COMING THIS WAY.

Progress of the Hurricane That Swept the Windward Islands.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 16 .- The hurricane which swept the Windward Islands Saturday last was encountered on Sunday morning by the Norwegian steamer Avona, which arrived yesterday morning. Capt. Frostad, the master of the Avona, states there were barometer indications before the storm struck the vessel and he was, therefore, not unprepared to meet it, but it was necessary to heave the vessel to to avoid serious consequences. storm sprang up from the southeast early on Sunday and lasted until the next day, when there was an intermission of a dead calm, lasting for six hours. Then the hurricane raged with renewed vigor. Capt. Frostad believes that many vessels foundered and will

DANGER IN BARBER SHOPS. Montreal, Sept. 16.-Montreal barbers were hit hard today in a circular is-sued by the local board of health, which says: Beyond all doubt, anyone who patronizes a barber or hair-dresser, whose establishment is open to all comers, runs a great risk of becoming infected by disease from the razor, shaving brush, scissors, clippers, comb or hair brush having been previously used on a sick person, or even on a corpse. At the present moment in the whole Province of Quebec there is not a single barber who can honestly say that his instruments are absolutely, completely and scientifically safe in regard to possibility of conveying infection. The circular winds up by suggesting precautions to be taken against fer attained an altitude of 27,500 feet. At a height of 25,000 feet the air was so rarified that the occupants of the car were compelled to breathe compressed oxygen by tubes. The temperature was 61 degrees below freezing point. The atmosphere was clear and the coast distincty visible. The balloon finally descended near Rom-

ford, in Essex. A FUNERAL TRAIN.

Vienna, Sept. 16.—The funeral train bearing the remains of the late Empress of Austria entered the empire Wednesday night. Everywhere there were vast, silent crowds and the tolling of bells. Many floral wreaths were brought to the train to be placed on the casket. The funeral train arrived in Vienna at 10 o'clock. The whole route of the procession was lined with troops, and immense crowds, bareheaded, stood silently watching.

Among the wreaths, the one from President McKinley attracts much attention. It was the Stars and Stripes intertwined, and bears the inscription "From the President of the United States-a tribute of heart-felt sympathy to the memory of a noble and gracious lady." All the festivities in connection with the jubilee of Emp Francis Joseph have been completely abandoned. The emperor will spend six months in almost absolute retirement, only attending to state business.

Madrid, Sept. 15 .- The queen regent pays daily visits to the sick soldiers who have returned from the colonies She has ordered the convalescents to be conveyed in the royal carriages to the Casa Del Campo, in the royal park, and is paying from her own purse for proper food for the invalids. The correspondent here of the Associated Press has conversed with officers invalids and others who have returned from Santiago de Cuba, and they all extol the kindness of the Americans in the surrendered city. They do not display the slightest animosity against the Americans, but entertain bitter feelings against the Cubans. FRENCH MINISTERIAL CRISIS. Paris, Sept. 16 .- Newspapers here say the minister of justice, M. Sarrien, has completed the examination of the documents in the Dreyfus case. intention is to refer the matter to a commission competent to undertake a revision of the proceedings. THE AURANIA AT QUEENSTOWN. Queenstown, Sept. 16.-The Cunard line steamer Aurania (Capt. McKay), from New York, Sept. 6, via Liverpool which was yesterday reported off the south coast of Ireland disabled and in tow, arrived here at 2 o'clock this morning. The captain of the Aurania reports that the crank shaft broke at 9:20 p.m. on Sept. 13. At 5:15 o'clock on a the following evening, while the steamer was 116 miles west of Fastnet, the British steamer Marino (Capt. Webster), from Montreal Sept. 2, for London, sighted the Aurania, and subsequently took her in tow. All on board the Aurania are well. All the passengers will be landed at this port, and the steamer will be towed to Liverpool.

One is a dangerous aparchist, who is believed to have made the handle for the file with which the empress was murdered. The second is an anarchist, charged with harboring Luchien, the assassin, for several days. The Financial News says the Allan Steamship Company will probably secure the contract for the fast Atlantic steamers. Every mail bring a large number of letters from Canada which are overweight, and therefore call for the payment of double postage. Canadian correspondents, it is said, never weigh their letters, and thus causes much inconvenience.

FRENCH AT FASHODA

Gen. Kitchener Dispatches a Strong Force Up the White Nile.

London, Sept. 16.-The Constantinople correspondent of the Daily News says: News has been received here of the occupation of Fashoda (on the Nile, south of Khartoum) by French expedition under Major Marchand, assisted by 10,000 Abyssinians under Ras Makonnen, the principal general of Emperor Menelek.

The Daily Telegraph's special corforces in the Soudan telegraphed that he had had an interview with the captain of a boat, which has returned from Fashoda, and that the captain's description of the flag raised there leaves no doubt that it is French. The captain says the garrison at Fashoda menaced him. After getting out of the zone of the garrison's fire, the captain landed and ascertained from natives that the dervishes at Fashoda had been attacked by a force of eight Europeans and 100 Senegalese soldiers, who defeated the dervishes and killed 100 and drove the rest in precipitate flight from the town. The Daily Telegraph's correspondent says: There is no doubt that this is the Mar-chand expedition. The correspondent describes Gen. Kitchener's efforts to prevent the news reaching England. He says: I wired this identical news a week ago from Omdurman. The strdar flatly refused to allow any correspondent to accompany him south of Omdurman or to go independently. He compelled us to sell our horses and camels, and then told us that unless we returned northward forthwith he could not guarantee us transportation. Gen. Kitchener has sent 1,800 Soudanese, 200 men of the Cameron Highlanders, two batteries of Nordenfeldt mountain guns and several Maxims, on board the gunboats Sultan and Sheikh. The sirdar accompanies the force on the steamer Dal. The correspondent says also, detailing an earlier movement, that the gunboat Sultan was sent up the Blue Nile to intercept a dervish garrison, ,500 strong, coming to reinforce the khalifa. The gunboat found and engaged the enemy, killing 1,000 and driving the remainder back. He adds: It is officially announced that khalifa is now surrounded and must be taken alive or dead within a few days.

FEARFUL HAVOO

Caused by the Recent Cyclone in the West Indies.

Trinidad, British West Indies, Sept. 16.-A steamer which arrived here from Barbadoes reports that fearful havon was caused there by the hurricane on Saturday night. The destruction of property was immense. It is believed over 150 persons were killed throughout the island, and hundreds were rendered homeless and destitute. The shipping suffered seriously. The ship Loando, a bark and two barkentines broke from their anchorage and were driven to sea. They had not returned when the steamer left Barbadoes Many local vessels were wrecked or blown out to sea.

Bridgetown, the capital of the Island of Barbadoes, is a scene of desolation and ruin. Demolished or roofless houses are to be seen on every side, and hardly a tree is standing. Particulars from the country are still wanting.

ceived at the colonial office from the British authorities in the West Indies, as a whole, show that the early re-ports of the havoc wrought by the hurricane were not exaggerated. The actual extent of the damage is still unknown, but financial aid is required to meet the distress. People are flocking into Kingston, St. Vincent, from all the country around for shelter and food. It appears that all the small buildings and many large ones were destroyed, and there is no doubt that the fatalities were numerous. Sir Cornelius Moloney, governor of the Windward Islands, cables that two vessels were sunk and that the fate of many others is unknown. ernor of Barbadoes, Sir J. S. Hay, reports that the hurricane was of ten hours' duration. Already he has been officially notified of 61 deaths and of 31 persons seriously wounded. The reports from the country districts are incomplete, but there has been a heavy loss of government and private prop-erty. Assistance is urgently required. St. Vincent, British West Indies. Sept. 16.—The official reports reduce the number of deaths here during the hurricane. It was at first estimated that 300 lives were lost, but is now believed the number is considerably smaller. The exact figures are not given. The ship Loanda and the bark Grace Lynwood were cast ashore at St. Vincent and wrecked.

The Novelist Not Surprised at What Has Happened.

Why He Left France-Will Be Heard

From Again. London, Sept. 16. - Although Emile Zola still maintains secrecy concerning his whereabouts, an intimate English friend, has seen him within the last fortnight, and elicited his views on the present position of the Dreyfus ques-"Nothing that has happened has surprised me," Zola said. "I know of Henry's guilt, I knew that Esterhazy and Du Clam are equally guilty; I also knew that Dreyfus is perfectly innocent. There must be a new trial, with open doors; nothing else will suffice Should secrecy be reverted to, I shall be compelled to renew my campaign. respondent with the Anglo-Egyptian I shall intervene only if fresh attempts are made to strangle the truth, to rivet chains on the innocent, to shelter the guilty from the vengeance of the law. I know that the forms of law cause delay, and I shall bide my time in seclusion until justice is done, or there is fresh evidence that the reign of iniquity is to be revived. I am satisfied at present that France is struggling toward the light. There are difficulties in the shape of official influence and ministerial traditions to be overcome, but they are being surmounted. "When I left France after the Versailles trial, it was not to desert the fray. It is true that I was not anxious to be shot lown by night in a ditch of Vincennes like another Duc d'Enghien, or be found, perhaps, in a cell, with my throat cut and a razor by my side; but the reason I left Paris was that might retain freedom of speech and action to pursue the work upon which I had entered. I am now free for that work. Had I remained in France I would have been at the mercy of conspirators, who know how to dispose of their enemies. If my presence within the French frontiers can aid the cause of truth, I shall be found there; otherwise I elect to remain in exile until the reign of justice is restored in my country. Victor Hugo remained 20 years an exile."

There is reason to believe that Zola's retreat is in the Austrian Tyrol. He is busily engaged on a new book, the first of a series of four, which will prove sequels to "Lourdes," "Rome," and "Paris." The first is entitled "Fecundity." and it will be finished next year. As to the reason for his maintaining ecrecy, Zola says: "If personal service of judgment against me by default had been made, I should have within a few days and entered an ap-pearance, or else the judgment would have become final and irrevocable. When revision is granted, and the whole truth is known, I shall claim a new trial. If my letters in the Aurora are still held by a jury to have been in excess of the necessities of the case, then I am prepared to accept whatever penalty the law imposes.

The party left on a special at 10:45 p.m. much pleased with their Twenty-two thousand checks were sold from the wickets at the Western Fair gates yesterday, and it is estimated that 25,000 people were on the grounds. The grand stands contained about 8,000 people in the afternoon and about 6,000 in the evening. The day passed off most pleasantly. The ring attractions, which have been admired and applauded all week, met with the same treatment yesterday afternoon. About 6 o'clock an array of inky and threatening clouds gathered in the west, which a stiff breeze chased over the city, and a heavy downpour of rain followed that continued all night, dampening the ardor of Western enthusiests. Thousands left the grounds, while other thousands sought refuge in the grand stand. The evening pro-gramme was hustled through, and the fireworks fizzled and banged in gorgeous glory in the drenching rain. The main building was completely packed with people, and this proved a great thing for the Art Loan exhibit. The rain doubtless deterred thousands from visiting the evening performances.

From 6 o'clock last right fill 10 there was a constant jam at the gates. Every car that came in sight was filled to overflowing before it had a chance to stop properly.. The open cars were simply a snap. Men jammed into them regardless of women and children, some even going so far as to climb in over the wire netting at the side CAME FROM CONNEAUT. The Conneaut citizens were delighted with their visit to London and the fair yesterday. "Next year." said one of the deputation, "we will come in larger numbers and stay a week." There can be no doubt, too, that the citizens of London were very much pleased at the opportunity of welcoming their friends from the enterprising city in the Buckeye State. The new ferry line to Port Stanley has, already, brought Conneaut and London closely in touch, and with the certainty, almost, of continued business relationships and frequent summer excursions to and fro, the good fellowship so suddenly brought about between the two towns, is bound to continue. The excursion was under the auspices of the Conneaut Board of Commerce, and for many in the party, it was their first day on Canadian soil. Until recently Conneaut people generally had never heard of London; until yesterday many of them had not the slightest idea of the size of the place or of the Western Fair. But the board of commerce deputation were so thoroughly pleased with their visit that they gave positive assurance of a bumper excursion-1,000, at least, next year. On this occasion arrangements had been hastily made, and the party numbered only about 65, but they were a jolly crowd. They included: J. E. Gordon, president of the Conneaut Board of Commerce, and wife; S. J. Smith, president First National Bank, and chairman of the reception committee of the board of commerce; Capt. E. Day, superintendent of Conneaut and Pittsburg Dock Com-pany, and wife; C. W. Smith, editor of Post-Herald, and also the following members of the board of commerce and their wives: W. E. Mas-ters, F. L. Wingate, E. A. Burroughs, E. H. Pond, H. T. Culp, C. M Travers, G. W. Travers, Ed Travers; Capt. R. R. McLeod, of Shenango No. 1, and wife; Sheriff F. M. Pearce, of Ashtabula county; Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Simmons, Mr. and Mrs.G.A.Jackson, M. Feldstein, Miss Ida Kahler; G. Platt, ex-city engineer, of Erie; City Engineer Hewitt; Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Mason; Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Stone; Dr. Andrews, Stringfellow, O. W. Germond, L. Hiler and Miss Hiler, R. E. Peebles, Miss Randall and Miss Black; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Millard, and Mrs. H. H. Millard, of Atcheson, Kan.; Millard, Mr. L. Naef, and Miss Naef, Mrs. F. E. Lake, Chicago; Mrs. F. M. Olmstead, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Payne, and Mrs. W. A. Wheeler. The Shenango left Conneaut at 8:45 a.m., and on the trip to Port Stanley the majority of the passengers had touch of seasickness, for the lake was quite rough. Owing to the late arrival of the boat the hospit-ble arrangements made by the local reception committee did not transpire quite according to the lines laid down. An Ideal Afternoon for to visit Springbank as well as the fair. But is was 3:45 p.m. when the train pulled into the G. T. R. station, and the party was escorted direct to Queen's Park. Special street cars, sent with Manager Carr's compliments, were boarded at the corner of York and Richmond streets, and the exhi-Conneaut's Civic Officials Among bition grounds were soon reached.

The guests wore bright red badges, provided by the fair board, and which entitled them to the freedom of the grounds. They were met at the directors' headquarters by the Chatham Band. President Gartshore gave a brief, cordial address of welcome, and subsequently a tour of the grounds was made. Several seats in the center of the grand stand had been re-served for the deputation by the di-rectors, and after a hurried glance at the principal exhibits the party was escorted thither to witness the attractions. After the afternoon performance dinner was provided at the Tecumseh

Ring Events.

The sporting events were of more than an ordinary character, and by long odds the best of any day this week. The first race was an exciting one, and a keen contest. The starts were made in fine style, and in two of the four heats run the horses held their original places from start to finish. In the second and third heats of this race, the Canadian record of 2:30 this race, the Canadian record of 2:30 for trotting teams was reduced by 234 seconds by George G. McCormick's Polly Stanton and mate, which covered two pretty miles without a break, in 2:274 and 2:28. Walter Medium and mate followed in second place, until the third heat, when they passed Polly Stanton and mate. The evening was fast falling when the third heat was fast falling when the third heat was run, and an effort was made to have that heat settle the race. All were willing with the exception of O. W. Chamberlain, who would not agree to such a proposition, even though McCormick offered him first money. To have the race declared finished would have been a great benefit to the fair directors, as the events would have been at an end, the grand stand could have been cleared, and tickets sold for the evening performance. The people remained on the stand, and a fourth heat of the race was run. Walter Medium and mate led in, followed by Duke and mate. This put Chamberlain in possession of a mortgage on first money, and as another heat had to be run, the race was postponed until 2:30 today. Fast time was also made in the running races. Following is a summary: 2:30 TROT.

John Henry is owned and was trained by Randal Learn, of Aylmer, who also trained the celebrated Goldring, which made his first public appearance here. Goldring is now in England, and is creating a sensation on the English tracks by his marvelous work as a guideless trotter. John Henry promises to be Goldring's equal in every respect. The performance of the horse yesterday speaks volumes for Mr. Learn as a trainer.

NOTES.

All manners of fakes have been worked to gain admission to the grounds. Mr. W. M. Spencer has an interesting collection of different kinds passes used. One is an Orchard Beach green pass good for one; another is a green ticket, a return check for gate No. 1; a brass check about the same size as the gate checks of the Western Fair stamped "J. B. Beaton, good for one drink at the bar." A number of dollars in bad money were passed upon the check

RESULTS OF COMFORT SOAP EX-HIBIT.

Among the good results of the fair none will be more beneficial and few so far-reaching as the great publicity given to Comfort Soap. The unique features of the display and the clever idea of a popular guessing contest were characteristic of the Comfort Soap manufacturers. One result of their enterprise and originality is that no man woman or child entered the main building without having the name "Comfort Soap" firmly impressed on their minds, and few left the building who did not earry home with them some pretty souvenir which will be preserved and which will keep on telling everybody who sees it that "Comfort Soap is all right." Those five words tell the whole story. They mean that Comfort Soap is the perfect dirt-remover, will not injure the most delicate fabric, works quickly and thoroughly, and is the most economical soap in the world. ACETYLINE GAS MADE WITH SAFETY. Do you want to light your home your store or your factory, by an il-luminant that is purer, softer and more powerful than electric light, and cheaper than coal oil? Acetylene gas will do it, and it is just as available for the small town, the village, or the farm, as for the city. The gas can be made anywhere by means of a Cliff-Wardlaw generator, manufactured by the Safety Light and Heat Company, of Dundas. The pro-cess is simplicity itself. A ten-year-old boy could attend to the generator. It requires no attention beyond putting a few lumps of carbide in the receptacle arranged for it, and filling the reservoir with water. The Cliff-Wardlaw generator differs from any other in to a trial, as I was reduced to such a several important points. The most state that I doubted the power of any important is that the Cliff-Wardlaw is remedy to do me good.

As nearly as anything made by man absolutely safe from explosion. Under no circumstances would it be possible to cause an explosion with this gen-erator. Another point is that the carbide ash or residue is always dry and clean. With others it is slushy and difficult to remove.

The great superiority of the Cliff-Wardlaw, however, lies in its simplicity, and its perfect safety. When the incandescent electric light was introduced, it was regarded as the nearest approach to sunlight that science could ever produce. Its use in cities and towns soon became general. But it was not available for villages and country towns. They had to be content with the semi-darkness of the coal oil lamp. Quite recently it was discovered that acetyline gas could be produced pouring water on carbide of lime. Then a cheap method of manufacturing the carbide was discovered. All that re mained was to construct a generator that would be inexpensive, easily operated, and, above all, safe. That the Cuff-Wardlaw possesses all three qualities is abundantly demonstrated by Safety Light and Heat Company's dis-

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 16.-There was a sensational scene at the union station Saturday night, when troops A, B and C, First Ohio Volunteer Cavalry, of Cleveland, took forcible possession of a train, and refused to permit it to be moved. The soldiers were brought in here from Huntsville, Ala., in tourist sleepers, but the contract only called for their use as far as Columbus, so the Pennsylvania Rail-road ordered the Cleveland men out, that the cars might be returned to Cincinnati. The men refused, when an engine was coupled on to the five cars, an armed line of guards was thrown around the train, the intention being to have one of the Cleveland roads to haul the cars. [Special to The Advertiser.] Chatham, Sept. 15.—Crippled by the absence of Ward, who was more badly hurt yesterday than was supposed, the Londoners played a hard game today, and only lost by a narrow margin. The game was a capital one for the spectators, and interest was sustained throughout. The fine pitching of Watkins was responsible for the Babes' victory, while Crowe also did very effective work. The errors on both sides were fortunately comparatively inconsequential, and the game was fought out largely on its merits.

The Londons secured their only runs in the second. Carey singled, but went out on Lohman's hit to Miles; Hagerman hit a hot one that got away from Morrisey, and Loh-man went to third; Crowe flew out to Conklin, and Meara, next up, hit a hot one over second, scoring Lohman and Hagerman. The remaining seven innings proved a blank, the fast field-ing of the Babes doing the trick.

Chatham did not break into the game until the 5th, when a pass to Gallagher, a sacrifice by Morrisey, and Keenan's error netted one. Another In the 9th, after two were out, Meara dropped Morrisey's fly; Snyder, next up, hit out a beautiful single, and Conklin followed with a neat single, and Morrisey crossed the rubber with the winning run. Managing Director John Cameron and Editor,

London, Friday, Sept. 16, 1898.

The Normal School and the Enemies of London.

The persistency with which politiclans and newspapers in cities that are rivals to London attempt to make-believe that London has no right to a Normal School, and that the Government should be condemned for establishing that educational institution in this center of population, ought to make Londoners unite in upholding the course adopted by the Administration. The true patriot, whether national or municipal, has ever been ready to counsel union in face of the enemy. Unfortunately, it has not been so in London, for we have those in the midst of us who, in order to make, if possible, a little party capital, are ready to give comfort to those who have most bitterly opposed the interests of London, and the large district of which it is the business and educational center. First, they asserted that the Government had no Intention to erect the Normal School at London; then they tried to make all the trouble that they could about the site: next they refused to countenance any municipal co-operation towards getting a site that would meet with their approbation and indorsation When it was found that the only site available, of sufficient extent to meet the present and future wants of the Normal School, was in South London, they raised the question of locality, and they asserted that the site was suggested, not because of its suitability, but solely because it was situated in a ward that always gives a Liberal majority! We have readers of all shades of political belief, but we hardly like to credit the suggestion that any of them would, all other things being equal, regard the political belief of the majority of the taxpayers in a given division of the city as a disqualification in choosing a site for a public building

Then it has been argued that in placing the school upon the splendid site chosen, an error has been committed. How sincere this criticism is may be gathered from the assertion of the chief mouthpiece of the political opposition to the site which has asserted | imports from one another, while collecthood of the asylum grounds, in the East End, which is much farther from the center of the city than the Mac-

The Ottawa Normal School site has been pointed to by the opponents of the site selected for the London Normal, as the model institution in point of situation. Look at the Ottawa Normal School, they say; the Government of the day made no mistake in selecting it. It is in the heart of the city, and It was provided with plenty of ground, too. Persons who argue in this way show that they really know nothing of what they are talking about. Years ago, before this question of a site for a Normal School in London became a live question, Dr. McCabe, principal of the Ottawa Normal School since it was opened, now nearly a quarter of a century ago, stated that when the Ottawa Normal was built it was away out in the country. There was not a residence to the south of it, where thousands of good houses have in recent years been built, and very few to the west of it. Why, it may be asked, was the out-of-the-center site chosen in Ottawa? Dr. McCabe, the Ottawa principal, had an explanation in this regard also. He said the projectors desired to get a site as far removed from the turmoil of city life as possible, consistent with the comfort of the pupils in doing their work. They had this further desire: they wanted to have a commodious site of territory for the purpose not only of the Normal School proper, but to provide ample playgrounds, and to make sure that when they came to add to the size of the school premises they could do so without further expense for ground, which would have been impossible if they had established the institution in the crowded center of the city. The site chosen in Ottawa was about the same size as that selected for the Normal School in this city. The wisdom of its selectors was speedily vindicated. In a few years it was deemed desirable to add a model school to the

with regard to the Ottawa Normal. All we can at present say is, that when the hostile critics of the site chosen for our own School cite the line of action pursued by the Government when they built the Normal School at Ottawa, as an example of how matters should have been conducted with regard to the new Normal School in London, they but show their ignorance and prejudice, for the Ottawa Normal School, when built, was just as far removed from the center of the city as the London Normal School will be when at first established. Our faith is great in London, however, and if it continues to grow during the next quarter of a century, as it has done in the past 25 years-and we believe the ratio of increase of population will be much greater during the new era-those of us who are here in 1920 will have many a good laugh over the professed fears of the political kickers of the pre-

Canada, the Empire and the Public. The London correspondent of the Boston Transcript, in his last commun. leation, says that the "preferential tariff that Sir Wilfrid Laurier laid upon British imports into the Dominion, is one of the cardinal points of Mr. Chamberlain's colonial policy, and though in practice it has still to be tested, it has brought much credit in English opinion to both men. and drawn the mother country and the colony closer together than they have been for years." The same correspondent, who is usually well-informed, says that from all he can learn in Great Britain, there is no expectation that the Canadian preferential tariff, now confined to British goods, will be extended to those of the United States. In this conclusion, there is probably good war-The pro-British tariff has come to stay, and we believe we are correct in saying that the Canadian commissioners can be relied on to retain that feature in our system of tax collection. The sensible resident of the United States will not complain in that regard. The United States does not place foreign countries on an equality with itself, or any part of its domain. Why should not any section of the British nation make special arrangements with another if it so chooses? The United States would have no just cause of complaint were the American and British sections of the Queen's empire to agree to abolish all taxes on ing a revenue from outsiders. We do not say that such a course would be the best for them, but it could not be caviled at as unfair by a people that have free trade between the forty odd countries that go to make up the United States, and a high tariff on all

We desire to have the freest possible trade relations with our neighbors, we are ready to meet them halfway, but if they prefer Dingleyism to getting rid of their shackles we can do well, and, anyway, the Laurier Government has given us preferential trade with the motherland. We are prospering, and believe we shall prosper, even without a lowering of the barriers that stand between the two great English-speaking countries on this continent, though we are sure that would add to their prosperity were they to throw down some of the barriers that now retard commercial goods coming from outside countries.

Our Riches in the Yukon.

We notice that Mr. McCafferty, an ex-collector of customs, and said to be a mining engineer by profession, has returned to San Francisco from Dawson City, with a story intended to discourage investment in that region. He declares that the geological indications in the Yukon are such as to warrant the conviction that there is no goldbearing quartz-that all the gold to be found there will be in the nature of pockets, which will not last.

This is a very extraordinary declaration to make, and more especially to pretend to found such an opinion upon geological science. Gold would not be found in pockets if there had been no gold in the quartz rock, for the precious metal that is found in pockets in the beds of streams, is gold that has been brought thither by glacial action, and by the pulverizing of the rocks. Of course, it is not beyond possibility that the rocks in which gold was distributed have all been reduced to dust, and the gold deposited in pockets; but such a theory is so highly improbable as to make it perfectly safe to reject it in any calculation as to the mineral wealth of the Yukon.

had meanwhile been handsomely laid out, afforded ample space for the addi-Looking at the formation of the country and its character, as disclosed in the reports which have been received, there is little room to doubt that the gold still undisturbed in the quartz of the Yukon is free, and deposited in the pockets of ancient or existing streams. We should be sorry to see so large an influx of population into that country as to make it possible that life should be lost for the want of supplies; but we think there is no reason for rational doubt that the gold of the Yukon country will furnish profitable employment to tens of thousands of people for very many years to come.

In our opinion the report which has been made by Mr. Ogilvie, of the Canadian Geological Survey, extending over many years, is much more reliable than the statement of a temporary sejourner from San Francisco, who has been but a few weeks in the country.

Great Britain appears to be playing a lone hand in Crete. She is still splendidly isolated from her neighbors in the relief of the wretched and op-

The Government has made the postoffice self-supporting, and the country expects to see the Intercolonial Railway placed in the same condition soon. We believe the Government is making a conscientious effort to do this,

"We are an anaemic country," said Sagasta. This is brutally frank, but it is the truth. If the people of Spain could realize that the nation's failure lay in the character of the race, as Sagasta bluntly declared, there would be hope of their betterment.

The Ontario Government's generous grant of $2,500 to the New Westminster fire sufferers, and the proportionate contributions of cities for the same purpose, are gratifying tokens of the solidarity of the Dominion. One touch of calamity has made all the provinces

It is said the Dominion Government will hold all the coming bye-elections on the same day. The last Government usually held them one at a time, in orfrom riding to riding. This may be shrewd tactics, but it is morally better to hold the bye-elections simultaneous-

A One-Sided Alliance.

[Cleveland Plaindealer.] Author Hall Caine is sentimental. He says the best Anglo-Saxon alliance is the constant intermarriage between the young people of both countries. Hall will discover that over here we are pretty positive that Great Britain holds the balance of trade on us in this intermarriage business. a few impecunious and debt laden young Americans marry rich English heiresses we may feel more reconciled to the Caine theory.

> How to Know Each Other. [Chicago Times-Herald.]

The patrician class in England, heavily reinforced by an influential female contingent from this country; the growth of American trade and the frequent sharp competition of American ith British manufacturers; the cordial reception of British literary men and their writings in this country, have all contributed to arouse British interest in American affairs, but the most potent of all influences in this direc tion is contained in Josiah Tatnall's famous sentiment that "blood is thicker than water.'

American achievements in the war with Spain did more to stir the hearts of the British public and generate a fraternal feeling than all other causes

From henceforth the British and American people will know and under-stand one another better than they have in the past, and the press of both countries will be the mediums through which the bonds of fraternity reknit in the late war will be strengthened beyond the power of any or all nations

Where Prohibition Would Have Been Useful. [Detroit Free Press.]

Speaking of the overwhelming superiority in marksmanship and execution exhibited by the American crews over the Spanish in the great fight of July 3 some light may be thrown upon the subject by the statement of one of the men of the Gloucester concerning the condition of the Spanish sailors taken off the beach or rescued from the water, to which they had committed themselves when their ships became untenable. "Nearly every one of them was beastly drunk, and while their swim had sobered them somewhat, few could stand. Their condition before they had to jump overboard must have been awful. You know the Spaniard when he is drunk is a dangerous man, or, rather, a beast, and we found out on pretty good authority that the sailors were plied with rum before the vessels came out of the harbor, so as to screw their courage up to the sticking point.' No wonder that Cervera's battleships, fine fighting machines though they were, and supplied with an abundance of modern armament and ammunition, were unable to stand before the splendidly maneuvered ships of their enemy. No wonder the Spanish guns, though fixed with feverish rapidity, did so little execution. It takes a clear brain to manage a modern warship in action, and a steady nerve to man the modern mechanism of the big guns effectively. The Spaniards had screwed up their courage to the sticking point" it is true, but it was a brate courage that goaded them on in their reckless dash for liberty, and proved to be no match for the calm and disciplined courage that opposed Before the Spaniards win a naval battle they will have to place more dependence on that skill in handling ships and guns which comes from practice and discipline and less upon the "courage" that comes from 'um.

CURED OF ITCHING PILES OF 23 YEARS STANDING

M. T. Wigle, better known to every one in the vicinity as "Uncle Mike," was troubled for over 23 years with itching piles. At times he was so bad he would have to quit work. The irritation became so intense with constant rubbing that they became ulcerated and would bleed. He had been treated by many physicians, but found nothing that gave him relief. Reading in the paper the cure of a friend who had suffered in a like manner, and been cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment, he procured a box. After the third application he got such relief that he had the first comfortable night's sleep he had enjoyed in years. The one box made a complete cure, and he says he would not be without it for $50 a box if it could not be replaced. Mr. Wigle is a wealthy farmer, well known in the community in which he resides. It is over two years since he was afflicted, and he has never been troubled since.

RIVALS A MIRACLE. Mr. George C. Chalker's Terrible Sufferings Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Howsey's Rapids, Sept. 12.-Mr. Geo.

C. Chalker, of this place, tells a remarkable story of restoration to sound health that rivals the far-famed St. Anne de Beaupre cures. Briefly, Mr. Chalker's story is as fol-

"I suffered horribly for years from Kidney Disease. I could do no heavy work. My pain was almost unendurable. No remedy did me the least good till I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Six boxes of this wonderful medicine have cured me completely-made a new man of me. I cannot speak highly enough of them. I can state with the utmost confidence that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure the very worst cases of Kidney Disease.

PHILIPO CONGRESS

Held at the Temporary Capital of the Insurgent Government.

Aguinalde Assumes the Airs of Sovereign-The Assembly Proseed to Organize.

London, Sept. 16 .- The Manila correspondent of the Times telegraphing Thursday says: "I am the only foreign journalist present at the insurgent congress at Malolos, which has been elected the temporary capital of the revolutionary government. Early this forenoon Aguinaldo, accompanied by a large staff of generals and ministers, moved in state from the convent now occupied as his military headquarters, passing between lines of infantry and through streets decorated with palms and banners and packed with thou-sands of peasants in holiday dress to the church, half a mile distant.

"Here he was received by the assembly delegates and conducted to a platform in the chancel, from which he delivered a brief message in the Taglion language, afterwards repeating it in Spanish. The substance of the message was mostly congratulat-ory on the happy termination of the revolution, and the complete conquest of the territory. He made a flowery appeal to the delegates, asking them by the memory of the illustrious patriots of Philippine history to follow the example of England, America and France in preparing a constitution and promulgating laws to secure the complete and permanent liberty of the people of the Philippines. The message excited but little enthusiasm, because it was absolutely non-committal." "The assembly then proceeded immediately to organize preparatory to a discussion on the proposed consti-tution and code of laws and the elec-tion of a president. The absence of several of the most prominent and influential natives was particularly noticable as indicating an intention to hold aloof until the policy of the con-gress is fully declared.

"A strong party, intoxicated by the present measure of success, favors op-position to any foreign protectorate, being confident that the people can govern themselves. Wiser counselors strenuously oppose such a suicidal policy. Apparently unanimity now exists only in the determination to free the island forever from Spanish rule. This is the universal feeling, and it will probably prove the controlling power in determining the final action of the congress.

PLEASANT PLACES

Considering the fair, the weather, and other things, the number of peo-ple who have visited Springbank the last day or so has greatly exceeded the expectation of the street railway company, and Manager Carr has ar-ranged to have the special service, which has been running all day, continued tomorrow, in order that visit-ors may see the beautiful pleasure

AMUSEMENTS

THE GRAND FULL TO THE DOORS was packed and before the curtain rose, tickets could not be bought for even standing room. Past records during the fair have been eclipsed in the matter of attendance. The show pleases the visitors. "Alone in Greater New York" will leave London with remembrances of good houses and kind thoughts of the Forest City. The engagement closes Saturday evening. A matinee will be given on Saturday afternoon.

MARKS BROTHERS. There was a packed house again at the Music Hall to see Marks Brothers play the Irish comedy-drama "The Diamond Robbery." It was produced in good shape. Tonight they play the good shape. Tonight they play the comedy "Esmeralda," with new songs, dances and war views, and the cheap prices will remain the same. HOLLIS STOCK COMPANY.

At the Grand Opera House on Monday, Sept. 19, the Hollis Stock Company will commence a week's engagement, presenting a series of thoroughly first-class plays. This excellent attraction recently played a six weeks' engagement at Ottawa, and comes here direct from a two weeks' engagement at Hamilton. The company is headed by the beautiful southern star actress, Miss Lorraine Hollis, who was formerly a leading member of Augustin Daly's famous company, and was with the late William Terriss in his first tour of this continent. Miss Hollis has been touring all the large cities of America for the last seven years, with a phenomenal success in so young an actress. She is not only a magnificently beautiful woman, on or off the stage, but is a thorough actress of remarkable versatility and talent. An unusually strong company will support Miss Hollis. During her engagement Miss Hollis will open with a production of the famous society comedy-drama, "Forget-Me-Not." to be followed by "The Tigress" and "Camille."

CARRYING CHEESE

The Proper Equipment for Conveying It By Steamship.

Ordinarily, cheese do not require to be carried in cold storage, but it would be of decided advantage if they could be carried on the steamship in a chamber thoroughly ventilated and cooled. When cheese are held in bulk at a temperature of about 60 degrees and upwards, they generate heat by the process of curing which goes on. The demand in Great Britain has been growing for some years in favor of a softer cheese, a cheese which is soft in body, as well as fine in flavor. It is not possible to send cheese of soft body during the summer months to Great Britain, and have it arrive there in good condition by the carrying methods which have been in use on the steamships. If a current of cool air could be driven into the hold in which cheese are stowed, from one of the re-frigerator plants, that would be of decided advantage. In any case provision should be made for ventilating such holds. Ventilating shafts could be provided by means of which cool air could be admitted to the bottom of the hold. Then during the night in warm weather an electric fan could be used for taking out the warm air from the top of the hold. That would induce a current of cold air to come in through the ventilating shaft. Similar equipment could be used for the ventilating of the holds in which late autumn and winter apples are carried. - Prof. J. W. Robertson.

A SAD TALE

Attempted Suicide of a Poverty-Stricken Artist in New York - Disinherited by a Rich Father.

New York, Sept. 16 .- Driven to desperation by poverty, John Charles Collins, 63 years of age, an artist, took opium with suicidal intent, in coom on the top floor of a five-story tenement on Bieeker street, New York, last night. He was found unconscious by his wife when she returned from her work at 7 o'clock in the evening. Not knowing what was the matter with her husband, and being too poor to have a doctor, she labored until 4 o'clock this morning trying to revive the unconscious man, and then called a policeman, who sent Collins to the St.

Vincent Hospital. He will probably Mrs. Collins said her husband was the son of a wealthy merchant who lived in Bond street 30 years ago. She was employed as a servant in the Col-lins household, Young Collins fell in love with her, and despite the opposition of his parents, made her his wife. His father disinherited him.

Collins attained some fame as an artist, but for some time hard luck had overshadowed him. Nearly all his personal effects were pawned to obtain food. Nothing was left the couple but a bed, a chair, and her husband's easel. Yesterday Collins was served with a dispossess note; he had been unable to pay last month's rent.

PUBLICATION. Dublin, Sept. 16 .- "United Ireland," which was established by the late Charles Stewart Parnell in 1881, as the organ of the Land League, has ceased publication. Lately it has been the organ of the reunion of the nationalist party.

WHAT IRELAND WANTS.

It would be an error to suppose that this Unionist measure of local government for Ireland is in any degree a satisfaction of the Irish national demand for legislative independence. It is not home rule. Home rule means a national parliament and a national executive for all affairs distinctively Irish. Local self-government merely means the administration by the Irish people, through elected local bodies, of the laws passed by the British Par-liament for the management of Irish local affairs. The government offer it, avowedly, indeed, as a rival to and a substitute for home rule; Ireland, on the other hand, receives it merely as an installment of justice, and warns its authors that it can never satisfy the aspirations of the Irish nation after national liberty. Yet, it may well be doubted whether the Irish minority at whose powers and privileges it be well advised if they, at last, acted on the assumption that there is now scarcely anything left to them for the sake of which they ought to continue to oppose home rule.—John J. Clancy, M.P., in North American Review for September.

FIRING ON PRISONERS

Why Captive Spaniards Were Shot by U. S. Guards.

Lieut. Henry Roach, quartermaster of the 34th Michigan Volunteers, was officer of the guard on the night of July 4, when the guard on the transport Harvard fired on the Spanish naval prisoners aboard the ship. There were only a small squad of the 34th and some men from the 9th Massachusetts doing guard duty on the ship. Altogether there were not more that 50 soldiers. There may not have been more than 30.

Lieut. Roach was the only American soldier aboard who could talk to the prisoners in their own language. He had been getting along with them very well. There were between 500 and 600 of them. They were all sailors and officers who belonged to Cervera's fleet, picked up after the fleet was destroyed. There were comparatively few officers. The officers occupied staterooms. The sailors had quarters in the forward part of the ship. Guards were on duty night and day to see that the prisoners didn't go outside their limits and kept away from the engineroom and the pilot house.

The outbreak occurred about midnight. The particulars as related, by two soldiers, one of whom admitted that he fired on the prisoners, were that the latter persisted in climbing up to the hurricane deck and in the rigging, and in other places where they were not supposed to go. The guards warned them to keep down. The warnings were given in English. The prisoners could understand only Spanish. A guard would occasionally make a demonstration with his rifle to club back a prisoner. The guards said it was the only way they could make the prisoners understand. The guards

The midnight trouble started with an encounter between a guard and a prisoner. The guard said the prisoner undertook to climb up over a railing to a place where the prisoners were to a place where the prisoner were to be a place where the prisoner were to be a prisoner were to be a place where the prisoner were to a place where the prisoner were to be a place where the prisoner were the pris The midnight trouble started with an forbidden. The guard made a motion to push him back and the prisoner made a grab for the rifle. A moment later, according to the story related, the prisoner who grabbed the rifle uttered a loud hiss, and then prisoners by the score rushed at the guards. One of the two guards who related his experience, says that he was pushed up against the rail of the boat, and a prisorer put his body between his legs and tried to throw him over-

No orders were given to fire on the prisoners, but the guards loaded and fired. They said afterwards that because of the speed with which the prisoners rushed on the guards when the hissing signal was given, they thought there was a conspiracy seize the ship and run her as a prize to Spain. It was because of this fear that they fired.

One guard says he saw two young Spanish officers clap their hands at the moment of the outbreak and shout something in Spanish. They supposed was the words of encouragement to the sailors to go ahead and seizo the ship. There was no chance while the prisoners remained aboard the Harvard for them to give their version of the outbreak. Six prisoners were shot.

It was not until after the prisoners reached Portsmouth, N. H., that the complaint that the shooting was unwarranted was heard.

Last Sunday this telegram was received at the state military head-quarters from Portsmouth, N. H., where the Spanish naval prisoners have been confined: "Where is present station of 34th Michigan Volunteer regiment? Desire to know whereabouts of Lieut. Roach. officer of the guard July 4, on steamer Harvard, when Spanish prisoners broke guard line; also whereabouts of sentinels who fired on them if any or all belonged to that regiment. Immediate answer requested. "EDGAR.S. DUDLEY, "Lieut.-Col. Judge-Advocate Vol." Gov. Pingree wired Lieut.-Cel. Ben-nett at Muskegon for the names of the Michigan men on guard duty on the night of the shooting. Col. Bennett sent him the names of nine, but he said he could not say positively that any of the nine were really doing guard duty.

When news of the shooting circulated in army circles, before Santiago, nebody gave it much thought. The explanation that the sailors made a break to seize the ship was accepted as true. It is thought that the navy department is making an investigation as a matter of courtesy to the Spanish naval officers from the destroyed fleet, who presumably made the complaint, and that there is nothing serious in store for the guard. Lieut. Roach served in the civil war, and is known as a cool-headed man enlisted for the civil war in a Michigan regiment, and he came from Texas to enlist in a Michigan regiment for the Spanish war.

El Liberal says that Gen. THE MOST POPULAR MAN. Mr. W. McPhillips probably met more old friends during the fair and made more new ones than any other man in London. RECEPTION FOR CONNEAUT VISITORS.

One of the pleasantest features in connection with the visit to the fair of the large party of Americans from Ohio, was an impromptu reception, held for them by Mr. J. A. Croden at the Heintzman & Co. stand in the main building. A delightful musical entertainment was provided for the visitors. Madame Olmstead, of Con-neaut, one of the most brilliant pianists in the State of Ohio, accepted Mr. Croden's invitation to try the pianos, and charmed the immense crowd gathered around with music that called forth enthusiastic applause from Americans and Canadians alike. Madame Olmstead said she had often heard of the wonderful tonal qualities of the genuine Heintzman Piano, but it had far surpassed her expectations. She declared it to be the most perfect piano made on the continent.

Mr. Smith, president of the First National Bank of Conneaut, O., and chairman of the committee in charge of the visiting Americans, thanked Mr. Croden warmly for his cordial and courteous treatment, adding that he had never before heard so fine a piano as the genuine Heintzman. During the evening quite a number of the Americans visited Heintzman & Co.'s new warerooms, corner Dundas and Clarence streets.

When we get to the squire's, all the Lorimer boy's got to do is to take out the tailboard and tilt the cart up whilst I hold the horse.

the drowsy response.

CHAPTER XXII.

The day succeeding the events recorded in the last chapter, Lady Westbrook entered the morning-room where the Marquis and his nephew sat at breakfast, with a letter in her hand. 'You are late, my love," remarked the elder nobleman, adding, as he raised his eyes, "and pale. Are you

"No, my lord; but much perplexed. Never in my life have I been so astonished—so mystified. I have scarcely slept an hour through the night." The Marquis experienced a slight spasm of the breath while he examined Lucille's features more closely, as, sitting down, she leaned back in her chair, evidently with no intention to commence a breakfast for which she had no appetite.

Why, what is the matter, coz?" smiled Lord Carisford, never suspecting the dart that was about to pierce his own breast. "It's nothing very serious, I hope. Can I call anybody On principle, I'm averse to dueling: but-

'Please do not jest, Cecil," interrupted Lady Westbrook, for her, rather petulantly. "I repeat, I have never been so pained-so amazed-so-so deceived. No." and she checked herself, "I will not yet say deceived. I feel sure that the cause that has actuated the step arises is no blame in her."

Long before this the Marquis had divined the reason of Lucille's words. Maria Saproni had found an opportunity, and had gone. He much regretted Cecil's presence, but keeping his eyes from him, and by attracting his daughter's gaze upon himself, preventing it wandering in her cousin's direction, he

"What step, my dear? Of whom are you speaking? At present your words riddles, difficult as the Sphinx's, and I am no Edipus.'

"I beg your pardon, my lord. The event has so startled-so mortifled me,' rejoined Lucille, excitedly playing with the letter, "that I scarcely know what I say. Most certainly I should have acquainted you with the affair last night only you returned so late. The fact is, my maid, Maria Saproni, has Without one word of intimation, eaving no clue, she has gone.' Would he be able to control himself?

Would he so act as to reveal his secret to Lucille? Thus ran the nobleman's anxious thoughts. From his soul he pitied the young fellow. The blow, thus unexpectedly delivered, must have been keen.

Poor Cecil deserved compassion. His cousin's words had struck with the paralyzing sensation of an electric He was conscious of turning very white, that his eyes, dialating, showed, or would have showed, had there been any observer, how deeply the intelligence concerned him. His lips, too, had shaped the monosyllable "gone," but it had died unuttered.

The very indifference of his companions' faces to his trouble recalled him quickly to a sense of his position. He remembered they were unaware of his secret, and how near he had been to its betrayal.

Recovering his self-control by a violent effort he shielded himself behind the broad sheets of the Times, though all the letters appeared to be perform ing a weird dance, clothed in prismatic hues. He would have quitted the room, but felt the proceeding would have appeared strange. Besides, he was anxlous to learn more. Something Lucille might say might might give him a clue though it was not one to her.

"Last evening, seeing me engaged writing letters," continued Lady Westbrook, "Maria asked to retire to her own room if I could spare her. went. An hour afterwards, ringing for the footman, I sent him with a message to her. I fancied Shawe regarded me strangely, but he departed. On his return he stated Maria was not in her room, adding: 'Please your ladyship, didn't you know Signora Saproni went out nearly an hour ago, and this evening a man came and fetched her boxes There, my lord, did you ever

I feel my cheeks should be dyed with the blushes of shame at any apparent ingratitude. Praise heaven it is apparent, not real. No reason exists for me to blush, and, before heaven, on my knees, I can say I am not ungrateful. Owing to a matter closely concerning my history it was imperative that I should leave your roof, also that I should do it as I have. The truth is, I dared not tell you-I dared not risk the pain of saying farewell; I feared my courage would turn to veriest cowardice. One day, if kind heaven will permit me the joy of ever seeing you again, circumstances may have occurred which will enable me to tell you, when I have not judged you rightly if you do not applaud instead of blame. That you will believe this, and now pardon, is the heartfelt prayer of your faithful and grateful attendant.

" 'Maria Saproni.' There, my lord," exclaimed Lady Westbrook, concluding, "is not that more and more mystifying?"

During the persual of the above Cecil had succeeded in considerably regaining his composure. Now putting down the newspaper and leaning on the table, he said in a voice so cool that for a moment it amazed the mar-

"I perfectly agree with you, Lucille. It is mistifying; especially that reference that she could no longer remain under your roof. 'Truth is stranger than fiction,' or rather, 'fiction is the mirror of truth.' Perhaps she has some hidden skeleton in her history. Perhaps she is in dread of somebody's persecution, a black sheep in her family, and has fled that it should not reach your ears, you so esteeming her. High ly sensitive organizations are very nervous in such matters."

"That thought occurred to me, Cecil," exclaimed Lucille, all the generous impulse and romance of her disposition instantly on fire-"that idea was also

But it was not Cecil's idea. His was very much nearer the truth. As he listened to Maria's letter being read it had instantly flashed into his brain that she, misconstruing his attentions, as even Captain Lascalles had dared to do, had fled to free herself from the persecution, and had gone thus secretly to bring no unpleasantness into the marquis' family. While the noble consideration for others filled him with admiration, the fact of being misunderstood by Maria, of her having believed him capable of insulting her when he loved the very ground she trod, stung him to the soul, and he vowed instanter to leave no stone unturned to find the Italian's retreat, if only to divest her brain of so cruel an idea of him. With this intent he

A woman who is thoroughly strong and healthy in a womanly way has to suffer comparatively little pain and sickness when she becomes a mother. Election of Connexional Officers—Amalgamation of Denominational Organs Proposed.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 16 .- At the General Methodist Conference yesterday morning, Rev. D. Sutherland, missionary secretary, recommended the appointment of a field secretary to assist the general secretary in the discharge of his duties. This he urged on account of the accumulation of work in connection with the office and the long and frequent absences from his office entailed on him by his duties.

There was some discussion on the motion, and it was decided that the appointment should be made, the new secretary to be termed, however, associate secretary instead of field secre-

Rev. D. Biggs presented a statement of the expenses in connection with the Christian Guardian. It showed a considerable falling off in circulation from 1895 to 1898.

At yesterday afternoon's session Thomas Nixon, of Winnipeg, moved the following resolution: "Whereas, the following resolution: "Whereas, this general conference has decided that the foot-note to Wesley's rules of membership be retained as part of the discipline of the church; and, whereas, it has been freely stated by ministers and laymen on the floor of the con-ference that this part of the discipline is often and openly violated with impunity; therefore, it is ordered that superintendents of circuits and mission stations be, and they are hereby instructed to administer the discipline in this behalf, and remove from the roll of membership the names of all who violate any of the commands or prohibitions contained in said foot-note, as well as those of the regular disci-plinary rules of the church."

The foot-note referred to is that forbidding dancing, theater parties, cardplaying, etc., which by an overwhelmvote the conference the other day refused to remove.

The book room committee recom-mended the amalgamation of the Wesleyan, of Halifax, and the Christian Guardian, of Toronto, the chief con-nexional newspapers, representing the east and west, respectively, and that a proposition to that effect be transmitted to the various conferences of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland, and that the amalgamation shall be carried into effect immediately, if the conferences approve.

The election of connexional officers was held by ballot. The old officers were all re-elected, and there were serious contests, especially in the case of the editorship of the Guardian and the general secretaryship of the mission board.

The first ballot was taken for book steward of the western section. There was practically no opposition to Rev. Dr. Briggs. The number of ballots cast was 225, out of which Rev. Dr. Briggs received 220. ANGLICAN SYNOD

Religion in the Schools-Resolution Discussed and Referred to a Committee.

Montreal, Sept. 16. - The biennial meeting of the Anglican Synod of the Ecclesiastical Province of Canada is being held here with a large attendance of delegates. Since the organization of the general synod of the Church of England, in 1895, the importance of the provincial synod has been considerably lessened, and there are comparatively only a few questions of importance to be considered. Very Rev. Dean Carmichael, of Montreal, was unanimously re-elected prolocutor. Mr. J. J. Mason, of Hamilton, Ont., was re-elected honorary lay secretary, and Archdeacon Evans, of Montreal, clerical secretary.

The following resolution was moved by Rev. Mr. Symonds: "That whereas, the general synod, at its second session, held in Winnipeg in the year 1896, adopted the report of the committee on the educational work of the church: and, whereas, the said report set forth, (a) that it is essential for the community and the children that there should be religious instruction in primary schools; (b) that a half-hour each school day, and if possible the first half-hour, should be given to such religious instruction; (c) that reasonable arrangements should be made for such religious instruction being given by the clergy or their deputies to the children of their own communion, or by the teacher in case of communions agreeable to this; (d) that where the above cannot be carried out, we shall rejoice at the introduction into the school course of studies of such religious instruction as tshall include the teaching of (1) selections from the Old and New Testament, and (2) the Apostles' Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and the Ten Commandments. (See journal of general synod, page 14.)

"Be it resolved, that the Synod of the Ecclesiastical Province of Canada at this session appoint a committee to cooperate with the committee of the various dioceses of the province, where such committees exist, and take active steps that shall tend to the carrying out of the views and recommendations of the grand synod." The motion was discussed at length, after which a motion was adopted, practically referring the question to a committee, to be composed of the bishop and a clergyman and layman from each diocese, whose duty it will be to urge upon the local governments the AGENTS—E. a motion in favor of an increase in the episcopacy, the increase of lay help, and a more extensive corculation of church literature. Dr. Langtry expressed the opinion that the church was losing ground in Canada in comparison with other denominations.

Discussion followed, and the question

The kidneys cannot talk except in one way. That is by making our backs ache. But people can talk about the kidneys and how to cure kidney trouble, and that is just what Mr. S. D. Mc-Eathron, the popular wine clerk of the Grand Central Hotel, has done.

Mr. McEathron says: "I have suffered for some years with pains in my back, extending over my shoulders, dizziness, headaches at times and other troubles too numerous to mention. "I suffered very greatly, indeed, and have taken many kinds of medicines which seemed to do me no good. One box of Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Curry's drug store, has given me the greatest relief from the first, and now I am as sound as a trumpet. "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills very highly to those afflicted as I was."

He broke open the door and found Mr. McArthur seated in boiling water, almost unconscious, having taken ill, and was unable to turn the hot water off after letting it on.

Special Design. The special design is style K in grand upright form, having an exceedingly handsome case, beautiful design, show ing scholarly treatment in its school of architecture. This particular style is a masterpiece of the pianoforte manufacturer's art. It contains full iron frame, agraffe bridge, and is constructed on the principle of a grand piano. It also has the double repeating action. All these latest improvements and inventions in a plano will certainly prove to the reader that it must be a plane well worth having. A few of these pianos are now on view at the warerooms, 217 Dundas street, London.
