The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

National Gallery of Canada,
Library

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche sheet contains the symbol \rightarrow (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ∇ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

Musée des Beaux-Arts du Canada,
Bibliothèque

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par la seconde plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaît sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole \rightarrow signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ∇ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

BAKER, [William Bliss]

Born at New York in 1859. American Artist, pupil of Bierstadt, Do Haas and National Academy. During a few years of original work, in which no reflection of his instructors was visible, the young artist had rapidly ascended to the head of his profession. He possessed in an uncommon degree the ability to render minute and subtle effects with close finish, while yet preserving in his pictures great breadth and dignity. First exhibited in the National Academy in 1879, and in 1889 took one of the Hallgarten prizes. In that year, in November, he died at Ballston, New York, only thirty years old. N

3—A Woodland Brook. 1884. 36 x 46.

Presented by R. B. Angus, Esq., 1889.

BARNESLEY, (James Macdonald)

Canadian landscape painter. Most of his earlier years were spent in St. Louis, where he painted, and also did a large amount of illustrating of great merit. Went to Paris, where he at once exhibited in the Salon in 1883, and continued to do so until he returned to Canada. Though he had never seen Eugène Delacroix nor his pictures, he commenced working after his manner, and was afterwards accepted by him as a pupil. He now resides in Montreal.

4—The Last Rays. 1887. 55½ x 75½.

Purchased by subscription, 1893.

5—The Harbour.

Presented by D. Morrice, Esq., 1911.

Murray Bequest.

BAÜFFE, (V.)

Modern Dutch landscape painter.

7—Dutch Canal. 14½ x 22½.

Murray Bequest.

BIERSTADT, (Albert) N. A.

American landscape painter. Born in Dusseldorf, 1880. Studied in Dusseldorf, came to the United States in 1887, when a tour in the Rocky Mountains and Yosemite Valley furnished material for his most important pictures. Elected member of National Academy in 1880. Was latterly engaged on a series illustrating the wild animals of America. He died in 1902.

8—In the Sacramento Valley. 32½ x 48½.

Presented by the Artist.

BOCH, (Théophile de)

Dutch painter of the modern school.

9—The Edge of the Wood. 15½ x 22½.

Murray Bequest.

BODDINGTON, [Henry John]

British landscape painter, born in 1811, the son of Edward Williams, of Barnes. He, as others of his brothers did, changed his name to avoid confusion. The family was an artistic one, no less than four brothers having been artists; among them, Sidney Percy, a painter of Welsh scenes, as this artist was of scenes on the Thames. He was a member of the Royal Society of British Artists, and a constant contributor to exhibitions. He died at Barnes in 1865.

10—View on the Thames. 19½ x 31½.

G. J. H. Bequest.

BOGGS, [Frank Meyers]

Born at Springfield, Ohio, in 1855. Contemporary American painter of marine subjects. Pupils of Gérôme and L'École des Beaux Arts. Two of his pictures purchased by the French Government.

11—Marine. 1882. 23 x 19½.

12—Effet du Matin. 1882. 15½ x 22.

Tempest Bequest.

BOSBOOM, [Johannes]

Dutch painter of Church Interiors, Town Views, &c. Born at the Hague on the 18th February, 1817. Studied under Van Breue, and became distinguished as a painter of Church interiors in a broad style with wonderful sunlight effects, and full of atmosphere. Gained a third class Medal at the Universal Exhibition at Paris, in 1855, and exhibited in those of 1867, 1878 and 1889. Created Chevalier of the Lion of the Netherlands and of Leopold of Belgium. Died on the 14th of September, 1891.

13—Courtyard Lint. W.

Presented by Dr. F. J. Shepherd, President, 1908.

14—A Church Interior. 13½ x 10½.

Tempest Purchase Fund.

BOUGUEREAU, [William Adolphe] H. C.

Born at La Rochelle in 1825. French School. Historical and genre painter, pupil of Picot, and from 1843 of L'École des Beaux Arts. Won the Grand Prix de Rome in 1860, and while there sent several pictures to Paris, which were greatly admired. On his return to Paris he was entrusted with important decorative work in the public buildings, and in 1866 executed "Apollo and the Muses" in the foyer of the Theatre at Bordeaux. Works exhibited in Luxembourg and Bordeaux Museums, and in many other galleries. Numerous works owned in America. Died in 1905.

15—The Crown of Flowers. 1884. 63½ x 34½.

Presented by R. B. Angus, Esq., 1889.

BRAEKLEER, [Adrien de]

Nephew of Ferdinandus de Braekleer, (see No. 17). Genre painter. No doubt inspired by his uncle's work, but followed him in a quieter key of colour.

16—Marché aux Volailles. 1861. Panel, 19 x 14½.

Gibb Bequest.

BRAEKLEER, [Ferdinandus de]

Born 1792, died 1883. Uncle of the above. Historical and genre painter of good ability, pupil of Van Bree. Studied in Rome and painted first in the style of David. After his return, devoted himself to genre subjects, chiefly family scenes, and educated many pupils who were afterwards successful.

17—Skating in Holland. 1855. Panel, 19½ x 29½.

Gibb Bequest.

BRELLING [Prof.]

18—Freebooters. Panel, 7½ x 4½.

Tempest Bequest.

BRIGHT, (Henry)

Born in 1814, died about 1878. An artist of the earlier school of British landscape painters, of which Gainsborough, Wilson, Constable and Turner were the founders. Exhibited several times in the Royal Academy and New Water Color Society's galleries, now the Royal Institute, between 1836 and 1876.

19—The Old Mill. 23 x 44.

Murray Bequest.

BÜTLER, (Joseph)

20—Lake of the Four Cantons. 1876. 38½ x 59½.

21—The Grindelwald. 1869. 33 x 49½.

CHAMBERS, (George W.)

Born at St. Louis, 1857. Contemporary American artist. Painted chiefly landscape subjects.

22—Early Morning. 1882. Panel, 14½ x 9½.

Tempest Bequest.

CICERI, (Eugène)

Born at Paris. Grandson of Pierre Luc Charles Ciceri. A well-known French architectural decorator, who also painted in water color.

23—Landscape. 8½ x 10½. W.

Tempest Bequest.

OLAPP, (W. H.) A.R.C.A.

Contemporary Canadian artist, residing in Montreal. Studied in the schools of the Association and in Paris. An excellent draughtsman and colourist, modern in his conception and execution.

24—A Road in Spain. 28 x 35.

Presented by Henry Morgan & Co., 1913.

CONSTANT, [Jean Joseph Benjamin]

Born in Paris in 1845, and died there in 1902. Studied at Les Beaux Arts and under Cahanel. His first picture was exhibited in 1869, when he was only 24, 'Hamlet et le Roi.' In addition to his subject pictures, of which many were of life in Morocco, he painted a large number of notable portraits, such as "Queen Victoria," "Queen Alexandra," "Leo XIII," "The Marquis of Dufferin," etc., and many decorative panels for public buildings, Hotel de Ville and Opéra Comique. He was a member of the Institute of France, Commander of the Legion of Honour, etc.

25—Le Lendemain d'une Victoire dans l'Alhambra.

Presented by Sir George A. Drummond, 1909.

CORBETT, [Edward J.] R.B.A.

Born in London in 1815. A well-known painter of a school of genre painting, in which the light treatment of incident replaces the more sombre manner of the earlier painters of the century.

26—A Gossip at the Spring. 34 x 44.

Gibb Bequest.

COROT, [Jean Baptiste Camille]

Born at Paris in 1796, died there in 1875. Pupil of Michallon and Victor Bertin. Visited Italy in 1826, whence he brought admirable studies of landscape which established him as one of the pathfinders in the development of the modern school of French landscape art. Gifted with a highly poetical temperament, he rendered the serene and mysterious aspects of nature in the most charming and alluring manner. Medals, 1833, 1848 and 1855. Legion of Honour, 1846; Officer, 1867. Diploma to the memory of Deceased Artists, Exposition Universelle 1878.

27—Ville d'Avray, near Paris. Panel, 4 x 5½.

28—A Beer Garden, Antwerp. 35 x 37½.

Gibb Bequest.

CULLEN, [M.] R.C.A.

Contemporary Canadian artist; studied in Paris. A painter of winter scenes of exceptional merit. Full of air and light, his work evidences his close and earnest study of nature, and it is further distinguished by the masterly emphasis which he gives to the dominant notes in his compositions, coupled with the suppression of all unnecessary details. Member of the Royal Canadian Academy.

29—Quebec from Levis.

Presented by J. R. Wilson, Esq., 1905.

DAMOYE, [Pierre Emmanuel]

Born in Paris, contemporary French landscape painter, pupil of Corot, Daubigny and Bonnat.

30—St. Denis, near Paris. 1882. Panel, 12½ x 23½.

Tempest Bequest.

DAMSCHROEDER, [J. J. M.]

Genre painter of the German School.

31—The Pedlar. 46½ x 29½.

Gibb Bequest

DIAZ DE LA PENA [Narcisse Virgile]

Born in 1808 at Bordeaux, of Spanish parentage. Commenced as errand boy in a porcelain factory, where he copied the decorations on the pottery. At this time met Dupré (No. 34). Went to Paris and commenced as a genre painter, selling pictures for a few francs each. Appeared at the Salon in 1831 with landscape. Went to Barbizon and Fontainebleau, where he was intimate with Rousseau and Millet. No painter has succeeded in rivalling the wonderful glow of sunlight, and luminous deep shadows in his landscapes. In his figures of nymphs, the flesh tones are exquisite and grouping graceful. He died at Etretat in 1876. Legion of Honor, 1851.

32—Last Rays of the Sun before the Storm. Panel, 4 x 3½.

33—A Forest Glade. Panel, 6½ x 8½.

Tempest Bequest.

DUPRÉ, [Jules]

Born at Nantes in 1812, son of a porcelain worker, in whose factory he first worked. On capital earned by painting on china and clock faces, he made his way to Paris in 1831, in which year he showed five landscapes so full of nature that they at once commanded attention. In 1833 received first Salon medal, and from then his career was a continued success. His pictures are strong in style and direct in expression. In 1867 he achieved a triumph by the exhibition of twelve masterpieces at the International Exposition. Officer of the Legion of Honor, 1870. Died at Isle Adam in 1889, the last of the band of artists, "the School of 1830," that redeemed French art from the lifelessness of classicism.

34—Environs de Pontoise, Oise. Panel, 12½ x 16½.

Tempest Bequest.

DUPRÉ, [Léon Victor]

Born at Limoges, 1816. Brother and pupil of Jules Dupré (No. 34). Medal 3rd class, 1849. Works in the Chartres and Duval Museums.

35—Landscape. Panel, 6½ x 12½.

Tempest Bequest.

EATON, [Wyatt]

HOOCH, [Pieter de]

Born in Rotterdam about 1632; died at Haarlem in 1681. One of the most original artists of the old Dutch school. Formed his style from study of the works of Karel, Fabritius and Rembrandt. Very little is known about the life of this master, and his works were neglected for a long time. The distinguishing feature of his work is the marvellous rendering of sunlight. In this, even Claude and Rembrandt do not surpass him. Was very fond of red in various gradations. He worked principally at Delft and at Haarlem, producing chiefly the wonderful sunlit interiors and courtyards with figures, which are now so much sought after by collectors.

70—An Interior. 38 x 48.

INNESS, [George] N.A.

Born at Newburgh, N.Y., in 1825. Is generally accorded the first place among American landscape artists. Commenced as an engraver on steel, but abandoned this work through ill health. During his boyhood his health precluded any absorbing study, and he received no instruction in painting until 1845, when he took a few lessons from Gignoux, which constituted his entire art study under instruction. Was enabled, in 1850, to visit Europe, and there studied and painted in the elaborate style then in vogue, which he soon broadened, and continually improved. Elected member of National Academy of Design in 1868. He died in 1894.

75—Early Moonrise in Florida. 42½ x 32½.

Presented by James Ross, Esq., 1895.

INSKIPP, [James]

English painter of genre and portraits. Born in 1790. Originally in the Commissariat Department, but retiring with a pension, he began his career as an artist. Exhibited in the Royal Academy from 1820 to 1845, and at the Royal Society of Artists from 1825 to 1835. The last 25 years of his life were spent at Godalming, where he died in 1888.

76—Returning from Market. 38½ x 40.

Presented by Sir Wm. Van Horne, 1908.

ISABEY, [Eugène Louis Gabriel]

The son of a famous miniature painter, he was born in Paris in 1804. Commenced with genre work and experimented in marine painting. As early as 1824 received a first-class medal for a genre picture, and in 1827 another for a marine. In 1830 appointed marine painter with the expedition to Algiers. Officer of the Legion of Honor in 1852. His pictures have a vivacity and sparkle of execution in keeping with the splendor of color. After a ceaselessly active career of over sixty years, he died in 1888 at Paris.

77—On the Beach at Fécamp, Normandy. 1840. Panel,
8 x 6½.

Tempest Bequest.

ISRAELS, [Josef]

Born at Groningen in 1824. Probably at the head of the modern Dutch school of genre painting. Became a pupil of Cornelis Kruseman at Amsterdam from whom he learned his frank and simple style. From him he went to Picot in Paris, and as a result produced an historical composition in the grand style, "William the Silent Defying the Decrees of Spain," 1853. He however returned to the genre work with which his name is generally associated: the portrayal of the simple rustic and semi-maritime life of his own land. He has done for the peasantry of Holland what Milliet did for that of France, but with a more hopeful and less tragic spirit. His color is rich and subdued, but never sombre. Officer of the Legion of Honor, 1878.

78—Moonlight. Panel, $11\frac{1}{2} \times 14\frac{1}{2}$.

79—Lighting his Pipe. $13\frac{1}{2} \times 18\frac{1}{2}$. W.

JACQUE (Charles Emile)

Born in 1818; was early in life a map engraver and soldier. Later engraved on wood, and began drawing and etching. Earliest exhibits were of etchings and engravings, and though he began to paint in 1845, and was medalled in Salons of 1851, 1861 and 1868, for engraving, it was not until 1861 that he was officially recognised as a painter. Legion of Honor in 1867. He was by choice a painter of rustic life, with a predilection to the humbler animal side of it. Poultry and pigs first claimed his special attention, but his most representative pictures are those of sheep. A firm and precise draughtsman, with broad and powerful handling of color. He died in 1894.

84—Sheep. Panel, 4 x 5½.

MARIS, [James]

Born at the Hague, 1837, died in 1899. The second and greatest of three brothers, Matthew, James and William, whose father was also a painter and their master. Went from his father's studio to Antwerp Academy to study, and in 1865 to Paris, where he worked under Hebert, a pupil of Couture (1815-1879); and at L'Ecole des Beaux Arts, until 1869. First exhibited in the Salon in 1866, "Petite Fille Italienne." Afterwards, with occasional figure painting, he devoted himself to landscape, which he painted with equal freedom in oils and water colors. At his highest he produced work which in vigor, directness and variety is not just now to be surpassed. His expression of the sentiment of a scene is not less just than his rendering of its special aspect is accurate. His clouds are a case in point, not solid and still, but active and moving in space and full of daylight and the wind.

98—The Bridge Panel, 8 x 6½.

99—On the Beach. 9 x 7.

100—Dutch Mill. 13 x 10. W.

MAUPRA, [Maxime]

One of the later Impressionists, born at Nantes in 1861. After some years of commercial life, during which he worked at copying and sketching, he became a professional artist against the wishes of his family, and after five years of unremunerative work held a small exhibition, which attracted the attention of M. I. and Ruel, who thereafter helped him in many ways. His paintings in a light key and has his own conception of Nature, which he realizes with liberty and independence.

105—La Marne a Gournay.

Tempest Purchase Fund. 1909.

MAUVE, [Anton]

Born at Zaandam in 1838; died in 1889. Pupil of P. F. Van Os. Dutch painter of landscape and genre subjects. Among his earlier work may be seen traces of his master in painstaking finish and tendency to pleasant color without strength; but this disappeared when he went to Nature; and from that time breadth, simplicity and strength characterized his work. Always well recognized at home, he also received universal European honors. His work is chiefly drawn from the rural life of his native country.

MONTICELLI, [Adolphe]

Born at Marseilles in 1824. Originally intended to be a musician, but his uncle, a musician, in whose care he was placed, was also an artist, and noting a marked taste for drawing in his nephew, instructed him in its elements. Subsequently, Monticelli became pupil of Loudon and afterward of Aubert. Up to this point the art of Ingres was his ideal. But when he left Marseilles for Paris, he cared for nothing but color. Took rooms near Diaz, but it is said they never knew each other. Was influenced by the work of Diaz, but began to paint in his individual and eccentric style, full of beautiful, wild harmonies of color. He was careless and most eccentric in his habits and dress. Paralysis overtook him after returning to Marseilles, and he died there on July 4th, 1886.

RAEBURN, [Sir Henry] R.A.

Born at Stockbridge, near Edinburgh, on March 4th, 1756; died at St. Bernard's, near Stockbridge, on the 8th July, 1823. The son of Robert Raeburn, a manufacturer, he was left an orphan when six years old, and was placed in "Heriot's Walk," the Christ's School of Edinburgh. At the age of 15 he was apprenticed to a goldsmith, who discerned his artistic feeling, and introduced him to David Martin, a well-known portrait painter of that day, who for some time advised him; but he soon struck out for himself, and from painting miniatures, advanced to portraits in oil, which were broad, vigorous and full of the character of his sitters. In 1778, he married Ann Edgar, of Bridglands, one of his sitters, afterwards going to London for the first time, and thence to Rome to study continental work. Returning in 1780, he set up his easel in Edinburgh, where he remained until his death, painting portraits of almost all the great men and women of his day. He was a man of varied gifts, being an expert architect, learned in shipbuilding, and interested in all scientific questions. In 1812, he was elected President of the Society of Art in Scotland; in 1813, A. R. A., and in 1814, R. A. On his visit to Edinburgh, 1822, George IV. conferred upon him the degree of knighthood, and created him "Liberator and Painter in Scotland to the King." Many foreign distinctions were also bestowed upon him.

THOLEN, [Willem Bastien]

Born in 1860. Contemporary artist of the modern Dutch school. Paints landscapes, interiors, street scenes and figures with equal strength and facility. His natural talent and circumstances in early life led him to his true vocation. In 1886 he went to The Hague, and there developed rapidly, following to a great extent his own method. He has obtained medals at London, Paris, Berlin, Brussels, Antwerp and elsewhere, and his work is to be found in many public galleries, and in the private collections of England and America.

TROYON, (Constant)

Born at Sèvres, 1810; died at Paris in 1885. Worked when young in the porcelain factory, as his father had. Afterwards landscape and animal painter, pupil of Riocreux and Ponpart, and influenced by Rocqueplan. First exhibited as a landscape painter in the Salon of 1833, and displayed a sentiment for light and color of the first order; but in 1847, after a visit to Holland, where he studied the Dutch masters, he astonished the Salon with a cattle piece so grand in spirit and so powerful in color, that his fame was at once established. He built up the school of French cattle painting founded by Bracassat. His power was sustained to the last, and he enjoyed nearly twenty years of uninterrupted success. Legion of Honor in 1849. Between 1833 and 1885, sixty of his masterpieces were hung in the Salon.

THE WILLIAM JOHN AND AGNES LEARMONT COLLECTION

ARTZ, [Adolph]

Dutch painter in oil and water colours, whose subjects are principally scenes from rustic life. It is now (1913) some forty years or more since his work was first exhibited.

500—Old Fisherman. 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 6 $\frac{1}{2}$.

BARNESLEY, [J. M.]

See No. 4.

501—The End of the Day. w. 13 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 9 $\frac{1}{2}$.

BERCHEM, [Nicholas]

1620—1683. Native of Haarlem. Studied under Jan van Goyen and others and became a famous artist, excelling particularly in delightful landscapes, of which he was one of the great masters of his country. His paintings appear in many European galleries and in private galleries in England.

502—Herdsman with Cattle. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 9 $\frac{1}{2}$.

BLOMMERS, [B. J.]

Contemporary Dutch artist.

503—The Mother's Joy. 14 x 10.

DE BOOK, [T.]

Dutch landscapist of latter decades of the nineteenth and first few years of the twentieth centuries who made his mark amongst his contemporaries. He was once a pupil of James Maris, concerning whom he has written a large work. He died about 1905.

504—Landscape. $7\frac{1}{2} \times 10\frac{1}{2}$.

BOL, [Ferdinand]

1611—1681. Born at Dordrecht. Produced some very fine work under influence and in imitation of Rembrandt, under whom he originally studied, but was a most uncertain painter and his later work showed much degeneration. Painted many historical pictures and excelled in portraits.

505—Man in Armour. $16\frac{1}{2} \times 12\frac{1}{2}$.

BONINGTON, [R. P.]

1801—1828. Born in England, where he spent his early boyhood, he studied at the age of 15 in the Louvre and entered at the Ecole des Beaux Arts, and by training he belongs more to the French than the English school, yet he frequently journeyed to London and there studied Constable especially. He sojourned for some time in Venice. A versatile artist, facile beyond his years, he painted with grace, force and charm. It has been aptly said that he is "the link of union between the men of classic fame in England and the Barbizon school." With his older friend Constable, he exercised considerable influence on French landscape painting.

506—The Cavalier. $29\frac{1}{2} \times 24\frac{1}{2}$.

507—View, South Coast of England. $7 \times 13\frac{1}{2}$.

510—Interior Delft Church. w. $10\frac{1}{2} \times 7\frac{1}{2}$.

CALLCOTT, [Sir A.] R. A.

1779—1844. English painter of landscape and marines and figure pieces. His landscapes and marines were painted in England, Italy and Holland. He was knighted by the Queen in recognition of his merits as an artist and the esteem in which he was held. He was a brother of Dr. Callcott the distinguished musical composer.

511—Milton dictating Paradise Lost. $13\frac{1}{2} \times 16\frac{1}{2}$.

CANALETTO, [Antonio Canale]

1697—1768. A Venetian who occupied himself largely in producing views of Venice, which for their great truth to nature, and for their extraordinary effect, perspective and colour, met with an immense success, and are still most highly esteemed. He also painted, amongst other subjects, many striking views of London.

512—View near Rome. $8\frac{1}{2} \times 11\frac{1}{2}$.

CAZIN, [J. C.]

1840—1900. French painter. Studied under Lecoq de Boisbaudran and went to England, where he came under the influence of the pre-Raphaelite school. From 1883 he principally produced landscapes, luminously painted and full of sentiment. He was Vice-President of the Soc. Nat. des Beaux Arts and Knight of the Legion of Honour.

513—A Hot Summer's Day. $12\frac{1}{2} \times 15\frac{1}{2}$.

CLINT, [G.] A. R. A.

1770—1854. Native of London. A talented painter of portraits, noteworthy amongst which is a series of pictures representing a phase of the English drama of a century ago, in which appear, in character, Charles Kemble, Mathews, Mrs. Davanport, Kean, Miss Fooks, Macready and other eminent actors.

514—The Earl of Egremont. $16\frac{1}{2} \times 10\frac{1}{2}$.

CONSTABLE, [John] R. A.

1776—1837. One of the foremost English landscape painters. A great lover and student of nature and scenes of life in rural settings, which he portrayed with a genius that brought him renown on the continent as well as in his native England, where he spent his life. He influenced French landscape painting in considerable measure.

515—Flatford House, near Willie Lott's House. 15 x 21½.

516—Landscape. 8½ x 4½.

517—Kew Bridge. 4½ x 7½.

COOT, [J. B. O.]

See No. 27.

518—Portrait of a Girl. 15 x 9½.

519—The Willow Walk. 11½ x 17.

COOTE, [John Sell]

1782—1842. English painter of landscapes and marine pieces in oil and water colours and an etcher of architectural antiquities in England and Normandy. In large measure self-taught, he attained to a high degree of excellence, especially in water colours. (See John Crome).

520—Storm off the Nore. w. 9½ x 15.

COURBET, [Gustave]

1819—1877. A French painter of landscapes distinguished by truth and simplicity, of well executed animal pieces and of portraits of great merit. He was a prominent Communist and eventually retired into Switzerland, where he died.

521—The Pool in the Woods. 17½ x 21.

COX, [David]

1783—1859. An eminent English landscape painter in water colour and, comparatively late in life, in oil. Possessing a vigorous touch, he always produced striking and often imposing results in portraying the diversified scenery of Britain. N. Wales was his favourite haunt.

522—View in Wales. w. 10½ x 7.

CROME, [John] [Old Crome]

1769—1821. Usually styled "Old Crome," to distinguish him from his son, John Bernay, who was also a painter, but mediocre. Born in Norwich. Gifted with remarkable powers of observation, and an ardent and careful student of nature, and possessing originality, he produced many excellent pictures and founded a very important local school of painting, of which John Sell Cotman was next to himself in merit. His pictures were always in demand in his native county of Norfolk—where they are still greatly cherished—and are not on view in public galleries to the extent usual with works of such excellence.

523—A Woodland Scene. $9\frac{1}{2} \times 11\frac{1}{2}$.

524—Moonlight on the Ware. $11\frac{1}{2} \times 8$.

CUYP, [Albert]

1605—1691. Though an eminent painter in a diversified range of subjects, not much is known of his life. He was born at Dordrecht and studied under his father (an artist of less importance) and he lived chiefly on his estates near his native town. Sea shore pieces with shipping in breezes or sultry calm, river borders often with cattle in the foreground, throngs of skaters, were painted by him with great charm and fine atmospheric effects. He excelled also in horse fairs, stable interiors, skirmishes of cavalry, pictures of moonlight and of birds. He also painted portraits, church interiors and still life. His pictures are largely held in England, but they are also fairly numerous on the continent.

525—The White Horse. $8\frac{3}{4} \times 13\frac{1}{4}$.

DAUBIGNY, [C. F.]

1817—1878. Distinguished French landscape painter and etcher. River scenes, which he often painted from a floating studio, and landscapes at dawn or sunset and in twilight or moonlight, were his favorite subjects. Strongly individual in treatment, he arrived at charming results more by colour tones of varying value than by lines, and in this respect seemed a connecting link between Corot and the late 19th century impressionists. Born and died in Paris.

526—The Valley of the Dieppe. $12\frac{3}{4} \times 22$.

DAUMIER, [H.]

1803—1879. French caricaturist and painter. Noted for his able portrayal of Parisian types.

527—Peasant's Head. $13\frac{1}{2} \times 10\frac{1}{4}$.

DECAMPS, [A. G.]

1803—1860. A member of the French romantic school who embraces in his range landscapes and historical, animal and genre painting. Unconventional in his ways and adverse to systematic training, he moved through the South of France, Switzerland, Italy and on to the Levant. Representation of wild scenery and objects was his forte, and in this he was aided in marked degree by his great mastery of light and shade.

DOWNMAN, [John] A. R. A.

1750—1824. English artist who studied under Benj. West, of whom he painted a clever portrait. Painted enbjet pictures in water colour and oil, and excelled in portraits gracefully sketched and charmingly tinged with colours. These were very numerous and included most of the English men and women prominent in society of the day, as well as members of the English and Russian royal families. The interest of his portraits was frequently enhanced by Downman pencilling notes upon them concerning the subjects and their sittings. Many of his portraits were engraved.

539—Bedouin Chief. 8½ x 5½.

GAINSBOROUGH, [Thomas] R. A.]

1727—1788. One of the greatest of English painters. While the fame of his contemporary, Sir Joshua Reynolds, rested upon his portraiture, and Turner half a century later achieved renown by his landscape and sea pieces and gorgeous visions arising out of what he actually saw, Gainsborough was a great master of landscape and portraiture, in both of which his work is characterized by dignity, the highest grace of colouring and lofty artistic sentiment. He was born at Sudbury in Suffolk, and in his fifteenth year he was sent to London where for a few years he was instructed in drawing, etching and painting, after which he started on his own account. He returned to Sudbury in 1745 and soon afterwards removed to Ipswich. In 1760 he removed to Bath and in 1774 to London. He was a foundation member (1768) of the Royal Academy but not an active one. He produced over 300 paintings, of which about two-thirds were portraits. Many eminent people were his subjects and he was the favourite painter of the King and Royal Family, many portraits of whom were also executed by Reynolds. He was a man of kind though impatient disposition and his love of music was not less than his love of painting. Northcote says "he was a natural gentleman and with all his simplicity had wit too." He was buried at his own desire in Kew churchyard.

MICHEL, (G.)

1763—1843. French landscape painter, whose favourite field was the plain stretching from Montmartre out to the mouth of St. Denis. He produced hundreds of pictures which did not come into public notice until half a century after his death. In style they may be compared with the work of the English painter, "Old Crome."

580—Landscape near Paris. 9 x 13½.

MILLET, (J. F.)

1814—1875. Peasant born. Sympathizing with his class and painting them with great poetic force and simplicity, his original treatment of the peasant subject has given him high rank amongst the artists of the 19th century. In his earlier years his time was divided between Paris and Normandy, and he occupied himself with portrait painting, small genre pictures, &c., he also essayed historical painting. In 1848—1850 he produced "The Winnowers" and "The Sower," and thenceforth adhered to peasant subjects. In 1849 he moved from Paris to Barbizon. His most popularly known piece is "The Angelus"

MORLAND, (George)

1703—1804. The famous English realistic painter of country life, horses at tavern doors, post boys, children playing and engaged in all sorts of country pastimes, cattle, pigs, coast scenes, fishermen, smugglers; his work being characterized by truthfulness of representation, excellence of painting, richness of colour and light. He also did good portrait work. Morland was well brought up and received a good education; he came from an artist family, his father and grandfather having been well-known painters and his mother—an excellent woman—an artist who exhibited at the Royal Academy, where George also exhibited in his sixteenth year. Though as a man easy going and convivial, he was one of the most painstaking, diligent and productive painters in the history of art, his engraved works alone being known to have numbered at least 420, besides which he painted many hundred others and executed innumerable drawings.

584—The Village Alehouse. 11 x 9½.

MÜLLER, (W. J.)

1812—1845. An English landscape and figure painter of marked ability, son of a curator of the British Museum who was German by extraction. His beautiful work was eagerly absorbed in his short life time and after his death. It is scantily represented in public collections.

585—A Country Road. 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 8 $\frac{1}{2}$.

NASMYTH, (Patrick)

1787—1831. Landscape painter. Born in Edinburgh and son of an Edinburgh landscape painter of less ability. His real name was Peter, though he was commonly called Patrick by himself and others. He painted simple landscapes with much detail but great force.

536—The Wayside Inn. 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 10 $\frac{1}{2}$.

NEUHUYS, (Albert)

REMBRANDT, [Rembrandt Harmensz Van Rijn]

1606—1689. Born at Leyden, son of a miller, whose wife was the daughter of a baker. His parents were in comfortable circumstances and started him as a student in Letters at the university of his native town, but his dominating inclination to art led them to transfer him to the studio of a painter. There he remained three years, and then removed to Amsterdam to study under a more famous master, but his ever mastering genius soon led him to study and practise painting in his own way and he returned to Leyden when probably 18 or 19 years of age. His earliest known picture dates from three years later. In 1631 Rembrandt migrated to Amsterdam, where he spent the rest of his life. The extent of Rembrandt's productions was enormous and the variety great, embracing portraits, which predominate and are often introduced into his group pictures, scriptural and traditional subjects, landscapes, &c. He excelled in all and as an etcher as well as a painter.

593—Death of a Patriarch. Sepia and Pen and Ink. 13½ x 8½.

REYNOLDS, [Sir Joshua] P. R. A.

1723—1792. Reynolds, one of the two greatest English portrait painters, of whom his contemporary, Gainsborough, was the other, was born of Devonshire parents. He was intended for the medical profession, but evincing a decided taste for art he was sent to London in 1740 and placed under Thomas Hudson, with whom he remained until 1743. He spent a good part of the next six years in London and then visited Florence, Leghorn and Rome, where he remained two years, after which he visited most of the principal cities of Italy, and Paris, returning to England in 1752 and settling in London. He soon became famous and painted all the most prominent people, members of the Royal Family, statesmen, leaders in literature, &c. In 1768 was formed the Royal Academy, of which he was elected the first president, and in the organization of which and the attached schools he was most energetic, and in the same year he was knighted. Reynolds was greatly sought after in society and he formed literary friendships with Dr. Johnson, Goldsmith, David Garrick and others. The sudden failure of his eyesight in 1789 practically closed his painting career. He died unmarried and was buried in St. Paul's Cathedral.

594—Portrait of a Gentleman. 29 x 25.

595—Robinetta. 29 x 21½.

RIBOT, [A. T.]

1823—1891. A French painter whose style earned for him the title of the French Ribera. He obtained several medals and in 1876 became Chevalier of the Legion of Honour. Several of his pictures are in the Luxembourg.

596—The Readers. 17½ x 14½.

ROUSSEAU, [P. E. Théodore]

1812—1867. An original French landscape painter who, like Millet and others, drew much of his inspiration from the Fontainebleau Forest district. For some years not duly appreciated, he won in 1849 a medal of the first class at the Paris Salon and in 1852 received the cross of the Legion of Honour; at the 1855 exhibition he won a first class medal and in 1867 a medal of honour and the higher grade of the Legion of Honour.

597—Sunset. 5½ x 8.

ROYBET, [F.]

See No. 147.

598—The Brigand. 19½ x 13.

RUISDAEL, [Jacob]

1630—1682. One of the leading Dutch painters of landscape and sea pieces. His selection of subjects, always in fine artistic spirit, tended to wild scenery such as exists on the western borders of Germany—broken grounds, waterfalls, gale-blown seas, &c. The figures in some of his pictures were painted by Adriaan Van der Velde or Philips Wouverman.

599—Waterfall. 22½ x 17½.

SCHWEICHARDT, [H. W.]

1746—1797. Born in Brandenburg. After studying he settled in the Hague and became director of the Academy. Most of the later years of his life were spent in London. He painted landscape and cattle, particularly frost pieces.

600—Landscape. 11 x 13½.

SHAYER, [W.]

1788—1879. English painter, chiefly of cattle and sheep. For half a century he was a constant and prolific contributor to the exhibitions of the Society of British Artists, of which he became a member.

601—The Barnyard. 6½ x 7½.

SMITH, [Colv'n] R. S. A.

1795—1875. A Scotch painter who studied in the schools of the Royal Academy, and having visited Italy and Belgium, returned to Scotland and settled in Edinburgh. He executed many portraits of which the best known is that of Sir Walter Scott.

602—Sir Walter Scott. 29 x 24.

STARK, [James]

1794—1859. Landscape painter, born at Norwich and studied under Crome (see page 54). His work reaches a very high level and has in some instances been attributed to Crome, while some inferior works of the Norwich School have been wrongly attributed to Stark.

603—Scene in Norwich. 10½ x 8½.

SWAN, [J. M.] R. A., LL. D.

1847—1910. English artist and sculptor who studied in England and France. Most generally known as a masterful painter of wild animals set in appropriate surroundings which testified to his ability to paint landscape. He also painted figure subjects. Wild animals were his favourite sculpture subjects. He was awarded many medals, including first class for painting at Munich and Paris, and first class for sculpture at Paris.

604—The Wounded Lioness. 18 x 28.

TENIERS, [David, the Younger]

1610—1694. Celebrated Dutch painter, born at Antwerp and died in Brussels. His father, David Teniers, the elder, was also an artist. The pictures of Teniers, the younger, are innumerable and embrace every kind of subject, but his finest art appears in scenes of peasant life. They are to be seen in large numbers in leading Continental and English galleries. Teniers took an active part in founding the Antwerp Academy of Fine Arts. For several years immediately preceding the death of Rubens, who was thirty-three years his senior, Teniers enjoyed an intimate friendship with him.

605—The Two Peasants. 6 x 7½.

606—The Old Grandmother. 19½ x 16½.

TER BORCH, [Gerard]

1617—1681. A noted Dutch painter, who executed admirable small portraits with great refinement of style and remarkable for their distinction and aristocratic grace, and painted interiors, conversation pictures, &c., with similar refinement and skill. Examples of his work, which are not numerous, are to be seen at Amsterdam, the Louvre, Dresden, Berlin. A group picture in the National Gallery is considered his masterpiece. He was a man of travel and culture who studied the great masters, Titian, Rembrandt, Velasquez. In 1635 he visited England, between Van Dyck's first and second sojourn there.

607—Portrait of a Lady. (Attributed.) 15 x 12.

THOLEN, [W. B.]

See No. 184.

608—Sand Dunes, Scheveningen. 18½ x 39.

610—Near Utrecht. w. 15½ x 29.

TURNER, [J. M. W.] R. A.

1775—1851. Turner's earliest known drawing is one of Margate Church, when he was nine years old. In 1789 he became a student of the R. A., and as early as 1790 he exhibited "View of the Archbishop's palace at Lambeth," at the R. A. Four years later he opened a studio in London, close to his father's barber shop. Between 1790 and 1797 he explored nearly all England south of the Humber, including Wales, in search of subjects, and in the last-mentioned year he made a tour in the North. In 1799 he was elected A.R.A., and in 1802 R. A. In the latter year he made his first tour on the Continent, and painted there. In 1807 he began the "Liber Studiorum," a monument of his genius, intended as an illustration of landscape composition. Of the hundred plates originally intended, seventy were published; of the remaining thirty, some were finished, others partly worked up. In 1819 he first visited Italy and from that visit dates his bolder colouring. In 1829 he exhibited "Ulysses deriding Polyphemus." In 1830 his first subjects from Venice were exhibited. In 1839 he exhibited at the Academy the last picture in which his full power was shown, the "Fighting Temeraire tugged to her last berth." Thereafter his artistic powers gradually declined through failing health. His output was vast; he painted oils in great number and water colours innumerable. The National Gallery came into possession of some hundred oil pictures and about 19,000 of his drawings in water colour and sketches. He died unmarried, and was buried in St. Paul's Cathedral.

611—Wensleydale, Yorkshire. w. 20½ x 29.

VAN DE VELDE, [W.]

1633—1707. Son and pupil of Willem Van de Velde, the elder, and the best known of the Dutch marine painters. In early middle life he went with his father to London upon invitation of Charles II., by whom and James II. they were paid annual salaries or pensions. Amongst the pictures painted by them for Charles II. were a number of sea-fights. The twelve naval engagements at Hampton Court Palace are the work of the Van de Velde. Van de Velde, the younger, sketched in blacklead with extraordinary rapidity, and the number of his finished drawings is astonishingly great, in pencil and pen, shaded with Indian ink. Large numbers of his pictures are in English private collections and he is represented in London and Continental galleries. Both men were buried in St. James Church, Piccadilly.

612—Shipping, Dutch Coast. 13½ x 19½.

VAN DER HEYDEN, [Jan]

1687—1712. A Dutch painter of note who painted abroad in Cologne, Brussels, London and other places, though his chief pictures represent picturesque spots in Amsterdam and other Dutch towns. He had the art of painting in minute detail while preserving soft, natural effects. The figures in his pictures are generally furnished by Adriaan van de Velde and others. Van der Heyden had a secret for printing pictures: these were stamped in oil colours on parchment and afterwards re-touched.

613—Winter Scene in Holland. 10½ x 13½.

VAN DYCK, [Sir A.]

1599—1641. Anthony Van Dyck was son of an Antwerp silk merchant, and his mother was skilled in embroidery and other arts. At the age of sixteen he entered Rubens' Academy and became the principal of a number of his pupils who collaborated with Rubens in the production of pictures which Rubens finally re-touched. Six years from the time when he began to study under Rubens he went to Italy and there during the next five years executed many important works. Returning to Antwerp at the age of 27, he at once became famous as a painter both of historical subjects and of portraits. In 1632 he was invited by Charles I. to England, where he was appointed court painter and was knighted and became the favourite painter in that country. In 1634-5 he visited Brussels and executed some of his finest paintings. After the death of Rubens in 1640 he returned to Antwerp and shortly thereafter to England, where in 1641 he died in the 43rd year of his age. During the latter part of his years in England, in order to meet the demand for his portraits, he painted them with greater despatch and left much of the figure and accessories to his pupils. He was a marvellously prolific painter, and besides multitudinous portraits he painted many sacred pieces and a number of miscellaneous subjects. As a portrait painter at his best he is ranked only slightly below Titian.

WHISTLER, James Abbott McNeill]

1834—1903. Born at Lowell, Mass. Son of Major Whistler, a military engineer and a member of the Irish branch of an old English family, and his wife Anna Matilda McNeill of Wiltmington, N. Carolina. Several years of his boyhood were spent in St. Petersburg with his parents, and on the death of his father in 1849 he returned to America with his mother, and from 1851 to 1854 he attended West Point Military Academy, after which he became a draughtsman in the Coast Survey Department. In 1855 he started his art career and proceeded to England and Paris, where he came into close contact with Fantin-Latour amongst other noted artists by whom he was influenced. For four years from 1859 he divided his time between Paris and London and then settled in London and took up residence at Chelsea, from whence in later years he again paid visits to the Continent, making extended sojourns in Paris and one of fifteen months in Venice. Versatile and original, he attained to a high degree of excellence in etching, small oil paintings, water colour pastels and lithography, in views, portraiture and figure painting. Among his subjects are many picturesque and historically interesting London river scenes, town and country scenes in France, the Channel Islands, Holland and Venice; sea pieces, decorative paintings. Both his views and portraits are marked by "atmosphere" and his portraits by keen character study. Whistler was President of the Royal Society of British Artists from 1884 to 1888.

WILKIE, [Sir David]

1785—1841. The son of a Scotch Presbyterian Minister, Wilkie showed precocious artistic ability and in his nineteenth year he painted a remarkable country fair scene and many portraits, upon the proceeds of which he went to London and supported himself for a year. His "Village Politicians," finished about his 20th birthday, was acclaimed at the Academy in the following year. A year later "The Blind Fiddler" was executed. For several years in succession he exhibited with great success, and his pictures were readily taken up and in more than one instance generously paid for at three times the price he asked. In 1809 he was elected A. R. A., and in 1811, R. A. In 1814 he journeyed with Heydon to Paris and in the same year he went to the Netherlands, and in 1817, 1822 and 1824 he visited Scotland. His mother, who had lived with him during the twelve years following his father's death, died the day before he reached London from Scotland in 1824, and the shock of her death was in part the cause of an illness which led him to change of scene in 1825 and to change in his art. He crossed to the Continent and spent three years in travelling through France, Italy, Germany and Spain, visiting the great art centres. He abandoned close detail and adopted much freer methods, he also worked away from character scenes &c. to portraits and historical pieces. On the death of Sir Thomas Lawrence in 1830 he was appointed Painter in Ordinary to the King. In 1840 he began a pilgrimage to the East by way of the Rhine and Danube and Constantinople and Smyrna to Jerusalem. Returning by way of Alexandria and Malta in 1841 he was suddenly taken ill and died, and was buried in the Mediterranean off Gibraltar.

623—The Village School. 10 x 8½.

WILSON, [Richard]

1714—1782. A distinguished Welsh painter, who after practising portrait painting in London in his earlier years went to Italy, where he continued to paint portraits, until a landscape, painted in his leisure moments, caused Zuccarelli to recommend him to leave portraiture for landscape. In this course he was also encouraged by Vernet. His progress in landscape was rapid. In 1755 he returned to England. He was one of the foundation members of the Royal Academy in 1788 and was subsequently librarian to that institution.
