SUPREME COURT JUDGE OVERRULES HARRIS MOTION

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, June 10.—Supreme Court Justice Wagner yesterday over-ruled all motions of counsel for Mrs. Eleanor Elaine Lee Harris, said he would accept the findings of the jury, which several weeks ago decided an annulment suit in favor of Beverly D. Harris, her husband.

MESOPOTAMIA REFUSES TO RATIFY NEW TREATY

Associated Press Despatch.
Bagdad, Iraq, June 10.—The constituent assembly of Mesopotamia yesterday refused to ratify the proposed Anglo-Iraq treaty, which had been under consideration for a long time. A majority of the members expressed their unwillingness to ratify the treaty until Great Britain furnished a written promise to modify some of the points of the treaty concerning the independence of Iraq after the formal ratification was granted. Stormy scenes took place in the assembly.

MAITLAND STREET BAPTISTS BURN THEIR MORTGAGE.

This is the scene last night in Maitland Street Baptist Church when the eighteenth anniversary was celebrated by burning the mortgage on the church property and declaring it free from debt. On the extreme left is J. C. Dodge, who directed the successful campaign. As shown on the board behind the group, $4,699 was required, and there was great

HYDRO COMMISSION WILL SEEK ADDITIONAL POWER

House To Sit For Month Yet

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, June 10.—Liberal members are in caucus this morning with date of prorogation and remaining legislation under consideration. There was some hope that the session would end with the close of the present month, but the hope has now vanished, unless there is a severe curtailment of business still to come.

APPOINTMENTS MADE FOR THREE DEACONS

Rev. Alfred Hale, B.A., Is Named Incumbent of Bervie, Kingarf, Kinlough.

Appointments have been announced for the three deacons ordained by Bishop Williams in Trinity Church, Galt, last Sunday. Rev. Alfred I. Hale, B.A., has been appointed incumbent of Bervie, Kingarf and Kinlough; the Rev. A. Brant Thomas, incumbent of St. Thomas Church, Owen Sound North, Springfield and Sarawak; and Rev. J. Arthur Waring, B.A., incumbent of Huntingford, Zorra and Innerkip.

INDIAN POET DECLARES COUNTRY HUMILIATED

Associated Press Despatch.
Tokio, June 10.—Sir Rabindra Nath Tagore, the Indian poet, declared in an address to 2,000 students here that India felt keenly with Japan the "indignity" she had "suffered" by the exclusion of her nationals from the exclusion of her nationals from the spiritual domain. She should be the champion of Oriental culture and civilization which are distinct from the Western. Western civilization is well unified in aims at wealth instead of human happiness. "It is greedy and suicidal," he said. "It is of prime importance to us Asiatics to unify our own civilization for the realization of Oriental hopes and aspirations."

Premier Ferguson Requests a Complete Survey Be Made of Province.

BIG DEVELOPMENTS
Further Plans Made in Connection With St. Lawrence Project.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 10.—Premier Ferguson stated this afternoon, following an all morning cabinet meeting with the hydro officials, that the government had requested the hydro commission to immediately undertake a complete survey of Ontario for the purpose of ascertaining the province's resources in regard to future power developments.

"We have requested the hydro commission to make a survey of the field," stated the premier. They have also been asked to report upon all available waterpowers that can be used for power development, and the advisability of supplementing the present power supply by means of steam.

Included in the blanket order for an investigation is understood to be the preparation of further plans in connection with the development of the St. Lawrence project.

BONDS GUARANTEED.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 10.—Premier Ferguson announced today that at a cabinet meeting the provincial government had decided to formally guarantee the provincial hydro issue of $4,000,000 bonds. "It is really a refunding issue which the government was bound to guarantee of the Toronto Power Company in the clean-up deal," said Premier Ferguson.

VICTIM OF MISHAP IS GROWING WORSE

Charles Lane in Precarious Condition as Result of Auto Crash.

The condition of Charles Lane was reported by hospital authorities this morning to be worse. Lane had his left leg broken last Wednesday night in an automobile accident. He was progressing favorably, but the wound became infected and gangrene set in. His leg had to be amputated at the hip yesterday morning in an effort to prevent the infection spreading. He became irrational last night, and small hope is held for his recovery.

Mr. Lane was riding along Grey street on a motorcycle, accompanied by Ernest Brown, when an automobile, which it is claimed, was on the wrong side of the road, ran into them and threw both into the ditch. Both sustained broken legs, but so far Mr. Brown has warded off infection, and is on the road to recovery.

NOTED SPEAKER COMES TO LONDON

George W. Kyte, K.C., Has a Splendid Reputation as an Orator in Dominion.

Additional force for the Liberal movement in London is expected as a result of the address next Saturday night by George W. Kyte, K.C., chief Liberal whip and member of the Dominion parliament for Cape Breton South and Richmond.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 10.—Premier Ferguson stated this afternoon, following an all morning cabinet meeting with the hydro officials, that the government had requested the hydro commission to immediately undertake a complete survey of Ontario for the purpose of ascertaining the province's resources in regard to future power developments.

Charlie Chaplin's Cellar Raided

Queer Boiler and Copper Coils
Not Device Expected.

Associated Press Despatch.
Los Angeles, June 10.—Members of the district attorney's "dry" squad raided Charlie Chaplin's home in Beverly Hills yesterday and found that the motion picture actor's cellar was crowded with queer copper pipes and a contraption with a gas flame burning beneath it.

INJURED BICYCLIST IS REPORTED RESTING WELL

Norbert Corcoran, who had his leg broken when he was knocked off his bicycle yesterday afternoon, was reported by St. Joseph's Hospital authorities this morning to have spent a very restful night.

EMPIRE SHOW ATTRACTS 321,000 ON WHIT MONDAY

Associated Press Despatch.
London, June 10.—Among the principal features of a memorable Whitmonday were the great invasion of the metropolis by people from the provinces and the extraordinarily large number of people who journeyed to the empire exhibition at Wembley. Official returns show that more than 321,000 persons visited the exhibition yesterday. The holiday-makers came from fairly well out of the traffic trials, curtailments in the operation of the tube system being taken in good part. Officials of the tube system say there is a drifting back to work on the part of the workers.

METHODISTS GIVE PRAISE TO VICTORY OF UNIONISTS

Delegates at Windsor Conference Sing Doxology To Show Satisfaction.

SESSIONS END

No Date or Place Is Yet Set
For Next Year's Gathering.

Special to The Advertiser
by a Staff Reporter

Windsor, June 10.—"Praise God from whom all blessings flow." Thus sang the members of the London Methodist Conference in a demonstration remarkable for its fervor and spontaneity. It occurred when Rev. H. B. Parnaby of Belmont exultingly held up today's London Advertiser in view of the conference and pointed out the overwhelming victory of church union in the Presbyterian General Assembly. The delegates applauded wildly for a moment, then spontaneously rose to their feet and, led by the president, Rev. H. J. Uren, solemnly and thankfully sang the Doxology.

After a busy morning, the forty-first session of the London Conference concluded at noon today. The business of the forenoon was chiefly concerned with the final report of the stationing committee. In addition to the changes previously announced, Rev. Harold White, B.A., B.D., of Port Lambton, was moved to Ethel, in the Wingham district, and in the Windsor district Rev. I. Saine (College) was assigned to Coatsworth. Rev. E. A. Fear of Windsor, supernumerary, and Rev. John Henderson, supernumerary, are attached to Fitchburg, in the Windsor district.

District Chairmen Elected.
Chairmen of the various districts were elected as follows: London, Rev. H. J. Uren of London; Stratford, Rev. E. W. Edwards of Listowel; Wingham, Rev. C. F. Clarke of Drumseville; Goderich, Rev. J. E. Holmes of Listowel. Please see page 4, col. 1.

WOMAN VICE-PRESIDENT SUGGESTED AT PARLEY

Associated Press Despatch.
Cleveland, O., June 10.—"Since the make-up of the new cabinet is being suggested by the vice-presidential candidate, why not offer a favorite daughter to the country?" Mrs. Genevieve Allen of St. Louis, who was present last night at a dinner of the Women's Party.

BODY FOUND BY WORKMEN RECALLS MYSTERIOUS VISIT

Skeleton Believed To Be Of Person 25 Years Old.

FACED MURDER

Discovery Near Mount Brydges
Is Made by Albert
Murphy.

Thought to have been in the ground for at least 40 or 50 years, a skeleton, buried to a depth of about four feet, in a double-up position, was found near Mount Brydges a few days ago by a gang of men working under Foreman Albert Murphy on the county road known as sixteen side-road, Caradoc.

Investigators were unable to determine whether the skeleton was that of a woman or a small man, but from the condition of the teeth, the age was estimated at 25 years. No trace was found of a casket or any article of clothing.

The discovery was made in a sandy hill opposite the farm gate of John Dempsey, concession 6. Archie Graham, an old resident of the district, recalls that many years ago a former owner of the Dempsey farm, long since dead, had been tried and acquitted for the murder of his wife, who was found dead near the barn with her face in a pool of water a few inches deep. He also recalled a legend which home credence in the vicinity of a man who was never seen again after he had been known to enter this house.

Persons Not Vaccinated Face 3 Weeks Quarantine Upon Entering Detroit

Cordon of Patrolmen Is Placed Around Section in East End of City.

LACK CO-OPERATION

Dr. Hill Issues Regulations for Benefit of Londoners Travelling.

Three weeks' quarantine for all persons not vaccinated, is the rule in Detroit now, owing to the severity of the present epidemic of smallpox in that city.

In view of the large number of Londoners who are going to Detroit for holiday and business reasons the following regulations, as issued by the Detroit Department of Health in the name of the Institute of Public Health in London, as a guide which may save them a great deal of trouble.

All persons exposed to smallpox who do not possess a vaccination card will be quarantined for a period of 21 days from date of last exposure, even though they are immediately vaccinated.

"Persons who are exposed to smallpox and possess old vaccination scars, if re-vaccinated, and such vaccinations take, will be held in quarantine for a period of 21 days.

Will Be Released.

"Persons exposed to smallpox and possessing old vaccination scars, if re-vaccinated, and such vaccinations take, will be held in quarantine for a period of 21 days. Persons who refuse such vaccination will be released from quarantine at the end of 21 days observation.

"Wherever a case of smallpox is reported among employees of any place of business, or among persons in this place of business or in the building must be vaccinated unless they possess good recent vaccination scars. Persons who refuse such vaccination will be quarantined for a period of 21 days. Obviously this same rule applies to persons residing in an apartment house or hotel, in which a case of smallpox has been reported.

Cordon of Patrolmen.

From Detroit today comes a message that: A cordon of 150 patrolmen, 50 physicians and many assistants effected a smallpox quarantine today about a 15-block section of the East Side in a determined effort to prevent any new outbreaks of the epidemic, which is now under control. Other districts probably will be similarly segregated, says Henry F. Vaughan, health commissioner, announced.

"The quarantine today was made necessary, according to Dr. Vaughan, because the percentage of smallpox cases there was high, indicating, he said, a lack of co-operation on the part of the residents in an effort to curb the disease."

FORMER JAP AMBASSADOR TO U.S. MENTIONED FOR POST

Associated Press Despatch.
Tokio, June 10.—Baron Shidehara, a former ambassador to Washington, will be the foreign minister in the cabinet being formed by Viscount Takakura Kato, according to all the newspapers. The papers predict a slight delay in the completion of the new ministry, owing to alleged differences between Kato and Korekito, leader of the Ken-seikai party, the largest numerically in the lower house of the Diet.

TWO HUNDRED IMMIGRANTS STILL HELD ON STEAMER

Canadian Press Despatch.
Halifax, N.S., June 10.—Two hundred Italian immigrants, who were not allowed to land when the steamer Dante Alighieri arrived here from Naples a fortnight ago, and were carried on to New York, arrived back here yesterday on the same steamer, and special federal immigration boards are inquiring into each case individually on board the steamer, which is anchored in the stream. Twenty-nine were admitted yesterday under bond. Those finally refused admission will be deported.

ACCLAMATION ELECTION GIVEN A. STEELE, LIBERAL

Canadian Press Despatch.
Regina, June 10.—A. E. Steele, Liberal and farmer of Antler, was elected by acclamation yesterday to the Saskatchewan Legislature for the constituency of Canington. The vacancy was caused by the death of Robert Douglas, who also was a Liberal.

VICTORIA, WORTLEY ROAD CADETS ARE INSPECTED

Victoria and Wortley Road public school cadets were inspected yesterday afternoon by Lieut.-Col. G. H. Gillespie and good turnouts were reported. The next inspection of public school cadets comes on Monday next when Ealing, Trafalgar, Highland, and Manor Park cadets will hold their annual parade.

SIR ARTHUR CURRIE, who delivered the commemorative address at the dedication of the O. A. C. memorial hall at Guelph this afternoon.

O. A. C. MEMORIAL IS DEDICATED

Sir Arthur Currie Delivers
Commemorative Address at Guelph Today.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Guelph, June 10.—One of the finest soldier memorials in Canada was dedicated this afternoon at the Ontario Agricultural College, when General Sir Arthur Currie, who commanded the Canadian forces overseas, delivered the address commemorative of the heroic services and the sacrifices of the men who left the college halls for the field of battle.

The Memorial Hall was filled with an immense throng of people, most of them being former graduates of the institution from all parts of Canada, present to attend the ceremonies in connection with the semi-centennial celebration of the O. A. C. The hall is one of the finest of the many fine buildings on the college campus, among which the administration of the large course of people.

In it is a tablet containing the names of more than a hundred former students, who paid the last sacrifice, in whose honor and to whose memory the edifice was erected, and today dedicated.

Others assisting in the ceremonies were Canon Cody of Toronto, who delivered an eloquent oration, and Rev. C. H. Burland, one of the military chaplains from the city of Guelph.

NEW YORK GIRL WEDS DANISH PRINCE TODAY

Miss Margaret Green Becomes
Bride of H. R. H. Prince Viggo.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, June 10.—This is the wedding day of Miss Margaret Eleanor Green, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. James O. Green, to H. R. H. Prince Viggo Christian Adolph Georg of Denmark.

By the marriage, Miss Green will become Her Highness Princess Viggo of Denmark, Countess of Rosenberg, an official announcement stated. The prince, however, renounces his right to succession to the Danish throne, inasmuch as his bride is not of royal blood, thus conforming with the custom of the Danish court.

POSTAL WORKERS FEAR REDUCTION

London Men State Increase Does Not Reach Total of Bonus.

ACTION IS DELAYED

The long-looked-for news regarding the upward revision of postal salaries that has been under the consideration of the federal government and the civil service commission was received with mixed feelings by local postal workers today.

In the absence of Fred Wilson, secretary for the men, who has just suffered a bereavement, postal workers stated that it will not be known for a few days what action will be taken regarding the report of the civil service commission.

There has been no meeting of executives since the report came out, either here or in the headquarters at Toronto, as yet. It is expected that the men will wait until the executive, made up of representatives of the different locals, has gone into the report, before any action is taken.

Postal workers stated this morning that the report as it stands will mean an actual reduction where it appears to be an increase, for where there are increases in some instances, there will be no bonus, and as the bonus was larger than the proposed increase, the difference will cause a reduction rather than a raise, and in some instances this will amount to as much as two hundred dollars per annum.

WILL CALL MEETING.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, June 10.—Although the new salaries for letter carriers and other postal workers, as announced by the Dominion government last night, mean decreases in some cases, with the withdrawal of the "war bonus," it will not be known till Sunday next whether or not the postal workers here will demand a strike as the result of the new gradings. There will be a mass meeting of the men on Sunday to decide on the action to be taken.

Undoubtedly there is a feeling of distinct disappointment among the gradings, while in others there is manifestly an opinion that the new scale should be accepted for the present. Officials of the various postal unions here decline this morning to commit themselves to an opinion on the probable action of the men.

One newspaper here intimates that a strike is quite possible, even probable, all over the Dominion.

WOULD-BE SOLDIER LOSES UNIFORM

Victor Medland Charged With Wearing Prohibited Khaki.

Victor Medland, 561 Queen's avenue, who has been walking round the city in soldier's uniform, was arrested last night by Constable Snell and charged with wearing a prohibited military uniform. The case was held in private, and Medland was dismissed, but not before all military badges purchased locally, had been striped from him on orders of Col. W. M. Lawless, of headquarters' staff.

Discussing the case, which is the first of its kind here since the government order-in-council went into effect last April prohibiting the use of soldiers' uniforms without permission or on stated occasions, Chief Birrell stated Medland was first noticed parading around at the school picnic. He was ordered to leave the park at the time by Sergeant James Oakley, the chief stated, but Constable Snell picked him up last night, swagging stick and all.

Medland, it appears, has a great fondness for a soldier's life, and nothing pleased him more than to don the khaki and walk the streets.

Although he did not serve overseas he managed to get over to England and was shipped back to Canada. He was allowed to retain the clothes. Magistrate Graydon stated at the conclusion of the court, Medland was liable to a $200 fine and a year's imprisonment for the offence.

DR. BRITAIN UNLIKELY TO COME TO LONDON

Chamber of Commerce Is Not Expected To Act at Present.

That there is no immediate prospect of Dr. Horace L. Britain, head of the Municipal Research Institute of Canada, visiting London, is the opinion of E. J. Penny, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

In the absence of the secretary, Gordon Philip, Mr. Penny stated today that while not in touch with all the details of the situation, he did not think that there had been any change in the plans, and that a visit in the near future was unlikely.

Dr. Britain, visited London when James Gray was head of the Chamber of Commerce. A survey was made of Victoria Hospital, as well as the police, fire and other civic departments. It was felt at the time that the survey made for efficiency and that at a later date Dr. Britain would return to London to carry out further work.

POSTPONE MEETING.

The monthly meeting of the Children's Aid Society, scheduled for this afternoon, was postponed for a week. As no regular sessions will be held during July or August, it is expected that any special provisions for summer work will be concluded at the postponed gathering.

SALARY ADJUSTED.

Adjustment of salary in one case was dealt with in a brief session of the salary committee of the board of education last night. There was very little business to come before the committee and an adjournment was made in a short time.

City Churches

RIDOUT STREET PICNIC.

Arrangements for the congregational picnic to be held at Springbank on Wednesday, July 3 were made at a meeting of the Sunday school teachers of the Ridout Street Church. The committee appointed to make arrangements includes Mrs. Agnes, Mrs. Lowes, Mrs. Blackmore, Mrs. Maynard, Miss Brown, Miss Proctor, Miss Ashby, and Messrs. Hawkins, Ellis and Jackson.

DR. HILL AT DUNDAS CENTRE.

Dr. Hill gave a very interesting address on "Public Health of the Pentateuch" to the members of men's No. 8 class of Dundas Centre Methodist Church this week. Touching on the spiritual and physical laws of the Old Testament pertaining to health and medicine, the speaker did not change the spiritual attitude of man. The speaker was of the opinion that superstition was rampant in the old days. A lively discussion followed the address. Dr. Hill's address, President Arthur Baal was in the chair and among those present were several from the public speaking group at the Y. M. C. A.

EMPRESS AVENUE Y. P. L.

This week's meeting of the Empress Avenue Y. P. L. was in charge of the devotional committee, headed by Mrs. A. J. McLean, who occupied the chair. The devotional exercises were carried out by a large number of the leaguers. The Scripture talk, taken from the 103rd Psalm, was nicely handled by Miss Irene Brundrick. During the evening a reading on Burns' "Cotter's Saturday Night," was given by Miss Verda Goodland. Miss Theodora Guymer contributed a solo. The monthly roll-call was answered by the members quoting a selection from Psalms. Much credit is due the devotional committee for a delightful and inspiring evening. The regular service, the executive of the league met and made plans for the annual picnic to take place on Monday, June 16. Plans were also discussed regarding the raising of money for the church building fund.

CENTENNIAL Y. P. S.

The Young People's Association of Centennial Methodist Church held their regular meeting last night under the auspices of the Young People's Association. Miss Valetta Kernohan, the president, conducted the well-attended meeting. Miss Anna-bell Burns gave the Bible reading. The monthly roll-call was answered by the members quoting a selection from Psalms. Much credit is due the devotional committee for a delightful and inspiring evening. The regular service, the executive of the league met and made plans for the annual picnic to take place on Monday, June 16. Plans were also discussed regarding the raising of money for the church building fund.

COLBORNE STREET M. B.

The giving of a pretty little pantomime featured yesterday afternoon's meeting of the Mission Band of the Colborne Street Methodist Church. The plot was woven about a little Chinese girl who was rescued by a Christian missionary. Those taking part were Ethel Westbury, Lois Gidley, Geraldine Hooper and Richard Saunders. Other attractive items were included in the program as follows: A recitation by Miss Margery Turnbull and a Scripture reading by Miss Jean Hermiston. Arrangements were made for a picnic to be held at Springbank on Saturday, June 14. Miss Lois Gidley was in the chair.

ST. ANDREW'S BANDS.

The final meetings of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Mission Bands was held yesterday afternoon, when a goodly number of the members of both the King's Own and Outlook Mission Bands was present. After an inspection of the things made by the bands for the bazaar which is to be held at Western Canada, Mr. Cannell told an interesting missionary story and refreshments were served.

TO ORDAIN ELDERS.

The edict of the ordination and induction of five new elders of St. Andrew's Church was read last Sunday and the induction will take place at the Sunday morning service on June 22.

ST. ANDREW'S PICNIC.

The annual picnic of St. Andrew's Sunday School is set for Saturday of this week at Springbank. A splendid program of sports has been arranged and a happy gathering is expected.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL.

Last night's meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Congregational Church was but a winning up business meeting for the summer months. Miss Annie Moule, the president, was in the chair. The picnic which is to be held at Springbank tomorrow will complete the meetings until the fall. The Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Congregational Church is planning a lawn meeting to be held at the home of Fred Robins, Wortley road, on Thursday, June 19.

EMPRESS AVENUE Y. P. L.

Mrs. Chapman was the speaker at the regular meeting of the Empress Avenue Young People's League; her subject being "Having an Ideal in Life." Miss Margaret Bowrie, missionary vice-president, occupied the chair. The Bible lesson was taken by Miss Hazel Perrin. During the evening Mr. Charles Robinson rendered a flute solo, and Mr. Jack Smetzer gave a vocal number. Final arrangements for the annual picnic at Springbank were made. Miss Nina North and Miss Pauline Cameron were appointed delegates for the summer school at St. Thomas. The meeting was exceptionally well attended.

LONDON LIFE OFFICIALS RETURN FROM CONFERENCE

J. G. Stephenson, superintendent of agencies of the ordinary department, and O. D. Newton, assistant secretary, of the London Life Insurance Company, represented that company this week at the meeting of the Life Agency Officers' Association held in New York City.

Mr. Newton returned to London on Sunday, while Mr. Stephenson arrives home this week after visiting the company's offices in Quebec Province and Eastern Ontario. Mr. Stephenson was again honored by his fellows in being re-elected to the executive of the association for a third term.

NEW INSTRUCTOR EXPECTED SOON

M. Smith Will Supervise Printing Plant Installation at "Tech."

COMPLETE PLANT

Mathew Smith, Hamilton, newly appointed instructor in printing, is expected to take charge of the installation of equipment at the Technical High School shortly, in order that the plant be in shape for commencement on September 1. Mr. Smith is a printer of 20 years experience, who has taken a special course in instruction at Toronto and also taught printing for three years at the Hamilton Technical High School.

Blue prints showing the layout of the new department at the Technical High School here provide for a class of 24 at one time, with equipment which equals any first-rate small job plant. There is $2,000 worth of type, carefully selected in the most useful fonts, two job presses, and other equipment which has been secured at a reasonably low figure.

In the new addition there is a classroom, which will accommodate 24 students at one time, and a larger room, 60 by 60 feet, which will be used as the plant.

Under the present system of tuition, first year male students at the school are given academic training as well as a groundwork in three mechanical phases.

With auto mechanics and printing added to the curriculum, five lines of study will be open in addition to collegiate work. First year students are given opportunity to find their adaptability in these lines and by the end of the term they are ready to launch into a specialty. Tutors are also able to judge a student's progress in the different lines.

The second year is given over entirely to studies in specialties, with no more English and mathematics added. This plan will be followed in the printing department so that by the end of the second year a student in printing will have a valuable groundwork in most every phase of the work. No linotype or monotype setting machines will be installed yet but basic work at handsetting will be taught thoroughly. Keyboards and machine setting will be available and proper fingering will be taught.

Special classes will be open, both during the day and in the evening, to those who have some training in printing, but want to add knowledge of particular phases of the trade.

CANADIANS BEAT JUBILEES FOR SECOND VICTORY

The first floor Canadians scored their second victory yesterday afternoon in the London Life football game at Federal Square park at the expense of the second floor Jubilees.

The score was 6 to 5. The contest was featured by the heavy battling of Bailey for the lossers and Morrison and McLaren for the winners, all of whom bagged three hits. Batteries: Canadians, W. McLaren and S. Morrison; Jubilees, C. Norton and L. Dalgleish. Umpire, A. Lawrence.

The standing to date in the group is as follows:

	W.	L.	P.C.
Canadians	2	0	1000
Successes	1	0	1000
Super-Selects	0	1	1000
Jubilees	0	2	1000

The next game will be played Friday afternoon between the Super-Selects and the Successes.

L. R. Steel Company Assets In Canada Tied Up For One Week By Order of Court

JUDGE INSTRUCTS ASSETS BE HELD

Creditors of L. R. Steel Company Seek To Recover Funds Due.

INVOLVES THOUSANDS

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 10.—An order made by Mr. Justice Kelly at Osgoode Hall this morning ties up all assets of the L. R. Steel Company and of the Steel Realty Company for a week. The order was made on the application of D. J. Coffey, representing creditors and shareholders, who moved for a winding up order. The motion was supported by Lewis Duncan, representing the Steel Realty Company, who stated that the company's creditors to the extent of $15,000 for rent for office premises in the Royal Bank Building, and other companies, opposed the motion. His lordship enlarged the motion, temporarily for one week, granting an injunction in the meantime restraining any act by the companies, the directors or receivers or any one acting for them, affecting the property or assets of the companies within the jurisdiction.

GREAT INTEREST SHOWN IN BORDER CONFERENCE

Large Number Attend Methodist Sessions Held in Windsor.

One of the striking features of London Methodist conference this year was the interest taken in all its sessions by the Methodist of the Border Cities. Except for a few occasions, when sessions were held in camera, the gallery held a large number of men and women, who displayed the greatest interest in the business or address on hand. Dr. Chown's address on church union yesterday morning attracted a particularly large audience, which vigorously applauded his sentiments together with official delegates at conference.

Commencing at 8:45 each morning a devotional address was given by Rev. Dr. Chapple of Memphis, Tenn., the official guest and speaker at the conference. Seldom on these occasions were there more than a few empty seats in the auditorium, and when Dr. Chapple spoke in the conference church on Sunday evening more than 250 people were turned away from the doors.

The general public on the occasion of Dr. Chown's Sunday morning sermon, which was held in the conference church, was very large. The church at the hour of 11, found every available seat already taken, and, disappointed in the opportunity of hearing their general superintendent, they were forced to seek seats in other Methodist churches of Windsor.

STAFF OF LONDON LIFE PLAN THURSDAY DANCE

Springbank pavilion will be the rendezvous on Thursday night for the members of the head office staff of the London Life Insurance Company at an informal dance being given under the auspices of the London Life Women's Club. It is expected that 100 couples will be in attendance at the affair.

PURSE FOUND AT PICNIC UNCLAIMED AT STATION

Who lost a purse at the school picnic last Friday and didn't get it back? There are three purses at the police station waiting owners who should claim them. One was a small black purse, which was found in Victoria Park, but the young lady owner has failed to call for it as yet. She wouldn't return the constable to return it, neither did he expect to turn back in the race to get away from the vicinity.

FUTURE TENT TRAVELLERS ADVISED TO SEE RULES

Any Londoner who thinks he would like to rent a vacant lot and live in a tent this summer, providing the weather gets warmer, should consult the provincial regulations, stating the distance that a tent must be from the street before pitching his domicile.

EPIDEMIC OF MEASLES DYING OUT IN LONDON

There were 269 fresh cases of measles in the city in May, as compared with 578 fresh cases in April, according to the monthly report of the medical officer of the city. Since the beginning of the year there have been 2,200 cases, which constitutes a record for London in measles. The epidemic is dying down, and with the coming of summer and more outdoor living will shortly disappear.

CHICAGO YOUTHS WILL FACE KIDNAPPING CHARGE FIRST

State Prosecutor Will Not Permit Pleas of Guilty.

CASE BEGINS JULY 15

Preparations Are Made To Combat Pleas of Insanity.

Associated Press Despatch.
Chicago, June 10.—Nathan Leopold junior, and Richard Loeb, admitted kidnapers and slayers of Robert Franks, millionaire's sons, will be tried first on charges of kidnapping for ransom preliminary to their trial on murder charges, State Attorney Robert E. Crowe has decided. Both are capital offenses.

The move is planned to show the relative strength of the cases of the prosecution and defence, particularly the status of the youths' confessions, concerning which there is doubt as to their admissibility as evidence. State Attorney Crowe, who has not made a court appearance for eight years personally, will direct the court prosecution.

POLICE SURE OF SUMMER AS SERGEANT DONS STRAW

Members of the police department have finally come to the conclusion that summer has arrived. They have taken the tip from no less an authority on fashions than Sergeant Jim Oakley, who arrived at the police ball game last week, that straw "roof" creation that looked as if it had been imported from Paris, but which, other jealous sergeants maintain, was picked up on the market square "after dusk and before dawn."

MANY BOX LABELS ARE DESTROYED

London Inspector Points Out Government Regulations Covering Use.

LACK OF KNOWLEDGE

Millions of labels for boxes, cartons and bottles containing foods, drugs and medicines have been destroyed in the last few months by the department of health, stated W. E. Wilson, Dominion food and drug inspector, today. The labels did not comply with the requirements of the department.

Mr. Wilson pointed out that the department of health issues a book of regulations, in which there is a section on labelling, wherein are various protective clauses for the public. For instance, the word "blend" on a label applies to a combination of similar substances, such as a blend of Java, Mocha and Brazilian coffees, and the inspector points out that where chicory to be added the blend would become a "mixture" or a "compound."

In food compounds or mixtures containing less than 51 per cent of the chief ingredient, or where a distinctive name is used, the percentage of the ingredients must be stated under the name of the article in letters one-fourth the size of and of the same visibility as the letters used to designate the article.

It has been through a lack of knowledge of the pure food laws that millions of expensive labels have had to be destroyed, continued the inspector, who urged the producers who are putting a preparation of any kind on the market get in touch with the department in the customs building before placing labels on their goods. The minimum fine for neglecting to provide a label or the use of an improper label is $50.

TEN THOUSAND NOW ON STRIKE

Pennsylvania Miners Walk Out Without Sanction of Union.

Associated Press Despatch.
Scranton, Pa., June 10.—The number of employees of the Pennsylvania Coal Company on strike in the Pittston district was increased to 10,000 today when 5,000 men quit work, alleging that their wages had been reduced. Last week a strike of 5,000 employees of the same company went into effect because of a similar protest.

The 10,000 miners struck without the sanction of the district union. The general grievance committee of the company met last night and voted to tie up all collieries of the company. The strike is 100 per cent effective.

FINAL WARNING GIVEN ABOUT SOFT DRINKS

Regulations Governing Sale of Orangeade, Lemonade Not Being Recognized.

That the regulations concerning the sale of orangeade and lemonade, as set down by the board of health, are not being recognized by some vendors was announced by W. E. Wilson, Dominion food and drug inspector today.

The regulations state that all orangeade, lemonade and other soft drinks as sold from large containers at summer resorts and carnivals must have on the containers printed labels stating the names of the product, the name of the manufacturer. If coloring matter is used this also must be stated, added the inspector, who also warned that saccharine is barred in such drinks.

The inspector stated that the department had issued its last warning and has decided to prosecute for any further infringements of the act.

UNIFORMED CADETS PROVE ATTRACTIVE

Government Refunds Cost of Outfits at the End of Two Years.

Much interest in uniformed cadets is shown by pupils of most of London's public schools where cadets have been organized. Though there are 12 cadet corps, with an average of about 50 boys in each company, only a comparatively small proportion now wear the authorized khaki uniforms.

Under a special payment plan the government refunds, at the end of two years, the sum of $125 which cadets pay for their own uniforms. The individual cadet buys his uniform in the first place, and if he makes use of it for two years the money is paid back by the government.

The good showing made by uniformed cadets is encouraging others and hopes are expressed in many circles that the London battalion will all be in khaki when fall training commences.

METHODIST PRAISES VICTORY OF UNIONISTS

Godrich, Exeter, Rev. G. W. W. Rivers of Parkhill, Strathroy, Rev. S. J. Thompson of Watford, Sarnia, Rev. H. H. Barnaby of Sarnia, Windsor, Rev. J. W. Hibbert of Kingsville, Chatham, Rev. A. E. Jones of Chatham, Ridgeway, Rev. A. S. Whitehall of Glenora, St. Thomas, Rev. R. Hick of St. Thomas.

In appreciation of his address at the conference a check was presented to Dr. Clovis G. Chappell of Memphis, Tennessee, Dr. Rochester, head of the Lord's Day Alliance, head of the work of his department, strong condemnation of the lack of observance of the Lord's Day in Detroit was expressed by Rev. C. E. Craig of Winnipeg, who seconded a motion of Dr. M. McCamus, supporting the work of the alliance.

The very atmosphere of Windsor, different on Sunday, said Rev. Mr. Craig, "when you cross from Detroit with its theatres and gambling dens open, to the peaceful Canadian side, with the quiet church goers, and places of amusement closed."

No Conference Date Set.

Complying with the request of the Northwood and Harwich quarterly official board, and also of the Ridgeway and Chatham districts, the appointment of Huffman's, Northwood, Zion, and Botany were made into a four-point circuit, the minister to live at Huffman's, the circuit to be some part of the Chatham district, and to be called the Harwich circuit. The Sunnyside Church of the Strathroy district was attached to the Florence circuit of the Ridgeway district. Middleton was placed under the superintendency of the principal of Muncie Institute.

Neither date or place of next year's conference was fixed today. A committee was appointed to decide these details next October, in case church union is not consummated.

PRINCIPAL O'NEILL WILL ACCEPT REGISTRATIONS

Principal A. E. O'Neill of London East Collegiate will be at Trafalgar Street Public School to meet parents of Grade 8 children who wish to register their children for next year's studies. On Thursday Mr. O'Neill will be at Lorne Avenue School and on Friday he goes to Boyle Memorial.

Registering is being continued in the Central and South London Collegiate and at the Technical High School, where offices will be open from 7:30 o'clock this evening.

ASSEMBLY RESOLUTION ON PEACE CONTESTED

out that the report had just been received, and not adopted, and would have to be discussed later.

Dr. Nelson Objects.

Then Dr. Banks Nelson came on the aisle to object. "I object to the wording of that motion," he said. "It declares war as a means of settling disputes between nations. I would accept it if Dr. Dyde would make it say that war would be accepted only as a last resort. That motion as it stands, would bind us as a church to a declaration against all and any war, even if we were the victims of aggression. That would be ridiculous and absurd. It would bind us to not make war if we were in the circumstances of August, 1914, again and as we would be tomorrow if the same circumstances were to come."

The moderator interposed to say that a place on the docket would not be found for the peace motion, bringing the cause of just year, and there the matter dropped for the time being.

Judge McKay of Port Arthur introduced a long amendment to the union committee. This amendment suggested that certain changes should be made in the bill now before parliament. One of these changes was to provide that if any vote was taken in congregations, only those members should vote who were members of the church. The amendment was adopted. This was intended, Judge McKay said, to prevent any allegation that either the anti-unionists or the unionists were guilty of the practice of bringing new members into the church simply to secure their votes on this change.

Committees Reported.

Judge Swanson raised a point of order, declaring that the amendment proposed by Judge McKay was not a true amendment to the third resolution. Rev. Dr. Ephraim Scott read at the opening of the sederunt a statement of formal dissent from the action of the assembly yesterday in adopting the first two resolutions of the union committee. He said that the assembly was named to care for the church and not to destroy it. He said that the proposed legislation had never been before the people, that ministers who vote for the destruction of the church violate their ordination vows, that the bill is a barefaced step in the doctrine and the policy of the church, and that it takes away the right of self-supporting congregations to choose their own ministers. Dr. Walter Murray moved that a committee be named in accordance with the custom of the church to make response to the dissent.

The amount of routine work, which will have to be done when the matter of church union is finally disposed of, is small, and there is no contentious matter to be taken up. It is therefore believed that the work of the assembly can be concluded at noon Wednesday.

The committee to strike the standing committee of the church reported the chairman of the various committees as follows:

General Board—D. R. Drummond, chairman; Robert Laird, secretary.

Home Missions—W. H. Sedgwick, chairman; J. H. Edmunds, secretary.

Foreign Missions—Principal G. C. MacMillan, chairman; R. P. MacKay, secretary.

Amendments Considered.

Sabbath Schools and Young People's Work—R. B. Cochrane, convener.

Widows' and Orphans' Fund, Western Section—J. J. Gibson, convener.

Eastern Section—J. W. Falconer, convener.

Presbyterian Publications—Arthur Hewitt, convener.

The subject of church union was again taken to the fore at the afternoon session. Amendments to the third resolution of the union committee proposed this morning by Judge McKay and Dr. C. C. Pidgeon were taken up at an amendment of the fourth resolution, which would be satisfactory. This matter is under advisement at the opening of the afternoon sederunt.

REGISTER DISSENT.

Special to The Advertiser

by a Staff Reporter

Owen Sound, June 10.—The church union battle was resumed in the Presbyterian General Assembly today when Rev. Dr. E. Scott of Montreal registered a formal dissent from the action of the assembly on the union issue.

"There has been little attempt to get signatures to it, but we have about 40," he said.

"Names" called the commissioners, and as Dr. Scott read them the names of Dr. Banks Nelson, Dr. James Wilson, Toronto; Dr. D. J. Fraser, Montreal; Dr. Robert Johnston, Calgary; James Rogers, Montreal, and Ronald MacVicar, Sydney, were noted.

There were eight clauses in all in the dissent. The first said that the assembly was not the church, but merely the officers of the church. The second raised the point that there had been no record of the people and there was a great and growing opposition to union (laughter).

Others were that union was against the spirit of Christ and unworthy of ministers who had taken oath to follow no divisive course from the present order, that the assembly was disrespectful of the church, that it was a barefaced step in the doctrine and the policy of the church, and that it takes away the right of self-supporting congregations to choose their own ministers. Dr. Walter Murray moved that a committee be named in accordance with the custom of the church to make response to the dissent.

Rev. Dr. Murray of Saskatchewan moved that the moderator name a committee to strike an answer to the dissent, and this was heartily indorsed by the assembly.

Y.M.C.A. TRIANGLE SIGN

IS USED BY OIL COMPANY

Concerning the report that the Y.

M. C. A. triangle is being used as a trade mark by an oil company operating in Oklahoma, inquiries have been received at the Y. M. C. A. concerning the copyrighting of the design.

E. J. Jenkins, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., stated this morning that the red triangle is not copyrighted for the reason that it would have to be copyrighted by the Y. M. C. A. Firms could use a red triangle for trade mark without, of course, making use of the letters Y. M. C. A.

It is pointed out that the Y. M. C. A. at the international convention at Springfield, Mass., 1895. The triangle with the words "Spirit, Mind and Body" symbolizes the unity of man, which the association aims to develop.

AN AMENDED BYLAW

IS READY, CHIEF SAYS

Fire Chief Aitken does not believe the alterations planned for the fire hall would be practical. He suggests an amendment to the parking laws as a more satisfactory solution for the congestion difficulty.

If the present plans are gone through with it will mean that a large amount of money will have to be spent than was planned.

Alterations will not only have to be made to the front of the building, but also to the stairs, and then there is a wall that separates the stables and the main part of the fire hall that will have to be torn down if the engines are to be moved back, the chief claims.

START BOAT TRAIN.

The customary "boat train" on the C. N. R. will begin its season's run from Toronto to Sarnia on June 21. This train, which will pass through London at 1:45 p.m., is put on by the C. N. R. for the convenience of travellers desirous of taking a boat trip up the lakes.

TOUR OF INSPECTION.

Brigadier Macdonald and Adjutant Spooner of the Salvation Army head a tour of inspection of the army corps throughout Western Ontario.

'VISITORS' DAY DRAWS MANY TO BOYLE SCHOOL

Mothers Were Enabled To See Instruction Work in Progress.

Today was "visitors' day" at Boyle Memorial public school, and with good weather there was a large turnout of parents. No diversion was made from usual class work, and mothers were able to watch instruction go on in all the classes.

This morning quite an appreciable number of mothers visited the kindergarten classes. Miss Flora Carson, the kindergarten specialist, directed an exhibition of the department's work. This afternoon other classes were visited.

In the kindergarten were displays of class work, chiefly manual training exhibits, household science and art. In the halls were exhibits on class work.

CITY'S LOSS ON TAXES EXTREMELY SMALL

Only $5,000 Deficit in 1922—Total Tax Roll Is $2,500,000.

The city of London lost only $5,000 on its 1922 taxes by reason of failure of the tax collector to follow up all those delinquents who left the city before the taxes became due.

Considering that the total tax roll handed to the tax collector for the year was in the neighborhood of $2,500,000, the percentage of loss was not appreciable, and many business-men wish they could show a collection approaching this record.

In Woodstock the city council is contemplating taking action to enable it to collect income and school taxes from people who leave the city before paying these. The city clerk has reported that many people go away from Woodstock each year and leave these taxes unpaid and it has not been found possible to collect. A by-law is being prepared to provide that in any case of the June installment of taxes not being paid on the date due, the November installment will immediately become payable. The clerk is of the opinion that this will tend to lessen the amount of unpaid taxes.

CHINESE LAUNDRY RECEIPTS $16,250,000 IN YEAR

There are 12,500 Chinamen operating laundries in Ontario, according to information in the hands of the London Chamber of Commerce.

The gross receipts are estimated at around $16,250,000. It is contended that some 10,000 Canadians lose business by reason of these laundries, and an investigation into the laundry business in the province may be carried out this year.

MOULD, BACTERIA FOUND ON BARBERS' HAIR BRUSHES

Bristles, hair, epithelial scales, mould and bacteria were a few of the things discovered by investigators of the Institute of Public Health some days ago in a sample of hair brushes sent them by the health inspector and taken from barber shops in the city. In his last report to the board of health the inspector said that some of the shops had been very bad in this way, but added that as a result of his visits and the analysis of the institute many new brushes and combs had found their way into service in the city.

E. S. LITTLE TO REPRESENT LONDON MOTOR CLUB

E. S. Little will represent the London Motor Club at a meeting of the advisory committee in connection with highway administration work on June 14. The meeting will concern the government's financial responsibility toward all roads.

Among the questions taken up will be: The types of roads required, the regulation of traffic, to determine the advance of the urban municipality in road building, to determine the place of the motor, to determine who should pay for the roads.

BUSINESS NOT BRISK.

One speeder contributed his $10 and costs to Clerk Moule before police court opened this morning. Business has not been very brisk lately among the speeding fraternity of the city, from a court standpoint.

SANITARY INSPECTOR'S DUTIES ON INCREASE

With the coming of the hot weather the sanitary inspector is kept busy. His last report for the month of May shows that he inspected twenty-four groceries, twenty cafes and restaurants, thirty-two butcher shops, eighteen bake shops, sixteen laundries, eighteen barber shops, seventy dairies, four billiard halls, four hotels, three fish shops, twenty-four toilets, fifty stables and cellars, and also found time to make 130 miscellaneous inspections of one kind and another. He found eleven insanitary houses in the city, and had time to write forty-five letters dealing with his work. One feature of his report that evidently appealed to the board of health last night was that all the soda water and soft drinks now being produced in the city are made under sanitary conditions.

INDIGENT PATIENTS PRESENT A PROBLEM

Number Suffering From Diabetes Increases—Mayor Brings Up Question.

Indigent diabetic patients who are apparently rapidly increasing in number in the city will soon furnish a serious problem for the relief department of the city, according to the mayor.

He introduced the question last night at the board of health in connection with one particular case where an old man of seventy-two with diabetes was discharged from Victoria Hospital as fit for work, but as he had to live on a special diabetic diet and couldn't afford it, the city was asked to provide the means of life.

He is a resident in the House of Providence where it is impossible for him to get the diet and he is given street car tickets so that he can get all his meals at Victoria. This is an inconvenient problem for all concerned and the board will try to find some handy way in which this special diet can be provided for indigent patients in future.

Obituary

E. S. PALMER.

The funeral of E. S. Palmer who died in Byron Sanatorium on Sunday was held from the D. L. Outman Funeral Home this afternoon.

The services were attended by the Temple Masonic Lodge of Hamilton. Mr. Palmer was the resident of Hamilton but had been confined to Byron since his return from overseas.

Services were conducted by the Rev. Roy Mess. Interment was made in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

MRS. MARY BEDGOOD.

Mrs. Mary Bedgood, 364 Hale street, passed away at her home yesterday, June 9, at 10:30 a.m.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Hale Street Methodist Church on Thursday afternoon.

TOM PINCOMBE DENIES IMPERSONATING CHARGE

Tom Pincombe, arrested in London Township yesterday morning by Constable Wharton, and charged with impersonating a provincial police constable, maintains his innocence from his cell in the county jail. He alleges the high constable is "mixed" the wrong man, and that his brother is to blame.

Pending a report from Jail Physician Dr. James D. Wilson as to the prisoner's sanity, the high constable started out looking for more evidence in the case. He returned to his office this morning with a radio and it is alleged Pincombe got from a youth.

AGED MAN REFUSES TO LIVE WITH HIS SON

William McCoombs, 217 Maitland street, phoned Chief Birrell last night stating the aged father of Sam Kennedy, Ada street, Chelsea Green, was at his home. Constable Langford investigated the matter and found that Mr. Kennedy refused to go back to his son's residence, preferring to reside at 324 Grey street, where his wife is staying.

Neighbors of the Kennedys in Chelsea Green were searching for the old man last day yesterday, as he had disappeared from his home. The matter was reported to Chief Birrell by High Constable Wharton.

Earliest Barley Record Claimed

Special to The Advertiser.
Midway, June 9.—John Bell of Carriack claims the record for the earliest barley this season. He brought several stalks to town on Saturday that measured 25 inches in length and were already headed out. This surely is a record that few can beat.

HAPPY INSPIRATION BRINGS NO RESULTS

Man Who Sold House Suggests Assessment Cut So He Could Collect His Money.

One of the troubles of the assessment commissioner for the city is illustrated by the following story. A man came into his office today with the request that the commissioner would reduce the assessment on a certain piece of land and the house which stood on it.

Later during the conversation, it appeared that the man had sold the property together with the house to a workman who was now unable to meet the payments on it and that it was on at by reduction in the amount of the taxes that the vendor could get his price from the occupant.

The plan he hit on to get the price of the house, namely, by getting a reduction of the assessment, was a happy inspiration, but the commissioner was a broken reed as far as the man with the idea was concerned, and was only able to suggest that he buy the property back from the occupant so that he would have the house again and the other man's less taxes to pay.

Mr. McCann states that his telephone has been ringing constantly for several weeks with people wanting to know if old Romeo was on the job yet. The Zoo down over the hill may have black bears and buffaloes, but they aren't as intelligent as the finny wonder who has for 27 years seen the clear waters of the reservoir sweep from burs and beetles.

Mr. McCann states that he has never asked for a raise in salary, despite the fact that the program was a community song. The July meeting will be held at Bluevale.

Belmore W. I. Special to The Advertiser.

Midway, June 9.—The summer meeting of the Belmore branch of the Women's Institute was held Saturday afternoon. Mrs. T. Abraham gave a very interesting reading and a feature of the program was a community song. The July meeting will be held at Bluevale.

Members of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs will be included among the guests at the dinner which will be held at the Esch Avenue school on Thursday evening by the girl members of domestic science classes. A full course meal will be offered.

PURCHASE PIANOS.

Pianos will be purchased for two schools in the city. At the same time, a new piano will be purchased for the school at Riverview and another at Empress Avenue school.

COLLEGIATE EXAMS.

Collegiate examinations will be concluded in about 10 days. At the same time, the term of the school will be finished at that date as well. Public schools close on June 22, and entrance examinations will be started directly after Dominion Day.

MANY FARMERS LIKELY TO ATTEND CENTENNIAL

Railways Offer Excursion Rates For O. A. C. Celebration at Guelph.

A large number of district farmers are expected to take advantage of excursion rates of a fare and a half on both C. P. R. and C. N. R. for the semi-centennial celebration of the O. A. C. at Guelph.

Although R. A. Finn, of the department of the local branch of the O. A. C., was not present at the late last week's Middlesex farmers would make the trip to Guelph, he declared there would be a large attendance from this county. Tickets will be good on all trains, no special excursion train being chartered.

DATES OF SCHOOL FAIRS IN COUNTY ANNOUNCED

School fair dates for Middlesex County have been announced by R. A. Finn of the local branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. There will be ten fairs held under Mr. Finn's supervision.

The dates are as follows: Brimley, Sept. 15; Dorchester, Sept. 17; Appleton, 19th; Glenora, 24 and 25; Kerwood, 26th; Thorncliffe, Sept. 28 and 30; St. Johns, Oct. 1; Mount Brizley, Oct. 3; Adelaide, Oct. 7 and 8; Poplar Hill, Oct. 9.

The prize list has been slightly revised, Mr. Finn said.

TURKEY ON HOLIDAYS.

Turnkey Louis Warner of the county jail is the latest member of the jail staff to receive holidays. Warner, who is popular with both jail officials and prisoners alike, will receive a few extra days' leave as of official recognition of his efficiency in guarding Murrell, Topping and Williams during the long period they were confined in the jail.

W. J. BOSS IMPROVING.

W. J. Boss, prominent city contractor who broke his leg several weeks ago, is progressing favorably. Doctors are having trouble with a small bone in his leg that was broken and so far has eluded all efforts to be set. It is believed that his leg will have to be operated on or else Mr. Boss will limp the rest of his life.

Professors Favor Search For Mastodon At Simcoe

Search Field Near Wycombe For Further Traces of Monster.

TOOTH IS FOUND
Western University Men Are Much Interested in Development.

W. J. SMITH, JR., son of late W. J. Smith, of Smith, Son & Clarke, funeral directors, who died in Los Angeles on Sunday. His mother resides at 647 Waterloo street, this city.

Special to The Advertiser. Simcoe, June 9.—Dr. A. D. Robertson, professor of biology, and Professor J. W. Russell, professor of zoology, both of Western University, London, arrived in Simcoe today, and accompanied by Dr. W. A. McIntosh and Captain Ralph Smith, motored to Wycombe to examine the spot where the mastodon tooth was found that Dr. McIntosh recently presented to the Western University.

The tooth was found by Charles Hunter in a field on his farm near Wycombe. The field is covered with a black soil, obviously composed of vegetable matter, to a depth of two or three feet. Beneath this soil is a bed of hard quicksand, and the supposition that a mastodon had sunk in this quicksand seemed a very probable one.

The professors found the prospects of discovering other remains of a mastodon in this field quite promising, and will recommend that excavations be undertaken by the university in the near future.

Professor Russell is of the opinion that the date of the extinction of the mastodon is more recent than is generally believed. He thinks that the last of them were killed by Indians not more than 500 or 1,000 years ago. He refers to certain traditions among the Indians and to the remarkable state of preservation of some of the relics found, including the tooth found at Wycombe.

Mr. Hunter found the tooth between one and two years ago, and not knowing the significance of the find, gave it to Sidney Davis, who sold it to Dr. McIntosh for five dollars. Dr. McIntosh in turn presented it to the Western University a few months ago.

SCHOOL GROUNDS CAUSE OF DEBATE

Discussion Over Ruling On Control of School Play Grounds.

Short discussions on three or four matters that had been turned over at the last session of trustees and the passing of accounts occupied a brief session of the finance committee of the board of education last evening.

Six applications for positions on the public school teaching staff were turned over to Inspector Greer. At present there are no openings on the staff, though several changes have been made for the new term.

Trustee Mrs. Rose asked for a ruling on the question of school playgrounds. A complainant had been very angry when ejected from the grounds and wanted to know what special permission was needed. Secretary W. A. Tanner pointed out that a permit could be secured from the board's office any time if assurance was given that responsible person would direct any play after 6 o'clock in the evening.

The question had aroused some discussion among the visiting school grounds as people using the grounds after 6 o'clock were in danger of ejection by city policemen.

Trustee E. F. Copeland brought up the matter of public school support for a symphony orchestra, which was expected to appear in the city during October. A special performance for school children had been mooted in an effort to make the visit of a party of noted musicians more expensive. The matter will be taken up by the board if a request is made.

The committee recommended that as little publicity as possible be given to truancy cases, in order that wayward pupils get a good opportunity for a second chance.

DRAYTON WILL NOT RECEIVE ESTIMATES IMMEDIATELY

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, June 9.—There is no immediate prospect of supplementary estimates being brought down, judging from the answers given by Hon. J. A. Robb today to Sir Henry Drayton's request for information on the point. "I hope my friend won't press too closely for those estimates," said Mr. Robb. Sir Henry protested that he was serious, but Mr. Robb gave no further information.

Had a Weak Heart, Was Very Nervous, For Three Years.

Miss Jessie Peterson, Zealandia, Sask., writes: "I wish to let you know how much good Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me."

"For nearly three years I was very badly run down, had a weak heart, and was so nervous that sometimes I would almost faint away. "I heard of many people who had recommended your Heart and Nerve Pills, so I decided to give them a trial. After I had used two boxes I found they had done me good, and after having taken five boxes I was completely relieved."

"I cannot recommend your Pills enough, and I would advise anyone having a weak heart or troubled with nervousness to use them."

Milburn's H. & N. Pills are 50c a box, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Company Limited, Toronto, Ont.—Adv.

TECHNICAL PUPILS AWARDED PRIZES

Harry Reynolds, Elgie Walton and Louisa Johnston Receive Honors.

SHORT PROGRAM

Honors won by three students of the Technical High School were awarded yesterday afternoon, when a short program of speech-making was given before the assembled classes of all the school. Harry Reynolds, who won the intermediate Wossie athletic championship, was presented with a fine gold watch; Louisa Johnston, first in household arts, received a check, and Elgie Walton, most proficient of the school in draughting, was given a handsome set of draughting tools.

Shortly before 4 o'clock classes were assembled, and Principal H. B. Beal spoke briefly, in tribute to the pupils who had brought credit to the institution. Usually, he said, all presentations were made on commencement day in the autumn. There were special reasons why these three prizes be given out at the early date, however.

Chairman A. N. Udy of the advisory vocational education committee, was introduced to make the presentation to Elgie Walton. Mr. Udy remembered that the Technical School was handicapped without a symposium, but just the same had made a fine showing in athletics. The boys had done especially well under the handicap and had made good use of the privileges of the Y.M.C.A. He commended pupils who had excelled in other lines of work. "It all tends for better manhood and womanhood and for better citizenship. He then presented Walton with the handsome set of tools, donated by George S. Trudell.

Rev. J. Bruce Hunter presented Harry Reynolds with the gold watch, which had been provided for through subscriptions of students of the school in honor of Reynolds' success in the Wossie meet. Rev. Mr. Hunter lauded competitive sports and school studies, and held out the provisions made for Rhodes' scholarships as an aim for all students. "You are if you're working for such a scholarship and you will make better citizens," he declared. "Be a good sport, a hard worker and a cheerful loser."

Miss Louisa Johnston was presented with a check for $25 for greatest proficiency in dressmaking and millinery. The prize came from the firm of Smallman & Ingram. This also was presented by Rev. Mr. Hunter, who spoke with equal appreciativeness of the merits of household arts.

WILLIAM J. SMITH, JR., DIES IN LOS ANGELES

Former Londoner Passes Away After Long Period of Illness.

Word of the death of W. J. Smith, Jr., son of the late W. J. Smith of Smith, Son & Clarke, funeral directors, in Los Angeles, Sunday, has been received by his mother, Mrs. W. J. Smith, 647 Waterloo street, this city. Interment will take place this afternoon in Hollywood Cemetery.

The late Mr. Smith moved to Los Angeles six years ago, where he entered the furniture business. Following a slight operation a month ago, his health gradually grew worse, although his illness was not considered serious. Word of his death Sunday, therefore, came as a distinct shock to his family and will cause a feeling of deep regret over a wide circle of friends in London and district.

He was a member of St. John's Lodge, A. F. and A. M. of this city, and a member of a Los Angeles shrine, under whose auspices the funeral will take place from the residence of his sister, Mrs. W. J. Clarke this afternoon.

Besides his wife (nee Sanborn), he is survived by his mother, Mrs. W. J. Smith, St. Mary's, J. Clarke, and Miss Hanché, sisters, and two brothers, Joseph of Windsor and Jack of Cleveland.

DAUGHTERS OF EMPIRE JOIN THE G. W. V. A. IN TRIBUTE TO HEROES.

At a meeting of the executives of the C.E.F. Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire and the G. W. V. A. in the Duzout last night, it was decided to hold a joint parade of the two organizations on Decoration Day, Sunday, June 15.

The parade will start at 3 o'clock sharp and will march to Dundas street bridge, where it is planned to have cars meet them for the trip to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The Daughters of the Empire will place Union Jacks on all the graves of soldiers who are buried in this cemetery. The general public is invited to join in the activity, and anyone who wishes may decorate, but it is requested that all flowers be placed on the cross or at the head of the grave, as this will give room for the placing of the Union Jack.

The G. W. V. A. band will be in attendance and buglers from the R. C. R. will sound the "Last Post."

Crushing Defeat Encountered by Anti-Unionists As Faction Fails To Reach the One Hundred Mark in Any One of Three Ballots On As Many Resolutions.

PROVES TIDE FOR MOVEMENT IS RISING

Result of Voting To Voice Will of Church Parliament Before Parliament of Canada As Union Pact Comes Up For Ratification—Action of Committee Is Condemned.

DEMAND SPIRITUAL FREEDOM OF CHURCH

Special to The Advertiser
by a Staff Reporter

1924 For, 444; Against, 92.
1923 For, 427; Against, 129.

Owen Sound, June 10.—A clean, clear-cut, smashing victory for church union was the result of the vote in the Presbyterian General Assembly last yesterday afternoon when the commissioners, weary of the long-drawn-out debate, demanded a vote.

The parliament of Canadian Presbyterianism has spoken. It has given its fresh mandate to the parliament of Canada to put the official stamp on the pact of union that is to blend Congregationalists, Methodists and Presbyterians into one. If the legislators were waiting for a revised verdict from the church court it came with unmistakable force yesterday. It was a more even reach the hundred mark in any of their votes. It was more than four to one for union all the way.

The unionists, in fact, had gained in strength during the past year, though the assembly this year is very different in personnel from that of a year ago.

Reduced to percentages, the figures show that the unionists polled 82.8 per cent of the total vote of 536 this year, while out of the 556 votes recorded a year ago they got only 74.8 per cent.

Two Other Votes.

There were two other votes taken by the roll call method on the resolution of the union committee. They had just about the same victorious ratio as the first one, which was a counted vote.

The roll call votes were:
1.—On the motion affirming spiritual freedom of the church, and its right to restate faith and unite with other Christian churches: For, 412; against, 96.

2.—On the motion refusing to adopt amendments proposed at Ottawa which are declared to be an invasion of church rights, and asking for passing of the bill: For, 404; against, 93.

There are still two other motions to come before the assembly. One is to appoint Principal Gaudier and Dr. E. Leslie Pidgeon to vacant places on the church union committee, and the other to enjoin presbyteries and congregations to do all they can to carry out the union policy of the church. These are likely to be taken up today, and no doubt the anti-unionists will be cheering and shouting. There is likely to be a crop of amendments proposed, and the anti-unionists may seek to delay matters by demanding a roll call on each.

The balloting came before the unionist leaders had figured on it. They had calculated to face the vote today, but the rank and file of the friends of union got "fed up" on oratory, when nothing new was being said, and toward the end of the afternoon there were insistent calls for a vote.

Wants Secret Ballot.
Rev. Dr. Scott of Montreal, the 80-year-old anti-leader, tried to coax the assembly to vote by secret ballot, but they refused to listen to such a suggestion. It was a case where a man must stand up and vote in the open.

Just as the assembly was ready to vote on the Fraser amendment to leave the issue to the courts, Rev. Dr. Gibson of Woodstock rose and got in an amendment to instruct the committee to withdraw the bill for one year "and to ascertain the mind of the people in the light of recent developments, so as to prevent recurrence to the courts."

As the vote had been called for he was not allowed to make a speech, and only a dozen of the 536 delegates voted for it.

That was blow number one for the anti cause. The second was close on its heels. There had been some excitement and cheering and laughter when the first vote was taken. Even a little slip of a girl in the gallery yelled her joy at the result when the whole mass of the assembly stood up and cheered the motion.

Then Moderator Dr. MacKinnon arose. "Fathers and brethren," he said, "this is a matter which is sure to give pain to many of the brethren here. I would ask you to receive the result of the vote, whatever it may be, in silence." Applause followed this request.

Demand Count.
Before the Fraser amendment was put several voices demanded a count. The moderator asked them to stand. Ninety-two rose to support the amendment. Then the mass of the assembly rose against it.

"There goes the mob," exclaimed Rev. Dr. Banks Nelson, sitting on the steps of the platform, as the 444 arose.

"You don't need to count them," suggested Dr. Gibson.

But the moderator summoned reinforcements for the speaker and the commissioners were counted in sections. They stood so thickly together that it was a tricky task.

Then came the resolutions of the committee which Dr. Pidgeon had moved. Dr. Gibson suggested that no vote was needed in the first, everybody agreed with the affirmation of the spiritual independence of the church. But when the roll call came and the vote was taken, he lined up with the nays.

Each man had to respond "yes" or "no" when his name was called. Some refused to vote. Quite a number were absent. Some were weak voiced and some were lusty lunged. Some were so excited that they answered "Here!"

Fail to Vote.
Rev. Robert Johnston of Calgary, who made one of the spectacular speeches of the debate, did not vote on the first motion, but he did vote against the second, which rejected the Duff amendment. Rev. Dr. Jonathan Gifford, the veteran missionary, listened to the debate but missed the voting. Hon. D. Carmichael, who was a pleader for peace in the debate, also missed the roll-call.

The voting was a tedious piece of business and kept the commissioners very late for their dinner. The figures were not announced until the evening session, when home missions were on the program, and when Rev. R. B. Cochrane, one of the clerks, announced the tally, there was absolute silence after he finished.

The feature of the debate was the pithy summing up of the union case by Rev. Dr. Pidgeon, who told of the

London District Votes For Union

Special to The Advertiser.

Owen Sound, June 9.—London Presbytery was strongly for union when the voting test came in the general assembly last night. Ministers and elders combined voted 9 to 4 in favor, and one commissioner was absent. The yeas and nays were:

Yeas—Rev. W. G. Rose, Delaware; Rev. C. A. Malcolm, Lawrence Station; Rev. D. C. MacIntyre, London; Rev. Wm. Beattie, London; Rev. D. G. Paton, Glenora; P. J. Thompson, London; John C. McKay, Thamesford; Wm. Waddell, London; D. McKenzie, Hyde Park.

Nays—Rev. N. Stephenson, Anglican; Rev. John Hogg, London; W. Hyndman, West Lorne; James McKellar, Dutton.

Not voting—Dr. R. D. Dewar, Melbourne.

ever heard the words "peace" and "conciliation?"

"I have given myself over to pessimism in this matter," he confessed, "and fear that no weak words of mine can avail to make any difference."

Church or State?

"This movement has been of the Master Himself. He is leading us forward," declared Principal W. H. Smith of Westminster Hall, Vancouver. "Are we free to go forward?" Who is to decide our future course, the church or the state?"

He questioned whether the amendment introduced by Principal Fraser of Montreal was in order.

"We cannot compromise on the spiritual independence of the church of the living God," Dr. Smith insisted. The churches would be left free to restate their doctrines and interpret their creeds until all that was unworthy of Christ might be eliminated from them.

Rev. Dr. Robert Johnston of Calgary took part of his time to ask the assembly to rise and sing the first verse "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name."

"We are not divided," he declared, "we are one in hope and doctrine; any difference is in opinion, not in heart."

But he supported the amendment for delay in the hope of effecting a reconciliation. He declared that the legislators did not aspire to be dictators and lords over God's spiritual heritage.

Vision Lacking.
Some had caught the visions splendored of union, "and some of us have not caught it," he said; "some look at it as a will of the wisp. Do you want to cover the majority?" (Cries of "No, and we are not doing it.")

Dr. Johnston spoke of the anti-unionists "being dragged along at your chariot wheels," and he declared the argument regarding property rights: "They money perish with thee." Will it come to that?

"If it were not possible to concede them, they would part in good fellowship. If you must go we will drink at your nuptials with other denominations the rich wine of God's love, and if we must, will dance with holy joy at your union."

Conciliation Fails.
President Murray of the University of Saskatchewan declared himself a strong advocate of conciliation, but voiced the view that conciliation had failed, since the anti-unionists had had recourse to the courts.

He counselled his hearers not to listen to the siren note to the Lore, like some of those who talk union but vote otherwise.

Judge J. D. Swanson of Kamloops, B. C., switched in and broke the regular order of procedure. He said union as union was not the issue, it was whether the assembly approved of what had been done at Ottawa.

"We have heard much of the Scotch and the Scotch are not afraid of a fight either on the battlefield or in debate." (Applause.)

Parliament is the high court, and this issue should be decided there, not in the law courts.

He affirmed that great Christian patience had been shown in the attitude of the church to the minority. When he finished there were many cries of "Question," many wanted to vote.

With the fiery eloquence of his native Wales blazing through his words, Rev. W. T. Rees of Bateman, Sask., declared himself for union.

Emphatic Denial.
"For union?" a commissioner inquired that as a contract between the churches, as James R. Oliver had ascended the platform. The elder's response was an emphatic "No," which rang through every corner of the church.

Mr. Rodger deplored the violence of the language which the debate had brought forth. He inquired whether the union committee had borrowed money from church funds, and if so, under whose authority.

Mr. Rodger advocated, as a final effort toward conciliation upon the question of union, the appointment by the moderator of a committee of ten members from each side, eliminating those who had been in the forefront of the battle.

Half-dozen commissioners, including Rev. John McClung of Hamilton, one of the veterans of '75, were on their feet seeking to catch the moderator's eye as Mr. Rodger concluded. Rev. A. McTaggart of Calgary, however, seconded by W. T. Coote of Leduc, Alberta, moved that they be taken.

President Murray of Saskatchewan pointed out that it would be difficult to take the vote in fairness at the afternoon session. If the convener of the union committee were first given the half hour to which he was entitled for replying to the argument. The resolution for the taking of a vote carried, however.

Ask Vote By Ballot.
Dr. Enslin Scott, seconded by Dr. Banks Nelson, moved that the vote be by ballot. This point, however, was deferred until the conclusion of Dr. Pidgeon's address.

The question then arose upon what the vote was to be taken, whether upon the recommendations of the union committee as a whole, or only upon the first two recommendations. The moderator ruled that the vote was upon the first two.

President Murray suggested that each of the two be voted upon separately, which drew from Dr. Banks Nelson a protest.

ately, which drew from Dr. Banks Nelson a protest.

The moderator pointed out that upon demand of two commissioners resolutions which had been coupled in the debate must be voted upon separately. No time limit was fixed on Dr. Pidgeon's closing speech. He replied to Col. Carmichael's accusation of failure to try all conciliation moves.

"We did our best," he said, "and when the church was committed to union we could not in honor go back on that." (Applause.)

He pointed out that even the Westminster confession of faith enjoined Christians to reunite with all as far as God gives opportunity. To Privy Council.

"Our opponents have taken this matter to the Ontario high court, and they propose to take it all the way through to Privy Council. The word with this amendment are bound up together."

He told how concession after concession had been offered and rejected, some of them in scorn, and many being described as trivial.

"What can you do with men like that?" he asked, amid cheers and laughter. "And then they raise the cry of coercion."

"They have said the general assembly had not the power it assumed to have. They have said the people have no power. Now they say parliament has not the power. Next thing we shall have them telling us the courts have no power." (Laughter.)

"The period of the disintegration of Protestantism is passing, and the period of union is coming. The church in Canada is being asked to lead the way. Let us go forward and fulfill in Canadian history the purpose of our God." (Long and continued applause.)

PROSECUTIONS UNLIKELY

IN JAP DEMONSTRATION

Tokio, June 9.—Leaders of the "Great Forward Society" and the "Iron Heart Society" organizations, said to have fomented Saturday night's demonstration against the United States in the ballroom of the Imperial Hotel, were summoned before the chief of police today. They denied the demonstration was staged with any intent of intimidating or insulting foreigners, and declared they only wanted to shame the Japanese who were dancing there with a number of foreigners.

It is understood that the police believe the demonstration does not warrant any prosecutions.

M'GARRY OFFERING SETTINGS LAVISH

Bert Perry Plays Fine Role in Gorgeous Play At Grand.

PACKED HOUSE

The gorgeous courts of Louis of France and Henry the Eighth of England, with their luxurious habits and rich costumes, and in their midst a fiery little princess, Mary Tudor—all these are shown in the latest production of the Garry McGarry Players, "When Knighthood Was in Flower," presented last night at the Grand Theatre before an audience which packed the house.

No care had been spared to make the lavish settings adequate. At a great expense, the company has imported gowns which are worthy of the time in which the play has been set.

The drama itself is fraught with opportunities for delightful humor. The one character who dominates every scene is the wilful, hot-tempered Mary Tudor, sister of King Henry the Eighth, played by Miss Maude Fealy. Few actresses could have handled the role more skilfully. Although she plays the part of a serious scene in the drama, it was "Mary in a temper" which she gave magnificently. The scene in which the tailor is forcibly evicted when he enters at the king's command to measure Princess Mary for her wedding garments was superbly done, and was only surpassed by the clever way in which the actress impersonates Mary Tudor, wheeling the king to have her own way.

A pretty love story runs throughout the play, the love story of Mary Tudor and Charles Brandon, captain of the king's guard, and a commoner. That the love story has a happy ending, even after Mary has been forced to wed Louis of France, makes the play a pleasant one to see.

Henry Crosby, a newcomer this week, is an admirable Henry, the Eighth. His acting is characterized by restraint and dignity. In the role of Charles Brandon, Roger Pryor is again seen to advantage, while the other members of the company appear in interesting roles.

Special mention should be made of the very fine impersonation of Cardinal Wolsey by Bert Perry of this city. The role of Cardinal Wolsey is by no means a small one, and the giving of it by Bert Perry fits in with the company's policy of making an opportunity for local talent to appear upon the professional stage.

Goodwin and Miss Florence McDonagh were seen again among the players in small roles, which they played excellently.

Others appearing in the cast were Normal Wendell, Stanley A. Andrews, William Mauston, Bernard Pate, Gerald Judson, R. Carrington, Short, Jerome Kennedy, J. Summers, William Newman, Wilfred Banks, Alice DeLane, Jessica Paige, Evelyn Watson and Robert Lee Clark.

MISS MAUD FEALY ROTARIANS' GUEST

Says Public Demand Is Reason
For Existence of Spicy Plays.

At the Rotary Club luncheon in the Tecumseh Hotel yesterday the members had for their guest of honor Miss Maud Fealy, stage and screen star, who has been playing leading roles with the Garry McGarry Players at the Grand for the last two weeks.

Miss Fealy spoke of her stage career and her associations in America and abroad, and treated the Rotarians with a portion of the Mercy speech from the Merchant of Venice, saying that she gave it just as it was taught her by the late Sir Henry Irving. Miss Fealy's rich voice, with all the mellowness of the south, lends itself well to such passages, and the applause the artist received proved the appreciation of her audience.

Among those whose names are coupled with the footlights and screen, Miss Fealy spoke of Douglas Fairbanks, Cecil B. deMille, Sir Henry Irving, Sir James Barrie and Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

Regarding Douglas Fairbanks, she knew him when he took his first stage, and from Miss Fealy's mother in Denver, when the now wealthy and famous star was going to public school and studying elocution in preparation for a stage career.

Speaking of the theatre and its place in the world, Miss Fealy stated that in the theatre is necessary for mental relaxation, that all plays provide it, but the better grade of plays provide more than that. Speaking of the so-called "spicy" plays, the artist stated that such are not necessarily put on because the players like them, but because the public demands them and that as soon as the widespread demand for such entertainment ceased such productions would go to the scrap heap.

trays Actor At His Best.

VAUDEVILLE SCORES

Douglas Fairbanks, in one of his greatest pictures, "The Mark of Zorro," two mighty good vaudeville acts out of three, and a Ben Turpin comedy, "Ten Dollars or Ten Days," all tend to make the bill at Loew's Theatre for the first half of the week a whole heap better than the average.

To Fairbanks fans, the picture alone is worth the price of admission. The famous and popular "Doug" is seen at his best, and due to the extent of the ingenious story and the opportunities offered, he makes great use of his athletic ability.

"Doug" in Dual Role.
The background of the story is centered around early Southern California of nearly a century ago when its destinies were zealously guarded by the Spanish settlers.

It is a dual role that Fairbanks is called upon to essay. As Don Diego Vega, the young man, he leads a secluded life. He exhibits a fondness for the companionship of books and quietness and is amiable in disposition upon all occasions. Anything of an exciting nature was abhorrent to him and never was he found mingling with the populace in their various festivities. But when he became awakened to the oppression and persecution, without justification, of the natives by those in power, he felt that the time had already come to act. Disguised as Senor Zorro, he is seen executing various exploits practically unaided in the attempt to free his people from the despot's yoke. He becomes transformed into a veritable dynamo of boundless energy.

There is a girl in the story that really furnishes the strong love interest.

Oriental Dances.
Sonia Baraban and Charles Grohs, late stars of the musical comedy success "Tickle Me," made a wonderful hit last night with their Arabian and Indian dances. The scenery with the act is also worthy of most favorable comment. Jonathan Haw rounds out the offering with several songs in baritone voice that could hardly be improved on. He is a distinct acquisition to the act and more than deserved his share of the applause.

Ernie, Barton and Burke presented a bit of patter entitled "The Prince of Slang." The act lived up to its title, but the best part came at the finish, when the trio introduced a bit of music. More jazz and less patter would improve their offering, in the opinion of the movie critics, who sat both in front of and behind us.

STATES FILE PROTESTS AGAINST WATER WASTE

Associated Press Despatch.
Washington, June 9. — Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Indiana and Pennsylvania were granted permission by the United States supreme court today to file briefs in the case brought by the government against the sanitary district of Chicago to compel reduction in water withdrawals from Lake Michigan. The states desire to support the government.

Indigestion, Gas on Stomach, Pains After Meals

Many people suffer terribly from gas and pains in the stomach after every meal, and are kept in constant misery.

For the past 44 years Burdock Blood Bitters has been bringing hope and joy to thousands suffering from various forms of stomach trouble, helping them to eat three square meals a day—helping them to eat anything they wish without having to suffer for it after.

Mr. Fred Nielson, Moose Jaw, Sask., writes: "All last summer I was troubled with stomach trouble and indigestion, and also gas on the stomach. I could not eat anything except some light food, and even then I would be bothered with pains after each meal. I could not work a whole day without being done out. I had tried everything—doctors, medicines and pills—until I read about Burdock Blood Bitters. I have taken four bottles, and it has nearly, if not completely, restored me to health again."

"I was Greatly Distressed With Pains in the Back"

Mr. Alfred McNeill, Chapel Rock, Alta., writes:

"During the winter of 1920-21, I was greatly distressed with pains in my back and felt tired and depressed most of the time. Particularly during the night I was troubled with frequent urination, some nights having to rise almost every hour. I tried several different treatments without success, until finally I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and they relieved my condition before I had finished the first box. I am feeling better this summer than I have for years, and although in my 67th year, can work all day without any undue fatigue."

FLIER HITS AUTO NEAR CHATHAM

C. N. R. Eastern Runs Into Car Crossing Tracks—Driver Uninjured.

An accident last night about 6 o'clock, just outside Chatham, was enough to seriously alarm passengers on the C. N. R. Eastern Flyer, and might easily have resulted in a fatality.

The flier struck an automobile crossing the tracks from a private driveway, leading from a farm dwelling. The occupant was unhurt, although the front of the car was badly smashed. The rapidity with which the brakes of the train were applied undoubtedly averted a more serious mishap.

The driver of the car believed himself to have sufficient time to pass in front of the train, but the brakes jammed as the car reached the tracks.

YOUNG GIVEN COMPLETE ADMINISTRATION SWAY

Special Meeting Will Be Held To Consider Amendments To Bylaw.

DISCUSSION HEATED

Question Is Raised As To Exact Interpretation of "Plumber."

London's board of health vindicated its plumbing inspector last night when Gordon Wright, appealing against the fine of $20 imposed on him in April by Police Magistrate Graydon for failing to comply with the plumbing bylaw, objected to the administration of the plumbing bylaw by Inspector Young.

After two hours' discussion the board delivered its ultimatum that Inspector Young was in complete and absolute charge of administration of the bylaw. However, on the recommendation of Ald. Douglass a special meeting of the board will be called for Tuesday night, June 17, at which representatives of the master plumbers, the builder's exchange, the master mechanics, the Real Estate Owners' Association, together with the city architect and the city engineer will discuss the plumbing bylaw, and such amendments as are suggested by the board. This decision was in reply to a denunciation consisting of R. Y. Stinchcombe and John M. Parsons or the R. E. O. A. Ex-Alderman Palmer declared that the administration of the bylaw tended to hinder the development of plumbing in the workingman's house. In this case also the board defended its inspector and upheld his ruling and interpretation of the bylaw.

In taking up Mr. Wright's letter of complaint clause by clause it was decided to take no action in the matter of the remission of the fine, this being supported by Alderman Douglass, Dr. Downham and the mayor.

Form Criticized.
Mr. Wright in his letter stated that no self-respecting citizen would agree to the application form which states that the plumber must do all the work and supply all the materials. On this point the right of the evening centered. The mayor, and Alderman Towse, who while not a member of the board spoke as a citizen, declared that a plumber was simply a plumber as the wording of the form stated, while Alderman Douglass and Chairman Mitchell held the view that a plumber might be interpreted to mean anyone, preferably the owner of the house, who was engaged in putting in the plumbing in the house, to which the form referred.

Here Plumbing Inspector Young told the board that the wording of the application form was exactly the same as was used in Toronto, and that in any case it was not substantiated by the bylaw. He added that he had never at any time asked anyone where they bought their materials or who was the plumber they employed.

Alderman Towse reiterated his interview with James Haslett and vouched for the fact that Mr. Haslett had told him that plumber meant plumber in the professional sense, and did not mean the owner of the house or anyone else. "If that's the case," he stated, "then I wouldn't sign the form either and I think Mr. Wright was right in refusing to do so. I see its introduction in the form simply as camouflage."

Chairman Mitchell told the board that the city solicitor had given an opinion that "plumber" in the form could mean the owner, and that he personally accepted this opinion.

Chairman Mitchell and Alderman Douglass insisted on the administration of the bylaw as written, it was finally agreed that the inspector be left unhampered in carrying out the law.

Brings Up Question.
Mr. Palmer brought up the question which he aired at last council meeting of some plumbing which was done in one of his cottages at 19 Rectory street which he said would cost him so much to comply with the instructions of the plumbing inspector that he would have to forego it. He asked for permission to go ahead with the work irrespective of the instructions of the plumbing inspector.

He also declared that he had never signed the application form referred to by the inspector for permission to have plumbing done, and remarked that in this case he was just as liable to a fine as Mr. Wright. The mayor was in the same position and Inspector Young explained that the name was often filled in by the plumber doing the work.

In the course of his plea Mr. Palmer challenged the board to show a single case in the city of death from sewer gas poisoning, but added that there had been several deaths from coal gas the result of improperly connected furnaces, and advised the board to look into it.

In the routine business of the board it was decided to ask the public utilities commission to clean the drinking fountains in the city about which a citizen complained saying that they were dirty and unsanitary. The matter of the Grey street sewer was turned over to the sanitary inspector on whose recommendation only any action will be taken. This was a case where some of the residents on this street complained that the sewer was backing up and flooding their cellars. The sanitary inspector declared that the seepage into these cellars was clear and not unsanitary.

A certain dairyman on Clarence street who has not complied as fully as the board wishes with its orders will be treated in future without kid gloves and will have to amend his way of handling milk or prohibited from selling it.

A recommendation will be sent by the board to the provincial board of health outlining the system in vogue in London of selling second-hand mattresses to Toronto firms who remake them and offer them again for sale.

A letter was received from a George E. Smith asking for the position of plumbing inspector, and was filed. "I wonder whose friend he is," asked Alderman Douglass as he read the letter.

BAPTIST CHURCH BURNS MORTGAGE

Maitland Street Congregation Celebrates Occasion in Fitting Manner.

The seating capacity of Maitland Street Baptist Church was taxed to its limit and chairs placed in the aisle last night for the special service in observance of the church's eighteenth anniversary, but more particularly in honor and rejoicing over the freeing of the church property from debt and for the burning of the mortgage.

The gathering was highly inspirational and mingled throughout the varied program, presided over by the pastor, Rev. Dr. A. T. Sowerby, were feelings of rejoicing and thanksgiving. Dr. Sowerby's prayer and that of each individual member who had assisted in lifting the final payment of $4,600 during the past two years was in every way pardonable. Philip Edwards, the oldest living member of the congregation, held the mortgage while the candle setting fire to it was held by Mrs. John McLaughlin, the oldest active worker. Grouped about them were Dr. Sowerby, Mr. Carew, Frank Laing and Sam McFarlane, both original members of the first church, and W. J. Westervelt, A. J. Morgan, C. Tesie and J. C. Doidge, trustees of the church property.

$5,456 Was Raised.
When called to the platform to report "progress" with the campaign to raise the $4,600 necessary to wipe out the indebtedness against the property, John C. Doidge surprised even the most optimistic by stating that the total amount raised was $5,456. This sum was made up as follows: Ladies' Aid, $1,082.25; C.G.I.T., $250; B.Y.P.U., $242.22; B.Y.P.U., $180.12; Tuxis boys $80, choir $165, Sunday School $145, Tak-Ko-Dah class $85, True Blues $50, Unity class $50, calendar scheme (a cent a day per annum) $1,371, and bonds of investment.

WOMAN SICK TWO YEARS

Caused by Troubles Women Often Have—Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Medina, New York.—"I had a great deal of trouble such as women often have. I was sick two years. I suffered my nerves. For over two years I suffered this way, then I read in the Buffalo Times about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and have taken it with very good results. I am very much better and feel justified in praising the Vegetable Compound to my friends and neighbors who suffer from anything of the kind."—Mrs. Wm. H. ADKINS, 811 Erin Road, Medina, N. Y.

Feels Like Girl Sixteen
Rochester, N. Y.—"After my twin girls were born I was all run-down. My neighbors thought I was going to die. I saw your advertisement in the paper and bought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The first bottle helped me and I kept on taking it. I only weighed ninety pounds when I began taking it, and I have gained in weight and feel like a girl of sixteen. I never can say enough for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. NELLIE DOREY, 16 Seuse Park, Rochester, N. Y.

Cure For Cancer Said Premature

Dr. J. T. Glover Regrets News War Made Public.

San Francisco, Calif., June 10.—Announcement at this time that the cause of cancer had been discovered and a "remarkably successful" cure evolved is premature, it was declared in a statement issued last night by Dr. J. T. Glover, who is staying at a local hotel. The statement expressed regret that the announcement had found its way to the papers at this time.

"Any further statement from me, or any discussion of this subject will be before a body of members of my profession," it concluded.

No statement as to the reason for Dr. Glover's visit here, or his plans at this time were made.

Tells Church's History.
A short resume of the history of Maitland Street Church since its earliest beginning, over 45 years ago, was given by Mrs. John McLaughlin, one of the members of the original church. James Bracken, now pastor of Houghton Street Baptist Church, Hamilton, first organized a cottage Sunday school for the children of the district, the sessions being held in the home of a Mr. Hewson, corner of Center and Victoria streets. This school grew to be a mission of Talbot Street Baptist Church, being organized as a separate congregation in July, 1887, with thirteen members.

The first four preachers were McMaster students—T. W. Hyland, J. Howard, A. Bullen and H. Armstrong, following whom, in order, were: C. F. Gay, M. E. Shide, T. W. Charlesworth, D. G. Boone, C. M. Carew, Sen. J. Hawkins, S. G. Pincock, G. N. Norton and Dr. A. T. Sowerby, the present beloved pastor. The church has sent out as ministers or missionaries Charles Evans, Miss Sadie McNece and J. D. McLoughlin. The present fine edifice was built in the year 1906, at a cost of $12,000, including the lot.

The musical program during the evening included two splendid numbers by a mixed quartet, consisting of Miss C. Wright, Miss V. Williams, D. Payne and Charles Burnett; a male quartet by William Dorey, C. Burnett, C. Shorten and T. Yull; two anthems by the church choir of twenty voices, under Organist George Snider; a duet by Mr. and Mrs. R. Chalcraft, and two outstanding numbers by a 16-piece orchestra under the direction of Prof. Morris Somerset, a young Norwegian musician, who will bear watching in London musical circles.

Greetings and congratulations were tendered the congregation on its wonderful achievement by the pastors of sister churches in the city, including Rev. Dr. Bowley Green, Talbot Street; Rev. Lloyd Holland, Adelaide Street; Rev. W. J. Thompson, Wortsley Road; Rev. Alfred Burgess, Egerston Street; Rev. George Young, Kensington Park; Rev. James Hamilton and Rev. Thomas Charlesworth, retired. Speeches were made also by Rev. Mr. Carew, now of Fenelon Falls, and J. Morgan, treasurer of the congregation.

EDWIN PARKHURST DIES.

Toronto, June 10.—Edwin R. Parkhurst, well-known musical writer of the Toronto Globe, died this morning at Wednesley Hospital, where he had been ill for about two weeks. He was in his 77th year.

RHEUMATISM GONE TOO, SAYS MONTREAL LADY

Mrs. Perron Suffered for Four Years — Neighbor Recommended Tanlac, and It Brought Relief.

"Tanlac has made life a pleasure to me and I will always praise it," is the grateful statement of Mrs. Evelyn Perron, highly esteemed and popular resident of 184 St. Laurent St., Montreal, Que.

"What I suffered from rheumatism in my arms and shoulders for four years can't be described. At times I could neither raise my hands to my head, put on my gloves, or write a letter for the pain and swelling.

I actually dreaded for night to come, for I was so nervous and racked with pain that sleep was almost impossible.

"I was just about to give up hope when a neighbor advised me to try Tanlac, and it has done what nothing else would do. I have not had a touch of rheumatism in weeks, and my nerves are as steady as nerves can be. In fact, I am feeling so well that I am, indeed, happy that I took Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Has La Follette a Chance?

The presidential possibilities in United States settle largely into speculation on the chances of Coolidge for the Republicans and McAdoo for the Democrats. The name of Senator R. M. La Follette of Wisconsin continues to elbow its way into the discussions, and is not as easily brushed aside as either of the old parties might desire. The Democrats, their chief strength being in the south, hold that La Follette will draw his following from territory that has heretofore been Republican, especially in the northwest states, but the Wisconsin senator is likely to beat a drum that the disgruntled ones in Democratic strongholds cannot fail to hear.

La Follette is strong in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, Nebraska, Montana and Washington. He has the western farmers behind him; he is assured of a large following from organized labor, and, strange as it may seem, reports indicate that the same interests that called for Henry Ford to be president are favorable to La Follette.

La Follette is not the smooth type of politician; he has not the personality that draws men to him. In place of that he's the hard-hitting, tub-thumping type who appeals to the disgruntled. There is a large and a growing feeling in United States that centralized wealth and influence, represented in Wall street, has the key that can unlock the side door of either of the old political citadels in United States. This belief finds expression in the opinion that there is little difference between Democrats and Republicans, and that it is simply a battle between the ins and the outs. La Follette is a keen enough student of practical politics to recognize the existence of this sentiment and to address himself to it as the one man to fight centralized financial power and its control of both old line political parties.

The tenets of his political faith are developing. He is a protectionist, but he voted straight against the Fordney tariff. Right now he is calling upon Congress to remain in session to attend to the demands of the farmers, and to reconsider all assessments made against new settlers. He knows that Congress will adjourn very shortly without doing any of these things. It will provide him with an excellent variety of ammunition, and he knows enough to put the fuse in at the right end and to shoot where firing will be most effective.

Business is not as good as it was in United States, and if it continues on the way down it will create an atmosphere in which a campaigner of the La Follette type can do his most effective work.

The Wisconsin senator had his eye on the presidency before. It was he who started the movement against Taft, which resulted in the formation of the Progressive party. But once the coach had been set in order Roosevelt was quick to see that it was a fairly good cart, and it was he, and not La Follette, who rode it to Washington.

Senator La Follette may turn out to be a dismal failure in the end. It will be his last chance, because he is not many miles from the three score years and ten mark. But he is making the most of it. His weakness lies in the fact that he has no great outstanding issue on which to call his followers, but he is making up for that by calling to his colors all who are disgruntled with both parties. It remains to be seen what sort of a barn he can raise with this material, and the testing time will come when the rains of the November election beat upon it.

London, the Travellers' Center.

London was signally honored, and its importance as a great distributing center duly recognized, in the selection of this city as a place to hold the convention of the United Commercial Travellers of America.

The traveller is essentially a business getter. It is his work to be eternally on the trail of orders and still more orders. In this age of keen competition his work is increasingly strenuous. But give a traveller an article of merit, one that is well and honestly advertised, and he will go out, and from the sources of trade in the cities, towns, villages, and away out on the cross corners, produce the orders that keep business going.

He is out on the firing line all the time. It is the traveller who can first sense a depression or an improvement in business; it is he who gets the complaints and now and then the bouquets for a good service his firm has performed. He is, in a very real sense, the whole company as far as his customers are concerned, for he is very often the only man from the head office the merchant meets.

London is a travellers' city. There are 950 of them working out of here, and there is not a city, town or village in the Dominion that is not covered by a traveller from this city. It is a great organization, the very pulse of trade.

Why the Farmers' Organize.

The appearance of Hon. E. C. Drury at Pond Mills a few days ago, and his reference to various farm organizations, has given some of the newspapers in the province a chance to have another fling at the Farmer government in Ontario.

The U. F. O. government in Ontario was not a perfect governing body. Unfortunately we have not reached that stage in any department of endeavor. It was exclusive in its membership, and was open to criticism on that score.

Some of its ministers left records that will have to be justified before the courts. The charge is levelled at them that once in office they forgot the people who sent them there, and became obsessed with the idea of looking after their own interests. The future will tell to what extent those charges have been substantiated.

But the farmers' entrance into the field of practical politics was something more than that. It was the move on the part of the farmers themselves to focus attention on their situation as a class. That is why it was easy for them, to use a phrase much in evidence at the time, to feel the sense of class consciousness. They had the same problem. The farmers in Middlesex or Lambton had to meet the same baffling conditions as farmers in central or eastern Ontario, some hundreds of miles away.

That is why the farmer movement deserved more consideration at the hands of the public and through the columns of the press than an ordinary political upheaval. It was purely an effort to right very apparent wrongs, and it did not aim at inflicting a hardship on any other class in the community.

The fact that the conditions which called the U. F. O. into existence have not been set right can mean only one thing, and that is that the agitation will have to continue. The farmers have tried co-operative action, and they have proved the bona fides of their intention by sinking their own money in many of these schemes. Unfortunately there has been a confusion of effort through the attempt in many cases to sell to the farmers rather than centralizing in an attempt to create an agency to dispose of farm produce to advantage.

It is easy enough to sit back and criticize, and Hon. E. C. Drury has had his full share of criticism. He made his contribution to the effort to right the wrongs that have seized the farmers of Ontario; he had no ulterior motive in so doing. He was called in to head up a government that came into power on a few days' notice, and he had to work with the material at hand.

It is no reflection upon the ex-premier or the U. F. O. movement that it failed to do for the farmers of Ontario what its sponsors had hoped for. There were wrong conditions to be remedied, and many of these conditions remain as unfavorable as they were; in fact some of them are even more aggravated. There is still plenty of reason for the existence in even a more efficient and determined form of the farmers' organization.

Has Glover Found the Cure?

It is announced from Philadelphia that Dr. Glover, who had a spectacular career treating cancer in Toronto a few years ago, has discovered the cause of the disease, and has proceeded a long way in finding the proper treatment.

It is to be hoped that there is the touch of positive fact in this report. It is to the credit of Glover that he has buried himself in a laboratory for almost four years in an effort to fight out one of the most baffling problems facing the medical world.

Unless the treatment can stand the gruelling to which the medical world will subject it, it cannot be accepted as real. It would be a cruel hoax to allow it to gain a position that could not stand the acid test in the fight on this monstrous disease.

On the other hand, if Dr. Glover has succeeded in cornering the germ that causes cancer, and has taken the next logical step in finding the sure method of its extermination, then the world waits to honor him. Until there is something definite, the public will take an attitude of hopeful anticipation.

London Athletes Do Well.

London athletes did well in the try-out for the Olympic team at Toronto. H. Coursey won the 400-metre event (a metre being 39.37 inches). Ken Hunter was winner in the 800-metre event. They were pitted against the best athletes of the Dominion.

It is interesting to note that in addition to the speed events the old hop, step and jump is being revived in the Olympic games. It is like a page torn from the stirring events of the old Caledonian games. At the Toronto meet the event was won by a Scot from Parkdale, McKenzie. He cleared 42 feet, all but one inch. It hardly makes a world record, but it was not far from it. That means that in each movement of this famous old trio he would clear on an average 14 feet, or the width of an average room in a house.

The beauty of such old-time events is that the boy who chooses to jump in the barnyard has as good a chance as the lad who trains in the city. Practice and persistence bring results wherever they are applied.

There has been a revival of good outdoor sports recently, and it is good. It calls upon the young man to get fit and keep fit. It forces him to live simply and avoid loose habits. The keen mind and the sound limb that carries him to success in athletics will become a great asset to him when he faces the sterner affairs of business.

Note and Comment.

Peterborough is worried about band concerts in the park because auto make so much noise. Surely the bass drum and the trombone can hold the fort against all comers.

The statement of the fathers of Loeb and Leopold, the Chicago youths held for murder, that only a limited amount will be spent on their trial, is commendable. If they are sincere in this attitude, it is the one bright spot that has so far appeared in an ultra sordid event.

Business trouble and family misfortune have seized upon Harry Pepall of Toronto. He is one of the officials of the Jarvis Company, now waiting to face trial at the time when the case of Hon. Peter Smith is called. His wife and two children were burned to death in a fire at his summer home. Few men are called upon to have so much trouble written in their chapter in so short a period.

A Magician Among the Spirits

"Kellar turned to him and said: 'What is your name?' 'Jim Mass,' he replied. 'That is not your right name,' Kellar retorted. 'Your right name is James Cropsey.' 'It is a lie,' said Mass.

"Oh, no, it is not a lie, for I see before me your name. I see that your father has just died of a broken heart because of your behavior. I see your mother writing to that effect, begging you to come home and be her son again. I see the grave of your father and on the tombstone is inscribed 'James Cropsey'."

"Kellar came out of the trance and Mass sprang up exclaiming: 'My God! you have told me things that only the Almighty and I know.' 'Kellar claimed to Mass that he did not know anything that had transpired in the trance. The following day a letter came from Mass' mother telling him of the death of his father."

"This fully convinced him of Kellar's mediumistic powers to such an extent that when, a few days later, Kellar told him it was all a fake Mass refused to believe it. 'Kellar explained to him that while in Manila a few weeks previous he had met an American traveller who knew of the circumstances and had told him all that he had repeated to Mass in the supposed trance.'"

This is an extract from Harry Houdini's recent book, "A Magician Among the Spirits." It is a book upon which Houdini has concentrated thirty years of his life.

He approaches the subject of spiritualism from a new viewpoint, that of a master magician. Beginning with the Fox sisters, he discussed in detail the work of all the mediums from 1845 to Sir Conan Doyle today.

Although he has the utmost respect for the honest belief of any person, he is the relentless enemy of deliberate fraud.

Whether there be anything in spiritualism or not we will leave the advocates of that faith to discuss.

The gist of the whole matter lies in what Houdini explained to me once at a dinner when he said:

"I do not know of a single trick in spiritualism that I could not perform."

Houdini sums the whole belief up as follows: "Sir Arthur Conan Doyle thinks I have great mediumistic powers and that some of my feats are done with the aid of spirits. Everything I do is accomplished by material means, humanly possible no matter how baffling it is to the layman. I have no desire to discredit spiritualism; I have no warfare with Sir Arthur; I have no fight with the spiritualists, but I do believe that it is my duty for the betterment of humanity to place frankly before the people the results of my long investigation of spiritualism. So far I have never, on any occasion, in all the seances I have attended, seen anything to make me credit a mediumistic performer with supernatural aid. Nor have I ever seen anything that has convinced me that it is possible to communicate with those who have passed out of this life."

It would seem that the magician is not only to amuse us and entertain us by tricks, but that he also does good service to humanity by exposing those who attribute their trickery to supernatural causes.

Speakin' About Cheese

A piece of cheese, which was brought into the courtroom at Toronto, was ordered out by Mr. Justice Middleton.—News item.

Let's raise a toast unto this judge, let's sound his name in every port, for holdin' steadfast to the law, and chasin' cheese from out the court.

Some folks they're keen on cheese like that, that hollers at you six blocks off, but honor to the sober minds who smell a cheese like that and scoff, and order that it be removed and locked up in a padded cell, where it can bump its head about and jump and skip and smell and yell.

I can't see why the folks prefer a cheese with manners such as that, it is the kind that scents the house, grows blisters on the family cat.

And yet I knew a chap just once for cheese like that he yelled encore, they got a shutter and four men, they carted him from out the door.

When I go to the corner store, I like the cheese what's quiet and tame, refuse to buy the clan that travels with some fancy name. I say, Nay, nay, unto the kind with taste and prices in the sky, the kind that jumps from off the shelf and bravely swats you in the eye.

The experts say it's in the cure that cheese is either good or bad, a showman that the lils of some they must have been most awful bad.

Let's vote for that Toronto judge, his judgment's sound as Christmas bells, he knows as how a cheese is rank a-judging by the way it smells. Away with things like that to eat, we'll bury it beneath the wall, poor cheese that gets so awful sick it never could get cured at all.—ARK.

NEW OBSERVATION SLEEPERS FOR THE INTERNATIONAL LIMITED.

Canadian National Railways. The International Limited is probably the best known train in Canada among the travelling public. It has for upwards of twenty-five years made its daily run between Montreal, Toronto, Detroit and Chicago, and is known as "Canada's Train of Superior Service." It is an "extra fine train with an extra fare." In keeping with its record new equipment is from time to time added to maintain its superiority, the latest additions being three new observation sleeping cars, built by Pullman construction.

The interior finish of these cars is Circassian walnut, seats upholstered in blue plush, carpets of butternut and oak leaf pattern, making a most pleasing and harmonious combination. An innovation in these cars is the introduction of mountain type permanent Pullman head boards between the berths, which makes for additional privacy both day and night. Both ladies' and men's wash rooms are commodious, with all latest conveniences. The observation end is nineteen feet in length by ten feet wide, with twelve easy chairs, writing desk and library desk. These all-steel cars are most complete in every detail, beautifully lighted, vapor heated and will add to the comfort of International Limited patrons.—Advt.

To the Editor

Case of the Colored Men.

London Writer Asks What Is To Be come of Men If They Are Not Allowed to Work.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—Mr. Tommie Church, M.P., from Toronto, has filed certain questionnaires in the House at Ottawa which are, to say the least, interesting to us colored folk.

He asks if it is true that negroes are brought over from the States and employed in the capacity of porters, waiters and cooks on the C. N. R. and C. P. R. railways. He asks why these positions are not given to the hundreds of returned white soldiers, who are walking the streets unable to find employment. He further wants to know what the government intends to do about it, if it is all true.

Of the thousands and thousands of men employed by the Canadian railways, about 200 are colored men—all of whom are employed as cooks, waiters and porters. Out of these 200 colored men, about 20 are from the States, the remaining 180 being either Canadian born or British subjects, many of whom are returned soldiers. Furthermore, it is well known that only 2 per cent of the white waiters and cooks on the C. N. R. and the C. P. R. are Canadian born or even British subjects. If it is simply a matter of filling these positions with returned men rather than a matter of color prejudice, our government can recall from the States hundreds of colored war veterans who have gone there and have secured positions there. If it is an attempt to freeze out American citizens, we would remind Mr. Church of the thousands of Canadian boys who have secured remunerative and even lucrative positions there.

Aside from a possible one or two letter carriers in the employ of our larger cities the only places opened to colored men in Canadian government employment is a few, a very few, positions as waiters, cooks and porters on the government owned roads. Who would be so narrow as to wish these few doors of opportunity to be closed to a race which is already so proscribed against that it can hardly eke out an existence?

A Toronto Opinion.

Editor of Sanitary Age Deals With Some of the Charges in London Plumbing Case.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—On page 18 of the May 16 issue of The Sanitary Age there was an item wherein a citizen of London had been summoned to court on a charge, laid by Plumbing Inspector Young, and fined $25 for installing plumbing without permit.

Since then the matter has been taken up by the London Real Estate Owners' Association and they have launched a campaign against the London plumbing bylaws and have also insisted that Plumbing Inspector Young be dismissed "as a proven menace to our city's best interests and an unwarranted expense."

One accusation is that the bylaws were framed by the plumbing contractors. We are just wondering whether the law, "that all containers in which poison is sold by the druggists must be labelled as such," was framed by any other body of men than those connected with the medical profession.

Bylaws come on the statute books as a means of protection to those who do not realize the vital importance of such laws sufficiently well to protect themselves and others.

Plumbing bylaws are for the protection of the public health along lines which are laid down as a result of established practice and experience. They offer relief to the public in that the public then know that all ordinary human precaution is being taken to insure them of the most healthful surroundings and the longest period of protection.

It is thought that plumbing laws of the city of London do not give the utmost of public protection, then there are many other plumbers who will be found better fitted to answer to their conscience than the one not identified with the industry can hope to be.

In saying that the property-owners are meted out a year or two of thousands of dollars a year we might quite easily do away with sane plumbing legislation and have in its stead a form of blackmail and insanitary conditions, which will mulct the property-owners of many times this amount by way of added sickness and a higher rate of deaths from fever.

We disagree most strongly with the statement that even the simplest plumbing operations have increased 400 per centum, and make out one qualification for our disagreement. That qualification is that the cost may have increased by that percentage if we take two factors into consideration.

The second is that during that period any community has seen fit to change from the best of sanitary conditions to the doing of plumbing as defined and laid down as safe plumbing practice.

Throughout the entire country the competition of the last few years has been so great that the plumbing fraternity, at least, have been too busily engaged in business to have entered into any such agreements in the way of combines as suggested by the Real Estate Owners' Association.

In London particularly the best of feeling has not existed between the various plumbing operators, so that, in place of getting together, they have been very seriously plowing their own furrows as individuals.

The time-worn custom of riding the plumber still exists. It provides the thrill when other trades are lacking. Perhaps once in a thousand times it has enough substance to be of some value to the community. Most times the ridicule or derision only makes the public think less of plumbing and an occupation for their family. The resultant shortage of those willing to work in the business, in the face of public derision, means less mechanics to the plumbing, and therefore higher plumbing cost to the public. In the final analysis no good is accomplished.

INCREASED RATES TABLED IN HOUSE

Order Is Based On Report of Civil Service Commission.

SCHEDULE GIVEN

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, June 9.—An order-in-council embodying the increased rates of pay granted to postal employees was tabled in the House of Commons at 1:30 this morning just before adjournment. The order is based on the report of the civil service commission, dated May 8. This order has in the meantime been submitted to the board of audit, and upon being again referred to the civil service commission, that body has reported that "the rates of compensation therein proposed are just and equitable," and has again submitted them for consideration by the cabinet. The schedule of increases contained in the order-in-council is as follows:

Postal helper: Annual salary, now $780 to $1,260; to be $1,020 to $1,260, without cost of living bonus. This class is to absorb classes of letter-carriers' helper and postal garage helper.

Letter carriers: Present annual rates, $780 to $1,260; proposed rates, $1,050 to $1,440, without cost of living bonus, but with allowance of uniform and boots.

For Senior Men.

Senior letter carriers: Present annual rate $1,320 to $1,440; proposed rate $1,500 to $1,620, without cost of living bonus, also allowance for transportation omitted.

Letter carrier overseer: Present rate, $1,500 to $1,620; proposed rate, $1,580 to $1,800, without cost of living bonus.

Letter carrier supervisor: Present rate, $1,740 to $1,980; proposed rate $1,860 to $2,100.

Postal clerk: Present rate, $840 to $1,500; proposed rate, $1,050 to $1,680, without cost of living bonus.

Postal clerks in postoffices under grade 7 and in offices of district superintendents, and those in other offices engaged in dead letter, money order or postage stamp work shall not proceed beyond $1,560 per annum. In city postoffices of grade 7 or higher no postal clerk shall proceed beyond $1,560 until after passing a major sortation test.

Senior postal clerk: Present rate $1,560 to $1,800; proposed rate $1,740 to $1,920, without cost of living bonus. This class is also to include assistant supervisors or city mail transport.

Principal postal clerk: Present rate $1,800 to $2,280; proposed $1,980 to $2,280, to include supervisor of city mail transport.

Railway Clerks.

Railway mail clerk: Present rate $850 to $1,560; proposed $1,080 to $1,740; without cost of living bonus, but with allowance of one cent a mile for distance actually travelled on duty.

Postal information clerk: The only change noted is that cost of living bonus shall not be paid.

Postal chauffeur: Present rate $900 to $1,260; proposed, $1,140 to $1,440, uniform and boots allowed, but not cost of living bonus.

Postal garage repairman: Now $1,260 to $1,380; proposed, $1,440 to $1,560, allowance for uniform, but no cost of living bonus.

Postal garage foreman: Present $1,440 to $1,560; proposed, $1,620 to $1,740; no cost of living bonus.

Postal garage supervisor: Present, $1,560 to $1,800; proposed, $1,740 to $1,980; no cost-of-living bonus.

Postal garage superintendent: Now $1,920 to $2,400; proposed, $2,040 to $2,400.

Principal transfer agent: No, $1,560 to $1,800; proposed, $1,740 to $1,980; no allowance for uniform men and no cost of living bonus to be paid.

Supervisor of mails (grade 3 office) new class, $2,400 to $2,520, to absorb supervisor of mail despatch and of city mail delivery in this class of office.

Supervisor of mails (grade 3 office) new class, $2,280 to $2,520; to absorb supervisor of mail despatch and of city mail delivery in this class of office.

"Employees' salaries," the order-in-council concludes, "under this schedule shall be determined by placing the employee in a corresponding rate in a new salary range to that of the old salary range—that is, an employee at the first rate in the old salary range will go to the first rate in the new salary range and an employee in the fourth rate in the old salary range will go to the fourth rate in the new salary range, effective April 1, 1924."

FORMER LONDON BOY TAKES OVER BIG WORK

A recent issue of the Ashland Daily Independent contains a complimentary write up of the work of Alan H. Ferguson, formerly of London, son of the late John Ferguson and grandson of the late James H. Ferguson, in connection with the work of the boy scouts in that city. Mr. Ferguson, who is a graduate of the London High School, is employed in the engineering department of the Dwight P. Robinson Co. of New York, and leaves Ashland for New York to handle a $1,000,000 contract. While in Ashland Mr. Ferguson was successful in accomplishing the organization of the headquarters troop and in the working out of a mobilization whereby each scout in city could be gotten in touch with on very short notice. He was also instrumental in having a scout cabin built for the troops on a farm property.

LONDON SHRINER RETURNS FROM KANSAS SESSION

William Abbott and Mrs. Abbott arrived home last night from Kansas City, where Mr. Abbott has been attending the Imperial Council of Shriners. Kansas City Shriners staged one of the most sumptuous and successful carnivals on record for the entertainment of the visitors. Mr. and Mrs. Abbott and Frank Thompson were the only Londoners there, Jared Vining having been unable to leave the city.

The Kansas City hosts honored the wives of all visitors with silk and handsomely handled umbrellas and a sumptuous box of chocolates as a souvenir of the trip.

Gorgeously Gowned 'Miss Advertiser' Is Still Waiting For You

While hundreds of "Miss Advertiser" Mama Dolls have been given away, the big distribution continues unabated and there will be no hesitation in supplying dolls until every girl in London and district has been made happy.

A Companion For Your Holidays

It is when you are on your holidays, where "Miss Advertiser" is not acquainted, that she will be most admired. Your friends will wonder where you got her, and you will have great pleasure in telling your little friends in the country how they, too, can get one of these little beauties.

We Will Help You!

Girls who have not yet secured their four subscriptions to win a doll should bring the orders they have to our Mama Doll Department, where assistance will be rendered to get the subscriptions not yet obtained.

JOHN WILSON, handsome and wealthy Englishman, agrees to journey from England to the Riviera for a change of scenery and to forget his business.

MRS. GREEN, an aspiring nouveau riche.

CHAPTER III.

Heartbreak.

One platform of the Gare de Lyons in Paris was crowded with people, French and English, going south to escape the winter, or seeing friends off.

Outside a Pullman carriage Eugene de Gilbert stood talking to someone inside, an acquaintance he had made during the last week of a type occasionally picked up—a middle-aged woman, obviously wealthy, and without male belongings.

The train moved out, leaving Eugene standing benumbed and a trifle disconsolate looking on the platform. She waved until he was out of sight; then, with a sigh, she subsided into her corner.

When the train was out of the station she drew some letters from her satchel which she had not had time to read sooner.

Among them was one from John Wilson, saying he was taking her advice. He had decided to give himself a fortnight's holiday—the thorough change she had recommended. She could expect him in Nice in about 10 days. And he had written for accommodation to the hotel where Mrs. Green had said she would be staying.

Combining business with pleasure, Manuel Bassino sailed from Brazil to Lisbon, timing himself to arrive in the Portuguese capital a fortnight before Desirée's 21st birthday.

In that city there were men he wanted to see and money matters to attend to. Once they were done, he would go by rail across Portugal and Spain into France, arriving at Nice, close to which his prospective bride lived, a day or two before her 21st birthday.

So he stayed in Lisbon to complete his transactions, in the grip of two passions—his love of gold and his love of Desirée; when money was not uppermost in his mind, brooding on the girl whose beauty had inflamed him, whose innocence had him in thrall.

She was a catch, even for a man like himself with a million dollars and a girl with a title and young and lovely into the bargain. True, there was a flaw, but even that might be rectified. That old fox, her uncle, had never spent a cent on her. Once they were married he would have the matter seen into. She had cost him a pretty penny, his little thoroughbred, but you can't get a good thing without paying for it, and so long as he got her, that was all he cared.

At the end of a fortnight, his business satisfactorily concluded, he left Lisbon in quest of his bride. He crossed Portugal and Spain, eventually reaching the French border.

There an unexpected surprise awaited him. An unexpected railway strike had broken out. There were no trains running.

Then Bassino started to rage. He was not the only one raging. The strike had left the Count de Gilbert in Paris, unable to reach his niece on her 21st birthday and "take charge of her heritage, as he had always promised."

It also left John Wilson in Nice, his fortnight's holiday all but expired. But he was not raging. He loved the sunny, fruitful land to which he had come. A few days more there did not worry him. And if things were not settled in a week or two, well, he had his ear with him, and the promise of enough petrol to get him back to Paris.

And it found Desirée de Mailly in her home, without any relatives with whom to celebrate her coming of age, in sole possession of "The Necklace of Tears."

Away in the mountains at the back of Nice an old red-roofed chateau stood, a long, flat building in the last stage of dilapidation. It was three stories high, once pink-washed and painted with an elaborate fresco. Now almost all the plaster had fallen off the walls, revealing rough gray stones beneath. At one end a large square tower stood. On the sea-side it was open and edged with marble balustrades—a delightful spot on a hot day.

Under the shade of a great locust tree the remains of a garden, a garden furniture stood, bent and battered, eaten into holes with rust.

On one of the chairs Desirée de Mailly was sitting, a ball of white wool on her knee, a length of knitting in her hands.

Suddenly a messenger boy rode up and handed Juliette, an old servant, two telegrams.

The old servant took and opened them. She read the contents through to herself and then dismissed the boy.

"What is it, Juliette?" the girl asked.

"One is a telegram from your fiancé, Monsieur Bassino. He regrets that the railway strike has delayed him. But he will come as soon as he can possibly get here. The other is from your uncle. He and Monsieur Eugene are coming by motor from Paris. I'm sure no one wants to see them," she added sourly.

Desirée did not notice this comment about her uncle and cousin. Other matters filled her mind. Mr. Bassino was coming to claim her, a horror which had been hanging over her for the last fifteen months.

"I want to stay here. I don't want ever to have to go away again," the child cried.

Then her head dropped on the table and she wept bitterly.

"I don't want to be married," she sobbed. "I don't like men. I can't bear Mr. Bassino. I shiver when he touches me. I hate him to kiss me."

Juliette was used to these storms; they always came at the mention of the countess's fiancé. But he was rich, and in her present mind that was everything.

Juliette said nothing more on the matter. She kissed and petted her charge until the tears were dried and a weary head lay against her shoulder.

"Now," she said briskly, once the storm was over, "Wolf will take you for a walk, since I'm too busy to go."

Picking up the two telegrams, she shuffled off into the house, leaving Desirée hopelessly resigned to what the future had in store for her.

Desirée left the house, and after walking for perhaps 15 or 20 minutes saw the tall figure of a man ahead of her on the road. That man was John Wilson.

However, Wilson had no eyes for the dog, only for the girl. She looked about 15 or 17, slender, fragile child. Beneath a halo of golden hair large, misty blue eyes were set, vague and haunting, heavy with tragedy. Her face was thin and ethereal, with a look on it that wrung his heart.

In his early days that look had been on his mother's face, when she had half-starved herself so that her thoughtless child should not feel the nip of hunger—a look he had removed before he was 14, and by the time he was 16 he had given her comfort; for the last five years of her life, until her death, 18 months ago, luxury.

CHAPTER IV.

The Meeting.

Hardly knowing what he did, Wilson stopped abruptly. For a moment the girl turned her face in Wilson's direction. A timid, fleeting movement. Then she passed on, leaving him gazing after her.

Keeping her in sight, he followed slowly, observing everything except the slim figure ahead.

An expected rumble of thunder brought him to his senses. He looked round sharply. The oncoming thunder made the girl turn. She started to retrace her steps, the dog straining at the lead.

"There's going to be a pretty bad storm," he said. "You'd be wise to seek shelter."

Seeing that the girl was almost frightened out of her wits, Wilson seized her arm and drew her into the shelter.

Presently a deep gray shadow swept over the earth. With a rush and roar the rain came, seeming to wash the thunder away, for it retreated rapidly, grumbling and growling in the distance.

"There's nothing more to be afraid of," he said, when the noise had abated somewhat.

"It's very stupid of me to be so afraid, but I always am of thunder."

After that there was silence for a time.

Presently he fetched a box from the back of the shed.

"You'd better sit down," he remarked on placing it beside her. "The rain doesn't seem like stopping yet."

In a shy voice she thanked him, but she did not sit down at once. She felt for the box, as if to make sure it was really there. Then she sat down, her knee and continued looking up at her with worshipping eyes.

Time passed, but the deluge showed no sign of abating. The girl did not look in Wilson's direction and her silence was unbroken.

With the idea of finding some clue to her identity, surreptitiously he studied the dog's collar, thinking her name and address might be there. On the tiny brass plate he saw engraved, Desirée de Mailly, Domaine de Mailly.

Was she Desirée de Mailly, this ideal of his heart, desired by him more than anything that had come into his life?

"I wonder if you are Miss de Mailly?" he inquired presently.

At his question she started. "What?" she asked, a quiver of alarm in her voice. "I've just read it on Wolf's collar."

There was further silence. But when she started to shiver he could stand it no longer. There was something too pathetic in her silent endurance. Without a word he stripped off his coat and wrapped it about her shoulders.

At his touch a stifled gasp of alarm escaped her lips, to be choked back the moment she felt the warmth of his coat around her.

"I can't have you sitting here shivering," he said firmly.

"It's very kind of you to trouble about me," she said.

Something in her reply told him that kindness rarely came her way. Again there was silence—a silence that lasted nearly half an hour.

Still the rain showed no sign of abating. Presently Desirée rose to go, and again Wilson's voice stopped her.

"You mustn't think of going out now," he said.

"But Juliette will be wondering what has happened to me."

"If Juliette has any sense she'll know you must have sheltered."

At his remark she seated herself again. Darkness approached rapidly, filling the barn with gloomy shadows. With its coming the rain abated somewhat. Desirée rose. Taking his coat from her shoulders, she held it toward him.

"It's not raining so much now," she said.

"This time Wilson did not stay there a moment. He could not attempt that night. Taking the coat, he wrapped it round her again, with his big hands guiding the slim, bare arms into the sleeves. He felt the girl quiver at his touch, a quiver that thrilled him.

As they left the barn, because the girl looked so weary and drooping, Wilson drew her arm through his in a firm, careful, decided manner, as though he meant it to stay, and she let it stay there, as if glad of his strength to support her.

Darkness had fallen when broken iron gates were reached, leading up to what looked to be a narrow, weed-grown lane. Presently a glimmer of light percolated through the cracks of the door they were approaching.

A moment later it opened. An elderly woman stood on the threshold, a tiny lamp smoking in her gnarled hand. She was poorly dressed in a bunched black skirt, green with a black and white striped cotton bodice, a blue check apron, patched and well washed, and on her feet were worn black felt slippers.

On seeing Wilson she gave a quick exclamation. Desirée said quickly as she drew him in, "this gentleman

WOMEN and THE HOME

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

The Wife of the Man to Whom Marriage Is Just an Annex to His Bachelorhood—How Can She Tell When She's in Love? How to Snub the Flirtatious Stranger.

Dear Miss Dix—I am married to a man who loves me and wants me, yet doesn't want me, if you can understand what I mean. Before I married I worked hard and saved enough money to furnish a five-room flat, so we have a beautiful home, which I delight in keeping, as I am a home-loving woman.

But although my husband earns a fine salary, he is angry at me because I will not work outside of my home. He owns a car, and belongs to the lodge and goes fishing and hunting. I never kick about his fishing and hunting trips, but he spends too much at the lodge.

My husband also insists on going out nearly every night alone. He never wants me to go with him anywhere, although we have only been married a little over a year.

Do you really think he loves me, or that he just wants me and a home when he needs it? Is he trying to hang on to his bachelor freedom with one hand and his wife and home with the other? B.

Answer: You have said it, B. You have evidently had the ill luck to marry one of the men who can never be perfectly domesticated, and who considers a wife and home as an annex to his bachelorhood, not a substitute for it. To such a man a home is merely a place to go when other places shut up; a restaurant where he can get quick lunches without the bother of ordering them; an asylum to which he can flee when he is sick and old.

That type of husband regards a wife merely as a domestic convenience—a combination of cook, valet, nurse and companion, and he feels that she should ask no higher privilege than just waiting with a glad, sweet smile of welcome on her face for him to come home when he gets good and ready, and that being married to him is picnic enough for any woman.

Apparently your husband goes even this selfish type of husband one better, for when he insists on going to work outside of the home he expects you to pay your own way, and his as well, in addition to the labor of keeping the home. And I should think that even a self-respecting female worm would get her back up at that.

Such a man may well ask himself what his wife is getting out of marriage, and why she wants to keep on with such a poor paying job? For trying to make a home for a husband who eats and runs is certainly no alluring prospect. No man gives a woman a fair deal if he marries her before he is ready to settle down, and do his part toward making a happy home, and unless he cares enough for her to want her society and is willing to be a fireside companion. As long as his enjoyment consists of running around at night, and he prefers the company of men, he should stay single. It is a lonesome and dreary thing for a woman to spend her evenings alone, and not even a wandering husband is liberal enough to be willing for his wife to amuse herself in the way he is diverting himself.

Making a happy home is a partnership affair. It is just as much the man's place to help do it as it is the woman's, and men should consider their responsibility in this matter before they get married.

As to what a woman shall do who is married to a man who wants to be both bond and free, that is, of course, for her to decide. Sometimes one of them is worth waiting for, but generally the wife is wise to make her husband take his choice between her and home, and his old cronies and the street.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Will you please answer the following questions for me:

1. How can a girl know when she is in love; or in other words, how does a girl know which is Mr. Right?

2. How long should a girl go with a fellow before she lets him kiss her good-night?

3. Which are the most likely, young men or older men?

4. How can I tell when men are kidding me?

5. Don't you think men ask too much of girls when they want to monopolize a girl?

PERPLEXED.

Answer: 1. Just because you enjoy being with a man and like to dance with him and enjoy going around having a good time with him and want to put your brand on him and keep him away from the other girls is no sign you are in love with him. But when you find a boy that you would rather stay at home with and talk to than go to a party; when you begin to think about saving a man's money, and when you think more about his happiness and pleasure than you do your own, then you may safely conclude that you really love him.

When you find a man that your head and your heart both approve of, you may be sure he is Mr. Right, but mainly you will recognize him by just something in you that makes you feel that he is it, and that causes some little two-by-four shrimp to look better to you than a Greek god. Love is like the flu. You may have a lot of attacks of it that you think is love, just as you call a bad cold the flu, but when you are stricken down by the real malady you know you've got it, and it's fatal.

2. The length of time a girl should go with a man before she lets him kiss her good-night depends on how long it takes her to get engaged to him.

3. The younger a man is the more fickle he is. Youth is changeable because it is in a state of evolution, and what is crazy about one day it is tired of the next. The older man has made up his mind about what he wants, and is not likely to change.

4. It is a safe bet not to believe more than half that a man says to you, and to discount that half. Apply a little common sense to all of a man's jollyings, and decide how much of it is reasonable.

5. Men are certainly very unreasonable in demanding that a girl shall give up other men for them until after they are definitely engaged to be married, and a girl who does so is very silly to make such an uneven bargain.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—If, when you are going along the street, a strange man tries to flirt with you, what should you do? WAITING.

Answer: Pass right along, and pretend not to notice it. If the man follows you up, call a policeman. The best way to deal with the masker is simply to ignore him unless he persists in his attentions. A girl who keeps her eyes straight before her, and who does not herself have a wandering eye out for affairs is generally sufficiently protected by her own dignity. A wise old man of the world once said to me: "Ignore the men who try to flirt with you, and who try to tell you off-color stories. Pretend not to understand. There are very few men too low enough to try to force themselves on a woman, or who have the nerve to try to explain a smutty story to a clean-minded girl."

After he had been taken upstairs Wilson surveyed his new quarters, and suddenly remembered he had $5,000 on his person.

Then he recollected tales of people deceived by lonely houses and murdered and robbed—for the setting of the fairy princess suggested a thieves den more than anything else.

But he put the thought from him. It was an insult to the pure, sad face of his ideal. Also he recollected that he had accosted the girl, not she him. Then he smiled to himself.

Special to The Advertiser.

Strathroy, June 9.—London came from behind in a hard-fought ninth inning rally to win the Southern League game here tonight by 11 to 8. McCandless, 3 to 6, at the opening of the ninth Smith and Baker each got a life on infield errors. Four hits and another error gave London five runs and clinched the game, as Strathroy couldn't come back.

B. McCandless, catching for Strathroy, had practically won the game for the locals with three hits and by stealing home twice. Baker's error in left field and his two hits, one a three-bagger, also featured as did the work of George at third for London.

In the sixth Russell's drive glanced off E. McCandless' glove and struck him in the face. Conkey replaced him at second.

Johnson started the game for London and was relieved by Baker at the end of the fifth.

GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

USE THE NIBLICK INSTEAD OF MASHIE—

FOR A SHOT OF ABOUT 30 YARDS WHEN STOP MUST BE OBTAINED.

IF THERE ARE BUNKERS IN FRONT OF AND BEHIND THE GREEN.

What factors determine when to use a niblick instead of a mashie? Answered by PHIL GAUDIN.

Medalist, British open championship, captain of British international golf team, member of that team for eight consecutive years, winner of numerous foreign tournaments, including Manchester Guardian trophy.

The length of the shot, the lie of the ball, and where it is supposed to land determine whether a mashie or a niblick should be used for a shot. In a short shot (80 yards) where stop must be obtained, height must be obtained, and you have a bad lie always use a niblick. Go after the shot with plenty of pep. Many golfers miss up their niblick shots because they are afraid of them.

HUNTINGFORD ELEVEN DEFEATS VETERANS

Woodstock Soldiers Blanked
3-0 in City League
Match.

Special to The Advertiser.
Woodstock, June 9.—Huntingford handed the Great War Veterans a great surprise in their scheduled city soccer league game here tonight, as the boys from the rural district won the tilt by the score of 3 to 0. The winners tallied twice in the first period, Boyden netting the opening goal, while the boys from the city failed to score.

Five minutes later the Huntingford eleven combined for the second goal. In the last half the losers made desperate attempts to come back, and Burgess was given some hot shots to handle. However, the rural team again combined and notched their third goal on a hard shot, which rebounded off Tomp's hands.

Veterans—Goal, Toppi; backs, Newell and Jimmie Smith; half backs, Hamilton, Wood and Mountney; forwards, Brown, Ireland, Harris, Greenwood and Fleming.

Huntingford—Goal, Burgess; backs, Meadows and Boyden; half backs, Wilks, C. Smith, Hallcock; forwards, Wilks, A. C. Wilson, Lancaster, J. Wilson and Cose. Referee—Baker.

Scott-McHales Defeat Perrins

Four-Run Rally in Ninth Inning Makes Count 8-6.

A four-run rally in the last inning enabled Scott-McHales to beat Perrins, 8 to 6, in the Manufacturers' League last night. In the ninth inning Scott-McHales whiffed ten, two of them in a row in Perrins' last inning after Richardson had struck out the first two batters.

Three singles and doubles by Reilly, Scott and Doherty scored the winners' needed run in the final frame.

PRESIDENT LAUDS SCHOOL BUILDERS

Comments Efforts of Former Heads At O. A. C. Celebration.

Special to The Advertiser.
Guelph, June 9.—"This is a fitting time to do honor to those men of various sorts and capacities who have given of their skill and knowledge, their intelligence and devotedness and help in the building of such a worthy edifice," declared President J. B. Reynolds at the formal opening of the week of celebration in connection with the semi-centennial of the Ontario Agricultural College in Massey Hall tonight.

"It is proper to consider what have been the material and human results of this 50 years of increasing activity and influence. It is proper also to consider failures and shortcomings in what respects she has fallen short of the best, and the use of opportunity and responsibility, and it is proper to lay broad and deep and hopeful plans that shall guide her to still nobler performances and greater heights of success."

President Reynolds referred to the most of men who have given their talents and devotion to the making of the college, particularly mentioning William Johnston, president from 1874 to 1879, and his successor, Dr. James Mills, who became president in 1879, and gave brilliant service to the college for a full quarter century.

In his time, and largely through his foresight and energy, the college established those intimate and confidential relations with its public, the relations which have made it a force to be reckoned with in the affairs of the province.

Other speakers during the evening were Hon. George S. Henry, Dr. Creelman, Dr. Peter Bryce, Toronto, and A. A. MacTavish, who spoke of their early days at the college. Much disappointment was expressed at the unavoidable absence of Hon. J. S. Martin, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Hon. Lincoln Goldie, Dr. James Mills and Dr. J. W. Robertson, who were to have spoken at the college.

The celebration will get under way in earnest tomorrow, when one of the big events of the day will be the official opening of the new $100,000 memorial hall by General Sir Arthur Currie. Hundreds of delegates have already arrived for the semi-centennial, but additional crowds will pour into the city tomorrow for the second day's proceedings.

PALMERSTON RACE COURSE HOME STRETCH SHORTER
Special to The Advertiser.
Palmerston, June 9.—The Palmerston Driving Park Association have hit a rather hard knot, which is compelling them to open up the old drive-way of their race course, and cutting their home-stretch shorter, so that the horses will have to travel one circle and almost a half to complete the half-mile. The agreement leasing an adjoining piece of land a few years ago was never registered, and the new owner of the property does not regard the old lease as legal, so the southeast end of the track has been fenced off. The association is asking the best of the situation, and arranging the starters' stand so that all races will be complete in front, and the home-stretch will be visible from the grandstand.

S. A. EXCEEDS OBJECTIVE IN KITCHENER CAMPAIGN
Special to The Advertiser.
Kitchener, June 9.—A total of $3,094 was collected by the local officers of the Salvation Army in the self-denial campaign. This is $94 above the objective, and $555 more than last year. The Twin City Veterans collected $609 for the fund.

A few hours in the open air at Port Stanley will keep man or woman fit for business by promoting happiness and health.

L. & P. S. trains are fast and frequent, the coaches are clean and safe, and the ride to Lake Erie one of the prettiest on the continent. Invererie Heights is at its best. The beach is simply magnificent and on the hill and along the water front is every convenience the whim of a picnicker can desire.

The bracing air will soon whet the appetite, and the L. & P. S. Cafeteria can provide lunch or full meal in a jiffy. The high quality of the electrically-cooked foods and the low prices will surprise you.

It's worth the money to see the trees in blossom as you ride to the lake.

FARE.—London to Port Stanley and return, Adults, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. St. Thomas to Port Stanley and return, Adults, 30 cents; children, 15 cents.

IMPROVE BATHHOUSE

Years ago, before the L. & P. S. Cafeteria was established, picnickers to Port Stanley found it impossible to secure a good, well-cooked meal at the lakeside. They were compelled to stand, sometimes for hours, waiting their turn at a hotel door, while a dining-room equipped for 20 or 40 people strove to keep up with the demands. As a rule the foods came cold to the table when the hungry picnickers did manage to get inside, and there was naturally general dissatisfaction all around.

How different are conditions at the lakeside now! In the L. & P. S. Cafeteria there are tables for 300 people, and the foods, already cooked, are kept piping hot by electricity. In the kitchen they are cooked by hydro, and everything is spotlessly clean. Sliding his tray alongside the counter, the visitor to Port Stanley is not kept waiting an instant. Anything the fancy dictates is served in a jiffy—anything from roast chicken, roast beef, fried fish and vegetables down to strawberry shortcake and other such delicacies.

Cheaper Than Lunch.

A glance at the price-list in the advertisement of the London & Port Stanley Railway will show at once that it is cheaper to eat at the Cafeteria than to pack a lunch. Just figure out the cost of the foods necessary to pack a basket and the cost of cooking, to say nothing of the time it takes to get the hamper ready, and you will have to confess that the L. & P. S. chef is in a class by himself. What that chef doesn't know about tasty foods isn't worth knowing. Ask the people who have eaten there.

Despite the unseasonable weather of the past week, Picnic at Port Stanley is in full swing. One hot day will bring the people down in thousands, and the L. & P. S. does not permit itself to be caught unawares. The various booths are filled with everything the picnicker requires, and there are creek-rooms for picnics, so that there is no room for a single worry on the mind of anyone.

There is a daily passenger and freight service between Port Stanley and Cleveland now. Sundays excepted, and many people are taking advantage of the cheap rates to visit Cleveland and other electrical hot spots. The big car ferry, Bessmer 11, is also making regular trips between Conneaut, Ohio, and Port Stanley, and the harbor presents a bright and busy appearance.

Cottagers Arrive.

The past week saw a big influx of summer cottagers. Ordinarily they would have been settled at the Port last week. The demand for cottages is reported to be quite keen now.

The L. & P. S. Bathhouse is in splendid condition, having been greatly improved during the winter. It is one of the finest on the continent and has a thousand rooms for men and women. Even electrical hair-dressers for the ladies will be found in this bathhouse. All suits are thoroughly sterilized after having been used, absolute sanitation being a consideration the L. & P. S. R. never neglects.

The improvements to the board walk east of the Cafeteria are most noticeable, and there are plenty of amusements there for young and old. Dancing in the casino is as popular as ever.

Picnics Booked.

The London & Port Stanley Railway report that many picnics are being booked for the lakeside, and the first spell of warm weather will find the grand old resort at its best. Already there have been a large number of outings at Port Stanley, and there has been much favorable comment concerning the condition of the Invererie Heights. The grass is deep and velvety, and the grounds are in the best condition in their history. What a change from the time when in order to hold a

OLD AGE PENSION MOVE STARTED

Recommend Annual Payment of $240 For Old Canadian Residents.

Canadian Press Despatch.
 Ottawa, June 9.—The establishment of an old age pension scheme for Canada is expected to be recommended by the committee of the House of Commons by the special committee, which has been investigating the subject. The report of the committee is not yet complete, but it is expected that its general outlines have been drawn up.

The annual pension payable, according to the plans of the committee, as far as indicated, is to be $240, payable in monthly installments of $20.

The residence qualifications is stated to be 20 years of continuous residence, but it is expected that it will probably be 60 or 70.

MINISTERS SUBSTITUTED.

W. HONE'S BODY TO BE EXHUMED

Authorities Begin Investigation Following Rumors of Murder.

OPINIONS DIFFER

 by a Staff Reporter.
 Listowel, June 9.—Tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock the body of William Hone will be taken from the grave in Elma Center Cemetery, and a post-mortem examination will be performed by Dr. W. C. Pratt, acting under instructions of County Crown Attorney McPherson and under supervision of Dr. James Moore, coroner. An inquest is to be held in Monkton on June 17.

William Hone, cattle drover, was found in the home on his farm on May 28, dead, with a bullet wound in the head and with a revolver clutched in his hand. The discovery was made by Melville Cummings and Harry Thibodeau, who declared that early in the day Mr. Hone had sent them on a trip to Monkton, and that they found him dead when they returned. The deceased, who had been setting in a despondent manner the night before and had intimated his intention of ending his life.

Dr. Kidd of Atwood was called as coroner, and he declared death due to suicide, and an inquest unnecessary. Burial followed.

LOWDEN REFUSES G.O.P. NOMINATION

National Convention of Republicans Opens in Cleveland Today.

Associated Press Despatch.
 Cleveland, June 9.—The Republican vice-presidential nomination still buzzed and murmured among the delegates of the Grand Old Party who convened and caucused and mulled about in hotel lobbies and clubs here tonight, waiting for the fall of the chairman's gavel tomorrow morning announcing the opening of the 1924 national convention.

The Illinois delegates in caucus unanimously passed a resolution that they would present the name of former Governor Lowden of Illinois for vice-president, and shortly afterward a telegram was received from Lowden stating that he didn't want the vice-presidency.

The name of Secretary of Commerce Hoover then began to be mentioned. The nomination committee provided a sensational when a state for vice-president, and shortly afterward a telegram was received from Lowden stating that he didn't want the vice-presidency.

CANADIAN PRESSMEN START OUT FOR HOME

Fifty Association Members
Return Home After Holiday in B. C.

Special to The Advertiser.

Vancouver, B.C., June 9.—Turning their faces eastward after a week spent on the B. C. Coast, 50 members of the Canadian Newspapers Association and the Canadian Press returned this evening on the Canadian Pacific S. S. Princess Victoria from a 24-hour sojourn in the province's capital city. They left immediately for Banff over the C. P. R., en route to their homes in various parts of the Dominion. They will spend a day at Banff and are due to arrive in Calgary at midnight Tuesday.

POST-MORTEM IS HELD ON BODY OF H. J. DALY

Examination Reveals Death Was Due To Hardening of Arteries.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, June 9.—The nature of the fatal illness which attacked H. J. Daly, president of the defunct Home Bank of Canada, who died this morning, was apparently not clear to the medical men who examined him from time to time, and to dispose of the uncertainty, a post-mortem examination was carried out this afternoon.

Later a report was issued that hardening of the arteries was the cause of death.

During Mr. Daly's illness reports were in circulation that he was suffering from both heart and stomach trouble.

POLITICAL RUFFIANS WILL BE PUNISHED

Associated Press Despatch.

Tokio, June 10.—After an investigation the police have indicated that they intend to punish five of the ruffian (political) ruffians, who broke up the dance at the Imperial Hotel on Saturday night as protest against the exclusion of Japanese from the United States. The police say the demonstrators did not infringe any statute directly, but punishment is advisable as a warning to other not-heads.

CANTON FLANNEL, 19c.

A worth-while value here for Wednesday morning shoppers. A Canton flannel made of soft, fine quality and very durable; it improves with washing and is easily bleached. There are many uses you can make of this special, but the most popular is for babies' diapers, and you buy the best article for the purpose at a low price tomorrow. More absorbent than flannelette. Remember good all clean stock, and no remnants; 27 inches 19c

ENGLISH CIRCULAR COTTON, 49c.

A remarkable value here that should mean a busy morning for this section; good quality, fine, strong and of sturdy weight. A cotton we have handled for years, only at much higher price. The 500 yards on sale is a shipment that should have been here and sold in February. You can gain by the late arrival. Be sure you do not miss seeing the beautiful quality of this cotton; 40, 42 and 44 inches. On sale tomorrow morning only 49c

Imported Gingham, 19c

A fortunate purchase enables us to give you this opportunity; it has to be seen to appreciate the value you get for so low a price. Don't fail to be an early shopper if you want a choice of patterns that are really surprising in their variety of color and style. A fine, clean weave that washes well—we have had it tested. Good square checks, colors of blue and tan, pink and green, brown and blue, mauve and green, blue and gray, pinks, blues, mauves, greens, reds and black and white. All go on sale tomorrow, 9 a.m. 19c
