New Spanish Cabinet Under Premier Dato Named; Will Adhere to Policy of Neutrality

Abdication of King Constantine of Greece Noted Favorably by The Entente Powers

FRENCH SENATOR DOES GOOD WORK IN ATHENS

Solution of Greek Problem is Being Rapidly Approached by M. Tonnart, Representative of the Entente

Paris June 12.—The vigor with which the French Senator, M. Jonnart, on special mission to Athens as the representative of France, Great Britain, and Russia, has begun the difficult task of settling the Greek problem, has caused the liveliest satisfaction here. Before he sailed, ten days ago, Senator Jonnart obtained absolute authority to act as he considered best. The action in granting such authority was endorsed by the Russian Government. Senator Jonnart's high character and abilities, his fine record as a diplomat and administrator, and the free hand given him led French opinion to expect effective action, but that he should have so rapidly and easily eliminated the chief stumbling block of the entente allies in the Levant, came as a most agreeable surprise. That he will succeed in helping Greece to get on her feet again in the shortest possible time, notwithstanding many difficulties which still remain, is the unanimous opinion. The Saloniki expedition has been attacked by many in France as useless, but every one is agreed that the force once there ought to be given every opportunity to accomplish its purpose. It was admitted that with the perpetual menace of a stab in the back from the Greek Royalist army that the expeditionary force was doomed to partial inaction. Encouraged by the moderation of the entente allies whose overpatient policy was attributed largely here to the opposition of the later Russian regime, to strong measures, Constantine eluded most of the guarantees extracted from him during June and December of last year, and continued his intrigue with Germany. The blockade alone kept him from active hostility. If he could get the Thessaly corps into his hands not only the Entente allies lost a weapon, but he turned the tables by adding considerably to the difficulties of the Venizelist forces, who counted on gaining a part of the corps. M. Jonnart after a series of rapid consultations with the Entente allied ministers and with the Greek Premier Alexander Zaimis, decided upon quick and drastic action and proceeded to Saloniki where he arranged with General Sarrail for military assistance.

Fifteen Hostile Craft Attacked City of London Today, Doing no Damage and Being Put to Flight by British Airmen; Big Air Battle

By Courier Leased Wire Bulletin, June 13.—The east end of London was bombarded today by fifteen hostile airplanes. A large number of airplanes pursued the Germans who flew over Essex to London. No reports of casualties have been received thus far. Bulletin, London, June 13.—The German airplanes appeared over London shortly before noon. A great battle occurred in the air. The invaders were attacked by anti-aircraft guns, as well as by British aviators. The following official statement was issued: "Lord French, (Commander of the home defences) reports that about fifteen hostile airplanes were heard crossing the Essex coast, passing in the vicinity of the Nore (part of the estuary of the Thames,) at about 11 a.m. They proceeded in the direction of London, separating when they had covered about half the distance. "The east end of London has been attacked and bombed, but no reports have yet been received of casualties or damage done. Anti-aircraft guns of the London defences have been in action. A large number of airplanes are still up in pursuit."

NEUTRALITY POLICY OF NEW SPANISH CABINET

Return to Office of Minister of Foreign Affairs Guarantees Non-Combatant Stand; Personnel of Cabinet is Named

By Courier Leased Wire. Madrid, June 13, via Paris.—Premier Dato, declared to-day that the return of Marquis de Lema to the post of Minister of Foreign Affairs, was a guarantee that the new Spanish Government would continue to follow a policy of absolute neutrality. The Premier also announced that he did not intend to dissolve the Cortes. The present chamber of deputies contains a majority of Liberals but Count de Romanones, the former Premier, has already announced that he will support Premier Dato. This assures Dato a working majority in the Chamber. Personnel of Cabinet Paris, June 13.—A despatch to the Havas agency from Madrid says the new Spanish Cabinet is composed as follows: Premier, Edward Dato. Minister of Foreign Affairs, Marquis de Lema. Minister of Justice, Senor Burgos. Minister of War, General Fernandez Primo Rivera. Minister of the Navy, General Flores. Minister of the Interior, Sanchez Guerra. Minister of Finance, Senor Bugallal. Minister of Labor, Yscount D'Eza. Minister of Public Instruction, Senor Andradro. Bells Seized Copenhagen, June 13, via London.—Hamburg has just bidden a touching farewell to the noted Chimes in two principal Churches, St. Nicholas and St. Peters, from which the bells have been expropriated, under a general order seizing all German Church bells to be melted into cannon. Great crowds assembled around the churches and joined in hymns which the organists played for the last time on the bells. The chimes are composed of 43 and 50 bells respectively and will provide about thirty tons of gun metal. Women Wanted London, June 13.—A Reader despatch from Amsterdam says the Berlin newspapers are publishing an appeal to women to serve in the German ammunition factories. The appeal says a great increase in the number of women workers is necessary.

Reconstruction and Reform Measures Are Being Carried on Apace in Russia

Wilson's Note is Hailed as Open Exposition of Characteristic American Diplomacy in Russia

By Courier Leased Wire. Petrograd, June 12, via London. June 13.—Russian feeling on President Wilson's note emphasizes a cleavage between the temporary government and the Socialist element, the most of which is represented by the council of Deputies and the most radical by the Bolshevik faction, led by Nikolai Lenin. All the newspapers supporting the government, hail with the greatest enthusiasm what they term "the straightforward exposition of characteristic American diplomacy."

The Socialists' organs on the other hand, accuse President Wilson of using high-toned language and vague phrases embodying principles unacceptable to the Russian democracy, and even hinting that the declaration of the United States government against a policy of imperialism and annexations is insincere.

This note sounds the death-knell of the Foreign policy of the council of Workmen and Soldiers' delegates. We must reiterate President Wilson's words, that the war must secure not only a war peace, but a guarantee against further wars. President Wilson phrases now become incarnated in a practical measure.

The Voila, says: "President Wilson is quite right when he clearly formulates the general aims of the allies without taking into consideration the terms of the Russian declaration. American imperialism is blasphemy. The United States does not see material profits, but she understands that Germany must not emerge from this war with impunity so that she may use peace for a new war. The return of the status quo ante is impossible."

The Bourse Gazette, says: "Even the extreme pacifists must have to President Wilson's declaration, because if they can accuse England and France of imperialistic aims it is clearly impossible to doubt President Wilson, when he declares America is not seeking aggrandisement or indemnities. We notice considerable difference in the physiology between dead."

RESULTS OF RAID London, June 13.—Andrew Bonar Law, member of the British war council, stated in the House of Commons that 31 persons had been killed and 67 had been injured in the city of London alone. The casualties in the whole metropolitan area, he said, were not yet known.

CASUALTIES Ottawa, June 13.—To-day's casualty roll of 68 names, lists 51 who have been missing since September, of last year, and are now presumed dead.

Despite Internal and Foreign Anxiety Provisional Government is Successful in Remediating Many Grievances

By Courier Leased Wire. Petrograd, June 12, via London. June 13.—Despite internal and foreign anxiety the provisional government is making rapid progress toward constitutional reconstruction and domestic reform.

This week there is sitting under the Presidency of F. F. Kokoshkine, a member of the Duma, a council of sixty-one members which aims to prepare for elections to the constituent assembly. This assembly will not only draft Russia's permanent constitution, but will also solve certain immediate problems, the chief of which are the questions of nationalities and the conditions of the transfer of the lands of the nobles to the peasantry. In this preparatory council are sitting a group of constitutional specialists, also deputies from the army and from all the political parties representatives of Jews, Ukrainians, Poles and other races, and also a representative of the women, the famous Feminist, Mme Shchekin Yavelin.

To prevent dealings in land by what is intended to evade its future settlement the provisional government has declared invalid all land transfers of a later date than May 14. The government has submitted to M. Kokoshkine's council, the defendants project of a law concerning elections to the constituent assembly which is based on universal, equal, secret and direct voting by both sexes. A further principle is proportionate representation of the parties. Control over the elections is to be left partly to the Zemstvos.

A warmly debated question in the council concerns the age of voters which all the parties have set low. The electoral commission of the council has recommended eighteen years, but the full council yesterday raised (Continued on page 5)

REDMOMD WAS TRUE PATRIOT

"In Going to France, I Was Doing My Best for Welfare of Ireland"

HE LEFT STATEMENT Last Thought to Wife, Hoping to Meet Her Hereafter

By Courier Leased Wire London, June 13.—William H. K. Redmond, brother of John Redmond, the Irish leader who was killed in action in Belgium last week, left the following statement in the care of his solicitor in Ireland, dated December 9, 1916:

"If I die abroad I will give my wife my last thought and love and ask her to pray that we meet hereafter. I shall die a true Irish Catholic, humbly hoping for the mercy of God, through the intercession of His Blessed Mother, whose help I have ever evoked all through life. I should like all of my friends in Ireland to know that in joining the Irish brigade and going to France, I sincerely believed, as all the Irish soldiers do, that I was doing my best for the welfare of Ireland, in every way."

Sinn Fein London, June 13.—A morning newspaper today points that the party truce with regard to bye-elections has been joyfully observed in the main parts of Ireland since the war, but that now that the Sinn Feiners threaten opposition to it, notably in south Dublin, and east Clare.

GASPARD VILLAGE CAPTURED BY HAIG'S MEN IN BIG ADVANCE

Drive On Two Mile Front on Messines Sector; Line Advanced Astride Souchez River, With Capture of Prisoners

London, June 13.—Another advance of the British forces on a front of nearly 2 miles east and northeast of Messines, and the capture of the village of Gaspard, is reported in the British official communication issued last night. The communication says: "Our troops gained further ground yesterday east and northeast of Messines on a front of nearly 2 miles and occupied the hamlet of Gaspard. "We also advanced our line slightly yesterday morning astride the Souchez River, and captured 17 prisoners and three machine guns. "The enemy's artillery has shown considerable activity during the day northeast of Gouzeaucourt and north of the Scarpe, in the neighborhood of Lens and Ypres. "Our airplanes were active yesterday. Although weather conditions were not favorable, much useful work was accomplished. One of our machines is missing."

Destroy Five Trenches
 Paris, June 13.—The official statement issued by the war office to-night reads: "There was moderate activity by both sides on the front of the Somme. German trenches near the Butte de Mesnil and in the region of Haute Chevauchee, we effected considerable destruction and brought back ten prisoners. "A German airplane was brought down in Lorraine by our special guns; the two aviators were made prisoners. "Belgian communication: Last night a partial attack on our advanced trenches south of Dixmude was completely repulsed. To-day the usual artillery actions occurred, especially in the sector of Steenvoet and Hetsas. One of our German airplanes brought down a German machine near Beerst. "Say British Repulsed Berlin, via London, June 13.—British Admiralty, per Wireless Press: "The text of the official statement reads: "Western front, army group of Crown Prince Rupprecht: In Flanders the artillery activity near Ypres and south of the Douve increased during the evening. During the afternoon British cavalry advanced against our lines east of Messines. Only remnants returned. South of Messines the attacking infantry was repulsed by a counter attack. "The firing activity was lively in the Artois, especially in the Lens sector. Near Fromelles, Neuve Chapelle and Arleux, British reconnoitering detachments were repulsed. "Say French Repulsed "Army group of the German Crown Prince: The French yesterday made five counter-attacks against the trenches occupied by us west of Cerny on June 30. All failed with heavy losses. The fighting was in the hand-to-hand fighting. "Early north of Vailly and on the Wintberg did the artillery duel attain great intensity, and this was limited in duration. In the Champagne, French reconnoitering thrusts near Tature and Vanquois failed. "Army group of Duke Albrecht: There is nothing to report. "Eastern front: On the Dvina, near Smoregon and Baronovitch, and especially near Brzany and on the Narayuvka, the fighting activity has again become lively. "The official communication issued by the war office this evening says: "Southwest of Lens, British attacks failed in fighting at close range. "Bying Goes Ottawa, June 13.—Sir Robert Borden sent the following cable, through Sir George Perley, to General Sir Julian Byng: "My colleague and I have learned with regret that you are severing your connection with the Canadian Army Corps. We deeply appreciate your fine services to Canada and the empire while in command of the corps, and send our thanks, together with our best wishes, for every success in your new sphere of activity." It is believed here that General Byng has been given command of one of the larger British armies on the western front. A higher command was offered him some months ago, but he preferred staying with the Canadians till they accomplished the task of capturing Vimy Ridge. The successor of Gen. Byng will probably be a Canadian, Gen. Currie or General Turner, more likely the former, as General Turner is required in England.

THE PUPILS OF MISS SQUIRE
 Give an Enjoyable Performance at the Opera House

The Presentation Was Above the Usual Amateur Standard

"Miss Fearless and Co." a comedy written by Belle Marshall Locke, was presented at the Opera House last night by the pupils of the dramatic class of Miss Squire. The production depicts the decision of a bevy of young girls to ignore the "lords of creation" in connection with a holiday trip to "Spook Island," and the usual capitulation, although not a masculine form appears in the action of the production, except a dummy, and the decision, in the last analysis, it is not count in the last analysis. It is always held to be a difficult thing in dramatic art for women folk to hold stage interest for any length of time without the contrasting male and general "business" did not betoken the amateur in any one particular. "Miss Ella Rand as 'Just Lizzie' a criminally trained waltz, with naïveté at disposition still unwarped, did an excellent bit of work. "Mrs. Mason, as the hysterical chaperone, rendered the tantrum type of character effectively. "Miss Emma Jackson in the role of Sarah Jane Lovejoy, gave a capital interpretation of the matter of fact personage and her dry remarks were given with full effect. "Miss Minnie Wyatt, assumed the role of Miss Fearless, and heiress, in a most pleasing way and she was ably supported by her guests, Miss Edna Stover, Miss Minnie I. Oles, and Miss Lillian Ritchie. "Miss Nellie Cooper and Miss Jessie H. Cousland, as two silent sisters admirably filled their pantomime parts. They were supposed to be young girls in disguise, and kept up

OTHER SIMCOE NEWS
 No Cases Up For County Court or General Sessions

Simcoe, June 13.—(From our own correspondent)—A statement going about town to the effect that the purchaser of a bag of potatoes, bought from the car shipped to Simcoe recently and sent to Mr. E. P. Neff, Dept. Representative here for distribution for seed, contained a note purporting to have been written by the grower and stating the price realized, ($1.15) with a request that the purchaser kindly write him stating the price paid, turns out to be a hoax. We heard the story told as an absolute fact on Monday morning, and last evening called Mr. Neff over the phone. We were told that the potatoes received at Simcoe were shipped in bulk from the Robert Hay Co., of Toronto, on the order of the department and that they were bagged at Simcoe as delivery in the district. We were also slipped a note into one of the bags, but any insinuation that the government or Mr. Neff made money on the deal does not appear to be founded on facts.

Schools out for Production.
 Norfolk schools will this year maintain their high record for agricultural training. Both Mr. Neff and Inspector Cook are pleased to report increased activity. All the sowing is now done and most of the plots are showing good growth. Fine and sweet corn, turnips, mangolds, potatoes, garden peas, parsnips, beets, onions and carrots are the crops under cultivation. Ten hundred and fifty settings of eggs have been distributed to about thirty schools. "Too busy for Legal Warfare." The semi-annual sitting of the county court at the court at general sessions of the Peace, opened here yesterday afternoon at two o'clock, and closed instantly. Not because there was no case to be tried, but because of a letter from the Attorney-General's department, requesting that, in view of the urgent need of a maximum effort by the arm, it was desirable that wherever possible the calling of jurors to court while the work stood, should be avoided. His Honor, Judge Hines, assisted by the Bar, started out of court, successful in having two civil cases settled out of court and one or two criminal cases traversed by consent to the December sitting. The sitting clear, the sixty-one grand and petty jurors already summoned, were notified not to attend. Possibly fifty of these were called out of court, and thus much valuable time has been saved. Incidentally too, the county is in a few hundred dollars.

More Fire Claims Adjusted

Mr. Smith will be missed in the social life of a wide circle and in all the athletics of which Simcoe can boast. In his departure, Simcoe loses a valued citizen. SUSPECT ARRESTED.
 By Courier Leased Wire.
 Flemington, N. J., June 12.—Caro Mayworen, a farmer had suspected of having murdered Mr. and Mrs. William Queen, and their daughter, and then setting fire to their home at Mount Pleasant last Thursday night, was brought to the jail here early today near Millford, where he was captured late last night. Mayworen was captured after a hard fight by two fishermen. When notified of his capture, a posse of citizens, who had been searching for him since Friday, attempted to take him from soldiers and sheriff's deputies, and Mayworen struck one man with an axe, and was himself shot in the back, by a member of the posse. His wound is not serious. Threats made against Mayworen caused guards to be placed around the jail to-day. Mayworen was employed by Queen as a farm hand. He disappeared after the murders and fire. He is about 35 years of age.

EXPORT PULPWOOD.
 By Courier Leased Wire.
 St. Johns Nfld., June 12.—The Newfoundland Legislature, now in session, is expected to enact a law permitting export to the United States of a considerable quantity of pulpwood cut in this colony since the outbreak of the war. The wood was intended for shipment to England and France, but because of the shortage of ships its transfer to those countries has become impossible.

HELP NEEDED.
 By Courier Leased Wire.
 Hamilton, June 12.—Gaining facilities in the district are clamoring for help and it is feared that unless the response is immediate, there will be a big wastage of food. One factory here, which has fourteen cars of berries on the tracks, has been advertising for 350 women aid girls, but only a few have answered the call. The factories claim they are confronted with the worst shortage of help they have ever experienced.

BELGIANS STARVED.

By Courier Leased Wire. Havre, France, June 12. - The death by starvation, within three months of 500 Belgians interned in Germany is reported in a semi-official statement given out here today. "According to information received by the Belgian ministry of war," the statement says, "German civilians interned in Belgian camps near Liebeck, refused to work out of 2,000 interned, 500 died of starvation in three months. The condition of the survivors is described as pitiful."

British Battling Where Samson Slew Philistines

Allied Guns Pound Gaza, From Which, According to Scripture, the Strong Man of Israel Carried Off the City Gates

(From the Boston Post) Madly wielding the jawbone of an ass, Samson slew 1000 Philistines on the same spot in Palestine where the British now are fighting. The "Strong Man of Israel" even carried off the gates of Gaza, the identical city on which the English are training their powerful guns. Near there, too, 1000 years before the Christian era, single-handed and unarmed, he tore a lion to pieces while on his way to ask a Philistine woman to become his bride.

And on one of these war-devastated battlefields, Samson's tragic career ended when he rent asunder a building on the top of which, the Bible says, were 3,000 persons, all laughing and jeering at the man they had humbled and made blind. Gaza about which so much British activity now centers in the struggle in the near east, is 3 miles inland from the Mediterranean and about 50 miles in an air line southwest of Jerusalem. The National Geographical society's latest bulletin shows it has been the scene of a host of conflicts since from its fame as the scene of the spectacular exploits of Samson. The writer says: "Ancient Commercial Centre 'Gaza is one of the five great cities of the Philistines, having risen to commercial importance on account of its situation at the juncture of the trade routes between Egypt and Babylonia, Elath and Arabia. Its seaport was Majman (renamed Constantia many centuries later by Constantine)."

"During the heyday of Gaza's prosperity the Philistines were a powerful people, their soldiers being equipped with copper helmets, coats of mail, javelins and long lances, each man thus accoutred being accompanied into battle by a shield bearer. The light-armed soldiers were archers. "After the Israelites conquered it Gaza was a prey to Assyrians, Babylonians and Persians. It resisted the Greeks under Alexander the Great for several months. More than two centuries later it was destroyed by Alexander Jannaeus, the Jewish king. Subsequently a new Gaza, some distance to the south of the old city, was built and was presented by Emperor Augustus to King Herod. Upon the latter's death it became a part of the Roman province of Syria. Stronghold of Paganism "Up to the days of Constantine Gaza was one of the chief strongholds of paganism, the god Marnas

ANARCHY FOR U. S. PLANNED BY GERMANY

Huns Would Have Brought America to Same Condition as Russia

(Editorial in N. Y. World): What is said to be going on in Russia is what the Prussian war machine planned also for the United States. It filled the country with spies, bribe givers and conspirators; denied our right to neutrality; beguiled an element of our citizenship from its true allegiance; carried on a seditious political agitation against our government; levied war upon our industry and commerce; sought to embarrass us with Mexico and Japan; and because these undertakings failed, impudently warned us off the seas on pain of death.

LADIES' DRESS.

An informal afternoon frock is an indispensable item in any woman's wardrobe, and she who is not already provided with one will find that No. 8301 fills all requirements. Another argument in its favor is that it is very easy to cut and make. The waist is in shirtwaist style, but the collar and vest transform it into a dressy affair. The generous opening is filled in with a lace vest, which is emphasized by the shaped shawl collar of satin. The sleeves are left to the taste of the wearer, as the pattern provides both long and short ones. The simple skirt is a two-piece model, gathered at the top and with slash pockets in the side seams. The pocket flaps carry out the trimming scheme of the waist. The dress pattern, No. 8301, is cut in four sizes, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measure. Width at the lower edge of skirt is 2 1/2 yards. As on the figure, the 36-inch size requires 5 yards of 36-inch material, 1 1/4 yards 36-inch contrasting goods, 3/4 yard 18-inch all-over lace and 2 1/4 yards of plaiting. To obtain this pattern send 10 cents to the office of this publication.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 13TH, 1917.

THE SITUATION

The British are continuing the offensive on the western front in an irresistible way. Their latest exploit has been another advance on a two mile front near Messines.

The Canadians also have been at it again with excellent results. They have taken enemy strong points on the Souchez River, and are now only 2,700 yards from the centre of Lens.

King Constantine, the devious, has at last had his career ended by the Allies, who have also extended the ban to the Crown Prince because of his pro-German proclivities.

Certain prominent Liberals have not hesitated to openly express their support of the Military Service Bill introduced by Premier Borden.

This serious and momentous period is not one for the practice of petty politics or jockeying for advantage by either side.

Sir Robert Borden has abundantly shown that for his part all he sincerely desires is effective co-operation and in that respect he offered to make the ministry, outside of himself, fifty-fifty.

The Premier is quite likely to dissolve the House and go to the country. Any "hold up" game on the part of manipulators anxious only to save their own political hides, will certainly not be tolerated by the people at large.

AS IT IS IN THE OLD LAND. Few people in Canada probably have any idea of the rigidity with which food waste and attempted escape of service are handled in Great Britain.

Being found "guilty," Priny was sentenced to three years penal servitude. At the same court Joseph Levinson, Summershall-square, Edinburgh an auctioneer's assistant, pleaded not guilty to having produced a military classification certificate stating that he had been examined medically and rejected.

In his case also sentence of three years' penal servitude was passed.

Hilda Gay, domestic, and her mistress, Miss Blake Doveton, were summoned at Bath, the maid for throwing a basinful of bread over railings opposite the house, and the mistress with being an accessory.

The defence was that the bread had been nibbled by a mouse, and was on that account unfit for consumption.

The magistrates, holding that the prosecution must prove the bread fit for food, dismissed the case.

Messrs. James Cottle, Ltd., proprietors of a Chester restaurant, fined $5 on Wednesday for wasting bread, said that it was left by customers after dining.

For feeding pigs with wheat Bill Barber, farmer, Royston, Yorkshire, was at Barnsley on Wednesday, fined $5 and costs.

Hughes Brothers, of Bath Market, for selling seed potatoes at 50 per cent. above the Controller's maximum, were fined $50.

A man named Hamilton, who advertised seed potatoes at $25 a ton, was fined $20, or fifty-nine days' imprisonment, at the London Mansion House.

Maud Kirby, assistant to Thos. Robson, grocer, of Kentish Town Road, was fined 40s., or twenty-one days' imprisonment, at Marylebone, for imposing a condition in connection with the sale of sugar; and Chas. Eldridge, manager of the shop, was fined £4 15s., with 5s. costs, or twenty-five days' imprisonment, for aiding and abetting her to commit the offence.

Frank Smees, grocer and provision dealer, of Upton-lane, Forest Gate, was fined 20s. at West Ham for imposing a condition in connection with a sale of sugar.

For refusing to sell 1 lb. of sugar without 2 oz. of tea Florence Taylor was fined £5 at Old-street Police Court, and Frederick Butcher, her

The Kaiser's sister has been deposited, and that fact should lead William of Hohenzollern to do some more hard thinking. The thing is getting mighty close home.

Rippling Rhymes

I'd like to be as slim and straight as a reed, and once again be as when I was a middleweight. I wouldn't run so much to waste if sternly I refused to taste the kinds of grub containing starch, and if on foot I'd daily march, instead of riding down the street, while thinner people use their feet. It's easy to reduce one's fat—the doctors all agree on that, the doctors of a dozen schools; but when I read their list of rules, I heave a sad and soulful sigh, and call for porthouse and pie. Vain longings I have often felt, to wear a smaller, shorter belt, of double chias trade the earth.

NOTES AND COMMENTS. Nicholas and Constantine have paid the penalty of listening to German wives. The Allies won't have to waste any more effort in catching the greasy Greek boar. Germany has offered to salute the Spanish flag. As for its own emblem there are no decent nations so poor in spirit as to do it honor. The political skin of any one man or group of men, should not count for one iota of a second in the present crisis. Every man from 20 to 45 these days can boast that the State proposes to rate him as of some class. Crop prospects generally speaking are now reported to be the best yet recorded this year throughout Ontario. If the thing continues gloomy prognostications will themselves enter into the big cropper class.

CONSCRIPTION IS ENDORSED BY THE GRAND JURY

Recommend Also Strict Enforcement of Alien Enemy Internment Law

The following is the text of the report of the Grand Jury, as submitted to His Honor Judge Hardy, who is presiding over the sessions of the county court now in progress:

To His Honor Alexander David Hardy, Judge of the County Court, of the County of Brant and Chairman of the General Sessions of the Peace for the County of Brant.

We the Grand Jurors at this time beg to report as follows: We thank Your Honor for your address and following your instructions we have not visited any of the County Institutions, other than the County Gaol. This we found to be in a very satisfactory condition with one or two exceptions. We would recommend that a stand pipe and fifty feet of hose be placed in the corridors of the gaol, upstairs and down, as a protection in case of fire. We would also recommend that the coping of the South Wall,

Royal Loan & Savings Co. 38-40 Market Street, Brantford Amount of business for year 1916— Three and one half million dollars. Amount per day—Ten thousand dollars. Is part of this years? If not our company will be pleased to have you start transacting business at this office. 38-40 MARKET STREET and a portion of the north wall of the gaol yard be repaired. We concur in Your Honor's remarks as to the loss the County has sustained through the death of Mr. J. T. Hewett and that of Mr. J. Y. Brown. We congratulate the County on the appointment of Mr. W. A. Hollinrake as local Registrar of the Supreme Court and note with satisfaction the appointment to the position of Gaoler, of Mr. Charles Jones a soldier who has served not only in the present war but also during the Boer War. Having in view the fact that Brant County has already contributed in the neighborhood of 4,000 men under the voluntary system and realizing the necessity of reinforcements to support our men in the trenches, we heartily endorse the Conscription Bill now before the Parliament at Ottawa. In view of the present conditions in this country we would recommend that the Alien Enemy Internment Law be strictly enforced and that the officials entrusted with the carrying out of same be firmly upheld in the discharge of their duties. All of which is respectfully submitted. Signed on behalf of the Grand Jury. F. J. CALBECK Foreman. Brantford, June 12th, 1917. AT THE ARMORIES. Conscription meeting to-morrow. Thursday evening, Hear the question discussed.

The equipment of the local fire department is to be materially increased through the acquisition of a large combination hose, chemical and pump truck or large dimensions. SEMI CENTENNIAL

The arrangements for the Semi-Centennial celebration that is to be observed in this city on July 1st and 2nd in commemoration of the fiftieth birthday of the Dominion, are in an excellent condition, and the executive and members of the Semi-Centennial Association, who have labored long and earnestly to ensure a successful entertainment, are now well satisfied that their efforts have not been in vain. The difficulties that have been encountered have been numerous, a large number of obstacles presenting themselves, account of prevailing war conditions, until as matters stand at the present time only fair weather is essential to the success of the great event that has occurred in the history of the city.
A meeting of the executive was held in the library last evening when reports received from the various organizations in the city were heard. A strong delegation, consisting of Messrs. J. C. Livingston, T. Harry Jones, J. H. Spence, S. Alfred Jones and W. A. Höllnake, requested of the executive that the fund, if any, should be devoted to the returned soldiers of a club or home for the returned soldiers of the city. A sympathetic hearing was tendered the delegation, and the committee promised to give the matter its thorough consideration. A railway from the Women's Auxiliary of the King George school, consisting of Mrs. J. Dodd and Mrs. H. Lane waited on the executive and asked the privilege of erecting a booth in the grounds at Agricultural Park, the proceeds derived from the sale of refreshments to be devoted to Red Cross work. Mrs. Oxtoby and Mrs. Colquhoun from the Dufferin Rifles chapter, J. O. D. E., also wish to have a booth on the grounds. A committee consisting of Messrs. John Hill, George D. Watt and F. S. Blain was appointed to accept tenders for all catering arrangements and to make the necessary arrangements for this phase of the entertainment. They will also deal with the applications of the deputations who asked for catering privileges.
The report of the entertaining committee was submitted, showing that the programme is now in a satisfactory condition. The committee was authorized to procure the necessary costumes for the celebration at a cost of rental of $200 and to close an agreement with the Galt Kiltie band for the afternoon and evening of July 2nd.
Miss Whitney, who has been directing the training of children for the drills and dances, brought about 18 or 20 of her proteges to the committee room arrayed in full costume, and the executive were well pleased with the appearance of the children. Progress was reported by the decorating committee, and the committee in charge of the lighting of the grounds.

RECONSTRUCTION

The age limit to twenty years for civilian men and women and eighteen years for soldiers. Another commission is considering the manner in which the army will vote if war prevails at the time of the elections.
Other important reforms have been put forward by the Ministry of Justice. To-day the Minister of Justice published a bill which had been submitted to the provisional government guaranteeing the inviolability of the person and home, and also for the protection of private correspondence. No one under the proposed law may be held under arrest for more than twenty-four hours, without a preliminary judicial inquiry. Domestic visits are prohibited except with the authorization of a judge. Secrecy of mail, telegrams, and telephones is declared to be inviolate. Persons who suffered from breach of this law, are given the right to sue for compensation, and official violators of the law are made criminally responsible. The provisional government has issued a law making judges of petty courts elective. Women may be voted for as magistrates and sit as magistrates.
An important reform proclaimed is the introduction of small units of local self-government in which all classes may participate equally. Heretofore the smallest such unit was the district Zoustru, administered by representatives of all classes voting equally.
These reforms, though they were proclaimed automatically by the provisional government, have been considered the historic national demands which the former government repeatedly promised but never fulfilled.
Kronstadt Case
The Kronstadt revolt has reached a new critical stage, owing to the formal repudiation of the Provisional Council of Deputies. The garrison also virtually unanimously passed a resolution demanding that the council obey all the commands which the provisional government issues in defence of the revolution or in defence of Russia against a foreign enemy. This resolution so frightened the Seccionist Council that the president of it, the Student Lamanoff, has come to Petrograd, with the aim of again offering concessions to the cabinet.

Palestine Question
London, June 13.—Reuters' Petrograd correspondent says that at the first congress of Zionists at all Russia, which met in Petrograd, decided in favor of a plebiscite of all Israelites on the question of Palestine. The results of such a referendum, it was held, would serve as a basis on which congress could work in peace time, when the question of the creation of a center for Hebrew culture in Palestine must be raised.

Women's Suffrage
London, June 13.—A Petrograd despatch to Reuters states that preliminary returns indicate that the Socialist Bloc comprising revolutionary Socialists, democrats and Socialists laborites carried the elections in the Petrograd district for members of the municipal council. In the election universal suffrage for women was applied for the first time in Russia. The Constitutional Democrats, also known as the Cadets, polled the second highest number of votes.

POLICE COURT

Brevity marked this morning's session of the police court. Wong Ging and Wong Wee, two Celestials, were the principals in a controversy which was finally settled between the parties concerned. Wong Ging, a cook in a local restaurant, his heart swelling with friendship, had lent Wong Wee, a fellow cook, $25.00, which the latter ungratefully refused to return when requested to do so, protesting very vigorously against paying his debt. He selected a handy length of lead pipe and caressed Wong Ging on his shiny pate. The two Wongs, however, discussed the matter and arrived at an amicable arrangement whereby Wong Wee paid the $25 and promised to refrain from such an entertaining practice as involving a lead pipe and a fellow-countryman's head. H. POWERFUL TRUCK FOR FIRE DEPT.

Combination Hose, Chemical and Pump Truck to Be Purchased

The equipment of the local fire department is to be materially increased through the acquisition of a large combination hose, chemical and pump truck of large dimensions. Such action was decided upon following the joint meeting of the Water Commissioners and the members of the Fire and Light Committee of the City Council, held some time ago. It was then decided to call for tenders by July the 1st for a truck of this description as it was felt that it would occasion a great saving to the city. As the alarm system is now constituted, each alarm that is sent in, effects mechanism that sounds a gong in the fire hall and one at the waterworks pumping station. When the gong at the latter place is sounded greater pressure is immediately brought to bear at an approximate cost of $15. But during the past year there were one hundred and five alarms, none of which required extra pressure, and in this twelve months alone $1575 was practically wasted. It is now proposed to purchase a six cylinder truck of 10-horse power, that will have a pumping capacity of 800 gallons of water per minute, will carry 1200 feet of hose and 32 gallons of chemicals. Thus it will be unnecessary to have extra pressure on the mains at each alarm, for if more pressure should be required, it will be supplied from the pump which will be operated by the same motor that generates the power for the truck. It is felt that the new apparatus will be a decidedly valuable and wise purchase for the city, as the outlying districts will be better protected, and the Underwriters' Association who have been for some time urging that a pump be secured, will be appeased.

Transportation Difficulties

The transportation difficulties with which the municipalities of Western Ontario were confronted during the past winter have evidently aroused them to combat the possibility of similar conditions arising here in the winter. The city clerk was this morning in receipt of two resolutions, one from the Kitchener, and the other from the Galt Board of Trade. The Kitchener Board of Trade records the inconvenience that was occasioned to factories, munitions plants and the suffering that was caused in hospitals, schools and homes through the scarcity of coal. An extract accompanying the resolution reads, "Ontario is threatened with a great disaster, and government action is imperative to avert a calamity whose imminence apparently is not realized, and which will affect every man, woman and child in the province. A resolution was passed to the effect that the Dominion government be memorialized, recommending the purchase of railway equipment, and the placing of the coal between the United States and Canada under the jurisdiction of the government. A deputation is being formed of representatives of the various municipalities interested, to wait upon the Premier at Ottawa, and the co-operation of Brantford in this regard is solicited.

A somewhat similar attitude is assumed by the Board of Trade of Galt, which, while suggesting the expedient advocated by the Kitchener body, also made reference to the L. E. & N. Railway as a means of solving the difficulty for this section of the province. The resolution draws attention to the fact that there was a serious shortage of fuel last winter, both of the anthracite and bituminous qualities, and points out that the only permanent solution is to have the Lake Erie & Northern railway equipped for the transportation of coal and make provision for adequate docking facilities at Port Dover, and establishing a ferry service from Erie, Pa. A meeting has been arranged to be held in the council chambers at Galt on Tuesday, June 19th, to which representatives of all municipalities vitally interested in this matter are invited to attend.

It is further suggested that the Dominion Government be petitioned to remove all restrictions and hindrances to the export of the surplus Canadian coal to the United States; that the Government provide or cause to be provided, ample freight cars for transporting the coal; and that failing in this, that the Dominion Government thoroughly equip and man a coal carrying railway from the International boundary.

Mr. J. A. Powell of The Courier, leaves tomorrow morning for Toronto to attend the convention of the Canadian Press Association. Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hughes are visiting in Toronto today. Objections to methods used by Travelling Immigration Inspector David Reynolds, of Ottawa, in enforcing the order in council by which Canadians of military age are prevented from leaving the Dominion, Mayor Tuson of Windsor will protest to the Government.

The 28th Dufferin Rifles Band will parade at the Armories at 7.30 p.m. THURSDAY, JUNE 14TH. By Order A. T. DUNCAN, Adjutant.

SEMI CENTENNIAL

The arrangements for the Semi-Centennial celebration that is to be observed in the city on July 1st and 2nd in commemoration of the birth of the Dominion, are in an excellent condition, and the executive and members of the Semi-Centennial Association, who have labored long and earnestly to ensure a successful entertainment, are now well satisfied that their efforts have not been in vain. The difficulties that have been encountered have been numerous, a large number of obstacles presenting themselves on account of prevailing war conditions, but one by one these have been eliminated, until as matters stand at the present time only fair weather is essential to the success of the greatest event of the city.

A meeting of the executive was held in the library last evening when reports received from the various organizations in the city were heard. A strong delegation from the Women's Patriotic League, consisting of Mesdames W. C. Livingston, T. Harry Jones, J. H. Spence, S. Alfred Jones and W. A. Hollinrake, re-arranged the executive that the surplus funds, if any, should be devoted to the establishment of a club or home for the returned soldiers of the city. A sympathetic hearing was tendered the delegation, and the committee promised to give the matter its thorough consideration. A committee from the Women's Auxiliary of the King George school, consisting of Mrs. J. Dodd and Mrs. W. H. Lane waited on the executive and asked the privilege of erecting a booth in the grounds at Agricultural Park, the proceeds derived from the sale of refreshments to be devoted to Red Cross work. Mrs. Oxtoby and Mrs. Colquhoun from the Dufferin Rifles chapter, I. O. D. E., also wish to have a booth on the grounds. A committee consisting of Messrs. John Hill, George D. Watt and F. S. Blain was appointed to accept tenders for all catering arrangements for this phase of the entertainment. They will also deal with the applications of the deputations who asked for catering privileges.

The report of the entertaining committee was submitted, showing that the programme is now in a satisfactory condition. The committee was authorized to procure the necessary costumes for the celebration at a cost of rental of $200 and to close an agreement with the Galt Kiltie band for the afternoon and evening of July 2nd.

Miss Whitney, who has been directing the training of the children for the drills and dances, brought about 18 or 20 of her proteges to the committee room arrayed in full to the appearance of the children. Progress was reported by the decorating committee, and the committee in charge of the lighting of the grounds.

from breach of this law, are given the right to sue for compensation, and official violators of the law are made criminally responsible. The provisional government has issued a law making judges of petty courts electable. Women may be voted for as magistrates and sit as magistrates. An important reform proclaimed yesterday is the introduction of small units of local self-government in which all classes may participate equally. Heretofore the smallest such unit was the district Zemstvo, administered by representatives of all classes voting equally. These reforms, though they were proclaimed automatically by the provisional government, have been enthusiastically received, as they satisfy the historic national demands which the former government repeatedly promised but never fulfilled.

Kronstadt Case Petrograd, via London, June 13.—The Kronstadt revolt has reached a new critical stage, owing to the formal repudiation of the Provisional Council of Deputies. The Garrison also virtually unanimously passed a resolution demanding that the council obey all the commands which the provisional government issues in defence of this revolution or in defence of Russia against a foreign enemy. This resolution so frightened the Seccessionist council that the president of it, the Student Lamanoff, has come to Petrograd, with the aim of again offering concessions to the cabinet.

Women's Suffrage London, June 13.—A Petrograd despatch to Reuters states that preliminary returns indicate that the Socialist Bloc comprising revolutionary Socialists, democratic Socialists and laborites carried the elections in the Petrograd district for members of the municipal council. In the election universal suffrage for women was applied for the first time in Russia. The Constitutional Democrats, also known as the Cadets, polled the second highest number of votes.

Electoral Age Petrograd, via London, June 13.—The commission entrusted with the drawing up of a bill convoking a constitutional assembly has decided by a vote of 34 to 12 that the minimum age of electors shall be twenty years.

LINER SUNK. By Courier Leased Wire. Boston, June 13.—The Leyland liner Anglian, which left Boston on May 30, for Liverpool, has been torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine according to a cable received by agents here today.

Reconstruction (Continued from page 1) the age limit to twenty years for civilian men and women and eighteen years for soldiers. Another commission is considering the manner in which the army will vote if war prevails at the time of the elections.

Other important reforms have been put forward by the Ministry of Justice. To-day the Minister of Justice published a bill which had been submitted to the provisional government guaranteeing the inviolability of the person and home, and also for the protection of private correspondence. No one under the age of more than twenty-four hours, without a preliminary judicial inquiry. Domiciliary visits are prohibited except with the authorization of a judge. Secrecy of mail, telegrams, and telephones is declared to be inviolate. Persons who suffered

CONSTANTINE QUILTS GREEK THRONE AT ENTENTE'S BIDDING

At Demand of Allies, King Abdicates in Favor of His Second Son, Prince Alexander; Entente Forces Occupy Ellassona and No Disturbances are Reported

Athens, June 1, via Paris, June 12.—The fall of Constantine I., king of the Hellenes, has come. In response to the demand of the protecting powers—France, Great Britain and Russia—he abdicated to-day in favor of his second son, Prince Alexander. The climax in the affairs of Greece was brought about through the agency of the French senator, M. Jonnart, who has held posts in several French cabinets, and who arrived at Athens only a day or two ago on a special mission as the representative of France, Great Britain and Russia. M. Jonnart had previously visited Saloniki and other points, and he lost no time in getting into conference with the Greek premier, Alexander Zaimis.

To Leave Country
The demands of the powers respecting the abdication of King Constantine also specifically eliminated Crown Prince George as his successor, the crown prince being included among those Greeks in official life who were considered strongly pro-German.

Both the former king and Prince George, it was announced to-day by Premier Zaimis, intend to leave the country immediately. It is reported that they will embark on a British warship and proceed to Switzerland. Prince Alexander will take up his kingly duties with full acceptance of the ideas which the protecting powers desire to be put into effect in the government of Greece during the present war. He is 24 years of age and has been free from anti-entente proclivities.

Act With Decision
Affairs in Greece, which several times since the outbreak of the war had seemed on the verge of a settlement, recently have taken on such an aspect of uncertainty that it became necessary for the powers to act with decision. M. Jonnart was selected to proceed to Athens for the purpose of laying before the premier the aims which France, Great Britain and Russia had with respect to establishing unity of feeling among the Greeks and greater security to the entente forces engaged in operations in the east. While he informed the premier that troops had been placed at his disposal, he appealed to that official to use his influence towards a peaceful settlement. The troops, according to M. Jonnart's instructions were not to land until the king had given his answer.

M. Jonnart called upon Premier Zaimis on Monday morning and demanded, in the name of the protecting powers, the abdication of King Constantine and the nomination of his successor to the exclusion of the diademe (crown prince). M. Zaimis recognized the distinctness of the powers, whose sole object was to reconstitute the unity of Greece under the constitution, but he pointed out to M. Jonnart that a decision could only be taken by the king after a meeting of the crown council, composed of former premiers.

Monarch's Reply.
It was not until 9.03 o'clock this morning that the premier communicated to the commissioner of the allied powers the king's answer in the following letter:
"The ministers and high commissioners of France, Great Britain and Russia: Having demanded by your note of yesterday the abdication of His Majesty King Constantine, and the nomination of his successor, the undersigned, premier and foreign minister, has the honor to inform your excellency that his majesty the king, ever solicitous for the interests of Greece, has decided to leave the country with the prince royal, and nominates Prince Alexander, his successor. (Signed) 'ZAIMIS'."

Agitation Falls
Prior to the announcement of the king's decision many Greek's, loyal to the crown, gathered for the protection of the sovereign. On Monday night 2,000 reservists formed a cordon around the palace in his defense. If that should be necessary, and a delegation, headed by Naval Commander Mavromichaelis, was received by Constantine and pledged the devotion of the army and the people to his cause. The king's only reply was an appeal that they should remain calm.

A Resume
King Constantine, of Greece was born August 3, 1868, and ascended the Hellenic throne on March 15, 1913, when his father George I, was assassinated in Saloniki. Brief as was his reign, Constantine, prior to the outbreak of the present war, enjoyed a period of remarkable popularity, and had increased the territory of the Greek monarchy by over 60 percent. His attitude of opposition towards the Entente powers when their troops occupied part of Greek territory in the Macedonian campaign against the Teutons, however, brought him into conflict with the statesmen of Greece, and resulted in the establishment of a provisional Government, headed by Eleutherios Venizelos, whom the king had driven from the post of premier.

Throughout a long series of negotiations and conflicts with the Entente commanders Constantine was often accused of being pro-German in sympathies, largely it was charged, as the result of the influence of Queen Sophia, sister of the German Emperor, whom he married in 1893. The king was educated largely by private tutors from Leipzig, which was said to have stamped upon him a permanent German influence, and his military education was furthered by attendance at manoeuvres in Germany. Failed His Ally, Serbia

Much criticism was directed against Constantine because of the complaint that he failed to fulfill the terms of the treaty between Greece and Serbia, and that Greece was committed to ally herself with Serbia, if that country were attacked by another power. The Austro-Serbian war, however, Constantine asserted that the treaty applied only to an attack by another Balkan nation.
Another act which aroused a storm of criticism was the yielding by Greek troops to Bulgarian invaders of several Greek fortresses, and the surrender of a large number of Greek vessels to the Teutonic forces, which were invading Macedonia.

Since April 1917 has been recurrently the subject of either would be dethroned by the Entente powers or that he would abdicate in favor of the crown prince. The feeling whatever it may be, has been argued to such an extent that a great demonstration was held in Saloniki, May 8, at which the crowds cheered the Greek charge of affairs and "Live Venizelos!" "Long Live the National Government!" and "Down with the King!"

TRAINED GUNS ON MUTINEERS

Notable Victory for Loyal Russ Troops on Rumanian Front

REGIMENTS REVOLTED
Arrested Officers, Tore Off Badges and Assaulted Them

Petrograd, June 12.—The forces in the army at the front which are loyal to the provisional government, have had their first test of strength with disloyal pacifists, and have won a notable victory. Two days ago Lieut. General St. Cherbatoff, commander on the Rumanian front, gave an order to disband one infantry, one tirailleur and one Siberian tirailleur regiment, all of which were disarmed and sent to the front. Three regiments of another division were ordered to take up a new position but refused to do so, and thereupon received an ultimatum to disband. The soldiers openly mutinied. The men of one of the regiments arrested the commander and seven officers, tore their badges from their uniforms, and beat two officers, leaving one insensible on the road. A regimental committee resolved that the regiment should not move; thereupon a loyal committee of soldiers of the whole army, after deliberating with the army staff, pronounced for stern measures against the mutineers, the ringleader of whom was named Philippoff.

Surrendered Ringleaders
A resolute general was chosen having under his command two divisions of loyal cavalry, two battalions of infantry, one light battery, armored motor cars and aeroplanes, and undertook the task of suppressing the revolt. When the loyalist general had occupied positions against the mutineers he sent an ultimatum to them, demanding the surrender of the ringleaders; that they take up positions as ordered, and that they undertake to serve faithfully in the future.

The mutinous soldiers seeing that they were surrounded attempted to negotiate, but at the last moment Philippoff incited them to new resistance. The loyalist general immediately ordered his guns into action, whereupon the rebels unconditionally accepted Philippoff and others, who were transported to prison in an automobile. The loyalist reserve troops became enraged and fired on the automobile, but their commander in order to save the prisoners' lives jumped into the machine, whereupon the firing ceased.

There is great rejoicing in Government circles over the first success in the inevitable struggle against the forces of anarchy.

FRESH SUCCESS FOR CANADIANS

Strong Enemy Points on Souchez River Bombed and Taken

GUN CREWS CAPTURED
Post Taken Only 2,700 Yds. From the Centre of Lens

By Stewart Lyon.
Canadian Press Correspondent With the Canadian Forces.
Canadian Headquarters in France, June 13.—Another well managed language yesterday morning on the Canadian front, resulted in the capture and occupation, with few casualties, of enemy strong points which have been a menace to the security of our left flank ever since the capture of the electric station. The Souchez River at this spot has been dammed by the Germans and in marshy area along its banks had been placed skillfully concealed machine guns, which have swept all possible means of approach from the south bank of the stream. Some of these positions were destroyed in the raid of Saturday morning, but others remained in the enemy's hands.

The artillery now having been able to smash them, it was decided that the only effective way of putting them out of business and ending the annoyance and loss was by a night surprise attack with bomb and bayonet. Only a few men were engaged in the enterprise, which succeeded beyond expectation. The enemy showed little fight, and in a few minutes his strong points, with three machine guns and six prisoners, all that were left of the gun crews, passed into our hands.

At once steps were taken to incorporate the captured ground within our lines.

The post captured yesterday morning is only twenty-seven hundred yards from the centre of Lens. It marks the furthest advance toward the city. One of the prisoners captured stated that his battalion had just relieved another, which had suffered very heavy losses during a short period on the front line, especially from gas and shell fire.

The enemy artillery was less active yesterday on our front, but to the south it has been shelling Arras and other points on the Scarpe with a 12-inch naval gun.

on the monarch, and in an interview given to the press, he declared his attitude toward Venizelos had been due solely to the demands of Greece's best interests.

PIRATES BUSY IN GULF OF BOTHNIA

Scandinavian Vessels Destroyed Daily by U Boat Or Zep

Stockholm, June 13.—German submarines and night war craft, together with Zeppelins, are continuing their activities in the Gulf of Bothnia. Hardly a day passes without one or more Scandinavian vessels being sunk. The Zeppelins scout regularly along the Swedish coastline, occasionally coming inside the territorial limits.

A Swedish naval patrol yesterday drove away a Zeppelin to the eastward of Stockholm.

Recently the Swedish torpedo boat Castor rescued Denmark's largest sailing vessel, the Per-Ugland, from capture. The Per-Ugland was stopped by a German armed trawler. Just when a Swedish steamer bound for Tromso appeared, the trawler towed the Per-Ugland some distance eastward, anchored her and then went after the Swedish vessel, putting a prize crew aboard the latter. The trawler then returned to the Per-Ugland.

The commander of the Castor observed that the Danish vessel had been towed just inside the Swedish territorial waters. He headed toward her just as the Germans attached a red line, and fired a shot at them. The Germans protested, but the Castor's commander stood his ground and compelled the release of the Per-Ugland.

German submarines are operating on the west coast of Norway against the valuable Norwegian sealing and whaling fisheries.

The Dagbladet says, according to the correspondent, that yesterday, the whaler Syre, was sunk outside Tromso and that another whaler, the Sverdrup, was sunk near Falso, the latter having a cargo of 500 seals. The crew was given two minutes to enter the ship's boats.

FOE DEMORALIZED AFTER MESSINES

Smashing Blow Dealt by British Shattered German Resistance

British Headquarters in France, June 12.—(via London, by the Associated Press)—Although the Germans continue to splash shells about the positions won by the British last week east of Messines Ridge, they have attempted no further counter-attack.

General Haig has issued a special order of the day congratulating General Plummer and the entire second army which he commands, and saying that the complete success of their attack last Thursday is "an earnest of the eventual final victory of the allied cause."

The total number of prisoners taken by the Canadians in their record-breaking raid last week was 163, including four officers.

A few hours becomes from 300 to 500 feet deep in the cavern. The pressure becomes so great that the air rushes forth from the holes in the ground so violently that once it blew high into the air, a great trap-door and hit which had been built at the entrance to the pits.

The river is found again in a grotto at the village of Trebicheno. The Carso which flows over it shall have been taken. What cannon lurk in the mouths of the myriad grottoes, what mines of dynamite are waiting in the caverns, what ambushes of enemy soldiers lie hidden in the subterranean passages, the Italian troops will learn as they fight their way from doline to doline, from cave to cave, from rock to rock.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE STAGE AND SCREEN

AMBIGUOUS
Gloria Swanson, the Keystone cutie has one way on a fishing trip. "I want to be able to do a little scalding in my next comedy," she said on departing, and now that he has thought it over, Bobby Vernon, who shares stellar honors with her, wonders if Gloria meant musical comedy when she mentioned scales.

HELEN HONESTY
Helen Holmes, Signal-Mutual star, likes the land of Southern California so well that she has gone to Hidden Valley, Cal., with the intention of filing a claim on a vacant tract. She will probably file on a desert claim which can be taken up under the reclamation act and worked by hired forces and which will not demand her residence on the property as is demanded under the homestead law.

YOUTHFUL TEMPERAMENT
Kathleen Reilly, the charming child actress who appears with Mabel Taliferro, Metro Star, in "The Will O' the Wisp," is but four years old. She has developed pronounced likes and dislikes in fact so pronounced are her dislikes that very often they interfere with her professional career.

Little Miss Reilly was recently engaged by a well known director to appear in a picture. It was necessary for the young lady to kiss the leading man. He wore a moustache, and no amount of coaxing could persuade her to put her arms around her stage father's neck and kiss him. Everyone at the studio, including her mother, begged her to kiss her screen parent, but all of no avail. Finally, in desperation, the baby was informed that if she did not do as told, another child would be engaged. Even this failed to move the young lady, and another tot was obtained for the part.

"THE CRISIS"
The rejuvenating influence of the new art of the motion picture is strikingly illustrated in the case of Matt B. Snyder, the Col. Carvel of "The Crisis," at the Grand Opera House, June 14th, 15th, 16th. Though long years past the limit of usefulness allotted to banking by God, Snyder has become a stage actor, and he has been seen on the screen.

Mr. Snyder has just passed his 52nd birthday. He made his stage debut fifty years ago. He became conspicuous early in the support of Edwin Booth, Charlotte Cushman and Lawrence Barrett, and for five years was in Mrs. John Drew's company. In England he played with Charles Barry, Sullivan and Charles Dillon. As he advanced in years, he became more and more polished as an actor, but ultimately drifted exclusively into old men's parts. His vast experience made him valuable as a stage director, and he gradually retired from the glare of the footlights into the shadows behind the scenes. His most conspicuous achievement as Director was the staging of "Under Two Flags," with Blanche Bates for David Belasco. After awhile he quit acting altogether and toured the country as stage manager for Chauncey Oltor.

Then came the rejuvenation. William N. Selig needed exactly the polished old Southern gentleman which Mr. Snyder is in life, combined with an actor of vast experience for Col. Carvel. The "antiquated" actor was engaged and Matt B. Snyder is one of the brilliant spots of "The Crisis."

THE SOUL OF SLAP STICK
When motion picture audiences sit in darkened auditoriums applauding the antics of Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle in his latest screen scream, they probably do not dream that even the slapstickian custard pie brand of comedy has its rhythmic soul. It was left for the rotund and popular Mr. Arbuckle himself to startle the celluloid Rhialto with the announcement of that remarkable fact.

The discovery was made during the filming of "The Reckless Romeo." Mr. Arbuckle was surprised at work at the Comique Studios, 218 E. 48th street, rehearsing his supporting cast to the stroke of a baton as regular as that of any conductor of a symphony orchestra.

"Space it, space it," shouted the energetic Mr. Arbuckle as he directed his screen mother-in-law in her ferocious attack upon himself. "All you have to do in comedy is to count one, two, three, four, five. This is just the simplest kind of a human situation, but it must be spaced before the camera. In comedy only one person can get a laugh at a time. When two people try to get it, the situation is spoiled. Now, you shake me—one; I wake up—two; you slap me—three; and so on. Did you ever hear of anything simpler than that?"

"There's a rhythm to comedy just as surely as there is to a symphony or a sonata. You must be able to count the beats in the action on the screen or it is not done properly. There is nothing strange or remarkable about that. It is one of the fundamentals of good comedy."

Arbuckle admires are looking forward to the release of "The Reckless Romeo," which will follow the "Butcher Boy" May 21st.

NEW YORK'S ODORS PART OF SCENERY

Scents and Smells Are Inseparable From Riverside Drive

Odors are as much a part of the scenery of Riverside Drive, New York, as the trees, the Hudson and the sky, according to Irvin Cobb, writing in the Saturday Evening Post, and they are many and varied. Cobb says: "The adjacent Jersey shore is dotted with factories; and these factories, if one may judge by the testimony of one's nose, are principally engaged in manufacturing poison gases for the export trade, but are very generous about distributing free samples for home consumption. There must be an awful lot of waste in a chemical plant, due to the clabbering of the raw material and its escape from captivity in a sourd form."

"In one place across the way there is a smelting works, where they turn out smelts. You probably know that aroma, which is peculiar to a smelt that has been out of its native element too long for its own good. Under such conditions a smelt can be no pleasure to itself, and it loses its popularity in a social way. There is a curing of polecats pelts, I think, but the treatment cannot be an unqualified success—the percentage of releases among the patients must be very high; in fact I know it to be very high."

"However, for further particulars the reader is invited to take a stroll along Riverside drive some pleasant afternoon when the breeze is blowing out of the west. If he is especially favored by circumstances he may make the excursion on a day when the railroad company has shunted a trainload of beavers or swine on a siding under the hill, below a stretch of landscape gardening that cost two or three million dollars to produce, and has left it there to ripen in the sunshine. In such event the visitor should be able to carry away with him enough smells and enough different kinds of smells, to last an ordinarily prudent and careful person for five or six years anyhow. The resident along the Drive gets this bequest of stenches as a part of his regular metropolitan diet. He should be mighty grateful for it, too. It is almost anything he does get without being taxed for it."

EIGHT HOUR DAY IS SIXTY YEARS OLD

Nothing New Under the Sun, Not Even New Working Day

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Dates Back to 1857, Writes John J. Leary, Junior

New York Tribune: "How old is the 8-hour movement," asked the city editor, when the attention of the country was focussed on the labor problem by the decision of the supreme court upholding the Adamson 8-hour act.

I asked a labor leader, a man prominent in the affairs of the American Federation of Labor since its birth and before that a colleague of Powderly in the days when the Knights of Labor were supreme in the labor world.

"About as old as Ann," said he, "and if Ann had lived, she would be about forty now. I think it dates back to the 70's."

As a matter of fact, the first law fixing the hours of labor at eight was enacted in New York fifty years ago, in 1857. The strikers lost, in 1857, to be exact a joker in the law, however, prevented its being much more than a dead letter, for it was also provided that the law should apply only "where there is no contract or arrangement to the contrary."

Earlier than that the demand that the day be divided into three equal parts, a part for labor, a part for sleep, and a part for recreation, had resulted in a big strike in London in 1857. The strikers lost. The new year in far-away Australia workers in Melbourne united to secure the 8-hour day and won. So far as the records go this was the first time the principle had been enforced either by statute or through the efforts of organized workers.

The demand for shorter work hours, however, dates back into the eighteenth century in England, and to about the time of the second war with England in this country. In both countries, it made its advent with the development of the factory system, unknown in this country until about 1812.

Previously the length of the working day regulated itself just as to day it is regulated on the farm. What manufacturing there was was done in the household or in small shops, where the workers could arrange their hours to suit themselves, a happy state of affairs for the master, his journeymen and his apprentices. Then a manufacturer was a working craftsman, with whom was not associated the idea of one commanding even a limited capital. The coming of the factory system changed all this, and for the first time divided the workers into two groups or classes—"mill hands" and the skilled workmen of the building trades.

And with this change arose the question of what should constitute a day's work. Under the factory system a numerous class of workmen necessarily worked away from their homes and long hours were burdensome. For one thing they missed the pleasures of home and the small shop that tended to relieve the tedium of the day. For another, there was the time consumed in getting to the place of labor and returning at nightfall, making the 12-hour day, really much longer. The building trades were no better off than those who worked in the factories, as erected, and agitation began early for a day of not more than ten hours.

To get this the building trades and the shipbuilders, then as important a trade as the demand for submarine chasers and other vessels now promises to make it, struck in Baltimore and Philadelphia in 1825. These strikes failed, and it was not until ten years later that the shipbuilders of Baltimore succeeded in making their demands stand up. Five years later the 10-hour day was the standard in that city. What influences the nearness of the national capital to the storm centre may have had is not clear, but in 1840, the year that Baltimore workers settled the question, President Van Buren placed the 10-hour standard by decreeing it to be the legal day in all government yards.

A shrewd guess might be that in order to get men for the government shipyards it was found expedient to make employment there as attractive as it was in private yards doing the same class of work.

Another ten years and the building trades of the east were largely on a 10-hour basis. Meanwhile the factory workers said to contain their working twelve hours, though they agitated continuously and struck frequently for a shorter work day. Just why they should be less successful than the men in the building trades, ship and house, does not first appear clear, though the explanation is simple. In those trades the work was purely local, the men were carpenters of one city had little to fear from the competition of men in the same line in another place. This was not the case with the bootmaker of Lynn, in Massachusetts, had to compete with the bootmaker in Philadelphia, and any striking in the hours of labor in one place tended to handicap the manufacturer who might wish shorter hours.

By 1875, however, the factory workers had begun to secure the same right with the manufacturers' action than by strikes. In the main the beneficial legislation was passed not to benefit the general workers, but to protect the women and children in the manufacturing trades. The effect, however, had to be general through the shops, for a squadron is no faster than the slowest link in the chain. The 10-hour law could not well run on one schedule for one class of help and another for those who might, in the eyes of the law, be deemed able to work longer hours.

As late as 1881, however, eleven hours a day was legal for all textile work in all of the states except Massachusetts. The 10-hour law was enacted that year. New York following four years later. It is still the rule in some of the southern states where mills own the land. This is the case with the cotton industry in New England, however, the tendency has been for even shorter hours. The Massachusetts 54-hour law being the longest of the supreme court decision on the 8-hour law.

W. G. Lee, spokesman for the brotherhoods, said almost the same thing the day the decision was handed down.

"We never wanted such legislation anyway."

WHY WOMEN FEEL UNFIT

Nature's best handiwork never was intended to be handicapped by illness as so many women are. Nature's intention never was that women should be less capable, as women than men are as men. Yet how frequently young girls, business women, housewives and mothers complain of feeling unfit. What makes the growing girl so languid, the business girl so often depressed, the housewife and mother so often overwhelmed with worries and cares. What gives rise to the headaches, the backaches and weakness that unfit women for life's joys and duties? The answer is Bloodlessness.

Girls grow into unfit women if they lack the help of new blood during their teens. Business girls become bloodless from too much indoor occupation, hasty meals, and lack of exercise. Housewives overtax their blood by overwork, over-anxiety, nursing, neglecting the need of sufficient sleep, regular meals and fresh air relaxation. Hence the blood becomes watery and impure.

But women who keep their blood rich and red never feel ill. Wholesome food, sufficient rest, out-of-door relaxation and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will keep every woman's health right. These pills alone have proved a priceless boon to weak anemic women, because of the new rich red blood which every dose helps to make. Every girl and every woman should occasionally take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to keep her blood rich and pure, and every weak and ailing girl and woman should take them without delay.

You can obtain these pills through any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from "The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont."

Of late years those who have led in the movement for shorter hours have been trained from trying to secure the desired change by legislation, this change in policy being due to a belief held by the majority that concessions won without the aid of legislation are in the end less costly and likely to be more permanent than concessions secured with the aid of legislation, state or national.

They have come to be fearful of jokers such as the New York law of 1867 contained, and of unpleasant experiences with the courts. Thus they forewent something like the decision in the Adamson case forewarning a limit on the right to strike when that measure was passed. There is also the ever-present possibility of repeal.

"Legislators and Congressmen are like the Lord in one respect," says old Mother Jones, speaking of this phase of labor uplift. "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away, and what the lawmakers give you they can take away. The only thing you are sure of is what you put in yourself."

The picturesque stormy petrel of the labor movement said this in address of the supreme court decision on the 8-hour law.

W. G. Lee, spokesman for the brotherhoods, said almost the same thing the day the decision was handed down.

"We never wanted such legislation anyway."

More than half a billion dollars has been added to the national debt of Canada since the war began. Financial obligations are increasing with every day of the struggle. The need for thrift becomes more imperative every hour. In outlining the national measures essential to victory, Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George told Great Britain that "we shall need every man that we can put in the field, every dollar that rigid private and public economy can provide, and every effort which a united people can put forth." The words are as applicable to Canada as they are to the United Kingdom. The public must support the national saving campaign launched by the government. "Serve by saving," should be the war rule of every man and woman in the Dominion. Canada needs every man that it can put in the field and every dollar that rigid private and public economy can provide. Save your dollars and purchase government war savings certificates.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)
"That note was forged," averred Hallett, doggedly. "I'll swear she had no hand in it."
"Weir Menzies was whistling a tune softly to himself. He stopped in the middle of a bar. "My dear young friend, for a man who's knocked about the world you're the most verdant sprig I've run across for a long time."

"How'd you know I was here?" demanded Jimmie.
"You left the fragments of the note in your room and we put them together. That's all. Suppose you let me know what happened. We'll want your statement, anyway."

"Jimmie Hallett felt his unshaven chin absently. "It's no good explaining to you why I fell into this frame-up. You wouldn't understand and you can call me all the names you like if it relieves you. I felt I had to do something when I got back to the hotel and found the note. That was how I came out here. I guess I led any of your men who were shadowing me a little dance. I hopped all over the old village."

"If you went to any trouble to avoid my men," said Menzies dryly. "It was waste of time. There was no one following you. If there had been you wouldn't have thrown them off. That doesn't matter though. Go on."

"Well," said Jimmie, "there isn't much more to it. A nice, gentle old lady—it's she who you call Gwendie, I suppose—opened the door to me. I was on the lookout for tricks, but she pretty well threw me off my guard when she denied that she knew Miss Olney, although when I mentioned Miss Greye-Stratton's name she was as nice as pie and asked me right in—into this very room."

"She asked me to sit down and went away—as I supposed to fetch Miss Greye-Stratton. She was back in two or three minutes and she pitched me a little tale—I suppose while things were being got good and ready for me. She told me that she was an old friend of Miss Greye-Stratton's."

"Didn't that strike you as being rather curious, seeing that she hadn't recognized the name of Olney?" asked Menzies.

"It didn't occur to me—then," admitted Hallett. "I never gave it a thought. As I was saying, she declared that she was an old friend and that the girl had sought her advice in her difficulties. You can laugh, but I gulped it all down."

"Then there came a tap at the door. "Peggy is ready to see you," said she, and we got up. I held the door open for her and passed through close behind. The passage isn't well lighted, as you may have noticed, and I half turned to close the door after me some one dropped a bag over my head and shoulders."

"I did my best, but I didn't stand a dog's chance. If I'd had my arms free I might have done something, but that smothering bag prevented anything like an effective struggle. I had a gun, but I couldn't get at it. There were three of them—Gwendie and two men—and I was dragged back into this room and handled."

"At last the two men managed to get hold of my wrists and held me while Gwendie drew the sack off. Then I was lashed and gagged as you found me."

"Sorry to put you to this inconvenience, Mr. Hallett," said Gwendie, "but we just had to make sure of you. I elated at her. Of course, I couldn't answer. Lying as I was I couldn't see the faces of the two men—they seemed to be purposely keeping out of my line of sight, but one of them struck in: "Think yourself lucky that we haven't put you right out."

"All right," thinks I to myself. I know that voice. It was that of the man who let me in at Linstone Terrace Gardens."

"You keep quiet," said Gwendie—she seemed to be the boss of the show. "Now just listen to me, Mr. Hallett. You've been jolted into a business that is no concern of yours, and we're not the sort of people to allow our plans to be interfered with. It's up to us to keep your mouth shut about what you've seen or know but you won't come to any harm unless our hands are forced. I'm afraid you'll have to put up with some discomfort for some hours, though, until we can make arrangements."

"They lifted me up and carried me down that cellar—and anything harder than the coal they laid me on I'd admire to see. There was a clock in the room, but it was striking somewhere, so I was able to keep track of time."

"At about half-past ten last night Gwendie came down and loosened the gag and gave me something to eat and drink. She didn't forget to put it on again afterward, though. After that I was left alone till I heard your voices above the trap-door—though I never thought then that she'd fillam you as she has done."

"I've not finished yet, Mr. Hallett," said Menzies. "We're going to play this game out. It's one thing gained to know that Gwendie Lyne is in it—hello, there's a cab! That must be a constable back. Ah, and there's Congress and a couple more men. It doesn't look as if we'd have stayed long in that cellar, even if there hadn't been the coal chute. I'll have to decide what's to be done."

CHAPTER XIII

Burnt Paper.

The only man who appeared at all hurried or excited was the constable. He had gained not only the number of the cab in which Gwendie and her companion had driven away but the name of the driver and the location of his garage. He was visibly proud of his success, though perhaps a little disappointed that Menzies should accept it as a matter of course.

Still there was the thrill not often encountered in street duty of feeling that he was at work side by side with one of the best-known Scotland Yard detectives. It was none the less felt, although he had little idea of what was happening or what had happened. His palpable excitement was in contrast to the imperturbable attitude of the detectives, to whom the routine of the case was a matter of course.

A definite stage had been reached in the investigation. The motive and identity of the murderer of the old man were still in doubt, but no longer was there any necessity for questing a trail. The law holds every person innocent until proved guilty, but common sense has at times to reverse the rule.

No experienced police officer of any nationality would hesitate for a moment in forming an opinion, even had the facts against Gwendie Lyne been much slighter than they were. Her mere reputation as an organizer of criminal coups was enough.

It might be difficult to bring home any proof of complicity in the murder, but there was now a legitimate reason for holding her—once she was caught—in the abduction of Hallett, or even as a returned deportee. A suspect under lock and key has few opportunities of clouding a line of investigation. Menzies felt the elation of one who

SIDE TALKS

HOW TO DETECT LOW BREEDING.

Did you ever watch a group of young people chattering to each other while some older person sat silent in their midst, almost as much ignored as if he or she were invisible? It is a sight I see every once in a while and it always fills me with a combination of sadness and distaste. Sadness for the older person who has learned by the bitter experience of snubs or indifference to so hold his own counsel.

Distaste people of even superficial kind, it is such wretched taste for young people to treat their elders that way.

Such Treatment of Age Not to be Encouraged. It really isn't done among people of breeding, refinement and education. It simply isn't the thing. Even if kindness didn't dictate courtesy to older people and a habit of including them in the conversation, good taste would.

Young people of even superficial breeding are courteous to their friends' elders. Any young person of the slightest pretense to manners is careful to pay graceful attention to the older members of his friends' families; to ask after their health, to converse with them when they answer the telephone instead of immediately asking for the son or daughter, to rise when they enter the room, to say good-night to them when leaving the house.

And young people with breeding more than skin deep are courteous to their own elders. It is only underbred young people who contradict their elders freely, snap them up if they dare to express an opinion, ignore them, laugh at their ideas, flaunt their own youth in their faces.

People of breeding don't flaunt their youth any more than they would their money. That's what true breeding does for people, raises them to a higher level where courtesy and decency to each other are just as natural and indispensable habits as frequent bathing.

Breeding Should Bring Out Good Qualities in Humans. Breeding in animals is to bring out the desired qualities—in cows a large yield of milk, in a race horse speed, in the dog whatever points are considered most admirable.

Breeding in human beings should strengthen all the most desirable qualities—should make them more intelligent, more altruistic, more open minded, more healthy and more lovable. Suppose there were a human being show. "Would surely be most interesting to see who would take prizes on such points.

There was nothing on which he could act by himself. He had no organization to back him and no means of following up the girl unless he stood in with the detectives. He nodded in token of his acquiescence in Menzies' dispositions, and the latter led him to the taxiab outside.

LADIES' APRON.

By Anabel Worthington.

This practical work apron, which may be slipped on over any dress for protection, will be hailed with joy by the woman who keeps the domestic machinery in running order. It is quickly made and is such a novel and becoming style that it is really an incentive to work. The front and back are broad panels, which are connected by rather wide straps over the shoulders. The side sections are slightly circular and do not run all the way to the waistline, but end at the pockets. Speaking of pockets, these are the kind that are big enough to hold almost anything. The front and back panels are connected by narrow belts. The apron opens at the centre back, or, if you prefer, the back panel may be cut on a fold so that it may be slipped on over the head.

The materials most generally used for this type of apron are gingham, chambray, percale, butcher's linen or denim. The apron, pattern No. 8314, is out in sizes 36, 40 and 44 inches bust-measure. The 36 inch size requires 4 1/2 yards of 27 inch material, or 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch.

Good Night N' Stories

TOKU-SAN.

Toku-San was a Japanese doll who had always lived with her brother, Kutaru-San, in a little Japanese store. One morning Toku-San was wrapped in rough brown paper and carried away and given to a little girl who thought her very lovely, especially because she "spoke" when she was squeezed.

Toku-San was carried around all day long, but when night came she was placed in the nursery and she became very homesome. She wanted to go back to her brother, Kutaru-San, in the little Japanese store. Toku-San wiped her eyes and looked around. She was in a lovely room. In the centre stood a tiny doll house, and as there seemed to be no one near, Toku-San peeped in. There sat two little girl dolls all dressed up as fluffy frocks, and she saw the face of her brother, Kutaru-San, at the window and ran out.

"Well! who are you?" asked the Doll in blue.

"Where did you come from?" asked the one in pink.

Toku-San wanted to run, but she didn't know which way to go, so she stood still staring at the dolls.

"Did you ever see such a straight black hair, and such queer little little eyes to hide her tears."

"And look at the funny knot on the top of her head! Such a crazy way for a doll to wear her hair and such a strange dress," laughed the doll in blue. Toku-San's tears ran down her cheeks and the English dolls laughed all the harder.

"See the crybaby!" they said, pointing their fingers at Toku-San. Just then there was a dreadful noise outside the nursery door, and in galloped a soldier boy on his prancing, roan horse. Seeing the stranger, Soldier Boy sprang from his saddle, and lifting his cap ran to her side.

"What does this mean?" he demanded of the English dolls when he spied the tears in Toku-San's eyes. "Is that the way to treat strangers?" he asked.

"The English dolls hung their heads.

"Come little lady, don't mind what they say, for I overheard, and I want you to know, that I think your black hair beautiful," said Soldier Boy as he led Toku-San away from the two dolls.

Toku-San dried her tears and told Soldier Boy her name.

"Oh! sir! I was never away from my brother before. I want to go back. Can't you take me?" Toku-San begged, but Soldier Boy shook his head.

"Dear little doll, I wish that I could, but it's impossible," he answered and Toku-San burst into tears.

Nothing Soldier Boy could say seemed to quiet her. When morning came, Toku-San's little mistress came running to the nursery, and gathering up Toku-San, she squeezed her, but Toku-San had cried so hard all night that her voice was gone.

The little girl ran to her Mother. "Mother, my Toku-San doesn't cry!" said the girl, and Mother after looking Toku-San over very carefully, said she must be taken back to the Japanese store.

Toku-San was wrapped in the rough brown paper and carried back to the Japanese store, and the store-keeper gave the little girl a doll that would cry and Toku-San was put back on the shelf.

Toku-San never quite regained her voice, but she didn't mind so long as she was near her brother, Kutaru-San.
