Important Notice to Readers!

WITH REFERENCE TO EVERY MAN'S LIBRARY.

The Booksellers have recently received the following communication from the Publishers of Everyman's Library:—

"Messrs. Dent & Sons sincerely regret that owing to the embargo placed by the Government on the importation of paper and materials for its manufacture, causing an increase in its cost by nearly 200 per cent., and also to the further increased cost of labour and other materials, they are compelled on and after July 1st to advance the prices of this library as follows:—

Cloth Edition, 1 1/2 net; Bancroft, Library Binding, 1 1/2 net; Taste Grain, 2 1/2 net; 1/4 Pigskin, Library Binding, 2 1/2 net; Aldine Morocco, 3 net; Bedford Morocco, 3 1/2 net."
The local price for the Cloth Edition of Everyman's will therefore be 45c. instead of its old price of 35c.

THE BIG LEAGUE SERIES.

By Bert L. Standish, 75c. ea.
Here they are! Just what you've been looking for. Baseball and Romance combined, the most interesting stories ever written.

The author managed a league team a number of years ago and is thoroughly familiar with the doings of baseball players on and off the field. Father and son will find equal delight in reading these magnificent stories.

"Any Boy with Plenty of Grit," "Baseball at its Finest," and the "Girl in the Case"—these are the elements which compose the most successful juvenile fiction ever written. You don't have to be a fan to enjoy these books; all you need to be is really human and alive, with plenty of red blood.

"KYRA,"

OR,
The Ward of the Earl of Vering.

CHAPTER XXXIV.
The Truth At Last.

"When Charlie and you are married!"

She did not speak, but the crimson flush faded slowly.

"Charlie, you know," he went on, as if he were giving words to thoughts and plans that he had worked out for some time, "will come after me in all probability, and will be Earl of Vering; he will have the title and the old house and you—ah, you smile, but you see it has been an amusement for me to plan it all out for you both—whom else have I to think for? Come, Kyra, you see that it is best that the old house should not remain desolate until I have had my day—at least, you will see that it will be doing me a service, to keep it warm and comfortable until I return; you will promise?"

A pause.

"Yes," she said, with a strange smile, "I promise that I will live at the Wold when I am married to Charlie." He appeared satisfied, and, glancing at a small French timepiece over his head, rose with his grave smile.

"I mustn't keep you out of bed too long. I am afraid you are very tired," he added, looking at her with a wistful tenderness that made the hot blood suffuse her lately pale face. "Ah! not now!" he said, with a shake of the head; "but you were pale and wearied-looking. You must promise not to let them overwork you next season. I should like to come back and find a London lily in place of the little wild rose I once carried—" in my heart, he was going to say, but said instead—"on my saddle!"

As he stood over her, he held out his hand; very quietly she put her little hot one into it. The old meretric thrill ran through him at her touch, and the strong man trembled and quivered as a war horse might under the first pang of a mortal wound.

"Good-by, Kyra!" he said, almost hoarsely. Then his voice broke, and uttered: "Kyra, you will not forget me? You will think of the old days—when we starved and struggled together across the snow—you will think of me sometimes out there, out of the world—little Kyra!"

As his grasp tightened, almost painfully, upon her hand she bent forward and looked up into his face with eyes that drove back all further words—all further thoughts.

"You will not go out of the world," she said, in a low, soft tone, as sad as it was sweet. "You will not go; hold my hand! You were not afraid to hold me altogether to your heart once. Am I not still Kyra?"

A spasm passed across his face, and he sank on to the lounge beside her, still holding her hand, his head bent to hide his anguish and his secret from her. He could not look her in the face—her beauty—intensified to his senses by his love and his approaching farewell—maddened and tempted, and tortured, and she made him hold her hand—she almost drew him to her.

"My God!" he muttered; "if I had but stayed away from her!"

"Am I not still Kyra?" the plaintive words trilled forth. "What have I done that you should turn to stock and stone before me? Ah, I have robbed you of what is yours by right, I have come between you and happiness; I am sending you into the horrible wilderness. No! no! have I not listened, my lord, my chief, while you planned out my life? have I not borne the stabs and thrusts of your kind, cruel words? now see how I can give back balm for wounds, wine for water. Let me plan for you, my chief; let me look into your eyes—oh, yes, for once more! only once more! and read the future for you."

Slowly and laboriously he raised his eyes, heavy with the smoldering fire of his passion.

"See!" she said with a bitter, sweet smile. "I see two persons, man and wife, dark and fair, both happy, beloved and respected, and they stand under the shadow of the old turret of the Wold. They are Lord Percy Vering and the woman whom he had once lost but now found again. Ah! you shall not speak! I know her secret and yours! You will not go to Africa, my lord, but you will marry Lillian Devigne, and live at the Wold instead of me.

Percy sprang to his feet, white and passionate, but she silenced him by a gesture.

"And for the rest I need look no further than into the darkness of the room to see another man and wife—the frank, free face of my brother, dear, open-hearted Charlie—my brother, always, my lord, but never my husband while Mary Darlington lives."

"Kyra!" he cried—"am I dreaming, or are you? Ah, no, I see it is true!" and he caught her hands. As he did so something warm and liquid trickled on to his wrist, and looking down he saw that it was blood. The next moment he saw the gleam of the dagger blade near the white lace which covered her bosom.

In an instant he had dashed it from her hand, and white and trembling cried to her:

"Kyra—take care! What have you done?"

She pointed to the little tricklet of blood with a serene smile.

"It is not you who will go, my lord; you will stay to live and love when Kyra—the child Kyra—will have passed away forever."

"Merciful God!" he cried, with that sharp, sudden gasp of a man in great agony. "What have you done? Let me see! I will see!" and he tore the lace from her throat, and wiped the blood from the wound. "Thank Heaven," he breathed, hurriedly. "Oh, child, child, you might have killed yourself; and why, oh, why? What blind creatures we are—not men but bats! Kyra—my child, my child!" for she had sunk back in his arms, and was looking up in his face, drinking in the tenderness and anxiety of his eyes with ineffable delight. "Kyra, you are faint! What have you done? Let me go—no, I'll not leave you—the bell—the bell!" and he looked wildly round.

She put up one small and still warm hand, and laid it caressingly on his neck.

"Too late, too late!" she breathed. "It was my once Indian dagger; see how it bleeds; it was poisoned, poisoned!" and she smiled up at him.

Percy turned white, as if the hand of death had closed upon his heart; then his face flushed, and he caught her to him, and held her face close to his.

"Not no!" he cried. "Not too late! You shall not die. Kyra, tell me it is a jest. Tell me it is not true! Oh, God! it cannot be! Why have you done it—why? How dark it all is! Kyra, Kyra—why?"

"Can you not guess?" she murmured, the color tingling the exquisite pallor of her cheeks. "Can you look into my eyes and not know? Percy, could I live, do you think, and know that your arms held her as they once held me—as they hold me now? No, the Great Spirit is too pitiful, and showed me the way of escape. I could not live, Percy—my chief, my brave—because—I love you!"

With a cry, Percy caught her from the couch and held her to his breast.

"You love me!" he gasped. "God! Am I mad? Oh, fool! fool!" and he groaned. "And now she dies! No! no! Kyra, open your eyes! You shall live!"

She shook her head, with a faint, sweet smile, and nestled closer to his heart.

"Kiss me, Percy!" she said; "whisper 'I love you, Kyra, my child!' only once! If it is not true, whisper it still!"

"True!" he cried, hoarsely. "Whom else have I loved but you—my life, my love, my darling? I have loved you all these years—I have loved better than man ever loved yet. Kiss you! Oh, my sweet! my sweet!" and he pressed his lips passionately upon her lips, her hair, her eyes.

With a thrill she raised her head, and, transfixed him with one long gaze, kissed him once. Then her head fell back, and, with a sigh, she sank lifeless against his breast.

Then there rose such a cry as was never heard before or since within the old walls of that house of many memories, and when the dazed and half-awakened people dashed into the room in response to that awful cry, they stood petrified with terror at the sight of a strong man standing upright in the centre of the room, clasping to him, with a fierce, insane tenacity, the lifeless and lovely form of a woman.

It changed that at the time bells were ringing, and servants were wildly hurrying to and fro at the Grange, some galloping off for doctors from the nearest town, and others telegraphing for the best physicians and surgeons from London, a traveling chariot was spinning along to London as fast as a capital pair of post-horses could drag it. Not that there was any special necessity for such speed beyond the enjoyment which the occupants of the carriage derived from it, for the said occupants had rendered any pursuit of no avail by getting a submission proper to her novel position—"as you like; but you won't be long!"

"Very well, dear," said Lady Mary, with a submission proper to her novel position—"as you like; but you won't be long!"

Still, though they were now man and wife, and no power could separate them, there was a certain indefinable satisfaction in racing along the good English road, and Charlie had promised a five-pound note if their goal was reached by a certain time. It had all been managed very nicely. Lady Mary had plucked up courage—or rather, had not plucked up sufficient courage to stand against the powerful will of her lord and master, and had stolen out of the house and got married, and had then quietly re-

Weakness

Every movement of the body uses up a definite amount of vitality. When you overtax yourself, or your vitality is undermined by illness, your whole system becomes too exhausted to recover its lost vitality without assistance. Your system is like a plant that is drooping for want of water. And just as water revives a drooping plant—so Wincarnis gives new life and new vitality to a weakened constitution. Because Wincarnis possesses a four-fold power. It is a Tonic, a Restorative, a Blood-maker, and a Nerve Food—all in one. Therefore creates new strength, new blood, new nerve force and new vitality. The benefit begins from the first wine-glassful. You can feel it doing you good. Over 10,000 Doctors recommend Wincarnis, especially to those who are Weak, Anemic, Nervy or Run-down.

turned for a few hours, packed a small hand portmanteau, and dropped into the arms of the eager and devoted bridegroom out of the library window, and now here they were; she all trembling against his broad-shoulder, he all imperious and tender by turns, and both ecstatically and foolishly happy. If they did not talk much, they thought the more, perhaps, and the pressure of Master Charlie's strong arm round her waist and the sweep of his silky mustache on her soft, blushing cheek, were better than the most eloquent poem written.

It wasn't a very great way to them, and Lady Mary thought that they had only been ten minutes on the road, so quickly had the time passed, as the carriage dashed into the Great Northern terminus.

"Now, my darling," said happy Charlie, with one long kiss, as he pulled out her watch out of the snug little pocket—why couldn't he look at his own? the impudent young dog!—"Beamish ought to be here in five minutes—I'll stake my life he's punctual to the minute. But, as we're run it rather close, I think I'll go on and get the tickets. You had better stop in the carriage here. Put down the blind, in case any one should be going north whom we know."

"Very well, dear," said Lady Mary, with a submission proper to her novel position—"as you like; but you won't be long!"

A PRETTY DRESS FOR MANY OCCASIONS.

1775—Embroidered batiste is here combined with Georgette crepe. Collar and plastron may be of the crepe, and inserts of lace trim waist and skirt fronts. The body and sleeve portions are cut in one. The skirt is full over the sides and back and stitched in a tuck at each side of the front panel. Gingham lawn, embroidered voile, tub silk, taffeta, and linen are also nice for this model. The Pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for a 36 inch size. The skirt measures about 3 1/2 yards at the foot. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

A STYLISH SUMMER GOWN.

1781—Taffeta, in a pompadour pattern in green and brown, with Georgette crepe and lace for trimming. It is here shown. A neat and inexpensive development would be of dimity, voile or organdie; tub silk or batiste are nice, too. Finishing could be used for the skirt, with vest, collar and sleeve insert of embroidery to match. The Pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. It requires 5 yards of 36 inch material for a 16-year size. The skirt measures 2 1/2 yards at its lower edge. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

The EASTERN TRUST COMPANY
WE GO ON FOREVER.

Just two reasons why the Eastern Trust Company can administer an Estate better than a personal executor or administrator.

1.—It has nearly twenty-four years' experience, and its existence is perpetual, neither does it cost any more to employ the Company than an individual. The Company affords the Estate absolute security. It has a paid-up capital of $1,000,000.00 and a reserve of $250,000.00. The Estates held in trust to December 31st, 1915, amount to $15,036,583.35.

2.—In the event of the death of a personal executor or administrator, your Estate must look around for a substitute. The new administrator is unfamiliar with the business and confusion is often the result. The death of any officer of this Company does not break the continuity of the policy of administration.

While the Company administers over Fifteen Million Dollars worth of Estates, it also does a very large business in executing Trusts of all kinds and acting as Financial Agents of all descriptions. We can give fullest satisfaction in the collection of rents, interests, mortgages, dividends, etc.

A Sequel to the Immortal Casey the Bat. Casey in the Presence Retrieves His Lost Reputation and Wins for the Mudville Nine.

By Herman L. Scheck.

The Mudville fans were sick and sad for many a summer day. And through the gloom in Mudville town there shone no cheering light. For the theme of every gossip, the Mudville nine, in every hall, was how the mighty Casey had failed to hit the ball.

And Mudville scorned the mighty man who failed to win the fray. They found their golden idol made of common clay. They called him every epithet that scorn could conjure up. And everybody shunned him from Mayor to the pup.

That same old club came back one day that beat the Mudville nine. That same old pitcher graced the mound and smiled a smile benign. The Mudville fans looked on aghast and 'twas with aching heart. For Mudville veterans didn't have a look-in from the start.

The baseball battle fiercely raged beneath a scorching sun. And in the last half of the ninth score stood two to none; Then Flynn again hit safely, to wonderment of all. And Blake again lambasted the leecher from the ball.

Five thousand shouting fans were wild and beat the torrid air. Pop bottles showed the ground a rain and gleamed like diamonds there. They flashed the message to the where whistles screamed like mad. And 'e'en the church bells rang loose and swelled the deafening din.

In the coacher's box the manager pranced wildly up and down. He challenged nations to a fight. He beset the good old town. He yelled and whistled, pawed

Our Contributions to the Cause.

The reports of the meeting of the Patriotic Association are always interesting, for they summarize to a great extent the contributions of the Colony to the cause, which are made in many and diverse ways. The Association is admirably organized and every department is controlled by most capable and energetic officers. Several matters of interest and importance were dealt with in last night's meeting which are worthy a note of comment.

The report of the Standing Committee gives the total attested or effective number of the Regiment at 2,260. Losses to date amount to 524, of whom 44 have been killed. This is a large percentage, and if we are to fulfill the pledge given for us to the Old Country by His Excellency the need of continued recruiting at top speed is apparent.

Perhaps the most gratifying reading is to be found in the reports of Sir William Horwood and Mr. F. H. Steer for the St. John Ambulance Association and the Empire Day Red Cross Committee respectively. They serve to emphasize the appreciation we have already expressed of the prompt and full response that invariably made to all appeals to the voluntary generosity of our people. That twenty hospital beds should have been asked for from the Colony and that in such a short time not twenty, but one hundred and twenty-eight beds should have been assured is a splendid cause of self-congratulation. The Empire Day Fund, which reached the fine total of $20,085.53 is, we are glad to see, still kept open; the purpose to which it is devoted calls for continuous and unstinted support.

The statement of the Finance Committee may give food for reflection to many. Nobody, we think, will consider that a total expenditure of a little over a million and a half for the upkeep of our Regiment over a period of nearly two years is a very heavy burden to the Colony.

Touching minor matters, dealt with at the meeting, we are glad to see that "arrangements have been made" for the provision of badges to rejected volunteers. Curiously enough, there would now seem to be need for badges to others who would have a prior claim—we mean those who have been invalided home from the front and have again donned muffi. However, as peace can hardly be more than two years distant, there is not much likelihood of any unfortunate discrimination being made in the matter.

We are pleased to see that practical steps will be taken to celebrate fittingly the second anniversary of the war on August 4th. Newfoundland will this year join with a prouder consciousness of her position the other parts of the Empire in their expression of loyalty and unflinching determination to fight on.

From Within.

Under the caption "Is it the Dawn?" the New York Times prints a striking editorial which tells of the abrupt awakening that the combined Allied offensive must have brought to the German people. "They have believed that nothing stood in the way of peace except the inexplicable refusal of the Allies to see that they were beaten. . . . The ardent prayer for peace from the plain German subject has been really a prayer that the eyes of the stubborn men who were fighting against the inevitable might be opened before much more blood was unnecessarily shed." This state of mind, the Times goes on to say, must have received a freezing shock from the tremendous return of Russia and the battle of the Somme. "Nations that have been whipped do not force their conquerors to the defensive."

It is hard to see just why this should have been the German state of mind, but it seems to be true nevertheless. It is only explicable on the large ground that the German nation as a whole has been ignorant not only of the real causes of the war, but of the real conditions of the warring countries as it found them at the outset. It must be unaware that it found every one of the Allies unprepared, else why should it expect them to desert now, when they have only just reached the height of their preparation? The German sees only the map, but he does not see in it, as the whole explanation, this very unpreparedness of our side. He must now begin to think, being after all a rational being. He will begin to take a new view of the past, and from it modify his view of the future. Cold, clear reason will begin to speak with a louder voice than the hollow utterances of a controlled press.

This change of mind, already showing itself, will undoubtedly greatly affect the answer to the question that all the world is asking, when will "the game" be over? It will show that other than purely military considerations will have to be taken into account. Military experts, intent only upon the actual fighting and the disposition of troops are agreed that another year's warfare may be necessary, and from their point of view they are right. But will Germany, the German nation, permit the slaughter to continue so long? We shall have the answer very soon. We have to wait for the one supreme test—a decisive defeat of Germany in the field. This will come if the British and French take Bapaume and Peronne, causing a large retirement of the German line on the West; or if the Russians take Kovel, causing a larger one in the East. Then, perhaps for the first time, the eyes of the German people will be opened. They will see the inevitable end; it will be a question of time only when the retirement must be carried to the Rhine and the Vistula. Will they wait for this? Perhaps, but it is not likely. Not only from outside Germany will peace be forced upon it in defeat; it will come from within by the acknowledgment of defeat. The skilled chess player knows when the game is up, and resigns; he does not play on to the brutal checkmate.

The Bank of Nova Scotia has secured quarters in the building formerly occupied by Davis & Co. on Duckworth Street, opposite Haymarket Square, and taking the Red Cross Wharf, and will establish a branch there as soon as the premises are ready for occupancy. This will be the Bank of Nova Scotia's sixteenth branch in the Colony. —July 22, 11

The Story of Their Heroism.

"A SIGHT NEVER TO BE FORGOTTEN."

Mrs. J. E. Ellis, 60 Springdale St., sends us the following letter from her son Bert, who was wounded in the great advance of July 1st. The young soldier's words are a graphic picture of a deed of heroism which, like all that he saw, will never be forgotten.

1st Nfld. Regiment, Ward 65, 3rd London Gen. Hospital, Wandsworth, London, Eng., July 8th, 1916.

My Dear Mother,—How glad I am to be able to write to you once again, even though I have to do so on my back. I have a lot to be thankful for. No doubt you have heard all about our big drive by this time, or you will by the time you get this. I will try and tell you as briefly as possible how it happened. The Newfoundland Regiment in France is about done. They stood to their guns almost to the last man and fought like those who knew no fear. When the roll was called only (43) forty-three answered it, and out of that number (3) two were from G Company. Certainly that's not counting the wounded, but I can't say how many were killed or wounded. I was with them, and was wounded three times. I was like Hell let loose. The smoke of guns and noise of shells bursting was something never to be forgotten, not to speak of the machine gun fire, which mowed our men down like wheat before the scythe. No doubt you know what a noise the "air hammer" makes at the dock when they are working; well, that's something like a machine gun sounds when in action. They played havoc with our men and to make matters worse they had, practically on both sides, what is called enflaming fire, which is the worst kind of fire to be under. You could almost see the bullets coming, they came so thick and fast. I got over between the first and second line before I got hit. I got it in the right leg about 4 inches from the ankle, and, strange to say, the first one was a bullet, then a piece of shell struck me in the same place.

When I was crawling back, (that's what puzzles me most—however I got back) I was all alone and never met a soul all the way back (which was about 400 yards) only dead! dead! everywhere! The awful sight, it made me so sick that I used to lie down and wonder if I would go on or stay there. It wouldn't have been so bad only they turned the guns on us as we were trying to get back. Our boys acted throughout like heroes. They went up on top singing just as if two were going on a march, instead of facing death. The place we went over, or just in front of us was called "The Happy Valley" or "The Vale of Death." It put me in mind of Buckmaster's Field, with the German trenches on LeMarchant Road and ours up by Adams', so when we came on the sky line they just mowed us down; but our boys showed no fear. It will be some time before I can walk, but my leg is not broken for which I can thank God. Tom Kelly's brother, Ern., is in the same ward with me, so you can tell Tom he is wounded in the right arm, so it will be a bit difficult for him to write for some time. The shrapnel bullet went right through his arm, just above his wrist. Tell the family the same address as mine will do for him and will find him all right. Well, dear, I think this must run for the present as I find it a bit tiresome on my back. Everything possible is done for us here, so don't worry about me. Cheer up and don't forget to write. Love to all the friends at home, we will have victory soon.

Yours with love, BERT.

Are We Down-hearted? No!

A letter received from Private Francis LeMessurier 1st. Nfld. Regiment now at Wandsworth, suffering from gunshot wound in the left side, and a badly bruised arm caused by a heavy fall, while fighting with "Ours" in France, commences with the familiar words "Are we down-hearted?" While deploring the loss of so many of his comrades, yet with that spirit which marks the character of our boys, he speaks lightly of the part played by himself. Prior to enlisting Frank held the reputation of being one of our best shots, and he says he has done his bit in picking off the Turk in Gallipoli and the Hun in France. We hope the gallant soldier will recover from his wound, and the LeMessurier clan are well represented in the Nfld., Canadian and British regiments. About ten are now with the colors.

Caught Red-Handed.

Three boys, each aged 13 years, broke into the Chronicle building on Duckworth Street, "lifted" a quantity of leaden pipe and damaged two lavatories. They were caught on the premises and taken into custody by Const. Tobin. They were arraigned before Judge Hutchings this morning. Two of them, named "Al" and "Bill," to jail for 30 days without the option of a fine, and the third was fined $5 or 14 days.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DIPHTHERIA.

Tried to Wreck Fishing Schooner

Captain of Schooner Esperanto, Nov. at Gloucester, Tells of the Actions of Fishermen When Ship Was in Nova Scotia Waters. "I would give ten years of my life if I could get the dirty skunk that cut the lanyards of my vessel and tried to drown us all," said Captain "Ted" Stewart of the schooner Esperanto, owned by William H. Jordan and which has just reached Gloucester, her home port after an eventful cruise during which the lives of all hands were placed in jeopardy by the actions of one or more of her crew, who, according to statements, had too much rum in their inner storage tank.

The Esperanto left Gloucester the first of June for a seven weeks' salt fishing trip, and on the voyage to St. Pierre, all was peace and harmony on board of the Gloucester fisherman. The vessel made the voyage to St. Pierre in good time and put into that port for a harbor, where her baiting was to be taken aboard and the start made for the fishing grounds.

While in that port, so the skipper claims, some of the boys went ashore and filled themselves up with "French fire water," and it was some time before he could get the crowd rounded up for the trip to the fishing grounds. Finally, after some little trouble, the men were hustled aboard of the vessel, and then the trouble commenced.

Some of the men showed dissatisfaction and did not want to go out. They wanted to go home, and no amount of persuasion or coaxing on the part of Capt. Stewart could make them do otherwise.

Captain Stewart was bound they would get a trip before they came home, or he would know the reason why. While proceeding down the harbor at St. Pierre, one of the crew, who was doing his trick at the wheel, discerned the outline of a man creeping aft toward him in the inky darkness.

Saying nothing he waited developments which came so unexpectedly that for a moment he was non-plussed. The form suddenly straightened to its full height and an arm reached forward to grab the man at the wheel.

"Give me that wheel till I put this boat on the rocks," said the voice, but before he could take the wheel, the fisherman who was at the wheel, stiffened up, his right arm shot out from the shoulder and the would-be pirate measured his length upon the deck of the schooner. The skipper was apprised of the doings of this member of the crew, but no amount of begging or threatening could induce the fisherman to give away the name of his mate who did such a dirty trick. Sometime during the night, either this same would-be pirate or another rum-soaked member of the crew, stole stealthily along the deck, and with a quick slash cut the lanyard clip and clean, and then like the cur he was, stole silently to his bunk below, leaving the vessel to proceed in this dangerous condition along her way.

"Had a breeze of wind blew up on us," said the captain, "the cutting of the lanyard would have meant death for all hands, for when the breeze struck the vessel, both spars would have gone by the board and the schooner would have been split in two and they would all have drowned."

"I do not know who did it, but I do know that if I can ever find out, that someone is going to suffer. "It may be all right for a man to play dirty, but when he places the lives of his shipmates in danger there is no part of a man about him. "We probably will never find out who did this, because the crew will not tell on each other, but who ever did it, faces a life term of imprisonment because piracy is one of the meanest crimes a man can commit."

Ever since the Esperanto left Gloucester bad luck has followed her. First this trouble started, and then the vessel sprung a leak and was forced to put into North Sydney for repairs, and it was here that the crew—or rather some of them—got so drunk that they nearly killed each other, and the Sydney papers condemned the actions of these men as becoming a native of the Province.

In North Sydney the men demanded money from the skipper, but he did not have it and could not oblige them. They refused for some time to work the pumps that the vessel might be kept clear of water unless they were paid for it, and finally wound up in a wild riot of cursing and blows on one of the North Sydney streets.

The owner of the vessel says that he will prosecute the guilty man if he can be found, but having no direct evidence at the present time, it is hopeless and useless to imagine, that anything will be done about the matter.—Gloucester Citizen.

GOOD WORK BY FLYING CORPS.

LONDON, To-day. Taking advantage of the fine weather the Royal Flying Corps yesterday continued their bombing operations against points of military importance with successful results. Hostile aircraft were inactive until evening, when a good deal of fighting took place behind the German lines. One of our offensive patrols encountered 11 German machines which were shot down, one bursting into flames. Another encounter between four of our machines and six of the enemy lasted 45 minutes. One Fokker was then shot down and another badly damaged; the remainder fled. During other air combats a fifth German machine was forced to the ground. Our total loss during the day was one machine. It has now been established that the enemy's assaults of July 18 on the Deville west area over a front of 2,000 yards was made by 13 battalions drawn from four different divisions. The enemy's losses were comparatively great.

THE BLACK LIST.

WASHINGTON, To-day. An inquiry as to why certain business concerns of the States have been placed upon the black list under Britain's "Trading with the enemy act" was directed to the British Government by the State Department to-day through both the British Embassy here and Ambassador Page, London.

BLACK-LISTERS OBJECT.

NEW YORK, To-day. Representatives of fifty of the 82 firms black-listed by Britain under the "Trading with the enemy act" met here to-day to form an organization to fight the action of the British Government. The only statement made was that a Committee of five would be designated to formulate a plan of action.

THE LEIPSIK SALIENT.

LONDON, To-day. The Germans in an attack on the British Northern edge of the Leipsik salient succeeded on Friday in occupying the British front trenches, but later were driven out, according to a British official communication issued at midnight. Elsewhere along the British front comparative calm prevailed.

STORM IN MEXICO CITY.

MEXICO CITY, To-day. Four persons were killed during a lightning and rain storm in the suburbs of Mexico City, yesterday.

GOVT. RELEASES STEAMERS.

MONTREAL, To-day. The British Admiralty has released the White Star Dominion Line steamers, formerly in the Canadian trade, the Northland, Southland and Canada, which had been engaged by the Government service between Britain and the Mediterranean.

FLOODS HELP AUSTRO-GERMANS.

LONDON, To-day. Floods along the Dneister benefit the Austro-Germans, as they liberate troops with which to reinforce, at least temporarily, Kovel, Vladimir, Volynski and the Bukovina and Transylvania front, on which military experts expect there will be more heavy fighting, says a Reuter's despatch from Petrograd. The summer floods on the Dneister rise quickly to a height of six or seven feet. A former Town Councillor of Vladimir, Volynski who escaped, says the town is depopulated except for women and children and aged persons. All able-bodied persons he reports were compelled to work on the defences or were deported to Austria. The population is starving. The cheapest black bread is sold at one rouble per pound; there is no meat; there is much typhoid and other diseases are epidemic.

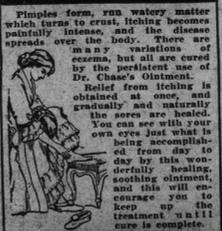

ON ALL FRONTS.

LONDON, To-day. Some idea of the huge forces now engaged in the battle of the Somme in Northern France is given in an official statement from Berlin to-night which says that more than 200,000 French and British troops attacked the German lines north and south of the Somme on Thursday on a front of 27 miles. To-day's news from the battle ground, which has been contented bitterly since July 1st, shows no great change in the positions of the French, British and German forces. The British have pressed forward to the German third line in Fourreaux Wood, northwest of Longueval. This wood is an important strategic point, the capture of which would bring the forces of General Haig to the highest point of the ridge commanding German positions. There is less hilly country beyond, which is not so much broken up and is not wooded, lending itself not well to the defence. This probably explains the desperate attempts of the Germans to hold the wood, where heavy fighting continues. An Associated Press correspondent says the Germans are bringing masses of troops from Verdun and guns from other points in an endeavor to stem the Allied advance. Meantime indications are that the Allies are testing the strength of the German line at other points. The flooding of the Dneister River is delaying operations on a large section of the Russian front to the advantage of the Austro-Germans, but Russia was able to announce two successes to-day. General Von Linsingen, commanding the Austro-German forces south of Kovel has been obliged to retire further in the face of strong attacks by forces under General Sakharoff. The Russians seized the crossings of the River Sty and compelled their opponents to retire from the salient of the Sty and Lipa Rivers towards Berestoch, where the battle is now going on. By this advance Sakharoff gives the greatest protection to operations of the Russian General on the Volhynia lines in the region of Brody. In the Caucasus the Russians have taken the town of Gumushkhan between Trizond and Erzingan, the objective of the Russian army in this section of the front.

BALTIMORE, To-day. It was plain to-day that some mysterious set back, some difficulty, known only to Captain Koeling and to the officials and agents of the Deutschland, has been encountered to prevent the sailing of the merchant submarine. There is nothing wrong with the boat or mechanism, and the cargo is aboard, but shore leave to sailors, revoked for several days has been granted again.

LONDON, To-day. The Treasury Department has issued a Supplementary estimate for a vote of credit of £450,000,000, which the Premier will ask the Commons to vote on Monday. The vote is the largest asked for by the Government since the beginning of the war, and brings the total since the beginning of the war to £2,532,000,000.

VERDUN A HUGE FAILURE.

PARIS, To-day. From an examination of yesterday's prisoners, whose battalions of Wermbergers, Saxons, Prussians, Bavarians and Badenets were jumbled in a potpourri that reveals extraordinary confusion, one fact stands out: there was an entire company of troops that had helped to capture the Vaux fort. One of them declared his regiment had been heavily withdrawn from Verdun on July 1st to rush headlong to the Somme first line to relieve the Bavarian lanstream. These words in a despatch from the Somme frontier which arrived to-day, marked the failure of the German gigantic surprise against "her principal enemy."

GREAT FRENCH EXPLOIT.

PARIS, To-day. After ten days of preparation the French army of the Somme has made another panther spring. The action was in two parts. North of the River France's most famous division surpassed its records by accomplishing in the brief period between 5.25 and 9 o'clock yesterday morning the task which its own chief had calculated would take fully 18 hours of daylight. Their progress automatically cleared Deville Wood and Longueval, where the Germans were stubbornly disputing with the British the ground they won back in Tuesday's great counter-attack. Moreover, the French have now a firm footing on the high ground north of Peronne where they can initiate an enveloping movement instead of a costly frontal attack across almost impassable marshes. The second action south of Peronne was on a greater scale, and attained with equal success its extensive objective. The fourth eight hour artillery preparation was so effective that the five mile front of the German first line defences fell en masse.

Niggardly Tourist Made Pay Up.

An American tourist, who came from New York by the last Stephano and is returning by that ship leaving this evening, was sued in court today by Captain Gladney for $10.00 amount due for cab driving. The defendant, who with companions was driven to Torbay, Outer Cove, Loy Bay, Middle Cove, Pea Harbor, Long Point and a couple of other country resorts, taking in all the sights at each place visited, claimed ten dollars was an excessive charge. Mr. Higgins counsel for the plaintiff, submitted the tariff charges of the City Council, showing that the charge made by his client was not only equitable but very lenient. Mr. Higgins assured the defendant that he was not being "bitten," but the defendant refused to be convinced on this point and made a lengthy "oration," permeated with bluff, that he would use his influence amongst intending tourists coming here and try to bring about Gladney's removal. Here Judge Hutchings, who presided, interrupted and in convincing fashion disabused the cheap tourist of the ideas he had by remarking that Gladney was not an extortioner but was a respectable cabman and citizen. His Honor gave a definite instance himself, testifying to the fairness of the charge and gave judgment for the full amount sued and costs, which made the defendant repair to his wallet forwilt.

Obituary.

SAMUEL FOGWILL.

The death of Mr. Samuel Fogwill, well known and esteemed in this city, occurred yesterday at Port Arthur, Ontario. Deceased was 72 years of age. Being born at Berry Pomeroy, Devonshire, England, he came to the country when 15 years old and went to Carbonar where he identified himself in mercantile matters, later becoming manager of Gillard Brothers at St. Grace, and also conducted a business with Mr. Eugene F. Taylor, now of the Customs Dept., his brother-in-law. In 1878, he came to St. John's and two years afterwards entered upon the duties of book-keeper with Harvey & Co., which position he occupied up to a few years ago when he was pensioned. He then removed to Port Arthur with his two daughters. He was a member of Dudley Lodge, S.O.E., and a genuine patriot and loyalist. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Gushue and Mrs. Wilson of Port Arthur, and Mrs. Peter Williams, Houston, Texas, U.S.A.; also two sons, William of the R. N. Co. and Richard of Botwood, besides a number of grandchildren. The funeral extends its sympathy to the bereaved family.

THE SUSU ARRIVES.—The s.s. Susu reached port at 11.30 a.m. to-day from the Fogo mail service, bringing very poor reports of the fishery in that district. Old fishermen say it is the worst for many years. There is, however, a fair sign at Cat Hr., traps to date doing good work, while box and liners are well filled. The Susu brought a large cargo of fish in drums and several hundred tons of refined cod liver oil. She also brought the following first-class passengers: Messrs. J. LeDrew, G. Parsons, C. J. Winsor, Rev. J. B. Vey, Mrs. (Dr.) Whiteway, Mrs. S. P. Whiteway, Mrs. (Capt.) Winsor, Miss Soeley, Miss Winsor and 11 second class.

THE EVENT OF THE SEASON.—The Kilbride Garden Party is going to be the event of the season and everybody is talking about it. Household Notes.

If possible, buy dried fruits in packages.

To increase the quantity of whipped cream, add the white of an egg to the cream before whipping.

A pretty way to serve hot biscuit is folded in a napkin on a sweet-grass basket, with a handle.

Drench the contents of the garbage can with kerosene daily, and you will not be bothered with flies.

Sterilize raisins, currants, figs and dates before using, by putting in a strainer over a steaming kettle.

Don't leave matches, knives, hatch or other dangerous things reach if there are children in the house.

A coffee pot should never be of tin. Tannic acid acts on such metal and makes a poisonous compound.

The best scrap baskets are the simplest ones, closely woven and free from any contraptions of ribbons, etc. Cookies should be put into a cloth-lined stone jar when hot, if you would keep them melting and crumbly.

point-blank than he granted it grudgingly.

In the one case, one knows just where one stands. One is under no obligation. In the other, one is laid under an obligation and yet one can feel no gratitude for grudging service. On the contrary, it leaves one with an unsatisfied, resentful feeling. She Thought Her Friend Would Do The Same.

Once upon a time, my mother sent me to borrow a scarf from a neighbor of ours. I was going to my first party. Mother thought I needed a scarf and, as I had none, she sent me to borrow it of one of her friends. My mother would have gladly loaned that friend the dress off her back and it never occurred to her that she would do less.

The friend had plenty of scarves—three, in fact. She brought them out and showed them to me and then told me the reasons why she wasn't anxious to loan them to me. After doing that, however, she picked out the least attractive of the three and told me to take it. I tried to refuse it, but she forced it upon me. I took it because I was young and awkward and didn't know how to do otherwise, but I didn't take it to the party. To-day, I have

"The Lord loveth a cheerful giver."

One could well understand that He would. Emerson says, "I would rather rise from my chair than be served by one who does it not for love."

For myself, I would rather be refused any favor or service than be granted it grudgingly.

"I'm terribly tired," she said; "but I simply must match this silk to-day, or I can't get Rose's dress done for the party and she has set her heart upon it."

"Why not? Isn't she willing to?" "Yes; that is—I suppose so; she always does them; but when I ask her she never says cordially that she would be glad to. She always answers in a hesitating way. I suppose it's foolish, but I've got so that I can't bear to ask her."

"Perhaps it is foolish, but I know how she feels."

"The Lord loveth a cheerful giver," and so do the rest of us.

Florida.

Author of "At Good Old Slawash."
Florida is a vast expanse of water, sand and climate, which sticks out about 400 miles into the ocean at the southeast corner of the nation, and is as hard to dodge as a sore thumb. For many years it was the vermillion appendix of the United States. No particular use for it was known, and the Seminole Indians kept it in a constant state of inflammation. It is now being extensively cultivated, however, and is growing faster than any other Southern state, though goodness knows it needs to.

Florida was discovered by Ponce de Leon almost 400 years ago and immediately became famous for its wonderful climate. Ever since then people have been going to Florida to enjoy the climate and coming back to enjoy society. This shows Florida's simplicity. In California the man who arrives to enjoy the climate is treated so hospitably that he never saves money enough to come back. However, in the past few years a few great hotels have been built in Florida, and it is now possible to go down there swelled all out of shape with money and be successfully treated for the affliction in a very few weeks.

Florida is divided equally into timber, swamps and orange groves. It contains the Everglades, the greatest swamp in America. It is so large that the Agricultural Department almost got tired in it. It also contains the only sea railroad in the world, running to Key West over 100 miles of water and keys. The Florida key is a peculiar one, made out of coral, and is almost as big as an old-fashioned New England house key.

which is one of the celebrated sleeping beauties. The metropolis of the state is Jacksonville, which has grown out of general stores into skyscrapers in the last ten years. The capital is Tallahassee, of which no more is known.

Florida is now very prosperous. Buying Florida land is a national diversion and selling Florida land is one of the surest roads to wealth.

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

Darken the rooms and the flies will find places to creep out. Spinach should not be covered while boiling.
Bend new kinks in the old hat. It will look like a new shape.
Currants for jam or jelly should be picked dry.
Wipe the furniture off occasionally with a cloth dipped in linseed oil.

In making salad dressing, cream and melted butter can be used in place of oil.
Paper plates make the picnic preparations and clearing up more simple.
Turpentine is said to restore the lost whiteness of the ivory handles of cutlery.
When the feet feel tired and hot, it is a great relief to bathe them in cold water.

The water rice has been cooked in is a well-proved remedy for bowel troubles.

A pound of dried corn goes further than a can of corn, and it is much cheaper.

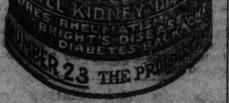

If peas are a trifle old, try boiling them with lettuce leaf and a pinch of sugar.

A very good glue can be made of tapioca, soaked until it is the proper consistency.

Buttered popcorn with cheese makes a good dish to accompany the after-dinner coffee.

When a finger becomes swollen so that a ring cannot be removed, dip it in ice-cold soap-suds.

When a box of sardines is opened, it should be drained of its oil at once and the fish turned out.

The Volunteer School.

The Superintendents of Education desire to thank most sincerely the ladies who have assisted in the Volunteers' School. At the close of April when the call was made for lady-helpers, a most hearty response was made and sixty-two ladies came forward and offered their services. This was a larger number than was wanted and subsequently by arrangement the following twenty-two ladies were selected for the work: Miss Ellen Anderson, Miss Jean Angel, Mrs. Angel, Mrs. James Atkinson, Miss Jean Churchill, Miss Viola M. Coaker, Miss Elsie Crowley, Miss M. Clouston, Miss Mary Doyle, Miss Mary Emerson, Miss Gwendoline Edwards, Miss Olive Hayward, Miss Elsie Herder, Miss M. Mitchell, Miss Catherine McGrath, Miss Nora Rendell, Miss Anita Russell, Miss Rogerson, Miss Agnes Soper, Miss Mollie Shea, Miss Kate Stott, Mrs. Withers.

For nearly two months the majority of these ladies devoted some three hours daily to the work of the Volunteers' School. The regularity and punctuality of attendance, the excellence of the work done, and the glad heart with which it was done are beyond praise.

The idea of projecting this school came in the first instance from His Excellency the Governor who requested the Superintendents of Education to endeavor to organize it. This they were glad to do. Mr. Barnes was appointed director and is to be congratulated upon the work that has been accomplished. Temporarily the school has had to be closed owing to the difficulty of arranging suitable hours for the soldiers, but it is hoped to resume the work after the summer vacation.

ROYAL VISIT TO CANADA.

The appointment of the Duke of Devonshire to be Governor General of Canada is, I read, the preliminary to His Majesty's resolution to make a tour of the Dominions as soon after the war as may be feasible. He had intended visiting Canada during the Duke of Connaught's tenure of office, but the hostilities of course put this out of the question. The Duchess of Devonshire is not only mistress of the Robes to the Queen, but is perhaps more intimately her friend than even Lady Lamington. The Queen will certainly accompany the King, who will probably take the opportunity of getting some big game shooting. Both the Duke and the Duchess of Devonshire (who already knows Canada) are anticipating their sojourn there with enthusiasm. The Duchess is an admirable hostess. The Canadians will doubtless see in the Duke Stephen Laycock's incredible ideal of an English lord come true.

"JIMMIE" WILDE AND THE M.P.'S.

Wilde, the famous little boxer from Wales who won a championship contest the other night, was introduced into the Lobby of the House of Commons on June 28. Members crowd around him and made much of him. They found him an unassuming little fellow, with the slight limbs of a stripling. He is so small that the Army would have nothing to do with him. Lloyd George did not see him, although he does not conceal his interest in Welsh boxers, and has once or twice talked at the House of Commons with Freddie Welsh.

THE NEW AWARD FOR NURSES.

The nursing profession in particular heartily welcomes the decision that the Military Medal, the youngest of our war decorations, can in future be conferred upon women for bravery and devotion under fire. Hitherto, the only distinction that could be given to women for service in war time was the Royal Red Cross, which His Majesty presented to a large number of nurses at Buckingham Palace on June 28. The cross was instituted by Queen Victoria in 1883 to reward women for acts of mercy in attending to the sick or wounded, and its recipients, therefore, were limited to those associated with hospital work, though not confined to those actually "in the field," as the Military Medal will be. Lord French and Sir Douglas Haig, as well as the Commanders-in-Chief in other theatres of war, have recommended many women for their services, and it will not be long before some of the brave ones who are in France are added to the list of 1,700 non-commissioned officers and privates who have been given the Military Medal since its establishment about two months ago.

FLEET STREET STUDIES RUSSIAN

The study of Russian is very popular in London just now, and I hear that the language schools which used to discourage intending pupils with descriptions of the great difficulties to be encountered are now assuring them and they can easily learn Russian. Fleet Street has its own flourishing school. The London County Council school in Bolt Court, which was so busy in the beginning of the war teaching French to eager journalists, has now several crowded Russian classes costing a penny a lesson. Many young journalists are attending these classes. So is the editor of one of the biggest London dailies and a sub-editor of its dearest rival.

LORD KITCHENER'S PLANTATION.

Reading Lord Kitchener's will, people have learnt, with surprise, that he was a landowner in East Africa. A man home here from Nairobi tells me that the Field-Marshal's plantation is at a place called Fort Terman, about 25 miles from the Victoria Nyanza. Lord Kitchener formed a high opinion of the Protectorate when he visited East Africa a decade or so ago, during the period of comparative leisure when he made journeys to Japan and Australia. He foresaw big possibilities for rubber, coffee, and other tropical products, and since then he has had the estate developed under a resident manager. But Colonel Fitzgerald, the friend who was to enjoy possession of the estate, died with his chief on the Hampshire, and it seems that unless a witness can be found who saw the Calone still alive after the War Secretary was drowned the estates revert to the general heirs of Lord Kitchener.

A DUCHESS AS PRIESTLY LECTURER.

To be asked to follow in the footsteps of such distinguished scientists as Professor Metchnikoff, Sir Almoth Wright, Sir Ray Lankester, and Dr. Stephen Paget is the distinction conferred on the Duchess of Marlborough, who has been invited to deliver the Priestly Memorial Lecture this year. This lecture, which always brings together a large gathering of scientists and savants at the Royal Society of Medicine, usually deals with some particular branch of research affecting hygiene, sanitation, etc., which in the estimation of the committee has the greatest bearing at the time on national health. This year the committee of the National Health Society came to the conclusion that there was no subject of so much importance at the present time in its bearing on national health as that of infant welfare, and decided to ask the Duchess of Marlborough, who has engaged in infant welfare work for many years past, to be the Priestly Lecturer, with "Saving the Babies" as her subject.

WAR CARICATURE.

Through the war London is gradually becoming acquainted with the caricature of the world. This is natural at such a time, for of course caricature is pictorial warfare. It is to be noted that the brightest and fiercest draughtsmanship of the neutrals has been from the first days on the side of the Entente. The great Raemakers in Holland, the curious, homely, and very telling imagery of the draughtsmen in "Life," the "New York Herald," and many other American organs and the slicing bitter mockings of the Italian caricaturists (long before Italy came into the war) did much to keep neutrals' minds on the essential points of the great war. Serbia has been too much occupied in the center of war to have been able to give much thought to caricature. But now in London, in Kossovo Week, an exhibition has been opened at the Fine Art Society of the caricatures of Frano Angeli Radovani, a young Serbian artist who has lived much in Italy. He satirises the organisation and discipline of Germans, showing the clergy moving to devotions at the goose-step, the bureaucrat explaining to his subordinate that the duty of a subordinate is to be yet more stupid than his superior, the censor altering the phraseology of a serial story, and so on. One of the best drawings is of a stuffy German shop, with a stout German family buying cloth that can be seen through at ruinous terms. There is a very good one of Herr Bethmann-Hollweg standing in front of a big door in great perturbation. "I have bowed to that Corporal seven times, and yet he never takes any notice of me." In the drawings of the King of Bulgaria Mr. Radovani combines his righteous fury and best design. Every caricaturist has done one cartoon on the Lusitania. Mr. Radovani shows a German submarine sailing through the sea with bodies of women and children, with gleeful men on the conning-tower crying, "The Germans have passed here."

BRITISH LINE PUSHED FORWARD.

LONDON, July 21.
The British line north of Bazentin and Longueval has been pushed forward to Forreux Wood, the War Office announced to-day. The British drove the Germans from the wood, but lost part of this position subsequently.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, July 21.
A strong German detachment, which advanced to the attack in the Chaulnes region, was repulsed with the bayonet between Soissons and Rheims. The French penetrated a German trench, clearing it of its defenders. On the Verdun front the artillery was active on both sides in the vicinity of Chantonnay and Fleury. French aeroplanes successfully bombed enemy positions at Longuyon and Brielles.

HUN CLAIM.

BERLIN, July 21.
An attack by British forces against the Germans at Fromelles, north of LaBasse on Wednesday, resulted in the loss by the attackers of more than 2,000 men killed and nearly 500 made prisoners, according to a statement given out by the War Office to-day. The statement admits that the German line along a front of about three kilometers (2 miles) south of Hardcourt, was driven from its first trenches, 500 metres in the rear. Enemy forces, the statement says, penetrated into the German salient in the wood of Vermandovillers.

GERMAN LINE SMASHED.

NEW YORK, July 21.
A Rome despatch to the Journal says that the forces of General Kuropatkin on the Dvina, north section of the German line, in Russia, have smashed the German line with artillery fire, lasting three days. According to despatches received here from Petrograd to-day the Germans have suffered what are described as colossal losses. General Kuropatkin, attacking the German defensive works with furious artillery fire for several days, succeeded in destroying the enemy's position to such an extent that the Russians are now ready for infantry attacks. Field Marshal Hindenburg is directing in person the German defence.

RUSSIANS DEFEAT AUSTRO-HUNGARIANS.

PETROGRAD, July 21.
Russian troops advancing towards the northern Galician border, defeated the Austro-Hungarians in the region of the confluence of the Strz and Lipa Rivers, with the capture of more than 1,500 prisoners, says an official statement issued to-day. The Austrians retired to the heights near the town of Beresteck.

FOOD RIOTS.

ROTTERDAM, July 21.
Food riots, which broke out in Belgium and Northern France, have been suppressed by the German military. The rioting was severe at Liege, Verrières, Ronbaix, Renaix, St. Nicholas, Lokeran and Termonde. Quelling the riots in populated centres has been followed by compulsory evacuating from the cities by the German authorities of large sections of the industrial population. These have been scattered homeless through the agricultural regions.

Meeting of Patriotic Association.

The Patriotic Association met last night. His Excellency the Governor intimated that Private W. J. Gladney who had won the D. C. M., on Gallipoli, would be coming home on sick leave shortly; that Major Chmy Macpherson is now at Salonika; that Dr. Parsons did fine work at the base hospitals at the front. His Excellency spoke in terms of praise of the work of Capt. Walter Scott, of Grand Falls, as a pathologist at Army Headquarters; also of Lieut.-Col. Franklin. Speaking of the hearty receptions tendered our returned soldiers and heroes, His Excellency eulogized Mrs. Browning and staff. Reference was also made to the gallantry of a Reservist on H.M.S. Rowan, in jumping into shark infested waters and saving a comrade from drowning and the death of Reservist John Haddock on H.M.S. Invincible in the Jutland battle. His Excellency had a report from C.Q.M. Sergt. McLeod, whose wounds at the Dardanelles were dressed by Private John Fitzgerald before he was killed. Private Fitzgerald's act was considered the bravest performed by "Ours" and His Excellency has recommended a posthumous decoration, expressing the hope that the highest honors, a V.C. would be bestowed. On motion of His Excellency votes of thanks were passed Messrs C. P. Ayre, C. R. Steer, J. Browning; Messrs. C. R. Steer, F. H. Steer and W. J. Higgins for services rendered and to the secretaries of various committees. The report of the Standing Committee of the Patriotic Association was then presented by Sir Joseph Outerbridge, as follows:—

Report of the Standing Committee of the Patriotic Association.

Since the last meeting of the Patriotic Association, the Standing Committee has held six meetings, which were well attended.
The question of Badges for Volunteers, who offered for active service but were not accepted, was considered, and arrangements have been made for an adequate supply.
Up to recently Recruiting was fairly satisfactory. The forwarding of Volunteers was delayed by an outbreak of measles. Arrangements were made for removing the men from billets to the Prince's Rink, and in addition to the Curling Rink which was used principally for cooking and meals, several sheds were erected for necessary purposes. All these arrangements were satisfactorily carried out and the men were comfortably housed and provided for. The adjoining land was levelled and used as a parade ground.
The Committee has heard with great satisfaction of the magnificent behaviour of our men on all occasions. The encomiums from Commanding Officers have been unbounded and high distinctions have been bestowed. Since the last meeting of the Association it has been officially announced that Captain A. E. Bernard has been awarded the Military Cross and that Private W. J. Gladney, No. 417, has been awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal. Both these distinctions were won at Gallipoli.
The total number enlisted since your Committee commenced its duties is 3915.
The total number who attested is 2260.
The total number of men who have been dispatched since the last meeting of the Patriotic Association is 509 officers and men.
And the number at present in St. John's is 280.
Our Regiment bore an honoured part in the successful advance of July 1st on the Western front. Our casualties were heavy, numbering according to the latest information received 524, and of these 44 have made the supreme sacrifice. We take a glorious pride in the distinguished part played by the Newfoundland Regiment on this occasion, we sorrow with the relatives of those who have fallen and while our losses bring us sadness, yet the glorious deeds of our generous has been the response that the Newfoundland centre of the St. John Ambulance Association has not only been enabled to undertake the maintenance of the twenty beds offered in the Gifford Hospital, but it has been placed in a position to ask that Newfoundland be allotted 108 other beds. This will give us 128 beds in English hospitals. The maintenance of these beds for the next twelve months has been either already paid for or guaranteed by local committees or individual donors. This represents a contribution of £6,656 sterling.

Herewith is a list of places or persons who have undertaken the upkeep of a bed for a year or given its equivalent. As further contributions have been promised it is not possible to complete the list but it is hoped that this may be done by the 4th of August, after which donations, not specially appropriated by the donor, will be placed to the credit of a general Hospital Cot Fund, charged with the maintenance of the Newfoundland ward in the hospital at Etaples, belonging to the Order of St. John, used by members of the Newfoundland Regiment.
There has been remitted to the St. John Ambulance Association, London, £1,000 sterling, on account of Newfoundland beds, in English hospitals and there has been received a cable reply from Lord Ranfurly conveying "grateful thanks to Newfoundland."
Respectfully submitted,
WILLIAM H. HORWOOD,
President Newfoundland Centre of St. John Ambulance Association.

Sir E. R. Bowring, on behalf of the Finance Committee, showed the total expenditure to be $1,543,316.45 up to June 30th, leaving a balance in bank of $2,034.54. On account of the increase in the regiment and the consequent growth of business at London, a larger suite of offices have been engaged and the previous quarters used as the Record Office, to be utilized by the Nfld. War Contingent Association, which needs plenty of accommodation to supply our soldiers returning from the front with rooms for reading, writing and for rest.
Mr. J. S. Munn read the report of the Patriotic Fund, showing contributions and interest to date as $109,449.56; disbursements $27,636.05. The receipts for last month were shown to be $739.55. There have been 537 grants issued, 434 on account of local fund and 103 on account of the Canadian fund. The current grants for each of these funds are $18 and 25, respectively.
On behalf of the Recruiting Committee, Dr. Lloyd reported verbally. He spoke in praiseworthy terms of the efforts of Privates Jensen and Tibbs and added that when the fishery was over enlistment would be further stimulated.
Sir William Horwood who reported on the Non-Combatants Committee made reference to the appointments of Rev. T. Nangle to the Army Chaplain Corps; Lieut. F. Rioux to the Army Transport Corps and Sub-Lieutenant E. Rendell to the Royal Naval Reserve.
It was decided that Misses Forsy, Greenland, Atwill, Saunders and Her-

The Mayor will be asked to arrange the meeting and copies will be sent to the Magistrates in the Outports giving the people an opportunity of expressing their decision.
In answer to questions asked by Mr. Blackall, Hon. J. H. Bennett said that a daily printed bulletin would be forwarded to Post Offices in the country that were not connected with the Telegraph system.
Mr. Blackall also asked if any means of employment had been found for returned soldiers and sailors who had been wounded or invalided from the front. The matter is under consideration.
The singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close.

Meigle From Labrador

The S. S. Meigle, Capt. Tavernor, reached port yesterday afternoon from the Labrador mail service having gone as far north as Hopedale. The trip north was made in good time, the Meigle passing a number of schooners on the way.
Capt. Tavernor reports the fishing as a whole not so favourable as on the last trip, trap fishermen doing poorly. However a number of "floaters" fishing at Iron Bound Isld. and Ragged Isld. have had good catches. At Cape Harrison there is a good signal. The schooner Viola of Flat Islands, B. E., having on board 500 qts. Several schooners are reported with from 200 to 400 quintals, but those reaching the coast later are practically clean. About two weeks ago the fish left the coast and are supposed to have gone up the bays, where the floaters are following them along. Also in deep water, hook and liners are doing well; boat-loads are daily secured by jigging and on bait. Very little ice was seen, which at this time of the year is usually plentiful. The Meigle brought a small freight and Messrs Jas. Palmer, W. Crosbie and Miss Tobin as first class passengers.

Glad Tidings.

Mrs. Henry Rogers, of 38 Field St., received yesterday a field post card from her son Private Levi Rogers, C.E.F., who was officially reported as missing on June 23rd. As the card is dated July 3rd and has stamped upon it the Field postmark of July 4th, it is plainly seen that the official report was in error. Another broken-hearted mother who has received glad tidings is Mrs. Edward Doyle, Middle Arm, Avondale, who, a few weeks ago received official notification from Ottawa to the effect that her son, a private in a Canadian Regiment, was reported missing. By the last English mail she received a post card dated July 4th from her son, who is wounded and a prisoner in Germany. May many such post cards bearing glad tidings of the safety of missing ones, be received.

THE THOUGHTS OF THEOBALD.

AUGUST 4.

I see that there will be many church services held on August 4th, the second anniversary of the war and one naturally begins to think what form they will take and what objective will be desired. One cannot conceive any larger desire than "that Peace be restored," that hope, I should think, is uppermost in all minds. No one can desire that war may be continued. Then as to the part which the churches and people can take to bring about a Peace, it is possible that we are not using, as much as we ought, the methods that, according to a Christian standpoint, we should use.

It is a belief common to all creeds that "God desireth not the death of a sinner, but rather that he shall turn from his wickedness and live."

Now if we say that this war is one of righteousness against wickedness and that the latter emanates in a very particular sense from the Kaiser and the Prussian element, is it not bound upon us to lay all the stress that faith and duty can give upon the prayer that the Kaiser shall himself perceive the errors of his way and make amends as best he is able?

It is generally not of much service to abuse a man or tell him of his errors. If, however, you can make him see himself as you see him, then there is hope for his repentance. Force can cow a bully but cannot change his nature. Let him see himself as a bully and he will probably change his antics.

In our particular case, we can scarcely think of a human mind that can so work a miracle in the minds of the Mighty Ones of Germany. There is but only one, the Almighty, who can surely do this.

We do what we can by force; it is but natural. If anyone hit my child I should not think first of showing him why he ought not to do it—I should probably "lay him out" to the best of my ability!

But to the churches and the vast multitudes who are not directly engaged in fighting and who have time to think of, and contemplate, the awfulness that the continuation of the war involves, must it not come that a power greater than physical force may be waiting for the universal wave of prayer in order to accomplish such things of which the world does not dream? Have we the faith to do this?

Success to our arms is not going to bring about the peace we desire. The Germans in 1870 never conquered France, and the years have but made France more eager and more prepared "to get back" at her aggressor. Annihilation of Germany is manifestly impossible, so that beating her to her knees will not destroy her enmity but increase it. This seems to be the great stumbling block in the way of permanent peace. The only triumph worth anything is that condition which can only be wrought by a power spiritual which conquers error by its reformation.

This then is the spirit that the world needs. If prayer makes nothing impossible let the main petitions mind has power over matter. Doctors will willingly testify to the fact that a patient of cheerful mind and full of hope for recovery has already got the disease half beaten. The healthy mind generally shows itself in the face and appearance and radiates its strength to others. There are other minds which show their qualities only too well, and serve to put all with which they come in contact, in the "dumps". There are also faces, and many are here, which show sadness—sadness brought on by worries of purse and anxiety of heart—tragedies of life. How necessary then is it that those who have to bear any sickness patiently should ever keep the mind cheerful and bright and full of hope that strength of body will come. Each thought like this brings strength just as the opposite thought brings weakness. It is a great mistake to encourage the sick to talk of themselves—some men are selfishly voluble about their complaints and generally persuade themselves into believing that they are stricken with all the sickness in the catalogue. Try the "expulsive power" of a new, bright, and strong subject, and you will do more than a doctor's visit.

I have heard of cases here, where a patient given up by the Doctors, set to work to cure herself by mental, and perhaps I ought to say spiritual, process, and she did it!

Let the sick then have hope, confidence and cheer. Our thoughts and imaginations are the only real limits to our possibilities. No man's success or health will ever reach beyond his own confidence.

THE BLESSING OF BLINDNESS.

The Institution for the Blind is doing a great work. If the faculty of sight is absent, this Institution brings into activity faculties that vary often remain latent in those who have sight. And these faculties are generally of fine caliber. Music and all other subjects are developed with a thoroughness that comes when the mind is concentrated upon any subject. The blind are not obstructed by the specialities which obstruct on our vision every second, and they live in an "inner" world of which we, alas, know too little. It is similar to the idea of Moore that "Darkness shows us worlds of light we never saw by day."

So I think the Blind feel more deeply and have faculties developed more keenly and finely than we who live so much in the gash day.

All this was brought out to some extent in the concert held by the Blind students this week and it ought to make us more eager than ever to help such an Institution which does so great a work. It is a criminal act on our part if we know of anyone who is blind or nearly blind, and do not communicate with the School for the Blind in Halifax, so that entry can be made there and the blind one helped.

Your Boys and Girls.

When the hot days come let the children drink freely of water and other cooling drinks. Barley water is often used instead of water to dilute the milk of a young baby and tends to make the curds of the milk more digestible. When milk disagrees with the baby, barley water may be given plain, when directed by the physician or visiting nurse. One heaping tablespoonful of barley flour and a pinch of salt are mixed with a little water into a thin paste and added to one quart of boiling water. Stir well and boil for twenty minutes. Add enough water to make a quart. If pearl barley is used it must boil for at least three hours and be strained before using.

Much more juice can be extracted from oranges and lemons if the fruit is first covered with cold water and allowed to come to a boil before the fruit is cut. Add the juice of three lemons to a quart of rich boiled syrup, made of plain sugar and water. Pare the yellow peel from lemons, as it gives a bitter taste to the sugar if left long in it. Place in a self-sealing fruit jar and place on ice. When you want lemonade a teaspoon of this mixture can be added in the same way substituting oranges for lemons.

AUTO PERILS.

If one would drive his auto safely always choose the corner or would follow vainly along the course that he pursues. I lean against the barb wire fences, and watch the drivers as they pass; and some have blundered all their senses by heading liquor from a glass; and some are in so great a hurry they hit up fifty miles an hour—like lightning streaks along they scurry, exultant in their gas-burn power. And cars are run by springalds giddy, who do not keep their eyes ahead; they slay a man who has a widdy, and seven orphans weeping woe. And cars are run by new beginners, who jog along a mile and back, and then imagine they're winners of medals on the racing track. With accidents on every acre, the death list grows, and gives us pain; the coroner and undertaker are busy gathering the slain. The laws we have are surely feeble, it's hard to see what good they are, when all the boneheads and the reckless may run amuck with motor cars.

Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper

Wedding Bells.

On Monday, July 17th, at 7.30 p.m., at St. Patrick's Church, Witless Bay, Mr. P. J. Mulloy, Teacher of the Boys' Superior School at Bay Bulls, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Bride Mulcahy, teacher of the Girls' Senior Department, of the Rev. P. J. O'Brien, P.P. The bride was elegantly attired in a dress of cream silk with hat to match and was attended by her cousin Miss Mary Francis, daughter of the late Captain Francis, Prescott Street, St. John's. The bridegroom wore a handsome dress of cream silk with a Lehigh hat. The groom was attended by Mr. E. J. Mulcahy, the Reid Newfoundland Company's Agent at Bay Bulls, brother of the bride. After the ceremony a quiet reception was held at "Fern House," Bay Bulls, the home of the bride's parents. Among the guests were Dr. A. A. and Mrs. Chisholm, of Manuels, and Mrs. J. Rosseter, City, aunt of the bride. The bride was the recipient of many costly and useful presents especially from the pupils of the school, by whom she was held in high esteem.

Britain Leads World in Ship Construction

Four Hundred and Twenty-three Merchantmen Building—Total Tonnage 1,493,355.

Washington, D.C., July 18.—Great Britain although hampered by the drain of war and a big naval construction program, still leads the world in building merchantmen, according to a statement issued to-day by the United States Bureau of Navigation. Her shipyards have under actual construction now 423 steel merchant ships of 1,423,355 tonnage and would have more but for the fact that private yards are engaged in building war vessels. The entire world in 1915 launched 743 merchant ships of 1,201,633 tonnage. Of these 84 of 177,460 tonnage were launched in the United States.

John Turner Wounded.

John Turner, one of the five sons of Mr. George Turner, Deputy Minister of Mines and Agriculture, who is fighting with the Canadians, was wounded recently, but not seriously, according to a message received in the city yesterday.

Spring Suitings!

Have just opened our new Spring Suitings. We were fortunate in securing a splendid range of English Worsteds and Irish and Scotch Tweeds.

Notwithstanding the scarcity of the woolsens and the drawbacks in freights, we are able to show as good a selection as before the war. The latest in cut, the best in make. Write for samples and self-measuring cards.
