

TALK OF THE TOWN AND OF THE COUNTRY

Mr. Frank Fitzpatrick is taking over the tobacco and news business of Mr. W. G. Bell, Front street. Mr. Fitzpatrick has been clerk at Hotel Quinte for many years and his uniform courtesy and geniality will assure him success in his new undertaking. The city council has granted a transfer of license.

The Belleville Canadian very properly observes that one of the most successful ways of getting young people interested in the home and the farm is to provide good reading in the home. The minds of children naturally require reading for vigorous, intelligent development and there is no satisfactory substitute. The most interesting games, the most attractive recreation cannot fully compensate for reading in mental training.

Yesterday one of the students of the Belleville High School came to that institution with a loaded revolver, which he discharged out of the window. The performance was the talk of the school for the rest of the day. The offending youth's case has not yet been finally dealt with.

"Little beds of flowers, Little coats of paint, Make a pretty cottage Out of one that ain't."

Here we are again, and want to be taken care of—bon-voyage, street corners, vacant lots, flower beds, urns and parks. Who should do this work? The City Council, Chamber of Commerce, Board of Education, Ministerial Association, Industrial and business firms, railways, and every citizen. Those of Belleville's citizens who travel must hear that Belleville is a very clean and pretty city. People would like to come and live here mainly because of the work done by the Horticultural Society, and the citizens who help them and back them up.

Let us all work together this year to make our city brighter, cleaner, and healthier than ever.

One of the finest banquets held in Lindsay for some time was that under the auspices of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, Lodge No. 308, at the Elmsure Friday night. It was a choice affair in every respect, and the Elmsure is to be congratulated on the excellent spread and the manner in which it was served. A feature of the evening was the presentation of service medals to members of the lodge who had served in the cause of freedom and democracy overseas. The number comprised some sixteen fine young men, and the medals are beautiful tokens of esteem and appreciation.

At the opening Mr. Geo. Jobbitt, of Peterboro, took occasion to introduce Mr. J. D. McMillan, the popular Divisional Superintendent from Belleville, who thereupon acted as chairman and did so to the King's taste. Excellent addresses were delivered by His Worship Mayor McLean, while toasts were responded to in able manner by Mr. R. E. Orr, who spoke to the toast to the ladies, and Mr. S. Scott, who responded to the toast of "The Soldier Boys and Our Brotherhood."

The presentation of medals was made by Mrs. J. D. McMillan. Some 16 men entitled to receive medals, although a few were unable to be present. Among those decorated were: Leo Houllhan, Harvey Staunton, Earl Johnston, R. Willis, F. Broom, H. Clarke, D. J. Morrison, R. Sandercok and Sam Scott.

Fine weather on Sunday tempted a large number of Belleville young people to the rural roads and the wooded sections in this vicinity in search of May flowers. A great many of these hardy spring blossoms were worn on Sunday and yesterday.

Molra Chapter Royal Arch Masons have sent out invitations for a "ladies' night" banquet to be held in Johnstone's Academy on Tuesday, April 27th. This is an annual event with the companions of No. 7.

That Belleville acted wisely in securing the services of Miss Sinclair, a competent trained nurse, for inspection of the health condition of the children attending the public schools is becoming more evident every day. Such work means the saving of valuable lives to the community as well as greater comfort and efficiency for the children themselves.

That the lives of a large number of children who died in the Province of Ontario in the year 1918 might quite easily have been spared had and are delighted to know that at last they are there. Another consignment will reach Kingston within a few days when all the boys numbering 106, will be equipped. With the uniforms came naval signalling flags, the brigade ensign and the new cap ribbons.

A complete band equipment was purchased in Toronto on Wednesday last by Commandant Evans, and the brigade will have a definite and bugle band of twenty-one members. In view of the fact that Kingston had brass bands, and was organizing a pipe band, it was felt that a fine and bugle band would be a new and novel addition to the city's musical organization. A bandmaster was appointed last evening, and practice will commence at once.

The gymnasium equipment for the boys was also purchased on Wednesday, together with four life-boats of the ten-oared variety for the use of the brigade in local waters.

Many of the students at the O. A. C. at Guelph left for their homes Friday, having finished writing their examinations. They will not return until next September. The fourth year students will remain until some time next month.

Statistics just issued show that Great Britain's war losses in her population are being made good by nature. Births registered during last quarter of 1919 were 228,569, against 147,760 deaths. Births gained 48,202 over the previous quarter and 61,794 over the corresponding quarter in 1916. Birth rate was the highest since 1906, and deaths were the lowest. Infant mortality registered 7.1 per cent. per thousand, the lowest rate on record. Improved education and a greater development in infant welfare work were credited with aiding the favorable showing as to infant mortality. In 1919 England's population increased 179,428, not including the gain in births.

A novel method of constructing a coffer dam was employed by a British engineer in India when putting in the foundations for the abutment of a bridge. Piles were formed by joining old 20 foot double-headed rails head to head by iron bands. The lower ends were pointed and the piles driven at six feet distance. Mango plants were pushed behind the piles, and when bedrock was reached, bags filled with clay were used to keep sand and water out of the dam. All the material used in construction was recovered after the work was completed and the total cost was remarkably low.

"Nick Bawif, coach for Queen's hockey teams and all-round athlete star, is certainly making good as lacrosse coach for Cornell University. Bawif's team has won two games, and the thence students say he is the real thing. "Nick" was among the chief speakers at the Cornell lacrosse croquet, held this week. The Cornell Daily Sun gives him a great boost for his work with the Cornell lacrosse candidates.

The supplementary estimates for the province of Ontario for the year 1919-20 total $4,118,571.66. Kingston is interested to the extent of $111,200, which is to be spent at the Rockwood hospital, Portsmouth. Of this sum $7,000 will be spent in purchasing additional property, and $25,000 will be expended upon the erection of an addition to the nurses' home and $5,000 for furnishings for the same. The balance of the total amount will be used to purchase furnishings, equipment and supplies for the institution.

Belleville will receive $79,633.23 which will be spent at the Ontario School for the Deaf. Of this amount $50,000 will be for the construction of the main building, $4,500 for rebuilding cottages on the Lewis farm, $7,000 for completion of houses and workmen $3,900 for shoe shop machinery and balance for miscellaneous alterations, repairs and supplies.

Mr. Lucius E. Allen is refunded $16,100 to reimburse him for loss on contract on government highways. A gratuity of $550 is given to Mrs. W. S. Minns, widow of W. S. Minns, late supervisor of Boys, at the O. S. D.

The strike at the plant of the Ogdensburg Gas Company was broken yesterday when the company placed new men at work to replace the men who walked out. Several of the men were formerly employed by the company and are instructing the other employees. No unusual incident occurred at the plant during the night. Deputy Sheriff Edward McElligott, Patrolmen Robert Rouleau and Leo Blood and Sergeant Charles Harper were on guard. It was stated last night that there is now no danger of a "gas" famine in the city.

The proprietors of the Port Hope

Times announce that The Times has been sold to Mr. H. M. Ryan, of Newburgh, who will conduct that section. Little progress could be made. One of the autos when loaded weighed seven tons.

The Bank of Nova Scotia's new building at the corner of Princess and Wellington streets, Kingston, is to make a great improvement in the locality. The building, which was formerly occupied by the Dominion Express Company, is being completely remodeled at a cost of about $10,000, and will be up-to-date in respect to interior.

D. H. Seville, deputy provincial fire marshal, Toronto, was in Kingston on Friday making a careful investigation into the recent fire at the residence of Lt.-Col. G. H. Gillespie, Princess street. Mr. Seville's action was the result of representations from Kingston regarding the fire, but whether there was sufficient circumstantial evidence to warrant the conclusion that the fire was of incendiary origin, and what further action will be taken, Mr. Seville declined to say. Col. Gillespie is well known at Belleville.

Although it costs but 6 cents a day in India for men to wave fans to keep the air in circulation in houses, they are gradually being replaced by electric fans, as cheaper and more reliable.

Mayor Nickle of Kingston is offering a lot on Macdonnell street in that city free to any citizen who will erect upon it a house to cost not less than $2,000 and constructed so that it can be brick-veneer. Macdonnell street has sewage, water and gas. Mayor Nickle will endeavor to get other landowners in that district to make similar offers.

Interviewed by the Whig on Friday, Rev. Dr. Malcolm Macgillivray stated that the sum of $400 had been collected up to date for the Sir Wilfrid Laurier Memorial Fund, and that the fund was being kept over for another week, to reach the allotment for Kingston of $500.

The Board of Education of the village of Kemptville has refused a request of members of the teaching staff of the high school there for increases in salary for the reason that no provision for such was made in the "requisition" to the Village Council.

The last issue of The Canadian, the excellent paper published by the Ontario Society for the Deaf in this city, tells us that by means of the lip-reading system for the deaf are virtually made to hear through the medium of the eye. An apparatus has recently been invented which, in effect, will enable the blind to see through the ear. The inventor is Mr. Fournier d'Albe, and the appliance is called an "optophone," and it was "designed in order to make reading possible to the blind by ear, instead of by the touch." It is thus briefly described: "Light is reflected from the printed letters on to a selenium cell by means of a little signal tower, the light from which travels along the page from word to word and from line to line. The reflected light alters the character of the current running through a telephone, and the printed letter becomes 'seen' by the blind through the variation of the sound which, transmitted through the telephone, becomes audible to the ear." The instrument has passed the experimental stage, and is expected to be in practical working order, and on the market, in a few months.

The Town Council of Picton blew itself at its last session by raising the salary of the chief of police to $900; the night constable to $700; the clerk to $600, and the treasurer to $450. Percy Steenburgh's tender of $150 for the market tolls was accepted. Five thousand gallons of road oil was ordered and provision made for completing the road bed at the easterly end of Main street.

Ald. T. Angrove, chairman of the Board of Works of Kingston, accompanied by members of the Board, the City Engineer and Street Foreman on Friday made a thorough inspection of the streets in need of repair. Some of the streets were found to be in a very bad condition, and while it is impossible to do all that ought to be done this season, the appropriation of $22,000 will be spent where it is most needed. Many of the members were surprised to learn the real extent of what was needed on the streets. Ald. Angrove stated that the committee's plans for the season's work would be put into operation immediately.

wearing surface. The rate per lineal foot will be $5.06. The city's share of the cost of the pavement will be $4,952.70. A concrete pavement would cost $2.90 per sq. yard, the asphaltic $3.10.

Mr. Cyril McBride who has gone into the grocery business on Victoria Avenue, was on Saturday afternoon presented with a Masonic ring by his associates in the Bell Telephone plant office, with which he has been associated for a number of years. Mr. McBride was taken wholly by surprise, but was able to express his appreciation of the gift.

The excavator of the Standard Paving Company is now at work on Coleman street digging up the surface of the road to have all ready for the laying of the pavement of asphaltic concrete.

A meeting is to be held Thursday night at 8 p.m. in the Y.M.C.A. of last season's G.T.R. ball team, the executive from the city who were recently organized to assist with baseball and all interested in further promoting the team which will represent Belleville this year. Any fan who has not received a personal invitation is invited to be there. Col. Ed. O'Flynn will probably manage the team and Mr. Tom Fogg be secured as coach. Something must be done soon in order that the team may get down to work, so as to be ready for Peterboro' on the 24th.

Mr. B. A. Sanford, Belleville's well known fish merchant, reached the 50th milestone on life's journey yesterday. In honor of this important event about twenty-five of his friends assembled as unbidden guests at the family residence, Pineapple street, last evening and treated Mr. Sanford to a genuine surprise. The evening was very pleasantly spent in games and music, after which light refreshments were served by the guests who came well provided. During the course of events Mr. Sanford was presented with a briar pipe and case by Mr. Wm. Dingman and a dress shirt by Mr. Herbert Thompson. The gathering dispersed about the midnight hour after singing "God Save the King."

The exceedingly fine weather the past few days is just what the farming community requires. Yesterday morning farmers all over Hastings and Prince Edward counties began active operations on the land. The soil is in admirable condition for working, requiring very little cultivation to prepare the seed bed. If the rain keeps off seeding will be well advanced in all sections this week. This is far different from last year. The excessive rainfall in April made the soil as hard as a pavement, rendering it almost impossible to work into mellow condition. This spring is quite as early as the average and the honest farmer is off to a good start.

The election of the eight new members of the Queen's University Council has resulted as follows: H. A. Calvin, Kingston; Principal W. L. Grant, Toronto; Judge A. G. Farrell, Regina; E. T. Corkill, Coppercliff; Miss Edna Poole, Mallorytown; Alex. Longwell, Toronto; G. F. Hamilton, Ottawa; and Rev. J. W. McIntosh, Prince Albert. The new members will hold office till 1926.

Two trespassers on the Grand Trunk Railway were each fined $5, and costs or ten days in jail in Police Court at Kingston Saturday morning.

Jas. Gibson and Walter Graham, both of Toronto, pleaded guilty to "hooking rides" on the G.T.R. They got on a flat car at Belleville, and when apprehended were sitting in an automobile which was loaded on the car. Both men stated that they went to Kingston to try to get jobs on some of the boats.

Potatoes showed an increase in price and sold at $6.00 a bag at Kingston on Saturday, the highest price this year. There seems little prospect of potatoes coming down for a time yet.

Have you bought your overalls yet?

City Engineer Mill estimates the cost of paving East Bridge street from Pinnacle street to McDonald Ave. with a 6 inch concrete base, 1 inch binder course and 1 1/2 inch wearing surface of asphaltic concrete to be $87,418.50. The rate per lineal foot will be $3.37. The city's share of the pavement would be $43,318.65 and the property owners $44,102.85.

The Cornwall town council, which was urging the re-establishment of the Saturday afternoon train on the G.T.R. from Montreal to Cornwall, returning early Monday morning, has been advised by the railroad that re-establishment of the train would be impracticable, as returns from traffic do not warrant it.

If the acquisition of overalls will be an inducement to some people to go to work, the overall epidemic will not have been vain.

Cedar street's proposed asphaltic concrete pavement will cost $21,194.50 it is estimated. It will be 21 feet wide with a 5 inch cement concrete base, 1/2 inch binder course and 1 1/2 inch asphaltic concrete $5.

TALK OF THE TOWN AND OF THE COUNTRY

The Parent-Teachers' Association of Victoria school, Kingston, held their regular meeting Friday evening, April 16, in the school. The association is very much alive and planning great things for the future. Steps are being taken to bring the celebrated bird-man, Jack Milk, to Kingston.

After business routine Dr. Coleman gave an address which was greatly appreciated. His subject was "Where Do We Stand in Education?" Dr. Coleman believed that "practically all the recent adverse criticism of our schools, both from the standpoint of management and from the standpoint of teaching, may be summed up under four heads:

- (1) That our school system is autocratic;
- (2) That it is materialistic;
- (3) That it is inhumane (so far at least as its effect upon many children is concerned); and
- (4) That it is unscientific.

John A. Box, who recently went from Burnstown to Calabogie to spend the remainder of his days in the fine new home of his son, John S. Box, has reached the patriarchal age of ninety-eight years. The old gentleman is in remarkably good condition physically, except that his eyesight has gone wrong. Born in England in 1822, he came to Canada when a boy.

A Carnegie library is now proposed for Kingston. How the times have changed.

Officers in D'Annunzio's army are shaving their heads and growing pointed beards in imitation of the poet. His flying men call themselves "Iron Heads." If they were in Belleville they would probably be called just ordinary "Boneheads."

The newest thing is a "Jazzy Jag." A member of the B. C. Lodge is claiming that a certain flavoring extract sold out there produces what is technically known as a "Jazzy Jag" and he is asking the Attorney-General for information.

What resident of Belleville would suspect the humble smoothing iron of trying up the great Hydro-Electric power system and the Niagara cataract. Just listen to this from The Gospel Herald.

The average householder has very little conception of the large amount of power that is consumed every ironing day by the operation of electric irons. It is so great, however that on Tuesday last the peak load was reached in this city and it is said by the Hydro people that the demand for power runs up very high every Tuesday, which apparently is the day most housewives observe for completing the laundry work.

It wouldn't be surprising if one of these days the municipalities regulated the distribution of power by districts, so that all the ironing wouldn't come in one day. This would involve one section of the city doing its ironing on Tuesday, another on Wednesday, and so on, in this way lessening the demand on which enters into the problem of methods demand a lot these days that a few years ago were unthought of, and this is one of the things which enter into the problem of the high cost of living.

Friends of Rev. Alfred Brown, now stationed at Picton, learned today that the Senate of Victoria University, Toronto, has decided to confer upon him the honorary degree of D.D. It is understood the degree will be conferred at Toronto some time this month. Rev. Mr. Brown is a graduate of the University of Toronto, and a former President of the London Methodist Conference. He formerly preached in Central Methodist Church, Windsor.

The Toronto Star Weekly in referring to the exchange of pastors between Bridge street church, here, and one of the Toronto churches, has this to say in addition to the sending out of the two clergymen:— "When the 'big shift' of Methodist ministers comes next June, the two pastors pictured above will exchange pulpits, providing the Stationing Committee of the Toronto and the Bay of Quinte Conferences are satisfied. Dr. Cleaver has been the pastor of several of the leading Toronto churches. Dr. Scott went to Belleville from the Pacific Coast and has the reputation of being a strong and popular preacher.

H. M. Ryan, Newburgh, has disposed of his dry goods stock to Mr. Wright, Port Hope, taking in exchange, on an equitable basis, the printing plant of the Port Hope Times. This disposes of all or nearly all of Mr. Ryan's property interests in Newburgh, and means that he and his family will locate elsewhere. For twenty-seven years, the Ryans, father and son, have carried on business in Newburgh. During that time they showed an enterprise and business capacity which added much to the welfare of the village.

It became known Sunday at St. Johns, N.B., that workmen employed with the Foundation Company on the sub-structure for the new C.P.R. bridge over the reversing falls, say that on Monday, April 12th, they saw the body of a little girl floating through the eddies. They say she had on a pink dress, had her arms extended over her head and apparently one leg was missing. The tide was very strong at the time and in the swirl of the water and the eddies they lost sight of the body.

A potato boycott is on in Hamilton in earnest. The Federation of Hamilton Women, an organization which includes in its membership representatives of nearly all women's organizations in Hamilton, has taken the initiative. Mrs. Rose Cooper, president of the federation, is in charge. The members have all pledged themselves not to purchase potatoes for a month. Each member is pledged to communicate with six other ladies who have not been approached on the subject and pledge the six to also refuse to purchase potatoes. Each lady who agrees also pledges herself to get six others. The favorite method of communication is by the telephone. Those who have no telephone are to receive personal calls or written communications. The movement has all way in earnest on Saturday and all Saturday afternoon and Sunday the campaign was in full swing. It was not abated at all Monday morning. Industrial Commissioner C. W. Kirkpatrick stated that his home had been communicated with by seven different ladies in regard to the matter.

In a county case at Kingston presided over by Justice of the Peace Allison in the absence of Justice of the Peace Geo. Hunter, Mrs. W. A. Stark of the township of Kingston charged Mrs. A. Cawson, also of the township of Kingston, with allowing her poultry to wander on her premises. A. B. Cunningham contended that there was no evidence to show that the accused committed any offence as the defence had failed to produce any by-laws showing that it was unlawful to allow poultry to run at large. T. J. Rigney, who represented Mrs. Stark, contended that there was a by-law in the township of Kingston which forbade poultry to run wild. The court adjourned the case until Thursday when the clerk of the township of Kingston will be called upon to present the original by-law.

The following report on weather data at the Department of Physics, O.A.C. for the period April 1st to 15th, for the years 1900-1920, inclusive, has been prepared by Prof. R. R. Graham, and will no doubt be of interest. The figures go to show that April has been a somewhat exceptional month.

There have been eight years of the twenty-one in which there has been a higher maximum than this year, and twelve with a lower maximum, hence in this respect it has been above the average.

There have been only three other years, viz., 1914, 27.41 degrees; 1908, 26.80 degrees; 1907, 27.93 degrees, that have had lower average temperatures. There has been only one other year, viz., 1915, 26.30 degrees, with a lower average minimum. There have been four other years, viz., 1914, 27.41 degrees; that have been lower, and two other just the same, viz., 1914 and 1908.

The snowfall, 8.0 inches, far exceeds all previous years in this respect. Rainfall, 7-10 inches, four years greater than this year, hence this year much below the average. Prof. R. R. Graham of O.A.C. at Guelph is well known in Belleville, being a brother of Mr. R. J. Graham of this city.

News of the greatest tragedy that has befallen Alexandria Bay in many years was contained in a telegram received by Chief of Police James Crabb about 12.30 on Saturday from Port Clinton, Ohio, telling him of the death of three Alexandria Bay men, Arthur Gove, Arthur E. Pearce, and M. J. Roy, in a fire there Saturday. At the same time came word that Carlton J. Frederick, of Alexandria Bay and W. McFadden, of Clayton, had been badly burned.

The five men mentioned in the despatch, accompanied also by Fred Bradway, of Clayton, left Alexandria Bay Thursday night for Port Clinton to work for the season on the yacht which was formerly the Irene, owned by A. B. Peacock, well-known summer resident of the Thousand Islands. They arrived Friday and were asleep in a boat house on the Matthews Boat Company when it caught fire. Before they could escape they were caught in the flames, with the result that three burned to death and the other two were badly injured.

O. E. Stickle, who has lived on the old homestead all his life, third concession of Sidney, lot 3, relates the history of a remarkable pear tree, which was destroyed by a storm last fall. Mr. Stickle traces his ancestral tree back to 1750, when John Stickle left Holland and settled in New York State. He had three sons, the eldest son, Nicholas J. Stickle, came to Canada in 1780, and in 1800 settled in front of Sidney township. He subscribed to the first Sidney Record Book, giving seventeen half-pennies as his share.

The son of Nicholas Stickle, John N. Stickle, took up land in the third concession of Sidney about 1800, and this farm has remained in the possession of the family ever since. John N. Stickle died in 1843. His son, Addie N. Stickle, succeeded, and died by his son, E. O. Stickle, born in 1837, still owns the old homestead.

As to the pear tree, it was brought to the farm in 1800 when John N. Stickle took land in the then wilderness. The pear tree flourished and bore pears as long as his great-grandson, E. O. Stickle, can remember and he is now eighty-three years old. It bore every year except 1918. In 1919 it again bore pears and in a windstorm the faithful pear tree was blown over in the fall. In one year this pear tree bore twenty-two bushels of pears, which sold then at $2 a bushel.

The first house erected on this farm was, of course, a log house, as was also the school house, two and a half miles distant. The school house was used on Sundays for preaching, Rev. Dr. Gardiner being one of the first preachers, who also taught school.

At the Brockville police court Alan Kavanagh and Thomas Graham, of McIntosh Mills, appeared on a charge of damaging property lodged by James Warren. The most unpopular thing in the world today is the one thing that the world needs most of all, and that is good hard work.

The Town Council of Acton, Ont., has made a grant to encourage the baseball activities for the season. While the encouragement of all kinds of wholesome sport is commendable, Acton has established a precedent that may lead to trouble. A grant for baseball, why not one for football, hockey, lawn tennis, bowling, golf, lacrosse, or even horse racing?

On Friday Douglas Anglin, engineer for the Public Works Department, Kingston, was busy making soundings in the Kingston harbor. He took soundings around the dock at the Collingwood Shipbuilding Company's plant. It is the intention of the shipbuilding company to extend the wharf for a distance of 75 feet and soundings are being taken for that purpose. Soundings were also taken near the C.P.R. between Brock and Clarence streets for the purpose of seeing if the water is deep enough for steamers to come in at the wharf and load feldspar. Soundings taken show that for a distance of 300 feet out the water is not more than fourteen feet in depth.

The Kingston Whig believes it is the man who takes chances that succeeds and becomes wealthy.

"It is the man who takes the chance who succeeds and becomes wealthy, not the foolish chance, but the chance well weighed. There are men in Kingston today who would not have been worth anything if they had not taken chances on business deals or investments. The late Senator H. W. Richardson used to say that he had to take chances on many a deal that required instant action, but nine times out of ten he found his judgment right and made money. Kingston as a city will never be worth its salt if it does not take some chances in enterprises like its leading business men do, and we might humbly add its newspapers also. An hotel proposition appears to the small folk as an uncertain proposition, whereas the investment in a new hotel would be the beginning of a new era in the city. New life would be injected into the population in having a hotel that would bring big people here. In the bigger cities, contractors take 'chances' in erecting houses, and setting them, and to many people it seems strange that some of our well-to-do contractors have not combined and erected dwellings which would sell like hot cakes, setting them good margins. To men in the building trade there is no risk in these days about putting up dwellings, for buyers are tumbling over one another to get there first. Just imagine what three enterprising contractors in various lines of trade could do if they got together. They could solve Kingston's housing problem."

At the Assizes in Perth last week, Mr. Justice Lennox called a spectator to the bar for talking and wearing a hat. At the close of a case, there was considerable disorder as the crowd was leaving and His Lordship called for order, warning the audience that he would certainly fine the first man he saw talking. A second of two later he saw a man talking with his hat on and called him to the bar where he gave him a lecture on court rules. The man apologized and was permitted to go.

The Detroit Free Press announces an increase in its selling price to three cents a copy, beginning next Monday. tion, Robt. E. Desell, a Canton business man, aged fifty-six, wrenched himself free from his wife's grasp as they were walking through the grounds of the state hospital for the insane at Ogdensburg, and hurled himself into the waters of the St. Lawrence. He was immediately carried under by the swift current and not seen again. Desell who was a voluntary patient at the institution had been in a melancholy condition for some time and had been given the privilege of going around the grounds in the vicinity of the buildings in the custody of his wife.

On Friday morning a Toronto Jew formerly residing in Lindsay, was charged in police court for unlawfully selling liquor on March 13. Mr. L. V. O'Connor appeared on behalf of the accused and T. H. Stinson represented the Crown. Several witnesses were on hand, but the case was adjourned until Thursday, April 22, at 9:30 a.m.

When a Grand Trunk passenger train ran off the rails near Uxbridge a couple of weeks ago it gave grounds for a novel damage claim.

A commercial traveller, representing a millinery firm of the city, had along with him in his sample cases a fine model fashioned in wax, and the possessor of a head of hair usually known as auburn. Although no one on the train was hurt, barring being shaken up, the shaking up proved the ruin of the model, and nothing remained except some sections of wax still clinging to the wig.

The millinery firm now ask $35 damages for the model, and also claim loss of business through the traveller not having with him a suitable model upon which to display his ladies' hats in a manner likely to tempt the discriminating buyers.

A Toronto woman lately had a six-roomed house to rent, on the outskirts of the city, for which there were many applicants. Being a woman of resource, she conceived the novel idea of putting it up at auction. From her own point of view the experience must have been satisfactory. The highest bid was $76 a month.

The police and citizens of Whitty are puzzled over the disappearance of a young girl, Alice Mabel Burt, from that neighborhood. On Saturday, April 10, she was to have gone to Oshawa. A neighbor is said to have seen the girl on a bus travelling towards the G.T.R. station at Whitty, and that is the last the distracted father has heard of her whereabouts. The police description of her is as follows: Brown coats, black straw hat, veil, black faced boots, hair, light brown, eyes, light grey, 5 feet in height and stout build. When last seen she was carrying a suit case. She is 17 years old.

On Easter Saturday a goose and gander the property of Mr. Thomas Wilson of Ops were shot and killed on Mr. Wilson's farm by a party from town. The same day one of Mr. Wilson's neighbors saw a goose wrapped in a grey sweater alongside his fence. Later in the day a resident of Lindsay was seen going along Elgin St. with the goose wrapped in the sweater. The case has been placed in the hands of County Constable Conquergood and a few days' grace is being allowed the accused to settle before action is taken in the Police Court.

There is a bonus bill now before the congress of the United States, providing for the payment of two billion dollars to about two billion veterans of the war. At that Canada will not suffer by comparison. There is an immense and wealthy population in the United States to bear the distributed burden. Even with such a bonus the United States will not have done as much for her soldiers as Canada is doing and has been doing.

The time for filling up and sending in income tax forms expires with the end of this month. Single men whose gross incomes exceeded a thousand dollars in 1919, and married men whose gross incomes exceeded $2,000 are required to make these returns. If you are in any doubt about it it is better to give yourself the benefit of the doubt by filling out the forms. The penalty for neglect is a heavy one.

While an unknown man was in a military hospital in Toronto awaiting the clearing up of the mystery of his identity over five hundred letters were received from mothers throughout the country, all written in the hope that the man might turn out to be a missing son. The final debate for the inter-collegiate championship took place in Convocation Hall, Kingston, between Queen's and Ottawa College and the honors of the debate and championship were carried off by Ottawa. The debate was on the subject: "Resolved that the nature of the present tariff is preferable to substantial reduction downwards." The representatives of Ottawa College took the affirmative and they were J. W. Callahan and R. A. Cannon. W. A. Irwin and J. S. Prentice, for Queen's took the negative. The judges were Judge Reynolds, Brockville, W. S. Herrington, K.C., of Napanee and Ambrose Shea, barrister of Kingston.

The Ottawa debaters showed greater fluency of speech than Queen's also better delivery and were more particular in their choice of words.

"About the most unusual and at the same time the most spectacular marine happening I ever witnessed was the wreck of the squadron of scows and dredges towed by several tugs on Lake Ontario back in 1879," remarked Zeke Nelson, the Sodus Point veteran, according to the Buffalo Courier.

"Let's see," spoke up Mariner Mills, another Sodus Point product, "wasn't that the time so many persons were drowned when the scows and derricks broke adrift from the tugs?"

"That's the same incident," replied Nelson. "The fleet was bound from Cape Vincent to Buffalo, and on November 17th they encountered a mighty bad sort of gale. When they were close to Oswego a blinding snowstorm set in and it became worse every minute. Meanwhile a big sea was running and a regular hurricane was blowing. The towlines were parted and when the storm cleared away it was found that one dredge, two derricks and ten scows had been wrecked. They were strewn all over the beach down that way."

"I was here in Buffalo when that happened," said Boon Slattery. "I remember the occurrence well, for two old shipmates of mine were lost among the twelve men who perished in that disaster. But it was a good lesson to vessel people about the treachery of Lake Ontario in the late fall season. But the lesson has never been heeded, as has been attested by the subsequent losses of the section of the north-west and other vessels, some of them with human lives sacrificed."

A large number of taxpayers have been visiting the city hall the past few days since receiving their assessment notices. The increases in assessments are responsible for these visits. A number have approached the officials who have been called upon to explain them there will, in all probability, be a lower tax rate by reason of the boost in the assessment. It is likely the tax rate will be kept down to 35 mills at the most, whereas it was 33.3 last year. It will likely be midsummer before the tax rate is struck.

The second reading of the bill to reimpose a business tax on the distilleries of Ontario was passed in the legislature yesterday. In 1917, owing to war reasons the business tax was allowed to lapse, as far as distilleries were concerned. If the present bill becomes law, Thurlow township will be enabled to collect between $4,000 and $5,000 per annum from the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Co. at Corbyville.

Mr. H. K. Denyes, M.P.P. was in the city today on a route home for the week-end from the legislature at Toronto. Mr. Denyes is a member of the special committee to deal with game laws. One of the hardest problems they have to deal with is in reference to the hunting of deer. Deer are becoming very scarce in many localities and further protection is needed. Many recommend prohibition of hunting with hounds. Others would forbid killing in the water. Mr. Denyes personally prefers the latter restriction as giving the deer a chance for its life. Exclusive still-hunting, it is feared, would lead to much greater loss of life than at present.

Preparations are well under way for the entertainment of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers who are to favor Belleville with a visit on June 24th next. In the evening it is expected that they will be entertained at dinner at Hotel Quatre prior to their departure for the east. As Belleville is the only city in Ontario that will visit aside from Ottawa, this is a great honor and reflects much credit upon Mr. Lucius E. Allen, president of the Ontario Good Roads Association, who has been responsible for securing a visit from these distinguished professional men.

Warden Maybee on the Job

While in Toronto recently in attendance as a delegate at the Good Roads Convention, from this section, Warden Maybee, Reeve of Murray, had his ear to the ground listening for an opportunity to secure some special privileges for this section of Ontario. Mr. Maybee, as a member of a committee of influential men, approached the Minister of the Government at the head of the Department and pointed out the great benefits to be derived by making the road running from Picton through Trenton and Campbellford and on to Peterboro as a provincial highway.

The Minister promised his consideration of the matter. This would be in line of the present project of having the provincial highway running from Port Hope to Peterboro. We would come in direct line with 1,800 miles of proposed provincial highways every mile of which would be kept up to a Government standard. The cost of placing these in condition is so arranged that the expense is not a burden to any community. The Dominion pays forty per cent, Ontario forty per cent, and the county the remainder, twenty per cent. We hope Warden Maybee's efforts may prove successful. However, in the meantime, he will keep pushing to have the project carried through.—Hastings Star.

Made Gruesome Discovery

HUMAN BONES TAKEN TO CITY'S DUMP ON LOAD OF ASHES

Removed from Boarding House, Where it is Believed Students Had Them for Purpose of Study—Bones Had Been Placed in a Bag

Kingston, April 19.—The man who has charge of the city's dump on Bagot street made a gruesome find on Wednesday afternoon, when opening a bag, which was brought there by a carrier on a load of ashes. He found a number of human bones. They were carried there from a well known boarding house and it is believed that the bones were discarded by some medical students. The matter is being investigated.

It is the custom of the man on the dump to open all the bags brought there to see what is in them. When this bag arrived, he found that it contained a left hand, right foot, a shoulder blade and some other small human bones. The matter was reported to Sanitary Inspector William Carson, and also the police.

It is believed that medical students had the bones in their boarding house for study and that they took this means of getting rid of them. From time to time discoverers of this kind have been made, but it is felt that some action should be taken to stop the practice.

It will be recalled that about a year ago a human hand was found among some garbage taken to the city's incinerator. Upon investigation it was found that the hand came from a local hospital, and that it had been put in the garbage pail by mistake.

Wedding Bells

HAWLEY—BARBER

An event of much interest took place on the morning of Monday, April 12th, at the church of St. Mary Magdalene, when Miss Doreen Osborne Barber, daughter of the Rector, Rev. F. Louis Barber, and Mrs. Barber, was united in marriage with Mr. William Hawley, of Melford, Saskatchewan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hawley of Toronto, the ceremony being conducted by the bride's father. The chancel and communion table were decorated with flowers and ferns, Easter lilies predominating. The wedding music was exquisitely rendered by the organist, Miss Holmes. At ten o'clock the bridal party entered, preceded by the choir, who sang, while advancing toward the altar, "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden." The beautiful bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Frank Barber, of Toronto, was attired in a smart travelling costume of navy blue broadcloth with heron feather, and she wore a bouquet of sweethearts with pink tulle streamers. The bride was attended by Miss Lillias Barker, who wore a becoming gown of blue taffeta with frilled skirt and bodice draped with lace, and a blue mohair and tulle hat. The bridesmaid's bouquet was of pink and white carnations, tied with pink and blue tulle. About three hundred friends had gathered to witness the marriage, the bride being very popular in the church and social circles. During the signing of the register the joyous notes of the organ were accompanied by chiming church bells. Immediately after the ceremony, the bridal party repaired to the Rectory, where a dainty dejeuner was served, the wedding cake having place of honor on the flower-bedecked table. Only immediate relatives were present, including Mr. and Mrs. Frak Barber and Mrs. F. M. Hawley and Miss Louise Hawley, of Toronto, mother and sister of the groom. Among the many congratulatory messages received was one from the groom's father who, unable to be present, wired the following:—"If optimism meant wealth you would both be millionaires. You come into the family with my blessing and a welcome, daughter. Regret I cannot be there to-day. Heartiest congratulations to you both."

Mr. and Mrs. Hawley motored to Belleville, taking city on Wednesday and leaving that city on Wednesday for Winnipeg, whence a few days later they will proceed to their home in Melford, Sask.—Picton Gazette.

THE TROUBLE AT SANDY FLAT

He'd jes' come down from Roarin' Run, he told the boys he met. An' he'd come down to wade in blood an' hev a time, you bet; For he'd heard the Flat were some on fight an' shot an' kill.

An' that they kinder blowed around they thought he'd got his fill. But he allowed 'twould jes' be fun Ter swing around a ton-inch gun; An' learn 'em all to hev respect for men from Roarin' Run.

He explained he were a cyclone as could tear an' snort an' rip— He'd then proceeded to do it all if they gave him any lip;

That when he fit he always come a-sweepin' like a gale, An' ef he had an enemy he camped 'tween his feet;

An' that they'd say he weighed a ton About the time the fight begun, An' that Harnes's Peak were on 'em when they'd done with Roarin' Run.

He stepped up to a feller as he 'lowed 'ud make a bite, An' slapped him one, he said, "ter inaugurate the fight;"

But the cuss he swung a billiard cue that knocked him on the floor, An' then he kicked him through the screen as stood up by the door;

An' then they 'lowed the fight were done, About the time that it begun, An' the feller scooped up the gulch that led towards Roarin' Run.

How to Avoid Collisions

In a recent salesroom conference, the salesmen were discussing accidents which, during the rainy season, happen every hour. One man called attention to the dangerous practice frequently indulged in by well-meaning but thoughtless motorists. When overtaking another machine on a moderately narrow road, some drivers wait until within a few feet of the leading car before turning the right to pass. If, as the rear car overtakes and is about to pass the leading car, another vehicle suddenly pops into view, the driver of the fast-running car does not have time or room to dodge back, and a collision follows. When overtaking another car it is always much wiser and healthier for all concerned for the driver of the rear car to turn to the right a few rods behind the leading car, so as to get a clear view of the road ahead. After passing another machine, do not turn abruptly in front of it.

Theology in Camp

"Silver Jack," otherwise John Driscoll, a river driver by profession, and "tough" by nature, was for years well known and universally feared throughout northern Michigan, and served a long term in the State prison at Jackson for a robbery.

The incident embodied in this poem was given to the writer, substantially as related, by a former associate of Driscoll:

I was on the drive in eighty, Workin' under Silver Jack, Which the same is now in Jackson, An' ain't soon expected back;

An' there was a chap amongst us By the name of Robert Wait; Kinder cute and smart and tonguey, Guess he was a graduate.

He could talk on any subject From the Bible down to Hoyle, An' his words flowed out so easy— Jest as smooth an' slick as oil;

He was what they call a skeptic, An' he loved to set and weave Hifalatin' words together, Telling what he didn't believe.

One day while we all was waitin' For a flood, we sat around Smokin' nigger-head tobaccoer An' hearin' Bob expound;

Heil, he said, was all a humbug, An' he showed as clear as day, That the Bible was a fable, An' we 'lowed it looked that way.

"Miracles," says he, "an' sich like Is too rank for me to stave, As for Him we call the Saviour, He was jest a common man."

"You're a heart!" someone shouted, "An' you're got to take it back," Then everybody started, "Twas the voice of Silver Jack."

An' he cracked his fists together, An' he snucked his coat and cried: "It was in that thar religion That my mother lived and died;

An' although I haven't allus Used the Lord exactly white, When I hear a chump abuse Him, He must eat his words or fight."

Now this Bob, he warn't no coward, An' he answered bold and free: "Stack yer duds and cut yer capers, For there ain't no files on me."

An' they fit for forty minutes, An' the lads would whoop and cheer, When Jack spit up a tooth or two, Or Bobby lost an ear.

But at last Jack got him under An' he snugged him onet or twict, An' Bob straightaway acknowledged The divinity of Christ;

But Jack kept reas'nin' with him Till the poor cuss jasn't yell, An' 'lowed he'd been mistaken In his views concernin' hell.

Then the fierce discussion ended, An' they got up from the ground, An' someone fetched a bottle out, An' kindly passed it round;

An' we drank to Jack's religion In a solemn sort of way, An' the spread of infidelity Was checked in camp that day.

WHY A. J. MACLEOD PRAISES DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Nova Scotia Man Gives the Reason Why He Advises Sufferers from Kidney Trouble to Use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

River Dennis, N.S. April 19, (Special).—"Dodd's Kidney Pills helped me wonderfully. My back is better and as I haven't taken any other medicine since starting to take them, they must have done me a lot of good."

In these words Alexander J. MacLeod, a well-known resident here, gives his reason why he praises Dodd's Kidney Pills and why he says "I would advise anybody who has kidney trouble to give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial."

The reason Dodd's Kidney Pills are popular all over Canada is that people have tried them and found them good. Dodd's Kidney Pills have been in use in Canada for more than thirty years. They have been used by thousands of people suffering from various forms of kidney trouble, such as rheumatism, dropsy, sore back, weakness, diabetes and Bright's disease.

Ask any one of these thousands to give you his opinion of Dodd's Kidney Pills. It is on the relief afforded sufferers from kidney trouble that Dodd's Kidney Pills have built their reputation as the sovereign remedy for sick kidneys.

Mr. S. J. Harris and Miss Helen A. Lynch Married This Morning

St. Michael's Church was the scene of a very interesting function this morning at eight o'clock when a well known Belleville girl, Miss Helen Agnes Lynch, youngest daughter of Mr. M. J. Lynch, 131 Burnham street, became the bride of Mr. Stanley J. Harris, of this city. Rev. Father Killean, rector of St. Michael's, celebrated the nuptial mass in the presence of friends of the contracting parties. Miss Marion Lynch, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid, while Mr. Harold Gauthier, of Kingston, supported the groom. The bride was dressed in blue serge with tulle hat and wore emerald fur, the gift of the groom. The bridesmaid wore a blue suit with hat to match. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's father where in the presence of a very large gathering of friends, wedding breakfast was served and congratulations were extended to the happy couple.

Mr. Gault was one of Deseronto's best known and most highly respected citizens. A man of fine physique he not only made friends wherever he went, but he held them by his strong personality. He was a good citizen, the best of neighbors and a staunch friend.

Some twenty-five years ago he married Mary Emma Solmes, who with four sons, Donald J., Thomas, William C. and John A., are left to mourn the loss of a loving husband and a devoted parent. Peterboro Favors Idea of One Good Baseball Team Distress Signals Are Beginning To Loom up in Local Baseball Circles—Players Are Being Handicapped.

Peterboro, April 19.—The appearance of distress signals from two teams in the City League, and the apparent intention of another club to have a hand-picked nine, has created a stir in local baseball circles that will likely lead to a meeting of representatives of the clubs with a view to saving the game from what has all the earmarks of a bad smash-up. Those on the inside say that should the present situation be allowed to continue, a blow-up is inevitable and instead of pastime at Riverside Park, the fans face the alternative of attending band concerts and hearing the band play "I'm forever blowing bubbles" with Peterborough as the horrible example.

Why have the inferior quality when the best is to be had, it is argued. In other words, why go through the agony of the last two seasons, when there is a splendid chance to have the city represented by a team of Ontario championship calibre? Such a team is assured of the strongest backing ever accorded a club in Peterboro. It could be kept intact, and fed from the ranks of a city league. The players in the first team would have an incentive to give their best all the time, and the talent in the city league would be encouraged to improve themselves by reason of the opportunity to land in higher company. The city league could enter the intermediate series of the O.B.A. Such an organization would develop players, and, since it is apparent that baseball is coming back stronger than ever, a policy of united effort in the interest of a one good team, and the developing of young players, appears to be the proper course to take.

Favour one Good Team The clubs can rest assured that the vast majority of fans favor the "one good team" idea, and are ready to accord it a full measure of support.—Peterboro Examiner.

Picton Cheese Board Opens 1920 Season

Output Will Be Seriously Lessened By Several Causes.

Picton, April 19.—(Special.)—Picton Cheese Board opened the season of 1920 here Friday. Owing to the backward season and the feeding of calves, no cheese was offered for sale. Information was given by representatives of various factories that the output would be seriously impaired, owing to the opening of two large condenseries, and that the high price paid by butter factories would curtail the output for this season to 60 per cent. of former years. The only solution for the saving of the cheese industry was for the speedy return of the old conditions, whereby exporters are allowed to export when and where they can successfully compete with the present conditions and opposition.

Bifocals Add Much to Your Comfort

TO keep changing glasses or putting a pair on and off, is inconvenient and unnecessary. Don't do it. Wear Bifocals.

Bifocals give clear sight for both far and near vision, and have the appearance of a one-range lens. They take the place of two pairs of glasses, or make it unnecessary to remove your glasses if you need them only for close vision. Blackburn makes a specialty of fitting Bifocals.

Let us demonstrate them to you.

Unveils Memorial to Mohawks

Honor Roll Shows 83 "Went"—23 Sleep in Flanders' Fields

The tablet erected in Christ Church, Tyndinaga Reserve, to the memory of those who played their part in the recent war was unveiled with fitting ceremony.

The tablet, which is brass on oak, is surmounted by the Canadian flag and the Union Jack. Beneath the flags is the inscription: "1914—Roll of Honour—1919, Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte. Our Volunteers for King and Country." Under "Our Glorious Dead" appears the names of 23 Tyndinaga young men who will come back no more. Their names appear in three rows with the line: "Their names liveth forever more," below. Under the heading, "Our Valiant Living" sixty soldiers are represented. The tablet is neat, well-constructed, and a fitting remembrance of the glorious part played by the Mohawks against the common enemy.

Christ Church was comfortably filled for the occasion. The Deseronto veterans marched to the church and occupied the front seats. The Rev. A. H. Creagan, the popular rector of the parish, lead the prayers and singing. Then while the congregation stood, the tablet was unveiled by the Rev. Archdeacon Dobbs of Kingston. The choir followed by singing "God Save the King."

In his sermon from the appropriate text, "Greater love hath no man than this," Archdeacon Dobbs paid a tribute to Christ Church as a parish, and the Mohawks as a race. "You have every reason to be proud of their men," he said, referring to the names on the honor roll. "The high percentage of enlistments is an honor to your parish." There was no doubt in Archdeacon Dobbs' mind that these young men were actuated by the lives of their noble ancestors, Tyndinaga and Joseph Brant.

During the service the choir with Mrs. Creagan at the organ sang Mohawk hymn No. 1, then while the offertory was being taken up the beautiful Easter anthem, "He is Risen,"—Deseronto Post.

Mayor Denton Interviews Govt.

Cobourg, April 19.—Mayor Denton was in Toronto for a couple of days last week where he interviewed the Ontario Government in reference to the new buildings at the Ontario Military Hospital here, which is to revert to the Ontario Government about the first of May. Mayor Denton wished to secure the use of the extra buildings added to the old asylum property for the purpose of turning them into apartment houses, in order to relieve the very acute situation in regard to residences for incoming citizens and the many who are searching for houses and are unable to get them.

The Department's reply was that they would give it their serious consideration, but owing to the demand for public buildings they expressed a doubt that they would be able to spare them for the town.—World.

Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh to Visit Old Home

Prominent Belleville Merchant and His Wife on a Tour to Scotland After Absence of 24 Years.

Mr. and Mrs. John McIntosh left at noon today for a four months' tour and visit to their old home at Inverness, Scotland.

A large party of Masonic brethren from the Mofra Chapter assembled at the Grand Trunk depot to wish the departing couple bon voyage and to present Mrs. McIntosh with a beautiful bouquet of roses.

Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh will proceed to St. John, N. B., where they will embark on the "Minnedosa" on Friday for the voyage across the pond.

Mrs. McIntosh's mother is still living and much of the time will be spent in visiting her and other relatives.

It has been 24 years since Mr. McIntosh visited the old land and he expects to find many changes there. He will combine a certain amount of business with pleasure and buy considerable goods for his chain of stores.

During his absence the business here will be managed by Mr. McIntosh's two capable sons, John and George.

Local Team For Trent Valley League

Possibility That League will Affiliate with O. A. B. A.

The Trent Valley League, which has such a successful season last year, will this year it is understood affiliate with the O. A. B. A. and have been angling to get a Belleville team to group with them. They took up the matter with Bobby Collins, manager of the Ontarios but as he is not going to handle the Ontarios the coming season has turned the proposal over to St. Michael's Club. The St. Michael's Club have signified their intention of entering the league, which will likely include Tweed, Marmora, Deloro, Madoc, Havelock and Belleville, and will hold a meeting on Thursday evening to select a delegate to represent them at the league meeting or turn down the proposal.

If the Trent Valley League affiliates with the O. A. B. A. in the intermediate series, it would be a good thing for Belleville to get in the league, as this team would be a feeder for the senior champions any time they desired to pick up a man. If St. Michael's enter a team all ball players in the city will be given a fair try-out for places. They have new suits purchased last season, and a couple of pitchers already for action, so we would advise them to carry on. We are sure they will be liberally supported.

Confirmation at Emmanuel

Bishop Brewing Officiated Last Evening.

Bishop Brewing, of Toronto confirmed a class of eight, six girls and two boys, at Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal Church last evening in the presence of a very large congregation. The Rev. George Marshall rector, assisted in the service. At the close the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered.

The bishop delivered an address to the young people, basing his sermon on the words of St. Paul: "I have fought a good fight. I have finished the course. I have kept the faith." Nothing is so inspiring to the young starting out on life as the example of a great victorious life. Paul was a great fighter, a man on fire with a great passion. Paul fought the same old conflict as men have to fight. He called it a good fight, not a great fight. The young man who fights the devil on his own ground in his most terrible form will not get his likeness in the newspapers as the prize fighter does but still his conflict is by far the greater. There is a difference between goodness and greatness in the world's estimation, but there can be no real greatness without goodness.

Saul in his youth fought against Christ in sincerity and in the fulness of all his energy. Possibly the look on Stephen's face as he was being stoned to death brought the change in Saul's life. He fought against self. Many men have never attempted to kill the beast in their soul. They have followed the line of least resistance, because resistance causes pain in the soul. His fight was weaponless, conquering in the love of Christ. He received many blows and gave none. The whole problem of industry resolves itself down to a basis of thought—the most real, and vital force in the world.

War never ended war. We were deceived when we thought we were fighting a war to end war. Mexico loves war. What she needs is an army of Sunday school teachers to knock hate out of the Mexican heart, and let love and knowledge in. It all the ministers and professors who went to Germany to study had taken real civilization and the Gospel to Germany instead of bringing back German philosophy the world would have escaped the horrors of war.

The preacher cited figures to show that out of one hundred young men starting out at 25 years of age, after forty years the financial status of them would be as follows: 1 wealthy 4 independent, 6 earning their own living, 54 dependent on friends and charity.

The removal of the liquor traffic removes one of the greatest obstacles to success. But many have failed because they had no soul, because of social conditions. But the spiritual race is just as pathetic. Out of one hundred Christian professing men, doubtless 54% of them are failures, having lost their joy in Christ.

Paul kept the faith. What if he had fought the fight and won the race if he had not kept the faith. Men have won victories in the field of commerce, love, conquest, politics but have not kept the faith as they have a knowing at the heart in spite of their success.

The bishop closed with the story of the "forty wretches." Why cannot we be wretches for Christ. He urged those confirmed to let no one silence them about Jesus.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. O'Flynn arrived home on Saturday evening from a four months' tour and visit to southern California and the Canadian west.

Confirmation at St. Thomas

Class of Twenty-Five Presented by Rector

The Rt. Rev. Dr. E. J. Bidwell, Lord Bishop of Ontario, last evening confirmed a class of twenty-five candidates at St. Thomas' church. A few months ago thirty-nine were confirmed. There was a large congregation to take part in the services. The choir sang with much effect an anthem "If ye love Me keep My Commandments," the music of which was composed by St. Thomas' organist, Mr. W. E. Wheatley. The Bishop preached his sermon on the text "Put on the whole armor of God," urging the congregation to use the Christian armor as means of defence and offence.

The Bishop also delivered personal directions to the candidates for the guidance of their lives.

Ven. Archdeacon Beamish presented the candidates and assisted in the service.

Obituary

THOMAS DELL GAULT

After an illness of six weeks, Thomas Dell Gault died at his home on Princess Street shortly before twelve o'clock last Wednesday evening. Some six weeks ago Mr. Gault, apparently in the best of health, was stricken with paralysis. Despite skilled medical treatment, however, he failed to rally and his death though sudden was not unexpected.

Picton Cheese Board Opens 1920 Season

Output Will Be Seriously Lessened By Several Causes.

Picton, April 19.—(Special.)—Picton Cheese Board opened the season of 1920 here Friday. Owing to the backward season and the feeding of calves, no cheese was offered for sale. Information was given by representatives of various factories that the output would be seriously impaired, owing to the opening of two large condenseries, and that the high price paid by butter factories would curtail the output for this season to 60 per cent. of former years. The only solution for the saving of the cheese industry was for the speedy return of the old conditions, whereby exporters are allowed to export when and where they can successfully compete with the present conditions and opposition.

DIGESTIVE TROUBLES CAUSE DISTRESS

But They Are Nearly Always Due to Thin Watery Blood.

Do not think that because your stomach is easily upset you are the victim of some serious malady. One of the most common predisposing causes of indigestion is anaemia, or thin, watery blood. In fact it has become generally recognized that health activity of the stomach is impossible unless the blood is rich and red.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been found most valuable in cases of indigestion, nervous dyspepsia and stomach weakness, just because they are a blood builder and nerve tonic. The rich, red blood they make not only imparts a healthy digestion, but carries color to the cheeks and lips and gives vigor to the muscles. One important point to remember is that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain no harmful drugs or opiates and are thus to be preferred to preparations that merely stimulate for a time. Before you begin worrying unnecessarily about your state of health, try the tonic treatment of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You will be surprised to see how rapidly your appetite returns and your whole debilitated system roves, as the new, rich blood courses through your body. Here is the statement of one person among thousands who have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to their own great advantage.

Mrs. A. Veniot, Homford, N.S., says: "For about two years I was a great sufferer from indigestion, which seemed to carry with it a complication of other troubles. Every meal I took brought to me misery, as it was followed by pain, and sometimes nausea and vomiting. At other times gas would form in the stomach to such an extent that my heart would palpitate at an alarming rate. These conditions brought on extreme nervousness and irritability, and I found my general health so much affected that the least exertion would tire me, and I slept but poorly. I had been doctoring for several months with no result beyond slight temporary relief, when I was advised by a friend to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I decided to follow his advice, and I got a half dozen boxes. Good results soon began to show from this treatment, and the further continued use of the pills have made me a well woman. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to similar sufferers."

"I GO A-FISHING"

Easter Sunday Sermon Delivered to the Congregation of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church

BY REV. W. H. WALLACE

But when the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore, but the disciples knew not that it was Jesus. Then Jesus saith unto them, children, have ye any meat? They answered Him, no. And He said unto them, cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. They cast therefore, and now they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes.—John 21: 4-6.

After Jesus rose from the dead He remained forty days before ascending to the right hand of God. During the forty days He was seen by many of His followers and the remarkable fact is, He only appeared to those who really believed in Him and loved Him. At one time He was seen of five hundred at once in a mountain in Galilee, this was by His own appointment. Up to the time of the story of our text, as near as we can make out, the following is the order in which Jesus had shown Himself openly to His followers, after rising from the dead that first Easter: He appeared first to Mary Magdalene, then to the other women, who were the last at the cross and the first at the grave; after that He was seen of Peter, and many believe it was a personal interview to give assurance of restoration after denial; then He was seen by the two disciples on the way to Emmaus, when Jesus revealed Himself in the breaking of bread and prayer; then follows the sudden appearing to the eleven at Jerusalem, when the door was shut for fear of the Jews; again after a week passed, Jesus appeared to the disciples in the same room; then He appeared to the doubting Thomas for his unbelief; the next appearing of Jesus is in the story we have before us, which we will briefly consider.

Seven Go Fishing

While the disciples of Jesus were waiting for the appointed meeting in a mountain in Galilee, seven of them stood on familiar ground watching a very common scene. Galilean fishermen were busy pushing out their boats to spend a night upon the lake, with the hope they would return in the morning with their nets filled and boats laden with a big catch of fish. They were to know by experience both disappointment and glad surprise. These seven restless men were Peter, James and John, the sons of Zebedee; also Thomas and Nathaniel and two others, whose names are not given here. Peter is filled with the longing to return to his familiar calling and perhaps with a desire to do something to help maintain those who are depending upon him. So he turns to the others, and in laconic fashion gives expression to his chief desire: "I go fishing." They responded forthwith: "We also go with thee." They immediately launched out into the deep; but although they toiled all night "they caught nothing." When the morning appeared and they were nearing the shore they were startled by a voice full of sympathetic enquiry, "Lads, have you any fish?" They answered, "No." Then that voice from the shore with unquestionable authority commanded them to cast their net on the right side of the ship and they would find. They did as they were told and were not able to draw in for the multitude of fishes. It is interesting to mark the results—how this incident affects these men and what follows. John is the first to recognize Jesus—love is always quick to discern—and he turns to Peter and utters words that stir the depths of that fisherman's soul and gives him a new impulse. Listen to the words and watch the effect. John said to Peter, "It is the Lord." When Peter heard it was the Lord he girt his coat about him and cast himself into the sea. He is ready now to give up all for his Master. This is why Jesus asked him after they had dined, "Lovest thou Me more than these?" Not only once, but three times. Peter was grieved that Jesus asked the third time. "Lovest thou Me more than these?" Peter's answer was, "Lord, Thou knowest all things. Thou knowest that I love Thee." The Lord said, "Feed My sheep" and also "shepherd My lambs." Peter nor John, nor any of the other disciples who were present at the morning meal by the seashore would ever forget that interview. John took pains to record it as an appendix to his gospel.

Some Easter Lessons

But the important matter for us this morning is to consider and take to heart, some of the lessons we can learn from this fine Easter story of Jesus appearing to the seven on lake shore of Galilee. We might first ask the question, "Why did Jesus appear so often, and only to His followers, during the forty days?" First, we believe it was in order to complete the gospel record that Christ had risen from the dead and established the fact so that it would be incontrovertible and second, it was Christ's own prerogative to appear to His own. The only probable exception was to be His appearing to Saul of Tarsus for the purpose of his conversion and make him an apostle to the gentiles. This lesson stands out clear in the narrative, that whatever path we may take, even when we choose our own way, Christ watches over us. "He knoweth the way we take." He sees when our toil is fruitless and is ready to help and sympathize. Again the Lord can and will give good success. The chief thing for us to do is to obey Him when He calls, and cast the net on the right side. We are so apt to do things wrong, we need His wisdom and His guidance. And again, we learn that the Lord will surprise us, in times of discouragement, not only with His presence, but also His blessing. He will supply all our needs according to His riches in glory. We also learn this other beautiful lesson in this Galilean story, that those who love Christ best will be the first to discover Him when He comes to do us good. They shall say, "It is the Lord." Above all things, let us make sure that we love Him and be able to say, "Lord, Thou knowest all things." Thou knowest that I love Thee.

We may also learn this lesson and surely it is a timely one. Many see a symbol in this narrative—they see the night of toil for the church of Christ, and surely it is on now—but the morning is coming, and with it comes the risen Lord and He alone can give success in every honest endeavor. Many feel that the church has toiled all night and when the dawn comes there is nothing after all the toil.

But the chief Easter lesson for us is the transforming power of Christ over the lives of men. These men left all for Jesus; sake and loved not their lives even unto death. And the transforming power of Christ's sympathy and love may be realized in our own lives. There is a beautiful story told of a young woman whose character ripened into rare loveliness. Her friends watched her growing gentleness and heavenliness with wonder. They could not understand the secret of it. She wore about her neck a locket, within which no one was allowed to look. Once, however, she was very ill, and one of her companions was permitted to open this sacred ornament, and she saw there the words: "Whom having not seen I love." This was the secret. It was love for the unseen Christ that transformed her life. Christ Jesus our Lord may ask each one here this morning, now and at His table, "Do you love Me more than all else in this world?" What will the answer be?

The Case of the Teachers

The Literary Digest has for some weeks been offering prizes for the best reason why teachers should have more pay. In a life issue it announces that the first week's prize in the supplementary contest for Canadian teachers has been awarded to Miss Greta T. Bidlake, teacher in the rural school at Upper Coveville, N.B., who contributes this: "The teacher—My mission is holy. I prescribe for the mind and body; battle against heredity and environment; build statesmen, patriots, thinkers, artists. In return I receive a pittance. I am forced to struggle against discouragement, live in inferior boarding houses, and exist on bare necessities."

Miss Helena V. Booker, teacher in the Wentworth Street School, Hamilton, Ont., wins the second week's prize with this original paragraph:

"The teacher? A preacher. And mother combined; She nurtures the body, The soul and the mind. Her station? Elation. Her status is high! She gives to the nation The things we can't buy. Remittance? A pittance. That labor can beat! The teacher is puzzled To make both ends meet."

PETERBORO MOTOR SHOW OPENS.

Brockville C. P. R. Ticket Office Ordered to Not Sell Tickets to United States.

Three Get Five Years.

Five years in Kingston penitentiary is the sentence imposed by Chief Justice Lathford on Samuel and Kenneth Clark and Alfred Flintoff, who were found guilty of assault with intent to have carnal knowledge with Ina Petrie, a girl under 14 years of age.

The accused men pleaded not guilty and maintained their innocence throughout. The trial lasted practically the whole day on Tuesday, finishing amid heart-rending scenes of the relatives of the guilty men, as they were taken away from the court room about 6:30 o'clock.

The most convincing statement of the evidence which condemned the three young men was given by one of the trio, Kenneth Clark, who elicited information when Chief Justice Lathford himself was probing deep for facts, which corroborated the evidence given by Ina Petrie.

Navigation Opens Soon.

It is expected that some of the vessels which have been tied up at Kingston during the winter will be able to clear for lake ports in a few days. The coal steamer Jaska will likely be the first, although the Kay line boats are due to clear on the 20th. The steamer T. P. Phelan, of the Canada Steamship Lines, has left the dry dock at Kingston.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Better Boll the Water.

The Town Engineer had the out-fall sewer opened Thursday, and the public will be well advised to take precautions with their water supply for a few days until the effects of these operations are definitely ascertained. Engineer Worden and the local Board of Health are both taking samples of water daily for the next few days and the results will be published in The Reformer.—Oshawa Reformer.

Peterboro Motor Show Opens.

With all the snap and ginger that has characterized the Peterboro Motor Show in other years, the 1920 show got away to a good start Wednesday evening in its three days of gaiety and high class entertainment supplied to the citizens by the Peterboro Health Association.

The armories had a gala appearance for the show with its flags and booths and prettily decorated exhibits. The variegated colours and the surging crowds presented a scene of unusual beauty. The exhibit of cars is wonderful and the new models were scanned by eager and admiring eyes while attentive and courteous salesmen explained their fine points, and many new additions. The fine up of cars is worthy of any city in Canada of this size and include all the well known cars.

The exhibit of motor accessories, oils and supplies, is worthy of the highest commendation and the new appliances and supplies created much admiration and to all motorists were a source of interest.—Peterboro Examiner.

Hydro Radial Soon.

Indications that it will not be long before the Ontario Hydro Commission commences work on the Toronto

& Eastern Radial Railway are not lacking. Scarborough Council has received a notice from the Hydro authorities asking that a by-law, authorizing the issue of $800,000 worth of debentures, to cover the township's share of the liability for the road, be passed. After a discussion, the matter was left over till the next meeting, in order that further information might be had.—Oshawa Reformer.

Back in Kingston Again.

Despite the fact that he has been sent back to his home in Picton on many occasions, by the Kingston police, after being taken in charge for vagrancy, Thomas David, an elderly man, is back in Kingston again. He was given work for a farmer at Wolfe Island, but only remained a short time. Just a few weeks ago he was before Magistrate Farrell on a charge of vagrancy and the magistrate gave him the choice of going to jail or to Picton, and he decided to go back to Picton.

May Consider It Later.

The report presented to the Kingston Board of Trade meeting on Tuesday evening by Dr. G. W. Bell, chairman of the agricultural committee, found several members ready to take part in the discussion of points raised by the doctor. Some of these were the milk accommodation for farmers who came to the city present agricultural conditions, such as the need for encouraging production by making farm life more attractive. The doctor was highly commended and as it was recognized that the evening's program would not permit of the sort of discussion everyone desired, the suggestion was made that an evening be set aside for the purpose of dealing with the report in a manner warranted by its importance.

In Service at Montreal.

Adjutant John C. Harbour, late of Kingston, has arrived in Montreal, having been appointed superintendent of men's social work of the Salvation Army, in succession to the late Staff Captain Cornish, who died in February from influenza. The new superintendent is no stranger to Montreal, as he was there in charge of the industrial department on Chestnut street from 1910 to 1914. He has seen service in Quebec and Ottawa and for the past two years has been in charge of the military hostel in Kingston.

Taken to Hospital.

The milk vendor of Kingston who recently was prohibited from vending milk by Milk Inspector Bell, as there was a case of diphtheria in his home, was this morning taken to the hospital suffering from diphtheria.

Held Confirmation.

The Bishop of Ontario confirmed twenty-two candidates in Trinity Church, Brockville, on Sunday morning and preached to a large congregation. In the evening he held confirmation at St. Paul's Church and also preached.

The Eleventh Contribution.

Toronto Globe: The Kingston Whig sent a further $164.25 to the Armenian Fund, making the eleventh contribution from their readers, totalling $2,456.23.

Weeklies Going to $2 a Year.

The newspapers of Bruce County have decided to increase the price of subscriptions to $2 a year, to commence some time during the summer. The $1.50 weekly is no longer a paying proposition.

Wee Drop Was Expensive.

After a hard day's work, Thos. Bowden was apprehended on Simcoe street, Oshawa, on Tuesday evening with a six-ounce bottle of liquor in his possession, though it only contained about two inches at the time. Accused stated that he had not drunk any or was not intoxicated but pleaded guilty of having same in his possession. The magistrate had no alternative and imposed the minimum fine of $200 and costs.—Oshawa Reformer.

Lost on One, Made Profit on Other.

The Galt Hydro department shows a net profit for the year of $6,708.97, a decrease, compared with 1919, of $6,121.77, which is due to reduction in the power load owing to cessation of war work, while there was an increase in the sale of current for light and domestic uses. In the waterworks a loss on the year's operations of $5,808.36 is recorded, due to increased cost of maintenance.—Oshawa Reformer.

THE DODGE CAR HAS MANY ADMIRERS

Duffus Motor Sales Showing of the Dodge Car Receiving Many Favorable Comments

Judging from the numerous expressions of approval of Dodge Brothers' car, by those attending the Motor Show, no other car enjoys such an enviable reputation. Scores of owners and others were heard to say that the Dodge is the one car of all cars that is so thoroughly made and so mechanically correct that every owner of a Dodge Brothers' car is not only satisfied, but is truly proud of his car and his investment.

Dodge Brothers never experienced the difficulties that some manufacturers of a automobile did. Being thorough mechanics, and having had a wide knowledge of car building prior to going into it themselves, obviated this usual unpleasant feature. Consequently its good name from the first has made it extremely popular, and the opinion usually expressed is highly commendable.

This, together with the reputation and service of the Duffus Motor Sales, who are its distributors in this section, makes it an extremely attractive proposition, and is resulting in many sales.—Peterboro Examiner.

Pawned Jewelry Purchased Liquor

Oshawa, April 17.—Liquor, jewelry and religion figured in a County Criminal Court case at Toronto yesterday, when Alfred Profit, of Oshawa, was charged before Judge Coatsworth with the theft of valuable rings, bracelets and lockets from Mrs. Joseph W. Jones, formerly of Trenton.

Profit asserted that he had been given the jewelry to raise money to invest in a supply of liquor in Montreal. He had figured out, he said, that the price of liquor was almost sure to go up, and so had decided to lay in a supply.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Jones denied that it was on this understanding that he had been given the jewelry. They had nothing to do with his financial interests, he said.

Profit stated that they had laid in a supply of 70 or 80 cases of whiskey, outside of Montreal, but as he had no license to sell, he could not legally get rid of it. He had gone to his pastor, he said, and then had decided to give up the liquor business.

"Don't drag the church into this," shouted Crown Attorney Greer, "the church has enough troubles of its own."

Mrs. Jones admitted experimenting with whiskey and paraffin in an attempt to produce a chewing gum with a "kick."

Judge Coatsworth adjourned the case for two weeks in order that the jewelry, which is in pawn in Montreal, might be produced.—Reformer.

A Harrowing Tale

A rather sad incident occurred at one of the stations in Cobourg last Friday morning. A stranger with three grips got off the early train from Montreal. He was not only carrying a good jag outside, but one inside as well, consequent on his return from the wet metropolis of the east. Going into the station he set his three grips down, and then let himself relapse into slumber. Not long after, several thirsty souls from Cobourg came into the station to take the local. Seeing the grips and the sleeping drunk, they ultimately came to the conclusion that the grips contained just what they required—liquid refreshments. First one grip disappeared, then another, and emboldened by the fact that the kind-hearted stranger still slept on the third grip, was pilfered, taken down the track to the shelter of a box car, and the contents sampled. As the contents were favorable to the taste, they were carried off down town. When the drunk awoke from his sleep all he found was an old pair of overalls, which one of the pilferers had left in place of the grips. He was for immediately calling up the police to try to get track of his valuables, but on it being pointed out to him that his telling what was in the grips would render him liable to a $200 fine under the O.T.A. he decided to keep quiet. And all he had was a pair of overalls—size about 45.—Trenton Advocate.

STUCK TO IT.

Too many of the young people of today will begin a task, no matter what it may be, from the preparation of a Latin lesson to the wedding of an onion bed, do perhaps half of it, then stop and begin something else, and probably never think of it again.

It is a mistake for parents to allow such proceedings on the part of their children, but it is also a mistake for the young people to allow themselves to form such habits.

Boys, don't be quitters. Persevering people are the ones who win the golden laurels of success. The great men of our country, our lawyers, our statesmen, our inventors, have achieved their greatness and built up their characters and reputations by persistently keeping at whatever they undertook. A person can never become a great writer or an orator without much perseverance in pursuing his vocation, and by setting high ideals and working for his aim in life.

When you have a lesson to be learned keep at it until mastered. When you have a task set before you, stick to it until it is finished. Don't be a quitter.—The "American Boy."

LOCAL FACTORIES MORE SANITARY, SO FINDS DR. CLINTON

Peterboro, April 17.—Sanitary conditions in Peterboro factories have improved considerably during the last year, Dr. Clinton, District Officer of Health, said this morning after completing the inspection upon which he was engaged for two days. In some of the shops there is still need for drinking fountains, and in some other respects the sanitation has not reached an ideal state.

Dr. Clinton, however, was pleased with the signs of progress, especially in some factories, superintendents of which have evidently set themselves out to make the sanitary equipment more efficient and protective of the health of the employees.

In his visits he was accompanied by Sanitary Inspector Stapleton and left at noon today to investigate a reported outbreak of smallpox.

Fall Wheat is Reported Damaged

The cool weather of the past week or so has had a detrimental effect on the fall wheat, and also upon the clover fields, according to the reports issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. In many places, however, the snow-furrows were sufficiently plentiful to protect the young shoots from the cold winds. The unsettled weather also put a stop, temporarily, to the early spring seeding.

Reports show that live stock, on the whole are thinner, but are in a good healthy condition. Farmers are undecided what to do with their cattle, owing to the unsettled condition of the market at present, but in the main are holding their stock. Hogs are not so plentiful as they were a year ago. Labor is hard to secure and wages range from $40 to $100 per month and board.—Lindsay Post.

BAYSIDE BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Hunt spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wilson of West Huntingdon.

Rev. F. G. Joblin, of Seagrave, spent one day last week with friends here.

The Orangemen have completed the foundation of their new hall and expect to go ahead with the erection of the building immediately.

The Bay-side Cheese Co. will commence operations on Monday next 19th inst.

The Bay-side Knowledge Box is a veritable hive of industry these days. There were sixty-two on the roll today but they weren't all on seat. There are thirteen more to come from Trenton way as soon as Tuesday's washing and ironing is done.

To watch the battalions march by on their way to school one would be inclined to believe that an incubator was in operation up the road, and perhaps there isn't after all. If you want to know where they all come from, ask someone who knows.

The Women's Institute held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. D. Gunn on Wednesday. The officers for the coming year were elected. Mrs. D. Gunn, Sr., who has filled the position of resident for a considerable time was re-elected. Mrs. F. A. Gardner, the veteran secretary, was re-elected by acclamation. The meeting was largely attended. Many questions of public interest were brought before the meeting for discussion and in all likelihood the Institute will enter new fields of usefulness in the adjacent future. The cleaning up of White's cemetery and making it more inviting, the calling in of a trained nurse to examine the pupils of the school regarding health, the installation of individual drinking cups in the school, were among the more important questions and if carried out would be of far-reaching importance to those concerned. Go to it ladies, it's a good work.

Let's chew your gum till recess? The home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Calman was the scene of a quiet wedding on Wednesday 7th inst.

When Miss Nellie Wilson, who has spent the past five years with Mr. and Mrs. Calman, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. John Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Ross, of Gilead, Ont. by the Rev. H. H. Stutton. The immediate relatives and a few friends only were present. Mr. Ross has a mind of his own and judging from what transpired during the evening we would term him one of the wise men from the east.

While the assembled guests were enjoying themselves, some one noticed that the newly made bride and groom were among the missing and that a horse and buggy was also gone. A couple of powerful motors were hurriedly called into action and headed for Belleville in which direction the fleeing couple had gone.

Every hotel in Belleville was searched, not a bed in the hospital was overlooked in the search and even the House of Refuge was pecked into, but all in vain. The young couple had apparently dropped off of the earth. The disappointed motorists were finally compelled to return home without even sighting their quarry and spend the remainder of the evening nursing their injured feelings and warning their chilly bones. After a time the young couple returned from their honeymoon and showed their good sense by retiring early, leaving the guests to laugh at their own foolishness.

The people of Bay-side wish Mr. and Mrs. Ross a long and prosperous life.

A young man in the employ of an undertaking firm in Belleville, while driving out to the Belleville cemetery had an attack of heart trouble near the home of Mr. Sharpe. He managed however to reach Mr. Sharpe's where he was given a restorative that started his heart beating at regular intervals. Motor cars and bad hearts are dangerous combinations but we wish him every success in his undertaking.

Annual Vestry of St. Thomas

Successful Year Just Closed—Features of Meeting. St. Thomas' Church held its annual vestry meeting last evening in the parish house, Ven. Archdeacon Beamish presiding. The meeting was one of the most important and most harmonious in the vestry's history. Mr. B. P. Jennings was re-elected people's warden and Mr. Chas. Rogers was appointed rector's warden. The auditors elected are J. W. Davison and A. W. Rowlands. The following sidesmen were elected: J. L. R. Gorman, J. D. Collip, J. A. Kerr, J. W. Davison, H. C. Thompson, J. L. Simpson, Dr. Ackerill, W. O. Adams, A. A. Lockwood and J. D. Clarke. Mr. Chas. Skeicher was re-elected vestry clerk. The lay delegates to synod are J. Elliott, W. O. Adams and J. A. Kerr.

All societies show substantial credit balances. The revenue from all sources was over $6,000 and a credit balance remains of $190.

During the year the congregation gave over $1,500 to missions and other worthy objects outside the parish.

Prof. Wheatley was given a very substantial increase in his salary as a recognition of his splendid work as organist.

On account of the increased work for the past year, the wardens were authorized to secure a secretary.

The social club, organized some time ago, has done much to bring all parts of the congregation together. Its first year has closed very successfully. It has more than fulfilled expectation and prospects are very bright for the coming year.

Bastings Pastor Takes Up Farming

Hastings, April 14.—On Wednesday evening last a well filled purse and an address were presented to Rev. T. and Mrs. McKim and family over their departure for their new home near Colborne, where Mr. McKim will take up farming.

The Cobourg Streets Are in a Bad Condition This Spring

TO PLANT 26,000 TREES

The Man Who Mysteriously Disappeared from Napanea is Still Missing

Streets in Bad Condition

With the frost leaving the ground a number of streets in Cobourg have become a nuisance to those who use them. Elgin street, from the House of Refuge to Pratt's mill, is almost impassable, while King street is also badly cut up. For several weeks the town men have been grading up a bad section of road on University avenue, from George street to Railroad street, and the refuse from the copula at the Dominion Wheel and Foundry Company is being used to build up the road. This is afterwards rolled with the steam roller, and makes a dry, hard roller. Sentinel-Star.

Wants Marriage Annulled

In the Supreme Court of New York at Ogdensburg, Lulu Black is the petitioner in a suit against Emery W. Buck for annulment of a void marriage. It appears that the plaintiff was the wife of one Arthur Fuller and that defendant Buck represented to her that he had obtained a divorce from her from Fuller. Believing that she was actually divorced from Fuller, she went to Prescott and was there married to Buck, with whom she lived until she discovered that she had been deceived and that she was still the wife of Fuller. Hence the action to annul the marriage with Buck. One child, a girl two years old, resulted from the second marriage.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Diseased People Handling Food

It is alleged that persons in Kingston afflicted with disease are employed in public places in that city and the matter is to be reported to the medical health officer. "The question is being asked, 'Why is it that medical doctors who are treating the sick do not have them removed from employment that renders them a menace to the health of the community?' Should a doctor who is called to treat a man who works in a restaurant, cooking and serving food, decide whether the man should be permitted to remain in such an occupation?"

Gets Back for Treatment

Nelson Wilson, who was found guilty by Judge Ward in the county judge's criminal court on Saturday on a forgery charge, was let go on suspended sentence. He was handed over to the Soldiers' Civil Re-employment, he being a returned soldier, for further treatment in the Kingston military hospital.—Cobourg Sentinel-Star.

To Plant 26,000 Trees

A tree planting day, when 26,000 trees will be planted on the state land at Canoe Point and Waterson's Point, near Clayton, is being arranged for some time in May by the members of the Thousand Island Fish and Game Club. It is expected that a general holiday will be declared and that all Clayton will assist in the planting.

Accused of Murder

Abd Gardner, Syracuse, N.Y., a former resident of Cape Vincent, was taken into custody in connection with the murder of Lewis Carey. He tells the police that he had an argument with the man who is now dead in a saloon and claims that he left that place before Carey.

Miss Willoughby Resigns

Miss Bertha Willoughby, R.R.C. O.B.E., has resigned from the position of matron of the Sydenham Hospital, Kingston. Miss Willoughby was matron of Queen's military hospital in Egypt and France throughout most of the war, and rendered splendid service. She will go to New York to take a special course in hospital management. The appointment of her successor is under consideration, but no names have yet been mentioned in connection with the position.

Is Still Missing

As far as can be learned, no trace has been found of William Allen, the young man who mysteriously disappeared from his home in Napanea a few days ago. It is the general belief now that Allen was drowned in the river. He disappeared on the day that his father, Bryce Allen, died. He served overseas, and suffered from shell shock.

Big Leagues Start Today

The American and National League opened their season Wed. In the National League Pittsburgh plays St. Louis, Chicago at Cincinnati, Philadelphia at Brooklyn, and Boston at New York; while in the American League New York plays at Philadelphia, Washington at Boston, St. Louis at Cleveland, and Detroit at Chicago.

Liquor Was Expensive

One of the first charges to be laid under the amendment to Section 51-B of the Ontario Temperance Act in 1919, was heard in the Peterboro police court on Monday, when William Johnson, a local man, was charged with procuring by improper means a medical prescription for liquor. It came out in the evidence submitted that he paid another man $1 to obtain a prescription which he took to a druggist and secured 20 ounces of liquor at a cost of $2.70. He discovered that such a practice was a rather expensive method of obtaining liquor when he was assessed $50 and costs, amounting in all to $54.10, so that his 20 ounces of liquor cost $57.80.

Underweight Bread Confiscated.

One conviction was made in Cobourg this week for selling light-weight bread. Chief Ruse announces that in future all bread found under weight will be confiscated, as well as prosecution in police court. The penalty for the first offence is a fine of from $10 to $100, and for a second offence a fine of $200.—Cobourg Sentinel-Star.

Went Through a Wreck

Dr. H. G. Belaire, Pembroke, was through a runaway. The tongue was broken, and when it fell to the ground the occupants of the buggy were hoisted upward, landing on the ground, while the vehicle then turned over on Dr. Belaire. Finally the horses broke away, leaving the buggy completely overturned and badly damaged on the roadway. Both gentlemen received a bad shaking up, and the doctor was stunned for a short time.

Landing Field for Planes

George C. Sherman, of Watertown, has offered the use of his property at Steele's Point, near Clayton, as a landing field for airplanes. If the landing field is established, both passenger and freight planes will operate not only between river points, but between Clayton and Rochester and possibly other places. Excursions among the Thousand Islands will be a feature. The field is unusually level and particularly well adapted for the purpose.

May 9th

The date of the graduation exercises in connection with the Kingston Hospital Training School for Nurses has been fixed for Friday, May 9th, in Grant Hall. This is considered the event of the season.

Hotel Refrigerator Robbed

Thieves paid another visit to the refrigerator of the Grand Central Hotel during Monday night and made away with a ham and a small quantity of butter. Following the robbery of the same refrigerator during the winter the management placed a strong lock on the building which is located outside of the hotel. On Monday night the lock was undisturbed but the miscreant cut a hole through a wire screen on the door of the structure and took with him only what he could reach without entering.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Hotel Changes Hands

The St. Lawrence Hotel, Alexandria Bay, N.Y., formerly the Jefferson House, has been purchased from Mrs. Ida B. Childrester by Mrs. Frank Widner and Mrs. Roy Rapapole.

MARRIED IN TORONTO

Miss Mabel Cox, of this city and Mr. T. R. Drew, of Nemegos, were quietly married in Toronto by Rev. A. M. Hubly, 491 Euclid Ave. The many friends of the young couple extend to them many years of happiness.

Nights of Agony come in the train of asthma. The victim cannot lie down and sleep is driven from his brain. What a grateful relief is the immediate effect of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. It banishes passages and enables the afflicted one to again sleep as soundly and restfully as a child. Trust on the genuineness of your nearby druggist.

Preparations Being Made to Increase Canning Crops

Prince Edward County Farmers Will Devote More Attention to Dairying and Canning Products.

(Toronto Globe.)

There is every reason to believe that the canning crop acreage in Prince Edward county this year, owing to the general success of those farmers undertaking that line of business in 1919, will be considerably increased. Tomatoes particularly will be an exceptionally large crop, according to Mr. M. E. Clark, of the Canners' Seed, Limited, Wellington.

Fancy peas, stated this authority, will not be quite so popular, despite the increase of twenty-five cents a bushel being offered by buyers, on account of the partial failure of the previous season. Tobacco is well established in a limited area of that productive county, and the acreage will be well up to past seasons. Growers received big prices for their products in 1919 and this fact has encouraged more farmers to raise tobacco.

Aid to Mixed Farming.

"Mixed farming has received a big boost," said Mr. Clark, when the writer visited that section of Ontario last week, "since the canning factories have established sales in connection with their factories. Peas, corn husks and cobs are ensiled by these companies, and the product is sold to dairy farmers at half the cost of manufacture for winter feeding. In consequence of this move many dairymen are canning crops, partly for the money and partly to take advantage of the cheap feed available. This fact," continued Mr. Clark, "is ideal for dairy cattle and the sale of which, in my opinion, will encourage mixed farming and winter dairying."

The labor problem in Prince Edward, in common with the rest of Ontario, is becoming acute. Cities and towns miles away are continually draining the young manhood away from the land. Partly offsetting this shortage are the retired farmers living in the villages. The latter left their farms before the dollar began to tumble, and are finding the task of meeting the high cost of living, a serious problem. Consequently, many of these men are available for a considerable amount of day labor.

Farm Property Changing Hands.

Much farm property is changing hands in the "island" county. In the majority of cases the buyers are from the rougher parts of the counties to the north, and are, fortunately, equipped with experience, capital and large families. The old owners are forced to sell on account of lack of help and are retiring to the towns.

Prince Edward is well equipped with horses and the sales of tractors and trucks therefore are not so large as in other sections of the Province. The holdings are in the majority of cases small, 80 to 100 acres and the average farmer in this section is fairly well prepared for the long, severe winter, and the feed situation in consequence is not so serious as in other parts of the Province. General farm operation had not commenced when the writer visited the country, but all farmers interviewed were preparing for the spring rush when the weather should moderate. An exceptionally large acreage of fall plowing was completed last autumn, which will materially help the labor situation during the canning season.

Rice Lake Indians Will Sell Pelts By Auction

Have 15,000 Muskrats and Expect Toronto and Muskrat Buyers to Submit Bids—Price is Reported Down 75 Cents by Local Jobbers—Trappers May Lose.

Holding their muskrat pelts for a "long pull," to use an expression of the group who decided to emulate the methods of the Canadian fur auction recently held in Montreal. From the information received, some of them, after consulting local dealers with whom they have done business for years, decided to sell at $5 a pelt, delivering them weekly. As a result they have disposed of all their skins, but the other trappers on both sides of the lake have some 1,500 pelts to offer the buyers, who will include not only Peterboro men but some from Toronto. It is understood that the sale will be by sealed bids on Friday afternoon, but with the decline in price reported on Monday, one dealer who has loaded up with nearly four thousand muskrat skins, stated that he would probably attend the sale but was not eager to bid for the 1,500 that have been held for a top price. He said he had all the rats he could handle, and although satisfied at having paid the $5 which has prevailed up to this week, he was not interested in taking any more at the lower level.

If the auction fails to attract a five dollar price the Indians who held out until the close of the season expecting a further upward swing will experience some of the bitterness that comes to stock traders when hanging on hopefully for a higher level, they discover that their forecasts discounted the bear forces, and that they have to unload at a lower price and take their losses instead of gains.

Facing a Serious Loss

The reports of a declining market were doubly verified by several of

Peterboro's prominent furriers. "We are now paying $4 a pelt and the price may go lower," said one dealer. "The drop was not unexpected, but we have bought a large supply at the five dollar price."

The obvious inference is that dealers at the present time, unless there is a subsequent recovery in the market prices, are facing a serious loss. The local purchases run into thousands of pelts, and at today's quotations every pelt bought before this week represents the loss of one dollar to the buyer. While an accurate estimate of the total sales already made is not available, it may not be an exaggeration to place the total loss to the trade at $10,000, that is under the sudden and rapid decline of the last three days.—Peterboro Examiner.

Returned Soldier is Long Missing

G. A. Nelson May be in Kingston and Authorities Are Searching for Him

Kingston, April 16.—Information is being sought which will lead to the finding of G. A. Nelson, an ex-member of the 21st battalion, who was discharged at Montreal on his return from overseas, on January 26th, 1919. Since that date his mother, whose home is in Calgary, has heard nothing from him, and although every effort has been made by the Red Cross and the police to find the man, both in Canada and the United States, only faint clues have come to hand, which show that the boy is wandering from place to place without any knowledge of where his home is.

The authorities in Kingston have received notification of the case of Nelson and are trying their utmost to locate the missing man. There is a possible chance that he may be in Kingston and therefore a complete search of the city and vicinity is being made.

The description of the missing man is as follows: Age, 23 years 10 months; height, 5 feet 8 inches; weight, 160 pounds. He has a scar behind the left ear and on the right forearm. The last time that he wrote to his mother was dated February 1st, 1919.

Nelson has been missing since the first of February, 1919, on or about the date on which he was discharged in the city of Montreal. He is suffering from loss of memory, following shell shock, and there can be no doubt that he has also lost his identity. He has aged considerably since the last picture was taken of him and his hair is turning grey.

Any information that will lead to the recovery of this man will be greatly appreciated if sent to Mrs. E. E. Nelson, 224 18th avenue, Calgary, Canada.

Separate School Being Planned in the Factory Town

Gananoque, Apr. 16.—The Roman Catholic population of this town has taken the initial steps requisite for the establishment of a Separate school in this town. The school will unquestionably be an established fact within the next few days. A new building for that purpose will be erected on property belonging to that church, on the south side of Pine street, and will be a splendid site for the building, although not as centrally situated as might be desired.

Methodist Tribute to Catholic Bishop

Peterboro, April 13.—His Lordship Bishop O'Brien has always appeared to me as a man. Some way or other the man has hidden the bishop, and I see only the man—a simple, testimonial, yet a deeply expressive one of the respect in which he is held, eloquent in its simplicity this tribute paid last evening to His Lordship Bishop M. J. O'Brien by the Rev. F. E. Malott, of Trinity Methodist Church, at the complimentary banquet, under the patronage of the Peterboro Board of Trade, tendered to the Bishop on the eve of his departure for Europe to report to the Holy Father.

As was prematurely announced in a local paper last night there is a possibility of "Cannon Ball" Ed. Scott, who twirled such good ball for the Lindsay club last season, lining up with Hillcrest of Toronto this season.

For some time the local baseball officials have been camping on Scott's trail, and "Scotty" wants to play with the Greybirds in preference to Toronto, but for business reasons it is stated that he will remain in Toronto. Mr. Scott, Sr., is of the opinion that his clever-pitching son should follow in dad's footsteps and take up his business career in the firm. Ed's sporting instincts call him to Lindsay, but business calls him to Toronto, and, according to the common law of things "business comes before pleasure."

MOST BEAUTIFUL MOTOR TRIP IN THE WORLD

The Journey From Los Angeles to San Diego—150 Miles Over Asphalt Roads and Amid Scenes of Surpassing Loveliness—Racy Description by Mr. F. E. O'Flynn.

Editor Ontario.—Although I have had the good fortune to take many beautiful trips with motor car and coach among other places over the Kerry Mountains from Killarney to Glen Gariff through the Highlands of Scotland and the Trossachs over the Alps from Metrogen to the Rhone Glacier at the summit and on to Brig in the Rhone Valley, I am of opinion the trip by motor from Los Angeles to San Diego, a distance of 150 miles surpasses them all. The roads are all smooth cement covered with a carpet of asphalt so that the car glides along silently and swiftly, the hills and mountains have been graded so that one can ascend without reduction of speed. The roads are of such width that there is no difficulty in meeting other motoring, the law requires motoring to travel on the right side and the speed limit is 25 miles per hour. Leaving Los Angeles at 9.30 in the morning we passed easterly along Stephen Avenue through Monte Bello, strike the Whittier Boulevard and continue easterly through the towns of Wattler, Huntington Park, pass numerous villages until the traveller passes La Habra, when prominent sign post turns one south towards Fullerton. The first 50 miles is through Orange County, the most noted orange district in California. On all sides can be seen large orange groves laden with fruit, the bright yellow of the oranges standing out with great clearness against the dark green foliage. Residences of mission, colonial and oriental styles of architecture are on all sides and appear their best in such surroundings. Nearly all grounds have pergolas covered with climbing roses and wisteria and along the sides of the roads and between the different properties were hedges of geraniums and roses in bloom.

The roadways and entrances were marked by the beautiful palm trees. All were brightened by the beautiful sunshine, and under a cloudless sky, while all the time during the first 50 miles could be seen the lofty Sierra Madre range 40 miles away. "Old Baldy," the king of them all added to the beauty of the scene with his wide snow-clad summit. At different points could be seen sign boards giving the names of orchards or owners and the way was plainly pointed out by sign posts.

Fullerton is a beautiful town in the centre of Orange County and its public buildings, banks, restaurants and well kept streets are a delight to the traveller and a pride to the inhabitants. Mr. Sydney Ross formerly a merchant and one of the prominent residents of Madoc village has a large orange ranch here and one of the avenues of Fullerton has been named Ross Avenue as a testimony to his progressiveness.

We passed through Anaheim, Orange and Santa Anna, all flourishing cities and towns. We then passed out of the great orange section and for miles we passed through a country altogether different. Large ranches and farms are seen, some having 5000 acres and even the tops of the hills are cultivated and vast fields of alfalfa and vegetables meet the eye on every side. The beautiful green is soothing to the eyesight of the traveller and restful to the wayfarer.

After driving for miles through this country of green fields without orchards, we reach San Capistrano, where a mission was established 150 years ago and being one link in the chain of missions which extended for 1000 miles along the coast of the Pacific Ocean to Ocean Side and in this may be seen many stock ranches.

This is a sudden change from the country already described. The beautifully paved road continues straight over large hills and through valleys and then suddenly passes through a canyon and runs along the strand of the ocean and then again runs up elevated lands. From Ocean Side to San Diego the road is along the shore either along the strand or where this is impracticable along the top of the high shore. Perhaps the greatest surprise to the traveller going south is Torrey Pines. At this point the road sharply turns inland and ascends the mountain to reach the high shore. The ascent is a long one and the grade is very steep and it is necessary to make many turns to reach the top. When the top is reached a beautiful view is obtained. The grand old Pacific glistens in the afternoon and the myriads of diamonds, the waves break with ceaseless roar at the foot of the cliffs. Here and there fishing smacks can be seen in the horizon. It is a favorite resort for picnics and automobile excursions. From this point to San Diego is most interesting. We pass the noted watering place of La Jolla pronounced La-Hoy-Ah, where there are beautiful caves also Ramona's Marriage Place and the site of the first mission in California and arrive at the City of San Diego after a drive of 150 miles never to be forgotten. San Diego is a great city with beautiful parks, immense out-of-door or-gan, magnificent harbor and great fortifications with many beautiful watering places in its vicinity. A gentleman, Mr. Preekles has donated millions to the city for public purposes.

We spent a week there and it was one of the most pleasant weeks of the three months spent in Southern California.

I hope this will be of interest to you and your readers and I hope you will pardon me for occupying so much space.

Yours truly,
F. E. O'Flynn.

CORPORATION GOES INTO MANUFACTURE OF BUILDING BRICK

Enters Into Agreement with W. H. Wood at Special Meeting—Brick Will be Sold to Housing Commission and Also to Individual Purchasers.

Brockville, April 17.—Satisfied that in municipal operation of the Wood brickyard there was opportunity for the town to be of no inconsiderable assistance in providing additional houses and that the situation presented little chance for financial loss, the Town Council at a special meeting Thurs. evening entered into an agreement with W. H. Wood to conduct the brickyard on Park street during the present season.

The agreement calls upon Mr. Wood to operate the brickyard during the season of 1920, to manufacture brick and to deliver same to the town and devote his whole time, skill and experience to the work. In return the town is to pay Mr. Wood wages of 50 cents an hour for a ten-hour day, and, in addition, 20 per cent. of the net profit which may be derived from the manufacture and sale of the brick. Should this net profit amount to $5,000, the town agrees to pay Wood 25 per cent. of the net profit.

Mr. Wood is to hire all men with the approval of the town, which shall pay them wages and also pay for fitting up the brickyard and all operating expenses. Mr. Wood is to keep a true record of all the brick sold by him and is to give the town a weekly statement.

The town is entitled to collect all money for the sale of brick and has absolute control of the brickyard and the manufacture of brick therein. Mr. Wood is to be in all respects subject to the orders of the corporation.

Should the town, the agreement concludes, find it necessary to dispose of the services of Mr. Wood, it shall be entitled to continue the manufacture and sale of brick and shall pay to Mr. Wood, in addition to the percentage of the net profits derived prior to such time, and in addition a sum of $100 for the use of his plant to wages earned by him to that time, during the remainder of the season.

Chicago banks are now on daylight saving time, opening 9 a.m. and closing 2 p.m.

Marrying Pa rso Will Wed No More

Disgusted at Broken Marriage Vows—Declares Women the Worst Offenders

Muskegon, Mich., April 14.—Marriage today is, to many people, only a passing fancy. Women change husbands as they would automobiles in the spring. William John Purdue, adjutant and head of the Salvation Army here, declared yesterday, "They want the latest model with the disc wheels and all, and when the paint is worn they feel it is time to go to the divorce court. I am through. I would go out and beg a living before I would take money for marriages in the future."

Mr. Purdue obtained a reputation as a marrying man here, but says marriage conditions are going from bad to worse until he is heartily sick of it all.

"The climax came recently," said Purdue, "when a woman dragged her fifth husband to me and wanted me to marry them. I refused. Then a few days ago, a girl, not twenty-one years old, divorced her third husband here. Women are the worst offenders against marriage vows. I do not know what is the cause of the growing evil unless it be the general unrest in the country."

"They get married in the morning and divorced in the evening. They think of dress and dance all night to jazz, and then comes the twilight love and the darker marriage. The discord grows and they find themselves in the divorce courts. It's fascinating probably, but hell today is being paved with trial marriages."

BURNS AND SHOCK RESULT IN DEATH OF MISS SWANSON

Passed Away at Midnight Tuesday—Conscious Till Last and Thinking of Others

Oshawa, April 17.—As a result of the severe injuries received from burns when her clothes caught fire on Tuesday morning, the death occurred the same day in the hospital of Miss Isabella Swanson, at the hour when the clock was striking midnight. Miss Swanson's death was partly due to the nervous shock rendered to the organs of the body as a result of the catastrophe. That she suffered severely from the shock is certain, but during the short period of life that remained, her attitude was most heroic one, complaining but little and thinking of others. To the last her mind was very clear, and she spoke cheerfully to the loved ones by her bedside and was able to recognize each one to the very end. Her brother George, who arrived from Buffalo at 10 o'clock in the evening was also recognized at once.—Reformer.

P. S. PRINCIPALS ASK $2000 MAXIMUM

Women Teachers Ask Increase of $300 For Next Year—Board Passes Requisition on City Council For Proposed Schools.

In a communication from Principal A. C. Wilkin of the Belleville Public School Teachers' Association read before the Board of Education last evening, the opinion was expressed that $2,000 should not be considered too high a salary as maximum for public school principals and that the principals of the Belleville public schools should receive that maximum.

The women public school teachers asked for next year an increase of $300 each for teachers now on the staff who will be re-engaged. They recommended that the maximum be $1500 for all teachers who had been on the staff for over six years.

These matters were referred to the school management and finance committee.

Miss M. Fleming wrote the board asking that Principal Wilkin to state any charges against her or point out in what way she had failed to do her duty as a teacher.

The secretary was instructed to write Miss Fleming stating that the case would be given due consideration.

Mr. McGinnis said Miss Fleming was considered one of the most efficient teachers in the city by a large number of citizens.

Messrs. Ponton and Ponton wrote regarding a proposal to sell a house and lot to the school board south of the Queen Mary School. The figure of $1,800 was offered. No action was taken as the board did not think it necessary to purchase more land and because the probable purchaser of the property offered to sell a portion of the land to the board if the latter desired it.

Mr. A. Harman wrote the school board regarding the need of a fence between Queen Mary School grounds and his property on Isabelle street. The board referred the matter to the sites, buildings and repairs committee.

Inspector Clarke asked the board for the use of the high school for entrance examinations. The request was granted.

With Belleville's New Industries

Rapid Progress Being Made by All—Elliott Machinery Co. Cannot Keep Up With Orders—Wood Company Has Begun Operations, Also Toronto Hat Co.—Natural Tread Shoe Co. and A. R. Richardson Co. Rapidly Getting Machinery Into Place—Springer Co. Contemplates Extension.

The directors of the H. A. Wood Mfg. Co. Ltd., held their first meeting here yesterday in which new premises on Pinnacle Street, the machinery is now in operation and the company has started on a production basis, on automobile valves and automobile steering wheels.

The Judge Jones Milling Company's plant is a hive of industry these days, with carloads of grain and flour coming in and going out. Mr. Jones apparently has unlimited capacity for business and we are glad to have an enterprising firm like this locate in Belleville.

The Elliott Machinery Co. Ltd. have only been in the city about six months and when they took over the old Burrell plant last October, it was thought that the premises would be suitable for a long time to come. However they are now using all the available space there and have about 60 employees. Their machinery is largely going to England where there appears to be an unlimited demand for the Elliott Wood-working machines. There is also a large local demand which the company is trying to catch up with.

The Natural Tread Shoe Company and Toronto Hat Co. who are in the main part of the old cannery building are gradually getting their machinery in place, and extensive alterations have now commenced on the back wing to accommodate the A. R. Richardson Mfg. Co. Ltd.

The Springer Lock Mfg. Co. Ltd. are contemplating extending their premises on Coleman street. Their present factory is too cramped for the volume of work going through.

Disturbance at Service

Boy Pays Cost For Disorderly Conduct

A boy of tender years was tried in police court today for disturbing a meeting of the Standard Church, Bridge street on Sunday last. The lad denied the charge, and Mr. Dolin, the minister of the congregation, testified that the boy had created a disturbance. The defendant said that he had made no noise in the room, but that he did create some noise after he went out as he met another boy. The minister also said he had stopped in the sermon to allow the boy to quiet down.

Magistrate Mason declared "People have a right to their own form of worship and no one has a right to disturb them. The law is very severe for disturbing religious meetings."

Only the costs were levied against the lad, amounting to five dollars and fifty cents. The boy paid up.

30 Initiated Into Canton No. 8

Big Program with Patriarchs Militant Last Night

An interesting event in Oddfellowship took place last evening at the headquarters of Canton Belleville No. 8, Oddfellows' Temple, Front St., when the Canton degree team under the efficient direction of Major W. R. M. Gilbert, conferred the Patriarchs Militant degree upon nearly thirty candidates from Belleville, Stirling, Springbrook, Frankford, and Trenton.

After the degree work and the routine business of the Canton had been disposed of, the officers and chevalliers repaired to the banquet hall where refreshment committee had loaded down the tables with all the good things one could well imagine and all took part with enthusiastic zeal in this social part of the evening's program.

After the inner man had been satisfied an interesting program was given. Speeches were delivered by the postmaster Major Gilbert, Capt. A. E. Cole, Chev. G. Way, Chev. J. B. E. Cole, Chev. J. Lindstrom, Epsign E. Juby, Chev. J. M. Clarke, D.D.G.M., Chev. E. S. Bennett, of Stirling, Chev. J. Baker and Chev. J. McEwan of Springbrook, Chev. H. Miller of Frankford and Chev. J. Hill of Trenton.

The program was enlivened by recitations and songs by Chev. E. Newton of Trenton, Chev. L. V. Allen and Chev. Geo. Cornish of Belleville, Chev. Walker, Springbrook and Chev. Andrews, of Stirling.

The ladies found a gallant champion in the person of Chev. S. A. Barclay, who extolled their qualities in enthusiastic terms and extended an invitation to all Chevalliers who had not already done so to make application for the Rebekah degree.

A pleasing event of the evening's proceedings was the passing of a resolution by unanimous vote of the Canton, recommending that the decoration of Chev. J. B. E. Cole be conferred upon Major W. R. M. Gilbert, who by his indefatigable labors and unbounded enthusiasm had done much towards bringing Canton No. 8 to its present high degree of efficiency and for services rendered in the interests of the order. Major Gilbert in return for the honor conferred upon him by the officers and chevalliers of Canton No. 8 of Belleville for the honor bestowed upon him at the same time modestly declining credit for any efforts he had made in the interests of Oddfellowship and the Patriarchs Militant, asserting that it has been his duty ever to be a labor of love, and would ever be glad to do anything in his power to advance the interests of the order and giving credit for the remarkable growth in numbers an efficiency in the Canton to the officers and chevalliers who had so loyally stood behind him and helped to make the Patriarchs Militant branch in Belleville what it is today.

He congratulated the Canton on having such an enthusiastic leader for the current term in the person of Capt. A. E. Cole who with Epsign Lindstrom, Epsign Juby and enthusiastic clerk in the person of Chev. G. Way and efficient staff would continue to make Canton Belleville move forward. Canton Belleville is today in a better condition numerically and financially than it ever has been in its history and today it ranks among the largest and most important Cantons in the Department of Ontario, and with the new blood being steadily infused into its ranks, has before it a bright and prosperous future.

Deep regret was expressed by the Canton that the loss they are sustaining by Chev. Kline leaving the city. Chev. Kline has been an enthusiastic worker in all branches of the order and the good wishes of his brethren go with him to his new fields of labor.

After the usual parts of the evening and the singing of the national Anthem, the officers and chevalliers dispersed vowing that this was one of the best nights they had ever spent and filled with a new enthusiasm and optimism for the Patriarchs Militant in particular and Oddfellowship in general.

Maple syrup flowed freely at the market, but the price did not budge much. It ranged from 30c down to 75c and no less per quart. The maple syrup cans remained about the last on the market.

Potatoes were sold at $3.50 per bushel or $5.00 per bag generally. No reduction was evident today. Young pigs struck a high stride at $20.00 per pair.

A citizen, who has very wide knowledge as to building propositions, says that Kingston needs at the present time between three hundred and four hundred houses. Prior to the war an average of one hundred houses were built every year, and during the war there was no construction of any account, carried on, and the deficiency in good houses is now very apparent. His suggestion is that Kingston could very quickly get houses erected if the City Council were to pass a by-law granting exemption of general taxes for five years to all those who build houses. Mrs. Morden was the youngest daughter of Mr. and the late Mrs. Alfred Foster, and her early life was spent in the neighborhood, and on the farm where she had lived until the time of her death. Canadian Invents New Gas Burner

Oshawa, April 17.—W. E. Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wright, Mary street, Oshawa, and now a well known Charlotte, Mich. Jeweler, has invented a gas burner attachment which has for its primary object the provision of an attachment which will be readily applied to gas burners of various forms to enclose the same and thereby increase the efficiency of the burner by preventing the products of combustion and rays of heat from escaping before reaching the pan or other utensil positioned above the burner. This gas burner attachment encloses the burner in such a manner as to reflect the heat upwardly instead of allowing it to escape to all parts of the room. This attachment will save 50 per cent. of the heat which heretofore has been wasted. This means a big saving in your gas, thus helping to reduce the H. C. of L. Arrangements are being made to manufacture the article in Charlotte. That this is not only a clever as well as a useful article can be determined when seen in use.

CHURCH HAS COSY CORNER FOR LOVERS

Place Reserved for Them in Gallery and Lights are Turned Low

While the elder parishioners of the Immanuel Baptist Church, in Chicago, are raising their voices in harmony with the clarion peal of the organ to that patriarchal hymn, "Let the Lower Lights be Burning," the juvenile generation, cuddled comfortably in "Lovers' Loft," is paraphrasing the lyrics in a whispered appeal to the janitor to "Let the Lights be Burning Lower." Following a recent suggestion of the Rev. John Thompson that all churches should be equipped with "cozy corners," for the accommodation of the young couples of the community, the Rev. Johnston Myers, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church, has established such a haven of happiness for the lonely hearts of the neighborhood.

Has Dim Corners

All the conventional comforts of ages of Cupid who can't find refuge home are guaranteed to these hostages in other quarters.

A library, a piano, floor lamps, stationery, writing desks and other "non-essentials" in little Danny's lexicon of success are there, together with such absolute requisites as downy downports, a myriad of soft pillows and adjustments on the lights that permit of a graduated shading of illumination. If you have arrived at an advanced stage don't choose to "Brighten the Corner Where You Are"—don't summon the electrical engineer, but manipulate the lighting effects to suit your convenience. There are no cheap crowding. You can be "in your small corner and I in mine" or vice versa, or not that way at all—and the little church mouse will never squeal.

Pastor 'Always Ready'

The "Lovers' Loft" is open to the matrimonially ambitious swains of the community all day and every night of the week. In real desperate cases the janitor has been advised not to invoke the closing law.

There is a beaten path of soft carpet leading from the "social rooms" to the pastor's study, where, for a nominal fee, the "sunshine in your soul" and "joybells in your hearts" may be perpetrated by a few appropriate remarks from Dr. Myers. "I always have heartily approved of the idea of making the church an attractive rendezvous for the young people," said Dr. Myers.

No Chaperon Needed

In our congested urban life there are many respectable young girls living in hall bedrooms and splendid young men similarly situated, who have no appropriate place. The church should provide just such a haven. "We have attempted to equip our 'cozy corners' with all the most modern adjuncts to 'getting acquainted.' I disapprove of chaperons. The very fact that the rooms are located in a church is sufficient to discourage any conduct unbecoming such an environment.

"I am on the job at all hours to offer happiness, contentment and prosperity for $2.50."

In the meantime the department of public works can go ahead with painting the park benches, without inconveniencing the youth of the city.

HAVANA TEEMING WITH LIFE, SAYS WHITBY DOCTOR

New York 4 Graveyard by Comparison—Dr. Bascom Tells of Trip

"Havana with its 600,000 inhabitants is humming with life. New York is a graveyard in comparison," said Dr. H. Bascom in an interview with The Reformer. The doctor returned to Whitby last week after a few weeks spent on business in tropical Cuba. He states the weather was 88 to 90 degrees in the shade, and it was getting so hot that he was glad to get away. He found a striking contrast when he reached Canada covered with a blanket of April snow.

Great Boom On

Referring to business life in Cuba, Dr. Bascom states that there is great prosperity evident there. Real estate is enjoying a wonderful boom. For instance, 16 1/2 acres of land five miles from Havana sold for $750,000, or $49,000 an acre. Thousands of tourists and visitors are coming and going daily and hotels are always filled with a cosmopolitan throng of business men and pleasure seekers. Money is no object. Everybody seems to have lots of it and to spend lavishly. The horse races which are just over for the season attracted enormous crowds from all parts of United States and Canada. Dr. Bascom states it might be true that American boozers congregate there, but there is little appearance that it has become a haven of refuge for the thirsty ones. All the time he was there he saw only two American women and two negroes under the influence of liquor.

Havans, Dr. Bascom states, has the throttle open wide and is a second Monte Carlo, where pleasure is king and where casino and roulette tables have been installed for the benefit of the leisure class. Gambling of all kinds is permitted under license.

No Speeding Laws There

Local speed kings would do well to visit Cuba, where the doctor says the sky is the limit and they seemingly have no traffic laws regarding the side of the street a car has to be driven on. "However," the system of one-way traffic for each street is being inaugurated, which will solve a lot of difficulties. Automobiles, especially Fords, are as thick as flies, and drive with the exhaust wide open.

As far as the high cost of living goes, the returned visitor asserts, Canada is a paradise compared to Cuba. He states the visitor to Havana, unlettered in Spanish and a stranger to the city, pays from $8 to $15 per night for a bedroom alone. Meals in the hotels and restaurants are in proportion. To make successful headway in Cuba, he states, knowledge of Spanish is a great asset.

Sugar Crop Enormous Value

Sugar-making, the national industry, is in a thriving state. Last year at five and a fraction cents a pound the output yielded $900,000,000, the crop being not so large as one year ago. This year at 13 cents a pound, the output will sell for $1,100,000,000, the crop being not so large as one year ago.

Dr. Bascom has disposed of some of his property in Cuba but still has substantial holdings there. Oshawa Reformer.

Farmers of Prince Edward County Are Talking Consolidation

School to Serve District Around Village of Wellington Will Likely Be Established This Year—Many Meetings Being Held—Review of Consolidated Schools in Manitoba.

Though the failure at Guelph placed consolidation of the rural schools into disfavor in Ontario for a time, the setback was only a temporary one. Strengthened by the unqualified success of the schools of Manitoba, the supporters of consolidation here are rapidly increasing in numbers. Indeed, in several districts where the school houses will have to be rebuilt in the near future a vote will soon be taken on the question to decide whether one building for several districts will suffice or whether the old system will remain in force.

One of these districts is that of Wellington, in the county of Prince Edward. This section is particularly well situated for the adoption of the consolidated idea. At present there is a rather large village school, near the end of its days, and two or three one-roomed affairs within a few miles of the village. In order to get a high school education it is necessary for the children of Wellington and the surrounding district to move to the town of Picton, over ten miles away. In this latter respect this district is quite similar to the majority of rural sections in Ontario.

Consolidation has been a live topic for conversation in Prince Edward county for a number of years, but until some of the school houses had to be rebuilt this movement amounted to little. A week or two ago, however, a vigorous campaign was started by F. P. Smith, Inspector of Public Schools for that county, and A. P. McVannell, the Agricultural Representative. The object of this campaign was not simply to win a majority of the people in the Wellington district over to consolidation, but to prove to all the ratepayers by facts and figures that such a step is necessary. Local and outside speakers were brought into the section for this work, and as a result opposition to consolidation is dying down.

From observations during the twelve years I have spent in this county I believe that there is no one thing that will do more to advance the interests of the community here than a real up-to-date consolidated school," stated A. P. McVannell in opening one of these meetings in the village of Wellington last week. "Education has become most important from a farmer's standpoint," continued Mr. McVannell, "and in this part of the county particularly agriculture is by far the most important industry."

The speaker contended that knowledge and training were needed in farming just as much as in other lines of work, but that under the present system boys and girls were being educated away from the land.

Transportation of the children from their homes to the school has long been the bugbear of consolidation, and in some cases has been the shield behind which the anti-consolidated ratepayer has hidden. Mr. McVannell, while not going into details, disposed of the transportation question in a few words: "It seems unreasonable to me, at least," he said, "that we with our good roads and long experience should let this thing stand in our way when the people of Manitoba have found that this is one of the least important of their problems in the establishment of over one hundred consolidated schools."

Mr. Smith, the Public School Inspector, gave the educationalists' side of the question. He claimed that under the present system it was impossible to retain the services of the average teacher in one school for a complete year. "Sixty per cent of the teachers in the public schools of Prince Edward change teachers at least once a year," he said. "What progress can we make under these conditions?" Mr. Smith claimed that owing to the present antiquated system of education in the country schools pupils from the latter institutions were invariably behind their more favored urban cousins during the first two or three years when the two classes met in competition in the high schools. In concluding his brief address this speaker made a strong plea for improvement in that district. "We change our methods of farming when we see a better system," he stated, "yet we are content to let a system one hundred years old be responsible for our greatest asset: the children."

Practical Side of It The practical side of the question was discussed by Mr. Wm. Iversch, President of the Rural Manitoba School Trustees' Association, and a prominent farmer in the west. Mr. Iversch was brought into Ontario to enlighten the people of this province regarding consolidation by the Provincial Government.

In discussing the question from a national standpoint this speaker made a significant assertion. "If we keep on as we have been doing," he said, "within the next hundred years all the agricultural land in this country will have passed out of the hands of the English-speaking people." Mr. Iversch claimed that the present system of education lacked permanency because the teaching profession was quickly passing into the hands of women. "We have lost the men teachers because we have lost the job for them. We have not adapted our educational system to the ever changing conditions around us."

In supporting his statements regarding the rural depopulation of the English-speaking people this speaker explained that on account of the difficulty of educating their children in the country many parents were forced to move to town. "In every case," he said, "these are the very best class of farmers we have, men who have made a success of farming and who were usually leaders in their community. Their farms are sold to inexperienced men who must struggle along on inadequate capital, and who have little time for public questions affecting the section. Under consolidation, this movement would be checked," continued Mr. Iversch. "The children would receive a competent public schooling and three years of high school education in their own neighborhood. They would spend every night at home during this period, where they would add to the social life of the district and incidentally be under the eyes of their parents."

Consolidation in Manitoba According to this authority, without exception all schools that have adopted consolidation in Manitoba have remained consolidated despite the increased expenditure. Though the winters there are admitted to be much more severe than in Ontario, and under consolidation children living ten and twelve miles away are driven to school, the attendance of these pupils is twenty-five days more per year than that of the children who live in the village within a few minutes' walk of the school house. Mr. Iversch stated that despite the bad state of the roads in the winter time in his district, the twelve covered vans operating in connection with the school had not averaged losing one trip apiece during the last seven years.

In the winter these vans which convey the children to the schools are heated by coal stoves, which make them as comfortable as the school rooms. The stoves are bolted to the floor to prevent fires, in case of the rig upsetting. The vans, which are driven by contractors, call at the door of each house along the route, and by law are not allowed to wait more than two minutes for any child. In summer lighter vehicles are used.

Some of the Advantages The expense of keeping up a consolidated school is naturally higher than the cost of maintaining the three or four schools under the old system, but the change is certainly worth it. Where one large building is used to serve the locality, fewer and better teachers can be procured. One instructor will not be responsible for the training of children in all grades from the lowest to the entrance class. A high school education can be given which will fit the young people for university without going away from their own home. With a central seat of instruction, more agriculture may be taught, with the result that the country boy may learn something regarding the theoretical and practical side of his father's business. With van routes established, general good roads will soon follow. Consolidated schools materially add to the value of farm lands in the neighborhood.

The children are almost universally in favor of consolidation, but some of the older people are not. The chief antagonists to the movement, which will cost more money and will not return dividends in the form of cash immediately, are men who do not really value education themselves, and who, in the majority of cases, have no children of their own. These people do not look to the future. The country districts are being depopulated; we need some way of keeping the young people on the farm, or all remaining social life in rural Ontario will vanish, and with its departure the gradual passing of the agricultural land into the hands of inexperienced foreigners. Consolidation will undoubtedly help to check this movement.

Increased expenditure necessary for its adoption in the bulk of the school sections in older Ontario—Gorden Furrow, in The Globe.

Vandals Abused Pastor's Horse

Oshawa, April 15.—Throughout East-Whitby, great indignation is felt over an act of vandalism committed on Rev. Mr. Simpson's horse at Raglan. Mr. Simpson, who lives in Columbus, had gone to Raglan to address a meeting at the church and as is customary, had tied his horse in the church shed. While in the church, some young bloods started to work and cut the tail and mane, and clipped one side of the animal. While suspicious as to who the guilty parties are, no definite information has as yet been secured. Members of the local police force were at Raglan last week and looked up a couple of suspects, but the pair proved a perfect alibi, and were not arrested.—Reformer.

Succumbed to Operation

Mr. Gray Passed Away in Toronto Hospital. A message reached the city this morning that Mr. Gray, proprietor of the Paper Mills in Thurrow, just south of the city, had passed away in Toronto General Hospital, following a serious operation. The news came as a great shock to his many friends. Mr. Gray had not long been a resident of this city, where he lived on Foster Avenue, but he had made himself very popular. His friends had been called to his bedside.

Big Motor Carnival Will Tour Ontario in July Next

Band Concerts and Open-Air Speakers will be Feature of 900-Mile Camping Trip of Michigan Pikers' Association. A motor caravan, big and spectacular as a circus, with a band and open-air speakers in the cause of good roads, will be seen in Toronto on July 16 and 17. The Ontario Motor League has received a letter from the manager of the Michigan Pikers Association giving details of the tour. The latter association is an organization whose object is to promote construction of highways and to carry on education propaganda. The principal feature of the tour of which is an annual automobile tour of two weeks. This year the trip will take in 900-mile stretch from Sault Ste. Marie to Toronto.

Last year when a trial trip of the route was made the bridge on the Blind River at Algoma Mills was not finished and autos had to be changed. The government has given assurance that the bridge will be completed and open for traffic by July. The manager of the association in his letter says that the prospects are that 40 cars and 13 motor trucks will take part in the tour, comprising a caravan of between 200 and 300 people. The party will be self-contained. Some of the trucks will carry complete camp equipment. One of them will be fitted out as a complete kitchen, another will carry provisions; a third will be an automobile shop and so on. It is expected that 30 or 20 "camp-followers" in unofficial cars will trail the party. These will be welcome, and their number will be encouraged.

The party will leave Detroit on July 14. They will reach Hamilton on July 19, and leave for Toronto in time for dinner. They will move from here next morning. It is hoped that the Ford Company's band, considered one of the best in the United States, will be able to accompany them. The Ford company's moving picture department is expected, both taking pictures and giving displays in the different towns of a good roads nature. Shows will be made frequently along the route and open-air addresses delivered and band concerts held. The whole thing is expected to result in a whirlwind raising of goods roads sentiment.

Several 800 people intend to take part in the trip. The Michigan Pikers Association has asked the Ontario Motor League to cooperate in seeing that the route of the Canadian part of the tour is properly marked. The O.M.L. will send out a roadside car to see that this is done.—Peterboro Examiner.

OBITUARY

MRS. SARAH DENTON Mrs. Sarah Denton passed away last night at the home of her son, Mr. Matthew Denton, 29 Bridge street west, at the age of 74 years. She was born in England and was a daughter of the late William Izzard. Her husband predeceased her several years ago. Mrs. Denton had lived in Canada for 49 years and for the past year in Belleville. She was a faithful member of the Methodist Church. For many years she had been in poor health. Surviving are four sons and five daughters, the sons, William of Ontario, Harry of Edmonton, Charles of New York and Matthew D. of Belleville and the daughters, Mrs. A. Floyd, Toronto, Mrs. E. Simmons, Alberta, Mrs. Wesley Parham, of Massachusetts, Mrs. Alfred Anderson, of Alberta and Mrs. W. Jeffrey, of Sidney.

A Little Talk About Baseball

The teams in the Willowdale League this year are stronger than ever. President "Ray" Hunt says that this league will enjoy the best season since its inception. All clubs have announced their line ups, and present indications are that the race for the E. G. Saylor Trophy will be a tough one. If "Gannonball" Scott and "Duke" Hennesey work on the points for Hillcrest's "Pitt" the fans are going to see the best battery that ever worked together. Scott is rated as the best amateur ball pitcher in Ontario, while Hennesey has no comparison in the amateur ranks. He has gained thirty pounds in the last three months.—Toronto Telegram. It will be pleasing news when Scott finally announces where he intends to summer. So much of this same kind of twaddle about Scott was carried on last year that it was a forgone conclusion in the Central League that Lindsay was the only team that had a chance for the championship. But "Gannonball" proved easy picking for all the Central Leaguers and should be even easier this summer.—Oshawa Reformer.

AN INTERNATIONAL MANIFESTO

Written for The Ontario by Clas. M. Rice, Lawyer, Denver, Colorado. The Western world, through economic necessity, is linked in a common bond; its nations must hang together or hang separately, to use the Benjamin Franklin phrase. They must stand together in the adversity following the great war of devastation or fall into the abyss of anarchy, one by one—and that abyss is not so very far off. This in substance is the effect of the Allied Supreme Council which was published a few days ago, a document that will be made much of in history, envisaging as it does the internationalism embodied in the League of Nations instrument. It separates more distinctly than anything that has come from the society of nations the new world from the old. The memorandum, as it is modestly termed, asks us to forget the bitterness and enmities of the recent conflict, to bind the wounds of war, to pick up the defeated foe and help it to regain its independence. Humanitarianism may be, but is it not a marked departure from the old, unwritten covenant law? A necessity it may be, and doubtless is, but it illustrates the modern interdependence of nations upon nations. It is a necessity for those who have the power of life and death over the defeated to lift the latter to its feet if the world structure is not to crack. Germany and Austria, the Allied Council declares, must be given material support; they will be invited to trade with the outer world and encouraged to resume manufactures. Economic madness and new republics and monarchies must be buttressed by the stronger. There is no nation so strong, not even our own, that can remain unscathed if the other nations go down in the welter. The war is over. It lasted so long and brought such exhaustion to both victor and vanquished that there is extreme danger to our common heritage. The war to put down mankind's enemy so endangered the whole foundation of society that we cannot afford the luxury of revenge. Punishment must be kept within bounds. A treaty of peace, imposing terms upon the greater enemy nation, signed and sealed a few months ago by European and Asiatic powers, is down stairs at that hour and apparently did not notice that her clothing was burning till it had made considerable headway. Her brother, Mr. D. A. J. Swanson, who has just recently returned home, heard her calling for assistance and quickly hastened to her aid but by that time her clothes were a mass of flames. Although it was only a matter of thirty seconds or so till he was able to smother the flames, she was in a very critical condition.

Mr. Swanson who worked so heroically to save his sister, was also burned badly but not seriously. His hands suffered the most and it will be a matter of six weeks or so before he will be able to use them. His feet and legs were also burned but not as badly as his hands. Doctors Rundle, Donovan and Kaiser were summoned to the house but beyond relieving her of the severe pain, were unable to do anything further till she was taken to the hospital. At the present time of writing the doctors state that her condition is very grave and that there is little hope for her recovery. Miss Swanson is the principal of the Cedar Dale School and was in the midst of considerable work making preparation for her entrance class. Her keen sense of duty was shown when before being taken to the hospital, she was heard to mention her class at the school. Everything possible is being done to aid her recovery and her many friends in town hope to see her improve steadily. Her condition at time of going to press this afternoon was still very critical.

Little Chance of Success

FOR PROPOSED UNITED DAIRY CO-OPERATIVE COMPANY. Cheese Factory People Think the Season Too Far Advanced to Change Their Arrangement. Kingston, April 15.—Referring to the proposal to link up all of the cheese factories in the province of Ontario into one company, to be called the United Dairy Co-operative Company, it is stated by a man prominently connected with the movement that there is little prospect of completing the work this season. Had the promoters toured the dairy districts during the winter much preliminary work would have been accomplished and the farmers would have been prepared to consider the matter. The season is now too far advanced to change any arrangements that have been made for handling the season's output and the farmers have not time to give attention to the business connected with the issue of stock, etc., etc. Last year the proposal was started at Peterboro, and despite the continued agitation on the part of those promoting it nothing was done. A prominent Wolfe Islander when informed of the scheme said that he would not ship his cheese without knowing what price he was going to get for it, and he could not see how it would be acceptable to many of the patrons of the cheese factories. He thought the idea of a central purchasing committee a very good one, and thought that this might be undertaken first.

New Industry at Orillia

Orillia, April 15.—A by-law voted on to grant a free site and ten years' fixed assessment to the Glasscock Sewer Pipe & Conduits, Limited, was carried by a vote of 608 to 61. Another by-law to guarantee $6,000 bonds for the purpose of assisting in the erection of a Soldiers' Memorial Hospital was defeated, the vote being 378 for and 220 against, and 583 favorable votes being necessary to carry the by-law. The Glasscock Co. will put up a factory on the old smelter site, bringing clay from near Washago at the north end of the lake, and manufacture sewer pipe. It is expected the plant will be in operation in August. The Scott Farmers' represented at the meeting on April 10, their own behalf against steps being taken in the Hydro-Electric ship. Women's Missionary Society John St. Ch.

The Women's Missionary Society of John St. Presbyterian Church held their annual Easter meeting last evening in the lecture room of the church, with a good attendance. The auxiliary president, Mrs. S. Russell, presided. The program which was exceedingly interesting and instructive, was given entirely by the members of the "Home Helpers" department. The offering was the largest at any Easter meeting, in the history of the society. There was also one new life member. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour spent.

Men Who Have Marrying Manias

Kid McCoy, the famous boxer, is a hero of the ring in a double sense, in that he is just getting married for the seventh time. The myrtle number seven, by the way, seems to be about the limit in matrimonial ventures as regards men. That is to say, there are several cases on record of seven brides having been led to the altar by the same individual, but there is no instance of this number having been exceeded. Of course bigamists do not count in this connection, otherwise the notorious Witzoff, with his two hundred odd "wives" romps home an easy first. Probably the best known example of a much-married man is afforded by Sir Gervaise Clifton, the historian of Jamaica, who married seven wives, five of them being domestic servants, from his own household. His matrimonial ventures all turned out happily. Nat Goodwin, the actor, was married five times, and was about to repeat the experiment for a sixth time when he died, early in 1919. Not long before he wrote and published a book entitled "Why Beautiful Women Marry Nat Goodwin." Curiously enough, it is women, and not men, however, who are most prone to indulge in many marriages. There are plenty of American ladies for instance, who have exceeded the seven limit; the record probably being held by Mrs. Townsend, of Nebraska, who in 1917 wedded her fifteenth husband.

The Overall Style Spreads

Newspapers Ignore Request of Clothiers to Suppress News About Movement. Birmingham, Ala., April 14.—Birmingham newspaper publishers have flatly denied the request of a committee of retail clothiers that news of the "overall" movement throughout the South be suppressed on the ground that it was damaging the retail clothing business. The publishers informed the clothiers' committee that their papers would continue to report the overall movement, which they considered legitimate news. The "Tampa idea" of wearing overalls as a means of fighting the high cost of clothing has spread to many cities throughout the South, where business and professional men as well as other workers are going about in blue denim. It was reported here Saturday that when the demand for overalls began, some retailers had raised the price from two dollars to six dollars a pair. Mass meetings and public demonstrations are being presented in connection with the movement in many places throughout the South. It was reported that there were 4,000 members of the Overall Club in Birmingham alone, all pledged to wear blue denim until the price of clothing comes down.

The Scott Farmers were fairly represented at the Scott Council meeting on April 10. To intercede on their own behalf against any further steps being taken in the construction of the Hydro-Electric in the township. The Hydro certainly cannot be excelled for light or power, but they are afraid the high cost of material, with an addition of 20 to 30 per cent in the material, is going to involve every farmer who holds a contract, into quite a debt which, instead of the Hydro being a benefit, is going to be an encumbrance. A petition since has been drawn up and a number of names signed to it who are opposed to any further construction of the line. A delegation is going to Toronto on Thursday to interview the Hydro Commission to this effect.—Oshawa Reformer.

Date for Deer Hunting

The first sitting of the Fish and Game Committee of the Legislature took place last week. Tom F. C. Biggs was chairman. It may be interesting to local sportsmen to know that it was decided not to change the date for killing deer this year, the dates being the 5th day of November to the 20th day of November, both days inclusive. The question of using dogs for deer hunting was of a controversial nature and was left over until the next meeting to obtain further information from sportsmen.

"Doctors" the Coal Bills

Mrs. Alex. Ernest, wife of a coal dealer at Walkerton, has confessed to changing the weight bills of her husband's customers, thereby short-weighting them all the way from 100 pounds up. She appeared before Judge Klein and was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 24 hours in jail. As her husband was previously fined $100 and sentenced to a week's imprisonment for being implicated in the affair, the punishment inflicted on the woman is the closing episode of one of the most interesting cases which ever decorated a docket in Bruce county.—Oshawa Reformer.

Entertained Newcomers

The party of Scotch boys who arrived Saturday at Fairknows Home from overseas were entertained in a hospitable manner last night by the Young People's Association of the Methodist church. The guests were entertained to supper from 8:30 until 7:30 o'clock, following which an entertainment was given in the Sunday school hall. Wallace Guild, president of the Y.P.A., was chairman, and addresses were delivered by Rev. W. A. Hamilton and W. T. Rogers. Miss Ruby Dawson and Mr. Herman Powells played a duet, the first movement of the Grand Septor by Beethoven, and Rev. J. H. Dyke, of the staff of the Muskoka Free Hospital, gave an illustrated lecture dealing with the work of that institution. James Cummings, one of the guests, gave an enjoyable recitation and at the close of the evening Capt. W. Steamer Columbia Damaged

Fire broke out late Saturday afternoon in the hold of the steamship Columbia, which was tied to the pier at the rear of the Continental building in Ogdensburg. The firemen boarded the vessel and with chemicals fought the flames. The blaze was in a dangerous section of the ship and only quick work saved the vessel from absolute destruction. The firemen after a hard battle finally succeeded in checking the flames and ultimately smothering them. The damage done was not considerable.

"Olds" Agency

It is interesting to note that another automobile agency has been established in Kingston. The new one to be handled is the Oldsmobile Eight, and Mr. Neil Stewart, late of the General Motors Corporation, will be the local agent. Mr. Stewart is the son of John Stewart, Harrowfield, and is very well known and thought of both in Kingston and in the surrounding country. For the past two years he has been with the General Motors in Oshawa and while there became thoroughly conversant with every branch of the business. After working for some time in the various departments of the great works, he was finally made manager of the electrical department of McLaughlin and Chevrolet Motors and had entire supervision of this work both at the works and on the road. It is quite evident therefore that Mr. Stewart is a thoroughly competent man in his line and that all those who have dealings with him will get complete satisfaction. The Oldsmobile, the car which Mr. Stewart is representing, is one of the longest established and most reliable cars manufactured in North America and has a reputation behind it that would be hard indeed to beat. Only recently has a factory been opened in Canada, but now that the factory has been completed in Oshawa, and is turning out cars for Canadians, it is fully expected that the car will become a great favorite throughout Canada.

Million Husbands Needed in Britain

There can be no real social rest without feminine contentment, and in England, where women form the bulk of the population, the effect of their preponderance seems to be wholly injurious. This was the subject of a lecture before the Institute of Hygiene delivered by Dr. R. Murray Leslie. Dr. Murray-Leslie declared the female excess was greater in Great Britain than elsewhere, and the war had aggravated this disturbing factor, because the men who had fallen all belonged to the age-group which represented either potential or actual husbands and fathers. There is now a surplus of 4 million women eligible for marriage. The social effects of sex disproportion were demonstrated in the crumbling of the old ethical standards. Dr. Murray-Leslie said the freedom of modern independent girlhood under the supervision of her parents; the tendency to rebel against discipline and conventional trammels; the cry for pleasure for pleasure's sake—all these tended to the encouragement of a lower ethical standard.

An extraordinary diversity of type has emerged as a direct outcome of sex disproportion. The domestic type still forms the bulk in the industrial classes, but is becoming rarer in the so-called middle and upper classes. The social butterfly type has probably never been so prevalent as at present. It comprises the frivolous, scantily-clad, jangling flapper, irresponsible and undisciplined, to whom a new hat, or a man with a car, is of more importance than the fate of nations. The intellectual type, represented by the professional workers, marry in very small proportion, but to them is due the driving force that secures amelioration of the conditions of employment of their sex, and it is they who influence legislation designed to safeguard maternity and to promote child-welfare.

There is a great difference between intellectuality and intelligence. Racially it is the intelligent type that is the most important and best fitted to undertake the present complex responsibilities of marriage.

The purely intellectual woman is usually, not physically attractive, but the intelligent woman is well read and in touch with new movements, while she equally appreciates the charm of dress, refinement and other social amenities.

President Wilson's Condition

Written for The Ontario by Chas. M. Rice, Lawyer, Denver, Colorado.

Mr. Wilson has not left the White House grounds for some time and rumor has been extremely busy, as it is wont. Wall Street had it the other day that he had suffered a relapse, which was promptly denied by his physician. To account for his failure to continue his drives about the city and suburbs, correspondents write that he is disappointed with his reception from citizens and curiosity seekers.

The disappointment is deeper. Never in his life has Mr. Wilson paid attention to the passing whim of the public. It cannot be charged against him that he is demagogic or a seeker after applause. His vanity does not run in such lines. Unlike another of his party that might be named, he can live without this. By nature he is a recluse; in recent years he has lived much in the future. He bears with the present and the politician who is living for the present.

An atmosphere of tragedy surrounds the White House. Despite his will-power, which is unusual, the physical condition of the executive must have a bearing upon his mental state, for mortal man in his present development must be subject to the physical body. Mr. Wilson has been unable to appeal in person to the people; it is impossible to converse with his delegates in Congress; he sees nothing of his Cabinet with a possible exception. His position must be irksome to a degree.

At this time his party is drifting on the rocks. He is the titular head of it. If he falls, the party falls. His enemies say he has deserted the party more than did Cleveland. His leadership, his supremacy, has been challenged. Mr. Bryan is campaigning to undo Mr. Wilson's authority, to defeat him on a question that is nearest and dearest to him, on which he has staked his all for the present and posterity. Other men in the party, opportunists, are praying that Mr. Wilson's spirit be broken sufficiently to open the door of compromise, to him a very hateful word. The party is at sea, rudderless. The primary elections are proving this.

It is these drivers who cause all the trouble for the others. Then there are the drivers who have just got a new car and consider they are the "kings of the road." Another menace to safety. Mr. H. P. Lindsay, agent for licenses in this city, reports that last year he sold some 2,200 licenses for this district. This is outside of the ones purchased in other centres and from Toronto, so that there are some 1,800 cars at a moderate estimate in this city. These cars, if properly controlled, are the ideal means of transportation, and of no danger either to the passengers or pedestrians, but when driven without regard to the safety laws or any other moral laws, they are a menace to the safety of every citizen.

Motor Accidents Becoming Common in Peterborough

Increasing Number of Cars Largely Responsible—Police Comment

Peterborough, April 18.—The motor accidents are increasing each year without a doubt, the Chief of Police told the Examiner when questioned on the matter. Forty-three accidents are on the police records for 1919, several more than in 1918. Two deaths resulting from injuries received in accidents occurred during the past year in addition to many being severely injured and shaken up. That there are not more accidents is the only mystery to the policemen who have to watch closely the cars and traffic and report on all accidents.

Two Inches of Soot Scraped Off Hotel

London Building Now Stands Out in Beautiful White

London, April 18.—As a result of an unusual treatment with carborundum, the stone front of the Victoria Hotel, in Northumberland avenue, S.W., presents a beautiful white facade, in which the carvings stand out in bold relief. The facade of the hotel is 300 feet long and 121 feet high. No less than two inches of soot and dirt were scraped off. The process of cleaning the front of Victoria with carborundum, a mixture of coke dust, sand, salt and sawdust, asked into small, hard blocks, took three months and a half. During the war Victoria was occupied by the Ministry of Munitions.

His Own Dog Killed Sheep, But He Gets Damages

Lindsay, April 16.—Some rather drastic action must be taken against the increasing destruction of sheep by prowling dogs, according to discussion at the Agricultural Committee of the Legislature at Toronto. The revenue from dog taxes in most townships, according to members, is away below the value of the sheep killed. Last year more sheep were killed than in any previous year.

W. McLeod, of Stormont, introduced the question to the committee. In his own township the value of sheep killed was $2,500, while the dog tax revenue was $654. To get the benefit of the dog taxes to the townships in which the sheep are killed, Hon. Manning Doherty suggested that the law be changed to permit dog tax money to be paid into the county treasury and the damages for sheep killed be paid out of that. The idea was favorably received, and Mr. Doherty promised to bring an amendment before the committee at a later meeting.

Some strange incidents came to light. One member told of a farmer having sheep killed by his own dog, and yet he collected damages. It was suggested that all dogs be tagged. Hon. Geo. Henry thought this should be optional with municipalities.—Lindsay Warder.

"SPIRITISM"

In your issue of the 5th inst. Mr. A. Robinson indulges in a very long and tedious reply to an article of mine on the above subject, but fails to mention the subject or to throw any light upon it. He contents himself again, as in his previous efforts, to a discussion of the conditions of the wicked in the next world, and exhausts himself in collecting and quoting every biblical text which quintessentially and endearingly upholds the doctrine of eternal punishment.

Perhaps the writer of this is a little at fault for answering his challenge to quote a single passage in opposition to his views. But only the citations were given and little or no comment was indulged, preferring to let the texts speak for themselves, well knowing that to enter into an expostulation of these texts would fill every column of your valuable paper, and much more.

But Mr. Robinson is in error when he charges me with the argument that because Plato and the world at large believed in the immortality of the soul, therefore, it must be true. Now Mr. Bice made no such argument but simply refused to the fact that the whole world at that time (and still, for that matter) believed in the life after death, which had its influence on the writers of the Scriptures. My aim was to show the evolution of this belief, starting, as the Old Testament does, with the almost nothing on the subject of the hereafter, or even about rewards and punishments in the world to come, and coming down to the Christian Era where the writers begin to show a recognition of the doctrine if they do not expressly teach it. They expressly recognize the life after death, and that is all that Spiritism demands. The words "heaven" and "hell" occur often in the Old Testament but neither of these words means there, what we are used to associate with those names in the modern theological sense. There is no instance of anyone going to hell for bad deeds done here, and only two cases of their going to heaven for good deeds, but these are very vague traditions. The narrative says of Enoch: "God took him," and the account of Elijah is almost as brief. Yet, we find cropping out all along in the lives of the common people (Hebrews) a belief which at least takes us a little way across the border. But the people believed in ghosts and that the spirit of Samuel (et al) was in a sort of comatose or unconscious state in the crude and indefinite underworld which was the first stage in the growth of Spiritism. This is anything but clear still. It is the beginning of the belief in Sheol, though the priests frowned upon it at first, and had a law passed making it a crime to have anything to do with the dead. Job describes the place as the "land of darkness." The soul did not go into extinction, but went down into the shadowy underground world where there was a suspension of real life, and very little of consciousness. There is a passage in Psalms, though we do not know its author, which reads: "Thou wilt not leave my soul in hell (sheol), neither wilt thou suffer this holy one to see corruption." Here is the beginning of the dawn of hope for deliverance from this underworld. In another place a touch of the Arabic and Oriental doctrine of Absorption, and not a personal immortality. "Thus shall the dust return to the earth as it was, and the spirit shall return unto God who gave it." And there is a noted passage in the duties of Sheol that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life and some to shame and everlasting contempt, which implies the immortality of the wicked as it does of the righteous. This is about all the Old Testament has to say on the subject of spiritism, and its recognition is plain and emphatic.

But while the early Hebrew was very ignorant, being at the outset nature-worshippers, sex-worshippers with rites offensive, obscene, and believers in human sacrifices, the ethical sense was bound to spring up among them as it does in all nations, after becoming sufficiently enlightened. They began to reason: If God is righteous there must be a reward for goodness, and punishment for wickedness and wrong somewhere, and if not in this world, then in the next.

Hell comes from the same root as Sheol, meaning a hole, and at first meant only an underground cavern. Afterwards it was narrowed in thought and came to be regarded as a place of punishment. The prayer-book says "Christ descended into hell," but does not here mean a place of torment but the place where Jesus went and preached to the wicked during the three days after His crucifixion, and before His resurrection. Now these wicked must have been alive, at least spiritually, to have received the preaching of Jesus. The fact is the Jews had about the same belief in the underworld, and of life after death, that the Greeks and Romans had, and so there grew up in the minds of the people a belief that the good, at any rate, in sheol, should escape. This led to the doctrine of the resurrection, not necessarily of the body; it means a "coming up again." This was to be at the time of the coming of the Messiah, who was to sit enthroned on Mount Moriah—the trumpet was to be sounded and the dead were to come forth or up out of sheol—those who had been good and served God were to rise first and were to reign with the Messiah on the earth for a thousand years. Some believed that the good had and were to be raised out of sheol—others that only the good were to be favored. Some believed that the bad were to be cast into age-long punishment, others again that they would be destroyed—in what is called today "conditional immortality."

This accounts for the variety in the texts of Scripture on this subject. It all depends upon the sect to which the author of the text belonged. All the dead went down first into sheol, the good to paradise—the bad to Gehenna, but they were so near together they could see and converse with each other as stated in the parables of Jesus—notably in that of Dives and Lazarus.

Paradise, Gehenna, Sheol or Hades did not appear in the letter of the Old Testament at all, but was a later growth of the Hebrew faith. And so at the time Jesus was born we find three phases of belief: First, the Sadducees, who were not skeptics but were the old staid, respectable, mossback, conservatives (Jews) and claimed always to stand by the Mosaic law, and believed in neither angel nor spirit nor in a future world. Second, the Essenes, or philosophical Platonists, who believed in a future life, but not in the resurrection of the body. They believed that the spirit was imprisoned here for a time in the body, but by and by, through death it escaped and entered into the place prepared for it. Third, but the great popular party among the Jews were the Pharisees. They held that the traditions of the elders were of equal authority with the old-time Mosaic teaching. They had borrowed from the Babylonians the whole angelic hierarchy, and of evil spirits as well. So they held not only to immortality, but of innumerable evil spirits and good spirits.

Now these beliefs all existed when Jesus came, and they comprised the entire Jewish people. Jesus, it seemed, belonged to the Essenes sect, and His teachings are colored thereby, although this is denied by some authors. Paul taught the resurrection. The Mosaic law could not save and must be abolished, and the kingdom of grace set up in its place, and he Christ abolished the law and "brought life and immortality to light," so said St. Paul. He was a universalist and taught that all souls, good and bad, Jews and Gentiles, bond and free are to be gathered at last into one fold with one Shepherd. Then will come the climax when Christ shall deliver up to God His Kingdom. But He must reign until He has put all things under His feet—except God, and then deliver up to God the whole business and be subject to Him.

We do not know exactly what Jesus taught. It is said He brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel, but it is strange that this claim is made in the face of the universal belief in immortality which prevailed in the world. Paul did not seem to know of this universal belief, and so to him it did appear that Christ was the first who brought life and immortality to light. We have not a letter or word that Jesus ever wrote, and hence we do not know about His exact beliefs. Those who quote Him colored His sayings according to the belief of the sect to which they belonged.

Jesus said nothing about the abode of departed spirits, but He makes vague allusions to it, indicating that He shared the popular belief, as on the cross when He said to the thief, "paradise," and again "be with me in paradise," and again in the parable of the rich man and Lazarus—Dives was in Gehenna, in torment, wanting a drop of water, etc., and he looks and sees Lazarus in Paradise.

Mr. Robinson's explanation of these texts is puerile and unworthy the general good sense that characterizes his writings. The changing of the position of the comma, if allowed, does not alter the sense of this passage.

Today neither Heaven nor Hell are places, they are only states—a temporary, not a place. The true Gehenna is a polluted heart, not a burning place. And so with Heaven; it is not as some meadow of asphodel beside crystal waters, or a golden city in the far-off blue, but an extension, development of continued righteousness and peace and joy in believing. It means holiness, principle, or one with God.

To claim that either Heaven or Hell is a place in which the spirit is to dwell or be confined is the height of absurdity, as though an immaterial principle without substance or parts could be circumscribed to any material habitation.

Chas. M. Bice, Denver, Colorado, April 10, 1920.

Sir Oliver Lodge, Mary Pickford and Others

Editor Ontario: I have heard Sir Oliver Lodge lecture. I have visited San Bernardino, Riverside, and travelled 220 miles over the plains of Southern California. Sir Oliver impressed me greatly. His style was so easy and familiar. His firm belief is that either, which permeates all things, and is indelible, will remain unchanged by death. Either fills all spaces. He hears nothing about either heaven or hell. Our spirits remain unchanged, and as a man dies, so his spirit remains; but evil is gradually eliminated.

Young soldiers are keen to resist the earth. The old are not so desirous. He has no doubt but that spirits of departed revisit the earth. Great audiences greet the greatest scientists of the present age.

Next in rank is the renowned Maeterlinck, now visiting America. He is a theosophist. Maeterlinck speaks of discovery of ode emuvia. Ode is the magnetic fluid which emanates in unfrustrated waves from bodies. Ruckhback discovered astral light, that sensitive persons can see in the darkest emuvia. It waves vary with the state of mind. It is a bluish color on the right side, yellow on the left. Men, animals and plants possess it. It can be photographed. It is magnetism. Tables with hands laid upon them only move because the odic rays converge from the hands. Remove the hands, and the table drops. It can move the hands of a clock enclosed entirely in glass. It can move a table of 200 pounds weight. It can be collected, and substances charged with it. Mesmerism can infuse it in another person. It cannot be destroyed. It is this power infused by the mesmerizer that makes people act entirely under control of the operator. This fluid may be the means used in many spirit seances.

It is now complained that people are giving up their belief in religion, and consulting only boards instead. Cardinal Mercier, in a speech quoted in a Los Angeles paper, said that the belief in hell should be ignored, and treated as non-sensical. He told of a priest he heard say in his sermon, describing the torments of hell, that he had seen the intense heat of the blowpipe fuses iron and lead, and he said, down there they use this red-hot fused metal as merely a dressing for the flames underneath.

I have all of the mediums who work for money are frauds. But aside from these are the masses of evidence which has accumulated for many years.

The late Sir Mackenzie Bowell loaned me a book written by the celebrated Florence Marryatt, daughter of the famed writer of sea stories, Captain Marryatt. This book detailed her experiences with spirits. If what she stated was false, then she outclassed Aphantus and Saphira, because she said her dead children came to her, caressed her, and sat on her lap. She told of other spirits who habitually came to see her, one being a deceased officer. Hundreds of incidents were narrated.

Sir William Crookes, the greatest inventor and savant the world has ever seen, declared that the spirit of a young girl frequently came into his own library, conversed with him. Allowed him to clasp her hands, and continued this for months, in the presence of many other persons. Could such a man be deceived? Could Lord Dunraven, Admiral Watson and another be deceived fools when D. D. Home went out of a window 70 feet from the ground, floated in the air and entered at another window? The many experiments made with Mrs. Piper, running over many years, made in the presence of the greatest scientists of the day, could these men be deceived? The great Hypnotist, and the world renowned astronomer, Flammarion, I were convinced of the truth of spiritism. Judge Edmonds, one of the greatest judges of America, wrote books giving his personal experience and detailed conversations with his deceased wife. Of course, the "know-all" laugh and say, "I don't believe it." They have done this all down the centuries. They would not believe a message could be sent by telegraph or wireless. They will only believe what their keen intellects tell them.

Humbly, fraud, lies abound. Astrologists, fortune-tellers and all of that trash are frauds. Yet is a matter of history that an old negro woman, poverty-stricken, told Josephine, the wife of Napoleon Bonaparte, that she would be an empress and rule the world. Josephine being at the time a young girl living in Corsica.

I have read exhaustively on this subject. The best book I think is one written by Professor Crawford of the University of Dublin. He is professor of mathematics and "a hard-headed man" as the Toronto Mail and Empire described him, believing nothing without the strongest proof. He experimented in his own house, with his own family and the young daughter of a neighbor. The result was that he became an avowed spiritualist. His own experiments convinced him that spirits exist. Take Dr. Watson, of Toronto, the Methodist class-leader. What of him and his wonderful book? Read the Bible, and the wisest fail to understand much about heaven. The Aecylopsy does not present us with any idea that human intelligence can understand. It may be metaphysical. But human imagination fails to find a belief in a perpetual enjoyment of standing around the throne, dressed in white and chanting praises to God. Language is intended to be believed as described, but poor human minds cannot reach the exaltation required.

I heard the editor of the Los Angeles Times, Mr. MacGrohart, read two of his poems on California. There is one question that every tourist will be asked on arriving: "Have you seen the Mission Play? You must see it." Mr. MacGrohart wrote this play which for nine years has been played every day and night in the old Mission House in San Francisco. Frederick Ward, seventy years of age, has played all this time. He likes the character of Father Julipero Serrro. The play describes the advent of the pious monks and Spanish soldiers to California. The monks had but one object, namely, to save the souls of the Indians. They nearly starved and were about to return to Spain when a relief ship came in. Ward is a great actor. About seventy-five people

We have strawberries, and every kind of fruit, vegetable, and nuts. The weather is beautiful; the sun is so dainty, killing people every day. Poor David Warned, the actor, in the hospital with leg broken in two places. The Rev. Mr. Smith pronounced the benediction, stepped out of the church and was killed in two minutes. The fault rests very much with the people. They will take chances.

Cobourg Teams Were Defeated

There were two games of basketball at the Y.M.C.A. Friday evening, the first being between the Cobourg Collegiate girls vs. the O.U.R. Club. The second game was between Cobourg Collegiate boys vs. St. Michael's.

The first game resulted in a win for Belleville by a score of 18 to 7. This game was fast and exciting all the way. The Cobourg girls did everything in their power to win but were unable to check the two fast shooting forwards of the O.U.R. team. The half time score was 8 to 5 in favor of Belleville. In the second half the game was a little easier for Belleville and they scored ten points to Cobourg's two. In the game at Cobourg some time ago the Belleville girls had a score of six points so that in the two games they have a margin of 16. Teams follow: Belleville: Anna Laferty, 10; M. Rooney, 5; Helen Hurley, 8; G. Kimmel, 2; Mary McLehlan, 5; Irene Kellee, 1; E. Cooke; Gyneth Allroy; B. McMillan; Stella O'Rourke; E. Reipert. Total: Belleville 18; Cobourg 7.

Referee, Miss Haycock. In the boys' game, Cobourg started out like winners and scored the first basket almost immediately from the throw up. In fact the first ten minutes was all Cobourg as they put up a very conservative game and had Belleville in trouble a good deal of the time. Towards the end of the first half the Belleville boys came up a little and finished the half score 15-11 in favor of Belleville. After the rest Cobourg came back strong again and overcame the lead of the Belleville team and for a time it looked as though they would win, but again the Belleville boys dug together and ran in several baskets and with Welp back on the defence tucked the game away for the local team. Allen, of the Cobourg team played an excellent game all the way, scoring five baskets and seven foul throws and everyone of his team worked hard and they are a team that should be heard from if they stay together. Hurley and Meagher were the big scorers for St. Michael's team. Hurley got six baskets and Meagher five. The game was fast and clean all the way and was one of the best games that has been seen here this year. The final score was 37-27.

Belleville: Allen, 17; Meagher, 13; Miles, 6; Schreiber, 2; Field, 2; Rooney, 2; Welf, 4. Total for Belleville 37; Cobourg 27.

McINTOSH BROS.

ANOTHER EXCURSION IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn Gives Another Glowing Description of the Beauties and Wonders of the District About Los Angeles.

The second trip we had after our arrival in Southern California was given to us through the kindness of an old and well known Belleville boy. On the evening of the day of our arrival at Los Angeles our telephone rang about eight o'clock and a well known voice, that of Mr. J. R. Finkle, welcomed us to Los Angeles, and invited us to take an auto trip the following day.

On the next day Mr. and Mrs. Finkle called at one o'clock by appointment and took us for a drive we will never forget. Leaving "The Abbey" at Eighth and Figueroa streets, we proceeded north up Figueroa street, crossed Seventh street, one of the heaviest traffic points in the city. A notice was up at the corner asking motor drivers and pedestrians to be careful as there had been 1,189 accidents at this corner during the preceding year. We continued north on Beaudry street for two miles and then turned west on Sunset Boulevard. Figueroa and Beaudry streets from our starting point were made up of business blocks, residences and apartment houses. Sunset Boulevard is a very broad street, about 100 feet in width, and sweeping along the foothills westerly and southwesterly to the Pacific Ocean. It passes through deep canyons, over high hills, and along elevated plateaus. To the north are the Coast Range mountains, laid out with streets half way to their summits, built up with white residences which presented a beautiful appearance in the bright sunlight of the early afternoon. To the south in the large plain could be seen the city of Los Angeles extending to the horizon. We drove for miles westerly. The valley is called the Cahuenga Valley, and the mountains extending east and west on the north side of the valley are known as the Santa Monica range. We passed from the city of Los Angeles westerly into the city of Hollywood and still running along the Sunset Boulevard.

Hollywood is a beautiful suburban residence section about half an hour's ride from the business centre of Los Angeles. It has sprung up in years, with artificial residences surrounded by beautiful grounds and miles of fine boulevards. It has been consolidated with Los Angeles. Hollywood is the home of many of the thousands of persons who are engaged in the motion picture business, and whether the residences are large mansions, spacious bungalows or modest homes, they all display a novelty of architecture, a symmetry and beauty of design, and are all either white or in delicate colors, the grounds being decorated with pergolas, in many instances covered with roses, bougainvilliers or wisteria in bloom. We passed many of the well known studios, where many of the pictures, popular with the Belleville audiences, were prepared. Continuing westward we passed the beautiful residence district of Beverly Hills, the Los Angeles Country Club, the Soldiers' Home with its three thousand members and the Beverly Heights Hotel. This magnificent hotel is situated on a rising slope overlooking the Cahuenga valley. In front of it are grounds and gardens laid out with flowers, shrubs and palm trees, and the streets and avenues approaching the hotel are lined with beautiful palms.

We then proceeded southwesterly about fifteen miles to the city of Santa Monica, on the shores of the Pacific Ocean; then down along the beach to Ocean Park and continued to Venice, where we heard the noted band which gives a program of music every afternoon. Venice is equipped with many amusements, and crowds assemble at this well known resort. We then returned to Los Angeles, eighteen miles distant, by the Washington Boulevard, which passed through Culver City, where the noted Goldwyn motion picture studios and many others are situated, and as the afternoon sun shed its light on the valley we passed along West Adams street with its palatial residences, Western avenue with its flowers and trees, and along West Eighth street to the Abbey Hotel where our hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Finkle, left us in safety after enjoying a drive of sixty miles and having visited one of the most interesting sections of lower California.

Mr. and Mrs. Finkle are always doing something to make it pleasant for their Canadian friends, and the splendid welcome they gave us on the second day after our arrival will never be forgotten by us, and gave us a taste of our own home-folks that made our hearts glow with pleasure and reminded us of "Auld Lang Syne."
