

WORDY WAR OVER THE MAIL BAGS

How Montreal Star Got Into Trouble With Postoffice.

HOIST WITH THEIR OWN PETARD

Mr. Borden Makes a Petulant Attack
On the Government—Senate
Clears the Order Paper.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 21.—The Conservative members were all in their places this morning. Dr. Borden, fatigued by the banquet at Quebec, and equipped with fresh anger at the Liberals, rose in his place and interpellated the Government in the matter of the mail bags. He thought the matter important enough to warrant a motion to adjourn.

The debate was very lively. Fuel had been added to the flames by the business manager of the Montreal newspaper which contrived the trick to get hold of the mail bags and to use them for distribution of Conservative campaign literature. As the newspaper got these bags under the ordinary regulations of the department, for the ostensible purpose of accommodating their own circulation, the department felt justified in refusing to allow the newspapers any more bags until those already obtained by it were restored or devoted to the ordinary purposes. The business manager of the newspaper has been here a day and a half doing his best to straighten out the Postmaster-General.

PROLONGED THE SESSION.

The net result of his visit is a wrangle in the House which may prolong the session another day. It helped the indignation of the Conservatives somewhat that yesterday the Speaker, one of whose duties is to keep good order in the corridors of the House, refused to allow certain parcels of literature to be delivered to the Conservatives by Whip Taylor at the House of Commons.

Mr. Borden, in view of all the circumstances, wanted a statement from the Speaker as to what use this and that room in the House of Commons was put. He understood that some of the rooms were used as sleeping apartments by the Liberal members. He thought that some of the members of the Conservative party, and then they could have some other place to transact their necessary business than the corridors of the House of Commons. He alluded to the inadequate accommodation provided both for himself and for the members of the Conservative party, and denied flatly the right of the Speaker to order away parcels addressed to a member in the House of Commons. He said he was willing to give up his room and his colleagues were willing to give up room No. 6 for these parcels, and had done so, but then they were cramped. On the other hand, the Liberals were at liberty to use whatever rooms they pleased, and of his own knowledge would say that the basement room opposite the long distance telephone was used by the Liberals to dispatch their campaign literature.

"It remained," said Mr. Borden, "for minister of the crown, who aspires to the leadership of the party, to bring up this petty matter."

THE PREMIER REPLIES.

The Premier replied that it was a small matter, and expressed surprise at the intemperance of Mr. Borden. It was, indeed, a pity that every member of the House could not have a palace to transact his business, but he reminded Mr. Borden that he himself and the Liberal party occupied the quarters of which he never complained, for many years, and without a murmur. Mr. Borden, who was at least Dr. Borden's equal, had occupied the quarters assigned to the leader of the Opposition, and had breathed no complaint. "I myself," said the Premier, "am occupying quarters in the House of Commons not any larger."

He deplored the fact that precious time was being taken up by making inquiries on trivial questions. He had no objection, however, at the beginning of next session to take the subject of redistributing the rooms in the House of Commons.

Mr. Bell, of Picton, made it a personal matter with the Postmaster-General, who, as Postmaster-General, he characterized as a vaster failure than has been.

Sir Wm. Mulock explained that the Montreal newspaper had received an unusually large number of bags for their regular circulation, which had been used to distribute campaign literature.

For this reason the Montreal newspaper was now suffering a dearth of bags for its own circulation, the post office department not having been able to accommodate them with any more.

Having visited Ottawa postoffice, he found nearly all the floor space and the basement crowded with hundreds of bags in excess of the possibilities for carrying them away. The postmaster had informed him that it was impossible to get this daily influx away on the four trains that left daily for the west. Only four bags of mail matter could be taken outside of the postoffice of the country could be handled by the train service. In reply to Mr. Bell, who had asked why he had given orders that no more bags be given out to the Montreal Star, Sir William stated that the order was given to induce the Star to send back the 320 bags it had already received. He estimated that altogether some 2,000 bags were now being used for the purpose of Conservative campaign literature. Unless the House was prepared to charter special trains the present rate of congestion would exist for some time.

"The franking privilege," said Sir William, "is not involved. No effort is being made to curtail any gentleman's rights."

Mr. Taylor said that there could be no prerogative until all the Conservative literature was dispatched, and was enlarging on this point when the House rose for luncheon.

After the discussion had continued a considerable time, Sir Wilfrid Laurier announced that one thousand new mail bags would be secured, and that the Government would consult with Mr. Borden as to what arrangements should be made for handling the extra mail. The Opposition expressed themselves as satisfied with this and the subject was dropped.

Mr. Bell, of Picton, offered a resolution.

Your Liver

Will be roused to its natural duties and your biliousness, headache and constipation be cured if you take

Hood's Pills

Sold by all druggists. 25 cents.

solution embodying a general condemnation of the financial policy of the Government.

After speeches by Mr. Fielding and Mr. Clancy the resolution was put and voted down by 69 to 30.

The House then went into committee of supply.

IN THE SENATE.

In the Senate this morning the representation bill was read a third time and passed.

The Senate this afternoon cleared the order paper. The following bills were passed: To amend the civil service act, to amend the Northwest Territories act, to amend the general inspection act, and one or two bills of a purely local character.

ALASKA DISPUTE IS NOT SETTLED

Further Trouble Likely to Loom Up as to Boundary.

ACCORDING TO LEGAL EXPERT

Another Commission May Be Necessary to Complete the Work of the Tribunal.

London, Oct. 21.—A prominent Canadian lawyer resident in London said: "That the United States representatives would decide against the Canadian contention was clear. They were chosen for that purpose. Of Lord Alverstone, the Canadians were suspicious from the beginning. The Canadian commissioners claim that Lord Alverstone's decision is not judicial, and is not meant to be judicial. Therefore, they are compelled to refuse to sign the award. In proof of this statement, they point to his judgment pronounced a few days previously, giving Sitka and Kamaghat Island to Canada as a result of connecting boundary following the intervening ridges? On this the instrument is silent. As many peaks are far apart it is evident that the boundary line has been left in a very incomplete state. Another commission may be necessary to determine what is meant."

MORE TROUBLE AHEAD.

"More amazing still the 1820 boundary has been left entirely undetermined on the ground that a further survey is necessary to determine what mountains were intended by the treaty over the whole space. From a mountain near the Patterson Glacier to the north of the Taku River, the line has not been defined at all in the decision. Taku Inlet and River afford a means of communication with a large extent of the interior country, and a possible route to the Klondike, but the boundary line crossing it has been left unsettled. The discovery of gold any day in the interior at the head of the Taku Inlet would at once participate as serious a dispute as that which has taken place over the Lynn Canal. The same may be said of Endicott Arm, Tracey Arm, Port Sverdrup and tributaries. Unfortunately, therefore, the Alaska difficulty is as much on the slate as ever, and British diplomacy, which may be concerned more in the finality of the award than its effect upon Canada, has nearly all its difficulties still before it. The pretense that a further survey is necessary is not accepted by any one who is even passably familiar with the facts. No survey of the mountains had been made when the treaty of 1825, in which mountains extending in a direction parallel to the coast were referred to, was signed. Quite as full a survey had been made in 1820 in the section where the treaty failed to run the boundary, as in any other part. The coast maps before the commissioner show a sea of mountains fully surveyed, and as good a selection of peaks as any that have been chosen.

"The real reason for refusing to locate the boundary between Patterson Glacier and Devil's Pass is because the United States commissioners feared that any mountain selected might afterwards be found to be theirs. By some arm of the sea or fiord, along that stretch of coast, thus affording Canada a means of entering her interior territory from the coast. The mere possibility of this caused them to refrain from completing the work of the tribunal. The only other possible suggestion is that, having decided everything else against Canada, this portion of the boundary was left open to force some future concession elsewhere. This was a convenient for the United States commissioners that this portion of the boundary should not be settled. That appears to have been settled for Lord Alverstone."

ALVERSTONE SCORED.

"Canadian affirmed that the Portland Channel was intended by the treaty to run north of Kamaghat, Sitka, Wales and Pearse Islands. The United States insisted that the channel was meant to run south of these islands. No other water boundary was claimed in the United States arguments, printed or verbal. The Canadian case was proved by demonstration and approved not only by Lord Alverstone, but by the United States commissioners as well. It also received the votes of the two Canadian commissioners. Subsequently some private arrangement, not communicated to the Canadian commissioners, was made by Lord Alverstone with the United States representatives giving them the two outer islands, Kamaghat and Sitka, making the boundary line pass south through Tongass passage in order to do so.

"This one act of Lord Alverstone's for which he has given no reason to his Canadian colleagues, alone stamps him as utterly unfit for the important duties entrusted to him and unworthy of the confidence imposed in him.

"Another contention was in regard to the ownership of the Lynn Canal. This has been given to the United States, presumably on the ground of the fact that they have also been given the greater part of the Chilkat Valley, and such territory on the Canadian side of the provisional boundary of 1899, notwithstanding that all occupation north and west of the provisional boundary took place under Canadian laws. No case was ever better presented than Canada's. Two of her principal contentions were so powerful that even the United States commissioners were forced to accept them, and yet with the assistance of Lord Alverstone they have managed to deprive Canada of the fruits of her hard-fought victory."

"HERE DWELLS MARK TWAIN"

Clemens Seeks a Milder Climate for Wife's Sake.

HAS A PALACE NEAR FLORENCE

The Memories of Villa Papiniano
May Subdue Such an "Innocent Abroad."

Florence, Italy, Oct. 20.—"Qui Abito Baccio Bandinelli" ("Here Dwells Baccio Bandinelli") is engraved on a stone slab set in the wall of the residence that Mark Twain will occupy here for the winter at least. The American humorist and his wife are expected early next month, or even sooner.

The residence which Mr. Clemens will occupy during the winter months is a large rambling place, formerly known as Villa Mantellini, now as Villa Papiniano, which belonged originally to the sculptor Baccio Bandinelli, a contemporary and rival of Michael Angelo, whose colossal groups in marble adorn the facade and the main hall in the Palazzo Vecchio of Florence.

The villa is most pleasantly located about half-way between Florence and Tivoli, and connected with the modern town and the old Etruscan stronghold by a line of electric cars, which runs from the Cathedral of Florence directly to the Cathedral of Tivoli. Tivoli is now a popular summer resort for the natives of Florence, as well as a favorite all-round residence for the wealthy Anglo-Saxon colony.

SET UPON A HILL.

Villa Papiniano is the property of Miss Elizabeth Barlow, of England, and is leased for the summer to the Greek consul-general in Florence. It stands on a hill in extensive grounds, vineyards and olive groves, kitchen garden, orchards, flower garden and a terraced rampart beautified with numerous and splendid fountains and orange trees planted in red Tuscany earthen vases and jars, and well-kept flower beds whose appearance reminds one of a miniature Versailles. In the middle of this terrace is a fountain of exquisite workmanship attributed to Baccio Bandinelli himself.

The appearance of Mark Twain's dwelling is modern. It is painted a rich cream color, with gray trimmings, according to Italian custom. But the visitor soon recognizes that the structure is ancient. Having entered the heavy gate, he comes to a shady archway, then to a courtyard of small size, but charming proportions, faced by a stone portico, under which are grouped big ferns and palms, and finally the great hall, which opens on the terrace and gives access to the apartments through a heavy, dark brown door. In the middle of the hall hangs an iron lamp of quaint design, a marble lion's head is set in the wall, and the door itself is flanked by the slab, telling that Bandinelli lived here.

The apartments are ample, well-furnished and well provided with modern comfort, including a telephone. The situation of the villa allows every view of the Florentine Valley, the River Arno and the mountains.

HISTORIC SURROUNDINGS.

To describe the historic and artistic interest attached to the surroundings of Mr. Clemens' residence is to enter hard. Within a few steps of the iron gates of the Villa Papiniano lies the little village of San Domenico, with its convent, from which Saint Antonino, Fra Giovanni Angelico and Fra Domenico Buonvicini, the unfortunate companion of Savonarola, came to the gallows. The Church of San Domenico is rich in works of art and historical reminiscences, dating from the fifteenth century. From the church a little narrow lane takes the visitor to the Badia Fiesolana, built near the tomb of the martyr and Bishop St. Romulus, where Pico della Mirandola worked at his exposition of Genesis, and Cardinal Medici, afterward Pope Leo X., took the purple garments.

Not far from the Villa Papiniano is the "Riposo de Vescovi," where the Bishops of Fiesole, returning from Florence, used to stop and accept refreshments from the monks, leaving their baggage and making the steep ascent to Fiesole with oxen chariots which the monks offered them.

Below the villa is the Villa Landor, where Walter Savage Landor lived and died. A little further away is the Villa Spence, built in 1458, to be a favorite meeting-place of the Platonic Academicians and friends of Lorenzo de' Medici. Opposite the Villa Papiniano are the grounds of "The Three Maidens" (Le Tre Pulcinelle), where Leo X. stopped on his way to Fiesole, 1516.

ANGLO-AMERICAN COLONY.

A little colony of English and American people rent or own these villas. Two of them are George Gregory Smith, the electrician, and inventor, and Prof. Fiske, who has studied Dante with such loving industry and who presented to Cornell University a very valuable collection of Dante.

New York, Oct. 21.—Mark Twain's devotion to his wife leads him to rent the Italian villa, Mrs. Clemens thinks the climate of Florence agrees with her delicate health. Later Mr. Clemens leased his Tarrytown estate to Charles A. Gardner, counsel for the elevated road. This is one of the famous places on the Hudson.

Mr. Clemens bought the estate three years ago, but, owing to his wife's illness, has never occupied it.

As he and his family sail this month for Italy, to be abroad for a year, he has leased the estate, giving Mr. Gardner an option to purchase it until December, 1904.

Mr. Clemens has lived in a fine old house at Riverdale.

New York, Oct. 22.—Mrs. Mary Dowling, of Bayonne, N. J., was sentenced to 30 days in jail yesterday on complaint of Mrs. Mary Gender, who said Mrs. Dowling had circulated stories about her.

Recorder Lazarus said: "You will

"I won't do it," retorted the woman. "I can do that, and get my money's worth out of her," rejoined the defiant prisoner.

"I will now give you 30 days in jail," said the court.

"Give me 30 days, if you like."

"Very well, then; it shall be 30 days."

The four sentences were pronounced in one minute.

THE INSURGENTS ARE COMING IN

Sultan Beats Some and Pardons Others.

NO SURRENDER OF THE LEADERS

Turks Say That Sarafoff Is Dead, But the Bulgarians Deny the Report.

Salonica, Macedonia, Oct. 22.—Recent advances from Monastir say that a considerable number of insurgents have surrendered in response to the Sultan's last call. The first of those who surrendered were beaten and imprisoned; but, under stringent orders from the Yildiz palace, all the men who are now coming in are well received and have been pardoned. This, however, does not indicate the collapse of the rebellion, but is in compliance with the revolutionary committee's decision to thin out the insurgent bands during the winter and retain under arms only an aggregate of about 3,500 men. They leave their rifles with the leaders, who secrete them in the mountains, in readiness for operations in the spring. Not one of the leaders has surrendered.

The revolutionary committee has no intention of resorting to the use of dynamite bombs in the towns this winter; but, it declares if the powers do not succeed in causing the establishment of a satisfactory form of government by the spring, every available man will be called out and every desperate method for gaining the overthrow of the revolutionists will be resorted to.

The Turks report that both Chakaloff and Sarafoff, the insurgent leaders, were killed recently in the village of Boof, in the Florina district. The Bulgarians assert that Sarafoff is on his way to Bulgaria.

THIEVES ROB BY ELECTRICITY

Daring Burglars Use a Motor to Drill Into a Store Safe.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Burglars working last night in the full glare of electric lights, and using electric power to aid them in their theft, blew open the safe in the meat market of Joseph Becker, 602 North Clark street. They escaped after exchanging shots with a policeman and a private watchman. While they were at their work scores of persons were passing outside, and the keen eyes of a boy led to their detection.

Becker closed the market at 7 o'clock. He had not been gone more than an hour when the thieves entered through a rear window and began their operations. They first tried to force open the safe with the aid of their tools, but then they connected an electric motor they carried to an electric feed wire in the rear of the shop, and used to supply electric current to a laundry next door.

With the motor they quickly drilled through the safe after breaking off the combination knob. Persons were passing constantly in front of the building, and William Baker, 14 years from the market, saw the burglars at work. He ran to the Larabee street police station, and Patrolman Nape was sent to the store, impressing into his service a private watchman.

Nape, standing on the sidewalk, saw the two burglars blow open the safe and examine its contents.

The policeman fired at the fleeing burglars, and one of the thieves turned and emptied his revolver at the pursuers. When the policeman returned to the store they found the burglars had left behind them a small motor and a dozen drills of all sizes. Saturday night the safe contained $300, but last night was empty.

A TONIC FOR THE DEBILITATED.—Farnell's Vegetable Pills, by acting gently but thoroughly on the secretions of the body, are a valuable tonic, stimulating the lagging organs to healthful action, and restoring them to full vigor. SOME PERSONS have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery or diarrhea, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking and green food is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed, no further trouble will be experienced.

TAKEN FROM THE JAIL.

AT THE BIBLE CONFERENCE.

Next Sunday morning the speaker will be Rev. H. W. Frost.

A FIRST-CLASS PEA CROP.

Mr. William Frank, of Lambeth, who has been visiting lately in Bruce County, says that the pea crop up that way is excellent, being free from worms or damage of any kind. Mr. Frank thinks that it would be a good idea for the farmers of Middlesex to obtain seed peas from Bruce County and give them a trial here. As is well known the pea crop in this district has been a failure for the past couple of years.

LADIES' ORCHESTRA.

The ladies' orchestra will be one of the features of the Woman's Morning Music Club this winter. The choral society will receive special attention, too, but the ladies' orchestra will have 20 or more members and will give some excellent concerts during the season. The club is to have increased membership and their first concert will be given in the first week of November.

PERE MARQUETTE RUMOR.

It is reported that when the span west of the M. C. R. Kettle Creek bridge at St. Thomas, uniting the L. E. and D. R. R. and M. C. R. R. is laid, and the building of the concrete abutments and strengthening of the bridge is completed, all L. E. and D. R. R. and Pere Marquette trains will come into the city over the M. C. R. R. bridge, and that the L. E. and D. R. R. bridge will be torn down and sold. If there is any truth in this report it would indicate that the Vanderbilt interests have secured control of the Pere Marquette system.

CHEAP PLACE TO LIVE.

Dr. S. P. May, of Toronto, inspector of public libraries, is a great traveler and a keen observer. Recently he has been taking notes of the cost of living in the several places he has visited in the province, and has concluded that Shelburne, a village less than 100 miles north of Toronto, is the cheapest place in which to live in the province. Good chickens sell at 15 cents each, the best of butter at 15 cents per pound, new laid eggs 15 cents per dozen, potatoes 25 cents a bag, pork five cents per pound, and other things in keeping. NEW EXPORT RULES.

United States Consul Culver yesterday received a circular from the United States department of commerce and labor, which puts into effect a new rule regarding exports of manufactured food products.

According to the circular, exporters must have the products certified by the consul, as to all ingredients of the article and the methods of manufacture. Exporters of canned tomatoes and canned corn are especially affected in this district by the new rule. Mr. Culver stating that large quantities of these goods are shipped from London to the United States. All natural products, such as fish, cereals, etc., are not affected by the new rule.

FORMER LONDONER WED.

A quiet event took place this afternoon at the Grace Methodist parsonage, when Miss Cassie Williams, daughter of Thomas Williams, of London, formerly G. T. R. engineer here, and George Stevenson, of the Canadian Iron and Foundry Company's staff, of this city, were united in marriage by Rev. Dr. Gifford. The bride was attired in a blue cheviot traveling suit, trimmed with cream guipure edging, and wearing a black picture hat. At the conclusion of the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson left on the Canadian Pacific train for Toronto, Hamilton and Montreal, and on their return will call on their residence at the corner of Woodworth avenue and Edward street. Mrs. Stevenson was at home to her friends after Nov. 10. — St. Thomas Times.

FIFTH MEMBER NOT YET NAMED.

The commission appointed at the conference of the municipalities to investigate the question of securing electric energy has not yet appointed the fifth member, who was to be an expert engineer. Mr. E. W. Snider, of Toronto, the chairman, has gone to Winnipeg and will not be back until today or tomorrow. On his return to Toronto a meeting of the commission will be held, when it is expected definite action will be taken. The other members of the commission are: Mr. P. W. Ellis, Toronto; Mr. Cockshutt, Brantford; and Mayor Peck, London.

BULLAR-PHELAN.

St. Peter's Cathedral was the scene of a quiet wedding at 10:30 this morning, when Mr. David Bullar, of this city, and a popular employee of the stove-mounting department of the McClary Manufacturing Company, was married to Miss Nora Phelan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Phelan, of 845 Elias street. The bride was supported by her sister, Miss Katie Phelan, and Thomas Phelan, a brother, was best man, the interesting ceremony being performed by Rev. Father Aylward, rector of St. Peter's. The bride was charmingly attired in a brown traveling suit, and the bridesmaid looked very pretty in a becoming costume of dark material. After the wedding ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Bullar journeyed to the home of the bride, where a tasty breakfast awaited, and where they received the congratulations of many friends. At 2:30 this afternoon the young couple left on a honeymoon trip to the east, at the expiration of which they will take up their residence in this city.

PASSING OF THE BILLBOARD.

Newspapermen: There can be no doubt that newspaper advertising is rapidly increasing its lead over the billboard in the favor of the advertiser. The public has again and again expressed its opposition to the billboard, and with city after city passing laws abolishing the unsightly structures, the billboard is in a fair way to become a thing of the past. As the newspaper grows in favor, the billboard diminishes, and who will deny that the newspaper today is a far greater factor in the publicity field than it was even a year ago? As advertising grows more out of its infancy and out of its experimental state, the up-to-date periodicals are looked upon as the proper mediums through which to reach the public.

SHUT HER IN THE SAFE.

St. Thomas Times. A young lady bookkeeper, employed in the office of a Talbot street merchant, had a trying experience the other day. She was in the vault putting some books away, when a little boy happened along and closed the door. The proprietor of the establishment, being the only other person who knew the combination, was out of the city, but a couple of other merchants came to the young lady's aid. After half an hour's effort she finally succeeded in making them acquainted with the combination, and thus secured her release.

LONDON LADY THE FIRST.

The first Methodist deaconess appointed to labor in the city of Montreal is Miss Ethelind E. Howson, daughter of Rev. W. G. Howson, of Askin Street Church, South London, who has just taken up her work in that city in connection with the well-known Old Brewery Mission. The mission is a non-denominational Protestant institution, and has been for years a prominent factor in the religious and charitable work of the city. It is pointed out that in a city where Roman Catholic sisters are so much in evidence Methodism might with great advantage make larger use of the female diocese. It is understood that there is some prospect of the establishment of a Deaconess Home in Montreal in the near future.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

JESSIE MILLWARD.

One of the daintiest and cleverest comedies of the entire season is promised in "A Clean Slate," by R. C. Carton, in which Miss Jessie Millward, the well-known English actress, will appear at the Grand Opera House tomorrow night. Miss Millward's appearance here as a star at the head of her own company will no doubt be cordially welcomed by local connoisseurs. Miss Millward was leading lady at the London Adelphi, with the late William Terris. She appeared also as leading lady with Sir Henry Irving, alternating the leading roles with Miss Ellen Terry. Miss Millward's success at the head of the Empire Company is a matter of record. The occasion of her appearance here is a stage history. Curiously enough, she scored one of her greatest hits as Lady Algy in "Lord and Lady Algy," which was written by Mr. Carton, the author of "A Clean Slate," in which she is starring this season.

THE SECOND MRS. TANQUERAY.

Sadie Martin, supported by a company of unusual merit, will appear at the Grand next Saturday, matinee and night. It is a brilliant play, written in brilliant English, and constructed with great finesse and skill. Miss Martin dresses and plays the part superbly. The last act, in which she discovers the identity of the man who is to marry her, is a masterpiece of dramatic art. Her partner in crime, Willie Kiew, a boy in the juvenile class, was considered incorrigible, and sent to Penitentiary for an indefinite period of not less than one or more than five years.

Of the trio of imbibers, John Brazil was fined $10 or 21 days, for which he thanked the magistrate. The other two did not thank the magistrate. He allowed them to go.

BEWARE OF THIS CHAP

Slack Customer Working Farmers and Hotelmen—His Game.

Farmers and hotelmen of London and the district should keep a weather eye peeled for a slick individual who has been working hotelmen and farmers around Hamilton, Toronto, Brantford and other places. This flim-flammer goes to the hotel proprietor and says he will sell him a load of hay for $7. His last hired man was dishonest and was discharged. He has hired a new one, and he wants to show him the route. This new man must not fall into evil ways, as the last did, so the money for the hay is to be paid to the trickster himself. After making arrangements for the sale of two or three loads, this mysterious man of evil ways hies himself to the wood and hay market and tells a farmer that he wants to purchase a load. He gets the man to take it to one of the places previously arranged with and makes out that the hay of the soil is his hired man. While the hay is being forked in, he gets the cash and departs, leaving the farmer and the purchaser to fight it out.

MALE TEACHERS FOR BOYS

Mr. Harcourt Says They Should Have the Senior Classes.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt, Minister of Education, in a speech at Windsor the other night on "The Position of the Teacher," said that he is decidedly of the opinion that for senior classes of boys it is desirable to have male teachers, and he regrets very much that the number of male teachers is year after year diminishing. At the same time, the minister says he has always been of the opinion that for the lower forms, and for classes of girls in some of the higher forms, it is better to have female teachers. He has done the work as well as it could be done by anyone. The Normal School term has been lengthened, and Mr. Harcourt hopes to have some improvement in this respect inaugurated shortly in connection with the country model schools.

[Ottawa Citizen.]

Replying to an address of congratulation presented to him by his parishioners upon the fifth anniversary of his pastorate in the Church of the Exaltation, Kemptonville, Rev. Father O'Connor expressed this kindly sentiment, which does equal credit to head and heart: "I wish to speak as your pastor of the true spirit of harmony that exists between the different sects today. There is no reason why it should not exist and we should show our appreciation of the fact, even if others do not see eye to eye with us and if they do not feel as we do, nevertheless we should follow the teaching of the church, and with the true spirit of Christian charity have respect for every man's honest convictions."

THE FIRST IN THE CITY YOUNG FARMER WAS NERVOUS

Branch of Anglican Young People's Association Formed.

Large Membership Enrolled—Officers Elected for the Year.

A large number of the young people of the Memorial Church met in the schoolroom recently to form a young people's society. After opening exercises, conducted by the rector, Rev. Dyson Hague, who presided over the meeting, a short but very select programme was excellently rendered, consisting of a violin obligato, Handel's Largo, by Mr. Murray, leader of the orchestra, and solos by Miss Scott and Mr. Gover. Miss Moore acted as accompanist. Rev. Dyson Hague, who presided over the meeting, and the principles and objects of the Anglican Young People's Association of the Diocese of Huron, on motion of Mr. Adams, seconded by Mr. Thorpe, it was decided that a branch of that association be formed. The following officers were chosen: Hon. president—Rev. Dyson Hague, M. A., rector.

Vice-presidents—Mr. Nash and Miss Johnson.

Secretaries—Miss Judge and Miss Darville.

Joint-treasurers—Mr. Strongman and Miss Atkins.

Between 30 and 40 members were enrolled and there is every prospect of an excellent work in connection with this society which, it is believed, is the first branch of the A. Y. P. A. to be formed in the city.

Novel But Successful Mode of Stopping a Runaway.

Man and His Lady Companion Escape Without Injury.

A young farmer who was returning to Westminster from the city with a young lady the other day did a trick which entitles him to honorable mention among men who have presence of mind and bravery to back it up with. Just as the Lehigh express which generally gets into London about 12 o'clock, was pulling out, the farmer drove west along Railway street. He had a horse that had not been hitched up very often and the animal became frightened, started and reared as the train passed. It made several breaks to get away, but the young man showed his good horsemanship and succeeded in keeping the animal on the road until the bit broke and the couple were left in the buggy apparently unable to help themselves.

The horse then started at a terrific clip and turned towards the Pipe Line road as the first coach reached. Several times the occupant of the carriage had narrow escapes from being thrown out, and when the maddened horse turned at the Pipe Line road to go east the buggy ran on two wheels.

The hill at this point seemed to check the speed of the horse very little and the driver recognized that something must be done. As the horse was making swift bounds towards the top of the hill, the young man, who saw the danger, saw the runaway thought that the young fellow would surely be trampled to death. He possessed a remarkable strength of mind and keeping his body tense he in some way suddenly put his legs between those of the horse and tripped it up. The animal came down like a log and the young man who had gotten out of the way was upon his feet in an instant and the next was sitting calmly in the driver's seat as if nothing had happened.

He was covered with mud from head to foot, but he had stopped what might have resulted in a disastrous runaway. Another bit was soon obtained and attached to the bridle and the horse drove away peacefully enough. Not a strap was broken and neither man nor horse were injured in the least.

Many Went to See the Outcome of the Burglary Case.

Donohue and His Pals Remanded—Arthur Ward Discharged.

The court-room on Carling street was crowded this morning with those who wished to see the outcome of the burglary case. An additional charge was laid against Brenner, that of breaking into the market house. This leaves the charges as follows: Donohue, breaking into A. Westman's store and stealing revolvers and other articles, to which he has pleaded guilty; Weaver and Brenner, with receiving the stolen goods, all three, with breaking into the market house. Their counsel, Mr. McEvoy, could not be present, and the cases were enlarged for a week.

Arthur Ward, the young man arrested at Windsor, and charged by Roland W. Mitchell with fraud, was discharged. Ward made full restitution and paid all costs, and his explanations were such that the crown was satisfied that there was no intention to defraud.
