NEW PHASE THE BALKAN TROUBLES

Greece and Roumania to Enter Upon an Economic War CAN SPILL NO BLOOD

But Will Fight Each Other With Commercial Weapons -- The Coming Struggle Will Complicate The Already Dangerous Situation In The Balkans.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—An open break between Greece and Roumania, will, according to private information received in this city, soon make the dangerous situation in the Balkans still more complicated. During the beginning of the last month Greece recalled its diplomatic representative from Bucharest and Roumania was thereby forced to withdraw her minister from Athens. The immediate cause for the breach was the seizure of the Korceo-Wallachia, a people living near the Greek border in Macedonia, who number perhaps 10,000. They belong to the Roumanian race, but were claimed by the Greeks to be under the command of the Greek patriarch in Constantinople. Accordingly the Greeks for the latter to acknowledge themselves to be Greeks and to register that way during the census then being taken in the Ottoman empire. The Sultan did not interfere and the Korceo-Wallachia were forced to ask for the help of Roumania. This country desiring to be represented in any future partition of Macedonia gave its help, and its intervention led to the present situation. As it is not possible for the two countries to attack each other on land or on sea, the only way they can inflict on each other as stated was through an economic war in which each would endeavor to have the advantage.

W. J. LEMOYNE DEAD Noted Actor Succumbed to Bright's Disease This Morning—Was Sixty Years on the Stage.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—William J. Lemoine, the veteran actor, died at the home of a friend in Enwood-on-the-Hudson this morning. Death was due to Bright's disease, which became acute two weeks ago and had followed an attack of heart trouble, which caused him to leave the stage four years ago. Mr. Lemoine was unconscious for some time before the end. Present at his bedside were his wife, Sarah Covell Lemoine, and a few intimate friends of the family. Mr. Lemoine was 70 years of age, and sixty years of his life were spent on the stage. At the time of his retirement he was playing an important role in support of James K. Hackett in "Don Cesar's Return" at Wallack's Theatre. He made his first theatrical appearance in Portland (Me.) in "The Lady of Lyons," in a company which included Mrs. Edwin Forrest. He subsequently appeared in the companies of Booth, Forrest and Patch. He appeared in many Shakespearian productions, and during his career played every role in Hamlet save the title role.

RUSSIAN AUTOCRACY MUST ABICATE IN FACT AS WELL AS WORD

No Half Way Measures Can Now Affect Final Development Of Great National Drama—Political Prisoners Liberated After Many Years in Prison.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 6.—Prince Lvoff explained to the Associated Press today that the deputation of the Moscow constitutional democratic group, of which he is a member, which called on Count Witte, yesterday, demanding the convocation of a constituent convention believed that such a course was the only solution of the present situation. He added: "Count Witte asked for our support and told us that our views more nearly corresponded with his than any other group. But the support of no party can now stem the tide or affect the final development of a great national drama. Autocracy has abdicated in words but cannot stop half way. A constituent assembly elected by universal direct suffrage must formulate guarantees for the liberties which the constitution will guarantee. The government must realize this immediately that to travel the painful path over which the people will drag its feet. The government proposed and said that as the present excitement which daily was leading to bloody collisions between the different classes of the population he did not consider it possible for the government to take the responsibility of establishing universal suffrage. That step must be taken by the national assembly which will be elected by the people." ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 6.—Many touching scenes were witnessed yesterday, where the political prisoners are kept in solitary confinement. A great concourse gathered looking for loved ones, who vanished years ago and whose whereabouts were unknown, but only four were recognized. Disappointed women waiting for sons, husbands or brothers, broke down and wept. A man named Fraumenko and a comrade, who said they had spent over 20 years in prison, came out with long white beards. They know practically nothing about what has occurred during their long imprisonment. Sasonoff, the murderer of Interior Minister Von Plehve, Peter Karapovich, the assassin of Minister of Public Instruction Bogoljuboff, Goussing, the chief of the terrorist conspiracy, and other terrorists, were not released. A large body of prisoners released from other prisons later visited public meetings and related their experiences. ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 6.—The troops today were forced to charge with bayonets against a mob which was pillaging Jewish houses. A number were killed and many were wounded. The city is half sacked. ELIZABETHPOL, Oct. 26.—The Musselman population has organized manifestations in honor of the imperial constitutional manifesto. The orators called on the population to cease all national activities. HELSINKI, Nov. 6.—The imperial manifesto meeting, most of the demands of the Finns arrived here late last night. The constitutionalists are satisfied and the Finns, who threatened to make a demonstration, have thus far been quiet. ODESSA, Nov. 6.—At 11 p.m. The town was quiet today. It is now estimated that the killed and wounded during the recent riots here number six thousand. The city hospitals contain two thousand wounded.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—A special dispatch from St. Petersburg to the Times says that the riotous outrages at Tomsk and Tver, and especially those at Odessa are to be investigated. There can no longer be the slightest doubt that the main force of danger to life and property lies, not in the revolutionaries, but in the mobs instituted by the police and reactionaries. The police at Moscow are openly organizing attacks against the liberals, and the Metropolitan has ordered that homes be read in the churches with the same object. The new procurator of the holy synod, the liberal Prince Obolensky, has already taken steps to stop this disgraceful proceeding. ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 4.—The manifesto of Emperor Nicholas granting the demands of the Finns has been signed and despatched to Helsinki. It convoked the diet and abolishes the dictatorship, rescinds Governor Bobrikoff's illegal enactments, and annuls the manifesto of Feb., 1902, which provided for common legislation in the empire, and all the laws since enacted. It announces that the extraordinary diet now convened is for the revision of the diet's electorate bases. The ukaz not only puts the diet in the centre of the budget but gives it sweeping power to elaborate a new system of representation for the empire, which will be reported to the administration which will make it responsible before the diet. The City Council Meets Today

The city council meets today. In accordance with an order in council the evening papers are not permitted to gaze on the communications and tell what is in them, but the Times newspaper, by a process of telephony has secured the following summary: In a communication from a large number of ship owners they ask if the city will assume the responsibility of any accidents resulting to their vessels, which may be caused by the gratings of the new ferry boat, which has a habit of acting in a very dithering manner when it is taken out for exercise. They suggest that a cable be strung from the east side slip to the west side and the boat run on the trolley car principle. In this way only, they contend, can their property be safe.

THE TARIFF COMMISSION

It Opens in Montreal Tomorrow—Manufacturers Will Ask for More Protection.

It is expected that the Manufacturers' Association will be invited to Montreal and Toronto to the best of evidence that it can in favor of an all round increase in the tariff. The evidence taken in the west shows that the people are pretty well satisfied with the existing tariff although the British Columbia lumber men would like to have more protection but the Northwest which has to be heard from is solid against a change.

Blazed Trail Stories
-- AND --
Stories of the Wild Life

By STEWART EDWARD WHITE.

THE GIRL WHO GOT RATTLED

(Continued.) She looked out over the long sweeping descent to which they were coming, and the long sweeping ascent that lay beyond.

The little man straightened suddenly in his saddle and uttered a fervent curse. After a brief circle about the prairie, he returned to the young man.

"You go back to the wagon, and wake up Billy Knapp, and tell him that I've gone across the river, and I want him to watch out. Understand? Watch out!"

"What?" began the Dalmatian, bewildered. "I'm agin' to find her," said the little man, decisively.

"You don't think there's any danger, do you?" asked the Dalmatian, in anxious tones. "Can't I help you?"

"You do as I tell you," replied the little man, shortly, and rode away.

He followed Miss Caldwell's trail quite rapidly for the trail was fresh. As long as he looked intently for hoof marks, nothing was to be seen, the prairie was apparently virgin; but by glancing the eye forty or fifty yards ahead, a faint line was discernible through the grass.

Alfred came upon Miss Caldwell seated quietly on her horse in the very centre of a prairie-dog town, and so, of course, in the midst of an area of comparatively desert character.

She was amusing herself by watching the marmots as they barked, or watched, or peeped at her, according to their distance from her. The sight of Alfred was not welcome, for he frightened the marmots.

When he saw Miss Caldwell, Alfred grew bashful again. He sidled his horse up to her and blushed.

"I'll show you the way back, miss," he said, diffidently.

"Thank you," replied Miss Caldwell, with a slight coldness. "I can find my own way back."

On a bare spot in the prairie he discerned the print of a hoof. It was not that of one of the train's animals. Alfred knew this, because just to one side of it, caught under a grass-blade so cunningly that only the little scowl's eye could have discerned it at all, was a single blue bead.

Alfred rode out on the prairie to right and left, and found the hoof-prints of about thirty ponies. He pushed his hat back and wrinkled his brow, for the one thing he was looking for he could not find—the two narrow furrows made by the ends of respect-poles dragging along on either side of the ponies.

ing shrill-voiced, but firing no shot as yet. "They'll run us," speculated Alfred. "We're too few to monkey with this way. This is a bluff."

The circle about the two was now complete. After watching the whirl of figures a few minutes, and the motionless landscape beyond, the eye became dazed and confused.

"They won't have no picnic," went on Alfred, with a chuckle. "Dog-hole's as bad for them as for us. They don't know how to fight. If they was to come in on all sides, I could handle 'em, but they always rush in a bunch, like damn fools!"

The group of Indians, which had up to now remained fully a thousand yards away, suddenly advanced and broke into a run directly toward the dog-hole.

There is an indescribable rush in a charge of savages. The little ponies make their feet go so fast, the feathers and trappings of the warriors stream behind so frantically, the whole attitude of horse and man is so eager, that one gets an impression of fearful speed and readiness.

As if this were not sufficiently terrifying, the air is throbbing with sound. Each Indian pops over for general pommel as he comes jumping along, and yells shrilly to show what a big warrior he is, while underneath of all is the hurried monotone of hoof-beats becoming ever louder, as the roar of an increasing rainstorm on the roof. It does not seem possible that anything can stop them.

Yet there is one thing that can stop them, if skillfully taken advantage of, and that is their lack of discipline. An Indian will fight hard when cornered, or when seated by lively resistance, but he hates to go into it in cold blood. As he hears the opposing rifle, the feeling gets stronger, to often a man will serve enough to hold his fire, on break a fierce charge merely by waiting until it is within fifty yards or so, and then suddenly raising the muzzle of his gun. If he had gone to shooting at once, the affair would have become a combat, and the Indians would have ridden him down. As it is, each has had time to think. By the time the white man is ready to shoot, the savages know as done its work. Each savage knows that but one will fall, but, cold-blooded, he does not want to be that one; and, since in such disciplined fighters it is such for himself, he promptly ducks behind his mount and circles away to the right or left. The whole band swoops and divides, like a flock of swift-winged terns on a windy day.

The girl watched the wild sweep of the warriors with strained eyes. She had to grasp her wrist firmly to keep from fainting, and she seemed incapable of thought. Alfred sat motionless on a dog-mound, his rifle across his lap. He did not seem in the least disturbed.

"It's good to fight again," he murmured, gently fondling the stock of his rifle. "Come on, ye devil! Oh!" he cried as a warrior's horse went down in a dog-hole, "I thought so!"

His eyes began to shine. The ponies came slipping here and there, nimbly dodging in and out between the dog-holes. Their riders shot and yelled wildly, but none of the bullets went lower than ten feet. The circle of their advance looked somehow like the surge shoreward of a great wave, and the similarity was heightened by the nodding glimmers of the light eagles' feathers in their hair.

The run across the honey-combed plain was hazardous—ever to Indian ponies—and three went down kicking, one after the other. Two of the riders lay stunned. The third sat up and began to rub his knee. The pony belonging to Miss Caldwell, becoming frightened, threw itself and lay on its side, kicking its frantically with its hind legs.

At the proper moment Alfred cocked his rifle and rose swiftly to his knees. As he did so, the mound on which he had been kneeling caved into the hole beneath it, and threw him forward on his face. With a furious curse, he sprang to his feet and levelled his rifle at the thick of the press. The scheme worked.

In a flash every savage disappeared behind his pony, and nothing was to be seen but an arm and a leg. The band divided on either hand as promptly as though the signal for such a drill had been given, and swept gracefully around in two long circles until it reined up motionless at nearly the exact point from which it had started on its imposing charge. Alfred had not fired a shot.

He turned to the girl with a short laugh. She lay face upward on the ground, staring at the sky with wide-open, horror-stricken eyes. In her brow was a small blackened hole, and under her head, which lay strangely flat against the earth, the grasses had turned red. Near her hand lay the heavy Colt's 44.

Alfred looked at her a minute without speaking. Then he nodded his head. "It was 'cause I fell down that hole—she thought they'd got me!" he said about to himself. "Poor little girl! She hadn't ought to have did it!"

He blushed deeply, and, turning his face away, pulled down her skirt until it covered her ankles. Then he picked up his Winchester and fired three shots. The first hit directly back of the ear of one of the stunned Indians who had fallen with his horse. The second went through the other stunned Indian's chest. The third caught the Indian with the broken leg between the shoulders just as he tried to get behind his struggling pony.

Shortly after, Billy Knapp and his wagon-train came along.

PAINFUL PERIODS

Suggestions How to Find Relief from Such Suffering.

While no woman is entirely free from periodical suffering, it does not seem to be the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely. Menstruation is a severe strain on a woman's vitality. If it is painful or irregular something is wrong which should be set right or it will lead to a serious derangement of the whole female organism.

More than fifty thousand women have testified in grateful letters to Mrs. Pinkham that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound overcomes painful and irregular menstruation. It provides a safe and sure way of escape from distressing and dangerous weaknesses and diseases.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—Some four years ago my usually good health began to fail. I had severe pains in my back, my head ached, I would have dizzy spells, and during my monthly periods I would suffer intense pain.

SECTARIANISM A STUMBLING BLOCK TO RELIGIOUS LIVES

Rev. A. B. Cohoe Speaks His Mind on What Hampers the Work of the Church—The Financial Problem Arising From Divisions Among Christians—The Real Test of Christianity is Not How Men Explain the Nature of Jesus But Whether They Follow Him.

At the morning service in Brunswick street Baptist church yesterday morning, Rev. A. B. Cohoe read the statement giving reasons for his resignation of the pastorate. In brief, it is not because he does not feel he has a right to preach in a Baptist already received an application for the position—if you call another man—unless he be a phenomenal man who can build a church street at the expense of some other church you will find the present situation recurring again. Supposing you call a so-called liberal theologian, you create exactly the same position which we have today. Supposing you call a so-called liberal theologian, you create exactly the same position which we have today. Supposing you call a so-called liberal theologian, you create exactly the same position which we have today.

The Preacher's Training

Having read this statement, Rev. Mr. Cohoe asked the people to hear with him for a short time while he spoke of the church from the standpoint of a preacher. To the young man who is a student, he said, and who feels a desire to do something for men, the religious element is the strongest in his life. It is, therefore, natural that if he desires to give the best that is in him to the service of his fellow men, he should do it through the training school. But he finds the religious element in the church is not so strong as it should be. He finds the religious element in the church is not so strong as it should be.

The Financial Strain

Then the young man begins his work in the church. He comes to it with a youthful enthusiasm to bring to others what has helped him, enlarged his life and perhaps saved his soul. The first thought that strikes him is that he is at the head of an institution which demands such preaching and such work as will enable the institution to pay its way. It is coming to be with the churches as it is with the colleges. The heads of great colleges are not necessarily teachers—they must be business men. The tendency in the churches is to have pastors who are business men—who can run the finances. As the colleges, there is constant need of money. The religious people have been divided by past conflicts into denominations, and denominations are again divided, until even one of them has too many churches in a community. They need money. The financial strain is felt in every denomination of the congregations in this city. Because it is felt it is brought to the front, and the pastor is considered successful if he can fill the plates; if he returns diminished, the only thing to do is to step out. The speaker said he knew of a man who had done so. A church needs the financial support of every one of its members. It cannot afford to lose any number of them. He had known a man who had to resign because he could not pay a particular way. A few good paying families ceased to contribute, and he resigned. Another who wore a business suit on week days gave offence to some of the people by pursuing that course—and he had to resign. So long as the financial position of a church is such that it requires the support of all the members, the pastor is in the hands of the minority, however small. The speaker here remarked that no member of a church could be expected to stultify his convictions, or asked to do what he felt he ought not to do; but on the other hand the church should be so strong that it would not suffer because of the withdrawal of a man—or several men's—financial support.

What of the Future?

"I have been asked by some people in what respect the situation would be improved by my resignation. Let me answer that question emphatically. The church may be in a better condition, but it ought to be. It is perpetuating the present situation and calling another man—and I may say that I have

A collision between the river steamer Majestic and Springfield occurred on the suddenly drawn toward her as they passed.

THE POLLARD OPERA CO

To the Editor of the Times: Sir—I would like to draw the attention of the amusement-loving public of this city to the performances of the Pollard Opera company at the York Theatre. As a lover of drama and opera I never miss an opportunity when visiting Boston or New York of seeing all that is to be seen in the amusement field. As a result of this I have seen all the musical comedies that are being given by the Pollards produced by the original companies, and I must say that taking into consideration the fact that the Pollard company are children, they give a performance far superior to that given by the companies I have seen, and at a price for less than one can see the companies I have mentioned, for I had the pleasure of seeing the original Belle of New York company with Edna May in the title role and Miss Pollard in the title role of the same piece Saturday night, and it was in every way the equal of the original company.

Mr. Pollard has provided a splendid company, plenty of appropriate scenery and elaborate costumes, such as few travelling companies have carried in this country, and yet, while the patronage has been good it has not been as good as it should be, in fact the York theatre should be crowded to the doors each night. St. John audiences are continually crying for something good, and when they get it they don't appreciate it until too late. There is not much encouragement for other managers of companies or theatres to provide St. John audiences with first-class companies when they are not patronized as they should be. I would advise those who have not yet seen these clever children to do so at once. As you are aware, Mr. Editor, I am not interested in either the company or theatre and therefore have no axe to grind other than that which I like to see a good company get good patronage. Thanking you, I am,

D. L. HUTCHINGS.

THE BOARD OF TRADE

Tomorrow's Meeting Should Be Interesting—Many Matters To Come Up.

The council of the Board of Trade met this morning and discussed various matters that will be brought to the attention of the board tomorrow at their regular monthly meeting. Among the matters taking up was a communication from the transportation commission asking for more information regarding St. John harbor and the prospects of development. It was decided that the desired information be obtained and forwarded as soon as possible to the commission.

Among the business to come before the meeting tomorrow will be the proposed freight car rates, which were referred to the railway commission from the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. The railway commission in turn referred the matter to the Board of Trade for their approval.

The council of the Montreal Board of Trade are endeavoring to arrange a conference of the Boards of Trade in the dominion to be held in Montreal in 1908.
They ask the co-operation of the St. John board and it is probable delegates will be elected tomorrow.

The remarks made by Mr. Ashdown of the transportation commission regarding the making of Canadian shipping ports free, will be considered, and it is probable that a resolution will be passed endorsing Mr. Ashdown's views.

The Toronto board of trade has adopted a resolution condemning the action of the provincial governments of the provinces of British Columbia and Quebec for levying the commercial travellers' tax, and they are asking the federal government to disallow the acts. They ask the St. John board of trade to co-operate with them to have the acts set aside.

The town clerk of Glasgow, Scotland, writes to inform the board that there will be a conference in London, England, on the 27th of the present month to consider free importation of Canadian cattle into Scotland. A number of men interested in the matter have associated themselves under the name of the Free Importation of Canadian Cattle Association of Great Britain, and have called a conference of agricultural associations, farmers' clubs, chambers of commerce, municipal bodies, and other associations to meet at stated. The object is to try and bring sufficient pressure to bear on the government to have the free importation of Canadian cattle into Scotland. They ask the St. John board to name someone on the other side as their representative at the meeting.

ENTERTAINMENT WAS ENJOYABLE

W. E. Earle's Invitation Concert on Saturday Evening a Veritable Treat.

The thanks of a large number of St.
John people are due today to W. E. Earle for the most delightful two hours spent in the Opera House on Saturday night.

The entertainment consisted of giving an invitation concert to representatives of St. John's industries, and, as secured by him was most successful.

The entertainment was provided by the Schubert Male Quartette of Boston, assisted by Miss Huntington Benjamin, who is well known in St. Patrick's Society, and who proved to be a valuable acquisition in the entertainment. Lewis Slattery is likewise expected to give valuable assistance to the programme. The quartette, consisting of Robert Martin, C. W. Swaine, W.
Walker and Dr. George H. Clark, besides giving a number of concerted selections appeared individually in solo work.
Their most popular contribution was a musical setting of Fred Harris' "Oh, you Jim," which created raptures of laughter.

"Old Black Joe," with a bass solo by Dr.
Clark and "Evang'lin' Song," were among their best numbers.

The solos were all greatly to the liking of the audience, and included "Love Sorrows," by Mr. Martin; "The Sweetest Flower That Grows," by Mr. Swaine, and "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," by Dr. Clark.

Miss Benjamin was very heartily applauded. Howard Field's story of the boy and the mustard plaster, and the pathetic incident "The Wife of His Youth," received very hearty appreciation. The entertainment closed with God Save the King.

The quartette appeared to especial advantage, the four voices blending beautifully. As a quartette the Schuberts are beyond doubt the best heard here for years.

COURSE TICKET HOLDERS

All course ticket holders for the Special Course are reminded that their first coupon in the course ticket will admit them to this evening to a seat in the gallery or on the stage and without any extra charge. They are thus practically having a reserved seat for none but course ticket holders are admitted until 8.15.
There will be no rush or crowding, as only three hundred ticket holders are reserved for, and there are four hundred and fifty seats for the purpose. The management has refused the sale of fully three hundred course tickets to avoid the slightest crowding or dissatisfaction.

Mrs. James A. Murray

Ida V. Cole, wife of James A.
Murray, No. 9 Hospital street, died Saturday evening, aged seventy-two years.

The death of Mrs. Murray is surrounded by circumstances which make it particularly sad. She was a native of New York, where her husband also belonged.

Last June Mr. Murray secured a situation on the I. C. R. and came to the city to live. At that time Mrs. Murray was not in the best of health and her husband thought that a change of air might do her good. Accordingly she came to the city last September. She had scarcely been in the city a week, however, before she took to her bed and never arose again. The doctors said the cause of death was rapid consumption.

She was the late John Cole, of Colonsdale, by his second wife, who is still living. One half sister, Mrs. Perry, also lives at Colonsdale. Another brother, Abraham J., resides in Danville (N. C.) Her husband also survives.

Lewis P. Fairbanks

HALIFAX, Nov. 5.—The death occurred here Saturday evening of Lewis P. Fairbanks, a well-known citizen, aged seventy-two. He was a son of the late Hon. Chas.
B. Fairbanks, who was master of the rolls for Nova Scotia. J. P. Fairbanks, of the Queen Hotel, is a nephew.

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE, Nov. 4.— The members of St. Patrick's Literary and Dramatic Society are preparing for a "miniature" show to be given by them in near future. Great interest and no small anticipation characterize their preparation in the work of preparation and the general impression is that their efforts will be crowned with success.

Since the participants are being prepared under the immediate supervision of directing work of this kind is well known.
St. Joseph's feel justified in expecting a number of which will surpass anything in the line of comedy previously seen in Leche Hall.

The members are being held every evening, on which occasions not a few valuable acquisitions have been made. The entertainment is being held in the City Hall, but failed to turn up when the vessel sailed Saturday.

A sailor named Edward Johnston shipped to go on board the Baltic last Friday morning at Bermuda at 6 o'clock last Friday morning, but leaving there yesterday afternoon for Halifax.

Bart. Peirless, Capt. Byrnes, cleared for Col. H. Thurston from Yarmouth with a cargo of 15,235 pieces grease boards, containing 77,119 feet, and valued at $47,000.

St. John's Neg. News.—Capt. Woodard, five years ago was sentenced to eleven years' imprisonment for shooting a man in the street. He is performing the duties of assistant cook at the institution, and is in the position most satisfactorily. Since his incarceration he has enjoyed excellent health, and has been a constant student, being not a single complaint against him in the past five years. He is now hopeful to hear better news than the above before many months.

When home dyeing is to be done, will it pay our women and girls to use weak and adulterated dyes sold in connection with cheap-John jewelry, rough plated ware and common books, or will it pay better to use the world-famed DIAMOND DYES which sell entirely on their merits and established reputation?
Wise and prudent women who place a money value on their faded dresses, blouses, jackets, caps, ribbons, stockings, curtains, draperies, husbands' and children's clothing, know well that make the old and dingy things look like new, they must, in justice to themselves and the first principles of economy, use the never-fading DIAMOND DYES, of which family, every color is guaranteed to produce perfect results when the simple directions are followed. The temptation to buy trashy jewelry, common plated ware or cheap books, should never induce any intelligent woman to get into the habit of preparing dyes, which only run good materials and fabrics.
