

BRITISH TITANIC PROBE LAYS DISASTER TO EXCESSIVE SPEED

Finds That a Proper Watch Had Not Been Kept and That Arrangements for Manning Boats Were Insufficient—California Censured for Not Going to the Rescue.

[Canadian Press.] London, July 30.—The judgment of the British board of trade court of inquiry into the disaster to the White Star liner Titanic, which sank in mid-ocean with 1,517 souls after collision with an iceberg on April 14, was pronounced today by Lord Mersey, the presiding judge, before a large audience.

The court finds that the collision of the Titanic with the iceberg was due to the excessive speed at which the ship was navigated, that a proper watch was not kept, that the ship's boats were properly lowered, but that arrangements for manning them were insufficient, that the Leyland liner Californian might have reached the Titanic if she had attempted to do so, that the track followed was reasonably safe with proper vigilance, and that there was no discrimination against third-class passengers in the saving of life.

Ismay Exonerated.

BECKER MAY TELL OF "HIGHER-UPS"

Only Half the Story Told Yet as to Murder of Rosenthal.

ROSE AND VALLON TERROR-STRICKEN

Police-Lieutenant Charged With Plotting Killing Claims That He Is Innocent.

[Canadian Press.] New York, July 30.—The indictment of Police Lieut. Charles Becker, for the murder of the gambler, Harry Rosenthal, soon after the confessions of "Bald Jack" Rose, "Bridge" Webber and Harry Vallon, revealed today to District Attorney Whitman the "police system" in all its hideousness. The public prosecutor, following the trail of the three confessions, continued his search for evidence that would implicate those higher up than Becker, and more indictments of police officials are expected by the district attorney.

Only Half Told.

The arrest of Becker lays bare a scandal in the police department that threatens to shake it to its foundations, for District Attorney Whitman believes the story of police graft has only been half told.

"Bald Jack" Rose confessed that Becker came to him and, fairly desperate over Rosenthal's intention of killing all he knew of his relations with the police lieutenant, said, "Rosenthal has lived to long. He has got to be put out of the way."

Rose told the public prosecutor and the grand jury how the murder band was hired at the instigation of Becker, and that after the killing, Becker met Webber and himself and promised complete police protection.

$5,000 for Killing.

The confessions show that the murderers of Rosenthal were "Lefty Louie" or Louis Rosenzweig; Harry Horowitz, or "Gib the Blood"; Frank Muller or "White Jack" Lewis, and "Dago Frank" Cirofici. Only Cirofici has been apprehended. These gunmen, Zelig gave up themselves with liquor and then went out and shot Rosenthal for a price, said to be $5,000.

Terror-stricken, Rose, Webber, and Vallon spent the night in the public prosecutor's office, fearing that they would be murdered if they were taken to the Tombs prison. District Attorney Whitman told them that his case against Lieut. Becker is without a flaw; that the confessions, taken separately, dovetailed and confirmed each other, and that from the testimony of other witnesses, the case against Becker cannot be broken down. Squads of detectives scoured the city today for witnesses to corroborate each detail of the stories of Rose, Webber and Vallon.

Rose Terrified.

"Bald Jack" Rose, gambler, who says he was Becker's gambling collector, felt the ground slipping from under him day by day. Without money and friends, he realized that he was being made to bear the weight of the crime alone. His counsel advised him to confess. Rose became completely terrified. To his counsel, James M. Sullivan, he said:

"If you see to it that my wife and children are protected I'll come across and tell the truth about this. I'm afraid it will be the end of me. No cell on earth will be strong enough to keep the life in a man who gives up about this killing."

YOSHIHTE, THE NEW EMPEROR OF JAPAN.

Dies of Starvation With $2,000 On Her

[Canadian Press.] New York, July 30.—"I am dying of starvation; I haven't eaten for three days!" said an aged woman to a policeman at the corner of Forty-second street and Sixth avenue just before day-break today. While he was inquiring her name, she dropped unconscious to the curb, and before an ambulance could be summoned she was dead.

At the morgue a roll of yellow-backed bills—$2,000 in all—was found in the woman's stocking. Pinned to one of the bills was a slip of paper which said: "I am Rose Connolly, 74 years old, no home."

Examination showed that death was due to starvation and heart failure.

GANGSTERS MURDER HOTELMAN NEAR WHERE GAMBLER FELL

Disorderly New York Roughs Shoot Down Saloon Manager Who Attempts to Quiet Them, and Dangerously Wound an Employee.

[Canadian Press.] New York, July 30.—James Varall, manager of a saloon on West Thirty-fourth street, near the corner of Broadway, was shot and instantly killed in an altercation with a disorderly crowd of gangsters in front of his bar early this morning. Jacob Pizsa, his cashier, was also shot and dangerously wounded. The police arrested two suspects, one of whom carried a half-emptied revolver.

According to Pizsa, the gangsters became angered at Varall's attempts to quiet them, and started the shooting without warning. A dozen shots were fired, the first one going through Varall's heart.

The scene of the murder is only a few blocks from the corner where the Rosenthal murder occurred.

LIBERAL EXCURSION TO NORTH VISITING THE COBALT MINES

Board of Trade Presents an Address and Public Meeting Will Be Held.

[Canadian Press.] Cobalt, Ont., July 30.—The special train containing the excursion party under the auspices of the Ontario Railway Association reached Cobalt shortly before noon today. The party was then divided into groups and the mines were visited. This afternoon the board of trade presented an address, and tonight a public meeting will be held in the Empire Theatre.

EVERY VEHICLE MUST COME TO FULL STOP AT BUSY CORNERS

City Council Authorizes Traffic Officer to Have Complete Control at Corners of Dundas and Richmond and Richmond and King Streets Henceforth.

In future traffic at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets will be regulated by a police officer, while traffic at the corner of King and Richmond streets will be regulated by a constable on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. The matter was brought up at the meeting of the city council Monday afternoon. No. 2 committee introduced it in their report, and the clause was adopted. It provides that every vehicle will come to a full stop on reaching these corners, and proceed to cross under the direction of the officer in charge. This is the way traffic at the busy corners is regulated in the big cities, and as Mayor Graham remarked, "London is getting more metropolitan every day, and it is needed here."

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Ald. Coles suggested that the policemen wear white gloves as in the big cities. By holding up the white-gloved hand, traffic immediately stopped.

Ald. Bennett suggested that an alarm bell be placed at the corner of King and Richmond streets and Dundas and Clarence streets, so as to notify traffic at these corners that the fire department was coming. The alarms would be controlled at the central fire hall, and by pushing a button could be rung as the teams were leaving the hall. This would prevent any serious accidents at these corners, and the firemen would be assured that everything was clear for them, whereas sometimes they have to proceed cautiously at both these corners.

The plan was considered to be a good one, and it will be left in the hands of No. 2 committee to carry out. The scheme was put forth by Water Commissioner Stevenson some years ago, but it was not acted upon.

ALD. BENNETT AGAIN BRINGS UP THE RYMILL DISMISSAL

Mayor Graham and the Alderman Have a Tilt—City Engineer Wright Asks for an Investigation Into the Charge Made by Alderman Bennett.

The dismissal of Inspector Rymill was brought before the meeting of the city council Monday afternoon, Mayor Graham and Alderman Bennett taking part in a lively discussion over the matter. Mr. Rymill was inspector on the walks being laid by Contractor James Anthistle, and when Anthistle objected to him Rymill was removed.

Ald. Bennett, at the conclusion of the regular business of the meeting, wanted to know if his worship had investigated the case yet, and what report he had to make on it.

The mayor stated that he had held no investigation further than that which had been conducted at the last meeting of the council when City Engineer Wright gave his reasons for transferring the inspector from the Anthistle job. Mayor Graham thought that all the members of the council had been present at the time and had expressed themselves as satisfied with Engineer Wright's explanation of the affair.

NOT A FAIR DEAL.

Ald. Bennett, however, thought that the council was not giving the inspector a fair deal in the matter.

"I maintain that this council should put this inspector back on the job," he declared. "It is the general opinion among the people," he continued, "that this man was removed from the job because he was doing his duty; that he was seeing that the city got what was coming to it. His removal has affected the other inspectors and is causing a lot of trouble. It has been the means of intimidating the other inspectors. They now believe that if they report to the engineer's department that a contractor is not doing the right thing by the city that they will lose their jobs or be transferred to some other job. I do not think that Inspector Rymill got a square deal, and it is up to this council to conduct an investigation."

FALSE, SAID THE MAYOR.

Mayor Graham took exception to these remarks and stated that Ald. Bennett was making false statements, and if they were in the least correct that there was nothing for the council to do but demand the resignation of the city engineer.

"It's all very well to sit there and say that I am telling an untruth," said Ald. Bennett, "but come down here on the floor and argue it out with me."

The mayor called upon Ald. Coles to take the chair while he took the floor. He reiterated his statement that Ald. Bennett was not putting the matter in the right light, and explained Engineer Wright's side of it.

ENGINEER SPEAKS.

Engineer Wright was present and when called upon he verified the mayor's explanation. He claimed that Inspector Rymill was not removed because the contractor was not giving the city the required amount of cement, but because the inspector had caused some trouble between Contractor Anthistle and his men, and the former had threatened to quit the job. Engineer Wright made a change in inspectors to find out whose fault it really was. Since then he has discovered that Inspector Rymill was at fault.

THE TROUBLE EXPLAINED.

"The trouble that Rymill had with the men," said Ald. Bennett, "was that every time he turned his back the slide was removed. He wanted to know who did it, and the men got mad and wanted to know whether he thought they were dishonest. He replied that somebody was dishonest. This was the cause of the trouble. Engineer Wright did not give him fair play. In this country everyone is entitled to British fair play, and I do not see where this man was given it. He has feeling, and I claim that he has a right to look to us as a higher authority to deal with the matter."

ASKS AN INVESTIGATION.

"I suggest," said City Engineer Wright, "that if conditions are such as Alderman Bennett says, an investigation be made to find out whether these inspectors are intimidated as he claims. If such conditions do exist, I will quit."

Mayor Graham moved that a special committee be appointed to investigate the matter, and Ald. Spittal seconded the motion. The matter will now be left with the committee appointed to settle.

COMPEL AUTOS TO STOP BEFORE PASSING STATIONARY ST. CAR

Alderman Bennett Would Have Passengers Protected in City of London.

Ald. Bennett made a suggestion at the council meeting Monday afternoon that the traffic bylaw be amended so as to compel all automobile drivers and drivers of other fast-moving vehicles, to stop before passing a street car which is discharging passengers at a street crossing.

"This is the law in all the large cities," explained Ald. Bennett, "and there is no reason why it should not be put into force here. I have noticed automobile drivers in this city pass street cars at a fast rate while passengers are getting off, and it is only a question of time before we will hear of a serious accident caused in this manner. I was riding in an automobile in Detroit recently, and although the driver was travelling fast he slowed down and stopped at every corner where passengers were leaving street cars. Some places he had to jam on the emergency brake in order to stop in time, but he always stopped. If this law is put into force here it will not only assure street car passengers protection, but will be the means of preventing serious accidents."

A couple of the other aldermen thought the idea a good one, and it was referred to No. 2 committee to deal with.

At the corner of Dundas and Burwell streets the other night a taxi driver just missed hitting a Bell Telephone girl who got off a car almost in the path of the taxi.

LAMBETH MAN FINED FOR CRUELTY TO HORSE

Henry Hamlin Found Guilty in Local Court by P. M. Judd.

Henry Hamlin, a miller living near Lambeth, was fined $10 and costs by Police Magistrate Judd this morning. The offence for which the defendant was indicted was for driving horses unfit for work. He is the owner of four horses used in bringing flour to London, and upon examination three of these were discovered to have severe sores about the neck, and lame shoulders.

The police prosecuted Mr. Hamlin on one charge, while the Humane Society used the law on another.

One young man was fined $3 for riding a motor cycle at night which was not equipped with a light, and a cab driver also donated $2 for not having a light on his vehicle.

Five drunks appeared before the magistrate, and all with the exception of one were discharged. The exception was remanded. Six citizens donated $1 each for riding bicycles on the sidewalk.

MILK PRICES IN LONDON ARE LIKELY TO GO UP

A Meeting of Dealers Will Be Held to Consider the Matter.

Will milk increase in price from 6 cents to 7 cents per quart?

The wind blows strong in the direction of raising the prices of the fluid, and has been for some time past. Many of the milk retailers in the city are now deliberating on the problem with the result that a meeting has been called for this week. The price of milk, they say, is too low at present to make any profit on the product, and they would like very much to add the additional cent.

The cause for the raise seemingly comes from the farmers. The tillers of the soil are demanding higher prices for milk, and accordingly it would be necessary for the retailers to follow suit.

An Explanation.

Miss May Haines, of 265 Wellington street, is not the party who figured in the police court yesterday.

TWO LITTLE GIRLS LOST IN LONDON

Tots Wandered Away From Home and Didn't Know Where They Lived.

TAKEN TO ADVERTISER

Police Were Notified After a Long Wait—The Parents Were Finally Able to Locate Little Ones.

Two little girls, Elvie Johnston, aged 6, and her sister, Queenie, aged 4, were lost in London for over three hours this morning. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Johnston, who only came to this city from Owen Sound Monday afternoon.

This morning the tots wandered away from Maple Terrace, Maple street, and before their mother noticed their absence they were hopelessly lost. On Dundas street an hour or so afterward they suddenly awoke to the fact that they were in a strange city and did not know the way home. The piteous cries of both little girls brought some of the passersby to them, but it was impossible to learn where they lived.

Lost in London.

An Advertiser reporter happened along, and he introduced all the detective Burns methods and Sherlock Holmes wisdom which he had gleaned in years of reporting the police beat, but to no avail.

Every street in the vicinity was named, but the children remembered nothing. All they knew was that they had lived in Hanover, Chesley and Owen Sound, and that they had come to London on the choo-choo yesterday. They didn't know with whom they were stopping or the street they lived on.

The little ones were taken for a walk around the city, and asked frequently if they remembered any of the stores or buildings, but to no avail. The police in the meantime had been notified by The Advertiser, and shortly after noon the father and mother rushed to the station to inquire for their little ones.

Parents to the Rescue.

Officers on north end beats had been asked to look out for the little ones, but the parents had been under the impression that the children had gone north, and did not come south to the heart of the city for some time.

Once at the station the father and mother were told that the kiddies were safe, and they came to The Advertiser office and took their little wanderers home.

JURY STARTS ITS INVESTIGATION

The Inquiry Into the Death of Joseph Abell at Labatt's Brewery Is Begun.

JURY VISIT THE SCENE

Adjournment Was Made Until Friday Evening Next, When Evidence Will Be Heard.

The jury which is investigating the accident which resulted in the death of Joseph Abell, by suffocation at Labatt's brewery on Monday morning, and in which three other men—Hugh Clare, John Clare and Wm. Jackson—had a narrow escape, met at the brewery after being shown the shaft in which Abell met his death, the jury were taken through the fermenting room, where the carbonic acid gas is formed.

This room is the only place in the brewery where the gas is to be found, and as it is closed all the time, the only possible way for the gas to escape is through the pipes which lead to the large chimney, nearly one hundred feet high.

The Theory.

The most probable theory as to the cause of the accident is that the gas (which is heavier than air) settled, and owing to the state of the atmosphere at the time, it was forced into the neighborhood of the shaft in which the fumes finally collected. A peculiar feature of the case is that although the shaft has been in use for over two years, the presence of the gas has never been noticed before.

The Jury.

The jury adjourned until 8 o'clock on the evening of Friday, Aug. 9, when it will meet in the police court. The members of the jury are Messrs. Herbert Thorne, foreman; Walter Mansfield, Fred Grayson, Frank McLachlin, T. I. Fraleigh, Harry Switzer, Theodore Thomas, E. Lortie and Cecil Mann.

SUMMER VACATION SNAPSHOT

IN THE SHADE OF THE FRIENDLY UMBRELLA.

MR. ASQUITH'S LIFE IS ONE OF ANXIETY

Suffragists Have Sworn to Kidnap His Favorite Son—Ministers Terrified.

London, July 28.—The sorrows of the mighty are resting heavily on Mr. Asquith, whose life is one endless chain of anxiety and who, next to the Czar of Russia, is probably the most worried man in Europe today. In addition to the political worries of his office and position as the head of a Government of existing by the grace of a coalition of the most powerful forces, his life is made a continuous torture by his anxiety for the safety of his son. The most carefully guarded person in the country at the moment is Master Anthony Asquith, the picturesquely named, long, thin face and the remarkable shock of light yellow hair, who is so often to be seen on shopping expeditions with his mother. The suffragists have sworn to kidnap him, and the never goes out without two detectives walking near. It is no exaggeration to say that the Premier and his family go in terror of their lives from the suffragists. Not long ago the Scotland Yard authorities approached the Master of Elibank, the chief government whip, and asked him to warn Mr. Asquith that he was in grave danger from the wild women, and that an attempt on his life might be made on July 5. This was the real reason for the cancellation of the reception, for which 5,000 invitations had been issued. Scotland Yard declared that if they could not undertake the responsibility of guarding the Premier.

BANK CLEARINGS STILL GOING UP

London Figures Show a Substantial Increase.

Diarrhoea, Dysentery, SUMMER COMPLAINT

AND ALL BOWEL TROUBLES ARE CURABLE BY THE USE OF DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY
Mrs. Shaw Lunn, Falmouth, N.S., writes: "I am dropping you a line to let you know what Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has done for us. Last summer my little girl had diarrhoea so bad she passed blood. A friend told me of the Extract, so I sent and got a bottle of it. The doctor said it was a good one. In December, 1911, my brother came home from the woods very bad with cramps and diarrhoea, and thought he would have to call the doctor. I thought of the bottle of Dr. Fowler's, and in three days he gave it to him, and in three days he was as well as ever and went back to his work again. I would not be without it in the house if it cost twice as much."

A Bad Heart, Its Cause and Cure

MANY, FIRMLY CONVINCED THEY ARE DYING OF HEART TROUBLE, HAVE OFTEN THE STRONGEST HEART.
Sometimes you wake up at night, heart throbbing like a steam engine. Your breathing is short and irregular; pains shoot through the chest and abdomen, and cause horrible anxiety. Your trouble isn't with the heart at all. These sensations are the outcome of indigestion, which has caused gas to form on the stomach and press against the heart.

Just read what happened to Isaac Malloux, of Belle River, Ont.: "Three months ago I was a weak, sickly man. My appetite was poor, food fermented in my stomach. At night I would often awaken with gas in the stomach and heart palpitation. I consulted my doctor and used remedies that my friends advised. Nothing helped. "One day I received a sample of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and my cure commenced. Today I have a vigorous appetite, strong heart action, and no sign of indigestion. I feel younger and healthier than ever before." Your druggist or storekeeper sells Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box or five boxes for $1. By mail from The Cataract Company, Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

ABOR TRIBESMEN WELL PUNISHED

Massacre of Expedition on the Indian Frontier Revenged By Government.

BANDITS GIVEN A LESSON

Loss of Life in Action Was Small, But There Were Many Deaths From Disease.

London, July 29.—The official dispatches announcing the successful conclusion of the operations against the Abor tribesmen on the north-eastern frontier of India, rendered necessary by the massacre of Mr. Williamson, the British assistant political officer, at Sadilya, and his party, are published by the India Office in last night's Official Gazette. The most important result of the expedition has been, as Major-General H. C. Bower, the commander of the expedition put it, that "our capability to punish evil-doers, which hitherto has not been credited, has been brought home to the tribesmen."

It is stated that the principal persons implicated in the murder of Mr. Williamson had been punished, and that a good deal of useful exploration and survey work had been accomplished, while relations with remote sections of the Abor tribe have been improved, the demonstration of British power having had a salutary effect. The country presented tremendous difficulties, which will be realized from the fact that on one occasion a party that left camp soon after day-light only completed four and a half miles by 4 p.m.

The domination exercised by the Kebang Rotung group of villages has been broken, and those in the interior can now trade with India, which they express a great desire to do. Districts north of the Brahmaputra can be reconquered, as there is nothing to fear from the Abor tribes. Tribes Held Aloof.

Major-General Bower, in his dispatch to the chief of the general staff, acknowledging the receipt of orders for the demobilization of the force, summarized the result of the expedition as follows: Previous to the advance of the force information pointed to the great probability that the Abor tribes would be opposed by the Mingyong, but that several other tribes would coalesce with those responsible for the massacre in opposing our advance. From information obtained afterwards it appears that the very many villages assisted in the preparation of stockades and stone shoots.

It was soon, however, apparent that tribes who promised their support to the Mingyong had done so under the belief that the punitive force would be on the small and insignificant scale of former expeditions against the Abors. As soon as our strength became manifest, the coalition fell to pieces, and the "sulties" were left to fight out their own quarrel with us alone. This materially reduced the active opposition.

The Casualties. The casualties are returned as follows: In Action—Officers, not killed or wounded: rank and file, two killed and two wounded; followers, three killed and three wounded. Deaths from Disease—British officer 1, Indian officer 1, non-coms. and men 5, followers 47.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Effect of Alcohol.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: Lambrose was the most noted alienist of his time, perhaps of any time. Before his death he stated that insanity was increasing in America three times as rapidly as the population. That was a definite mathematical statement which caused a good deal of comment, but many thought he must surely have made some mistake in his calculations. Now comes Dr. MacNichol, appointed by President Roosevelt to investigate this whole subject. After prolonged study, both in Europe and America, he gives facts and figures which completely bear out the statement of Lambrose that insanity is increasing three times as fast as the population. He says further that within the past few years more than a million babies have died as the result of the drinking habits of the parents. He asserts that 90 per cent of the children of abstaining parents are born normal, while only seven per cent of the children of alcoholic parents are normal.

BITTEN BY DOG HE WAS TRYING TO SAVE

Lucknow Man Is Now Very Seriously Ill With Blood Poisoning.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Lucknow, July 29.—Tom Burke, son of Sam Burke, of Ashfield, met with a peculiar accident on his farm at Jamestown, a few days ago. While loading hay his dog got in front of the hay-loader, and getting caught in the revolving teeth was carried away by the loader before it could be stopped. When Mr. Burke got to the load to release the dog he saw that one of the prongs he penetrated the animal's back, in endeavoring to get the dog free he was bitten on both hands. A day or two afterwards blood poisoning set in. The injured man now lies at his home in a very serious condition.

Walter Wilson, of Lucknow, has been appointed township clerk for West Wawanosh.

John Sandy McDonald, of Lucknow, had two horses killed yesterday by a light engine on the C. T. R. track. It seems that a gate in the pasture field next to the track was left open and the animals strayed out. They were valued at about $200 each.

FALLIERES RECEIVES CANADIAN MINISTERS

Mr. Hazen Says May Arrange Reciprocal Shipping Regulations With France.

Paris, July 29.—Hon. Mr. Hazen, Canadian minister of marine, announced today that the conferences with M. Delcasse, French minister of marine, on the subject of reciprocal shipping regulations, notably with respect to an increase in the number of lifeboats on steamships plying between France and Canada and on the possibility of improving trade between the two countries had been most satisfactory. The result, he considered, would be the widening of reciprocity between Canada and France and closer relations between France, Great Britain, and Canada. The Canadian ministers were received at the Palace of the Elysee this afternoon by President Fallieres.

The New Emperor and Empress of Japan

Emperor Harunomya was born in August, 1879, the son of Mutsuhito and Lady Yangara, one of the ladies-in-waiting. He was married in 1900 to Princess Sadako, the daughter of Prince Kuniaki. Three children have been born to them, all boys. The eldest, Prince Hirohito, now becomes crown prince and heir to the throne. The new emperor is liked by his subjects, though not as well as his father was. He has travelled much through the empire and has been educated along the lines of statesmanship and diplomacy, although he holds a commission in the army. As heir to the throne he had no ladies-in-waiting, and as he is very devoted to his wife it is possible that he will allow the custom to lapse.

SERIOUS RIOT AT PORT ARTHUR

Policemen Have Rough and Tumble Battle With Striking Foreigners.

ONE OF LATTER SHOT

Trouble Arose When an Attempt Was Made to Disperse Loiterers.

Port William, July 29.—A riot which resulted in the serious wounding of six persons and minor injuries to many, occurred in Port Arthur to-night. Chief of Police McLennan was laid out by a club in the hands of an enraged foreigner. P. C. Schlicker received a bullet wound in the back; P. C. Pearson was badly clubbed and three foreigners were wounded by bullets.

A parade of striking Canadian Northern Railway dock laborers was held in the late afternoon and at 7 o'clock pickets were placed at the Canadian Northern Railway crossing near the coal docks. Three pickets interfered with two men, attempting to go to work. A crowd of several hundred quickly gathered and Chief McLennan, Sergt. Dureleigh, and two constables, with the aid of the police, attempted to arrest one of the pickets. The signal for the production of clubs. Blows were exchanged, the police fighting over their fallen chief. Some men pulled a gun, and as if by magic they appeared on all sides. The constables returned the fire. The firing was sharp and went on for some time. The chief of police went the assault on the chief of police with several bullets in his body. Another foreigner was stretched out, but was borne by his comrades to the woods, which surrounded the houses of the foreigners. Constable Peterson was given a desperate beating by a big burly chap with a three-foot club, but the foreigner was then carried off by Constable Thurlow. The ambulance was sent for and one of the badly wounded foreigners sent to the hospital under police guard, while the wounded constable took the street car uptown for repairs.

The Port Arthur City Council was in session and adjourned on hearing of the trouble, and advised the mayor to call out the Ninety-sixth Regiment if the situation warranted.

All is quiet now, though several hundred foreigners are hanging around the scene of the trouble, and it is expected that if any person attempts to go to work, rioting will break out afresh. The Ninety-sixth Regiment has just been called out.

MEXICAN REBELS MAY MASSACRE AMERICANS

Refugee Says Object Is to Bring On Intervention by the U. S. Government.

[Canadian Press.] El Paso, Tex., July 29.—Reports from the Mexican frontier declaring that rebels had determined to disarm Americans in the insurgent zone, and that guarantees of protection were to be withdrawn, are confirmed in part, today, by Luis Lach, a Mormon who fled from Colonia with his family last night. Lach declared today: "General Salazar told us at Casas Grandes and again at Pearson, that if intervention did not come from the Americans within the next few days, that rebels will begin to kill every American they find and keep up the massacre until America was forced to cross the border. Salazar stated that it was the direct order of General Orozco."

Billie Burke

YOU CAN IMPROVE ON NATURE

(BY BILLIE BURKE.)
THE FIRST WORD—You are not the child of nature.

Many women will remark with much complacency, "I am as nature made me," not realizing that they are NOT in any way as nature made them; their physical characteristics, their mental bent, their moral bias, being always the effect of heredity and environment and the care and thought they give themselves.

One might as well say she would never try to improve her mind because she was born with a mind, as to be perfectly satisfied with her physical attributes as nature gave them.

YOU CAN IMPROVE UPON NATURE. Dentists have demonstrated that it is not necessary to be without teeth, even if the victim has through neglect lost those useful parts of the human body.

THERE IS NO REASON WHY ONE SHOULD NOT ALWAYS BE GOOD TO LOOK AT FROM THE CRADLE TO THE GRAVE, IF ONE TAKES THE PROPER CARE OF ONESELF.

The most of us are very apt to neglect our bodies as they are such wonderful machines that the finite mind cannot conceive of their supreme power and beauty. We clothe them up with waste fuel, we run them without lubrication, and then wonder why our machine looks ugly and stops before the allotted three score years and ten.

WOMEN MUST REALIZE THAT BEAUTY MEANS PERFECT HEALTH AND STRIVE FIRST TO ATTAIN IT. Without a basis of health, no woman can be beautiful, no matter how absolutely classical, consequently she must first learn how to acquire health and having acquired it, how to retain it. There are also many little individual details to which one must give a great deal of attention if one would be fair to look upon.

Never be satisfied to remain as nature made you, but go on improving yourself physically, mentally and morally as long as you live.

Just one last word—YOU CAN IMPROVE UPON NATURE.

The Flat-Chested Girl

(By Margaret H. Ayer.)

(Copyright, 1912.)

All you pretty girls know that beauty is founded on good health, and if there's one special thing that good health depends on it is a good pair of lungs.

Girls who stoop over their books soon acquire flat shoulders and the chest gets no chance to develop properly. More and more school teachers are paying attention to this question of the proper height of the child's desk, and when there is much studying to be done at home the parents ought to see to it that the desk or table at which the work is done is of the correct height, so the child doesn't have to bend over.

The bent little pupil develops into a girl with a weak chest, and she is the one who is constantly writing me about pale cheeks, hollows under her eyes, hollow cheeks, and other so-called complexion ills which have really nothing to do with the complexion at all, but are caused by improper lung development.

Fortunately, it is never too late to learn to breathe right. Whether you are seven or seventy this is your opportunity. I know several dear old ladies who practice their daily breathing exercises as religiously as they say their prayers, and who have only learned to do so in the last few years, with great benefit to their health. The simplest breathing exercise is simply to stand erect, preferably with the feet open, with arms extended in front and hands clasped; loosen the hands, separate and sweep the arms backward, while inhaling a very deep breath. Now throw the arms backward as far as possible, holding the breath, swing the arms forward and exhale. Keep this up for five minutes.

Systematic Exercise.

A pair of light dumbbells will help the girl with the weak chest, providing she practices with them regularly. But that is the whole trouble. If you start out to develop your lungs, you cannot make a violent effort one day and then rest for a week or two. Patient, systematic work is necessary, and it should really be continued in moderation for the rest of one's natural life, if one wishes to keep in trim.

Never do your exercises in tight clothes, and in using the dumbbells stand very straight—the chest out, shoulders back, raise the arms above the head, lower them to the shoulders, extend the arms out level with the shoulders, and swing the arms and dumbbells backward, sideways and forward. All movements of the arms with the dumbbells are good for the girl with the delicate chest, and they are

The Birthday Calendar

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY, take special care of your health, remembering that the stomach is the way to the heart, even for disease. It will pay you to become familiar with the simple rules of diet. DON'T BE AFRAID OF SUNLIGHT

BY A PHYSICIAN.

Sunlight is one of the best family physicians.

There should be sunshine sometime in the day in every room in the house.

It is health to the mind and health to the body.

It is one of the chief ingredients in the make-up of a robust child. Its cheery face and warm rays cut off the lengthening shadows of the old.

Sunlight is the best cleanser the housewife can employ. And summer is the time of all times to open wide the doors and let the sunshine in.

If you will notice the ceiling in your kitchen you will see shaggy bits of soot collected here and there.

For the most part, this is grease evaporated on the stove and condensed on the wall.

With it there is some other organic matter; some harmless dirt and some bacteria.

One day's accumulation of too little to be seen. But the mass increases day by day.

The cleanest of kitchen—have some whisks.

The same process, in less amount, is taking place on every wall.

The condensed matter hasn't so much grease on it and so does not show plainly.

But whether in kitchen or parlor, wall dust is organic matter—capable of decaying—and germs, making it capable of decay.

Lack of sunshine—cleanliness produces house odors, which though not always harmful are not pleasant.

The quick remedy for these is a good sunning. Washing can only be done at intervals. Sunning is an easy daily process.

Sunlight is the best means of keeping bedding sweet.

It will take the moth out of clothes that have been stored away.

It will freshen books which have been packed away in damp places.

It will make the mop stick and the dish cloth sanitary. It's one of nature's chief aids to health.

There are many ways to secure sunshine in the house. One of the best is to build the house so that the sun may shine onto and into it. Do not place the house in the center of high trees where it will be shadowed all day. Do not plant trees near the windows.

Face the house in a direction that will expose every room to some sunlight. It will be pretty safe to face it east, west or north.

If there must be dark rooms, see that the kitchen and the bedrooms are not among them.

The one is the center of the household's food supply. The other should keep fresh in spite of all the impurities given off by the body while sleeping.

The Man Who "Dangles"

(By Beatrice Fairfax.)

(Copyright, 1912.)

It sometimes happens that a girl accepts a man when he proposes with the undefined and unexpressed determination not to marry him.

She wants the joy of an engagement. She wants to be adored, to be entertained, to be loved. She likes no one better than this man, but doesn't like him as much as she likes the freedom of girlhood.

Then again it happens that a girl refuses a man, but does it in such a way that he has hopes of eventually winning her.

Perhaps she intends to accept him eventually. Perhaps she thinks to keep a hold on him till she finds a man who suits her better.

Not a kind thing to say of a girl, but admitting all their sweetness and attractiveness, there are girls of whom the truth is not kind.

One kind thing to say of a girl, but admitting all their sweetness and attractiveness, there are girls of whom the truth is not kind.

One can only turn to his own knowledge of women and guess.

"I have been keeping company for some time with a girl I dearly love, but she tells me she doesn't want to think of marriage. She keeps corresponding with me in the most friendly terms, and the last time I was invited to call on her I again expressed my love, but she again said she would not think of such a thing, but wanted me for a good friend."

"For some time I have persistently pushed my case, thinking that eventually I would succeed, but I am now losing hopes of winning her. I earn $35 per week and have real estate and a house. I have no bad habits and am considered quite a looker. The house was bought from my own savings and without any outside help. The girl knows all this."

"What I don't understand is that she writes such nice letters to me professing friendship. If she really doesn't care for me at all I think it would be better to let me alone entirely."

And that is what she should do.

He would then stand a better chance of forgetting her and could no longer be classed among those unhappy, tormented men who are known as "Dangles."

"Despondent" should make the girl one more refusal, and tell her when he makes it that will be the last.

If she refuses, I hope he will be a man of his word and see that it is the last. A rejection should end their acquaintance, for so long as she dangles around her, though merely as a friend, so long will that most persistent and most tenacious of all growths of love, HOPE, continue to plague him.

Under a promise of marriage means the beginning of a new life with her, let it mark the end of the old one.

Beau Brummel Up-to-Date

The Marquis of Anglesey, who is engaged to Lady Marjory Manners, is accounted the best-dressed man in England. His passion for clothes and accessories of the toilet is without limit. He has more suits than any man in London, and he is rarely seen in the same thing more than three times. His shirts are legion and he has a perfect mania for collecting unique studs, cuff buttons and links.

This sartorial mania is a heritage from his grandfather, the Duke of Devonshire, who almost equalled Queen Elizabeth in the magnitude of his wardrobe. He had hundreds of scarves and handkerchiefs, bought fifty at a time.

The present marquis has long been the hero of a romance. He and the Princess Patricia were supposed to cherish an undying affection for each other, and to that is attributed the Princess's refusal to listen to any marriage propositions.

As a Woman Thinks

There is only a few dollars difference between ennui and laziness.

Women think men have no right to have the blues; they regard ennui as strictly feminine.

The best fashion is the one which becomes a woman best.

Housefly Modern Scourge

Reasons Why We Should Swat It.

Not a terribly dangerous looking fellow, is he?—and yet, every day new reasons are advanced for waging war against the housefly. The spread of consumption, typhoid, diphtheria, infantile paralysis and other fatal diseases has in many cases been proven against this insect pest, and it is being taken by the National Council of Women and the local Board of Health to exterminate the fly in London is a wise one, and most timely.

The inauguration of the campaign here, it may be mentioned, is entirely due to the efforts of that public-spirited lady, Mrs. H. A. Boomer, whose name is synonymous with all manner of good works.

A "MODERN ATILLA."

The common housefly has been termed by medical scientists as "the modern Attila." Attila, the terrible King of the Huns, who reigned about 440 A.D., was, so the historians tell us, known as the scourge of God, because of his cruelties and merciless treatment of his foes, and when one reads of the destructive powers of the housefly, the appellation seems quite applicable.

Do not have any doubt about destroying every fly that crosses your path, for "on one fly as many as 6,600,000 disease-causing bacteria have been found, and in a recent experiment the average number of germs found on the bodies of each of 414 flies was 1,250,000. Every female fly that is allowed to live usually becomes, in the course of the summer, the progenitor of 8,000,000 descendants that actually survive as carriers of disease!" writes a medical man. These are unquestionable facts, and must be considered very seriously.

A FIVE MONTHS' CRUSADE.

Down in Washington, D.C., this is the second year for an anti-fly campaign, which is to continue from May to October. Last year a two weeks' "swat-the-fly" contest there resulted in millions of insects being exterminated, and with its five months' crusade, Washington should be more ideal than to be entirely rid of this "scourge." The American Civic Association have secured moving pictures which are shown at picture theatres as amusements, and accompanied by short lectures on the dangers of the housefly. In some schools lantern slides are being shown, and lectures given before mothers' clubs and other bodies of a sanitary reform nature.

"DELENTA EST CARTHAGO!"

We must remember that defense by fly-screens is not sufficient. The enemy must be met upon his own ground—must be sought out and destroyed. "Delemta Est Carthago," said Cato. Carthage was a menace to Rome, but it was not enough to kill a few hundred Carthaginians. They must be exterminated, wiped off the map! Cato did it. And so it is in the war against flies. We must watch the garbage can, which is one of the best breeding places. It should be provided with a perfectly close-fitting lid, and its contents removed at least twice a week. Moreover, don't be sparing with the use of disinfectant.

The offering of prizes for the person "swatting" the most flies during the ensuing month should lend a stimulus to the crusade, and it is believed that with this inroad on the fly population of London, the health of the city will be largely benefited.

Simple and Artistic

Soft charmeuse in medium gray was used in the costume shown above. The Paquin sleeves are edged with lace frills and trimmed with tiny covered buttons. A richly embroidered, showing gold and brilliant colors, hangs from the girdle and partially conceals the row of tiny covered buttons which trim the skirt.

A yoke of plain net has a frill of lace around the neck, with a lace bow at the throat. This is ornamented with tiny pearls.

Problems of the Fair Sex Solved by Cynthia Grey

(Contributors are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn as they are received.)

The G. T. Depot Again.

Cynthia Grey:

To settle a dispute between two Montrealeers, former Londoners, who take The Advertiser, would you kindly tell us which is the front of the G. T. R. station in London?

A.—The front of the G. T. R. station in this city faces on York street.

Doesn't Lift His Hat.

Dear Miss Grey:

Could you please answer the following questions for me? 1. What are the words of the refrain, "I Love to Live in Love-land With a Girl Like You," and why?

2. I have to wash my hair nearly every week on account of its being so oily. Can you tell me of anything to put in the water to help keep it soft and fluffy?

3. What do you think of my handwriting?

4. How can I tell a boy that he should lift his hat when meeting a girl without offending him?

Hoping to see these answered soon, Yours truly, XENIA.

A.—1. Space does not permit printing the verses you ask for here. You can get these songs, I am sure, at any of the local music stores.

2. This shampoo lotion gives excellent results when used for oily hair. Combine, ¼ ounce; tincture of green soap, ½ ounce; borax, ¼ ounce; alcohol, 2 ounces. Apply the mixture with a small brush to the roots of the hair, then shampoo with fingers thoroughly. Rinse well in several waters, commencing with warm, and tempering it down to almost cold.

3. It is fairly neat, but I hope, Xenia, that you don't make a habit of writing your letters with a lead-pencil.

4. The next time the omission occurs, begin talking to him about the peculiarities of his hat when you are together, and as an instance, mention the custom of a man raising his hat when meeting his woman acquaintances. If he is observant at all, he will surely take the hint.

A "Sunshine" Letter.

Dear Miss Grey:

Having found good suggestions in your column in the past, I now approach you with some queries which, if you can find time to answer, will be more than appreciated.

1. What would you suggest as a present for a year-old baby? The child really needs nothing, but being especially fond of the child, I like to remember him with something on his first birthday.

2. Also what would you advise me to get for a dress to wear as bridesmaid? Would cream or white and would you advise some other color to trim it or have it all white? I have black hair and brown eyes.

3. And now for those tiresome boys! What a trouble they are any boy! What a trouble they are any boy! What a trouble they are any boy!

4. How would you like to open a bank account for the youngsters, depositing say one dollar and sending the bankbook to his parents? This gift is rather unique and would doubtless be appreciated. Or there are always new ideas in baby spoons, mugs, or fancy pins, any of which would be suitable.

2. Marquise is extremely pretty and girlish, and would look very nice, I am sure. If the bride is to be dressed in pure white, I should advise you to have a little color, say pink, since you have dark hair, for the trimming.

3. There are no printed rules regarding the frequency of a maid's visit, but the custom seems to call for two nights a week, and he really should not stay later than 10 or 10:30.

Jelly-Making

Fruit for jelly should be selected carefully, being not over-ripe, so that the pectin is at its best. It should be freshly picked and free as possible from defects. Any defective part should be removed. All acid fruit is usually preferable for jelly. Some acid fruits, however, are deficient in pectin, and thus difficult to make into jelly. This trouble may be overcome by adding fruit juice containing a large amount of pectin. The flavor will be modified, but in many cases the result is a very good jelly. Juicy fruits, such as currants, raspberries, should not be gathered after a rain on account of the large amount of moisture they have absorbed. They should, for the same reason, be washed as quickly as possible.

They may be put in the preserving kettle after washing, crushed slightly with a wooden spoon and heated slowly, while they are stirred at frequent intervals. When the fruit is hot it should be crushed thoroughly with a wooden vegetable masher. It should then be strained through a double thickness of cheesecloth placed over a wire strainer, which is over a large bowl. It should drain as long as the juice will drip and pressure should not be used. The clear juice may be used at once or may be strained through a flannel bag before using.

When the juice has been measured into a clean preserving kettle, a pint of granulated sugar should be added for every pint of juice and stirred until dissolved. When it has been put on the fire and brought to a boil, it should be drawn back and skimmed. This should be repeated twice before pouring the liquid into hot, sterilized jelly glasses. These should be put near a sunny window in a room free from dust. The glasses should be covered with cheesecloth until the jelly has set.

Large fruits, such as the apple, must be boiled in water until soft, and the liquid strained from the pulp before making the jelly. The heating of the fruit juice and sugar to the boiling point serves three purposes: to sterilize the material completely; to concentrate it to the proper consistency, and to invert, by the combined action of temperature and free acids, a large quantity of cane sugar, preventing the jelly from granulating. Precautions to be observed in jelly making are: Do not use iron or tin utensils; the fruit acids attack these metals and give to the jelly a disagreeable product, and affect the taste; the kettle should be porcelain lined, enameled, or of aluminum. Do not cook the fruit juice and sugar too long or the pectin will lose its gelling power. Do not add too great a proportion of sugar or the jelly will crystallize. Hard boiling may also cause crystallization.

Quaint Trimmings

A feature of the newest summer frocks is the old-fashioned trimmings that recall those quaint pictures published in the "fashion plates" of nearly half a century ago.

Our mothers and grandmothers took particular delight in putting all sorts of curious stitchery on their "best dresses." Housekeeping was laid aside when the dressmaker made her semi-annual visit to their homes, for the amount of work required on a single costume occupied the time for an entire week. Although women of today have less time to spend on needlework, there are many dainty trimmings that can easily be made at home and are fascinating pick-ups—or porch work. Frills, ruffles, and quiltings require handwork.

For the popular scalloped ruffles, cut the silk on the bias, desired width, lay it flat on the table, and having previously cut a pattern of the scallop from stiff cardboard on which a saucer or small plate has been laid to mark the curved edge, then cut scallops evenly on the taffeta.

Turn the edge back one inch and stitch on the machine, or finish with a narrow cord on the edge.

Run two draw threads through the top of the ruffle, one-half inch apart, and one inch from the edge. This is a decorative trimming.

"Rose" quilting is made of strips of silk cut on the straight of the material and having each edge planked. Double box-planks are then laid close together, having the edge of each top pleat tucked together in the center.

"Shell" trimming is made of two-inch wide ribbon, or silk strips having hemmed edges.

Run a dark thread the length of the ribbon, forming a series of V's on the true bias. When this is drawn up two-thirds its length an attractive flite trimming is obtained.

Striped material is trimmed effectively with cross lines of soutache braided sewed on by hand and having a series of embroidered dots between the lines of braid.

The simplest trimming for small checked or cross-bar material is a small conventional design worked out in cross stitch done in a contrasting color of silk thread. Narrow ruffles are easily made and are easily applied. Puffs are made by running a drawstring in both edges of a ruffle; a double puff has a central drawstring or a narrow cording run through the centre over which the material is drawn up one-third its length.

These are the simplest handmade trimmings for this summer gown; all are dainty, effective, and decidedly in mode.

Opening of Grand Circuit There Attracts Large Crowd—Track Was Too Heavy for First Day.

Cleveland, O., July 29.—The opening of the Grand Circuit races here today was witnessed by a large crowd, but the achievements of the horses were a bit disappointing as to time. Last night a heavy rainfall impaired the track.

Patchen got off in the lead each time, and maintained it. Patchen's first heat was travelled in 2:07, the fastest of the day.

The numerous field of contestants for the Tavern "steak" race here today was put into three divisions, thus dividing the $5,000 "steak" into four slices, $1,000 for each division and $2,000 for a royal race on Friday. The summary:

Sergeant Nanfan Is Willing To Go Before Militia Council.

Sergt. Nanfan, the Sudanese veteran, who went on the relief expedition for Gen. Gordon, states that he does not desire to be placed in the position of criticising Col. He believes that if the facts were known at Ottawa he would speedily be placed in a position.

He declares that he would be pleased to go before the militia council at Ottawa and have his case investigated, as he again asserts that he cannot even get a hearing from the officers of the London district.

LEIGH HUNT'S DAUGHTER

An Appeal Made to Save Her From the Workhouse in Her Old Age.

London, July 30.—The fact that a child of Leigh Hunt is still in the land of the living will come as a surprise to most people.

Leigh Hunt was born on Oct. 19, 1784, and it was as long ago as 1812 that he was fined $2,500 and sent to prison for two years by Lord Ellenborough for describing the Regent as a "populace king." Charles Smith Cheltenham, died a few weeks ago, is now lying dangerously ill, and is in very reduced circumstances. A public appeal is now being made in order to know the shame that attaches to the poor house.

GREAT HAZARD IN ART

Some Artists of Skill Scarcely Make a Living.

In art, as in most other professions, the "plums" fall into the hands of the few. A Sargent or a Herkomer may make his $25,000 in 12 months by his brushes; Mr. "Dauber," who started his career with equal promise, may barely earn the check that pays his frame-maker's bill.

Jean Francis Millet lived and died a peasant, though he could wear the ribbon of the Legion of Honor. It was the proudest day of his life when he received $350 for the "Angelus," which a generation later was sold for $115,120 at the Secretan sale. John Croome was glad to pocket a dollar apiece for pictures, any one of which would be snapped up today for hundreds of dollars. George Morland parted with many a masterpiece for the price of an evening's carouse; and Rembrandt's canvases are valued today at $20,000,000—yet he left nothing to his heirs beyond his clothes and his paint brushes.

And who will say that these magicians of the palette were less skillful than the Orchardsons and the Alma-Tademas of later years, whose canvases, with the paint scarcely dry on them, were exchanged for $10,000 or $15,000 each; than Frank Holl, who painted $100,000 worth of portraits in a single year; or the Landseers, whose estate was sworn at $800,000?

Today the painting of pictures, for 19 artists out of 20, is a costly hobby, which leaves little margin for even such a modest luxury as marmalade.

For every score of canvases that are fit to adorn the walls of Burlington House there is barely one purchaser, and he has a keen eye to a bargain.

Take two typical cases known to the writer. Both men are highly trained artists, whose academy pictures are seldom branded with the fatal "R." One of these men confessed that he had barely $500 to show as the net result of 2,000 hours of industry last year. The other, who had a canvas "on the line" before he saw his 21st birthday, was glad for sell his latest picture, the fruits of six months' work, for less than its frame cost.

Carling—London

Heavy punishment has been awarded at Bellefleur to a gang of thieves who have been disturbing the neighborhood for some time. The offence on which they were convicted was that of entering a Grand trunk car and stealing from it a quantity of shoes. Three of the prisoners were sentenced to five years in the penitentiary, while a fourth was given two years in prison. The remaining members of the gang, who were charged with the theft, were given six months for vagrancy.

Starting Friday, July 26, the annual trip of the Edmonton businessmen was made over the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific. The party, numbering about 60 in all, joined the G. T. P. at Wainwright, where a special train consisting of a dining car and a baggage car, was waiting for them. The itinerary included Irma, Jarro, Kinsella, Phillips, Keats, Camrose, Duhamel, New Norfield, Ferintosh, Bashaw, and Mirron.

On Saturday the westward route proceeded through Stony Plain, Entwistle, the Jinks, Edson and Marlborough. At this point a stop of some length was made in order to give the visitors an opportunity of inspecting the extensive cement plant owned by Fitzhugh, the most westerly point on the G. T. P. schedule, was reached the beauties of Jasper Park, and the wonderful mountain scenery of the neighborhood.

On Monday, July 29, a similar trip was made by the Edmonton businessmen last year and proved so successful that it was decided to repeat it this summer.

A further step in the development of Prince Rupert, the Pacific terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, will be the opening of a suburb, Port Edward, situated at the water-front of Port Edward harbor, at a distance of eight miles from the city by rail. Port Edward is destined to be a residential suburb, but has such scenery of the industrial locations that it is said to have seven times the dockage capacity per unit of water-front.

Prince Rupert itself, with a turning harbor 500 feet across and has a minimum depth of six fathoms. There is a fine fairway 800 feet wide with ten fathoms in the main channel. The fathoms in the ground will begin clearing at the next fortnight, and the G. T. P. is under contract to put a station on the town site, which will give an excellent water supply from Wolf Creek. Port Edward—named after His Late Majesty Edward VII—opens straight out into Dixon's entrance, which has been surveyed by the G. T. P., as well as by the Dominion Government. It has also been charted and buoyed and is easy of approach.

A very considerable movement of settlers into the rich and extensive valleys of British Columbia by the new passenger service of the Grand Trunk Pacific. By this schedule it is now possible to take the Prince Rupert-Prince George from Seattle, Victoria or Vancouver, to Prince Rupert, where connection is made with the tri-weekly service to the Skeena River Crossing. At this latter point a second connection is made with the steamer Inlander for the town of Hazelton, which is the gateway to Central British Columbia. Quite apart from settlement and prospecting, however, the trip is proving a very attractive one to tourists from all parts of the country by reason of the marvellous scenery to be enjoyed all along the route.

Traveling on the Grand Trunk, the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario and the National Transcontinental Railways, a party of about 100, including members of the Ontario Legislative and Liberal supporters, will make a tour of New Ontario, starting from Toronto July 29. The itinerary includes Manitowish, New Liskeard, Wainwright, Moncton, Cochrane, Timmins, Whitney, Porcupine, Swastika, Englehart, Charlton and Haliburton. In all the trip will take about a week.

The official announcement has been made of the erection at Edmonton of a Union Station, costing approximately $400,000 by the Grand Trunk Pacific and Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railways, as soon as negotiations with the municipality for the closing of certain streets have been concluded. The building will have a length of four city blocks, it will be two stories in height, and will have all modern conveniences for the comfort of the travelling public. Provisions will be made for six sets of double tracks and four passenger platforms. The E. D. and B. C. Railway will operate its own freight trains from its own terminals. Contracts for the erection of the new $750,000 Grand Trunk Pacific Hotel in the same place will also be awarded shortly in Montreal. When the time for receiving tenders expires on July 15th, six bids had been put in all from firms of repute throughout the Dominion, but these will require some amendment is made. Steel will be on hand in the Albertan capital in three months' time and construction will be prosecuted throughout the winter, in the case of the Port Garry at Winnipeg.

It is suggested that passenger service on the Tofteld-Calgary branch of the Grand Trunk Pacific will be extended to Trochu, when trains will be run tri-weekly. Trochu is 121 miles south of Tofteld.

According to a report received at headquarters in Montreal from the passenger department of the Grand Trunk Pacific, Jasper Park and the Yellowhead country are rapidly becoming the rendezvous of tourists and the mountaineers from all parts of the Dominion, from Continental Europe and from the United States. Preparations are already being made for the visit of the Alpine Club of Canada, which will camp in the Yellowhead country next year. Provisions will be made for from 100 to 150 members. Arrangements are also being made for the visit of the Canadian Medical Association to Jasper Park next month. Mr. C. W. Lett, tourist and colonization agent of the Grand Trunk Pacific, is at present in the park with Emerson Hough, the well-known American writer, who has specialized of late years in Canadian topics, and D. C. Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institute of Washington. In previous visits Dr. Walcott has been able to collect a number of valuable specimens of the fauna of British Columbia mountain region; among others the largest caribou head in the institute which was found in the park near Miette Hot Springs in the park near Miette Hot Springs will be commenced next year, and will be rapidly pushed ahead.

The many friends of Mr. G. U. Ryland, land commissioner of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, will regret to hear that he has been confined to the hospital at Winnipeg, undergoing an operation for appendicitis.

The locomotive used on the new Regina night service of the Grand Trunk Pacific from Winnipeg is of the celebrated famous G. T. P. eleven hundred class, built for speed, power and safety. It has eight wheels, each of them seven feet high, and is capable of hauling a heavy train at the rate of 90 miles an hour, although on actual service never more than 50 or 60 miles is developed.

The annual convention of the Atlantic Deep Waterways Association will be held in New London, Conn., Sept. 5 to 7. This city as an eastern terminus of the Grand Trunk Railway is preparing to spend $1,000,000 for public port facilities.

NOT A DEVIL PEACOCK

British Museum's Alleged Idol Said To Be Only an Ordinary Bird.

London, July 29.—Now it is alleged that the famous "Devil Peacock," which was presented recently to the British Museum and was said to be worth several thousand pounds, is not a devil peacock at all but is only a very ordinary bird. The man who makes this statement is Athelstan Riley.

"As I visited the celebrated Temple of the Devil in 1886 before its destruction in 1892," he writes to the Times, "and am indeed the only living European who has seen the building in its original condition, I took the opportunity of visiting the British Museum to see the peacock.

"One glance convinced my suspicions—the bird has nothing whatever to do with the Yezidis or their Temple. It is a Persian peacock of the usual type—a very familiar ornament to all who knew Persia—and the figures which decorate the tail are not representations of Sheikh Adil or Malik Tawus, but the ordinary illustrations of Firdusi's Shahnama, the great epic of the Persian kings, as a cursory examination of any of the manuscripts—and there must be hundreds in the possession of the Museum authorities—would show.

"If anybody paid some thousands of pounds for this impudent bird he was grievously swindled. It is a good specimen of Persian work going back date it with fair accuracy.

"I doubt whether a dealer would give $50 for it, and it is a little startling to find the trustees of the British Museum so gravely accepting and advertising it as a 'sacred peacock' and allowing it to be thought that account of its origin is a possible one."

Mr. Riley describes the Temple of Sheikh Adil. On its outer door were carved a serpent and a tomb, inside the doorway was a great tank into which water, conducted from the hillside, poured and foamed.

The temple was absolutely empty except for a cataplane of wood over-erect with shawls and a madman who bowed all night. Lamps were kept continually burning in the courts and corridors round the temple, and every night an attendant would go round the little valley with a bowl of oil and wicks, kindling a momentary flame at the door—of the shrines, huts and certain sacred springs.

The guardians of the temple had reverence for fire, the sun, and "King Peacock"—their courteous title for the devil. The peacock emblems, of which

One Million Francs

By Arnold Fredericks

"He pretends to believe that I am going to give him the money. The fellow must be either a madman or a fool." The party about the table were so deeply interested in their conversation that they failed to observe the tall figure in a long gray overcoat which for several moments past had occupied a position just outside of the French windows at the right of the room. Both the Prefect and the Count sat with their backs toward the window, while Emile was nodding sleepily over his cigarette. Just before the Count finished speaking, the man outside the window drew it gently open and stepped into the library. D'Este was the first to hear his footsteps. He turned, and seeing the tall figure advancing toward him, sprang to his feet. "Girard!" he shouted, pointing.

Emile and the Prefect rose in alarm, the latter with an exclamation, reaching in his pocket for his revolver. "At your service, Monsieur the Count," said Girard easily, as he drew a revolver from one of the pockets of his overcoat and carelessly presented it. He seated, gentlemen. Do not become excited, I beg."

"D'Este fell helplessly back into his chair with an oath. The Prefect, evidently reconsidering his original intention to draw his revolver, now that Girard's weapon was pointed at him, paused with his hand half-way to his pocket. "What do you want here?" he demanded.

"Permit me to explain," said Girard, bowing. "I see that it is necessary, gentlemen, for me to impress upon you one fact. I want one million francs. I intend to have one million francs. If you wish to arrest me, you must place that sum on the table in this room at twelve o'clock tonight. Unless the money is here, I shall not come for you and your plans to capture me will fail. He laughed grimly. "You see, my friends, I give you every opportunity. All I ask is that you have the money here."

"Arrest him!" shouted the Count, looking at the Prefect in helpless rage. Girard made a gesture with his revolver as the Prefect took a step forward. "Wait, Monsieur. Do not be hasty." He again addressed the Count. "See that you do as I say."

"And if I do not?" inquired the latter pompously, as he began to recover his courage. "Then, Monsieur, I am afraid that I shall be under the painful necessity of killing you." He smiled, then began to go toward the door.

"Stop him! Stop him!" roared the Count. Emile, meanwhile, began to call in a loud voice for the servants. The Prefect attempted unsuccessfully to interpose himself between Girard and the door. "Do not attempt to leave the house!" he cried.

Girard turned in the doorway and stood there for a moment with an irritating smile. "It is imperative, Monsieur," he said, "I have a most important engagement."

"Stop!" shouted the Prefect. "You are under arrest." Emile still continued to shout loudly for the servants. The Count rushed to the side of the room and was furiously pressing the electric bell. "I have two million francs," cried the Prefect, "Girard made him a low bow. "I shall be happy," he said, "to pay my respects to them, Monsieur. He stepped quickly behind him and locked it."

In the library all was confusion. The Count left the bell, which he had been so ineffectually ringing, and going to the door, tried the knob. The second he had locked and he shouted:

"Break open the door!" said the Prefect, throwing his weight against it, but the door, of unusual thickness, resisted his efforts. He drew a silver whistle from his pocket and blew three sharp blasts upon it. Both he and Emile were outside, he said to D'Este, who was hopping about, mad with rage. "It was several minutes before the door was opened by the butler."

"Where is he?" demanded the Count. The servant replied that he had taken a black "Monsieur" he inquired. "The fellow who just went out, you imbecile!"

"Pardon, Monsieur, I do not understand, I saw no one."

"Where you got in the outer hall?" the Count asked angrily.

"No, Monsieur. I was in the pantry until you rang." As he spoke they heard someone rap rap rap at the front door at the end of the hall. The Prefect rushed to the door and threw it open. The newcomer, Richard Day, said:

"Hello, Chief!" he exclaimed, looking quickly about at the others. "You seem a bit disturbed, don't you?"

The Prefect put his hand upon Duval's arm excitedly. "The man who just left the house! Did you see him?"

"I don't quite understand," said Duval, greatly surprised. "I did not see anyone leave the house."

"How long have you been here?" "I only just arrived."

"Was there no one outside?" "No one, with the exception of your men, in the automobile at the door. They wanted to come in when they heard your signal, but I told them that I would attend to the matter."

Monsieur Lefevre started back in amazement. Duval's words seemed at most impossible to believe. "Sacre!" he cried. "The thing is incredible!"

It was not until the two assistants had been called into the hall, and had substantiated Duval's story, that the Prefect was convinced. There remained only one solution. The search for Girard must still be in the house. A thorough search was at once undertaken, but, although the house was ransacked from garret to cellar, not the slightest trace of the missing man was to be found. Victor Girard had inexplicably vanished.

CHAPTER V. The remarkable disappearance of Victor Girard completely upset the Prefect and his men. It seemed so incomprehensible, so contrary to all natural laws. That the man had escaped somehow was evident, but how he had managed to do so, in broad daylight, was more than any of the party could tell. The search for him was thorough—it was half an hour before they were again assembled in the library.

"This fellow, Girard, I understand," began Duval, addressing the Count, "has been writing you threatening letters."

"Sacre, yes!"

"Suppose you give us all the details, Count," said the Prefect. "I myself only know what little you told me over the telephone."

"The Count requested his guests to be seated. For the past month," he said, "I have been the victim of a frightful persecution. This fellow, Girard—"

"Is the name known to you?" demanded Monsieur Lefevre. "D'Este of his superior."

"No, I have never heard it before," "Pardon my interruption," said Duval.

"The Count nodded. "Every day," he resumed, "for over a month, I have been receiving these letters. He drew a number of the documents from his pocket and handed them to the Prefect and Duval. "As you will observe, the fellow continually demands that I turn over to him the sum of one million francs."

"Why does he demand this money?" "I don't know. He gives no reason."

"Strange," said Duval, as he handed the letters back to the Count. "Possibly he is acting for some third party."

"What do you mean?" asked the Count suspiciously.

"Why, just what I said. Some enemy of yours, perhaps."

"The Count drew himself up stiffly. "I trust I have no such enemies, Monsieur," he exclaimed.

"You can never tell," remarked Duval. "You say the fellow has made threats?"

"Yes. He threatens, unless I place one million francs on this table at twelve o'clock tonight, to kill me. The Prefect heard it. My nephew heard it. He looked toward the others as they nodded in confirmation of his statements. "It is infamous."

Duval gazed at D'Este reflectively. "What are you going to do about it?" he asked.

"How do I know?" replied the Count, with ill-concealed irritation. "That is what I advise you to call on gentlemen for. What do you advise?"

Duval took out his watch and consulted it. "It is twelve o'clock. To go to the bank and draw out one million francs at once."

The Count fairly jumped from his chair at his astonishment. "What?" he cried.

"Are you mad?" "My dear Duval," said the Prefect, almost equally astonished. "Do you really expect what you are saying?"

"The Prefect smiled quizzically at him. "We want the man—we must bait the trap."

"But," exclaimed the Count excitedly, "how could we use blank paper—a blank. There is no necessity for really having the money here."

To Be Continued.

TITANIC HERO IS IN SERIOUS TROUBLE

Peculiar Developments Point to Get-Rich-Quick Scheme By Abraham Rowenstein.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Berlin, July 29.—Peculiar developments have followed the arrest of Abraham Rowenstein, the Hebrew who recently alleged that he was to receive $10,000 from the Titanic relief fund in New York for having saved the lives of ten persons in the wreck.

In making a search of the personal effects of Rowenstein, Chief O'Neill found a note book issued by the local branch of the Merchants' Bank of Canada, which had a deposit of $10,000, purporting to have been made on July 26, on making inquiries at the bank it was ascertained that a deposit of $1 had been made and that amount was raised to $10,000 by Rowenstein. It is supposed that he intended raising the money among his friends in a few days, giving sufficient time to allow the alleged $10,000 to arrive from New York. The bank book and papers have been forwarded to the police authorities in Toronto.

MR. ROWELL'S PARTY OFF FOR THE NORTH

An Enthusiastic Send-Off to the Liberal Tour of New Ontario.

SPECIAL TRAINS USED

Delegation One of the Largest of Its Kind Ever Gathered—Make Up of the Party.

Toronto, July 30.—Amid scenes of cordial camaraderie and enthusiasm the special train bearing Mr. N. W. Rowell, Ontario's Liberal leader, and a large delegation of his colleagues and supporters, left the Union Station at 9 o'clock last night on the provincial Liberal party excursion to New Ontario.

There were scores of Liberals at the depot to bid the tourists bon voyage, and many expressions of loyalty and congratulation were extended to the leader, who was given hearty greetings on his arrival at the station.

At the last moment it was found that accommodation would be taxed to the utmost, and a number of changes had to be made in order to accommodate additional Liberals. Mr. N. W. Rowell is travelling in the private car Temagami, which has been loaned him by the T. and N. O. commission.

The train consisted of five Pullmans and two diners, while arrangements were completed for the addition of another Pullman at North Bay carrying a number of representatives of the Liberal party.

Mr. Charles M. Bowman, M. P. P., the legislative Liberal whip, with Mr. George M. Brown, M. P. P., secretary of the Ontario Reform Association, were in charge of the tour and were kept exceedingly busy with final arrangements. Last-minute requests for accommodation were received from additional Liberals yesterday, and all the cars were practically booked.

The interest and enthusiasm over the tour in all parts of the province are remarkable," said Mr. Bowman, when interviewed by the Globe shortly before the departure. "Representative Liberals from all over Ontario are coming with us, and letters have simply rained in from every side commending and endorsing the steps being taken to put Liberalism in condition and personal touch with the conditions, needs and developments of this great new country which secured its start through the vision and enterprise of the former Liberal administration."

"Fruit-a-tives" Cured After 15 Years' Suffering

District Attorney Told of Men Who Did the Actual Shooting.

In such cases the addition of Bovril to the diet will produce marked results. Bovril is concentrated beef in its most palatable form. Scientific tests have shown that it is a great body-builder. It is a highly condensed food but it possesses the remarkable power of enabling a system to draw the full store of nutriment from ordinary food. Your child between meals once a cup of warm milk, in which you dissolved a spoonful of Bovril, and a dash of Eo-Fil in your graysies, a and soups. It will be not only delicate ones who will appreciate added rest, all will benefit from increased nutrition.

Weeks before the Lindbergh trial, Becker sent word to Rose that he wanted to see him on an especially important subject. They met in a far removed from the spies and racketeers of the Tenderloin. Becker took Rose (and Rose places the date of this conference at about six months before the killing) that Rose couldn't be handled, and that there was just one thing left to do: him out of the way.

"He has lived too long," Becker said.

LONDON AND DISTRICT

Mr. K. E. Kochaly, a Persian ministerial student, will address the Young People's meeting in the Adelaide Street Baptist Church Tuesday evening on the subject, "Persian Manners, Customs and Religion."

The story to the effect that his Lordship Bishop Fallon is to be elevated to an archbishopric in New York falls absolutely no credence in this city.

It is stated that the bishop has his work cut out for him for many years to come in this diocese, and that he would under no circumstances leave London to go elsewhere and allow the work he has mapped out for himself to go unfinished. In this regard, the new Catholic seminary is pointed to. The bishop's heart is devoted to the education of his people, and now that his seminary project has taken root, he is not likely to throw it up.

Then, again, it is pointed out that in the Roman Catholic Church it is Rome which makes the appointments, and while the priests and the people of New York State might want Bishop Fallon, the Holy See would not allow this desire to interfere with the important work of the Diocese of London. At St. Peter's Palace, the Adviser was informed that so far as is known there is absolutely nothing in the story. Bishop Fallon knows nothing of it.

Of course, it may be that representations will be made to Rome to have Bishop Fallon sent to New York as an archbishop, and it is possible that certain prominent Roman Catholics may come to London to endeavor to induce his lordship to give his consent to leave used in the representations to be made to Rome, but further than this it is not likely that anything will be done.

So far as known there has never yet been a Canadian bishop or archbishop in the United States. Bishop Fallon came to London from Buffalo, but he is a Canadian, born in Kingston, Ont. Prominent Catholics say the story is a canard, and they declare that the bishop is amused, rather than angered, by the story.

CAMP BREAKS UP

ON AUGUST 16TH

Teachers Are Still Going Through Drills on the Heights.

Although the camp is over, Carling's Heights are still headquarters for military operations. The teachers' training and instruction camp is still alive and progressing. The term is two-thirds over, and by Aug. 16 the camp will be broken up.

During the past four weeks the teachers have not been idle. Military and physical drill and field skirmishing have been going on daily, the exercises developing gradually from those simple in nature to the more complex forms. In a few weeks examinations will be written off, based on the work covered during the term. The efficiency of the work by the men in the field determines their standard to a large extent.

MURDERER MAY BE HIDING IN BUSH CLOSE TO SARNIA

Several Reliable Persons Have Seen an Indian Who Answers His Description Hiding Mysteriously in the Thick Underbrush—Police Unable to Pick Up the Trail Yet.

SARNIA BRANCH OFFICE, 209 Front Street.
Office hours, 9 a.m. to 9:30 a.m., 3:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, July 30. — Detective Acton and County Constable Peterson have returned after a tramp through the woods and underbrush north of Sarnia in search of the fugitive, Bennett, wanted for murder. The officers are not prepared to say whether he is in that vicinity or not, as the undergrowth is so dense that they might get through and pass within three feet of the criminal without seeing him.

A Mysterious Redman.
The clue to his whereabouts, however, appears to be the most reliable yet brought to view. Saturday evening a resident of the north end while walking along a cow-path through the woods, saw a tall, square-shouldered Indian standing among some bushes. When the redman became aware that he was observed, he dropped to the ground and disappeared. The citizen thought nothing of it at the time, but on Sunday while walking along the same path, he saw the same Indian crawling away on his hands and knees into the shelter of a clump of scrub oak, and he became suspicious, and notified the police.

Two other people residing near there also saw a strange redman near the woods. The resident who was first aware of his presence is a reliable person, and for that reason the officers were inclined to credit his story.

Seen Near Mandamain.
The village of Mandamain also reports that a swarthy half-breed has been lingering on the outskirts of the village, and appearing only at dusk, for nearly a week, the last seen of him being on Thursday last.

Bennett, if it is he, may be hanging around here waiting for a chance to get across the river into the States at Point Edward. So many reports of his appearance here and there have arisen that the authorities are beginning to get rather shy of committing themselves to any statement.

Hamilton. The specifications call for ten buildings, not all of which will be constructed at once, but which will be built as rapidly as the business permits. A fine wharf will also be constructed along the river bank in front of the plant. This will give increased shipping facilities by water.

MANY LONDONERS ARE AT THE BEACHES

Summer Tourist Season Along Lake Huron Is Now at Its Height.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

H. Hearty, A. Vanderveer, Ed. Walton, Wm. Inglis, F. Hamilton, Mr. Curtis, Chas. Gray, G. Y. Gray, Mrs. Parker, of Detroit, David Cowan, R. H. The weather has not been very desirable during the last week or so, but the resorters enjoy themselves just the same. It is apparent though, that a cool wind comes blowing down from the north nearly every other day.

FOUR-MONTH TERM FOR ASSAULTING GIRL

Belgian Was Convicted After a Brief Hearing Before P. M. Fleck.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, July 29. — Four months at hard labor in the Central Prison was the sentence meted out today to Coler, a Belgian girl last Friday. The case came up before Magistrate Fleck and after hearing the testimony given by a man named Stokes was found wandering on the streets in an intoxicated condition about 2:30 a.m. on Sunday. The officer on duty advised him to go home. Stokes refused to do so, and was taken to the police station, where he spent a quiet day in the cells. This morning he was assessed $1 and costs, the whole amount being $3.98.

Two drunks who were arrested on Saturday morning for abusing a horse were brought before the magistrate today and fined $1 and costs apiece.

PORT STANLEY WILL PROBABLY GO DRY

Arrangements Just About Completed for Starting Strong Local Option Campaign.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Port Stanley, July 30. — Arrangements are well under way for the local option campaign which is to be inaugurated here, and there is little doubt from the general sentiment expressed that Port Stanley will be added to the "dry" places. The committee which has charge of the matter is circulating the necessary petitions, and will shortly place them before the people.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers of St. Thomas held a very pleasant picnic here yesterday. About 150 came on the excursion to the lakeside, and during the afternoon played a game of baseball and ran off a program of sports.

Three carloads of merchandise were left at Port yesterday by the Merchants' Line ship City of Hamilton. This is a very usual cargo, and though not large, it pays for the boat to call.

Quite a number of campers are on the beach at this season. Among them are Joe Devine, Stanley Seiler, George Arthurs, Will Robinson and Herman Alkens, all London boys, are at the Swastika Camp, and V. Adams, H. Portey and F. Hollands, also of London, are at Springwood Camp.

At the S. J. Club camp there are C. Ingram, A. Ray, C. Hastings, L. Davidson, M. Riddell, W. Giles, F. Negitt, W. Vall, W. Woodford, R. Ray, W. Conklyn, B. Black and S. Lawrence, of St. Thomas.

Dr. W. D. Slater and family, from Toronto, are spending the summer at Willow Rest, where Dr. W. H. Reid and daughter, also of Toronto, are visiting at present.

Miss Armstrong, of Detroit, is spending a couple of weeks with Miss Hilda Keene, of Shadyview.

Mr. Coombes' mother is spending a few days with him at Port Stanley.

Miss Edith McBride, of London, has been visiting at Cluny Villa.

Mr. Coleridge is back after his two weeks' illness in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Miss Florence Keene is leaving for a visit to Detroit and Manitowish.

Rev. A. J. White, who has spent a month here, has left for Minneapolis.

Miss Kate Lanaster, of St. Thomas, and Miss Kate Lanaster, of London, spent the week-end at Columbia Cottage.

Mr. W. Woodford was host at a bonfire on the beach on Saturday night, at which about fifty were present. Watermelon and "all-day suckers" were served.

The Misses A. and Mary Houghner, of London, spent last week with the Misses Marjorie and Beatrice Rowe.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. McCann were guests at Cluny Villa over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Keene have returned to London.

Miss Leah Thomas and Miss Beatrice Rowe were hostesses at a song service at Roerich Cottage last evening.

The Misses Florence Jackson and Marjorie Meek, of London, are visiting the Misses Muriel and Verna Graham at Victoria Cottage.

Mr. H. T. White, of Toronto, spent Sunday at Pretoria Cottage with his family.

better if reference had been made to the course to be adopted in the event of the vessel reaching the region of ice.

The outward and homeward journeys were, according to the judgment, reasonably safe for the time of the year at which the disaster happened, provided great precaution and vigilance were used in crossing the region.

View of the fact that on the night of the accident the moon was not shining, there was no wind, and very little swell on the sea, and especially the view of the high speed at which the Titanic was steaming, an extra lookout should, in the court's opinion, have been placed in the stem of the boat, and a sharp watch kept by the officers on both sides of the bridge. The judgment did not consider binoculars necessary as a rule. Searchlights, however, might be serviceable, but the evidence given before the court was insufficient to permit of a precise answer.

Speed Was Too Great.
The speed of 22 knots was regarded by the court as excessive.

The seriousness of the disaster was realized by the officers, and 15 or 20 minutes of the crash, and proper discipline had been maintained according to the view of the court.

Criticizes Duff-Gordon.
Lord Mersey said it was an attack on the moral conduct of Sir Cosmo Duff-Gordon and J. Bruce Ismay, but silence on the part of the court might be misunderstood. He continued:

"The very gross charge against Sir Cosmo Duff-Gordon, that he bribed the boatman to row away from the drowning people is unfounded. I do not believe the men in the boat were deterred from making an attempt to rescue others by any act of Sir Cosmo Duff-Gordon. At the same time, I think if he had encouraged the men to row away, he would have added one more life to the number lost."

"The apparatus for lowering the boats was in good order, and but some of the lifeboats were undermanned and improperly equipped. Eight of the boats were not filled when they left the ship, and because the passengers did not realize their danger, and the officers, who were uncertain of the strength and capacity of the small boats, had intended to complete their loading after they were launched."

"The disproportion of the passengers of the different classes among those saved was due to the fact that many
