The Emperor's Toast

Birthday.

Auspicious Opening of the Peace Commission.

Letter From Explorer Andree Reported to Have Been Found on the Coast of Iceland-Divorce in English High

Wiesbaden, Prussia, May 19. - At a luncheon given by Emperor William, in accordance with his custom, in honor of the birthday of Emperor Nicholas, the kalser toasted the czar in the following terms: "With the toast to the czar's health, which I propose every year with heartfelt sincerity. I would today couple my hearty good wishes upon the opening of the conference at The Hague, which owes its origin to his majesty's initiative." Then turning to the Russian ambassador, Count Von Osten-Sacken, he continued: "Honored count, it is my sincere wish that those two tried and experienced statesmen. M. De Stael and Count Von Munster, acting in accordance with the old traditions uniting my house with his majesty's, and the Germans with the Russian people, and carrying out identical instructions given them by the czar and myself, may so conduct the conference that the result will satisfy the czar. To the health of his

THE PEACE CONFERENCE. The Hague, May 19 .-- M. De Stael, the Russian ambassador to Great Britain, informally assuming the presidency of the conference, said his first duty was to express to M. De Beaufort his sincere gratitude for the noble terms in which he had referred to his august master, adding that his majesty would be deeply touched as well as by the spontaneity with which the high assembly had associated itself therewith. After making his address, M. De Stael, in behalf of the conference, telegraphed the Queen of the Netherlands as follows: "The members of this conference, assembled for the first time in this beautiful Huis Ten Bosch, majesty! Hurrah!"

you to accept their homage and gratitude for the hospitality you have so graciously deemed to offer them."

The reading of the message was warmly applauded. M. De Beaufort was appointed honorary president, and the leading Dutch delegate, A. P. Van Karnbeck, D. L., formerly minister of foreign affairs and deputy, was appointed vice-president. After the appointment of nine secretaries, DIVORCE IN HIGH LIFE. London, May 19.—In the divorce division of the high court of justice, Right Hon. Sir Francis Henry Jeune granted a divorce to Mr. John Blun-dell Leigh, because of the adultery of his wife, Lady Rose Leigh, a daughter of the Marquis of Abergavenny, with the young Earl of Cottenham. The case aroused great interest, owing to the aristo ratic connections of the two families.

FROM ANDREE.

Leith, Scotland, May 19 .- The Norwegian ship Viking has brought news of a letter written by Prof. Andree, which was found in a bottle tearly in April, near Riftang, on the northeast coast of Iceland, by a farmer named Johann Magnusson. The letter was then in a bottle addressed to the polar expedition at Gotteborg, and bore Andree's own stamp, with the request that it be placed in the nearest postoffice. Magnusson, it is added, gave the letter to a merchant, Sveinn Einason, at Thintelford, who mailed it, and it is expected to arrive at its destination in the course of a few days. The letter brought by the Viking was addressed to an Icelander now in London, describing the finding and forwarding of Andree's letter.

THE TRANSVAAL TROUBLE.

Cape Town, May 19.—The transport Avoca, with 500 time-expired soldiers on board, is due to leave Simonstown, but she has been ordered to remain where she is for the present. WANT TO BOUNCE THE GERMANS Nearly all the Tokio journals give publicity to a rumor to the effect that China has approached the Japanese Government with a request for aid to get Germany out of Shan Tung. The following dispatch has been received by local mandarins from Chinanfu, the provincial capital of Shan Tung: "A large force of Germans went about ten days ago to the village of Kuochiachuang, in the Lanshan Hills, near Kiao Chou, and forcibly evicted the inhabitants. When this had been done, the Germans set fire to a part of the village, and then left the place. Another force of Germans is now in Jih Chao, demanding the person of Ole hsuh Lin Tse, who is charged with having insulted a Roman priest."

FATAL TORNADO

Young Lady Drowned at Ottawa-Boy Fatally Shot.

Manchester, Iowa, May 19 .- A disastrous cyclone swept over the vicinity of Colesburg, 20 miles northeast of this city. Tuesday, doing great damage. Three persons were killed and many others injured. The town is 15 miles from a railroad, and details are meager. The storm also did great damage in the vicinity of little Port and along the Turkey River.

YOUNG LADY DROWNED. Ottawa. Ont., May 19.—Stanley and George Mead, aged 22 and 21, respectively, sons of Charles Mead, and a young lady. Blanch Dallas, were swept over Deschenes Rapids Wednesday afternoon in a skiff. Both lads were rescued a mile and a half below the rapids, after being an hour and a half in the water. Blanch Dallas was drowned. She was a stepdaughter of Wm. McConnell, of the Ottawa wire works.

FELL OFF THE DAM. Peterboro, Ont., May 19 .- Joe Wall, the 3-year-old son of Conductor Wall, of Ashburnham, was drowned in the Otonobee Wednesday. He fell off the Rogers dam, which is used as a shortcut to the village. His 12-year-old brother plunged in after him and grabbed the child just as they were swept over the slide, but lost his hold in the whirl-

BOY FATALLY SHOT. Vanleek Hill, Ont., May 19 .- Ward Leavitt, about 18 years of age, living two miles from Caledonia Springs came to an untimely end yesterday. His mother and half-brother came to Vanleek Hill to do some shopping, and on returning home found him dead in the house, having been shot. Death was probably accidental.

WIFE MURDER AT SOREL, QUE.

U. S. Pensioner Kills His Partner With a Pair of Scissors—A Texas Tragedy -The Port Huron Case.

Sorel, Que., May 19.—Cuthbert Oliveler, a U. S. army pensioner, yesterday strangled and killed his wife with a pair of scissors, and then gave himself up to the police. In passing the priest's residence he handed the priest the key of his house, saying that his wife had attacked him, and that he had stunned her. He is cut about the face, and the house bears evidence of a hard struggle. The murderer was married to his second wife Angeline Pelouquin, from Ste. Anne, last fall, presumably to get hold of a little money she had. They had lived apart most of the time, and he was always cranky and very jealous. The victim lays on the floor, half naked, with an old Union Jack thrown over her body, and with a deep but narrow wound on her right temple. The pris-oner has wounds and scratches on his face, indicating that the murder was not committed without resistance.

Within a year past the couple have separated and reunited three times.

A TEXAS TRAGEDY. Tiptonville, Texas, May 19.—Mrs. Mattox, Mrs. Edwards and Miss Brog-don, waylaid Mrs. Covington near this place and attacked her with clubs. Mrs, Covington closed on the three, and with a knife stabbed Mrs. Mattox through the heart and Mrs. Edwards in the back and lungs, killing both instantly. A children's quarrel was the beginning of the tragedy.

THE MARKS CASE. Port Huron, Mich., May 19.—As a result of yesterday's examination James Marks was bound over to the circuit court on the charge of murdering his child. Dr. Henderson stated that * girl's death was due to violence.

A LOST CAUSE

Aguinaldo's Prestige With the Army Is Gone.

Rebel Leader Sits Crying in His Tent, Afraid to Surrender.

Manila, May 19.-Two Spanish prisoners, who have just arrived here from Nueva Eoika, say Aguinaldo has lost prestige with the rebel army, which is described as being completely demoralized, short of food, suffering from disease, afraid of Americans, and rapidly dissolving into armed bands of

The prisoners add that Gens. Pilar and Luna are the only influential Fillpinos who are continuing resistance to the Americans. Aguinaldo's personal retinue was recently relieved of its baggage and money, while on the way from San Isidro to Cebanatan, by marauders. The Chinese are being victimized everywhere by both rebels and looters. Buencamino, a prominent Filipino leader (who was friendly to Spain and joined in the compromise arrangement whereby the Spaniards hoped to conciliate the rebel leaders without sacrificing too much), is reported as saying Aguinaldo sits indoors crying, blames himself for the miserable condition of the country, and is afraid to surrender.

Madrid, May 19.-The Epoca (Conservative) quotes the minister of for-eign affairs, the Marquis Pidal, as making the following statement: negotiations for the release of the Spanish prisoners in the Philippine Islands having failed, the pacification of the Philippines must now be awaited before fresh steps can be taken.'

Of Navies in the Crow's Nest

Report of the Dominion Government · Commissioner-Terrible Amount

Ottawa, May 19.-When Fraser and

Macdonald, the two young laborers on the Crow's Nest Railway construction. perished under circumstances that gave rise to suspicions that all was not as it should be in relation to the management of the camps in which the navvies boarded and lodged, an investigation was ordered. The return of the evidence taken by Mr. R. C. Clute, Q.C., the commissioner appointed by the administration to inquire into the whole question, is now available. In his report Mr. Clute states that the system of medical attendance in the camps down to the date of the deaths of Fraser and Macdonald was entirely inadequate. Hospitals were lacking, and the distances which the physicians engaged to attend to the men had to travel were altogether too great. Mr. Clute states that the inhuman treatment of the sick men, Fraser and Macdonald, was without excuse. He believes that the evidence shows that the stay of the two sick men at Bull's Head was of sufficient duration to have given ample time for procuring physicians, and that their dangerous condition was so evident that there was no excuse for taking them to Lethbridge. Mr. Clute states that in the Crow's Nest Railway construction the number of men treated for sickness was abnormally high, the total in one year reached 1,500 cases out of a total of 2,000 to 4,000 navvies employed. This, the commissioner says, indicates a fearful lack of sanitation in the camp, and it is no cause for surprise that they usually had about 20 men on the sick list in each camp. These unfortunate fellows were, of course, unfit for work, while they had to pay for board and lodg-ing. Under these circumstances, Mr. Clute suggests, that in future, when works of a class similar to that under investigation are undertaken, the government should keep an engineer on the scene, and also a chief medical man. Field hospitals should be established in camps situated at no great distance from the scene of operations. The evidence shows that when Mr. Shaughnessy, vice-president of the C. P. R., was examined, he stated that Mr. Michael Haney had been appointed superintendent of the Crow's Nest construction by the C. P. R. directorate. Mr. Haney had full power in connection with the inception of the work, and Mr. Shaughnessy said, would have charge of the medical staff. Mr. Shaughnessy explained that the navvies had to pay 50 cents per month to the contractors for medical attendance, and that the C. P. R. kept this amount back from moneys owing by them to the contractors. Mr. Clute does not name any individual as having been criminally culpable in connection with the work, but it is to be seen from his report that certain contractors were far from being careful of the health of the men in their

OTIS SKINNER.

Otis Skinner will be the attraction next Tuesday at the Grand, in that beautiful comedy, "Rosemary." Mr. Skinner has executed an exceedingly clever move in securing this bright and popular comedy. It has had the longest run of any of the Empire Theater successes in New York. The supporting company of metropolitan players is successes in New York. The supporting company of metropolitan players is said to be the strongest this popular actor has ever presented here. The play is the story of a middle-aged man and his overwhelming love for a young girl. The action begins in England during the first year's reign of Queen during the first year's reign of Queen Victoria, and ends on the occasion of her diamond jubilee. Since Mr. Skinner first presented Fitch's "His Grace de Grammont," on his initial starring tour, four years ago, he has steadily grown in popular estimation.

GARRICK CLUB TONIGHT. "Certainly nothing as elaborate or as well put on in every way has ever been done here by a professional company," is the way the Hamilton Times concludes its report of the vaudeville performance in that city by the famous Garrick Club. That performance will be repeated at the Grand Opera House here tonight, and the indications are that there will be a crowded house. The net proceeds of the entertainment, it is understood, will be given to local charity, as the club is not seeking any financial return for itself. Of the comedietta, "Second Thoughts," the Hamilton Times says: "Mrs. F. B. Greening, as Mrs. MacSharon, the widow, played the part with all the skill of a professional actress. Miss Carrie Crerar gave a charming portrayal of the part of the Hon. MR. GAMBLE'S CONCERT. The grand song recital to be given by Mr. Ernest Gamble in the Auditorium this evening should attract a large audience. Mr. Gamble is solo bass in Trinity Church, Twenty-fifth street, near Broadway, New York, and has sung in the leading Astoria and Metropoli-tan Opera House concerts. He has been soloist two seasons at Chautauqua, N. Y., and has sung under such conductors as the late Anton Seidl, Sig-nor Bevignani, Royal Italian Opera, Covent Garden, London; Henry Wood, Queen's Hall, London; Dr. H. C. Pal-mer, dean of music, Chautauqua; W. R. Chapman, conductor Maine festival; and Apollo and Rubinstein clubs, New York. Mr. Gamble will sing a splen-did programme of songs, and Mr. Edwin M. Shonert, the renowned concert planist, will contribute several solos. Lovers of music should not miss what promises to be the most interesting and

THE DRUMMOND

House of Commons Again Discuss It-More Joint High Commission Rumors.

Ottawa, May 19 .- The house spent yesterday in a discussion of the Drummond County Railway bill, Hon. John Haggart spending four hours in a reiteration of his expressed belief last year that the arrangement "savored of corruption," although at the last sitting of the special committee on the matter the former minister of railways stated that he had made no charges of corruption against any body.

Mr. Aulay Morrison, of New Westminster, analyzed the evidence given before the special committee, show-ing that Mr. Haggart had given his testimony in a very evasive manner in regard to the proposals of the Conservative administration to purchase the road. Any judge in Canada, Mr.

welcomed. There is no remedy like Burdock Blood Bitters for giving relief to such sufferers. Apply it externally and it takes out the stinging, itching and burning and promotes healthy healing. Take it internally according to directions and it gets at the source of the disease in the blood and completely and permanently drives it out of the system.

Hundreds of permanent cures of this severe skin disease by B.B.B. have been reported to us during the past year. One of these is that of D. A.

McLellan, Pelee Island North, Ont., which is as follows: "I wish to bear testimony to the good I have received from Burdock Blood dered him out of the box. He con-trasted Mr. Haggart's inept efforts to criticise on the one hand and to justify on the other with Mr. Blair's statement to the committee of his action in respect to it. He quoted from expert testimony to show that the value of the road was greater than the value of the road was greater than the price which the government paid.

Mr. Ross Robertson, Toronto, supported the resolution: He favored the extension of the I. C. t. to Montreal. He thought it better that the minister of railways should shrivel up Van Horne and Shaughnessy than that "these twin tyrants should shrivel up the country." He did not regard the question as a party one; to his mind it was one of national importance, and he was not going to give a vote which would tend to keep the I. C. R. tied up as a sort of mileh cow run on shares—the country to buy the hay while the C. P. R. takes the milk. One million six hundred thousand dollars seemed a large price to pay, but he could not see how opposition members who voted in favor of the C. P. R. selling a piece of railway for $35,000 a mile could blame Mr. Blair for buying another piece for $12,000 a mile.

Mr. Borden, Halifax, said that takby the Dominion and Provincial Governments, and the value of the road would be between $800,000 and $900,000. At midnight Mr. Borden moved that the committee rise and report progress. He will thus resume his speech a week from vesterday.

THE JOINT HIGH COMMISSION.

Mr. N. Clarke Wallace called the prime minister's attention to a Washington dispatch, in which, referring to the joint high commission it was stated "the negotiations have taken a new turn by the suggestion that the Alaskan boundary question be submitted to arbitration, independent of the other issues involved, thus leav-ing the commission free to resume its work on the many other pending ques-tions," and, further, to the effect that since the commission adjourned, Sir Julian Paunceforte and United States Secretary of State Hay have pretty well arranged a basis of settlement of most of the questions which were before the commission.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied: "I have only to say that the Washington dispatch is evidently astray. The question is today in the same position that we left it at Washington, as has been stated on the floor of the house, and I can repeat it now. Substantial progress has been made on most of the questions submitted to the commission, with the single exception of the Alaskan boundary. On that question, as the house know, we could not come to an agreement; we could not come to an agreement; we could not agree to accept the terms which were laid down by our American fellow-commissioners, and we referred the matter to the two governments interested, which have had it in hand ever since." STRANDING OF THE GALLIA.

Mr. Bergeron called attention to the stranding of the Allan liner Gallia in the St. Lawrence, and he asked whether an agreement had been reached between the minister of marine and the minister of public works as to which department should control the work of protecting this channel.

Sir Louis Davies said that everything was being done so far as the government was concerned to protest the channel. The Gallia was ashore very far away from the channel. He did not know how she got so far out of her course, and he was sorry to say, from the reports he received, that the prospects of her getting off were not dow ever seen in Canada. Barkwell's. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me good.

By His Treatment Causes the Death of a Young Pennsylvania ..

New York, May 19.—The death of Amos N. Schwendt, yesterday, at his home, in the village of New Danville, Pa., says the Herald, was the direct result of the widespread and superstitute of the tious belief among the rural inhabit-ants of Lancaster county in the "pow-wow" doctors. Few homes of the older Pennsylvania Dutch farmers are without their witch books, and charms are invoked to cure slight allments or to protect stocks or crops from the "spells" of envious neighbors. In his case the services of the "pow-wow" doctor were employed, and with fatal

Schwendt, who was 18 years old and the son of a well-to-do farmer, was walking from church two weeks ago, with Harry Erb, Harry Brooks, John Harnish and Daniel Charies and four young women. Schwendt had been paying attention to one of the girls, and young Charles, it is said, was roused to jealous anger because she preferred Schwendt to himself. According to a statement made by Schwendt just before death, Charles suddenly attacked him and landed a terrific blow on his chin.

schwendt became very ill the following day. Home remedies were tried, but proved ineffective. Rejecting the services of a physician, the family called in the "pow-wow" doctor. He made passes over the patient and mumbled what was supposed to be a charm against the disease. Schwendt grew steadily weaker, but so strong was the faith in the "pow-wow" doctor that he was kept in attendance for a week. Finally the family were prevalled upon to summons a regular physician. It was then too late, as blood poisoning had set in, and he was suffering from acute facial erysipelas. The youth died yesterday.

Jacob J. Schwendt, a brother, entered complaint against Harnish, Charles, Brooks and Erb, charging them with felonious assault and battery. They were arrested and gave bail for a hearing. The complaint against Erb and Brooks will not be pressed. Schwendt became very ill the fol-

> THE TURF. THE QUEEN'S PLATERS

Toronto, Ont., May 19.—The important candidates for the Queen's Plate were given their final preparatory work yesterday morning, and they will now take a rest until the race, which is set for 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. A decided surprise was in store for the supporters of the Hendrie stables, of Hamilton, and Butter Scotch furnished it, at the Woodbine track. Jockey Mason had the mount, and "Bunt" Flint was put on Toddy Ladle. The track was four or five inches deep in mud, slushy, in spots, but generally stick and heavy.

"GRIPPY" COUGHS

If neglected, often end in Pneumonia, Bronchitis or Consumption.

Be on the safe side—Take Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and cure the cough

Plenty of people in their graves now, who might have been alive to-day if they had cured the cough and cold associated with Grippe at the outset. It's an easy matter to do with such a remedy as Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

It has a healing, soothing action on the air passages, and at the same time acts as a disinfectant of the respiratory organs, destroying the germs that produce serious lung complications.

Mrs. Alonzo H. Thurher, Freeport. N.S., says: I had a bad attack of La Grippe and my cough was so severe that I had great difficulty in breathing. After taking two bottles of Dr.

Wood's Norway Pine Syrup I was completely cured. There are plenty of "Pine" preparations on the market trying to live on the reputation and merits of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so always insist on the genuine. Price 25c. at all dealers.

Butter Scotch carried about 112 pounds, which is 11 more than she will have on race day. Toddy Ladle had about the same weight. They ran together for three-quarters of a mile, when Butter Scotch commenced to draw away. At the mile she had three lengths the better of it, and in the last quarter she opened up a gap of 15 lengths, finishing strong, although ridden out, in 2:19%. Toddy Ladle was whipped all the way, but she did not show the speed she was believed to possess. Mr. James Hendrie and Trainer Whyte were elated at the trial, and are now confident that Butter Scotch will be a factor in Saturday's race. Play Fun and Woodstock worked the distance head and head, in 2:24½, all out. Dumbarton made the running for the pair the last mile, and was pulling back all ter of it, and in the last quarter she head and head, in 2:24½, all out. Dumbarton made the running for the pair the last mile, and was pulling back all the way.

The old Newmarket track at Little York, where the old Seagram platers were worked, were in much better condition than the Woodbine. The fa-vorite for the race, Dalmoor, was the first to perform in company with Bon Ino. Two light boys were up, Dalmoor probably having 25 pounds less than he will be called upon to carry Saturday. The plater finished half a length ahead of the mare in 2:21, and he ran hard all the journey. Curfew Bell and Sardonyx made their trial in 2:2714, and were all out at the finish, with the filly a length and a half in front. The mile was run in 1:53, Joe McGlone rode Sardonyx, and a stable boy was up on Curfew Bell. Terralta went out alone with little Blair in the saddle. She galloped the first quarter very slowly, but when the boy let her out she show-ed a barrel of speed. Her time was 2:25% and she was full of running at the finish. Trainer Boyle said that if she pulled up sound after the trial he would start her, so that Seagram can be counted on having four starters for the coveted cup.

New York, May 19.—With thick smoke fluttering up from her forward ventila-tors and the fire signal flag displayed in her rigging, the North German Lloyd ocean liner Barbarossa put back into port yesterday, ending a trip which, though only of a few hours' duration, was full of exciting incidents. The Barbarossa, which carried United States mails, drew out of her dock at States mails, drew out of her dock at 11 o'clock in the morning, ocean-bound. She carried 500 saloon and cabin passengers, several hundred emigrants in her steerage, a crew of 250 and a general cargo of merchandise, in which were over 5,000 bales of cotton. SUNK A BARGE. Her prow was run clear through the barge Foster, sinking that boat immediately, and rammed the barge Leroy so badly that she sank within a short time. The Barbarossa was hauled off, and, still burning fiercely below decks, taken across the river to her dock in Hoboken. Her cotton laden compartment was flooded, and at 9 o'clock last night the fire was extinguished. All of her passengers had been put off.

THE DAMAGE.

No estimate can be made of the damage to the Barbarossa and her cargo, as it is not known how much of the cotton was burned, although all of it is water-soaked. An enormous quantity of cereals was in the hold near the compartment in which the cotton was, and it is thought this is damaged. It is thought the Barbarossa will be put in condition for sailing on Saturday. The damage to La Bretagne is heavy. A wedge-shaped gap appears six or eight feet wide on the deck, and tapers down below the

CHATHAM'S SENSATION

Involves Fifty Society Ladies in Law Case.

Chatham, Ont., May 19.—Mme. Fay, of New York, drifted in to this place last week, and advertised that she would give advice on business, marriage and all affairs of life past. present and future. Her patrons were the elite of the city. Among her patrons were wives and daughters of lawyers, bankers, and wealthy business-

All went merrily until Mme. Fay was served with a summons to appear in the police court on Thursday to answer the charge of telling fortunes. This is punishable with a year's imprisonment. About 50 ladies prominent in Chatham's social circles have been summoned as witnesses and great is the consternation that reigns.

"The Parliament of Man." The peace conference which opened at The Hague yesterday has no historical parallel. Those who are not hopeful of the issue should remember that fifty, even twenty-five, years ego, such a gathering would have been impossible. It is a tremendous gain that the world should now seriously consider an idea which a few years ago was universally ridiculed as the dream of doctrinaires and the vision of poets. It is true that tentative suggestions of a peace congress have been made from time to time, but whereas the lords and masters of the earth could then safely ignore such an appeal, today no government or monarch of a civilized nation has dared to discountenance it. If this transformation has been wrought in so short a time, what may we not expect of the not far distant future? The conference at The Hague may yield no immediate tangible results, but it is a great objectlesson for good, and may give a new direction to the current of the world's best thought. If Great Britain and the United States stand together, as it is reported they will, for the principle of international arbitration, they will set in motion forces of public opinion which sooner or later will prove irresistible. The programme for the discussion for the peace congress was formulated by the Czar and his advisers, as follows:

1. No increase of military or naval armaments to take place for a specified time, nor an increase of the budget for such purposes.

2. Plans for the actual decrease of existing armaments to be discussed. 3. New arms and military engines, more effective than those in use at present, to be prohibited. 4. The use of destructive explosives to be limited, no baloons or similar inventions to be employed in throwing explosives. 5. The use of submarine vessels, as torpedo boats, to be prohibited.

6. No more vessels to be built for 7. The convention of Geneva to be applied in maritime warfare as well as on land. 8. Vessels used to save life after a battle at sea to be declared neutral. 9. The stipulations of the Brussels conference to be revised in accordance with modern tactics. 10. To adopt some rules for for arbitration in all cases where arbitration

It will be seen that the delegates have a broad working basis, and it will be a sorry reflection on civilization if they do not agree on some of the indicated points. Even though the salient proposals of the Czar-the abolition or reduction of armaments and the recognition of the principle arbitration - should fail, there can be no selfish or patriotic objection to the mitigation of the horrors of war, suggested in seven out of the ten paragraphs in the Czar's memorandum. The prohibition of new engines of destruction would in itself be a progressive step. This is apparent at the present moment, when nearly every artillery corps in Europe is being equipped with a new type of gun at enormous cost. Scientific and mechanical inventions will steadily increase the pressure of military budgets unless there is some check to this wasteful competition. Perhaps the feuds and jealousies of the nations will prevent even this small measure of grace, but the ignominy of total failwould spur the peace sentiment of the world to a renewed endeavor. Whatever the result, then, this august assembly marks an epoch and forewill be furled-"the parliament of man, the federation of the world."

The Anti-Vaccination Movement. A remarkable statement with regard to the effect of the recent amendment to the law govering vaccination was made by Right Hon. Henry Chaplin, president of the British Local Government Board, at a meeting in the British metropolis the other evening. He declared that the new act, which does away with vaccination in all cases where parents and guardians appear before a magistrate and swear that they have conscientious objections to the operation, is having an altogether different effect from that expected in many quarters. The head of the medical department of the Local Government Board directed the medical inspectors to report upon the increase or decrease in number of the children vaccinated in their districts this year as compared with last year, and the result proved that up to date there has been no decrease in the numbers anywhere. On the other hand, there was a notable increase in the number of visitations in all the localities heard from, the increase in the total of the certificates ranging from 25 to as high as 100 per cent. This gratifying state of affairs is attributed partly to the new system of Government has brought the Growing domiciliary visitation and partly, per-haps chiefly, to the employment of bethaps chiefly, to the employment of better and purer lymph, a reform which has removed the apprehensions of many persons who were vehemently opposed to the old arm-to-arm system which was almost universal in England long after it had been discarded elsewhere. It is moreover certain that a large proportion of the most obstinate anti-vaccinationists had no other reason for their opposition than the determination not to obey the law, which they regarded as an infringement on their personal rights and liberty. In this respect they resemble many persons in their attitude towards a prohibitory law.

While Canada should not be in too great a hurry to nationalize her alien immigrants, she will not treat them as Outlanders.

The French people may well give Marchand a royal reception. He appears to be the only French military hero who hasn't been lied out of the French army.

The Conservative papers that objected to the Doukhobors sawing cordwood will hear with disgust that these people are again depressing the labor market by building their own houses.

The definite assertion that the Joint High Commission will meet again has been heard with satisfaction in Great Britain, and with keen disappointment by the Conservative press of Canada.

The Bradley-Martins, whose daughter married the Earl of Craven, have said farewell to New York, and will hereafter live and spend their good American dollars in London. England owes a great deal to her aristocracy. Without it she would not revel in these good American dollars so profusely.

It is understood that the American proposition which will be pressed upon the attention of the representatives of the various nations at The Hague has for its basic idea voluntary internaarbitration.-Chicago Times-

This is simply grand. But why didn't this basic idea reveal itself in the Alaskan boundary dispute?

The next American census will be taken in June, 1900, and is generally expected to show a population of 80,000,-000. A Washington correspondent, however, estimates that it will be only 75,-000,000, owing to the great decrease in the birth rate in the last ten years. As a rule American families are not large, but the same cannot be said of the foreign element. Here is another race

The Bishop of London, England, commenting on the attractiveness of large towns, and the difficulty of the church in keeping pace with the growth of population in the metropolis, remarked that some of the children whom the Bishop of Bedford had sent into the country, complained that it was too or drunken men. There was something at once, a charge of perjury presented, and will probably be dealt with very severely.

The master in chambers ordered the when they faced the situation as Christians that they could bring the attractive and the appalling together. The bishop has touched on a perplexing

In the year ended March 31 last the British and Foreign Bible Society issued as many as 803,236 Bibles, 1,218,348 Testaments, and 2,457,855 portions. The total, 4,479,439, was 92,287 in excess of the corresponding figure for 1897-98, though there were considerable decreases under the headings Bibles and Testaments. In the 95 years of the ure would not be without its moral society's existence the issues have effect. By showing how heavily the numbered 160,009,393 copies in 850 lanmailed fist is laid on the nations it guages, and dialects. Russia has in many respects given larger facilities and a warmer welcome to the Bible Society than any other country outside England; and in Austria, in the teeth shadows the time when the battle flags of great hindrances, the circulation has increased by 44,000. In China the year has been full of exceptional opportunities, and the circulation has risen by 161,704 to 728,716.

> The demise of ex-Governor Flower, the Wall street magnate, emphasizes Chauncey Depew's warning about the intensity of modern business life leading to sudden death. The New York Herald gives a formidable list of notable men who have died in the past two years "from having lived at too high a nervous tension." Dr. Shrady. a prominent physician, is quoted as saying: "The average American constantly burns an electric light in his body above his eyes, while the dynamo below, represented by his nervous system, is also kept going without intermission. The result of this is that sooner or later the electric light is bound to go out, as a result of the dynamo not having had time to rest and gain additional power."

A PERJURY CASE

Developed and Promptly Dealt With at Osgoods Hall.

Toronto, May 19.—At the criminal assizes yesterday Mr. Justice Robertson ordered the arrest of John Poulter on a charge of perjury. He was crown witness in the case against Thomas Charles Yeomans and Wm. Graham, Yates. He is reputed to be a member of a gang of toughs in the east end, and was acquainted with the facts of the case before the court, and was considered an important witness. He contradicted himself, however, over and over, and at last acknowledged to Crown Attorney Dewart he was lying. When Mr. Robinette, for the defense, began his cross-examination, his lordship interposed and told Poulter he had committed perjury, and his evidence could no longer be heard. He dull because there were no funerals will be brought before the grand jury

THE CAUSE OF MISSIONS

Baptist Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies Meet-Presby terian Foreign Mission Committee Appoint Three Missionaries.

Ingersoll, May 19.—The annual convention of the Women's Baptist Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of Ontario is now in session at the Baptist Church here. A large number of delegates are present, and every in-coming train brings fresh arrivals. The convention opened yesterday, with Mrs. C. J. Holman, president of the Home Missionary Society, in the The treasurer's report showed the society to be in a most prosperous condition. The amount received from the various circles and bands was $4.802, which was expended in missionary efforts. After devotional exercises Mrs. T.A. Menhennick delivered the address of welcome, which was replied to by Mrs. Holman.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. C. J. Holman, Toronto; first vice-president, Mrs. R. W. Laird, Toronto; second vice-president, Mrs. D. Hutchison, Brantford; secretary, Mrs. A. C. McKay, Toronto; executive board, Mrs. John Lillie, Toronto; Mrs. J. A. Boyd, Toronto; Mrs. H. T. Stark, Toronto; Mrs. John Alexander, Toronto; Mrs. Hume, Port Hope; Mrs. J. N. Shanston, Toronto; Mrs. J. P. McEwen, Toronto; Mrs.

Hewson, Lindsay.

The fifteenth annual report of the re cording secretary, as read and adopted, stated that during the year four regular and two special meetings of the board were held, appropriations to the amount of $4,865 were made, and divided as follows: Northwest, $1,050; Quebec, $950; Ontario, $2,865.

Mrs. E. Hill, of Guelph, gave a very graphic report of the people who had settled in the part of Ontario between Fort William and Rat Portage, and impressed upon the minds of her hearers the necessity of taking advantage of the privileges offered in this section to establish churches. Mrs. Lillie, of Toronto, spoke for the 12,000 Galicians now settled in Canada. Mrs. Edmund Burke, of Toronto, brought out forcibly the necessity of the society taking advantage of its opportunities, and said that the God who had given Moses the power to deliver the Israelites would be the power to enable the Baptist woment to do their duty. An interesting discussion on the subject of "Giving" was conducted by Mrs. J. I. Bates, of Woodstock, which concluded the ses-

RADCLIFFE'S RIVAL

Hugh Cassidy, of Hamilton, Wants to Get a Job as Hangman.

Hugh Cassidy, a well known character, wants the job of hanging Benjamin Parrott, the matricide, on June 23rd. He has made a written application to Sheriff Middleton for the position, and says he thinks he can give satisfaction to all concerned. In his letter he asks the sheriff to address his reply, which he hopes will be favorable, care of the Salvation Army shelter. Cassidy says he is an old sallor, and knows all about nooses and knots. Many years ago he was a butcher in Chicago, and went on strike for higher wages in 1876-and he has been "out" ever since.

A few weeks ago he created a sensation on King street by appearing in a policeman's uniform and ordering women off the sidewalk.

Cassidy says he is "dead earnest" in the matter of wanting to be a hangman.

IT CAN'T BE DONE.

No One Can Remain Well, No Chronic Disease Can Be Cured Unless the Stomach Is First Made Strong and Vigorous.

This is plain, because every organ in the body depends on the stomach for its nourishment. Nerve, bone, sinew, blood are made from the food which the stomach converts to our

How useless to treat disease with this, that and the other remedy and neglect the most important of all, the stomach. The earliest symptoms of indigestion are sour risings, bad taste in the mouth, gas in stomach and bowels, palpitation, all-gone feeling, faintness, headache, constipation, liver and heart troubles, kidney diseases, nervous prostration, all of which are the indirect result of pure nutrition.

Any person suffering from indigestion should make it a practice to take after each meal one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, allowing it to dissolve in the mouth, and thus mingle with the saliva and enter the stomach in the most natural way. These tab-lets are highly recommended by Dr. Jennison because they are composed of the natural digestive acids and fruit essences which assist the stomach in digesting all wholesome food before it has time to ferment and

MINERS KILLED

By Premature Explosion of Dynamite While Sinking a Shaft.

Winnipeg, May 19.—Three miners were killed early Wednesday night by the premature explosion of dynamite while sinking a shaft at Gold Rock, near Dinowic, Ont., on a claim be-longing to the Oxford Mining Company. The dead are:

Bud Parish, of Sudbury; Joseph Laurin, of Rat Portage; — Quirk, of Wabigoon. The men were working on the night shift, and were found dead in the mine next morning, when the day men

U. S. SOLDIERS SENT TO ALASKA

To Prevent Collision Between Canadian and American Miners.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 19.—A special dispatch from Washington says: To preserve peace and order in Alaska and to prevent a conflict between American and Canadian miners, which may injure the good relations existing be-tween the United States and Great Britain, orders have been issued by Secretary Alger, under which three companies of infantry will be sent immediately to that territory.

These orders have been given with the approval of the state department, which has forwarded the proper notifi-cation to Great Britain to convince to $3 80; mixed, $3 60 to $3 85; butchers, $3 65 to $3 92½; lights, $3 60 to $3 87½; pigs, $3 30 to $3 75. The demand for sheep and lambs was unabated, and prices ruled strong at the recent advance; sheep sold at $4 75 to $5 50, chiefly $5 25 to $5 50; Colorado wooled lambs, $6 55 to $6 75; shorn lots, $5 75 to $6 20; spring lambs, $7 to $8. Receipts—Cattle, 9,000; hogs, 32,000; sheep, 15,-000. that government that the United States is acting in good faith to maintain peace. They are also due to the failure of Secretary Hay and Sir Julian Pauncefote to arrange a modus vivendi, which, the authorities say, would have prevented the condition of affairs now reported along the boundary line. Senator Fairbanks and former Secretary of State Foster, members of the high joint commission, were in conference today with Secretary Hay regarding the negotiations which ambassador Choate has been conducting in London with reference to the Alaskan boundary.

DOING THE SQUARE THING

Dominion Government Takes No Advantage-Redistribution by Judges.

Ottawa, May 19.-The redistribution bill which Mr. Mulock is to introduce in the house after the Queen's Birthday adjournment will be of an exceeding simple character. The government's adherence to the system of adopting county boundaries as the limits of constituencies will be shown, and in the provinces affected a commission of judges will be appointed to arrange the division of the counties entitled to more than one member. Thus, while the house will arrange the number of members, to the judiciary will be delegated the duty of apportioning the representation within county lines, and the very shadow of party advantage will be done away with. Anxiety to score by "stacking the cards" in the redistribution has made no appearance in the deliberations, and the decision of the government. The present gerrymander, with its many amorphous monstrosities, in the shape of electoral divisions, is doomed, and will soon be a thing to be remembered as being in the same class as the family compact and the double majority system in the parliament of old Canada.

WM. ARCHER ON SHAVING

An English Critic Doesn't Like the American Process-A Humorous

Description. William Archer, the noted English critic, has been visiting the United two took a sea states for the first time, and records affectionately: some of his impressions in a breezy "And has my letter the the Pall Mall Gazette. Here is his desscription of shaving: In an English barber's shop shaving is a brief and not unpleasant process; in an American "tonsorial parlor" it is a lingering and costly torture. One of the many reasons which lead me to regard the Americans as a leisurely people rather than a nation of "hust-lers," is the patience with which they submit to the long-drawn tyranny of the barber. In England one grudges five minutes for a shave, and one pays from fourpence to sixpence; in America one can hardly escape in 25 minutes, and one pays (with the executioner's tip) from a shilling to fifteen pence. The charge would be by no means excessive if one wanted or enjoyed all the endless processes to which one is subjected; but for my part I would willingly pay double to escape them. The essential portion of the business the actual shaving, is, as a rule, badly performed, with a heavy hand, and with a good deal of needles pawing about the patient's head.

But when the shave is over the horrors are only beginning. First your face is cooked for several minutes in relays of towels steeped in boiling wa-Then a whole series of essences ter. is rubbed into it, generally with the torturer's naked hand. The sequence of these essences varies in different "parlors," but one especially loathsome hell-brew, known as "witch hazel," is everywhere inevitable. Then your wounds have to be elaborately doctored with stinging chemicals; your hair, which has been hopelessly tousled in the pawing process, has to be drenched in some sickly-smelling oil and brushed; your mustache has to be lubricated and combed, and at last you escape from the tormentor's clutches, rritated, enervated, hopelessly late for an important appointment, and so reeking with unholy odors that you feel as though all great Neptune's ocean would scarcely wash you clean again. Only once or twice have I submitted, out of curiosity, to the whole interminable process. I now cut it short, not with-out difficulty, before the "witch hazel" stage is reached, and am regarded with blank astonishment and disapproval by the tonsorial professor, who feels his art and mystery insulted in his person, and is scarcely mollified by a 10-cent tip. Americans, on the other hand, go through all these processes, and more, with a stolid and long-suffering patience. Yet this nation is credited with having invented the maxim "Time is with feverish consistency!

THE BUFFALO STRIKE. Buffalo, May 19.-The strike of grain

shovelers, freight handlers, ore dockmen, elevator machinists and coal heavers has developed into a struggle between Bishop Quigley and the strike leaders. The bishop secured a promise from the men on strike that they would accept the concessions that he had secured for them and return to work when he gave them the word. However, a few of the more hot-headed leaders of the grain shovelers, succeeded in getting the men to repudiate agreement with the bishop, and now the prospect of a settlement of the trouble is more remote than ever. JOHN BURTON DEAD.

Portland, Me., May 19 .- John Burton, a prominent railroad man, died suddenly at Peak's Island Tuesday night. He was born in Lancashire, England, 58 years ago. He was pri-vate secretary of the general manager of the Grand Trunk, and later was general freight agent of that road at Montreal. For the past four years he had been manager of the Joint Traffic Association at New York.

Mr. Burton leaves a wife and several children. The remains will be buried at Hamilton, Ont.

EXTENDING HIS SPHERE OF AF-FLUENCE. The young physician was tired when he returned from his evening's calls, but as he settled back in his easy chair and his pretty wife of only a month or two took a seat beside him he asked "And has my little wife been lonely?"

"Oh, no," she said animatedly; "at least, not very. I've found something to busy myself with." "Indeed," he said. "What is it?" "Oh, I'm organizing a class. A lot of young girls and married women are in it, and we're exchanging experiences and teaching each other how to cook. "What do you do with the things you cook?" he asked interestedly. "Oh, we send them to the neighbors just to show what we can do. It's great fun." 'Dear little woman," he said, leaning over and kissing her. "Always thoughtful of your husband's practice; always anxious to extend it."

The man who owns a paste diamond isn't necessarily an Irishman just because he wears a sham-rock. An Interesting Case.

Mr. W. G. Phyall, proprietor Bodega Hotel, 36 Wellington street east, To-ronto, says: "While living in Chicago I was in a terrible shape with itching and bleeding piles. I tried several of the best physicians and was burnt and money," and is reputed to act up to it tortured in various ways by their treatments to no avail, besides spending a mint of money to no purpose. Since coming to Toronto I learned of Dr. Chase's Ointment, I used but one box and have not been troubled with piles in any shape or form since."

It cures soreness and lameness when applied externally, as well as swelled neck and crick in the back; and, as an inward specific, possesses most substantial results.

-The newly-elected board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. will meet on Monday night for organization. It is altogether likely that the following gentlemen will be asked to accept the position as members of the board of trustees: Messrs. Geo. Robinson, V. Cronyn, Thomas McCormick, John Cameron, Wm. Bowman, Thomas Kent, W. H. Wortman, Dr. Buchan, W. R. Hobbs and Dr. Hodge.

-The death occurred at an early hour this morning of Miss Edith Mary Gould, daughter of Mr. Wm. Gould, of the Bank of Toronto, at the family residence, 45 Regina street. Deceased was ill only five days with heart trouble, and was a most estimable young Her death was totally unexpected, and will be heard of with painful surprise by a large circle of friends. The funeral of the late Dr. A. H. Jones, of Sheridan, Wyo., who died suddenly at that place on Saturday, May 13, took place yesterday from his father's residence, York street, St. Catharines. The body reached there Wednesday evening, and the certificate of death which accompanied it showed that to have been caused by acute gastritis. The doctor leaves a wife, the second daughter of Mr. Thomas Tune, Wellington street, this city, and one little boy, who were at home on a visit at the time of his death. WILL SPEAK AT THE AUDI-TORIUM. In writing up the men who made the great international Sunday school convention at Atlanta, the Sunday School Times has this to say regarding the two distinguished workers who are to address the mass meeting in the Auditorium on Monday night, the 22nd:

"Mr. Alfred Day, of Toronto, square-shouldered, sturdy and self-controlled, presided at these conferences. One who has drawn from him with diffi-culty stories of his journeyings by canoe and on foot in the wilderness of his province, one who has talked with his friends in the home city, can never see Mr. Day without a sense of having caught a glimpse of an apostle out of the pioneer days of the faith."

"Prof. Hamill has traveled from one end of the land to the other, speaking at conventions, holding institutes, encouraging, exhorting and instructing. His rugged earnestness, command of language, and his thoroughly practi-cal bent of mind, carrying conviction and stimulus to those who know or

The Statement of the Mail That Hon David Mills Pardoned Sam Lindsay.

[Special to The Advertiser per C.P.R.] Ottawa, May 19.-The Mail and Empire of a recent date, referring to the burglaries and safe-blowings which have taken place at various points in Ontario, said: "The only Canadian crook capable of doing the work, who is at liberty, was Sam Lindsay, whom Hon. David Mills pardoned after he had been sent down for a burglary at Hamilton."

This statement is manufactured out of whole cloth. Hon. David Mills has not pardoned Sam Lindsay, he has not allowed him to go out of the penitentiary on a technicality.

In the last five years there has been no such man as Sam Lindsay in the penitentiary, and, therefore, no such man has been pardoned.

CAPT. PARSONS

Demise of an Old and Much Esteemed Citizen and Crimean Veteran.

Capt. W. J. B. Parsons, an old and highly respected citizen of London, died at his home, 73 Elmwood avenue, South London, about 6:15 last evening, aged 71

Capt. Parsons had a host of friends, who will hear with deep regret of his death. He was born in Tiverton, Devonshire, England, in 1828, and entered the British army in 1846, joining Fifty-fifth Regiment of Foot. In his youth he served for a long time in Ireland, and subsequently passed through the Crimean war. At the Heights of Alma he carried the colors to victory, and was wounded in the head. At the storming of the Redan he was severely wounded in the shoulder and foot, and he was also one of those who, after a desperate struggle, marched triumphantly into Sebastopol. Captain Parsons was acknowledged to be one of the handsomest and finest looking soldiers in the Fourth Battalion of the Sixtieth Rifles, with which regiment he was connected when he came to Canada. He received his discharge after 21 years' service, and accepted a commission as captain in the First Canadian Rifles. He also served in the Red River expedition under General Wolseley, and worked alongside the commander and Gen. Lindsay in the trenches. Lord Wolseley, before returning to England, from Canada, reported to the Canadian Government that he had found Capt. Parsons one of the most valuable officers who took part in the expedition. Capt. Parsons also took part in repelling the Fenian raid.

For some years the captain had been engaged as a clerk in the office of the crown attorney, Mr. James Magee, Q.C. He leaves a widow, two sons and two daughters. The former are, William J. T., of Sarnia, and J. H. R., of Omaha. Neb. The daughters are Mrs. Finch, of Sarnia, and Miss Rosa, at home. The remains will be taken to Sarnia for Interment tomorrow.

CITY HALL NOTES

Engineer Kennedy, the Montreal expert, whose opinion as to what kind of a dam should be built at Springbank and how the river should be improved, the water commissioners have been waiting some weeks for, arrived in the city this morning on the C. P. R. At noon the board of commissioners-Messrs. W. Jones and J. W. Little, and Mayor Wilson, together with Engineer Kennedy and Supt. Moore, went to Springbank to look over the ground. They returned about 2 o'clock and Mr. Kennedy's report will be made at an early date.

At the council meeting tonight a pe tition to have a deputation go to Ottawa in the interests of the proposed new aerial road from London to Goderich, will be considered. Mr. M. Cameron, son of the late Hon. M. C. Cameron, lieutenant-governor of the Northwest Territories, is president of the new company

Ald. Douglass considers that a general reference, which recently appeared in the Advertiser, to aldermanic interference with work of the city engineer's department was aimed particularly at him. He resents it, and says that while other aldermen have been guilty of putting men at work for the corporation without consulting the engineer he has in every case consulted the engineer first.

Arbitration To Be Satisfactory Must Not Be Limited.

Recognition of the Union the Orucial Point-Company's Offer to Arbitrate Carefully Restricted.

The street railway dispute is more clearly defined. The company reiterates its offer to arbitrate as to differences arising under the old agreement. The men insist that any arbitration must include all questions in dispute, such as increase of wages and recognition of the union. The company's original offer is repeated in the following

The following letter from the management has been received by the men's committee:

"London, May 18, 1899.
"Dear Sirs,—Your favor, dated the 15th inst., was received at our office on the evening of the 17th inst., in which you state 'You accept our chalissued in the Free Press, to submit, the question in dispute between the London Street Railway Company and its employes to arbitration.' This we are prepared to do. You, however, further state you re-fuse to confine the arbitration to any one clause or point in dispute. we do not ask you to do. We want a full and thorough investigation as to whether the company has in any way violated the existing agreement, which necessarily includes every question that has arisen thereunder between the company and its employes. This we desire-that every clause of the agreement which you claim we have violated, shall be sifted to the bottom, and to aid in this object, we now ask you (in the words of Mr. Essery at your meeting on Tuesday evening) to put all your grievances in black and white, in order that the arbitrators to be appointed may know what will come before them. THE LONDON STREET '(Signed) RAILWAY COMPANY,

"Per C. E. A. Carr, Secretary." London, May 19, 1899.

C. E. A. Carr, Secretary, London Street Railway Company: Dear Sir,-Your letter of the 18th inst. received. If your letter had ended with the words, "This we do not ask you to do," then we would be in a investigation of all matters in dispute. The clause following the above quotation limits the scope of the investigation. And we again ask that you will, on behalf of the company, accept a full investigation, before an arbi-tration board, of all matters we claim to be in dispute, or causes of friction between the company and its employes. JOHN GARNETT, (Signed)

R. WESTBY. W. CRAWFORD, M. DE LISLE, F. ARMSTRONG.

UNRESTRICTED ARBITRATION

The employes' committee explain its position in refusing to give an un-qualified acceptance of the company's offer to arbitrate the question as to whether the old agreement has been broken or not, as follows:

Regarding the communications received from the directors in regard to arbitration, the committee beg to state for the information of the public, the first part of the document ending with the words. "This we do not ask you to do," is satisfactory. But it is to be noticed that after this there is a distinct limitation of the investigation as to whether the company have violated the lately expired agreement or not, and it is the contention of the committee that every cause of friction existing between the company and its employes shall enter into the scope of the investigation. It is evident that the company are determined not to recognize our association, and without such recognition there would be no protection for any man on the road. We have learned by experience that we have to be very careful in regard to any documents we receive or sign, which are drawn up by the solicitors of the corporation. All we ask is that the company submit each and every question in dispute, including the new agreement, without limitation, to a fair and impartial board, composed of responsible and disinterested citizens; and we are prepared to stand by the decision of such board. We have al-ready stated that it is our earnest desire to avoid trouble. The old agreement expired May 11, and this is the 19th, and we are still endeavoring to secure an amicable settlement. We secure an amicable settlement. do not intend to have a readjustment that will not settle existing difficul-ties. And it is because we fully believe the company's letter is not an acceptance of a full investigation that we have referred the question back to them. When they meet a fair arbitration board, and submit every difference between us, we are anxious and ready to meet them. But for the protection of the men and the welfare of their wives and children we must insist that any arbitration held shall not be limited in its scope or hampered with limita-It must be a full investigation tions. of each and every question in dispute, and nothing else will satisfy or be acceptable to the committee.

A PASSENGER'S POINT OF VIEW. "A Passenger on the London Street Railway" writes, suggesting, "that the employes of the company show their appreciation of public sympathy (more particularly to the ladies using the cars) by keeping their cars clean and free from dust and dirt. You cannot enter a car that the backs of the seats and the window sills are not covered with dust and the floors dirty. The latter never appears to be scraped out. I am quite aware that where the streets are not watered, the dust is continually entering the car, but there is not a single round trip that a car does not run, at some portion of it, nearly empty, and during that period the conductor could dust and sweep the car instead of standing idle. For this purpose the company should supply every car with a watering can so that the conductor could sprinkle the car previous to sweeping it, and also with dusters, so that all the interior wood work could be dusted down." The writer commends some two or three conductors who, when on their cars, utilize their spare time in sweeping and cleaning them, and trusts the practice will become general, but points out that the conductors' time will be thrown away if the vile habit some men have of spitting on the floor is continued. In conclusion, the writer scores the company for trying to make their cars "as unattractive and hideous as possible by fitting in the widows with barbarous colored glass.'

[Special to The Advertiser per C.P.R.] Ottawa, May 19.-The attention of the department of the interior has been called to the statement made by the Hudson's Bay Company's inspector at Cassiar, British Columbia, and the Provincial Government's agent at Glenora, to the effect that about 400 persons, many of whom are Americans, were in a state of destitution and sickness on the Liard and Dease Rivers, and Dease Lake, caused, in a great measure, by exposure and starvation, and in general were suffering very greatly. CANADA SOUTHERN AND THE L. E. AND D. R. R.

The petition for the Lake Erie and Detroit River Railway Company for running powers over the Canada Southern Railway from Ridgetown to St. Thomas, was up again at the railway committee privy council. Mr. Kings-mill, Q.C., for the Canada Southern, said that the deputation which was here the last time the case was heard, developed the application into asking for a subsidy for an independent line, rather than for running powers. The Canada Southern opposed that. They were willing to double-track their road if they got a subsidy of $3,200, and give runing powers to the Lake Erie and Detroit River Road under such terms as the committee would decide. The superintendent of the Canada Southern took exception to the statements by the deputation here the other day in regard to the traffic of the road, and asked that a delegation be received to contradict the representations they made. Mr. Blair said he would fix a day for this purpose.

Goderich, May 19.—Rev. Morgan Wood, of Bond Street Congregational Church, Toronto, finished lecture at Victoria Opera House on Tuesday evening, the 16th inst., the fifth and last of the entertainments given by the Musical Society of this town. Rev. Morgan Wood is up-todate, a close observer of humanity, in touch with the times, an admirer of great men-who, he says, are in the minority, the others following afterhumorous, an admirer of Shakespeare, a lover of music, and one who advocates practice. Experience is the school he advocates, and to live for great things, to have a large sphere of action rather than a small one. He spoke for two and one-half or three hours upon the platform, after his arrival on the 7:30 train from Toronto, and not one sign of fatigue or displeasure at the wet day marred his pleasant face. He said he had a chum named Jack, who sat with him at a school desk for years, until one day when the teacher put ten questions in arithmetic on the blackboard. Jack worked off the questions in short order; he sat looking at the blackboard. The papers were called for. Jack's paper was covered, and perfect; Mr. Morgan's paper had nothing upon it. Jack got 98 marks and he (Morgan Wood) the other two. "The other two," he said, and they parted then and there. But he did not add how it is now with Jack. With the Rev. Morgan Wood it is $5,000 a year in Toronto. He is humorous to a degree. When traveling in the South he came to the Suwannee River, and while the train waited, he went down and "sostled," as he said, his hand in it, and he feels today the better for it. GWYN.

"You know me. You are acquainted with the past. But, oh, do not refuse my nursing him. Pray do not!" and she sunk on her knees, "You cannot tell how dear he is to me."

Speedily he raised her. Heavens! Into what a perilous position he had led his friend! What would Bir Merton Gower say? Still, could ne refuse that levely, sorrowful face? No! Yet better at once for her sake, let the truth be known.

"Miss Rebna," he said, with the deepest respect. "I cannot refuse you. Yet, it is just to both-to you, I mean, and him, also to another-to say my friend is engaged to be married.' "Married!" she ejaculated, turning white and staggering; then, with an effort, "Why not? How could I expect otherwise? Never could he wed me. Trust me and let me nurse him now." "I do." said the barrister, much moved."I leave everything to your good sense and honor. With confidence I in-

Edward Pensleigh felt like an unfeeling brute in her sad, sweet presence; and, as Mrs. Rebna returned, he quitted the cottage for some time, to pace the solitary beach alone.

"Good heavens! how was all this to end?' he asked himself. "Danger or no danger, the baronet must be informed of his son's new peril at once. He, the barrister, must get the responsibility off his own shoulders,"

All through his meditations, Gwyn's face haunted him, and, after a space, he went back to the cottage, he cried: "By Jove, she is an ocean idyl-a sheila. I don't blame Rowland for sticking to her. I'd like to go in and win, myself.' He sat up that night with the old fisherman by the fire in the little parlor. Daniel conceived the enemy of his daughter's peace beneath his roof; yet he was too noble to refuse its hospitality. So the hours stole on, Edward Pensleigh's admiration increasing for the old man as he listened to his yarns, and the silence only otherwise broken by his friend's voice in delirium.

With the dawn came the doctor. How eagerly the two present strove to read his countenance. It was grave. "The patient is neither worse nor better," he said. "All depends on the next | you have it."

parted for the mainland, to send a telegram, which he worded thus: "R. has brain fever—no danger—still, come immediately. He lies at the cottage of a fisherman named Rebna. The doctor pronounced Rowland's fever gone, and all danger past, adding that he owed his existence to the Rebnas. You have saved his life for the third time," remarked the barrister, warmly, as he and Gwyn stood alone in the parlor by the firelight. "How his father will thank you."

'No," responded the girl, sadly; "he would possibly rather his son had died. Perhaps father was right; we ought to have gone and left him to others; but, oh, I could not. I prayed them to re-main. Still, Sir Merton need not fear; now he is no longer in danger we will her intention. Edward Pensleigh was about to expostulate, when there was a sound of approaching feet outside. Old Daniel, too, had heard it, and came hurriedly from the inner room, where Rowland slept, followed by his wife.

At the same moment the other door opened, and the aristocratic form of Sir Merton Gower-the expression of his countenance a blending of anxiety and proud indignation - appeared, a lady, veiled, coming after him.

"I thank you, sir. No doubt I shall find suitable words to acknowledge such kindness."

What do you mean, Sir Merton?" "That, sir, my son's danger from fever is, it appears, the least I have to fear," haughtily answered the baronet. "The plot is as mean as it is contemptible, sir."
"Plot, Sir Merton! Surely you accuse me of none!' Those whom I accuse it matters not.

Suffice it that an opportune brain fever caused an opportune landing on a wild shore where lived people my son, in all honor, should never have looked on again, except in scorn.'

Grand, picturesque, in his manly ruggedness, Daniel Rebna now stepped forward, and confronted with a dignity equal to his own.

Would to heaven, Sir Merton," he exclaimed, "your son had never beheld us again, or, indeed, ever; for he has brought bitter sorrow where once was joy. On this gentleman pray-ing for hospitality for his friend, it was granted. I did not know who he was. When I did, I would have gone hence; for I had vowed he or his should never again shadow my humble threshold. Her prayers—his danger, however, moved me, and we stayed. But this night your son is out of danger, and I and mine would have left this before we were again insulted by the sight of your presence. Now we depart. Come, Gwyn-come, my girl. Come, dame. We need no thanks. It has been the simple duty of man to man." Proudly waving the baronet aside, he approached the door; but the lady, stepping quickly forward, caught his arm, Throwing back her veil Gwyn recognized Lady Mary.

"This must not be," she exclaimed, decisively. "Sir Merton, you are cruelly unjust. Mr. Rebna, you are just, but hasty. Have you cause for complaint? Mr. Gower would have been true to your daughter had she been true to him." "She was true," cried the old man, flercely. "Nay, lass, I'll not be stayed. I'm as proud as they are," he added, as Gwyn sought to check him. "Your name shall no longer rest under a cloud for them. If, Sir Merton," and he confronted the baronet again, "you can't feel grateful to this child for three times saving your son's life, be so for her saving your honor, as you consider it. Your own niece prayed my child, on her knees, to release your son, and she did." "Father!" expostulated Gwyn, aistressed, but he proceeded.

"Yes, she yielded. There was only one way to release him-to hide herself; and, after writing a letter to him, bidding him not seek her, but obey his family's will, she fled, taking with her -a broken heart.

"By heaven! she wrote? No letter, then, ever reached me." All turned in amaze. There, attired in Edward Pensleigh's dressing-gown, his face ghastly, leaning for support against the doorway, stood Rowland "Gwyn-Gwyn!" he cried excitedly.

"I have heard all. I never, I declare, received a letter from you. "Then she wrote it for all that,"broke in the dame sharply; "and she gave it to Miss Rylands, who promised to let "Deceived; I knew it," cried Rowland, tremulously. "Ah, Marian." Then, pleadingly extending his hand to the door, he exclaimed: "Gwyn, you will not leave me. No-no. Tell me you are not false. You did not go with—"

"She!" interrupted Daniel, facing them. "Didn't I tell that fine captain she was true? Didn't I know it was all base falsehood, made to cast shame on her? I repeat, what she did for your sake at, least so they told her and she went with a bruised heart."

"Gwyn, come to me-oh, come!" But she did not move. She stood, trembling, with downcast eyes. Edward Pensleigh, seeing Rowland's strength failing, sprang to his side, and supported him to a chair.

"Rowland," remarked the baronet, sternly, "you forget yourself, or you haven't perceived who is my companfon." He raised his eyes, and ejaculated with surprise and alarm.

"Lady Mary!" "Yes. Rowland," she smiled, advancing. "Lady Mary, who, now she has fortunately learned the truth, will, as Gwyn Rebna, for your sake, release you from our engagement. Henceforth I will accept you gladly as a brother, but never as more.' With grateful eyes, more eloquent than words, he thanked her, kissing the hand she had given him; then he extended his to Gwyn.

"Gwyn, my wife!" he murmured. If all young women could have the right sort of motherly advice much of the unhappiness of the world would be

"Rowland, you are mad, sir!" ex-claimed the baronet, angrity, stepping between them. "By heaven, I would sooner see you dead! If you stoop to such a unlon, you are no son of mine." "Before heaven, sir, our troth was plighted. It can never be broken.

"In his wedding Gwyn," said old Daniel, "heaven only knows whose child he marries, for no blood of ours flows in her veins."

"Father," cried Gwyn, with sudden alarm and surprise.
"Nay," replied the fine old man, sadly, shaking his head; "only in affection, Gwyn. The sea gave you to us, and gladly we accepted the gift as sent from heaven."

"Daniel Rebna," ejaculated Rowland, much excited, "what do you mean?" "That. Mr. Gower, which, if you hadn't been in such a hurry the day when you came to tell us how you loved Gwyn, and were going up to town to work for her, you would have known then this dear child is none of ours."

[To be Continued.] RELIGIOUS DELUSION

And the Treatment-How to Reach and Aid the Victim.

[Chicago Interior.] It would seem that men were never in the past more subject to dejusion than now. Any pretender, if he have talent, and shrewdness, can have a following on any line. The most fruitful field for imposture is now, as always, in the perversion of the religious instincts. And here we see one of those strange and even startling analogies between the spiritual and the material. By a law of psychical chemistry the religious instincts, precipitated by any of the selfish passions, produce savagery, in various degrees of concentration. And here comes in a principle which runs like a thread through the woof of Scripture, that neither religion nor implety have their seat in the cogitative faculties. find in practice how accurate the Scriptural definition is. Education, in the ordinary sense of the word, gives no immunity from religious delusion. Sound religious instruction, addressed as it is to the intellect, gives but little. The reasoning faculties, while working normally upon other subjects, may be feeble or non-existent here. Indeed, a perversion of the religious instincts gives an unnatural appetite for absurdities and spiritual garbage another strange analogy between this form of spiritual disease and some of the physical forms. The prevalence of spiritual feebleness and disease has brought out a swarm of impostors to take advantage by pilfering the victims of the general readiness for infatuations. There was a more favorable time for cunning ignorance and for applied hypocrisy

Ministers, parents, sound-minded friends have found to their despair that nothing can be effected by appealing to reason. They are surprised to discover that the more clearly they show the preposterosity of any imposture, the more the victims are wedded to it. They will not be when they have come to look into the conditions-when they see that this is simply feeding the delusion, which has a greedy appetite for absur-

We must remember that none of us are of ourselves conscious of our own defects, and if we, as children, have no teachers to show them to us, or as adults have no friends who are sufficiently friendly to tell us of them, we shall never be aware of their existence. The victims of spiritual disease and hallucinations are wholly unconscious of the fact, and it is rarely that the knowledge of their defect can be successfully communicated to them. But we have said that the reasoning faculties may be quite normal, while weak or non-existent in relation to religious perversion and delusion. Let it be added that the wholesome and proper passions and desires of the heart have a wide range. People desire the respect and confidence of their fellows and neighbors. They desired to be successful in Mfe. It is a rational and laudable, and an all prevalent ambition, which leads one to seek to acquire the power of personal influence and of

In dealing, therefore, with religious delusion it is quite possible to reach the victim through that which is sound in his intellect and desires. Unless in extreme cases of degeneracy, he may be led to see that the cherishment of such delusions is inconsistent with himself, with his own self-respect, and that they are fatal to the proper and virtuous desires which actuate his life. He may be led to see that they destroy that public confidence in him which is essential both to happiness and to success-that they disparage his intellectual and moral character, and therefore relegate him to the waste-heap of the untrustworthy. This does not cast any reflection upon his sincerity, which may be unquestionable. It implies no prejudice of any kind against him. It is the result of that general prudence, which comes of experience, that the victims of religious fraud and imposture, by thus showing that they are incapable of taking care of their own strictly personal interests, are not to be trusted with the care of the interests of other

The Price of a Million

Every now and then you see in the newspapers an interview with some millionaire describing his struggles and successes. If these confessions are to be believed, there are two methods of acquiring greath wealth. One is genius, Jay Gould, who never saved a penny in his life, had this sort of genius. The other method, alone worth discussing, may be fairly described as "keeping your eye on the main chance."

A dozen millionaires have explained their system of money-getting, and ail may be summed up in the one word: "Application." If you wish to make money you must give your whole mind to it. "It is not what you make, but the proportion you save that makes you rich," Mr. Sage says. "Accumulate." says Mr. Huntington. "I never spent one cent on luxury or pleasure until I was past fifty."

Any young man not absolutely an imbecile can amass vast sums of money by applying his energies solely to that end. The beggar of one-andtwenty who sets himself resolutely to make as much and spend as little as he can is pretty sure to be a tolerably rich man if he live threescore years.Sagacity is a good thing to have; educagacity is a good thing to have, tion is useful; but the main thing is self-denial. Mr. Sage, Mr. Rockefeller, Mr. Huntington, and a dozen others, all bear witness that selfdenial is the road to great wealth. Nothing could be plainer. The young man who wishes to be rich has merely to learn the art of "doing without." He must learn to strip himself of the unnecessary. He must deny himself wife, children, friends—deny himself social pleasures and personal luxuries-deny himself everything that does not aid him in his struggle to be rich. A doilar saved is much more than a mere dollar-it is the potentiality of wealth

A dollar saved and sent out to work for its master is the beginning of wealth. Unquestionably, the man who "sets his heart" on making money must deny himself a great deal. He reaches his goal only by dropping on the way almost all that is worth living for. His life is robbed of many hours of happiness that should be in it. In that hard, self-centered game of getting money he loses the faculty of enjoyment. Friends are luxuries far too costly for the struggling millionaire. When he has succeeded, when he is "past 50," he may, to be sure, buy a friend or two -but such friends are unsatisfactory as artificial flowers. It is too late for the pleasures of art. He may shut himself up in his library with Shelley's "Skylark," and say: "Now I will entertain thoughts too deep for tears"; but it will be only to find his appreciations atrophied. The millionaire, according to his confessions, pays dearly for his millions. His life is negative, barren, gray-except, in so far as the accumulation of wealth repays him for giving up all that men love best. Fifty years of exacting labor and rigid self-denial in this country of abundant opportunity will make any man of average intelligence rich. Up-on the truth of this statement the rich men are agreed. But is it worth while? To decry wealth is as vulgar as to worship it. No man is willingly poor. Indeed, the poor man is only a man who wants to be rich. And that is well and good. He is but a fool who does not plant seeds of trees in his youth that he may have fruit and shade in his old age. But on the road that leads to great wealth there seems to be far too many occasions for sacrifice. You must deny yourself the pleasure of helping your friends, of enjoying the costly luxuries of good society and good living for, and that, as well, teach you how to live.

And then—"after 50"—when life has cooled and hardened into habit, it is too late to bring yourselw into touch with the ways of men who do not practice self-denial, but spend and are spent in the service of humanity.

books and good music; you must deny yourself all those things that are worth

On the whole, after hearing the evidence of the millionaires, I am inclined to think that the game of making millions is not worth the candle. There are not enough dollars in a million to repay one for denying himself wife and children, friends and books, and the pleasure-reckless though it be-of giving a dinner to the tramp at the door or the beggar in the street.-Saturday Evening Post.

The Sons of England conversazione, held in the ball room of the Masonic Temple last night, was in every particular a great success, and will be an annual event in the future. The duties of chairman fell upon ex-Mayor Essery, and he ably fulfilled them. He thought the Sons of England should have an annual event, just as the other national bodies in this city, and suggested that the event in future be held on the Prince of Wales birthday, so as not to clash with the others. No nationality was doing more for this country than the English. Mr. Essery then introduced the guest of the evening in a few complimentary freshments were served. Unfavorable weather interfered somewhat with the words. Mr. Hodgetts congratulated the brethren on the success of the gather-ing. He hoped that other lodges in different parts of the Dominion would follow the example set by London. There was no band of men more loyal to the Queen than the Sons of England, and they hoped she might be spared to rule for many years to come. The grand president expressed the hope that in 25 years there would not be an Englishman in Canada who was not identified with the order, the benevolent department of which had been a blessing to many an Englishman's widow and children. That the order was flourishing was evidenced by four applications for charters for new lodges.

Before being seated the supreme grand president presented Ald. Parnell with a past supreme grand president's jewel, and in doing so complimented Ald. Parnell upon the able manner in which he had performed his duties. The society had flourished in this city under his direction, and it was mainly through his efforts that the bill of inwith which they were highly pleased, adjourned until tonight, when the building will be formally taken off the corporation was put through the House hands of the contractors, and thrown of Commons. Ald. Parnell replied feelingly. open to the trust, so that the work of moving from the old building may bewas glad to know that his services had appreciated, and he hoped he might long be spared to advance the order's interests.

Mrs. E. Hooper, of Horton street, the district deputy grand president of the Daughters of England, and Rev. J. W. Pedley also spoke briefly. Mr. R. A. Jones gave a resume of the good work being done by St. George's Society, and Mr. W. C. Coo replied to

LOST AT NIAGARA

Thomas Gibson, a Former Londoner, Missing-He Was Ill.

The following dispatch relates to a former Londoner, employed for some some time as a groom by Dr. H. R. Abbott, lieutenant B Squadron, First Hussars, and also by A. Stroyan and by W. Green:

Niagara Falls, N. Y., May 18 .- Yesterday afternoon a man was carried from a Buffalo electric car into the Tower Hotel. He was ill, and was placed in bed. Last night he was well enough to leave the hotel. He went out, saying he would soon return. That was the last seen of him. The man was 6 feet tall, smooth shaved, and weighed nearly 200 pounds. He wore a black suit of clothes and a slouch hat. He appeared to be 30 years old. He did not register at the hotel, and he left a large black valise filled with clothing.

This afternoon Manager Kidd opened the valise. Among the clothing was found a letter marked London, The letter was addressed to Thomas

THE BISHOP OF HURON

As Seen Through the Eyes of a Stranger.

The people of London, who know and love the Bishop of Huron so well, have long since lost sight of his peculiarities of style, in the intense, loving earnestness of the man. The following impressions from the Winnipeg Tribune are interesting:

"Bishop Baldwin is a man possibly 55 years old. He is above the average height, with a most expressive countenance, his face being clean shaved except for light side-whiskers. He seems to be overshadowed by the thought of the second coming of Christ, and consequently since political and social unrest are some of the signs of his coming, he does not appear to have any hope of improving the world by political means. The fact that he be-lieves the world is only to be saved by the preaching of the Lord Jesus Christ gives a terrible earnestness to his preaching. He is not only a dying man preaching to dying men who may never see death, but may be ushered at once into judgment. As to physical exer-tion, sawing wood would probably be a gentle relaxation to Bishop Baldwin as compared with preaching. In the coolest building the perspiration rolls down his face. His handkerchief is used to wipe the drops of perspiration, and is then thrown down on the desk as if he would never pick it up again. Then he takes it up and pulls it with both hands until it is in danger of being ripped into shreds. He puts it down with both hands as if he would force It through the oak top. Then he snaps it out like a driver over a refractory team, and once more throws it down with a bang. His eyeglasses get the same kind of treatment. He takes them off and pitches them into the air with a force that would break them into pieces if the cord ever gave way. His right arm cuts savage semi-circles through the air, and the poor fingers on the end are whirled around like the the desk in a heap and presses it lashes of a cat-o'-nine-tails. Then he grasps the right elbow with the left hand and cuts circles with his right forearm, smaller, but none the less de-cisive. He grasps the front of the desk with his right hand and crumples up the fancy draping, while he throws his whole weight on his right arm and elbow and leans over the pulpit to enforce some important point, in a sermon that is all important. His expressive features reflect every aspect of his sermon, and his voice expresses by wonderful modulations what his words are trying to tell. When he says the church is torn asunder you can hear the fabric rip and tear in a way that precludes the possibility of repair. Taken all in all, he is one of the greatest preachers of today, and the fact that churches and halls are thronged wherever he goes is evidence that he is appreciated."

Death and Conflagration Foll / the Lightning's Fath.

During the thunderstorm Wednesday morning the residence of George Wyman, Essex, was struck by lightning and badly damaged. The damage to the house and furniture is estimated at from $200 to $300.

Lightning on Tuesday morning struck and destroyed the barn and outbuildings of Charles Wilkinson, Chatham township. Mr. Wilkinson was in the barn at the time and was strupped by the shock. stunned by the shock. A span of horses was killed instantly by the bolt, the head of one being completely shattered. A two-year-old colt and a couple of calves were burnt to death. Fourteen hundred bushels of grain were destroyed and a lot of farm implements. Loss, $2,700. Insurance on building, $900.

Lightning at Sa. h on Tuesday entered the dining-som of the Mineral Springs Hotel. AIFS. Jacob Mailloux, wife of the properctor, was rendg time, but ered unconscious for a was, after much difficulty, brought around. She is still suffering from the effects of the shock received. Miss Emma Mailloux, daughter, as well as Miss Mailloux, a niece of the proprietor, were paralyzed for some minutes from the same shock. VARIOUS KINDS.

A coal dealer had occasion to call on one of his customers, and found him sifting ashes. With business instinct he inquired: "Well, my friend, what kind of ashes are you sifting now?" "I can't say exactly what kind they are," was the reply, "but I know they are not the ashes of the just."
