MAYOR WILL FIGHT PLAN FOR SCHOOL TREASURER

Opposes Any Move To Decentralize Municipality's Financial System.

IS SUSPICIOUS

Says It Looks Like Scheme To Provide "$5,000 Job For W. A. Tanner."

Mayor George Wenige opposes vigorously any move to decentralize London's municipal financial system as would be occasioned, he foresees, by the appointment of a separate treasurer for the board of education.

"I will fight that move from start to finish," his worship declared, adding that he had no intention of making a move to make a $5,000 job for W. A. Tanner, secretary of the board of education.

City Treasurer James Bell was thoroughly aroused today respecting statements credited to Secretary Tanner at yesterday's session of the board of education.

"I am not going to allow him to get away with statements that he has made, if he has made them as reported," Mr. Bell stated. "He says, according to the report, that he has run across several small accounts that had been paid twice. That is not entirely correct. I say that this department has run across these accounts in question, not his department, and not once or twice either, but upon numerous occasions."

Mayor Wenige stated today also that while Secretary Tanner has complained that he has not been able to secure information from the treasurer's department without certain delay, it seemed just as well that there has been certain delay in checking over the accounts of some of them have been paid twice.

"A $4,000 or $5,000 job for Secretary Tanner," the mayor said, "is not a job for the board of education. We want no decentralization of our system. The present system should be satisfactory generally, if followed properly."

"Dr. Britain and his associates also express the opinion in their report upon our municipal departments that there should be no decentralization. As a matter of fact, they recommend just the reverse. They would have far greater powers vested with City Treasurer Bell."

The latter was most emphatic in his contention that the present practice of accounting in conjunction with the board of education is quite satisfactory.

Secretary Tanner of the board of education today repeated his statement that he would make a combination of the office of secretary and treasurer would make for greater efficiency in board management.

Mr. Tanner stated that his motives were absolutely pure and that he was not trying to work things so that he could demand a higher salary. It was only in the interests of efficiency that he had made his suggestions, and he still said there was no doubt that a combination would result in much saving, both of money and time.

"There was some talk of making the two positions one," Mr. Tanner said, "but that was before I was made secretary. Said the secretary, 'and, in fact, it was one of the inducements offered me if I would accept the office.'"

Referring to the $1,500 account with the Hobbs company, for which payment was tendered twice, Mr. Tanner stated he did not know when that was. Information received, however, places the time as about eighteen years ago.

WINDSOR TEACHERS VISIT LONDON SCHOOLS TODAY

LONDON'S MAYOR GREET TEACHERS ON VISIT TO CITY

Windsor Delegation Conducts Tour of Several London Schools.

HAS SPECIAL TRAIN

Immediately after the address by the mayor the visitors debouched to the entrance of the station, where they entered motor cars and were taken on a tour of the city, beginning with the Simcoe school, where demonstrations in writing and other subjects were given by Principal Wallis. A trip to Victoria school followed, where choral singing, folk dancing and dramatization of nursery rhymes was presented. Luncheon at the central college institute concluded the morning session.

After lunch the visitors were taken to St. George's school, where the art and nature study room was the object of much admiration. A drive touching the main points of interest in the city was then conducted, winding up at Ryerson school, where high tea was served by the Women Teachers' Guild. A short musical program at the same school completed the day.

Accompanying the teachers from the border were W. D. McGregor, chairman of the Windsor board; Trustee W. T. Westgate, Harry Guppy and J. R. Chapin, Inspector Benson, H. W. Bull, music supervisor, and T. Borrow, secretary.

When a special train pulled into the C. N. R. station at 9:45 this morning, 225 Windsor teachers of primary, secondary and separate schools disembarked to spend a day in London with their confreres of the local Teachers' Institute.

As the train pulled in about 100 local educationalists, including members of the board, officials and teachers, welcomed the visitors, giving them the freedom of the city until 9:30 this evening, when they will return to the border.

The judging committee is composed of well-known Canadian breeders and bird fanciers, James McCormick, known from coast to coast as one of Canada's best Bantam breeders, will pass judgment in this class. During another of Canada's foremost poultry men will judge the Wyandotte class. Other judges are: Richard Oke, William McNeil, Donald McGinnis and H. B. Storey.

TAKES FARM CLUB INSTEAD OF TRIP TO OLD SCOTLAND

Aberdonian Reaches Sensible Decision in Office of Immigration Superintendent.

GETS WORK AT ONCE

A husky young Scot from Aberdeen, who walked into the office of John Farrell, the government superintendent of immigration for Western Ontario this morning and asked what was the easiest way for him to get home. He had come out in the spring to London, and after working all summer for the city was now out of work and faced with the possibility of unemployment for the next five months. He had a wife and bairns in the Granite City and wanted to get back to them.

Mr. Farrell, however, seeing that this was a man who had been born and bred on a farm, and who knew horses and cattle and sheep from a lifetime's experience, determined to keep him in Canada, and after some discussion was able to achieve his object. He offered this good Scot a job on a farm close to London for $25 a month and his board and washing. If at the end of the month he was satisfactory to the farmer and himself, he would be offered a yearly contract would be arranged.

The Aberdonian, who after a few minutes' mental calculation decided that this present condition in both London and in the old country he was better off in Ontario at this wage, agreed to go out for the month's trial. Tonight he leaves London for his new home, and Mr. Farrell, who describes him as the "kind of man who would make a good farmer," is gratulating himself on having been successful in preventing his return to the land o' cakes.

SAYS STATE INSURANCE FOR SHIPS REAL NEED

Marine Official Quotes British Journal As Argument For Contention.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, Nov. 8.—That Canada should embark upon a policy of state marine insurance in the near future because of the attitude maintained by British underwriters, was the opinion expressed today by Alexander Johnson, deputy minister of marine, who quoted from the Liverpool Standard Insurance policy. It is the effect that it would be impossible to meet Canadian demands for elimination of north American warrant in the view of British underwriters. Mr. Johnson felt that the Canadian government would be compelled to take steps to remove the discrimination against Canadian ports.

"The deputy minister thought that the underwriters, in view of the great improvement made in Canadian harbours, would have removed the causes complained of."

"It seems that they do not intend to do so," said Mr. Johnson. "The government may be forced to take action which will relieve ships wishing to trade with Canada of the necessity of paying extra premiums."

Canadian Press Despatch. Sudbury, Nov. 8.—Paul Joseph Martin, alias Paul Schotte, drew a two-year sentence in Kingston penitentiary in Sudbury police court today and then thanked the court.

Mr. Martin helped police recover $1 more quarters and they aided him in asking Port Arthur authorities to allow him to plead guilty and be sentenced here on charges of stealing liquor and breaking and entering into the head of the lakes. Permission was given, so he pleaded guilty to four charges today, and drew four sentences to Kingston penitentiary, two years each, for escaping custody and being in possession of stolen goods, one year for stealing automobiles, and three months for B. O. T. A. He is claimed to have considerable police record in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

CALLS YARN "ROT"

Civic Coal Purchase, If Any, Will Be Used For Purposes of Charity.

It is remarkable how false impressions are broadcasted. It was reported yesterday in effect that "London was going into the coal business," and that Mayor Wenige was considering such an undertaking, although "the aldermen disapproved."

The mayor today characterized such talk as utter rot. Early in the year and upon several occasions he has voiced the sincere belief that never again should the city embark upon such a venture. And he makes it quite clear today that his opinion in this respect remains unchanged.

"Here is how it all happened," he explained. "We have an offer from a Toronto coal dealer, offering to sell us coal at a certain figure, presumably less than we could obtain here."

"What has been considered is this: (and there has been nothing definite), that if the price was right, we could purchase a quantity and store it at the city yard. We would use the coal from time to time for cases of charity."

"The city always donates coal from time to time through the relief department. That is what I have in mind if we purchased the coal in question. Is that going in the coal business? I do not consider that it would be, and I don't think that the people would. I think it would be good business if the coal and price was right."

Mayor Wenige was very indignant at the manner in which his plan had been misconstrued—obviously with malicious intent.

WOMAN'S CHARGES STOUTLY DEIED BY PRISON GUARD

Arthur Twigg Claims Female Prisoner Received No Favors.

DECISION DEFERRED

Canadian Press Despatch. Kingston, Ont., Nov. 8.—Claiming that she had given Guard Arthur Twigg several letters and notes and that she had received tobacco, papers and other comforts from him, an ex-prisoner of the Portsmouth penitentiary was called in rebuttal evidence in the case against Twigg, that of trafficking, this morning. She stated further that these communications with Twigg were carried on for some time, but the accused on being placed in the box flatly denied the allegations.

The evidence for the crown and for the defence was concluded this morning, and after Magistrate Farrell had indicated that he would not accept the evidence of women of the stamp of those who were called by the crown unless corroborated by other evidence, he adjourned the case until tomorrow, when he would let them know of his decision.

The woman, Pearl Thompson, who testified on parole yesterday, served part of a five-year sentence, which she received in Toronto, where she was a waitress in a cafe. The young woman stated that the accused guard had carried letters for her in and out of the prison during the summer of 1922 and had also given her tobacco, cigarettes, papers and matches.

"I sent the letters to a former guard named Trotter," she said. "I gave a statement after I was summoned. I was afraid to refuse to tell these men when they served me with a summons. I was asked if I knew anything about Guard Twigg, and they did not tell me that he was charged. Truth is the best policy, and I have learned that the best policy is to tell the truth."

Rev. J. Bruce Hunter Talks to Kwanians of the League of Nations.

"What the League of Nations needs to establish universal peace is universal sentiment behind it; and when Canadians, Americans and every other English-speaking people get behind and support it, then we shall have peace on earth."

Addressing the Kwanians Club at noon Rev. (Major) J. Bruce Hunter, who recently assumed the pastorate of the First Methodist Church, pointed to the League of Nations, with its embodiment of all the principles of Christianity, as the one thing which could save the world from future war.

"At least four great principles," he said, "have been applied in the effort to secure peace. In fact, the only thing which has been applied is Christianity, and I believe every principle of this is embodied in the League of Nations."

Commenting with the great tribunal at The Hague, a system of international law was tried—and failed. Men told us that the world would be held together by bonds of commerce. Scientists believed that through the force of their great explosives they held the destinies of nations in their hands. Education was tried, and yet the most cultured nation in the world was she who plunged the world into the terrible destruction and loss of life.

"With all its imperfections, yet the League of Nations still embodies the principles of Christianity, and that is the only thing which can establish peace. The league does not need a greater organization. It is already organized to deal with everything which might affect human interest. What it asks for is a universal sentiment behind it."

"During the war," Major Hunter continued, "I became convinced that the British empire was incurably civilized and incurably religious. At heart, it is Christian. For example, in the Ruhr situation, there is no doubt that Britain is sympathetic toward France, and yet she could not approve of her attitude toward the tangle in the Ruhr, and the sooner France recognizes that altruistic spirit the sooner we shall have peace."

"Even under the stress of war, the British empire showed the capacity to be a few exceptions, dealt with their prisoners in a spirit of kindness and sympathy, and we have in this indication of what the British stand would be with the nations at large."

Family In Dire Want Will Have Thanksgiving Feast

Merchant Sends Plentiful Food Supply to Deserted Mother.

INCLUDES TURKEY

Has Supported Eight Children by Scrubbing For $10 A Week.

When J. Levi came to London from Toronto to supervise the manufacture of sale of clothing at the old warehouses of Dickson, Nicholson Company, he probably had no thought of anything but business. As soon as he arrived, however, he read in The Advertiser of the destitution suffered by a local family.

Perhaps it was the Thanksgiving spirit or perhaps it was just ordinary kindness of heart. Anyway, Mr. Levi felt impelled to investigate the condition of the poor family. The result is that the hard-working mother and her eight children, instead of passing the Thanksgiving holiday in abject want, will feel the comfortable glow of a good fire and enjoy a real Thanksgiving feast.

This morning Mr. Levi sent a barrel of potatoes, cauliflower, turnips, honey, apples, bread and a huge turkey to the poverty-stricken family. His reward was a look of supreme gratification on the faces of eight chubby youngsters and a warm handshake from a mother who was a tearful and grateful mother.

Six months ago the woman was deserted by her husband. Left alone with her eight children, she had to live on the charity of the day. For this she received $10 a week.

The children are too young to work. Little Albert, the eldest, can work papers. But the earnings of all the children amount to less than 50 cents a day.

When Mr. Levi made his investigation he found the dilapidated home in a deplorable state. The children were in rags. They were huddled under a mangy mattress to keep their bodies warm. The mother was working in a laundry.

When the woman returned home at noon to feed her children a few crusts, she found a bag of potatoes on the doorstep. Later bushels of fresh vegetables arrived at her door, and finally a big turkey came. Bread, honey and apples were also sent. The children even had the Christmas feast of old Scrooge.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S CLUB ORGANIZED IN BRANTFORD

Special to The Advertiser. Brantford, Nov. 8.—A new departure in the way of clubs was organized here when the Brantford Business Women's Club came into being. A large and very enthusiastic group of business women met in the Brantford Business College and elected officers for the new club as follows: Honorary president, Miss E. Raymond; president, Miss H. Blott; 1st vice, Miss Brown; 2nd vice, Miss Foster; 3rd vice, Miss Dodge; recording secretary, Miss Graham; corresponding secretary, Miss Cooper; treasurer, Miss Kingley; executive, Misses Guenther, Chambers, Miller, Young, Vansickle, Mrs. Simpson.

The opening meeting of the new club was arranged for December 4th. Blue and silver were chosen as the club colors. Mr. H. E. Gignac started the club off with a generous donation of $25. Judging from the enthusiasm displayed and the plans discussed, the newly-organized club bids fair to be one of the most active of the many women's organizations in the city.

Good Health Secret of Beauty.
Beauty lies in the care a woman takes upon herself and in keeping at bay those dread ailments peculiar to her sex, which drag her down and leave tell-tale traces upon her countenance. Sparkling eyes, the elastic step and a clear complexion never accompany organic troubles. Distressed expressions, a sallow complexion, dark circles under the eyes, lassitude, headaches and mental depression are the tell-tale symptoms of women's ailments. Women too troubled should not lose a day in taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, the most successful remedy known to overcome woman's ailments and restore health and beauty.

FRANCE INTENDS BLOCKING WAVE FOR ARMY RULE

Warns Berlin That Military Dictatorship Will Be Opposed.

STATES REASONS

Associated Press Despatch. Paris, Nov. 8.—France warned Germany today that this government cannot remain a disinterested spectator in the event of an attempt to establish a military nationalist dictatorship in Berlin.

The representations, presented through the French ambassador in the German capital, were couched in diplomatic terms, but under the polite forms used in such communications, aspiring dictators were told to keep their hands off France. France has no intention of interfering with Germany's internal affairs, it was said at the foreign office tonight, but a return of the militarist party to power in Germany would mean the almost certain repudiation of the Treaty of Versailles.

It is believed here that the opposition of the Nationalists to the succeeding German government has been due to what they regard as the lukewarmness of these governments in resistance to the execution of the treaty.

It is known that Marshal Foch, who is closely watching developments in Germany, has come to the conclusion that a new tide of pan-Germanism is rising. He has said that there is coming in Germany a Nationalist movement comparable with that which followed the downfall of Napoleon, when Prussia was given the post of watchman of the Rhine, and that the Allies would be stupidly blind if they failed to see and provide for it.

WEDDINGS

MORTON-ROBERTS.
Special to The Advertiser. Brantford, Nov. 8.—A very pretty autumn wedding took place yesterday at Grace Church, when Miss Beatrice Clare Roberts, daughter of Mrs. Robert and the late Mr. W. L. Roberts, was united in marriage to Mr. Harold Paul Morton, son of Mrs. Morton, Toronto, and the late Mr. G. K. Morton.

The bride was beautifully gowned in ivory duchess satin with rose point lace gown. The bride was hemmed with pearls and worn in cap effect, being caught with orange blossoms and falling over the gracefully draped train. A bouquet of white mums, with shower of baby's breath, was carried. Miss Pearl Brown, who attended the bride, was gowned in pink brocade satin and wore a picture hat of black velvet with black plumes. She carried a sheaf of pink mums.

The ceremony was performed by Canon H. F. Woodcock of Toronto, and Yvonne Archibald, daughter of Mr. W. Norman Andrews was at the organ. During the signing of the register the choir sang "Perfect Love." The ushers were Major E. H. Newman and Mr. Hilton McKay. After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother.

Immediately after the reception Mr. and Mrs. Morton left for New York City, where they will reside. Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Hamilton, Galt, Brantford, Belleville, Queenston, Port Erie, Ottawa, Guelph, Lindsay, Brantford and Howell, Mich.

SUSPENDS BOYS ON THEFT CHARGE

Magistrate Places Pair On Year's Parole—Intended To Return Goods Is Claim.

REAL SNOWSTORM
Special to The Advertiser. Owen Sound, Nov. 8.—Two boys, residing in the township of Bentinck, near Dorchester, appeared in county police court this morning on a charge of theft of a robe, a pair of hosiery and some small articles from a shanty owned by Gordon McDonald. They were let out on suspended sentence for one year. The boys claimed they had intended to take back the articles.

The contract of the Warren Bituminous Paving Company has been completed in Owen Sound for this year. The work of laying bituminous paving was commenced about two and a half months ago. Since that time between 15,000 and 20,000 square yards of paving have been laid.

It Looks Like Winter.
Owen Sound and district was in the throes of a winter snowstorm today. The mercury dropped to 27 degrees. On the night of October 31, the record was 19 degrees. Between 2 and 3 inches of snow fell during last night and this morning, and a northerly wind is blowing.

ENGLISH FOLK FORM A NEW ORGANIZATION

Ladies Will Give Special Attention To Cases of Need.

Unbounded enthusiasm was displayed by the large gathering of English folk who assembled in Duffield Hall last night and formed a new organization, as an auxiliary to St. George's Society, its object being to render aid to English women who are in need of relief.

F. J. Chappell, president of St. George's Society, told of the aims and objects of this organization, especially that of helping those of English birth.

During the winter this new organization of women hopes to assist many whose wants might otherwise go unheeded. Officials of St. George's Society have felt for some time that an organization of this kind was needed, and decided to call a meeting to ascertain what could be done. The large attendance last night indicated that the proper time had come, and accordingly elections were held, in existence only a few hours members feel that it was formed for a worthy cause, and have already laid plans for making it one of the most active societies in the city.

A meeting will be held shortly at which the list of officers will be completed.

Those elected were: President, Mrs. French; vice-president, Mrs. Nicholls; secretary, Mrs. Thorne; treasurer, Mrs. Robinson; auditors, Mrs. Jackson and Miss Smith; organist, Mrs. Morton.

JIGGS AND MAGGIE APPEAR AT GRAND IN BRIGHT COMEDY

Hilarity and Fun of Famous Cartoons Cleverly and Vividly Staged.

CAPTIVATING CHORUS

If George McManus, that genial creator of those fascinating Jiggs cartoons, had been asked to choose a company to dramatize his drawings and a figure to portray Jiggs he couldn't have picked a better company than the one in London today.

Last night in the Opera House the famous cartoons well-beloved over two continents came to life and color, and the bringing-up of father as told by the Hillsdale Amusement Company, in the musical play, centered around the gallant and ever-young boy with the silk hat and the white waistcoat, proved to a crowded house on Thursday evening, the intensely human appeal of George McManus and the power of his little fables of everyday life as acted by a really capable and enthusiastic company.

To begin with, the center of gravity is dear and fussy, old Jiggs, always in a kind of mock terror of Maggie, and always with an admiring eye for the ladies. As played by Mr. Wesley, Jiggs was simply the Jiggs of the cartoons, and there can be no greater compliment than that.

You Know Maggie. Maggie, what memories. You know

Maggie, that tall arrogant commanding officer. Well, she stepped it right merrily beside her husband, chasing him when he deserved it and weeping mournful tears over him when he was bitten by a most formidable snake in Hawaii. When in turn she sang several songs in a remarkably fine voice, she reaped a shower of applause that proved her ability in an entirely different kind of work that would make her a very popular vaudeville turn in any circuit.

Who comes next? Well who does in the cartoons? Why, that charming daughter that Jiggs was blessed with, Kitty. Kitty of the wonderful clover and green dress. Everyone who knows her and all the fellows who follow the drawings are in love with her. So the best thing to do is to come and see Bessie Leonard as Kitty at the Grand, and see for yourself just how charming McManus' ideal girl really is.

And, of course, Dinty.

Surely you haven't forgotten Dinty Moore? Of course not. What would the story or the play be without him. Dinty of the merry grin, Dinty of the large-minded friendship for his friend Jiggs, and Dinty, with the extremely broad-minded view of the little affairs of the gallant that was deriding old Irishman. Here he is on the stage, as large as life, and every bit as absurd. Boasting and swanking and gasconading with the best of swashbucklers, and when Edward J. Harris shows you what Dinty was in real life he shows you what the artist meant when he conceived the character. He also sings a number of songs very well in a light tenor, and proves as versatile as the rest of the company.

Most of us have forgotten how many times the cartoons show us a darky, but there must have been one in the story because Dinty of the large-minded friendship for his friend Jiggs, and Dinty, with the extremely broad-minded view of the little affairs of the gallant that was deriding old Irishman. Here he is on the stage, as large as life, and every bit as absurd. Boasting and swanking and gasconading with the best of swashbucklers, and when Edward J. Harris shows you what Dinty was in real life he shows you what the artist meant when he conceived the character. He also sings a number of songs very well in a light tenor, and proves as versatile as the rest of the company.

The remainder of the cast, including Evelyn Butler as Valeska Navarro and Harry Culver as Jimmy O'Dea, with the support of a pretty and well-dressed chorus, rounded out a company that presented "Bringing Up Father" better than it has ever been done before in London.

FANTASTIC AND ORIGINAL FILM SEEN AT LOEW'S

Real Fascination in "The Marriage Maker"—Settings Beautiful.

FINE COMEDY ACT

Most people are from Missouri, and so William de Mille does a risky thing when he allows the plot of "The Marriage Maker" (now at Loew's) to be built around the character of a faun, who is "interesting, if true." Though it has never been proven conclusively that there aren't any fauns, yet the majority profess to find proof beyond their own five senses, entirely unnecessary. So, when you go to see "The Marriage Maker," go with an open mind, because it is the first time the screen has dared to dip into the realm of the purely fantastic for a real film and blood picture. In its originality, the picture is frankly interesting.

As a comedy, it is utterly delightful, and as a romance it is pleasing. William de Mille has done every thing beautifully, with the characteristic touch of making his picture as great an appeal to the mind as his brother Cecil usually makes to the eye. "The Marriage Maker" not only fascinates the attention, but it is produced and screened with great beauty of setting, and is further enhanced by the lovely presence of Agnes Ayres and Mary Astor. The male stars are really Jack Holt and Charles De la Roche, but Robert Agnew, one of the younger Paramount players, provides a touch that cannot be overlooked.

Jack Holt, Too. Jack Holt does seem a bit miscast as the type of Englishman who must marry for millions, but after all it doesn't spoil the picture. Never having seen a faun, it is not easy to say whether Charles De la Roche is well cast or not, but he does seem more at home in this role than anything else he's been seen in.

The Arco Brothers provide something of a sensation in the vaudeville program. With pardonable pride, one of the brothers displays a remarkable muscle development, which to judge from the applause, quite seized the fancy of the large audience. In the whole massive frame, it seems that there isn't a width of a hair that hasn't been developed into muscle, and the result is quite marvellous. The entire act evinces prodigious strength and skill.

For the remainder there is "Alice Lewis," whose songs and stories are average, but the bill again goes to top notch with a pair who present newness and freshness in the way of comedy. Particularly with the kitchen effect of the second part, their act is delightful.

QUELPH IS GROWING.

Special to The Advertiser.

Quelph, Nov. 8.—The assessment figures for Quelph have just been compiled at the office of City Assessment Commissioner Hastings. There is a total increased assessment of $1,523,266. There is also a very gratifying increase in the population, which is now 13,875, an increase of 455.

ROWE DEMANDS AN EXPLANATION OF STATEMENTS

Secretary Tanner Brands Present System of Accounting As Inefficient.

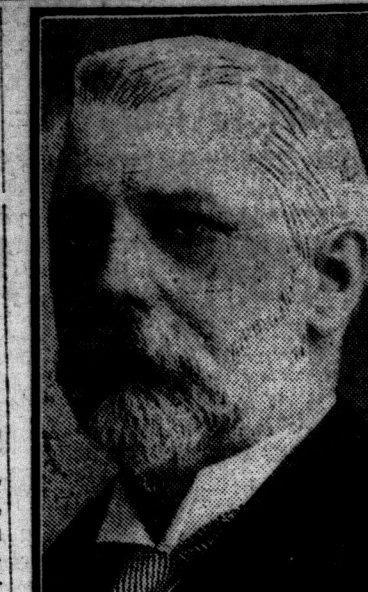

TRUSTEE AROUSED

Branding the present system of financing and accounting of the board of education as inefficient and the wrong system to be in use, Secretary W. A. Tanner declared at yesterday's meeting of the board that in some cases accounts had been paid twice. This declaration came as the result of a lengthy argument between Trustee Rowe and Secretary Tanner relative to statements made by the official at a meeting of a special committee held Wednesday afternoon to discuss the combining of the two offices.

Opening the discussion, Trustee Thomas Rowe stated that his attention had been called by ratepayers to articles appearing in the press, crediting Mr. Tanner with having stated that previous to his becoming secretary, he knew of accounts having been paid twice.

Mr. Tanner then said that he had been incorrectly quoted, and that he had said no such thing. He did say that an account for $1,500 had been paid once, and then again payment had been tendered but that the company in question had called his attention to the mistake.

"Inasmuch as Mr. Tanner's statement belittles the integrity of former Right Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, who has made an urgent appeal to cabinet ministers to include nothing in their estimates for the year which is not absolutely necessary in the public interest. Hon. J. A. Robb gave this information to an Ottawa deputation which waited upon him yesterday with the request that a retaining wall should be constructed along that part of Rideau Canal passing through the city.

officials and members of the board," said Mr. Rowe, "the atmosphere should be cleared immediately. Secretary Tanner should either deny or confirm this statement. But if the secretary does not deny it, then I have a resolution to put before the board. According to Treasurer Bell, the same thing happens now, Mr. Tanner, so that the errors in the past are the same as at present."

Knew of One Case. "I knew of only one case," replied the secretary, "and that is the one I have mentioned." "It might occur at any time under the present system," broke in Trustee Silverwood. "We have no proper record in our own office. Mr. Tanner's explanation in no way reflected on any person, but on the system that is conducive to leaks of this nature."

Mr. Tanner said he had no intention of casting any reflection on anyone, but was merely condemning the present system. He considered it his duty to bring the matter before the board.

"I have run across several small accounts which have been paid twice," he concluded.

"There, Mr. Tanner says that accounts have been paid twice," interposed Mr. Rowe. "Yes, but I cannot put my fingers on them right now. It has happened in my time, and is the fault of the system." He then admitted the statement in the paper as being correct.

"We are not interested in the system," said Mr. Rowe, "but in the statements you have made. I would like to move that whereas statements have been made by Secretary W. A. Tanner that cast reflection on past members and officials of the board, be it resolved that Mr. Tanner be asked to produce proofs of his statements before the next meeting or make a public denial."

"How can I deny what I know to be true?" replied the secretary. "I did not intend to cast slur."

Will Be Discussed Again. "I think that Mr. Tanner just used this example to gain point for changing the system, not to reflect on any person," said Trustee Wright.

"Mr. Tanner was just unfortunate in his choice of words," stated Trustee Casselman. "The reports in both papers were very fair."

Trustee Wilcott stated that the implication was that the present system was not satisfactory.

"I am not a Cicero or a Gladstone," concluded Mr. Tanner, "and I certainly did not mean to cast any reflections, except at the system." "If the system is inefficient, it should be changed," declared Trustee Silverwood, as the subject was dismissed, to be again discussed at a further meeting of the committee.

FIRST PAYMENT FROM HOME BANK DUE NEXT WEEK

Hard Pressed Depositors Have Already Filed Papers To Obtain Relief.

CASE OF HARDSHIP

Several Home Bank depositors will receive their first 25 per cent advance on savings early next week, Joseph Dambra, president of the Home Bank Depositors' Association, said today.

The announcement in The Advertiser yesterday to the effect that hard pressed depositors would receive preferred treatment in the distribution of dividends prompted many to file papers with the executive of the association last evening and this morning, hoping to get immediate relief.

One citizen, Mr. Dambra said, who had his savings in the Home Bank, got a job with a firm which was also a Home Bank customer. The concern told its employees that they could not pay wages until a dividend was declared. Consequently the employee in question is extremely hard up. He explained his predicament, and a 25 per cent payment will be made on his account as early as possible.

The Home Bank head office will likely sell for $630,000 or more. This, in addition to the amount realized on other quick assets, will be sufficient to pay off all depositors who urgently need the money.

He is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Mason and Mrs. Greenside of London, Mrs. W. Walker of Clinton, Mrs. W. Kemp of Detroit, and Mrs. Morris of Clinton; and two sons, Robert of London and James in Ohio. The funeral took place from the home of Mrs. Morris, Rev. J. E. Hogg of the Willie Presbyterian Church conducting the services.

Aldermen Are In Dilemma Over Vacation Question On Eve of City Election

Mayor Reiterates Stand of Holidays For All Employees or None.

OVERTIME PAY

Officials Point Out They Work Many Extra Hours With No Added Remuneration.

Mayor Wenige quite appreciates that members of the board of works were in a "bad box" last night when called upon to deal with civic holidays so close to election day. "Holidays for all city employees or for none at all—that's my stand," he declared today. "Else, where are you going to draw the line? What is fair for one city employee or city official who is not a member of the board?"

The two Labor aldermen, Frank McKee and John Coburn, are the only members of the council entertaining similar views. In fact, they fostered the resolution in the council early in the year, but it was shelved from time to time throughout the summer.

Under present conditions, the members of the city hall staff and the outside foremen are the only ones to receive vacations, but the officials point out that they receive no overtime for evening work.

The Labor aldermen are willing also to support any move to remunerate officials for these additional duties, but their opponents question the advisability of this proposal.

There are members of the board of works who are almost afraid to open their mouths for fear they will "lose a few votes," according to Ald. Gordon Drake, who raps that committee for failure to recommend vacations with pay for all civic employees.

"It's getting that they don't want the workingman to breathe at all," declared Ald. Drake. "Some of these fellows in the board of works are afraid now to say or do anything for fear they will lose a few votes. One would think that it was worth a million dollars to be elected."

Ald. Drake states that he is prepared to support the measure, and believes that the estimated cost, about $2,000, as set by the city engineer, can be reduced.

"Who deserves a regular holiday more than the garbage workers?" he asked. "I am confident that they could double up in the summertime and I think that Superintendent Dods would be only too willing to arrange the schedule satisfactorily, if they would only allow him."

TEN DIRECTORS OF HOME BANK DENIED REQUEST

Cannot Have Speedy Non-Jury Trial in County Court.

NO JURISDICTION

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Nov. 8.—The ten accused directors and officials of the Home Bank were denied their request for a speedy trial before a county judge without a jury by Mr. Justice Smith in the assizes this morning and their trial will be traversed to the January assizes.

His lordship, in announcing his decision this morning, ruled that he had no jurisdiction to instruct the jury to deliver the accused for trial before a county judge.

The ten directors and officials appeared last Friday before Mr. Justice Smith in the assizes, charged with conspiracy and making false returns under the bank act.

W. N. Tillis, K.C., representing one of the directors, argued for the right of a speedy trial, but after a lengthy legal argument with D. L. McCarthy, K.C., special crown prosecutor, Mr. Justice Smith reserved judgment until today.

INCREASES SATISFY ENGINEER'S STAFF

Department Employees Pleased With Consideration Given by Council.

Members of the city engineering staff were very "mellowed" in despatches last night for salary increases to date back to the first of the year, voiced entire satisfaction to The Advertiser's report.

"It relieves our minds. We know where we are at now," explained one of the men, and his explanation seems to express the general attitude of the staff.

The recommendations in question had been hanging fire since the last council session in 1922, when they were recommended to the 1923 aldermen. Quite recently certain members of the department were considering opportunities for employment elsewhere, and were placed in a quandary, as there was no assurance that the present council proposed to deal with the question until after the election—if then.

City Engineer Near explained to the committee last night that early next year he contemplated a reorganization of the clerks in his department—a probable division of duties and responsibilities. With this change he would also recommend, he expected, another salary readjustment. He has no definite schedule as yet, however.

BANDITS GET $26,000 IN DEFIANT INVASION

Gang of Eight or Ten Hold 500 at Bay in Ogden, Kansas.

Associated Press Despatch. Ogden, Kan., Nov. 8.—Eight or ten bandits, in wild west fashion, held this town of 500 inhabitants at bay for two hours early today while they blasted their way through the door of the vault in the Ogden State Bank.

Guards stationed outside the bank kept up a heavy fire until their companions gained access to the vault and looted it. Then, shouting defiance, the bandits came out upon the town as they walked to their two motor cars on the edge of the city and drove away.

Bank officials estimate the loot at approximately $26,000. The bandits got $2,000 cash and $24,000 in Liberty bonds. No trace of the bandits had been found late tonight. Telephone, telegraph and electric light wires were cut by the bandits before the raid opened. Nine applications of explosives were needed before the door of the vault finally yielded.

Volley of shots greeted persons who came within view of the bandits, and every light that appeared near the bank. The final explosion sent a piece of steel through the office clock, stopping it at 4 o'clock. None of the bank officials lived in the building.

Marshal Joe Kemnitz fired several shots from behind a tree across the street from the bank but aside from drawing the fire of the bandits' guns, accomplished nothing.

INDIAN GIVEN TEN YEARS FOR SLAYING WHILE DRUNK

Canadian Press Despatch. Vernon, B.C., Nov. 8.—"I regret that the man who sold you the whiskey is not here to be sentenced with you," said Mr. Justice Morrison today in passing sentence of ten years in the penitentiary on Charlie Louis, an Indian, aged 38, convicted of manslaughter.

An assize jury found Louis guilty of killing his wife with a jack-knife, but added a strong recommendation to mercy because the Indian was under the influence of liquor.

COURT ORDERS JOHN DRAEBECK TO KEEP PEACE

Wife Charges He Ejected Her From Home on Ottawa Avenue

ASKS SEPARATION

John Draebek, of 549 Ottawa avenue, lost his "steenth police court battle this morning, when he was fined $5 and costs by Deputy Magistrate Gladman and bound over in the sum of $100 to keep the peace for a year.

According to John's wife, her husband came home a few nights ago and when she accused him of being drunk he threw a chair at her—but missed. Later he put Mrs. Draebek and the children out of the house, and they were outside looking in until police constables arrived and interviewed John.

"My husband he tell me he kill me if he have to go jail," said Mrs. Draebek.

"Are you afraid of him?" asked the court.

"Sure. My children and me all sleep with clothes on. Come every Saturday night and make trouble. Get home at 12:30 Sunday morning. My husband keeps money."

Admits Drinking. John denied all this, stating he gave his wife $40, and he kept $40 for himself. He bought the boy a pair of shoes for $7.50 and paid out lots of money for his family.

Peter Draebek, a brother, told the court John's wife made lots of trouble, but his evidence was ruled out.

Charlie Draebek, the young son, said he got home from the show and his father chased his mother and the youngsters outside.

John then entered the witness box and said he had two glasses of whiskey before he got home. Two friends from Kitchener dropped in and he gave them some wine. Later he went out with them and when he came home at 9 o'clock his wife said: "Where have you been?"

"Down at place on Nelson street where they sell whiskey," he answered.

John said he got $50 for seven days' work, and denied throwing a chair at his wife. He admitted being in court "lots of times, sure thing."

Asks Separation. "The trouble with you is too much whiskey and wine," observed the magistrate.

"No, sir, too much yop, yop, yop. Wine just like water, not strong."

"Well, it's a bad combination and I'm going to fine you today."

"For assaulting your wife."

"I scared of him; I want separation," chimed in Mrs. Draebek.

"Sure, separation, or divorce, I don't care," replied her husband.

"You've got to keep the peace for one year," declared Mr. Gladman as John was led away.

IMPROVED TAX BOOKS. No longer are the city assessors to be weighed down with large books. Commissioner Bennett reported today that a much smaller volume has now been obtained and copies are ready for use today. His proposed loose-leaf system, subsequently approved by Dr. Britain, will not be put into practice until 1924.

MASTER OF WORKHOUSE FINDS INMATES BETTING

Associated Press Despatch. London, Nov. 8.—Suspecting the prevalence of betting in Westminister workhouse, the master of the institution carried out a raid on Cessawich Day and confiscated several pounds, principally coppers, found in the possession of an elderly inmate and various punters. The guardians resolved that the proceeds of the raid should be devoted to the purchase of microscopes for the inmates at Christmas.

CHILDREN FOLLOW MAGGIE AND JIGGS ON SHOPPING TOUR

Celebrated Couple Find Pleasure in Visiting London Stores.

FINDS ROLLING PIN

Not content with appearing on the stage of the Grand Opera House for three nights and a matinee in London, Jiggs and Maggie had to see the city and its stores for themselves, and yesterday afternoon they spent an hour in company with Haviland Nash of The Advertiser staff calling at local shops, meeting George Wenige in his store, and being followed by a crowd of about 150 boys and girls wherever they went. It was rather a brave thing for poor little Jiggs to do, seeing that the walls were lined with such a battery of pots and pans and pokers and tongs and all the other weapons that Maggie relies on to keep him in subjection. Perhaps the presence of the crowd was a restraining influence on the gigantic lady, for she seemed in the best of spirits, and never even cast a longing eye at the bright array in the arsenals.

So they climbed into their car, Jiggs gallantly opening the door for his spouse, and rolled along in the new Oakland Six, which had been supplied by Beemer & Co., a nice shiny black car specially fitted with four wheel brakes, so that there was no danger of the worthy couple's being caught in any kind of smash and not being able to appear in "Bringing Up Father" in the evening.

Jiggs "Broke." They journeyed along to the Bicycle and Motor Sales Company, and Maggie dropped her best curtsy and Jiggs "tripped his lid" and the mayor having done likewise, or at least as nearly likewise as possible, friendly relations were established and Jiggs decided to buy a Red Bird, and would have done so but for Maggie, who reminded him that, owing to George McManus, they were now broke and would have to postpone buying anything until their creator got a job for Jiggs.

In the Road Millinery and Fur Company, the same thing happened, only the other way round. Maggie fell in love with a gorgeous fur coat, and she was just about to have it as Jiggs had been to have too wheel. She even had it on, and was on the way out of the store when Jiggs, in a fit of desperation, grabbed her and rescued the coat at the imminent danger of sudden death. His good lady, however, with a heart-rending sigh of regret relinquished the "peach of a coat" and, brushing two tremendous tears from her blue eyes, climbed into the car as meekly as the average London hubby on pay day.

Chases Hubby. They arrived at Purdon's Hardware, and there Maggie, with a revival of her aggressiveness, persuaded Mr. Purdon to give her an oversize rolling pin that caught her eye as she entered the long store. With this she chased the unlucky Jiggs around the counter, and it was only after a great deal of persuasion on the part of Mr. Purdon and Mr. Nash that the "dear little runt," as Maggie affectionately called him, was saved from a violent and typically cartoonish finish.

Visit Photographer's. So weary with well-doing, and still followed by the same large crowd that had been with them on the entire round, they came to Darragh's studio, where they posed for several photographs with a zeal that gave the photographer an opportunity for some of the funniest pictures he has ever taken.

If you've seen the cartoons, you've certainly smiled. When you see the Darragh pictures you'll smile still more. Jiggs and Maggie got more fun out of "having their picture taken" than even the audience at the Grand last night got from watching the play. Thus at last, but not without regret—for London's stores proved wonderfully attractive to the incontinent pair, the squat, perky little Jiggs and the stately frowning Maggie—they drove back to their hotel in time for dinner and to have a sleep before the evening performance. Jiggs shook his head with The Advertiser representative in thanking him for the trip, and Maggie wanted to kiss him, but he pleaded so earnestly that his wife was in the crowd that she merely smiled at him in a most bewitching fashion instead and followed Jiggs through the big front door.

NO DECIDED CHANGE IN TRADE OUTLOOK

Western Ontario Cities Await Improvement in Several Industries.

Business conditions throughout Western Ontario show little change during this week, according to Bradstreet's, and in the analysis of the situation it would appear that if there has been any change, even of a temporary nature, London has suffered a slight setback along certain lines and in several industries. Hamilton is reported to be fairly busy, Toronto is enjoying a mild form of prosperity in anticipation of the Christmas rush, while conditions in Windsor seem to be somewhat improved. As having particular interest for London, that portion of Bradstreet's dealing with business in this city is as follows: "London—Reports to Bradstreet's say that employment conditions in this district at present could not be described as better than fair. Small seasonal curbs and construction are making themselves felt. Candy makers and biscuit makers are busy, but the iron trade, as well as the implement industry, is rather quiet. Fall plowing in the surrounding country is in fairly good shape and farmers are in fairly good shape as regards their fall work. Wholesale and retail trade fair."

FOUR EDUCATION BOARD OFFICIALS TO GET INCREASES

Inspectors Greer and Wheable, Principal Beal and Headmaster Hone Affected.

DATE FROM JAN. 1ST

After a hard fought battle the recommendation of the salary committee dealing with an increase to four officials of the board of education, was finally accepted by a vote of six to four.

The recommendation in question dealt with increases of salaries to Inspectors Greer and Wheable, Principal Beal and Headmaster Hone, and was to the effect that the salaries be raised dating from the beginning of next year.

After the report had been read by Trustee Smith, Trustee Dr. Grant asked why two teachers had been refused while four had been granted. He also wanted to know what right the 1923 board had, in its dying minutes, to commit the 1924 body to an increase in salaries. It was a question of principle, and he was opposed to it.

Trustee Smith stated that the committee had been divided regarding the two teachers who had been refused. Trustee Quinton Warner said he had been prepared to pass the report, but prepared to adopt it next year. It would be better to pass on a definite recommendation to 1924, with the request that it be adopted, rather than commit the incoming body. There would be no injustice done if it was left over.

Trustee Campbell supported Trustee Grant and Warner, moving an amendment that the salary question be referred to the 1924 board for it to deal with. "Well, last year's board showed a school through at the end of the year," stated Trustee Wright, "and now we stick at a comparatively small trifle like salaries."

Trustee Wilmott advised referring it to the 1924 board, while Trustee Mrs. Hunt expressed herself in favor of settling it then and there, stating that it was the 1923 board that knew the worth of the men in question. "If we agree on the basis of the recommendation, why pass the buck?" asked Trustee Silverwood. "On these matters has been before the board for a year and a half, and it is time it was settled. They are employed by us, and we know what they are worth."

Trustees Grant and Warner again expressed their objections to it, after which the vote on the amendment was taken, those voting "Yea" being Trustees Campbell, Grant, Warner and Wilmott. "Nay" were Trustee Smith, Hunt, Silverwood, Wright, Rowe and Casselman. The motion was therefore carried by the same majority.

Chief Inspector Greer will receive $5,000, as will Principal H. B. Beal. Headmaster A. D. Hone and Inspector G. A. Wheable will each receive $3,500 per annum. These amounts will include all perquisites now given by the board.

Just at the end of the meeting Trustee Edwin A. Smith tendered his resignation in order that he might be eligible as a candidate for aldermanic honors in Ward Four. The resignation was accepted.

Principal T. S. Graham, of London South Collegiate, presented a report for the institutes, showing an enrollment in the collegiates of 1,335. The night class enrollment was 107, an average attendance of 84.

Several recommendations were made by Inspector Greer in his report, covering many branches of school work. He also reported on the work of the supervisors, as well as on the attendance at the schools. During his report the question of punctuality of teachers was discussed at some length.

Attendance Officer Marcus Sims' report was highly satisfactory to all members of the board. This showed that exemption permits, as issued under the adolescent act, totaled 19, and that the average attendance at the public schools for last month was 92.4 per cent—a record.

Owing to the lateness of the hour when the subject was introduced, it was decided to hold a special meeting for the discussion of the plans of Empress avenue school, which have been completed by the architect. Tenders will be called for immediately.

Several communications were received and dealt with, among them being invitations to bazaars and Mothers' Clubs, applications for positions, requests for the use of Knollwood school for church purposes during the winter months while a new church was being built for the Knollwood Park Anglican congregation, and were ordered filed or referred.

SUPERTEST STATIONS HAVE MUCH SUCCESS

London Auto Service, Ltd.,
Does Brisk Business in Automobile Services.

Since starting in business in June of this year, the London Automotive Service, Limited, whose products are well-known under the trade name of "Supertest," marketing gasoline, motor oils and greases, has met with wonderful success. A short time after beginning operations the first Supertest Station at 362 Dundas street was found inadequate to meet the increasing demands of the public for Supertest products. Today there are three Supertest Service Stations, located at the corner of Waterloo and Oxford streets, corner of King and Clarence streets, and the main station on Dundas street, between Waterloo and Colborne streets, besides two stations which are now under construction—one on Dundas street at Pottersburg, and the other at the corner of Elmwood avenue and the Wharncliffe highway.

The present station at 362 Dundas street, between Waterloo and Colborne streets, is one of the most up-to-date filling stations in Canada, and in spite of the fact that the service is carried on there, it is always of spick and span appearance, a delight to the eye and an asset to the city. The quick success of this company is accredited to the fact that at all stations a service of outstanding quality is given, and the fact that every gallon of gasoline, pint of oil or pound of grease which is sold is the best possible to secure, suited to the particular make of car and to the season of the year.

The equipment at Supertest Service Stations is of the most modern and up-to-date character that can be found anywhere. Every modern device giving service to motorists has been installed. London motorists demand the best, and the London Automotive Service, Limited, at their Supertest Service Stations can be truly said to give it.

Car-owners, especially lady drivers, are assured of the utmost courtesy from Supertest employees. They may feel quite confident that every car will be taken care of in the most proper manner, that only the proper grade of oil will be put in any car, and that the advice and suggestions which they receive may be relied upon.

Mr. J. D. Good, the general manager of the London Automotive Service, Limited, whose keen foresight, energy and tireless efforts, supplemented by a knowledge of what the motoring public needs and demands, is to be complemented on the efficient way in which his company functions.

Believing that satisfied customers means repeat sales, without which no firm or business can succeed or prosper, the London Automotive Service, Limited, strove above all things to give satisfaction.

MOTOR PROTECTION AGAINST FREEZING

A Winter Liquid For Automobile Radiators.

Kant-Freeze—a Supertest product sold by the London Automotive Service, Ltd., is a winter liquid for automobile radiators which takes the place of anti-freeze such as alcohol, etc. Kant-Freeze is not alcohol and is guaranteed free from rust, not to injure the radiator, rubber hose connections or engine in any way. It will not evaporate and will function at a temperature of as low as 60 degrees below zero.

This is a particularly economical way of insuring against frozen radiators, because one application will last a whole season.

Officials of the London Automotive Service Company claim that "Kant-Freeze" will prevent rust and corrosion and will leave no sediment or scale to interfere with the cooling of the engine.

ARMISTICE DAY FUND WILL GO FOR RELIEF

Give Sum Set Aside by Council to Needy Families.

The $250, which the city council voted for commemoration of Armistice Day will be divided equally between the G. W. V. A. and I. O. D. E. to be used for relief work among soldiers' families. This decision was made by the mayor yesterday when a deputation including Mrs. Allan McLean, regent of the Municipal Chapter, Harry Wray, president of the Great War Veterans Association, Mrs. E. B. Smith and Mrs. B. J. Dunlevy interviewed him.

The mayor's opinion was that if the city could do anything to help fill the coal bins or the bread boxes of needy soldiers' families, that would be the best way in which Armistice Day could be marked. He believed the council would support him in his decision to devote the money to this purpose.

The $125, which is the share of the I.O.D.E., will be handed over to Mrs. Dunlevy, regent of the C. E. F. Returned Chapter for distribution among soldiers' families. The other $125 goes to the G. W. V. A. for the same purpose.

GASOLINE FOR WINTRY WEATHER

Starting Made Easy For Cold Weather Driving.

After exhaustive study, tests and trials, the London Automotive Service, Limited, are now ready to offer the public a winter gasoline which they claim will give summer efficiency to automobiles even in the coldest weather.

Among the merits claimed for this new gas, which will be known as "Zero Gasoline," is that even in the most wintry weather starting is made easy, which, if true, will be a great asset to motorists and will do much to further motoring during winter, and also save much battery trouble.

This gasoline is for sale at all Supertest stations throughout the city and is expected to give a new and better meaning to cold weather driving.

PRESIDENT SAYS TORONTO REPORT WAS MISLEADING

Head of Ontario Wholesale Grocers' Association Refutes Story of Price-Fixing.

DEFENDS THE TRADE

An incorrect report of the proceedings of the meeting of the Ontario Wholesale Grocers' Association of Toronto this week, which states that wholesale grocers are now in a position to establish prices on proprietary lines, was refuted today by William Turnbull, newly-elected president of the association.

"The wholesale grocers," he said, "have never established prices on any line they sell. Nor did they ever ask the courts for permission to do so. The decision of the appellate court referred to in the despatch from Toronto simply reaffirmed our former stand and our usual way of doing business. After the war years Mr. Haney thought that when the manufacturers fixed their resale prices on groceries, as they have always done, it was a procedure in restraint of trade, and on the strength of this instituted proceedings against the association. The case was finally decided in the appellate court and the decision which now absolutely vindicates us and the manufacturers was handed down."

"You see, the manufacturer determines the resale price of all his goods, and that is the price at which we sell. The manufacturer, according to the decision of the court, has a perfect right to refuse to sell to the man who cuts his price, and once the appellate judges went so far as to say that the manufacturer was entitled to the right to make the retail price as well as the resale price."

"There is only one price quoted by wholesalers to the retailer, but this is a benefit and not a detriment to the consumer. The price cutter in the long run adds to the price, because the manufacturer will refuse to sell him and to make up for this lost outlet for his goods, will probably, though not in every case, raise the resale price for a time to cover his temporary losses."

"The wholesale grocer," Mr. Turnbull continued, "offers the cheapest and most efficient way in which the people in Canada can be supplied with their groceries. We are able by our wide connections to bring in all kinds of things from the ends of the earth, which the retailer could not obtain. We know just where these things are grown, where they may be obtained and how. No, the wholesaler is not conducting his business in Canada in a strictly honorable way, and contributing as much as any class in the country to the comfort and happiness of the people. The decision of the appellate court is welcomed by us, of course, as proving our claims and showing the public that we are combined in any trust to keep up the price of their groceries."

SAYS RICHMOND PAVING BEST LAID IN LONDON

Ald. Douglass Tells City Council No Complaints Have Been Heard.

The city council has taken whatever action is necessary in connection with the contemplated closing of Belgrave avenue, City Engineer W. P. Nepean pointed out at last night's session of the board of works.

"There has been some talk of delay," he said, "but the delay has mainly not been on our part. The board of education gave certain instructions about this the other day, and if they had authority to take such action then, they had the authority three months ago."

The next move is up to the school board authorities, it would appear. During last night's session, Chairman Douglass declared that the new Richmond street pavement was the best ever laid in this city, and that he had not heard a complaint from any of the ratepayers on that street. Ald. Ed. Hayden agreed, and Ald. Watt related that they were not hearing anything in their travels to Windsor and Detroit that could measure up to it.

TO SOON ASK TENDERS FOR WEST END SCHOOL

Board of Education Hopes To Have Work Started Before January.

DISCUSSION OF BOARD CAUSES AMUSEMENT

Question of Combining Two Offices Brings Out Spirit of Levity.

The matter of combining the office of secretary and treasurer in the board of education was productive of much amusement during the reading of the communications at last night's meeting.

Following the notification by C. Thompson Tomlin of his intention to purchase a cottage owned by the board, he asked that he be engaged as an employee.

"In what position?" asked Chairman Udy.

"Perhaps as treasurer," replied Trustee Rowe.

Secretary Tanner stated that the man had been a barber, but that owing to the fact that he had developed indigestion he wished outside employment of some sort. The letter was referred to the committee.

A second letter, received from the Calgary school board registered a protest against the employment of a teacher from that city. Secretary Tanner pointed out that the letter was signed "secretary-treasurer."

"Perhaps that is why they lost the teacher," again stated Trustee Rowe.

The CROW of CROUP A WARNING TO ALL MOTHERS

Croup starts with a dry cough and rattling in the throat, after which the croupy "cough" gives warning of the disease. The child, after coughing restlessly, will then lie with a flushed face, protruding eyeballs, and a distressing look of terror and anxiety. There is a struggle for breath, and the expiration of the mucous matter is so difficult to get rid of that the effort appears to threaten strangulation.

On the first sign of the "croupy" mothers should administer Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and thus give the child prompt and permanent relief, and perhaps the life saved by taking this precaution.

Mrs. H. A. Langhorn, Hamilton, Ont., writes: "My little boy was very bad with the croup and I could not get anything to relieve him until I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I cannot praise it enough for the relief it gave him."

Price 35c a bottle; the large family size 60c; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto.

Mother Who Does Not Vote Is Enemy of Her Children

Mrs. F. W. K. Harris Addresses the Aberdeen Mothers' Club, Urging Members To Exercise Franchise—Max Lerner Speaks.

"Our greatest opportunity to make the community safe for our boys and girls is in the use of the franchise," declared Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, before a meeting of the Aberdeen Mothers' Club, held at the school house last night. Her subject was "Citizenship and Motherhood."

"Politics is the greatest science in the world," she said, and proceeded to show how women, by taking an interest in politics, would be able to help their boys and girls make the best of the motherhood. "If you have a boy or girl in your home, it is your duty to make the community safe for that boy or girl. And your greatest opportunity to do so is in the exercise of your franchise."

"A mother who does not use her franchise is an enemy to her children. For one who does not help must hinder. Bad citizens let others do the law-making. Don't get careless. Don't sit off the fence, mothers. Get out and vote."

"Citizenship is cheapened by the unused ballot. Bribery is to the suffrage movement what forgery is to the business man. Therefore, mothers, use your ballot and drive the bribery system out of politics."

"It is in the home that the citizen grows. The mother has the molding of the citizen. And it is up to the mother to make good citizens."

Mrs. Harris was followed by Max Lerner, who spoke on the "Psychology of the Voter."

"Why does a man offer his services gratis to the public?" he asked. "It is because God created in that man a soul which inspires him. And this soul is what makes man give his services free of charge to the other man. It is the mother who gives man his courage. The mother, assisting in the creating of men, must have been the embodiment of courage. And she has imparted some of that courage to men. The greatest man was Christ. And he gave himself freely to help others."

"Politics and citizenship were bankrupt before the women received the vote. Before that time, who would stand for a peace conference had been women there would not have been such chaos in the world today," he said in conclusion.

Lasting Love Thrives on Tenderness; on Daily Appreciation, Spoken and Shown; on Personal Attractiveness and a Respect for Personal Liberty.

The greatest thing in the world is love. The love of man for woman and woman for man. It is the thing we all most desire, and without which life is flat and flavorless, though we have all else besides.

It is the thing that most intrigues our fancy, the thing we like best to see, and hear about. No play without a love interest can succeed. It is the love story that sells by the hundreds of thousands of copies. For we chiefly go to the theatre and read novels to borrow a thrill from those who walk in Arcady.

Everybody loves a lover. Everybody sympathizes with the follies that are committed in the name of love. Not even the hardest cynic can watch the love-making of a youth and maiden without having his withered old heart grow suddenly soft with the memory of some of his youth, or filled with a passionate regret for a loss that can never be made good.

But beautiful as is young love, there is a love which is older, and far rarer. That is the love that has endured through the years. The love that has withstood the trials and tribulations, the strain and struggle of life. You do not see it very often. Most husbands and wives have worn their romance to tatters long before they were middle-aged, and by the time they are elderly their feeling for each other is that of two old work horses who have pulled a load so long together that they have grown accustomed to each other's gait, and companionship.

One would miss the other, if he or she should die, because it would break up a habit, but that is all. Of real love, of real companionship, of real joy in each other, none is left.

But occasionally you meet an old, gray-headed couple who are lovers still, who have kept the fire alight on the altar during the fifty or sixty years of their wedlock, and who are as tender and sentimental about each other as they were when they were boy and girl sweethearts.

Old love like this is the rarest spectacle on earth, and the most beautiful. It is the thing that fills us most with envy, for no one can look at it without thinking of the long years of happiness that such a couple have enjoyed, of the comradeship that has been theirs, of how they must really have hated every sorrow and double every joy.

How does such a miracle happen in an age in which love is so often a will-o-the-wisp, gone before you can clasp its light, and when marriage is oftener a failure than a success? Could all husbands and wives secure this ineffable consolation for life, and old age? Or is it a gift sent only to those favored few who are the darlings of the gods?

I asked one of these old lovers this question, and he said:

"There is no reason why every man and woman who love should not keep their love true and tender to the end, as we have done ours. Indeed, there is every reason why love should grow stronger as the years go by, and why a husband and wife should be bound more closely together by the experiences they have shared in common, as soldiers are by the battles they have fought shoulder to shoulder, and the fun they have enjoyed together."

"When this doesn't happen it is because men and women are too stupid to understand that in your youth, when you are beautiful, and gay, and romantic, and lovable, you must lay up love for your old age when you will be no longer personally attractive and able to inspire love, just as when you are young you must lay up money against the time when you will no longer be able to work and earn it."

"My wife and I understand this. We realized that love is like a flower. Neglected, choked out with other interests, untended, uncared for, it withers away and dies. But cherished and nursed, it sends down deep roots into life and blooms perennially and sends forth a perfume that sweetens the world."

"So we have consciously kept lovers. We have tried not to disillusion each other. We have kept ourselves as persons attractive as we could, and we have never felt that matrimony was a license to eat onions, and wear soiled clothing. Why, to this day, I don't know whether my wife's hair is her own or not, and she has never seen me stopping around in my stocking feet, with my suspenders down, and a three-days' stubble of beard on my face."

"We've kept our love alive by not taking too great liberties with it. There are people who think that because they love you it gives them a right to say things to you that they would not say to their worst enemies, and to dispense with all the decencies of polite society. We have never made this mistake. I have never said anything to my wife that I would not have said to her while I was courting her. She has never nagged me."

"We have never opened each other's letters, or required each other to furnish an alibi for every hour we were apart. Disagreement of opinion, of course, we have had, but we have talked them out heart-to-heart instead of getting angry, and saying insulting things to each other."

"We have kept our love alive by tenderness. We haven't taken it for granted that each would know that the other still loved, in spite of appearance, and silence. We have not been niggardly with the spoken word. We have shown each other daily affection and appreciation, and so we have kept the love fires burning."

"We are nearly eighty," the old lover added with a twinkle in his eyes, "and believe me, if it wasn't for the rheumatism, Juliet and I could back all of these young Romeo off the gallery." DOROTHY DIX.

Miss C. MacDonald Tells About Conditions in Tokio

Latest Letter From Japan Throws New Light On the Recent Destruction by Earthquake and Fire.

The latest letter from Miss Caroline MacDonald gives some idea of the magnitude of the Japanese disaster so far as it concerned Tokio. Miss MacDonald is a daughter of the late Peter MacDonald of this city and has for a number of years been carrying on social service work in that city.

The following letter, just received, is dated Tokio, Oct. 18: "The earthquake and fire, unfortunately, it is almost impossible to exaggerate it. I met Col. Langhorn of the United States army, who was sent out here with relief supplies, and he said: 'It is the greatest calamity in history.' I said: 'I have heard soldiers say that it was worse than any battlefield they had ever seen.' His reply was: 'There is no comparison. A battle is between trained men. The wounded are afterwards cared for by trained people who were not in the line. Here everyone was knocked out and then began the slaughter of everyone regardless. It is the most terrible thing I have ever seen.' This was in the American colonial standing in full regiments with his service colors reaching clear across his shoulders."

"I saw that my work would go by default unless I could get a house and have been able to get an absolutely ideal place for relief and settlement work. It will be an awful winter in Tokio."

Member for Relief. "Yesterday I was at a relief committee, of which I am a member, and here is the latest official investigation."

"Within the city (not counting suburbs or the wider area of the country which was affected, not including also those who have gone to the country and are no longer in the city) sufferers from earthquake and fire, 816,982; number requiring relief, 610,387. This does not include suburbs, Tokohama and large districts of country surrounding us where the actual earthquake was worse than Tokio, but where there was no fire."

"If all those who don't require relief were able-bodied it might be easy enough, but people have great personal losses in money, deaths of relatives, etc. Banks and great business places, destroyed, government buildings and so on, and an infinitesimal number of churches, temples, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Salvation Army, etc., everything, no one is unaffected."

Bank Wrecked. "The Yokohama Specie Bank (Tokio branch) was wrecked, but not burned, and is carrying on its business where its garage was with a tent roof and yet they are doing business as usual. The main banks opened after three or four days and saved a financial panic. The Bank of Japan (as compared with other banks) was burned, but the specie was saved."

"I have sent you pictures and shall continue to send you things of interest."

Bright Lights Are Ugly; Dim Lights Lend Charm

Wall Brackets Are More Satisfactory Than Central Chandeliers—Candles Are Best of All.

By JULIA HOYT. "The lighting of a room is an important point to be considered, for a poorly arranged lighting scheme makes a great difference to the beauty of a room, and also has a great effect upon the nerves and mood, and, of course, upon the comfort of the occupants. For this reason I feel that it should always be possible to have the lights well under control, so that they can be made either dim or bright. A room should never be excessively brightly lighted; it is not only unbecoming, but it does not make for congeniality. I have seen a very charming apartment ruined by garish and ugly lighting."

"I think that every woman who has thought of the matter will agree that the center light in the ceiling of a room is usually such an ugly affair that it can easily be dispensed with, except on exceptional occasions. Wall brackets are so much more satisfactory; they permit the centralization of any number of points of light. Of course, in a large house, the chandelier is often a thing of beauty; particularly lovely are some of the old crystal ones. I saw a very exquisite one the other day in a New York house which had just been brought from Venice. It was made of Venetian glass, which took on the most enchanting colors. Unlike most of our chandeliers, it was beautiful by daylight as well as at night."

About Wall Brackets. "In choosing your wall brackets, consider carefully the style of the room. A good general rule to follow is simplicity and inconspicuousness. Wall lights should be placed so that no portion of the room is lighted—no corner, no place, then, on the wall. It is always possible to light only one or two lights, according to the part of the room one is going to use, or they may all be left on, and the table or floor lamps used as the only light in the room. I know that I often feel in the mood for just the lamp lights."

"This brings me to the important subject of the placing of lamps about the room. Much can be accomplished in the way of coziness by well-arranged lamps. It is always a good plan to have a lamp beside the bed, or by the comfortable chair. It looks inviting, and is really essential to comfort in reading, which after all is what one associates with the word 'light.' Big, comfortable chairs, isn't it? Standard, or bridge, lamps, as they are sometimes called, are very convenient, for they may be moved about at will and put at different heights. Perhaps they are not as decorative as the table lamp, but it is possible to find rather lovely wrought-iron bridge lamps that are not half as ugly as the standard ones. They may be changed or redecorated with excellent results. I think that ornate designs and painted iron should be avoided."

On Table Lamps. "So many charming table lamps to be had these days, and so many of them so ugly. I have seen a great deal of trouble and not really practical."

MISS MARJORIE TOLHURST.

Who, as president of the Women Teachers' Guild, acted as chief hostess at the reception given this afternoon at the Byerson school in honor of the visiting teachers from Windsor.

Great deal of trouble and not really practical."

Soft yellows are lovely for shades in a room, but the best shade is one lined with a mellow orange silk or chiffon. With this as an undertone, one may have painted shades with amusing designs, and still get the desired reflection. Personally, I have a penchant for parchment shades of an indefinite color. With an amusing dancing figure painted on the parchment, such a shade looks equally well by day or night."

In lighting the bedroom, it is well to have one good bright light over the dressing table, no matter how many other colored lights there may be. We all know the discomfort of trying to dress in a room where the lights are soft and pretty, but really inadequate for the business of dressing and "priming."

It's a Pretty Frightened Little Danny Who Escapes at Last

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Danny Meadow Mouse was being carried away in an aeroplane, which he called a man-bird. No more frightened Meadow Mouse ever lived. He had peeped over the side and seen the earth far, far below him. Then the wind had blown him back and he had scrambled into a tiny cupboard and buried himself in a bunch of cotton wadding that was in the machine. He had become somewhat used to the terrible noise of the machine, so that it no longer frightened him as it did at first. He had thought of being way up in the air, frightened him as he had never been frightened before.

For a long time Danny could think of nothing but that he was way up in the air and couldn't possibly get down until that great man-bird chose to come down. He didn't once think that he was being carried away from home. When at last he did think of it he forgot everything else.

"Oh! Oh!" squeaked Danny. "What's gone wrong? Has the man-bird? How can I ever get back home again? Oh, dear! Oh, dear! This is the most dreadful thing that ever happened."

Then a comforting thought came to him. "Perhaps," thought he, "this man-bird will return when it is tired. Then everything will be all right." Danny brightened up at the thought.

It was the middle of the afternoon before anything happened. By that time Danny had become so used to the terrible noise of that man-bird that he really didn't mind it. He was sitting there, waiting for the man-bird to come back. He was so tired that he almost seemed to go to sleep. Then Danny felt a little jar beneath him, and presently that jar became a bump. The man-bird was climbing out of the great man-bird. Danny's heart gave a great leap of joy. He guessed right away that the man-bird must have come down to earth. He felt so relieved that he almost wept.

Look as he would, there wasn't a 'Hiding Place' anywhere.

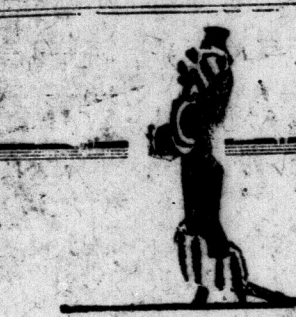

He heard the man-bird about the man-bird for some time and he heard the voices of others gathered around, watching what the man-bird was doing. Then after a long, long time, all was still. Danny crept out of that tiny cupboard, climbed up to the edge of the man-bird and looked down. He expected to look down on the grass of the Green Meadows. Instead of that he looked down on nothing but bare ground. Never in all his life had he from. Then he remembered, he was around, knew instantly that he was not on the Green Meadows and a feeling of dismay filled his heart. But he was wiser than to get away from that dreadful man-bird, any way. So he waited no time, but climbed down to the ground. Danny's one thought was of escape of escape from that great man-bird.

But when he was safely down on the ground and started to run away it came over him that he didn't know where to run to. Look as he would, there wasn't a hiding place anywhere. The fact is that the aeroplane had landed in the middle of a great bare meadow, and there was no fort, where there wasn't even a stick or a stone. Danny had escaped from the man-bird, but he was about as lost as a new-born baby.

Public Health.

It appears possible that the Stillman divorce case may come up for another hearing in the U. S. courts. There have been millions spent on this case. If there were not millions at the back of it it would be a closed book.

The authorities may have to take recourse yet to the public health act to keep this case in its proper place.

Diminishing Returns.

A $10,000 silver nugget was found on a claim in a timber limit, and claimants are urging for a hurry-up session of the courts to decide who owns it.

It would be much better for the claimants to sit around the kitchen stove some night and talk the matter over, and settle it.

Once a $10,000 nugget gets into the courts to decide ownership it is going to be like any other asset.

It will dwindle every day the court sits. Lawyers do not argue for nothing, neither does the legal mill grind silver nuggets or anything else without its share.

A $10,000 nugget is a good thing to keep out of court.

High—Higher—Highest.

Montana wheat growers have come out in the open with a definite demand for an extra 15 cents per bushel duty on wheat coming from Canada.

The present rate is 20 cents, so the demand is for a horizontal increase of 50 per cent, or a total rise of 45 cents a bushel.

The idea is, of course, to put the duty so high that Canadian wheat cannot get in there at all.

The Canadian West grows a grade of wheat that United States millers must buy if they are going to compete with the Canadian product.

If they have to pay a 50 per cent increase in tariff to get this wheat they are going to collect it, and more, from the people who use the flour.

It is not too much to say that by the time that extra 15 cents reaches the consumer it will amount to 30 or 25 cents.

A tariff of 45 cents on Canadian wheat entering United States—said wheat being worth 97 cents in Winnipeg today—would be the last word in high tariff, especially when the protection to Canadian growers is 12 cents per bushel.

Why Blame the Children?

A Belleville school principal makes the statement that scholars are staying out too late at night.

His remark might also be applied to many of the parents, not only in Belleville, but in all cities.

Children will do just about what their parents follow in the matter of hours.

The number of parents who get to bed in time to have their sleep and rise early in the morning is not large.

That is why we see people falling off to work as though they were going to a fire.

An early rise from a refreshing sleep is just as good for parents as it is for children.

The Richmond Street Job.

The Richmond street paving will be finished within the time estimated by the city engineer, and as far as can be learned within the estimate placed on the work in the first place.

The total cost is $42,392; the property owners pay $27,897, and the street intersections and extra width spaces cost the city $15,095.

This figure out to a rate of 66 cents per foot for a ten-year period. The 13 feet in the center of the road is to be paid for by the street railway company.

This work and the methods employed have been the subject of some criticism, much of it unwarranted. The work being put down now will be a better investment than that which was done previously.

Richmond street, or that portion of it now being done, was paved in 1906. It was not, as many suppose, an asphalt pavement. It consisted of a bituminous base and a bituminous road in the city. Holes sunk at various points show that the bed of the road and the top were much thinner than specified.

Fifteen test holes put down this summer showed an average depth for base and top of 4½ inches, whereas it was paid for on the basis of a six-inch base and a two-inch top.

The pavement was just slightly over half the depth called for. If the foundation had been properly put down in the first place it would not have been necessary to take it up.

The present pavement is a base of 6½ inches (6 at gutter, 7 at track) with a top dressing of 3 inches of asphalt (1½ top and 1½ binder). That makes a 9½-inch road, and it should last.

There are not many outside those employed on the work who know that a piece of the asphalt is cut out each day and shipped off to an analyzing chemist in Montreal, in order to check up the completed work against the standards that have been set in advance.

The materials going in are the best, there is no skimping in depth, and the result should be a pavement that will stand the heavy traffic put on that street.

The pavement should be a good thing for business places on Richmond. For a long time motor traffic has kept away from that street; it has gone via Talbot or Waterloo. It will now go via Richmond.

London adheres to the plan of putting down its own pavements, giving the work to its own citizens, and the policy is good, figures showing that we get our work at a price substantially lower than where contracts are let.

Peterboro's Odd Problem.

Peterboro has a situation that is peculiar, but not necessary.

The funds to run the police department will be exhausted on November 13, and the city council has steadfastly refused to vote more.

It is the climax of a situation that started to develop months ago, when the council decided that it would show that it had authority over the police department.

It is probably not the business of London to tell Peterboro what to do, but without even considering the details of the case, it is very plain that Peterboro council has worked itself into a position it cannot hold.

The police commission has certain very definite powers that a city council cannot interfere with, and it is well that such should be the case.

If Peterboro chooses to starve out its police force, the city council could be held liable for any results that might follow.

At best, these local wars are bad. They breed a feeling that lives long after the incident has been closed.

City councils and police commissions are like the rest of the people in the world; they are going through it only once, and should make the best of the single trip.

Cutting Oil Prices.

Standard Oil Co. has cut crude oil from 50 cents to $1.25 a barrel. If this cut is effective in the Canadian field it will create a serious position for producers in fields in southern Ontario are now at the point where their only chance to make money is in case the government bonus.

Canadian consumers are also waiting patiently to see some sign of these cuts of the producers of oil reflected in the price paid by the consumers.

The World Grows Better.

President Burton of the University of Michigan was to address a gathering of teachers.

The chairman and other speakers had much to say, and they said it all, with the result that by the time the speaker of the evening had his chance the hands of the clock were getting ready to register 10.

President Burton took the platform. He said:

"The hour is late—the teachers have been listening to speeches all day—will you please go home and go to bed."

And that was all. Think of it, a college president with an address in his pocket or in his mind, an audience and a hall. And yet he has a heart for the much-talked-to gathering.

Surely we are making some little progress.

From a slumber of bliss I awoke with a sigh.

My cheeks, they were moist, and my lips were not dry.

So I gathered my wits and I realized that I had been kissed.

For there on the couch sat my Fluff next to me.

With a look in his eyes of a deep mystery Which only a crabbled and cold dominie could resist.

Her hair in the sun shed a rich tint of gold;

She moved close toward me my arms to unfold;

While her eyes a sweet story of perfect love told.

All their own.

But I wanted to sleep, so as soon as I saw

The Fluff was expecting to rest near my jaw,

I whispered: "Please leave me alone, and gnaw."

At your bone!

THE ROYAL LAW.

Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself—James ii, 8.

This law as it stands, with its double duty of the right love of oneself and the equal love of one's neighbor, has been already considered in these Guide Post papers.

Perhaps the law came back to it again, for it is the most important of all practical directions, as well as the most difficult to read and interpret correctly.

If I could do that I should be wiser than I know myself to be. But for today let us concern ourselves only with the question of why St. James calls this The Royal Law.

Is it because Christ gave it? But he gave also many other commandments, and he is still giving them through his spirit.

Is it because kings always keep it? But some of them have not kept it at all, and few of them have always observed it.

I think it may be because it corresponds to the true ideal of what royalty means.

For only he is fit to rule men who loves them and desires their welfare as much as he values his own high place.

Likewise it may be because if this law were kept it would make all men royal, since where all are servants, one of another, all are kings, too.

This is what St. Peter means when he writes: "Ye are a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation."

(Copyright, 1923, by The Republic Syndicate.)

stepped in and appointed a wheat board, which set the price at $2.40 a bushel.

If the government were justified in appointing a wheat board to set the price on wheat, why in the face of it would it not have been equally justified in appointing a board to set the price on a binder, or measure of relief by removing the duty? Yet we are told the government is not to blame.

During the war prices of sugar rose to a high-water mark of 25 cents a pound. Fruit rotted in the orchards, and little children were deprived of the necessities of life, and no attempt was made by the government to relieve the situation.

If the wheat board could set the price on wheat, why could not the board of commerce, instituted by the same government, set the price on sugar? At the very time there was reported to be a scarcity of sugar, there were 112,000 sacks stored away in government warehouses at Halifax. Was there any attempt made to prosecute this combine?

In the United States every effort was made to make the laws against trusts, trusts, profiteers, etc., restraint of trade, and the guilty were ruthlessly prosecuted, indicted, and convicted. But what about Canada?

Was there any attempt made to prosecute the Textile Manufacturing Company, who made 310 per cent on their actual cost?

Was there any attempt whatever made to prosecute any of the heads of the Manufacturers' Association? No, these and many other millions out of the blood and tears of the women and children of this country, were allowed to escape with their ill-gotten gains.

Was there any attempt whatever made to prosecute profiteers? Yes! I believe there was. A vigorous attempt was made to crush a shameless combine entered into by two cobbler in Chicago who combined to raise the price of half-soles shoes five cents a sole. The other was that of the milk producers of Ontario, who got up at 4 o'clock and milking their cows and driving the milk to the city in the dark hours of the night.

They were accused of charging a few cents too much for milk. The whole machinery of the law was turned loose, and the heads of commerce, who did not think it worth while interfering with the sugar barons, came to the front, and finally a compromise was made.

In the United States, and many other facts that might be enumerated, it can hardly be denied that governments are largely to blame for the state of chaos in which we find the agricultural industry today.

DENNY BROOKS

A STORY OF COURAGE

By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER XIII.

TURNUED OUT.

Down the narrow hall came a heavy lurching. Aunt Josie's gasping pleas:

"Matt! Your own child! You can't put her out! Oh, Gawd, have mercy!"

"Then a hammering with the massive fist:

"Open it, you! Open it! By God, I'll hit you!"

"I was one little wax doll toppled from the bureau as the door heaved. Katy clasped her hands against her lips. Denny, hoarse with excitement, whispered:

"He can't get in. Don't cry."

"I'm not afraid!" The tiny, pale, picture-rattled to the floor, the whole house echoed with the banging, the crying, the shouting, the door, a panel splintered.

"Papa, papa, don't! You're breaking the house!"

"Open it! I'll show you! Come out here! Lizzie, get me the axe! I'll show her!"

"Take that!" No outcry from poor Aunt Josie, but the pounding ceased. He went picking down the hall—a shuffling, the kitchen door slammed, then a troubled, unnatural hush. Denny listened with his ear to the splintered panel.

"I don't hear him. Maybe he fell." He turned quietly, facing Katy. "He can't stay here."

"We can't!" The young, tender eyes lighted with a new confidence. Denny's mouth, just losing its boyish sweetness, set resolutely.

"Get dressed, Katy—did! I'm glad!"

"Not now, Denny? Not going in the dark?"

"You can't take me—!" The deep eyes, quivered with tears, of eager appeal, filled with tears. "Of course, you can't, Denny. If I could, I would. The slow old angel—it was the first time Katy had ever wept for herself."

"Now, Katy—did!—say—well—say—now you know I'm not going to leave you here with him! You know that, Katy—did!"

"A low, frightened gasp, a whisper: "Violent, open it! He's asleep!"

Denny pushed the door from the inside, and, with a look of misery at Denny, she had her hand pulled light in a short breath, her dull, anxious eyes were filled with terror.

"Where is she, Denny? You must go—both of you before he wakes up! Quick—Gawd keep this house from murder! Violent, come here—oh, my poor girl!"

"She's gone, Aunt Josie!"

"Where, Denny? Alone?"

"I don't know—"

"Oh, Gawd, forgive me!" She clasped her rough hands to her head, stood there in her nightgown, the tattered shawls drawn about her, crying trembling up to her lips.

"My poor girl! Gawd pity us!" Denny turned his back. Finally he said:

"Aw, she'll be all right! Aunt Josie, Violent's all right."

She met his sympathy dumbly. Her coarse lips trembled.

"Denny—poor child—hurry—get your things!"

"Katy has to come—"

"No, Denny, leave Katy with me—"

Man though he felt himself, Denny's chin doubled up.

"Well, you know him, Aunt Josie. Gee, don't hurt her—"

"Let me go with him—dear Aunt Josie!"

Josie—poor, dear Aunt Josie—I bet you go with Denny. Katy reached over and touched Aunt Josie's arm, the happy lips smiling: "En, we'll find Violet and she'll stay with us, too."

Without a word Aunt Josie brought Katy's clothes to the bed, helped her, and Denny went into his own room he saw his Uncle Matt sprawled on the kitchen floor, a dirty red comforter thrown over him, his mouth open and the dark hair growing long on his forehead matted with blood. He snored—hoarse, choking sounds like some huge, uncouth animal. With a wrench of utter loathing, Denny closed the door.

The sense of triumph lingered; added to it was the flutter of adventure. Yet as he dumped his few clothes to the bed, wrapped them in a newspaper he kept thinking: "Poor Vee! Where'd she go? Wonder where she went—"

Not till he saw Katy with a little red hat only half hiding the bright chestnut curls, not hiding at all the fear on the sweet child face, did a pang catch Denny.

"Aw, say, Katy—not scared, are you?"

"Oooh, it's so dark, Denny."

"Gee—it'll soon be light, won't it? Used to be this dark every morning when I took my papers."

Aunt Josie brought Katy's chair from the basement. She looked furtively to the neighborhood houses, vaguely, Denny watched. Suddenly he thought of Violet.

"Poor Vee—wonder where she went. He had Katy's hand in the picture of his uncle with the dirty red comforter thrown over him, his heavy mouth gaping, came for biddingly before him. His thought seethed as one brutal recollection succeeded another in the epic of cruelty making up his boyhood. Aunt Josie's patient face slumped; Violet, her full, white neck thrown back, the whip curving, most near, the moon swam. Denny could still cry over that. Matt Borley was the living devil in a world that might have been clean and glad except for him. But Denny had closed the kitchen door on that sprawling form—closed it forever. He had shut out the bestial—the vicious.

A new world—strong, beautiful, was before him. This he believed with the untired and flaming zeal of seventeen. The forces that had made Matt Borley who he was would never again touch Denny Brooks.

Life could be a mighty happy thing. Gee—the fun they had that time when Matt was sick and every one laughing at the table. Lots of joy in the days. Katy and he would find it. He'd take care of her. He'd find Violet, too. And these grow tender, something that would forever mark him apart from all his uncle was.

In the east, ledn streaks punctured the dark, widened in pale, dim bars of light. And these grew softly amber, flashed like a boom to rose and blue and crimson. Katy sat upright.

"Oh, Denny, what's that?"

"Why, Katy—the day coming up!"

Rugby Interest Centers On Argo-Tiger Battle In Jungletown Tomorrow

Argos More Determined — Hamilton Glad There's No Conacher to Stop.

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, Nov. 8.—Argonauts finished their training last night, and the coaches reported that the team is strong and ready to play its best game of the season at Hamilton tomorrow. The players are optimistic. They believe that they can win, and go so far as to say that the score will not even be close. This will cause no howl of approval in Jungletown, where they think that the Bengals are the best team in Canada. "Hiding on Queen" is the slogan of the champion-mad Marriott-Awey coached team. They are forgetting that the Argos are a real team.

"Dunc" Munro has set the pace this week. This player has been severely criticised in some quarters for failure to practice every day, but Munro did not wish to play at all this season, and only agreed to get into an Argonaut uniform because the Argonauts were without a dependable rearward man. But this week it is different. There is no more optimism or hard-working player in the Double Blue camp. He has been setting a dizzy pace, and to the surprise of everyone none of his team mates can keep abreast of him. Munro should have a big day at Hamilton.

Those In-and-Out Tigers. Argos know what to expect. It is not likely that the Yellow and Black will spring anything new. They have been drilled mostly in straight football, and while not overly brilliant they are a colorful aggregation. No one can tell what the Tigers will do. If they are on their good or lucky behavior, they are likely to score and draw the Argos, but if the best go against them, they did at Ottawa, Argos may do the rubbing-in.

The consensus of opinion is that it will be a toss-up between the two teams. The Argonauts have been engaged in nearly every department. Hughes can kick the ball, and the distance between the two teams is not a punter raises a tricky spiral, which is mighty difficult to handle, and spirals have been the cause of ships in the past. One fumble may prove the turning-point.

Argos have not been any too impressive in their work-out. They showed it yesterday when "Laddie" Cassels drifted along, and made some pretty remarks which carried a sting. He drove the team at a fast pace and got good results. One of the reasons that Argos are any of victory is Dr. Shilke Lawson will accompany them to the game of the Tigers. Yesterday Lawson ran a mile and a half, and promised that he would get into action in the last quarter if the Argos need him. Away back in 1914 Lawson had been in the last quarter of the game, and prevented the Tigers from winning. The final score was 9 to 9, and in the game here the following Argos, Argos having won the toss for choice of grounds in the play-off game, the locals won by 12 to 2. There is little possibility of a draw, but it is a struggle will be needed, but he says that every time he accompanies the Argos anywhere they win.

Gussing at Line-up. Coaches McKenney and McKeen have decided what line-up to use, but some think that it should be as follows: Flying wing, McCurry; backfield, Fiedstein; fullback, Taylor; quarter, McKenney; snapback, Douglas; insides, Stitt and Bevan; middles, Wallace and Taylor; outside, Fear and Fisher; Wilson, Young, Dinmore, Cavell, Hyslop, Thom, Reeves and Ponton. Fiedstein, McCurry and McKenney showed to advantage when playing under strange rules last Saturday. They were quick to take advantage of openings, and were able to depend on rearranged plans. Players such as these are too few this season. McCurry surprised everybody by his quickness, he saved at least five touchdowns. It is hard to see how Fiedstein can be side-tracked. His game against Third Army was the best any Argonaut showed. He is a better quarterback than a backfield man.

Bevan is an ideal inside wing. He is the best punter the champions have. Thom is not ready yet, and Fisher, who is in good condition and is a star outside wing, will likely get the assignment. Taylor is good defensively and offensively, but is not first choice for the middle wing berth, as he does not know how to handle the ball. Those who have followed Argos closely this season believe that the above line-up, several new trick plays and good field generalship will make the Tigers forget everything they ever knew about how championships should be won.

No Conacher This Year. Hamilton Spectator: "When Tigers and Argonauts clashed last season and the year previous, the Bengals' attention was centered on Lionel Conacher, for it was the great half who did all the work for the Argonauts. This year, however, there is no Conacher on the line-up of the Argos, although Dunc Munro is form a hard man to stop. But Munro is not a consistent player, and in the last game at Toronto, against Ottawa, he was off his stride in the first half and made many fumbles which luckily did not prove very costly. Munro cannot afford to make any mistakes in the game here this week, for the Tigers' outside wings have been going great guns of late, and will be ready to pounce on any loose ball. Tiger half-backs played a perfect game against Montreal, and if they can repeat the performance here next Saturday, Argonauts can kiss the championship good-bye.

Conacher Likes Forward Pass Also Likes Canuck Grid Plays

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, Nov. 8.—From a rugby player's standpoint, which is the best of the Canadian and American games? Canadian fans who have seen various phases of both games, without reserve, pick our own game, chiefly for its open play, kicking, tackling, and combined half-back runs. And now we have one of our best authorities, Lionel Conacher, a player possessing the athletic insight to study the game from the inside, who leans slightly to the game he learned at Jesse Ketchum Park, but who adds: "I like the American game just as well as the Canadian game."

"The average Canadian half-back knows more, and is more successful in handling the ball and in his plays than the American half," said Conacher. "Americans can pass the ball, but they don't get it with the same confidence as our own halves."

Likes Our Halves. He has already seen some of the best college half-backs in the American game, and he declares a half-line composed of Warren Snyder, of Queens, and Joe Breen of Parkville, would be sweet enough to stand any American half line on their ears.

Don't run away with the idea that American half-backs are dumb or below par, but this trio possess the speed, the punting ability, weight, the general all-round finish, and chiefly the rugby brains that go to make a star half-back. Conacher's observation in this regard leads to the belief that he still favors the game he first learned.

Taking the salient points of the American game, Conacher declares the forward pass is its feature play. "It adds a touch of uncertainty to the games that has been beneficial to the punter raises a tricky spiral, which is mighty difficult to handle, and spirals have been the cause of ships in the past. One fumble may prove the turning-point."

Argos have not been any too impressive in their work-out. They showed it yesterday when "Laddie" Cassels drifted along, and made some pretty remarks which carried a sting. At the same time, it probably takes the place of the sparkling half-back extended runs of our game, which certainly inject an element of uncertainty into the play.

Air Pass As Weapon. "No matter how badly a team is outclassed," he said, "as to speed and weight, if they have a forward pass that works, they have a chance to beat any team. When a team is up against opposition, and playing straight football, if they are behind or ahead, they throw in the forward pass as often as they can work it," he said. "It is always used when a team is thirty yards out, instead of the kick."

The running interference is another of the American features that Conacher likes, and it is the interference that has puzzled him more than anything else in learning the game. It develops a player into using his eyes more and forces him to watch every player within striking distance of him, except from behind, for it is against the rules to clip a player from behind. "The tackler is on his toes because of the interference," said Conacher. "I like it, but it is difficult for me to get on to, more especially when carrying the ball and running behind the interference. It gives every man something to do." Conacher explained that on the kick-off, as the ball comes toward the half-back, the captain of the team, or whoever is handling the signals, immediately commences to shout his signals directing which way the ball carrier is to run, either to right or left, and the wingman, ahead of the ball carrier, know which way to commence the interference. In every play except the kick-off, the wingman to what player on the opposing side he has to take out.

Anglican Carpetball Starts Big Season in Church Sport

Cronyn Memorial Defeats Redeemer in Opening Game.

Arts '25 Beat Freshmen 1-0

One Forced Rouge Attempts For Record Low Score.

The opening of the Anglican Carpetball League last night at which Cronyn Memorial defeated Church of the Redeemer team marks the start of a season that will perhaps be the biggest ever attempted in church athletics by the Anglican churches of the city.

The Anglican churches, it is believed, will form a church hockey league of their own, and will extend their girls and boys basketball leagues this season.

If the Anglicans form a separate church hockey league, it will make one more league which will desire covered ice accommodation at the Westminster rink. It will also mean a play-off for the city church hockey championship, as the church league will be operating again this year.

The basketball games conducted by the A.Y.P.A.A.A. last season developed much cage material which will eventually find its way into higher category.

With basketball being played from the schools up and in the churches, its continuity is assured and so is the future of the court game.

GIBBONS WANTS SOME MONEY THIS TRIP.

Georges Carpentier is very willing to come over and fight Tom Gibbons. Rickard seems to be perfectly willing to fight up this bout for the Frenchman, but there is a difficulty to be overcome. The difficulty is Gibbons. Since his battle with Dempsey the St. Paul boxer has taken a most decided stand on finance. That Dempsey-Gibbons battle removed all the money from the toe of every sock in Montana, but Gibbons didn't get any of it. He is determined that this shall not happen again. As a result he and Rickard have not yet agreed on terms.

Establish Training Camp Next Spring At Montreal For Canada's Olympic Team

Down the Line In All Sports

It looks as though Zev and My Own might become to the American turf what Benny Leonard and Johnny Dundee have been to the boxing game. Benny and Johnny, you will recollect, have fought eight times with nothing particular happening. The proposition has been made that Zev and My Own have another race on one of the Maryland tracks.

It seems that Admiral Grayson, who owns My Own, is not at all satisfied with the conditions under which the last race was held. The track, it seems, was not fast enough to suit My Own, though it seemed fairly satisfactory to the outsider. In Memoriam. Why not have the track arranged so that both horses could be seen at their best? For instance, they could divide the course into running paths. That to be used by Zev should be fairly muddy. That to be used by My Own should be as dry as the Death Valley desert floor.

When this race is over they might have a handicap race with Zev running on the dry path and My Own over the wet one. Then both could run on a medium fast track, a slow track, a sloppy track and even over the turf. There are changes enough that could be rung to furnish Zev and My Own with as many meetings as Leonard and Dundee.

They have taken Battling Siki, the singular, socking Senegalese, over somewhere in the wilds of New Jersey, where they are giving him a diet of red meat and pure water in preparation for his coming bout with Kid Norfolk. This is not the manner in which the Batter has been wont to train, but the boxing commission has queer prejudices. He has not even been allowed a lion as a playmate, much to the relief of the lions in the Bronx Zoo, each one of which feared his cage might not prove a sufficient defence. From all accounts this Siki, while he may have his little peculiarities, can fight like a wolf. Norfolk may be in for a very busy evening.

It seems a shame that a boxer with such admirable courage as Floyd Johnson should lack a knockout punch. If he only had or could develop a real sock he would chase a lot of these other contenders out of the ring.

The punch is the thing which wins popular esteem. This is really Ruth, Mitchell or Red McLaughlin. When he sees them in action he sort of visualizes them as himself.

Warning has been issued by William McCarnay, discoverer of the celebrated pugilistic mummy, Tut-ank-Jackson, that Senor Luis Angel Firpo will be back in the United States early next year in quest of customers. Mr. McCarnay even now is looking over prospective opponents for Senor Firpo, horizontal pugilists preferred.

St. Mikes Win Western Intercollegiate Group Grid Honors

ST. MIKES GRASP OVERTIME WIN FROM VARSITY

Teams Tied 7-7 At Full Time—Former Scores Winning Point.

MEET R. M. C. SAT.

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, Nov. 8.—St. Michael's College won the Western group of the Intermediate Intercollegiate football series this afternoon, defeating University of Toronto by 8 to 7, after 20 minutes of overtime. The score at full time was 7-7. At the conclusion of two five-minute overtime periods the teams were still deadlocked. In the third extra period Forner, St. Mike's middle wing, ran from his own center to Varsity's 30-yard line, and from there he kicked into touch for the winning point of the game.

Both teams played smart football throughout, and there was little to choose between the teams. St. Mike's play Royal Military College at Kingston on Saturday in the first of home-and-home games for the championship of the intermediate series of the Intercollegiate Union.

First Period.
St. Michael's, playing with the wind, drove Varsity back steadily on Forner's long punts, backed up by low, hard tackling, but loose work in line plays cost them the ball and a chance for an early score. Cash, a Varsity half, was hurt. Hewitt replaced him. Just before quarter time St. Michael's rosters demanded that O'Brien be sent out. He took Lowery's place on the half line.

Second Period.
Varsity started ten yards from their own line. They booted the play to middle. Lebel took a bouncing pass from O'Brien, and gained 30 yards around the end. Then St. Mike's called for Lowery, their drop-kicking expert. He fooled the attempt, but from there he kicked into touch for the winning point of the game.

Third Period.
St. Michael's scored a quick touchdown. MacDonald dropped one of McKee's punts when tackled on Varsity's goal line.

O'Neill recovered it, and on the third attempt Forner bucked for a try, which Lebel converted.

St. Michael's 7, Varsity 6. Consistent catching and strong punting by MacDonald, and strong line plunging and end running by MacDonald kept St. Mike's scores the rest of the quarter.

Fourth Period.
Varsity hammered St. Michael's line with long punts. Finally Lebel muffed one, and was compelled to rouse. That tied the score.

St. Michael's 7, Varsity 7. Final score, after 20 minutes of overtime, St. Michael's 8, Varsity 7.

The Panorama of Baseball

"FATHER" CHADWICK, THE FIRST BASEBALL REPORTER.

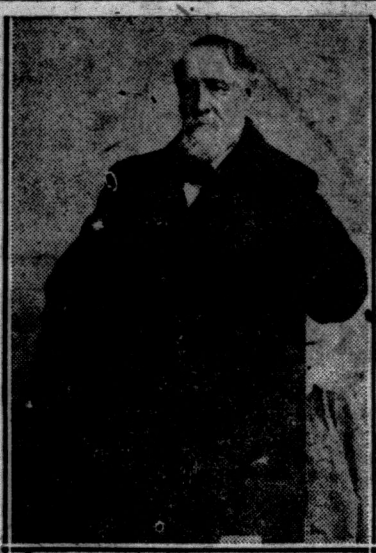

Henry Chadwick has been called the Father of Baseball. He was the first reporter; he was the first authoritative writer on the subject, and he knew all the early players famed to baseball history. It was through his ingenuity that the records of the early games were kept and from him came the first systematic method of scoring. Through his knowledge of the game he was instrumental in formulating many of the rules which helped to make the game closer, more tense, more scientific. He was an excellent writer and had a passion for statistics. His manuscript notes, now in the New York Public Library as part of the Spalding collection, show this. He had an even stronger passion to see baseball lifted from the slough into which it was dragged for a time in the early days when gambling and drink threatened it.

Chadwick was on various committees for framing rules. In April, 1890, his connection with baseball was fittingly marked by the unveiling of a monument in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn.

Of English extraction, Chadwick came of a Brooklyn family. His name is associated, as sporting writer, with all the leading New York papers, and in 1869 his name is to be found in the New York Clipper. He retired from this kind of journalism in 1886 and became one of the editors of Outing, besides contributing to Sporting Life. He compiled and wrote many small books, descriptive of the game.

Nearly every one of our games has had, in its history, some odd tricks practiced on it. In early days, when kings and queens played chess, there used to be chess tournaments and a huge chess board laid on a vastfield where the pawns and the knights and the kings and queens were courtiers on horseback, moving from one square to another. There is indoor golf and parlor croquet, and golf played in the snow with colored balls. Henry Chadwick, in the winter of 1883-84, hit upon a brilliant idea: to have a game of baseball on the ice. Washington Park, in Brooklyn, was the site selected, and the results are clearly demonstrated by a contemporary sketch of the scene. You remember in Dickens' "Pickwick Papers" the remark of Mr. Winkle, when he found himself on skates, and Sam Weller essayed to pilot him, "How slippery it is, Sam," said Mr. Winkle. "Not an uncommon thing upon ice, sir," replied Mr. Weller. Mr. Chadwick's men found there were

MAY BREAK FIGHT LAW TO LET STRIBLING BOX

New York State Rules Restrict Boxers Under 21 To Six Rounds.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Nov. 8.—Regulations of the New York Boxing Commission are to be broken, it was understood today, to allow Young Stribling, the Georgia high school fighter, to engage in bouts within its jurisdiction scheduled to go over six rounds. The regulations prohibit those under 21 from going more than six rounds, but because of Stribling's pugilistic precocity he is to be made an exception. He is 18.

Accompanied by his father, who is manager and trainer, Young Stribling made formal application for a license to the commission yesterday, but action is not expected for several days. In addition to undergoing a physical examination, he probably will be asked to meet someone in a six-round contest to establish his reputation here.

Stribling has been a figure in the sports world since he battled Mike McTigue to a standstill recently in Georgia. If a complete license is granted him he probably will meet either Johnny Wilson of Boston, former world's middleweight champion, or Gene Tunney, United States light heavyweight champion, at Madison Square Garden, December 10.

McTigue, who lost lots of prestige that he badly needed when he met Stribling, is in for more trouble, his manager Joe Jacobs had made known. Through his attorneys, Jacobs said he would file a suit for $50,000 damages against McTigue for the boxer's alleged statement that he signed a blank paper which Jacobs made into a contract for his services. Jacobs said this slandered his character.

FORESEE LID REMOVED IN CLEVELAND BOXING

Predict New City Council Will Favor Conducting Ring Game.

Associated Press Despatch.
Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 8.—The lid on professional boxing here, which has been clamped tight for almost three years, will be pried off after the new council assumes control, Jan. 1, it was indicated today. Several councilmen who seem certain to be members of the new body, expressed themselves in favor of the return of professional bouts, providing the sport is conducted by competent men, who will safeguard the public against unskilled matchmaking and will see that proposed matches are carried through.

It was pointed out that the city manager, who ever he may be, will not be able to keep the lid on if a majority of the councilmen vote to bring boxing back. It was pointed out also that the Republican organization is favorable to the game, and indications are that a majority of the new city council will be Republicans.

OKLAHOMA GOVERNOR MUST FACE CHARGES

Denied Action To Halt Impeachment Proceedings.

Associated Press Despatch.
Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 8.—Denied federal intervention, by which he hoped to halt impeachment proceedings against him, Governor J. C. Walton went to trial today before the state senate on 22 charges of official misconduct.

The executive is determined to make another bid for government immediately on the grounds that he would not be given a fair trial because the late legislature conspired beforehand with the Ku Klux Klan to remove him from office.

It is predicted that the impeachment hearing will be long drawn out, possibly lasting a month or more. They will insist that the court hear since the governor's counsel say that evidence on all the charges being voted upon a verdict.

Helps For All Who Appreciate Good Cooking.

CRANBERRY AND APPLE PIE.
Sift one cupful of sifted flour into a bowl with three tablespoons of sugar and half a teaspoon of salt;
rub or chop in one cup of butter or half butter and half lard. When the mixture is like coarse meal, add enough ice water to make a stiff paste. Cover and set in the ice box for three hours. Peel, core and slice firm, tart cooking apples. Line a deep tin with part of the pastry rolled out on a floured board, cover the bottom with a layer of the sliced apples, cover apples with a layer of washed cranberries and sprinkle over four tablespoons of sugar and two tablespoons of water. Continue this method until the tin is filled. Dot top with bits of butter, cover with the rolled-out pastry, cut three slits in the top and bake in a moderate oven forty-five minutes. Serve with cold custard.

MOTHER'S MUFFINS.
Three cups of flour, 1 teaspoonful salt, 1 pint milk, 1 tablespoonful butter, 3 eggs, ½ teaspoonfuls baking powder. Put milk, egg, salt, sift in the flour, add salt and lightly-beaten eggs and baking powder. Bake in cups for 20 minutes.

CHOCOLATE PUDDING.
A pudding at least once a week is the cry in many families and never fails to be welcomed. Soak two cupfuls of ground bread crumbs in four cupfuls of hot milk for half an hour.
Dissolve two squares of unsweetened chocolates in a very little hot milk and add the bread mixture with a pinch of salt, one teaspoonful of vanilla and two-thirds of a cupful of sugar, blended with two beaten eggs. Mix thoroughly, turn into a buttered baking dish and set in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven until set in the center.

SPICED POT ROAST.
Have the butcher lard a three-pound piece of round of beef with lard and pork; place in an earthen jar and pour one cup of mild vinegar and add one and a half teaspoons of salt, two whole cloves, six crushed pepper corns, half a blade of mace, half a bay leaf, one sliced onion and one sliced carrot. Turn the beef in this marinade several times during twenty-four hours that it stands in a cool place. Place in a Dutch oven two slices of fat salt pork cut in small pieces, add the po-roast that has been drained and dried, and turn slowly over a slow fire until the meat is nicely brown. Add one sliced carrot, one sliced onion, two stalks of celery, one branch of parsley, one bay leaf and two whole cloves; stir until the vegetables are brown, then add the strained marinade and one cup of boiling water. Cover the Dutch oven and cook over a slow fire until tender, turning often. Remove the cover and place the pot in one tablespoon of browned flour and cook ten minutes. Strain over the pot roast and serve with baked potatoes and a green salad.

Chestnut Croquettes.
1 quart chestnuts
1 cup cooked rice
½ cup cracker-crumbs.
2 tablespoons cream or melted
butter
2 eggs
1 teaspoon paprika or pepper
1 teaspoon celery-salt
1 teaspoon peanut butter

Boil, blanch and pound the chestnuts to a paste, add the other ingredients; if not salty enough, add some plain salt and other seasoning desired, although best not too highly seasoned, or the delicate flavor of the chestnuts will be spoiled. Combine all the ingredients, and form into balls, and delicately brown in deep hot fat.

POTATO-CELERY SALAD.
Peel and slice two knobs of celery root or celeriac into thin slices and cover with boiling salted water for two minutes; drain and chill on the ice. Peel and slice three medium-sized, cold, boiled potatoes and mix them with the cold celery root. Mix with French dressing, mound on lettuce-covered plates and garnish with finely-chopped parsley and strips of red and green peppers.

FRUIT CUP.
Mix equal parts of peeled and diced orange, peeled and diced apples, peeled and diced pineapple, and seedless raisins with marshmal-lo syrup and set in the ice to become thoroughly chilled. Half fill cold stem glasses with the mixture, fill glasses with vanilla ice cream and pour over all marshmallow sauce. Decorate with halves of marshmallow cherries.

BRAISED SHORT RIBS.
Have the butcher cut three pounds of short ribs of beef in three-inch pieces; season them with pepper and salt and place in a Dutch oven with two onions cut in quarters, three scraped carrots, and three tablespoons of butter. Stir and cook until a nice brown, add to the pot two cups of tomatoes, a kitchen cup, two tablespoons of browned flour, the strained juice of one

Practical Recipes

orange, and three cups of beef stock. Bring to a boil and place in the oven until the meat is tender. Remove the meat to a hot platter and strain the gravy over it.

SALADE NORGE.
Peel and cut in fine slices one cucumber and place in a cold bowl; add one head of white celery cut in thin slices and one cup of brokorange syrup. Place in a double boiler and stir over the fire until thick, do not boil; strain into custard cups and set in the ice box to harden. Before serving sprinkle the tops with grated chocolate.

ORANGE CUP CUSTARD.
Place the strained juice of six oranges in a saucepan, add half a cup of sugar and one tablespoon of lemon juice; bring to a boil, skim and stir until the sugar is dissolved. Remove from the fire and cool. Dissolve one level tablespoon of cornstarch in two cups of milk, mix with the well-beaten yolks of five eggs and stir into the orange syrup. Place in a double boiler and stir over the fire until thick, do not boil; strain into custard cups and set in the ice box to harden. Before serving sprinkle the tops with grated chocolate.

Sponge Drops.
Beat the yolks of three eggs until thick and gradually beat into them half a cup of sugar and beat five minutes. Add a pinch of salt to the whites of three eggs and beat until stiff and dry. Add one teaspoon of grated lemon rind to the yolks and fold into this, alternately, half a cup of three-times sifted flour and the egg whites. Drop the mixture in even quantities from the tip of a tablespoon on an ungreased baking tin; sprinkle with powdered sugar and bake about eight minutes in a cool oven. When removed from the pan spread with a stiff, tart jelly and put together in pairs.

POTATO SALAD.
Slice eight large cold boiled potatoes. Add to these two finely chopped onions, a teaspoonful of celery seed, two tablespoons of vinegar, one-half teaspoonful salt, two teaspoonfuls olive oil. Cut five strips of bacon in tiny pieces and fry. When brown pour bacon and fat over the other ingredients and mix well.

STUFFED TOMATO SALAD.
Peel and hollow out the centers of good firm tomatoes. Fill with the following mixture and serve on crisp lettuce. Chop finely one green pepper, a small onion and two stalks of celery; flake a dozen or so sardines, and add them to the chopped articles; mix all with mayonnaise enough to hold together, extra mayonnaise may be served with the salad.

PEAR SUNDAY.
For one portion peel a firm Bartlett pear, sprinkle with lemon juice, cut in two lengthwise and remove the core and stem. Lay on a cold plate, cover with vanilla ice cream, over this pour marshmallow sauce and garnish with chopped cherries and fine walnut meats.

ALMOND CUP CAKES.
Beat to a cream half a cup of butter and beat into two cups of sugar; beat smooth and add two eggs. Sift two cups of sifted flour with half a teaspoon of salt and two teaspoons of baking powder and mix with them one cup of blanched and chopped almonds. Add the dry mixture to the butter mixture alternately with one cup of milk and beat well. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs and place in buttered cup cake molds. Bake 25 minutes in a medium oven.

STUFFED ONIONS.
6 large, white onions
2 hard-cooked eggs
1 tablespoon margarine or cream
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
3 thin slices bacon
½ cup cooked sausage meat
½ cup bread crumbs
Salt and pepper.
Parboil the onions in slightly salted water after peeling, then remove the inside, leaving a shell. Chop a half of the part removed and add to the sausage, hard-cooked egg and crumbs seasoned, moisten with the melted butter or cream and season with the parsley, and salt and pepper to taste. Place over the top of each a half slice of bacon, place in a bake pan and bake for about 30 minutes, or until tender.

CHOCOLATE WALNUT CAKE.
For the cake take 2 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1-2 cup milk, 1-3 cups flour, 1-2 cup finely chopped nut meats, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon almond extract, tiny pinch of salt. The filling for cake takes 1 cup sugar, 1-2 cup hot water. Beat until thick, then add 1 beaten egg yolk slowly, 1 teaspoon vanilla, lemon and 1-3 teaspoon cream of tartar. Beat 2 egg whites with 1 cup powdered sugar, 1 cup chopped nut meats and 1-4 cup cream. Add to first mixture and beat until thick. Spread between layers.
For frosting, melt 2 squares bitter chocolate, add 1-2 cup cream, egg yolk, 2 cups powdered sugar, 1 teaspoon melted butter. Stir frosting, do not beat. Turn over cake and press into it walnut meats while frosting is still soft.

POTATOES ANNA.
Peel six oblong potatoes, and slice very thin, as for chip potatoes; season with salt and pepper. Melt four tablespoons of butter in a pudding mold. Lay a layer of the potatoes on the bottom, and fill the mold nearly full with the potato layers, sprinkling melted butter over each layer. Place in a medium oven and bake thirty minutes. Drain off the butter and unmold on a hot, round plate.

FRUIT FRAPPE.
1 quart water
1 pint red cherry or cranberry juice
3 oranges
1 teaspoon almond extract
2 cups sugar
3 lemons
½ cup finely minced candied fruits
Place the sugar in the water and bring to a boil, cool and add the juices and the mashed or sifted bananas. If this does not taste sufficiently sweet, add more sugar. Flavor with the extract and pour into freezer and freeze until mushy.

BREAD PUDDING.
Two cups bread crumbs, one cup buttermilk, one cup sugar, half cup butter, one cup flour, one cup chopped raisins, one teaspoon cinnamon; cream butter and sugar, soak bread in buttermilk in which one teaspoon soda has been dissolved. Then mix for all other ingredients together and steam in a greased pan 1½ hours. Serve with sauce made of two tablespoons flour and one cup brown sugar, mix and then pour on boiling water until thick, add a chunk butter and vanilla.

NUT SAUCE.
To two cups of liquid or stock add half cup vinegar, half cup raisins, half cup currants, one ginger snap. Dash of cinnamon, dash of cloves or one whole clove, boil until raisins are cooked, adding more water if it boils dry. When done thicken with a little corn starch, wet with water, and take from fire and add half cup of broken nut meats. Any kind of nuts will do except peanuts. Sugar to taste. This is delicious with boiled tongue or beef.

MINT SAUCE.
Mix one cup of mild vinegar with one tablespoon of sugar and stir until dissolved; add four tablespoons of chopped, washed mint leaves and let stand in a warm place four hours.

Another nice sauce for lamb is made by mixing four tablespoons of finely chopped mint leaves with one cup of current jelly and one teaspoon of lemon juice.

When mint is out of season serve the lamb with currant jelly and the pan gravy.

APPLE CROQUETTES.
Seven small apples, one tablespoonful of flour, one tablespoonful of sugar, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of powdered cinnamon, one egg and some bread crumbs. Choose rather small apples of equal size, peel and core them and steam until tender, but not broken. Then allow to cool. Slice the flour, sugar and cinnamon on to a piece of paper, and roll the apples in this mixture. Then brush over with beaten egg and toss in bread crumbs. Fry in smoking hot fat to a golden color and drain well.

BATS BY THE MILLIONS.
Dr. Paul Bartsch of the Smithsonian Institution has recently returned to Washington, after a scientific mission to the southwestern part of Porto Rico, where he made a special investigation of the limestone caves of the island, which have been inhabited by bats for hundreds of years. The place was alive with them, for they are never disturbed and the locality seems to be favorable for their existence. He has brought back the greatest collection of bats and bat data that has ever been rounded up and his specimens will be a great addition to the museum.

OWLS PREY UPON LONDON'S RODENTS.
The wise owl is among the regular inhabitants of London. Their favorite district is the neighborhood of Kensington Gardens and Hyde Park. The reason is that owls, like sea gulls, wood pigeons and wild ducks, have discovered that London is as good a feeding place as any. Owls are particularly fond of mice and rats and London abounds in these rodents. The rat is a thirsty creature and visits the Serpentine, made famous by J. M. Barrie, or any place where there is an ornamental fountain, pound or dripping pipe. Consequently the hoot of the owl is not so rare in London as might be supposed.

TELESCOPES MADE FROM SALVAGED RANGE FINDERS.
Small range finders are being marketed for use as monoculars for bird and nature study. They come in attractive leather cases with straps, to go over the shoulders. Although roughly finished, the places where they have been saved from the rifles still being visible, they are provided with fine lenses adjustable to the eye. These improvised magnifiers were cut from guns used in Europe during the world war.

TIMBER SOURCES MOVING WESTWARD.
The center of the lumber industry is migrating to the west, with movement has been going on quietly and steadily since about 1900, when the cut in the Lake State pineries began to dwindle. The south has been the chief source of lumber for the great-

When You Can Be Well, Why Be Sick!

Why Suffer Delay and Grow Worse?
Enjoy Life—Health—Happiness

To Have No Back Pains, No Nervousness, No Kidney Disease, With Plenty of Life, Energy and No Blood Disease, Is the Wish of Every Young, Old or Middle-Aged Person.

To you—if you are sick—if you suffer—if you are afflicted with any ailments of MEN—if you are worn out, tired or failing, if you need medical advice—if you are not in perfect health—if life is a dragging, miserable existence—if you lack energy, vim and vigor that make life worth living, to you—rich or poor—young or old—you need my treatment at once.

Nerves and Blood Are Life
The lack of nerve force is found among men of all ages. This is true, with men in all walks of life, from the day laborer to the mechanic or professional man. Merchant and clergy are alike sufferers—no man is exempt from the ailment who has rebelled against nature's laws—so if you have the result of overwork, dissipation, sedentary habits or worry, and your vital organs are disturbed, remember, delay in seeing the right doctor makes it more difficult to overcome the symptoms, and you might reach an incurable condition beyond relief if you delay too long.

My Equipment
Is composed of the latest and best known agents in Electrical, Surgical and Mechanical Apparatus, and I am prepared by the knowledge of their uses and the experience in prescribing them so as to get the greatest uniform results from them.

I Am Prepared to Give You
Serums, Bacterins, Vaccines and any and all forms of treatment of this character that have been tried and proved a success.

YOUNG MEN—THINK OF YOUR FUTURE
How about it, are you qualified to face it—are others doing more and getting more out of life than you are? Find out, if you don't know already, what is dragging you down. No one can violate nature's laws and succeed. I have helped thousands physically, mentally, morally, I believe I (as I have thousands of other men), can help you. Just be frank and tell us your troubles and let me help you to regain and maintain your health.

CITY COUNCIL PASSES BYLAWS ON NEW-HALL AND SPRINGBANK DAM

Questions Will Now Go To the Voters For Final Decision.

KILL MAYOR'S PLAN

Suggested Form of Commission Government Receives Its Death Blow.

Mayor Wenig and city councillors have burnt their bridges behind them. Bylaws to construct a new city hall on the McCormick site and the other to build a dam at Springbank Park passed their third reading at a special session last night and go to the people in December for approval or the discard.

The suggested commission form of government is dead to all intents and purposes, as the mayor's colleagues, headed by Ald. Albert Judd, chairman of the finance committee, positively refused to reopen the question for consideration.

Following a long debate, Mayor Wenig moved that they consider again his proposal to send this project to the ratepayers. He failed to secure the necessary support of two-thirds of the council, the following members voting in the negative: Wilson, Burdick, Judd, Watt, Shaw, May and Douglass.

The final passage of the city hall bylaws created little discussion. Ald. Leonard Douglass being the sole member of the council to register a contrary opinion to the debenture bylaw. He supported the proposal, however, to send the question to the people. The debenture bylaw does not come up for a third reading until after the election, and only in the event that the people return a favorable opinion.

Four members of the council opposed consistently the suggested dam at Springbank, the three aldermen from ward two, and Ald. Burdick. Ald. Douglass objected on the third reading, which necessitated a two-thirds vote of those members present, which was attained with Mayor Wenig voting in the affirmative.

It is now definitely decided that but two money bylaws go to the people—a request for $500,000 for new city hall purposes and $150,000 for a dam down the river.

It is stipulated that the location of the latter shall be at the lower end of the park, and while the question was raised by Ald. Douglass as to the river rights of the hydro-electric power commission, the general opinion last night was that the government would not oppose the construction once the people voted favorably.

With one exception, Ald. Frank McKay, members of the board of works are extremely doubtful as to the advisability of granting annual vacations with pay to all city employees, with at least one year's continual service to their credit.

Argues in Vain.
Ald. McKay spent many valuable minutes at last night's session of that committee in a hopeless effort to convince his colleagues that they were far from the beaten track, but they were more inclined to believe that he was the one promoting very radical changes in the city's policy.

Posts Letter At Fire Box

Special to The Advertiser.

Chatham, Nov. 8.—An aged man in North Chatham, last night went to post a letter, but instead of going to a mail-box he stopped at a fire alarm box, and the first thing he knew the fire department was on the scene, although the practice of pulling fire alarm boxes is to many people a stale joke. Chief Pritchard thinks otherwise. "I don't know whether it is up to the fire department to change the style of boxes or the postoffice department to alter the shape of mail-boxes, but I am getting tired of answering false alarms, caused by people mistaking the one for the other. The call last night was the third responded to in the last few months, caused by people hunting a mail box," said the chief today.

calculated to create further inequalities.

The committee jumped at the first convenient loophole presented and decided to leave the issue in abeyance until after City Engineer W. P. Near returns from a convention of engineers, where he goes next week. It is expected that he will bring back an exhaustive report upon this very subject in order that the committee can be guided, they stated, by what is being done in other communities.

McKay felt, however, that even if it were found that other communities were not extending holidays to all employees, it did not necessarily follow that London should not assume the same policy.

Ald. McKay and his Labor confederate in the council, Ald. John Colbert, agreed to support the proposal for garbage workers, etc., with a year's service, in common with clerks and officials in the city hall. A bylaw to this effect, on the verge of passing the council at its last sitting, was snatched from the brink and referred back to the committee.

Ald. Douglass, chairman, questioned whether this policy would not set up a bad and unfair precedent. He felt that an injustice would be meted out to the city if employees who, while they were allowed vacations, worked overtime at intervals throughout the year without additional remuneration and divided their work between them when one was on the holiday.

In comparison he submitted that the outside workers received extra pay when compelled to work overtime, and that an employer of an employee who was not given the same thing it would mean, no doubt, the hiring of additional help, an expense of perhaps more than $6,000, as the city engineer has already reported to the council.

During the discussion, Ald. McKay and Ald. Hayden exchanged quiet, but significant, remarks, the latter declaring that "as an employer of an employee he could not see his way clear to support the measure"—at least not without further detail from other cities.

"That's a funny attitude for an alderman to assume," Ald. McKay commented. "To say you can't vote as an employer of labor. I don't consider that the city is in competition with private corporations."

"But we would be setting up a bad precedent," Ald. Hayden objected. "Then I would say that you are representing the Chamber of Commerce here tonight," replied Ald. McKay.

Near's Recommendations Approved.
We must have harmony," admonished Ald. Douglass, quickly diverting what might have developed into a serious controversy if permitted. Quietly but very efficiently and effectively the committee dealt with its salary proposals, and recommendations aggregating $1,414 were passed. It was pointed out also that about $700 of this total affects the $5,500 budget set aside in the estimates for salaries, the remainder being cared for under local improvement works.

All the city engineer's recommendations were approved, and in fact in one or two instances, slight changes were made of an upward tendency.

BUCHANAN REQUESTS TWO NEW WELL PUMPS

Commission Decides To Install Different Varieties To Test Economical Value.

With Chairman Jared Vining back in the chair, the meeting of the public utilities commission yesterday afternoon was one of purely routine business.

After hearing that there were no reports from either the parks or the playgrounds committees, General Manager Buchanan requested permission to purchase two new deep well pumps to replace two that were no longer efficient. After a considerable discussion as to the relative merits of two varieties, it was decided to install one of each kind, in order that it might be determined which would prove the more economical.

CONSIDERABLE REDUCTION IN LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS
Special to The Advertiser.
Kitchener, Nov. 8.—The cost of local improvements for 1923 dropped $224,000 on the year's total, as compared with last year, and this was in accord with the policy decided upon by the city council, at the outset, according to a statement of Mayor Brethaupt today. The total bill for pavements, sidewalks, sewers and storm drains was $250,000, compared with $574,000 the year

REQUESTS ABOLISHMENT OF DUTY ON CANAL GOODS

Canadian Press Despatch.
Victoria, Nov. 8.—A demand that the federal government appoint a Canadian customs officer in New York and stop charging duty on goods shipped from Eastern Canada to the coast through the Panama Canal, is made in a resolution introduced in the legislature today by Premier Oliver.

The premier's resolution declares that the duty now charged on goods shipped from one part of Canada to the other is directly in violation of the vocate holding of the American court and "inflicts an unnecessary hardship both on the eastern producer and the purchaser."

BUCHANAN REQUESTS TWO NEW WELL PUMPS

Commission Decides To Install Different Varieties To Test Economical Value.

With Chairman Jared Vining back in the chair, the meeting of the public utilities commission yesterday afternoon was one of purely routine business.

After hearing that there were no reports from either the parks or the playgrounds committees, General Manager Buchanan requested permission to purchase two new deep well pumps to replace two that were no longer efficient. After a considerable discussion as to the relative merits of two varieties, it was decided to install one of each kind, in order that it might be determined which would prove the more economical.

MOON PICTURES WERE TAKEN BY LOCAL TEACHER

Used in Illustration During Address Before Teachers' Institute.

ADDRESSES ENJOYED

Yesterday afternoon's session of the annual meeting of the London Teachers' Institute, held in the Central Collegiate auditorium, was featured by two extremely interesting addresses.

After the election of officers, Lieut.-Col. G. H. Gillespie, cadet officer of M. D. No. 1, spoke on the value of physical training. He emphasized that the formation of cadet corps in the schools did not necessarily mean militaristic training, but merely physical development. He urged the teachers to take a course in physical training, as this laid the foundation for a keener appreciation of the finer things in life.

"A sound body was essential to a sound mind," he declared, as he described the training received at R. M. C. Kingston.

"A soldier never asks for war," he concluded. "He is forced into it. Military training does not mean war, but it does lay the basis for national power and future national wealth in its man-power."

Professor H. R. Kingston, University of Western Ontario, gave an interesting talk on "The Wonderful Heavens," illustrated with many beautiful slides. A coincidence lay in the fact that of several slides depicting the moon as seen through a telescope, three were taken by Principal T. S. H. Graham of the London South Collegiate.

What seemed to impress the listener more than anything else in the address was the infinitesimal place our earth seems to occupy in the great scheme of things as depicted by the heavens and the thousands of other worlds, many, many times as large.

A surprise was given the meeting when President Calvert, from the chair, called Robert MacQueen, the dean of London, to the platform.

Mr. MacQueen, after teaching for 55 years, retiring last summer when he was principal of Ryerson school. He spoke very briefly, wishing the association every success in the future.

TO CONSIDER COMPLAINTS FROM FIRE DEPARTMENT

Respecting the contemplated inquiry into alleged faulty conditions in the fire department, Mayor Wenige states that he had certain bona fide complaints from members of that department.

"I have had complaints from members of the fire department, in my pocket for several days past. I have been making certain inquiries of my own as well, and these complaints will go the finance committee."

Ald. John Covert was with the mayor at the time. He also could see no reason why the complaints should not be considered.

Synopsis of City Hall By-Law

(1) On the 8th day of November, 1923, a bylaw was read a first and second time by the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of London to authorize the issue of $500,000 debenture for the erection of the new City Hall upon what is known as the McCormick site, in the City of London, and in order to do so it is estimated that in addition to the money already provided for the erection of a City Hall, there will be required the further sum of $500,000.

(2) The amount of the debt or liability to be created is $500,000.

(3) The debt or liability is to be payable, according to the terms of the draft bylaw, in 20 years from the 30th day of June, 1924.

(4) The amount to be raised annually for the payment of the debt and the interest, or the installment, is $40,121.30.

Take Notice

1. That the foregoing is a synopsis of a proposed bylaw of the Corporation of the City of London, to be submitted to the voters of the city at the same time, and at the same place, as the annual election for the municipal council, and the deputy returning officers appointed to hold the said election shall take the vote.

And that the 28th day of November, A.D. 1923, at 7:30 o'clock in the afternoon in the City of London, the said municipality has been fixed for the appointment of persons to attend at the polling places and to take the summing up of the votes by the clerk.

And that, if the assent of the electors is obtained to the said proposed bylaw, it will be taken into consideration by the Municipal Council of the said Corporation at a meeting to be held after the expiration of one month from the date of the first publication of this notice, and that such first publication was made on the 9th day of November, A.D. 1923.

TAKE NOTICE FURTHER that a tenant who desires to vote upon the said proposed bylaw must deliver to the clerk not later than the 10th day before the day appointed for taking the vote, a declaration, under the Canada Evidence Act, that he is a tenant whose lease extends for the time for which the debt or liability is to be created, or in which the money to be raised by the proposed bylaw is payable or for at least 21 years, and that he has, by the lease, covenanted to pay all municipal taxes in respect of the property of which he is tenant other than the local improvement rates.

PERSONALITY AND MANNER OF BLISS CARMAN ALLURES

Renowned Canadian Poet Heard in Fine Recital At Masonic Temple.

RECITES SHAMBALLAH

What accounts for the popularity of Bliss Carman, the man that great crowds like the audience last night at the Masonic Temple, gather to hear him whenever a reading of his poems is announced?

That he is the greatest living Canadian poet cannot be denied. But poetry is one of those precious things, which people enshrine in their hearts, but do not come out and worship openly. It is not alone because he has written the greatest poetry that Carman has such a tremendous following. It is also because of his personality—the man behind the poems.

A glimpse of the man was caught last night as he stood in a London hall and read his verses to an enthralled audience. It is Bliss Carman, the great Bohemian, the man who could write Shamballah, with its people love.

It is the Bliss Carman of the bow tie, the bushy, brown hair, and the mystical eyes which ever search for something which the people who look up to him never see, who attracts great audiences when he reads. It is the Bliss Carman with a voice like music, husky a bit, because he hasn't been very strong, but still beautiful, which satisfied his hearers with a satisfaction they rarely experience.

The Women's Canadian Club is to be thanked for bringing him to London, but it wouldn't have mattered who brought him. London would have turned out to sit at his feet, just the same.

"Shamballah." Last night the poet read a number of new poems as well as some of the older and well-known ones. "Shamballah," the name of a mystical desert place, is the title of one of the latest poems, still in manuscript form. It lends itself remarkably well to recital work. Just to quote a few lines:

"What architect builded Shamballah As frail as the wondrous new moon?"

Its wall, with the rose tint of morning.

Fruitfully no earthly quarry was hewn. Before him no builder took counsel. To fashion from dust of the ground In beauty and order and rhythm A palace of color and sound."

Lovely Poem. An equally interesting and lovely poem is known as "The Truce of the Manitou," and was suggested to the poet a year ago, when he was spending a few delightful weeks in the Canadian Rockies. It is built up around the ancient custom of the Kootenay tribe of Indians, which required the young men of the tribe to hold vigil in the mountains on the night previous to their initiation into full membership of the tribe.

Tradition goes that the Indian becomes a member of the tribe of whatever animal he chanced to see on the mountains that night. Some idea of the beauty of the lines is obtained from the following verses:

"Who drills the ducks in late September, in floating line or on whistling wing?"

Who bids the slumbering bear remember? Who guides the run of the salmon in spring?"

"Ships of Yule" a delightful little poem, referring to the writer's childhood, was among the loveliest of those read, as were "Spring's Star-bands," "Marigolds," "The Vagabond Song," "Heart's Elation," "The Spring Call of Wawa," "White Iris," "Garden Flowers," "Vestiges of the Past," "Road," "Garden Shadows" (read by request), "Autumn" and "Winter," "Lord of the Far Horizons," "Mirage of the Plains," "Malahat" and "Vancouver."

As a happy conclusion to the program, Mrs. Edward Wyatt, sang three of the poet's songs, "Hesperus," "Love Flutes," and "A Benediction," set to music by Alma Goatley.

To Dress Up the Thanksgiving Dinner Table

Are you going to celebrate the holiday by having a family dinner party? Probably you have already planned a dinner menu which includes the time-honored Thanksgiving dishes. And, of course, the appointments of your dinner table must have as thoughtful care as the menu itself. Fine white linen, the charm of shining silver and gleaming china, as well as the newest of convenient cooking utensils—all these will interest the housewife and hostess at Thanksgiving time.

LINENS.
The industrious little lady in the illustration is making her own table linens. But she couldn't be more pleased with her own handwork than you will be of your own fine linens, if you have one of these beautiful sets of Double Damask Irish Linen Tablecloths and Napkins. They are of heavy quality, fine even texture, and designs which are varied, but uniformly beautiful—the Carnation, the Adam, the Quaint Ribbon and Spot and the delicate tracery of the Sheraton pattern.

Tablecloth ..... 2x2, $8.25; 2x2½, $10.75
One dozen Napkins, 22x22 inches ..... $10.75
These may be purchased separately or in sets. That last critical survey of the table before the guests arrive will satisfy the most exacting hostess, if she has used these linens.

Today I saw

Attractive dresses for schoolgirls, from A. B. Co. to P.H.D.'s! But I shall not try to cover such an extensive range in one column. And the little dresses that I saw today are sure to appeal to High School students, Normalites and prospective B.A.'s.

Neat little one-piece dresses that slip on quickly in the hurried rush for breakfast and a nine o'clock class. According to the newest dictates of Fashion, the lines are slim and girlish, not the slim and boyish styles which prevailed a couple of years ago.

Right on our Second Floor you will find them. Twills and tricotines and serges; the fasten-to-side styles, the tiered effects, varied trimmings of silk embroideries and fringe, tucked panels, and collars and cuffs which are pointed affairs. In colors, there are the perennially popular navy blues, and the varied shades of brown from sand to the deepest tones of chocolate. They specialize in plain colors—no stripes, plaids, nor checks. Which reminds me that a small check, say fifteen to twenty-five dollars, will purchase any of them.

They are such smart, useful little dresses! In them you will feel well dressed, if the day's activities should include an unexpected luncheon engagement or matinee.
