they undertake they will not be behind in this. The stay in Port Huron will be full of interesting surprises for the excursionists and, in fact, any one who doesn't go will miss one of the most enjoyable times of their lives.

FOUND FORTUNE IN THE GRATE

Valuable Discovery of London Chambermaid—Fireplace Used as Bank.

Guests Had Placed Jewels and Money in What They Thought a Secure Hiding Place.

London, Aug. 4.—While a chambermaid employed at the Savoy Hotel was cleaning on Sunday the grate in a bedroom of a suite recently occupied by an American, his wife, and daughter, she discovered in the ashpans a silk handkerchief containing five diamond rings, a turquoise ring, a diamond and pearl necklace, a diamond tiara, a gold pencil case, a gold watch, and a purse containing £50 in Bank of England notes and $120 in American notes. The total value of the find is some thousands of pounds. Up to yesterday the treasure was unclaimed, and the management of the hotel was uncertain whether it belonged to the last occupants of the suite, who sailed on the Campania Saturday, or to others. Last evening a wireless despatch was received, saying: "Left something in fireplace of room. Please hold until we return. Advise if found." The three Americans came to London in April and then went to the Continent. They returned to London a fortnight ago, and stayed at the Savoy. The young lady who is supposed to have lost the valuables is about 18 years old.

GRADUATION AT ST. JOSEPH'S

On Thursday evening, August 5, a very pleasant event took place at St. Joseph's Hospital, it being the occasion of the closing exercises of the graduating class of 1904.

The four young graduates were five in number—Meses Elizabeth Kerr, Sarna; Josephine Lanigan, Darrell; Ella Cowan, of this city; Genevieve Cline, Detroit; and Esther Thompson, Wallacetown. These amiable young ladies who, during the weary watchings and long night vigils of a three years' course of training in hospital work, have evinced rare talent, and a depth of womanly tenderness and sympathy not frequently to be met with, are to be congratulated on being made the happy recipients of the artistic diploma and handsome gold medal of the school.

The nurses apartments were tastefully decorated for the occasion in pink and white and presented a charming scene as the happy graduates in their dainty white uniforms together with their glad companions, filled into their dining hall where a sumptuous banquet awaited them, and where, judging from the merry rills of laughter that floated through the halls a joyous hour was spent. The completion of the evening's enjoyment was a high class and refined "musical" tendered to the nurses by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cowan at their beautiful home on King street west.

While regretting to lose from our hospital staff five such estimable nurses, yet we take much pleasure in recommending them to all who might require their services as kind, conscientious and efficient nurses. And although about to sever their associations with the hospital, yet they go abroad to their wider field of labor with the assurance of the goodwill and kindly wishes of all who have been so deeply concerned in their welfare.

The Mother Superior and Sisters of the hospital are delighted to take advantage of this favorable opportunity of publicly expressing their heartfelt appreciation of the deep interest and kindly co-operation evinced by the gentlemen of the medical and surgical staff in the education and training of the nurses. They would also express their gratitude to Mr. and Mrs. Cowan and the ladies who so kindly contributed to the entertainment of the nurses on the occasion of their graduation.

PIONEER CALLED

One of the oldest residents of the city passed away this morning, in the person of Mrs. Cordelia Hunsbrough, one of the Maple City's most highly respected and best known colored ladies.

Deceased was 83 years of age, and was born in one of the Southern States. She came here over sixty years ago, and with her husband, lived for a great number of years on Queen street, where McKay's confectionery now stands. She is well known by most of the older residents of the city, being associated with Chatham in its earliest days. Death was caused from old age principally, although the deceased lady has been ill for over a year and a half.

Two children, a son and a daughter, both residing in the Maple City, survive her.

The funeral will take place from her late residence, Lorne Ave., on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, to the Maple Leaf Cemetery.

THE LETTER AND THE SPIRIT.

There is the old story of the guileless party who signs a promissory note on the verbal assurance that it will only become payable under such and such conditions, and the next he hears of it is the demand for payment by a holder who repudiates all knowledge of any "understanding," and insists on holding him to the letter of the law. It looks very much as if the Government were putting up a similar confidence game with the clause in the new militia act referring to Canadian troops serving outside of Canada for the defence of the empire.

It will be remembered that when it was proposed that Canada should send troops to South Africa Sir Wilfrid Laurier expressed the opinion that he had no power to do so under the existing militia act. This argument was advanced to combat the rising tide of public sentiment. If it were a mere technical handicap, it would be fair to consider that in framing a new militia act which will be the law for future years and similar contingencies, the opportunity would be seized to make it clear that a Canadian Government under proper restrictions, can send out Canadian troops beyond the borders "for the defence of the empire." But the wording of the proposed act is just the opposite and declares that the Government shall not send Canadian troops out of Canada "except for the defence of Canada." In this connection objections are met with the plausible verbal statement that this "really means" that they can be sent out to defend the empire. It is another case of the guileless man with the promissory note—the letter of the law means one thing, the ephemeral verbal "understanding" is quite another. Mr. Maclean, M. P., suggested that if it was the intention to have Canadian troops serve outside of Canada for the defence of the empire, the words "for the defence of the empire" should be substituted for "the defence of Canada," but the Government would not have it. Under the old act there was doubt expressed whether the Government had power from the phrasing of the act to send troops out to South Africa. Under the new act the same doubt can fall back on the letter of the law and declare emphatically that an attack by Boers on a colony 7,000 miles away did not necessitate sending out Canadian troops "for the defence of Canada."

Instead of the new act removing the legal difficulty which existed when the South African war broke out, it accentuates it. It places in the hands of a cabinet the opportunity to declare that Canada is not threatened and that it is needless to call Parliament together. To this the argument is advanced that the Governor-General could force them to do so, but we all know that the Imperial Government would be very chary of assuming any appearance of "forcing" the hand of the Government of its chief colony under such delicate conditions. In the spontaneity of the Dominion would be half its value. In the face of a war it would look like a confession of weakness for the mother country to proceed to "force" the hand of our Government, no matter how strongly the majority of the Canadian people felt on the subject. The people of Canada might force the hand of the Government, as it had to do in 1899, but that would take time, especially as the Government could entrench itself behind the mandate of Parliament, now being put in black and white, that Canadian troops shall not be sent out of the country except "for the defence of Canada." The South African war was an exceptional affair in that the enemy left Great Britain plenty of time to get its forces together with 18 1/2 or no molestation. Though war was declared on October 12, 1899, four months elapsed before Roberts' conquering army was ready to move out of Cape Colony on its march to Bloemfontein and Pretoria. Circumstances are easily conceivable where the process of forcing the hand of a Government, backed up as the latter would be by this clause in the militia act, would fritter away so much time that before Parliament was called, had made its decision and contingents were equipped, Canadians would find to their humiliation and disgrace that they were too late to be of service.

The clause is clearly one of obstruction, not of facilitation, otherwise why not put the "understanding" into plain English in the act, and be done with it—Ottawa Citizen.

JACKSON.

Mr. Willson, a life-long Liberal, and for many years editor of the Toronto Globe, gives the following opinion of Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Jackson, in his newspaper, the News: "There are few more disheartening incidents in the history of Canadian politics than Sir Richard Cartwright's defence of the Jackson appointment. There is no doubt that he was responsible for the appointment, and therefore had no option but to attempt its justification in parliament. Mr. Jackson did as dirty a piece of work in South Oxford as has ever disgraced our politics. The election of Mr. Sutherland in this old Liberal stronghold was one of the most unexpected results in the last provincial general election. It was one of the first elections to be attacked by the Liberal managers, but it is manifest that they had no evidence to justify the petition which was entered against Mr. Sutherland's return. They reasoned, however, that if the constituency could be opened the government could succeed in a bye-election and therefore evidence had to be obtained. Mr. Jackson was furnished with money, doubtless by the Central Liberal organization, and in collusion with a recreant Conservative he set to work to buy the necessary testimony. He deliberately incited to perjury, and, as Mr. Justice Street said, associated with men of the lowest possible character in order to get the evidence necessary to prove the charges made in the petition. He is rewarded for this rascally work by appointment to a responsible office in Great Britain. He is quartered upon the public pay roll. He is championed by Sir Richard Cartwright who for a score of years stood out as the sternest teacher of public morals in the country. There is only one conclusion from the circumstances. Either Sir Richard Cartwright, as a political moralist, was a huge partisan humbug, or he has surrendered very completely to the corrupting influences of office. In any event, no more deplorable utterance has ever been made in parliament than this speech of Sir Richard Cartwright, and it must be a case of profound sorrow to the whole country that one of the finest reputations in our politics should be so wantonly and so utterly destroyed in order that a very poor type of party heeler should get a living at the public expense. There is no doubt a place where he should have got free lodgings but it is not in an honorable position in the civil service of Canada."

And now we put into the witness box one of the most solid Grit sheets that Ontario produces—The Stratford Beacon. It says:

"In voting disapproval of the appointment to a government office in Leeds, Eng., of J. B. Jackson, the Ingersoll lawyer, whose work in the South Oxford provincial election case was, to say the least, of a very suspicious character. D. K. Erb, M. P., gave expression to the views of the Liberals of this riding and, we hope, of the country. It was one of the few acts of the present administration that has not met with public favor. Mr. Jackson may be a very efficient officer, as Sir Richard Cartwright says, but his record is not such as should entitle him to service under the crown. The friends and admirers of Sir Richard Cartwright—and they are numbered by the thousands in the Liberal party—must regret that his splendid public career was marred by such a recommendation. Sir Richard is strong in his friendships as he is in his views, and he doubtless was loath to believe that Mr. Jackson had intended anything improper in his relations with the man Chambers, but those who believe that appointees to the public service should be above even a suspicion of guilt, could not take such a lenient view of the case. It was, therefore, well that one Liberal member, by his vote, recorded disapproval of the appointment. It may have the effect of preventing similar appointments in the future."

But there are Liberal papers in Ontario that have fallen so low in the service of the government that they find themselves able to defend Jackson and Cartwright.

VERY EFFECTIVE.

Hamilton Spectator.

Dundonald may not be a dexterous orator; but that "both hands" appeal seems to be ambidextrous, as it were.

TIMELY ADVICE.

Petersboro Review.

The barnacle organs are protesting that Lord Dundonald's advice to Canadians to keep their hands on the Union Jack is unnecessary. We think it was very timely when a member of the Laurier administration had just been uttering threats in London of the disruption of the tie binding us and the empire.

A VACANCY AT OTTAWA.

Farmers' Weekly Sun.

Sir Richard Cartwright sat silent in the house when the final estimates were brought down which will make the Dominion expenditure for this year over $70 per family. When he rose last week it was to defend the appointment to an office in his department of a man whose chief recommendation was that he had endeavored to buy evidence to unseat a political opponent. Had such an expense bill been placed on the table by a Conservative government, had such an appointment been made by an enemy, we would again have seen the Sir Richard of a quarter of a century ago, and his speech would have been, as described on another occasion, a flame of indignation. But even to Sir Richard Cartwright the Point of View—whether it is taken from the Right or Left of the Speaker—makes all the difference in the world. There is a vacancy at Ottawa for a watch-dog of the treasury, for one who will assist in upholding the standard of public morality; and who will perform his duties at all times regardless of whether Grits or Tories are in power.

But look well to your baking powder! It is a most important ingredient in your baking, and one very apt to be adulterated. Be sure it is made of pure cream of tartar.

The best way to be absolutely certain is to buy Cleveland's, well known to be a pure, cream of tartar baking powder, and the strongest and most wholesome made.

SEEDLESS APPLE.

Features of a Species Produced By John F. Spencer.

The seedless apple is the invention of John F. Spencer of Grand Junction, Colo., says The Philadelphia North American. When the naval orange was first perfected and placed on the market Mr. Spencer reasoned that if it were possible to drive the seeds out of the orange it would be possible to accomplish the same with the apple. He experimented for seven years before attaining the desired result.

He was, however, not satisfied with the mere development of the apple. It was necessary to determine whether by budding or grafting it was possible to make seedless apple trees reproduce themselves. Several additional years passed before the budding trees grew to sufficient size to bear fruit. When the fruit did appear it was as innocent of seeds as were the apples from which it was budded.

Several peculiar features other than the fact that it lacks seed are to be found in the new apple. The only resemblance to a blossom found upon the new tree is three small green leaves that look much like petals. These leaves cover the beginnings of the little green apple and drop off one by one as the apple grows larger and becomes strong enough to grow without protection.

As a direct result of the absence of blossoms, too, the seedless apples are free from worms. The blossoms provide nests for the coddling moths, whose eggs hatch into the apple worm. There being no blossom there is no nest for the moth. Apple worms, too, live by eating the seeds and so there is nothing for the worms to feed upon, and even though hatched from the eggs of the moth, they would starve to death. So in addition to being seedless, the new apple is blossomless and wormless.

The new apple produced by Mr. Spencer is a dark red, with small yellow spots through it, and has a yellow ring at the navel end. The skin is smooth and will keep longer than any other apple unless it is bruised in the handling.

There is no such thing as preparation after the event.

Don't go to the hatter when you need a thinking cap.

THE LOCAL BUDGET

William Hopper, of Newbraska, was registered at the C. P. R. over night. Mrs. William McVean, of Dresden, is a guest at the Garner House to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. White, of Grand Rapids, were guests in the city yesterday.

Mrs. Merritt and daughter, Gladys, left yesterday on a visit with friends in Aylmer.

Miss Bennell, of Ridgeway, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. J. G. Moore, Poplar street.

Mrs. (Captain) John Weston and sister, Mrs. Winter, of Windsor, are city visitors to-day.

John Turner, who has been suffering from an injured eye, is improving gradually.

Edwyn W. Sandys, the popular New York journalist, is visiting his old home in the Maple City.

The Civic Holiday G. T. Ry. tickets—Saturday, Sunday and Monday are good until Tuesday night.

The Water Commissioners didn't hold their regular meeting last evening. There wasn't a quorum.

Miss Lillian Blackburn has returned to Windsor after a pleasant visit at the residence of Richard Smith, High street. Miss Dot Smith and Miss Velma S. one accompanied her.

No one in Chatham should miss seeing the lacrosse game of the season next Monday, when St. Thomas will cross sticks with the speedy Tecumseh.

John Conway, of Perth, who has been visiting former friends here, returned on his way home to-day. He will visit in London and Toronto before he goes home.

Complaints have been made to L. E. Tillson, city agent of the Pere Marquette, in regard to the lack of accommodation on the Eau train. Mr. Tillson will take the matter up with General Passenger Agent Marshall.

Miss Annie Martin, daughter of Contractor Thomas Martin, was married last night to George Corbett by the Rev. T. Beverley Smith. The many friends of the young couple unite in wishing them every success in their new life.

Rev. Mr. Malott leaves on Monday for Exeter, where he will spend a three weeks' vacation at Mrs. Malott's home. He will also visit Goderich before he returns home.

Mrs. Malott is now in Exeter, having left Chatham about a week ago. Rev. Dr. Hannon, who was formerly pastor of the Park St. Methodist Church, is now stationed in Exeter. Rev. C. W. Down, of Exeter, will preach in the Victoria Ave. Methodist Church during Mr. Malott's absence.

L. E. Tillson's fire-makers beat the Gazabellies yesterday bowling on the green. The score was 20 to 11 and might have been worse. The following were the rinks: Ed. Rouse, C. B. Heath, Will Anderson, L. E. Tillson, skip—20. Will Robinson, J. W. Humphrey, J. W. Webb, Dr. Bray, skip—11. Mr. Tillson says that he is now going after A. H. VonGuten and John Lee, and having beaten these rinks he will be open for other engagements.

GOING TO THE STATES

Chas. Donovan, who for the past year has been on the reportorial staff of the Banner, leaves to-morrow night for Toledo. Mr. Donovan will spend a month visiting his brother at Toledo and other points in the state of Ohio. The prospects are that Mr. Donovan will not return to Chatham but will seek his fortune in foreign fields. He is a Chatham boy, bright and good-natured and has many friends in this city all of whom unite in wishing him success in whatever work he undertakes.

LAI'D TO REST

The funeral of the late Mrs. Geo. Taylor, whose very sad death occurred on Wednesday, took place this morning from her late residence, King Street East, to St. Joseph's Church and from thence to St. Anthony's cemetery. It was very largely attended showing the high esteem in which the deceased lady was held by her Maple City friends. The floral tributes were very numerous and beautiful, emblematic of the sincere sympathy of all who knew the deceased, for the bereaved family and sorrowing relatives. There were a number of relatives from a distance present at the funeral, including Mrs. Taylor's brothers from Chicago.

FORWARD MOVEMENT

At the Victoria Band meeting in the Park St. Methodist church last night, two illustrated addresses were given on the two farewell missionary fields of the Canadian Methodist Church. Mr. Elliott spoke on Japan and its needs, and Mr. J. H. Wallace on China and its needs. A well rendered solo was given by Miss White. At the close, the Band met the officers of the different departments of the church for conversation on methods. Rev. Mr. Cobblefield stated that already voluntary subscriptions of $300 annually in addition to all present offerings had been offered on condition that the balance necessary was forthcoming. He said out and support a missionary who should be the foreign pastor of Park St. Church. A resolution was adopted commending the plan to the official board for endorsement and submission to the congregation. It is not intended to solicit contributions but it is hoped that others will be sufficiently interested to provide the balance required for this important forward movement.

WORK AHEAD

"You might call the attention of the Board of Works to the fact that they have far from completed their work on the Aberdeen bridge," said a ratepayer to The Planet to-day. "The Board had a number of men at work on the bridge, but they have quit work and there are now holes in the bridge which are certainly big enough to break any horse's leg should he step in one of them. The Board should repair the bridge immediately, for the city would certainly be liable should any accident happen, and besides, the accident is apt to be serious. A teamster or driver or wheelman can see the holes in the day-time but they can't see them at night."

James McMullen, of Harwich, who represented ward 1 of Harwich, in the Township Council for 13 years, was standing by when the ratepayer, who is also a King St. merchant, was speaking.

"I never had any trouble with our bridges," added he. "When I was in the Council every bridge was immediately repaired as soon as a complaint was made. A municipality cannot be too careful in having their roads and bridges kept in a constant state of repair."

GOOD CONCERT

The 24th Regiment Band Delight the Many Visitors to Tecumseh Park.

The concert given by the 24th Regiment Band on Tecumseh Park last evening was one of the finest ever given by this popular musical organization. Watson H. Walker, the talented director, deserves great credit for the manner in which he is conducting his band. It is a comparatively new organization, but there are many hands which have been in existence for years that are not nearly so finished or competent in their playing.

The Band deserves the thanks of the community for these delightful concerts, and that they are popular and generally appreciated is evident from the large crowds who attend each evening.

The program given last evening was a high class one and it was exceedingly well executed throughout. It was as follows:

March, Sons of the Brave—Bidgood. Valse, Convent Bells—Boettger. Medley Overture, The Climax—O'Hare.

Dance, Jolly Darkies—Round. Characteristic, Dixie Girl—Lempe. Selection, All to the Good—MacKie-Beyer.

Valse, Feodora—D'Albert. Indian March, Navajo—Alyste. Regimental March, The British Grenadiers. God Save the King.

JOKE ON FRANK

A. H. VonGuten has a good joke on Frank Tschirhart. The latter has taken to bowling very enthusiastically and always gets very excited, but it hurt to see Frank jauntily hastening away to bowl. He remembered the telephone, and going to the same called up the Bowling Club's number and asked those who were there to send Frank back to his store. The music man came back in a haste and bustle, but his expressions were not in harmony when he found that he apparently was not wanted. Then A. H., watching from his window, smiled. He called up the Bowling Club again, and securing Frank at the phone, told him that he should have gone to Stone's, as that was where he was wanted. Frank went, but he says now he's going to vote to have the telephone removed from the club house.

The First Locomotive in Maine.

The first locomotive used in the state of Maine came from England, having been built at the works of Robert Stephenson & Co. in the year 1885, and made its first trip over the Bangor, Oldtown and Milford railroad on Aug. 19, 1887. This road was then generally known as the "Yeasle road," and the track was made of wooden rails strapped with iron. The shackles used to connect the engine and cars were made of three thicknesses of sole or belt leather held together by copper rivets and had a hole in each end so as to hook over an upright stationary pin bolted or driven into a rigid beam extending from the end of the car. It is said that for a time the engine was run in opposition to a six ox team employed by a Bangor lumber dealer who was not willing to pay the rates charged on the railroad, and it was not until the management of the line came to what he considered fair charges that he turned his traffic over to it.

SANITARY HOUSING.

What is Being Done in Germany for the Benefit of Working People.

At Elbenstock a great deal is being done in Germany for the benefit of the working people, especially in the matter of providing them with suitable dwellings. Large manufacturing establishments, municipal bodies, charitable organizations and private speculators have each and all done much toward bettering the hygienic conditions and general welfare of the skilled workman and his family in every part of the Empire.

Since 1842 the Prussian Government has expended about $2,000,000 in dwelling houses for the coal miners in the district of Saarbrücken, and the miners repay the loan by monthly installments without interest. Similar methods were adopted with success by the royal munition factory at Spandau. The building societies at Gladbach, Charmon, Dresden and other cities of the Empire have also proved successful in that respect.

The Krupp establishment at Essen takes the lead in providing comfortable houses and cottages for the laboring classes. In 1901 the value of the dwellings used exclusively by its workmen was $3,875,000. There were 1,600 houses of two rooms each, 1,869 houses of three rooms each, 448 houses of four rooms each, 150 houses of five rooms each, 63 houses of six rooms each and 84 houses of seven rooms each, making a total of 4,274 houses.

During the past ten years a great improvement has taken place in the conditions surrounding the dwellings of laborers, and the increased attention on the part of municipal authorities to sanitary arrangements and the police laws against too many persons occupying one room have had a salutary influence.

Ellen Terry and G. F. Watts.

The romance of the career of the late G. F. Watts, the artist, who died recently, was his marriage with Ellen Terry nearly forty years ago, when she was seventeen years old. The union with the fascinating actress lasted only a brief period. The high-spirited girl found the sedate, poetic life irksome. She was unable to throw herself into her husband's enthusiasms. He was then middle-aged and devoted to his art. The incident that finally brought about their separation was typical. Watts at the time was painting his beautiful wife as Ariel, and was describing in his studio one evening to a group of artist friends how the picture absorbed him. In the midst of his rhapsody his wife, who had been present, retired and suddenly reappeared on a balcony in the studio as she had been sitting to her husband, in extremely scanty attire, with wings on her shoulders. This indiscretion resulted in a separation and eventually divorce. Watts married in 1889, Miss Fraser Tytler, a Scottish woman.

WORLD OF SPORT

BOWLING

Great interest is being taken in the Button Bowling contest, which is now in progress among rinks from the Chatham bowling club.

Several games have been played already, and there seems to be considerable disputing as to rules governing the contest. The Executive met this morning and decided to settle all disputes by drawing up the following rules to govern the contest. They are as follows:—

1—The Chatham Bowling Club offers four solid gold buttons for the winning players in rink competitions.

2—Any member of the club in good standing has the right to organize or play in any rink formed according to these rules.

3—The buttons shall be held by the players of the winning rinks until they are defeated, and then handed over to their successful opponents. The member holding the button shall be responsible for its safe keeping, and if he loses it he must replace it at once.

4—The buttons shall become the final property of the four players who have been members of rinks winning the greatest number of games up to Oct. 15, 1904.

5—The winning rink in each game must play succeeding challenges with its membership unchanged, except the substitution of one player in case of necessity, subject to the consent of the Executive committee, who are not taking part in that contest.

6—No skip or member of a defeated rink can play in any match, until three or more games have been played, after the game in which he took part.

7—Skip must post the names of his players at the time of entry, and has the privilege, if necessary, to substitute one player, with consent of the Executive.

8—A fee of one dollar per game must be paid before a game is started, by the challenging skip. The fee is to be paid to any member of the Executive committee.

9—Two new players must play with any defeated rink in the succeeding match.

10—Any points in dispute, not covered by the foregoing rules, are to be decided by the members of the Executive committee, who would not be personally affected by the decision.

By order of the Executive Committee.

Uncle Terry

By CHARLES CLARK MUNN

Copyright, 1900, by LEE & SHEPARD

"I'm all right, then, I guess," said Albert, "and now for my plan. When the officer comes we four will go at once to Frye's office. You will go in alone and open matters. Convince him to leave the door ajar, and when you get to talking the rest of us will creep up and listen. And here is where your wits must work well. Act as though you did not suspect anything wrong, but tell him you are discouraged and have put out all the money you can; also that you are poor and can't afford to waste any more on what you believe to be a hopeless case. Then ask him to return you the trinkets you gave him, as the girl values them highly; and right here is where you must contrive to get Frye to admit he has these trinkets. Most likely he will refuse to give them up until his fee is paid, and he may ask quite a sum. If you can settle the matter by paying him one or two hundred dollars I should advise it, but not more. If it comes to his refusal we will walk in at that point, and the officer will serve the writ. We can search his premises and even make him open his safe, and if we find what we want we will take it."

When Frank and the officer returned and the former had also donned a disguise, the four proceeded to Frye's office. It was early, and none of the other occupants on that floor had arrived. Uncle Terry knocked at Frye's door, but no one answered. He knocked again; still no answer. He tried the door; it was locked. Then he knocked harder; no reply. Then he stepped back to where the others were waiting. "That's nobody in there," he whispered, "or, if that is, he's asleep." Albert went forward and listened. There was no law, and as I am in charge of this building I give you permission to open Frye's door on the score of public safety."

Grasping the knob, the officer threw his weight against the door, and it gave way. A cry of surprise escaped him. Frye was sitting in his chair, with head thrown back, staring at the ceiling and with mouth and eyes wide open. The room was stifling with gas, and the officer opened the window. In doing so he noticed the two stopcocks were opened, and he turned them off. Then he returned to the hall. When the room was fit to breathe in again all four entered, and the officer laid his hand upon Frye's face.

"Dead!" he exclaimed.
Albert noticed an envelope on Frye's desk directed to Silas Terry. He quietly put it in his pocket and joined with the rest in a search of the room.

"It looks like a case of suicide," observed the officer—"door locked, key-hole and cracks plugged, window shut and two gas burners open; safe unlocked and wide open, and here's a bill with money in it."

And then he added, "In the name of the law I must close the door and notify a coroner."

When Albert, with Uncle Terry and Frank, reached the office he drew the letter he had taken from Frye's desk out of his pocket and handed it to Uncle Terry. "It was directed to you," he said, "and I thought best to bring it away."

When the old man opened it he exclaimed: "By the great eternal jumpin' Jehosaphat, if here ain't the hull o' the things we want so bad, an' a letter to some furriers! Here, you read it, Mr. Page. The writin's wussen crow tracks in the mud."

The letter was as follows:

Messrs. Thygeson & Co., Stockholm:
Gentlemen—I have good and sufficient reason to believe an heir to the estate in your hands exists in the person of a young woman now living with one Silas Terry, a lighthouse keeper on Southport island, Maine, and known as Telly Terry. This person, when a baby, was saved from a wreck by this man Terry and by him cared for and brought up. A report of the wreck and the saving of one life (the child's) was made at the time by this man Terry and is now on file in Washington. As I am going away on a long journey, I turn this matter over to you for further investigation, and subscribe myself, respectfully yours,
NICHOLAS FRYE.

When Albert had finished reading the letter aloud he grasped Uncle Terry's hand and exclaimed, "Take those valuable back with you, but leave me the letter, and I will attend to the rest!" Then he added, "You are my guest as long as you can stay in Boston."

When, two days later, Uncle Terry was ready to depart Albert handed him a large package containing a silk dress pattern for Aunt Lissy, a woolen one for Mrs. Leach and a complete artist's outfit for Telly. "With these things," he said, "you best regards for those they are for, and among them are the photographs of two sketches I made when I was with you that I want you to ask Miss Telly to paint for me."

When Telly opened her package she found two sketches of herself, one leaning against a rock with her face resting on her hand, the other sitting beside a flower decked boat with a broad sun hat in her lap.

CHAPTER XXXII.

A letter which Frank wrote to Alice soon after his return to Boston he said: "My mother and, in fact, all my people seem to think so much more of me since I have set about fitting myself for a profession. Father says he is growing proud of me, and that pleases me best of all, for he is and always has been my best friend. Of course I think the world of him, and she seems to think I am the best fellow in the world. Little do any of them know that it is you for whom I am working, and always with the hope that you will deem me worthy of the prize. How many times I recall every moment of that one short hour on the old mill pond and all that made it sacred to me no one can tell. I go out little except to escort mother and the girls to the theater once in a while, and so anxious am I to be able to pass an examination I often go to the office and read law till midnight."

When this effusion reached Alice the mountains around Sandgate were just putting on their autumn glory of color, and that night when she sat on the porch and heard the katydids in the fast thinning foliage of the elms she had what she called an old fashioned fit of the blues. And how lonely it was there too!

Aunt Susan, never a talkative person, sat close, but as dumb as a graven image; no house near and only the twinkling lights of several on the other side of the valley were visible. On a knoll just below them she knew were a few score of white headstones, among them her mother's, and when there was a moon she could see them plainly. It is during the lonely hours of our lives that we see ourselves best, and this quiet evening—no more quiet than many others perhaps, but seemingly so to Alice—she saw herself and her possible future as it seemed to be. Every word of her mother's letter had been an emissary of both joy and sorrow—joy that he was so devoted to her and sorrow because she felt that an impassable barrier separated them. "He will forget me in a few months," she said to herself, "and by the time he has won his coveted law degree his scheming mother will have some eligible girl all ready for him to fall in love with. As for me, she will never have the chance to frown at me, for even if Blanch begs, I would never set foot in her house." When her feelings had carried her up to this point she arose and, going into the parlor, began playing. Her piano was the best and about the only companion she had and quickly responded to her moods. And now what did it tell? She played, but every chord was a minor one, full of the pathos of tears and sorrow. She sang, but every song that came to her lips carried the same refrain and told only of hungry hearts and unanswered love. And last, and worst of all, almost insensibly her fingers strayed to the chords of one well remembered song. One verse only she sang, and when the last pathetic line was ended she arose and, going to her aunt and kneeling, bowed her head in that good old soul's lap and burst into tears. It did not last long, however, and when the storm was over she arose and said:

"There, auntie, I've been spilling for a good cry all day, and now I've had it and feel better."

She thought of her brother, toward whom her heart had always turned when in trouble, and not in vain. Of the jest that Frank had made regarding the island girl Albert had fallen in love with she thought but little. She felt to thinking what a void it would make in her life if his thoughts and affection were centered elsewhere. Then she began wondering why he had failed to write as often as usual during the past six weeks. She had known his plans for the yachting trip, and imagined his letter announcing its failure and his return to work an expression of disappointment. Since then he had written but once, telling her that he was overwhelmed with business and enclosing a check, but failing to enclose any but the briefest expression of love.

She bowed her head.

Men Restored to Vigor

Are you one of the thousands of men, young and old, who lack vigor? Do you crave to be robust and vigorous, to have perfect manhood? Thousands know they are weak and impotent, but neglect to take the right steps to regain their full vigor and strength. Are you one of them? Thousands suffer in ignorance of their real condition, believing themselves to be strong and well when they are far from it. Perhaps you are one of them. It is worth your time to ascertain your true condition of health, if you have any reason to doubt or suspect that you are not what you once were.

If you belong to either class mentioned above, do not be discouraged. Do not lose hope. Help is within your reach. You can be cured. Your manly vigor and vitality, health and happiness have been given to men who had been reduced to physical wrecks.

Be Honest With Yourself.
If you have been a victim to the follies and indulgences of youth, committed excesses in married life, if you doubt your strength, if it is your duty—year daily to those you love and who love you—to do so today, consult an honest, reliable, recognized physician—a specialist who has a record for curing weak men. But do not go away. Consult me at once. Take no secret. "Cure All." No two cases are precisely alike. Every individual needs a treatment particularly suited to him. Go where you can get the right treatment for your case.

Cure Yourself at Home.
If there is no successful specialist near you, write at once to Dr. Goldberg, the noted specialist. He is the possessor of a diploma and certificate which he received from medical colleges and state boards of medical examiners and he will send you his method free, to use in the privacy of your own home. It does not interfere with traveling, as it is taken between convenient intervals.

Pay When You Are Cured.
The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money until he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write to Dr. Goldberg at once and send him your case before he dies. He sends the method, as well as his booklet on the subject, containing the full details and certificates, entirely free. Address him straight.

Dr. R. Goldberg, 208 Woodward Ave., Room 92 Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you free, in a plain, sealed package.

Miss Nettie Blackmore, Minneapolis, tells how any young woman may be permanently cured of monthly pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"YOUNG WOMEN:—I had frequent headaches of a severe nature, dark spots before my eyes, and at my menstrual periods I suffered untold agony. A member of the lodge advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but I only scorned good advice and felt that my case was hopeless, but she kept at me until I bought a bottle and started taking it. I soon had the best reason in the world to change my opinion of the medicine, as each day my health improved, and finally I was entirely without pain at my menstruation periods. I am most grateful."—NETTIE BLACKMORE, 28 Central Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.

Painful Periods

are quickly and permanently overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The above letter is only one of hundreds of thousands which prove this statement to be a fact. Menstruation is a severe strain on a woman's vitality,—if it is painful something is wrong. Don't take narcotics to deaden the pain, but remove the cause—perhaps it is caused by irregularity or womb displacement, or the development of a tumor. Whatever it is, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is guaranteed to cure it.

If there is anything about your case about which you would like special advice, write freely to Mrs. Pinkham. She will treat your letter as strictly confidential. She can surely help you, for no person in America can speak from a wider experience in treating female ills. She has helped hundreds of thousands of women back to health. Her address is Lynn, Mass., and her advice is free. You are very foolish if you do not accept her kind invitation.

Details of Another Case.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Ignorance and carelessness is the cause of most of the sufferings of women. I believe that if we properly understood the laws of health we would all be well, but if the sick women only knew the truth about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, they would be saved much suffering and would soon be cured."

"I used it for five months for a local difficulty which had troubled me for years, and for which I had spent hundreds of dollars in the vain endeavor to rectify. My life forces were being sapped, and I was daily losing my vitality."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me completely, and I am now enjoying the best of health, and am most grateful, and only too pleased to endorse such a great remedy."—MISS JENNIE L. EDWARDS, 604 H St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Pinkham, whose address is Lynn, Mass., will answer cheerfully and without cost all letters addressed to her by sick women.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

VERY REMARKABLE CURE OF DIARRHOEA.

"About six years ago, for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment, without avail. Finally we moved to Bosque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that I was well again, or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents, cured me." For sale by All Druggists.

The Greek Church.

The Greek church is the largest Christian organization except that of Rome, from which it seceded. It would rank third, however, if the Protestant churches were united. Its political importance depends upon the fact that the czar is its head.

CURES COLDS IN ONE HOUR.

Many cold cures are dangerous because composed of deadening opiates. But fragrant, healing Catarrhazone cures colds in one hour and is both harmless and delightful to use. Even the worst colds, sneezing, sniffeling colds with running eyes, are stopped very quickly when the balsamic vapor of Catarrhazone is inhaled. Catarrhazone acts like a charm on colds, kills them outright, prevents their return a few hours later. For colds, catarrh and throat trouble use only Catarrhazone. Complete outfit $1.00, trial size 25c. at all druggists.

Different Now.

Good beef sold for a cent a pound in the reign of Queen Elizabeth in England. Pork sold at the same price, a chicken at 2 cents and a fat goose at 8 cents.

CHOLERA INFANTUM.

This has long been regarded as one of the most dangerous and fatal diseases to which infants are subject.

It can be cured, however, when properly treated. All that is necessary is to give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and castor oil, as directed with each bottle, and a cure is certain. For sale by All Druggists.

Almost a June Snowstorm.

On the 25th day of May, 1838, there was a heavy snowfall and severe cold in western New York. The snow was a foot or so in depth, and many peach trees were broken down. The fruit trees were in blossom, but the severe cold prevented all fruitage.

Bamboo Shoots.

A young shoot of bamboo sticking its head above the ground looks much like a stalk of asparagus. In Japan these young shoots are as much sought for food as asparagus is here.

IF YOU DON'T SLEEP WELL.

It's because your nerves are in a weak, irritable condition. Ferrozone will make them strong and correct the trouble causing your insomnia.

"I fell into a state of nervous exhaustion last fall," writes Mrs. J. Stroud, of Dexter. "I was run down, couldn't sleep and felt perfectly miserable. I tried Ferrozone and was quickly benefited. I can recommend Ferrozone to anyone suffering from overwrought nerves and sleeplessness." No tonic is better, try Ferrozone. Price 50c. at druggists.

DRESS FITNESS.

A Potent Factor in Making the Well Gowned Woman.

The definition of a uniformly well gown woman is she who dresses with a strict regard to appropriateness—in other words, one who adapts her mode of attire to the character and form of each and every occasion. In this simple conformity the keynote and secret of the art of dressing is sounded and revealed. Appropriateness, with a large, a very large, capital, should be the guiding motto of every woman's dress inclinations. Along with the aptitude for designing, planning and even creating, there should be assiduously cultivated by every woman a taste for the fitness of attire. With this practice may be acquired and will serve as a more valuable gift than all the other lore relating to this distinctively feminine branch of science.

The woman who is fortunate in the possession of this valued trait and its evincement is often credited with being better attired than she is in reality, for her appearance at any time and upon all occasions is characterized by a distinctive and appropriate individuality, which bears an impress of refined taste and singles her out of a group of gayly, ill appropriately attired women as the best gown among them. A simple though significant rule, which, if regarded, would assist in accomplishing more than even rigid observance to the powerful factors of "style" and "detail," is to dress with unflinching regard to the time, place and character and form of the occasion, and never for an instant swerve from this path of dress fitness, for it is a far more potent feature than is ever considered in the determining of a well gown woman.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

DAINTY BABY CAP.

How to Make One With a Handkerchief in Five Minutes.

A little baby lies for the most part while in his carriage, and as a result bonnets are quickly rumpled. They are not particularly easy to launder, and it is expensive to have them cleaned. A pretty handkerchief can be made into a dainty little cap in five minutes.

To make the handkerchief cap proceed very much as children do to make a "soldier cap." Fold the handkerchief exactly in half; then fold the two upper or folded corners over to the lower edge, thus making a triangle. Now fold over the point of this triangle about an inch and finally fold back the two points of the folded over corners about two inches. See diagram. Now open this folded square along the edge A B, so as to leave but one thickness of the handkerchief in the back, supposing the side with folded corners is front. Raise up this front portion so that the folded over points will form the top of the cap. Before opening the cap pin the folds and afterward tack them with needle and thread and fasten on the little rosette bows. This little cap made of a scalloped or lace edged handkerchief is especially pretty, and it fits the little head perfectly. By this ingenious device baby can have a fresh cap every day or two. Quilted silk linings come for muslin caps, or, if desired, one can make them.—Woman's Home Companion.

Repose of Manner.

The air of distinguished repose so sought after by our nervous society woman may be acquired by any one if she will remember that the secret of a reposeful manner simply means the power to totally relax. Much of your nervous energy is lost in nervous fighting. One beauty specialist goes so far as to declare that nothing will make wrinkles quicker than the habit of moving and jerking and that nothing is so fatal to beauty as coughing and wheezing. All such habits are really nervous complaints. To cure all these fidgety movements cultivate the habit of sitting perfectly still, keeping the hands and fingers motionless as long as possible, and relax.

How Babies Cry When They Are Ill.

Mothers are often worried as to what the cries of their infants mean when they seem to be sick or in pain and frequently are apt to diagnose the case wrongly. As a matter of fact, when an infant is dangerously ill it seldom cries, so that when it begins to cry a great deal during a severe illness it is usually a sign of amendment.

When a child suffers from inflammation of the lungs it moans, but rarely cries. When suffering from bronchitis the cry is gruff and rattling. When suffering from croup the cry is sharp and fretful. When hungry it is fretful and wailing.—New York Press.

Where a Ghost Walks.

The Earl of Dryart possesses in the grounds at Ham House, Petersham, the scene of one of Britain's most impressive ghost stories. At certain times in one of the avenues of the estate King Charles I. is to be seen walking with his head under his arm.

A MAN HATES HIMSELF

When he wakes up with headache and a bad taste in the mouth. Something is needed to settle the stomach, clear away the dull, heavy feeling and create a little appetite. Just get a tumbler of water, some sugar, and pour in a stiff dose of Nerviline. You'll pick up immediately and feel tip-top in a few minutes. Nerviline hasn't an equal for a condition of this kind. It stimulates, cures the headache, relieves the sick feeling and fits you for a hard day's work. Try Nerviline. Large bottles cost 25c.

WHO THREW THE BRICK?

Wm. Brown was arraigned today on a charge of assaulting Chas. Siddals on Monday, August 1st. The story goes that Siddals was laying claim to being the best man in the County, and if they wanted to get him down they would have to get the park cannon. The big gun was scarcely needed when a man came along and threw a rock. Siddals stopped it with his face, but he didn't wait to stop any more. He dropped and was removed to the hospital for repairs. Brown is alleged to have been the man who threw the rock. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of assault doing grievous bodily harm and was remanded for trial; $300 bail was asked for.

A thing is never overlooked if it is thoroughly looked over.
