CHAPTER III. "Why?" asked Rath, with a stare. The boy seemed to hesitate. "Oh—why, I thought perhaps you had gone quite away. But you have not, so I'm glad. See? Come in—I've got the breakfast—but come quietly. My mother is still asleep."

Rath. "At least," with a glance at the slight figure beside him, "I can." "Oh, I'm not so weak as—as I look," said the other, with a little elevation of the chin. "And is there anyone else living here? But, of course, there must be!"

CHAPTER IV.

The girl—for such she had now declared herself—raised herself on her elbow, and stared after the retreating figure of the lad with an amazement which gradually changed to something like shame and indignation; the colour deepened in her pale face until it burned a hot crimson, her breath came painfully, and her bosom rose and fell.

My Dear Mother—Just a few lines to let you know how I am getting on in the best of health and that you and all the family are the same. I am not allowed to write where we are, but we are in a place just like home. We last month nearly four weeks ago, as have had nothing but gales and ever since; but I am in hopes it is a little better soon. One can't tell you, and that is the longest, but I wish the war was as it is a very cruel one, but comparatively out of danger, not think any of the German around here. I am in hopes it will be over soon.

I saw Tom Morry to-day here in another ship. I have from St. John's, shipmates and we are enjoying ourselves as we can. We can't go anywhere there are only one or two places, so there is not much pleasure. Now, mother, I have much more to tell you, but I cannot to all enquiring friends, especially all the girls. DIPHTHERIA OUTBREAK—Diphtheria is spreading at Petty Harbour and three more persons in one family are now down with the disease. The necessary steps have been taken to prevent contagion.

SEE AMERICA FIRST—THE GREAT TREES.

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Sitwash."

The great trees are located in California about 4,500 from San Francisco. They are the oldest settlers in America. Even a New England family with Mayflower furniture in its house is an upstart bunch besides these trees.

American tourists love to go to Europe because of its age. Coming from a country which fights Indians one decade and public service trusts on the same spot ten years after, the venerable buildings of Europe fill him with awe. He loves to lean up against a crumbling church and gaze with respect upon a weatherbeaten stone saint who lost his nose from extreme debility 450 years ago. His brain staggers as he counts the birthdays of the Coliseum at Rome and when he views the living representative of an English family which hasn't worked for 19 generations he takes off his hat with veneration.

But the big trees of California were a thousand years old before Europe was organized for business. They were aged giants when Homer was peddling poetry and clanking for a new rhyme. They are older than anything in civilization except the mummy of Ramses and the mother-in-law joke.

The most impressive feature of the big trees is the fact that they do not give up and retire from business in their old age. They still keep on growing. A thousand years from now they will be larger than ever but this does not interest the tourist except in the most casual manner. We make this statement with confidence because no one is going to step around with a tape measure 1,000 years from now, and call us a liar.

The big trees are from 1,000 to 4,000 years old and the tallest of them is nearly 400 feet high. Whole houses could be built from their largest branches and when the government ran a road up to them it did not take the trouble to go around. It tunneled through and stage coaches save 100 feet or more thereby.

SAYS TRAWLERS TOW SUBMARINES.

New York, April 6.—Rear Admiral Henri Buchard, of the French navy, who retired from service through ill-health just before the war, arrived on the steamship Chicago from Bordeaux to make a tour of the United States. In an interview, he scouted the idea of the German navy having submarines that could steam eighteen knots on the surface and the threat to destroy all the English and French commerce on the high seas.

"When the war commenced," he said, "the Germans had about 37 submarines. With those that had recently been constructed and subtracting those that have been destroyed, they must have forty-five in use at the present time."

"The reason the submarines have been able to go so far as Cape Finistere is because they are towed by steam or motor fishing trawlers down the Channel. The trawlers are sighted and signalled by cruisers and destroyers belonging to the allies, but the officers do not suspect that the line astern is attached to a submarine instead of a fishing net. This is a grave question that will have to be seriously taken up by the French and British officials in order to stop the submarine raids."

"The Germans have bases for their submarines at Antwerp and Bryuges an dozen or so off the coast of Norway, near Bergen. The newest submarine they have constructed at Antwerp cannot average more than 14 knots on the surface and nine to ten knots under water."

The Admiral said that France had about 90 submarines and the English navy about 110 or more, but they could not use them, because the Germans had no ships afloat to be attacked. Admiral Buchard was naval attaché at Berlin for five years.

HOME FACIAL MASSAGE.

I am given a complete and particularly good facial massage that can be practiced at home without difficulty or injurious effects. A kneading or circular movement should begin at the chin and go dancing up toward the ears, then from the chin up toward the eyes, also from the center of the forehead out towards the temples.

If only this one motion is used the firmness imparted to the tissues and the stimulation directed toward the glands and pores will be of wonderful benefit. After the circular friction from the center of the forehead out to the temples, place the four fingers of either hand back to back and rub alternately up and down, going from one side of the forehead to the other.

As one set of fingers sweeps upward the other set goes down, and both go across. This gives the flesh a sort of ironing out, treating the lines crosswise. See to it that plenty of skin food is applied.

It will be constantly absorbed and if the beautifying is continued for any length of time the cosmetic pot must contribute generously of its contents. Another movement is to place the first three fingers between the eyebrows and to spread them as you move upward toward the hair line. Anything that friction the skin without pushing it into new lines is beneficial. The flesh glows afterward, showing that the blood vessels are busy. It is important that the muscles be wholly relaxed during massage. Small lines running like accordion plaits between the eyes must be given the circular kneading with the first or second finger.

Place the first finger of the left hand directly between the eyebrows and keep stationary. Place the first finger of the right hand flat across the top of the lines and move briskly back and forth; afterward rub with both hands, going forward and away at the same time; follow with upward smoothing and crosswise friction.

The tissues about the eyes are particularly soft and delicate, and even if a woman hasn't time for massages she should plaster that part of her face thickly every night with skin food, which provides a certain nutriment for the soft flesh which falls away easily.

Place the first finger of the right hand on the eyelid close to the nose, sweep outward just beyond the eye and comb back underneath to sitting point. Beginning with the circular kneading motion working from the lower end of the line to the upper, place the thumb at the base of the line and smooth gently with the first finger, bringing the flesh out in a fold.

Costume for Misses and Small Women.

This desirable model is easy to develop. It is cut in semi-fitted style with long waist outline, and has a belt which may be omitted. The skirt is a three piece model, and flares in comfortable fullness below the hips. The sleeve may be finished in wrist or short length. The Pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 14, 16, 17 and 18 years. It requires 5 yards of 44 inch material for a 16 year size. The skirt measures about 3 1/3 yards in the 16 year size at its lower edge.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

1216.—LADIES' COSTUME.

Rivaling the tunic and redingote styles, one sees new models in Princess effect, as shown in this attractive design. The waist is cut to form a panel over the skirt front, and may be finished at raised or normal waistline. A deep yoke that may be cut high or at normal waistline forms the upper part of the new flare skirt. The sleeve is close fitting and finished with a smart cuff. Brown serge was used in this instance, with lace and a touch of brown velvet for trimming. Buttons to match ornament the fronts. This style is good for linen, for gingham and other cotton goods. In white linen, with embroidered panel, revers and cuffs, it would be real smart. It will also develop nicely in taffeta or poplin. The Pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 6 3/4 yards of 44 inch material for a 36 inch size. The skirt measures 2 1/2 yards at the lower edge.

Consulting the Colonies.

It is satisfactory to have the authoritative statement of the Right Hon. L. Harcourt, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, that the Imperial Government will consult the Prime Ministers of the Overseas Dominions when the time arrives to discuss terms of peace. The Dominions of South Africa, Australia and New Zealand will be more interested in the matter of division of German overseas territory than Newfoundland and Canada. British South Africa borders on German S. W. Africa, Australia and New Zealand are interested in these islands in the Pacific which have been taken from Germany by their forces. Newfoundland and Canada will be interested in the possibility of being reconquered for the outlay made for the prosecution of the war, and for the provision which must be made for those incapacitated from earning a livelihood for themselves and their dependants and also for the dependants of those who have given their lives for the war. As to the possibility of exacting a War indemnity from Germany, Austria and Turkey, it is too early to estimate the chances. Our enemies had not yet been conquered, and there is much to do before the discussion can become of a practical character. It is satisfactory, however, to know that opportunities will be afforded to the Colonies to set forth their several cases and to bring influence to bear on all matters in which they are interested.

The Charges Against the Penitentiary.

It seems to us that the most important from the standpoint of Justice of the charges made in the letter from a prisoner of the Penitentiary, read yesterday by Mr. Coaker in the House of Assembly and in the statement made by Mr. Morine as to the treatment of accused persons kept there on remand. Among the latter are the following: the length of detention before trial; the clothing they wear while being so detained; and the food and medical attention given them. It is to be remembered first and foremost that these persons on remand are detained on a mere accusation and that they are awaiting trial and are to be regarded as innocent until proved guilty in the regular course of law. Their detention under remand should be as short as practicable, and a failure to obtain bonds is no answer for a lengthy detention under remand. For it may arise solely from the fact that the detained are strangers without friends. A five months detention on remand appears on the face of it excessive. If the accused are afterwards found guilty, the Court will take this part of the detention into consideration in deciding about the length of sentence. But if the accused is found not guilty, he has suffered the detention unfairly and has no redress. It is therefore the duty of the prosecutor to make the length of detention as short as possible, and the treatment under detention should be as little like that of a convicted prisoner as possible, for the object of

THE IMPERIAL GOVERNMENT WILL CONSULT OVERSEAS DOMINIONS BEFORE SETTLING TERMS OF PEACE.

LONDON, To-day. In the Commons this afternoon during question time, the Right Hon. Lewis Harcourt, Secretary of State for the Colonies, made an important statement regarding the Imperial Conference. He said: "If the House will permit me I will state exactly what happened in relation to this matter. After the war had broken out the Imperial Government assumed it would not be convenient for any of the parties that the normal Conference should meet on its due date, namely, in the month of May, this year, but no communications on the matter passed between us and the Dominions. Early in December, I was made aware privately that the Premier of the Commonwealth of Australia, favoured a meeting of the Conference during and in spite of the war. I communicated this fact also privately, to the Premiers of the other Dominions. They unanimously agreed with us that the holding of the normal Conference this year during hostilities would be difficult, if not impossible. In two cases, at least, the attendance of Ministers would be impracticable. Then informed Mr. Fisher, the Australian Premier, that in view of this practical unanimity of opinion, we hoped he would recognize its force. The Premier replied that he did not wish to press the matter. A few days ago Mr. Fisher was reported as saying in reference to the Imperial Conference: 'What the British Government considers to be the correct thing is good enough for my Government. That is all I have to say. I cheerfully fall in with the decision not to hold an Imperial Conference this year, although not able to convince myself that the reasons given for a postponement were sufficient. However, we have policy for this trouble that gets over all difficulties. It is that when the King's business will not fit with our ideas we do not press them.' An admirable example of the spirit in which the Dominions deal with Imperial affairs during the war. In all these communications, continued the Colonial Secretary, I referred only to what I carefully called the normal Conference, by which I mean the full Colonial Conference with all its paraphernalia of miscellaneous resolutions, shorthand reports, and resulting Blue Books. This is the sort of conference which we thought to be unsuited for present conditions, but in January, when intimating its postponement to the various Dominions, I telegraphed each of the Governor Generals: 'Will you at the same time inform your Prime Minister that it is the intention of the Imperial Government to consult him most fully, and if possible personally when the time arrives to discuss the possible terms of peace.' I need hardly add, said Harcourt, that the Imperial Government intend to observe the spirit as well as the letter of this declaration, which I believe has given complete satisfaction to the Governments of the Dominions, of an answer to a question, in order that the position as regards the Imperial Conference may be plain to the public as it is to these Governments.

ple have been occupied during recent weeks. The Commons sat for only thirty-five minutes. The expected statement of ministers on the question of liquor prohibition, acceleration of output munitions, the general progress of war were postponed until future sessions. French's report goes into details of the operations of the British expeditionary force during February and March, while he pays the highest tribute to General Sir Douglas Haig, who was directly in charge of the operations at Neuve Chapelle, he refers to the battle as a success and a victory. He has some criticism for other officers, although he does not mention them by name. He refers for example to considerable delay after the capture of the Neuve Chapelle position, says: "I am of opinion that this delay would not have occurred had the clearly expressed order of the General commanding the first army been more carefully observed." He also says: "the difficulties enumerated might have been overcome earlier in the day had the General Officer commanding the Fourth Corps been able to bring his reserve brigades more speedily into action." On the whole Field Marshal French's report seems to indicate that the British troops engaged succeeded in carrying all the ground it was intended to take at the time, but that with more effective artillery fire in some sections and better handling of reserves, even more might have been gained with less of loss. The British losses which total more than 12,000 are very close to the estimates recently published, so they create no surprise. The German losses according to this report numbered several thousand dead, 12,000 wounded and many prisoners.

ZEPPELIN RAID.
 NEWCASTLE, Enig. To-day. A Zeppelin raid was made in the Tyne, district of Northumberland County, last night. The Zeppelin reached Blyth from across the North Sea about 8 o'clock. It passed over Blyth and Cramlington, proceeded to north of Seatonburn. Bombs were dropped on several villages, passed by the airship; five at Choppington, three at Wallsend, two at Seatonburn, one at Bedlington. The airship passed near North Shields and Newcastle, while neither city was visited. Both took precautions against it by extinguishing electric lights.

Critically Ill.
 We regret to note, and his numerous friends throughout the Colony will be sorry to hear of the serious indisposition of Hon. John B. Ayre, of the firm of Messrs. Ayre & Sons, Ltd. For a considerable time past he had been in failing health, but only on Sunday last died his ailment reach a paralytic stroke. Drs. Cowperthwaite and Fraser are constantly in attendance, though this forenoon his condition was still critical.

Battles Without Casualties.

In the present war even the smallest battle results in a long list of killed and wounded, but in the past when artillery was not so deadly, contests were occasionally waged without the loss of a single British soldier. An instance of this occurred at the Battle of Putehpore, which occurred during Havelock's forced march to relieve Lucknow. Although the rebels were driven from a strong position and eleven guns captured, not a single Britisher was lost. Havelock put this astonishing result down to "the fire of the British artillery exceeding in rapidity and precision all that has ever been witnessed."

WEDNESDAY, April 14th.

Petitions were presented by Hon. C. H. Emerson from Garnish relating to fishery matters; by Mr. Parsons from Upper Island Cove and Bryant's Cove asking for the discontinuance of the use of traps, and from Riverhead, Hr. Grace, for extension of the railway platform, and a light to be placed near the station; by Mr. Currie from Point aux Gauls, asking that that place be made a port of call for the S. S. Argyle; by Mr. Stone from Gooseberry Cove against the use of trawls.

Replies to questions asked by Mr. Kent, Mr. Hal'yard, Mr. Dwyer, Mr. Coaker were tabled.

In reply to Mr. Kent's question as to the parties with whom the Government is negotiating for the new enterprises referred to in the Speech from the Throne, the Premier said that matters were still under consideration and it was hoped that the agreements would be signed during the week. The gentleman negotiating with the Government in one matter is Thomas T. Wilson, of Ottawa, who is associated with the Reid Mfg. Co., and is interested in the development of the waterpowers of the Humber River at Bay of Islands. The other gentleman with whom negotiations are being held is Edward St. John Howley, of New York who is interested in cold storage. When arrangements are complete, the agreements and correspondence will be tabled.

The Colonial Secretary referred to the length of the question asked by Mr. Stone, and said that it would take some time to prepare the information required. He hoped to have the replies tabled before the close of the House.

A Bill to amend the Saw Mill Act, introduced by Mr. Jennings, was read a first time; the Patents and Trade Marks Bill passed its final reading; the second reading of the Logging Bill was deferred. The House went into Committee on the Local Affairs Bill but at the request of the Opposition, the discussion was deferred until Friday. The Committee stage of the Sealfishery Bill was also deferred.

The Customs Act Amendment Bill came up for second reading. This Bill provides for the removal of all goods lying in freight stores after five days to bonded warehouses.

The Minister of Finance gave notice that he would ask the House to resolve itself into a Committee of the whole on Supply, on Tuesday next.

Mr. Coaker read a letter which dealt with conditions at the Penitentiary. It was written, he said, by one Ledrew and set forth in detail a series of charges of mismanagement at that institution. The conditions were described as unsanitary, and the health of the prisoner was said to be neglected. Complaint was made regarding the food of prisoners awaiting trial and that they are not treated as well as those already convicted and serving long terms. The letter also stated that one prisoner had not had a change of underwear for four months, though he had clothes for which he had asked and was refused and that when ill he could not see the medical attendant.

Mr. Morine corroborated many of the statements set forth in the letter by facts which had come under his notice as solicitor for a prisoner who has been awaiting trial since early in December last. He said that if it were possible to bring a prisoner here from Bonne Bay (whence the said prisoner had come) it was equally possible to bring along the witnesses. He also stated that upon arrival the prisoner had had his winter clothing taken from him, by a trick and that the police had taken possession of them and refused to give them up. He was compelled to wear summer weight clothing all during the winter. He confirmed the statement that the prisoner had not had a change of underwear for four months nor a bath for the same period. He presumed that the Government did not know of these conditions, and so did not hold them responsible.

The Premier in reply said that this was the first intimation he had received of the matter, and added that an immediate enquiry will be made into the matter. From what he knew of Mr. Parsons he regarded him as a most humane Superintendent, and he would be much surprised if there was no proper answer to the statements set forth.

Notices of questions were given and the House adjourned at 4.30 p.m. to meet again at 2.30 p.m. for the presentation of the Address in Reply.

Britain's Powder Magazine.

The Arsenal dates back to 1585, when Queen Elizabeth had a store of arms and armour at the Tower House, Woolwich.

Woolwich Arsenal comprises four main departments—the laboratory, the gun factory, the carriage department, and the building works.

In ordinary times about 20,000 hands are employed at the Arsenal. The monthly wages bill alone amounts to nearly a quarter of a million.

Visitors to the Arsenal are required to empty their pockets of all matches and other combustibles and to put large slippers over their boots before entering.

In times of peace British subjects over fourteen years of age may go over the Arsenal. Foreigners may only do so by recommendation from their ambassadors.

Woolwich is the oldest naval and military arsenal in the country. The town provided the chief dockyard of the Navy until the introduction of iron ships.

Ammunition of all kinds, big guns, torpedoes, gun carriages, and bombs are made at Woolwich, gunpowder largely at Waltham, and small arms at Birmingham and Enfield.

Several disastrous explosions and big fires have taken place at the Arsenal, one of the worst fires being the first one. This happened in 1802, damage to the extent of £200,000 being done.

The "proof butts," on which the big guns are tried, form one of the most jealously guarded parts of the Arsenal. Very few people are permitted the chance to see the effect of the fire of guns tried there.

The present Arsenal was formed about 1720. It was built on a rabbit warren, and a Swiss, Andrew Schachl, was responsible for choosing the site and superintending the building. Schachl was the first master-founder.

George the Third bestowed the title "Royal" on Woolwich Arsenal in 1805. At that time it only occupied forty-two acres of ground. Now it covers over 600 acres, and its frontage on the Thames extends for more than a mile.

In the Rotunda Museum at Woolwich a number of curious old-fashioned weapons are kept. One of the quaintest, which no one seems to know the precise intention of, is a sort of pistol attached to a pole. The shots from this curious gun apparently went up into the air.

The Arsenal has its own railway system. Little trains puff and pant about the grounds, carrying the workers to their work and materials to the stores. One of the systems is a mono-rail, engine and cars, kept upright by means of a gyroscope, travelling on a single line.

Woolwich workers have never been so prosperous in their lives as they are at present. Boys employed there are doing particularly well. Many boys who were earning a few shillings a week in offices or as van boys before the war are now making an average of thirty shillings a week on piece work.

The steam hammer and the crane are two of the chief sights in the gun factories. The hammer, which cost £50,000, stands forty-five feet high, and its head weighs forty tons. It strikes a blow equivalent to 1,000 tons.

The four cranes, which deposit the hammer's "victims" under him by means of anchor cables, can lift 300 tons.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Very young children do not need hair tonic, but the hair should be massaged gently two or three times a week, and brushed thoroughly every day. Until a child is usually washed during the daily bath.

After that it should be thoroughly washed every two weeks until the child is six years old. After a severe illness a child's hair should be closely cut, shaved if the hairdresser thinks it necessary. It may seem a pity to sacrifice pretty curls after such a slight ailment as chickenpox, but if there is a single scab on the scalp the hair should be cut, as nests of dandruff almost invariably form in the scars and the hair may always be thin and poor as a result.

The practice of combing the heads of children frequently with a fine tooth comb is a bad one, as the points of the teeth are quite sure to scratch and irritate the scalp, and are almost sure to produce scurf and dandruff.

Deep frying is an economical method, as the same fat can be used again and again if care be taken not to let it burn and to strain carefully each time it is used.

More About American Husbands.

By RUTH CAMERON.

A foreigner who was commenting on American customs said that the thing which struck him as the most remarkable about our country was the way in which the husbands entered into lives in the wifely settlements of their wives.

It is true, isn't it, when you stop to think of it, the wife takes the husband's name. The husband takes the wife's friends?

On Paper Versus in Life. In on-paper discussions of marriage you hear a good deal said about the wife entering a new life, leaving behind her old friends and taking her husband's, but when you turn to real life you find that if anybody drops old friends it isn't likely to be the wife.

Let a group of girls who have been chums, marry. The husbands may have never seen each other before but they soon find themselves friends (by necessity in the lesser sense of the word; by good fortune plus necessity in the greater).

Try the shoe on the other foot. When two or three men friends marry do their wives usually become friends. Far from it.

I have in mind at the moment two women who were college chums. Their husbands had never met before the engagements. They are now each the other's closest friend, if you take friend in the sense of intimate and companion.

"We Haven't Anything in Common." Now the husband of one of these girls had a very close man friend before he was married. Yet this man's wife and his friend's wife are only on formal calling terms. They don't dislike each other. Oh no. "But we really have nothing in common," says the woman in the case.

The old theory was that the wife became part of the husband's family but in most of the cases I know the husband became a part of the wife's family.

"A daughter's a daughter through-out her whole life."
 "A son's a son till he gets him a wife."

Never were truer words written in proverb than that. Nor can you wonder at it. A mother may love her son just as much as her daughter; in fact she may feel a sense of mysterious triumph in being the mother of one of these "magerful" beings, but after all the bonds of companionship and congeniality will probably be stronger between her and her daughter.

The Mother and Daughter Have Similar Business Interests. Besides, when the daughter takes her place in a home of her own, she is a beginner in her mother's business. What wonder that they should have many points of contact. Whereas, unless the son happens to be in business with his father, he has no such bond with his family.

It is a favorite statement that the American husband is the most indulgent in the world. If he is to be judged by the complaisance with which he permits his wife to determine the social relationships of the two he certainly is.

I wonder, though, is it wholly because he is more complaisant than foreign husbands or partly because social relationships mean less to him and business more?

War Profits Devoted to Charity.

The recent death of Mr. Joseph Hoyland Fox at Wellington has deprived Somerset of one who has often been referred to as the "Grand Old Man" of the county. Apart from the fact that he was senior partner in the firm of Messrs. Fox Brothers and Co., Ltd., whose mills are the largest in the West of England, and whose woollen manufactures were famous as far back as the beginning of the eighteenth century, Mr. Fox was a philanthropist whose unostentatious generosity extended in many directions.

Perhaps one of the most interesting facts regarding him is that in 1873 he initiated, in connection with his firm, a scheme comprising profit-sharing, old-age pensions, compensation for accidents, compulsory insurance against sickness and free medical attendance, thus anticipating Mr. Lloyd George by nearly forty years.

Any movement which had for its object the relief of the sick and suffering had his keenest sympathy. The worthy people of Wellington regarded him as their greatest friend. Being a member of the Society of Friends, he was, of course, an ardent lover of peace and opposed to war, although no one recognized more than himself that the present conflict was inevitable. All the profits he made out of Army contracts were devoted to charity.

It is interesting to recall at the moment that Mr. Fox pioneered the manufacture of the present khaki mixture for the Army, which was first made at the Tonerale Mills, the headquarters of the firm. During the South African War Fox supplied the Government with 20,000 yards of khaki a week for a long period, laying down special dyeing plant, and to-day they help to clothe with this material other armies besides the British.

As with khaki, the firm were the first in the field with the modern popular spiral puttee, which is supplied in immense quantities to our Army.

As a young man the late Mr. Fox was an enthusiastic regard to athletics. His great passion, however, was for mountaineering, and in 1871 he was one of a party which had a marvellous escape from an avalanche when climbing the Alps. To his love of outdoor pastimes Mr. Fox attributed his wonderful good health and energy. For, although he was in his eighty-second year, he was attending business and taking part in various social affairs right up to the last moment.

Economy

GAS COKE yields 44 per cent of radiant heat, whereas coal gives only 19 per cent. under the same conditions.

GAS COKE is clean to handle. GAS COKE is smokeless. GAS COKE gives a clear red glow. GAS COKE lasts longer than coal. Light the fire with paper and sticks and a little coal. When once burning make it up with Coke, the cheapest solid fuel.

For a limited time only, the St. John's Gas Light Company will deliver in any part of the town at $6.50 per ton, or $3.25 per half ton.

To turn out a hot pudding successfully, wrap around the hot basin a cloth that has been wrung out in cold water, and leave for a few minutes before making the attempt.

Household Notes

To boil Finnan haddie, soak it for a little while before putting it over the coals, and put plenty of butter on it afterward.

After polishing brasses in the kitchen coat them with the oil used for mixing gold paint and they will stay clean much longer.
 Do not put coal on a hot fire when fixing it to keep. Take off the lids and cool it a little, by this means you save the fresh coal.

A flat button can be used to outline scallops for embroidering, choosing different buttons for the different scallop sizes needed.

When mixing thickening for gravy, add a pinch of salt to the flour before adding the water or milk—it will be less likely to lump.
 If boiled drinking water is ordered, it may be freshened by pouring it briskly from one jug to another and back again half a dozen times.

It is a good plan to make a small pin cushion and fasten it on to the arm of a sewing machine. It is handy to stick the pins in and take them out.

A good breakfast diet is made of thin slices of cold roast beef placed on a warm platter, and with some of the gravy reheated to boiling point poured over it.
 When broiling steak, it should be turned every ten-seconds for the first minute, that the surface may be well seared, preventing the juices from escaping.

WOMAN SICK FOR YEARS

Wants Other Women to Know How She was Finally Restored to Health.

Hammond, Ont. — "I am passing through the Change of Life and for two years had hot flashes very bad, headaches, soreness in the back of head, was constipated, and had weak, nervous feelings. The doctor who attended me for a number of years did not help me, but I have been entirely relieved of the above symptoms by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier and Liver Pills, and give you permission to publish my testimonial." — Mrs. LOUIS BEAUCAGE, Sr., Hammond, Ont., Canada.

New Brunswick, Canada. — "I can highly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any suffering woman. I have taken it for female weakness and painful menstruation and it cured me." — Mrs. DEVERE BARBOUR, Harvey Bank, New Brunswick, Canada.
 Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ailments we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.
 If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

BRADY'S LINIMENT RELIEVES RHEUMATISM.

DECLARE COTTON CONTRABAND. DEMAND ENGLISH SCIENTISTS.

Great Britain Virtually Supplying Germans with Ammunition.

London, April 5.—A number of influential scientists and engineers, headed by Lord Ramsay, have been for some time urging the government to place cotton on the contraband list, on the ground that it is used for explosives. The correspondence between these parties and the government has been published, showing that they had brought the strongest arguments before the government that unless drastic measures are taken to exclude cotton from Germany, Great Britain is virtually supplying the Germans with ammunition.

The government, however, so far have declined to move, and has referred the petitioners to the recent order-in-council.

The Standard, in an editorial on the American note, complains of the suppression of the government in this connection, which, it supposes, is out of deference for the United States, and says:

"If the British government thereby hopes to avoid offending the United States it has little luck, for it is not with regard to these matters that President Wilson is insistent. He protests against shadowy and ineffective claims much more than against the severe enforcement of undoubted rights."

Didn't Like It.

Franklin Matthews represented a newspaper during the Russo-Japanese War, and one day succeeded in breaking through the news censorship and reaching Field-Marshal Oyama. The interview was brief but extremely courteous, and the jubilant correspondent hurried back to prepare the story for his paper. In the course of it he used this expression, "Marshal Oyama is a brick."

The letter was duly passed along to the official translator, and presently Captain Kanaka, of the Marshal's personal staff, called upon the correspondent.

"Marshal Oyama presents his compliments," said the captain, suavely, "and regrets to inform the esteemed correspondent that his honourable letter cannot be forwarded as written."

"Why, what's wrong with it?" cried the amazed war scribe.
 Captain Kanaka explained with polite gravity, "Marshal Oyama," he said, "objects to having the great American public regard him as baked mud."
 For that is what the extremely literal translator had made of "brick."

OFFICIAL. LONDON, April 14.

The Governor, Newfoundland: Sir John French reports the situation unchanged throughout last week. The French Government reports positions, whose progress was made during the last eight days, maintained and consolidated.

The Russian Government reports progress north of Ustok Pass; and 2,700 prisoners and 20 machine guns captured. In the region of Kosiowa the enemy attacks were repulsed with enormous losses.

HARCOURT.

ST. PIERRE BULLETIN.

PARIS, via St. Pierre, April 14. Between the sea and the Aisne, only artillery duels to report. East of Berry au Bac we captured a German trench.

In the Argonne, sapping and mining operations, also bomb and grenade throwing, between the respective trenches.

Between the Meuse and the Moselle our troops succeeded on several points in coming in contact with barbed wire entanglements of the enemy's defence works. We have maintained and strengthened our positions on the different points on which we recorded progress during the last eight days.

Our aviators bombarded successfully the military sheds of Vigneuil, les Hatton and Chatel, in Woivre, and dispersed in that vicinity a German battalion marching forward.

The Minister of Marine publishes to-day the following communique: Yesterday a French cruiser acting in co-operation with hydroplanes, bombarded an important Turkish camp in the vicinity of Gazar.

German still hold all wagons of merchandise belonging to Italy, the stopping of which was made eight days ago. Telegrams received at Geneva from Austrian and Italian towns, claim that the Italian-German tension is increasing daily.

PREPARING FOR RETREAT.

BASEL, April 15. German military authorities, according to advices reaching here, are reconstructing the formidable fortress at Isten, five miles from here, on the Rhine. The barracks inside the fortress has been completely pulled down, and extensive underground barracks in their place have been dug and guarded out of the earth. Furthermore the River Rhine is being dammed so that when certain sluice gates are closed, wide stretches of the surrounding country can be flooded.

Observers in Basel express the opinion that these preparations are in anticipation of the French offensive being successful.

LONDON, April 15. An Order-in-Council was issued this evening, commandeering all refrigeration ships, engaged in trade between ports within the United Kingdom and Australia.

the war. Lewis Harcourt, Secretary of State for the Colonies, promised that the Dominions should be consulted fully in regard to terms of peace. Harold J. Tennant, Parliamentary Under-Secretary for War, announced that there had been 1,546 promotions to commissions from the ranks, since the beginning of the war. He also gave what is regarded as a possible clue to the intentions of the Government concerning the drink question. He said beer was the only intoxicant now permitted in cartons, and that it was not the intention of the authorities to prohibit its sale.

RUSSIAN ATTACK SUCCESSFUL.

LEMBURG, April 14. A desperate attack was made by the Russians on the right flank of the Austrian position on the Hungarian side of the east Beskid mountains, about 50 miles south of Przemyel. The Austrians were forced, after a twelve hour battle, to make precipitate retreat. The whole main crest of this district, which the Austrians considered to be impregnable, is now in Russian hands.

NEW IRISH VICEROY.

DUBLIN, April 14. Baron Wimborne, who succeeded Lord Aberdeen as Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, made a State entry into Dublin this afternoon, and was given a great welcome by all classes of the population. The scene in many ways was a brilliant one. The new Lord Lieutenant was escorted by a detachment of cavalry. Lady Wimborne and their children, one son and two daughters, drove in the procession. Baron Wimborne in recent years represented the Irish cause in the House of Lords, and in the Boer War was given a medal for distinguished service.

VIOLATION OF THE ALIEN CONTRACT.

NEW YORK, April 14. Seventy-seven men and women, practically the entire force of stewards and stewardesses aboard the American liner Kroonland, were placed under arrest to-day by immigration officers, on a warrant served on the captain, charging the Red Star Line, owners of the vessel, with violation of the alien contract labor law.

THE BATTLE OF NEUVE CHAPPELLE.

LONDON, April 15. Field Marshal Sir John French, Commander of the British Expeditionary Forces on the Continent, reports that the British losses in the three days' fighting at Neuve Chapelle are as follows: Killed, 190 officers, 2,327 men; wounded, 359 officers, 8,172 men; missing, 23 officers.

Field Marshal French's report continues: The enemy left several thousand dead on the field, and we have positive information that upwards of 12,000 wounded were removed by train. Thirty officers and 1,657 of other ranks were captured.

In the trenches along the British front, sprawling from Ypres to La Bassee, officers and men alike are still talking of the battle last month at Neuve Chapelle. The officers characterize this British victory as likely to be recorded as the greatest local success in the war, and privates hail it as evidence that the German line can be broken whenever their leaders decide this must be done, and that the ground gained will outweigh the inevitable losses sustained. The misgivings in England with regard to the British losses at Neuve Chapelle, are hardly justified in view of the advances gained, in the opinion of staff officers at the front. One officer, explaining to-day the strategic importance of this dent in the German line, said that had the Germans continued six weeks more to hold Neuve Chapelle, thus flanking the British on the north and south, they would have inflicted losses equal to those sustained by the attackers on that memorable March morning. Thus the British would in short time have lost as many men, the speaker declared, without the physical and moral advantage scored by the spurt forward.

LOOKING FORWARD.

I often wonder how this globe will struggle on when I cash in, when I put on my long white robe and sleep with cold but peaceful grin. I find it hard to realize that sun and moon and stars will shine, that clouds will drift along the skies, when everlasting sleep is mine. What is the use of keeping up the long procession of the spheres, when I'm beneath the butterfly, with gnaw in my eyes and ears? What is the use of dusk or dawn, of starless dark or glaring light, when I from all these scenes am gone, down to a million cars of night? Young men will vow the same sweet vows, and maids with beating hearts will hear, beneath the churchyard maple's boughs, and reckon not that I'm resting near. And to the altar, up the aisle, the blooming brides of June will go, and bells will ring and damsel's smile, and I'll be too blamed dead to know. Ah, well, I've had my share of fun. I've lived and loved and shut the door; and when this little journey's done, I'll go to rest without a roar.

DON'T TAKE CALOMEL

Instead of dangerous, salivating Calomel to liven your liver when bilious, headache or constipated get a 10-cent box of Cascarets. They start the liver and bowels and straighten you up better than nasty Calomel, without gripping or making you sick.

"In Royal Bondage."

The Royal Show presented at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day is well worth seeing. "In Royal Bondage" is one of the best two reel features made by the Pathe Company, illustrating the usages of Royalty; the acting and staging of this drama is such as only Pathe can produce. "The Cynic" and "A Man's Faith" are two first class dramas, and the laughable funny comedy is a fitting finale to this classy programme.

Go to the Crescent to-day and see a good picture show.

CAN'T FIND DANDRUFF

Every bit of dandruff disappears after one or two applications of Danderine rubbed well into the scalp with the finger tips. Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store and save your hair. After a few applications you can't find a particle of dandruff or any falling hair, and the scalp will never itch.

Royle and resulted as follows:—Leader—Ben. Taylor; Asst. Leader—Mark Pike; President—A. Rooney; Vice-President—Wm. Ash; Secretary—H. Bartlett; Treasurer—G. Evans; Librarian—A. Waterfield; Organist—W. Butterworth; Lookout Com.—E. Bursary; Sick Visiting Com.—A. Fagney; Social Com.—J. Hillier. A vote of thanks was tendered the Rev. Mr. Royle, after which the meeting closed with the rendition of the National Anthem.

Law of Exchange

Makes Prices Prohibitive. The Board of Trade have just received the following extract from Messrs. Lind and Couto, of Oporto:—"There is no alteration in the general condition of our market. There would be a good demand if the law of exchange did not make prices prohibitive to the poorer classes, who are the chief consumers. The prices in currency were never before at such a high level as now."

Kyle's Passengers.

A. J. Courin, H. C. Stanley, Miss J. J. Johnstone, W. Butt. The express left Port aux Basques at 4.30 p.m. yesterday, and owing to the condition of the road is not due in the city until to-morrow morning.

"What Are You Doing for that Eczema?"

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it." "That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured me. You can get Zylex at your druggist's." Zylex, 50c. a box; Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake. OURS IN THE WEST END.

How pleased the West End people are with their own little theatre—prettiest in town, and the best pictures that can be had. The little singers make quite a hit, good songs and well sung; encourage the home talent on Friday at Rossley's East End Theatre. There will be a contest for any one over fourteen, with three good prizes (money), and on Saturday the children will also have a chance to compete, when three prizes will be offered; they can sing, dance, recite, play an instrument or go-as-you-please. LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, March 23, 1915.
PRINCE OF WALES AT THE FRONT.

According to all accounts from the front the Prince of Wales is occasioning the liveliest satisfaction by his growing aptitude for trigonometry and other mathematical sciences employed for the determination of the height, circumference or proximity of positions or objects as affecting the enemy. In the matter of draughtsmanship, likewise, the Prince exhibits much keenness and ability, while in relation to gunnery he is constantly revealing the fact that he has not forgotten any of the training given him while pursuing his naval studies. His personal appearance for vigour and robustness will, it is further said, be a pleasing surprise when in the summer he returns to England for the celebration of his twenty-first birthday.

MAKING THE UNIFORMS.

Within the last eight months the workers in the clothing trades have achieved wonders. Employers and workers accustomed to the ready-made and factory-bespoke trade have learned to make khaki uniforms, which is like saying that a brick-works has been turned into a porcelain factory. Workers used to paying a couple of pence for a thousand-yard bobbin of machine cotton now use silk and linen thread to the value of threepence on a single soldier's tunic. Many of the complaints made in September and October were due to this very point, workers not realizing that even after the apparently enormous cost of sewings was deducted they had more money for their labour than before. Gun patches, shoulder straps, patch pockets, belt hooks, and bandage pockets are no longer mysteries to them. The great orders for the detested but necessary blue uniforms arranged through the Co-operative Wholesale Society, and the £3,000,000 contract for "simplified" khaki uniforms just completed by Robert Glanfield and Sons, have largely helped to bring this about, and for the last couple of months the Director of Contracts has, I believe, had scores of firms on his books taking direct contracts who had never seen khaki before the war. The trade is now expecting within the next five weeks the distribution of even larger contracts than any yet given out. The supply of woollen khaki is to be supplemented by the use of khaki-drill. Uniforms are being made for our Allies as well as ourselves, and to anyone in a position to realize the enormous supplies required for the armies in the field and in training, the recent orders that uniforms for the various home defence volunteer corps of men over military age are not to be made of woollen cloth, seem a very proper precaution.

ORGANISING WAR MATERIAL LABOR.

The British Government has at last settled down to attack the general question of supplies of war material in a thorough and systematic fashion. The amendment of the Defence of the Realm Act gives the State power to take over compulsorily private factories and also dwellings for housing the workmen. Lord Kitchener has also made an important speech on the necessity of organizing the work of manufacturing munitions of war and the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Lloyd George, has also delivered a notable speech on the same subject. I hear from reliable informants who know the engineering trade well, that organization of workshops is greatly needed, and that with even a little more co-ordination of the work done in different shops, there could be almost immediately an enormously increased output. Engineering works which have been given orders for armaments of one kind or another, and have carried them out well enough to have them renewed, are still occupying a great part of their resources in work for private contracts of no military consequence. There is, also, I am informed, great need for expert criticism to be at the disposal of the Government on the detailed ways in which the manufacture of shells and other war material is being carried on. It is said that certain machine tools, for instance, could be made by adapting existing machines without much trouble, but that the more costly and slower plan of having tools made completely from the beginning has been adopted. When the new system forecasted by the Chancellor of the Exchequer is in working order, these defects of organization should disappear, and the very fact that there is at present a certain amount of waste of energy makes it highly probable that a largely increased output could be quickly assured.

BIRTH OF NEW TRADES.

Observers interested in the economic aspects of the war, inform me that nothing has been so surprising as the great smoothness and apparent ease with which the industries of the country have adjusted themselves to new and suddenly created conditions. No record of the multifarious changes and developments of trade is at present possible, but there is no doubt that the science of political economy will gain greatly from the evidence which should finally be available of the remarkable capacity for improvisation of which a highly organized industrial system has shown itself capable. It is not only that, as Lord Kitchener mentioned in his speech, recently, ordinary works of various kinds have become armaments works, though an authentic case of which I heard to-day of a maker of biscuit tins who is now turning out cartridges is sufficiently astonishing. Everywhere in the country there are manufacturers and traders who have given up some hard hit business and seized some emergency opportunity of making profits in another line. There is the case of a tourist agent whose charming and benevolent trade was necessarily injured by the outbreak of war. But the Scarborough raid gave him an unexpected opportunity. He put himself in touch with girls' schools and other timorous institutions on the East Coast and facilitated their transfer to the other side of the island. Instances could be multiplied, doubtless, and certainly the ease of improvisation almost deserves to be described as a new economic fact.

ITALY'S POSITION.

A correspondent who has long experience of Italy and many good sources of information there, suggests to me that the best course for us in this country is to read everything with regard to the intentions of the Italian Government with equal scepticism and to "wait and see." He has just had a letter from a friend in Italy, who is himself anxious for intervention on the side of the Allies, but warns him that the opposing influences are being underestimated. There is, he says, a body of opinion in political quarters in Italy which believes that Germany and Austria will in no case be decisively beaten by the Allies, and thinks of the result of the war rather as corresponding to that of the Russo-Japanese War—a drawn contest, but with one side a good deal more exhausted than the other. Germany and Austria, are anxious in his opinion, not merely to prevent Italy joining in the land campaign, but also to keep her fleet in being along with that of Austria as a means to secure some satisfaction at the end of the war for Austro-German-Italian ambitions in the partition of the Turkish Empire. No one, it appears, is much concerned about the Turk. Against this general view there are the authoritative opinions of Dr. Dillon, the famous "Daily Telegraph" correspondent who is in Rome just now. His cables give a wonderful picture of the varying push and pull in Italian politics, and he declares that the only end of this must be that Italy will join the Allies.

LONDON NEWSPAPER REVIVAL.

The war, which has hit so badly many of the old popular weekly papers and technical and sporting journals, is at last apparently stimulating some other departments of journalism. Three new papers are appearing in London within about a month, two of them illustrated Sunday papers. On March 22nd, the "Daily Chronicle" Office issued the third, a new halfpenny evening paper with the title of the "Echo"—a title formerly borne by a respected London evening paper whose last editor was Mr. Pethick Lawrence. The appearance of the "Echo" is arousing much interest. It gives the Liberal party the lead in London halfpenny evening journalism. The "Unionists" however, have the penny "Fall Mail Gazette," the "Evening Standard," and "Globe" while the Liberals have only one penny evening paper, the "Westminster." The new "Echo" will have a news editor whose reputation has grown to be a Fleet Street legend. It will be interesting to see whether it is possible to do any new thing in evening paper journalism.

A MEDLEY OF COLORS.

Fashion novelties abound in the showrooms of the great London wholesale dress firms, where the advance Spring fashion displays are now in full swing. "Battleship grey" is to be one of the leading colors of the early year, according to the unanimous verdict of the wholesale authorities. Other topical colors are "Petrograd Blue," and there is another tone of blue much in evidence which has been christened "Hussar." Carnation Pink, another of the new season's shades, will be much seen in conjunction with the grim "Battleship Grey." Much attention has been given of recent seasons as high as six shillings and sixpence per yard being charged for exquisite reproductions in cotton of the fashionable silk and woollen materials of the day. Last summer cotton "peau de poche" was the novelty. This year it is a cotton serge, which has been specially designed for tennis, boating and other outdoor sports, and which is to be known as "Joffre Serge." But the amazing medley of periods is perhaps the most interesting feature of the displays, which this year, by the way, rival those of Paris in the novelty of the creations exhibited. There are military and naval styles inspired by the uniforms of the Allies, there are the picturesque garments borrowed from their national dress of the Russian and Serbian peoples, and there are the 1820-1830 toilettes, quaintly pretty and quite practical when cleverly adapted, as they have been, to modern needs.

A Volunteer

IN THE TRUE SPIRIT.

Stan Pike, a member of the Reserve Force of Volunteers, was found to be suffering with diphtheria yesterday and was removed to the Fever Hospital. If he is prevented from going with the next contingent Stan will, no doubt, be sorely disappointed, as he offered his services with the First Contingent, but owing to a physical defect was not accepted. He had the true spirit and went to hospital where he was operated on and the defect removed. He then went up and enlisted. It is hoped that his recovery will be speedy.

Allan Line Service.

On next Saturday week, the 24th inst., the Allan Line service will be opened with either the Pomeranian or Sardinian leaving Liverpool for this port. The Mongolian, which made such history within the past few months, was expected to be the first boat to sail from the Old Country this season, but owing to her delay in dry dock at Halifax she did not get away from there for Glasgow until Friday last.

German Story of The Surrender.

Austrian Aviation Lieutenant's Tale of the Last Days of the Garrison.
Berlin, March 31.—(Via London).
A striking story of the last days of the Austrian stronghold of Przemyśl has been sent in by the correspondent of the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger at Austrian press headquarters, who obtained his information from an Austrian aviator lieutenant named Stanger.

The Lieutenant, with Pilot-Capt. Lehmann, were the only aviators who left Przemyśl fortress on the last day of its resistance who have as yet reported to the Austrian authorities. According to Lieut. Stanger, the Russians at first had six reserve divisions around the fort. Later this force was reduced to four divisions, but subsequently it received some reinforcements.

Troops from a division of Hungarian reserve militia, known as the Honved, undertook the first sortie from the fortress on December 14. They reached Biera, half way to Sankok. Another Austrian division worked its way toward this place from the Carpathians, and the two divisions were near each other when they were compelled to return by a strong gathering of Russian troops.

As early as December the rations of the defenders grew scarce, and the allotments were cut down. They gave out virtually entirely March 18th. Bread had long since been unknown. Horse meat and rice lasted the longest.

The condition of the defenders was in every way precarious. Two hundred died a day during the last few days of the siege, and there were no fewer than 28,000 men in hospital. It was consequently decided on March 18th to make a final attempt to break through the Russian line, but the attempt was doomed to failure before it was undertaken. Each soldier received two cans of preserved meat, the last of the rations remaining on hand. At the same time he was forbidden under severe penalties to use both these cans on the same day. The men who violated this order, and there were many, suffered for the reason that their weakened stomachs were unable to digest the unwanted amount of food.

The Honveds and some of the other older troops sallied out on the last expedition singing, but the flesh was weaker than the spirit. It took them seven hours to march seven kilometres (four miles) and many exhausted men were left along the way.

The Russians had plenty of time to prepare for the meeting with these hungry and weary soldiers. The expedition fought bravely, but it was forced to retreat at 10 o'clock in the morning. It had to return a distance of sixteen kilometres (ten miles) before it reached the protection of the forts. Nevertheless the Honveds came back singing as they went out.

The Russians who saw from the condition of the captives made by them how desperate was the plight of the garrison, made an effort to take at least one of the Austrian forts. In the beginning they had only old cannon but latterly they had been supplied with modern pieces of artillery. They began their bombardment the night of March 20, only a few hours after the exhausted members of the expeditionary force had returned to the forts.

The attack against the east front followed, but it was repulsed with sanguinary results. The commandant decided that the fortress must be held until 5 o'clock of the morning of March 22.

Preparations were made to destroy the fortifications and the artillery. The infantry regiments were withdrawn from their positions and the civilian population of Przemyśl was assembled outside the zone of danger. Then the work of destruction began. Fuses were so scarce that lengths burning only three minutes had to be used to set off all the charges. Some of these contained as much as 1,500 kilograms (over 3,000 pounds) of explosives. The method was this: A motor howitzer was loaded, as usual, and then the gun was filled with sand. It was then fired, with the result that the explosive force thrown back into the gun, wrecked it and its immediate surroundings.

Four balloons with ten men and four aeroplanes with eight men left the Przemyśl fortress during the last days of the siege. Only Captain Lehmann and Lieut. Stanger have been heard from.

Five Russian officers and 2,000 soldiers, prisoners of war, were in the fortress when it fell.

An Austrian officer was posted on the ruins of each fort, and provided with a white flag. He was instructed to make this announcement to the Russians: "His Excellency cannot hold the fort any longer on account of the lack of provisions, and he leaves everything to the chivalry of the enemy."

Przemysl finally fell, the correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger declares, but not a single stone had been captured by armed force.

my new cottage with

NEPONS
WALL BOARD
FOR WALLS AND CEILINGS

It was no trouble at all and took me a very short time. You see, anyone can apply it.

I simply gave my dealer the dimensions of the cottage and he sent me up enough bundles of this new material to cover the walls and ceilings—I did the rest with hammer, nails and saw.

It cost me a great deal less than laths and plaster, and there was no dirt and mess or delay of drying-out.

NEPONS WALL BOARD comes in sheets, all decorated; 7 to 10 feet long, and to fit across standard studding. It is ideal for unfinished rooms in houses, camps, garages, and for partitions anywhere—makes wonderfully attractive interiors. Surfaces waterproofed.

Evening Gowns at Reduced Prices!

While many of the larger social functions are—on account of the war—conspicuous by their absence this season, there are, never-the-less many smaller affairs which take place where a really smart gown is not only admissable, but really necessary.

¶ We are offering a limited number only of Evening and At-home Gowns and Blouses, in combinations of Silk and Net, Satin and Lace, Charmeuse, Ninon, Voile, etc.—in very beautiful designs and in different sizes. These Gowns and Blouses are copies of French and American models, and, owing to the depression in trade, are to be sold at heavy reductions.
