CHAPTER XXXV.
SYDNEY DRIVES A BARGAIN.
It was all true enough, incredible as the change seemed at first. There were questions innumerable to ask that evening through; loose strands of the story to knit together; the homely words of Jacob's legacy to his dear master's child to read—the Draytons marveling much over that grateful fidelity, whereof the source was and will always be known to Sydney alone. There was Mr. Vaughan's satisfaction to anticipate; and that retributive quest which tracked the unscrupulous pillagers of the mine's funds to the last bold stroke in Paris to be recounted; but one and all tended to the same issue. Sydney was found, free, rich, and happy.

Then Mary Drayton soon began to feel perplexed, not altogether satisfied. With wits quickened by her own new happiness, she was not slow at detecting a flaw in her friend's.

The Sydney regained was as dear and as trustful as the Sydney lost last year, and in twenty new ways more beautiful, but she was not the same. Something was hidden under those smiles which vanished as soon as they flashed out; under that anxious attention which now and again forgot what was being talked of; and what that something was, Sydney was slow to discover, making before they parted for the night these notes:

First, that Sydney lost not one syllable of what Richard Drayton had to say concerning Mr. Hurst, from school-boy tales to the record of his manful bearing when the doom of darkness was newly passed upon him.

Next, that she held her breath, distressed and pale, when he deplored the mischances which made such a man as Gilbert Hurst, passionate, and vainly wished the old rector-father had not in angry disgust let his luckless knees go to some speculator who now crows over his bargain.

Then, that when he spoke of getting to Wynstone soon, Sydney's bosom rose and fell more quickly, she looked at neither of them, but her lips parted, hurried with uncertainty, closed with determination; and her eyes darkened and brightened with concealed excitement.

From all of which observant Mrs. Drayton deduced certain ideas, and watched next day to have them confirmed or denied.

They were with Sydney then by noon. Miss Ambler had tyrannized over her, and not allowed her up much earlier. She met Mr. Drayton almost reproachfully.

"I thought you were going to Wynstone."
"But not to-day. We have recollected ever so many more things to talk about, Miss Alwyn."

"Before which, as you are not gone," she said, with nervous gravity, "I have one I want you both to listen to. For—taking refuge in her father's chair, Mary beside her, Richard Drayton opposite—"after all, you see, this money, you call mine is not actually so."

"Then whose is it?" exclaimed Mr. Cheene's executor.
"It means," she went on, "some of it is due to come one else. It was my father's advice which made Mr. Hurst lose his four thousand pounds, was it not? So before I use any at all that must be given back, and if you please, Mr. Drayton, you must give it directly."

"I won't promise I would if I could," was that gentleman's reply. "Fortunately, I have not to decide. It can't be done. For, Miss Alwyn, your immediate desire to give away all you have appears to have been understood by Mr. Cheene. You were too much in a maze yesterday to notice the wording of his will. Your shares in the Grantlyde mine are not to be sold out till they touch a certain figure. I told him they would unquestionably reach it, and he showed his confidence in me by phrasing his legacy to that effect. Then the sum, about what your father, if prosperous, would have left you, is to be funded for your life. Anything beyond that amount you do what you choose with. But you could not possibly lay your hands on four thousand pounds yet to repay the Hursts. If you could, trusted as I have been by Mr. Cheene to guard you and your property, it would be my duty to try and dissuade you."

"Which you might try," Sydney blazed forth vehemently, "and you should not do it, Mr. Drayton! Oh," dropping swiftly from this high flight into downright coaxing, "Jacob meant it for the best, but he never would wish his money to make me sorrowful. Do, dear Mr. Drayton—Mary, ask him for me, he won't say 'no' to you—do show me some way to give those thousands back to the Hursts. They were—very good to me!"

This petition, coupled with a glance at his wife, took effect.

"Perhaps it might be managed by degrees," answered Mr. Drayton, cautiously, "if done at all. If Miss Hurst is willing—"

"She won't refuse it," Sydney said, eagerly.

"And her brother can be persuaded to accept it" (no confirmation forthcoming on that point) "so much might be returned them year by year, if you are bent on doing it."

"I am. When can they have the first?"

"When you like," Mr. Gilbert Hurst agreed.

"Make him!" cried Sydney, "you can do it, but one thing please don't tell them—that Miss Grey and Miss Alwyn are the same. I need be Miss Grey no longer; even my mother," pointing to a letter arrived that morning, "gives me leave to be myself. She has been ill, and so forgot, she says, to send your last note to me, Mary. She writes so sadly, calling us all so poor now that she cares nothing any longer for what name I work under! But to the Hursts let me be only Miss Grey still. Let them think if they take this back they take it from a stranger. It will save me—pain to have it so."

CHAPTER I.

One afternoon in the merry month of May, the tall iron gates of Knighton Revels were swung open by the old lodge-keeper, and a young lady rode through. She was tall, though so admirably proportioned that there was not the slightest suspicion of "awkwardness;" slim, and, as the ancient wretches were fond of saying, "of graceful demeanor." In addition to a good figure, the gods—who, when they are in a good humor, are lavish—had bestowed upon her a face which falls to the portion of few of the daughters of men. Of a clear oval, almost colorless, save when excited, with large, dark eyes, shaded by long brows that swept the ivory-tinted cheeks, framed in a silken setting of soft black hair; with lips cleanly cut as a statue's—Mrs. Knighton's face was beautiful enough to have furnished a model for a Titian or a Vandick. But great as those painters were, in no one of their canvases is there a face so full of expression and so soul-moving.

Thank Heaven, beauty is not uncommon in these Isles; but there are two kinds of beauty; that which one admires and—forgot, and that which one feels and—remembers; and Mrs. Knighton's was of the latter kind.

The effect of this lovely face was disastrous enough when one, saw it in repose, but when she raised the long lashes and looked at you with one of her peculiar, steady, half-dreamy looks, one lost one's heart at once and forever.

Byron remarks that the devil had not to all his quiver so deadly an arrow as a soft and beautiful voice; but though Mrs. Knighton's voice was musical, and capable of playing many tunes, it was the dark eyes which were the deadliest weapons in her armory, and Byron would have been the first to admit it, if it had been his good fortune to have lived long enough to have seen her—and loved her, as he most assuredly would have done!

As the tall, black horse she rode paced in a stately fashion down the road and through the single village street, as if he were proud of his sweet burden, the good folks of Knighton, hearing the sound of hoofs, came to their doors, or stood on the pebbly pavement; the men doffed their hats and the women and children dropped profound but smiling curtsies, for Mrs. Knighton was the daughter of Godfrey Knighton, Esquire, and Lord of the Manor of Knighton Beverley, and the most important lady in the place. Mrs. Knighton bowed to the respectful, reverential greetings, but in an absent, dreamy fashion, and did not lift her long, dark lashes until she had passed out of the village street on to Knighton Heath; then she pulled up, and, waiting until the groom had got up beside her, said: "You can go back, Peter."

Considering that he had taken the trouble to groom and saddle his horse, and put on his livery, the man might have been justified in looking a little surprised; but his face never moved a muscle, and touching his finger to his hat, he turned and rode back as if the order were quite a matter of course, and the most natural thing in the world.

His rods on, still slowly, until she had reached the corner of the heath; then she stopped the horse again, and, bending a little forward in the saddle, looked round at the view, which stretched like a panorama in a circle beneath her. Now, the view was not only a familiar one, but so to speak, may be said to have belonged to her; for the hedged fields and coppiced woods for many a mile represented the manor of which her father was lord and master.

The Knightons were an ancient and a famous race, as you will find if you take the trouble to turn to the page in Burke which contains their name and their many deeds. It had once been a marquisate; but in the troubled times a Knighton had been on the losing side in politics, and the winner had deprived him of his title and lands. Later on, when things had settled down, the lands had been restored to them; but to accept the restoration of the title.

"A Knighton is a Knighton, and you cannot rob him of his name. It matters little whether you put 'my lord,' or plain 'mister' before it." And although the lost marquisate had been tendered them more than once since, and quite in recent times, the Knighton of the day had always politely but emphatically declined it.

So it happened that the young lady who sat so still and motionless on her horse was simply "miss," instead of "my lady."

It will be guessed by the foregoing plain statement of the case that the Knightons were proud; and it must be confessed they were. Every family, we are told by people who ought to know, possesses its special and distinctive failing, and the great failing of the Knightons was—pride.

They were proud of having had a marquisate; they were proud of having lost it in a good cause; and they were prouder still of having refused its restoration.

To be a Knighton of Knighton Beverley, and lord of the manor of Beverley, seemed to Godfrey Knighton, and to Mrs. Knighton, almost as good as being King of England.

She was proud, and yet at times one would have thought her the meekest and humblest creature in the world; when, for instance, she was talking to one of her people at some cottage door, or, better still, when she sat, as she would do for hours, with some "sick child on her knees or in her arms, while the poor mother stood watching her tearfully, as if her infant were lying asleep in the arms of an angel.

But proud or humble, all Knighton, from the highest to the lowest, were freely convinced that no sweeter, no lovelier being existed than their little lady, Miss Iris of the Revels.

Whatever she may have been thinking of as she sat with her eyes wandering over the view at her feet, there was a strange tinge of melancholy—of a sort of sadness, but of passive resignation—in her eyes; and it was a curious fact that this faint expression of wistful dreaminess was far too frequent a visitor in those dark, lustrous eyes.

The New Improved Gillette
Patented Canada Aug. 31, 1920

The New Improved Gillette Safety

NEVER was a success more dramatic or complete. Men everywhere are marveling at the radical improvements introduced in the new razor—the ease and luxury of the new shave.

Seldom does an inventor perfect his own creation. The Gillette Safety Razor is the exception to the rule.

More than three hundred types of safety razors have been made since the introduction of the original by the Gillette organization, but it has remained for the inventors to consummate their own work, and carry it to the heights of perfection by the introduction of the New Improved Gillette and the era of micrometric precision.

Call in at any store displaying the Gillette Safety Razor or window cards! Whether or not you wish to buy, the Gillette dealer will be glad to show you the new razor and tell you all about it. Count on courtesy and service. His methods are right and his store is a good one to know.

NOTE:—The Gillette Company assumes full responsibility for service of Gillette blades when used in any GENUINE Gillette Razor—either old type or New Improved. But with IMITATIONS of the genuine Gillette, it cannot take responsibility for service of blades.

Body of Noted Picture Actress at Los Angeles. Elvira Sent Floral Basket of 1,000 Tiger Lilies.

Los Angeles, Sept. 28.—Approximately eight thousand persons viewed the body of Miss Virginia Rappe, motion picture actress, for whose alleged murder Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle is held in the San Francisco city prison.

The casket was banked with flowers, including a floral basket of one thousand tiger lilies, sent by Miss Rappe's fiancée, Henry Lehrman, now in New York. Across the lilies lay a white satin ribbon, bearing in gold letters: "To My Brave Sweetheart, from Henry."

The funeral will be held at 10.30 o'clock to-morrow at the undertaking parlors. The services will be private, with the Rev. Frank Roushambush, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church of East Hollywood, in charge. Interment will be at the Hollywood Cemetery.

A number of Los Angeles pastors today and to-night, in the course of their sermons, devoted considerable attention to the Arbuckle case.

A. G. Arbuckle, of San Francisco, and W. H. Arbuckle, of Fresno, brothers of the film star, visited him in his cell late to-day. They talked for half an hour.

Mrs. Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, said Mrs. Arbuckle arrived in San Francisco early to-day from New York, to assist in the defense of her actor-husband.

Mrs. Arbuckle gave out a statement in which she asked the people of San Francisco to be "fair" with her husband and to give him a "square deal."

"I know, and his friends know, that he is innocent," the statement said. "The statement of the comedian's wife declared that only one side of the case had been made known to the public, and expressed belief that when the entire story had been unfolded, 'my husband will be completely exonerated'."

and his good name thoroughly cleared, and that he again will take his place in the hearts of the American people."

Mrs. Arbuckle was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Flora Purfee, of Los Angeles.

INTERRUPTIONS.
Sometimes when I would write a poem, and I am clanking at my desk to find a theme uplifting, a fellow who would sell a cheese, a cork-screw or a swarm of bees, to my abode comes drifting. I sadly listen to his spiel and try to tell how tough I feel, that I can't patronize him; I do not say that he's a bore, while to the fact that there's a door endeavoring to wise him. And when he's gone there comes a dame who wants to have me sign my name to some absurd petition; and, smiling still across my face, I gently shoo her from my place in Johnson's New Addition. And then again I take my lyre and try to warble like a choir, I punch Mrs. Arbuckle's nose and paw it; but Thompson blows into my den to say he's lost his Maltese hen, and ask me if I saw it. And this it goes some bitter days, I strive in vain to chant my lays, my chanter isn't working; and so I say, "I'll go down town and bore Smith, Robinson and Brown, and let my harp quit-jerking." I call on men who need their time and perpetrate the same old crime that made my own day dreary; they fondle me with wicker chairs or drop me down the basement stairs, and life is dark and dreary.

APPEAL TO PRITTY COUNCIL.

LONDON, Sept. 27. Grand Trunk shareholders have de-

Do you discriminate at the dining table—or are you thoughtless?

In thousands of homes, a "line" is drawn at the breakfast table. Tea or coffee is served for "grown-ups" and Postum for children. But some parents do not discriminate. Tannin and caffeine, the injurious contents of tea and coffee, seriously retard the development of the delicate nerve tissues in children.

Consequently, instead of rich, satisfying Postum, children are over stimulated by the drugs in tea and coffee; and so may grow up irritable and nervous. Any doctor can tell you that this is a great evil and should be corrected.

Although some parents feel a certain justification for the personal indulgence in tea and coffee, yet the harm to them may be equally serious. It may take a little while longer for the drugs in tea and coffee to affect an older person, but in many cases the nervous system and allied bodily functions will become weakened. The surest way to avoid such possibilities is to quit tea and coffee entirely and drink Postum instead. The change permits you to get sound, restful sleep.

Postum is the well-known, meal-time beverage. Like thousands of others you will like it because, in flavor, it is delightful and satisfying.

Do away with the distinction at the table. Serve delicious Postum, piping hot, to all the family. One week's trial and it is likely that you'll never return to tea and coffee.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tin) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared made by boiling for 30 minutes.

Oil as a Peril of the Sea.

The careless casting of oil into the sea from oil burning and oil carrying steamers is becoming a serious menace to the maritime and fishing industries of Great Britain and the United States. In England the danger to the fisheries from this source has been pointed out by Sir Arthur Shipley, Vice-Chancellor of Cambridge University, and in New York the Bureau of Survey of the Board of Fire Underwriters has recently published a report on the fire hazard created by the accumulation of floating oil on the piles of piers and bulkheads in United States harbors. Costly fires arising in oil-coated structures along the waterfront have occurred in Baltimore, Mobile and Galveston, on the Atlantic seaboard, and at Seattle, on the Pacific.

Most serious, says the New York Herald, is the destruction of ocean fisheries which may result from the constant discharge into the Atlantic of the waste products of the oil used for fuel on so many steamers, large and small, in place of coal.

The food of fishes consists chiefly of minute marine animals found near the surface of the water. The waste oil thrown out upon the sea by steamers has a destructive effect upon these organisms, so that they lose their value as fish diet, and the fishes are thus deprived of their principal means of sustenance.

During the last three or four years it has been observed in England that some factor detrimental to fish life was at work in the North Sea; and Sir Arthur Shipley, who is a recognized expert in marine zoology, has recently proclaimed his belief that the fatal agent is oil discharged from oil burning steamers. On his last voyage home from the United States he noticed that even so well built a vessel as the mighty Olympic could not help leaking a little oil occasionally, and a very little oil can do an incredible amount of damage to the diminutive aquatic animals upon which fishes feed. "What- ever boat carries oil," he says, "or uses oil as fuel is from time to time or all the time annotating the face of the waters."

Confirmation of this view is found in the fatal effects of oil on seabirds observed last winter at various coast stations in Great Britain, where gulls, cormorants and sea gulls were cast ashore dead with their feathers clogged with oil.

The remedy for the danger to the ocean fisheries which these warnings reveal would seem to be tolerably obvious. The practice of permitting oil to get into the sea should simply be stopped. The leakage of tankers can doubtless be prevented by sufficiently careful construction, and oil burning steamers can be built which will consume all of their oil instead of wastefully pouring some of it into the sea. These precautions may involve difficulty and expense, but it is worth a good deal of trouble to save the great fisheries of the Atlantic ocean from destruction or serious diminution in productivity. The substitution of oil for coal as a fuel for ocean steamers must not be allowed to destroy or lessen one of the great food supplies of the world.—Acadian Recorder.

Schr. "Canada" First Entrant.

The first story for the Nova Scotia fishermen's schooner championship race, is that of the "Canada," of Le- have, received at Halifax on Thursday, Sept. 22, says the Morning Chronicle by the Secretary, Mr. H. G. DeWolf.

The race is to take place off Halifax Saturday, October 15th, the money prizes being $1,000, $700 and $500. Every vessel in the Nova Scotia fishing fleet is eligible, there being no restrictions as to length of water line, date of sailing for the Banks or other details.

The winner of this race, if eligible, will be the challenger for the International Trophy, won last year by the Esperanto of Gloucester, the series of races to be held off Halifax, commencing October 26th.

Why the Mayflower Was Eliminated.

Gloucester, Mass., Sept. 23. (Canadian Press).—A letter from the trustee received by the United States committee to-day gave officially for the first time the specific reasons for eliminating the Mayflower.

"It was the opinion of the trustees that if a vessel of the extreme type of the Mayflower was allowed to compete, the intentions of the donors of the cup would be nullified and all competition killed for present and future races. It was stated:

"We think everybody will agree that in event of the Mayflower racing and winning the cup this year, no practical fisherman would build a vessel to compete with her next year because to do so the type would have to be even more extreme in design.

"In addition to this the Mayflower did not conform with the letter of the deed of gift in regard to the date of sailing for the fishing grounds although we did not consider this point so pertinent as the former."

The race committee to-day appointed a common five to take charge of the elimination race, October 12, to select a new defender.

Rural Route No. 1, Mascouche, Que. The Minard's Liniment People.

Sirs,—I feel that I should be doing a wrong if I neglected to write you. I have had four tumors growing on my head for years. I had them cut off by a surgeon about fifteen years ago but they grew again till about three months ago I had one as large and shaped like a lady's thumb, on the very place where my hair should be parted, and it was getting so embarrassing in public that it was a constant worry to me. About three months ago I got a bottle of your liniment for another purpose and saw on the label good for tumors. Well I tried it and kept at it for exactly two months, with the result that it has entirely removed all trace of the tumor, and were it not that they had been cut fifteen years ago, no mark would be seen. I have not been asked for this testimonial and you can use it as you see fit.

(Signed) FRED C. ROBINSON. P.S. I am a farmer and intend using Minard's Liniment on a mare for a strained tendon, and am hoping for some results. FRED C. R.

SEARCHING IN NEW GUINEA.

SYDNEY, N.S.W. (Associated Press).—The search for oil which has been going on with meager results for years in the large island of Papua, has been extended to the portion known as German New Guinea, where, it is said, there are much better indications. This territory is now under Australian mandate. Experts of the Anglo-Persian Oil Company, which has an agreement with the commonwealth by which each will share in the benefits of any discovery, are prospecting thoroughly. Several private parties also are in the field. Oil prospecting is being retarded, however, because the Australian government has not decided on a land policy for mandated territories.

THIS WOMAN'S MISERY

Ended by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Remarkable Recovery of Mrs. Church.

Smiths Falls, Ont.—"I suffered with falling of my organs, pains around my heart and in bowels and down my legs, neuralgia in my face and head, and that terrible sinking feeling. I felt that I could not live and would fix my home in order every night there would be no trouble if I dropped off in the night. My husband went to the drugist to get the best remedy he had and he gave him Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles and felt a lot better. I will always recommend the Vegetable Compound, and you can see these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. J. O. CHURCH, Box 848, Smiths Falls, Ont.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from nervous prostration, displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down, freckles, dizziness, indigestion and diarrhoea. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for females.

Notice!

The Board of Governors of the St. John's General Hospital beg to announce for the information of the General Public that final arrangements have been made for the collection of fees to be paid by all persons who occupy beds or undergo treatment at the General Hospital.

The scale of fees was advertised in December last as coming into effect on January 1st, 1921, but unforeseen circumstances prevented this from being carried out.

The following regulations, in accord with "An Act respecting the General Hospital," will be strictly enforced.

Under an Act respecting the General Hospital (6 George V., Cap. XIX.), and with the approval of the Governor in Council, the Board of Governors of the St. John's General Hospital give notice that they have fixed and prescribed the following scale of fees to be levied from and paid by all persons who occupy beds or undergo treatment at the Hospital. The scale is to come into operation on the 1st of October, 1921.

SCALE OF FEES.

Every person receiving treatment in the General Hospital shall, after the 30th day of September, 1921, pay fees according to the following scale:—

Persons admitted to the public wards $1.00 per day. Persons occupying private rooms $10.00 per week, in addition to the daily fee of $1.00. Every applicant for admission to the Hospital must bring with him, or forward to the Superintendent of the Hospital, certificate signed by a duly registered physician that such applicant is a proper subject for Hospital treatment.

Under the provisions of the General Hospital Act, 1915, all patients who are unable to pay fees shall be required to bring with them a certificate of their inability to pay, which shall be signed by a resident Relieving Officer, or, where there is no such Officer, by a Justice of the Peace, a Clergyman or other responsible person. The fees of such patients thereupon become payable by the Commissioner of Public Charity, by virtue of the said Act.

By order of the Board,
GEORGE SHEA, Chairman.
W. H. RENNIE, Secretary.

Unnecessary Anxiety.

After causing a lot of anxiety to friends and a deal of enquiry by the authorities, the sch. 'Branch Hallway', which left here about 19 days ago for the South Coast and was supposed to have been out in the storm, has been located to-day at St. Joseph's, Salmonier. Messages to every office along the coast had been sent by the Marine and Fisheries Department in order to ascertain if anything of the schooner or her crew could be learned. This unnecessary search for vessels could be avoided if the captains when they reach port ordinarily would report their arrival immediately and not wait for 48 hours at intervals, as the law calls for under Cap. XXIII. of the Customs Act, May 1812.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE REASON WHY.

Did you ever know anyone who bought a flivver because that was the only car he could afford to buy and run, and who frankly said so; and also said that he would probably buy another after that one wore out, instead of giving the impression that he was hanging between a $2,000 or $3,000 car for his next choice?

He Ought to Have a Window. If you have I suggest you recommend him for the Hall of Fame. I have been amusing myself lately by collecting some of the explanations people give as to why they buy the car which, as the Authorman says in one of his stories, "is like the people whom God is supposed to love because he made so many of them."

Here are some of my collection: "Yes we had a flivver once. You know we sold the — and we were going to get a — but we couldn't get the kind we wanted (it was just when deliveries were so slow) and so we had to take a flivver. It was all we could get." "He Wants a Car to Bring Around." "What kind of a car do I have? Oh, just a flivver! 'The way I figure it out is that if you want a car to hang around, and not have to worry about, that's the only kind."

"The reason I have a flivver is that the depreciation is so small that I can get a new car every year and that saves me engine and tire trouble and all the fuss of having the car painted over."

"Of course I might have just as well got a — or a — (meaning two cars in the $2,000 class), but I wanted a car that one can get quick service on. If there is anything I hate it's having to have one's car laid up a month or two while one waits for parts. Now with a flivver—"

He Has Been Talking About Big Cars. "Yes, I got a flivver after all (he had been talking over the merits of $2,000 and $3,000 cars for some months with all his friends). You see I needed a car in a hurry and that was the only one I could get."

Perhaps you can add some more similar reasons to that group. Pray pass them along if you can. Some may smile at them and some may find them useful.

Couldn't Walk Decks.

HAD TO LIE FLAT ON DECK DURING HURRICANE.

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—Storms, which members of the crew described as being worse than any they had previously experienced, were encountered in mid-Atlantic by the United American Lines steamer Mount Carroll, which arrived here this morning from Hamburg with 173 passengers, having been diverted to this port from New York to land her passengers because of congestion at Ellis Island. Last Friday the liner was lashed by a hurricane, during which the wind attained velocity approaching one hundred miles an hour, according to officers. So terrific was the force of the wind that members of the crew were obliged to move around on deck had for safety's sake to negotiate the exposed spaces lying flat on their stomachs, clutching whatever they might for handhold. Canvas covers were ripped from the lifeboats by the wind, and a slight leak developed forward in the double bottom. The pumps had no difficulty in controlling the inflow of water, however. The barometer reading, according to Captain E. T. Brown, dropped in six hours from 29.37 to 28.18, the latter reading being one of the lowest that the skipper had ever seen on a ship at sea. This storm continued intense for about twelve hours, and was followed by another severe gale. Previously two other gales had been encountered. When the hurricane abated wireless messages were picked up from other vessels which apparently were hit by the same storm. One message was from the tank steamer Oswego, bound from New Orleans for Queens-town with a cargo of oil. This contained the information that while the storm was at its height the Oswego was practically unmanageable in the terrific wind and seas, and that 150 tons of oil had been pumped overboard to smooth the seas as a measure of relief. At the time the Oswego was in latitude 40.40 north and longitude 53.30 west. The Mount Carroll arrived with one more passenger than she took aboard

Autumn. Trees are turning red and gold, and the morning air is cold. Now the aster plants are faded, plainly old and worn and faded; and the early blossoms which made the garden corners rich with the summer days have gone. Brown October's coming on.

Mother Nature seems to sigh for her children, passing by. She whose smile was always cheery settles back a trifle weary; just as all the mother's do. When the long day's work is through, peace has come and she may rest. Pride has nourished at her breast.

Now her children, old and grown, out into the world have flown. By the wisdom of their Maker they were nourished to forsake her; when the first wee buds uncurled they were born to serve the world, and should journey many ways with the brown October days.

Sad the coming of the Fall, but the triumph of it all is the splendor and the glory of the old, old mother story. Everything in God's great plan lives to serve the work of man, and the harvest and the yields are the children of the fields.

Now they turn to wave goodbye to the mother with a sigh, and her patient eyes and tender hand mark the robes of regal splendor which they wear. And so she stands, folding tired and wrinkled hands, but rejoicing as they go— it was she who garbed them so.

CANADIAN PREMIER CUTS LOOSE. PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Sept. 27.

(By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)—Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Prime Minister of Canada, in a couple of speeches here to-night, laid down the main lines of the Govt. campaign. "Are we going to continue the protective system, or are we not," he queried. "That is the whole question." He did not now, and never had believed, in a high protective tariff. He did not believe that such a tariff would be just to the West. The spur of outside competition, under fair conditions, was good, but he was immovably against "the platform of Messrs. Wood and Creer." He was against "Mackenzie King's Liberal platform," from the first line to the last. He charged Mr. King with "flagrant apostasy" on the tariff issue and thought that the fiscal policy of the National Progressives would bring disaster to the whole country, and not merely disaster to a few. "Canada, more than any other country," said Mr. Meighen, "needed a protective system." In this regard he emphasized proximity to United States with its great industrial development. As to a sub divided opposition there never was one so bereft of cause or complaint. The electors would have a remand to the practice and performance of faithful work, rather than to "reckless and irresponsible agitators, to malignant criticism, and to specious and impossible promises."

U.S. COMMITTEE APPOINTED. GLOUCESTER, Mass., Sept. 27.

United States Race Committee today named Benjamin S. Smith and Captain Chas. Hartly as its representatives on the International Committee, which will have charge of the races off Halifax, N.S., beginning October 22, for the fishing vessel championship. They will act with three members named by the Canadian Committee.

DAILY CABINET MEETING. DUBLIN, Sept. 27.

Daily Cabinet will assemble in the Mansion House on Tuesday, to consider the reply of Prime Minister Lloyd George to Eamonn De Valera's latest communication. It was announced here to-night, Mr. Lloyd George's reply will be made public on Wednesday, according to a London announcement.

The Veto Against the Mayflower.

(From the Boston Transcript.) It is unfortunate, in more ways than one, that any question should have arisen with respect to the eligibility of the Boston schooner Mayflower, entered to represent the United States in the International races for the North Atlantic fishermen's trophy. The veto against the entry of the Mayflower will be a keen disappointment to the crew and owners of the vessel, and their friends and well-wishers. It furthermore prevents the United States being represented by a boat admittedly fast, one whose chances of taking the measure of any vessel in the American and Canadian fishing fleets seemed exceedingly bright. But the trustees of the fishermen's trophy have acted neither arbitrarily nor blindly. They have tried to conform to the spirit underlying the terms of the trophy's donation, and have debarred the Mayflower because many seafaring men have claimed she was primarily a racing yacht, and only secondarily a fisherman. Other seafaring men might challenge the grounds upon which these criticisms were made. Nevertheless, the eligibility of the Mayflower stands under fire, and the trustees of the trophy have wisely rejected her as the American entrant.

Americans have always prided themselves upon their good sportsmanship, and our fishermen will abide by the decision of the trustees as true sportsmen. The Mayflower is not to bear the burden of defending the title won by the Esperanto, and the task immediately in hand is to find a worthy successor to that schooner. Surely the fishermen of Gloucester, whose seamanship is known wherever men go down to the sea in ships, will prove equal to the occasion and find in their fleet a vessel which will have no reason to fear Nova Scotia's best.

Marathon Will Be Held Oct. 15th.

Eastern Canada's Premier Sporting Event Scheduled For Morning Instead of Afternoon.

(Halifax Herald, Sept. 24th.) The annual Halifax Herald and Evening Mail Modified Marathon race, the biggest event held in the east in the fall, will be run off Saturday, October 15th, starting at 11 o'clock from the Y.M.C.A. It had been originally planned to hold the event in the afternoon, but the rugby game scheduled on that date makes necessary the change. As in previous years, there is tremendous interest in the event and Nova Scotia runners are training for the classic.

A record entry list is expected this year, as men who have never competed in the event before have singled their intention of starting. The same number of prizes, 25, as offered last year, will be up, and anyone who can run ten miles should get in the race. Rogers, Martin, Mosher, Wolfe, Patterson and the rest of the veterans will start. Rogers won the trophy the last two years and a win for him this year will give him permanent possession of the silverware, which is one of the finest trophies ever offered for an athletic event in the east.

Crescents, Wanderers, Dartmouth, Imperoyal, Y.M.C.A., St. Mary's and other clubs will enter teams and go after the big prize offered for clubs. Imperoyal won the prize last year after a hard tussel with several other organizations. A number of new clubs will be after the teams prize this season and it is rumored that some of the runners who competed last year will wear new colors in the big event.

The race which is open to any amateur in Canada, is attracting newcomers and inquiries made last night at the Herald Office, by out of town runners, indicate that the various Nova Scotia towns will be represented by many dark horses. John Bell, Newfoundland's champion, in care of three trainers, is already in Halifax, anxiously awaiting for the start of the big event. He comes to Halifax, heavily backed by sports in the oldest colony, to win the race. Champion Alf Rogers is in good condition and will be out to repeat his performance of the past two years, although it is predicted that he will have keener competition than last year.

Billy Goolley, the local boy who finished second last year, will be one of the big favorites in this year's event. The course will be practically the same as last season, although the runners will turn into South Park Street from South Street and finish at the Wanderers' Grounds instead of going to the Y.M.C.A. for the finish. The event will as usual carry the M.P.B.A.U. sanction. Entries should be made as early as possible on the entry form published in another column of the sport page.

Our Sporting Column.

BUTLER FIRST IN 220 YARDS.
Mr. S. Luscomb of S. Milley's employ, received the following message from Halifax this morning:

"Won 220 yards race and came second in quarter mile at Indoor Sports. None of the other boys entered."

TOM BUTLER.
Congratulations to young Tom, who put it all over the best indoor sprinters of the Maritime Provinces in the 220 yards dash, Indoor Sports, held last night, and as well maintained the athletic honor of Terra Nova by winning second place in the quarter mile. These are extra bay leaves added to the sporting coronet of our team.

TOMMY BUTLER WINS.

A message received by Secretary Grace of the National Sports Committee this morning from Manager Goodland contains the glad news that Tommy Butler has won the 220 yards at the M.F.A.A. Sports last night, and finished second in the quarter mile. He was up against the same competitors who ran in the Wanderers' Sports on Saturday. Thus Butler contributes by his splendid prowess two more medals to the eight trophies already secured by the team.

Manager Goodland also states that he and his plucky little bunch are leaving Halifax on Thursday so as to make positive connections with Saturday's Kyle and will arrive in St. John's by Monday's express.

Mr. Reg Knight, who accompanied the team, has left for home and is due by to-morrow's express. Mr. Goodland states that he was of great value to the team, assisting in the training, etc., and is carrying with him a special message to the home folk.

OPERA BOXES RESERVED.
The National Sports Committee have decided to reserve the opera boxes at the Casino for the families of the Newfoundland Track Team on Monday night, and the general public are asked to please note this fact so as not to cause them any inconvenience through overcrowding.

MR. J. P. KIELLY'S KINDNESS.
The many kindnesses of Mr. J. P.

Kielly in giving the Casino Theatre gratis to all patriotic and charitable functions and entertainments are too well known to need further comment. But once more has Mr. Kielly generously come to the front by offering the use of his theatre to the Committee for Monday night's public demonstration. This kindly action of Mr. Kielly enables the Committee to make further plans regarding the demonstration and affords them the opportunity of giving a real old time citizens' welcome to our returning heroes.

BIG DEMONSTRATION.

FOR HOME COMING TRACK TEAM.

At a meeting of the National Sports Committee held last night to finalize arrangements for a public reception to the Newfoundland track team, Mr. G. W. B. Ayre occupied the chair, and Messrs. W. J. Higgins, C. E. Hunt, S. P. Cullen and Peter O'Mara were added to the Committee. It was decided that the team would detrain at Donovans from Monday's express, where they will be met by a special reception Committee from the Amateur Athletic Association. They will motor to town in the evening, arriving at the Cross Roads at 7.30, so as to give everyone a chance to welcome their home and of joining in the ovation of their safe return. Owners of motor cars are asked to assemble there at this hour, when a procession will be formed. Along the line of route citizens are asked to illuminate their residences, and owners of business houses along Water Street are requested to generously display bunting on Monday. Left entirely to the owners of motor cars is the matter of the selection of their guests. The fireworks display is in the hands of Councillor Vinnicombe and Mr. Peter O'Mara. The parade will be in the following order:

C. L. E. Band.
Children on foot.
The Athletes.
C. C. C. Band.
Motor Cars.
M. G. B. Band.

The line of march will be: Parade leaves Cross Roads at 7.30, proceeding down Water Street, up Adelaide Street to Duckworth Street, stopping

In front of the City Hall, where the Newfoundland Track Team will be welcomed home by His Worship Mayor I. C. Morris and Councillors. Parade will then proceed down Duckworth Street, up Cochrane Street, to the Casino, via Murray and Queen's Roads and Henry Street. Here a monster demonstration will be held (to which all are invited), and addresses of welcome tendered by representative citizens. Manager Goodland, of the Track Team, will also deliver a short report on their Halifax achievement.

There is no doubt about it. St. John's is going to be on feet on Monday next, and men, women and children are asked to enthusiastically cooperate with the Committee in its efforts to show Newfoundland's appreciation of our young athletes' worth and prowess.

EXCEEDING SPEED LIMIT.

Two young men narrowly escaped being run down this morning by a Ford car, as they were crossing the street going to a very fast clip and had on board a number of passengers from the Cove. The driver should be more careful in future, and observe the speed law, else he will find himself in trouble.

Sunday School Teachers' Outing.

The teachers of St. Mary's Sunday School with their friends, numbering in all about fifty, had a most enjoyable outing at Smithville last night. The company went out by motor busses at 7 o'clock and returned after midnight. Dancing and games were indulged in until supper time when an excellent repast was served by the Misses Furlong in their usual creditable manner. The following toast list was then honored:

The King—Prop. Rev. A. B. S. Stirling; Resp. "God Save the King."
Lady Teachers—Prop. Mr. E. Cranford; Resp. Miss D. Colton.
Recitation—Mr. Al. Coleridge.

Male Teachers—Prop. Mrs. A. E. S. Stirling; Resp. Mr. Geo. Badcock, Supr.
Song—Mr. E. Cranford.
Bible Classes—Prop. Rev. A. B. S. Stirling; Resp. Mr. K. Payne.
Our Friends—Prop. Mr. B. Colton; Resp. Mr. G. D. Pike.
Song—Miss E. Andrews.
Our Chairmen—Prop. Mr. George Badcock; Resp. Rev. A.B.S. Stirling.

After an enjoyable hour in the supper room the party returned to the ball room where games, etc., were resumed. The closing hour came all too quickly and found a thoroughly happy company returning to town carrying with them delightful memories which will give joy until a repetition of the annual Teachers' Outing in 1922.

Karl S. Trappell, Eyesight Specialist, will be out of town until Oct. 2nd.—sep27,21

War Memorial Unveiled

PORTUNE, Sept. 27.

Portune War Memorial was unveiled with deep solemnity this afternoon by Dr. MacDonald, J.P., in the presence of 500 people from Portune and Grand Bank. A message from His Excellency the Governor was read by Capt. G. J. Whitty, M.C., G.W.V. A. Dominion Secretary of St. John's, expressing regret at his unavoidable absence. Addresses were also made by Rev. Mr. Howie, Dr. MacDonald, Esmail Cornick, T. E. Spence and J. R. Dixon, Secretary of the Portune G.W.V.A. The Rev. Young pronounced the dedication prayer and the ceremony proceeded amidst great solemnity. The floral tributes were many and the spring party under Lieut. W. C. Hawker, Manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, assisted by Bazler Cook, performed their duties with military precision.

The Memorial is a splendid tribute from the people of Portune to the memory of her gallant lads who made the Supreme Sacrifice. It is appropriately set in a central site donated by the late J. E. Lake. The G.W.V.A. and the people of Portune are worthy of all praise in subscribing the entire cost and perpetuating the memory of their fallen townsmen by handing down to posterity a monument that will stimulate, elevate and inspire youth for generations to come as they recall the magnitude of the deeds performed, sealed as they were, by the sacrifice of Portune's honoured dead.

ACCUSED IN FALSE PRETENCES CHARGE GETS BAIL.
The young man from St. John, N.B., who is charged with obtaining money under false pretences, was released on bail yesterday afternoon pending the return of his father to St. John, N.B., from a business trip. The case for the accused as stated by Mr. G. W. B. Ayre, his counsel, is briefly this. The man came here for a holiday some time ago, and ran up an hotel bill which he could not pay. His father, who is a St. John business man, owed him money on shares he had sold, and the accused, on the strength of this, obtained Mr. Arthur Hiscock's endorsement to a draft for $255. This, however, was not accepted by his father when presented. Mr. Hiscock thereupon had the drawer arrested. The case cannot be proceeded with until the accused's father is heard from. Bail was allowed in $500.

Burglary Epidemic.

Drug Store and Billiard Room Visited.
It appears that there is no let up in the epidemic of robberies which broke loose in the city over a month ago. Each day the list is being extended. On Monday night or early yesterday morning the premises of the Avalon Drug Co., New Gower Street, and Skinner's Billiard Room, Water Street, were entered and goods stolen. At the former place entrance was effected by means of a ladder which the thieves placed at the rear of the store. Several bottles of liquor and some drugist sundries to the value of $80 were taken. Residents in the neighborhood heard the noise made by the burglars, but did not realize that anything was amiss. This is the second time this store has been entered, but the culprits in the previous raid were captured, and are now in jail. At Skinner's Billiard Room a quantity of chocolates and cigarettes were stolen.

The reason why all naval men salute the quarter-deck of every vessel they board is because a figure of the Virgin used always to be placed upon the poop as a protection against danger.

In The Services.
 In old days officers drew their swords whilst the Creed was being repeated in church, to show that they were willing to defend their faith with their lives, but this is one of the picturesque customs which have fallen into disuse. In India the Mutiny broke out in Merut during the hours of Divine service, whilst the men were unarmed and at a disadvantage, and since then all regiments have worn side-arms in church.

The body of men called Marines, "soldiers and sailors too," were originally enlisted for service on board ship to defend naval officers from the blue-jackets, who in those early days were generally men of the lowest class and worst character, who were seized by the press-gang and bound unwillingly to the ships for a term of years.

The expression, "Tell it to the marines," is applied sarcastically to the teller of a more than usually unlikely story, but this arose merely from the fact that all sailors thought themselves more shrewd and less easily imposed upon than land-lubbers, and the marine was conveniently handy on board ship.

In 1812 the 15th Lancers, then stationed in South Africa, completed a hundred years of punishment inflicted upon them during the Spanish war for having broken into a monastery and committed sacrilege. On hearing of it the Duke of Wellington was exceedingly angry. He paraded the regiment at the first opportunity, and sentenced it to a hundred years' penalty.

This penalty took the form of hymn playing. Every night at ten o'clock, for a hundred years, so ran the Duke's order, the band must parade and play five hymns. These hymns are the Spanish National Anthem, the Russian National Anthem, the Vesper Hymn, the Prince of Wales's Hymn, and the British National Anthem. Formerly each man in the regiment was required to stand beside his bed when the penal hymns began, but this was stopped later.

How Fish Express Their Emotions.

The ancients held many quaint ideas with regard to fishes and their innumerable legends illustrating their habits. According to them, they held converse with man, and not infrequently aided him in his daily occupations, thus showing that they possessed nearly all the attributes of human beings, though in a lesser degree. It has been demonstrated that fishes and the higher land animals are largely swayed by the same emotions and give rational expression to them.

Fishes erect their scales or fin rays when under the influence of anger or terror, exactly and feathers or hairs are erected in birds and animals. As fishes have eyes without movable eyelids and cheeks encased with bony plates or covered with hard scales, which are hardly suitable for smiling, one cannot expect to find facial expressions, as of joy, pain, and astonishment, so well marked as in some of the higher animals. Recent demonstrations, however, have shown change of color to be one of the best indexes to the emotions.

When the fish is sick its color is apt to be faint, as when in health, anger, or breeding, the colors stand out brightly and vividly. Among the best examples of the effect of the emotions on color are the parrotfish and stickleback. These species have violent tempers and appear to be always carrying imaginary chips on their shoulders. During the breeding season combats between the males are exceedingly common. When fighting their Joseph coats stand out with amazing brilliancy, but after the combat is over the defeated one, with colors faded, hides his disgrace among his more pacific companions. Even then he is not left in peace, as the victor seems to take delight in persecuting him in many ways.

Fish utter various sounds, but nothing could be further from the truth, since there are more than three hundred species that are known to produce sound. The Siganidae are probably the best examples of the falsity of this notion, for they emit noises that may be heard from a depth of twenty fathoms. It has been suggested that the story of the utterance of these fishes travelling to schools.

When captured the scad, or horse-mackerel, the globe-fish, the grunt, the pigfish and the hogfish make sounds resembling the grunting of pigs, while one of the best known fishes on the Atlantic seaboard, the croaker, gets its name from the croak it gives when caught. Carp also croak when taken out of the water.

The legend of the Passagosa River and its mysterious music has been explained as the noise made by sea-drums. It may often be heard on summer evenings. The listener being on the beach, or yet more favorably, in a boat floating on the river, a low, plaintive sound is heard rising and falling like that of an aeolian harp, and seeming to issue from the water. The sound, which is sweet and exceedingly plaintive, ceases as soon as there is any noise or disturbance of the water.

When Humboldt first visited the South Seas an extraordinary noise startled the crew one evening. At first it was like the beating of many drums in the distance, and then the sound seemed to come from the ship herself, near the poop. At first the terrified crew thought that the vessel had sprung a leak, but it was soon discovered that the sounds were produced by fishes.

Formerly it was believed that fishes could not hear, as they have no ears, but anatomists have proved that they have eternal organs of hearing. In Sweden the church bells are not rung during the breeding season lest the fish take flight and desert the region. During the pilchard fishery the people are no less careful of their sensitiveness to sound.

In contrast to the poorly developed sense of taste in fishes in their acute sense of smell, as evidenced by the selection they make in their food.

Every satisfaction given in settling losses.

The Power of the Press.

Lord Northcliffe said strong things the other day in New York about the power of the press. First, he urged that newspaper correspondents writing of a provocative nature, for such writing stirred up resentments; second, pointed out that the press was powerful for good or ill; and, that it should be employed in its noblest mission—that of binding hundreds of peoples together in concord and friendship. The press is a great power. It can be employed with telling advantages; it can be used for purposes calculated to perpetuate misunderstanding and lead to war. No mission can be nobler than that of assuaging exacerbated feeling, and thus the world might come to peace and prosperity.

Wherever, in the greatest potential power in the world to-day. At the same time, though the press is read by the people in every tongue to-day the masses are but poorly instructed in political science in the general mind. The printed word speaks with authority. It says the final word. It has the look of power. Governments have used the press for their own selfish schemes. They have coaxed the public with press communications calculated to deceive. Napoleon, for years, misled the French people in his "Moniteur" which he edited himself, and in which he made the most mendacious statements from day to day and made the eyes of irreparable defeat, the most plausible claims calculated to sustain belief in the "Man of Destiny."

A free press, in a wide democracy, can do an infinitude of harm by reckless statements. It is the habit to say that the Great War was the culmination of destiny in that regard. Fate fell it. It was bound to happen. We are taught that there is nothing tortuous, and that all is law but the press, accepting war as inevitable helped to make it so. Even those journals which shuddered at the bare thought of war unconsciously aided in bringing to pass by dwelling upon a sombre setting, which was inexorable, and to which the world must submit—even to the flinging of our best into the flames of the Moloch of war.

It is not mere fantasy that the press, as a collective instrument could do much to abolish war. It could conduct the general mind from the thought of war, which has been evil and nothing but evil since its first beginnings. With that thought constantly in the mind, with a dedicated service in the interests of better understanding among separate and differing peoples, with a crowning of praise for all who labored in the high service of peace and concord—it is unquestionable that war would recede from the mind—in time, if that seems remote, the immediate future is near. A free press, able, alert, and unswerving in its service, could be the noblest and most potent instrument in the world in the bringing in of general peace.—Ex.

The Reason Why—

CURIOUS EXPLANATIONS OF OLD CUSTOMS.

Many old customs have become so entirely a matter of habit that we seldom pause to consider why they were instituted, or what purpose they served originally.

In a vague sort of way we realize that there must have been a reason of some sort for their inception, but time has so obscured or erased it that it has become one of the things we simply and unquestioningly take for granted.

The Inner Meaning.
 In the good old times there seems to have been a regrettable uncertainty as to what was going on behind your back, and the chivalrous custom of "ladies first" probably arose in knightly days from the fact that the women were in a safe position when followed and defended by their knights—though it has been suggested that there were better reasons, and that married men courteously encouraged their wives to take precedence because the family foe was apt to lurk in dark corners in front, and not in the rear!

However, the knights may have the benefit of the doubt, and certainly the origin of the offering of the left arm to a lady was to leave the right free for the skilful use of the sword or dagger in her defence.

When a soldier presents arms at a general salute, he raises his rifle by the right hand to the height of the mouth, and there meets it smartly with the left, the fingers being spread out and turned downwards.

This was originally a precautionary measure to prevent any handkerchief being played with the trigger whilst the officer stood invitingly in front, and though the reason has long since disappeared, the position of the fingers remains the same!

When an officer presents arms the hilt of the sword is carried to the level of the lips, the reason for this being that, at one time, the hilt of the sword was made in the form of a cross, which he kissed at the salute.

JEFF'LL CALL HIMSELF SOMETHING ELSE NEXT JULY.

MUTT, I'VE BEEN A FOOL TO PUT MY COIN IN NEW YORK BANKS AND GET ONLY 4% INTEREST WHEN THEY'RE PAYING TEN PER CENT. IN ATLANTIC CITY!

THEY DON'T PAY THAT MUCH INTEREST ANYWHERE!

OH, THEY DON'T, EH? WELL, I KNOW THEY DO BECAUSE I LENT $100 AT THAT RATE IN ATLANTIC CITY THIS MORNING!

IN A BANK?

NO, I MET A SNAPPY LOOKING FELLOW ON THE BOARDWALK AND HE SAID HE'D LIKE TO BORROW A HUNDRED FOR A YEAR, FOR WHICH HE'D PAY ME TEN PER CENT INTEREST. HE WAS A STRANGER TO ME—

YES—YES—

AND I HESITATED UNTIL HE SAID HE'D PAY ME 10% INTEREST IN ADVANCE: THAT LOOKED SAFE ENOUGH SO I SLIPPED HIM 100 BERRIES AND HE PAID ME BACK $10 FOR THE INTEREST RIGHT ON THE SPOT—

NEXT JULY I'M TO MEET HIM ON THE BOARDWALK AND GET THE PRINCIPLE! A FINANCIAL WIZARD, I CALL MYSELF!
