She had been brought here on the pratence that she was at last to meet her husband and her three children. They were sent to the Albion Hotel, where they registered under the name of Canning, a name they had assumed in Indianapolis.

As the days passed by and no definite word of her husband or her children being siven her, Mrs. Pitezel, alias Adams, became anxious, and pressed Holmes for knowledge of their wheresbouts. Fearing they would in some way become aware of the presence of one another so close at hand, and tired of his long chase around the continent, Holmes appears to have decided upon ultimate measures.

Loughead Wins at Sarnia.

Sarnia, July 10.—About 500 spectators assembled at Bayview Park this evening to witness the races held by the Sarnia Bicycle Club. Fred Loughead, paced by a tandem, went after the track record, and succeeded in cutting it down from 2.10 to 2.06 3-5.

One mile, open—Loughead 1, Little 2, Phelps 3. Time 2.38 3-5.
The two-mile handicap had five starters. Little scratch, Phelps 100 yards, Sanberg 200 yards, Campbell 200 yards, Date 275 yards. This was won by St. John's College (Oxford), which beat the Anglin Boat Club by two and a half lengths.
A short distance beyond this point Trinity had passed the Ithaca crew and for the first time in the race had her nose in front of the opposing boat. About 100 yards above a point opposite the Isthmian boat club house Trinity was about three-quarters of a length ahead, and the men were greeted with frantic cheers as they continued up the course. Hitherto thère had been no signs of faltering on the part of Cornell, although they had fallen behind. They had merely appeared to be going slower and slower or Trinity faster and faster than before, although the stroke of each crew was the same. But suddenly there came by authority the official with the Cornell boat—an utter of the providence of the Lady Margaret (Cambridge) Club.

MASSEY HALL.

Following is a review of the work of the trustees of the Massey Music Hall for the first year of the enterprise. A careful perusal of the same will show how the building has grown into popular favor and the efficiency of its management. The trustees have evidently done their best to meet the objects for which the hall was erected by the donor, Mr. H. A. Massey. It being the first year of the use of the hall, the management of the use of the hall, the management had to meet all the contingencies incident to an entirely new venture, and were somewhat handicapped at the outset by having to pay a loss incurred by the opening festival, amounting to $548, and other unforeseen contingencies; and, in addition to this, they have not always received the hearty support of the public in connection with low-priced entertainments, in consequence of which heavy deficiencies were caused.

While the first year of the hall has been measurably successful there will be increased expenditures for the second year, the item of taxes alone will be considerably more than last year for the reason that the taxes of '94 were only for the half-year or since the occupancy of the building, and were upon an unfinished building.

The advantages that the people are to derive from the hall will be just what the people make them. The building is a gift to the people and is therefor the people to use; and the trustees will do their utmost to keep the building in use for every laudable object their utmost to keep the ing in use for every laudable object for which it is adapted, and without the hearty support of the public the trustees cannot hope to make the project a continued success.
