Woman and Her Career.

If woman could lead their own lives, what would they do with them? There are several pretty stories going to prove the failure of young women to find satisfaction in their efforts to lead independent lives, an artistic life, or a scientific one, or one entirely given to charity or even a life that yields political power. can never really satisfy a woman's heart. After all, the best way to succeed in living one's own life is to lead it contentedly and usefully in that sphere into which it has pleased God to call us, and not to spend it in worrying and repining because it was not cast somewhere else, or in vain attempts to free ourselves from the duties and responsibilities nature has imposed upon us.

unhappy life, when she would have gladly exchanged her exalted rank and glory to be a happy wife and mother, even in a humble position. Mr. Boyesen tells us that woman's dream of independence is "like the blue flower of the German romancers, which is always alluring you from a distance, whose fragrance intoxicates you, but which vanishes from your fingers when you endeavor to pluck it." After all, the best way to succeed in living one's own life is to lead it contentedly and usefully in that sphere into which it has pleased God to call us, and not to spend it in worrying and repining because it was not cast somewhere else, or in vain attempts to free ourselves from the duties and responsibilities nature has imposed upon us.

Dominion Day at Blacks Harbor

A GRAND CELEBRATION

Music, Dancing, Base Ball and Fine Program of Sports Well Carried Out

A SUMPTUOUS DINNER SERVED BY THE LADIES

The good people of Blacks Harbor Sons, won by Peter Hill. Rowing race, celebrated the birthday of the Dominion prize five dollars given by Senator Gillmor, won by John Leavitt, John ssm. Crowds come from all along the shore, the Islands and the neighboring inland centres to help them. The day dawned dull, with the atmosphere filled with fog, but at nine o'clock the sun broke through the mist and glorious weather followed. At an early hour men, women boys and girls were busy getting ready for the gala day adding the final touches to booths and stands. Bunting, flags and banners were streaming from the tops and sides of the covered enclosures, and loads of tables ice cream, fruits, confectionery and substantial foods for the hungry were displayed.

The arrival of the steamer Connors Bros. with the Campobello band on board, was the signal for the beginning of the sports. Efficient committees looked after each event and keen contests, on land and water resulted, and gave the thousand people, who thronged the waterfront and crowded the streets, many good opportunities to exhaust the exhilaration that goes with a holiday in cheering the winners.

The water sports included motor boat and rowing races, tub racing and swimming contests. The beautiful silver cup captured by O. H. Warwick of St. John for a 4 and 5 horse power motor boat was donated by Harlan Kinney of Back Bay, in his speedy craft, "Tom Long-boat," second prize, a rifle, given by Connors Bros. Ltd., fell to Hugh Harris. Motor boat race, 3 horse power prize, narrow margin, the score being 15 to 14 clock, given by Emmerson & Fisher. During the day the band entertained the crowd with fine selections. Dinner and supper being served in a large canvass covered enclosure by the committee of ladies, who are certainly deserving of great praise for the successful way in which they attended to the wants of the inner man. There was abundance of food, it was good and every one was well served. A number of young ladies from St. George assisted the ladies at the tables. Dancing in the fine new hall wound up a day of pleasure, a holiday that those who participated in, will long remember.

Sumatra's Curious Marriage Custom.

Marriage among the Ooloes of Sumatra is celebrated with the following curious ceremony. In front of the bride's house is suspended an immense balance with large wooden scales, the whole adorned with leaves. On one of these scales the parents of the girl deposit fruit, rice, fuel for the hearth, some coconuts and a young goat. On the corresponding scale the bridegroom has to deposit before sunset the presents which he makes to his intended till the balance sinks in his favor. At this very moment the girl leaves the house, approaches the bridegroom amidst the acclamation of those present, and the ceremony is concluded by a meal in common and by dances of a very monotonous rhythm, the cadences of which are accompanied by movements of the body.

Pain can be easily and quickly stopped. Pink Pain Tablets--Dr. Shoop's--stop headache womanly pains, any pain, anywhere, in 20 minutes sure. Formula on the 25c. box. Ask your druggist, or the doctor about this formula--It's fine. Sold by All Dealers.

Good Business

The stationary printed at this office is giving the best satisfaction. Last week we printed one thousand statements for a man and by their aid he collected a small fortune. Two months ago a man bought of us some note paper and envelopes to use when writing to his sweetheart and now he is married. Another man forged his name on a check printed at this office and is in the penitentiary. Another young man stole some of our paper to make cigarettes with--he is dead. A young lady bought some of our paper to curl her hair on, now she has a bean, we have only a few packages of this kind in stock. By using our stationary a person can collect old accounts, tell fortunes, make rain, change the color of the hair, have the teeth extracted without pain. Find the name of the husband or wife, be successful in business, triumph over enemies and get elected to office. Give us a call.--E.X.

Pews Free, Bible Mandate.

Declaring that they had been disobeying the Word of God by charging rent for pews in their $750,000 house of worship, members of the Rest Liberty Presbyterian Church, the richest congregation in Pittsburg, voted unanimously to abolish this practice and to throw the pews open to the public without reservation. The Scripture bearing on the matter was quoted from Corinthians, xvi., 2, as follows:

"Upon the first day of the week let each one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come."

The Rev. Dr. Frank W. Sneed is pastor of the Church, which numbers among its members more than two-score millionaires. It is estimated that the pew rent alone amounts to $50,000 a year. Several short addresses were made by members at the meeting to-day. One well-known capitalist insisted that the verse from Corinthians forbade even the taking of collections, and it is probable this phase of the matter will be taken up later.

PLAIN TALK FROM AN INDIGNANT VOTER

Beautiful Shade Trees Cut Away, and Left for Thoughtless Persons to Start a Fire That Means Ruin and Desolation

To the "Editor of Greetings."

A man from Blacks Harbor and a man from Bocbec met the other day, in the town of St. George. They have been intimate friends for years, their families are intimate, and you would naturally suppose that, greetings over, inquiries over the health of their different families would be in order. It was customary once, but things have changed in the County of Charlotte, the Province of New Brunswick. "Hello Tom," "hello Dick," both together, "the roads are fierce" and so it goes. Every man who drives a mile is dumb on every other subject. The roads--there is not a corduroy bridge in the County that does not offer strong inducements for a horse to break his leg, not a rut anywhere that is not gullied out to rock bottom, not a stone on the top of a hill that does not show more surface than ever was seen before. In many sections layers of brush, cut in many cases from great shade trees that lined the road with beautiful effect, in times gone by, invite the careless and thoughtless passer by to drop a match, throw a cigarette or knock the not ashes from his pipe and start a conflagration that will end no man knows where. The brush is a reminder of the last election when money was spent with a lavish hand. A prominent member of the four who were to do so much for Charlotte would be compelled to travel in a balloon if conditions did not change. They changed, how do the readers of "Greetings" like the change? You have officials galore, every second man of a particular band of politics is a road commissioner, and the third fellow has been promised a job on the highway, when the money comes? Meantime there is nothing doing--the roads are going back to cow paths, the driving public are becoming wickel, and Charlotte has four good looking members at Fredericton. Such a consolation for the man who could easily hand a cord of wood, but must now put on only a half a cord? for the man who walks because his express has broken down from the effects of a trip? for the enthusiast whose rubber tires are frayed, torn and useless? for the deluded individual who was foolish enough to be taken in by the oily promises of politicians who wanted to represent them. When, oh when, will we have good roads? Dejected Voter.

A Great Success.

A London magistrate tells this story: "In many ways," he says, "an innocent person may seem guilty, and I am old enough now, and have been long enough on the bench, in forming a biased opinion. For instance, take this point.

"A lady was shopping one day, and after making a purchase at a certain counter she absently walked off with an umbrella. But the umbrella owner a red-haired woman, soon overtook her and got her property back.

"The lady, blushing and ashamed, walked on. She remembered that they were almost without umbrellas at home. The weather had an unsettled look, and she bought four umbrellas--one for herself and three for her children--all as Christmas presents. And she told the salesman she would carry them home with her.

"This lady, riding home in a motor-bus with the umbrellas beside her, happened to look up from her evening paper, and found the eyes of the red-haired woman of the lace counter fixed upon her.

"I see you've had a successful afternoon," said the red-haired woman sternly."

Rheumatism for Several Years— Now as well as Ever

647 Main St., St. John, N. B., Nov. 27, 1908.

Father Morrissey Medicine Co., Ltd.
I am writing to tell you I have been a victim of Rheumatism for several years, and have been treated by every kind of doctor, but without finding any permanent relief until I got Father Morrissey's medicine. It has cured me so I am able to do my work and find I am as well as ever in my life.

Yours truly,
JOHN CRAWFORD.

Rheumatism cannot exist when the kidneys are in perfect working order for they take out of the blood all the Uric Acid, which alone causes the Rheumatism.

Father Morrissey's "No. 7" Tablets act directly on the kidneys, toning them up and helping them to clear the blood of the Uric Acid. If the Rheumatism is of long standing it may take some time to clear out all the poison, but almost from the first "No. 7" Tablets relieve the pain, and if used faithfully they rarely fail to cure.

Even if other remedies have done you no good, do not give up till you have tried Father Morrissey's "No. 7" Tablets.

Empire Editors--Canada and New Zealand at Press Conference

Among the many distinguished names of Canadian delegates to the imperial Press Conference two stand specially prominent—Sir Hugh Graham, the leading newspaper proprietor of the Dominion and Mr. J. A. MacDonald, the Delane of the West.

Sir Hugh Graham has today interests in many fields, and his influence reaches far and wide. But the Montreal Star, his first love, still remains his chief concern. He started his career as general utility boy in a newspaper office, and when about eighteen he became business manager of a Montreal evening paper. This did not long satisfy him, and he proceeded to possess a paper of his own, and just forty years ago, when twenty-one years old, he and two others joined forces and started the Star. They priced their sheet at the then revolutionary haltpenny a copy. In London it is accepted as a truism among practical men that no new evening paper can hope to succeed unless it has £20.

It was a hard fight, and the story of it makes one of the romances of modern journalism. Less than thirty years after when looking back, Mr. Graham was able to congratulate himself on having the best-paying newspaper property in Canada, with a daily circulation of over 45,000, and an annual net profit of £9,000. His main secret of success was that he devoted many years to this one thing, counting no labor too hard and no hours too long.

Today Sir Hugh Graham is rich and full of dignities. He was the first Canadian journalist to be knighted; his great accomplishments for the Empire, during the Boer war and at other times, are known from Fremantle to Mandalay. London will greet him to-morrow night as an honored guest.

FIGHTING FOR CANADA'S FUTURE

In Mr. MacDonald, editor of the Toronto Globe, we have the pulpiter turned Pressman, and carrying into his new calling the strenuousness and moral force of his old life. Mr. MacDonald is a great orator, as London will probably have opportunity to discover. He was at one time a Presbyterian minister, and then, after a spell at religious journalism, was called to the editorship of the Globe, the most influential Liberal paper in the Dominion. Independent ready for controversy, glowing from his highland blood in giving and receiving hard knocks, he is a man to be reckoned with in the future story of Canada.

There has been a strong tendency in newspaper work in Canada during recent years to develop the evening as apart from the morning paper. Mr. J. S. Brierley, for example, who now visits London for the first time, made his most successful move when in 1898 he turned the Montreal Herald, one of the oldest papers in Canada, from a morning to an evening sheet. Mr. Brierley, who has been managing the paper since 1902, has successfully managed the country during the war. When the Liberal Party is in power, he is one of their chief opponents, and when the Conservatives are in power, he is one of their chief supporters.

him. He has more than succeeded. Perhaps none will be more cordially received during the next week than the two French Canadian editors among the delegates—M. Gouffrey E. Langlois, of Le Canada, Montreal, and M. d'Hellecourt, of Le Soleil, Quebec. M. Langlois is political as well as editor, and is known far and wide for his campaign against clerical interference in secular affairs. M. d'Hellecourt was formerly an officer in the French army, emigrated to Manitoba, gravitated to the editorial desk, and has for nearly twenty years edited the great French daily in Quebec.

ATHLETE AND EDITOR

Mr. P. D. Ross, the editor of the Evening Journal at Ottawa, was formerly one of Sir Hugh Graham's young men, proceeding direct to the Star from McGill University. Six years later he was managing editor of the paper, and within two years he launched his own venture at Ottawa. Mr. Ross has earned a reputation in athletics as well as in journalism. He is a strong man alike on the running path, on the river, and in the office. Another athlete turned Pressman is Mr. D. Watson, managing director of the Quebec Chronicle, who is captain in a crack rifle corps and a great lacrosse, football, and hockey player. Mr. Watson is also a prominent figure in the organization of the Press in the province of Quebec. Mr. A. F. MacDonald, editor of the Halifax Morning Chronicle, left the university to become a junior reporter, and rose step by step to the top.

Mr. M. E. Nichols is one of the men who have gone West and won out there. He has done much to promote imperial sentiment in this district, and is a prominent worker for closer relations with the Empire and for generous Canadian support towards the British Navy.

Mr. J. E. Atkinson, managing director of the Toronto Daily Star, this year celebrates a quarter-century as a newspaper man, and has been a steady worker on the Liberal side. Mr. W. J. Herder is a descendant of emigrants from the west country. He made a bold start nearly thirty years ago, when he was a young man in the twenties, by launching the first daily in Newfoundland and pricing it at a halfpenny. His venture has brought him great success. The whole body of Canadian representatives are strenuous, practical, and enthusiastic workers, mostly young, unbound by old conventions, willing to take great risks and do great things.

CANADIAN AND AUSTRALIAN JOURNALISM

Canadian journalism is perhaps somewhat hampered, compared with Australian, by the large number of rival papers and by the mixed races of the population. There are six dailies in Toronto and seven in Montreal. Despite the fine work of the Canadian Associated Press in supplying imperial cable news, the papers are still largely dependent for their cable information on American sources. Naturally American influence has been very largely felt in the style and makeup of the papers.

It is the hope of New Zealanders that they have a few papers, in proportion to population, and that there is no more of the Zoo.

on earth. There is no one journal overshadowing all the rest. The honors are fairly divided among half a dozen papers, issued in four cities, and representatives from all these are now among us.

Mr. Gresley Lukin, editor of the Wellington Evening Post, the veteran of the party, has a record of which any man might be well proud. All whose business it is to follow Colonial events have long marked the distinctive note of his paper, its scholarly tone, its high standards, and the steady maintenance of its principles. Those who meet Mr. Lukin here will understand better why this has been. He is a Tasmanian by birth, and came to journalism through the Civil service of New South Wales.

Breaking down in health, he visited New Zealand, and remained there in his present post. Farseeing and clear spoken, he still remains as he was when a young man one who dreams of better days ahead for his old world of ours, and seeks to bring his dreams true.

The chairman of the New Zealand delegation, Mr. George Fenwick, is a North countryman by birth, and still retains much of the kindly, shrewd, practical manner of the Northumberland man. Mr. Fenwick has led the movement in the New Zealand Press for improved cable services and reduction of rates, and much is likely to be heard from him here on this matter. He is sixty-two, but despite his silvered hair his activity is that of a young man. Mr. Harry Brett, another veteran well in the sixties, is also English by birth, coming from Hastings. Mr. Brett had done great service in state affairs outside the Press. He was twice Mayor of Auckland he served as Commissioner for his State at the Paris Exhibition, and he was offered by Mr. Seddon, but declined, high political preferment.

Mr. W. S. Douglas was the youngest editor of a daily paper in England before emigration to New Zealand over twenty-five years ago. He is a Scotchman from the Grampian Hills, and learned his craft in Leeds. He now presides over the destinies of the New Zealand Herald and its weekly issue, papers which rank high in the Dominion. Mr. Mark Cohen, of the Dunedin Evening Star, has been a newspaper worker for between forty and fifty years, and is a keen reformer and educational expert. He was among those who helped to bring women's suffrage to his State. The last of the New Zealand six, Mr. R. M. Macdonald, is director of an admirably produced journal, The Press, of Christchurch.

Methuselah, 250 Years Old, Dies in London.

Children, do you know to what a ripe old age a tortoise will live. Well one died in London the other day at the advanced age of 250 years. His name was Methuselah, so called in memory of the oldest man chronicled in history. On the death of the tortoise Methuselah a London paper has this to say:

"The 250-year-old tortoise, Methuselah, who has been one of the curiosities of the Zoo, has ended his earthly career. No more will crowds gather around his courts and discuss him during his winter nap, and no more will parents and governesses take him as a text to deliver a little historical talk on the days of the Great Plague or the time when Milton wrote his 'Paradise Lost' and the tortoise was young and frivolous.

"Since November Methuselah has been hibernating in his house in a snug corner beside the hot water pipes. From outward appearance he might have been dead then, yet he was alive and apparently doing well and when the sunny weather came his awakening was looked forward to daily. The end of last week his keeper noticed a change in him, and an examination showed that from hibernation the animal had sunk peacefully into death.

"Henry, the 200-year-old tortoise, is now the dog of the Zoo.

Don'ts for the Flapper.

- Don't giggle.
- Don't gush. Sugar in moderation is necessary to youth, but an overdose is nauseous and calls for sharp remedies.
- Don't be noisy.
- Don't be "smart." Real wit is to "smartness" as a diamond to a prize-jacket jewel.
- Don't be a tell-tale.
- Don't be a sneak. The howling bull is not half as fearsome a foe as the silent snake which glides on you unawares.
- Don't be boozey. The girl who runs after the boys has as much chance of catching them as the cat who chases her tail.

WATER

The residents of the lower end of the town are complaining with good cause, that no efforts are being made by the council to provide water for those who live in this locality. For over fifty years a well was in use, in a convenient place, but this has been put out of commission by surroundings and neglect that has become part of a new order of things which should never have been tolerated. A pump could easily be put in this place, at a very small cost and it should be done at once by the town authorities. If the case is properly brought to the notice of the council we feel satisfied that favorable action will be taken. The present facilities for water are most inadequate, and the matter is one of much more importance than some other town affairs that are receiving attention at the present time.

ANOTHER YEAR

With this issue we enter upon the third year of Greetings. We have tried to please our readers, occasionally some have been displeased. From the many pleasant expressions of appreciation, which we have received, we feel that hundreds approve of the stand we have taken on most subjects pertaining to the public interest. If we have received some pretty harsh criticism at times, it was in the heat of discussion of public affairs, when we are all liable to lose our calm self possession. We have tried to arouse a mutual interest in the prosperity of our little town, and help along any enterprise that is for the best interests of the citizens. As we enter upon another year it will be our aim to give our readers profitable reading on all matters of vital interest. We extend our sincere thanks to subscribers, advertisers and all who have helped us to the success we have attained. Our efforts will always be for improvement along lines that will make Greetings worthy of the widest patronage.

WOMAN THE ETERNAL SAVAGE

According to Prof. Starr, of the University of Chicago, woman remains "the eternal savage." It is impossible to civilize her because "the fundamental nature of woman is barbaric."

Her fondness for deception, her love of finery, her very superstitions mark her as a "primitive," a being no further advanced than her sister of the jungle. "She thinks the old thoughts, feels the old emotions, is moved by the old impulses; she dresses in the old gewgaws; she is thrilled by the world-old hopes and fears." And it is on her possession of these characteristics, says Dr. Starr, that the continuance of the race depends.

This is perhaps the greatest tribute ever paid to women. They are shown to be nature's sole product that has resisted the processes of evolution. However, they came into the world, whether fashioned from a rib or not, they came perfect and complete like Athena from the brow of Zeus. They achieved the summum bonum of existence at a bound.

Prof. Starr will no doubt admit that woman while retaining her original savagery has improved on her sister of the jungle. The latter does not change her costume four times a day; her palm-tree trousseau serves for all occasions. Nor is she a connoisseur of cocktails.

But if we follow the Chicago anthropologist it is in the essential nature of her influences by means of personal charm that woman remains unchanged. It is still a question of the length of Cleopatra's nose and not of voting privileges or the higher education.--New York World.

BY THE WAY

In vacation time.

The poor street committee.

It is advisable to take out your false teeth before driving over some of the rough roads.

In picturesque scenery nature has done much for us, now let us make improvements to correspond.

Now is the time to go out and fight mosquitoes and bugs. Outings, with this form of amusement, are very interesting.

The next problem that confronts the town council is that of dogs, more dogs and lots of dogs. We have them, and should have the revenue that belongs to the business.

Don't grumble if your paper is not always flush up to the high standard of your ideal. Charitably remember that no editor is capable of getting up quite as good a paper as you could yourself.

In a small town like this the vice of rash judgement is altogether too common. Where people know nearly all their fellow citizens there are some who are so ungracious and so un-Christian as to attribute an evil motive when the actions are prompted by the best of motives, and they are rather disposed to relish a rumour that reflects against a neighbor. Everybody commits indiscretions, either wilfully or through ignorance or weakness; but harsh criticism and rash judgements do not help the offender, but shove him down. The golden rule should be applied in such cases.

"I canna' leave ye thus, Nancy, a good old Scotchman wailed. "Ye're auld to work an' ye couldna' live in the almshouse. Gin I die ye manna marry another man, wha'll keep ye in comfort in yer auld age."

"Nay, nay; Andy, answered the good spouse. "I couldna' wed another man, for what wad I do wi' twa husbands in Heaven?"

Andy pondered long over this; but suddenly his face brightened.

"I hae it, Nancy, he cried. "Ye ken auld John Cummens? He's a kind man, but he's na' member o' the kirk. He likes ye Nancy, an' gin ye'll marry him 'twill be all the same in Heaven--John's na Christian."

An eminent clergyman, addressing one of the recent church gatherings, took a pessimistic view of the present state of civilization. He held that the world was growing worse instead of better. The Woodstock Sentinel-Review thinks that the speaker failed to take account of the great silent forces that are bettering the condition of humanity. "There never was a time," says the Review, "when so many influences were at work for the benefit of mankind. The campaigns that are conducted throughout the civilized world against disease and ignorance and crime deserve to fill a very large space in any history of the period worth of the name of history. They may not bulk very large in the newspapers, but they are not to be ignored on that account. A few gabbling demagogues will make more noise, and attract more attention, than a whole army of patient and effective workers; but the work goes on just the same, whether it attracts attention or not, and there was probably never a time when the work for humanity was so thoroughly organized and so well directed as it is today, and when there were so many willing and capable hands available."--Toronto Star.

Artful Young Barney Kehoe

Will ye be for the Gap o' Dunloe I daurna!
Oh! I'm glad o' that same!
All the tourists think shame
To be missin' the Gap o' Dunloe--
They do so.

Now then whisper! Mayhap
When ye come on the Gap
Ye'll be seein' a lass
On the side o' the pass
That'll ax for the toll,
She's a dacent good son,
Though the eyes of her twinkle so droll
We'll, ye'll pay her the tax
An' ye'll wink an' ye'll ax:
"Would ye marry young Barney Kehoe?"

"'Tis a bit of a joke
That the folk love to poke
At the lass o' the Gap o' Dunloe.
An' it's where whin ye've done wid
Dunloe.

Will ye go?
Ye'll be wise to come back
By this very same track,
For there's little that's back o' Dunloe--
There is so
Sure, the hills are so bare
There's no scenery there
Like the kind that ye'll find
On this side, d'ye mind?
So I'll watch for the day
Whin ye're passin' this way
Hist to hear what the lass had to say,
When she made her reply
To the wink o' yer eye
An' yer joke at the Gap o' Dunloe--
Is it who may I be?
Ye'll find me, d'ye see,
Ye'll ask for young Barney Kehoe.
--T. A. Daily.

Mrs. Matthew Harding and her sister of Crow Harbor were in town Friday.

Charles Milliken was here last week, attending the funeral of his sister Mrs. Shaw.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. McWha and son of St. Stephen were visitors here last week.

Miss Bessie Carvell, who has been teaching at Canterbury is home for vacation.

Mr. M. T. Kane, of St. John, was in town this week placing some orders for granite.

Miss Agnes Crickard and Miss Jean Kelman went to St. Stephen on Monday's train.

Wm. Finnegan, who has an excellent position at East Millisocket, arrived home Saturday for a brief visit.

Miss Mollo McGarran and Miss Julia Murray spent last week at Blacks Harbor the guest of friends.

Mr. Louis Baldwin who has been teaching the high school at Centreville is home for vacation.

James Brine and several members of his family have arrived at Utopia, and are occupying their fine summer home.

Miss Fanny O'Brien is home from Loris Cove for vacation. Miss Edna O'Brien who has been visiting the island for the past week accompanied her.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving R. Todd left last evening for Montreal, whence they will sail for a visit to Great Britain and the continent. They expect to be absent until September.--Courier.

Misses Shay and Wheaton of L'Etang and Utopia schools, went to their homes on Friday.

Mrs. N. Richardson, of Mount Vernon was a passenger to St. John Friday.

THE GRANITE TOWN GREETINGS

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

A valuable horse belonging to M. E. Franley died Thursday night.

The thermometer has been hovering around the eighties in the shady spots for some days.

It is stated that gold bearing quartz has been located near one of the beaches at Lake Utopia.

The Militia Department has issued an order prohibiting the sale of liquor at the military camps.

The recent rains have ensured good crops. The appearance of everything growing has been changed.

Customs officers Clark of Campobello and Dixon of Grand Manan have received an increase in salaries.

The Sunday school convention for this county will be held at Lords Cove, Dear Island, Tuesday, August 24th.

Ina McConnell who had the misfortune to have his leg badly injured, as reported last week, is improving slowly.

A new Chinaman has come to town, having bought the business lately conducted by Lem Wah, who has gone to St. John.

The train left St. John Thursday with a large number of pleasure seekers, who stopped at different points along the road to spend the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fisher desire to extend their thanks to friends for the many acts of kindness rendered during the illness and death of their daughter, Vesta Elma.

Dr. E. H. Voss one of the best known and most highly respected citizens of Calais, died in that city Sunday. Dr. Voss was 71 years of age and served during the Civil war as a navy surgeon.

Invitations have been issued for an interesting event that will take place on Monday evening, July 12th, when Miss Eva McIntyre will be married to Mr. Wm. Berry of Laramie, Wyoming. The wedding will take place at the home of Mrs. Wm. McIntyre.

Dominion Day was a fine day and everybody enjoyed it. Many went out of town, a large number went to Blacks Harbor by boat and teams, a few spent the day at Lake Utopia. The granite mills and most of the stores were closed and those who remained in town spent the day quietly.

About thirty young men arrived at Camp Utopia last week. They will remain here during the summer and become familiar with outdoor life. They are the sons of wealthy Americans and are in the care of Dr. B. U. Seixas of Cornwall on the Hudson. Mr. B. Brine of New York is in charge of the camp and is assisted by a number of college professors from the large universities of the States. The camp is located a short distance above the bluff. The summer home of Mr. J. W. Brine faces the Lake and is surrounded by the forest. It is an ideal spot, between eighty and one hundred boys are expected this week. A large number of them are preparing for the army and navy of United States.

The hand tournament held Tuesday evening was an immense success. The five local bands, numbering over one hundred men, marched down Water street playing as if they had been a consolidated band for a number of years. The street was thronged with pedestrians, teams and automobiles. The rink probably never held a greater crowd than that which enjoyed the excellent concert program, and the dance at the close was well attended. The originators will have over $200 to hand to the veteran bandman, Patrick Nash, in whose behalf it was conducted.—Courier.

At the regular meeting of Red Granite Division held Wednesday evening, June 30th, the following officers were elected for next quarter.

Stuart McAdam, W. P.; Mrs. R. J. Dodds, W. A.; H. McKennie, R. S.; Jean McMan, Asst. R. S.; James Watt, Fin. Secty.; Edward Tayte, Treas.; A. Goss, Chaplin; Elmer McLaughlin, Cond.; Carrie Gillmor, Asst. Cond.; F. Hibbard, I. S.; John Dewar, O. S.; George Kernighan, P. W. P.; Miss Irene O'Brien, Organist; Miss Mary Russell, S. V. P. W.; Mrs. A. Goss, Asst. S. V. P. W.

The meetings of the Division are well attended and much interest is taken. Arrangements are being made for an excursion, to be held this month probably about 29th. It has not been decided where the excursion will go, but announcement will be made in due time.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

Mr. K. B. Wathan, was on the last day of school, presented by his pupils with a beautiful watch fob.

If you go away, or a visitor comes, send word to this office. News of this kind will help make your paper interesting.

Quite a large quantity of granite came in by rail last week. A lot of black stone is now being used for monumental purposes, this color seems to be the prevailing "style" at present.

A scouting party of soldiers from camp Sussex have been tenting at Lee's Hill during the past week. The soldiers are sent out each year to the different counties in the Province, they make a study of the country, become familiar with the roads and locate points good for defence, in case of attack by an invading force. In war they are the most important part of the army.

While no announcement has as yet been made regarding a successor to P. M. Wetmore, the late accountant of the N. B. S. Railway, it is not unlikely that the duties attached to the position, which included the complete charge of the train service, will be divided, Thomas Harris, Mr. Wetmore's assistant, assuming the office of accountant and the supervision of the train service being taken over by J. Walter Brown, train master for the C. P. R. on the Atlantic Division. This order of things went into effect the first of the present month. Much work is being done along the line of the road, and it is fast assuming first class order.—Telegraph.

The condition of the atmosphere on Thursday and Friday evenings of last week perhaps accounted for the mirage appearing in the southern portion of the sky. Apparently Grand Manan had flown skyward and was resting easy with the southern cross in evidence, far above mother earth. A number of citizens witnessed the illusion in which sea, islands, coves, ships, steamers, fishing boats, land and water were plainly visible. Many thought the view of a lone fisherman unhooking a large cod, so plainly visible to one of the interested gazers, was open to the criticism. Some went so far as to say the professors imagination was overworked. However, the illusion was perfect and the sight an unusual one in these parts.

The St. Stephen business college closed Friday for the summer holidays. Reopens Monday Sept. 7th.

The secretary of the department of commerce and labor has issued the following regulations regarding the equipment of motor boats.

All motor vessels, without regard to size or use, must be provided with an efficient whistle, an efficient fog horn, and an efficient bell. No size or style of whistle, fog horn or bell is prescribed, provided it is available and sufficient for the use for which it is intended. When navigated between sunset and sunrise, they must carry regulation lights, namely: a bright white light at the bow or head of the vessel; a green light on the starboard side and a red light on the port side, provided with proper screens. The side lights may be so affixed to the combing or to the sides of the deckhouse as to be properly screened, provided the lantern be backed with metal. When ever the green and red lights cannot be fixed, they must be kept lighted and ready for use.

The law does not appear to permit the use of a three color light, "combination" light. A white light aft, showing all around the horizon, should also be carried, to range with the headlight.

Such vessels are also required to have on board two printed copies of the rules which must be observed by them, which rules will be furnished by local inspectors of steam vessels on request.

Existing Conditions in the Great Canadian Silver Fields

A special correspondent of the Standard at Cobalt says: The rush of prospectors and capitalists daily from Latchford up the Montreal River was never as great any other season as this, and with the boats carrying their full loads already, and having to refuse business daily, it is unquestioned that the summer's boats and operations will by far eclipse the work of the last two summers. There is, according to reliable prospectors, considerable open ground yet, and it looks like the "early bird getting the worm" as the rush goes madly forward.

In so far as area is concerned, the Montreal River section, and Gowganda, as outlined or divided on the maps, it will be seen that the new mining areas are approximately seven townships square, or about fifty townships in extent.

While, of course, all of these townships, and in fact only a few of them have been proven to have rich surface deposits, it is a fact that the fine surface showings have been and are being made from month to month, and from week to week, and also in view of the fact that such a limited time has expired since the discovery and locating of several of the newer belts that the finds are truly wonderful, and sufficient to warrant a great amount of optimism in regard to the future of these newer belts.

Elk Lake and Maple Mountain Sections.
Of the newer belts, the Elk Lake and Maple Mountain sections seem to be entitled to about equal credit as to the time of discovery, and also in results, according to the time and money spent in actual prospecting. Peculiarly enough, the belt around Maple Mountain at first appeared limited to a small area, and it also seemed apparent that the saying of far-off fields look greener applied, and the Maple Mountain was passed up for the far-away fields while Maple Mountain is on a straight line west of Cobalt.

Maple Mountain has but one stock proposition, but from a comparatively small amount of work, the district has one real mine with high grade shipping ore; generally considered the equal of the Cobalt average mine. This is the Canadian Ores Limited, or the White syndicate, often called on account of being a close corporation. The Maple Mountain Mining Company is another property which seems to have ample promise. The Le Roy properties are held by the owners for development, in spite of tempting offers to poor men. The Enright property has been sold for a price said to aggregate $100,000 and numerous others have attracted enough attention to command large cash offers. The Ogilvie properties, although receiving very little attention are surely coming to the front and will produce some history for the Maple Mountain district.

Willet, Smythe, Tudhope and James Townships.
Down in the corner of Willet the Lucky Godfrey crowd has given an option on its properties, six in number at $750,000 and the payments are being made regularly, so that it looks like a sale in earnest. In Smythe Township several very promising properties have been opened up in the diabase belt, amongst the best of these being the Watts property, owned by eastern capitalists, who are developing it with very encouraging results. Starting on the surface with a mere crack, at a depth of 23 feet a vein of solid metal from two to four inches, running high in silver values, being the latest development. In Tudhope Township there are a number of very promising properties, including the Harbeck, Munroe, Holden and others, including the Kennedy properties now being developed with good results by the Alliance Silver Mines Company.

In James Township there are a number of plants also equipped with compressor plants, amongst which are the Langham and the Gavin-Hamilton, both of which are considered to be coming into the producing high grade class during the coming summer.

At Silver Lake the Otisse and Otisse-Curie have been equipped with compressor plants large enough to cover all needs for a long time to come. Both properties are rich in ore and could be shipping now if transportation were provided. A number of other properties in this section are showing up to good advantage and will be heard from soon. Going to the number of native silver surface attractions was strong, and several properties have changed hands at fancy prices.

At Miller and Bloom Lake there are a number of properties which have proven so rich, or at least have given such indication from surface discoveries and from a meagre amount of development that the owners have felt well enough of them to equip with up-to-date machinery, and good things are looked for from several properties such as Sifton-O'Brien properties, the Bensall, Blackbourne and others.

Shining Tree, Smoothwater and Gowganda.
Shining Tree Lake is situated on the boundary line of Muskoka and is considered very promising. One syndicate which took up some 30 claims during the rush in there, has done a considerable amount of assessment work, and according to their own report, have important native silver discoveries on nine properties. Smoothwater seems to be in more popular favor up to the present than any of the newer sections staked during the winters rush. Several strong syndicates are interested there and are very optimistic. Obushkong, Hangingstone and several of the other lake sections seem to be all tributary to the better known and more mentioned sections, and all have their rich discoveries and entitled to consideration.

There are a number of properties in the Gowganda section which give great promise. These include the Lobbie-Reeves, Boyd-Gordon, Mann, Silveretta and others, which have small quantities of small grade ore stacked; but time and development work should block out a wealth of ore bodies on such veins with native silver showings as are found on so many properties in this section.

The country around Gowganda during the next few months undoubtedly will be productive of impressive phenomena rich strikes, and finds of greater or lesser importance but there are also disappointments in store for some of the unwary, who bought claims snow-covered and unprospected, and it is evident that a considerable proportion to the large area staked will not prove of value by reason of so many crimes being staked in the quartile, where nobody at present expects to find silver values.

A tickling or dry cough can be quickly loosened with Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. No opium, no chloroform, nothing unsafe or harsh. Sold by All Dealers.

Today's Activities of Women

The International Women's Council is chiefly significant as marking the social changes which distinction the beginning of the Twentieth Century from the conditions of a hundred years ago. In the course of a century modern world has undergone an amazing transformation in its social and political fashions. Women have invaded a hundred avocations. They are in the ships, in the schools and in the churches. They are out on mission fields, on Boards of Education and in the Civil Services. They are influential in the great causes of social and moral reform. They press hard for political equality and an equal franchise.

Women have done much to develop what we call the world conscience. It is this conscience that will express itself during the next two weeks in the deliberations of the Congress.
Never in the world's history were women organized for so many diverse ministrations, and so mighty in alleviating human misery, in purifying human refuse, in pouring sunlight into the dark places of great cities, in carrying succor and healing to the lonely settlers in remote forests and on wide, vacant prairies.—Toronto News.

SEEING IT THROUGH

The young man absorbed in his paper, felt a sudden weight on his shoulder. He turned around and saw that a girl, who had been standing in the aisle was leaning heavily against him.

In a moment he had given her his seat. She sank into it with a little gasp. Her pale face, her sudden weakness showed that she was ill. He reproached himself for not looking around. She was a little back of his seat in the narrow aisle and he had not seen her.

"Where do you leave the car?" he asked.

"At Hepburn avenue," she faintly answered.

"Hepburn avenue," the conductor called.

The young man arose without looking at the girl. He was conscious that she arose, too, and close behind him as they walked down the aisle. He stepped to the ground and waited for her. His hand gripped her arm firmly as she swayed from him. The car rattled away as they stood there, the conductor looking back and warning them of the approach of another car.

"Which way?" the young man asked.

The girl pointed up the street.

"I'm better," she murmured. "The air revives me. I—I can walk alone."

But she swayed again as she took a step forward. He held her firmly as he walked by her side.

Presently they paused before a cottage.

"This is my home," she murmured.

He led her up the pathway and on to the little porch.

Before he could knock at the door it was suddenly opened by a grey-haired woman.

"Mercy!" she cried. "What's happened?"

The young man helped the girl in to the hall and the grey-haired woman took her from him.

"The young lady was taken ill in the car," he said.

"Poor child," murmured the woman as she half supported, half led the girl into the rear of the room. "Please wait a moment, sir," she called back.

"Take a seat in the parlor."

He was looking about the quaint room, the grey-haired woman entered.

"My niece is better," she said. "A cup of tea done her a lot of good and she's lying down. She wanted me to thank you."

"There must be some explanation for this," said the young man.

"There is," the woman promptly replied.

"She's stage struck."

The young man nodded.

"A rather serious complaint," he said.

"It is," the woman replied. "You saw one of its effects tonight." She paused and glanced toward the door. Then her voice dropped. "Ella's a nice girl, a sweet and lovable child. But she has got it into her head that she wants to be an actress. She has a good place down town as a stenographer in a big office, and she earns very fair pay. A girl who worked her with went on the stage about a year ago and she keeps writing to Ella about the fine life it is. I don't know how much truth there is in the girl's letters—she was always a harem-scarum sort, but Ella believes every word that's in them. An' she's getting ready to go on, as she calls it."

She's taking ellycution lessons and dancing lessons besides doing her regular work, and she simply can't stand it. She's delicate, like her mother, an' this climate aint jest right for her, but she forgets all discretion when she thinks of actin'.

It was a long dancing lesson that she took after her regular work that brought on that fainting spell."

The young man looked thoughtful.

"I must ask you to excuse me," he said.

"My friends may begin to worry."

"I wish you'd tell them what detained you," said the woman. "They would not think any the less of you. May I ask your name?"

"It is Greer, Dunham Greer."

"I won't forget it, Mr. Greer," said the woman. "Perhaps I have been a little presumptuous to talk the way I did. I haven't even asked you your opinion about the stage."

The young man laughed.

"You may rest assured that I agree with you about our friend in the next room." He put out his hand. "I bid you good night, madam," he said "and thank you for your confidence."

Dunham found the favorite actress in excellent spirits. She was pleased to meet Mr. Greer. She had heard of him and of his father, and she had met his sister and her titled husband at a garden party in a London suburb.

She remembered with pleasure that when she was arranging a benefit for a sister actress in financial distress, the elder Greer had bought a box for $200 and told her to sell it again.

And how could she serve the son of this worthy father?

"I am going to ask a peculiar favor,"

Dunham responded. "I'll dread it to you abruptly. I want you to disengage a certain young woman with the stage."

"There is much to tell except the result," replied the tall young man.

"Ella came home and for a while was very quiet, and her aunt could see that she had been crying. But Mrs. Hinton is a wise woman—despite her talkativeness—and she asked no questions. And then I came in and right away Ella said, 'Do you still want me, George?' Of course, you know the sort of an answer I gave her. And she cried some more—but it's all right, and we are to be married week after next and start for Pasadena right away. I wish you could come to our wedding."

"Thank you," said Dunham. "I'd come gladly, but I must be in New York at that time. Perhaps I will call on you in Pasadena."

"No one could be more welcome," said the tall young man, and he again shook hands.

"I saw Miss Massinger last night," said Dunham. "She told me she was much attracted by Miss Ella's personality, and that she was very sorry to cause her distress." He drew a little box from his pocket. "Miss Massinger sends Ella this wedding gift, and wishes her every happiness."

When George Ellmore had gone, Dunham Greer smiled whimsically.

"It looks as if this little affair would turn out very well," he murmured to himself. "Anyway, Dunnie, you had to make good with that trusting old auntie."—Plain Dealer.

A falling tiny nerve—no longer than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or falling Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of the ailments—These weak and altering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sick ness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by All Dealers.

A Readers Opinion

Do you realize that the "real" man does not make a good lover? No; the right sort of men are not good at love-making—that is to say, the man whom every nice girl hopes to marry. Men as a sex make much better husbands than lovers, and it is a wise woman who will remember that the worth of the future husband is often to be measured by the inverse of his skill and finesse as a lover.

Do not allow yourself to grow despondent if your lover is slow and ill at ease in making love. It does not mean that he loves you any the less, but rather that he will make a far better husband than the sweetheart who is full of sweet nothings and happy phrases.

All this being true, be careful that you do not ask too much of men as lovers. It is foolish to be disappointed because your finance does not, after the first glamour has passed, seem to have walked right out of a novel or a play.

GROUP stopped in 20 minutes with Dr. Shoop's Croup Remedy. One look will surely prove. No vomiting, no diarrhea. A safe and pleasing syrup—50c. Druggists.

A Bachelor's Reflections

When a woman will she will. Put that in your pipe and smoke it. And when she won't she won't, and that's no pipe-dream.

There are only two kinds of women—one whose clothes seem to belong to her, and one who seems to belong to her clothes.

You can always tell by the way children talk to each other just what sort of mothers they have.

When an old bachelor dies and leaves all his money to the woman who wouldn't marry him when she was a girl, it is generally out of gratitude.

Nothing in the way of a cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babies. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by All Dealers.

The "Next Step" With the Boy

There is nothing seriously wrong with the boys today. They are as bright as any previous lot of boys. The schools were never better. But the next step to be taken—and it seems likely to be taken—is to ascertain early in a pupil's school career how far he is going and how long the school system can have him in hand. Then he can be taught accordingly. If it is expected that he will be able to take a full educational course, wiser foundation can be laid than if he is likely to be taken out of school as soon as he is old enough to earn his own support. Boys of the latter class should, of course, be the chief care of the public School system, because they are more numerous than the other classes, and what they do not get in the Public Schools most of them will never get elsewhere. It seems evident that the education of these should be made as practical and useful as it is possible to make it.—Toronto Star.

Waterloo

Ninety-four years ago on June 18, 1815 the battle of Waterloo was fought, and the Empire of Napoleon annihilated.

If Great Britain had not interposed her arm between Bonaparte and Prussia, and opened her purse to Prussia, needs, there would be no German Empire existence to-day, and Germany would not be in a position to threaten Great Britain with rivalry either in industry or naval armament. The humanizing progress the world has made since the fate of Europe was decided on the field of Waterloo is encouraging. Another Waterloo is not impossible, but industry and commerce more than armies of soldiers, will decide the destiny of nature in the future.

No Place to Linger In.

Professor A. Lowell, the new president of Harvard, paused in one of his recent lectures and smiled.

"That Governmental difficulty," he said, "was great—as great as the difficulty of Lincoln's farm hand."

"Two farm hands, Lincoln used to say, were set upon a huge bull while crossing a rocky field. One managed to gain a tree. The other took refuge in a hole that proved to have an exit in the rear."

"The man who had chosen the hole was no sooner in at one end than he was out at the other. With a bellow the bull made for him. He turned and again shot like lightning through the hole. The bull once more bore down upon him and once more he was in and out of his hole."

"This strange pursuit kept some ten minutes or more. At first it mystified the farm hand up in the tree; then it angered him."

"Hey," he shouted, "ye silly nincompoop! Why don't ye stay in the hole?"

"The bull was dashing from one end of the hole to the other at great speed, and the man was bobbing in and out desperately. He heard, however, his comrade's shout, and found time before his next brief disappearance to shout back:—"

"Silly nincompoop yourself! There's a bear in the hole!"

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. Question for Every Reader

If you could find a simple vegetable remedy for keeping all organs healthy and strong—wouldn't you use it? Most pills are harsh, cause pain, and sick stomach. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are different. They regulate and cleanse the system so gently, act so silently you scarcely realize you've taken medicine. You are cleansed—appetite improved—color clears—sleep is restored. Every man, woman and child is helped by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Try a 25c. box.

Obituary

Letter of Condolence

To Mrs. Oscar Hanson

Dear Friend:

We the officers and members of L. O. L. No. 92 desire to convey to you our sincere and heartfelt sympathy in the hour of your bereavement. You have lost a kind and loving husband; we a true and trusted brother who had been with our Lodge for several years.

Bound as we are in Christian brotherhood your sorrow is our sorrow.

Our prayer is that God, who saw fit to take your loved one to His eternal home, may give you grace sufficient to overcome your sorrow and to say "Thy will be done." And we pray that we may all be so guided that when we are called away we shall be prepared to meet together in that grand lodge above, where parting is no more.

Signed on behalf of King Edward L. O. L. No. 92

FRED GILLESPIE, W. M.
ROBERT AKERLEY, R. Sec.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Wallace Shaw was held Wednesday afternoon from her late residence, and was attended by a large number of citizens. The funeral services at the church and grave were conducted by Rev. H. I. Lyndis. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, all testifying to the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

George B. Craig an old and respected resident of Second Falls passed away on Wednesday at the age of 73 years. The funeral took place on Friday.
