CUBAN MARKET MAY BE RETAINED

The following correspondence received at the moment of going to press will be read with great interest. (From T. W. Caldwell, M. P., Ottawa)

In connection with the matter of proposed Cuban tariff which threatens to shut us out of the Cuban potato and lumber market, I am pleased to say that the Department of Finance started their representative for Cuba on the 10 inst to see what could be done to avert this catastrophe.

Mr. Fielding had him come in and talk the whole matter over with me before he left, and he seemed to be very willing to meet our views as to what should be done in the matter. I hope we may be able to come to some arrangement with the Cuban Government whereby we may still retain the Cuban market for our potatoes and lumber, as well as a lot of other minor commodities that are produced in Canada and for which we must have an outlet.

I am also enclosing a telegram which I received from the Moncton Board of Trade one day recently and a copy of my reply.

In talking to a number of the Maritime province men I find a good many of them agree with me on this matter, but I would like to know how many of them voiced their opinion as freely as I did when they replied to the Board of Trade.

T. W. CALDWELL

T. W. Caldwell, M. P.
Press reports state eastern division Canadian National Railways commenced at River Du Loup. This is a retrograde movement and not only robs Maritime Provinces of large mileage, but increases staff of central division at expense of the Maritimes. We protest emphatically and demand eastern division extend east from Montreal and Cochrane.

We rely upon immediate protest from every Maritime member of Parliament and board of trade. And respectfully ask vigorous co-operation from you. Reply Moncton Board of Trade.

F. E. Dennison, President
W. H. Price, Secretary

Mr. F. E. Dennison, President Board of Trade, Moncton, N. B.

Dear Sir,

Your telegram received this morning and contents noted and in reply would say that I am very sorry your Board of Trade has seen fit to take action outlined in your telegram, as I am one of those who believe that the national owned railways in Canada will never be made successful, so long as Board of Trade and politicians dictate the policy.

I would like to call your attention to the speech of the Minister of Railways in the House yesterday in which he said that in the operation of the system by the Board of Directors there should be no interference by the Government or any person outside of the National Railway Board and I hope the Government will adhere strictly to this principle.

To my mind, if Sir Henry Thornton is big enough to manage the Canadian Government Railways, he would not tolerate such interference and if he is not big enough to successfully handle the Canadian Government Railways, such interference will not add to his efficiency and if through such interferences the government roads are handicapped in management, Sir Henry Thornton and the Board of Directors will be the ones who will bear the blame. Therefore, I say "Hands off" and give the present Board of Directors a chance to demonstrate without political interference what can be done in the way of putting the Canadian Government Railways System on a paying basis.

Respectfully yours,
T. W. CALDWELL

SCHOOL MEETING LARGELY ATTENDED

The Board of school Trustees requested chief supt. W. S. Carter to authorize Inspector L. A. Moore to call a special meeting of the ratepayers at the school house, Tuesday evening, Feb. 13, to deal further with the question of improved accommodation.

The response was excellent—one of the large class rooms being filled to capacity by a deeply interested and attentive assembly of some 75 or 80 men. The best of order and good feeling prevailed, the meeting being ably presided over by E. C. Morgan, who filled the office of chairman in a very creditable and acceptable manner. The difficulty of this position can only be appreciated by those who have had some experience along these lines who were present and noted the number of rulings required, many motions and amendments being declared out of order.

After the minutes of the general meeting held July 23, 1922 had been read a report of the trustees was presented by the secretary, J. S. King. The first part of this report dealt with the general improvements made since the annual meeting. A new classroom had been provided and furnished, another teacher engaged, making six room with six teachers. A fine globe, a large dictionary, several maps, teacher's desk and a number of cabinets had been added. The ventilation and heating had been given further attention and the fire risk gone over again carefully and made acceptable to the insurance agents.

The July meeting had passed a motion calling for the building of a new school house on the present lot. The second part of the report went into the difficulties met by the trustees with regard to this matter. Money had been voted to build the house and do the excavating for basement and foundation but nothing for draining or filling and grading up the swampy back portion of the lot. A sewer would be required to care for this drainage and for the use of the school. This would have to be done to meet the requirements of the school law and before the inspector would sanction the site. It was considered useless to start building until this work was done. It was also felt to be unwise to place a new building on the southern side of the lot, leaving the old house in its present position. A new house ought to occupy the centre of the grounds and the old one moved away or torn down. This would interrupt school for the fall term or the greater part of it. Again our town workmen and builders were pretty busy on the various churches and private houses going up or being remodelled.

And further the business outlook and hard times made the Board hesitate to add to the tax payers burdens at this time. However plans and estimates for a large ten room building such as was acceptable to the July meeting were got ready, also plans for an addition to the present house of about the same size, providing eight class rooms with working rooms on the third storey if desired, giving two play rooms in the basement, two new furnaces, up-to-date closets, the present basement deepened and building raised, present class rooms to be floored, plastered and provided with metal ceilings.

The director of the Vocational Education Board was got in touch with in order to secure, if possible grants from that fund for building equipment and teachers salary along the line of vocational work.

The inspector had made a survey of the grounds during the summer and was again called upon to make another inspection and report to the meeting.

Before discussion was begun on the report the inspector's report was read giving his approval of the school garden site, but refusing to sanction either a new building or an annex on the present site in its present condition. He considered that these grounds could be put in proper condition so as to satisfy the most exacting official, but felt that he could not approve of anything less than a new building.

James Faulkner was given permission to demonstrate his plans for the annex, which he had ready on the blackboard. He stated a price of $14,800 for the total.

Burt's flat so-called was put forward as a new site, but the meeting very wisely side-stepped and refused to vote money for its purchase or for draining and putting into proper shape, either that grounds or the present lot. It also refused to add to the present standing vote of $25,000 for a new building, the general feeling being that plans and estimates should be submitted and tenders called for these things first.

The builder having the plans and estimates for the new building was not present at the meeting. These plans had been approved by the inspector.

A motion recommending Burt's flat to the consideration of the Trustees and inspector as a site for the new house got by the meeting 20 to 19.

Adjournment was made about 11.30. J. S. KING, Sec'y.

Are Red Rose Ads. read?

We often wonder---

The following letter appears to answer the question.

Halifax, N. S., January 26th, 1923.

Halifax Herald: Re your contest for display advertising. In my opinion, today's best advertisement is that which appears on page Thirteen, displaying "RED ROSE TEA." This ad. is noticed immediately on account of where it appears on the page, also the black ground and white letters. This cannot but be noticed. The wording is very brief, and would be read by most people reading this paper.

Mother and Her Baby Are Relieved of Eczema

Mrs. Peter A. Palmer, Salt Burn, Sask., writes: "Dr. Chase's Ointment has completely relieved me of eczema and piles. I also used this Ointment for my baby, who broke out in eczema. A few applications were all that was necessary in her case. Dr. Chase's Ointment has been worth a hundred dollars to me—before using it I had spent a great deal more than that in unsuccessful treatment from doctors. We have also used Dr. Chase's other medicines, the Nerve Food having restored my health after suffering from severe nerve trouble when a girl."

Didn't Play 'Em.
A prominent American banker told of a conversation he had with Rt. Hon. Reginald McKenna two years ago and another he had a few months ago. In the chat two years ago, he says, Mr. McKenna was by no means cheerful in his view of the British banking outlook.

"You Americans hold all the high cards," is the way he expressed himself. In the chat a few months ago the American referred to that statement.

"Ah, yes," Mr. McKenna remarked. "You held all the high cards, but you didn't play them."

Lucky Explanation.
Mrs. Tombley: "Our cook says those eggs you sent yesterday were quite old, 'scooby.' Very sorry, ma'am. They were the best we could get. You see, all the young chickens were killed off for the holiday trade, so the old hens are the only ones left to do the laying." Mrs. Tombley: "Oh, to be sure! I hadn't thought of that."

Charge by Weight.
A thin man resented the lateral pressure of a fat man on the same seat in the street car. He said: "They ought to charge by weight in these cars." "If they did," said the fat man, "you'd have to walk. They couldn't afford to stop for you."

The Australian Crane.
The Australian crane, one of the neatest of known birds, has the smallest wing surface, yet it flies the longest and most arduous journey, and with the exception of the eagle, rises the highest and sustains itself at the height longest.

BATH BREEZES

History relates that since Feb. 14, 306 A. D. when St. Valentine was beheaded at Rome, that Valentines symbolic of love and hate have been broadcasted, both to friends and enemies. History repeats itself and you who have received caricatures, be they from friend or foe, be careful not to injure the anonymous senders. They may bring to light some deficiency worth more to you than their weight in gold.

On last Friday evening members of the Florenceville Methodist church, staged a very well patronized concert in the Elite Theatre, entitled, "The Old District School." The various members of the comedy are to be commended upon their efforts. In no way slighting anyone, consideration marked approval was accorded the dunces upon his histrionic ability.

During the past week the home of Joseph Davenport was called upon by the Stark. Friends are congratulating the happy parents upon the arrival of twins. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pickard were like recipients.

The many friends of Donald Campbell a very popular commercial traveler who for years past represented the firm of Jas. Neil & Company of Fredericton, will regret to hear of his untimely death, due to pneumonia after an illness scarcely a week in duration. The unbounded sympathy of his acquaintances go to his bereaved wife and family.

Hanford Kingston has recovered sufficiently from his recent illness to attend once more to business. Mrs. Kingston however, has been ill. Her many friends hope that it may not be serious.

On last Wednesday evening a bonny supper followed by a radio concert was held in Tara Hall, Johnville. Quite a number of young people from this place attended.

The Consolidated Telephone Co. Ltd., a local organization and formerly local in its scope, now offers provincial and even international service, since connections can now be made over the New Brunswick long distance lines. This greatly enhances value of the telephone to every subscriber and without doubt will be much appreciated by them.

Cards have been received here by several friends of Edwin Hand, formerly of the staff of C. E. Gallagher Co., that he has safely arrived in California. His many friends wish him every success in the sunny state of his adoption.

Charles F. Gallagher spent several days last week in St. John. Geo. Estabrooks spent the week-end at his home in Centreville.

Mrs. Stanley Barker and little daughter, Miss Winnifred made a trip to St. John last week.

William Brennan, book-keeper for L. Lockhart, Bristol, spent the week-end at his home here. He reports brisk times in lumbering operations on the Shikahawk.

Arthur Drost, has returned from Juniper, where he had charge of the electrical equipment in the new mill erected by George Upham on the North branch of the Miramichi.

Donald Nixon has gone to Presque Isle where he is employed with the C.P.R.

The Greeks and Romans of Antiquity revelled in sport, racing with them was no exception and the same trait seems to be a predominant factor in those of our own age, for the racing enthusiasts of this place have cleared a track on the St. John river the dimensions of which are approximately 30 feet wide and one quarter of a mile in length. This track had been contemplated for some time past and in fact the first races were on Christmas day, and proved to be such a success that the promoters were urged to even greater efforts. But progress in this direction was impeded by the severe storms. However after three days of scraping and snow ploughing an interesting series of races were held on Saturday last. Though the entries were few, still new horse-flesh was introduced. The promoters of the track were backed by public subscriptions and are from that very fact commended by the public and urged to further efforts. This might be called socialist sporting venture as no red tape binds the entries. So bring on your horse-flesh. Competition is the life of trade incidentally of sport also.

SERIOUS TEA SHORTAGE

It is estimated that the world's production of tea last year only amounted to six hundred and twenty million pounds and as the normal annual consumption is approximately seven hundred million pounds this tremendous shortage has caused quite a panic in tea circles. GRAND FALLS WATER POWER

The Grand Falls Board of Trade is still receiving communications from towns situated in different parts of the province, endorsing the stand that this board has taken to firmly oppose any further extension being granted to the present holders of the rights controlling the great natural water power at Grand Falls. The fact that such communications are coming from towns along the St. John river from Fredericton to Edmundston, inclusive, and from the North Shore district goes to show that the people of the province are aware that their interests in this great asset must be protected from such improper handling.

Every community of the province is hungry for cheap power to develop industries and for comfort and convenience. "That hydro-electric development is the key to the development and progress of our province," is a phrase that comes from the lips of most every resident of New Brunswick, from day to day, therefore, the past thirty years, this matter should be given serious thought by all who have the welfare of the people and the future of the province at heart. In justice to themselves and to the progress of New Brunswick the people cannot and will not stand for any more dilly-dallying.

FOR ALL THE FAMILY

Rupert Hughes' latest picture, a super-production made by the Goldwyn Company, should be seen and enjoyed by every member of the family. It is called "Rememberance" and is being presented at Hartland March 8 and at Centreville March 10.

The story deals with just such a family as can be found in any American city—a family that has achieved social and financial success and is branching out with an ambitious flourish. Only the father, "Poor Old Pop," the man who built up a small business into a successful department store remains unspoiled.

Pop is expected to work and pay the bills while the rest of the family have a good time. This is the situation when he collapses under the strain and suffers an illness that threatens his life.

First of all, Rupert Hughes has written a gripping human story but back of it there is a warning against selfishness and thoughtlessness that cannot well be missed. Pop is a beautifully sympathetic figure. He sacrifices himself uncomplainingly and the mother and children accept everything regardless of cost. No one can see "Rememberance" without profiting by the story of love it unfolds and the warning against selfishness. Claude Gillingwater a well known stage actor, gives a memorable portrayal of the father.

SLEIGHING PARTY HAD JOLLY TIME

On Friday of last week, the superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school, A. Plummer, in conjunction with C. S. Baker and J. E. McCollom, gave a sleighing party for the young ladies of Mr. McCollom's class, the "Ever Ready's," and the young girls of Mr. Baker's class, the objective point being Fred Grey's lumber camp in the woods off the East Brighton road.

Two large double sleds were filled to their fullest capacity with girls, snowshoes, oysters and other good things to eat.

The first sled load got away shortly after four o'clock, and the later afternoon was most beautiful. Everything went along as merry as a wedding bell until the woods were reached, and the driver, not knowing the road very well, and there being many of them branching off into the woods, was some doubtful which one to take. Consulting "his man Friday" in the person of W. B. Nixon, they decided upon a certain road which proved not the right. After making several circles in the deep forest, and the young ladies also trying to assist by unloading and making whirling dervishes of themselves they all finally stood stock still and owned that they were LOST! My, it was exciting! Well, the verdict was "Git for home, Bruno," if north, south, east or west could be discovered. Amid the howls of wolves (imaginary) and the prospect of a night in the forest and freezing to death the team was turned into a road hoping it possibly might bring up to a haven somewhere.

Sighting a house in the far distance (a clearing having been reached) Man Friday Hiawathaed toward it. The inmates said "yes, the road was right and the camp about a mile further on." Also said the other team-load, which had started about half an hour behind the first, had passed by about half an hour before. Then the cries were turned to rejoicing, and by this time could be heard the calls of our would be rescuers—the other party who arrived at the camp. Following the hub-bub sound party met. Alas! the party who were the last party to start, and the first to arrive. Instead of a feeling of anxiety for the lost party were indignant because the lost, first, last party had all the eats and all they had was a roaring good fire with which to cook nothing.

Well as in fiction and sometimes in real life, everything ended happily. Such oysters, such coffee, such other good things to eat never were tasted before. A jolly good time followed, then amidst a silence called for by the superintendent and a few words by him "Praise God from whom all Blessings Flow" was sung heartily and reverently.

At 9.30 camp was broken and the start for home was made—a most gorgeous night was made a ride most wonderful! Those of the party beside the four gentlemen were George Rideout, who the party thanks for his big, strong team; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Grey, whose guests, in a way, the party were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Plummer, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Nixon, the Misses Reta Murdoch, Edna Allen, Mary Carr, Marguerite Palmer, Minnie Melville, Annie Kingston, Marion Stevens, Anna Carpenter, Margaret Stevens, Velma McCollom, Jennie Boyer, Ruth Boyer, Margaret Green and Beatrice Tompkins.

WOODSTOCK NOTES

The new Town Council held their first meeting last week and organized for the year's business, appointing standing committees, etc. J. S. Leighton was appointed principal assessor with an increase of salary of $150, while the other two assessors receive $25 less than last year. Mr. Leighton is an excellent official. Evidently the Town fathers consider the other two assessors simply as dinglers and only appoint them to keep within the law. Everything is in readiness for the new Town Manager, March 1.

The buildings of Hubert Nelson, who lives at Iron Ore Hill, were completely destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon, also a three-year old colt and a cow. Mr. Nelson is working in Woodstock and his wife had just come in to see him, leaving nobody at home. The only near neighbor noticed the flames and succeeded in saving the balance of the stock.

Seven of the members of the drying club, headed by the mayor of the town, journeyed to Houlton on Wednesday afternoon by train to attend the Jackson Gratton banquet. All had a thoroughly good time and the banquet was a success from the horsemen's point of view.

J. D. Black in a recent communication to the Daily Journal eulogized Jackson Gratton and his new driver, E. Sunderlin, expressing the opinion that he would make the other Aroostook flyers go home. Evidently he does not consider our good horse, Dan Hedgewood, in their class as he failed to even mention him in connection with next season's racing. We hope before next summer's racing is over that Mr. Black will have to sit up and take notice even if Dan is owned in the insignificant town of Woodstock.

The different track and racing managers will soon have to get together and decide who is who and where they will race the coming season. Already three provincial tracks are looking for a July 1 meeting, July 4 as usual will be celebrated in Houlton and also in Caribou. Then in all probability everyone will get together at Woodstock July 12 for the biggest race meet ever held in the province. Already a number of outside stables are talking of coming down east for the summer circuit. They usually bring good stuff and make the racing interesting.

That darned groundhog must know his business as our second winter is away to a flying start. Did anybody ever see such steady cold weather?

EX-POSTMASTER PRAISES TANLAC

Declares It Restored Him Completely When Almost Helpless From Rheumatism

Joseph Frederick Warren, a well known resident of 1156 21st St., East Vancouver, B. C., Post Master, at one time, for sixteen years at Cornwall, Prince Edward Island, recently gave out the following statement regarding Tanlac:

"Tanlac made such a wonderful improvement in my health two years ago that I have been a staunch supporter of it ever since. I consider it the greatest medicine for rheumatism, loss of appetite and a run-down system in the world."

"The rheumatism had got so bad in my arms, shoulders and hips I was forced to quit work. I couldn't take a step or move a muscle without suffering torture and at times I couldn't even put my coat on. My appetite went back on me, too, and I was run-down all over."

"Well, five bottles of Tanlac rid me of the whole thing and built me up so that I have enjoyed good health ever since. I have never come across the equal of Tanlac in all the seventy-two years of my life."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35-million bottles sold.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Since taking the 'Vegetable Compound' my weakness has left me and the pain in my back has gone. I tell all my friends who are troubled with female weakness to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I think it is the best medicine ever sold. You may advertise my letter."—Mrs. GEORGE I. CROUSE, Hemford, N. S.

My First Child

Glen Allen, Alabama.—"I have been greatly benefited by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for bearing-down feelings and pains. I was troubled in this way for nearly four years following the birth of my first child, and at times could hardly stand on my feet. A neighbor recommended the Vegetable Compound to me after I had taken doctor's medicines without much benefit. It has relieved my pains and gives me strength. I recommend it and give you permission to use my testimonial letter."—Mrs. IDA RYE, Glen Allen, Alabama.

The Czarina and Rasputin

Dr. I. V. Hesse, the distinguished Russian publicist, who is at present in Berlin, is in possession of the complete letters of the ill-fated czarina to Nicholas II., and he says that they are the most sensational documents that have appeared in the last few years. The czar's answers are supposed to be in existence and they may be published later. Taken together they would give a clear enough history of Russia in the war if no other records were preserved. But the czarina's letters are most interesting from the personal side. What they tell indirectly about her own character and that of the czar and about Rasputin, the evil genius of the Romanoffs, and other powerful and sinister figures at the Russian Court, constitutes as sensational a story as any writer of fiction of the time has imagined.

Reading them one understands how impossible it would have been for Russia to stay in the war to the end and make a sustained contribution to it commensurate with her potential resources of man power. One pities the Russian people and soldiers who had for their king such a pitiful weakling as the czar, influenced by such a woman as the czarina, who was certainly not well balanced, and she in her turn being instructed by the coarse and ignorant libertine Rasputin. The suspicion that the monk was the center of some international military espionage organization is strengthened by some of the passages in the czarina's letters. He was angry if any important military decision was made without his knowledge. He insisted upon being kept informed as to what was going on at the front, and reports were made to him. It seems improbable that he could understand half of the information that thus reached him. Unless he was merely displaying his arrogance, it seems not unlikely that his information was passed on to quarters where it could be understood and valued.

Another character little heard of abroad appears frequently in the letters. That is Anna Vrubova, a young woman who was married to a naval officer, but soon divorced him. She was then presented by the czar with a little house near the Imperial Palace and between her and the czarina there grew up a mysterious friendship that has never been explained. The czarina appeared to be infatuated with the woman and showed jealousy of her. At the same time she was always thrusting her upon the notice of the czar. She was also a confidante of Rasputin's, and exerted influence in the highest court circles, having to her credit at least one cabinet appointment. She appears to have been a woman of abominable character and the czarina writes to the czar about her escapades, at the same time confessing her deep regard for her.

The intimate relations with the gross, drunken, debauched, filthy monk, Rasputin, with the imperial family, naturally led to rumors which reflected upon the czarina. But these appear to have been groundless. The czarina was probably a virtuous wife, although not the less likely on that account to bring about the ruin of her husband. She was a religious fanatic, and seemed to believe that by the mere expedient of burning an extra large candle or spending a few extra minutes in prayer, she could correct military reverses and throw back German armies. She was as superstitious as any peasant, and it was upon this weakness that Rasputin worked. He predicted that certain things would come to pass, and perhaps one out of ten would justify him. He would explain that the others had not occurred because they had not been prayed for with sufficient earnestness. Thus whatever happened he was always right.

In her letters the czarina speaks occasionally of the old man's fondness for wine, but his other debaucheries she passed over. The truth is that while Rasputin was so feared in Russia that women of the highest society were throwing themselves at his feet, he preferred the society of street walkers. As he rose to influence a horde of lesser scoundrels and harpies rose with him and cloaked by his name, plundered and blackmailed. Rasputin controlled the czarina, and to a great extent the czarina controlled the czar. The emperor meant well but when great decisions were to be made he turned to his wife for advice and she in turn consulted Rasputin the oracle. Whether he was deliberately planning the downfall of Russia or whether he was a mere half-lunatic, unaware of much that was going on, we do not know. In any event he had more to do with the downfall of Russia than any other person, and as such will be remembered in history.

Arab Fishermen.

The ordinary methods of hook and line do not appeal to the Arab fisherman, who likes to do things in the easiest possible manner. When he goes after fish he proceeds to ground-bait the river with a thick, sticky dough into which a quantity of opium has been mixed. Any fish that makes a meal of this is quickly stupefied and floats to the surface. The fisherman then mounts an inflated goat skin and goes out to collect his bag.

Musical Hoppers.

In Italy there is a regular business of making tiny wire cages for grasshoppers to chirrup in. The Italians believe that the grasshopper brings good luck, and that if one can be kept alive in a cage for a month the year will be prosperous.

On Tuesday evening "Sporting Blood" with Dorothy Bernard and De Witt Jennings held the boards at the local theatre. A story of race courses and thoroughbreds and all the usual atmosphere. The story centred around a wager made by the heroine of her hand in marriage against $10,000 on one of the horses to win. The 8th episode of "Bride 13" was also shown. On Saturday evening we were treated to the "Veiled Woman," adapted from the novel "A spinner in the sun" featuring Marguerite Snow and Ladders Stevens. A lady supposed to have been disfigured by burns sustained in a young doctor's laboratory returned after 25 years to haunt the doctor who had broken his promise of marriage on account of this mishap which really had caused no marring of her countenance what ever. The story manifested a sort of vendetta spirit. Added to this was a film portraying life and interesting characters in Bathin Land. Pictures for this week receive due notice elsewhere in this issue, at the foot of this page. On March 10 the big super-special "Remembrance" written and directed by Rupert Hughes, will be shown. This is a companion picture to "The Old Nest."

J. C. Stevens spent Tuesday at the home of his parents in Woodstock. At the sitting of court in Bangor last week, the indictment against Dr. H. W. Peppers and Dr. Kincaid, for an alleged breach of the narcotic act, was thrown out by the grand jury, thus exonerating the professional guilt in the matter. The "Observer" was again right in his vindication of the two gentlemen at the time of the affair last fall. As a fitting sequel to the case, Frye, the detective who thought to make a big name for himself, really built a gallows for his own person, for at the December sitting of court he was convicted of endeavoring to defraud the U. S. government out of moneys accumulating from fines under the narcotic act, arising from settlements out of court. His case has been appealed to the Supreme Court. The doctors in question are contemplating action against several newspapers for perversion of the real facts of the case.

The management of the picture house here are issuing coupons with each ticket bought at the theatre. Each coupon bears number and will be held by the bearer until the evening of Feb. 27, when they should be present with all the coupons on their person. On this evening a drawing will take place, when the gentleman and lady holding the lucky numbers will each receive a pass entitling them to attend all the shows at this theatre throughout the month of March. Two of these passes will be given so that luck is going to be passed out in even quantities to the male and female of the species.
