

GERMANY YIELDS ALL

Fleet to be Given Up Among Other Things

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. — The terms of the armistice will not be made public until later today. Military men here, however, regard it as certain that they include:

- Immediate retirement of the German military forces from France, Belgium and Alsace-Lorraine.
- Disarming and demobilization of German armies.
- Occupation by the allies and U. S. forces of such strategic points in Germany as will make impossible a renewal of hostilities.
- Delivery of the German high seas fleet and a certain number of submarines to the allied and American naval forces.
- Disarmament of all other German warships under supervision of the allied and American navies which will guard them.
- Occupation of the principal German naval bases by sea forces of the victorious nations.
- Release of all allied and American soldiers, sailors and civilians held prisoners in Germany without such reciprocal action by the associated governments.

CANADIANS TAKE MONS

Dominion Troops Score Last Victory in the World War

By Courier Leased Wire.
LONDON, Nov. 11. — Mons, the Belgian town near where British troops engaged in bitter fighting with the Germans at the beginning of the war, was captured early this morning by Canadian troops, under General Horne, according to Field Marshal Haig's announcement today.

Big Noise in Ottawa

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 11. — Practically all of Ottawa was on the streets at 4 o'clock this morning. By arrangement of the local papers, the news was conveyed through the city by the flashing of electric lights and by the blowing of siren whistles. Later the fire engines speeded through the streets and roused any who had not been wakened. Thousands gathered in Connaught Square, a military band was given the job, and the crowd was soon cheering madly as patriotic airs gave a key note for enthusiasm. Impromptu parades appeared as by magic, headed by bands recruited from all quarters. Everyone who could play an instrument apparently had brought it with them. The celebration is still proceeding.

New York, Nov. 11.—The Associated Press this morning issues the following:

After 1,567 days of horror, during which virtually the whole civilized world has been convulsed, the greatest war in history ended this morning at 6 o'clock, Washington time.

Announcement of the tremendous event was made at the State Department at the Capital at 2.45 o'clock this morning and in a few seconds was flashed throughout the continent by the Associated Press.

TERMS NOT YET KNOWN.

Details of the terms dictated by Marshal Foch on Friday forenoon to the German armistice delegates have not as yet been given out, but it is believed that they are of such a nature as to protect the world from a resumption of the struggle by the Germans. It is assumed that they call for the demobilization of Germany's army, the surrender of part of her fleet and the dismantling of the rest and the evacuation of occupied portions of France and Belgium and of Alsace-Lorraine. It is probable, also, that Germany has agreed to call home all her troops now in Russia and Roumania.

The terse announcement of the State Department did not tell anything of the scene at Marshal Foch's headquarters at the time the armistice was signed. It was stated, however, that at five o'clock Paris time the signatures of Germany's delegates were affixed to the document which blasted forever the dreams which embroiled the world in a struggle which has cost, at the very lowest estimate, 10,000,000 lives.

HUN RULERS HAVE ALL FALLEN.

When the war began the Teutonic Alliance was headed by two of the proudest houses in history—the Hohenzollerns and the Hapsburgs. To-day William II. of Germany is a fugitive in Holland and Charles I. of Austria, while he may be still in his country, has been stripped of power and has seen his empire shattered into pieces. Ferdinand of Bulgaria has fled from his country and Mohammed V. of Turkey, who also joined in the attempt to dominate the world is dead, slain, it is said, by the hands of an assassin.

REVOLUTION IN GERMANY.

While the curtain was rolling down on the most stupendous tragedy in mankind's history, events were moving with terrible swiftness in Germany, the nation about which revolved the plot and counter-plot of the drama. Berlin, Leipzig, Stuttgart, Cologne, Hamburg and Frankfurt are in the hands of the revolutionists, who last week raised the red flag at Kiel. Germany's navy is apparently scattered into disjointed units, each seeking sanctuary in Danish ports, waiting in those harbors for the latest turn of events. Crowds singing the "Marseillaise" are marching through the streets of autocratic Berlin and a Soldiers' and Workmen's Council has taken over the government of the Empire.

Wurttemberg, Schleswig-Holstein and Hesse-Darmstadt have declared themselves independent republics following the action taken by Bavaria last Friday. Wilhelm II. of Wurttemberg is reported to have abdicated. Saxony is said to be near a like declaration and the revolutionists are said to be in control at Dresden.

The republic of Poland has served official notice on Austria that Poland has annexed the crown land of Galicia.

As the last hours of the mighty combat drew near French, British, Belgian and American forces were rapidly pushing the last German troops from France and Belgium. General Pershing's men attacked yesterday over a front of 71 miles from the Meuse southeastward into Lorraine. This drive gained an average of two or three miles and approached within ten miles of the fortress of Metz.

It is suggested that William Hohenzollern is not safe from the consequences of his deed, even though he has fled to Holland. After the sinking of the Lusitania and during the early days of aerial raids on London he was three times indicted for murder in England. Under international law, it is said, requisition for his extradition may be made by England under the indictments still standing against him.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY MEETS

Paris Association Held Annual Meeting—Officers Elected for 1919

OTHER NEWS OF PARIS

(From Moss's Correspondent)
Paris, Nov. 3.—The annual meeting of the Paris Horticultural Society was held in the Y. M. C. A. hall last evening, and was well attended. The president, Dr. W. N. Bell, gave a very comprehensive report of the work accomplished during the past year, impressing the idea that the society existed for civic improvement, and that every citizen anxious to forward the interests of the community should join. He recommended the incoming executive to take up the establishment of a park. The annual election of officers took place, with Dr. Bell being unanimously re-elected president, this being that gentleman's sixth term.

Mr. C. M. Huddle was elected 1st vice-president, and Miss Ahrens 2nd vice-president. It is understood that Mr. O. K. Whitey will be asked to continue as secretary-treasurer. His report showed the society to be in a most flourishing condition in every particular.

This season the society is making a specialty in hyacinth bulbs. Last year over three hundred names were on the members roll, and of this number about one-third had already renewed their membership.

Principal Moss' report for the public school attendance during October, showed 562 names on the roll with an average attendance of 48.

The funeral took place at Forestville yesterday of the late Peter Schram, who died suddenly early Wednesday morning. Besides a wife, one son and two daughters are left, all grown up and away from home.

A good crop of potatoes is reported from Frontenac county.

Windsor post office has a new concrete drive, and the yard is to be paved with concrete.

Brantford post office is closed after being open for 60 years, and mail carriers will now serve the district.

WAR TIME INDUSTRY. —ACETONES, LIMITED

Huge Distillery Converted Into Munitions Plant by Victory Loan Money

A great war time industry in Canada is the manufacture of acetone, a fluid extracted from corn which acts as a solvent for gun cotton in the manufacture of cordite. Two thousand five hundred tons of this product have been shipped to the great munition plants of Great Britain, after taking care of the demands of Canadian munition plants, since operations were begun in Canada in August, 1915.

Mr. W. G. and Lieut.-Col. A. E. Gooderham offered a large distillery located in a Canadian city to the British Government for taxes and insurance. Through the Imperial Munitions Board Great Britain asked ed for the delivery of 250 tons of acetone by the end of 1917, but at that time the British Acetone Limited, of which Mr. W. G. Gooderham is president and Lieut.-Colonel A. E. Gooderham manager, delivered no less than 1,000 tons and had so enlarged the capacity of the plant that a still greater output during the following year resulted. The British Government was able to take care of all the product that could be shipped.

The company has over 400 operations on the pay roll. It uses 4,750 bushels of corn a day and 85 tons of coal. These huge operations are made possible because the Dominion Government has been able to finance out of Victory Loan proceeds, the purchases of the British Government in this country. This means much to Canada. It is building up a great industry, and best of all is doing a lot towards the winning of the war. If the Government had not had the required financial support from the people, this and many like industries would have failed. It is stated that better results have been obtained from the Canadian acetone plant than elsewhere. The company is also making preparations to supply another product known as M. E. K. from one of the by-products of acetone, namely, butyl alcohol.

EX-KAISER TRULY "IN DUTCH" NOW

Holland Doesn't Want Wilhelm Hohenzollern or His Family

By Courier Leased Wire
London, Nov. 11.—The arrival of Wilhelm Hohenzollern, the former German Emperor, with his wife and eldest son, has caused excitement and much uneasiness among Dutch authorities and the public of that country, says a despatch to The Telegraph from Rotterdam. It is unofficially stated that the refugees did not obtain authorization from Holland to enter the country and crossed the frontier in the neighborhood of Eindhoven because the Dutch neutrality guards were weak at that point.

It is said the Dutch Government faces difficulty as to its treatment of the unwelcome visitors. Many people contend that Wilhelm Hohenzollern and his eldest son are still German soldiers and must be interned. Others urge that they should be sent back to Germany. Others argue that they cannot be prevented visiting their old friend, Count von Bismarck.

It is reported that the Dutch frontier is completely open and many German officers are seeking refuge in Holland.

To Subscribers in Arrears

Paper Controller Orders Cutting Off of Unpaid Subscriptions!

Mr. R. A. Pringle, K. C., the Paper Controller of Canada, has issued an order, effective January 1, 1919, which says:

"2. Discontinue sending paper within three months after date of expiration of subscription, unless the subscription is renewed and paid for."

There are many other restrictions imposed, but this one is the most important. Therefore, between now and the end of the year The Courier's subscription list must be overhauled and put on a paid-in-advance basis, in order to comply with a governmental order.

Accounts have already been sent out to those in arrears, but subscribers do not need to wait for a "dun" to spur them to action. The date on the label affixed to the paper sent to subscribers tells the story. City subscribers can learn how their subscription stands by referring to their last receipt.

The reason for this regulation of the Paper Controller is that it is the practice of some publishers to send their newspapers until ordered stopped, and this practice frequently means a failure to collect anything for subscriptions in arrears, in which case there is a virtual waste of paper. It is to prevent paper waste that the new regulation has been decided on.

The manufacture of paper consumes labor, wood, coal, chemicals and transportation facilities, and every ton of paper saved means just so much labor, raw materials, chemicals, fuel and transportation available for urgent war needs. For these reasons the Government insists that paper shall be saved, and proposes that only those who pay for their publications shall receive them.

Under these regulations The Courier will have no choice in the matter of dealing with subscriptions in arrears for over three months.

Send in your subscription of once. Do not delay, the collector will regularly on city subscribers. Keep your account up-to-date.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS, AUTHOR OF "MARGARET GARRETT'S HUSBAND," AND OTHER NOTABLE STORIES.

CHAPTER LXXI.

Brian and Mollie are unconscious. That they are watched.

The next morning, recalling that he had made an engagement to take Mollie to dinner that night, so filling his evening, Brian wrote Ruth a short note as well as replying to her wire. Then he went about his office duties whistling gayly. His duty done, he was free to anticipate the coming of the evening.

There was a time when women had no choice. They were either wives, or falling that, daughters. No rivalry between business and wifehood existed. Now Ruth, in a sense, had realized that rivalry from the time she had gone to work for Arthur Mandel—realized it with no slightest idea of surrendering either wifehood and a career. Why not? She was young, strong, ambitious. She loved Brian, she would do all in her power to make him happy. She was intensely interested in her work, and would do everything possible to make it a success.

She fully intended to keep a cheery, sweet home for Brian. She would not allow her business even to creep into her talks with him. Yet she wistfully longed to talk to him, to tell him of her plans. But she must force herself to do the things he wanted to do, to talk of the things in which he was interested. Not only for his sake, but the sake of her own happiness.

Whenever Ruth was away from Brian she felt that nothing in the world was worth very much without him, his approval. She was disturbed by doubts, and often, by jealous thoughts. Yet never did she allow anything of this to affect her work. That must be done, and done to the best of her ability. It was in the evening when she sat alone in some lonely hotel room, that the doubts came, that the jealous thoughts made her unhappy.

Often she wondered if, had she been less keen for her own independence, she could have helped Brian to push himself more rapidly. Always she decided, not that it was in him, she could do no more than she had done. Yet always there was Brian—alone, and—Mollie King.

One moment Ruth would grow cold at the possibility of losing Brian's love, the next a wave of something very like defiance would rush over her.

But all this was when she and Brian were separated.

So now she wondered if he were missing her—wondered, and longed to know. While Brian, satisfied that she would have her wire from him before night his letter the next morning, closed the office early and went to meet Mollie King.

They had decided to dine at one of the village restaurants, a place patronized by strangers in the city as well as by the villagers themselves.

Strange, it should happen that on that very night Arthur Mandel had consented to join a party at that very restaurant for dinner. He cared nothing for such places, but they were outgrown business acquaintances, so he went along.

With the perversity of fate, they were given a table next to that already occupied by Brian and Mollie.

"I hope that good looking man—the one with the dark hair and eyes—will know us the next time he sees us," Mollie whispered to Brian.

"Perhaps he knows you. He hasn't taken his eyes off of us since he sat down."

"It is more than likely he is trying to flirt with you," Brian's quick jealousy immediately aroused. Had he known that it was Ruth's employer who evinced such an interest in his remark, which, judging from Mandel's expression, he had overheard.

"Let him try that! That's all the good it will do. Now, Brian, tell me all about yourself, and soon, the next table and its occupants, I suppose. Brian was talking Mollie King, the sympathetic, of his worries, and his hope of ultimate success.

Arthur Mandel caught much of what he said, as Brian's eyes were where Mandel and his guests were seated, Brian said distinctly:

"We'll go there to-morrow night."

"So it's every night when she's away," Mandel thought as he watched them leave. "She's a pretty girl, but she must have been more careful in his remark which, judging from Mandel's expression, he had overheard."

During the remainder of his stay at the restaurant, he was the first one at the table. Surely things were happening that would eventually throw Ruth into his arms. He could afford to wait. She was worth serving seven years for.

And she had refused to take a couple of days' rest at the Springs because she, that young fool, would be lonely!

That night Arthur Mandel slept soundly. Happy in the thought that he would soon make up to Ruth for all the neglect Brian made her suffer.

(To be continued to-morrow.)

IT IS FINISHED.
 The greatest of all wars has come to an end.
 Napoleon sought to dominate the world and failed.
 Ex-Emperor William of Germany tried the same thing and he also failed.

The one ended his days on the island of St. Helena; the fate of the other has yet to be determined.
 In both instances the downfall of the would-be dictator was brought about by Great Britain.

Had it not been for the stubbornness and determination of John Bull, the bravery of his troops, the financial aid which he lent to other countries and above all his navy, Bonaparte would have definitely realized his dreams as sovereign of the earth. In 1811 he was at the zenith of his power, but Wellington soon began to loom up in the peninsula and through English influence and the skill of that general and the bravery of his men, the French power began to fall in Spain and elsewhere. Then it was that the star of Napoleon commenced to wane, although he assembled a "Grand Army" of 500,000 men—how paltry the figures seem now—and embarked on his disastrous Russian campaign. Sent to Elba only to escape his meteoric career was finally ended by Wellington at Waterloo.

In like manner, the ex-Kaiser, with his carefully prepared war machine, with every man of his nation trained to arms, with his Krupp and subsidiary works turning out the latest style of guns, with the accumulation of vast stores of ammunition and of war material and cash, deliberately plunged the nations of the world into the greatest and most bloody struggle of all history. Mr. Gerard has recorded that when he was U. S. Ambassador at Berlin, William once said to him:

"From childhood I have been influenced by five men, Alexander the Great, Julius Caesar, Theodore II, Frederick the Great, and Napoleon. Each of these men dreamed a dream of world empire. They failed. I have dreamed a dream of German world empire, and my matted fist shall succeed."

That was the incentive and the ambition of this monster in human form, but he had reckoned without the "Eight Little Islands" and the Greater Britain beyond the seas over which the Union Jack floats. Belgium and Northern France were soon occupied and it looked like a speedy seizure of Paris, but John Bull's "contemptible Little Army" was on hand with the edict, "Thou shalt not pass." The seas were to be scoured, but John Bull's navy speedily had the German fleet bottled up in the Kiel Canal, and the only time any of the vessels did get out they were mighty glad to scurry back to cover once more.

And don't forget the initial pluck of spunky little Belgium in refusing to be used as a highway for the invading hordes—a refusal which gave to the other Allies some days of priceless time.

Don't forget the magnificent heroism of the French, whose record for valor has never been surpassed, even in the Napoleonic days.

Don't forget the self-sacrifice of the Romanians and the Serbians.

Don't forget the initial work of the Russians, although latterly they fell by the wayside.

Don't forget the great achievements of Italy, or the fact that she broke away from the Central Alliance right at the start.

Don't forget the aid of the United States in the early stages in money and munitions, and latterly with troops, although Uncle Sam in the last named respect did not get into the fray to the extent he had hoped.

Your Problems Solved??

By Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.
 (All rights reserved.)

Dr. Linscott in this column will help you solve your heart problems, religious, marital, social, financial and every other anxious care that perplexes you. If a personal answer is required, enclose a five cent stamp. No names will be published; if you prefer, sign your initials only, or use a pseudonym.

Our Burden Bearer—"One in Great Trouble" asks the best way out. The great God-man said: "Come unto Me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. There are some troubles from which we can relieve ourselves by vigorous action, but there are a great many troubles over which we have no control and before which we stand helpless. In such cases we need the help of the Infinite, and as this help is always available we may use it to the utmost limit. One may compare the Holy Spirit with electricity which pervades the atmosphere of the earth. All we need is to make the connection."

Our Common Obligation—Mr. W. W. inquires: "What is the chief duty of every person?" The West-Insular "Confession of Faith" answers this question as follows: "To glorify God and enjoy Him forever," while Christ answered a similar question when He said that the chief commandment was to love God with all our heart, mind and strength, and to love our neighbor as we love ourselves. I could answer your questions in other words, but I doubt if I could improve upon either of the answers I have referred to.

Don't forget, in addition to the navy which so vigilantly patrolled the seas night and day, and made the transport of troops and supplies possible, the men of the Merchant Marine, who never once quitted their posts, despite the perils of the mine and submarine.

Don't forget the noble women who in all allied lands, have established for themselves an imperishable crown of glory in their deeds of mercy and their deeds of war.

And, above all, don't forget the heroes who lie quietly sleeping over yonder that this great day might be remembered.

And through and above all, remember that the Higher and Omnipotent Power, under whose aegis right and Christian principles have once more triumphed, and the world made safe for freedom and true democracy.

NOTE AND COMMENT.
 The ex-Kaiser is in Dutch.

The ex-All Highest is a fugitive in Holland. The rest of us have been doing a hollerin of a different type.

First thing Germany knows she will be in for a regular reign of Bolshevism.

The Toronto morning papers hadn't a line of the real news.

The last big celebration in which this neck of the woods indulged over the end of a world war was in connection with the Crimea. This time we are celebrating the end of a crime era.

Just one more whoop and then another bunch on top of it.

Who wanted to sleep anyway??

It is only the few who can secure a "V. C." but everyone can get a "V. B." Don't forget in the hour of triumph to come down with every dollar you can spare for the Victory Loan. The country in peace requires money even more than the country at war.

There are the rules of life and of health, the golden rule and other rules without number but the greatest "rule" of all is that "Britannia Rules the Waves." And is going to stay with the job too.

The German fleet was the reverse of that and now it is to be handed over bag and baggage.

William's vaulting ambition not only o'er leapt itself, but also submerged him.

When it comes to demonstrating early morning hours do not fix on Brantfordites worth a cent.

A 3 a.m. edition on the part of The Courier and first news which led to the sounding of the fire bell and informed Paris, Simcoe and other surrounding places of the glorious tidings was the result of an all-night session.

"We won't go home till morning" was changed to "We'll all get up in the morning" as far as Brantfordites were concerned.

Are we yelling? We should smile. Have been yelling quite a while.

"The situation"—but, tut, tut, how confirmed habit of over four years does become to be sure.

And after all the bloodshed the Kaiser and his sons still remain intact.

The Hohenzollerns and the Hapsburgs have been kicked down the backstairs and are lying in a crumpled heap at the bottom.

The beauty of Brantford's demonstration is that it is backed by the genuine article and not the fake brand put on in Toronto, Hamilton and other places a few days ago.

This "Get 'em" and "Get 'em" day all right, all right in this old burg.

"Good-bye, Bill. You never was. You never was."

It is out of the trying pan into the fire for the Hun. He has got rid of one Bill and will now have several other big bills loaded on his creaking back.

BRANTFORD TORE THINGS WIDE OPEN

Celebrations Under Way From 3-30 This Morning Until Afternoon

"For I dip into the future, far into the eye could see, Saw the vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be; Till the war-trumpets' sound no longer and the battle flags were furled, In the Parliament of man, the federation of world, There the common sense of most shall hold a fearful realm in awe, And the kindly earth shall slumber, lapt in universal love."

Over the wires to a time, expectant world, was flashed this morning the greatest news of centuries, and the dawn of a fitful November morn was also the dawn of a new era for civilization, an era made safe for democracy by the embattled forces of the allied powers, victors at the end of more than four years' struggle, against the tyrant Teuton.

Success in this great struggle has been won in a few weeks, that the world has scarcely yet had time to grasp the full significance of those two words "victors secured."

It will take time to realize all that those tidings mean, even as it took time and bitter experience to realize the full horror of such a war as this, which has needed to be. The signing of the Kaiser's document of abdication was scarcely dry before Socialist forces were in control throughout practically the whole of Germany, and might have witnessed the signing of another document, whereby Germany, repentant, it is hoped, at last, makes open avowal of her guilt and her defeat.

BRANTFORD ENTHUSIASTIC.
 Brantford received the glad tidings gleefully. From the moment that the news was blazed forth by The Courier first, of course, the word ran like wildfire to every corner of the city. The ring of the fire bell and the Grace Church chimed drew thousands from their beds before half past three, and as they congregated in the centre of the city, their cheering swelled the volume of sound until the uproar was at its height. Impromptu services of prayer and thanksgiving were held at the earliest possible moment, while the crowd continued to parade the streets all morning, cheering and waving flags.

COURIER FIRST WITH NEWS.
 The first flash was received by The Courier at two minutes to three this morning. The office had been open night and day, since Saturday morning, with its leased wire continually in operation. As soon as the first flash was received, The Courier notified the fire hall, with the result that the fire bell commenced to clang before the last stroke of three was off the post office clock. The Courier, in addition to giving the news which started the crowd, was the first to bulletin the German surrender, the first to notify Paris and Simcoe of the news, and the first to place an extra on the street. This edition was out by five minutes after three, and gave the official announcement of the signing of the armistice. The news was received from Washington, and not, as another local paper stated, from Paris. The Courier made no attempt to sell its extra, but handed them out free of charge as fast as they came from the press. By five o'clock the entire edition had been disposed of, and still the crowd were clamoring for more.

ROUSED CROWD.
 The fire bell, the first to wake the stillness of the night, was soon supplemented by the chimed at Grace Church, and then by a few factory whistles. Citizens hurried from their beds in hundreds and thousands, and before four o'clock the streets were thronged. The crowd at first was remarkably orderly, and almost quiet, in fact, seeming satisfied to enjoy the news without elaborate demonstration. Later, however, they waxed more and more vociferous. Horns, whistles and noise makers of every variety were called into play, the city was ransacked for fireworks, and its entire supply requisitioned. The Courier led once more, in giving a fireworks display from its balcony.

STREETS PACKED.
 The streets were thronged through the streets, their inmates cheering and waving enthusiastically. Impromptu parades were also headed by the younger elements, and throngs of both sexes marched through the streets making what noise they could by dint of hammering on tin cans, boilers or any other utensils available. Old boxes, barrels, lumber and quantities of every inflammable material were dragged forth in a twinkling and set ablaze in the streets until a monster bon-fire roared at nearly every corner. Revolvers and rifles were discharged in the air, and fireworks and torpedoes popped and banged incessantly. From three-thirty on, there was never a let-up in the merriment until moon on foot and in cars, the jubilant crowds paraded the streets until a furor such as Brantford probably never witnessed before. It is said that Canadians are a phlegmatic race who never give vent to their emotions, and there is a great measure of truth in this, but this morning was the exception that proved the rule, and Brantford let loose the pent-up enthusiasm of the past four months at the consummation of the success of that period.

AN INTERESTING ADDRESS GIVEN

By Mr. Lloyd Harris With Regard to Canadian War Mission in Washington

There was a large crowd in the Board room in Seagram's evening to hear Mr. Lloyd Harris tell of the work and the attainments of the Canada War Mission, an organization of which he is head.

The Mission at Washington had been a success in stimulating production on this side of the Atlantic, and having thousands of tons of shipping constructed. In the matter of raw materials being shipped to Canada under license, the Mission had been of inestimable value to Canadian industries.

Mr. Harris announced that the purpose of the organization to be established in England was to bridge over the difference between the pre-war exports from Canada, amounting to $67,000,000, and the exports in 1918, amounting to $627,000,000. If Canada could continue to keep up her export trade in any degree proportionate with the present figures, this country would have no worry as to continued prosperity. Europe had to be rebuilt and the Canadian Mission at London, had the business of securing Canada's share of the rebuilding. There was no reason for Canadians to be pessimistic, declared Mr. Harris, they should rather be optimistic, because just as the Dominion had taken a notable part in the war, she would also take a leading part in the period of rehabilitation.

Resolutions were passed by the Brantford Board congratulating the Union Government on the appointment of Mr. Harris.

IMPROVISED SERVICES.
 What a time of congratulating and handshaking there was. Everyone was smiling at everyone, calling out felicitation to perfect strangers and clapping over their shoulders on the back in ecstasy. The clergymen of the city quickly assembled and held services of prayer first at the post office corner and later from the G. W. A. home. The Doulogy and the National Anthem were each sung twice, prayers were offered by Rev. Capt. Jenkins, Rev. D. L. Campbell and others, and the Rev. G. A. Woodside and the Rev. W. J. Thompson spoke briefly, leading upon the part prayer, had played in bringing about the allied victory and reminding their hearers that thanks must be returned to the Almighty.

The main celebration of the day, however, is to take place this afternoon, commencing with a monster parade at one-thirty from the G. W. A. home. The procession will wind up at The Courier office, and from its balcony speeches will be delivered by a number of local speakers.

Yes! It is harmless.

NOTICE

Increase in Subscription Rates Commencing Dec. 1, 1918

The subscription rates of the Brantford Daily-Courier and the Brantford Daily Expositor, commencing December 1st, 1918, will be as follows:

Delivered in Brantford and Vicinity, 45c. per month
By the year, Paid in Advance, $5.00 per annum
By Mail, " " 4.00 per annum
Single Copies, 2c.

After publication of this notice, payments in advance on subscriptions will only be accepted to December 1st at the old rate, after that at the new rate.

This advance in subscription rates has been made necessary by the tremendous increase in the cost of white paper, the price of which has recently been fixed by the Paper Controller at Ottawa. By this one item alone thousands of dollars are added to our annual cost of production, and in addition, labor, presses, stereotype supplies, type and all other items of expense have enormously advanced in price during the last few years.

Even at the new rates the Brantford papers are only now charging prices which have been in force for some time back on almost all the other daily newspapers published in this section of the Dominion. In many cities the subscription rates are very much higher.

VICTORY CELEBRATION

In Brant Theatre on Tuesday evening, at 8 p.m., the great American speaker, Mr. John McF. Howie, will speak. There will be special features.

SOLD BONDS

Lieut. Hugh M. Bell and a party of returned soldiers spoke in the Brant and the Rex theatres on Saturday, and succeeded in selling $2,800 worth of Victory Bonds at the two theatres.

KITCHEN BURNED

At an early hour yesterday morning the kitchen in the rear of 17 Dufferin Ave., caught fire and the assistance of the central fire brigade was called. The fire was quickly extinguished with damage of about $50.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES

Thanksgiving services for the impending victory were held in all the churches of the city yesterday, when special reference was made to the proximity of peace and the pressing need for prayer which still existed.

WRIST BROKEN

A sixteen-year-old lad broke his wrist early Sunday morning, while cranking a car at the Ford garage. He was taken to Dr. Hicks for treatment.

A RUSHING BUSINESS

At an early hour this morning every dealer in the city had sold out his entire stock of flags, fireworks and horns. Anything to make noise of a display was requisitioned in short order. False faces and masquerade costumes were also in demand, and figured in the demonstrations in the streets at a later hour this morning.

CROWD TOOK BULLETIN

The Courier's huge bulletin board, which proclaimed the first inkling of the glorious news to a still sleeping Brantford at three o'clock this morning, was torn from its stand by a party of enthusiasts at half-past nine, and carried through the streets on an automobile.

IS DANGEROUSLY ILL

Word has been received in the city that Lieut. Wm. Colquhoun, eldest son of Col. M. A. Colquhoun of this city, is now dangerously ill. Last week he was reported seriously ill. He is at Matlock Bath hospital.

SMALL FIRE

At 11 o'clock last night the firemen received a call from Chestnut Ave. The cause of the fire was the lighting of a check on a lot in the rear of the property of Mr. T. Havey Jones. The blaze was extinguished with little difficulty.

FALSE ALARM

After spending a busy night in taking part in the celebration, the firemen this morning at 6 o'clock were called to the corner of West and Albion Sts. Upon arrival, it was found to be a false alarm and is under investigation.

PHONES BUSY

Since Saturday morning the Courier's telephones have scarcely ceased ringing, call after call coming even during the latest hours of the night. This morning the telephone central found themselves absolutely unable to cope with the ever-increasing frequency after which calls were being made.

HANGED IN EFFIGY

An effigy of Kaiser Bill, his body pierced by a huge sword, dangled this morning from the roof of W. G. Haythorne's store, next The Courier. "Where do I go from here?" read a placard attached to the figure's feet. It's hard to say, but it's chancier than dummy's nearer heaven than Bill will ever get.

CHEERED WHEN BILL QUIT

"No more of this kind of a thing," said Manager Ernie Moulde of the Brant theatre on Saturday afternoon, after announcing to his audience the news—supplied him by The Courier—of the Kaiser's abdication. At the Rex the news was also vociferously acclaimed, although the audiences at both theatres were comparatively small.

DIED OF WOUNDS

Many friends in the city will regret to hear that word has been received by his wife, of the death of Pte. Walter Vernon Sheldrake, at the Queen Alexandra Military Hospital, Grosvenor's, London, Eng., on Nov. 4th, 1918. He leaves to mourn his sad loss a sorrowing wife and daughter, Myrtle, his mother and father, 197 Brock St., two sisters, Mrs. Myrtle Dick, 247 Nelson St., Mrs. J. ## "HUMAN FLY" SOLD BONDS

Over $8000 Subscribed After He Had Given Climbing Exhibition

"The Human Fly," alias Mr. George Walker, known throughout the length and breadth of North America for his ability to climb practically any building ever erected, was forced to admit partial defeat when he essayed to climb to the top of the local post office building at noon Saturday. His appearance in the city was arranged for by the public committee of the Victory Loan organization, and a crowd of thousands crowded Dalhousie street in front of The Courier office as Mr. Walker commenced his ascent. Before climbing, he advised others spoke briefly in the interests of the Victory Loan. Mr. Walker, attired in a white costume designed especially for the purpose, then commenced the ascent of the building. The walls were wet from the recent rain, and very slippery, but in spite of this The Human Fly reached the third story successfully. He was unable, however, to surmount the cornice below the roof, owing to the condition of the stone, and announced that it was the first time in his career that he had failed in such an undertaking. He then made his way from the interior of the building to the roof, and climbed the tower to the very summit, descending again to the roof of the main building. On reaching the ground again, Mr. Walker delivered another Victory Loan appeal, and upward of $8,000 was subscribed by the gathering within a short time. "The Human Fly" left the city by an early train Saturday afternoon.

GERMANY IN TURMOIL AS PEACE TERMS ARE SIGNED

Republics Have Been Proclaimed in Bavaria, Wurtemberg, Schleswig-Holstein; Socialist Government in Control of Situation in Prussia.

By Courier Lensed Wire

Paris, Nov. 11.—(Havas)—The situation in Germany to-day as far as it can be ascertained from news arriving through Switzerland, may be summed up as follows: "Prussia is a free Socialist republic and a Socialist Government in an undetermined form is in power. "Bavaria and Wurtemberg republics have been proclaimed. "The royal family of Oldenburg has fled and a revolution is reported. "A republic has been formed in Schleswig-Holstein. "Frankfurt, Hamburg, Cologne, Essen, Mueheim, Aix la Chapelle and Emrich as well as other cities are in the hands of the revolutionaries. "Kiel, Wilhelmshaven and other ports are in the power of revolutionist naval units."

"A GOOD JOURNEY"—During revolutionary disorders at Cologne a crowd tried to demolish with machine gun fire a statue of Wilhelm I. but finally contented itself by muffling up the statue and placing upon it a card inscribed: "A Good Journey." It is reported that Prince Henry of Prussia has fled to Denmark, taking with him his personal fortune.

LONDON APPREHENSIVE—London, Nov. 11.—In view of the irregular and uncertain position of the new German Government, anxiety is expressed by some London newspapers lest difficulties arise to prevent acceptance and enforcement of the Allied armistice terms.

The pleas of some German papers that the Allies ought not to crowd Germany to the wall so hard that she would be unable to establish herself under a democratic government, tend to confirm suspicions in some quarters here that the transfer of power to the Socialists really is a subtle device by which the former Emperor and the militarists hope to obtain easier terms. It is contended that if the Socialists gain the political success, it might easily lead to the reaction in favor of the former autocrats.

The Times and the Daily Mail for instance, recall that all Germany, including the Socialists, assented to the war, the failure of which now leads them to abjure the Socialists. They say that the change in administration in no wise removes the necessity for reparation and restitution.

Allied officials, however, are in the doubt voiced by the Daily Express and elsewhere, as to whether the armistice arranged with the present government would provide the guarantees asked. The government of Chancellor Ebert is believed to be so fragile that it may fall at any moment.

Zurich, Nov. 11.—Enthusiastic demonstrations were held in Strassburg on Saturday night. France was cheered, notwithstanding the intervention of the mounted police. Great processions filed through the streets until far into the night carrying banners on which were inscribed: "We want to be re-attached to France, our mother country." "Alsatian soldiers do leave joined in the demonstration. The mayor and the German military commander appealed to the crowd to keep calm and avoid excesses."

Minister Arrested.—Paris, Nov. 11.—(9.05 a.m.)—The Prussian minister at Hamburg has been arrested at Hamburg in that city, according to a Basel despatch sent on Saturday, but delayed in transit.

Austro-Germans in Line.—Basel, Nov. 11.—(9.05 a.m.)—A despatch received here yesterday states that the German-Austrian national assembly voted unanimously on Saturday to send a telegram to Prince Maximilian, the German imperial chancellor, informing him that "in this historic crisis, German-Austrians also desire to take part in the election of a constitutional assembly which will decide upon the constitutional form of government under which the German people will live."

Soldiers' Council in Control.—Copenhagen, Nov. 11.—A semi-official telegram received here from Berlin says that the Soldiers' Council has issued a proclamation announcing that it has taken over military administration and that its orders must be obeyed.

The proclamation in part says: "Comrades: We have bled and battled together. We have turned Germany toward a happy future. Be absolutely true to our people. We work in union with the workmen."

DEED.—In Brantford township, Mrs. Jesse Flanders, wife of Orval Flanders, on Sunday, Nov. 10, Funeral will take place from her late residence, Birkett's Lane to Farington Hill Cemetery. Service at home at 2.30 p.m.

GOOD WORK.—Considerable credit for the quick transmission of the war news locally is due to the telephone operators. During the night they saved the newspapers valuable time by giving the desired information to the many inquirers.

PLAIN TRUTHS

In Every Department we show lines of goods which are the result of careful selection, and which are exceedingly good value, considering the state of the markets.

We do not claim that every line we show is ALWAYS better than you can buy anywhere else—that would be foolish egotism—but we do assert that in the majority of cases, you will find that our offerings are such as will give you entire satisfaction—and compare favorably with the average of what is offered from any source whatever, while you have always the open offer from us of money back if you want it—and cheerfully too.

We couldn't well do more, could we?
E. B. CROMPTON & CO. Limited.

As we have something on hand worth while, every line we mention, is a line of quality, and a money saver besides—Make a mental note of what we say—and be on hand to prove it.

All Wool Serges

Do you know that Fabrics of WOOL—REAL ALL-WOOL are becoming almost impossible to procure. The Export of ALL-WOOL GOODS from England is barred by the British Government—at least there must be an admixture of forty per cent. of cotton in Export Goods. This to conserve the wool supply for Military needs, and this order has been in force for some months.

We hold and show today from orders placed earlier, a fine range of PURE WOOL SERGES and CHEVIOTS, in Black and Colors. What Lady does not count on having in her wardrobe a good NAVY SERGE Skirt or Suit.

We hold a range of guaranteed PURE WOOL NAVY SERGES, with best dyes, at $1.75, $2.00, $2.50 to $5.00 per yard, for fine Botany Wool Fabrics.

Why Not See Them and Buy Now—They Will Still be More Money in the Spring.

Why Not Buy Them NOW

They Will Still Be More Money in the S

Our Prices are based on Values of Eight Months ago. In addition, we have a fine range of other colors, as Wine, Burgundy, Taupe, Grey, Brown, Russian Green, French Blue, and at prices of $1.50, $2.50, $3.00 and up. Not every color at each price, but a grand variety.

THE GRILL ROOM

Extends a special invitation to men. Where they can enjoy a wholesome meal, and a quiet smoke.

Pile Fabrics

The Special Sale of Velveteens, Velvet Cords, and Other Pile Fabrics, now so much in Vogue, has been an Unqualified Success.

The great values. The quality at the prices have done it. Had we not purchased these long ago, it would have been impossible.

A great range of colors at such prices as 75c, 79c and $1.00 per yard makes a great chance, and the people appreciate it. They will be on special all next week. Come and get yours.

Black All Wool Serges from $1.00 yd. up

All-Wool Heavy Cheviot Serges, for Suits, Coats and specially suited for Children's Coats. 48 to 54 inches wide, and ALL-WOOL in Reindeer, Navy, Russian Green, Tan, Brown and Wine. At $2.00 and $2.50 per yard. Considering the wide width and quality, they are almost a gift at the prices.

Tweeds for Skirts and Suits

In quiet tones of greys and mixed browns, navy and greens, 42 to 52 inches wide, at $1.25 to $3.50 per yard. Amongst them are lines of special weight, adaptable for Children's Coats. These are in every line a bargain. A bargain which we stand behind as to value and satisfaction.

DETAILS OF DEATH OF LIEUT SAUNDERS

R. A. F. Chaplain Tells of Funeral of Young Brantford Flier

THE LATE FLIGHT LIEUT SAUNDERS.

Mrs. F. Saunders, 9 Sterling street, has received the following letter confirming word previously received of the death of her grandson, Flight Lieut. L. L. Saunders:

Dear Mrs. Saunders—By the time you receive my letter you will no doubt have heard the sad news of your grandson's death. Second Lieut. L. L. Saunders, R. A. F. His funeral took place on Sunday, and I myself took the service. I am afraid I am not allowed to tell you exactly the spot where he is buried, but the cemetery is many miles behind the lines. A cross will be erected over the grave on which will be nailed a metal disc engraved with your grandson's name, day and date of death. A very careful chart is kept of the cemetery, so there will be no difficulty in finding the grave at any time. My deepest sympathy is with you in your great loss. I know your grandson quite well; he was a fine man, and popular with all who knew him; he will be a great loss to our squadron, and R. A. F. If at any time you wish to know anything further I will do my best to give you any information that is within my power to give you.

Yours sincerely,
T. H. WILSON,
Chaplain, R. A. F.

BOARD OF TRADS SENDS ITS CONGRATULATIONS

Immediately on receipt of the official bulletin that the armistice had been signed, cablegrams and telegrams were rushed as follows:
Brantford, Nov. 11, 1918.
To His Most Gracious Majesty, the King,
London, England.
The Board of Trade of Brantford (Canada) in special meeting assembled to render thanks for victory, desires to express to Your Majesty their felicitations at this happy moment.
The good fight is fought and won for God and the Right.
We pray that the liberty and justice procured at such terrible cost may be the foundations of a Temple of Peace and Brotherhood amongst men.
Secretary,
Brantford Board of Trade,
To the President of France,
Paris, France.
The Brantford (Canada) Board of Trade sends greetings
With honor and great glory has your nation withstood the enemy. Redeemed your lands.
Won victory for civilization.
With earnest prayer for an enduring peace and for happiness and prosperity to your people, I am, Sir,
Ever,
Brantford, Nov. 11, 1918.
To the President of the United States
Washington, D. C.
The Brantford (Canada) Board of Trade desires at this auspicious moment of victory to send its greetings to our brethren in the United States.
In our thanksgiving we gratefully record our admiration of the whole-hearted manner your great nation has co-operated with the Allied nations.
Our hope is that the fruits of this terrible war may be liberty for all nations and a continuous alliance for peace and justice amongst all men.
Brantford, Nov. 11, 1918.
To the Governor-General,
Ottawa, Ont.
The Brantford Board of Trade in special meeting assembled desires to express to your Excellency its joy over the great fight won by the Empire and her Allies for God and the Right.
And its appreciation of the glorious deeds done by our Canadian men in the long battle on behalf of civilization, liberty and justice.
Brantford, Nov. 11, 1918.
To Sir Robert L. Borden,
Prime Minister,
Ottawa, Ont.
The Brantford Board of Trade in special meeting assembled on receipt of the great and glorious news congratulates you, and all our fellow citizens, on the fulfilment of our hopes in the great fight.
And desires to express to you their faith and assurance that the ensuing peace will safeguard all peoples and nations for all time against the possibility of a repetition of such events as have occurred in the last years.
Brantford Nov. 11, 1918.
To Major-General Currie,
Commander, Canadian Forces,
France.
The Brantford Board of Trade has just heard the glorious news of the signing of the armistice by Germany.
In special meeting assembled it sends greetings to our sons and brothers under your command.
Your heroic valor is remembered at this happy moment.
A royal welcome awaits you here. That you have so nobly fought for liberty, justice and humanity, will be a heritage for coming generations.
Brantford, Nov. 11, 1918.
To the Boards of Trade of Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal, St. John, Halifax, Grand River, Galt, London, Chatham, Windsor, Winnipeg, Vancouver.
The Brantford Board of Trade in special meeting assembled with thankful hearts send greetings:
The Good Fight is Fought.
Victory is won.
The freedom of the world is again assured.
Justice will be done.
Liberty is secured for great and small.
Henceforth nations will live in peace and concord.
May the lessons learned at the cost of the priceless blood, and by the unceasing struggle of our dear-est, be handed on from generation to generation and never be forgotten.

May the present high ideals be never lowered.
And may the honor of the nations remain unattained for evermore.
Every dollar makes them Holler.
Every person living outside London, except those residing in the immediate vicinity must get a permit before he can purchase coal in that city.
Between 1,000 and 1,500 soldiers will winter in Stratford.
A mowing machine and a marine engine were combined to form the tractor just completed by Leonard Sundin, at Arner.
John Fraser, 76, died at Patsley. He was born in Belleville, but went to Bruce county early in life.
H. H. Jones has so many apples going to waste on his farm at Dexter, that he has signs up calling on all who will to come and pick as many as they want without charge.
Large quantities of lake salmon are being brought to Kingston almost every day from Pigeon Lake and vicinity.

Sinn Fein Contentions

Answered by Unionists

Who Represent Ulster

THE world has stood astounded by the friendly stand taken by Mr. de Valera towards German victory. The Sinn Fein party, in short, is perfectly content to win a republic in Ireland through the triumph of culture, without the smallest regard to what would happen to Belgium, to Serbia, to Roumania, or any other small nation, through Irish treachery to the Allies, and without political acumen enough to discern what would happen to the Irish republic with Kultur dominant from Antwerp to Vladivostok, and from Hamburg to the Persian Gulf.

The Ulster Unionist Council has recently replied to a few of Mr. de Valera's assertions that he makes at every opportunity regarding the situation in Ireland. Now it is the contention of Mr. de Valera and the Sinn Fein party that, in the phrase of a famous ballad, "the shamrock is by law forbid to grow on Irish ground." But then Mr. de Valera is a political Rip Van Winkle, and shares with Father McMahon the innocent impression that these little eccentricities are wrought by statute. As a matter of fact, as the Unionist Council points out, two-thirds of the entire soil of Ireland has passed into the hands of peasant proprietors, so that at least two-thirds is still open to the growth of the shamrock, a fact which that desperately energetic agriculturist, the Irish peasant, is not unmindful of. Now the purchase money for this land revolution was supplied by what Lord Rosbery calls the "predominant partner" and Mr. de Valera, "the brutal Saxon," and supplied upon terms of the utmost liberality. No doubt Mr. de Valera would draw a moral from this for Mr. de Valera, when it comes to finance, is about as practical as Mr. Mieswiler, only it is to be doubted if he ever would have that penny on the credit side which means freedom from care to Wilkins of that ilk. An example of what might be achieved by an Irish exchequer, presided over by Mr. de Valera, may be seen in his declaration that the present income of Ireland is sufficient to support itself unaided, and to maintain an army and a navy. The only thing that Mr. de Valera omits to point out is that this calculation is based on the income of Ireland during the present war, on a basis of taxation that would successfully bankrupt the country, if anyone were foolish enough to attempt to maintain it as a normal condition.

As it is, the great mass of Ireland's income comes from Ulster, and this explains why it is that the south is so virtuously determined that the Home Rule bill shall include Ulster. Well, the reasons are very simple, and they may be stated in terms sterling. Ulster pays in customs and revenue rather more than twice as much as the whole of the rest of Ireland. Belfast itself is the third port in the whole United Kingdom, and does one-eighth of the entire coast trade of the United Kingdom. Ulster owns three and a half times more shipping than all the rest of Ireland combined. It produces forty-eight per cent of Irish oats, forty-one per cent of Irish potatoes, fifty-three per cent of Irish fruit, and twenty per cent of Irish fax, and this might go on indefinitely. Therefore, when Mr. de Valera talks of the down-trodden and overtaxed Irish peasant, he is perhaps wise in omitting to mention that the bulk of the taxation is borne by Ulster, and that part of Ulster, in particular, which is adamant in its adherence to the union. And then again, Ulster has another excellent reason for not being ambitious of entering the Home Rule parliament, and it is this, that Ulster does not particularly wish to pay the poor rates for the rest of Ireland, and that for the all-sufficient reason that the rate of pauperism in Belfast is $2 per 10,000, in Dublin $70 per 10,000, and, as the line inclines further south, $24 per 10,000 in Cork and Waterford. But perhaps the most delightful example of overtaxed Ireland may be found in the fact that in Belfast, which is the stronghold of Unionism and Protestantism, the Roman Catholic Nationalists contribute $18,000 a year in rates and receive $53,789 in salaries. Is it any wonder then that Mr. de Valera should himself have announced, at Ballinaderreen, only a year ago, that "Ulster must be coerced if she stands in the way," and a little later, at Coochill, that if she persisted in being a British garrison, she would have to be kicked out?

It is not surprising, then, that when the Ulster Council is told that the Orange bodies are intolerant, and that they have nothing to fear from the tolerant brothers of the south, they do not take the trouble to argue so much as to quote figures. The Roman Catholic population of Ulster is 590,134 and it has 112 representatives on County Councils. The Protestant population is 886,363 and it has 123 representatives, which means that the percentage of Roman Catholic representatives is greater than that of Protestants, though the balance of population is heavily on the side of the Protestants. Now turn to Connaught: there are 228 County Councilors in Connaught, one of whom is a Unionist. In Munster there are 228 County Councilors, only one of whom is a Unionist. Whilst in Leinster out of 335 County Councilors, 11 are Unionists, drawn from one peculiarly quiet where Unionists predominate.

Is it any particular wonder, then, that the Ulsterites regard an Irish republic, presided over by a gentleman of Mr. de Valera's political foresight and financial acumen, as a trifle hazardous, as, indeed, something which might very easily mature into a storied Donnybrook?

WAR LORD IS FUGITIVE FROM EMPIRE HE FORMERLY RULED: SEEKS SAFETY IN HOLLAND

Ex-Kaiser Has Fled From Germany, Leaving Behind Him the Ruin Which He Wrought; His Unbounded Ambition For World Power Was Responsible For the World War

Washington, Nov. 10.—William Hohenzollern has arrived in Holland and is proceeding to the town of Deisteg, near Utrecht, according to a despatch received by the American staff to-day from The Hague.

The message said: "Press reports state that the Kaiser arrived this morning in Maastricht, Holland, and is proceeding to Middachten Castle in the town of Diesteg, near Utrecht." SIGNED FOR EMPIRE'S GOOD.

London, Nov. 10.—(2.04 p.m.)—Emperor William signed a letter of abdication on Saturday morning at the German grand headquarters in the presence of Crown Prince Frederick William and Field Marshal Hindenburg, according to a despatch from Amsterdam to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

The German Crown Prince signed his renunciation to the throne shortly afterwards.

It is believed that King Ludwig of Bavaria and King Frederick August of Saxony also have abdicated. The ex-Kaiser and the former Crown Prince were expected to take leave of their troops on Saturday, but nothing has been settled regarding their future movements.

Before placing his signature to the document an urgent message from Philipp Scheideman, who was also a Socialist member without portfolio in the Imperial Cabinet, was handed to the Emperor. He read it with a shiver, then he signed the paper, saying:

"It may be for the good of Germany."

The Emperor was deeply moved. He consented to sign the document only when he got the news of the latest events in the Empire.

Serious food difficulties are expected in Germany owing to the stoppage of trains. The council of the regency will take the most drastic steps to re-establish order.

ADMIRAL KEYES.

Brilliant Young Admiral Has Notable Career.

Acting Vice-Admiral Sir Roger Keyes, K.C.B., C.M.G., M.V.O., D.S.O., who commanded the brilliant operations against Zeppelins and Ostend, when the mole at Zeebrugge was breached and a great part of the fairway into Ostend harbor was blocked, has had a knighthood of the Order of the Bath conferred upon him by the King in recognition of his distinguished services on that occasion. Last December, Sir Roger Keyes succeeded Vice-Admiral Bacon as admiral at Dover, when he was appointed to that command by Sir Rosslyn Wemyss, First Sea Lord. Sir Roger enjoys a very high reputation in the navy, both on account of his technical qualifications and also for his initiative and courage. Entering the navy in 1888, he was despatched to the Orina station at the time of the Baxer rising. For his services on that occasion he was promoted commander, and received a medal. He next served against the enemy as naval attaché successively in Rome, Vienna, Athens, and Constantinople. In 1912, he was appointed commodore in charge of the submarine service in home waters. After the outbreak of war, in 1914, Admiral Keyes commanded the submarine flotilla which guarded the Helligoland Light, ready to attack the German submarine fleet. He was appointed to the command of the submarine force in 1915. In 1915 he served as chief of staff to Vice-Admiral de Robeck in the Dardanelles operations. The following year, Sir Roger Keyes received the C.M.G., and the D.S.O., in recognition of his services. Last year he was promoted to flag rank.

BELGIAN CHARGES AGAINST GERMANY.

New Official Report of Committee of Inquiry Into German Violations of International Law

The Belgian Committee of Inquiry into Germany's violations of International Law has just issued its 23rd report, which with annexed documents forms a booklet of about 150 pages. This report deals with the violations of International Law committed in Belgium's territory and the treatment of Belgian prisoners in Germany. The annexed documents comprise the text of the Belgian Government's various protests against the requisitioning and the enforced labor, against war-contributions, against the seizure of the cash balance in German bank-notes of the National Bank and of the General Society of Liquidators of some commercial firms in the occupied territory against the unlawful modification of a part of the civil legislation, against the arbitrary decisions of the administrative institutions and the administrative modification against the incorporation of Belgian citizens in the German army, against the abusive requisitioning against the withdrawal of Belgian citizens from the sanitary units, against the enforced labor and against the arbitrary measures adopted regarding the judicial documents on the war. It is erroneously that certain press information have referred to that publication as if "Blou Book." It is not, indeed, a pamphlet, but besides it is well-known that the color adopted by the Belgian Government for its diplomatic boxes is grey and not blue.

Died of Starvation

Many a Belgian mother could have these words engraved on her child's gravestone—"Died of Starvation."

Perhaps the child has wasted away with Consumption, or has been twisted into a mockery of happy childhood by Rickets, but starvation is at the root of the tragedy.

What else can be expected for a growing child whose daily ration is the bowl of soup and two pieces of bread provided by the United States loans to the Belgian Government?

The only hope for the destitute children of Belgium is that we who can afford three meals a day will be moved to pity and send help immediately. Even a small contribution will help to take some child, sinking under its load of trouble, over to Holland, where with good milk, nutritious food, medical care and loving treatment, he or she may regain health, strength and the wish to live.

Rippling Rhymes

THE WAR LORD. The war lord had his little day, he flashed his gleaming sabre; "he is," the nations used to say, "a most imposing neighbor. He's talked of wounds and death and scars, until our heartstrings tingled; He certainly looks much like Mars, with Vulcan intermingled. He poses as the Ancient Hun, Attila, bold and haughty; of course he means it all in fun—he flashed his gleaming sabre; "he the nations grinned at Wilhelm and his posing, his War Lord staff was no much wind, no solemn threat disclosing, and while the nations grinned and smirked, and thought themselves in clover; the Kaiser and his cohorts, worked to put their war graft over. They put it over good and strong, they caught the nations napping; as centuries, the years seem long, since Hill began the scripping; it's easy now for me to say, "We've learned our lesson fully, and we'll again see royal Jay spring out so wild and woolly." Ah, but we forget so soon as graveyard we go; "He's a corn that rusts at noon, remembered in the gloaming; We'll have long years of peace again, 'ere at that crisis point; if any war lord's strutting them, will we just wink and chorle?"

The Elstedford.

The antiquity of the Elstedford, the gathering for the election of chief bard, which Mr. Lloyd George, in his quality of Welshman, attended recently, is a subject about which there can be no question whatever. For the Elstedford is direct descendant of the Druidic Gorsedd, and the origin of the Gorsedd is lost in the remoteness of time. Sir Norman Lockyer once declared that he was content to believe that the Welsh Gorsedd was at least forty centuries old. That is as it may be, but in the case of the Elstedford, the date of the first gathering of the name is known to have been 546, and the place, Defford, The president was one Masgwyn Gwynedd, and the proceedings were somewhat remarkable. The story is that Gwynedd offered a reward to those bards and minstrels who should win the Elstedford. This feat they performed, but on reaching the other shore, though the bards were quite ready to sing, the harpers found themselves unable to play, owing to the effect of the mist on their harps. But that was Wales in the good old days!

Female Officers.

The sweeping changes which the war has brought about in the position of the public services in Great Britain has certainly not produced a class of employees any the less able to bring a ready wit to bear on the incidents of their work. Esther Gwynne, individually, and that quality best described as "on the spot," are quite noticeable. A householder in London found in her letter-box, lately, a little miscreant couched in the following terms: "The postman has dropped two letters in your box for No. 3; would you kindly put them in the box for No. 3 without comment. And oblige, yours regretfully, Postman." Then there was the girl conductor in a motor bus who, on being ordered by an upplish young lady to "Put me down at No. 49," looked at her mildly and said, "This is a bus, madam, not a taxicab."

Changed Their Plans.

Perry Robinson, telegraphing from the British front in France, says: "My friends accumulate, of an expectation of the German offensive spending the winter in the ground about Havincourt. On all sides are signs of preparation for winter resistance, and the German army is now using an incredible quantity of those luxuries in the shape of wines, liquors, mineral water, cigarettes, etc., of which the German officers appear to have unlimited supplies. We also took large quantities of letter and parcel mail, undistributed, among the latter being a great number of cakes, fruit, cabbages and other things dear to Germans, but which Germans have not eaten."

Kangaroo farming is an important industry in Australia.

Increased street car fares went into effect at Winnipeg and were accepted by the public philosophically.

ARMISTICE IS SIGNED BY HUNS

Washington-Germany Formally Agreed to Peace on the Allied Terms Late (Sunday) Midnight

THE WAR IS OVER!

Germany and the Allies signed an armistice to-day. As Marshal Foch's terms are known to include provisions which will prevent resumption of hostilities, the greatest war of all time has come to an end. At the time the document was signed, Allied armies were smashing forward on a 150-mile front, from the Scheldt to the Meuse, tearing the German defence to pieces, and driving the enemy into utter rout.

Forces of the Soldiers and Workmen's Councils are in Control of Berlin—Ebert, the Socialist Has Been Appointed Imperial Chancellor; Says He Will Form a People's Government and Seek An Early Peace

TAKEN OVER

Copenhagen, Nov. 10.—Berlin was occupied by forces of the soldiers' and workmen's councils on Saturday afternoon, according to a Wolff bureau report received here.

AT HIS DISPOSAL

Copenhagen, Nov. 10.—8:34 a.m.—It is officially announced from Berlin that the War Ministry has placed itself at the disposal of Friedrich Ebert, the Socialist leader, whose appointment as imperial chancellor was forecasted yesterday by the decree of Prince Maximilian. This action was for the purpose of assuring the provisioning of the army and assisting in the solution of demobilization problems.

WITH GENERAL REJOICING

Copenhagen, Nov. 10.—8:30 a.m.—Emperor William's abdication was received on Saturday afternoon at Berlin with general rejoicing, which was tempered by the fear that it had come too late.

APPOINTED REGENT

Amsterdam, Nov. 9.—Havas Agency.—Prince Maximilian of Baden has been appointed regent of the empire, the Berlin newspapers semi-officially announce.

APPOINTED CHANCELLOR

Copenhagen, Nov. 10.—Friedrich Ebert, the Socialist leader, has been appointed imperial chancellor. He has issued a proclamation saying that he intends to form a people's government, which will endeavor to bring about speedy peace.

JOINED REVOLUTION

London, Nov. 11.—10 a.m.—Leipzig, the largest city in Saxony; Stuttgart, the capital of Wurttemberg, and Cologne and Frankfurt have joined the revolution, according to reports from the Danish frontier, telegraphed here by the Copenhagen correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company. The Soldiers' Council at Stuttgart, Cologne and Frankfurt have decided to proclaim a republic

HAVE RESIGNED

Zurich, Switzerland, Nov. 10.—Because of the troubles in the interior of Germany, Prince Maximilian of Baden and all the bourgeoisie ministers have resigned, says a despatch from Berlin. Friedrich Ebert, the German Socialist leader, has been definitely recognized as chancellor.

PALACE SEIZED

The Crown Prince's palace has been seized by the revolutionists. The people are shouting "Long live the Republic," and are singing the "Marseillaise."

SEVERE FIGHTING

London, Nov. 10.—8:57 a.m.—Severe fighting took place in Berlin between six and eight o'clock last night and a violent cannonade was heard from the heart of the city. The revolution is in full swing in Berlin and the Red forces occupy the greater part of the German capital, according to a Copenhagen despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company quoting Berlin advices sent from there at three o'clock this morning.

When revolutionary soldiers attempted to enter a building in which they supposed were a number of officers, shots were fired from the windows. The Reds then began shelling the building.

When the cannonade began the people thought the Reichsbank was being bombarded and thousands rushed to the square in front of the Crown Prince's palace. It was later determined that other buildings were under fire. Many persons were killed and wounded before the officers surrendered. The Red forces are in control and have restored order. Strong guards are marching through the streets.

ENEMY ABANDONS MATERIAL

Paris.—(Official).—Our pursuit of the enemy was renewed this morning under favorable conditions.

In his retreat, which is becoming more precipitous, the enemy is abandoning everywhere considerable material. The French have captured, notably between Anor and Momignies (south-western Belgium), cannon, numerous vehicles of all kinds and whole railroad trains.

THE KAISER ABDICATES

Regency to be Established; Duke of Brunswick Also Quits--Berlin Banks Stop Payment in Consequence of a Run

By Courier Leased Wire

London, Nov. 9.—British Wireless.—A German wireless message received in London this afternoon states:

"The German Imperial Chancellor, Prince Maximilian of Baden has issued the following decree:—

"The Kaiser and King has decided to renounce the throne."

"The Imperial Chancellor will remain in office until the questions in connection with the abdication of the Kaiser, the renouncing by the Crown Prince of the throne of the German Empire and Prussia, and the setting up of a regency.

"For the regency he intends to appoint Deputy Ebert as Imperial Chancellor, and he proposes that a bill shall be brought for the establishment of a law providing for the immediate promulgation of general suffrage and for a constitutional German naval assembly which will settle finally the future form of government of the German nation and of those peoples which might be desirous of coming within the Empire."

THROUGHOUT WESTERN GERMANY

British Wireless Agency

London, Nov. 9.—It is reported from Amsterdam that a revolution is now spreading all over western Germany. It is reported to have reached Cologne.

DUKE OF CUMBERLAND QUILTS

The reigning Duke of Brunswick, whose abdication is announced in a telegram from Brunswick, by way of Berlin, is Ernest Augustus, a son of the Duke of Cumberland. On May 24, 1913, he married Princess Victoria Louisa, the only daughter of Emperor William. They have three sons, the eldest, Ernest Augustus, whose right to the throne also has been renounced, being born March 18, 1914.

A FURTHER RETREAT

Fires are burning in the rear of the German lines all along the front. This indicates that whatever may be the outcome of the armistice negotiations, a further important retirement of the German forces may be expected.

NO DECISION TO-DAY

London, Nov. 9.—(British Wireless Service—armistice)—The British Press Bureau issued the following announcement this afternoon:

"Owing to the heavy German barrage and machine gun fire on the battle front, the passage of the courier from Marshal Foch's headquarters to Spa was so delayed that he is not expected to reach German headquarters until this afternoon. Consequently it is unlikely that any decision in regard to the armistice will be reached to-day."

MORE MINISTERS RESIGN

London, Nov. 9.—(British Wireless Service)—The resignation of the German ministers of the interior, instruction, agriculture and finance are reported in a telegram received from Berlin. The Prussian food controller again has requested to be relieved from office and the resignation of the Prussian minister of public works has been in the hands of the cabinet for some time.

The regulation of the Ontario Field Contender, whereby during the period from Dec. 15th to March 15th, no country club, golf, yacht or canoe club, shall burn or use fuel of any description for any purpose derived from any such fuel for purposes of cooking or heating will not affect the golf clubs of Ontario. With the possible exception of Ottawa, for the most two or three winters no golf club houses have been kept open. Caretakers, however, have of course, been in charge of the buildings. It hardly seems likely that the new order will be extended to exclude their services being utilized. In the United States where a similar order has been issued, permits are granted to use small quantities of coal for the maintenance of employes in charge of buildings.

The Brantford Golf Club, New Jersey, boasts of having eight Japanese golf players under the tutelage of Cyril Walker, club professional. All are readily identified, having offices in New York City, the most prominent being S. Ohki, a New York importer and a resident of that place. Four of the school have progressed to a point where they now make the round in 80's, and two of them, T. Oakil and H. Watanabe, already have won their first round matches in the championship division of the club's annual title tournament. The "Jap" seems to be possessed of a natural aptitude for golf, and critics there are who predict that it will not be many years before one of their number will annex the British amateur championship—the blue ribbon event of the golfing world.

A match which would have provoked unusual interest was arranged to come off the latter part of October between the Montreal area, Charlie and Albert Murray and George Cumming, Toronto, and Nicol Thompson, Hamilton. The venue was Hamilton. Owing to many other engagements the Montreal cracker, however, wrote that they would be unable to make the trip. Next season a series of matches between these experts will be arranged, 36 holes at Dixie, 36 at Toronto, 36 at Dixie, and 36 at Kanawaki. Such a homeric contest would certainly concentrate with it the best players in the local pro. At Sunningdale, and holds the record for the course, 68. He is perhaps not so well known as the many times open champion, Vernon Taylor, and Brad, but he has always been well up in all the big events. Vardon is now in his 48th year, as is also Brad Taylor, his 48th and White his 46th, and yet these men are all still top-notchers in the world of golf, with none to be feared in the present. As a result of the exhibition match, which was followed by a large gallery including hundreds in the 19200 was reduced. Vardon, Taylor, Brad and White, it might be mentioned, have won the open championship no fewer than 17 times since 1893. The only players to annex the coveted honor from that year until 1914 when it was last played for besides these four, have been Mr. H. H. Hilton, 1897, Alex. Reid, 1902, Armand Maudslayi, 1903, Ray, 1912. Certainly a unique record in the realms of sport.

So successful has the innovation of keeping sheep on the Rosedale course, Toronto, proved, that the number has been increased to 120 and the directors have decided to carry the "wooly-ones" through the winter. Lucky Rosedale members are looking forward to a few extra lamb and mutton next Spring. The venture throughout has spelled success and another year other clubs would do well to get into the "Bab" game. It's both patriotic and profitable.

After the Canadian Seniors' Partridge Tournament at Montreal in September, the Hon. Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., of Toronto, Vice-President of the Association, decided to give a handsome cup for the "runner-up," Lord Shaughnessy having provided the championship cup. It has been decided to make the winning of this new trophy retro-active, so as a result, Mr. T. E. Mercer, of the Royal Montreal Golf Club, this week had the cup sent to him with his name inscribed upon it as the first winner. He was the "runner-up" to Mr. George S. Lyon (who won the championship Shaughnessy Cup) with a capital 83—86—168. Mr. Mercer is one of the best known and most popular golfers in the Montreal district. It is very appropriate the tone of the leading members of the oldest golf clubs on the continent should be the first Senator to win the new trophy.

There is no mystery in making short putts confidence being the biggest asset necessary. So says the celebrated pro, Jack Hutchinson, who contends that amateurs have more of the essential confidence than professionals on the green. Hutchinson believes that a player should

SHE COULD NOT STAND OR WORK

But Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health and Stopped Her Pains.

Portland, Ind.—"I had a displacement and suffered so badly from it that at times I could not be on my feet at all. I was all run down and so weak I could not do my house work, was nervous and could not lie down at night. I took treatments from a physician but they did not help me. My Aunt recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tried it and now I am strong and well again and do my own work and I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the credit."

Thousands of American women give this famous root and herb remedy the credit for health restored as did Mrs. Kimble. For helpful suggestions in regard to such ailments women are asked to write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its long experience is at your service.

stand so that he can look directly down on the ball, using a pendulum stroke for the shorter stroke for the shorter putts. Personally, he prefers to keep the shadow a little below the arms, and this will be avoided if the golfer stands over his ball. "Hold the club lightly in the hands, great four-square, Vardon and Taylor of the bell amounts to a whole lot on short putts," advises Hutchinson. "Play for the back of the hole. If your putt has some character it is more likely to keep its course. Fast greens affect good players more than anything else simply because they are afraid of them, and in trying to strike the ball into the hole it loses its intended course."

I have just received word of the big Red Cross day last month at Sunningdale, the well known English course, in which Harry Vardon partnered with J. H. Taylor, played James Brand and Jack White. Two great foursomes, Vardon and Taylor winning from their doughty opponents by 2 up. Although all these four champions and ex-champions have played very little golf this season as a result of war activities, they still "play up and play the game" in a marvellous manner, as the following scores testify.

Table with 4 columns: Round, Score, Opponent, and Total. Rows include Morning Round, Afternoon Round, and Morning Round with scores for Vardon and Taylor, and Brad and White.

It will be noticed that there is not a solitary six in any of the rounds of the experts, and Sunningdale has some very long and stiffly trapped holes. White, it might be mentioned, is the local pro. at Sunningdale, and holds the record for the course, 68. He is perhaps not so well known as the many times open champion, Vernon Taylor, and Brad, but he has always been well up in all the big events. Vardon is now in his 48th year, as is also Brad Taylor, his 48th and White his 46th, and yet these men are all still top-notchers in the world of golf, with none to be feared in the present. CAPELLERIA SYSTEM FOR HOGS. Much of the drudgery is taken out of hog feeding by the use of the capeller. According to investigations carried out at the Experimental Station at Ottawa, hogs, after they have reached a certain age, do better when fed this way provided the proper mixtures are used. Strange to say, when properly handled, dangerous and wasteful over-feeding is not so likely to occur with the capeller as when meals are given at stated hours. It has been shown that the hogs are the best judges of when they should take food. The feeder is fully described in special circular No. 15 obtainable at the office of the Publication Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. This tin-like receptacle is easily made at a cost of about $1.00 even when new lumber is used in its construction.

ALDERMAN'S CELLAR ROBBED Windsor, Nov. 8.—While he was out celebrating Thursday evening, thieves entered the cellar of Alderman Simon Moretzky's home on Onuellette avenue and carried away 14 cases of liquor he had stored there, together with $50 worth of cigars. The Alderman discovered his loss this morning when he went to open a case.

SERVICE IN GRACE CHURCH. At Grace Church at half-past three a representative congregation that fairly filled the church participated in a joyful peace service. The recitor, the Rev. Mr. Rotheringham, officiated, and there was a good representation of the choir also in attendance. The National anthem, the Doxology, "Oward Christian Soldiers" and other hymns, besides the 26 Deum were heartily sung by the joyful congregation. A few appropriate prayers and the most memorable service ever held in the old parish church was concluded. One of the parishioners and his fam-

AUSTRIA WANTS GROWS By Courier Lensed Wire master of Vienna has sent a proposal that the Argentine Government immediately release 10,000 to 20,000 carloads of grain for shipment to Austria. This government has authorized the exportation of the grain. It is understood that it is Austria's intention to employ Austrian ships now interned at Spanish ports for carrying the grain to Europe.

SENATORS HAIL CLEMENCEAU. By Courier Lensed Wire Paris, Nov. 8.—Premier Clemenceau appeared for a moment last night in the lobby of the Senate after a sitting of that body which had declared him in traditional phrase, to have "deserved well of his country." The Premier's approach to the group of senators lingered after the adjournment was the first for an ovation to him. He was speedily surrounded by numbers of the senators who pressed forward to shake his hand. "You are the saviour of France," cried one. "No, no," replied the premier, shrugging his shoulders. "It is the country which has done everything itself." "Thanks to you," the senators rejoined. "No, I assure you," returned the premier. "I have done but my simple duty, anyone of you who loves France would have done as much. There are moments when the spirit of itself rises within one."

Exit The Hohenzollerns!

A dream of world dominion obsessed the mind of Emperor William. Upon him and the tremendous military might of destruction of which he was the embodiment, the responsibility of deliberately planning and bringing about the greatest conflict the world has ever seen.

It did not matter to him that the Emperor's personal share in the swift events immediately preceding the war had been obscured. The world convicted a man of organizing, directing and maintaining the march of efficiency the great German military machine. It remembered that he signed the order for the German mobilization. It remembered that he stood sponsor for the terrorism and brigandage which under the guise of warfare, ravished Belgium, laid waste the cities of France, depopulated and outraged Serbia and sent the Lusitania with her freight of women and children to a grave in the Atlantic.

Civilization will never forget that it was the minions of the Emperor who officially shot to death Edith Cavell, the English girl, who befriended the Belgians in Brussels. Against them his cry, "I did not will the war," availed nothing. Before the bar of humanity William was adjudged guilty of the greatest crime since the crucifixion. In him humanity saw the last of the Autocrats, the final Caesar. Assertions that he was at heart peaceful, so persistently circulated for years as to give them the stamp of German propaganda, became branded as certainly false. He who had long proclaimed himself the prince of peace stood revealed as humanity's scourge, and against him and all that he represented the new world of democracy and freedom.

Was He Sane? Many doubt whether William was entirely sane. He said repeatedly that he possessed a divine mandate to rule, that the Almighty was his "unconditional and avowed ally." It is not entirely clear whether such outbursts were the product of a disordered brain or were due to unbounded egotism and an effort to impress his subjects with the idea of reverent and unquestioning submission. His speeches to his armies in which he asserted he and they were "instruments of God's will" were regarded by many outside of Germany as pieces of rhetoric, intended only to deceive his own people.

William's claim to close affinity with God was the burden of dozens of his speeches long before as well as after the beginning of the war. Of these, perhaps, none more clearly defined his claim than his notorious "divine right" speech delivered at Brandenburg in 1890, in which he said he regarded the German people as "a responsibility" conferred upon him by God and that it was "my duty to increase this heritage for which one day I shall be called upon to give account. Those who try to interfere with my task I shall crush."

In all this the world saw before the war not a message but a comedy. It laughed with the then Captain Joseph B. Coghlan, of the United States Navy when, returning from the war with Spain and telling of the clash with the commander of the German squadron at Manila Bay, the captain recited the famous poem, "Hoch Der Kaiser." In this concluding refrain was the supplicatory word of the Emperor, "Gott mit uns—and I mit ihm—"

MEINSELN—Und Gott." Planned for Years Past. Few statesmen realized then that the daunted Emperor in his "shining armor," manoeuvring his armies and his fleets, building up the German military system, cementing the Central Empire and Turkey, and fostering the preaching of the supremacy of autocracy, was erecting a machine that one day would make war upon all civilization.

Yet the world was warned by some far-sighted men that the Emperor would one day bring catastrophe upon the nations. These men saw in him then and see him now as a mad inventor given in his youth the most dangerous of all toys—his army and navy. They were his playthings. He developed them throughout the years to the point where he had to put them to a test. Like a grand inventor, he feared the end of his reign would find his inventions untried, so he grasped the first opportunity to wage a world war.

Meantime the German war party grew with William Nicholas head, and the scheme of world dominion awaiting the hour to begin its attainment. It came with the assassination of the Austrian Archduke Francis Ferdinand, and his wife, at Sarajevo. Recalled from a yachting trip, Potsdam representatives of the German and Austrian armies, navies and commercial interests. There, according to the best information available, the decision was reached to make the assassination of the Archduke a pretense for the world war for which Germany had long prepared.

In the diplomatic exchanges between Germany and Austria on one side and Great Britain, France and Russia on the other, William posed as one wishing for peace but driven to war. He signed the order for the mobilization of the German army and from that moment war was inevitable. Thereafter he drove on his armies relentlessly in the mad campaigns for victory, encouraging them with every device and sometimes appearing on the front to be proclaimed as personal commander in a great offensive.

International Intrigue. Publication of the "Willy-Nicky" correspondence in 1917, placed the German Emperor in the light of an unscrupulous plotter. The telegrams disclosed that Emperor William had induced Emperor Nicholas of Russia to sign a secret agreement, to which he was to force the adherence of France in the perfection of an offensive and defensive alliance against England. The treaty was discovered and repudiated by a Russian minister.

Falling in his attempt, the German Emperor set upon himself the task of drawing England to his aid against France and Russia. How well he thought he had succeeded in this may be gathered from a letter he wrote to President Wilson in 1914, in which he said King George had promised Prince Henry of Prussia, on July 29, 1914, that England would remain neutral in a war involving the Central Powers with France and Russia.

Accused By Germans. Perhaps the most direct and authoritative of the accusations against the German Emperor and the Pan-Germans are contained in the published secret memorandum of Prince Charles, Liebowitzky, who was German Ambassador at London at the outbreak of hostilities. The Prince unequivocally placed the blame for the war on Germany, and for his frankness was imprisoned in a Silesian chateau, permanently expelled from the Prussian House of Lords, which action was sanctioned by the Emperor, and finally, was exiled to Switzerland.

Emperor William's domination over German statesmen, diplomats and the high command of the German army was emphasized by Dr. Wilhelm Muehlon, a former director of the Krupp works, the great German munitions factory, in his book "The Devastation of Europe." In this he not only laid blame upon Germany for bad faith and criticized the German army for its brutality, but asserted that "the German Foreign Office 'only he who did the Emperor's bidding was allowed to remain. They could not do better,' he declared, 'because of the character, the power, the will of the Emperor, and continued interference by the Kaiser.' It was Dr. Muehlon who asserted the authenticity of the statement that Emperor William stated at a meeting of German army officers that he had plenty of prisoners and that he hoped the officers would see that no more prisoners were taken.

Maximilian Harden, a German liberal leader, declared the German ruler brought on the war because of his desire "for something like world rule."

Protests Innocence. William often proclaimed his innocence, and endeavored to put the onus of the war on the shoulders of the Entente Allies. In his speech from the throne after the war began he said:

"In pursuing its interests, the Russian Empire stepped in the way of Austria-Hungary. Our duty as an ally called us to the side of the Austria-Hungary. The situation arose not from temporary conflicts of interests or diplomatic combinations, but is the result of ill-will existing for years against the strength and prosperity of the German Em-perial throne devolved upon William II, who was then but twenty-nine years of age. Bismarck continued as Chancellor, but not for long. Though the great statesman had made every effort to instill his young pupil with his own ideas of government and diplomatic policies, the new Emperor soon found that he disagreed with his grandfather's former close adviser in many important respects. In 1890 the disagreement of the two men reached a crisis, a rupture came and Bismarck went. The relations between the two men remained strained for several years, but before Bismarck died peace was made between them.

With the passing of Bismarck the Emperor's real reign began. As a military man he was a stickler for efficiency, discipline and the best detail. And of the details of all these components of army life and training he was familiar to the smallest point. It is related that during military reviews he was able to detect the slightest imperfection in the equipment or training of a regiment or a squadron and called attention to the deficiency sharply. With the principles of tactics and manoeuvring too, he was thoroughly acquainted. Thorough in All Things. Besides being well versed in army matters, the Emperor was thoroughly familiar with naval affairs, having a technical mastery of the tactics that go to make up the efficiency of a fleet. Study of naval problems was one of his pet occupations. His influence was potent in fostering the development of German commerce, art and science. His interference in these affairs as well as in statecraft often embarrassed German leaders and evoked from them admissions to leave diplomacy to his whimsicality.

In everything he was described as thorough and, withal, one of the hardest workers in the empire. His rising hour was six o'clock sharp and a long day's hard work which frequently extended well into the night, followed. Stated hours were devoted to the task of informing himself on the progress of events at home and abroad through reading of the principal German and foreign newspapers.

Before the war Emperor William often expressed friendliness for America. He encouraged the foundation of exchange professorships by which prominent German educators visited this country and lectured in the colleges here while American college professors similarly filled chairs in German institutions of learning. He was an enthusiastic yachtsman and despite his warlike arm was able to take personal command of his racing yachts, and sail them with considerable success. He spent much time at his palatial hunting lodges and is reputed to have been the champion hunter in the world in the point of game killed. It was stated that the Emperor had killed 11,230 pieces of game, more than 4,000 of which were stags.

He was a great reader—his private library in the Imperial palace at Berlin before the war was becoming one of the most interesting collections of books in the world. He posed as a dictator in music, painting, poetry and acting. At one time it was announced that he had composed the libretto of a ballet to be given in celebration of his birthday. A private performance of one of his musical efforts is said to have been given in the Potsdam palace without notable effect upon the musical world.

The Kaiser in Person. Physically unimpressive—he was short and inclined to stoutness—William was fond of being photographed while striking a military posture, though taking good care to veil the deformity of his left arm, a disfigurement with which he was born, and of which he was extremely sensitive. He blamed his English mother for living a life of self-indulgence and blamed her repeatedly as being responsible for his deformity.

No description of the Emperor's personal appearance will be complete without mention of his full, brittle mustache. His photographs which he distributed with a lavish hand, showed it with ends twisted up at oblique angles.

He married Augusta Victoria, oldest daughter of Grand Duke Frederick of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Augustenburg, on February 27, 1881. They had six sons and one daughter, of whom the Crown Prince Frederick is the oldest. With the Crown Prince, his father clashed frequently and on one occasion virtually exiled young Frederick to Dantzig, but soon recalled him and restored him to favor.

German mothers who wrote to the Emperor of the deaths of their sons killed in battle elicited from him no word of sympathy. He regarded their deaths as "glorious." Yet his own six sons, though holding high commands, were so protected that the Imperial family stood practically alone in all Germany in warding off the clutches of death.
