WANTS DIVORCE

Evelyn Thaw to Seek Annulment of Marriage.

Hasn't Seen the Color of Harry's Money Since June.

New York, Nov. 29.—According to Mrs. Evelyn Thaw, who paid a visit to her husband, Harry K. Thaw, at the Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane on Thursday, she has finished her devoted wife career definitely and forever, and presently will start a suit for an annulment of their marriage.

"I went to see Thaw on Thanksgiving," she said yesterday, at her home, No. 31 West Thirty-third street, "at his request, after he had written three or four pathetic notes. Thaw was waiting for me in the general reception room, and we shook hands. Then he said: 'You'll have to give up your flat and move to a cheaper place. My trustees are going to send a sheriff for the furniture.'"

"Do you mean to tell me," I asked, "that you're not even going to leave me that junk?" "That's right," he answered. "There'll be a truck backed up in a day or two. I'm a bankrupt and my trustees want the furniture to the benefit of my creditors."

"Look here," I replied, "what kind of an Indian game are you, anyway? Most of that furniture I bought myself and the part you gave me isn't worth the price of carrying it downstairs." "For the next fifteen minutes we were conversational goats, leaping from crag to crag without getting to anything definite. Then I put it right up to him that I was supposed to get $70 a week and that I hadn't seen the color of any of his money since last June. I wanted to know how about that."

Deceased was 28 years of age, and had lived in this city all his life, residing recently at 116 Bay street north. Mrs. McArdle was at his bedside when he passed away. He was a member of the Iron Structural Union. Charlton, a native of this city, and a prominent railway man, has been appointed passenger traffic manager of the Toledo, St. Paul & Western, Chicago & Alton, Minneapolis & St. Paul and Iowa Central Railroads, the appointment to take effect December 1. The Man In Overalls

How begin your Christmas shopping in earnest.

If there is no other way of raising the purchase money for the Public Library building we might try a rummage sale.

Put some ginger into your work, and not walk around as if you were at a funeral.

Four men of Aid. Peregrine's calibre would make a Board of Control to suit most parties.

When a speculator lays out a piece of land for sale and settlement there should be some Government regulation as to plan and conditions. The Crown Point annexation case is a case in point. Perhaps the Mayor may see the point.

I should think that Harry Daniels would be getting the least bit tired of that kind of newspaper notoriety.

Busy shopping?

Because they are not made returning officers for life some of the Tory heels are whimpering.

That local election on the Pacific coast seems to have been a pacific affair.

I understand it is this way: If we don't do as Mr. Stewart wants us to do he threatens that he will run for Mayor. Well, that certainly would be a calamity.

Still, Archie McLaughlin may have run after other women and yet not be a murderer. Don't jump to conclusions.

It will be a long time before you see another exhibition like that in Hamilton. Go up and see it.

Did you ever stand on a street corner and watch the people, how they walked past? Not one in a hundred seems to have the least notion of the art of walking. If they saw themselves in a moving picture show they would either die laughing or go out and kick themselves. There is a crying need for a walking school in this good city.

I would go further than Mr. Macalium. The Government should see that these settlements are properly laid out before built upon. Then there would be less trouble for the city when annexed.

Has the Industrial Committee anything to show for its year's work?

I don't think we are so anxious for free trade with the States, but we all want fair trade.

Seeing that Mr. Andrew Carnegie is giving us a public library building, the Canadian Club might invite Andrew to come and give us a talk. He is always worth listening to, and if he likes the place he might double his subscription. I should hate to see him die.

SUDDEN CALL.

Mrs. Alox. Mann Died at New Home in California.

A private telegram received this morning announces the sudden death at Alhambra, Cal., of Mrs. Mann, wife of Mr. Alexander Mann, who for years carried on a grocery business at the corner of King street and East avenue. Before going to the Golden State Mr. Mann purchased an orange grove, and a year or so ago the family went there, and he has since been engaged in the growing and exporting business.

By a strange coincidence Mrs. Jarvis, Barton street east, who received the telegram, also received a postal card by the first delivery, from Mrs. Mann herself, it having been mailed last Wednesday. She was in good health then.

THE ATTACK ON CHURCHILL

Particulars of the Struggle at the Railway Station.

The Assailant's Story of the Outrage on Him.

Miss Garnett Said She Would Do Better Next Time.

The London Daily Mail of November 20 gives the following particulars of the attack on Mr. Winston Churchill, the news of which has already been cabled over:

Mr. Churchill was subjected to a serious outrage at Bristol Station last Saturday, when a woman struck him across the head with a heavy whip. His hat saved his face from injury, and by quickness in seizing the woman's arm and the whip he prevented a repetition of the blow.

The outrage was so unexpected that the police were taken aback. Violence had been looked for in Bristol and close precautions taken. Mr. Churchill arrived at 3 p. m., by a different train from that expected, and when, accompanied by Mrs. Churchill, he stepped from his carriage police in plain clothes, including London detectives, surrounded the group.

Sir W. Howell Davies, his host, was introducing Mr. Churchill to his daughter and to Mr. Thomas Butler, president of the Anchor Society, which Mr. Churchill was to address, when a tall, well-built, and well-dressed young woman suddenly dashed between the officers. Exclaiming, "Take that, you brute, you brute!" she struck Mr. Churchill with a short, heavy-handled whip. The blow fell on his hat. As she raised the whip to strike again,

Mr. Churchill seized her right arm with one hand, wrested the whip from her, and pocketed it. Detective-Inspector Tanner seized her disengaged hand, another inspector held her by the arm, and she was quickly removed from the platform, shouting, "That is what you have got, and you will get more from British women," and other remarks inaudible in the confusion.

Mr. Churchill looked pale, but assured his friends that he was unharmed. He proceeded to the city without further molestation, on a dinner at the Colston banquet, in reply to an inquiry if he felt any ill-effects, said, smilingly, "Oh, no; I'm all right." Asked if he would keep the whip, he said, "Well, I've got it, anyway." Not the slightest mark was visible on his face.

The woman at first refused her name, but it was found to be Theresa Garnett, Leeds, one of the "hunger strikers." She was kept at the police station until about midnight, when a friend found her for her.

The whip was what is known in sporting circles as a "cutting whip." It has about 2 ft. of plant whip with a thong of knotted leather, the end being strands of scarlet silk.

Miss Garnett described the incident to a press representative at night. Feigning to be recognize at Bristol Station she took train to Bath and joined the 2.24 train by which Mr. Churchill was first expected. Not finding him there she slipped into the waiting-room at Bristol till the 3 p. m. express arrived.

"On its arrival I came out. I had the whip, which is a riding whip, up the sleeve of my coat. I saw a crowd and recognized Mr. Churchill. I made up my mind to give him a sound thrashing. I saw the detectives and others standing around him, and I do not know how I got through."

"I, however, made for him and he saw me before I was on him. He looked straight at me. I lifted my whip and rushed on him. He was prepared and could see I was going to attack him, for he put an arm to ward off the blow. I aimed at his face, and the full force of the whip came on his hat. I believe part of the blow touched his face. He struck out at me and I tried to smash him a second time in his face."

If the men had been "sporty," they would have let him and me have it out by ourselves. I deny that I was hysterical. I did it in cold blood. I made up my mind several days ago; it was my own idea."

Charged at the local police court on Monday, Miss Garnett refused to find sureties for her future good behavior, and went to prison for a month, saying: "If ever I meet one of our Cabinet Ministers again I hope I shall be able to do my business better than I did on Saturday."

Music at the Polls

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 29.—Bands of music were placed at each of the four voting places in Birmingham to-day to drown out the prayers and singing and pleadings of the women and children who gathered early to influence voters for the constitutional amendment, thus prohibiting. When the women began singing and praying the bands struck up. Business in Birmingham is practically suspended to-day. Police guard the polls.

WAR MONSTERS

British Lay Keels of the Orion and the Lion Warships.

The Lion Will be the Most Formidable Cruiser Afloat.

London, Nov. 29.—The keel plates of two monster warships, the Orion, the improved Dreadnought battleship, and the Lion, the cruiser battleship, were laid to-day at Portsmouth and Devonport, respectively. The bulk of the material for both vessels is ready and all arrangements have been made for their completion within two years. The construction of the Lion will mark a notable stage in the evolution of the cruising battleship. She will have 7,000 horsepower while her immediate predecessor had 45,000. She will displace 21,000 tons and her length will be 700 feet, constituting her the longest man-of-war ever laid down. What is technically known as her "run of deck" indicates an intention to equip the cruiser battleship with ten 12-inch guns, thus placing her as regards armament on an equality with the latest battleships. She will have probably a nominal speed of 27 knots an hour.

TO R. AILLES.

One of Oldest Bricklayers Honored by Union.

The Bricklayers' Union on Saturday afternoon made a presentation to Richard Ailles, one of its oldest members, who is going to Battle Creek, Mich., to reside. John Wurst, chairman of the union, read an address, which testified to the esteem in which Mr. Ailles is held by the members of the union, and Aid. John Allan made the presentation—a suit case. It was a surprise to some of the bricklayers to learn that Aid. Allan is not only an old union bricklayer, but he retains his card in the organization up to the present day. He was at one time Vice-President of the International Union and also treasurer for No. 4 in New York city, one of the biggest unions in America. At one time he worked under Mr. Ailles.

PROVED FATAL

Robert McClelland Died In City Hospital Yesterday.

Robert James McClelland, 32 Emily street, who shot himself through the forehead on Saturday morning, died at the City Hospital yesterday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock. He leaves a widow and three small children. He also leaves a widowed mother, two brothers, Andrew, of this city, and Alexander, a government surveyor. The funeral will be private on Wednesday-afternoon to Hamilton cemetery.

Coroner Balfe was notified of the circumstances of the case, and consulted Crown Attorney Washington. They decided that an inquest was not necessary.

LOOKING FOR SUPPOSED ELOPERS

The local police received a telegram from the chief of police at Woodstock to be on the look out for William Brennan, and hold him for elopement. It is alleged he eloped yesterday with a 16-year-old girl named Edna Given. Brennan is a man about 30 years old, five feet seven inches high, dark hair and weighing about 140 pounds. Nothing has been seen of the couple, though every train was searched yesterday.

DR. HENDERSON INJURED.

Dr. Mabel Henderson was the victim of a serious accident on Saturday evening, and as a result she sustained three broken ribs and a bad slaking and bruising. She was driving on Barton street east, near Emily street, when a street car in charge of Motorman Bentley and Conductor Hanson struck her rig. The ambulance was called and she was taken to the City Hospital. The buggy was badly damaged. To-day she is resting comfortably.

BURGLARY IN BURLINGTON

Laid at Doors of Three Hamilton Young Men.

All Three Were Committed For Trial This Morning.

Youth Who Has a Mania For Throwing Stones.

There was a surprise in Police Court this morning when Arthur Hodson, William Tomlinson and Reuben Williams were placed in the dock. The three were up three days ago charged with stealing brass from the Tallman company. Hodson and Tomlinson elected to be tried on the charge at the High Court and pleaded guilty; Williams pleaded guilty and elected to be tried before Magistrate Jelfs and was remanded for sentence. When the three were arraigned this morning a charge of housebreaking and theft was read out to them. The charge read that they did on the night of Nov. 11 break into F. W. Taylor's store at Burlington and steal several suits of clothes, an overcoat, cutlery, jewelry, etc.

Hodson and Tomlinson elected to be tried at the High Court and Williams elected to be tried before his worship. Just prior to their arrest on a charge of brass stealing they were in a saloon in the city drinking and taking and freely interspersed in their conversation with incidents relating to a burglary at Burlington. A man who overheard the conversation, not knowing there really had been a burglary committed there, had his suspicions aroused, and mentioned the conversation to Detective Sayers and that officer, knowing the circumstances relative to the burglary, put the details together and with the shrewdness that he has so often displayed, soon got evidence together that resulted in this morning's charge.

Yesterday he took F. W. Taylor to the jail and the prisoners were searched. Mr. Taylor identified the clothes they had on as those missing from his store. Cutlery and jewelry found on them were identified as his missing goods. All three prisoners were dressed in the clothes, this morning that Mr. Taylor swore belonged to him.

George Cheyne, of the Sanford Manufacturing Company identified the clothes as those sold by the company to Mr. Taylor.

The labels on the garments had been torn off, with the evident object of preventing their identification.

They were all three committed for trial; his worship declining to try Williams.

The police also suspect the same three with breaking into Taylor's store last April when $200 worth of goods was stolen.

They are also suspected of an attempt to hold up Fred Held on the Plains Road on the night of Nov. 11.

However, the local sleuths will thoroughly investigate to see if there are facts to substantiate their suspicions.

A mania for throwing stones through windows is what Thomas Brown, a 16-year-old youth, is a victim of. He was accused of throwing a stone through Margaret Nevill's store window, 576 King street west. He pleaded guilty frankly.

George Kerr, K. C., appeared for the defence and said that from a baby Brown has thrown stones, and the object of his aim has usually been windows. Some years ago the youth was in trouble for throwing stones at a T. H. & B. train, said Mr. Kerr, and since that time he has been arraigned in court several times for throwing stones through windows. The last time he was up for a similar offence was two weeks ago.

"Counsel for the defence suggested that he be examined as to his sanity. In every other respect the boy is all right. He will be examined by doctors during his week's remand. His parents offered to pay for the window.

Samuel Fay, Archibald Webster, Hugh McGowan, John Demitson and John Smith, all desecrated the Sabbath by publicly parading the streets in a condition of disgusting drunkenness. Each was fined $5.

Abel Flagen came perilously near being conveyed back to Merrie England as no expense to himself. He was enclosed for being disorderly on Saturday night, and P. C.'s Campbell and Brannan swore that, armed with a wooden stake about 15 feet long, he tried to poke everything movable on Barton street.

The Magistrate asked defendant if he would like to be deported. The answer was, "No." He was fined $5.

A fine of $40 was imposed on a man named Hall for indecent exposure.

James Crisp, 36 York street, was weighed in the scales of justice for theft and found not guilty, so he stepped off the scales free. The article in question was a gun, and the complainant was Percy Midwinter. The value of that ancient shooting piece was a matter of uncertainty, but Mr. Washington said 50 cents would be a high price. It appeared the gun had been taken to an amened, and got lost or thrown aside.

Mrs. George Horning appeared to explain why her girl does not go to school. She said she cannot manage her. Mr. Hunter said the young miss in question is a night prowler.

If she goes not to school voluntarily she will be sent away.

William Newton was up for neglecting to send his boy to school. He wanted to say things to Mr. Hunter, but the Magistrate told him to keep a still tongue in his head, and let him go with a warning.

John Mapham, 129 Caroline street south, who was arraigned on Saturday charged with an aggravated assault on William Wallis, was discharged this morning. The complainant did not show up, and Mr. Washington said the Crown had no evidence to offer.

A Spanish Beauty

Talk about the impatience and impetuosity of women, and listen to this! I dozen questions in a breath. Who is she, the famous leader of the 'Devil's Own,' you big, stupid Mike! Where is he? Why, Colonel Drummond, to be here in St. Louis. How came I to know him? Well, you recollect the story I told you last night of Minnette Chantrey and her husband? He is that husband. Does he know you are here? Not yet. But he shall before this time to-morrow, if you can survive your frantic anxiety so long. There! I hope you are satisfied.

She turned as if to leave him, but the sick man grasped her arm in an agony of excitement. "Mignonne! Little Queen! don't go! Tell me more. Tell me, what is he to you?" "I have told you sufficient," Mignonne said, with sudden hauteur. "I have nothing to say to listen to this! I do not wish to permit you to go, and you have a great deal to attend to this afternoon, and all my patients to visit before I leave the hospital. It is not sufficient that you go to-morrow, and will be with you to-morrow." She bent over him with the last words, the passionate, devoted, Mike. No man alive ever was yet, still, I honor you for it. And now, good-day, and good-bye!

COBALT STOCKS. The mining market showed little activity in Toronto on Saturday, the only feature of interest being a sharp rally in La Rose, which went to 4.00 on the Toronto board, and as high as 4.85 in New York. There was little of the stock offered on the Standard, where prices ruled somewhat lower. Rochester was again the most active stock there, but the price varied very little, being maintained around 19. Nipissing touched 10.0 for a broken bid. The situation is believed to be favorable for higher prices, as stocks have been pretty well picked up and are rather scarce. A slight influx of buying orders will be sufficient to cause a general upward movement.

It Pays to Go to School. The table prepared by the Massachusetts State Board of Education shows the weekly earnings of children who left school at 14 until the end of their twenty-fifth year. Those who left school at 12 began at $4 a week and at the end of the twenty-fifth year were receiving $12.75 a week.

Those from the high school began at a 10 a week and at 25 were receiving $31 a week. The total earnings of the elementary schoolboy in the twelve years was $5,722.50, while those of the high schoolboy in the eight years were $7,377.50.—Educational Review.

"We will have to do something to stop this prohibition wave," said the rotund distiller, as he pounded the table furiously with his clenched fist. "It is an outrage the way those hypocrites are fooling the people. They claim that prohibition prohibits, when I, a distiller, can show you by the internal revenue receipts that the consumption of liquor is twenty per cent. more than it was ten years ago. Almost all the countries of the nation that are prohibition now permitted the liquor traffic then."

"In that case," said the man with a forehead resembling a mountain slope, "why in the world don't you favor prohibition?"—Judge.

ILLUSORY "ECONOMY."

A Hydro-Electric contemporary calls our attention to the recent purchase of aluminum wire for the transmission line, and indulges in some self-congratulation over what it describes as "the great saving the Commission has effected by buying this wire instead of copper."

Our contemporary but furnishes another illustration of the truth of the saying that "a little knowledge is a dangerous thing." The Commission may have effected "a saving," on the cost of the wire required for the line; but that it has secured real economy for the municipalities interested, who must pay the bills, not only for the cost of the line, but year by year for power for thirty years, is to be doubted.

The value of the line is according to its capacity to convey electric current. Its efficiency is to be judged by its conductivity—its power to transmit without loss caused by resistance in the metal of which it is composed, or by faults of construction. The metals vary greatly in their conductivity; that is, a current of electricity can be carried through some metals with a less loss caused by resistance than through others. Were it not for this consideration nobody would think of using copper wire for electric conduction when iron wire is so much cheaper.

Let our jubilant contemporary stop and think that, taking annealed silver as 1,000, the electrical resistance of annealed copper 1,063, and of aluminum is 1,935; and perhaps it will be willing to revise its views as to "the great saving" effected by the Commission. At least it must admit that if there has been effected "a great saving" in the wire for the line, it has been at the expense of a great and constant loss in current caused by the enormously greater electrical resistance of the metal substituted for copper. Of course this current loss will not show in the figures of cost of the line; it will, however, figure in every bill for current presented to the municipalities. The amount of the constant loss will be greater than in a copper line as the relative resistance of aluminum is greater than that of copper, or as 1,935 is to 1,063, an excess of .872, nearly double. These are Roper's figures.

With the knowledge that the loss of electric current in transmission by an aluminum line is nearly double that experienced with a copper line of similar cross-section, it is not difficult to decide the question of economy. Let us suppose that the copper line would receive at the bus-bars at Niagara Falls 30,000 h.p. of current, and deliver at the various municipal stations 19,000 h.p., a loss of 5 per cent. Current costing $10 a h.p. the loss with the copper line would be $10,000 a year. With a similar aluminum line, the loss would be nearly double, or not far from $20,000. Any reader can settle for himself whether a small saving in the cost of the metal for the original line will compensate for the great and constant loss caused by using the metal of greater electrical resistance. A showing of "economy" made by such means is not one likely to impress those who will be held, during 30 years, to pay for these losses.

AMEND THE RULES.

The recent violent protests of the Mail and Empire against the amendment of the rules of Parliament so as to prevent the organized obstruction of business are perhaps correctly read as indicating the intention of the Opposition to resort to the same tactics as it made use of in the last Parliament, with the result, as a contemporary states it, "that thousands of pages of Hansard were filled with verbiage, the time of the House was unconsciously wasted, the heavy expense which Parliament is to the country every day, it is in session was piled up senselessly, the health of the members of the House was subjected to a severe strain, and all absolutely to no purpose, and with no result save the public disgust that was created by the spectacle of Parliament thus being reduced to impotence for weeks." As a matter of fact the rules of Parliament should have been amended last session; there is no excuse for delaying it longer. The Canadian Parliament is the one free legislative institution in the world which has no rule preventing such sheer malicious obstruction as we witnessed two sessions ago.

Our Australian fellow citizens took care to provide in the rules of procedure of the Commonwealth Parliament for the application of the closure to do away with this form of obstruction, and the provision has already been tested. The Opposition set out to block Government legislation, beginning on the bill for the appointment of an Australian High Commissioner in London. The Government applied the closure, to the great advantage of Parliament as a business institution, and to the utter discomfiture of the organized clique which had attempted to paralyze the country's business. The Sydney Daily Telegraph comments editorially upon the matter:

"It is always a matter for regret when the 'gag' is applied in Parliamentary debate, but when a minority pushes opposition so far that it becomes obstruction there is no other course left to prevent Parliament from becoming impotent. When the general election takes place, early next year, the caucus will have its opportunity to win a majority of the people to its views. If it succeeds, it will have the rights which always belong to a majority. Meanwhile, it must respect those rights. The desperate denial of majority rights is usually the sign of a lost cause; for a party which has confidence in its power to win a popular verdict has no need to resort to tactics of desperation. If Mr. Fisher has the country behind him, that will be shown in due course. Meanwhile, the only test available, a majority in Parliament, proves that the country favors the present Government. It should not be again necessary to resort to the closure to remind the Opposition of the sound constitutional principles which surround the position of parliamentary majorities.

The example of Australia is commendable to the Canadian Parliament. It should be followed immediately. Parliament has been too long at the mercy of guerrilla politicians without any sense of duty or honor. The people should not be longer sacrificed to their whims.

THE WOOLLEN TRADE.

In spite of the doleful outcry which we have been hearing from the political woolmen who have been seeking for higher protective duties on their product, the Canadian woolen trade appears to be in a tolerably healthy condition. Either the politicians of the last Dominion election campaign grossly misrepresented the situation when they said that the woolen business of the country was ruined for lack of higher tariff, or else the industry has experienced a most remarkable revival without any change having been made in the tariff. Our readers, who will remember the efforts made by the senior local Tory orator to produce sympathy for the cause of higher taxes on woollens by publishing a faked list of mills alleged to have been ruined by the Liberal tariff (many of them having been out of business before the Liberal regime, and others having been destroyed by fire, while still others were enjoying prosperity and expansion), will be interested in learning that the Canadian woolen manufacturers, far from putting up their shutters, are enlarging their plants and increasing their staffs of operators. A typical announcement is being sent out by the Trent Valley Woollen Manufacturing Company of Campbellford, in which it is stated that an extensive addition, increasing the plant's capacity by over 50 per cent., will be completed early in the new year. The trade is told that "the growing demand for our goods has at times made it impossible to fill our orders as promptly as we should have liked," but it is intimated that this large increase of capacity will better enable it to meet the demands of its customers. Having made such an appeal as the Spectator made in this woolen duty matter, we think it owes it to the public and to the trade which it so seriously aspersed to undo some of the evil effects of its misrepresentations by setting forth the prosperous condition of the Canadian woolen industry, under the unchanged Laurier tariff. Will it do so?

A WAR ENDED.

A cablegram from Melilla brings the news that the Riff tribesmen have appeared before the Spanish Governor and formally surrendered. Thus, for the present, ends a struggle that seriously threatened Spain's power in Morocco and added immensely to her home difficulties.

We have at times remarked upon the extremely prejudiced reports of the Spanish war in Morocco, which filter through United States news agencies to American readers, and recommended those who would get the facts not to be hasty in accepting them at their face value. An article by T. Comyn-Platt, with the Spanish army at Melilla, contributed to the National Review, gives such a distinctly different view of the difficulty and the parties thereto as to amply justify our position.

The writer of the article compares the struggle with the Boer war, with the exception of Spain's proximity to the scene of action. The apparently trivial occasion of the outbreak had behind it the determination of the Riffs to win back from Spain the fortress of Melilla. This has been many times attempted, last in 1893. The country around Melilla proved to be rich in minerals, and enterprising Europeans bought from the Riff ruler a mining concession. The industry attracted settlers. More concessions followed; more Spaniards came. The Riffs became jealous of this invasion. In the fulness of time they began demonstrations by shooting some railway workmen, and on refusal to yield up the murderers, the war followed.

The Riffs are not ethnically admirable. They are naturally "riffians," which etymologically and actually may be not improperly easily changed to "riffians." But they make great enemies. Of them our writer says:

But first as regards the Riff himself. A native of the mountain, he knows every side-path, track and stream; his dwelling is a stone-built hut, surrounded by a cactus hedge. Here the Riff is in his element. The steepest ascent has no trials for him, nor is it any obstacle to his inordinate agility. With few wants and fewer possessions, half a dozen goats supply him with all the necessities of life.

Like the Boer, to the Riff shooting is an amusement. A heap of stones, or some other mark is set up, and matches, for small wagers, are indulged in with a neighbor whenever the opportunity offers. Every man is thus a born marksman. The eye of an eagle and the adaptability of a chameleon; the agility of a goat and the endurance of a camel; the tenacity of a hound and the courage of a leopard—combine all these sterling characteristics and the sum total is the Riff.

These were the foes with whom Spain had to deal. Of the Spanish troops, Mr.

Comyn-Platt has a story to tell quite different to that gleaned from sources: I have spoken of the courage and general warlike bearing of the Riff. The Spanish soldier is not one whit inferior. More than this, for pluck, energy and endurance he has no superior in any army in Europe. Any one who denies this is either prejudiced or ignorant. Short and thick-set, of frugal habits and cheerful disposition, he is just the stuff out of which the best soldiers are fashioned. That he is not at present all that circumstances would desire is the fault of circumstances; while he will be none at all. So long as the inhabitants numbered but a few thousand, matters were passable. But now, with a population of at least ten times the number, and increasing at that, the dangers of an epidemic are imminent. As it is, the water is unfit to drink, yet no one pays any heed to the fact; the filth in the streets, the foetid atmosphere, and the flies, beggar description. No one is actually to blame; it is all in the march of war. But the fact remains, there are germs of disease everywhere, which, if not checked in time, will prove a far more dangerous enemy than the Riff.

Now that the war is happily ended, Spain will consult her own interests as well as confer a benefit on the Riffs and civilization in general if she sets about cleaning up Melilla as a peace-offering. It is well that the war-slaughter should cease; it would be still better if Spain made her rule in Morocco a blessing to its people.

[Since the above was in type rumors have been received of a rupture in negotiations which may lead to the reopening of hostilities at Melilla.]

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The old theory that misfortunes, like twins, do not come singly, finds support in the second railway horror occurring near Vancouver within a few days.

Still, it was rather discourteous of the Herald to sneer at the young men who debated the Hydro-Electric vs. Ontario question recently. Mr. Pecksniff of the Hydromaniac would never have done so had the Hydro-Electric side won!

The alarm of the Hydromaniac organ at the prospect of the power contracts being submitted to the ratepayers is very amusing. Once upon a time it pretended to be willing to trust the ratepayers. Has it concluded that the people are "on to its game"?

Congressman Mann proposes introducing resolutions calculated to avert a tariff war with Canada, which the United States Paper Trust seems to be courting. It will be interesting to note whether this trust, or Congress, controls the situation.

Aylmer has decided to rebuild its own electric plant, having concluded that Hydro-Electric power cannot be supplied as cheaply as it can supply its own needs by steam generation. Aylmer finds that it would cost it $14,750 for 500 h.p., without cost of distribution, so it turns its back upon the Hydro scheme.

The Mail and Empire pretends to think that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's defence policy is shameful and un-British. The London Times, on the other hand, says it contains the true idea of imperial unity. Which is the more British, the Mail and Empire partisan, or the London Times?

The City Engineer will have general support in standing firmly for a reform in the matter of street concessions in the new part of the city. We have far too many streets one block or a few blocks long. They are too many "jogs" and surveys which have no relation to any others. Secure straight streets extending without jogs east and west and north and south. Insist on full width always. The Hamiltonians of the future will be thankful for it.

In the evening he selected for his text estimates of the cost of power for Hamilton is that whether the line may cost $115,000 or $84,000; whether it include the cost of the line from Dundas to the Beach or not; whether the wire be copper or aluminum, and whether the measurement be that of power at Dundas, or at the city receiving station, the figure remains the same, $117.92. The accuracy, or elasticity, of such an estimate is marvellous.

The New York Herald's Ottawa correspondent has been interviewing the editor of the Citizen, and reports him as saying that the Liberal party adopted Sir John A. Macdonald's tariff policy which it found in force when it came into power in 1896. How these Ottawa fellows must enjoy leading up those ingenuous New Yorkers and reflecting upon the long and bitter fight which the Tories made against the Liberal tariff, and the doleful predictions which Tory leaders made as to the result of overturning the N. P.!

The Imperial Government asked us to make a direct contribution—money or a ship—to the navy.—Mail and Empire.

We are unable to find in the official correspondence or in the blue book of the Defence Conference any record of any such request by the Imperial Government; nor is there anything to support the Mail and Empire's contention that the naval unit to be created by any of the British Dominions should be given over, entirely out of such Dominion's control, to the Imperial Government. The Mail and Empire's statement is a fiction.

What happened Ottawa's Rough Riders at Toronto on Saturday? They hardly made a mouthful for the Varsity players, who gave an excellent exhibition of the game. The Ottawa team appears to have been seized with something like blue funk, its play lacking the vim and snap which had characterized it throughout the season. What possessed it to drop to the standard of a third rater, after its brilliant record of the season?

Our Exchanges

LIKE THE REST OF US.

(London Advertiser.) The factory workers here, male or female, are not a class apart as in the old world.

EASILY EXPLAINED.

(Exchange.) Wigg—Miss Castique says she is very fond of young Saphedde. Wagg—Why, I thought she was a man-hater. Wigg—So she is. I suppose that's why she likes Saphedde.

THE FELLOW IN THE WOODPILE (Hamilton Spectator.) There is the best reason for believing that the members of the [Hydro-Electric] commission, with the possible exception of Hon. Mr. Beck, would have given what Hamilton asked had it not been for that mysterious "hidden influence."

THEIR NARROW ESCAPE.

(Everybody's Magazine.) Two Irishmen, bent on robbery, held up a passing Scotchman. After a long, fierce fight, in which the Scotchman almost had the better of it, they succeeded in conveying him. A thorough search of his clothes disclosed one lone five-cent piece.

"Troth, Pat," said Mike disgustedly, "if he'd had tin cents instead of a nickel he'd have murdered the two of us!"

MRS. PANKHURST.

(Toronto Saturday Night.) But while her speech may not have entirely succeeded in offsetting certain masculine prejudices, it was none the less a very remarkable address; and made one understand how very undesirable an opponent on the hustings would be this same quiet, mannerly woman with the clear, strong voice and the crisp, trenchant diction. There are few speakers who would not come off second-hand in the encounter.

COURTING CANADA.

(New York American.) And this for the very simple reason that we have for a quarter of a century been making eyes at Canada ourselves. She is the very best girl in the marriageable class of colonies, and when this fair maiden of the snow becomes of age, and of a mind to enter upon new relations of life, the fellow that gets her has got to be a bigger and better man than Uncle Sam.

THE SOCIAL EVIL.

(St. Catharines Star-Journal.) Campaigns are being carried on at the ballot box against intemperance; the pulpits are thundering against it, and the women interested in the movement are working along their own lines to suppress the liquor traffic. There is, however, stalking about in almost every community an evil which the pulpit is not yet inveighing against and which does not yet occupy the place it deserves in discussions carried on by those interested in reform movements.

HOW TO SEE PICTURES.

(Toronto Star.) We advise those who want to see the loan exhibition and enjoy it to pay as many visits as possible, and select as many pictures each day as can be viewed without fatigue. When we have a permanent art gallery, this method can be adopted in a still more systematic manner. The secret of enjoying classical music is to hear the same work often; and so one should not be satisfied with a mere introduction to a fine picture, but should cultivate its acquaintance until acquaintance ripens into friendship.

LEADER NEEDED.

(Toronto Saturday Night.) At the moment it looks very much as if his Majesty's loyal Opposition is in the act of walking into the wake of its own leaders. Disasters bob up all along the line. It took nothing larger than the small naval programme to unhorse the entire brigade. Every individual member of the Opposition, so far heard from, has his own pet naval scheme, said scheme agreeing with no other scheme, while the bright, particular star of the own leaders, Mr. Borden, is under the bed somewhere endeavoring to frame up a policy which will be acceptable to at least a half of the loyal Opposition. It's a sorry spectacle, and one can readily forgive Sir Wilfrid Laurier for poking fun at the shadow of a party which sits on the Speaker's left in the House of Commons.

To be quite candid, R. L. Borden as a party leader is not a howling success. When in February, 1901, Mr. Borden took up the reins of party leadership in the House of Commons, much was expected of him. Back of him was a clear record; in front of him was an opportunity. Personally, Mr. Borden has always been a man of irreproachable character. But he lacks, alas, the one great essential—he is not a leader of men.

STONEY CREEK LEAGUE.

The second regular meeting of the Epworth League was held in the Methodist Sunday school room on Friday evening, Nov. 26 and was very enthusiastic. The president, E. B. Snider, was in the chair. The head of each department gave a short address on the prospect of the coming season. The spirit of each speaker augured well for the success of the league this coming year.

"You can't get something for nothing," "Oh, I don't know," replied the boy. "How about the toothache?"—Detroit Free Press.

SATURDAY NIGHT RALLY. Citizens Campaign Committee Held a Good One. So large a crowd attended the first of the Saturday night rallies of the Citizens' Campaign Committee that the room was completely filled and it was hard to find standing room in the adjacent hall. Sharp on time the meeting was called to order by the chairman, Mr. Byron Smith. The reports of the various wards were presented by their representatives. The reports were submitted by Ward 1, Richard Hicks; Ward 2, D. Crawford; Ward 3, H. E. Elmer; Ward 4, William Brown; Ward 5, F. A. Elder; Ward 6, H. A. Martin; Ward 7, J. L. Sibbald. An announcement was made that a meeting of the committee of No. 6 Ward would be held to-morrow night in First Congregational lecture room; also that Ward 4 would have a meeting at Zion Tabernacle on Thursday night. These meetings are for the purpose of deciding on the aldermanic candidates in their respective wards. Rev. E. H. Tippet gave a forceful address in which he spoke of a visit he had made to Maine. He compared the condition of affairs there with those here. On a recent Saturday afternoon he counted 11 drunks outside one of this city's saloons. Public opinion should be aroused against such a thing—not as a matter of sentiment but as a business standpoint. The C. P. E. had made a commendable move in using its influence to put a saloon opposite their car shops in Montreal out of business. In that shop were employed 5,000 men. If the corner saloon was put out of business it would be replaced by a respectable business. Short addresses were given by Dr. Davey and Messrs. Geo. H. Lees and J. M. Peregrine. It was hoped that Dr. Sam Small would have addressed the gathering but he did not arrive until later in the evening. CENTRAL SUNDAY SCHOOL. "I want you something about this running game that is prevalent at the present time," said Rev. E. B. Laneley at the morning service of Central Methodist Sunday school anniversary yesterday. "No. C. I. happens to know Bobby Kerr; he is one of my boys at the church, and I am proud of him. I think that running for a hundred yards or even two hundred yards is all right, but when a man starts on a five-mile race, I think it is decidedly wrong, and I consider it positively criminal for a man to run twenty-six miles, and it should be prohibited." "No boy should be permitted to tax his energies to the utmost extremity in such contests as these. I believe in testing one's strength, but not overdoing it. A lot of men are engaged in this sport just now. They are doing themselves incalculable injury, that will tell against them in later years." "The body is an instrument made by God for us to use to some definite good. Let us see to it that we use the body as we ought." Mr. Laneley's address to the children was bright and inspiring, he having no difficulty in maintaining the best of attention from the youngsters. When through he called upon Rev. Sam Small, the famous evangelist, to address the scholars. Mr. Small's characteristic greeting of "Hyer, boys," met a hearty response from the assembled boys. Mr. Small spoke but a few minutes, impressing those present with the fact that Canada was a glorious country to live in, and that every Canadian should be proud of his heritage. The principal speaker at the open session of the Sunday school in the afternoon was Mr. J. M. Robinson, for years Superintendent of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Sunday school. Rev. Dr. Tovell and R. M. Stuart, a former Superintendent, also spoke. Ald. W. H. Cooper, Superintendent of the school, occupied the chair. Rev. W. B. Harvey, of the Methodist Church, Dundas, preached a very strong sermon in the evening. The anniversary entertainment is taking place this evening. Rubber soaring, Latawaw Rubber Heels will do you as well, at one-third the cost of a pair of rubbers. They won't slip. All dealers. KING AS MEDIATOR. London, Nov. 29.—A request that King Edward mediate the Alsop claim dispute between the United States and Chile will be made by the United States through the Foreign Office to-day. His Majesty has been communicated with informally on the subject before, but at that time he gave a non-committal reply.

TO MEN. Frank Yeigh Advocates Programme In Life. In Knox Church yesterday afternoon a special and interesting address for men was given by Mr. Frank Yeigh, of Toronto. Mr. Yeigh had as his theme "The Programme of Life." To have an adequate programme of life, he said, it was necessary to have the proper conception of life, which meant something more than the accumulation of wealth. True conception was that which was linked with eternity, something that was connected with the future as well as to-day. The greatest men known were those whose view of life included the eternal and who gave service for other than their own selfish ends. "The world as it will remain long after they have passed away. He explained that there were two programmes of life, negative and positive. It was negative when all of life was centered in self and all else neglected. The positive programme was one of broad vision and thoughts included the feeling to help others. He emphasized that it was all a matter of choice which programme was followed. It was very easy, he said, to live an indifferent and ineffective life, and if the programme was not constructed, it was worse than useless. It should contain, first, last and always, faith in God and in Jesus Christ. It should include an interest in the evangelization of the world, which must be done, otherwise the world would soon fall into materialism. The programme should also contain unimpeachable citizenship. In conclusion, Mr. Yeigh pointed out that the model programme was that which Jesus had followed and he felt that when the reckoning day came the great and final question would be, "What did your programme in life include?" Now see the advantage of the TORIC CURVE in your lenses FOR READING. The rays of light from eye to work are direct, thus more restful. Supplied promptly by I. B. ROUSE, Optician, 111 King East. MINERS DEFEATED At Glace Bay, Says Deputy Minister of Labor. Ottawa, Nov. 28.—P. A. Acland, Deputy Minister of Labor, who investigated the conditions in Nova Scotia relative to the strike at the coal mines brought about by the United Mine Workers of America, says: "That the strike at Glace Bay appears to be practically broken, but military force is likely to be retained for some time to come. It is broken, but the strike is still more difficult to consider desirable. There is a considerable number of men on the United Mine Workers' list." "At Spring Hill no attempt is made to work the mine, and operations are apparently at a standstill for indefinite period, with the promise of worse results to the industry and community concerned." JAP LAND. Aliens May be Allowed to Buy Land in Japan. San Francisco, Nov. 29.—A revision of the imperial laws of Japan, which will extend to aliens the privilege of owning property in fee simple for agricultural and other purposes will be the consideration of the next treaty that is consummated in Japan with another nation, according to M. Sumner, proprietor of the Japanese Times of Tokyo, the close friend of the late Marquis Ito, and one of the big figures of the present day life of the island empire.

SAM SMALL SPOKE TO MEN.

Ringed Address at Mass Meeting in First Church.

He Dealt Especially With Situation in Hamilton.

Vigorous Denunciation of Evils of Liquor Traffic.

For nearly an hour yesterday afternoon a noticeable man, tall of stature, with piercing dark eyes, an expressive face, a powerful voice, his dark hair tinged with grey, swayed an audience of men in First Methodist Church with a scorching denunciation of the liquor traffic and a thrilling recital of prohibition's triumphal march in the republic to the South. He was Sam Small, the noted Southern evangelist.

Prominent temperance leaders and workers, who will throw their support behind the fight the Citizens' Campaign Committee will make at the next election to vote into office a Council that will reduce the number of licenses in Hamilton to fifty, comprised a large portion of the audience, and they punctuated with enthusiastic applause the stirring address of the noted Georgia orator. The speaker paid special attention to the local situation. "The question in Hamilton, I understand," he said, "is to cut a few joints out of the thing. You have about 78 licenses here, bars and sloop shops, all run the same way and for the same purpose—seventy-eight booze dives that invite people to be destroyed in this life and the one to come. You are getting a little better, though. You are willing to come down to fifty. Now, personally, I favor a clean sweep, but I can sympathize with the people who try to cure boils one at a time. It means less snake holes to watch. It is a good object when you have not the courage to demand more. I hope to God you will be able to accomplish what you aim at.

"There are 78 places here that pay licenses. The people who built up this magnificent city have sense to know that a saloon is not a good thing unless it pays. They have not sense enough to run the town without them. I understand that.

"You have 78 licensed places that pay something like $700 each, or $84,000, of which you get half, $27,000, which, spread over 70,000 people means less than forty cents a head. That is your wholesale price per capita, it is for that marked down figure, rummage sale quotation, that you are willing not only to sell the people's dignity, the reputation for good order, for domestic felicity, for civic decency, but you endanger the sobriety of your son and the very virtue of your daughter. And you do it for less than forty cents a head," he added, scornfully. "God help your souls, aren't you a cheap crowd?"

The remark caused a smile, but the evangelist rebuked it. "It is impudence," he said, "to laugh at such a thing. Here you go down to the ballot box and barter your whole family to the devil, to the breweries, the distilleries, all this riff-raff and the machinery of hell, for less than 40¢. Don't wrinkle your noses and look at me when I tell you that. I did not fix the price.

"Where is your pride of citizenship, your culture and your character, when you go down to the polls and sell out to a maceys gang, the worst that any country can have outside of prison walls, and you set out for less than forty cents a head?"

"I have nothing more to say. Look at the facts yourself, and, my word, before God, you will be ashamed of what you do. And when you get a deep red blush that reaches from your ears to your heels go down to your polls on the 3rd, with your neighbor of like decency, look shields, and write the verdict on the ballot, not only for twenty licenses less, but serve notice on the business that they must prepare to go."

Rev. E. B. Lancelley, pastor of the church, who presided, in introducing the speaker, prefaced a glowing tribute to the noted evangelist, with a few remarks about the approaching campaign. It was essentially the decision, that in civic and national affairs the kingdom of Jesus Christ should receive as much recognition as by the individual. He hoped that every other issue would sink into insignificance at the next election, compared with the great moral question, the uplifting of the people.

"It is a little later than I usually begin to address meetings of this kind," said Evangelist Small, as he glanced at his watch, "and I will have to give you a fast run for your money. If you come here to hear a temperance lecture you will be disappointed. I never deliver temperance addresses. I would as soon you called me a yellow dog as a temperance man. You can tell the way a dog is pointing by his tail and head. No one on earth can tell what way a temperance man is going."

The evangelist explained that he was forced of calling himself a temperance man when in Sandusky, Ohio, he purchased a paper with glaring headlines, which told of the brewers' congress going on record that its members were the only true apostles of temperance. After inspecting these "true apostles," he declared he decided then and there he would be mighty careful after that about being called a temperance man. Temperance was a very honorable word when applied to the crusade in which they were engaged, but, unfortunately, like other good words, it had degenerated. Demagogue used to be considered an honorable word. Now it was the sobriquet for pot-bellied politicians.

Reviewing prohibition's triumph in the States the evangelist said, "The work in which I have been engaged for twenty-four years is now producing large and prophetic results. Already, at this very hour, of the ninety million people in the States, shown by the last census, fifty million are living in prohibition territories where there are no licenses. Half of the liquor shops licensed by American law are confined to six of the forty-six States of the Union."

They were getting the traffic bunched. It was the same thing that happened before slavery was abolished. When the traffic was concentrated in one district it was not long before the balance of the country arose in indignation and swept it away.

People looked back now with horror on slavery days, and wondered what kind of barbarians the people were. Our children's children, he declared, would look back the same way on the liquor traffic, and wonder what kind of barbarians the people of to-day were to permit it.

In every country there were many who argued that the liquor traffic was like any other and should be recognized on the same footing. The evangelist pointed out that in every country of English jurisprudence from the days of the early Edwards down to the present ruler the places were licensed, showing clearly that it was a special traffic, calling for special regulations.

"There are many regulations to be complied with in getting a license," he said, "and one that no one but preachers, teachers and hotel men must conform with, a certificate of good moral character. For instance there is no such a thing as getting a drink on Sunday in Hamilton," he observed, sarcastically, and the audience applauded.

"It is a lawful business," he continued, with a scorn, "and they are law-abiding people who are engaged in it, people with such good moral characters that they would not trespass on the legal end of it. Regulation is the ideal thing. Prohibition does not prohibit, but regulation regulates. You have it. Ain't it a dandy? I subscribe to what Billy Sunday said when he remarked, 'I would as soon try to regulate a powder mill in little as regulate bar rooms with your little municipal laws.'"

The evangelist dealt at length with prohibition's sweep through the States. "I believe before God to-day," he said, fervently, "that before the census of 1920 not one single inch of territory under the American flag will permit this business to debase and damn its cities."

Dr. Small spoke enthusiastically of the progress of prohibition in making in this country. "In Quebec," he said, "we find that 600 places out of 1,008 are under local option, and the great archbishop of the Roman Catholic Church has come out openly and denounced liquor as the foe of religion and domestic tranquility. In Ontario there are 333 places under local option and 104 more will vote on it in January."

The progress made in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick was also touched upon, and the evangelist spoke optimistically of the outlook in the western Provinces. British Columbia, he pointed out, has a tremendous vote in favor of local option for the entire Province. Mr. Small stirred the audience with a prophetic picture of Canada's future greatness, declaring it would become the strongest and most dominant power in the whole British Empire. It could not afford to stay wet while other countries were wiping out the liquor traffic.

"You meet the man who says he does not think prohibition will prohibit. Why don't you think it will prohibit?" he thundered. "The reply is usually, 'I read it in the newspapers.' I tell these fellows they have to hand me something better than that. I honor and respect the newspaper profession, but when it comes to the liquor question, that is generally where the papers fall down. Most people in the liquor business do."

Maine, he said, for fifty-seven years had prohibition, and recently rejected with scorn an offer from the liquor interests to accept $4,000,000 annually to enact a license law. Kansas had prohibition for twenty-five years. "In spite of the nature of the temptations and Christianity in these two States there are red-faced, pug-nosed devils down at the saloon who say they can prove on their own testimony that prohibition is a failure. They probably could not find either of these States on the map for a ten dollar bill."

"Prohibition," he declared, "will prohibit wherever the officers of the law are faithful and honest."

P. S. A.

Membership Campaign Begun—Ald. Lees Spoke Yesterday.

The membership of the P. S. A. Brotherhood has advanced by leaps and bounds since its inception last September and yesterday the two hundred mark was reached. The Brotherhood is aiming for five hundred members and to do so has started a competition which promises to be a very keen one. Encyclopedias, histories and numerous literary works have been donated as prizes and the officers of the Brotherhood expect that it will not be long before the five hundred mark is reached. The Brotherhood has arranged a list of prominent speakers for their regular meetings, 17 in First Congregational Church every Sunday afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock. Yesterday Ald. G. H. Lees spoke on the temperance question, and read a large number of quotations expounding the views of prominent and successful men on the liquor traffic. He also spoke on the work being accomplished by the Citizens' Campaign Committee, and felt sure that the coming campaign would be a victorious one.

GOOD TEMPLARS.

The regular weekly session of International Juvenile Temple, I. O. F., was held in the C. O. F. Hall on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Robert Morrison, Superintendent, presided, assisted by Miss Mabel Austin, Chief Templar. Two candidates were initiated. A spelling competition took place between sides captained by Mrs. C. A. Hardy and W. H. Anderson. The superintendent acted as school mistress, and after a spirited contest the class led by W. H. Anderson won. A brief programme was ably sustained by a number of the Temple's musicians.

Next Saturday afternoon the programme is to be a treat by the honorary members of the Temple.

A LIBERAL RESPONSE.

At the anniversary services in First Methodist Church yesterday the congregation was asked to contribute $1,000 to apply on the reduction of the church debt. The response was liberal. In loose collection and subscriptions almost $750 was placed on the plates during the day. The receipts from the anniversary tea to-night have to be added, and more subscriptions are expected, so that the amount asked for will be about raised.

CHIEFS SUBMIT.

Meilla, Morocco, Nov. 29.—The chiefs of the important Moroccan tribes of Kabyles, Beni-Boufar, and Beni Sidel to-day made formal submission to General Morisot, French Marshal, Superintendent, offered to raise a native force and join the Spanish troops against such Moors as were still hostile.

"Rubber, rubber, who's got the rubber?" You can get Catspaw Rubber Heels at any shoe store or cobbler's.

Music and the Drama

The St. Andrew's Society annual concert will be held at the Grand next Wednesday evening, for which an excellent programme has been provided, the Imperial Scots Concert Company having been secured for this occasion. Among the artists are J. M. Hamilton, the famous tenor; Miss Bethune Grigor, soprano, and "Fanny Cassels," who is considered to be in many ways equal to Harry Lauder. There is not a dull moment when "Fanny Cassels" occupies the platform. His droll songs and stories, his original witticisms, quaint accent and mannerisms, all combine to form an irresistible appeal to the risible faculties. His costumes are all framed to suit the character he is impersonating, and real humor, not buffoonery, is his mainspring.

THIS WEEK AT BENNETT'S.

While the chief attraction at Bennett's Theatre will be "Lucky Jim," a stirring dramatic sketch, presented by Jane Courthope and company, there are a number of other meritorious numbers which should combine to make a strong and pleasing bill. One of the most interesting of these will be Hugh Lloyd, a London performer, in his sensational bounding rope act. This thrilling novelty is one of the big hits of the season, and Lloyd's work is described as being really wonderful. The Courthope sketch is said to be the most elaborately staged playlet in vaudeville. It is presented in two acts by a capable company, headed by Miss Courthope, an actress whose dramatic talent has been very favorably commented upon by the American press. Other attractions this week will include Fred Warrane and Al. Blanchard, the well-known black face comedians and singers; Hilda Hawthorne, a ventriloquist with a pleasing little novelty; Hattie Delare and company in a laughable absurdity entitled, "Bargain Day;" Dale and Boyle in a bright singing and dancing skit and Seeback, the most expert bag puncher appearing in vaudeville.

CONSERVATORY RECITAL.

On Saturday afternoon the recital hall of the Conservatory of Music was again filled with an appreciative audience to hear the second open recital, by the pupils of the Conservatory. Those who took part were pupils of Miss Laidlaw, Miss J. Kennedy, Miss McAndrew, Miss Mabel Lewis, W. H. Hewlett and H. M. Frederick. They made a good impression on all present, and there is every evidence of this series of recitals becoming very popular. The programme was:

PAID PENALTY.

Patrick Declares He Has Already Suffered Death.

Has Paid Debt to State in Full For His Crime.

New York, Nov. 29.—Albert T. Patrick, the convict lawyer, whose sentence of death for the murder of William Marsh Rice, was commuted to life imprisonment at Sing Sing, appeared to-day before the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn to argue that within the law he has already suffered death and thus has paid his debt to the State in full and should be set free.

Patrick contends that the solitary confinement preceding electrocution has been held by the United States Supreme Court to be part of the penalty decreed in a death sentence. He served that time in full, and now makes the point that, when the Court of Appeals reaffirmed the decision of the court of conviction and set a new date for execution, it transgressed his constitutional right in ordering him to serve another period of solitary confinement, thereby duplicating a punishment he had already suffered.

The failure of the Warden to electrocute in compliance with the first order of the court, argues Patrick, constitutes an act of "Non feassance."

THROWN OUT.

Three Hundred Strikers Ejected at Ludlow, Mass.

Out in the Rain—Italians Take Places of Strikers.

Ludlow, Mass., Nov. 29.—The elements last night and early to-day added to the misery of 300 persons evicted from tenements owned by the Ludlow Manufacturing Association because of a strike in the company's mills. With their household effects piled in the street, the owners found refuge in the houses of friends, but there was no shelter for the goods and last night's rain caused great damage. The work of eviction was suspended to-day, but it was announced that on Wednesday the occupants of sixteen other houses owned by the company would be ordered to leave. On Saturday twelve houses were emptied. Practically all the tenants were Poles. Fifty Italian strike-breakers were taken to the mills to-day under a strong police guard.

SUNDAY WORK.

Winnipeg Factories Trying to Catch Up With Orders.

Winnipeg, Nov. 28.—A number of factories worked to-day, the police commissioners giving orders that the police were not to interfere. This has helped out the factories in the present power tie-up. No street cars were running to-day. The power outlook is a little better now, as the frame at Lac du Bonnet is being paired. It will be several weeks, however, before everything is in full running order.

GEISHA GIRLS

Barred From Entertainment Given to Lord Kitchener by Japs.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 28.—By order of the Japanese Government Geisha girls were barred at entertainments given recently at Tokio in honor of Field Marshal Lord Kitchener out of deference to that gentleman's reputed dislike to the female sex. This was the information brought here by persons on board the steamship Bellerophon, just in from Oriental ports. At the entertainments given at the Tokio municipality Geisha girls were replaced by men in armor, carrying weapons, used in medieval times, while the waitresses at the Maple Club were replaced by men.

A Greater Toy Store

Yes, a greater Toy store this year than ever before. You thought last year and the year before, and for many years back that this store had just about reached its limit in the selling of toys.

But that is not the case. This year the Stanley Mills Toyland is bigger, is better, is more interesting and more instructive than ever.

Just think of it—the entire Third Floor of this great big building, devoted entirely to Santa Claus and his toys.

There are not more than a score of toy stores in all America that can compare with it—only two in Canada that can claim to rival it, certainly no other in this city that comes anywhere near it in size, in quantity of toys, or in values.

Unquestionably Santa Claus does right in making this Toyland his headquarters. Come down to-morrow and see it all. Come in the morning. If you will take our advice you will start right away and buy toys.

THE BAR ROOM.

Temperance Sermons Preached in Toronto Yesterday.

Toronto, Nov. 28.—"The barroom must go." This was, in effect, the pronouncement delivered from scores of pulpits and platforms in the city to-day, the world's temperance Sunday.

Locally it was the field of the Dominion Alliance. There was no lack of declarations of continued unflinching warfare against the liquor trade. There were not wanting, however, plain intimations from a number of speakers that they who war on the liquor trade must take steps to assist in substituting for the barrooms, as a social gathering place, with liquor as its real stimulus, places where tired toilers may gather for mutual recreation, help and social discourse. A feature of to-day was Mayor Oliver's opinion that the provincial Liberal convention of 1910 should adopt as one of the planks of its platform "the abolition of the bar," and his statement that otherwise he would give his allegiance to the party that would adopt such a plank. Among the places where temperance sermons were preached and temperance addresses delivered from pulpits or platforms, were 28 Anglican churches, 20 Methodist, 25 Presbyterian, 23 Baptist, 13 Salvation Army barracks and 11 churches of other than the denominations named. You need a pair of Catspaw Rubber Heels; you get them to-day. Save your rubbers and money. All dealers. It is only in plays that we meet the old servant who has been in the family for 20 years.

THE BRITISH CAMPAIGN.

Believe That Lord Lansdowne's Motion Will Carry.

Both Sides Think They Will Win the Coming Elections.

Lord Morley to Speak—The Duties to be Collected.

New York, Nov. 28.—A cable despatch to the Sun from London says:

Political oratory has risen to a higher plane this week than has been reached in this country since the height of the home rule crisis. The speeches in the House of Lords have been both stately and statesmanlike. The gravity and far-reaching complexity of the situation have brought out the traditional forensic talent of British political leaders, which may have begun to think had perished with Lord Beaconsfield, John Bright, William Gladstone and Lord Salisbury.

No doubt any longer remains that Lord Lansdowne's amendment refusing to approve the budget until it has been submitted to the people will pass on Tuesday by an overwhelming majority. The national campaign is already in full swing, a condition which in itself is an unusual feature in this country, where Governments usually go to the country on only a fortnight's notice. But this time the canvass will last for fully seven weeks, as the election will probably take place in the third week in January.

Mr. L. N. Ford, in a despatch to the Tribune, says: "The most diverse opinions are held respecting the consequences of the action of the Lords in bringing on the crisis. One of the best informed men in Parliament tells me that the Liberal Cabinet, which was falling to pieces, has been reunited; that the party is running over with fighting spirit, and that, with the new constitutional question to discuss, victory is certain by a majority of between 100 and 200 over the Unionists and Nationalists. One of the principal organizers on the Conservative side informs me that the debate in the Lords has enormously improved the chances of the Opposition; that the masses cannot be interested in an abstract question relating to the rights of the two Houses, and that Mr. Balfour will obtain a majority of 40 to 50 over all factions on the simple issue of changing the fiscal system, supplying the unemployed with work and reducing the direct burden of the taxpayers.

"Equally conflicting are the views of partisans respecting the fate of the House of Lords. Radicals tell me that the Lords will be deprived of the power of suspensive veto on finance and general legislation, and either will be reformed by the hostile popular Chamber or abolished altogether—a course which would more advanced members of the Cabinet and already said to favor well-informed Conservatives, on the other hand, assert that the Lords have the people behind them, and that their unusual action will be condoned because they are delivering the nation from ruinous conditions of finance. These prophets admit that Mr. Balfour's first work, if he returns to power, will be the reconstitution of the House of Lords on the lines of Lord Rosebery's report, but they affirm that the high standard of this week's debate has deeply impressed the country, and that conditions have changed since 1832, when the privileged House was conspicuous for its inactivity. Their argument is that the Lords are now relatively stronger and the Commons weaker than they were then, since one House has been improved by fresh blood and the other has been degraded and vulgarized by contact with democracy.

LORD MORLEY WILL SPEAK.
London, Nov. 28.—Viscount Morley, Secretary of State for India, will reopen the discussion when the House of Lords convenes on Monday, and will be followed by Lord Curzon, formerly Viceroy of India, providing the latter has recovered from his illness. Then the financiers will have their say, Lord Rothschild speaking on behalf of the Unionists and Lord Swaythling for the Liberals. Earl Cawdor and the Earl of Crewe will make the principal speeches on Tuesday.

It is certain that Premier Asquith the day after the Lords have divided on the question will give notice of a motion affirming the uncontrolled right of the House of Commons in respect to financial matters. There is a possibility that Mr. Balfour will reply to this with an amendment proposing that a change in the system of taxation of such importance should be referred to the people. The Premier's motion, of course, will prevail, and then it will be up to the Government to decide whether the House shall be prorogued or merely adjourned.

The decision of the Government in the matter will be of the greatest importance so far as the finances of the country are concerned, as the only authority now existing for the collection of the income tax, the duty on tea and the increased duties on spirits and tobacco rests on the resolutions passed immediately after the introduction of the budget. If Parliament is prorogued these resolutions will come to an end and the collection of taxes will have to stop. If adjournment only is determined upon, the resolutions will continue in force and taxes can be collected up to the time of dissolution.

The campaign throughout the country will be begun in earnest as soon as the chambers have been adjourned. Great meetings of both parties have already been arranged at all the big centres, and thousands of speakers and canvassers are prepared to start the work which will be continued all night during the Christmas holidays, until the last vote has been polled.

The handiest and most useful thing in the house is a hot water bottle, but the most dangerous thing is a leaky or unreliable one. You are warned by all other makers of hot water bottles not to use scalding hot water, because they know their bottles won't stand hot water. The Walpole Hot Water Bottle made by us has been tested with 80 pounds of live steam and is guaranteed for two years against boiling hot water or any possible accident. We know they can't go wrong. Your druggist can supply you. Be sure and ask for Walpole. Walpole Rubber Co., Limited, Montreal.

Blessed is the peacemaker, especially in the eyes of the fellow who is setting the worst of the fight.

Fighting the Plague.

In street cars and elevated trains of New York City this sign has been displayed:

If You Have Consumption

Do not give it to others by spitting in the car. If you do not have it, don't let others give it to you by spitting. Consumption is caught mainly through dry sputum. If you must spit, use your handkerchief. Committee on the Prevention of Tuberculosis, 69 Schermerhorn St.

This is one of the weapons employed in the fight to prevent the spread of the great white plague. The deadly germs of tuberculosis, lurking in the mucus discharged from consumptive lungs, get into the air and are breathed into the lungs of healthy people, where, if there is any sore spot, or weakness left by a cold or other irritating disturbance, they fasten and claim another victim.

Don't neglect a cough or cold. To break up a cold quickly there is nothing so effective as the mixture of two ounces of Glycerine, a half-ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine and eight ounces of pure Whiskey. Shake well and take a teaspoonful every four hours. It clears the throat and bronchial organs, relieves hoarseness and heals irritations of the mucous surface quickly, and because of its purity, is far preferable to the ordinary cough mixtures, many of which contain chloroform or other noxious ingredients.

The Leach Chemical Co., of Windsor, Ont., who prepare the genuine Virgin Oil of Pine that this mixture will break a cold in twenty-four hours and cure any cough that is curable.

Great Flood Undermined Railway Bridge in B. C.

Bread Wagon Driver Touched Live Wire and Died.

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 28.—Speeding through a howling storm in the darkness, while the people of Vancouver and New Westminster slumbered in the long Sunday morning rest, a gang of Japanese track laborers who had turned out to repair the ravages the Great Northern Railway had suffered during the worst night's weather in years went headlong to death, the bridge near Sapperton collapsing under the weight of the heavy work train. At least twenty and perhaps thirty unfortunate Japanese are reported dead, and others more or less seriously injured are in the hospital here and at Westminster.

The train left Vancouver in the morning at 5.30 and reached Sapperton at 6.15. The train passes by a bridge over the Burnett river, and a heavy flood had submerged the track on both sides. The train was in the swirling waters almost before those on board were aware the bridge had been reached. Locomotive 436 with Engineer Beattiger at the throttle and Fireman Kato in the cab, passed over in safety, but the first car, carrying the heavy road-making apparatus, crashed through into the torrent, dragging the engine from one side and the car loaded with the men on the other into the water.

Many of those on board were drowned without a chance for their lives. Others were killed outright. Three white men, the engineer, the fireman and Conductor Ellis, escaped, the two former with slight injuries. A white man named Davis was injured and is now in the Vancouver General Hospital. Three bodies recovered on this side of the river have been brought to Vancouver, five injured have been taken to the Memorial Hospital, while the remains of the other dead and others of the injured had been taken to Westminster. The Burnett River carried some poor, battered bodies out to the Fraser.

Within ten minutes of the time the news reached Vancouver a relief train, with Dr. Monroe on board, was on the way to the scene, and everything available was done to succor the living and recover the dead. A wrecking train was brought from Everett, Washington, the Great Northern is out of commission to-day. Passengers arriving from Seattle were transferred to the electric cars and passengers for Seattle to-night were conveyed in the same way.

The accident followed the worst rain storm since 1882. From 7 o'clock on Saturday the rain poured heavily, and much damage was done in the city environs. Following a washout on the inter-urban electric railway, only one line of rails is in use. By a washout on Ninth avenue a house was carried from its foundations. The C. P. R. report washouts and mud slides at points between the coast and the mountains.

Charles E. Pearce, a driver for a bread delivery wagon, while stepping into the premises in the rear of Glencoe Lodge, a boarding-house on the corner of Georgia and Burrard streets on Saturday night, touched a live wire and was instantly killed. A telephone wire that had snapped during the day touched a high-power wire, converting it into an instrument of death. It struck the metal breadbasket carried, electrocuting him instantly. He was 39 years old, and leaves a widow and two children.

SAM SMALL AS PREACHER.

Held First Congregation an Hour and Half at Anniversary.

St. Giles' Church Held Its First Anniversary Yesterday.

Reduction Sunday In a Number of Churches.

A rather small head mounted on the shoulders of a tall, slim man; a chin rather forward; a firm mouth hidden by a drooping gray mustache; sharp nose and a pair of small piercing eyes surmounted by eyebrows that rise and fall and are the most expressive feature of an expressive face, a rather low head and a good head of iron gray hair combed in two 'cart wheels' over the forehead—such was the man who held a packed church for an hour and a half at the anniversary service of First Methodist Church, last evening. Such was the man as seen by the crowd that stood in the side aisles and overflowed into the choir room—a man apparently of nervous temperament but great activity; of southern accent modified by travel and contact with all sorts of conditions of men. What the congregation heard was the clear, ringing voice of a man of great personal magnetism, a man accustomed to denouncing sin and vice in every form in the most outspoken, numismatic words.

Dr. Sam W. Small, of Atlanta, Georgia, talked to the great gathering from the text, Poverbs 14: 34: "Righteousness exalteth a nation—but sin is a reproach to any people." Such, said Dr. Small, is the deliberate judgment of the wisest man who ever lived. After long experience he deliberately came to this conclusion, which has never since been challenged. This axiom is as true today as it was in the days of Solomon. We have the advantage of knowledge which he did not have, for in his time righteousness was a matter of law, or was a debatable question. Since the time of Jesus Christ it is no longer debatable. We have varying standards of righteousness, set by various philosophers and foolosophers, but since Christ came into the world to convince the world of sin there need be no doubt. If a person asks me if a certain thing is right or wrong I say I don't care what they think about it—I don't care a plugged nickel—I go into my closet and get down on my knees and say Lord God, you have the key to the situation and I want you to tell me. No one else but you can tell me, and I have never followed his direction that I was not right. It is the business of the Holy Spirit in this world to so direct these things as upon it, and it is attending to the business.

Christ could not lay down rules to govern our actions in every circumstance that might arise so he promised the Holy Ghost which would direct his followers. Suppose he had been asked if it was right to play cards, he could not have answered. Cards had not been invented then, they were not invented until the keepers of a crazy king had to invent something to amuse him—and that has been their use ever since.

Christ said to you, "I will send you truth which shall lead you into all truth"—and that is what it is here for to-day. Sometimes the church divides upon the simplest question. Take for instance the liquor question. You will find some men who say they believe in the Holy Ghost, yet when election day comes you will find 60 or 70 per cent. of them marching to the polls and voting with the saloonkeepers and the devil. What will that Christian man answer the Holy Spirit when asked why he went marching with the saloonkeepers, the booters, the whores? How will he keep his conscience void of offence before God?

If you ride upon a street car and the conductor passes you without collecting your fare, and you do not call him back your conscience troubles you. You feel you are a thief—stole a nickel from that poor, struggling corporation. Why, then, is it that you do not feel the same when you go down to the polls and help the gang which is helping to rob and debauch the people? A man who wants to keep his conscience void of offence will always seek the guidance of the spirit of God upon such an occasion.

Dr. Small compared conditions in the old country and America, much to the advantage of America, and particularly Canada. "I am especially pleased with the alertness of the people of Canada, the high tone of their ideals and the purpose with which they have prosecuted all good and just ends, and right here in Hamilton I see progress which gives me great confidence for the future. But we are not out of the woods yet. We have the same God to deal with. Do we think we can sin along the same lines as the nations of old and yet escape their punishment? If God destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah will he not also destroy New York and Hamilton if their sins are the same? When did we get such equality with the Omnipotent that we can say we will do as we please. We cannot do it. As surely as we commit sin, we must suffer the same punishment as those other nations. They are digging up the ruins of those great cities of ages ago, and bringing them to our museums as evidence of their greatness and glory, and of their sin, degradation and ruin, and the same thing will happen to us unless we live nearer to God than they did."

"If you will ever ask me what is the greatest trouble of the day that is preventing us from coming into the fulness of God, I would say the spirit of national infidelity which is abroad, and do not mean that which is which it is called, 'The fool in his heart hath said there is no God.' I have no time to bother with that sort of fool. The infidelity I refer to is that sort which dishonors God while professing to serve him. It is the kind of infidelity which says God is not in our government, which is entirely between me and my constituency, and God has nothing to do with it."

Getting this back to the liquor question again, Dr. Small said: Do you know the devil would not have a saloon in hell. He don't want them. He is too much of a gentleman to have a saloon in hell. He would rather have 78 liquor shops in hell as they have in Hamilton—the devil would vacate and rule the place of wireless.

If there were none of this national infidelity there would be a greater proportion of the Lord's day. Do you think you can steal from God and escape? He has given you six days to provide for your own puny self and one day for God, yet our national infidelity is stealing from one.

Dr. Small paid a warm tribute to Rev. Mr. Lancelotti for his zeal and earnest labor and to the people of First Church for their long record of achievements in the cause of God and His Son. At the morning service Rev. Dr. Smith of Centenary preached a sermon of exceptional eloquence and beauty. His text was, "They pitched their tents towards the sun rising." He pointed out that it would have been natural for the children of Israel to pitch their tents towards the setting sun, as behind them were the records of God's great manifestations, but they resolutely set their faces towards the rising sun—looking ever forward to the land of God's promise. So the Christian must look forward. Religion is not a thing of gloom—that is a counterfeit of the devil—but it is a herald of joy and gladness.

During the day the music was excellent, the choir singing "Be Thou Exalted," and the quartette, Mrs. Cunningham, Miss Lancelotti, Mr. H. W. Robinson and Mr. Geo. Robertson, singing "God is a Spirit" in the morning, while in the evening the choir sang "Holy Art Thou," and Miss Lancelotti "The Lost Chord" in the evening. To-night, at the anniversary tea, Dr. Small will give his celebrated lecture, "His Majesty the Devil."

ST. GILES' ANNIVERSARY. The anniversary services in St. Giles' Presbyterian Church yesterday were attended by large and attractive audiences. Rev. J. J. Paterson, B. A., of Sarnia, was the speaker, and he had messages which commanded the attention of all.

In the morning he selected for his text the story of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego. He said the man who wrote the book of Daniel belonged to the true Christian kind. At the time referred to the people had degenerated into such a state that they reply to questions which should have received very careful attention was "What's the use?" That in itself showed that they thought more of themselves than of the cause. Under such circumstances it must have taken a big man with a big message to write the book of Daniel, and for that reason he must have been a most earnest, godly man. Nobody knew who wrote the book of Daniel, but it has been counted as one of the best books of the Bible. At that time there were two laws, the same as at the present day, the laws of custom and the laws of conscience. Nebuchadnezzar was a man who not only wanted to govern the people in their actions, but wanted to have perfect control over them, mentally governing their beliefs. Among those who bowed down before him were the pick of the land, including the princes and others of high rank, but three alone refused to worship the idol he set up, and they were men of a calibre who would not shrink at anything which was demanded of them as long as they stood for what they considered right. It was an easy matter for some of the people of the present day to criticize the people spoken of in the Bible, but if the circumstances were brought home to them it was then considered a different matter. Even in the present day the people are mostly paying closer attention to the laws of custom than the laws of conscience. In the every day life the laws of custom are used.

One curiosity of those Hydro-Electric Nemahs, v. 3. "And I sent messengers unto them, saying I am doing a great work, so that I cannot come down; why should the work cease while I come down to you." He said the human character was built up on the things that were done by the individual. Nebuchadnezzar was doing a good work and the crowd was against him, and their request that he come down was to get him away from it. He refused to leave his work, thereby showing his good character. The result of the thought of attracting him was a proposition which, however, he did not recognize and rather than do it kept on at the work in which he was so interested. It was the same to-day as it was at that time, as plenty of people were ready to attract the attention of a good man from his work if he would pay attention to them the man, however, who answered fearlessly that he was too busy occupied, as did Nebemiah, would be sure to build up a good character and do a great good. In closing he advised all to turn aside the requests of the idlers and do a good work.

A request was made that the collection be a liberal one, as $321 was required. Something over that amount was received.

HARD WORK IN THE WEST. A large number of members and adherents of Ryerson Methodist Church attended the services yesterday, when Rev. William Vance, B. A., of British Columbia, delivered excellent sermons. For some time Mr. Vance had been a preacher in the mining and lumbering camps in British Columbia, and yesterday described in an interesting manner the life and habits of the men among whom he preached. He spoke on the great number of temptations that surrounded these men and explained how, after receiving their wages, they were enticed to the saloons, where their money was soon separated from them.

Dr. Small compared conditions in the old country and America, much to the advantage of America, and particularly Canada. "I am especially pleased with the alertness of the people of Canada, the high tone of their ideals and the purpose with which they have prosecuted all good and just ends, and right here in Hamilton I see progress which gives me great confidence for the future. But we are not out of the woods yet. We have the same God to deal with. Do we think we can sin along the same lines as the nations of old and yet escape their punishment? They are digging up the ruins of those great cities of ages ago, and bringing them to our museums as evidence of their greatness and glory, and of their sin, degradation and ruin, and the same thing will happen to us unless we live nearer to God than they did."

"If you will ever ask me what is the greatest trouble of the day that is preventing us from coming into the fulness of God, I would say the spirit of national infidelity which is abroad, and do not mean that which is which it is called, 'The fool in his heart hath said there is no God.' many of the breweries was depreciating in value, and it was only a matter of time when the stock will be of little value. The people were awaking to the evils of the liquor traffic, and it would not be long before it was entirely done away with. When a young man in business commenced to drink his value in the commercial world decreased. In referring to religion, Mr. Calhoun said that it was impossible for a habitual drunkard to worship God, as his brain was crowded with passion and evil thoughts.

At the conclusion of Mr. Calhoun's address Mr. Best, Secretary of the Hamilton Y. M. C. A., spoke briefly.

AGAINST COMPENSATION. In Victoria Avenue Baptist Church last evening Rev. H. Edgar Allen, the pastor, preached a powerful sermon on temperance. There was no panacea, he said, that would meet all the evils that resulted from the liquor traffic. Man had a natural craving for excitement, and that craving too often found its satisfaction in stimulants. Man was meant to be social, and any remedy for the great evil must provide some kind of social intercourse. In a detailed manner Mr. Allen explained the many reasons why he was opposed to the liquor traffic. He read a number of statistics which showed the large number of deaths that were traced to the liquor traffic. In speaking of compensation Mr. Allen said that a license was purchased from year to year, and the saloonkeepers understood that they would have to take a risk before they bought it. Their profits in the business were more than to the risk that was taken.

In detail Mr. Allen further explained why no compensation should be given. HERKIMER BAPTIST. On Sunday at Herkimer Baptist Church the anniversary of the Bible school was held in conjunction with rally and temperance day. In the morning a special piece of music was rendered by some of the scholars, and a special sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. H. McDermid, B. A., to the young people. His subject was the youth of flowers, namely, the lily, the carnation, the rose and a four-leaved clover (character, friendship, success and education), and he deduced various lessons from each. In the afternoon Dr. C. V. Emory, assistant superintendent of Centenary Sunday school, spoke on temperance to a large number of friends. He gave a fine address and mentioned the fact that at least 6,000 people die in Canada annually from the effects of strong drink. In the evening the pastor again preached and gave an eloquent discourse on the temperance question from an educational and moral aspect, and also explained the local option is sweeping the country.

CENTENARY CHURCH. A large congregation gathered yesterday morning for divine worship. Dr. Tovell was the preacher, and gave a very practical discourse on "The Disciples Rowing Against Contrary Winds." He drew a vivid picture of the scene. Christ feeding the multitude, then sending them to their homes; then telling the disciples to row over the lake, which he went into the mountain to pray. The preacher said most men prefer smooth sailing over the sea of life, and yet the storms that may come may after all be best for us. After the electric storm the air is clarified and we breathe a purer atmosphere. After the transfiguration came the crucifixion, and yet it was the latter that brought the universal blessing. Speaking about rowing against the contrary winds the preacher dwelt strongly on the fact when a man goes straight along the line of Christian duty he is sure to meet with elements of power going in the other direction. The electric storm is blown into the cleft of the rock, and he came out giving to the world that hymn "Rock of Ages." The storm of persecution drove Bunyan into Bedford jail, and he gave the world the inimitable "Pilgrim's Progress." It was sorrow in the home of Tennyson that produced "In Memoriam." The man who is taking against contrary winds, the eye of the Master was on them. He came to their side, saying "Be of good cheer." Then came a fine description of the optimistic side of the Christian life. The preacher held up a book giving a description of the life of the wonderful Miss Helen Keller, well known to the public. Such a life as hers tells the story of what God's grace can do for any troubled heart, no matter how contrary the winds of life may blow.

NEW SPIRIT. Paris Newspaper Tenders Advice to the Vatican. Paris, Nov. 27.—The Temps considers the discussion of the church question in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday by Premier Briand, who spoke in reply to a speech of Abbe Gayraud, of great importance, since it again emphasizes the fact that the majority of the majority of the French bishops, clergy and laity of the French Catholics, the Church of Rome has refused to recognize the separation law, and contrives to repulse all efforts at conciliation which have been proposed by Parliament, and even goes so far as to make war on the public schools. A new spirit, the paper declares, must rule the Vatican before a settlement is possible. This is evidenced by the refusal of the Vatican to aid in the settlement of the church question in France, whereas it stops at nothing to ensure peace and conciliate the Governments of other countries.

The Temps points out that under the broad justice of Leo XIII. the situation would be treated with liberality and common sense, and concludes with the assertion that religious peace will come when the church restricts its energies to religion, and the French clergy follow the dictates of conscience, instead of intrinsigant orders from Rome.

LATTER DAY SAINTS. At the Latter Day Saints' Church, last night, Rev. H. O. Smith, of Buffalo, preached on "What is Salvation." He disputed the philosophy expounded by some preachers, that death bed repentances are sufficient for salvation. Mr. Smith said he believed that the preaching of the doctrine of death-bed repentances was more responsible for strengthening men in wickedness than any other doctrine that is preached. He said the gospel of Christ clearly shows the way to attain a full salvation. To be saved from sin or salvation is to cease from sin and accept Christ.

TRIED TO SUICIDE. Manila, Nov. 29.—Thomas Meagher, son of the Irish patriot, died today of pneumonia, following a n attempt at suicide while temporarily insane from a nervous breakdown.

LABOR PETITION

Gompers, Mitchell, Morrison Ask Writ of Certiorari.

Contention Made That Right of Free Speech is Involved.

Washington, Nov. 28.—Walter Wellman, whose preparations for a conquest of the North Pole in an airship recently were abandoned, issues to-night a statement in which he analyzes the narrative of the two claimants of polar discovery, declaring that of Peary "precise, workmanlike, consistent, credible in every particular, and denouncing that of Cook as "self-evident and even deliberate imposture."

"Cook's story is suspicious both in what it does tell and what it does not tell," Mr. Wellman declares. "He is generally vague and indefinite, but, like most men of his class, altogether too precise at the wrong place. Nowhere does his story ring true."

Washington, Nov. 28.—On behalf of Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison, the labor leaders, a petition was filed in the Supreme Court of the United States to-day for certiorari requiring the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia to certify to the nation's highest tribunal for its review and determination the appeal taken by them in the famous Bucke Store and Range Company of St. Louis.

The petition says: "The questions involved in this case are of great public importance, affecting the views and conduct of many millions of people, including two million who are by representation made defendants in the principal action."

The constitutional right of these people "of saying by word of mouth or printed publication to each other or to others that they do not propose to deal with the plaintiff or purchase its products" is advanced, and the argument is made that several courts had sustained this contention.

President Gompers and Secretary Morrison saw President Taft to-day for the first time since they were sentenced for contempt. Their call had nothing to do with the criminal proceedings, however, but was for the purpose of presenting to the President A. H. Gill and J. B. Clives, two labor members of the British House of Commons, who were fraternal delegates to the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor at Toronto, and James O'Connell, Vice-President of the American Federation.

TRIED TO KILL.

Algerian Attempt to Murder French War Minister.

Shot Another in Mistake and Was Arrested.

Paris, Nov. 28.—An attempt was made at noon to-day to assassinate Gen. Brun, Minister of War. The gymnastic societies were giving a banquet at the Hotel Continental, and Gen. Brun was expected to attend. Gen. Verand was an invited guest, and as he, attired in full dress uniform, left his carriage to enter the hotel, four revolver shots were fired at him. One struck him in the neck and he fell, striking his forehead on the curbstone and receiving some injury thereby. The man who did the firing was arrested after rough handling by the crowd. He proved to be Robin Endels, an Algerian. He carried two revolvers and a knife, and also a photograph of Gen. Brun, for whom he had mistaken Gen. Verand.

The latter's injuries are not serious, but the bullet narrowly missed severing the carotid artery. Gen. Brun arrived at the hotel two or three minutes after the shooting.

Endels is a man with a grievance. He was formerly secretary of the civil bureau at Bousaada, where 200 officers had been guilty of malversations, to which Endels drew the attention of the Minister of War. He obtained no reply and he believed the officers sought to kill him because he knew the truth. At the houses where he lodged during the past six months he is reported as quiet and peaceable.

The excitement caused by the shooting was increased by the presence of King Manuel of Portugal in Paris, and it was at first reported that the criminal was a Portuguese Anarchist. Police troops had been lining the streets for President Fallieres' official visit to the King at the Hotel Bristol, close to the Hotel Continental, and they had not yet left their posts when the shooting occurred. They assisted in Endels's arrest.

A few moments before the shooting President Fallieres left the Hotel Bristol near by, where he was calling on King Manuel.

KILLED THE BABY.

Woman Sprinkled It With Powdered Arsenic Instead of Talcum.

Salisbury, Ill., Nov. 27.—A well-meaning neighbor of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis came into their home to take care of their twelve-day old baby while Mrs. Davis was ill, and the well-meant attention that she was using talcum powder, the nurse sprinkled her charge with powdered arsenic. The coroner's jury summoned yesterday brought in a verdict of arsenical poisoning.

The arsenic and talcum powder, although plainly labelled, were in similar packages. Twice Mrs. Davis's neighbor dusted the child with the powder after she had given it a bath. Death ensued in a short time.

HOT FOR HUBBY.

Bullet in Leg of Husband Alleged From Pistol of Wife.

Brockville, Ont., Nov. 28.—Domestic troubles between the proprietor of the Windsor Hotel and his wife led to an attempt upon the life of Herbert C. Baker to-day, his wife, it is alleged having directed three revolver shots at him, one of which lodged in his thigh, directly below the hip.

Barker, it is said, after visiting Toronto for the Ottawa-Hamilton football match, went to Montreal, whence he returned a few days ago suffering from the effects of a debauch. Last night it is stated that he handled Mrs. Baker roughly. To-day, when he attempted to have the hotel against the wishes of his wife, she is reported to have threatened his life if he made a move. He ignored the warning and the woman, it is said, opened fire upon him at close range. He was going downstairs. The bullet took effect in the leg. Barker ran through a rear door into the yard. As he disappeared across the yard leading to a side street, two more shots were fired with no effect.

Barker immediately left town, going to Ogdensburg, N. Y., where he is thought to have had his injury dressed, the extent of which is not known here. So far no arrests have been made.

Constipation. "For over nine years I suffered with chronic constipation and during this time I had to take the most of warm water once every six hours before I could have an action on my bowels. Happily I tried Cascarets, and today I am a well man. During the nine years before I used Cascarets I had a most miserable time. I feel like a new man. Thank you, I am free from all that suffering humanity. B. F. Fisher, Roseton, Ill.

CHAS. TUPPER

Favors Carrying Out of Resolution Passed by Commons.

London, Nov. 28.—The Times publishes a letter from Sir Charles Tupper to Mr. R. L. Borden, dated Nov. 20, on the question of a Canadian navy. Sir Charles says that all that is required is that the Government of the day should carry out the resolution passed by the House of Commons at Ottawa pledging Parliament to proceed vigorously with the construction of a Canadian navy. Sir Charles cannot understand the demand for Dreadnoughts, and cannot avoid thinking that a fearful responsibility will rest on those who disturb or obstruct the compact entered into at the Imperial Defence Conference on this vitally important question.

The Times editorially says Sir Charles's letter should contribute to strengthening the concord between Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Borden on the naval question. Sir Wilfrid's speech delivered on the 15th inst., says the Times, contains the true ideal of Imperial unity. "And it is not really derogatory to this lofty ideal to say, as Sir Wilfrid also said on the same occasion, that Canada would have a navy that would not go to war unless the Parliament of Canada chose to send it. In the abstract such a proposition is indisputable, and applies to any and every form of co-operation and contribution for the purposes of Imperial defence. But in the concrete it is certain that the same considerations and motives which have served to bring about the present situation will also serve to maintain and develop it."

BANISH THEM.

Suggestion That Mrs. Parkhurst be Sent to St. Helena.

London, Nov. 27.—The Birch and banishment are gravely suggested in a high-class weekly newspaper as the only methods of dealing with British suffragettes. These militants, it is contended, should be made to know the meaning of real suffering. "That admirable time-honored weapon, the birch, is at the disposal of the authorities, as well as the services of practiced expeditors of its use.

"The ordinary charge of degradation," adds the writer, "it would be preferable that the wailings should be administered by women. There are plenty of strong women of the working class, experienced in the management of large families, who would gladly give their services at a reasonable rate of pay per thrashing."

The Birch only for the younger suffragettes, for the older leaders of the movement banishment is prescribed, and St. Helena, where the Bower prisoners were interned, is suggested as a suitable place for Mrs. Parkhurst.

TORONTO CONVICT

Suspected of Robbery at Falls Put Up Desperate Fight.

Detroit, Nov. 28.—The police yesterday arrested a man giving the name of James Wilson, alias Samuel Spencer, who they suspected of being implicated in the $10,000 robbery of the express office at Niagara Falls, Ont., some time ago. To-day, however, they learned that Spencer at the time the robbery was committed was serving a term in the Central Prison, Toronto. William Dobson, cashier of the express company, who was struck senseless by one of the men, arrived to-day to identify the prisoner, if possible, but failed to do so.

It was Spencer's desperate attempt to resist arrest which aroused suspicion. A woman informed the police that a man who she arrested and put in the hospital in the habit of visiting her house, December 1, Wilson and Black went there and awaited Spencer's arrival. As soon as the muscular young man appeared Wilson tried to snap handcuffs on him, but before they could bind him Spencer tried to pull a revolver, which he got from his pocket and dropped it on the floor. Then both officers went at Spencer, and after a hard struggle got control of him. They say that Spencer offered them $100 apiece to let him go.

Spencer has a roll of money which he found above each knee in his underwear, and there was more in his belt. The man was reported to have threatened his life if he made a move. He ignored the warning and the woman, it is said, opened fire upon him at close range. He was going downstairs. The bullet took effect in the leg. Barker ran through a rear door into the yard. As he disappeared across the yard leading to a side street, two more shots were fired with no effect.

HURT IN FIGHT.

Edward Lowery May Die as Result of Injuries.

Niagara Falls, Nov. 28.—Edward Lowery, aged 50, President of the Queenston Quarry Company, and one of the richest men in the Niagara Peninsula, lies at the point of death.

Robert Orr, his hired man, is charged with assaulting him with intent to do grievous bodily harm. Orr was arrested to-night by Inspector of Provincial Police W. H. Main and Ontario Officer McManama. He will be arraigned before Magistrate Fraser to-morrow.

Since November 18 Mr. Lowery has been unwell. He has been unable to speak a word, which would throw the affairs of the company into confusion. The serious operation of trepanning was performed by Dr. Hingham, of Toronto, assisted by Doctors Kellam, of this city, McCoy, of St. Catharines, and Duggan, of St. David's. The skull was trepanned and the incision disclosed grave degeneration of the brain, caused by the formation of a blood clot. His condition is very serious and little hope of his recovery is held.

From the hospital it appears that the two hired men, John McGee and Robert Orr, it is charged with assaulting Mr. Lowery in the stable on the morning of the eighteenth. McGee refused to do some work, and the words were exchanged between master and man. There was a fight, during which the men wrestled and both fell on the concrete floor of the barn, with Lowery's head near the horses' feet. The man who was standing during the quarrel, near the struggling men, hunking corn, and he did not take part in the fight or strike Lowery. Seeing a pitchfork nearby, which he says, on one of the fighting men had threatened to use, he turned to put it out of the way, and on turning round again he saw the horse kick Lowery.

McGee also states that the horse kicked the injured man. From the statement of McGee, the police are satisfied that he could not have struck the blow which may cause Lowery's death, and he was released after a very lengthy examination to-day. Orr's statement does not bear the hall mark of probability. The doctors say the wound on Lowery's head could not have resulted from the kick of a horse. They affirm that the blow was struck by a hard, blunt instrument.

Three men were injured by the collapse of a wall in the nearly completed factory of the Tobin Arms Company, Woodstock, late on Saturday afternoon. The roof was being completed and the men were working near the top, when about fifteen feet of the wall fell out and a portion of the roof came in. John Scott, one of the workmen, fell through the two storeys with the debris and was taken out unconscious. W. Book fell to the first storey, and escaped with some minor fractures.

THE ROUGH RIDERS WERE OUTCLASSED

THE RESULT WAS A BLOW TO OTTAWA FANS.

Thousands of People Stood in Front of Newspaper Offices Watching Dummy Figures Playing the Game on a Wire Gridiron.

Ottawa, Nov. 29.—All Ottawa received a stunning blow on Saturday when news of the Varsity-Ottawa game was received. Ten thousand people stood out all afternoon at the Citizen and Journal offices watching dummy figures playing the game on a wire gridiron. Every play was recorded, but the crowd, although it was in high spirits at the commencement of the match, soon realized that it was all off with Ottawa, and hoping against hope, remained until the very last, every minute making the rout a more complete one.

Ottawa football people are dumfounded and are still trying to explain how it happened. Hundreds of Ottawa money was dropped as the result of Varsity's win, big odds being offered here. Some bets at even prices that Ottawa would double the score were made.

The Ottawa team returned yesterday morning, all the men but Kilt being in good shape. Kilt has a sprained ankle, and will be laid up for a few days. "Beaten at every turn" is the explanation of the Ottawa players in connection with their defeat. Tom Clancy states that it was brains, speed and new football against the old style, in which the modern game won a distinct victory. Clancy considers that Interprovincial teams must change their style in order to be in a class with the Varsity team.

He considers Lawson the greatest running half-back in Canada and Gall a close second, naming Gall, Williams and Lawson for his all-star team. Hal B. McGivern, Harvey Pulford, Dr. Nagle, Bert Stronach, Jack Williams, Dave Muligan and others all acknowledge the superiority of the Varsity team. "Had it on us at all stages and everywhere," is the popular expression of opinion. Hal McGivern states that Harry Griffith has developed the greatest team in the past twenty years. He considers that in proportion to their age, experience and weight, the Varsity wings and scrimmagers did marvelous work against the Ottawa line. All admit that Ottawa had an off day, but it is taken for granted locally that Varsity were too good to give Ottawa any chance to shine.

The defeat came as a shock after a great season, but all honor is conceded Varsity, the Ottawa players being gamely. Not a kick has been heard against the work of Dr. Hendry, local opinion being that the Ottawa made a tactical error in objecting to him in the first place.

The Rooters' Club returned without a sound, while the bands stole silently home. All the Ottawa sporting writers who were at the game make it plain in their papers that there was no comparison between the teams, and predict changes in eastern style of play as a result of the remarkable work by the Varsity youngsters.

Prominent football men had the following remarks to offer after the game: Coach Griffith, University of Toronto—"I don't think that there is a team in Canada capable of beating Varsity. We expected to win by a big margin, and were not disappointed. The work of the officials was faultlessly done."

Coach Clancy, Ottawa—"Varsity's great speed beat us. I knew that they were fast, but thought that our wings would stop them. Lawson's running and line plunging, Gall's good catching and punting and the brainy work of Captain Newton, supplemented by good team play, were too much for us."

Rev. A. F. ("Biddy") Barr, Whitby—"Varsity has one of the best teams I ever saw. Lawson is wonderful and so is Stronach, but he was closely watched and had little chance to shine."

Jack Counsell, former Varsity and Hamilton star—"There was nothing to it but Varsity. Their speed told the story early. Stronach is a great outside wing."

Harvey Pulford, Ottawa—"There is no chance for any argument. The better team won and did it handsomely. Ottawa were well beaten."

Peter Spanjaard, sporting editor Montreal Herald—"I never saw a faster or better all-around team than Varsity. They fully deserve the title which they so easily won."

None of the gentlemen spoken to considers Parkdale as dangerous contenders for the Dominion title.

Basketball.

At Central Y. M. C. A. gymnasium on Saturday night two games were played in the 125-lb. Church League, and one in the 135-lb. League.

The first game, between Centenary and Central Methodist, resulted in a run-away for the latter in the first half, at which time the score was 12-2, but the Centenary took a spurt at the beginning of the next half, and it looked as if the Centrals were going to be held down, but they could not get the route, and Centrals rolled a couple more in and left the floor winners by a score of 18-4. Dan Webster put up a good game, but was replaced by Church.

The line-up: Centrals (18)—Ed. Smith, Hiestad, Clark, McNeilly, Webster. Centenary (11)—John Hogarth, Roberts, C. Wattam, D. Wattam.

The second game, between Central Y. and First Methodist, was the fastest and most exciting game yet played in the League. The Y's were picked to win, but the unexpected happened when they were trimmed decidedly. They did not have the combination of the First Methodist, nor was their shooting or checking as good. They were outplayed in every department of the game. The game became very interesting after half-time, with the score 13-3 against them, the Y's made a desperate effort. Barclay shot two baskets, as did Wilson, bringing the total to 13-11, but they could not keep it up, and First Methodist gathered together, and Barnes, who was putting up a fine game at defence, popped a time one in from half-way, the nicest shot of the game, and Wally Lees came with another. This ended the scoring, leaving it 17-11.

The line-up: First Methodist (17)—Robinson, Zimmerman, Lees, Evans, Barnes, and Central Y. (11)—McCormack, Barclay, Stone, Webster, Wilson.

The last game was a farce, the Central Y. M. C. A. and East End Y. M. C. A. in the 125-lb. League played a wretched exhibition of basketball. The C. Y.'s romped away with it. At half-time the score was 8-0, at full-time 22-4. Art Oliver showed some class for the C. Y's.

COMMENT AND GOSSIP

The Ottawa Free Press will have some difficulty explaining Saturday's defeat. Perhaps the learned sporting scribe of that paper will take an unprejudiced view for once and admit that the best team won.

Hamilton fans are delighted to hear that there is a chance that the Tigers will have a game with Varsity. The Tigers beat Ottawa just as badly on their own grounds as did Varsity, and on that dope a game in Philadelphia, which would be on neutral grounds in the vernacular would be "some game."

Although the Jungle Kings have been out of training for over a week the rest would do them good, and it is pretty good betting that given one chance to redeem themselves they would make good.

Varsity got away with a lot of tries on Saturday that they would never be able to work against the Tigers.

Of course, evil minded persons will say that Thursday night's wrestling match at Buffalo was framed up and consummated to create the impression that Zbyszko is a mat artist, or grapple, capable of compelling Gotch to swing his ace in a finish bout. Evil minded persons may be wrong in the premises, but that does not alter the conclusion which is that Gotch and the Pole—it is tedious to repeat that jumble of consonants—now form the richest wrestling "card" that has been shuffled up since the revival of interest in the wallowing game.

Toronto World: "The best-balanced team that ever represented the University of Toronto," was the general verdict of the fans after the decisive defeat on Saturday to the Rough Riders of Ottawa. Rugby events of a week or more had considerably mystified the followers of the game, though the selection of Hamilton to defeat Ottawa was correct, according to dope, but upset by the mistaken course of events.

Two weeks ago it looked like the final battle between Hamilton and Varsity, but Rough Riders' unexpected victory produced a new problem, that was not worked out correctly. Of course, there were horses after the game who "sold you so," and the best they could see at noon was a close contest.

Casey Baldwin's famous 1905 team never played a better game than that put up by the Varsity fourteen on Saturday at Rosedale against the Rough Riders for the championship of Canada.

As they lined up on Saturday the university team is about 100 per cent. stronger than the Ottawa aggregation. They outclassed the Rough Riders in every department of the game, and showed marvellous speed in following up and recovering. A contingent of about one hundred and fifty Hamiltonians saw the game, and the majority of them were of the opinion that even the mighty Tigers would have to be at their best and play one of their hardest games to hold the students down to a smug score. Playing like they did here three weeks ago, when they defeated the Rough Riders by a score of 30 to 5, the Tigers would be about good enough to beat Varsity. In any other form they would not have a chance.

Saturday's game showed very clearly that the Ottawa back division, with the exception of Williams, is not good enough to catch a place on a first class intermediate team. They fumbled everything that came their way, and were not so fortunate in recovering it as they were in the game with the Tigers a week ago. However, the Varsity wings followed up much faster than did those of the Tigers, and they were not given so much time to get away.

The Rough Riders did not play the game that they did against the Tigers a week ago, but they did not do so well as they did against the Varsity. They played football right from the start, and with the exception of a short period in the third quarter they were always threatening the Ottawa line. Although Stronach played a good game he was not his brilliant self, and although he missed many tackles and not getting down the field as fast, Williams played a poor losing game, and his much touted football brains were not in evidence. He was absolutely powerless to pull the team together, and after the first quarter they played as though the game was lost.

The Varsity back division is about the best in Canada. Lawson has few peers as a running half back, and although it was expected that he would fumble on Saturday, he caught everything that came his way, and tore off some spectacular 30 and 35-yard runs. Gall also starred, and Dixon, the Hamilton boy, played a grand game. He was sure with his hands, and was as fast as a streak, and he was in the thick of the play at all times. Newton played his position well, and showed good judgment in handling the team.

The Varsity wing line played the Ottawa line to a standstill, but they have no men who can compare with Wigle as line plungers, nor are any of their line men as good at tackling as Bob Iabestez. Gage, a Hamilton man, who played left outside, marking Stronach, put up a good game, but he is not in the same class with Don Lyon, when the latter is playing his game. Varsity has not better wingmen than Barron, Gray and Bramer, and although they have a great wing line, it is no better than that of the Tigers.

While the score of 31 to 7 is a fair indication of the play on Saturday's game, it cannot be said that the Rough Riders played the game they are capable of. Like the Tigers the week previous, they seemed to lack energy and played in listless fashion.

Varsity is a very tricky team, and some of their puzzers are old Tiger tricks. Play the Jungle Kings used so successfully in the O. R. F. U. were pulled off on Saturday for good gains. The long pass, an old favorite of the Tigers, netted the students a try on one occasion.

The Collegians are strong on team work, and back one another up remarkably well. Very few of their fumbles or mistakes were costly, and they were very quick at gathering in loose balls. They took advantage of every mistake made by the Senators, and it was their fast following up that was largely responsible for the victory. It was in this department that the Tigers fell down a week ago.

One of the largest crowds that ever saw a football game in Canada, was on hand, it being estimated that there were over 10,000 persons out. The official figures give 9,500, and a good five hundred got in over and through the fence. The bleachers at the west end of the field were filled by Varsity students, and they gave a great exhibition of what the combined lungs of two thousand young men can do in the way of rooting. In the east end of the grand stand proper were about five hundred Ottawa supporters, but after play had been going about two minutes and Varsity gone over for the first try, the bunch from the capital were remarkably quiet. Even the most energetic efforts of the redoubtable Rufus Ryan did not suffice to wake them up. Truly it was a sad and disappointed bunch that hung around the Prince George on Saturday night.

The question that now arises is, "Can Varsity beat the Tigers?" Some of the critics give an emphatic yes, others are doubtful, and some are of the opinion that in shape and with all their men, the Tigers are the better team. There is only one way to settle this question, and that is to have the teams play an exhibition game. Unfortunately the football season is past and there is little likelihood of a game being arranged. On their own grounds the Jungle Kings defeated the Rough Riders badly as did Varsity, and working on this basis the Tigers should be every bit as good as the Collegians.

The shining lights on the Varsity back division are Lawson, Gall and Dixon. These three played a remarkable game on Saturday and are about as good as any three back line men in Canada. Dixon is hardly as good as George Smith, who plays a steady consistent game, and is always on the ball. Lawson has little on Art Moore as a running half back, but his weight enables him to buck the line effectively. Gall is not as good a dolging runner as Dutch Burton, but is a good punter. At centre there is no comparison between Newton and Ben Simpson. The Varsity captain is not as long a punt, nor as fast a runner as the schoolmaster. Not taking any one game in particular, but taking the season's form into consideration, a comparison between the back divisions of the Tigers and Varsity shows little in favor of either side.

Coach Clancy and his team, together with the members of the Ottawa Academy, had not an excuse to offer, and their attitude after the contest was most sportsmanlike. Clancy admitted that his men were beaten by a better team, and stated that while his back field worked quite to his satisfaction, the wing line did not do as well as he had expected. That was perhaps because he had underestimated the Varsity line, which held admirably and exhibited speed which staggered the Rough Riders. After the game the Ottawa bands serenaded the victors at the club house. When the final whistle blew, the Varsity rooters took possession of the field and executed a serpentine march, with flags and banners flying behind them the Highlanders' Band. There were thousands in the parade, at the front of which was borne the big score board, bearing "Varsity 31, Ottawa 7." The scene of wild enthusiasm in and around the grounds and out across the Rosedale bridges beggars description. The student body continued their triumphant uproar downtown at night, but they were orderly, and the police had no trouble. Sixty officers helped to preserve order at the field during the game.

The officials were: Referee—Dr. W. B. Hendry, Toronto. Umpire—W. McMaster, Montreal. Timekeepers—Dr. J. McColium, Toronto; W. Harris, Toronto (first half); Father Stanton (second half). Penalty timekeeper—J. L. Counsell, Hamilton.

Linesmen—Harvey Pulford, Ottawa; Rev. A. F. Barr, Whitby. Touch-line judges—J. Sliter, Queen's; M. Walsh, Queens.

Goal judges—W. May, Queen's; Ben Simpson, Hamilton.

PUNTS. The Varsity Glee Club occupied the whole of the new stand. The word "Toronto, '09," was spelled out by students in white sweaters ranged in order among their darker garmented fellows in this stand.

Every telegraph post and house roof in sight was black with spectators who were unable to gain admission to the grounds. Even the trees just south of the field were crowded with men.

The Varsity mascot, a large white bull dog, was bedecked with blue and white ribbons, with the word "Varsity" in big letters.

Red Dixon was a little too slippery for the famous Stronach. He missed him time and again while trying to tackle him.

The official estimate of the crowd was 9,500, and of the money, $6,180.

After the game Capt. Jack Williams admitted freely that the Ottawa team was outclassed.

Stronach brought Lawson to the ground a good many times when it looked as though he would get away for one of his famous runs.

The Ottawa team was not a very joyful aggregation when it filed out of the club-house at half-time.

Ottawa money was not very much in evidence at the beginning of the second quarter, although there was plenty of it before the game began.

Bert Stronach put up a great game, but he was watched too closely to be as effective as in the Tiger game.

It was exactly three minutes from the kick-off that Lajoie went over for a try. The way Red Dixon ran the ball out from behind the line through most of the Ottawa team was good to see.

The Ottawa Bugle Band did not parade at half-time. They evidently feared the students' threat.

The trouble over the appointment of Dr. Hendry as referee was quickly settled Saturday morning, when President McKeand phoned from Mitchell that no change would be made.

The ticket speculators got a bad jolt when they expected to get $5 apiece for their grand stand seats. Five dollars was asked at first, but the price came down until about 2 o'clock they were going at three for $5.

Williams kicked all the way through the game. He questioned Referee Hendry on every play until that official's patience ceased. "Play the game," said Hendry, "and stop your senseless kicking." "I am only doing what our executive ordered me to do," said Williams in reply.

To no one more than Coach Harry Griffith is Varsity's victory due. Undoubtedly one of the best football men in Canada, Griffith has no superior as a coach. With him it has been a labor of love. For three years he has given Varsity the benefit of his knowledge and experience when he could have been filling a similar position at a good salary with one of several teams.

Varsity was having all the better of the play at this period. Rankin and Kilt were put off for scrapping. Williams got the ball and passed to Gerard, who was brought down on the Ottawa quarter line. On the next down Williams kicked to Lawson. The big fellow went forward for a gain of 15 yards. Gall kicked high, the ball going over the touch line into Williams' arms. The Ottawa captain was brought down by Parks. Score: Ottawa 0, Varsity 6.

On the kick-off by Kennedy, Lawson secured the ball at the 50-yard line, and went through the whole Ottawa line for a touchdown. The try was not allowed, however, as he had gone out of touch. Hume was put off for blocking. Gall received a pass from Foulds and kicked, the ball travelling to the Ottawa 25-yard line. Church bucked

TIGERS MAY PLAY 'VARSITY IN THE U. S.

Mr. Arthur Irwin, of Philadelphia, Trying to Get Two Canadian Teams to Give Exhibition in Quaker City—Tigers Are Willing.

The Jungle Kings may yet have a chance to show what they can do against the speedy Varsity fourteen.

Football, as played by the colleges of America, is due for reform. The many unfortunate accidents resulting fatally on the gridiron already this season will have some bearing on the future of the sport. That casualties are common to other branches of sport is overlooked in the appalling list of deaths from this season's short reign. True, the majority of the score of fatal accidents have been confined to prep, public and high school lads, but that doesn't matter. Enough of the well-trained college athletes have suffered death or serious injury to stir up the antagonism of football's foes, somewhat lessened by the efforts of several seasons back to renovate the pastime.

The clamor against the American college game has again brought up the suggestion that an exhibition of the game under Canadian rules would be both interesting and instructive to the followers of the American style of play.

Mr. Arthur Irwin, of Philadelphia, is negotiating with Mr. Frank Nelson, sporting editor of the Toronto Globe, to have two fast Canadian teams go to the Quaker City and show how the Canadian game surpasses that played under the American College rules. He says it would draw 25,000 or 30,000 people.

Ben Simpson has been sounded as to the possibility of getting the Jungle Kings to play, and the Tigers captain signified his willingness and that of the team. Frank Nelson is trying to get Varsity to agree to a game, and should the Collegians consent, the Tigers will commence practice immediately.

The Tigers and Varsity play much the same, in so much that they depend more on open play for their points. A game between these two would be worth going some distance to see, and the Americans would have a chance of seeing two of Canada's best teams in action.

In an article on the possibilities of the Canadian game, an American exchange says:

"Walter Camp, one of the greatest authorities on football, got a number of good suggestions from watching the big football games among the Rugby teams of Canada. In the Dominion serious injuries are rare, because there is no such thing as 'interference' or protection to the runner. The man carrying the ball must rely on his own resources to advance the spheroid. The line is allowed to jostle the opposing array to make a hole for the runner, but the latter is not allowed to run behind one or more of his teammates. Naturally this kills any sort of mass play, and also prevents the piling up of many men on one. Tackling below the knee is an unpardonable offence.

Though statistics are being furnished to prove that most injuries this season have been the result of tackling, the fact nevertheless remains that even in its apparent openness the new style of game is still compact. The practice of both sides of hurling themselves together to advance or retard the runner, even after he is down, covers some of the sins of mass play. Legislation is a ticklish matter, but it is up to the authorities to do something if the game is to be preserved."

THE TIGER CUBS WERE DEFEATED IN SEMI-FINALS.

Alerts Trimmed Them in a Hard Fought Game by a Score of 4 to 1—Nearly Two Thousand Persons Saw the Game.

The hopes of the Junior Tigers for Interprovincial honors got a jolt on Saturday afternoon at the Cricket Grounds, when the champion Alerts, who have not lost a game this season, succeeded in defeating the Cubs, winning by a score of 4-1, and earning the right of competing in the finals for the junior championship of Canada. Owing to some misunderstanding, this was the only League game the Tigers played this year, and in view of the circumstances a different result could hardly be expected. But at that they made a creditable showing, and only for a few costly mistakes the result might have been reversed. It was the only opportunity the fans had of sizing up the material, which some day, perhaps, may be called upon to uphold Hamilton's reputation in the senior field. The game, while not a brilliant exhibition, was interesting from start to finish. About two thousand saw the game. While the afternoon was ideal for football, the teams were forced to contend with a drawback, in the poor condition of the ground, which was very soft. Naturally this greatly affected the playing. The condition of the field benefited both teams, and this helped considerably to make the game more interesting. There would have been no doubt as to the result on dry grounds, as the Alerts are much the better team, but the conditions favored the Tigers, which evened up matters somewhat.

Had the Alerts played to form the game would have been one-sided, and as it was the Tigers were forced to play on the defensive most of the game. During the first half the teams played a rattling good game, and when the score ended a tie, the crowd expected a great finish, and their expectations were realized. In the second half the players started to play with more energy than ever, especially the Tigers, who started to rush things, but the Alerts gradually came to life, and then it was all off but the shooting. Their wing line started to break through and nail the halves before they could get rid of the ball, and also broke up the Tigers' combination, which badly disorganized the team. Their only hope was of getting a touchdown, and they nearly succeeded in the last few minutes of play, when the Tigers dribbled the ball the length of the field, but the Alerts got possession near their own line and when the whistle blew they had started to carry it to the other end. In the latter part of the game the Alerts broke through at will. The only difference between the teams was on the wing lines, and it can be safely said the Alerts outclassed their opponents in this department.

The Alerts' line has got the weight and strength, and know how to use it effectively, bucking the line for big gains. The back divisions of both teams played great ball, but the Alerts were a little better. They played a steady, effective game, not making a single mistake, running and catching up to expectations, but the only advantage the Alerts had was their punting, and they easily outkicked their rivals. Vickley, of the winners, sending the ball half the length of the field at times. It was his brilliant kicking that scored the points. The game, while brilliant in spots, was a rough affair, the players seemingly trying to settle old disputes. At their recent encounter at Britannia Park they mixed things up freely, and naturally a few of the players entered this game with the intention of evening matters up a little. While few were penalized for dirty work, inside football was the rule, the game being continually delayed on account of injuries. Before the game started there was a big chewing match between the managers of the teams and the officials regarding whether or not intermediate men were eligible to play. The Tigers claimed the two games between Hamilton and Dundas were thrown out as not played games by the executive, which would mean that all the intermediates would be eligible. The Alerts claimed that the games did interfere with the standing. However, the intermediates did not play, although there was some talk of protest by the Tigers. Owing to this wrangling it was after 3 o'clock before the game was started.

In the first quarter Alerts scored one by a kick to the dead line. Near the end of the second quarter the Tigers tied the score by forcing Vickley to rouse. During the next quarter the Alerts came back strong, and scored three points, which ended the scoring. Gordon Nelson acted as referee, while Fred Robinson umpired; goal judges, Chief TenEyck and W. Clark; line judges, Guy Long and C. Clark; timers, H. Potticary and W. McFarland; penalty timer, J. Addison.

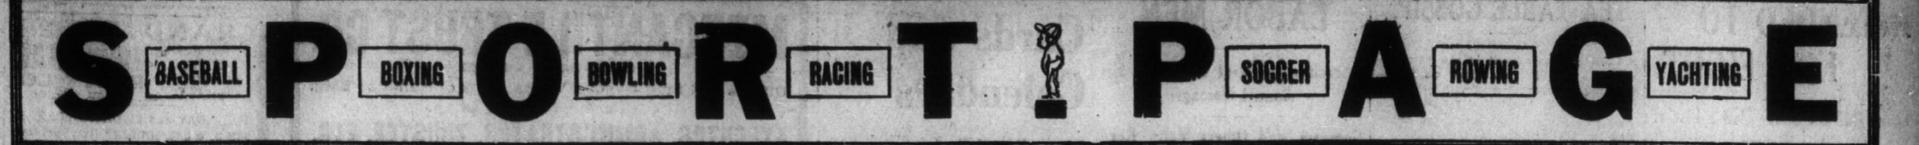

The teams lined up as follows:

Victor Emmanuel's Rare Coins. King Victor Emmanuel, according to a French newspaper, is a numismatist of the first rank, and his Majesty's possession a collection which may be termed museum. His cabinets contain 60,000 coins, some most rare and almost priceless. The king is a scientific collector, and will shortly publish a treatise on numismatics. It will run into several volumes, and will be entitled "Corpus Minorum Italorum." The work will be a complete catalogue of medieval and modern money struck by Italy or by Italians in foreign lands. The printing of the first volume is almost complete. To insure correctness proof sheets have been submitted to the keepers of the coin departments in the principal museums of the world.—London Globe.

(Continued from Page 8.) for four yards, and Ottawa was given 10 yards for a Varsity offside. On the next down they were given ten more for the same offence. Kilt passed to Williams, who returned to Gall. Gall kicked high, and Gage following down caught the ball on the Ottawa quarter line. Williams kicked off, and Newton secured on the first down. Gall, Dixon, and Lawson tried to buck through. Gall took a long on-side pass from Foulds, and went over the line for a touch, dodging four Ottawa men. Ritchie converted. Score: Varsity 12, Ottawa 0.

Williams kicked off, and the ball was secured by Newton. On Varsity's first down Lawson kicked to the right, and Newton tried to buck through. Gall took a long on-side pass from Foulds, and went over the line for a touch, dodging four Ottawa men. Ritchie converted. Score: Varsity 12, Ottawa 0.

SECOND QUARTER. Ritchie kicked off, Williams returning for a loss. Lawson took a pass from Foulds and went around the left end. When tackled he dropped the ball. Ottawa securing. The Varsity men were playing in fine style. Williams kicked to Hume, who passed to Gall, who fumbled, but recovered in time to regain the ground he had lost. A minute later Church made a 30-yard dash for Ottawa. McCann fumbled a long kick from Gall, but recovered. Varsity got the ball at centre field and Gall kicked to Williams. The Ottawa captain allowed the ball to go over the touch line and Thompson following down fast yanked him for a rouse. Score: Varsity 13, Ottawa 0.

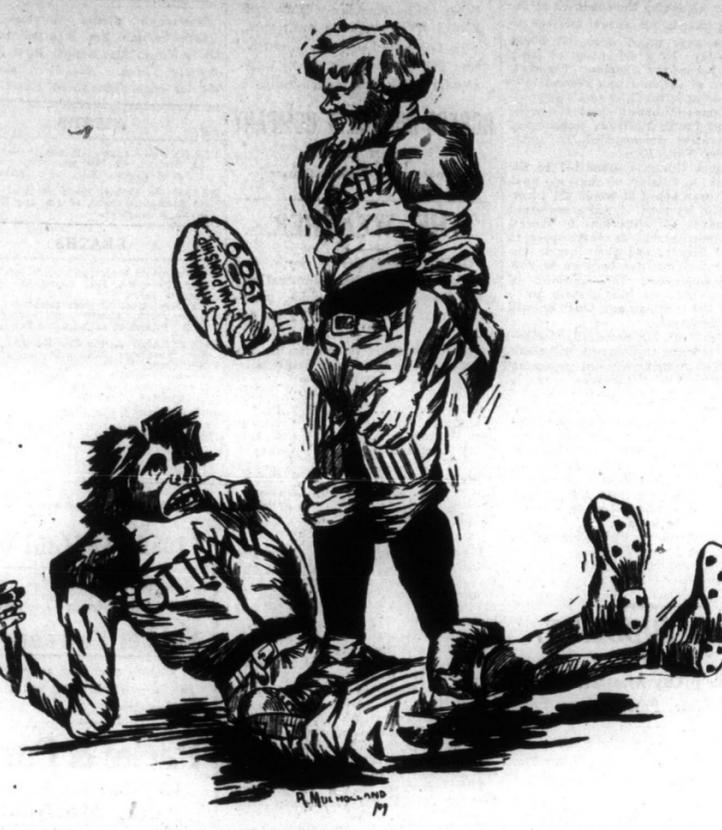

Foulds and Ritchie bucked for a gain of five yards, but the Varsity team lost ground on the next down. Gall kicked to Williams, the ball striking the latter's feet and bouncing into Thompson's hands. Varsity's fakes buck failed on the first down, but on the next down Newton took an on-side kick from Gall and went around the end for a touch, which Ritchie failed to convert. Score: Varsity 18, Ottawa 0.

Kennedy dribbled to Ritchie, but the Varsity man dropped the ball. Williams punted to the Varsity five-yard line and Gall returned to Gerard, who after a short run kicked to Lawson. Stronach brought the big fellow down on the Varsity five-yard line. Ottawa got the ball on an off-side play, and things looked dangerous for the Varsity line. The Easterners gained three yards on the first two downs, but failed to gain any more on the last one, and so lost the ball. Foulds and Newton bucked for a gain of 2 yards, and Lawson gained 10 more on the next down.

Williams' fumble gave Varsity the ball on their 50-yard line, but they lost it immediately after on an off-side play. The ball traveled to centre field, with Varsity in possession; Newton gave the signal for an end run, and Foulds passed to Lawson, but Stronach kept the latter from gaining any ground. Lawson made his mark, and got a free kick. The ball went to Williams, who returned it to Newton. Ottawa got the ball on an off-side play, but was unable to gain any ground on the first two downs; on the third down Williams kicked obliquely across the field to Gall, who ran for a gain of 30 yards. Lawson got the ball on a kick from Williams, and traveled for 50 yards through the whole Ottawa team. Gall kicked to Gerard, who was downed on the Ottawa 5-yard line. Williams kicked to Lawson, who was tackled at centre field. Half time score: Varsity 18, Ottawa 1.

THIRD QUARTER. In the second half Kilt kicked off. Bell got the ball, and returned to Williams. The Ottawa captain punted back to Dixon, who was hurt while catching the ball. A series of Ottawa fumbles gave Varsity the ball on the Ottawa quarter-line. Gall punted to Williams, and Gage was given five minutes for kerfing. The ball traveled back to centre field. Hume was given five minutes for blocking, and the Varsity team was playing with only 12 men. Johnston got away for a spectacular thirty-yard run. The Toronto outside wings were playing rings around their opponents. On another series of fumbles the ball went to the Varsity 10-yard line, but Gall relieved with a long kick to Johnston. Williams tried a long side kick, and gained ten yards. Williams kicked to Gall over the line, and the latter was just able to run the ball out in

THE FOOTBALL SITUATION TO-DAY.

TORONTO PRESS ON THE BIG GAME.

Mail and Empire—The University of Toronto Rugby team proved to the satisfaction of everybody on Saturday that they are the greatest fourteen playing the game in Canada to-day by defeating the Rough Riders, of Ottawa, and the score of 31 to 7 was one which left no doubt as to their superiority over the winners of the Interprovincial League. When the Rough Riders downed Tigers, people concluded that they were a greater team than their showing during the season had indicated, and the wise ones warned the students that their enthusiasm would not offset weight and experience. The doctored argument that Varsity was only good enough to run away from the other teams in an inferior league, but they would find any representative of the Big Four a very different proposition. Ottawa came to Rosedale field, and the students showed exactly how they felt. They were buoyed up by this hope, but something fell, and their hopes were shattered. No excuse or explanation can be made by them. The winners simply rushed them off their feet and outclassed them in every department. Every member of the Varsity team played the game of his life, and Williams could stand no weak spot at which to direct his attack. The students showed exactly how they felt. They were buoyed up by this hope, but something fell, and their hopes were shattered. No excuse or explanation can be made by them. The winners simply rushed them off their feet and outclassed them in every department.

ATHLETICS

Toronto, Nov. 29.—The annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union was held at the King Edward Hotel on Saturday night, and was followed by the inauguration of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, which includes the C. A. A. U. and all the organizations which had previously been without its bounds. The consummation of the efforts towards complete and harmonious union of the different athletic interests and government throughout the whole of Canada was not achieved without much hard work and careful management, but now that it is a success it is a matter for sincere congratulation.

President Merrick occupied the chair, and the meeting was composed of Dr. H. D. Johnson, Charlottetown, and J. C. Littlejohn, Halifax, Maritime Provinces Athletic Association; Deputy Chief MacDonald; D. Forsyth, Western Football Association; Francis Nelson, Ontario Hockey Association, and Secretary N. H. Crow.

Very comprehensive reports were presented, covering the vast amount of work done during the year, and President Merrick's address dealt also with the promotion of the establishment of the government of athletic affairs in Canada through one central body, of which all the sectional organizations would be members, but controlling their own local affairs.

SOCCER

About the best game of soccer that has been played this season was fought out on Saturday afternoon on the Dering grounds between teams representing Scotland and England. The game was in the form of a handicap for one of the players who was unfortunately enough to be injured, and the players were the pick of those who played in the league series. The game was a close one and the score was 2-0 in favor of England.

OTTAWA PAPERS ADMIT THE BEST TEAM WON.

King Clancy Said Team Had Football Paralysis--Something That Hits the Best Teams in the World--"Big Four" Teams to Adopt New Style

(Special Despatch to the Times.) Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 29.—Regarding Saturday's bad defeat of Ottawa at Toronto, the Citizen to-day says: "Suffering from the most pronounced case of football hookworm that ever afflicted an Ottawa team on a championship game, the Interprovincial representatives went down to ignominious defeat at the hands and feet of Toronto Varsity on Saturday afternoon at Rosedale. The game was not worth the attendance, Varsity being so far superior to Ottawa in all departments as to render the contest, comparatively tame. The score, 31 to 7 in favor of the blue and white, fairly represents the play."

What happened Ottawa? Leaning against the fence near the club house, King Clancy watched the kick off, the succeeding two minutes of play, Varsity's touch down and the resumption of the game. Five minutes from the start he was asked what he thought of the play. "They will beat us to death," he replied. "What's the matter with the team?" "I don't know. I call it football paralysis. It hits the best team in the world sooner or later. It had us once before this year in Montreal, but that team was so poor that we managed to scratch a two point victory. But to-day we are up against a good team, and it's only a matter of the size of the score."

Clancy was right. And before the sun set Varsity had Ottawa looking like a very mediocre organization. Indeed, the intercollegiate champions were away above top form. Faint of ginger, sure in their catching and punting, deadly in their tackling and running like fiends, the Varsity scrimmage wings and back division simply overwhelmed the red, white and black. "Varsity's speed and general football skill won out for them," says the Journal to-day. Then it adds: "The running of Lawson, a former Ottawa boy on the Varsity half line was a big feature of the game. On the day's play Ottawa was out classed. Varsity showed unexpected strength on both line and back division, and were trained to the minute. Her men were in perfect condition, and playing as they did on Saturday, could defeat any team in Canada. It sort of took Ottawa's breath away to see Varsity plunge for a try within three minutes after the start of the game. Lawson also had been touted as the man who could not catch the ball should be touted as the man who could not miss. Gall, Newton and Dixon caught everything in any position. It was great to hear the cheering and was worth the price of admission alone to hear the students sing as they performed for half an hour or more. The Ottawa rooters were not so prominent as they were the Saturday before."

The Journal in its detailed account of the play refers to the good work of Williams and Kilt.

The Ottawa Free Press says: "The decisiveness of the victory not only left no doubt as to which was the better team, but precluded any unpleasant criticism that would surely have arisen over Dr. Hendry's presence on the field as referee had the score been close. The score would have been the same with any other official in Canada. Varsity's superiority as a body and individually was so palpably evident the Ottawa players themselves frankly agreed the victory was deserved. Varsity displayed inside ball when on the defensive, as well as offensive. Not only that they have shown a development in the game that will beyond all doubt cause a shakeup in the style of Rugby as played in the Big Four. The on-side kick, the long pass, the shifting of the backs at a mere signal, the substitution of the unexpected for the orthodox and the necessity of team work and action at every stage of the game have been reduced to such a successful science by the Blue and White, other teams must necessarily follow suit or develop something equally effective, if they wish to keep pace with championship teams. Varsity's play was exhilarating from the moment they secured possession of the ball. They were always on their toes, grasped every opportunity Ottawa left open and their mistakes were so few, considering the chances they accepted, that it can truly be said they played faultless ball. Varsity is literally a team, but possess a reserve fund that is constantly in use in Smirle Lawson, probably the greatest football player ever seen in this or any other country. Any time fifteen yards are needed, stick the ball in Lawson's hands. To an opposing team he is insurmountable. His satellites, Gall, Newton and Dixon, dovetail in with him as though made to order."

them and came over scoring a goal but it was kicked out and the English were not long in clearing their field and carrying the play back to Scotch ground. The English team were able to score a goal in the play until within easy reach of the Scots' goal when a straight kick carried it into the goal. The score remained unchanged until further scores could be made the half time whistle sounded.

THE TRIGGER

At the Hamilton Gun Club on Saturday afternoon the annual president and vice-president shoot was held. President Horning's team won from Vice-President Cline's for the duck supper by 15 points, the score being 181 to 166. It was a twenty-five bird race, and W. P. Thompson was high with 24. After the shoot the members adjourned to Dynes' where the duck supper was held, and the Host Harry Dynes offered himself in furnishing the wants of the inner man. President Horning was in the chair, and an impromptu toast list was given. F. Watson responded to the toast to the King in his usual capable style, while C. E. Thomson's reply to the toast to the "Ladies" was most eloquent. Short

Varsity-Ottawa Line-Up and Weights

On the other hand, every member of the Varsity back division played his best game, and Gall, Newton and Dixon used their heads at critical moments. They tried every unexpected play, and beat the Rough Riders' punting of all times. They secured their first try by means of a conversion by Thomson and Laine, both of whom made good runs. For the next score a different speeches were also made by Court Thomson, Dr. Wilson, J. G. Cline, S. Marsh, W. P. Thomson, Capt. Spence, and Dr. Johnston, whose witty remarks made the hit of the evening. The scores made were as follows:

INTENDED TO KILL EIGHT. Crazy Buffalo Baker Had a List of His Victims.

Was to Kill Dr. Wild and Others Mostly Bakers.

Buffalo, Nov. 29.—That Frank Stendis was but one of eight men whom William Strohl intended to murder developed late yesterday afternoon when the police investigated the list of names found in Strohl's pocket after his sensational capture, following the fatal shooting of Stendis in the newspaper room of the Buffalo Public Library.

Including in the list which Strohl had in his pocket were the names of Dr. J. H. Wild, of 534 Elm street, "Aloys and his crowd," "Krummer and his crowd" and "Andrea and his crowd." Stendis' name was first on the list, and it is believed Strohl intended to kill his alleged enemies just as their names appeared on his paper. He was armed with sufficient ammunition to complete the job, and the two revolvers which he had would have sufficed. He did not take into consideration the fact that he might be molested during the course of his man-killing tour.

The police and district attorney Rudley are satisfied that Strohl is a fit subject for a commission in lunacy, and one will be applied for in the Supreme Court on Monday by Mr. Dudley. The actions of Strohl and the exploitation of his hallucinations following his arrest yesterday have caused the authorities to believe that the man is not sound mentally. Strohl was committed to jail last night and will be closely guarded until his case has been disposed of. It is not believed he will ever be brought to trial, for yesterday's crime.

From statements obtained by the police it would seem that the murdering of the men whose names he had on the list has been in Strohl's mind for several weeks. Dr. J. H. Wild was questioned by the police last night and gave some information which would tend to substantiate the theory that Strohl had the murder of Stendis under consideration for some time. While Dr. Wild was a student at the medical school, Strohl boarded with his mother. Dr. Wild was slightly acquainted with Strohl, but never had anything in common with him. Strohl claimed that Dr. Wild had bored a hole in his neck and drawn out a nerve that extended the length of his spinal column. He also claimed the physician had removed his intestines without breaking his skin. All that was done, Strohl claimed, while he was asleep.

After being taken to the district attorney's office Strohl was asked if he would shoot the doctor now. At that time Dr. Wild sat opposite Strohl in the office. The murderer quickly answered that he would not think twice about it, and asked for a chance. A note written in German, which the police found in Strohl's pocket, stated that Stendis was to be murdered for two reasons, the first of which was that the latter intended entering Strohl to a saloon and there knife him. The other reason was that Stendis had taken his life's blood. Strohl talked incoherently all afternoon yesterday, and Police Surgeon Bowerman, who was called, gave it as his opinion that the man was insane.

TWO DROWNED. Brother and Sister Lose Their Lives Near Gravenhurst.

Gravenhurst, Ont., Nov. 29.—The first drowning accident of the season occurred at Franklin's Bay, Sparrow Lake, on Saturday night, about 7 o'clock, when Mary Gill, aged 15 years, and her brother, Daniel Gill, 13, lost their lives. The two were sailing with a number of others on the lake, when the ice gave way, letting them and two other young people, Miss Mary Jones and Cyril Gill, into the icy water. Cyril Gill managed to get out and assist Miss Jones, and also his sister, on to the ice, but the latter again broke through before she got to shore. Mr. Hugh Gill, the father, is a highly respected resident and farmer, of Sparrow's Lake, and the double fatality was a great shock to the whole neighborhood. The bodies were recovered a few hours after the accident. The funeral will take place to-morrow from St. Paul's Church, Gravenhurst.

LABOR MEN.

Interview President Taft as to His Annual Message.

Gompers and Others Make Recommendations to Him.

Washington, Nov. 29.—Recommendations for improving the condition of the laboring men in his annual message to Congress were urged upon President Taft to-day by a delegation of labor leaders headed by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor; John Mitchell, second vice-president; James O'Connell, third vice-president, and Frank Morrison, secretary of the federation, accompanied Mr. Gompers to the White House. President Gompers submitted to the president a number of matters upon which it was hoped he would act favorably. The foremost of which concerned the issuance of injunctions by federal judges, particularly as they apply to personal liberty, and their use in the settlement of disputes between employers and employees. The exemption of labor organizations from certain provisions of the Sherman anti-trust act will be also discussed.

The President has practically decided that his message to Congress will make no detailed recommendations regarding the Sherman Act. His decision, which is a decided change from his intentions of a few weeks ago, is largely based upon the fact that there are pending in the Supreme Court and on their way to the highest tribunal a number of important cases involving the interpretation of that act. He feels, it is said, that specific recommendations from him at this time might be construed as an attempt to influence the court. Amendment to the eight-hour law so as to extend its provisions to contractors and sub-contractors for Government work was also discussed at the conference.

G. I. R. CLUB.

Rev. Delos Smith, pastor of Unity Church, gave an inspiring address at the Gospel Temperance Reform Club meeting yesterday afternoon. His appeal to the mind, rather than to the law, for the recognition of temperance principles in their work to society, was one of the clearest indications of his zeal for the cause of temperance. It was a scholarly address, and was well received and heartily applauded. Mrs. Smith sang with great effect. Wm. Rolfe, the President, occupied the chair, and it was pleasing to observe an increase in the attendance and general interest in the work.

G. I. R. CLUB.

Rev. Delos Smith, pastor of Unity Church, gave an inspiring address at the Gospel Temperance Reform Club meeting yesterday afternoon. His appeal to the mind, rather than to the law, for the recognition of temperance principles in their work to society, was one of the clearest indications of his zeal for the cause of temperance. It was a scholarly address, and was well received and heartily applauded. Mrs. Smith sang with great effect. Wm. Rolfe, the President, occupied the chair, and it was pleasing to observe an increase in the attendance and general interest in the work.
